Thunderstorms Again Hit Parts Of State

"AW! WHY ISN'T SHE A BROTHER?"—Pamela Lamphere, two and one-half, sits glumly in the corner of her crib at County Hospital, Chicago, with an enlarged photo of her baby sister. She was very disappointed that the baby was not a boy. Pamela, who was born with her bladder outside her body, is recovering from the last of three operations to correct the malformation. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lamphere, who disagreed over the operation, were reconciled when medical men assured them that surgery would correct the girl's condition. (AP Wirephoto.)

More Unstable Activity Seen

MORE thunderstorms were forecast for a wide section of the state again today, including scattered areas over the South Plains, following hit-and-run storms of an unusually violent sort at downstate points Saturday.

Wind, rain and electrical storms struck Saturday and late Friday night at Fort Worth, Waco, Dallas and Laredo, the Associated Press said Each storm had dazzling displays of lightning, deafening thunder and heavy rain.

Laredo residents said the thunder was the most severe in their memory. Laredo had 2.38 inches of rain, the Associated Press said.

Scattered Showers Seen

The Dallas Weather bureau said last night that conditions are ripe for more of the storms. Partly cloudy weather prevailed over almost the entire state Saturday. Skies cleared somewhat in the Panhandle and South Plains where the wheat harvest was moving again.

The Weather bureau at the Municipal airport in Lubbock late last night said there was a possibility of some thundershower activity in the area this morning and forecast scattered thunderstorms for the area late this afternoon and tonight. No general rains were foreseen, however, the Weather station here said.

Temperatures were expected to be about the same as Saturday's warm top reading of 94 degrees.

Most Rains Welcomed

Some moderate to strong southerly winds were forecast for the South Plains this afternoon, the Weatherman said.

No rains of a general nature were reported over the South Plains late last night, although a few Panhandle counties found the harvest still stalled because of heavy Friday night rains in that region.

In Dallas, the Weather bureau said that although the tornado season is generally considered past, there are 'seeds' of a tornado in every violent thunderstorm, the Associated Press said.

The thunderstorms which struck Saturday downstate were generally welcomed by farmers, and

Panhandle Grain Harvest Resumed

(By The Associated Press)

Wheat harvest crews got back to hard work in a great part of the Texas Panhandle Saturday.

Exceptions were Moore and Hartley counties, hit Friday night by hard thundershowers.

Hot weather dried most other wet fields. Combines were moving in them by Saturday afternoon.

For the time being, at least, shortages of labor and combines had vanished. There was prospect they would develop again Monday in Potter, Armstrong, and Carson counties, where cutting is just beginning.

Area Ending Harvest

The Panhandle harvest is usually the end of Texas' wheat-cutting calendar. Weather this year created exceptions.

The South Plains section—spotted by thundershowers but blessed generally with hot, dry weather—was winding up its harvest.

South of the plains in the San Angelo area cutting was a week to 10 days behind schedule. Most fields were dry again. The harvest was 50 to 60 per cent complete. Yields averaged eight to 10 bushels an acre, about half original estimates.

The harvest was 75 per cent complete in the Abilene area. There too, yields were about 50

Alabama Klan Head Orders Members To Discard Hoods

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 25. (AP)—The head of the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama tonight ordered members to stop wearing hoods.

Dr. E. P. Pruitt, chairman of the board of governors of the Federated Ku Klux Klan, Inc., said members will "discard their visors."

"The visors will be worn only at initiation ceremonies, and similar ceremonies," Dr. Pruitt told newsmen. He said the order is permanent.

"We do not intend to dissolve the Klan, even if our charter is revoked," he added. "We will continue to meet, and we will obey all laws."

Legislation to ban the wearing of masks (hoods) has been approved by the state senate and is expected to pass the house next week. The bill admittedly is aimed at the Ku Klux Klan.

Body Of O'Donnell Man Is Sought In Lake Near Abilene

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, June 25 — Noland Carter Crutcher, about 33, of O'Donnell, disappeared tonight in water of Phantom Hill lake.

Abilene firemen and volunteers were dragging the lake for his body.

Donzell Crutcher, 20, his stepson, said he swam to the scene but couldn't find his father. The Crutchers and two others, Hubert L. Webb and Jack Webb, all of O'Donnell, were in a fishing party. The lake is 10 miles northeast of here.

Crutcher was believed here to be a farmer of near O'Donnell.

Polio Claims New Victims

(By The Associated Press)

POLIO added two victims Saturday to its 1949 death toll.

Nancy Grace McGill, 11, of Rankin, died at Midland. Thomas Canon, 34, of Abilene, died in the West Texas Polio center at Plainview.

Midland reported the first case developing in that city this year. Fort Worth had three new cases; San Antonio four; Ector county (Odessa) one. Crane county had its first case for 1949.

The State Health officer advised a continued, stepped-up campaign against flies, and a thorough clean-up around residences and places of business.

Three Claimed

The deaths at Midland and Plainview made three reported in Texas in two days. Shirley Johnson, 14, of Archer City, died Friday at Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls will be "bombed" with DDT by two 81st Fighter squadron B-26's of the Air National guard.

San Angelo continued the hardest hit spot. Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, said a special study has been made of the first 100 polio cases in San Angelo this year.

It provides no definite conclusion except "polio is still a mysterious disease," he said.

Texas Cases Total 570

The latest Texas State Health department figures—as of the week ended June 18—were 570 cases from 89 Texas counties this year. That compared with 502 cases for the same period last year from 59 counties.

There were 107 new cases in Texas for that week, part of a national total of 278 new cases.

Top Demos On Plane In Forced Landing

COLUMBUS, Ohio., June 25. (INS)—A plane carrying several top governmental figures, including Vice President Alben W. Barkley, made an emergency landing today at Columbus.

Pilot Jack H. Huth, 28, Oil City, Pa., turned back when one of the motors started "spurting oil and running rough" 60 miles southwest of Columbus.

In addition to Barkley, the passengers included Attorney General Tom Clark, Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson, Air Secretary W. Stuart Symington, W. A. Dawson, identified unofficially as a presidential aide; Leo Cadison of the Justice department, and Mary Clynes, a Democrat committeewoman.

The plane left Washington for St. Louis, Mo., where the passengers were to attend a Jackson-Jefferson day banquet. The plane took off again 39 minutes after the landing.

Texas Solons Push To End Long Session

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 25. — Speaker Durwood Manford said today he believes the 51st Legislature will end its regular session by next Saturday

His statement gave credence to a report that leaders in the House and Senate, and Gov. Beauford H. Jester have reached agreement on a new plan for financing construction of new hospitals and other state buildings.

The plan was understood to call for a constitutional amendment that would authorize the state to allocate $5,000,000 a year from general revenue for building purposes. This allocation would be limited to four years.

Would Set Aside Funds

Additionally, the constitutional amendment would authorize transfer of an approximate $3,000,000 surplus from the Confederate pension fund to the building fund. It would also direct the state comptroller to set aside 1½ per cent of all state revenue for buildings. This would provide an estimated $3,000,000 a year on a permanent basis.

The scheme — if adopted by House and Senate and approved by the voters of Texas — would raise some $37,000,000 for construction purposes in the next four years.

The latest suggested solution would get away from the idea of a bond issue, which had received the double-barreled backing of the Senate and Jester.

Passage Indicated

Manford and a strong minority of the House members have been opposed to the bond financing plan, already approved by the Senate.

The opposition was considered strong enough to prevent House adoption of such a proposal.

Senator Jim Taylor of Kerens, chief of the Senate Finance committee, scheduled a press conference for tomorrow on the four major money bills—departmental, higher education, eleemosynary, and judiciary.

All but the eleemospnary measure may be on legislators' desks by Monday morning. The four have been trimmed within such close range of the estimated money available for spending, that House and Senate approval of the Murder Suspects Evade Officers

DODGE CITY, Kas. June 25. (AP)—Texas officers continued their search in this area tonight for a young couple sought in the slaying of W. A. (Tex) Thornton, oil field explosives expert.

Thornton's body was found on a blood-soaked bed in an Amarillo tourist court Thursday morning. His skull had been fractured in two places. A shirt and towel were knotted around his neck.

Car Is Found

The black sedan of the slain man was found abandoned here last night. In it were the clothing and personal papers of a young man and woman, last known persons to be seen with Thornton.

Sheriff Paul Gaither of Potter county, Texas, and two other Texas officers left here to continue the search for the couple at other points in this area. They expressed the opinion that the couple left the city last night.

Texas Ranger Frank Propst, one of the officers, said the couple may have headed back toward Texas or New Mexico. He said a couple took a taxi to the city limits late last night and planned to hitchhike to Liberal, Kans., 75 miles southwest of here.

A man and woman, each described as about 22 years old, came to the Amarillo tourist camp with Thornton Wednesday night. They disappeared about two hours later

Bandit Strikes Houston Bank

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, June 25 — A fashion-plate thug robbed the North Side bank today of about $5,350. He leisurely held up two employes an hour before noon and fled by car with his loot in large denomination bills.

He wore a double-breasted suit and a yellow tie. He was bare headed. He entered the bank and strolled around a while before he struck.

Then he approached the cage of C. T. Sewell, assistant cashier of the bank, and asked:

"Mr. Sewell?"

Scoops Up Money

Sewell nodded and the bandit raised his hand. Concealed in his coat was an object pointing at Sewell.

"I want all your money," he said.

"I don't have much," Sewell stalled.

"I want all you've got," the robber said, taking about $200.

He forced Sewell to move to the next cage, where Mrs.

Man Is Found Dead In Cabin

BODY of H. J. McDonald, 32, who had resigned his commission June 17 as a captain in the Army Air Force and returned to Lubbock to join his wife and 6-year-old son Moffitt D. McDonald, was discovered about 9 a.m. Saturday in a cabin of Yucca lodge.

A coroner's inquest verdict was returned by C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, after statements had been made by witnesses who included Chief Dep. Sheriff George Eubank and the county health officer, Dr. Fred P. Kallina.

Held Several Decorations

Quoting Dr. Kallina's findings, the verdict read:

"Death from natural causes, the same being the ingestion of an overdose of sleeping medicine."

Capt. McDonald was a pilot with a four-engine rating and had flown many hours over "the Hump" in the China-Burma-India theater in World War II. He had been decorated with the DFC, the Air Medal with five clusters, the Chinese Flying Cross, and a Presidential Citation. His log showed more than 3,000 hours of flight time.

Air Force Base Contracts And Bids May Be Announced Monday

Announcement of low bidders or contract awards on more than $1,000,000 worth of rehabilitation work at Lubbock Air Force base may be made Monday, officers at th eproject said Saturday afternoon.

Military and civilian workers Saturday afternoon continued the lengthy task of compiling tabulations on more than 40 bids which were received at the post theater building Thursday morning.

Air Force officers had hoped to make the announcements not later than Saturday, but were unable to complete the tabulation. The work involves general contracts, plumbing, heating, air conditioning, painting, sewage disposal plant revisions, heat distribution extensions, chlorinators and other work.

Commodities Added To 'Test Run' Request

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 25—Proposed new federal controls over cotton, and an expanded "test run" of the administration's new farm program spotlighted agriculture developments on Capitol Hill today.

The Senate Agriculture committee approved legislation providing new controls over cotton, frankly designed to hold down production in the face of an increasing surplus.

Chairman Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) said the new controls are needed because there already is a carryover of about 10,000,000 bales.

Large Acreage Possible

Meanwhile, senators said they have been asked to expand a proposed "test run" of the new administration farm plan to take in milk, eggs, potatoes and wool, as well as pork.

Thomas told a reporter the request came from Agriculture department officials.

Thomas, in discussing the proposed cotton curbs, explained that the existing law would require an allotment of about 27,500,000 acres for next year because it would be based upon large planting in cotton areas during the past 10 years.

Big Crop Feared

"That could mean a crop next year of 20,000,000 bales," he said.

The new control program provides for a national base of 22,500,000 acres computed upon recent production. There has been a shift from the older cotton lands of the deep south to newer areas where mechanical methods and irrigated lands are used.

Actual acreage allotments could be less than the 22,500,000-acre base but a floor of 10,000,000 bales or slightly less each year is fixed. The crop last year was above 14,000,000 bales and this year's crop is expected to be larger.

Thomas said the new program, if approved by two-thirds of cotton farmers, probably would result in a crop next year of 14,000,000 to 15,000,000 bales "if growing conditions are favorable."

Expected To Become Law

Senator Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, was chairman of the subcommittee which drafted the new cotton measure. He said it contains most of the suggestions made by a belt-

Negroes Sought In Thefts Here

Lubbock police were searching today for two negro women wanted in connection with the theft of purses from two shops here Saturday.

Descriptions of the suspects, both of whom are said to be six feet in height, tally with reports made here in two similar thefts June 17, and with reports of purse thefts in Amarillo and Plainview during the past week.

Mrs. J. Batton, a clerk in Wright's Fabric shop, 2142 Nineteenth, told police her purse, containing $38 in bills and some change, was missing from behind the counter shortly after the women who purchased some material, left the shop.

Car Reported Stolen

Mrs. Leona E. Ligon, manager of the Park Dress shop at 2 Park place, reported to authorities that a six-foot tall negro woman had purchased a dress in the shop at about the time a purse containing $60.10 and some papers and keys was taken from the drawer of a desk there.

A 1940 Ford car, owned by W. G. Dupree, of Amarillo and bearing license plate AH 1134, was stolen from Mackenzie State park about 4 p. m. Saturday, police records showed.

Other thefts included a bicycle belonging to Bobby Bently, taken from the 1200 block Broadway, and several articles stolen from a car parked at the Rainbow parking lot, 1008 Ave. H. Alvis C. Borden, of Camp Carson, owner of the car listed the missing items as a dash

China Report Under Study

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 25.—A slashing Senate attack on the administration's China policy appears likely to speed a decision by Secretary of State Acheson on whether to make a full public report on postwar Chinese-American relations.

Such a report is known to be under preparation. However, there seems to be a division of opinion whether it should be released in view of possible embarrassment to the Chinese Nationalist government.

Acheson himself told a news conference Thursday that the matter is under study and the complete inside story of American relations with China may be told soon.

Solons Attack Policy

The State department's position on the whole China question was spotlighted by yesterday's Senate developments. These consisted first of a series of oratorical attacks on American policy toward Nationalist China, and assertions that the State department hadn't taken a strong enough stand against Communists in the Far East.

The outbreak on the Senate floor was followed by publication of a

Two Dead, Two Hurt In Wellington Crash

AMARILLO, June 25. (AP)—Two Pilot Point, Texas, brothers were killed and two other persons injured in a truck-car accident on a Red River bridge today.

Three vehicles were involved in the crash six miles north of Wellington, in the Panhandle.

Billy Everett Lawson, 20, and Bonham C. Lawson, 29, were killed. They were in a 1935 Ford car.

Bennie Odell Lloyd, 24, Wellington, and Lloyd Leo Evans, believed to be a Kansan, were both in a critical condition at hospitals.

Elmer F. Mitchell, 60, Durant, Okla., and a passenger in his truck, Everett Fain of Lutie, Collinsworth county, Texas, were not injured.

Highway patrolman said the accident occurred when Lawson attempted to pass one of the trucks and was caught between it and the other, which was approaching.

The patrolmen said Mitchell was driving a wheat truck, its contents owned by Fain. Floyd was driving a gasoline truck, they said.

Fire from the ignited gasoline weakened wooden pilings at the north end of the bridge where the crash occurred. Through traffic east and west was being rerouted.

Senate Faces Deadlines On Money Bills

Decisions Slated On Housing, Labor Bills

By FREDERIC TUTTLE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Congress drove today toward a showdown on housing and labor legislation, both top "musts," on President Truman's domestic program.

The House is due to vote Tuesday or Wednesday on the Senate-passed national housing bill, calling for the erection of 810,000 low-cost public housing apartments in six years and including a slum clearance program and other features.

The Senate is expected to act Tuesday on the burning issue of whether the Taft-Hartley repeal bill shall arm the government with the power of injunctions to halt strikes that threaten the national welfare.

Taft Confident

Senate Republican policy leader Taft, Ohio, predicted confidently that his plant seizure or injunction amendment to the labor bill will be adopted by the Senate in Tuesday's voting.

Democratic leader Lucas, Ill., and other administration strategists disagreed.

In addition, the Senate appropriation committee is racing toward a June 30 deadline on several multi-billion dollar appropriation bills. These include the $12,272,815,000 National Military Establishment bill and the $5,617,000,000 foreign aid measure.

Foreign Aid Fight Seen

Also before the committee is the $7,103,000,000 independent offices bill, containing major funds for veterans.

Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), appropriations chairman, and other members of the Senate economy bloc are threatening to slash the foreign aid funds by up to a billion dollars despite the objections of the President and Marshall Plan Administrator Paul G. Hoffman.

After the Senate completes action on the labor bill, it is due to consider ratification of the Atlantic pact, with approval of the treaty by more than the necessary two-thirds majority a foregone conclusion.

Congressional action on the administration's $1,130,000,000 European rearmament program appears unlikely at the present session despite Secretary of State Achesons' plea after his return from the Paris big four conference.

A similar fate is believed to await Mr. Truman's Friday request for $45,000,000 to launch his program to aid backward world areas.

Allies Order End To Berlin Strike

BERLIN, June 25 (INS)—The Western Allied commanders tonight pronounced the Berlin rail strike "no longer justified" and ordered nearly 15,000 anti-Communist workers to resume their jobs by next Tuesday in the blockaded city.

Unless the workers return they will lose unemployment benefits which have cost the western city administration 397,000 marks weekly "apart from the very large lost revenue in an indirect result of the strike."

The action aimed at breaking the 35-day-old strike occurred on the anniversary of the "starvation siege" begun by the Russians a year ago in an effort to force an Allied retreat from the city. Tomorrow is the first anniversary of the continuing airlift.

To Make Decision

The western commanders told the strike leaders they have "now gotten everything from the Soviets they ever are likely to get" and said Soviet fulfillment of a vague non-reprisal statement "is something the strikers would have to risk in any case."

Union leaders will meet tomorrow morning to decide what to do.

The first reaction from the strikers' leaders indicated they favored a return to work assuming the western commanders will protect them from reprisals by the Soviet-

Civilians Take Over Non-Military War Emergency Planning Setup

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The administration today placed in civilian hands complete control over the planning of both civil defense and industrial mobilization for any war emergency.

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman, as acting chairman of the National Security Resources board, issued orders giving nine federal agencies planning duties under NSRB direction.

The action is expected to have at least two major results:

1. To revitalize the planning effort, which has languished since December when the White House began what some officials have called a "quiet demilitarization" of NSRB.

The mobilization agency has been moved from the military's Pentagon building, and nearly 100 of its officials have departed.

2. To deal the final death-blow to proposals of the disputed "Hopley report" of last fall. Prepared by Russell J. Hopley, head of the now defunct office of Civilian Defense planning in the Pentagon, the report suggested creation of a

FINANCING PROBLEM SEEN AS KEY TO PROJECT

Lubbock's Highway Dispersal System Facing Delay Over Failure To Make Nineteenth Through Street

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

POSSIBILITY that further work on Lubbock's $3,000,000 highway dispersal system may be delayed indefinitely loomed heavily Saturday.

Texas Highway department officials appear unwilling to go ahead with other portions of the program until Nineteenth street can be opened from Texas avenue to Ave A.

And city officials, on whose shoulders falls the burden of obtaining the right-of-way, face a financing problem which apparently only a bond issue—city or county—can solve.

Much of Program Remains

The completion of Nineteenth street as an east-west thoroughfare extending from the Brownfield-Levelland highways to East Broadway has been listed as the next item on the highway department's program.

Whether that item can be bypassed in favor of other portions of the dispersal system less expensive from the right-of-way standpoint, apparently remained unanswered Saturday.

At present, $1,303,400 worth of work has been completed or is under contract. The total estimated cost of the system is $3,186,400, highway department estimates reveal.

Agreement Was Signed

Seeking to complete an east-west traffic artery, highway department officials are anxious to carry out a 1948 agreement to obtain the remainder of the Nineteenth street right-of-way to Ave. A.

On Feb 16, 1948, an agreement was signed between the City of Lubbock and the Texas Highway

House Group Claims American Slav Congress Is Red 'Weapon'

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 25. — The House Un-American Activities committee said today the American Slav Congress is a Russian weapon for subverting 10,000,000 Slavic Americans by pressure and "poisonous and lynching propaganda."

It emphasized the big majority of these people are anti-Communist and loyal to America. It said they must be "protected from intimidation and victimization by foreign governments or their agents."

An American Slav Congress official said in New York that all the committee's charges are "baseless," that the Slav Congress is "purely an American organization."

Favors Bars To Reds

The committee said that the Slav Congress toes the Communist party line and it is "a Moscow-inspired and directed federation of Communist-dominated organizations."

The committee wound up with 10 recommendations, including a proposal that foreign Communists be barred from admission to this country. It said citizenship of alien Communists should be revoked and they should be deported.

Attorney General Clark has listed the Slav Congress Communist and subversive. But the committee went into details.

It said:

Leaders Claimed Reds

The Slav Congress has resorted to things like "incitement to civil disobedience" and "an attitude amounting to treasonable defiance of this government."

Its real objectives "have been primarily military."

Some of its leaders are Reds—Executive Secretary George Pirinsky for one.

Slavs are concentrated in industrial centers. The congress claims 51 per cent of the workers in the coal and steel industries are Slavic.

There are "complete" cooperation between the Slav Congress and former vice president Henry A. Wallace last year.

Recommendations Made

The committee recommended:

Strict reciprocity as to the number of persons allowed to go to and from iron curtain countries.

Reciprocity regarding protection of American citizens abroad.

Protection of Slavic Americans from intimidation.

Aid to loyal Slavs and their organizations in counteracting subversive influences.

Cancellation of citizenship and deportation of alien Communists.

Prosecution for frauds by spurious relief organizations.

Stricter licensing laws for relief organizations.

Two Children Found Hungry, Alone On Lonely River Island

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 25. (AP)—The father of two babes in the woods, who were hungry and deserted on a lonely island last night, was taken into custody by sheriff's deputies today.

The father, identified by deputies as Donald Frazier, met authorities at the home of his father, Joseph Frazier, at Jack's reef, about 21 miles from Syracuse.

Sgt. Arthur Willis of the Onondaga county sheriff's office quoted Frazier as saying that he had left the chldren, Peggy, about five, and her brother, about three, on the Seneca river island and that he thought they would be all right.

Couple Find Children

Willis said Frazier informed him that he had an argument with his wife at their home at Port Jervis and that he had left with the two children June 17.

He did not immediately question Frazier further, Willis said. He left with Frazier for Syracuse.

"Daddy left us here yesterday (Thursday). He hasn't come back," Peggy told Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wicks who found the children.

Wicks said the children cried out while he and his wife were fishing from a boat.

Peggy and her brother evidently had slept on a pile of bedding in a shack, Wicks reported.

A small, cardboard suitcase containing children's clothing was on the floor of the shack. The only food was a turtle and a sunfish on a plate, Wicks said.

Both children were scratched and sunburned.

Four-Lane Superhighway From Florida To West Coast Asked

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., June 25 (AP)—Construction of a four-lane superhighway from Jacksonville, Fla., to Los Angeles was urged at a meeting of the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Safeway association here today.

The project was urged by State Rep. Reece O. Bickerstaff of Gulfport, Miss., who expressed belief the federal government would look favorably on it as national security measure.

Bickerstaff is chairman of the Mississippi legislature's state highway committee.

West Texas Plumbers Hold Meeting Here

Approximately 30 plumbing contractors of West Texas were present for a convention of the Panhandle league of Associated Plumbing Contractors in Hilton hotel Saturday afternoon and night.

Many of the wives attended the convention also.

Principal speakers during the afternoon session were Dr. Doyle D. Court Refuses Rehearing, Orders New Trial For Ballinger Man

AUSTIN, June 25 (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today overruled the state's motion for rehearing of T. Clifton Clary's appeal from a 99-year prison sentence on conviction of murder in the death of his wife last January.

Clary had won his appeal, the court reversing the trial court's judgment and ordering a new trial.

The state sought a second hearing in the appeals court, contending the court erred on two points: One, in holding that the jurors had prejudiced the case; two, that one juror had a fixed opinion in his mind as to the appellant's guilt.

Judge C. G. Krueger wrote the opinion denying the state's motion. He noted that "No reason is advanced by the state in its motion why the court erred."

The body of Clary's wife was found in their burned home near Ballinger. Clary said the fire was caused by a butane explosion.

Brannan Discusses New Payment Program To Boost Farm Prices

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A new federal farm program vitally affecting the entire American economy is before Congress. It is being discussed throughout the country. In the following exclusive, parallel articles two of the nation's outstanding farm authorities examine the pros and cons of the administration plan to replace the present parity policy with a direct subsidy to farmers.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, author of the administration's subsidy plan, explains its workings. Rep. Clifford R. Hope (R) Kans., of the House Agriculture Committee, attacks the proposal and urges retention of the parity principle without direct government payments to farmers.)

By CHARLES F. BRANNAN
(Written Expressly For INS)

WASHINGTON, June 25—The need for a strong farm price support program becomes clearer every day.

Department of Agriculture figures show that farmers are getting 17 percent lower prices, on the average, than they were in January 1948 and that they are still paying prices within 3 percent as high as the peak level of August 1948.

Department of Commerce figures show that the nation's personal income dropped significantly from March to April and that virtually the entire decrease was due to farm decreases. The new, lower rate of income would amount to a billion dollars difference in a year.

Farmers Claimed Hard Hit

Nobody can object to some price adjustment. But when farm prices are allowed to go down much faster than other prices, the result is plain injustice for the farmer and his family and a deflationary trend that may endanger the prosperity of the entire nation. Depressions have started exactly this way.

It seems to me that the value of agricultural price supports—as a bulwark against depression and an incentive to abundant farm production—is almost beyond debate. The only points of fundamental disagreement concern the method and level of supports.

There are two general methods of protecting farm prices: Through loans and purchases which prop up the price by taking some of the surplus product off the market; or through direct payments to farmers consisting of the difference between the actual market price of a commodity and the support price.

Both of these methods have a proper sphere of usefulness. For storable commodities, such as cotton or wool, the loan or purchase procedure works quite well.

For perishable commodities the purchase procedure is suitable only when the crop can be disposed of—as to foreign consumers through export program, the ECA, etc.

Would Use Direct Payments

I have suggested, consequently, that in fairness to the taxpayers, prices of perishables be supported when necessary through direct payments to farmers.

Our current potato problem provides a fine illustration of the way the two support techniques affect consumers. Under the existing program, the Department of Agriculture has been forced to go into the market and buy enough of the 1948 potato crop to keep the price from falling below an average of $1.75 per bushel. To do this, we have had to purchase nearly three bushels out of every ten in the entire 1948 crop. The total cost of this operation runs to about 225 million dollars.

Plan Is Explained

Consumers have thus been forced to pay not only 225 million dollars in taxes to take 123 million bushels of potatoes off the market; but they have also paid an artificially supported price for the potatoes they ate at the table.

Under the direct payment method, the full crop of potatoes would come to market at the supply and demand price, and the difference between the support price and the actual average price received by farmers would be made up through direct payments.

We estimate that under this payment procedure, for the same amount of money spent in purchasing operations on the 1948 potato crop, farm income could have been maintained while the price of crop, farm income could have fallen to about one dollar per bushel.

Obviously, the proposed program would give taxpayers more for their price support money.

The direct payment method would be beneficial in protecting farm income and encouraging desirable abundance, while at the same time lowering the market price of many important foods.

This, I believe, is the realistic answer to the question: What kind of program do we need to serve all the people?

GOP Farm Leader Claims Proposed Program Would Prove Too Costly For Government

By REP. CLIFFORD R. HOPE
(Written Expressly For INS)

WASHINGTON, June 25 — I agree with the need for a strong price support program. In fact I am sure that there is agreement among our people generally on that point.

Both political parties have repeatedly endorsed price supports in their platforms and in congress such legislation has had bipartisan support.

The latest legislation placed on the statute books (the Aiken bill, Titles II and III of the Agricultural Act of 1948) was worked out jointly by Secretary Anderson and his associates in the Department of Agriculture, including the then assistant Secretary Brannan and a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Agriculture headed by Senator Aiken of Vermont.

Backed By GOPs, Demos

In the same Congress the members of the House Committee on Agriculture, both Democrats and Republicans, unanimously agreed in reporting a bill to extend the existing price support program (with slight modifications) for a year. This measure, which became Title I of the Agricultural Act of 1948, constitutes the program in effect during 1949.

Because we have had comparatively little experience in price support operations during periods of low or declining prices, there are naturally differences of opinion concerning the method, level and extent of supports. In my opinion most of these differences must finally be resolved through the process of trial and error and it may be a long time before even reasonably satisfactory results are attained.

The Brannan plan does not contain any new or revolutionary ideas. Everything included in it is either in existing legislation or has been the subject of considerable discussion in agricultural circles. Yet it created a sensation.

Labor Backs Plan

A survey of the comment and discussion indicates that this great interest is due at least in part to two things: The plan's unquestionable political appeal and its questionable economic soundness.

It may be assumed that the program has been enthusiastically accepted in labor political circles. This is confirmed by articles lauding the plan in many labor papers and by the active and dominating part taken by labor leaders at the recent democratic rally at Des Moines.

But before this plan is accepted by farmers and by the public they will want more information than has been made available so far. One question as yet unanswered is: What will it cost?

Cost Is Major Worry

If farmers are to have high incomes and consumers low food prices, someone will have to pay the bill. What will really happen in that case is that the federal government will pay a part of everybody's grocery bill.

Secretary Brannan says he frankly does not know what the cost will be. Probably no one knows but I believe we can get some general ideas.

The Department of Agricultural Economics of the University of Illinois has said: "It could easily be as much as the total federal budget before the war." The same department, taking hogs as an illustration, has estimated that hog supports alone might cost $700,000,000 annually and hogs represent only 1/7 to 1/8 of the output of our farms.

The American Farm Bureau federation, after a study of the cost of the plan as to milk alone, estimated it would amount to $2,480,000,000 annually. Other estimates as to the cost of the entire program have ranged from two billions to ten billions per year.

Since the advocates of the plan have compared it to the British food subsidy program, it might be well to point out that its cost in 1948 was $2,272,000,000. Our population is three times as large as that of Britain so the cost of a similar plan here could run to more than six billions.

I do not think that anyone has the final answer to the problem of farm price supports. I believe however that we are on the right track if we continue Title I of the present act for at least another year and devote our efforts in the meantime to finding an acceptable substitute for the Aiken bill.

Good Deed For Day Leaves Driver Cold

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 30 (U.P.)—R. D. Townsend wishes people sometimes wouldn't be so helpful.

While trying to get into a parking spot, Townsend stopped his car to let other automobiles get past. A motorist behind him mistook his waving motion and began to push his car.

Townsend slammed on his brakes and waved furiously for the other to stop. But the other motorist still thought Townsend was in trouble and kept on pushing.

"So," Townsend said, "I finally gave up and let him do his good deed, then drove around the block and parked in the same spot."

Richmond Museum Gets Pistol Taken From Jefferson Davis

RICHMOND, Va., June 30. (U.P.)—Jefferson Davis' six-shooter has been returned to the capital of the Confederacy 84 years after it was taken from its president.

The heavy, well-balanced Colt revolver, bearing designs of ship and sea on its grips and barrel, was owned by Harry E. Minty of Kansas City, Mo.

Minty is the son of Gen. R. H. G. Minty, commander of the Union force that captured Davis in Georgia May 7, 1865.

An Englishman suggested that Minty give the revolver to the Confederate Museum in Richmond. Dr. Robert McElroy, Oxford professor who wrote a two-volume biography of Davis, told Minty the pistol should be placed with other Davis museum pieces in Richmond.

That was about 15 years ago. Before returning the gun, Minty visited Richmond and went through the museum. He decided the Englishman was right and went back to deliver the pistol personally.

CAN'T DO THAT NOW

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (U.P.) — The Tennessee constitution, unamended since its adoption in 1870, still includes a section that "no citizen . . . shall be compelled to bear arms, provided he will pay an equivalent, to be ascertained by law."

Work On TV Stations To Be Pushed At West Texas Towns

DALLAS, June 25 (AP)—Construction of commercial television stations in three West Texas towns will begin "as soon as we get our FCC permit," a spokesman for a Dallas group said today.

Five Dallas business men and one Dallas business woman filed an application with the communications commission in Washington yesterday. They want to build TV stations at Abilene, Midland and San Angelo.

They are James B. Cheek and M. F. Fooshee, architects; Ward D. Downs, one of the owners of the Dallas Plumbing company; Virgil A. Hargett, in the electrical supply business; Dave C. Edwards, manager of the Hillcrest mausoleums, and Winnie Shelton, a Dallas business woman who spends much of her time in Hawaii.

"Everything waits now on FCC action on our application," William B. Miller, television consultant and their spokesman, said. "As soon as we get our permits, work will begin. We hope that will be by late summer or early fall."

The stations, he said, will cover a radius of about 40 miles around each of the West Texas cities.

Asked how the group came to choose Midland, San Angelo and Abilene as sites, Miller said:

"They're aggressive, open-minded, growing towns. And the people there should have television; they have as much right to it as residents of great metropolitan centers."

The coaxial cable carrying television programs from coast to coast runs near the cities. Miller said the three stations may be able to pick up the coastal programs.

Fooshee and Cheek designed television Station KBTV here and "are very well respected architects," Miller said.

Canadian Dam Conference To Open In Washington Monday

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—A conference will get under way here Monday on the $85,000,000 Canadian river development program.

Four West Texas citizens have been invited to join the talks.

Mayor George Klein of Amarillo, Jack Cunningham and Howard Robin, both of Amarillo, and Clarence Whiteside of Lubbock will meet congressional and departmental officials.

Rep. Worley of Texas announced their invitations.

NEWS BRIEFS

C. M. Elmore, jr., a 1949 electrical engineering graduate of Texas Tech college, has gone to New York to take a course in radar at the Sperry corporation. He is employed in radar research at Consolidated Vultee Aircraft corporation in Fort Worth.

Pete Bynum, of 1611 Twenty-first, underwent an eye operation Saturday at West Texas hospital. His condition later was reported as satisfactory, but he is expected to remain in the hospital several days. Bynum is field manager in the circulation department for The Avalanche-Journal.

A petit jury panel will report Monday morning to Judge G. V. Pardue of 99th district court. Several civil actions are to be called for announcement of attorneys. Judge Pardue will close minutes on his current term at the end of the week and the following Monday will convene a new six-months term.

A 72nd district petit jury of which Ike Davis was foreman returned answers late Saturday morning to Judge Dan Blair in the $17,800 damages action of Will Jackson and others against James C. O'Neil, but attorneys in the case conceded that no judgment could be rendered in the case. The jury could answer only some of the special issues requisite to judgment. A Jan. 15 collision of a pickup driven by the plaintiffs, Crosby negroes, and a car driven by the defendant, also of Crosby county resulted in the suit.

Man Wins New Trial In Appeal From Bus Dynamiting Sentence

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP)—A conviction based solely on the testimony of an admitted accomplice is invalid, the Court of Criminal Appeals held today. It ordered a new trial for Drew Story, who had been sentenced to five years in connection with the dynamiting of buses belonging to Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma Coaches Inc., in Lubbock county June 14, 1948.

An admitted accomplice turned state's evidence against Story in the original trial.

The appeals court held that no other witness had corroborated that evidence.

State law provides that "a conviction can not be had upon the testimony of an accomplice unless corroborated by other evidence tending to connect the defendant with the offense committed."

FORMER HOBBS OFFICER GAVE TESTIMONY HERE

Story, former Garza county deputy sheriff, was convicted Jan. 19 by a 99th district court jury of which Howard Medlock was foreman.

The charge was "exploding an injurious substance, dynamite, with intent to injure the property of another."

Clyde Lomax, 24, former Hobbs, N. M., policeman, gave accomplice testimony, admitting that he fashioned and tossed the bomb, but charging that Story had served as lookout when he had placed the fuse in the charge. Efforts to corroborate Lomax' testimony succeeded in getting Story no closer to Lubbock than Plains, 78 miles away, it was charged at the time by J. E. Vickers, Story's counsel.

Houston Miller, young Lubbock business man and former union driver for TNM&O, and Lomax later pleaded guilty of a charge similar to that naming Story and were placed under probation.

The bombing grew out of a strike of union bus drivers, testimony disclosed.

Bastrop Woman Banker To Be Buried In Jacksonville Today

BASTROP, June 25. (AP)—Mrs. Berneece Brooks, one of Texas' few women bank officers, died last night.

She was vice president and cashier of the Citizens State bank of Bastrop. Formerly, she was regional vice president of the Association of Bank Women. She also was a civic leader.

Mrs. Brooks was born at Omaha, Texas. She was graduated from Jacksonville High school.

Services are set for late today. Burial will be in Jacksonville Sunday.

Beaumont Officials Approve Increase In City Bus Fares

BEAUMONT, June 25 (AP)—The City council gave Beaumont city lines permission today to raise bus fares tomorrow.

The request for higher fares was filed by the company yesterday only a few hours after a 36-day bus strike here and at Port Arthur was settled and buses resumed running.

Fares rose from two tokens for 15 cents to three tokens for 25 cents or 10 cents per single fare.

Oklahoman Claims Hollywood Portrays Indians Unfavorably

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 25. (AP)—An Oklahoma senator of Indian descent who criticized the movie industry during the legislative session earlier this year leveled a new blast today.

Sen. J. Gladston Emery, Wilburton, took issue with a statement recently by Arthur H. Debra, official of the Motion Picture Association of America.

Emery has been contending that movies are portraying the American Indian unfavorably by showing them as the villain. Debra had quoted statistics showing that in 27 of 36 movies last year portraying Indians, the treatment was "sympathetic."

New Blast Fired

In a letter to Debra today, Emery said:

"Never has the Indian been portrayed as the defender of his homeland in his meager attempt to preserve his homeland from the white aggressor.

"By sitting through 'Custer's Last Stand' some years back twice, I've seen the Indians win twice. Of course that was a 'massacre' because the Indians won," he continued.

"The pot shots my folks took at wagon trains was no more than is done now on occasion when we find a trespasser on our property.

"Try to depict the American Indian as he was and is and we shall see and believe. We don't go 'statistics' much in these parts—especially when the white man keeps the books."

ABC Group To Meet Today At Big Spring

BIG SPRINGS, June 25 (AP)—More than 350 delegates are expected here tomorrow for a convention of the National Association of American Business clubs.

F. H. Bachman, Danville, Ill., will preside at business sessions opening Monday. Prominence is being given the organization's project to raise $25,000 for an educational film on spastic paralysis.

Roy Cagle, Asheville, N. C., is boomed for the next national president.

Odessa Mother And Daughters In Fair Condition After Car Wreck

DALLAS, June 25. (AP) — An Odessa mother and her two young daughters, injured seriously in an automobile accident yesterday, were in "fair condition" at a hospital here tooday.

Mrs. A. A. O'Connor and her daughters Sharon, 10 and Sandra, 3, all spent a "quiet day," attendants at (Baylor) hospital said.

They all suffered head injuries in a head-on collision near here yesterday.

Robert Osborn, 43, of Handley, less seriously hurt in the same accident, also was in fair condition today, the hospital said.

Bandits Kill Guard In Chicago Holdup

CHICAGO, June 25 (INS)—A Brinks Express company money guard was shot to death today and another was critically wounded when two bandits cut them down with a submachine gun and in the south Chicago savings bank.

The guards were carrying the money into the lobby of the closed bank when they were shot down.

The bandits scooped up a money bag containing $920 and fled in a waiting auto. They also seized $377,093 in canceled checks.

Witnesses said the gray get-away car bore Indiana license plates and that two accomplices were in it.

The man slain in the daring holdup was 36-year-old Bruno Kozion. Joseph Den, 45, the wounded man, was taken to south Chicago hospital.

Officials said the gunmen ambushed the guards in the lobby of the bank building. Police said the bandits stepped from behind an elevator and started shooting.

Kozion and Den fell to the floor. Neither had a chance to fire, although both carried guns in their hands.

Authorities said the bank manager, 60-year-old Charles Bradbury, witnessed the shooting and then fainted.

Traffic Policemen Archie Hignet, stationed nearby, ran to the scene when he heard the shooting. He arrived in time to see the bandit's gray auto drive away, but did not shoot because of people on the street.

A MEMORY BOOK OF PROGRESS OF LUBBOCK AND THE SOUTH PLAINS
1873—1949

In their struggles with their material problems, the residents of the South Plains never have neglected the spiritual.

The covered wagons which brought the first families as settlers to the region almost invariably included the revered family Bible in their belongings. The first religious services doubtless were conducted around camp fires. Later groups worshipped in the crude homes of the frontier.

After Lubbock was founded, services were held, first in the jail, which seldom was occupied by prisoners, and then in the Courthouse. Circuit-riding ministers of the Baptist and Methodist denominations usually alternated in conducting the services of those earliest days. The Baptists were credited with building the first Lubbock church, a frame structure costing less than $1,000, at Thirteenth street and Avenue G in 1901.

Several other congregations had been organized even before then. No sooner were congregations formed than the members began planning their own Houses of Worship. Almost invariably, the plans were carried to speedy realization, through sacrifices gladly made.

With such people, it was inevitable that Lubbock would become truly a "City of Churches"—a city which now rejoices in more than 60 Houses of Worship, including several under construction which will be among the most beautiful to be found anywhere.

DALLAS, June 25. — Joan Edwards of Rankin, has been unconscious 160 days.

The attractive, 24-year-old college graduate, a newspaper woman, has lain motionless and helpless since an automobile accident, Jan. 17.

Sights, sounds and thoughts fail to register on her injured brain. Her big grey eyes stare, but do not see. Aim a mock blow at her face and she does not flinch. She makes groaning sounds occasionally, but has never spoken a word.

So Little Can Be Done

Her arms and legs are drawn up convulsively in a type of paralysis.

Joan was brought to Dallas Friday from an Odessa hospital. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion J. Edwards, hope prayerfully something might be done for their only child.

"But there is so very little we can do," Dr. C. C. Nash, Dallas surgeon, said sadly. "We are going to try some shots of arrow poison used by South American Indians to see if it will temporarily relax her tense muscles. But there is absolutely nothing we can do for her mid-brain injury.

"When brain tissue is destroyed, it is never replaced. Her improvement over all these months has been very slight."

Graduate of Texas Tech at Lubbock, Joan was employed by the Midland Reporter-Telegram. On the bitter night of Jan. 17 Joan and a party of four others left Midland to go to a dance at Odessa. The car slipped from an ice-coated road and smashed into a culvert. One man was fatally hurt. Surgeons removed blood clots from beneath Joan's skull but the mid-brain injury was beyond their skill.

Graying Mrs. Edwards, stays with her daughter constantly and sleeps on a cot in the room. Edwards, thin, 53-year-old Rankin postmaster, said: "We just keep hoping Joan will get better. We figure maybe some day she'll just start talking all of a sudden. Or maybe she'll just get better gradually."

Has Gone Into Debt

"Sure, I've gone into debt," Edwards added. "I had to. This treatment is costing $1,000 a month."

Joan gets the best of care. She is fed through a nasal tube. Every hour nurses change her position in the bed. Her body eliminates normally—though the processes are involuntary.

"She is in no immediate danger," said Dr. Nash. "If her present condition continues unchanged, she might be kept alive for years.

"It's the kind of case that makes you wish you had taken up some other occupation."

Dual Fuel Systems For Autos Studied

DETROIT, June 25 (AP)—Automotive and petroleum industry engineers are doing a lot of research on dual fuel systems.

The goal, of course, is to get more miles per dollar out of gasoline cost. Right now, the experts say, the average motorist wastes more gasoline than he uses. Part of this is due to inefficient combustion. Most of it, however, results from the fact the motorist has to carry higher quality fuel than he needs at all times.

The ideal dual fuel system would feed the engine higher quality fuel for starting and heavy going only. Once the car is under way and moving on fairly level surface, lower grade fuel would be used.

One leading car maker in cooperation with a widely known petroleum expert is understood to have made some significant advances in dual fuel research. Heart of the system is the carburetor which automatically switches from one to another quality of fuel.

Separate tanks for the two grades of fuel are required. In this respect the system differs from some others that have sought to enrich a low grade fuel by injection at the required moment. These devices increase the fuel quality by injecting alcohol and lead at the right time.

Details of the device being developed by one of the major car builders have not been disclosed. They probably will not be made known until the system has been perfected.

Monte Carlo Imports 'New' Dice Gambling Game In Effort To Lure American Tourists

By IRVING R. LEVINE
INS Staff Correspondent

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, June 25.—Monte Carlo begins its summer gambling season next Friday with a new ruler, a new game and some old troubles.

The new ruler of the 800-year-old, pint-sized principality (a kingdom too small to warrant a king) is big, handsome Prince Rainier III, 26, whose grandfather, Louis II, handed over the royal robes just four days before he died at the age of 78 last month.

The new game to grace the tables of the ornately ugly Monte Carlo casino is craps—an importation of America's seven-come-eleven pastime.

Hit By Tourist Shortage

The old troubles are tourists—or rather, the lack thereof.

Since the war Monte Carlo and the rest of Monaco (all six square miles of it) have suffered from a dearth of visitors. In a more lush period the sun-washed principality, which rightly deserves its cliche description of looking like the backdrop for a comic opera, provided a holiday mecca for free spending British holidayers.

Austerity regulations at home prevent touring Britons from taking more than 20 pounds, some $80, abroad with them—about enough for one short, unlucky streak at Monte Carlo's traditional games of roulette, trente et quarante, chemin de fer, or bacarra.

Studied American Art

As a consequence, the promoters of Monte Carlo's casino—the main source of income for Monaco—have decided to try to lure American tourists.

They have set about the task with a vengeance.

First of all, over the rocky cliff dominated by the cream stucco casino went European gambling tradition and the management took steps to introduce craps.

Casino croupier Albert Jauffret traveled about the U. S. for three months to study the 65 American versions of the game. Under his direction 12 other volunteer croupiers now spend their days in one of the casino's parlors which overlooks the blue Mediterranean and studiously pursue the art of the galloping cubes.

Import Shows Girls

It is expected that by July 15 the croupiers will have learned their lessons well enough to preside over casino crap games so—as one official put it — "Americans may gamble at a game with which they are familiar."

As a further bid for the U. S. tourist trade, Monte Carlo is importing a troup of American show girls in the apparent conviction that Americans away from home crave a touch of home in their entertainment.

Finally, in something of an ultimate effort "to cater to American taste" Monaco's authorities have altered the uniforms of Monaco's 100-man police force, to coincide with an American's conception of what a cop should look like.

Casino Lost Money

With a record loss of 136 million francs for the fiscal year before last, the casino management—a private corporation whose stock is available on the Paris bourse—realized that it must attract a heavy influx of Americans or risk insolvency.

The heavy loss was not wrought by the legendary man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo, but rather by the tourist famine, wage demands by a newly organized croupiers union which staged a short sit-down strike, and by increased operating expenses.

By strict economies and by selling about 50 million francs worth of hotel stock owned by the casino, the gambling corporation has managed to get back in the black again by a slim margin.

However, there is one casino expense which brooks no economies. That is the annual handout to the prince and the royal court for the franchise to operate the splendid gambling joint. The exact figure is a guarded secret by the donor and the recipient. Before the war it was even higher when loss of tourist revenue forced the casino to ask the state to take over certain community services—electric, gas, water — previously financed by the casino.

Even with these new expenses of providing these services, the principality of Monaco still receives enough from the casino till to retain its status as the only country in the world with no income tax.

Hofacket To Head American Legion Post At Littlefield

LITTLEFIELD, June 25. (Special)—At a regular meeting of the Littlefield American Legion post this past week, Vernon Hofacket, local businessman, was named commander for the forthcoming year.

Hofacket will succeed Bob Kirk, who has served as commander of the post for the past two years.

Other officers [illegible] meeting included Russell Tidd, first vice commander; Lonnie Wyatt, second vice commander; Wayne Butler, adjutant; Bob Kirk, chaplain; Donald Bennett, sergeant-at-arms; Tom Matthews, service officer; Fred Wright, finance officer; Harry Crowley, historian; Fred Ray, mess sergeant.

The new officers are to be installed at a joint program of the Legion and the Legion auxiliary on July 18.

ONE WAY TO BE SMART

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Officials of Arlington Heights high school here blinked their eyes when nearly every student taking an extra-curricular "achievement" test showed up with a grade of 99 or 100. The mystery was solved when school officials found a lock forced open on the door of the room in which test answers were kept.

Court Of Criminal Appeals Ends Term After Handling 335 Cases

AUSTIN, June 25 (AP)— The Court of Criminal appeals handled 335 appeals during its nine-months term which ended today. Nearly three-fourths, 245, of the trial court judgments were affirmed by the Appellate court.

Eighty-four lower court judgments were reversed and new trials were ordered. Six cases were dismissed.

Sixty-two cases were carried over to the next term, which will begin Oct. 3.

Sixty-three of the appeals involved murder convictions, 47 of which were upheld. The other 16 were sent back for retrial.

Ten death sentences for murder and two for rape were sustained. One murder case involving a death sentence was remanded for a new trial.

The court announced the reappointment of all personnel for the next term. Included were commissioners C. G. Krueger and Lloyd W. Davidson, and state's prosecuting attorney Ernest Goens.

History Of Oil Age In Southwest Written By Native Of Texas

By ROY CALVIN
United Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, June 25—Three years ago, Dr. Carl Coke Rister set himself to a monumental task—telling the history of the Southwest's gigantic oil industry.

The University of Oklahoma press has now published the result, "Oil! Titan of the Southwest." It is 455 pages full of facts and figures to background a story in which the Southwest — about which Rister has sound knowledge, being a native of Texas—underwent an amazing transformation.

There is proof here that oil, and oil virtually alone, was the basis for the great change.

Oil Is Lifeblood

"Indeed, oil, and southwestern oil for the most part, has become industrial America's lifeblood," writes professor Rister.

He thinks it is no overstatement to say that the whole nation's fast-moving economy would be paralyzed, literally, if this section's oil flow was cut off.

But it is less for such appreciative summation than for the detailed accounting of how and where the Southwest found its oil that his book will be valued.

The work covers, thoroughly, major and minor discoveries of oil in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana and Arkansas. It is peppered with interesting details of what the coming of oil meant to the people and towns, as well as to the states and the world.

Texts Neglect Oil Age

Up to now, most U. S. history textbooks have treated inadequately the saga of the Southwest since its petroleum age arrived. The texts have, all the while, however, dwelt at length on metal mining in the Western states.

Only the omission is undesirable, because no one can discount the effect on the West of the gold and silver discoveries and the attendant rushes.

But here in the Southwest there also has been a "rush"—a rush for black gold. The result to date has been of far more dollar value, from production, than the silver and gold strikes to the West.

All of these things, professor Rister points up.

A history teacher at the University of Oklahoma and a master researcher of long experience, he has focused well on the importance of the rich Southwest and its gift of oil.

Lubbock County School Official Will Attend Annual Conference

Roy Boyd, Lubbock county school superintendent, will leave today to attend the three-day conference of the county school superintendents and supervisors association at Texas A&M college.

Boyd, who is vice-president of the association, will be accompanied by his family.

This will be the 25th annual meeting of the school association. Boyd will be the chairman of the Tuesday afternoon meeting.

The members of the association will collaborate with members of the Texas school administration who are holding their conference at College Station at the same time.

McDaniel Appointed Principal Of Spur Junior High School

SPUR, June 25. (Special)—F. W. McDaniel, a former faculty member of the McAdoo public schools, has been named principal of Spur Junior High school, school officials have announced.

McDaniel, a graduate of East Texas State Teachers college, Commerce, at present is doing graduate work at Texas Technological college.

Mrs. McDaniel will teach fifth grade in the Spur elementary schools.

More Than 200 Soap Box Derby Racers Inspected For Contest

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

More than 200 South Plains youngsters rolled their tiny racing cars through the inspection line at Kuykendall Chevrolet company Friday and Saturday afternoon in preparation for Lubbock's second annual Soap Box Derby to be run on a section of the new highway northeast of Lubbock's city limits, Monday, July 4.

Another 35 to 40 boys are expected to have their racers completed this week in time for a final inspection next Saturday afternoon at the race site.

The Derby, sponsored by The Avalanche-Journal, Kuykendall Chevrolet company and the Lubbock Exchange club, is expected to draw a crowd of from 15,000 to 20,000 people during the six hours required to run the race a week from Monday.

A total of 204 boys were assigned race numbers in Friday and Saturday's inspection and those boys who did not bring their cars for inspection must contact the Soap Box Derby editor at The Avalanche-Journal this week and be ready for final inspection Saturday.

In the meantime, a highway construction crew completed hot-topping of the race course Saturday afternoon, thereby assuring a floor-smooth course on which the boys will drive their gravity-propelled cars in the race. The race course will be blocked off from traffic until after the Derby.

Wayne Sullivan, general Derby chairman for the Lubbock Exchange club, announced a practice run would be staged Saturday afternoon for all boys in the Derby after they go through their final inspection.

The cars will then be stored at Lubbock Machine company until race time Monday morning.

Urged To Finish Work

All boys who do not have their cars ready for final inspection Saturday will run the risk of being disqualified on race day if their racers do not conform to the rules regarding construction details. Therefore, all boys should have their cars ready by Saturday morning so that if revisions are needed, they can be made that afternoon before the practice runs down the hill.

In the practice runs Saturday each boy will be allowed to drive his racer down the hill one at a time and if he believes minor revisions are needed to make his car faster, they can be made at the track site. There will be no regular heats during the practice trials.

The Derby will be run in three-car heats, with boys in class B, 11 to 12 years inclusive, and Class A, 13-15 years inclusive, competing against each other until a champion is determined in each class. Then a final heat between the two class winners will decide the race champion.

To Receive Trip

Winner of the local race will receive an all-expense trip to Akron, Ohio, for the All-American Soap Box Derby finals on Aug. 14, in addition to a handsome plaque, a gold wrist watch and other prizes.

Prizes will be awarded winners of second place, who will receive a $100 savings bond from Kuykendall Chevrolet company; third and four places in addition to awards for winners of the various heats.

Winner of the Akron race will receive a $5,000 four-year scholarship to any college of his choice and second prize will be a new Chevrolet car.

First inspection of the cars resulted in only about one-third of the boys passing inspection without need for revision on their racers.

Top Contest Is Seen

One boy, Wilton Royce Irwin, faces the task of reducing weight of his car and himself from 276½ pounds to the 250-pound limit, but Derby officials pointed out where he could cut out a lot of weight in his racer.

In event any boy is disqualified on Derby day, he will be placed in a special heat and compete with other boys who have been disqualified for one reason or another.

With the first inspection over, the race course ready and a week's preparation ahead, Lubbock Exchange club members, who will direct running of the race, were looking forward to an even better race than last year's which set a nationwide record for a first-year race.

They pointed out that the new race course site provides more spectator space and more comfortable and convenient views of the Derby as two hillsides flank the race course all the way.

They emphasized they were indebted to Stuart C. McCarty, district engineer for the Texas Highway department, and his staff for making the race site available and in hot-topping the highway ahead of regular work.

Sullivan and other Derby officials are planing a concentrated organization for Derby day and running of the race, but emphasized Saturday that co-operation of spectators will be required to make the race a success.

Rough Riders Review Spanish, American War At 50th Reunion

LAS VEGAS, June 25. (U.P.)—The shadow of the 20th century's wars hung over Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders as they gathered today in their 50th, and what may be their last, reunion.

The "boys" of '98, now elderly men of 70, talked about their charge up San Juan hill 50 years ago, and the bad food, and the dysentery of the Spanish-American war of 1898. But some of them believed they were forgotten men now.

Maj. George Wilcox of Warren, Ariz., a cavalryman who rode through Cuba, said the years haven't been kind to the veterans of his war. He said he felt history had given the Rough Riders a bad break.

"There are a lot of people who have never heard of the Spanish-American war," said Wilcox. "It may not have been as big a war as the ones that came later, but the mud was just as wet."

His voice was bitter as he recalled that he heard a World War II veteran exclaim, during congressional consideration of a Spanish war pension bill:

"Who in the devil are these Spanish war rats, anyway?"

Some had kinder memories of the past. William Asay of Long Beach, who was a private in Troop C, remembered the last time he saw "T.R."

"Colonel Roosevelt was on his death bed. The doctors said no visitors, but I waited around in hopes I could see him.

"Finally I asked the attendant to tell him that Private Asay of Troop C was outside. Few minutes later, I was in his room.

"He was a great man, all right."

BANKROLL SAVED

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.) — A passerby's honesty saved F. M. Davis $440. The money had slipped unnoticed from Davis' pocket as he parked the car.

Mexico Withholding Information On Dominican Republic Invasion

MEXICO CITY, June 25. (AP)—Mexico is withholding any knowledge she may have of the attempted invasion of the Dominican Republic.

The National Defense department holds in Merida, Yucatan, 40 booted and uniformed Central Americans who were aboard two planes seized off the peninsula. So far, army officers have given only that information.

Gen. Antonio Sanchez Acevedo, national defense chief of staff, is returning from Merida where he questioned those detained. His mission was to determine if the men were part of the invasion expedition or simply "workers" hunting jobs who forgot to get Mexican visas to enter the country, as they say. The men are not under arrest. They have been told not to try to leave.

Juan Bosch, exiled Dominican leader, who blamed "desertion" and possible "betrayal" for the invasion failure, seems to have left. He came here from Havana Thursday. He said late yesterday he and a companion were "leaving immediately." He said he hoped to see other revolutionaries in neighboring countries. Or he may be headed for the "secret base" from which he said the attempted invasion was launched.

Dr. Joaquin Balaguer, Dominican Republic ambassador, talked with President Miguel Aleman yesterday but neither gave any information on their talk. Diplomats suggested he asked the President to hold the 40 mysterious men in Merida and to have them questioned until details of the revolt were learned.

Britain's East African peanut project may cost twice the estimated $98,000,000.

Man Swallows Crab To Claim Some Sort Of New Title

CHESTER, Pa., June 25. (AP) Lawrence Johnson, a 34-year old stevedore, gave the goldfish eaters something to shout at today.

On a dare from a friend, he gulped down a live, one and one-half pound hard shelled crab.

Johnson said he had a little "uneasiness" in his stomach which forced him to enter Chester hospital for x-rays.

"But then the pains started to go away, and I didn't bother to wait around to be X-rayed," said the red-headed workman.

Johnson figures he's recovered and ready to defend his new title against all comers.

Dallas News Treasurer Resigns; Appointment Of Successor Made

DALLAS, June 25 (AP) — Ted Dealey, president of the Dallas News, today announced the resignation of Myer M. Donosky as treasurer of the corporation, effective July 31, and the appointment of R. M. Buchanan to succeed him.

Dealey also announced the following staff changes to become effective Aug. 1:

Joe A. Lubben to be business manager; P. M. Gentry to be assistant business manager and Wilmer Truly to be head of the bookkeeping and accounting department.

"It is with deep and genuine regret that we lose the services of Myer Donosky," Dealey said.

A native of Dallas, Donosky came to the News in 1922 as statistician and later became office manager. In 1928 he left to become vice president of the Railway Re-Auditing company, but returned in 1933 as assistant secretary and treasurer. He became a director of the corporation in 1937 and in 1940 was elected treasurer.

Negroes Should Be Allowed At Democratic Dinner, Leader Says

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 25. (AP) A negro leader argued today his race should be allowed to attend a Democratic party dinner here July 1. Vice President Alben Barkley will be chief speaker.

John H. McCray, chairman of the South Carolina Progressive (Negro) Democratic party, said "the question of segregation does not apply."

Federal court decisions giving negroes full Democratic party membership privileges extend to the dinner also, McCray said in an open letter to those in charge of the dinner.

Former governor Ransome J. Williams said previously the dinner is for whites only.

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, States' Rights presidential candidate, has said he does not plan to attend the dinner.

THREE-DAY WORK WEEK PROPOSED

Lewis Claimed Willing To Keep Mines Open During Negotiations

By HAROLD W. WARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., June 25. — If the nation's coal operators will agree to a three-day work week, John L. Lewis was reported willing today to keep the mines open while he debates new contract terms with them.

That would mean at least some of the 400,000 miners who today began their annual holiday would have part time work when the 10-day vacation period ends July 5.

The reduction to three days a week also would fit right in with the United Mine Workers president's expressed wish to stabilize employment in the industry.

Lewis Silent

But it would be a sharp departure from the traditional "no contract, no work," policy of the union. The present contracts between the bituminous operators and the UMW expire June 30.

The report of the Lewic offer was heard here while negotiations with morc than half the soft coal industry were in recess until Tuesday.

Lewis himself would say nothing about the report, but a well-informed operator source who declined to be quoted by name said that "there is something to the proposal."

Three Parleys Underway

Operators who left here yesterday for the weekend presumably were back home sounding out sentiment on a three-day work week.

Lewis has three different negotiations going on at the same time among soft coal operators. The hard coal contract talks begin in Philadelphia July 7. The big controversy is in the bituminous industry, however.

Two major conferences are being held at this historic spa. One is with the northern and western operators, plus steel companies having their own — or "captive" —mines.

The other is with the United States Steel corporation.

A third conference, with the Southern Coal Producers association, has been in progress in Bluefield, W. Va., since May 25.

U. S. Steel Worried

Lewis wants to keep up separate negotiations with U. S. Steel. He hopes to put on extra pressure because of the demand for steel and because of the particularly important part U. S. Steel plays in the coal or steel industry.

This year, U. S. Steel is just as worried about the contract crisis with Philip Murray's CIO United Mine Workers as it is with Lewis. Thus it is in the middle of a bitter rivalry between the two giant labor leaders determined to get a better contract than the other

The northern and western operators, representing companies both anxious and not anxious to hurry into a new agreement, hold the key to a settlement this year. They have an unofficial spokesman in George H. Love, youthful president of the world's largest commercial soft coal producer — the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal company.

It is Love's opinion that because Lewis invited them into contract negotiations June 14, his group has until August 13 to talk things over without threat of a strike. Altogether, they hope to speak for about three-fourths of the industry when all the stray tonnage is lined up.

The reason for Love's optimism is the Taft-Hartley act provision for 60 days' notice before a party can end a contract. That deadline would fall August 14.

ASIATIC SHIP DISAPPEARS

HONG KONG, June 25. (AP) — The Asiatic Petroleum company's tanker Taipingshan disappeared from her scheduled route near Macao two days ago with 50,000 gallons of kerosene and the entire crew, it was reported today. Authorities here believe the ship was seized by pirates.

Military Reform 'Delay' Scored

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—The citizens committee for the Hoover report today blamed strong "secret enemies" for the House Armed Services committee "delaying" action on military reform.

The citizens group charged that "powerful forces are plainly engaged in a last ditch effort" to defeat the Tydings bill designed to complete unification of the Military establishment.

Plan Okayed By Senate

The measure, heralded by the group as the key to billion-dollar-a year savings, was approved unanimously by the Senate May 26. Three weeks later House hearings were announced, to begin on June 28.

The statement assailed the views of Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), chairman of the House group and long-time friend of the Navy.

It was signed by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, president of Temple university and chairman of the citizens committee which includes two former vice presidents, John Nance Garner and Charles G. Dawes, and scores of former cabinet officers, governors and leaders of industry and labor.

"This bill has the publicly avowed support of citizens of the highest caliber but apparently it also has secret enemies stronger than we know," Dr. Johnson declared, without identifying them.

"Powerful forces are plainly engaged in a last-ditch effort to defeat a measure which would end bickering and waste in the armed services.

Vinson Denounces Bill

"How otherwise can we account for the delay with which this bill has met in the House after it passed the Senate without a dissenting vote?"

The bill follows recommendations of the commission on government reorganization headed by former President Herbert Hoover.

Vinson has charged the legislation may be the forerunner of "an unbridled, power-mad bureaucracy superimposed at great cost over the armed forces."

Dr. Johnson declared "scandal will be an ever-present possibility" in the armed forces until basic flaws are corrected.

The measure carries the endorsement of President Truman, Hoover, the late Secretary of defense James Forrestal, present Defense Secretary Louis Johnson, Air Secretary Symington, former Secretary of the Army Royall, and others, Dr. Johnson said.

Canadian Voters To Decide On St. Laurent Ministry Tomorrow

TORONTO—June 25. (AP)—Canada's seven-week political campaign came to a virtual close tonight. Monday the voters will decide whether Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent has won a personal mandate for his Liberal party.

Voting regulations banned the broadcasting of political speeches from today onward, as well as the use of loud-speaker equipped vehicles in the streets. But the candidates may make platform appearances even into election day.

St. Laurent spoke last night at St. John's in Canada's 10th and newest province, Newfoundland.

BIG SPRING MAN DIES

BIG SPRING, June 25. (AP) — George E. Oldham, 47, implement company operator here, died last night in his sleep. Services will be held tomorrow. Survivors include his widow, a son, George E. jr., two brothers and two sisters.

NO SAFETY THAT WAY

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U.P.)—Mrs. Sarad McGrew claims she was the victim of a safety campaign here. She filed suit against the city for $5,580, claiming she stumbled and slipped over a safety council sign.

Of the Austria Federation of Labor's 1,278,686 members, 27 percent are women.

Engel Gives Secret Of Strange Career

Accused 80-Year-Old 'Love Pirate' Tells Of Adventures

By FREEMAN FULBRIGHT-
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 25.—Glib, garrulous, Sigmund Engel, elderly alleged million-dollar swindler of 1,001 loves, was ensconced today in a drab Chicago cell instead of a smart hotel, but that didn't cramp his style.

Engel, dapper, white-haired world's champion "love pirate," gabbed airily about his many conquests, revealed to newsmen the secrets of his success—and tried to date a woman reporter.

Tonight, Engel repaid $5,000 to Mrs. Reseda Corrigan, the woman who helped trap him, and at the same time proposed to her again.

Mrs. Corrigan murmured:

"I can't . . . I don't love you anymore. Please give me my $5,000." She got it. Back in the jail, the confident Engel invited newsmen to the "wedding," despite Mrs. Corrigan's refusal.

Career of Loving Leaving

Engel, who insists he's 80, not 73 as the police claim, emerged from his record and conversation as perhaps the greatest "love 'em and leave 'em" artist of the ages.

According to the police record, the natty, balding little man has made a career of loving women and leaving them—poorer by sums ranging from $500 to $60,000.

The record says the elderly Casanova married at least 49 of the women who fell for his smooth line, sharp clothes, red roses and perfect manners. Police are still probing his past to determine if there were other wives of the man who used at least 28 aliases.

Women from coast to coast—in New York, Chicago, Miami, San Francisco and waypoints—claim to have been "taken" by the "international love pirate and matrimonial swindler deluxe" who said he suffers from "womanmania."

Engel is alleged to have bilked his victims of at least a million dollars in cash, securities, jewels and trinkets. To newsmen he said make it a "million, two million or even five million dollars."

The man, whose many aliases included "Lord Beaverbrook," was arrested late yesterday in a swank Michigan avenue luggage shop where he had gone to purchase traveling bags for a Chicago widow.

The widow, Mrs. Genevieve Parro, 59, helped police set the trap which ended a nationwide search for Engel.

Criminal court Judge William J. Lindsay today dismissed a habeas corpus writ filed for Engel when police Capt. Timothy Lyne, promised the prisoner would be booked shortly on confidence game charges.

The well-dressed prisoner was held on confidence charges on a warrant signed by another Chicago widow who alleged he "took her for" $8,700.

Such confidence charges, the aged Casanova asserted, were without foundation. He remarked to reporters:

"Surely they can't punish me for merely enjoying lovely women. Isn't that every man's right?"

Engel didn't deny, however, that he took $5,000 from Mrs. Reseda Corrigan, 39-year-old Chicago widow whose disappearance last June 12 spurred the search for the alleged love pirate.

The sophisticated little man talked more freely today about the secrets of his "trade." When first arrested he refused to tell newsmen the "it" he had that so attracted women. To newsmen who saw him today, Engel recommended:

"Give a woman a love potion of admiration, flattery, and tall stories and you've got her.

"While administering the potion, give the impression you have lots of money. Administer this medicine in large doses, increasing the dosage as you see it taking effect.

Learn Likes, Dislikes

"Use psychology. Learn early the likes and dislikes of the woman in question. Play up to the lady's likes, assure her that they are your own ideas. Then you have a common ground on which to build your love.

"Above all subordinate sex. Be a gentleman always."

"Wear the latest clothes and always be clean. Learn a woman's likes and dislikes in music and literature, then talk about composers and authors.

"Kiss their hands, necks and ears. Send them flowers. Always take them to the very best places for entertainment.

"Any woman will fall for this love potion."

Redheads are most susceptible to such a love potion, the elderly Don Juan said. He classed blondes as "phlegmatic" and brunettes as "tough customers."

He said he had no preference in the matter of a woman's age, explaining:

"The older a woman, the better are the chances she has money."

The man should first make certain the woman has money, Engel declared, then make a date. He admonished:

"Feed her increasing amounts of the love potion, but lessen the time between each date.

"Then you just love 'em and

JUST WAITING FOR BUS

FORT WORTH, Tex. (U.P.)—Two men were arrested here for leaning too heavily on doors of a grocery while "just waiting for a bus to Dallas." Police said one was waiting at the front door, the other at the rear.

Cotton Men To Hear Inventors At Clinic

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP)—Cotton mill men and merchants will swap ideas with technicians at a clinic here June 30-July 1.

It will be the second annual clinic sponsored by the Cotton Research committee of Texas.

Two inventors of scientific cotton instruments will speak. They are Dr. G. F. Hertel, University of Tennessee researcher who developed the fibergraph for measuring fiber length distribution, and George Pfieffenberger of Chicopee Manufacturing company's research division at Lubbock, inventor of the air permeater, which measures fiber fineness.

Also on the program are Dr. Earl K. Berkley of Anderson-Clayton company, Houston, and W. S. Smith of West Point Manufacturing company, Shawmut, Ala., who aided in development of the micronaire, a machine which also measures fiber fineness.

Date For Pronouncing Death Sentence Of Attacker To Be Set

CORSICANA, June 25 (AP)—District Judge A. P. Mays said today he will set the date for pronouncing the death sentence on William R. Ray in the July term of court.

The sentence assessed by a jury here last July 8 against the convicted rapist was affirmed in a mandate from the Court of Criminal appeals today. Ray was charged with attacking a nine-year-old Fort Worth girl in a Fort Worth park April 8, 1948. The case was tried here on a change of venue. Ray has been in the Dallas county jail pending his appeal.

TOWN SAVES MONEY

CREEDE, Colo. (U.P.)—Residents of Creede decided $220,000 was more than they could afford. That is what a building contractor said it would cost to put up their new school building. Instead, everybody pitched in and built the structure out of native lumber. The cost was $89,000.

Asia's first Aquacade was held recently in Bombay, India, to boost swimming.

City's Money Needs Discussed At Real Estate Board Luncheon

A review of the city's money needs for the coming fiscal year was given by Steve Matthews, city manager, when he addressed members of the Lubbock Real Estate board in Hilton hotel at noon Saturday.

Thirty-three Lubbock realtors were present at the semi-monthly meeting. Ray Chapman, vice president, presided in the absence of Louis Murfee, jr., president.

Pointing out that Lubbock's current tax valuation is approximately $65,000,000, Matthews estimated that the present tax rate of $1.25 per $100 valuation would bring in $812,500, which he emphasized would not run the city.

Deducting the interest and sinking fund requirements of $358,703, the fund would be $453,787, he explained.

The city owes $5,062,000 in general obligation bonds and $4,080,000 in revenue bonds.

A police department budget of $300,000 has been set up, of which approximately $100,000 would be provided by fines, according to past experience.

Matthews referred to a recent communication from the state fire insurance commission which recommends 98 firemen for Lubbock. The budget provides for 84 firemen with a payroll of $216,000. Other expenses, including new equipment, would make the total fire department expense $274,000.

Other necessary expenses would leave the city $549,266 "in the hole," Matthews commented.

Members Are Listed

He pointed out that two of the city's largest "taxpayers" are the electrical department, which is expected to bring in $395,754 in revenue, and the water department, which is expected to produce $361,550 in revenue for a total of $757,304.

Members attending the luncheon were Charlie Sherrod, Lucian Moore, J. M. McKelvy, A. T. Cocanougher, J. Holland Cox, L. D. Casey, Chas. W. Aydelotte, Harold Chapman, R. Q. Pierce, Joe Phillips, Ray Chapman, C. C. Jones, Ira Jenkins, A. R. Osborn, R. C. Burleson, W. H. McKelvy, Tom Sawyer, Robert W. Wright, Raleigh Martin, C. S. Ameen, James C. Edwards, J. Out-Of-State Truck Registration Law Opposed In Panhandle Area

PERRYTON, June 25. (AP)—A new Texas law requiring registration of out-of-state trucks isn't very popular in the Texas Panhandle.

Fees range up to as much as $56 for a semi-trailer. A crew from the Department of Public safety is here to see that the law is enforced. They work up and down truck lines and miss few of them.

Enforcement of the new law has begun just as the Panhandle is crowded with out-of-state truckers here for the wheat harvest.

A delegation of local wheat growers has protested to county authorities against enforcement of the law.

In some cases, wheat growers have paid the registration fee for truckers in order to keep the angry drivers from pulling out.

Texas Tech To Close Offices And Classrooms For July 4

179 Oil Wells Finished In Week; Brings Year's Total To 4,213

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP)—Completion of 179 oil wells this week ran the year's total to 4,213 compared with 3,409 a year ago.

The railroad commission reported 16 gas well completions. The 1949 total of 344 is slightly ahead of last year's 303.

There were 83 dry holes.

Wildcat operations brought in eight wells, two gassers, and 43 dry holes.

Ninety-nine wells were plugged, 82 of them dry, and 17 oil.

Australia is about the same size as the United States.

Rachal Man Shot To Death; Judged Suicide By Inquest

FALFURRIAS, June 25. (AP)—Paul C. Diffie, 37, was found shot to death in his trailer house at Rachal, Thursday night.

Justice of the peace Benito Cantu of Encion, who conducted an inquest, returned a verdict of death by self-inflicted gunshot wounds.

Rachal, where Diffie lived, is 26 miles south of here on highway 281.

Diffie was a pipefitter and had worked at a recycling plant in Star county until the day before his death.

Fracture Of Big Toe Results In $12,500 Suit By Seamen

NORFOLK, Va., June 25. (U.P.)—A seaman has put a $12,500 price tag on a fractured big toe.

Daniel R. Leary filed suit asking that amount in United States district court here. He said part of a loading rig fell on his toe while he was helping load a ship in Genoa, Italy.

He said he had stood watch during the return trip to Baltimore without receiving treatment. He said he had been discharged in Baltimore, still without getting treatment.

He asked the court for $7,500 damages for the fractured toe, and $5,000 as payment for the suffering he said he endured.

Three Bands To Offer Program At Texas Tech Concert Tuesday

The third in a series of summer band concerts presented by the summer band clinic at Texas Technological college will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday evening on the lawn just north of the band building at the college.

Three separate bands will offer a program of marches and overtures. An additional attraction to the third concert will be a cornet solo by John James Haynie of Cisco and a clarinet solo by Don Shelton of Hobbs, N.M.

Japanese Company Prepares To Place New 'Electronically' Aged Whiskey On Market

By PETER KALISCHER
United Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, June 25 — Japanese "Scotch" whiskey "aged" 15 years in 12 minutes will soon be on the market here. Its makers claim you can't tell their product from the genuine article.

I watched a batch of the brew mellow yesterday and sampled it as it got older. It certainly did get smoother.

Hajime Hoshi, 74-year-old pharmaceutical tycoon and member of the upper house of councillors, took me to his laboratory and technicians demonstrated his patented method of synthetically manufacturing whiskey by the induction method.

Gives Three Choices

Hoshi started with a colorish solution of 60 per cent water and 40 per cent sweet potato alcohol, which he poured into a battered three-gallon blue-enamel container. Inside the container were two zinc plates from which two wires extended to a transformer with enough switches sticking out to split an atom.

"What do you want—Scotch, bourbon or rye," Hoshi asked me.

I said Scotch.

"Then we must use darker coloring," Hoshi said.

An assistant measured out the contents of five beakers into a container. The beakers contained glucose-glycerine, acid coloring and something he called essence.

Whiskey Grows Darker

The assistant stirred the mixture with a ladle, then poured me a shot glass full.

"You must taste it raw so you can tell the difference when it is aged," Hoshi said.

I downed the pale amber-colored liquid. It paralyzed my taste buds and sense of discretion.

At a signal from Hoshi, another assistant began snapping switches on a transformer. There was a faint buzzing sound and a red light glowed.

I looked at the whiskey, which now began "aging." It seemed to be getting darker.

Drink Grows Smooth

A third assistant stood nearby with a stop-watch and at intervals called time, whereupon the current was shut off to allow the brew "to rest."

Just when to shut it off and when to turn it on is the secret formula, the white-haired Hoshi, a graduate of New York's Columbia university class of 1901, explained.

After six minutes, the "aging" assistant ladeled another shot which was now three and a half years "old."

It tasted smoother than the first drink. Anything would.

Two minutes later I downed a ten-year-old shot and very soon after that a jigger of the real 15-year-old stuff.

S-m-o-o-t-h!

We adjourned to Hoshi's home to celebrate the event. I told Hoshi it was as epoch-making as Whitney's invention of the cotton gin.

"I never knew you could make gin that way," Hoshi said.

Only One Of Triplet Girls Born In McAllen Survive

McALLEN, June 25 (AP)—Only one of the triplet daughters born Thursday to the Pablos Borjas of McAllen was alive today.

She is tiny Maria De Jesus, who weighed two pounds 12 ounces at birth. The last to die was Maria De Uz, who succumbed last night.

Maria De Jesus is in an incubator at the McAllen hospital. Mrs. Borjas' condition today was satisfactory.

Navy To Test Missile Models At Speeds Up To 7,000 MPH

By JAMES J. STREBIG
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 25—The Navy plans to test missile models at speeds of 7,000 miles an hour or more—twice the speed reached by weapons like the V-2, and 10 times the speed of sound.

The test models will be tiny. Their outside diameter, including fins, will be only about four-fifths of an inch. They will be fired from a 20 MM. cannon barrel in a 313-foot closed tube at the White Oak, Md., Naval Ordnance laboratory.

Can Test Performance

By varying the pressure in the tube, it will be possible to calculate accurately the performance of the full scale weapon.

A scientist described the new facility—(it's called an ero-ballistic range)—as "a link between the wind tunnel and reality."

The range itself is just being tested. It may be two months or more before model tests can be started.

The importance of the range, scientists explained, is that a model can be run through a series of tests under varied conditions to double-check the results of wind tunnel studies. Only one set of conditions for each speed is possible in a wind tunnel.

To Be Timed

The tiny, speeding model will be timed and photographed at 25 points on its course. Timing is done to one ten-millionth of a second.

Only models of designs already proved to be stable in wind tunnel tests, where the model is fixed and the air moves past it, will be used in the range. Plans call for tests of shell and missile designs at actual speeds up to ten times that of sound, which at sea level is 763 miles an hour.

Navy officials, in announcing details today, said the White Oak range is unmatched anywhere. It has been three years in construction.

The tube is three feet in diameter, has one-inch thick steel plate, and weighs 100 tons.

The Navy has tried to think of everything, for instance:

The long room in which it rests will be kept within a fraction of a degree of temperature to avoid variations in range length due to contraction and expansion.

Two Doctors And One Nurse Added To Amherst Hospital

AMHERST, June 25. (Special)—A number of additions to the staff of the Amherst Co-operative hospital have been announced by hospital officials.

They include Dr. A. M. Finlay of Brady, a senior medical student at the University of Texas school of medicine in Galveston, who is working as an interne this summer; and J. W. Flinn of Clovis, N. M., pre-medical student at Baylor university, Waco, who is spending the summer months as an assistant X-ray technician.

Mrs. Jeanne Cargile, R.N., Fort Worth, has been named superintendent of nurses at the hospital. she is to assume her duties here about July 1.

Mrs. Cargile formerly was a nurse with the Red Cross.

Gambling Charges Against CIO-UAW Local To Be Aired

DETROIT, June 25. (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers said today that the affairs of its Paterson, N. J., local, including two-year-old charges of gambling and racketeering, would be aired at the UAW convention in Milwaukee next month.

The UAW's comments followed publication of a New York Times story that the 1947 UAW international executive board had suppressed a report on the gambling and racketeering charges.

The UAW restricted its formal comment to a statement that "the union does not want to go any further than to say the affairs of local 669 will be discussed at Milwaukee in July."

Storm Center Of Union

Well-informed union sources said, however, that the Paterson local had been one of the storm centers of the UAW in recent years. A mass removal of its officers took place in 1945.

The Times said the suppressed report purported to show a link between many of the officers of the Paterson local and gambling and racketeering interests in New Jersey.

The Times said the report was made by a special UAW committee on March 21, 1947 but that it was suppressed by the executive board. UAW President Walter P. Reuther was a minority member of that board at the time.

According to the Times, a UAW group opposed to Reuther issued a pamphlet several weeks ago in which parts of the suppressed reports appeared.

Copies of neither the pamphlet nor the report were available at UAW headquarters.

The report grew out of developments at the UAW's 1946 international convention at which the then President R. J. Thomas was ousted by Reuther.

Thomas, in one of his final acts as president, told the convention that "racketeers and hoodlums had threatened the lives of delegates" from Paterson and he named a special committee to probe the matter.

The committee spent several months in its investigation and at one time reported to the UAW board that it had found one case of intimidation of a delegate.

Thomas, together with former Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes and other anti-Reuther members of the board, continued the investigation of the Paterson situation and the 1947 report resulted.

Both Thomas and Addes subsequently lost their offices in the UAW and the Paterson committee became inactive.

UAW sources indicated today that another committee would probe the Paterson affair to determine if there was any present basis for the gambling and racketeering charges.

Former Officer Denies Selling 'Influence'

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—James V. Hunt, self-termed management counselor, denied today ever trying to sell "influence" in getting government contracts and branded as a "liar" anyone who says he did.

Hunt, a former lieutenant colonel, declared he would welcome a congressional investigation of charges by Paul Grindle, Massachusetts manufacturer, published in the New York Herald Tribune Tuesday

Statement Issued

He issued a statement — his first since the charges were made —declaring his job was to serve as a Washington representative of small businessmen who otherwise would find it impossible to get government business.

"Anyone who says that I even offered to get him government contracts through 'influence' is a liar and that includes Paul Grindle," Hunt's statement began.

A Senate investigation subcommittee headed by Senator Hoey (D-NC) has announced it will make a complete investigation of the Hunt case and activities of the so-called "five per centers" in general.

Said Hoey:

"Fees which are wholly unrelated to reimbursement for work performed logically must be based on a tacit understanding that some worthwhile conniving will take place."

Seagraves C. C. Names New Officers; Osborn Heads Group

SEAGRAVES, June 25. (Special) Gene Osborn was named president of the Seagraves Junior Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held recently at the community building here.

Other officers named at the meeting included Dr. R. B. Dunivan, first vice president; Lon Baucum, second vice president; and Seth Martin, secretary-treasurer.

At the meeting, Horace Gearhart, head of the Lubbock Jaycees, spoke on the duties of club officers. Jim St. Clair, Jaycee state vice president from region 2 of the organization, talked on Jayceeism and explained the organization of the state Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A board composed of Claudie Lyle, Bill Schroeder, and G. L. Smith, jr., was named to draw up by-laws for the Seagraves club.

BANDITS MISS CASH

NEW DELHI (U.P.)—Bandits held up a bank in Ahmedabad as 500,000 rupees (about $150,000) was being loaded into a truck at the front door, but escaped with the wrong box. Bank officials said the gunmen, leaving the cash behind, sped away by automobile with a huge box of account books.

SEAL DESIGNED FOR TEACHING PROFESSION—Miss Flora McReynolds, a teacher in the Ada, Okla., school system, has designed a seal she hopes will be adopted by the teaching profession throughout the United States. The seal is being considered by teachers associations in 17 states. (NEA Telephoto.)

Heart Attack Claims Duval County Judge

ALICE June 25. (AP) — Judge Dan Tobin, 52, of San Diego, Tex., died from a heart attack in a hospital here last night.

He was county judge of Duval county for 1 3years, and was a long-time resident of San Diego.

He was at the Physicians and Surgeons hospital here when he died.

Funeral services are scheduled tomorrow at San Diego.

Judge Tobin's public career began in 1919, when he became deputy sheriff.

After a few years, he was elected sheriff, and continued in that post until 1935.

He had been county judge since his election in 1935.

He was active in county political circles.

A brother, J. A. Tobin, is one of the Duval county commissioners.

Highway Project Is Facing Delay

department providing for the widening and paving of Nineteenth from College to Texas avenues.

The agreement stipulated that the city would expedite the opening of Nineteenth from Texas to Ave. A, thus completing Nineteenth as an east-west thoroughfare through the city.

The agreement also stated that the highway department would pave Avenue A to a width of 75 feet with the understanding that the city would provide a 90-foot right-of-way within five years.

Highway Sets Up Budget

The agreement was signed by C. A. Bestwick, then mayor of Lubbock, representing the city; and by D. C. Greer, state highway engineer John S. Reddick, chairman, and Fred E. Knetsch and Fred Wemple, members of the highway commission.

Under the master plan for the highway dispersal system, highway department officials were anxious to obtain one north-south artery and one east-west artery as soon as possible.

The Avenue Q extensions provide the north-south artery, and Nineteenth street would provide the east-west artery.

In the highway department's budget for fiscal 1950, which begins July 1, $446,000 is set up to finance paving of Nineteenth from Texas to Ave. A, and from A on to the curve on East Broadway, which it is to join.

The city still has approximately $95,000 left out of a $600,000 bond issue voted in 1945 to obtain right-of-ways.

Heavy Cost Seen

It is estimated that the Nineteenth street right-of-way alone would cost well in excess of $200,000.

The problem is one of many facing city commissioners, who have begun study of the largest budget in Lubbock's history and are seeking means to finance ever-increasing demands for municipal services and extensions.

Being studied was the possibility that the right-of-way financing might be solved by a county-wide bond issue, since the through highway would be of benefit to the entire county.

Yet to be done on the highway system is more than half of the dollar volume of work — approximately $1,417,000.

Completed projects in the dispersal system include Nineteenth from Texas to College, at a cost of $207,000; Nineteenth from College to the Brownfield highway, $84,200; Ave. Q from Twenty-first to Thirty-fourth, $83,600; east city limits to U. S. Highway 62, $71,400. The projects total $446,200.

In March, 1948, contracts were awarded on the following work: from the traffic circle to Thirty-fourth and Ave. Q; and Fourth street from Ave. Q to College avenue. The three jobs were let on contracts totaling $316,400. Also awarded was the Crosbyton branch underpass north of the city at a cost of $200,800; and the highway from East Broadway and Ave. A to the Amarillo highway, 3.3 miles, at a cost of $340,000.

Civilian Control

full-time, operating civil defense office under the secretary of defense.

President Truman indicated his distaste for such military supervision in March.

Steelman quoted Mr. Truman today in announcing the new plans. The President, he said, has asked for "planning and preparation for civil defense in the event of war, rather than the peacetime operation of a full-scale civil defense program."

Mobilization Planned

Meantime, officials said, NSRB can be expected to resume active work on mobilization plans for every industry. It also has charge of preparing an emergency war powers bill—complete with price control, priorities and seizure power—for quick action by Congress in case of war.

Under the new system, Steelman said, the military establishment will have responsibility for planning only one phase of civilian participation in defense—protection "against armed attack."

This will include air raid warning and detection systems, auxiliary harbor and other defenses, camouflage, shelter construction and other "physical" measures.

Other Agencies Included

The Federal Works agency, under Jess Larson, was ordered to develop the program of wartime disaster relief. This covers joint military-civilian efforts to minimize the results of atomic or other attack on populations and plants and to handle repair of damage and injury.

The other agencies given roles in the program were listed by Steelman as follows:

Federal Security agency, Atomic Energy commission, the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Interior, Treasury and Justice; and such other agencies as may be added if need arises.

To Coordinate Activities

Each agency, in addition, is charged with drawing up estimates of manpower, materials and supplies which may be needed by the industries under their jurisdiction in a period of conversion to war.

The NSRB itself will not only coordinate planning among these agencies, but will become the clearing house between the federal government and the civil defense organizations of states, cities and professional and industrial organizations.

William A. Gill, now NSRB's director of mobilization procedures and organization, was named by Steelman as temporarily in charge of coordination.

Road Construction Nearing Completion

FLOYDADA, June 24. (Special)—Construction on 26 miles of hard surface roads to Lone Star, Sterley, and Sand Hill, which had been delayed by the weather for some time, is nearing completion near here.

The workers are from 50 to 60 days behind their anticipated completion of the job. The roads were intended to be completed about the first of June.

Contractors are working on about $50,000 worth of street paving in Floydada at the present time.

Another contract for a little less than 14 miles of hard surface roads has been awarded to Cooper & Woodruff, contractors. The roads are to run from state highway 207 to Center, Fairview, and Cedar Hill.

James M. Potts, resident engineer for the state highway department, has supervision of the job.

Harvest Resumed

per cent of expectations. Spring hail, wind, and rust damage had taken its toll. Showers continued to delay the harvest. Yields were running five to 18 bushels an acre, averaging around 10 bushels.

Prices Affected

Nationally, wheat prices were affected Saturday by an Agriculture department statement that damage in the Southwest had not been large. On the Chicago Board of Trade wheat closed 1½-3⅛ lower. Other grains also tended lower.

The department said in a report that stem rust and other plant diseases had caused little damage so far this year to the crop in principal producing areas.

It said "much confusion" had resulted from reports of outbreaks of minor diseases, especially in Kansas.

Rains Thursday and Friday nights had caused harvest delays in the Panhandle counties of Carson, Gray, Roberts, Hutchinson, Sherman, Moore, and Hartley. No damage to grain was reported.

Crews Return To Work

But as the fields dried out crews went back to work. They were expected to resume in Moore and Hartley today.

Texas Employment commission reports showed this situation: Harvest 60 to 90 per cent complete in Wheeler, Hemphill, Floyd, Motley, Hale, Collingsworth, Childress and Donley counties; half through in Swisher, Briscoe; 30 to 40 per cent complete in Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb and Roberts.

Hot, dry days, coupled with enough men and machines were bringing the harvest near completion in the South Plains area about Lubbock.

Spotty showers in the plains have been light. No grain damage was reported and all fields were dry enough to work. A report from Brownfield said the storage situation there was excellent.

Movement of holdover milo of 2,000,000 bushels to handle Terry and Lynn county grain was in good shape. No grain was going on the ground in the immediate Lubbock area—though there was ground storage in some other sections of the wheat belt.

Wheat at San Angelo was testing 53 to 59 pounds a bushel. Sixty pounds is considered good wheat. The cash price at San Angelo was $1.65 to $1.67 a bushel—about 20 cents below the government loan figure there.

The department of Agriculture's report was issue das the grain markets reacted to unofficial estimates of extensive damage. It said some leaf rust, virus diseases, black chaff, scab, glume blotch, and other diseases which appear every year had been found. But little of more destructive stem rust has been reported.

It said infestations of leaf rust were very heavy west of the Mississippi, but the damage is not likely to be material because the disease developed late. The department said it may be limited to some areas in northeast Kansas and northwest Missouri north of Kansas City.

WHEAT HARVEST REACHES FINAL STRETCH IN AREA

The wheat harvest over the South Plains was in the "final stages" this weekend, it was indicated Saturday night.

Hale county officials said the harvest there was from 80 to 90 per cent completed. Small farms are about all that remain to be harvested in the county. Scattered rains have hampered the cutting briefly the past few days. Grain is average testing 60.5 pounds to the bushel in the county, C. C. Keller of the Plainview grain exchange said.

In Lynn county, 25 per cent of the ground is being used to plant grain sorghum and the rest for cotton, it was said. Some of the cotton was damaged by winds Friday night. Most of Floyd county has completed the wheat harvest, a little late wheat remaining to be cut. Other counties reported similar conditions.

fan, a tire, tube and wheel, and several tools.

Eldon S. Coats, 27, was fined $500 and costs of $22.40 in a judgment signed Saturday by County Judge Walter Davies. Coats, a former policeman who had been discharged by Chief of Police Lewis Kittress after service approximating six months, was arrested by the police Friday morning and charged with transportation of beer.

and so did Thornton's 1948, four-door motor car. Police yesterday traced the couple to Hinton Junction, Okla., and Elk City, Okla.

New Controls On Cotton Proposed

wide conference of cotton interests held at Memphis, Tenn., as well as recommendations of other major farm groups and the Department of Agriculture.

Anderson expects the new cotton program to become law at this session of Congress.

Under it Secretary Brannan would be expected to proclaim cotton quotas by October 15 of this year with a secret ballot conducted among cotton farmers by November 15.

The committee today approved another bill expanding the present federal crop insurance program already approved by the House.

MORE PRODUCTS ADDED TO 'TEST RUN' REQUEST

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Senators said today they have been asked to expand a proposed "test run" on the new administration farm program to take in milk, eggs, potatoes and wool, as well as pork.

Chairman Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) of the Senate Agriculture committee told a reporter the request came from Agriculture department officials.

Originally Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, sponsor of the proposed new farm pricing plan, selected hogs for the experiment this year because of indicated large numbers of pigs and ample corn to feed them.

Brannan's program would allow prices of perishable food and farm products to drop below previous price-support levels when supplies are large. The government would pay farmers subsidies to keep their income at previously calculated "fair levels."

Real Test Sought

"But there would be no real test this year if hog prices stayed above support levels," Thomas said. "So department officials have asked us to add the others to the list."

A subcommittee headed by Senator Gillette (D-Ia) already is conducting hearings on the proposed test program for hogs.

Thomas disclosed that beef producers have protested against limiting a trial of Brannan's plan to pork alone.

"They fear that if pork prices drop and there is a large production of hogs that this will adversely affect both prices and demands for beef cattle," Thomas said. "I think they are wrong because if the demand and consumption of pork increases, the prices will go up."

Senator Aiken (R-Vt), ranking GOP member of the agriculture committee, indicated he may oppose selecting certain farm products for the test.

"I don't think Congress would be wise in singling out any farm product," he said. "That is a job for the secretary of agriculture depending upon varying conditions."

Texas Legislature

conference committee reports was believed a certainty.

May Set Record

Nevertheless, Manford re-affirmed his belief today that a special session will have to be held and new taxes passed before the next regular session in January, 1951.

Even though the House and Senate may reach agreement on finances next week, this session is likely to go beyond the 171-day record set by the 47th Legislature in 1941.

The 51st session was 166 days old today, making it the second longest on record. The 46th in 1939 previously held that distinction with 163 days.

Final versions of the money bills that have to be passed before adjournment were expected from conference committees Monday and Tuesday. The Senate has already approved a resolution calling for June 28, Tuesday, as the last day. But House leaders have said no, let's have a look at the money bills before we agree on a quitting day.

Finances Cause Delay

It was generally reported that sharp cuts in new state services has brought the money bills within shooting distance of budget-balancing, except for the hospital and other buildings. The conference committees have not yet announced definite figures.

Final settlement of the fiscal problem was the key question for the last days of the session, but it faced several other issues that could bring delay.

The House apparently was snagged on the driver responsibility bill; the question of a constitutional amendment to lift the old age pension ceiling was still in conference committee; no final action has been taken on the bill revamping the state's system of handling juvenile delinquents.

Another was the question of changing the dates for submission of a big batch of constitutional amendments. The Senate approved a resolution changing it from Sept. 24 to Nov. 8. The House had some doubt over legality of this and asked the Attorney general for an opinion before acting.

controlled rail directorate.

A previous offer by strikers to move traffic in the paralyzed city on an emergency, non-pay basis while the walkout continued had failed to get any support except from the Americans.

The western commanders said the strikers returning to work would be guaranteed 100 per cent pay in West marks for three months. But under the long-range plan endorsed by the Russians the workers would get only 60 per cent in West marks, which are four times as valuable as the Soviet-issued East marks.

China Report Studied

letter to President Truman, signed by 15 Republicans and six Democrats. They asked assurances that the United States would not recognize the Chinese Communist regime and would continue to support the Nationalist government:

Acheson Faces Problems

Diplomatic authorities agree that Acheson faces three major questions:

1. Can the American government now tell its side of the post-war Chinese conflict without being accused of pulling the rug from under the battered Chinese Nationalists?

2. Should the United States recognize a Nationalist blockade of the Communist-held China coast and halt American shipping to the affected ports?

3. Should the United States recognize a Communist government in China?

On the blockade issue, experts on international law say that the Chinese Nationalist government at Canton need not be considered to have declared a blockade in a legal sense. The Chinese government's notice of June 20 never used the word. It said rather that a section of the China coast "shall be temporarily closed" and foreign vessels violating the decision after midnight of June 25 would be subject to prompt action by the Chinese government.

In the matter of recognition, informants said the situation is little less complicated. There is no Chinese Communist government now and none is expected to be set up—by the Communists' own announcements—before next fall. Thus there is no government to recognize.

TRUMAN IS URGED NOT TO RECOGNIZE CHINESE REDS

WASHINGTON, June 24 (INS)—A bi-partisan group of 21 senators today called upon President Truman for assurances that the United States will not recognize the Communist regime in China.

"Any such policy would appear to be inconsistent with the position this government took in Greece and Turkey when the Truman doctrine was enunciated and by reports" that the U. S. government is contemplating recognition of the Chinese Communists. They said:

The 18 Republican and five Democrat senators told the President they are "greatly concerned with the substantial support we have given through the Marshall plan to the nations of western Europe and with the North Atlantic pact against aggression in western Europe.

"Communist control of China means the ultimate negation of the open door trade policy; loss of freedom and independence in a real sense for the people of China and a major victory for international Communism with a corresponding threat to the national security of the United States."

Three Persons Escape Injury In Two Traffic Mishaps Here

Drivers of a truck and a car involved in a collision at the intersection of Seventh and Ave J. Saturday afternoon escaped injury although the truck was overturned, and the car damaged when it wedged against a telephone pole.

Police reports indicated that the truck, driven by Samuel R. Sawyers, 29, of 201 Hub Homes, was going north on Ave. J when it hit the car, driven by Joe W. Brown, 40, of Brownfield, in the left side, knocking it into the pole.

Brown was given a ticket for failure to grant right of way.

Joe Anderson, 37, Lubbock negro, was fined $30 and released by city police after pleading guilty to charges arising from a collision of his car and a Santa Fe train at the Nineteenth street crossing about 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Anderson was not injured. The car, a 1937 Chevrolet sedan, was damaged on the right rear side.

The driver was charged with having no driver's license, failure to grant right-of-way, and failure to leave information at the scene of an accident.

TEXAS BRIGHT SPOT

DALLAS, June 25. (AP) — The head of the world's largest real estate board said today Texas and California are now the nation's best business spots. Philip M. Rea, president of the 1,500-member Los Angeles realty board said here there is no reason for a depression, although business men are concerned about taxation and government interference with private enterprise.

Thunderstorms Hit

did little damage.

This was the situation as reported by the Associated Press:

Waco area pastures benefited by the heavy rain which sent high water down streets, curb-high. Cotton in the Waco area is too young to be hurt.

Lightning set fire to a large Magnolia crude oil tank at Hodge station farm on Fort Worth's outskirts. Damage was estimated at $50,000. The tank blazed for several hours.

For the Laredo area, the storm ended two days of heat, topped by 109 Friday. The storm also helped crops and ranges.

Dallas had 1.29 inches of rain in the 24 hours ending at Saturday morning. Residents were awakened by crashing thunder. The Trinity river rose five feet.

Some Fort Worth streets and low-lying residential areas were flooded by Fort Worth's 2.67 inches of rain in 24 hours.

Lightning Strikes House

At Waco, where 1.32 inches fell, lightning struck a new house on which nine men were working. They said it sounded "like someone was dumping tubs of bricks on the floors."

The cold front moving across the state kept temperatures below usual levels.

Alice, in the coastal bend country, had a maximum of 95, compared with yesterday's 106. Thunderstorms brought intermittent rains there. Lightning splintered a utilities pole at Alice.

The maximum at Port Arthur was 89, but the humidity made it feel like the hottest day of the year. A forecast of thundershowers hinted at some relief.

Showers to good rains continued for the second day in the East Texas section near Athens. They were good for crops, especially corn.

Sandstorm Hits Midland

Midland skies were clear. High winds, a sand storm, and light rains struck that section Friday night.

A few thunderstorms were reported Saturday night in the Austin, San Antonio and Laredo areas.

West Texas had both high and low maximum temperatures for the day. Presidio was the hottest place, with 104 degrees. Wink had a 101-degree reading. Guadalupe Pass recorded 86 degrees, the low maximum. Marfa had an 88. Both Del Rio, in West Texas, and Palestine, in West Texas, had 89-degree readings. Elsewhere temperatures were in the nineties.

Pennsylvania Amish Churchman Leaves Numerous Descendants

MORGANTOWN, Pa., June 25 (U.P.)—Nearly all of the 105 grandchildren and 151 great-grandchildren of Bishop Samuel S. Stoltzfus, of the "House Amish" church, attended his funeral services.

Bishop Stoltzfus, a leader of the people who shun autos, electric lights and buttons on their clothes, died at the age of 89, leaving 274 descendants. He was buried in a little cemetery near the school house on Maxwell Hill, where all but nine of the 33 pupils were given the day off to attend the services. The 24 pupils bore the name Stoltzfus.

Man Found Dead

home at San Angelo, where the officer was stationed at Goodfellow field.

Efforts were being made Saturday afternoon by Mrs. McDonald to locate her husband's parents. She was uncertain where the father, a regular Army colonel, was located, and asked the adjutant general's department to assist her. Two brothers, she said, are West Point graduates. Their whereabouts, too, had not been determined.

Services Not Set

Funeral arrangements are pending communications with those relatives, McDonald Funeral home said.

The porter of the lodge, in 2700-block North Sixth, discovered the body after he failed to arouse Mr. McDonald and so raised a window and entered. The clothing had $697.84 in it and a bank deposit slip of $1,200.

Mr. McDonald had registered at the lodge Thursday.

He last was reported seen alive late Friday when he went to a nearby service station to make a telephone call, officers said.

He had been dead several hours when the body was discovered, Justice Lynn was informed.

Houston Holdup

Lona Edwards, a teller, was temporarily absent.

Mrs. Edwards returned to her cage a few seconds later to find Sewell inside, and the bandit standing at the window.

"This man wants your money," Sewell told Mrs. Edwards.

'How much?" Mrs. Edwards asked.

"Open your drawer and get it all out," the robber said, showing Mrs. Edwards his pocketed hand.

Mrs. Edwards tossed five bundles of large bills on the counter, along with some loose currency.

The robber scooped up the money and dashed out the door, colliding with a bank customer.

There were six bank customers and a number of employes in the bank at the time.

Charge Of Assault Of Minor Filed Against Dona Ana County Sheriff

LAS CRUCES, June 25. (INS)—Charges of rape and attempted seduction of a minor were leveled against Dona Ana county sheriff A. H. Apodaca by a grand jury today.

At the same time, justice of the peace Ramon Duran was indicted for embezzlement.

The grand jury also instituted civil proceedings to remove the men from office. Ten counts were listed against Apodaca in the civil suit, which will be heard July 1.

Apodaca's alleged "mishandling" of the investigation into the slaying of 18-year-old Ovita Coogler March 31 has been the subject of deliberations by the grand jury. The jury was called by petition of Dona Ana county residents after the death of the Las Cruces waitress remained unsolved.

Polio Claims Two

says September is the peak month for polio.

Dr. Cox said polio is puzzling because:

"It turns up where we don't expect it; age groups in which it predominates may vary from year to year; you think you have a definite conclusion, and then something happens and you have to throw it out."

First Case At Midland

Nancy Grace McGill was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McGill, who live on a ranch 20 miles from Rankin.

Midland's first polio case was Kathry Jean Rodgers, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rodgers of Midland. She was taken to the polio center at Abilene.

Dr. Cox gave this report on San Angelo's first 100 cases:

Almost a half were under 5 years of age. About three-fourths were under 9; fifty-six were males; 44 females; 92 cases were reported from city residences; only eight from rural areas.

The three new cases at Fort Worth brought the number there for the year to 35.

San Antonio's four new cases brought the total there for the year to 85.

The coastal city of Galveston has been spraying with DDT steadily since April. It had used 11,500 gallons. It had a citywide cleanup in May. There had been only two cases in Galveston since Jan. 1. Beaumont had no cases under treatment; only two for the year to date, neither fatal.

DDT Spraying Set

Eight had died at San Antonio this year. That city already had conducted a vigorous spraying and cleanup campaign. So had San Angelo.

Lt. Col. Robert Cheney, commanding officer of the 181st, and Maj. William J. Erck, maintenance and engineering officer, will fly the two planes as they lay a cloud of DDT vapor on Wichita Falls today. They will take off from Hensley field, Grand Prairie about 8 a. m. Both pilots are from Dallas.

Mopping up spray operations are scheduled Tuesday as Wichita Falls business sections get a thorough cleaning. Wichita Falls' polio figure for the year already ties the all time record of 23 cases set in 1943. The death yesterday was the first this year.

Burkburnett, Electra, Iowa Park and other Wichita county communities were making plans to tie in with the Wichita Falls drive.

Three radio stations and the Wichita Falls newspapers are cooperating in a joint program to raise $10,000 in contributions to finance the cleaning up operation.

Ector county's new case was Mrs. G. G. Eubanks, 30. Three cases had been reported at Odessa Friday: A. D. McClung, Mrs. R. T. Rich, and Mildred Wilson, 14, daughter of Dr. C. E. Wilson. Mildred was sent to Parkland hospital at Dallas. Others were receiving treatment at home.

The Crane county victim was Charlie Poteet, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Poteet of Crane. He was flown to San Angelo in a private plane for treatment.

NO CASES OF POLIO REPORTED IN LUBBOCK

Lubbock apparently has continued to escape the dreaded polio which has struck at numerous points over the state, a survey of local hospitals indicated Saturday night, although cases have been brought here from other towns for treatment.

Robert Young, jr., five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Young, sr., of Matador, was undergoing treatment last night in Lubbock Memorial hospital for what attendants said was a light case of polio. He entered the hospital Tuesday. Earlier this month, a Jeanette Roth, age 5, of Seguin, believed to be a visitor here, was treated and dismissed for a light case, it was said.

An extensive cleanup campaign here has been given credit for helping keep the disease down.

Judge Throws Book At Soldier On Drunken Driving Charge

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 25. (U.P.)—When it rained on Thorpe T. Cooper, it poured.

Cooper, a soldier at Camp Carson, was found guilty by Police Judge C. H. Babcock and the results were:

1. Drunken driving, $250.
2. Reckless driving, $150.
3. Damaging city property, $1.50.
4. His right to drive in the city was suspended.
5. His right to drive in the state was suspended.
6. He was sent to jail for inability to pay his fines.
7. As he walked to the jail cell, a lawyer served a divorce summons to the hapless soldier.

Abilene Man Is Claimed By Polio

PLAINVIEW, June 25 (Special)—Thomas Canon, 34, of Abilene, died of poliomyelitis at 10 a. m. today in the West Texas Polio center. It was the second death in the polio center this season.

Canon, a block foreman for Western Compress company at Abilene, was with a wheat combining crew at Tulia when he became ill Thursday. His illness was diagnosed as bulbar polio a few hours after he was admitted to Plainview hospital and placed under oxygen.

Funeral rites will be held for Canon in Abilene Sunday.

He is survived by the mother, Mrs. Annie M. Canon; two brothers, S. J. Canon and Leon Canon; and two sisters, Mrs. H. M. McBeth and Mrs. B. B. Reeds, all of Abilene.

14 Under Treatment

Admittance of two patients to the polio center Friday brought to 14 the number of patients under treatment for polio here.

The two new patients are Judy Carol Burch, six-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Burch of Anton and Carmen Lee Hayes, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hayes of Dumas. Neither of the children are in a critical condition, attending physicians said.

Rachel Pinner, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Pinner of Lockney, died several days ago of polio here.

Only two of the 14 patients in the polio center are from Plainview. The West Texas Polio center is the only accredited polio treatment center within a wide radius and patients from Pampa, Borger and Amarillo are brought here.

Very few cases of polio have been reported or treated in Hale county.

A movement to purchase a $1,200 iron lung has been started here. Fire Chief A. M. Hamilton, Mrs. C. A. McClannahan, registered nurse at Plainview hospital, and Dr. E. O. Nichols, senior surgeon and founder of the Plainview hospital, have expressed the opinion that the iron lung is a community necessity.

Decisions Slated

Cormack, Mass., and Rep. Priest (D-Tenn) predicted passage of the housing bill by a 40 to 50 vote mapority. Republican opponents of the measure did not agree with their prediction.

McCormack forecast that the only changes in the House bill would be amendments by its author, Rep. Spence (D-Ky), to bring it in line with the Senate measure. The amendments have been approved by the House Democratic caucus.

One amendment would reduce the number of low-cost apartments from 1,050,000 in the House bill to the 810,000 in the Senate measure. The House bill calls for the construction in seven years, but the Spence amendment would shorten the period to six years, again to conform to the Senate legislation.

To Vote Tuesday

A second Spence amendment would extend for 60 days provisions of the national housing act expiring June 30. This act promotes private home construction through federal aid.

Lucas has introduced an amendment to knock the injunctive power out of the labor bill.

The Senate will first vote Tuesday on an amendment by Sen. Holland (D-Fla) which would insert the injunction power into the administration measure. This vote will come at 11 a.m. (CST) under a unanimous consent agreement.

It then will vote at noon on the Lucas amendment. Finally, at 1 p.m. the chamber is scheduled to vote on the Taft amendment.

Denison Girl Drowns In Lake Texhoma When Boat Overturns

DENISON, June 25. (AP)—Sally Seally, 15, of Denison, was drowned in Lake Texoma late today when the small boat in which she and three other teenagers were riding was swamped by a sudden squall.

The boat overturned and her three companions hung to the sides. Sally tried to swim to shore, about 60 yards away.

Two boys in the party swam after her but were unable to recover the body.

Searching parties later tonight still had not found the body.

SOME NAMES TO BE CHANGED

Street Naming Ordinance For Lubbock Passes First Reading

Establishment of an adequate method for the naming of streets within the corporate limits of Lubbock and within areas annexed to the city within the next few years, a street naming ordinance was passed at a first reading by City commissioners Thursday.

Passage of the ordinance will result in the changing of names of streets in a major portion of southwest Lubbock from Nineteenth street and College avenue, in the northwest section of the city, the Arnett-Benson area, and in the north, northeast and eastern portions of Lubbock.

In Numerical Order

The ordinance provides that naming of the streets will be as follows:

First street shall be that street lying on the north of Sanders addition to the City of Lubbock, the first street south thereof shall be known as Second street and continuing in numerical order southward, except that Eleventh street is named Main street and Twelfth street is named Broadway. This policy is the method now used in naming the east-west streets.

Names of the following short streets, ranging from one to several blocks long, are to be changed under the ordinance as finally approved. The changes will see Edna street changed to First Place, Sanders (Vivehorn) street to Second Place, Wolffarth (Cleveland) street to Third Place, Merritt to Fifth Place, Elwood to 22nd Place, Arnett to 24th Place and Hill street to 29th Place. These short streets are located between regular east-west streets in various sections of town.

East To College

The easternmost street as shown on the original plat of the town of Lubbock shall be called Avenue A and the street west will be Ave. B and the alphabetical sequence shall be continued until College avenue is reached, it being the avenue immediately east of Texas Technological college, except that Avenue "I" shall retain the name of Texas avenue. This is the same method as now followed in that particular area of Lubbock.

The streets north of First, under provisions of the ordinance, will be named alphabetically for colleges and universities and the streets within the corporate limits in the Arnett-Benson area will be changed as follows: Ruby street to Amherst street, North Second (Locust) to Auburn, Maple to Baylor, North Third (Elm) to Bates, Walnut to Cornell, North Fourth (Dallas) to Colgate, Allen to Dartmouth, North Fifth (Frances) to Duke, Merthel to Erskine and North Sixth to Emory.

West of Tech

The avenues west of College avenue will be named alphabetically for cities lying east of the Mississippi river and the following changes of names will be effected:

Washington avenue will be changed to Akron avenue, Adams to Boston, Jefferson to Canton, Madison to Detroit, Monroe to Elgin, Jackson to Flint, Van Buren to Gary, Price to Geneva, Harrison to Hartford, Tyler to Indiana, (not named) avenue to Ithaca, Polk to Joliet, Taylor to Knoxville, Fillmore to Louisville and Pierce to Memphis.

The avenues east of Ave. A will be named alphabetically for trees and avenues within the corporate limits will be changed as follows: East Avenue A to Ash avenue, East Ave. B to Birth, East Ave. C to Cedar, East Ave. D to Date, East Ave. E to Elm, East Ave. F to Fir, East Ave. G to Globe, East Ave. H to Hickory, East Ave. I to Ivory, East Ave. J to Juniper and East Ave. K to King.

Highway Names Given

The new highway from the intersection of Ave. Q and Third street northwesterly toward Clovis, N. M., and now known as Ave. Q northwest will be changed to Clovis road under the ordinance.

The proposed new highway from the intersection of Ave. Q and Third, now known as Ave. Q Northeast will be changed to Amarillo road.

In the naming of the avenues west of College avenue, which bear the names of cities in alphabetical order, the streets will be named in sequence until the alphabet is completed and thereafter the process will be repeated in the same sequence without giving any street a name previously given a street.

The same procedure will apply to the avenues east of Ave. A, named for trees, except that when the tree names are exhausted, plant names may be designated. Streets north of First street, given names of colleges and universities in alphabetical order, will follow the same procedure in naming.

Naming of the streets method was agreed on by a committee composed of city officials and business men, after the City Planning commission had recommended adoption of a naming plan.

Members of the committee, who conducted a hearing and later revised their own plan, were: K. N. Clapp, chairman; C. H. Cale, manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.; Postmaster Amos Howard; H. L. Allen, vice president of Southwestern Public Service Co.; C. I. Wall, vice president of West Texas Gas company; Ray Farmer, owner of City Cab company; J. L. Murfee, jr., and G. R. Kennedy, representing real estate and loan companies; W. W. Rix, funeral home owner; City Manager Steve Matthews, City Director of Public Works R. L. Oldham, Fire Chief W. E. Twitty and Police Chief Lewis Kittrell.

Overpopulated Nest Of Cobras Is Found By Merchant In India

NEW DELHI, June 25. (U.P.)—Hunting for a rupee note that fluttered into a dark cranny under his chair, a candy merchant in the village of Begusarai heard an angry hiss and withdrew his fingers quickly.

Cautious investigation with poles and lighted candles revealed a mass of writhing cobras, some newly hatched and some as long as 30 inches.

Villagers, summoned by the merchant's shouts, killed more than 100 snakes in the nest and destroyed about 150 eggs

Wary Husband Avoids Trouble With Hasty Call To Officers

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 25. (U.P.)—Eugene Jackson seems to believe in "police insurance."

Police got a telephone call from Jackson's house, went there, got Jackson, and booked him on a disorderly conduct charge.

In court the judge asked Jackson if he had anything to say for himself. He replied that "My wife and I were arguing, and I was afraid I was going to have trouble with her."

The judge asked if the wife was present to press the charge, and Jackson answered: "No, sir. You see, I was the one who called the police to come and get me."

"Case dismissed," the judge said.

Argentina, Britain To Sign Pact Monday

BUENOS AIRES, June 25 (AP)—The Argentine government announced today it will sign its five-year trade pact with Britain here on Monday.

The agreement has brought protests from the United States that it violates principles of multilateral trading puts United States exporters in an unfavorable position in Argentina.

President Juan D. Peron and British Ambassador Sir John Balfour will speak at the signing ceremony.

Under the agreement, Britain will supply the bulk of Argentina's imports, ranging from oil and coal to automobiles and whiskey. In exchange, the British will get an estimated 300,000 tons of meat, cereals and other supplies.

Police Superintendent Gets Back Talk Over Promotion

NEW ORLEANS, June 25. (AP)—It's back talk Police Superintendent Joseph Scheuering is getting these days.

Scheuering sent out an all-station teletype message yesterday on promotion of Sgt. Claiborne Trainer to the rank of lieutenant.

One by one the precincts acknowledged the message.

Then an anonymous precinct broke in with a three word message of its own:

"You are nuts."

BERLINERS HONOR CLAY—The name of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, former U. S. military governor in Germany, joins those of Kaiser Wilhelm and Bismark in the Berlin street directory. Here, Mayor Ernst Reuter points to the new street sign, "Clayallee" (Clay Avenue), during unveiling ceremonies. The street was formerly called "Kronprinzenallee."

Truman Expected To Name Woman Welfare Secretary If New Cabinet Post Is Okayed

By MARTHA KEARNEY
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The nation may soon have a woman cabinet officer again if President Truman's newly-proposed blueprint for a Welfare department is approved by Congress.

The first and only woman cabinet officer in the United States was Frances Perkins, now a civil service commissioner, who served as secretary of labor for 12 years in the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

New Post Pledged In 1948

During the last election campaign, however, both candidates for the presidency indicated that they would, if elected, create a new government agency devoted to social service carrying cabinet rank for its chief.

Both President Truman and New York Governor Thomas E. Dewey indicated that they would name a woman to this cabinet post.

The chief executive has given no hint so far of his choice for the important post of secretary of welfare There is a better than good chance, however, that it will be a woman.

Mrs. Mesta "Fails"

Perle Mesta didn't make it, but President Truman is expected to name a woman to the important post of ambassador to Denmark soon.

Mrs. Mesta, whose most publicized claim to farm is the title of number one hostess of the Truman administration, was nominated last week to be ambassador to little Luxembourg.

This was the first time a woman was ever chosen to be a United States ambassador.

Mrs. Anderson "Acceptable"

The Chief Executive, however, is expected to name Mrs. Eugene Anderson, of Redwing, Minn., to the immeasurably more important post of ambassador to Denmark.

The report was that Mrs. Mesta was to be given this post brought strenuous, if unofficial, protests from the Danes and the project was quietly abandoned.

Mrs. Anderson is understood to be acceptable to the Danish government.

Outside of the fact that Mrs. Anderson is the Democratic national committeewoman from Minnesota little is known about her in Washington.

Except that President Truman believes that she would be a happy choice for the diplomatic job in question.

Headaches, Shoulder, Leg Trouble

Case History No. 1917; Lady, age 33; symptoms: Severe headaches; pulling in neck; burning in shoulder; hurting in legs after headaches; right leg draws; kidney trouble; backaches; nervousness.

History of Accidents

Age 8 fell through roof of garage and also fell flat from skating; age 11 had car accident.

Came To Stephens Chiropractic Clinic

After treating the effects from various methods without relief she decided to come to the Stephens Chiropractic Clinic WHERE THE SO-CALLED HOPELESS DO GET WELL. The X-ray examination of her spine has shown that the vertebrae of her spinal column were badly distored. The Neurocalometer (nerve test) examination revealed the degree of nerve interference leading to her affected organs of her body. She was told what SPECIFIC CHIROPRACTIC could do for her and she begun a course of Scientific Chiropractic Service.

What Chiropractic Has Done For Her

After a course of Chiropractic Health Service this case is now a well person compared to the first time she came to the Clinic. Her headaches are a thing of the past. There is no more pulling in her neck; her shoulders are back to normal and her legs do not draw anymore. Her kidneys are better and she is not nervous as she was when she first came to the clinic. She says, "What a wonderful feeling it is to be free from pain and suffering by having the cause corrected instead of just treating the effects."

Hubs Sweep Series From Amarillo, Win Final Game 4-3

FAVORITE SUMMER PASTIME—Long recognized as America's National pastime, baseball has been brought nearer to the youngsters throughout the country through summer programs such as that offered by the American Legion Junior Baseball program. In Texas alone last year 432 teams were organized, and from this the number one team emerged as the state champion and qualified for the regional playoff which ultimately leads to the national championship. In District 2, which covers 18 counties in the Lubbock area, 13 teams have been organized and are currently in the midst of a campaign toward deciding the District 2 champion. Such scenes as those caught by the camera above are frequent occurrences in the games being played, and members of Lubbock Teams Number One and Two were used in the posed action shots. Lubbock Legion One is tied with Slaton in Group 3 of the district. Cotton Russell Stifles Sox On Seven Hits For Fifth Victory

Nelson Davis' Double In Fourth Drives In Runs That Gets Lead; Hubs Field Well

AMARILLO, June 25. (AP)—Lubbock's high-riding Hubbers swept their four-game series with the Amarillo Gold Sox here tonight as chunky little Cotton Russell gained his fifth triumph of the season with a 4-3 triumph.

The Hubber righthander was lucky to get out of this one. He issued only seven hits to the Soxers, but doled out 10 bases on balls and hit two batters. Good fielding and pitching in the clutch saved Russell from his fourth defeat.

Charles Willis, Lubbock leftfielder put the Hubs ahead in the sixth canto when he doubled home Mike Dooley, who had smacked a two-bagger before him.

Lubbock got off to a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Nelson Davis doubled and came home on Bo Dempsey's single to center field. Amarillo bounced back in their half of the fourth to go ahead 2 to 1. Dick Gentzkow drew a base on balls, Russell hit Crawford Howard with a pitched ball and catcher Ted Clawitter blasted a double against the left center boards to clean the bases.

The Hubs tallied two in the fourth when Jackie Sullivan went to third on Jerry Folkman's two-base error of his high fly behind first. Al Duarte drew an intentional pass and Davis authored his second two-bagger of the evening.

Luke Hamilton went the route for the Soxers. Giving 10 bingles to the Hubbers while passing six.

Crane Oilers Trounce Sunbeamer Nine Twice

Denham Hurls Twin Win, 5-3, 4-0; Locals Knocked Out Of First Spot

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

Red Denham, ace Texas Softball League pitcher for the Crane Oilers, knocked the Lubbock Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers completely out of first place last night at Jumbo Webster Field with a double victory, 5 to 3 and 4 to 0.

Denham's iron man stint was the second successful stunt in two weeks. Last Saturday night at Crane he turned back the Sunbeamers in both ends of a doubleheader and tonight's double victory gave him a record of five victories in six starts against the Lubbock nine this season.

Fans 11 Men

The carrot-thatched hurler, his fast ball hopping in the first game, fanned 11 to run his total to 106 for the year. He added eight more in the second game for a total of 114.

But for a fat pitch by Warren "Stringbeam" Pope in the seventh inning of the first game, the Sunbeamers might have won that contest. Denham came to bat with two out and no one on. He hit the first pitch over the leftfield fence and the game went into extra innings.

In the eighth, Lefty Wells singled and David Williams cracked out his fourth home run of the year and his second of the game. That was enough to give Crane the victory.

Earlier, the Sunbeamers had gone ahead 2-1 in the fifth when Wally Fowler doubled home Bryan Clark. Fowler's grounder took a bad hop past the second baseman and Clark scampered in. Tommy Moorehead previously had singled, gone to second on an error, stolen third and scored on Clark's fielder's choice.

The Sunbeamers went ahead in the sixth when Don Allen was safe on an error at first. He went to second on the play and scored easily on Charley Reynolds' double. That should have been the game, but Denham tied it up and Williams proceeded to win it.

In the nightcap, Crane scored once in the first on a pair of singles and an error, then broke loose for three runs off G. W. Warden in the fourth to clinch the victory. John Eppley was safe on an error and scored on Denham's single. Denham moved to second on the throw-in and went to third on Tony Deford's bingle. Wells scored Denham and when the ball was juggled in centerfield, Deford crossed the plate.

Cloverlake Dairy Wins Pair Of Softball Games Friday

PLAINVIEW, June 25. (Special)—Cloverlake Dairy of Lubbock won a pair of softball games here Friday night, defeating Murrell Furniture of Plainview 1-0 in the opener and taking the nightcap from Anthony's 6-5.

Before the doubleheader, the Worley Sweets of Plainview, a girls team, beat a girls team from Hale Center 6-3.

Bill Kizer allowed Cloverlake only three hits and fanned 11, but the winners were able to push over one run. Schulz for Cloverlake gave up four hits, but kept them scattered. In the nightcap, Cloverlake came from behind a 4-0 deficit to score twice in the first and four times in the sixth.

Plainview Opens New Golf Course

PLAINVIEW, June 25. (Special) Plainview Country club tomorrow will open its second nine hole golf course, giving the local club an 18-hole layout that is expected to be one of the toughest courses in West Texas.

The second, or back, nine will be 3,328 yards long with a par 36. The front nine currently is 3,021 yards long with a par 35, making the total course 6,349 yards long with a 35-36—71 par.

Hole No. 4 on the front nine has been shortened slightly, changing its par from five to four strokes. This also changed the par on the first nine from 36 to 35.

Work was started in earnest in April, with Bermuda grass sown on the fairways and bent grass on the greens. The Bermuda was planted just in time to receive the benefits from heavy rains and the fairways are in good shape.

But bent grass takes time to respond and golfers do not expect the second nine greens to be in top shape for upwards of two years. They are playable, but rough, at the present time. Artificial tees will be used by golfers on the fairways on the second nine until the grass has taken hold in good shape.

Gene Mitchell, golf professional at the club here, played the new nine hole course this week and pronounced it fit enough on which to play, even though the greens aren't in the best of condition yet. He said that the additional nine holes, along with minor other changes, has made the course difficult. And the second nine, according to Mitchell, is tougher than the first.

The course will be well watered, with pipes running from tee to green on all 18 holes. It is one of the most complete watering systems in West Texas.

No formal opening will be held Sunday, but there probably will be a formal opening later. Because of the heavy golf demands this spring and summer, club directors thought it best to open the additional nine holes immediately.

Credit is being given to E. M. Carter, president of the local country club, who has spent a great deal of time and hard work on changing the course from nine to 18 holes.

Cats Set Down Houston, 13-4

FORT WORTH, June 25 (AP)—The Houston Buffs scored three runs in the first inning here tonight but the Fort Worth Cats charged back with nine and won, 13-4, to square the series.

Eddie Chandler, who walked three men and gave out two singles in his rocky first inning, settled and allowed only four more hits through eight innings. Sam Diblasi, Fort Worth outfielder, made his debut as a pitcher in the last round.

DALLAS EAGLES GAIN, 10-2 TRIUMPH OVER MISSIONS

DALLAS, June 25 (AP)—The Dallas Eagles walloped the San Antonio Missions, 10-2, tonight as Roy Sanner won his eighth game without defeat.

The big hurler wore a blister on his pitching hand and left the game after six and two-thirds innings. In the fourth he had driven in two runs.

Jerry Witte hit his 21st home run of the year for Dallas in the fifth inning with Frierson on base.

SHREVEPORT SPORTS COP 8-5 WIN OVER TULSA OILERS

TULSA, Okla., June 25 (AP)—Tulsa pitching wilted tonight under ninth-inning pressure as Shreveport batted in five runs to win the Texas league contest, 8 to 5.

Al Mazur changed the game's complexion with his towering home run in the ninth, scoring Frank Benites who had doubled to open. It put the Sports ahead, 5-4, and they went on from there to clinch it.

Qualifying Set At Albuquerque For Junior Golf Tournament

Qualification rounds for the National Junior Amateur Golf championship will be held in Albuquerque, N. M., on July 19 for boys under 18 years of age.

Two boys from this section of the country are eligible for the National at Washington, D. C., July 27-30, and the two qualifying will have all expenses paid for the trip to Washington. Housing will be furnished in the Georgetown university dormitories.

Boys from any golf club in this area are eligible to compete, and further information may be obtained by writing Lee Christy, jr., Christy Buick company, Albuquerque.

Ducats On Sale For Plainview's Jaycee Boxing Matches July 15

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, June 25.—Tickets have gone on sale for the big boxing card sponsored by the Plainview Junior Chamber of Commerce here at the rodeo grounds the night of July 15.

Jaycee officials anticipate a sell-out crowd of over 7,000 persons will be on hand for the card, which will feature LaVern Roach of Lubbock, former Plainview resident. Roach is a middleweight contender for the world's title.

Plains Boxers On Card

On the supporting card with Roach will be such well-known South Plains fighters as Bill Henderson, Lubbock and Levelland lightweight, Gene James of Lubbock, heavyweight, Plainview Middleweight Leonard Duncan and Middleweight Howell Steen of Lubbock.

Henderson's opponent will be Freddy Maes of Denver, Colo., an impressive young fighter with a good string of victories. It will be their first meeting. Henderson will tune up for the fight with a 10-round bout in Arizona on July 4.

Roach hasn't signed papers with Steen yet, but it is only a question of time. Mickey Riley of Dallas, Steen's manager, verbally agreed to the meeting, which would provide Plainview with one of the best middleweight fights in this area. Steen is a roughouse type fighter, while Roach is a clean boxer.

James To Meet Brown

James has been signed to fight Dickie Brown of Amarillo, who has failed to appear in two other scheduled fights against James. James handed Brown a decisive licking here when they both were fighting as Golden Glovers and they haven't met since. Brown allegedly was injured just prior to a scheduled appearance on a Lubbock Jaycee fight card and again before a scheduled Levelland Jaycee fight card.

Leonard Dungan proved that he was a good amateur fighter and has been eager to turn professional. He has made the step now and is expected to be hard to beat. He doesn't have an opponent yet, but it probably will be Jimmie Boggs of Dallas, a tough fighter with a good deal of experience.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

Jack Whitehead sent in his list of choices for the major league All-Star game. We'd like to see a lot more of them come in to make Chicago slightly more Lubbock-conscious. The poll closes Wednesday night at midnight. Jack's choices, National League first, are Gil Hodges, first base; Eddie Stanky, second base; Sid Gordon, third base; Pee Wee Reese, shortstop; Bobby Thomson, Willard Marshall and Ralph Kiner, outfield; and Walker Cooper, catcher. American League, Eddie Robinson, first base; Joe Gordon, second base; George Kell, third base; Vern Stephens, shortstop; Ted Williams, Dom DiMaggio and Tommy Henrich, outfield; and Birdie Tebbetts, catcher.

Christy Walsh's Sportswriters, Inc., has narrowed the list of selections for the "25 Year All-America College Football Team" down to 56 players. That includes 10 ends, 10 tackles, 10 guards, five centers, five quarterbacks and 15 backs. We think the list of sufficient interest to print in full. We think that you will want to make your own selections. And we think that 19th hold conversations can be heated by one party putting his choices up against another. So here goes for the lists. You're to pick two ends, two tackles, two guards, one center, one quarterback and four other backs.

You may, if you wish, write in one additional back and one additional lineman to the list. You want our choices? It's tough because there are so many great players listed. But, like everyone else, we think we can pick a few of those that will wind up on the final roster. Okay, here they are: Ends, Hutson and Oosterbaan; Tackles, Hein and Kinard; Guards, Cannon and Munn; Center, Bednarik; Quarterback, Carideo; and backs, Davis, Grange, Nevers and Walker.

Speaking of All-Star teams, managers and sportswriters in West Texas-New Mexico League cities are selecting players for the North and South teams who will meet next Saturday night in Aubuquerque. The occasion is the annual All-Star game which has been won by the South five of the six times it has been played. This year, as last, the teams comprising the South will be Lubbock, Lamesa, Abilene and Pampa. North teams will come from Albuquerque, Amarillo, Borger and Clovis. Last year's game was won by Chick Fowler of Lubbock, who homered in the seventh inning to break an 8-8 tie and give the South a 10-8 victory. Lubbock players always have played a conspicuous part in victories compiled by the South.

This year two catchers, four infielders, three outfielders, a utility infielder, a utility outfielder and five pitchers are being chosen. We know you're curious about whom we chose. We could be as wrong as sin all the way, but here they are: Catchers, Mike Dooley (Lubbock) and Mike Fedunak (Abilene); First Base, Jim Prince (Lubbock); Second Base, Jackie Sullivan (Lubbock); Third Base, Eddie Melillo (Lamesa); Shortstop, Hayden Green (Abilene); Utility Infielder, Nelson Davis (Lubbock); Leftfield, Jay Haney (Lamesa); Centerfield, Al Duarte (Lubbock); Rightfield, D. C. Miller (Lamesa); Pitchers, Chris Haskins (Lubbock), Roy Parker (Pampa), Stan Grzywacz (Lamesa), Rene Vega (Abilene) and Ray Reichelt (Lubbock). Fire away!

Abilene Country club is getting ready to have its annual Invitational Golf tournament. Morgan Hampton, the genial pro at Abilene CC, writes that this year it will be bigger and better than ever, and from what we've heard about the ones in the past, that's a large order to fill. Festivities get underway June 30, Thursday to you, with qualifying rounds on Friday. Championship match play opens Saturday and continues through finals on Monday. In between there will be the usual rush of pleasurable activities, such as dances, cocktail parties, a driving contest, an 18-hole pro-amateur tourney and other events. It looks like a great tournament for the golfer.

The Hubbers have compiled a list of firsts in the West Texas-New Mexico League for the week ending June 20 (on statistics). They have the most runs, 443, the

Borger Gassers Take 11-6 Win Over Pampa

BORGER, June 25 (AP)—The Borger Gassers dropped the Pampa Oilers here tonight by an 11-6 verdict. The Gassers pounded Pampa hurlers for 15 hits in gaining the decision. Jack Venable went the route for the locals striking out six Oiler batsmen.

Two big innings were all it took to provide the winning margin for the Gassers. They scored six runs in the fifth and four in the eighth. All four runs coming in the eighth were on a sizzling circuit drive by pitcher Jack Venable with the bases loaded.

Gordon Nell tied the game up in the second after Pampa had taken a one run lead by blasting the ball over the left field fence.

Jimmy Littlejohn also powered one over the fence in the fifth with two men aboard to tie the game at four all after the Pampans had scored three runs in their half of the fifth.

Medalist Dick Martin Bows Out Of Odessa Golf Tourney

ODESSA, June 25. (AP)—Medalist Dick Martin of Dallas bowed out of the Odessa Country Club invitation golf tournament today as the finals shaped up into a hometown affair.

Bill Roden of Odessa will meet Don Cherry of Odessa in the 36 hole finals of the 10th annual event tomorrow. Roden is defending champion.

Cherry took out Martin 1 up in 19 holes and beat Mac Boring of Odessa 2 and 1 in matches today.

Roden advanced 4 and 3 over W. H. Hightower and 1 up over Bill Maxwell. Both losers are from Odessa.

Dukes Lick Blue Sox Again, 11-6

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 25. (AP)—The Albuquerque Dukes scored eight runs in the second inning to defeat the Abilene Blue Sox 11-6 and sew up the series two to one tonight.

Southpaw Don Ferrarese scattered six hits in the last six innings to gain credit for the victory. He was the third pitcher for the Dukes. Starter Nino Barnise and his successor, Walt Raimondi, developed a wild streak in the fourth inning that accounted for five of the Abilene runs.

Chase Fred Rodriguez

The Dukes scored eight runs and chased Fred Rodriguez to the showers in the second inning. A walk and singles by Babe Fuhrmann and Frank Okrie loaded the bases. Barnise struck out, but Len Attyd doubled two runs in. Dick Dawson walked to load the bases again, and Cliff McClain also walked to score Okrie.

Allan Maul banged a two-run single to center that spelled the end for Rodriguez.

Maul Hits Homer

Ernesto Mayorquin relieved him and gave up two consecutive hits that scored three additional runs before he retired the side.

The Dukes collected seven of their nine hits in the big second inning.

Maul hit a home run with Len Attyd on base for two more runs in the third.

Abilene loaded the bases with two walks and a single by Manager Hayden Greer in the fourth inning. Barnise walked Mike Fedunlak to force in the first run. Raimondi pitched to Bob Fernandez who hit a single to score another run and left the bags loaded.

Louise Suggs Defeats Betty Jameson In Women's Western

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 25. (AP) Louise Suggs, Carrollton, Ga., defeated Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Texas, 5-4 to win the Women's Western Open golf championship here today.

The victory was the first professional triumph for the little Georgia star. It also gave her her third Western title to share honors with Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Patty Berg, also three time winners of the event.

A gallery of 2,500 saw Miss Suggs shoot steady golf, sometimes reaching the sensational with long putts.

Lamesa Wallops Pioneers, 10-8

CLOVIS, June 25. (AP)—The Lamesa Loboes staged another ninth inning uprising here tonight to wallop the Clovis Pioneers 10-8 and sweep the three game series.

Trailing 8-5, the Loboes started with a double by pinch hitter Gibbs, and manager Paul Dean immediately removed starter George Matthews. Felix Penso came in, fielded Leo Rheingans easy grounder down the first base line and it looked like the first out. But Penso's toss hit Rheingans on the head, Gibbs stopping at third and the pinchhitter wound up at second.

Jim Sinovich fanned, but Eddie Mellilo shot a single into left scoring Gibbs, Rheingans stopping at thrid. D. C. Miller then planted his 19th homer over the left centerfield wall to break up the game. He hit the first pitch for his third blow of the night.

The Lobos added one more for good measure when Glenn Selbo got a lift on Red Sollars' error and Jay Haney brought him home with his third double. Haney also bashed a homer.

The winning pitcher was Sterling who relieved Leon Hayes in the fourth and pitched four-hit ball until removed for a pinch hitter in the ninth. Jack Gutierrez twirled the ninth and retired the Pioneers without any trouble.

Star Reward Wins Equipoise Mile Race

CHICAGO, June 25 (INS) — A second string nobody named Star Reward belted the socks off the priceless Coaltown today to win the Equipoise Mile at Arlington Park by a three-length margin.

Coaltown, the undefeated, Coaltown, the 1 to 5 shot, ran out of coal. He had the lead for brief seconds at the seven-eighths pole, and then, on the outside, Dixiana's 11 to 1 shot, Star Reward, passed him the way Coaltown had passed everybody else.

Coaltown hung on for second money, paying $2.20 for place.

Star Reward tossed $24 and $4.20 at his scattered backers among the 24,822 fans, who earlier had seen the Dixiana stable ace, Shy Guy, scratched by trainer Jack Hodgins after having been coupled with Star Reward in the overnight line.

Kingsbury, Johnson Reach Golf Finals

Houston Pair Paces Publinx

GALVESTON, June 25 (AP) — Lefty Ed Kingsbury and Howard Johnson, a pair of Houston hot shot golfers, fired their way in to the championship finals of the 22nd Texas Public Links Association state tournament on Galveston's municipal golf course by virtue of double victories posted in today's competition.

Kingsbury, a three-year golf letterman at the University of Houston, exhibited flawless putting to knock off medalist Vernon Smith of Galveston, 3 and 2, in the semi-finals. He had Smith 1 up at the end of the first nine holes.

The 25-year old Kingsbury, champ of Texas southpaw golfers back in 1947, defeated Bud Rucker, Houston, 1 up in the quarter-finals.

Johnson, a former Minnesota State amateur champ who now calls Houston his home, had to go extra holes to defeat Percy Byerly, Beaumont, 1 up on 20 holes in the semi-finals. In the quarter-finals, Johnson knocked off Bart Halton, Bryan, 3 and 2.

Kingsbury and Johnson start their 36-hole championship round at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Play in the first round also moved up to the finals today. George Seaholm of Houston and L. F. Berg of Galveston will meet for the title in this bracket tomorrow at 9:50 a. m. they will play a single round of 18 holes.

Berg Tops B. Baker

Seaholm beat Lou Foytik, Galveston, 3 and 2, and Berg topped B. Baker, Houston, 2 and 1, in the first flight semi-finals.

Championships in the second, third, and fifth flights were decided today.

Houston's J. V. Martin won the second flight by defeating George Durroh, Houston, 1 up.

In the third flight, Dr. J. F. Mullens of Galveston edged out J. C. Belew, Galveston, 1 up.

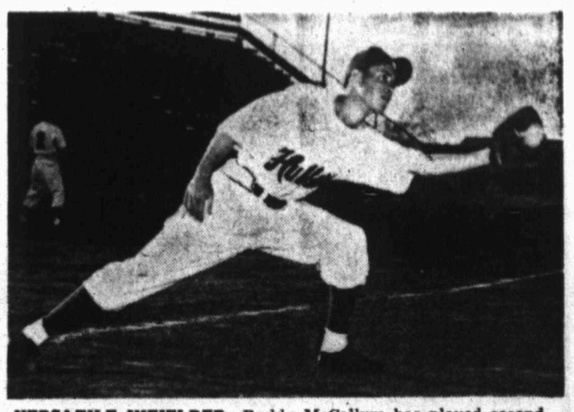

Col. J. W. Browning beat Ray Anders both of Galveston, 5 and 4, in the fourth flight.

Kelley Takes Honors

K. P. Kelley of Ellington Field, grabbed top honors in the fifth flight by topping George Walston, Galveston, 2 and 1.

Defending champion Mike Decesaro of Houston was knocked out of the running by Vernon Smith, 3 and 2, in the quarter-final round of the championship flight.

Strong southerly winds, possibly a little stronger than those of yesterday, whipped across the course today to generally give the contestants a tough time.

VERSATILE INFIELDER—Buddy McCallum has played second, third and shortstop since joining the Lubbock Hubbers the day that the season opened and he's been as dependable as heat in the summer. With Odessa last year, Buddy broke a leg and missed the major portion of the season. This year he was out of 14 games with a bad charley horse. But those have been the only games he's missed. Buddy is hitting .278, has stolen the most bases on the club and is fielding phenomenally at this point. (Staff Photo.)

Hodges Spearheads Attack As Dodgers Smash Pirates, 17-10

Braves Stop Cards, 10-6 Behind Sain

PITTSBURGH, June 25. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers smashed the Pittsburgh Pirates 17-10, today. Gil Hodges spearheaded the assault with two homers, a triple, double and single.

Hodges drove home four runs and scored four in the slugging duel featured by nine home runs, five by Pittsburgh.

Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo smacked the other Brooklyn homers. Ralph Kiner belted two and Dino Restelli, Wally Westlake and Ed Stevens one each for the Pirates. Kiner's blows were his 17th and 18th.

The nine homers fell one short of tieing the major league record for most home runs in a game by both clubs.

BOSTON BRAVES COOL OFF REDHOT CARDINALS, 10 TO 6

ST. LOUIS, June 25. (AP)—The Boston Braves cut loose with an 18-hit attack tonight to cool off the redhot St. Louis Cardinals, 10 to 6. Johnny Sain posted his first victory in over a month but had to have relief from Nelson Potter in the ninth. The defeat knocked the Cards out of first place which they took over only last night.

ROBERTS HURLS PHILLIES TO 6-5 WIN OVER CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, June 25. (AP)—Robin Roberts choked off a ninth inning Cincinnati rally today to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-5 victory over the Reds before a crowd of 5,681. Roberts took over from Ken Heintzelman with one out after Danny Litwhiler's three-run homer had brought the Reds within one run of deadlocking the game. Del Ennis and Stan Lopata

NOVOTNEY SPARKS CUBS TO 6-1 TRIUMPH OVER GIANTS

CHICAGO, June 25. (AP)—Rookie catcher Ralph Novotney drove home three runs today to spark the Chicago Cubs to a 4-1 triumph over the New York Giants. Hank Sauer accounted for the other Chicago run with his ninth homer.

University Of Texas Schedules Fifth Annual Playwright Contest

WICHITA, Kans., June 25. (AP) The University of Texas Longhorns laid down an 18-hit attack against three Wake Forest pitchers to win the National Collegiate Athletic association baseball championship by a 10 to 3 score tonight.

Murray Wall, who pitched the first 4 and 2/3 innings for Texas, received credit for the victory, his second of the series.

Two Legion Nines Have Clear Lead

The first week of play in the District 2 American Legion Junior baseball program singled out a few favorites in the four groups, but in Group 1 all teams appear to be about the same.

Only two teams in the four groups have a clear lead in their respective groups. In Group 4 Levelland is leading with two victories and no defeats, having beaten Morton and Muleshoe, and Muleshoe turned the trick on Morton to take second place with one victory and one loss.

O'Donnell Wins Game

In Group 2 O'Donnell defeated Brownfield and Tahoka to go out in front with two wins. Other games were not reported.

Lubbock Number One and Slaton share the lead in the four-team Group 3 race with two wins each and no defeats. Lubbock Number One defeated Plainview and Lubbock Number Two, and Slaton did likewise to share the top spot.

Spur, Ralls, and Idalou defeated each other to go into the second week of games with one win and one loss each in Group 1.

Slaton, Lubbock To Meet

One of the top games this week and one that will go a long way toward deciding the Group 3 representative in the playoff here July 8-9 at Rosenthal field is the Slaton tilt with Lubbock Number One Monday afternoon at Slaton.

Both teams boast good pitching, with Billy Ramage doing the chores for Slaton and Truman Jones, Mac Taylor, and Bennie Day hurling for the Lubbock squad. Slaton has shown lots of power at the plate in the first two games, but Lubbock also has several strong hitters.

In other games Monday Ralls plays at Spur; Plainview meets Lubbock Number Two; and Levelland goes to Muleshoe.

THE WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Monday—Ralls at Spur; O'Donnell at Tahoka; Lubbock No. 1 at Slaton; Plainview at Lubbock No. 2; and Levelland at Muleshoe.

Wednesday — Idalou at Ralls; O'Donnell at Brownfield; Plainview at Lubbock No. 1; Lubbock No. 2 at Slaton; Levelland at Morton.

Friday — Ralls at Spur; Tahoka at Brownfield; Lubbock No. 1 at Lubbock No. 2; Slaton at Plainview; and Muleshoe at Morton.

Tatum Tops Club Skeet Shooting

Marksmen at the Lubbock Gun club and trap and skeet shoot course at North Air Base Saturday were hitting the targets with ease, and a number of good scores were turned in.

In skeet shooting Clyde Tatum's 24x25 with both a 28 gauge and a 12 gauge shotgun were high, and Milton Hartman hit 23x25. Mike Cramer's 22x25 was good for the third high score.

In the trap shooting most scores ran lower, but R. J. Cramer broke 24x25 targets, and Mike and Jim Cramer each shattered 20x25. Other trap scores included B. A. Dorby and Boyd Buckman with 18x25.

Other skeet shooters included Julian Fairley, 20x25 with a .410 shotgun, Boyd Buckman, 18x25; B. A. Dorby, 20x25; R. J. Cramer, 20x25; James Hall, 21x25; Clarence Barton, 20x25; Si Hamilton, 19x25; O. B. Daniells, 19x25; and S. H. Bradford 19x25.

Visiting the club Saturday was Dr. A. T. Bradford of Chicago, whose brother, S. H. Bradford, is a member of the club.

Effective Sunday ammunition prices will be lowered and visitors will be charged more. Targets are the same.

Crucial Oil Belt Tilts Slated

Denver City Meets Levelland Today

A doubleheader between Levelland and Denver City highlights the Sunday games in the Oil Belt Baseball league today, and the first game of the twin bill will begin at 2 p.m. in Denver City.

In other games Post goes to Sundown; Slaton is at Tahoka; and Brownfield plays at Seagraves. Several of the games can have an important bearing on the present official standings in the league.

Probably the most crucial games are those between Levelland and Denver City. Levelland will likely send Jack Carnell to the mound in the first contest and call upon Dewey Estes to pitch the second game. Should more support be needed it would come from Jack Gage, an outfielder. If these hurlers should have a good day, Levelland could knock Denver City down a notch or two in the standings.

Seagraves Favored

But it appears unlikely that this will happen. Denver City has three hurlers who have been quite dependable this season, and their hitting has been of the best in the league. Dennie Davidson will probably be the starter in the first game, and should he need assistance Jackie Martyn and Lefty Epperson will be ready.

Brownfield has had one of the longest streaks in the history of the league, losing its first 13 games, and it appears unlikely that the team will be able to surprise Seagraves. Starting hurler for Seagraves is likely to be Lefty Faulkner, and opposing his portsided delivery will be either Beale or Russell.

Tahoka will probably send Bill Holcomb to the mound in its home stand against Slaton, and Cecil French may get the call for Slaton. This contest between two of the clubs in the second division should be one of the closest of the day.

Denver City Tops

In the final contest between Post and Sundown, James "Curly" Barnett or Walter Thetford will be on the mound for Post, and Sundown's hurler will likely be Medford or Wright.

Following are the league standings of games which have had score sheets turned in to the league president. Some games have not been reported and will be added when the score sheets are turned in.

Lamesa Legion Beats Midland

LAMESA, June 25 (Special)—Lamesa's American Legion Junior baseball team copped their second victory without defeat in the southern division of District 6 at Lobo park here Friday night, outscoring Midland's juniors for a 12-8 triumph.

Five pitchers, three for Lamesa, saw service in the run-filled fracas. Bill Hart, who worked four and one-third innings and had a perfect three for three at bat including a triple, got the win. Lefthander Jimmy Williams was charged with the loss.

Lamesa collected 11 hits off Williams and righthander Frank Roberson while Hart, southpaw Royce King, and Jesse Leathers gave Midland only four safeties. The Lamesa hurlers kept the visitors in the ball game by issuing 16 bases on balls.

The locals sewed up the contest with runs in the first three innings, counting five tallies in a big third on four hits. Midland trailed all the way, but made it close with a four-run rally in the sixth.

Delbert Dickenson, Jim Bob Boothe and Jerry Brown had two hits for Lamesa, and second baseman Jerry Millsapps got a triple.

Lamesa plays Odessa in a district contest here at 3:30 p. m. Sunday. Bobby Hawkins, regular third baseman, will pitch for Lamesa with Carlos Berry, jr., taking over at the hot corner.

Brink, Fisher Win NCAA Doubles

AUSTIN, June 25 (AP)—Jim Brink and Fred Fisher of the University of Washington won the National Collegiate Tennis doubles championship today, defeating Art Larsen and Sam Match of the University of San Francisco, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

It was the fifth time that Brink and Fisher had played together. It also was the first time a Washington team ever won the National championship.

The doubles finals wound up the annual tournament with San Francisco winning the team championship with seven points and Rollins college, Washington and Tulane all tying for second with four points each.

Tuero Bounces Back

Handsome Jack Tuero of Tulane bounced back twice this morning to beat Match for the singles championship.

The tall, swarthy man who was supposed to win the title two years ago and failed had the reserve strength when the chips were on the line this time and he roared from behind dramatically for a gruelling 2-6, 0-6, 6-4, 9-7, 6-0 victory over the poker-faced veteran from the Pacific coast.

In the third set, it appeared Tuero was finished. He was behind 4-2 and Match was running him ragged with his drop shots. But battling Jack pulled himself together and after the game was deuced three times made two brilliant placements that got him back into the ball game. In the next game he broke Match's service to win, held his own in the ninth game and broke Match's service again in the tenth to run out the set.

Broke Tuero's Service

But Tuero wasn't out of the woods—in fact, his toughest battle was to come. In the fourth set, Match broke Tuero's service three times as he swept to a 5-3 lead. The fans attending this National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament at the University of Texas were filing out of the stands. But Tuero rallied for the next game and broke Match's service to tie it up. Both held service for two games—the fourteenth was deuced three times before Match won it—then Tuero held service in the fifteenth and broke Match's service and his heart in the sixteenth.

The final set found the San Francisco player a beaten man. He furnished only passive resistance and was able to deuce only one game. Tuero broke Match's service after that deuce in winning the final game.

Tuero's victory was an upset. He was seeded eighth to Match's third and had considerable trouble getting to the finals.

Prince Takes Over Batting Leadership

ABILENE, June 25. (U.P.)—Jim Prince of Lubbock and Verdon Gilchrist of Borger switched places at the top of the West Texas-New Mexico league batting averages during the week ending June 20 with Prince jumping eight points to .405 and the lead.

Gilchrist slipped seven points to .399 and held a 33-point margin over Cliff McClain of Albuquerque in third place. Paul Halter of Amarillo followed in fourth spot at .372 and Roberto Fernandez of Abilene rounded out the top five at .369.

Prince Tops In RBI

In the other departments, Prince led in RBI's with 64, McClain in doubles with 28, Halter in total bases with 50 and home runs with 16, and Fernandez in hits with 96.

Jay Haney of Lamesa, Len Attyd of Albuquerque and Jesse Rogerson of Clovis shared the stolen base lead with 15 each, while George Lewis of Amarillo and teammate Dick Gentzkow shared the run-making lead with 59.

Borger slipped 12 points, but still led the league in team batting with top marks of 443 runs, 644 hits, 1,017 total bases, 61 stolen bases and 388 RBI's. Albuquerque led in doubles with 149 and triples with 37.

Grzywacs Won Most

Stan Grzywacz of Lamesa had won the most games, 11, pitched the most innings, 118, and shared at 10 games each the most complete game lead with George Matthews of Clovis.

John Waselchuk of Clovis with a 6-1 record was one of four pitchers losing only one game to date. The others, Frank Shone of Albuquerque and Jose Nakamura of Abilene, had won five, while Ray Reichelt of Lubbock had four victories.

Roy Parker of Pampa had the most strikeouts, 89, and had issued the most walks, 92.

'BIG TRAIN' CLEMENTS RETURNS

Wrestle Royal, Tag Team Match Set For Wednesday

Not satisfied with providing the weekly Wednesday night wrestling fans the customary three matches, Sled Allen this week will promote a sure-fire grapple attraction at the arena.

RAY CLEMENTS

Sled has lined up the customary six grunt and groan experts for his card, but this time they will perform in not only a wrestle royal to start things off, but also a tag team match.

Scheduled to be in the ring when the fireworks start, in addition to the referee, will be Tex Riley of Muleshoe, Art Brady of Huntington Park, Calif., George Curtis of Vicksburg, Miss., Ray "Big Train" Clements of Corpus Christi, Balk Estes of Elk City, Okla., and George Bruckman of Washington, D. C.

Wrestle Royal Set

These torture-minded experts will open the events with a wrestle royal, with the first two men being eliminated returning in the semi-final fall. This will be a two out of three falls match with a 45-minute time limit.

The next two men tossed out of the ring will return in the main event to meet the two men remaining. This will be the usual tag team match with a one-hour time limit, or two out of three falls.

Clements, long a favorite here as the villain, wasn't able to appear last week, when Johnny Carlin subbed for him. This week the former Lubbock man will return to the scene of his original successes, after having done well on the West Coast.

Riley, who got his start at Muleshoe, hasn't been seen here since last December. He has been traveling hither and yon meeting with success wherever he has been. He will have his hands full in the other assorted rugged characters.

Matches will start at 8:30 p. m. and tickets for the double feature will go on sale Wednesday morning at 9 at Wylie's Drug store.

More White Wing Hunters Expected

WESLACO, June 25. (U.P.)—White wings in the lower Rio Grande valley may be no more numerous than usual this fall, but hunters will be.

Charley Jones, for 23 years chief game warden and generally considered the number one white wing authority, says it's too early to estimate the number of birds because it's still nesting season.

"In August," Jones said, "they will start forming flights to go into the fields to feed. When that happens, we'll be able to figure on the hunting prospects."

So far, no date for the hunting season has been set. But Jones said state and federal conservationists would get together in July and probably would set the season again in mid-September, on three staggered afternoons.

He predicted that "people will walk, ride the old gray mare or go on bicycles to shoot."

Jones first estimated at 10,000 the number of hunters who will park their cars on country roads, bumper to bumper, and bang away at the birds.

Riggs, Budge Qualify In National Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., June 25 (INS)—Bobby Riggs and Don Budge, seeded one-two, qualified today for the final round of the National Professional tennis tournament tomorrow.

Both won their semi-final matches in identical fashion today, winning three straight sets after losing the opener.

Riggs, who is seeking to regain the crown he wore in 1946 and 1947, defeated Welby Van Horn, fourth-seeded. The score was 6-8, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

Riggs tired at times in the intense heat but was able to capitalize on Van Horn's errors. Kovacs gave Budge stiff resistance, but didn't have enough to win.

Tigers Gain 9 To 3 Win Over Yank Nine

NEW YORK, June 25. (AP)—Hal Newhouser although free with walks, had little trouble in pitching Detroit to a 9-3 triumph today over the American league's front-running New York Yankees.

The classy Tiger lefthander gave up eight walks, three each in the fourth and ninth innings which the Yanks turned into runs.

Hank Bauer singled behind three bases on balls in the fourth to drive in two runs.

The Tigers plastered Fred Sanford for four runs in the first inning.

PARNELL HURLS RED SOX TO 13-2 DECISION OVER BROWNS

BOSTON, June 25. (AP)—With his Red Sox teammates blasting 17 hits, Mel Parnell, the southpaw ace, coasted to his 10th win with a 13-2 decision today oyer the hapless St. Louis Browns.

The Red Sox chased starter lefty Bill Kennedy, their former farm hand, by pounding him for seven runs in the third inning.

Barber College Tops City Loop

Only one team in the City Recreation softball league has gone through the first six weeks of the current season without a defeat in league play. That team is Barber college with seven straight wins.

In addition to the league games this team plays quite a few practice tilts, and thus far over the season has an enviable record of 33 wins and only three defeats. Barber college leads the City league, and following in second and third positions are Sanders Motor and Bennett Motor.

Avalanche-Journal Leads

In the Commercial league The Avalanche-Journal has a strong hold on the top rung in the ladder, but always a threat is Post Office. The newspaper team has compiled an 11-1, won-loss record in games thus far, and Post Office has won 10 contests in 13 played. Fighting it out for the third spot is First Baptist and First Methodist, but the Baptists have a slight edge at present by 21 percentage points.

The Sunbeamers have the lead in the Major league, and it appears likely that they will hold on to that spot, having won seven games and lost one. Cloverlake has a 4-3 record, good enough for second place.

Shackelton Captures $50,000 Dwyer Stakes At Aqueduct

NEW YORK, June 25 (INS)—Shackelton, owned by Belair Stud, won the $50,000 added Dwyer Stakes today before a small Saturday crowd of 24,003 at Aqueduct.

One Hitter finished second, six lengths back, and Going Away was third.

The winner broke from the barrier in a tangle but was straightened out in the first half mile of the 1¼ mile race and disposed of his opposition in the last quarter to win.

Shackelton paid his backers $9.30, $4.10 and $3.20. One Hitter returned $2.80 and $2.40 and Going Away paid $3.70. The time on a fast track was 2:07 4/5.

ACE ADMIRAL WINS

ARCADIA, Calif., June 25. (INS) Main Chance Farm's Ace Admiral beat off a stretch challenge and won the $25,000 Ingelwood Handicap by a head over Pretal at the Hollywood park meet today. Amble In finished third, a nose behind.

Australian Upsets Gonzales In Wimbledon Net Tourney

LONDON, June 25. (AP)—Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, 21-year-old U. S. singles titleholder, was spilled out of the Wimbledon tennis championships today in a sensational upset by the two-handed shots of Australia's Geoff Brown.

Prime minister Attlee and some 17,000 other sweltering fans saw the second-seeded Los Angeles husky bow out in just one hour and 13 minutes on Wimbledon's famed center court, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1.

All the other seeded stars gained the men's singles quarter-finals with straight-set triumphs, including Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., defending champion Bob Falkenburg of Beverly Hills, Calif., and former U. S. titleholder Frank Parker of Los Angeles.

Parker Ousts Worthington

Failure to get in his blistering first service and the effects of a lingering cold contributed to the downfall of Gonzales, who made a meteoric rise to the top of the U S. rankings in 1948.

Little Geoff, only five feet, nine inches tall, was runner-up to Yvon Petra of France in the Wimbledon final three years ago. Since then he had been a disappointment until today.

Parker, seeded third, ousted George Washington of Australia, 6-2, 6-3 6-1, on an outer court which drew few spectators from the Saturday crowd estimated at 30,000.

Falkenburg, seeded fourth although he is the defending titlist, eliminated Hans Pan Swol, 34-year-old Dutch physician, 7-5, 6-0, 6-4, also without incident.

Aussies Match U. S.

Australia matched the United States by putting three men in the round of eight. In addition to Brown, they were John Bromwich, who stopped Rolando Del Bello of Italy, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0, and Frank Sedgmar, who turned back Philippe Washer of Belgium, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Eric Sturgess of South Africa, runner-up to Gonzales in the U. S. championships last year, eliminated Gianni Cucelif of Italy, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1.

Jaroslav Drobny, Czechoslovakia's Davis Cup ace, defeated Nigel Cockburn of South Africa, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2, to complete the quarter-final bracket.

When they lineup Monday after resting tomorrow, it will be Schroeder against Sedgman, Parker against Sturgess, Falkenburg against Bromwich and Drobny against Brown.

Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, the defending women's champion, moved one notch ahead of the other American women when she dropped Rosemary Walsh of Britain, 6-1, 6-2, to enter the quarter-finals.

Oklahoma's Coe Wins Trans-Mississippi

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 25 (INS)—Consistent Charley Coe, the Oklahoma City insurance salesman, built up an untouchable lead on the first 18 holes, then coasted to his second Trans-Mississippi golf championship today at Colorado Springs.

Coe defeated Denver's Fred Newton, 6 and 5.

Shooting par golf on the 6,622-yard swanky Broadmoor course, Coe took the money strokes out of his bag on the first 18 to build a 7 up lead at the midway point.

Although Newton, a Denver trucking firm executive, had a slight advantage on the last 13 holes, he couldn't whittle down Coe's tremendous advantage.

The slender, bronzed Oklahoman, a member of the U. S. Walker Cup team, was even par for the 31 holes, shooting a 32-36-68, two under par, on the first 18 and a two over par 37 on the outgoing nine of the afternoon round.

WT-NM Star Players Named

DALLAS, June 25. (U.P.)—Selection of the players for the annual All-Star West Texas-New Mexico League game July 2 was incomplete today, but it appeared that the Albuquerque Dukes, hosts for the game, would have at least three men on the North squad.

About two thirds of the ballots were in from the Northern cities, and League President Milton Price said three Dukes and one Amarillo player had been named on all ballots received.

The Albuquerque men so honored were Frank Shone, right-handed pitcher; Les Mulcahy, catcher; and Frank Okrie, shortstop. Paul Halter, left fielder, was the Gold Sox player named.

Price said votes were so split for the other positions that it was impossible to give a trend in the voting. He said not enough ballots had been returned from the South cities to get a trend at any position.

Mozambique put a limit of $2,000 on the price of autos that may be imported.

Buck Freeman Dies In Pennsylvania Town

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 25. (U.P.)—James (Buck) Freeman, who held the major league home run record until Babe Ruth came along, died in Mercy hospital early today after a stroke. He was 77.

Freeman was one of the outstanding sluggers at the turn of the century. During the 1899 season as a member of the Washington club of the National League he hit 25 home runs, a seasonal mark that stood until Ruth hit 29 for the Boston Red Sox in 1919.

Freeman was traded from Washington to the Boston Braves along with Bill Dineen, later an umpire, in 1900. The following year he jumped to the newly-formed American League as a member of the Boston Red Sox. With the Sox he played a leading role in the first World Series when the Sox beat Pittsburgh in five games in 1903.

HARRISON WINS CROWN

TORONTO, Ont., June 25. (INS) Dutch Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., took the champion's crown today in the Canadian Open golf tourney at the St. George course with a smashing 17 under par 72 hole total of 271.

Showdown On Yugoslavia Looms

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager, (INS)

PARIS, June 25 — Europe is about to witness one of the greatest peace-time political struggles in history between big powers over the fate of a small country.

The nation whose destiny is at stake is Yugoslavia.

Diplomatic advices indicate that Russia is moving for a showdown by all means short of war with Yugoslavian Marshal Tito, who defied the Kremlin and has gotten away with it for more than a year now.

West To Back Tito

The Western Powers, led by the United States, have decided to try to save Tito in the hope that his break with Russia will eventually lead to the disintegration of the Soviet satellite system in the Balkans and eastern Europe.

Considerations of high diplomatic strategy, such as blocking Soviet access to the northern Adriatic, protection for the approaches to north Italy and the securing of scarce raw materials from Yugoslavia, also figure in the far-reaching and seemingly ironical decision of the capitalistic west to champion a Communist dictator.

This historic contest of diplomacy may become the most dramatic side-show in Europe of the twentieth century's great power politics struggle between Russia and the West for world supremacy.

The battle of the giants over Yugoslavia will be fought mainly with weapons of economic warfare.

Slavs Face Blockade

Russia is reported to have ordered its satellite states to impose on Yugoslavia an economic blockade such as is normally applied only in times of war against an enemy power.

The American, British and French governments have agreed to counter this blockade by helping Yugoslavia obtain credits and industrial equipment from the West.

Vitally important decisions to this effect were taken in Paris this month during secret consultations of American Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman.

Leading western statesmen, such as John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser on foreign affairs, are convinced that "Titoism" has become the number one problem of the Soviet leaders in Europe.

While it is doubted that the Soviets are prepared to resort to war against Yugoslavia to get rid of Tito, the new offensive is expected to involve all means short of actual military invasion of the country.

TAKE JAYCEE POSTS

Two South Plains men were installed as Jaycee officers at a state Junior Chamber of Commerce installation service in San Antonio Saturday night. They were L. D. Whiteley of Lubbock, as a national director; and Jim St. Clair of Levelland as a state vice president. E. M. Kirkpatrick, jr., of Baytown, was installed as the 22nd state president of the organization.

Texas Bakers Group Meets Here To Plan Anniversary Session

Officers and a number of members of the Texas Bakers' association are in Lubbock this weekend to formulate plans for the organization's 50th anniversary convention, to be held in San Antonio next April.

Last night they were guests of Mrs. Joe Baldridge, head of Baldridge bakery here, at a backyard barbecue at her home at 2105 Seventeenth.

At 10 o'clock this morning, the group will meet in Hilton hotel to make plans for their 50th anniversary convention, which is to be held April 15-18 in San Antonio. The convention will be held there during San Antonio's Fiesta Week.

Officers Attend Session

Officers here for the meeting include Beverly Peel of Corpus Christi, president; Roy Braden of Dallas, vice president; and Charles Newman of Fort Worth, secretary-treasurer.

Directors attending are Dave Craven of Dallas, Glen Findley of Dallas, Mack Deck of Sherman, Jake Goldman of Dallas, H. J. Schott, jr., of Houston, and Bill Baird of Abilene.

Others who are in Lubbock for the meeting are Herman Richter of San Antonio, general convention chairman; Bill Finney of McKinney, immediate past president of the association; Charles Newman, jr., of Amarillo, Ben Williams of Houston, Jack Donovan of Dallas, Charles Moreland of Dallas, Jimmy Williams of Houston, Paul Barklow of Dallas, Bennett Myers of Dallas, Lloyd Davis of Dallas, publicity chairman for the convention, C. R. Morton of Dallas, Mrs. Ed Goodman of Dallas, office secretary for the association, Lois Aldridge of Dallas, and John McVay of San Antonio, president of the Allied Trade association

Members from Lubbock who are to take part in today's meeting include Walter Granberry, J. W. Chism, Cliff Elliott, Leroy Cody, Raymond Burford, Joe E. Baldridge, and Ray Wells.

Newest scientific advance in telephoning is a better phone booth. The new booth features a ceiling ventilator, concentrated lighting on the phone and writing shelf, and a tougher rubber floor.

Conversation Belies Rude Reception

G. Bernard Shaw Shows Interest In All Youth Despite Pretense

By BETTY BETZ
INS Staff Correspondent

"I'm no teen ager . . . I'm almost 93!" shouted George Bernard Shaw as he waved his walking stick in front of my face.

It's really frightening to meet G.B.S., for he's about the oldest and rudest man I've ever come across, but I was warned beforehand that part of his act is to insult his guests.

I took a taxi out to his small country house in Hertfordshire Hamlet, which is about an hour's drive from London.

Beards The Lion

He seldom has guests, insisting that "people leave him alone so he can die in peace" . . . So I ran the risk of having the door slammed in my face. The next best thing to being turned away is to be insulted, I guess, which Mr. Shaw does very well.

"What do you want to know?" he barked.

"Well . . . if you want to know anything, just read my books and stop bothering me," he snapped. I felt embarrassed that I had intruded on his privacy so I got up and started to leave, but he stopped me.

"Where are you going?" he asked, and demanded that I come back and sit down. Then he suddenly changed from a cranky old man to a very charming and delightful person.

Expresses Faith In Youth

He asked me to tell him about the young people I had met on my trip around the world. This surprised me, as I didn't think he cared much about the members of the younger generation.

We got on the subject of how children are now being taken into many armies, and when I told him of the kids I had met in the Chinese and Greek armies he threw up his hands.

"We might as well let the young folks take over . . ." he said. "They have no fear! I've never killed anyone . . . and I'd never have the courage to . . . only young people can fight the wars!

No Pearls Of Wisdom

"No, take Napoleon. If Joan of Arc had been in his place, she would have won the battle of Waterloo!"

I asked how he figured that.

"Napoleon was always superstitious about going to battle after the rain when the ground was muddy," he explained. "Napoleon hesitated, and lost the battle . . . but Joan of Arc would have charged right ahead!"

I waited for some pearls of wisdom from G.B.S., but he chattered aimlessly about this and that . . . until we got on the subject of Stalin, who he thinks is the greatest statesman of all time.

Even after I described how the people behind the iron curtain live in constant fear, he was not convinced, and said I was a "silly girl."

Most Voters In U.S. Say Reds Will Not Co-Operate, Poll Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
(American Institute Of Public Opinion)

PRINCETON, N. J., June 25—The progress made at the Big Four conference in Paris came as good news to American voters. Whether it will overcome the long-term skepticism in this country regarding Russian motives remains to be seen.

The survey of American attitudes toward the Soviets taken right after the announcement of the lifting of the Berlin blockade in May and before the meeting of the Big Four in Paris showed comparatively few voters believing that Russia really wants peace or that the Kremlin would cooperate with the Western world.

The lifting of the Berlin blockade by Russia, in the opinion of most voters expressing a view on the subject, was done because the blockade was a "losing proposition."

A substantial majority of all voters questioned cling to the long-held view that Russia is trying to build herself up to be the ruling world power. Only about one voter in five in the survey thinks that the Russian government sincerely desires peace.

These attitudes were revealed in answers to a series of questions as follows:

"Do you think Russia will cooperate with us in world affairs?"

Yes	20%
No	62
No opinion	18

"Do you believe that the Russian government sincerely wants peace?"

Yes	22%
No	60
No opinion	18

These results indicate a somewhat more favorable attitude toward Russia today than in a similar poll last January. At that time 16 per cent said they thought the Russian government wanted peace, while 72 per cent thought it did not, and 12 per cent gave no opinion.

Views On Blockade

The poll continued with this question:

"Why do you, yourself, think Russia changed her policy on the Berlin blockade?"

Blockade a losing proposition, air lift a success	23%
A trick maneuver	11
Fear of U.S., pressure	7
For propaganda, to make impression, win Germans	4
Appeasement, peace measure	2
Miscellaneous	10
Don't know	44
	101%*

(*Adds to more than 100% because some gave more than one answer.)

The final question was this:

"As you hear and read about Russia these days, do you believe Russia is trying to build herself up to be THE ruling power of the world, or is Russia just building up protection against being attacked in another war?"

The trend of sentiment follows:

	Ruling Power	Pro-tection	No Opin.
June, 1946	58%	29%	13%
March, 1948	77	12	11
May, 1949	66	15	19

High School Boy Questioned In Murder Of Girl Friend's Father

JACKSON, June 25. (AP)—The father of a vivacious high school sophomore was killed about 1 a.m. today and police said they were questioning one of her handsome schoolmates.

Detective chief B. R. Rogers said Perry W. Henderson, about 48, was found lying in blood in the dining room of his modest home. Two hours later police picked up Ronald N. Pitts, 18, who Rogers said had quarreled with Henderson Friday morning over his attentions to Henderson's 16 year old brunette daughter, Anna.

The chief said Pitts admitted hiding in the Henderson attic for five hours awaiting the older man's return.

Rogers said Pitts is being held for "investigation of murder." He said the slender, black-haired high school junior had made an oral statement about the slaying.

Rogers said Pitts went to Henderson's office Friday morning demanding to know where Anna was. He accused Henderson of sending her and the family to North Carolina for a vacation in an effort to break up the romance.

The young man told Henderson during their argument that "I intend to marry Anna," the chief said. He said he did not know how long the two had been going together, or what Anna's feelings were.

Rogers said Henderson was slain by a .38 caliber pistol slug which struck him just above the left eye. The shooting occurred, the chief added, while two city policemen were enroute to the house to investigate an earlier report of slashed telephone wires.

Blast Blows Three Men From House

FARNSWORTH, June 25. (AP)—Three harvest hands were blown out of their bedroom by an explosion in the L. R. Conner home here early today. The explosion was heard for two miles.

Fire following the blast destroyed the bedroom and a double garage. The workers, Ray McCarty, K. C. Hutton and Jack Tumlin, were not seriously hurt.

The three men and neighbors formed a bucket brigade and prevented the fire from spreading to the rest of the Conner home. A pocket of gas ignited by a light switch was blamed for the explosion.

Quick Refunds On Insurance Urged

Group Of GOP Solons Score Delay In Payments To Vets

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP)—Fifteen Republican House members today called the scheduled repayment of $2,800,000,000 on veteran-held government war insurance "a scandalous political performance."

The 15, all World War II veterans, issued a statement accusing the Truman administration of holding up the money to 16,000,000 veterans "until 1950 because it is a congressional election year."

They called on Congress to support a resolution by Rep. Keating (R-NY) to start payments not later than next October 15.

Carl Gray, administrator of Veterans affairs, announced last Monday that a disbursement of surpluses from National Life Insurance funds would start probably about January.

Political Pressure Claimed

The Republican statement said the signers "hesitate" to blame General Gray, preferring to believe him "the victim of political pressure by the higher-ups in the Truman administration."

"The Veterans administration described the insurance refunds as 'dividends.' This is deliberately misleading and untrue. They are not 'dividends;' they are refunds on an overcharge.

"Imagine the speed in which Mr. Truman's department of justice would swing into action if private enterprise had overcharged 16,000,000 people $2,800,000,000 on their insurance policies."

The statement added that the Supreme Court in June, 1948, ruled the repayments should be made.

The veterans agency said Monday that the refund resulted from a surplus which resulted from the fact that the insurance premiums were based by law on standard death rate tables which proved to be higher than needed.

Republicans signing the statement were:

Reps. Boggs, Dela., Nixon, Calif., Davis, Wis., Patterson, Conn., Sadlak, Conn., Ford, Mich., Velde, Ill., McCullough, O., Phillips, Tenn. Norblad, Ore., Van Zandt, Pa., Smith, Kas., Miller, Md., Latham, N.Y., and Nelson, Me.

Return Of New Mexico Oil Leases Ordered By Court

PORTALES, N. M., June 25 (INS)—Oil leases obtained by Bureau of Revenue Commissioner Victor Salazar and former assistant Attorney General R. V. Wollard were ordered returned to Thayer Durrell, of Rhode Island.

State Land Commissioner Guy Shepard said today he would conform to judgment filed by district Judge E. T. Hensley ordering the leases be reinstated to Durrell with no increase in rentals.

Hensley's original decision was reversed by the state supreme court.

Belgians To Vote On Return Of Monarch

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 25. (AP)—Should Belgium's exiled king Leopold III be returned to his throne? That is the main question facing Belgians when they vote in tomorrow's general elections.

The balloting is for representatives to the Chamber of Deputies, Senate and nine provincial councils, but the royal question has dominated all other election issues.

Belgium's largest party—the Social Christian—is supporting Leopold's return, but says it will hold a referendum on the monarchy question if they receive an absolute majority in the Senate and Chamber.

The Socialists, Communists and most liberals want Leopold to abdicate.

49th Armored Division, TNG, Is Reviewed At Camp Hood

CAMP HOOD, June 25. (AP)—A two-hour stream of tanks and other vehicles rumbled by today as the 49th Armored division passed in review.

Overhead—as Lt. Gen. E. O. Thompson, commanding general of the Texas National Guard, watched — light planes flew a tight formation.

The review was described here as the largest display of fully mechanized units in the history of the guard.

Nearly 4,000 officers and men, about 1,200 tanks and wheeled vehicles, and a score of light planes of the 49th participated.

The 49th is made up of major units from Dallas, Fort Worth, and Houston, and smaller organizations from North and East Texas.

Maj. Gen. Albert S. Johnson of Dallas is commanding general. The review celebrated the end of the first week of a two-week training period for the division here.

Reburial Rites For Veteran Set Today

Last rites for Pvt. William L. Shields, 22, will be held today at 3 p.m. in the Central Baptist church with Rev. R. L. Shannon, pastor of the Meadow Baptist church, officiating.

SHIELDS

Pvt. Shields was killed in action in Germany on April 13, 1945. He enlisted in the army in August of 1944 and was sent overseas in Feb. of 1945 after he had received his training at Camp Crowder, Mo., and Camp Livingston, La. The body arrived Saturday by train and is at the Rix funeral home.

Survivors include his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Smith of Mosquero, N. M.; one brother, Walter W. Shields of Morton; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Armstrong of Plainview.

Burial will be in the Tech Memorial Park cemetery under the direction of the Rix Funeral home.

Other survivors include his wife, Mrs. Glen Martin of Lubbock, and two step-brothers, Curtis L. Smith of Oklahoma City and John L. Smith of the naval air corps.

SO IS THE CAT

Texas Fox Keeps Himself Confused

TYLER, June 25. (AP)—Pete probably is the most confused fox in Texas.

He doesn't know whether he is a dog or a cat.

When his kitten playmates climb trees, Pete has a try at it, too. He backs off and runs like crazy—and makes it up the tree by raw momentum.

He plays like a dog when he is with dogs.

Pete is the pet of Master Sgt. and Mrs. J. D. Crumbley of Tyler. Mrs. Crumbley is concerned about one thing; she wishes Pete would get weaned.

Pete was only about a week old when he started nursing the Crumbley's mother cat, Blackie, who had just had kittens.

That was fine, then. But now Pete is bigger than Blackie. When Blackie objects to the nursing, Pete cuffs Blackie around.

Pete refuses to be weaned.

Many students believe that primitive men, sometimes called savages, are predominantly religious in their outlook.

Residential Building Leads Other Forms Of Construction In Texas

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP)—Residential building continued to lead other forms of construction during the past week.

The Texas Contractor, building trade magazine, reported a total of $6,674,000 in permits for residential construction. The total included a $2,500,000 award for 278 apartment units in Houston.

Non-residential building totaled $5,233,519 including $1,996,805 for construction of schools. Engineering projects totaled $994,680.

The week's total was $12,902,599 in permits, compared to $22,998,440 for the previous week. The total for the year stands at $494,733,925.

Hemphill Farmers Donate First Car Of Wheat To Overseas Aid

CANADIAN, June 25 (U.P.)—The first carload of new crop wheat earmarked for the Christian Rural Overseas program was enroute to Galveston early today for shipment.

Hemphill county in West Texas produced the first wheat for the overseas relief program. It was shipped from here last night.

Elmore R. Torn, the program's state director, pointed out the shipment was made despite excessive rainfall which handicapped harvesting.

The 1,460 bushels in the carload were donated by 17 farmers of this region.

British Party Adopts Empire First Policy

LONDON, June 25 (U.P.)—Winston Churchill's Conservative party announced today it will campaign in the 1950 general elections on an "empire first" platform.

The party took its stand for imperial preference in a statement outlining the empire and commonwealth policy it will champion in its battle to unseat the labor government.

The statement welcomed such regional agreements as the Western Union, but said:

"The party will not permit any such agreement to over-ride or conflict with the political, economic or defense obligations falling on Great Britain as a member of the British Empire and Commonwealth . . .

"We believe that if the British Empire were to break up, Britain would become a third-class power, unable to feed or defend herself. The same fate would certainly befall every other country of this family of nations."

The statement warned that the Conservative party never had supported any decisions taken at Geneva, Havana or elsewhere inimical to the general system of imperial preference—preferred tariff rates for goods traded within the empire.

China's Canton Steel Works is about ready to start operations again.

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL

Lubbock, Texas, Sunday, June 26, 1949

Getting her pretty blonde curls combed so she will look her best during her visit in Lubbock is two-and-one-half years old Nancy McKee. Keeping up with her daughter is a full-time job for Mrs. John C. Neal, but it is also her favorite pastime. The pictured mother and daughter from Fort Worth are guests in the home of Mrs. Neal's mother, Mrs. A. W. McKee, 1812-A Fourteenth, and will remain in Lubbock until the latter part of this week.

Vacation Trips Taken By Many Lubbockites

EARLY summer is a busy time for Lubbockites and their guests as the circle of vacationers continues coming to and going from the city.

Ens. Charles Brown is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Brown, 2305 Fourteenth. He will return to his naval base in Pensacola, Fla., next week.

Misses Dorothy Brown and Corine Thomas are in Fort Worth to attend the wedding of Miss Annabelle Dyer and Pete Cook. Miss Thomas is the house guest of Miss Helen Moore and Miss Brown is visiting Miss Peggy Garrison. They are Techsans.

Robert Fehleison and John B. Allen are on an extended automobile trip to Canada. The latest word received by the boys' parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fehleison and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Allen, Tahoka highway, was from McDonald, Mont. They have been gone for 12 days.

Plans are being made by Mrs. H. J. Jarett and her two sons, Irwin and Leonard, of 2019 Thirty-fourth to leave Monday morning for Santa Monica, Calif. They are to spend a few days in Las Vegas, Nev., before going to the coast. Mr. Jarett will join his family in Santa Monica in about a month.

Spend Summer Here

Misses LaVerne and Louise Garrison of LaJolla, Calif., have arrived here to spend the summer with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Garrison, 1402 Main. The family will spend next weekend in Fort Worth

Miss Greta Marie Elmore left Saturday for St Louis where she will join a group of educators for a National Education Association study tour of points in the East including Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York City, Niagara Falls and Canada. Those making the tour will be from all parts of the United States and Hawaii. While in New York, they will attend a session of the United Nations.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Caviness of 1520 Thirty-second, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Winston Watson of Amarillo, will leave today for a vacation in the Great Lakes region. They are to go by way of St. Louis, Milwaukee and Madison, Wisc. After spending several days in Chicago, they will visit in Detroit and Windsor, Canada, and will go to Niagara Falls. The

Mrs. Joe A. Elliott, jr., of Arlington is pictured with her sister, Mrs. T. C. Ingram, 2411 Twenty-fifth, during one of their shopping trips for cool summer fabrics. The two women may find time to do some summer sewing, but even if they don't, shopping is always fun for the sister twosome. After a week's visit in the Ingram home, the guest will return home today.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas W. Ross, jr., of Bogota, Colombia, S. A., enjoy a little Texas sunshine in the backyard of the T. I. Brown residence, 1716 Twenty-eighth. Mr. and Mrs. Brown are Mrs. Ross's parents. The guests, who are both graduates of Texas Tech, are spending their biennial vacation here. Mr. Ross is general superintendent of Texas Petroleum company, Colombia division.

Mrs. G. A. Foote, 1917 Broadway, standing, serves potato chips and cheese crackers to her visiting daughters and granddaughter as they play a hand of gin rummy. Seated, left to right, are Mrs. E. O. McSpadden and daughter, Diane, of Long Mont, Colo., and Mrs. W. B. McElreath of Beaumont. The guests are spending two weeks with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. Foote. Couple Contrasts Cost Of Living In South And North America

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

SINCE Fourth of July falls on Monday, the holiday will be lasting from Friday night through Monday night for many persons. And once again we find ourself wondering how black will be the headlines in Tuesday's papers that tell of the toll taken in traffic accidents.

How wonderful it would be if families who celebrate the patriotic occasion could have their fun without death taking their holiday.

WE WONDER

HOW in the world do many popular tunes get into the top brackets? Consider the lyrics of "Kiss Me Sweet."

Here's the double talk in that ditty—"Kiss me now and kiss me later. Kiss me like a sweet potater."

Have you ever heard anything daffier?

VISITING the United States on their biennial vacation, two Texas Technological college graduates find variety in food and "low costs" in this country impressive.

The visitors are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas W. Ross, jr., who find inflation in the United States much milder than that in Bogota, Colombia, where they live.

"The first time we went into a super market in Berkeley, we were entranced with the things we could buy and by the prices," said Mrs. Ross, who is the former Miss Fay Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Brown of 1716 Twenty-eighth. Mr. and Mrs. Ross are visiting in the Brown home.

"Living costs are extremely high over there," said Ross. A can of tomatoes, for instance, costs $1. Canned goods must be imported. Vegetables are high and more care has to be taken in their preparation than in the United States.

"Housekeeping is a different thing," said Mrs. Ross. "You have to prepare vegetables by soaking them in a potasium permaganate solution to take away the danger of amebic dysentery."

Clothing Prices High

Mr. and Mrs. Ross buy their clothing in the United States on their vacations, because clothing prices are higher in Columbia than in this country.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross visited his mother in Berkeley before coming here. They arrived in Lubbock June 15 and plan to remain until about July 7.

Ross is general superintendent of the Texas Petroleum Co., Colombia division. His area is about the same size as the state of Texas. He is a graduate of Texas Technological college, with a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering. He attended the college from 1930 to 1934 and again in 1937-38. He has been in South America 11 years. Before going to Bogota about two and one-half years ago, he spent two and one-half years on the Barco concession at Cucuta and prior to that spent a year in Venezuela. He originally had worked first in Columbia before going to Venezuela. Mrs. Ross, a 1934 graduate of Texas Tech, joined her husband in South America in 1943. They were married in 1941.

Approximately 1,800 Americans live in Bogota. The residence of large number of Americans in other countries can promote friendly international relations if "the Americans conduct themselves properly," said Ross.

The United States residents in Bogota are employed by oil companies, construction companies and various service and sales organizations.

The reason Ross went to South America was that "there was a growing field for opportunity in foreign work because the emphasis seems to be on increasing our foreign operations."

Area Of No Seasons

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross is located in an area in which there are no seasons. At the time of the year when more rainfall occurs, the residents sometimes say winter has arrived, but the temperature generally is in the 50's the year around. In the Ross apartment, the fire is kept burning in the fireplace most of the year. The couple wears woolen clothing the year around. Altitude at Bogota is about 8,700 feet. The climate is invigorating, Ross said.

One of the principal differences in life in the United States and in Colombia, they find, is the absence of the middle class.

"They either clip coupons or work on a menial basis," Ross said. There are the wealthy and the poor and in rare instances the poor may become rich.

Despite the high living costs and the low income of the poor, they seem to live with no apparent extreme hardship. Even the cost of a two-cent banana may be a problem for them at times, however. Bananas are grown in Colombia and are one of the foods comparatively reasonable in price, even on inflated basis.

McKee-Tubbs Wedding Is Read In Methodist Church

THE marriage of Miss Betty Loys Tubbs and John Wallace McKee, jr., was performed Friday afternoon at 6 o'clock at First Methodist church with Dr. H. I. Robinson officiating. The altar, before which a double ring service was read, was banked with woodwardia fern, smilax, huckleberry and white gladioli and marconi daisies. Tapers burning in candelabra lighted the setting.

"Because" and "All the Things You Are" were sung by Lloyd Thompson, accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Mamie F. Neal, who also offered "I Love You Truly" as vows were read.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Tubbs of 2312 Twenty-ninth and the bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKee of 2511 Twenty-first.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of sheer marquisette fashioned with a fitted basque, an off-shoulder yoke outlined with a ruffle of Chantilly lace, and a full skirt decorated with bands of matching lace. Her long sleeves tapered into points over the hands and her skirt extended into a full length train. The bridal bouquet of stephanotis and an orchid was arranged on a white Bible and shower-

Wedding Dates For Mid-Summer Revealed By Lubbock Couples

THE wedding marches, candlelighted churches, flower-decked altars and the bride and her attendants, resplendent in their satin finery, continue to spotlight social news, as in past summers. Week end brings words of wedding dates set for the last week in June and for July.

To announce the approaching marriage of Miss Patsy Bumpass, to J. H. Cooley, jr., a tea was given in Mrs. B. E. Gentry's Faraway farm home on the Plainview highway Friday afternoon.

Seventy-five guests called between 3 and 5:30 o'clock.

In Receiving Line

Mrs. D. D. Webster greeted callers and introduced them to the line made up of Mrs. J. O. Bumpass, and Mrs. J. H. Cooley, mothers of the engaged couple, and to the bride-elect.

Misses Rose Kveton and Mary Bell Rowell presided at the register.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of pink asters and rosebuds, from which extended white satin streamers lettered in gold with "Patsy and J. H., June 29."

Mrs. Billy Meyers presided and was assisted in serving by Mesdames C. V. Lanham and J. J. Chauncey. Mr. Gentry and Mrs. Earl Hobbs assisted in hospitalities.

The wedding will take place in St. John's Methodist church.

Club Is Host At Barbecue

Cotillion club's dance and chicken barbecue, given Friday night at Mackenzie State park Party house, was attended by 45 persons.

Hosts were Messrs. and Mesdames Kirby Nutt, E. L. Billingsley, Bob Elam, J. D. Collier, James Dunn and Everett E. Rhodes.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Malone of Big Spring, Mrs. Fred Alexander of Fort Worth, Mrs. Nick Alley, jr., of Hale Center, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. McClendon, Miss Wanda Akin, and Messrs John Bain, Jim Crook and Fulton Davis.

Caffey Family Stages Reunion In Lubbock

The five children of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Caffey had their first reunion in 10 years this month. The Caffey home at 2911 North Third was scene of the event.

Those attending were Dorsey Caffey and daughters, LaVona Kay and Carol Dee of St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Travis Caffey of Seattle, Wash; Rawayne Caffey of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Diamond of Lubbock; and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Clark of Berkeley, Calif.

Other relatives attending were Mrs. J. F. Caffey's mother, Mrs. Carrie Smith of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bolin of Marfa, Mrs. P. Bannon of St. Louis, and Irby Smith of Maple. Many friends called, also.

Broadview Club Pals Revealed At Party

When Mrs. Garland Stokes entertained for the Broadview Sewing club recently names of club pals were revealed and gifts were exchanged. Mrs. Maurine Worsham was received as a member and Mrs. Allen Stacks was a guest.

Mrs. D. L. Watkins will be hostess to the club July 13.

Betty Jo Jackson Is To Wed Mr. Fregia

Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Jackson, 1111 Thirty-second, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Betty Jo Jackson, to Kelly Lee Fregia, jr., of Memphis, Tenn.

The ceremony will be read Saturday at 8 p. m. in St. John's Methodist church.

Eckles-Wright Vows To Be Read July 1

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Wright, 716 Ave. R, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Connie, to Otto Eckles, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Eckles of Slaton. The wedding date has been set as Friday, July 1.

Mrs. Cannon Is Club Hostess At Her Home

A Friday afternoon party was held in the home of Mrs. Maggie Cannon, 2124 Tenth, for Friday Needle club.

Attending were Mesdames W. E. Twitty, W. B. Yeager, C. F. Litton, J. C. Stansell, W. C. Barnett, J. A. Goodwin, W. B. Sides, H. V. Bigham, A. L. Harris, M. K. Foster, W. H. Trice, C. C. Burns, Minnie Fickas and M. E. Eddins.

The women sewed and played forty-two. The next meeting will be July 8 at 3 p. m. with Mrs. Eddins, 2914 Twenty-first.

Forty-Two Party Held For Club, Husbands

A Friday night forty-two party was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kirk, 2612 Thirtieth, for Sunshine Needle club members and their husbands.

Ice cream and cake were served to Messrs. and Mesdames H. B. Wallin, D. T. Perkins, Edwin Sowell, Albert Owens and Lester Harrison.

Mrs. Wallin and Mr. Perkins made high score and Mrs. Harrison and Mr. Wallin low.

Miss McLaughlin Will Wed Mr. Johnston

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Estelle McLaughlin and Robert E. Johnston, jr., is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, 2221 Sixteenth. Mr. Johnson is son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Johnston of Corpus Christi.

On Saturday, July 30, at 8 o'clock in the evening, the couple will be married at College Avenue Church of Christ.

Miss McLaughlin is a graduate of Abilene Christian college and has a Master of Arts degree from Texas Technological college. Mr. Johnston is a senior student at Tech.

Chapple-Nystel Vows Are Read Saturday

Miss Merril Nystel, 3214 Twenty-seventh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Nystel of Abernathy, and Harry Chapple, son of Mrs. Daisy Chapple of Christoval, were married Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at St. John's Methodist church. Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of First Methodist church, performed a double ring ceremony before an altar arranged with baskets of pink and white gladioli and fern.

Bob Scoggin, organist, accompanied Arch C. Nystel as he sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an aqua dress with matching accessories. Her tailored colonial bouquet was of white gladioli and carnations showered with white streamers. For something old, she wore pearls belonging to her mother.

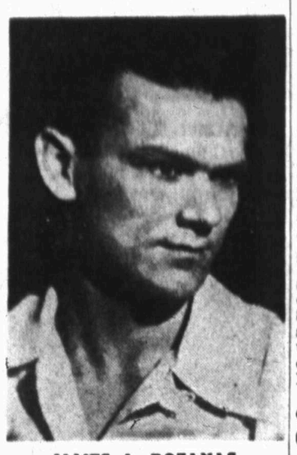

Mrs. G. A. Nystel, matron of honor, wore a navy blue sheer dress and accessories and carried a tailored colonial bouquet of aqua tinted iris surrounded by white carnations.

Sid Brown served as best man and G. A. Nystel and Joe Gaylor were ushers.

After June 29, the couple will be at home in Fort Worth. For a wedding trip, the bride wore a white pique dress with Irish lace trim. Her accessories were in brown and white.

Mrs. Chapple is a graduate of North Texas State college and has been employed as a teacher by Lubbock Public school system. Mr. Chapple is a graduate of Texas Technological college and is employed by the U. S. Government Engineers in Fort Worth.

GOSSIP

JAMES A. ROZANAS

Dear Buck,

I promised you a picture of Rozanas and here it is. He will be here in the Larrymore Dance Studio in just three weeks to give the best course in acrobatics Lubbock has ever had. We at the Studio feel so grateful to have him. Just think, his first time to ever teach in Texas and the Larrymore Studio has the honor. Did you know that it would cost about ten times as much to take this course if one went away to take it? We are so proud to have him that we are planning to give acrobatic lessons FREE for the next three weeks to all that plan to take his course. You see, we would like to get them in shape so they can get the most out of this course.

We are still working on the studio. I will tell you more about that next Sunday.

Remember to write me care of—

GOOD ADVICE

ONE morning last week we were slightly miffed just as a visitor, a former employe at the Avalanche-Journal, dropped by for a brief call. A young woman has just hung up the telephone after calling about her wedding which she said was in the mail. "Please write it exactly as I have it," she ordered, "and make the engraving of my picture as large as the glossy print and put it on page 1."

It took a little patience to explain that we have our own style of writing and promise nothing about size of pictures or their placement in the paper. With some difficulty we kept from being sarcastic.

Our visitor smiled. He's a swell guy. He offered good advice.

"Most people do not know how your business is run," he suggested. "They need to be given an explanation and it's nice to tell them in a kind way."

Miss Taylor Is Married

In a double ring ceremony read at Morton First Baptist church Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, Miss Billie Marie Taylor became the bride of Roy Truman Weed. She is a daughter of Mrs. Mark B. Jordan of Lubbock and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. Nile Weed of Morton.

The couple wore a white salyna dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

After a short trip, the couple will be at home at Morton. The bridegroom served with the Marine corps for three years. He works for an oil drilling corporation at Morton.

Friends and relatives attended the wedding.

Germicides For Yard Insects Are Talked

Mrs. Ralph Norton and Mrs. C. S. Tramel who gave a demonstration for Sunshine Home Demonstration club Friday afternoon advised the women to spray and dust their yards and gardens often in order to control insects. They reported that Isotox used in increased strength will kill stubborn, destructive insects. The women explained that one should experiment to find the correct amount of spray to be used in her yard.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Glenn Wages, Slaton highway. Mrs. George Long gave a council report and an announcement was made that Mrs. Robert L. Harris, Levelland highway, will check pressure cooker gauges at any time.

The club decided to help send a 4-H girl to the annual 4-H encampment in July .

Members are to entertain the Cowan H-D club Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. R. W. Breedlove. The next regular meeting will be July 8 at 2 p. m. at Mrs. H. K. Hicks' home, 608 Thirty-eighth.

Fifteen members and three guests, Mesdames W. M. Waite, F. M. Dorman and J. D. Hendrix, attended.

Miss Bobby-Anne Tubbs, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress of aqua marquisette was made similar to the bride's. She carried a bouquet of yellow flowers. The bridesmaids, Miss Jo Ann Forbes, Miss Polly Gossett and Mrs. Graham Bogel, wore yellow marquisette dresses identical to the maid-of-honor's. Their aqua flowers were in cascade arrangement.

In Wedding Party

Carolyn Sue Tubbs, sister of the bride, and Sara Jane Tubbs, cousin of the bride, were flower girls in the wedding and were dressed in aqua to resemble the bridesmaids.

Horton Russell of Amarillo was best man and Jack Crawford of Jacksonville, Billy Mickle of Breckenridge and Charles Lovelace of Big Spring were ushers.

Wedding guests attended a reception in Yaqui room of Hilton hotel after the ceremony Parents of the bride and bridegroom and members of the wedding party assisted with hospitalities. Others in the houseparty were Mesdames R. S. Rodger, sr., T. E. Patterson, Fenner Tubbs, Robert Rodgers, jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Tubbs and Miss Luan Wear.

A gardenia tree with long branches centered the bride's table which was arranged with silver and crystal appointments and a three-tired wedding cake.

Out-of-town guests were from Eastland, Waco, Amarillo, Breckenridge, Midland and Canyon.

To Live In Lubbock

After July 5, when Mr. and Mrs. McKee return from a wedding trip to Denver, Colo., they will be at home at 2505 Twenty-first. For travel, the bride wore a navy blue and wihte linen suit with navy blue accessories and an orchid corsage.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Lubbock High school and Mrs. McKee was a member of DFD social club while attending Texas Technological college. She is employed by the City Light and Water department. Mr. McKee is majoring in chemical engineering at Tech.

Styles More Conservative

BY DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

Easter shopping will be fun this year.

The reason—there's a style to suit every taste in the spring lineup, and the wary shopper needn't be frightened of exaggerated styles.

Clothes have settled down into wearable, flattering lines, with no outside hips, no cumbersome too-long skirts, none of those alarming wasp waists. They follow the lines of the human figure easily and comfortably, escnew gadgets.

Suits for the most part have straight slim skirts, or concentrate fullness at the back or side, so that the silhouette still is slim, Jackets are softly tailored, usually with enough shoulder padding to flatter the average female figure but not enough to give that football look.

Hats are small, close-fitting and eminently right with the conservative silhouette. You'll see less use of huge flower trimmings, more of the small, flat flower ornaments, pressed between tulle for a hat band or a brim facing. Many hats are completely untrimmed, depending on silhouette and unusual materials for their distinction. Shiny chip straws are in high favor, as are the light satiny shantung weaves. The sailor, the bonnet and the cloche are the top silhouettes, all fitting the head and not perched precariously on top.

Handbags have a suave, ladylike look this spring, are on the whole smaller than formerly, come in handsome new colors such as bamboo beige and avocado green, as well as the staple black, brown and navy.

Shoes follow the handbag colors, with the shell silhouette still highly popular, with or without straps. Delicate cut-out designs on the toe give an airy effect to styles with closed too and heel.

Other accessories are fun, also, There's the new cracat scarf, slightly larger than a man's bow tie, to be knotted casually about the throat. There are blouses of sheer, frilly nylon marquisette or silk shantung in glowing colors.

Carol Lyn Hall, 2, Is Honored On Birthday

Carol Lyn Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hall, Slide road, was guest of honor at a party given on her second birthday Friday in the home of Mrs. Cacil Stanton, 2001 Twenty-second.

Guests were Karen Fowler, Billy, Tommy and Joyce Burleson, Larry and Cary Pollard, Linda Kay Stanton and Don Stanley Nabors. Mothers at the party were Mrs. Tommy Burleson, Mrs. Elaine Pollard and Mrs. Wallie Fowler.

Figure To Be In Spotlight This Season

Heavy Fabrics, Slim Lines Feature New Fall Clothes

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 25—Fabrics must be heavyweight—and ladies the opposite—to meet fall style requirements.

Skirts will be pared down, sleeves whacked off, waistlines pushed in. And women will dine on consomme and lettuce.

Big-name designers proved it will be a season of lean ladies in their showing of autumn dresses in New York this week.

Hiplines made headlines for their almost boyish straightness, and fabrics gave "weight" to the fashion story.

One designer showed heavy natural burlap in a skirt as taut-fitting as a bulging sugar sack.

Another featured a straight tweed skirt with a thick suede band around the hips.

These are exaggerated samples of the slim line-bulky fabric trend that all dress, coat and suit-makers are turning out. But each designer has his own technique for interpreting it.

For example:

Jacques Fath (now designing an American line for Joseph Halpert) likes solid worsteds in match-stick-shaped skirts.

His new "shutter skirt,' done in heavy materials from gabardines to one-eighth-inch thick satins, is as slim as a sheath. But it has folds of material on both sides which wrap across either the front or back in a bustle effect.

Pauline Trigere — goes for sheath skirts too. But she adds full-flowing overskirts for a woman's feminine moods.

She makes snug-fitting knitted bodies above long and slim wool jersey skirts. To complete the ensemble, there's a swishy taffeta overskirt that hooks around the waist.

Davidow—think jackets should be short, to give further emphasis to the slender hip.

This suit manufacturer offers both soft and tailored suits with jackets that reach just to the hipbone, below a waistline held in by finger-width belts.

In coat-dresses, Davidow designs only double-breasted models with skinny skirts. Tweed is definitely the fabric that gets featured spot in the collection.

Foxy, inc.—believes in pockets to accentuate hips.

Foxy, like most high-fashion dressmakers, puts an extra bulge on a lady's hips by adding pockets that jut out either in front, back or directly across the side seams.

However the designers contrive to do it, the woman's figure will be put in the spotlight this season.

Though clothes-makers may vary on their methods of approach to the new silhouette, they agree on these major requirements of style:

1) Skirts should be 13 to 14 inches from the floor.

2) hips should be trim.

3) Waistlines should be small and small-belted.

4) Bodices should be gently bloused.

5) Shoulders should be lightly padded.

Jones-Overby Rites Read

LITTLEFIELD, June 25 (Spc.)—In a twilight ceremony performed Saturday, June 18 at Seventh and James Baptist church in Waco, Miss Frances Maudell Overby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. G. Overby of Waco, became the bride of Jodye Elmo Jones. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jones of Littlefield.

The couple left after a reception for Colorado and will make their home in Littlefield. The reception was held in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. S. N. Spencer.

Mr. Overby gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of ivory slipper satin, designed with marquisette yoke, wide satin bertha, fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a cornet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of cascading gardenias.

Miss Helen Boris McKelroy was maid of honor. Jarold Jones of Littlefield attended his brother as best man and ushers were Tommy Hyslop of Goldthwaite, Winston Barton of Littlefield, George Hughes, jr., of San Angelo and Reuben Watts, jr., of Waco.

Wedding music was furnished by Miss Bernice St. Johnson, soloist, and Mrs. L. Nelson Lee, organist.

Advance Program For WSCS Is Discussed

East Broadway Methodist church Women's Society of Christian service, met Thursday afternoon at the church. Mrs. B. E. Young of Post, district secretary of Missionary education, led a caravan of speakers, who presented the goals for the advance program of the Women's division of the Methodist church.

Others in the caravan were Mrs. Roy Lemond of Grassland, Mrs. T. V. Brady and Mrs. C. A. Bickley of Lubbock.

Refreshments were served at the parsonage to 17 persons attending.

On a cool day bake potatoes for two meals; then use the leftover potatoes creamed, in salad, or in hash.

Town Talk

MISS NANCY BRASELTON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Braselton, 2007 Twenty-sixth, is vacationing in Los Angeles and Hollywood, Calif.

Before she returns home about the middle of July, Nancy will visit in Santa Ana, La Habra and Hermosa Beach. En route home she will stop at Grand Canyon, see the Petrified forest and drive through the painted dessert.

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Zachary have been taking an extended trip in the East. After visiting interesting historical spots in Kentucky and Alabama, they drove on to New York Philadelphia, and Salem, Mass., then visited Longfellow's House in Portland, Maine, before stopping in Boston and Lake Placid to see places of interest there.

After spending some time on Lake Michigan, the Lubbock couple went into Canada and then turned homeward. He was going to visit his mother in Illinois, and she, her mother in Missouri, and then the Zacharys were coming on home together.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Benson, jr., and sons, Dan and Jimmy, are vacationing in Crede, Colo.

Among the out-of-town guests here to attend the Merril Nystel-Harry Chapple wedding which was read Saturday night are a brother of the bride, Arch Nystel of San Francisco, Calif., and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Daisy Chapple of Chritoval.

The Californian visitor is a guest in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Nystel, 3218 Twenty-second, and Mrs. Chapple is staying in the home of her sister, Mrs. G. C. Hufstedler, 2203 Eighteenth.

A buffet supper will be served tonight at the Lubbock Country club for members and their guests. Reservations should be made in advance.

Miss Juanita Reynolds, bride-elect of Morris Cranford, was honored with a kitchen shower recently in the Uel D. Crosby home, 1917 Twenty-third, with Mrs. Buran Pruitt and Misses Helen Lois Simpson, Mary Settle and Ruth Crosby as hostesses.

A program was given on "A Day in a Busy Bride's Life."

A miniature bridal couple beneath an arch of fern and orchid sweetpeas decorated the piano in the living room, and the refreshment table was centered with a rolling pin tied with streamers of the bride'elect's chosen colors, green, yellow and orchid, and lettered with "Morris and Juanita, June 28."

Guests were the honoree and Misses Anita Reynolds, Alice Gibson, Meradith Smith, Iris Jeffcoat, Pat Allgood, Myriam Kelso and Charlotte Cranford.

Here from Greensboro, N. C., to attend the Reynolds-Cranford wedding, which will be read Tuesday at 8 p. m. in Asbury Methodist church, are Mrs. Charles Beavers and daughters, Beverly, Charlotte and Elaine, and Mrs. Beavers's sister-in-law, Miss Lydia Beaver.

Other wedding guests arriving Saturday were Mrs. Ella Barbers, Mrs. Victoria Durden and Jim Elmore, all of Eastland.

Miss Reynolds will be guest of honor at a tea-shower this afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock in the Harvey Allen home at 2102 Sixth. Mrs. Allen's daughter, Mrs. L. D. Ballard of Plainview, will be hostess.

A Monday luncheon honoring the bride-elect will be given at the Chicken Village at 12:30 o'clock. Miss Reynolds' sister, Mrs. Charles Beavers, and Miss Lydia Beavers are to be hostesses.

The rehearsal dinner will be given Monday night at 7:30 o'clock by parents of the prospective bride and bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Reynolds, and Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Cranford, at the Reynolds home, 1402 Ave. U.

Life In Bolivia Will Be Discussed Before Methodist WSCS

Mrs. Tom B. Holden will speak on Bolivia and show motion pictures of that country at a meeting of First Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the church.

Mrs. T. H. Turner will ask invocation.

Mrs. Holden spent four months in Bolivia in 1948, under auspices of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs, going at the request of the Bolivian government in an advisory capacity. Her duties were to set up home economic courses in rural normal schools.

At present Mrs. Holden is studying towards a master of arts degree from Texas Tech college; her thesis subject being "Home Life Education in Latin American Countries."

Betsy Ross Club Will Have Park Breakfast

Betsy Ross Needle club will have a Wednesday breakfast at 9 o'clock at Mackenzie State park. Mrs. Elmer Harris and Mrs. S. R. McKinnon are to be hostesses.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

Mrs. J. C. Edwards, 3011 Twenty-fourth, entertained with a coffee Saturday morning to introduce Miss Billie Nickels of McAdoo. Seventy-five guests called.

Miss Nickels is to marry Mrs. Edwards' son, Malcolm Edwards, Aug. 26 in McAdoo. They are students at Baylor university, Waco. Mr. Edwards is to teach at the university this fall.

Demonstration To Be Given By Students

Pupils of Mrs. Claude Frazier, a new staff member of the Baker school, will be presented Friday morning at 10 o'clock in a demonstration of what they are learning in summer school. The program will be held at the school, 1911 Eighteenth.

Mrs. H. P. Baker is to be in charge of music. Mrs. Frazier is a candidate for a master's degree at North Texas State college.

After the program, the birthdays of Ann Peters, 6, of Roswell, N. M., and Jean Ann Baudine, 9, of Dumas will be celebrated. Ann's mother, Mrs. Frank Peters, will serve refreshments.

DOG MOTHERS CHICKS—Queen, a half cocker spaniel dog who adopted four baby bantam chicks, is shown above with her wards and with Joreta Newton, 10, and Gary Gene Newton, 8, children of Capt. and Mrs. Gilbert Newton of 4608 Overton drive. Queen adopted the four chicks a week ago after the children's grandfather, J. M. Jones of Lubbock, gave them to the children. She took great care of the chicks, giving the frequent washings such as baby pups might receive. At night she curled up with them and kept them warm. Joreta accidentally stepped on one chick and Queenie smothered another Friday night. The chicks appear to like Queen's attentions and take them for granted. (Staff Photo).

Barbara Jo Fox Is Married To John Farris Fish, Jr.

RAYMONDVILLE, June 25.—Miss Barbara Jo Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Fox, and John Farris Fish, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Farris Fish of Matador, were married at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night at the Raymondville First Methodist church. Rev. J. W. Albritten, a retired minister, was the officiating clergyman.

Tall ivory containers filled with white gladioli and greenery were placed against an altar background of large fern trees and gladioli trees. Tapers burned in white candelabra. Wedding music included three solos, "If God Left Only You," "Because" and "Father Almighty" by Stanley Addington, accompanied by Mrs. B. S. Wright, organist. Mr. Addington offered as the benediction a prayer set to the music of "Ave Maria."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over white net and satin. French rosebuds with pearl centers outlined the low round yoke and decorated various points of the skirt. She wore elbow length mitts of lace and carried a bouquet of white orchids surrounded by lilies of the valley and white lace. Her two tiered fingertip veil of illusion fell from a seed pearl coronet.

Miss Mildred Chrestman, maid of honor, Misses Irene Baughman, Betty Zane Stewart and Mary Sue Stewart of Houston and Patty Euler of Dallas, bridesmaids, and Miss Suzy Fish of Electra, junior bridesmaid, were dressed in powder blue springanza, styled with drop shoulders and full skirts accented with shirring. Miss Chrestman's bouquet was of blue carnations centered with white carnations. The other attendants carried blue carnations surrounded by white net.

The flower girl, Florence Allen, wore a dress identical to the bridesmaids. She carried a white satin basket filled with shattered blue carnations.

Dr. James R. Fish of Electra was best man and John Braithwait of Bolivar, Mo., Tom Hafer of Dallas, Al Karsten of Mission, Kan., and Alan Fox were ushers.

Reception Honors Couple

After the ceremony, a reception was given in the Gormon Fox country home. The bridesmaids' boquets formed the centerpiece of the bride's table. Mrs. Gordon Hopkins served the wedding cake and Mrs. J. K. Smith presided at the guest register.

Mrs. Fish, for a wedding trip to Monterrey and Saltillo, Mexico, is wearing a powder blue silk shantung suit with navy blue and white accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Fish are to make their home in Dallas. The bride, a graduate of Southern Methodist university, was choral director at Plainview High school during the past year. At SMU she was a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority and Mu Phi Epsilon honorary music fraternity. The bridegroom has attended New Mexico Military institute and SMU.

FUTURE MRS. CRANFORD

Juanita Reynolds, who will marry Morris Cranford Tuesday, has known her fiance since they were in Lubbock Junior High school and he played second trombone in the school band. The couple had their first date when they were juniors in Lubbock High school.

They already have a little two room house at 808 Ave. S, and will move in immediately after they return from a two weeks wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo. Juanita Reynolds proudly describes the little house as havtwo outside doors, a full-sized bath, and a combination living, dining and bedroom. She especially likes her kitchen, being an experienced young cook already, and is pleased with the red linoleum cabinet top.

Since the house is furnished, the couple will store most of their things with their families, but the bride will make room for the cedar chest which Morris gave her as a Christmas present. He has just completed an air conditioner which he designed for the little bungalow. The soon-to-be Mr. and Mrs. Cranford, hope to build a new house of their own this fall, and if so, it will be decorated in green, yellow and lavender, the colors which Juanita is carrying out in her wedding.

The "something old" which the bride will be wearing Tuesday will be a pair of gold bracelets set with rubies. They belong to her grandmother, Mrs. S. P. Crawford, who received them from Mr. Crawford just before they were married. The white Bible which Juanita will carry, will be "something borrowed" and belongs to Mrs. Bob Nicks.

Among the roomfull of presents the couple has received are the gifts from their parents. The Reynolds chose a mix-master, and the Cranfords are giving them a place-setting in their silver. Mrs. Uel D. Crosby made the bride's wedding gown as a gift.

Morris gave Juanita a wristwatch marked only with the numerals 6 and 12, and has carefully explained to her whenever the hands point to those spots, it's time for her to fix him something to eat.

Best wishes to the bride and bridegroom!

LOVE,
LOU.

President Truman Not Planning To Attend Arkansas Celebration

WASHINGTON, June 25. (AP)—President Truman will not attend the July 4 celebration in Piggott, Ark., in honor of Senate secretary Leslie Biffle.

Presidential press secretary Charles G. Ross announced today that presidential assistant John R. Steelman will attend as the President's representative for "Les Biffle day." He will deliver a message from Mr. Truman.

Ross said the President does not plan to go far from the capital over the Independence day holiday weekend.

"No large trips is involved," he said.

Biffle and Steelman both are natives of Arkansas.

Tilting Of Earth May Be Changing Panhandle Weather

Oldtimers In Dalhart Country Don't Like Hard, Straight Winds Twisted Around

By ALBERT LAW
(Written For the Associated Press)

DALHART, June 25. — People are looking at the skies these days for something more than signs of rain, hail or duststorms.

They are looking for tornadoes.

The old boys with legs bowed from years of wrapping 'em around a cow pony will push their stetsons back on snow-capped heads and tell you they don't like this new twist to the weather. They'd prefer it like in the old days when winds and liquor were both hard and straight.

Used To Be Joke

They all pretty much feel like "Uncle Bill" McIntosh who used to punch cattle on the Texas High Plains fifty years ago and is still in the cattle business in Dalhart. "Up here in the peak of Texas," he said, "we used to give out with a belly laugh when someone asked if we were afraid of tornadoes. We'd snort derisively that we'd never had one—our straight winds blew 'em plum to perdition."

But those days may be gone forever. Twice this spring a tornado has struck close to Dalhart, one within five miles, the other within four. Other twisters have hit the panhandle this spring. The worst was a death-dealing tornado that lashed Amarillo in May.

Strikes Farm Twice

The favorite spawning ground of tornadoes, so far as the Dalhart country is concerned, is along Rita Blanca canyon about 12 miles south of Dalhart. The first tornado the oldtimers can remember formed in that sector in 1921. It dissipated near Dalhart and killed no one.

The second tornado to spawn along the Rita Blanca was two years ago. It dipped to earth almost immediately, rattled and damaged buildings and the Residence of Everett McIntyre, but didn't injure him or his wife.

The third tornado was born in that area in April this year, again struck the McIntyre farm, did more damage than its predecessor, then hopped and skipped northeastward nearly 30 miles before it broke up. It damaged buildings on a half dozen farms and ranches.

Natives Speculating

The second one followed by about a month, striking in mid-May. It formed near Nara Visa, N. M., 45 miles southwest of Dalhart on the Rock Island railroad and U. S. Highway 54. The funnel form passed over Nara Visa about noon on Monday, May 16, and snaked its leisurely and very damaging way northeastward until after midnight it dissiapted near Guymon, Okla. It killed a man in Oklahoma.

Cow country is calculating about the reasons for this spring's tornadoes, by far the worst since the second one struck May 16.

W. W. (Chunky) Bowling, a retired cattleman who moved to Stratford 49 years ago, is positive the Dalhart cow country weather has changed. "Uncle Bill" McIntosh agrees. Most of the change has come since the Dust Bowl days that spanned the mid-1930s.

Bowling pointed out that there are less winter blizzards now than 20 years ago. Incidentally, blizzards have claimed many more lives in this Panhandle country than tornadoes.

Temperatures Lower

June temperatures in the Dalhart country always used to reach 104, with a record top of 106. Now temperatures are lower—one summer the top was 93—but the air is more humid. "We've had eight good what crops in succession." Bowling said. "That never happened before."

Flossie Rhoades, who grew up with this country, says her nephew contends that the mounting weight of the polar ice cap has caused the earth to tilt more on its axis, changing the climate in certain areas.

District Court Reporter Joe Nisbett read of such a slip, understands that it is giving Dalhart the same kind of weather that Oklahoma and Kansas areas up to 200 miles north of here formerly had. That could account for the tornadoes, he thinks.

Mrs. Rhodes' husband, Henry, who punched cattle over this area during the free range days believes this is just a freak weather year.

Grady Randall said "I have noticed that during the hours leading up to the two tornadoes this spring you would feel first a puff of warm air, and then a puff of cool."

Two other factors that may have changed the weather in those wide open spaces are wheat farming and moisture conservation.

Dick Peck, who headed the Soil Conservation service office in Dalhart until he resigned to enter private business a few weeks ago, estimates there are at least one thousand earthen dams in the Dalhart area, ranging from little ones on ordinarily dry gullies on small farm to the massive half-million dollar structure that has created five-mile long Rita Blanca lake stored water might mean more humidity.

Peck says green wheat gives off a tremendous total of moisture, thus keeping the atmosphere cooler than otherwise but at the same time creating increased humidity. He thinks these two results of vast wheat acreages could be factors in the Dalhart area now having vicious spring hails. Oldtimers say years ago the big hails came mostly in late summer when long dry spells were broken.

1900's Tennis Queen Still Gives 'Lessons'

SANTA MONICA, Cal., June 25. (U.P.)—May Sutton Bundy, Wimbledon singles champion in 1905 and 1907, still bounds around like a schoolgirl, gives tennis lessons and supervises a large family.

It has been 50 years since she won the Southern California women's singles championships and went on in later years to capture tennis' highest honors as a member of a four-sister team of "tennis-playing Suttons."

From 1900 to 1917, either May Sutton or one of her sisters, Ethel, Violet or Florence took the Southern California singles championships.

Today May, daughter of a British sea captain who settled here in 1898, teaches regular tennis classes at a girls' chool and occaionally gives private tutoring at local tennis clubs.

"You have to teach the game to play it and know it well," she said. "There's so much difference."

In looking back on her athletic career, Mrs. Bundy says winning at Wimbledon was her biggest thrill. At that time, the British crown was considered to be the world championship honor.

After winning in 1907 she retired, married and had a family of four children, one of whom is Dorothy Bundy, a tennis star known from Melbourne, Australia, to Paris.

Mrs. Bundy's three sons, Bill, Nathan, and Tom, starred at football, golf and swimming.

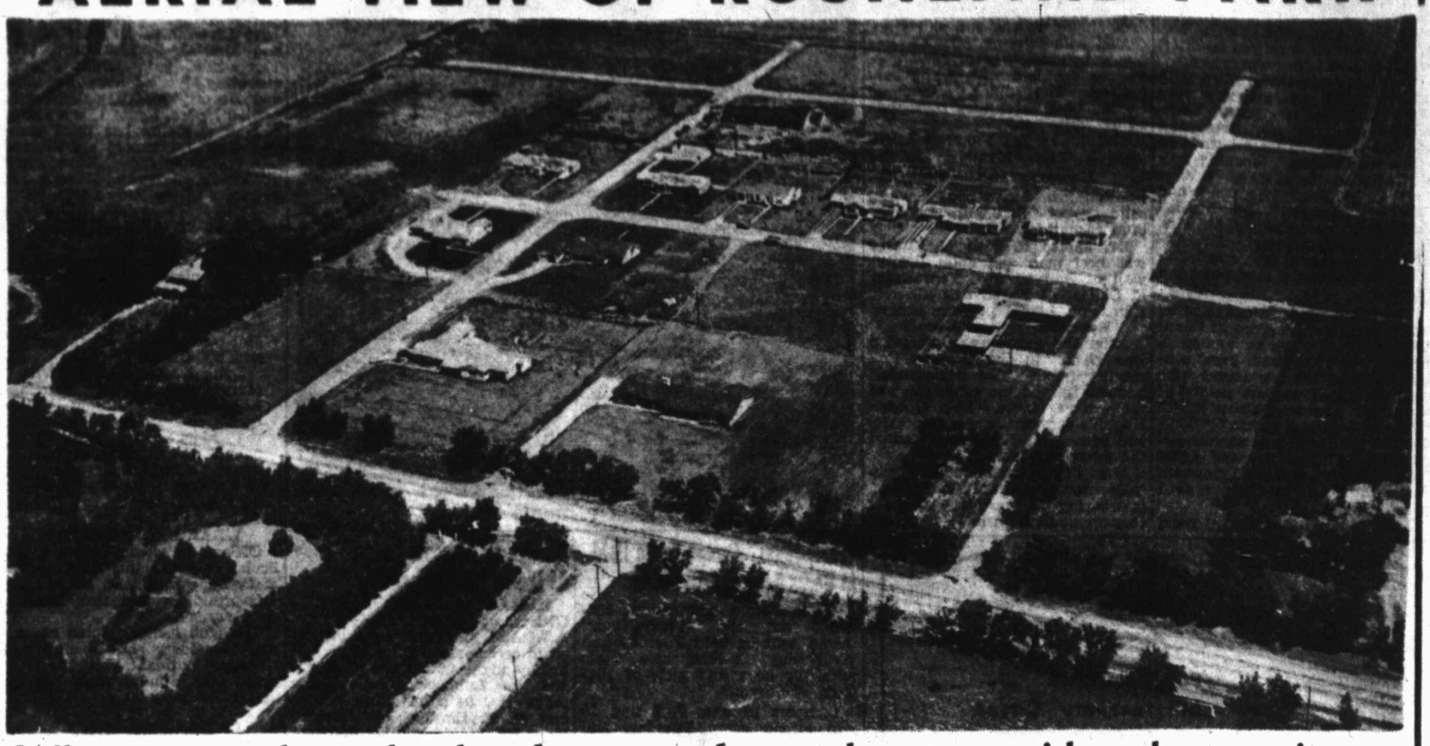

Tennis doesn't occupy all the former women's Wimbledon champion's life at all. Her family and her two grandchildren really come first.

But she misses the "good old days" and recalls with pride the old matches at Santa Monica's casino courts where the spectators drank tea, bands played between matches and "everything was scrumptious."

CLUE TO LOST CITY

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya, June 25. (AP)—Somewhere in the Pahang jungles lies the lost city of Telok Chini, built and occupied by the pre-Malay inhabitants of Pahang during the 14th Century. Dr. W. E. Linehan, the Federation of Malaya's new director of museums and an authority on Malayan lore, says it is possible that Telok Chini may yet be discovered. He said disturbances of ground by mining and by violent floods may have aided the thick jungles in concealing other archaeological remans of forgotten, ancient cities.

New School Laws Will Mean More Teachers At Better Pay

(By The Associated Press)

More money, more teachers—extended programs but tighter operations.

That's what the Gilmer-Aikin school laws, recently passed by the Texas legislature, will mean to school systems over the state.

Sherman schools will receive $100,000 more anually—most of it marked for higher salaries. Fifteen new teachers will be hired. Outlying school districts now under contract to the Sherman district probably will be annexed.

The laws will bring an estimated net increase of $150,000 in state aid annually to Midland schools and Frank Monroe, superintendent, said 18 additional teachers will be employed.

Houston Greatly Aided

To the spreading Houston school system, the measures will mean an annual state aid bonanza of between three and four million dollars and the ultimate addition of 400 teachers.

Here are some results of a statewide survey to determine the effects of the bills on education in Texas:

Big Spring—It is roughly estimated the annual school budget will be increased by about $100,000. Of this, about $40,000 will go for increased cost of teachers. Because the lack of building space and resultant half-day school sessions, Big Spring may have to finance some 10 teachers beyond the 103 white teachers the Gilmer-Aikin plan allows the city.

Orange—Superintendent believes the measures will bring an annual increase in state assistance for the Orange public schools of between $360,000 and $380,000. Twenty three teachers ultimately will be added to the present staff of 168. But taxpayers of the county may have to dig deep to provide funds for school buildings to meet Gilmer-Aikin standards.

To Add Teachers

Marshall—Expenditures for education in Marshall will be raised form a 1948-49 figure of $486,737 to about $599,000. Twelve teachers will be added. Three adjacent common school districts may be consolidated with the Marshall independent school district.

Fort Worth—The local-state financing plan of the minimum foundation program can be met by the Fort Worth Independent district without a raise in taxes. But 22 of Tarrant county's 26 common school districts must raise their tax rates to qualify as nine-month schools and receive state aid.

San Antonio—Thomas B. Fortwood, superintendent of schools, said the measures will mean lighter teacher loads in San Antonio, particularly in hard-pressed elementary schools. More teachers will be hired.

Must Vote Increases

Wallas — County School Supt. Joe P. Harris said ten Dallas county common school districts must vote tax increases to match state funds and qualify for benefits of the new laws. He commended the laws, but said "we've got to move fast to have enough revenue to pay our share." E. D. Walker, assistant superintendent of Dallas schools, said the new plan would not necessarily mean more teachers for Dallas.

VICTORIA — Teachers salaries will be increased an average of $400 annually and besides this the net income increase for the Victoria district will be $45,000. Of 30 common school districts in Victoria county, 26 will be required to raise tax rates. Seven dormant districts will have to consolidate with operating districts to receive Gilmer-Aikin benefits.

Hire Better Teachers

Corpus Christi — M. P. Baker, school superintendent, says a pay hike will make possible the hiring of better qualified teachers. More teachers will be hired. At present the Corpus Christi district has 600 teachers and more than 21,000 scholastics.

Lubbock — The school district may receive as much as $100,000 annually in additional state funds. And teaching standards will be logical college and West Texas State college have at Canyon enrolled record numbers of teachers for graduate studies in the current summer term. For many veteran Lubbock teachers who have masters' degrees the bills will mean pay increases of $800 to $1,000 ayear. The pay scale probably will induce others to continue their studies.

San Angelo—Increased state assistance will bring $293,380 additional annually to San Angelo schools and $40,000 annually to rural schools in Tom Green county. The teacher load will not be affected materially. The Gilmer-Aikin measure require one teacher for every 26 students. San Angelo already has one teacher for every 21 students.

Perryton—The bills will bring an added $65,000 per year to the Perryton independent school district, will allow an increase of six teachers to the faculty and will force four common school districts in Ochiltree county to consolidate with the Perryton district.

Not Going Hog Wild

Wichita Falls—The annual increase for Wichital Falls will be $340,000, 40 more white classroom teachers will be hired and teachers will get more pay. Also, one more vocational teacher, nine more special teachers and three supervisors will be employed. But Wichita Falls does not except to hire all these new teachers this year. "Just because the state is footing the bill, we aren't going hog-wild about this thing," Superintendent Joe B. McNiel said.

Waco—Schools here will have $50,000 more annually for spending money. Teachers will get a pay boost. In McCennan county the bills probably will force the consolidation of one small district falling under the law that districts which have not operated a school for two years must consolidate. Plainview children have been going to school at McGreggor for more than two years. Two districts in Falls county will fall under the same law and probably will be consolidated with the Bruceville-Eddy school. Hoolia and Blevins have not had a school in at least two years.

Borger—The number of classroom teachers will be raised from 156 to 170. "There is not a school in Hutchinson county that will not benefit," said Borger superintendent C. A. Cryer. Salaries of inexperienced teachers will be raised from $2,007 for a nine-month period to $2,403.

Wage Scale Boosted

Midland—The wage scale for teachers with bachelor degrees will range from $2,403 to $3,051 as compared to $1,910 to $2,750 last year. The scale for teachers with masters degrees will range from $2,628 to $4,032, depending on experience. Last year's rate was $2,250 to $2,850.

Grayson county—Nineteen dormant districts will be annexed to other districts. Tax hikes are indicated in several districts which have been getting most of their support from state funds. Some of them have been getting as much as $9 state money to $1 in local tax funds.

Houston—Houston's $32,500,000 school building program may not provide enough classrooms to meet full participation and may prove the way for further bond issues for construction. Houston teachers are relatively high paid and will not notice much increase in their paychecks.

Meeting To Be Held

AMARILLO — A meeting will be conducted here next Wednesday and Thursday to instruct school administrators of this area in interpretations of the Gilmer-Aikin bills. Other such two-day meetings will be held in other parts of the state from June 29 through July 8.

El Paso—Two representatives of state auditor's office will explain the laws to El Paso school men July 5. C. W. Webb, director of special activities for El Paso city schools, says until the explanation is heard the following points can be noted: the law provides for no decrease for legal school taxes for the next two years; best possible guess is about 7 per cent increase in average salary of qualified teachers in El Paso; El Paso schools receive approximately 50 per cent more money from the state than last year, or approximately $700,000. Webb said the costs the state was undertaking to meet over the "entire state of Texas seems now to be bound to create a deficit in the state school funds so that, as in rural aid communities heretifore, we in El Paso may not be able to get settlement from the state for perhaps the last month of school next year and for next summer's outlays." He said El Paso was the only large school system in the state which fought the Gilmer-Aikin bills.

Roaches Smell Color, Scientists Discover

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 (U.P.) —Two Yale University scientists proved to a distinguished gathering that the lowly cockroach can smell colors, and can smell black in particular. Maybe, they think humans can, too.

Using several large roaches, a cage, an aluminum checkerboard and some lampblack, Dr. Walter Miles and Lloyd Beck demonstrated the theory that colors affect the sense of small through sudden heat-loss in the smell organs.

The checkerboard was laid out in alternate squares of unpainted aluminum and lampblack, which had no smell, and the roaches were placed on the floor of the cage, half an inch above the checkerboard. The cage was especially equipped to conduct heat.

The lights were turned out, and when the test was over the roaches were directly over the black heat-absorbing squares. The scientists explained that the roaches were drawn over the black squares because of heat flowing from the smell organs to the lampblack.

The aluminum, they said, threw back heat, and caused no heat loss to the sense of small of the roaches. Because of nose-heat loss, Miles said, they smelled the black squares.

The experiment was performed at a meeting of the American Philosophical Society.

In using canned baked beans for a hot-weather salad put the beans in a strainer and rinse under gently running cold water. Toss the beans in the sieve to drain them before using.

Yeggmen Give College Short Course In Safe Engineering

ATLANTA, June 25 (AP) — Georgia Tech today had been given a short course in safe engineering.

The lesson was administered by a couple of yeggmen who broke into a "burglar proof" vault and made off with $3,900 in cash, checks and war bonds.

To add insult to injury the safe-crackers then re-locked the vault. It took a locksmith four hours in broad daylight yesterday to get it open again.

Through The Coral Doors

Howdy Folks—

Things looked a little tipsy as I opened the coral door at my favorite spot, but then another look and I knew it wasn't I—just a couple of huge wine bottles and a punch bowl that James and Anne bought in New York. They are clear plastic wrapped in plastic raffia and fit into a cork ring that keeps them perfectly balanced at any angle. I'll bet I know some smart bars that would look even smarter with these new pieces.

Seems to me everybody I know is celebrating their silver wedding anniversary. In fact there are about as many people choosing a new pattern of silver for this occasion as there are brides choosing sterling for the first time. I guess if two people have really lived twenty-five years together they could at least get the family silver worn a bit thin, and Decorators Studio's choice of discriminating patterns evidently has its appeal to those who can afford to be choosy. Frank Smith's heavy individual design and Allan Adler's hand-wrought sterling I think could even please Princess Ali Khan. You can have your own design made up whether you're a princess or just a Texas home-maker.

A neighbor of Ruth Taylor Hunt's in Fairfield, Iowa was visiting the Studio—said Ruth had told him it was the prettiest place in the world and he couldn't afford to miss it. Of course, Fredda beamed and said now she would have to forgive Ruth for not writing.

More houses seem to be in the making. Bee and Fredda had fabric and plans all over the front room working with a couple of clients with an out-of-town license.

Josie was spending her time between silver anniversary customers and brides choosing china, crystal and silver—getting back to her desk at intervals to study blue prints spread out all over hurricane's deck, meaning of course that new nook of hers with the purple desk.

The Studio had a letter from James mailed when he and Anne docked in England. Think he spent his entire voyage in a deck chair acquiring a tan in competition to his Hindoo neighbor. He gave no report on Anne but I'll bet she was having fun and was in on all the boat's goings-on. Of course Anne will write if and when she has time but maybe now it's just as well, cause it takes the entire force several hours to decipher her newsy letters and looks to me like Decorators Studio, corner Broadway and N, is much too busy to take out that several hours.

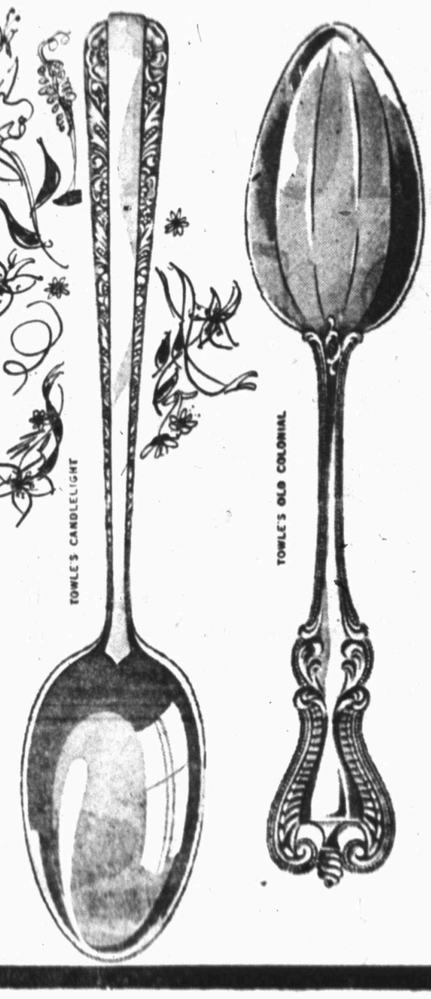

More news next week, same place, same time.

Grandpa Nosey

P. S. Fredda says they are all taking off both Saturday and Monday in celebration of the 4th, so plan your shopping before Saturday or you will be disappointed.

OUTDOOR LIVING ROOMS

Why not move outside this summer? Take advantage of the air, sunshine and cool breeze as long as you can. With a little thought and very little expense you can turn your porch into a comfortable room.

Like the other rooms in your home, the porch should be furnished to give the greatest amount of comfort and beauty the space allows. Easy chairs and low tables are always popular.

The color scheme is up to you . . . but for perfect harmony it should match the rug, or floor coloring. Green, orange and yellow often make a gay combination.

It's fun to furnish a porch because of the great latitude allowed. No matter what your budget is, you'll find new and exciting pieces of furniture to fit it.

Just because you're furnishing a porch, don't think for a minute that you have to stick to rustic, outdoor type of furniture . . . go ahead and use what you like, watching scale, of course. Show some individuality . . . it will pay off in a porch where you and your friends will want to spend many friendly hours.

If there's any way we can help make your porch a better place to live, let us know.

SEYMOUR, June 25 — One of the world't noiseist and busiest migrations is getting into full swing. It's accompanied by sweat and toil, dust and sometimes tears.

But a lovely, motherly woman who has gone along on the annual grain harvest trek for seven years finds it an "exciting life." She is Mrs. V. W. Turner of Corsicana.

Each year in the spring this migration begins. Thousands of grain combines, accompanied by more thousands of gleaming grain trucks, roar down on the south from Canada and the Northern United States.

Cross Into Canada

These combines cut and thresh grain in one operation. The combines roll south until they reach warm latitudes where grain first ripens each year. Along the way other combines join the southward march.

When the men and machines reach ripe grain, they turn and work north, harvesting as they go. Finally, by fall, they cross into Canada to wind up the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner are a little different. They don't have to go south. The first ripe grain is on their doorstep.

Mrs. Turner's husband is a crew chief with an outfit of typical size. Including Turner, there are eight crewmen. He owns three combines, four trucks and a huge, 35-foot house trailer.

Cooks For Crew

The trailer is Mrs. Turner's domain.

She says: "Sometimes it seems to me that it's just as important to keep the boys well fed and to provide a home atmosphere for them as to actually combine the wheat."

And can Mrs. Turner cook?

"She really can," says Glen White, a six-foot-plus youth in the crew.

The trailer is well equipped for Mrs. Turner. It has bottled gas for the range and a gas-operated refrigerator. Electrical connections provide lights, power for fans and heat for an electric iron. At one end is a semi-circular dining table which seats 10.

One half of the trailer is devoted to living quarters for Mr. and Mrs. Turner and their college sophomore daughter, Bobradine, who is going along this year. It has practically all the comforts of a stationary home.

Turner has been harvesting 11 years. In the off season, he operates earth moving machinery and other heavy-duty equipment at Corsicana.

Has Regular Route

He's made the trip north so often that he knows in advance which farms he'll harvest. He doesn't have to scramble for jobs like the newcomers do.

Each year, he starts the season on the land of Lincoln Burns and other farmers near here. Then his route generally is through the Texas panhandle, sometimes into western Colorado. From there he goes to Liberal and Elkhart, Kansas, and on through Nebraska and South and North Dakota. Normally he ends the season at West Hope, N. D., three miles from the Canadian border. On occasion he follows the ripening wheat into Canada.

Mrs. Turner had to stay home and care for her children until 1942. She's made the trip each year since except for 1943.

It's surprising to discover that Mrs. Turner had two sons in the army. She doesn't look old enough.

Two of the children are along this year. Bobradine is a music student at North Texas State College, Denton. She joined her parents when the school year ended. A son, James, is a crewman. Another daughter is Mrs. Jack K. Williams of Dallas. Another son, Lesley R., was reported missing in action while fighting with the 707th Tank Batallion of the First Army.

Woman Likes Scenery

Because the Turners have made so many harvest trips, "We feel as much at home at places we stop as we do in Corsicana," she says.

The Turners often have discussed which town along the route they'll settle down in when they stop their yearly trips, but they haven't yet decided.

Turner has offered to "settle down" often, but Mrs. Turner says she knows he likes the work. So they'll continue following the harvests as long as he wants to.

"Sometimes I want to settle down," she said, "but when the crews start getting ready in the spring, I get anxious to go, too, and right then I start packing."

Mrs. Turner especially enjoys the scenery on the three and one-half to five-month tour. She is a camera fan and has pictures of much of her travel routes.

The three combines in the Turner outfit usually cut 100 acres in a day which begins with breakfast at 6 a. m. and ends with supper as late as 10 p. m. When they hit on ideal stretch, the combines can cover 150 acres.

"It makes a good living but you don't get ahead fast," Mrs. Turner says. "It costs so much to replace machinery."

Despite their long hours and nomadic life, the crewmen manage to stay clean and neat—possibly Mrs. Turner's influence. The crew sleeps under any handy shelter. When none is available, they pitch tents.

Disabled Jap Vet Helped By Yanks

OSAKA, Japan, June 25. They were enemies once.

Tomoyuki Sahara, who lost a leg in battle, stood on a street corner singing. He beat time with his artificial leg. No one paid any attention. His money box was empty.

Two U. S. soldiers came into view. One carried a guitar. They stood awhile, then took over the act.

One soldier cut loose on the guitar. His buddy sang. Japanese began to stop. There was a crowd before long. Money was showered down.

When the money box could hold no more, the American soldiers vanished into the crowd. They left so fast an overwhelmed Sahara had no chance to thank them.

A butcher at Coseley, England, was fined for overcharging a customer who bought a rabbit—and who turned out to be a scale-manufacturer.

France Files Damage Suits Against American Railroads

DALLAS, June 25. (U.P.)—Three damage suits filed by the French government and seeking $318,390 from two railroads for flour lost in the Texas City disaster of April 16, 1947, were on file here today.

Defendant in two of the suits was the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad. Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railway was defendant in the third.

The damages asked were for 38,143 bags of flour, parked at dockside in railroad cars or in waterfront warehouse storage when the French freighter Grand Camp exploded to touch off the harbor area holocaust.

Alley Paving Is To Start Here

Crews will start work within the next few weeks on an alley-paving program, which will include 30 blocks of concrete alley paving in downtown Lubbock and adjoining business areas this summer.

The alleys will be paved with five-inch concrete and tested for 3,000-pound pressure.

Estimated cost for the paving of alleys for each 50-foot lot is approximately $200 with the city paying ten per cent.

Total cost of the program is estimated at $33,438, Director of Public Works R. L. Oldham said.

Survey Was Made

In connection with paving of the alleys, Oldham revealed in City commission meeting Thursday that a caliche alley surfacing program for residential areas was being considered. The city has had so much trouble with alleys in garbage collection service during the past several months that a survey of the program showed that it was feasible.

Alleys could be cut and covered with 5-inch caliche base for approxibately $25 to $30 per each 60-foot lot, provided every property owner in the block signed up, Oldham said. The alleys could also be hard-surfaced if property owners desired.

Mexican Firms In Texas To Be Taxed

AUSTIN, June 25. (AP)—Gov. Beauford Jester signed a bill yesterday providing for an occupation tax on Mexican insurance companies operating in Texas.

The bill by Rep. Abraham Kazen of Laredo, will affect those Mexican companies which sell automobile, accident and other insurance coverage to tourists and others traveling into Mexico.

Other bills signed by the governor included:

SB 436—Strauss—amends law requiring competitive bids on all contracts involving expenditures of $2,000 or more by counties and cities.

HB 983 — Johnson — correcting HB 793, which reduced salaries of county auditors in many counties and abolished the office in some counties.

POLITICAL FORTUNES REVERSED

O'Daniel's Former $10,000 Aide Now Runs Gas Station

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Former Texas Adjutant General Harry Knox, who held down a $10,000-a-year job as aide to W. Lee O'Daniel when the latter was in the U. S. Senate, is now the lone, night attendant at a suburban filling station.

His title is night manager, but he is the whole shebang. He wipes the windshields, fills up the gas tanks, checks the tires. He changes oil and fixes flats.

The 48-year-old, former Brownwood wholesale merchant, one-time chairman of the Texas State Board of Control and in charge of vast expenditures of tax funds, is philosophical.

Feels Like Commoner

His salary is $50 a week. He works from 11 p. m. to 8 a. m. His wife and 14-year-old daughter tip-toe lightly about their apartment during the day while he gets his sleep.

Interviewed at his home shortly before his "breakfast" the other evening, he said:

"You know, when I come home now with my $50, I feel good, I sure enough feel like one of the common citizens."

He paused for a moment, then added with a grin:

"And I'm not saying that for any public effect."

Knox was the typical, small city wholesale merchant until his path and O'Daniel's happened to cross. The latter was selling flour. When O'Daniel decided to run for governor, Knox was one of his first and most enthusiastic supporters. He still is.

Followed Senator

When the erstwhile flour salesman entered the governor's mansion at Austin, he picked Knox as his adjutant general. Then the Brownwood merchant served for six years on the state board of control. Meanwhile, O'Daniel came to Washington as a senator. At the expiration of Knox's term on the board of control he came up to head the senator's secretarial staff.

With O'Daniel gone from the national political scene, Knox looked about for another job. He applied for a job at the Agriculture Department, Commerce Department and other government agencies.

He said he had proper Civil Service credentials and a "strong endorsement" from both Senators Tom Connally and Lyndon Johnson, and from Rep. Clark Fisher, of San Angelo. The latter represents the district which includes Brownwood. (Incidentally, Knox made an unsuccessful race for Congress when Fisher was elected for his first term, in 1942).

Always Blackballed

"It seems that every time I tried for a job," he continued, "they'd find there was no vacancy for a man of my qualifications.

"One agency executive remarked, I learned, that he 'wouldn't touch that man with a 40-foot pole. Another sent word to one of my endorsers that they couldn't take me on because O'Daniel had caused them so much trouble.

"That's not official, but I know perfectly well that the reason I couldn't get a government job was because of my affiliation with O'Daniels.

Satisfied that he wouldn't be able to get on the government payroll, Knox then began to look elsewhere for work.

He says he hopes eventually to retire to a farm or ranch along the shores of Lake Brownwood, but that right now he wants to stay in Washington and pay off a mortgage on a six family-unit apartment house he acquired a year and a half ago.

Not Getting Rich

The red-brick three-story building is located directly across the street from the U. S. Supreme Court lawn and next to the big apartment building which O'Daniel owned while he was in the Senate. Knox declined to state what he paid for his property, but said he wouldn't sell it for $50,000.

"I'm paying it off in regular payments just like you'd pay for your home," he added.

"I figure I'll have it paid off in 13½ years. No, the rents I get from the five apartments we rent out isn't enough to take care of the payments and upkeep."

Knox said he plans to acquire a filling station of his own, when he finds one he can lease at a reasonable figure.

Pappy Running Again?

The station he operates is owned by a major oil company. He thinks the financial risk is too great for an individual to build a big expensive filling station of his own. The experience he is getting now, which even includes scrubbing the oil spots off of a concrete parking apron during the wee hours of the morning, will come in handy when and if he does take over a station for himself, he figures.

Answering a parting question about politics, he said he personally never intends to run again for public office. He inferred, however, that perhaps he would like some day to again be in a good appointive position.

"You know," he added, "there is talk that O'Daniel might run for governor again.

"Maybe he ought to. The expenses of the Texas State government have risen to three and a half times what they were when he was governor."

Hike In Bouncing Checks Is Blamed On Stalling Tactics

FORT WORTH, June 25 (U.P.)—Retail stores today are receiving more checks that bounce because people don't have money in the bank as they did in war years, credit men were told here my L. S. Crowder, general manager-treasurer of the National Retail Credit Assn.

It doesn't men they are trying to defraud, but that they are stalling for time to pay their bills, Crowder said. "They think they will have the money when they get their next pay check, so they write a check," he explained.

Police Horse Can't Say Neigh To Couple Beers On Hot Day

MIAMI, Fla., June 25 (AP)—The humidity was high and the weather was hot so a police department horse just couldn't say "neigh" to a couple of beers.

His rider, Patrolman Dave Lewis, explained yesterday that "Buster" really likes beer in this kind of weather.

"Buster drinks like a gentleman," Lewis continued, "but I don't let him have more than a couple of beers. When he gets too many he thinks the pedestrians are Indians and he's General Custer."

Educator Says Definite Action Needed On Freedom Of Teachers

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 25—Worry about Communism has crept into the schools and colleges and a number of top educators say a Communist shouldn't be hired to teach.

That doesn't deprive him of intellectual freedom, they argue, for such a man surrendered that freedom when he became a member of the Communist party.

Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard, was one of 20 outstanding educators who made that statement. But immediately they faced this next, obvious question:

Statement Is Cited

What of the after-school, outside-the-classroom activities of some professor who, although not a proven Communist, may have taken part in something where the Communists had a hand, such as a meeting?

What should be done about him? That question was raised this week about a couple of Harvard professors.

Dr. Conant took a stand on that by citing as a model a statement made in 1947 by a former Harvard president, A. Lawrence Lowell. It's on the "professor outside the classroom."

Lowell made the statement in his annual report for that World war I year, taking note that the war had raised questions of academic freedom and freedom of speech by professors.

"The gravest questions, and the strongest feelings, arise from action beyond his chosen field and outside of his classroom. Here he speaks only as a citizen," Lowell wrote.

Danger To Schools

"By appointment to a professorship he acquires no rights that he did not possess before; but there is a real difference of opinion today on the question whether he loses any rights that he would otherwise enjoy.

"The argument in favor of a restraining power on the part of the governing boards of universities and colleges is based upon the fact that by extreme, or injudicious, remarks that shock public sentiment, a professor can do great harm to the institution with which he is connected.

"That is true, and sometimes a professor thoughtlessly does an injury that is without justification.

"In spite of the risk of injury to the institution, the objections to restraint upon what professors may say as citizens seems to me far greater than the harm done by leaving them free. In the first place, to impose upon the teacher in a university restrictions to which the members of other professions, lawyers, physicians, engineers, and so forth, are not subjected, would produce a sense of irritation and humiliation. In accepting a chair under such conditions a man would surrender a part of his liberty; what he might say would be submitted to the censorship of a board of trustees, and he would cease to be a free citizen . . .

"Such a policy would tend seriously to discourage some of the best men from taking up the scholar's life. It is not a question of academic freedom, but of personal liberty from restraint, yet it touches the dignity of the academic career.

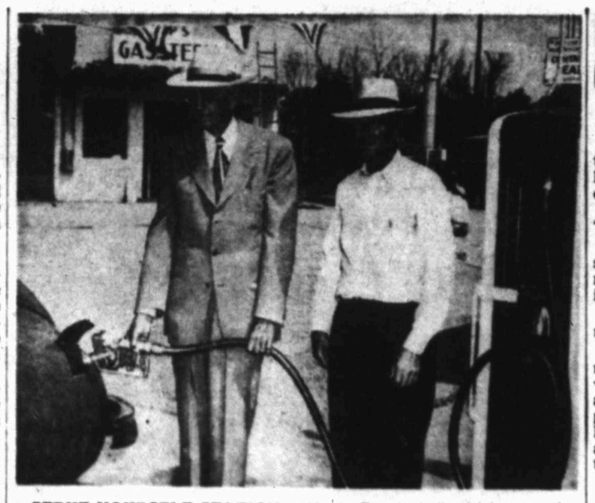

"That is an objection to restraint of freedom of speech from the standpoint of the teacher. There is another, not less weighty, from that of the institution itself. If a university or college censors what its professors say, if it restrains them from uttering something that it does not approve, it thereby assumes responsibility for that which it permits them to say.

"This is logical and inevitable, but it is a responsibility which an institution of learning would be very unwise in assuming.

"It is sometimes suggested that the principles are different in time of war; that the governing boards are then justified in restraining unpatriotic expressions injurious to the country.

"But the same problem is presented in wartime as in time of peace. If the university is right in restraining its professors, it has a duty to do so, and it is responsible for whatever it permits. There is no middle ground.

"Either the university assumes full responsibility for permitting its professors to express certain opinions in public, or it assumes no responsibility whatever, and leaves them to be dealt with like other citizens by the public authorities according to the laws of the land."

Beautiful Blonde And A Cheap Housecoat Change Entire Life Of Woman Novelist

By PHILLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Writer

NEW YORK, June 25.—Thanks to a beautiful blonde and a $2.98 housecoat, novelist Isabel Moore expects to net $20,000 this year.

They inspired her new book, "The Other Woman."

Miss Moore confessed today that she's had three unfortunate careers and a like number and quality of marriages. She said:

"Maybe people won't think that record qualifies me to speak. . .

"But I think the trouble with most married women is that they wear cheap housecoats, don't pay attention to beautiful blondes, prepare too few breakfasts for their husbands, and think they've made a supreme sacrifice when they take the children to the dentist."

Blonde Shows Up

The young novelist speaks her mind frankly from a cheery garden apartment in suburban New York, where she lives with a midas-touch typewriter and two pretty daughters who adore her writing.

She tells the story of how — as "a not-too-exemplary wife"— she happened on a best-seller inspiration.

"It came on a spring-house-cleaning morning," she recalls, "when I was working like mad, wearing chipped nail polish and a $2.98 housecoat that didn't fit. Up to the door came a blonde with glamor and a desire to see an old friend—my husband."

Luckily, Isabel grins, her husband was off on a week-end trip and the blonde had only one day in town.

Courage, But No Brains

But after the girl left, novelist Moore ran upstairs, studied herself in a mirror, threw away the housecoat and went on a diet.

A month later, combining shock and imagination, she began writing her best book, "The Other Woman."

This experience has paid off in sale of the title to Warner Brothers in Hollywood, sale of the novel to Bantam books—and a petite new figure for Miss Moore.

At age 37, in fact, she looks younger than she did in pictures taken 21 years ago when she started her first career as a trapeze artist for Sells-Foto circus in New York.

She took that job, she says, because she had "courage, but no brains."

Later, at 23, she clung to a dull secretarial career because she had "brains, but no courage."

"When I finally succeeded in getting the brains and the courage together," she shrugs, "I was at last making money. But I'd wrecked my domestic life."

Because of her own marital tangles, she believes she can advise other women—with books and sincere tongue-lashing—on how to avert destroying their own domestic patterns.

"First," she warns, "wives shouldn't become slaves to their homes. Their husbands shouldn't have to walk backwards, picking up after themselves.

Alternative Suggested

"Second, women shouldn't be typical suburbanites, than which there's nothing lazier. They should read books, stop gossiping, and go into the city for a new hairdo once in a while."

But the worst hazard of all, insists Miss Moore, is for women to try to be more successful than their husbands.

Independence and money are comparatively new to women, she says, and they don't handle either of them well.

"Dedicate yourself to babies and a husband, or to work and black coffee," she says soberly.

Morgan's "White Elephant" Goes Cheap Just For Taxes

GLEN COVE, N. Y., June 25. (AP)—The 57-room mansion of the late J. P. Morgan, once assessed at more than $1,000,000, was bid in by the city of Glen Cove for the $5,233 in taxes due on it at a tax sale today.

The 39-year-old building, called "Matinecock," by the wealthy financier, had become a white elephant in recent years.

Engagement To Policeman Is Announced By Young Heiress

LOS ANGELES, June 25. (AP)—Beulah Louise Overell, 20-year-old heiress acquitted two years ago of charges of murdering her parents, is going to marry a Los Angeles policeman.

Miss Overell announced her engagement yesterday to Robert Cannon, 28. She said they had been going together for more than a year. The wedding date hasn't been set yet, she said.

Miss Overell and her former fiance, George Gollum, were freed and broke up after their five-month trial in the slaying of financier and Mrs. Walter E. Overell in a mysterious yacht explosion in Newport harbor.

STICK-UP JUST THE SAME

ST. LOUIS (U.P.)—An armed bandit who robbed a sandwich shop of $50 wasn't familiar with the spelling of underworld jargon. The counterman, Marvin Allen, said the robber displayed a gun and handed him a note that read: "This is a stek-up."

Sense Of Humor Big Help To Bronx Quads' Parents

By INEZ ROBB
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 25.—It's delicious, delightful, delovely and completely bewildering to be parents of quadruplets.

The 25-day old Bronx-born quads are doing fine, but their young parents, Ethel and Charlie Collins, are still suffering from shell shock.

"But I'll get used to it," Ethel valiantly says.

"Sure!" was Charlie's stout echo.

"I'm just sort of bewildered," Ethel added as she sat in the living room of the presidential suite at the Concourse Plaza hotel and tried to digest the sudden fame, public interest, gifts and commercial offers that have deluged this young couple since the quads arrived.

Plenty Of Activity

It was only mid-morning and the Collinses were in the midst of a late breakfast. But already the living room throbbed with activity.

Edward V. Whiting, their attorney, sat at the constantly ringing telephone. A photographer shot pictures of the breakfast scene. Waiters came and went. An elderly chambermaid arrived with clean linen. The guard outside the door stuck his head in from time to time.

And Stevie, 2½ years old, the Collinses' only other offspring, racketed around the room in a big, shiny red fire truck, the present of Bronx Borough President James J. Lyons.

"Home was never like this!" cried Ethel, 28, a slim, pretty woman, with bright red-brown hair worn in a curly bob neither long nor short, dancing brown eyes and an infectuous laugh.

Sense Of Humor Helps

"Stevie! Stevie, don't ride that thing into the furniture!" ordered his father, who, at 29, still looks like a collegian.

"Wait till you have five of them running around!" Ethel warned him, and then—suddenly convulsed at the picture—shook with laughter.

Charlie, too, grinned from ear to ear.

"Yeah, but I know what I'm going to do," he warned her. "I'm going to get a big black snake whip and tag 'em all as they go by."

It was at this point that I decided that Ethel and Charlie Collins have what it takes to raise quadruplets: a sense of humor. Blessed with the ability to laugh at themselves, plus youth and vitality, they undoubtedly will, as Ethel predicted, "be able to take the quads in our stride."

Signs Contract

The sense of humor is certainly going to help. But so will the innumerable gifts and commercial offers that have already come the way of the babies, two boys and two girls, still in the nursery at Lebanon hospital, the Bronx, where they were born March 4.

One commercial contract already signed by the young father, who earns $72 a week as a Wall street statistician, will insure a substantial income on which to raise the four babies during their first ten years. And this is but one of several contracts the family is now considering.

Whiting turned from the telephone to ask Ethel if she wanted a quadruplet perambulator.

"People here on the phone want to give you one," he added.

"Good heavens, no!" said Ethel. "I'd have to put an out-board motor on it! I'd have to push it from behind a bicycle!"

Can't Go Home Yet

"We'd have to have a garage for it!" cried Charlie. "Tell 'em no."

When the borough of the Bronx finally gets the house it has promised for the Collins clan, Ethel and Charlie will take their quads home. But not till then, as the doctors have decided the babies should not be moved any more than necessary.

There will be at least one nurse to help Ethel with her brood, and maybe two. Free nurse service has been promised, too.

"Someone is watching over us. Everyone has been so wonderful. So kind. I dont know where to begin to thank people for everything."

Ethel said she and Charlie had planned a family of two.

"We wanted another baby to keep Stevie company. Two was really all we could afford."

"Triplets" Change Plans

But when the doctor told them last February that triplets were on the way, they were far from dismayed. They just remade plans, and hoped, if things were tough financially after the trio arrived, that their respective families might help out.

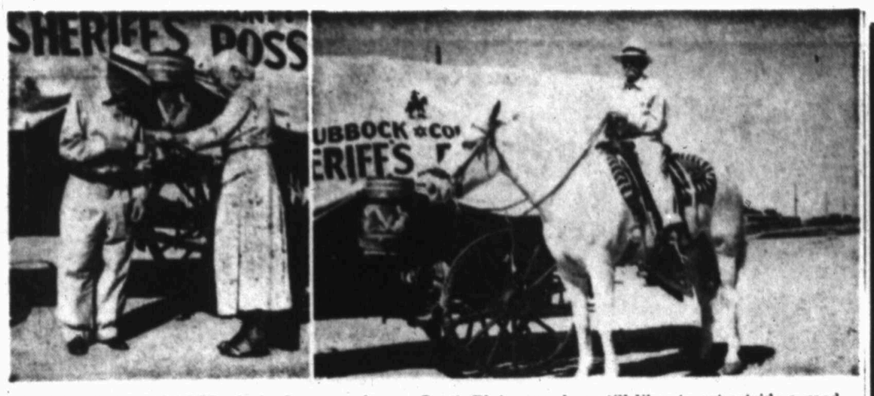

But now, with financial help, the promise of a gift house from the Bronx, and even of free college educations for the quads, Charlie and Ethel are not only delighted with their babies but free from pressing worries.

"Are the five children enough of a family?" I asked Ethel.

For once, Ethel looked daunted.

"Are you serious?" she asked. "Is five enough! Oh, pul-lease!"

STILL LIKES HORSES—J. A. Cannon, pioneer South Plains rancher, still likes to get astride a good horse even if he is 91 years of age. Cannon, who with Mrs. Cannon, pictured at left, came to Lubbock county in 1901, was a special Father's Day guest at an outing of the Lubbock County Sheriff's Posse the other day and he couldn't resist the desire to ride a horse again. He is pictured at right on one of the posse's fine mounts. Mr. and Mrs. Cannon have always loved horses and Mr. Cannon, in younger days, was a great horseman. In 1912, he moved to Lea county, N. M., and owned one of the last free range ranches in that area, later selling it to the late W. K. Dickinson. Mr. and Mrs. Cannon live at 2710 Twenty-third street.

American Student In England Fined On Drunk Driving Charge

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., June 25. (U.P.)—An American law student at Cambridge was fined $40 and assessed $26 court costs today on charges of trying to drive his car while drunk.

Victor R. Miller of Miltonvale, Kan., was arrested earlier this month. Police who arrested him said he was abusive when they ordered him out of his car.

Miller served in the U. S. Navy during the war and in the embassy here afterward. He is a second year law student, is married and the father of twin girls.

RARE RANCH PICTURE THESE DAYS—Back in the olden days of ranching in West Texas every ranch had its remuda of horses, but's a rare sight these days to see a herd of horses as large as in the picture above. Most of the horses are Palomino mares and colts. In the herd are 16 mares, 11 yearlings, 14 colts and one stud. The horses are on the Wicker ranch, belonging to Mrs. Geo. Gray of Lubbock and Mrs. Frank Jones of Lamesa, which is located in Borden county, 15 miles southeast of Gail. In the bottom picture is shown a mare and her colt. Few of the colts are seen in the top picture, because they always managed to get their mother between them and the photographer. (Staff Photos).

"Little People" Finance Radio Survey To Study Foreign Ideas

NEW YORK, June 25. (U.P.)—America's "little people" whose dollars come the hard way are financing a $60,000 world survey to find out what other people are thinking.

On June 25, grey-haired George V. Denny, jr., moderator of America's Town Meeting of the Air, and six members of his staff, including his wife, who acts as his secretary, will fly to London to hold the first of 12 town meetings to be recorded in foreign capitals and flown back to New York for the American radio audience.

"The trip will cost $60,000," Denny said. "We asked our radio listeners to send $1 donations to pay for it."

Denny had a sheaf of letters from persons who had sent their dollars. One was from a California widow who said she was enclosing $1 for herself and another for her son from her $30 a month pension.

Some Send More

"Some of them sent much more," Denny said. "One man who heard us say we were still short $20,000 sent another $200."

Two advance agents of the Town Meeting of the Air are already in Europe arranging for local sponsors, halls and speakers.

In addition, 28 American organizations ranging from labor unions to banking associations are paying the expenses of their own representatives to participate.

The entire trip will be made by air. The group will visit London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome, Ankara, Tel Aviv, Alexandria, Karachi, New Delhi, Manila, Tokyo, Honolulu and San Francisco and arrive home to conduct the final meeting of the series in Washington on Oct. 18. In addition, a special meeting will be held in Beirut.

The discussions, in English with a translation of the statements of foreign participants, will be broadcast over the Town Meeting's usual Tuesday night spot on the American Broadcasting Network.

The first will be from London on "Does the Socialist state tend to destroy individual initiative?" with Robert Byfield of the New York Stock Exchange and Capt. Peter Thornycraft, British Member of Parliament, saying yes, and Max Lerner, American writer, and Harold Laski, British Labor Party leader, insisting that it does not.

The subject for Paris is "How can France and the United States help to insure a stable and prosperous Europe?"

"Our aim is to keep the American people informed so they can understand their responsibility in world affairs," Denny said.

Organizations and individuals participating in the seminars will include Clarence R. Decker, president of the University of Kansas City and representing the American Association for the United Nations; Mrs. Aletha H. Hottel, president of the American Association of University Women; W. L. Hemingway, St. Louis, of the American Bankers' association; Alfred A. Albert, counselor for the American Civil Liberties Union.

Test Shows What's Wrong With World

LOS ANGELES, June 25. (AP)—A group of freshman and sophomore students may have demonstrated what's wrong with the world.

Dr. George F. Lehner of the psychology department at the University of California at Los Angeles gave the students the "California test of personality," asking them to rate their own personality adjustments and the personality adjustments of an "average person."

Male students gave themselves a rating of 50 (normal) compared with only 10 for others. Women rated themselves at 60 (slightly superior) and also placed others at 10.

Only one-tenth of all students taking the test rated the personality adjustment of the "average person" as high as their own. Nine - tenths thought the "average person" is maladjusted.

The significance, says Dr. Lehner, is that "most of us have an exaggerated view of our own personality adjustment when compared to that of others. It shows we have little faith or confidence in our fellow beings. If people had more insight and understanding of others, perhaps human relationships would be more harmonious."

Bandit Posing As Salesman Talks Bank Out Of $17,000

HACKLEBURG, Ala., June 25 (AP)—Police today were seeking the bandit who measured windows for free and the bank of Mackleburg for $17,000.

Bank officials said the man, about 45, came in yesterday and said he was a lumber company window salesman.

He hung around, busily measuring windows until the bank closed and all employes but cashier D. W. Stanford had departed.

The bandit then forced Stanford into the bank's vault at gun point, bound him with a belt and made off with $17,000.

It was 30 minutes before Stanford was able to free himself and notify police.

House And Senate Groups Okay Bills To Limit Powers Of FPC

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, June 25—Oil matters have had a comparatively quiet year in Washington but activity picked up a bit the past week.

Investigations have been missing so far this year. Pending bills have made little progress.

Both Congress and the Supreme court took action this week.

Bills Are Pushed

Most of the activity, however, centered on natural gas.

House and Senate committees approved legislation designed to prohibit Federal Power commission control over independent producers and gathering of natural gas.

Sponsors of the bills promised to continue to press for passage although the Supreme court on Monday, in effect, ruled that FPC has no jurisdiction over gas production and gathering.

The court also upheld a Mississippi state tax on out-of-state oil or gas pipeline companies. A 2 percent levy on pipeline gross receipts on Mississippi business had been challenged by intertate oil pipeline companies.

Bills designed to curb FPC's power over the natural gas industry are not new. Many oil and gas associations, particularly among independent operators, long have sought passage of the bills which received committee approval Wednesday.

Court Gives Ruling

Actually, the court ruled that FPC has no authority over the desire of Panhandle Eastern pipe line company to transfer ownership of gas reserves to a new company owned entirely by Panhandle Eastern stockholders.

A previous court ruling held that gas produced for pipeline shipment out of a state becomes subject to FPC control.

FPC attorneys reportedly maintain the new decision does not affect the latter ruling but merely holds that the commission cannot control disposal of leases.

Some producers interpret the court's ruling as meaning there no longer is a necessity for legislation.

Others think the ruling needs interpretation from the court itself.

Arguments on legal points rage in Washington and among natural gas producers.

Perhaps that is why sponsors of the crurent bills say they will press for passage this session.

Tax Income Hit

Seven consecutive cutbacks in Texas crude oil production are eating deeper and deeper into the state's income.

Austin officials, following the July-August cutback order, have estimated tax losses now amount to $30,000,000 annually.

May's oil tax income was $2,200,000 below December. In December the state's crude production allowable totaled 2,717,000 barrels daily. The July-August allowable is 1,871,000.

Meanwhile, United States production has dropped to a daily average of 4,867,650 barrels, compared to 5,492,350 a year ago.

A 10 percent cutback in Louisiana counts for the latest decline. The state's daily average fell 11,100 barrels the week ending June 18.

Illinois legislators, with the 1949 session drawing to a close, are attempting to push through a Senate approved bill placing the state's gasoline tax at 5 cents a gallon, a two cent increase . . . the Oil and Gas Journal reports that world crude oil production averaged 9,154,800 barrels daily in April, compared to 9,242,300 in March and 9,445,000 in February . . . Thomas H. Miller, acting director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, predicts oil demand can be expected to increase "significantly."

Estimated 800,000 Texans To Be Paid Insurance Dividends

DALLAS, June 25. (AP)—An estimated 800,000 Texans will be paid dividends next year on GI life insurance.

Veterans administration officials made the estimate yesterday but wouldn't predict how much money would be paid to the Texans. They said, however, that one veteran in 20 is a Texan, and one-twentieth of the national total to be paid would be $140,000,000.

Lubbock Soldier Honored As Top Athlete At Army Base

Cpl. Hugh A. Burkitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Burkitt, of 914 First street, has been named athlete of the year at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., where he has been stationed since late 1946.

Cpl. Burkitt received the nomination for the second consecutive year.

The Lubbock man is athletic instructor at the post and has been player-coach in football, track and field, boxing, softball, and wrestling, as well as swimming.

He hopes to attend the 1952 Olympics as a representative of the Army.

Cpl. Burkitt was born and reared in Lubbock, and received most of his education in the Lubbock schools. He completed his high school education after entering the Army.

He served with the Navy 18 months during the war.

The Grand Canyon—217 miles long—is one of the scenic wonders of the world.

HUGE WAREHOUSE NEARS COMPLETION—One of the finest industrial buildings in Lubbock will be this warehouse and office building of William Cameron and company under construction at 1921 Ave. E. Of brick and tile construction, it measures 57 by 46 feet and 212 by 170 feet, with a total area of 38,724 square feet. It contains a fully automatic sprinkler system, concrete slab floors and built up roofing on steel trusses. The building permit showed an estimated cost of $75,000. Contractor is McClellan, Brown and McClellan of Waco. (Staff Photo).

Flowing Discovery From Unidentified Dolomite Formation Completed At Sinclair Wildcat In Northwest Borden County

Big flowing discovery from an unidentified dolomite formation in northwest Borden county has been completed at Sinclair Oil & Gas company No. 1 Sterling Williams, wildcat 11 miles northwest of Gail.

Flowing 24 hours through open two-inch tubing, the well made a potential gauge of 663.5 barrels of oil, with no water and gas-oil ration 660-1. Gravity of the petroleum was 42.8 degrees.

Production was through perforations at 9,915-45 feet in seven-inch casing set at 10,023 feet, total depth. The perforations had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid. Top of pay was called on 9,818 feet.

The production formation is thought by most geologists to be either Ellenburger, Siluro-Devonian or Mississippian.

Well Is Plugged

Also in this area, Seaboard Oil company of Delaware has plugged and abandoned its No. 1 Clayton & Johnson, wildcat six miles north of Gail.

The venture logged no shows in drilling to 8,406 feet. It was left on that bottom.

The dry hole is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 37, block 31, T-6-N, TP survey.

Production was apparent for Seaboard and Pan American Production company's two outposts to recent Canyon-Pennsylvanian discovery opening the Good field in south-central Borden county, about six miles north of the Vealmoor pool in north-central Howard county.

Oil flowed from the Canyon at two companies' No. 3 Good, located at the center of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey.

A one-hour drillstem test at 7,917-8,004 feet showed gas in six minutes, drilling mud in 12 minutes and oil in 13 minutes. It flowed to tanks 45 minutes and made 13.8 barrels of oil.

Core Is Cut

A core then was cut from 8,004 feet to 8,017 feet, recovering eight feet of white porous lime with good odor and stain and four and one-half feet of hard tight limey shale with no shows. The prospector was coring ahead.

Seaboard and Pan American No. 2 Good, the other flanker, located at the center of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 37, block 33, T-4-N, TP survey, was bottomed on 8,005 feet, running tubing to make production tests and complete.

A core to the total depth was cut from 7,980 feet. Recovery was five feet of white lime with fair to good porosity and good odor and stain plus 20 feet of white lime with very good porosity, stain and odor.

Approximately five miles due east of this area, Seaboard No. 1 J. B. Clayton was drilling ahead from 4,680 feet in lime.

This wildcat is 662.5 feet from east and 660.3 feet from south lines of the southwest quarter of section 47, block 32, T-4-N, TP survey. It is projected to 8,500 feet.

Drilling was continuing at Ryan, Hayes and Burke No. 1 Miller (formerly Herd estate), deep wildcat in northeast Borden, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 418, block 97, H&TC survey.

It was beyond 6,325 feet, penetrating lime, after being held up with a fishing job at 6,205 feet.

Reef Is Topped

A Pennsylvanian reef formation, possibly of Canyon age, made water for Caraway Drilling company No. 1 R. H. Cantrell, northwest Borden county wildcat.

The reef was topped on 8,722 feet. A drillstem test was run at 8,699-8,747 feet, with the tool open one hour and 48 minutes. Recovery was 570 feet of drilling mud cut with salt water plus 6,707 feet of muddy salt water. No shows of oil or gas have been enccuntered.

Following the test, the venture was shutdown for orders. Unofficial sources say the hole is rather small to be drilled any deeper.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 22, block 32, T-6-N TP survey.

Second producer in the Spraberry-Deep field of east-central Dawson county has been completed at Seaboard No. 2-D Shafer, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 48, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

The well flowed 24 hours through a 10/64-inch choke, producing 181.77 barrels of 35-gravity oil. Gas-oil ratio was 744-1. There was no water developed.

Production followed a 540-quart nitro glycerin shot in the pay formation at 6,432-6,665 feet in the Spraberry sand formation of the lower Permian.

Offsetting this pool on the north Seaboard No. 6-D Spraberry was drilling ahead from 3,695 feet in lime.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 38, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

Deep Test Rumored

A destination of possibly 14,000 feet has been rumored for Forest Oil corporation and Anderson-Prichardson Oil corporation No. 1-A Parmer county, wildcat recently staked in southeast Gaines county.

The prospector originally was projected to 8,000 feet, but later developments show prospects of the venture drilling ahead to test into the Ellenburger, which is expected somewhere around 14,000 feet.

Materials were being moved in prior to spudding on last report.

The drillsite is 860 feet from west and 660 feet from osuth lines of labor 12, league 317, Parmer CSL survey, about 15 miles southeast of Seminole.

Shell Oil company, Inc., has staked a Clear Fork-Permian exploration as a twin well to its No. 1 Hawkins, Ellenburger discovery opening the Flanagan field in South-Central Gaines county.

The new prospector will be the concern's No. 3 W. L. Hawkins. The drillsite is 560 feet from east and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

The Clear Fork is expected to be encountered above 7,300 feet. Drilling with rotary tools is starting immediately.

Swabbing tests were underway in the Clear Fork at George P. Livermore, Inc., No. 2 Head, 10,530-foot failure in the Devonian 4,000 feet south of the Ellenburger discovery.

On plug-back depth 7,800 feet in the Clear Fork, with perforations at 7,229-7,241 feet, 7,217-7,247 feet and 7,216-47 feet, operator re-acidized with 2,500 gallons and was swabbing at the rate of 12 barrels of oil per hour. Shakeout was two percent basic sediment and water. A re-treatment of 2,000 gallons of acid is slated.

To Attempt Completion

Location is 631 feet from north and 610 feet from west lines of section 12, block A-23, psl survey.

Planning to attempt completion in the Clear Fork, Shell was shutdown, moving off rig, at its No. 2 Hawkins, one-half mile south of the No. 1 Hawkins and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

Total depth was 7,260 feet. String of 5½-inch casing is cemented at 7,128 feet. Production tests are to be made of the open hole, which made some oil shows on a drillstem test.

The other three discovery outposts were drilling ahead toward the Flanagan-Ellenburger.

Shell No. 1 Andrews, 660 feet from south and west lines of section 2, block A-23, psl survey, was below 8,734 feet in lime. It is five-eighths of a mile northeast of the pay opener.

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Flanagan, east offset, 1,980 feet from north and 660 from west lines of section 9, block A-23, psl survey, had reached 11,511 feet and was boring ahead in lime.

The other flanker, Magnolia No. 2 Flanagan, was under 4,154 feet, penetrating anhydrite.

It is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 9, block A-23, psl survey.

Oil Is Flowing

Also in the area, about 10 miles south and a little west of Seminole, Ralph Lowe was making new hole toward the Ellenburger with his No. 1 Cunningham-Shell, wildcat, 660 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter section 4, block A-24, psl survey.

It was past 11,738 feet in lime. This venture discovered flowing oil from the Pennsylvanian at a lesser depth.

Extension to the West Seminole field of West-Central Gaines county has been completed at Cities Service Oil company No. 1 Richardson, 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 370, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Flowing 24 hours through a 32-64-inch choke, the project made an initial production of 132.4 barrels of 33.4-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio 2,770-1. Total fluid recovered had a shakeout of eight-tenths of one per cent water.

The pay formation at 5,040-5,150 feet previously was acidized with 2,000 gallons.

Well Is Abandoned

The Ohio Oil company has plugged and abandoned its No. 1 Emery estate, Northwest Kent county wildcat, after recovering water in the top of the Ellenburger.

A 30-minute drillstem test was run at 7,807-7,835 feet, showing a strong blow of air throughout. Recovery was 630 feet of gas cut drilling mud and 7,065 feet of salt water.

This prospector was located 15 miles southwest of Spur and 1,980 feet from north, 819 feet from east lines of section 191, block 1, TP survey.

In East-Central Yoakum county, about three miles southwest of Tokio, Amerada Petroleum corporation was drilling ahead with its No. 1 Turrentine.

This wildcat, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 41, block K, psl survey, was beyond 7,477 feet in lime and chert.

Drilling was continuing after two drillstem tests at Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Masten, slated 12,000-foot wildcat in Southwest Cochran county, about six miles southwest of Lehman.

A one-hour test a 8,514-8,587 feet recovered 120 feet of gas cut drilling mud.

Drilling ahead to 8,747 feet, operator drillstem tested for 20 minutes with packer at 8,715 feet. Recovery was 30 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil, gas or water.

On last report, the venture was drilling ahead from 8,819 feet in lower Permian lime.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of labor 18, league 135, Armstrong CSL survey.

Stanolind Oil & Gas company was making new hole toward the Devonian with its two outposts to the recently discovered Landon-Devonian field in South-Central Cochran county, 25 miles southwest of Lehman.

The concern's No. 2 Holt, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 3, block L, psl survey, was beyond 10,046 feet in lime.

The other flanker, Stanolind No. 1 Grollman, was past 4,400 feet, penetrating lime.

It is 660 feet from west and 407 feet from south lines of section 4, block L, psl survey.

Abandonment is rumored to be scheduled for Sinclair Oil & Gas company No. 1 Lindly, South-Central Lynn county wildcat, after drilling 200 feet of Ellenburger and making water in the formation.

It was said by unofficial sources to be bottomed on 10,777 feet in the deep zone, running a Schlumberger survey. No prospects of production were encountered. Operator has not verified this report.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 47, block 8, EL&RR survey, about one mile north of O'Donnell.

Potential Test Completed

In Central Lynn county, about four and one-half miles southwest of Tahoka, Barnsdall Oil company was making new hole with its No. 1 Billie Williams, deep wildcat.

It was under 8,370 feet in tan dense lime.

This exploration is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block 8, EL&RR survey.

Potential test has been completed at Gulf Oil corporation No. 10-T E. K. Hufstedler, Anton-Irish field well in Southwest Hale county, for an initial production of 104 barrels of oil daily.

The well was finished on a 24-hour, pumping potential, showing 33 per cent water in addition to the oil and gas-oil ratio 47-1.

Weeds Proving Serious Problem For Cotton Farmers Over Plains

Hot, dry weather has brought the cotton of the South Plains area up to an excellent stand. With the possible exception of some of the late third plantings most of the cotton is from eight to ten inches high.

The excellent stand and progress of the cotton plants is being matched by the growth of weeds in many sections. High moisture contest of the soil has promoted the rapid development of weeds common to the Plains. In most cases the dry land farms are less affected than the irrigated patches. Some of the latter are still too wet for cultivation.

Ingenuity Is Taxed

The weeds have taxed the ingenuity of many farmers who have combined all sorts of attachments to break crust, knife, hoe and drag in a single operation. Cotton chopping crews took to the fields this week armed with hoes and files.

Heaviest demands for choppers came from the Levelland and Littlefield sections. As many as 600 choppers are needed at once in each of these two localities, according to Vernon O'Farrell, farm placement representative of the Texas Employment Commission's Lubbock office.

"We have plenty of local crews available for work in the vicinity of Lubbock," O'Farrell said yesterday. "So far we have not had to call on outside labor although we expect to do so soon after the first week in July."

"We have a better supply of cotton workers on hand this year than last because many have settled in Lubbock to make their permanent home here."

O'Farrell explained that at present the TEC is kept plenty busy directing migratory crews that are in outlying communities. By referring to the files of requests the TEC office can match the needs for labor with the supply that exists in any given area or send itinerant crews to the trouble spots.

The Plains and Panhandle cotton crop is still maintaining record proportions even though acreage is being knocked out at frequent intervals. The latest loss was some 5,000 acres near Muleshoe which was washed out by a seven-inch deluge last Wednesday.

In the Ropesville and Meadow area washed out acreage was replanted to maize because most of the farmers believed it was too late to try another planting of cotton. On the other hand, according to K. N. Clapp, area observer for Anderson, Clayton & Co., there is some replanting going on now.

"If there are any further washouts," Clapp said, "we can be sure the land will be planted in grain."

Some Insects Arrive

While some insects have arrived in the southern counties they have not reached any sizeable infestation. Joe Jones of the Lubbock county agent's office and Guy Carpenter, district entomologist, have found some thrips and a few aphids in local cotton but have found no fleahoppers. Grasshoppers are fairly common in all sections and Dawson and Lynn counties have each reported a case of bollworms.

High winds and blowing dust Friday recalled the dust storms of 1934. Some damage from this cause is expected in the sandy areas west and southwest of Lubbock. At one time Friday afternoon the dust blowing across the Brownfield highway was so thick that motorists had to turn on their headlights or pull over to the side of the road and stop.

The predictions for a record crop still stand in the concensus of most cotton men. Ginners are prepared for heavy demands on their machinery and several new gins have been constructed on the South Plains. Several other gins have added new machinery or replaced antiquated units so as to be ready for 24-hour operation.

Glassware made in 1609 at the Jamestown, Va., factory was the first made-in-America article to be exported.

COTTON CHOPPING TIME—Hot, dry weather and the rapid growth of cotton in the South Plains area has caused the scene above to be common-place along every road and highway. The migrant workers above are chopping cotton on the 300 acres of El Rancho Chico about a mile south of Wolfforth. It is the property of Dr. H. H. Bidwell, Lubbock dentist. Some 46 workers wield the chopping hoes under a broiling sun. "Mucho calor" was a common complaint but like the muchacha on the right all of the workers from the valley had a quick and ready smile. Weeds have made considerable progress due to the large amount of moisture this year and there is a heavy demand for choppers. (Staff photo by Edward Welsh).

Artist's Wife Critically Wounds Herself; Examiner Says "Temperamental Woman"

SOUTH HARPSWELL, Me., June 25. (U.P.)—A famous marine artist's young third wife wounded herself critically in an apparent fit of temperament, authorities announced today.

Mrs. Jane Etnier, 24, underwent emergency surgery shortly after midnight for a bullet wound in the temple and her condition was described as serious.

Shoots For No Reason

"There's no mystery about it," medical examiner Harvey Howard said after an investigation. "There doesn't seem to be any doubt about it—she shot herself. A reason? Well, just a temperamental woman."

The shooting was disclosed to police by the attractive blonde's husband, Stephen M. Etnier, a participant in several national art shows who also has had several one-man exhibitions in New York.

"Come over quick—my wife has been shot," he telephoned.

On the floor beside a bed, clad in pink silk pajamas, lay Mrs. Etnier. Nearby was a .32 caliber revolver.

Etnier told police his wife had appeared in good spirits. He had left her for a short time, he said, and heard the shot.

There were no signs of a struggle. However, a window was open and the front door was unlocked.

The couple were married a few months ago, soon after Etnier was divorced on cruelty grounds by his second wife, Elizabeth Jay Etnier, wealthy socialite New Yorker. They had been married 15 years. His first marriage also ended in divorce.

Scotland Gets Clear Field In Making Scotch Whisky

WASHINGTON, June 25 (AP) — American distillers can't make scotch whiskey any more.

The Internal Revenue bureau ruled yesterday that they may make "scotch type" whiskey, and use typically scotch names such as highland, kilts, scots, etc., but only Scotland may make plain "scotch."

Nation-Wide Roundup Of Arms Reported By Italian Police

ROME, June 25 (AP) — Hidden arms sufficient to equip an army have been seized by carabinieri (police) in the past 17 months, Italy's Senate was told today.

The nation-wide roundup of clandestine weapons and ammunition, many found in Communist hideouts, was summarized by Interior Minister Mario Scelba.

Dream Of Life In Own Homeland Buoys Up Iron Curtain Refugees

By GEORGE F. GAAL
United Press Staff Writer

ON BOARD A JEWISH IMMIGRANTS' TRAIN EN ROUTE TO ISRAEL, June 25.—The 16-year-old girl shivered lightly as she stood up from the wooden bench of the compartment. She gently lifted the 17-year-old boy from her lap and placed it on the bench. It was 5:30 a. m. but she couldn't sleep any more.

The girl stepped out into the corridor of the coach and cast a tired look on the snow-covered Tyrolean Alps. The boy inside, who will be her husband within a few weeks, slept on.

Tomorrow they will smell the breeze of the Mediterranean in Bari. Within a week they will disembark in Haifa and step on the soil of Israel, a country which will be their new home, a country which now will be their very own.

The two, along with 458 other passengers, came a long way from all countries behind the Iron Curtain. The majority were Hungarians, but there were several Czechs, Poles and Romanians, too.

Stories Much The Same

I lived with them for three and a half days and this is the story of how they made it. It is the story of the 17-year-old boy and the 16-year-old girl, but it is much the same as to what happened to all of them.

They left Budapest around the middle of April in small groups and made their way to Vienna through Czechoslovakia. Most of them are young, between 15 and 21, but there are many older who came with their entire families.

Noemi Ascher, 16, and Miklos Strausz, 17, crossed the frontier on a dark April night with five other young people.

"We walked 20 miles that night," pretty, brunette Noemi told me. She looked at the boy sleeping in the compartment and smiled. "When I was very tired, I leaned on his shoulder," she said.

"Why did you leave?"

Life Intolerable

"You couldn't live any more in Hungary or in any of the 'Peoples Democracies,' if you are a decent person. Not even if you are a child," she said wearily.

"Everybody is in uniform. School kids have their special uniforms, just as pioneers, working brigades, 'Fighters for Freedom,' many, many policemen and even more soldiers. There are many boys with us who got their mobilization papers in the morning, packed up whatever they could and crossed the border the same night.

"It is impossible to get a passport now in Hungary. The few cases which still occur are heavily paid for, sometimes as much as $20,000 to $25,000," she said.

Upon arriving in Austria, these refugees are herded into a camp from where they are gradually moved to the U. S. zone of Austria, to the town of Steyr, on the Soviet zone frontier.

Route Of Flight

I followed this train from Steyr to Innsbruck, the last stop before the Brenner Pass, the Italian border. In Steyr they usually stay for one day at a transit camp, from where they are sent to the Beth Bialik camp, in Salzburg. Sometimes they stay only overnight, sometimes longer.

Miklos Mordi now joined us in the corridor.

"It was in Steyr where I proposed to her," he said softly, putting his arms around the girl.

"Why getting married so young?"

"You see, actually we're not young any more. My mother was killed by the Nazis in 1944. The firm of Noemi's parents was nationalized. How they will get along we don't know. We had our own lives to save, we couldn't care . . ." he said.

"Only our age is young, but I guess we're just as old as any grown-ups. We need someone to live with, someone to start a new life with. Now we'll have a real home country where we may live free and equal. We want our children to live free, too, that's why we're going to Israel. There we might have enthusiasm again. It's really not the matter of age now—it's rather that of surviving. Don't get me wrong, we're not broken, we're only bitter.

"You see, we never knew freedom and you can't live long without it," Noemi added.

"They kill your soul back there," an elderly man said. "I brought my wife and two children with me. We have very little, but we shall work hard—in our own country, at last."

The train rolled slowly into Innsbruck. During the half-hour stop, young boys and girls left the train and danced the traditional "Hora" on the platform. They were no longer afraid.

I waved them good-bye.

Bud W. Myers Celebrates 13 Years Of Service In Guard

Thirteen years of service in the National Guard is the record Bud W. Myers of Lubbock is celebrating this month, National Guard officials said Saturday.

Myers, a master sergeant of the 132nd field artillery, enlisted in the Texas National Guard in 1934 in the 142nd infantry, transferring to the 131st field artillery in 1938.

He served in that unit through World War II, participating in seven major battles from Africa to Germany. He took part in actions at Salerno, Cassino, Anzio, Rome, southern France. He was separated in June, 1945 and upon reorganization of the National Guard, reenlisted in service battery, 132nd field artillery, and is now battalion motor sergeant with the grade of master sergeant.

He has seven battle stars. He excells in wrestling, boxing and other athletic events.

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL

Editorial Comics Amusements

Lubbock, Texas, Sunday, June 26, 1949

"BECAUSE so much cotton was washed out around Meadow late in the season we are looking for a big crop of maize this year," Lewis Peeler, operator of the Meadow Farm Store said this week. Some of the larger acreages of milo belong to Odell Lowe, A. C. Stephenson and W. I. Walker. Each of these men have in the neighborhood of 400 acres.

Lots of smaller patches of grain sorghums have been planted this year in the Johnson and Poole communities. This section was hard hit by heavy rains and too, farming is more diversified around this part of Terry county.

The J. M. Burleson elevator at Meadow is capable of handling more than 14 cars of grain but the space is being reserved for milo. "There is so little wheat in this area anyway that most of it is pooled in Brownfield," Burleson said.

A similar condition exists at Ropesville where both the O. K. Elevator and the Grady Goodpasture elevator are empty. Each is capable of storing more than 100,000 bushels of grain. Allen Johnson, manager of the O. K. elevator said he did not expect any demands on his elevator for wheat storage. "We have lots of maize around here," he said.

Tahoka Folks Careful

"Tahoka folks are pretty careful with matches and fires," Troy Connolly, fireman on full-time duty at the central station, asserts. "We only have a couple of runs each month and usually they are of minor consequence."

Jim Clinton is chief of the 20-man volunteer force. To fight fires, Tahoka has two pumpers, one purchased in 1937 and the other a brand-new outfit with every known gatget on it. The volunteers hold a regular practice every two weeks.

MRS. ABBIE WHORTON really had them guessing at the Lynn County Pioneers association reunion in Tahoka Friday. Dressed in a poke bonnet, a gingham dress of the 1890s, high button shoes, old fashioned glasses and a set of demountable buck teeth, Mrs. Whorton circulated among the pioneers and "Howdy-dood" everyone. Less than a score saw through her disguise. Her badge indicated that she had come to Lynn county in 1886 and many an old timer tried to recall where he had seen her or asked if she knew so-and-so at such-and-such a place. She never did reveal her identity but appeared later at the barbecue sans costume. Mrs. Whorton came to Tahoka from Sweetwater in 1943.

The situation for wheat storage was extra good at Brownfield this weekend. Elevator capacity is near 2,000,000 bushels. Holdover maize was moved under CCC approval several days ago leaving 90 per cent of the space available to handle the bumper wheat crop.

C Of C Meeting Set

When the Chamber of Commerce of Littlefield meets Tuesday night for its annual barbecue, members and guests will eat barbecued chicken, install new officers for the coming fiscal year and hear Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne college.

Wolfe Shaw, program chairman, anticipates a crowd of 250 at the event which will take place at the VFW hall beginning at 8 p. m. Officers to be installed are Hardy Shelby, president; W. B. Little, vice-president; J. H. Lee, treasurer; David Keithley, W. C. Cannon, Harry Kline and Clint Griffin, directors.

Some wonderful discoveries have been made in the field of veterinary medicine. According to a news letter from the USDA, and I quote directly; "last year eight three-year old heifers in a herd of several hundred that died from anthrax recovered following administration of 1,000,000 units of penicillin." No need to have any dead stock around the place anymore.

Nebraska Landlords Promise Fair Rents

LINCOLN, Neb., June 25 (U.P.)—Nebraska landlords were the first in the country to win the promise of rent decontrol this fall. They say they will "make it work."

The state legislature has passed over Gov. Val Peterson's veto a measure requiring the governor to notify federal authorities by Nov. 1 that controls no longer are needed in Nebraska. Decontrol will follow within 15 days, under national law.

The Nebraska property owners committee has been formed with the announced intention of making decontrol as orderly and painless as possible for tenants.

Its chairman, Joseph Wishart, said local groups will be formed in every community recently decontrolled or to be freed of restraints this fall. Property owners will be urged to use the "greatest restraint" in boosting rents and to avoid evictions except in "extreme cases," he said.

Tenants will be helped to find housing within their budgets, he added.

Wishart believes national attention is focused on Nebraska. If landlords should repay the legislature by "gouging," he said, it undoubtedly will be used as an argument for extending federal controls perhaps indefinitely.

"We're going to lean over backwards to be fair," he pledged.

Heiress Is Ordered To Make Payments To Former Husband

NEW YORK, June 25 (AP)—Mrs. Marie Hoffman Reed Robertson, grocery chain heiress, has been ordered to pay $1,650 a month for life to her ex-husband, Louis F. Reed, jr.

Supreme court Justic Kenneth O'Brien ruled yesterday that the contract, under which Mrs. Robertson originally agreed to make the payments, is a "valid one" and not a violation of "public policy."

He also ordered her to make payments in arrears totalling $44,550.

Payments Are Demanded

Reed had sued for this amount, claiming Mrs. Robertson in 1947 quit making the payments required under a pact signed in 1935 at the time of their divorce.

Mrs. Robertson, socially prominent granddaughter of the late George Huntington Hartford, founder of the A. and P. chain, asked the court to set aside the agreement on grounds it violated public policy.

She said the couple separated in 1933 after two years marriage. Afterward, she said, Reed demanded $1,000,000. He denied this.

Mrs. Robertson said Reed filed a separation suit, but dropped it after she agreed to the $1,650 a month terms. She then got a divorce in Reno, Nev.

CRIME IN OAK RIDGE

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (U.P.)—This atomic city has recorded its first major crime, a murder, since it became an "open city" last March. John T. Baotman of Gadsden, Ala., was slain with a butcher knife while visiting relatives here.

New Air Route Asked Of CAB

HOUSTON, June 25 (AP) — A Civil Aeronautics board hearing on proposed south to west coast air service will resume Monday with witnesses for Houston, San Francisco and Delta airlines still to be heard.

Examiner Earl J. Cox recessed the hearing yesterday after testimony from Fort Worth, Dallas, Galveston, Austin, Lafayette, La., and Roswell, N. M., spokesmen.

Six airlines have asked CAB approval of plans for transcontinental service linking the south and the west coast.

Joe T. Thompson, Dallas businessman, testified that Dallas favors a Braniff application. It would give Dallas—as well as Houston, San Antonio and New Orleans—more service to the west, he said.

Other Choices Favored

The Braniff plan would not put Houston on a direct transcontinental route from Miami to the west coast. Dallas already has one-carrier service to Miami.

William Holden, executive vice president of the Fort Worth chamber of Commerce, said that if Fort Worth can have only one choice, it prefers an interchange proposed by American and Delta airlines. The two lines have terminals in Fort Worth and Dallas. They'd like to use the same airplane on a single coast-to-coast flight, but with a switch in crews.

Joe Carrington, president of the Austin chamber of commerce, said that city wants better east-west air service. T. W. Lain, chairman of the Galveston chamber of commerce aviation committee, said Galveston needs and wants to be on a transcontinental air route.

THE QUESTION

THE ANSWERS

MISS GENEVIEVE EDLER, 230 Paris Ave., employe in collection department, Zale's Jewelry: "If you have a pleasant personality, it helps a whole lot. People, by looking at you, can tell whether they want to have a conversation with you. Then, too, pay attention to what the other person is saying. If you're gazing off somewhere else, theother person isn't going to be interested in talking to you."

RICHARD JENNINGS, Plaza apartments, tax attorney: "Disraeli, the famous British prime minister, once said in an essay on social conversation: 'Talk to women, talk to women as much as you can. This is the best school. This is the way to gain fluency, because you need not care what you say and had better not be sensible. Nothing is of so much importance and of so much use to a young man entering life as to be well criticised by women'. This may have been good advice in the 19th century, but I hesitate to say that it is now. I believe the good rule today is to speak of trifling and amusing subjects rather than controversial subjects."

REV. ROY McCOWN, 2705 N. Second, pastor of Chapel Presbyterian church: "Be interested in the other fellow. That is what the psychologists say. You just wouldn't have a conversation without that interest. It would be a lecture."

DOYLE BROOKS, Lubbock route 4, farmer: "You need to like to find out what other people think. You have to have your mind on the conversation and be interested in what the other person is saying."

MRS. JOHN L. McLEOD, 905 Ave. M, field representative of Lubbock County Tuberculosis association: "I think to achieve the art of being a good conversationalist, one should always respect the views and opinions of the individual with whom they are conversing. Speak clearly, slowly and in a pleasing tone. I think the art of being a good conversationalist has to be developed and I think more people could be if they tried."

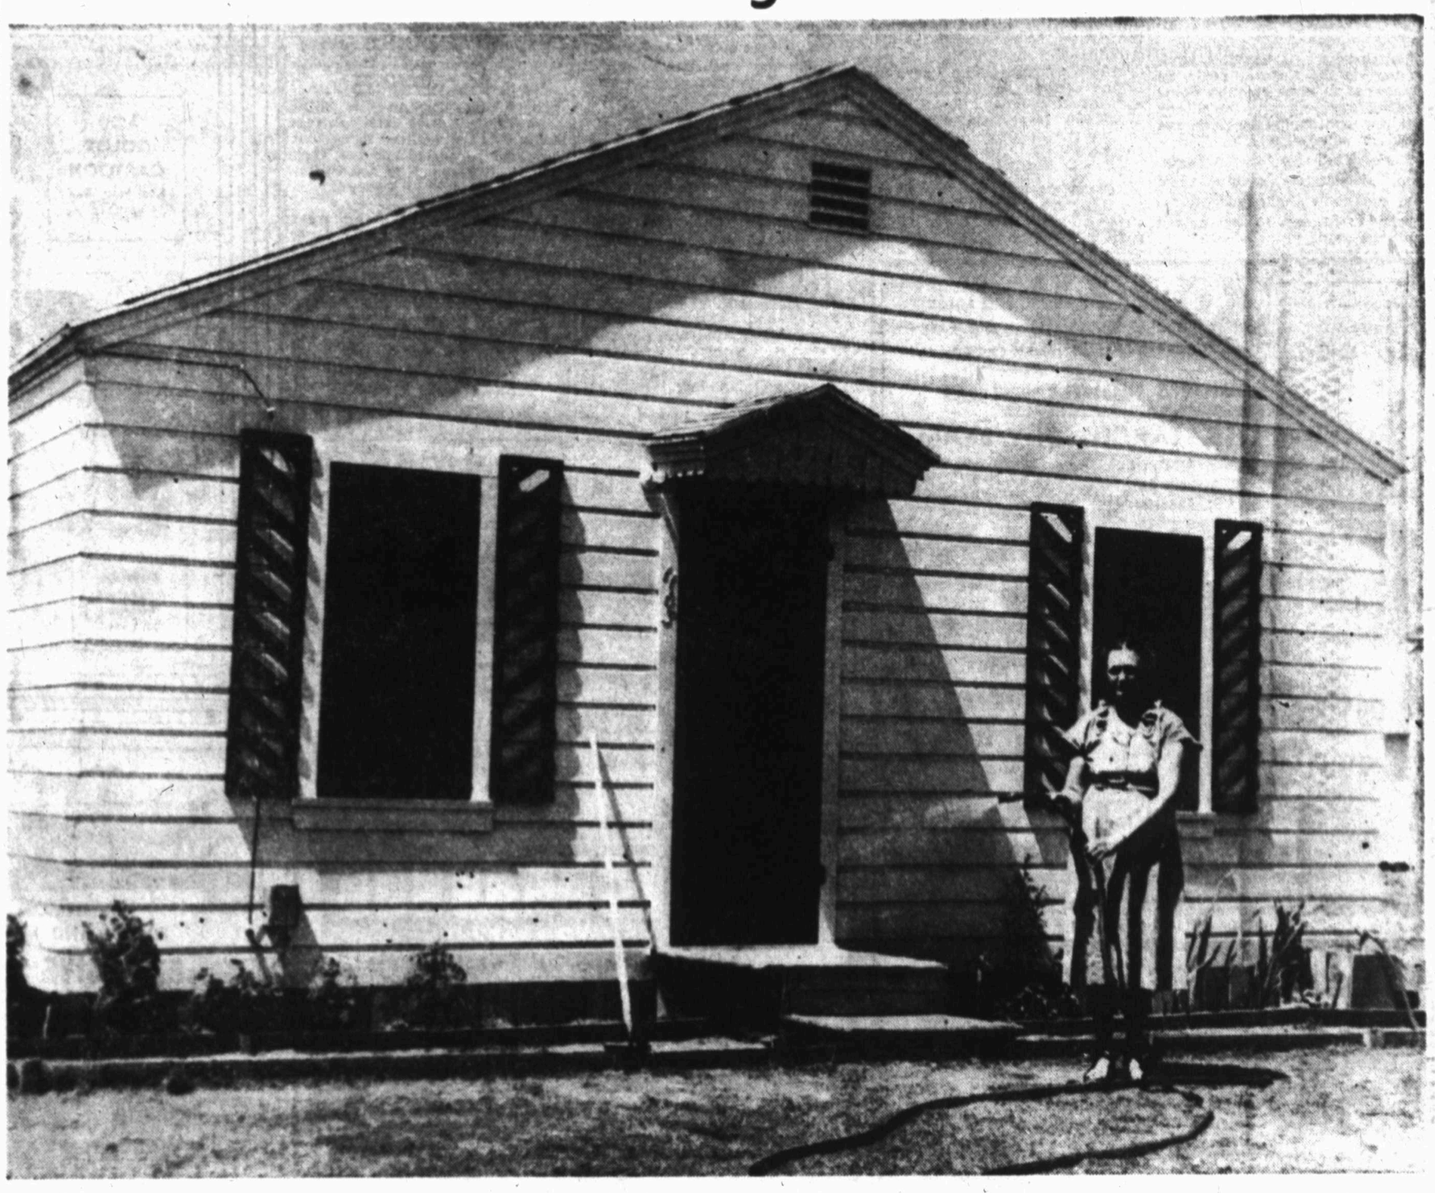

GEORGE PERKINS, 3214 Twenty - fifth, interior decorator: "You need a well rounded personal library of books. You have to be well read and keep up on all subjects and not just talk on your favorite subject. Be well informed and keep your vocabulary up."

Two More Housing Additions Get

Natural Gas Service

West Texas Gas Company has completed facilities to furnish natural gas service to two more housing additions adjoining the city of Lubbock. Approximately one and one-half miles of distribution mains and other facilities have been installed in the Morrow and Puckett Additions.

Mrs. W. R. Kent, shown working in her yard in the Morrow Addition, said she is glad to have low-cost natural gas service in her home. Like many of her neighbors, Mrs. Kent used natural gas for many years before moving to her new home.

The new facilities installed in the Morrow and Puckett Addition make low-cost natural gas service available to 95 homes and businesses.

Approximately seven millions will be required by West Texas Gas Company to complete its 1949-1951 building and expansion program. Over $2,280,000.00 was invested in new facilities during 1948 . . . all of which are designed to maintain good gas service to present customers and also extend service to new customers.

Actress Starred With Cooper At Age Of 15

Joan Leslie Is Through As Warner Bros. Utility Gal

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.—Joan Leslie, a girl who knew what she wanted, had it this week.

She began work in RKO's "Bed of Roses," her first major studio job in three years. Thus ended a fight for freedom which took her almost to the U. S. Supreme Court.

JOAN

This story begins about 10 years ago. Born Joan Brodell in Detroit, the little girl showed acting ability at an early age. She looked mature beyond her years and at 15 she was starring with Gary Cooper in "Sgt. York," at 16 with Jimmy Cagney in "Yankee Doodle Dandy." The role won academy awards for both actors.

Became Utility Gal

Joan became the utility gal at Warners. She worked hard and often. But as she approached 21, she became dissatisfied. She felt she was being typed as a scatter-brained bobbysoxer. She claimed the studio reduced her from star to featured billing in "Two Guys From Milwaukee."

When she came of age, Joan issued a declaration of independence She claimed as an adult she could end any contract made for her as a minor.

She won her case in two lower courts, but was reversed in the State Supreme court. She took it to the U. S. Supreme Court, which decided not to review the case. Finally, Warners decided to release her.

Learned Patience

"I learned a lot in those three years," she says, "about patience, understanding—and law.

"It hasn't been easy. Warners sent letters to all studioes saying they could not hire me, and those letters still have an effect, although the case is over.

"Furthermore, I couldn't work for pay on the stage or radio. So I managed to keep busy by doing benefits, raising money for church buildings and doing free radio and television appearances."

She also did two films at Eagle-Lion. "Fortunately, each of them paid me more than I earned in a year at Warners, so that helped out," she said.

French Film Makers Have Tough Time As Production On Rocks

By SALLY GRAM SWING
United Press Staff Writer

PARIS, June 25. (U.P.)—Three major French productions came out in Paris this week: "Fabiola," a tale of ancient Rome; "Du Guesclin," another historical picture set in the 100 Years' War, and "The Man With Clay Hands," a boxing picture starring France's beloved champion, Marcel Cerdan. All of them are "A" productions.

Despite this dazzling display, the Franch motion picture industry is on the rocks more than ever before since the liberation.

Here are some unpleasant facts:

1. Out of a total of 254 French motion picture companies, only 76 made pictures in 1948. This year it looks as if the number will be even smaller.

2. Three of France's major directors—Rene Clair, Claude Autan-Laura ("The Devil in the Body") and Jacques Becker, ("Antoine and Antoinette")—made no film in 1948 and have no prospects in sight for this year.

Many Out Of Work

3. Fifty per cent of all motion picture workers (including stars, technicians, artists, etc.) were fired of unemployed in the last year and a half.

That was in 1947 and the beginning of 1948.

This year, a new Clouzot picture, "Manon," which was launched by a formidable publicity campaign and starred the new pert and sexy Cecile Aubry, was taken off the screens of the same two theaters after eight weeks.

"Manon" cost its producer, P. E. Decharne, 125,000,000 francs ($400,000, a very high production cost for France), and during the eight-week run, 336,612 paid out only 56,754,230 france ($189,000) to seet it.

Of this sum, 34 per cent went into taxes, 34 per cent to renting the theater, 10 per cent to the distributor and exploitation, 2 per cent to the newsreel and 3 per cent to the cartoon or documentary shown with "Manon." Result: only 10,000,000 francs ($33,000) went to a very disappointed M. Decharne.

Starlet Who Delayed Career For Man Making Comeback

By PATRICIA CLARY
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.—Gale Robbins, the girl who waited six years for her best beau to graduate from high school and college and another year while he went to officer's candidate school, is still waiting up for him.

And while she waits, she said, her career comes second.

Miss Robbins, a singer, gave up night club jobs so she could go out with her man. She gave up contracts with New York model agencies and Hollywood producers to stay by his side. She was all set for stardom when she quit to wait around army camps for him.

The starlet who doesn't care about stardom is making a comeback now in 20th Century-Fox's "Oh You Beautiful Doll." That's the studio where she was working when she gave it all up to stay with her husband, Lt. Bob Olson.

Miss Robbins met Olson at a school dance in Chicago when she was 14 and he 16. Two years later, when she was a successful model and he a college student, they got engaged with the understanding they wouldn't get married until he was graduated.

Powers and Conover were already calling Miss Robbins to New York. She wrote and said no, thanks. She wouldn't dream of leaving Chicago.

When Gale was 18 she made her singing debut at Ernie Byfield's Pump Room. She got offers to sing at the Waldorf in New York and at swank night spots in Florida. She said no. She sang with such bands as Jan Garber's and the late Hal Kemp's, but only when they visited Chicago.

An then she dropped singing with bands entirely.

"I had to work at night," she explained, "and I wanted to go out with Bob."

So she got a job singing on the radio in the daytime. Eddie Cantor heard her and offered her a job in "Baxjo Eyes" on Broadway. Movie offers came from Universal, MGM and Fox. Gale said no. Graduation was just around the corner.

But as soon as Bob got his degree in engineering, he enlisted.

Makes One Picture

This time Miss Robbins took 20th Century-Fox on a screen test. The studio put her into "In the Meantime, Darling," with Jeanne Crain. After the picture, Miss Robbins flew to Hays, Kan., where she and Olsen were married at Walker Air Field.

"When I came back," she recalled, "Mr. Zanuck told me he was going to star me in 'Greenwich Village' because both Betty Grable and Alice Faye were having babies. And he was going to feature me with Betty in 'The Dolly Sisters.' But I said no."

She got fired and went to be with her husband until he was sent overseas.

Since the war, the Olson family has settled in southern California Olson has got a job and Mrs. Olson has made a half dozen movies.

"I though we were all set, but what happens?" she sighed. "He got the building bug and now he's going to UCLA for a degree in architecture. He works days and goes to school nights. And me, I'm still waiting up for him."

ASKS FOR DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, June 25. (INS)—Actress Marjorie Walker today filed suit for divorce against her actor-husband Douglas Coppin. She charged desertion. The film actress is the daughter of Cameraman Joe Walker and the granddaughter of prominent Denver newsman Brisbane Walker.

HOLLYWOOD, June 25. — I'm sorry I missed Leonard Levinson's world premiere of his first four "Jerky Journey" cartoons aboard a Los Angeles streetcar. It was heralded as "the world's shortest movie junket" by Levinson's Impossible Pictures, Inc.

Johnson

The streetcar was equipped with a film projection machine, generator, transformers, screen and Virginia Hill, the transit company's senior female trolley jockey. All of the advertising cards in the car had been removed and replaced with ones especially printed for the occasion.

One read: "If it's an Impossible Picture, we've been there—Rita and Aly." Another: Eat Erskine Johnson's Atomic Popcorn. It snaps. It crackles. It roars. Remember, a cap pistol with every bag."

People waiting at car stops for transportation, I hear, were open-mouthed at the going-on inside the trolley as it sailed past them. One Los Angeles motorist, I am sure, is consulting a psychiatrist. The squeal of his brakes was awful to hear when the streetcar "theater" started across an intersection at the exact moment when a steamboat whistle blew loudly on the screen.

Capital Of Marital Discord Has Successful Matings, Too

Maureen O'Sullivan, Husband Nominated As Oscar Candidates For Largest Family

By JAMES PADGITT
(INS) Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, June 25. — If they ever get around to giving an academy award for Hollywood's biggest family, Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow are a cinch for an oscar.

MAUREEN

This couple, who celebrate their 13th wedding anniversary on Sept. 12, have a house full of children — six of them, as of this writing, ranging in age from 3 weeks to 10 years.

Perennial stories of movieville marital discord never touch the Farrow family. The couple is pointed out as a shining example of how to be normal and happy though in the city of make believe.

They are the perfect example that two careers can be carried on simultaneously in Hollywood with success in both.

Farrow is one of Hollywood's ace directors and Maureen still is one of the industry's top stars, even though she's only made one picture in seven years.

Maureen has had her success as a film star and now she wants to be even more successful—as the mother of six charming youngsters.

That why she is in semi-retirement and will emote before the cameras again only if that "one in a million part" comes along.

As Maureen has said after the birth of her first, second, third, fourth, and fifth child—and again three weeks ago when Stephanie Margarita was born:

"My children will always come first with me.

Figure Same

The Irish-born actress, who at 38 has the same looks and trim figure she had when she climbed around the trees with Tarzan as the jungle man's scantily-clad mate 10 and 12 years ago, explained that she was in "semi-retirement." She said:

"I've retired in a way. After all, taking care of six children is a full time job in itself.

"I'm flattered that they still offer me film roles. I used to think that a mother of six couldn't possibly expect to be much in demand for film work.

"I look over several scripts a month, but until that one part in a million comes along, I'll stay home with the family."

Farrow, then a writer, and Maureen were married in 1936 a few years after she had been "discovered" while dining in a Dublin cafe.

Lead Quiet Life

Three years later their first son was born. He was named after Father Damien, the famed priest who devoted a lifetime among the lepers of Molokai.

Then came: Patrick Joseph, 1943; Maria De Lourdes, 1945; John Charles, 1946! Prudence Anne, 1948, and little Stephanie on June 3.

Maureen's last screen appearance was in "The Big Clock" which her husband directed, in 1947. She still gets fan mail from that one as well as about 100 letters a month from odd corners of the world complimenting her on her performance in the old Tarzan films.

The Farrows lead a quiet life in Beverly Hills. They are rarely seen around the night spots. They have a few close friends and attend church regularly where Maureen is active in charity functions.

Writes Stories

Farrow has encouraged Maureen to write and she has turned out a series of 24 children's stories and fairy tales which have been recorded by a large company for radio.

She has drawn largely on the rich background of Irish folk lore for these, and the idea to circulate them came after her own children were fascinated by her story telling.

Farrow has just completed "Copper Canyon" with Hedy Lamarr and he's scheduled to start an Alan Ladd film in September. The Farrows are considering taking a vacation on their own for the first time in years next month.

If Maureen feels up to it and the six little Farrows promise to be good little children, mama and papa plan to fly over to Honolulu for a few weeks' rest.

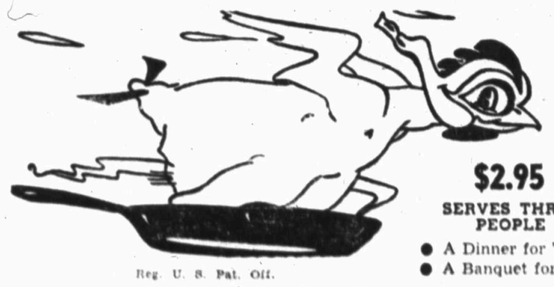

However, it will surprise no one, if Maureen decides to pass up one more vacation and remain with the kids.

Union Leaders Don't Want Labor Government; Rayburn Rallied Demos

IT'S AN ACT

Their Stake Too Big

IT IS EXTREMELY doubtful if the big labor leaders of the U. S. actually want a labor government here. Certainly, they do not if they have familiarized themselves with what has happened—and what is continuing to happen—in England, where a labor government is clinging, precariously, to the saddle.

Over in England, workers are more restless under their own government than they were when the Conservatives were in power.

They have received wage boosts, but higher prices have erased them.

They have put in all sorts of governmental "benefits"—from free false teeth to free wigs—but they have found that they must pay for them, through taxes.

The laboring people in England have found the truth in the old saw, "uneasy lies the head that wears the crown," and they're getting pretty tired of merely existing, instead of living.

It is logical to suspect that American labor leaders like Philip Murray, John Lewis, Walter Reuther, et al, keep pretty well in touch with goings-on in England. It is logical to suspect, too, that these gentlemen know they might lose their high-paying jobs if they were to force a duplicate of the British picture here. So while they go through the motions of wanting a labor government in the U. S., they really don't want any such thing. At least that's the way it looks to anyone who does a little prying into, and thinking over, the subject.

OUR GUESS is that American labor leaders much prefer to use their political strength as a means to an end, instead of as an end in itself. If so, that isn't all bad. It probably is good in some respects—good for the minority in regimented labor and for the majority outside, as well.

There is no gainsaying the claim that the rank and file of the people must prosper if democracy is to do its job—which is just another way of saying that benefits to the majority, if properly sought and administered, are more to be desired to benefits to the few. So a middle-of-the-road government, responsible to both organized labor and the rest of the rank-and-file is more to be desired than a government responsible only to organized labor, or to the upper economic levels of society.

We believe most American labor leaders are smart enough to recognize the fact.

Abner Doubleday

SOMEWHERE near a million people throughout the U. S. and a half dozen other nations will gather today to either play, or watch baseball games, but to only a few of them does the name, Abner Doubleday, mean anything at all.

Yet if it hadn't been for the imagination and ingenuity of Abner Doubleday, who devised the game in 1839, there would be no baseball today—at least as we know it.

If the sociologists are correct in the theory that keeping youngsters busy keeps them out of mischief which leads to crime, then the American people owe about as much to Abner Doubleday as to any other citizen throughout the life of the nation. There is no gainsaying that more American youngsters have been kept amused longer, and to a greater extent, by playing or watching baseball than by engaging in any other pursuit.

When we think of baseball today, we usually think of professional baseball, a business—a good, American business. But baseball, in the U. S. A., means a great deal more than business: it means a sport in which the rich and poor are on an equal level and in which are learned many of the great lessons of life.

Abner Doubleday, born 130 years ago this day, has contributed greatly to our entertainment, our mental and physical improvement, to our national outlook and even to our colorful vocabulary.

For his vision, and for what his vision has meant to our country, Americans will salute his memory.

Another problem about conducting a going business nowadays is to know which way it's going

REP. PATMAN CLAIMS BILL HITS SMALL BUSINESS

Texas Solon Opens Fire On 'Basing Point System'

By SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche-Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 25.—"If this bill comes to the floor of the house, there's going to be the derndest fight you ever saw," Rep. Wright Patman, first district, vowed this week as he again swung into action against legislation he believes threatens the interests of small business.

The bill in question is SR 1008, which would legalize the "basing-point system" in its present form, and, according to Rep. Patman, would "substantially repeal the anti-trust laws of the United States and be in the interest of monopolies and trusts."

SR 1008, prepared by Senator Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming as an amendment to the original Walter-Myers bill, was adopted on the floor of the Senate without, Patman declares, hearings of any kind having been held. In a letter to Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, chairman of the house committee on rules, the Texan asked that the bill be held up from a vote in the house until hearings can be conducted by the small business committee—of which he is chairman—"to bring out important information that members of Confress should have before voting on this important proposal, and especially to point out its devastating effects on small business."

Showdown On Plan Soon

Controversy over SR 1008 brings to a climax the issue of the disputed basing point system, established some years ago by the railroad freight industry. Under the system, arbitrary "bases" have been established throughout the country which serve as points from which all freight shipping charges within a given territory are calculated. A farmer, for instance, must pay the same price to ship his produce whether he lives within one mile or 100 miles from the basing point; in some cases, if he sells directly at point of production, the cost of freight shipment from the basing point must be added to his price, even though his product has never gone into a freight car.

On the other hand, shippers living a longer distance from the basing point effect a saving, and the freight industry has maintained that the system equalizes costs on an over-all basis. The system is also considered a protection for the larger shippers against the small producers who have no freight costs, being closely adjacent to market.

The system has been challenged many times, but this is the first time there has been an attempt to establish its legal position.

REP. PATMAN also declares that passage SR 1008 would nullify and repeal three important decisions of the United States Supreme Court in the cement, steel conduit and salt cases, which "are in the interest of the people generally." In the steel-conduit case, he pointed out, big steel interests were "caught red-handed, fixing prices on steel conduit all over the nation with identical bids everywhere. Fifty bidders would put in bids to furnish steel conduit, and everyone of them would be exactly the same down to the fifth decimal point; every one of them. So the Supreme Court outlawed that method of doing business. They said it is against public interest; it is a monopoly; it is a trust. Now we are asked through the O'Mahoney bill to repeal this decision and legalize what the Supreme Court outlawed in the case."

SR 1008 would also repeal certain parts of the Clayton Act, enacted in 1936 through efforts of independent merchants, and which protect "The home town merchant, the corner druggist, the corner grocer, your independent businesses," The Texas congressman said.

"In 1936 there were such amazing disclosures about discriminatory prices that the whole nation was astounded, and demanded that Congress pass laws that would protect independent business, that would prohibit these large national corporate chains from getting a monopoly," Rep. Patman recounted.

"The Congress, in obedience to these demands, passed laws amending the Clayton Act, which legislation will be repealed if this O'Mahoney bill is passed.

"I am not impunging the motive of any member of Congress; I am talking about the clamor from the lobbying interests, that lobbying octopus that is here in Washington now, that is demanding the

IT'S TOO hot today to be sensible, so here goes for a lot of nonsense.

BRANDEIS

As part of the 130-year anniversary of the City of Burton, Ohio, residents have been asked to write their honest opinions about their neighbors and put them in sealed envelopes.

These envelopes will be put in a metal box which will be buried and is not to be opened for a hundred years.

I do hope that no Burtonian will get at that box while whatever neighbor about whom he or she expressed an opinion is still alive.

Otherwise, there may not be a single Burtonian left long before the hundred years are up.

(By the way, to show you how up-to-date this column is, I just found the clipping of this item in one of my 'idea folders.' It is dated June 14, 1948. Which shows you that I am only a year behind in my news.)

In the City of Boston, Mass., a law has been proposed that for the first violation of an automobile ordinance a fifty-cent fine is to be imposed. That fine is to be doubled with every offense.

Thus, the 22nd fine would be $1,048,576.

A mere trifle to rich people such as you and I.

Here is another year-old item that I got out of that folder.

Last year about this time, a bill was introduced in Congress providing for the better care of elephants.

The bill declared that many elephants being shipped here from India arrived in Winter, "practically unprotected from the icy salt-waves which broke over them."

The elephants, the bill said, "were white with salt, shivering and moaning and very near death."

I don't know what was done about it.

But if it got the same Congressional treatment as a lot of bills for the protection of us humans who are "shiver-

HE PAVED THE WAY

People Got Promise

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—It was Speaker Sam Rayburn's forthright leadership inside the secret caucus of House Democrats that paved the way for the favorable vote on the public housing bill and President Truman's first major victory at this session of Congress.

PEARSON

Sam gave it to his fellow Democrats — as his fellow Texan, Jack Garner used to say—"with the bark off."

"We have made some mistakes in the past," Rayburn declared at the closed-door meeting. "Some well-meaning Democrats refused to follow the leadership of President Roosevelt back in 1938, '39 and '40 when he was attempting to build our defenses against war.

"When Pearl Harbor was attacked, those well-meaning Democrats realized they had made a mistake. Let's not make the same mistake on this housing issue. We made a promise to the people in our platform to enact a public housing bill. We can't afford to go back on it.

"It's very easy to forget how good the Democratic party has been to us," continued the speaker. "In my own farm district in Texas, there were few decent farm-to-market roads until Roosevelt was elected. Since then, 47 new schools and gymnasiums have also been built in 14 counties of my district.

"Most of this was done with WPA or PWA money. It is an equally sound investment for the government to provide decent low-cost homes and to clear the slums of our cities. I know all of you have received a lot of mail, inspired by the real estate lobby, denouncing this bill.

"I have received a lot of mail, also, some of it from good, sincere people. But I have noticed that 90 per cent of the letters I have received about this bill were written by about 5 per cent of my constituents."

Dixiecrat Opposition

Dixiecrat John Rankin of Mississippi, a violent foe of the housing bill, "sat out" most of the caucus in the cloakroom. However, his cohort, Gene Cox of Georgia, sharply disagreed "with my good friend the speaker."

"This is a big-town bill," thundered Cox. "It is socialism with a vengeance. It is statism in its worst form, a complete departure from the policies we have pursued in the past. The government is planning to subsidize individuals in (rental) homes they never can own."

"You can't call this bill socialistic," shot back young Hale Boggs of Louisiana. "Senator Bob Taft of Ohio is for it. Is he a Socialist? And I am sure Senator Ellender from my state, another supporter of the bill, would resent being called a Socialist.

"Nor does the legislation represent a change of government policy," angrily continued Boggs. "The pattern for the bill was set back in 1937 when the wagner-Steagall bill, also providing for slum clearance and public housing, became law."

COX WAS only too glad to drop the subject, but he quickly accepted the challenge when his poker-playing friend, Majority Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts, began to twit him for making a hasty judgment of the housing program.

"Let me say to the gentleman that I can't understand how an Irishman can support a bill that invades the sanctity of the home," snapped the Georgian. "The Irish fought a resistance war for generations to protect their homes."

"I happen to be an American, with Irish antecedents," replied McCormack. "Any grudge I or my ancestors have had against the British down through the years doesn't belong in this debate. This is a debate on an American issue. Let's keep foreign affairs out of it."

NOTE—Later Cox engaged in a brief fist fight on the floor of the House with 83-year-old Adolph Sabath of Chicago, chairman of the rules committee.

Row Over Brannan Plan

President Truman's three-man council of economic advisers held a significant closed-door meeting with the leaders of every major American farm organization.

Those present were: John Davis of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, Roger Fleming of the Farm Bureau, Russell Smith of the National Farmers Union, and Albert Goss of the National Grange. Though they represent varying shades of political and economic philosophy all were gloomy about the drop in farm income.

Smith, of the Farmers Union, maintained that mounting farm surpluses of wheat, corn, cotton, will depreciate the price of other farm products. John Davis of the farm co-ops emphasized that producers of such specialties as cranberries, fruits and nuts will be particularly hard hit.

Albert Goss, silverhaired elder statesman of the nation's farm groups, was also concerned about the continued high cost of running American farms. He stressed the fact that the welfare of the American farmer is tied up with the flow of international trade and that dollars must be found for Europe to buy U. S. crops.

"It is time," he said, "that we stop thinking of this as a purely domestic problem. It's a world problem."

Real bombshell of the meeting was supplied by Leon Keyserling, vice chairman of the President's council. The group had been discussing the whole field of farm legislation, particularly the Hope-Aiken bill and the now famous Brannan plan. After some minutes of this discussion, Keyserling declared:

"What's the use of discussing the Brannan plan when President Truman has already endorsed it and we, the council, have decided we don't take a position on it?"

The remark, which was aimed at Chairman Nourse who has opposed taking a position on the Brannan plan, caused a series of embarrassed glances.

The two other council members — Keyserling and Clark—are for the Brannan plan and have wanted to go up on Capitol Hill to fight for it.

CHRISTOPHER MORLEY AGAIN

Posthumous Narration In Novel

"THE MAN WHO MADE FRIENDS WITH HIMSELF," by Christopher Morley; (Doubleday).

MORLEY'S first novel in six years, this could easily have required that long, or longer, just to think up all the puns, alliterations and epigrams in it. Yet it's so full of other puns, alliterations and epigrams quoted from past masters that it's hard to decide whether it's a novel or a compendium.

It is the story of Richard Tolman, literary agent who lives in the New York suburb of Wending Ways . . . "My crooked winding ways, wherein I live" (George Herbert). It's also about Tolman's double, or Doppleganger, or "That Man", raised from a sandpile grave to become conductor and taxi driver; about Zoe Else, who knows all; Sharpy, who wants to know all; Betty, who knows nothing but thinks she knows all.

Posthumous Narrator

Tolman is the posthumous narrator. "If I can't tell you about things that tickle me, what's the use of telling anything?" he asks. So this is what tickles him: Kittens named Shall and Will "because so few people know them apart"; Sharpy dressed like a filibustering senator but in pants so tight he nearly filibusts; a "forewards parse" on the difference between who and whom.

As Doppelganger goes back to the sandpile, Tolman learns his own life has been 400 blank pages, and he goes on to a fiery end. Since Tolman equals Toulemonde, he is Everybody; and if he succeeds in arousing Sharpy's envy by making friends with himself, he doesn't arouse yours, for apparently he hasn't made friends with much.

Though Morley sometimes uses the commoner words, even very common ones like "poop" (pages 10, 83, 121, 135, 157, 230) and though on occasion the dazzling repartee gets somewhere, yet often it's dazzle for dazzle's sake. The professor in Morley forgets, the sophomore takes over; this is too like a book of gags. If Zoe's ankles are like a faun's, why couldn't Morley say so, instead of calling them "hinnuleo", and why the dative, anyway? Tolman's talk, in Morley's word but not his meaning, is never-ending concinnous euphuism.

"Angels Camp"

"ANGELS CAMP," by Ray Morrison; (Norton).

LEO Zubiat, an appealing, big-eyed boy in his middle teens, loiters outside a Rescue Mission in Los Angeles. A fat, oily stranger catches his attention, and before Leo wanders away, he lets the man's glance cross his again. The man follows, enters into conversation with him, invites him to supper.

Since the circumstances are somewhat ominous, you suspect the boy, hidden off in a smelly apartment down a dark alley, is not going to eat for free. But at the moment of reckoning, when Leo's young Mexican confederate, Roo, sneaks in and the pair of them conk the man with a sand-filled sock, it is the host who pays with the $28 they steal from his pockets.

Next Venture Their Last

Their next venture, however, is their last, for th police nab Leo. The judge sends him to a sort of reform camp high in the mountains. It is here, mainly, that this first novel develops, with good and evil, a capitalized Good and Evil, vying valiantly for little Leo. Then Good insufficiently disguised, appears in a counsellor, Mr. Grozier, who works subtly on the boy's better instincts. The Evil is in the boy himself, his reprehensible habits, and in camp mates like Crats, Mophead, Steamboat and Roo, who found his way there thanks to another dereliction.

The author is very earnest about all this, and he is successful in depicting Grozier's thoughtful approach to Leo's problem. The boy's sage remark, that "Asking me when I went wrong is like asking the judge when he went right," caught my interest early in the book; but if that is regarded as a promise of more excellencies to come, the promise is not fulfilled.

This sagacity yields to a series of morals: That a judge can be understanding, a bad boy can be redeemed, a reform camp can reform. Then the morals are worked out by a series of chance incidents and encounters: Runaway truck, murder, plane crash, conflagration, big-hearted movie director, two straying girls and one lost woman. In these terms, repentance is disaster, and it's less trouble to leave Leo alone. But then we wouldn't have had a novel. But you'll doubt if we have a novel, anyway; it's more like a Rescue Mission tract.

Plush Era Tale

"PRAIRIE AVENUE," by Arthur Meeker; (Knopf).

A PICTURE of Chicago's wealthy families, with their aviaries, greenhouses, plush, parasols, costume balls, broughams, butlers, sugarplums, damask tablecloths and ouche, is drawn in this novel that starts in 1885, goes to 1904 and ends in a quick epilogue in 1918.

The Ramseys, who at times have their ups, are now having their downs and decide consequently to park their young son Ned at least for a winter with his aunt and uncle, Hiram and Lydia Stack. New doesn't need to be particularly perceptive to discover that his beautiful aunt is more popular among men than women. She is Prairie Avenue's femme fatale, belle of the butchers and hog killers to the world.

There is a deal of atmosphere, though it is not very interesting; a lot of listening behind doors, though it seems shocking in an elite society; a couple of violent deaths, which are merely a novelist's device and not painful. This Literary Guild selection is a still life with too much still and not enough life.

"The Happy Tree"

"THE HAPPY TREE," by Sheila Kaye-Smith; (Harper).

IN "The Happy Tree," Sheila Kaye-Smith has written a far more exciting story than the title suggests.

Joan was dead a year, she together with the child who would have been Kemp Silverden's son, to carry on in time, as Kemp had after his own father, to farm the holding of Eggs Hole in Sussex.

There was only the old damp house to come home to at night, and whatever parched dish Mrs. Wood might have left in the oven for his supper. Usually he walked up to the Catherine Wheel for a pint of bitter and a swapping of talk with the other farmers. There it was he got to know Alice.

Scoffed At New Ways

She sat quietly by the fire, the plaits of her fair hair wound about her head, a glass of sherry in her hand, while her husband—"perposterous" was the word Kemp fitted to him—made a loud show of himself before the others. Candelin scoffed at their new ways, the tractors in their fields, the ranges in the kitchens, the electric light, the shop-bought cloth. Alice had had to loom by hand the thin stuff of the cloak she wore that chilly night, and she cooked over wood coals. Kemp's compassion set ablaze the love he had tried to smother from the time he had first set eyes on her.

Given the people—and they are real—whose story "The Happy Tree" tells, the dramatic outcome is inevitable. It is a compelling book, and one you will often read over in your mind after you have finished it.

A LONDON, England, magistrate decided some time ago that it is perfectly permissible for a husband to chastise a recalcitrant wife, provided the cane he uses is "no thicker than a man's little finger."

A London cane and umbrella merchant told a reporter recently that there has been no demand for suitable canes since the magistrate's decision, although he put in a plentiful stock and advertised "canes legal for uxorial punishment."

The same type of canes, he added, have been used for years by farmers for the herding of cattle and in schools for the disciplining of pupils.

A Chicago fellow built himself an eight-room house for $600 and bragged to his friends about it.

Someone squealed on him and, upon investigation, it developed that he stole all the material.

That's one way to beat the housing shortage.

And I bid you all a pleasant weekend.

New Minister To Be Installed At Wilson Lutheran Church

Rev. Clarence Ehler will be installed at the St. John's American Lutheran church, Wilson, this morning by the Rev. R. Grote of Roscoe.

Pastor and Mrs. Ehler were welcomed by the congregation Friday night with a bridal shower for the newly-married couple.

Pastor Ehler is a student at Wartburg seminary, Dubuque, Iowa, and will serve the Wilson congregation during his year of internship, after which he will return for one more year at the seminary. During the past year the congregation has been served on a supply basis by Rev. David Sieberg, pastor of the Shepherd King American Lutheran church in Lubbock.

Mrs. G. C. Beard Is Given Church Post

Mrs. G. C. Beard has been appointed secretary of women's work at the First Methodist church and will begin duties at the church July 1.

The position was authorized by the board of stewards at its June meeting.

Mrs. Beard, a member of the First Methodist church since 1938, has a bachelor of science degree in education from North Texas State Teachers college in Denton. She has completed 30 hours toward a master's degree at Scarritt college in Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor, will present Mrs. Beard to women of the church at a coffee in fellowship hall of the church at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Beard also will be honored at an informal reception in the church parlor at 8 o'clock Tuesday night.

Delegates From 15 States To Attend Bible Conference Here

Ministerial and lay delegates from approximately 15 states are expected to attend an Aug. 10 through 12 Western States Bible conference of the Primitive Baptist church here, it was announced Saturday.

Since approximately 300 persons are expected, arrangements have been made to hold the conference in Cumberland Presbyterian church, at Tenth and Ave. O, rather than in the Primitive Baptist church, at Twentieth and Ave. K, it was explained.

TEACHES CLASSES — Rev. Manuel D. Ibarra, above, pastor of Bethel Temple, is teaching classes in the Vacation Bible school now in progress, with an enrollment of 62 children. The classes will be conducted three more weeks at the church, located at 223 N. Ave. N. Class hours are 9 to 11 a. m. and 1 to 3 p. m.

RED TAPE SCORED

REP. KEN REGAN, 16th district, was revealing this week some devious paths necessary to follow in wending one's way through the maize of red tape to obtain Public Works Administration approval for public works in the days of Roosevelts.

Regan came here in 1933 to spend three days getting approved a permit to spend federal grant money on Red Bluff dam on the Pecos river. He stayed three months.

Regan had been here for some time when he discovered that the stumbling block which was preventing his application getting removed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation where it had been for eight years and getting over to the PWA was a dark little room with drawn blinds where three men sat around a table, far removed from other folks ,and there forwarded applications by number placed thereon by a chief elsewhere. Regan opened the door to this room, went in, introduced himself. The boys liked him. His application had not been given a number. But they pulled his application out of the cubby hole, put a number on it and sent it forward.

Nor was that all. A lawyer in PWA did not think the project worthy. He said more special legislation from Texas was necessary. Ma Ferguson had run on a platform of no special sessions. Regan, who figured he had already all the authority necessary, knew he could expect no help there. He happened to miss his floor in an ascending elevator. He found himself on the floor of a friend, met at informal gatherings with the late Rep. Milton West and others after hours. The man proved to be an important official, who knew the attorney's boss quite well. A telephone call induced the boss to induce the young lawyer to reconsider and after studying the case further to find that there was ample justification for going ahead.

An Army major with his feet always propped up on a desk delayed day after day writing a letter to say the Engineers approved the project. Said he did not have time. Finally, Regan got tired, went around to see Sen. Tom Connally, who said "What, you still here?"

"I'll always have a soft spot in my heart for Senator Connally for what he did," said Regan.

Connally merely called the major on the telephone, said "Major, this is Tawn Connally. Will you get your ——— feet off that desk and write that letter for Ken Regan, and do it right away, for he's coming by there to get in in 30 minutes and I don't want him kept waiting."

T. D. THOMAS

Rev. Frank J. Mack Slated To Speak At Church Here Today

Rev. Frank J. Mack will tell a dramatic life story, "From Paralytic to Flaming Evangelist," at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the North Side Assembly of God church, North Second street and Madison avenue, where a "divine healing" campaign is now in progress, said Scott F. Mitchell, pastor.

Mr. Mitchell invited the sick to join the healing line for prayer in the 8 p. m. service.

Chicago Minister To Speak At Church

T. D. Thomas, minister of the Northwest Church of Christ, Chicago, is to be the speaker in the pulpit of the Broadway Church of Christ for six Sundays beginning July 3, in the absence of the regular minister, M. Norvel Young.

Dr. Young is on an extended trip to Europe and the Hold Land with his wife and others.

Rev. Thomas, a former resident of Lubbock, having once served as assistant city manager here for three years, has received degrees from Abilene Christian college and Southern Methodist university. He has recently completed work on his Ph.D at the University of Chicago. He has served as minister to the Northwest church in Chicago for the past four and one-half years.

Mrs. Thomas and the children will accompany him here and will make their residence at 3211 Thirty-first. Mr. Thomas is the son of Mrs. W. A. Thomas of 2319 Main and Mrs. Thomas is the daughter of J. H. Payne of Route 1, Lubbock.

In September of this year, the Thomases are resigning the Chicago post and will move to Abilene. He is to serve there as associate professor in the department of Bible at Abilene Christian college.

Three Lubbock Men To Attend Synod Of Texas Conference

Three Lubbock Presbyterian men will attend the Synod of Texas men and Sunday school superintendents conference at Presbyterian No-Ranch Saturday and Sunday. They are Sim O'Neal, William B. Ditmore, and Jack Spangler, business manager at First Presbyterian church. Ditmore will represent Chapel Presbyterian church and O'Neal the First Presbyterian church.

Presbyterian No-Ranch is the property recently acquired by the Texas Synod for use in summer conferences and a year-round program of Christian education, recreation, and fellowship. Situated on the Guadalupe river, 25 miles west of Kerrville at Hunt, the property includes some 6,500 acres containing 35 buildings, swimming pool, bathing beach, gymnasium, as well as "The Chapel."

The Board of Deacons of the First Presbyterian church met at 7:30 Wednesday in Tuxis classroom for the regular monthly business meeting. J. H. Murdough is the chairman.

DR. T. G. MCCORKLE

Dr. T. G. McCorkle New Club President

Dr. T. G. McCorkle has been named president of the Methodist Men's Coffee club by the board of directors of the organization.

He will serve as president six months. R. S. Williams is retiring president.

Other officers elected were Ben Cowling, first vice president; Larry Copenhaver, second vice president, and Marshall Howard, secretary-treasurer. Howard was re-elected and is the only second-term officer.

Members of the board are elected by popular vote of the club and they in turn elect officers.

Directors, in addition to officers, are John Hudspeth, Edwin Merriman, Russell Hardin, H. L. Hindman, and Williams.

Levelland Minister Is Honored At Assembly

Rev. A. A. Collins, of Levelland, was among a number of ministers of the Cumberland Presbyterian church who were honored at a banquet given during the recent annual General Assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church at Muskogee, Okla. The annual meeting closed this past week.

Ministers who were honored at the dinner were those who have served their church for many years. Rev. Collins, who served as moderator of the annual General Assembly in 1943, has been in the ministry well over 50 years.

At this year's annual session, church officials formulated plans for a program of progress that will advance the church in every field. Encouraging reports on the achievements of the past year were heard and approved. The Board of Foreign Missions reported new buildings on all fields, additional national workers, and an increase in mission funds to the amount of $93,000.

The Assembly approved plans for raising funds to be added to the endowment of Bethel college, McKenzie, Tenn., with additional funds to be spent on expanding and improving the facilities of the institution.

The General Assembly and missionary convention selected Los Angeles, Calif., as their 1950 meeting place.

Mrs. A. C. Tapp of Lubbock attended the session as a delegate to the missionary convention.

Charter Deadline Set For Church Members

The newly-organized Lubbock View Christian church will close its charter membership July 1, it was announced this week by church officials.

They emphasized that attention is being called to this deadline in order that any families who are considering membership in the new congregation may make their decision prior to that time.

Rev. Harry Purviance is pastor of the new church. The congregation at present is holding its worship services in Fellowship hall of the First Christian church. The church structure eventually will be located at Thirty-fourth and Tyler Ave.

Evangelist To Present Special Illustrated Sermon Here Tonight

The young people of Bethel Tabernacle, Sixth and Ave. L, tonight will assist Evangelist Jack Vossler in presenting a special illustrated sermon, entitled "The Judgment."

The series of revival services currently being conducted there are being well attended, especially by local young people, Rev. Boyd McSpadden, pastor, said yesterday.

Each service has special music by the church orchestra, with Rex. Vossler playing the saxophone. Rev. and Mrs. McSpadden present special vocal selections at each service.
