VERNON SENDING 1000 ROOTERS

LEIDIGH SHOWN ERROR OF ROOT ROT THEORIES

A. & M. Expert Is Given Proof that Excessive Water Is No Harm

TOURS THE VALLEY

Root Disease Plentiful Where Irrigation Is Not Practiced

The Taubenhaus contention as expressed in Bulletin 127 from A and M. college that cotton root rot is intensified with excessive rainfall or irrigation was disproved to the eyes of A. L. Leidigh, assistant director of the experiment stations of the Texas A and M college, yesterday, following his appearance before the Wichita Falls business council's weekly meeting at the Kemp hotel.

Irrigation Wins.

Upon an exception being taken to his statement of the Taubenhaus conclusion, Mr. Leidigh was taken on a tour of the valley road, during which minute inspection was made of an irrigated field of cotton and another cotton field that had not been irrigated. The inspection divulged that in the unirrigated field of cotton, cotton root rot was quite plentiful; but that in the irrigated field of cotton not an iota of cotton root rot was discernible.

"I have had the Taubenhaus theory disproved before my eyes," stated the expert to those who accompanied him, "but I am not yet satisfied."

It was indicated that further inspection might be made and that the author of the bulletin himself would come from A and M college to view the valley cotton fields.

Discusses Farm.

Before the business council Friday, Mr. Leidigh discussed plans of the experimental farm, operated by the A and M. college. He particularly emphasized the cause of brown spots in cotton fields, established as cotton root rot. For cotton root rot cure he suggested crop rotation, a conclusion reached by A and M experts who have been seeking a cure for the plant disease since 1889.

"I recommend simple crop rotation," he declared, "and clean farming to overcome the root rot. As soon as the cotton crop is made get into the fields with listers or middle busters and throw the roots out on the ground and let them die. This will stop the late fall growth."

HEADS TAX COLLECTORS

John M. Lowery of Dallas Is Elected State President.

DALLAS, Oct. 17.—John M. Lowery of Dallas was elected president of the Tax Collectors' association of Texas and Frank D. Scotten, Jr., of El Paso, was elected president of the Tax Assessors' association at a joint meeting here today. The 1925 meeting place will be selected tomorrow, with El Paso and Dallas bidding for it.

Other officers chosen by the organization included: Collectors: Vice-Presidents Guy C. Raley, Wichita Falls, and Fred D. Brock, Angleton; secretary-treasurer, Paul Williams, Austin. Assessors: Vice-Presidents O. G. Hickcox, Dallas, Tom C. Pierson, Hamilton, Irvan Dalton, Wichita Falls, and J. N. Dickson, Grayson; secretary-treasurer, L. A. Freeman, Fort Worth.

The collectors association adopted a resolution "that we deplore the large amount of proper in tax delinquency and command as worthy the efforts of all officials to reduce the delinquency."

FIRST DEAN CONVICTION.

Archer County Officials Broke Record in That County.

In clearing up the criminal docket of the 30th district court at Archer City this week District Attorney James V. Allred and Assistant District Attorney Robert K. Crain secured the first conviction ever obtained in Archer county for violation of the Dean law. The week's prosecution brought three convictions and one plea of guilty for liquor law violations.

In examining the court records, it was found that while not a great number of charges for violating the Dean law had been filed in Archer City, not a single conviction had ever been obtained.

Coolidge "Satisfied" At His Party's Expenses

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—President Coolidge today expressed satisfaction with the report of the republican national committee as submitted by its officials to the Borah committee at Chicago on campaign expenditures which, he said, showed that the campaign so far had been conducted with care and with regard for the law.

Mr. Coolidge believes the report of the committee reveals that the policies he outlined in his speech of acceptance in running the campaign on a budget system and entirely in accord with the funds available have been carried out. He also feels the report shows expenditures of the campaign thus far have been properly made.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE KILLED

Fields of Giddings Falls Before Constable's Gun In Argument Over Football Game At Georgetown

FEELING IS RUNNING HIGH AT GIDDINGS

Assailant, a Special Officer, Taken to Austin After Killing One Man and Wounding His Brother

GEORGETOWN, Texas, Oct. 17.—Trouble arising over a football game between the Georgetown and Giddings high school teams here this afternoon resulted in the fatal shooting of State Representative Charles W. Fields of Giddings and the serious wounding of John Fields, brother of the slain man and coach of the Giddings eleven. A. Townsley said to be a special officer, was taken into custody.

The shooting occurred in the street just outside the park where the game was played. The wounded men were removed to the hospital, about two blocks away, where Charles Field died shortly after.

Trouble between Townsley and John Fields was said to have started during the progress of the game. The arguments were resumed after the game and the men left the playing field. Outside the park Charles Fields joined in, taking the part of his brother.

The street was crowded with football fans at the time.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 17.—Alvin Townsley, deputy city marshal of Georgetown, held in connection with the fatal shooting of State Representative Charles W. Fields at Georgetown at a football game this afternoon, was brought to Austin tonight by Georgetown officers and lodged in the Travis county jail.

Travis county officers refused to allow reporters to question Townsley. The removal of Townsley to Austin was taken as a precautionary move it was stated. Feeling in Giddings the home of Representative Fields, is running high a dispatch to the Austin American here said tonight.

John Fields, brother of the slain man and wounded in the shooting, is mayor of Giddings, the dispatch to the American said. Representative Fields' son was a player on the Giddings team.

Eyelids Droop As Hight and Lover Meet Each Other

Minister and Woman Are Face to Face First Time Since Arrest

TAKEN TO COURT

Motion to Quash Indictment Against Pair to be Heard Saturday

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Oct. 17.—For the first time since September 24, last, Lawrence M. Hight, and Mrs. Elsie Sweeten, both of Ina, 12 miles south of here, met face to face in circuit court here this afternoon to be arraigned on two joint indictments charging murder in connection with the death by poison of the former clergyman's wife, Mrs. Anna Hight and Mrs. Sweeten's husband, Wilford. It was on September 24, last, that Mrs. Sweeten, after an all night ordeal confessed that she had administered poison to her husband, at the instigation of Hight and only the day before the former clergyman had admitted that he had poisoned his wife, so to remove the two persons that obstructed his way to the matrimonial altar, in company with Mrs. Sweeten.

The two defendants avoided one another's eyes in the presence of hundreds of curious spectators who filled the court room.

When the case was called, attorneys for both defendants asked that the indictments be quashed. Judge N. B. Norman of Dupoin, explained to the judge that he had been retained only yesterday to defend Hight and that he had been unable to familiarize himself with the case. Judge G. C. Kern ruled the motion for quashing the indictments would be heard tomorrow morning.

SHENANDOAH BUCKS WIND

Unable to Stop at 'Frisco As It Heads In Breeze

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—The navy dirigible Shenandoah skirted the northern California coast today and tonight was over western Oregan. Another day and night lie ahead of it, according to the watches on its bridge, before it can find a haven at Camp Lewis, Washington, western terminus of its great loop from the Lake Hurst, N. J., flying field.

The Shenandoah was forced to go by San Francisco in the early morning hours with only word of regret that it would be unable to stop here. Three army airplanes went out to greet it but only one found it. It was scudding through the thick clouds miles to seaward high over the white caps and with a strong off-shore wind quartering it. Eight hours and forty-five minutes later it was seen off Eureka 225 miles from San Francisco on an airline its slow progress indicating the strong winds that beset it.

W.C.T.U. Patches Up Troubles And Supports Leader

Endorse Political Views Of Mrs. Van DeWatts; Plan New Work

MEETINGS FINISHED

State Organization Will Push Campaign Against Drug Store Liquor

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Claud Van DeWatts whose re-election as president of the Texas W. C. T. U. caused a rift in the organization's jubilee convention yesterday was endorsed at the convention's last business session today in her attitude toward politics. Resolutions also were adopted indorsing Mrs. Van DeWatts' objection to any modification of the Volstead code and her advocation of a vigorous campaign against the sale of liquor by druggists.

Cleburne Next Year

Cleburne was selected as the meeting place for the convention next year. Outstanding in the business of the convention were resolutions endorsing:

Campaign against tuberculosis carried forward in homes, colleges and schools.

Petition to school authorities asking that no women teachers using tobacco be employed.

Demand for stricter enforcement of the law prohibiting the sale of tobacco to children under 16 years of age.

Oppose Prescriptions

Request for a state law prohibiting the sale of liquor by prescription.

Demand for the enforcement of the law requiring that the evils of narcotic habits, tobacco and whiskey be included in Texas text books.

To fight any modification of the Volstead law.

The convention also condemned bathing girl revues as being "against every law of purity and decency."

NEFF NAMES A REGENT

Board at Full Strength by Friday's Appointment

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—Announcement was made at the executive offices this afternoon that Charles E. Marsh of this city had been appointed a member of the board of regents of the University of Texas. In announcing the appointment Governor Neff stated this fills the complement of the board to its entire strength. The appointment is effective immediately.

Mr. Marsh succeeds Sam P. Cochran of Dallas, resigned. His resignation took place early in the summer during a session of the board of regents when that body elected Governor Neff as president of the university. At the same time Frank C. Jones of Houston resigned with Mr. Cochran.

Mr. Marsh is editor of several papers in the state and is president of the Austin American, the local morning paper.

3 MILLIONS TO KEEP COOL WITH COOLIDGE

Butler Tells Committee Republicans Hope to Spend That Sum

NO LATE DRIVE

Party Has No Intention, He Says of Mobilizing Delayed Cash

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, informed the special campaign investigating committee of the senate today that it is the "hope" and "expectation" of his organization to raise a total of $3,000,000 for the national campaign, presidential, senatorial and congressional.

At the same time Mr. Butler denied charges of Senator Robert M. LaFollette, the independent presidential candidate that his committee would mobilize a large mass of funds in certain states during the last weeks of the campaign. His denial was in reply to questions by Senator Shipsteadl, farmer-labor, Minnesota.

Under Cross Examination.

"We have no such intention, and have no such preparations," Mr. Butler said. "We have no ability to do it. We have no funds for purposes of that kind. There is no intention of doing anything of the sort. I want very much to conduct this campaign in such a way that when I get through it will be something to be proud of."

Under a gruelling cross examination by Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, regarding the budget plans of his committee, Mr. Butler testified that originally he had estimated $2,500,000 as the amount that would be required for the national presidential campaign. This sum was increased by $500,000 later, he added, after it had been decided to take care of the senatorial and congressional campaigns as well. Calling attention that evidence before the committee was that the republican organization already had collected approximately $1,700,000 Senator Caraway asked if it was expected to collect an additional $1,300,000.

"Yes," Mr. Butler replied.

"What are your plans for collecting it?" asked the senator.

"Nothing, except the solicitations which are going on all over the country among our friends, for funds," was the reply. "There is no special plan."

Friends Are Solicited.

Pressed by the Arkansas senator, Mr. Butler said the collection of funds was under the direction of the national treasurer, William V. Hodges.

"I have talked with the treasurer, and I know what the general plan is," Mr. Butler added.

"Would you mind telling us what that general plan is?" pursued Senator Caraway.

"Why, the plan is simply to be in communication with our friends all over the country," Mr. Butler re-

WORSE THAN IN 1914

So Says Speaker Warning of World's Internal Strife

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 17.—Internal strife is more pronounced today than it was in 1914, before the outbreak of the world war, Sherwood Eddy, New York, president of the the federated council of churches, told pastors and delegates attending the international convention of the Disciples of Christ here today.

"People of today have only two viewpoints of life," Mr. Eddy declared. "One group sees the world as a great battle ground. This is the pagan viewpoint. The other group sees it as a great brotherhood. This is the Christian viewpoint.

A HAIL OF LEAD

One Rum Runner Jumps Overboard And Disappears

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—More than 100 cans of alcohol and 47 cases of whiskey were captured today in the motorboat Muzsik by the police boat Gypsy after a chase during which the pursuers fired several fusillades. A member of the crew on the pursued boat leaped overboard rather than face the hail of lead. He was not seen again. The men were arrested.

THE RANGERS TO GUARD

State Officers to Maintain Quarantine at Insane Asylum

AUSTIN, Oct. 17.—State Rangers are to be assigned tomorrow to maintain the quarantine at the state insane asylum where there are a number of smallpox cases. This was done to relieve the city of Austin of the expense.

BIG SAW MILL BURNS

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 17.—The saw mill of the Frost-Johnson Lumber company, at Campti, La., was destroyed by fire last night with a loss which officials estimated at approximately $200,000, largely covered by insurance. The mill will be rebuilt immediately.

GARAGE OWNER BURNED

TEMPLE, Texas, Oct. 17.—A. D. Casey, garage owner, was in a serious condition at a hospital here tonight as a result of burns received when a pan of gasoline caught fire from a "short circuit" on a car he was repairing.

EXECUTIVES CHOOSE MARLIN

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 17.—Marlin was chosen as the next convention city of the Texas Commercial Executives' association by the executive committee here today. The meeting will be held May 28 to 30.

He A-h-oed And Wh-oed For Nothing

He shuffled cautiously into the lobby of the Staley building yesterday, blinked at the crowds and adjusted a livid red bow tie that was done up for the occasion in fore-in-hand style. His clothing and bearing proclaimed him as one from the wide open spaces where men are farmers and plows are household necessities.

He watched an elevator fill; saw the door slam and the cage shoot upward. Another one dropped to the main floor; the door opened and the passengers swarmed out; it, too, was loaded and started.

"Hmmm; reckon I'll try 'er!" He was ready for the next one.

"How much she cost to ride in thet thing?"

The gloomy-hued operator stared at him in stark amazement.

"Says which?" he asked doubtfully, as if unable to believe his ears.

"How much she cost to ride?"

Another passenger laughed and told him to get on. He did, and the elevator mounted without a stop to the tenth floor.

"Ah-h-h-o-o-o!" An expansive grin suffered his features and he rubbed his gastronomic apparatus.

The car went to the top and then plunged for lower regions.

"Who-o-o-e-e-e-e!" He was still grinning.

Twenty minutes later the passenger who laughed got on for the return trip.

"Ah-h-h-o-o-o-e!" He was still getting a kick.

"That's as long as you can ride without paying," he was told when the car reached the first floor.

He shuffled away, uncertain but grinning yet.

It actually happened.

Fate of 19 Riot Participants In Hands of Judges

Maryland Defendants To Be Sentenced For Tarring Party

THEY PLEAD GUILTY

Ask for Mercy After Admitting Guilt In Open Court

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 17.—The fates of 19 citizens of Myersville—18 men and one woman—tonight lay in the hands of Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judge Robert B. Peter, as the tar and feather cases, growing out of an attack made last July upon Miss Dorothy Grandon, were concluded in circuit court.

14 Plead Guilty

Fourteen of the defendants today pleaded guilty, and five not guilty, to charges of rioting, and throwing themselves upon the mercy of the court, took the stand one by one and told of their connection with the affair. Roscoe Doub, a twentieth defendant, has not been apprehended and is reported to have fled the state.

Defense council then made brief statements to the court, asking mitigation of punishment for the guilty and acquittal for those who pleaded not guilty. Once attacking the character of Miss Grandon, the defense attorneys offered to call witnesses to testify regarding her actions, and claimed this should be considered in passing sentence upon the defendants but Judge Urner interrupted to say:

Will Consider It

"There are lawful methods for dealing with such conditions."

When the attorneys had completed their statement, Judge Urner said that "all the consideration the court can give under the law, with due regard to its sense of duty, will be given the defendants."

Six years in prison is said to be the most severe sentence ever passed in Maryland for rioting.

ELECTRIC CODE IN EFFECT.

New Ordinance, Affecting 15 Contractors, Enforcible Today.

The city's new electric code, which affects about 15 local electrical contractors, goes into effect this morning.

It was passed and approved by the city council just 30 days ago and all of its provisions regulating electrical installations in the city are now in full force. A board of examiners consisting of Claud Pooche, J. W. Lyle and E. C. Doesh was appointed by Mayor Collier several days ago.

Workmanship of higher class, reduction of fire hazards from electrical wiring and material of better design are the benefits claimed for the new regulations.

4,000 FANS AT VERNON-FALLS GAME EXPECTED

Fight to Finish Slogan Of Both Teams Playing Today

BEHIND IN WEIGHT

Locals Also Said to Lack Plunging Ability Of The Lions

Bud McCallum's Coyote gridsters, following a week of intensive secret practice behind barred gates at Spudder park, are resting easy this morning, awaiting the opening blast of the referee's whistle probably to the feature pigskin battle and the most titanic struggle of the year as far as Wichita Falls is concerned on that Spudder grid with the Vernon Lions this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

More than 4,000 fans are expected to crowd the Spudder grandstand for this tilt, the opening skirmish in the Texas high school moleskin warfare for these two teams. And rarely if ever before has such an interest and enthusiasm prior to a game in this section been manifested.

Each eleven is on its metal. "We're prepared to fight to the finish," were the words spoken by Coach Baggett in Vernon last night.

And again a few minutes later in Wichita Falls the same message was given by Coach Bud McCallum. "We're prepared to fight to the finish."

Victory means on still further in the race for the Texas championship. Defeat spells total elimination unless a football miracle takes place and Wichita Falls, Vernon and Electra, the leading elevens in this section of the interscholastic class A league, wind up the district play in a triple tie.

An Edge In Weight.

Vernon is quoted a slight edge in weight, and plunging ability. The Lions are given a neat margin in offensive play with Captain and Fullback Walker in the game, one of the most promising punters in high school circles.

Because of this weight and kicking advantage, the Lions statistically speaking are rated to win. The Coyotes will enter the affray with the odds against them.

But those odds may prove a boomerang for Vernon and a boon to Wichita Falls. The Crimson and Black, realizing it is the under dog, will tear into its opponent from the start with hope of making supreme fighting qualities overcome all obstacles. And it is believed that should the Coyotes get the jump on the Lions there will be nothing which can hold them. On the other hand, the same belief holds true for Vernon. The team which tastes first blood probably will be the team that struggles from the field at the end of the four periods lugging the heftier portion of the tabulation.

There is, too, the coaching ability of Bud McCallum to be reckoned with. McCallum, though in but his second season as a mentor, is wise in the foibles and tricks of the moleskin game. Through the past span of secret sessions McCallum has driven his men hard, and there is no way to estimating just what he has in store. If it is in the unkeup of the Wichita Falls eleven to defeat Vernon, McCallum is the man who will produce that power. Though young, Coach Bud possibly is one of the wiliest strategists in high school football.

Teaches Them the Spirit.

McCallum, along with whatever formations and plans he has taught his athletes, has inculcated in them the snarling spirit of a wild panther at bay combined with the quickness of action and cunningness of a hard-pressed true-to-life coyote of the Texas plains.

If courage, McCallum's generalship and good condition alone will overcome strength, driving power, and a better kicking defense the Coyotes are already the victors. For Coach Bud has trained his players more consistently, watched their food and habits, and drilled more fight into them possibly than has any coach in the history of high school football of Texas. No college or university eleven ever underwent any stricter training regulations than did the Coyotes in preparation for this game.

But the fact still stands that Vernon has a decided edge in several departments. The Lion backfield is heavier, and probably just as fast. Walker can kick from 35 to 20 yards further than any Coyote back. And the Lions in games to date have presented a more formidable front than have the Coyotes, that is, if comparative scores mean anything.

The Coyote wingmen, Shaw and Howle, possibly are better versed in the art of playing their positions than the Vernon terminals. And Steinman, Vernon left guard, cannot cope with Captain "Spark Plug" Copeland of the Coyotes, who will oppose him. On the other side of the mid position Doke at guard and Wainscott at tackle will hold their own, possibly shade Norwood and Zachary, their opponents. Pierce at the other tackle is a man on whom Coyote followers will base much of their hopes.

In the backfield, Quarterback Deems may outguess the Lions. But man for man in brute strength and driving ability the Coyote backs are on the under side. In Buck Steed, Wichita Falls may uncover an open sesame to the goal line. This lad is a fighter, and a wonderful little man in a broken field. His ball carrying ability stacks up on a par with any one man of the Vernon packers.

Time of game, 3 o'clock.
Place, Spudder Park.

Capitalists Have World By Throat, LaFollette Says

He Assails "Interests" In Dakota Address Friday Night

SAYS IT'S GROWING

Central States Are Now "In Power of Corrupt Control"

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Oct. 17.—Assailing the private monopoly system in an address here tonight, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, independent candidate for president, declared that "the two per cent that own seventy per cent of the nation's wealth are today its sovereigns."

"For six years," he continued, "they have ruled congress. They have ruled the executive. They have ruled the courts. They have ruled them, not in the interests of the people, but in the interests of private wealth.

"They use the department of justice to trample underfoot the constitution and the bill of rights. They used it as an agency of terror, not only during the war but after the war as well.

Has No Fear.

"During the last six years this 'invisible government' has become visible. It openly flaunts its power. It fears neither the courts or the department of justice. "Under the republican administration which is now approaching its end, it had access to the White House and to cabinet officials as well. It corrupted, by open bribery, members of the cabinet. Not content with having monopolized practically all of the oil of America, it reached out to gain possession and did gain possession of the few remaining reserves that had been held by the government for its protection in case of war.

"It was this condition that has roused America, it has given birth to the progressive movement.

Winning the West.

"It had its origin here in the west. It captured first Wisconsin and North Dakota, then the state of Minnesota. It is winning in Iowa, Nebraska and Montana and all of the western states. It is actually winning in the east."

Coming from Minneapolis where last night he directed an attack against President Coolidge, Mr. LaFollette invaded South Dakota for one speech—the one here tonight. Tomorrow he plans to remain here resting, and he will leave Sunday for Omaha, where he is scheduled to speak Monday night.

LEWIS A WINNER

Retains Worlds Title in Bout At Houston.

HOUSTON, Oct. 17.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, retained his title here tonight by defeating Karl Sampson of Germany, in straight falls, winning both with the headlock. The first fall came after 44 minutes while the second was after eight minutes of struggling.

COOLIDGE "ENCOURAGED."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Satisfaction over the progress of the political campaign was expressed today by President Coolidge who told visitors that after making allowances for possibilities of too optimistic reports he felt very encouraged over the outlook.

PEP RALLY LAST NIGHT PREPARES FANS FOR GAME

Town Goes Crazy With Enthusiasm for The Lions

EXPECT HARD FIGHT

Have Been Warned of Speed And Tricks of Coyote Backfield

By BLONDY CROSS.
Record News Staff.

VERNON, Oct. 17.—The Lions are loose! The king of beasts and his pack are after gore!

Intermittant growls came from the lair throughout the morning. Then tonight with sudden ferocity and blood-curdling roars the noble animals burst to freedom, and are now stalking the trail to Wichita Falls and the Coyote den.

The week's grid classic, the conference opener, the initial clash of 1924 in the Texas high school championship marathon of the northern section hurtles to the fore Saturday when Coach Baggett turns his stalwart band of Vernon Lions into the arena against Coach McCallum's snapping Wichita Falls Coyotes.

To Fight Every Step.

But it is not with lion-like stealth and cunning that the Vernon Lions will open the battle. The Coyote snarl will be met with a rushing, smashing, viciously fighting attack, the only style of combat the Lion mentor and his cohorts believe will gain Vernon a possible victory.

Fight! Fight every second of the way. That's the spirit with which the Lions will enter the fray. All week the Vernon warriors have drilled at a terrific pace through daily secret sessions, and the will to fight to the end, never giving an inch has been imbued in them by their coaches, and by students and townspeople in rousing pep rallies.

The entire high school gathered in a pep meeting this morning. Tonight the greatest rally in the football history of Vernon was staged at the city square. Every boy, every girl, every man and every woman is behind the Vernon team to the last. Enthusiasm has run wild. W. W. Cook, faculty member who is head yell leader, and his squad of assistants, Ernest Mason, Dalmar Langley, Charles Norwood and Robert Moore found it easy to lead the Vernon enthusiasts this evening in cheers and songs for the fighting Lions, pep had already reached such a high pitch.

Caravan of Autos.

Tomorrow about noon a huge caravan of automobiles will wend its way to Wichita Falls. A conservative estimate made this afternoon by Z. A. Williamson, principal of the high school, was that at least 750 rooters from this city would be at the game. It is generally believed that 1,000 or more will follow the team which leaves earlier in the day.

Twenty-one athletes will make the trip with Coach Baggett. The squad roster is composed of Crouch, B. Reid, Steinman, Robertson, Norwood, Zachary, Cooper, Ryan, Bourland, Withers, Walker, Gilhausen, Baley, Williams, Coleman, Boman, Key, Burros, Teel and C. Reid.

The team is not over-confident.

Vernon hopes to win, of course. But the athletes themselves and their followers believe that Wichita Falls will have things in its own favor playing on its home field. But Vernon does not expect to lose the battle. Each player expects to fight at his best, and it is with this spirit the Lions hope to carry through to victory. Football experts here are of opinion that the elevens are fairly evenly matched. They say that superior fighting ability and the breaks of the game will turn the tide for the winning team.

Expect Stronger Line.

Vernon has been informed that the Coyote line is the stronger of the two, and that the Coyote ends stand head and shoulders above their Lion opponents in football finesse. But in the husky Crouch at left end and the midget but scrapping Cooper at the right wing, Lion backers are looking for Vernon to hold its own. In Zachary and B. Reid at tackles the Lions possess a pair of fighting youths who may go far toward bringing victory within the grasps of their team. Steinman and Norwood at guards are expected to hold the powerful Wichita Falls guards to even terms. And at center close followers of the game here believe that Norwood will outplay any man Wichita Falls can send into the game at the same position.

Vernon realizes the speed and trickiness of the Coyote backfield to an extent, it is believed. But man for man, loyal supporters of the home team believe that the quartet of Bourland, Withers, Ryan and Walker will outfight the Coyote backs. Captain Walker at full is expected to gain much territory for the Lions with his long and well-placed punts. This youth is expected, also, to tear off several runs with the ball for yardage gained. The smashing off-tackle play of Bourland and Withers it is believed, will go quite a distance toward winning the game for Lions. Then in Gilhausen, who is not likely to start the contest, Coach Baggett has a neat little broken-field runner more or less as his ace in the hole. These athletes may not come through in the manner expected, but there in one point certain—each will enter the conflict with the determination to fight their way to a victory or be carried off the field in no further condition to do battle.

Proposed Ordnance Intended to Protect Legitimate Merchants

An ordinance which may have a far-reaching effect on sale of goods by other than established merchants of the city has been drafted and will be presented to the city council in a few days, it was learned yesterday. The Wichita Falls Retail Merchants association has been instrumental in obtaining the compilation of the new regulations and it will also urge on the commissioners the necessity of their adoption.

Prevent Peddling.

With the exception of farmers who raise their own produce, the new ruling would bar all peddling and house to house solicitation of trade by vendors, it is understood. Other classifications of peddlers may be exempt under the provisions, but promiscuous peddling by those who find it a profitable venture for a short time each years is to be strictly prohibited, it is thought.

The idea, of course, is one of protection for legitimate merchants who remain in business throughout the year, absorb their losses in dull trade times and make their profits when sales are brisk. The peddling class, it is declared, cut heavily into the trade of established stores at times and this is regarded as unfair to the men who take business risks the year around.

New in Texas.

Such a law is comparatively new in Texas, according to City Attorney George, who has drafted the ordinance at the request of Retail Merchants association officials. It was recently enacted in Weatherford, however, and on a test case appealed to the higher courts was held to be valid.

Just what attitude the council will take remains to be seen, but should it rule favorably on the request of the merchants, it will have a decided effect on the peddlers, dozens of whom have permits to sell from wagons and arte in the business district.

3 MILLIONS

plied, "for them to send in their subscriptions, that is all. We have had committees appointed in various places for that purpose, I presume."

Senator Caraway developed that the national committee had assessed New York state for $1,000,000 of the proposed $3,000,000 campaign fund. Pennsylvania was assessed $500,000, and Illinois $300,000, so that Senator Caraway said three states were to raise two-thirds of the total. He added that on the same proportion of assessment among the other states, the committee would have raised something like one billion dollars, but Mr. Butler took exception to that conclusion.

Questioned On Publicity.

Before adjourning to await the arrival here, probably tomorrow, of Frank P. Walsh, Kansas City, to present Senator LaFollette's charges of a proposed republican "slush" fund for use in doubtful states, the committee questioned George Barr Baker, regarding the $437,000 expended by the republican publicity bureaus.

Mr. Baker testified that among large items of expense was that of furnishing plates and matrices by newspapers and printed by them without cost to the national committee. Some of these were editorials, some from the national republican committee, some from newspapers and some prepared in republican headquarters.

What would be the substance of the matter on these various plates?" asked Senator Bayard, democrat, Maryland.

Well it would depend on the moment, Baker replied.

"'Debunking' LaFollette was part of it."

"How much did that cost?" demanded Senator Shipstead.

"It did not cost anything to 'debunk' LaFollette," Baker shot back, "but it took a lot to tell the public about it," he added.

Wait Until Election.

"Did you have any luck?" inquired Senator Caraway.

"We will tell you about that on the fourth day of next November," Baker returned.

"I would like to know by what process you 'bunked' LaFollette said Senator Caraway.

"I think I had better send you the copy."

"Oh, spare me that," pleaded Senator Caraway. Just tell me about it."

"Well, I am sorry, but that is not my job."

"Who was the author of the matter?" pursued the Arkansas senator.

"Mr. Butler," was the reply.

"Did he write it?"

"Yes, that is one of his few efforts, I believe."

"I did not know he was an author; I thought he was a financier," remarked Senator Caraway and the subject was dropped.

Under further questioning, Baker said his division was about busted and that it expected to spend little additional funds during the campaign. He placed publicity expenses of the Chicago office at $265,000 and those of the New York and Washington offices at $103,000.

Appearing at the request of the committee and taking the oath in the usual course, Mr. Butler was on the witness stand for more than an hour. At the outset he told the senate inquistors that he felt that the budget which his organization had set out to raise "was a pretty modest one, assuming that we were going to have a vigorous campaign, and in view of the expenditures which had heretofore been made."

"I think it will take about what we anticipated," he added, "not much if any, and I think no more. It is my every intention to have it as little as possible. I do not want to have a deficit when we get all through."

Ask How Money Spent.

"What use have you been putting this money to, and what use do you intend to make of the money?" asked Senator Bayard.

"We are just simply going on with the expenditures which we have been making all along," the witness replied; "different bureaus and our publicity and so forth. We have quite a number of different department, both here, in New York and in Washington. We have our publicity work; we have our speakers."

Replying to further questioning by Senator Borah, Mr. Butler said he was not aware that any other organizations, except the different state organizations, are raising and expending money for the election of the republican ticket.

Senator Caraway wanted to know if it was the witness' judgment that a campaign could not be properly waged for less than $3,000,000.

"I think that is a fair amount," Mr. Butler said. "I think it is very prudent."

Mr. Butler testified that he had eliminated in this campaign items for newspaper advertising and bill board advertising, which he was of the opinion had cost large sums four years ago.

Senator Caraway switched the examination to the letter written last spring by a Massachusetts manufacturer soliciting funds for the republican ticket and promising that contributions made in excess of the legal maximum would be concealed.

"Did that letter have your approval?" the senator asked.

"No," replied Mr. Butler. He added that he did not know whether or not the plan to thus raise $500,000 had been carried out but said that as far as his knowledge went it had not been.

About Grundy Letter.

Mr. Butler said his attention had been called to the campaign fund soliciting letter sent out by Joseph R. Grundy of Bristol, Pennsylvania, who was asked to raise $300,000 in eastern Pennsylvania for the republican organization. He had not read it, he said, and had no communication with Grundy regarding it.

Bringing the examination back to the matter of the amount of funds to be raised in Pennsylvania, New York and Illinois, Senator Caraway wanted to know what was to be raised in the other forty-five states.

"Three or four states, I should say," interrupted Mr. Butler.

"Which state was fourth?"

"I have forgotten now."

Senator Caraway asked with whom Mr. Butler had talked over the budget estimates at the start, but the national chairman did not give any names.

"We are just simply trying to get through the campaign as best we can," he said. "I do not believe you want to take the attitude of embarrassing me about that."

"Oh, no, I do not want to embarrass you," returned Senator Caraway, "but then, the purpose of the committee was to take the people into the confidence of the campaign managers."

"When we get through we will talk about the campaign very frankly," retorted Mr. Butler.

"In other words," replied Senator Caraway, "you would rather tell about it after it is over than to brag now about what you are doing?"

"I'm not putting it that way at all. I'm putting it this way, that we have only got two weeks' more work in this campaign. We are up to our ears in it, morning and noon and night and day. I hope you gentlemen can release me very soon, so I can go back to my work. That is all."

Mr. Butler was excused after he had agreed with Chairman Borah to furnish the committee with a report on campaign expenditures on October 20, again on October 26 and again on November 1.

Senator Borah said the same request would be made of the other national campaign committees.

Presidential Nominees Who Know They Won't Win

Three party nominees for president of the United States expect to be elected, seven do not.

The trio who have high hopes of victory obviously need not be named. The seven who know they have no chance of succeeding Calvin Coolidge as the tenant of the White House are: Frank T. Johns, Robert R. Pointer, H. P. Faris, William J. Wallace, William Z. Foster, Gilbert O. Nations, Caroline Hammersles. All of them are party nominees.

Few voters know that there are ten official candidates for president this year and that one of them is a woman. The phrase "third party movement" is a misnomer. There always are more than two parties with candidates on the presidential ballot. In the last election Harding and Cox had as company on the ballot William W. Cox of Missouri, socialist-labor nominee; Eugene V. Debs of Indiana, socialist candidate; Parley P. Christiansen of Utah, farmer-labor; Richard C. Macauley, single tax, and the prohibition candidate Watkins.

This year, for the first time since 1900, excepting 1916, Eugene V. Debs' name will be missing from the ballot. He polled 919,799 votes in 1920. He was nominated while serving a sentence in the federal penitentiary for alleged violation of the espionage laws. The socialist party has no candidate this year. It cast its lot with the varied groups back of the La Follette candidacy.

The only woman in the list, Caroline Hammersles, is also the only nominee from Ohio, "maker of presidents." She is the standard bearer for the liberty party.

Two men nominated by parties dropped out of the race early in the campaign. Duncan McDonald of Illinois, chosen by the farmer-labor convention, quit soon after, when the workers' party bolted from the amalgamation. John Zahnd of Indiana, chosen to bear the standard of the national independent party, went over to LaFollette.

Not all of the ten nominees will be on the ballots in every state. La Follette has been refused a place in several states and few of the minority candidates have a sufficient following in all of the states to qualify them.

Won't Vote For Self.

It can be safely said that one of the candidates will not vote for himself, nor will his neighbors. He is Gilbert O. Nations of Washington, D. C., nominee of the American party. Citizens of the District of Columbia do not have a vote.

There is a woman vice-presidential nominee, Marie C. Brehm of California, the running mate of H. P. Faris on the prohibition ticket. The prohibition party is still an active campaigner.

The other vice-presidential nominees are: Bryan, Dawes and Wheeler, of course, and Verne L. Reynolds of Maryland, socialist-labor; J. C. Lincoln of Ohio, commonwealth-land; Benjamin Gitlow of New York, workers; Alexander Mueller of California, liberty; L. L. Pickett of Kentucky, American party.

THE PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEES.

American party—Gilbert O Nations (D. C.)
Commonwealth land (single tax)—William J. Wallace (N J.)
Democrat—John W. Davis (W. Va.)
Independent (progressive)—Robert M. LaFollette (Wis.)
Liberty—Caroline Hammersles (O.)
Peoples—Robert R. Pointer (Mich.)
Prohibition—H. P. Faris (Mo.)
Republican—Calvin Coolidge (Mass.)
Socialist-Labor—Frank J. Johns (Ore.)
Workers' (communist)—William Z. Foster (Ill.)

WALTER JOHNSON HOME

Washington Diamond Hero at Coffeyville Unannounced

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Oct. 17.—Unheralded, unannounced, and unexpected Walter Johnson slipped into his "home town" today and was at his country home, east of the city, with his children and dogs before Coffeyville was aware of his arrival. He had been expected to motor through with Mrs. Johnson, his mother and his two other children, but his plans were changed and he came by rail.

The result was he "slipped up" on the reception committee that has been sitting up nights for a week, planning the royal welcome Coffeyville would accord her distinguished citizen. The only change in the plans, however, will be that the celebration will take place Monday. There will be a parade, a baseball game with Walter on the mound for the home club and a banquet.

Who cares who'll be elected president as long as we have all the ring champions?

From Wheat Field, Breakfast Toast To Pres. Coolidge

LaFollette Charges Baking Interests Plan Big Contribution

SHOWS A LETTER

He Will Submit It To Campaign Probe Committee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—LaFollette-Wheeler headquarters here today made public a letter they asserted had been written by George S. Ward, head of a New York banking company and which they said would be presented to the state campaign expenditures committee as part of "additional proof" of Senator LaFollette's "slush fund" case.

The letter which solicited funds from the banking and allied interests for the Coolidge campaign, a statement said, "is one of many being sent out by heads of big business as chairman of republican fund committees appointed to 'look after' various groups of bankers, manufacturers and brokers."

Excerpts from the letter were given as follows:

"Big things are expected of us in New York. Not only to help in state and county elections, but also that there may be an exportable surplus to help the national ticket in other states where it is most needed.

"Recently we were called upon as an industry to help the wheat farmer. We now have the opportunity to do so by helping Coolidge defeat LaFollette, thereby continuing our present prosperity in all our allied interests from the wheat field through breakfast toast.

"Corporations and public officials can not contribute to campaign funds under the law, but I urge you and your associates to contribute personally, using the enclosed subscription blank to identify your check."

MONEY ALONG THE TRACK

Wheels of Train Cut and Strew $60,000 to Pieces

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—Search was continued today along a three-mile stretch of railroad track near here for $8,000 still missing of the more than $94,000 in small bills that was scattered along the tracks Wednesday when a Pennsylvania passenger train ran over a mail pouch containing the money. A total of $82,594 had been recovered last night.

The pouch containing the money which was being sent to the federal reserve bank here by two banks at Ambridge, a suburb, fell from a truck at the Ambridge station across the tracks and was cut to shreds by the train.

SPECIMENS ARE OFFERED

National Park Petrified Forests Souvenir Will be Sent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Specimens from the petrified forest national park will be given to colleges and museums desiring them, the national park service announced today, upon payment of expense of boxing and shipping. Visitors to the monument, numbering 40,000 to 50,000 a year, are not permitted to take away souvenirs of the solidified forests, but it is explained, the interior department has authority to make the rainbow hued fragments available to colleges and museums.

KIDS BURN DYNAMITE

Liked to See The Blue Flame They Say at Discovery

POTTSVILLE, Va., Oct. 17.—Informed by school teachers that scholars had dynamited their possession, local police after an investigation announced today that three pupils, all under 12 years of age, had confessed taking a box of dynamite from a coal company here and had used the death-dealing sticks for kindling wood. According to the police, the boys confessed building a fire with forty of the sticks because they made such "pretty blue flames." The police confiscated the remainder of the loot.

Take Oklahoma Strong Box and Make Away With It

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 17.—Robbers early today rolled a 300-pound safe through the back door of the Farmers and Merchants State bank at Catoosa, near here, loaded it on a motor truck and escaped. The amount of money in the safe was not announced.

George S. Mays of Claremore, president of the bank, brought enough cash from his home to open the bank as usual.

WITHDRAWS IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 17.—Jack Benson, independent candidate for the United States senate, withdrew his candidacy in a letter received today by W. C. Escaping Wedlock Cost $510,000

The former Lucy Cotton (left), Mrs. Edward R. Thomas No. 2 (right) and Edward R. Thomas.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—When the cables brought the news from Paris that Lucy Cotton, American actress, had become Mrs. Edward R. Thomas No. 3, no one was surprised.

In marrying her only a few days after the divorce of Mrs. Thomas No. 2 was made final, the millionaire New York publisher did the expected. Broadway has been hearing for some time that Thomas is deeply in love with Miss Cotton.

He was a little slower than usual about such matters, for he wed Mrs. Thomas No. 2, who was Elizabeth Finley, on the same day he was divorced from Linda Lee, Kentucky beauty, who was Mrs. Thomas No. 1. She has since remarried.

Mr. Thomas paid a record price, $510,000 for the freedom which enabled him to marry Lucy Cotton. In the divorce settlement with Mrs. Elizabeth Finley Thomas, he bound himself to provide for $510,000 in cash or securities; to continue payment of premiums on life insurance policies totaling $425,000 of which she is the beneficiary; and to give her several lots in Palm Beach, their Rolls-Royce automobile, and all the furnishings of their apartment here.

The settlements included a $200,000 trust fund, of which Mrs. Thomas was to receive the income during her life; another $100,000 trust fund of which she was to have the income and privilege of disposing of the principal in her will; $50,000 additional and permission to retain $70,000 previously paid her by her husband.

Edward R. Thomas lost a large part of his fortune, then estimated at $10,000,000, when he suffered financial reverses in 1907. After selling his racing stable he backed several losing theatrical ventures and in the midst of other troubles was seriously hurt in an automobile accident near Long Beach. Laterly he has recouped much of his fortune.

Irrigation

By A. M. McPHERSON.

WATER.

Why There Are Six Openings or Outlets to the Big Dam.

Quite often people ask us why there are so many big outlet pipes at Lake Kemp. These six big conduits sometimes give people the impression that a lot of money has been wasted or that a serious mistake was made in the design of the dam. This is especially true when they find that only two of the outlets are really being used.

Very few business men feel that paying for fire or life insurance is a waste of money. Four of these six big outlets represent the amount of money that was expended for insurance—for insurance that the dam would not be washed out during construction by a sudden rise in the Wichita river.

It was originally planned to put in many more of these outlets than were actually built, but it was finally decided that a chance would be taken and only six installed. It was realized that six conduits would not take care of a great flood but that they would handle any ordinary rise in the river.

During the building of the dam all six of these conduits were fitted with gates so they could be opened in case the river should rise and threaten to overtop the dam and wash it away.

After the dam was completed and the spillways built all but the two center outlets were closed permanently. The two that were left are fitted with gates to that water can be released for the irrigation project when desired.

The building of the extra conduits is not a waste of money. It was an insurance policy against the possible destruction of the dam by flood during its building.

HART LOSES HIS JOB

Professor Who Gave Up Wife Has To Resign

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Frederick W Hart, whose wife obtained a divorce in Cincinnati last Monday so he might marry Mrs. Shirley Hall-Quest, whose husband, Professor A. L. Hall-uest, previously had removed himself as an obstacle to their happiness by getting a divorce here, expressed regret today after reading in the newspapers that Professor Hall-Quest had been forced to resign from the University of Pittsburgh because of the publicity. "It is very lamentable," said Major Hart. "The reports show the immense harm that has already been done by publicity given to this case."

As to his plans for a marriage with Mrs. Hall-Quest, Major Hart had nothing to say except that "we are still planning."

Farmer Thinks Estate Was Dissipated By Court Costs.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Obsessed with the idea that his estate was being dissipated by court costs, Martin L. Warren, 53, a retired farmer, today opened fire with two revolvers at a referee's hearing, killing Mrs. Anna Pilski, his mother-in-law and her daughter, Sophie, and wounding Irving Templeton, a lawyer. Four prominent lawyers, a girl stenographer and Stephen Warren, the slayer's brother, escaped the bullets, at least 10 of which were fired. Warren made no attempt to escape.

Homestead Law Needs Amending Realtors Are Told

C. A. Leddy of Dallas Calls It an Antiquated Instrument

FOR LOWER LIMIT

Exemption Should Never Be Over $15,000, He Declares

DAALAS, Oct. 17.—Amendment of the Texas homestead exemption law was advocated by speakers before the Texas Association of Real Estate Boards, in its fifth annual convention hede. C. A. Lerry of Dallas declared that the homestead law, as enacted in 1876, is an antiquated instrument, sanctioning fraud and hampering the free use of his property by the owner.

"Back in 1876 the exemption allowed by the law was reasonable," Mr. Leddy said. "But now a man may sit back in his $200,000 home and a creditor who may not have even a cottage to cover his family cannot collect a cent from him."

The exemption limit on a residence or farm used as a homestead should be $15,000, he said, adding:

"The exemption feature of the Texas act is not doing the greatest damage, however. It is the provision which prevents a man using his home for collateral if he so desires."

Speakers at a meeting of the subdividers' section of the association declared the law compelled Texas home buyers to pay a higher rate of interest than is charged on home loans of other states. W. A. Smith of Houston, president of the association in his report, stated that the association has eleven boards with 312 active members and 250 associate members.

A DEFENSE OF WAR

"Christ did not come on earth to establish peace but to establish men's peace with God." Who said it? Rev. Dr. M. Ashby Jones of Atlanta, in addressing the three hundred members of the International committee of the Young Men's Christian association.

And then the three hundred cheered when the militant preacher declared that force must be used to help in the defense of civilization and for "the protection of those things which we regard as sacred." And then the militant preacher took a fall out of his fellow countrymen who voted against the League of Nations.

Speaking of the war with Germany and its aftermath he said, "I may say that after this last great conflict that is where the church and government both failed. The war was over but with the main task yet to accomplish, we withdrew and left Europe to continue to welter in her blood. This is not christian. We must take part in the affairs of the world."

Of course the militant gentleman chided America for not remaining in Europe "after Germany had been thrashed, to build up more strongly as Christ would have us do upon the ruins when the threatening evil had been removed." The plain english of this is that when dissenters or a dissenting nation from so-called sacred things has been soundly thrashed the victors should compel the vanquished to love the Christ as the victors say they love Him and to reconstruct the vanquished government and society from stem to stern.

Is it true that after winning the war for the allies America withdrew and left Europe to welter in its blood and its misery? Isn't it true that America contributed five million soldiers to win the war; loaned the allies twelve billion dollars to finance the war and after the war had been won voted or donated hundreds of millions of dollars to feed the tarving and to succor and win back to life the wounded and the sick regardless of creed or color or the flag they had followed in war time?

And hasn't America and Americans contributed millions annually ever since the close of the war to Russian, Armenian, Greek, Balkan Mountaineer, German and French and Belgian orphans and haven't the bankers of America loaned large sums to stabilize the finances of Austria as well as many of the new republics which came into existance since the signing of the armistice?

Jesus Christ was the prince of peace. His gospel was and is the princely offering of all the ages. He looked and longed for the coming of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man and the establishment of universal justice. He walked in the footsteps of men two thousand years ago. He was crucified by those who believed in a government of the few at the expense of the many.

Even many of His followers do not believe in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man or else their actions and conduct belie their words. Universal justice has not been ushered in. Woodrow Wilson was its last great apostle. He was crucified to death on a harrowing bed of pain.

His gospel lives on just as the gospel of the Christ lives on. A thousand years hence universal justice may prevail but the few who would rule and riot in luxury at the expense of the many will never assist in ushering in this new era of and for mankind.

What Today Means to You

LIBRA

Today's planetary aspects are favorable, although not excellent. They indicate a fair measure of success along the generally accepted lines of your efforts, but rather discountenance any radical moves, or important changes. It would be well, if any difficult problems press for solution, to defer your decision until a more propitious occasion, and it would be advisable to postpone the signing of any new agreements or the entering into of any fresh obligations. The signs presage felicity in the home, and favor those decisions and recreations that tend to promote contentment.

A child born today will be normally healthy, but, if it has to be developed successfully, must be surrounded with a good environment. Its character will be self-willed; its disposition dominating, its mentality exceptional. This child in early days will display a capacity for leadership, and provided that a "bullying" disposition is not evinced, this tendency should be stimulated, as leaders of either sex are few and far between. It probably will reveal a desire for a career of a public nature, and if so, it should receive a special education that may fit it for such a vocation.

If today is your birthday, has it never occurred to you that you would experience much less unrest and suffer considerably less worry if you were not so suspicious of the words and actions of others? To doubt all your fellow creatures is an infirmity that causes a jaundiced condition. On the other hand, nothing is gained by excessive credulity. There is, however, a sane, middle course, which is the only correct one.

It may safely be conceded that the large majority of people are not animated by base designs or wrong ideas, and in being suspicious of each and every one, you display very little discernment and mighty poor judgment. Not only do you place a wrong construction on what people do, but you also "read between the lines" of what they say and write. You are never willing to accept people, or their acts, or their expressed thoughts, at face value. You are always looking for a hidden motive, and in nine cases out of ten, no such motive exists. You can never be satisfied that there are real people in this world who are willing to put their cards on the table "face up", you can only be persuaded that some cards are concealed, and as a result of this fear, you often overreach yourself and lose out.

Successful people born on this date are: Allen B. White, inventor; Helen Hunt Jackson, authoress; Thomas B. Reed, congressman and author; Harvey W. Wiley, chemist; Chas. Scribner, publisher.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

PRETTY TOUGH

The trainer at a girl's college has forbidden jazzing, cigarettes, and drinking, to all members of the college athletic teams.

When Cynthia turns her mind to tennis,
And seeks to shine upon the court,
She's told that jazzing is a menace
To this inspiring outdoor sport.
And if she trips the light fantastic
Until the dawn-light's ruddy gleam,
She'll be so stiff and inelastic,
She cannot make the college team.

When Cynthia stakes her reputation
Upon her zippy basket ball,
She finds out, to her consternation,
That smoking will not do at all.
The coach, stern-faced and deaf to reason,
And with a heart of flinty stone,
Declares, that for the training season,
She'll have to let the fags alone.

When Cynthia hopes to thrill the college
And prove herself a radiant star,
By showing off her hard-won knowledge
Oh how to play around in par,
The trainer tells her, quite unblinking,
That she must give her cocktails up,
And not indulge in highball drinking,
Or she can't enter for the cup.

Poor Cynthia's case is most pathetic;
Her eyes with bitter tears are damp,
A girl so lusty and athletic
Might well become the college champ.
But not for her are glittering prizes,
Her hopes for high renown are lost,
For all too well she realizes
She cannot play at such a cost!

THE FASHION DICTATOR

There ought to be somebody or other appointed as the fashion dictator. There is entirely too much mixed advice and confusion in regard to fashions.

You read on one page that no self-respecting girl will be seen out in anything but brown, and on the next page you read that black silk stockings are to oust all others in public favor. Now that is impossible for anyone to obey both of these dicta. One would have to refuse to be seen walking with a sister, wife or mother, or for that matter any body's relative, who elects to wear black stockings with a brown coat or skirt.

It seems that a sole arbitratress should be appointed to take control of fashions and to tell women how they should dress. She should dictate whether hair should be bobbed, long or shingled, the shape of the head, the position of the waist line, the slimness or plumpness of the figure, color scheme and so on so that when the finished product was turned loose she would have the authority behind her of her producer.

As it is, a lady, in the language of the gentleman from Texas, does not know where she is at. In other words, she is compelled to do her own thinking and to adopt her styles to her own personality.

It would be much simpler if she could have some arbitratress to do this for her and to tell her exactly what to wear. It is much simpler with men's clothes. A man goes to his tailor and orders two or three suits of clothes, and leaves the entire matter of style to the expert. He does not discuss it, for he recognizes that the tailor is the authority upon such matters. On the contrary, a woman has to use her brain and she has got so much on her brain nowadays that she ought to be spared matters of personal appearance.

WEEKLY LETTER

Dear Girls:

All of your letters have reached me, and I am answering them as fast as I can.

I am busy looking up some ideas for Hallowe'en parties, and I think I have hit on several that you will be glad to use. I hope there will be lots of parties this year. I love them, don't you?

They are always so much fun to look forward to—and I always have party dresses I think I look well in, that I want to wear.

I'll bet all of you are just like me—I can talk better, and I know I look better, when I am all dressed up. You know how it is—if you have on a pretty dress and feel like a picture that has just hopped out of its frame when you make your entrance into the ball room, all eyes are turned toward you, because your self-confidence gives you a lot of magnetism—and the folks just can't help gazing at you.

You feel like a nice little peacock, with its head held high and its feathers spread out to show every inch of its glory.

That is the reason I am so keen about parties—I love that "strutty" feeling.

I think I will have for evening wear a black velvet dress, draped on one side and caught with a rhinestone clasp, and wear red brocaded slippers and black chiffon stockings with it.

My hair is blonde, and my eyes are dark grey, so it ought to be becoming.

Any of you who have the same coloring would look well in it too.

Lots of love,

MIMI.

A BUSINESS GIRL

By MARK ALLERTON

Barbara turned away. She felt like a traitor in discussing Alan with Rutland. She wanted to be loyal to him, to defend him even against himself.

"I—I don't know what's come over Alan lately," she murmured brokenly.

"By some extraordinary chance he seems to have seen us at the theatre last night," continued Rutland, "and that has annoyed him. I confess that I'm not versed in all the conventions, but I'm hanged if I can see any harm in taking you to the theatre."

"Of course, there is no harm. As I say, I don't know what's come over Alan lately," she faltered.

"Well, I'm glad you're not going to turn me off," he said, with a laugh "Because as a matter of fact, I want you to come with me to the same theatre again. That show we saw comes off this week, and a new one will be put on on Saturday. A first night is always great sport. All the interesting people will be in front. I've got two seats. But, of course," he added hurriedly, "if you'd rather go with somebody else, you can have both seats with all the pleasure in the world."

"Wouldn't you rather go with somebody else for a change?" she asked weakly.

"No," he replied promptly and seriously. "If you won't go with me and you won't accept both tickets, I'll go by myself. But it seems a pity to waste a box for a first night at the Majestic. You're not thinking of what Mrs. Grundy would say, are you?" and he laughed.

She knew that he meant to ask if she were thinking of what Alan would say. What did it matter what Alan might say? She did not know to what code of conduct Alan adhered. It seemed to be a singular combination of laxity and rigidity.

He condemned Rutland for she knew not what. He could excuse himself for what she did know. Either he totally failed to appreciate the gravity of his offense against the broader codes of honour or he was acting the hypocrite in finding wrong where none existed.

"May I tell you tomorrow whether I shall come or not?" she asked timidly.

"Why, certainly. But I shall be disappointed if you don't. I shall be off now. I say"—he paused, awkwardly—"please don't worry about things, Miss Linwood. There's no man on earth worth worrying about. And don't forget—I'll not be a bit offended if you come to the conclusion that you'd rather not see me."

She gave him a troubled smile. "I'll not come to that conclusion, Mr. Rutland," she said quietly. "You are very, very kind to me."

As Rutland confided to a friend over lunch, he was having the most priceless entertainment of his life.

CHAPTER X

News of Barbara

Several mornings later found Alan Kennedy in his office struggling with some calculations.

For the first time since early childhood he found the elementary principles of multiplication, addition and subtraction exceedingly difficult to grasp. He had added up a comparatively short column of figures three times, and arrived at a different total each time—which made for variety if not for accuracy.

He could not keep his mind on his work. Such ordinary sounds as were made by the office boy, wrestling with a copying press, or by the traffic of the street outside, jarred on his nerves.

The activities of his brain were divided between builder's materials and the knowledge that he had acted like a fool. At one moment he was telling himself that nine and eight made sixteen; and the next, and equally erroneously, that it could not possibly matter to him now what happened to Barbara.

He blamed himself for going to see her. He blamed himself still more angrily for having behaved so foolishly when he had seen her.

Instead of making a quiet, earnest appeal to her he had scolded her; he had shown himself utterly in the wrong. Not content with that he had insulted Rutland in such a fashion that the latter was able to take up a superior attitude, to laugh at his threats, to treat him with scorn and contempt.

And all for what? What good had he done? No good at all, but only harm.

By attacking Rutland to Barbara he had only forced her to champion Rutland. She would regard him now as a man maligned by a resentful rival who had been beaten.

He strove to put his thoughts of her from him. Thinking of her brought only agony to him. Far better to forget. And for a few minutes he would wrestle with the work before him, only to find that between his eyes and the sheet of paper would rise the vision of Barbara and all the sweetness and purity and freshness of her girlhood. On his ears would fall the music of her voice.

He fancied that again he felt the pressure of her hand on his arm. He rambled again with her through Long Island, while the walls of their dream castles rose higher and higher. Then, with a start, he would pull himself together, and the vision would disappear, and the music would be silenced and the dream castles would fall in ruins again.

He told himself savagely that what he had to think about was his work, and that work was all that was worth thinking about.

He was prospering. Recognition had come to him at last. He was making good. His banker had come to treat him with more respect. All that which would have been a sheer joy to him, with Barbara to share it, was now his. And he was contemptuous and indifferent to it all.

He spent all his wakeful hours at work now. He had nothing else to do, no other interest in life.

To court sleep he would set off late at night on a dogged march through sleeping streets. He would return home to his indifferent lodgings tired out and wakeful still. And one day differed not at all from that which preceded, and that which followed it. The joy had gone out of his life, the zest for living. The drab, soulless round of the business day alone remained.

The door of his room was unceremoniously opened, and a man slightly older than he came in.

"Hullo, Butler."

"Morning, Kennedy. Busy?"

"Pretty fair."

"You're in luck. What's the job?"

"A thing for Dicey's."

"Dicey's. Risky, isn't it? Will you get your money? Dicey's are in Queer street, they say."

"It's not true. They're losing a lot over that railway, but it would take more than that to crack up Dicey's."

HOW IT STARTED

By JEAN NEWTON.

"THE LEASE."

With the scarcity of housing today even the most modern quarters are rented under a lease for a term, usually of a year or more, so that this instrument by which land or space is conveyed from one person to another for a certain period is now familiar to everybody.

The agreement itself is, of course, as old as man's rise to renting land. But the modern form of the lease as a legal document had its origin about two hundred and fifty years ago.

Prior to 1678 leases or agreements resulting in a tenancy were effected verbally, or to use the legal term, by parol. In that year, however, which was the twenty-ninth of Charles II, the Statute of Frauds was passed in England, which made it necessary to put in writing a lease for a period exceeding three years. There we have the origin of the lease as we know it today. And on the statute books of many of our states, modified to periods of one year, are survivals of the English law of 1678.

Should a Working Girl Pay Board at Home Or Is Her Pay Envelope All Hers?—Does a Fickle Girl Ever Make a Good Wife?—Should Husband Or Wife Start the Fire Every Morning?

Dear Miss Dix—Will you please write something on the following subject? It will be of special interest of many girls, for I hear so many of them discussing it. My dad is a workingman. I am 17 years old and earning $7.50 weekly, and I think I should have all of my own wages to spend on myself for clothes, amusements and parfure. My dad insists that I should give a certain amount toward my keep—"whatever I can spare"—but I refuse, and we have dreadful quarrels.

Also I am attending night school studying bookkeeping, and I can't see where I can give anything. Please tell me if I am doing right. I will abide by what you say. A. B. H.

Answer:

As long as you are getting the very small wage that you do at present, A. B. H., I do not see how you could contribute much to the family purse, because you must keep yourself neatly dressed. That is part of your equipment and is just as much a factor in your success as is your ability to do good work. Nobody wants a slovenly, shabby, down-at-the-heels girl in an office or a shop, and it costs money to dress nowadays.

But when you finish that bookkeeping course you will be able to command a better salary, and then it is nothing but fair and square that you should pay your board at home.

When a poor father and mother have worked and denied themselves for the sake of the children, and have educated them and had them taught some way to make a living, they have done their full duty, and if the children have any sense of decency in them they will no longer be parasites on their parents.

Many girls are so selfish that they never think of any one but themselves. They want all the money they make to put on their backs and for indulgences. So they spend their salaries buying pretty frocks and silk stockings, and going to palces of amusement, regardless of the fact that father hasn't had a new suit in three years and mother has made over her old dress until it is threadbare, because it takes everything that father can earn to pay the rent and feed the family from which he gets no help.

Now, in these days, when a clever girl can earn just as much money as her brother can, it is just as shameful a thing for a girl to be dependent as it is for a boy to be. There is no reason why a poor old father should continue to support an able-bodied, husky daughter after she is grown, and she is an unfeeling and heartless creature if she ever asks it of him.

It is her turn to help him and to take upon her strong, young shoulders some of the load he has borne so long. The very least she can do is to chip in her quota toward paying the household expenses and thus relieve father of the dread specter of butcher bills and grocery bills, which has haunted him ever since the children began to come and there were hungry young mouths to feed.

Every working girl should pay a definite board at home if the family is in straitened circumstances, but her parents have no right to take her pay envelope away from her and dole her out a few cents out of her own earnings. Those who make the money have the right to handle it. It gives a girl a sense of independence to have her own pocketbook. It teaches her how to spend money wisely. It kills all her ambition and desire to make more if her mother takes what she does earn away from her and makes her feel she is a slave working for others.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am in love with a girl who first blows hot and then blows cold. One day I think she loves me, and the next day I doubt it. Will you please tell me if a fickle girl ever becomes a good wife? Is there any cure for fickleness?

PATIENT FIANCE.

Answer:

Fickleness is merely indecision. A fickle girl is one who has not found herself and does not know what she wants. She is young, and she finds the world full of such a number of desirable things that she cannot decide between them. She is like a child in a toy shop, attracted first by this glittering trinket and then dropping that clutch at something with even more glittering paint upon it.

So here's your fickle girl who finds one man adorable because he is so good and another fascinating because he is so wicked; who is attracted to one man because he is all soul, and to another because he is the village cutup; who thinks she is in love with some man because of the cut of his clothes and the way he dances one minute, and is certain some long-haired poet is her soulmate the next; who is soft, and tender, and sentimental just because it is a moonlight night and the air is soft and warm, and then faces about and is as hard as nails just because the weather has changed and she is hungry.

This varying about like a weathercock is no fundamental weakness of character. It is just a girl of brains and sensibilities reaching out blindly in the dark for that which belongs to her in life. And when she finds it she makes the best sort of a wife and her fickleness is permanently cured.

So my advice to you, Patient Fiance, is to just sit by and wait. Don't hurry her. Let her take her time and make all her experiments, and if she really loves you she will come to you at last. And if she doesn't love you, if you are not her man, you don't want her.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My prospective husband and myself have entered into an argument that we cannot settle and we put it up to you to decide it:

Who shall arise first in the morning and build the fire? It is a simple grate fire. PERPLEXED.

Answer:

The man, of course. Small gallantry must a lover possess who even contemplates forcing his bride to arise of a cold morning and make the fire by which he shall dress in warmth and comfort! Surely it is the man's part to keep the home fires burning, literally as well as figuratively.

As I have said many a time and oft, I do not believe that a man should be forced to help with the housework. I do not think that, after he comes home from a hard day's work, he should be made to wash the dishes and scrub up the kitchen floor, and it is a lazy and a trifling wife who makes her husband help out with her work.

But starting the fire in the morning is a different proposition. That's a man's job, and it seems to me that any man who cared for his wife would

Gleanings From the Book of Life

WHY WE NEED ART

We hear much about art. What is art?

John Galsworthy says art is that imaginative expression of human energy, which, through technical concretion of feeling and perception, tends to reconcile the individual with the universal, by exciting in him impersonal emotion.

"And the greatest art," he says, "is that which excites the greatest impersonal emotion in an hypothecated perfect human being."

Impersonal emotion. What does he mean by that?

"That is not art, which, while I am contemplating it, inspires me with an active or directive impulse; that is art, when, for however brief a moment, it replaces in me interest in myself by interest in itself."

The distinction is made more clear by an illustration given by Galsworthy.

"Let me suppose myself in the presence of a carved marble bath. If my thoughts be: 'What could I buy that for?' Impulse of acquisition; or 'What country did it come from?' Impulse of inquiry; or: 'Which would be the right end for my head?' Mixed impulse of inquiry and acquisition—I am at the utmost insensible to it as a work of art.

"But, if I stand before it vibrating at sight of its color and forms, if ever so little and for ever so short a time, unhampered by any definite practical thought or impulse—to that extent and for that moment it has stolen me away out of myself and put itself there instead; has linked me to the universal by making me forget the individual in me. And for that moment, and only while that moment lasts, it is to me a work of art."

The word "impersonal," then, is used in the definition to signify momentary forgetfulness of one's own personality and its active wants.

Art, it seems to Galsworthy, is the one form of human energy in the whole world which really works for union, and destroys the barriers between man and man.

"It is the continual, unconscious replacement, however fleeting, of oneself by another; the real cement of human life; the everlasting refreshment and renewal.

"For, what is grievous, dangerous, about our lives is that we are shut up within ourselves, as in an itch to get outside ourselves.

"And to be stolen away from ourselves by art is a momentary relaxation from that itching, a minute's profound and so it were secret, enfranchisement.

"The active amusements and relaxations of life can only rest certain of our faculties, by indulging others; the whole self is never rested save through that unconsciousness of self, which comes through rapt contemplation of nature or of art."

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

MENTAL SPEEDERS

The lightning calculator can astonish an audience, but no business man would hire him to keep a set of books.

Nothing useful was ever done in a hurry.

The knockout blow delivered by the boxer is struck in an instant, but long months of training were required to put the necessary force behind it.

Not even a hundred-yard dash can be won by hurrying.

Before the race, the runner must practice patiently, and with deliberation.

The "conclusion jumper never" does very well in life.

He tries to get to the end of his problems before he has time to analyze them.

Mental speeders are plentiful enough in the world.

They look hustling and business-like as they rush through their work at the bidding of mile-a-minute minds.

But they never get anywhere in particular.

The motorist, who drives slowly, sees the country through which he passes, and afterwards gets a great deal of pleasure out of remembering its beauty spots.

The motorist who is trying to see how many miles he can make in a day remembers only the speedometer, with the indicator wavering over 40 or 50 miles an hour.

Ask him about the countryside through which he passed, and he will be unable to describe a single mile of it.

Life is much the same kind of journey, and the goal we get out of it depends upon how much we remember of what we have seen as we go along.

If we are continually hurrying, we see practically nothing.

Incidentally in the end we are most likely to get as far as if we were more deliberate, for hurrying wears out the human machine as it does a motor.

The first thing a young man or woman ought to learn is to think carefully and accurately.

That can only be accomplished by thinking slowly, at least for the first 20 or 22 years of business life.

Until the series of puzzles we call business is examined from every side and every angle, there can be no certainty of a real solution.

Sometimes a lucky guess will hit the mark, but for one lucky guess there are 10 thousand unlucky ones.

The difference between human beings and the lower animals is chiefly inside the brain.

What goes on there enables us to enjoy life to the full and measurably to control our own destinies.

Consequently thought ought to be careful and deliberate, and not hurried and slipshod.

Quick thinking can be successfully done only by those who have spent years learning how to think slowly.

No man is entitled to free speech until he can listen patiently while the opposition talks.

Usually it is safe to substitute yeast right of way if the fellow coming has a shiny new car.

A rocket trip to the moon would have more appeal if the rocket had the shape of a boomerang.

Cotton Gin Will Be Rebuilt; May Run in 2 Weeks

W. F. Cotton Oil Company Plant Swept by Fire Friday Afternoon

PARTIALLY DESTROYED

Loss Estimated Between $8,000 to $12,000; 12 Bales Burn

Reconstruction of the Wichita Falls Cotton Oil company gin, partially destroyed by fire Friday afternoon, will start at once and it is expected to have the plant in operation again within two weeks. George Dashner, general manager of the company, announced last night that shipment of new machinery had already been ordered from Dallas and that all efforts would be made to have it installed as soon as possible.

Flash Through Plant.

Flames starting in gin No. 2 near the front of the building at 111 Bridge street swept the structure with lightning-like rapidity at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Carl Davis, gin manager, and two ginners at work with him narrowly escaped when the fire flashed through the plant. "There was a puff and the whole thing was blazing," they told firemen. They had no idea as to what started it, they said, but declared that the gin had been shut down for a time Friday morning and thoroughly cleaned up.

Central station firemen arriving on the scene found the gin burning fiercely. Two lines of hose were laid and within half an hour the fire had been checked. The storage and ginning rooms were a complete loss but the boiler and engine room in the rear was not damaged to any extent. Firemen concentrated their efforts on this and managed to stop the flames before they had gained much headway there. The office was situated in a building separate from the gin proper and was not touched.

Cotton Damaged.

About a dozen bales of cotton were in the fire zone. A few were totally destroyed, several were damaged to considerable extent and others were merely scorched.

Estimates as to the loss were conflicting last night but it will be somewhere between $8,000 and $12,000, it is presumed. Firemen estimated that the damage would approximate the former figure, but Mr. Dashner declared it would run at least $12,000 and might reach $15,000. The heaviest blow, of course, comes in the form of a complete shut-down in the middle of the ginning season.

CIRCUS POSTPONED.

Hagenbuck-Wallace to Show Here on November 3.

Postponement of the Hagenbuck-Wallace circus date, originally set here for October 20, to November 3 was announced yesterday by the circus management. Traffic conditions beyond their control would have made it impossible for the big attraction to appear here at the earlier day, it was said.

Officials declared, however, that the show would positively appear in this city at the later date and that it would include in its presentation all of the latest and most novel entertainment attractions known to the circus world. It is now one of the largest and most complete on the road in America and is just concluding an exceedingly successful summer tour.

TEARS UP THE EVIDENCE.

Youthful Would-be Forger Tries To Rout the Law.

A 20-year-old youth who attempted yesterday to pass a $5 forged check at a local bank is held in the city jail following his arrest by City Detectives Boone and Hart. He presented the check at a teller's window and was detained while the officers were summoned. Before they arrived he tore up the paper, but the fragments were pieced together.

No charges have been filed against him as yet.

Rheumatism

"Good-bye old crutch!"

THERE IS positively no longer any excuse for suffering the agonies of rheumatism! Especially in the autumn of your life, when the vital organs weaken, impurities multiply and linger in the muscles and joints, as never before. It is now, just now, when you cannot afford to guess. No day returns!

Here is a joyous fact which can mean to you a fond farewell forever to all the miseries, the tortures, the body-twisting pains that you have suffered from the demon of rheumatism. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red-cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red-blood-cells! S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body, swellings, lingering pains, stiffness of joints and muscles all disappear; your stomach made strong; your face pink with the old sweetheart glow, your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S. Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

Braves Society After Eloping

Lady Cathcart (left), the Earl of Craven and Lady Craven (right).

One of the sensations of the season in London is the open letter written by Lady Cathcart, stingingly rebuking those who have turned against her because she eloped to South Africa with the Earl of Craven.

The letter is doubly interesting because there are rumors of a break between these two titled lovers who discarded the oldest of all conventions. Lady Craven, the daughter of the town clerk of Ivergorden, Scotland, whom the earl married in 1916, has as yet made no move to divorce him.

He and Lady Cathcart passed nearly a year at his big estate near Cape Town. Then, without warning, they arrived in England recently. Lord Craven immediately went to a nursing home for a serious operation. Lady Cathcart, frankly facing the social situation caused by their return, wrote an outspoken article on her elopement, for a London paper, a defense, explanation and justification for her action.

Upholds Right to Happiness.

In it she says, in part:

"Due allowance must be made for the people who, fundamentally incapable of law-breaking, not unnaturally view the law-breaker as a creature to be shunned. Nor can one fail to admire the sincerity of men and women who, believing in the sanctity of the marriage laws, conduct their own lives in accordance with their beliefs and are shocked when the marriage laws are violated. What is baffling, though, is the mentality of those who, themselves lacking the courage to break the ties of marital incompatibility, not only outwardly condemn those who do so but themselves secretly break every tie that is supposed to bind man and woman together.

"Surely it is more unpardonable for men and women to resort to every kind of subterfuge for the purpose of successfully concealing their illicit relationship from the eyes of the world than it is for a man and a woman who love each other to openly live together.

"The view of a woman like myself, who has defied and possibly outraged convention, and the view of a woman who has never done so and never in any circumstances would do so, will be very different, and, naturally, opposed to each other. But I maintain that each one of us has the right to whatever happiness we can get and to such happiness as we desire.

"Given my life over again I would do exactly as I have done and with no regrets in the doing."

YEGGS GET $110,000

Bandits Hold up Savings Bank Near Jackson, Mich.

JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 17.—Currency and securities that may aggregate $110,000 in value were obtained by five bandits who this morning held up and robbed the Spring Port Savings bank near here, it was announced by bank officials after a check up this afternoon.

The loot, according to bank officials, consisted of $5,000 in cash, $50,000 worth of Liberty bonds and the remainder in other securities. Virtually all of the bonds and securities were negotiable, they admitted.

HE KILLS A NEGRO

San Antonio Officer Faces Murder Charge, a Formality

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 17.—Police Captain Duke Carver was charged with murder today following the shooting to death of a negro suspected of a series of robberies on a country road near here. The negro, George Moseley was being questioned at his home when he drew a pistol and held it on a deputy sheriff, threatening him with it. Carver shot at the negro's gun, but the bullet glanced and went through his heart. The filing of the charge is a formality.

Bids For Traffic Lights Called By Council Soon

New Automobile Control Apparently Assured For City

TO COST $3,000

All Members of Council Have Voiced Approval Of Plan

Announcement that bids will be called for at the next meeting of the city council for the installation of an automatic traffic control system here was made yesterday by officials following a conference between Mayor Frank Collier and P. A. Rogers, manager of the Wichita Falls Electric company. This practically assures that the system which Police Commissioner J. T. Young and Chief of Police George Hodgins have been fighting for month will be purchased in the near future.

Mayor Collier and every member of the council have voiced their approval of such a system, but with the city's financial affairs demanding a close watch on expenditures, they have been reluctant heretofore to provide the necessary funds. Six lights and bells on six of the more important business district intersections will cost not less than $3,000, it is estimated.

The local electric company has submitteda bid for $3,100 and this was discussed at the conference yesterday. It was pointed out, however, that a city statute provides that all improvements costing over $1,000 must be advertised and competitive bids sought. Whether or not other offers for the work will be received is not known.

NO FRENCH LOAN SOON

Report of Public Offering Next Week is Denied.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—There is no immediate prospect of a French government loan being offered in the local market within the next three weeks, despite reports that public offerings would be made next week of an issue of between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000, it was stated today in quarters where such financing is ordinarily arranged. There is a strong probability, however, that before the end of the year the temporary $100,000,000 credit granted to the Bank of France, which remains untouched, will be converted into a long term bond issue.

INSPECT SEWAGE PLANTS.

City Council Probably Will Go To Ft. Worth and Dallas.

A committee selected from the city council will in all probability make a tour of inspection soon to Dallas, Fort Worth and other Texas points to obtain data on the sewage disposal plants there, it was intimated yesterday by Mayor Collier following a conference with S. W. Freese, a representative of the John B. Hawley company, sanitary engineers. Mr Freese, who superintended the construction of Fort Worth's new million dollar disposal plant, urged the city officials to inspect it minutely.

In view of plans under consideration here which may lead to the erection of a plant in Wichita Falls, officials are anxious t obtain as much information as possible concerning sewage disposal problems.

MAC DONALD'S VOICE BAD.

He Has Been Making Strenuous Campaign in England.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The strenuousness of Premier MacDonald's political campaign and speech making tour has affected his voice which was somewhat weak when parliament adjourned.

Reaching Cardiff this morning, Mr. MacDonald was entertained at a private luncheon but was unable to make a speech because his voice practically failed. He proceeded later to his own division at Abergavon.

The pact between the liberals and conservatives to avoid unnecessary contests today produced the announcement that the liberals had decided not to oppose Stanley Baldwin in the Bewley division, thus giving Mr. Baldwin an unopposed return.

Speaking at Queen's Hall this afternoon, Winston Churchill took credit for the fact that the liberals and conservatives are co-operating to oppose the advance of socialism.

CALLES MAKES PROMISES.

He Says Same Guarantees for Foreign Capital as at Home.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Foreign capital invested in Mexico will be given the same guarantees and protection as the constitution and laws provide for home capital, President-elect Calles of Mexico declared today on the eve of his departure for home tomorrow on the George Washington. If, however, foreign capital understood by protection that the Mexican government would furnish troops to fight strikers, this sort of protection would not be forthcoming, he asserted.

The president-elect, explaining further the intention of the new Mexican administration which will succeed that of President Obregon, said that simplification of the Mexican customs regulations would be effected on the basis of the report of a commission now working on this subject.

Regarding Mexico's foreign debts he declared that payments would be begun as soon as the Mexican treasury is in a position to make an effort in this direction.

OWL DRUG IS OPENED

Occupies Former Location of The Mandarin Cafe

The Owl Drug store, 701 Ohio Ave., was opened last Tuesday afternoon. The building which was formerly occupied by the Mandarin cafe has been remodeled, and new fixtures have been installed.

H. E. Rawlings, who was formerly with the Central Drug store will be manager at the new store, and will have charge of the prescription counter. H. L. Ratliffe from Corsicana will have charge of the service in front, and Leslie Ramsey, formerly of Electra will have charge of the fountain.

Carroll, president of the organization.

Russian Transport Carries Away All Wrangell Colony

Villjalmur Stefansson Declares Action Up To The U. S.

ONE AMERICAN

Population Made Up Mostly Of Eskimos, It Is Said

NOME, Alaska, Oct. 17.—A colony intended to establish British title to Wrangell Island in the Arctic ocean north of Siberia, was carried off by the Russian armed transport Red October, which haised the Russian flag there August 20, it was learned today.

The Red October bucked the ice 32 days to reach Wrangell Island, to which the coast guard cutter Bear and the gasoline schooners Herman and Silver Wave, three American vessels, tried in vain to penetrate this summer.

The colony of 13 eskimos and Harry Wells, an American, carried away by the Red October is to be landed at Indian Point in Whalen or at Vladivostok 1,000 miles south, according to advices from Whalen.

SAYS IT UP TO U. S.

Stefansson Comments on Action of Russian Authorities

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Villjalmur Stefansson, who a year ago founded the colony on Wrangel Island which is reported from Nome to have been carried off by a Russian transport, said today that the colony comprised 13 Eskimos and Charles Wells of Uniontown, Pa.

The colony was not founded in behalf of Great Britain, but of the United States through an American corporation in Nome, Mr. Stefansson declared.

"The situation is up to the United States," he said.

Christ Disciples Church Reach War Compromise

Discussion of Subject Threatened Serious Division At Meeting

CHANGE RESOLUTION

First Draft Would Declare Church Did Not Sanction War

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 17.—A compromise resolution dealing with war was adopted today by the international convention of the Disciples of Christ. Discussion of the subject had threatened to result in the serious division of delegates and a compromise was effected only after considerable debate.

The resolution as adopted differs considerably from the original text which had included the clause "that the church should not sanction war," this clause was omitted by the committee on recommendations in submitting the report to the convention.

Another Split Averted.

Another split was threatened when J. W. Crain, former adjutant of the chaplains' training school at Camp Taylor, Louisville, Ky., insisted that the resolution be sent back to the committee with recommendation that a clause protecting the conscientious objector be inserted. The chair ruled that the convention could refer back to the committee, but could make no recommendations.

Compromise was effected when Mr. Crain, after adoption of the resolution, was allowed to submit an amendment which will be sent to the committee for recommendation. The amendment asked "that the right of personal conscience in objecting to war be recognized."

The compromise resolution follows:

"Whereas, the christian conscience of the world is more and more coming to recognize that war is neither inevitable nor necessary, it is essential and inherently a supreme violation of the teaching of spirit of Jesus; that it is the most colossal and ruinous social sin which afflicts mankind today; that to wage war on a great scale with the ever-increasing destructiveness of its weapons would seriously threaten the existence of civilization; therefore

The Resolution.

"Be it resolved, that we, Disciples of Christ in international convention, assembled, appeal to the government of the United States to co-operate whole heartedly with other nations in every effort to outlaw war as a crime among the nations; that the church, as the body of Christ, and the bearer of good news of fatherhood and brotherhood, should discourage war, and should follow the more excellent way, and be it further

"Resolved, that we urge the United States government to co-operate freely with other nations in creating, and strengthening such international agencies of justice as are needed to make possible the amicable settlement of all disputes without resorting to war; that we urge the church more effectively to teach the meaning of the gospel of Christ in international affairs, and to stimulate study and discussion of the causes and consequences of war and the means of its prevention; and be it further

"Resolved, that we recommend that the executive committee of the international convention of Disciples of Christ appoint a committee of fifteen members consisting of five representative laymen, five representative women and five ministers, two of whom shall be chaplains from the army and navy, respectively, to co-operate with other christian communions and all other worthy agencies in making more effective the purposes of these resolutions."

For Bible in Schools.

The convention also adopted a resolution urging disciples to endorse the reading of the Bible in public schools.

A satisfactory settlement was made of a controversy between the management of the Union Missionary society and many who opposed its methods of operation and co-operation by appointment of special committee which will investigate and report to the 1925 convention.

Election of officers and selection of the 1925 convention city is on tomorrow's program.

BURNED HER FINGERS

Mother Thus Chastised Daughter Because of Short Change

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Elizabeth Morris was arraigned in a Staten Island court today on charges of having beaten her stepdaughter, Florence, 9 years old, after burning her fingers with matches. Mrs. Morris admitted burning the little girl, but denied that she had beaten her, a police sergeant testified.

"She was always short changing me," the mother said. "I sent her to the store with half a dollar to buy some things and she should have brought back a nickel. She didn't, and I was trying to break her of the habit."

The hearing was set for two weeks hence as hospital authorities said that the girl would be unable to leave the hospital for ten days.

USE MINES TO KILL

Tremendous Casualties Reported in Chinese Fighting

MUKDEN, Oct. 17.—Tremendous casualties have been caused in the fighting around Shanhaikwan through the use of subterranean mines by the central Chinese government forces, it was declared here today.

No estimate of the casualties of the past two days fighting has yet been made available. It was officially stated that the Manchurians had entered Shanhaikwan yesterday and completely occupied the city.

The subterranean mines, which dot the entire district, reports said, played an important part in the desperate fight which preceded the taking of the city.

BUTTE CLUB AT ELECTRA

Expect 600 Members by Next Meeting Night Monday

Between 700 and 800 members of an Electra Butte for Governor club are expected by next Monday night when the newly formed organization holds its next meeting. The club was organized Thursday night at a session in the old chamber of commerce rooms. A total of 120 persons were present and Mrs. A. N. Richardson was elected temporary chairman.

Davis in Chicago, Speaks 3 Times, Then to St. Louis

Leaders Say He Did Much To Solidify Demo Sentiment

BRENNAN'S REQUEST

National Committeeman Needed Him In Face Of Objections

CHICAGO, Oct. 17. — Sounding again his position on questions of religious liberty, personal rights and eulogizing Woodrow Wilson for championing the cause of self determination in behalf of smaller nations, John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee tonight concluded his third campaign visit to Chicago and started southward to East St. Louis, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Davis rushed through his last few hours here, making three speeches in as many sections of the city tonight. The first was before an audience in the Bohemian quarter, the second before a Jewish gathering and the third before an audience of Polish people.

Without taking into consideration the effect of Mr. Davis' two-day stay in Chicago on the presidential campaign in Illinois state and local leaders of the party made no secret of their feeling that he had done much to solidify and stimulate the Cook county democratic factions.

It was principally for that purpose that Mr. Davis came into Chicago at the request of George E. Brennan, democratic national committeeman for Illinois, and in the face of objections on the part of some of his political advisers.

PIGGLY WIGGLY

Piggly Wiggly Not Only Lowers Prices, but Forces Others to Lower Them.

GET YOUR FLOUR TODAY AT PIGGLY WIGGLY

(Extract from the Times, Oct 17th.)

Wheat Advance Forces Flour Up $2.00 Per Barrel

For the first time in several years, farmers are getting a high price for their wheat and as a result the pocketbook of the housewife is beginning to feel the strain of higher flour prices. Pleas for a better price for wheat echoed throughout the country by politicians have materalized, because of the failure of the Canadian wheat crop.

In the last 60 days the price of wheat in Wichita Falls has advanced from 90c to $1.30 a bushel. According to reports from northern markets, the price has jumped from $1 to $1.50 a bushel. Wheat raisers are happy, as they have long waited a better price for their grains.

The cost of flour has advanced from $2 to $3.50 per barrel, depending on grade, and again the housewife suffers. Flour was selling for $8.80 a barrel at the local mills Friday. Sixty days ago the same flour sold for $6.80 a barrel and prior to that time it had sold as low as $6.30 a barrel. Sixty days ago, local millers were paying 90 cents a bushel for wheat and they are now paying $1.30 a bushel.

The increase of 40 cents a bushel in the price of wheat raised the wholesale cost of flour $2 a barrel.

Bakers say that unless the price of wheat takes a material slump within the next 60 days, it will be absolutely necessary to raise the price of bread. Baker's flour which sold for $5.45 per barrel 60 days ago cost $8.50 a barrel Friday. Unless a material drop in the price of flour is obtained by the bakers, they declare the price of bread must be advanced after January 1, 1925.

Grocers are retailing flour in 49-pound sacks at prices ranging from $2.10 to $2.30, a canvass of several of the leading stores revealed Friday. Twenty-four pound sacks of flour are selling at prices ranging from $1.19 to $1.20 each.

So. Vernon Area Gets Third 1,300 Foot Shallow Well

Sherrin and McCamey Complete Second Small Producer Within Week

QUARTER-MILE SOUTH

Two Important Completions Overshadowed by Larger Wells In Deep Sands

The South Vernon shallow 1,300-foot pay was extended a quarter-mile yesterday with the completion of the Sheerin-McCamey No. 1 G. W. Richardson, northeast corner of the northwest 40 acres of the southwest quarter of section 83, H&TCRR survey, block 14, for a 20-barrel or better well from a few feet of sand, bottom of the hole at 1,304 feet.

It was stated yesterday that the well would be equipped for the pump and no attempt made to go on down to the 2,000-foot pay at present.

This is the second extension given the 1,300-foot pay sand in this field during the past week, the first coming early in the period when Sheerin and McCamey's No. 1 Stephens, southwest corner of the northeast 40 acres of section 83 was completed for a small well in the sand at about 1,320 feet. This test was formerly the Ellis-Dumas test, and was drilled with a National cable tools rig.

The newest well was formerly known as the South Vernon Oil company's No. 1 Richardson and stood just above the present sand for months over a fishing job. The old spudder was moved off the location with the advent of Sheerin and McCamey and a Standard rig built over the well.

These two completions, although important in themselves, are being somewhat overshadowed by large wells being discovered just a little to the north and east.

NO VACUUM HEARING.

Word Received Here Cancelling Hearing Set for October 20.

T. L. Coplin, deputy supervisor Texas railroad commission, received word from the commission at Austin yesterday authorizing announcement of a cancellation of the open hearing on the use of a vacuum for the M. T. McClure lease in Wichita county, account withdrawal of Mr. McClure's application.

BULLETS WERE "DUDS."

Chinese Junks Carried Quarter Million Cardboard Rounds.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 17.—Cardboard bullets, their shells loaded with commonplace Chinese red firecracker powder, intended to produce no effect more serious than a loud noise, made up a quarter of a million rounds of "ammunition" seized by foreign settlement authorities this afternoon.

Attention of British marines stationed in the Jessfield district, west of the International settlement, was attracted to two Chinese junks proceeding down a waterway toward the main part of the city. The marines stopped and searched the junks and found the rifle "ammunition," which was at once turned over to the settlement authorities.

Whether the fake ammunition was a common swindle or some carefully planned enemy device to mislead the Kiangsu leaders to whom the "ammunition" was consigned, was not disclosed.

TAKING AWAY OUR WHEAT.

Record Loadings Are Made by Foreign Ships at Galveston.

GALVESTON, Texas, Oct. 17.—The Dutch steamship Panceran, drawing 30 feet 8 inches of water with 443,000 bushels, the largest wheat cargo ever loaded at a Gulf port in her holds, left this afternoon to make way for the Dutch steamship Gamma, which twice made the previous record of 424,000 bushels.

The Tjibesar has been booked for 60 loads of grain, or 480,000 bushels and it is believed that she can be counted upon to set up a new single cargo wheat record when she loads next week. Ships leaving today and those in port will take about 2,000,000 bushels of grain.

WHEELER SPEAKS FRIDAY.

Pink Candidate Delivers Three Addresses From Special Train.

ABOARD WHEELER SPECIAL, EN ROUTE WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 17.—At Tucumcari, New Mexico, Dalhart, Texas, and Liberal, Kansas, during his travel today, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, independent vice-presidential candidate, made brief addresses from his train platform.

Senator Wheeler urged support for the LaFollette ticket on the ground that its leadership understood western problems. Wichita will be the next place for a formal campaign address and Senator Wheeler is scheduled to speak there Saturday night.

HOLD ANSTERBERG'S BODY.

Services for Dead Race Driver Await Wife's Instructions.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 17.—The body of Ernie Ansterberg, Los Angeles automobile race driver, was being held here today pending instructions from the widow, said to be in Los Angeles, as to its disposition.

Ansterberg, world famous driver, was killed Thursday when he lost control of his car and crashed into the fence in his initial try out on the newly completed Charlotte speedway.

Messages were sent last night to Mrs. Ansterberg in Los Angeles but early this afternoon no replies had been received.

TONG WAR FATAL AGAIN.

Aged Chinaman's Body Found in a Corona Tea Garden.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Police learned of a sixth tong war fatality in greater New York today when they discovered in a tea garden at Corona, Long Island, the mutilated body of an aged Chinese.

Evidence of a terrific struggle was found. The body is believed to have lain on the spot since Monday, for since that day the tea garden has been closed to customers.

News of the Fields

Noble, Wilbarger

The Noble test on the W. T. Waggoner estate, about the center of section 42, H&TCRR block 4, about six miles southeast of the South Vernon pool, Wilbarger county, is drilling past a last reported depth of 1,902 feet. This test is especially interesting, since it is the first in anything like the immediate locality to reach past an 1,800-foot depth, and is now getting near the depth at which the pay sand in the South Vernon field is found. The well is drilling with cable tools and so situated in a group of hills that it is practically invisible even when close at hand.

South Vernon Locations

The South Vernon Oil company has made location for and is erecting derricks for two additional tests, one a diagonal southeast offset to the Bridwell-Heydrick No. 1 Stephens, and the other a direct east offset to the Ray and Massie No. 1 Bond-Hawkins-Williams, and both located in the northwest 40 acres of section 83, H&TCRR block 14, Wilbarger county.

Petroleum Producers

The Petroleum Producers et al have made a location for a 2,000-foot hole 50 feet east of their gas well, which is located in the southwest corner of the east half of the southwest 40 acres section 84, W. B. Dill farm, Wilbarger county.

Texhoma-Cullum

Texhoma Oil and Refining company and Cullum are equipping their No. 1-A Burnett, G. R. Meade survey, south of Fowlkes station for the pump with about a thousand feet of oil in the hole from sand at 1,802-10 feet.

Waite Phillips Wells

Waite Phillips is shut down awaiting orders on the No. 3 Wilson, north and east of the producer on the Horrits survey, abstract 646, northwest Archer county. This well is located across the survey line to the north of the BBB&CRR survey, abstract 39. Sand was encountered at a depth of 1,534 feet and drilled to 1,538 feet, a little water and less oil showing.

The No. 2, just south of the producer, is rigging up to drill in with cable tools and will probably be ready to drill the plug out this morning, casing being cemented at 1,537 feet.

Texhoma Location

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company had made a location for a test and expects to get started at once in the northeast corner of their E. A. Hausler lease, block 16, Thomas McCoy survey, about 800 feet east of the Carey-Texhoma well, south Archer county.

Frank Beaudoin, Wildcat

Frank Beaudoin is drilling at a depth past 1,253 feet on his No. 1 Coleman, block 38, Brazos county schools lands, abstract 18, north of Scotland, east Archer county, ratholing ahead for the last three days looking for the reputed 1,200-foot sand.

Levy, Wilbarger

Robert More of the Waggoner estate has closed with J. V. Levy of Tulsa for a cable tools test on the north half of section 56, Donnie Wheeler land, about eight miles directly east of the South Vernon area production, Wilbarger county.

Former Manager of Jack Dempsey is Accidentally Shot

PUEBLO, Colo., Oct. 17.—Noman "Buck" Weaver, 42, first manager of Jack Dempsey, was accidentally shot and fatally wounded 19 miles southeast of here early today while hunting ducks. He died several hours after being brought here for medical aid.

BULL ATTACKS MAN

Pythian Superintendent is Severely Injured Friday

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Oct. 17.—Judge F. S. Heffner, superintendent of the Knights of Pythias widows and orphans here, was seriously injured today when he was attacked by a bull in the cow lot at the home. The animals, just dehorned, pawed and attempted to gore Judge Heffner, who was partially unconscious when farm hands came to his rescue. He will be confined to bed several days.

ATTORNEY TO HALL-QUEST

Man Who Gave up Wife Sends For His Legal Council

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Shirley Knox Hall-quest, divorced here two wekes ago by Dr. Alfred Lawrence Hall-Quet, and Frederick William Hart, divorced by Mrs. Rosamond Hart of Cincinnati, last Monday, were married here last night by Judge Denis E. Sullivan. They left immediately for Minneapolis, home of Mrs. W. M. Knox, Mrs. Hart's mother.

John A. Massen, attorney for Dr. Hall-Quest, left last night for Pittsburgh where he had been summoned by his client who recently resigned as director of the University of Pittsburgh extension department as a result of the wide attention attracted by the case.

Play Petroleum For Sure Profits Finance Gossip

Students of Conditions Favorably Inclined Towards Oil Shares

GASOLINE DOWN

Considered Only An Effort To Correct Local Situations

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Students of conditions, desirous of long range plays, were more favorably inclined toward the petroleum situation and were backing their judgment with further accumulation of the oil shares with profits not looked for until 1925, by which time it was assumed the trend would be much the other way.

Further cuts in gasoline prices which came to light today were considered nothing more than attempts to correct the local situation where the new prices were named. Within a 45-mile radius of Wall street it was observed that no one price gasoline prevailed as motorists were able to replenish their empty tanks at from 15 to 17 cents a gallon.

Western oil producers still in town expressed the belief to their banking friends today that the next decided price movement in crude oil would be upward although such a step was not expected much before the first of December. If then affected, they said, it would enable the producing companies to improve their inventory position by the end of the year.

Acreage Deal

Consummation of a deal between C. H. Verschoyle, Newton W. Maer, M. Staniforth, and others whereby certain acreage and oil producing wells owned by them were to be sold through Sibley and Kilgore for a reported consideration of $650,000 did not occur yesterday, according to statement of the parties to the deal.

In an interview yesterday afternoon Mr. Maer and Mr. Staniforth denied progress on such a "deal" to the extent published in yesterday morning's paper.

ACTORS SEE COOLIDGE

Al Jolson and Others Get Mrs. Coolidge to Sing With Them

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Presidential and stage hours clashed this morning at the White House and at the conclusion of two hours of merry battle it was declared a draw.

John Drew, Al Jolson and about 40 other members of the Coolidge and Dawes Stage club won in determining the hour for a breakfast engagement by arriving at the White House at 9:30 after the president had waited an hour and a half past his usual breakfast time.

Mr. Coolidge stepped from the arena of wit and fun, however, promptly at 10:30 to meet the cabinet at the regular hour, just as his guests in the midst of a serenade were in the chorus of "Keep Coolidge."

It was a lively morning both in the breakfast room and later on the White oHuse lawn where the actors entertained Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge not only with songs, but with impromptu speeches. Jolson mixed in a few "presidential jokes" and was successful in his treat to make Mr. Coolidge "laugh outloud."

When it came to the singing of campaign songs Mrs. Coolidge joined in with an enthusiastic soprano.

Before departing for the cabinet meeting the president expressed his gratitude for the visit and assured his callers that the doors of the White House were open to them "at least until next March 4."

WEALTHY WOMAN HURT

Serious Injuries Sustained by Mrs. Tips at San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Emily Tips, 60, wealthy resident here, was seriously injured today when her automobile turned a double somersault in a collision with a truck. Her daughter and two sons were slightly hurt. Mrs. Tips was cut on the head and chest and may have suffered internal injuries.

FLOWER BEDS SPOILED

Police Looking For Young Americans Who Did It

Along with spring chickens in neighboring onion orchards, fire cracker shooting on days other July 4, flourishing weeds on vacant lots and bicycle riding on sidewalks, city officials have another pet peeve that bobs up periodically.

It appeared again yesterday with an announcement from park department heads that youngsters playing in the city park were wrecking disaster on flower beds, shrubs and small trees. A number of flower beds in the Huff-McGregor park beds that have been nursed along carefully for three years were utterly ruined Thursday night by thoughtless kids chasing through the park. Numerous other instances of wanton destruction have been found recently and a police campaign sought to put an end to it.

Parents are being notified that drastic action will follow the apprehension of any boy caught wilfully or carelessly damaging park property.

Coyote Pups Scamper Over Henrietta Grid Machine

Aerial Attack Features Hard 19-0 Vinctory

Passes, Francis to Herndon, And Francis to Walker, Score Twice

HORTEN PROVES STAR

Herndon Covers Blocked Kick Behind Goal Line

Flashing a speedy running and overhead game, Montgomery's Junior Coyotes moved a notch nearer the class B championship of the north Texas football district Friday by scampering over Henrietta high school 19 to 0.

Perfect passes, Francis to Walker, and Francis to Herndon, netted the Coyote pups two touchdowns. A blocked kick by G. Taylor, the ball bouncing across Henrietta's goal line and being covered by Herndon, accounted for the other touchdown.

On the initial kickoff Henrietta came close to getting away for a score. Captain Smith received, and evaded the entire Wichita Falls team merely to be overhauled by Captain Walker of the Coyote Pups and downed on Wichita Fall's 15-yard line. Two attempts at the line failed. Smith then tried a pass, but Horten intercepted and ran the ball back 25 yards. From here the Coyote Pups charged down the field to an ultimate touchdown. Francis broke 15 yards off Henrietta's left tackle. Horten then skipped through the same position for ten yards. This play put the ball on Henrietta's ten-yard line, and an offside penalty gave the Little Coyotes another five-yard advantage. Francis gained three yards through center. Walker failed in a line buck. Francis tried twice more and was held. The ball went over to Henrietta.

Herndon Covers Fumble.

Smith of Henrietta on an attempted line plunge was downed nearly on his goal line. Henrietta attempted to punt, but G. Taylor blocked, and Herndon covered the oval for the first score of the game. A pass, Francis to Herndon, to try for the extra point failed.

The second touchdown came in the third quarter. Wichita Falls covered a Henrietta fumble in mid-field. Walker gained ten yards off Henrietta's right tackle. A pass, Francis to Strange, netted 15 yards.

Francis gained two yards through Henrietta's left tackle. Walker garnered six yards at the same point. Francis pulled down two yards. Henrietta was then penalized 15 yards for roughing it. With the ball in the shadow of the goal, one line buck failed. Francis then shot a beautiful pass to Herndon for the touchdown. Another pass, Francis to Herndon accounted for the extra point.

Horten Flashes

A series of end runs with Horten leading the attack put Wichita Falls within 20 yards of the goal late in the last period. Another forward pass, Francis to Walker, brought the third touchdown. Attempt for the extra point failed.

Ferris, right guard, and Herndon, left end, proved the outstanding players in the Wichita Falls line. Taylor at Center also put up a sterling brand of ball.

Edwards, Henrietta tackle, and Captain Smith were the stars for the boys.

The play of the entire Wichita Falls backfield of Levine, Horten, Walker, Francis was little short of scintillating.

EAGLES BEAT HILL BILLIES

Denton Normal Upsets Dope to Win, 10 to 0.

DETON, Texas, Oct. 17.—Upsetting the dope of some of the forecasters, Denton Normal Eagles came through this afternoon and in the last three minutes of play, defeated the Hill Billies of Daniel Baker college with a score of 10 to 0. The game had been an even battle until the last minutes of play with Denton only able to keep out of danger by the excellent kicking of Captain Fred Slack. He was kicking for 45 to 60 yards and gaining 5 to 15 on the exchanges. With only three minutes to play, Oliver replaced Griffith at quarter and after missing one drop kick for field goal later took a long chance from his 35 line and Denton scored for the first time on his drop kick. Daniel Baker resorted to a passing game and Knowles of the Denton line intercepted it and ran 45 yards to the touchdown, Oliver drop kicking the goal.

McTIGUE MUST MEET GENIS.

Tommy Has First Call for Bout Ahead of Paul.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, must meet Gene Tunney in his first title match in this state if he applies for a license, the State athletic commission announced after Tunney had signed with his manager, Billy Gibson, and posted the necessary forfeit fees to bind him to such a match.

The proposed Reisenbach-McTigue match, tentatively scheduled for Madison Square Garden in November, will have to await a McTigue-Tunney match, in the event McTigue applies for a license here. McTigue has not been a licensed boxer in New York since he won the world's light heavyweight title from Battling Siki.

The Red Tornado of the Big Ten —By Feg Murray

Here is that human dynamo, that skyrocket of the Big Ten—"Red" Grange of the University of Illinois, the outstanding halfback of the 1923 football season.

What will Red do this year? Will he again prove the sensation of the country? Will he run wild through all opposition as he did last year? Will he once more be that perfect combination of speed, strength and athletic sense that caused every football expert in the country without exception to pick him on the "All-American" team?

Unless injured, Grange should be as good as he was last year, or even better. I saw Chicago stop Red in that memorable "homecoming" battle at the new Illini stadium—that is, they stopped him for a while, because they were all set for his sweeping end runs, but in the second half Red—or maybe it was foxy Zuppke—double-crossed the Maroons and Grange went like a streak of greased lightning through the Chicago line for long gains, and finally for the winning touchdown.

Grange is only 21 years old now, and has been living a healthy out-of-door life all summer, delivering ice in Wheaton, Illinois. His first real test comes today in the Illinois-Michigan game. All eyes are on you Red—let's see you snag a pass from the air, and then shake those dogs of yours!

All-City Golf Tourney Starts This Afternoon

Qualifying Rounds to Run Through Today And Sunday

The first annual all-Wichita Falls golf tournament will get underway this afternoon on the Country club course. More interest in golf than ever before in the city is being manifested, and competition is expected to be of the keenest. Although not showing on the surface so much there is strong rivalry between the two golf clubs, the Muny and Country, and both organizations are grooming their leading players to cop the tourney.

The meet will be divided into four flights, the 16 low scores in rotation being assigned 16 each to the flights. Qualifying rounds will run through this afternoon and tomorrow. Officials of the tournament are George Reppy, T. P. Adams, George Mobley and Jack Hale.

An entry fee of one dollar a player will be charged and this money will be used to purchase trophies for the victors and runners-up in each flight.

RAY MILLER A COMER.

Chicago Sensation Swats Number of Good Boxers

Several years ago, "the kid" peered into a local gym and asked to be booked on the weekly card. Someone wrote his name and weight on the bout hook, while the rest of the gang snickered something about, "another boy gone wrong." But, before long, other ameteurs began withdrawing from the ranks, with broken beaks, fractured ribs, and one or two with crushed jaw-bones. "Its got to stop," said ameteur officials, so they slipped the kid a medal and advised him to turn pro. He did; but his opponents' bones contiaued to get broken. About this time, Benny Leonard passed through Chicago and sparred a few rounds with the kid. "He's a comer," chirped Benny, keep an eye on him." We did! Soon he knocked out Ray Jefferies. Then Solly Kessler. Then Dandy Dillon. Following this, came two terrific battles with Patsy Flanagan and Eddie Anderson. Off in Philadelphia, Max "Boo Boo" Hoff heard all the racket. "I'll fix him!" cried Hoff, and soon the highly touted Al Gordon was rambling westward. Gordon got socked to the canvas in round 2, thereby putting himself on record as the twenty-fourth kayo victim of one Ray Miller, Chicago's sensational featherweight.

FIVE TOO MUCH FOR EDDIE.

Quintet of Cops Mount O'Dowd in New Orleans Park.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 7.—Eddie O'Dowd, Columbus, Ohio, bantamweight, who met Frankie Genaro here on October 6, has whipped several men in his career, one at a time, but he met his match when he tackled five policemen. He wasn't hurt but several of the officers bore marks.

At Auburn park, nearby persons saw a man dancing lightly, his fists clenched and arms whirling and telephoned the police that a crazy man was loose in the park. A few minutes later four officers arrived and, reinforced by a park policeman, charged upon O'Dowd.

After a battle royal they downed him and pinned his arms. Then O'Dowd explained he had been merely doing his shadow boxing in the open.

SIMMONS STOCK RISES.

Three Cowboys Return to Lineup For Horned Frog Tilt.

ARILENE, Texas, Oct. 1.—Prospects for a hard fight against the advances of the T. C. U. Horned Frogs here Saturday brightened considerable during the early part of the week when Kimbrough, captain and quarterback, and Wooten, halfback, returned to practice after an absence of more than a week with twisted shoulders.

Kimbrough, Wooten and Bounds, all of whom received twisted shoulders in the Baylor game here late in September, got into the Austin college game a week later but it was merely because necessity demanded that they be sent in. The game slowed up their recovery considerably and there is a possibility that Bounds may not be ready for the engagement with the Horned Frogs.

AUSTIN KANGAROOS VICTORS

Texans Stage Comeback to Best Henderson-Brown

SHERMAN, Oct. 17.—After Henderson-Brown of Arkadelphia, Ark., had roundly outplayed them in the first period, running up 13 points, the Austin college Kangaroos staged a remarkable come-back in the last half of today's game to defeat the Reddies to 20 to 13.

Henderson-Brown put the ball over the line after three plunges in the first two minutes of play and outplayed the Kangaroos during the remainder of the period, making a second touchdown on bucks and passes. The second period was scoreless. In the third Miller of Austin almost single handed carried the ball down field for Austin's first score. In the final period Frnks blocked a Henderson-Brown punt, knocking it over the goal line and Cone fell on the ball. Allred kicked goal.

OWLS AND L. S. U. TODAY.

Heisman System to Receive Real Test in Intersectional Clash.

HOUSTON, Oct. 17.—The intersectional football clash, which probably will be watched with most interest in Texas this week-end, will be the Rice Institute-Louisiana State University game to be played Saturday afternoon on Rice Field here. In this game the Rice Owls, pupils of John H. Heisman, will have their first chance to try their mettle against a strong team, and the results of this battle will afford a good line on what may be expected from the Owls in the Southwestern conference race this season.

L. S. U's. surprising victory over Indiana last Saturday threw a scare into the Owl camp, and has resulted in intensive practice this week.

In the early days pugilists fought barefooted, but nowadays they are no good without plenty of good socks.

ARCHER CITY WINS GAME.

Iowa Park Gridsters Lose Tough Battle, 7 to 6.

ARCHER CITY, Oct. 17.—Archer City high school nosed out Iowa Park here this afternoon in a hard-fought grid contest, 7 to 6. The Iowa Park touchdown was made on a long forward pass.

Archer City snared a fumble on Iowa Park's 40-yard line and in a series of bucks, Morrison, Black and Walker carrying the ball, marched to the goal line. There Morrison plunged across for the touchdown. He kicked goal for the extra point.

TIGERS WALLOP LIONS

Trinity Defeats East Texas Normal Eleven, 16 to 7

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Oct. 17.—Trinity university defeated the East Texas State Normal college Lions here today 16 to 7, by scoring a touchdown in the second and fourth periods and drop kicking a field goal in the second period. With the ball on the East Texas' two yard line, the Lions marched down the field for a touchdown in the closing minutes of the game.

"Buddy" Armer, East Texas halfback, was the outstanding player with several long runs and a strong defensive game.

Arkansas Aggies No Match For Texas Farmers

Bible's Athletes Took It Easy in 40-0 Win

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 17.—Encountering no offense of merit in their rivals, the Texas Aggies found it comparatively easy to defeat the Arkansas Aggies of Russellville here this afternoon by the score of 40 to 0. Coach Bible used his second string men after the first half.

The visitors seldom tried line bucking more than once before punting and tried the overhead pass but once, until the last ten minutes of the game.

Only one first down was made through the Texas line in the first three periods and came when Moore slipped through right guard for a gain of 11 yards. The visitors came within the Texas 30-yard line but once. In the fourth period the combined line attack of Overby and Moore netted three successive first downs and brought the Aggies to the Texas 28 yard line, where they were stopped.

Texas alternated with its first and second string men in each alternate period. The first string, with Irvin playing instead of Dieterich at right tackle made three touchdowns in the first half and the second team which was sent in just before the half ended, made another.

First string men made two more in the third period and the second string held the proper defense through the fourth period.

The lineup:

Tex. Aggies (40)	Pos.	Ark. Aggies (0)
Allison	L. E.	Stokes
Waugh	L. T.	McElroy
Ferguson	L. G.	Smith

Score by periods:

Texas Aggies	14	12	14	0	—40
Ark. Aggies	0	0	0	0	— 0

Referee, Moore (Vanderbilt); umpire, Brown (Minnesota); head linesman, Robison (Texas); field judge, Kraft (Northwestern). Touchdowns: Wilson 2, Dunlap 2, Pinson 1; goal from touchdown Ferguson 3, Pinson 1.

EPINARD FAVORITE TODAY

French Thoroughbred Expected to Win At Laurel

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 17.—Epinard, Pierre Wertheimer's famous four-year-old is expected to be installed a heavy favorite in the $10,000 Laurel stakes to be run over the mile route as the feature of tomorrow's card here.

The French thoroughbred is considered to have been given much the best of the weight arrangements with only 126 pounds, and will have Clarence Kummer, one of the country's best riders, in the saddle. Wise Counsellor, Frederick Burton's star, and in the eyes of turf followers, Epinard's most dangerous opponent, has been assigned 120 pounds.

Nine horses have been named to meet Epinard, including such bright lights as My Play, brother of Man O'War, A. H. Morris' rustic; Donaghue, owned by J. W. Bush, and J. E. Griffith's Single Foot.

Quite a flock of noted fighters are now laid up with all sorts of injuries.

Big League Moguls Will Discuss "Crookedness" of Game In Next Session

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The next big baseball event on the program—barring new scandals or early opening of the trading season—will be the annual joint meeting of the American and National league moguls.

This meeting will be held early in the coming winter.

These meetings are frequently hectic ones. In the past much of the time has been spent in petty league politics—in spitting out personal enmities. Deals are hatched—or the eggs laid for them. Much time is wasted.

This year the usual routine should be scrapped. There is one subject facing the moguls today that should be given their undivided attention when that meeting is convened. That is the subject of crookedness in the game.

The big league magnates owe it to the baseball public to devote every moment and every bit of their energy between now and then in ferreting out every scrap of information regarding the subject that they may lay it "on the boards" at the meeting.

And before they leave the final session of the joint conclave drastic steps should be under way to clean the game from end to end—in the business as well as the playing departments—of anything that smacks of shadiness.

The attitude of lily whiteness that most of the moguls have adopted to date regarding the presence of questionable players on their teams and equally questionable dealings of their representatives off the field is a pose that no longer fools the thinking fan.

The men in the two leagues who are shooting square—and there are several—should realize that they are jeopardizing the confidence now placed in them by shielding the weaker leaders.

Detectives have been hired in the past by at least one big league club to watch a star player to protect him—and the team's investment in him. This was for the benefit of the club. Other clubs have had detectives running down professional gamblers inside and outside the grandstands.

Are these same men demanding now that every available agency be used in ferreting out every possible clue in tracking down the exact nature of the O'Connell-Dolan affair to protect the public?

Are these men lending their best efforts now to "cleaning house" in their clubs?

Are all the owners preparing to "tell what they know" at the coming meeting?

Or are they already laying plans to whitewash the inquest "for the good of the ($) game" and let the truth take care of itself?

No one knows.

And no one will be able to tell what goes on inside the conference room when they finally meet unless they eliminate the star chamber sessions.

It's time they opened the door, however. Opened it wide and let the wind carry what stink it may. The sooner the public knows the truth and is shown that the men at the head of the game are on the "up and up" with them the sooner will in public confidence in the game be restored.

Will the moguls see the light? Or will they meet and depart, like they did in the winter of 1919—while evidence was piling up that the world's series of that year was a sell out?

BILL STRACHAN

In putting, is it proper to place the putter in front of the ball to aid the eye in detecting the right line to the hole?

Probably this does help many players get the right line to the hole, but I never thought of it in that light. The reason why I place the putter in front of the ball (I call this the address) is to gain complete control of the club on the backswing. Personally, I always make up my mind as to the line to the hole, before I take by stance. During the address of the ball, the line can be picked up again and all the more attention can be paid to holding the body perfectly still and to the actual hitting of the ball.

ELECTRA BEATS BOWIE

Gilstrap Uses Three Teams in 38 to 0 Victory

Electra, Oct. 17.—Coach Billy Gilstrap's Electra squad defeated Bowie here this afternoon, 38 to 0. Gilstrap used three different teams.

Smoot Thinks Effort to Amend At Next Session Futile

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee said today he did not believe an effort to amend the tax law would be successful at the December session of congress. Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, has indicated he would introduce amendments to the act.

NOT ENOUGH ENTERTAINMENT

Calles Surprised At Modest of His Welcome in France

By The Associated Press.

PARIS.—General Plutarco Elias Calles, president-elect of Mexico, was greatly pleased on arriving in Paris to find so many of his countrymen here to greet him. But he appeared to be unable to conceal his surprise at the modesty of the representation of the French government at the station.

The president of France was represented by a colonel of brilliant record, but of simple bearing. After the reception General Calles asked one of the Mexican party that came to meet him: "Are there no more marshals in France?"

It was then explained to the Mexican president-elect that receptions to distinguished foreigners are regulated to a nicety by the "protocol" which is a sort of code of etiquette that guides the authorities in organizing receptions. Under the "protocol" General Calles was entitled only such courtesies as the officials accord distinguished statesmen traveling incognito.

COWBOY HAT TO COOLIDGE

Bestowal of Wyoming Plainsman's Headgear Greets Caravan

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Oct. 17.—Admirers of President Coolidge among Wyoming cow punchers presented a plainsman's 5-gallon hat to Herb Moore of Plymouth, Vt., boyhood playmate of the chief executive, when the Coolidge-Dawes caravan arrived here recently. Mr. Moore promised to bestow the head-gear upon the president on inauguration day next March. It was not stated whether the bestowal was to be contingent upon Mr. Coolidge's election.

Cisco Shades 1923 Champs By 6-3 Score

Fumble Gives Lobo Eleven Lone Touchdown Of Tilt

ABILENE, Texas, Oct. 17.—Playing before one of the biggest football crowds ever assembled in West Texas, the Cisco high school Lobos defeated the state champion Abilene Eagles, 6 to 3, in a bitterly contested game at Fair Park here Friday. Cisco's lone touchdown came on an Abilene fumble. Fumbles were frequent throughout the contest. In the final moments of play Abilene resorted to an aerial attack which gained three first downs in succession, but was unable to put across the winning score.

Bryan failed to place kick, leaving the score Cisco 6, Abilene 3. For almost three quarters the teams battled fiercely, restoring to punting frequently. Abilene was in the shadow of Cisco's goal when the first half was up. In the third quarter Bryan placed kicked goal for three points. Making the score Abilene 3, Cisco 0, up to that time only two first downs had been made by each team. Pass after pass failed, until Wells passed to Bryan for 38 yards in the third quarter. Bryan fumbled on the 23 yard line in the fourth quarter and Brown grabbed the ball and made Cisco's touchdown. Wilson failed to get the extra point. Score Cisco 6, Abilene 3.

DEMPSEY PLANS TOUR.

Firpo and Wills to Travel Around Country, Too.

Inside information from the Dempsey-Kearns household is that the champion is getting ready to make a tour of the world, taking all comers and working every night. What a wonderful success the champion would be in such a role. With Jack Kearns handling the business end of the affair and Dempsey knocking them dead at each performance it looks like it might be called the million dollar tour.

Firpo also is contemplating such a tour. And also Harry Wills is taking on a tour of all comers. Even though Firpo and Wills both looked bad fighting each other, they would be big attraction any place in the country and should do well.

BUD HAMILTON CLEANS UP.

Sam Buxbaum, fistic Duke of Denver, is camping along the pike with his star featherweight, Bud Hamilton. The latter has about cleared up his division in the Rocky mountain country, and now seeks combat with eastern stars. Many sport scribes have tabbed him as a coming champion.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

After Billy had managed to get rid of the monkey who clawed him so he started back to the picture studio and met the men, Snub and Nick, on the way.

When Snub and Nick spied Billy, they called out:

'Hi, there, you Billy Whiskers! What did you do with Maggie?'

But Billy pretended not to hear them and would not even turn his head in their direction, but kept right on running toward the studio.

"I bet your life we find that monkey dead somewhere between here and the lake," said Snub.

"Or else floating on the water as dead as a flounder," replied Nick. "Sure I can't say as I blame him much, for that Maggie sure am a treacherous beast. Most likely she were pullin' his hair or stickin' her sharp claws into him. You can't make me believe he done gone and acted so crazy like unless dat sneakin', button-eyed monkey done go and do something to hurt him.'

"Perhaps you are right, Nick. For pity's sake, Nick, look at the top of that flagpole and see if my eyes deceive me, or do I see a monkey sitting on the ball at the top of the pole, all wrapped up in the American flag?"

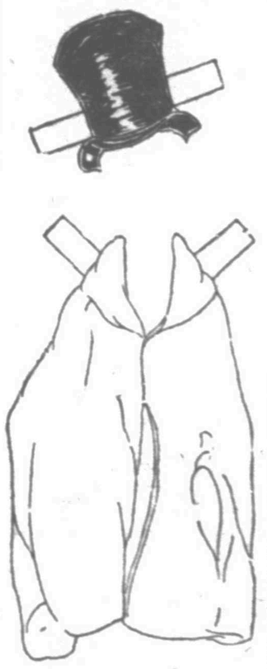

"If my eyes don't deceive me, it is that ugly Maggie," said Nick.

And that is just who it was. Maggie had met with a cool reception when she ran in the life saving station, for there was only one man there at the time, and he, being a fellow who disliked monkeys, had thrown all the pillows at her in quick succession as she had come in the door. Not liking this kind of greeting, and feeling cold and miserable after her plunge in the lake, she ran up the flagpole to get as far away from people and animals as she could. Seeing the flag waving in the breeze, she had watched her chance to catch the end of it and had wrapped it around her to keep her warm.

On seeing Snub and Nick she recognized them immediately as the men who fed her and looked after her comfort. So she let go the flag and ran down the pole to meet them, and in a jiffy she was nicely wrapped in Snub's coat and next to his warm body. She quickly fell asleep from the comfort of it all, but was rudely awakened by being set down in the stable not three feet from Billy Whiskers, who had reached the studio stable before them. She awoke in a hurry when she perceived this state of affairs, for Billy was rising to his feet with fire in his eyes. Maggie immediately swung herself onto a rope that was swinging near and climbed up to the rafters, where she sat free from harm.

(By this time Billy is beginning to feel tired of this life and to want to be free again. Tomorrow we will learn what he plans to do.)

Color Cut-Outs

Frank tried on another tall hat, which was as high as the first. Then he fished out of the trunk a cape such as gentlemen of fashion used to wear. "Now I'm ready to have my picture taken," he announced to Nick, who was pretending to take pictures.

Just then Nick's mother opened the door which led to the attic. "I wonder how many boys and girls would like to get rid of some ginger cookies I just finished making," she called.

Forgotten was the game of dressing up and taking pictures. There was a scramble down the stairs. "Why, exclaimed Betty Cut-out, between mouthfuls of cookies, "the sun has come out. The rain is over, and we didn't notice it. I think this has been a wonderful way to spend a rainy afternoon."

Color the coat black. Next week the Cut-outs will be planning some Hallowe'en fun.

Mothers

AND THEIR CHILDREN

The Whining Child

One Mother Says:

My child got into the habit of whining, and I wondered what had started her on such a distressing habit. I discovered that I was to blame. I am somewhat absentminded and I did not always answer her questions until she had repeated them a couple of times. This led to her drawling them out to attract my attention, and was the direct cause of her whining. I found that answering her promptly and definitely soon did away with the whining.

COMPLETING BOND PRINTS.

Mexican Issue Will Be Off Austin Press This Week.

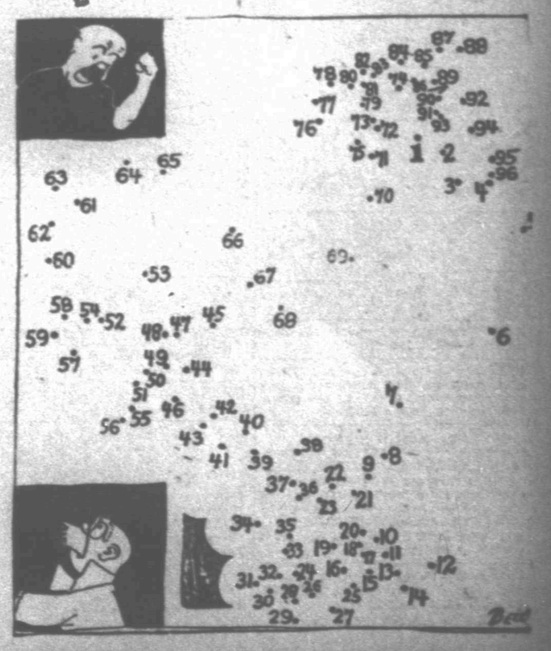

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 1.—Printing of 36,600 bonds of various denominations composing the $50,000,000 gold bond issue of the Mexican government will be completed here this week and the bonds will be forwarded at once to J. L. Arlitt, Austin bond dealer, who is in New York in connection with the sale of the bonds, it was learned here tonight. Meanwhile Senor Juan Micaze, private secretary to President Alvaro Obregon, assisted by a squad of Texas rangers, is keeping a close guard over the bonds to forestall reported plans of anti-Calles agents to steal the bonds and prevent their delivery to purchasers.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE STATE OF TEXAS:

To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita County:
You are hereby commanded to summon Jesse Clark by making publication once a week for 4 consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th District Court, to be holden at the courthouse at Wichita Falls, Wichita County, Texas, on the 1st day of December, 1924, to answer the petition filed June 6th, 1924, in cause No. 15795B wherein Ella Clark is plaintiff and Jesse Clark is defendant, wherein plaintiff sues for divorce on grounds of cruel treatment, and of this make due return. Given under my hand and seal of office this 1st day of October, 1924.
A. F. KERR,
District Clerk, Wichita County, Texas.
I certify that the foregoing is a true copy of the above writ.
Frank Morgan,
Constable Precinct No. 1, Wichita County, Texas.

SHERIFF'S SALE

The State of Texas,
County of Wichita.
Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain execution issued out of the honorable county court of Dallas county at law, No. 2, of Dallas county, Texas, on the 13th day of October 1924 by W. S. Skiles of said county for the sum of four hundred thirty-two and 73-100 ($432.73) dollars and costs of suit, under a certain judgment, in favor of T. A. Manning and Blagden Manning, doing business under the firm name of T. A. Manning & Son, in a certain cause in said court, No. 38342-B and styled T. A. Manning & Son vs. N. O. Monroe, J. R. Monroe and Ralph P. Mathis and placed in my hands for service, I. W. W. Murphy as sheriff of Wichita county, Texas, did, on the 17th day of October 1924, levy on certain real estate, situated in Wichita county, Texas, described as follows, to-wit: Being a part of the Irrigation and Land subdivision No. 4 of the John A. Scott Survey No. 9, and being the east one acre of the following described 2 acre tract. Beginning at a point 20 feet south of the northeast corner of said subdivision No. 4 of said Scott Survey No. 9, which point is in the south line of the right of way deeded to Wichita county by Kemp & Kell on March 5th, 1917, said deed being recorded in Vol. 85 deed records of Wichita county, Texas; thence with the east line of subdivision No. 4, 417.4 feet; thence west 108.8 feet; thence north 417.4 feet to the south line of the right of way deeded by Kemp & Kell to Wichita county for public road purposes above referred to thence east 108.8 feet to the place of beginning, containing two acres of land, and being the same land deeded to M. A. Moon by R. W. Tipton, said deed being duly recorded, to which reference is hereby made.
Also the following described property, situated in Wichita county, Texas, to-wit: Lot No. 13 in block No. 18 of the Southland addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Texas; also lot No. 5 in block 14 of the Southland addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, and levied upon as the property of J. R. Moore and that on the first Tuesday in December 1924, the same being the 2nd day of said month, at the court house door, of Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. by virtue of said levy and said execution, I will sell said above described real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said J. R. Monroe.
And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in Wichita county.
Witness my hand, this 17th day of October 1924.
W. W. MURPHY.
Sheriff Wichita County, Texas.
By Mrs. W. E. Carter, Deputy.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF TEXAS.
To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita County: Greeting:
You are hereby commanded to summon Henry Atkins by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the 1st Monday in December, A. D. 1924, the same being the 1st day of December A. D. 1924. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 13th day of September A. D. 1924 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court

LEGAL NOTICE

No. 16102-B wherein Elizabeth Atkins is plaintiff and Henry Atkins is defendant and said petition alleging that on or about the 20th of April, 1906 in the county of Crittenden, state of Arkansas, plaintiff was lawfully married to defendant and continued to live with defendant as his wife until about July, 1908, when defendant voluntarily left the plaintiff with the intention of abandonment, since which time they have not lived together as husband and wife. That at the time of abandonment plaintiff was the mother of two children by defendant, the youngest of which has since died, and the older one is now grown and married.
Wherefore plaintiff prays the court that defendant be cited to appear and answer herein and that upon hearing she have judgment dissolving the marriage relations heretofore existing between plaintiff and defendant, for costs of suit, etc.
Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 22nd day of September, A. D. 1924.
(Seal) A. F. KERR,
Clerk, District Court, Wichita county, Texas.
By Eunice Jackson, deputy.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Expert medical attention and experienced legal advice are recognized as economies. Good advertising is equally an economy.

To what type of individuals should the advertising appeal be made? What selling points should be stressed? What makes the most lasting impression? What media should be employed? How should the advertising be timed?
These are only some of the questions which the prospective advertiser must consider in order to obtain the best results from money spent for advertising. Some of the questions may be answered only by studies in human psychology and others only by experience and experiments.
The charge for experienced advertising advice is not large and is usually well worth its cost. In fact, as a rule it costs the advertiser nothing, for magazines make a special rate to advertising service organizations and this small differential represents their compensation.

Bank Account Is Safe Investment Over All, Babson

Statistician Says Real Estate Mortgage Another Premier Plan

ON HOME SPENDING

Says Investors Should Retain Pride In Community Building

BABSON PARK, Mass. Oct. 17.—Roger W. Babson today pointed out an opportunity for investors that is not only safe and profitable but renders a distinct local service as well.
"Bank accounts are the safest of all investments. Most bonds are good and many stocks are fair investments," says Mr. Babson. "People should remember, however, that there are other forms of investment that are also good and in some cases preferable. The local real estate mortgage should not be forgotten. This is especially true in these days when 'the field furthest away looks the greenest' to most people. The real estate mortgage under certain circumstances also has additional advantages in the matter of return, margin of safety, and the effect of the investment on local business conditions.

Getting 6 Per Cent.

"Just now when call loans are being made in New York at from 2 per cent to 3 per cent and commercial paper is selling in all our large cities around 3½ per cent, good mortgages are still yielding 6 per cent or better. I say 'or better' because in certain sections of the south and west absolutely safe mortgages can be secured to yield 7 and even 8 per cent. The farm loan and the joint stock banks have changed the farm mortgage situation somewhat but good loans at 6 per cent are still available on small houses in the cities and in the country. These houses when occupied by the owner are usually first class security.
"In loaning money on mortgages a very important factor enters into the transaction which is often overlooked. For the want of a better name we call it the 'ethical' factor. The value of any mortgage depends not only upon the real property behind it but also to a large extent upon the character of the borrower. I do not know where you will find a better security for your money than that offered by a young man of Christian character who is borrowing to build his own home provided that such a loan is protected by a life insurance policy on the borrower.
"A private investor has a distinct advantage over the bank in this matter. The bank must loan more or less mechanically—say 60 per cent of the valuation—irrespective of the character of the borrower. Sometimes a bank will loan too much to a man who lacks integrity and as often the bank loses a chance of loaning to an honest individual because of this arbitrary 60 per cent limit. The banks often fool themselves by thinking that 'a house is a house' whoever the owner. They forget it is not the number of people in a city which makes value but the character of the people in that city which makes value. An undesirable citizen moving into a locality actually lowers the value of the adjacent real estate. Generally a man of good character coming into a neighborhood tends to increase that value.

The Best Situation.

"When the combination of a desirable property and borrower of good character is found a good investment opportunity exists. Under such circumstances I recommend a loan of money for the building of a home or for a store that is to be used by the borrower. I never advise loaning a young man, an old man, or any other kind of a man money with which to speculate, or money to invest in a business which he does not control.
"In buying local mortgages," concluded Mr. Babson, "you also perform an additional service to your community. The money stays in your own city instead of going to New York or some other financial center, which is usually the case when stocks and bonds are purchased. Moreover, every new house that is built in your community by a man of character adds value to every other house. In helping such a man you are helping yourself and all the rest of your neighbors. I know of no other way of improving business for the long swing than by encouraging and helping the young men of vision and character to get started. Although the business of the country as shown on the Babson chart is now 5 per cent below normal, this does not apply to every city. Some localities are doing a normal business, some are doing better than normal business because their citizens are maintaining high standards in their commercial community.
"I believe that as a matter of good business and of public service every investor should invest a part of his money at home where it will encourage the right type of citizens in his community."

WOOL

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:
The demand for wool is a bit slow by comparison with other recent weeks, but the underlying conditions appear to be strong and no weakness in price is apparent anywhere. A disposition to await events for the time being is noted in view of the fed-up condition of the mills so far as raw material is concerned. Then, too, while the manufacturing outlook is unusually bright, there is no crowding demand for goods in evidence. The western situation is not materially changed, the balance of the fall clip waiting for the auctions.
Quotations include:
Scoured basis Texas: Fine 12 months (selected) 1.45@1.50; fine 8 months 1.30 @1.35.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Cotton goods markets were steadier today with a moderate amount of trading in gray and finished cloths. Buying of wool by domestic manufacturers were more active, several lots being cleared up this week. Burlap markets continued very high in consequence of the recent rise in Calcutta. Fine dress goods sold well for the spring and silks were reported as doing well for autumn on some of the specialty lines.

Wheat Higher

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Liberal foreign buying led to higher prices today in the wheat market here. It was estimated that 2,000,000 bushels was purchased today for shipment to Europe. Closing quotations for wheat were nervous at ⅞ to 2c net advance, December 1.50⅞ to 1.51 and May 1.54¼ to 1.54⅝ with corn unchanged to 1⅛c lower, oats unchanged to ⅛c down, and provisions varying from 10c decline to 32c gain.
Despite wheat strength corn and oats averaged lower in price as a result of what was contended to be ideal weather for maturing the corn crop.
Higher quotations on hogs helped to lift the provision market.

Cotton Breaks

New Orleans Futures

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 17.—Cotton futures closed steady at net decline of 10 to 16 points.

	High	Low	Close	P. Close
Oct.	22.90	22.36	22.45	22.55
Dec.	22.97	22.39	22.49-52	22.65
Jan.	23.00	22.45	22.53-56	22.68
Mar.	23.27	22.70	22.83	22.95
May	23.38	22.83	22.97-23	23.12

Opening: October 22.45 bid; December 22.53; January 22.53; March 22.80; May 22.95 bid.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The cotton market showed considerable firmness in today's earlier trading but after selling up to 23.50 for that position in late trading, December closed at 22.53 with the general market steady at net declines of 16 to 22 points on all months except November, which was 60 points lower on one transaction.
The market opened barely steady at a decline of 5 to 16 points and sold 12 to 21 points net lower right after the call. Cables were disappointing from an early advance in Liverpool and a very favorable weather map. Early offerings were absorbed by trade buying and covering, however, and the market turned upward on reports of a firmer spot basis in the south, large exports for the day and apprehensions that the tropical disturbance might possibly work toward the interior within the next few days.
Prices advanced to 23.60 and January sold up to 23.15, making net advances of 20 to 32 points and recoveries of nearly a cent a pound from the low levels of Wednesday in the case of the winter months.
The demand from shorts then slackened and the afternoon market sold off sharply. October broke to 23.14 and January to 23.07, making declines of about 45 to 50 points from the best. The close was within a few points of the lowest.
Private cables attributed the better tone of the early Liverpool markets to spinners calling and fresh Manchester buying. Reports received here from various parts of the south claimed that the spot basis was stiffer on expert buying and comparatively light offerings from the interior. The in-to-night movement of 752,600 bales for the week was the heaviest on record of recent years.
Exports today 50,981, making 1,585,779 so far this season. Port receipts 58,186. United States port stocks 851,524.

New York Futures

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Cotton futures closed steady.

	High	Low	Close	P. Close
Oct.	22.60	23.14	23.18	23.40
Dec.	23.05	22.80	22.83-86	22.93
Jan.	23.15	22.60	22.63-78	22.73
Mar.	23.40	22.86	22.86-23	23.20
May	23.73	23.21	23.23-29	23.40

Opening: October 23.60, December 22.80, January 22.67, March 23.10, May 23.30.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 17.—The cotton market was rather two sided today, scoring a fairly good advance during the morning and losing all the gains and more during the afternoon. Nervous short covering through fear that the tropical storm reported from the Carribbean sea might hit the belt and larger mill takings than expected were responsible for the advance. Fears of heavy clearings to October 18 and advices from Washington to the effect that ginnings and all other factors would be considered in making the next report on the year were responsible for the later reaction which carried prices down to a moderate net decline for the day of 16 points on December the most active trading month.
Most of the cables were not up to expectations and first trades consequently showed losses of 16 to 17 points. The easier opening was helped by the generally favorable weather map, which showed more rain in the belt. Later a report that the tropical storm was located south of Cuba started shorts covering and by noon prices had advanced to 22.97 for December and 23.38 for March, or 32 points above the close of yesterday.
The afternoon's decline carried December down to 22.39 and January to 22.45, or 35 to 38 points off from the highs of the day and 23 to 28 points below the previous close. There was a slight rally from the lows of the trading and the close showed some net loss for the day of 10 points on October and 12 to 16 points on the other active months.

Dunn's Review

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Dunn's tomorrow will say:
Some new signs of expansion both in domestic and overseas commerce have appeared. Despite the handicap of price unsettlement, American consumption of cotton has increased substantially, and exports of that staple have attained the largest volumes in nine months. Similarly the value of general merchandise shipments has reached the high

4 Speeches Give Butte Busy Day; Gets Good Crowd

G. O. P. Nominee Puts In Strenuous 12 Hours In East Texas

IS IN MARSHALL

Old Time Democrats Assure Him of Their Support

By RAYMOND BROOKS
Record News Staff

MARSHALL, Texas, Oct. 17.—Where James E. Ferguson had an audience of 60 two years ago, George C. Butte, republican opponent of Mrs. Ferguson for governor spoke to 300 Harrison county voters in the district court room here tonight. It was Butte's fourth speech today at the close of his most strenuous days campaign travel, during which he swung back from Tyler to Center then went by train to Shreveport, La., to make connections for reaching Marshall tonight.

Average Audience

H. O. Wilson, republican, presided and introduced the candidate tonight. The audience here, while conpared with the impromptu crowds given him during the day was declared to be an average one for Harrison county. Butte covered the ground of his usual campaign speech, declaring that "Fergusonism" is the only issue of the race and that he is not seeking to gain a republican victory but to make a peoples fight against restoring Ferguson to power.

It is a moral issue rather than a political one Butte said, and he appealed to the voters of Texas, the women especially, to repudiate the nomination of a member of the Ferguson family under which James E. Ferguson, once impeached, should be returned to the power if not the title of governor. He read the Texas history record of Ferguson's impeachment and the $156,000 currency transaction with Texas brewers.

Stops at Troup

Butte stopped over briefly at Troup, Smith county, this morning, where he was welcomed by Henry Edwards, editor and fifteen other democrats. He stopped at Henderson, Rusk county seat and addressed 175 voters of whom 50 were women. Dr. J. E. Watkins, introduced him there. Nearly every democrat present at the meeting assured the candidate of their vote.

Butte reached Carthage at 1:30 p. m. and more than 100 persons gathered in the Panola county court house during his ten minute talk. B. W. Baker, young democratic lawyer, introduced the candidate. Butte reached Center where he was yesterday induced to make a speaking engagement at 3 o'clock and between 600 and 700 persons were waiting there to hear him. Judge E. W. Blount of San Augustine, prominent democrat, presented him. C. H. Crouch, another leading democrat of the county who met the candidate at Tenaha, presided and Crouch later rushed him by automobile to Jonquin where Butte caught the train to Shreveport. Capt. J. C. Rogers, confederate veteran, born under the republic of Texas, and who has voted the democratic ticket ever since Texas has been a state assured Butte he will cast his first ballot against a democratic nominee this year in Butte's favor.

R. S. Sanders, Shelby county Democratic executive committee chairman was present at the Butte speaking. Sanders said he has complied with the state committee's request to call county organizations together for work in behalf of the nominee but "saw no reason for asking the county committee to work for the Ferguson election," as he was quoted at Center.

AIR MAIL THROUGH SANTONE

Propose Flight to Central America From St. Louis.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 17.—Two representatives of the United States government are expected in San Antonio within a few days to begin a survey of a proposed air mail route between the United States and six central American countries, C. B. Yandell, manager of the San Antonio chamber of commerce announced today. The survey will be made in connection with another proposed route from Key West to central America.

The proposed route would tap the trans-continental route at St. Louis and extend south through San Antonio to Mexico City and central America. Stations in central American will probably extend from San Antonio to Laredo, Monterrey, San Luis Potosi, Mexico City, Progreso, Guatalama City, San Salvador, Tegulcigalpa, Managua, Sanjose and Panama.

URGE CANAL EXTENSION

Coastal Canal Convention on In New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 17.—That the extension of the inland canal from New Orleans to Corpus Christi, Texas, is a national undertaking in all essentials and that congress should be urged to appropriate adequate funds for its completion was emphasized by speakers at the first session here today of the twentieth annual convention of the intra-coastal canal association of Louisiana and Texas. The convention will close tomorrow.

The canal has been completed from New Orleans to the Sabine river on the Texas line and from Galveston to Corpus Christi. Between the Sabine district at Port Arthur and Galveston Bay no canal at present exists and the purpose of the convention is to obtain from congress an appropriation of $16,000,000 necessary to finish the waterway.

EX-SULTAN LIFTS RULE

Three Wives May Dance and Go Without Veils in France.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—Ex-Sultan Abdul Medjid, since his arrival on the Riveria from Switzerland, has decided to permit his three wives to abandon their veils and attend dances at the hotel where he is staying. Abdul is frightfully jealous, but, fearful of criticism and possibly official action against him if he attempts to force his wives to live as prisoners as in Turkey, he reluctantly consented to permit them to dance. The ex-caliph never has seen his wives dance, regarding it indecent and below his dignity to watch such frivolous amusements. He remains in the lounge trying to play solitaire.

The Old Home Town

Matt Ramsey left Friday for Kansas City on a short business trip.

Marriage Licenses: Geo. W. Blundin, Wichita Falls, and Vaska Garner, Wichita Falls.

Charles Cook, a deputy in the county clerk's office, left yesterday for Dallas for a short vacation trip.

Harry V. Cannon, an attorney of Dallas, was in the city yesterday on business.

Sabbath school of Temple Israel will be held Saturday morning at the temple at 10 o'clock.

Sheriff W. W. Murphy is expected back today from Ardmore, Okla., where he has been on a short business trip.

Work is to start at once on a new $8,500 residence to be erected by Mrs. F. W. Hanner at 1096 Elizabeth street. The home will be of brick veneer, one story in height. Bob Ligon is the contractor on the job, for which a building permit was issued yesterday.

Federal Labor Agent R. O. James, who has been stationed here for the past two weeks, left last night for Dallas for service in the U. S. department of labor there. Mr. James has been here in the interests of the farmer, whose demands for cotton pickers has been insistent since the season opened. Through his efforts a number have been placed.

A verdict favoring the defendant was returned Friday afternoon to Judge Guy Rodgers of the 78th district court in the case of F. G. Ford vs. E. L. Blakeney. A farm rental contract involving 250 acres of land near Iowa Park and a crop income of about $1,700 was under dispute. The jury was out only a short time after arguments closed.

Charlotte Riles Court Ladies By Vamping Prince

She Also Beat Up Her Maids, Is Charge Made In Vienna

POLICE INVESTIGATE

Famed Opera Star Finds Plenty of Accusations Hurled In Europe

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—"Blackmail" is the counter-charge which Charlotte, noted European prima donna hurls at her accusers who charge her with flogging and mistreating pretty girls she engaged as maids—charges which are the sensation of Budapest, Vienna and Berlin, and which the Budapest police are now investigating. The opera star, a well known figure in the most aristocratic society of Budapest, first raised this charge at a grilling cross examination to which she was subjected for several hours by the Budapest chief of police.

Denies Accusations.

She again emphatically denied all accusations and charged Mathilde Mensler, the young and pretty dressmaker, on whose testimony the whole case rests, with telling friends that she knew how to get a dowry and money to get married; she would report the prima donna to the police and get thirty million crowns for it.

The singer's denials are supported by director Marencio of the fashionable Ritz Hotel at Budapest where Miss. Roeder lived, but Miss Mensler sticks to her charges of flogging and mistreatments which she says often were inflicted in the presence of the prima donna's friends.

The prima donna announces that she will produce a large number of witnesses from the cream of Budapest society, including artists, high officials, bankers and business people who attended entertainments in her suite, to disprove the charges. Meanwhile the police are delving into the past of the opera star. They have ascertained that she is a younger sister of the Countess Tarnowska, who years ago played the principal role in a sensational murder trial in Venice that attracted the attention of the whole world.

Shot Her Husband.

The countess shot her husband and fled with her friend, the 25-year-old Russian, Marmone. They caught the countess and sentenced her to a long term in prison, but she was later pardoned by the king of Italy.

The formerly beautiful and dashing countess, however, came out of prison broken and aged and store disappeared from public notice. Her younger sister is also the principal in a sensational criminal case. She was born in Budapest. Her mother was a Russian and her father a then well known Cellist. Charlotte was first heard of as a singer back in 1907, at Brunswick, Germany, where she attracted the attention of the reigning prince. The friendship between the two developed, and made Charlotte an interesting personality. But it also gained for her the enmity of all other members of the court theatre and the shocked, virtuous ladies of the capital of the little principality.

Bliss Her from Stage.

The latter decided that only the exotic wiles of this foreign siren could have led the father of their country astray and they organized a regular crusade against Charlotte. At a performance of La Traviata, in which Charlotte sang the chief part, the ladies of the audience suddenly began a violent demonstration with whistles, toy trumpets, rattlers and other noise-making instruments until the curtain was ring down and Charlotte fled from town.

She was next heard of in Vienna, where two well known names were connected with her career—Rudolph Schildkraut, famous actor, and Baron Von Kanin, the chief of the press division of the Austrian foreign office, where her alleged strange passion for inflicting pain was first brought to the notice of the authorities.

U. S. CROWDS DECREASE.

Closing of Wembley Exposition Draws Britishers to View It.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The hotel authorities declare that for the first time in many years, visitors to London from the continent have outnumbered Americans arriving here. Many of these continental guests are business men, who bring their managers and secretaries with them and spend an hour or two daily on the telephones conversing with their business headquarters back home.

These visits are believed to be due very largely to the laying of plans for trade expansion now that the post-war problems are being ameliorated but they are also partly due to the British empire exhibition at Wembley. As the exhibition draws to a close it appears to be attracting a type of visitor which has been little in evidence heretofore. Observers state that fully 80 per cent of these visitors are industrial magnates taking a final look around for business opportunities, the bulk of them coming from Scandinavia or the neighboring continental countries.

WINTER CRUISES POPULAR.

Mediterranean Tours to Be Doubled During Cold Months.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Tourists who while away the coming winter months on Mediterranean cruises will find almost every seaport putting on Parisian airs, with casinos, dance halls, restaurants, cabarets and saxophonic syncopation.

The Mediterranean winter cruises which have been elaborated since the war were so popular last year that there were not sufficient ships sailing from England and America to satisfy the demand. In consequence the stopping places, particularly the ports of northern Africa, experienced prosperity hitherto unknown to them. In fact they sold out their stocks of native trinkets, rugs and souvenirs.

This year they are providing against running short by importing from England and continental cities vast amounts of goods which they will sell from their bazaars to unsuspecting tourists in search of articles of native manufacture.

Far more lucrative than the trinket trade in these ports is the operation of gambling rooms. These sprang up in mushroom fashion last year but now many have been turned into richly decorated and furnished casinos.

DE PALMA SETS A MARK

A Speed of 65 Miles in a Chrysler Car at Fresno

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 17.—A stock Chrysler six phaeton covered one thousand miles in 1,007 minutes elapsed time on the Fresno dirt track. Deducting time consumed for necessary stop, such as for gasoline, oil tire changes and food for the driver, the net running time was 878 minutes, 10.8 seconds, an average speed of 63.321 miles an hour. This set a distance endurance record. The time was clocked and certified by three associated members of the American Automobile association.

The car was driven by Ralph De Palma, race driver. July 16, driving another stock Chrysler, De Palma tore up Mount Wilson, near Los Angeles, in 25 minutes, 48.85 seconds, breaking the former stock car record by more than two minutes, and the non-stop record as well.

THEY DINE IN STYLE.

Fisher Girls Take Tea at House of England's Premier.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Three fisher lassies from Lossie mouth had the time of their lives last week when, after visiting the British empire exhibition at Wembley, they took tea with Premier MacDonald and his daughters at the famous official residence of the prime minister, No. 10 Downing street.

One of them said a lady had invited them to London to see the exhibition as her guests. Wembley was "just great," but they wanted also to see the inside of the prime minister's town house.

When the girls arrived at No. 10 Miss Ishbel MacDonald heard of their presence and invited them to tea, which was just being served to the premier and his daughters.

"That was the greatest honor fish girls have ever had," said one of them afterward, "and we shall never forget it as long as we live."

Ward Brothers Stage A Penny Ante Game For Wichita Patrons

IS GOOD PROGRAM

Dancing, Comedy, Music Supplied in Quantity On Vodvill Stage

Ward Brothers as "Bertie and Archie in Penny Ante," supplied a lot of fun at the Wichita Theatre last night. They are good comedians, and Bertie's ignorance and stupidity in regard to technical terms used in poker brings laughter from the audience. Bertie impersonates an Englishman and they both dance and yodel cleverly.

Bob Kelly and Charlotte Duncan in "A Few Nonsensical Moments," are well received. They bring a lot of nonsense into the act, supplemented with singing and dancing. Kelly is the receiver for plenty of punishment. Their collection of dances is complete. Kelly supplies the grotesque while Duncan supplies grace to the act.

Baby Cries.

Walters and Walters in "The Baby's Cry," prove themselves gifted ventriloquists. A little girl, a naughty boy, and a crying baby, all of them dolls, are their mediums. The funny lines placed in the mouth of Fredy, the unruly boy, is the laugh producer.

Evans Brothers and Maidie Du Fresne open their act with a song. Two dancing clowns and a girl win applause with a lot of clever dancing.

Don Valerio, Italy's premier wire walker, performs upon a slender steel cable. He trips the light fantastic with as much grace and abandon as if he were on the stage instead of above it. A lady and a saxophone player form the rest of the company.

Owing to the serious illness of Elsie Lange, John Thorwald, baritone singer from Baltimore, was substituted for the act of Guilfoyle and Lange. His singing was well received by the audience.

The Sportlights of Grantland Rice and Out of the Inkwell preceded the rest of the bill. There will be three shows tomorrow, at 2:30, 7:30 and 9:30 p. m.

PARK HIDES SECRET

Two Chicago Boys, Lost, Believed to Have Starved to Death

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Oct. 1 — Somewhere in the bleak and dreary wintry wastes of Glacier National park, the final resting place of two Chicago boys will remain a secret for at least another eight months until the vast stillness again yields to nature and warms up to become "America's playground" for another season.

When the park again opens to tourists travel it may be possible that someone will discover the bodies of William and Joseph Whitehead, brothers, who have been missing since August 24, but until then only the rarest of fortune may lend someone to the place which organized searching parties stopped hunting last week.

August 24, the brothers left Granite park station on a hiking trip through the park. They carried a light camping outfit and rations enough to last for a few days. They had planned to make the Lewis hotel on Lake McDonald their first stopping place but they never arrived, and the last information of the two came from those who saw them depart.

Presbyterians To Establish Series Church Schools

Gift of $100,000 Is Bestowed by Philadelphia Church Member

STANDARD TRAINING

Proposed Colleges Must Qualify for Fund By March 31, 1926

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—The first of what was said would probably be a series of Presbyterian schools of religious education is made possible by a gift of $100,000 announced today as having been bestowed by a Philadelphia member of the Presbyterian board of Christian education who requested that his identity be withheld. The announcement was made at the headquarters of the Presbyterian general assembly.

The donor obtained information from a number of institutions concerning their readiness to inaugurate at an early date standard departments of religious education and then selected Maryville college in Tennessee and Trinity university in Texas, as those best prepared to take the step promptly and most in need of stimulus from without. Each of these colleges will receive the income of half of the fund given, provided they qualify by March 31, 1926. The requirements of each college is that it shall have a total of $100,000 from other sources by the date named, and that it shall then maintain a department of religious education in which are three full time teachers, giving their time to the teaching of the Bible and related subjects, and which is fully prepared to enable a student to major in the department. The donor also provides that the board of Christian education shall be the judge as to whether a standard department of religious education is actually maintained.
