C.O.G. Urges Development Of Two Parks In Rockport Area

A committee of the Coastal Bend Council of Governments voted to adopt a report setting out priorities for development of proposed park and recreation projects in the 13-county COG region.

The committee's recommendations on park priorities and its overall proposals on open space development will be submitted to the full COG membership for consideration at their March meeting.

For any area park project to receive federal funds, it must be included in the priority list that is finally approved by the planning council. Local governments will apply for development grants from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development and HUD will use the COG priority list in deciding which projects to fund.

The resource conservation and open space development committee recommended priorities on 26 projects in 1973, with all but five getting top priority ratings. All were submitted by local governments as projects they would like to see developed. The committee also set priorities for each year through 1980 as required by HUD guidelines. Under the guidelines, the committee must review open space prospects and set new priorities each year to be re-certified.

During each year, projects were rated by need for development as "high," "higher," and "highest." Whether or not land would have to be purchased for the project also was indicated.

Projects proposed for possible 1973 development which got the lowest rating were Nueces County's Port Aransas and Sabalura parks, the planting of a right-of-way in Rockport, one of two city parks in Beeville and one of two city parks proposed for Karnes City. A city park for Mathis was given top priority but was the only project for which land would have to be acquired.

Also receiving top priority were Rockport Memorial Park, Goose Island State Park, Garcia Park in Alice, County Park in Premont, Main Plaza Park in Karnes City, Cactus Park in George West and City Park No. 2 in Beeville.

Second Snow This Winter

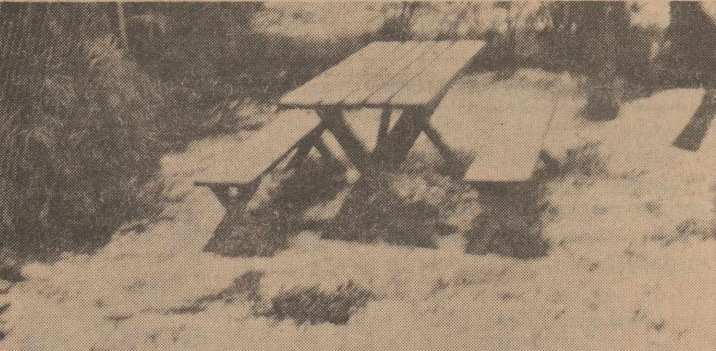

Local residents awakened last Friday morning and for the second time this winter saw snow.

Children, who rarely see snow in this part of the country, had fun throwing snowballs and making snowmen, and adults grumbled, scraped the snow and ice from the windshields of their cars and made their way slowly to work.

It was only the third time in about the past 10 years that it has snowed here. Last week's snow, in terms of precipitation, was recorded as one inch.

By noon, after the sun's melting rays had done their job, most of the snow was gone.

But in the morning, scenes such as those in the accompanying photos greeted everyone when they looked out the windows of their homes.

Man Arrested On Narcotics Charge

Sheriff Bob Hewes reports that he and Deputy Joe Williams on Feb. 6 arrested a 22-year-old Rockport man identified as John Mac Turner on a charge of selling heroin to an undercover agent of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

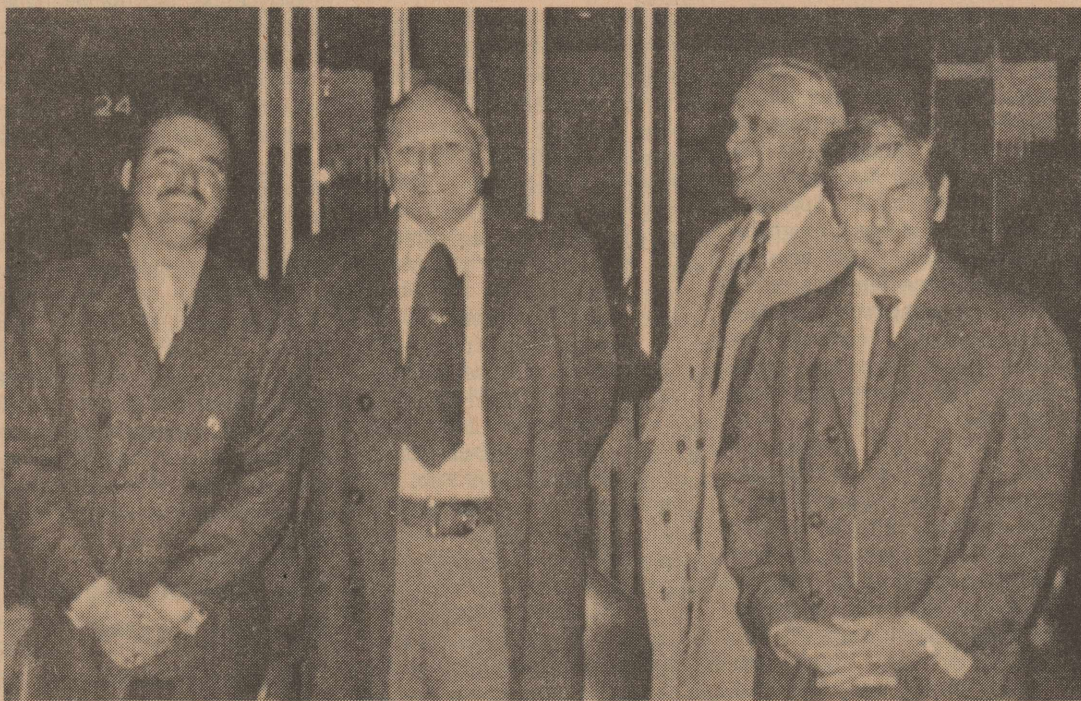

Hewes said Turner also was wanted by other agencies on similar charges. Assisting Hewes and Williams in the apprehension of Turner was Constable Jake Stockbridge of Lamar.

Later in the day Turner's 19-year-old wife also was arrested on a charge of narcotics sales. Turner and his wife were transferred to Nueces County jail in Corpus Christi which is the Federal detention center for this area.

--Passed a resolution proclaiming National Lulac Week (see proclamation elsewhere in paper).

Two Accidents Occur Here

State Highway Patrolmen Bill Hill and Rick Brush reported that an auto accident occurred Feb. 9 on Highway 35, 1.9 miles north of the city limits.

Cars driven by Robert House and Glen Sanders of Rockport collided when the auto driven by House pulled out onto the highway from North 8th Street, according to the officers.

Sanders was taken to Aransas Hospital where he was treated and then released.

Patrolman Hill reported a second accident that took place Feb. 11 on Highway 35, one-tenth of a mile north of the city.

Cars driven by Dianne Harris of Portland and George Brown of Corpus Christi were proceeding south when a dog ran in front of Miss Harris' car. She slammed on her brakes to avoid hitting the dog, and Brown's car ran into the rear of Miss Harris' car.

In compliance with Texas law, First National Bank will not be open Monday, February 19, it was announced by James H. Sorenson, Jr., president.

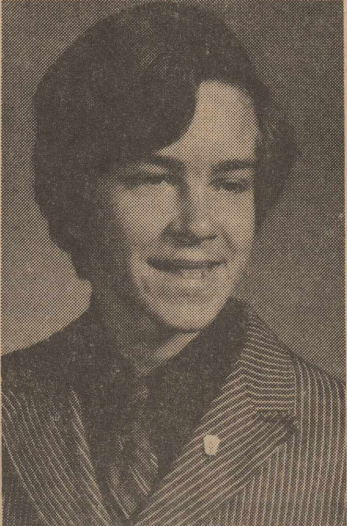

Sorenson explained that the law requires that all banks be closed on nine designated holidays each year. The holiday schedule was arranged by the legislature so as to set the holidays on either Friday or Monday, thus providing a long weekend, he said.

"We very much regret any inconvenience this may cause our customers, but we have no choice in the matter," he added.

The Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors is made up of 15 members, each elected for a 3-year term. Terms are set up on a rotating basis with the terms of 5 Directors expiring each year.

Pirates Take Championship With Win Over West Oso

By BOB CRAWFORD

Rockport - Fulton's Pirates became the District 15 - AAA Champions Friday night as the Pirates had to go into overtime to beat a fired up West Oso team 62-55, playing before a packed house in Pirate Gym.

Little hope was left for the Bears who had been handled so easily by the Pirates in two previous encounters, but the Bears jumped all over the Pirates in the third quarter and after being 10 points behind, the score had West Oso out front at the end of the third period 37-35.

In the fourth period the Pirates seemed to get things back in order, again going ahead of the Bears by as much as seven points, but the Bears didn't stop coming after the Pirates, and at the end of regulation play the score was 52-52.

In the fourth period, the Pirates had been able to find Big Steve Mayes who started connecting with the basket to keep the Pirates in the game. Mayes finished the night with 32 points. John Vick and Donnie Setterbo each had 10 points.

In overtime the Pirates were able to put on a spurt with about a minute remaining and hold on to win 62-55. The 62 points marked the lowest scoring total for the Pirates since they scored only 46 points in a loss to Refugio back on January 2, and that was 12 games ago.

Now the Pirates will play the Champion of District 16-AAA, which is in a three-way tie between Mercedes, Edcouch-Elsa, and Rio Grande City. The site and the date will be announced next week. Meanwhile, the Pirates will be trying to pick up some warm up games.

LONE PROTESTER — Arthur Bracht was the only person who attended a public hearing at the courthouse Monday to express opposition to salary increases for county officials. After hearing his reasons, the Commissioners voted to go ahead with the wage hikes.

County Votes Salary Hike

Following a public hearing at the courthouse Monday, Aransas County Commissioners voted to increase the salaries of county officials and employees in their offices. The new wage schedule was published in the Jan. 18 issue of the Pilot.

Only one person showed up at the public hearing to protest the proposed pay hikes. That person was Arthur Bracht, retired businessman.

Bracht told the Commissioners Court that he was opposed to a general salary boost for county employees at this time "because of the tax situation, particularly in view of steadily decreasing tax revenues resulting from decreasing oil production."

Bracht said he had talked to many local people who expressed opposition to the county pay hikes but "I guess I was the only one who had the guts to show up and say what I thought."

County Judge John D. Wendell said that although the tax yield from oil production is on the wane, real estate tax revenues are increasing each year with the construction of many new housing units at Key Allegro, Harbor Oaks, Rockport Racquet and Yacht Club and other places in the county.

In other actions the commissioners:

--Awarded a contract to Commercial Motors of Aransas Pass for three trucks on its low bid of $18,180.80, with two old trucks to be traded in.

--Awarded a contract to the Rockport Pilot for office supplies on its low bid of $278.73, compared to $305, Bennett and followed by Standard Office Supply and Patterson's of Corpus Christi.

--Awarded a contract to Anderson Machinery Co. for a roller.

--Awarded a contract to Thompson Business Machines for two typewriters and an adding machine.

--Named First National Bank of Rockport as the depository for county trust funds.

--After receiving a request from Lamar Fire Department for funds to buy eight tires and tubes, decided to call a meeting of officials of Aransas County Emergency Corps and the fire chiefs of local area fire departments to discuss the needs of each fire department and determine how to allocate funds equitably.

There was discussion of proposal of Liggett family to install and maintain lighted markers at entrance to Little Bay channel. Board agreed they have no objections. Liggett family will be advised to check with Coast Guard for regulations.

There was further discussion of Homer Cady boat, sunk in Rockport Harbor between RYSCO and Rockport Shrimp Cooperative. Commissioner Rouquette reported that RYSCO is willing to assist Navigation crew to raise and remove boat. Commissioners concurred in this proposal.

Gilbert Hill, Sr., of the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department attended the Business meeting of the South Central Firemen's District meet at Falfurrias, January 21. He was presented a past president's badge for the year of 1972. Peggy Hunt of Rockport was awarded a past president's pin for 1972.

Currently the 16-AAA race is up for grabs, so there has been no date and time announced for the clash, but it will be decided after a game between Mercedes and the winner of Tuesday night's Rio Grande City-Edcouch - Elsa game Friday night.

The Kinsey Report

T. B. Budd, a retired gentleman from Houston who with his wife now lives at Mobile Inn Trailer Park, drove downtown Tuesday afternoon and pulled into a service station for gasoline.

The attendant put the nozzle in the gas tank and then raised the hood to check the oil. Mr. Budd and the attendant noticed a bunch of dead grass stuffed in the right-front part of the car near the radiator and under the hood.

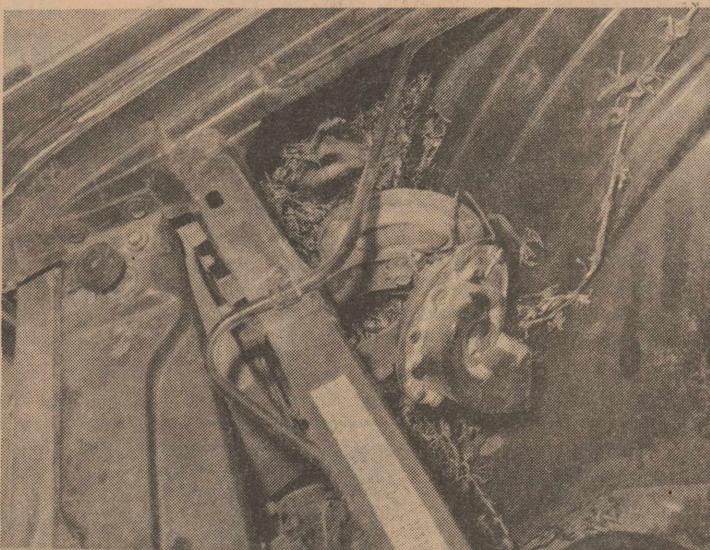

Looking more closely, they saw a possum (as shown in the accompanying photo). The attendant carefully closed the hood, and Mr. Budd drove to the Pilot office to show the newspaper folks his unusual find.

Mr. Budd assumes that the possum is about ready to have little ones and she figured a place under the hood of the car would be a good place to build a nest and get ready for the arrival of her babies. He said he planned to carefully remove the possum from the car Tuesday night and place her in a wooded area and wish her well.

As they say about newspaper people, you run into interesting people and things just about every day.

Credit Cards To Be Honored By AP Ford Dealer

Commercial Motor Company, 160 S. Commercial Street in Aransas Pass has joined a Ford Motor Company program that offers the first national credit card plan for dealership service customers.

The plan, according to W. E. Boehnke, president of Commercial Motor Company—the local Ford dealer—makes credit card purchases at participating Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealerships available to anyone who holds any of five major cards—Master Charge, Bank Americard, American Express, Diners Club and Carte Blanche.

Boehnke said under the program his dealership will honor all five credit cards for all parts and service transactions. "Credit card shopping has become a way of life with today's fast-moving consumers," Boehnke said. "About 40 percent of all U. S. families hold one or more of these five cards. Many people have come to expect this convenience from retailers—especially women who now are frequent service customers at our dealership."

The credit plan announcement falls under a continuing service improvement program launched last fall by Ford and its dealers. Having as its goal and theme, "No Unhappy Owners," the program also includes a written guarantee on repairs to both new and used cars, and prizes for dealership mechanics who turn out high quality work.

Walker, Stewart Exchange Vows

Miss Rosemary Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale R. Walker, Crystal City, became the bride of Larry Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Stewart, Rockport, on Friday, Jan. 5, 1973, at First Baptist Church in a beautiful candlelight, double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Bruce Stovall of Meadow, Texas.

The altar arrangement of lavender and white gladioli were flanked by purple candles in spiral candelabra graced with English ivy. A 15-branch candelabra centered the altar with baskets of Boston fern enhancing the lovely setting.

Mrs. R. C. Tate, at the organ, played nuptial selections and accompanied the vocalists. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Margaret Evans, cousin of the bride, sang Gounad's "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee."

After the exchange of vows as the couple knelt at the altar, Mrs. Nancy Small, sister of the bride, sang Dunlap's "The Wedding Prayer."

Following the benediction and preceding the recessional, both Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Small sang "Give Me A Vision." The cousins were dressed in identical purple velvet Empire gowns with full sleeves.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Empire gown and chapel length train of her own design. The gown was of white transparent velvet, polyester chiffon and Alencon lace.

The full chiffon sleeves with velvet cap and cuff were edged with pearls and fitted to the wrist with five covered buttons. Pearl clusters trimmed the chiffon inset and the lace trimmed bodice.

Matching lace edged the full length veil as it fell from the crystal coronet to chapel train. She wore a cameo necklace, a gift of the groom. Her cascade bouquet was phalaenopsis and English ivy.

Mrs. Small, one of the soloists, also served as her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Jenelle Stewart, sister of the groom from Rockport, Suzanne Marshall and Kathy Pedigo, Crystal City, and Carla Kusenberger, Stonewall. Lovely little Miss Jamie Byrd was flower girl, and Master Douglas Studebaker, Abilene, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

All bridesmaids wore identical Empire gowns of purple velvet and flared polyester with full sleeves. They carried nosegays of purple violets and gypsophylla. All of the bride's attendants wore up-sweep hairdos with fresh violets in their hair.

The flower girl strewed violets in the bridal path. All wore necklaces of hand-painted porcelain, done by the bride's mother.

Donna Gregorcyk, John Hedges Married

Donna Sue Gregorcyk of Rockport and John R. Hedges of Austin were married Feb. 9 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Utah C. Hamilton of Rockport.

The bride wore an empire gown of pink shantung with a jacket and long sleeves.

Maid of honor was Mrs. Marvin O. Vaught of Austin, sister of the bride, Marvin O. Vaught of Austin was best man. A reception followed.

After a wedding trip to Brownsville the couple will live in Austin.

They wore tuxedos with jackets of black brocade with rose inset, lavender ruffled shirts and black bow ties. The groom wore a black double-knit brocade suit and a white ruffled tuxedo shirt with black trim.

Eddie Walker, brother of the bride, and Benet Stewart, brother of the groom, served as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a dark, fitted, full-length jacket over a full-sleeves, geometric print dress. Her corsage was of white roses.

Mrs. Stewart, mother of the groom, wore a blue polyester crepe with pleated skirt dress and her corsage was also white roses.

Corsages for the grandmother, Mrs. Ed Walker and Mrs. William Powell, the organist and soloist were of cimbidium orchids.

The wedding reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. At the bride's table white crocheted lace over purple covered the table. The floral arrangement contained white spider mums and purple statice centered with five purple candles.

Miss Jill Ray, Crystal City, and Miss Linda Bradshaw, Carrizo Springs, served the three-tiered cake created by the bride's mother.

The groom's table was covered with white crocheted lace over green. Both crocheted cloths were made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Ed Walker. The table held a German chocolate cake and coffee was served from a Chantilly silver service.

patrick, Corpus Christi served.

Mrs. Margaret Evans kept the bride's book where approximately 200 guests registered.

Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers of the President's Economic Stabilization Program is provided by the Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service.

Q: Under Phase III, are price increases completely without limitations?

A: No. The general standard for price adjustments permits price increases above those lawfully in effect on January 10, 1973, to reflect increased costs so long as the profit margin does not increase over that which prevailed during the base period. As an alternative, prices may be increased by a weighted annual average of 1.5 percent to reflect increased costs, without profit margin limitations. Adjustments in excess of these standards may be made only when necessary for efficient allocation of resources or to maintain adequate levels of supply. The principles and policies in the Price Commission's regulations in effect on January 10, 1973, may be used in applying this standard.

Q: Are mandatory controls in effect for any particular segments of the economy?

A: Yes. Mandatory wage and price controls are still in effect for firms involved in food processing and food retailing, the health services industry, and the construction industry. The voluntary program previously in effect regarding interests and dividends will also be continued. There are also special rules applicable to public utility rate increases.

Q: How are food processors and food retailers controlled under the Phase III Economic Stabilization Program?

A: Food processors will be required mandatorily to comply with Phase II regulations, somewhat modified, including prenotification and approval of cost-justified price increases. Food retailers will be held to present margin markups. Minor administrative modifications will be made. Pay units in the food processing and retailing industries will continue to be covered by Phase II regulations.

Q: Are doctors, dentists, hospitals and other health providers still subject to mandatory controls?

A: Yes. The Phase II con-

Thursday, February 15, 1973

controls applicable to the health services industry will continue with minor modifications.

Q: Has the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee been abolished?

A: No. The Construction Industry Stabilization Committee will continue its work with the twin goals of improving the bargaining structure in the industry and achieving additional progress in bringing the rate of wage growth in this sector into line with the general wage growth in the economy.

Q: Are there restraints on interest and dividend rates?

A: The Phase II voluntary program will be continued under the direction of the Committee on Interest and Dividends.

Q: How will the Cost of Living Council and the Internal Revenue Service monitor price and pay increases?

A: This will be done by reviewing reports received from firms and employee units, spot checks and audits of firm records, and analysis of government and trade data, such as the wholesale and consumer price indexes.

Home and Garden Club Meets

The Feb. 8 meeting of the Rockport Home and Garden Club was held in the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church. Mrs. Jim Wade was hostess and Mrs. Tom McClung, co-hostess.

There were 20 members present and four guests. Guests were Mrs. Lynn Wendell, Mrs. Richard Beck, Mrs. Cecil Phelps and Mrs. Jowell M. Hearn, Jr.

Members responded to roll call by sharing gardening projects accomplished the past month and gardening tips.

The club was urged to attend the District VII Spring Convention to be held in Corpus Christi, Feb. 14-15 and a program sponsored by the Corpus Christi Council of Garden Clubs on Feb. 16, featuring Bob Thomas. Mr. Thomas is an international lecturer on floral design and is from St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mrs. B.F. Street, Jr., Arbor Day chairman, gave a brief report on the Heritage Oak tree, bought and planted by club members in Navigation Park. She expressed her thanks to her committee and Mrs. Tom McClathery for taking pictures for the paper.

Mrs. McClathery, Community Service-Exhibit chairman, discussed the forthcoming flower show tea. The club voted to: 1. Hold Flower Show-Tea on Thursday, May 10 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Eckman, from 3-6 p.m. 2. Invite public with each member extending special written invitations to guests, within the city and out-of-town. 3. Guests may make donations, with money to be used for some club project.

Mrs. Jessie Jamison, national accredited flower show judge, teacher, lecturer and past president of the Corpus Christi Council of Garden Clubs, presented a program on "Basic Design and Flower Arrangement Placement."

Mrs. Jamison talked about the principles of good design as she worked with several arrangements, and pointed out the only way to learn is by doing. The principles by which a design is judged are: balance, proportion, scale, dominance, contrast and rhythm.

"Following these principles of design can make the difference between your arrangement looking like a work of art, or just flowers haphazardly stuck in a vase. These same principles also apply when placing furniture, choosing clothes, landscaping or painting. You have used them so often that you probably will find that you are applying them instinctively, but a conscious knowledge of these rules and how to apply them will give you confidence," Mrs. Jamison added, "and confidence is important, because creating an arrangement to be judged in a flower show can prove to be most unnerving."

Most flower arrangements fall under three headings: Line arrangements, which the Japanese do so well; mass arrangements, which are full bouquets, and mass-line, not so sparse as line or as abundant as mass," Mrs. Jamison stated.

In making an arrangement, Mrs. Jamison chooses her flowers and container. She keeps the container simple, letting the flowers be the focal point. Next she plans which mechanical aids are needed to hold the flowers and then fastens securely. She then proceeds to establish the main lines of the arrangement—making a skeleton of the shape she wishes her finished arrangement to be. Last she fills in the needed flowers and foliage being careful not to lose the main lines of the arrangement.

Mrs. Jamison will be one of the three national accredited judges who will judge the clubs' Flower Show-Tea in May.

The following members brought arrangements for evaluation: Mrs. B. F. Street, Mrs. Tom McClathery, Mrs. Kay Thomas and Mrs. Joe Hugenburg.

Mrs. James Bracht donated eight "Flower Arrangement Workbooks" to the club library.

Episcopal Women Plan Party

Mrs. Maurice Cochran will be hostess to women of St. Peter's Episcopal Church at her home at 1:30 on February 20. Games of bridge and canasta will be enjoyed, and if you do not wish to play, come and bring your sewing. All Episcopal women of the community are welcome. Please call 729-6907 the day before if you plan to attend. Visiting Episcopal women are cordially invited.

Writer Says Texas Has It All

The following article appeared recently in the Fremont (Ohio) News-Messenger and was written by Jim Daubel after he visited various places in Texas, including Rockport. While here, he was entertained and escorted on tours by Rockport Chamber of Commerce officials.

Daubel's article follows: Unless you prefer parlor games, weather—especially the bad kind—is tough to avoid.

For a long time I was convinced that a former associate, Elyria outdoor writer Don Miller, dragged his own personal black cloud around like a kite on a string.

Whenever we sneaked away from the office together it rained, snowed, blew or froze us into wishing we had taken up chess.

My theory about Miller was unshakable until a recent trip to Texas. But ever since then my shaving partner has been glancing suspiciously at me from the mirror every morning.

The outing was a year in the planning. Three Ohio writers—Tom Buskirk of Columbus, Dick Seitz of Marysville, and I—were guests for a week of the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

We planned a whirlwind tour of the huge state, flying some 700 miles to different hunting and fishing stops on six different days of our stay.

Our host, pilot Elmer C. Whiddon, Jr. of Austin, was to meet us in Lufkin where we would fish Sam Rayburn Reservoir for largemouth bass before hopping west and south to hunt exotic game, whitetail deer, geese and to saltwater fish in the Gulf and bass fish once again.

A cold front preceded our arrival by commercial airline into the East Texas town of Lufkin. Whiddon had somebody meet us. Socked into Austin by bad weather, he would drive over, arriving late.

A bad omen? Apparently not. I thought to myself about two hours later as I hauled the second of back-to-back five-pound-plus bigmouth bass from the stumps of vast Rayburn Reservoir.

The weather worsened Tuesday. A dripping fog shrouded our departure from Nacalina Motor Lodge for the short hop to Rayburn. Once on the lake, angry clouds overhead split rain, belched thunder and shot tongues of lightning all around us.

By the time Mother Nature calmed down, we had only a few hours of fishing time left. Whiddon arrived the night before by car and we would have to leave about noon to reach Kerrville in West Texas by nightfall.

Whiddon had hoped to pick up his plane on our way through Austin to Kerrville but the low ceiling prevented it.

At Kerrville we bedded down early and arose at 5 a.m. under clear skies and a howling wind to hunt the Priour Ranch about 15 miles west, near Ingram, Texas.

Operated by brothers, Dale and J. W. Priour, Jr., the 8,000-acre ranch is home to exotic game, including Indian blackbuck antelope, Japanese silka deer, European fallow deer, the beautiful Indian axis deer, aoudad sheep from North Africa, Sardinian mouflon rams and other animals foreign to the United States.

Unable to keep their ranches going by grazing beef, sheep or goats in that sparse land, many Texans have taken to stocking exotic species that can adapt to the hill country.

Guaranteed hunts vary in cost according to the animal bagged, from $200 for a Corsican ram or native whitetail deer to $750 for the rare and beautiful blackbuck.

Native game, like whitetail and wild turkey, can be hunted only in season but imported animals can be gunned year-round.

Although it is a preserve, hunting the Priour Ranch is not like shooting fish in a barrel. Animals range over 600 to 1,000 acres in different sections of the ranch.

We chased, tracked, stalked and waited for the trophies we wanted nearly all day in the fierce wind which dropped the chill index near zero. By hunt's end we collected a fallow deer, silka deer, mouflon and two Spanish goats, not to mention the rawest windburned faces in West Texas.

The next day the 25-mile-an-hour "Texas breeze" lingered as we hunted in vain over the 8,000-acre RNK Ranch for whitetail deer. Located several hours southwest of Kerrville, the RNK is dotted with Indian caves which we explored on a horseback trip into the canyons.

The wind calmed and we fished under partly sunny skies on Amistad Reservoir on the Texas-Mexican border on Friday. It was odd catching bass on topwater lures in December but several fair-sized fish bit on the surface and came to net on a generally slow day.

Still traveling by car, as we were destined to do throughout the week, we were in Rockport Saturday where we had to cancel a bay fishing trip because of thick fog, and were relegated to fishing area canals from shore.

On Sunday the front stayed put, which was fortunate for our goose hunt from blinds on private land adjacent to the Aransas Wildlife Refuge. We bagged our limits of Canadas but missed out on snow geese, which are in short supply on the coast this year.

If the weather that nagged at us throughout the trip wasn't bad enough, en route home, we were iced in temporarily in Dallas by the worst storm to hit the South in years.

And to complete the irony, the day after our return to Ohio featured the freezing rain-storm which stranded airline passengers across the Midwest.

Included was my mother-in-law, who had visited from Minneapolis during my absence. But that's another story.

D. C. GERLACH DIES

Funeral services for Damon Chester Gerlach were held at St. John's Episcopal Church in Palacios January 31, with the Rev. George S. Parrigin and the Rev. James Abernathy officiating. Masonic graveside services were held in the Palacios Cemetery.

Born May 9, 1905, in Columbus, Ohio, he was a resident of Fulton for many years. He was married to the former Clara Ellis, who preceded him in death on November 25, 1970. He passed away January 29 in Kerrville, Texas.

If you want to live a long time, maintain the will to live; it's better than medicine.

HOW TO GET A LOT FOR A NICKEL WITH AN ELECTRIC DRYER

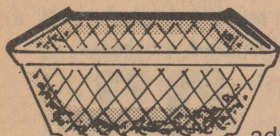

HELPFUL HINTS ON GETTING THE BEST USE OF YOUR ELECTRIC DRYER.

Electric clothes drying costs only 5¢ a load... and what a load of convenience you can get for that nickel.

For regular drying, save up a full load of laundry to dry at one time, instead of frequent small loads. You'll save money and energy.

Dry big items like blankets or bedspreads separately or in small loads. Adding one or two large fluffy towels will help heavy material dry faster, use less electricity and save wear on fabrics.

Keeping the lint screen on your dryer clean is another way to save electricity. Built-up lint adds to drying time because it restricts the flow of air.

Load your dryer with just enough clothing so things tumble freely. They'll dry faster and come out fluffier.

Take advantage of your electric dryer's permanent press cycle. It tumbles clothes with and without heat, allowing fibers to return to their original pressed-in shape. To prevent wrinkles, remove permanent press, as well as most clothing, the minute the dryer stops.

For other tips, check the instruction booklet or call your local CPL office. Our home economist will be happy to help you.

Housing Counseling Service for Veterans

A. A. Hunter, Director of the Houston Regional Office of the Veterans Administration, revealed today a new counseling service for home buying veterans will be available in Houston beginning February 20. Mr. Hunter said the counseling service is offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. as a convenience to those who work during the day. Veterans are counseled on an appointment basis only. Appointments can be made by calling 226-5638.

The purpose of the VA home counseling program is to advise the potential homebuyer of the technical and financial aspects of home buying. "In their anxiety to become homeowners, they overlook factors that should be taken into consideration when taking on the responsibility of such a long-term investment," explains Mr. Hunter.

The potential veteran homebuyers are counseled concerning proper home selection (location, access to jobs, schools, etc.), budgeting, home care and buying within their means. In other words, they are assisted in all phases of homebuying with an objective of making home ownership a sound investment.

The Director added that "all veterans who are eligible for home loan benefits are encouraged to take advantage of this new service."

Doings at the Dunes

By VIOLA REYNOLDS

Mrs. Marilyn McMahon of Houston came last Monday to spend a few days with her mother, Mrs. C. H. Alter.

Game night was well attended Friday by 27 members and 4 guests. The snack table carried many specialties of the ladies which everyone enjoyed. Cribbage, which is gaining in popularity, was played at 3 tables, and of course there were 2 tables of Texas dominoes.

Mrs. Bertie Ament came from Dallas where she has been visiting the past few weeks to get her travel trailer. She left the Dunes Saturday for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to spend the remainder of the winter.

Mrs. Grace Wakefield of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, arrived last Monday to be a houseguest for a few weeks of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Morton.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Meek of Louisburg, Kansas have been houseguests of their friends, Bob and Viola Reynolds this past week.

Sunday evening 32 residents and guests at the Dunes enjoyed the slide show of the Bethel Adult Education Foundation tour of Japan and other Far East countries filmed by the Laurence Rasmussens. They were members of the large tour that spent 22 days in 1971 visiting churches in the East who are carrying the Christian religion to these people. To make it even more like a "picture show" was the corn popped on the spot by Lols O'Dell and served hot to the audience.

Tax Payers Ask IRS

Q: Is it true that the standard deduction has been increased for the 1972 tax year?

A: The percentage standard deduction has been increased. Instead of multiplying your adjusted gross income by 13 percent, now you multiply by 15 percent. The top limit was $1,500. Now it is $2,000.

Q: How can I tell whether I should itemize my deductions or choose the standard deduction?

A: It usually will be to your advantage to itemize deductions if: you are a homeowner paying interest and taxes; you had unusually large medical and dental expenses during the year; you paid alimony; suffered a major uninsured casualty loss; or made large contributions to qualified charities. This year many taxpayers will be taking advantage of the increased standard deduction. Your tax form instructions contain a formula you may use to determine which method you should select.

Q: When can I expect to get my W-2 form?

A: Employers are required to issue W-2 statements to their employees by January 31. Many, however, issue them sooner for the convenience of those employees who are expecting a refund and want to file early.

Q: Are there any limits on how much my husband and I may claim for babysitting and maid service expense incurred while I am out working?

A: You are allowed a deduction of up to $400 per month for expenses for dependent care and household services provided in your home: 1) if your dependent is under 15 and you are entitled to claim an exemption for him; 2) if your dependent is physically or mentally incapable of caring for himself, regardless of age. Of course, these expenses must be incurred to enable you to be gainfully employed and you must furnish over half the cost of maintaining the household that includes the dependent.

For more details, including the income limitations on the deduction, see IRS Publication 503, "Child Care and Disabled Dependent Care." It's available free by writing your Internal Revenue district office.

Q: Where can I get a copy of your income tax guide?

A: A copy of "Your Federal Income Tax," Publication 17, may be purchased for 75 cents from your IRS district office, many post offices throughout the country and the Government Printing Office in Washington, D.C. If you operate your own business, you may also be interested in Publication 334, "Tax Guide for Small Business," which you may also purchase for 75 cents.

Q: Each year I hear of cases where refunds are delayed because taxpayers make errors on their returns. What are some checks I can make to avoid an error and get my refund faster?

A: To insure the prompt processing of your return, you should check the following before sending your return: (1) Recheck all your mathematical computations; (2) Be sure you used the correct tax table or tax rate schedule; (3) Be sure you used the peel-off label that came on the cover of your tax package. (If you don't have the label, print name, address, and Social Security number in the spaces at the top of the front of Form 1040 or Form 1040A.); (4) Be sure that your return is signed and dated; joint returns must have the signature of husband and wife; (5) Be certain all W-2's and supporting documents are attached.

FISH TOURNEY WINNER — Lloyd Prock, retired rural mail carrier from Stigler, Okla., won a weekly prize in the Chamber of Commerce fishing tournament for winter visitors. For catching a 6½-pound trout in Redfish Bay and weighing it in at Wilson & Son, he was awarded a gift certificate from Wagley Lumber Co., supplied by Sipe Real Estate Co. Prock has been vacationing in this area for 25 years.

Watching Your Weight

AUSTIN -- With a bit of imagination and a dash of color, Texas seafoods offer the dieter an ocean of low-calorie variety.

Cindy Gray, home economist for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, says the possibilities are endless for light lunches, satisfying suppers, and sensible snacks. Seafood also offers a high-protein way to start the day.

To stay with a diet until you reach a goal, you need foods that give a sense of satisfaction as well as nourishment. Fish and shellfish give you both vitality and a wonderful, well-fed feeling because in addition to being high in protein, they are 85 percent digestible and rich in energy-giving vitamins and minerals.

Here's a recipe which will help you stay slim with seafood. Other recipes for dieters are contained in a brochure, "Stay Slim With Seafood," available from "Seafood," Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

If your youngsters get lost, find they're going to be late or need to reach you in an emergency, can they phone you? Or, can someone call home for them? We're offering an Emergency Phone Call Card. For children's use and parents' peace of mind. No charge. It's a billfold-size card with room for your child's name, address and home phone number. If you can't be reached there's space for the numbers of a trusted friend or relative, and the family doctor. There's also a slot for a dime.

To order your card—or cards—write: Southwestern Bell, P. O. Box 972, St. Louis, Missouri 63188.

Aviation Magazine Tells Story Of Whooping Cranes' Winter Home

AVIATION TRAVEL, in its January-February issue, published the following article titled "The Whooping Cranes' Winter Home." The article was the result of co-operative efforts on the part of the Rockport Chamber of Commerce, Texas Tourist Development Agency and Corpus Christi Area Tourist Bureau.

The article follows:

The protection of endangered species of wildlife has been of increasing concern to many in this country in recent years. All of us welcomed the good news that the Whooping Crane, almost extinct a few years ago, is slowly increasing in numbers again under strict conservation measures followed in this country and Canada.

We have asked Elmer Whiddon, Jr., of the Texas Tourist Development Agency to tell the readers of AVIATION TRAVEL how they may actually see these famous birds at their winter home in the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge on the coast near Rockport, Texas. This can be a unique fly-in experience. Be sure to bring your cameras and binoculars with you.

By Elmer Whiddon, Jr.
The Texas coast is still being discovered by those seeking a comfortable place to spend the winter. Migratory birds discovered the place long ago. And now, the long time winter residents-the birds-are providing the area a top attraction.

The spotlight of international publicity focuses each fall on the Rockport area of the Texas coast when the world waits to count its whooping cranes. In 1941 there were only 15 of the big birds. By last fall, thanks to concerted conservation efforts, the number had increased to 80. Twenty-one were in captivity and the other 59 were wintering at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge near Rockport on the state's mid-coast. This year's count probably won't be complete until December, but it is known that the cranes made 16 nests during the summer.

The wild whoopers stay in Texas until late March each year, then they wing their way north some 2,500 miles to Canada. There they nest in Wood Buffalo National Park only 400 miles from the Arctic Circle. In late October they return again to Texas.

The most popular way to view the rare birds is to drive to the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge. Almost 90,000 persons visited the wildlife preserve last year.

For the flying visitor, the nearest airport is Aransas County at Rockport. With three paved 4,500 foot runways, lights, unicom (122.8), all fuel and repair services (8 a.m.-

6:30 p.m.) the airport is about 45 minutes drive from the refuge and 5-10 minutes drive from excellent restaurants and accommodations.

Rental cars are available at the airport and courtesy cars from several resorts/motels make airport pickups. Reservations are recommended for both rental cars and accommodations. A unicom call 30 minutes prior to landing will assure that your ground transportation is ready on arrival.

To get to the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge from Rockport, one travels State Highway 35 North for 23 miles, then turns right on Farm Road 774/2040 for another 15 miles.

The refuge is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Upon entering, the first stop is the reception center. Here a fee of one dollar per car is collected and visitors may view informative displays of animal and bird life found on the refuge. In the reception center one also gets the latest information on the cranes' whereabouts and a checklist of the refuge's wildlife.

Going to the refuge does not assure that one will see the big birds for they range widely over the park's 47,000 acres on the Blackjack peninsula. There is a 20-mile tour loop road system one may travel in hopes of sighting the whoopers. Field glasses are a necessity for watching the cranes and a telescope may be even more desirable. A favorite observation point is the 40-foot tower which is equipped with a high powered telescope.

Even if one fails to see the whooping cranes, a trip to the Aransas Wildlife Refuge is a day well spent. The area abounds with some 300 species of waterfowl and song birds. Driving the tour loop, it is not uncommon to count 50-75 white tail deer, along with delegations of javalina, wild turkeys, and wild hogs (part European boar weighing up to 400 pounds).

Sharp-eyed visitors may also sight bobcats, coyotes, foxes, raccoons, alligators and a host of other wild animals.

For the hikers, the refuge has two new trails and is working on a third. Open now are the Dagger Point and Big Tree trails. The Dagger Point trail, with routes of 1 1/2 mile and 1 1/2 miles, leads to an area where the pirate Jean Lafitte is said to have camped in the early 1800s. The Big Tree trail, 3/4 of a mile long, traverses a photogenic section of huge 400-500-year-old live oak trees. Being constructed is the Herron Flats trail through the bay marshland where visitors may gain a closer view of waterfowl.

Perhaps the surest way of seeing the rare whooping cranes is to board the 65-foot motor vessel Whooping Crane. The excursion boat, which operates out of Sea Gun Marina near Rockport and not from the refuge, schedules bird watching cruises Wednesdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

Departing promptly at 1:30 p.m. and returning about 6 p.m., the Whooping Crane regularly receives "excellent" ratings from its passengers. Skipped by Francis Melvin "Brownie" Brown, the shipshape vessel can carry up to 249 guests. In addition to viewing decks, it has a spacious lounge and snack bar. Brown himself calls attention to birds and points of interest during the trip.

Many a VIP has made the excursion and at the slightest suggestion Brown proudly breaks out the old guest books. Costs for the cruise are $5 for adults and $3 for children under 10.

It is a gross error to leave the vicinity without enjoying one's fill of the outstanding seafood available. Among the bevy of fine dining places is the Sea Gun Restaurant just across the street from where the Whooping Crane docks. There, under the supervision of Ed Layschock, some of the best seafood to be found anywhere is prepared.

Excellent overnight accommodations are also plentiful in the Rockport area. Among them are Sea Gun Sports Inn, The Sandollar Resort Hotel and Key Allegro Motel where one may fish from his balcony and keep check on the latest fishing and weather reports by listening to a marine band radio.

Additional information on the Rockport area, may be obtained from the Texas Tourist Development Agency, Dept. AT, Box 12008, Austin, Texas 78711.

Houston Post Columnist Writes Three Articles on Rockport Area

Leon Hale, widely read columnist for the Houston Post, wrote three articles about the Rockport area earlier this month.

The articles follow under the headings "Tomatoes Under Glass," "Guess What, Honey," and "Names and Conversation on St. Charles Bay."

"TOMATOES UNDER GLASS"

The Rockport area of the Texas coast has been drawing tourists for a long time, for several reasons. That Aransas National Wildlife Refuge is down there, and Goose Island State Park, and then you have some fine hunting and sport fishing, and a good bit of history that visitors seem to enjoy.

But blamed if I don't think the biggest tourist attraction at Rockport this winter is Melton Pearson's tomato crop.

Pearson lives on State Highway 35 a little way north of town, between Rockport and Fulton, that's where his tomatoes are growing, ripening on the vine right here in the middle of the freezingest winter we've had in 20 years and people are forever stopping at Pearson's place and wanting to come in and see the tomatoes.

Yes, come in, because the tomatoes are in a greenhouse. Pearson's got half an acre of them under glass.

A half-acre crop may not sound very big but it sure looks big when you see it--5,000 tomato plants.

If you ever tended to even a dozen tomato plants in the back yard, you can understand that growing half an acre of them in a greenhouse at this time of year is something like keeping 5,000 children indoors all winter. You got to watch 'em night and day.

Pearson has a bunch of helpers to do this. Two are his wife Bess and son Jimmy.

That tomato greenhouse is new. This is the first crop. The idea of the greenhouse is to grow tomatoes to market in winter and get the off-season premium. You have paid it, if you've ever gone in a store and bought any of those tomatoes with the little label that says "greenhouse" on them.

The Pearson greenhouse is a fancy setup. If the air inside it gets too hot, an automatic cooling system switches on. If it gets too cold--click--on comes the heat. The house has got a flock of refinements like that, so it's not cheap.

Pearson told me his investment on that half acre is around $70,000. "It's like growing tomatoes," he grinned, "on $140,000-per-acre land."

So you can see he is not just messing around with tomatoes for the fun of it.

Greenhouse experts say one plant properly managed in a greenhouse should produce 20 pounds of tomatoes. Pearson's plants are on schedule toward doing that. If they do, by the time he ends his season in May and yanks the plants out of the ground, his half acre will have produced 100,000 pounds.

You understand the plants keep right on growing and producing tomatoes month after month, from November to mid-May. Each is tied to an overhead wire so it stands straight up. As it grows and bears, the bottom branches are cut away from the main stem and the plant is lowered. So the main stem lies coiled up on the ground like a rope and it's just a pipeline, to send plant food to the new growth up above.

"When we pull these plants out in mid-May," Pearson told me, "they'll be 20 to 25 feet long."

Greenhouse tomato growing is not new but it's not common, either. Only about 75 acres in all the state now. The necessary capital to get in it scares growers off. Also, it requires a great deal of technical know-how. And sweat. And worry.

But there's no any doubt in my head that in the future, a lot of our food will be produced by this greenhouse method.

I'm especially interested in tomatoes, because I hate what's happened to the flavor of the ones I buy in the store. They just haven't got it any longer.

Melton Pearson is interested in flavor, too. He thinks his tomatoes taste good because of that sand they grow in, on Live Oak Peninsula there at Rockport. It's loose and porous and Pearson believes this allows the roots of his plants to take up plenty of the potassium in his fertilizer. Potassium, experts say, has a lot to do with tomato flavor.

I brought some of those tomatoes home and I'm grazing on them, and testing. I'm not ready to say yet that they taste exactly like I want a tomato to taste, but they're sure a sight better than those mushy things I've been eating.

"GUESS WHAT, HONEY..."

Just now I am sitting here wondering if you will believe me when I say that I'm down at Rockport and I've just got through riding around Aransas Bay in a Chinese junk.

It seems strange but it's true. A gent by the name of Bob Stroot owns the junk. It's none of your phony junks, either.

It's the genuine article, hand-made in Hong Kong by full-blooded Chinese junk builders.

Stroot keeps the junk tied up out on Key Allegro and people are always standing around, looking at it and wondering what in the whey a Chinese junk is doing on the Texas coast.

"I bought this boat just for fun," says Stroot, a talkative, smiling citizen who is retired from the Air Force. He is 55 but he and his wife have five children still at home. He insists a Chinese junk is a handy vessel to have for a man with five children.

"No, this isn't a commercial boat in any way," he says of the junk. "I don't charge to take people out. It's just a fun boat."

We boarded it and sailed around a while. Three of Stroot's friends went with us. Vol Williams, John Lewis and Carl Krueger. Not a one of them knows any more about a Chinese junk than I do. They just went along for the heck of it. So they could go home and say, "Honey, I rode on a Chinese junk today."

Although the boat is 40 feet long and 14 feet wide and equipped with a full set of sails, Stroot can operate it nicely without any help. The reason, it's also got a big diesel engine.

We eased along the Key Allegro channel and out into the bay while people on the shore waved and called to us and snapped pictures. Little children came running and old men gave us limp-jawed stares that said, "Well I'll be damned, a Chinese junk."

Stroot smiled and nodded and waved back at the public. You can see it's fun, going around in a Chinese junk like that. Listen, this man sailed his junk to Rockport all the way from St. Louis, last May. He came down, as I suppose you guessed, the Mississippi River. Took him about 20 days.

I expect now you're beginning to wonder what a Chinese junk was doing in St. Louis. Well, there was a big corporation executive (I don't remember his name, if Stroot told me) up there who just liked Chinese junks. He has owned two, the second of which is the one Stroot has now. It was built on special order and fixed up with a comfortable cabin and a head (as toilets are called at sea) and other refinements you don't find on Chinese junks in China. Although I understand that over there, entire families live on such boats.

I don't know what a junk fixed up like Stroot's would cost, but somebody there on board hinted at around $20,000. I wanted to get that in, in case you were starting to want one.

Stroot said the original owner paid $5,600 just to get the junk shipped to St. Louis, from Hong Kong via San Francisco and the Panama Canal and the Mississippi. So you can see that ordering junks from China is not for flippers.

When we got out in the bay Stroot switched off the engine and we proceeded under sail, as the saying is. Refreshments were served. Jokes were told. A very pleasant little voyage. You meet nice people in this line of work.

Stroot let me steer a while so I could go home and say, "Honey, I sailed a Chinese junk today."

"NAMES AND CONVERSATION ON ST. CHARLES BAY"

On a cold and blustery day I love to wander along the coast, not quite close enough to salt water to get my feet wet. I haven't figured out exactly how to say it yet, but I like the wind and the way the sea birds use it, and there's excitement in the sounds that rough water makes when it raps and rattles manbuilt things on shore, and there's mystery and fright in the low clouds and the dim light.

When the day is like that it's good to listen to the men who keep indoors in bayshore places and talk about what they would do, if the weather wasn't kicking up.

I was at Lamar, or near it. I went in a little place and sat with Jim Causey. He and his wife run a bait camp there, and a small marina, and Jim shrimps some. He was working on an engine off his boat, overhauling it, and he had it inside out of the weather on a sort of screen porch with orange curtains.

The wind trying to get around the curtain made it flap, constantly. Pop-pop-pop-bang-bang-pop-bang. But a curious thing was that it wasn't irritating, to sit there and talk above it. In an office, anywhere else, the noise would have sent you up the wall but there in Jim's place it was a part of the whole, and correct.

That bait camp is at the mouth of St. Charles Bay. In Aransas County, which has 276 square miles and more than half are water -- bays, inlets, coves, passes, channels, estuaries, bayous, creeks.

Causey is a big man in his 40's, I suppose, with smooth tan skin. He talked a while about getting around down in there, with a boat, in St. Charles and Copano and Aransas bays. And he mentioned a few of those ringing names that places in coastal water have. Names like Jay Bird Reef, East Pocket, Big Devil.

It made me go and buy a map, for $1.95 plus. Just to get all those names. Names that beckon and cry out to be run down and found out about. Blackjack Point, Lone Tree, Blind Pass, Italian Bend, Second Chain.

Mission Bay, Kenyon Island, Rattlesnake Point, Rincon de la Cera, Shellbank Reef, Turtle Pen.

Carlos Dugout, Steamboat Pass, Shoalwater Bay, Big Bird Island, Redfish Cove.

Dead Man Hole.

Some of what Jim Causey said:

"We got a lot of good fishermen put in here with us. Then of course we get some that don't catch fish because they're down here the first time and never have fished salt water. If they ask us how, why we'll tell 'em, but sometimes it goes in one ear and out the other."

"We get snowbirds in here. Some of 'em we get to know real well. One couple, from Wisconsin, they've got to be real close friends of my wife and me. Lots of tourists come around here, asking questions, wanting to know how we fish, talking about how they fish where they live."

"And they ask about getting lost in the bay. Well, you can't get lost, not in St. Charles. It's 16 miles long and there's not any way out of it. Not in a boat."

"We try to keep up with our fishermen that put in here, find out where they're going, when they mean to come back. Then if they don't, we can get a boat and go out and find 'em."

"The St. Charles Hunting Club, it's just behind us here. Real exclusive club. Tell me somebody's got to die, before you can get in. Well, you ought to see 'em, when they go out to hunt. Real early, long before day, and the charter boat'll be out there and all the skiffs tied behind it. Sixteen, maybe 17 skiffs, one behind the other and all lighted up."

"The hunters get on the charter boat and it takes 'em all out, pulling the skiffs, because it's four - five miles across Aransas Bay and it'll be cold and rough. Then when they come to a blind, one hunter will drop off in a skiff and his guide will take him to a blind, and it makes a sight, to watch 'em go out in the dark..."

Another name I like: Lap Reef Bank, in Copano Bay.

Presbyterian Circle Meets

Circle 2 of First Presbyterian Church met February 8 in the home of Mrs. Forrest Melton. Fourteen members, including new members, Mrs. Joe Slocum and Mrs. Mildred LeMaire, were served delicious refreshments by the hostess.

The meeting opened with all repeating the Lord's Prayer together. Reports were given by the secretary and the treasurer. Fifty-one cards were sent and twenty-nine visits were made by members.

The lesson, "The Tempted Nation," was moderated by Mrs. J. H. von Pein.

Mrs. Melton read the least coin prayer. The meeting closed by all repeating the Mizpah. Mrs. Joe Slocum will be hostess for the March meeting with Mrs. Peggy Holgren as moderator.

Many doctors now say that sterilizing bottles for babies' formula is not necessary if you make up each bottle separately just before feeding time.

There is plenty of evidence that loud noises such as amplified music can cause temporary and permanent hearing loss.

Before you start any exercise program, doctors recommend a complete physical check-up.

There is no drug that will undo changes in bone and cartilage caused by arthritis, but an effective painkiller will bring sufferers some relief.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, octogenarian heart specialist, still rides a bicycle. He says it promotes healthy circulation.

Safety warning: the "banana seat" with hi-rise handlebars, now a fad on children's bicycles, encourages the dangerous practice of riding double.

KATIE LEE CLARKE DIES

Katie Lee Clarke, 80, died Sunday in a Wharton nursing home after a long illness.

Born in Rockport, she had taught in local schools for about 50 years. Miss Clarke was a member of the Episcopal Church and had been active in the Business and Professional Women's Association. She was a member of the Rebekah Lodge and had a life membership in the Texas State Teachers Association. One year, she was voted Rockport's "Woman of the Year."

Funeral services were held Tuesday in St. Peter's Episcopal Church with burial in Rockport Cemetery under direction of Marshall Funeral Home.

She is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Franklin's Virtues

Temperance, silence, order, resolution, frugality, industry, sincerity, justice, moderation, cleanliness, tranquility, chastity and humility are the 13 "virtues" Benjamin Franklin tried to practice.

Miss Ellen Diane McElveen and Howard Murph were married in an impressive double ring ceremony February 2 at First Baptist Church. Rev. Charles Fake officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. McElveen, Sr., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Mount. Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Norman McLead. Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Bradley sang "Come Live Your Life With Me" and Rev. Fake sang "The Lord's Prayer" while the couple were kneeling on a traditional kneeling rail covered with white satin.

The altar was decorated with greenery and white candles, flanked on each side by white wicker baskets of white gladioli. The memory table was beautifully decorated with a floor length royal blue velvet cloth, accented with a white Bible, a gift from the groom's parents.

On each side of the table were silver candelabra, and after the vows were repeated the couple lighted the single memory candle. The table was framed by a single stained glass window with 14 white candles entwined with greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length Empire gown of white peau de sole and Alencon lace and a 12-foot train trimmed with Alencon lace which extended into a full circle. The waist length veil, a Juliet cap with seed pearls and rhinestones, was a family heirloom presented for use by the bride from an aunt, Mrs. L.G. Woolhal of Herdon, Va.

The full sleeves were of Alencon lace and cuffed and fitted to the wrist with six covered buttons. The dress was a family gown presented for use by the bride from Mrs. M. Wendell and Mrs. Marion McElveen.

The bride carried a bouquet of roses, entwined with satin ribbon streamers tied with lover's knots surrounding a solitary white orchid. The bride wore at her neck a strand of pearls, gift of her father and a delicate gold rose locket, gift of the groom's mother.

Miss Carrie Sue McElveen, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of floor length royal blue velvet, and wore a wristlet of sweetheart red roses, and carried a white candle centered in blue goblets. The bridesmaids wore identical dresses of red velvet, and were Miss Melanie Murph and Miss Emily Murph, twin sisters of the groom.

Junior bridesmaid was Katherine Morgan, and Lorri Morgan served as flower girl. They wore floor length dresses of red velvet and wristlets which were bouquets of red sweetheart roses.

Larry Murph, brother of the groom, served as best man, and groomsmen were Gerald Sanford and Juan Perez. Junior groomsmen were the brother of the bride, Gene McElveen, Ushers were L. G. Woolhal, uncle of the bride, and Ernest Ovenden. Ring bearer was Jason Bradley.

The bride's mother, Mrs. McElveen, wore a fitted, full length dress of aqua peau de sole, accented at the waist and neck with sequins. She wore a white orchid, and was escorted by L.G. Woolhal of Herdon, Va. The bride presented her mother with a single long stemmed red rose as she proceeded to the altar.

Mrs. Mount wore a floor length fitted dress of rose knit with a net inlay. Her corsage was a white orchid. The bride presented her mother-in-law with a single long stemmed red rose immediately after the vows were read.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was laid with a floor length white lace tablecloth. The white four-tier wedding cake was decorated with miniature roses and a bride and groom under a delicate archway topped the cake. The table was centered with the bouquet of roses and white orchids, the bride's bouquet, and was flanked with a cut glass punch bowl. Miss Susie Stephens served the punch and Mrs. Claudia Wendell served the cake.

The groom's table was laid with a royal blue velvet cloth, covered with white lace. The table was flanked with candles, and in the center a crystal bowl held a white candle framed with delicate greenery and with blue love birds attached. Chocolate mints, cake and coffee were served by Miss Melinda Mills, and Miss Bonnie McElveen. Rice bags were passed out by John McLain.

The bride's traveling attire was a navy blue knit dress with shoes to match. She wore a white orchid corsage with red accessories.

The register table was laid with white lace cloth and centered with a crystal bud vase with red roses. Approximately 200 guests were registered by Paula and Patricia McLain. Members of the house party were Mrs. Norman McLead, Mrs. Del McLain, Mrs. Eddie Bradley, Mrs. Ben Howard, Mrs. Sharon Wright, Mrs. L.T. Washburn, Mrs. Eugene Horton and Mrs. Jerri Ledbetter.

B.J. Crowley's HOROSCOPE

Week Of February 11

AQUARIUS -- Many intellectuals are born under the sign of Aquarius. They are most often original in their ideas and opinions. Their perceptiveness gives them the ability to communicate well. Lucky day for the Aquarian is Saturday, lucky numbers are 1 and 8 and best color is blue.

AQUARIUS -- Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 -- The early part of your week leaves you feeling smothered with responsibility. The latter part of the week finds you relaxed, enjoying very pleasant hours.

PISCES -- Feb. 19 to March 20 -- If at all possible allow yourself to sleep a little later in the mornings this week. You can accomplish far more with adequate rest. ARIES -- March 21 to April 20 -- Make an effort to become more well-poised. You have every reason to be self-confident. You can win friends by leaving the "I" out of your conversation as much as possible.

TAURUS -- April 21 to May 20 -- Make telephone calls you have been postponing. Be brief and to the point. Don't be taken up by idle chatter.

GEMINI -- May 21 to June 20 -- Understanding is reached this week concerning money matters over which there may have been words. You get your way as usual. CANCER -- June 21 to July 22 -- You seem to be extremely witty this week. Unwind by reading and watching TV during the evenings.

LEO -- July 23 to Aug. 22 -- Break your routine if daily tasks seem to bog you down. Take one day this week to do only those tasks you enjoy.

VIRGO -- Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 -- Events this week show a need for reflection. Analysis shows you are on the right track.

LIBRA -- Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 -- Be kind in dealing with people. A good offer comes for something you need to sell. Take it.

SCORPIO -- Oct. 23 to Nov. 22 -- Avoid extremes in word or action. Accept friendly gestures. Try not to criticize, complain or condemn.

SAGITTARIUS -- Nov. 23 to Dec. 21 -- Make every effort to be as attractive as you possibly can. Your wardrobe could use a boost.

CAPRICORN -- Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 -- Don't let selfishness stand in the way of the common good for your family. Try to get people to work together harmoniously.
