MINERS WAIT FOR ANSWER

Operators Considering Proposition for Compromise

TO HEAR MONDAY

Sentiment of Owners Believed o Be Against Acceptance of Arbitration Plan

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April .—Pending consideration by the anthracite operators of the offer of the mine workers of Eastern Pennsylvania to arbitrate the difference existing between the coal workers, the miners will make no move and will simply wait upon Monday for the mine owners' reply.

The operators are busily engaged on the miners' proposition. While they are practically agreed as to how they shall meet the offer, they will not draw up a formal answer until the members of the sub-committee have consulted all the interests involved. The sentiment of the sub-committee of the operators is distinctly against acceptance of the miners' offer, at least in its present shape.

The scale committee of the miners had a brief session today and took up the situation in the anthracite fields. After the meeting most of the members of the committee returned to their homes, where they met presidents of the local unions in the respective districts to receive reports of local conditions. President Mitchell will remain here while the operators are considering the miners' arbitration offer and attempt to catch up on routine work in his office.

The meeting of the international executive board of the miners' union, which had been set for next Tuesday at Indianapolis, has been postponed for a week because of Mr. Mitchell's inability to be present.

ARBITRATION PROPOSED

Bituminous Operators Favor Same Plan As Anthracite Men

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 6.—John H. Winder, president of the Ohio Operators' Association telegraphed President Roosevelt and President Mitchell of the miners' organization today from Charleston, W. Va., where the operators and miners are meeting, that the bituminous operators of Ohio propose to Mr. Mitchell to settle the strike in the bituminous district on the same terms Mr. Mitchell proposes to the anthracite operators, namely, by arbitration.

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 6.—There was almost a complete resumption of operations today in the mines of the Pittsburg Coal Company and its subsidiary, the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Coke Company. Chairman Robbins reported but four of their mines idle in the entire Pittsburg district, and one of these was shut down for repairs. Two concerns mined 40,000 tons yesterday and Chairman Robbins said today's tonnage would be much larger. By Monday next he expected normal conditions to prevail in all of the company's mines.

RICHARDS ARRESTED

"Lord Ashburton" Taken by Boston Police Department

By Associated Press.

BOSTON, April 6.—Charles F. Richards, also known as Lord Ashburton, who, the police say, has served several sentences in English and American prisons for extensive and clever swindling, was arrested here last night on suspicion of having passed worthless checks. He at first denied that he was Richards, but later admitted it, the police say.

Richards is said to have operated extensively in this country, many years ago and more recently to have been in England.

At the time John L. Sullivan was in the ring, Richards posed as a backer of the former champion and is alleged to have swindled many well known sports.

The police say that in 1878 Richards under the name of Lord Ashburton was accorded a public reception in San Francisco and that after his departure, spurious notes and letters and notes and letters of credit with a total face value of $250,000 were found to be in circulation. Two years later he was arrested in San Francisco for swindling.

RECORD PROTEST IS BEHIND TIME

British Auto Club Waited Most Too Long

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Scant consideration is likely to be given the protest lodged by the Automobile Club of Great Britain and Ireland against the records and victories of certain racing machines at the last Florida tournament by the racing board of the American Automobile association, according to today's Herald. There was no meeting of that board yesterday, as was expected, but there was a conference between the chairman of the board and W. K. Vanderbilt. Mr. Vanderbilt said that while abroad he talked with officers of the Automobile Club of France concerning the absence of differential gears in the racing machines and that he was informed that that club disclaimed responsibility of the cars without differentials.

"The British club was a little late in lodging its protest," was the only information vouchsafed by Mr. Thompson. He admitted that the complaint would be formally brought before the board, the first regular meeting of which will be held Monday next.

SENATOR ELKINS ANSWERS CRITICS

Denies Charge He Is Favorable to Railroads

Special to The Telegram.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—On the senate floor this afternoon Senator Elkins, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, answered those who had charged that he was a "railroad senator" and had conducted the hearing on the rate bill in the interest of the roads.

Senator Elkins said he had no interests which could influence him in matter; his desire being to serve the public. He said he was in hearty accord with the President, but the Hepburn bill as drawn is deficient and unconstitutional. He said he believed in rate regulation by the commerce commission. He believed the commission had power to fix rates. He believed in a review of rates by the courts, and in the suspension of the commission's orders by them, provided that money deposits are made by the carrier while the matter is in court.

In regard to his personal position, he said: "I stand first for the interests of the people of West Virginia, after that for the interests of the people of the United States. The charge that I favor railroads is so often repeated that I will say my interest on the side of the shipper is ten times greater than on the railroad side; that my interests in railways is confined to those of my own state."

STOCKMEN ARRESTED

Indictments by Oregon Grand Jury Charge Land Fraud

By Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 6.—F. Hilbert and J. L. Beckhusen, two stockmen, were arrested yesterday on indictments recently returned by the federal grand jury in connection with land frauds. The arrests of Hilbert and Beckhusen are said to be but the beginning of large number of arrests which are to follow as a consequence of numerous indictments which have been returned recently.

INSPECTOR IS RECOMMENDED

Grand Jury Urges Creation of Such Office

NEW BUILDINGS

Proper Care of Insane and Poor Declared Impossible at Present Time

A food inspector is recommended by the grand jury for the Seventeenth district court, which made final report to Judge Mike E. Smith Friday at noon and was discharged. The jury Friday returned ten bills of indictment, with the report, three of which charge felonies and seven misdemeanors. No arrests have been made in any of the cases.

The jury in the report makes a number of recommendations, one in the matter of reform in the poor farm and another in the matter of reform in the affairs of the county jail. The report follows:

"We have been in session twenty-four days and have examined 445 witnesses and have returned sixty-eight bills of indictment. We have made examination in the matter covered by special charges and have found evidences of breaches of the law against the sale of impure food products, and in this connection we beg to state that it is the opinion of the jurors that some system should be evolved whereby an inspector may be appointed to regularly care for the business of inspecting food products offered for sale in this city and county, particularly in the matter of fresh meats.

Jail Improvement Urged

"We have inspected the county jail and recommend that the interior be given a coat of whitewash; that the plumbing, especially on the second floor in the negro department, be immediately repaired, as the same is now in an unsanitary condition. We also recommend that an additional supply of clothing be obtained for inmates of the jail, as it is virtually impossible under present conditions to enforce proper sanitary methods on the part of the prisoners.

"Especial attention is called to the fact that the facilities for the care of insane prisoners are totally inadequate; at the present time there are as many as three insane prisoners in one cell.

New Buildings Recommended

"We have made personal inspection of the poor farm and find same being conducted as well as the present facilities will admit, but will state that the facilities for caring for the poor and sick are entirely inadequate. Under existing conditions it is necessary at times for as many as three or four who are suffering from no ailment to occupy the same room with seriously sick patients. We think this condition should be remedied.

"We recommend in this case that the county proceed at its earliest convenience to erect a commodious brick or stone building, provided with the latest sanitary improvements for the better care of the poor of the county; and that a suitable building be constructed and set aside for the temporary care of the insane, not of a dangerous character, while awaiting admission to the state institutions. It seems it would be more appropriate to care for such insane at the poor farm than at the county jail; and in this connection we beg to state that some patients who are awaiting admission to the state institutions have remained in jail for a period exceeding one year.

More Janitors Needed

"An inspection of the court house reveals the fact that the present allowance for janitor service is not adequate and we respectfully submit that it is impossible for the limited number of employes (two) to keep the court house in proper condition, and we recommend that the force be increased to three or possibly four in order that the building in all its departments be kept in first-class condition.

Elevator Recommended

"In this connection we recommend that the contemplated elevator be placed in position with the least possible delay.

"We also note that the roof and some of the plumbing of the court house is in bad condition, and recommend a thorough inspection and the curing of defects.

"The committee appointed to investigate the county's books and finances have reported everything in a satisfactory condition and that all officers have paid into the treasury all fees due the state and county as per their written report on file in this court.

"Foreman."

He is the fifth democratic senator to visit the White House for that purpose at the president's invitation. It is understood the President is encouraged at the prospects of the bill since he began conferring with the democrats. He believes he can get enough democratic votes for the bill with a limited judicial review to offset the loss of the recalcitrant republicans.

TWO DROWNED AT WICHITA FALLS

A. D. Anderson and F. B. Hardesty Perish in Lake

Special to The Telegram.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, April 6.—Up to noon today the body of F. B. Hardesty, who was drowned in the Wichita lake Wednesday night, had not been recovered, and searching parties were still dragging through the water in the hope of finding it. It is probable that if the body is not found by evening, dynamite will be used in an effort to bring it to the surface.

The body of A. D. Anderson, who was drowned at the same time Hardesty perished, was recovered last night.

Both Hardesty and Anderson were about 45 years of age and both leave families.

A hunting and fishing party of four, consisting of A. D. Anderson, R. M. Moore, F. B. Hardesty and J. W. Stone, went out to the lake early Wednesday morning to spend the day and night hunting and fishing. They occupied a hunting lodge belonging to Walter Reid and Harley Heath, at the upper end of the lake. In the evening it was discovered that the stock of provisions and coal needed replenishing, and Anderson and Hardesty volunteered to visit the city and secure a supply. They came, made their purchases and returned to the lake about 6:30 p. m. Here they left their buggy and secured a small launch or skiff and started across the lake to the rendezvous at the hunting lodge.

It is said the skiff was built to sustain only the weight of one person and that in addition to the two men in it, it was loaded with coal and feed for the party's horses. The boat had air compartments, but it has been found that one of these leaked.

Tragedy Discovered

Just where the boat sank and the men were drowned, has not been found. The lake covers about 3,000 acres, being six miles long and a mile and a half wide. The empty skiff was found Thursday morning by Mr. Deaton, who looks after the interests of the irrigation company here. Anderson's and Hardesty's companions, R. M. Moore and J. W. Stone, who had waited all night for their return, made their way around the lake to the dam, and seeing the capsized skiff, gave the alarm. A searching party was immediately organized.

A. D. Anderson was a leading member of the real estate firm of Anderson & Bean. F. B. Hardesty was a member of the firm of Hardesty & Diggs, livery men.

STARVING IN RUSSIAN JAILS

Political Prisoners Refuse to Accept Food

ELECTIONS ARE ON

Cossacks Are Called Out to Prevent Disturbance in Many Provinces

By Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 6.—Political prisoners with whom the jails are crowded, have declared a hunger strike, refusing to partake of food, to compel the authorities either to bring them to immediate trial or order their release. Many of the prisoners have been three months in jail without being confronted with the charges against them, notwithstanding the fact that Interior Minister Durnovo, in an official order made public some time ago, instructed the local officials throughout the empire to confront the prisoners within twenty-four hours with the charges which caused their arrest. But the police also received instructions to hold by administrative order all prisoners against whom no definite charges are to be brought. The decision of the political prisoners to starve themselves has increased the excitement caused by the election campaign here, which closes Sunday.

A strong detachment of Cossacks is patrolling the industrial quarters.

M. Shipoff, a prominent Zemstvo leader, heads the "Block" parties list of twelve candidates for election to the lower house of parliament. They are bidding strongly for progressive support by the announcement that they have severed all connection with the reactionists.

ELECTIONS ANNULLED

Russian Authorities Depose Members of Convention After Choice Is Made

By Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 6.—The elections by the constitutional democrats of the St. Petersburg district of Professor Paul Milukoff and M. Hessen as delegates to the provincial convention, have been annulled by the election committee on the ground that they are under indictment in connection with the suspension of their newspaper.

The committee replaced them by conservative candidates, who received scarcely a tenth of the vote given M. Milukoff and M. Hessen.

This action of the authorities has roused a storm in radical circles, because the committee did not take exception to the candidature before the balloting. Besides, Professor Milukoff was one of the prominent leaders of the constitutional democrats and was expected to become a power in the parliament.

The rigorous press regulations announced recently has been supplemented by the sweeping repressive measures making it a prison offense to spread false reports about government officials or troops which tend to produce publice excitement.

The penalty is multiplied if such reports result in actual rioting.

He was promptly ordered to get out of the building and stay where he would not come in contact with people, pending arrangements for isolating him in quarantine.

The county and the city authorities alternately refused to take charge of the man, each insisting it was the duty of the other, and the man is still in the court house yard.

The man says he is direct from Galveston.

CABBY RETURNS BARONET'S PURSE

$20 Bill and Havana for Recovery of $2,700

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The Times today says:

Sir Algernon Charles Coote, Ireland's premier baronet, who returned here a few days ago from Nashville, Tenn., where he had been attending the fifth annual international convention of the Student Volunteer Movement, expresses high appreciation of the honesty of our cabmen. Yesterday, just before leaving for Canada, Sir Charles drove in a hansom from his hotel to Wall street to cash a draft. He put the money in a pocketbook and put the book in an outside pocket of his top coat, which he carried over his arm. He drove back to the hotel immediately on leaving the bank and while passing through the corridor to take the elevator he suddenly missed his pocketbook. Just as he turned to retrace his steps, the cabman who had driven him to and from the bank came hurrying up with the pocketbook in his hand. He had found it lying on the seat of the cab. The wallet contained $2,700 in bills, mostly of large denominations. Sir Charles gave the cabman $20 and a cigar.

TO BUY BUSH TEMPLE

Texan Said to Be Closing Deal for Property

Special to The Telegram.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 6.—Negotiations for the sale of the Bush Temple of Music, North Clark stret and Chicago avenue, to William R. Humphrey of Texas are said to be practically concluded.

The deal, which is a complicated three-cornered affair, and which has been in process of negotiation for several months, also involves some downtown properties and a large tract of Texas land, which is to be given by Mr. Humphrey in part payment.

The University of Chicago was at one time a party to the deal to the extent of a proposed conveyance of the two former Hankins apartment house properties on the south side, acquired under foreclosure proceedings, but it is said the university is no longer interested in the deal.

The exact figures at which the Bush Temple is put in for are not known, but it is understood to be between $500,000 and $600,000. A trust deed covering the property, and given by Mr. Humphrey to the Royal Trust company to secure a bond issue of $200,000, five years, at 5 per cent, was filed for record yesterday, but it is stated that its filing was a mistake and that it will be withdrawn.

Insurance Magnates Slow in Returning From "Places of Retirement"

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Concerning the recent return to his home at Dobbs' Ferry of Andrew C. Fields, former manager of the supplies department of the Mutual Life Insurance Company and which only became known last night, the Times today says:

Mr. Fields' physician, Dr. C. J. Johnson of Dobbs Ferry, said last night that Mr. Fields had been all the time in Los Angeles, Cal., for his health and that he occupied a house there with his family all the time he had been so diligently sought after.

"I advised Mr. Fields," said he, "for the last four years to drop his business and take a rest. I advised him to take a trip to the south of France," said Dr. Johnson, "but Mrs. Fields would not make the ocean voyage. Last spring I again advised him to leave his work and take a rest, but there was a longer session of the legislature than usual. He would not leave Albany. He seemed to enjoy his work there."

Dr. Johnson declined to allow his patient to grant an interview, but said that Mr. Fields would face any charges made against him and that he would not again disappear.

President Peabody said yesterday that he was not aware that any suit against Fields was ready for institution, inasmuch as the accountants had not completed their examination of the supply department through which Fields' vouchers for Albany and other expenses were passed.

Augustus D. Juilliard, a member of the finance committee of the Mutual Life and the sub-committee of the finance committee that fixed former President McCurdy's salary, arrived here on the Baltic yesterday. This message will be laid before the trustees at an early date.

Word came to this city yesterday that Thomas D. Jordan, former comptroller of the Equitable society, will arrive here Monday.

Although the showers of cinders are diminished, people can be seen holding up umbrellas as a protection against the falling ashes.

ART BUT NOT UTILITY

New Chicago Postoffice Said to Be a Failure as Building

Special to The Telegram.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—There is a movement on foot to secure a new style of architecture as applied to public buildings, and particularly postoffices. Chairman Bartholdt of the house committee on buildings and grounds, is convinced that there has been too much attention in the past to external beauty, and too little thought expended on the purpose for which the structure was to be used.

The new Chicago postoffice is cited as the best example of what is meant. This was designed by Henry Ives Cobb, who drew a special salary of $4,000 a year for six years to superintend it.

When the building was finally completed it was found to be absolutely unfitted for postofffice purposes. It lacked all the things that a postoffice should have—light, air, room and a place for the wagons to come and get and deliver the mails. Apparently the only idea of the man who designed the structure was how it would look, on paper, from the outside. It was given a lovely dome, some ornate arches and pillars, and the specifications called for the expenditure of $6,000,000.

The new building is found much inferior, for all practical purposes, to the $50,000 temporary structure on the lake front, where the mail business was done while the new office was being constructed.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

HUDSON ACQUITTED

Brazoria County Man Absolved From Charge of Assassination

Special to The Telegram.

HEMPSTEAD, Texas, April 6.—The charge of murder against Jay Hudson of Brazoria county since a late date in August, 1903, was removed by a jury by a verdict of not guilty. Hudson was surrounded by his mother and other relatives in the court room when the verdict was rendered.

The charge on which Hudson stood trial was the murder of Andrew Fletcher in Brazoria county about Aug. 22, 1903. Fletcher, an elderly white man who resided alone, was the victim of assassination at his farm near Angleton, his murder being discovered several days after when decomposition was in an advanced stage.

SMITH ARRESTED

Young Man From Houston Taken at Waco on Serious Charge

Special to The Telegram.

WACO, Texas, April 6.—Chief of Police Ellis of Houston left Waco at noon today with Howard Smith, the young white man arrested here last night charged with theft of $2,500 from Contractor Neeley of Beaumont.

The money was left in the care of Smith as clerk of the hotel where Neely was stopping in Houston.

When arrested here Smith had $1,900.

NEW MEX. SHEEP AT GOOD PRICE

Fifteen Hundred Head Are Sold for $4.50

Special to The Telegram.

EL PASO, Texas, April 6.—Walter M. Tabor has closed a deal for 1,500 head of sheep for the Glorietta Mercantile and Live Stock Company at a figure which is said to have exceeded $4.50 a head. The sheep were purchased in the Cuervo district of San Miguel county, New Mexico, from Alfred Long, whose ranch is located 25 miles southeast of Cuervo. Mr. Taber found the range in that district in the best of condition, with the cattle in prime condition, and every indication pointing to a large lamb crop.

War of extermination will be waged by the ranchmen in Socorro county against the wolves, which have been causing great losses among the sheep. The wolves have become so rapacious that in some instances horses have been victims of the attacking animals. Both poisoning and shooting are being used with fairly good success.

Further west the difficulty is more with the rustlers than with four legged marauders. In the Santa Rosa valley of Arizona cattle rustlers have been conducting their operations with a high hand, and the ranchmen of the district have determined to permit no opportunity to escape to eradicate the evil. Territorial officers are on the lookout and every trace is being followed. The rangers hope to bring cattle thefts to an end.

The Arizona ranges are in prime condition. Dr. Bray, head of the local bureau of United States animal industry, has returned from the San Simon valley and neighboring districts and reports an abundance of water, with the valleys turning green rapidly.

In the Silver City district of New Mexico the Fleming Cattle Company has contracted to deliver to the Lyans & Campbell company 1,000 head of range stock. Delivery is to be made May 1. The prices are $12 for ones, $15 for twos and $18 for threes. The Lyons & Campbell company will ship to Colorado to fatten.

Spring cattle shipments out of this city are beginning on a small scale. Only a few carloads of cattle have moved as yet, but they are the forerunners of the movements to follow in greater volume, and indicate that the spring season has arrived for the cattlemen.

Mexican Central traffic officials give it out that that company's business to the coast ports has grown wonderfully in the last few months. The Yucatan demand is expanding rapidly, and Tampico and other ports are gaining in importance as cattle markets. The price offered is more advantageous than that in the home market, and the preference of the cattlemen is to ship their stock to the new market.

Sonora, Mexico, has suffered heavy losses on the cattle range. Flood torrents have caused great loss, not only to the farms but to cattle and sheep. The Yaqui river has ben swollen with water from its tributaries and the neighboring district has suffered.

A LOYAL CONSTITUENT

Experience of One Who Went to See Senator Tillman

A loyal constituent of Senator Benjamin R. Tillman named Swate went to Washington see the senator. He met him just at noon the other day, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean. The senator had something to say about President Roosevelt and was in a hurry.

"Come around to the senatorial gallery, Swate," he said, "and I'll get you a seat there. After I have finished on the floor I will come out and we'll have a visit."

The debate ran for two hours. Swate sat patiently and listened. At the end of that time he got up and said to the gallery doorkeeper:

"My name is Swate. I am a friend of Senator Tillman. He brought me here, and I want to go out and look around a bit. I thought I would tell you so I can get back in."

"That's all right," said the doorkeeper, "but I may not be here when you return. In order to prevent any mistake I will give you the password, so you can get your seat again."

Swate's eyes rather popped out at this.

"What's the word?" he asked.

"Idiosyncrasy."

"What?"

"Idiosyncrasy."

"I guess I'll stay in," said Swate.

WHISTLE LEADS TO AN ARREST

Purse Snatcher and Negro Have Same Chords

Peculiar whistle heard by Mrs. A. F. James of 915 Lamar street, who was the victim of a purse snatcher Sunday night, has led to the arrest of Will Vincent, colored, on a charge of theft.

The robbery occurred almost in front of Mrs. James' home as she was returning from a call she had been making in North Fort Worth.

Mrs. James says her attention was attracted by the peculiar whistle of some one coming along behind her.

When she left the postoffice on her way home she took the precaution to conceal what money she had with her in her waist and carried in her handbag nothing but a few cards.

Thursday night a negro appeared at the home of Mrs. James seeking a negro woman who had formerly been there. When he was informed that she was no longer there he started away and as he went he began to whistle. Mrs. James says she recognized the whistle as the one she had heard three years ago when a negro worked for her and also as the one she had heard Sunday night. Going out on her porch she called to him and asked where he was then living The negro gave the information which was followed by his arrest by Detective Al Ray Friday morning.

Mrs. James positively identified the negro as Will Vincent both from a photograph and by seeing him after the arrest. Vincent was locked up and a charge of theft registered against him.

IN THE COURTS

Cleve McNeil of Quanah, Texas, convicted on one of three counts charging violation of the bankruptcy laws, was sentenced to eighteen months in the Atlanta, Ga., penitentiary in the federal court Friday morning.

In the case of J. R. McSwean vs. the Frisco motion for a new trial was overruled.

Heavy Sentence Given

Albert Johnson, charged with carrying a pistol, was fined $100 and sentenced to six months in the county jail by Judge Milam Friday morning.

To Test Stock Law

J. B. Williams and John F. Swayne, who were fined in the lower court on charges of permitting stock to run at large at Arlington Heights, have taken the matter before Judge Mike E. Smith of the Seventeenth district court by application for a writ of habeas corpus seeking not only to avoid payment of the fines assessed but to test the validity of the stock law at Arlington Heights.

From the county court, where the cases were tried, no appeal could be taken to higher courts in the usual way, the only way by which a rehearing of the matter could be had being by writ of habeas corpus.

New Trials Refused

Motions for new trials have been overruled by Judge Mike E. Smith of the Seventeenth district court as follows:

E. B. Harrold vs. Fort Worth and Rio Grande Railroad Company.

P. A. Collins vs. St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad Company et al.

W. W. Nance vs. Northern Texas Traction Company et al.

B. E. Anderson vs. Western Cottage Piano and Organ Company.

The verdict in all these cases was for the plaintiffs, and the motion for new trials were by the defendant corporations. They will all be appealed.

Chancellor von Buelow Improves

BERLIN, April 6.—Inquiries this morning at the residence of Chancellor von Buelow, who fainted while attending the sitting of the reichstag yesterday, elicited the information that he continues to improve.

The plan broached by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company for raising fresh capital, shows the credit of the company to be at a pretty low ebb. The plan has not been favorably received. In order to induce stockholders to take new stock at par, bonds are offered with it. The rights figure out on present market valuations for the old securities to be worth very little."

CITY NEWS

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien is the only fighter that ever lived who proved more able to manage his own affairs than a manager. O'Brien in making a match is much shrewder than many of the managers who have champions under their wing. He always sees to the detail in the arrangements for a battle personally and knows every step that leads up to the point where the training begins. In the camp where the work is done, O'Brien is again the boss, and while he will listen to the advice of others he always takes his own opinion first and considers it thoroughly.

At first the fight managers were inclined to look upon O'Brien as a joke. He went to England and there took care of himself in such a creditable manner that even the "wise guys" began to sit up and notice. Today O'Brien is recognized by everyone to be as great a manager as he is fighter.

The religious teacher sometimes likens a prize fighter to a crazy man, but only once do I remember of the ultra-good taking an exponent of the manly art for a real crazy man. The incident happened in Chicago about six or seven years ago, just after the Windy City officials had decided that there was no real harm in the ring game and that it was time for a revival of the sport.

Tommy McKune, a Detroit pug, was one of the first men secured to appear, and when he arrived in Chicago he sought a place of seclusion out on Irving Park boulevard, near the Cook county insane asylum .

There was no place in the immediate vicinity where McKune could train, and he decided to do most of his work out of doors. He began in earnest from the jump and every morning and afternoon he could be seen running through the street with a heavy sweater and bareheaded. The goodly people in the neighborhood looked on and wondered, and some of them went so far as to inquire of the whereabouts and the reasons for the queer acting man.

McKune finally grew bolder and would carry a couple of dumbbells in his hands as he ran along the street. Every here and there he would stop and do shadow sparring to bring into play the muscles that were most needed in a fight. One old lady grew so afraid that she telephoned the police and said that one of the inmates of the Cook county insane asylum had escaped and that he was repeatedly carrying on in the street in a manner that threatened the lives of the children in the neighborhood. The police headquarters took the matter seriously and detailed a couple of big burly coppers to capture the crazy man. They started after McKune, and after a chase lasting several blocks overtook him just as he was stopping and going through what looked to be crazy gyrations with the dumbbells in his hands. They both ran up and grabbed hold of McKune, and then discovered for the first time that he looked sane enough and as if he was doing stunts for a purpose. A few words of explanation and McKune was invited to headquarters to help enjoy the joke.

The next day the papers had big headlines on the sport page explaining the incident, but the religious people in the neighborhood to this day say that no sane man would stop in the street and pretend he was fighting with someone when not a person but some youngsters were around.

This same Tommy McKune, of Detroit, is the most disliked fighter that the Baltimore fight fans have ever had occasion to read about. He has been dubbed "the hoodoo pugilist" by Hereford and his friends

Three different times McKune has been matched to fight in Baltimore. The first time he was to meet Matty Mathews. The police only a few days before the match called all fighting off and the bout fell through.

When the ring game was again allowed to go on McKune was once more matched to fight. His second bout was to have been with Herman Miller, but again the police interfered and there was another lull in the ring game.

Through his influence Al Hereford again secured permits from the officials to hold fights. After a couple of bouts McKune was signed to fight Owen Ziegler. He trained for the battle and reached the point where he was to leave for Baltimore. He boarded the train, only to learn the following morning that the city of Baltimore was burning down. The Hereford club, where the fight was to take place, was a mass of ashes.

That was too much. Never again did the Baltimore people want McKune to come in their midst. But Al Hereford was bound to get even, and tried to match Young Peter Jackson with McKune. His efforts were without much success, but he managed to get a match on for his colored protege in Detroit. McKune was at first disappointed because arrangements had not been made with him. Everything turned out well anyway.

Hereford has sworn he will never again have anything to do with McKune.

CHILDREN

If You Have Any Ailing Ones This Will Interest You.

"We see so many little boys and girls about town who are weak, thin-legged and hollow-chested," said Mr. Anderson, our well-known druggist, "it seems a shame to allow them to remain so, for they will grow up into weak, sickly and nervous men and women, without the vitality to work or enjoy life.

"It," continued Mr. Anderson, "the fathers and mothers of such children would believe what we say of Vinol, we would see a great difference in the appearance of the younger generation of this city. You know Vinol is not a patent medicine, and is just the tonic growing children need. It will make for them good, healthy flesh, sound bone, hard muscle and rich, red blood.

"True, Vinol is a cod liver oil preparation, but it does not contain a drop of oil, or any bad tasting feature. It is so delicious that all children love it, yet it actually does contain all the medicinal elements found in fresh cods' livers, and is the most wholesome and best medicine for children we ever sold.

"It is because we know what Vinol will do that we guarantee if it fails to make your children well, rugged and rosy, to refund your money." R. A. Anderson, Druggist.

A NEW STOCK

These goods are all new. This lot does not contain one single item or article of old goods. They represent entirely a single purchase of new goods from one house. All with factory folding and tieing plainly in evidence—crisp, fresh and new.

BRAVE WOMAN RUNS INTRUDER

Wakens to Find Man Near Her Bed

Opening her eyes to find a man in her room within a few feet of her bed, Mrs. W. A. Stewart of Twenty-fifth and Main streets, North Fort Worth, did not scream, but jumped from the bed and pursued the man, who rushed down the stairs and out of the house.

Mrs. Stewart, who had been suffering with a severe headache, was not asleep when the man entered her room, about 2:30 o'clock Friday morning. Her eyes, however, were closed and the man evidently supposed her asleep, as he had almost reached the bed when she opened her eyes to discover him.

Mr. Stewart, who was sleeping in the adjoining room with the door open, was not aroused by the occurrence.

Mrs. Stewart describes the intruder as a white man with dark hair. He was clothed in an undershirt and overalls, being in his stocking feet. Mrs. Stewart was unable to secure a view of his face in good light, the man being in full flight when she reached the front door in pursuit of him and saw him cross in the light shining upon the porch.

Tracks around the house were left by the man in his flight, these being used as a clue in working upon the case.

Unless the President forces Taft to go on the bench in the latter capacity, he will remain in the cabinet and probably will become a leading ffactor in the next Presidential race.

Fancy Blouse Waist 5297

The variations of the blouse waist appear to know no end and each one comes with a fresh attraction that makes it desirable, if not irresistible. Illustrated is an exceedingly charming and dainty example that is made of Shantung in the natural color, the yoke and cuffs being of cream colored lace while the trimming is of brown velvet ribbon, plain and embroidered. The color combination is an exceedingly attractive one and the materials extremely fashionable, but such a waist as this one can be utilized in a great many ways. It is available alike for the separate blouse and the entire gown and is equally suited to every material that is soft enough to be made full, and this season that means almost everything, silk, wool and cotton. Dyed pongee is a favorite as well as the natural color and messaline, crepe de chine and the like are always lovely, while voile and eolienne are favorites among the wool materials, and silk and cotton mixtures show almost as much variety as silk itself.

The waist is made with a fitted lining, on which the yoke is arranged and itself consists of the front and the backs. These last are plaited at their upper edges and gathered at the lower. The sleeves are the new and favorite ones that are closely fitted to the elbows and moderately full above. When liked they can be cut off below the cuffs, making them half length. The girdle is prettily shaped and forms a becoming point at the front.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3 yards 21, 2½ yards 27 or 1¾ yards 44 inches wide with 1⅛ yards of allover lace, 3 yards of embroidery, 2 yards of plain velvet ribbon and ⅞ yard of piece velvet for the belt.

The pattern 5297 is cut in sizes for a 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inch bust measure.

ELKS' IMPERIAL MINSTRELS

Second Annual Engagement Comes April 16 and 17

The second annual engagement of the great Elks' minstrels will come to the Greenwall Monday and Tuesday, April 16 and 17. Rehearsals are moving along with surprising vim and smoothness and the directors claim a much better show than last season's. Some very valuable additions have been made to the company and the equipment will be very complete. Press notices from sister cities class the production with the largest road companies and are very flattering in their comments. The management in charge have satisfied themselves that the minstrels this year will more than sustain the reputation made by last season's efforts. This is the show everybody has been waiting for.

COLLEGE PROS HOLD SESSION

State Association Meets at Polytechnic

AN ORATORICAL CONTEST

Much Enthusiasm Shown at Second Annual Gathering of Workers. Nine Leagues Now in State

The Texas State Intercollegiate Prohibition Association opened its sessions at Polytechnic College Thursday and a surprising amount of enthusiasm prevailed throughout the day. There were about thirty delegates present during the first day. Following was the program: Music furnished by Polytechnic band, "Why Study the Liquor Problem, if a Problem?" B. P. Bailey, Fort Worth; "College Prohibition Movement," Warner; address by state president, John Milton; "Prohibition Workers in the Field," P. F. Paige and H. S. Bonsib; "Prohibition from the Legal Standpoint," general discussion; "The Part the Library Plays in a Good League," Miss Texora; quiz box.

The national secretary of the association was to have been present, but he was called away and in his place the national president, Leigh Colvin, attended. John Milton, the state president, from Baylor University, is presiding at the meetings.

Friday's program included discussions by F. P. Paige, H. S. Bonsib, Dr. Scofield and a "Life Purpose" meeting in the afternoon, with general discussion of what constitutes a life mission. Organization methods were also discussed at the afternoon session.

Oratorical Contest

Annual oratorical contest of the association forms the feature for Friday night. At this contest prizes of $60 and $15 will be awarded. The winner will also represent the state in the middle west contest, to be held at Lincoln, Neb., and if successful there, in a national contest at Chicago or New York.

In this contest to be held at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock the following colleges will participate: Polytechnic, Fort Worth; Texas Holiness, Peniel; Burleson College, Greenville; Decatur Baptist College, Decatur, and Baylor University, Waco. The subjects in the order for discussion are: "The Transitional Epoch," "The Authority of Law Over Liquor," "A Dream of Prohibition," "The Necessity of a Complete Overthrow," "God, Home and Native Land."

Names of contestants and colleges they represent are withheld according to rules of the contest until award is made.

Judges will be Rev. R. R. Hamlin, pastor of the First Christian church, this city, and C. Q. Barton, former secretary of the Teachers' State Association.

Officers of the association are: John W. Milton, Baylor, state president; William M. Le May, T. C. U., vice president; Wallace Gregg, Polytechnic, secretary; L. B. Newberry, S. W. U., advisory.

Leagues are maintained in this state at Southwestern University, Georgetown; Texas Holiness University, Greenville; Howard Payne College, Brownwood; Texas Christian University, Waco; Polytechnic College, Fort Worth; Burleson College, Greenville; Baylor University, Waco; Baker College, Brownwood, and Decatur College, Decatur.

TO BUILD EIGHT STORIES

James F. Moore to Complete Shelton Building

Instead of having a six-story building on the corner of Ninth and Houston streets, Fort Worth will now see an eight-story structure go up, because of the sale of the property by J. M. Shelton Thursday afternoon to James Moore. The property brought $42,000, and was sold through W. A. Darter.

Mr. Shelton had had plans prepared for the erection of a six-story building upon the lot and part of the excavation had already been made. The new owner will have the plans changed and specifications made for an eight-story building. It will be one of the finest buildings in the city.

When this building and the building proposed by Dr. Bacon Saunders are completed, this corner will have the two tallest buildings in the city, one an eight-story and the other a ten-story building.

The property sold Thursday was purchased by Mr. Shelton nine months ago for $30,000.

H. C. Frick Resigns

NEW YORK, April 6.—It was announced yesterday that H. C. Frick has resigned from the board of directors of the Rock Island company. His successor has not been chosen.

DAVID HARUM'S HAUNTS

Where the Winters Are Cold and the Snows Deep.

Writing from the vicinity David Harum made famous, a man says that he was an habitual coffee drinker, and, although he knew it was doing him harm, was too obstinate to give it up, till all at once he went to pieces with nervousness and insomnia, loss of appetite, weakness and a generaly used-up feeling, which practically unfitted him for his arduous occupation, and kept him on a couch at home when his duty did not call him out.

"While in this condition Grape-Nuts food was suggested to me, and abandoning coffee, I began to use it. Although it was in the middle of winter and the thermometer was often below zero, my entire living for about six weeks of severe exposure was Grape-Nuts with a little bread and butter and a cup of hot water, till I was wise enough to make Postum Food Coffee my table beverage.

"After the first two weeks I began to feel better and during the whole winter I never lost a trip on my mail route, frequently being on the road 7 or 8 hours at a time. The constant marvel to me was how a person could do the amount of work and endure the fatigue and hardship as I did, on so small an amount of food. But I found my new rations so perfectly satisfactory that I have continued them—using both Postum and Grape-Nuts at every meal. All my nervousness, irritability and insomnia have disappeared and healthy, natural sleep has come back to me.

"But what has been perhaps the greatest surprise to me is the fact that with the benefit to my general health has come a remarkable improvement in my eyesight.

"If a good appetite, good digestion, good eyesight, strong nerves and an active brain are to be desired, I can say from my own experience that Grape-Nuts and Postum will supply them." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville, in pkgs.

BANKS TO PAY COIN EXPRESS

Treasury Department Makes New Order

Since April 1 the treasury department has ceased to ship silver coin out prepaid. At the present time there has been felt no effect of the order received here, but during the time when crops begin to move and coin is needed the added expense of bringing the silver from the government mints will be felt by the banks in this city and west Texas.

It has been the custom of the department whenever silver was ordered shipped to a bank to prepay the expressage on the package. Silver is obtained by the banks in this city and in west Texas from the New Orleans mint, the cost of shipping $1,000 in silver to this city being about $2, while to west Texas it is still more.

The smaller banks in west Texas order their shipments of silver from the mint at New Orleans whenever they have time, but in case of a hurry the coin is ordered from Fort Worth. It is possible that in that case more silver will be demanded from the banks in this city on account of the shorter carry. This will cause the banks here to provide themselves with greater amounts of silver.

In speaking of the matter the April issue of the Texas Banker says:

It will be found quite expensive to move the necessary silver required for moving the crops, from New Orleans, Washington or Philadelphia.

It would seem advantageous to both the government and to the banks of Texas, if the department would designate some place in Texas where silver will be kept and from which point it could be ordered out by the banks. This would save the banks the expense of a long haul. It would also save the government the expense of shipping the silver into New Orleans or Washington.

No doubt a resolution memorializing the department for relief along this line, will be presented at the San Antonio convention.

HOME FOR CHILDREN

Work of Rev. I. Z. T. Morris Shown in Letter

The work of Rev. I. Z. T. Morris placing the waifs of the state is having a twofold blessing. That of blessing the home as well as the child, is demonstrated in the letter which he received yesterday. This is a child who was left alone in the world. Mr. Morris took it to his home and by the care of his wife the child's life was saved and he went to bless another home.

Rev. and Mrs. I. Z. T. Morris,
Fort Worth, Texas.

Dear Brother and Sister Morris:

It is with sad and heavy hearts that we write you this letter. Our precious baby boy died yesterday morning and we buried him this morning at 10 o'clock, and with him, it seems to us now, all the sunshine that life held for us.

The baby had never been sick, with the exception of one little spell a week ago. He was the picture of health, and a prettier or sweeter baby never lived. Day before yesterday morning he waked up sick and fretted a little all day. We thought him some better yesterday morning. About 9 o'clock he suddenly grew worse, and before a doctor could reach the house he was no more, dying in his mother's arms almost before she could realize that he was dangerously sick.

We had intended to have his picture made this week and send you one that you might see what a sweet baby you had blessed our home with.

When you receive this letter pray God that He may give us grace to bear the affliction that has come upon us so soon.

With kindest regards and best wishes, we are, truly your friends.

These people had only one child and lost her when an infant, and applied to the Home Society for one to take the place of their own child, and found it, as can be seen by the above.

Colorado Climate and Doctors Failed to Cure

MR. AND MRS. S. L. DAVIDSON AND FAMILY.

An eloquent and convincing testimonial from Mr. S. L. Davidson of Denver, Colo., father of the little group of handsome, sturdy children whose pictures we publish.

Mr. Davidson and his family were under the care of the best doctors in the East and spent much time and money in futile attempts to regain their health. They finally came to Colorado, thinking the climate would be beneficial, but were again disappointed.

Finally Duffy's Malt Whiskey was tried, and proved successful after everything else had failed.

It is necessary to read Mr. Davidson's letter and study the picture to appreciate his gratitude for what Duffy's has done for himself and his family. He says:

"I want you to know that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done our family more good than ten years' of medical attendance. We were under the care of the best doctors in the East and spent time and money endeavoring to secure some respectable degree of health. Finally we came to Colorado, as we thought the climate would do us some good. In this we were disappointed, and I was on the verge of returning East when my attention was attracted to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Personally I have not used liquor in any form, but so much is said in behalf of your whiskey, when used as a medicine, I determined to give up doctors and take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

"From our experience I may state that your Malt Whiskey will bring health to any invalid except when a surgical operation is necessary. As our picture will prove, we are all happy and in the best of health."—S. L. DAVIDSON, Denver, Col., Feb. 27, 1905.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic, builds up the nerve tissues, tones up the heart, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces, it makes digestion perfect, and enables you to get from the food you eat all the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong. Seven thousand doctors prescribe and 2,000 hospitals use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey exclusively.

Beware of dangerous imitations and substitutes. They are positively harmful and are sold for profit only by unscrupulous dealers. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and be certain the seal over the cork is unbroken. All druggists and grocers, or direct, $1.00 a bottle. Doctor's advice and medical booklet free. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

PATRONIZE HOME COMPANIES

Noting that former Governor David R. Francis of Missouri said that thirteen millions of money had been sent out of that state last year for insurance, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch says:

The fact is suggestive. Money is power. If these great sums were kept at home by means of home companies they would support great enterprises of all kinds. The concentration of money in New York has already built up huge monopolies which are fortifying themselves against attack. The vil consequences of such concentration are seen in the insurance scandals. Men with too little scruple have used enormous sums which pour into the eastern insurance treasuries to float all sorts of enterprises, doubtful and otherwise, but all designed to create monopolies. The one remedy is to keep the money where it is made. A diffusion of money, which is power, would make monopoly impossible, give a healthy stimulus to legitimate enterprise all over the country and put an end to the scandals arising out of irresponsible monopoly.

All of which is as true as gospel, and in this connection The Telegram would respectfully direct attention to the fact that some home insurance companies have recently been organized in Fort Worth, by leading and most progressive business men and capitalists.

These Fort Worth insurance companies have been organized for business and not as a matter of sentiment. They propose to give to the people of Fort Worth and of Texas ample protection in these matters, and they desire the most favorable consideration at the hands of our people. Those who take out business in these home companies can rely upon the fact they are receiving just as good protection as if they were sending their money to New York. They can also rely upon the further fact that not one dollar of this money will ever find its way into a political contribution.

The money invested in insurance here in Fort Worth will be kept in Fort Worth, and certainly it must be evident to every right thinking citizen that it is best to keep Texas money at home and no longer contribute to the support and upbuilding of those outside corporations which have waxed so strong that they consider themselves privileged to do as they please with the money of the policy holders.

The Telegram is a great believer in the home industry idea. It believes that every citizen owes a duty to home enterprises of every class and description. It believes if the people of Fort Worth and Texas will apply these principles to the one matter of insurance the time will soon come when they will require no additional urging in these matters, but the advantages to accrue will be so apparent as to be living witnesses of the advantages of patronizing home industry in every instance possible.

Texas is sending millions of dollars out of the state annually for insurance that can be obtained just as cheaply and effectively at home. And the duty of all Texans is perfectly plain in the premises.

THE CASE OF GARFIELD

Commissioner Garfield has made a miserable botch out of the beef trust investigation and tied the hands of the government so that its entire work has been brought to naught. The simplest thing he could do under the circumstances would be to relieve the government of the incubus of his official position.—Fort Worth Telegram.

It seems to the Post that in blaming Garfield for the failure of this whole matter is not exactly fair. He was ordered to do what he did, and the judge didn't decide for the packers because of Garfield's promises, but rather because he represented the government which, by its inherent power, forced the packers to give Garfield information.—Childress Post.

Garfield appears to have gone into the beef trust investigation with too exalted opinion of his own importance. He was too free to impute to himself powers that legitimately belonged to the United States government and in his desire to impress the packers with his importance he went so far as to make or imply promises that operated to defeat all the work the government had done in an effort to bring the packers within the pale of the law. The action of the packers in steadily avoiding the question of guilt or innocence, and willingness to confine the trial to the one question of immunity, goes to prove what an easy case the government would have had against them had it not been for the officiousness of this young man Garfield.

The government did not force the packers to give Garfield any information. It simply delegated to Garfield the power to make a necessary and proper investigation. He appears to have been duly impressed with the sense of obligation resting upon his party from large campaign contributions, and went into the investigation enthusiastically determined to impress the world with the belief there was no beef trust. And while he was mixing his pail of whitewash public sentiment was growing stronger all the time and demanding that there should be a summary quietus administered to the beef barons. Garfield had promised immunity from punishment in order to get the figures he needed from the packers, who would tell him nothing save on a guaranty that it would not be used against them. He came in possession of matter of an incriminating nature which the department of justice was compelled to use to appease popular clamor, but at the same time there was a promise of immunity which operated as a bar to any probability of conviction.

James R. Garfield is the man who relieved the big packers from a very embarrassing position, and justice to the people and the public service of the country demands that Garfield should be compelled to surrender the position he has so woefully mismanaged. He is a misfit and utterly unqualified for the position he occupies.

The Houston Post finds satisfaction in the wreck of its blanket primary monstrosity by realizing there will be a regular session of the state legislature next January. The esteemed Post ought to have awakened to that realization in the beginning, and not attempted to run a blind calf over the executive of this state. The Post is great, the legislature is great, and the blanket primary issue is proper—but only at the proper time and under the proper circumstances. Greater than all these, however, is the law, which stood as an impassable barrier to the lawlessness contemplated by the Post and its coterie.

There are a lot of letters on file with the governor of Texas from members of the state legislature who agreed to serve in a special session without compensation. And there are a whole lot of these representatives of the people who stultified themselves by drawing the pay they were not entitled to under that agreement. It has long been believed that members of the legislative body were capable of doing almost anything, but never before has the present situation been equaled. The immortal "Twenty-ninth" is entitled to the championship belt.

In his assumption of duty as mayor of Fort Worth Judge W. D. Harris will have the best wishes and felicitations of all our citizens. It is something of an undertaking to serve as mayor of the livest and most progressive city in all Texas, but it is universally believed the new executive will be fully equal to the demands of the occasion.

Congress has compelled the refunding of the expense account in General Wood's last junketing trip, and it was eminently proper. Too many public officers consider it proper to get their hands into the public treasury. It is high time to begin calling a halt.

Those candidates for governor who spent so much time at Austin trying to induce the state legislature to do something illegal, in forcing the blanket primary issue over the governor, are left in a very sorry plight. No doubt they now wish they had abstained from making such an unseemly exhibition of themselves.

Curtis P. Smith is the new mayor of Dallas, and his election gives general satisfaction in that town. With Davis as mayor in North Fort Worth and Smith occupying the same position in Dallas, Progress ought to be written in large letters on the walls of both our flourishing suburbs.

The news from Russia to the affect that Japan is preparing for war with the United States, with the object of acquiring the Philippines, should be accepted with a grain of salt. We should remember that Russia is prone to see war specks every time she looks in the direction of Japan.

Handley now has a weekly newspaper, known as the Herald, and it is published by Mr. and Mrs. T. Champion, formerly of Fort Worth. With two newspaper Champions at the helm, the paper ought to succeed.

Saturday is to mark the closing of the campaign for the Y. M. C. A. fund, and it is very nearly at hand. Only a few hours remain in which to finish this important work, and it must be finished in a manner that will be creditable to Fort Worth.

The death of Assistant Attorney General Howard Martin of Weatherford in this city Sunday is very generally regretted throughout the state. Judge Martin was a capable and efficient officer and universally esteemed by the people of Texas.

David B. Hill is said to be recuperating and will soon be able to look after business affairs again. Perhaps when he has fully recuperated it will be found that he is ready to enter politics again.

President Roosevelt it is said will soon send a message to congress in the matter of the beef trust that will be highly sensational. But the best thing the President could possibly do at this stage of the situation is to summarily decapitate Jimmie Garfield.

There was a roll of honor attached to every special session of the Twenty-ninth legislature. But it was confined strictly to that small bunch of senators who declined to accept pay for their services.

There is one thing that can be said concerning the special session of the state legislature, and that is it remained in session long enough to draw the mileage and per diem it believed it had coming.

The Texas Press

And a certain man who is a husbandman and liveth outside the walls of the city is seen coming from the city. He hath in his wagon one side of bacon and one bale of hay, notwithstanding he liveth where he could grow these things, yet will he be so wicked and slothful in his business as to neglect to provide himself with these things home-grown. And when we are come into the city, lo, and we find a citizen thereof with a catalogue of a northern mail order house under his arm, having just made an order for goods that his home merchant keeps a better grade of. Now, which of these men is the greater sinner? He who hath gone into the marketplace and bought a side of bacon that came from a northern packery, or his town cousin who has wilfully wasted his substance on a mail order house? Yea, of a truth they are both guilty, one as much as the other.—Bonham Herald.

And it was even so. The man who patronizes the mail order house and the man who eats northern bacon are both brothers unto the unseemly individual who refuses to patronize home industry. They twain are but cumberers of the earth and deserve the experience that always comes to those who are so blind they will not see.

The News believes in the blanket primary. However, it does not understand that the legislature was called in session for any other purpose than mending the rent in the election law occasioned by some act of incompetency or carelessness, and suggests that the condition of the weather is such that the people do not look upon any blanket primary proposition with the same favor as they would during the cold spells in the winter season.—Denton News.

It is not opposition to the blanket primary that has kept that measure from being engrafted upon the Terrell law. It is determination that the legislature shall not exceed its authority by enacting measures not embraced within the governor's call. The blanket primary can be adopted at the proper time and in the proper manner if the people want it.

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

The Fort Worth Telegram is about correct when it says "Advices from Austin indicate that the adherents to the blanket primary proposition are feeling almost strong enough to attempt to run the proposition over the governor and tack it on to the election law whether such action would be legal or not. And this is very bad policy. The only safe thing to do is to wait until the thing can be done legally."—Austin Tribune.

The Telegram called the turn on the blanket primary business, and its advice was carried out. Not, however, until every other resource had been exhausted, and the legislature deserves no credit for having been forced to do its duty.

The Sun does not agree with the idea that the Texas public schools fit Texas boys only for holding inferior positions. On the other hand the schools are doing a vast amount of good in giving the boys a substantial and valuable foundation upon which to build a splendid superstructure. While believing this, the Sun at the same time recognizes the importance of industrial schools from which the boys and girls of the state may come, even better equipped for fighting life's battles.—Corsicana Sun.

The public schools of Texas are doing an excellent work in the education of thousands of Texas children who have no other method of acquiring an education. An industrial training, however, is the best legacy that can be bequeathed to the boys and girls of today.

The other night I had the privilege of listening to a young man while he conversed to a young lady over the telephone. I know the grammar says one should say "converse with," but the young lady happened to be ten blocks away and it was quite impossible for him to converse with her.

The conversation was something like this:

"Hello.
"Hello (louder).
"Do you know who this is?
"I thought you would.
"How are you?
"Oh, so-so.
"Goin' to be at home tonight?
"Why don't you?
"Can't you tell for sure?
"Maybe, after awhile.
"Last week, when did you?
"Tomorrow evening? I can't.
"Oh, because——"

At this stage I got up and went out of the room. There was a cat on the fence in the yard and I threw a block of stove wood through the window without even stopping to raise the sash. The cat wasn't hurt, but the window was badly broken up.

Then I went out for a walk and wondered why the telephone girls who have to listen don't oftener end it all by committing suicide.

APRIL WEATHER

(BY HIRA L. RICKS.)

The position of the planets from the first to the tenth makes it certain that there will be several kinds of weather in this period, especially in various parts of the country. There will be rain and snow in places and farmers should be careful about planting. There will also be much sunshine and pleasant weather in this period, and in the sections where the season is far enough advanced the weather will not interfere with agriculture.

There will be more of the same kind of weather about the fifteenth, in other sections. A heavy rainfall may be expected about the twentieth in some places. From the twentieth to the end of the month the weather will be uncertain, on account of Jupiter, and do not be surprised, if snow should fall. In other sections of the country no one need be worried.

VERSES THAT RING

NEVER BLAMES THE BOOZE

He takes a bottle up to bed,
Drinks whisky hot each night,
Drinks cocktails in the morning,
And often gets very tight.
He shivers in the evening,
And sometimes has the blues.
Until he takes a drink or two,
"But he never blames the booze."

His joints are full of rheumatiz,
His appetite is slack;
He has pains between his shoulders,
Cold chills run down his back;
He suffers with insomnia,
At night he can not snooze,
He says it is the climate,
"But he never blames the booze."

His constitution is run down
(At least that's what he said),
His legs are stiff each morning,
And often a swelled head.
He tackles wine and whisky,
And if they do not fuse,
He blames it on dyspepsia,
"But he never blames the booze."

He says he can not sleep at night,
And always has bad dreams.
He claims he often lies awake
Till early sunrise beams,
He thinks he has malaria,
Though that is but a ruse,
He blames it on to everything,
"But he never blames the booze."

His liver needs a scraping
And his kidneys have the gout.
He swallows lots of medicine,
Till he thinks he's cleaned them out.
His legs are stiff and droopy,
And it hurts to wear his shoes,
He blames it on the doctor,
"But he never blames the booze."

He will wind up with the tremens,
Then will have rats and snakes,
First he will have a fever,
Then he will have the shakes.
At last will have a funeral,
And his friends will have the blues.
Then this should be his epitaph—
"I never blame the booze."

CHOICE AT LARGE SUITS CITIZENS

North Fort Worth Has Plan Advocated

Practical demonstration of the results of election of aldermen at large rather than by wards is given by North Fort Worth, where the system is in force and declared entirely satisfactory.

In that municipality, as proposed here, aldermen reside in the wards they represent, but are elected by vote of all parts of the city rather than citizens of their own wards alone.

John W. Baskin, city attorney-elect, says regarding the system:

"I favor the system because it gives all parts of the city equal opportunity to secure needed things in the way of improvements and prevents the objectionable feature of having more attention given some particular locality, as is often the case when aldermen are elected from wards separately."

Dr. M. E. Gilmore says that he can see no ojection to the election of the aldermen at large, and that the system is found entirely satisfactory in North Fort Worth. Similar expressions are made by business men in all lines.

The things urged in favor of electing the aldermen at large is that they will then devote their official time to the general good of the city, while with the election of aldermen from wards it often happens that they really do the city harm because of unequal improvements in one ward to the detriment of the other parts of the city.

Success of the system in North Fort Worth is being pointed out by those who favor it, as a good example of the efficiency of this manner of electing aldermen.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

A Houston Post, reaching baseball headquarters at the White Elephant, contains the following tale of early ball game prowess:

"'Way back" in the '80s, when games used to be played in the old Fair Grounds, Houston and Fort Worth were playing a game. George Hain was in right field for Houston and a player named Blackburn was at the bat. Just as Blackburn hit the ball a pet deer that had been browsing around the outer rim of the ball lot took a sudden dislike to Hain and dashed at him with blazing eyes, distended notrials and foam oozing out of its mouth. George saw the deer coming and sprinted for the plate just a little faster than he ever ran before or since, with the deer in hot pursuit and gaining fast. On the way in George stuck out his hands and the ball dropped into his hooks. George said he saw the ball and caught it. Others who were present say the ball hit in his hands accidentally and stuck. Hain raced into the crowd and the deer was beaten off with clubs.

The candidacy of William Lahey for the legislature, as announced in The Telegram Sunday, is puzzling the political wiseacres who congregate and hold impromptu caucuses in the basement of the big county building. Everybody knows Lahey and they know him to be a man of a large allowance of good hard common sense and a superabundance of shrewdness, but until the announcement in Sunday's Telegram they never had the faintest suspicion that he had political aspirations of the legislative kind.

"I don't understand it," said a court house political apostle to a Telegram reporter. "I can't imagine what is at the bottom of Lahey's candidacy or what his motive is in running for the position; he is the last man in Tarrant county I would have expected to be a candidate for the legislature. Not that he would not make a good representative, for he has more real hard sense than many who have been in the legislature, but because I didn't believe he was built that way.

"What strength will he have? There you have me. Bill Lahey is a unique character, but if he has an enemy I don't know him. Everybody likes him personally, but whether that personal liking will stick to him politically I am not willing to say; it may do so. If it does Bill will make the legislative race one to be remembered.

"There is one thing about the matter that you can bank on, and that is that Lahey has too much practical sense to have decided to make the race for the legislature unless he had assurances of good support. Now, who it is that gives him this assurance I don't know, but I would like to know. I have heard the names of several prominent men in politics mentioned as supporting his candidacy, and if they are Lahey will make a noise in the race."

HEARS BEECHER'S VOICE

His Spirit Still Dominant in Plymouth Church, Says Brooklyn Woman

While under examination before former Magistrate Watson and a sheriff's jury impaneled to pass upon her competency to manage her affairs, Mrs. Elizabeth Heggan of Brooklyn recently declared that the spirit of Henry Ward Beecher is still the vital force at Plymouth church and that she never attends services there without getting in communication with the great preacher, says the New York Herald.

Mrs. Heggan is a refined woman of thirty-five years. The petition to have a committee of her person and estate appointed was made by her sister, Mrs. Emily Sweet of Boston.

In explaining her statement about Beecher she said that she had been interested for many years in the occult sciences and believed not only in telepathic communication between living persons, but in spirit communication with the dead.

Even when the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis is preaching in Plymouth church, Mrs. Heggan declared, she can hear the voice of Mr. Beecher coming clear and resonant out of the upper sky.

Mrs. Heggan gave coherent answers to many of the questions and showed a retentive memory concerning events of her early life. She was committed to the observation ward of the Long Island State Hospital for the Insane on Feb. 19 last.

The sheriff's jury found her competent to manage her affairs, and this action will be reported to the higher court.

UNIONS PREPARE FOR BIG SESSION

Delegates to State Federation Being Named

The convention of the State Federation of Labor will be held at Beaumont, May 14, and it is anticipated that it will be the largest and most enthusiastic gathering ever held by this great organization.

There are twenty-two unions that belong to the Trades Assembly here, and it is expected that each of them will send a delegate to this convention. Some of the unions have already elected delegates. Those already chosen are: Electrical Workers, Frank Swor; Typographical Union, C. W. Woodman; Teamsters, Jake Stine.

Others will be named before the convention, and it is expected practically all of the labor organizations in this city will be represented, either by individual delegates or by giving credentials to representatives of other local bodies.

AMUSEMENTS

At Greenwall's

The Jewell-Kelly Stock Company presented "Jesse James" to a large and appreciative audience Thursday night at Greenwall's opera house, and the work of the company was considered highly satisfactory. The house was packed. Those present were more than generous in their applause of the well-staged scenes of the exciting drama and the specialties between acts were well timed, making the performance one continual round of pleasure.

Announcement was made that tonight will be amateur night, and a large attendance is expected.

The "candy" matinee Saturday and the regular performance Saturday night will close the company's engagement in this city.

Marie Cahill

Dainty little Clara Palmer, who is one of the beauty beams in Marie Cahill's "Molly Moonshine," which will be seen at Greenwall's opera house Tuesday night, April 10, is known in the dramatic profession as "The Girl with the Postal Cards." She was probably one of the first to take up the postal card fad, and is now the proud possessor of 73,445 of these creations. Every country in the world almost, is represented.

Allowing five inches to each card, Miss Palmer has over five miles of postal cards and were it possible to stand them on end, one over the other, a string of cards would be made that would be higher than any mountain or anything else on the face of the globe.

The most popular card is one from Tibet. It was sent her by a young officer in Colonel Younghusband's expedition into the hermit country.

"Buster Brown"

Manager Melville B. Raymond of the "Buster Brown" company announces "Buster Brown" for three performances to be seen at Greenwal's opera house. The manager of the company has spent a fortune on the production and the theatrical world have freely voted it to be "a sure cure for the blues."

Melville B. Raymond will also direct the tour next season of Master Gabriel in "Little Jack Horner." Little Nolga in "Miss Bo-Peep." William & Walker in "Abyssinia." "Buster Brown" at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday and Thursday night, with matinee Thursday.

Majestic Theater

Only four more performances of the big program at the Majestic remain to be enjoyed by those persons who have failed to attend this week. The "Hazardous Loop" and Ameta have attracted large houses all the week, and there has not been any disappointment in the rest of the bill. This city has not in its theatrical history ever been accorded the privilege of witnessing two such features as the loop and Ameta. Both of them are so entirely out of the ordinary that they borrow the enticement of the utterly "new."

Miss Lillian Chick, the champion woman bicyclist of the world, a pretty, fresh-looking young girl, will ride the hazardous loop as usual.

The management has underlined for next week James Newton Drew and company in Myles McCarthy's study of a convict, "Jim' Brother Bill;" Richard Berry and Virginia Johnson and company in their latest travesty, "Held for Ransom;" Galbreth and Farrell in the "Red Head and the Coon;" King Kollins, America's greatest banjoist; Sam Du Vries, illusionist, presenting "Aga," the mystery; Cora Youngblood Corson, soloist, euphonium and vocal, of the Helen May Butler band, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kunz, violinist and pianist. This is an unusually strong bill of seven great acts.

Skating for Children

Announcement is made by Summit avenue skating rink that special attention will be given school children at the rink at the Saturday morning sessions, a feature that is expected to prove very popular in this city. Cox's band of Dallas will furnish music at this session.

The rink was open as usual Thursday night, failure to have a session Wednesday night having been caused by failure of lights, which was at once repaired.

WEATHER IS COOLER

Lower Temperatures Accompany High Barometer

Texas is dominated by a high pressure barometer and the temperature in consequence is several degrees colder, there being no rain forecast.

Corpus Christi and San Antonio both registered 72 degrees with the other places in the state registering less than that temperature. Fort Worth registered 61 degrees the past twenty-four hours.

Partly cloudy and calm weather is reported along the Denver railroad. Temperatures at 7 o'clock Friday morning were: Texline, 40 degrees; Amarillo, 48 degrees; Childress, 50 degrees and Wichita Falls, 56 degrees.

Steady rains are reported by live stock agents through southeast Texas Thursday.

The Mississippi valley and the Rocky mountain states are dominated by high pressure conditions, causing generally fair weather throughout the high barometer area, with temperatures decreased from 5 to 10 degrees.

The Atlantic coast states are under low barometer influences, and snow is falling in Pennsylvania and New York, rain on the Carolina coasts, and high winds prevail in Georgia, as a resultant.

The extreme northwest has low barometer conditions; also the extreme upper Missouri, but energy is lacking in these "lows."

The country is generally clear, except on the gulf and the Atlantic coasts.

Texas is generally cloudy and rain is falling at El Paso.

TALL LABORER JOLLIES CROWD

Enjoys Jokes at His Seven Feet Eight Inches

An Australian giant that made a full grown man standing beside him look like a young school boy went out on the Rock Island train Friday morning to work on the track under Foreman John Bordon.

There were twenty men in the party that Bordon took out, the smallest of them being at least 5 feet 10 inches in heighth, while several were 6 feet in heighth.

John Williams, the Australian, towered a foot and a half above the tallest of his fellows, his height being 7 feet 7½ inches. He was well built and as straight as an Indian. As he walked along under the sheds between trains on the track the cap he wore was not far below the roof of a passenger coach.

Bordon secured his force at Galveston and said that Williams had just landed from Australia when he picked him up. The man enjoyed the jokes perpetrated at his expense on account of his unusual height. He created quite a lot of amusement by standing and picking up a pin between his feet, bending his body like shutting a knife and then being as high as many grown men.

PERILOUS WEDDING TOUR

Bride and Groom Rode Fifty Miles on a Nitroglycerin Wagon

Edward Kelley, an oil well shooter, who was married a few days ago at Marietta, Ohio, to Miss Nellie Severance of Lowell, Ohio, recently returned from the wedding trip which they took on a nitroglycerin wagon loaded with thirty-five quarts of the explosive, says a special dispatch from Parkersburg, W. Va., to the Washington Post.

Kelley had to leave right after the wedding for Syracuse, Ohio, to shoot a well. His bride insisted on a wedding journey and compromised by driving with him fifty miles over rough roads with enough of the explosive on the wagon to blow them to atoms, but the groom drove carefully, and they got back alive.

RAIN IS NOT NEEDED

Farmer Says Growing Crops Need Warm Weather

John Bunton, a Wise county farmer, was in Fort Worth Thursday and said that the rain which appeared to be general in north Texas Wednesday night and Thursday morning was not needed.

"What the farming interests need right now," he said, "is clear, warm weather, in order that seed already in the ground may germinate and grow and that cotton planting may begin. The ground is not as warm as it should be at this time, and seed already planted is not doing any too well. If the wet weather continues there will have to be a great deal of replanting in order to get good stands of some crops. Corn in particular.

EXPRESS CO.'S SURPLUS LARGE

Movement Among Stockholders to Secure Division

NEW YORK, April 6.—W. C. Stokes & Company, who asert that they individually are the third largest stockholders of the Wells, Fargo & Company Express Company, have begun a movement to compel a distribution of that concern's surplus. They ask that a stock or scrip dividend of 100 per cent, equal to $8,000,000, be divided among the stockholders. E. H. Harriman is chairman of the Wells, Fargo & Company Expres Company through his control of the Southern Pacific system. The latter owns 16,000 shares of the capital stock of the express company.

Wall street today considered the effort of the Stokes firm as an effort to oust Mr. Harriman from the express company. It was stated that it is due to Mr. Harriman's policy that the stockholders have not received better returns on their investments.

According to statements made stockholders also are moving against other express companies for larger dividend returns. It was reported that the American Express Company and the Adams Express Company, which, with Wells, Fargo & Company, pay 8 per cent dividends, will be asked to increase the dividend rate or else distribute some of their large surpluses.

Colonel L. C. Weir, president of the Adams Express Company, denied that any effort was being made by stockholders of his company to obtain larger dividends.

"Express companies," said he, "have to carry large cash surpluses, and the larger the surplus the better terms can be made with railroads and with shippers.

"We have to build cars to carry horses, fruit and other lines of special nature. We have to offer protection to the shippers for the valuables transported, and it becomes essential that we have an ample supply of cash. I think that some stock brokers and speculators who probably have been hooked with the express company stocks at higher prices want to obtain an increased dividend with a view of advancing the price of the stock and then selling out. In this way the other fellow will carry the bag."

The Wells, Fargo company does not make reports. Originally it was a banking enterprise and maintains a big bank in San Francisco in connection with the express business. Within the last three years under Mr. Harriman's direction, the banking business was divorced from the express company's business, and the two departments are now separate.

There is also a Reason—

Why there are Parasites who attach themselves to the Healthy Body of Cascaret's success—Imitators, Counterfeiters, Substitutors.

They are Trade Thieves who would rob Cascarets of the "Good Will" of the people, and sneak unearned profits, earned and paid for by Cascarets.

WHITEWASHED DIAMONDS

THE EXPERIENCES OF JOHN WALLACE, DETECTIVE, Under JACMUTH ADAMS, CHIEF

(Copyright, 1905, by Orlando Kling.)

By this time, wandering from street to street, I found myself in the retail section of the city and on a prominent corner of Sixteenth street, a window, brilliant with electric lights, attracted my attention. Crossing over I soon found myself enraptured by the most extravagant display of diamonds and other precious stones I had ever beheld.

At first I doubted if they were genuine, for I could scarcely comprehend how there possibly could be a demand that warranted the carrying of so elaborate and costly a stock as this purported to be. Denver was a thriving city, it was true, and I was aware that it contained many wealthy citizens, but that did not prove them different from people in other cities. Finally I entered the shop, and a gentleman came to wait on me. As an excuse for entering, I priced a small diamond pin and was surprised at the low price for which it was offered.

"Is it genuine stone?" I asked.

"Certainly, sir, and without flaws. Let me show you some others." Lifting a tray from the case he displayed its contents, quoting prices for diamonds of the first water that astounded me, being but little, if any, above importation prices.

While examining the goods I asked for an explanation.

"Well, sir," was the reply, "the facts are that for the past two months we have been having a 'diamnod war.' That is to say, the three leading firms in this line in the city have been trying to crush each other. You see the recent gold discoveries and the rapid advance in prices of real estate have made money plenty, and people who acquire wealth easily are apt to be somewhat extravagant. This has made an unusual demand for expensive goods, especially goods in our line. At first all of us increased our stocks, though we made no change in prices. After a little time somebody made a slight reduction and the other two firms put in enormous stocks and met the cut. This forced a further reduction and now all of us are carrying immense stocks and selling goods at little or no profit. The result of this has been that the people of Denver now possess more diamonds than the citizens of any town of its size in America."

I made a purchase and spent an hour visiting the other stores. At the end of that time I had no difficulty in deciding that Denver offered more and better inducements for expert cracksmen than any place I knew of. A "motive" was no longer lacking, for the field was so rich that it would justify all the expenditure of time and money that an organized gang could command.

That a considerable force of operators could be utilized was evident, for nearly every residence would contain rich booty in the form of jewelry, plate, etc., besides the stocks of the three stores. To cover the territory quickly would be desirable and to do this a considerable force of workers would be required. The main question was this, was there actually such a plan on foot or had I simply unearthed a mare's nest of my own creation?

The whole matter seemed to revolve around the answer to the query, "Who was Mrs. Wheaton and her gentlemanly appearing acquaintance?" for it was upon the answer to this question that the sequel depended.

It was useless for me to undertake to prosecute my inquiries further without assistance. I had no friends in the city who could help me to make the acquaintance of either of the parties, and I had no desire to make my vocation known to the authorities or ask their assistance in any way, for without an official request from my chief they would either ignore or make me a catspaw for their own purposes. To work alone, without the sanction of headquarters would not do, either, so I suddenly resolved to take the first train for St. Louis and consult with my employers, in whom I had confidence and who had confidence in me.

An hour later found me on the train and in due time I walked into the office. I was greeted by the chief with mingled surprise and welcme.

"Well, well," said Jacmuth Adams, the chief, as he grasped my hand, "if here isn't Wallace. What's the matter, my boy, certainly you did not get homesick in five days, did you?"

I answered the banter in kind and after the office force had resumed work I asked the chief for a half hour's consultation. He assented at once and we stepped into his private room.

"Now, young man," said he, "what's the trouble? Out with it and we will forgive as much of it as we can and forget the rest."

Knowing that if I really were in trouble I would receive all the assistance at his command, I expressed my appreciation of the offer and then said:

"Mr. Adams, I want to ask you some questions. If they appear foolish or idle, I trust you will believe that I ask them in all candor and with the hope that your experience will assist in unraveling the tangle in which I find myself."

He gave close attention to what I was saying and nodded his head for me to continue.

"Mr. Adams, do you believe that dogs possess the intelligence to detect criminals?"

"Well," said he, "that is rather a poser. Many people do believe it and in fact all of us are more or less prejudiced in favor of the idea. For myself, although I have never seen an authenticated case, if I had an intelligent dog who exhibited a strong aversion to anyone, I could not help placing considerable confidence in the animal's judgment."

Feeling that I had partially prepared his mind for what I desired to say I related my experiences, explaining the entire affair from the first scene at the bench show up to the time of my departure for home.

I was allowed to tell my story without interruption and when I had concluded Mr. Adams sat in a deep study for some time. Finally he pushed an electric button and to the office boy who responded to the call, said:

"Tell Mr. Dozier to bring his Index."

The book in question was a large volume. Yet it contained only alphabetical entries which enabled us to trace out more definite information which was to be found in the scores of other books of which our library entitled "Distinguished Citizens" consisted. In these were to be found the photographs, descriptions and other information relating to all the noted crooks known, that was obtainable. In them was entered, from day to day, everything that could be learned from all the sources at our command and which consisted of private reports from our branch offices, court records, police and penitentiary reports, supplemented by an elaborate and systematic arrangement of clippings from thousands of periodicals, covering the details of robberies and other crimes, confidence games and the thousand and one methods used for swindling the unwary.

Especial attention was paid to collecting data regarding that portion of the profession known as "high class" crooks who were noted for perpetrating swindles or robberies requiring skill and audacity.

It was the duty of Mr. Dozier, one of the most efficient employes, to keep what was known as the "Index," for it was extremely necessary that concise and accurate notations and memoranda be made to enable us to quickly trace out the information desired.

As an aid in both our general and special work this library was invaluable. In more than one instance its pages had supplied information which brought important cases to a successful termination whereby the agency had profited both in purse and reputation.

In the present instance the chief hoped to find something that would give him a clue. Something that would assist in determining who, among the people named in our records would be liable to undertake a job of the magnitude indicated.

Could he but get an inkling as to who Mrs. Wheaton was—if she was not what she represented herself to be—the case would be plain and her confederates easily discovered.

When Dozier came in he seated himself opposite the chief, who said:

"Now, Wallace, you relate the whole story again. Dozier will shorthand your statement for future reference and at the same time get a full understanding of what we wish done. Possibly the first list we shall want is the names of the women liable to answer the description of Mrs. Wheaton, although that is something we can decide upon later."

I went over the entire matter again and was pleased to notice that the chief seemed more interested than during my first recital.

Dozier listened attentively and in addition to my statements, from time to time, jotted down notes for his own use. When I had finished he asked me a number of questions about the St. Bernard and added a description of the animal to his memoranda.

"May I make a suggestion?" he asked, of the chief.

"Certainly, Mr. Dozier," replied Mr. Adams.

"Then, if you will allow me to do so, I will first try to trace some data that may lead to a discovery regarding the previous history of the dog. He no doubt is a valuable animal, and our files contain considerable information relative to the class to which he belongs, possibly we have a better history of him than his owner, himself, possesses and in that way may find an important clue."

"I believe that will be the best plan," assented the chief.

An assistant was called in and the items from the index rapidly arranged. Under the general title of "Valuable Dogs" more than a thousand references were found. Then came a more complicated task, for under the notes relating to notorious women, their histories, nationality and descriptions were found groups and subdivisions that produced a mass of memoranda that would require considerable time to trace out.

Time had passed rapidly, and before we were aware it was past 6 o'clock, which meant that we must defer further work until morning. I was loth to stop, even for an hour, for I became more and more interested as we proceeded, especially since the chief seemed disposed to investigate the affair thoroughly.

At a sign from him the books were closed and as we passed through the main office, he said:

"Mr. Dozier, I wish you to trace this matter out the first thing in the morning. You may allow the other work to wait until this is completed."

(To be continued.)

EATS JUNK TO END HIS LIFE

Maryland Man Wanted to Avoid Being Murdered

Special to The Telegram.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 6.—Fearing that some one will kill him if he does not commit suicide, Karl Knudsen, a patient in the insane department at Bayview, tried to end his life a few days ago by eating a large quantity of junk. The man had no idea of trying to become a human ostrich as Arthur Shutt, a young man of Northeast Baltimore did some years ago, but he wishes to die and pleads constantly with the physicians to kill him.

Knudsen is of Norwegian extraction and is 24 years old. He was released from the Maryland penitentiary after he had served a term of three years for larceny. Warden Weyler said that the young man had shown signs of mental breakdown while in the institution.

Twice, according to the warden, the man ate glass, but Dr. Cooke, the penitentiary physician, saved him. Now his condition is extremely serious and an operation will be performed by Dr. N. Moreland Owensby, resident physician in charge of the insane department. It is thought that a large number of nails and pieces of glass will be taken from the man's stomach.

Enough has already ben taken from the patient to cause wonder how he could live. The stuff removed so far is as follows:

Twelve bits of glass.
Four wire nails, measuring 3½ inches in length.
A large quantity of sand.
Sixteen pebbles.
Nearly a whole copy of a newspaper.

And there are indications that twice as much foreign matter is still in his stomach.

Shutt's Diet of Hardware

Shutt's record beats this by a good deal, though when the operation is peformed it is more than likely that Knudson's ability to swallow such things will equal that of the original "human ostrich" who was operated on at Johns Hopkins hospital. Shutt's collection is still preserved at the hospital as a curio. It is as follows:

Four brass watch chains, with catches and stars.
Twelve and one-half feet of three-eighths-inch iron chain.
Twenty-five grams of ground glass.
One staple.
Forty-nine tacks.
Two screw eyes.
Eleven pins
Eight screws.
Nine horsehoe nails.
Seven knife blades.
Two knife handles.
Nineteen wire nails.
Seventy-two assorted nails.

Knudsen was admitted to the penitentiary Sept. 18, 1903, and when he was released he was turned over to his father and sister. The father, Andrew Knudsen, lives at 230 North Madeira street, and the son was taken home, but he did not stay there long. He was next heard from when he was picked up on the street by the police, declared insane and sent to the central police station to be conveyed to Bayview.

At the asylum Dr. Owensby subjected Knudsen to a physical examination and whenever he touched the man's body the man shrieked. Dr. Owensby did not imagine what was the cause, but realized that there was something wrong with the man's stomach, so he investigated.

Begs Doctor to Kill Him

The story of the patient's experience as gathered by the doctor follows:

"The man is undoubtedly insane and imagines some one is trying to kill him. While he seems to want to kill himself, according to his statement, he wanted me to kill him, and, in fact, begged me to do it. His one thought is that he has done wrong and that he will never be able to retrieve himself. He seems to think that he has done something of an extremely grave nature, so serious that some one would kill him for it."

Shutt gained his reputation as a "human ostrich" in March, 1900, when he applied at the Hopkins hospital, complaining of severe pains in his stomach. He told the doctors that he had made a living by chewing nails, tacks and other unusual food, but that he had never been made to swallow them. He said he usually disposed of them by a slight-of-hand movement, secreting them in his coat sleeve.

Shutt boasted of his ability to digest such dainties before some medical students and a wager was made. The students were not easily deceived, so they insisted upon Shutt rolling up his shirt sleeves. Not caring to show the white feather, Shut swallowed the articles. An immediate operation saved his life.

A WARNING AGAINST THE DEALER WHO SUBSTITUTES

Some dealers will try to palm off a substitute which they claim is "just as good" as JAP-A-LAC. Why do they say, "it's just as good as JAP-A-LAC?" For this reason: They know that JAP-A-LAC is the best colored varnish made. Every manufacturer of an imitation tells the dealers his material is "just as good" as JAP-A-LAC. This is pretty good proof that JAP-A-LAC is the best. If you want the best, insist on JAP-A-LAC.

SCROFULA AN INHERITED MISFORTUNE

Every one has a hereditary right to a pure blood supply, which insures a strong, healthy body; but how many do we see who have inherited that greatest of all misfortunes, Scrofula, and are struggling under a legacy of disease and suffering? Scrofula is a constitutional trouble handed down from parent to child, a curse from generation to generation as long as the scrofulous matter is allowed to remain in the family blood. As the very foundation of the blood is diseased we see this awful affliction manifested in many ways, such as enlarged glands or tumors about the neck, which often burst and become discharging ulcers, weak eyes, chronic Catarrh of the head, skin diseases, etc. This blighting disease being so firmly intrenched in the blood often attacks the bones, resulting in White Swelling, or hip disease, while a pallid, waxey appearance of the skin, loss of strength, and often lung affections show that the disease is entirely destroying the rich, nutritive qualities of the blood. There is but one way to cure Scrofula and that is to purify the blood and rid it of the germs of disease, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. Its purifying and building-up properties make it the ideal remedy for Scrofula. S. S. S. searches out and destroys all poisons and germs, gives strength, richness and vigor to the weak, polluted blood and cures Scrofula permanently. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable medicine, made from roots, herbs and barks and may be taken with absolute safety by young or old. It so thoroughly removes the poison from the blood that no signs of it are ever seen again and posterity is blessed with a pure blood supply. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired without charge.

Call Money Again Touches 30 Per Cent. Tension Relieved Later—More Business Transacted

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The monetary stringency continues to be the dominating influence of the stock market. Although the opening rate for call money was 10c to 15c per cent, a sharp flurry ensued and before midday loans were made at 30 per cent. London cables reported a firm market for Americans, but the local opening was slightly irregular. The general trade displayed more uneasiness over the situation than has been apparent at any time this week, and although the volume of business was on a slightly larger scale, liquidation was a prominent feature and during the first hour declines ranging from ¾ to 1 point were numerous. However, the support was good at the decline and in most instances losses were recuperated before noon. Union Pacific was again the feature of the early trading. Although the stock sold down a point from yesterday's finals, it quickly reacted and stood around 157½ the greater part of the early session. Large blocks were taken at this figure, but there was very little attempt made to push the price higher. A singular fact in connection with the stock is that houses which have been exceedingly bullish for some time and still contend that it ought to sell 5 to 15 points higher, are not making purchases at the present level, giving as their reason for this condition that Harriman sold 40,000 shares above 159¼ and his friends sold at 159, and they are not sure at what price the stock will be taken back. Regarding the monetary stringency, it has been plainly intimated that the market is being manipulated by bankers, who hope to create an active demand for time money, for which there has been very little inquiry of late. Most of the money loaned has been to firms acting for pools and cliques. Sales to 11 a. m., 288,700 shares; to noon, 521,900 shares.

With the easing of the money market during the afternoon, when call loans were made as low as 10 per cent, the most of the active issues rallied sharply from the early depression. Reading and Union Pacific in particular showed strong recuperative powers, the first named working up 1⅞ from the lowest to a net gain of 1¼, while Union Pacific sold 1¾ points above the low point of the morning session.

A. C. P., St. Paul and several of the other issues advanced substantially above yesterday's closing level.

The market closed irregular, but the more important issues showed fractional gains. Sales to 1 p. m., 621,800 shares.

Wall Street Gossip

American stocks in London firm; general London market dull and heavy.

Small demand for stocks in loan crowd.

Early ease in call money expected by bankers.

German and Prussian loans of $140,000,000 announced in Berlin. This is less than expected.

United States Rubber declares regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on first preferred and 1½ per cent on second preferred.

Regarding the present situation, a member of the Stock Exchange said: "The stock market appears to have halted for breath. In view of the limited response from the commission house element, its capacity for taking realizing sales from the bull element among traders and large speculators is almost wonderful. We are trading, of course, in a fixed supply of floating stocks, which is to say that we are not trading in stocks at all—only contracts. Bankers' loans are not increasing to speak of, which is due to the character of the trading, and this is preferable for the time being, owing to the limitations of the money market. We shall probably have stiff money for some little time yet, but it would not be at all surprising to see prices considerably higher, when the money market is easier again, so that everybody may buy. This is what happened a few months ago. The bull crowd kept putting up prices through a period of 100 per cent money in December, and then in January, when there was an easy money market, the bull crowd unloaded on the commission houses. It probably could be done again. While any such thing as this is going on people say the market is abnormal, that it is flaunting in the face of providence to run prices up in a tight money market, etc.; but it is done over and over again. It succeeded the last time."

CHICAGO GRAIN

Wheat Market Quiet—More Bearish Crop Reports Cause Slight Decline in Prices

Special to The Telegram.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Wheat traders were not inclined to aggressiveness and as a consequence the session was extremely dull, with fluctuations confined to a very narrow range, the trend, however, being toward a lower level. About the only feature was the early buying of 150,000 bushels of September by Knutland. Large shipments from the Argentines led to weakness in the foreign market, but the local was only slightly affected at the opening hour prices being unchanged to ⅛c lower. The market soon weakened, however, on publication of bearish crop reports, the most prominent of which was by Snow, estimating the condition of winter wheat on April 1 at 91.2 vs. 90 last year, 80 in 1904 and 95.9 in 1903. Prices eased off to a net decline of ½c for the May option, while July and September held relatively steady. The market closed steady with prices at a net loss off ¼c for May and unchanged for later positions. Local receipts, 1 car vs. 12 cars this day last year.

Corn

Corn continued to exhibit independent strength, and although prices weakened somewhat in the initial trading, a recovery was effected on only a moderate volume of buying and the market closed firm with prices ⅛c net higher. Local receipts 168 cars, two of which were contract grade; 293 cars were received this day last year.

Oats

Oats were dull and steady, closing prices were unchanged to ⅛c lower. Local receipts, 137 cars, 46 of which were contract grade, against a total of 91 cars this day last year.

Provisions

Provisions encountered only a light trade, but barring a period of temporary weakness about the middle of the session, prices held steady throughout and closing figures unchanged for pork and lard and 3c higher to 1½c lower for ribs.

Estimate Receipts

Estimated receipts for tomorrow are as follows: Wheat, 3 cars; corn, 167 cars; oats, 181 cars.

NEW YORK COTTON

Dull and Featureless Session—Liverpool Advices Unfavorable—Prices Decline Gradually

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Cotton market was extremely dull and entirely without feature, traders of both elements being apathetic and allowing prices to drift aimlessly throughout the session.

Foreign advices were disappointing and this caused a weak opening with prices to 5 points lower.

There was a slight recovery in the initial trading when the near positions worked up 3 points from the opening figures, but both local and outside support was lacking and the advance was not maintained for any length of time, the uncertainty as to which side the week-end statistics would favor and a weather map showing better conditions prevailing throughout the belt. Prices declined gradually throughout the session, touching the low point in the final trading, with near positions selling 10 points below yesterday's closing level and new crop months at a decline of 9 points.

The close was quiet with prices near the lowest.

Spots were quiet with prices 10 points lower at 11.60c for middling. Sales, 100 bales.

NEW ORLEANS, April 6.—The only feature of the cotton market was the extreme dullness which prevailed throughout the session. The talent on both sides seem to be content to await developments, at least they did not exert themselves in the least, and prices were allowed to pursue a downward course without interruption.

Aside from the unfavorable character of the Liverpool advices, the only news of importance was a statement by Hester to the effect that the average weight of the bales up to the close of March was 517.11 pounds against 519.57 pounds for the same period last year. This was somewhat of a disappointment to the bulls, as many have contended that the weight was fully ten pounds lighter than last year.

In response to the unfavorable character of the early cables, opening prices were 2 to 4 points lower. During the first hour the loss was recovered, near positions working back to a level with yesterday's close, but the market soon weakened again and prices eased off continuously throughout the balance of the session, the close being steady with prices at the lowest showing a net loss of 10 points for old and 8 points for new crop months.

Spots were firm, with prices unchanged at 11 3-16c for middling. Sales, 1,650 bales, with 1,400 bales f. o. b.

CATTLE AND HOGS

Steer Prices Drag—Cows Sell Better. The Swine Market Steady

Receipts of cattle today were less than the usual Friday run, about 1,200 head.

Steers

As usual, the supply of marketable steers outnumbered all other cattle stuff, and the market was featured by the incoming of two loads of extra heavy fed steers and a long string of grassers from South Texas. Buyers did not take kindly to any class of steer cattle, at first entirely neglecting the grass contingent. The heavy dry lot cattle received a bid of $4.65, which was 10c less than the seller had settled on, and this difference arrested bargaining for some time. Finally they sold at the bid. Other fed steers brought $4.15@4.20, and the grassers landed at $4. The steer market was about steady at these figures. Sales:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.
50	967	$4.00	40	967	$4.00
58	944	4.00	15	700	3.00
1	780	3.90	27	1,025	4.15
21	921	4.00	46	1,127	4.20
39	502	3.70	37	944	3.70
26	801	3.65	24	970	4.00
39	1,253	4.65	29	1,117	4.20

Butcher Stock

The market on cow stuff for the butcher trade displayed some life, and prices showed a tendency towards strength. Very few good cows were in, and the supply went over the scales with celerity. Packers took readily all cows showing flesh enough to put them in the killing class, and pasturemen were after larger supplies of thin and young she stuff.

Sales of cows:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.
1	890	$3.25	7	691	$2.05
8	683	1.80	7	674	1.80
7	700	2.10	5	726	1.81
2	945	3.25	16	869	3.00
2	1,035	3.65	4	722	3.00

Sales of heifers:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.
7	501	$3.25	1	580	$3.50
7	460	4.00	1	470	2.50
1	1,100	3.75	18	767	3.40
6	503	3.35
5	414	2.00

Bulls

The small bull supply was helped by two loads of drive-ins from a local feed lot. Steady prices prevailed. Sales:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.
27	1,152	$2.85
23	934	2.45	10	1,270	3.00
5	982	2.50

Calves

The supply of veal calves was exceedingly small, coming entirely from short and mixed loads. Selling of all light killing grades was on a steady basis with yesterday, but New Orleans orders were light and trading in that class of calves was dull at lower prices. Sales:

No.	Ave.	Price.	No.	Ave.	Price.
7	240	$3.25	3	106	$4.50
7	311	4.00	1	280	3.00
1	160	4.50	30	320	3.25
3	333	3.00	1	140	4.25
2	300	4.00	34	460	2.50

Hogs

The hog supply was the smallest of the week, approaching 1,600 head. The number of choice heavy hogs was limited, the supply running mostly to medium packers and light butcher weights. Packers again brought bear tactics into use and the market was slow. An outsider bought three loads of light butchers for the Cuban trade, and on this class prices were strong while he was in the ring. His order once filled, butcher hogs dropped a notch. The market was a little worse than steady with yesterday's mean close. Pigs sold steady within the range $4.60@4.75.

Sales of pigs:

VIEWS ON THE MARKET

Ware & Leland

FORT WORTH, April 6.—New Orleans Cotton—Liverpool offered no encouragement today. Futures conformed to the easier tone on our side, showing 2 points decline. Spot sales were 10,000 bales, with 8,900 American at 1 point lower quotations. There was limited trading in futures, the usual parties bid for and took May and July offerings, but there was no spirit in the game on account of the existing suspicion that New York bulls are drawing out on every bulge. Improvement in the weather outlook, the official forecast promising fair weather in the belt for the next two days, was also against the market. A rumored deficiency in the Havre stock, which if correct would change the prospects of the visible supply statement for the week from bearish to bullish caused some room buying. The statement by the Masters' Federation of over 600,000 bales excess in invisible mill supply stocks over last year's, attracts more inasmuch as the rate of weekly mill takings must soon either reflect its excess, or if continuing large, point to unprecedented trade prosperity and consumption.

Vivion Commission Company

FORT WORTH, April 6.—Cotton prices in New York moved within a narrow range during the early session, the trading being about the lightest noted thus far for the week. Course of the foreign market was not encouraging, opening prices for contracts being slightly lower than due, at unchanged to 2 points down, while closing figures showed a net loss of 3 to 4 points.

Spots were easy at a decline of 1 point at 6.10d for American middling. Sales, 10,000 bales.

The weather map showed better conditions, with clearing skies, but scattered showers are forecast. Rumor had it that there was a serious deficit in Havre stocks, but later advices denied the truth of this assertion, stating that the stock was 39,000 bales over that held at the corresponding time last year.

Hester makes average weight of bales up to March 1, 517.11 pounds against 519.57 pounds for the corresponding months last year.

Opening prices in New York were 4 to 5 points lower for old and 2 to 3 points down for new crop options.

Immediately following the call, May and July worked up 2 points, but on the second call prices were 8 points net lower. C. T. VIVION.

BAD DOLLARS IN WEST TEXAS

Additional Counterfeits Are in Bank Shipment

The number of counterfeit dollars of the date 1890 in this vicinity continues to grow. About twenty-five have been discovered in all. New ones appeared Friday morning in a shipment of silver from a West Texas bank received at the First National Bank. In this shipment three counterfeit dollars of the same type as have appeared here before were discovered.

A secret service agent was in the city from Dallas Friday morning and looked over the counterfeits that have appeared here. He made no statement about them, however, except as to the fact that he did not know whether they were scattered all over the state or not. Several were weighed by him and found to be perfectly accurate in weight.

A theory was advanced Friday morning that the dollars had been manufactured in Mexico, coming as they did in this section of the country and in West Texas.

The total number that have appeared at the First National Bank now is about fifteen.

New counterfeits to the number of a half dozen have been discovered at the Continental Bank and Trust Company, brought in by different customers. Two have also been detected at Moyer's restaurant.

At the present time reports are about all in from the members of the association giving the conditions of the grain crops throughout the state and not one mentions the green bug at all. A report was also received from President J. Z. Keel of Gainesville, which made no mention of the green bug.

There is no mention either of the cutting worm attacking the wheat crop as reported from Oklahoma. The reports do not come from there, but there have been no worms discovered in Texas.

SENATORS JAR OVER RATE BILL

Dolliver Defends Conference With President

Special to The Telegram.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—In the senate yesterday there was a re-echo of the White House conference of last Saturday relative to the pending railroad rate legislation, and while the discussion ended in good nature there was a time when the feeling was quite intense. The incident occurred at the close of a speech by Mr. Stone, which was devoted largely to a discussion of that conference.

Mr. Dolliver took the floor and in a brief speech devoted to a defense of the right of senators to confer with the President charged that other senators had been in consultation with the presidents of railroad companies. The intimation contained in the charge was resented by both Mr. Bailey and Mr. Foraker, and they demanded the names of the senators referred to. These Mr. Dolliver declined to give, but he justified his course in making the charge by saying that he and other senators who had participated in the conference had been sneered at and ridiculed in the discussion of last Tuesday. This avowal of his motive brought about an explanation from Mr. Foraker and the incident ended pleasantly.

Mr. Elkins has given notice of a speech on the rate bill for today and Mr. Bailey of a speech on next Tuesday. The Texas senator will reply especially to the criticisms made by Messrs. Spooner and Knox of his plan for a limitation of the powers of superior courts in granting injunctions in rate litigation.

A bill authorizing the Tyronsa Railroad company to construct a bridge across Little river in Poincette, Ark., was passed.

Rate Bill Discussion

The rate bill was then taken up and Mr. Newlands continued his argument in support of his proposition for the national incorporation of railroad companies. When M. Newlands concluded Mr. Stone took the floor in support of the rate bill.

When Mr. Stone ceased speaking Mr. Dolliver took the floor and commented on the criticisms of the President, saying that he was not one of those who have felt irritated over the President's interest in the pending legislation.

Mr. Bailey responded, saying the present situation presented peculiar reasons why the President should not interfere with legislation. He expressed the opinion that not a third of the republican senators agreed with the chief executive.

Mr. Aldrich arose, and as he did so Mr. Bailey expressed the hope that he would be able to include himself as in the one-third.

"So far as I know there is no republican member of the senate who does not sympathize with the efforts of the President and others to secure proper legislation," said the Rhode Island senator, but he added that there were many who did not sympathize with the effort to limit and circumscribe the proposed law so as to effectively prevent an appeal to the courts.

Mr. Bailey then turned his attention to an assertion made by Mr. Dolliver that some senators had been conferring with railroad officials on the subject of railroad legislation.

"We want to know who has been conferring with the railroad presidents," he said. Not the senate only, but the country at large is interested and has a right to this information, he continued.

Mr. Foraker indorsed the statement by Mr. Bailey.

"I shall take the liberty of not pursuing that counsel," said Mr. Dolliver, deliberately rising from his seat.

The senate has a right to know, Mr. Foraker insisted.

Mr. Dolliver then said that he had never dreamed of committing any impropriety in his statement.

Mr. Foraker said he had known of no conference with railroad men on the pending bill.

"It will not answer to say that there were no improper motives in the insinuation," he went on.

Mr. Dolliver again disclaimed any intention to impute improper motives to Mr. Foraker or any other senator, saying he would probably not have raised the point if his visit to the White House with other senators had not been made the subject of jest, sneers and satire.

Aldrich Protests

Mr. Aldrich again took the floor to deiterate his position with reference to the pending legislation.

"I desire," he said, with some earnestness, "to enter a protest against the assumption that any senator here is the only friend of railroad rate legislation. No one here had any patent which would justify him in assuming to speak in that capacity. I know of no one here who is opposed to proper legislation and there can be no proper classification of some friends and others as enemies."

This was the end of the serious part of the controversy.

Mr. Foraker replied in a similar manner to Mr. Dolliver's complaint relative to the character of the debate on Tuesday, saying that for the most part it had consisted of good-natured raillery, directed at the senior senator from Iowa, Mr. Allison.

The senate at 4 p. m. went into executive session and adjourned twelve minutes later.

HONESDALE, Pa., April 6.—A train bore away to New York Miss Rebecca Thompson, who has begun a journey of 11,000 miles to become a bride. Her fiance is John Torrey Fuller, son of Henry S. Fuller of Wilkesbarre, a mining engineer employed by the De Beers company of South Africa.

Miss Thompson is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Thompson of Honesdale. A brother, A. A. Thompson, will accompany her to South Africa and act as best man at the wedding. Her parents accompanied their daughter and son to New York to see them sail on the steamship Grosser Kurfurst for England.

After a stay of a week or two with friends at Plymouth the bride-elect and her brother will sail for South Africa. The marriage will take place at Cape Town and Mr. Fuller and his bride will then occupy a house at Kimberley.

Mr. Fuller holds a position with the De Beers company and it was because it was impossible for him to obtain a six months' leave of absence that Miss Thompson decided to go to South Africa to become his bride. It is expected Miss Thompson and her brother will arrive in Cape Town on May 8.

GET RID OF THE GAS

IT IS A DISTRESSING SYMPTOM OF INDIGESTION.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Strengthen the Stomach and Enable It to Do Its Work.

When the stomach is feeble the food lies in it undigested, decays and throws off poisonous gases that distend the walls of the stomach, and causes interference with other organs, especially with the action of the heart and lungs. These gases have other ill effects. They are absorbed by the blood and corrupt it and so cause aches in remote parts of the body and the formation of unhealthy tissue everywhere. General bodily weakness and loss of weight result. The nerves and the brain are disturbed and discomforts such as dizziness, hot flashes, sleeplessness, irritableness and despondency originate from this source.

Experience shows that these troubles vanish just as soon as the stomach is made strong enough to digest the food. In other words, it needs a tonic that will rouse it to do the work of changing the food into nourishment. The tonic used ought to be one that will agree with the most delicate stomach.

Miss Minerva C. Ladd, of Ipswich, Mass., says: "I had a weak stomach from the time I was a little child. Whenever I took hearty food it would cause terrible faintness, and I would finally vomit what I had eaten. At times there would be the most intense pains through the upper part of my body. For days in succession, I would have to lie down most of the time. The distress was often so great that I could hardly bear it, and the frequent and violent belching spells were very disagreeable, too.

"My doctor's medicines gave me little relief and it was not until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I found a cure. Within three weeks a decided improvement was noticeable. The belching spells were less frequent, the pains through my body were not so intense, my food was retained and after taking the pills for a few weeks longer I found that I was altogether free from the miseries I had so long suffered."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50. Every dyspeptic should read "What to Eat and How to Eat." Write the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a copy.

WESTERN ROADS CALL MEETING

Settlement of the Homeseeker Fight in Sight

H. C. McHARG IS COMING

President of Texas Central May Make Final Decision Regarding Rumored Extension From Stamford

Steps toward the settlement of the northwestern and southwestern homeseekers' excursion contest threatened between the roads reaching the two territories were taken at the meeting it to be and everything is humming held at Kansas City, which closed Thursday.

Looking to adjustment of these conditions a mass meeting of representatives of all lines in the west, including those from this territory, will be held at Chicago, the exact date not now being fixed. It is understood, however, that the meeting will be held April 9 or 10.

It is understood that telegraphic correspondence looking to adjustment is now being carried on by representatives of the various lines interested.

Difficulty is caused by the announcement that weekly homeseekers' excursions are to be run by the roads to the northwest. This, it is declared, would act against the southwest and the southwestern lines immediately decided to remedy the situation. If the weekly excursions ot the northwest become effective, it can be safely predicted a similar schedule to the southwest will follow, in place of the present service twice a month, though rumors of a probable rate war in conjunction with the extra dates are positively denied.

It is urged that at the present time there is no cause for the weekly excursions, the farmers, those who are especially interested in these rates being now too busily engaged in all parts of the country to visit new territory.

The trouble which has grown serious, had its origin several years ago when the Rock Island and other lins began to put in low rates in the interest of developing the southwest. For years the western roads had accepted tenders of low rates made by the southeastern roads with a view to colonizing the south and southeast. When the western lines tendered low rates in the interest of their territory the southeastern roads demurred and have ever since been calling for a conference.

Such a conference was held in St. Louis two weeks ago, at which the southeastern interests asked the southwestern roads to take out their low rates, applying from Memphis territory. Objection was especially made to the round trip rate of 75 per cent of the one-way fare which is put into effect during the fall months. All roads except the Rock Island expressed a willingness to raise the rates.

In the meantime the northwestern lines had given notice that they would run homeseekers' excursions every Tuesday in the month instead of every third Tuesday, and the Rock Island declared it would not permit the southwest to be sidetracked by any other territory. It is rumored the Rock Island's next move will be to extend its cheap rates to the Birmingham territory, which it has refrained from doing hitherto in consideration of the southeastern situation.

President McHarg Coming

H. K. McHarg of Stamford, Conn., president of the Texas Central railroad, is scheduled to reach Fort Worth Friday night over the Denver on his way to Stamford, Texas, the present terminus of the Texas Central.

Mr. McHarg, is is understood, while in Texas will investigate the proposed extension of the line from Stamford west a distance of about fifty miles, reaching the White Flat country. It is expected some definite announcement of plans will follow the visit of President McHarg.

F. T. Dolan, general superintendent of the Rock Island, former superintendent of the Denver Road, with headquarters in this city, will also reach Fort Worth Friday night from Colorado over the Denver Road.

Notes and Personals

A. A. Glisson, general passenger agent of the Denver Road, has returned from a meeting of the Southwestern Passengers bureau at Kansas City.

E. A. Pennington, city agent of the Houston and Texas Central, has returned from a trip to St. Louis.

W. D. Drake, vice president of the Frisco, has gone to Sherman.

A rate of half fare flat has been announced by the Rock Island for the convention of Elks in Denver next July.

Seven roads for fourth week of March show average gross increase of 15.7 per cent.

SUFFERED AGONIES FOR FOUR YEARS

Whole Foot Nothing But Proud Flesh —Tried Different Physicians and All Kinds of Ointments—Could Walk Only With Crutches—Ohio Man Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES THE BEST ON EARTH"

"In the year 1899 the side of my right foot was cut off from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. When he found out that wouldn't work, he began trying to heal the wound with all kinds of ointment, until at last my whole foot and way up above my calf was nothing but proud flesh. I suffered untold agonies for four years, and tried different physicians and all kinds of ointments. I could walk only with crutches. It is sixteen months ago since I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for my limb and foot. The first two months the Cuticura Remedies did not seem to work, but I kept on using them both. In two weeks afterwards I saw a change in my limb. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment often during the day and kept it up for seven months, when my limb was healed up just the same as if I never had trouble.

"It is eight months now since I stopped using Cuticura Remedies, the best on God's earth. I am working at the present day, after five years of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $6, but the doctors' bills were more like $600. You can publish my name and refer any one to write to me about Cuticura Remedies. I will answer all letters if postage is enclosed. John M. Lloyd, 718 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

BUSINESS LOTS ADVANCE RAPIDLY

Sale of Wadsworth-Cameron Site Shows Big Increase

Fifteen hundred dollars a day represents the rise in price of real estate in the city according to the sale made of the property formerly occupied by the Wadsworth-Cameron Drug Company Friday morning. The property was purchased on Thursday by George Simson for $10,000 from the Wadsworth-Cameron Drug Company and was sold for $11,500 Friday morning to Lee Johnson.

During the one day that Mr. Simson was the owner of the property he had offers from three wholesale firms in this city to rent the property as soon as he could build them a building upon it. It is a valuable location, being one of the few places in the city which have trackage arrangements without additional building.

The property was purchased by the Wadsworth-Cameron Company just previous to their location in this city four years ago for $3,500, so they realized considerable on the value of the lot in the time that they held it.

Work of tearing out the debris will be continued as fast as possible. It is believed that the foundation walls are not injured and will be able to be used for a new building. A large vault located in the basement remains intact. The basement of the building, which was excavated at the time the original was built, cost in the neighborhood of $3,500, and this can be used again in a new building.

It is understood that the new owner will begin the erection of a brick building, two stories and basement, immediately, as soon as the old building can be cleared away.

PANHANDLE GROWING

T. L. Benedict Says Land Is in Big Demand

T. L. Benedict, general foreman of telegraph construction on the Colorado Southern and the Fort Worth and Denver, is in Fort Worth on his monthly tour of the southern division of the system. He said that work would begin shortly, just when he could not say, on an additional telegraph wire from Fort Worth to Childress, the business of the road demanding this increase of the telegraphic facilities. The work may begin during the present month.

"The Panhandle country," he said, "is in the finest shape I ever knew of the Southwestern Passenger bureau so up there that a man can almost hear them hum as he rides along on the train. There has been an abundance of rain, the soil is in fine conditions for crops and new farms are being opened all along our road.

"The land fever has hit the Panhandle country with full force and land values are rapidly advancing. New people are coming in in droves from the old states and they are a good class of people. Lands near Memphis, in Hall county, that could have been bought for $5 an acre are now on the market at $30 and are being sold at the latter figure. The Panhandle is a good place to invest money in land."

When asked if there was not danger of the price of land going too high, Mr. Benedict said:

"No; the east and north is crowded and the price of land there is prohibitive to men of small means, and Texas and Old Mexico are the only remaining countries in North America where good cheap lands can be had. The homeseekers know this and they are rapidly taking up the choice bits of farm lands that are for sale. I believe that Texas land values will double in five years' time—that is in the Panhandle country."

BODY IDENTIFIED

Cleburne Employer Views Remains of A. F. Van Winkle Here

Body of A. F. Van Winkle, whose death occurred in the charity ward of St. Joseph's infirmary, has been identified as that of a man who had been selling railroad and mining stocks for F. M. Morgan of Cleburne.

Mr. Morgan was in Fort Worth Thursday and positively identified the body. The body is still being held awaiting efforts to find relatives.

FINAL CANVASS FOR Y. M. C. A. ON

Over $3,000 to Be Raised Before Saturday Night

Preparations are being made for the final day of the canvass for the $12,000 for the Y. M. C. A., which will end Saturday night at 6 o'clock sharp. The $9,000 mark has not been passed yet, so there will have to be over $3,000 raised in the last twenty-four hours of the contest.

All day Saturday the total amount raised will be posted every hour, with the amount still remaining to be made up to get the $12,000. At 5 o'clock bulletins will begin to be posted every five minutes until the hour of closing the canvass shall be reached, at 6 o'clock. Before that time the whistles will have to blow four times to show the passing of the last thousand-dollar marks on the lists.

A meeting of the workers in the campaign will be held at the Board of Trade rooms Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock in order that they may witness the last hour of the canvass.

A letter was received Saturday morning from the new state secretary, S. A. Kincaide, which states that the results of the canvass here are being watched with great interest there, as a similar canvass for a building will start there within a short time, and the fulfillment of the hopes of the Y. M. C. A. here will be greatly encouraging there.

The letter received from Mr. Kincaide is as follows:

HOUSTON, Texas, April 5, 1906.—L. E. Jones, Secretary Y. M. C. A., Fort Worth, Texas—My Dear Mr. Jones: Your letter received this morning. I am glad you are doing so well in the canvass and I am extremely interested in your beating the $12,000 mark by Saturday night. Tell your Fort Worth workers that Houston is watching the results, parties here having mentioned the matter to me with considerable interest. Very sincerely yours,

S. A. KINCAIDE,
State Secretary Young Men's Christian Association.

A very successful canvass of the Rock Island round house and freight yards has just closed and pledges for a considerable sum of money handed over to Secretary Jones. It is hoped also that canvasses of other business houses will be made within the next twenty-four hours in order that the sum for both the railroad and young men's committees may show up to the $1,000 mark.

The mail canvass will be closed as far as sending out letters is concerned on Friday night. It is expected that results of this canvass will be shown in the receipt of subscriptions on Saturday.

Cure For The Blues

ONE MEDICINE THAT HAS NEVER FAILED

Health Fully Restored and the Joy of Life Regained.

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way; She has been feeling "out of sorts" for some time; head has ached and back also; has slept poorly, been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart beats very fast; then that bearing-down feeling, and during her periods she is exceedingly despondent. Nothing pleases her. Her doctor says: "Cheer up: you have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon."

But she doesn't get "all right," and hope vanishes; then come the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES.

Don't wait until your sufferings have driven you to despair, with your nerves all shattered and your courage gone, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. See what it did for Mrs. Rosa Adams, of 819 12th Street, Louisville, Ky., niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C.S.A. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I cannot tell you with pen and ink what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered with female troubles, extreme lassitude, 'the blues,' nervousness and that all-gone feeling. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it not only cured my female derangement, but it has restored me to perfect health and strength. The buoyancy of my younger days has returned, and I do not suffer any longer with despondency, as I did before. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a boon to sick and suffering women."

If you have some derangement of the female organism write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice.
