Banquet at Fritz Hotel Was Pleasant Event

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and banquet was held at the Fritz Hotel Saturday night of last week and was exceptionally well attended, there being some sixty or more present. The luncheon as prepared by Mrs. Fritz was given ample attention and was heartily enjoyed by those present.

The newly organized Kimble County band was present and rendered a few numbers in manner very acceptable to the gathering, and also evidenced the ability of the instructor, John M. Hankins, as well as that of the personnel of the band. This band has been organized less than a month and has had about three rehearsals, and the ability displayed was wonderful.

The luncheon was preceded by a short prayer by Rev. J. S. Newman, and following the meal the minutes of previous meetings were read and discussed in the order in which they came. Various committees made their reports which were accepted.

Judge Coke R. Stevenson was then called on as presiding member of the committee to report on the question of incorporating the town of Junction and in his logical and convincing way outlined what incorporation would mean to our town. Due to the fact that the hour was late he did not dwell at length on the question of incorporation but only mentioned in detail especially the advantages gained in the installation of an adequate water system that could be realized by the city becoming a municipal corporation, and the further advantages that could be obtained by regulating traffic and sanitary conditions within the city limits. His talk was well received and a great majority of those present expressed themselves, after the meeting, as being in favor of this measure of protection and advantage to our town.

It was decided to invite the ladies to participate in these monthly luncheons. This matter was left to a vote of those present, but the Eagle refuses to state the standing of the vote, as there were some, naturally, who were opposed to the issue.

A committee composed of Emil A. Loeffler, Coke R. Stevenson and H. W. Rieck, appointed at a previous meeting, to prepare a proposed constitutional amendment which would provide that Kimble County be permitted to vote not to exceed $150,000 in bonds to offer as a bonus for the construction of a railroad through the county, to be submitted to the Governor with request that it be referred to the called session of the Legislature, reported that this matter had been attended to and that the proposed amendment would be presented to the Governor this week, in person by Judge Coke R. Stevenson, who, having been appointed by the president of the Chamber to also take up with the proper officials the establishment of a State Astronomical Observatory in Kimble County, as it is understood that an institution of this nature will be established somewhere in Texas, and Kimble County is making an effort to get it. Judge Stevenson is in Austin this week looking after these matters.

There was much merriment as well as business at this luncheon, and a very pleasant two or more hours were spent, at the conclusion of which Rev. J. A. Ludlam offered a prayer in dismissal of the gathering.

Canada has one golf course for every 19,393 inhabitants; in the United States there is one for every 25,793 persons.

McWRIGHT TOURIST CAMP ENTERTAINS C. OF C.

J. J. McWright, owner of McWright's camp entertained approximately one hundred guests at his camp on Tuesday night, May 3rd. The guests gathered at about eight o'clock, beneath the large pecan trees of the Park, which had been lighted by Mr. McWright's order and where there was served in typically western fashion, fine barbecued kid, mutton sheep, hot rolls, coffee, tea and ice water.

In addition to representatives from most every community in the county, several visitors from McWright's camp were among those assembled for the feast.

The San Antonio Express had its representative present, Mr. DeVitt, who made the assemblage a very interesting address, with reference to what the circulation department was endeavoring to do for this county. Needless to say this publishing company is helping to develop our county and their assistance in getting a daily mail from San Antonio, is a great help to our entire county.

The park tax was then fully discussed and from the attention given the speaker and the expression given after the meeting it is believed that about ninety-five per cent of those present will favor and for the most part work for the tax measure for a fair ground.

A short and appreciative talk was made by "Highway" Smith from Cuero, Texas, who told of the many advantages that had been derived from a fair in the community in which he resided and how the "Turkey Trot" had put their city on the map.

The meeting was a success in every way and Mr. McWright is deserving of compliment for his hospitality and excellent entertainment.

APPEALS FOR HELP OF FLOOD SUFFERERS

The following telegram was received Tuesday by the Red Cross Chairman John Munn from National Chairman W. M. Baxter, of St. Louis, which is self explanatory:

"John Munn, Junction, Texas. "Greatest catastrophe valley has ever had; greatest relief need in our country's history.

"Our records show your name as Red Cross official of your county. We believe your county desires representation. Contribution to relief fund requested by American Red Cross. I urge you to extend this appeal to all citizens in your county.

"Wire reply indicating amount that we may expect. Send remittance to the following office. W. M. Baxter, Jr."

Mr. Munn requests that those desiring to make contributions to this cause will please leave same with either of the local banks.

EVERYTHING SET FOR BIG MINSTREL SHOW

Rehearsals for the Minstrel Show Friday night are being staged nightly. Each of the players are well up on their parts, and everything points to a very enjoyable affair.

The cast of characters are: Ned Maddox, H. T. Richardson, Dillard Motley, Don Maddox, Ruby Johnson, Ruth Lee Hoggett, Mildred Hodges and Vivian James form the Chorus of the Minstrel. The Black Face Comedians are Cloma Murrah, Louie Ragland, Ford Webber, Linville McKinney, Bill Cummins, Bob Bissett, Frank Hubbell and Stewart Smith.

The program calls for a variety of songs, jokes and dances. It will be impossible for a person to keep from laughing at the Black Face Comedians, who are on the job from start to finish.

The Base Ball Game with El Dorado Friday afternoon will be given in connection with the Minstrel, the admission for both the game and the Minstrel being only 50c.

IVY GOSSIP

T. B. Pearl is at home on the farm after a few days at work on the highway.

Ross Kaiser, who ranches on the Blue Mountains, made a business trip to Yates Tuesday.

Bill Gephart is at home for a short while.

Prof. Orlan Stewart was unable to attend school last Friday because of an attack of "Flu" and sore throat.

The croquet balls still rattle at Ivy. The pupils are interested in this game and we have several who are becoming expert players.

The trustees of the Ivy school and some of the patrons recently installed a new pump at the school house well. This was greatly needed.

During these spring days, when "Old Mother Nature" is so busily engaged clothing the trees and growing her many wild flowers, it is indeed a fortunate position for one to occupy when he can be permitted to view this great scenic, Ivy territory. The stately old Blue Mountain is our back-ground, the faithful old Llano River meanders near our feet and the hillsides covered with blue bonnets and daisies; these coupled together with the music of many, many song birds make this spot an ideal place in which anyone should like to live.

Allen Robbins is out of school just now, helping with the farm work.

George—"Paul, how did you come out with your last exams?"

Paul—"Oh, I did pretty well, but I have so many C's now that I am getting a little C(see) sick."

Ivy motto: "When you play, play hard; when you work, don't play at all."

ANOTHER JUNCTION BOY IS HONORED

The Eagle is in receipt of information to the effect that Felton T. Wright, who is coach on the Ballinger Foot Ball team for the High School of that place, has received a handsome gift from the business men and citizens of Ballinger in recognition of his ability as a coach and also as a man.

In presentation of the gift, a note of appreciation was attached thereto, signed by sixty-three business firms and individuals, and contained the following:

"Mr. Felton T. Wright, Ballinger High School Football Coach, Ballinger, Texas.

Our Dear Coach and Friend:

"This gift is indeed very small as compared with our appreciation of you as a man first, and second, as a coach. We feel grateful for a winning football club, yet, our appreciation of the club's splendid spirit of sportsmanship is many times greater than the winning of any game.

"We ask that you accept this little token only in the spirit in which it is given, assuring you that we love and appreciate you and are with you and for you to the last man.

Sincerely your friends,"

The above, as stated before, was signed by sixty-three business firms and individuals, and goes to show the esteem in which Felton is held by the people of Ballinger. The Eagle is proud to give this bit of news even at this late hour, for this incident occurred last fall following the closing of the football season, but it was only this week that the matter was brought to the attention of the Eagle.

SOUTH LLANO NEWS

Rev. Dekle filled his appointment at Evergreen Sunday. Quite an interesting sermon to an attentive congregation. Mrs. Dekle and children accompanied him.

Jimmie Hodges and Tom Allsup paid a flying visit to Kerrville Sunday.

Mr. J. Harper and family made a visit to Kerrville Sunday to his son Donnan, who is in the Hospital there. His mother is attending him. He is doing well and hopes to be able to return home soon.

Mesdames F. Dupuy and F. Blardone attended church in Junction Sunday.

Mr. E. E. Callender left Monday for Lockhart where he will visit his brother for an indefinite time, after teaching the Evergreen school.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Orth of Telegraph spent the week-end in San Antonio. Also Mrs. G. Hamilton.

The singing at Jack Hubbell's Sunday night was enjoyed by a lot of young folks.

Polo and Barbecue Enjoyed at Copperas

One of the best community gatherings held in this county was enjoyed by all who attended the barbecue, dinner and supper on the Copperas Divide last Saturday. The occasion for the gathering was a polo game between the Copperas squad, the Crooked Hollow team and the Junction and Murr Polo teams. Preparations had been made by the citizens of the Copperas community for the entertainment of the guests and people gathered near the polo grounds early in the day.

In the 200 yard race between the Henry Murr horse and Dutton horse in the morning, the Murr horse won by a small margin. Dinner was served to all present at the noon hour and from the expression of those who enjoyed the feast those responsible for the preparation of the dinner meal should feel satisfied with their efforts, as all were highly pleased with the fine barbecue, light bread and pickles served them together with plenty of good coffee and ice water.

Due to the fact that these games are among the first played this year and the further fact that both men and horses were not up to form and some of the squads had their horses crippled, it was decided to play six periods of six minutes each. The Murr and Junction teams played the first period which resulted in neither side scoring. After an exhibition of good fast polo playing, the Copperas and Crooked Hollow teams then took the field and played a good flashy period of polo with neither side scoring. The entire periods of each game were replete with flashy sports of good polo but showed a lack on the part of all teams of sufficient team work. The games resulted in a victory of the Copperas team against the Crooked Hollow squad and the Junction against the Murr squad.

Mr. Hugh Bowie of Fort McKavitt acted as referee and is to be complimented on his efficient ruling and fairness in his effect of the two games.

For first season games a good showing was made by all the players and everyone seemed pleased with the game. There was no show of unsportsmanship in conduct and while there were some fouls called it was due to the enthusiasm of the players rather than an intentional foul. Both horses and men with the exception of one of the Herbert Simons mounts came out of the game in fine order.

One of the noticeable things about the horses being used in the polo teams at the present time as compared to the horses used by the same squads a year ago is that in this short period of time the horses being used are probably 50 per cent better than those used last year. In time this is certainly going to reflect for good on the ranches of the county.

After the game the County Park Tax to be voted on May 7th was discussed and from the comment expressed the issue will get a good vote in the communities represented at this meet. We believe the type of entertainment enjoyed by this community is better from every point of view. It brings neighbors closer together, enables them to enjoy each other's company and exchange ideas on matters of business to their mutual benefit. Everyone present seemed to enjoy themselves to the fullest extent and those responsible for this entertainment are to be complimented for the way they received their visitors.

Now For the Fair Park!

Let the reader peruse the following figures and become convinced that a Fair Park will not be a burden to the tax-payer. Read these figures and let them penetrate.

Do you know that one-tenth of the tax-payers will pay less than.....25c per year
Do you know that one-fourth of the tax-payers will pay less than.....50c per year
Do you know that one-third of the tax-payers will pay less than.....$1.00 per year
Do you know that one-half of the tax-payers will pay less than.....$2.50 per year
Do you know that two-thirds of the tax-payers will pay less than.....$3.50 per year

And that only 40 tax-payers in the county will pay over $10.00 per year.

Not so burdensome when given due consideration.

Curtiss Visits the Shop
The first day in the book shop was one of the most exciting experiences of my life. Arriving early in the morning the first thing I did, towards furthering my business career, was to order dainty lavender frocks for Thankful and myself, and so arrayed, we spent the rest of the day getting ready to open the shop to the public the following afternoon.

Of course the shop was not entirely mine but I had the feeling that it would soon and I also felt that it was not an unreasonable desire which burned in my breast, for while the antiques were charming, with an old-world atmosphere, there were none of great value except one original etching and a few rare editions which Captain Tchertkov said he would not sell for any price. We soon discovered that he was a connoisseur of the fine arts and these treasures belonged to a small collection he had managed to save from the glory of the past.

I asked him why he had not disposed of them during that time in Paris when he was so seriously in need of funds. "If I had one, I would just as soon think of selling my child," he replied, in the attractive foreign way he had of rearranging his phrases. I rejoiced that here was one whose passionate and sincere love for beauty was beyond price. His was an intuitive appreciation for lovely things. Although his lips were sealed so far as his past life in Russia was concerned, little by little I came to share Thankful's opinion that he and his family had been reared close to the throne.

"Listen, I can't possibly stay in the same small shop with Vladimir Tchertkov and call him by that terrible name," I confided to Thankful later that day when we were discussing him, "from now on, regardless of convention, I shall call him Captain T."

"Oh," she gave a little gasp, "you wouldn't dare?"

"Watch me!"

I called the young officer over to where I was standing by a case which held some interesting hand tooled editions which he had picked up in Florence, "for the trade."

"Would you mind fixing the prices on the fly-leaf of each of these?" I asked him, "I haven't the faintest idea what they are worth."

"But most certainly," he replied. He stood with military precision whenever I spoke to him, his manner and bearing towards me were exactly as if he were serving a queen. Wishing to do away with such stiff formality I turned to him abruptly and said, "By the way, Thankful and I have decided to call you Captain T."

Thankful blushed to the roots of her soft, brown hair.

"I, er," she stammered.

"Never mind, now Thankful, we can't stand on so much ceremony working here every day like sardines. Besides," I smiled, "while we expect to make a million dollars for all of us, we also want to have a little fun. And from now on," I turned to the young officer, "this is Thankful, (it's a lovely name) and I'm Sallie. Just plain Sallie. No more Meesis Wright." I tried to imitate his foreign accent. He and Thankful, having been won to a good humour, laughed and fell in with my plans.

"Now," I turned to the telephone, "the husband will be summoned to the scene." I dialed the number on the automatic phone.

His stenographer answered. Then came Curtiss' voice.

"Honey?" I said.

"Yes," his answer was quick as if he had been engaged and disliked being disturbed.

"Everything's all right, I haven't been kidnapped or anything like that, but I want you to come immediately to a certain address which I shall give you. I have a surprise for you and one I am sure you will like."

"But sweetheart," he began.

"No buts, dearest, you MUST come."

Could it wait for an hour or two? I was having a very important conference just then. "You always are whenever I want you," I pouted, "I HATE conferences!"

But in the end I promised to be satisfied if he would come the moment it was through. I was keenly disappointed for I wanted him to arrive while Thankful and Captain T. were there. They would lend atmosphere to the scene and besides, I wanted them to share his surprise.

But when five o'clock came I insisted that they leave and I was left with the large brass key, which fitted the antique lock on the door, in my hand. How important I felt to be the custodian of so much beauty and art.

The lights were dim and over the shop clung the faint odor of incense. Finally I saw Curtiss pull up in front of the curb in his car. Then I saw him consult a piece of paper to which he compared the number of the shop. He approached the door and I scurried behind a counter as if I had been there all day.

Tentatively he opened the door. Then with a look of astonishment he recognized me, taking me in at a glance.

"What Ho! A bazaar of some kind for the Junior League?" Well how much am I in for? Let me know and I'll write a check. Then let's be going home. I didn't have time for luncheon today and I'm as hungry as a bear."

"No siree, you're wrong this time," I told him, skipping from behind the showcase. "Come and sit down. No, first of all I want you to come downstairs. Look at everything and I'll tell you about it later on."

After a tour of the lower room with its glittering array of bric-a-brac, bronzes, and enamels from foreign shores, I led him back to the book shop and made him sit down in one of the comfortable walnut chairs. I slid a low foot-stool for his feet to rest upon, and perched on the arm of his chair.

"Well, what do you think of it?" I wanted to know.

"Why, it's a very unusual sort of place, to say the least." But I could tell he was looking at it in a thoroughly impersonal light.

Politics in Schools

In resigning from the presidency of the University of Texas, President Splan gave a distinct rebuke to those who use the schools of the State, and especially the University, to further political ends. He stated that the uncertainty of tenure of position makes the presidency of the University an uncertain, and, therefore, an undesirable position. President Splan knows from experience whereof he talks and has grown weary of playing politics even to further the interests of a great educational institution. Educators and schools should be left free to devote their time unhindered by political exigencies to the great work of education, and with the feeling that so long as they do their work well it will not be impeded by political considerations. Every educator in Texas of any real worth has suffered from politics, either State or local, as President Splan has suffered.

Commendable Service

Junction is a small town so far as population counts, but large in the heart of its people. When the report of the Rock-springs tornado reached it, its citizens got together and asked what was the most urgent need of the town. When told it was the restoration of its water plants and that the cost would be $6,000, Junction promptly told Rock-springs to have the plant rebuilt and it would pay the bill. Other towns have responded nobly, but none showed a quicker and more generous response than Junction, which has the true spirit of neighborliness—ready response in the time of need.

Thoughtful Assistance

It is not so much the magnitude of its help as the spirit of it that made the aid which Schreiner Institute at Kerrville rendered Rock-springs a notable gift. Just after the disaster it was announced that the school building had been demolished at Rock-springs and that the schools would have to be suspended, thus preventing the senior class from graduating. Schreiner Institute promptly offered to take all the boys of the class to that school, board and instruct them free of charge the rest of the school year and give certificates of high school graduation to all who might deserve it. Schreiner Institute is a boys' boarding school and for that reason the offer had to be restricted to boys.

Denton Gets Hotel

Those who visit Denton—and Denton being a great school center, they are legion—have for a long time felt the need of a modern hotel there. Denton people long ago saw the need, but waited for "George to do it." Finally, as that figurative and undependable town builder failed to respond to duty, the citizens raised a bonus of $20,000 and gave it to the owner of the leading hotel to be used in a new building. Now, Denton is realizing the completion of a fine four-story hotel building of 90 rooms, with all conveniences and most of the luxuries of modern hotels. The moral is that the town that helps itself gets helped, and in more ways than one Denton has helped itself in this enterprise.

Speaking of Hotels

Texas is going through an era of hotel building such as was never known in the State. It means that people are going about in all parts of the State and that they have money to spend for their comfort. If one town doesn't provide the right kind of hotel facilities, it is easy to drive over the good roads to the nearest place that does. Every week—almost every day—there are reports of new hotels under construction. Laredo has splendid hotels, but is going to build another to cost $500,000. Harlingen has contracted for another hotel to cost $200,000. You can come to Texas now and be assured of comfortable hotels in almost any progressive place. The "gon yard" age has passed.

Can You Believe It?

San Benito, Brownsville and Olmito—down in the Valley—had shipped 11,540 cars of potatoes this season up to April 20, and the new spuds are still going out of the Valley at the rate of about 100 cars a day. It is a bad potato season, too, the potatoes being small on account of insufficient rain. Robstown has shipped more than 1,000 cars of other vegetables. The North is still shivering. Minnesota, which seems to delight in calumniating Texas, should take notice.

County Flower Show

San Patricio County has been having a county-wide flower show in which towns and communities from all over the county contested and furnished entertainment programs, thus fostering a wonderful inter-community spirit. Sinton, Taft, Aransas Pass, Odem, Mathis, Elroy and other communities were represented. This is an idea that might well be developed in every county. The way to destroy ugliness is to replace it with beauty. A love of the beautiful in nature creates a love of the beautiful in character.

Yokum Tomatoes

According to word sent out by Editor Richter of the Yokum Herald, Yokum has shipped its first car of tomatoes, sending them to Toronto, Canada, and it is estimated that 100 more car loads will go to other parts of the country. There are 500 acres of tomatoes in the Yokum territory, and the growers have a co-operative marketing association. Each tomato is wrapped in a lithographed wrapper bearing a small map of that part of Texas and briefly stating something about its products. Can you beat this for favorable publicity?

Burnet County Graphite

A $360,000 graphite mill is to be built to handle the graphite production of Burnet county. Capitalists do not invest that sum on uncertainties, which means that the graphite industry there is going to be developed, which in turn means that other industries will certainly follow. One good enterprise in a community brings another, just as one good deed performed paves the way for other good actions.

Seventy-five Bands

Seventy-five bands are to take part in the musical contest at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting at Wichita Falls, May 15, 16, and about 50 glee clubs will sing in contest, which goes to show that in Texas the arts are making themselves felt in commerce and are coming to be regarded as essential to life as business.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

No. 1009.
W. W. Buck, Sr., Vs. Wm. McLane, et al.
In the 23rd Judicial District Court, Kimble County, Texas.
The State of Texas to the Sheriff or any Constable of Kimble County—Greeting:
YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED, that by making publication of this Citation in some newspaper published in the County of Kimble, once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, you summon Wm. McLane, W. J. McLane, Wm. McLane, Jr., Duncan McLane, and John McLane, if living, whose residences are unknown to plaintiff, and the unknown heirs and successors of said defendants, if dead, whose names and residences are unknown to plaintiff, to be and appear at the next regular term of the Court of the 23rd Judicial District of Texas, held in and for Kimble County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in the Town of Junction, on the first Monday in August, A. D. 1927, the same being the last day of August, A. D. 1927, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 22nd day of April, A. D. 1927, in a suit numbered on the Docket of said Court, No. 1009, wherein W. W. Buck, Sr., is plaintiff, and Wm. McLane, W. J. McLane, Jr., Duncan McLane, and John McLane, living, and the unknown heirs of Wm. McLane, W. J. McLane, Wm. McLane, Jr., Duncan McLane, and John McLane, if dead are defendants; the nature of plaintiff's demand being substantially, as follows, to-wit:
A suit in trespass to try title and for damages, plaintiff alleging that on or about the 1st day of April, A. D. 1927, he was legally seized and possessed of and entitled to the possession of a tract of land hereinafter described, situated in the County of Kimble, State of Texas, and owning same in fee simple; that on the date last mentioned defendants unlawfully entered upon said land, ejected plaintiff therefrom, and withheld from plaintiff the possession thereof to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $5,000.00.
Plaintiff claims to have and to hold the property referred to above under the five and ten year statute of limitations, and affirmatively pleads and relies upon said five and ten year statute of limitations for the recovery of the property against defendants; plaintiff alleges that defendants are asserting some character of claim to the said land, and that which is unknown to plaintiff, but that the same is asserted by defendants, and that the property involved being described as follows:

Lots Nos. One and Two, Block 12, in Block 14, West, in the town of Junction; each said lot having a front of 50 feet and running back between parallel lines 138 feet for depth.

Plaintiff prays for judgment, for the title and possession of the said land, that the cloud upon his title be cancelled and removed, and that he be quieted in the possession of his premises, for his writ of possession, for costs, and for general and special relief, as more fully appears from petition on file in this office.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have you before said Court on the said first day of the next term thereof this writ with your return thereto, showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in the Town of Junction, this 22nd day of April, A. D. 1927.

H. J. R. No. 23
Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas amending Article VIII by the insertion of Section 1-4 therein, authorizing the Legislature to provide for the separation of the objects of taxation for State purposes and for the support of the counties, districts and political subdivisions of the State and counties, and authorizing the Legislature to vote for the levy of an ad valorem tax or other form of tax for State purposes only, and for local purposes, and authorizing the Legislature to provide for the classification of objects of taxation and providing that rates shall be equal on the same class of property, and fixing limitations upon taxation.

Be it Enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas:
Section 1. That Article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by inserting therein Section 1-a, as follows:
Section 1-a. The Legislature shall separate the objects of taxation for State purposes from the objects of taxation for the support of the counties, districts and political subdivisions of the State and counties, and may provide for the levy of an ad valorem tax, or other form of tax, on certain classes of taxable property, or other objects, for State purposes (including school purposes); or upon certain classes of property, or other objects, for county or local purposes only (including school purposes). In no event shall the rate of such taxes exceed the sum of the limits of such taxes fixed by this Constitution for State, county and other local purposes. The Legislature may provide for the classification of objects of taxation. Taxation shall be equal and uniform.

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the State at an election to be held the first Monday in August, A. D. 1927, at which all ballots shall have printed thereon the following:
For the amendment to Article 8, inserting Section 1-a, providing for changing the taxation system so that the State may derive its income, in whole or in part, from other sources than the ad valorem tax.
Against the amendment to Article 8, inserting Section 1-a, providing for changing the taxation system so that the State may derive its income, in whole or in part, from other sources than the ad valorem tax.
Sec. 3. The Governor of this State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation ordering an election to determine whether or not the proposed constitutional amendment set forth herein shall be adopted, and to have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State. And the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated from any funds in the State Treasury, not otherwise appropriated to defray the expenses of printing said proclamation and of holding said election.

Approved March 11, 1927.

HOME TOWN AFFECTION

Home is said to be the sweetest place on earth. But its sweetness depends on the sweetness of its environment. The people who got up the songs about the sweetness of home, probably lived in rural locations where everything was naturally lovely around them. But when they moved into towns and cities, then their home did not always look so sweet.

So if we are going to make our homes sweet today, we must have fine and attractive towns as a setting for them. That means a little work for you, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen! It means that you must take hold with your neighbors in community work to improve unattractive places, promote neatness and order, and add attractions like shade trees and parks.

TRADE COMPETITION

Business statistics show that a large proportion of the people who go into retail trade do not make a success of it. People are all the time trying to get into this field of labor, but many of them find themselves unable to make a living there.

When people keep along in trade year after year, it is a kind of survival of the fittest.
Judgment, energy, and advertising are three very important factors in producing this survival. We can take off our hats to the people who have served us in retail trade, here in Junction, and they are entitled to our friendly applause and substantial patronage, for they have done a difficult thing successfully.

DIVERSIFIED FARMING

Diversified farming increases throughout the United States as the country grows older. At one time in our history the farmers in each section of the country thought that they could grow only certain crops. There was the wheat belt, oat belt, corn belt, cotton belt, etc. In large sections of the country clover was the only crop, and apples the only fruit, and for a century narrow belts of land in the South and Southwest held a monopoly upon orange trees.

Department of Agriculture figures show that corn can be profitably produced in the Southern States. The outstanding fact is that the South needs corn for the support of live stock, and it buys it from the corn belt States with cotton money. The experiment stations throughout the South have recently demonstrated that thru proper methods of cultivation, seed selection, and fertilizing,
the yield of corn on an average Southern farm stands a fair chance to become a profitable crop.

AROUND OUR

WORLD

The United States of America has sent a vigorous document to the League of Nations at Geneva expressing opposition to any form of international supervision of armaments, once an armament limitation agreement is reached.

The situation down along the Rio Grande seems to have cooled off a great deal, and President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg have evidently adopted President Wilson's old policy of "watchful waiting" with reference to Mexico.

The news from Nicaragua has lost most of its thrills, which seems to indicate that the voice of Congress is a great asset in keeping the people interested in a Latin-American revolution.
A provincial board of education of Occidental Negroes has passed a resolution forbidding bobbed hair and European dress for women in that region of the Philippine Islands. The Board demanded a return to Filipino styles as "more modest." Who says that the Filipinos are not a progressive people?

The French government does not care very much about President Coolidge's forthcoming three-power naval conference, and it prefers to be without even an unofficial observer at the forthcoming international show. France apparently does not care very much about any of the new-fangled American notions, and it has resisted all of our suggestions—from paying her debts to cutting down her armed force.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

The State of Texas,
County of Kimble.
Notice is hereby given, that an election will be held on the 7th day of May, 1927, at each voting precinct in Kimble County, Texas, to determine whether or not a two-thirds majority of the legally qualified property tax paying voters of Kimble County, Texas, desire to tax themselves for the purpose of purchasing and improving lands in Kimble County, Texas, to be used as county parks, and to determine whether or not a tax of and at the rate of not more than five cents on the One Hundred Dollars valuation of taxable property in said County, shall be levied for said purpose in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas, and to determine whether the Commissioner's Court of this County shall be authorized to levy, assess and collect annually upon all taxable property within said Kimble County, a tax of and at the rate of not more than five cents on the One Hundred Dollars valuation of taxable property, for the purpose of purchasing and improving lands in Kimble County, Texas, to be used as county parks.

The following officers are hereby appointed to hold said election:

For Voting Prec. No. 1—A. O. Lawler,
Presiding officer, G. R. Ragland, Chris Schraub and W. B. Hunter, Judges.

For Voting Prec. No. 2—Jack Hubbell,

For Voting Prec. No. 9—H. F. Holland,
Presiding officer and Olla Murr, Judge.

For Voting Prec. No. 10—Joe Gardner, Presiding officer and Will Allison, Judge.

And said Presiding officer shall select judges and clerks to assist him in holding said election as provided by the laws of the State of Texas, and he shall within five days after said election has been held, make due return thereof to the Commissioners Court of Kimble County, as required by law for holding a general election.

All persons who are legally qualified voters of this State and County and who are resident property tax payers in said County shall be entitled to vote at said election and all voters desiring to support the proposition of the levy, assessment and collection of an annual tax as hereinbefore stated, shall have written or printed on their ballots the words:

"For the five cents park tax."
And those opposed shall have written or printed on their ballots the words:

"Against the five cents park tax."

Said election was ordered by the Commissioners Court of Kimble County, Texas, by order made on the 11th day of April, A. D. 1927, and this notice is given in pursuance of said order.

Dated the 12th day of April, A. D. 1927.

TEXAS TALKS

(By Mrs. Wesley Peacock)
The Joys of Rejuvenation

The return of my youth has been a great joy to me, but it has been a greater joy to my children, for whom I have lived as Cornelia the Roman matron, who said of her children, "These are my jewels."

Before I was married I taught oratory and physical culture in a boarding school for girls, and after my marriage I did not relax my physical and mental gymnastics for the sake of my body and for the sake of the bodies of the children whom I expected and to whom I had consecrated my young life; and when they came they were blessed with strong bodies and normal minds, their rightful inheritance.

While psychologists are uncertain whether acquired characteristics are transmissible to children, we all know that the strength or weakness of the expected child depends upon the prenatal influence exerted by the mother. As an expectant mother I tried ever to control my emotions, exercising self-control in fear and anger, so that the children also might develop emotional control after their emergence into life. A mother who can not control herself can not control her children. In the grotesque regions of the great lakes in order to forestall endemic goitre in children doctors administer iodine compounds to their mothers. Is this not prenatal influence?

I desired to be strong before my children came, realizing that my health would be their health; my exercise their exercise; my diet their diet; my thoughts their thoughts; my emotions their emotions. Best of all, every one of them was a love baby in a sacred meaning. Perhaps 90 out of ever 100 babies come as unwelcome guests into their homes; and this accounts for so much unrest, so much lawlessness, so much insanity in the past few years. This also explains the alarming increase in the number of suicides among children since the war. They were war babies without homes, without love, and too often without God.

If my children have never disobeyed me it is because I have spared them both the rod and the tongue lashings that have spoiled the lives of so many innocents, and I have protected them from teasing, fright, and deception. I have always tried to answer their curious questions, to play their games, to quicken their imaginations, and to perfect them in love for the beautiful.

The heart's desire and prayer of every Jewish woman for a thousand years was to become the mother of the prophetic child destined to redeem Israel; and hence all Jewish children were welcome visitors heralded as good angels in every home from Abraham to Jesus.

HUNTERS-WARNED NOT TO SHOOT UPLAND PLOVER

There is no open season on the Bartramian sandpiper, commonly known as upland plover, in spite of the fact that a bag limit on plover is printed on the back of a hunting license. This statement is made by the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, which has direct charge of the enforcement of the migratory-bird treaty act and its regulations. Information has reached the department to the effect that hunters in Texas have been killing these birds under the impression that there was an open season on them, gained from a provision on the back of their licenses. For the benefit of those who may be misinformed, the Biological Survey states that under the provisions of the migratory-bird treaty act and the regulations thereunder there is a close season throughout the United States on upland plover, and persons killing these birds at any time during the year are liable to arrest and prosecution in Federal court.

A JOINT RESOLUTION.

S. J. R. No. 33
Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas removing from the Constitution all limitations as to the amount of compensation of officers, the compensation and expenses of said officers to be as provided by law, and fixing the compensation of the Governor, and providing that said amendment shall be effective on and after January 1, 1929, and not sooner.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:
Section 1. That Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by inserting therein a new section to be numbered Section 36a which shall read as follows:

Section 36a. All provision of the present Constitution of Texas fixing or limiting the amount of salary or compensation of officers and members of the Legislature are hereby repealed and hereafter said officers and members of the Legislature shall receive such salary or compensation as may be provided by law. The salary of the Governor shall be Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00) per year, and no more, payable monthly, and he shall have the occupancy and use of the Governor's mansion, fixtures and furniture.

The salary or compensation of any member of the Legislature shall not exceed fifteen hundred dollars per year, and traveling expenses from place of residence to the capital and returning for each session shall be provided by law; and provided that no change of salary or compensation from that now provided by the Constitution shall become effective until the first day of January following the first general election held after adoption of this amendment.

Sec. 2. Said proposed amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the electors of this State qualified to vote on constitutional amendments at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Monday in August, A. D. 1927, at which each voter opposing said amendment shall scratch off of the ballot with a pen or pencil the following words printed thereon:

"For the amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas removing from the Constitution all limitations as to the amount of compensation of officers, the compensation and expenses of said officers to be as provided by law, and fixing the compensation of the Governor, and providing that said amendment shall be effective on and after January 1, 1929, and not sooner;" and each voter favoring said amendment shall scratch off of the ballot in the same manner, the following words printed thereon:

"Against the amendment to the Constitution of the State of Texas removing from the Constitution all limitations as to the amount of compensation of officers, the compensation and expenses of said officers to be as provided by law, and fixing the compensation of the Governor, and providing that said amendment shall be effective on and after January 1, 1929, and not sooner."

If it shall appear from a return of said election that a majority of the votes cast have been cast in favor of said amendment, it shall become a part of the Constitution of the State of Texas.

Sec. 3. The Governor shall issue his proclamation calling said election and have the same published and said election held in accordance with this resolution and the Constitution and laws of this State, and returns shall be made and the votes canvassed and counted as provided by law; and if said amendment is adopted by the required vote of the qualified electors of this State, the Governor shall issue his proclamation as required by law.

Sec. 4. The sum of five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the State Treasury to pay for publication of the proclamation calling said election and any expense of the State in submitting said amendment and holding said election.

Approved March 29, 1927.

There is hereby appropriated out of any money on hand in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated the sum of five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars or as much thereof as may be necessary to defray the expenses of the holding of this election, including the expense of printing notices and advertisements.

Sec. 4. The Governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Approved March 29, 1927.

Peanuts

Shortly after the Civil War a Confederate sea captain took a cargo of Virginia peanuts aboard and sailed for New York. He could find no sales for the Virginia goober peas in New York City.

In desperation he engaged a lusty-lunged Italian to take some of his goods out on Broadway, and the curiosity of the throngs over the "hot roasted peanuts" brought them to taste—and then to approve. That was in 1867 and the total crop of peanuts in the United States that year was 200,000 bushels. Today the peanut industry is rated in terms of millions.

Salted Peanuts

Salted peanuts in individual bags have been known to the public only for a few years.

In the beginning the manufacturers always split the nut and took out the kernel because it was bitter.

A dozen years ago an inventive genius in Suffolk, Virginia, started to put up the best Virginia "jumbos" in the full nut just as they came from the shell. It was a great idea and he made a million.

Out of the full-sized nut grew the business of the Planters peanuts. Now the Planters stock the counters of the world with confections in beautiful cellophane wrappers, which are transparent and show up peanuts, candies, food, etc., at their very best.

Peanuts were at one time left on the ground for the hogs, or sold over the counter at five cents a hatful.

Peanuts grow on vines and they are dug out of the ground the same as potatoes.

NEW SONGS FOR OLD

If anyone bewails the passing of the old songs, let him hold his tears, for they are still being written. The national capitol has just honored two young men who are today the foremost singers of old-time songs—Vernon Dalhart, born in Jefferson, Texas, and Carson J. Robison, from Chopeta, Kansas.

It was the "Prisoner's Song" that brought them together, according to Farm and Fireside, which features their story in its May issue. The success of this song carried them to fame together. Dalhart was the first to sing it. Robison was brought in to play the accompaniment. Now they are partners, riding the crest of public demand for old songs.

"They sell their wares and their talents to the phonograph companies," writes their biographer, "and the phonograph companies make recordings of these new-old melodies and in turn sell them to the public. If you don't believe it, go to your nearest dealer and ask to hear some of the old songs sung by this pair. It doesn't matter much which make of record the dealer sells, for they make records for nine companies."

It isn't all accident that Dalhart and Robison are outstanding in this practically new business of writing and singing new songs for old. They were born to it. The real old songs came from folks who lived close to the soil and both of these singers were born of such folks and grew up among them.

Dalhart used to think he was an opera singer. For seven years he sang opera tunes to Thomas A. Edison, only to be turned down every time. Then one day he forgot all about his high-falutin ideas of singing and, going back to his Southern accent, sang "Can't Yo' Hear Me Callin', Caroline?" into Mr. Edison's ear trumpet. He has been making records for Mr. Edison ever since.

Proposing an amendment of Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 of Article V of the Constitution of Texas for the purpose of providing a more efficient judicial system.

Section 1 (of Article V): The State shall be divided into as many judicial districts as may now be increased or diminished by law. For each district there shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, at a general election, a judge, who shall be a citizen of the United States and of this State, who shall have been a licensed lawyer for four years next preceding his election, and during that time shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a Court of record or such practicing lawyer and Judge together, who shall have resided in the District in which he was elected for two years next preceding his election, who shall reside in his District during his term of office who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and shall receive for his service such compensation as may be prescribed by law. He shall hold the regular terms of his Court at the County seat of each County in his district at least twice in each year, in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The Legislature shall have power, by general or special laws, to authorize the holding of special terms of the court or the holding of more than two terms in any County for the dispatch of business. The Legislature shall also provide for the holding of District Court when the Judge thereof is absent or is, from any cause, disabled or disqualified from presiding. The Supreme Court or the Chief Justice thereof may assign any District Judge to any District in the State other than that for which he was elected, with all the powers of a resident District Judge of the District to which he is assigned, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Legislature. The District Judges who may be in office when this amendment takes effect shall hold their offices until their respective terms shall expire under their present election or appointment.

Section 2 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall consist of a Chief Justice and eight Associate Justices, five of whom shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of five Judges shall be necessary to the decision of a case. No person shall be eligible to the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice of the Supreme Court unless he be, at the time of his election or appointment, a citizen of the United States and of this State, and unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years and shall have been a licensed lawyer for seven years and, during that time, shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a court of record, or such practicing lawyer and Judge together. Said Chief Justice and Associate Justices shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall receive such compensation as may be provided for by law. In case of a vacancy in the office of Chief Justice or Associate Justice, the Governor shall fill the vacancy until the next general election for State officers, and at such general election the vacancy for the unexpired term shall be filled by election by the qualified voters of the State. The Judges of the Supreme Court who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms of office under the present Constitution and until their successors are elected and qualify. When this amendment takes effect, the Governor shall immediately appoint as additional Associate Justices of the Supreme Court for terms of office so that the terms of two of such appointed Associate Justices shall expire with the term of office of each of the present members of the Supreme Court, and upon the qualification of such new Justices, the Commission of Appeals of the State of Texas shall terminate.

Section 3 (of Article V): The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only except as herein specified, which shall be co-extensive with the limits of the State. Its appellate jurisdiction shall extend to questions of law arising in the cases in the Courts of Civil Appeals in which the Judges of the Courts of Civil Appeals may disagree or where the several courts of civil appeals may hold differently on the same question of law, or where a statute of the State is held void, and to questions of law arising out of cases of which the Courts of Civil Appeals have appellate jurisdiction as may be prescribed by law; provided, that the Legislature may authorize direct appeals from the County and District Courts in any case where a statute of the State has been declared void. The Supreme Court and the Judges thereof shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, certiorari, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Legislature may confer original jurisdiction upon it to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Supreme Court shall also have power to issue writs of quo warrantum and mandamus in such cases as may be specified by law. The Supreme Court shall also have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Supreme Court shall be open at all times and shall sit at the State Capital for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by the Court. The present statutes defining the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court not in conflict herewith shall continue in effect until repealed or altered by the Legislature. The Supreme Court shall appoint a Clerk, who shall give to the Court in such manner as now or may hereafter be required by law, and he may be removed by the Court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of said Court, and who shall receive such compensation as the Legislature may provide.

Section 4 (of Article V): The Court of Criminal Appeals shall consist of three Judges, provided that the Legislature may increase the number to five, and a majority of the Judges shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of a majority of the Judges shall be necessary to the decision of any case. Said Judges shall have the same qualifications and receive the same salaries as the Judges of the Supreme Court. They shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at a general election, and shall hold their offices for a term of six years. The Judges of the Court of Criminal Appeals who may be in office at the time this amendment takes effect shall continue in office until the expiration of their terms of office under the present Constitution and laws.

Section 5 (of Article V): The Court of Criminal Appeals shall have appellate jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of the State in all criminal cases of whatever grade, with such exceptions and under such regulations as may be prescribed by law. The Legislature may confer original jurisdiction upon it to issue writs of mandamus, certiorari, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Court of Criminal Appeals shall also have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Court of Criminal Appeals shall also have power to issue writs of quo warrantum and mandamus in such cases as may be specified by law. The Court of Criminal Appeals shall also have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its jurisdiction. The Court of Criminal Appeals shall be open at all times and shall sit at the State Capital for the transaction of business at such times as may be designated by it. Said Court shall appoint a clerk, who shall give bond in such manner as now or may hereafter be required by law, and he shall hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the Court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of said Court, and said Clerk shall receive such compensation as may be prescribed by law.

Section 6 (of Article V): The Legislature shall from time to time, divide the State into such number of Supreme Judicial Districts as it may seem necessary, not exceeding twelve at any one time, and shall have the power to redistrict the State at any time, and shall establish a Court of Civil Appeals in each of said Districts, which shall consist of a Chief Justice, and not less than two Associate Justices as the Legislature may provide, who shall have the qualifications as herein prescribed for Justices of the Supreme Court, provided that the aggregate number of Judges of all of the Courts of Civil Appeals shall never at one time exceed thirty-six. Each of the existing Courts of Civil Appeals shall continue until otherwise provided by law. The Courts of Civil Appeals shall have appellate jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of their respective districts, which shall extend to all civil cases of which the District Courts or County Courts have original or appellate jurisdiction, under such restrictions and regulations as may be prescribed by law; provided, that the decisions of said Courts shall be conclusive in all questions of fact brought before them on appeal or error. Said Courts of Civil Appeals shall hold their sessions at such places as may be designated by the Legislature, and shall receive such compensation as may be provided by law. Said Courts shall have such other jurisdiction, original and appellate, as may be prescribed by law. Each Court of Civil Appeals shall appoint a clerk in the same manner as the clerk of the Supreme Court, which Clerk shall receive such compensation as may be fixed by law. The Judges of the Courts of Civil Appeals who may be in office when this amendment takes effect shall hold their offices until their respective terms shall expire under their present election or appointment.

Section 7 (of Article V): The State shall be divided into as many judicial districts as may now be increased or diminished by law. For each district there shall be elected by the qualified voters thereof, at a general election, a judge, who shall be a citizen of the United States and of this State, who shall have been a licensed lawyer for four years next preceding his election, and during that time shall have been a practicing lawyer or Judge of a Court of record or such practicing lawyer and Judge together, who shall have resided in the District in which he was elected for two years next preceding his election, who shall reside in his District during his term of office who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and shall receive for his service such compensation as may be prescribed by law. He shall hold the regular terms of his Court at the County seat of each County in his district at least twice in each year, in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The Legislature shall have power, by general or special laws, to authorize the holding of special terms of the court or the holding of more than two terms in any County for the dispatch of business. The Legislature shall also provide for the holding of District Court when the Judge thereof is absent or is, from any cause, disabled or disqualified from presiding. The Supreme Court or the Chief Justice thereof may assign any District Judge to any District in the State other than that for which he was elected, with all the powers of a resident District Judge of the District to which he is assigned, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the Legislature. The District Judges who may be in office when this amendment takes effect shall hold their offices until their respective terms shall expire under their present election or appointment.

Section 8: The Governor shall issue his proclamation as required by law.
Sec. 4: The sum of twelve thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of the State Treasury, to pay for publication of the proclamation calling said election and any expenses of the State in submitting said amendment and holding said election.

SEWAGE ESSENTIAL TO GOOD HEALTH

College Station, Texas.—In safeguarding the health of a community, particularly in small unincorporated villages that do not have public water supply or common sewage, special precautions should be taken against the fly and the mosquito, Prof. E. W. Steel, acting head of the department of municipal and sanitary engineering, A. & M. College of Texas, pointed out.

"It is in the small, unincorporated villages of the type mentioned that the highest death rates from typhoid fever and other diseases that are the direct results of poor sanitation, are found," Prof. Steel said. "Until every county has a full time county health officer, with an adequate organization at his command, we may expect this condition to continue," he added.

"All the communicable or 'catching' diseases are due to waste materials from the body of a sick person entering the body of a well person. This process is complicated and made more dangerous by the fact that many persons who are apparently well harbor in their bodies the germs of disease and give them off occasionally or constantly. The dangerous germs enter the well person through the mouth, may be injected by insects, enter through the skin, and to a very small extent by being breathed into the lungs.

"To prevent disease by sanitation, therefore, we must keep the disease organisms from entering water and foods and also prevent certain insects from attacking us. Of these preventive methods perhaps the most important is the safe disposal of the body wastes. Safe disposal requires an arrangement such that discharges will be inaccessible to flies, fowls, and animals; will not contaminate water running over the ground surface or the ground water which may enter the well and in addition will not cause soil pollution at the surface. At most farms and at many city homes which are not connected to sewer systems, these conditions are flagrantly violated."

"A water carried sewage system is the best means of sewage disposal if water is available," Prof. Steel said. For complete safety, however, the sewage must be properly treated. Various methods of disposal are used including the septic tank with subsurface irrigation. The cesspool is not to be recommended, Prof. Steel said, since it is only a hole in the ground and the sewage seeps out into the earth and may result in contamination by entering a nearby well. If used it should be tightly covered, otherwise will escape and mosquitoes may breed in the liquid contents. A septic tank is one of the best means of sewage disposal but it must not be considered as a final treatment. Sewage which has passed through a septic tank has only been partially treated. The next step is filtration and for the small plant serving one residence the easiest solution is to make use of the soil. This is done by running the discharge from the septic tank through open pointed tile pipes placed about fifteen inches under the ground.

"If there is no running water in the home, usually the best and cheapest solution is the dry pit," Prof. Steel said. "In this method the outhouse is placed over a hole in the ground. With proper construction this arrangement can be made fly tight and nearly odorless. The pit should not be located within 100 feet of wells.

"Improper sewage disposal allows flies to feast upon filth which clings to their feet, legs and bodies to be rubbed off later, possibly upon food. In addition disease germs are able to pass unharmed through the body of the fly. The fly is the reason Typhoid fever increases in summer, and why a fatal illness of infants is known as 'summer complaint.' It is more prevalent in fly time. The common house fly breeds in moist manure piles particularly.
