ALL TEXAS OIL MEN CALLED TO MEETING FRIDAY

Witnesses In Brady Trial Reveal Circumstances Of Stenographer's Slaying

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

The United States department of agriculture advises the American farmer that there will be a lessened demand for his products in the summer and fall of 1930 as compared with the same seasons in 1929. A lessened demand means that there will be lower prices unless there is a corresponding reduction in production.

The moral is that farmers ought to reduce the acreage of practically all crops. If they do prices can be maintained and even increased and it might happen that they could get more money for the smaller crop.

There is time for the farmers to take measures to reduce their acreage to be planted in crops. It cannot be charged that the department waited until the crops were planted and too late for the farmers to act on the information given.

Now there will be some who will charge the department's bulletin is bearish and that the effect will be to depress prices of farm products. Talker believes the bulletin is an honest effort on the part of the department of agriculture to inform and protect the farmer and that if the farmer will accept it in this light he can protect himself to his own benefit and profit.

Of course, if the farmer isn't going to pay any attention the bulletin and go ahead and plant a big acreage, then it is bearish and certainly prices will go down. On the other hand, the effect of official reports of decreases in acreage will have the effect of holding prices up. With the information that has been made available through this official source the farmer can exercise some control over prices.

Breckenridge is to be the host today to delegations from Wichita Falls and all the towns along the highway between Wichita Falls and that place. The Junior chamber of commerce is sponsoring the Wichita Falls delegation. There will be stops at all the towns along the route and the cavalcade will pick up new delegations as it goes along. Each delegation will have some special stunts and it ought to be a good show by the time Breckenridge is reached.

Breckenridge and all the towns in between have been brought much closer to Wichita Falls and to each other by the completion of the highway, not in miles, of course, but in hours and minutes of travel and in actual contact. We ought to know our neighbors better and this expedition today will be a good chance to get acquainted.

A man once respected and honored as a lawyer and a judge is on trial for his life before a jury at Austin. The newspapers will give much space to the proceedings of the trial. They will do this because readers are interested in almost any trial where human life is at stake. There are points of dramatic interest in such a trial. Emotions, impulses, tendencies, circumstances and things deep in human nature will be laid bare with skillful questioning, first from one side and then the other.

Talker is for less crime news in the newspapers. Some of this crime news is as routine and colorless as a market report and certainly less useful for any purpose. But an intelligent report of a trial for life must have vivid moments and be colorful. It ought to reveal many things to the reader. And those who search for morals certainly ought to find them there. Talker would surrender some of his daily space for such a report.

Newspapers coming to The Record News exchange desk show that Wichita Falls is not alone either in the extraordinary demands being made upon its welfare organizations or in the failure to raise the full quota for such work. There are bread lines in many cities reputedly more prosperous than Wichita Falls, and the cities that have raised their quotas for their

STATE'S STARS TELL JURY OF FATAL KNIFING

Three Men and Woman Describe Events Ending In Girl's Death

SOBRIETY DISAGREED

Witnesses Differ in Views On Lawyer's Condition At 'Party'

COURTROOM, AUSTIN, Jan. 27. (AP)—In this high old chamber filled with memories for John W. Brady, four star prosecution witnesses told this afternoon what they saw of the knife slaying of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, for whose murder the 59-year-old former appeals court justice is on trial.

One, F. R. McNaughton, said he wrested a knife from Brady a moment after the girl had been stabbed; another, Frank Graham Jr., said he saw Brady "strike" the girl while she stood there and saw him bending over her still striking; a third, King McFarlan, swore he saw Brady pull out a knife and heard him threaten Miss Highsmith; the last, Mrs. R. B. Crider, testified she saw Brady's arm movement as the girl sank to the ground, and heard the girl cry out, "please don't do that."

Neighbors Testify

Two of these witnesses, McNaughton and Mrs. Crider, lived at the rooming house where Miss Highsmith, 28, stayed. It was in front of this house that she was stabbed to death on the night of Nov. 9, 1929.

The first, F. R. McNaughton, a stationery company employe, told of drinking with Brady on the afternoon of Nov. 9, of attending a football game, and then going back to the rooming house. Here he testified, Brady became loud and unruly and finally was turned out by Mrs. McNaughton.

McNaughton repeatedly testified that he didn't believe Brady was "drunk," except once on cross-examination he said he was not qualified to say definitely.

Party Breaks Up

He said that early on the night of the killing, Brady, Miss Highsmith, Mrs. McNaughton, Graham, Mrs. L. J. Nachtab and himself were in the McNaughton apartment. After Brady was sent away, he added, the others went to the home of a Mrs. Martin.

An hour or so later, McNaughton testified, Miss Highsmith, Graham, and himself, went back to the rooming house to get a portable phonograph. They met Brady coming downstairs there and Brady started quarreling with the girl, he went on. McNaughton went in to use the telephone twice and while he held the receiver in his hand

Final plans were completed Monday for the departure of approximately 150 representatives of Wichita Falls, Iowa Park and Burkburnett at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning on a goodwill tour to Archer City, Olney, Newcastle, Graham and Breckenridge over the recently completed highway.

The group which will repay the visit made here on Jan. 16 by Archer, Young and Stephens county representatives will include perhaps 100 members of the Junior chamber of commerce, bedecked with new white parade coats bearing the slogan "It's Right in Wichita Falls." Delegations from Iowa Park and Burkburnett have promised to be on hand for the start here, and the caravan will be augmented by additions at Archer City, Olney, Newcastle and Graham for the visit to Breckenridge.

Three Musical Units

Musical units to be carried by the cross-country parade will include the chamber of commerce 32-piece band, Claude Stewart's orchestra of eight pieces, and an instrumental novelty foursome to be acquired at Archer City, according to plans announced Monday.

Members of the motorcade will meet at the A. D. Lightsey automobile storage garage, 704 Scott avenue, at 9:15 Tuesday morning, and will follow the band on a parade through the business section of the city. Departure for Archer City is scheduled for 9:30 a. m., sharp. Approximately 40 business men are expected to join the caravan at Archer City, while at Olney 50 representatives of the chamber of commerce, also attired in new white "dusters," will be annexed. While in this city on Jan. 16, Ray B. Leach, secretary of the chamber of commerce at Breckenridge, stated that a large body of business men of that city will meet the goodwill trippers at Ivan, about 16 miles east of Breckenridge, to serve as an escort to the latter city.

The group will arrive in Archer City at 10:15 a. m., in Olney at 11:30, in Newcastle at 1:20 p. m., in Graham at 2:10, in South Bend at 2:55, and at Breckenridge at 3:30 o'clock. Thirty-minute stops will be made in Archer City, Newcastle and Graham. The caravan will stage a parade in Olney immediately after arrival there, and will take lunch there at noon.

Speakers Named

Brief addresses of greeting and welcome will be exchanged in the various cities on the route. B. D. Sartin will speak at Archer City, with W. C. Young responding for that community. M. A. Bundy of Wichita Falls and A. C. Cooper of Olney will be the speakers at the noon luncheon. At Newcastle, J. W. Chatham will speak for the visitors, and Mayor J. H. Watson will give the response. Speeches at Graham will be given by Bert King and Dr. H. E. Griffin, president of the Graham Chamber of Commerce. The more extensive program planned for the two-hour stay in Breckenridge will be featured by talks by Walter Cline and Mayor C. H. Clark of Breckenridge.

On the return trip, the party is scheduled to reach Olney about 8:30 o'clock, where a free dance has been arranged by the Gray-Barr post of the American Legion and the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce.

POLICE CATCH FAST BURGLAR

Race to Henrietta Results In Seizure of Loot

A possible solution of the series of knob-knockings in Wichita Falls during the past several days was believed by police to have been found Monday night with the capture of a man who 20 minutes before crashed in the glass doors of the Summers Cigar company, 608 Tenth street, hardly a block from police headquarters, and without assistance removed 11 cases of cigarets valued at more than $600 wholesale.

A partial description of the automobile into which the man loaded the cigarets was given police by a passerby. A net of telephone communications was immediately thrown out to surrounding towns and Officers Homer Bentley and Earl Brooks, in the belief the thief had driven toward Fort Worth, began a mile-a-minute drive out the Henrietta highway.

They caught sight of the car on the edge of Henrietta and sped through that city at top speed attempting to force the fleeing driver to the side of the road. Not until they had driven beyond the city could they bring their car alongside and shout at the driver to stop. Gradually they forced him into the ditch.

On the seat of the car, the officers found a pistol. Beneath the front seat they found a complete set of knob-knocking tools, which bore marks of having been used recently. Packed tightly in the rear seat, from which the cushion had been removed, were the cases of cigarets.

SEVEN JURORS SELECTED IN MURDER TRIAL

State Will Not Ask Death Penalty, Questions Indicate

DEFENSE LOSES PLEA

Ace Speery of Electra May Take Stand as First Witness

After seven jurors had been selected from 49 veniremen questioned, Judge P. A. Martin Monday afternoon overruled the defense motion for a change of venue for the trial of Tom Shook, former Electra police chief, charged with murder in connection with the fatal stabbing of Oscar Daugherty in Electra in August, 1928.

"It is quite apparent to the court that a fair and impartial jury can be selected in this county," Judge Martin declared "The questioning will be resumed Tuesday morning and we will go forward with the trial."

Jurors Selected

The magistrate took the motion under advisement early Monday morning while he observed the success of efforts to obtain an unbiased jury from among the special venire summoned for the trial. Around 90 of the 150 men were present in the courtroom. Forty-nine were questioned Monday. Of the number seven were chosen; seven were challenged by the defense; three by the state; and 32 were disqualified because of "fixed opinions." The remaining five jurors will be sought from the 40 veniremen still unquestioned.

Those already selected are: E. M. Walker, employe of the Panhandle Refining company; F. L. Tucker, Burkburnett farmer; J. M. Malone, Burkburnett oil worker; G. G. Snowden, Wichita Falls farmer; A-

Mrs. Griswold Attacks Collectors' Appointments

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 27. (AP)—Failure of President Hoover to forward to the senate the name of a candidate for appointment as customs collector in the Laredo district drew the fire of Mrs. Florence Griswold of San Antonio, member of the national Republican executive committee today.

The majority of the Texas Republican executive committee, Mrs. Griswold said, have indorsed W. K. McDowell of Del Rio for the post, now held by Roy Campbell.

Announcement was made in Washington Saturday that the president would not send the names of Campbell and John D. Hartman, United States district attorney here, to the senate for confirmation.

Girl Heads $10,000 Gem Robbery at Buffalo

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 27. (AP)—A blonde-haired girl, principal figure in several robberies in Buffalo recently, led two gunmen into the jewelry store of David Glickstein on Broadway today, bound and gagged Glickstein and escaped with gems valued at $10,000.

Description of the girl given by Glickstein tallied with that of the young woman who held a revolver in other holdups here, in one of which she exchanged shots with a Seneca street pawn broker. She was believed to have been wounded in that encounter.

Glickstein said she directed the robbery, giving her orders sharply and rapidly.

Soviet Rescue Official Doubts Wrecked Plane Is Remains Of Eielson Craft

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Jan. 27. (AP)—Doubt that the wrecked plane recently found off Siberia was that of Carl Ben Eielson was expressed tonight by S. S. Kameneff, chairman of the Soviet Arctic commission. He believed the wreckage might have been that of an abandoned Soviet airplane named "Soviet North," known to be in that vicinity.

Reports from North Cape and Nome left little doubt but that the wreckage found 90 miles southeast from North Cape Saturday was that of Carl Ben Eielson's plane. Pilots Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam, who landed their planes on the snow nearby to examine the wreckage, both had flown Eielson's plane and recognized it instantly.

All-Metal Plane

Crosson and Gillam in making their reports specified that the wreckage was that of Eielson's all-metal built monoplane. The motor also was of a well-known American make.

Kameneff pointed out that there are human habitations near the point where the American aviators Crosson and Gillam found the wreckage last Saturday. He expressed surprise that the airplane reported as Eielson's had gone unnoticed by the natives for 10 weeks.

The Soviet North had crashed on a lagoon in Kaluchinsky bay. The wreckage had been reported several times.

Efforts Continue

Kameneff, who is directing the various Russian relief expeditions in search of Eielson and his companion, Earl Borland, indicated that the Soviet efforts would be continued but in somewhat different form.

"We must wait further details before acting upon this report," he said. "At any rate, we must draw all land searching parties to the spot where the catastrophe is reported to have occurred. One dog sled expedition from Stavropol is already in that region.

"I am sure the American fliers, notwithstanding the crash of their plane, could have saved themselves and gone forward to the nearest settlement. Search for the fliers therefore must continue until full knowledge of their fate is obtained."

Current in Wire Fence Kills Boy

Special to The Record News.

RALLS, Texas, Jan. 27.—Curon Tanton, 17, was electrocuted near here early today when he attempted to climb a barbed wire fence, which, unknown to him, had been charged with electricity by a high voltage wire which had fallen more than a mile away.

His mother had sent the youth from their home, four and one-half miles northwest of here, to investigate a fire about 100 yards from the house. Alarmed at his failure to return, his stepfather, D. A. Senn, went in search. He found his stepson dead, lying across the fence.

Funeral arrangements had not been announced late today.

KELL PREDICTS LINE'S SUCCESS

Wichita Capitalist Tells Of A. & E. Prospects

ABILENE, Texas, Jan. 27. (AP)—At a session that probably will last through Wednesday, a hearing was opened here today on the application of Frank Kell of Wichita Falls and his Abilene associates for a permit to construct the Abilene and Eastern railway, a 45-mile line from Abilene to Cross Plains.

Kell, principal witness today, pictured the A. & E. as a going concern from the start. He estimated its income account on operating revenue at $160,900 the first year, as against an expense of $94,920. After the first year, according to his estimate, the annual revenue would be $201,125 a year.

Kell said he himself would construct and operate the line if a permit were given, and would have it going six months after work was started. He told of the plan of himself and his Abilene associates, who will own 50 per cent of the line, to work in close harmony with the Missouri-Kansas-Texas system, with which the A. & E. would connect at Cross Plains, saying a one-system haul would be given to freight shippers.

Much of the testimony dealt with distances from Abilene to eastern and southern market centers of Texas via the A. & E. as compared wit hthe Texas and Pacific. Kell admitted that while the T. & P. had a somewhat shorter haul both to Fort Worth and Dallas and to gulf ports, freight on the proposed line destined for the gulf would avoid the "congested terminal at Fort Worth" and save time and costs.

Kell's large milling interests bulked in the hearing. He said he was a director of the General Mills, Inc., of Minneapolis, which he described as the "largest milling group in the world," owning mills at Wichita Falls, Vernon, Waco, Amarillo, Oklahoma City, Perry, Okla., St. Louis and Arkansas City, Kan., and he said he himself controlled direction of that tonnage "wherever I want to." He said he would, with proper division and through rates, route some of it over the A. & E.

Slight Hope Held For Recovery of Pastor's Son

The condition of Seton A. Barnes Jr., who was critically injured Sunday night in an automobile crash on the Henrietta highway, was reported unchanged early Tuesday morning and physicians stated they still held but slight hope for his life.

Mr. Barnes is in the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital suffering from a crushed face, fractured nose and facial bones, a fracture at the base of the skull, a shattered knee joint and severe lacerations on the head and body.

The accident occurred near Jolly about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. The occupants of the other car escaped with minor hurts. Dr. and Mrs. Barnes of Dallas, parents of the injured man, were at the bedside Monday. Dr. Barnes was for six years pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church and prior to that was pastor of the First Methodist church here.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27. (INS)—Following discovery of a 12-year-old school boy lying near death from the effects of liquor in the vicinity of the Armour school, police and the state's attorney's office today started a drastic drive against saloons and speakeasies in the neighborhood.

He named four places where he said liquor was served to school boys.

PRODUCERS TO HOLD PARLEY AT FORT WORTH

Report of Committee Who Talked With Farish To Be Present

HUMBLE STANDS PAT

Conferees Recommend More Stringent Curtailment of Production

DALLAS, Jan. 26. (AP)—Call for a general meeting of all oil and gas producers in Texas to be held at Fort Worth Friday, Jan. 31, was issued here today by Edward T. Moore, president of the Texas division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association.

The meeting was called to consider the report of the special committee appointed last Monday to investigate the causes of the recent crude oil price cuts and to recommend a course of action.

Report Made Public

The committee recommended a sharp curtailment of production and urged that immediate steps be taken to place it into effect.

Moore made public the report because he said he wanted producers of the state to know what the committee's report will be and give them time to devote some thought to the subject before the meeting convenes.

He urged a careful study of the report so that careful and thorough consideration might be accorded it.

Wichitans Sign

The report was signed by Warner Clark, chairman, and John F. O'Donohoe, Charles F. Roesser, J. S. Bridwell, Robert R. Penn, Edgar Marston, Frank Cullinan and T. B. Hoffer, members of the committee.

Oklahoma Oil Men to Urge Duty

Largest meeting of oil men ever held in Oklahoma has been assured for the oil tariff conference at the Mayo hotel, Tulsa, to be held Wednesday, according to a telegram to The Record News from Wirt Franklin of Ardmore, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

A number of special Pullmans will be run from concentration points, Mr. Franklin wired.

"The general public is concluding that the benefits of cheap crude oil are not necessarily followed by low prices on refined products. This conclusion will, be of material assistance to the industry in its fight for protection against foreign importations," the Ardmore operator said in his telegram.

Following is the complete report of the special committee of the Texas division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, submitted to President Edward T. Moore, as received by The Record News:

Your committee went to Houston and held a conference last Friday with Mr. W. S. Farish, president, Humble Oil and Refining company, and discussed in detail with him the present status of the oil industry and the reasons which actuated the Humble company in its recent price changes. Mr. Farish was quite frank and fair in answering the questions asked him by the committee. He declared, however, that the Humble company could not rescind its new price schedules

Veteran Texas Rail Man Dies in Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 27. (INS)—Funeral services were held here today for Adolphus S. Grant, 79, retired president and founder of the Grant Locomotive works of Houston, Texas. Grant, who died yesterday, was for 20 years master mechanic of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

County Asks State Designation Of Proposed Route Through Jacksboro

A request for a state highway designation which may lead to another paved route to Fort Worth, and a letter pressing the proposed widening of 41 miles of pavement in Wichita and adjoining counties were sent out to the state highway commission from the county commissioners court here Monday.

The commissioners ask that a two-mile strip of road from the end of Holliday street to the graded Scotland-Windthorst road in Archer county be designated a state highway. The commissioners explained that they are looking toward the eventual completion of a paved highway leading to Fort worth by way of Jacksboro and Mineral Wells. Already the proposed route is paved from a point 12.8 miles northwest of Jacksboro to Fort Worth and much of the grading and bridge work in the intervening counties has been completed, it was explained. The new road, urged by the commissioners Monday, would provide an almost straight connection between Holliday street and Windthorst and would make Wichita Falls more directly accessible to Jack county, it was pointed out.

M. A. Bundy, commissioner from precinct 1, proposed the "follow up" letter to the commission in connection with the 12-foot addition to the road between here and the Red river bridge beyond Burkburnett, and to the Wichita Falls and Vernon highway, already requested in an earlier meeting. The court asked the state to add six feet to either side of the two roads, involving around 41 miles of pavement.

Another Session of Legislature To Remedy Rural Schools Possible

AUSTIN, Jan. 27. (AP)—The possibility of a second called session to enact remedial legislation for those rural schools deprived of necessary funds through an injunction against the $5,000,000 special rural school aid fund, was foreseen here today by S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of schools.

Marrs pointed out that an appeal from the injunction granted by a district court in San Antonio last Saturday will be filed Wednesday with the court of civil appeals there. If that court dissolves the injunction the necessary legislation can be had in the last two weeks of this session. If an appeal to the supreme court has to be made, another session will be necessary, he said.

He will make a formal appeal tomorrow to teachers in the schools affected to remain at their posts until March 1. If the injunction is upheld, these teachers will be dependent on citizens of their communities, and not the state, for their salaries, he said.

Means of meeting the emergency created by the injunction were considered today by the house educational committee. Marrs appeared before it, as did Assistant Attorney General D. F. Whitehurst. Whitehurst expressed the belief that if the injunction is upheld it will be impossible to draw a new bill eliminating objectionable features.

OIL COMMITTEE'S COMPLETE REPORT PICTURES INDUSTRY'S ILLS

SURVEY SHOWS NEED OF ACTION

Oil Tariff Too Slow, Is Group's Opinion

under present production conditions and that it could make no promises as to the future. He expressed regret that the circumstances which forced the change were still operating and that they preclude the possibility of returning to the old price structure until controlling circumstances themselves had been changed and readjustment as between supply and demand had been made. Mr. Farish readily admitted that present conditions have forced oil below its intrinsic value as compared with other fuels.

Statistics Surveyed

Your committee, as thoroughly as its limited time permitted, has gone into all available statistics as to the present production, storage, and refining conditions of the oil industry. These include data from the reports of the federal bureau of mines, the American Petroleum Institute, the various oil journals and other sources. It has developed that the data relied on by your committee is not substantially different from the data referred to by Mr. Farish. A careful consideration of the figures will do more to give a correct understanding of the whole situation than any other approach to the problem of which we are aware.

From a survey of the controlling data and figures it is the unanimous conclusion of this committee that there is still an actual over-production of both crude oil and refined products, and that there is a real necessity for further and immediate curtailment of petroleum products. Progress in curtailment was made by Texas producers between the peak week for the year 1929 to the end of the year, and for this progress producers should be commended. The curtailment accomplished, however was not sufficient. It is our belief that a constructive program must be initiated and that the operators themselves are the ones who must adjust their production to available demand. Such machinery as the law provides should be availed of, so that this vitally necessary further curtailment in production may be effected in the most expeditious manner possible.

Tariff Opposed

Your committee believes that relief in the immediate situation must be had, if at all, through curtailment, instead of through tariff action. Your committee believes that the oil industry in the United States would not very greatly improve its present acute needs by an oil tariff, even could such a tariff be procured within a reasonable time. This country today is, and for sometime has been, exporting far more crude oil and far more refined products than are being imported into this country. In other words, the balance of exports over imports is in our favor, not against us.

In 1929 all of our imports of crude oil and refined products totaled 1,109,000,000 barrels, as against total exports of 162,000,000 barrels, an excess in favor of our exports over imports of 53,000,000 barrels. The excess in favor of exports over imports existed not only in crude oil, but also in refined products. Moreover, the inevitable delays which would be involved in seeking relief through tariff action to the prejudice of sane curtailment in production and refining would be avoided if the oil industry concentrates at this time upon conforming to the law of supply and demand by sharply curtailing production.

Your committee recognizes, however, that there is diversity of opinion in the oil industry as to the value, presently and prospectively, of seeking and obtaining tariff action, and it has no desire to prevent study of the problem and further action by the association. This committee believed the present situation so acute as to require it to concentrate upon curtailment recommendations.

Further figures bearing upon tariff needs are the following:

In 1928 the imports of crude oil were 79,000,000 barrels. In 1929 they were 77,000,000 barrels, a decrease of 2,000,000 barrels. In 1928 gasoline imports were 4,000,000 barrels and in 1929 (with December estimated) they were 9,152,000 barrels. Approximately 95 per cent of the total came from South America. It is estimated that for 1930 gasoline imports will be approximately 13,000,000 barrels.

Total exports from this country for the same three years follows: 1927, 44,337,000 barrels; 1928, 52,904,000 barrels; 1929, 58,000,000 barrels, (December estimated).

Gasoline Supply

Unquestionably a large portion of the present distress is due to the piling up on the eastern seaboard of a vast over-supply of gasoline, with a resultant weakness in the entire market for refined products. This over-supply is due to a large extent to immense shipments of gasoline from California to the eastern seaboard through the Panama canal—due, of course, to the fact that California is producing far more oil than the western coast area can consume or export to the Orient. In 1928 California shipped to the eastern seaboard 16,054,000 barrels of gasoline. In 1929 the shipments totaled 23,417,000 barrels.

It was brought out in the directors' meeting of this association at Dallas last Monday and in the meeting of this committee on last Friday that two ship-loads of gasoline recently left San Pedro, Calif., consigned to New York without a buyer. This may be termed distress gasoline, and such shipments, if continued to an already glutted market, will have a more and more disastrous effect on the general market. The next result of this combination-imports in 1929 of 9,152,000 barrels of gasoline from foreing countries, and shipment of 23,417,000 barrels of gasoline from California to the eastern seaboard—has been to weaken the eastern gasoline markets to such points that much of this total of 32,569,000 barrels has been offered on the eastern markets at lower prices than the Mid-Continent producers, refiners, and marketers could hope to compete with under the crude oil price that prevailed before the recent cut. Such weakening of the eastern markets necessarily has brought distress to the Mid-Continent operators.

There is no immediate relief in sight from this condition except through curtailment, for California is still shipping her excess gasoline in tankers to the eastern seaboard, and it is estimated that such gasoline shipments under present conditions will increase during 1930 by probably 4,000,000 barrels.

Stocks Increase

Stocks of crude oil and of gasoline in the United States have increased during the present year, even though production at the end of 1929 was at a lower point than at the beginning of that year. It is estimated that if the present rate of overproduction of gasoline continues, stocks by March, 1930, will total 59,580,000 barrels—the high mark in the history of the oil industry. In March, 1929, total gasoline stocks in this country were 48,205,000 barrels, and in April, 1928, were 41,195,000 barrels. The low point in gasoline stocks usually is reached in September or October of each year.

It is estimated that at the present expected rate of production and consumption under existing conditions, including the probable increases from improved refining methods, gasoline stocks in November, 1930, will total 48,776,000 barrels, as against 33,222,000 barrels in September, 1929, and 26,378,000 barrels in September, 1928. In spite of all efforts to curtail production of crude and the refined output, there has been a steady increase in the amount of gasoline in storage.

Crude Stocks

As of Dec. 31, 1927, total crude oil stocks in this country were 473,379,000 barrels. In spit of all efforts at proration, curtailment and conservation, crude oil stocks had risen by the end of 1928 to 490,786,000 barrels an increase in one year of more than 17,000,000 barrels. In 1929, in spite of continued proration, curtailment and conservation efforts, crude oil stocks rose by the end of the year to a total of 541,382,000 barrels, the highest mark in all history and an increase over the preceding year of more than 50,000,000 barrels. It reflects the present unhealthy condition of the industry and shows that the 1929 production was nearly 150,000 barrels per day greater than the demand.

It is manifestly an impossibility, after such a brief survey, for this committee to attempt to say exactly what the present over-production is in barrels per average day. There are too many factors affecting supply and demand. In whatever direction we look, however, we have very significant indexes.

Crude Stocks Gain

Crude oil stocks have increased and are increasing at alarming rates. Gasoline stocks are piling up just as dangerously. All the time we have before us the vast threat from California's continuing to dump her excess gasoline production on the Eastern seaboard, a market which seems glutted at all times. It may be assumed that the more than 32,000,000 barrels of gasoline from California and from last year's imports represent the refined production of some 80,000,000 barrels of crude (based on the general average of a .4 barrel of gasoline per barrel of crude). This amount of 80,000,000 barrels alone represents more than 200,000 barrels per day of crude oil production. That figure is not far from the approximately 150,000 barrels per day increase in stocks of crude oil in 1929.

While reference has been made to the shipments of gasoline from California and South America to the eastern seaboard as constituting one of the major factors in the present situation, it should be observed that as long as there is an overproduction of crude oil anywhere in the world, those districts so overproducing will naturally seek a market for their products. There is no way for us to say effectively to them that they must not ship their crude oil or their gasoline to such points as will afford them a market, and the only hope of correcting the situation is to set in motion all available legal machinery and methods for adjusting the oil industry, in this country in its various relationships.

"Flood" World-Wide

On every hand the oil industry today is confronted with a flood of oil. In Venezuela, Colombia, Mesapotamia, Persia, Russia and many other foreign countries hundreds of thousands of barrels per day are now shut in, awaiting to be released only by better market conditions.

In Texas alone the output could be immeasurably increased merely by turning the valves on many wells already completed, and by speeding up the drilling of other wells on numberless proven locations. In California the same condition exists. In Oklahoma we all know the dread threat of the Oklahoma City, the Logan county and other fields of large potentials. Kansas is again becoming a market factor. New Mexico is waiting with a newly proven area that can produce vast quantities of oil. More than ever before in the history of our industry, which is so vital to the public, there is staggering need for the better and wiser adjustment of supply to demand. One needs only to glance about him to realize how much already has been accomplished by the steps which have already been taken by each producer and refiner under the spur of the economic law of supply and demand to which your committee has referred.

It is not difficult to realize how much worse conditions would be today if no steps in that direction had been taken. Many cry that the small independent operator and refiner is being injured by proration and curtailment. Yet it is the belief of our committee that unless further proration and curtailment is put in motion, prices for crude oil and, of course, for gasoline will go lower than they are now, and the situation of every operator, major or minor, will be far worse than it is now.

Natural Storage

With such vast supplies of oil in sight, no man and no corporation can afford to build storage for it. That would result in both economic and physical waste. Nature has provided the best and cheapest of all storage for this oil—the ground itself—and it is up to the operators themselves so to arrange their operations that crude oil will stay in the ground until it is needed on top of it.

There are many of the major companies which now have vast proven production acreages. Should measures of proration and curtailment fail and the major companies be stimulated under the pressure of their leasehold obligations or otherwise to produce from such proven acreages at their maximum, such a flood of oil would be let loose as would make the buying of any oil by the major companies unprofitable just as the storing of oil now is. Then indeed would there be complete ruin for that man or that company engaged alone in the production of crude oil, for then the highly integrated major companies would produce from their own refining and marketing needs, and the independent producer would have no market whatever.

If the major companies were seeking to eliminate the independent, they could seek no more certain method than that of unrestricted production.

In Texas, even though its operators have led in curtailment attempts, oil production has steadily increased during the last two years. In January, 1928, the average daily production from all fields in Texas was 708,000 barrels per day. The Yates field in Pecos county, the first field in the country to be put under proration, began this experiment in October, 1927. The Winkler field followed suit early in 1928, yet by January, 1929, production in the state of Texas had risen to 820,900 barrels per day, and now in January, 1930, in spite of curtailment measures extended to the Howard-Glasscock fields and the Darst creek field in Guadalupe county, production is at the record-breaking rate of 833,000 barrels per day.

California's Gain

California in January, 1928, had an average daily production of 635,000 barrels per day. One year later the average was 801,000 barrels per day, now, still one year later, it is 693,400 barrels per day, with further curtailment in prospect if the gasoline-oil ratio law is sustained by the courts.

Oklahoma production in January, 1928, averaged 684,500 barrels per day; 12 months later 688,400 barrels per day; now, still 12 months later, 661,000 barrels per day; and since the recent price cuts Oklahoma producers have begun initiating measures there with the idea of cutting their production still further by 50,000 to 100,000 barrels.

Cooperation Needed

Never before in the history of the oil industry has there been such a need for intelligent cooperation on every hand. Nothing will be accomplished if Texas curtails but California turns loose an additional flood of oil. No gain will result to anyone if Oklahoma cuts down and Texas increases her production, nor if California and Texas should curtail and Oklahoma increase. We must all understand the gravity of the situation and must take without delay every available step permitted by law to correct the over-production malady with which we are afflicted. Obviously it is impracticable for producers in Texas to agree with producers in other states, but if every producer in every state can be brought to see the basic and controlling factors, his own intelligent self-interest will compel him to conserve his oil potentials instead of throwing it upon already overburdened markets.

Physical conditions govern the quantities of oil which Venezuela can ship, and the maximum movement there perhaps has already been reached. Yet hundreds of thousands of barrels of production above that maximum are shut in there. Substantially the same is true in the Irak and the East Indies. The problems of oil producers of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas New Mexico and California, therefore, have these encouraging factors. They may largely ignore foreign production at the moment and work on their own situation. It is the unanimous opinion of your committee that the problem as it now exisits can only be dealt with sucessfully by curtailment and conservation.

Considering all of the factors which have been reviewed your committee believes that, so far as is legally possible, steps should be taken toward the reduction of production along the following lines:

1—To correct the present overproduction of oil in the United States by working for an immediate cut of 200,000 barrels per day below the daily average production for the year 1929.

2—To call a meeting of all oil operators in the state of Texas at the earliest possible date, and at that time lay the entire situation before the meeting and consider the Texas fields, pool by pool, with a study of such reduction in each pool as operators should be encouraged to make.

3—That operators in Oklahoma and California be informed of the action of Texas operators and be asked to hold similar meetings and work out for themselves such curtailment and conservation programs as will contribute to the general relief of the oil industry.

4—That the facts as to the Texas fields and the general production and refining conditions be brought to the attention of the railroad commission of Texas, to the end that that board for the common good take such action as in its judgment the situation demands.

5—It is recognized by your committee that there are certain producing fields having small wells and coping with water problems in which curtailment measures will, either be physically impossible or economically impracticable. Conservation steps, if any, therefore, should take account of such wells, and the railroad commission should perhaps arrive at and fix some arbitrary rule as to such small wells or small pools, and declare points below which no efforts at curtailment or conservation should be made.

In other words, it is the feeling of your committee that the pools having wells of large size can most effectively contribute to relief.

In this connection your committee recognizes the right of all districts having actual or potential oil production to produce their respective portions of the supplies necessary to meet market requirements. Your committee subscribes to the idea that intelligent action must also take note of world conditions. Every district in every nation has a vital interest in obtaining the proper conservation of its petroleum products; for there is no other major production in our present civilization which is so sure of eventual exhaustion, and so absolutely irreplaceable whenever that time of exhaustion comes. The very existence of our nation may depend upon the exercise by the oil industry of great wisdom in dealing with situations such as that which now faces us, and the entire industry should seek the counsel and support of all governmental agencies. Your committee finally recommends that it be finally now discharged. Respectfully submitted.

community chest funds are the exception rather than the rule.

These facts ought to be taken into consideration, and of course they will be, in any proposal for discontinuing the community chest plan here.

Here's something clipped from Mefo's colmun "Why" in the Houston Press just to show that other cities have their troubles the same as Wichita Falls:

"The 'Why' phone was kept busy for two days explaining why the money for Boy Scouts and similar activities could not be transferred to charity—that the allotments had all been made during the community chest campaign and could not be changed. Dozens of letters making inquiry or sneering at the community chest workers have been received.

"We know that such fault-finding is wrong, and that the community chest must aid welfare work as well as dispense charity. If we didn't help the Y. M. C. A., the Boy Scouts and other organizations that are building character, we would have them all appealing separately and the tax upon our citizens would be far greater. We do believe, however, that staging another public campaign for charity so soon after completing the chest drive was an error. It gave the wrong impression to many."

This was after Houston had raised a chest fund of $525,000 and then followed the severest cold weather there during which thousands of people had to be fed and given some shelter against the biting cold.

Every city has its problems not only with its community chest but with many other things. So has every individual. We seek constantly to stabilize our world and then along comes something and upsets our plans and makes our problem all to work over again and maybe a lot of new ones. That's what makes life interesting, and develops men and women. We wouldn't like to think of what life might be if everything would stay in the groove in which we placed it.

COURT DROPS BRIDGE CASE

J. R. Handy Contempt Charge Dismissed

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Jan. 27. (UP)—Federal Judge R. L. Williams today dismissed the citation for contempt issued last week against J. R. Handy, one of the receivers appointed by him for the toll bridge company operating a bridge over the Red river between Durant and Denison.

The citation was issued upon application of the Oklahoma highway department which declared in its petition that Handy as receiver had attempted to annoy and delay the highway department from starting construction on the free bridge by acquiring property the state intended to use in erection of its structure.

Although Judge Williams dismissed the charge against Handy, he declared that he would not allow his court to be used as a vehicle to prevent the state from building a free bridge across the Red river. He ruled that the receivers of the toll bridge should be made parties to the suit in the state court in which condemnation proceedings have been filed. He also stated that the bridge company should convey back to the original owners the land in question.

Mrs. Houdini's Magician Friends Make New Tea Room Eery Place

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (UP)—Mrs. Harry Houdini and—apparently—all her many friends in the magician business have opened a tea room in the midtown section with the result that your correspondent will never bat an eye henceforth should Primo Canera pop out of his tomato surprise.

Magicians are a playful lot of fellows who enjoy their work and when Mrs. Houdini invited them to drop in anytime and practice in her new tea room the only regret she received was written in invisible ink.

Fire Balls in Window

To the unwary diner, Mrs. Houdini's tea room appears to be only one more tea room featuring a 65-cent lunch. It is true that there are a couple of balls of fire in the window illuminating a portrait of the late master mystifier. But then a tea room window is liable to have anything in it from a bowl of papier mache apples to a blond looking nervously at her wrist watch. The two balls of fire hardly prepare a customer for the experience of having five yards of silk bunting and the flags of all nations pulled—with a polite, apologetic gesture—out from under his lamb chop.

Some of the magicians who frequent Mrs. Houdini's tea room are jokers who relieve the waiters on occasion. This perhaps explains the plight of one diner who summoned the waiter to complain that he had no knife and was still finding tableware in his various pockets clear through the dessert course. He was relieved of another pound and a half of cutlery when he paid his bill and only restored to good humor by the bland manner in which the waiter swallowed his tip.

Watches in Soup

Gold watches instead of thumbs in the soup form another way in which a favored customer at Mrs. Houdini's may find himself amused.

"You may keep the watch," says the waiter genially. "Just seal it in this manilla envelope and hang on to the envelope while I bring you another plate of soup."

It is barely necessary to say that the only chance a customer at Mrs. Houdini's has of retaining the stock gold watch is by swallowing it immediately. No magician will allow a gold watch to remain long in a sealed manilla envelope.

Other of Mrs. Houdini's professional customers practice while they are dining—and don't they have fun? There is the gentleman with the spade beard. It is his whimsy to pause in the middle of one of Mrs. Houdini's best blue plates and swallow several needles and a spool of thread. The needles are always neatly threaded when he takes them out again before tackling the salad.

Chicken Talks Out

Ventriloquists who cause chicken legs to cry out in alarm and a playful young man who enjoys wrapping up his lighted cigaret in his handkerchief and then shaking out into nothingness are other occasional adjuncts of Mrs. Houdini's place.

Mrs. Houdini is what magicians call "a grand little woman" and they are all out to help her make a howling success of her tea room. If she doesn't, it will be no fault of the merry gentlemen who pull rabbits out of her customers' hats and issue manifestoes against the spiritualists.

Letters Tell Chicago How To Recover From Bankruptcy

CHICAGO, Jan. 27. (US)—The nation is interested in Chicago's financial difficulty.

H. Newton, a telegraph lineman, of Rochester, N. Y., enclosed a $5 bill, explaining:

"In my travels around the country, I have been placed in the same embarrassing position. . . . With this in mind, I enclose $5 for the city. Let it start a nation-wide fund."

The contribution was returned with thanks.

Philip Schneider wrote:

"Balance the metric system with the plural ethics of the Babylonian civilization, divide that by two, and the answer will solve Chicago's problems forever."

Swedish System of Prohibition Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—A study of the Swedish system of handling alcoholic beverages was made public today by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, with the contention that Sweden during its operation had reduced by half the number of arrests for drunkenness and crimes of violence.

In addition, the statement said, Sweden had reduced per capita consumption of liquor by 35 per cent and was deriving revenues of more than $30,000,000 yearly from the trade.

Under the system, the statement explained, monopolies were set up whose dividends were so held down that there was no incentive to push the sale of intoxicants. The quantity of liquor purchasable was restricted to conform to the habits of the buyer, with that allowed persons who used it with injurious effects greatly reduced or entirely cut off.

PLOT TO BURN HOTEL BARED

Fire Fatal to Seven Blamed On Owners

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27. (INS)—The fire which destroyed the Hotel Buckingham annex and burned seven persons to death in 1927 was planned deliberately by the two owners of the hotel to cash in on their insurance it is charged in confessions which local police today say they have from two former employes of the hotel.

Andrew Beauford Meadows, 53, former night watchman and Robert Henry Cothan, 58, are the employes from whom Chief of Police Gerk declares he has confessions. The two declare, police say, that they received several hundred dollars each to start the fire.

Ralph Pierson, 52, who owned 40 per cent of the hotel and Lewis El Balson, 47, who owned the other 60 per cent are the owners who paid them to start the fire in order to "save themselves" financially, the employes allege.

The damage to the building estimated at $170,000 was covered by a $250,000 insurance policy.

Meadows is alleged to have confessed that he received $820 for starting the fire in the maids' room on the second floor and Cothan is said to have confessed that he received $395 for persuading Meadows to start the fire and that each had been promised $5,000.

Baby Used to Pay Woman's Board Bill

ATLANTA, Jan. 27. (UP)—Police today were concerned over the condition of 18-month-old Robert Lee Paul, who was left with a boarding house proprietress as security for an unpaid board bill of $70 by his mother, Mrs. Hattie Mae Paul.

When the baby was "arrested" on a technical charge, he was found to be seriously ill from malnutrition and was taken to a hospital. The mother refused to discuss the case. Mrs. Rachel Johnson, with whom the child was left, told police she had had him for six months and that during that time the mother came for him only once. Mrs. Johnson said she refused to give up the child then because the bill had not been paid.

Flood Control Group Hears Unity Plea

M'COOK, Neb., Jan. 27. (UP)—A united block of states must besiege congress for relief of the Mississippi and its tributaries in order to eliminate floods and gain irrigation, members of the flood control-irrigation congress here were told today.

In a keynote speech, Governor Arthur Weaver of Nebraska declared that "pork barrel days" are over when various sections can ask congress for river development projects. He said now is the time for united action in obtaining flood control for the Mississippi through irrigation by impounding the waters of the tributaries of the central stream.

EASTEP PLEA SLATED TODAY

Arraignment Postponed By Durant Court

DURANT, Okla., Jan. 27. (INS)—Arraignment of A. J. Eastep, farmer living near here, for the murders of Will Hughes and Mrs. Eastep, was delayed until tomorrow at the request of counsel for Eastep.

Mrs. Ila Hughes, Eastep's alleged paramour and widow of Hughes, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned today on a charge of murdering her husband. In view of a confession Mrs. Hughes made it had been believed Mrs. Hughes would plead guilty.

There was speculation over what plea Eastep would make. After he signed a confession this morning that he clubbed Hughes to death, Sheriff Ruel Taylor quoted Eastep as saying he would place himself at the mercy of the court.

In his confession, Eastep accused Mrs. Hughes of poisoning Mrs. Eastep. Mrs. Hughes denied this in her confession. The couple planned to marry after they rid themselves of their wedded mates, Mrs. Hughes stated in her confession.

Mme. Elizabeth Ohms 'At Home' In America

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (US)—Mme. Elizabeth Ohms, new Wagnerian soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, has been in America only a few weeks. She has felt "perfectly at home" from the moment she landed.

In her first interview she said today:

"Opera will live as long as great voices appear to sing it. Neither radio nor the talkies will ever kill it. New life to interpret it will cause it to live as all real music will live.

In private life Elizabeth Ohms is the wife of Leo Pasetti, European scenic artist.

Folled by Moderation!
THE HEARTLESS SHADOW
that threatens the modern figure

"Coming events cast their shadows before"
AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*
By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion
Avoid the snags along the common-sense path to fitness and fashion. Don't let over-indulgence deprive you of the tantalizing contour of the modern figure. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately—when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the graceful, modern figure with its captivating curves.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

NOT A BIG STICK JOB

Daily Editorial

DIPLOMACY, the inveterate prestidigitator and champion short card artist, has discarded trick cabinets and sleight of hand at the disarmament conference, and for once is working above board.

The five interested powers are seated in a vacuum tube—holding a town meeting in the magic Hall of the Winds, where a hundred million listeners may move their chairs to the very edge of the council table and personally hear every word of the momentous discussion.

Had the microphone been similarly available at Versailles, popular opinion would have been a more intelligent agent in reconciling the antagonisms endlessly provoked there by indirection and Chauvinism.

This morning a myriad of men and women who never before bothered to acquaint themselves with the intrinsic issues at stake in any international treaty, are possessed of the qualifying facts to argue the pros and cons of limitation.

Whatever sentiment the administration will face at the conclusion of these deliberations, it will be an informed sentiment—based upon accurate knowledge and day-to-day reflection—instead of superficial opinion snatched from headlines, hearsay and demagogic interpretation.

Radio has assumed the functions of Stentor, and now becomes the official witness and herald of all vital negotiations.

Progress and efficient government are soon destined to demand the right of free audience as well as free speech.

The loud speaker has over night graduated into a universal form, through which war and peace, economic reform and social revolution must appeal for support and consent.

No living man can foretell the ultimate program to be adopted at London, and that includes the very plenipotentiaries in whom decision is vested.

THE INITIAL sessions will be characterized by technical skirmishes and maneuvers for advantageous trading positions. Weeks will doubtless elapse before this bargaining phase passes and the committee settles upon brass-tack terms.

Racial vanity will waste a certain amount of time on gallery gestures, but that's to be expected.

Compromise will take its usual all-round toll, then sign up. And that's to be expected.

Oppressive budgets insist upon a halt in the ruinous race for naval supremacy; even America can't indefinitely afford the crushing burden.

When reasoning groups are determined upon agreement, there's adways a way out.

The labyrinth was not designed to hold men in a hopeless prison, but to keep them searching for the exit. There is an exit in this dilemma and sincerity is certain to locate it.

Had Alexander been a little less spectacular and a little more persevering, he would have discovered a method to untie the Gordian knot. He slashed the cord, but that didn't solve the problem.

The slashing brain may meet emergencies, but it invariably creates an equivalent crisis.

The pooled strength of America and Great Britain is sufficiently potent to impose their will upon associate signators. But big stick flourishes and Disraelean tactics would merely score empty victories and consolidate secret animosities to be dealt with when least convenient.

It is far more important to convince France, Italy and Japan that we desire no undue advantages—that the English-speaking peoples are more devoted to universal concord and voluntary international processes, than to demonstrate our sumptuary resources or evident capacity for independent action.

World jealousy and suspicion must be disarmed too.

The dispute about how much Rudy Vallee makes seems to have been settled. He has been sued by a showgirl; and that means that he makes plenty.

A movement to make war unthinkable has been started. The last one was unthinkable enough for us.

Cheer up! After you're all through shoveling coal into that darn furnace this winter, you can get out this spring and dig a garden.

Without the Community Chest

FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES of the community chest, which seem to have arisen frequently in one form or another during the last few years, have finally brought the board of directors the decision to improve conditions or disband the organization at the March meeting.

This is a drastic ultimatum, but it seems not without justification. The threat of 10 separate drives for funds to support the chest organizations, thir newspaper hopes, will be sufficient to cause a reawakening of public conscience to the service which the community chest gives. In addition to being wasteful of both money and time, 10 drives for funds and the operation without centralized authority or cooperation of 10 such organizations as compose the community chest would be inefficient, burdensome and so irritating to community life as to be almost unbearable.

While the larger donors to the chest fund are contemplating just what would result if the organization should disband, The Record News hopes that chest leaders will make a final effort to determine just why there has been the loss of interest and the refusal to aid on the part of these contributors. Wichita Falls is not a flinty-hearted city, and never has it refused to provide for the training and development of its children, the sufferings of its needy, or the aid of those struggling to maintain life and hope when these individual cases have been presented. Without considering previous efforts to rectify the situation, it seems obvious that there has been a loss of contact between the community chest and the known kindness and generosity of the average Wichitan. We ought to find out what is wrong. If it is something of which citizens of Wichita Falls ought to be ashamed, then we should get it out of our hearts or have it brought out into the light of day in order that we may be known for our true worth. If it is some little failure or misunderstanding, we should be able to eliminate it.

The service of the community chest is too valuable for this city to lose. Chest leaders, chosen from the best life of the city, give too much hard work, accept too many needless rebuffs, and burden themselves with too many responsibilities for the remainder of us not to be honest with them. Somewhere there is a missing contact between the heart of a once generous city and its efficient, untiring, vigilant and loyal welfare workers. It's time for Wichita Falls to "talk turkey" with the community chest and with its own conscience.

For the County's Good

WICHITA COUNTY COMMISSIONERS have settled amicably and by unanimous agreement the division of the county's tax funds for 1930, and this agreement should receive the approval of every citizen. While the voter of an individual precinct expects his commissioner to keep a sharp eye to the interests of his own area, he should be glad that this interest is not pressed to the point of bickering and quarreling among county heads.

Unfair treatment of one precinct must inevitably react on other precincts of the county, just as fair and equitable treatment of all divisions always results for the common good. Precinct No. 1, which includes Wichita Falls, has been generous with its lion's share of the tax funds in the past, but so have the other precincts in helping Wichita Falls in projects which would materially aid the citizenship of this city. As an example of the spirit of the county commission, all the precincts will join in helping complete the Clara-Electra highway, which lies wholly within one subdivision of the county, but which will help all Wichitans either directly or indirectly. The Record News likes to see such spirit among county officials. It is a pleasure to commend it to every Wichita county resident.

Another Airplane Disaster

THE MOST RECENT airplane disaster in California was a dreadful thing, truly; yet there is no reason for letting it frighten us into supposing that commercial air transportation is too risky to be useful.

There is always this to remember about aviation; it is the mishaps that get on the front pages. The thousands on thousands of safe, uneventful flights that go on year in and year out are seldom mentioned. But nobody can fail to see the tragedies.

Every new form of transportation has to undergo a series of accidents. The steamboat is accepted now as a perfectly safe conveyence. But less than a century ago Mississippi river steamers were exploding their boilers with appalling frequency, so that a citizen of those days could have been pardoned for assuming that the steamship would always be an unsafe means of transportation.

Prohibition for the Rich

SENATOR COLE BLEASE'S demand that the government find some way of making prohibition enforcement as effective for the rich man as for the poor man is worth consideration—although it will be a long time before it is ever put into effect.

It is probably true that a great part of the existing discontent with prohibition is the average citizen's feeling that the law does not exist for the rich man. If you have plenty of money you can get all you want to drink without any inconveniences, and what you get will be of very fair quality.

There is an injustice in that, a flat contradiction of our democratic tradition. Senator Blease has made a good suggestion. But don't expect that the government will do anything effective about it right away.

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

(Copyright, 1929, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

You cause me loss of sleep—my appetite is
A total loss since you've had me in tow,
You're old enough to know what wrong and right is
But still your actions keep me on the go;

You softly whisper love words of devotion,
Next night you have a brand new bird in hand;
Another lad would throw you in the ocean—
I think you're grand!

You make a date to meet me at eight-thirty,
You smilingly show up at ten o'clock;
If I had a dime for each time you act flirty,
John D., himself, would envy my sock.

There are times I have a great desire to fell you,
And finish out my days within a cell;
But when all is said and done I'm here to tell you—
I think you're swell!

—DON WAHN.

A Form of Criticism

Hal Kemp's favorite gag concerns the stage hand who asked the manager for a raise. The manager was surprised.

"Why," he ejaculated, "I really don't see my way clear about giving you a raise. You haven't much to do. Half the time you are merely standing in the wings listening to the show."

"Yes, sir," was the grim reply, "that's just it."

In Fewer Words

To hear the flip crackers argue it the only exercise the New Yorker gets is walking out on the average Broadway show.

Thinking Fast

Take it from Jeff Machamer a pair of newlyweds were swapping sass across the breakfast table.

"When you got home last night," bellowed the Mrs., "you said you were at the Lido club. This morning you say it was the Club Casanova. Why do you lie that way?"

"Aw, be y'self. When I came home las' night I couldn't say Casanova!"

Add Epigrams

"Eyes were made to look forward. That's why they are in the front of the head."—Bruce Barton.

Mr. Ripley will be glad to know.

He Plays the Punnies!

Mack Appleton breathlessly calls your attention to the fact that he can make up a sentence with the word "mawkish" like this: "Aw, honey, come on, just one mawkish before you go." And a sentence with the word "dauntless" like this: "She's always saying: 'Oh, dauntless do this or dauntless do that'!"

Flip Cracks

"Certainly the short dress was healthier," writes Izzy Elinson. "The girls at least used to get some exercise pulling them down. Almost any hotel will give you rum service. From the way they conduct themselves in the night clubs and theaters the collegiate apparently comes to Broadway to 'go places and boo things'."

The Morning Mail

Dear Winchell: I don't mind anything being said about me in the present ticket racket, provided it is true. If you saw my statement when the fight with the specs began you would realize that I don't pretend that my position is wholly altruistic. I am interested in getting seats into the hands of the public at lower prices chiefly because I think this will make more business for the theater.

"I stated quite definitely that I object to the present scheme of things largely because it makes lousy business men of us. I think anybody who lets a middle man sell the goods he puts out at $3.85 for 10 and 15 dollars more is a boob. I know I am several kinds of a boob but I am going to try to quit being this kind, and if nothing comes of this effort, I'm going after some of the big money my tickets bring when I am lucky enough to have a bit. I know you don't print retractions, but I wanted to put you right personally.—Brock Pemberton."

Nifties

In the Harry Reichenbach manner: If you are really a dreamer, you will profit the world more by remaining asleep. . . . You cannot sweat off bad manners any more than you can take an atomizer and spray yourself with culture. . . . Even when some Broadway phonies sell themselves—they give short weight.

The Broadway Way

In our report of Clark & McCullough's new show at the Times Square theater what appeared to be their most amusing quip was chronicled to prove how comical they are, again. The joke follows: "Oh, you would drive me out of my mind!"

"Lady," retorts Clark, "that would not be a drive—that'd be a putt!"

A Mainstemmer rebuked us for our ignorance. "You amaze me," he thundered, "that gag was told last year in 'Hold Everything!' and apparently the reason it is being told at the Times Square is that it has never been told there before."

Why Critics Gray Young

Among other things you have to read twice before you Give It Up altogether is this latest New York amusement from a poor marksman ". . . but as we have stated many times, the talented Mr. W. does not know how to criticise a play, even though he may be able to discern if it will appeal to the public or not."

As we understand it, to know how to criticise a show, you must write reviews that will appeal to managers.

Things That Burn Me Up and Knock Me Cold

Not that it matters, but six or seven weeks ago it was remarked here "The Lew Brices (Mae Clarke) are having the seal shattered in California." Imagine then our chagrin the next day to receive this telegram: "Dear Little Boy Peep. You are wrong again as usual. Love and kisses.—Lew and Mae Brice." Yesterday's Associated and United Press dispatches from the West Coast recorded the California divorce of Lew Brice and Mae Clarke and quoted Mrs. Brice as asserting that she was told by her husband "you are not the only Queen in the deck."

It's little things like that that make big paragraphs like these.

"LOVEJOY" : — : By : Beatrice Burton

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

Tom Nicholson and his young and beautiful wife, Lovejoy, have reached the bitter stage of marriage. Tom's earnings as a bond salesman do not warrant the maid that Lovejoy has hired to look after the baby and housework. It is rich Aline Alderson's influence that has changed the happy atmosphere of the tiny Nicholson home. She tells Lovejoy married women should have "affairs" to keep them young. She herself has one with "Jack", who writes to her at Lovejoy's address. Tom's suspicions are aroused. Lovejoy has Steve Oglebay, an old sweetheart, to dinner, also Norrie Shane, a nurse who is fond of Tom. Later, in a heated quarrel, Lovejoy says she is sick of the monotony and drudgery of married life. When Tom goes to a stag party, Lovejoy makes a date with Steve Oglebay. Upon her return, she learns from the maid that Tom has discovered her absence. He questions her.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XXI

It came to Lovejoy that the best thing she could do would be to pick a quarrel with Tom.

For if she had a row with him she wouldn't have to tell him where she had spent the evening. She wouldn't have to answer his questions.

She could stop speaking to him that night—and she could refuse to speak to him all the next day, and the next one, too, for the matter of that.

She could make life so unpleasant for him that he'd probably be glad to mind his own business when the quarrel was patched up.

"I don't know why it's any of your business where I spent the evening," she drawled insolently. "You went out to your evening's entertainment, and I went out to mine. And where I was is some more of my own business."

She yawned and looked down at her magazine again, pretending to read.

Tom sat down on the edge of his bed and began to take off his shoes.

"I wasn't trying to stage a battle with you, Lovejoy," he said quietly. "I simply asked you where you were tonight when you drove out alone in my car. After all I'm your husband, and I suppose I have a right to ask where you were."

"Do you?" Lovejoy asked, her red lips curling. "Well, that's good."

She laid down her magazine and looked him over as he pulled off one shoe and began to unlace the other.

"A husband never looks so funny and unattractive as when he's pulling off his shoes and socks," she remarked sweetly. "All hunched over like a monkey—" she laughed.

Tom stood up, his face flushed.

"You never used to think I looked so darned funny," he said shortly.

He looked at her, puzzled.

"What's the matter with you, anyway? What are you upset about?"

Lovejoy opened her eyes wide. "I'm not upset about anything," she answered calmly. "I was just as pleasant as I could be when you came in. I asked you how much you had won at Al's poker party, and you refused to tell me. Instead of that you started to cross-question me, and I won't be cross-questioned. I have just as much right to my kind of Saturday night as you have to yours. And don't you forget it!"

Tom stared at her a moment longer. Then his hand went into his trousers' pocket. It came out again with a handful of paper money in it. He threw the bills on the bed before her.

"I won $37," he said. "I was going to surprise you with it. It's yours."

Lovejoy gathered it all into the palm of her small soft hand. She shoved it under her pillow.

When she looked up again Tom was standing over her. He was smiling.

"I was afraid you might throw it at me," he told her. "Let's not have any more of this arguing. Come here and kiss me good night and tell me where you were. I was worried after I found out you'd gone away in the car. The tires are old and they skid when it rains. . . ."

He put out his arms and took her by her shoulders.

But Lovejoy drew back. "Oh, don't kiss me!" she cried out sharply. "You smell of alcohol. . . . You've been drinking! Tom, I don't like you when you're squiffy. Please get away from me!"

She shuddered.

After Tom had gone to bed and the room was in darkness, she lay awake for a long time thinking of Steve Oglebay and the way she had let him kiss her and tell her that he loved her.

What a double-crosser I am! she scolded herself. Loving Tom the way I do—and then sneaking away from him to see Steve Oglebay!

Well, she would never do it again, she promised herself. She would stay at home and behave herself. She was no Aline—

She dropped off to sleep, telling herself that she never would be like Aline Alderson. She would never look sidewise at Steve Oglebay, or any other man, again!

But when a person has done a thing once it is so easy to do it again.

On Wednesday night at 6 o'clock Tom telephoned to say that he was going to stay downtown to have dinner with Al Alderson and another man.

"Aline is still out of town and Al's lonely," he said.

"Well, what about me? I'm lonely, too," Lovejoy answered, "and everything's ready for dinner, Tom."

The house was filled with the pleasant appetizing odor of stuffed veal chops and pumpkin pie.

Through the open door of the dining room, Lovejoy could see the table all set for the meal. The linen was like snow and Hilda kept the glass and the plated-silver shining like the moon. There was a little yellow bowl filled with white hyacinths in the middle of the table.

"I'm sorry, Lovejoy," Tom said, "but I've promised Al. I'm going to meet him in five minutes. I'll be home early."

And I won't be here when you come! Lovejoy told him in her heart.

But all she said was "All right." She hung up the receiver with a bang.

She gave the number of Steve Oglebay's office a moment later. But there was no answer. Everyone had left for the day, evidently.

At half past six she called him at his house.

"Hello, Steve," she said when he answered. "Do you want to meet me at the little moving picture theater in this neighborhood in an hour? It's on Country Club drive a couple of blocks from Aline's house."

Steve said he would be there, waiting for her in the lobby, at half-past seven. Even over the telephone there was no mistaking the eagerness in his voice.

He's a decent kind of a man, and I ought to let him alone, Lovejoy thought as she hung up the receiver and started out to the kitchen.

But one look at the pretty little dinner-table made her change her mind . . . If Tom was going to have dinner downtown, whenever he felt like it, she certainly had a right to do as she pleased, too. What was sauce for the gander was certainly sauce for the goose . . .

"Hilda," she said, opening the kitchen door, "Mr. Nicholson has just 'phoned to say he won't be home for dinner. I'm going out, too, so you may as well put everything away. You have all the chops you want and put the rest away for tomorrow's lunch."

Hilda smiled broadly. "Yeh, and I go to the Scandinavian club to play basket ball tonight," she said. "I glad because I get away so nice and early."

"I'm sorry, Hilda, but you won't be able to go out tonight. I'm going out for the evening, too. I just told you so."

Hilda drooped. "Yeh?" she asked. "Maybe I should not have taken this job. I not think I have to sit with baby all the time."

"Well, you'll have to sit with him tonight," Lovejoy said sharply.

She turned and went out of the kitchen. Hilda followed her with a look of hate that she did not see.

It was 10 o'clock when Lovejoy got out of Steve Oglebay's car at the corner of Tudor road and Stallings lane.

A new house was going up on that corner. It looked very attractive in the moonlight and Lovejoy stood looking at it with longing eyes for a moment before she started home . . . What fun it would be to live in a house like that! What a place for parties it would be!

Well, if Tom keeps on making money we can have a house like that pretty soon, she told herself as she opened her gate and started up the front walk.

Tom was sitting in the little living room waiting for her.

Beyond, through the open door of the kitchen, she could see Hilda bent over the table writing a letter. She was always writing letters to her people in "the old country."

She got up when she heard Lovejoy open the door and came walking into the room with a telegram in her hand.

"Here's a telegram that came after you went out," she said, and handed it to Lovejoy.

It was not signed, but Lovejoy knew that it was from Aline Alderson.

"Home day after tomorrow," it read. "Please hold all my mail for arrival."

"Let's see it. Whom's it from?" Tom asked, getting to his feet.

He came across the room.

Lovejoy put the letter behind her back.

"It—it's nothing," she said unsteadily. "It really isn't anything important — it's about somebody else, and I can't show it to you."

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Disarmament Conference On the Air

"Ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience, you are enjoying a snappy half-hour with the Five-Power Naval Armamenta Boys. This program is coming to you by courtesy of the International Peace Corporation, the world's largest makers of harps and zithers.

PHILLIPS

"The last voice you heard was that of Ramsay MacDonald, guest speaker from the Outboard Motor Corporation, whose topic was 'Pleasure-Boating as a Substitute for Naval Warfare.' I am sure you were all delighted with Mr. MacDonald who will be heard again next Tuesday night at the same hour.

"We will now present Colonel Henry L. Stimson who is loaned by the Affiliated Breakfast Cereals Corporation, makers of fine breakfast foods. Colonel Stimson brings his famous orchestra, the Washingtonians, Joe Robinson at the piano. The opening number will be 'You Wouldn't Fool Me, Would You?' The first movement, in which the string instruments predominate, depicts the American delegation leaving the United States for the London conference. They are full of high hopes. There is a rather rough and chaotic medley indicating a disagreeable ocean voyage and then a broad outburst of brasses marks the arrival of the delegation on English soil.

"The cymbals clash loudly to denote that Charles Francis Adams has smiled. Here there occurs a clever arrangement for bassoons and flutes denoting a message to Colonel Stimson that his parrot, The Old Soak, is all right and has no symptoms of psittiocosis. The violins then sweep into action, which conveys the idea that Dwight Morrow, who is somewhat absent-minded, has addressed King George entirely in Mexican.

"Now there is a movement for cornets and trombones indicating the preliminary conference with the English delegates, and a low moaning of saxophones gives you the impression that many cross-currents are at work. A violent pounding of kettle-drums marks the arrival of the Italian delegation with strict orders from Mussolini to consent to nothing.

An aria for cellists indicates that Senator Reed has fallen asleep, and from afar you hear a rumbling of muted woods denoting that the Japanese delegates are extremely pessimistic and that Premier Tardieu and Aristide Briand have left the conference and gone across the street for some fried snails and cognac.

"The composition closes with a rather confusing movement for brasses and fiddles conveying the idea that the session has been hurriedly broken up by news that the talking picture photographers have arrived and can't be kept waiting.

"Kindly stand by for this selection, ladies and gentlemen. At its conclusion, when you hear the bell, you will know it is 8 o'clock and that the night shift is going on in warship building plants the world over.

The Unemployment Situation

Employment, says President Hoover, is decidedly on the upturn. Now what's the use of trying to put that across unless he suppresses those news pictures from Miami, Palm Beach and Bellair?

Mayor Walker of New York is shocked to discover that original estimates of the costs of jobs often double. Has he never been through the experience of having an automobile overhauled?

"That's the last time I'll get up at sunrise to listen to a king on the radio," complained Ima Dodo. "Not a thing he said was funny."

The Rockefeller Caution

John D. Rockefeller took a ride in an airplane at Ormond Beach but did not leave the ground. He evidently wants to live forever.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We remember as a child hearing often these lines,

"Convince a woman against her will She's of the same opinion still."

It bewildered us then, but we realize now it applies to a certain type of mind that may belong to either sex. It isn't the one-track mind; that in its way, is admirable, for it keeps at a thing until it is accomplished.

But there are minds that have one idea swamping all others. One could not persuade them to another view and no matter what else may be the theme of conversation, it is turned gradually to the one interest.

Argument is straight argument with them; there's no marshaling of points for debate. Sometimes one who can talk louder and faster, thinks he has won the argument, but no such result is possible.

Intellect is a thing that can not be used on them. The sooner one gives up, the more serene the atmosphere.

"Intellect" is a mooted question these days. It is confounded at times with education when one is inherent and the other acquired. We have known unintellectual people to be educated so far as a college education could take them, but who never pursued knowledge after school days.

A college education can't sleep on its rights. A man will say, "Well, you can't tell me; I had a college education," when he never reads current news and knows nothing of world movements since his graduation day.

And we have known intellectual people who were not educated. People who received a common or a high school education but who observed greedily and read carefully and thought deeply and cultivated the natural mind with which they were born.

S. S. Van Dine, writer of thrillers said, "Intellect is the most intimate thing in the world; I dare to show it only before intimate friends."

Van Dine was mocking, as men and women mock to hide disappointments. Mockery has taken the place of weeping. The person who sheds tears over his inability to strike fire with his ideals or his mind is as out of date as hoops and bustles.

But, thank heaven, there are still people who read and think and can talk on more than one subject. People with whom one may pursue the adventure of thought and wander far from 1930 slang and "lines" into real happiness, people who are open to discussion.

Somerville to File Protest on Gas Tax

Protests against gasoline taxes paid by the county for fuel used in county vehicles for county work will be voiced by Wayne Somerville, county attorney, in a special trip to Austin authorized by the commissioners court in regular session Monday.

Mr. Somerville explained that the payment of the tax constitutes "double taxation" for the citizens of the county, since it is the taxpayers' money which pays the sum exacted. The taxes paid involve several thousand dollars a year, the attorney asserted.

He will seek first a new attorney general's construction of the law. Failing in that, he will seek an amendment to the law, Mr. Somerville said. He expects to make the trip to Austin in the near future.

Werrenrath Captivates Wichita Music Lovers in Concert Here

He Is America's Favorite Baritone—But in Wichita Falls He Sings to Less Than 200 Persons

That consummat artistry and winning personality which has made Reinald Werrenrath unquestionably the favorite of American concert baritones of the present generation were present at the Memorial auditorium Monday night to satisfy old admirers and to captivate those who had not heard him before.

Delineation of the particular characteristics with which Werrenrath's voice weaves its spell can hardly be accomplished for it combines to near-perfection complete ease of production, smoothness of register, rich, vibrant quality, and exceptional adaptibility to changing moods. Nor can the appeal of his singing be attributed to the voice alone, for while Werrenrath is not an operatic singer, his stage presence, smiling and informal, with occasional small gestures takes quick possession of his audience. One slight change of position, and a restrained movement of the hands on one phrase provided a poignant dramatization of "Two Grenadiers" with which the second group closed.

Master Singer

Monday night's concert comprised an ambitious undertaking, from the standpoint of range in subject matter and style. From the smooth, legato of "Caro Mio Ben" to the thundering exultation of Schubert's "Aufenthalt," back to the flowing melody of Oscar Fox's "Hills of Home," and again to the intensely dramatic "Danny Deever" demanded vocal and interpretative ability of a master singer. Werrenrath's singing compassed the entire program with remarkable ease and feeling.

Mr. Werrenrath retains the amazing degree of control which has been one of the most unusual attributes of his voice during his entire career. Tones which rise to a sonorous, full-voiced climax diminish almost suddenly and with infinite grace to a fine piano, still bright and vibrant. This effective modulation of tone was particularly noticeable in "Over the Hills and Far Far Away," in his first group, and in the Fox number, "Hills of Home."

Of the heavier, more dramatic compositions, Schumann's "Two Grenadiers" probably was the most popular, if for no other reason than it is best known. In this classic, as in "Danny Deever," Mr. Werrenrath extended his "ad lib" interpretation to the extent of half-speaking occasional phrases—with an entirely pleasing effect. "Princess of the Morning Light," written by Harriet Ware for this singer, presented Mr. Werrenrath in the role of a dramatic reader, with piano accompaniment.

The program presented an aria seldom heard before, the song of Guilbert from Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Ivanhoe." Rich in dramatic and impassioned intensity, it was one of the best received numbers of the evening. Encores granted by Mr. Werrenrath included "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Duna," by Marjorie Pickthall, and "Mandalay," by Oley Speaks. The singer's surprising mastery of cockney English in the latter number was a pleasing innovation.

Accompanist Pleases

Aside from supporting Mr. Werrenrath with superb accompaniment, Herbert Carrick scored a distinct triumph in his own right with a group of piano solos. With a minimum of manual pyrotechnics, Mr. Carrick accomplished the production of stirring climaxes, enacted rapidly moving melodic passages with remarkably incisive enunciation, and imparted a musical delicacy of tone which drew insistent encore. He responded with a brilliant modern composition, "The Ritual de Feu," by De-Falla.

Presented by the Musicians club, with the expectation of the auditorium being required to accommodate the citizens of this community who would take advantage of the opportunity of hearing this country's foremost concert baritone, the two artists were compelled to close their eyes to hundreds of vacant seats in each section of the house.

Good Complexions

That Americans are taking an interest in the appearance of the complexion is proven by the fact that there are thousands of beauty parlors in successful operation, and that over three million dollars worth of cosmetics are sold each year. On every hand, in newspapers and magazines, and on billboards, we see advertisements of "the schoolgirl complexion" and "that well groomed look." Everyone admires a normal skin, neither too oily nor too dry. The man who said that a beautiful skin is its own reward expressed a truth, for, socially speaking, a lovely skin can pass many portals where an oily or pimply skin would not be admitted.

The Skin as an Organ

The skin is one of the most accommodating of our organs, and is always willing to reform and grow lovelier if we will make an effort to normalize it. An example of the willingness of the skin to adapt itself to circumstances is shown by the fact that the skin of a white person grafted into a negro will change its white color and become black, while if negro skin is transplanted to a white body it becomes white. The color or pigment of the skin which determines whether it shall be tan or white is in a thin layer just underneath the true skin. The rose color of the skin is produced by the circulation of blood through the tiny capillaries of the skin.

While the external care given to the skin is very important, the internal method of keeping the complexion clear is far more productive of success. The common causes of skin disorders are overeating, constipation, not enough exercise, and too much sugar, fats or rich foods in the diet. Some of the most common skin troubles are of a mild nature and their methods of treatment quite simple.

Blackheads or Comedones

In blackheads, the fat from the oil glands has become solid and clogs the openings. This little deposit of fat catches the dirt, producing the characteristic appearance of blackheads. When these oil glands become infected, a small pimple may form. The treatment is to first steam the face to open the pores and soften the fatty deposit. Then it should be washed with mild soap and warm water, after which the blackhead can be gently passed out. After this treatment cold water or ice should be applied to close the pores.

One who is chronically troubled with blackheads must avoid sugars and fats until the condition has been overcome. Great care must also be taken to thoroughly wash the skin morning and evening.

Oily Skin or Seborrhea

A greasy skin is due to the overactivity of the oil glands arising from too much assimilation of fats. This causes the nose to be always shiny, the pores enlarged, and the skin of the whole face may seem to be coated with oil. The scalp also shows an excess of oil. One troubled with an oily complexion should eat large quantities of vegetables and salads and it is a good plan to make one meal a day of an acid fruit alone. The treatment for the face is to steam it by holding the head over a kettle of hot water with a towel thrown over the head, or hot towels may be applied to the skin one after another. Wash very thoroughly with warm water and soap. An oily skin is not harmed by excessive washing. Oily or greasy cold creams should not be used where there is excessive oiliness of the skin. Always follow the warm treatment with splashing cold or ice water on the face.

CHAMPIONS AND THEIR CHANCES FOR 1930

No. 5—The Cubs

When the Cardinals, the Giants and the Braves decided they did not want Rogers Hornsby they combined with great effectiveness to make the Cubs champions of the National league, with several laps to spare.

Hornsby was just exactly what Joe McCarthy needed to round out a winning ball club. The Giants could have kept Hornsby and Grimes and run away with the pennant race, but perhaps they had no open space left in which to plant another pennant pole.

Hornsby isn't getting any younger or any better. But he is still a winning ball player. He has slowed up more than a stride in covering ground around second or in stepping down to first. But he is still a fine hitter, a cool, hustling workman, and he knows his trade. He is a good man to have on the field through a long season's stretch. The combination of McCarthy and Hornsby is a fine one, for both are qualified to keep a club hustling all along the route, where there are so many temptations to ease away and start loafing through summer heat and the daily grind.

The Cubs and 1930

The Cubs will again be favored to win another National league pennant.

They are fairly well fixed back of the bat. The still have a first-class pitching staff with Malone, Root, Bush, Blake, Carlson and others. They have a good infield and a hard-hitting outfield with Stephenson, Wilson and Cuyler. This is one of the best outfields in baseball, a winning combination that can go out and get runs and back up pitching with good defensive play. This goes in spite of a few sun bolts that blew into Hack Wilson's eyes in Philadelphia.

The Cubs last season had the flag won around Labor day—or at least practically won. What team is to beat them out this season?

Giants, Cardinals and Pirates were picked as their main opponents last year, but none of the three even finished close. In what respect have they added enough additional strength to close up a 10 or 12 game gap? They might if the Cubs lost two or three valuable players through injuries. But, granted an even break in this respect, the Cubs are still several games better than any National league rival through a full season. They are a better ball club than they looked to be in the last world series—a much better ball club. That trimming will help more than it will hurt. It will take away some of the overconfidence that a pennant winner often absorbs. They always have been a game club, and that world series beating won't in any way break their spirit. They want another shot at the Athletics, and it looks now as if they will get it, since both winners from 1929 should win again in 1930, as far as one can travel with the ever valuable dope.

Today's Golf Lesson

What does stance mean? In running it means a starting position that gives the runner a chance to get away with the greatest amount of speed and ease. In golf it means a starting position from which one is best able to let the body weight shift naturally as it has to shift—from left to right and back again from right to left.

A fixed stance that finds the feet gripping the ground is the surest road to trouble and fault making. It gives no opportunity to organize a correct swing. The simplest form of stance should have the majority of the weight on the left foot at the address, so that one naturally lets it move to the right foot through the back swing. The next move is back to the left foot and the left leg for the down swing. The right sort of weight shifting can never take place from a fixed, set stance. There must be a feeling of life and movement and lightness in the feet—not the feeling that said feet are planted like a pair of oaks in the ground. It is in the lighter stance that one can at least start breaking up the tension which runs through body and wrists.

Any details that will help to break up tension and permit greater smoothness in the swing is a big step in the right direction.

Probe of Brooklyn Track Meet Being Prepared

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (UP)—Officials of the Metropolitan Amateur Athletic union today were preparing a "painstaking, thorough and immediate investigation" of the recent "Brooklyn college" indoor track games, which was requested by the national executive committee of the A. A. U.

The national executive committee met Saturday with President Avery Brundage to investigate complaints regarding the failure of Jack Elder, Notre Dame football star, to run in the "Brooklyn college" Olympic sprint series, as advertised. A previous investigation of misleading publicity regarding Elder's appearance in the Brooklyn meet, by the Metropolitan A. A. U., resulted in a postponement.

Spudders Not Interested In Proposed Rookie Loop

Any hopes that the Spudders would enter into compacts for the formation of a class D rookie loop, either in East or West Texas, were blasted Monday by the announcement of William E. Huff, president of the Wichita Falls baseball club, that the Spudders were not interested.

Prexy Huff declared the club would not enter the plan for business reasons.

Baseball club owners in Texas met Saturday at Dallas to discuss the plan, which might materialize later in the season. Prexy Huff attended the meeting.

Team Averages 59 Points Each Game

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 27. (AP)—An average of nearly 59 points a game has been piled up by the St. Anthony's college basketball team this season.

In 15 games the Yellowjackets have rung up 879 points against the strongest opposition available in Southern Texas academy circles.

Julian, a sharp-shooting forward, has accounted for 390 points, an average of 26 per game

FINAL TOURNEY STARTS FRIDAY

Eliasville Looms as Cubs' Greatest Opposition

By MERLE GRUVER
Record News Correspondent

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 27.—The Olney Cubs, last year's district champions, are the leading contenders for the county title, to be decided at the Young county tournament to be held in Graham this Friday and Saturday, Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. The Cubs so far this season have won every game, defeating Jean, Harrold, Jermyn, Iowa Park Independents and Breckenridge High.

Eliasville, from the southern part of the county, is expected to give the Cubs their greatest opposition in the tournament this week, and in all probability these two teams will be matched for the final game Saturday night. Olney was forced to play their best game of the season last Friday when they won from the powerful Breckenridge aggregation, 25 to 18. Previous to this game Eliasville had emerged victors over the Breckenridge squad by a score of 24 to 14.

Three Vets With Cubs

The Cub team this year is built around three veteran players, members of the championship team which last year walked away with district honors in the tournament held in Wichita Falls. Captain Scott Wix, forward on last year's team, has been shifted to guard this years and is turning in a splendid record in that position. Wix, known as one of the outstanding broken-field runners in this district during the 1929 football season, and a marked man in the district and bi-district games, performs with equal speed on the basket ball floor. He not only is proving in his guard position but frequently scores many a long shot.

Wilson and Braxton Gilmore, also members of last year's team, and the boys who played the wing positions on the championship West Texas regional football team, were last year considered two of the best basket ball players in class B basket ball, and both are in their old form again this year. Wilson, playing forward, is the most accurate shot on the team and has the ability to drop the ball through the ring from most any position on the floor. He is credited with more than half of the field goals made so far this season. Braxton, playing guard, when detailed to cover a man allows but few goals during the game.

New Man Is Good

Wright, a new man on the team this year, has thus far turned in a splendid record at center. He is fast developing into a dangerous pivot man, playing both equally well on defense and offense. In the game with Iowa Park, Wright scored 18 points, dropping six free throws out of eight attempts. Goode and Greer have been taking turn about at the other forward position and although lacking the experience of their team mates both are playing consistent games. Duckworth, another utility man, will probably see action in the tournament this week either at center or forward.

A. S. Acker, coaching his second year at Olney has turned out two district football championship teams, one of them advancing to bi-district honors. He is now headed for his second district championship in basket ball. Acker's teams have always been noted for their speedy play. Once the ball is in the possession of an Olney player, there is no delay in play. There is action, and plenty of it, so long as the ball is in the possession of the Cubs. His five-man defense is a menace to opposing teams.

Six Teams in Race

With the record turned in by Eliasville and the Cubs thus far this season, those attending the Young county tournament this week-end will be assured of a real exhibition of basket ball. Unless some dark-horse looms up, the county honors will probably be decided upon between these two teams. Other teams to take part in the tournament are Graham, Loving, Jean and Newcastle.

ATHENS CHAMPS TO CLASH WITH ACES

ATHENS, Texas, Jan. 27. (AP)—Two of the fastest basket ball teams in the Southwest, the Athens high school Hornets, national champions in 1929, and Schepps Aces, crack independent team of Fort Worth, will meet here Wednesday night. The game is attracting wide attention.

The Schepps team is composed almost exclusively of members of the Texas Christian university squad and has been trimming all opposition, including the Frog varsity. Two stars of the team, "Doc" Sumner and Buster Brannon, played with the champion Athens quintet last year.

As a result of the Hornets' decisive victories over Denton high here Friday and Saturday, local sportsmen are envisioning another national title. The Broncos were runners-up for the state crown last year and generally are regarded as the greatest obstacle in the Hornets' path. Estelline, Tyler and Austin also are reported unusually strong among the schoolboy teams, but Coach Jimmy Kitts believes his "country boys" will take them all when the time comes.

New Polo Captain Gets Job of Guarding Cup

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (UP)—Selection of Thomas Hitchock Jr., as captain of the United States' 1930 international polo team and chairman of the defense committee, places almost full responsibility for the defense of the international cup on the shoulders of the 30-year-old star.

Hitchcock, generally recognized as the world's best polo player, was empowered to appoint a committee, subject to the approval of the U. S. Polo association executive committee, to assist him in all matters pertaining to defense of the international cup, held here since 1921.

Pinckert 'Iron Man' Of Trojan Backfield

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27. (AP)—Russell Saunders and Marshall Duffield were Southern California's big backfield shots in 1929, but Ernie Pinckert, sophomore halfback, played the greatest length of time during the 12-game schedule.

The strapping youth from San Bernardino, Calif., was in the lineup for a total of 481 out of a possible 720 minutes actual playing time. Saunders played 392 minutes,

Baseball, Football Games Planned For Atlantic City's Mammoth Hall

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 27.—The managers of the largest arena available for indoor sports are looking for a sport program to fit.

The Atlantic City auditorium, which makes ordinary arenas look like miniatures, has been introduced to big time sports this winter with National league hockey games played there.

The national A. A. U. indoor track and field championships and the New Jersey State basket ball championships are to be held in the building in March but plans for the biggest event of them all, a heavyweight fight, involving Max Schemling, fell through.

The amazing size of the auditorium is its outstanding feature. The whole building measures 671 feet in length and 351 feet in width, covering seven acres of ground. The floor of the main auditorium has an area of 2½ acres and can hold seats for 41,000 people. The ice rink, 200 by 90 feet, seems lost in the middle of the huge floor. Best of all for sports purposes, this space is covered by an arched roof, rising 135 feet above the floor without a single pillar to mar the view.

The arena boasts all the latest things in sports equipment, including flood lights for the boxing ring which have special filters to prevent excessive heat and amplifiers which will carry a whisper to the farthest corner. An extra basket ball court can be laid out on the stage and several more in the ball room, which alone will hold 5,000 people. It is the boast of Atlantic City that the whole of Madison Square garden could be set down on the floor and still leave room to run a track meet around the edges.

A horse show and a rodeo are on the 1930 program along with numerous conventions and expositions and such non-sporting attractions as a flower pageant and an industrial fair.

The list of possibilities also includes indoor soccer and intercollegiate football—if a couple of colleges can be found to try the experiment—and even baseball games. For soccer and football games it is planned to cover the floor with a six-inch layer of earth so the players can fall in comparative comfort.

As for baseball, the longest home run Babe Ruth ever knocked over an outfield fence would not travel from one end to the other of the main auditorium.

Communist Clashes Mark 'Independence Day'

BOMBAY, Jan. 27. (UP)—Clashes between Nationalists and Communists dissatisfied with Mahatma Gandhi's freedom program featured India's celebration of her first "independence day" here.

A mass meeting attended by a seething crowd in the evening at the Chowpatti Seaface was broken up by 300 millworkers who advanced to the platform, capturing the stage for a few minutes and denouncing Gandhi for his "weakness" before they were ejected.

GOLFERS DOT TEXAS GREEN

Early Arrivals Await Start Of San Antonio Bout

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 27. (AP)—With two days more for practice rounds for the ninth annual Texas open golf tournament, the Brackenridge park municipal course, battle ground for the $7,500 in prizes, was dotted with players Monday trying out their best strokes, and among whom a young amateur of San Antonio, Jimmie Vincent, turned in the best score, 69.

Among those in the links was Bobby Cruickshank, the Wee Scott from Purchase, N. Y., who won the Texas pen years ago. Bobby shot a 71 today.

Two Noted Cage Mentors Never Played in College

FORT WORTH, Jan. 27. (AP)—Two of the most successful basket ball coaches in the Southwest never played on a college team.

Francis A. Schmidt, present mentor of the Texas Christian university court squad, who earned the title of "miracle coach" while guiding the Arkansas university Razorbacks to four consecutive Southwest conference titles, played intramural basket ball while at the University of Nebraska, but was never on the varsity squad.

S. D. Burton, coach of the West Texas Teachers at Canyon, never played a game of basket ball in his life, yet his teams over a period of eight years have won 143 games while losing only 27. His teams never fail to put up a strong fight for the T. I. A. A. title.

Hard Season Ahead For Dixie Ring Stars

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Jan. 27. (AP)—The University of North Carolina boxers, Southern conference champions two years running and three of the last four, must travel a rocky path to keep the crown.

More than a dozen schools will enter strong teams in the conference tournament at the University of Virginia, Feb. 28.

Coach Crayton Rowe has four lettermen back at North Carolina, including Capt. Archie Allen, welterweight champ, but must uncover a bantamweight, middleweight and heavyweight.

BANKERS BEAT FOX BOWLERS

City National Team Wins Three Straight

The City National bank bowlers took the Fox Chevrolet team for a different kind of ride Monday night when they defeated them three games straight up at Spudder alley. Both teams are in the Commercial league. Other games in the same league included those between the Texas Electric Service company and Nafziger Baking company teams, the former winning two out of three from the bakers; and three games between the Sherwin-Williams and the P. B. M. company teams, two of which were won by the painters.

Sullivan's grocers, in the B. & A. league, took two out of three games from the Grove's Shoe repairers.

Indoor Tennis Tourney Will Start Saturday

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (UP)—Play in the 31st annual national indoor tennis championship tournament will start Saturday at Seventh Regiment armory. The tournament date has been advanced six weeks to accommodate players who have passed up the tourney in previous seasons to compete in southern outdoor competition.

Because of a dearth of foreign entrants the field of 64 players will lack the color and attractiveness of previous years. Jean Borotra of France, 1929 winner, will default his title. The French ice is competing in Europe this winter and on Saturday won the French covered court championship, defeating Christian Boussus, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1, in the finals.

Singer and Mandell To Clash Friday Night

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (UP)—Al Singer, New York lightweight, will make a bid for recognition as foremost contender for Champion Sammy Mandell's title, in a 10-round bout with Stanislaus Loyaza, at Madison Square garden Friday night.

Major Leagues Plan Exodus To Training Camps, Starting Feb. 12

By DIXON STEWART
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—While the signing of players for the 1930 season is furnishing the current news of baseball, officials of the 16 major league clubs are engaged in making final plans for the annual migration to spring training camps.

All clubs have mailed 1930 contracts to their players and except for the usual small squad of "holdouts" it is expected the athletes will be signed well before the dates set for departure to the southland.

Final Sessions Planned

The final winter sessions of the two leagues will be held early next month, with National league officials gathering at the Hotel Commodore, Feb. 4, for the annual schedule meeting and the American league holding a session for umpires at Chicago, Feb. 11.

In addition to appointing a new umpire to succeed the veteran Bob Hart, who has resigned, the National league may be called upon to untangle the Brooklyn situation. Efforts to effect an agreement between factions fighting for control of the Brooklyn club have failed and President Heydler may bring the matter before the league.

The final flurry of the off-season may be provided by a meeting of the rules committee, composed of club owners of the two leagues and a committee of baseball writers. Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, has asked the committee to vote on a proposal to allow umpires to discipline players by dropping them for an inning or two without putting them out for a full game.

The exodus to the southland will start Feb. 12, with the New York Giants the first team to get under way. Manager McGraw will take a large squad of highly touted rookies of San Antonio, Texas, for try-outs.

Chisox in San Antonio

Ten days after the Giants head south the New York Yankees will entrain for St. Petersburg and the Brooklyn Robins for Clearwater. Eight other clubs will join the local teams in Florida, the Boston Braves making their headquarters at St. Petersburg; the Phillies at Winterhaven; the Cincinnati Reds at Orlando; the St. Louis Cards at Bradenton; the Boston Red Sox at Pensacola; the Philadelphia Athletics at Fort Myers; the St. Louis Browns at West Palm Beach, and the Detroit Tigers at Tampa.

The five remaining clubs will be widely scattered, the Chicago White Sox training at San Antonio; the Washington Senators at Biloxi, Miss.; the Cleveland Indians at New Orleans; the Chicago Cubs on Catalina Island, Calif., and the Pittsburgh Pirates at Paso Robles, Calif.

To Speak Here

Ozark Ripley, famous woodsman and writer of outdoor life, who will speak here before members of the Izaak Walton league next Monday night, Feb. 3.

OZARK RIPLEY HERE MONDAY

Date for Outdoorsman's Talk Changed

Members of Izaak Walton league chapters in this section will hold their hunting-season's-end banquet and hear Ozark Ripley, famous outdoorsman, on Monday, Feb. 3, instead of Feb. 4, as formerly announced, according to Ben G. Oneal, president of the Wichita Falls chapter.

Crowding of his Texas itinerary by numerous requests from Walton league chapters for lectures made necessary the change in date here, it was announced. His appearance in Wichita Falls will be in conjunction with the banquet usually held at this season, and will be at the Woman's Forum on next Monday night. Delegations from Olney, Graham, Seymour, and Vernon chapters will be present, according to information received by Mr. Oneal. Members of the Wichita Falls chapter should make reservations with the secretary, Will Lee, as early as possible, it was said, since the number of plates will be limited.

Famed not only for his writings as "Kennel and Field editor" of "Outdoor America," but for his frequent service as judge in field trials and other sporting events, Ozark Ripley is devoting his present tour to a campaign for preservation of all existing wild life and forest reserves.

BAG LIMIT ON DUCKS SLASHED

Reduction of the daily and weekly bag limit on wild ducks by 40 per cent of the present allowance will become effective after the close of the current hunting season, according to information received from the United States Department of Agriculture by officials of the Izaak Walton league here.

Heretofore the individual hunter has been allowed to bring in 25 birds from one day's hunting, with a total of 50 allowed for the week. Hereafter he will be limited to 15 ducks for one day, with a maximum of 30 permitted for the week's killing.

The decision announced by the secretary of agriculture is in accordance with a resolution passed unanimously by the national convention of the Izaak Walton league of America at Chicago last spring, it was said. Following its introduction by Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham, a similar resolution was adopted by the Texas senate last spring, and forwarded to the department of agriculture.

GRAHAM TO BUILD NEW REARING PONDS

E. E. Earp, vice president of the Izaak Walton league chapter at Graham, was in this city Monday to confer with Ben G. Oneal, president of the local chapter, with reference to the development of additional rearing ponds at the large lake recently completed near that city. The Graham chapter now has a membership of more than 200 nimrods, he said, and placed more than 25,000 young fish in the lake during the past year.

Iowa Park Independents Defeat Wichita Travelers

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 27.—The Iowa Park Independents tonight defeated the F. H. V. Travelers, Wichita Falls basket ball aggregation, 27 to 25 in a hard fought and exciting battle. Barbour, with 11 points, led the scoring for the Independents. Beck, with 8, was high point man for the Travelers. At the half the score was 8 to 7 for the Independents, but at the end of the third quarter the Travelers led, 24 to 12, and had it not been for a spirited rally the Independents would have limped from the court instead of marching off, as they did, triumphantly.

BOARD GRANTS SOONER CURB

Drastic Curtailment Move Given Approval

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 27. (AP)—The Oklahoma Corporation commission, after a brief hearing today granted the application of major oil companies for a further curtailment of oil production in flush pools of the state.

The Oklahoma City field was ordered to hold production to 25 per cent of its potential output until March 31, with a 33 1-3 per cent margin allowed for fluctuation on demand.

Curtailment in the East Earlsboro field was set at 66 2-3 per cent until Feb. 28, with a 25 per cent margin for fluctuation. After Feb. 28, the field will be permitted to produce 50 per cent of its potential production.

A 30 per cent curtailment until March 31 was ordered for the Logan county, Greater Seminole, Allen Dome, Saskawa and Pearson-St. Louis-Asher fields.

The Konawa field was ordered to curtail 75 per cent until April 1.

Oil company representatives asserted the market demand until March 31 was estimated at 600,000 barrels daily that the potential production now was 900,000 barrels and that the estimated potential production for February and March was 1,000,000 barrels.

White Eagle Votes Merger

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 27. (AP)—Stockholders of the White Eagle Oil and Refining company at a meeting here today confirmed action of the board of directors in merging the concern with the Standard Oil company of New York.

L. L. Marcell, Kansas City, chairman of the board of directors who will retain his position in the subsidiary company to be formed at New York, Jan. 31, said the approval was "by a large majority of stockholders."

Operating without personnel change, the White Eagle Oil corporation will come into existence Feb. 1 as a subsidiary to the Standard Oil company of New York, he asserted.

JACK COUNTY LOCATION

The Magnolia Petroleum company has staked out location for its No. 1 D. B. Bryson, to be drilled in the Jacob Ash survey, No. 8, in Jack county. The well is located east of Bryson and is an offset on the east at the Gwynn and others No. 1 Rankin well in the same survey.

THAWING OUT

Despite a few days of mild weather many wells throughout the district are still closed down, and considerable work must be done on the various leases before the district's oil industry returns to its normal activity. Frozen pipes and bursted steam lines are causing the delayed development.

BURNS-HARMEL

L. T. Burns No. 2 H. F. Harmel, located in block 25, Meade Pasture subdivision in the Megargel area of Archer county, is again drilling after a shut down at a depth of 1100 feet.

Ortiz Rubio Declines Gift of Automobile

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 27. (AP)—President-elect Ortiz Rubio turned down an opportunity to acquire a luxurious limousine in order to initiate his fund for building a poorhouse.

Advised that a group of friends wished to present him with a $7,500 automobile, he requested them instead to send a check for that amount to his secretary so the fund could be started.

He recently asked through the newspapers that all individuals or organizations planning dinners or banquets in his honor cancel these plans and contribute the amount they would cost to a fund for the protection of the city's impoverished.

SPEAKERSURGE OPEN FORUM

Kiwanis Hears Hamilton And Kimbrough

Urgent recommendation of the formation of an Open Forum in this city featured addresses of W. B. Hamilton, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, president of the Rotary club, before the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Kemp hotel Monday noon.

Mr. Hamilton urged the establishment of such an institution here as a discharge of obligation to the surrounding community.

"It is our duty to bring the benefits of such a plan not only to Wichita Falls, but to citizens of the territory extending south to Breckenridge, west to Childress, east to Montague county and north to Chickasha, Okla.," he said.

The educational factors in the program of lectures to be provided by such a forum are its most attractive features, Dr. Kimbrough said, following his outline of the history of the Dallas Open Forum and its usual program.

The program was arranged by Jimmie Williams. Fred Lane and Tom Meadows were welcomed into membership by Walter H. Caldwell.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 27. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit was featured by a liberal run of hogs. The supply totaled 211,200. Trade was moderately active at prices unevenly steady to 25c lower. The day's extreme top of $10.35 was paid at Chicago.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (AP)—Cotton was unsettled and lower today under liquidation and rather more general selling promoted by the relatively easy showing of Liverpool, the weakness in grain and a less faovrable view of the market outlook for agricultural products. May contracts sold off from 17.49 to 17.30 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 16 to 19 points.

A bearish interpretation of the statement on the general farm outlook for 1930 by the bureau of agricultural economics was said to be a factor on the decline. This was probably promoted by the weakness in the wheat market, and there may have been some western as well as Wall street selling on the decline. There were also rumors that Bombay was selling some cotton here either direct or through Liverpool, probably as a hedge against spot holdings.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 27. (AP)—The cotton market again sought lower levels today. The March position made a new low for the season and later months were at or near the low points. Continued long liquidation and other free offerings generally caused prices to ease off owing to unfavorable Liverpool cables, the possibility of a strike among the operatives of the Lancashire mills and fears of an increase in acreage.

Prices after opening steady and practically unchanged, gradually eased off despite occasional small rallies until losses of 8 to 14 points were shown. Further weakness developed in the late trading and stop losses orders were reached in March, which made a new low at 16.85, or 20 points down. There was a slight rally right at the end. March, after opening unchanged at 17.05, declined to 16.85, down 20 points and closed at 16.87, or 18 points net lower for the day. The general market closed steady at net losses of 14 to 18 points.

Liverpool was 2 to 4 points worse than due at the opening and first trades here showed no change to 1 point gain. The market promptly eased off, however, under pressure of liquidation and selling on fears of increased acreage, and at the end of the first hour March was trading at 16.97, May at 17.23 and July at 17.44, or 8 to 9 points below the close of Saturday.

After rallying a few points on covering the market again turned easier and by early afternoon March had traded down to 16.94, a new low for the season, May to 17.19 and July to 17.40, or 8 to 14 points below the early high. The market eased off again in the late trading on renewed liquidation, particularly of the March position and made new lows 14 to 20 points down from the highs. March closed at 16.87, May at 17.15 and July at 17.37, or 15 to 18 points net lower.

Market Enters New High Ground As General List Looks Better

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (US)—Further improvement was registered in the general list of stocks today as the market entered new high ground on the recovery. During the early hours the advance assumed a pace even more rapid than had been enjoyed last week, but apparently this improvement reacted under pressure, some of them to close with net losses for the day. Steel common had crossed 180 when selling appeared and it closed off 1½ points. Aggressive group activity continued in numerous issues, however, and a long list of stocks were able to advance to the highest levels since last year, a few holding practically their entire gain. The Amusement group was particularly favored by buying and every member of this group enjoyed brisk advances. Most of the selling which developed in the main of stocks took place just before the close.

Steel common of course continued to attract greatest attention both from bull and bear. Its ability recently to advance has been attributed in large part to the aggressive activity of a speculative group taking advantage of the known good income results for 1929. The leadership of big Steel issues were able to maintain their gains. American Can achieved a new high before reacting with Steel, while General Motors remained in the same narrow range as in the past few days. Motors and Radio apparently are disputing in which direction they will break out of the present area. Mail-order issues successfully resisted pressure induced by Montgomery-Ward's report which about proved every statement made concerning the company. While Ward about held its price after fluctuating in a four-point range, Sears-Roebuck spurted sharply in reflection of the belief that its report will make a far more favorable showing than did that of its chief competitor.

Paramount, Warner Bros., Radio-Keith, and Loew's all reached new highs on the present recovery on continuance of aggressive buying. Paramount's sponsors continued to emphasize the relatively low ratio of its price earnings. Warner's friends claimed powerful buying was still noticeable for the account of Wilmington, and Radio-Keith's sponsors declared this year will net at least $3 per share earnings for the company. Loew pays no attention to the Fox developments and the latter, too, joined in the improvement as shorts became increasingly nervous as the receivership hearing was postponed until after the market's close.

Tobacco stocks were in steady demand as talk was heard of American Tobacco's directorate having revived the proposed split-up plan. Liggett & Myers was stated to be in line for dividend increase instead of the extra payment which had been forecast. An aggressive chain of restaurants. The stock closed at the high of the day as estimates were made that earnings will show a further increase with the substantial expansion program of the company.

Further outbreak of weakness in U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Air reduction disputed the confidence expressed in the ability of the former company to meet the competition in the Industrial Alcohol field to be presented by Union Carbide's new process. The latter yielded with the general list. Some of the rubber and tire shares were in somewhat better demand, particularly Goodyear which rose almost four points on analysis of its earnings and balance sheet position. Agricultural implement stocks were steadily absorbed on recognition that this business is little likely to be affected by the general trade recession because the farmers' purchasing power remains unimpaired. J. I. Case continued the favorite.

Commodity prices were under pressure and cotton yielded 17 points, while wheat was over a full cent and corn ⅝. Continued weakness in sterling, which sold off fractionally to the lowest level since last October, depressed the entire foreign exchange market, although the general list was very quiet.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Immediate requirements for domestic wools are being covered but commitments on further quantities are being withheld. Current demand is very light on domestic wools of 56 or below and the few bids being made are low as compared with recently quoted prices. Bearish pressure against prices of 58 60's or finer domestic wools is not so strong as the case of the lower grades. Receipts of domestic wools during week ending Jan. 23 amounted to 281,700 pounds as compared with 299,900 pounds the previous week.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 27. (AP)—Wheat was off a cent today. Corn lost a cent but other grains held about unchanged from Saturday. Demand for wheat and corn was fair but the rest were slow.

Exporters bid $1.26½@1.27 for No. 1 ordinary export wheat delivered Texas gulf ports.

Other bids and offers, basis carloads delivered Texas common points freight paid:

Wheat—No. 1 ordinary hard milling $1.28@1.29; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein $1.29@1.30; 14 per cent $1.33@1.34.

Corn—No. 2 mixed 97@98c; No. 2 white or yellow 99½c@$1.00½.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 27. (AP)—Crumbling away of wheat values at Winnipeg and Liverpool did much to force the wheat market here downward today to lowest levels reached in months. Export business in North American wheat was lacking much attention was also given to authoritative forecasts that wheat price advances over 1929 can only result from severe damage to winter wheat or from reduction of spring wheat acreage.

Corn, oats and rye outdid wheat in some respects, and touched new low price records for the season. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 1⅛ to 1⅜c a bushel under Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅛c to ⅜c down and oats ⅛c to ⅛c off, with provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 2c.

Increasing arrivals of corn acted at times as a decided weight on the market for feed grains. Today's corn receipts however, although larger than a week ago continued to be smaller than a year back.

Provisions averaged lower, responsive to downturns both in hog values and in grain.

DRYGOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. (AP)—Cotton goods opened quiet today in the unfinished lines. Wash goods are active. Burlaps showed little change in cables or local conditions. Raw silk cables say 20,000 boxes have been taken from the primary market by the Japanese syndicate that has been supporting prices. Quotations here were 50 a pound higher. In the garment section of drygoods threats of strike are holding back commitments with mills.

BRADY NAMED AS STABBER

Witnesses Describe Death Of Stenographer

the second time he heard a scream, dashed outside and found the former judge bending over Miss Highsmith.

Brady offered no resistance, McNaughton said, but insisted on using the telephone while it was needed for calling an ambulance.

Suspended Sentence Asked

During the testimony this afternoon the defense made a motion for a suspended sentence in the event of conviction.

When Graham, considered the ace of star state witnesses, came to the stand, Brady looked at him steadily. Occasionally during the accusations he half closed his eyes.

Graham told the jury that he went to the house that night on business and that he had known Miss Highsmith only about a week then. When he returned with Miss Highsmith and McNaughton to get the phonograph he declared, Brady was there and looked angry.

Brady, he added, said something to Miss Highsmith "about a Saturday night party."

"I saw Judge Brady strike her and I ran into the house to get McNaughton, and met McNaughton on the steps," when he turned around he said, "Brady was holding a knife and was still hitting at her." He said he believed Brady was intoxicated.

Tells of Threat

McFarlan said he drove up to the house that night intending to get a room there, and that he saw Brady draw a long knife from his pocket, and heard him say to Miss Highsmith: "'Where in the hell did you go? Damn you, I told you I was going to kill you and I'm going to do it.'"

"Some one was calling the police," McFarlan said, "and I decided to leave."

On cross examination, he said Brady was "very drunk."

The defense asked McFarlan if he had been "intimidated" by the prosecution. He replied that a deputy sheriff had come to his hotel and had taken him to the court house to see the state's attorneys.

"In that conversation did the county attorney ask you if Dayton Moses had offered you money to testify in this case," E. A. Berry of Houston, chief of Brady lawyers asked.

"Yes, sir."

Denies Offer Made

"Did any living human offer you money or anything of the kind?"

"No, Sir."

Moses and the county attorney, Roy Archer, fought in the court room this morning. Moses said he was incensed because he had heard that Archer had made an allegation reflecting on his integrity. Archer said that he struck Moses after the latter had cursed him.

Mrs. Crider still was on the stand at the adjournment until tomorrow. She is the operator of the rooming house.

"When the car came up," she said in testifying about the actual killing, "I saw Brady go out and meet Miss Highsmith. I heard her say, 'Please don't do that,' and I saw him hit her. I went to the telephone and called the police."

Mitchell Urges Early Transfer Prohibition Unit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Attorney General Mitchell today urged the house expenditures committee to expedite action on legislation to transfer the prohibition enforcement unit from the treasury to the justice department.

Mitchell said he was in accord with the recommendation of Secretary Mellon before the committee favoring the transfer and endorsed the Williamson bill to effect this change.

Attorneys in the treasury department connected with the prohibition unit would be transferred to the justice department along with the agents in order to carry on prosecutions, Mitchell said.

He opposed putting prohibition unit attorneys under the civil service and said they would be absorbed in the office of the justice department on an equal basis with those already in service.

Many things under the bill, the attorney general said, would have to be worked out as administrative problems.

Representative Schaefer, Republican, Wisconsin, asked "Why not put all United States attorneys under the civil service?"

Mitchell replied that the question was not pertinent to the matter under discussion, but added his department felt attorneys used for the special work should not be placed under civil service.

Jug-o'-Rum Song of Bullfrog 'Percy' Still Echoes in Famous Mades Hotel

Padlock Proceedings Against Noted Old Hostelry Revives Memories of Bygone Days of Splendor

By FRASER EDWARDS
(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—"Jug-o'-rum, jug-o'-rum, jug-o'-rum," boomed the bass voice of "Percy," the bullfrog, from the pond under the grape arbor in the rear of Mades hotel in days agone.

"Percy" has been dead these many years and his "jug-o'-rum" is but funereal echo of the bygone glory and glamour of Mades hotel, which is linked in Washington with the cherished names of official history.

Faces Padlock

This famed hostelry, the only frame building left on historic Pennsylvania avenue, which stands in the shadow of the great gray dome of the capitol and opposite the botanic gardens, is facing a federal padlock for violation of the prohibition law.

But it was a rendezvous of notables of yesteryear—statesmen, diplomats, distinguished soldiers and the socially prominent of the capital. On sultry summer evenings they sat beneath the grape arbor and listened to the chant of "Percy."

Mades hotel was erected in 1848 by Charles B. Mades Sr., and a tablet on the place tells the sight-seer that Sutter died there, he who discovered gold in California and started the mad rush that peopled the West.

Bread Was Famous

"Mades spoon bread" became known the world over, but it held high place of terrapin, canvas back duck, Maryland fried chicken, Potomac bass, green turtle soup and frosted mint juleps. Fresh fish and frogs—all but "Percy," the daddy of them all—were taken from the pool under the grape arbor and served to the waiting diner.

Senators are reminded of the organ-like tones of "Percy" by the beaming brown countenance of Harry Colder, for many years a waiter at Mades', and for many more the head waiter in the senator's private dining room of the capitol.

Famous Guests

Such statesmen as Speaker Tom Reed, Speaker Joe Cannon, Senator Dan Voorhees of Indiana, the "tall sycamore of the Wabash," Mark Hanna, Boise Penrose, Joe Blackburn of Kentucky, and a host of others ate favorite dishes.

In the days of the Wilson administration, the great eating triumvirate at Mades' was Senator Ollie James of Kentucky, Senator Billy Hughes of New Jersey, and Tom Pence of North Carolina, publicity director of the Democratic national committee.

All three were prodigious eaters, but none could compare with Ollie James, who stood six feet four in his sox and of whom a paragrapher once remarked:

"So they call him Ollie; might as well call Goliath Ollie."

Ollie would order a double portion of ham and cabbage—his favorite dish—a double porterhouse steak or six quail, for when he ate he wanted food.

Seven Jurors In Shook Case

L. Dedman, in charge of a Wichita Falls rooming house; Tom Foster, Wichita Falls oil operator; and E. M. Friend, employe of the Wichita Mill and Elevtor company.

Defense attorneys indicated by their questioning that Shook will enter a plea of self-defense. With one exception the brief inquiries put by Sam Spence, district attorney, did not include mention of the death penalty and it was understood that the state would not contend for the extreme punishment. Fred Weeks, special prosecutor, George W. Anderson and Mike Anglin, assistants to the district attorney, worked with Mr. Spence in selecting the jurors.

Many Disqualified

Many of the veniremen called to the stand Monday were from Electra and testified to an acquaintance with Shook and with Oscar Daugherty before his death. Most of them were disqualified because of their opinions. The defense counsel asked the right to question a few of the venirement about whether a fair jury could be obtained in Wichita county. The testimony was written into the defense exception to the court's denial of the venue change. The exception also included a number of newspaper clippings alleged to have had a prejudicial influence on the minds of readers.

Mrs. Shook and the two small daughters of the defendant sat at his side throughout the day Monday. Shook himself, apparently in better health than at the time of his return here last September, took an active part in the conferences of his attorneys.

The former police chief is charged with the fatal stabbing of Daugherty in the home of Ace Speery in Electra. Speery, an eye-witness, is one of the principal state witnesses and is expected to take the stand as soon as the selection of the jury is complete.

Testimony Completed In $40,000 Suit Here

Testimony in a $40,000 slander suit brought by A. M. Flourney against J. L. Story, local photographer, was completed before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Monday afternoon. Arguments are expected to be closed before noon Tuesday.

Mr. Flourney, one time employe of the defendant, alleges the circulation of reports injurious to his reputation. He asks $25,000 actual damages and $15,000 exemplary damages.

OHIO AVENUE SUIT PROMISED

Council Refuses Plea For Tax Reduction

The city of Wichita Falls faces a lawsuit as a result of the decision of the city council Monday night in refusing a reduction of property valuations on Ohio avenue. The property owners on the avenue between Sixth and Ninth streets, represented by T. R. Boone, attorney, following several weeks of controversy over the question, issued an "ultimatum" two weeks ago threatening to file suit if the council refused to take steps to lower the taxes.

Monday night Mr. Boone made good that threat when his "final appeal" to the aldermen met with flat refusal. The entire council, with the exception of Alderman J. H. Patton, stood firmly against the reduction. A motion by Alderman Patton for a 10 per cent reduction in property plus improvement values, which he stated he believed the property owners "entitled to," was lost for lack of a second.

The council maintained its stand and Mr. Boone left the room with the words:

"Very well, gentlemen, I have made my last appeal."

When asked outside the council room if he would file suit at once, Mr. Boone replied, "We certainly shall, as soon as we can prepare for it."

Property owners in the vicinity of Twenty-first and Broad streets, protesting improper drainage of streets at their homes, were told by City Manager George D. Fairtrace that 30-inch pipes had been ordered for storm sewers there and would be installed within two weeks. A letter from L. L. Allbritton of the Wichita Traction company, in reply to the council's letter requesting "comfortable warmth on street cars," was read. In it the council was asked to "bear with" the traction company until improvements could be made.

Germany Ignores Kaiser's Birthday

BERLIN, Jan. 27. (INS)—The distance which Germany has traveled along the road of Republicanism was forcefully demonstrated today by the almost total absence of notice taken of the former Kaiser Wilhelm's 71st birthday.

The former war lord spent the day quietly with members of his family at the Doorn lodge where he has lived in exile since he fled Germany. There was no formal celebration such as marked his 70th birthday last year when numerous members of the Hohenzollern family trekked to Doorn to pay their respects to the once most dominant figure in Europe.

Today the event raised not so much as a ripple in Berlin's normal life. Even the so-called Monarchist Press remained silent, except for the Deutsche Zeitung, which represents the irreconcilable monarchist elements.

Wood Alcohol Victims Held for Treatment

CHICAGO, Jan. 27. (INS)—Five men who had purchased wood alcohol and who drank the poison were arraigned before Judge John Kowalski at Calumet City today and were sentenced to serve 30 days each at Oak Forest infirmary to recover from the effects of the beverage.

The men were found on the street intoxicated and gravely ill. At first they were unable to see but after being lodged in hospital cots, they recovered their vision.

They gave the names of Vern Snyder, William Price, Harry Casper, Joseph Morgan and Joseph Kieras.

POLICE TRAP SNARES GANG

State's Attorney and Six Women Arrested

CHICAGO, Jan. 27. (INS)—A clever police trap followed by a series of raids early today resulted in the arrests of 21 persons including Assistant State's Attorney Harry J. Busch and six women.

The raids, authorities believe, will solve the mysteries of numerous recent robberies in fashionable homes where bandits gained entry by posing as friends or police officers.

The trap, which has been in the making for several weeks, was sprung last night when police learned the gang was becoming wary and was preparing to flee to Detroit where several big "jobs" had been planned.

Five Killed In Plane's Plunge

City; William Flynn, no address; James Eggerty, Chicago.

An eye-witness account of the tragedy was given by P. H. Brown of Kansas City, who was awaiting the arrival of McKinnon.

"Standing just within the waiting room of the air lines, I saw the plane appear in the sky south of the field. I turned to the attendant and asked him if that was the Central Air Lines plane. He said he didn't know yet whether it was or not.

"A moment later," Brown said, "while the plane was almost a mile away and only about 200 feet in the air, the attendant said it was the Central Air Lines plane and he ran out to prepare for the landing.

"I remained just inside the waiting room, looking out the window toward the approaching plane. It appeared that the pilot was going to come on in on the same level and make a nice landing.

"Suddenly, before any one could tell what was happening, the plane swung downward in a sharp nose-dive and without any alteration of its course plunged into the ground about 3,000 feet from the field.

"The plane burst into flames at once and by the time we arrived at the scene, was almost destroyed.

"I can offer no explanation for the wreck. I am sure that the wing crumpled. I was watching closely."

COUNTY DENIES FINE PROTEST

Commissioners Refuse To Censure "Porch Court"

The county commissioners court Monday afternoon declined to take any action on complaints brought by Walter H. Caldwell, local attorney, against three deputy constables and R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, in connection with an alleged "porch court" held at the home of the magistrate at 12:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

At that time two women and a man paid $43.50 into the court, the attorney said, alleging that the sum constituted a "cash bond" and declaring that Judge Gwinn had refused to return the money upon a written order from the prisoner who paid it in. On the other hand Judge Gwinn told the commissioners that the money was for fines assessed when one of the number told him that she wanted to plead guilty to vagrancy for all three.

Mr. Caldwell asked for a resolution "frowning" on such procedure, purely as a matter of policy rather than of punishment, he told the court. Acting upon the advice of Wayne Somerville, county attorney, the court held itself without jurisdiction in the matter and declined to take any action.

"The court is concerned in the correction of any abuses that might grow up," John P. Marrs, county judge, explained. "But we haven't time to go into this as deeply as it should be investigated, especially since our findings would carry the weight of no authority when they were completed."

SUBURBAN DAY and DOLLAR DAY

JANUARY 30th THURSDAY!

The Bargain Day of a Bargain Month

JANUARY is a month of bargains. Merchants are eager to make space for spring merchandise and prices are cut to the quick. It is the month of sales in coats, dresses, hats, shoes. For men it is the best season to buy suits, overcoats, neckties, shirts and other articles of apparel.

And of all the days of the month, January 30 will afford the greatest opportunities. It is Suburban Dollar Day. It is the day Wichita Falls merchants have chosen to put forward goods and prices of especial attractiveness for the benefit of shoppers from out of town.

Read the Suburban Day advertisements. They will appear in The Record News and Times.

Does your wardrobe call for replenishing? Do you need china or silver? Are your curtains and draperies a little the worse for winter wear? Next Thursday is the time to make replacements.

Check your requirements against the items advertised. If you will make a pencil list of the articles that interest you and where they can be obtained, it will save you much time and aimless "looking around."

To get the most out of your trip it's a good plan to shop first in The Times and Record News.
