Second Death Confession Made

FEARS CHARGED IN STATEMENT FROM KILGORE

Examining Trial Will Be Held at Archer City Today

KILGORE IS STOLID

Wallace Made Confession Saturday Implicating Fears

The second confesion to be obtained in connection with the fatal shooting of Frank Zimmerman by unknown assailants on the night of last July 13, at Freeman-Hampton was secured from W. A. Kilgore one of three held in connection with the murder, in the office of District Attorney Benard Martin shortly after Tuesday noon.

Fears Refuses Statement.

Kilgore's confesion which was in writing followed after a conference between Kilgore and District Attorney Martin and Allred and County Attorney R. S. Morrison of Archer county. E. N. Fears, whose examining trial will be held this afternoon at Archer City on a charge of murdering Zimmerman, was also examined by the three attorneys but refused to make any statement.

Last Saturday Dewey Wallace, also harged with the Zimmerman murder made a written confession to County Attorney Morrison at Archer City and named Fears as the one who fired the fatal shot. In the confession made Tuesday by Kilgore it is said he admitted his participation in the affair but said he did not fire the shot that resulted in Zimmerman's death and implicated Fears the guilty man.

Offers Complete Solution

"Doc" Snow, killed by Ranger Koonsman a week after the affair at Freeman-Hampton when the ranger with Ranger McCormick had placed Fears, the man now held, under arrest, is admitted in the confessions as being in the crowd but not as the one who killed Zimmerman. Kilgore, according to the Archer county attorney, went so far in his confession as to intimate that he had fired a gun on the fatal night but denied that he shot Zimmerman.

The obtaining of the second confession yesterday was poken of by local officers as some of the best work of its kind in what seems to be a complete solution of the mystery. Sheriff Goodwin and his deputy O. P. Roberts with County Attorney R. S. Morrison, all of Archer county, without a single tangible clue to begin on have run down the odds and ends of the affair until it looks like the blame for the murder will soon be placed on whoever did the shooting.

Kilgore Fatally Stricken.

The trial for the offenders suspected led the Archer county officers to many points in Texas and Oklahoma. Members of the Wichita county sheriff's department also have been constantly at work in the case and have made important arrests. Rangers Koonsman and McCormick have been closely allied with the details of the mysterious shooting of Zimmerman and have worked diligently on the case.

Following his confession at the district attorney's office Tuesday, Kilgore presented a striking and pitiful figure as he sat in the outer office while the state attorneys were talking with Fears the man who has been blamed in two confessions as the guilty one. Kilgore, suffering with a fatal disease, amost bent double and with eyes sunk far back, features pinched and drawn, gazed out a window paying no attention to what was going on around him.

Worried About Health.

After about 30 minutes he wheeled around and remarked to a bystander, "I would give $1,000 to be out of the fix I'm in."

The stranger thinking Kilgore was referring to the confession he had just made, replied with: "Yes, it's pretty bad for a fellow to let his foot slip and get mixed up in a thing like you are in."

Kilgore with an expressionless look on his face said: "Hell, I'm not worrying about the trouble I'm in. It's my health that I was talking about."

The first step to be taken by the state of Texas to place the guilt for the killing of Zimmerman will be taken at Archer City this afternoon when the preliminary trial of Fears is held.

Wheat Crop Shows Decrease Of 28 Million Bushels In U. S. Report

TILLMAN COUNTY STRIKES OIL

50 Barrels Predicted at Frederick

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 7.—Asserting positively that the drill at the test oil well, six and one-half miles northwest of Frederick, was in pay sand and predicting at least a 50 barrel well, Sidney Lumpkins, driller at this test indicated that the well would be brought in this week.

At the well there is every indication that Tillman county has at last a real oil well, exclusive of the river bed producers. The sand was tapped at a depth of 906 feet last Thursday and on entering the sand three feet the indications were so encouraging that operations were stopped and casing was commenced.

Considerable oil was bailed out of the hole last night and it was then shut down through lack of fuel oil.

Lumpkins says he will bring the well as soon as the hole can be cleaned out. This hole is 150 feet north of the old Fred-Till test, drilled by the McDonald brothers of Wichita Falls two years ago. In that test oil sand was said to have been found at 900 feet.

There is a quiet undercurrent of excitement here and if the well is actually brought in it is possible a boom will develop although further development of Tillman county will more than likely be done in an orderly manner, the lesson of 1920-21 being too well remembered here for a great deal of frenzied finance.

Severe Simplicity For Funeral At Marion

Prayer Only At Home Of Hardings With Cortege Omitted.

By The Associated Press.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 7.—Simplicity almost approaching severity will characterize the last rites for Warren G. Harding when his body is brought here Thursday from Washington.

Carrying out the expressed desire of Mrs. Harding, as communicated by her to those in charge of funeral arrangements here, the only services, excepting probably a prayer at the home of his father, George T. Harding, Sr., where the body will repose being placed in a receiving vault, will be brief and will be conducted at the vault in Marion cemetery where the president's body will be placed temporarily.

There will be no imposing funeral cortege to the cemetery, made resplendent by bright uniforms and glittering sabres, no trooping of horses, no rumbling of artillery wheels, no marching organizations, its grandeur will be in its simplicity and its sadness. Not even the "president's own," Troop, A, Ohio national guard cavalry, Cleveland, which acted as escort of honor when Harding was inaugurated president, will participate, other than to maintain quietude.

A hearse will be used to convey the body to the father's home in East Center street, where it is planned to have it lie in state from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. Thursday and from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. Friday. The funeral cortege is scheduled to leave the Harding home soon after 2 o'clock for the cemetery, services there being conducted about 3 o'clock. Mr. Harding's body instead of being buried in the family plot beside his mother and sister, will be placed in the receiving vault until a mausoleum is erected to receive it.

State Treasurer Offers Help To Frederick Banks

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla. August 7.—Following the failure of the Oklahoma State bank here Monday morning, banks of the county today were in receipt of telegrams announcing that the state treasurer stood ready to increase the state's deposits in the banks of this county if such action was thought expedient.

He offered to increase state deposits in the First National bank to $60,000 and has offered other banks whatever sid they thought they might need.

Information here today was that the Oklahoma State might be reopened financed by Oklahoma City and Wichita Falls bankers.

RAIL COMMISSIONERS RESENT OIL CHARGES

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 7.—Commissioners Walter Splawn and W. A. Nabors of the railroad commission left Austin today for Fort Worth, where they will join Chairman Clarence E. Gilmore in entering a strong protest against charges that the rail body has been favoring and protecting certain oil companies. Such charges were made by an attorney in a hearing on an injunction application in federal court involving state oil and gas regulations.

Six little girls acted as pall bearers: Misses Lois Babb, William Jarnigan, Maurie Jarnigan, Maurine Orr, Lena Taylor, Ina May Bullock

Small Loss in Robbery Of Big Four Express Safe

By The Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 7.—After binding and beating J. T. Loman, train messenger, Indianapolis, three men looted the safe of the American Express company aboard an eastbound Big Four passenger train as it pulled out of the union station here and escaped last night at 8:30 o'clock. According to G. R. Stickley, auditor of the express company, the loss to his company was $139.95. Among the loot were remittances of the Big Four, but they consisted mainly of non-negotiable paper.

Acetanilid In Tablets Fatal To Young Child

Swallowing four or five cold tablets which it had gotten accidentally the 16-months-old child of J. E. (Bud) Swayzy, four miles north of Wichita Falls on the Charlie road died Tuesday afternoon despite efforts for several hours by physicians to save the child.

Dr. D. Meredith of Wichita Falls, who was called to the Swayzy home, said the acetanilid in the cold tablets was what killed the child. The tablets were swallowed about 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and the child went to sleep. The mother noticed the child turning blue about half hour later and summoned physicians, but it was too late.

WILL OF MURATORE'S WIFE NOW CHANGED

By The Associated Press.

LIBERTY, Mo., Aug. 7.—The will under which Harry L. Zeltun of London, England, is the chief beneficiary of the $200,000 estate of Mrs. Julia Woods Davies, will be admitted to probate under a ruling today by Judge Ralph Hughes in circuit court. Under a will previously probated George Westlain Davies, an opera singer and fourth husband of the dead woman, is the principal beneficiary.

Davies, who is known on the opera stage as Giorgio Muratore, alleged that Zeitun, as secretary to Mrs. Davies had influenced her unduly in order to obtain her property. Judge Hughes denied an application for an alternative writ prohibiting the proving up of the Zeitun will.

WHEAT FIGURED TO MAKE TOTAL OF 793 MILLIONS

Corn Shows Improvement And Crop Increases 105 Million Bushels

WHEAT FIGURE 69.6

Total Winter Wheat To Be 508 Millions; Spring Crop 225 Millions

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A decrease of 28,000,000 bushels in this year's wheat crop was indicated in the department of agriculture's monthly crop report today as compared with forecasts made a month ago. The preliminary estimate of winter wheat was placed at 568,000,000 bushels, or 18,000,000 bushels less than a month ago, and the forecast of spring wheat was placed at 225,000,000 bushels, or 10,000,000 bushels less than last month. Corn showed improvement during July and a forecast of 2,982,000,000 bushels was announced. That is 105,000,000 bushels more than forecast last month.

Oats, barley, tobacco, flaxseed and sugar beets showed indications of increased production as compared with a month ago, while rye, rice, hay, apples, peaches and peanuts showed decreases.

Production Figures.

Production this year was forecast by the department of agriculture today, basing its calculations on conditions August 1 as follows. (Figures in millions of bushels except where stated):

Winter wheat, 568; spring wheat, 225; all wheat, 793; corn, 2,982; oats, 1,316; barley, 202; rye, 64.8; buckwheat 13.5; white potatoes, 380; sweet potatoes, 93.1; tobacco (pounds) 1,474; flaxseed, 19.1; rice, 32.9; hay, tame (tons), 81.3; hay, wild (tons), 16; sugarbeets (tons), 6.53; apples, 188; peaches, 47.3; pannuts (pounds), 684; grain sorghums, 113.

Condition of the crops on August 1 in percentage of a normal includes:

Spring wheat, 69.6; corn, 84; oats, 81.9 per cent.

Governor Davis Now Has Typhoid Physician Says

By The Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Aug. 7.—Another blood count taken from Gov. J. M. Davis shortly before noon is "very indicative that the official now has typhoid fever," Dr. L. M. Powell, his physician, announced. The count of white cells continues exceedingly low, he said.

"There is a far better chance for his recovery if he has typhoid than if he had pneumonia, as was suspected after yesterday's blood count," the doctor asserted. The governor's temperature this afternoon hovered around the 104 mark.

Lake Michigan Crossed By Airplane for First Time

By The Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 7.—Two airmen, S. R. Gonanat, Westfield, Wis., and Montford Waushauer, Milwaukee, in a land plane crossed Lake Michigan at its widest point this morning, landing at Holland, Mich., in 57 minutes. The fliers were enveloped in a fog throughout the trip.

This is the first time an airplane has crossed the lake. Hydroplanes have cruised half the distance at great altitudes, but no land plane ever before essayed a long trip over the waters of the lake.

Mexican Troops Mobilized To Catch Bandit Leader

By The Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7.—Mobilization of the federal forces in the state of Durango and their co-operation with the military forces in adjoining states in an effort to capture the bandit leader, Juan Galindo, and force the release of Robert A. Newman, who was kidnaped by the bandit last April, was ordered today by President Obregon in a telegram to Gen. Anatolio Bortega, chief of military operations in Durango.

Test Suit on Weevil Claims

AUSTIN, Aug. 7.—Bruce W. Bryant, assistant attorney general, left Austin today for Marfa, where Thursday he will represent the state in a test suit regarding boll weevil claims from the state. The question involved is whether or not the state claims the commission's findings can be reviewed and the state required to pay claims not allowed by the commission.

Ranch to Palace

Sidi Wirt Spreckles, the new Princess Suad Chakir.

New York, August 7.—It's a long leap from a Kansas ranch to a princely palace in Constantinople—but the former Sidi Wirt did it.

At present she is Princess Suad Chakir, bride of the prince of the same name and head of one of the richest families in the Ottoman capital.

However, in the years that have intervened since Sidi left the wide open spaces of Kansas, she has had a more or less hectic career.

Originally the Kasas beauty decided on an opera career and began a course of study in Chicago. And then along came fate in the person of John D. Spreckles, Jr., Frisco millionaire.

Just as soon as Mrs. Spreckles No. 1 divorced him Sidi became Mrs. Spreckles No. 2 and everything was lively—for awhile.

But six years later, in 1921, Sidi brought suit for divorce against the sugar baron. She charged cruelty and asked the custody of the 4-year-old daughter.

Then fate stepped into the picture once more. Spreckles was killed in an automobile accident near Taft, California, while the divorce was still pending.

Now comes word that the dashing widow has become the bride of a Turkish prince and will reign over his palace in the land of harems and veiled women.

TEST AT DAVIDSON NEARS PAY SAND

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 7.—William Glengar, associate with Spears and Gooch, drilling a test oil well near Davidson, Tuesday predicted that this test on the Couch farm would develop oil within the next 50 feet of drilling.

According to Glengar the drill is now 857 feet down and he expects a paying sand at from 950 to 1,000 feet.

Pair of Austin Women Caught in Booze Chase

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 7.—Two women were arrested by county officers early today following an exciting pursuit by the officers of a car driven by one of the women. A small amount of liquor was seized by officers, who captured a seven-gallon bottle broken by the women during the chase.

Pre-Volstead Distillery Running At Full Blast Raided Near Henrietta

Most Daring Scheme Of Booze Manufacture for Wichita Use To Be Uncovered.

A distillery built to meet evidently big demands of the liquor business since the Volstead era was found and raided under the direction of Ranger Sergeant Koonsman Tuesday afternoon a short distance from the public road three miles east of Henrietta.

The distillery was in a galvanized building that had a cement floor a huge 25 barrel cooling tank and every appurtenance necesary for the manufacture of booze in large quantities.

Still Found Operating.

Koonsman with Deputy Sheriff Jack Miller of Wichita county and Sheriff George Cunningham of Henrietta on entering the newly constructed building found the still in full operation. The officers confiscated 30 barrels of mash, a 75 gallon still, eight gallons of second run corn whiskey, seven sacks of sugar, and six cases of fruit jars.

On the outside of the building the traffic equipment for the distillery was found to consist of a Ford truck and a Ford touring car. These were also confiscated. Albert Barker and wife and D. D. Collins were arrested and charges of liquor manufacture made against them here. The captured equipment was piled high on the Ford truck and all brought back to Wichita Falls.

Koonsman says the still was evidently being run and whiskey made for Wichita Falls consumption. The fact that the ground was rented, building erected, full equipment provided, two automobiles on hand, all within 200 feet of a public highway makes this instance the most daring and open instance of whiskey making on a large scale to be uncovered in this section.

Fellow Workers Caught Smithson Officers Claim

That Ed Smithson, who told police Monday he was taken from his home in the Scotland addition on the night of last July 30, carried out on the Burkburnett road and beaten unconscious by men in two automobiles, was attacked by some of his fellow workmen was the opinion expressed by officers Tuesday night.

The officers say that from the investigation already made into the affair there was some strong sentiment at the shops where Smithson is employed again him. Officers say there can be no charges made until Smithson gives a description that will serve to identify his assailants.

BILBO SECOND IN MISSISSIPPI RACE

By The Associated Press.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 7.—Theodore G. Bilbo, former governor of Mississippi, who announced while in jail at Oxford this spring serving a sentence of ten days for contempt of federal court, that he would be a candidate for governor in today's democratic primaries, tonight forged ahead of Sennett Conner, the runner-up to H. L. Whitfield, when 125 precincts out of 1,438 in the state, had been tabulated tonight at 11:15 o'clock. At that hour, the totals were: Whitfield 8,665; Bilbo 5,109; Conner 5,102; Franklin 2,142; Bell 1,019.

REDUCTIONS ASKED ON INSURANCE RATES

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 7.—Reductions of rates on classes of insurance showing net earnings over 5 per cent and of rates on country property is asked in an application filed today with the state fire insurance commission by T. M. Scott of Austin, on behalf of the insuring public of Texas. Hearing was requested.

Sweeping changes in the general insurance regulations in the state "so as to permit Texas firms to compete with foreign companies," also were requested. Fire insurance rates on oil risks would be increased under the application.

State Takes Up Sale of Gasoline

By The Associated Press.

PIERRE, S. D., Aug. 7.—Characterizing the price of gasoline in South Dakota, "as highway robbery," Governor McMaster this afternoon ordered the state warehouse at Mitchell to sell gasoline to the publ at 16 cents a gallon. He also called on the people of the state to form an association to purchase the product in carload lots until such time as dealers "cease their policy of greed and avarice."

HARRIS FACES COUNTY SUIT

Former County Clerk In Suit for $11,210.55 Claimed Due

Charging that Wichita county is due $11,210.55 that was collected by W. T. Harris, former county clerk over a four-year period, suit was filed in the district clerk's office Tuesday by Fred Weeks, representing the county, seeking to recover the above amount from the former official and his three bondsmen.

The three alleged in the petition to have been on Harris' bond during the four-year period are P. P. Langford, W. L. Robertson and H. L. Lane, Sr. These are named as parties to the suit.

Held Office Four Years

In the petition it is stated that Harris became county clerk of Wichita county on Dec. 1, 1918, was later reelected and in all held the office for four years. The first year Harris was in office, Dec. 1, 1918 to Nov. 30, 1919, the petition sets out that he had received in fees an amount totalling $16,184.25. Of this amount it is alleged Harris was entitled to legally withhold $10,063.91, leaving an indebtedness due Wichita county of $6,120.34.

During Harris' second year in office the petition states the official paid out an amount in bonus salaries to his employees that should have gone to the county and that the total amount due the county on Jan. 1, 1921, was $2,805.65. It is further alleged that from Dec 1, 1920 to Nov. 30, 1921, the county clerk failed to or render as accounts of fees a sum of $1,981.60, three-fourths of which belonged to the county.

The charge further says that during the period of Dec. 1, 1921, to Nov. 30, 1922, the official took in $22,182.45 and that his report shows $15,289.75 paid out in salaries, leaving a balance of $6,892.70. It stated that of this balance the official was entitled to $2,750 salary and one-fourth of the amount for fees, $1,035.67, leaving $3,107.03, which should go to the county now is $11,210.55.

In the petition it is alleged that the deficit was not noted by the present county commissioners' court until three months ago and that since that time the court had been unable to find a number of the books and records used by Harris during his administration. The petition urges that Harris be forced to bring the records of his tenure of office to the court when the hearing is held.

Friends Claim Mistake.

The filing of the suit against the county official yesterday was regarded by a number of persons as a mistake. Many of the Harris' friends said there were some of the shortages mentioned in the petition that seemed impossible. Other of his friends say that if the mistakes as alleged were really made it was not intentional with Harris but that he was acting under a different interpretation of the law as to how the fees and bonuses of his office should have been distributed.

Texas Mississippians Meet

GREENVILLE, Texas, Aug. 7.—Approximately 500 former citizens of Mississippi were gathered here today to form an organization to be composed of former Mississippians in this section of the state. A barbecue was the feature of the entertainment program.

THOUSANDS JAM TO MEET TRAIN 9 HOURS LATE

Mrs. Harding Rushed Away Down Side Street To White House

TROOPS AS ESCORTS

Full State Funeral For Dead President At Capital Today

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—President Harding's funeral train freighted with the sorrow of the nation, reached Washington at 10:22 tonight.

The lights in the funeral car cast a brilliant glow in the big train shed. Secretary Christian and Dr. Sawyer were on the back platform. There was no noise in the station but the throbbing of the air pump on a distant engine.

Coolidge Heads Group.

Although the train was nine hours late, thousands jammed the station concurse, waiting for hours packed against the iron fence that shuts off the train platform to be first to give their silent tribute to the dead chieftain.

The train backed into the station so that the funeral car with its flag-draped casket rolled in first, to stop where the little group headed by President Coolidge, waited.

The flag-draped burden that carried with the sorrowing heart of a nation, then was borne through the long room to the plaza beyond and lifted to the black-draped gun caisson. It was strapped in place as the troopers of the escort sat with sabers raised high in "present." A moment later, at a low command, the troops turned slowly away to lead the march to the white house.

Six bay horses, with two khaki-clad outriders, drew the caisson. The escort moved off across the plaza in platoon front, then halted while the motor cars took on their passengers. President Coolidge and Speaker Gillet were in the first car.

Capitol Dome in Darkness.

It was a few minutes before 11 o'clock when the procession began moving toward the capitol grounds. The hidden flood lights that usually bathe the capitol with a white glow had been extinguished and the great dome stood against a moonless sky as if in mourning, a thing of mysterious beauty lifting above the great pile it surmounts.

Behind President Coolidge in the cortege rode Chief Justice Taft and Secretary Hughes, in a second car, then Secretaries Weeks and Denby riding together. The newspaper men of President Harding's party walked beside President Coolidge's car and the secret service men flanked it on the other side. A picked guard of honor from the headquarters company of the District of Columbia walked beside the caisson.

Down the winding roadway under the trees the escort moved, turning into Pennsylvania avenue around the peace monument and swinging up the street at a slow walk.

Silence in Dim Street.

Up the broadway ahead the cortege rolled and no sound except for the clatter of horses hoofs and the rumble of the gun wheels marked its passing.

The street was dim in the subdued glow of its tall lamps, the buildings dark, almost deserted, with few lighted windows. A black sky, studded with a few stars that looked dim and far-away, spread above. Flags on the high buildings were invisible in their dejected, half mast droop in the all but windless air.

It seemed long after the rattle of hoofs a block or two away became audible before the escort came abreast.

Mrs. Harding stepped off the car leaning on Secretary Christian's arm, and with Dr. Sawyer on her other side. The band in the concourse began playing "Nearer My God to Thee."

Mrs. Harding Bears Strain

Mrs. Harding walked erect, but slowly along the station platform. While her hand was on Secretary Christian's arm, she apparently needed no support.

The military guard of honor that stood about the casket all the way from San Francisco also alighted. Members of the party who came all the way said Mrs. Harding had stood the trip well.

As the solemn strains of the comforting old hymn filled the station, the casket was tenderly lifted down through the special door cut into the side of the car. It was placed on a rolling platform. A single wreath that had been waiting at the station was laid on the great flag stead over the casket.

The military guard resumed its place about the casket. The uniformed men raised their burden and began moving slowly toward the double rank of non-commissioned officers who formed a corridor to the president's room at the station.

Rushed to White House.

Meantime Mrs. Harding had entered an automobile and had been whisked away through a side street to the white house. Her appearance and the reports of those who had made the trip with her from San Francisco set at rest widespread rumors that she had suffered a physical collapse. It was said she had borne up bravely from the first and had shown no sign of breaking under the strain.

Secretaries, Hoover, Walace and Work, Attorney General Daugherty and General Pershing walked slowly behind the casket as it was carried down the living corridor.

Speaker Gillett also walked with

Panhandle Refining Head Named To Lead Cost Finding Committee

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Three subcommittees to ascertain the costs of producing, refining and marketing of crude oil and its by-products, were appointed today by A. G. Maguire, chairman of the committee which was appointed by L. V. Nicholas, president of the National Petroleum Marketers' association, to investigate the various conditions in the oil industry in the mid-continent oil field.

The appointment of the three subcommittees came after a full discussion of the conditions existing in the oil industry in the mid-continent field in the offices of Nicholas, who issued the original call for the conference of the producers, refiners and marketers, held here several weeks ago.

E. W. Marland, president of the Marland Oil company of Ponca City, Okla., was appointed chairman of the sub-committee which will investigate and ascertain costs in connection with the production of oil. Although Marland was not at the conference, his views were expressed by other producers. Marland was said to be in New York on business, but in a letter to Nichols expressed his intention of co-operating in every way possible in attempting to find the fundamental causes for the present condition in the deflated oil industry and how it could be remedied.

The chairmanship of the sub-committee to ascertain the cost of oil refining was given to Roy Jones, president of the Panhandle Refining company, of Wichita Falls, Texas. Jones was present at the conference and was said to have taken a leading part in the meeting, which was held behind closed doors. A. G. MaGuire, president of the Bartles-MaGuire Oil company, Milwaukee, was appointed chairman of the sub-committee to find the marketing cost of crude oil and its by-products.

C. L. Mayhall and Waite Phillips, both of Tulsa, resigned from the committee appointed by Nicholas Mayhall in a letter to Nicholas explaining his resignation, said that the press of business forced him to take the course. Phillips did not advise Nicholas of his resignation.

W. M. Davis, Bartlesville, Okla., president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, also was forced to resign on account of the pressure of official business.

Wild Steers Take Opener From Wichita Falls

NOBODY BUT STEERS CAN BE BLAMED FOR SPUDS DEFEAT IN HECTIC SLUGGING AFFAIR

Rampaging Herd Stampedes Meine, While His Successor Doesn't Last Long Enough To Become Acquainted; Spudders Hit But Not at Right Time; Errors Also Hurt.

DALLAS, Aug. 7.—In a loosely played farcial affair the Steers took the opening game of the series from the Spudders here today. Both teams played ragged baseball throughout, while neither starting hurler could stay through the nine innings. The final score was 11 to 7.

Manager Salm used three hurlers in a desperate attempt to stop the wild Steers. Meine started but after taking six innings of terrific punishment retired in favor of Osborne, a youngster from Paris, of the East Texas league. Osborne lasted just two-thirds of one inning, giving way to Eddie Dyer, who managed to check the onslaught.

The Spudders also used a bombarding machine, but failed to direct aim of the "Big Bertha" where it would do the most damage. They hit, but couldn't hit when runs were needed.

In the third and fourth innings the Spudders made five hits, yet failed to put over a marker.

Dallas pulled one about as bad as the Spudders in the first inning. Five hits were made, but only two scores resulted. By good fielding on the part of the Spudder outfielders two Steers were caught at the plate on attempts to score.

Good and Bad Baseball.

At times both teams played good baseball, yet there was more bad than good playing. The Spudders hit Bradshaw hard enough to chase him to the showers much earlier than they did. It was not until the seventh inning, when the score came near being tied did Walter Morris jerk Bradshaw and send in Slim Love.

The Spudders made four very harmful errors, besides other misplays that do not go down in the summary. Two errors by Bischoff helped the Steers to put over a run on each miscue. Locker allowed a Dallas runner to cross the plate when he booted Bradshaw's grounder in the fourth inning.

Good support by his mates in the first inning was all that kept Meine from being removed in the early part of the battle. Hamilton opened the Steers half of the first inning with a long double, and went to third on Wano's infield hit. Donohue struck out but Vache scored Hamilton with a single. Wano was thrown out at the plate on Connolly's single to center. Griffin doubled to right scoring Vache, but Connolly was caught trying to out-leg Grigsby's throw to home plate.

The game rocked along smoothly till the fourth stanza when Meine was bumped for three runs. But this time poor support by his mates got Meine in bad. Vache walked and was sacrificed by Connolly. He scored on Griffin's single. Griffin stole second and went to third on a single by Lingle. On a double steal Griffin scored when Bischoff dropped the throw. Locker allowed Lingle to score when he kicked Bradshaw's grounder.

From the fourth inning on, the Steers pounded away at Meine's offering steadily and didn't let up till Dyer relieved Osborne in the seventh. They scored runs in every inning except the eighth.

The Spudders began to take a more serious part in the fun making in the fifth. They nicked Josephus Bradshaw for two hits and two runs.

Grigsby beat out an infield hit and went to third on Bradshaw's error of Bescher's grounder. Locker singled scoring Grigsby. Tanner hit into a double killing, Bescher scoring on the play.

Dallas also scored a run in their half of the fifth on a hit, a walk and an error. Two more runs were added by the Steers in the sixth on a double by Segrist and a homer by Bradshaw.

After one man had been retired in the sixth Berger singled and was followed by a single by Bischoff. Meine forced Berger at third; Grigsby scored Bischoff with a single. Bescher scored Meine with a single, but Grigsby was thrown out at the plate on a double steal.

Bradshaw to Showers.

In the seventh the Spudders stepped on Bradshaw for three runs and their last for the game. Tanner doubled and Cotter walked. They both stole a base as Weiss struckout, and scored on Berger's double. Bischoff followed with another double scoring Berger. This sent Bradshaw out and Love in.

Love held the North Texas team to one hit for the remainder of the game.

Osborne, the Paris, Texas, flinger went into stop the scoring of Dallas in the seventh. Before he could retire more than two batters the Steers had chalked up three runs on him. However, Osborne was not given the best of support as one hit was as much as Dallas secured from his offerings.

Dyer went in and retired the last man in the seventh. He also had little trouble in doing away with the Steers in the eighth.

He's Some Rabbit

JOE RABBIT

When the stork, who delivers ball players as well as babies, dropped the young man now playing the outfield for Muskogee with a family named Rabbit, the wise old bird did well. For this lad, later christened Joe, is living up to his name.

When Joseph was brought up short with a broken collarbone a few days ago, he had stolen 47 bases for the Southwestern league outfit.

Joe gave warning last year that he was going after base stealing honors by swiping 55. The Cleveland Indians grabbed him off, and for a time it looked as though he might do some swiping under the noses of the American league catchers, but Manager Tris Speaker decided Joseph needed a little more seasoning before the big league batters were allowed to pepper him with flies.

So Joe went back.

Now the White Sox have grabbed him off, and he will report to Gleason when the Southwestern season ends.

Rabbit fields well and can hit. He has been ranking second in his circuit with a mark running around .328.

Curing Your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes.

Dear Sir:

Should the hands or the clubhead lead in starting the club back on the backswing? I have heard quite a lot of discussion on this subject some claiming that the hands lead and others that the clubhead leads. I shall be very much interested in what you think of this point. V. H.

Answer—

To answer very briefly I don't believe that either should lead, but that both should start together. I know that some very fine golfers hold that the clubhead should lead and others, also fine players, say the hands should lead in starting the club, but I believe in each case that the player is guided by his own practice, which is natural. Some actually start the hands first, whereas others at least appear to start the clubhead first.

My theory is this. The grip with the hands should be firm, enough to hold the club in full control, with the wrists fairly firm, but not rigid enough to be locked. Now, if you move the hands, the clubhead must move at the same time.

Since the clubhead moves on a much longer are than the hands, it may appear to start first, on the same principal that the end of a spoke in the fellow of a wheel appears to move before the end in the hub, though of course it does not. It merely moves faster. This is what happens with the man who says he starts the clubhead first. I claim both start togethre.

On the other hand, there are some players who actually start the hands first, using a slight amount of flexibility in the wrists to do so. Of course this slight bending of the wrists toward the left, must be compensated for with a like bend in the other directions as the club is being carried back. This action may help to insure necessary flexibility in the wrists, and to avoid locking them, but unless a player is sure he is able to control his swing fully, he will probably do better to leave it alone.

(Jim Barnes will suggest a remedy for your golf troubles. Write him care of the sport editor, enclosing stamped envelope if you want a personal reply.)

Pittsburgh Owner May Buy Muskogee Baseball Club

By The Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 77.—Purported negotiations for the sale of the local club of the Southwestern league to Barney Dreyfus, owner of the Pittsburgh Nationals, were said to be nearer consummation late today, although the Pittsburgh magnate has not agreed to the price at which the team was offered. The amount was not made public.

Iowa Park Man Breaks Leg

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Aug. 7.—Pete Evans, a barber in the Webb barber shop, had his left leg broken Monday night. He had attended church and went to his car, which was parked on an incline facing the stage where the meeting is being held. He cranked his car, it being in gear, began rolling and caught his left leg between the end of the front spring and the stage, breaking the bone.

Goethals Likely To Be Alabama's Chief Engineer

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 7.—General George W. Goethals and General W. L. Siebert, internationally known as engineers and builders, probably will be invited to locate in Alabama and take charge of the developments of the state's seaport and the construction of the system of state and federal roads.

It became known today that the state harbor commission is considering the starting of negotiations with General Goethals for the task of developments of the sea port when the enabling act providing for the issuance of state bonds has been approved by the legislature.

It also became known that Governor Brandon probably will offer the appointment as chairman of the new state highway commission, when created, to General Siebert.

General Goethals gained fame throughout the world through the construction of the Panama canal.

Water Freight Rate Cut

By The Associated Press.

MOBILE, Aug. 7.—The Mallory Steamship company will reduce the rate on iron and iron articles from Pittsburgh to Mobile on Sept. 15, according to notice received today at the traffic office of the chamber of commerce. This reduction will make the water rate several cents lower than the rail rate and is believed will throw much of the business to the water routes. The rate has been reduced to 58 cents per hundred pounds, while the rail rate is 67 cents.

Trouble Over Dave Danforth Causes Lee Fohl To Lose Job With Browns

By The Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 7.—Lee Fohl has been released as manager of the St. Louis Americans, it was announced here Tuesday.

In a telegram to his secretary, L. B. VanWeise, Phil Ball, owner of the Browns, stated Fohl's dismissal was for "the good of the game and the morale of the players." VanWeise declined to say what city Mr. Ball sent the telegram from.

There was no intimation available here as to who will succeed Fohl, who last year led the team to within one game of first place and to third place in 1921.

Fohl is under contract for the remainder of the season.

"Bill" Friel, a former Browns player and of late years connected with the Tulsa club of the Western league, was brought here early in July to succeed Bob Quinn as business manager, who now is head of the Boston Americans. Reports here are that Fohl will become manager of the Red Sox next year.

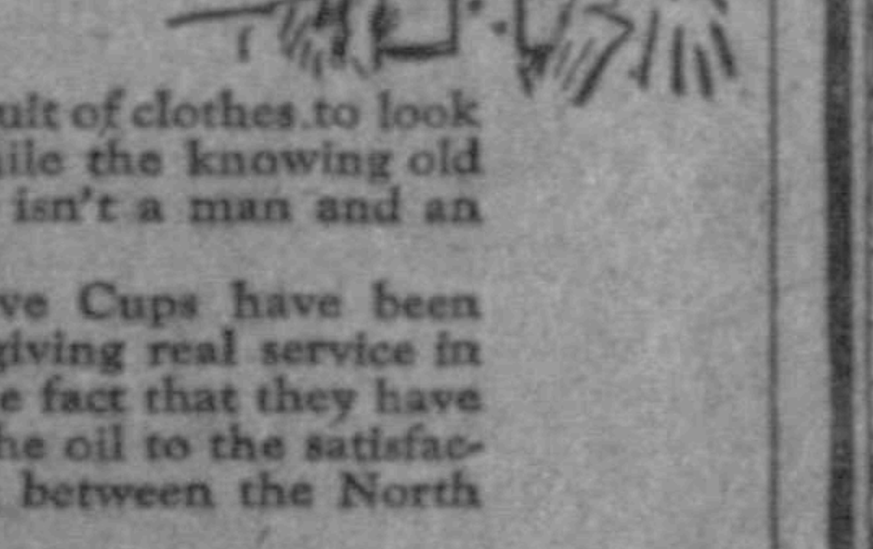

Ball became incensed at the recent action of Fohl in refusing to join the Browns players in protesting against the suspension of Pitcher Dave Danforth, it was said. Danforth was ordered out of a game with Philadelphia a week ago by Umpire Moriarity for alleged discoloration of a ball. The players wanted to send a joint telegram to President Ban Johnson of the league expressing the view that Danforth had not violated any rules. When Fohl was asked to sign the telegram he declined, so it was not sent. Being ordered from the game automatically suspended Danforth for 10 days.

George Sisler, star first sacker, who is out of the game because of a vision defect, probably will become manager of the team as soon as his eyes permit, it was said. Until that time Friel probably will handle the team in addition to his duties as business manager, reports state.

Fohl was signed as assistant manager of the Browns in 1920. The following winter Manager Jimmy Burke was released and Fohl took up the managerial reigns.

Fohl was manager of the Cleveland Indians from 1915 to 1919.

MISS JULIA WALTHAM WEDS MR. JOE TAYLOR OF OMAHA

Announcement has been received of the marriage of Miss Julia Waltham, daughter of Mrs. Hattie Waltham of 508 Lee street to Mr. Joe E. Taylor, of Omaha, Nebraska. The ceremony was performed Sunday at high noon at the home of the Rev. Ira L. Craltree, on Lamar street, with only Mrs. Waltham and Stanley Waltham, a brother of the bride, present.

Mrs. Taylor is well known in Wichita Falls having been connected with the Wichita Falls State Bank for some time. Mr. Taylor is the superintendent of the Omaha office of the Burrell Construction Co. of Chicago. The young couple left for Omaha after the ceremony and will make their home in that city.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MRS. R. T. PRICE

The members of Mrs. Terril's division of the First Christian church were entertained Tuesday morning at the Terril home, 1711 Polk street honoring Mrs. R. T. Price who left Tuesday afternoon to make her home in Houston, Texas.

Mrs. E. L. Smith on behalf of the division, presented Mrs. Price with a set of iridescent sherbet glasses, with best wishes for her success and happiness in her new home.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS

The missionary society of the First Christian church met in regular session Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. L. Downing, at 812 Brook street.

Mrs. Downing presided at the meeting and following the opening prayer by Mrs. T. W. Caskey, she reported that the fruit jars from the Juliette Fanner Home had arrived and were ready for distribution.

A letter was read from Miss Etta Nunn, the society's missionary in Mexico and another from the president, Mrs. W. R. Ferguson who is spending her vacation on the Ferguson ranch in New Mexico.

The program was in charge of Mrs. S. L. Conn who gave a short prayer followed by a scripture reading. Mrs. E. S. Parmenter read a paper relating to missionary work and Mrs. R. D. Ford told of some of her personal experiences among missionaries in Russia and Siberia. Mrs. Conn then conducted a contest of hidden answers after which iced punch and wafers were served to: Mesdames J. L. Downing, O. H. Karr, Ellis, George Sopher, S. L. Conn, J. W. Pond, King Davis, R. D. Ford, E. S. Parmenter, T. W. Caskey, W. L. Smith, E. Highlander, Tolbert, H. H. Haggard, C. E. Bailey, J. W. Bradley, Liggett, Iles and White.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Welton have gone overland to Dallas and Fort Worth for a weeks' trip.

THE PROPER DISTINCTION.

Mark Twain used to tell a story about John Fiske, the historian. One day when Fiske was deeply immersed in his work, Twain would relate, his wife came in, much moved and deeply distressed, and said: "I am sorry to disturb you, John, but I must, for this is a serious matter and needs to be attended to at once."

Then she brought a grave accusation against their little son. She said: 'He has been saying his Aunt Mary is a fool and his Aunt Martha is a damned fool."

Mr. Fiske reflected upon the matter a minute, then said: "Oh, well it's about the distinction I should make between them myself."—From Musical Courier.

ARTIST'S COAT

For wear with the filmy summer dresses and for early fall, this coat which would seem to be a cross between the cape and coat is very smart. The whole coat, loose kimona sleeves and all, is gathered into the neckband. The low standing collar of ribbon is the very latest word in fashion's decrees—French fashions.

The model suggests the artist's blouse very forcibly. A narrow tie of self-material finishes the neck and the cuffs as well as the collar are trimmed with bands of brocaded ribbon of a contrasting color. The material of which the coat is made is roshanara crepe of a heavy weave.

The length is another innovation, it being but three-quarter length. For traveling it would be ideal and would make a practical wrap for many occasions.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Asparagus Delight—Place individual serving of warm asparagus on lettuce leaf. Garnish with slices of hard boiled egg. Add a slice of tomato and a few green peas, also warmed. Serve with Thousand Island dressing.

Potato Chips—Slice potatoes very thin and put in cold water. Drain and put in hot greased pan in oven. Watch continually. When brown, remove and salt. This method has been found the best for a well flavored crisp potato chip. And it takes a comparatively short time to make.

Plantation Cake—One cup molasses, one-half cup melted butter, two eggs beaten, one-half cup warm water or milk, one-half cup whole wheat flour, one-half teaspoon allspice, one teaspoon soda, two cups flour, one teaspoon ginger, one orange. Pour molasses in a bowl, add butter, eggs, soda dissolved in liquid, flour sifted with spices, and grated and strained juice of orange. Mix and turn into well greased and floured shallow cake pan and bake in moderate oven 35 minutes. Take from oven, brush with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar mixed with cinnamon, and return to oven for five minutes.

Pineapple Surprise—Cut fresh pineapple in rings. Remove outer cover and then cut out core in center. Place two thin slices on a lettuce leaf, sugar well and let stand. Then sprinkle freely with shredded cocoanut. Decorate with two nut halves (walnut or pecan). This may be eaten with the angel cake.

Three-Egg Angel Food Cake—One cup sugar, one and one-third cups flour, one-half teaspoon cream of tartar, three teaspoons baking powder, one-third teaspoon salt. Mix well and sift four times the above dry ingredients. Add two-thirds cup scalded milk while still warm, beating continually. Add one teaspoon almond or vanilla flavoring. Mix well and fold in three egg whites beaten until light. Turn into ungreased angel cake tin and bake in slow oven 45 minutes.

Icing—Add one-half teaspoon butter to two tablespoons hot milk. Add gradually one and one-half cups confectioner's sugar. Add one-half teaspoon flavoring (same as used in cake).

SUGGESTIONS

To keep Egg Yolks—Very often you find that you have egg yolks left for which you have no immediate use. By boiling them hard the yolks keep and you can grate them over a salad, creamed salmon or a baked fish.

For Perspiring Hands—If your hands perspire a great deal when sewing, keep a small tin of bran in your work-basket and rub it into your hands when they become damp. Wipe off the dust with towel.

To Drown Her Out.

"Is your daughter going to practice on the piano this afternoon?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, will you please lend me your lawn mower? I have to do the lawn some time anyway."—Pennsylvania Farmer.

Heart and Home Problems Solved

Dear Mrs Thompsun: I am a girl 20 years of age and have been going with a young man 32 years old for the past year and a half. I love this man dearly and know he loves me, for he does everything he can to make me happy.

My folks have never wanted me to go with him very badly, because he never had a good character and used to drink a god deal, but since he has been going with me he has quit drinking and chasing around as he used to do. People says he has changed so much they would hardly know that he was the same person. He says it is because he cares so much for me.

I have a friend who says he isn't true to me and says he deceives me, but I do not think he does. If I tell him what people say he does not get angry ybut tells me not to worry about it. But I can't help but worry. I have never heard of anything he has deceived me about.

He has ask me to marry him and I have promised, but something holds me back. What is it that causes me to feel that way? Please do not say it is because I do not love him, for I am sure I love him. He works hard to get plenty of money ahead so we can marry soon.

Do you think there is too much differences in our ages to be happy together? We hardly ever have any misunderstandings.

Do you think my folks are right about this matter? They never have forbidden me to marry him although I know they don't want me to.

He says he never loved anyone as much as he does me and would do anything in the world to make me happy. Please give me your honest advice on this matter.

LOVESICK BOBBIE.

It seems to me that the odds are against your happiness with the man you love so much now. In the first place, you are very young to tie yourself to a man 12 years older than you are. At present you do not notice the difference because he is young enough to be interested in your pleasures. A few years after you are married, however, you will feel a change because he will no longer care for the things which appeal to your young heart.

Another very grave matter is the fact that he drank and lived in such a way that his character was considered bad. His love for you is certainly a steadying influence, but it is a question whether he will stay changed after he has become used to having you as a wife. Do not hurry the matter of marriage because in a year's time you will be better able to judge the situation for yourself. If you still love as deeply and if he shows no signs of resuming his former habits follow the dictates of your heart and marry him.

Let your judgment rule and do not believe all the tales your "friends" tell you. It is so easy to talk and gossip that you really an place little importance on what you hear.

Your parents are quite right in the way they feel. It seems to me they are most generous in letting you do as you think best without opposing you. They cannot be blamed for their prejudices.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl 15 years of age, and I want to have my hair bobbed. Mother says it is just a passing fad for girls my age. What do you think? BETTY.

Your mother is quite right and you should take her advice. I know just how horrid it feels not to be just like the other girls, but just what an advantage you will have over them in two or three years when they are groaning because their hair is so short to do up nicely, and yours is nice and long.

ZONAGALE

In Collaboration With Russell Gore Writes On

HOMESICKNESS

The oldest story familiar to the western world is a story of the alien—the dwellers from Paradise. The story of the alien haunts the Bible—Moses and the children of Israel, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in strange lands, Ruth "amid the alien corn," the prodigal son in a far country. Of all the people of the earth, those whose Bible is the Hebrew scriptures ought to have the deepest understanding of the exile. Of all the people of the earth, America, with her double heritage of Hebrew scriptures and immigrant population, ought best to know the heart of the homesick.

Of the Armenian who walked many blocks to the Henry street settlement in New York, and came asking if this was the house where they worked for peace, and drew from his ragged pocket a dollar bill.

Of that other Armenian boy who swept the halls of a Pasadena hotel and whispered to a woman novelist who passed him, busy in his white coat: "Madame, if you would write something about my country!"

Of the Russian storekeeper in a little Wisconsin town who last year imported a whole family from his province in Russian, housed them comfortably, secured work for them—and understood from his heart when everyone of them was miserably homesick for the homeland, and asked of him help to go back to it.

Of the Italian small shopkeeper who came to America 20 years ago to find his fortune, who has lived from hand to mouth for the two decades, and now, with his wife dead and his two children in government positions, says: "America, it is the land of opportunity—for the second generation."

Of the young Columbia student from Bombay presidency, who put on native costume and went to see Tagore, only to find that he, who comes from Bongal, spoke another dialect, which she could not understand. "I have been homesick for one native land," she said. "But now I see that I have several. And I am homesick for them all!"

Of the Czecho-Slovakian who had come to America because of a steamship advertisement pasted on his cowshed, picturing a factory worker crossing the street from the factory to the bank, a sack of gold on his back. "My first sack is not yet full," he said sadly, in his language. "Can I believe in the promise. I forget the promise—I remember the cowshed."

Homesickness is worth studying. It is not sentimentality. It is the kind of nationalism which never leads to war.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Illinois has but one woman bank president, and she and her family fill most of the important offices in the bank. She is Mrs. Flora McCormick of Emden, Ill., who succeeded her husband, follwing his death, as head of the principal bank of that town. Her four sons constitute the force of cashier, teller and bookkeepers.

While her husband was president, Mrs. McCormick was often called into consultation in relation to financial affairs, and she acquired a thorough knowledge of the business during her susband's lifetime. She has been very successful in her pioneering work, and the bank, according to all reports, has prospered under her wise leadership.

"A liking for banking seems to run in our family," says Mrs. McCormick, "and I think we are proving that it is not always bad business to work with or for one's relatives."

Our Women Lawmakers

Conniecticut seems to be second in the list of states who elected women to the legislature. Pennsylvania was first with eight, all republicans. Connecticut is second, with seven, all republicans but one. Connecticut started to elect women in 1919 and of the five seated then, only one, Mrs. L. M. Frink of Canterbury, was re-elected last fall.

"People talk about the East being too conservative and the West being so progressive, but Connecticut seems to be the exception that proves the rule," according to Mrs. Frink. "We elected five women in 1919, before the national amendment; we elected seven in 1922, after the national amendment. Yet there is Wisconsin, Iowa, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Wyoming, Utah and perhaps some others who have no women in their state legislatures."

Miss Millicent Cooper, now employed in the United States Identification department of the women's bureau of investigation at Washington, is one of the youngest finger-print experts in the country.

Two undergraduate schools of nursing are to be established in the United States, one at Yale, provided by the Rockefeller foundation, the other at Western Reserve university, provided by a gift of a woman, Mrs. E. S. Burke.

The "Ready Ring"

Some men have so much confidence in their ability to capture the girl they are pursuing, that they carry around a "ready ring" to slip on her finger before she has time to change her mind.

No waiting to get the jewelers for an engagement ring, for him, thank you—he carries his token to bind the bargain right with him.

And the girl—she is so thrilled at the sight of it—that she doesn't stop to consider his manner of certainty.

Perhaps afterwards, she wonders a little why he did not ask her first—then buy the ring—but after all she has it—and she would hate to give it up!

So the "ready ring"scares off all the other fellows and leaves clear sailing for the boy who had the ingenuity of thinking of it.

THEY SHOULD BE UNINSTRUCTED

The Republican party has lost its leader. It is hardly probable that President Coolidge can in less than two years achieve sufficient leadership to insure a nomination to succeed himself. The republican presidential field will be very badly split up.

Even before President Harding's death affairs had begun to shape themselves more favorably for the Democratic party. There is unquestionably a radical revolt within the Republican party. This will be emphasized as the result of Harding's death.

Any one who has watched the senate of the United States during the last two years realize that the old senate leadership, of which Harding was a part six years ago, has stumbled slowly into senility. Lodge's voice is thinner. McCumber, beaten by the dirt farmers of North Dakota, could hardly carry the physical load of the tariff debates. Penrose has passed on.

The old guard has actually showed fear when the flowing mane of Borah appeared in the senate doorway. LaFollette, silent and almost surpressed during the war, is now bullying the senate more than ever. It is admitted that the Republican majority in the senate practically has to consult La Follette and Borah in order to get their permission before submitting party measures.

Nothing could be more humilating to a man of Lodge's type; nothing could be more gleeful to the mental type of a Borah or a LaFollette. For twenty years LaFollette has had Lodge's heels grinding his neck. Relentless republican majorities or party caucauses practically ostracized him. And now LaFollette, retaining the vigor of his mind as the old guard loses its grip with advancing age, finds himself the most powerful figure in the senate —possibly in the United States. He may have no positive power, but his negative power is so great that it is almost inconceiveable this far from Washington.

What about the Democrats? Technically the stock of McAdoo should go up. McAdoo is alert and vigorous He has war and Wilson prestige. He has the labor support. He has much of the dry support.

But politics rarely follows the course of statistics or of past performance. It has more Bryans and Roosevelts than it has Parkers and McKinleys. The same thing that makes politics in America a business of surprise and hazard. Rules do not win. Impulse and a knowledge of psychology are more important.

Of course, the democrats will have many favorite sons. There is a movement in Texas to give her forty democratic votes to Gov. Neff. The McAdoo people want forty uninstructed votes. Underwood is gum-shoeing.

Ford is an unknown quantity. One does not know whether the world's greatest organizer is directing his mind toward politics.

The best assumption is that any man, who thinks he has a reasonable chance, will be intrigued into working for the presidency of the United States. No one ever went into the job without elation and no one ever left without regret.

Ford has a reasonable chance. Therefore it is almost certain that he is thinking out the details of how best to drive his "flivver" to Washington.

The strongest candidate for the Democrats at this writing appears to be Ford. He carries no scars of political battle. He is the freshest appeal to the great American spirit of "Get ahead." He is clean in his personal life and frank in his public utterance. He has a firmer grip upon the average American imagination than any man since Roosevelt.

Whether Ford has any chance of getting two-thirds of the Democratic convention vote is yet to be seen. In any event practical politics in Texas suggests that the prospects of Democratic National victory in 1924 are too good to permit of any haste in presenting a Texas candidate.

McAdoo will be very much weaker than Texas politicians seem to believe. The selection of a favorite son candidate may be doubtful wisdom. There is nothing new in such a policy. There will be many states with favorite sons on the ground.

There is more of the element of surprise and dignity in sending forty men to the next Democratic convention who are a unit for a progressive Democrat who can win. Most of the medicine is going to be made at the convention. Why allow the political medicine doctors to serve Texas before hand with a medicine which may not fit the needs of the convention policy?

THE SHOW'S GOT TO GO ON

Remember in the story of "Polly of the Circus", where Tony, the old clown, devoted friend of Polly, a circus orphan, was compelled to leave her in one town and go to the next, because of an injury she received, and how his voice shaking with emotion, he said to the minister who had Polly in his care: "You see sir, the show's got to go on."

We are reminded of this simple incident in a simple story of heart interest, by what is taking place in our national affairs. With the funeral train of the martyred Harding moving to the capital, President Coolidge has already turned his attention to the pressing affairs of the country. Not through any lack of feeling, but through neccessity, and in carrying out the thought and planned purposes of his former chief.

Whether it happens to be our country, or an individual business, "the show has to go on"—the machinery kept moving. Some men imagine that the petty business in which they were interested would stop if they left it for a few days. Yet it would move ahead without the

The machinery of the United States Government is so smooth running; has gained such momentum and so much is required of it, that it can not stop.

The nation pauses to pay tribute to the man who gave his life for his country; another has taken his place, but the government itself stands as it stood before. Yes, "the show's got to go on."

THE SOUL - SCAR

By HELEN DUFF

A dozen automobile parties found refuge under the roof of the inn. Their coming had made a change in the place. An air of activity, a stir, a bustle were to be felt on all sides. People ran up and down stairs calling to one another; bells rang; wet garments steamed cheerfully before the big open fire in the living room.

Half way down the stairs on her way to the dining room, Natalie paused. Could the crazy old house stand up against such a battery? She put out her foot to take the next step, and, as she did so, the front door flew open with a gusty bang, revealing a storm-beaten man and woman on the threshold.

The woman, despite her bedraggled garments, carried herself with the air of a princess. From where she stood on the stairs, Natalie watched her cross into the circle of light and lift the sodden veil which, up to that moment, had covered her face—a beautiful face, as pale and as clear-cut as a cameo. And then the girl's attention was drawn to Jones, who had come out of his place behind the office desk and was facing the newcomers.

"You!" was all he said, but his eyes, as they searched the pallid features before him, blazed with a hatred and contempt that seared like the hot blast from a prairie fire.

The woman snatched her veil into place and turned to her companion with a torrent of low-voiced protests. A moment later, all three crossed the hall and entered the office, closing the door behind them.

CHAPTER IX—THE BROTHERS.

"Ah, bane oop some toast an' bacon. The missus bane sorry it ain't good cookin' this morning." The waitress laid two plates of scorched food on the bed beside Miss Tillinghast.

"In all conscience, Tillie, what's the matter with this place? Why won't Miss Pringle let anyone go on the top floor? What's she afraid of?"

"Oop-stairs is all broke. Floors no good, ceilings no good. Last night, chimney—she fall down. Villum gone over by Lakeport for mason man to fix her."

"But you go up there, and you always carry a tray with you."

Tillie wiped the basin with a practiced hand, filled pitcher and hung up fresh towels before she observed evenly:

"Ah bane minded my own business come thirty year. Each somebody should do by herself the same." Gathering up her dishes, she opened the door and was gone.

In the middle of the afternoon Bill came back—alone. The horse was lathered from hard driving, the buckboard plastered with mud. Judging by appearances, he had not spent all his time looking for a mason. His breath was heavy with synthetic gin.

"Wouldn't come," he announced sullenly. "I'm the only fool who'd go out on such a day. Chimney'll have to wait till rain lets up."

Miss Pringle received the information with a series of "Oh dears."

"Get some logs for the living room fire before you go—do; there's a good boy!" she said. "The guests, poor dears, are so miserable, and Jones has been on the roof all afternoon trying to see what he could do with the chimney——"

Bill cast off the hand.

"Say, lady; have a heart! I'm soaked to the skin. I'll get your logs when I've put up the nag and took a squint at John."

He headed the little bay toward the barn, unharnessed her with rough tenderness, saw that she had her fill of water, and crammed the feed box and manger.

"There," he said, "YOU'VE got a belliefull, even if the swells freeze to death."

Turning up his collar, he slopped his way to a long, low building in the rear. Bill made his way to a ladder in a far corner and climbed to the loft. Here a room had been snugly boarded off.

From a cot near the window, a boy of eighteen started up. Flinging aside a yellow-backed novel he demanded:

"Where you been all day, Bill? I haven't had a thing to eat."

It would have been clear even to a casual observer that the two were brothers—bill the elder, the stronger, the better equipped. The shoulders of the youth were stooped, while with almost every breath he cleared his throat—a dry, hacking sound.

"Wait until I get out of this damned coat, kid," Bill placated. "I've got somethin' for you."

The boy dropped back on the cot and dextrously caught package after package, as they appeared from the pockets of the sagging macinaw.

When he had wolfed down the soggy delicacies, Bill drew out a hip-flask half full of Scotch.

"Hootch—gimme—" the fretful voice was eager.

CHAPTER X—JONES AND THE PRINCESS.

"Go light on that, John." Bill yielded the flask of whisky. "It ain't good for you. Besides, we got work for tonight that'll need clear heads."

"What's the old girl up to now?"

"Miss Pringle ain't got nothin' to do with THIS It's a snap I fell into over at Lakeport. Handled right, there's enough money in it to send you to Colorado. Look!" and he displayed two crisp yellow bills.

"Cripes!" John's glassy eyes bulged. "What is it? The old game?"

"Nix on that! It's new, and it's neat."

Natalie was bringing up fresh teacups and hot water to Miss Merilda when, in a shadowy corner of the hall, she came upon Jones, deep in conversation with the woman whose arrival the night before had so visibly upset him.

From his attitude, he was forcing home some point. The lean angle of his jaw looked hard, uncompromising. The woman, on the other hand, a dog held caressingly in either arm, was standing in a loose-limbed, arrogant pose, her head titited back, an amused flicker in her half-closed eyes. As Natalie reached the top step, she saw Jones bury his clenched fist in his open palm!

"But you will." He shot the words savagely. "You will—if it's the last act of your life—and mine!"

A loose board under her foot snapped a brittle warning and Jones, with a gesture that might have been despair, hurried away.

The "princess-woman," as Natalie had nicknamed her, looked the intruder up and down with a cool, appraising stare. Then as though satisfied that here was a person of little importance, turned and entered her room.

Natalie relieved her feelings by a vigorous stamp of the foot. What could Jones, a country inn clerk, have in common with this insolent creature tricked out in clothes that suggested Bond Street and the Rue de la Paix? The princess-woman was obviously a spendthrift, a waster of life, of love, of opportunity. Everyone who came in contact with her must suffer—this man with his "scarred soul" more than the rest. Of a sudden, the protective instinct—the feeling that a mother has for an ailing child—made her long to save him in spite of himself from the unknown fate toward which he was rushing.

The first tinkle of the supper bell brought a clamorous stampede. The guests, who had suffered all day with a none too Christian fortitude, had evidently come to an eleventh-hour conclusion that the only way to beat the game was to get as much fun out of it as they could.

It was an hilarious meal. People who never been considered even amusing before became screaming humorists over tough beef and underdone potatoes.

Unexpected talent having been unearthed, a concert was soon in full swing.

For more than an hour Natalie forgot everything in the thrill of being stage-manager, but a sudden pang of remembrance brought a vision of Miss Merilda in her isolation, and an opportune intermission coming just at that moment, she slipped away to see how the dear old nuisance was getting on.

CHAPTER XI—A FACE AT THE WINDOW

In the hall she almost tripped over Sammy Todd, in his mud-caked boots, waiting for the basket in which he had delivered butter and eggs.

So intent was he on something or somebody that he never even looked up.

Natalie turned and, following the direction of his gaze, saw the princess-woman, a striking figure, against the mellow gray wall—her supple, uncorseted body tightly wrapped in a scarlet mandarin coat, heavy with Oriental embroideries—a cigarette dangling from the hand across the back of the chair.

Her knees were crossed, exposing a full length of shapely black-silk legs. At leisurely intervals she lifted the cigarette and drew upon it with slow, indolent enjoyment.

It was evident, from the bored half-smile about her lips, that she looked upon the assembled company with the same tolerance a park policeman has for the inmates of the zoo.

To Natalie, it was a direct challenge. She forgot that yesterday this woman's creed would have been her creed, and remembered only that the struggling performers were at a disadvantage—that they were trying to do their best.

So Goes It

By B. H.

Most folks have a hankering to "write pieces for the paper." You know, anyone can write for a newspaper. All you have to do is to get a half dozen lead pencils, a quire of pink stationery, sit in front of an electric fan, chew your pencil for five minutes, and then go to it.

Of course the newspaper may not print the poem on "Sunset" that you have written, and if it does you may not get anything but thanks for it, owing to the peculiarity of hard-headed business managers. But—think of the thrill you get out of writing it.

With us, the thing has got past the "hankering stage." The only argument we are able to present in our behalf is that we have never written a pome. There have been times in the spring of the year when we have written something that resembles verse in an indifferent sort of way, but few recognized it and we did it only when sorely pressed.

This may strike you as a strange introduction for a newspaper kolume, but the perpetrator is a stranger in Wichita Falls, and has that natural curiosity to know just how much the dear reader will stand for. The kolume will be discontinued on thirty minutes notice on a two thirds vote of The Record News ten thousand subscribers. (One edition circulation.) If we weren't already on the pay roll we probably couldn't get away with this but—

Let's talk about something else.

Jack Dempsey says he will fight "anybody." Keep your seat. Jack won't harm a hair of your head unless you are enough of an artist to draw a $100,000 crowd, the money to be split one hundred per cent Dempsey.

Andy Volstead, father of the federal prohibition law, gave out an interview the other day. Mr. Volstead said: "Rats." He added that he doesn't think there is any harm in one drink. Who gets it?

Governor Walton of Oklahoma might as well resign. He's been accused of everything.

So goes it.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

PLASTIC PLAY MATERIALS

One mother says:

I satisfy my child's demand for changing playthings, and encourage his imagination and creativ ability by providing him with plenty of plastic play materials, as clay, sand, paper, cloth, and blocks. I avoid giving him too many finished toys.

KEEP OUT OF JAIL

(Prison invariably changes men for the worse—a Penologist.)

When Sand Bag Saunders went to pass
The winter in Sing Sing,
He was a leader in the class
Of skilful burglaring.
His special talent raised him high
Above the common rank;
None else so skilfully could ply
A jimmy in a bank!
But all his sorrowing friends avow
That he has had his day;
He has to drive a taxi now
To keep the wolf away!

In Ralph the Roden't golden prime
(As all his pals agree)
None other in his gang could climb
A porch as well as he.
But working with the prison sledge,
He noticed with alarm,
Wore off the keen and well-trained edge
Of his best climbing arm.
His glory now is dead and done—
He slinks about the street
And holds up victims with a gun
To get enough to eat!

When Bill the Bolshevik was young,
And filled with pep and hate,
No Red avenger ever flung
A bomb so true and straight.
But since he has been forced to dwell
For seven years or more
Inside a lonely steel-lined cell
He lacks the skill of yore.
Still full of spite and gaunt and grim,
He wanders round the town,
But all that now is left to him
Is burning buildings down!

WHAT TODAY MEANS

LEO

August 8.

The aspects of today tend to excessive positivity and forcefulness. For those who are naturally dominating and aggressive, the day will no doubt end with many regrets, but those who are timid and backward will profit by the influence and accomplish many things which yesterday seemed impossible and out of their reach. There will be many proposals of marriage.

A child born today will become a leader early in life if the talents are recognized and proper training given when yet young.

Persons born on this day of the year are noted for their opinion, once formed. In fact, the word "stubborn" might better fit their resoluteness if it were not for the fact that they are usually right.

If you were born on this date, however, you should try to make your mentality more plastic by widening your interests beyond their present scope.

You are naturally aristocratic, both in your tastes and in your personal attachments—and if you allow yourself to become too fastidious you will not only cheat yourself out of a great pleasure, but you will also stunt your mind and lose your power over others.

You are both sympathetic and generous with your equals, but seldom with your inferiors, and often, with your superiors, as you are both tolerant and envious.

You are magnetic and have rather a high-minded way of using others to your own ends. In fact, you simply assume that they will do as you tell them, and a great many of them are so startled by your assurance that they do it.

You are fond of all that is weird and strange in life, and you could easily spend a great deal of your time traveling and collecting curiosities.

Emotionally, you are cold and unresponsive, but you are not without passion, and even a fine love for the person who knows how to handle you. You will not marry early, as you will shield yourself from attack by your armor of reserve, and until this is put aside your emotional self will remain hidden and unapproachable.

Successful people born on your birthday are Easily Reconstructed.

Professor Malton was in the exaltedly platitudinous mood that sometimes masters the wisest of men. As between alternate sips of coffee and bites of bacon he read the editorial articles in the morning paper to his wife, he remarked to her that if we "knew what our forefathers talked about at the breakfast table we could make history live."

Now, the professor's wife is a plain, practical woman, with a sense of humor and much impatience with professorial moods. She thought to herself that it is rather fortunate, on the whole, that history does not depend for its existence on breakfast table topics. But she said, demurely:

"It would be something like this, I think: 'Where's my newspaper? This coffee is cold. The toast is burned. This is a bad egg. Where do you buy this butter? For heaven's sake, keep those children quiet! Well, now, I must be off!'"

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg., Eighth and Indiana

INTO WHAT SIZED FARMS SHOULD THE SURPLUS LANDS ON THE IRRIGATION PROJECT BE DIVIDED?

Growing Fruits.

As we pointed out, in an early article of this series, orcharding has not been developed to any great extent in this section. Of the three fruits peaches, plums, apricots and pears are the only ones that so far have proven successful here.

This of course does not mean that other fruits will not be grown and irrigation, for no doubt many others will give good yields.

Peaches seem to be the most successful of the tree fruits and we will discuss them first as to their influence on the size of the economic irrigated farm unit.

Peaches so far as is known are not native to America. All of them were originally brought here from some foreign country. They are divided into five main races and all our peaches are from these races or their crosses These races are as follows:

Peen-to race comes from China and many varieties have been developed from this race.

South China race also comes from China. The varieties derived from this race are adapted mainly to sub-tropical climates.

Spanish race is from Spain. The varieties from this race are also adapted to a sub-tropical climate but can be grown further north than the South China race and its varieties.

North China race is from northern China where the climate is cold. Many excellent varieties have been developed from this race such as the Elberta Mamie Ross and others. This race is hardy and vigorous and grows in temprate climates.

The Persian race was introduced into Italy by the Emperor Cladius into Great Britain in 1550 and America in 1690. This race gives the lowly varieties grown in the north The Salway and the Crawford are examples of the Persian race.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Who are you dusky woman so ancient hardly human
With your woolly-white and turban'd head and bare bony feet?
Why rising by the roadside do you
the colors greet?

('Tis while our army lines Carolina's sands and pines
Forth from thy hovel door thou Ethiopia com'st to me
As under coughty Sherman I march toward the sea.)

Me master years a hundred since from my parents sunder'd,
A little child they caught me as the savage beast is caught,
Then hither me across the sea the cruel slaver brought.

No further does she say, but lingering all the day,
Her high-borne turban'd head she
Wags, and rolls her darkling eye,
And courtesies to the regiments, the guidons moving by.

What is it, fateful woman, so blear
hardly human?
Why wag your head with turban bound, yellow red and green?
Are the things so strange and marvelous you see or have seen?

LEGAL NOTICES

SHERIFF'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued by the clerk of the justice court of Dallas county, on the 27th day of June, 1923, in a certain cause wherein Sears Roebuck & Company is plaintiff, and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McClung, defendants, in which cause a judgment was rendered on the 16th day of December, 1923, in favor of the said plaintiff, Sears Roebuck & Company, against said defendant, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McClung, for the sum of eighty and 30-100 dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from date of judgment, together with all costs of suit, I have levied upon and will, on August 21st, 1923, at Wichita Falls, Texas, within legal hours, proceed to sell for cash to the highest bidder, all the right, title and interest of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. McClung in and to the following described personal property: One Silvertone phonograph and 17 records.

The above sale to be made by me to satisfy the above-described judgment for eighty and 30-100 dollars, in favor of Sears Roebuck & Company, together with the costs of said suit, and the proceeds applied to the satisfaction thereof. W. W. MURPHY, Sheriff, Wichita County, Texas.

No. 2, an unincorporated joint stock association, of which J. A. Staley, M. Fowler and W. Daniel are trustees, are defendants, and said petition alleging that on or about the 1st of January, 1923, the plaintiffs were lawfully seized and possessed of the following described lands and premises situated in Wichita county, Texas, holding and claiming the same in fee simple, to-wit:

Being 140 acres out of Block No. 89, and 20 acres out of block No. 95 R. R. V lands subdivision in Wichita county, Texas, as is fully shown by plat of record, and being described as follows: Beginning at the southwest corner of block No. 89; thence east along the S. line of said block 770 yds.; thence N. parallel with the E. line of said block No. 89, a distance of 1,005.7 yards; thence W. 770 yards to the west line of said block 95; thence S. with the west lines of blocks 89 and 95, a distance of 1,005.7 yards to beginning.

That on above said date, the defendants and each of them entered upon said premises and ejected the plaintiffs therefrom, and unlawfully withhold from them the possession thereof, to their damage $10,000.00. That the reasonable annual rental value of said land and premises is $5,000.00.

Wherefore plaintiffs pray judgment of the court that said defendants be cited to appear and answer this petition, and that the plaintiffs have judgment for the title and possession of said above described land and premises; that a writ of restitution issue for their rents, damages and costs of suit, etc.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 21st day of July, A. D. 1923.

WHEAT SCORES SMALL ADVANCE

Trading Majority Rightly Expects Crop Report To Be Bullish

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—With a majority of traders rightly expecting that the government crop report would prove bullish, the wheat market today scored a moderate advance in price. Closing prices were firm, at 1-4@3-8 to 5-8 cent net higher, September 97 1-8@1-4 and December 1.00 5-8 to 1.00 3-4. Corn finished unchanged to 1-4 cent up, oats at a shade decline to a like advance, and provisions two to 20 cents gains.

Corn and oats were steadied by the firmness of wheat notwithstanding report would be bearish as to corn and oats.

Provisions advanced in line with the hog market.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 7.—Although the fat cattle market held to a level that was about steady Tuesday, the movement scaleward was not as brisk as on Monday, and it was late in the day before the last of the supply was sent over the scales. Receipts were not excessive, but the supply was about up to trade requirements. The count called for 4,000 head of cattle and 1,500 calves. Less than a dozen carloads were available in the southern yards and they were not very desirable. In the native division the steers were of a desirable sort, but the showing of cows was both common and large. Some fed steers changed hands at a range of $8 to 8.25; strictly good cows, in small drafts, are bringing $4.00 to 4.25; canners are selling at $1.50 to 1.85.

An unevenly higher market was quoted for hogs, receipts measuring around 1,000 head. One of the 23 head possessed fairly good quality and sold to a packer at 8.20, a price that was satisfactory, but otherwise the only decent hogs on offer were found in the wagon division, where a few scales were made at 8.15; Most of the run cleared at a spread of 7.75 to 8.10. Striking an average, the market was around 10 to 20 cents higher.

Pigs met with the usual fairly good steady demand, and the market was called steady. Fat pigs sold to packers at a range of 5.50 to 5.75; but stockers made their purchases at a general range of 5.00 to 5.25.

Market conditions in the sheep houses were not out to a test, receipts amounted to only 300 head. Some odd shorn wethers sold around $6.50 but best wethers are quotable at 7.25.

COTTON EASES AFTER ADVANCE

Market Claimed Entitled to Reaction After Big Advances

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug.—Further advances on unfavorable weather and crop advices were not fully maintained in the cotton market today. All the five months made new high ground for the movement but after selling up from 23.40 to 24.18, or 44 points net higher and 336 points above the low level of late last month, prices eased off under realizing. October closed at 23.88 with the general market closing steady, net ten points lower on August, but 6 to 18 points net higher on October and later months. Liverpool fully responded to the big advance of yesterday in the local market, and the opening here was one point higher on October, later months were one to seven points lower, however and prices worked off right after the call on private reports of showers at two or three points in Texas, and the hope that these might prove the forerunner of a break in the drought.

Selling Encouraged.

Selling on these reports was encouraged by a belief that the market was entitled to reactions after its recent rapid advance, and the active month soon showed net losses of about 33 to 40 points with December selling down to 23.82 and January to 23.15. This decline appeared to be attracting some fresh buying when the market turned upward on covering by early sellers, following the opinion of the weather map and the official western belt forecast. The latter pointed to a continuation of high temperatures without any mention of showers except for extreme wst Texas and parts of Louisiana. There was also nervousness over the outlook for further showers in the eastern belt where the boll weevil is said to be growing more active and for a time the market showed 24.11 for DecemberETSAOOINOINN considerable strength, advancing to 24.11 for December and 23.80 for January, or 30 to 44 points net higher. There was sufficient realizing at these prices to check the upward movement and there were reactions during the afternoon on reports that some of the map readers thought there were still indications for showers in the southwest. Exports today 7,323, making 31,917 so far this season. Port receipts 4,763. U. S. ports stocks 168,867.

Two youngsters were sitting on the front steps thoroughly enjoying two pieces of ice they had begged from mother.

"Gee, but this ice is cold!" one of them exclaimed.

"Sure it is!" replied the other, with a world of scorn. "What'd you expect it to be, coming out of the refrigerator?"

Favorable Earnings Reports Help Most Issue Rise Higher

Features.

Total stock sales, 497,2000 shares. Twenty industrials averaged 89.55, net gain 1.04. High 1923, 105.38; low, 86.91.

Twenty railroads averaged 78.36, net gain, .34. High 1923, 90.63; low, 76.78.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Quiet strength again characterized today's stock market. Steels, motors, motor accessories, coppers and most of the rails and other standard shares moved to higher ground despite the sporadic selling of some of the cheap oils, leathers and a few specialties.

Earnings Reports Favorable.

Several favorable earnings reports made their appearance during the day and had a beneficial effect on sentiment. These included the semi-annual statements of the Otis Steel company, which showed net operating profits of $1,068,560 as against a deficit of $229,861 in the first six months of last year. The Maxwell motors corporation, which showed net profits of $3,072,532 for six months ended June 30, as compared with net profits of $2,018,266 during the entire year of 1922, and Mack Truck, Inc., which earned $4,044,478 net as against $1,5670,632 in the first half of 1922.

American Locomotive reached a new top at 74 3-4, but reacted later to 73 1-2, up 1-8. Baldwin closed 1 1-8 higher at 114 1-8, United States Steel moved up 3-4 to 88 7-8 and American Can was pushed up nearly 2 points to 89 3-8. American Car & Foundry jumped 5 3-4 to 160 3-4. Selling of the latter issues was founded on the poor quarterly report of American Hide & Leather, which showed a deficit of $189,134, compared with a deficit of $12,204 in the corresponding period of last year.

Foreign Exchanges Heavy.

Strength of the northwestern rails, which had been heavily sold in recent weeks, was the feature of trading in carrier issues. St. Paul common and preferred, Great Northern preferred, Northern Pacific, Union Pacific and Chicago Northwestern all gained 1 1-4 to 2 points. Erie issues also made good gains on reports of high current earnings.

Foreign exchanges were again heavy, German marks being quoted at 23 cents a million, on overnight depreciation of more than 50 per cent. Demand sterling dropped half a cent to $4.56 while French francs dropped 3 points to 5.74 cents. Heaviness of the exchanges was predicted on reports of an imminent collapse in Germany following disorders in Dresden and other cities.

Call money held at 4 3-4 per cent all day. Time money business was quiet but the market had a somewhat firmer undertone with all maturities quoted at 5 1-4 per cent.

No Time For Lunching.

Billy lived just three houses from Junior and they played together almostconstantly. It was nothing unusual for Billy to stay for lunch at Junior's. On this particular day Junior's mother called him into the house for lunch and Billy came along too.

"Hello, Billy," Junior's mother greeted. "We're just ready to eat; won't you stay and have lunch with Junior?"

"Nope, not today," Billy refused "I gots go home this time. I'm hungry!"

HIGHWAY HELP FOR WILBARGER

Highway Chiefs Say 40 Miles of Concrete For Price of Ten

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, August 7.—Vernon can get 40 miles more of concrete road for the cost of 10 miles. This information was given out here this week by R. M. Hubbard and D. E. Martin of the state highway commission after they had completed an inspection of the Gulf-Colorado highway from Plainview to Vernon.

Members of the commission had previously said Wilbarger county could get an allowance of two-thirds the cost on additional road building, but after inspecting the highway and the possibilities of the Lee highway, through Wilbarger county, the members of the highway commission decided that all the aid the law allows will be given this county in building more concrete roads.

The 40 miles, if built, will give Wilbarger county concrete highway from county line to county line in two different directions. It will connect up with the Wichita county road for the Colorado to Gulf highway and will bring the Lee highway in from Red river. The cost to taxpayers will be only 25 cents on the $100 valuation.

The members of the highway commission said the class of road that has been built in this county is as fine as any in the entire county.

LEGION NAMES HARDING GROUP

Meeting Plans Series Of Fights Nightly For T-O Fair

Preparations for its part in the Harding memorial service to be held here Friday afternoon were made by he local post of the American Legion at a meeting held Tuesday night.

The legion appointed J. B. Hatchett Luther Hoffman and Duncan Perkins a committee to draw up appropriate roselutions for the memorial. The members agreed to meet at the legion hall at 2:30 Friday afternoon and proceed to the First Baptist church in a body.

$300 Fight Profit Made.

A report on the fight activities that have been staged lately at Lake Wichita under the auspices of the legion was made and a $300 profit reported. A heavy expenditure in erecting a ring and getting the fights started off was necessary, so the profit reported was considered excellent.

The legion decided to stage a series of first class fights each night of the Texas-Oklahoma fair fair. The legion plans to bring some of the best boxers in the country to Wichita at that time and make the fights one of the big night attractions at the fair.

The post decided to buy material for a fine flag with the inscription, "Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion," to be inscribed on it.

Wortham Shows Coming to Fair Here This Fall

The well known Wortham shows have been signed to furnish the amusements for the Texas-Oklahoma fair this fall, Chairman R. E. Shepherd, announced Tuesday.

Shepherd and other members of the fair executive committee feel that in the Wortham shows those attending the fair will get a variety of high class entertainment that will be profitable and amusing. The Wortham shows this year claim a number of new attractions in addition to the well known features specialized for years.

The Wortham shows will feature among many others Viloet and Daisy Hilto, the famous grown-together twins of San Antonio, Watkins' huge allo autodrome, Wilson's monkey circus, with 47 simian actors; Jones Jungleland; the diving girls' congress and trained seals show, the Rocky Road to Dublin, built through a tunnel that has a rock for every turn of the wheels on the donkey carts; a trained wild animal circus, the laughable and thoroughly entertaining Karn family of fat folk, Tantlingers Wild West arena, Houston's whale show and deep sea exhibit, a laugh factory called "the jazzer," Noah's ark, built according to Biblical measurements, and last but not least, the fairy swing, the smallest ride in the world, which caters to the very little tots.

Waggoner Files Pair of Damage Suits in Wichita

Two damage suits, one for $30,000 and another for $5,000, were filed by W. T. Waggoner of Fort Wort, in the office of the district clerk Tuesday.

The first suit is against John E. Davis and number of joint defendents in which Waggoner is joined by O. F. Kolp of Wilbarger county as plaintiff. The plaintiffs allege up to June 1, 1923 they were possessed of blocks 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 15 and 16 on the Waggoner townsite at Eletra. At that time, it is alleged that the defendants unlawfully entered on the premises ejecting the plaintiffs, withholding possession. Damage to the extent of $30,000 is claimed and rent of $5,000 in addition to the costs of the suit are asked by the plaintiffs.

The other suit is against S. S. Puckett, Waggoner alleging that until April 19, 1923, he was possessed of lands in section No. 1, Seal and Morris survey, adjoining the Archer City and Electra road in this county. Waggoner claims on the above date he was dispossessed of the property by Puckett and claims $5,000 damages, rent of $1,500 and costs of the suit.

NO MORE BLUES FOR THIS NEGRO

"Poor Boy," negro known to local officers by that appellation, was arrested Monday night by deputies of the sheriff's department and 22 gallons of "choc" beer taken along with two negro women, one of whom sang "Lonesome Mama Blues," while she was being escorted to the county jail.

The still and beer was found in the servant house of an Austin street residence and hilarity was said to have been in full blast when the officers interferred.

BROKEN BANK BOX FOUND BY ALLEN

A bank box with the lock hammered in two was found in the railroad yards late Tuesday night by Night Police Chief Will Allen.

The box had the initials "T. H. D." on it and a card of a Frederick, Okla., grain and feed store, torn in half, tied to the handle. Frederick authorities were notified of the find last night and an investigation is being made there.

HART TO BRING BACK ALLEGED EMBEZZLER

Detective Luke Hart of the city police department, left Tuesday afternoon to bring back from Fort Worth, a man held there, who is charged with embezzlement here.

Detective Hendrix returned Monday night from Tulsa, with a prisoner and recovered a car, wanted by Wichita parties.

Old Home Town Stuff

THINGS YOU SAY, DO AND SEE AND SOME YOU DON'T

The Texan hotel is undergoing refurnishing and repainting during the dull summer season.

Mr. and Mrs. F. V. McMordie and children, Frank and Misses Annette and Rose, have returned from an overland trip to Dallas, Galveston and other points.

R. E. Anderson of the irrigation office boasts a classy set of pictures of the irrigation project, neatly bound in a blue book. But the classiest of all the pictures rests on the very last page—a sort of appendix effect. The caption underneath says "I'm going swimming in Lake Kemp." This particular picture would make Mack Sennett envious.

At last the long inspection junket for Texas Tech is over. Town Stuff expects to send his children to the tech school—some 50 years hence.

Harold Johnson of The Record News staff is expected back in Wichita Falls this week from a month's vacation in Illinois and Michigan.

"Drop a wild affair," yells the pink sheet rival. Yes, the Spuds dropped it—like a hot pancake!

Every boy who is undecided whether to be a "cop" or an engineer when he grows up should go out on the Iowa Park road and watch the "switcher engineer" hold up the autos. He will at once decide in favor of being an engineer. It must be just bushels of fun to hold up 40 or 50 autos for an indefinite period while you watch them cuss and squawk their horns.

Excesses: Jellybeans, snakes, buttons on men's coat sleeves, the top four inches of ladies' hosiery, patented cigar lighters, L. W. W.s, beer bottle openers, buzzy whips and limburger cheese perforators.

The boys in the irrigation office vouch for the wild yarns about the ferocious grasshoppers out at the irrigation dam. The "hoppers" are five and six inches long and devour anything. Once a few of them are knocked on the road by struggling Fords, their hungry brothers settle on the spot. Consequently, the next struggling Ford takes a toll of a few more "hoppers." Presto—before long the road is so greasy with grasshoppers that later struggling Fords have a hard time negotiating Crisco cut-off and Cottolene peak.

MORE ABOUT THOUSANDS

the party that alighted from the funeral train. The double rank of soldiers forming the aisle came to "present arms" as the casket was carried by, their bayonets flashing in the bright light.

The slow majestic strains of the old hymn filled the big building with soft music as the casket was carried through to the president's room.

Mrs. Harding reached the white house at 10:45 p. m., just as her husband's body was being taken into the president's room at the station. She walked into the house unaided.

Mrs. Coolidge Absent.

Inside the executive mansion which she had left six weeks ago as the first lady of the land, the widow, was greeted only by friends and members of the family. A plan to have Mrs. Coolidge and the ladies of the cabinet present to meet her was cancelled at her own request.

The little group that was to console her while her dead lay in the east room consisted of Mrs. George T. Harding, Jr., wife of the president's brother, Dr. Heber Votaw, the president's brother-in-law, and Mrs. Votaw; Clifford Kling, Mrs. Harding's brother, and Mrs. Kling; Governor Crissinger of the reserve board, and Mrs. Crissenger, and Director Scobey of the mint and Mrs. Scobey.

As Mrs. Harding stepped into the white house a shooting star dropped out of the heavens shedding a brief but mellow light upon the scene. A crowd of a few score who had been admitted to the grounds stood at a considerable distance until Mrs. Harding had disappeared beyond the portals.

Lifted to Gun Caisson.

President Coolidge gave his formal greetings to his dead chief as the casket reached the head of the aisle of soldiers, at the station. He stood hat in hand as it passed, then turned to follow with bent head.

The troopers were half visible as they passed, save for the dim lights flashed back in countless variations from the naked steel of their blades. The caisson rolled noiselessly on rubber shod wheels. The singles wreath of somber hues rested over the still heart of him who thus retraced the way he came in triumph to place and power two brief years ago.

The wide straps that bound the casket to its place looked like bands of mourning against the glory of the great flag that covered it.

Mrs. Coolidge Watches.

Behind the casket in long single file came the silent cars bearing the mourners, their dimmed headlights marking an oddly dulled light of somber night. Behind these and the last horseman came the rolling guns, the guns the dead leader hoped might never again give voice in anger.

As the funeral party wound slowly beneath the high window of the Willard hotel, Mrs. Coolidge looked down upon it to ponder who knows what lesson the solemn corefge carried for the husband so ruthlessly forced to high place by the death of his chief.

Swinging wide around the corner beyond the hotel where the bulk of the gray treasury blocks the road, the slowly moving troopers turned up the gentle hill of Fifteenth street in a canyon of stone and steel where the steel on their horses hoofs rang sharp in the heavy, close air. Another wide turn carried them into Pennsylvania avenue again and the last state of the journey.

Thousands were banked silent and bareheaded along the way and deep into the park over the way from the White House gates.

Famous Men Look Down.

The troopers swung on to turn in line and sit rigid with lifted sabers. The caisson rolled by them and on into the East Gate at 11:40 p. m., and then around under the old trees to the great door through which great men of the century have passed, but never more sadly than tonight.

Lights from the great chandelier under the porte cochere threw a soft light down on the casket as it was lifted down and carried tenderly into the east room with its endless bank of flowers from the kings and great ones of the world.

The casket was rested on a wheeled carrier to ease his weight gently over the door sill. It was drawn slowly through the wide door of the east room and placed with the head to west under the great crystal chandelier, with the portraits of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln looking down upon it.

President Coolidge and the others of the mourning party passed into the White House with bowed heads. So the new chief executive first entered on the scene of the great duties that await him in sorrow for the friend and chieftain who is gone.

Back In His Home.

A soldier and a marine bore the head of the sad burden and before it walked at slow pace the officers of the army and navy who had served close to the dead leader as his aides. Across the wide entrance way they passed, and Warren Harding was back again for a brief moment of rest in the home a proud nation gave him with his office in the fullness of its trust.

But beyond the south windows, faintly visible through the night was the pointing finger of Washington monument telling the greatness of another president. It also was dark, like the capitol, without the long beams of light that pick out a thing of beauty in happier times. It was dark and almost grim in its majestic bulk as if in sadness for the dead.

Still beyond in the darkness was the square white mass of the Lincoln memorial, lonely beside the slow waters of the Potomac. A short yesterday ago, President Harding with eloquent tongue dedicated this gift of the nation to the memory of a great president. Now he awaits honors almost as impressive, although not written in piled stone.

Mrs. Harding to Her Room.

President Coolidge and the cabinet officers, the high judges and the members of the congress who came with him, followed the casket in to the east room to stand for a brief moment only beside it, then turn away and be carried swiftly away. It was close to Midnight when Coolidge reached his hotel.

Mrs. Harding did not see the funeral cortege arrive. She went at once to her room when she reached the white house long before the procession had turned into Pennsylvania avenue a mile away. Her hand rested on the arm of her brother-in-law, Dr. George Harding, Jr., as she stepped again within the old doorway.

After the last of the official party had turned back from the east room, the guard of honor took up vigil for the night, motionless, silent, with heads bent to watch with a sleeping comrade. Silence and the heavy scent of the flowers surrounded Warren Harding again as he law, free forever from the care of state, to await the morrow and the proud honors his country will heap upon him.

Last Night in His Home.

Warren Harding was back again in the white house for his last night in the home that had been his for more than two years in victory, defeat, sorrow and gladness. Alone again with the loving and constant wife, the companion, the driving force that always spurred him onward and upward; home again with Laddie Boy, the Airedale pup on whom he bestowed his affection as a symbol of his kindliness for all God's creatures.

Out over the broad streets and avenues of the city, his thousands of fellow countrymen were going to their less pretentious homes in respectful silence leaving him alone for his last night in the white house.

All that was mortal of Warren Harding was home again for the last time, but his soul was out on the dark tide that flows around all the world.

COTTON CHANCE UP TO WEATHER

Weevils and Worms All Killed By Hot Weather Says Jones

Cotton prospects are entirely dependent on weather conditions and boll weevils, leaf worms and other pests are not expected to bother this season's crop in this area because the hot weather has killed them, according to County Agent Guy Jones.

The county agent says the cotton acreage in Wichita county has increased about 20 per cent this season over last season, the Iowa Park region putting in a large amount of cotton that has increased the average this year. Iowa Park made something like 400 bales of cotton last year. This season, if weather conditions do not ruin the crop, it is being predicted by Iowa Park people that the section there will register in the neighborhood of 2,000 bales.

County Agent Jones said it is folly to try to place an estimate on the Wichita county cotton crop this early. He said that from now until the middle of September all cotton putting on blooms will probably mature.

Montgomery Now County Judge In Place of Rogers

The members of the Wichita county bar met in call session Tuesday morning and elected Allen Montgomery as special judge of the county court at law to serve in the absence of Judge Guy Rogers, who is on his vacation.

The new judge called the appeal docket and took a number of default judgments.

WOMAN SLIPS ONE OVER HIM

Here's where a man got fooled by a woman again.

Frank Holaday, local attorney was driving down Eighth street early Tuesday night and at the intersection of Eighth and Scott his car was run into by a woman in her car.

The left rear wheel of the attorneys car was demolished. The woman driver stopped got out and began:

"Oh, I am so sorry. It was all my fault and I shall pay you for it. My address is—"

The woman gave a street number and said her name was Mrs. J. A. Thomason. She told the lawyer to have the car fixed and bring the bill to the address given.

Holaday a few hours later drove to the address given by the woman and it proved a vacant lot. No "Mrs. J. A. Thomason" was found in the city directory.

The attorney went away sorrowfully quoting something to the effect that whoever said "Frailty, Thy Name Is Woman," was eminently correct.

TEST SPUDDED IN 3 MILES SOUTHEAST

A test three miles outheast of town on the Lautenslager lands, Cherokee school survey was spudded in Tuesday night by W. E. Skeen. The test is a wildcat but not the first to be drilled in this vicinity another being abandoned some time ago. It is planned to drill 3,000 feet if necessary.

Traveller Dies While Camped On Wichita Ground

E. Gardenshire, who was traveling through the country in a covered wagon with his wife and baby, died suddenly Monday night at a camp pitched on a lot between First and Second street on Broad.

Justice Gibbs was notified and held an inquest, pronouncing the man's death due to tuberculosis. The body was taken in charge by Merkel and Lun, pending word from relatives of the deceased at Breckenridge.

JUSTICE GIBBS FINDS NO SLUMP

Four disturbers of the peace, as many vagrants and a traffic violator in addition to two couples who were united in the bonds of matrimony were those who helped Justice Gibbs while away the work-a-day hours Tuesday.

Judge Gibbs says there is no such things as hard times or a slump in business in his line of endeavor.

POLICE LET BOY OUT OF THEATRE

"Say, mister, I'm locked up in the Empres theatre and want out," were the words of a small boy over the telephone to Night Sergeant Thomason at the police station about midnight Tuesday.

An officer was sent to the theatre to release the boy. The prisoner said he had gone to sleep during the show and when he woke it was dark and he couldn't remember where he was for a long time. A telephone in the rear of the building kept him from having to stay in the theatre until day.

McNutt's Car Stolen

A Ford car belonging to C. C. McNutt was stolen in the downtown area on Scott street early Tuesday night. Police are seeking to recover it.

Dredge at Lake Given to T. B. Noble and G. C. Wood

The dredge T. B. Noble, its work at the irrigation project finished, has been given to T. B. Noble and Colonel G. C. Wood by the Puget Sound Construction company, it was learned yesterday.

The dredge draws five feet of water and is 110 feet long by 42 feet long. Just what use will be made of the dredge is yet unknown, but the facetious talk around the irrigation offices here yesterday was that the force out at the dam was devising means and ways of pulling the dredge out beyond the well known three mile limit. Just what connection there was between this and the dredge would be ventured by any of the employes.

It had been previously talked that the good ship T. B. Noble would be changed into a house boat, cruising up and down the majestic surface of Lake Kemp. At any rate, the construction company is through with the boat, it is known, and the dredge is now the property of Noble and Wood.

Wade Enthusiastic Over Wichita Irrigation as Big Engineering Work

Homer D. Wade, assistant manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, and secretary of the Texas Conservation association is anxious to have Wichita Falls well represented at the second annual meeting of the conservation commission, to be held at San Antonio Aug. 27 and 28. Wade is enthusiastic over the Wichita Falls irrigation project, which he declares takes first place in the program being pushed by the association.

"No one can have any idea of the magnitude of the Wichita Falls irrigation project without seeing it" said Wade today. "It is tremendous piece of engineering work. While I had read a great deal about it, and heard much of it, I had to come here and see it to get a true conception of its scope."

The West Texas chamber of commerce of which Wade is assistant manager, has enjoyed a phenomenal growth. There are now 272 towns affiliated with the organization. Since the taking over the Panhandle Plains chamber of commerce recently, there are now 100 counties incided in the organization, with a membership of 8,000. This makes it the largest regional organization in the United States. The United States chamber of commerce is the only similar organization which is larger in size, Wade says. All this has been accomplished in five years time.
