On The BEAM

By J. W. King, Sr.

With the coming of the new year it is rumored again that Loraine will be the scene of much activity in the oil business this year. Rumors have it that two or more wells will be drilled somewhere south of town.

Whether it will materialize or not remains to be seen. The rumor sounds good anyway.

The advent of the new year has also brought forth much activity on the farms hereabouts—the farmers preparing to get their land ready for another try at a crop. With almost two failures behind them, the farmers are going cautiously about preparations with prospects somewhat brighter. There is plenty of moisture in the land in most places to permit preparing the land for crops to be planted later.

Republicans are in high cotton now. They organized Congress when it met a few days ago, their first opportunity to do so for twenty years except the 59th Congress. And it won't be long until a Republican will be sitting in the White House to direct the destiny of this nation and almost the whole world. We hope they do a better job than they did the last time they had the opportunity.

Mitchell County Farm Notes

By County Agent Joe Cowan
Many farmers are seeking additional activities to supplement their income. Turkey and broiler production may be the answer.

Mitchell County is fortunate in having dealers of most all of the major feed companies, and the banks and other lending agencies are willing to help you.

Generally speaking, the feed company program is that they will buy your pullets (turkeys) for you and furnish the feed on credit till marketing time for a very small charge—in fact, for 10c per bird. Therefore, the farmer is not out any money on this program.

This type of financing is very ideal for our farmers with such an extended debt. There are many advantages for this. I would suggest that if you are interested in a turkey or a broiler program for you to contact your local feed dealer and each would be happy to explain their program to you.

Did you know that Mitchell County now has 52 irrigation wells? With many more farmers planning on exploring the possibilities on their farms?

Due to the feed shortage, and the poor price of pork, many farmers were forced to sell their breeding stock of swine. Therefore, there will be a shortage of good brood sows next spring and fall should there be a grain crop.

If possible, save a good young gilt for a brood sow; next fall she may pay great dividends.

Nearly half of the 12,000 bridges are inadequate for today's needs. Of the 6,365 bridges on the primary system, more than half are now inadequate as to load capacity, with and/or height.
 There are only 600 miles of fourlane highways built or planned for construction, according to the December 1951 survey.
 Principal reasons for unsatisfactory condition of the highway system today are the following:
 More people, more cars, and more travel, per car.
 Inflation. Forty six cents purchased as much highway maintenance and construction in 1949 as a dollar buys today.
 Forced suspension of work on highways during the war resulted in rapid deterioration of main highways under heavy wartime traffic.
 Long-continued under-financing of all phases of highway development.
 Gradual raising of load limits.
 The roads now maintained by this state include 15,894 miles in the federal aid primary system, 10,325 miles of state highways other than federal aid routes, and 20,691 miles of farm-to-market roads.
 The highway department estimates the following sums now are needed to modernize and maintain the system:
 1. Federal aid primary system 4,172 bridges $ 230,000,000
 1,952 miles of lane roads $ 85,000,000
 Modernization of present system 397,332,000

Veterans' News

Q I'm a disabled Korean veteran and I plan to take some training under Public Law 16. How much training am I entitled to get? Is it based on my length of service?
 A You'll be permitted to train for as long as it is necessary to become rehabilitated up to four years; that is to the point where you're able to hold down a job in the field for which you trained. Length of training under this law is not based on length of military service.
 Q I interrupted my training the World War II GI Bill to go back into military service. I've just been discharged, and I find that I'm eligible for training under the new Korean GI Bill. Must I take my training under the new law, or would I be allowed to resume my training under the old GI Bill?
 A If you meet all the eligibility requirements for training under both GI Bills, you could take your training under either program.
 Q I am a totally disabled World War II veteran. I want to convert my National Service Life Insurance term policy to some permanent plan of insurance. Is there any limitation because of my disability?
 A Yes. You may convert your term insurance to straight life, 20 year pay, or 30 year pay life. You may not convert it to any of the endowment plans, while you are totally disabled.
 Q I want to get a GI business loan to buy equipment for a gas station. How many years can I take to pay it back?
 A Under the law, GI non-real-estate business loans may be made for up to 10 years. But your lender has the right to ask for repayment before that time.

Mitchell County Soil Conservation News

How much good are we going to get out of these rains?

Nearly everyone has heard of the old Texas adage, "It takes rain to make grass." This is certainly true, but it all depends upon the fact that the rain must enter the soil to do the grass any good. A majority of the rain which falls on bare crusted soil is lost in the form of run-off. Not only is this rainfall wasted, but it stirs up the soil and takes a lot of it along too. This is wasteful in three ways. In the first place there is a loss of much needed water, secondly there is a loss of soil worth several dollars per acre, and finally the filling in of stream beds in a loss of clear streams, further down the streams it may result in slowly filling up a large lake with silt rendering it worthless for water storage.

Our drought is temporarily broken and we hope permanently. This prolonged drought has caused many farmers and ranchers to hold on to their cattle thinking that rains would come. This has resulted in many overstocking and over utilizing their native ranges. This leaves many bare spots in the pastures. Farmers and ranchers with bare areas in their pastures should not expect to receive full benefit from the rains that we have just had and from that expected in the future. This is because it takes grass and litter on the land to make the rain count.

Bare pasture areas will not take in much water even on a nearly level area because there is usually a surface crust which acts as a roof or shield which retards water intake and holds it up for run-off or evaporation. Under the pouring of a rain, bare soil that does not run off in suspension in the run-off water, works together and packs down, preventing any penetration beyond two or three inches during and immediately following each rain. Of course after a long wet winter the soil may be muddy and supposedly wet, but the rain that would have put a good "season" in the ground ran off and was wasted to that area. It is a generally recognized fact that in a good cover of grasses with lots of surface litter will absorb a very heavy rain with little or no runoff and no soil loss. During a field day trial north of Sterling City, Texas, in the fall of 1949, a heavy sod of side oats grama grass absorbed water equivalent to a 14 inch rain in a 2 and one half hour test. Checking this after the test it was found the soil was wet from this applied water to a depth of 21 inches. Also in shaving off this sod from the soil, it was observed there was only two or three inches side movement of the water. It was found that the water had been absorbed in the soil around the roots of the grass where it would do the most good. At the same time the same amount of water was applied to a bare spot about 20 feet away and the area of it was found to have entered the soil only 3 and one fourth inches.

An important fact that we must all recognize is that the comeback of our grasses suited for livestock production is going to be slow. Not only is much of our grass killed back, further than it has ever been before, but the soil is in such condition that it will take several years for the buffalo grass runners and the small delicate seedlings of other grasses to creep back across the bare spots and fill in the gaps. These grasses must cover the bare spots before we can expect to receive maximum benefit from rains.

Even the low value annual grasses will have a hard time growing on the bare areas for some time. The deep rooted perennial grasses upon which grazing is based will require several years to develop root systems capable of supporting a full grazing program.

In looking toward the next few years the farmer and rancher has several serious problems to face. He has the scarcity of grass, probable strong stocker cattle market, and the effects of two short crop years. He should carefully consider the thought of giving his pastures a full year rest or deferment so that they might begin to recover from the effects of the drought and begin to get in a condition to utilize the rains. The treatment the ranges receive this next year or so might well determine the prospective production for the next generation from the ranges. Another adage states that "If your plants are down give them a chance to get up."

Dimes Must Match Polio Increase

For the second time since it was inaugurated a decade and a half ago, the March of Dimes in 1953 will run for a full month from January 2 through January 31.

This decision was forced by the record number of polio cases reported in 1952 and the tens of thousands of patients stricken in previous years who still need financial aid from the March of Dimes.

Another factor which led to the extended campaign period was the considerable expense of carrying the research fight against polio out of the laboratories and into the ranks of mankind.

44,000 Get Direct Help
Of the more than 55,000 persons treated for polio in 1952, approximately 44,000 were assisted in whole or in part by the March of Dimes.

The field trials to test the effectiveness of a possible preventive of paralytic polio were underwritten by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in addition to other vital research projects. Some 55,000 youngsters took part in the trials.

Basel O'Conner, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, in commenting on the need for a month-long instead of a two-week campaign, said, "It seems that scientists approach closer to the conquest of polio, polio itself is mobilizing all its forces to attack mankind with ever-increasing savagery."

"It is as if the foe, listening to its own death knell, is testing to the limit the determination of the American people and attempting to wreck the morale which has sustained us and inspired us to carry the fight to the very threshold of victory."

"Must Not Falter"
"We must not falter now. With victory delicately poised in the balance against unprecedented problems we must throw all our weight on the side of the polio fighters regardless of the cost. We must contribute more devotion, more energy and more money than ever before to the 1953 March of Dimes."

Half of all money contributed to the March of Dimes is used by our county chapter to help pay cost of treating local polio patients or, in emergencies, polio patients elsewhere. The other 50 per cent finances the March of Dimes research, professional education and epidemic aid programs.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Philey and daughter of Anson and Mary Ann Jackson of Andrews were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Finley Sunday.
