Farmers Back 'No Cotton' Plan

MASS MEETING CHEERS LONG IN RADIO TALK

Jeers Greet Sterling When He Cautions Against Banning Crop

Senate to Start Hearings Today After Foregoing Pay for Session

AUSTIN, Sept. 9. (AP)—Several thousand Texas cotton farmers, gathered at a mass meeting here tonight, cheered Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana as he made an impassioned radio appeal from Shreveport, La., for southwide legislation to prohibit cotton planting next year.

At the close of the meeting at which Governor Sterling spoke, the farmers endorsed the Long plan of no cotton production in 1932. The motion to endorse the plan was put by a South Texas farmer. When put to the vote the ayes were by far the most vociferous.

"The 'ayes' seem to have it,' Lieut. Gov. Edgar Witt, who was presiding, said.

Sterling Speaks

Governor Sterling spoke after Governor Long's radio talk. The Texas executive was considerably heckled by admirers of the Louisiana governor. Governor Sterling said he was working for the farmer and would do everything he could conscientiously to help them.

"What would Stephen F. Austin think if he should awake from his blissful sleep and see legislature thinking of passing a law to prevent a man from growing cotton on his farm?" Sterling asked. "What would Sam Houston think if he would suddenly return to life and see the governor of Louisiana telling the people of his beloved Texas what to do?"

"Hurrah for Long," several farmers in the audience shouted.

Long Heard Clearly

Governor Long's radio speech was heard clearly over the hookup from Shreveport. Near the end of his speech Governor Long asked all those in favor of his 1932 holiday plan to stand. A large number stood. He then asked all those favoring some other restriction policy to stand and a handful arose.

The crowd was estimated between 7,000 and 8,000.

"When you get too much government in business you won't be a free people very long," Governor Sterling warned the farmers.

"We are not free now," cried a farmer from the crowd.

Governor Sterling urged the farmers to seek changes in federal government policies as a means of relieving their condition. He pointed to the tariff measure as detrimental to their interests and said there was something wrong with the distribution system which permitted starvation in a world of plenty. He expressed belief there was too great a concentration of wealth.

Rakes Hoover

In placing responsibility for the condition of the farmers on the federal government, Governor Sterling referred to President Hoover as "that spineless cactus at the head of the government at Washington." He blamed the "infernal Republican party" for most of their troubles.

The Texas executive took a jibe at Governor Long, stating that the Louisiana executive had more pajamas than any other man in the country. He has about 500 pairs, but none of them are cotton, Governor Sterling told the farmers.

Saying he was not a czar in Texas nor did he intend to attempt to be one, Governor Sterling said the cotton problem was up to the legislature and the people of the state.

Louisiana, Georgia and Mississippi were represented on the speakers' platform.

T. F. Hunter Speaks

Tom F. Hunter, Wichita Falls land owner and lawyer, was among the speakers.

"I've been over the nation for a year," he said, "studying the condition of the producers of raw materials, and their troubles.

"The ways and means committee of congress, which handles the tariff, has neglected your interests.

"The federal farm board, organized to aid the farmers has not yet announced a single policy. It is holding three and a half million bales of cotton over your heads. If it'd say it'll hold this cotton off the market a year, then not sell over 20 per cent in any year, you'd have a decent raise in the price of cotton instantly.

Board Must Act

"A resolution from this legislature, and from the legislature of other cotton states should ask them to do something constructive or get out.

"Governor Long is a friend of the masses, but I don't believe his plan takes everything into consideration. It would add 300,000 in Texas to the list of unemployed.

"It would be legal to prohibit planting cotton on any land that

U. S. ATTACKS COTTON STRIFE

Hoover and Farm Board Work on Problems

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. (AP)—Depressed cotton looked to the White House for assistance today while the farm board continued negotiations for the sale of surplus wheat.

From the executive mansion came word that President Hoover was conferring with bankers and cotton men on the possibility of arranging banking credits for exports of the staple.

He has talked with W. L. Clayton, Texas cotton man; Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board, and George R. James, a reserve board member, but only the theme of their conferenec became known.

Just after the White House interest in cotton exports became known, Chairman Stone said the farm board did not plan to ask the next congress for any more money.

He reiterated the board did not plan to buy any more cotton or wheat. This apparently definitely ended recurrent speculation on whether the board might again attempt stabilization operations in these commodities.

Stone said the board was considering several further wheat

Speaking at the annual conference of the Library association, he suggested doctors prescribe books by certain authors as a means of inducing sleep. He said:

Wife of Clarendon Sheriff Holds Two Prisoners as Third Escapes

Jail Inmates File Window Bar to Gain Freedom but Woman's Quick Action Foils Plans

CLARENDON, Texas, Sept. 9. (AP)—Three prisoners, awaiting sentences in the state penitentiary at Huntsville, attempted to break jail here tonight. One was successful in escaping, but was believed to have been wounded.

Mrs. Guy Pierce, wife of the Donley county sheriff, held one prisoner at bay, interferred with another's running away until her husband came, and shot at the one who escaped. She thinks she hit him.

The prisoners filed a window bar to get out. Mrs. Pierce said she had no idea where they obtained the file.

There were seven prisoners in the jail, but none of the others tried to get away.

The one who escaped was Belk Brown, of Tucumcari, N. M., sentenced to four years.

The second prisoner was Milam Brown, brother of Belk, who has five years to serve.

Both were convicted of attempted murder several months ago.

The third was "Sleepy" McDaniel of Clarendon, sentenced to three years for car theft.

Mrs. Pierce who lives at the jail said that she was sitting on the back porch when she heard a noise on the roof above her.

"I ran into the house and got a gun," she said. "I looked for my husband, who was out on a call at the time. There was only one thing for me to do and that was to go out and stop those men."

China Seeks Russian Support Against Japan

LONDON, Sept. 9. (US)—The growing tension between the Chinese Nationalist government and Japan, resulting from the execution as a spy of a Japanese army officer at Mukden, has given rise to reports in Tokyo that Nanking is seeking Soviet Russian support against Japan, Tokyo dispatches declare.

Captain Shintaro Makamura was recently executed at Mukden, capital of Manchuria, with a Russian and two Chinese. According to Tokyo advices, the Japanese cabinet has already agreed that, should Nanking persist in its refusal of an official investigation into the execution, Japan "must take necessary steps for protection of Japanese rights and interests in Manchuria."

FEUDAL RIVALS 'SHOOT IT OUT'

Former Mayor and Police Chief Die in Duel

HARTFORD, Ala., Sept. 9. (AP)—Chief of Police J. C. Roney and J. H. Radford, a former Hartford mayor, enemies for years, stood in the main street here today with left hands clasped on each other's shoulders and fought with pistols, killing each other.

While the shooting was the direct result of a street sprinkler's breaking a concrete sidewalk before Radford's home, officers said the two had been at odds for the past six months because of dry raids on the former mayor's filling station.

Radford and Roney met before the latter's office today. After exchanging a few words, they placed their left hands on each other's shoulder and with their right hands began firing pistols.

Roney dropped with four bullet wounds in his body. He died within a few minutes. Radford also was wounded four times and died as he reached the operating room of a Dothan hospital.

Gas Blast Fire Wrecks Railroad Locomotives

UNION, S. C., Sept. 9. (UP)—Fire which followed two explosions destroyed two locomotives, a railroad machine shop and one dwelling here late today and threatened huge storage tanks of the Texas and Sinclair refining companies.

Explosions which destroyed 10,000 gallons of gasoline and 8,000 gallons of kerosene of the Union Petroleum company started the conflagration, which still raged at 6 p. m.

The property belonged to the Union Carolina Railroad company, which connects with the Seaboard Air line.

PASADENA, Calif., Sept. 9. (UP)—The Carnegie seismological laboratory here reported two earthquakes today. One shock was felt at 5:42 a. m. and the second came two minutes later.

The quakes, according to seismologists, were approximately 750 miles from Pasadena, either in the Gulf of California or off the coast of Oregon.

They were described as "reasonably heavy."

Murray Challenges Farm Board To Reveal 'Actual' Wheat Stores

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 9. (AP)—The farm board was challenged by Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray today to show "fully, truthfully, actually" where its stabilization wheat holdings are stored.

Oklahoma wheat growers, he said, believe farm board wheat has been loaned to milling companies, and that "in reality a large percentage of this wheat is 1932 futures."

"They say that there is a surplus of wheat held by the farmers in their granaries and stored in various places on their farms and it is their opinion that the farm board is holding this 250,000,000 bushels of wheat, which in reality only partially exists, in order to keep the farmers from planting as many acres of wheat as they originally would and that, as soon as it is too late to sow winter wheat and the milling companies have been able to buy enough cheap wheat off the farmers to replace the wheat loaned by the farm board, the price of wheat will begin to advance," said the governor's formal statement.

Murray declared "if this be true, it would sustain my belief that the farm board was really created to prevent high prices of agricultural products."

"If the board can be required to show "where this wheat is in storage and the number of bushels they actually own that has not been milled," Murray went on, "it might help considerably in the present price of wheat."

Hope Diminishes For Pacific Fliers In Daring Attempt

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 9. (UP)—With each passing hour hopes grew slimmer tonight for the safety of Don Moyle and Cecil A. Allen, youthful transpacific fliers.

At noon they were 48 hours out from Japan. They had gasoline enough to keep them in the air 49 hours at most. Nothing had been seen of them since a steamer sighted their second-hand plane 100 miles off the Japanese coast night before last.

"We're beginning to worry about them," admitted members of the Seattle chapter of the National Aeronautical association. They had a brass band at Boeing field to welcome Moyle and Allen, who once peddled motorcycles and washing machines in southern California.

All previous attempts to wing across the treacherous Pacific have ended in failure. The plane of Moyle and Allen itself has been used twice before in such unsuccessful ventures.

Weather along the Alaskan coast was reported rainy. Moyle and Allen had hoped to skirt the Aleutian islands, skim across the gulf of Alaska and skirt the Washington coast to Seattle. Many ships were on the sea lanes. The fact that none had sighted Moyle's plane, the City of Tacoma II, was considered ominous.

Watchers, however, considered the possibility that they veered south from their proposed route to follow the north Pacific shipping lane, which would bring them direct to Puget Sound and thence to Seattle. There also was the chance that they might have made a forced landing on any of a number of volcanic islands in the Aleutian or Kurile chains.

Job Seekers Riot When Road Work Runs Out

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 9. (US)—A crowd of more than 10,000 men, seeking employment on county highway work, became a rioting mob today when the jobs ran out.

Many had stood in line all night waiting for registration to begin this morning. Those toward the rear of the long lines soon saw their chance for work was hopeless and they began breaking through the columns of standing men who had been waiting patiently. Fighting broke out all along the lines.

Age-Old Mystery Of Mathematics Partly Solved

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 9. (AP)—A mystery of mathematics, unsolved for 300 years, was reported a step nearer solution here today.

Prof. H. S. Vandiver of the University of Texas told the annual meeting of the American Mathematical society he had proved part of Fermat's famous "uproved theorem."

The theorem states it is impossible to find three integers or whole numbers such that if two of them are raised to a power greater than two (multiplied by themselves more than once) and added, the total would be equal to the third number raised to the same power.

Pierre de Fermat, a French mathematician of the middle 17th century, wrote the theorem on the margin of a book and stated he had devised a simple way to prove it, but died without revealing the secret.

Professor Vandiver reported he has proved the theorem is true whenever "the product of the three integers is prime to the odd prime power integer." In other words, the theorem is true whenever the power to which the three numbers are raised (the number of times they are multiplied by themselves) can not be divided evenly by a whole number which also divides the power evenly.

So far, mathematicians never have found a case in which Fermat's theorem does not hold true, but no one ever has been able to devise a mathematical proof it holds true in all cases.

DEFENDANT IN MURDER TRIAL TELLS OF 'RIDE'

Robert Burns Gives Long Account of Alleged Cruelties

SAYS LIFE MENACED

Prisoner Charges Captors Drank While Forcing 'Confession'

Direct and simple accounts of alleged whipping parties, beatings, threats and other abuse at the hands of local county and city officers were included in testimony given before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Wednesday afternoon by Robert Burns, negro, on trial for the alleged murder of Eddie Nash on last May 24.

Burns was on the stand for more than two hours in the hands of Ned McDaniel, defense counsel, and was still under cross-examination by the state when court adjourned at 5 o'clock to re-convene at 9 a. m. Thursday.

Detailed Narration

The defendant delivered a lengthy narration describing the methods by which he claimed Deputy Sheriffs Ben Smith and E. L. Kincaid and City Detective Luke Hart persuaded him to make a confession alleged to have been given Assistant District Attorney Mike Anglin.

Shortly after his arrest, the witness declared, he made one statement while being held at the city jail, and was released. Some days later, following his apprehension at Clarksville, Texas, he said, he was placed in the county jail. Demands for a confession of guilt on a charge of having murdered Eddie Nash, he testified at once were made by the two deputies and the district attorney's office.

Several days after his return from Clarksville, the defendant said, he was taken by Deputies Kincaid and Smith from the jail late in the evening. Placed in a sedan, he related, he was taken to a large field across the river, "somewhere north of the city," and was threatened with various punishments if he did not make a statement such as they wanted.

Charges Life Threatened

Burns testified that he was cuffed about roughly, was prodded with a gun, and that his life repeatedly was threatened as he insisted that he had no further statement to make. He then told of having been tied to a post, and of being beaten intermittently as the demands for a confession of guilt were continued.

"Mr. Ben, there," the negro continued, "he told me my life wouldn't be worth nothing at all if I didn't give them the statement they wanted. I thought they would kill me, or hurt me awful bad, as they said they would, and I finally told them I'd sign a statement if they'd take me back. We got in the car and drove back to the courthouse. We went to the district attorney's office, and Mr. Mike Anglin was there. They told him I was ready to talk, and he told me to go on. I told what there was to tell, and told them what I had told them before. Mr. Anglin, he wrote a few things, and then he stopped and said 'Why, this statement is no good. You'll have to get a better statement than that.' Then they asked me if I wasn't going to talk and I told them I was just telling them the truth."

The witness then related that he was returned to his cell in the county jail by Deputy Sheriff Smith. Outside the jail, he said, the officer stopped the prisoner and "called me every thing you could think to call a nigger" while demanding a "better" statement.

"Then, the next day," the witness continued, "Mr. Ben and Mr. Curly Kincaid come and got me about dark. The jailer always come up to the cell and brought me down, and they took me. They put handcuffs on my wrists, put me in the sedan, and tied me to the seat. We drove a few blocks, and stopped at a house where they called for Mr. Luke Hart. He came out and asked them what they had. 'We got a nigger here we're goin' to kill,' they told him. He got in the car. Then Mr. Kincaid drove on north, across the river, and out towards the field where they had taken me before. Across the river, but before we got to the field, the car

Bullet Breaks Neck Of Youth In Attack In Residence Area

Small Hope Held for Recovery of Shooting Victim; Girl Robbed of Engagement Ring Before Double Violation

Two negro men Wednesday night assaulted a 23-year-old Wichita Falls girl after sending a bullet through the neck of her fiance, Ted Nordurft, Fort Worth, as the two were seated in Nordurft's car on Dayton street just west of Brook avenue.

The girl, sustained by fear for her lover's life, fled from the negroes' embrace, after the double attack, pushed the wounded man from the wheel of his car, and rushed him to the Wichita General hospital. Attendants held little hope for his recovery. It was believed his neck was broken.

Every available officer was pressed into service in a city-wide search for the assailants. The officers were armed with sawed-off shotguns.

It was not until Nordurft was in the hands of physicians that the girl, a pretty brown-eyed stenographer in a Wichita Falls business office, gave way to hysterics.

Girl Tells Story

Even then, her concern was for her sweetheart. Quieted by a hypodermic, but unwilling to try to sleep, the girl recounted the story.

"Ted was on his vacation. He works for the Continental company. Saturday he gave me the ring. They took it, isn't that terrible?"

"We went to his cousin's house, the O. C. Smith's to show them the ring. Then we went on across the railroad tracks. I think it was on Dayton street.

"Two negroes came up behind the car where we had parked. Oh, I wish we never had gone there. Ted saw them and tried to start the car. They told him to stop but he kept on. Then they shot. Ted slumped behind the wheel.

"One of them stuck a gun in my ribs and told me he would shoot me if I made a sound. They robbed Ted. I don't think he had more than about seven dollars in his wallet.

Take Engagement Ring

"Then they told me to 'come on.' I thought they were going to kill me. They took my ring and made me go over in the weeds about 100 yards from the car. They kept the gun pushed against me. I was afraid Ted was dead and I think they were too.

"Both of them attacked me. They tore my clothing. I had read about things like that in papers but I never thought it would happen to me. I thought the world was coming to an end. Once I nearly fainted.

"Afterwards they told me to go back to the car and said they would kill me if I made a sound. Ted was under the wheel and I had to move him over. That's how I got all this blood on my hands. I think I stripped the gears as I started. I was afraid they would shoot and kill me."

As she drove through Harrison street after the assault, the wounded man, half-conscious and unaware of what had happened, whispered, "Faster, faster. Get somebody. I am numb. I can't feel."

The girl said she stopped at a filling station on the way in to the hospital but the attendants paid no attention to her plea for help even though Nodurft was obviously injured beside her.

Negro Is Boastful

After the quietening effect of the hypodermic, the girl forgot her own injuries in thinking of Nodurft. She said it had been too dark for her to identify the negroes, though one had proclaimed himself "Montana Slim and a bad boy." She said one was about 24 years old. The other about 30.

"I don't want them to bring negroes here for me to look at," she protested. "I don't want them killed if only Ted is all right."

"Isn't it terrible," she repeated, fighting back a recurrence of her tears. "I guess I don't know how terrible it is now. But I've got to go back to work. I've had this job three years now and I'm taking care of my mother. I don't want to upset mother but I wish she would come."

Every available officer, from the police and sheriff's departments, were searching with sawed-off shotguns for the two negroes.

With only meager descriptions of the blacks, the searchers had made no arrests late Wednesday night. It appeared that the pair had escaped, but the search continued unabated. Police of neighboring towns were notified to be on the lookout for the two.

Questioned by members of the posse, residents of the section in which the assault occurred, said that they heard no shots.

Hospital attendants believed the bullet had broken Nordurft's neck.

Nodurft was employed in Wichita Falls by the Continental Oil company until recently when he was transferred to Fort Worth.

HALL COUNTY FARMER SLAIN ON HIGHWAY

Landowner in Memphis Jail Under Charge of Murder

Special to The Record News.

TURKEY, Texas, Sept. 9.—J. T. Thompson, 56, farmer, was shot to death at the roadside seven miles east of Turkey about 9:45 Wednesday morning. John Moses, owner of the land worked by Thompson, was charged with murder. He waived preliminary hearing and was taken to the jail at Memphis in default of a $7,000 bond. The grand jury, now in session, will investigate the shooting Thursday.

Eyewitnesses at the Richardson filling station near which the shooting occurred were unable to offer a motive beyond the report that trouble over farm work had been brewing for months between the two men. They reported that Moses and Thompson exchanged a few words, not overheard, just before the shooting started. Thompson, unarmed, was shot in the back with a .38 caliber pistol and died instantly.

Moses declined to make a statement. He is married, the father of several children, and has lived in the community for several years.

Funeral arrangements for Thompson, also a husband and father, had not been made late Wednesday.

Murder Defendant Charges Mistreatment

stopped. All the time they all had been telling me 'not to lie to them anymore,' and that 'you better make a good statement this time, nigger, cause it's your last chance.' Mr. Ben opened the door of the car and cursed me and asked me if I was going to make a statement. Then he hit me in the eye with his fist. It swelled up bad and got black.

Says He Smelled Whisky

"Mr. Ben Smith then went back of the car, and took something out from the end of the seat. He went back of the car again where Mr. Hart was. They were quiet. Mr. Kincaid stayed at the steering wheel. I wondered what they were doing. I hunched myself around and looked out the back window. Mr. Ben and Mr. Luke Hart were drinking whisky from a half-gallon fruit jar. I know it was whisky because I could smell it, easy. They took several drinks. Then Mr. Ben got in the back seat with me, and Mr. Hart got in the front seat. Then they drove on to the same field where we'd been the night before."

The witness then related that he was tied to a post, and that while the three officers bombarded him with dire threats of bodily mutilation, death, and other punishment, he was beaten with pieces of rubber hose.

Agrees to Statement

"I couldn't dodge the blows," he testified, "'cause when I dodged from one of them, I just run into the other two. This Mr. Hart, he talked bad to me. He said he could tell if I was lying, and told me he'd kill me quick if I told him a lie. He said he was raised in East Texas, and that down there he'd 'killed him a nigger every day.' They told me they'd bump me off and toss me in that big ravine out there, and that no one ever would find me. All the time they were hitting me. Pretty soon—we'd been out there maybe an hour and a half, I told them I'd sign any statement they wanted—I was afraid, and I was hurt. While we'd been there, they'd taken a few more drinks, and that made me even more afraid, because a man that's drinkin' whisky ain't reliable."

The witness said he was brought back to the courthouse about 9:30 p. m. and taken into the district attorney's office, Mr. Anglin, he said, was in the inner office, and prepared a statement which Burns signed. It was written, the witness said, from declarations made by the three officers and to which he assented because of dreading further punishment. He declared that he read only a small part of what the statement contained before signing it, because he wanted to get away from his captors.

He was returned to the jail, the witness continued, after signing the statement, but within a few moments again was taken to the driveway by the jail to be questioned further by Mr. Hart.

"Mr. Hart set with his eyes shut, and his open hand up, like this, and said he was reading the truth from his palm, and that if I told him any lies, he'd know they was lies," the witness said.

Cross-examination of Burns will be resumed at the opening of court Thursday, it was said. Other defense witnesses will be presented also, it was indicated.

The defendant is charged by the state with having put strychnine in a cup of coffee for Eddie Nash at the Nash home. Burns is a step-brother of Varee Nash, wife of the deceased. The woman was acquitted by a jury several weeks ago after being tried for murder in the same case. The trial of Burns opened Tuesday morning, and is expected to consume most of Thursday.

NEGRO KILLED IN HOME FIRE

Charred Body Found Inside Door by Firemen

The seared body of Lafayette Henderson, 27, negro, was found just inside the door of his home, 1203 Tulip street, early Wednesday when the place was destroyed by fire.

He apparently had been awakened by the fire after the flames had practically engulfed the home and had reached the door when overcome, according to J. L. McClure, fire chief. Firemen broke in the door and found the body just inside. It had been badly burned by the flames.

Henderson was alone at the home, his wife and child having gone to Paris, Texas, on a visit. Origin of the blaze was undetermined.

Flames from the burning house spread to an adjoining structure, occupied by Ella Watts, negress. Heavy damage was caused there before firemen brought the blaze under control. Damage to both houses were estimated at $1,000.

Henderson had been a bell boy at the Marchman hotel since 1927.

Cotton Studied At Washington

deals but he would not discuss any of them nor comment on reports Germany has offered to buy 200,000 tons.

He also declined to estimate the money the board has left of the $500,000,000 given it.

He said the board intended to keep in "pretty good financial condition," adding it undoubtedly would need more money than it has if it attempted to purchase any considerable quantities of wheat and cotton.

In view of the farm board attitude, government funds apparently are not involved in the plan for financing cotton exports.

The credit might be arranged through commercial banking organizations with the cooperation of the federal reserve system to enable the grower or exporter of cotton to carry the commodity until foreign buyers paid for it.

The president was represented at the White House as feeling that the need for establishing credits for exports was more immediate than plans to cut production.

He also looks upon plans to cut the cotton acreage as the responsibility of the grower and the states.

At least two of those who participated in the cotton conference have had previous experience with export financing.

No definite plan has yet grown out of the discussions at the White House and they are to be continued through meetings or correspondence.

An airing of the board's stabilization operations in congress had been regarded as almost certain if a request for any sizeable sum were made by the board. Chairman Wood of the house appropriations committee has said he would oppose any such request. One senator, Reed of Pennsylvania, suggested that the law creating the board be repealed.

Assurance of a policy of leniency in collection of the drouth loans in the cotton and wheat areas was given to Senator Sheppard, Democrat, of Texas, today by George L. Hoffman, chief of administration of the farmers' seed loans section of the agriculture department.

Sheppard said Hoffman had promised that farmers could store their crops in government warehouses in payments of loans and the crops would be held for better prices for the growers, if desired.

As for loan collections, the senator was told that each case would be handled on its merits, so far as possible, and that "such leniency as each case justified and the law permits' would be exercised.

After a conference with Carl Williams, cotton member of the farm board, the Texas senator said he understood the board had no "emergency plan."

He said Williams assured him the board was campaigning to find new uses for cotton and that as a result he believed consumption this year would increase by 3,000,000 bales.

ELECTRA ASKS CUT IN RATES

C.-C. Petitions Power Company for Reduction

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Sept. 9.—Plans for making a plea for the lowering of Texas Electric Service rates in Electra were discussed at the weekly luncheon of the chamber of commerce directors Tuesday. The board of directors decided to write a letter to A. J. Duncan, president of the Texas Electric Service company, asking him if it is possible to lower the rates.

The board also expressed itself in favor of uniform closing rules of the stores for special events. The merchants, it was decided, should be notified six days in advance of the day in which they are to close because of a special event. Regular holidays and emergency cases will be exceptions. E. R. Brown, president of the chamber of commerce, presided at the luncheon which was held at the Armilda hotel.

Optimists Hear Needs of Chest

Economic conditions throughout the country which make larger community chest budgets necessary were discussed by Frank E. Jaynes, representative of the chest campaign committee, before members of the Optimist club Wednesday noon.

The speaker declared that practically all cities in the United States are responding surprisingly to the need for charity funds, and that the needy will be cared for as well or better than in past years.

Mrs. A. B. Short, dramatic soprano who recently moved to this city from Lubbock, sang "Roses of Picardy" (Haydn Wood) and "Gran'ma," by H. Sachs, with Mrs. J. E. O'Brien as accompanist.

Dr. Otto C. Egdorf made a brief farewell talk prior to his departure this month for Germany for six months of study. E. L. Buelow, formerly a member of the club here, and now a resident of Hillsboro, gave a short informal talk. The program was in charge of W. R. Hyer.

KIDNAPING RING MEMBERS HELD

Gambler Identifies Pair Under Arrest

CHICAGO, Sept. 9. (INS)—A solution to at least one of Chicago's many kidnaping cases loomed today when James Hackett, wealthy gambler, identified Monte Moore, an ex-convict, as a member of the gang which abducted him last May.

Moore was rushed to Chicago from Decatur, Ill., where he was captured, by Police Lieutenant William Cusack. He indicated a willingness to talk and may expose all the ramifications of the kidnap racket, according to Pat Roche, state's attorney's investigator.

Hackett also identified Joseph Yates, 38, arrested with Moore, police said. This identification was made from a photograph.

Besides Yates, a well known southern Illinois hoodlum, and Moore, three others were brought back here. They are Morris Lutrell and John Esslinger, arrested with Moore Sunday night, and a third man identified by Decatur police as William Wallace, suspected fence for stolen securities.

The gang is believed to be the same which abducted John J. Lynch, wealthy head of a race information service. Lynch was kidnaped last month.

Police would not reveal the name of one man brought here from Decatur. The two besides Yates and Moore was Morris Lutrell and John Esslinger. The suspects were said to have connections with a southern Illinois gang.

Moore Former Convict

Moore, alias A. H. Moore, alias Morgan, was released from Joliet penitentiary April 24, this year, after serving 10 years for robbery.

Moore, Yates and another man known as "Still Bill" Wallace, were arrested at St. Louis in July with $23,000 worth of stolen securities in their possession. Yates said they purchased the securities in Dallas, Texas. The Case was dismissed after the trio had been removed to Chicago.

Lieutenant Cusack said he understood that the gang in custody today was planning to kidnap a Springfield man. The reported plot was frustrated when the men were nabbed near Decatur on a charge of disturbing the peace.

A DECEPTION

That The Public Is Openly Warned Against

When You Go to Buy GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN for Pain . . . Watch Out That This Deception is Not Attempted Against You

THIS warning is printed to put the public on guard against a deception which may be practised against those who seek genuine Bayer Aspirin for pain, headaches or colds.

We take this means of warning you, so you may be able to protect yourself and family against results of such deception.

BEWARE!

Other preparations, we are informed, have been offered at times to those who ask for Bayer Aspirin; and even represented in some cases as being "the same as Bayer Aspirin."

Watch Out! Remember that years ago doctors warned the public against "headache remedies," some of which are heart depressants and unsafe for many people to take.

Then remember how Genuine Bayer Aspirin came. And was acclaimed the world over by leading men of science as SAFE relief for pain, and was prescribed without hesitation by eminent physicians. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

What folly, then, in the light of these things, to dose yourself with drugs of which you know nothing. Don't gamble—KNOW.

The genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets are made by a special process, under careful supervision of scientists, in the Bayer Laboratories, with over 25 years of highly specialized experience.

So when you want SAFE relief for pain, cold or headache, ask for BAYER ASPIRIN. You have a perfect right to ask for what you want. And an equal right to get what you ask for.

Look for the name BAYER on the package. And the word Genuine in red. Insist on Genuine Bayer Aspirin and refuse to accept a substitute.

DOES NOT HARM THE HEART

Gifford Names Aides in 24 States To Push Unemployment Relief

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. (US)—Pushing forward his relief program, Walter S. Gifford, director of President Hoover's special organization today appointed 24 state representatives to act as coordinators.

At the same time he issued an appeal for the establishment of state relief committees where none now exists.

Each of the state representatives was asked to consult the governor of his state on establishment of a state committee to coordinate the work of city and town agencies.

Gifford explained that the national organization's aim is to coordinate and strengthen unemployment relief activities consisting broadly of:

"The activities, public and private, to provide relief funds.

"The administration of relief funds.

"Activities looking toward distributing and increasing employment."

Important functions of the state committees will be "to encourage the most careful administration of relief funds by established relief agencies and by emergency organizations in order that aid may be extended to all in need and also in order that the self-reliance of those aided may be preserved."

Cooperating with the state representatives will be Owen D. Young, chairman of the mobilization of relief resources committee, and Harry A. Wheeler, chairman of the employment plans and suggestions committee.

Grain Moratorium Tried Out in Iowa

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 9. (AP)—Iowa farmer grain dealers are trying for a "moratorium" on corn and oats.

The Iowa Farmers Grain Dealers' association is proposing to its 600 farmer elevator companies that they make no sales of these grains until higher prices return. Fifteen cents for oats and 30 cents for corn, leaders of the association assert, are not proper returns. W. H. Thompson, secretary of the association, outlined the aim of the movement yesterday when he said that both the old and new crops would be held back "until prices reach a level where the farmer can at least pay the overhead and get through the coming winter."

Leaders of the movement said that grain dealers' associations in Nebraska, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Kansas, Minnesota and North and South Dakota would be asked to cooperate, and the action of the governors of Oklahoma and Texas in curtailing oil production were advanced as an indication of what might be accomplished with products of the grain producing states.

Swedish Bees Feast On Clover Substitute

HALMSTAD, Sweden, Sept. 9. (UP)—Grazing the bees in the blooming heather to make up for the failure of the clover to blossom earlier in the summer is the novel device resorted to this year by farmers on the west coast. The wet and cold spring stunted the clover, but now the heather blooms profusely and at night the bees are transported in their hives to the ridges where it abounds.

Pretty Wedding Ceremony Unites Popular Wichitans

All the grace and beauty of a perfect nuptial ceremony marked the wedding of Miss Zaidee McKinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. McKinney and Edd Gowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Gowan of Bellevue which took place at the home of the bride's parents on Tenth street Wednesday at 1 o'clock with Dr. Nat F. Grafton reading the impressive ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and close friends.

Stately palms marked the passageway to the improvised altar where tall cathedral candles gleamed against the background of southern smilax, asters and tube roses tinted in pastel shades making a beautiful note of color. A white satin runner led from the wide doors where the bride entered to the altar before which the ceremony was said.

Miss Price at Piano

Miss Mattie Queen Price of Graham presided at the piano and accompanied Miss Margaret Bone when she sang: "I Love You Truly" as prenuptial music. The wedding party entered to the strains of "The Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin and during the ceremony, Miss Price played softly "Indian Love Call."

Preceding the bride, Mrs. J. M. Palmer of Waco, the matron of honor entered, stately in her gown of yellow satin made on princess lines and carrying tube roses tinted a beautiful blue. Misses Madelyn McCarty and Rose Marion Art were the lovely bridesmaids; Miss McCarty wore pink satin and carried an arm bouquet of golden mairgolds and Miss Art was in blue satin with pink carnations. Both matron and maids' gowns were in the extreme Eugenie types, quaint puffs at the shoulders with the long sleeves wrinkling over their finger tips.

Bride in White

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage was exquisite in her long white satin gown fitted princess fashion with its shore train and cowl neck where she wore a piece of real lace and as a pretty sentiment, a brooch worn by her grandmother. The tiny leg'o'mutton sleeves fitted closely at the shoulder and pointed over her hands. Her long veil of white silk tulle was arranged in charming Juliet style, the cap being held in place by a dainty wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses that reached the floor.

Pat Hardage acted a best man for Mr Gowan and Elbert Childers and Jimmie Gamewell were ushers.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held, the bride cutting the beautiful wedding cake that rested in a nest of ferns on the lace covered dining table.

Leave for New Mexico

Mr. and Mrs. Gowan left directly after the reception for a week or 10 days to be spent in Taos, Eagle Nest and other points in New Mexico. The bride's going away suit was a handsome imported ensemble in navy blue flat crepe with a dainty blush pink vest and accessories to harmonize.

Mr. Gowan attended Southwestern university in Georgetown and is a pharmacist now in Whites Pharmacy, this city. Mrs. Gowan graduated at the local high school and attended junior college. Both have been favorites in the young society set of Wichita Falls. They will be at home to their friends on their return at 2131 Avenue I.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Through the long French doors that open from my bedroom on a little eastern balcony, I see almost every morning the break of day. A band of mauve on the low horizon, then lines of rose and gold that melt miraculously into the clear blue of the sky.

Roosters crowing lustily; the frenzied chatter of a hysterical hen; the occasional bark of a dog and somewhere in the distance, the clickety-click of horses' hoofs on the pavements.

It would be heaven if the virginal dawn might set the pattern for the day. But by noon, the sun is like a ball of fire. September should demand an apology from her sister August who stole the delicious first cool days.

How many lovers of nature in her quiet beauty would welcome a rest like a friend of mine is having now. Margaret Bowen is in the Spavinaw hills, some 20 miles from Tulsa and is revelling in the beauty and the interest of that section.

She bids me, by the way, look up my history on the immigration of the Indians from Georgia and North Carolina to these hills, saying it will make good reading. Records are terrific in their rawness and dramatic content.

As she wrote her letter to me she glanced out the window to see the seven mile lake shimmering in the sun. She was out on the docks alone fishing that morning at 4:30 and watched the lake and clouds "turn from real night into transiucent day." I remembered her letter when I saw color creep into gray shadows this morning.

"Just another miracle," Mrs. Bowen says, "but why do we forget that it comes to us every morning?" That is the spirit all nature lovers feel. That the miracles of nature are eternal; that there is eternal beauty for those who have eyes to see.

Though our days may be wretchedly warm, Texas has a breeze that comes with the night and the moon has every sort of witching beauty from the first silver crescent until it grows round and golden.

I heard Tuesday two inspiring talks on art and both artists preach the necessity of inculcating the love of beauty in school children. To develop in them an aesthetic taste is to give them a fortune of which they cannot be robbed.

That sense of beauty, that sixth sense called by Emil Hermann the aesthetic sense, is the thing that makes man different from the lower animals.

And though one may lose a fortune or may be banished into the desert, if he loves beauty he can find pleasure in the silver mist over a distant hill top or the glorious colors of the rising and the setting sun.

Honors Awarded In Kemp Library Reading Contest

Honors were awarded to 40 children when the summer reading contest, conducted by the children's division of the Kemp Public library came to a close Sept. 1.

Over 150 children in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades from the ward schools throughout the city entered the contest. It took the form of a treasure hunt. Upon registration, each treasure-seeker was provided with a gay chart on which appeared the names of 30 books selected by the librarian for the summer reading course. Hidden within the pages of each story lurked a special treasure which the youthful adventurer was supposed to recognize after he had read the book. Careful reading was required to locate the treasures—even when aided by the "clues" which were furnished on the treasure chart.

Those children awarded special honors for reading all of the books on the list and successfully locating the 30 treasures hidden therein are: Wallace Masters Jr., 1603 Hayes, low fifth, Alamo; James Falkner, 1804 Eleventh street, high fourth, Alamo; Phyllis Patterson, 1708 Beverly drive, low fourth, Acadamy of Mary Immaculate; Joy Campbell, 2011 Jones street, high sixth, Austin.

Those boys and girls who reported that they had read 10 or more books and had successfully located the hidden treasures have had their names placed on "The honor roll of treasure seekers" which hangs in the children's room.

They include: Jo Anna Bailey, high fifth, Barwise, Barbara Barnard, low fifth, Alamo; Lester Bennett, low fifth, Franklin; Clarissa Blacklock, low sixth, Austin; Robert Bohannan, high sixth, Austin; Mary Frances Brightwell, low fifth, Alamo; Martha Jean Briley, low sixth, Barwise; Ed Buddruss, high fifth, Franklin; Bobbie Lee Cole, low fifth, Austin, Dorothy Dell Clifford, high sixth, Franklin; Virginia Ruth Corbin, low fifth, Alamo; James Curtis, low sixth, Alamo; Annie de Montel, low fifth, Austin; Helen de Montel, high sixth, Austin; Dorothy Mae Doxier, high fifth, Alamo; Julia Lynne Duncan, high sixth, Franklin; Maureen Fulfs, high sixth, Austin; Evelyn Gardner, high sixth, Alamo; William Goolsbee, low fifth, Alamo; Roberta Gould, high sixth, Alamo; Ruth Harbes, low fifth, Carrigan! Helen High, high fifth, Austin; Mary Jean Hickernell, high fourth, Crockett; Georgia Hodges, high sixth, Alamo; Leonida James, low sixth, Austin, Virginia Bell Le Master, low sixth, Alamo; Patricia Maye McCarthy, low fourth, Crockett; Walter Perry Morgan, low sixth, Alamo; Bobby Parsons, high fifth, Franklin; Ralph Schoolfield, low fifth, Franklin; Mamie Stewart, low sixth, Carrigan; Ruth Thomas, high sixth, Austin.

The children's reading contest is an annual affair and is conducted for the purpose of stimulating interest in better reading. It is a means of directing vacation reading thereby making it purposeful from an educational as well as recreational viewpoint.

CONVICT DEAD IN UTAH RIOT

Hour and Half Battle Ends Prisoners' Effort

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 9. (AP)—One convict was killed in an attempted break at the Utah state penitentiary this morning which was frustrated by the refusal of Deputy Warden Wilford F. Giles to obey orders of a dozen prisoners who held him captive.

Louis Deathridge, serving a robbery sentence, was shot down by L. W. McTavish, a guard in a lookout tower on the wall, as he was scaling a rope ladder attached to an iron hook which he had thrown over the top. Deathridge's body was dragged into a cell house where mutinous prisoners were gathered by one of their number.

The deputy warden was released after Warden R. E. Davis, braving the rioters, went into the cell house and persuaded them to free his assistant.

A dozen convicts surrounded Giles when he entered the cell house this morning and demanded that he produce the warden. When he refused, F. C. Hertel, a convict, ran into the prison yard and hurled a prison-made bomb to the roof of the lookout tower on the northeast corner of the wall. Its explosion was a signal to other convicts and the riot was on.

McTavish, in the northeast lookout tower, fired at Hertel, who took cover, and then shot Deathridge down when he made his break for liberty.

Escaping the bonds which the convicts had tied him, the deputy warden ran into the prison yard in an effort to draw the rioters into the line of the guards' fire. The bomb also served as a signal for the guards, who started a general fire into the cell houses, keeping the convicts inside.

Leader in Solitary

Hertel, regarded as the leader of the attempted break is serving a sentence far assault with a deadly weapon. He recently tried to escape by digging the plaster from the wall of his cell with a needle, and has been kept in solitary confinement many times.

Deathridge was armed with a pistol, which he was prevented using on the deputy warden because of convicts grouped closely about him during their parley. The other rioters carried long prison made knives.

Giles' coolness in refusing the prisoners' demands that he produce the warden, and that he order the guards off the walls into the prison yard, was regarded as having thwarted the mutiny.

Rangy North Texan to Leave Post As Chief of Army Air Division

General Fechet, Native of Ringgold, Texas, Beloved by Men He Has Directed for Six Years

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. (INS)—A rangy North Texan who "grew up" with flying machines will step out of military shoes on next December when Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, retires from active service.

His retirement will take from the air corps one of its most colorful and beloved characters, and, if rumors current here are to be believed, confer upon civil aviation a man thoroughly grounded in aeronautical lore.

Fechet is a quiet, leathered individual whose conversation concerning himself is confined strictly to a biographical recital of a life which even a brusque army record shows must have been full of thrills.

Helped Train Army

He was in there whipping American youth into shape for the firing lines of the sky during the world war, and so well did he teach that today, more than 10 years afterward, many of his pupils are still riding in the sky, hauling mail or passengers. He has a name in the army for being one of its most thorough soldiers, game and tough.

His idea of teaching was not to instruct merely. He showed the boys what the old "Jennies" could do when flying was far more of an infant that it is today. He was flying the "Jennies," box kites, the boys call them now, when a roll and a spin was a threat to every quivering strut and inch of linen covering.

Still Good Flier

Fechet can still "ride the enemy's tail" with the best of them. He has flying in his bones, his men say, and never travels any way other than by air. He moves over his inspection routes in a black and red streak of a Lockheed, piloted by Captain Ira Eaker.

Fechet has been on continuous aviation duty since September, 1917, and was officially announced as on a flying status on October 5 of that year. He served in the aerial branch of the army under a temporary appointment to a lieutenant colonelcy and later a colonelcy during the war, but on August 6, 1920, was permanently attached to the air service of the regular army.

Rose From Ranks

He is one of the men who came up from the ranks in the army. He enlisted as a private in the 6th cavalry April, 18, 1898, and participated in the Santiago campaign in 1898. He was a distinguished marksman back in 1909, and rendered valuable service in all the campaigns in which the regular army has participated since.

Fechet's aviation service during the war, although it was one of the most hazardous jobs assigned to an officer in the army, was in this country. He was in command of various aviation fields, among them Scott field, Carlstrom field, Dorr field and Kelly field. His latest detail was commandant of the air service advance flying school at Kelly field, Texas, to which he was appointed in July, 1924.

On April 27, 1925, Fechet was appointed assistant chief of the air corps, and on December 20, 1927, he was made chief. Fechet is eligible for service as air corps chief for another four year term, but elected to retire in order to afford promotion space for officers down the line.

He was born in Ringgold, Texas, August 1, 1877

GROCER NAMES WIFE'S SLAYER

Negro Identified in Trial at Dallas

DALLAS, Sept. 9. (AP)—Tony Todaro, Italian groceryman, identified Walter (Bud) Curtis, a negro, in district court here today as the man who shot and killed his wife in a grocery store robbery March 29, 1930.

Todaro testified that the negro, who was on trial for the slaying of Mrs. Irene Todaro, held him up with a pistol and shot Mrs. Todaro when she entered the store unexpectedly.

"That's him," Todaro declared. "I could not be mistaken. He came into my store and ordered some sausage, then drew a pistol. He was taking the money from the cash register when Mrs. Todaro entered. She screamed. The negro turned and leveled his pistol at me. The bullet grazed my shoulder, striking my wife in the head."

Todaro said the negro then fled from the store. Curtis was arrested several weeks later.

The prosecution rested after taking Todaro's testimony. The defense, in attempting to prove that Curtis was not the negro who shot Mrs. Todaro, introduced testimony from several negroes.

Curtis was tried once before for the slaying and sentenced to death, but an appeal to a higher court brought a reversal and a new trial.

Markham's Career Leads Back to Crime Scene

DENVER, Colo. Sept. 9. (UP)—John Markham, 19-year-old small town boy turned "bad-man" today awaited action of authorities to return him to Holyoke, Colo., where his brief crime career had culminated in the killing of a hitchhiker.

Markham, who yesterday confessed he had slain Stanley M. Moore, young Michigan College of Mines football player when Moore threatened to turn him over to authorities for the theft of an automobile, looked more like a farmer boy in his Sunday suit, than a bandit who had committed more robberies than he could remember.

"WHAT'S the sense of paying big money for a package of cigarettes when you can roll 30 or 40 cigarettes with Target for just one thin little dime?

"A lot of men asked themselves that question and here's the answer! This cigarette tobacco is a blend of fine Virginia, Burley, and Turkish. It is manufactured exactly the same as ready-mades up to the time it is rolled into the cigarette paper. And that's where you come in—you roll 'em and save the difference.

"Ask your tobacco dealer today for Target. Here is what you'll get: A big package of darn fine tobacco wrapped in moistureproof Cellophane, and two packs of gummed cigarette papers. And if you like your 'fags' as perfect as factory-mades, trade six bits for a Target Roller and it'll pay for itself in no time. From then on, boy, you're rolling 'em on velvet! All this for one little dime; 30 to 40 cigarettes easy."

AND GET THIS!

The United States Government tax on 20 cigarettes amounts to 6c. On 20 cigarettes you roll from Target Tobacco the tax is just about 1c. No wonder you get such value for a dime!

Your dealer will demonstrate this Target Roller. It is the most practical device for rolling perfect cigarettes. It is guaranteed by the makers to work to your satisfaction.

ROLL 'EM BETTER THE GOOD OLD WAY!

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas ranks second among the states in oil refining capacity with 98 (of the 445 in the U. S.) plants having a daily capacity of 860,875 barrels. Construction of many new refineries since 1929 may have brought it into first place or at least closer to California, which with daily capacity of 927,180 barrels ranks first. Oklahoma (349,100) is third, New Jersey (307,000) fourth. With 114 natural gasoline plants Texas produces 20.5 per cent of all that commodity in the nation.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

Miscellany. . . . Fort Worth is to have another new passenger station, the Santa Fe announcing plans for a million-dollar structure on approximately the site of the present depot. . . . With its $6,000,000 freight and passenger stations nearing readiness for use, the Texas & Pacific starts work razing its old freight terminal to provide site for a new $175,000 out-bound freight house. . . . Houston municipal employment bureau calls for 10,000 cotton pickers for South and Central Texas fields with announcement that farmers have raised the pay from 40c to 50c a hundred. . . . Additional permanent jobs will be provided when the 3,000 miles of new gas lines out of the Texas fields are put into operation within the next few weeks. Workers at compresor stations, line-walkers, gaugers, well-tenders and the like will be put to work on the sending of Texas gas into faraway states. . . . Demand for Texas bonds continues strong. Not only did Fort Worth save $800,000 in interest in refunding $1,792,000 of its bonds at lower rates, but when time came for selling it developed that bidders were willing to pay a premium on the 4¼ per cent issue, the high being $18,457 above par and accrued. Dallas, selling $800,000 of city bonds received a premium of $26,000, the highest price Dallas bonds have brought in years. . . . Unfilled orders at Texas textile mills at the end of July totaled 6,321,000 yards, increase of 19 per cent over the preceding month and of 43 per cent over the total at the end of July last year. There are 21 textile mills in Texas, widely scattered as a rule. . . . Another indication that Texas conditions are better than in most other parts of the country is seen in the fact that while car loadings last month were down 17.6 per cent from last year over the country as a whole, the decrease in the Southwest was only 6.7 per cent with expectation that Texas would show an actual increase for the next quarter.

Death Bed Confessions

THERE is something mysteriously terrifying about death to a man who has wronged another and not righted that wrong. George R. Pond, a 62-year-old farmer who lived at Decker, Ind., found that out recently when he was dying. For 26 years he had carried the knowledge with him that he had killed a man. And for 26 years he had let the world think that another man was guilty of the murder. He had silently let the other man, Jesse Lucas of Mt. Carmel, Ill., enter the Illinois state penitentiary 22 years ago to serve a life term.

But the other day Pond realized that the game was up. The ghost that had followed him over his fields for more than a score of years had cornered him at last. Perhaps the fact that he himself could no longer suffer through another man's freedom had something to do with his confession. Not much, though. Twenty-six years of cruelty could hardly result in a final show of consideration. Men die as they have lived.

And George Pond was a coward. He was afraid to die with his secret, so he told it, hoping that some omnipotent power would count it a pleasure to give him a ring-side seat in a celestial kingdom.

Pond's death-bed confession, which reveals a pitiful miscarriage of justice, brings condemnation on one man while it lets loose a generous flood of sympathy for another. There is no need to dwell on the fact that the state wrongfully took away the best years of his life from Jesse Lucas. There is nothing to be gained in upbraiding the machinery of justice. It functioned according to its best judgment, and would not purposely have rendered such a decision.

Undoubtedly the man who went to prison has been happier during the years than the one who let him stay there. George Pond had to face the fear of discovery every minute. He had to live with his conscience. There is no need to wish that he had gone to prison. He filled a life sentence.

Jesse Lucas, the wronged man, robbed of freedom and happiness and branded with prison stigma, has been a victim of an injustice that can never be properly atoned. The story of his wrong has given him a hold on the nation's sympathy. Action to free him was started immediately after the confession.

This tragic error should make those who operate the machinery of the law exceedingly careful that such a grave mistake is not made again.

More About Right Turns

NEGLECT of certain phases of the new ordinance permitting right turns on red traffic lights in Wichita Falls is depriving many drivers the privileges allowed by the new measure.

The matter in question is the failure of drivers who purpose to continue through the intersection to come to a stop near the middle of the street while awaiting the green signal. The ordinance recently adopted stipulates that such drivers keep their cars near the middle of the street in order that those wishing to use the right turn privilege may do so near the curb. This channel of travel for right-turning cars also is designated in the ordinance.

The driver who wishes to make a right turn, after stopping, can not do so if another car already has stopped near the curb, for the ordinance as it now is being interpreted forbids his pulling around the stationary car. His channel of advance is therefore closed.

Passage of the new ordinance has met with public approval, for it unquestionably accelerates movement of traffic through the down-town section. But it can not effect the maximum degree of improvement until more consideration is given by drivers to channels designated for right turn and straight ahead traffic. Adherence to the requirements of the ordinance will often require that a driver stop one car's length from the white line, instead of "nose on the wire," but the sacrifice of that small time advantage in his travel will impose no material handicap upon him. His occupation of the right-turn channel does impose an unfair delay upon other drivers purposed to turn to the right.

A sense of fairness and courtesy will make painted alleys and punitive enforcement of the ordinance unnecessary.

Battling Disease

DR. HARRY COKE, working in his laboratory at Westford, England, has discovered a serum that is beneficial in the treatment of cancer. Every so often some such discovery is made. The sum total of these successful experiments without doubt will eventually do much to check this dreaded disease.

Tuberculosis, which still takes a heavy toll of life, had a mortality rate a few years ago that seems gigantic when compared to the lowered one of today. But scientific experimentation, carried on step by step, has been working out cures.

Cities aren't built in a day. Nor are disease cured with one discovery, as a rule. Patience, persistence, application of every perfected aid eventually, however, will make their influence felt. High praise should go to every medical man who is devoting his life to experiments that will cure the disease of the human race, and give it longer days upon the earth.

In keeping with the great occasion, profound formality was observed when a representative of China handed the check to a representative of Japan on May 7, 1898, in London.

India's Millions, For Whom Gandhi Speaks, Could Undersell World If Industrialized

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Now that Mahatma Gandhi will attend the second round table conference on Indian affairs here as the representative of "India's mute millions," a new angle on India's relation to the western world comes to light.

Gandhi is conscious of his country's possibilities and this is likely to cut a large figure in the conference, with the support of the native masses who almost revere him as a saint.

He knows, for instance, if India's 350,000,000 people ever become trained to western industrial production, that they can undersell the world.

He is familiar with the "report of the royal commission on labor in India," which, if its full implications were understood, would give cold shivers to British manufacturers and employes, and to Americans and Germans, too.

Turning to Industry

India, with its teeming millions, is just beginning to go in for mill industries. Already in cotton spinning and weaving in the big mills 338,000 people are employed; 347,000 in jute spinning weaving; 315,000 in engineering and metal works, and 155,000 in other big industries.

The vast bulk of India's millions will scratch out a scanty living on their farms. But they find it increasingly difficult to make ends meet, fall into the hands of rapacious money lenders and then set forth for the mills to eke out the family income.

Here they fall into the grasp of two sets of Shylocks—the "jobbers" and the money lenders.

Wages Shockingly Low

The scale of wages in the textile industries is shockingly low. Men get on an average of $13.52 per month; women, $6.36 and children $2.

A typical family budget shows that per month there is spent on food $6.70, including $1.76 for cereals, 38 cents for sweetmeats and sugar, 56 cents for meat, 44 cents for milk, 30 cents for vegetables and fruit, 8 cents for salt, 44 cents for condiments and four cents for tea.

Other items are $1.28 for fuel and light, $1.56 for clothing, 84 cents for house rent, 18 cents for tobacco, 27 cents for liquor and 88 cents for the interest owed to money lenders. The total family budget is $13.60 per month or eight cents more than the average male worker gets in wages.

In Debt All the Time

But the thing which particularly chains the worker to poverty is debt. He could possibly get by on the combined earnings of his family, if it were not for things peculiar to his people. Marriage is a great event and a man will often spend on his marriage rites and festivities the equivalent of a whole year's wages. This means he borrows the money from the local loan shark.

Births and deaths are also accompanied by great expense in the way of rites and ceremonies. The result is that the majority of industrial workers are in debt for the greater part of their lives. Many indeed are born in debt, because sons, when grown up, assume the debts of their father. This rests on religious and social sanctions, but seldom on legal ones. Most workers are in debt for sums equivalent to at least three months' wages.

Interest Rates High

The usual rate of interest charged is 75 per cent per annum and rates as high as 150 per cent are not uncommon. The native money lenders usually do not prefer the repayment of the debt. They prefer to remain creditors and receive interest.

Here then is a country with an ocean of people with wages lower than anything known in the rest of the world and with a standard of living on a level with such wages. If the factory owners could ever get them to approximate western production, working western hours, they could afford to pay them more and raise their standard of living. Laws could free them from the usurers. Their whole living conditions could be made happier. And they would still be working for such low prices that no westerner could compete with them. These are the Indian masses for whom Gandhi is toiling.

Tomorrow: The ablest leaders of Great Britain and India will participate in the second round table conference on Indian affairs at St. James palace, London. Who these men are and what problems they face will be told by Milton Bronner tomorrow.

Mahatma Gandhi and the millions behind him for whom he speaks at London. Here is a remarkable closeup of the leader of India's brown hordes.

REVOLTERS HELD

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 9. (UP)—Chilean sailors who mutinied and seized the battle fleet a week ago were under arrest today and units of the fleet were under government control at Valparaiso and Quinteros.

Girls' School Head Ordered to Appear

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. (UP)—Judge James Davenport today ordered Mrs. M. O. T. Swanson, superintendent of the state industrial school for girls at Tecumseh, to appear before the court tomorrow to show cause why Martha Nelle Mabry, 16-year-old Oklahoma county girl, should not be released from the institution.

Contending she was "unlawfully imprisoned" at the institution, her attorney, Jack Page, filed a petition with the criminal court of appeals seeking release.

The girl was committed to the school last July 21 after she had been adjudged delinquent. Efforts to obtain her freedom were sponsored by relatives at Greenville, Texas.

The Record News Offers A Booklet on Moths

While moths may be on the wing in steam-heated buildings during almost any month, they are present in greatest abundance the country over from May to July and during September and October. This means that housewives are now confronted by one of their anxious seasons. The booklet on moths, prepared by federal government experts, lists 18 different remedies for the control of these pests and indicates which should be used under various conditions.

Don't think you will not need the booklet because the moths have not bothered you yet. Send for a copy today, using this coupon.

Test it at our risk

Please don't take our word for these statements. All we ask is that you make the economy test yourself and be the exclusive judge.

Order a pound of Maxwell House at your grocer's. Prepare it in your usual way. Then if you and your family don't agree that it is the finest coffee you ever drank; if you don't find that it is real economy compared with weaker, Oxygen-robbed coffees, simply return the can with unused portion to the grocer from whom you bought it and he will return your money.

Oxygen can't hijack Maxwell House flavor

That's why the new* VITA-FRESH *Process is winning new friends for this famous coffee

ONCE you have tried your first can of Maxwell House packed by the new Vita-Fresh method, you will realize why you have never been quite sure about your coffee.

For Maxwell House, packed this new scientific way, is always uniform in strength and flavor. Because it is strictly fresh, not robbed of its precious fragrance and aroma by Oxygen, you can follow the simple directions on the package and get a superb cup of coffee every time.

Coffee flavor is highly perishable. Air (Oxygen) robs coffee of its strength and flavor.

Just read these amazing facts established in the laboratories of a leading Eastern University:

(1) Loose or bag coffee loses 65% of its flavor in nine days after roasting.

(2) Coffee in old-fashioned cans loses 45% of its flavor in nine days after roasting.

All due to the attack of Oxygen.

Think of it! Forty-five to sixty-five per cent of the flavor gone from nine-day-old coffee. Even vacuum packing, a definite improvement over old-fashioned methods, removes only part of the air from the can, leaving sealed in enough Oxygen to cause flavor loss and deterioration.

The new Vita-Fresh Process removes the air so completely that the most rigid chemical analysis reveals no trace of Oxygen in the Vita-Fresh can after packing.

Remember—Oxygen is the destroyer of coffee freshness and flavor. The Vita-Fresh Process alone gives full protection to coffee goodness. Maxwell House and Maxwell House only gives you this guarantee of full flavor, full value in every pound.

Infantile Paralysis

One might think from the name that infantile paralysis only affects very young children. It is true that the majority of cases occur with children under 10, but occasionally grown people may become affected.

The medical name of polio-myelitis anterior refers to the tendency of this disease to affect the anterior horns of the gray matter in the spinal cord.

Single cases of this disease occur occasionally in every community. Sometimes from an unknown cause it becomes a widespread epidemic. Most of the cases occur during the months of July, August and September.

The first recorded case of this disease occurred in the year 1841. The disease was originally named dental paralysis or teething paralysis. The organism which is associated with this disease is present in the brain and spinal cord of the victim and passes through the nasal secretions. The disease is probably contracted through the upper respiratory tract. Among the first symptoms to be noticed during the incubation period of three to ten days are drowsiness, irritability, digestive upsets, and stiffness in the neck and back. The paralysis is usually at its greatest height near the beginning of the disease due to the inflammatory toxic changes in the spinal cord.

In most of the cases the paralysis leaves as soon as the main symptoms have disappeared, but occasionally the inflammation in the cord is so severe as to destroy some of the nerve cell structures and a permanent paralysis results. The paralysis is usually noticeable by the fourth day.

The death rate is six or seven per cent of those affected, although this would probably be greatly lessened under the proper care.

This disease should always be suspected when there are symptoms of vomiting, fever, sleeplessness and soreness and stiffness in the spinal columns. The paralysis is usually at its worst after the fourth day, then for a few days the patient gets better swiftly, then comes two or three months when the improvement is very slow. It is very difficult to tell whether the child will be crippled or not, but where one leg is paralyzed the bones are not nourished properly, and this leg will not grow as large as the other. This danger can be avoided to some extent through the right type of manipulative and electrical treatments. No treatment should be given, however, as long as there is any inflammation and it may be necessary to delay treatment for at least a month, after which massage may be used. During this time the patient should rest in bed with the affected limb supported by cotton or pillows in as normal a position as possible.

To those who are interested in a more detailed treatment I will be glad to send my two articles on this subject. Be sure to send a large self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for the articles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Afraid of Blood Poisoning

Question—E. C. H. writes: "I lost my left foot and wear an artificial foot, and, of course, have to wear wool stump socks which are pretty high, so I know a family of people who have a spinning wheel and cords so I am letting them knit me some cheaper than I can buy them. Now, one of the family died recently with blood poisoning, and they seemed very careless with the patient. I would like to know if there is any danger of my getting blood poisoning in case of a blister on my stump. They were hanging the wool thread on the bedpost where this patient died."

Answer—There is very little danger of contracting blood poisoning through such a source as you mention in your letter, but, if you wish to be cautious, cleaning the socks with ordinary cleansing fluids should be sufficient.

Uric Acid

Question—The writer asks: "I would like to know how to overcome uric acid."

Answer—Your question, "how to overcome uric acid," is a little bit ambiguous as uric is found normally in making a urinalysis. When it is found in excessive quantities, it may be due to some diseased condition, such as rheumatism or gout. An exact diagnosis of your case would be necessary before I could advise you.

Swimming Healthful

Question—A mother inquires: "Would you mind telling me if it is against nature's laws for a woman who is nursing a baby 8 months old to go swimming in the river these hot days?"

Answer—I do not believe that swimming in moderation would be harmful.

Electra Launches Ticket Sales for Benefit Ball Game

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Sept. 9.—An intense campaign for the sale of tickets to the benefit baseball tourney to be held here Thursday and Friday got underway Wednesday. All the money derived from the gate receipts will be used to buy necessary school supplies for the children who are unable to furnish them. Supt. B. M. Dinsmore has announced that schools will be dismissed 10 minutes early Thursday afternoon to allow the pupils to attend the games.

The games will be worth the price of the tickets as the Electra Shavers, O. P. & G. nine of Burkburnett, South Vernon, and Harrold All Stars will participate. All four teams have played various games during the summer months and are capable of playing exciting games.

People are also asked to collect their discarded clothing and turn over to charity officials when they call for it. A number of children, it was pointed out, do not have sufficient clothing to attend school especially during cold weather. All who can possibly buy a ticket or give clothing are urged to do so.

Railroads Oppose Co-Op Freight Rate Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9. (UP)—Southern and southwestern carriers asked the Interstate Commerce commission today to deny the petition of the American Cotton Co-operative association for re-opening of cotton rate structure investigation.

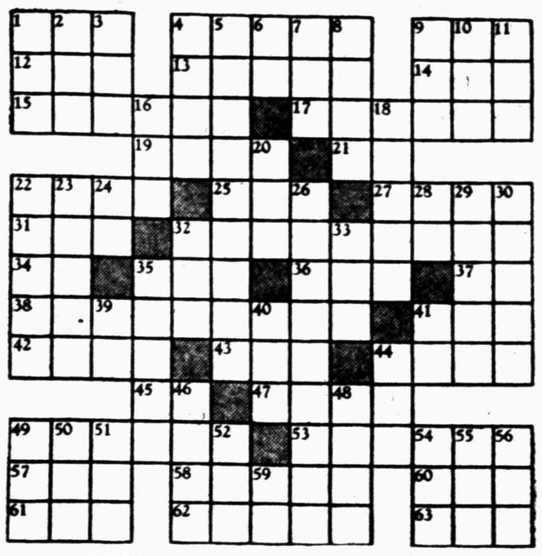

The A. C. C. A., asking further hearings, stated that further reductions and adjustments of rates on cotton should be considered. In their answers, the southern and southwestern carriers asserted that railroad earnings in the South had declined "almost to the vanishing point."

Crazed Man Slays His Mother-in-Law

WABASH, Ind., Sept. 9. (INS)—Mrs. Sam Eckles, 57, was shot and killed and her foster daughter, Mrs. Emory Templeton, 30, was wounded probably fatally when Emory Templeton, 35-year-old world war veteran, ran amuck with a .32 caliber automatic at the Templeton home eight miles south of here early today.

FERRELL WINS NIGHTCAP 2-1 AFTER SPORTS NAB FIRST, 6-4

MARVIN HURLS 4-HIT GAME

Drives in Winning Run in Last Inning

By FRED THOMPSON

Marvin Ferrell pitched and batted the Spudders to a 2 to 1 victory over the Shreveport Sports in the seven-inning nightcap yesterday afternoon, giving the Williamsmen an even break in the double-header which brought to a close the season's warfare between the two clubs.

The Sports won the first game, 6 to 4, behind the crafty hurling of Speck Erickson.

Young Ferrell did a noble job on the mound in the finale, holding the Sports to four scattered singles, and coming across with a double with two out in the seventh that scored Scharein from second base with the winning run. Scharein previously had doubled.

The Dallas series, scheduled to open here Friday, will open Saturday instead, and a double-header will be played Sunday, with bargain prices of 50 cents for any seat in the park, and 25 cents for ladies prevailing both days, President William E. Huff announced Wednesday.

As an added attraction Sunday, officials said Skipper Carl Williams probably will pitch one of the games of the double-header.

The one run scored off Ferrell was unearned, coming in the wake of two infield bobbles in the first inning.

Ferrell was opposed by Lefty Lee, whose six-hit performance was shaded by Ferrell in the brilliant pitchers' duel. Erickson in the first game was opposed by Pressnell, who yielded 14 hits to the Spudders' nine. Euller, with a home run and two singles, and Allday, with three singles, were the big guns in the attack on Erickson, while Scharein's two doubles, Ferrell's timely two-base swat, and a double by Gerken were the highlights in the second game.

Both Hungling and Bradbury suffered painful injuries in the first game, Hungling's forcing him out of the contest in the fourth inning. A finger on his right hand was hit by a foul tip off Mueller's bat. A foul tip from the same bat knicked Bradbury's finger in the eighth inning, but he manager to stay in the game.

A bargain day crowd of about 1,000 turned out for yesterday's double-header.

Radcliff Hits Homer

The Sports went in the lead in the first inning of the opening contest when Radcliff socked a home run over the center field fence with Cashion, who had walked, aboard. The Spudders had the bases loaded with two out in the last half of the inning, the result of Allday's single and passes to Gerken and Hungling, but Fuss fanned to end the threat.

Shreveport counted again in the third inning, which Erickson opened with a double. Whelan rolled out, third to first, but Geygan singled, scoring Erickson. After Cashion had skied out Radcliff singled, but Solters lined to center.

They added to their lead in the fifth. Whelan beat out a hit to the box. Attempting to bunt, Geygan popped to the pitcher, but Cashion doubled, Whelan taking third. Radcliff also doubled, scoring Whelan and Cashion. The next two went out.

Spudders Score

The Spudders, in their half of the fifth, got their third hit, and their first run when Euller started things with a home run over the left field fence. Allday crowded in his third single in as many times up before the side was retired.

The Spuds scored two more in the last of the sixth. Singles by Gerken and Bradbury and a pass to Fuss loaded the sacks. Scharein forced Gerken at the plate, third to catcher. Euller singled to left, scoring Bradbury and Fuss, and Scharein was trapped and thrown out between second and third. Pressnell filed to left.

Things went along at this rate until the ninth, when Whelan tripled off the left center field fence and scored on Geygan's scratch infield hit. The side was retired without further damage. In the last half of the ninth a Spudder rally fell short. Euller opened with a single. Pressnell singled off the left field fence, Euller taking third. Euller scored while Garms was forcing Pressnell, second to short. Allday forced Garms, third to short, to second, and Badgro popped to first.

Second Game

Two infield errors helped the Sports score in the opening frame of the second game. Whelan beat out a hit to third and continued to second on Euller's bad throw to first. Geygan rolled out, short to first. Cashion rolled out, first to pitcher, Whelan taking third. Radcliff grounded to Allday, who overthrew first, Radcliff continuing to third. Solters fanned.

The Spudders tied the score in the last of the second inning. Gerken led off with a double down the left field foul line. Bradbury and Fuss fanned, but Scharein's lift to shallow left fell for a double, scoring Gerken. Euller was safe on Winegarner's high throw, Scharein taking third. Euller stole second, but Ferrell grounded out, third to first.

Great Play, Scoop

Bradbury's single in the fourth was the only hit for either side in the third and fourth frames. A great play by Scoop Scharein on Whelan's grounder retired the Sports in the fifth with Rowland on second as the result of his single and Lee's sacrifice. Euller started the last of the fifth with a single, but Ferrell, trying to bunt, popped to third and Euller was doubled off first. Garms rolled out, second to first.

Another Sport threat was checked in the sixth. Geygan rolled out. Cashion got an infield hit to third but Radcliff lined out to Scharein, who doubled Cashion off first. In the last of the frame Lee mowed the Spuds down in order.

With one out in the seventh, Garms dropped Winegarner's fly to center, the Shreveporter holding up at second. Mueller fanned and Rowland lined out to left to dispose of the threat. In the last of the inning, with two out Scharein doubled down the left field foul line and Euller was walked intentionally. Ferrell then won his own ball game with a double down the left field foul line that scored Scharein with the winning run.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 9. (AP)—Reactions from an opening advance in cotton today were followed by renewed firmness in the late trading.

December contracts after selling off from 6.99 to 6.89 closed at 7.06, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 17 to 19 points.

Opening was steady 2 to 4 points higher in the face of relatively easy Liverpool cables and active months sold 8 to 11 points net higher during the early trading on covering and buying for both domestic and foreign trade accounts. The advance met considerable liquidation, while there was a little southern selling during the early trading, and local selling developed as prices showed signs of hesitation. The selling was sufficient to supply the demand and the market worked gradually lower during the middle of the day, when it may have been influenced to some extent by the easier ruling of the stock market.

October sold off to 6.67 and March to 7.18, making declines of 8 or 10 points from the high prices of the morning, but offerings tapered off on the setback, and the market turned firmer in the last hour on covering or rebuying by early sellers who appeared to be influenced by the continued absence of hedging. The best prices of the day were reached in the late trading with October selling at 6.85 and March at 7.37.

The weekly report of the weather bureau was considered fairly favorable for this season of the year, but was without any apparent effect upon the immediate market and was probably offset by rather more numerous reports that farmers were holding cotton in the South or selling very slowly. Selling otherwise appeared to be retricted by uncertainty as to the outcome to the movement for reduced acreage in the South or talk of other measures for aiding the cotton situation.

Liverpool reported spot sales for the day of 25,000 bales including 15,000 bales of Russian cotton, which, according to one of the private reports, was rumored to be for shipment to India. Exports today 22,861, making 333,926 so far this season. Port receipts 25,423. U. S. port stocks 2,757,582.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 9. (AP)—Cotton closed active and about $1 a bale higher today after a comparatively quiet and narrow start.

Poor Liverpool cables were an early depressing influence, but as New York opened higher and Liverpool reported spot sales of 25,000 bales, of which 4,300 were American and trade buying developed, prices turned upward. The market became active and firm in the late trading, taking a bullish view of a conference between President Hoover and leading cotton men to facilitate exports. Firmer stocks also helped the turn and quotations went 25 to 26 points above the early lows, closing at net advances for the day of 21 to 22 points.

Liverpool came in 4 to 6 penny points worse than due. First trades here showed losses of 2 to 4 points but the market soon rallied mostly on trade buying. October trading up to 6.75 and December to 6.98 or 12 to 13 points above the opening figures and 9 above the previous close. The market ruled comparatively quiet the rest of the morning.

Trading was active in the late afternoon and prices advanced sharply. The close was at the top, both active months showing net gains for the day of 21 points.

Port receipts 25,423, for week 71,319, for season 370,891, last season 1,058,754. Exports 22,861, for week 48,285, for season 327,539, last season 538,627. Port stocks 2,753,511, last year 2,023,713. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 39,272, last year 72,012. Spot sales at southern markets 24,646, last year 30,378.

Market Prices Close Lower Under Persistent Pressure From Bears

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 9. (US)—Stock prices again closed lower today, but the net decline for the session was meager in many instances, with preferred stocks of highest merit subjected to unusually heavy pressure forcing substantial losses. Railroad stocks in the early dealings suffered sizeable depreciation but rallied following announcement that the New York Central dividend had been cut to $4 from the former rate of $6. The action seemingly was in line with the very frequent market performance of rallying on short covering induced by realization immediate bad news is out of the way. The close, however, still found the rails down for the day and in new low territory for the bear market.

It was easily evident that bear operators were exceedingly active in various directions, attempting to unsettle prices further and that, as a matter of fact, they were being helped by considerable additional liquidation both domestic and foreign. Yet, among many leading stocks, there was a fair display of resistance to selling, possibly developing mainly from realization that the market has been declining for five successive days without a rally and that technical conditions alone might create a modest improvement, even if but temporary.

Market interest centered around U. S. Steel as bears and bulls straggled at the $80 level. Persistent pounding by the bears finally forced the stock below this price, but only for a fraction and it finally closed up a small fraction net at 80⅝. There were rather heavy buying orders, some undoubtedly of "support" character, in steel, but investment buying was absent. Steel preferred attracted a great deal of attention when it broke more than three points to a new low for the year. The selling was too large in volume to be entirely professional offerings; the pressure had the aspects of liquidation. Reports that the Steel corporation is unable to show any net income whatever under prevailing conditions undoubtedly accounted for the offerings of its preferred stock. International Harvester preferred was another investment stock to suffer a sharp decline, breaking 6 points to a new low at 130. Various other preferred issues likewise were sold at substantial discounts from previous prices, and the usual report gained circulation that an important account was being liquidated "at the market."

In a few stocks with unusually large bear accounts the day's performance was relatively favorable. Thus, International Telephone recovered more than half a point net and Westinghouse Electric was up ¾, and Foreign Power showed the smallest fractional gain. Buying in these stocks is purely speculative at present, with dividend uncertainty surrounding I. T. & T. and Westinghouse, and Foreign Power unable to show any earnings. The International Telephone officials continue to express confidence in the company's ability to maintain its $2 dividend rate.

Total trading equaled the previous day's two-million-share volume, but in the early transactions liquidation was very apparent and foreign offerings were reported constituting a substantial proportion of the total. There was little change in sentiment, which continued deeply pessimistic, especially as relating to European conditions. Yet, there was a ray of hope in the consummation of arrangements for extending banking credits to Germany. The weekly steel review reported somewhat improved prospects, although actualities of the moment continue depressing. The entire industry seemingly is concentrating on the wage question.

General Motors again had to bear the brunt of concentrated pressure, closing down a full point and at its low of the day approaching within half a point of the year's extreme bottom price. The selling appeared to be a mixture of speculative short-selling and liquidation. DuPont suffered with Motors, which was but natural in view of its enormous stake in General Motors' dividend prospects.

National Biscuit was in supply and broke to a new low under 50. The relatively high ratio at which this issue was selling, and which was frequently commented upon, was the main explanation for the persistent selling over the last several months.

Reduction in the New York Central dividend had been fully anticipated, but in the early dealings many rail shares broke to new lows. The best performances of the day were in the group of stocks which have received greatest attention from the speculative element of late: American Can, Case Threshing, I. T. & T., Steel. All these have sizeable short accounts and in some instances short covering seems to form the major portion of support.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 9. (AP)—Signs of relief from haunting fear that Russia would swamp the world with wheat helped to put some backbone into grain prices today. Trade reports pointed to a general downward revision of Russian wheat production estimates. An additional stimulus to upturns in prices came from announcement that the federal farm board was negotiating for further sales of its wheat holdings, and that the board did not contemplate asking congress for any more money.

Wheat closed firm, ¼@¾c up, corn at 1¼c decline to ¾c advance, oats unchanged to ¼c off, and provisions varying from 5c setback to a rise of 2c.

In connection with indications that anxiety over the Russian bug-bear was being dispelled, a leading Chicago authority said 20,000,000 acres of Russia's spring wheat seeding had been completed unduly late, and it was now becoming evident that much of this seeding would not make a crop. Another trade expert here reported besides that Russian advices via Liverpool pointed to less exports than last year, and confirmed spring wheat shortage. Early firmness of securities counted also as a steadying influence as to wheat, and so likewise did Kansas reports that winter wheat seeding was being done on dusty, cloddy soil, a circumstance foreshadowing likelihood of acreage reduction much greater than had been expected.

Corn underwent a temporarily sharp relapse, inspired by later weakness of securities, but rallied when wheat displayed comparative indifference to extraneous factors. On the downward swing of corn, September delivery fell 1¼c under yesterday's close. Some of the corn selling at this stage was regarded as for a heavy Chicago operator. Shipping demand for corn, however, was active, and liberal chartering to eastern ports was in progress. Meanwhile, scantiness of corn receipts aroused comment, today's primary arrivals totaling only 269,000 bushels, against 789,000 a year ago. Oats followed corn, and good oats were reported scarce.

Rye was steady throughout the day, attracting sufficient attention to have a bullish influence at times on wheat. News of actual exports of rye, combined with German crop damage advices, appeared to have interested speculators.

Eastern buying of December lard was a feature in the provisions pit.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Sept. 9. (US)—Traders friendly to the constructive side of wheat were encouraged by the action of the market today. They see no signs of any buying for an upturn, but grow increasingly confident that the market is dragging along the bottom with nothing to induce further selling.

Winnipeg wheat eased off with the cables and the bearish estimates of Canadian production. However, buying by seaboard houses furnished support on the dip. The market tended to firm up with Chicago in the late trading, but hedging sales met the stronger demand and prices failed to make much headway.

The government crop report is scheduled to be given to the trade after the close of the market tomorrow. In general a slight reduction spring wheat yield is looked for as compared with the August report, which would be in line with private estimates.

Traders are not so certain of what the corn figures will show in the government report. Some reduction under the August figure seems certain, but it is not expected to be large enough to affect the market.

TESTING A NEW SAND

The Deep Oil Development-Lindsay No. A-5 L. F. Wilson in block 75, A. T. N. C. L. survey, Chalk Hill pool in Archer county, is reported testing another sand showing oil at a depth of 5,175 feet. This is the fourth show of oil encountered since this test began its contract depth of 5,500 feet. Depths of the sands picked up are 2220 feet, 3614, the Ranger lime and the above at 5175 feet.

NORTHWEST OF CHALK HILL

Indications of a dry hole that will have a tendency to slow up development to the northwest of Chalk Hill in Archer county is indicated in George W. Cooper and others No. 1 Bridwell in block 122, Aldredge survey. The well, a wildcat one mile northwest of the production, has already passed below the depth of 2290 feet and so far missed the sand from which the pools production is received.

TRAHAN AND OTHERS

Paul Trahan and associates No. 1 Coleman ranch, located in the southeast quater of section 74, A. T. N. C. L. survey, three miles northeast of Archer City in Archer county, will drill out the plug sometime Monday to test. The sand showing plenty of oil, and a factor in the extension of the 2200 foot sand was topped at 2196 feet.

JACK MARTIN AND OTHERS

Jack Martin and associates No. 1 Kemp City in block 35, W. V. F. L., south Wichita county, completed 10 days ago and placed on the pump estimated at 140 barrels, may clabber at anytime. The well at present has alternate production. One day it pumps oil and the next day produces salt water.

HOUSE HEARS COTTON PLANS

Farmers Plead for Quick Control Action

had not had a two-year rest from cotton, and then to require rotation of crops."

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, stated he was for the Long plan. The crowd cried, "Pour it on." Talmadge sat down about three minutes before Long was scheduled to come on the air from Shreveport. When the crowd discovered there were three minutes left they yelled, "Georgia, Georgia, Georgia," and Talmadge said a few more words.

Talmadge predicted Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina and other states would adopt the 1932 cotton holiday plan if Texas should set the precedent.

Governor Long predicted if the cotton holiday plan should be adopted the price of this year's crop would rise from its present level of six cents to around 20 cents. Any halfway measure would not help and the price would likely drop," he said.

"You of the Texas legislature have the opportunity of giving your farmers $375,000,000 this year," he said. Texas will produce approximately 5,000,000 bales of cotton this year according to present government estimates and at 20 cents a pound that would be about $500,000,000.

Governor Long had planned to attend the mass meeting in person but was unable to leave the state. Four Louisiana representatives, including O. K. Allen, Louisiana highway commissioner, attended the meeting.

The mass meeting was called for the purpose of impressing upon the legislators the urgency of cotton legislation. The special cotton session called by Governor Sterling opened here Tuesday. Poll of the legislators previous to the calling of the session indicated they were overwhelmingly in favor of the McDonald curtailment plan as opposed to the Long prohibition program. The McDonald plan provides for a 50 per cent reduction in cotton planting in 1932.

AUSTIN, Sept. 9. (AP)—Farmers wearing blue jeans and cotton shirts invaded the legislature today to plead with the house of representatives for speedy action on a cotton acreage control bill.

While a band was playing before the doors of the capitol announcing a mass meeting of farmers here tonight, the "horny handed sons of toil," made their appearance on the floor of the house.

Their appearance was made before the house sitting as a committee of the whole to consider cotton acreage control bills. The bills were taken from the committee on agriculture by the house in the belief speedier action would be obtained with the house setting as a committee.

Hearings Today

The agricultural committee of the senate will start its hearings tomorrow, Senator Oliver Cunningham of Abilene said he hoped to get a bill out "as soon as possible."

The senate today voted to meet during the farmer's session without pay. They cut the mileage and per diem out of a house concurrent resolution authorizing $10 per day and the same mileage as allowed at regular sessions. The house yesterday passed a bill appropriating $50,000 to pay salaries of members.

J. W. Briggs of Fannin county urged the legislature to forget petty differences and not to confuse the situation or "fuss" about it. "This is a trying age; we are living in the middle of over-production and starving to death," Briggs stated.

Bills Explained

Briggs was applauded loudly as he finished his talk with an appeal for speedy action. He spoke against the Long "No-Cotton in 1932" plan and favored reduction of from one-half to 75 per cent.

Before Briggs was allowed to speak authors of the bills pending in the house were permitted to explain their proposals.

The "no-cotton" bill was explained by Representative Victor Gilbert of Cisco. Gilbert said passage of this law, already passed by the Louisiana legislature, would cause buyers to make a scramble for this year's crop to fill their needs for next year and would materially enhance the value of the current production.

It also would teach farmers the value of diversification and to live out of the farm cupboard instead of out of a tin can and paper sack, Gilbert said.

His statement "it is the best the legislature can adopt," drew considerable applause.

50 Per Cent Cut

A bill by Representative Gordon Burns of Huntsville would cut cotton acreage in 1932 to 50 per cent of the 1931 acreage.

The bill expected to draw most of the support was explained by Representative J. J. Olsen of Yoakum. It would limit cotton acreage in 1932 to one-third the land in cultivation in 1931 and one-half in 1933. It also would prohibit planting the same acreage to cotton on successive years.

Representative H. H. Hansen of Tyler offered his bill for no cotton in 1932 and one-half in 1933.

Board Proposed

Representative Pat Dwyer of San Antonio offered a bill whereby a state agricultural equalization board would be established with authority to buy and sell and regulate production of farm commodities. Dwyer recommended the board be established and that it buy immediately 3,000,000 bales of cotton at 10 cents per pound. Deficiency warrants would be used to make the purchase.

"Then pass a bill with teeth in it and require reduction of production and the problem will be solved," Dwyer said.

Senator Joe Moore of Greenville introduced a bill to establish a cotton relief fund, the fund to be raised by assessments on automobiles, banks, cotton, exchanges, cotton futures, malt, ginger ale, gasoline, radios and other items.

Money would be loaned from the fund to farmers who would agree to reduce their acreage 25 per cent each year they were forced to borrow. Loans would be made only on cotton with a staple of seven-eights of an inch or more.

Moore estimated $25,000,000 would be available the first year for the fund.

SOUTH CAROLINA ACTS

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 9. (AP)—Governor Blackwood this afternoon announced he would call the South Carolina legislature to meet in an extra session next Monday at noon to consider the cotton price situation.

British Cabinet Asks Dictatorial Powers to Handle Budget Crisis

Coalition Government Supported in Emergency Measure Lopping $48,500,000 From Public Works Loan

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

LONDON, Sept. 9. (US)—The house of commons, called in an emergency to "stabilize" Great Britain, tonight voted to lop off $48,500,000 from the state's loans for public works.

The cut represents a slash of one-third in the previous budget figure, reducing the public works loans from 30,000,000 pounds to 20,000,000 pounds sterling.

Commons voted 281 to 182 for the budget cut, giving the coalition government of Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald a majority of 99 votes, or 40 more than the government received in the vote of confidence upon the reopening of parliament.

Drastic Powers

The attention of Great Britain and the world will be focused tomorrow on Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden and his little red portfolio, out of which must come some solution for the country's gravest financial crisis of a decade.

The cabinet today asked for drastic powers to make its economy program the law of the land with the least possible delay. The prime minister formally presented the national economy bill to commons, asking authorization for making "orders in council." The second reading of the bill is set for Friday.

Chancellor Snowden, grim little Yorkshireman, after an hour's speech tomorrow morning in the house of commons, will lay before parliament the emergency budget of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's coalition cabinet. In the budget will be measures for overcoming a budget deficit of more than $500,000,000 by means of nation-wide sacrifices.

There will be no mincing of words and no delaying of action, for the government is prepared to use a parliamentary "guillotine" to cut off obstructive debates.

The dictatorial powers of "orders in council" were resorted to under the emergency powers act to deal with the general strike of 1926. The prime minister today requested authority to make "orders in council" to slash the budget wherever necessary and to impose new taxation. Financial circles fear that among the new taxes will be a rise in the income tax rate.

The blanket authority asked by the premier would vest in the government power equal to that assumed by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany by virtue of now famous "emergency decrees" establishing the government as a financial dictatorship.

Although the details of budget measures are yet to be filled in the privy council, it was learned that Chancellor Snowden's supplementary budget will provide for economies by budget slashes totaling about $465,600,000, leaving about $121,250,000 to be provided by new taxation to balance the budget.

TEXAS CROP PUT AT 5,094,000 BALES

AUSTIN, Sept. 9. (AP)—The United States department of agriculture today forecast the Texas cotton crop this year at 5,094,000 bales.

The report estimated the condition Sept. 1 at 67 per cent of normal compared with 53 per cent last year and 54 the 10-year average.

The Sept. 1 condition was reported the highest since 1920 when it was the same. The southern district was the only section where the conditions was lower than a year ago.

The condition in the various districts follow: northwest, 70, last year 43; north, 71, last year 51; northeast 71, last year 47; west, 82, last year 72; west central, 71, last year, 35; central, 65, last year 59; east, 68, last year 55; south 53, last year 74; southeast, 72, last year 72.

LONG ADDRESSES MEETING BY RADIO

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 9. (AP)—From station KWKH tonight, Gov. Huey P. Long addressed a cotton relief mass meeting at Austin, Texas, in which he urged the Texas legislators to adopt his no-1932-cotton plan as the only constitutional and enforceable relief measure for the farmer.

He raked "lobbyists," who he said were in Austin representing the "moneyed interests" trying to block cotton legislation.

"They are there among you right now," shouted the governor. "They are there trying to suck you in and they know no more about cotton than a hog does about a side-saddle. Watch out for them and don't let them put anything over on you."

Governor Long said his cotton abandonment plan was the only plan that would work and the only one that would stand the test of constitutionality.

"I have looked up the law," he said. "The law said that a cotton crop can be stopped by law to eliminate the boll weevil. It does not say anything about reducing the acreage. It says stop the planting of cotton. A 50 per cent reduction would not stand the constitutional test and it would take 50 times more agents to enforce it than it takes for the present Volstead act.

"You must quit growing cotton for one year if you are to get relief," he said. "You can't take any half-way measure. You must go all the way."

The governor said other southern states were prepared to "fall in line" if Texas acted.

ROOSEVELT TO HAVE GOP AID

Republicans Won't Obstruct Employment Plan

NEW YORK, Sept. 9. (AP)—The powerful support of the Republican state chairman was placed today behind the unemployment relief proposals presented to the state legislature by New York's Democratic governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Although no official announcement was made, it was learned at Republican state headquarters here that Chairman W. Kingsland Macy had sent word to Albany the Republican party must avoid any charges of obstructive tactics.

Barring a breach within the Republican ranks, such as occurred temporarily over the New York City investigation measure last winter, New York newspapers predicted early passage of the governor's unemployment relief program.

This provides for establishment of an emergency commission of three, named by the governor, to administer the contemplated $20,000,000 fund which Roosevelt plans to obtain by increased income taxes.

First intimation Chairman Macy had decided to support the Roosevelt-Democratic program came when the Long Island delegation in the legislature, representing Macy's home district, announced themselves in favor of the governor's plan.

Principally, the variation between the Democratic and Republican unemployment programs lay in the manner in which the relief fund was to be raised and administered.

BONNER HEADS CHEST ARMY

Director Organizes Staff for Drive

Organization of campaign machinery for the annual community chest drive which opens on Sept. 21 was brought nearer completion Wednesday with the selection of J. H. S. Bonner as colonel of the sales army, according to Walter D. Cline, general chairman of the campaign.

The new director of the actual campaign for funds served as a team captain last year, and has been active in many campaigns in recent years.

Mrs. William Huff, T. J. Waggoner Jr., L. H. Estes, Paul Putty, and Horrace Robbins were named by Mr. Bonner during the afternoon as "majors" to head the various divisions. "The army" will consist of about 250 local men and women.

One innovation in the set-up of the 1931 drive will be the formation of a separate division for women, to be headed by Mrs. Huff. Heretofore each division has contained one woman captain and five men as captains.

Each of the majors named by Colonel Bonner Wednesday will select six captains for the conduct of the campaign. This group met at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with Colonel Bonner and L. E. Brooks, advisory head of the drive, to discuss their further organization. It was predicted that captains would be selected by Thursday afternoon.

Members of the advisory committee which has the chest campaign in charge are as follows: J. H. Allison, Miss Mary Virginia Barron, C. E. Basham, Jack Barnard, A. M. Biedenharn, M. Jack Barnard, A. M. Wichita Tax Assessment Waits Rate for State

Completion of the 1931 tax roll for Wichita county awaits the declaration of the state tax rate, according to Max Shumake, county tax assessor.

All work that can be done in preparation of the roll prior to announcement of the state rate has been finished, Mr. Shumake said. The roll will contain only about 840 pages, it was said, as compared with 900 pages in 1930.

Last year's state rate was 69 cents. The county rate was set at 85 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation recently, an increase of 10 cents over that of last year.

Bright New Felts Take Place of Summer Straws Next Sunday

Doff the straw and don the felt will be the order of the day Sunday, which has been proclaimed official Fall Hat day by Mayor Walter Nelson.

eht well-worn straw hat, tanned with the heat of the blazing sun of summer, has been relegated to the ash heap.

A bright new felt hat, in the current fall style, is recommended to men of Wichita Falls to take the place of the out-of-date straw.

Wichita Falls merchants have announced the receipt of a wide and varied stock of new fall headgear. Special displays of men's hats will be seen Thursday, Friday and Saturday and Sunday in the windows of every store catering to the needs of the city's male population.

Last year's felt hat will not do this fall, merchants say. New styles are in effect this season for men's head dress. The very latest will be available at various prices, suitable to the individual's taste and purse.

Men are urged to shop early for their fall hats to insure a wide range of selections.

PROCLAMATION

Whereas, I, Walter Nelson Jr., mayor of Wichita Falls, have the better interests of our citizenry at heart, and

Whereas, the season of sunless skies and brisk winds is upon us, and

Whereas, the dangers of colds in the head and hats blown down the thoroughfare must be avoided, and

Whereas, the leading merchants of Wichita Falls are stocked with the smartest seasonal headwear,

Now, therefore, be it hereby proclaimed that Sunday, Sept. 13, is designated as Wichita Falls Official Fall Hat day; so that all men-who-care may properly equip themselves by that day with new fall hats. Done in the city of Wichita Falls this 9th day of September, 1931.

WALTER NELSON JR.,
(Seal) Mayor.

Mr. Howle, his daughter and a guest were the only occupants of the home. Mrs. Howle was in Olney on a visit.

Two minor blazes, one shortly before noon Wednesday and the other at 5 p. m., resulted in alarms. Negligible damage was caused.
