Riot Is Staged In Maryland House

Legislators Battle With Unemployed Petitioners

(By The Associated Press)

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 1—A score of men and women battled members of the legislature and police today as a session of the house of delegates was broken up in disorder following an attempt to present an unemployment petition.

Two of the 20, who with about 50 others, came here from Baltimore in a so-called "Hunger March," were sent to a hospital with head wounds, and nine others were taken to jail.

Recess Is Taken

For nearly two hours the corridors of the capitol were in turmoil, which extended to the narrow streets of this colonial city. The house took a hasty recess, but the senate remained in session while Governor Albert C. Ritchie received a few of the band in his office.

After the disorder had quieted the marchers were granted a formal hearing, and the house ways and means committee heard speakers demand that an unemployment relief fund of $10,000,000 be created and other steps taken to meet "starving conditions among the workers of Maryland."

Start In Baltimore

The demonstration was organized in Baltimore under communist guidance, police said. About 75 were in a party which started out yesterday with banners to hike the 30 miles to the capital, but a number arrived in a motor truck.

About 20 of the party forced their way into the house chamber after they had been refused admittance and marched up to face Speaker Francis A. Michel.

Speaker Michel warned that the house session must not be disturbed, and said the reading cleark would read a petition if the group would retire to the space provided for visitors.

"We won't do it. I'm going to read this petition myself," Edward Bender, one of the group, shouted. Then Michel ordered the floor cleared and the melee started as a sergeant-at-arms and a Baltimore police sergeant went into action.

Members of the house joined in and blows were exchanged for some 10 minutes before the aisles were cleared. A riot call brought Annapolis city policemen.

It's Your Move Sergeant—Yeah!

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 1.—Someone is always causing the Chicago police trouble in one form or another.

Members of the "dog watch" coming on duty at midnight at the Des Plaines street station had just settled themselves into comfortable postures when the telephone rang.

Acting Sergeant Samuel Pettigrew lifted the receiver and began to listen.

"Oh police," shouted a feminine voice.

"Yes, yes, go on and tell me the trouble," said the acting sergeant.

"They've just shot a man and have thrown his body out of a car."

"Where and when?" asked the officer.

"You guess," was the astounding reply. "Today's the first of April."

Agricultural Experts Will Speak Tonight

Terracing Program Will Be Held In District Courtroom; Farmers Are Invited To Attend

An illustrated lecture on terracing will be given tonight to farmers and others in the district court room by M. R. Bentley, Texas A. and M. and A. K. "Dad" Short, terracing specialists with the Fort Worth and Denver agricultural train.

The train is due here late today from Floyd and Hale counties where it has been this week.

Oates In Charge

M. B. Oates, agricultural agent of the railroad, is in charge of the train and arranged the details of the meeting.

D. F. Eaton, county agent, with members of the county farm bureau federation and other groups, has extended an invitation to all farmers and others to attend the meeting. There will be no charge.

On Friday at the Beebe farm near Wolffarth, a demonstration of terracing is to be given. Coffee and sandwiches will be served at noon.

Thousands Reached

Thousands of farmers have attended the meetings which Mr. Oates and his co-workers have held since they started on their trip over the Fort Worth and Denver lines in February. The party visited every country between Fort Worth and Dalhart, and from Estelline to Lubbock. Also counties on the Wichita Valley road were visited.

Local implement dealers are cooperating in furnishing tractors and graders for the demonstration on Friday.

Lubbock county, it is pointed out, ranks well up among the first 25 counties in Texas in the number of acres already terraced. This county, the past fall and winter, has terraced probably 75,000 to 80,000 acres.

It is expected that a number of farmers from other counties will be here for the meeting.

Masons Are To Gather Today

Maunday Thursday Celebration Will Be Staged At Lubbock Hotel This Afternoon Beginning At 5 P. M.

Approximately 50 members of the South Plains Scottish Rite club will gather at the Lubbock Hotel at 5 p. m. today to observe Maunday Thursday, according to Dr. Millard F. Swart, secretary of the order.

Scottish Rite Masons are expected to be in Lubbock from as far east as Matador; and Tulia, Plainview, Brownfield, Lamesa and other towns in this region will be represented at the beautiful ceremony of "Extinguishing the Lights."

Observed Each Year

Maunday Thursday is observed each year by the Knights Rose Coix on the Thursday preceding Easter Sunday. With wine, roast lamb and unleavened bread they celebrate the ancient Jewish Feast of the Passover.

Dean J. M. Gordon will be in charge of the program. As announced, Ethan Allen Wells, of El Paso, will be on the program, speaking on "Echoes from our Consistory." The ceremony will close with the election of officers and benediction.

Ohio Prison Fire Mystery Cleared

COLUMBUS, O., April 1. (AP)—Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins, of Franklin county, announced tonight two convicts had confessed they started the fire that claimed the lives of 320 prisoners at Ohio penitentiary last April 21.

The prosecutor named the men as Clinton Grate alias "Cotton," and Hugh Gibson alias Gibbons and "The Jew." Gibson, whose home is in Philadelphia, was sentenced from Cleveland, while Grate, formerly of Virginia, was sentenced from Dayton, O. Both are serving terms for robbery.

The fire, according to Hoskins, was started by the convicts because they objected to aiding in construction of a new cell block to house fellow prisoners and because they wished to hamper Warden Preston E. Thomas in his building program.

EL PASO, April 1. (AP)—Coroner R. B. Rawlins today returned a verdict of murder and suicide in the fatal shooting of Carmen De La Rosa and his wife, Praxedes. Their bodies were found in their home here yesterday.

CHICAGO, April 1. — Sorrowing men of Notre Dame, heads bared and with tear-filled eyes, stood with thousands of plain everyday Chicagoans tonight to receive, in silence; the body of their pal and football coach, Knute Rockne.

As the train bearing Rockne's body from Kansas City pulled into the Dearborn street station, the throng numbering thousands silently looked on. Tender hands of Rockne's football buddies lifted the box containing his casket and escorted it half a dozen blocks away to the La Salle street station, placing it aboard a train that was taking Rockne to his home-coming—

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 1. (AP) — Knute Rockne came back home tonight.

As several thousand citizens of South Bend and students of Notre Dame university stood by, the casket containing the body of the famous coach arrived here at 11:08 p. m. from Chicago, completing the last lap of its journey from Cottonwood Falls, Kan., where he fell to his death yesterday with seven other victims of an airplane disaster.

Los Angeles Attorney Dies In Attempt To Leap From Falling Plane; Parachute Becomes Entangled

(By The Associated Press)

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., April 1.—Harry Miller 30, Los Angeles attorney and pilot, was killed in the desert near here today when his parachute fouled in the tail of a falling experimental plane.

Miller and Richard S. Harding, designer of the plane, were bound from Los Angeles to St. Louis and Detroit, where the ship was to have been exhibited. With them in another plane was Frank Barbara. Harding leaped and landed safely with his parachute.

Strike Heavy Wind

Harding said that shortly after the plane left San Gorgonio pass it struck a heavy wind. Soon he and Miller felt hot oil in their faces and the ship began to drop.

Barbara witnessed the accident and landed at Palm Springs. He said both men jumped at about the same time, but Miller failed to clear the careening plane. The accident was described as unavoidable.

Diet Of Human Flesh Is Tried Out By American

William Seabrook Tells Of Eating Flesh Of Natives In Wilds Of African Jungle

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 1.—William B. Seabrook, American author, has sampled the diet of Africa's cannibals.

Back in a Fifth avenue attic apartment, after six months among the Guere cannibal tribe on the west African ivory coast, Seabrook was found on eve of the publication of his book, "Jungle Ways."

In that volume he describes the tasting of human flesh. It was a sort of scientific adventure, he relates.

"Much," he said, "has been written about cannibals. They have been pictured in the movies. But everybody has stopped at the dinner table. Nobody has written about the peculiar custom that makes them cannibals."

Seabrook describes in his book a meal he had prepared after his hosts had brought back members of a neighboring tribe slain in battle.

Just Like Veal

He ate a bit of broiled steak, a portion of roast and some stew with rice. The latter was the native dish. It tasted, he writes, like veal.

Seabrook found the cannibals somewhat in the comic strip tradition. But instead of a silk topper, his host, King Monpo, wore the shiny brass helmet of a French fireman.

"Cannibal Land," the writer said, "is as safe for the well behaved white man as New York."

Missionaries Safe

There is no eating of missionaries, partly because there are no missionaries in that territory.

Bar Room Favorite Breaks Stillness

MINNEAPOLIS, April 1. (AP) — J. H. Auld was tired today; yes, even indignant. Imagine persons telephoning him protesting he had played the old bar room favorite "How Dry I Am," on the court house chimes.

It wasn't that at all, he told them peevishly, it was an old Methodist hymn", "Oh Happy Days."

"Evil to him who evil thinks", Mr. Auld muttered. "If it sounded like How Dry I am," it was because the listeners' minds are that way."

But maybe it was because the chimes were out of tune. They have been known to be at one time or another.

Case Probably Will Go To Jury Late Thursday

(By The Associated Press)

CRIMINAL COURTS BUILDING, CHICAGO, April 1. — A burst of oratorical fireworks, capped by such expressions as "the shadow of deceit," and "the most gigantic frameup since the crucifixion of Christ," brought the Leo Brothers murder trial to its zero hour tonight.

Tomorrow, about noon, the 12 men will be asked to decide whether Brothers killed Alfred "Jake" Lingle, newspaper reporter and "unofficial chief of police." Today the jurors heard eloquent summations of the case for and against the calm young St. Louian and bitter attacks on the credibility of witnesses.

Pick At Flaws

Both sides relied almost solely on testimony of persons who said they were at or near the scene of the slaying and who said Brothers was or was not the man. Closing arguments, beyond charging the defense was "throwing up a camouflage," and reasserting the state's case was a "frame-up," were devoted to systematic picking at the flaws in the eye witnesses' testimony.

Wayland Brooks assistant state's attorney attacked the credibility of the defense witnesses and told the

Long Search For Bandit Is Ended

MEXICALI, Mex., April 1. (AP)—A seven year search over southwestern United States and northern Mexico for Jesus Demara, notorious outlaw, ended here today when Mexican rurales (state police) stumbled over the alleged bank robber and murderer as he was sleeping among weeds in the new river bottom.

Demara had been sought since the robbery of a bank at Gadsden, Ariz., in which a cashier named Hobbs was shot and killed. He escaped and since then had harassed officers of Arizona, Sonora, Mexico, and Lower California and had become known as a cattle rustler.

A posse of rurales went into the jungle of tall arrow weeds and willow trees in search of seven prisoners who escaped yesterday from the Mexicali jail.

They came upon Demara sleeping on the ground with a rifle and a pistol by his side and his horse, saddled and ready for flight, standing a few feet away.

DALLAS, April 1. (AP) — William Wesley Hall, 26, a Dallas motor company employe, today said he is a second cousin of the Anthony Hall who recently laid claim to the throne of Great Britain and Ireland, ordering King George to relinquish the crown. Red Cross Official Declares That New Community Citizenship Is Rising Out Of Drouth Areas

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Out of a drouth that afflicted about one-fourth of the counties of the entire United States, James L. Fieser, Red Cross vice chairman, today saw a new community citizenship rising.

"By thousands, people have been forced by circumstances to be civic leaders," he said. "Out of this teamwork will come a study in understanding that will carry on for years to come."

Completes Inspection

In charge of domestic operations, Fieser just had completed a 5,500-mile inspection of Texas, Oklahoma, the Mississippi Delta country, Louisiana, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Everywhere, he said, he met with a morale remarkable and in vivid contrast to the spirit abroad in the land on his previous visit early in February.

Recent rains had given promise of crops to come, Red Cross seeds already had grown turnips, onions and radishes for Mississippi and Texas, and half the families whose entire subsistence was coming from the Red Cross on March first had reestablished credit through farm loans, the intermediate credit corporation or normal channels.

Death Toll Is Mounting From Managua Shock

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 1.—Twenty five thousand hungry, half-clad refugees camped tonight in the Nicaraguan hills overlooking the mass of smoking ruins which was their home until yesterday's terrific earthquake laid this city waste.

Officially there are 600 dead, but marines and volunteers still dug in bodies which had been buried since yesterday morning.

Houses Demolished

The final death total is expected to reach the early estimate of 1,000. No one has attempted to count the number of injured, but that total probably will run into the thousands.

Hardly a house is left standing, and those with walls still up-right are so shaky they are likely to fall at the slightest tremor.

Once such light earth shock was felt this afternoon, doubling the fear of the refugees who had been crowding the trails running out of the hills to Granada.

City Is Evacuated

Others, fearful the shocks would recur, were begging automobile rides the ruins tonight, bringing out anywhere out of Managua. Some, carrying such belongings as they could salvage, trudged down the dusty roads leaving the devastated city behind.

On the whole, however, the situation was under control.

United States marines worked all last night and all today, many of them without food. Colonel Frederic Bradman directed the work himself, despite injuries received when a beam fell on him.

There was no water, for the water mains had burst at the first

PLANE ARRIVES

(By The Associated Press)

Relief has begun to reach the city of Managua, laid waste by fire and earthquake.

An airplane brought six doctors and as much food as it could carry from San Salvador and other expeditions are on the way.

Fire in the ruins has been brought under control and the people are turning to the job of reconstruction.

Recurrent tremors were felt as the earth settled, but none was of major proportions.

Estimating the number of casualties was a matter of guess work, but the number of dead was placed at 1,000 and the injured 2,000.

Four of the dead were Americans.

American Disciple Says That In Mahatma Gandhi God Has Again Paid Visit To World In Hour Of Desperate Need; Upholds Principles Of Gandhism

BY BOYD W. TUCKER
(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

KARACHI, India, April 1.—The western world seems puzzled why I prefer the simple life of Mahatma Gandhi to the mechanical comforts of modern American life.

It is just as difficult for Indians to understand why Americans are willing to sacrifice all natural comforts of life and secure for themselves conveniences of American home. Why am I considered a crank and fanatic because I adopt loose flowing garments?

Only our racial pride has kept every westerner from adopting

Boyd W. Tucker, of Mansfield, Ohio, who expects to go to the second London round table conference as unoffical adviser to Mahatma Gandhi, today told the Associated Press why he embraced the cause of India's independence, adopted the Hindu dress, and became a disciple of Gandhi. the dress best suited to climate and environment. For the white man to wear Indian clothes offends the majority of Americans and Europeans in India, because they fear the Indians will fail to be impressed by the white man's superiority if the white man himself adopts Indian dress.

I am a disciple of Gandhi because I find him the most vital living spiritual personality in the world today. In some respects he has given Christ's message a richer and fuller interpretation, which Jesus himself had neither the time nor the environment in which to develop it.

I believe that in Mahatma Gandhi God has again visited

A NEW low price

FOR THE CHAMPAGNE OF GINGER ALES

Beginning today, Canada Dry announces a reduction of twenty per cent! Now, more than ever, this fine old ginger ale is a value far above the price.

The recommended price is now reduced from 25 cents to 19¢

Slightly higher in some places for icing, delivery or other special services. But in all cases, now 5 to 10 cents cheaper than before.

It is only nine years since the first two carloads of Canada Dry were sold in New York City. As the news of its wonderful flavor spread from city to city, the demand for it increased—until today, wherever people gather for enjoyment, you almost always find them drinking Canada Dry. Steadily, each year, it has grown in popularity.

Now an even greater value

It is this large and constantly increasing preference for Canada Dry which—in spite of the many extra processes necessary to give it its distinguishing excellence—now makes possible a material reduction in price. Today—at its new low price—The Champagne of Ginger Ales is one of the most economical ginger ales you can buy.

5 to 10 cents lower

As in the past, the new low price of Canada Dry will vary. Sometimes, particularly at night, or when it is iced or delivered, it may be slightly more because of the extra service. But in all cases, you will find that a bottle of Canada Dry is now 5 to 10 cents cheaper than before.

Take advantage of this outstanding value, and let the zest of Canada Dry add more and more to your enjoyment. Drink The Champagne of Ginger Ales.

Officials Get Select Meats

Governor Ross Sterling And Others To Be Recipients Of Hams Exhibited At Recent Meat Show Here

Select hams exhibited at the first annual Panhandle-South Plains Fat Calf, Pig, and Meat show here last week have been sent by the meat show committee to Governor Ross Sterling, and to farm journal, railway, and agricultural extension officials.

The meats, wrapped and tied with a specially designed South Plains trademark on the cover, were expressed to Governor Sterling; Frank P. Holland, vice-president of Farm & Ranch magazine at Dallas; A. W. Roberts, editor of the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman at Oklahoma City; Eugene Butler, editor of the Progressive Farmer at Dallas; J. L. Lancaster, president of the Texas & Pacific railway, of Dallas; John A. Hulen, vice-president of the Fort Worth & Denver City railway, of Fort Worth; O. B. Martin, director of the state extension service at Texas A. & M. college at College station, and A. B. Conner, also of the extension service.

Letters to those to whom the hams were sent told of the meat exposition here, named the producers of the hams, and pointed out that the demand for cured meats was greater than could be satisfied at the first annual show here.

"From the South Plains of Texas" are words on a round trademark placed on the wrapper of each of the select hams. The trademark includes a map of Texas, in which South Plains counties are blocked in white. A young farmer stands at the left of the map pointing to the South Plains section.

Tragedy Due In April---If History Repeats Itself

Great Disasters Have Occurred In Month

BY BERYL MILLER
NEA Service Writer

A great tragedy will befall some part of the world during the next 30 days, if history repeats itself.

For April, month of showers, warming sunshine and the joyous Easter time, also is the month of grim disasters.

An amazingly large number of history's most tragic events—wars, plagues, shipwrecks, mine disasters, fires, floods, bombings, revolutions and riots—have darkened the horizon in this month.

The sinking of the Titanic with loss of 1517 lives, the $500,000,000 San Francisco fire, the London plague, which claimed nearly 70,000 victims, the Ohio prison holocaust, the assassination of President Lincoln—all these took place in April.

And April has played a curious part in the United States' history, for nearly every major war in which this country has become involved began in this month.

Among the great tragedies occurring in April were:

THE MISSISSIPPI FLOOD — Early in April, 1927, floods in the Mississippi and its lower branches inundated 20,000 square miles in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Tennessee and Kentucky, rendering 600,000 temporarily homeless and doing property damage of $270,000,000.

TITANIC DISASTER — The steamship Titanic, then the largest ship afloat and believed to be nonsinkable, crashed into a submerged iceberg in the North Atlantic and sank, with loss of 1517 lives, on April 15, 1912.

LINCOLN ASSASSINATED — While attending the Ford theater in Washington on April 14, 1865, President Lincoln was fatally shot by John Wilkes Booth, plunging a nation, happy over the close of the Civil war, into deep mourning.

WAR WITH GERMANY — The United States threw her resources into the war against Germany on April 6, 1917.

SAN FRANCISCO DESTROYED —Hundreds of lives were lost and $500,000,000 in property damage suffered when the great fire destroyed the city of San Francisco on April 18, 1906.

SOFIA BOMBING—Two hundred persons were killed at Sofia in an explosion of bombs at the funeral of General Georghoff on April 16, 1925.

REVOLUTIONARY WAR — The battle of Lexington, starting the Revolutionary war, took place on April 19, 1775, the day following Paul Revere's famous ride.

BRITISH PLAGUE — The great bubonic plague started its sweep through London on April 26, 1665, bringing death to 68,596 persons, mostly among the poorer classes.

OHIO PRISON DISASTER—Fire and rioting in overcrowded Ohio State penitentiary at Columbus broke out on Easter Monday, April 21, 1930, with 318 convicts losing their lives.

SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR — President McKinley called the nation to arms in war against Spain on April 21, 1898.

NAPOLEON EXILED— Napoleon Bonaparte, having abdicated the French throne on April 10, 1814, was exiled to Elba on April 28 of the same month.

SULTANA SINKING—The steamship Sultana went down in the Mississippi river on April 27, 1865, after an explosion, with loss of 1850 lives of federal soldiers.

CANADIAN FIRES—The city of Hull, Canada, was almost destroyed on April 6, 1900, when 3,000 buildings burned, and on April 10, 1904, the city of Toronto was swept by a fire which did $8,000,000 damage.

CIVIL WAR—The first shot that began the long struggle between the North and the South was fired on April 15, 1861.

WAR WITH MEXICO—The United States went to war against Mexico on April 24, 1846, this conflict becoming the pivotal point in deciding that force would henceforth be the last resort in our relations with the Americas.

RUSSO-TURK WAR— On April 24, 1778, Russia began war against Turkey.

MINE DISASTERS—Many major mine disasters in the United States took place in the month of April. At Littleton, Ala., 128 miners lost their lives on April 8, 1911; at Finleyville, W. Va., 115 were killed on April 23, 1912; at Eccles, W. Va., 181 lost their lives on April 28, 1914, and 10 years later to the day, 111 perished at Benwood, W. Va., while at Everettsville, W. Va., 94 died on April 30, 1927.

In Like A Lion And Out Like A Lamb

March, For Once, Fulfills Old West Texas Adage; Spring Gets Full Swing On Wednesday

With the blind fury of an enraged lion the month of March fell upon Lubbock this year. March left as docile as the meekest lamb. And so, for once, West Texas fulfilled the old adage: March comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb.

Thunder, lightning, high winds and heavy snow occurred during the night of February 28, and the morning of March 1 dawned on a snow covered South Plains.

April arrived with the breath of spring, accompanied by clear, starry skies and balmy airs.

Although several real "blizzards" occurred during the month of March, that of the 26th, when the mercury fell to 12 degrees above zero, was the most devastating of the month's several cold spells.

The temperate weather, which characterized most of the month, brought the fruit trees into premature bloom, only to be killed by the heavy frost of the 26th.

The minimum temperature for the month was 12 degrees on the 26th; and the maximum was 74 degrees on March 11.

Officers And Directors Of West Texas Company Named

ABILENE, April 1. (AP)—Directors of the West Texas Utilities company, holding their annual meeting here yesterday, reelected Price Campbell president, Earl Hoppe, vice-president; Dan Gallaghder, secretary-treasurer; and R. M. Wolfe, auditor. Present directors were reelected by the stockholders, and authorization was given to make the usual quarterly payment of $1.50 per share on 118,863 shares of the company's cumulative six per cent preferred stock, much of which is held in West Texas.

Drouth Check Are Received

Twenty-Two Loan Checks Have Been Received By Lubbock Office In Last Two Days; 256 For Period

Twenty-two checks have been received by the Lubbock county federal drouth relief office in the last two days, according to J. B. Shannon, local representative. All of these checks have been sent from Fort Worth, state headquarters of the farm relief, Mr. Shannon said.

Since February 1, when the local office was opened, 256 checks have been received in Lubbock county totaling $45,555.70. This is an average of a little over $193 for each check, Mr. Shannon reported.

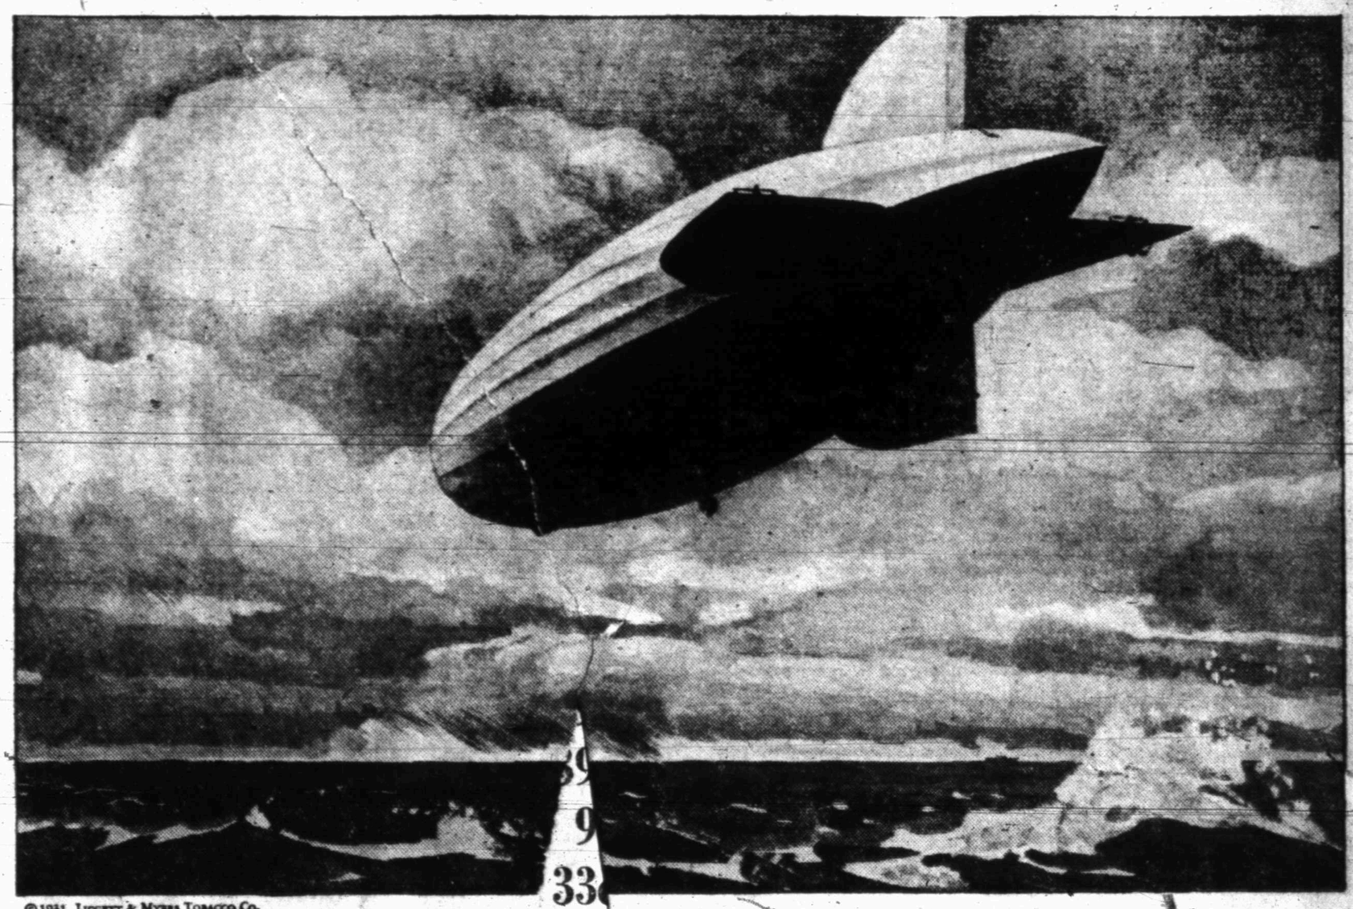

All applications for federal farm relief must be made to the local office before April 20. For any application to be considered by the Fort Worth office it must have been in the mail at least by April 30.

Twenty-two new applications for farm loans were sent in Tuesday, and six were sent in Wednesday.

SERVICES HELD

EZE-SUR-MER, France, April 1. The grief stricken widower and a few intimate friends today attended the simple burial service of Mrs. David F. Townsend, former follies beauty who met death Saturday night when her car plunged over a 200-feet cliff near here. Crowds of curious collected and deferentially doffer their hats as the small funeral cortege wound its way to the communal cemetery, where interment took place. The villagers gathered, also at the site of the tragedy, which the husband, despite a note which to some indicates suicide, insists was an accident.

Easter Egg Hunts Are Planned For Children During This Week-End

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

WELL, I'm all fixed up for spring. I've been drinking sassafras tea and we've got some left, so if anyone wants any there can be a real party next time. So far, I'm not exactly sure what the beverage is supposed to do—whether it is to make me beautiful or healthy or both—but I've done my part and now it is up to the tea.

Perhaps it will make me fat, although that was not among the recommendations. But it is supposed to do everything that molasses and sulphur do not.

Arthur L. Brown brought the sassafras bark over because I had never had any of the tea and it was made under his direction—the water was boiled, the bark dropped in and then it stood awhile before drinking. With plenty of sugar and cream it didn't taste so bad— in fact, there was so much of the latter that it hardly tasted at all. And now Mr. Brown thinks perhaps it wasn't strong enough.

He is my authority on all of these things. When he was a youngster it seems that he went through a yearly routine that had a climax along in the spring with the molasses and sassafras diet but even he isn't sure what it was all supposed to do. However, it probably was good for hives, kept people awake after lunch on warm days or did something else equally worthy.

OKLAHOMA is the windiest state in the union. My authority for that is Walter Winchell and it is being passed on for a lot of Oklahomans who have been heard to deride Texas' winds. This must come as quite a blow to them.

THE FLOWER EXCHANGE

NOW that it is warming up after the freeze, we'll start the Flower Exxchange again. Mrs. Clark M. Mullican, 1510 Avenue X, has some larkspur that she will be glad to give away.

NOW I'M MADE

AFTER struggling along for all these years trying to make the front page or The Plainsman's column, I arrived on April Fool's day and got all written up.

The Plainsman "put one over" there, however. The other day he came over with some manuscript—the eventual column of April 1—and asked if there was anything there that might offend people. Since my name was not in it, he went away with plenty of assurance that everything would be accepted in the spirit of fun in which it was written.

But after my okeh was placed on it, he went into some revisions and additions, so now if things were not all right, the fault is none of mine and I'll be just as offended as anyone else.

THE LIVING WAGE

HERE is a note that might interest people who believe they must have lots of money to meet living expenses: In 1928 it was found by the Woman's bureau of the United States department of labor, that a single woman could live independently on $15.71 weekly. This figure was reached after a study of conditions for working women in 13 states.

Something like that makes a lot of us wonder why we haven't saved enough money by now to retire.

Of course there is no point in being miserly, but most of us do waste a lot of money without getting any tangible returns. We place so many luxuries in the necessity class and —this isn't a habit in which I can feel exclusive—many of us spend money and can never remember what it was used for.

I don't have to be told that budgeting is helpful in saving money or in spending it wisely, because there have been enough convincing testimonies, but so far I've never been able to take off time and put a budget into practice. About the time I lived up my clothing budget for the month, something happened to the wardrobe or some irresistible dress was hung in a window.

The most satisfactory way I've ever found in spending money wisely and living within the salary is to refrain from buying when out of money and to spend when some has accumulated while attempting to keep enough surplus to meet emergencies. It is a haphazard method but a mathematical mind isn't necessary to make it work.

* * *

An economist, or whatever it that knows all about money and how it should be apportioned for returns, probably would tear his hair over that method, but, in all probability, I would tear mine over his. As well as I can remember, I watched some other people struggle through economics in college and chose sociology because it was based on theories and I had a lot of them.

The Gibson Girl Is Back Influencing Modern Style

BY LUCY CLAIRE
Fashion Writer for Central Press

THE GIBSON GIRL is back with us. If you have any of those Gibson girl pictures about, just trot them out and compare the costumes with those now being worn by the girl of 1931. There is the well defined waistline, the smooth hips, and the skirt very full about the feet. They look as though they had just stepped out of a Gibson sketch book, all except the eighteen-inch waist. We have not come to that yet, but give us time for we are getting back into corsets—not those stiff steel ribbed things the girls of the nineties used to wear, but corsets with bones in them nevertheless.

Colors, too, revert to the Gibson girl period, with pink and light blue outstanding. Look at the dance frock at the left. Does not that remind you of those Gibson pictures, dropped shoulders and all. The dropped shoulders, you know, date back to the 1830's, and even further. They have been revived from time to time. The ruffles, too, date back to the 1830's, and further, and as for the combination of pink and blue, that has always been a favorite.

Pink Tulle Revived

The frock at the left is of pink tulle, another old timer, with tiny pink and blue roses outlining the ruffles. The shoulder straps and sash are blue. Pink satin shoes with silver trim would fit in well with this costume. Long white or off-white suede gloves are still in order for evening wear. There has been a trend toward colored gloves coming into the picture, but they are still a very high style note not generally adopted by the fashionables of Paris, not to mention New York.

Another old-timer that shows activity at the moment is taffeta. It is, however, now seen more in monotone than in the figured fabric. The smart frock sketched at the center is of light blue taffeta. The scalloped jacket has a tiny standing collar, with a great big bow at the neck, another of the "ninety" vogues. The skirt is slashed at the front side, not because it is tight like the hobbles of the nineties, but a detail borrowed from that period; just the same.

The new elegance is again reflected in the frock at the right, which also has that Gibson atmosphere. The fitted bodice reaching down way beyond the hips, is of white lace, covered with soft glistening beads and opalescent rings. The billowy skirt is of white tulle. The decolletage forms a long deep U in the back, and a normally deep U at the front. White gloves and white satin slippers accompany the frock.

UNUSUAL GOODNESS OF FAMOUS COFFEE INTRIGUES EXPERTS

Find That Delicious Flavor is the Result of Patented Roasting Process

Probably no coffee sold today has enjoyed the success of Hills Bros. Coffee. Everywhere it has been introduced it has become a leader.

This popularity lies in the fact that Hills Bros. Coffee has a delicious, uniform flavor such as no other coffee has. While the rare [illegible] and is partly responsible for this, [illegible] patented process, by which it [illegible] roasted, is one factor that has [illegible] this matchless, uniform [illegible] possible in every pound.

[illegible]stead of roasting in bulk, Hills [illegible]s roast only a few pounds at [illegible] time. By this process—the de[illegible]ree of roast, the continuous flow [illegible] of coffee through the roasters, never vary. Hence the name of this process—Controlled Roasting.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. It is always fresh because it is packed in vacuum cans from which air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

The Revival On In Lubbock

MINISTERS of practically every church in the city are co-operating this week in a Pre-Easter revival campaign. Pastors are taking turns preaching to massed congregations each morning, and each evening individual ministers are holding services in their own buildings for their own flocks. A great interest has been aroused by the campaign, which is something new for Lubbock churches.

The Morning Avalanche has long been of the opinion—and has voiced it prior to today—that there is sufficient preaching talent in Lubbock to hold a co-operative revival without bringing in, from the field of evangelism, some widely publicized exhorter to do the preaching. In other words, we believe the appeal of our own pastors will fall on just as ready ears as that of a Will Hogg, an M. F. Hamm or even a Billy Sunday.

There are, admittedly, two sides to the question of evangelism. To those who support the idea of a "rip snorting, hip-hip-hurraing" city-wide revival, tinged with showmanship, we unqualifiedly grant the right to their opinion, although we do not share in it. After watching a number of such revivals, their effects and results, The Morning Avalanche has become convinced that the job of saving souls can be done just as well, if not better, and more economically, by the men we see and associate with every day.

Also, we see a decided difference between a revival campaign sponsored by one church and a campaign sponsored by all, or most of the congregations of any one city. If an individual congregation wishes to bring in its revivalist from fields afar, that is that congregation's business. But when a revival campaign is constructed to cover all congregations and an entire city, that is a different matter entirely and becomes the business of everyone who is at all interested in the extension of God's Kingdom.

Where we disagree with the city-wide revival, headed by a professional traveling evangelist, is in the type of preaching usually symbolical with such a campaign and in the tremendous expense thus entailed. Although it is admittedly a personal preference, we prefer more dignity, more reverence with our preaching than is offered by most revivalists who are here this week and in Macon, Georgia, next week.

The Morning Avalanche believes Lubbock well fortified in the matter of individual parts. Because they take a part in community work, because they have the respect and friendship of their fellow-citizens and because the record of church attendance here is much higher than in the average city, we can say with little fear of contradiction that Lubbock's congregations, on the whole, are admirably administered to. And since such is the case, why shouldn't the city rely upon its own Men-of-the-Cloth for its needed spiritual food and drink?

The present co-operative campaign is being well attended and, according to reports, has awakened wide public interest in church work. We hope it ends as it began, an outstanding success because it is a courageous and generous plan in its entirety. The Morning Avalanche congratulates both the ministry and the laity in its efforts to sponsor a practicable city-wide revival, shorn of ballyhoo. It cannot help but be beneficial to a city already conscious of the necessity of church service.

Practical Health Problems

EXPECTATION OF LIFE

By Dr. Morris Fishbein Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

In 1825, man's expectancy of life was 35 years. In the period of 100 years this expectancy has increased by 20 years, so that a child born today may reasonably expect to reach the age of 55.

This life expectancy after reaching the age of 50 one hundred years ago was for 21 additional years, whereas today the life expectancy after reaching 50 is 21.2 years. If additional life expectancy is to be accomplished after middle age, it will have to come by overcoming the hazards of early heart disease, high blood pressure and other degenerative diseases. Such control must come through the periodic physical examination.

In the period from 1908 to 1921, there was an increase in expectation of life of about 14 per cent, the improvement being mostly in the earlier years of life. A child born in the United States has an expectancy at birth of 55.58 years if a male, and 57.73 years if a female. For England the figures are 55.62 for the male and 59.58 for female.

A person does not inherit any particular tendency to longevity, but does inherit a type of body or constitution which enables him to survive better than does the average man. In 1500 cases in which the age at death was known of both the individuals and of their parents, it was found that 5.3 per cent lived to the age of 80 when neither parent reached that; 9.8 lived to 80 when one parent reached that age, and 20.6 lived to 80 when both parents reached that age.

The figures indicate that expectation of life among wage earners in the United States in 1928 was 56.42 at birth, whereas in 1911 it was 46.63. Out of 3,000,000 deaths, in the experience of a great life insurance company, only 30 people were found to have reached 100 years, of whom 20 were women and 10 were men.

Higher Type Cause

(Charles P. Stewart, touring America in order to scan the American vista, steps off in Joliet, Ill., to get a first-hand view of the prison situation.)

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

JOLIET, Ill., April 1.—Convicts of today simply will not endure the treatment that the tough old characters of the pre-war era submitted to. They prefer to be killed.

Henry C. Hill

This is the conclusion I draw from talks with folk best acquainted with the recent prison riots here and at Stateville, and with the causes leading up to them. It fortifies the impression I already had gathered from persons in a position best to understand outbreaks in New oYrk's, Colorado's and other states' penitentiaries, as well as the Columbus, O., insurrection and fire, resulting in the cremation in their cells of several hundred inmates of the Buckeye institution some months ago.

Penitentiary rebellions on a large scale are a new thing. Having started, however, there are plenty of them. It is impossible not to wonder, since they are so common now, why there were none of them formerly.

The obvious answer is that we have a new kind of convict.

I HEAR the same thing said at Joliet that I heard reported from the New York, Colorado and Columbus prisons—namely, that the captives responsible for most of the trouble were the best type of human material; that is to say, the better educated, comparatively clean-cut young fellows, not the hardened old ruffians of the Bill Sikes pattern.

In olden days the Bill Sikes' predominated.

Now the prevailing element would pass for tolerably decent chaps if they were at large.

These spirited youngsters are not so easy to keep knocked over the nose as the Bill Sikes' were. The Bill Sikes' were ugly and sullen, and yet they were accustomed to being treated like criminals and accepted such treatment accordingly. The present generation flares up on small provocation.

Overcrowding has a deal to do with prison discontent.

It has been mentioned as a factor in all the recent outbreaks. Illinois' prisons are filled to about twice their originally-intended capacities, compelling the quartering of the men two to a cell at least.

Unduly close contact between human beings is trying under the most favorable conditions, as anyone knows who has tried it in an overly full hotel for only a night or two. Enforced, as in a prison, perhaps for a long term of years, it becomes almost intolerable. Especially is this the case with a convict of the higher type, decent upbringing and cleanly habits, who happens to be bunked with some foul thug, bestial in his every instinct.

Taking into consideration the twin facts that more men are being committed to penitentiaries than ever before, and that they are not being released nearly as rapidly, the over-crowding evil is easy to account for.

It may not be, of course, that too many new crimes have been created, but there can be no question that new ones HAVE been created.

In turn, they appear to have caused an increase in the older forms of criminality. Illustratively, during the recent legislative investigation in Joliet, James Peire, one of the convict witnesses, mentioning that he was "doing time" for stealing 1,250 pounds of sugar, added explanatorily, "I was doing a little moonshining." "Which makes," commented State Representative M. L. Igoe, "another case of an inmate who is here solely because of prohibition."

At any rate, in one way and another, it is notorious that crime is heavily on the increase, with such resulting alarm on the part of the law-abiding population that penalties have been made much severer in the hope of checking it— still further stuffing the prisons.

The stuffing is done, too, with the sort of material already referred to—intrinsically pretty decent, if adventurous young men who do not consider themselves in any proper sense criminals and will not stand being handled as if they were.

Prison authorities, on the other hand (naturally in the main a low class, for the work is not calculated to attract any other), stick as closely as they can to old methods.

Much emphasis was laid, for example, during the Joliet investigation, upon the case of Joseph Coakley, a convict who, for throwing food at a fellow prisoner in the penitentiary mess room, was handcuffed to the bars in a solitary cell, collapsed thus and was dead when the doctor arrived. It was explained, to be sure, that he was suffering from heart disease, unknown to the authorities, or he would not have died so easily. But what of it?—asks the insurrectionary younger element among the convicts. Ought any man to be subjected to physical torture which only a vigorous one can endure without killing him. The youngsters think not, and the general verdict is that the Coakley incident has its considerable part in causing the subsequent riot.

Complaints of the working of the indeterminate sentence and parole regulations were made rather by Father Eligius S. Weir, the prison chaplain, and by ex-Chaplain George Whitmeyer, than by any of the convicts who testified to the investigation.

Those regulations undoubtedly do retard the release of prisoners, and in this way contribute to overcrowding, but personally I question, judging from my own inquiries, whether they have much to do, except perhaps indirectly, toward provoking actual convict outbreaks. The outbreaks seem to me to result rather from the continual chafing of discomfort, interspersed with occasional acts of brutality like the Coakley affair, than from the more abstract operation of the men's various terms of confinement.

Father Weir, indeed, did not dwell so strongly upon parole in justices as responsible for prison disorders; he did give it as his opinion that delay frequently lessens the chances of a convict's reformation.

Warden Henry C. Hill evidently is very popular (for a warden) among the Joliet and Stateville inmates. His underlings are complained of bitterly, and so are the parole board members and Public Welfare Superintendent R. H. Brandon, but Hill is described as a "square shooter."

The prisoners themselves agree that the food is pretty good.

The essential cause of trouble at Joliet and Stateville appears to have been that Illinois, like most other states, has entirely too good a class of convicts and altogether too many of them.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY by MILES BURTON

READ THIS FIRST:

The famous diamond necklace of Lady Hardway is stolen by Thomas Herridge, a notorious crook, in London. Slinking along the street after the robbery, Herridge is accosted by two men, who handcuff him, take the diamonds and promise to take him to Scotland Yard for questioning. On the way, the burglar suddenly leaps out of the car and escapes into the fog. To free himself of the handcuffs, Herridge makes for the home of Ginger Murdock, another crook. He stumbled into a policeman. Herridge explains the handcuffs by saying he had worn them on a bet. The policeman, however, takes him to a police station. A sergeant there does not recognize him. Herridge tells a story of having a wife and children in Wigan, a suburb, although his dialect is London cockney. The sergeant summons Inspector Brooks, who recognizes Herridge. Later Dick Penhampton is called to the Scotland Yard office of Sir Edric Conway, assistant police commissioner, to tell of the robbery to Inspector Brooks.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 5

"I'd better begin by explaining who I am," said Dick Penhampton. "I'm Lord Hardway's brother-in-law; he married my sister Daphne ten years ago. They live in one of those old-fashioned houses in Woodridge Square. I don't suppose I need tell you anything about Hardway, Inspector. You probably know all about him."

The Inspecor nooded. Lord Hardway, though never forcing himself into the public eye, was a fairly well-known man. He had held one or two minor parts in the Government, and his speeches in the House of Lords were always listened to with respect. Socially, Lady Hardway was a very popular hostess, and she and her husband were always to be seen at the more exclusive functions. While not overpoweringly rich, they possessed enough to gratify their excellent tastes, and to contribute largely to such charities as appealed to them.

Seeing the Inspector's nod, Dick continued, "As you probably know, my sister entertains a good deal. The house is usually full of people and that sort of thing. But, as it happens, they had no engagement last night, and rang me up to come and dine with them. I had better explain that I am a bachelor, and live in rooms just off Jermyn Street. They dine at a quarter past eight, and I meant to reach the house just before then. As a matter of fact, I was a few minutes late, owing to the fog. We did not sit down to dinner till twenty-five minutes past. After dinner, we went into Hardway's study—my sister usually sits there with him when she is alone—and stayed there for the rest of the evening. I left the house before midnight and walked home.

"Now, among the Hardway possessions is an extremely valuable, and, to my mind, exceedingly ugly diamond necklace. It is supposed to contain some of the stones of Marie Antoinette's famous necklace, which was stolen by the La Mottes. They, you remember, took it to pieces, and sold many of the stones in London. This necklace is kept in a concealed safe let into the wall in my sister's bedroom. There are two keys to this safe. One Hardway keeps on his bunch, the other is deposited at the bank.

"Last night, when my sister was dressing for dinner, she borrowed Hardway's key and opened the safe to take out some other jewelry. The necklace was there in its case, and was seen by both my sister and her husband, who was in the room at the time. Hardway himself closed the safe and locked it, under by sister's eyes. This would be at about a quarter to eight."

Inspector Brooks, listening attentively, formed a very good opinion of Dick Penhampton. He had a gift for stating the essential facts, without burdening his story with a mass of irrelevant detail.

"My sister went to bed a few minutes after I left the house," continued Dick. "It was about half-past twelve when she put the light out. She noticed nothing unusual in her room. She was called by her maid at eight o'clock this morning. On the maid drawing the curtains, she noticed that the hasp of the window had been wrenched open, and told my sister. Hardway immediately opened the safe with his key. The necklace and its case had gone. Nothing else had been touched."

"Lady Hardway heard no disturbance in the night?" suggested the Inspector.

"None whatever," replied Dick. "And, as it happens, she is a very light sleeper."

"Then the necklace probably disappeared between eight o'clock and midnight," remarked Brooks. "The fog was at its thickest between eight and nine, during which period the burglar might have got into the house unobserved. Well, sir, if I may say so, I think it would be best for me to go around to Woodbridge Square at once."

"I'll take you round there now," replied Dick.

The two men took a taxi, and in a short time were closeted in the study with Lord Hardway, who showed himself most affable and ready to help. It's an awful nuisance about this necklace, Inspector," he said. "It's not so much its intrinsic value — it's insured, of course — but its sentimental value. The stones have a history, and no others could have the same interest. You'll put me under an eternal obligation if you can trace it for me."

"I'll do my best, my lord," replied Brooks. "I should like to ask a few questions if I may."

"Fire away," said Lord Hardway.

"In the first place, how many people knew the secret of the safe?" began Brooks.

Lord Hardway smiled, rather ruefully. "It's difficult to say. The safe

Robot Restaurant To Be Opened In N. Y.; Machinery To Cook, Collect

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, April 1.—The machine age is about to take command of the world's largest industry—the $28,000,000,000-a-year restaurant business. Hungry patrons will push various buttons representing items on the menu, their orders will be transmitted electrically to kitchen robots which will prepare their food, deliver it, collect the bills and carry off the dishes.

Inefficient humans will have no part in the transactions. There will be no cooks, waiters, bus boys, dishwashers or cashiers. There will be no tipping and no arguments. If there is anybody at all behind the counter it will be a modern "kitchen mechanic"—an engineer to wield an oil can when the wheat cake machine is behind schedule, or a monkey wrench to tighten up the omelette mill.

Inventor Behind Scheme.

But far behind the scenes, ensconed in his luxurious, mechanically equipped office, will be H. Russel Brand, inventor and guiding genius of the system. All this, of course, is according to R. Russel Brand himself, who soon is to open the world's first mechanical restaurant in New York. And no matter how incredible his scheme sounds, he has the patent rights and models to prove that virtually anything is possible for the food factory of the future.

It seems there has been entirely too many processes in preparing a meal. The idea of the inventor of the new restaurant is to let machinery do all the work.

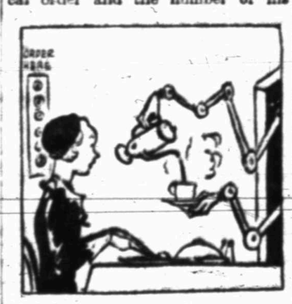

Anyway it is a dream of nearly 20 years for the gray-haired, dynamic, carelessly clad inventor. More of a scientific philosopher than a scientist, he is one of the pioneer efficiency experts, and has evolved a system, called "contrology," by which he means the automatic control of industry.

"My mechanical restaurants will cut prices at least in half," explained Brand, "and when the chains of restaurants I expect to establish are served with raw materials by special distributing centers in farming regions, the prices will be even lower.

"I already have patents and machines which will cook food and deliver it through apartment houses at the pressing of a button. Within five years New York apartment house wives will be able to do all their cooking at a keyboard of these buttons. I also am designing automatic food machines for the Russian government which will be used in community restaurants."

Just Press the Button.

At present Brand has only one machine ready for his first establishment. It is a wheat cake mill which records the patrons' electrical order and the number of his seat, places the batter on a revolving griddle, turns the cakes at the proper time and finally puts them on plates. These, with syrup, butter and coffee, are to cost 10 cents.

The inventor of the Robot restaurant boasts that a mechanical arm will pour soup for the patrons.

The inventor, though, is completing a machine which will turn out two poached eggs on toast and will install it soon. Meanwhile his draughtsmen and designers are working on similar contrivances for other items on the regular bill of fare, and by next year he declares the restaurant will be completely mechanical.

Then the customer can obtain change from a machine, take his seat, put the proper coins in slots labeled "soup," "steak," "French fried potatoes," "coffee," "apple pie"—or whatever he wants. A robot arm will ladle out his soup, which will move to a heated conveyor and eventually pop out of a little door next to his table.

Meanwhile the raw foods will have been tipped on hot griddles or into boiling grease, will be removed at just the right time (even though the steak is to be medium, rare or well done), and sent on to the table. The coffee will be poured automatically and transported piping hot. After a reasonable interval, the selected dessert will follow.

When the patron has finished, and rises, the tray and dishes will betake themselves back to the conveyor, will be washed, stacked, dried, and sorted in the manner of matrices on a linotype machine.

It's all very complex. But then, as Brand says enthusiastically, "it will seem very simple after you see it work."

The Carnegie commission has awarded nearly 2,500 medals and more than $1,000,000 in money for deeds of valor since 1904.

This Is What Konjola Does

Rheumatism And Other Ills Yield When This Medicine Of 29 Ingredients Goes To Work

Promises mean nothing; it is what a medicine actually does that counts, and Konjola has won and held more than a million friends—thousands of them in Texas—by bringing relief long sought in vain.

Mrs. Raburn L. Butler

What a message of cheer are the words of Mrs. Raburn L. Butler, 1430 Avenue L, Ft. Worth, who declares: "I suffered more than two years with rheumatism in my shoulders and arms, and my stomach and bowels gave much distress. But with the third bottle of Konjola I began to improve, and now rheumatism has disappeared; I eat whatever I want without misery; nerves are strong, and my entire system has been built up."

D. W. Jordon

From D.W. Jordon, 711 Seventh street, Galveston, comes this grateful statement: "I had stomach trouble for eight months; food did not taste right, and I was weak, tired, and drowsy. Gas and cramps followed every meal, and I was nervous, constipated, and had severe headaches. I am now on my fourth bottle of Konjola, and I enjoy meals, bowels are regular, and gas pains are no more."

Mrs. Bertie Cowan

No less happy is Mrs. Bertie Cowan, 614 W. Second street, Fort Worth, who exclaims: "Two years ago I endured indigestion and my kidneys gave me trouble. I spit up bits of food; had to take soda constantly, and my back was stiff every morning, as I had to be up several times at night. Today I am like a new person, for Konjola put an end to all my ills."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such ingredients. Konjola is sold in every good drug store. Demand it, and do not accept a substitute.

Suggestions For Silage Will Be Advanced At Show

CANYON, April 1. (Special) — Practical suggestions regarding trench silos and their use in the Panhandle will be subject treated by J. W. Watson, master dairy farmer of Randall county at the Herd Improvement school to be held here April 2, 3 and 4.

The old type silo has proven disappointing in this part of the state because the staves dry out. It requires expensive machine for operation and silage has not been able to compete with bundle stuff in feeding beef animals.

Watson's trench silo is twelve feet wide and 8 feet deep and as long as necessary. Into it are piled short bundles of any grain sorghum. Over the feed is placed a covering of soil 12 to 15 inches deep. Watson uses a tractor to pack the trench. Fermentation then takes place. The silage is cut out and fed. This method has proved very successful in feeding dairy cattle.

R. J. Murray and F. R. Friend, members of the state advisory committee of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, who have been in Houston attending a meeting of the committee with officials of the association, are expected home today. The committee and officials met to consider the resignation of Lawrence Westbrook as the Texas representative of the American Cotton Cooperative association.

A. H. Leidigh, dean of the school of agriculture of Texas Technological college, will spend the day in Canyon on business. He is to speak at the second annual Herd Improvement school at W. T. S. T. C.

Elope Twice In 90 Days

Twice in the last 90 days youthful Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Segner, above, of Cleveland, have eloped. Three months ago Segner stopped his flivver in front of the high school attended by his sweetheart, Miss Helen Huff, 16, picked her up and drove her to Indianapolis, where they were married. When they returned home, the bride's parents sent her to visit friends, and Segner could not find her. Finally she tossed her suitcase out of a window, jumped out after it, and went to join her husband.

Little Change In Andrews Producer

Little change has been reported in the No. 1 Kuykendall of the Deep Rock Oil Co., et al, in Andrews county, following the cleaning out early in the week.

The well, in section 24, block Z-46, public school land, is heading at a rate estimated at between 150 to 200 barrels daily. The well heads about every six or eight hours.

On March 21 the well was shot with 600 quarts of nitro. It has been cleaned out to 4,300 feet, after being shot at from 4,236-4,506 feet. Bottom was at 4,848 feet.

Where the romance of LA SALLE mingles with today

This is the second of a series of historical sketches portraying the pioneer history of the Southwest, in commemoration of Founders' Month of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, pioneer Southwestern refiners.

ROMANCE still lives in Louisiana, no less today than when La Salle stood at the mouth of the Mississippi and De Tonti of the Iron Hand set up the Post of Accansa (Arkansas). Baron Bastrop and Aaron Burr flitted swiftly across the stage with their dreams of a Southwestern empire, all to be swept aside by the sturdy American frontiersman who strode westward to enter and possess this land after the War of 1812.

Far in the background glides the shadow of De Soto, who spent his last winter in Southern Arkansas and found his last home in Louisiana; three centuries later a land rich with sugar, cotton, rice and oil.

True, a rapidly advancing civilization has taken much from the glamour and romance of history, but in its place has come a new romance in the guise of Commerce, Agriculture and Industry. Today, the annual business in oil alone, of the land brought into the United States through the Louisiana Purchase, outweighs all the commerce of the French century.

As the outgrowth of the first refinery in the Southwest, the Magnolia Petroleum Company has played a stellar role in the progress of the Southwestern oil industry. From the very beginning the pioneer founders of the Magnolia Petroleum Company realized that theirs was a task of keeping abreast of a rapidly advancing civilization. People were changing. The jeers of derision that had met the first horseless carriage slowly changed to smiles of tolerance and later to solid belief. The automobile had become an actuality! Distance was losing its handicap! Transportation was revolutionized! The history of the automobile needs no comment. Nor does the fact that it has become as integral a part of the American mode of living as bread and butter. Without an adequate source for petroleum to provide fuel and lubrication, it is not improbable that the automobile would have become an unattainable luxury . . . impractical for the thousand and one uses to which it has been applied to industry and individual pleasure.

H. C. FOLGER
A Founder
Magnolia Petroleum Company

One of the three owners of the pioneer refinery, operated by J. S. Cullinan Company of Corsicana, Texas (1898), which later developed into the Magnolia Petroleum Company. Elected President of the Standard Oil Company of New York, 1911; Chairman of the Board, 1923. He died in 1930.

Along Southwestern highways Magnolia Service Stations stand ready to lubricate your car with Socony Motor Oil and fuel it with Magnolia Ethyl or Maximum-Mileage Gasoline so that you may speed along to endless historical and romantic shrines which now are easy ports of call for the modern motorist.

Contracts For Paving Carded

Construction Engineer States That Two Jobs Probably Are To Be Let At Same Time; No Date Yet Set

Letting of the contract for the paving of College avenue with two 20-foot slabs of concrete, probably will be had at the time that the contract to pave No. 9 south of Lubbock is let, according to Guy R. Johnson, construction engineer for this division.

The mile long paving job on the east side of Texas Technological college will really amount to over two miles of straight paving, Mr. Johnston stated. There will be two 20-foot strips, with a parkway between and the necessary crossovers at Broadway and at the athletic field near the north end of the paving.

Lubbock county commissioners several weeks ago voted to pay for the paving of the strip on the east side of the highway. The state is paying for the west side.

"I believe we can get a better price for the work by letting the job in connection with the other paving job," Mr. Johnston explained.

Class Organized In Three Cities

Three extension classes for the extension department of Texas Technological college have been organized in as many towns this week, J. F. McDonald, head of the extension service, reports.

Monday night at Lorenzo a score of teachers in the Lorenzo system and in nearby schools, formed the new study class conducted by Prof. C. D. Eaves. "Modern Russia," is the subject being studied this term.

Tuesday night Plainview and Hale county teachers organized a class in "Principles of Education" with Dr. R. E. Garland of the department of education as teacher. Mrs. Ola Legg, county superintendent of Hale county, is secretary and there were 21 enrolled, the first night.

Wednesday night at Brownfield J. W. Jackson of the department of government, organized a class in American Government.

Civil War Veteran's Last Child Born Only Four Years Ago When He Was Eighty-Two; Married 2nd Time At Age Of 67

By Central Press

WAVERLY, Ill. April 1. — This town boasts an 86-year-old Civil war veteran who became a father again after 80. He has had eight children (four now dead), the last of which was born in 1927.

He is Benjamin Darley, who set tongues to wagging when, at the age of 67, he married Elsie May Ford, who was 23, in 1912. Neighbors shook their heads and said, "He is much too old for her." But their predictions failed to materialize. A son was born to the couple in 1914, and as each succeeding child came, their happiness increased.

First Wife

Darley's first wife died in 1911, a short time before their only son, William, who left two small children. The youngesters came to stay with their grandfather Darley. Needing someone to help him care for the children, his thoughts turned to Elsie May Ford, who had nursed his wife through her last illness. She accepted his invitations to picnics and socials, and they were seen everywhere together.

"At first I decided I was too old to marry Elsie. All the neighbors said the same thing," he recalls, "but I noticed she didn't go out with other men, so I finally decided to propose to her."

Their Birthdays

Their first child, Robert, was born July 6, 1914; then Ruth, Nov. 9, 1915; Mabel, May 17, 1917; Helen, in 1918, died at the age of 10 months; Maurice, in 1920, died within a month; Frank, born in 1922, died 13 months old; George, the youngest living child, was born in 1924, when Darley was 80. Mrs. Darley died at the birth of her eighth child, in 1927, at the age of 37 1-2.

The four living children, who have been placed in the Soldiers' Orphan Home near Bloomington, Ill., are proud of the fact that they are the only offsprings of a Civil war veteran in the home. In recent school intelligence tests they rated at the top of the list and Darley never tires of boasting to his neighbors of their "smartness."

AMARILLO CORDIAL

He promised the chief executive that Amarillo would stage a real show for him.

Many Texans Pay Carlsbad Visit

Texas had more of her citizens to visit Carlsbad Caverns during the month of March than did any other state. Nine hundred and forty-nine Texans gazed on the stalactites and stalagmites of the cave, while only 637 New Mexicans visited the wonder of their native state.

Two hundred and eighty-six Californians came to Carlsbad during March, while Colorado had 156. Illinois had 150.

Among the foreign nations to visit the Carlsbad Caverns in March were: Canada 22; Mexico 8; Germany 5; Brazil 2; India 2; Scotland 3; England 3; Hawaii 1; and Belgium 1.

Totals by months for several years of numbers of persons to visit the Caverns reveals that March, 1930 numbered 4,077, while March, 1931 numbered only 3,105. The decrease in visitors is explained by the celebration, "Governor's Day," which was held at the caves during March, 1930.

that Makes these Coffees Different

For a Real Change, Taste Rare Central American Coffees . . . Mountain Grown

Folger's Coffee is packed in Vacuum tins. This means that it is ALWAYS fresh. You will never taste the rancid oils of stale coffee. It always comes to you as fresh as the hour it was roasted.

Twice the Richness . . . Twice the Flavor

IF you're tired of ordinary coffee . . . and want the kind that literally makes a meal . . . don't just change "brands."

Try a new kind of coffee.

From the West Coast of Central America

We procure our coffees from certain tiny mountain districts along the West Coast of Central America. A region where rich volcanic soil, brilliant mountain sunlight, and steaming tropic rains produce probably the fullest-flavored coffees known today. Where Nature leaves out the "rough" offensive oils. Coffees that experts concede are not duplicated anywhere else in the world. So rich in flavor that you just can't help making the kind of coffee that delights people.

Introduced By Folger

Years ago this coffee was first served in the famous Bohemian restaurants of San Francisco, where it was introduced by Folger. Travelers tasting it there were captivated by its unusual flavor. Flavor produced by a peculiar combination of rich volcanic soil, altitude, sun's rays and tropic rainfall—that is found nowhere else in the world.

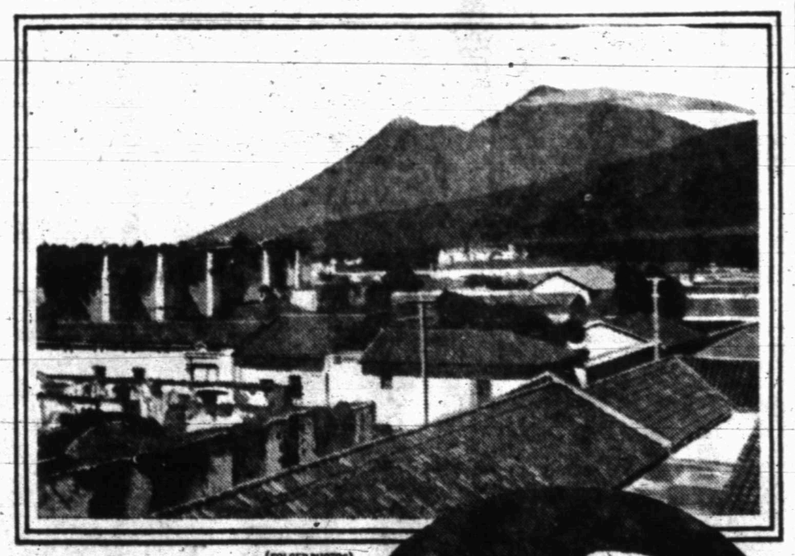

The Folger Test

Would you like to see for yourself just how different these coffees are—in richness and in flavor? Here's a test that is as simple as it is fair.

Tomorrow morning drink Folger's. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. In a morning or two you will decidedly favor one or the other; the best coffee wins. That's fair, isn't it.

Spring Training Equipment Issued To Tech Gridsters

Exporters Helped By Detroit Tigers In Texas League Pennant Race

Fifty Men Out On First Call For Gridsters

Del Morgan Inaugurates Early Training Season, Issuing Light Wear For First Week's Warming Up

Half a hundred college men of Texas Tech reported at the equipment room window yesterday afternoon, admitted their gridiron potentialties, signed the necessary cards, weighed in and were handed football shoes, track pants, jersies and additional thingamejigs that go with an athlete's outfit. By the time the last of the line had received equipment the others were suited out and jogging around the Tech Field track.

Football spring training had begun.

In the absence of P. W. Cawthon, head coach at the local college, Del Morgan, assistant grid mentor, supervised the issuing of equipment and the initial workouts. Cawthon will take charge today. He was due to arrive home late yesterday from South Bend, Indiana, where he visited with Knute Rockne, late coach of Notre Dame, and witnessed the Fighting Irish in their first spring workouts. Cawthon is expected to uncork a load of new suggestions for his team's progress through the spring training season.

To Warm Up For Week

Regulation football equipment and pigskin ovals will not be seen on Tech practice fields until late next week, Morgan said yesterday. Initial workouts will consist of track work, calisthenics and general limbering exercises. Actual training with football will not be in order until the prospective Matador gridsters gain and regain their "football legs." At least a week will be required for this.

While the number reporting yesterday was small in comparison with the number of athletes at Texas Tech, it is to be remembered that about 200 men are at present engaged in following an intramural basketball schedule that will run for the next three weeks. In the cage ranks, including coaches and managers who are varsity football prospects, are approximately 100 men who will report to Cawthon and Morgan for football particulars late this month.

Morgan would make no comment as to the winning capabilities of the 1931 Matador grid team, preferring to await the arrival and statements of Head Coach Cawthon, but dope already at hand together with that gathered by the appearance of the prospective gridders and their spirit of enthusiasm indicates that the varsity representatives of Tech's athletic department next fall will compose more than just another Tech football team.

Captain Durham Eager

Prominent among the men who reported yesterday was ex-Captain and Captain-elect Jack Durham. The star center who was one of Tech's best defensive lineman last season succeeded in gaining the respect of his coach and of his fellow players last fall to the extent of having been named to pilot the gridders again this year. Durham was one of the most enthusiastic men in the athletic plant yesterday and his spirit of willingness and cooperation spread through the ranks of the men present.

The spring training season will continue through April and the first two weeks of May. Daily drills will be the order from 5 o'clock to about 6:30 o'clock each afternoon.

Strong Frosh Coming Up

While nothing definite can be determined at the present in regard to the possible starting lineup next fall, it is generally known that the Matadors of 1931 will not necessarily be a team of veterans. Old men but with a bunch of fine freshreturn for nearl every position man material graduating into the varsity ranks, the veterans will have a tough time holding their forts. The backfield of 1930 will be back almost in its entirety. With the exception of Floyd Wolldirdge, quarterback, the old machine will be back for tuning up but whether it can sound the tones well enough to hold forth against the music of the younger generation remains to be seen. It is doubtful. The line will need considerable rehashing, though a number of old men will return for trials. The freshman line last year was one of the best young lines seen on the campus in several moons and it is safe to suggest that numerous youths in this year's Matador line will be playing under the varsity colors for the first time.

"Football Prospects At Notre Dame Sad", Said Rockne Few Days Before Death; Irish Gridmen To Carry On

Charles Bachman Is Suggested Coach To Succeed

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 1. — No one took Knute Rockne seriously a few days ago as he lassoed hearty laughs by saying 1931 football prospects at Notre Dame were "sad."

But little did he or his audience realize or even suspect just how "sad" they would be—not just for 1931 but perhaps down through the years.

Gone is Rockne, the great master and strategist of the game, who astounded the football world by his genius, and in the sorrowful wake of his sudden departure has come a sadness and heartbreak that so many times combine to wreck hopes far greater than those nurtured in the hearts of a swarm of husky, rollicking college boys on the gridiron.

What is Notre Dame's future on the football field? No one knows, but everyone is fearful tonight. Even the most optimistic fear it not so much for the game itself and its glory but their ability to "carry on" Rockne's hopes and dreams, which so often were realized.

Fight Spirit Returns

The fighting spirit of Notre Dame, crushed by his death, everywhere gave eevidence of coming back to "carry on" for "Rock's" sake tonight, but how long it will last without the guiding touch of the old master was a matter of concern and conjecture that time only will tell.

All the players, past, present and future, felt like Tommy Yarr, the fiery pilot of the 1931 team, whose eyes welled with tears as he said:

"The team of 1931 will have Rockne's image before it as it fights to carry on. We'll fight that much harder because we will know the fighting spirit of that fighting man is with us. We'll be handicapped by his physical loss and his cheer in defeat and disaster and victory, but Notre Dame will fight harder than ever before—not only on the football field but in the school room and in life. Rockne is our ideal. We know what we have to do to live up to such an ideal."

No one at Notre Dame, in South Bend or hardly any place cared even to talk about Rockne's probable successor tonight, although everyone knew that Notre Dame, like no other university anywhere, had a wealth of material — all Notre Dame and Rockne material—to pick from. The Rockne system is in effect in almost 100 colleges and universities.

Out of the entire field, however, two stood out as the most probable choices One was Charles Bachman, star Notre Dame guard in 1916 and present coach at the University of Florida; the other was one of the immortal "Four Horsemen," Harry Stuhldreher. Eight others were likely candidates but those who know Rockne and his style agreed that Bachman and Stuhldreher, the latter a successful coach at Villanova College, were the foremost candidates. Bachman was in Rockne's estimation one of the greatest ex-ponents of the Rockne system and it was Bachman that Rockne tried to get California to hire last year. He has the drive and bulldog spirit of a Rockne. Stuhldreher always has been regarded as probably the man with the clearest conception of the Rockne system. It was Stuhldreher who ran the "Four Horsemen," and whose skill was attributed as 10 per cent physical and 90 per cent mental.

Camp Cagers Wax Warmer In Second Rounds

Liberal Arts Fish Continue Winning Streak; Seniors Drop To Sophs; Fish Win Engineer League Game

With hopes of winning silver engraved basketballs as trophies for outstanding play spurring them on, Texas Tech athletics participating in the big intramural championship cage tournament continued to do honor to the game last night as the first games in the second round got under way.

After worrying along for several minutes in a 4-4 deadlock with the Juniors, the Fish team of the Liberal Arts league, led in scoring by Lefty Bryant and Hale, scored 14 points late in the game to win, 31 to 11, their second game of the season. The Fish defeated the Seniors of that league last week. By their victories, the Fish L. A.'s continued to reign as favorites in the league. Bryant scored five field goals and a pair of free ones last night and Hale dropped in four from scrimmage. Taylor, Junior forward, was responsible for four of the Junior's eleven points.

Sophs Beat Seniors

In the second game last night, the Sophs of the Liberal Arts league defeated the Seniors of the same league, 21 to 14. The goal shooting of Robinson, center, and Wiese, guard helped the Sophs to a victory and the seniors to their second defeat in as many starts.

Cowan, forward, and Owen, guard, led the Fish Engineers in their attack against the Juniors of that league, won by the latter, 21 to 9. Hopper and Hill were the only effective offensive men for the Juniors.

This evening at 6 o'clock the Sophs and Seniors of the Engineer league will tangle on the Tech gymnasium court and will be followed at 7 o'clock by the Fish-Junior game of the Aggie league. Sophs and Seniors of the Aggie league will play at 8.

To Give Twelve Trophies

Twelve trophies will be awarded to as many intrainural cagers at the end of the season. W. C. Cole, manager of the Tech Bookstore, will provide ten engraved silver basketballs to the outstanding men of the season, the all-stars to be selected by a committee of coaches "Crip" Golightly, varsity cage mentor and supervisor of the intramural season, will give two silver balls to the two men who show the most improvement during the course of the season's play. A schedule of 54 games has been outlined on a double round-robin plan. Eleven of the games have been played.

Rural School Golf Tourney To Be Held In Hale County

PLAINVIEW, April 1 (Special)—Rural schools of Hale county have been invited by Wilburn Edelmon, principal of the Halfway school, west of Plainview, to what is said to be the first rural school golf tourament ever sponsored by a Texas rural school, to be held Saturday, April 4 on the nine hole golf course at Halfway.

The course is laid out on the 12 acres of the school campus. Longest hole is 175 yards and the shortest is 40 yards.

Divisions will be for senior and junior students, based on ages of the Texas Interscholastic league.

Tennis courts are available also and those who prefer that sport may play it.

Magnates Fail To Decide Strib-Max Championship Tilt

CLEVELAND, April 1. (AP) — A question mark tonight continued to stand in place of an answer to the question of the setting for the proposed July 4 heavyweight championship fight between Max Schmeling and W. L. "Young" Stribling, and no indication was given whether conferences under way here would lead to an early choice between Chicago and Cleveland.

All day discussion, investigation and negotiations between Joe Jacobs, American manager of the champion, E. C. Wetten, representative of the Madison Square Garden corporation of Illinois, promoters, and George H. Bender, manager of Cleveland's giant new downtown stadium, resulted in the unanimous statement that "there is nothing definite to say."

Conferences between the three continued tonight with indications they would continue tomorrow. Neither Jacobs nor Wetten was prepared to say whether an immediate decision was likely.

New Orleans Net Tourney Reaches Semifinal Round

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. —Top players in the New Orleans country club invitation tennis tournament advanced today into the semifinals. The victors were Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, and George Lott and John Van Ryn of Philadelphia.

With the exception of Vines all won in straight sets although Sutter was hard pressed in his second set by James Quick of Dallas.

Tomorrow in the semi-finals Sutter will meet Van Ryn while Lott fights it out with the tall and rangy Vines.

Sutter first won today from Jake Hess, from Rice Institute, Houston, 6-1, 6-3, and later deefated Quick 6-2, 11-9. Lott won 6-0, 6-4 from Frankie Parker, the Milwaukee boy, and Van Ryn eliminated Jack Mooney of Atlanta 6-0, 6-2. Vines after losing his first set with Morton Buxby of Austin, settled down and won 6-8, 6-0, 6-4.

Sutter showed no ill effects from a blistered foot which kept him out of play yesterday and he easily disposed of Hess.

Spudders And Steers Meet In First Of Series Today

DALLAS, April 1. (AP) — A three hour batting and fielding session today left the Dallas Steers tired, but anxious for their scheduled invasion of Wichita Falls where they are carded to play the Spudders Thursday and Friday.

Bob Tarleton, vice-president of the local club, announced today the sale of Ralph Michaels, infielder, to St. Joseph of the Western League. Michaels was secured by Dallas last year from Kansas City but played little due to injuries. He never reported here for spring practice.

Pie Traynor Helps Pirates Defeat Chicago Cubs, 11-7

LOS ANGELES, April 1. (AP) — Captain Pie Traynor's eyes bothered him a bit last season, but he proved conclusively today that they are all right now by slamming out five hits in as many chances, as the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Chicago Cubs, 11-7.

Youngsters To Make Up Great Part Of Squad

Major League Ivory Used In Plans For Race; Muleshoe Vaughn Expected To Turn in Mound Wins For Shippers

BY VIN BURKE
Sports Editor, Beaumont Enterprise

BEAUMONT, April 1.—(AP)—With Manager Del Baker in camp after weeks at Detroit's spring training site, the Beaumont Exporters are really getting down to the serious business of preparing for the pennant chase. When Baker arrived, he brought along Heinie Schuble, who will play third for the Exporters; Tom Holley, second baseman and Buck Marrow, Gerald Mallett and Guy Green, pitchers. Additional help is expected from the Tigers at an early date, but as the club now stands, it is not bad.

The outfield seems to be set with Paul Easterling in left, Joyner White in center and Tommy Hughes in right, with Tony Boroja as utility. No help is expected here, nor wanted.

A Successor to Eckert

Easterling, the slugger, to all appearances is coming up with his best season. He is hitting the ball terrifically and his defensive work looks great. Joyner White, a .316 clouter with Fort Smith, is the speed demon of the club and a natural fielder. How he will hit Texas league pitching remains to be demonstrated but should he wavier the slightest Baker will have a promising pounder in Boroja, a .330 mauler at Evansville. Hughes is Beaumont's outstanding candidate to succeed Eckhardt as the loop's best hitter. Like Eckhardt, he is a former Longhorn football star, and a left handed hitter, as is White. Hughes spent most of the 1930 season at Des Moines, where he clubbed .333 and on proceeding to Detroit at the tail end of the year turned in a .357 average for 17 games.

First base will be occupied either by Ray Pritz, a lefthander from Evansville, or Hank Greenberg, the giant youngster for whom the Tigers paid plenty of dough when he was a collegian and who, during his first year at Raleigh last season, hit .314. Pritz hit .311 in the Three Eye and his fielding is more polished than Greenberg's. Pritz is a turnover hitter. Right now he has the edge, largely on account of experience.

Tom Holley is expected to be a fixture at second base. He is experienced, a good hitter, a splendid fielder, fully capable of taking more of the middle cushion without any worry to Manager Baker.

At short we find Fay Pierce, with Fort Worth a spell and later in the Three Eye, as the foremost candidate. Defensively he seems to fit; offensively he is something of a problem. In all probability he will be in the lineup on April 15, when the Exporters open against the Buffs in Stuart stadium.

Third base will be cared for by Heinie Schuble. Rushing, a well set up lad from Fort Smith, looks like a fine prospect for an infield job, but hasn't much chance to beat out Holley or Schuble.

Catching will be taken care of by Manager Baker, Hugh Wise and perhaps Ernie Lorbeer, depending on the extent to which the boss will don the harness. In all probability Wise, an Exporter last season, will do most of the mask work. Baker may play only in the tight series, spending most of his time masterminding on the bench.

Baker, for three weeks, worked out in the Detroit camp, watching over Pitchers Green and Mallett who were sent there for big-league coaching, and in other ways assisting Bucky Harris.

Pitching To Determine

The pitching will determine Beaumont's success, as it usually determines the success of any other club. The Exporters should have satisfactory punch and with good pitching to go with it the club will make a strong bid for first division. Much of this mound talent will be routed via Detroit but the amount or quality remains unknown. Right now the squad includes Hamlin and Goldstein from Evansville, Sackett from Fort Smith, and a giant right hander from T. C. U., Rob Cox.

Muleshoe Vaughn is back, with stomach trouble corrected, and ought to win his share of games. Haskell Billings is causing much joy among the railbirds, for his sore arm, which keeps him out of the big leagues, seems to be improving nicely.

Montreal Royals Beat Ags, 12 To 1, In Big Hit Fest

INDIANS LOSE TO PELICANS

CLEVELAND, April 1. (AP)—Wesley Ferrell, ace of the Cleveland pitching staff, went the full nine innings today but long hits plus errors gave the New Orleans Pelicans a 5-1 decision over the Indians.

Winter Links Campaign Reaches End; Sarazen's Winnings Of $8,332.50 In Eight Tourneys Tops List

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP) — The path of the golfing rainbow, that arches each winter through the west, south and southwest, has reached its final pot of gold, and the cakes and coffee have been scanty for even the best of the professionals.

Counting in the final tournament of the winter play, the southeastern open just completed in Augusta, Ga., Gene Sarazen, stocky New York Italian, wound up with highest rewards, a total of $8,332.50, garnered in eight tourneys. George Von Elm the business man golfer from California, stepped into six tournaments on the winter schedule and took in $7,957.50 in prize money for second place in the standings. Johnny Golden, one of the mainstays of the Ryder Cup team, made $7,790 in ten tournaments, but nearly all of it at Agua Caliente.

Some of the better known stars spent poor winters. Walter Hagen won only $2,350, Johnny Farrell $3,101.65, Willie MacFarlane $2,260, Densmore Shute $1,500, and Bobby Cruickshank about $1,300.

The principal money winners and number of tournaments entered,

BUFFS IN GOOD WORKOUT

HOUSTON, April 1. (AP)—With a warm sun beating down, the Houston Buffs today went through the most satisfactory workout of the spring training thus far.

If Riviere's right arm should recover some of its strength, he would be a boon to Houston's pennant prospects.

At present the Buff hillock corps only two slingers of proved Texas League ability—George Payne and "Klidee" Carleton.

Don Howley's Old Mate Sends Son To Romp In Red Outfield

Gene Moore, With Dallas Last Year, Looms As Power This Season With Cincinnati; In Big Show For First Time

By GALE TALBOT, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Few critics ever have accused Dan Howley of favoritism, but he might be forgiven if he displays a certain parental interest in one youngster trying for an outfield job with his Cincinnati Reds.

The lad is 21-year-old Eugene Moore, jr., who played his first full season of professional ball with Jakey Ats's Dallas club of the Texas league last year. Young Moore started the season as a southpaw pitcher, but was converted into a gardner by the astute Ats and became one of the leading batters of the circuit.

Howley's "acquaintance" with Moore, jr., dates back to 1909, the year Howley was catching for Indianapolis in the Association, and, incidentally, the year in which young Gene was born. The club's ace southpaw that season was Eugene Moore, who, you might guess, is the proud parent of the subject of this sketch.

Howley and Moore, sr., became staunch friends in their year as battery mates and have continued a desultory correspondence ever since. Just the other day Howley had a long letter from Moore, now farming in Texas, in which he expressed pleasure at having his son break in under his old teammate. He insisted, however, that he would expect no favors for the boy.

"If he doesn't deliver, ship him out quick," said the elder.

Young Moore, however, appears to have every prospect of sticking with the Reds. He is a natural hitter, his long drives earning him the clean-up position with Dallas much of last season.

He has a deadly whip from the outfield and needs only to acquire polish in his fielding. As the Reds have only five gardeners in camp, he is almost certain to be carried.

Moore, who recently acquired a wife, is quet, almost diffident, both on and off the field. His unobtrusive manner has made him immensely popular with players and officials alike. He is five feet, 10 inches tall and is listed at 170 pounds.

Exhibition Games In Dixie Rained Out For Second Day

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP) — For the second consecutive day the majority of the major league baseball teams training in the south and southwest were forced to call off their exhibition game today.

Only the Cleveland Indians and the Washington Senators escaped the washout, the former meeting New Orleans and the latter the House of David at Biloxi. Out on the west coast, the weather was clear, however, and Pittsburgh, Detroit and Chicago clubs played their games as per schedule.

Colonel O'Goofty Discovers That Red Cross Is Outgrowth Of Cincinnati Reds' Team

BY COL. JOE O'GOOFTY
Former Big League Pitcher

TAMPA, Fla., April 1—This is where the Cincinnati Reds, which I believe is a team in the National League, go through their annual spring pastime of learning to take it on the chin.

This year the Reds have been taking it on the chin a little harder than usual. The only person on the Reds' squad who hasn't been injured in action this spring is Harry Heilmann, and the reason why he couldn't get hurt was because he has rheumatism in his wrist and couldn't practice.

Even Manager Dan Howley has been a casualty. While on the beach in the early spring, he stubbed his toe (an old custom of the Cincinnati Reds) and his foot became infected. He had to walk with a cane for some time, but this has failed to impair his gift of speech.

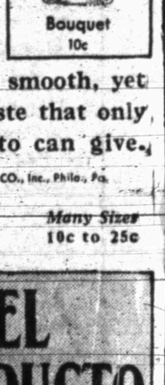

I am trying to arrange a debate between Governor Huey Long of Louisiana and Mr. Howley, who acquired the nickname some years ago of "Howlin' Dan" because of vests he wears. The debate might be held at Soldiers' Field, Chicago, and the subject would be: "Resolved —That Huey Long and Dan Howley Are Great Men."

The negative could be taken by Clarence Darrow, of course, and he would be allowed to submit photographs of Sergei Kalmikoff, the wrestler, in rebuttal. Zarhalas and Ferenz Holuban, and strange holds would be encouraged.

Well, I am going over to the hospital today and watch the Reds in spring training in their wheel chairs.

AC COLLEGE COLUMN

By MARSHALL FORMBY, TECH CORRESPONDENT

WEAR LONG FACES

Many Tech professors and students wore long, long faces yesterday, following the issuance of the April Fool Toreador, school publication. Members of the staff headed by Don Boggs, special editor, and innumerable freshmen served as excellent newsboys as the papers were sold over the entire campus.

The contents was mostly a "take-off" on the leading students of the campus and members of the Tech faculty. An editorial on the front page explained that no truth was supposed to be in the paper.

The four pages were full of wit and sarcasm and met with general approval among the students and faculty members. On the front page was a picture of a cow and the ugliest woman in the world and the staff explained that these two had been chosen April Fool queens of the paper.

TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Dr. Fred W. Sparks of the Tech math department will be the main speaker at the sunrise Easter services Sunday morning in the administration building at Tech. Town people of Lubbock are asked to join with Tech students and faculty members in the annual service.

The services will start at exactly 7 o'clock Sunday morning and will continue for 45 minutes. Further announcements of the program will be made later this week, according to officials.

DOCTOR IS BUSY

Sore throats among the Tech students have caused plenty of trouble during the past week, according to Dr. B. J. Roberts, Tech physician. Dr. Roberts visits the college each morning and maintains an office in room P of the chemistry building from 10 o'clock until 12 o'clock.

Dr. Roberts states that many students have visited him this week following the cold spell which struck here last Thursday.

A medical fee of $1.50 is required of every student at the beginning of each term. This amount entitles each student free treatment at the Lubbock sanitarium and a reduction of prices in all operations.

TICKETS ON SALE

Tickets are on sale by members of the Tech Press club for the show at the Lindsey theater, April 17 and 18, "The Tailor Made Man." Members of the organization will be given a percentage of the sales which will be used to help defray expenses to the Texas Press convention at the University of Texas May 1 and 2.

Approximately twenty-five students will make the trip, leaving here the last day of this month. A special bus will be chartered according to Cecil Horne, Tech professor of journalism and director of publicity in the college. PLAN FOR BALL

Final plans for the annual architect ball in Texas Technological college for Saturday night are being made this week. Each lady attending will be given a Chinese souvenir, according to officials. Bids, which are limited, have been placed on sale for $1.50 and may be obtained from any member of the architectural organization.

It's Peewee Oil Wells Now

Following, no doubt, in the wake of miniature or backyard golf, the backyard oil well has now burst on the scene—at Neodesha, Kan., where Russell Grokett, 17-year-old high school lad, started drilling in his backyard with a post hole auger and struck oil at 20 feet. He now has two wells, and has taken 650 gallons from them by means of an old cistern pump, a stove pipe and a wash tub. At the left he is shown starting to drill a third miniature well; below he is pumping oil from his first well.

BANK WINS CHINA GUNS CASE

William R. Herend's case against the National Provincial Bank, Ltd., for damages because the bank was alleged to have refused to take ammunition and guns said to have been ordered for use in China, was dismissed recently by Justice Avery of London. Herend, of Newry, Ireland, claimed he had been employed as the bank's agent to obtain large quantities of rifles, ammunition and military equipment "for a customer of the band abroad." This was denied by the bank.

In a bottle recently found in the Ribble by boys at Preston, England, was a note saying that it had been thrown from a liner, bound for New York, when 760 miles from land on August 16, 1927, and asking that an address in New York be communicated with.

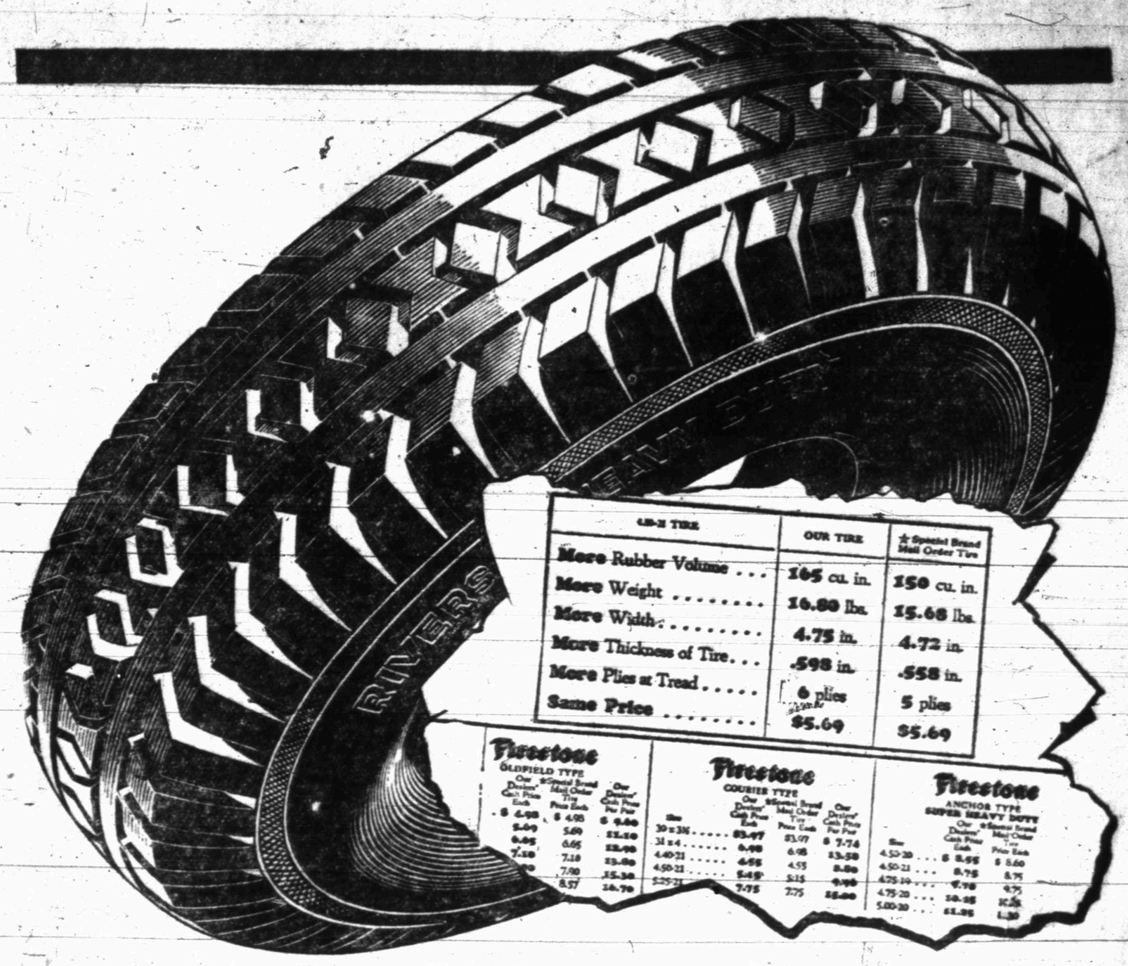

Assessed valuation of farm lands in Georgia ranges from $2.27 per arce in Charlton county to $242.37 in Fulton county.

SHOES TO MATCH JEWELS

Paris and Vienna have a new feminine craze. It is to wear shoes to match one's jewels, with either black or white gowns. Rubies are declared to look "gorgeous" with a white georgette frock and ruby velvet Court shoes. Turquoises, a black velvet gown and turquoise satin shoes, worn with the finest "nude" silk stockings are equally effective, or amethysts, a white gown and amethyst satin shoes.

IRISH GRAIN FOR HUNTERS

In the movement in Northern Ireland for the use of Irish products, followers of the hunt are advocating that only Irish grain be fed to the famous Irish hunters. Hunt Masters McCalmont has just sent a circular letter to all followers of the Kilkenny Hunt advising that all horses there have never tasted foreign grain and that even the hunting dogs are fed oatmeal from local products. Other hunting organizations are following the same plan.

Free Mounting Service at Every Ward Store

Dear Mr. Firestone:

Above, we reproduce part of one of the many newspaper and magazine advertisements appearing throughout the country, in which Firestone tires are compared with "a mail order" tire . . . Montgomery Ward & Co. is the oldest mail order house in America. So when you say "mail order," many people naturally think first of Montgomery Ward & Co.

But — the specifications of the "mail order" tire listed in Firestone advertising fall far short of the specifications of Montgomery Ward & Co. tires. . . . You have also stated in your advertising that "a mail order tire is made by some unknown manufacturer . . ." Well, Ward's tires are made by one of the largest and best known rubber companies in America . . . a company, in fact, that is larger than your own company, Mr. Firestone. . . . Furthermore, your advertising says "Compare prices." You compare Firestone prices with "mail order" prices. Montgomery Ward & Co. states emphatically that your advertising does NOT make a correct comparison between Ward tires and yours, in either quality or price. But the table at the left DOES.

The Firestone advertising lists three grades of tires—Courier, Oldfield and Super-Heavy Anchor. Your Courier, Mr. Firestone, is what is known in the trade as a "third line" tire. Montgomery Ward & Co. does not sell a "third line" tire. Your Oldfield is what is known as a "second line" tire—it compares in quality with our TRAIL BLAZER. The table at the left shows how Trail Blazer prices compare with Oldfield prices. Your Super-Heavy Anchor is also a "second line" tire—but is a quality which we do not sell . . . OUR BEST TIRE IS OUR RIVERSIDE. The Firestone advertising does not list a tire equal in quality to our Riverside—in the table at the left however, we list Firestone tires that are equal in quality to our Riversides and show ALSO how the prices compare.

In view of these facts, Mr. Firestone, we ask that in the future you state whose mail order tire you are talking about.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

Montgomery Ward & Co. guarantees you that quality for quality, there are no better tires made than Ward's Riversides and Trail Blazers. WANT TO SPEND LESS FOR OIL?

THEN OUT WITH MR. WATER-THIN!

WHEN YOU'VE got ordinary motor oil in your crankcase, Mr. Water-thin costs you money every mile you drive. For he's the quart or more of light, non-lubricating waste oil that ordinary refining leaves in every gallon of motor oil. It quickly vaporizes under heat, disappears—sends you back for more oil far too soon.

You avoid "water-thin" and save money when you use Quaker State Motor Oil. Quaker State removes "water-thin" by the most modern refining in the industry. Removes it and replaces it with rich, full-bodied lubricant. Quaker State gives you four full quarts of lubricant to the gallon—not three quarts and one of waste. You really get an extra quart. You get the biggest bargain in oil!

Get Quaker State at the familiar green and white service station sign. It costs 35c per quart—and it's the shrewdest oil buy you can make. For Quaker State means far more miles between fillings—far less wear in your motor! Fill up to-day!

Snow And Rain Help Sections

Some Damage To Fruit Crops And Losses In Livestock Reported Following Cold Wave Recently

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—Heavy snows and rains over much of the country east of the Rockies, while doing some damage to fruit trees and causing losses to livestock, appeared to have lessened the danger of another devastating drouth this year.

J. B. Kincher, chief of the agriculture department's meteorology division, said today that last week's precipitation in a large measure relieved drouth states.

The spring wheat belt, however, still faces a shortage of sub soil moisture. North Dakota reported the driest of record.

The most serious damage was done in a region with Oklahoma as the center and comprising the adjoining sections of southern Kansas, extreme western Kansas and eastern Texas and much of New Mexico. Fruit blossoms were destroyed and early gardens damaged in many places.

Grains, however, escaped, as snows mainly protected the fields.

Amarillo Girl Is Out Of Hospital

Miss Elizabeth Blackburn of Amarillo, daughter of E. M. Blackburn, an undertaker there, who was injured the Saturday night of the Amarillo-Lubbock high school game here last fall, and who has been in the Northwest Hospital in Amarillo ever since, was released and is now at home.

The accident in which Miss Blackburn was injured, occurred near Plainview. She was returning home from Lubbock with Ted Nicholas, of Amarillo, and his sister-in-law, the former driving. The car was having trouble and the party had parked to one side of the road for repairs. Another car crashed into it and several people were injured. Miss Blackburn was the only one seriously hurt.

Five accidents occurred the night following the game here, between Lubbock and Amarillo, according to reports after the game.

W. E. Gird is breeding Devons in San Diego, Cal., from stock originally brought west by his great-grand father.

Two Rowan county, N. C., farmers sold $3,200 worth of Korean Lespedeza seed from an 18-acre field.

Peasants of Hungary have banned tea and coffee drinking.

Local Legion Official Denies Part In Planned Colonization Activity

No former service men from Lubbock, as far as Glen Hess, commander of the local post of the American Legion knows, is planning to make a colonization trek with W. C. "Dusty" Rhodes, of Amarillo, to northwest New Mexico, on April 6, to participate in a cooperative colony on government land in that section of the state.

Amarillo newspapers recently have carried stories about the proposed colony and have stated as high as "fifty people" from the South Plains would make the journey. Tentative date of starting was April 1 but latest advices now are that April 6 is the date.

"John Herring asked me about the colonization scheme and I wrote both "Dusty" Rhodes and Adjutant Sloan of the Amarillo Legion post about the plan," Mr. Hess stated. "I heard from Mr. Rhodes about the plan but have not heard from Mr. Sloan. Mr. Rhodes told me nothing new.

"As far as I have learned, no one else here has made any plans to make the trip."

Press reports state that there were 100 sections of land in northwest New Mexico, on the continental divide that Rhodes planed to visit with a party. Under the federal laws former service men can file on this land under the federal homestead acts.

A cooperative colony, with both purchasing and marketing to be done in units, is the plan that Rhodes has advanced. The promoter says he has a list of 170 people, including "30 from Big Spring," that will meet "30 from around Lubbock," on the morning of April 6 at Hotel Lubbock. Start is to be at 8 o'clock and the party will go to Amarillo and there join a group of 120 from Amarillo and vicinity.

Besides Mr. Herring and Mr. Hess, both of whom are listed by Mr. Rhodes as "wanting to make the trip," others from this section include: W. A. Richter, C. M. Sanders and R. F. Littleton, Abernathy; Roy Prewitt, Hale Center, Frank Busbee, Lockney; O. J. Drake, Amherst.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. (AP) — The cotton market was extremely quiet during the morning but ruled steady at a slight advance of 2-3 points despite indifferent cables, owing to unfavorable weather in the belt and steadier stocks. Trading picked up considerably in the afternoon and prices eased off 5-6 points from the highest in sympathy with some reaction in stocks but principally owing to pre-holiday liquidation. The market both here and in New York will be closed from the close of trading until Tuesday morning. The government's weekly weather and crop report said that the weather was too cold and wet for planting and germination of seed. Prices dropped sharply in the late trading, losing 14-15 points from the early highs on liquidation helped by weaker stocks and a bearish private acreage estimate showing a decrease of but 8.4 per cent. The close was at the bottom and barely steady the general market showing net losses for the day of 11-13 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—After holding steady during today's early trading on some trade buying and covering promoted by unfavorable features in the weather news, cotton eased under renewed liquidation. This was coupled with some Wall street and western selling and the late market was more active with July contracts selling off to 10.90 or 13 points net lower and closing at10.81. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 8-12 points.

Business generally was quiet except for the spurt of selling toward the close which was attributed chiefly to liquidation of old long accounts with much of the earlier trading attributed to further pre-holiday evening up. There was considerable switching from near to late months, with the closing quotation for May showing a discount of 76 points under December, compared with a difference of 75 points at the close of the previous day.

the world in its hour of desperate need.

Two great forces are striving for the conquest of the world—Gandhism and Bolshevism— but both are moving in diametrically opposite directions. Bolshevism stands for class discrimination, but Gandhi knows no distinctions in seeking to achieve his ideal by reason and love.

Gandhi stands today as the world's greatest hope of salvation from militarism, from class war, from Bolshevism, from sectarian strife and from tragic conflict between the orient and the occident. He is utterly misunderstood in the west, but I make a bold prophesy. His proposed visit to London, and later to America, will be an epochal event, representing the greatest transformation since the renaissance.

Stocks Drop Slowly While Gloomy Reception Is Given Second Quarter

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—The financial markets gave the second quarter a rather gloomy reception today. Stocks went slowly but steadily downward until the last half hour when some of the more timid shorts hauled in sail. Government bonds, as well as second grade rails, softened. Corn was weak and wheat heavy. Both cotton and bar silver declined.

Closing quotations on active stocks showed a wide assortment of 1-4 points losses. Rails struggled unsuccessfully against a dribble of liquidation that sent half a dozen issues to new lows. Steels were sold on the small decline in operations during the past week. Chemicals found the going difficult, while most of the oils slipped through their old minimums. Utilities were soggy.

The only active period was the last hour which saw the day's lows and the minor recovery from the bottom.

Cites Motives

Harry Cantwell, St. Louis, the first defense attorney to address the jury, said "there was a motive back of every single state's witness," and he emphasized there was "not one single witness to say that this defendant killed Lingle."

"Out of all the persons in the Randolph street tunnel the day Lingle was killed," said Cantwell, "it is significant that only one will come in here and swear he saw Brothers there. That man was Clark Applegate, a friend of Lingle, a friend of Pat Roche (chief investigator for the state's attorney). Who was more natural to bring in to tell that story than Applegate?

"I do not say the state's witnesses lied. I will give them the benefit of doubt. I say they erred and they erred humanly."

Cantwell said "two of the prosecution's principal witnesses were on the payroll of the state's attorneys and that all of the witnesses called in an effort to impeach the defense witnesses mere police officers.

He said, the author reports, that "it was no better than the meat of the black man" and as "the whites had always been too difficult to catch" it really wasn't worth the bother. The French government, which administers that part of Africa always made trouble for natives who killed whites.

The true cannibals, Seabrook said, only eat their late foes killed in battle or village raids.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 1. (AP)—Corn collapsed 3 cents a bushel today, outdoing all previous bottom price records this season. Heavy selling to stop losses but the corn market under a strain, and caused sympathetic weakness in wheat and oats. Unofficial April estimates that the 1931 domestic winter wheat production would total possibly 642,000,000 bushels, against 550,000,000 indicated a year ago, had a bearish effect that was intensified by unusual slowness of corn shipping demand here.

Corn closed unstable, 1 5-8 to 2 7-8 cents down, wheat 1 1-4 off to 1-8 up, oats at 1 to 1 1-4 setback, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents declines.

Rockne Tribute

South Bend at 11:30 p. m.

What a different reception it was from the usual Rockne welcome. There were no bands, no shouting, no rousing battle cry of "cheer, cheer for old Notre Dame" that Rockne once knew by his gridiron triumphs. It was just a sad and mournful group, with hearts saddened in grief over the tragic and unbelievable passing of their football hero.

Countless Chicagoans who did not know Rockne, but who simply admired him rubbed elbows with members of the Notre Dame club of Chicago, members of the Notre Dame monogram club, delegations from the University of Chicago, of Northwestern university, from Loyola and De Pauw universities, the board of trade, stock exchange, from men high and low in political life.

Sons On Train

Aboard the train that rolled down to South Bend were two of Rockne's sons, Knute, jr., aged 11, and "Billy" aged 15. They were taking their grief bravely, as true sons of a great father. They had come from Kansas City where they had been attending school.

In South Bend they will join their mother who is returning from a vacation trip in Florida.

As the train streaked across Illinois today the youngsters occasionally hid themselves in the car and sobbed. But they were consoled by Dr. D. M. Nigro, former Notre Dame student, who asked them to "buck up" because their dad would not want to see them crying.

Buddies Accompany

Accompanying "Rock's" body back from Kansas City where his football buddies, Hartley (Hunk) Anderson and Jack Chevigny, two of Rockne's assistant coaches; Howard (Cap) Edwards, a former Notre Dame hero, Dan Halpin, manager of the last eleven that Rockne coached and others.

The scene at the Dearborn street station when the master coach's body was removed from the train, was heart-stirring. Members of the Notre Dame club of Chicago were nearest the car when the huge ivory colored box containing the casket was removed. To a man they wept as the tragedy was brought more forcefully to them.

Former presidents of the club carried the casket to a waiting truck, but were forced to hold their burden while police battled more than ten minutes to clear a path to the vehicle. They rode with the body to the La Salle street station where it was transferred to a train for South Bend.

A mighty crowd estimated at more than 15,000 jammed streets on all sides of the station.

Most of the crowd started for the La Salle street station, where another huge throng already had gathered to pay its respects to Rockne.

TEXAS SYMPATHIZES

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP)—The Texas senate today adopted a resolution by Senator W. A. Williamson of San Antonio, conveying its sympathies to the family of Knute Kenneth Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, killed in an airplane crash in Kansas yesterday.

The resolution asked that a page of the Senate Journal be set aside and the resolution printed thereon. "He influenced in the highest way the minds of all men who knew him," the resolution said.

Two Men Injured When Bomb Wrecks New York Building

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—Two men were critically injured, two others less seriously and a restaurant was blown to splinters by explosion of a bomb in a downtown neighborhood tonight.

The victims, taken to a hospital, could not be questioned by detectives, but the vicinity of the blast yielded plentiful evidence that powerful explosives had caused the ruin. Windows were blown out of buildings for a block around.

Former Tech Co-ed Is Lodged In Jail In Durant Wednesday

DURANT, Okla., April 1. —(AP)—Dorothy Keller, 21, former student at the Texas Technological college at Lubbock, was placed in jail here today on charges that she defrauded J. G. Harrison, local man, of $25 by impersonating his daughter in a telegram sent from El Paso.

Officers said Miss Kellar sent Harrison a telegram asking for $25, signing the name of Mrs. Virginia Lyons, daughter of Harrison.

"Paul left me with no money," the wire stated, according to officers. Paul Lyons is Mrs. Lyons' husband.

Unemployment Situation In Texas Said To Be Relieved

AUSTIN, April 1. —(AP)—Reports coming from different sections of the state indicate some improvement in the unemployment situation, R. B. Gragg, state labor commissioner said today.

"Development of the oil area in Rusk and Gregg counties is affording employment to hundreds of men heretofore idle," Gragg said. "Further prospecting now under way promises even greater activity."

Senate Committee Favorable To Holbrook Utilities Bill

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP)—By a vote of 7 to 2, the senate state affairs committee tonight voted a favorable report on the public utilities regulation bill by Senator Holbrook of Galveston. This was the first utilities regulation bill to get out of committee this session.

Governor Sterling had expressed preference for the Petsch or city commissioners bill, which had been introduced in the house.

Members Of Crew Killed As French Liner Rams Carrier

LONDON, April 1. (AP)—Several of the crew of the French liner Florida were killed today when that vessel collided with the British aircraft carrier Glorious, 60 miles east of Gibraltar.

An announcement by the British admiralty said the bodies had been left in the Florida, which was taken in tow by the Glorious.

Others in the crew were seriously injured. All were transferred with the passengers to the Man-of-War.

High School Students Saved From Burning Wreck Of Auto

SAN ANTONIO, April 1. (AP) — Four students of Brackenridge senior school were rescued from beneath a burning automobile by bystanders who rushed to their aid when the car in which they were riding turned over and caught fire late today.

Phillips McGuire, 17, driver, said he was forced to make a sharp swerve to avoid striking a truck. The car burst into flames as it turned over with the two boys and two girls pinned down by the wreckage. Bystanders rushed up and succeeded in rescuing all without serious injury.

Arkansas Football Player Is Given Present Of Razorback

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., April 1. (AP)—Orren "Stitz" Hays Russellville, University of Arkansas football player, is a law student; but he will have to know something besides law and football if he takes proper care of an award presented him tonight by the men's press club at the university.

The present was a live razorback hog, given Hays in recognition of his having been named the outstanding student at the university.

DALLAS, April 1. (AP)—E. J. Jones, 30, negro laborer, was killed today when he was buried under a steam shovel load of crushed rock while working with a crew on a Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway spur near Dallas.

Poisoning Found In Houston Cafe

HOUSTON, April 1. (AP) -The illness that sent 17 persons to hospitals and some dozen more home with severe stomach aches after eating at a local cafeteria here Sunday was diagnosed today as lead poisoning by Dr. Allen C. Hutcheson, city health officer.

The diagnosis was issued after three days of tests in the city laboratories of samples of food served at the cafeteria.

The lead was found in "one of the manufactured ingredients" used in "meringue pies or other similar deserts with meringue or cream toppings or fillings," according to Dr. Hutcheson. He said the "manufactured ingredient" was shipped here in a tin container. He did not say how the metallic lead became present in the "ingredient."

Earthquake

shock, and fighting the terrible fire which came on the heels of the earth quake was a hand-to-hand job. Many of the marines, striding into the flames, suffered loss of their shoes, which were burned off their feet, but they stayed on the job.

Gasoline Explodes

In an effort to check the march of the flames they started blasting, but it was hard work for the flimsy houses to stick and adobe burned like tinder.

Once it seemed the impossible had been accomplished. Then the flames licked up the walls of a storehouse where drums of gasoline were piled.

The stuff exploded, hurling blazing brands over the area nearby and starting the fire afresh.

Late this afternoon, the national palace where the Nicaraguan congress sits and where the government records are kept, caught fire after everyone had thought it was safe.

The palace was only a pile of wreckage after the earthquake, but the debris roared into a blaze fanned by a stiff wind.

From the market place in the middle of the city 150 bodies have been taken. This was where the blow fell heaviest.

As in most Latin cities, the housewives do their shopping in the morning at the central market. They were there when the first shock came.

Bodies Crushed

Most of the bodies were crushed beyond recognition.

At the national penitentiary every prisoner, except a few who were in the yard, was killed. A hundred bodies have been taken out of the wreckage.

Marines, aided by national guardsmen, carried the bodies to a hill outside the city where they were cremated while relatives stood by, struck dumb with grief.

In the midst of all this, there rose the spector of a possible epidemic of disease. It was being fought off under the leadership of the United States forces.

Two airplanes from the Coco Solo air station at Cristobal, arrived this afternoon, each bringing 300 pounds of medical supplies and two physicians.

Captain A. D. Bernhardt, commanding officer at Coco Solo, came with them.

There is no telephone communication and no water supply, but marines are bringing in water from Lake Nicaragua, which must be boiled before it can be used.

American Efforts Are Being Rushed

WASHINGTON, April 1. —(AP)— American relief efforts tonight were dedicated to the prevention of new horrors of pestilence and disease in devastated and death strewn Managua.

With word that the Nicaraguan capital's water supply system was destroyed in the earthquake that laid waste to the city, fears arose lest the aftermath be one of epidemics and fever.

Serums, medical supplies and physicians converged on the city by every available means to transport, with the vanguard expected to arrive by air by nightfall tonight.

Naval, marine and red cross physicians coordinated their efforts in cooperation with Nicaraguan health authorities. The Pan American sanitary bureau and the United States public health service stood ready to join them if needed.

Captain E. J. King, commanding the aircraft carrier Lexington, reported his vessel was making excellent time in its dash for the east coast of Nicaragua.

Two army transport planes flew into Nicaragua during the day from Coco Solo, Canal Zone, also loaded with hospital supplies and carrying physicians.

The navy transport Cahumont was speeding to Corinto, Managua's seaport, with her arrival scheduled for Friday morning. She was under orders to evacuate 175 American women and children soon after reaching port.

The cruiser Rochester, commanded by Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith, also was steaming for Corinto, due Friday morning, with 28,000 extra rashions, medical stores, blankets and cooking utensils.

Also bound for Corinto was the hospital ship Relief. She turned back yesterday when enroute to San Diego with the battle fleet. Her patients were transferred to other ships, that she might have a maximum number of beds for the treatment of the sick and injured.

W. C. Terrell, of Plains, former Lubbock resident, is visiting relatives here.

Tailor Who Never Has Studied Music Sings Melodies At His Work That Concert Singers Add To Repertoire; Is Famed

BY E. M. CIPRIANI
Central Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO.—All day long he sits in his tailor shop, fashioning with needle and thread and shears stylish apparel for his "Gold Coast" clientele. And he hums and sings as he works. A happy tailor. In fact, a talented one.

For as he stitches, as he patches, as he presses, he creates—and his harmonious creations have touched the esthetic souls of music lovers, and pained the ears of impresarios and artists such as Rosa Raisa and Tito Schipa. A most unusual sort of a man, indeed, is Joshua P. Breiger, the composer of melodies, who makes a business of tailoring.

Consider the man. He never has studied music. He has no practical knowledge of the rudiments of the art, nor of the technic requisite to the playing of any instrument. He can't even write music!

Ear For Music

Yet he is a recognized composer! He has an exceptional ear for music and has memorized vast numbers of operas and symphonies. He knows Verdi, Wagner and Beethoven by heart. He has music in his heart, in his brain. And so as he works, he hums and he sings.

It was while Composer-Tailor Breiger was humming some of his self-created tunes that friends overheard him, and convinced him the tunes were unusual. He was brought into contact with Walter Goodell, a musician and arranger. Goodell jotted down Breiger's hummed tunes!

The first aria written was an "Ave Maria." It created a sensation, and prompted Schipa to write to Breiger the following: "Your 'Ave Maria' is a very good piece of music and I hope to try it some day."

And then came "Slumber Sonta," now published. Rosa Raisa was so impressed, she announced she would include it in her next concert repertoire. Two other numbers, hummed by the tailor, and written down by the arranger, are "Melody" and Carol." Local critics praise them.

Comes To Notice

Composer-Tailor Breiger has attracted quite a little attention in the Chicago music world, which knows art has no bounds, and that the attic has greater genius than the palace.

Breiger was born in Russia, the son of a rabbi. He came to New York, and used his spare money to purchase tickets to hear Caruso, Schumann-Heink and other vocal celebrities. Shortly afterwards Breiger came to Chicago. He is now 35 years old, married and the father of two children.

Breiger was in his shop the other evening. He was mending a torn coat. As he worked he talked music:

"I love music, I live it," he said, expressively. "Everybody should love music. I believe if people were educated to music, as well as to literature, there would be less crime. And it is to that end I like to dedicate my compositions, for all the reward I want out of them is to feel that they may have helped make more gentle the breasts of my fellow men."

Liquor Charges Filed On Three

Three men had charges of violating the liquor laws filed against them Wednesday morning in Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter's court.

One of the men, J. S. Meyers, was arrested Tuesday night in the 1900 block of south Avenue H. He waived his preliminary hearing on the charge of possession of whisky and his bond was fixed at $1,000.

Meyers was arrested, county officers said, while attempting to deliver a gallon of whisky, and three pints of liquor were found in the house that Meyers was said to occupy.

The other two men, F. Carretto and Blass Chazez, Mexicans, were arrested Tuesday night by members of the sheriff's department in the Mexican section of the city. At the time of their arrest they were in possession of six gallons of whisky, officers reported. Both are in the city jail.
