FDR Reverses His Stand On Parley Vote

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 3.—President Roosevelt, in a surprise turnabout, has decided not to ask for three votes for the United States in the world assembly to be set up at San Francisco.

This reversal of the line which the President agreed upon with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill at Yalta was announced today by the State department.

No official explanation was forthcoming, but the development strongly indicated a hope on the President's part that Stalin likewise would be content with one vote.

Three Russian Votes

The Russian leader has demanded separate votes for the Ukrainian Soviet and the White Russian Soviet in addition to one for the rest of Russia.

The assembly in which these votes would be cast would be one part of a world organization to be proposed at San Francisco.

Secretary of State Stettinius, announcing Mr. Roosevelt's decision at a news conference crowded by 100 reporters, said that it did not alter the President's promise of support for Stalin's claim for three seats if the claim actually is made to the San Francisco meeting.

There was no doubt, however, that the whole idea of multiple voting, which has been involved in terrific controversy since the Roosevelt-Stalin deal was announced last week, had been dealt a heavy blow by the announcement.

Might Not Support It

Moreover, there was still an open question whether the American delegation, of which Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) is a member, would agree to support Mr. Roosevelt's promise to Stalin. Stettinius declined to discuss the delegation's attitude but Vandenberg has made known his opposition to multiple voting on the ground that it would impair the "sovereign equality of nations."

Stettinius knocked down ideas that the San Francisco conference, opening April 25, might be postponed. He said the speed of the war makes it "increasingly necessary" that the plans for creating a world organization "be carried on promptly." He added that the United States had not received any indication "that any government believes that the conference should be postponed."

He also ruled out talk of a possible Big Five conference preliminary to the April 25 meeting for an effort to reconcile the differences which have grown up among the Allied powers since Yalta. He said there had been no talk of such a meeting on the part

WPB Hopeful On Civilian Goods

WASHINGTON, April 3. (AP)—WPB Chairman J. A. Krug predicted today that within one year after Germany's collapse, U. S. plants will be producing a substantial amount of all the things civilians have been missing.

This does not mean that all civilian desires will be met in those 12 months, he told a news conference, but it does mean that they can be satisfied to a considerable extent in all fields.

Munitions Output

Krug said that despite a slower start toward reconversion than was hoped for last fall, total munitions output will be cut about 35 per cent in the year following V-E day. This, he said, would permit by the end of that year a rate of civilian goods manufacture roughly equal to that of 1939.

Prior to his news conference, Krug outlined in statement form a 12-point reconversion program which promised that the government would not attempt to shape the county's postwar business structure.

He coupled with this, however, the declaration that while Japan fights "we will not enjoy anything like a free economy."

Within 12 months following V-E day, the WPB chairman told reporters specifically, automobiles and virtually all other civilian goods — including refrigerators, washing machines and radios — should be reaching the market.

Shortage Of Textiles

However, he noted that the shortage of textiles would hold back the manufacture of products "like automobiles" which use fabrics.

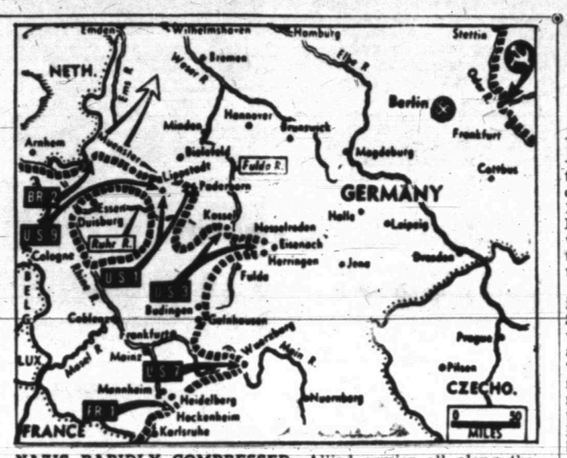

This would be true, he stated, unless textile production can be increased, or unless the manufacturers are willing to go ahead without fabrics, "which the automobile people may be willing to do."

The effect of V-E day on the basic war material, carbon steel, will be to cut direct war demands on the industry from 6,500,000 tons a quarter to about 5,000,000 tons in the next quarter, a release of about 1,500,000 tons for civilian use, Krug said.

19-Mile Sweep Puts Third In 160 Miles Of Russians

NAZIS RAPIDLY COMPRESSED—Allied armies all along the western front were squeezing in rapidly on a defeated Germany. Map shows approximate distances and directions, and the Ruhr pocket where the major power of the Nazis in the west has been bottled up.

Canadians Lack Only 20 Miles Of Closing Big Trap

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Wednesday, April 4 — Powerful U. S. Third Army tank columns smashed into the outskirts of Gotha yesterday in a 19-mile sweep within 140 miles of Berlin, while Canadian troops were only 20 miles from closing a trap on the bulk of 90,000 Nazi troops in western Holland.

Striking across wooded Thuringia province, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's flying columns drove within 65 miles of Czechoslovakia and were three-fourths across the "waist" of central Germany. His men were reported within 160 miles of the Russian lines — less than the airline distance between New York and Baltimore (or Lubbock and Abilene).

Others Inside Kassel

Sixty miles northwest of Gotha, other Third Army units battled violently deep inside the great arsenal city of Kassel, which one German broadcast said had fallen in a mass of flaming ruins.

Fifty miles southwest of Gotha, Third Army troops captured the Catholic shrine city of Fulda.

In the south, a monocled German major named von Lambert, surrendered Aschaffenburg after publicly hanging two of his officers who first had suggested that he give up when the Americans turned their big guns on the blasted city six days ago.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army troops also fought their way into Wuerzburg, swept around that city, and were less than 40 miles from Nuernberg, Nazi convention city covering the northern approaches to Munich.

Nazi Attacks Fail

Other units fought their way into Heilbronn, an important communications hub, and also reached Bruchsal, only 10 miles from the Rhine river stronghold of Karlsruhe.

In the north, Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges First Army beat down Nazi break-out attempts from the Ruhr pocket as Allied planes showered surrender leaflets on the troops, estimated to number 110,000.

Gen. Eisenhower said the encirclement of the Ruhr was a "magnificent feat of arms" that would "bring the war more rapidly to a close," and called on the trapped Germans to surrender or be annihilated.

U. S. Ninth Army forces operating northeast of the Ruhr burst through the Teutoburger wald, a hilly forested area, and raced

Reds Capture Great Nazi Plane Center

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Wednesday, April 4 Russian storm forces captured the great Messerschmitt plane center of Wiener Neustadt south of Vienna yesterday and then, in a swift 17-mile breakthrough of Nazi fortifications, slashed to within six miles of the imperiled Austrian capital.

The powerful Russian surge over the Leitha mountain and river barrier south and southeast of Vienna carried Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army troops inside the limits of greater Vienna's administrative district.

Vienna Radio Quits

As the Russians surged toward the capital and captured Velm, within the boundaries of greater Vienna decreed by Hitler, the Austrian capital's radio went off the air just before midnight last night and did not return.

Wiener Neustadt, one of the biggest aircraft production centers in all Europe, is 22 miles south of Vienna. Along with the bomb-torn city, target of scores of American heavy bomber raids, the Russians captured more than 100 other towns and villages within Vienna's southern defense system.

Tolbukhin's troops outflanked the famous sulphur spa of Baden, 10 miles south of Vienna, taking Traisgirchen and Moellersdorf, two and three miles northeast, and within nine miles south of the pre-war limits of the capital.

23,000 More Captured

The Soviet communique revealed that Russian armies in Austria, Hungary and southern Slovakia yesterday captured more than 23,000 enemy troops for a three-day total of 75,150.

"Vienna now is in the fighting zone," the Nazi Transocean agency said, as SS troops under Col. Gen. Sepp Dietrich, former chief of Hitler's bodyguard, forcibly mobilized the Viennese to the barricades.

Simultaneously, troops of the Second Ukrainian Army under Marshall Rodion Y. Malinovsky pushed toward Vienna from the east and southeast and Berlin admitted fighting in the "outer defense belts" before the Slovak capital of Bratislava from which the Russians were two and a half miles away. Bratislava is 24 miles east of Vienna.

Malinovsky's troops, advancing along the south bank of the Danube, captured Magyarovar, 19 miles southeast of Bratislava and 36 miles southeast of Vienna as

U. S. Cemetery Proposed Here

Lubbock is one of the locations recommended by the War department for a proposed national cemetery, the Associated Press reported from Washington Tuesday.

The War department will ask Congress for a $122,900,000 appropriation to return American dead of the present war to 79 proposed national cemeteries throughout the country, the announcement stated. The plan was disclosed in a study prepared by the quartermaster general's office for the Senate Military Affairs committee.

Three Proposed In Texas

Cemetery locations, of which three are in Texas, recommended by the War department include Fort Worth, 100,000 capacity; Houston, 75,000, and Lubbock, 25,000.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and several interested individuals have been working on the project to have Lubbock designated as one of the cemetery sites for the past two months. No location has been discussed, choice to be left to War department authorities. The cemetery, when completed, would be a beauty spot of a kind unparalelled in this section of Texas, with upkeep being taken care of by the government. Size of a plot needed for 25,000 graves, plus necessary buildings, had not been decided upon in Washington. However, it is known that such a cemetery would have to comprise several hundred acres and should be located within several miles of the downtown area.

The Associated Press reported the study by the quartermaster general's office said, "A general policy has been adopted to re-

Building Of Munition Plants Called Off

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP) — The War department has decided to discontinue construction of certain artillery and mortar ammunition plants which could not be completed and put into capacity production until late this year.

Undersecretary Patterson, who made the announcement, attributed the action to the "favorable progress" of the war. He said details of proposed suspensions of construction will be developed this week at a conference of contractors and the ordnance department.

He emphasized, however, that it is of importance that existing plants continue to meet full production schedules. At the same time, he expressed hope that labor released from the plants which will not be completed can be made available to meet other manpower shortages.

"The requirements for artillery and mortar ammunition imposed by future military operations," Patterson said, "will be met by full output from the plants now in production and from the new plants that have early completion dates."

LONDON, April 3. (AP)—Despite signs that the V-weapon war against Britain is over, the ministry of health today requested evacuees to stay in the country "a few more weeks."

England has been free of rocket and flying bomb attacks for four days, since the Germans started fleeing northern Holland.

ANYWAY, HE'S HOME

BALTIMORE, April 3 (AP) — Major C. Spencer Phipps carried his front door key through years of Army fighting. One day he would slip in, unheralded, and surprise his family. He returned, disappointed. The front door was wide open.

Senate Turns Down Labor Draft Plans

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 3. — The Senate overrode President Roosevelt today with a crushing 46 to 29 rejection of a bill empowering the administration to freeze workers to war jobs and apply other sweeping manpower controls.

Convinced that further efforts to win votes for the measure were futile, Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) called for a vote unexpectedly this afternoon and sat by helplessly as the margin rolled up against it.

Little Hope Now Held

It previously was understood that the showdown would be delayed until tomorrow.

While, at the suggestion of Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), the Senate approved a motion to seek a further conference with the House in an effort at a new compromise, the feeling prevailed that there was no prospect of any manpower legislation at all.

The last hope of passage of the pending bill faded yesterday when Senator Johnson (D-Colo), one of its original sponsors, joined the lineup against it after James F. Byrnes, just before quitting as war mobilization director, called for its passage.

Johnson said that with Byrnes retiring to civil life "it is a poor time to freeze other people to their jobs."

Hatch Pleads For Bill

Senator Hatch (D-NM) sought to save the measure today with a plea for support of the President and military authorities.

He said he resented the implication that by quitting Byrnes was doing something he would deny workers. Byrnes stayed on the job, Hatch said, "longer perhaps than his health and welfare permitted."

Senator Lucas (D-Ill) declared senators using Johnson's argument were "virtually inviting people to quit" when Germany is defeated.

However, the majority seemed to share the view of Senator Donnell (R-Mo), who, making his first major speech to the Senate, declared:

Production Record Cited

"On the face of the record of war production and the fact of testimony by both management and labor that voluntary methods will produce more war weapons, I am compelled to vote against the pending bill, and the vast amount of power it would put in one man."

The measure, worked out in a joint committee, would have placed in the Office of War Mobilization the power to enforce ceilings on the number of workers any

Captive General Says Adolf Plans To Die In Battleline

By W. R. HIGGINBOTHAM
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 3—A captured German general told front correspondents today that Adolf Hitler plans to die in battle at the head of S. S. Elite Guard troops especially picked for the honor of dying with the fuehrer.

SS units already were being designated for the sacrifice, German Maj. Gen. Hans Boehlsen said in an interview with a London news-Chronicle correspondent on the Third Army front.

Another captured German, Prince Engelbert Charles Arenberg, first German prince to fall into Allied hands, said he had received private word that Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering was dead.

Other high Nazi chiefs still were alive and making their escape to some hideout, presumably in the Bavarian Alps, he told a London Daily Telegraph correspondent on the American Ninth Army front.

The prince, along with his princess, Valerie Marie, who claimed to be a great granddaughter of Queen Victoria and a distant cousin of King George VI, were found in their 300-room palace at Norkirchen near Ludinhausen in Westphalia.

A dispatch from the Swiss border said Gestapo Chief Heinrich

Jittery Japs Lashed By Three-Ply Blows

YANKS ADVANCE ON OKINAWA—Rapid progress against as yet virtually no resistance, is being made by Americans on Okinawa as Marines also reached the east coast Tuesday, and infantrymen turned along the coast after crossing the island Monday.

Yanks Take Vital Sulu Base; B-29s Batter Tokyo Area

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

ONLY negligible opposition by the Japanese on vital Okinawa island was reported by Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz late Tuesday as Marines and doughboys gained in all sectors while far to the south Gen. Douglas MacArthur sent American soldiers to the very doorstep of British North Borneo.

These developments, together with a heavy three-way Superfortress blow against a trio of industrial cities in the Tokyo area, were the highlights of the fast-moving Pacific war.

Rapid Okinawa Gains

Admiral Nimitz said the Marines and soldiers on Okinawa, only 325 miles south of the Japanese homeland, made rapid gains along all parts of the line reaching from east to west coasts of the island. The Leathernecks advanced from 4,000 to 6,000 yards to reach the east coast and cut off the Katchin peninsula. Doughboys of the Seventh Infantry, already on the east coast, struck southward to Kuba town.

Japanese opposition was almost nil. American naval guns continued to support ground forces.

Carrier aircraft and the guns of warships brought down 11 Japanese planes over Okinawa.

Japs "Sink" Our Ships

Radio Tokyo claimed that Japan's Okinawa Army continued fierce interceptive battling and that 13 additional American warships were sunk and 17 damaged by Nippon airmen.

The American front in the southern Philippines, was pushed 200 miles southwest to within 30 miles of oil and rubber rich British North Borneo when Yank forces invaded the southwestern tip of the Sulu archipelago at Tawitawi.

Troops of America's 41st division, Eighth Army, taking off from Zamboanga on southwestern Mindanao, made the 200-mile amphibious jump to occupy the great Tawitawi harbor that formerly served the Japanese as their naval base for southwest Pacific operations. American losses were small.

Follows Saturation Raids

After two weeks of saturation aerial bombardments in the Tawitawi region, the troops moved in under the fire of Yank naval guns and the bombs of aircraft. With the aid of guerrillas the islands of Sangassanga and Bongao and neighboring airfields were seized.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said the operation "seriously jeopar-

Lack Of Fight On Okinawa Startling

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Japanese failure to offer bitter-end resistance to American landings on Okinawa is startling.

That key island of the Ryukyu chain has been so obviously a strategic pivot of the American amphibious advance that Tokyo's war lords can not have doubted that its seizure was impending. Yet they failed to meet the invaders at the beaches. Whatever resistance may still be encountered, the battle of Okinawa was lost by Japan almost before it began.

The gloom in Japan reflected in Tokyo broadcasts deepened significantly in the face of official Nipponese claims of damage inflicted on the invaders—too obviously fabricated for even Japanese press acceptance. Intercepted radio and press comment leaves no doubt that in Japanese public opinion loss of Okinawa will be construed as a fatal blow, the beginning of the end for Japan.

With the big central island of the Ryukyu chain available for American sea and air bases, as it certainly will be soon, the close blockade of the Japanese homeland will be an accomplished fact. Even communications with Japanese armies in China are in easy range of medium bombers and submarines.

War Turning Corner

The war against Japan is turning a corner on Okinawa. Its seizure will finally seal off the whole South China sea against Japanese use, leaving by-passed Nipponese garrisons in the Philippines, the Dutch Indies and Malaya hopelessly isolated. It will lay open all the East China sea, the Yellow sea and even the Sea of Japan itself to air and sea attack.

The strategic importance of Okinawa no matter in what direction the next move develops is so undeniable that Japanese failure to have massed forces adequate at least long enough to delay its invasion can be explained only by sheer lack of means to achieve such a concentration. From the moment Admiral Nimitz signalled his mighty carrier-borne air armadas into action against the remnants of the Japanese fleet in inland sea hideouts there can have been no question in the Japanese high command but that Okinawa was his objective.

Virtually Told Of Plans

Nimitz virtually told the foe so when weeks ago he said that the next essential step was to cut Japan off from China. Landings on Okinawa were the logical execution of that design. With broad and deep beachheads established and secured almost unopposed, several air strips already in American use and ample room available to enlarge them or establish new ones quickly the air bombardment of Japan is due to be stepped up many-fold without delay.

If the foe is to make a last desperate delaying stand anywhere short of the Japanese islands themselves it would have seemed certain to be at Okinawa, yet it did not come. If the reason were known, it might afford a clue to how long Japan can stand against the gathering Allied storm in her home waters and skies.

General Slain In Surrender Effort

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE U. S FIRST ARMY, April 3—Daring Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose was shot to death in a woods near Paderborn by a German tankman whose shouted orders the captured commander of the U. S. Third Armored division could not understand.

The tall, handsome general was felled on March 30 by a bullet in the head as he started to surrender his pistol to the German who had Rose and his aide covered with a machine pistol. The aide, Maj. Robert Bellinger, White Plains, N. Y., and other officers who were with Rose fled as the German fired, and escaped.

Earned Way Upward

Rose, who enlisted at the age of 17 during the first world war and won his way to the top from the ranks, earned fame in Africa, Sicily and on the dash through France by his intrepidity and constant desire to be in the thick of action.

On the day of his death he was directing the Third Armored's fight to capture an important road junction. Starting out in a jeep to find another of his task force commanders, Rose ran head-on into a group of German Tiger tanks that had infiltrated the American lines. His jeep and an armored car carrying other members of his staff wheeled across a field through a woods but ran into another German tank and Rose prepared to surrender.

Couldn't Understand

The German soldier, standing in the tank turret, broke forth in a torrent of words. Major Bellinger said the general kept repeating: "I don't understand."

Then Rose, apparently concluding the German meant for him to give up his weapon, reached to unfasten his holster. The German killed him. After the enemy forces had been cleared from the sector, Rose's body was found where he fell.

The 45-year-old general lived at Denver, Colo.

ELLISONS ARE UNEASY OVER FATE OF SON

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellison of 2210 Twenty-fourth worried Tuesday over the fate of their son, Sgt. Wesley D. Ellison, attached to the staff of Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose, who was shot to death by his German captors.

Sgt. Ellison is in a communications service unit and "accompanied the general almost everywhere he went."

Sgt. Ellisoon had not been heard from by the parents since March 19. He had been awarded the Bronze star Sept. 9, for meritorious service in Belgium.

PROMOTIONS APPROVED

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP) — The Senate confirmed today the promotion of Lt. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, Marine corps commandant, to the four star rank of general. Approval also was given to the advancement of Richard S. Edwards, Henry K. Hewitt and Thomas C. Kinkaid to the rank of admiral.

Mercury Plummets To 29 At Midnight

Residents of Lubbock and the South Plains scurried for their nearly-forgotten overcoats and gloves Tuesday, as a cold north wind dropped the mercury to the low forties most of the day, and to 29 degrees at midnight.

About .03 inch of rain fell in Lubbock yesterday afternoon, but skies cleared last night and no moisture was forecast for today. Light showers also fell at various other South Plains communities.

Snow fell for a few minutes at Plainview and Hale Center Tuesday afternoon, but melted as fast as it hit the ground. Canyon registered a temperature of 22 degrees at midnight.

Not much change in temperature was forecast for today, with partly cloudy skies.

Cities In Area Name Officials

Citizens or some of them on South Plains towns having "off-year" city elections, went to the polls Tuesday and did more re-electing than electing. The candidate shortage was evident in most towns.

L. B. Wootton defeated W. B. Hestand, partner in a Lubbock wholesale grocery firm, for mayor of Slaton by 318 to 162 votes. F. B. King ran a poor third. Occupants of expiring terms in the city commission were unopposed.

Ropesville, Abernathy

For aldermen Ropesville re-elected L. A. Towsen and W. L. Fraley and elected James W. Berry and Everett Wallace.

C. O. Anderson was given another term as mayor of Abernathy. He was not contested. E. B. Lindsey and A. B. Reid were re-elected as aldermen. Another aldermanic post went to J. W. Harris. The votes for aldermen were as follows: Lindsey 37, H. Schulz 22, Reid 22, Harris 27, W. C. Jenkins 14 and Dan Ward 10. Schulz offered to withdraw in favor of Reid.

Littlefield, Floydada

Beeman Phillips, serving an unexpired term as mayor of Littlefield, was elected to the position with 150 votes to 59 for R. W.

NURSES NEEDED

THE Civil Service commission is launching a new drive to secure nurses for essential war service in Veterans Administration hospitals and in other Federal hospitals. In a new folder entitled "Serve Those Who Served," just released, the need for nurses to care for war wounded is emphasized.

The shortage of nurses in Veterans hospitals is particularly acute. Approximately 2,000 nurses are needed immediately to aid in caring for wounded servicemen and women who still require hospitalization after they have been discharged from the military service. To qualify for a nursing position, applicants must have been graduated from a recognized school of nursing and be registered in a state or territory or the District of Columbia. There are no age limits.

FOR THE DRIVE

A READER, referring to the United National Clothing collection drive that opened this week, says an overseas correspondent mentioned recently that women in France are paying a dollar a pair for poultry feed sacks or bags, because they are ration free and can be used for pillow cases. She said it reminded her of several dozen which she had laundered and added to her "victory" dish towel supply or passed on to her friends. The first trip to the laundry returns the sacks soft and bleached free of all printing and either the 50-pound or the 100-pound size sack will fit a pillow and be more comfortable than no pillow case at all, she pointed out.

"There must be quite a number of these sacks available for the drive," she adds, "judging from the number of backyard chicken flocks in town, to say nothing of those in the country. There are some people, who toss the casings in the trash basket. Perhaps this pathetic reminder 'from the front' may cause them to pause now, shake the loose mash from the bag, launder it or have it done and add the rejuvenated article to the other articles they will contribute to the drive."

Germany Is Land Of Devastation; People Wretched Among Rubble

By JACK FLEISCHER
United Press Staff Writer

FRANKFURT-ON-THE-MAIN, April 3—Germany has had it.

Nobody who hasn't seen the devastated villages, town and cities and the wretched Germans remaining among the rubble of American occupied territory can fathom the condition of Germany.

Realizing full well how Germany rebounded after the last war to threaten the entire world's security 21 years later, and recognizing the Germans' traditional industry, I still am willing to predict that Germany is finished as a nation for decades to come.

Wreck From Bombing

When I saw Aachen and surrounding places last winter I thought maybe that was an extreme and exceptional picture of destruction. But now I've seen Germany from Trier through the Moselle valley and the Saar basin, ahd across the Rhine through Darmstadt and Frankfurt.

Germany is a complete wreck from bombing—even without the devastation that goes with the battle for big cities.

If the Germans quit today, or if they had quit a few weeks ago, they still would have had thousands of relatively unscatched small towns and villages.

But with Hitler's completely mad policy of continuing the war when every German knows the game is up, it means even the picturesque non-industrial and militarily-unimportant places are being smashed as the allies drive relentlessly on.

It's difficult to be objective about Germany and the Germans when you're an American and when you daily are with American soldiers fighting to smash the enemy, but viewing the present condition of Germany objectively any observer must be appalled by the indescribable destruction.

Before and even during the war, it was a big story in America when the Mississippi floods or the eastern seaboard tornadoes wrought several million dollars in damage.

Damage Inestimable

But no one but an astronomer and a slide rule expert could calculate the millions of dollars of damage done to Germany.

An American might get an idea of conditions in Germany if he could visualize Pittsburgh, Chicago, Milwaukee and hundreds of other industrial cities, plus New York and Washington, in ruins.

If he added to this fantastic imaginary picture the destruction and complete chaos of virtually every railroad in the United States; with normal motor transport reduced to about one-tenth; no water, electricity, gas, street car or bus service; the food rations reduced to about one-tenth, he might have an idea of what Germany is like these days.

The German civilians cannot be written off as impotent but in the modern world it's going to take a lot more than the traditional German thrift and industry to bring back this shattered country. This is especially true in view of the fact that no Germany will exist as a unified nation for an indefinite period as a result of the allied program to divide the country.

People Unhealthy

Aside from the physical condition of Germany, meaning the villages, towns, cities and even farmlands, there is the factor of the German people.

Don't write them off as a bunch of dispirited, under-nourished weaklings. Don't write them off as lacking virile young men. And don't write them off as a bunch of innocent people who neither knew better nor could behave better.

But also don't picture them as any kind of supermen. They are essentially unhealthy people physically and above all mentally and spiritually.

They are unwell as a result of years-long restricted wartime diets. Mentally and spiritually they are sick people—and this is far more serious than the physical health.

Consciously or unconsciously, willingly or unwillingly, they are permeated with the Nazi philosophy and if it is ever possible, it will take a complete new generation to give Germans any other conception of life.

As soon as these Germans' homes come under Allied occupation they are docile, fawning hypocrites. They want to make friends with the Americans outwardly and they reveal a lack of national pride.

But underneath it all they are the same essentially brutal undemocratic people they were before the Allies arrived.

An important comforting thought is that their country is so whipped physically and they are generally in such poor physical and mental condition that I feel the Allies' main job is to act as ward attendants and psychologists rather than military guards to this crushed people.

Illness Feigned, Yanks Liberated

WITH THIRD ARMY, Germany, April 3. (U.P.) — A group of 1,279 American prisoners used soap to make themselves foam at the mouth in feigned illness and staged a mammoth laydown strike to keep from being marched deeper into Germany.

They were liberated Friday afternoon when Sixth division armored units overran a German prison camp near Sieghain, south of Kassel.

The GI's, thin and poorly fed, wept when the tanks, halftracks and jeeps rolled into the prison yard.

3,000 Marched Away

They told how only their pretending desperate illness saved them from being marched away with 3,000 other Allied prisoners as the American forces advanced.

A total of 5,000 Allied prisoners were liberated Good Friday, including the 1,279 Americans.

Another group of 800 Americans was liberated at a camp near Friedberg, northwest of Frankfurt.

The men were in much worse condition than those in the larger group. The Germans had forced many of them to march all the way from Bastogne where they were captured in December and early January during the German counter-offensive.

The men described the march as comparable to reports of Japanese treatment of prisoners. They declared many of the Americans collapsed and died en route.

Violations Noted In License Display

Texas Highway patrols reminded the public Tuesday that several infractions have been noted in display of newly-issued license plates on automotive vehicles.

Each such vehicle was supposed to have a new, 1945, plate on after midnight Sunday.

In addition, it was explained that the manner of mounting tags on truck-tractor-trailer combinations is this: Place the truck-tractor plate on the vehicle's front, the trailer plate on the rear of the trailer.

Trucks without trailers should mount tags on the rear.

Passenger cars should carry their plate on the rear.

"Take off all plates and tabs of other years, and display only the new tag, on the rear," it was emphasized. "Enforcement officials will not expect a license plate on the front of passenger cars."

It also was reminded that "some persons have put plates on upside-down. That is a violation and should be corrected immediately."

News Welcomed Of Defeat Of Bill

Lubbock Retail Merchants association and individuals who last week protested the bill which would have abolished Lubbock's parking meters welcomed news that the Texas House of Representatives Monday killed the bill.

"It looks as if Lubbock business men and Texas legislators are thinking along the same lines," said a representative of the chamber of commerce.

The Associated Press reported the House killed, by refusing to print on minority report, the bill by Rep. W. L. Smith of Beaumont seeking to prohibit use by city governments of parking meters, except by vote of the citizens.

The Retail Merchants association and about six individual business men last week sent telegrams to Austin asking that the bill be defeated and expressing belief the meters had been a benefit in Lubbock.

Civil Suits Filed Against Truck Line

The Dickey Davis company, a truck line, was named defendant in two civil suits, aggregating $264,000, filed in the office of Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy U. S. district clerk for the Lubbock division of the northern district of Texas.

Edmond Ingalls of Denver, Colo., is seeking damages in the amount of $170,000 for injuries sustained from an automobile collision which occurred Nov. 4, 1944, eight miles west of Roswell, N. M.

Ingalls alleged in the petition that he sustained comminuted fracture of his left femur, together with multiple contusions and abrasions of the lower extremities. Among other injuries, he alleges he sustained a left recurrent laryngeal nerve paralysis, together with a serious and severe concussion of the brain. He allegedly is still hospitalized.

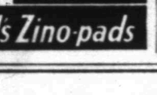

In the other suit, T/Sgt. Paul Panosian, also of Denver, is seeking damages in the amount of $94,000 for injuries sustained from the same accident. He alleges that he sustained fracture of both bones of the left forearm to the junction of their upper and middle thirds, ribs fractured and torn loose from their attachments to the spine, and brain concussion.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 3. (U.P.)—An unidentified white man was killed when a Texas and Pacific railroad switch engine ran over him last night near the edge of Fort Worth. He had no means of identification, and was wearing house slippers when the engine struck him.

Eighth Lands Behind Nazi Lines In Italy

ROME, April 3. (AP) — Eighth Army forces have landed behind the German lines on the narrow strip of land between the Valli di Comacchio and the Adriatic and have captured more than 200 of the enemy, Allied headquarters announced today.

The action was officially described as a "successful local operation." It comprised a three-pronged thrust up the spit of land separating the Comacchio lagoon from the sea. Landings were made between the sea and the Po di Primaro river and on the eastern shore of the lagoon itself.

"Our troops cleared German defensive positions half way up the spit under considerable shell fire and captured a small island in the Do di Primaro in this area," the official announcement said.

Lions President Talks To Club

D. A. Skeen, president of Lions International, of Salt Lake City, Utah, said in a talk to the Lubbock Lions club Tuesday noon in Hilton hotel that Service clubs and their members face a challenge in the reintegrating of service men into civilian ranks, a challenge which must not be shirked or the community will be the loser.

"The challenge isn't a post-war problem, it is here now," Skeen warned his listeners, "and you must respond along with other civic organizations in meeting this challenge.

"Each community in this great land of ours has lost from 10 to 15 per cent of its choicest manhood and womanhood," he continued. "We owe much to consider with them their return to community life. . . . They've learned new skills, new ideas and about the only tie they have left in the community is the home and family which they left behind.

Interest Is Needed

"Is your community going to open up and keep track of them?" the Salt Lake attorney asked. "Are you going to make their return to civilian life appealing? All they want is a chance to pick up where they left off. . . . Your problem is to build in them a confidence in themselves and in you, and what we need most is instilling into them that you as leaders are vitally interested in them and want them back in your community life. . . .

"Your aid to them is not going to be satisfied by a financial arrangement or by any monument you might erect in commemoration of their service," Skeen declared. "You've got to get back into them that confidence that is necessary for them to go on and resume their places as leaders in your community. You've got to take a personal interest in this and assume individual responsibility in the reintegrating back into your civilian life these fine citizens who have served our country so well."

Marks Second Visit Here

Skeen's visit to the local club marked his second visit here, he having been here about two years ago as an international director. He is now completing a tour of all of the seven districts in Texas.

The Lions leader was introduced by Lee Johnson of Wink, district 2-T governor. At the conclusion of his talk, Skeen was presented with a pair of Texas-made boots by Dr. F. G. Harbaugh on behalf of the local club.

Representatives of three newly-organized clubs, Anton, Abernathy and Lorenzo were present at the luncheon along with Levelland Lions. Visitors were: Ed M. Hart, Claude Couch, Earl Hopping, George Broome, Paul Harral, Aubrey Lee, and Cragg Darden, Anton; Orville Cranfill, John Alexander, E. A. Hendrick and Burt Flowers, Lorenzo; J. P. Nystel, Abernathy; Bill Reese, Lois H. Vestal and Homer Johnston, Levelland; Lt. Burton Hackney, Brownfield and Lt. Leete Jackson, jr., just back from the Pacific. V. A. Cross was introduced as a transfer member from the Big Spring club.

LAAF Baseball To Open Camp Today

Weather permitting, Staff Sgt. Sam West will get his first glimpse of what he can expect in the way of baseball material when some 50 hopefuls work out for the first time at Lubbock Army Air field this afternoon.

The initial workout was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, but the sudden cold snap put a crimp in plans.

Sgt. West will manage the Fliers this season—the first LAAF diamond aggregation since 1943 when inexperienced pitchers handicapped the club's chances to turn in a really impressive season. The same reason kept the Fliers from putting a team on the diamond last year.

But things are looking better this spring and with numerous combat returnees ready to take up the gloves and horsehide and with several other newcomers, aided and abetted by several of the regular players back in the fold, West is optimistic for chances of fielding a representative nine.

There have been enough changes in personnel on the field since the '43 season to bring a number of hopeful prospects in. Names of aspirants taken recently revealed some half a hundred eager to have a try at the team. Several have had semi-pro experience and others played enough sandlot baseball to be placed in the "experienced" class.

At any rate, West will soon find out what strength he has on hand. Daily workouts are planned beginning this afternoon and Lt. Joe B. Holmes, physical training director, said a schedule commensurate with his team's strength would be worked out for the summer months.

Should the LAAF squad come up with a promising club the team would afford soldiers and civilian fans of the area an opportunity for relaxation with the national pastime, an opportunity they have been clamoring for since the old West Texas-New Mexico league folded.

Toledo Win First Of Series Over Browns

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., April 3 (AP)—The Toledo Mudhens jumped on Sig Jakucki for four runs in the first two innings today and won their first out of nine exhibition games with the American League Champion St. Louis Browns, 4 to 3.

The two clubs will meet again tomorrow, weather permitting.

Odessa Meet To Draw Big Field

ODESSA, April 3. (Special) — More than 150 boys are expected to take to the cinder paths here Saturday to battle for top honors in the Odessa Inivtation track and field carnival, with some of the best schoolboy stars of West Texas expected to be on hand.

Seventeen schools have filed entries to date, with many others expected to come into the meet before Saturday.

Among the teams filing entries in the meet are the Lubbock Westerners, one of the track powers of the District 1-AA field. The charges of Coach Marlin R. "Shorty" Hayhurst are expected to bring a large squad to the meet.

The Westerners have been winning their share of the points in every meet they have entered this season, and will be among the favored teams to enter the meet here.

Other strong entries already sent in from the South Plains area will be the Lamesa Golden Tornados, Andrews and Union of Denver City.

Other teams entered from the District 3-AA race, besides Lamesa and the host Odessa team, will be Midland and Big Spring. Other strong teams will come from Fort Stockton, Iraan, Grand Falls, Pecos, Monahans, Rankin, Imperial, Pyote, Wink and Kermit.

Poll Shows Coaches Like New Grid Rules

NEW YORK, April 3. (AP)—Lou Little, Columbia's gridiron professor and chairman of the Football Coaches' Rules committee, crawled from beneath a batch of telegrams today and said his fellow mentors strongly approved the changes made in the playing code for 1945.

"The coaches feel that the NCAA rules committee under Col. William Bingham gave them what they needed to swing the college style of play ahead of that of the pros or anybody else," said Little.

Little, who campaigned for the elimination of the intentional out-of-bounds kickoff and the freedom of passing from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage, feels both measures will speed up the action.

The football coaches met in Columbus, Ohio, last winter and made various recommendations to the NCAA rules group, which closed a two-day session here Monday. Before the Columbus gathering, Little polled all coaches and their replies formed the basis of the recommendations.

"From that poll, I would say that the coaches feel we should study the fumble rule; consider permitting substitutes while the clock is running without cost of a timeout if the continuity of play is not halted; and consider moving the ball 20 yards inside the sidelines after an out-of-bounds kick or run in the near future.

"It is up to the coaches to study those problems for another season and then be ready with constructive suggestions when the NCAA group meets again," he declared.

Golden Gloves Finals Tonight

CHICAGO, April 3. (AP)—Chicago's hard-poking squad, represented by the simon-pure pick of the West, will seek its third straight conquest over New York's choice Atlantic seaboard contingent in the 18th annual intercity Golden Gloves championships before more than 20,000 fans at the Chicago stadium tomorrow night.

Neither squad will have its full array of backyard champions, but the 16 bouts in eight weight divisions promise to be crammed with the usual quota of skill, slugging and surprises.

Chicago has six titlists from its own championships, carrying on without Virgil Franklin, 126-pound Oklahoman who is competing in the National AAU meet in Boston, and 160-pound titlist John Garcia, Los Angeles slugger, who was unable to compete.

TEXAS ASSURED TITLE

Texas has been assured of one National Golden Glove champion this year, with two Texas boys meeting in Chicago tonight for the welterweight crown in the tournament of champions.

La Vern Roach of Plainview, a Marine fighter from Cherry Point, will represent the New York team. He will face Gilbert Garcia of Houston, one of the Texas boys to win at the Chicago fights.

Roach was a well known athlete in Plainview high school, and fought in the Lubbock Golden Gloves a few years ago.

In the New York battling, Francisco Colon Garcia won the flyweight crown; Adolfo Castro Calderon took the bantamweight title; and Rafael Reveron topped the featherweight division. Jorge La Porte grabbed a berth on the New York squad as a flyweight representative.

Two bouts are scheduled in each weight division, with champions meeting champions and runners-up filling the other spots. Although pairings will not be announced until after weighing in ceremonies Wednesday afternoon, the championship line-up probably will include:

112 pounds — Jack Boyd, Chicago, vs. F. Garcia; 118 pounds—Bob Jarvis, Kansas City, vs. Calderon; 126 pounds—Tommy Inskeep, Peoria, Ill., vs. Reveron; 135 pounds—Bernard Paige, Chicago, vs. Eddie Murphy, New York; 147 pounds—Gilbert Garcia, Houston, Tex., vs. Lavern Roach, Plainview, Tex., of the New York team; Ray Spurlock, Kansas City, vs. Howard Brodt, Utica, N. Y.; 175 pounds—Adolfo Quijano, El Paso, Tex., vs. Roland La Starza, New York; heavyweight—Luke Baylark, Chicago, vs. Roscow Stout, New York.

Sun Bowl Foes Play Again This Season

SAN ANTONIO, April 3. (AP)—Participants in the Sun Bowl game last New Year's day will meet again, this time in San Antonio, when Southwestern university clashes with the University of Mexico.

The contest will be played here Oct. 13 in Alamo stadium.

Southwestern defeated Mexico in the Sun Bowl game Jan. 1.

Slugger Could Put Mackmen In Thick Of Pennant Chase

FREDERICK, Md., April 3 (AP)—Give Connie Mack a slugger who can belt the ball over the walls and the Philadelphia Athletics can be a first division team.

Lack of power at the plate threatens to counterbalance such assets as a holdover infield, improved catching and good pitching for the Mackmen who look like first division now.

Dick Siebert and Frank Hayes are the A's one-two punch but the attacks stalls after that, recalling to Mr. Mack some of the 1944 nightmares. That club scored fewer runs than any other team in the American League, had fewer runs batted in and finished last in extra base hits despite a fifth place tie with Cleveland in the final standings.

Despite perfect weather at this historic Maryland base, the players have been slow rounding into condition.

Don Black, a 10-game winner last season, is the No. 1 man of the staff at present and in condition to go nine innings but Russ Christopher (14-14) has been bothered by a toe injury and Jesse Flores (9-11) has been unimpressive. Bobo Newsom (13-15) the fourth starter, is training at his Hartsville, S. C., home.

Luther Knerr, graduated from Toronto with a 13-13 record, is the best of the new crop and may take over the fifth regular job. Woody Crowswon, another Toronto product with a 12-6 mark has not shown to advantage. Nanny Salvo and Al Jarlett are not expected to leave their war jobs. Jonas (Jittery Joe) Berry will be the relief man, and Eugene Conway may be retained as the only lefty on the staff.

Siebert will play first. Irving (Buddy) Hall .268, returns as second baseman, Ed Busch .271, will be at short and George Kell .268 will be at third. Bill McGee, Bobby Wilkins and Joe Burns will be spare parts.

The outfield is the big problem with Hal Peck, the prize rookie purchased from Milwaukee where he hit .346, sure of the right field berth. Bobby Estalella .298 will share center with Ford Garrison .209, until Garrison is called for Army duty. Charley Metro and Joe Cicero, veteran minor league fly chasers, are taking turns in left.

GIANT PLAYERS REPORT

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 3 (AP) Ace Adams, relief pitcher for the New York Giants; Johnny Gee, 6-foot, 9-inch portsider, and Ray Berres, catcher, had their first workouts with the squad today.

District 8-B Names Winners Of Events

DICKENS, April 3. (Special) — Returns from the District 8-B playoffs held last week revealed that honors were well divided among the schools in the district, according to reports released today by O. T. Loyd, superintendent at McAdoo.

McAdoo won six first places in tennis, first in boys volleyball and second in girls volleyball to win the tennis, volleyball and literary meet held at McAdoo Friday.

Robertson won two first places in tennis. Jayton won first in girls volleyball, and first places in boys girls senior declamation. Robertson won first in junior boys and girls declamation.

Dickens won the track championship, amassing 61 points. Jayton placed second with 28 points, closely followed by Robertson with 23 points. Patton Springs was fourth.

Thompson of Dickens was the outstanding performer of the meet, placing first in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, broad jump, was on the winning 440-yard relay team, and tied for second in the high jump.

Dickens won both relay events. There were two other individual double winners, with Woodward of Robertson winning the high jump and discus, while Dodson of Dickens won the 440-yard dash and shot put.

Other winners were Standley of Jayton in the half mile, McKnight of Dickens in the mile and Whatley of Dickens in the pole vault.

Idalou And Roosevelt Cop District Crowns

Idalou girls and Roosevelt boys carried off top honors in the District 7-B volleyball playoff last night at the Texas Tech gym, and will enter the area meet at Tech later this month.

In the semi-final round Idalou girls moved into the finals with a win over New Deal, while Frenship advanced into the finals with a win over Roosevelt.

New Deal won third place by beating Roosevelt.

In the boys division, Roosevelt moved into the finals with a forfeit from Frenship while New Deal beat Idalou. Roosevelt then defeated Idalou for the title.

Schacher's Hurling Encourages Braves

WASHINGTON, April 3. (AP) — Manager Bob Coleman was encouraged about the Boston Braves' pitching today as Harold Schacher, a .600 hurler for Hartford last season, went four innings satisfactorily in an intra-squad game. The Yannigans won, 10-2.

Nate Andrews, veteran who won 18 games last season, showed that his pitching arm, reportedly injured, is in good shape.

Red Sox Romp Over Yankees Again, 6-4

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., April 3 (AP)—The New York Yankees took their third loss in six exhibitions when they were outscored, 6-4, by the Red Sox today on the high school field used for training by the Bostonians.

Floyd Bevens and Allen Gettel yielded 10 hits to the winners, the longest being a homer off Gettel by Bob Johnson.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

Good Luck, Mr. Vinson

We Hope the 'Judge' Makes Good

UNLESS something of unexpected nature disturbs the current picture, Fred M. Vinson will be easily and quickly confirmed by the U. S. Senate as director of the Office of War Mobilization, succeeding James F. Byrnes, resigned.

In the first place, Mr. Vinson is a former member of Congress—which makes his quick confirmation more or less of a foregone conclusion. And in the second place, "there's nothing wrong with him." The Kentuckian is steady, honest and, upon occasion, has shown strongly individualistic attitudes. We say "upon occasion," because most of the time he marches in the New Deal parade—in full lock step.

Popular in official Washington and extremely likeable to most of those with whom he comes into casual contact, Mr. Vinson will have a great many people "pulling for him" in his new post of tremendous responsibility and power. That is good because we need more unity in the country. It also is good because by experience and training, Mr. Vinson dosen't appear, on the surface, to be particularly well-fitted for the job.

He has been in politics most of his life; in business not at all.

Problems of industrial reconversion, for instance, will have to be solved by a staff functioning for that purpose and Mr. Vinson will have to take his staff's opinions, more or less, because he cannot disagree greatly of his own knowledge. But perhaps he can take the "hurdle" thus involved. We hope he can.

Mr. Roosevelt could, of course, have selected a man of vastly more actual experience than that of Mr. Vinson, or, for that matter, of Mr. Byrnes. Yet had he done so, he might have placed into the nation's No. 2 post an individual who—unused to red tape and governmental fol-de-rol—might have clashed head-on with the Congress and other federal agencies and bureaus.

The choice of Mr. Vinson for the War mobilization post is so much better than it might have been that the rank-and-file of Americans are likely to be well pleased with it.

So well pleased, in fact, that they, like The Morning Avalanche, will hope the "Judge" comes through with flying colors—an outstanding success in a very difficult position.

It's A Welcome Saving

SWEEPING American naval victories in the Pacific have had one welcome and unexpected dividend in addition to the destruction inflicted on the Japanese and the speeding up of offensive schedules.

Only a few weeks ago the Navy announced a new construction program covering a new fleet of 84 warships of all categories. This part of the building program was intended as "insurance" against the possibility of heavy additional losses as the Pacific fleet closes in on Japan. But the need for the additional ships now seems so remote that the building program has been slashed 75 per cent to save manpower and steel for arms considered more essential.

The reasons for the reversal seem fairly clear. In the weeks since it was announced the Pacific fleet has dealt other crushing blows at what is left of the Japanese navy. The European war is hastening to a climax with unexpected speed, raising the possibility that all Allied naval strength can be concentrated in the Pacific before long.

Whatever led to the decision—and despite the wails of anguish emanating from some admirals—the results are welcome. The saving of $750,000,000 still is not to be sneezed at, even by a public long conditioned to profligacy and waste throughout 12 long years of "funny-money" operations at Washington. More-over, the cutback will relieve the demand for steel which has been straining the capacity of the world's greatest mills for many months.

It should also be remembered that the warships which were cut off the construction list were a late addition to the over-all naval building program which is going ahead at top speed. The United States already has by far the largest Navy in the world and its superiority is steadily being increased both by new construction and the destruction of enemy ships.

It must be remembered that while we should have the world's greatest Navy, we can have it without building it all right now—at a time when our money, materials and efforts might better be expended in other directions.

The One Minute Sermon

Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God: and every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him.

By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God and keep his commandments.

For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments and his commandments are not grievous.

For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.—I John 5:1-5.

Believe It Or Not --- By Robert Ripley

A Song To Remember

THE STORY: Louis Pleyel is not interested in Frederic Chopin, claiming there is already too much musical genius in Paris. He has just ordered Frederic and the irrepressible Josef Elsner out of his office when Franz Liszt is heard playing a piano in the salon. Frederic recognizes one of his own compositions.

FRANZ LISZT

The renown of Franz Liszt, that "touchy Hungarian," who as a child had been kissed by Beethoven, was spread over the world. As composer and pianist, he was a vigorous innovator. He had even dared, it was said, to strike the keys with his nose! Whatever the truth of that, he had indeed explored the possibilities of the pianoforte beyond anything ever before attempted.

But his renown was not limited either to his dexterity as a pianist nor to his genius as a composer. Paris was at his feet. No woman of glamor enjoyed greater popularity. There was not a Duchess in all the France of Louis Philippe who would not have been proud to say, "Franz Liszt is mine." The noblest, the most beautiful women of Europe had sought his attention. The most talented men in music, literature and art called him friend. There was not a salon in Paris to which this bon vivant was not welcome.

Frederic's heart pounded. His mouth was agape. His eyes feasted from afar on Franz Liszt.

It was his, Chopin's music, that was guiding the fingers of this immortal! It was the Polonaise in A-flat being played, yes, exactly as it must be played, as Frederic himself had dreamed it would be played.

Louis Pleyel, his coat-ends flying, reached the handsome virtuoso. "Maestro!" He bent low.

"Pleyel," Listz said without looking up, "who wrote this?"

Louis Pleyel turned to his secretary. "Dupont! Who wrote this?"

Henri Dupont looked at Louis Pleyel and Louis Pleyel looked at Henri Dupont. Henri Dupont shook his head. Louis Pleyel moved his shoulders. Henri Dupont, not to be outdone, moved his shoulders also.

Frederic had taken a step closer, then another until, one step and another, he was very close.

Jozef Elsner's head wagged in rhythm to the music. He removed his spectacles from his nose and wiped them, although they did not require wiping.

Frederic was seized with an impulse to speak with Liszt in the very language of Liszt! He was unnoticed by Louis Pleyel. He was unnoticed by Henri Dupont. He was unnoticed by Jozef Elsner. He was noticed only by the gaping clerk at the back of the room who threw up his hands as Frederick seated himself at a piano at Liszt's back—and struck the keys. His tones melted into those of Liszt. So Liszt, and Chopin played together. They played in perfect and exact rhythm, back to back, yet together.

Franz Liszt, without taking his eyes from the score, said, over the music: "The composer!"

Louis Pleyel exchanged glances with Henri Dupont. Louis Pleyel moved his shoulders. And Henri Dupont, not to be outdone, moved his.

But Jozef Elsner had heard. He also saw. He almost spluttered. But he kept silent.

Frederic, now confident and with an utter disregard of Louis Pleyel and Henri Dupont, said: "You do me great hohor, Monsieur Liszt—"

Louis Pleyel took his eyes from the "touchy Hungarian" to glare at Frederic Chopin.

Louis Pleyel gulped. Henri Dupont gulped.

Franz Liszt said: "What do you call this?"

"A polonaise. It's unfinished—"

"Polonaise!"

"—Yes."

"Spirit of Poland!"

"—Yes."

"Magnificent!"

Frederic groped for words. "—Thank you—thank you, Maestro."

* * *

They played on, together, and for some time the room was filled with no other sound but the tones of Chopin's unfinished polonaise. Then Liszt said: "And you play with spirit, too."

"—Thank you, Maestro."

"I mean it, Monsieur; you have the fire of a patriot!"

"—As to that, Maestro—I don't know—"

"I do know! And I should like very much to shake your hand—but I don't want to stop!"

—To take the hand of Franz Liszt!

It was Frederic's turn to gulp. Frederic gulped again. Then after his second gulp he was all right. Then he said, with airy exuberance, "If you play the melody and I the base—"

"Excellent!"

Frederic played the bass, Liszt the melody. Then with their free hands they reached one for the other and clasped them warmly.

A portion of the score remained to be played. They played on, Liszt and Chopin!

Louis Pleyel coughed in his hand. "My dear Elsner—"

"—Eh?"

"Two weeks! Is that enough time?"

Jozef Elsner touched his kerchief to his face. "Eh?"

Louis Pleyel said: "I am asking if Monsieur Chopin can get a concert ready in two weeks?"

"—Louis—" Josef Elsner's jaw started to work again. But he could not speak.

Louis Pleyel raised his voice: "Isn't that what you came to Paris for?"

Frederic was laughing over the melody of the polonaise.

But there were tears in Jozef Elsner's eyes. Then he caught his voice. "Yes," he said, nodding. "Naturally. Why else did we come to Paris?"

Sales Of Government Food Are Announced

DALLAS, April 3. (U.P.)—A total of $1,386,677 of government owned foods were sold back into civilian markets in February, with dairy and poultry products leading the field, it was announced today by Latham White, acting regional WFA director.

Frozen eggs constituted the largest single item of the $403,891 worth of dairy and poultry products. In second place were dry beans, garbanzos, rice and bagged wheat, totaling $376,204. In third place were fruit and vegetable products, including dried prunes, canned peas and green beans, totaling $373, 953, White said.

The sale of lard and rendered pork fat brought in $205,896, for about 15 per cent of all February sales.

Total products sold since last May when the sales program got underway aggregate $31,619,229, with dairy and poultry products accounting for more than 50 per cent of all items sold. About half the products returned to civilian markets were purchased to support prices to farmers during temporary surpluses which threatened to send market prices below legally prescribed levels, White explained. However, a small part of the sales represents items that have been declared surplus war property, to be returned to normal trade channels as quickly as possible.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

HERE is an excerpt from a letter which I received from Dayton, Ohio, this morning:—

"We have had five days of gorgeous, spring-like weather, and one day we drove up to a lake a few miles north of us.

"Even without foliage the trees looked good, and our outdoor lunch just hit the spot. We just rested and relaxed and tried to coax the fish out of hiding. They didn't fall for our worms, but we did not mind too much.

BRANDEIS

"The outing did us so much good, as our morale needed boosting after the terrible winter of so much snow and ice.

"Then, too we stopped in a little country store and had such fun in choosing the seeds for our garden. We came out with such fancy names as Black Seed Simpson Lettuce, Golden Danvers Carrots, Hollow Crown Guernsey Parsnips, Little Princess Peas and many others. Besides, we bought 10 doz. eggs from a farmer.

"I suppose the OPA would have frowned on it — but don't you think a little morale-boosting is essential, too?"

Well, I happen to know that the lady's husband works in a war plant and that she, herself, has done much to help the war along.

And, furthermore, I read in the paper today that the Earl of Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, accompanied by Lady Halifax and thier son, Richard Wood are on a six-day tour, by private plane, of Oklahoma and Arkansas.

The Earl will address the State Legislature of Oklahoma and the student body of the State University. The next day he will inspect a 10,000 acre ranch, lunch with the members of the Osage Indian tribal council and, at night, attend a dinner given to him by the civic leaders of Tulsa. Other inspections, luncheons and dinners will follow.

WILL the OPA frown on your little 10-mile trip, my lady friend from Dayton?

Your 10-mile trip that uses about three-quarters of a gallon of gas?

Does it frown on the ambassador's trip that will consume as many gallons in six days as you do in five years?

Does it frown on all the petty officials who are gallivanting all over the country "on official business" and on thousands of gallons of precious gasoline?

Does it frown on the tourists from 36 different states whose license plates I checked in New York the other day?

Does it frown on the more than 100 cars I saw lined up in front of two movie houses the other evening?

Certainly you should have taken the trip!

And you should take more!

We are all doing everything we can to bring this war to a speedy end.

The OPA makes rules for driving and for eating.

But God has made Spring and He has made flowers and brooks and sunshine and happiness.

And if you have any doubt in your mind whether to obey God's bidding or Chester Bowles'—well, I leave that to your conscience.

You should not waste a single drop of gas that is needed for the war effort. But the additional pep and zest you get out of an occasional ride into the country will help the war and not hinder it.

I'm sure the OPA will agree with me on that.

GI Bill Of Rights Isn't Working

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

DISCHARGED soldiers and sailors have forwarded a mountainous pile of complaints to the various Washington agencies which are charged by law with aiding them on their return to civvies. Despite the fine promises held out in the GI Bill of Rights and other legislation, they have not been able to secure the proffered benefits.

Congress and federal officials are eager to assist the former fighters, as authorization of a House committee investigation of the Veterans administration indicates. But the fact is that the same scarcity of consumers' goods and equipment which saddles civilians also prevents former servicemen from buying materials to set themselves up in business, purchasing homes or farms under government loan guarantees or engaging in any income-producing enterprises.

TUCKER

Under pressure from the American Legion and other organizations, the Office of Price administration has made available many articles on the ration list. An ex-soldier may apply for commodities for small business purposes which are denied to civilian competitors. But when he tries to buy these things, he frequently finds that they are not obtainable at any price. His preferential status avails him nothing.

Incidentally, it is probable that OPA will be named as a clearing house to establish contact between the veteran and the various federal bureaus—War Production board, Surplus Property, Maury Maverick's Smaller War Plants corporation—which are supposed to give him help. The War department will soon assign a highranking officer as Veterans' Adviser to Price Administrator Chester Bowles.

Next step will be to name soldier specialists for OPA's eight regional offices and enlist volunteer veterans' aides who will be assigned to the 6,000 branches throughout the country.

HELP: Although the Surplus Property and War Production boards began to tackle this problem several months ago, their legal branches are still struggling with the task of framing regulations on behalf of the veterans. These are the two units which have control over equipment and heavy goods—automotive, house and store furnishings, building materials, clothing etc.—which an ex-fighter will need the most in resuming his old vocation or in trying new ways of making a living.

WPB Chairman Krug's lawyers drew up a memorandum on this subject a few weeks ago, but it is still in the processing stage. SPB has not yet got around to putting its thoughts on paper, although Chairman Guy Gillette, who served in the Spanish War and World War I, is extremely anxious to help the men who have worn the uniform.

Despite these delays, both agencies will adopt one basic rule: A veteran shall have priorities on all kinds of civilian goods, provided that the filling of his order does not handicap the war effort.

Whenever possible, he will have a preferential status as to prices and supplies—an arrangement similar to that by which he rates extra points when he takes an examination for a Civil Service job.

Tentative regulations provide that in the event a civilian or official supplier refuses to fill his needs, or if he thinks he is being gypped, he can force the recalcitrant to give him a letter justifying the action. This document will furnish the basis for an appeal to the appropriate agency in Washington.

Best advice to a discharged GI seeking federal assistance of any sort—save for such things as pensions or hospitalization—is that he get in touch with his nearest War Price and Rationing board. These offices will soon be staffed with special advisers on ex-soldiers' problems.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

AS the series of Nazi catastrophes is viewed, everyone wonders just how Hitler's goose will be cooked. Maybe he'll sneak off in false whiskers, go down scratching and biting, grovel for a reprieve or cut his throat.

Here are intriguing deductions regarding his fate which the writer picked up from correspondents, statesmen, economists and generals. At this stage of Die Gotterdammerung no alternative group has the power to hand in Germany's sword and we will not deal with Hitler. But he still has an ace which he may be holding for this particuar purpose.

LEMAN

He may give Marshal Petain full plenipotentiary authority to ask formally for an armistice. German soldiers and civilians who trailed to war behind an Austrian paper hanger may accept a French general as their pease emissary.

The spectacle of the former hero of Verdun again begging for mercy may excite the sympathy of sentimentalists. But it will not move French and Allied leaders who know the full story of this Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde.

De Gaulle officials in New York reveal that Marshal Weygand once took to the Vichy chief an American plan to join us in the war. The collaborationist replied that he wanted time for study and sent Weygand home by auto.

Barely had the messenger left the administration building when Petain phoned the Gestapo to arrest Weygand. Foch's former lieutenant now lies in a German dungeon. A marshal who would betray his own comrade in arms will never be trusted again.

MURDER: A megalomaniac like Hitler might give himself up as a sacrificial lamb for his people, hoping thereby to be idolized by German youth and praised by historians.

But it is doubtful whether he would make the gesture unless he had the promise that he would not be shot. Then, like Napoleon at St. Helena, he would write lies to justify himself to future Germans.

But it is not probable that shrewd Ike Eisenhower will swallow that bait. To jug Hitler is not enough. Himmler is no doubt a worse scoundrel. So long as this Gestapo chief and the lesser-known gangsters are loose—villains such as Schepmann, Speer, Borrmann—there can be no peace with the Reich.

This crew sprang from the underground that slew Rathenau and Erzberger after the last war. It plans to dive again and keep Europe in turmoil.

New York bankers are convinced by their investigations that the Nazis are piling up cash in neutral countries to finance plots, sabotage and revolutions. The murder of the pro-Allied mayor of Aachen presages tomorrow's violence. Gold reserves in nonbilligerent states jumped between 1940 and 1944 from a little over a billion dollars to nearly three billion. This indicates Brownshirt monkey business.

It is strongly suspected that Nazi money is cached in Switzerland in notorious "numbered accounts." A depositor discloses his name only to the head of the bank. He is given a key word and a number; thereafter, anyone can use the password to withdraw funds.

It is known in Wall Street that holding companies in the names of Swedisn dummies own stock in German firms throughout the world and keep the securities in trust for mysterious unidentified persons. To put Hitler in an insane asylum along with Hess but to allow Goebbels, Goering and other bigwigs to get their fingers on this cash would be stupid.

FAKE: An assassin might precipitate a German revolt by shooting Hitler, just as a conspirator hastened the Russian Revolution by slaying the Mad Monk Rasputin. Or Hitler might take his own life as Nero did.

The kaiser talked the same nonsense, but when the moment came to pull the trigger he ran away to Holland. In the first mutiny against the Brownshirt party, Comrade Adolf placed a loaded revolver on the table and told Roehm to kill himself but his henchman was too scared

Weird Scenes And Sounds Along The Rhine

Artillery Fires Over Heavy Fog

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

ALONG THE RHINE.—It was quiet here on the road in the woods, and damp from a heavy fog that hung low about the trees. We were close to the war, not too close, but close enough for an ordinary civilian.

Down the hill at the end of the road, not more than a mile, though the fog blotted it out from where I stood, was the little town of Boppard. American forces were preparing to cross the Rhine there, another of that series of crossings which now has taken the armies across the water barrier and far beyond.

STOKES

This operation had begun in the middle of the night. It's a strange feeling you get, even when safe from any sort of danger, a feeling which has a kinship with the chill and the damp and the fog, a nervous uncertainty clutching at you inside, because you are close to the scene of action where men are trying to kill each other, though the woods look peaceful.

Then you ask yourself why you are here. But here you are. You think very much about your own skin. It's all very unreal. It's hard to believe. It's hard because here, close to it, you still don't believe it could go on. You don't want to believe that it goes on. It's like something in a dream. But still there is the intermittent dialogue of the artillery, like the occasional monosyllabic remarks of two women, understanding old friends, as they sit at their sewing.

Artillery Fire Heard

This sound of artillery, too, seemed unreal, something you couldn't believe for what it really was. A gun near us, in the woods off from the road, barked every so often, a minor sort of pop, muffled by the fog.

There was no reverberation along the river as might be expected. Behind us on our side of the river, far off, there was a bigger gun, with a more mature voice, and from across the river there came the occasional sound of the German artillery. It seemed a long way off. They were playing a game with each other, not really very serious yet.

OUR jeep was in a line of vehicles moving down the hill toward the Rhine. We were passing along the main highway headed elsewhere when we decided we might as well turn into the road for a look. We had not gone far when the procession was halted up ahead. The captain accompanying me got out and so did I. We walked down the road a little way to see what had happened. We never did find out, because we began to talk to men along the way. It was comforting to me to talk with others.

Just ahead was a truck equipped with a crane. This was one of the cogs in the great service of supply that keeps the armies in all those things that they must have to exist and move and fight. Its forces get mixed up in battles, too.

We talked to the two young soldiers who were in charge of the truck—Duane P. Ploog, of Mc Causland, Ia., and Steven A. Smith, jr., of Grindstone, Pa. Both were crane operators. This was routine work for them. They had brought the crane here to lift some Navy LCVP boats, which means landing craft for vehicles and personnel. Ahead of us, in line, were six of these boats on trucks.

Navy Far Inland

We talked to the men with them. I remarked to a captain that this was the farthest inland I had ever seen the Navy, except at an Army-Navy football game, and this was co-operation with the Army, not open warfare.

He took it in the spirit in which it was said. He explained that the Navy had a number of these boats in the vicinity. They have helped with various crossings of the Rhine.

Presently smaller vehicles were permitted to move, though the larger ones were held back. So we drove on down the hill, with the town and the river still hidden behind the wall of fog. The artillery continued its broken conversation.

WE came out of the mist and into the town. For several blocks we rode through it. We stopped and spoke to a group of medical troops waiting in a doorway of a building for the call. They had not been needed so far.

In the center of the town we stopped and talked with an MP who said the Germans had thrown a few shells into the town the night before, and now their guns were dropping a random shell here and there in the river, with no damage reported yet. We decided we had come close enough to the war, and we went back up the hill and on our way.

Later I watched for news of this operation, for this was my own little piece of war.

Though the Germans showed little opposition at first, they later made it right hot. But the crossing was made successfully, and another American force was on its way to Berlin.

CADET IS KILLED

EAGLE PASS, April 3. (AP)—The death last night of Aviation Cadet Luke V. STOCKS CLING TO RECOVERY

NEW YORK, April 3 (AP)—Selected rails and industrials held to the recovery route in today's stock market although early gains running to 2 or more points were reduced or converted into small minus signs at the close.

Transfers of 730,000 shares compared with 650,000 Monday.

Wall Street still was a bit cautious pending war developments. Customers, however, were inclined to reinstate commitments partly on the idea of reconversion troubles might be less severe than anticipated. Dividends, earnings and the search of idle funds for employment provided buying arguments. Hopes for some corporation tax relief when V-E day arrives also bolstered sentiment.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 60.6, its sixth consecutive upturn. Of 874 issues registering, 406 were ahead, 240 down and 228 unchanged.

Santa Fe was up a point at a 1945 peak. Advances were retained by Great Northern, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Socony, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co., Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, Goodrich, Woolworth and General Electric. In the losing ranks were Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Kennecott, U. S. Rubber and North American.

Bonds were relatively steady but the majority emerged under the day's highs. At Chicago wheat was unchanged to off 1 cent a bushel. Cotton was all even to up 25 cents a bale.

NEW YORK FUTURES

Commission house buying centered in the new crop months on growing belief the administration will aim at a parity goal next season.

Traders were also impressed by a resumption of military buying of textiles for the third quarter.

Gold Is Unearthed By Texas Colonel

ILOILO, Panay, April 3. (UP)—Col. Charles E. Smith, of El Paso, Tex., dug through six inches of burned molasses and five feet of earth today to recover $125,000 in gold bullion he buried three years ago as he fled ahead of the Japs.

Smith, who worked with guerrilla forces on his return to the islands from Australia, remembered the exact spot of his cache despite the fact that the molasses warehouse he had chosen had been burned to the ground.

The gold was mined while Smith was an engineer at the mines of Col. Andres Soriano on nearby Masbate island. He fled the island in 1942, to return when the 40th division retook it from the Japanese.

Surplus Planes To Be Sold Friday At Field Near Lamesa

Disposal of 3,000 surplus airplanes used as primary trainers by the Army and Navy will start in sales at various storage fields over the nation Friday, it was announced Tuesday by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Planes for purchasers of this area will be on sale at Lamesa field.

The planes will be sold at fixed prices, each plane bearing a price tag which states the price, make, model, manufacturer's serial number, make and horsepower of engine, service identification, terms and condition of sale. Actual prices have been based upon the condition of each plane.

These planes have been declared surplus by the armed services because they are no longer needed in training pilots. Previous to Friday they had been marketed on a competitive bid basis, but they are now on a price-tag basis at prices ranging from $875 to $2,400. Included in the planes to be sold are Fairchilds, Ryans, Boeings and other primary trainers formerly used to train Army and Navy pilots.

Powered by a single engine and capable of carrying a pilot and one passenger, the aircraft have a cruising speed higher than 90 miles-per-hour. All of them were built to meet Army and Navy specifications, and are adaptable to personal flying, fixed-base operations, training and certain miscellaneous uses.

Besides Lamesa, sales will be conducted in Texas at Fort Worth, Fort Stockton, Cuero, Vernon, Stamford, Corsicana, Ballinger and Houston.

Western Front

around both sides of Bielefeld within 175 miles of Berlin. These troops were closing up to the Weser river, one of two major water barriers before Berlin.

British In Osnabrueck

North of the Ninth Army, the British drove into the great industrial center of Osnabrueck on the road to Bremen, and to the west were striking beyond captured Nordhorn, 60 miles south of the German North sea coast.

The Canadians on the left had crossed the Twenthe canal between Zutphen and Hengelo, and apparently by nightfall had cut the main Hannover-Holland railway which is the major enemy escape route out of the area south of the Zuider Zee, now only about 20 miles beyond the Canadians.

The Canadian-British moves threatened to seal off the big Dutch cities of the Hague, Amsterdam, Haarlem and Rotterdam.

At Gotha, the famous Fourth armored (breakthrough) division had carried within 75 miles of the big Saxony city of Leipzig and within 26 miles of Weimar, birthplace of the German republic. A dispatch from Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 12th Army group headquarters said still other Third Army troops were a bare 160 miles from Russian siege lines below Berlin.

86 Miles From Leipzig

The Germans said Third Army troops were storming Suhl, 68 miles from Czechoslovakia and 86 from the big Saxony city of Leipzig, putting the Americans within 168 miles of Prague, Czechoslovak capital.

The street fighting in the ancient Hesse-Nassau capital of Kassel, 165 miles southwest of Berlin, was the bitterest yet for Gen. Patton's shock troops in Germany. The enemy kept his aircraft and tank plants working in Kassel, even though the city of 217,085 was being conquered and American guns sprayed the factories with massed bombardments.

Muenster, capital of Westphalia was captured by the U. S. 17th Airborne division and British tanks. Town after town fell in the north.

On the north side of the Ruhr trap, the Ninth Army captured Recklinghausen, a munitions producer of 87,000 people. The Ninth Army fought the last Germans in Hamm, eastern exit of the Ruhr and Europe's largest rail center.

The Ninth was less than 50 miles from Hannover, 114 from Hamburg and 80 from Brunswick.

At last reports, the Canadians were within eight miles of Deventer on the main traffic line to the V-bomb launching sites on the Dutch coast between Rotterdam and The Hague.

Through the tightening corridor around the eastern end of the Zuider Zee, the Germans were running eastward.

There seemed considerable likelihood that this time, the wehrmacht's wailing need for manpower inside Germany would outweigh the past policy of coastal holdouts and that even the vengeance bases on the Dutch coast would be abandoned. The Nazis massed barges by the hundreds on the Zuider Zee.

Brakeman Killed In Freight Train Crash

FORT WORTH, April 3 (AP) — Richard O. Ball, 45, of Bridgeport, brakeman, was killed this afternoon when a south bound Rock Island freight train jumped the rails and crashed into a waiting northbound freight train at a switch line just north of Saginaw.

Four of the southbound train's cars were derailed along with the engine when the rail buckled on a soft track.

dizes the enemy's main position in the Sulu archipelago at Jolo," capital city of the Moros.

On the newly invaded Bicol peninsula of southeast Luzon, American doughboys gained 22 miles northwest from the port of Legaspi. Northwest of the peninsula other forces occupied San Pablo, the Laguna provincial capital. These two forces have virtually trapped all Japanese troops on the peninsula.

Troops of the U. S. 40th division were on the southern edge of the Silay airfield on Negros island. Fifty-eight Japanese pillboxes and emplacements were destroyed on Cebu island.

Formosa Coast Battered

American bombers from the Philippines struck three airdromes on Formosa's east coast and blasted other targets there. Other planes bombed blockade runners on the China sea.

Australian troops on southern Bougainville were aided by tanks in beating back a two-day Japanese attack east of the Puriata river.

The triple Superfortress blow against three cities in the Tokyo region was reported by the 21st Bomber command at Guam. A "very large force" of the sky giants—300 or more—split into three formations over Honshu and made pre-dawn low-level demolition attacks on industrial targets at Shizuoka, 85 miles south of Tokyo, and Tachikawa and Koizumi, 20 miles west and north of the capital. It was the first B-29 strike against the latter cities.

The weather was bad and the Superfort bombardiers turned loose their explosives by precision instruments.

The city of Stettin has some of Germany's most extensive shipyards, including those for U-boat construction.

Tabor Returns As Captain Of Patrol

C. E. Tabor, who went to the Marine corps two years ago on leave from the Texas Highway patrol, has returned to his post as captain of the Lubbock district of the patrol.

He was retired from the Marine corps as a captain, March 16, at San Diego Marine Air depot. His first assignment was as commanding officer of Marine Training squad 27, at the Naval Training station at Norman, Okla. He then was transferred to a combat unit, Marine Bombing squadron 611, as adjutant.

Captain Tabor's family, his wife and two sons, 12 and 10, will join him here after the Dallas school term is over in June.

Capt. N. R. Smith, who served as commanding officer during Captain Tabor's absence from the patrol, recently was transferred from Lubbock to the Austin district.

He was assisted in his administrative duties by Sgt. John Hollyfield, who remains.

Eisenhower Sends Appeal To Germans

LONDON, April 3 (AP) — Gen. Eisenhower, declaring "the end is not far off," broadcast an appeal to town dwellers in western Germany today to stop working, and at the some time the Twelfth Army group broadcast a warning to trapped German forces in the Ruhr to surrender or be wiped out.

The Army group, over the Luxembourg radio, told encircled enemy troops estimated at 110,000 that "there is no hope for you."

"You must know that this is no longer war," the message said. ". . . Further fighting would be un-soldierlike. Honest soldiers do not resort to murder and suicide.

"Army group 'B' is encircled and the German high command has lost this command. The 160th Tank division and the Second Parachutist division who tried to break out have shown how impossible this proves.

". . . Follow the orders of surrender issued by Gen. Eisenhower. Those who follow his orders will live. Others will not."

Adolf's New Plan

Himmler spent Easter at the Bavarian town of Bregenz with other members of the Nazi inner gang planning a last stand in the Bavarian mountains.

The identity of three men, identified by the German radio as a chauffeur and two passengers, who were slain in a big blue limousine on the Avus speedway between Berlin and Potsdam yesterday remained a mystery.

An official Grman reward of 100,000 marks ($40,000) for information leading to the discovery or arrest of the assassins raised speculation that the victims may have been prominent Nazis.

London sources believed the German "freedom station" identifying itself as the voice of the underground in Allied-occupied Germany actually is a transmitter manned by the German propaganda ministry in central Germany.

The station was operating on the wave length used by the Warsaw radio when it was under German domination. Listeners pointed out that the German home service was able to re-transmit the first of the "freedom station's" broadcast almost immediately.

of any of the governments.

The most direct effort to resolve some of the differences is already being made by Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin in personal communications among themselves. Questioned on this point, Stettinius said that the President is in very close touch with the other two leaders all the time.

Confer On Plans

Late this afternoon Stettinius conferred with Russian Ambassador Gromyko, British Ambassador Halifax and Chinese Ambassador Wei on what they all called organizational and procedural matters for the San Francisco conference.

The gathering symbolized a new unity among the leading Allied nations in that it brought together for the first time in such a parley the Russian and Chinese envoys.

In view of Russia's refusal to sit down with the Chinese at Dumbarton Oaks this conference today indicated less Soviet concern than in the past about remaining aloof from the Japanese war.

Centers Open For Clothing Campaign

Several receiving centers were in operation and plans were being made Tuesday for others to receive donations of clothing and bedding in the United National Clothing collecting campaign here.

Receiving centers are Montgomery Ward & Co., Sears Roebuck Co., all city schools, all churches, and three dormitories and the administration building at Texas Technological college, in addition to the packing and shipping center, Lubbock Auto company.

Any type of usable apparel and bedding may be given in the drive, which has as its purpose the clothing of destitute persons of Europe and Asia.

Kleinschmidt estimated that 400 to 500 pounds of clothing had been given thus far and said contributions would be accepted throughout April, although the most intensive part of the campaign is expected to be from Sunday through Wednesday of next week.

Veteran Seventh And 77th Are On Okinawa

GUAM, Wednesday, April 4 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Archibald Arnold's crack Seventh Infantry division is fighting on Okinawa with its battle companion of the bloody Leyte campaign—the 77th division under Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce. The Navy announced today the Seventh is on Okinawa.

The Seventh trained at Fort Ord, Calif., and saw its first action at Attu in the Aleutians. It landed at Kwajalein in the Marshalls in January, 1944, under its former commander, Maj. Gen. Charles H. Corlett, before moving into the Philippines last October.

The Seventh and 77th battled the Japanese in the Ormoc corridor of western Leyte—a fight which went far toward deciding the tide of battle in the Philippines.

Both divisions are in Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge's 24th corps, part of Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner's newly-activated Tenth Army, which includes Marine as well as Army elements.

they thrust toward the Bratislava gap, menaced by a Russian pincer on both banks of the Danube.

Premier Stalin disclosed also that Malinovsky's troops had captured Kremnica in central Slovakia, 10 miles west of Banska, as they extended their drive into the rugged Carpathian mountains and threatened the key junction of Zilina, 35 miles north of Kremnica.

Thirteen miles east of Wiener Neustadt, whose prewar population of 37,000 was believed to have been boosted by thousands of Germany's foreign slave workers, Tolbukhin's troops captured Eisenstadt on the southern slopes of the Leitha mountains.

Moscow dispatches said that Tolbukhin's troops were working their way to the crest of the 1,575-foot range and that some units already had spilled into the valley before Vienna.

Nine and 16 miles southwest of Wiener Neustadt, Tolbukhin's troops captured Neunkirchen and Gloggnitz, cutting one trans-alpine highway from the war arsenals of Austria and Czechoslovakia to German troops in Italy.

Wiener Neustadt lies on the parallel direct trunk railroad linking Vienna with Venice and Trieste, and by taking Gloggnitz, the Russians pushed within seven miles of the 3,215-foot Semmering pass and were 137 miles east of Hitler's mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden.

While Tolbukhin's troops thus destroyed the definite triangle south of Vienna and threatened to engulf from the rear the enemy defenders of the Bratislava gap, traditional eastern gateway to Vienna, the Berlin radio admitted serious reversals.

More Telephones Listed For City

Containing the same number of white and yellow pages, but showing an increase in the number of persons serviced by the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, the April issue of Lubbock's telephone directory has 8,786 listings, a total of 10,690 telephones, as compared with the October issue which shows 8,767 listings or 10,686 telephones.

On April 1, 1942 there were 3,888 telephones listed for Lubbock residents. Even though this figure has increased to the present listing of 10,690 telephones, there is still a waiting list of 1,478 persons desiring connections.

"The general public is considerate of our situation and the majority of persons understand when we explain why we can't service their home at this particular time," according to C. H. Cale, manager of the company. A monthly record is kept of the persons requesting connections and their reaction to delays or refusals, Cale said. Out of 246 persons refused telephones, only one voiced adverse criticism of the company. There is an average of one application daily for new business connections.

Applications Rated

When a person or business house requests a telephone connection their application is classified or referred to the preferred category. Depending on their occupation or circumstances, their application is rated as follows: 1. Direct defense, either in the armed forces or governmental work. 2. Public health, welfare and security, which includes hospitals, clinics, doctors, religious establishments, public and private schools. 3. Application for new business service for the returned veteran. 4. Outside moves of residences. 5. Application for new business service. 6. Application for temporary residential service, emergency classification which usually terminates at the end of 90 days. 7. New residence service for wives of war veterans away from home, provided they have children under ten years of age. 8. Other applications for new residential service.

Manpower shortage is the major problem the company has to cope with and instead of becoming less acute, the situation is becoming more serious, Cale said. The company now has seven men employed as outside workers, with one of these expected to be drafted soon, and in 1942 eleven men were on these same jobs, servicing fewer connections.

Equipment is old and deplacements are scarce, with 90 percent of all telephone wires and instruments going to the armed forces. Plans were to install additional equipment to the central office this year, but Cale estimates it will be 1946 before this enlargement plan will be carried out. He anticipates relief from the equipment shortage after victory in Europe when 30 percent of the resources now going to war will be released for civilian goods, within nine months after VE day.
