Self-Employment Is Good But Now Is Not Time to Go in Business

GETTING OUT On
the LIMB
by
EDDIE the EDITOR

Ever since the war I have been wanting a new car but there is nothing on the market that really suits me.

In the first place, they want money for all these conventional cars. What I'm looking for is a car they sell for beads or shells. The little woman is getting tired of my south sea collection of shells and keeps agitating for some ceramics with a rose trim.

Nobody realizes how valuable those shells really are. After all, diamonds were originally peat, then coal, weren't they? My shells have a fine, lasting polish and 30 of them could be traded for a good, strong woman in the south seas.

I don't know what the exchange rate is but with the present price of cosmetics and dainty lace-trimmed mylons as well as permanent waves, I feel sure that under algebraic law of things equal to the same thing being equal to each other, I have enough shells for a small Cadillac or Rolls.

A number of people drive my car and this fact causes me to want certain extras that I haven't been able to find around town. The main thing I need is a sort of reverse radar that would throw out rays hailing back oncoming cars. That way, people could back out in my car and I wouldn't be liable for what they might hit by not watching. Everyone throws old Mule Train in reverse and ploughs back at full speed while lighting a cigar or plucking an eyebrow or something else important like that.

Nobody watches anyway and I think if the insurance adjusters knew I had this reverse radar-screen up, my premiums might be somewhat lower.

We pay a lot of gasoline taxes and I heard once there was a surplus in the state road building fund collected from these taxes. Officials have kept pretty quiet about this though, because you never know when the federal government is going to decide it has title to surpluses and take the matter into the courts.

But my plan is to use this surplus before the feds get wind of it. Lay a couple of magnetized lines down all the public streets and highways. Then get automobile manufacturers to magnetize the left side of all automobiles, making a sort of poor-man's automatic pilot of the deal.

This would be a forward-looking step because in a few years television will not only follow radio into every home, but also into every automobile. This way, the car could continue in a straight direction while the occupants were engrossed in seeing Gorgeous George throw a hammerlock on the French Angel.

Perhaps manufacturers will develop some kind of automatic pilot that will leave the occupant of the car free to change the baby's diaper or mix a salty dog or catch the cartoons in the Wall Street Journal.

I feel this will eliminate a great many accidents which are caused by drivers having to give their attention to more important projects than driving.

One automobile has come out with twin beds, but me, I'd rather sleep at home. There is too much involved in carrying beds around in the car. Where do you store the cover—or is there an especial compartment in the trunk for that? And would it be necessary to have the sheets match the decor of the automobile interior?

What I am really interested in is other appliances. My first requirement is a really good cigar humidor which might hold a dozen or two first class cigars. I think a service offered by the dealer should include keeping the humidor filled for at least a

NEW YORK CITY, I like to see men and women have a little business of their own. If you can keep out of debt it gives security and health. You have no fear of being "fired" or laid off on account of mismanagement. If your little business turns out not to be good, it then will be your fault, and not your employer's fault. You know that some of your competitors always do well.

TEAS TODAY—

State Public Welfare Payments Fall Well Below National Average

by BO BYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Tex.—Is Texas spending too much or too little on public welfare?

That's a hot political question which bobs up every election year and in each session of the legislature.

By constitutional amendment, voters in 1945 set a limit of 35 million dollars a year on welfare spending. It is split three ways.

Thirty million for old age assistance; $3 million for aid to dependent children; $1 million for aid to the needy blind.

Then, too, right under the television screen, I think there should be a small refrigerator filled with snacks for my guests. I might wish to feed while driving around. It should be large enough to hold a few bottled drinks and elements for a Dagwood sandwich or two.

Another extra that I want on my car is an X-ray machine so on my infrequent trips when I am passing some scenery I will be able to peer right through the billboards and see it in all its natural beauty.

I'm really not interested in whether the motor is in the front or rear of the car. In fact, I don't care whether it has a motor—I just want to be a traveler, not a mechanical engineer. I really wouldn't mind if it had a sail, just so long as it got me there in a reasonable hurry.

I really do think some improvements ought to be made before I buy a different model car. One thing that I am going to demand is a gadget to prevent the car from running out of gas. Best I figure it, this could be done by the elimination of the use of gasoline entirely. Being a printer by trade, I do presume to tell the experts how to do this.

Also, I think the system of using water in the motor or wherever they use it could be vastly improved. Why is it cars are always running out of water and getting overheated? In this modern hydrogen age, it seems to us that a great deal could be done about this situation.

Space will not permit me to list the other improvements that I will have to see before I replace my old automobile, but after taking a poll in the office, I find there is one more vital improvement to make.

Every woman knows that the dinky little mirrors tilted so oddly in the present-day motor car are next to useless. An absolutely indispensable addition to a car is a much larger, three-way mirror placed at a convenient angle for adjusting hats and applying lipstick.

This mirror should be lighted on the top and sides by fluorescent tubes to enable one a clear view while applying the doe-eyed look. A drawer for bobby pins, pancake, mascara and stamps should be placed underneath it.

Any manufacturer who has an automobile meeting the aforementioned requirements is invited to beat a path to my door. As I was saying, I have a good collection of shells to get rid of. I might throw in some of my old pin-up pictures for boot.

For himself, is debatable. The Good Book says there is a time for everything (Read Ecclesiastes 3:1 to 8), which includes a time to buy and a time to sell. God gives us a brain to use. Let us not try to buck His law of supply and demand.

This does not mean that we should not push forward. We all should help the world's great problem of how to provide the needs of all in the midst of plenty. So long as any able person willing to work is unemployed while the government is dumping potatoes into the sea, there should be opportunities for shopkeepers and salesmen to bring these loose ends together. This is the kind of "socialism" and "planned economy" in which everyone should believe.

What Statistics Teach
To perform the above service requires character, brains, industry and some capital. Statistics indicate that a large number of those who have gone into business for themselves since World War II must have lacked one or more of these requirements. I say this because 60,000 fewer firms are operating today than a year ago. It is estimated that today there are 200,000 fewer concerns—mostly among the small retailers, service operators, etc.—than in 1946. That this is true, in spite of the increased population and the fact that there is more money about than ever before, indicates something is wrong.

The above is not only a disappointment to nearly a million people, including employees but to the owners of a large number of vacant stores, unused plants, idle trucks; all of which are the result of these failures. Those who have been forced out of business are, moreover, both disappointed, and perhaps bitter. They claim America should not permit such sad results in the world's best country.

Every month my statistical experts compile for me comparative figures on over 30 basic business barometers. In my 40 years of studying business conditions I have always said that the most significant figure is that for business failures. Heretofore, a very low failure figure has indicated excellent present business conditions; but such figures usually forecast that business troubles are coming.

With failures have during the past ten years actually been less than before 1940. But at last we see a change for the worse. The greatest increase in failures of 12 per cent. In the case of manufacturing this figure is 9.4 per cent; while in mining, farming, etc., there are 5.4 per cent more failures. Although the failures in the retail field show the greatest increase, yet enough new firms come into being so that the total is now only 2 per cent less than at the peak.

As a result of all the above 45 per cent fewer new concerns were incorporated in 1949 than in 1946. The number of independent concerns are now about 3,900,000 compared with nearly 4 million in 1948. Yet, there now remain about 18 per cent more concerns in business than in 1939. The present failures average about 200 a week—compared with 100 a week in 1948. Further details will be sent freely on request by the world famous authorities, Dun & Bradstreet in New York City.

There is one cheering feature to these figures. The bankruptcies were not all among young G.I.'s. In fact, 70 per cent of them were of old concerns which had been dying of dry rot for many years. With age comes poor health and a loss of energy which we older ones lack. This is worth more than capital or customers. Hence, no young people should be discouraged by the above figures on failures. But I do say that if you now have a good job, hold it and make the most of the opportunity it gives you to start in business for yourself.

Of the 134 horses eligible for the Kentucky Derby this year, 61 are still racing in the ownership of the people who bred and raised them.

In the case of manufacturing this figure is 9.4 per cent; while in mining, farming, etc., there are 5.4 per cent more failures. Although the failures in the retail field show the greatest increase, yet enough new firms come into being so that the total is now only 2 per cent less than at the peak.

As a result of all the above 45 per cent fewer new concerns were incorporated in 1949 than in 1946. The number of independent concerns are now about 3,900,000 compared with nearly 4 million in 1948. Yet, there now remain about 18 per cent more concerns in business than in 1939. The present failures average about 200 a week—compared with 100 a week in 1948. Further details will be sent freely on request by the world famous authorities, Dun & Bradstreet in New York City.

There is one cheering feature to these figures. The bankruptcies were not all among young G.I.'s. In fact, 70 per cent of them were of old concerns which had been dying of dry rot for many years. With age comes poor health and a loss of energy which we older ones lack. This is worth more than capital or customers. Hence, no young people should be discouraged by the above figures on failures. But I do say that if you now have a good job, hold it and make the most of the opportunity it gives you to start in business for yourself.

Of the 134 horses eligible for the Kentucky Derby this year, 61 are still racing in the ownership of the people who bred and raised them.

THE POST DISPATCH
ESTABLISHED IN JUNE 1926
Published Every Thursday at the Dispatch Publishing Company Building in Post, Garza County, Texas.

Entered at the Post Office at Post, Texas, for transmission through the mails as second class matter, according to an Act of Congress, March 3, 1879.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character of any person or firm appearing in these columns will be gladly and promptly corrected upon being brought to the attention of the management.

What Statistics Show
The above is not only a disappointment to nearly a million people, including employees but to the owners of a large number of vacant stores, unused plants, idle trucks; all of which are the result of these failures. Those who have been forced out of business are, moreover, both disappointed, and perhaps bitter. They claim America should not permit such sad results in the world's best country.

Every month my statistical experts compile for me comparative figures on over 30 basic business barometers. In my 40 years of studying business conditions I have always said that the most significant figure is that for business failures. Heretofore, a very low failure figure has indicated excellent present business conditions; but such figures usually forecast that business troubles are coming.

With failures have during the past ten years actually been less than before 1940. But at last we see a change for the worse. The greatest increase in failures of 12 per cent. In the case of manufacturing this figure is 9.4 per cent; while in mining, farming, etc., there are 5.4 per cent more failures. Although the failures in the retail field show the greatest increase, yet enough new firms come into being so that the total is now only 2 per cent less than at the peak.

Each club was asked to take 50 tickets and turn in the money at the next council meeting. A 25-cent donation will be received for each ticket. It was voted to have the 4-H girls assist with the sales of tickets for the comfort. Fifty

GRANDSTAND

by WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Staff

They're pondering the problem of Clint Hartung, the Honda flash. He can hit a baseball a country mile, but can't judge an outfield fly. He can throw a baseball as fast as anyone in the major leagues but not for long.

The New York Giants tried the gangling Texan as an outfielder, then as a pitcher. That's how he's listed now. But the Giants are talking of trading the big boy. They can't find his proper niche.

Hartung has been a puzzle ever since he first bloomed on baseball's horizon. And that was really in the state American Legion tournament 10 years ago.

There was quite a squawk then from two or three of the teams that could get only feeble nicks at his fast ball, from pitchers who saw their best whammed all over House Park in Austin. These squawks went something like this: "He's too old for American Legion baseball, why he's a grown man."

Hartung then, as now, was a giant of a man. But he was just 17. He's 27 now.

He pitched and played first base in that state American Legion tournament. Did a fine job at both. Later—during the war years—he was an outstanding performer in the San Antonio service league. This was the league that had such players as Tex Hughson, Enos Slaughter, Howie Pollet and others.

When Hartung signed with the Giants he was hailed as another Babe Ruth. His hitting wouldn't match the mighty Babe, but it was still tremendous. But Hartung's fielding was pathetic. So they let him pitch. The Giants were disappointed in the results.

So it looks like the Giants now are planning to sell or trade Hartung, the young giant from Texas, who can hit a baseball a country mile, but can't field, who can throw a fast one with the best in the majors, but not for long.

Two Brownie troops have been organized in Post and a third is badly needed, local girl scout authorities reveal.

Mrs. Giles McCrary and Mrs. Irvin Scarborough are leaders of one troop. They held their first meeting March 8 and have sent registration requirements in to headquarters.

Sponsors of this troop are the Junior Luncheon club members. Troop committee includes Mrs. Glenn Kahler, Mrs. Paul Jones, Mrs. D. C. Hill and Mrs. Clint Williams.

Writer Tells why Tournament Golfers Act that Way—and why Some Do Not

by Clark Beach

WASHINGTON April 12. (AP)—The big issue behind the many arguments over the Kerr bill, amending the Natural Gas act, was the future price of natural gas.

The bill was signed to clarify the Natural Gas act of 1938 by definitely stating that the Federal Power commission (FPC) has no authority to regulate the prices of "independent" natural gas producers—those who do not own pipelines. The independent supply from 80 to 85 per cent of all the gas produced.

This would bring a quick rise in the price of natural gas, according to opponents of the bill.

No one has been quite sure whether the FPC had authority to set gas prices. Opponents said that only the possibility that the commission would attempt price setting has kept producers from raising their prices closer to those of coal or fuel oil.

If the natural gas price rose until it was just under that of coal or fuel oil for equivalent heat values, said the opponents, then the additional cost to home and industrial consumers could reach almost $500 million a year.

Well, said Rep. Halleck (R-Ind), if gas production should come under FPC control, "The government then might go on to control the price of coal, oil and other industries."

No, said Senator Douglas (D-Ill.), a noted economist, who spearheaded the opposition. Gas, he declared, was a monopoly and should be regulated. If coal or oil producer hikes his price too much, the buyer is free to take his trucks or move his trains elsewhere to buy where the price is lower. But the pipeline company must accept whatever price the producer chooses to exact.

"The expense of tearing up a pipeline and laying a new one prevents a buyer from taking advantage of a lower price in a different field," Douglas said.

Already, the bill's opponents pointed out, the price which producers receive for natural gas has risen considerably. The average price of gas in the southwest in 1938 was 25 cents per thousand cubic feet. By 1947 it had risen to 3.75 cents. New contracts drawn between 1946 and 1948, said the FPC, provide a price of five to 10 cents, with clauses permitting periodic renegotiations and price boosts.

The price of natural gas to consumers, the bill's advocates pointed out, however, fell 12 per cent between 1938 and 1947—from 68 cent per thousand to 61 cent. At the same time the price of anthracite coal rose 6 per cent and fuel oil 79 per cent.

Those against the bill say this was caused entirely by the FPC's whittling the profits of the pipeline companies and the distributors. The commission found that as the companies increased the volume of their business, they could sell for less and still make a reasonable profit about 6 per cent of their costs.

Senator Kerr (D-Okl.), a wealthy oil man and chief sponsor of the legislation, warned that if price regulation were adopted the industry would lose the incentive to expand. The gas industry, he said, is a speculative mining operation. If profit possibilities are restricted, the producers will put their money into safer enterprises.

Convenient W. T. Cook Home Shows Farm House Changes

A far cry from the farm home of the 30's with its three shabby rooms, screenless windows and doors, leaky ceilings and wood or coal oil stove is the new W. T. Cook home in Graham.

Built of white asbestos shingles in a modified modern-California style, the Cook house has all the comforts of West Main in town—plus paving in front. The Cooks have lived there almost two years and have their lawn well underway.

The house which faces east is identical to the house built by their son, William L. Cook, less than a half-mile back toward town. On the south is the concrete entrance porch, which is partly covered. The living room is entered from the south.

Including the dining room, which is joined to the living room by an extra wide door, dimensions here are 15 x 36 feet. Wallpaper is a floral pattern in faint shades of pink, maroon and teal blue are the colors accented in here by Mrs. Cook.

Picture Window
A clerestory picture window on the east wall of the living room is flanked by two smaller windows, making a width of 10 feet of window space. Mrs. Cook uses venetian blinds throughout the house. Simple gold draperies are used in the living room and dining room, in somewhat of a swag effect.

A maroon carpet is on the floor. Couch and one arm chair is upholstered in teal blue. One occasional chair is upholstered in rose and a platform rocker is upholstered in maroon.

A tier-table in front of the picture window holds an ornate table lamp. On either side of the couch are square, two-shelf tray tables. A large mirror is above the couch. Pictures of the Cook's grandchildren are placed about the room. A coffee table is in front of the couch.

Automatic fire extinguishers are placed at strategic points about the room. They look like light fixtures, being glass bowls in plastic cones. At a low heat, 160 degrees, control on a trigger melts, causing it to puncture the glass bowl and spray a fog of fire extinguisher, putting out a possible fire immediately.

Radio Phonograph
A combination radio, phonograph completes the furnishings in the living room. A coat closet is on the north wall, next the dining room door. Slab doors in a light wood are used throughout the house.

The dining room measures 9 x 12 feet. A double window is on the east and a single window on the north. A lace tablecloth covers the dining table. Chairs are seated in a beige leatherette. Buffet is waterfall style. Mrs. Cook keeps her sewing machine in the dining room, since it matches her dining room suite. A circular mirror is placed over the buffet.

Wall paper is floral-patterned rose and white in a vertical stripe. The dining room closet holds the hot water heater.

Kitchen and breakfast room is behind the dining room. A spacious room, dimensions here are 9 x 18 feet. White tile board goes up the wall as wainscoting, topped with bright red flowered wallpaper. Red, black and beige linoleum is on the floor.

Kitchen in Ell
The kitchen part of the room comes out in a wider ell, making it 12 feet wide, rather than 9. Steel cabinets, enameled white, are on two walls. A work counter above the cabinets is of thick polished wood. A double sink is on the east wall. Two windows are on the east and one on the north. Venetian blinds are used here.

The Cooks have an extra large butane ice box and a large butane range. Mrs. Cook has an automatic washing machine which she placed in the kitchen for convenience. Opposite it, the ironing board folds into a wall closet.

The breakfast suite is red and white, in a plastic and chrome design. It is at the west end of the room. A door leads from it to a utility room, containing a large deep freeze. This room is 9 x 12 and walls are painted white. Mr. Cook washes up at the lavatory here after coming in from the field.

Back Bedroom
The back bedroom opens off the kitchen. Dimensions are 15 x 12 feet. Leaf-patterned wallpaper is pale green. White dotted Priscilla curtains are on the double windows. A white chenille spread on the narrow poster bed. A rose chenille throw rug is on the polished floor.

The poster bed is dark wood, matching an old-fashioned dresser and chest. The platform rocker in this room reflects the Cook's desire for comfort.

The hall connecting the bedrooms and bath is 4 x 12 feet and is papered in the same paper as the living room. In one end is a quilt closet and in the other is a linen closet and dirty clothes hamper.

The green and yellow bathroom is in the center of the house at the back. Inlaid linoleum is on the floor. Yellow tile board runs shower-high. A floral pattern paper in green and yellow is above the tiling.

A shower is combined with a tub here. Fixtures are white. A fluorescent tube over the mirror lights it for shaving and make up. A glass shelf on the left holds shaving equipment.

Towel Shelves
Behind the bathtub is an open towel closet. Towels and bath mats give rose accents to the room. A plastic curtain is on the window.

The master bedroom is at the back of the house, on the south. Dimensions here are 9 x 13. Wall paper is two shades of light blue in a herringbone pattern. A small closet is in this room.

Furnishings are limed oak. They include carved poster twin beds, a small night chest and a large chest of drawers. A small straight chair is in this room, as well as a platform rocker. A blue carpet is on the floor.

Dotted swiss Priscilla curtains are at the double windows. A mirror is over the large chest.

Front Bedroom
Front bedroom, 18 x 14 feet, has windows on three sides, east, south and west. Waterfall style furniture includes a desk, chest, vanity, and double bed. Carpet and bedspread are rose. Wallpaper is a rose and blue floral pattern.

White Priscilla dotted swiss curtains are at the double windows on the east and west and at the two single windows on the south. Boudoir lamps with crystal bases and white ruffled shades are on the vanity.

At present, the air conditioner is on a window in this room. This summer, the Cooks plan to move it to the attic. An early American arm chair completes the furnishings here.

Adapted Plans
The Cooks adapted their house plan from a book. He was his own contractor and sketched off the plans for a Mr. Porter in Slaton who drew up a blueprint. Oran Clary was the builder.

"We really don't need that extra bedroom," explained Mrs. Cook, "but he wanted our house to be just like our son's since they are so close together and face the same way."

The Cooks heat with butane and had planned to use a floor furnace. After it was too late to build a basement, they discovered the law prohibited running butane underground. Later they plan to install wall units.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook have lived in this section of West Texas 29 years. Their home was north of Close City, in what was known as the old Bridges home, before they sold out two years ago and moved to Graham. Their house was completed and they moved in in August, 1948.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Turney of Snyder visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Meeks Saturday night and on Sunday they were guests of Mrs. Turney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Dye.

Mrs. L. A. Barrow's daughter, Mrs. Monroe Lane of Lubbock, was admitted to Plains hospital last Friday morning where she is seriously ill.

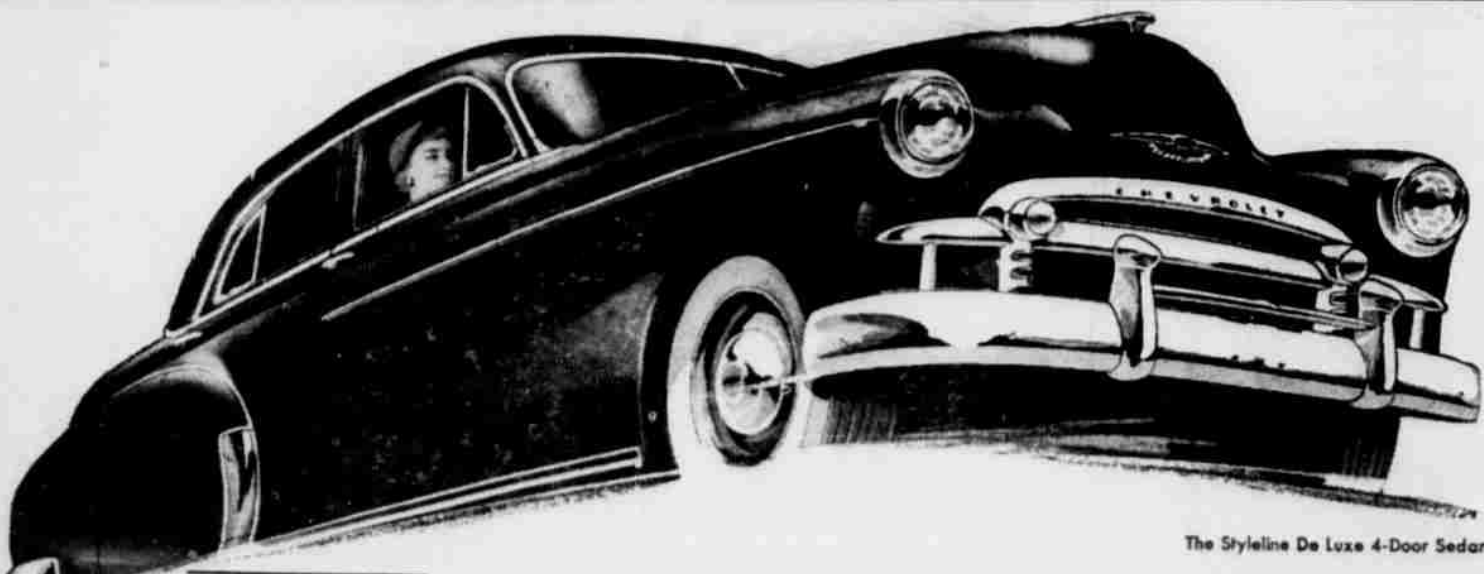

Walter E. Hays of Ojai, Calif., arrived here Thursday for a visit with his brother, Jim, and family. Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Walker of Lubbock, Mrs. A. A. Walker and Mrs. E. H. Cutter of Panhandle were Friday evening guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Collier.

Mrs. J. H. Babb Is Real Garza Pioneer, Moving Here from Floyd Ranch in 1901

Lillie Mae Tanner was married to John H. Babb in Putnam, Callihan county, in 1888. At the time he owned half interest in a ranch in Pecos county. There were no women in that section. Mrs. Babb recalls, so her husband refused to take her there. He sold out in Pecos and bought in Callihan county.

Mrs. Babb has always been a great horsewoman and she and her husband broke horses. "I think that is why he fell in love with me," Mrs. Babb says, "because he knew I loved horses."

From Callihan, they moved to Stonewall county, then later to Floyd where the family owned a ranch at Old Emma. Mr. Babb decided that the cold weather would cause him to lose all his stock, so he bought a ranch in Garza, with headquarters on the Yellowhouse river, three miles east of what is now Post.

Bought Ranch Here

Mrs. Babb remembers that he bought the ranch from a fellow named Babe Smithers, who refused to take his check for the land. His money was in the bank at Floydada and he had to have it transferred to Snyder. She recalls that he rode from Floydada to their ranch, changed horses and rode on to Snyder, without stopping. When he got there, he was unable to walk, but the money was there. He turned it over to Smithers and got possession of the ranch.

The Babb family moved to Garza county then. Water was no problem, said Mrs. Babb—springs ran out of the ground everywhere. When the spring dried up, a waterwitch came with a forked stick and prospected for water.

Waterwitch Operates

"My husband didn't believe in waterwitches, so when the forked stick turned over in the man's hand, he just laughed. The waterwitch dug down 30 feet and found water. So we dug a well and had an abundance of water until we moved to town. Then for some reason the well dried up," Mrs. Babb recalled.

Mrs. Babb is 79. She is the mother of five children, Mrs. C. I. Dickinson of New York City, Mrs. Joy A. McCartney, San Antonio; Mrs. Sherrill Boyd of Post; John H. Babb, Chicago; and Jerrell Babb, Los Angeles. She has 11 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Since there were no fences, the ranch was only three miles from Post, and John, Dezzie and Florence came to school alone in a buggy. Jerrell, the oldest child, was the first Garza county boy to go away to college.

Hires Teacher

At one time, the school teacher in Post was very dissatisfied with her pay. Mr. Babb moved her to the ranch and she taught two of the Babb children. Jerrell, the other who was old enough to attend school, was as advanced as the teacher so he stayed out and rode the range with his father.

The next year, a good school was organized in town, but it just taught up to the eighth grade. The family sent Jerrell to Denton to high school, Mrs. Babb recalls.

Her husband was away a lot, Mrs. Babb remembers, and she and the children were terribly lonely at the ranch. Church was held in Post by itinerant preachers. One afternoon a Methodist minister, John West, came out to the house with his family.

Mrs. Babb immediately launched into a recital of how lonely she was.

"You think you have troubles," replied the preacher. "We don't have a place to lay our heads."

home and told West he could live in the ranch house, since the Babbs had built another for themselves.

Leaves Ranch

Mrs. Babb refused to live on the ranch any longer when it came time for Evelyn, her youngest child, to start to school. She recalls that her husband would not hear of moving into town, until one day, she bought a house from a man.

The family moved into Post about 1915, living in the house now occupied by Mrs. W. F. Cato. Mrs. Babb recalls that there were few stores here then and people bought dry goods by mail or else went to Fluvanna to shop.

First Washing Machine

She bought the first washing machine in Post, paying $100 for it. The actual price was $100.50 and she remembers haggling all day with the salesman for the 50 cents.

"I told him I absolutely did not want the machine," she recalls. "And he begged me to just get out all my dirty clothes and let him wash them. I found a pair of overalls Mr. Babb had worn to milk in all during the time I was in the hospital—six weeks—and they were covered with milk. I told him if the overalls came clean, I would buy the machine. They did and I had to."

C. W. Post had the first car in this area Mrs. Babb recalls. Their first was a Reo, bought from the late W. O. Stephens. Mr. Babb lost an arm when he was about 40 years old, so she had to do all the driving.

"There were no doors to the car," Mrs. Babb remembers, "just openings for me to climb in. I was afraid the children would fall out the back, so I had to teach John H. to drive when he was only nine years old. Neither he nor I ever had an accident, though."

John Baptizes

Camp meetings were held around here in the early days and Mrs. Babb remembers going to one in a brush arbor near Post. The adults were listening to the service while the children were playing in a little house some distance away.

A piercing scream rent the air. The preacher paused and advised some of the parents to go and attend the children. Mrs. Babb recalls that her husband slipped out and found his 5-year-old son, John, baptizing a little girl. It must have been a Methodist meeting, says Mrs. Babb, because John was pouring water on the candidate's head—causing the screams.

She remembers that she never could persuade her husband to buy a piano so she finally traded a yearling for an old organ. Later they bought a piano at a sacrifice sale.

When the family moved from their original residence into the house that is now known as the Tom Power apartments, the sound pedal on the piano was broken. Since they were told it would take too much money to repair it, they traded it for a Dahlia phonograph.

"It never was any good," Mrs. Babb recalls.

Runs Boarding House

For 20 years, Mrs. Babb occupied and ran a boarding house next door to where she lives now. Then they moved into the "guest house" where she now lives. Her husband lived there five years.

until his death at the age of 92, in 1942.

Mrs. Babb was a noted cook and won many prizes in local and area fairs. She was also outstanding as a needleworker and still pursues this hobby. Church work has been her main interest; she is a longtime member of the Baptist church. She was also active in the Needlecraft club for many years.

Years ago when prizes were given for the best yard in Post, Mrs. Babb was a regular winner. Gardening was another of her many interests.

Water had been piped into Post when they moved into town, recalls the septuagenarian. They burned coal and coal oil for heating and cooking. Electricity was installed here soon after they came.

Moved To Railroad

Post had his settlement in tents at Close City when the Babbs were early settlers here, but he moved it to the present site of Post when the Santa Fe railroad came through, she recalls.

A temporary rock courthouse with a jail behind was built across the street from the present post office site. Church and school was held in a house later bought by the Babbs and now occupied by their daughter, Mrs. Boyd.

Even as late as 30 years ago, when there was a hospital in Post, Mrs. Babb recalls, her grandchildren were born at home, because it was not fashionable to go to a hospital.

Mrs. Babb is not especially interested in the past—the same spirit that caused her to enjoy breaking wild horses when she was a young girl, causes her to live in the present today. Her social activities are now rather curtailed but her life is still full and busy.

She was always interested in her home and children and now that her children no longer need her she often doubles as a babysitter for grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Junior Luncheon Club Organized in 1944 As Social Group for Post 'War Widows'

A social club for lonely "war widows," organized in 1944 has grown into one of the leading clubs for younger women in Post today.

The Junior Luncheon club was organized in the home of the former Blanche Connell. The first luncheon was hosted by Mrs. Novis Rodgers. With 16 members, the club meets twice monthly.

Primarily a social club, luncheon and bridge is on the agenda of each regular meeting. Each New Year's Eve the group entertains their husbands with a dinner.

Sponsorship of the local Brownie troop is a current project. A contribution to Boys Ranch is made each year.

Nine of the charter members are still active. They include Mrs. Phil Bouchier Mrs. Shelley Camp, Mrs. Glenn Kahler, Mrs. Rodgers, Mrs. Bryan Williams, Mrs. James Minor and Mrs. J. N. Power. Other members are Mrs. Burnon Haws, Mrs. John Lott, Mrs. Giles McCrary, Mrs. Lewis Nance, Mrs. Tom Power, Mrs. L. J. Richardson, Jr., Mrs. R. M. Thomas Mrs. Alex Webb and Mrs. Warren Yancey.

ALL AGREE: "BIG ENOUGH FOR ME"

The new Model U-76 International Harvester Refrigerator is proving that first impressions can be deceptive. "Little" in looks, its 7.6 cubic-foot capacity holds almost twice as much as old refrigerators of the same outside dimensions. Special features include bottle storage equal to biggest refrigerators, 12 shelf arrangements that let it "grow" to meet special demands, meat keeper, frozen food compartment, vegetable crisper, and exclusive bottle opener on the door latch, all at lowest price in International Harvester history.

Pies for Papa—so round, so rich so flavorful and so fully packed and so beloved by our fellow-men. Pie is the great American dessert and can now be had in an atom's flash with Mrs. Winston's pie filler. "Nothing to add but crust" and with Betty Crocker's and Pi-Do's quickies in the pie dough field all this can insure you of a pie "just like that." At Graeber's Red and White store we saw the pie filler material in fruit flavors. Ask any of the folks at this store about this new product.

Continental Oil company to

The most unusual flower arrangement Bill DeWalt has made since being in business in Post was of airman's wings, a spray for a military funeral.

Bill and Mary DeWalt came to Post and began operation of their floral business in May, 1948. The Homer Gordons had operated the flower shop for two years before they sold out to DeWalt. As far as he knows, theirs was the first commercial flower shop in Post.

The DeWalts lived in Houston before coming here. He wanted to go in business for himself and the family wanted to move to a smaller town and get young Bill, their 3-year-old son, out of the Houston climate. The Post shop was advertised for sale in a trade publication, so DeWalt came out and looked at it. He decided that this was the place for him and moved here almost two years ago.

Conditions are not such that it is profitable to grow flowers commercially here, DeWalt says. Therefore, he gets most of his flowers by rail from Colorado and California. Some come by air express and in emergencies he orders flowers from Lubbock, Abilene, Dallas or Fort Worth.

Favorite flowers of Post citizens come in three varieties, carnations, roses and gladioli, says DeWalt. Carnations are at the top of the list and going away for corsages, sprays and arrangements of every kind.

Hudman Funeral home had its formal opening soon after the DeWalts' came and that gave them a chance to introduce new flowers—at least new to Garza countians. Now people order their flowers by just saying, "You fix it up," and the DeWalts are free to be original and different every time.

Calls for flowers for every occasion come to the DeWalts but they do their biggest volume in funeral flowers. They have some hospital orders and numerous weddings and parties. They arrange planters and sell plants.

Accessories to go with any flower arrangement are sold by the DeWalts. Their pottery is nationally-advertised but all they handle either holds flowers or is a part of a flower arrangement. Other pieces are brass, copper and crystal.

"People in Post are very flower conscious," said DeWalt, and Mrs. DeWalt agreed. "They appreciate flowers a lot more than people in many other sections. Women buy more flowers than men," throughout the year, but around holidays, it is about fifty-fifty.

Mrs. G. E. Fleming teaches school and her favorite recipes are those which are the best-liked and require the least preparation. Mrs. O. C. Garner has a most unusual recipe for coconut pie. Ingredients include:

- 3 eggs
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 cup coconut
- 1 pint milk
- 1 teaspoon butter, warmed

Mix eggs and sugar well, add other ingredients and put in unbaked pie shell. Bake and add meringue, then brown.

Mrs. Georgis Cook of Graham, a member of the home demonstration club, offers this recipe for apple and orange pie:

- 1 recipe piecrust
- 6 tart apples, sliced thin
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons grated orange rind
- 1 tablespoon orange juice
- 1 tablespoon butter

Roll half of dough in a 9-inch pie plate. Fill pie shell with sliced apples. Dot with butter. Moisten edge of pie with water. Roll remaining dough for top crust and cut a few slits to permit steam to escape. Fit top crust over apples and seal edge of pie. Bake in hot oven 100-125 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes.

See how the little touch of orange adds new zest to the pie filling. The flaky crust is so delicate-tasting that you get the full, rich, fruity tang.

HD Agent Gives Washing Instructions For Nylon Fabrics, Discusses Storage

Rules for washing nylons are simple, says Mrs. Jewell Strasner, local home demonstration agent, with any properly made nylon fabric being washable. She warns, however, that some dyes and finishes are not washable. Because of this, it is a good idea to notice the tag put on by the manufacturer, giving instructions about washing and drying.

"Nylon articles should be washed frequently," says Mrs. Strasner. "The fabric is not supposed to absorb dirt so any of the many household soaps will be satisfactory. Water here is so hard that it is a good idea to use a softener."

Handwashing is better for nylon articles of dainty trim and delicate construction. Suds should be squeezed gently through the fabric. Spots may be rubbed gently.

Where seam construction and trim are such that there is no danger of fraying, a washing machine may be used. Raw or partially-finished seams may be tested with the thumb and forefinger. If threads pull out easily, handwashing is best.

Mrs. Strasner warns that white-nylon should be washed separately from colored pieces. Ever-though colored articles are labeled colorfast, they sometimes leave a slight discoloration in the water that tinges white articles.

Water softeners, Mrs. Strasner reiterates, prevent the curd of insoluble soaps from depositing on nylon articles, leaving a grayish cast on white.

"Strong bleaches affect nylon just as they do other fabrics," Mrs. Strasner warned. "They should therefore be used carefully and only when unsightly spots, stains or discolorations do not respond to proper washing. If no directions are given for nylon the amount recommended for a normal cotton bleach is satisfactory."

Mrs. Strasner says that although bluing is not necessary for white nylon, it is all right to use when the nylon article is being washed with other fabrics which require bluing.

After rinsing thoroughly in warm water, the nylon article should be lightly squeezed out. Smooth seams and hems and hang to dry. Mrs. Strasner suggests using a thick towel over a wood or plastic hanger. She also reminds that it is a good plan to keep colored things out of strong light.

Heavy nylon garments may be rolled in a Turkish towel before hanging to remove excess moisture and hasten drying. Mrs. Strasner finds that she does not have to iron a blouse, even, when she hangs it properly.

"If a nylon fabric needs pressing, it may be done damp or dry," says the agent. "Use a moderately hot iron with the control set on 'rayon if 'nylon' isn't listed. Extreme temperatures will damage nylon. A steam iron can be used."

Mrs. Strasner stated that it is believed that repeated ironing yellows white nylon. Many stains come out of nylon with the application of mere soap and water, the agent advises. Before using any method, she suggests making sure that the dye or finish can take that method.

"Nylons are good for traveling because simply sponging off stains at the time of a mishap often restores them to their original appearance by drying time. Such things as catsup, mustard, chocolate sauce, lipstick, sherry, ink and even grease have been removed this way."

Usual household cleaning fluids will remove stains from nylon by just following the directions on the bottle. Chewing gums, some greases and oil base stains are best removed by this method, Mrs. Strasner believes. She stresses the importance of prompt action in removing a stain. Do not give them time to "set," she advises.

A soft brush may be used with soap and water to remove particularly stubborn stains. Avoid pulling or distorting the fabric, she says.

Nylons can be stored indefinitely, the agent points out. They first must be clean. Then they can be put away, smoothly folded and free of wrinkles in a cool dark place. A bureau drawer is good. Nylon has no affinity for moths, silverfish and other insects, Mrs. Strasner says.

The agent warns that nylon in blended fabrics should be treated as if the fabric were made entirely of the blend.
