Nieman named top citizen

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

O.G. "Speedy" Nieman, publisher of the Hereford Brand, was named the 1989 Citizen of the Year at the annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday at the Bull Barn.

Nieman received the award from Mark Andrews, president of the Hereford Lions Club. The club has presented the award each year since 1946.

Nieman, who has lived in Hereford since 1971, has served twice as chairman of the United Way campaign, meeting the UW goal both years. He has also served as chamber president, head of the Hereford Hustlers, and has worked with and for most other organizations in Hereford.

He is also an associate member of the Hereford Board of Realtors, a member and past president of the Hereford Lions club and is an active deacon at the First Baptist Church here.

"His most significant contributions may be seen daily in the Hereford Brand," said Andrews. "He does so much that goes unnoticed. He has sound, positive Christian thoughts that are shared with us in the paper."

One of Nieman's pet projects which is heavily promoted by the Brand is the Christmas Stocking Fund. The project was started here by Nieman and others four years ago and has set a new record each year. Last year, the fund topped $20,000 in cash contributions plus much more in food, toys and clothing.

This and other projects were commended by Andrews. "He does so much for the community that goes unnoticed," Andrews said.

"It is great to honor a citizen each year," said Nieman after accepting the award. "I accept this knowing there is no such thing as a citizen of the year."

"If I deserve to be up here it is because of friends that lead and friends that follow. And my co-workers. On behalf of all these friends I accept this award."

Also honored at the banquet was James Witherspoon by the American Sugarbeet Growers Association. Dave Thompson, of Friona, vice president of the Texas Sugar Beet Growers

James Witherspoon

Association, presented Witherspoon with a silver tray.

Witherspoon was honored because he has done "more to promote and defend the sugar program than possibly anyone else in America," Thompson said.

Witherspoon was instrumental in acquiring increases in sugarbeet acreage that allowed the construction of the Holly Sugar factory here. The factory is celebrating its 25th anniversary in Hereford.

Doug Josseland assumed the role as chamber president at the banquet from 1989 president Rocky Lee.

Lee pointed out that the chamber had a successful year in 1989 with an increase in membership and a variety of successful activities including several business-improvement seminars, an expanded farmers' market program and active economic development.

He also said Holly Sugar has increased its capacity, local feedlots are fuller, and farming enjoyed a good 1989.

"There is still a lot to do, and I think we are going to have an exciting year," Lee said.

Josseland, wearing a cowboy hat and brandishing a rope, pointed out many Hereford and Deaf Smith County assets but said the greatest asset is the people of Deaf Smith County.

"They have made us grow and prosper in the past and they can again in the future," Josseland said. "We can become even greater in the decade of the 90s."

"A community is either going forward or it is going backward. I hope you will grab hold of this rope and pull with me. We can pull together for the future."

Lee recognized retiring directors, including Larry Malamen, Carol Sue LeGate, Donna West, David Emerick and Ike Stevens, and presented a plaque to Richard Ottesen whose late wife, Berta, had served on the chamber board.

"This is for a lady who was a fighter ...with a beautiful smile, our gone but not forgotten director Berta Ottesen," Lee said.

Other officers for 1990 are Pat Robbins, vice president, and Scott Keeling, treasurer. Other directors include Temple Abney, James McDowell, Carol Gerk, Bobby Moore, Waldo Baxter, Charles Greenawalt, Diane Hoelscher, Ken McLain and Marilyn Culpepper.

Also recognized were committee chairmen: Burl Miller and Bob Beville, agribusiness; Buddy Peeler, retail business; Mauri Montgomery, beautification; Speedy Nieman and Terry Bromlow, membership; Lewis McDaniel, industrial development; James Self, sports; James McDowell, legislative affairs and transportation; Sharon Pennington and Ken Varner, health and safety; Donna West, Leadership Hereford; Bill Harris, Hustlers; Larry Malamen, human relations; and Charlie Bell and John Stagner, fun breakfasts.

Dr. Edgar Mitchell, who was born in Hereford and was the sixth man on the moon, was the guest speaker for the banquet.

Mitchell urged everyone to look at more things from a global perspective. He said that space flight, especially looking toward the earth from the moon, made him realize that earth is "a tiny planet in a small solar system on the spiral arm of a minor galaxy in the universe."

He said that "Star Trek" is not that far-fetched with the major leaps in technology and science in the 20th century.

"Right now you can get mail from anywhere if it is addressed Hereford, Texas, USA," Mitchell said. "One day in the not-too-distant future that will be Hereford, Texas, USA, Planet Earth."

The crowd was entertained by James MacLasky, Don Summersgill, Mike Bryant and Joe D. Rogers, as "Flashback," and with dinner music by Greg Coplen.

Witkowski 'gentlest' for junior bee win

Anna Witkowski, who celebrated her 11th birthday Wednesday, captured the Junior Bee division of the Deaf Smith County Spelling Bee Thursday, and she'll be back today to compete for the county championship.

Anna, a 5th grader at West Central Elementary, outlasted 12 other fourth and fifth-grade students through 34 rounds of words. Runnerup Kelly Thompson, also a 5th grader at West Central, missed on the word "heredity." Anna correctly spelled that word and then spelled "gentlest" to claim the junior crown.

The Senior Bee starts today at 3 p.m. in the D.S. County Library basement, where 14 contestants are scheduled to vie for the county title. Today's field includes sixth through eighth-grade students, along with the junior champ.

County Bee director Speedy Nieman presented Anna a $50 savings bond from Hereford State Bank, while Kelly received a $25 share account from Hereford Texas Federal Credit union for runnerup honors. Stephen Cloud from St. Anthony's finished third.

The champion will receive $100 in cash awards today—$50 from First National Bank and $50 from The Brand, and the runnerup will earn a $50 bond from AmWest Savings.

Anna is the daughter of Jere and Gerald Witkowski of 303 Star. He is employed at Holly Sugar. Kelly is the daughter of Eddie and Celia Thompson of 123 Hickory. Anna will also receive an award at the Regional Bee April 7 at West Texas State University. Bera Boyd is the pronouncer for the Bee and she is joined by judges Eloise McDougal and Jane Coplen.

Scheduled to compete in the senior bee are school winners from Hereford Junior High—Chris Lyle, Richard Drager, Jessica Polk, Josh Liscano, Sue Ann Sanford and Shawn Lance; Bluebonnet's Connie Tena, West Central's Natalie McWhorter and Heather Hodges, Shirley's Andrea Cepeda, St. Anthony's Aimee Alley, Nazarene Christian Academy's Tyler Merrick, and Anna, the junior champ.

Others competing in the junior division Thursday were Clay Brown, Rachel Mejia and Yadi Tena of Bluebonnet; Summer Lee, Crystal Lopez of West Central; Damiah Esquivel, Jace West, Lorena Hernandez and Edgar Herrera of Shirley; Stephen Cloud of St. Anthony's, and Cory Schumacher of Nazarene Christian.

4 hurt in barn fire

Four persons were injured Thursday afternoon when a tractor's propane tank exploded while a man was changing a gauge on it.

Manuel Beavers was burned on his face, shoulders, and neck in the accident, 17 miles west and two miles south of Hereford. While his wife was attempting to remove his burning clothing, she was burned on her hands.

Both were taken to the hospital, along with two Friona volunteer firefighters who were passing by. They were treated for smoke inhalation.

Mr. Beavers is in stable condition in the intensive care unit here. His wife was being treated and released.

The fire was put out by firefighters from Hereford and Walcott, but not before it caused $80,000 to $100,000 worth of damage by burning down the large barn. The contents of the barn also included a four-wheel drive pickup, a 1930 model Chrysler Town Car, a Model T, an assortment of chemicals and other items.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, March 9, the 68th day of 1990. There are 297 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight In History:

On March 9, 1989, the Senate rejected President Bush's nomination of John Tower to be defense secretary. The 53-47 vote was the first time in 30 years that a president was denied his choice of a Cabinet member.

Also one year ago: Eastern Airlines filed for bankruptcy protection in a bid to conserve cash and gain time to persuade striking employees to return to work.

On this date:

In 1862, during the Civil War, the ironclads Monitor and Virginia, formerly the Merrimack, clashed for five hours to a draw at Hampton Roads, Va.

In 1916, Mexican raiders led by Pancho Villa attacked Columbus, N.M., killing more than a dozen people.

In 1964, the U.S. Supreme Court issued its landmark New York Times vs. Sullivan decision, which effectively narrowed the definition of libel by requiring proof of malice.

In 1975, work began on the Alaskan oil pipeline.

Ten years ago: Former Texas Gov. John Connally dropped out of the race for the Republican presidential nomination, one day after losing the South Carolina primary to Ronald Reagan.

Five years ago: An American negotiating team arrived in Geneva for new U.S.-Soviet arms talks.

Parker opposes Garey's appointment

AUSTIN (AP) - State Sen. Carl Parker, who fought most of last year against business-backed workers' compensation reforms, is still fighting.

Parker, D-Port Arthur, said Thursday he will fight the nomination of Jack Garey by Gov. Bill Clements to the new Texas Workers' Compensation Commission - the board that will administer the new workers' compensation insurance system.

Garey, 60, is president of a construction firm that works primarily on state highway construction, and actively lobbied for business interests during the battle over changes in the comp system.

The political fight pitted business groups against labor and trial lawyers who represent injured workers in disputed compensation claims, and Parker said Jack Garey made disparaging remarks about lawyers during the 11-month long debate.

"There's one of them that I've heard say publicly, 'That lawyers are all crooks and thieves.' I am not voting for anybody that's dumb enough to make statements like that," Parker said.

Garey said he never made those comments. "I don't know where Parker comes up with those wild statements that he makes," Garey said.

Garey's nomination requires Senate confirmation, and Parker said he will fight it.

Garey, who said he is a lawyer, added, "I don't know why he wants to make everything personal. I have lots of friends and ex-partners that are lawyers and I never made any kind of statement like that."

Clements said the new workers' comp commission "will create a more fair and effective system for dealing with workers' compensation cases in our state."

The six-member commission - divided equally between employers and wage earners - will set policy, formulate rules and hire an executive director to oversee operations of the new agency.

Clements nominated three employers and one wage earner, saying he would name the remaining two wage earner representatives later.

Also named by Clements were Dewey Mark of Boerne, president of Diamond Shamrock Refining and Marketing; Joe Hanson of Richardson, vice president of financial services for Frito-Lay Inc., and Edward Hayse Jr. of Richland Hills, a flight service crew chief for American Airlines.

Greyhound hires strikebreakers to run

DALLAS (AP) - By hiring replacements for its striking bus drivers, Greyhound Lines Inc. is reflecting how attitudes have changed in labor-management squabbles, according to some experts who suggest the move will make it more difficult to settle the week-old walkout.

Hiring of replacements "if far different from the old strikes we used to have," said Mark Kahn, a labor arbitrator and professor emeritus at Wayne State University in Detroit.

In past, "economic forces exert their pressure on both the employer and the striker and soon or later they work out a way to get started again," he said.

"There exists a clear-cut understanding that whenever the dispute is ironed out, those workers will go back to work and the company will resume its operations. That tends to create a relatively civilized atmosphere in which answers can be worked out."

Replacements, instead, are "indicative of some of the more bitter, confrontational disputes that we are seeing," said Mike Jadell, also an arbitrator and a professor at Georgia State University in Atlanta.

"It's become an additional tool in the arsenal of those employers who feel that they are in adversarial relationships," Jadell said.

"We don't have a lot of options," said P. Anthony Lannie, Greyhound's executive vice president and chief negotiator. "This union has us backed into a corner."

The at-times violent strike began early March 2 when the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Local Unions and the company failed to reach agreement on a new three-year contract. The union represents 9,435 of Greyhound's 11,825 employees, including 6,300 drivers, 1,600 of its office workers and 1,475 maintenance workers.

The company says it can afford no more than its original $63 million offer; the union says its last proposal is less than Greyhound's, but the company values it at $205 million.

There has been little contact between the two sides since, although federal mediators Thursday asked for a fact-finding meeting with the union next week followed by a similar session with the company.

Greyhound has been operating at reduced levels since the strike, using replacements hired and trained in the last two weeks plus any union members who cross picket lines.

Synthetic gene attacks AIDS virus

WASHINGTON (AP) - A molecule created in a California laboratory has shown in a test tube experiment that it can ambush the AIDS virus and keep the deadly disease from spreading, according to a study published today.

Dr. John J. Rossi, a researcher at the Bechman Research Institute of the City of Hope in Duarte, Calif., reports in the journal Science that his laboratory has made a synthetic ribozyme that can genetically cripple the AIDS virus and prevent it from reproducing.

The ribozyme, said Rossi, "is inside the cell and it's waiting there like a soldier waiting for the enemy to come."

Ribozymes eventually could be useful in combating AIDS and other virus infections, he said, but the technique is still years away from being ready to treat patients.

Rossi, in a telephone interview, said his team first developed the ribozyme and then made a gene that instructed cells to make the molecule.

The synthetic gene then was placed into living human cells in test tubes and the cells were exposed to the AIDS virus. Rossi said the ribozyme was able to block the AIDS virus from reproducing inside the cells.

The ribozyme works like "molecular scissors" that slice the ribonucleic acid of the AIDS virus, thus blocking the virus from making copies of itself.

Ribonucleic acid, or RNA, is used by the virus to force cells to make more virus. By cutting the RNA, said Rossi, the virus is permanently crippled.

The ribozyme itself is a copy of an RNA that other scientists found in a plant virus. Those researchers discovered that a small part of the plant virus RNA acted like an enzyme and was capable of selectively cutting any part of the genetic pattern in a target virus.

The term ribozyme refers to an RNA that acts as an enzyme by permitting a reaction to occur within a cell.

Rossi said a major advantage of the ribozyme is that after it attacks and cuts the RNA in one virus, the molecule releases itself and then can attack other virus particles.

"It can do it again and again and again," said Rossi. "It is like one soldier cutting down 10 or more of the enemy."

The ribozyme can be designed to attack any part of the viral RNA and leave other portions alone. Rossi said he believes the ribozyme also could be used to combat virtually any kind of virus, including those that cause colds and flu.

"It could be used to treat any virus at all because they all use RNA," he said. "By destroying the RNA, you can inactivate the viral function."

Rossi said two other laboratories now plan to test his ribozyme in combating viruses in laboratory animals.

Even if it proves effective in animals, Rossi said the ribozyme cannot be used against AIDS until some way is found to introduce the synthetic gene clinically into humans, a technique that could take years to develop.

He said researchers must find a way to assure that the ribozyme gene goes directly to the proper place within the target cells. He said there are several theoretically possible ways of doing this, but none is ready for tests.

"We don't have any scientific proof yet that a genetically engineered cell in a living animal will do anything," said Rossi, but in test tube experiments the technique appears to be "powerful."

In addition to Rossi, scientists that took part in the study were Nava Sarver of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, a part of the National Institutes of Health; Pairoj S. Chang of Loma Linda University, and four others from the City of Hope Medical Center.

Communication builds better relationship

What parents don't know about their children can hurt them both. A parent's failure to recognize clues that a child is having problems in school or in relationships can lead to poor academic performances, loss of confidence and self-esteem and, most importantly, a breakdown of the parent-child relationship.

Whether to mend a strained parent-child relationship or as a preventive to future problems, effective parenting must be the first priority; and effective parenting is built on communication.

Sometimes a child's problems are the very obstacles to communication. If a child is falling behind in school or can't get along with peers, he or she may work hard to hide this fact. Children are masters at masking what they don't want their parents to know. Where parents suspect some masking may be going on, extra efforts to communicate must be the response. A few guidelines can help:

1. Think of communication with your child as an exploration with no preconceived end. Open-ended, two-way conversations will open up communication where it has been non-existent, or maintain healthy communication already established. A child is quick to sense that a parent is trying to "find out something." Invite the child to talk during a non-threatening activity—such as raking the lawn together—without setting an agenda. Try to know your child as the individual he or she is.

2. Be willing to divulge some of yourself. Be mindful that communication is a two-way street. It's not communication for the parent to expect the child to open up without the parent's willingness to do the same. Some people may worry that it diminishes a parent's authority to talk about his or her own doubts, fears or confusions.

My answer is certainly a parent will not share with a child all the burdens of adulthood. However, it is possible for parents to share themselves with their children without jeopardizing their authority.

3. Communication does not mean interrogation. Grilling a child is not true communication. Strive for communication that does not put the child on the spot. It is better to initiate a conversation that invites the child to talk about school, friends and activities rather than ask direct questions that focus on what the parent perceives to be a problem.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A woman who said she was romantically linked with Ben Vereen asked for a restraining order against the song-and-dance man after he allegedly broke into her apartment and assaulted her.

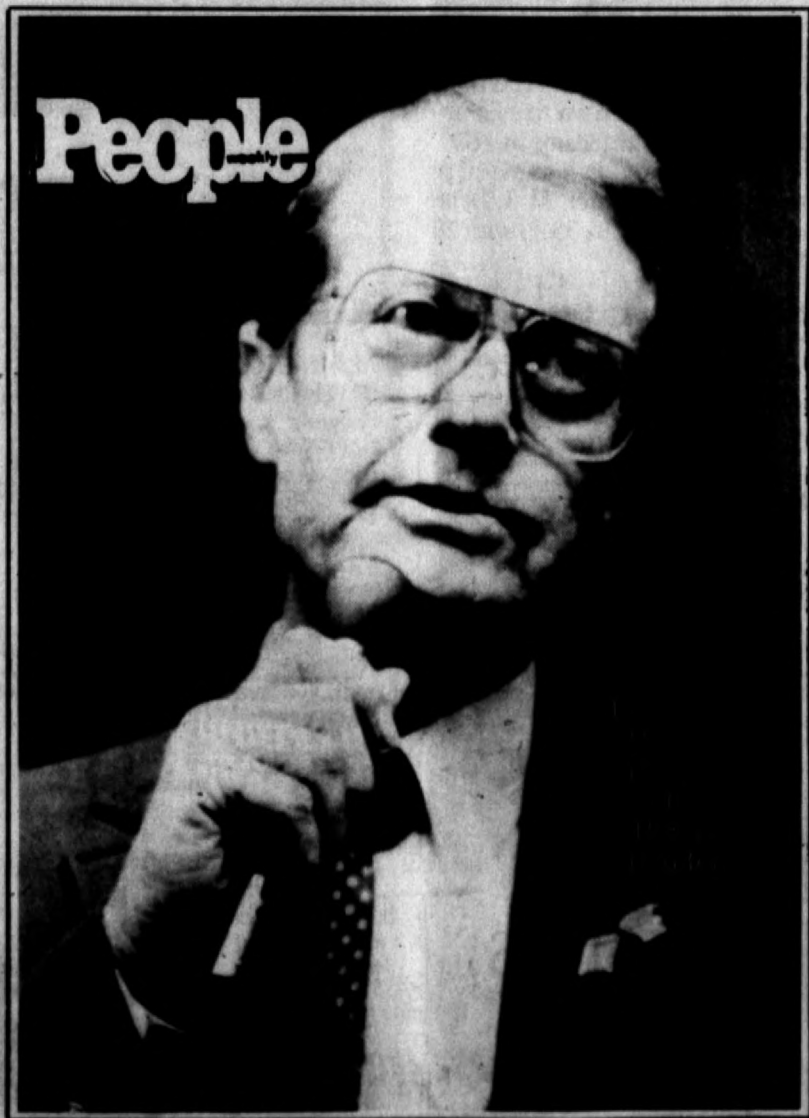

Christine Rich filed a petition in Superior Court on Friday, alleging that Vereen, shouting profanities, kicked in her apartment door Thursday, grabbed her arm, neck and clothing and threw her to the ground.

Ms. Rich said she dialed 911 and police arrived. Police Sgt. Roger Belding confirmed Monday that Vereen was arrested for investigation of a misdemeanor assault and released on his own recognizance after about two hours.

A hearing on the restraining order was set for March 19.

Michelle Marx, a spokeswoman for Vereen, said the entertainer had no comment about the allegations.

Herd thinclads host meet Saturday

The second event of Super Sports Weekends gets underway at 9 a.m. Saturday with the start of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational boys track and field meet at Whiteface Stadium.

This year's meet will feature competition in varsity, JV and freshman divisions.

Herd coach Ron Young, who will serve as meet director, said the 10-team varsity field should be "a fun meet to watch" with Amarillo High being favored in the team race. Joining the Sandies on the track will be Class 5A schools Caprock, Plainview, Monterey and Coronado with Clovis, N.M., Pampa, Borger, Dumas and Hereford rounding out the field.

"Amarillo could score 200 points out here," Young said. "They scored 180 points against these same 5A schools at Frenship and had over 200 at El Paso last week, and El Paso is a pretty strong meet."

"They're strong in just about every event," he added, "and could place three people in some events."

Young said only a few meet marks could be considered safe, among them being Hereford's James Mays' 800-meter dash standard of 1:55.90 set in 1977.

"A lot of these records were set back when we were running yards instead of meters and the times have been converted," he said, "and those will be hard to beat in the third meet of the season. But Amarillo has set both relay records in the past few years and has already run some times in several events that are pretty close to our meet records."

Young added that Plainview, Caprock and Clovis will also bring athletes capable of lowering meet marks.

"Plainview has a shot put that has already gone about 52 or 53 feet," he said. "Clovis has a hurdler that could come close in the 300 (39.50, set by Hereford's Gary Goodin in 1968 and tied by Canyon's Mike Johnson in 1986) and Caprock always has good pole vaulters."

One record Young said was sure to be beaten was the triple jump mark of 37 feet, 1 1/4 inch set last year by Borger's Lamar Tillmon.

"That shouldn't even be considered a record," Young said, "because the triple jump wasn't an official event last year. And there will be about a dozen people here Saturday that have already jumped farther."

As for Hereford, Young said the Herd will put a strong JV team on the track.

"What we're going to do is run all our sophomores and juniors in the JV division to give them a chance to compete in more events," he said. "Some of these guys, especially the sophomores, might do pretty good in one event running on the varsity, but by putting them on the JV we get a chance to see what they can do in four or five events. And that's going to help us make some decisions about who to run where at the district meet."

"The seniors that we'll have in the varsity division are all going to be Phillip Betzen of the Herd track team works on his spin in the discus during a recent workout. competitive," he added. "We won't have enough to run a sprint relay, but we ought to pick up points in just about every event."

The meet will start at 9 a.m. with field events and running preliminaries with the running finals scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

Boerne stings Lincoln

AUSTIN (AP) - Of all the top-ranked teams Port Arthur Lincoln has battled in the state tournament, the most unlikely of all finally erased the Lincoln's perfect state.

The unheralded Boerne Greyhounds pulled off a major upset Thursday night by defeating Lincoln 59-55 in overtime in front of 10,677 screaming fans.

When David Shivers hit a jumper in the lane with 14 seconds remaining the Bumblebees suffered their first ever loss in a state tournament game.

Boerne, 28-7, will now face Dallas Lincoln in the 4A finals Saturday. Dallas Lincoln defeated Fort Worth Boswell 79-67 in the other semifinal game.

No. 1 ranked Port Arthur Lincoln, 29-6, came into the game with a perfect 10-0 record at the state tournament with five state titles in the 80's before the Boerne upset.

Boerne led from early in the first quarter until Terry Miller drilled a three-pointer to give Lincoln the lead 41-39 with 1:13 left in the third quarter.

However Chad Chase made both ends of a one-and-one to tie the game at 41-41 after three quarters.

Boerne grabbed a 50-48 lead in the final period, but Ronald Campbell made four straight charity shots sandwiched around a Chivers layup to make it 52-52 and send the game into overtime.

Robbie Shivers started off the extra period with a three-pointer for a 55-52 advantage, but Kelvin McKyer hit a free throw, followed by two from Vincent Shelvin to tie the game again 55-55 before Shivers' short shot.

Shivers, who came in with a 30-point average, finished the contest with 16 points after sitting out most of the game in foul trouble.

The 6-6 Campbell finished with 18 points and 15 rebounds to lead Lincoln.

Dallas Lincoln outscored Fort Worth Boswell 14-2 in the final 4:57 to break open a tight game and slide past the Pioneers in the first 4A semifinal.

In a tug-of-war struggle that turned into a scoring battle between Lincoln guard Willie Black and Boswell postman Tom Etchison, neither team held more than a six-point advantage until Lincoln made its run late in the contest. The game was tied 11 times and was 40-40 at halftime and 56-56 after three periods.

Black spearheaded the Lincoln attack with 19 points, while Etchison poured in his average of 26 points and swept the boards for 10 rebounds.

State tournament veteran Lamesa will be vying for its fourth championship in 10 tries when it meets No. 1 ranked and unbeaten Navasota in the Class 3A finals.

Lamesa destroyed Gonzales 100-69, while 34-0 Navasota downed Gainesville 54-35 in a battle of tourney newcomers in the other 3A semifinal.

Using cat-like quickness and a smothering full-court trap, Lamesa, 30-6, established a new Class 3A tournament scoring record by hitting the century mark. The Golden Tornadoes shattered the previous mark set by Phillips in 1956. The two teams also combined to break the aggregate high score game of 165 set by the same Phillips team against Webster (84-81).

It was the first time a team has scored 100 points in a state tournament game since Conroe defeated Corpus Christi King 107-76 in a semifinal game in 1985.

Senior Dwight Mason connected on 15-of-25 shots and had 34 points for Lamesa. Kirk Mathis paced Gonzales, 32-6, with 22.

Kevin Baker had 16 points for Navasota, while Paul Oatts was the only Gainesville scorer in double figures with 12.

Moulton will try to avenge a loss in last year's state finals when it takes on Santo Saturday in the Class 4A championship.

Moulton, 33-5, handily defeated Vega 67-43, while Santo held off a last-minute Brookeland comeback bid 82-80 in the other semifinal game.

The Santo-Brookeland combined score of 162 is a new class record for aggregate points, which was previously held by four different teams at 160.

Trent Smith fired in a game-high 34 points for Brookeland, 34-3. Dean Edwards sparked Santo, 35-2, with 28 points.

Moulton, who lost in last year's finale to Fannin, used its inside height advantage to dispose of Vega and end its perfect season at 29-1.

Patrick Henke, a 6-4 sophomore who was an all-tournament selection last year as a freshman, led Moulton, 33-5, with 18 points and eight rebounds.

Vega was led by Cody Walker with 16 points and nine boards.

Scalpers hit tourney

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas schoolboy basketball tournament has become such a "hot ticket" that scalpers reportedly are selling tickets for twice their original price of $35, which is good for the 15-game program.

Bailey Marshall, University Interscholastic League director, said,

"If 'hot ticket' means state tournament tickets are being scalped, I'd have to say there is some of that going on."

Marshall said two years ago, ticket scalpers were getting $50 to $75 just prior to the tournament's last game - the 5A title match between Houston Sam Houston and Fort Worth Dunbar.

Unranked teams qualify for NCAA

By The Associated Press

While three more unranked teams - Temple, Murray State and Arkansas-Little Rock - qualified for the NCAA tournament, seventh-ranked Michigan State was more concerned with the Big Ten race.

The Spartans (25-5, 14-3), a lock for an NCAA berth, clinched at least a tie for the Big Ten championship Thursday night by defeating Northwestern 84-68 as Steve Smith scored 23 points, including five 3-pointers. Michigan State can win the crown outright by beating Purdue on Sunday.

"We really weren't looking past Northwestern," Smith said after the Spartans' ninth straight victory.

NCAA bids were settled in the Atlantic 10 (Temple 53, Massachusetts 51), Ohio Valley (Murray 64, Eastern Kentucky 57) and Trans America Athletic Conference (Arkansas-Little Rock 105, Centenary 95).

Meanwhile, No. 13 Michigan crushed Wisconsin 94-64, No. 18 Louisville beat Tulane 79-66 in the opening round of the Metro Conference tournament and No. 24 Xavier of Ohio defeated Butler 86-61 in the first round of the Midwestern Collegiate Conference tourney.

Rex Walters scored 18 points for Northwestern (9-19, 2-16), which finished the season with its fourth loss in a row and 10th in 11 games.

Atlantic 10 Conference

Mark Macon scored 20 points and Temple held off a furious second-half Massachusetts rally. Top-seeded Temple (20-10) snapped Massachusetts' five-game winning streak in beating the Minutemen (17-13) for the 19th straight time. The Owls won their third Atlantic 10 title in four years.

Ohio Valley Conference

Paul King hit a 3-point shot to ignite a 10-0 run in the final 1:35 that lifted Murray State (21-8), the regular-season champion, past Eastern Kentucky. King's shot tied the game 57-57 as Murray State rallied from a 49-40 deficit.

Popeye Jones, the tourney's Most Valuable Player after scoring 25 points and grabbing 10 rebounds, gave Murray State the lead for good 59-57 when he made two free throws with 48 seconds to go.

Eastern Kentucky was paced by Eric Sinclair with 23 points.

Trans America Athletic Conference

Derrick Owens hit his first 13 shots (he finished 14-for-15 from the floor but only 3-for-9 at the foul line) and scored 33 points as Arkansas-Little Rock (20-9) earned its third NCAA trip in five years by downing Centenary (22-8).

UALR led 76-69 when Owens hit a jumper and added a stuff on a breakaway for an 80-69 lead with 9:29 left. After a basket by Centenary's Marro Hawkins, Owens hit two more jumpers for a 13-point lead.

No. 13 Michigan 94, Wisconsin 64

Terry Mills scored 18 points and pulled down 10 rebounds and Rumeal Robinson added 15 points and a season-high 12 assists to move into second place on Michigan's career assist list with 548. Loy Vaught contributed 16 points and Sean Higgins and Eric Riley each had 12.

The Wolverines (21-7, 11-7) won their 11th consecutive home game against Wisconsin, which got 17 points from Danny Jones. Michigan never trailed.

No. 18 Louisville 79, Tulane 66

Reserve Jerome Harmon scored 16 points for the sluggish Cardinals (24-7), who committed 22 turnovers but advanced to today's semifinals against Memphis State. Tulane, which resumed basketball this season after a four-year self-imposed banishment because of a point-shaving scandal, finished 4-24 and lost its 12th straight game.

Louisville, the regular-season Metro champion, went on a 20-5 run for a 30-16 lead with 5:32 left in the half. Cornelius Holden had six of his 15 points in the run. Michael Christian led Tulane with 24.

In other Metro games, Elliot Perry scored 28 points and Cheyenne Gibson 20 as Memphis State beat South Carolina 71-56; Brady Hughes' short bank shot with 10 seconds left in overtime, his only basket of the game, gave Cincinnati a 65-64 victory over Florida State; Darrin Jenkins scored 24 points and Darrin Chancellor 22 as Southern Mississippi raced past Virginia Tech 81-67.

No. 24 Xavier, Ohio 86, Butler 61

Tyrone Hill scored 21 points and Xavier (25-3) used its height and strength to win its MCC opener from Butler (6-22). The Musketeers, the regular-season champions, went on a 13-0 run to turn a 17-16 deficit into a 29-17 lead. They led 33-20 at halftime without making a shot from outside the lane.

Michael Davenport had 12 points for Xavier. Darin Archbold led Butler with 15.

In other MCC games, freshman Brian Wolf scored a career-high 24 points - 18 over his average - and Keith Galles had 25 as Loyola of Illinois (7-21) upset St. Louis 67-58; Negele Knight with 19 points was one of four Dayton players in double figures as the Flyers defeated Detroit 90-72; Dan Godfreed's 17 points led Evansville past Marquette 66-57.

Spoils of victory

Members of the Hereford Lady Whiteface track and field team display some of the trophies won at the Concho Belle Relays in San Angelo. The girls will run Saturday at Randall.
