PLOT TO KILL GOV. ROOSEVELT FAILS

Body Of Kidnaped Newsgirl Found Floating In Smal l Creek

SLAIN CHILD'S HANDS WIRED BY ABDUCTOR

Mail Carrier's Daughter, 12, Carried Off By Man In Car

KIDNAPING JAN. 27

Officials Unable to Determine Methods Used By Murderer

PLEASANTVILLE, Ill., April 7. (UP)—The body of Edith Mae Dierdorf, 12, west Terre Haute newsgirl, who had been missing since Jan. 27, was found floating in the Busseron creek, near here, today.

The hands of the little girl were wired behind her and her feet also had been fastened together.

Edith, one of nine children of Fred Dierdorf, mail carrier of west Terre Haute, was believed to have been abducted by a man in an automobile last January. She was seen entering the car in west Terre Haute and was driven away.

The body was decomposed and on first investigation authorities could not say whether the girl had been attacked before she was thrown into the creek.

News Sack Found

The little girl's news sack was found on the Dixie Bee highway near the Busseron creek shortly after her disappearance.

Since that time a search throughout Indiana has been conducted for the girl. Armed posses, aided by aviators in planes overhead had scoured the wooded sections and territory along the Busseron creek for seven weeks.

Nimrod Slaven, superintendent of schools at Pleasantville, who with his family, had gone to pick flowers near here today, found the body.

The finding of the body in the creek bore out the first theory of searchers when the girl's paper bag was discovered. The creek had been dragged several times but no trace of the missing girl was found.

The body was floating on the water near the Boone bridge about three miles from here when Superintendent Slaven noticed it.

Mother Kept Hope

Mrs. Dierdorf, mother of Edith, had clung to the hope that the girl would be found alive although authorities had given up the search, convinced she had been killed.

Only a few days ago, the girl's mother had remarked:

"If they don't find Edith alive her body will be found in Busseron creek. I believe my girl is still alive."

Authorities in nearby counties had cooperated in the search for the girl and for trace of the man reported to have driven Edith away from West Terre Haute in his automobile but not a single clue was found other than the paper bag on the highway.

Edith's mother was prostrated with grief tonight when she learned her girl was found dead.

Philippine Mahogany Ruled Out of Existence

WASHINGTON, April 7. (US)—Philippine mahogany became extinct today, but it wasn't because of any blight or tornado. It was because Philippine mahogany isn't mahogany at all. The federal trade commission forced a company handling Philippine wood to cease advertising its product as mahogany.

Pilsudski Flays House For Ousting Minister

WARSAW, Poland, April 7. (AP)—Light is thrown on the reported cabinet crisis by a characteristic outburst in the Polish press from Marshal Pilsudski denouncing the lower house for impeaching former Finance Minister Czechowicz for exceeding expenditures authorized by the diet and indicating the marshal's intention of taking the helm of government himself.

In an article running couched in rough soldierly language, Pilsudski defends Czechowicz as the best finance minister the country ever had and possessing the distinction of having straightened out a bad fiscal system which he took over in complete disorder.

AMERICAN AIR PATROL STARTS BORDER WATCH

28 Army Planes Keep Vigil Along Arizona Line To Prevent Raids

PREPARED TO FIGHT

Well Gunned Craft Offer Imposing Threat For Rebel Bombers

EL PASO, April 7. (AP)—Orders to attack any Mexican airplane flying over United States territory were issued today to commanders of 18 American army planes which later left here to patrol the international border in the vicinity of Naco, Ariz.

PRESIDIO, Texas, April 7.. (AP)—Half of the rebel garrison of 90 at Ojinaga, opposite here, revolted late this afternoon and after a brisk two hour fight had wrested control of the town from the insurgents, who surrendered. Lieut. Colonel Raul Cardenes, rebel commander, was assassinated by the revolting troops.

SAN ANTONIO, April 7. (US)—The United States army "controls the air" along the Arizona-American border, it was announced tonight. Two three-ship formations began patrolling the international line at Naco today.

Rebel forces that were repulsed by the federal garrison at Naco and dropped bombs on the American side did not resume the assault today, according to word reaching eighth corps headquarters here.

The 18 planes ordered to Naco from Dodd field, Fort Sam Houston, and from Fort Crockett, Galveston, reached Fort Huachua, midway between Naco, Arizona, and Bisbee, this morning.

Planes Begin Patrol

Six of the fighting planes, each carrying four machine guns, refueled and immediately took the air to patrol the boundary line.

Brig. Gen. Frank S. Cocheu, commander of the American troops at Naco, informed General Lassiter, eighth corps commander, that he believed the 18 planes were sufficient to cope with the situation.

The attack planes are equipped for air fighting and ground strafing. Two machine guns are mounted on the lower wings.

They are controlled by the pilot. They are flexible weapons and can rake the ground with 1,200 bullets a minute.

Bombs Carried

A synchronized machine gun is mounted in front of the pilot. It fires through the propeller. A flexible machine gun is mounted in the observer's cockpit. This gun has a wide range. Small bombs are carried on a bomb rack just beneath the observer's cockpit.

The planes, Fort Sam Houston officers say, make a complete protection. The air above Naco will be patrolled day and night. Pilots are under instructions to prevent rebel airplanes from crossing the border, even if the insurgent ships must be shot down.

GALVESTON, April 7. (AP)—A complement of seven officers and 44 men from the third attack group, Fort Crockett, left by rail at 7:30 a. m. for Fort Huahuca, near Naco, Arizona, to join 24 officers and men who flew in 12 planes of the attack group. Official word was received by Capt. Ralph Wooten, commander at Fort Crockett, that the 12-plane flight landed this afternoon at Fort Huahuaca. It left here at 1:30 yesterday afternoon and spent the night at Marfa.

Meanwhile both senate and house agricultural committees have just concluded hearings with a view to framing a satisfactory farm relief bill to be presented to the special session of congress which convenes April 15.

Court Martial Spares Life Of General Escobar's Aide

Federal Army Tribunal Decides It Has No Jurisdiction In Case of Accused Rebel General Barrera

By H. MARTIN GLENN
Associated Press Staff Writer

JIMENEZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, April 6. (AP)—(Delayed)—General Frederico Barrera, once commander of the federal garrison at Saltillo and more recently one of General Escobar's revolutionary chiefs, went through a 12-hour court martial ordeal today with his life at stake but the board of court martial decided it lacked jurisdiction.

This decision means that Barrera will not be executed because the board was an extraordinary one called only to consider cases meriting execution. Evidence in the case was not deemed sufficient to justify that penalty.

Trial Is Grim

Barrera was caught in the rebel debacle at La Reforma Wednesday in which thousands were killed. His trial was grim but lacked any suggestion of ruthlessness or personal hostility.

A guard of 12 with fixed bayonets stood ready at a local theater while a jury of six generals awaited Barrera. After a clerk had read the articles of impeachment, Barrera rose and underwent a long interrogation. With a firing squad appearing a possibility for him, he was constrained, choosing his words carefully at first. But the Latin conversational talent soon spiced his narrative. All members of the court were grave and courteous and if anything, sympathetic.

The rebel general said he marched with Escobar against Monterey in the belief that he was going to fight the rebels. After the die was cast, he said, he could not safely desert.

Deposition Obtained

A long recess was taken while orderlies rushed to Camargo, 50 miles away, to obtain a deposition from Gen. Benigno Serrato, who captured Barrera. During this period, all formality was lost. The guards unfixed their bayonets to open sardine cans, the members of the court martial court accepting cigarettes from Barrera's pack. Then the court stretched out on benches, their snores punctuated with the lively conversation Barrera carried on with a judge. Finally, every member of the court went to sleep and Barrera and the correspondent sat for long hours with the guard alone, at daybreak, the deposition came and after another examination, the prosecutor and the defense attorney spoke five minutes each.

Barrera Paces Floor

Barrera also occupied the floor about the same length of time before the jury retired to deliberate.

Awaiting the verdict, Barrera paced the floor, not nervously but thoughtfully. The sun just had arisen as the decision assuring life came. The prisoner, the guards and the court passed out of the door of the old theater under bunched orange crepe paper, the remnants of some forgotten festival.

The federals yesterday occupied Parral, the biggest industrial city in Chihuahua, and Santa Rosila, where the largest power dam is located. They now can deprive the Chihuahua rebels of power and light.

CREDIT CURB PROBE ASKED

Illinois Wants Federal Reserve Policy Halted

CHICAGO, April 7. (UP)—Attacking the federal reserve board's recent actions as having "artificially depressed prices in the stock market to the injury of thousands of owners of securities," Congressman Frank R. Reid of Illinois announced today he would introduce a resolution in the house next week asking an investigation of the board's curbing policy.

He said the investigating committee would be asked to make specific findings, adding that the present action of the federal reserve board "may be as unwise as was the drastic deflation policies charged to it in 1920, which caused the serious depression in 1921."

The resolution as drafted sets forth that the reserve board, the governing body of the federal reserve system, has formulated and is pursuing a policy which has the avowed purpose of forcing owners of stock listed on various stock exchanges to sell their holdings.

"This policy is wholly unnecessary under the sound financial and banking conditions existing in this country," the resolution states, "but has forced usurious rates of interest in the call money market in New York City and elsewhere, has artificially depressed prices in the stock market to the injury of thousands of owners of securities, and threatens to destroy the business and general prosperity of this country by producing a wholly artificial tightness in the credit situation and by disturbing public confidence."

Man Slain by Cops Identified as Convict

PHILADELPHIA, April 7. (AP)—Police announced tonight that a man wounded in a pistol battle last night had been identified as William S. Healey, alias James A. Walton, alias William Morton, who escaped the Ohio penitentiary Feb. 19 along with four other inmates. Four of the prisoners, among them Patrick McDermott, alleged slayer of Don R. Mellett, Canton, Ohio, editor, were recaptured within 24 hours.

Healey was shot twice in last night's encounter with detectives, but his wounds are not serious.

GOVERNOR AND COURT JUDGE FACE TRIALS

California and Louisiana To Sift Charges In Senate Sessions

AIMEE IS INVOLVED

Louisiana Senate to Draw Rules for Trying Huey P. Long

CHICAGO, April 7. (AP)—The backwash from waves of political dissension and corruption in office swells to another flood tide this week. Two men, the one a governor and the other a superior court judge, go before the senates of their states to defend their official acts in high courts of impeachment.

Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana and Judge Carlos S. Hardy of Los Angeles, judge of the California superior court, are the latest of a train of state officials who have kept impeachment tribunals in session through the last six years.

Aimee's Story Echoed

The storm that broke in California three years ago on the disappearance of Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, will be echoed tomorrow at Sacramento where Judge Hardy is to stand trial on a charge of unethical court conduct. A $2,500 check paid him by Mrs. McPherson brought the censure of the state assembly.

Thursday at Baton Rouge the Louisiana senate meets to write its rules for the trial of Governor Long, second southwestern state executive to answer at a senate's bar this year. The special session called by Long to adopt a taxation program ended Saturday by turning on the governor with a charge that he threatened to publish the fact that a brother of Charles P. Manship, Baton Rouge publisher, is an inmate of an insane asylum if Manship did not withdraw from his editorial campaign against a proposed oil tax. The executive was cited by a 58 to 40 vote, to appear before the senate.

Johnston Removed

Less than a month ago the governor of Oklahoma was removed from office on the single charge of incompetency while nine other charges were washed from his record.

Governors have been the fondest prey of state legislatures. Twelve have been brought to the bar, all in southern or western states, except Gov. William Sulzer of New York.

The record of governors impeached includes:

Texas—James E. Ferguson, 1917, removed.

"KIDNAPING" MAIN CENTER OF INTEREST

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 7. (US)—Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy's impeachment trial on four charges which grew out of the investigation of the famous $2,500 "love offering" he received from Aimee Semple McPherson starts tomorrow in the state senate.

But it's the Titan-haired evangelist and not the white-haired Los Angeles jurist who holds the spotlight of general interest.

From statements made from time to time by the different impeachment managers, who will occupy the roles of prosecutor, it is the prevailing belief that the celebrated "kidnaping" of "sister" McPherson, the cozy little "love nest" at Carmel-by-the-sea and the question of who owned the delicate lingerie found in Kenneth G. Ormiston's small blue trunk are to be gone into thoroughly during the course of the hearing.

Soldiers Pay Homage To King and Pope

ROME, April 7. (US)—More than 25,000 former soldiers of Alpine regiments staged a demonstration of homage to King Victor Emmanuel, Premier Mussolini and Pope Pius XI today.

The veterans lined up facing the pope's apartments in St. Peters, and the pope, witnessing the demonstration from a window for 10 minutes, gave the throng his blessing, and waved his red hat. His holiness was visibly affected by the picturesque spectacle.

Father and Two Sons Drown Near Rockdale

ROCKDALE, Texas, April 7. (AP)—A father and his two sons, who left home yesterday for an outing, were drowned in San Gabriel river, eight miles north of here.

The bodies of the three—Joe Lopez, 40, and his sons, 14 and 11—were taken from the river today. The supposition is that the younger Lopez boy ventured in water too deep and that the three were drowned when his father and older brother attempted to rescue him.

Wichita Youth Struck Down by Automobile

Jack Stanfield, 11, of 1902 Holliday street, was struck down by a car near his home about 9 o'clock Sunday night. He was taken to the Wichita General hospital, where he was confined Sunday night with injuries to his knee. His condition is not critical, attendants said.

A man, said to have been the driver of the car, was being held for investigation by police Sunday night.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York merely smiled and said, "It was fortunate nobody was hurt," when he was informed that a bomb had been discovered addressed to him.

FOUR ESCAPE IN PRISON BREAK

More Coals Heaped On Head of Louisiana Gov.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 8. (US)—More grief for Louisiana's young governor piled up today from a totally unexpected source, when Stevens J. Beck, celebrated yegg-killer, made a darink getaway from the penitentiary receiving station in the state capital in company with two companions.

Beck, most famous of all criminals held in the state penitentiary, made his successful break for freedom less than 12 hours after the 36-year-old governor, Huey P. Long, had been ordered before the bar of the senate on an impeachment charge voted by the house, and just two days in the wake of testimony in the house impeachment hearing tending to show the loose handling of prisoners under the present administration.

Flees With Pals

Beck used as his assistants in the getaway two bandits of minor importance, Fred Wilson and Adam Webster, both sent up from New Orleans. Webster was captured before noon Sunday a few miles north of here. The three prisoners, heavily armed, overpowered two guards early this morning and slipped off into the pre-dawn darkness, an investigation revealed.

Convict Beck was scheduled to go on trial tomorrow morning for his

Michaelson Denies He Smuggled Liquor

WASHINGTON, April 7. (US)—A categorical denial that he had smuggled any liquor into the United States or had violated any federal statute was made today by Representative M. A. Michaelson, Republican, of Illinois.

Michaelson is under indictment in the United States district court at Jacksonville, Fla., on charges of smuggling liquor into the country in his baggage when returning from a visit to Cuba last year. His trial is set for next month.

Hoover to Spend All Spare Time Fishing

WASHINGTON, April 7. (US)—President Hoover will devote all of his spare time to fishing, it was learned today following his remarkable expedition of the day before in search of a place where his only concern is what will they bite.

He went to Criglersville, Va., yesterday. It is a little place in the shadow of Double Top mountain. It is exactly 101 miles from Washington and three hours by automobile and horse. The elevation is 3,840 feet. Between the "Double Tops" there is a gorge and through it runs the Rapidan creek.

DEADLY 'GIFT' FOR EXECUTIVE FOUND IN MAIL

New York Post Office Porter Explodes Machine With Broom

BLAST HURTS NONE

Roosevelt Unconcerned At Report of Apparent Murder Plot

NEW YORK, April 7. (UP)—A deadly dynamite bomb, addressed to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt at Albany, and ingeniously and fiendishly arranged to explode as he opened it, was accidentally discovered—and accidentally rendered harmless—by a porter in the main New York postoffice at Eighth avenue and Thirty-third street this afternoon.

Had the lethal missive gone to its destination, explosives experts of the fire and police departments agree, it must certainly have blown to atoms Governor Roosevelt—should he have opened it personally—and everybody in the room with him.

Dynamite Charge

More than six ounces of closely packed dynamite, sheathed in cosawax, a paraffin-like substance, had been placed in a tin candy box, and so contrived as to be exploded by the rasping of matchheads on sandpaper as the lip was opened.

As it was, the merest inadvertence kept the powerful charge from killing or maiming nearly 50 clerks at work in the distributing room on the Thirty-second street side of the postoffice.

Porter Thomas Calligy, unconsciously, was the hero of the frustrated plot.

Except for the careless swish of his broom, it seems probable the attempt on the life of the governor must have had every chance of success.

Governor's Address

Calligy was sweeping up trash near a table on which mail lay ready for distribution. There were several boxes on the floor.

One of them was about eight inches long, four inches wide and two inches deep. It was of tin, wrapped in brown Manila paper, and bore the address: "Hon. F. D. Roosevelt, Mansion House, Albany, N. Y." on a square sheet of white paper pasted onto the wrapping.

The address was hand-printed in black ink, and the fictitious return address, "H. Bup, No. 459 Twenty-ninth street, N. Y. C.," appeared in the left hand corner.

Calligy pushed his broom around

Missouri Sex Probers Reinstate Prof. But Uphold Ouster of Assistant

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 7. (AP)—The board of curators of the University of Missouri today upheld the dismissal of Dr. Harmon C. DeGraff, assistant professor of sociology, for his part in the circulation of a sex questionnaire among students and granted reinstatement to Dr. M. F. Meyer, suspended professor of psychology.

Dr. Meyer, however, was ordered suspended for the remainder of the school year. DeGraff's permanent discharge takes effect tomorrow. The board of nine members which deliberated nearly two days in a "trial" of the faculty members, did not mention G. H. Mowrer, student assistant instructor in psychology, ordered dismissed by the executive board of curators March 20 along with Dr. Meyer and Dr. DeGraff.

The three faculty members had sanctioned circulation of a questionnaire among 1,000 men and women students asking them intimate questions regarding sex and marriage. The row that followed stirred the entire state and even reached the floor of the state legislature.

Three New Members of City Council To Take Office at Meeting Tonight

C. L. McCutchen, J. M. Spoonts and R. O. Harvey, Wichita Falls' three newly elected aldermen, will assume their official duties Monday night when they are sworn into office at the regular meeting of the city council.

Mayor J. W. Akin will administer the oath of office to the three new members of the city board. They are to occupy the places that are filled at present by Roy E. Carter, Oral Jones and Leon Deaton.

McCutchen was named in the annual municipal election last Tuesday as occupant of place No. 1 in the city council, while Spoonts and Harvey were named for places No. 2 and No. 3, respectively. None of the three aldermen whose terms expired this year was a candidate for re-election.

Other than for the passage of an ordinance regulating the construction of awnings in Wichita Falls, no special business had been docketed Sunday night for the first meeting of the new board members.

A canvass of the official returns in Tuesday's election will be the last business transacted by the present board.

Terms of Aldermen J. W. Hunt and J. H. Patton, two other members of the board, will expire at the end of the present year.

FOUR ESCAPE IN PRISON BREAK

part in the wholesale break from Angola prison farm last September in which six men were killed. He was specifically charged with the murder of Jim Broom, a trusty, who assisted the officials in the pitched battle on the Mississippi river levee that followed the flight of the prisoners in boats.

"Brains" of Delivery

Beck, at that time serving a long term at Angola for the robbery of the Canal Bank and Trust company of New Orleans, was credited with being the "brains" in the delivery, participated in by 13 convicts. Using rifles at close range, the pursuing prison officials and the fleeing prisoners engaged in battle on the Mississippi river. After the fight, everyone present testified that they had seen Beck, seriously wounded in the chest, plunge into the muddy waters of the Mississippi. His demise was officially announced and carried in the press. Two days later, a country deputy 200 miles upstate recognized Beck, sound in body, on the street of a small town, trapped him in a cheap boarding house, and returned him to the penitentiary.

Governor Long came under fire at the time because of criticisms aimed at the replacement of veteran officials in the prisons by friends of the new administration, and it was announced that Beck would wear for the remainder of his term the famous "Oregon boot," a ten-pound shoe designed to break the leg of a man trying to run with it on. No such impediment hampered Beck when he left the penitentiary this morning.

Charged With Murder

After Beck's return to the prison, formal charges of murder in connection with the Angola break were filed against him and he was called to trial before the court at St. Francisville, parish seat of the district in which the bloody break occurred.

At that time, a sister from Detroit, young, handsome, refined, presented herself in Baton Rouge and employed eminent counsel to defend her brother. She declined to make known her name or the true name of Beck, which is generally supposed to be an alias. The trial has been regularly continued in the courts, but was finally due to be opened tomorrow morning.

Capital Excited

The spectacular latest flight of the desperado threw a new turmoil of excitement into the state capitol, which had expected to have a quiet Sunday after the feverish impeachment proceeding against the governor of the past week, climaxed by the voting of an intimidation and blackmail charge by the house on Saturday.

LETTERS FROM A WICHITAN ON BROADWAY

By FRANK E. NICHOLSON

NEW YORK, April 7.—Since turning actor and telling "favorite jokes" for Fox Movietone films your correspondent has been rather cramped for time to gossip about Texans on Broadway. I was, however, greatly entertained the other evening by a young Texas girl who told me the fascinating story of her hike from Houston, Texas, to New York City. The young lady is Cordelia Mayberry, who, a few months ago, was chosen as "Miss Houston" in a state-wide talent contest.

Miss Mayberry and her sister decided to walk from Houston to New York and go on the stage. They walked out of the old home town with a four-pound bag of clothing and their total cash on hand, resources, combined assets and sinking fund amounting to the magnificent sum of five dollars.

Newspapers along the way carried stories about them, and upon reaching each town ahead they found an eager throng awaiting them. Result: free hotel accommodations with meals and other incidentals. When they had covered perhaps a thousand miles and the original five dollar bill still remained in tact, the girls developed a determination to reach New York without spending one penny of their five dollar expense fund.

Seven days after the girls walked out of Houston they reached Broadway and Thirty-fourth street, with the original five dollar bill still safely tucked away in their knapsack. There immediately followed theatrical engagements, and now Cordelia is rehearsing to open in a musical comedy called "The Butterfly Girl."

A Few "Didjaknows"

Dijaknow that Bert Swor—who is now the Moran of Moran and Mack, "Two Black Crows"—met Charlie Mack in Dallas (their old home town), and they decided to get up a vaudeville act, which is what you now hear on the fonnygraf records? . . . That Jessie Reed, who later became the world's highest paid actress, started her career in the Happy Hour theater in Dallas? . . . Kid McKoy was picked up in Dallas by Samuel Goldwyn, the big moom pitchur magnet? . . . Evan Burrows Fontaine was once the pupil of Mrs. Hart's dancing school in the Southland hotel, Dallas? . . . All those orange juice stands which are found on every Chicago thoroughfare are owned by W. M. Harrison, a former Texas newspaper man who went broke in an oil deal with Abner Davis in Fort Worth? . . . King Vidor, the big time moom pitchur director used to be a reporter on the Dallas News? . . . Gene Cameron, who used to sell ties in that little habadashery in the Adolphus lobby went West young man to Hollerwood and was starred in a movie and killed the next week in an auto smash-up?

From a story in this week's NEW YORKER: ". . . Texas, Alice discovered, was mostly sand and rocks and some little plants with spikes on them.

"'Don't you suppose,' she suggested meekly, 'we could find a nicer place to play games? This is so far from home and so dusty. A long way from home and very dusty . . .'"

From an article in THE OUTLOOK:

". . . Our eyes are gradually being turned upon Texas. It is a veritable paradise for the farmer . . . Vast acres of land rich with the gifts of nature where vegetation can be grown to magnificent proportions . . ."

(Now, children, will someone please rise and explain what is meant by the elasticity of the press?)

Here's one relayed to me by a local columnist that is worth passing on. Sir Conan Doyle, the big ghost and seance man, sent a wire to a dozen acquaintances of his in London. Each of the 12 men was high in political or social circles, and each was looked up to as a man whose character and virginity was above question. The wires read: "All is discovered; fly at once."

Within 24 hours all 12 left the country.

And that leads to one over which all Broadway is tittering. A certain up-and-up actress who is starring in a theater on Forty-second street received a beautiful bouquet of gardenias last week. The card accompanying the posies read:

"In appreciation of the care you took of my husband while I was in the hospital."

School Committee to Submit Plan For Consolidation of Four Districts

The feasibility of the consolidation of four Wichita county rural schools and plans for financing the project are to be considered this week by a committee representing Sunshine, Barwise, Enterprise, and County Line communities, Burl Bryant, county superintendent of schools, announced Sunday.

The committee, which will meet with Mr. Bryant Tuesday, will later call a meeting of the residents of the four district in which some plan of action will be finally adopted, the superintendent said. The mass meeting will probably be called during the coming week, Mr. Bryant believes.

He has named Frank Baldwin of Sunshine, Hugo Flusche of Enterprise, M. A. Barwise of Barwise, and J. T. Haynes of County Line as members of the committee to work out plans for presentation to the group.

Two proposals have been put before the schools, one calling for a consolidation of the four and the second suggesting that they become a part of the Electra schools.

Big Silver Fleet Sale Continued One Week

You Can Still Trade In Old Worn Tires at Generous Allowances

Great Public Interest Dealers' Reason for Prolonging Sale Seven Days More

We expected interest! We anticipated crowds.

But we must admit we didn't believe it possible for the Silver Fleet to create the excitement and enthusiasm that its brief stay brought forth!

Every day dozens of car owners have stopped to ask questions . . . about the Fleet . . . about its tires.

With this great interest, only one thing is left for us to do . . .

To take care of all our friends . . . all car owners who have not yet had the opportunity to benefit by our Silver Fleet trade-in sale . . . the big celebration sale must continue for another week.

For 7 more days you can trade in your tires as you would your car . . . turn doubtful mileage on old tires into real money on sharp, new rubber.

How It Works

Come in and let us point out how economical . . . how simple . . . it is to buy sound, new tires just like those the Fleet uses, during our celebration trade-in sale!

On your car are old casings . . . five thousand, ten thousand . . . maybe more miles on them. Perhaps the treads are wearing smooth . . . Perhaps injuries or small cuts have begun to weaken them . . .

Possibly they have already begun to cost you money in repairs.

We have a market for such old tires. We can recondition and sell them for use where long service isn't as important as it is to you.

So why hesitate?

Come in . . . now! And avoid trouble later on by getting new rubber for old, good tires for worn ones. Off with the old, on with the new . . . while our generous trade allowances on well-worn casings are still in effect.

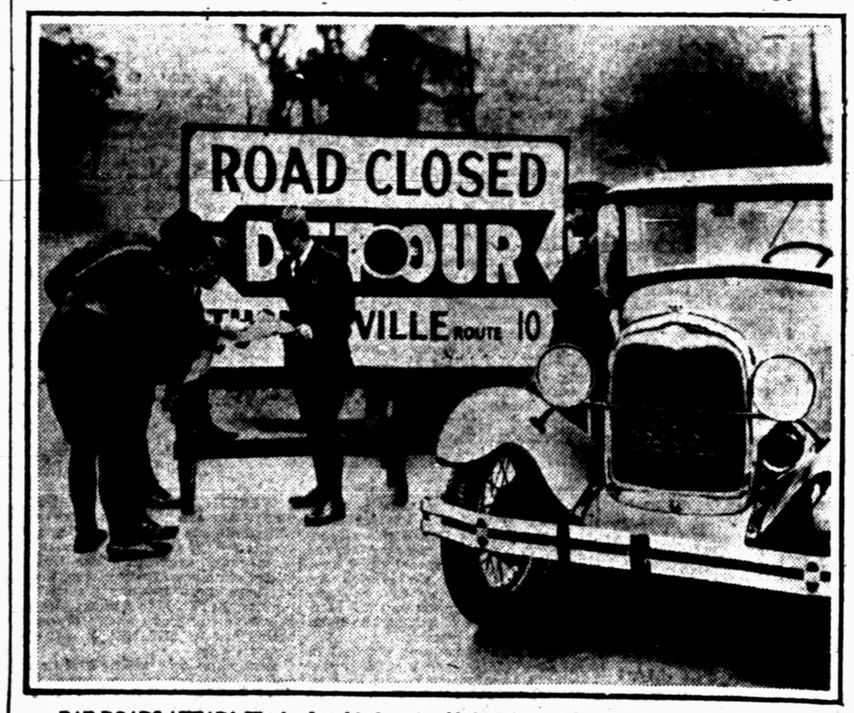

Can we count on seeing you?

HERE'S ONE of the Silver Fleet Pilots demonstrating the famous Goodrich Hinge-Center Tread. All Goodrich Tires are two-way toughened by the water-cure process and built from stretch-matched cords, heavily rubberized. Come in, let us show you more.

THREE GOODRICH TIRES: Silvertown De Luxe, for superlative style and service. The famous Silvertown—the standard quality tire. Goodrich Cavalier, a low-priced tire for keen buyers.

BAD ROADS AHEAD! That's what this farmer told the pilots of the Silver Fleet. But they went right ahead 'cause that's just the kind of going they're looking for. It's travel conditions like this that prove the kind of stuff Goodrich Tires are made of. The Fleet has covered miles of such roads.

Wichita Electrician Had Suffered for Months

Nothing Else Did Him Any Good and He Was Going Down Hill Rapidly Until He Got Orgatone

Still another link is added to the long chain of evidence regarding the remarkable merits of Orgatone in the case of J. E. Truelove, a well-known electrician for Ruby-Howard Battery Station and residing at 511 Van Buren street, Wichita Falls, whose phenomenal relief from indigestion and stomach trouble by the use of the medicine was reported by his wife, Mrs. J. E. Truelove, recently. Mrs. Truelove said:

"My husband had been suffering for several months from what appeared to be acute indigestion. He had a fairly good appetite but it seemed to do him more harm than good because sometimes after eating he would have spells or cramping and would nearly die. This would cause him so much misery that he couldn't get any sound sleep and would get up in the mornings tired and lifeless and without any energy. I don't know what really was the matter with him and can't describe his case better than to say it was just a general breakdown of his stomach. Anyway, nothing did him any good and he seemed to be losing weight and getting more run down every day and his condition was a constant source of worry and anxiety to me.

"I had read and heard so much about what Orgatone was doing for others that I decided to see if it would help my husband and I have never seen anyone pick up so fast. Honestly he looks and feels like a different man. No one could have a better appetite and he eats just any and everything he wants and digests it perfectly. His cramping pains have entirely disappeared, he sleeps fine every night and gets up in the morning full of life and energy. He says he feels better than he has in a long time and thinks there's no medicine in the world like Orgatone. He keeps it in the house all the time now and from the way it has acted in his case I wouldn't give a few bottles of it for all the other medicines I ever saw. We have the best of reasons for thinking well of Orgatone; such a medicine deserves all the praise that can be given it."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile preparation containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Wichita Falls, exclusively by Allison's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adv.

Booth Tarkington says, "It is hard for anyone who has not been blind to realize what a thrill it is not to have to see everything." How different from our thoughts of blindness. We are voracious with our eyes. We would miss nothing if it could be helped. Even the sad sights make for our good as they make our heart tender. To be blind in spring—when rains make the whole earth a tender green—when the lilac and the white iris bloom—what a tragedy it would be for us. Is Mr. Tarkington really gay in his blindness, or is he a brave man, whistling to keep up his courage?

We drove out the "Pleasant Valley" road and never was name so fitting. A wide, smooth road crossing a stream bordered with green trees and then "woods." It came nearer being like 'back home' than anything we have seen in Texas. Woods on each side of the road and then when you leave the woods, a road bordered with fields of splendid green wheat, the wind ruffling it into shades of light and dark. Once more we were impressed with the fact that there are more shades of green than any other color.

Tolerance seems to have featured the recent Jewish conference in San Francisco. "Jews liberal in the broadest sense debated with others hardly more than a step removed from strict orthodoxy, and none ever lost his temper or his respect for his adversary." It has seemed to us that throughout the ages, religious creeds have begotten more intolerance than any social or political feeling. "Tolerance" seems to us the noblest sentiment of man and we are proud of a son who remarked that he was intolerant of only one thing on earth, and that was "intolerance."

Charles Johnston has written a masterly review of four recent books about Tibet. "Tibet, the last region of the globe untouched—by the fret and fury of occidental life. One writes of its remote and haunting beauty with misgiving that it cannot long retain its mystical isolation. Already—the ancient spirits are seeking—a lonelier abode, where the waves of our feverish sea may not break upon the hallowed strand." Sir Charles Bell, in "The People of Tibet," shows that he has lost his heart to Tibetans because they know they have souls and are not ashamed of it.

We are deeply interested in the "Passion of Joan of Arc," in which the trial and death of Joan of Arc are told in silence, by the expression of faces not disfigured by make-up and photographed from all angles, mostly in close-up. The Danish director, Carl Theodore Dreyer, has made a picture which we are told, is one of the four or five authentic masterpieces in the young art of the cinema. We like movies, but it does seem to us that more censoring should be done. We know some places have overdone the censoring. We remember with delight Heywood Broun's essay on the censor; he tells how in Pennsylvania the censors decided a kiss was chaste for ten feet of film; how censors wouldn't let you thumb your nose. They made a producer cut out pictures of a man thumbing his nose at a lion. But we are for censorship. We think that often a great opportunity for uplift is debased in the movies.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

Women in Pugilism

I AM writing this in the observation car of the train that is taking me to Chattanooga and New Orleans. Two men started talking about women and before they got through several people took part.

The subject was derived from the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling fight in Miami. Both the men had seen the fight. One didn't like the way "Ma" Stribling, mother of Young Stribling, conducted herself during and after the fight.

"TO my notion," said one of the men, "she made a fool of herself and reflected on all mothers. I'm not an old fogey, nor am I old-fashioned, but it seems to me that a mother's place is not in the corner of a ring. I'm glad Stribling lost. He shouldn't have raised his mother to be a fight-second."

"I agree with you up to a certain point," said the second man, "but the thing I object to is that after the referee gave the devision to Sharkey she let out a howl and said her boy had been robbed. That's apt to make it appear that women don't know how to lose when they get mixed up in sports. Her conduct disgusted me for that reason."

Others expressed opinions more or less critical of "Ma" Stribling, both because of her appearance at the ringside and her cry of robbery, in spite of the fact that all the newspaper men agreed with the referee.

I had been listening, but had said nothing. The conductor of the train, whom I meet often in my travels around the country, pointed me out as a writer on subjects of interest to women.

"What do you think?" he asked me. "I'm sure these ladies and gentlemen will be interested in your opinion."

This was my answer:

"Of course, Mrs. Stribling did appear in a rather unusual and unconventional light as a ringside adviser of her son. Women haven't done such things. But the fact that women haven't done them doesn't of itself mean that is wrong. Ten years ago women didn't do a great many things they do today.

"If a person insists on beein foolish, I don't believe in contradicting nature. As to her lack of sportsmanship, if it was a lack of sportsmanship that reflects on the person guilty of it, I don't see how women are involved any more than men would have been if Young Stribling's father had raised the cry of robbery.

"It's all a question of individual taste. But, of course, some women, as well as men, haven't got it."

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

They Learn After Year or Two They Didn't Marry Creatures of Perfection

Husbands and Wives Who Say They Would Never Marry if They Were Single Forget That the Burden They Bear Is Divided by Half and That They Are Spared Special Curse of Loneliness.

A young woman asks: "Why is is that almost every husband and wife you meet says, 'If I were single, I would never marry'."

Oh, on the principle that we never know when we are well off and we are never satisfied with the particular place we are in. We never see that the flowers are blooming around us, and the grass is sweet. We are always remembering some luscious meadow through which we passed in the long ago, or think that just over the bars there are greener fields and pastures newer. "Man never is, but always to be, blessed," you know. That sort of thing.

Of course, marriage is no picnic, and when people are in the thick of it, it often seems to them that they get more kicks than ha'pence out of it. They find the romance of courtship gone, its illusions dispelled, and in its place the monotonous and uninspiring doing of one's daily duty. They have discovered that marriage isn't just holding hands and billing and cooing.

It is working eight hours a day to pay the butcher and the baker and the landlord and the milliner and the dressmaker and the beauty shop, and it is standing over a cookstove and washing dishes and running the vacuum cleaner and nursing babies and staying at home nights when your feet just ache to dance and you are mad for the bright lights once more.

The husband and the wife have found out that they did not marry the creatures of impossible perfection that they thought they were espousing, but that each has got a very human lifemate full of faults and weaknesses and temper and nerves and selfishness and unreason. Each has discovered that the marriage ceremony does not work a miracle that turns a man and woman into two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one, but that, on the contrary, marriage seems to set people in their individual opinions, as a mordant does a dye, and that no other two people in the world can hold such diverse opinions and find so many things to fight about as a husband and wife.

So, human nature being what it is, and men and women being what they are, and it being perfectly natural for all of us take our blessings as no more than our due, and to regard our trials and tribulations as undeserved misfortunes, it is not surprising that some day after Mr. Benedick has had words with Mrs. B, he should reflect that if he didn't have to support a family he could afford a racing car and yachts and things, and that if he didn't have to punch the home time clock he could stay downtown and play poker with the boys, and that he should say that if he were single he would never marry.

Nor is it surprising that after Mrs. Benedick has had to wheedle the price of a new hat out of Mr. B. and listen to his invidous comparison between the kind of bread she makes and that his mother used to make, and after she has sat up evening after evening with a man who had the conversational repertoire of a sore-headed bear, she opines that if she had not married she would never, never, never commit such a folly.

The reason for this is twofold. First, husbands and wives, without realizing it, always associate being unmarried with youth and high spirits and freedom from care and worry, and they feel that if they had not married they would have remained perpetual boys and girls. One of the principal reasons people get divorces is because they have the delusion that if they can get rid of those to whom they are married they will be restored to their status of flaming youth once more.

They forget that, whether they married or stayed single, age would have sobered them, and the cares and burdens of life that none may escape would have come upon them. They would have had to go about the real business of life, which is work and not play. They would have known toil and anxiety and worry and sickness and sorrow, and have had to do without the things they wanted and to do the things they did not want to do. For the old bachelor and the old maid have no sinecure. They escape none of the sorrows of existence and they add to them loneliness.

While smarting under the pin pricks of matrimony, the husbands and wives who say that if they were single they would never marry forget that they have their consolations as well as their troubles. The man forgets the comfortable home his wife makes for him and the woman forgets the good living her husband makes for her. They forget that while domestic life curtails their liberty it is better than not having any one in all the world who cares enough for you even to note what you do.

They forget that the burden that two bear together is divided by half and that nothing augments a joy or a triumph like sharing it with another. They even forget the happiness their children have brought them, and that in them they have an interest that will never die.

So married people often say that if they were single they would never marry again, but that they don't mean it is amply proved by the fact they nearly always do marry again if they lose their husbands or wives, either by death or divorce.

Old bachelors and old maids are often chirpy and happy enough, but widows and widowers are nearly always restless and dissatisfied. Their freedom palls upon them. Staying out at night loses its kick for a man when nobody cares whether he ever comes back or not. No woman takes an interest in getting up a dinner if no man is to eat it. Those who have been married miss the companionship to which they are accustomed. They even miss somebody to fight with. Life with a husband or wife may be rough sailing. But it is never dull.

Fil

Gone... Teeth regain sparkling whiteness

Film, too, is the source of serious tooth and gum disorders. Dentists urge special film-removing dentifrice.

DON'T be discouraged if teeth are not white and sparkling. You have 9 chances in 10 that they are merely coated with a dingy film.

Film absorbs the stains from food and smoking and gives that cloudy look. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays.

Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. To remove film, use the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film and easily remove it in gentle safety to enamel.

Don't expect the same results from old-time dentifrices. See for once and all how white and bright teeth really are. Get Pepsodent at any drug counter, or write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

Atwell to Hear Motions In Oil Claims

A motion to have the $500,000 damage suit of H. M. Ford against the Roxana Petroleum company sent back to the state courts for trial will be presented before Judge W. H. Atwell in the United States district court Monday morning.

Mr. Ford is asking damages for the alleged failure of the company to adequately develop 650 acres of oil land along the Clear Fork of the Brazos river, according to the terms of a lease. Cancellation of that contract is also sought by the landowner, represented in the suit by A. H. Carrigan, attorney. The plaintiff is opposing the trial of the suit in the United States court, urging the jurisdiction of the state tribunals.

Judge Atwell last spring remanded the suit to the state courts when the defendant sought its transfer into federal jurisdiction.

She will make clear rules that have been misunderstood, and give information that both forum members and the public need.

Mr. Young will be introduced as the singer of the evening and will give several numbers. Mrs. Bruce Greenwood will give violin numbers throughout the program.

Mrs. C. P. Burton, the new president will be introduced and extend her greetings.

The program is unique in outline and will serve to make the general public familiar with the forum purposes.

Heroism—in the Dark

THERE is a tremendous amount of bravery in this world. No matter what emergency arises, courage and self-sacrifice are sure to spring up in the midst of it to lessen its horrors.

The vicinity of Harriman, Tenn., was swept by a flood recently, and 20 people were drowned. And out of the story of that disaster—a story of death and destruction, grim and horrible—there gleam instance after instance of bright heorism, infinitely inspiring.

There was, for instance, a 50-year-old river man named Tom Atkens. Tom had a skiff—a flimsy, leaky contrivance that ordinarily would not be considered safe in a millpond. When the swollen river began uprooting trees, knocking down houses and foaming over roads like a small model of the Niagara rapids, Tom got out his skiff and went out to see what he could do.

Trip after trip he made, bringing back each time two or three refugees who had been huddled on some housetop or knoll, waiting for death.

Once he was too late. He pulled for a nearly-submerged house, on the roof of which perched a woman and her child. Just before he got there the house collapsed, and the woman and child vanished. Somehow Tom kept his cockleshell from going under. He cruised about, hoping that the pair would come to the surface. They did not. So he turned downstream, rowed to a tree top that was just above the water, and took four children to safety.

In all, he saved the lives of over a dozen people. His own life he risked every time he pushed his boat out on the water.

Then there was Bob Underwood. He woke up at midnight to find water rising around his house. Hurriedly he hitched his team and drove his family to the safety of higher ground. Then he turned around and drove off down the road into the valley, to see if he couldn't help some of the neighbors. The water rose too fast. He never came back.

There was a girl too—Grace Whalen, a night telephone operator, who stayed at her switchboard all night, while the river ran through the street outside, and warned the neighborhood of the danger. The flood's toll would have been far higher if she had not ignored her own peril to stay and give those warnings.

Things like that are common—the inevitable by-product of any disaster. They are so common they do not even get any great amount of space in the newspapers. These chronicles of heroism get crowded out by more important news.

Yet, after all, such stories are as important as any the newspapers print. There are plenty of happenings in the United States that make the human race look rather small, mean and contemptible. Things like these events at Harriman are tonic for discouragement. They testify that magnificent bravery—the bravery that makes a man or a woman ready to lay down life, in the darkness, for total strangers—is infinitely more common than we suppose.

Woman Keeps the Bob

FOR a great many years one of mankind's favorite jokes has been the fondness of woman for changing styles.

However, it is beginning to look as if this joke might be a wee bit overdrawn. When women find a style that really suits them they are quite capable of hanging on to it with a great deal of tenacity.

For the last three of four years the spokesman for the hairdressers have raised their voices, every now and then, to announce that the bob was doomed. Long hair, they kept saying, was about to return. Soon the bobbed-haired maiden would be as rare as in pre-war days.

And what has happened? Nothing whatever. The bob is precisely as popular as it was four years ago. Women have discovered that it is both comfortable and becoming, and all the shouts of the hairdressers have not moved them. The old quip about woman's changeableness may need revising.

Our New Attitude

TO APPRECIATE to the full way in which Ambassador Morrow has given all of us a new attitude toward Mexico and her troubles, consider the way in which the American public has reacted toward the latest Mexican rebellion.

Before this, any Mexican revolt always brought forth a lot of loose talk north of the Rio Grande about the necessity for armed intervention. The idea was never widely popular, to be sure; but there were always plenty of people and newspapers to declare that we would have to send an army down and "clean up that mess."

Not one peep of that kind has been heard during the present turmoil. The whole United States has waited sympathetically for the Calles-Gil regime to restore order. No one has ever suggested that we ought to intervene.

Ambassador Morrow, we think, is largely responsible.

Subways and High Taxes

THE city of Detroit, in a special election, has rejected a $91,000,000 subway proposal by a huge majority.

Like other fast-growing, populous cities, Detroit is crippeld by a lack of adequate transit facilities. Some form of rapid transit is needed and needed badly. Yet the voters very decisively turned down the plan to build an extensive subway system. Beyond doubt it was the fear that the cost would boost taxes too high that made them look with disfavor on it.

Thus Detroit exemplifies the dilemna of the modern city. Much money must be spent on transportation; yet city expenses now are woefully high. What is a harassed city to do?

QUALITIES OF SUCCESSFUL FARMING

Farming is more than mere tilling the soil, and the man who would be successful at it must have a capacity for coping with problems other than those of the soil. The best spear designer of the Roman ages would be a parasite upon modern society because spears are not in demand. Production of any commodity not in demand, or in quantities exceeding the demand may be indicative of ability in one phase of activity but it certainly reflects failure to heed the imperious requirements of our economic system.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

The Day Book of a New Yorker
Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, April 7.—There have been many stories of the lure newspaper work holds for those it once snares into its fold. But the most astounding I have heard concerns "Bill" Greene, the well known New York composer and musician. Greene is as well known on Broadway as any other musician. He has arranged music regularly for Roger Wolfe Kahn, the youthful jazz impresario, and has played in orchestras in many theaters of the city.

Until this week the weekly income of Bill Greene was reputed to be at least $350. Now it is only $40 and to understand why you must understand not only the psychology of Bill Greene but the fascination of newspaper life.

A few years ago Greene graduated from a mid-western university and joined the staff of a Chicago newspaper as a reporter. Even at that time he was quite adept with musical instruments. Necessity forced him to abandon his cub reporter's job and he appeared with orchestras. Then he came to New York and stamped himself as a good musician, always in demand. Roger Kahn got hold of him and other impresarios of jazz also engaged him. He was, in the mind of Broadway, a success.

And the other day Bill disappeared. When discovered he was a reporter again in Albanyan assistant correspondent for a news service. This was his first love and, although he was able to withstand its lure for a long time, it finally captured him. He abandoned Broadway and its successes for the great fascination. It is usually so with all newspapermen.

The sudden and inexplicable spurt in high-hattedness that has swept the country during the past year brings to mind a group of individuals whose trade it is to make "hand-made" toppers.

These men constitute the smallest industry in the country. There are seven of them in New York, I understand, about 150 of them throughout the country. Nimble-fingered, they make the hats by hand. They are ancient and prideful craftsmen, skilled in their art over a period of 40, 50 and 60 years. There is no young blood seeping into their ranks.

Which provides a pretty situation, you might say, with the ever growing demand for the high hats.

New York is not all a matter of large and lofty cathedral-like movie palaces. Scattered here and there in the heart of the city are a few of those old, ramshackle places reminiscent of the small town movie house.

I sauntered into one in West 23d street the other day. A wild west picture, or something, was billed. The theater was low ceilinged, with a capacity of about 250. A lady was banging away at a piano and the kids in the audience were whooping it up while the hero gave the villain the works and saved the heroine from a fate worse than death.

It had so much of the spirit and content of the village corner movie emporium that I had difficulty in realizing it was in 23d street. And, to tell the truth, it was a great relief. That old piano, giving forth its sighs and groans, was pleasing to an ear almost deafened by the blare of super-organs. The homely curtain, the old-time movie melodramas proved a relief after the gaudy stage presentations and jazzed-up overtures you have to see and listen to in a great movie palace, when all you went there for was to view a good movie.

For instance, there is Jim Corbett, the former heavyweight champion of the world. Although he is 62 or 63 years old there isn't a grey spot on his head and his physique is as powerful looking as in the days when a fellow by the name of John L. Sullivan came in contact with him.

Also, there is Frank McGlyn, the actor, who is 62 and you can't see a grey or bald spot on his head. The stage, he claims, keeps you young. Willie Collier, also past the three score mark, has hair that shows no signs of thining.

I don't know what all this proves, but there are the facts.

Why the Market Was Smashed

Dear Editor: I have inquired everywhere to find why it is deemed so necessary to break the bull market and curb speculation, but nobody gives me an explanation I can understand. Won't you please help me? —CONSTANT READER.

Dear Constant: You should be ashamed of yourself for not knowing why it has become a paramount necessity to smash the stock market. There are any number of reasons, the best 10 of which follow:

PHILLIPS

1—Too many amateurs have been making money in violation of precedent. Only those with professional standing are supposed to do it, and the daily spectacle of a lot of motor-men, porters, stevedores, house detectives, office clerks, pie bakers, etc., making easy money was very annoying. It was against tradition and had to be stopped.

2—The time had come for a showdown to determine which market advice was the better, that given by the experts or that given by the master barbers. For the past two years the Wall street experts have been telling the public that stocks were too high. The barbers of America, on the other hand, have been proclaiming that 100 points could be made in most any old stock. It so happened that the barbers were right. A situation like that just had to be corrected, if it took 40 per cent money.

3—The stock market craze had reached a stage where it was raising hob with the American home. Wives who should have been doing the housework were leaning over the back fence discussing possible splitups in Union Carbide. Mothers who should have been looking after the baby were letting Junior play on the trolley tracks while they clung to the telephone to get fresh dope from their broker.

4—It had become impossible to get efficiency in shops and offices. In factories the workers spent half the time comparing notes on market plunges. In business offices it had become impossible to get the office boy to drop the Wall Street Journal and go fill the glue pot; the stenographers were all too busy playing the curb to take dictation, and the office manager was down in the cellar totaling up his paper profits on the side wall.

5—The stock craze had caused much unnecessary suffering. A dentist would get a patient's tooth half out, and would then suddenly excuse himself for a few hours while he ran over to the brokerage house and watched the board. Doctors could not be reached because they were busy on the phone discussing Montgomery Ward.

6—The public safety was being menaced. It had become futile to call a policema nunless you wanted to give him a tip, and few firemen were willing to go to fires between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m., except where the fire was convenient to a ticker.

7—8—9—10—The market was too high.

There, Constant Reader, you have it all, and should stop asking questions.

It Would Have Saved Suffering

Eugene Tunney, the ex-prize fighter, attended a bullfight the other day, but only with the understanding that newspaper writers and photographers be barred. He should have thought of that idea in some of his fights.

Isn't it about time Captain Randell of the I'm Alone indorsed a cigaret and the crew attributed its escape from gunfire to mineral oil?

VIRGINIA IRON, COAL AND COKE COMPANY

5-Year Record

The leading iron, coal and coke companies of southwestern Virginia were united in the Virginia Iron Coal and Coke company in 1899. There were 15 of these companies. The consolidated company went into the hands of a receiver in 1901, but was discharged from the receivership in 1903. Since then several other properties have been acquired. The company's property includes four blast furnaces at Roanoke, Radford, Max Meadows and Pulaski, Va. It owns 985 coke ovens and about 120,000 acres of coal and iron lands in Virginia and Kentucky. It also has iron deposits in Georgia and has split some of its land up into parcels suitable for sale as farms.

Net financial returns on the whole have been somewhat slender. For eight years before the war there were losses. From 1917 to 1920, the corporation did well. Then earnings dropped until there was a deficit in 1924. There were some profits in 1925 and 1926, amounting to $198,296 in the first named period and $75,856 in the second. In 1927, deficit was $182,436. For the first 9 months of 1928, there was a deficit of $88,380.

Funded debt totals $1,845,000 in 5 per cent gold bonds. Capital stock outstanding includes $2,500,000 in 5 per cent cumulative preferred shares of $100 par and $10,000,000 in common of $100 par. Preferred shareholders are entitled to vote. Preferred dividends were paid from 1922 to 1928, but the dividend due Jan. 2, 1929, was passed. On the common no dividends have been paid since 1924.

As for Jan. 1, 1928, total current assets were $1,868,455. Current liabilities stood at $364,623 and net working capital at $1,503,832. Book value applicable to the common stock totaled $106.32 a share.

Haskell County Schools To Get More State Aid

Special to The Record News

HASKELL, Texas, April 7.—Miss Georgia Walker of Austin, rural aid supervisor of the state board of education, and Miss Minnie Ellis, county superintendent, spent last week in inspecting the rural schools of Haskell county. According to Miss Walker, Haskell county schools will receive state aid this year to the amount of $12,000, an increase of $8,000 over the sum granted last year, which will be a help in carrying on the work of the schools. In making her inspections, Miss Walker found that with one exception every school in the county had complied with certain recommendations made by the state inspector last year and also found that the schools this year had teachers with better certificates, two reasons for the increase in state aid granted this year. Twenty-seven schools in the county will receive state aid, according to Miss Ellis.

REFINERY CLOSED

BURKBURNETT, Texas, April 7.—The Tidal Western refinery, about one-half mile south of Burkburnett, has been shut down all this week for general repair work, with the addition of numerous new parts to the refining process. Employes have been working 12 hours a day in doing the repair work, and completion was made Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The refinery will start up again today to resume regular refining work.

MEMPHIS VOTES LIBRARY FUND
$650 Appropriated to Buy Books

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, April 7.—The city council of Memphis has appropriated a lump sum of $650 and a monthly appropriation of $100 for the Memphis Carnegie library, the $650 to be spent at once for volumes needed to bring the library up to a recognized standard and for necessary repairs and some additional shelving, and the $100 to pay all library expenses and supply an accumulating fund for future book purchases. If the recommendation that the library be kept open for a longer period is carried out, it is very likely the librarian's salary will be increased.

The above appropriations by the city council set aside for the library brings to an end a long-drawn-out effort on the part of six local civic organizations that have been working untiringly to bring the library up to standard and make it a worthwhile institution.

Medicine Mound To Get Community House

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, April 7.—Medicine Mound is to have a stucco community house, 50 by 100 feet, with a 20-foot stage and an equipped kitchen for the home demonstration club, if plans already laid materialize. The building will cost around $3,000 and about half of this amount has already been subscribed. Each club and organization in the community will have a part in raising the balance of the money by any method they choose. A home talent play has already been announced as the selection of one group. This will be staged in the near future.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

Self-Reliance

An original thinker is a rare individual. He may sometimes be mistaken in his opinion, but he usually can create a place for himself in "Who's Who."

To achieve greatness, a man must first learn to think along original lines. He must develop self-reliance. Every really successful man or woman has learned this art early in life. The man who is weak and wavering in his thinking and in his method of handling the problems of life rarely enjoys more than a mediocre success.

If you would give your child a good start in life, teach your child to decide problems for itself—to act on its own initiative whenever possible. You can give your child no greater handicap than that of pampered attention while he is still young.

Every individual who has accomplished something in this world has had problems to solve in his early youth. Would you expect the physical muscles of your child to develop if you forbade him to crawl or walk? Why, then expect his mental strength to develop if you do not permit the child to do its own thinking? Mental exercises is certainly as important as physical gymnastics.

Children want reasons for doing things, and when a child asks a question, it should be given a reasonable and truthful answer. Of course, the child requires a guiding hand from someone who has had more experience, but nevertheless, the child should be allowed to make its own decision whenever possible.

Many parents make the mistake of saying, "Well, I don't want my child to go through the difficulties I had when I was young, and I am going to give him every opportunity. I am going to make life easy for him." The danger of this policy is that it may lead to a spoiled and pampered child—a child which will grow up into an impossible adult, unable to function amidst the harsh realities of the world.

People who are handicapped by too much parental guidance in youth usually become too dependent upon others as they grow older and unable to rely on themselves. In deciding the many problems of everyday life, they surround themselves with an imaginary world of their own liking. They are timid and often useless.

They may, however, so endeavor to overcome this handicap that they rebel against parental authority and, in fact, authority of any kind, and become extremists in their endeavor to make themselves believe that they are different.

Do you depend upon others to do your thinking for you. Secure their advice, yes, but decide for yourself. Be self-reliant, and you will be strengthened in all of your endeavors.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Acne

Question—Mrs. N. R. writes: "Am greatly pleased with the results from using your diet for acne. The hard lumps have almost entirely disappeared, and the face is clearer and smooth now. However, purplish marks or scars from the lumps remain. Will they gradually disappear, or is there any treatment I could use for them?"

Answer—I am pleased to know that you have obtained such good results in overcoming your trouble with acne. The purplish marks are liable to remain for some time—until the congestion has entirely cleared up. A treatment with hot and cold wet applications should be of assistance and if this does not entirely overcome the trouble, these spots should be treated with the ultra violet or actinic light.

Hominy

Question—R. H. K. writes: "Kindly give me your opinion of hominy. May it be combined with any food, and how it may be served?

Answer—Hominy is a very wholesome starchy food, but should not be combined with acids at a meal. The best method of preparing it is to soak it in water for several hours, then rinse it two or three times in hot water to remove any traces of lye or other irritating materials used in its preparation. It should then be slowly boiled for about a half an hour and seasoned with butter or cream only.

Varicocele

Question—H. J. B. writes: "I would like to know if you have a diet which would help me overcome a bad case of varicocele. I have been operated on but am still bothered with it."

Answer—I am sending you an article on varicose veins which outlines an ice treatment that would be very beneficial in you case of vericocele. It would also be well for you to follow a body-cleansing regime through fasting and dieting, and take cold sitz baths for about 5 or 10 minutes before retiring each night.

MORAN AND MACK

MORAN: Yo sure is a big coward.

MACK: Yes sah, I'm a big coward an' I ain't stopped growin'.

MORAN: When General Gonzabo catches yo' he will shoot yo'.

MACK: Where I comes from, we shoots each other.

MORAN: Why did you' stand still when the general yelled "Charge"?

MACK: I wuz puttin' my gears in reverse.

MORAN: But th' general hollered "Charge."

MACK: I ain't got no charge account in this war.

MORAN: Yo' is goin' to get a bad name in this war.

MACK: I hope I lives to enjoy it.

MORAN: Ain't yo' got no morale?

MACK: What's thatta?

MORAN: That's courage.

MACK: If thattsa what ittsa, I ain't gotta.

Big Boy has no morals, but expects a carload lot in the morning. Big Boy's idea of war duty is to drive an ambulance for a doll hospital.

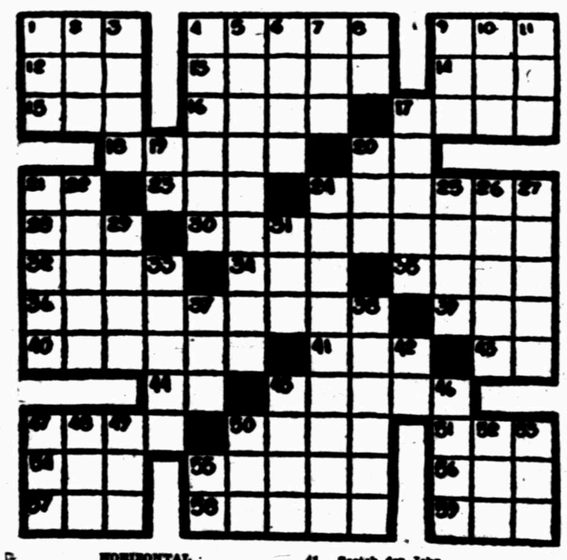

Farmers Meeting To Be Held at Quanah

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, April 7.—Addresses by prominent speakers on poultry raising, terracing and other subjects of interest to farmers and their families, and a play staged by the Goodlett school, will feature a free program at the Goodlett school Tuesday. These get-together meetings are being held in various parts of the county at intervals, and are drawing larger crowds each time. Interest in poultry, dairying and farm problems is very intense throughout the county, and more high-grade cows and chickens are being purchased this year than ever before. Land is being terraced, and up-to-date methods in farm production are rapidly being adopted.

CHICAGO SWEEPS THREE-GAME SERIES WITH SPUDDERS, 8 TO 4

BENNETT HITS TWO DOUBLES

Payne Pitches Great Ball; Taber Ineffective

A couple of left-handers ruined a good ball game yesterday out at the lot. After George Payne of the Spudders and Ted Lyons of the White Sox had pitched excellent baseball for five and six innings, respectively, they were succeeded by Ed Taber and Bob Weiland, southpaws. Both were ineffective, and their tenure on the mound was marked by frequent scoring, with Chicago eventually winning, 8 to 4, and sweeping the three-game series.

Payne limited the enemy to two runs and four hits the five innings he worked, and an error figured in the scoring against him. George was in fine fettle, keeping ahead of the opposing batters all the time and not issuing a base on balls. His work, following the excellent chucking of Milt Steengrafe Saturday, indicates those veteran righthanders are about ready to go the full distance.

Taber's First Start

It was Taber's first start this season and the bespectacled portsider from the Eastern league made an unimpressive debut. He gave up 10 hits, walked four and uncorked a wild pitch for the remaining six Sox runs in the four rounds he toiled.

The Spudders pounded Lyons for six blows in as many rounds, but the former Baylor collegian kept the knocks scattered except in the fifth, when three hits produced a run.

Weiland, a rookie from Moline of the Mississippi Valley league, lacked control, and after yielding a run, five hits and passing three, was relieved in the ninth by McKain, with none out and the bases filled. Two Spudders tallied in the final round off McKain, both charged against Weiland. McKain is the hurler recently declared a free agent from the Cleveland club in the "cleanup" by Judge Landis. After issuing a couple of walks, he managed to retire the Spuds to end the rally.

Spudders Get 11 Hits

Red Bennett continued the terrific hitting pace he has set in spring games by macing a pair of doubles, one off Lyons. He was the only Spudder to get more than one hit, although Galloway's men collected 11 blows.

Carl Reynolds also maintained his heavy hitting by hammering three blows, one for two bases, and was the batting leader of the day. Metzler, Hunnefield and Watwood each banged two knocks of Chicago's 14.

Fast defensive work, with only one error and three double plays, two by the White Sox, marked the pastime.

Sox Score in Fifth

Two hits and an error gave the Sox a brace of tallies in the fifth inning. Spiers fumbled Watwood's bounder. Redfern lifted to Bennett. Autrey singled to left, Watwood stopping at second. Lyons forced Autrey, Spiers to Turgeon, Watwood moving to third. Metzler tripled to right, scoring Watwood and Lyons. Turgeon threw out Ker on a sharp grounder off Payne's glove.

The Spudders scored one in their half of the same round. Eldred singled to center after one was out. Lapan doubled to the center field wall, scoring Eldred. Benton batted for Payne and singled to left, sending Lapan to third. Spiers fouled to Autry. Turgeon popped to Hunnefield.

Chicago had two men on base in the sixth, but Taber struck out Redfern for the third out, after George had hit innumerable fouls.

Hose Add Two More

The Sox tallied two in the seventh. Blackerby, batting for Autrey, lined to Bennett. Hoffman, hitting for Lyons, walked. Hoffman went to second on a wild pitch. Metzler singled to left, scoring Hoffman, and took second on the throw-in. Kerr lifted to Eldred. Clancy was passed. Reynolds singled to center, Metzler scoring and Clancy going to third. Clancy was out at home on an attempted double steal, Lapan to Spiers to Lapan.

Wichita Falls filled the bases in the seventh, but Turgeon fanned for the third out, on straight strikes after the first three pitches by Weiland were balls.

Blackburne's men tallied in the eighth. Redfern strolled after two were out, and stole second. Crouse singled to right, scoring Redfern. Weiland hit to center, Crouse going to second. Metzler struck out.

Spudders Tally in Eighth

The Spudders tallied in their eighth. Bennett doubled to the left-field boards, his second two-base smash, after one was out. He went to third on a wild pitch. Swenson singled to right, scoring Bennett. Clements, a switch hurler, batting for Bean, a left-hander, walked. Crouse threw out Eldred on a tap in front of the plate, the other runners moving up. Lapan lined to Metzler.

Chicago added three more in the ninth. Kerr led off with a double to left. Clancy sacrificed, Taber to Clements. Reynolds walked. Hunnefield hit to left for two bases, scoring Kerr and Reynolds. Watwood singled to right, scoring Hunnefield. Redfern hit into a double play, Swenson to Turgeon to Clements.

The homelings counted two in the ninth, thanks to one hit and four bases on balls. Taber led off with a single to right. Spiers and Turgeon were passed and McKain relieved Wieland. Orr, batting for Sullivan, forced Turgeon, Kerr to Redfern, Taber scoring. Bennett walked, filling the bases. Swenson also strolled, forcing home Spiers. Watwood took Clements' lift. Kerr threw out Eldred.

Mack's Big Five Again Ready for Effort to Stop Yanks

Connie Mack is again depending on this quintet in his quest for the American league pennant. Grove and Walberg, two of the junior loop's best southpaws, have a lot of pitching power, and Cochrane, Foxx and Simmons pack the offensive punch.

NOTES OF THE GAME

The Spudders resume routine drill and intra-camp games today. They play only two more exhibition contests this spring—next Saturday and Sunday with the Fort Worth Panthers here.

Lena Blackburne's pale hose left last night at midnight, to play the Dallas Steers today and then hit the road tonight for the trek north, to open the American league season April 16 at St. Louis.

Pete Turgeon handled 11 chances flawlessly. The starry second sacker is ready right now for the opening bell.

Payne's hurling drew a lot of favorable comment from the Chicago sports scribes with the Sox and Larry Woltz of the Herald-Examiner gave George a lot of praise in his story.

George Blackerby got a big hand from his home town folks when he batted for Lyons in the seventh.

Howard Fitzgerald, who sprained an ankle sliding into second in Saturday's game, will be out of uniform several days.

Condolence of teammates and fans was extended Dallas Clements when he rejoined the club yesterday, over the death of his father.

RYDER TROPHY SQUAD READY

Horton Smith May Decide International Golf

NEW YORK, April 7. (UP)—Whipped into condition by a strenuous winter of competition on southern links, the United States Ryder cup professional golf team is ready for its invasion of Great Britain and Europe, Walter Hagen, captain, indicated here today.

The American team, 10 strong, will leave New York next Wednesday on the liner Mauretania for England, where it will meet the British Ryder cup aggregation at Moortown, Leeds, on April 26 and 27.

Led by Captain Hagen and his right hand man, Leo Diegel, national P. G. A. champion, the team will rule a slight favorite over the British players.

Wooden Shafts Banned

Chances for an American victory will depend to no small extent upon Horton Smith, 20-year-old professional from Joplin, Mo., who has been the sensation of the winter campaign in the South. Smith must accustom himself to the use of wooden shafted clubs, a task which may or may not prove a handicap to the Americans.

In winning six titles in the South this winter, Smith used steel shafted clubs exclusively. He tried the wooden sticks but once, in the Florida east coast championships, and finished 15th in that event.

He is working daily at the Cherry Valley club, on Long Island, however, and may get the feel of the wooden shafts before embarking on his first invasion of foreign links. If not he will have nearly 10 days in which to work, after arriving in England week from next Monday.

Play in Other Meets

Although the prime objective of the transatlantic trip will be the matches with the British Ryder cup combination, the American team will face an extensive program upon reaching Europe, including the French Professional Golfer's association tournament and the German open.

Accompanying the Ryder cup professionals on the Mauretania will be a number of leading American professionals and amateurs, both men and women, who plan to compete in the British open and the British women's tournament.

REDS WIN SLUGFEST

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 7. (UP)—Returning to their sandlot days the Cincinnati Reds this afternoon defeated the Nashville Volunteers, 9 to 8, on an open field here. The game was played as a benefit for sufferers of the flood which left the regular Nashville diamond under water.

GIANTS BEAT MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 7. (UP)—The New York Giants continued their winning streak today, beating the Memphis club of the Southern league, 6 to 5. Jack Scott, veteran righthander, was the second of McGraw's pitchers to go the route.

PIRATES BEAT STEERS IN 8TH

Corsairs Pound Martina For 5-4 Win to Even Series

DALLAS, April 7. (UP)—Romping on "Oyster Joe" Martina to break a 3 to 3 tie in the eighth inning, the Pittsburgh Pirates evened their series with the Dallas Steers here Sunday afternoon with a 5 to 4 victory.

Although the Steers staged a belated rally in the final inning, it fell one run short of knotting the count.

Jack Mealy, young Steer catcher, who was recently returned from the White Sox, led the attack of the game with a trio of blows in three attempts at the plate. Earl Johnston, sensational Dallas ball hawk, pulled in nine putouts during the afternoon. The long-distance clouting honors of the game went to Grantham of the Pirates, who crashed a home run over the right-field wall in the second inning. Score:

Fields Returns To California

Synthetic Welter Champion Wants McLarnin Fight

LOS ANGELES, April 7. (US)—California's newest contribution to the boxing championship circle, Jackie Fields, returned home today from the East, a more renowned, a more experienced and richer man.

During the past few months Fields has been showing the East just what the West can produce in the line of fisticuffs. He started his tour in Chicago by bowling over Jack McCarthy, who was rated a top-notcher in the Windy City.

Fields then hied himself to New York, where he knocked off Baby Joe Gans for the boys and followed this with a second victory over Young Jack Thompson.

How He Claims Title

In but a few months he put everyone but himself and Joe Dundee out of the welterweight limelight and did it to a king's taste. In none of his bouts was there any dispute about the decision.

Sandwiched between these important conquests, Fields beat a couple of home-town boys just for the exercise.

When Fields whipped Thompson in Chicago the National Boxing association's welterweight belt went with victory. In something like 27 states, Fields is recognized as champion of all 147-pounders, because Dundee is under ban in these states for not defending his title within the prescribed time limit.

The SPORTLIGHT

By GRANTLAND RICE

(Copyright, 1929, New York Tribune Inc.; Trademark Registered, U. S. Patent Office)

The Chance for 9 2-5

Bracey, of Rice Institute, has been timed in 9 2-5 seconds, with a slight wind at his back. His trainer still believes he is good for 9 2-5 over this route without a favoring wind. The same belief is held concerning Percy Williams, the Canadian Olympic champion. His trainer also is sure that Williams will do 9 2-5 for the hundred before 1929 has dipped into past history.

The main difficulty comes in adjusting split seconds to yards. A fifth of a second at this clip means nearly two yards. Measurements to be nearly true, or timing, must be made in tenths of a second. And even this is difficult work. One sprinter might beat another by a yard and yet both might run in 9 3-5, since one yard would represent less than a fifth of a second.

Some sprinter will be timed in 9 2-5 before the year is over in all probability. Whether he will meet all the conditions of timing and judging and wind is another matter.

Nurmi and the Mile

There was a time some years ago when Nurmi, under the best of conditions, pressed to the limit, could have run the mile around 4.06. He believed that he might even beat this mark. But there is small chance now that he will ever equal his own record again of 4.10 2-5. He has run himself out of some of his stamina or some of his speed, to judge from recent exhibitions. Nurmi has been in hard competition now at least for ten years. The old elastic spring or the young elastic spring in one's legs doesn't last forever. He is still a great distance runner, but I doubt that any one will ever see again the great Nurmi of 1924, when he ran away with the Paris Olympics. He might have beaten 4.08 for the mile at that time, if there had been any mile to run. He had the speed and the stamina on that occasion to beat any one in the world from the mile to the marathon, inclusive.

The Test of Form

The test of form is consistency. For example, a ball player hitting in bad form might get three or more hits any one afternoon. But he is never going to lead the league.

A golfer with serious faults might shoot a 70. On a certain day there might be a blend of faults that worked out for good result, largely by accident. Such a golfer would never have a chance for a championship. Lack of form, or lack of the right form, would soon eat into his nervous system.

Form, after all, is nothing but a mastery of the fundamentals. To many it means grace and other fancy trimmings. It is possible to look fairly awkward and still have fine form. Honus Wagner was not the most graceful ball player in the world, but his playing form was almost flawless.

Why is it that certain competitors, apparently backed up by good form, never get anywhere? Largely because they are not temperamentally fitted for competition. Their form is only flawless when there is no heavy pressure at hand. Almost any golfer can show good form at flicking the head from a dandelion or thumping a cigar butt. Hitting a ball over penalizing hazards is another problem. In the first case they are relaxed. In the second they are as full of tension as the average modern fighter is full of alibis.

It is an old story in these dispatches, probably harped on too often, but form and a certain amount of relaxation must work together. Certainly form and high tension rarely travel the same road. "I want my football men," says Rocke, "mentally keen but physically relaxed. When you get that combination you have something to beat.

Two Hard Luck Records

In the matter of hard luck pitching episodes, two of the records belong to Theodore Breitenstein and King Brady, from older days. I saw Breitenstein have a no-hit game at hand, with only one man left in the ninth inning. One more man to retire and a no-hit game was on the record. This last man cracked a low line drive through the box that broke Breitenstein's ankle, laid him up for two months and practically ended his career.

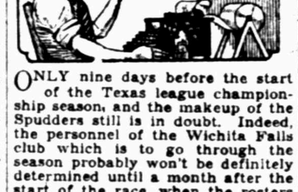

Just before that King Brady pitched a no-hit game against New Orleans and was beaten 5 to 0. The score doesn't always tell the complete story.

Hope springs eternal in the baseball breast at this time of the year, but it isn't quite so eternal about the first of June in some ten of the 16 major league camps.

A straight line is the shortest distance between two points only when you can break through without too much of a casualty list.

One putt still gives my soul the pip
Through bitter days;
You see it quiver on the lip—
And there it stays.

A recent supreme court decision was handed down 67 years after the first hearing. How old will that leave Max Schmeling before his managerial troubles are decided?

ONLY nine days before the start of the Texas league championship season, and the makeup of the Spudders still is in doubt. Indeed, the personnel of the Wichita Falls club which is to go through the season probably won't be definitely determined until a month after the start of the race, when the rosters must be reduced from 25 to 18 men. Three or four berths on the pitching staff, a catching post, first base, the fourth outfield job and the utility infield post remain unsettled.

Cy Smith's excellent and consistent work throughout the spring, including his superb chucking Saturday against the White Sox, would indicate that the big right-hander will be one of the hurlers, along with Payne, Steengrafe and Wiltse. Seven moundmen probably will be retained by Skipper Jim, which leaves two or three places open among some six or seven contenders.

LAPAN, Crouch and Snyder are bidding for the two catching places and it is likely that all three will be retained for the first month of the regular season.

Clements has shown possibilities at first base and Bean has done very well in his trial in the few games he has played. If either Dallas or Bill fail to make the grade there will be a capable guardian of the first station.

Benton seems to have cinched the occupancy of shortstop again, though that isn't assured, leaving Spiers and Garms to contest for the fifth infield job.

Sullivan has the edge, at least at this writing, over Orr for the job as outfielder understudy.

DICKENS TAKES GOLF

SAN ANTONIO, April 7. (AP)—L. L. Dickens of Kyle won the second semi-annual Texas Merchants golf tournament today by defeating the defending champion, E. D. Holchak of Kenedy.

WATWOOD TO BE RETAINED

Metzler, Watwood and Reynolds to Be Regulars

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The outright release of Randy Moore to the Dallas Steers and the return of George Blackerby to the Waco Cubs was announced last night by the Chicago White Sox. Both players are outfielders and each pastimed last season with the Waco club.

Blackerby, Texas league batting leader last season, went to the White Sox last fall on a conditional sale. His home is in Wichita Falls.

Moore's Last Trial

This was Moore's third trial with the White Sox, the last permitted by baseball rules, and he is released outright to Dallas. Randy broke a leg late last season and did not play ball again until this spring.

The release of Moore and Blackerby indicates that George Watwood, a third outfielder from the Texas league, will be retained by the Chicago Americans. Watwood played in 1928 with Shreveport, his first year in organized baseball. Only 21 years old, George has made a distinct impression with White Sox powers and he is regarded as a potential star.

Barrett May Be Traded

Six outfielders still are on the Sox roster. Alex Metzler, Johnny Mostil and Carl Reynolds probably will comprise the regular garden trio, with Hoffman, Watwood and Bill Barrett as reserves. It is rumored that the Sox will use Barrett in a trade with another major league club.

Watwood played all three of the games in the Sox series here which was finished yesterday, while Mostil is in Dallas nursing a broken thumb.

Two Armed Rebellions Meet Crushing Defeats

(By The Associated Press)

Crushing defeats for the armed rebellions in China and Mexico, cabinet crises in Austria and Poland, domestic political maneuverings in England, Scotland, India and Spain, French mourning for an American ambassador and international business conferences—all these contributed to the varied spice that flavored recent news from abroad.

There were touches of mediaevalism in the collapse of the Wuhan defense of Hankow against the Chinese nationalists under Chang Kai-shek. First the commander of a defense sector went over to the nationalists, and the soldiers of Nanking streamed through the gap. Then most of the other Wuhan troops decided that they did not wish to fight against fellow Chinese and the Wuhan leaders fled toward Hunan with only remnants of their following.

The hardest fight of the Mexican rebellion and one of the bloodiest in revolutionary history of that country took place in and around Jiminez in southern Chihuahua. There was a runnnig battle for four days with three days needed by Gen. Juan Andrew Almazan's federals to drive the rebels into and out of Jiminez, climaxed by a slaughter 10 miles north of that city in which the federals said the insurgents lost 3,500 men, including 1,000 killed.

Monsignor Ignaz Seipel, who has been chancellor of Austria since May, 1927, retired from the cabinet, together with other members of his party, the Christian Socialist. He explained that the opposition had made him a personal obstacle to the enactment of needed legislation.

Advocates of the plan to make Scotland a self-governing unit of the British empire resumed their arguments as a part of the pre-election campaign in Great Britain.

The death of Myron T. Herrick brought evidences of regard. The nation seemed to agree with Elihu Root's estimate of the ambassador as "an affectionate friend and a noble gentleman."

FERTILE SOIL

Quanah Sheriff Finds 15 Pints of Hootch In Potato Patch

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, April 7.—Soil around Medicine Mound is unusually fertile, according to Sheriff Hawkins, whose department found 15 pint bottles of whisky smuggled down in a potato patch on the farm near there. The farm also yielded another half gallon of whisky and a crock of beer. Officers were unable to state the exact size of the crock, as the farmer's wife, upon the officers' approach, jumped through a window and into the dugout, where she completely wrecked the beer apparatus, it is reported.

Wichitans to Attend State K. T. Conclave

A number of members of Wichita Falls commandery No. 59, Knights Templar, have expressed their intention of attending the 76th annual grand conclave of the Grand Commandery of Texas, which will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week at Greenville.

Otto Stehlik, eminent grand sword bearer of the Grand Commandery of Texas, and George W. Lawler will leave early Monday, it was stated, while J. D. Bright, J. E. Frazier, J. L. McElreath, John A. Elder, C. M. Crowell and W. B. Guthrie will leave Tuesday for Greenville.

Rural Acquaintance Meeting Near Dalhart

Special to The Record News.

DALHART, Texas, April 7.—The first of a series of community rural acquaintance meetings sponsored by the Dalhart Chamber of Commerce was held at the Conlen school, 20 miles northeast of Dalhart.

The Dalhart high school band, which was organized here last fall, furnished part of the program. The Dalhart Lions club "sweethearts," Ruth Martin and Mildred Griffith, delighted the audience with clever musical numbers. Community singing was led by Dr. Everett Johnston.

THEATER MEET HERE TONIGHT

Drama Leaders to Outline Reorganization Plans

A meeting at which the Wichita Falls Little Theater is expected to "catch its second breath" and start off on a long run is to be held at the Woman's Forum Monday night at 8 o'clock, according to leaders in the movement.

Committees appointed at the luncheon held one week ago will report on the sale of membership tickets, possible locations for production of Little Theater plays other than the auditorium of the Woman's Forum, preferences in future plays and other matters.

Charter membership in the organization will be gained by the payment of $1 at Monday night's meeting, it was announced. A new plan for the presentation of plays will be proposed by an out-of-town Little Theater speaker who is expected to reach this city in time for the charter membership meeting.

All people in Wichita Falls and vicinity who are interested in the perpetuation of the Little Theater here have been urged by leaders to be present at the forum Monday night.

AIRPORT VISITORS

Dr. C. J. Conner of Wink, Texas, landed at the municipal airport Sunday afternoon after flying the 350 miles from Wink in 2 hours and 30 minutes. He was piloted by K. M. Oliver. The two expect to make the return trip Monday morning.

CHURCH ENDS EASTER RITES

Good Shepherd Group Gives 'Chalice and Cup'

The final chapter of Easter activities in local churches was enacted Sunday night at the Church of the Good Shepherd when the Junior Fellowship presented an inspirational pageant, "The Chalice and the Cup," by Mary S. Edgar.

The pageant was designed to unfold the story of the resurrection, beginning with the trial of Jesus before Pilate, then His subsequent scourging and crucifixion, the discovery of the empty tomb, and the Master's latest appearance to His disciples. The latter portions of the dramatization sought to interpret the teachings of Christ, and to illustrate their application to human needs. The story concluded with the distribution of the Easter lilies to the children of the world with the admonition from the church to "take these blossoms, symbols of new life, and make known the Easter message wherever you go, making your own lives emblems of His love."

Miss Jennie Louise Hindman portrayed the leading role of "The Church," with Miss Jean Hunter characterizing the "Spirit of Association." "Children of the World" were represented by Misses Mary Ann Walker, Mary Elizabeth Smith, Peggy Williamson, Margaret Tschabold, Winnie Godfrey, Janelle King, Mildred Branch Eckman and Lucey Bratton. Musical portions of the pageant were given by the church choir.

The altar and chancel of the church were profusely decorated with flowers, and special lighting effects were provided for the occasion.

Rabbi Wolff Speaks Here

Chicago Leader Tells Need Of Education for Youth

"No American can be a 100 per cent American citizen unless he supports the ideas and ideals of his race, and of this nation," declared Rabbi Morris Wolff of Chicago to the congregation of the House of Jacob here Sunday night in an address on "Education via Religion."

"The future of any race in this country is now in the hands of youth," the speaker continued. "Youth must be served with education. The duty of American parents is to acquaint their children with their religion and their churches. They must realize that no religion may consist only of going to church two or three times a year. Religion needs education. We must have a united, enlightened nation to fight for greater liberty and higher civilization. To that end, the full support of religious institutions and the education of the children would make the United States the greatest force in the world.

"One of the country's greatest needs is for better trained leaders for our youth; spiritual leaders, who are ready to give their synagogues or their churches the very best of their talents."

The speaker congratulated the Hebrew congregations of the House of Jacob and Temple Israel of this city upon their having the services of Rabbis Aaron Rabinowitz and S. J. Schwab.

Rabbi Wolff is the rabbi of Kesar Mariv congregation of Chicago, and is also on the staff of the Hebrew College of Theology in that city. It is a national seminary for Jewish young men of United States and Europe who are preparing to become rabbis. The institution now has an enrollment of more than 500, including about 20 students from Texas, in courses combining Hebrew Talmudical education with standard liberal arts studies. The college is now engaged in building one of the finest libraries in the country, Rabbi Wolff stated, and also new dormitory and dining accommodations for the student body. Each student receives an allotment of $30 monthly with which to meet his expenses. During the High Holidays of the Hebrew congregation, the rabbi stated, the college sends out more than 200 of its students to occupy pulpits throughout the United States.

Rabbi Wolff is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kruger while in Wichita Falls, and will remain in the city several days.

Daniel Pays Tribute to Work Of American Legion in Sunday Talk

Story of Isaiah Told to Kay Bible Class in Teacher's Weekly Address

The prophet Isaiah was enabled to render a tremendous political and religious service to the little Hebrew nation of old, and to prophecy the coming of Christ, because his life had been purged in the fire of conflict, according to the address of Roy J. Daniel to the Kay Bible class Sunday morning.

Likening the veterans of the recent great war to the Biblical prophets in their surrender of their lives to a great cause, Mr. Daniel made an urgent plea that all men eligible to membership should attend the first organization of "Unselfish Service." The national leader of the American Legion is the national commander. His name is Paul V. McNutt of Indiana. Wichita Falls is to be greatly honored by a visit of the national commander in our city on April 13 (next Saturday), and the local post of the legion will appreciate the efforts of every citizen of Wichita county to make next Saturday one of the greatest days in the history of our section of Texas. Before the arrival of the national commander the local post desires to reach its quota of 400 paid-up members. The goal has been almost reached. Let me appeal to every man here who is eligible for membership to send your name and check for $3.50 to Floyd Friberg, local post adjutant. Let me ask every employee of men here to encourage his employes who are eligible for membership to sign up. In the preamble of the American Legion constitution God and our country are exalted as please permit me to give it to you:

"For God and country we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a 100 per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the great war; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy, and to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

Prophet's Honor

We are told in the Book of Life that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country, and perhaps in his home. Many prophets spurned in their own days by their own generations have come into their own centuries later. The laws of Moses today are the laws of the world, whereas in his day they were only the laws of the children of Israel. Jesus was not accepted at first by the members of His own family as the Prophet and Christ. Rejected in His day by the Jews, Jesus is now the true prophet of all the world. Today's lesson is about Isaiah, who was not the first of the prophets, but he was probably the greatest. The days of his activity were around 740 B. C., yet before him were the prophets Amos, Samuel, Elijah and Elisha. Amos was the herdsman or cowboy who went into the prosperous cities telling the people that their sins would bring destruction upon them. One day while in King Solomon's temple Isaiah had a wonderful religious experience. (John Wesley wanted a religious experience, so he prayed until he had one—great man of God he was.) This experience came to Isaiah the year that King Uzziah died. Uzziah had reigned successfully for 50 years, and he left the people of Judah rolling in wealth and reveling in sin. While in the temple, thinking upon Uzziah's death and seeking to worship God, Isaiah saw the Lord and His attending angels whose glory filled the temple. The angels cried out unto each other, "Holy, holy, holy is the Lord, God of hosts!" Isaiah looked upon the scene and yet lived, so he cried out, "I am a man of unclean lips, and I live in a nation of unclean lips!" Then one of the angels flew to him, having in his hand a live burning coal which he had taken from the altar of the temple. Then the angel touched the live coal to the lips of Isaiah and said, "Thy sin is taken away. Thy sin is purged." Then Isaiah heard the Lord's voice, "Who will go for us?" Isaiah answered, "Here am I; send me." This experience was Isaiah's call to service; it was his call to duty. Isaiah heard his call, obeyed it and today his name still lives in history and will always live.

His Work

While Sargon was king of Assyria he extended the boundaries of the Assyrian empire to their greatest extent. Between Judah and the Mediterranean sea was a great city of the Philistines called Ashdod. Sargon sent his general named Tartan to capture the city, and he was successful. Now the King of Judah had formed an alliance with Syria and Egypt against Assyria but this foreign policy of the king met with the disapproval of Isaiah and God. Isaiah wanted Judah to become an ally of Assyria and thereby avert conquest and destruction. So in protest to Judah's foreign policy Isaiah went for three years among the people dressed worse than a tramp in order to get the attention of the people, and arouse them to the danger of opposing Assyria. And he was finally successful in having Judah break off alliance with Egypt and Syria and forming an alliance with Assyria—the land of Sennacherib and Sargon and cuneiform writing. It was during this period that Isaiah prophesied the coming of Christ when he told the King that a son would be born to a virgin.

It seems that Isaiah was pretty close to three or four of the kings of Judah. Judah was the little country that gave us King David. One of the greatest descendants of David was Hezekiah. Hezekiah formed the alliance with Assyria, and finally succeeded in leading his people from the worship of idols back to the worship of the true God. Hezekiah became very ill. Isaiah went to him and told him to get his affairs in order because he was going to die. Hezekiah was still a young man and he had tried to walk in the paths of the Lord, so he turned his face to the wall and prayed God for a further lease of life. God heard his prayer and answered it because He told Isaiah to go to the king and tell him that God had heard his prayer and would allow him to live 15 years longer.

May God send His burning coal of fire to our sinful lips, to our sinful eyes, to our sinful ears, to our sinful bodies, and to our sinful hearts this morning and burn them clean and pure again as He did Isaiah! If we should ask God this morning to allow us to live 15 years more would He do it? Yes, ask God for forgiveness of sins and to walk in His paths as Hezekiah walked and He will let us live forever. The poet said:

"The year's at the spring, the day's at morn,
The morning's at seven, the hillside's dew pearled,
The lark's on the wing, the snail's on the thorn,
God is in His Heaven—
All's right with the world!"

CRIMM AGAIN RAPS POLICE

Evangelist to Close His Campaign Tonight

The Wichita Falls police force was the target again Sunday night for an oral broadside fired by Rev. B. B. Crimm, cowboy evangelist, during the course of his sermon delivered in the tabernacle at Yale and Twenty-second.

"The police in this city are the best watchers I ever saw and they sure can mark your tires," the evangelist declared. "I suggest that you folks move your homes to where the green lights are and then they sure will be police protected".

Preaching on the subject of "Hitting in a Pinch", or "The Knockout Punch", Crimm declared that the only way that God can enter into the human heart is through a person's judgment and not through emotions. Back your own judgment. If it tells you to go to hell, bust her wide open. If it tells you to accept Christ, do so."

Crimm preached to a large crowd at both the morning and afternoon services Sunday.

R. E. Shepherd sang two special selections at the evening service.

On Monday night Crimm will preach on "How to Be a Christian." This will be the concluding service of the four-weeks campaign.

Police Hold Two After Attempt to Rob Home

Two house prowlers were all but "caught with the goods" Saturday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock when they were trailed and arrested by Ellis Summers and Ralph Rohatsch, city officers, within 30 minutes after attempting a daring daylight burglary in a residence at 1301 Lamar avenue.

The men fled from the residence after they had been surprised by members of the household. They had conducted a thorough search through rooms on the second story of the building but were forced to flee before they had time to collect any articles of value.

An investigation had revealed Sunday night, Summers said, that one of the men had been identified as having entered another residence several days ago. The pair were being held under charges of investigation Sunday night.

Damage Suit Growing Out of Fatal Iowa Park Crossing Crash Set Today

Trial of the suit of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Patton, seeking $25,000 damages from the Fort Worth and Denver railroad in connection with the death of their 14-year-old son, Raymond, in Iowa Park last Nov. 3, is set for Monday morning before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court.

The boy was killed when a passenger train struck a truck at a railroad crossing in Iowa Park. Lee Heggleston and Mrs. J. B. Thomas, who occupied the rear section of the truck with the boy, were also killed. Three other occupants of the truck escaped.

When the case was called in January, Judge Martin granted a continuance to the defendant on the grounds that Charles Miller, a material witness, had gone to Ladyship, Natal, South Africa. Mr. Miller is a British subject and was born in South Africa, it was explained.

The plaintiffs in the suit are represented by E. W. Napier.

BOMB MAILED TO ROOSEVELT

Postal Workers Uncover Death Plot

among the packages. As he struck the flat brown-papered package, quite vigorously, he said, there was a hiss and smoke began to issue.

Placed in Water

Alarmed, Calligy brought his ample foot crashing down on the package, smashing it in, and, fortunately, throwing the intricate device within out of order. Then he summoned clerks and the package was placed in a pail of water.

A call to police found Inspector August Mayer, in charge of detectives in Manhattan, investigating a murder. Leaving that case in charge of subordinates, Inspector Mayer and a squad dashed to the postoffice.

Inspector Mayer lifted the infernal machine from the water. He seized a pair of shears and cut the twine that bound the package.

Inside, the inspector found a steel tube-like pipe about six inches long and one and one-half inches in diameter. At each end was a galvanized iron cap. A fuse was attached to a wire spring, attached itself to another coiled spring. Four ordinary household matches were affixed, with their impregnated heads sharply in contact with a strip of sandpaper.

ROOSEVELT TREATS MATTER LIGHTLY

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 7. (AP)—Governor Roosevelt treated lightly the matter of a bomb addressed to him. His comment was that he was "glad no one was injured in discovering the bomb." It was said that no extra police protection would be asked.

A Baby for You

Are you denied the blessing of motherhood—the glory of a baby all your own? Do you and your husband yearn for a baby's arms and a baby's smile? Nature does not intend that any woman should be childless. When she is, it is usually due to some weakness or disorder of the organs of reproduction. When these organs are properly toned up, invigorated and helped to function properly, the blessings of motherhood may be realized.

Many women are now praising a remarkable new treatment called Gen-Tone and expressing their gratitude for what it has done for them. Intended as an aid in revitalizing the organs of reproduction, many report also that it helped to relieve many of the ailments common to women, such as bearing-down and periodical pains, etc., and aids them to lead happier and more companionable lives.

To test this new treatment, simply send name to Hamilton Products Co., 807 American Bank Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., and when your treatment arrives pay postman $2.00 plus few cents postage. This reliable company agrees to refund the $2.00 if you are not satisfied. You should not hesitate in accepting this generous offer.—Adv.
