Jury In Deliberation

AMARILLO (AP)-A large white wooden door with a bullet hole was brought into the jury room today as nine men and three women pondered the fate of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis.

Forty minutes after the deliberations began early today jurors asked for a drawing of the door showing where Farr was wounded, but Judge George Dowlen ordered that the whole door be brought to the jurors.

The door has one bullet hole. Mrs. Davis testified it was through that door that Farr was shot the first time. He was later shot three times.

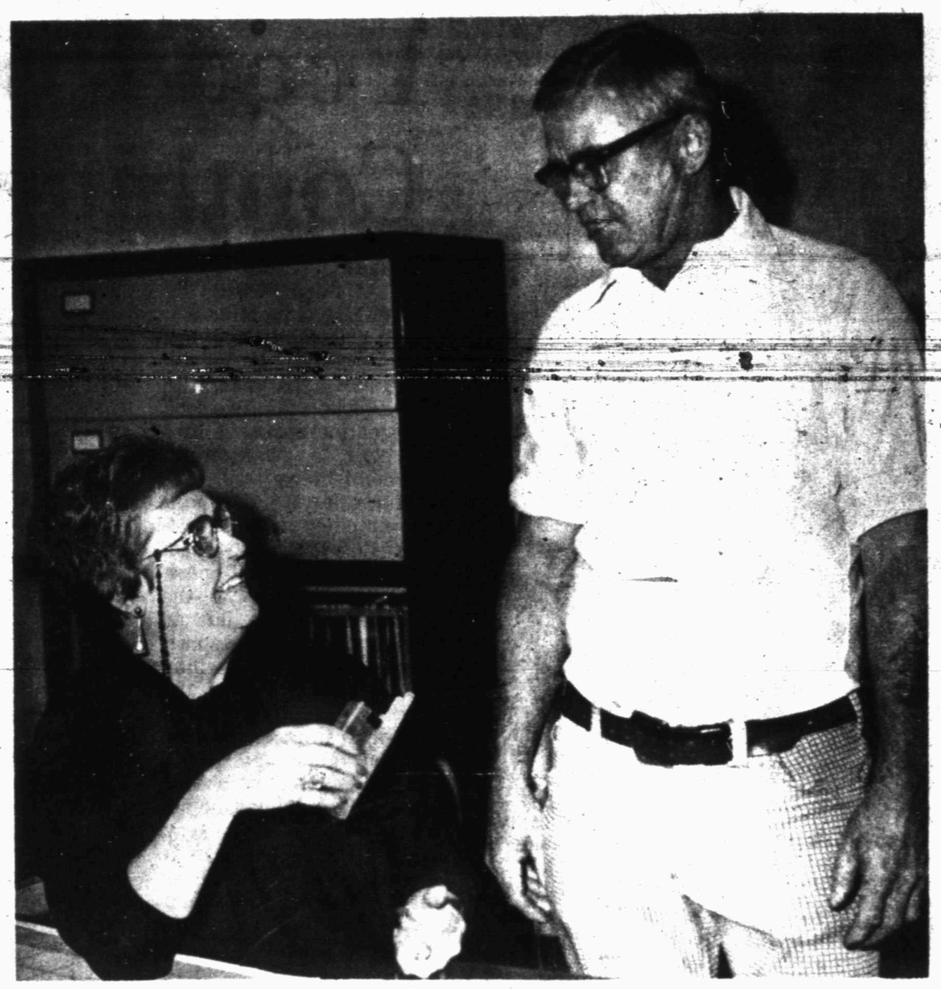

Langdon Blasts Carter

AUSTIN (AP)-Railroad Commissioner Jim Langdon, who retires in six weeks, told oilmen today that President Carter had given them a kick in the teeth and attacked them slanderously.

Langdon, whose resignation from the commission takes effect at the end of the year, spoke out shortly before the commission set the December oil production allowable once again at 100 percent of capacity.

Women Assemble

HOUSTON (AP)-As a prelude to the U.S. national women's conference, women from more than 20 countries are preparing to tell their American sisters about the problems they face in achieving equality.

NO, THANKS--Van Meador, Scurry County courthouse custodian, didn't hesitate to turn down a cigarette offered by Virginia McMillan, deputy county clerk, this morning as nation-wide observance of the "Great American Smokeout" began. Actually Meador was not greatly tempted, since he quit smoking about two years ago. The American Cancer Society, sponsor of the "Smokeout," hoped that millions of smokers would abstain for a day and that perhaps some would kick the habit permanently. (SDN Staff Photo)

Compromise Seen On Electric Rates

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter "is realistic" and probably will accept a proposed compromise setting national guidelines for electric rates, even though he had asked Congress for mandatory standards, the chairman of a congressional conference committee said today.

Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., said that despite major House concessions on the electric-rate portion of the president's energy program, he expects Carter to take the compromise as the best he could hope for.

"I think he is realistic," Staggers told reporters.

Energy conferees were expected today to approve a watered-down version of Carter's plan that would leave the setting of electric rates to the states.

Carter wanted, and the House voted, to force utilities to revamp their rate-setting practices, including requiring them to offer electricity for lower prices late at night and to end discounts to big industrial users.

Staggers on Wednesday had termed the decision of House conferees to abandon Carter's plan for mandatory standards "almost capitulation," but he backed off that claim today.

He said the compromise now under consideration by conferees is stronger than the bill the Senate passed. While the mandatory standards are gone, the measure still would require states to consider such steps as lower nighttime rates - although adopting them would be voluntary.

"The guidelines at least provide a first step," Staggers said.

He said Energy Secretary James Schlesinger told him today to find out what was going on. He said he told the Cabinet official the House conferees had no choice but to yield to strong Senate objections to the mandatory standards.

"He's in agreement with what we're doing," Staggers said.

Snyder Leading In Sales Tax Rebates

Snyder continues to head area cities in its population range in sales tax rebates, according to the latest report from the office of State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

A piece in one of the metropolitan papers the other day noted that this has been an unusual autumn in several ways, including a somewhat dismal showing for fall foliage.

The season of the year when leaves begin to turn various shades of yellow, purple and even bright red is the most colorful of the year in regions where there are forests and thick undergrowth around the countryside. We have some around here usually, with even the lowly mesquite contributing a colorful yellow as it moves toward winter.

But something happened this year. The foliage hasn't made the usual transition which normally begins well before the first killing frost. In fact, some of the trees around here still have green leaves, despite a hard freeze and despite the fact that the hours of sunshine have diminished as usual, which is the basic reason for the change.

Apparently, the situation is widespread, because we read where persons who had made a pilgrimage to the picturesque drive from Talihina, Okla., to Mena, Ark., via Wilhelmena State Park, reported that the fall foliage even there was sub-par this year. Instead of going from green to yellow, red or purple to the falling stage, the leaves this year in most cases are going from green to nothing.

The abnormal, or sub-normal foliage situation may or may not be involved in reports of varmints venturing into town in greater than usual numbers. Dr. Ben Brock reported the other day that a raccoon and an o'possum had been caught in his backyard and that another raccoon had been trapped in the yard of a neighbor, John Thomas.

Where do these animals hang out during the day? Dr. Brock raised that question and we couldn't come up with a handy answer. It is known that they likely were attracted to the yards by nuts and fruit on trees and shrubbery, but they had to come some distance to get there from the wide open spaces usually associated with wildlife.

The city street department has been engaged in a dreaded project this week --- renewing the asphalt overlay on the brick streets around and adjacent to the courthouse square. There was not any way to do this, except to block off portions as the project moved along. So, they finally tied into it this week, reasoning that the merchants would rather get it done now than later on in the Christmas shopping season.

The old overlay has served remarkably well. When it was first applied there was considerable speculation as to how long it would last. Some were fearful that it would come apart in a short time. But it has been down approximately a decade now, and this is the first major maintenance it has required. In fact, most of it has not been touched since it was put down back in the sixties.

Snyder Delegation Going To Houston

A delegation of some 30 women from Snyder will go to Houston tomorrow by chartered bus to attend the U.S. National Women's Conference.

The local delegation was formed by the newly-organized Eagle Forum. They plan to attend and actively participate in a pro-family rally which will be staged in protest to some of the views espoused by International Women's Year delegates and Equal Rights Amendment supporters. They also expect to attend some workshops during the national session.

Spokesmen for the local group have expressed themselves as being in favor of some of the ERA objectives, such as equal employment opportunities, equal pay for similar work, etc., but they are in sharp disagreement over policies which they view leading to weakening or even destruction of the family.

The Snyder delegation's bus is scheduled to leave at 9 a.m. Friday from the Scurry County Coliseum.

Peggy Engelhardt is the chairman of the local group, while Wanda Justice is the co-chairman and Mae Cole is the treasurer. They plan to return to Snyder on Sunday. They reported that funds for chartering the bus and reserving 26 motel rooms in Houston were raised through donations.

'Medea' Presents Modern-Old Theme

It almost appears as an adult fairy tale, yet the plot could have occurred yesterday in the USA.

Medea, the barbarian princess and sorceress, could have as well been a creature from outer space turned into a women's libber. Indeed, some of the complaints voiced by the major character in the Greek tragedy presented this week by Western Texas College Players probably would not seem out of place at the International Women's Year session this weekend in Houston.

"Medea" represents a continuation of variety in the offerings by the WTC drama department, and if some of it appears rather morbid, you must remember that it took place more than 2,500 years ago. The play focuses 100 per cent on the title role, which has Junanne Brock giving at least a 110 per cent performance. It is a grueling role, but Miss Brock's poise endures throughout the thousands of words in the demanding monologue.

The cast has several names familiar to WTC audiences, including Sarah Coleman as the nurse; Lee Kirby as Jason, Medea's husband who deserted her to take the king's daughter as his wife, and Bill Martin as King Creon. Fred McFarland, a Snyderite

WTC Audit Report Due

Scurry County Junior College District Trustees will have the college district's annual audit up for approval at their meeting this evening.

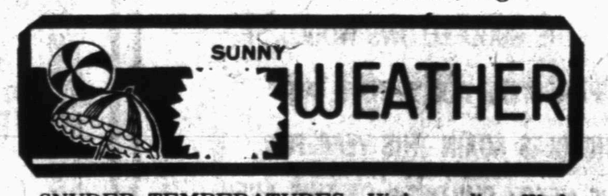

The meeting is set for 5:45 p.m. in the board room of the Western Texas College administration building.

Also on the agenda for the meeting are consideration of bids on audio visual equipment, cosmetology equipment and nursing equipment; consideration of meal allowances for travel an fee adjustments for the LVN and cosmetology programs.

Dr. Gene McClurg, dean of occupational education and technology, is scheduled to give a report on new programs in that division, and Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays will be discussed.

TWO PROJECTS PROGRESS--Pavers have been retopping streets on and adjacent to the courthouse square this week, and here they are shown in the foreground at 27th St. and Ave. R as another construction project moves along down the street at the First Baptist Church. Output Of US Goods Up 4.7%

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-The nation's output of goods and services grew at an annual rate of 4.7 percent in the third quarter, a much stronger showing than previously calculated, the Commerce Department said today.

The revised figures of the Gross National Product were well ahead of the 4 percent rate needed to keep the unemployment rate from getting worse. However, they were well below the unusually strong increases of 7.5 percent in the first quarter and 6.2 percent in the second quarter.

In a preliminary report last month, the department had estimated the GNP for July, August and September had grown at an annual rate of 3.8 percent.

The GNP measures the output of goods and services in the economy and is the strongest indicator of the nation's economic well-being and the outlook for jobs.

Exports and inventory investments by businesses pushed the figures upward in the new report.

The department also said corporate profits increased $7.6 billion in the third quarter to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $147.8 billion. However, after taxes were taken out, profits declined $600 million to $103.7 billion.

Dividends increased $2 billion to $42.3 billion.

Inflation during the third quarter was at a rate of 4.4 percent, after a 7 percent rate in the second quarter.

After adjustment for inflation, the GNP stood at $1 trillion, 346.1 billion for the third quarter, the department said.

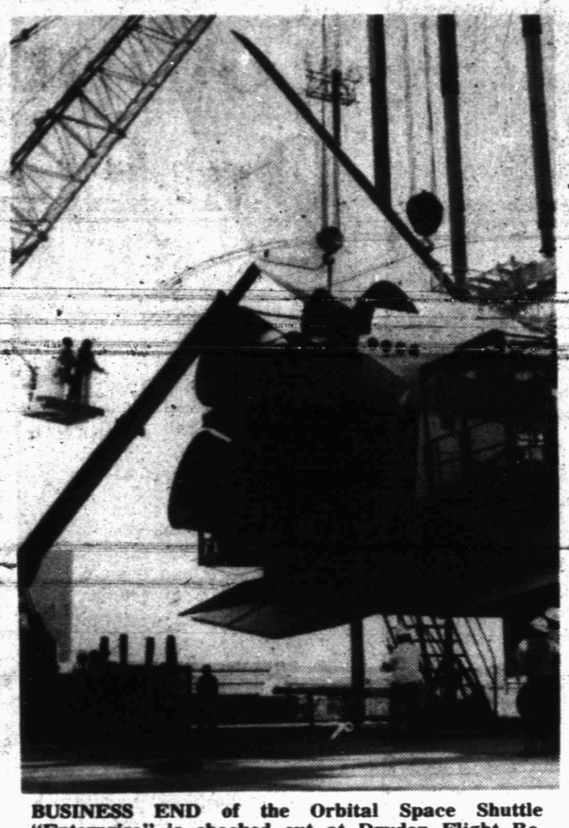

The Carter administration says it thinks the GNP will return to a rate of about 5 percent at the end of the year. However, it is worried about another slowdown late next year, when the effect of federal programs to create jobs will begin wearing off.

If the outlook is not too strong in January, President Carter may recommend a tax cut to Congress in an attempt to stir up spending, administration officials say.

Economists were encouraged Wednesday by a report showing that the housing industry is having its best year since 1972.

While the nation's output cooled off during the summer, building contractors were putting up new houses and apartment buildings at a rate of more than two million per year.

In October, despite tighter credit and the coming of winter, building activity picked up steam, rising 5.6 percent over the month before, the Commerce Department said.

School Bus Overturns, Injuring 18

BROWNSBORO (AP)-At least 18, possibly more, children were injured Thursday morning when the bus they were riding overturned on the way to school in Brownsboro.

School officials said the brakes apparently failed as the bus was approaching U.S. Highway 31 on FM 314, and the driver turned onto a side road to avoid a possible collision on the highway. But the driver, identified as M.C. Moore, was unable to slow the bus enough to make a sharp turn in the side road, and the bus flipped over, they said.

Brownsboro High School principal John Saunders said one girl was undergoing surgery for possible head injuries. He said most of those injured suffered broken bones and cuts.

Saunders said the bus was carrying about 46 elementary and high school children.

Food Prices To Continue Rising

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Food prices will continue their "seemingly inexorable rise" next year, with the average family's food budget increasing 4 to 6 percent, a government economist says.

Kenneth R. Farrell, acting chief of the Economic Research Service in the Agriculture Department, said most of the increase will be due to higher costs for transporting, processing and selling food after it leaves the farm.

Another important factor will be higher sugar prices and their effect on a wide range of products, including soft drinks and bakery goods, Farrell said in a speech prepared for delivery to the annual Food and Agricultural Outlook Conference. The conference concluded today.

Price predictions for 1978 are tentative. They may change due to a number of uncertain factors, including the weather, energy costs and the impact of food legislation, he said.

For example, a new price support program for U.S. sugar producers has just been implemented, and President Carter has imposed new duties on imported sugar. Congress is considering ratification of an international sugar agreement aimed at boosting global sugar prices.

Farrell said there is little doubt that the new domestic price support program, aimed at guaranteeing domestic producers the equivalent of 13.5 cents a pound for sugarcane and sugar beets, "will significantly influence U.S. food prices" next year.

"It has been estimated that increasing the sugar support price to 13.5 cents per pound of raw product equivalent alone will increase domestic food expenditures in 1978 by one-half of 1 percent," Farrell said.

The Carter administration also has announced its intention of curbing grain plantings next year by requiring farmers to set aside 20 percent of their wheat land and 10 percent of their corn acreage from crop output.

Department officials say, however, that those programs will not increase consumer food prices because of huge reserves of U.S. wheat and corn.

Prospective large exports of grain to the Soviet Union and rumors that China may want grain are not expected to affect food prices significantly.

Overall, retail food prices this year are up 6.5 percent from 1976, he said, compared with a gain of 3.1 percent last year. Retail food prices soared 14.5 percent annually in 1973 and 1974 and then slowed to an 8.5 percent increase in 1975.

Farrell said grocery store food prices this year are expected to average about 6 percent more than in 1976, while food eaten away from home is up about 8 percent.

"Coffee prices alone will account for about half of the 6 percent rise in average grocery store prices in 1977," Farrell said.

Prospects Dim For Cuba Ties

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Prospects for full restoration of diplomatic relations and business ties with Cuba appear dimmed following a secret Carter administration study showing that Havana is stepping up its military intervention in Africa.

The study, based on intelligence estimates, does not quarrel with the steps taken by the administration so far to end 16 years of hostility between Washington and Havana. But its judgment is that the pace should be slowed.

Sources here said an estimated 23,000 Cubans, 19,000 of them military, are now in Angola, where the Marxist government is fighting to suppress insurgents who keep a civil war flaring.

The New York Times in today's editions quoted high-ranking administration officials as saying that Cuba has a military presence in 11 other African countries as well and has suffered hundreds of combat deaths in Angola.

The Times said one administration policy-maker said the Cuban actions make restoration of full diplomatic relations "impossible."

The build-up in Angola as described in the administration study contradicts promises given by Cuba during the Ford administration that there would be a general decrease in Cuba's military presence in the former Portugese colony.

Instead, the Cuban strength is on the upsurge, bolstering President Agostino Neto, who was carried to power partly by Cuban forces in a civil war with pro-western factions.

The administration has registered its concern in Havana over the African intervention. Sources here said the Soviet Union also has been made aware of the American displeasure.

Earlier this week, the State Department estimated that about 550 Cubans have been sent to Ethiopia, all except 150 of them military. The 550 Cubans represent an eightfold increase since May.

In Ethiopia, the Cubans are assisting a Marxist regime fight invading forces from Somalia, which has broken relations with Havana and expelled resident Russian advisers.

Sadat To Visit In Jersualem

By The Associated Press

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt will visit Jerusalem for 36 hours starting Saturday night, Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin announced today.

But Sadat will make the dramatic visit without Syria's support and evidently with major opposition from within his own country.

Begin announced the timing of the visit shortly after Sadat returned from Damascus, where he failed to win President Hafez Assad's support for the proposed first-ever visit by an Arab leader to the Jewish state.

Assad called the visit a source of "deep sorrow." The trip has also come under fire from Iraq and Libya.

At the same time, Egypt's official Middle East News Agency announced that Sadat's foreign minister and key aide since the 1973 war, Ismail Fahmy, had resigned, a move that could indicate deep opposition within the country to the Jerusalem visit.

The agency said Fahmy's letter of resignation cited "new elements which affected the situation," an apparent reference to Sadat's trip. "I feel that I cannot continue to share in shouldering responsibilities in these conditions," Fahmy wrote.

In Jerusalem, Begin told a group of American congressmen in the presence of reporters that Sadat would arrive Saturday and would pray in the Al Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem Sunday before addressing the Israeli parliament.

Begin's office confirmed that the prime minister was referring to Saturday Nov. 19. The announcement came as a surprise to most Israelis who had not expected the Egyptian visitor before Nov. 24.

Man Receives Death Sentence

LAS VEGAS (AP)-A Las Vegas man convicted last month in the beating and strangulation slaying of a Texas woman was sentenced Wednesday to die in the gas chamber at the Nevada State Prison in Carson City.

Henry Deutscher, 35, became the first man sentenced to death under the state's new capital punishment law. The law is similar to the California law in that the jury which convicts a person must later meet in a trial to determine the sentence.

The jury which convicted Deutscher in the death last August of Darlene Joyce Miller, 37, recommended that Deutscher be put to death.

Clark County District Court Judge Carl Christensen went along with the recommendation and formally condemned Deutscher on Wednesday.

Under Nevada law, a judge may not set an execution date only the week in which the execution is to occur.

Christensen ordered that Deutsher be put to death the week of Jan. 16.

Mrs. Miller, Canyon Lake, Texas, was visiting Las Vegas when her body was found by a high school athlete near Sunrise Mountain.

The woman's head had been beaten with a rock, and there were teeth marks on her body. One of the key prosecution witnesses was a local dentist who showed that the teeth marks on the body matched Deutsher's bite.

Deutsher's attorneys are expected to win a stay of execution while they appeal the case in hopes of having the sentence commuted or the state's capital punishment law declared unconstitutional.

Deutscher's public defender, Herbert Ahlswede, tried a unique approach Wednesday in an attempt to delay the execution for at least 30 years.

Deutscher also was convicted of robbing Mrs. Miller.

Robbery, when accompanied by the use of a deadly weapon, in this case a rock, is punishable by a maximum of 30 years in prison.

Mexico To Up Sugar Production

MEXICO CITY (AP)-Mexico will attempt to produce 2.7 million tons of sugar during the next season, which begins in December, the director of the national sugar commission said.

The target figure is 214,000 tons higher than the current sugar harvest according to Gilberto Flores Munoz, director of the National Sugar Industry Commission.

Flores Munoz said the government will maintain price controls on both refined and unrefined sugar.

The government produces 65 percent of the nation's sugar output.

He said reserves at the National Union of Sugar Producers warehouses are currently 300 million tons, sufficient to meet internal demand.

Opening lead — J ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Every South in the duplicate game opened one notrump. Half the North players just raised to game. When West opened a heart they had no trouble taking 11 tricks. When West opened the jack of spades they were held to nine tricks. That's the best declarer can do if the opponents take the first four tricks.

When North used a Stayman two-club response, South bid two hearts. North raised to four and now West had an easy spade opening lead. The defense took three spades and shifted to a club which was won in dummy.

Some South players cashed the ace of trumps in case there was a singleton queen. There was, but it fell from East and West made a trump trick.

Smarter declarers saw that if West did hold a singleton queen there was no way to make the hand. But if East held her unguarded ladyship, a low spade from dummy would win. They led the low spade intending to finesse the jack. But when the queen came up they took their king, played the jack of spades, finessed against West's 10 and had their 10 tricks.

Dorsett Gets His Chance!

DALLAS (AP)-Tom Landry made Tony Dorsett's homecoming complete Wednesday.

Landry, the coach of the once-beaten Dallas Cowboys, decided to make a fulltime employe out of the rookie running back, naming him to the starting lineup for Sunday's game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"That's great ... it's what I've been dreaming about," said Dorsett, who won the Heisman Trophy as collegiate football's all-time leading ground-gainer at the University of Pittsburgh.

"Tony's been running well and we feel we need him in there ... it's nothing against Preston Pearson," said Landry. "He'll still share time with Tony."

Dorsett leads the Cowboys in touchdowns with seven and has averaged 4.7 yards per carry in his 522 yards rushing although he has played just half the time.

He also has caught 16 passes for 153 yards in nine Cowboy games.

Landry said the fact Dorsett played at Pittsburgh had no bearing on the starting announcement.

"Preston lives in Pittsburgh and it's an injustice to him if you want to look at it that way," said Landry. "I just felt it was time to do it."

Landry said he still plans to play the 13-year veteran Pearson whose forte is getting in an open field for Roger Staubach's passes. Pearson has caught 28 passes coming out of the backfield.

The Cowboys were riding an unbeaten string of eight games before St. Louis knocked them off 24-17 Monday night. The only offensive spark the Cowboys showed was when Dorsett was in the game.

"Tony got off to a slow start in training camp because of an injury and it took him time to learn our offense," said Landry.

"I knew it would come sooner or later," said Dorsett. "I was injured in training camp ... I fell behind. Also, the Dallas offense was a little more complex than I thought but I've got it down now."

Dorsett also said he had to adjust to catching the ball.

"We didn't throw the ball much at college and that was something of an adjustment but I can catch it," said Dorsett.

Texas Upsets Connors (Again); Illinoisian Blames Surface

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)-By his own admission, Dick Stockton always seems to play well against Jimmy Connors.

"I have nothing to lose when I go against players of his caliber," said Stockton Wednesday night after edging Connors 6-5, 6-5 in a round-robin match of the $320,000 WCT Challenge Cup tournament at Caesars Palace.

"I'm more relaxed out there against Jimmy than I'd be against, say, the No. 100 player in the world."

Stockton, of Carrolton, Texas, reeled off six straight points in the second set tiebreaker to cap a dramatic comeback after Connors, of Belleville, Ill., won three of the first four points. It was the third time this year that Stockton has upset Connors.

"It's not over yet," said Connors. "If I win tomorrow night I just might sneak into the semifinals."

In other matches Wednesday night, Vitas Gerulaitis of Kings Point, N.Y., evened his record at 1-1 with a 5-6, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., who is also 1-1, and Ilie Nastase of Romania raised his record to 2-0 by topping Australia's Rod Laver 6-5, 6-4. Laver dropped to 0-2.

Three matches are scheduled tonight; Stockton, 1-0, faces Australian John Alexander, 0-2, who was idle Wednesday, Connors meets Ken Rosewall of Australia, 1-0, who was also idle Wednesday and Nastase battles Tanner.

The semifinals are scheduled Saturday with the finals slated Sunday.

Connors complained bitterly to WCT officials after his match, saying the Supreme Court surface was much too fast. At one point, Connors threatened to leave the tournament.

The fast surface has favored the hard-servers during the Challenge Cup, and neither Connors nor Stockton was able to get a service break.

"I felt I was really lucky," said Gerulaitis. "I didn't feel I hit the ball well, I haven't played good tennis here yet. We have played so many tournaments this year that when you come to Las Vegas you just want to play well."

Ohio State-Michigan Game Produces $$$

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)-In two more days, the annual Bo-against-Woody, good guys-against-bad guys, good-against-evil showdown will be staged before more than 104,000 persons and a national TV audience.

It will be the University of Michigan against Ohio State at Michigan Stadium Saturday for the Rose Bowl ticket.

Millions of words have been written depicting the strengths and weaknesses of both sides. A hundred times that many words are being used by fans in pre-game anticipation. In the end, only the 60 minutes on the field will count.

It is truly amazing, however, what those 60 minutes of football will produce in revenue for both schools.

"This will be the biggest money game ever at Michigan," Athletic Director Don Canham said proudly.

He should be proud. He personally worked tirelessly to make it that. And the numbers are staggering.

Conservatively speaking, from ticket receipts, TV rights, parking, concession and program fees, Michigan will make about $515,000 for banging helmets with the Buckeyes. The merchants of Ann Arbor will make even more.

Ohio State's cut totals approximately $322,000.

NOT THIS TIME--Snyder's Jeannene Martin (right) is blocked in her attempt at a basket by a Colorado City player. The Tigers begin the regular season Friday in Rotan, with Snyder junior varsity heading the two-game lineup at 6 p.m. The varsity group, of which Miss Martin is a member, is scheduled to play at 7:30. Pacers Slip In Win; Williamson Scoots Out

By The Associated Press

The Indiana Pacers unexpectedly won a basketball game and unexpectedly lost a player Wednesday night.

While Indiana, the last-place team in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association, was upsetting Portland's defending league champions, 111-104, fiery guard John Williamson became upset and walked out on the Pacers.

Williamson, eighth in the NBA in scoring this season with a 23.8 average, disappeared during halftime after collecting only four points in 17 minutes in the first two periods.

"I have no comment on John Williamson," a stunned Indiana Coach Bob Leonard said after the game. "I'm going to keep it strictly a team matter and won't have any public comment about the situation now. After we practice Thursday, I'll have something to say."

Asked if Williamson would be at practice, Leonard replied, "I don't know."

While Williamson was vanishing into the night, the Pacers' offense and defense were shining brightly.

Dan Roundfield came off the bench and led Indiana with a career-high 29 points. Adrain Dantley scored 26 and Ricky Sobers contributed 21.

Meanwhile, the Pacers held Portland to nine points below its season's average in handing the Trail Blazers only their third loss in 13 games.

"We beat the world champs," Leonard said on a more cheery note after Indiana's first victory ever over the Trail Blazers. "It gives us a thrill."

Reserve Larry Steele paced Portland with 21 points and Bill Walton scored 20.

In other NBA games, the Boston Celtics routed the Atlanta Hawks 131-105, the Philadelphia 76ers downed the Seattle SuperSonics 101-96, the Buffalo Braves topped the Houston Rockets 101-97, and the Milwaukee Bucks beat the New Jersey Nets 116-106.

Celtics 131, Hawks 105

The Celtics, after a shaky 1-8 start this season, won their third straight game and handed the slumping Hawks, 8-5, their fourth loss in a row. Rookie Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell and Tom Boswell each scored 20 points for Boston. Atlanta's John Drew, tallied 25.

76ers 101, Sonics 96

Julius Erving's 28 points helped the surging 76ers win their sixth game in seven outings since Billy Cunningham replaced Gene Shue as coach. The victory gave the 76ers an overall record of 8-5 and moved them into a first-place tie with the New York Knicks in the Atlantic Division.

Braves 101, Rockets 97

Billy Knight's 38 points and Randy Smith's 29 enabled Buffalo to overcome a brilliant performance by Houston's Moses Malone, who had a career-high 36 points and 29 rebounds.

He (Malone) can be better than he was tonight," said Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke. "It's hard to believe, isn't it, especially when you realize he should be a senior in college."

Bucks 116, Nets 106

Dave Meyers' 29 points and 12 rebounds keyed Milwaukee's victory over the Nets, who were led by Kevin Porter's 26 points and 14 assists. New Jersey Coach Kevin Loughery, after being ejected with 41 seconds remaining following his second technical foul, angrily drop-kicked the ball toward the basket.

Carew Named MVP Of AL

By The Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. - Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins, who spent much of the 1977 season flirting with the .400 mark, was named the American League's Most Valuable Player.

Carew batted .388 and won his sixth batting title and fifth in the past six seasons. He led the majors with 128 runs and 239 hits. He also drove in 100 runs.

Carew received 12 first-place votes and had 223 points in balloting by a 28-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Oilers To Look At Kicker Today

HOUSTON (AP)-The Houston Oilers, without a kicker for Sunday's game against Seattle, were to take a look today at Tom Dempsey, whose 63-yard field goal in 1979 still is the National Football League record, team officials say.

Houston's regular kicker Toni Fritsch suffered a hamstring pull in last week's 34-29 loss to the Oakland Raiders and won't be able to kick against the Seahawks.

"The only thing that's certain right now is that Toni can't kick," Houston Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips said after Wednesday's workout. "We had hoped to have Tom here today but he couldn't get away in time.

"But that's one thing about kickers, it won't take long to see what they can do."

Dempsey, who played for New Orleans when he kicked his record field goal, was waived by the Los Angeles Rams prior to this season.

Meet The Champs!

EDITOR'S NOTE: Snyder Daily News is proud to present these five members of the 1977 Tigerette District 3-AAA championship volleyball team. These girls and their teammates, who posted records of 30-3 for the season and 10-0 in district play, will be participating in the Regional Tournament Nov. 19 at Lubbock Coronado High School. They are to play Brownwood at 11 a.m. in first-round action.

Below, we invite our readers to meet Cindy Koonsman, Eva Rich, Sherry Neves, Shana Smith and Debbie Myers.

Cindy, a junior spiker at 5'4", is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Billy Koonsman. She is a first-year letterman and made all-tournament teams in her junior varsity and freshman years.

"Her 27-inch vertical jump gets her high enough to compete with even the tallest players," noted Coach Joyce Elrod. "She is probably our most consistant defensive and offensive player."

A two-year letterman in track, Cindy also played basketball as a sophomore. As a freshman she was a member of the student council, was a Top 10 honor student and boy's track sweetheart.

But Problems Still Exist In Some Situations...

Post Season Getting More Attention

NEW YORK (AP)-Once upon a time football games were scheduled by the schools involved to suit the fans who would show up and watch. And if television wanted to turn up at the appointed time and aim some cameras at the field, that was fine.

The result was that fans in Dallas, Miami, New Orleans and Pasadena attended games at a normal hour and got home in time for dinner. And fans everywhere else sat close enough to their TV sets to get radiation burns and flipped the dial frantically to keep up with three games going at once.

But with the emergence of TV as a major bankroller of college football, the picture changed. Reasoning with some logic that three games going at once results in a smaller viewing audience for each one, TV and the bowl committees began spreading them out.

The Orange Bowl moved to New Year's night with satisfactory results. And the Sugar Bowl moved to New Year's Eve with disastrous results. Seems that people were reluctant to spend their New Year's Eve watching Alabama quarterbacks run the triple option. Fancy that.

So last year the Sugar Bowl people petitioned the NCAA's extra events committee for a change in starting time. They wanted to come back to a 1 p.m. start, same time the Cotton Bowl was to begin. They got 11:30 a.m. instead.

The Sugar Bowl had what was supposed to be the most attactive pairing last year, top-ranked Pitt with Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett against Southeast Conference champ Georgia. But when the ratings came in the Sugar Bowl had been whomped by the Rose Parade, off all things, and was dead last among the four major games. The Rose Parade, which is televised by both NBC and CBS, beat Dorsett & Co. by a 2-to-1 margin.

The Sugar Bowl came back at the extra events committee this year and won. The Sugar Bowl will start at 1 p.m. The Cotton Bowl is not amused.

"We went through the channels and I suppose our persuasions were taken into consideration ... and then shelved," says a Cotton Bowl source. "People now have two choices. Our audience could be cut in half, that's the way my mathematics works."

Bob James, commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference, was chairman of the extra events committee when the decision was made.

"We took a great deal of time evaluating this case," says James. "One thing we were not aware of was that the 11:30 time slot was right in the middle of the Rose Bowl Parade. Their ratings on the West Coast were practically nil because of this."

Mauch Ready To Drop Twins

ANAHELM (AP)-Gene Mauch has one year remaining on his three-year contract as manager of the Minnesota Twins, and while he admits he's legally obligated, he leaves little doubt that he wants out.

The California Angels are interested in obtaining the services of Mauch to manage them in 1978. His fate rests in the hands of Twins' owner Calvin Griffith.

"My position is no different than it was when the season ended," said Mauch Wednesday from his home in nearby Rancho Mirage. "I told Calvin that while I was legally bound to the Twins for another season, I felt I had fulfilled by moral obligation.

"The premise on which I went to Minnesota was that here was a club ready to win, that everything would be done to insure that objective," added Mauch. "The club has now been decimated by the loss of good players and in my mind the premise is no longer operable."

Mauch referred to outfielders Lyman Bostock and Larry Hisle, who are free agents negotiating with several teams.

Mauch and the Angels will probably learn soon if they can get together in 1978. Griffith informed the Angels Wednesday he would hold a staff meeting today to discuss Mauch's status. He will get back to the Angels by Friday with a final decision on whether Mauch will be allowed out of the final year of his contract so that he can become California's manager.

Ansley Top UT Choice

AUSTIN TEXAS (AP)-Injured Texas quarterback Randy McEachern has returned to practice but Longhorn Coach Fred Akers says he will probably start freshman Sam Ansley against Baylor on Saturday.

Team doctors pronounced McEachern physically fit Wednesday after he showed no signs of the knee injury that kept him out of last week's 44-14 thrashing of Texas Christian.

Ansley, subbing for McEachern, led the No. 1-ranked Longhorns to the victory.

"Unless something changes we'll start Ansley" Akers said Wednesday. "Randy looked good...it looked like he picked up where he left off, but he still has some adjustment to make after missing 10 days."

McEachern was a third-stringer for the Longhorns until injuries depleted the quarterback ranks early in the season.

Akers said he was pleased with sophomore lineman Steve McMichael, who is subbing for injured ace kicker Russell Erxleben. Erxleben has a pulled leg muscle.

student again in her sophomore year, and as a junior is class treasurer, and a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the National Society. She is also a member of the Lucky 13 Sports Club.

The tallest member of the Tigerette team at 5'8", Eva is a senior captain. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Rich, Eva is a three-year letterman in volleyball; two years spent in Big Spring.

She was All-District her junior year at Big Spring, and this year has been named all-tournament at all three tournaments the group has played in; San Angelo, Abilene and Seminole. She was also named to two all-tournament teams as a freshman.

Eva, 17 years old, also competed in track her freshman and junior years and golf as a sophomore. She plays softball in the summer.

"She has been a real asset to our team," commented Coach Joyce Elrod. "Eva is one of our top, strong hitters. She is also good on defense, and is our number one serve receiver, averaging 72 percent for the season."

Eva plans to major in physical education at Hardin Simmons or Angelo State.

Sherry Neves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Voss, Jr., is a first-year letterman in volleyball. She was all-tournament in her sophomore year. She is a 5'5" junior spiker.

"Sherry is small, but has much power as a hitter. She is very conscientious and constantly puts the team first," praised the coach.

She is a member of the Student Council and the Lucky 13 Sports Club.

Shana, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Smith is also a 5'5" junior and is a first-year letterman. She made all-tournament in her freshman year, and on the junior varsity squad.

While not on the floor as a spiker for the Tigerettes, Shana serves a vice-president of the junior class and is a member of the Lucky 13 Sports Club.

"Shana has unusual accuracy with a bump set. You can depend on her even to come off the bench and do a good job," noted Coach Elrod.

Debbie, daughter of W.D. Myers, is also a 5'5" junior. A spiker for the team now, she was all-tournament in her sophomore year.

She is vice-president of the FHA, active in church activities and works part time at the Sunshine Shoppe.

"Debbie has a powerful spike and serve. She had been a very aggressive and hard-working player," relayed the coach.

Bowls: Another Way For NCAA?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

For years, while head coach at Notre Dame, Ara Parseghian advocated a formula for deciding an official national champion in college football but saw his efforts end in frustration and stagnation.

The bowls were too deeply entrenched. They were too jealous of their vast civic and commercial enterprises to permit any infringement on their domain.

With no definitive plan for the bowl lineups, the year-end galas often proved useless in determining an undisputed No. 1 team. Thus the job was left to the polls, which frequently only compounded the controversy over superiority.

Now the college season is heading toward its climax with a veritable stampede of contenders storming toward the wire and a jam-up almost certain to fire regional passions and dissent.

Parseghian, now in private business but retaining a feel for the game as ace ABC commentator, has a suggestion for avoiding such chaos.

"Why not extend the bowl deadline another week, to Nov. 26?" he said from his office in South Bend, Ind. "It wouldn't be as good as having a championship playoff but at least it would add a little respectability to the rankings."

Notre Dame, No. 6 in The Associated Press poll and a prime bowl prospect, happens to be of the same mind.

The Fighting Irish apparently will have the choice of playing No. 1 Texas in the Cotton Bowl or No. 2 Alabama in the Sugar Bowl with a victory abetting a bid for the national crown.

The trouble is, under the National Collegiate Athletic Association guidelines, the various bowls are allowed to start dipping into the pot of goodies after Saturday's contests, leaving both top-ranked Texas and No. 2 Alabama with tough rivals to play Texas A&M and Alabama faces formidable Auburn.

"Look at the circumstances that can arise," Parseghian said. "When Notre Dame ended its boycott of the bowls eight years ago it did so with the understanding that it would accept a post-season bid only if it could enhance its position nationally.

"Suppose Notre Dame chooses to play Texas in Dallas. Should Texas lose to A&M- a possibility-the Longhorns would drop to fifth or sixth place in the polls, rendering the game of little national significance.

"On the other hand, suppose Notre Dame chooses to take on Alabama in the Sugar Bowl. Texas then probably would play the loser of the Ohio State-Michigan game. If Texas should lose, then there might well be four teams with 9-1 records, all with a claim to the national championship.

"This might be avoided with a week's delay of the picking date."

Here's how the bowl picture stacks up at the moment: Rose-Ohio State 9-1 or Michigan 9-1 vs. UCLA 7-3 or Washington 6-4; Cotton-Texas 9-0 vs. Notre Dame 9-1; Sugar-Alabama 9-1 vs. OSU-Michigan loser; Orange-Oklahoma 9-1 or Nebraska 8-2 vs. Penn State 9-1 or Pittsburgh 8-1-1.

"Conceivably," commented Parseghian, "Ohio State, Texas, Notre Dame and Alabama could end up with equivalent won-loss records. Now who is national champion?

"The picture could be simplified somewhat with a week's delay in the bowl deadline. All it needs is for somebody to take the bull by the horns."

Parseghian and his contemporary commentator, former Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles, led a coaches' move a few years ago to devise a playoff system which would utilize all of the major bowls. Plans were worked out for 16, eight and even four teams. None ever got past the drawing board.

In 1970, when Penn State challenged Texas' No. 1 ranking, Ara suggested the formation of a Challenge Bowl involving two top teams chosen by a panel of atheletic directors, coaches and writers. It died a'bornin'.

The NCAA provides championship playoffs for every sport except football, which has become a gigantic guessing game.

"It makes sense to hold up selection until the end of the season," Parseghian said. "But I don't expect it. The bowls get panicky. The teams get antsy. They're like a girl waiting for the junior prom."

WHEN DOES A DANCER establish a record that has nothing to do with dancing? When he's a "gandy dancer". Mike Bonacci, 24, drove five spikes into a railroad tie in 67 seconds and pulled them all out again in 11 seconds to set a new record recognized by the Guiness Book of World Records. His 78-second exhibition of the traditional skills of the "gandy dancer" — railroading slang for track worker — broke the old record by 19 seconds. Bonacci, a machine operator at the Omaha track department, was the Burlington Northern's entrant in the 1977 National Gandy Dancer Contest.

Shah Urges Oil Price Freeze

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Shah of Iran, who earlier this week said his country would "remain silent" on the question of raising oil prices, now says the oil export cartel should "give a break" to consumer countries and for go any increase for at least a year.

The shah said President Carter talked him into changing his position from one of neutrality to openly opposing a price hike.

"After perusing the world economic situation, we have come to this conclusion to give you a break," the shah told reporters.

Iran wields considerable influence in the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which meets Dec. 20 in Caracas, Venezuela, to discuss proposed price hikes.

Most other producing countries favor some price increase. Iran has proposed raising the current world oil price of about $12.50 a barrel by 23 percent.

Experts calculate that the price of gasoline in the United States rises one cent for every 8 percent increase in the OPEC price.

The shah said eventual increases are inevitable unless the consuming nations begin strong conservation measures and new sources of energy are discovered.

The Iranian monarch outlined his position during a news conference as he ended his 32-hour violence-marred state visit here.

On Monday, the shah told interviewers that Iran would let other OPEC members "carry the ball" at the Caracas conference.

He noted in that interview that Iran has been called a "hawk" on past price hike proposals. Last year, the country backed a 10 percent increase.

The monarch's visit here took place amid marathon demonstrations in support and in opposition to his regime, but there was no repetition Wednesday of the outbursts of violence that marked the first day of his visit.

In contrast to the 124 injuries and 18 arrests resulting from Tuesday's violence, police reported only 10 injuries requiring hospital treatment and 10 arrests Wednesday.

As demonstrators arrived at Dulles International Airport on Wednesday night to board charter flights home, police set up a security check and said they confiscated dozens of baseball bats, hockey sticks, shovel handles, pipes and other implements.

In one incident Wednesday afternoon, an angry crowd of pro-shah militants charged anti-shah demonstrators near Capitol Hill, but police kept the rival groups apart.

Throughout the day Wednesday, the shah traveled to and from his appointments around the city amid extraordinarily heavy security.

The shah, who flew to Paris Wednesday night, held his news conference at Blair House, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

He bitterly assailed the thousands who had come here to denounce his regime, saying they represented the forces of "international chaos and disorder and world revolution."

Press Secretary Jody Powell said Wednesday that no major decisions were reached on the sophisticated weaponry Iran wants to buy from the United States. Carter and the shah met for 80 minutes earlier in the day.

Powell said the two leaders discussed the human rights situation in Iran and reviewed a series of measures that country has taken in recent months to ease political repression.

UIWY Display Next To Gays

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)- Utah's International Women's Year delegation, which plans to sponsor an anti-homosexual resolution at the national IWY conference in Houston this week, has learned its display will be next to the National Gay Rights Coalition booth.

The Utah booth is to be manned primarily by Texas members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), whose leadership has spoken out repeatedly against the gay-rights movement.

Utah got the last available space, after another group cancelled. Delegation secretary Jaynann Payne said the gay rights booth may draw more attention to Utah's exhibits, which are on family themes and Utah travel.

Youth-Led Revival Set

Union Baptist Church will have a youth-led weekend revival Nov. 18-20. A team from the BSU on the WTC campus will be in charge.

Services will begin at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Sunday services will be held at 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The public is invited and a nursery is provided.

Gout is probably inherited and most of its victims are men, according to the Health Insurance Institute. About a million Americans suffer from gout.

Expecting Pause, Not A Child

CLEVELAND (AP)-Reporters thought they had a big story when Sandy Kucinich, the wife of Cleveland's mayor-elect, opened a news conference by saying: "I'd like to announce that I'm expecting."

After a pregnant pause, she went on to say Wednesday that she was expecting to help out at City hall and she was quitting her teaching job to have more time for such things as volunteer work, assisting in promotion of the arts, beautification of the city and representing her 31-year-old husband, Dennis Kucinich, at civic functions.

Mrs. Kucinich, 27, has taught at Berea High School for four years.

Clements Seeks Briscoe's Job

DALLAS (AP)-William P. Clements, Jr., a Republican former deputy secretary of defense who says he has no regrets about supporting Democrat Lyndon Johnson in 1964, has entered the chase for Gov. Dolph Briscoe's job.

Clements, who served in the Nixon and Ford administrations, entered the race Wednesday - a week after saying he was considering seeking the governor's seat.

Clements said he did not believe his support of Johnson in the 1964 election would hurt his chances.

"I have no apologies to make for that and I would do it again," he said adding that many others supported Johnson because Johnson "was a native son of Texas."

And, he said, "It gave us the opportunity to elect a Texan president."

The 60-year-old Dallasite may face former state GOP chairman Ray Hutchison in the Republican primary. Former gubernatorial candidate Henry Grover may also enter the race.

Hutchison, a former state representative, has said he intends to make his announcement on Nov. 29. Grover is expected to make up his mind before the first of the year.

Clements said last week he was encouraged to run by prominent Texas and national Republican leaders. His announcement last week that he was considering the race cooled off U.S. Rep. Jim Collins who also had expressed some thoughts about entering the race for governor.

Collins said he would find it hard to campaign against Clements.

Clements served as second in command in the Defense Department for four years during the Nixon and Ford administrations. In Dallas, he leads SEDCO, a large oil-gas well contract drilling and pipeline construction firm.

His wife, Rita is a former Texas Republican national committeewoman.

Clements told newsmen he believes he can easily shift from national issues to states issues because of the importance of energy, military installations and the defense industry to Texas.

He also emphasized his interest in education through his service on the Southern Methodist University Board of Governors and his experience in agriculture as a ranch owner.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Attorney General John Hill are the leading candidates for the Democratic nomination.

Mother Charged In Murder

DALLAS (AP)-A Dallas woman, who reportedly often told her children "they were keeping her from the life she really wanted to lead," has been charged with murder in the slaying of her 9-year-old daughter.

Carrie Christine Marsh was charged Wednesday after three hours of questioning by Dallas police.

Barbara Sue Marsh disappeared Friday night from near her East Dallas home and her body was found Saturday morning floating in Lake Ray Hubbard.

She was being held on $100,000 bond after Justice of the Peace Tom Naylor signed an arrest warrant alleging Mrs. Marsh "knowingly and intentionally" caused the girls's death by "striking her with a blunt instrument."

Betty Latham, Mrs. Marsh's 20-year-old daughter, said the woman often told her children they were keeping her from leading the life she wanted.

Police said the slaying apparently followed a mother-daughter argument that may have been prompted by an ultimatum from Mrs. Marsh's boyfriend, who told her to choose between the child and him.

Army Cpl. Davis Eugene Latham, Mrs. Marsh's brother-in-law, said the woman mentioned the boyfriend to her landlord about a week ago and said he "Wouldn't marry her because of Barbara."

Police said Mrs. Marsh's story about the child's disappearance included "inconstitencies" that made her a suspect.

China Wheat Sale Is Unconfirmed

WASHINGTON (AP)- Despite persistent rumors that China has been quietly seeking U.S. wheat, one of the Agriculture Department's top grade officials says there is no evidence now to support those claims.

But Kelly M. Harrison, the department's general sales manager, says "it's a reasonable speculation" that China sooner or later will turn into an important customer of American farmers.

Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., said earlier this week that "a highly placed USDA official has confirmed to me that the department is aware" that China has bought 20 million to 50 million bushels of U.S. wheat.

English said he was not convinced by the department's denial Wednesday of the report and that he believes the grain has been sold to China by exporters through intermediaries.

Harrison said, however, that "We just cannot confirm it in any way that there was a sale." He said a check by the department of major grain exporters turned up no evidence that English's information was correct.

After China began buying U.S. grain five years ago, the first since its communist regime assumed power in 1949, large sales developed - including a peak of 5 million metric tons of wheat and corn in 1973-74 - but then faded.

China has more recently bought U.S. cotton, soybeans and soybean oil, but no grain has been purchased since 1974-75, according to department records.

Harrison said he shares a belief with many others, however, that China is a potential future big customer.

Other sources said that a major obstacle continues to be China's insistence that any U.S. wheat it may buy, be subject to inspection upon delivery, not just at U.S. ports when shipped as the normal routine calls for.

When China edged out of the U.S. grain market several years ago, one reason expressed at the time was that a type of smut or mold had been found in wheat shipments.

This is still a concern of the Chinese, the sources said.

Man Charged For Riding Police Mount

PHILADELPHIA (AP)- Some might call it horseplay. Others might say it was rustling. But Michael Afanador, 25, has been charged with theft of city property and criminal mischief for allegedly taking a ride on a police mount.

Officer Leroy Patterson said he tied up his horse, Melba Quazor, outside a restaurant Tuesday, went in for a cup of coffee and came back out just as Afanador was riding off.

"I couldn't believe my eyes," Patterson said. He called to the horse by name, and it stopped.

"I used a tone that would have scared the horse to death," Patterson said. "Then I ran up and snatched the guy off the horse."

Afanador told police he was only feeding peanuts to the horse.

Snyderite Attends Eye Enucleation Workshop

Harry Stevens of the Bell-Seale Funeral Home was one of seven morticians attending the Eye Enucleation Seminar and Workshop held at the Texas Tech University School of Medicine on Nov. 11 and 12. Sponsored jointly by the District 2T2 Lions Eye Bank, the University Departments of Ophthalmology, Anatomy and Nursing, this course has attracted statewide attention and is making hundreds of additional eyes available to the vitally important sight restoration program. The restoration of sight to so many blind and potentially blind persons is a humanitarian accomplishment of major proportions, to say nothing of the great financial importance of returning the blind to a normal, productive life.

The Eye Enucleation Course for morticians came into existence largely because of the shortage of doctors in many parts of the state. Morticians were selected as the most logical and promising trainees because of their extensive academic preparation in the medical sciences of anantomy, microbiology, pathology, and sanitation and they are strongly motivated in the area of community service and appear on the scene soon after death occurs.

The Eye Enucleation course is one which, in addition to the proper academic background, requires intensive study and clinical experience in sterile surgical procedure. Eyes must be removed from the dead under the same rigid aseptic precautions that are observed in the hospital operating room. Eye enucleation course lectures, demonstration, and clinical sessions are held in the lecture rooms and laboratories of the Departments of Ophthalmology and Anatomy. Each trainee receives a generous amount of actual clinical experience and each is awarded a University certificate upon successful completion of the course.

In presenting this program to the public emphasis is placed on the fact that morticians trained and certified for this function remove eyes only in those instances where a doctor is not readily available and only when the decedent had willed his eyes to the Eye Bank and the bequest is approved in writing by the next of kin. The function of the mortician is to assist the Eye Bank program, and the people of his community and state. This humanitarian service is provided without cost to the family of the donor, to the Eye Bank, or to the patient who receives the corneal transplant. It is also emphasized that the enucleation operation is performed with such skill and care that removal of the eyes causes no visible disfigurement of the deceased donor.

Donor eyes must be removed within four to six hours following death. Once the eyes have been removed and placed in a sterile, refrigerated container they are rushed to the nearest Eye Bank. From the Eye Bank they are made available to eye surgeons having patients in need of a corneal transplant. In an emergency situation the eyes may be sent by jet plane (and without cost) to a distant part of the country or even as far as halfway around the world.

Personal Income Rises 1.3%

WASHINGTON (AP)- Americans increased their personal income by the largest amount in seven months in October, as factory workers increased their wages and government salaries rose, the Commerce Department said today.

Total personal income rose 1.3 percent in October, after rising 0.8 percent in September and 0.6 percent in August, the department said. The October increase was the largest since a 1.5 percent increase in March.

The $22.2-billion increase in October put total personal income for the month at $1 trillion, 580.9 billion, at a seasonally adjusted annual rate.

Private wages and salaries increased $10.1 billion in October after rising $6.7 billion in September.

A 7 percent federal pay increase that took effect Oct. 1 helped overall government wages and salaries increase by $4.2 billion in October, compared with $1.5 billion in September. The raises for federal civilian and military personnel accounted for $2.8 billion of the boost.

Manufacturing payrolls rose $3.8 billion in October, after rising $1.8 billion in September. About two-thirds of this increase was accounted for by an increase in average hourly earnings from $5.36 to $5.41 per hour.

HolidayStamps Are Attractive

Yuletide mailers can choose this year between two attractive Christmas stamps when applying appropriate postage to holiday greetings and parcels being sent through the mail.

A colorful design of a rural mailbox, crammed with letters and packages, will add a cheery touch to holiday mail and customers interested in history may choose the design of General George Washington kneeling in prayer during the winter of 1777-78 at Valley Forge.

Both stamps are on sale currently at post offices in the Snyder area.

The Washington stamp pays tribute to the Continental Army which spent Christmas, marred by severe hardships and semi-starvation, at Valley Forge in Pennsylvania.

After an unsuccessful effort against the British at Germantown, General Washington and his troops retreated to Vally Forge. Two days before Christmas, Washington wrote: "We have this day no less than 2,873 men in camp unfit for duty because they are barefooted or otherwise naked..."

This design, by artist Stevan Dohanos, is based upon a painting by J.C. Leyendecker which appeared as a Saturday Evening Post cover in 1935. Mr. Dohanos also is noted for his paintings which appeared on more than 100 other covers of the Post.

A snowy winter setting provides the perfect background for the rural mailbox depicted on the other Christmas issue. The designer is Dolli Tingle, of Westport, Conn., who also created the popular needle-point Christmas Tree stamp of 1973.

Now a familiar sight, the rural mailbox was brand new in 1896 and represented an important link with the outside world for isolated farm families.

Today, rural mail delivery still provides a vital service. Rural carriers each day travel approximately 2.2 million miles to serve 13.8 million families along more than 33,000 rural routes throughout America.

Both stamps were printed by the gravure method.

As an economy effort, the Postal Service issued the stamps in regular size rather than the larger, standard commemorative size which significantly reduced costs connected with the multi-billion printing run.

O'Hair To Be Back

AUSTIN (AP)-Atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair has failed in an effort to get Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe to stop the singing of religious Christmas carols in the capitol rotunda.

She also asked that the nativity scene usually placed beneath a Christmas tree in the rotunda be removed.

And, while she was talking to two of Briscoe's assistant Tuesday, she asked that a granite statue depicting the 10 Commandments on the capitol grounds be removed.

"The Christmas tree in the rotunda is traditional, along with the celebration, and it will be there this year," said Dickie Travis, Briscoe's administrative assistant.

"Then we will take some kind of legal action against this thing" said Mrs. O'Hair. "There will be some difficulty at Christmas here. I'll be back."

Kleberg To Vote On Consolidation

KLEBERG, Tex. (AP)- Residents in the Kleberg community, southeast of Dallas, will vote on Jan. 21 on whether to become part of the big city.

The date for the vote was set Monday night after city officials certified petitions signed by 515 residents endorsing the consolidation move.

Kleberg has 5,000 residents. If the voters approve the merger, then Dallas voters will have to decide next April whether they want Kleberg to become part of Dallas.

Kleberg Mayor Pro Tem Herbert Hawes and councilman John Culver said they will campaign against the move.

student variables

It is too bad our educational problems aren't as easily solved as many experts and most non-experts seem to believe. In a national news commentary magazine of recent issue was an article by a teacher who said she became all fed up about three years ago with being forced to compromise her professional integrity.

Failing to flunk students who don't make passing grades was one of them. Finally, she asserts her self-respect was regained by applying elemental rules and allowing results to take care of themselves. She was determined students she was responsible for would learn the essentials, such as language, mathematics and above all discipline. If Johnny or Susie had to stay in one grade two or three terms that was all right. She wanted to send them on to higher grades qualified.

Much is to be said in support of that point of view. Every employer is almost daily confronted with the situation of deciding what to do about workers who can't spell, don't know how to put a simple sentence together or work a simple problem in mathematics. Or maybe college graduates who don't know how many United States Senators we have.

It would be great if the answer, "too many," could be accepted. But philosophical accuracy won't meet requirements.

In spite of these considerations, however, the situation isn't so easily met as our courageous friend would have us believe. If all students came from the same general type of environment, applying the rules without exception would make some sense. But not enough. There are variations in learning capabilities, temperament and interests among youngsters from the same environment. Variations occur even among members of the same family.

Some quickly comprehend mathematics. Others never do. This same factor is present in other learning areas. It sounds noble to say that when ten or a thousand youngsters graduate from high school every last one of them is capable of solving ordinary mathematical problems, read with understanding, know how many United States Senators we have and how often Presidents are elected.

But that is impossible. Teachers must take youngsters as they are and do the best they can in the limited time they have them under supervision. If Johnny can't comprehend mathematics he can't be kept in the fourth grade until he is old enough to be in high school. Johnny must advance to higher classes and maybe given a high school diploma, even if he can't reach minimum standards.

One wonders sometimes how the teachers do as good a job as they do, considering pressures from well meaning or downright ornery parents, experts in the field of education and dealing with human nature as it is, not as some people think it ought to be.

brother's windfall

Some people have been complaining that William Alton Carter III, of the Georgia Carters, has been trading on the fact that his brother holds a rather important position with the U.S. government.

The younger Carter would be the first to agree. Who would ever have heard of Billy Carter, gas station operator and part owner of a peanut warehouse in Plains, Ga., if Jimmy Carter had not been elected president? (Who would have heard of Jimmy Carter, for that matter?)

Now Billy stands to earn more this year than the president - about $500,000 - from public appearances, endorsements, etc. "If they're crazy enough to pay me, I'm crazy enough to do it," he has said.

Latest promotional chore for Billy is to spend 12 days a year helping a Louisville, Ky., brewery sell a new beer bearing his name. This has struck many people as especially tasteless - the advertising, not the beer.

It has reached the point where the president himself had to speak out on the Billy phenomenon the other day. Far from being embarrassed by Billy's antics, the president expressed admiration for the way Billy lives his own life. "I am proud he is my brother," he said.

Of course, Jimmy Carter said he was proud of Bert Lance, too, just before the deluge. But in this case, we don't think the president's vote of confidence will adversely affect Billy's fortunes. In fact, Billy seems on the way to becoming a celebrity in his own right.

As the president noted, Billy's popularity rating would probably exceed his own at this time. And as Billy noted in a recent interview, most of the towns he goes into now say Billy is coming, not Jimmy's brother is coming.

Criticize him if you wish, but Billy Carter is of that category of men who have greatness thrust upon them. Great publicity, anyway.

He tried valiantly to just keep on pumping gas back in Plains as if nothing had changed, but the hordes of tourists and the reporters with their incessant questions made that impossible. So now he's cashing in for all it's worth as the nation's preeminent redneck, good ole boy and beer drinker.

Terrible. But who among us is pure enough to cast the first pull tab at Billy Carter?

federal loafers

Loafers on the federal government payroll are really dug in.

They almost "can't be fired."

Chairman Alan Campbell of the Civil Service Commission says that if you try to fire a goldbricking federal worker he's likely to take you to court charging "discrimination."

What I am about to relate would be painful for hard-working, wage-earning, dues-paying Americans in and out of government, except for the fact that excesses--all kinds--ultimately are their own undoing.

The news media is now turning its attention from errant government leaders and is beginning to turn the lights on in places where lower echelon bureaucrats have been playing you for a sucker.

Within a month, both U.S. News & World Report and the Wall Street Journal spotlighted this scandal.

An economist in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was discovered with his feet on his desk and was called on the carpet.

The economist blandly admitted that he was doing nothing for the taxpayers who are paying him. He spends his time writing articles for magazines on a free-lance basis for which he collects additional money--beyond the $25,000 a year which you are paying him.

But he dares anybody to try to fire him.

Arrogantly he told one official, "I've outlasted a lot of you guys; I'll still be here when you are gone; you'll see."

President Carter wants to do something about it.

He has proposed a wholesale shifting of the 2.8 million federal workers to eliminate duplication and to make the best use of their talents.

But tangled Civil Service regulations make it almost impossible to reassign any worker according to his talent.

Civil Service regulations now fill 21 volumes, some of them five feet thick! Promotions and merit pay raises have become almost automatic, whether deserved or not.

The result is a Frankenstein monster beyond anyone's control--including the President's.

Jule Sugerman, who writes Civil Service regulations, concedes that "the system must be simplified."

But underlying those regulations are 400 laws enacted by Congress plus an unknown number of executive orders--perhaps 600--and federal workers unions are easily able to intimidate the Congress.

Some experienced government managers are able to get rid of morale-shattering goldbricks by shunting them off to the "turkey farm." That means to some out-of-the-way assignment where incompetents are out of sight and can do minimal damage.

Yet wherever--they continue to collect their more-than-comfortable pay averaging more than $15,000 a year.

The White House and Civil Service Commission are considering ways of overhauling the system, but it is going to take an angry electorate to get Congress to cooperate.

my turn

by john long

While puffing away on my cigar, I was suddenly and dramatically reminded of other people's idiosyncrasies.

Smoking does not strike me as being inordinately strange, although I realize that some people do not share my belief. Aside from smoking, however, a genuine idiosyncrasy is a truly remarkable thing to behold.

I suspect that one reason why men cultivate beards and mustaches is so they can run their fingers through the hairy growths and piddle with the things.

I have known otherwise calm people who shake their legs with nervous frenzy, crack their knuckles, pick their noses, and run their fingers through their hair.

For several summers between my college years, I was employed by a tile and carpet-laying company. Except for me, everybody else sang while on the job. One of my coworkers once told me he thought it was extremely peculiar that I did not sing. I thought it was highly peculiar that the other workers did sing.

I confine my singing to the photography darkroom. And even there, I do not really sing; I just hum a few bars from time to time.

Other people will remove their eyeglasses when the urge strikes them while it is impossible to coax some people into removing their sunglasses even at 10 o'clock at night when it is pitch black.

I have often wondered if some cowboys take their boots and hats off even when they sleep. Having never seen some cowboys without their boots and hats, I am inclined to wonder when, if ever, they remove the things.

I think the palm must be awarded to those individuals who are able to constantly keep a skinny pencil precariously balanced above an ear.

On the other hand, personal oddities mark some men and become virtual trademarks. In the declining years of his life, Mark Twain always wore a white suit. He became identified by it and seemed to enjoy the distinction.

While I was attending Texas Tech University, the college president always wore a bow tie. The same college president also had an obsession in the collecting and growing of cactus plants.

Unique peculiarities apparently take many forms.

There were more than 61 million female motorists in the United States in 1976, representing an increase of 2.5 million from the previous year. The ranks of male drivers also recorded a 2.5 million increase, for a total of more than 72 million.

WASHINGTON-(NEA)-The new Senate ethics code, adopted last spring on a wave of reform sentiment, has achieved about as much permanence as sand writing on a surf-swept beach.

Ever so quietly, senators opposed to the tough new standards are nibbling away at key sections of the code even before they take full force and effect.

The erosion was probably inevitable, given the fact that three of the six members of the committee charged with enforcing the new code were opposed to its adoption in the first place and a fourth only reluctantly supported the reforms.

Nonetheless, it's about time someone besides Common Cause notices what is going on, or pretty soon there won't be any ethics code left.

Item: Last June, without a recorded vote, the Senate quietly reversed its original decision and agreed to permit two staff aides in each senator's office to solicit as well as receive campaign contributions.

Item: Later in the summer, the Ethics Committee voted to postpone from October to January the effective date of the code's crucial financial disclosure requirements.

Item: Just a few weeks ago, the committee voted to remove the code's $100 limit on gifts of travel which senators may accept from lobbyists and individuals connected with political action committees. While such freebies would still be subject to disclosure, senators could once again accept rides on corporate planes whenever they feel like it.

But these little nips were just a warm-up for the really big bite Republicans are hoping to take out of the ethics code's restrictions on so-called "office accounts"-slush funds used to cover expenses that fall in the gray areas between official business and outright political activity.

The House this year voted to abolish office accounts entirely, but the Senate refused to go quite that far. Instead, the Senate ethics code permitted members to maintain office accounts financed with campaign contributions-which would be subject both to disclosure and to contribution ceilings applicable to all political donations.

Unfortunately, the code language was sloppily drafted, specifying only that office accounts should be financed by funds from "a" political committee, as opposed to each senator's own campaign committee.

The Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee has seized upon the semantic error to suggest that it means any political committee may contribute to a senator's office account, either directly or by paying for services such as computer lists.

If they get away with it, funds contributed to a senator's office account would not be subject to the ceilings which apply in the case of donations to his campaign committee.

Special interest groups could pour unlimited amounts of money into the slush funds of their favorites.

At the moment, both the Ethics Committee and the Federal Election Commission are mulling over the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee's ingenious ploy, trying to figure out what to do about it.

Unless one or the other develops some backbone rather quickly, the Ethics Code is going to wind up looking like a piece of Swiss cheese.

That would no doubt suit many senators just fine. They adopted the code only because it was the political price they had to pay to justify voting themselves a fat $13,000 pay raise earlier this year. Now that the heat is off, the reform tide is ebbing fast.

fireworks ahead

WASHINGTON, D.C.--- From all indications, fireworks will be set off at the International Women's Year Conference in Houston beginning this weekend. The Conference itself will define goals and adopt strategies to be offered the President and Congress on policies affecting women.

Although there will doubtless be numerous issues raised at the Conference the Equal Rights Amendment will be very much in prominence. Up until the last year or so, advocates of the ERA pretty much had the field to themselves. Since then, strong resistance has built up by other women's organizations and, particularly, one for the purpose of preventing the ratification of the amendment by three-fourths of the States.

Thus far, they are three votes short of ratification and, to complicate the matter, three other States whose Legislatures had adopted the amendment have now voted to rescind their action. There is a difference of legal opinion among the most astute Constitutional lawyers as to whether or not a State, once having approved of the ERA, could now reverse that action.

In 1972, the congress voted to submit the Equal Rights Amendment to the States. By a Resolution accompanying the Amendment seven years was given the States to approve. Although Article V of the Constitution specifies how many States must ratify an Amendment before it becomes law, it is silent on the question on how long the process may take. In 1921, the Supreme Court ruled that ratification should come "within some reasonable time after the proposal."

Until 1919, Congress set no limit on the time for ratification by the States. The Eighteenth Amendment (prohibition) was the first to specify a deadline. Since then, three other Amendments have included deadlines in the text of the Admendment itself. Since 1951, the time limitation has been included in a Resolution accompanying the proposed Amendments. It is now traditional that seven years be the maximum allowed for the States to approve or reject.

Faced with what the supporters of the ERA believe to be setbacks, a Resolution has been introduced in the Congress and is now being considered in a Subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee to extend the time for ratification from March, 1979, for another seven years.

Constitutional authorities are not so much in disagreement as to whether the time can be legally extended as they are on how many votes would be required in the Congress to give the States another seven years. Some contend that majority would be all that was necessary while opponents say that since it took two-thirds to submit the question in the first place, it would take two-thirds to extend the time.

So, while the international women's year conference, starting tomorrow in Houston, will have on its list such issues as publicly financed abortions on demand, equality on everything for homosexuals, sex quotas for teachers in public schools, full-time day care, guaranteed incomes and disarmament, the ERA Amendment will have its place for hot debate. Anti-ERA forces lead by Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly of Chicago are organized to oppose the forces led by Gloria Steinem of New York City. It will likely be a head-on collision and whatever comes out of it will likely influence actions here in the Congress to extend the time for ratification of the ERA Constitutional Amendment.

Seven years is ample for State Legislatures to make their decisions on this matter. Rules are made to apply equally in a game and not to be changed in the middle to favor one side. More on this later.

Husband Cruel To His Stepson

By Abigail Van Buren

(c)1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have three children from two previous marriages. My new husband of two years is a wonderful provider and husband, but by no means is he a father to my son.

He gets along well with my two daughters, but he does not like my 9-year-old son. I can see the hatred growing day by day, and there's no way I can stop it.

When my son asks him a question, he says, "Shut up!" When he begs me to know why Dad is so mean to him and Dad hates him, he says, "Don't go running to your mother or you'll get a whipping!"

He won't show the boy any affection because he says showing affection to a boy will turn him into a homosexual.

Abby, I am sick. I've suggested counseling, but my husband says I'm the only one who's nuts, not him.

I want to be a happy family, but it's like butting my head against a stone wall. I've tried everything and gotten nowhere. Can you help me?

LOSING THE WAY IN GA.

DEAR LOSING: Anyone who believes that showing affection to a boy will turn him into a homosexual, and that counseling is only for "nuts," is woefully ignorant. If I were you, I'd take time for counseling to learn how to handle this unpleasant man who gets along well with your two daughters but is cruel to your son. (You can bet it has something to do with his male ego and competition.)

He may be a good provider, but until he learns to be a loving, considerate father to your son, he's no bargain. Think about it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and live with my grandparents because my mother is an alcoholic. Mom comes here once in a while and, when she's up, then she goes out and starts drinking again.

Abby, I love my mother, in spite of all the heartaches she has caused our whole family. I have begged, pleaded, cried and prayed, but it hasn't done any good. Mother says she loves us and would do anything for us, but she still drinks.

She has lost two husbands and four children from drinking. Can you help me?

HER DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Try to persuade your mother to seek the help of Alcoholics Anonymous. (They're listed in your telephone book.) Thousands of alcoholics have found this is the only hope for sobriety, when everything else has failed.

There is also an organization called "ALATEEN" especially for teenagers whose parents have a drinking problem. (Alcoholics.) They will teach you how to cope with your problem. Good luck, honey.

DEAR ABBY: I recently went to a friend's home for tea. It was her birthday, so I took along a little gift. She thanked me for it, put it out of sight, and never did open it while I was there. I felt very hurt. None of the other guests brought a gift.

The next day she telephoned and thanked me for the gift. Don't you think she should have opened it when I gave it to her, and thanked me then?

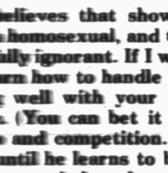

HURT

DEAR HURT: No. She probably didn't want to embarrass the guests who didn't know (or had forgotten) that it was her birthday.

If you feel left out and lonely, or wish you knew how to get people to like you, my new booklet, "How To Be Popular, Today's Never Too Young or Too Old," is for you. Mandel Sure Of Residents Support

BALTIMORE (AP)-Marvin Mandel says he can face the prospect of going to prison for mail fraud and racketeering convictions because he is certain Maryland citizens still believe in him.

Mandel, 57, in the first interview he has given since his conviction, also told the Baltimore Sun that his performance as governor of Maryland has given him "inner satisfaction."

Mandel was sentenced to four years in jail, but is appealing the conviction.

Although still unemployed, Mandel said he hopes to begin working next month. He mentioned television or radio shows, lecturing or a job in business.

Mexican Sugar Pact Inked

MEXICO CITY (AP)-The Mexican sugar workers union agreed Tuesday to a new contract calling for an 11 per cent raise for its 48,000 members, the government said.

The tentative agreement averted a nationwide walkout threatened to begin Wednesday.

The Labor Department said field hands earn a minimum of $4.82 per day under the present contract while mill workers receive at least $15.35 a day.

Under the new contract those minimums would be raised of $5.35 and $17.03 respectively.

The labor Ministry said the new agreement was to be signed Wednesday by Pedro Ojedo Paullada, secretary of labor, and Jose M. Martinez, union secretary general.

The Labor Ministry said the workers had demanded a 15 per cent increase.

There was no immediate word on whether the wage hikes would affect the price of sugar in Mexico.

The Mexican government has controlling interest in 62 of the 96 sugar firms operating in Mexico, the ministry said

Singers Invest In Soccer League

NEW YORK (AP)-Singers Mick Jagger, Peter Frampton and Paul Simon are among a group of 20 persons awarded a franchise for Philadelphia in the North American Soccer League.

The new franchise was announced Tuesday by Phil Woosnam, league commissioner.

In addition to Jagger, Frampton and Simon, the Philadelphia franchise owners include Rick Wakeman of the "Yes" rock band and Peter Rudge, manager of the Rolling Stones, which Jagger leads.

Frampton's managers, Bill and Dee Anthony, and Simon's manager, Michael Tannen,, are among the other investors.

Your Birthday

Nov. 18, 1977

Important, long-range plans will be ready for reaping this coming year. In addition, considerable travel for pleasure is likely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You are held in particularly high esteem today by people that you know socially. It's not likely they would deny you any request you make of them. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each sign and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, B.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There are rainbows in your life today. Each could have a pot of gold at the end of them. You may be lucky in two totally unrelated circumstances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The more you move around and mix today the better chance you have of good things occurring. Uniquely advantageous contacts will develop.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be watchful today for sudden shifts that could mean more dollars or advancement in your field. Someone in a key position may make it possible.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're extremely magnetic today to either sex. Your opposite gender will view you romantically, while your own will appreciate you as a friend.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're fortunate today in that people are apt to do nice things for you purely on impulse. This is especially true of those of the opposite sex who dig you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Being able to get along with just about anyone is what will make this a successful day. You're also lucky with grandiose plans.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There are unusually large opportunities around you today, financially and careerwise. Be alert, for your breaks could come in a unique manner.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If Dan Cupid seems to have been ignoring you lately, be of good cheer. He has someone special in mind. It's possible you could cross paths today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Changes you are presently making appear to be very wise and promising. It looks like things will work out to your expectations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a good day to bring contracts, agreements or legal matters to a head, for the odds are stacked in your favor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This could be a day of outstanding achievement for you if you're willing to work for it. Solid effort will give you both fame and fortune.

Scalp needs treatment

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am 33 years old and have been having a noticeable scalp problem for the last three years. My scalp gets very greasy, little sores like pimples appear at different parts and sometimes my hair is very sore at the roots.

My hair is coming out. I have used such medications as Denorex, Tegrin, Selsun Blue—all to no avail. I also have washed my hair every night, but the very next day, the oiliness returns. Can you help? What is sebum?

DEAR READER—I would strongly recommend that you see a dermatologist. Home treatments for oily scalp often do work and are helpful, but there is always the exception when other measures are required.

I suspect from your description and question that you have very active sebaceous glands. These are the oily glands that form a natural skin oil. They are common over the face and scalp. The oily secretion they produce is called sebum.

In some people, the oily secretions cause acne, and in others, irritation of the skin (dermatitis) called seborrheic dermatitis. This can spread somewhat like an eczema to other parts of the body. The skin irritation, if not controlled, can damage the hair and cause hair loss.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated, to give you a better understanding of acne and sebum. What you have is something more, but you will get some benefit from this information. Nevertheless, you will need to see a dermatologist to really get some useful help for a complicated problem like yours. DEAR DR. LAMB—Can you suffer a heart attack without it showing on a electrocardiogram? Could it happen more than once?

DEAR READER—The term heart attack can be used for several disorders of the heart, including attacks of rapid heart rate, transitory heart pains and for serious damage to the heart muscle (myocardial infarction). Today, it seems to be used mostly for the last condition.

If you mean myocardial infarction, the answer to both of your questions is yes. People do have the severe chest pain of a heart attack and may not have electrocardiographic changes for several days, and sometimes not at all. In other cases, the changes do not last, and the electrocardiogram may return to normal—even though we know the disease in the arteries that caused the problem is still there. Finally, we have people who have a heart attack and never know it. The changes are first noted on the electrocardiogram, and that is the first anyone knows that the person had a heart attack. About one-third of all myocardial infarctions are silent, or cause so few symptoms that they go unnoticed.

And you can have several attacks of chest pain from heart disease without severe muscle damage. The shortest ones of these we call angina pectoris. These heart pains may not always produce electrocardiographic changes and may occur several times.

Conferees Put Damper On Publicity Gimmick

WASHINGTON (AP)-Remember when aides to resigned President Nixon deluged him with trumped-up congratulatory telegrams after one of his televised addresses to the nation on the Vietnam War?

The deception was uncovered, which did nothing to advance Nixon's fading fortunes.

When President Carter made a similar address last week, on his energy program, White House assistants thought they had devised a better way to do some tub-thumping on behalf of their boss.

They invited about a score of Democratic Senate-House energy conferees to watch the speech on television monitors set up in a white House conference room.

Afterwards, Press Secretary Jody Powell escorted them into the press center to offer reporters their instant analyses.

What seemed like a surefire publicity gimmick got off to an uncertain start as soon as Rep. Thomas L. Ashley of Ohio led the parade to the press center rostrum.

"I thought it was a forthright speech," Ashley drawled.

Reporters scratched their heads and asked him to repeat the statement several times. It seemed that some had understood Ashley to call it a "fourth-rate speech."

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, another Ohioan, was next at the microphone. Whether Carter's address would have its intended effect "is very doubtful in my mind," he said.

Asked if that meant the speech was a waste of time, Metzenbaum replied: "I wouldn't say it was a waste of time. It was a good effort."

Sen. Frank Church of Idaho was asked what effect the address would have on the conferees working on compromise energy legislation.

"Probably not very much," Church responded, winning ready agreement from some of the other conferees trotted out by Powell.

As the Congress members departed, the press secretary tried to make the best of the situation.

"I want you to know," joked Powell, "That this was another presentation by your up-tight White House staff."

Holzer Faces New Charges

NEW YORK (AP)-Broadway producer Adela Holzer is faced with new allegations similar to those in a state indictment that accuses her of $2.3 million in grand larceny and stock violations.

The Securities and Exchange Commission said in a civil complaint filed Monday that Mrs. Holzer, a major investor in the original production of "Hair," violated securities laws in selling investment contracts for various commodities, land in Spain, vehicles and stock.

The bankrupt Broadway entrepreneur has been free on a $50,000 surety bond pending trial on a 248-count indictment alleging that she defrauded investors in various deals, issued false financial statements and violated securities laws.

'Outhouse' Is Causing Trouble

NORTHFIELD, Mass. (AP)-To find Dan and Robin Woodard's house, you drive over a mountain on a blacktop road until the blacktop ends, drive down a rutted dirt lane until the lane ends, then you walk.

You walk and climb half a mile up a twisting, boulderstrewn path obscured by fallen leaves and pine needles, following a stream that tumbles down the steep hillside over mossy rocks. Deep in this idyllic wilderness the only sound is the brawling stream.

The house is utterly isolated among the trees, a handsome two-story house covered with weather-mellowed cedar shakes.

Nearby is an acre clearing where Dan and Robin grow their own groceries. Robin cans the produce and stores it in a root cellar. Dan built the root cellar.

Dan also built the house, sawed every board, drove every nail. He is a fine carpenter and a resourceful man; he taught himself the craft. Robin is resourceful, too, and giving. She teaches sewing one day a week in a nursing home.

Behind the house stands another tidy structure. With its two stained-glass windows, also hand-crafted by Dan, it might be a small chapel, but it is not.

It is an outhouse. The most troublesome outhouse you can imagine.

"We came here because we like the woods, the outdoors," Dan Woodard said. "We like privacy. All we want is to be left alone. Instead, for three years we've been in and out of court and it isn't over yet. All because of an outhouse.

"Sometimes it gets pretty silly. One official asks why on earth we want an outhouse and another says if we have an outhouse everybody will want one. How do you deal with that."

Dan Woodard discusses his outhouse woes with remarkable calm. A less forgiving soul would be tearing his hair.

Dan and Robin, both in their early 30s, met at the University of California at Los Angeles. From the start, they treasured being alone. After graduation and marriage they rented a cabin far back in the redwood mountains of northern California.

They wanted their own place, though, and began a search, traveling the country unhurriedly, enjoying the scenery and each other.

In the spring of 1974 they found this spot: 96 acres of romantic mountainside with its crystal brook, ample firewood and garden clearing. No electricity, but they prefer oil lamps. It was ideal.

Dan applied for a building permit. He was told he would need a septic tank. He explained that he planned to build an outhouse.

"Not only would we have to build a road so a truck could come up with a tank, which would be terribly expensive and spoil the beauty, but we really do want an outhouse," Dan said. "An outhouse forces you to go outside even in bad weather, and once you're outside you're glad to be outside."

The town said too bad, no outhouse. Against the law. Dan was told to stop building not just the outhouse but also the house.

He wanted to finish by winter so he hired a lawyer, got a restraining order against the town and built his home. The case came up in February and the court found in his favor.

The town gave him a permit for an outhouse.

"We thought that was the end of it, but a week later the plumbing inspector arrived. He said we could have an outhouse, but the state required indoor plumbing as well, plus a washing machine hookup. Why, we don't even have electricity for a washing machine."

The inspector himself saw the absurdity, resigned rather than enforce the rule, and went with Dan to Boston to plead for a variance.

They returned and found a summons from the town for building without a permit. Dan lost that case in court but won it on appeal. The judge ruled that the town could hardly have been aware of his plans.

"What we now have is approval in the state court but no variance from the state Board of Plumbing Examiners. That's still unsettled.

"We have the feeling we're being harassed but don't know why. I guess they think we're strange. At one hearing they kept pointing out that we were from California." He laughed. "Actually I'm from Michigan.

"We don't want to cause trouble. The last thing we want to do is bother anybody. All we want is an outhouse, just a simple outhouse."

A modest desire, Dan and Robin. Hang in there.

Special tours can be arranged any weekday by calling the museum office at 573-6107, and persons who would like to give volunteer time to the museum as guides are also invited to call.

Young Aliens Problem

SAN YSIDRO, Calif. (AP)-The retiring chief of the busiest U.S. Border Patrol region says a serious new problem is being mounted by young illegal aliens.

Allen Gerhardt calls them unskilled, uneducated, "young and opportunists."

"I felt for the individual several years ago who had to feed his family," Gerhardt said in an interview Sunday. "Coming here for work in the fields was the only way to accomplish it. "It was an extreme adjustment to leave a family and come to a foreign country. That's not the case today. The youngsters who come here now have very minimal education and are devoid of skills."

An increasing number of such foreign youths are slipping into the United States from cities to the south, Gerhardt said.

After 33 years in the Border Patrol, the last 11 as chief agent of the Chula Vista sector, he is retiring Dec. 31 at the age of 60. His 350 officers apprehend about 40 percent of all illegal aliens and outnumber the entire Border Patrol strength along the Canadian border.

Gerhardt plans to live in retirement in San Diego and his native town of Fredericksburg, Tex.

Jury Is Forgotten

SEATTLE (AP)-The jury hadn't even heard the case, but it was locked up anyway.

King County Superior Judge William Goodloe recessed a trial for attempted murder and ordered panelists locked in the jury room for a few minutes until the courtroom cleared.

Spectators left. The bailiff left. The judge left.

Nearly an hour and a half later, Goodloe stopped in the courtroom to inspect its newly waxed floors. He heard noises coming from the jury room, unlocked the door and found a puzzled group of men and women.

The judge, chairman of the court's jury committee and concerned about making the experience of jurors as meaningful as possible, told them he was "profoundly sorry" they had been forgotten.

'Waltons' Face New Villain

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)-It's an odd thing about "The Waltons," that gentle clan of the Virginia hills. If you don't watch the show much, you tend to think they're still in the Depression era.

But last week's episode had them pausing to hear the war news from Europe, had one Walton boy home from National Guard training and another wishing he could become a Royal Air Force fighter pilot.

And tonight, a family crisis occurs when Grandpa Walton invites Army units on maneuvers to bivouac on his land.

In short, that distant war in Europe is coming closer and closer for members of the durable CBS family series created by Earl Hamnner, who grew up in the rural town of Schuyler, Va.

Last season, he says, the series combined the years 1937-38 "because we'd just about used up every aspect of the Depression and we didn't want to start repeating things.

"And since the Depression always had been the villain, we felt we needed a new villain in the form of World War II, which would be especially threatening to a family with that many (four) boys."

As most viewers know, Richard Thomas, who played the oldest son, John-Boy, left the series after last season. But he still is mentioned by the family in various episodes this year, Hamner says.

At last report, John-Boy was in New York, working for The Associated Press, of all things, and writing his second novel.

Hamner, 54, whose hit series is based on his memories of growing up in rural Virginia, says he's keeping this season's shows in a period just before the start of the draft for American men in 1940.

"This is because we don't want to lose any of the remaining boys quite yet," he said. "And when they're drafted, we'll work the stories around them when they're home on leave."

If "The Waltons" is renewed for a seventh season, it would then deal with the Pearl Harbor attack and America's entry into the war.

But Hamner says the focus will remain on the family, on the impact of the war on the Waltons who stay home in Virginia, and won't directly follow the young Walton men through military service.

"No, we won't do that," he said. "I think the reason people like this show is the family unit, the strength they sense in this family in that particular place."

Equipment Sale Set For Rehab Center

Saturday, Nov. 19, has been set as the date for the annual farm equipment round-up auction to benefit the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

The sale will begin promptly at 10 a.m. at the Tex Herring Equipment Company in Lawn. As in the past, Col. Tex Herring will contribute his services and commission as auctioneer for the sale.

One operating tractor plus other items have already been pledged to the sale. Additional auction items are needed to assure the success of the sale. Last year's farm equipment auction raised $6,000 for the Center.

Col. Herring urged area farmers wishing to donate farm equipment or related items for the November 19 sale to contact either him or the West Texas Rehabilitation Center. Herring also emphasized the importance of participation by area farm equipment dealers.

When necessary, arrangements will be made to pick up donated equipment for the sale.

Charo will play Gabriel Melgar's aunt in an episode of "Chico and the Man"...Jane Seymour, Jeanette Nolan, Dorrie Kavaaugh and Devon Ericson join the cast of "The Awakening Land" filming in Springfield, Ill.

John Randolph will co-star in the new ABC adventure series "Lucan".
