Ralph Fults Was Planning Bank Robbery

Car Of Desperado Overturns In Blind Lane, Admits Robbery

DENTON, (AP)—Ralph Fults, running mate of Raymond Hamilton, was trapped by three Denton policemen Wednesday at Lake Dallas, 4 miles east of Denton—a few hours before he planned to rob the Prosper bank.

The fugitive overturned a speeding car in a ditch off a "blind" lane into which officers pursued him. He surrendered without resistance.

He told officers he spent the night in Dallas. He left there Wednesday morning for Prosper, where it was said he intended to rob the bank. Officers saw him on the highway and ran him down.

Fults is wanted for robbery of a Prentiss, Miss. bank last month, along with Hamilton.

Fults admitted he helped Hamilton rob the Prentiss bank of $1100 recently. Hamilton was since captured in Fort Worth and is awaiting execution at Huntsville. Fults may be taken to Mississippi for a bank robbery trial.

Death Penalty Affirmed For W. R. Hildreth

Slayer Of Wife Must Die, Rules Court Of Criminal Appeals

AUSTIN, (AP)—The death penalty assessed W. R. Hildreth in Howard county for fatally stabbing his wife last Oct. 1, with an ice pick was affirmed Wednesday by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Death penalty was returned against Hildreth here October 26 in the 70th district court after a jury had deliberated slightly more than two hours.

Principal witness for the state was Mrs. Carlton Coburn, who testified she rushed to her mother's home the afternoon of October 1 after hearing screams. She said she saw her father leaving by way of the back door.

She found her mother lying in the floor, and with the blade of an ice pick protruding from her pelvic bone.

"Bernice, he's killed me this time. Get a doctor," Mrs. Coburn said her mother told her.

Hildreth was found later in the afternoon a block and a half from his home, his wrists and throat slashed.

He pleaded guilty to a murder charge and asked mercy of the court.

His attorneys, Charles Sullivan and J. B. Littler, were appointed by the court and served without pay. They appealed the case, after motion for new trial was refused, on the grounds that part of the testimony calculated to show prior threats was inadmissible and prejudicial. The defense counsel also took exception to the use of the word "brute" and other remarks made by then District Attorney R. W. Hamilton in addressing the jury.

Assessment of the death penalty against Hildreth was the second in the history of Howard county. A. A. Bergdorf was given the death sentence for the slaying of Charlie Wallace, Dallas, at a filling station eight miles north of here October 22, 1928. His case was later reversed by the court of criminal appeals and Bergdorf is now serving a life sentence.

Unit Holders Of Deep Test Will Confer

Meeting Scheduled For Friday To Ascertain Next Step In Deep Test

A conference of unit holders of the John I. Moore et al No. 1 S. McDowell in northwest central Glasscock county, will be held in Big Spring Friday, it was learned here Wednesday. Jack Loffland of Loffland Brothers, drilling contractors, was in the city a short time Wednesday morning, and stated that those interested in the well would meet here some time Friday to ascertain just what procedure would be taken on the deep test, which is shut down at present at 9946 feet. The test likely will be shot or acidized, or both, if lime between 9471 and 9946 feet, the total depth, carries sufficient oil to justify these courses. It was also stated that the test might be drilled deeper in search of the Ordovician.

John I. Moore has gone to Tulsa, Oklahoma, to confer with oil men there. Mr. Loffland flew to Big Spring Wednesday morning with the pilot of the Sinclair-Prairie Oil company in the latter's ship. He will go to Hobbs, New Mexico, before returning to Big Spring Friday. Mr. Moore will arrive here Thursday night or Friday morning to attend the conference.

Litvinoff Fails In Try To Include Other Countries Than European

GENEVA, (AP)—The League of Nations council Wednesday adopted a tri-power resolution condemning Germany for repudiating its treaty obligations.

Only Denmark abstained from voting.

The resolution, presented jointly by France, Britain, and Italy, deplored unilateral abrogation of treaty obligations and requested the league to appoint a committee to consider what measures, economic and financial, may be taken against future repudiators of international commitments.

The vote came after Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar, characterized Germany's repudiation as motivated by a policy of "revenge and conquest."

The attempt of Litvinoff to extend implications of resolution to parts of the world other than Europe was overridden.

Chicken Theft Charges Filed

Two Arrested In Sterling City, Held For Theft In Howard County

First blow at chicken thefts in this area has been with the charging of two men for two offenses in Glasscock and one in Howard county.

George Hanks and J. B. Castleman, arrested Tuesday in Sterling City, were returned here late in the afternoon by Sheriff Jess Slaughter and Deputy Andrew Merrick.

Wednesday they were charged with theft of chickens from A. B. Shortes and had bond fixed at $750. They had not posted the figure Wednesday noon.

Glasscock county officers indicated they would file charges against the pair for theft of poultry from Mrs. Overton and Sam Childress.

According to officers, the chickens taken in possession of the pair were to have been marketed in San Angelo.

Since price of poultry has reached a high level, thefts of fowls have become very prevalent in this section.

Coincident with filing of charges against Hanks and Castleman, charges of hog theft were filed against Clara Ellen Miller. She posted bond of $500 in the case.

Woodul Asks Tax Bills Be Passed

The bills were designed to tighten leaks in the cigarette tax, beer, motor fuel, gross production, occupation and delinquent tax laws.

Sinclair-Cosden Suit Is Dropped

ABILENE—Litigation instituted by the Sinclair Refining company against the Cosden Oil corporation alleging infringement on refining patents assertedly held by the plaintiff company was dropped from the trial calendar in United States district court on order of Judge W. H. Atwell Tuesday.

The case was set for trial here Thursday.

Judge Atwell ordered the action on filing with the court of a stipulation for retirement of the cause by both plaintiff and defendant counsel. The order added that the suit be reinstated on the calendar within one year from date on application of either party.

Sinclair sought to restrain Cosden from using various refining processes known under the general term of the Donnelly process in which it claimed to hold patents, and to recover asserted damages accruing in the alleged use of the processes by the defendant corporation. Cosden contended it owned rights to processes incorporated in its new refining plant at Big Spring.

Caliche Base Being Placed On Park Road

As soon as the base has been wet and sufficiently packed, placing of the surfacing will start.

When the park project is completed certain city streets will be surfaced.

IPA Official Says Thomas Bill Needed

Approximately thirty independent oil operators of this area attended a banquet in honor of H. B. Fell, vice-president of the Independent Petroleum association, with headquarters in Tulsa, who arrived in Big Spring Tuesday night. He was accompanied here by his brother-in-law, R. G. Gregg, of Ardmore.

They will leave Thursday morning for Artesia, New Mexico, and other points in the interest of the association and its program.

Following the course dinner served by the Crawford Coffee shop in the Crawford ballroom, W. T. Strange, manager of Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, introduced the speaker.

National Organization Mr. Fell, who is an independent operator, at the start outlined the program of IPA, stating that it was a national organization, and had nothing to do or took any part in state or local oil matters, devoting its activities entirely along national lines, leaving the state and local matters to those affected. He spoke of the splendid assistance and cooperation given by West Texas independent oil men, especially from those in Big Spring through Joseph Edwards, a director of the IPA.

"It is up to you men in the oil business through organized effort to protect the oil industry, especially regarding the tax question," Mr. Fell said, in urging an organization in this section to promote the oil industry.

In his address, Mr. Fell stressed the need of the Thomas-Disney oil bill now before congress as a means of stabilization of the petroleum industry, and as a medium in maintaining a balance between supply and demand of the commodity. "The Thomas-Disney bill is a legislative means for determining the equitable rights between the states in petroleum production. Personally I am against federal control of the oil production, but I am in favor of a federal agency acting in the capacity as umpire in dispute originating between states in the matter of production, and I believe this means

WASHINGTON By George Durso

Tired—

"Cactus Jack" Garner bids fair to convert the vice presidency into a "political graveyard" into a "live man's job." He has never been content to be merely the official dinner of the administration. His alert mind and natural yen for power have led him to a never-exercised prerogative that will make vice president a potent influence in shaping legislation—provided the Senate doesn't finally clip their wings.

Garner's decision to scrap the time-honored custom of allowing chairmen of Senate committees to select their own conferees and to name them himself should have some important results the next time a controversial piece of legislation needs ironing out between the two houses.

The vice president is tired of seeing Senators selected as conferees who are opposed to the piece of legislation in question. It happened last when the $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill floundered around in conference.

Experience— This reaching out for power is characteristic of Garner. When he became minority leader of the House he did not resign from the Ways and Means Committee—as is customary—and tend strictly to the business of leadership. He held both jobs and ruled the Democrats with an iron hand.

Nor was he relegated to innocuous desuetude when he became vice president. Although he announced with becoming modesty that he was merely the Senate's presiding officer, he continued to wield great influence in the House and has been steadily expanding his territory to cover the Senate as well.

He often says the last word about legislation at Cabinet meetings—as befits his third of a century of experience in Congress.

Withdrawn—

Senator Robert D. Carey, (R) of Wyoming, rates as the CCC's No. 1 nemesis. First he stirred up that toilet kit investigation in the early days of the forest army which nearly had the New Deal on its ear. Now he has again stepped in to ask "How come?"

The Senator learned some days ago that an invitation for bids had been sent out by Director Robert Fechner's corps for the furnishing and delivering of fabricated material and supplies for complete mail order barracks. A little private investigation convinced him that buildings of this type might prove a great deal more expensive than

MOCK AIR RAIDS CAN'T APPROACH REAL THING

The Germans are a clever and thorough people and when they set out to stage mock air raids over Berlin they went ahead and did a pretty life-like job. News photographs show us supposedly shell-toned streets, stretcher parties and ambulances, firemen in gas masks, and all those other little details which go to make modern warfare such a romantic and high-spirited undertaking.

As a dress rehearsal for the real thing, it must all have been very realistic and gripping—just the sort of thing to make any people glad that they are at last able to support air fleets of their own.

But let no one make the mistake of supposing that it was really a faithful reproduction of the genuine article. To get that, you need a fertile imagination . . . and a strong stomach.

Let's suppose we could have a look at the real thing for a minute. What would we see?

First of all we might come to a peaceful suburban garden. On the lawn lies a five-year-old boy. He was a sunny, happy chap up to five minutes ago. Then a bomb fragment knocked his lower jaw off. He is lying there now, moaning rather quietly. In a few minutes he will be dead.

Down the street a way is a school house—was a schoolhouse, to be more exact. Now there is a mass of bricks and broken beams. It wouldn't be advisable to go too near, we might see something that would spoil our sleep forever. You see, a 500-pound bomb landed there before the children had time to get out.

Farther along we come to a department store. That, too, is a good thing to stay out of. An incendiary bomb landed in the midst of a throng of shoppers. The results are the sort of thing the devil in hell might dream about on an especially bad night.

Next we reach what is left of a hospital. Some of the exhibits are rather disturbing . . . the children's ward, for instance, where one bomb went off . . . or the maternity ward . . . no, we shan't go in there at all.

Down here is a smashed street car, with a few broken bodies still showing faint signs of life. Just beyond is a theater, where a bomb landed just as everyone was hurrying for the seats. You understand of course, that as we go to see these things we have to pick our way along pavements that are more or less cluttered with legless bodies, scattered arms and heads, and the like?

... All this is a little too harrowing to go on with any longer. But it is only a pale, shadow-like imitation of what will actually happen when the next war breaks out.

And if you don't like the looks of it, you might meditate that that's what the nations of the earth are blithely and irresponsibly preparing for themselves these days.

again and play will be watched closely to see whether the stage is set for any startling upset. At the beginning of the season with last year's champions, Branch Rickey, vice-president of the Cardinals, after approving a $1000 fine planted on Dixie Dean, says his club's chances depend upon the pitcher and while hopeful he is not "overcome with a feeling of confidence" that Dixie will be a good boy and pitch like he can for the season.

Dixie got a clean bill, explaining it was a contract to appear on the radio, and a lot of advice from baseball's czar Landis said "if anyone else ever offers you money I want you to promise me that you will kick them in the teeth." It's sound advice for all the boys in the game.

IT'S FOUR-TO-ONE AGAINST CUNNINGHAM IN KANSAS TRY

By CHARLES GRUMICH

The State of Florida should realize something like $1,000,000 for permitting gambling within its borders this past winter season. Some $35,577,463 passed through the pari-mutuel windows at the race tracks to give Florida its greatest racing season in history.

That's a tremendous amount of "business" and Walter H. Donovan, energetic secretary of the Florida State Racing Commission, can look back on 1935 with pardonable pride. The "money" figures are impressive but the gigantic strides made in stamping out the narcotic evil afford him even greater satisfaction.

Reducing the general practice of using stimulants on thoroughbreds which was in vogue when the 1934 winter season began to the two specific instances detected this past season is an accurate yardstick for measuring the results of the Florida Commission's efforts.

A "NECESSARY EVIL" When the "saliva test" was introduced at the beginning of the 1934 season, the commission faced a most difficult situation for while the practice of "doping" was not openly approved it was generally accepted as a "necessary evil."

Trainers who did not really want to use stimulants resorted to it in self defense—if other horses were sent to the post "doped," they felt their thoroughbreds needed a stimulant to compete on an even basis.

Trainers accepted the saliva tests in a belated mood, naturally offering the Commission no aid in running down the offenders, rather using every possible means to defeat the ruling body's efforts. The issue came to a head on Derby Day when the trainers threatened to strike and send no thoroughbreds to the post in the feature event of the season. Defeat would have made the Florida State Racing Commission the laughing stock of the turf world.

The commission stuck to its guns and forced the trainers to abide by its rules.

OUNCE OF PREVENTION When the lid was clamped down on "doping" it was to be expected that certain unscrupulous trainers would turn to other forms of trickery. The commission's new problem was to anticipate these tricks and forestall them if possible.

With this thought in mind the commission called a meeting of all the trainers working at the Florida tracks and warned them that the hocks of all thoroughbreds would be inspected in the paddock before each race. An experienced plaster can shoe a thoroughbred in such a manner as to radically affect the horse's running form without making it apparent to the bettors in the stands.

With racing becoming nationwide through the passing of legislation permitting betting in 24 states the need for a smooth functioning national body becomes a necessity.

The National Association of State Racing Commissioners, with Walter H. Donovan as its president, is making great strides toward building up an appreciation and understanding between the State Commissions that promises cooperation in trying to solve the problems of general interest and benefit to racing.

LAWRENCE, Kas. (AP)—Having run into the ground practically all sole competition, Master Miller Cunningham will have the spur of a special pacing quartet when he takes another crack at his own world mile record in full view of the home folks here April 20.

The 28-Jayhawk's race will headline a 23-event program of the 13th annual Kansas relays, which will bring nearly 1,000 athletes into Memorial stadium. There will be 13 relay championships and 10 individual track and field events in this opening event of the midwest outdoor track season.

It will be a homecoming for Glenn, who left his alma mater to take graduate work at the University of Iowa but still runs in his red and blue Kansas jersey. Last year as a Jayhawk senior, he failed to set a new record in this meet when he whipped Gene Venske in the mile race (for Cunningham) time of 4:12.7.

With no serious challenges for a match race in sight, the relays management decided to pit a quartet of variety quarter-milers—as well as the best solo talent available—against Cunningham in an effort to push him faster than the 4:06.7 standard he set at Princeton last June.

The quarter-milers will travel the outer rim of the track while Glenn pursues his customary path near the pole against any daring mile runner willing to accept the issue. Among the latter are Harold Manning of Wichita and Glen Dawson of Tulsa.

Experts figure the baton-passers will have to run 125 yards more around the turns, but that they will finish ahead of Cunningham unless he does the impossible and runs that Olympian four-minute mile.

Each of the 440 men is capable of covering his estimated 471 1/4-yard stint in 58 to 60 seconds, which adds up to a hypothetical mile somewhere between 3:53 and 4:00.

The pacers are Charles Bekart of New York City, Calvin Hills of Oklahoma, Orla, and William Kaiser and Bob Crain of Paola, Kas. At the hands of the Howard County 20-foot clock dial will tell the timing story unofficially as the race is run.

Sharing interest with this freak event is the decathlon, getting more than ordinary attention because of the approach of the 1936 Olympics. Kansas' Jim Bausch set the meet record in 1932, the year he went on to become Olympic decathlon champion.

Delbert White, a negro from the Pittsburg, Kas. State Teachers college, was the 1934 all-around champion, with Roy Patterson of Iowa Wesleyan runner-up.

Bromberg Gets Decision Over Billy McEuin

Tiger Billy McEuin was a bit playful Tuesday night and as a result he lost his first bout here when he was disqualified by referee Herman Fuhrer and Count Von Bromberg was awarded the match.

Each wrestler had taken a fall and the fight was well on the way to a decision when McEuin decided to end the struggle by tangling Bromberg's neck between the ropes, but Fuhrer thought different when the Tiger caught the German for the second time and Fuhrer, deciding it was not an accident, raised the Count's hand in victory.

The crowd, who several weeks ago "yelled" Gene La Belle to victory over Bromberg, rode with the German and seemed very pleased when he was awarded the match.

In the semi-windup, Ernie Arthur, who is middleweight champion in the land of the Mounties, took the third and deciding fall from Dallas' Dutch Tennant to gain a victory in his initial appearance here.

Tennant bothered Arthur no little with his jui jitsu tricks, but the Canadian finally slipped an arm whip on the Dallasite and fell on him for victory.

The CCC Foresters and Ernie Richardson's Cosden Lab joined the defeated softball teams Tuesday night when they met defeat at the hands of the Howard County Refiners and the Carter Chevrolet boys, respectively.

The Foresters played the Refiners to a standstill for the first few innings and had the distinction of playing the only close game of the season thus far, but they faltered in the late innings and the Refiners went ahead.

The Leamen jumped into an early inning 3-1 lead which was good until the fifth when the Foresters counted four runs for a lead that looked like victory. However, the Corps lost control of the ball and the Refiners, quick to take the advantage, tallied four times and ran the count to 7-5. Roy Lee, pitcher-manager of the Refiners, settled down to hold the Foresters scoreless during the remainder of the game.

The Carterites were complete masters in the second game, and scored an easy 22-0 victory over Richardson's Lab team.

Richardson and Shettlesworth were no puzzle to the Kneec Action boys and the Krausmen battered them all over the lot for a total of 22 hits.

McCleary was the only Chemist to gather in more than one hit, coming through with two singles. Kraus set the Cosdenites down with 6 hits.

There is no need for a lot of whangdoodle talk about cigarettes — just plain common-sense

When you stop to think about your cigarette—what it means to you—here's about the way you look at it—

Smoking a cigarette gives a lot of pleasure—it always has. People have been smoking and enjoying tobacco in some form or another for over 400 years. Of course you want a cigarette to be made right. And naturally you want it to be mild. Yet you want it to have the right taste—and plenty of it. In other words—you want it to Satisfy.

Scientific methods and ripe mild tobaccos make Chesterfield a milder and better-tasting cigarette. We believe you will enjoy them.

MRS. NICHOLS, MRS. STRAIN ENTERTAIN COMPLIMENTARY TO MISS MARY ALICE WILKE

Also Named As Honoree Of Occasion Is Mrs. Nichols' Sister On A Visit From Her Tennessee Home

Of premier interest in this week's events in Big Spring society was the first of a series of pre-nuptial parties given in honor of Miss Mary Alice Wilke at the charming home of Mrs. R. C. Strain in Edwards Heights. Co-hostess with Mrs. Strain was Mrs. Vivian Nichols.

Also an honor guest of the afternoon was Mrs. Watt Yeiser of Columbia, Tenn., who arrived Saturday night for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Nichols.

Eight tables were arranged for contract bridge. At these the guests seated themselves after being greeted by the two hostesses, the two honorees, Mrs. George Wilke, mother of the prospective bride, and Mrs. Lee Hanson, daughter of Mrs. Strain.

Wedding bells in pink and white colors featured the tables and were laid on the tables. Bowls of red honeyuckle and tulips were artistically placed throughout the rooms; especially lovely was a large bouquet of pink and white snapdragons on the dining table.

At the close of the games the hostesses served refreshment plates holding a wedding slipper molded from ice cream and a confection lead in white with a wedding bell touched with silver. Mrs. Van Gleason aided the hostesses by passing a bowl of salted nuts for the guests to help themselves.

Plate favors for the players were tiny bags of rice tied with pale pink and blue ribbons. On Miss Wilke's plate was a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Emil Fahrenkamp won the trophy awarded for highest score, a set of pottery piggy bank ornaments. Mrs. Williams captured the floating prize, a deck of cards. Both gifts were presented to Miss Wilke.

Attractive gifts were awarded the two honor guests. Miss Wilke received a beautiful casserole for her future home and Mrs. Yeiser lovely handkerchiefs.

The guest list included: Meses. E. O. Ellington, R. Homer McNew, J. D. Biles, R. T. Piner, M. E. Edwards, Fred Stephens, A. E. Service, C. W. Cunningham, W. W. Inman, V. Van Gleason, J. B. A report of the recent district P.T.A. convention was given the members. Attendance was better than usual. Mrs. C. C. Coffee presided. The meeting was held in the class room of Miss Clara Secrest, and those attending viewed an art exhibit put on by her pupils and those of Miss Lottye Maye Leggett.

Elbow H. D. Club To Serve Lunches

At the meeting of Elbow H. D. club held Tuesday afternoon Miss Maybelle Lou Parr in her demonstration on clothes storage suggested giving children a clothes storage place of their own. "Children become better groomed if taught to assume responsibility of caring for their own clothing," she said.

"These conveniences can be provided by rod or hooks placed low enough so the little ones can easily hang up garments as they are taken off. Some drawer space should be provided in which one may keep underwear or such things that need to be folded."

The finance committee of the club decided to serve school lunches cafeteria style in the home economic department on Thursdays and Fridays of each week until school is out. The proceeds from this will go toward sending a delegate to the A. & M. short course in July.

Mrs. Griffin was recreation leader. Songs and drills were put on by the Elbow school pupils. Mrs. Burnett served refreshments of sandwiches, lemonade with tiny Easter rabbits and eggs carrying out the season's theme. Present were: Meses. Ross Hill, Ches Anderson, C. M. Griffin, Nora Y. Colorful Frocks, Variet Bonnets --Fashion's Offering For Easter

In years, but their numerous white trims demand a "spick and span" finish which will keep ladies' minds working overtime this spring. Black, navy blue and pepper and salt wool and crepes are everywhere, almost always lightened by touches of white—a circle of white organdy flowers around the neck, full revers of a new fabric called "rubber" or "paper," cut out like the lace edging of valentines.

Corn yellow, pale gray, soft green, blue gray and string colors appear in the pebbled crepes launched for afternoon wear, designed with big sleeves, rather full skirts and fairly low, draped necklines. Colorful prints stamped with shells, flags, flowers or leaves with round, shirred necklines and gathered fullness in the front of the skirt; and crisp rustling taffetas with full bias skirts are much in the mode for afternoon.

Morning frocks are out in all sorts of colorful wools, most of them accented by the novel belts which are so important this season.

By ADELAIDE KERR
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS (AP)—A "grande dame" mode of colorful full-skirted frocks for spring evening parties—

The most varied collection of Easter bonnets in a decade—

Usually smart daytime frocks with a new silhouette—

These are the offerings of fashion as the year becomes spring. Some of the new evening gowns, fashioned of chiffon or tulle, are as airy and colorful as a full-blown summer flower; others, cut with daring décolletés and wide swishing taffetas skirts, recall the dashing belles of the regency of George IV. Still others have a swathed, draped silhouette and head drapes reminiscent of the women of Biblical times.

But almost every one has an air of formality.

Pink, watermelon-rose, chiffon and violet tulle are used to fashion flower-like frocks designed with quite full skirts, some of them topped by tulle capes covered by rows of shirred ruffles running up and down. Flowered and hand painted organdies, black and navy blue lace and pastel colored nets make others, often designed with drop shoulder décolletés or puffed sleeves.

Those low cut, sweeping, swishing gowns, designed of flowered, striped, plaid, changeable or plain taffetas in such tones as mauve, candy pink, pale green and black, are the outstanding evening trend of the season.

Generally their skirt fullness sweeps to the back but sometimes their makers vary the picture by gathering it in front. Their décolletés, however, are almost universally low.

The gowns inspired by Biblical times come in brilliant new "ramadan" satins or flowered "garden of Eden" crepes in pale blue, "moon day sun" orange and "desert rose," the material being swathed around a slender figure in a manner recalling the robes of Ruth and Naomi. One long panel attached to the frock is used to veil the head.

With the new spring hats for the Easter parade, it's a case of "find your type and fit your face," for modistes have designed almost every conceivable shape, from bonnets to cartwheel designs.

Large hats, small hats, brims which shade the face and models all appear. They have only one feature in common—there is very little hat in the back.

Bonnets, which come in two designs, are one of the outstanding chapeau notes of the season. The first model is designed with a shallow crown and a brim narrowed for curling on the sides and jutting out over the face in front.

The second is more like grandmother's bonnet—a little close-fitting straw cap, wreathed next the face with small flowers and worn well back of the hairline with a veil standing out over the face. (It belongs to no one over 20.)

Besides these there are a number of hats designed with rather shallow crowns and medium-sized brims which sweep up on one side and down on the other, roll up all around, or dip down back and front. They all throw their accent to the front.

Even the wide brimmed cartwheels show the scant back influence.

Dark straws—black, brown and navy blue—make the smartest models. Some greens, hyacinth blues and reds appear, but the majority show their color in their trim. Their straws may be rough or smooth. Little flower toques covered with petals have been launched by some designers. White hats of both plique and straw promise to be smart as soon as sunny days appear.

For those who will be stepping out on Fifth avenue, Michigan boulevard—or any other street—in the 1935 spring fashions, waistlines are the worry.

A new silhouette has appeared designed with a skirt which swells into soft fullness above a slender fitted waist, often marked by big belts and drawing the eye like a magnet.

As though to accent that slender waist, sleeves are more noticeable than they have been in years. Big bishop, ample elbow-length designs with the fullness brushed backward, and bracelet-length models wide at the cuff are all seen. Necklines show a decided tendency to fall lower than last season.

The new frocks are among the smartest which Paris has designed

Four prizes were awarded two players, each winning two of them. Mrs. Hoykin received high score trophy and also the prize for the one hitting and making the most prize. Mrs. Le Bleu received guest prize and won the bingo gift.

Your wife will know why we buy from Western Electric

As the world's best purchasing agent, she applies the same rules of thrifty buying used by the Bell System.

A special study based on 3,000 separate items of telephone equipment and supplies indicates this fact: Western Electric, as supply unit of the Bell System, sells to Bell operating companies for a fourth less, on the average, than the lowest price offered by independent supply firms.

This of course does not mean a saving of a fourth on every item bought from Western Electric. Some supplies, such as paper, paints, poles, for example, range from 5 to 17 per cent under usual market prices. Others, such as telephones, cables and switchboards, show similar variations in the amount saved.

But the important point, clearly indicated, is that Western's prices are appreciably lower to us than open market prices.

As one of the 24 associated companies of the Bell System, we buy most of our equipment and much of our supplies from Western because we get bargain there, because we get uniform quality and the assurance of exact performance...and because Western Electric parts are so designed that future improvements and developments will fit into and work with equipment already in use.

These factors help us materially in achieving the Bell System policy of good telephone service at fair cost to the user.

Chapter 24
TEAPOT TEMPEST

James fell at last into an exhausted sleep. He was still sleeping soundly at nine next morning when Aunt Lou awakened him. "Mabel Webster's calling you on the telephone," Aunt Lou told him. "She seems terrible upset and wants that you should come right over there quick as you kin make it."

James' heart leaped high with hope as he hurried into his dressing gown, pulled down a cup of coffee and ran for a street car.

James didn't want to get married. Jane had the courage he lacked, the courage to save them both. He pushed the slow-moving car all the way down South Fifth Street and up North Fifth and jumped from it before it halted at Oak Street. Mrs. Northrup was waiting for him on the porch.

"You look very happy, young man," she said grimly and led the way into the front parlor.

"What's the matter? What's happened?" James asked, and still the feet that wanted to cower. He'd have to pretend of course to be sorry . . . horrified, and he wasn't good at pretending. Trust that old harpy to see through him. He'd better insist on seeing Jane alone. Good old Jane. He and she.

"It's the altar guild," Mrs. Northrup snapped, "or rather that hateful Mabel Webster. She won't allow Jane to have candles on the altar, and we've got some beautiful ones, hand-dipped. Jane was in hysterics. I had to give her a bromide. It does seem after all our work . . ."

"The altar guild?" James interrupted stupidly. "What's the altar guild got to do with it?"

James was a Congregationalist, the Northrups Episcopalians. James made out finally from Mrs. Northrup's confused explanation that the present Episcopal rector was high church and Mrs. Northrup low church. A year before the rector, then now, had the effort to install candles on the altar and Mrs. Northrup unhappily had fought the innovation tooth and nail.

Now the Janus-faced Mabel Webster had called up that very morning to say that the altar guild, knowing that Jane would not want to have her vows desecrated by candle light and sent the dedicated candle sticks to be repainted and refused absolutely to produce them in spite of persuasion and threats. Mrs. Northrup fairly bounced with rage.

"But . . . but is it so important?" James stammered. He was so disappointed he wanted to die. "Not important to have Jane stabbed in the back? You of all people . . . of course it's important. The candles are an integral part of the decorations. A more heinous, cruel . . . I should think

With the whole town laughing, with ever her bosom friends she had honored as bridesmaids running in and out all afternoon, twittering and whispering and pretending to be sympathetic and actually blaspheming with pleased excitement with Mabel Webster triumphant and Dr. Brown Morton hiding from a just and awful wrath, James actually dared to take the whole shocking insult as a joke!

Jane could have screamed at him over the telephone that he was a heartless fool. If it had not been so late, if the governor and the senator and the justices were not all really there across the street at Judge Holcomb's . . . the bishop due at the Union Station . . . all those thousands her father had spent . . . and Leslie Harris cooling off to Sam Fletcher, now that he had failed of his purpose of arousing James to active interference . . . that cat Leslie eager and anxious to snatch at James.

Jane hung up the telephone receiver and went slowly upstairs.

She must calm herself. She must breathe softly and regularly and still that awful thumping of her heart. Of course she loved James. It was only hysteria that fathered that sudden desire to beat him savagely in the face. All she asked from him was a little human understanding; and he had failed her.

This was to have been her great hour, the supreme climax of her girlhood. She had thought herself loved and admired. And she was laughed at—she, Jane Northrup! And James thought it funny.

At the head of the stairs her mother said firmly, "I've sent for Miss Minnie to come and give you a massage. Take a hot bath first and relax. I'll bring you your supper on a tray. You must relax."

Jane was only too glad to be taken in charge. As she lay in the scented water she managed somehow to make her mind a blank. Afterwards, competently massaged and rubbed with alcohol, her heart stopped its convulsive pumping. She was able to eat her creamed chicken and drink the glass of sherry her father brought her. It was pleasant and comforting to be fussed over, babied as if she had been a little girl.

Jane came of no weaking breed. "I'm all right now," she told her mother at seven o'clock. And she was. Slim and white and virginal, a little wistful and pathetic, but reasonably tranquil, she let herself be dressed in her wedding finery.

Jane sat still for a short while. Then rose and walked slowly to the long pier glass that stood by the window. Not even Leslie Harris and Mabel Webster could truthfully deny that she was beautiful. (To Be Continued)

Church Of Christ Revival Ends Today, Results Are Encouraging

Tonight's service will bring to a close the revival meeting at the Church of Christ. The visiting evangelist, J. P. Crenshaw of Sweetwater, will speak on "Believing a Lie." Tuesday night five responded to the invitation; three for baptism, and two for restoration. Mr. Crenshaw spoke on "New Testament Conversion." He said in part:

"Possibly no one thing has been proclaimed in such widely varying terms as has New Testament conversion. All kinds of different doctrines lead, according to those who preach them, to many peculiar experiences which honest men and women mistake for a proof of conversion. In the New Testament we find eight cases of conversion set forth in detail, showing us just what inspired men taught and just how that teaching was accepted and the commands including therein obedience. Thus, if we read all of those cases, we may then lay aside all human uninspired teaching on this important subject, and come to a complete understanding of exactly what constitutes New Testament conversion.

"In the second chapter of Acts we find the first full gospel sermon recorded, and from the thirty-sixth verse to the close of the chapter, we see men and women calling for a divine instruction as to how they could be saved, and we hear God through the mouth of the apostle Peter give a full and direct answer. They were told to 'repent and be baptized for the remission of sins'—verse 38.

"In the eighth chapter of Acts we have two cases of conversion recorded. From the fourth to the twelfth verses we read of the Samaritans accepting the simple gospel. Here is what they did: 'But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of Christ and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women'—verse 12. From the twenty-sixth verse through the thirty-ninth we read of the conversion of the Ethiopian Eunuch.

"In the sixth chapter of Acts, verses one to eighteen, we read of the conversion of Saul of Tarsus. He was changed by the power of the Gospel from the leading persecutor of the church to the great apostle unto the Gentiles. In the twenty-second chapter of Acts, verses six to sixteen, we read Paul's own account of this remarkable conversion, telling us that as a penitent believer, he was baptized into Christ—verse sixteen.

"In the tenth chapter of Acts we read of the conversion of Cornelius—the first Gentile convert. He was a man better than the best among us today who was going through life believing that God was not going to be too hard on a splendid moral character. He is told to send for the apostle Peter who will tell him words whereby he and his house shall be saved. The entire chapter is devoted to the obedience of this fine man.

"In the sixteenth chapter of Acts, verses fourteen and fifteen; Lydia, the first convert in Europe, obeyed and urged the apostle to make her house his home. Later in the same chapter, verses twenty-five to thirty-three, the Philippian jailer asked 'what must I do to be saved?' He is told in plain words 'Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house'—verse thirty.

"Snatched—The Tammany boys at Albany have maneuvered Mayor LaGuardia into another tough spot by passing a bill restoring the pay cuts of New York City's Civil Service employees and then recalling it on the ground that it's unconstitutional unless requested in an emergency message from the Governor. The Governor has an out because the Mayor hasn't asked for such legislation. The Mayor doesn't want it because he has budget troubles enough already—but no explanation he can make is likely to appease the city workers who see the price proffered them and then snatched from their grasp. And don't forget they account for an awful lot of votes.

"Hopes—Clarence Woolley of American Radiator wants 'no more investigations or laws to restrict business or create fear.' New York big-business warmly agree. But they sadly add 'and so does Al Smith want to rent the 60 vacant floors in the Empire State Building.'

"Sidelights—Informed sources say that the Chase Bank carries a $500,000,000 balance every night for lack of somewhere to invest it. The excess reserves of Federal Reserve member banks are due to reach new record highs. A number of brokers are staying in business by grace of what they can earn on customers' debit balances. alone will prove the only salvation for the oil business."

Umpire System

The proposed bill does not set up federal control of the oil industry, according to Mr. Fell, but creates an umpire system. He compared the oil industry to a baseball game and pointed out the need of an umpire to which arguments between states in regard to petroleum production may be settled. He described the legislation as necessary to stabilization of the oil industry. "You can't have stabilization without conservation and you can't have conservation without stabilization," he said.

In closing Mr. Fell urged oil men to let their representatives in congress known their desires as to legislation, whatever they may be. Joseph Edwards, a director of the IPA, spoke briefly, stating that he appreciated the turnout of local oil men to the meeting, and offered his assistance to the program outlined by this organization. The banquet and speaking was arranged by Mr. Edwards, Robert Piner, E. F. Robbins and Ben La Fevre.

Housing Program Hits Fine Stride

With as much as $20,000 already definitely committed by home owners to loan applications, the FHA Better Housing program was swinging into full stride here Wednesday.

Five additional inquiries Wednesday morning said that they wanted to apply for FHA loans in order to do repair and modernization work.

Two others said they contemplated new construction and asked that indication was given Wednesday morning by another person that he intended to apply for a $10,000 FHA loan with which to construct a new residence.

All of this was being done as canvassers had hardly started work in gaining information from tenants and home owners of the town as to work possible under the FHA program.

Seven persons started work Wednesday morning on the house to house canvass. By noon they had contacted a large number of residents and owners, most of whom listed needed repairs.

A. C. Kyles, FHA representative, assisting Mrs. Eck Lovelace in launching the Better Housing campaign here, expressed such gratification as to the impending success of the program locally that he said he might remain here longer than planned.

He planned to confer with P. S. Luttrell, associate FHA director for the northern district of Texas, in Colorado Wednesday evening.

West Texas Historians To Meet in Brownwood

Historians of West Texas will gather at Brownwood, Saturday May 4 for their eleventh annual meeting according to E. N. Landers, Secretary-Treasurer. A program made up of materials particularly relating to West Texas and participated in by some who had a part in the making will be given. President R. C. Crane of Sweetwater together with Dr. H. N. Richardson of Abilene has arranged for stories of both local and general interest.

The West Texas Historical association was organized in 1923 at Abilene by a group of citizens interested in the preservation of material especially relative to their section. The first bulletin or Year Book containing the results of their work was issued soon thereafter. This Year Book has been issued each year since that time and the material of the program at Brownwood will be printed as volume is said to be one of the most dependable sources of information available for West Texas history.

Professor T. R. Havins of Howard Payne College is in active charge of local arrangements at Brownwood. The chamber of commerce and other civic organizations are aiding Professor Havins in his plans for the entertainment of the visitors.

The present officers of the association are: President, R. C. Crane, Sweetwater; vice-president, W. E. Brown, Abilene; Mrs. W. W. Carson, San Angelo; Col. M. L. Crimmins, New York City; Secretary-Treasurer, E. N. Landers, Abilene; Publication committee, R. N. Richardson, Abilene, W. C. Holden, Lubbock, C. C. Rister, Norman, Oklahoma; Other members of Executive Committee, W. C. Holden, Lubbock, G. C. Boswell, Abilene, T. R. Havins, Brownwood, Fred Cockrell, Abilene.

Natatorium Bonds Are Received Here

Big Spring Wednesday stood on the verge of hearing a work order issued for construction of the municipal swimming pool and bathhouse.

FWA bonds for the project were received here Wednesday morning and were to be signed and sent to Austin Wednesday afternoon. City Manager E. V. Spence said.

The state comptroller will register the bonds immediately and forward them to the federal reserve bank in Dallas.

Money for the project will then be sent here from Dallas. With receipt of the money, the order will be issued and work will start within ten days.

The entire procedure should not require more than three days, it was believed by city officials.

DO YOU HATE TO MEET PEOPLE?

SOME of us are so bashful that whenever a new face appears before us we mentally duck away! Maybe it isn't shyness so much as simply not realizing how very interesting new acquaintances can be.

Some people are shy about new foods too. One family we know has had pork and beans every Saturday night for ten years, and they see no reason for changing!

How much more interesting life—and dinner!—would be for that family with a new kind of meat, a vegetable prepared some other way, a new style in dessert. New foods—new faces—brighten our days and help make living an exciting game.

Look through the advertisements in this newspaper today for new IDEAS IN FOODS. They're here, in abundance . . . recipes, tried and tested . . . favorite platters of favorite people . . . exotic dishes from exotic lands.

British Ignore

Chancellor Says Country
Has Recovered Most Of Prosperity

LONDON (UP)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain Tuesday presented Great Britain with a $4,000,000,000 balanced budget for 1935-36 ignoring the $4,000,000,000 war debt to the United States, and revealing that a large part of the entire expenditures in the next year would be for armaments.

The thin-lipped guardian of the treasury at the same time threw a sop to the populace by restoring government employees' pay cuts, effective July 1, and reducing income taxes in the lower brackets. There is a general election next year.

Chamberlain told the empire that "Britain has recovered 80 per cent of her prosperity." He produced one of the most adroit budgets in years, practically balanced, showing a surplus of $400,000,000 ($2,425,000,000) and with virtually all favors distributed to the poor.

The chancellor's estimates for the fiscal year now under way, including such self-balancing items as the post office, follow:

Revenues—$24,770,000 pounds ($4,000,124,500).

Expenditures—$24,327,000 pounds ($3,997,709,500).

Surplus—$443,000 pounds ($715,000).

A financial statement issued simultaneously showed the British debt to the United States as $4,386,000,000, but as expected, Chamberlain made no reference to this obligation.

Three Angelo Doctors And Four Druggists Charged
With Violations

SAN ANGELO—Three San Angelo doctors and four local druggists were arrested here Tuesday afternoon by federal narcotic agents and Deputy United States Marshal C. S. Browns of Abilene on charges of violating and conspiracy to violate the Harrison Narcotic Act.

Dr. C. B. Quinton, the last arrested of the group, remained in jail early this morning. His bond was set at $5,000. He was charged with violation.

Dr. D. L. Hess and Dr. R. H. Lindley, charged with violation, were each released under $3,500 bonds.

C. S. and Paul M. Galloway, charged with conspiracy to violate, were free under $2,500 bonds, each; L. E. McAllister and J. T. Lindley, charged with violation, were also freed under bonds of the same amount.

The last four named are in the drug business here.

Dr. Lindley and J. T. Lindley father and son, furnished cash bonds in the form of cashier's checks totaling $4,000.

Dr. Quinton was expected to make his bond sometime Wednesday.

The federal men arrived here shortly before noon yesterday and were at work at once with United States Commissioner Jesse Couch. Commissioner Couch set the bonds after each defendant had pleaded not guilty.

It had been predicted during the past three or four weeks that a narcotic probe would be made in San Angelo following arrests and raids in other sections of the state and after a local woman was arrested following an attempt of smuggle six half-grain tablets of morphine to known addicts in the county jail.

Sheriff Frank Van Court and his deputies have been rounding up the known addicts for several weeks and possibly eight or ten are now confined to the county jail on sentences assessed on various charges.

Federal officers were notified of the attempt to smuggle the morphine to the prisoners and a copy of a statement she made to officers was forwarded to the Fort Worth office.

The regular spring term of the San Angelo federal court is scheduled to be opened here next Monday, April 22.

W. N. Connell,
Retired Cowman,
Dies In Midland

W. N. Connell, 79, retired cattleman of Midland, died shortly before noon Tuesday of a heart attack, at his home, 121 North Big Spring street. He had been in ill health for several years and had grown weaker during recent months.

Only Mrs. Connell was with him at the time of his sudden death. She said he had appeared to feel unusually well Tuesday morning, having eaten a hearty breakfast. During the morning he asked for a book to read and had rested quietly on a divan as he read.

At about 11 o'clock he called to her, saying he felt ill. She administered medicine which he had used for years. She was aided by occupants of an apartment upstairs and a physician was quickly summoned, but Mr. Connell lived only a few minutes.

Miss Eleanor Connell, who lives with her parents here, had gone to Abilene Monday afternoon to bring her sister, Miss Lady Connell, home after an operation from which she was recuperating. They arrived here Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by a third sister, Mrs. C. C. Cowden of Abilene.

Besides his wife and three daughters, Mr. Connell is survived by his son, William Connell of Las Vegas, Nevada; a brother, Ed Connell, of Hereford, Tex.; two sisters, Mrs. Andrew Cox of Artesia, N. M., and Mrs. W. F. Clement of Thorsdale, Tex.; a cousin, J. B. Wills of Taylor, and a cousin, W. E. Connell of Fort Worth.

Born in Milam county, Texas, October 19, 1856, W. N. Connell came to the Midland section over twenty years ago, ranging first in Martin county and later in Upton county. His children were educated in the Midland schools. He had spent much time in California since retiring from active business but had been at his home here for several months.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon with interment in Midland cemetery. Weeds, vines, trellis work, window boxes. Unusual things that impress you. Permanency of planting.

Members of the Garden club met at the Garden club Tuesday afternoon to discuss the trip to El Paso and the beautification contest being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

The Fort Worth officials who stopped by to visit the local club enroute to the convention in Los Angeles conferred with the officers regarding the practicability of putting on a western convention in El Paso. It was decided to set the date for April 23 and to limit the session to one day.

Mrs. Henry Trigg, of Fort Worth, regional vice-president of this section, said that the program would be devoted to an address in the morning by a competent speaker on flowers and plants adapted to the semi-arid section of this part of the United States, followed by a luncheon. In the afternoon all visitors would be shown the most beautiful gardens in El Paso.

Since Big Spring is one of the most active garden club cities in this part of the country members are making a special effort to go. All members of the club are eligible and those with cars or desiring to join a motor party are asked to get in touch with either Mrs. J. M. Morgan, president, or Mrs. W. D. Willbanks, secretary.

The present plans are to leave Big Spring Monday morning, April 22nd and return Wednesday.

Mrs. Gordon Phillips of the Chamber of Commerce addressed members of the club and answered questions about the yard beautification contest.

This is the first year the Chamber of Commerce has devoted itself to such form of civic improvements, she said.

The public as a whole, although interested in the project, seems timid about entering, she continued. Members of the Garden club, all of whom will be working in their yards, should take the lead and every member should join the contest for the sake of the city as a whole.

Members were asked also to give out information to the public about the contest and to answer questions. The contest is not limited to garden club members, however, but to anyone interested in setting an example of yard improvement.

Those interested are asked to go by the Chamber of Commerce office and fill out an entry card.

The details and point system by which the yards will be judged is as follows:

Front Yard

1. Attractiveness—15 points.

(a) General impression (5 points). (Hospitality, homelikeness, appearance from street).

(b) Details (10 points). Plantings well to boundaries, rather than "cluttered" about the lawn. Plantings to form a "frame" for most attractive parts of the house, keeping house as dominant "center of interest." Foundation plantings well chosen. Shade formed by trees. All season bloom. Brain Thought
Transferred To
Paper By Wire

DETROIT (AP)—Thought was transferred silently and directly from the human brain to appear by electric wires here Monday.

The substance of these thoughts could not be read on the paper. But they recorded their passage through the brain with startling distinctness.

With a similar hook-up also of the muscles of the human body telegraphed an electric record of their fatigue and wrote it on paper.

Both experiments were shown by Harvard scientists to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. In both cases the body supplied all the electrical current, energies of a few millionths of a volt which naturally flow uninterruptedly throughout life.

Fine needles were thrust into the flesh painlessly with aid of anesthetics. Wires attached to the needles carried the body's electrical messages.

For thought recording one needle was in the scalp, the other in the part of the ear used for earrings. The brain messages were amplified enough to move a pen.

The experiment began with a man sitting still, his mind and body both at rest. The needle traced a wavy line, with about nine waves a second.

"Close your eyes," he was told. As he did so, instantly the waves became larger, and a trifle slower. Their rhythm showed even a more restful brain with eyes shut than open, probably because the eyes were no longer busy seeing objects in the room.

"Now multiply in your head 21

by 32," he was commanded.

Almost instantly the waves ceased. In their place the ink line became smooth, as if pressure were placed on it.

In a moment the man spoke the answer, "672."

As he did so, the waves came back to the electric current produced by his brain.

Then a surprise. The waves stopped abruptly—the smooth line came back. Then the man said: "Yes—672—that's right."

He had been checking his result, the needle recorded this check, thought before he could speak it. As he finished the check, the waves came back.

"Now," he was told, "spell alpha-amino-beth-hydroxybutyric acid."

This is a new word coined by chemists at this meeting for a life-giving isolated from food proteins.

As the man under the wires spelled the words, the needle again drew a smooth line.

Lumber Industry
Shows Revival

AUSTIN—The lumber industry is beginning to show signs of revival, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Reports for March from the Southern Pine association reveal favorable comparisons both with the previous month and March last year.

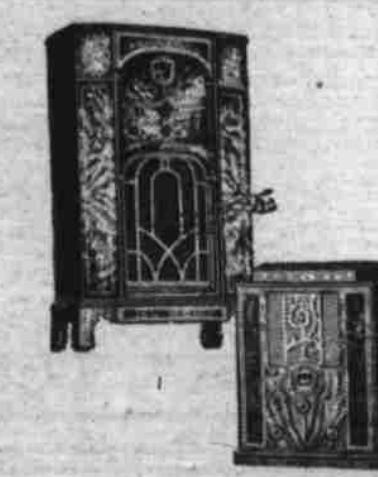

Production totaled 238,478 board feet per unit, slightly more than in February and 4.5 per cent greater than March, 1933. Shipments of 241,421 board feet were up 5.3 per cent and 19 per cent respectively for the two comparable periods.

Unfilled orders on March 31 totaled 582,371 board feet, 8 per cent greater than on the last day of February but 36 per cent under March 31 last year.

Is Your Car over
70 horsepower?

If it is, you must have motor oil of extra high film strength to get SAFE LUBRICATION

YOUR car today has twice the horsepower and speed of the car you drove ten years ago! The average of 22 leading cars in 1934 was 108 horsepower.

Bearing pressures and temperature have increased correspondingly—so greatly that motor parts are now made of new alloy metals of extra strength and durability to stand the load!

To protect such a motor you need an oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to withstand the extreme pressures and temperature!

Yet motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had ten years ago. New refining methods have recently come into use to make oils free from carbon and sludge. But these refining processes have lowered instead of increased oiliness and film strength—the very qualities on which depends an oil's lubricating value!

There is one exception—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. It, too, is free from carbon and sludge troubles. But, more important, the new Germ Process—adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil—puts into this oil 2 to 4 times the film strength of any straight mineral oil, as tests on Timken and other machines have proved! That extra film strength gives safe lubrication under the most extreme pressures! Germ Processed Oil protects your motor another way. Its penetrative film, the "Hidden Quark," stays up in your motor and cuts down starting wear.

Germ Processed Oil gives longer mileage with greater motor protection, as the Indianapolis Destruction Test proved.

Say "O. K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and drive with the assurance that your oil meets your motor's needs!
