First Army Is Holding Half Of Aachen

Canadians Closing On Entrance To Antwerp Port

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 19—British Tommies and American armor rocked the Germans back toward Venlo on the Maas (Meuse) from the Holland salient today in what appeared to be the preliminaries to an offensive aimed at breaking organized resistance before Christmas.

West of Antwerp in Belgium Canadian forces were less than two miles from the German guns at Breskens commanding the sea entrance to the port from the pocket south of the Schelde.

In Aachen U. S. First army troops, again smashing German tank and infantry counterthrusts northeast of the Siegfried line city, held about half the wrecked city and smashed on into the northwestern quarter where fighters and fighter bombers pinpointed strongpoints ahead of the bazooka and grenade squads.

British Drive Mounts

Coincident with Berlin's report of a savage Russian onslaught against East Prussia's defenses, the German radio declared that the British offensive in East Holland, "in support of the American attack on Aachen, has increased in violence."

The timing raised the possibility of a grand strategy plan to beat the Nazis by smashing simultaneously at East Prusia, heart of German militarism, while wrecking the Rhine-Ruhr valley, the center of German industry.

An Associated Press war correspondent with the British Second army said Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's troops, striking swiftly after taking Venray, had advanced about three and a half miles south toward the railroad town of Amerika. An American armored column was converging at a distance of five miles upon the same objective from the east.

Nazi Holdings Trimmed

The Germans had been eliminated from all but about seven square miles of territory west of the Maas, and the Allies were within 30 miles of Duisburg in the Ruhr.

Berlin said Dempsey had concentrated strong forces in the area to annihilate the Germans' Maas bridgehead—an objective which would straighten the line along the Dutch border in preparation for an Allied cross-river assault.

In a desperate effort to avoid being trapped on the west bank, the Germans apparently were fall-

U. S. Casualties Reach 453,375

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP) — United States Army casualties on the western land front, from the i vasion on June 6 through October 3, numbered 174,780.

Air force casualties are not included in this figure announced today by the War department.

Of the total, 29,842 were killed 130,227 wounded and 14,711 missing.

The casualties include those of the Seventh army which landed in southern France as well as those fighting in France, the Lowlands and the German bomber region.

Since the start of the war, the combined Army and Navy casualty total is 453,375, compared with 417,085 two weeks ago.

Army Casualties 384,895

Army casualties for all theaters through October 6 were 384,895, an increase of 33,602 since the last announcement of casualty figures October 5.

Part of the increase, the department said, "is due to a revised and improved statistical system which permits a more up-to-date picture of the situation. However, there inevitably remains a time lag of about 15 days between actual casualties and the receipt of individual reports for accounting at the War department."

Of the 384,895 casualties, 75,562 are dead, including those who died of wounds as well as battle field deaths; 208,392 are wounded (excluding those who died of wounds); 48,404 are missing and 52,537 are captured and interned.

The latest Navy casualty figure is 68,480, an increase of 2,688 in two weeks.

O'Daniel News Hearing Opens

Big Contributions Are Disclosed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 — A sharp verbal clash between Senators O'Daniel (D-Texas) and Tunnell (D-Del) broke out today at a hearing by the Senate Campaign Expenditures committee into the financing of the anti-New Deal Texas Senator's weekly newspaper.

Mrs. O'Daniel, appearing voluntarily before the committee, had finished reading a prepared statement in which she asserted that Chairman Green (D-RI) of the committee had made a "vicious and unwarranted attack" against her husband.

On the point of leaving the witness chair, she remained to answer questions by Senator Ball (R-Minn) regarding circulation figures of the W. Lee O'Daniel News. After one of Ball's questions Senator O'Daniel, who had drawn up a chair next to his wife, leaned over and whispered to her.

Tunnell Interrupts

Tunnell interrupted the proceedings at this point with:

"I suggest that the Senator not prompt the witness."

O'Daniel shot back:

"I suggest that if you don't like my sitting here by my wife you remove the Senator from Texas."

The Delaware Senator turned to Green and said:

"I make that suggestion, Mr. chairman."

Green ignored the suggestion, however, and the hearing proceeded with Mrs. O'Daniel testifying that practically all printed copies of the newspaper, or about 70,000 weekly, are distributed.

Mrs. O'Daniel Editor

Mrs. O'Daniel, listed as editor of the publication, had asked for permission to attend the hearing and Chairman Green had told her to come along. If she had any useful information, he said, she could testify.

The main witness is Garfield Crawford, business manager of the paper and treasurer of the Common Citizens Radio league.

The Senate investigators heard Robert M. Harris, who helped organize the anti-fourth term American Democratic National committee, testify yesterday that he had sent a cashier's check for $1,000 to the league, along with

U. S. Participated In Romanian Armistice

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (AP)—The State department said today in a statement prompted by Gov. Thomes E. Dewey's foreign policy speech last night that the United States government participated "at all stages" in Romanian armistice negotiations.

The statement also described the Romanian armistice as "a military document and not a peace settlement" and said for that reason that it had been signed on behalf of the United States, Britain and Russia by the Soviet theater commander, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovski.

Dewey, addressing the New York Herald Tribune forum last night, said "this was no military armistice. That agreement fixed the future frontiers of Romania. It disposed of Bessarabia and Transylvania, two of the worst trouble spots of Europe. It dealt with economic matters."

The White House earlier had told newsmen to look at the State department for comment on Dewey's speech because it dealt with foreign policy.

Nazis Pull Back In Prussia

Enemy Flees Border Town As Russian Onslaught Knifes Deeper In Province

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Russian forces backed by 500 tanks have penetrated well into East Prussia where the German border town of Eydtkuhnen has been evacuated, the Berlin radio said today.

"The deepest Russian penetration" was in the Eydtkuhnen area 37 miles east of Insterburg and the Red army has passed this town, Berlin said. "The Russians have advanced farther on German soil."

The German communique acknowledged loss of the town but insisted that a breakthrough had been averted.

Tremendous infantry and tank forces were being hurled against the homeland of the Junker generals to "achieve a grand scale break through at all costs," the enemy said.

Front Widened Overnight

The front was widened from 30 to 45 miles overnight with the Russians extending their attacks to the area of Suwalki, center of a triangle which Hitler annexed from Poland to East Prussia in 1939.

The Germans early tonight reported another Russian offensive along a 60-mile strength of the Narew river above Warsaw which they declared was aimed at the Baltic port of Danzig, where some of the first shots of the war were fired.

Would Cut Off Province

Success of such a campaign would cut off the entire province of East Prussia. The front was reported extending from Serock, north of Warsaw, to Nowograd, 15 miles south of the East Prussian border. Serock, however, is 160 airline miles from Danzig.

"The Russians quite obviously mean to tear open the German front by simultaneous right and left hooks from the Narew bridgeheads and the area between Suwalki and Schirwindt," the Berlin broadcast said.

Berlin tacitly acknowledged in yesterday's communique that the great new Russian offensive had plunged across the East Prussia border and reached another frontier town of Schirwindt, nine miles northeast of Eydtkuhnen. Moscow has not yet announced the drive.

Submarine Training Station

Eydtkuhnen, 87 miles east of Konigsberg, capital of East Prussia, is a German submarine training station. It is the first German settlement which the Nazis have abandoned in the east.

"The battle is rising in intensity and taking on greater proportions," Berlin radio said. "The Russians have brought up most of their forces from Finland and Estonia and flung them into the fray."

The enemy said the drive, under command of the 36-year-old Russian Jewish general, Ivan D. Cherniakovsky, was aimed at Insterburg, major Prussian rail center. The battle was reported savage all along a 30-mile front from Schirwindt to Kalvarija in Lithuania.

'Winning Peace' Is Campaign Keynote

(By The Associated Press)

Campaigning in America's first wartime election in 80 years struck hard today on winning and keeping the peace, with Republicans and Democrats sharply at odds on which man could best run the job.

And more is yet to come—in a Saturday night speech by President Roosevelt at New York, where his policies in diplomacy were assailed last night by Governor Dewey as resulting in American soldiers "paying in blood."

"I am convinced," Dewey said in a broadcast from the New York Herald Tribune forum, "that to the extent that we leave our international relations to the personal secret diplomacy of the president, our efforts to secure a lasting peace will fail."

Germans Are Terrified

Germans have been terrified "into fanatical resistance" and are "fighting with the frenzy of despair," he said, because of "our failure to have ready an intelligent program for dealing with invaded Germany."

Indicating vigorously the administration's handling of foreign affairs, the Republican presidential nominee said that it would be a "great disaster" if "a few individual rulers should in secret conferences try to shape the future peace of the world."

"We must make certain that our participation in (this) world organization is not subjected to reservations that would nullify the power of that organization to maintain peace and to halt future aggression. The surest way to invite disaster is to insist that everything must be perfect from the start," he said.

Isolationist Cited

Doubt that Dewey, if elected, could "buck the known and recognized powerful isolationist forces in the Republican party" was expressed in Raleigh, N. C., by Josephus Daniels, secretary of the Navy under Woodrow Wilson. Daniels said in a radio talk:

"There is only one great issue before the American people. It is, after victory, to win the peace and undergird it. And only one candidate (President Roosevelt), by his record and forthright consistent pledges, can be trusted to win this goal."

President Quick To Aid; Baby En Route To U. S.

LONDON, Oct. 19. (U.P.) — The kindly intervention of President Roosevelt opened the way today for a new life behind America's tranquil shores for the nameless child of an American soldier and a British girl.

The infant, born out of wedlock, was being taken by an American Army nurse by train to a northern airport, from where the Air Transport command will fly the little tot to the United States.

It developed today that the baby's passport had been misplaced, and the transatlantic flight would be delayed perhaps 24 hours. If the passport isn't found, experts figure they can have a new one ready within a day.

Only a handful of persons know the baby's name. One is an American Army chaplain in England, and another the nurse, Lt. Evelyn Anderson. But all have taken an oath never to reveal the infant's identity.

The same people also knew the details of a tragic romance in Liverpool, where the father was sent to France and killed in action before he couid marry the girl he loved.

An appeal of the soldier's parents to the War department brought explanations there were "no provisions . . ." The grandparents wrote the President. They wanted the baby in a land where the stain of its birth wouldn't be known. So . . .

Regulars-GOP Coalition Out; Wichita Falls Rally Is Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

There will be no coalition of Republicans and anti-Roosevelt Democrats in the presidential race in Texas.

This became clear today as Republicans announced they had

DOLLARS CONTRIBUTED

Contributions of $1 each by local members of the Democratic party here are to pay for broadcast expense over KFYO tonight of the speech of Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma at Wichita Falls. The speech will be broadcast over KFYO from 9 until 9:30 o'clock.

Funds to pay for the broadcast were secured by solicitations on downtown streets by S. E. McMillan, local real estate dealer.

"You'd be surprised how many persons came around and voluntarily contributed to the pot after they heard it was being solicited," McMillan said this morning.

flatly turned down such a proposition from the Regulars.

What the Regulars will do next remained a mystery today but pro-Roosevelt Democrats advertised their plans—a major vote-gathering rally at Wichita Falls featuring probably the largest gathering of front-rank politicians yet to meet in the current campaign in Texas.

A prepared statement by R. B. Creager of Brownsville, Republican national committeeman from Texas, was issued by the Dewey-Bricker committee in Dallas. It said "it is now too late for a mixed ticket."

Not only did the Republican statement dash all anti-Roosevelt party's hopes of GOP backing but the Creager statement said: "The method by which the Texas Regulars nominated their electors is legally questionable. "We think

Storm Imperils Atlantic Coast

Florida's Fruit Crop Damaged

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 19—The Atlantic coastline from Daytona Beach to Cape Hatteras, N. C., was threatened today by a severe tropical hurricane that struck the Florida west coast before dawn and headed rapidly across the state toward Jacksonville.

The weather bureau reported at 10 a. m. that hurricane warnings had been hoisted from Daytona to Cape Hatteras in anticipation of winds of 60 to 80 miles an hour velocity.

The blow was moving across state at a rate of 18 to 20 miles an hour and will pass into the Atlantic near Jacksonville.

No Casualties Reported

No loss of life or casualties were reported from the hurricane which earlier caused perhaps a dozen deaths, injured between 300 and 400 persons and sank at least three small vessels in Cuba.

Severe damage to the state's record crop of oranges and grapefruit was reported from such citrus centers as Lakeland, Orlando, Ocala, and Deland and growers feared that in addition to losing much of this year's expected record crop, many trees may not bear again for another year or two.

Power failed at Jacksonville three hours before the full force of the storm hit and shipyards had declared a holiday to permit workers to board up their homes and seek safe haven.

Gales Hit South Georgia

Fifty mile winds were recorded at the South Georgia shipyard center of Brunswick and gusty squalls were expected this afternoon as far inland in Georgia as Macon.

Scores of Army and Navy planes which had been flown from Florida bases to Georgia, took off again for other states, some flying to Maxwell field and other airfields in Alabama.

Communications were disrupted over most of Florida south of Jacksonville and power failure was reported in numerous towns, including Tampa, Sarasota, and Gainesville. Numerous radio stations were forced off the air.

At Tampa considerable property damage was caused by broken

Kimmel, Short Have Testified In Probe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. (U.P.)—Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short have testified before the Army and Navy boards inquiring into the circumstances surrounding the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, it was learned authoritatively today.

Both men, who were top Army and Navy commanders in the Pacific at the time of the attack, appeared separately before each board.

The boards, which were set up July 14, were reported to have completed their investigation and to be preparing reports for the secretaries of war and Navy.

Secretary of Navy James Forrestal said he expected to receive the Navy board's report in the near future. He added that he did not know whether the report would be made public immediately; that it depended on its nature. Forrestal said he intended to read the report first before determining the next course of action.

Kimmel, who was commander in chief of the U. S. fleet and Pacific fleet, and Short, commander of Army forces in the Hawaiian area, at the time of the Japanese attack, both have been ordered tried by court martial, but trial has been postponed on grounds of military security.

William C. Wood Elected Head Of Kiwanis; Mayor Is Speaker

William C. Wood, a Lubbock businessman, was elected president of the Kiwanis club at today's Luncheon program of the organization in Lubbock hotel. He was elevated from first vice president.

DeWitt Landis was elected first vice president, Robert J. Allen second vice president, and nine directors were named, T. E. Buckner, outgoing president automatically becoming an ex-officio director: Ben F. Brewer, Milton C. Butler, Meritt Clark, Harry D. Delaney, W. Roy Faubion, Jason O. Gordon, John Halsey, William P. Martin and Joseph C. Rigney.

Principal speaker was Mayor Overton W. Ribble, who outlined Lubbock's plans for the postwar period. Giving as the number 1 postwar problem water supply, he said engineers and scientists already are working on plans for establishment of a water supply for a possible population of 150,000.

Costs of providing an abundant and reliable water supply are estimated now at about $200,000.

Outlining further the postwar plans blueprinted and a few already under way, he said costs of such work will run about $875,000. A partial breakdown of this

Central Islands Reported Attacked By 3 U.S. Units

Sea And Aerial Might Of MacArthur Command, Fifth Fleet Support Assault; Carrier Planes Hit Manila, Clark Field

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

The long-promised American invasion of the Philippines is under way, Tokyo radio reported today.

"Reinvasion of the Philippines" began Tuesday, Domei news agency said, with forces of three American commands striking at the vulnerable Central Philippines.

Tuesday was exactly two years and six months after Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, in Australia, "I came through and I shall return."

Domei said the invasion was supported by combined sea forces of MacArthur and Vice Adm. Raymond Spruance's Fifth fleet and land-based aircraft from China, Palau and Morotai.

The Fifth fleet has not been mentionad heretofore as participating in current western Pacific operations. All official American reports have named only the powerful Third fleet of Adm. William F. Halsey as conducting carrier plane warfare against the Ryukyu islands, Formosa and the northern Philippines since Oct. 9.

Powerful naval task forces and transports "invaded" Leyte gulf on the eastern side of the Central Philippines, Tuesday (Manilla time) and for two days have been shelling and bombing defense establishments, said an Imperial communique heard by the Federal Communications commission.

Land On Suluan Island

"Part of the enemy forces seem to have landed on Suluan island" at the mouth of the gulf, an earlier Domei news agency broadcast reported.

Simultaneously Manila radio announced 270 carrier borne planes, sweeping over Luzon island in four waves, bombed Manila and Clark field's big air installations this morning.

Japanese reports that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces have returned to the Philippines overshadowed Allied capture of two strategic Nipponese bases and a reported three-day British air and naval bombardment of the Nicobar islands in the Indian ocean on Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's route to Singapore.

British Capture Tiddim

British troops captured Tiddim, southwest Burma springboard for Japan's ill-fated invasion of India last March.

U. S. amphibious forces captured Ngulu atoll in the western Carolines against slight resistance. Ngulu lies between recently conquered Ulithi and southern Palau, east of the southern Philippines.

Official Tokyo's brief announcement—unconfirmed by any U. S. sources — that U. S. warships and transports "invaded Leyte gulf" did not specifically say that assault waves had landed. The task force entered the 80 mile long gulf Tuesday, the communique said, and on Wednesday the naval guns opened up and carrier aircraft swooped down on Nipponese defensive installations.

"Intercepting Enemy Forces"

Japanese "navy and army units" the communique added, "are at present intercepting this enemy force." Tokyo uses this phraseology variously to describe ground fighting, aerial interception, or no defense at all.

A landing anywhere around big Leyte gulf, some 400 miles from Manila, would put MacArthur's forces in position for land-based air sweeps over the entire Philippines.

The enemy has six landing fields within 25 miles of the gulf on Samar and Leyte islands. Lowlying Suluan is adaptable to development as an unsinkable aircraft carrier.

915 Jap Planes Bagged

Carrier planes in a week of pounding the Philippines, Formosa and the Ryukyu islands to the north, have destroyed 915 Japanese planes and hundreds of

Third Fleet Building Impressive Record

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Oct. 19 (AP)—The American Third fleet has been so busy against the Japanese, operating much of the time under radio silence, that Adm. William F. Halsey, jr., hasn't had the opportunity to list the complete enemy losses in ships and planes.

This is the incomplete backward glance.

Oct. 9, Third fleet carrier planes raked the Ryukyus. Oct. 10, they opened attacks on the Philippines. Oct. 11, 12 and 13, they blasted Formosa. Then for the next two days the task force fought off Japanese planes.

The incomplete report of shipping losses inflicted runs like this:

Ryukyus—46 ships sunk, 11 probably sunk, 20 damaged; 41 small craft sunk, many damaged.

32 Sunk Off Formosa

Formosa—32 ships sunk, 27 probably sunk, 41 damaged; more than 105 small craft sunk or damaged.

Philippines—7 ships sunk or set afire.

De Gaulle To Be Recognized

LONDON, Oct. 19 (U.P.) — The British government has decided to recognize Gen. Charles de Gaulle's administration as the provisional government of France, the United Press learned from reliable sources today.

The recognition probably will be announced simultaneously with release soon by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to the French administration of a large part of France as a "zone of interior."

One highly placed source said British recognition might have been granted sooner had the United States been ready to take simultaneous action. It was generally understood that the United States and Britain had taken concerted action.

Few Strings Attached

The British recognition was expected to be complete with few strings attached except possibly in matters dealing with military exigencies of the moment.

The British government was said to feel that the time has come to put the administration of France fully in the hands of the de Gaulle government, particu-

Governor Endorses State Amendments

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (U.P.) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today gave his endorsement to both amendments to the state constitution upon which the people will vote Nov. 7.

One of them permits counties to change the allocation of tax funds without increasing the total levy, and the other authorizes a system of pension for municipal employes.

Stevenson pointed out that before either can be done, the people of the affected community must approve the plans in local election, which he considered ample safeguard.

The need to readjust funds, he said, may be felt especially in the postwar period.

Scientific Academy Slated For Nov. 9-11

GALVESTON, Oct. 19. (U.P.) — The next meeting of the Texas Academy of Science will be held in Galveston Nov. 9, 10 and 11 at the University of Texas School of Medicine, Dr. John G. Sinclair, professor of Anatomy of the medical college staff, announced today.

One feature of the three-day program will be a symposium on the topic, "Health in the Coastal Areas of Texas," to be held on the opening day.

Service Voting Is Hitting Many Snags

By ED CREACH
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Somehow or other, servicemen and women from all 48 states are going to vote for the next president, but the only smooth part of the process in some of the states is the paper the ballots are printed on.

Wrong addresses, schedule mixups and improperly marked ballots are furrowing the brows of election officials from Pennsylvania to New Mexico.

At least three states have reported apparent tampering with the ballots which are mailed, sealed, from ships and dugouts in many parts of the world.

Election officials in Wayne county, Michigan, complained to the Department of State that military censors had opened and inspected some ballots. Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton ruled that the ballots would be valid anyway.

Sun Opened Some

Similar reports from Oklahoma brought a suggestion from Republican State Chairman C. R. Nixon that Congress investigate ballot peeking, but no action has been taken. At least four county clerks in Indiana said ballots had been opened.

It wasn't censors but the tropical sun that opened G. I. ballots from New Hampshire. The state met the problem by using a heatproof glue on envelopes mailed to the South Pacific.

In Wyoming, under an act of the 1943 legislature, ballots were denied to servicemen of Japanese ancestry who had been brought into the state by the War Relocation authority, and in South Carolina more than 15,000 ballot applications piled up, uncounted, in state offices.

South Carolina doesn't print a ballot, leaving the printing and distribution to the political parties.

New Mexico Advertisers

Pennsylvania, receiving hundreds of ballots deficient in one way or another, left it up to the county election boards to decide which could be counted. State law provides for "liberal construction" in such matters.

County clerks in New Mexico are advertising in newspapers to find the precincts which should receive ballots addressed with carefree vagueness. Ohio received a few federal soldier ballots but ruled them illegal under a new law which recognizes only the state absentee ballots.

Mississippi Secretary of State Walker Wood said he had "thousands of letters" from servicemen asking thata parties be designated on the ballot, but couldn't comply because a state law dating back to reconstruction days forbids designation of parties. .

Texas' service men using the federal ballot found themselves unable to vote the Texas Regular ticket if they wanted to. The Regulars, in offshoot of the Texas Democrats, didn't bind their presidential electors to vote for any particular person. The federal ballot, however, listed presidential candidates and not electors.

Idaho Governor Is Facing War Worker In Race For Senate

(By The Associated Press)

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 19—Conservative Gov. C. A. Bottolsen, the Republican candidate for Sen. D. Worth Clark's Senate seat, is a stickler for state's rights and bombards the administration for its

C. A. Bottolsen G. Taylor

"bureaucracies, restrictive regulations and usurpation of public lands off the Idaho tax rolls."

He favors international cooperation after the war to keep the peace, he says, but believes no portion of the nation's sovereignty should be surrendered in the process.

Taylor Lost Twice

Glen H. Taylor of Pocatello campaigned twice before for the Senate as the Democratic nominee, but lost both times. He sported full cowboy regalia and sang western songs from a trailer.

This time he has a record as a war worker in San Francisco for the past two years, minus the cowboy hat and songs. He says he may still sing a ballad or two if the occasion arises, but criticizes those who call him a crooner.

He is raising the ghost of the Senior Citizens' Grants Act — a measure passed by initiative on the 1942 ballot to give everyone over 65 a monthly pension of $60 plus many other benefits. The Republican majority in the legislature repealed the act, Bottolsen signed it and an organization known as the Independent Voters League tried to have the governor recalled, but the movement died.

Taylor wants to see a strong international organization to enforce the peace .

Number Of Civilian Employes Declines

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — Employment of civilians in the executive branch of the federal government showed a net decrease of 23,768 during August, Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the joint committee on reduction on nonessential federal expenditures, announced today.

The number of paid civilian employees August 31, Byrd said in a statement issued from the committee office, was 3,088,008. (It was stated this figure did not include 282,281 employes of the War department outside the continental United States).

Governor Appeals For WAC Technicians

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP) — Gov. Coke Stevenson issued an appeal today for eligible Texas women to enlist as WAC medical technicians.

A proclamation, naming Oct. 18-Dec. 31 as "Texas WAC medical technician enlistment period", was presented to Brig. Gen. James A. Bethea, commanding general of McCloskey General hospital and Lt. Fern McGee of the Eighth Service command WAC public relations staff. The enlistment drive in Texas is part of a nationwide search by Army recruiters for 21,000 WAC medical technicians to serve in Army general hospitals.

Keeping His Papers In Order Is Important To War Veteran

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—Here are things for a veteran—and his family—to remember to do when he returns home after his discharge from the service:

GOVERNMENT INSURANCE:

He'll probably want to keep his national service life insurance in force. This insurance he got in the Army. It runs up to $10,000. If it lapses, he won't be able to buy similar protection for himself and family for the same cost.

To keep it up he will have to:

Pay the premiums direct. (In the Army he may have paid it direct but most likely had the money allotted out of his pay.) He should make his check or money order payable to the treasurer of the United States and mail it to the collection subdivision, Veterans' administration, Washington, 25, D.C.

He can arrange to make the payments monthly, quarterly, every six months, or once a year.

His insurance originally was issued on what is called the five-year-level-premium-term. Before those five years are up he can convert it into ordinary life insurance, 20-payment life, or 30-payment life.

The new policy will have a regular cash value after the first year. Then he can borrow from it if necessary.

If he wishes to change his beneficiary, he should write the director of insurance, Veterans' administration, Washington, D.C.

PRIVATE INSURANCE:

Maybe, when he went into the service, he had private life insurance and arranged to have the government protect it for him by guaranteeing the premiums.

If so, when he leaves the service the premiums must be brought up to date, with interest, within two years after his discharge. His insurance company or the Veterans' administration will answer any questions for him.

LEGAL PROTECTION:

The soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act generally protects servicemen and women up to six months after their discharge by making it possible for the courts to suspend enforcement of certain civil liabilities during that time.

In some cases federal and state laws provide for adjustment of six payments by veterans. For information on federal income tax and other federal taxes, the veteran should go to the nearest office of the collector of internal revenue. His own state tax commission at the state capital will answer questions about state income tax and other state taxes.

KEEPING PAPERS IN ORDER:

Every veteran has a serial, service or file number. He should keep a record of it and of other records — such as originals or legal copies of necessary papers—in a safe place where they can be found.

The reason for care with papers: Claims and requests for benefits will usually require certain information, such as his serial number, details of his discharge, and, in some cases, proof.

The most important records are of the relationship of dependents, the following: Army or Marine Corps serial number, Navy service or file number, Coast Guard service number, discharge papers, disability claim — "C" — number, insurance policies, social security card, birth certificates of himself and family, marriage certificate, divorce decrees, last will and testament, and Selective Service registration card.

He should get those records in order now.

From Gibraltar to the Suez canal, by way of the Mediterranean, is about the same distance as New York City is from San Diego, Calif.

Public Warning!

BEWARE OF PIN-WORMS

Wartime living conditions may be the cause of spreading Pin-Worm infection. Scientific reports in many communities have shown at least one-third of the examined children and grown-ups to be victims of Pin-Worms—often without knowing what was wrong!

Watch out for the warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms in your child or yourself: the tormenting, embarrassing rectal itch, the uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting, finicky appetite.

New Discovery Hailed By Doctors

After centuries of distress caused by Pin-Worms, a new and highly effective way to deal with this stubborn pest has recently been discovered. This scientific discovery, hailed by medical authorities, is a remarkable drug (gentian violet). It is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm treatment developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines. P-W tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special way to destroy the creatures.

So don't take chances with Pin-Worms. At the first warning signs, ask your druggist for P-W, and follow the directions.

P-W means Pin-Worm relief!

Changes In Rivers, Harbors Bill Urged

AUSTIN, Oct. 19 (AP)—Southwest water works officials favor approval of the omnibus rivers and harbor bill and the omnibus flood control bill by Congress if the measures are amended to protect agricultural and industrial interests.

Meeting here yesterday, the southwest section of the American Water Works association by resolution gave conditional approval to the bills and declared they should be amended in line with suggestions given at a water conservation conference in Chicago last month.

A. F. Mitchell, president of the Texas Society of Professional engineers, Corsicana, said that early passage of the bills which will release 12 billion dollars in postwar projects throughout the nation, is desirable, but restrictive amendments are essential to protect both the agricultural and industrial interests of Texas.

To Control Hazards

At the suggestion of V. M. Ehlers, chief engineer of the state board of health, the association resolved that in "planning, construction and operation of any project under the terms of these bills, ample provision be made for control of all health and sanitation hazards as well as state regulation regarding pollution of streams by domestic or industrial waste."

J. E. Sturrock, attorney for the Texas Board of Water engineers, outlined the terms of the present bills, which he regarded as "inimical to state's rights" and explained the proposed amendments unanimously accepted by delegates from 29 states at the recent conference in Chicago headed by Senators Jos. C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado.

Unless Congress recognizes these proposals, asserted Sturrock, rice farmers in Texas will be hamstrung because they cannot get irrigation water for more than 160 acres, private and public projects in Texas financed, and chaos result in the administration of the water laws of the 17 western states.

Army Driving On Budapest

LONDON, Oct. 19. (U.P.) — The First Hungarian army, with 10 full divisions was reported today marching on Budapest in a drive to liberate the capital from the Nazis after the majority of Hungary's armed forces deserted from German control, according to radio reports from the continent.

At the same time, the Germans were said to have sent five divisions from the Reich to the hectic Budapest area, in an attempt to stabilize the Hungarian position, doubly threatened by a powerful Soviet drive from the east.

The Nazis were reported to be fearful that the new Soviet offensive through the Balkans may carry to Budapest by Saturday.

The difficulties of the Germans with their last major European ally also had repercussions in Madrid, where the Hungarian charge d'affaires was understood to have informed the Spanish foreign office that he had severed all ties with both Szalasi and the Arrow Cross party.

Size Of Stakes In Army Crap Games Issue

BY FRANCIS J. KELLY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—The size of stakes in Army crap games became an economic issue today, as if it already weren't.

Spang in the middle of a scholarly discussion of Allied military currency used by our Army in Italy, economists Donald L. Kemmerer and T. Eugene Beattie observed that the soldiers customarily are handed their pay in the biggest bills available "and incidentally stakes in crap games are kept high."

"To keep transportation costs to a minimum our soldiers are generally paid in the largest denominations possible," the economists stated in a folder distributed by the Economists' National Committee on Monetary Policy.

It's A "Command" Invite

"For example, a soldier entitled to $46.50 on pay day will get four 1,000 lire notes, one 500 lire note, one 100 and one 50."

It doesn't take an assistant professor of economics, such as Kemmerer is at the University of Illinois, to deduce that this procedure is virtually a command invitation for high rolling on the vagaries of that old Eighter from Decatur and Little Joe from Kokomo.

The currency, which Kemmerer and Beattie say looks like cigar coupons Ethographed on mediocre paper, is turned out in Washington and shipped to Italy where it has been declared legal tender. The exchange rate is 100 lire to the dollar, and soldiers with a sense of thrift, a smart pair of dice, or both, frequently convert the lire to dollar money orders which they dispatch home after the pay day flurries.

There's Another Angle

There's another crapshooting angle to the currency situation, Messrs. K. and B. declare:

"If it is attempted to redeem money in full for American soldiers there arise possibilities, difficult to deal with of soldiers buying native-held Allied military currency at a discount and making a profit.

"Who is to say that a G.I. turning up with a wad of bills did not win them at a crap game?"

Civilians May Miss Turkey

DALLAS, Oct. 19. (AP) — Come Thanksgiving, the piece de resistance on dinner tables of civilians probably will be something besides turkey.

All civilian purchases have been suspended until the armed services buy 60,000,000 pounds of turkey — and C. M. Evans, chief of the dairy and poultry branch of the War Food administration office of distribution said here that even though sales started July 11, only half that amount has been obtained.

Unless the Army gets the 60 million pounds within two weeks, the situation will begin to affect the civilian supply for Thanksgiving, he said.

Spring rains retarded growth of turkeys, Evans said, and added that in addition, many turkey raisers have been slow to offer their birds for sale.

Nazi Garrison On Island Surrenders

ROME, Oct. 19. (AP) — The Nazi garrison on Santorin island, 70 miles north of Crete in the Sea of Candia, surrendered yesterday to the British cruiser Ajax, Allied headquarters announced today.

The naval command said that carrier planes sweeping in from the Aegean heavily attacked enemy transports in the vicinity of Volos, 35 miles southeast of Larisa on the Greek mainland. The same planes also took a heavy toll of enemy shipping in the Sporades islands in the Aegean northeast of Athens.

TWO FLIERS KILLED

BALBOA, C. Z., Oct. 19. (AP) — Panama canal Army headquarters announced yesterday fatal injury of Maj. Melville H. Boulder, 26, of Gainesville, Tex., and Capt. Robert B. Koster, 26, Springfield, N. J., in collision of their fighter planes near France field Monday. Maj. Boulter was squadron commander.

Bologna Route Progress Slow

ROME, Oct. 19 (AP)—Fifth army troops have captured several more peaks and villages on the southern approaches to Bologna and the Eighth army has forced a brideghead across the Pisciatello river north of the Bologna-Rimini highway in the Adriatic sector, Allied headquarters announced today.

The bridgehead, east of the important road junction town of Cesena, was gained against strong German opposition, the war bulletin said.

Heavy Fighting Continues

Fighting bitterly against reinforced German troops, American infantrymen established themselves at San Clemente on a subsidiary road to the Bologna-Rimini highway, nine miles from Castel San Pietro.

Other Fifth Army units took Vaglie to the west and entered Castel Vecchio, about two and a half miles northwest of San Clemente, while doughboys carried new positions on highway 65—the main road to Bologna north from Florence.

The communique said "very heavy fighting" continued on the southern slopes of Monte Belmonte in the highway 65 area.

Bad weather again hampered ground operations in most of the sectors and curtailed operations of the Mediterranean Allied Air force.

World Police Force, Security Policies, 'We' Or 'I' Rule, Poll Taxes Are Forum Topics

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. (AP)—Rep. Clare Booth Luce (R-Con) said last night that "the great unanswered question" about an international police force, which she described as the "teeth" in the United Nations' projected world organization, was "who puts the bite on whom?"

"No doubt in great public debate in this free democracy we will find a fair and workable answer," she said in an address prepared for delivery before the closing session of the New York Herald Tribune forum, "but it must be an answer that will be accepted not only by Soviet Russia and Great Britain and China, but acceptable to all the little participating nations of Europe and Asia."

Peace Plan Not Enough

Asserting that President Wilson told the American people in a "hastily pencilled" message when the Armistice was signed that "everything for which America fought has been accomplished," Mrs. Luce said:

"Let us hope that when our second V day comes, our president, whoever he is, will not assure us that a peace plan alone will guarantee that Utopia lies just around the corner.

Closing the forum, Mrs. Helen Reid, vice president of the Herald Tribune, expressed "great regret" that President Roosevelt had declined an invitation to address last night's session.

Would Have Welcomed FDR

"It was for him to choose whether he would take part as a candidate for reelection, as president of all the American people, or as commander-in-chief of the armed forces," she said in a prepared talk. "We would have welcomed his message in whatever capacity."

Earlier on the program, Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democratic candidate for Congress in California, said the chief campaign issue is retention of an "indispensable philosophy" of government.

Mrs. Gahagan said the "indispensable philosophy holds that our security is identical with the security of our neighbors in England, Russia, China and the rest of this rapidly shrinking world."

"We" And "I" Government

Robert Fiske Bradford, Republican candidate for lieutenant-governor of Massachusetts, said one road the country may take "returns to the 'we,' the all-of-us, form of government" while the other "perpetuates the 'I' form of government" which he described as "the one-man idea, the 'indispensable man' if you will — the self-centered, concentrated personal form of government."

The question of abolishing poll taxes by federal action was discussed by Gov. J. Melville Broughton of North Carolina and Francis Ellis Rivers, negro justice of the New York City court.

State Action Advocated

Gov. Broughton said he was "opposed to the poll tax as a qualification for voting," but believed that "the abolition of such taxes is constitutionally and properly a matter for state rather than federal action." He said there was a trend toward abolishing the tax in the eight states which still impose it and that the trend would be retarded "only by threat of federal legislation or attempted dictation from the outside."

Judge Rivers, asserting there were legal and other reasons making it "impossible" for the states to remove poll tax qualifications, said it was "logical and proper that national measures accomplish this change because the poll-tax and the one-party system constitute today one of America's national problems." "The poll tax," he declared, "is the key log in the jam which is making mockery of our American ideals and reducing 13,000,000 Americans to the status of second class citizens."

Hate Lives In Those Who Felt Nazi Heel

Lack Of Ruthlessness Toward Germans Puzzles Europeans

BY HAL BOYCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE AEF In Blegium, Oct. 10—(Delayed)—Civilians near the German frontier cannot understand why the American army isn't as ruthless with the German populace as the Nazis were with the citizens of adjoining countries when Hitler was in his heyday.

Typical is the Lardinois family in the little Belgian village of Aubel.

Madame Joseph Lardinois, told us why she and her three children —Jean, 24, Marthe, 21, and Marie Jose, 20—will always hate the Nazis.

Joseph Lardinois was a prosperous wholesale grocer in 1940 when the German army crashed across the frontier. He bundled the family into their car and started toward Brussels.

Beyond Liege the column of refugees was attacked by 40 Nazi planes.

"They came down and strafed us, setting the car ahead and the car behind us on fire. My husband halted our car then and helped me and the children to a ditch where we stretched out to escape the flying bullets.

"Four times the planes came back and strafed the long line of screaming and frightened refugees who were huddled together like sheep because there was nothing else they could do. The third time they struck my husband with three bullets."

Marthe silently brought out a neatly pressed vest. Holes showed the path of the bullets.

Husband's Lungs Punctured

"My husband, although both of his lungs were punctured, got to his feet and tried to help us back to the car when the planes left," Madame Lardinois continued. "We managed to get to the next town and tried to obtain medical aid but there were scores of wounded and it was six hours before a doctor treated him. But it was hopeless anyway. He was too badly wounded to live." She paused.

"There were many terrible sights that day. Much as I grieve for my husband I feel sorrier still for one young mother who tried to run to safety with her baby in her arms. One bullet struck her child in the head and scattered its brains all over her. I will never forget the sounds that that young woman made."

There was nothing we could say. When we turned to go a little later Marie Jose looked at us gravely and said:

"You Americans are too easy with the Germans now. You really don't know them. You will live to regret your kindness."

Along the border they hold their hates.

Texas U. Controversy To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The controversy between the board of regents of the University of Texas and President Homer P. Rainey, backed by the faculty, will be investigated by Ralph E. Himstead, secretary and managing executive of the American Association of university professors.

Himstead said "relations apparently have deteriorated" to such a point that a clarification of policy is imminent, and that he planned to meet with the regents in Houston Oct. 27 to discuss a series of incidents, including the discharge in 1942 of three Texas U. faculty members.

Himstead, who represents an organization with a membership of 1,600 including about a fourth of all junior and senior college faculty members in the country, said he was interested only in seeing that "academic freedom" is maintained at the University of Texas.

Should our way of making peace treaties be changed?

Senator R. E. Willis vs. Congressman J. W. Fulbright

WHEN WAR ENDS, and a peace treaty needs to be signed—how much power should Congress have? As it is now, the Senate alone votes, and a two-thirds vote is needed to ratify. On America's Town Meeting of the Air tonight, four noted authorities will discuss a proposed change that would make it possible to ratify the next peace treaty by simple majorities in both houses. Representative Fulbright, author of the famed Fulbright resolution for a world organization to keep the peace, favors this change; so does Representative Kefauver, who for years has worked for a streamlined Congress. But Senator Willis, member of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, and Professor Borchard of Yale, expert on international law, will tell why they are convinced that the present way of ratifying treaties is safest and best. Hear both sides of this exciting and important question—tonight.

TONIGHT'S QUESTION:
Should treaties be ratified by a majority of both houses?

Spotlight On South Park-Port Arthur

District Races Taking Shape

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Drawling Paul Tyson, builder of champions, makes another bid for Texas schoolboy glory tomorrow night as the high spot of a crowded schedule in which conference games predominate.

Tyson, coaching his thirty-first team, sends his South Park Greenies of Beaumont against the Port Arthur powerhouse and from this battle may come the title eleven of district 14.

Tyson's Greenies are unbeaten and untied. He has a great backfield to throw against the brilliant Port Arthur line and while Tom Dennis' Yellow Jackets are favored, it is agreed this will be a terrific struggle. South Park has rolled up 128 points in three games while Port Arthur has managed for 131 in four, losing week before last to Lufkin 20-6.

Waco Is Favorite

Other spotlighted battles over the state are at Waco, San Antonio and Abilene.

Waco's Tigers, now the favored outfit of the lower bracket in the interscholastic league football plan, entertain upsurging Waxahachie, the first of three big games destined to decide the Central Texas champion. The others will be the Waco-Temple and Waxahachie-Temple tilts.

Down at San Antonio Brackenridge's Eagles tackle Austin's unbeaten, untied Maroons in one of the decisive games of the district 15 race. The other outfits figured as title contenders are Jefferson of San Antonio and Kerrville, which last week toppled top-rated Brackenridge.

Lubbock-Abilene In Spotlight

The Abilene game is an interdistrict affair and means nothing in a conference race but it is highly important nevertheless. Lubbock, which beat San Angelo, the defending state champion, must down Abilene to be rated on par with Amarillo in the district 1 campaign. Abilene, a surprise of the season, last week bopped Odessa, which had been figured a great contender for San Angelo in the district 3 drive. Abilene gave Amarillo a great scrap before losing 7-13.

The schedule by districts:

1. Friday: Clovis, N. M., at Pampa, Amarillo at Borger (con), Sweetwater at Plainview, Hobbs, N. M., at Brownfield.
2. Friday: Wichita Falls at Electra (con), Childress at Graham (con), Vernon at Quanah (con), Seymour at Olney.
3. Friday: Lamesa at San Angelo (con), Big Spring at Midland (con); Saturday: Lubbock at Abilene.
4. Friday: El Paso High at Ysleta (con); Saturday: Pecos at Austin (El Paso), Bowie (El Paso) at Phoenix, Ariz.
5. Friday: Bonham at Sherman (con), Greenville at Gainesville (con), McKinney at Denison, Gladewater at Paris.
6. No games scheduled.
7. Thursday: Masonic Home (Fort Worth) vs North Side (Fort Worth) (con); Friday: Fort Worth Tech vs Arlington Heights (Fort Worth) (con); Saturday: Denton at Amon Carter-Riverside (Fort Worth).
8. Friday: Woodrow Wilson (Dallas) vs Sunset (Dallas) (con); Saturday: Crozier Tech (Dallas) vs North Dallas (con).
9. Friday: Breckenridge at Stephenville (con), Weatherford at Mineral Wells (con); Saturday: Ranger at Brownwood (con).
10. Friday: Waxahachie at Waco (con), Temple at Bryan (con), Hillsboro at Corsicana, Arlington at Ennis.
11. Friday: Tyler at Texarkana (con), Longview at Kilgore (con), Athens at Marshall (con).
12. Friday: Palestine at Henderson (con), Nacogdoches at Jacksonville (con), Livingston at Hull-Daisetta.
13. Today: Reagan (Houston) vs Sam Houston (Houston) (con); Friday: Jeff Davis (Houston) vs Milby (Houston) (con), Austin (Houston) vs St. Thomas (Houston); Saturday: San Jacinto (Houston) vs Lamar (Houston) (con).
14. Friday: South Park (Beaumont) at Port Arthur (con), Orange at Beaumont (con), Port Neches at Galveston (con), Goose Creek at Conroe (con).
15. Today: San Antonio Tech vs Lanier (San Antonio); Friday: Austin at Brackenridge (San Antonio) (con), Texas Military Institute (San Antonio) at Laredo; Saturday: Corpus Christi at Jefferson (San Antonio) (con).
16. Friday: Edinburg at Harlingen (con), San Benito at Kingsville (con), Robstown at McAllen (con), Raymondville at Brownsville.

Westerners Due To Be In Top Shape For Abilene Tilt

The hard work for the week was over for the Lubbock Westerners after a rugged scrimmage session Wednesday afternoon, and Coaches J. Mule Davis and Dixie White expect the Westerners to go into the game Saturday night at Abilene in top condition.

Seeking to keep their record for the season unblemished, and add the fifth 3-AA scalp to the "war belt," the Westerners pronounced themselves ready for the toughest test of the pre-season games.

Eagle Star Ailing

The word that Abilene had suffered the loss of Paul Bailey because of a throat infection offered little ray of hope for the Westerners, for his place will be taken by Kenneth Tate, who played a great ball game against Odessa last week.

Bailey is a 201 pounder, and has started every game this season for the Eagles. Tate is a 218 pounder and will move into the left tackle slot of Bailey's without weakening the team in the least. There also remained a good chance that Bailey will be recovered in time to play.

Eagles Are Tough

The Eagles have made it tough on two of the best teams in the state, losing by 9-7 to Breckenridge, and holding the mighty Amarillo club to two touchdowns, then defeated another of the state's top teams, Odessa, last week.

Coach Davis indicated Wednesday afternoon that there would be no shifts in the Westerner lineup, and that he thought the lone injuries of the club would be healed by Saturday. Stoney Wall and Jim Lowrey were both nursing injured ankles.

E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director, said Wednesday that he had been notified that 50 reserve seat tickets and 100 student tickets had been sent from Abilene, and expects them this morning. They will go on sale as soon as they come in. They can be purchased at the principal's office at the high school.

Women's Golf In Semi-Finals

Mrs. Foster Wins Over Mrs. Tubbs

Women golfers at the Lubbock Country club battled into the semi-finals this week in the women's golf championship tournament with some close battles highlighting the first round of play.

In the championship flight, Mrs. Fenner Tubbs defeated Mrs. J. H. Stiles 4 and 3, then fell before Mrs. A. A. Foster, who drew a bye in the first round. The latter match finished 2 and 1.

Other Scores

Other first round games found Mrs. Bess Jennings winning 7 and 5 over Mrs. Charlie Young, Mrs. Willie Akey nosed out Mrs. Berta Widener, one up on 19 holes and Mrs. Loys Patterson defeated Mrs. Billie Soash, 4 and 3.

In the semi-final round of the championship flight, Jennings will play Foster and Akey will play Patterson. Pairings for the championship flight consolations will match Stiles and Young, and Widener and Soash.

Mrs. Rose Mary Crawford reached the semi-finals in the first flight by default over Mrs. Harriat Freeman. Other matches in the first flight included Mrs. Evelyn Eisenberg's win over Mrs. Nora Brown, 6 and 4, Mrs. Jeannine Helwig nosed out Mrs. F. L. McRee, one up, and Mrs. Peggy Autry won over Mrs. Georgia Mae Key, 6 and 4.

Semi-Final Pairings

Semi-final pairings in the championship bracket will pair Crawford with Eisenberg and Helwig with Autry. In the consolation semi-finals of the first flight, Freeman will play Brown and McRee will play Key.

The nine-hole flight produced four tough matches, and the closest play of the tournament with three of the four matches needing an extra hole to determine a winner.

Jo Atherton defeated Marilyn Dube, one up on 10 holes, Barbara Mosher nosed out Sally Shoop, one up. Celia Camp defeated Louise McWhirter, one up on 10 holes, and Len Nitschke defeated Barbara Johnson by the same score.

Pairings for the semi-finals in the championship bracket will pit Atherton against Mosher and Camp against Nitschke. In the consolation semi-finals, Dube will play Shoop and McWhirter will play Johnson.

Tickets Sell Fast For 'Khaki Classic'

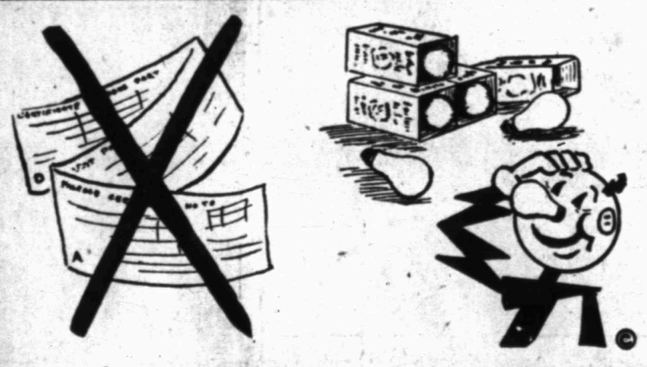

Tickets for civilian use for Sunday's "khaki classic" between Lubbock Army Air field and South Plains Army Air field go on sale today with only about 200 choice reserve seats in Tech stadium left unsold.

Officers and enlisted men at both SPAAF and LAAF have been gobbling up the tickets, both reserved and general admission, ever since the ducats were offered for sale to military personnel at the two fields a week ago.

Always the "biggest" game for both air fields, the tilt this year is expected to draw a near sellout crowd, with the teams perhaps more evenly matched than at any time previously.

Tickets will be on sale today through Saturday in the afternoons in the lobby of the Hilton hotel. Reserved seats tickets are 90 cents each; box seats are $1.20 each; general admission tickets for civilians are 60 cents each. Military personnel general admission tickets are 30 cents.

NO CERTIFICATE NEEDED
FOR THESE "SPARES"

Keep spare lamp bulbs on hand in your home to replace burnouts as soon as they occur. Most electric dealers now have bulbs in all common home sizes. You need no points, coupons or certificates to buy them—never did, in fact. So don't be without light these dark fall days and longer evenings.

It costs you little to have light in your home where you need it. You can be sure you are getting all you pay for if you keep your home lighting equipment in shape this way:

Begin by putting the RIGHT SIZE bulb in each lamp or fixture. Then keep the shades and diffusing bowls, as well as the bulbs, free of dust and dirt.

Use white or light-lined shades on your lamps, to reflect more usable light.

Move lamps closer to points of use, to shed more light directly on the work. You can often increase their usefulness by rearranging furniture so that one lamp will serve two people.

Your eyes need the correct amount of diffused light to perform difficult seeing tasks like reading or sewing without strain. Now is the time to see that your home lighting equipment can furnish proper illumination.

Talents Brought Out, Weaknesses Concealed

'T' Formation Is Flexible, But Proper Material Is Necessary

BY CLARK SHAUGHNESSY
Football Coach, University Of Pittsburgh
Written For AP Newsfeatures

Just as the finest receipe in the world is useless without the proper ingredients, so the right material is necessary to make the "T" formation work.

Yet the "T" is extremely flexible, for it can be made to fit the player. It permits you to utilize your capabilities while concealing the weaknesses.

If you have a boy who is a great runner but can't pass a darn, let him do the running and leave the passing to somebody else. If you have a player especially good at one type of play, build those plays around him.

Quarterback No. 1 Man

The quarterback is the No. 1 man of importance in the "T." He is not only the brains but the heart of the formation. He calls the signals and controls the ball on every play. He must be smart, a quick thinker and a hard worker, able to size up a situation and call the right play to meet it within a few seconds. He should have mechanical dexterity both with feet and hands and passing ability is a must.

Strength, size or speed are not as important in a quarterback as leadership. I have seen quarterbacks who I didn't think called particularly good plays but the boys thought they were good and that's what counted, for they played to justify their field general's choice.

Must Have Equipment

However, the greatest quarterback in the world isn't worth a dime unless he has the proper tools.

These, then, are the requirements for the other positions.

Halfbacks — must be speedy, good fakers and dangerous in the open. They should also be good pass receivers. Size is not important, for the backs run a lot in motion and I don't like to run the big fellows in motion.

Fullback — should be a strong massive boy who can plunge. He won't gain as much ground as the halfbacks, but he is a constant warning to the defense that they can't afford to scatter out to stop the little runners.

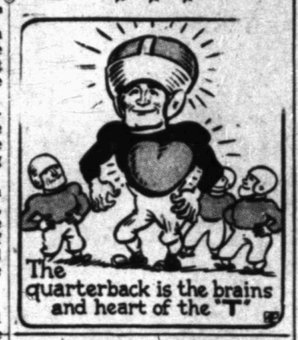

Ends—should be tall, rangy fellows, but speed and pass catching ability count more than size. The "T" requires them to be pass receivers first, blockers second.

Guards and tackles — size and weight are important. A good lineman must be able to charge in any direction and pull out right or left quickly without telegraphing his intentions. In this, as in any offense, a quick, vicious, properly executed shoulder block is a lineman's best asset.

Center—this is one position that demands a strong, rugged and heavy player. The defense is just waiting to ram him against the quarterback and if you upset the quarterback, you upset the whole works.

NEXT—"T" Plays.

Cowhand Team Plays Brownfield B Today

The Black team of the Lubbock Cowhands takes on the Brownfield B team at 4 o'clock this afternoon on Chapman field.

Cowhand teams will provide the only high school football of the week for Lubbock fans, with the Blacks set to play today and the Golds slated to go into action Friday.

This afternoon's affair looms as even-Steven. Coach George Philbrick's Blacks have shown steady improvement this season. Little is known here of the Brownfield team, but it is reported to be a fair ball club.

Coach Marlin "Shorty" Hayhurst's Gold team will go into action Friday in the feature game for that day, facing the tough Slaton High school club. Slaton defeated the Blacks earlier in the season, and the Golds will be seeking for revenge for their "brothers."

The Golds have started a winning streak in recent games, and have been traveling at top speed, but this game will offer one of the toughest tests of the year.

LATCH WITH PIRATES

Saturday night will be "home coming" for one member of the Marine trainees playing in the lineup of the Southwestern university Pirates. Bill Latch, 'survivor off the Cruiser Helena in the Pacific war theatre, and a freshman footballer at Texas Tech in 1940 will be playing perhaps his final college game for the duration in the Pirate-Red Raider battle.

Latch will complete his officers training at Southwestern next week.

Injuries Dim Raiders' Hopes

Hardey And Cox Miss Workouts

The injury jinx, that has struck hard at the hopes of the Texas Tech Red Raiders several times this season, again was making it's presence felt Wednesday afternoon as the team reached the peak of the hard work in preparing for the Saturday night game here with the Marine dotted lineup of the Southwestern university Pirates.

The club worked Wednesday afternoon with two men on the sidelines from injuries suffered in workouts this week, and a shortage of quarterbacks loomed in the making.

Gene Hardey, who has been showing up well in recent games, and who threw touchdown passes for all the scoring against the Texas Aggies and Tulsa university, suffered a leg injury, and T. M. Cox, second string quarterback, injured his foot Tuesday evening, and was on crutches Wednesday morning.

Bobby Barron Shifted

The injury to Costin Bufkin, forced the removal of one quarterback to the halfback position as Bobby Barron was shifted back to the halfback post, but he will likely be moved back to quarterback this week.

There still remained a good chance that both boys will be able to go Saturday, but Coach Dell Morgan didn't appear too optimistic Wednesday afternoon.

The team spent most of Wednesday afternoon polishing the offense, and working on smoothing out the wrinkles of their ball handling.

Coach Morgan promised another rough session this afternoon, then will taper off for the game Saturday.

Cowhand Purples Tie 6-6 With Petersburg

The Lubbock Cowhand Purples and the Petersburg Juniors were unable to make a settlement here Wednesday, the two elevens battling to a 6-6 tie at Junior High school field.

Petersburg scored first, getting a touchdown in the opening period as Carl Rambo broke away for a 50 yard gallop for the touchdown. The try for extra point failed.

Jackie Davis slashed off tackle for about ten yards and a touchdown for the Purples in the second period to knot the count, and again the try for extra point failed.

Petersburg offered a threat in the final period, and carried the ball over the goal line, but the play was called back for a roughing penalty.

Until 1867, Alaska was designated on maps as Russian America.

PLANS are well under way, we are informed, for improvement and expansion of Lubbock Country club as quickly after victory as conditions will permit. This is good news not only to members of the organization, and to those who some day hope to be members, but to everyone in the community who likes to see Lubbock move onward and upward, whether or not such progress touches them personally.

Although The Plainsman is not, and never has been, a member of the Country club, he is glad the membership is planning a new and modern clubhouse and various other features aimed at making the physical properties more entertaining, more attractive and more useful to those connected with it. True, from time to time new programs have been offered—like last summer, when an able swimming instructor taught many youngsters how to be at home in the water—but by and large the club has been more for golfing purposes than for anything else. In the future, it will be expanded to complete country club status.

Lubbock is, and always has been, "short" on entertainment and relaxation facilities.

Expansion of the Country club will be a step forward in providing an addition to such facilities; will also give everyone in the city something else to which they may point with pride.

Many cities smaller than Lubbock have for a quarter century operated attractive and well patronized country clubs and there is no reason why our city shouldn't have something better in that category.

We are glad the members of Lubbock Country club are looking ahead. We wish them well in their every effort.

IN normal surroundings, through which move normal human beings, it is "the exception that makes the rule." In Hollywood, however, the whole business is reversed. There it is "the rule that makes the exception."

Latest example of peculiar thinking in Movieville comes in the announcement that Fred Astaire has been chosen to portray Ernie Pyle in the forthcoming film based up on the "GI Correspondent's" experiences at the fighting fronts. The producer who went into a trance and came out with Astaire as Pyle couldn't have missed the boat any farther, unless, of course, he had named Barbara Hutton, Groucho Marx, or Dame May Whitty.

About the only things Astaire and Pyle have in common are sex, excessive skinniness and a tendency toward baldness. But since Mr. Astaire wears a toupee to cover his natural deficiency in the hirsute department, they don't even have the latter similarity as far as movie-goers are concerned.

Since movie patrons and Ernie Pyle fans are numbered in the many millions, it would be strange, indeed, if there weren't considerable overlapping of the two groups.

How then can the individual who has seen Mr. Astaire dance up and down a 40-foot stairway attired in white tie and tails rationalize him in the blood and the muck of the front lines as the Ernie Pyle the newspaper reader knows?

The answer is, he can't. The average American who knows the two knows Mr. Astaire as a sophisticated, gorgeous master of the terpsichorean art and Ernie Pyle as a woebegone looking little guy in makeshift, battle-stained garb.

Certainly nobody can imagine Ernie playing in an extremely modernistic movie opposite Eleanor Powell or Ginger Rogers, or Mr. Astaire ducking bombs, diving into foxholes or slogging through the frontline mud.

IN choosing the famous dancer to portray the equally famous war reporter, Hollywood accentuates the "make-believe," rather than adds credence to its product.

Since the Pyle book, "Here Is Your War," upon which the movie is based, is harshly factual and totally devoid of fake heroics, and since Ernie's contract with the movie moguls insists upon almost brutally frank portrayal of actual fighting conditions, this doesn't make sense.

It is, however, in keeping with the Hollywood tradition of "it's the rule that makes the exception," rather than "the exception which makes the rule."

Another difficult postwar problem for many a person will be adjusting himself to working for what he's worth.

RECENTLY installed in The Avalanche-Journal building is a new soft-drink dispensing machine of the type seen around about—one where you stick a nickel in the slot, an ice-cold bottle slides out and is uncapped by a twist of the buyer's wrist. A bunch of us were standing around the machine the other day and somebody mentioned it was quite a handy gadget.

Parker Prouty spoke up then, and said it isn't nearly as handy as the newer type which has been perfected for postwar distribution.

He says the new machines not only automatically slide an ice-cold bottle of pop out to the purchaser; they also automatically uncap the bottle and pour its contents into a germless paper cup.

The new postwar pop dispensing machines will have everybody a-ga-ga for awhile and then somebody will work out a new one that slides the bottle out, uncaps it, pours the drink into a germless paper cup AND THEN, after the drink has been consumed will stick out an arm and using a germless handkerchief, wipe off the customer's lips!

When that happens, we'll be right in the big middle of Utopia and will have reached the zenith of "the more abundant life!"

Feminine Viewpoint

BY RUTH MILLETT

(Copyright, 1944, For The Journal)

A KANSAS judge, as a memorial to his son who was killed in action in 1942, writes a "home town letter" every so often which he sends to 175 men and women that the war has taken away from the town.

MILLETT

In one of these letters the judge said: "When you do return we hope that you will find in all of us the same sort of folks that you had learned to tolerate, and that from that time forward, we will walk together down the pathways of our remaining years, happy in the enjoyment of the benefits which have been preserved for all of us and which have been purchased for us during these awful days, by all of you."

Somehow it is hard to imagine that service men receiving letters like that from a civilian will be as likely to be bitter toward the folks back home as the ones who get no such understanding, grateful letters—but think of civilians as so many profiteers who are mopping up while the service men fight the war.

THE SAME FOLKS

THERE is much concern these days over the ever-widening breach between service men and civilians. Yet the average civilian isn't doing much to correct the situation.

If more of them, like the Kansas judge, would go out of their way to show the service men overseas that the folks back home are the same folks they left when they went to war, that they are deeply grateful for what their men in uniform have done for them, and that they are anxious for the men to get back—the bitterness of service men would be lessened.

But the average soldier hears more of strikes and high wages and of reckless civilian spending than he hears of gratitude and appreciation. The gratitude and appreciation are deep in the heart of the majority of civilians—but they ought to go out of their way more often to reveal the fact.

EVEN BRITISH DECORUM CAN CRACK!

Washington Correspondent Drew Pearson passed along a piece of trivia the other day that indicates how far apart in attitudes are the public men of Britain and the U. S. But it indicates, too, that our more reserved British cousins are capable of "thawing out" when they find themselves on safe ground.

It all came from a visit paid Ernest Thurtle, a dignified under secretary of the Churchill cabinet, by Karl Mundt, a very human and warm-hearted member of the U. S. House of Representatives, when the latter was on a recent overseas inspection trip. Mundt, a South Dakotan and therefore a great deal like our own West Texas people, noticed that his host was blushing—then found the blush was due to the fact that the Thurtle hat was perched, at a jaunty angle, high upon an elaborate chandelier.

"It happened this way," said Thurtle, red as a beet. "I was reading the war dispatches and they were so good that I skimmed my hat into the air. You see where it lit!"

Although Thurtle begged Mundt to keep the affair a secret, the American told it at a swank dinner party tendered him by a high ranking British official and attended by many English bigwigs. As Mundt knew it would, the occurrence typified soaring British morale and Thurtle was hailed as a hero, rather than a "goat."

Let us suppose, for instance, that the "shoe was on the other foot," and a visiting Britisher caught Secretary Hull, or Secretary Forrestal in the position in which Mundt caught Thurtle. Can you imagine even the hard-bitten Tennesseean, or the staid New Yorker, being embarrassed about it? Or can you imagine their fellow officials—or the American Man-in-the-Street—feeling that the situation was ridiculous?

We can't.

As a matter of fact, we Americans have elected men to high public office just because they were so very human, so naturally impetuous, that they made a practice of giving way to their enthusiasms.

We, in this country, like that sort of thing in high places, as well as in low.

And our guess is that down under their decorum, which is a natural—and national—phenomenon, the British like it, too.

Perhaps their association with us in this war eventually will result in their admitting it!

Nazis Set Up Workers "Slaughter Centers"

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Underground observers coming out of Germany have reported that the Nazis already have begun the systematic elimination of the vast army of slave labor imported from Russia, France, Czechoslovakia and various occupied countries to work for Hitler.

It is estimated that the imported slave labor inside Germany totals about 10,000,000. Either because Hitler fears their sabotage and rebellion, or else because they are a drain on Germany's food resources, machinery has been devised to kill them off. The number killed so far is estimated at around 1,500,000, though this is a very rough estimate. Absolutely definite, however, is the fact that mass execution depots, such as that at Lublin, already are set up in various parts of Germany. These have been witnessed.

PEARSON

The Lublin execution depot consisted of large chambers for the administration of lethal gas to several hundred persons at a time. Afterward, the bodies were systematically stripped, their jewelry, shoes, clothes sorted out and handled by a quartermaster store.

Reason for this cold-blooded system of mass executions is explained as follows by underground observers who have come out of Germany: Originally, Storm Troopers were given a list of 15 to 20 persons and told to shoot them with their revolvers in the night. Sometimes this included whole families with children. So not even the S.S. men could take it. They suffered nervous collapses, had to be sent to sanitoriums.

As a result, the mass execution system was worked out at Lublin, and now at other places. It takes only a few men to handle the lethal chambers, and enough personnel can be found to perform this gruesome work without becoming insane.

MISSES ONE

JUDGE THURMAN ARNOLD, who as assistant Attorney General prosecuted more anti-trust suits than any man in history, was in Hollywood, recently, where he graced one of its fanciest swimming pools.

In a swimming pool Judge Arnold is a sight to behold. Usually forgetting to take off his black-ribboned pince-nez glasses, Thurman lights a long cigar, swims on his back, with the cigar protruding above the water, puffing smoke like a Mississippi steamboat. The big corporations whom Thurman has fined and belabored would give a lot to see their prosecutor thus relaxing.

On this occasion, Judge Arnold got into conversation on the edge of the pool with bathing beauty Esther Williams, who is also a sight to behold.

They were sitting together, splashing their legs in the water, when a publicity cameraman began to line things up for a shot of Miss Williams.

"Would you mind moving out of the way?" he called briskly to Judge Arnold, not realizing that he was missing the shot of his life. "We want to get Miss Williams."

Later, Mrs. Arnold had the time of her life kidding her husband. "They just didn't know who you were, dear," she said. "How things have changed since you went into retirement two years ago!"

AIDS O'DANIEL

LAST summer, Congressman Dick Kleberg of Texas, part owner of the largest ranch in the world, was exposed as having put three 'teen-old boys on the federal payroll, who later kicked back part of their salary to Kleberg's office.

The congressman's excuse was that the arrangement had been made by a secretary without his knowledge.

However, a Senate investigator, just returned from Texas, has discovered that although three youngsters were forced to kick back part of their salary, Kleberg's King ranch could afford to contribute a total of $2,500 to Sen. Pappy O'Daniel's hate-Roosevelt campaign.

Senator O'Daniel boasts that the money for his radio and his newspaper comes from the little people of the state, sent to the "Common Citizens Radio committee." However, unless the Kleberg ranch could be called "little people," there weren't many little people on the list. The bulk of O'Daniel's money came from Sen. Ed Moore of Oklahoma and big old man H. R. Cullen. Each kicked in the neat sum of $25,000.

EMBARGO VIOLATION

SOMETIMES it is better to let sleeping dogs lie. That's what William C. Connelly of Shelby, Ohio, found out when James Martin of the Department of Justice read to the Kilgore committee a letter from the New York agent of the Japanese trading company, Mitsubishi, in which the agent told his home office that among American firms willing to ship aircraft parts to Japan after the moral embargo of June, 1938, was the Ohio Seamless Tube Co., of Shelby, O.

Following this, President Connelly, of the Seamless Tube company wrote Martin demanding that the committee be informed Ohio Seamless Tube had not shipped to Japan since March, 1939.

Justice Department's Martin replied: "I think it entirely appropriate to call your letter to the attention of the Kilgore committee, which I shall be glad to do."

He pointed out also that the Department of Justice had had no knowledge of any shipment by Ohio Seamless as late as March, 1939, since the Mitsubishi letter had been written a month earlier.

"In fact," Martin wrote, "I had had no previous indication that, in fact, your company did make shipments of materials after the Secretary of State's moral embargo of June 13, 1938."

In other words, Ohio Seamless Tube was shipping to Japan nine months after the embargo.

The Justice department also listed as among those willing to continue shipments to Japan after the moral embargo the Thompson Products company, whose president, Fred C. Crawford, is former president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Crawford's company, according to the Mitsubishi agency, was willing to ship valve forgings to Japan on condition that the order sheet listed only style numbers, with other details of the transaction to be handled by confidential memos.

This was the policy followed by Bethlehem Steel and other companies, the Jap agent wrote, explaining that these companies were afraid not of federal interference with their shipments of war materials to Japan but of difficulties with workers. The CIO and AFL were already on record against shipments to Japan, he wrote, and industrialists were afraid of labor trouble if their workers learned the destination of the products they were turning out.

ON BROADWAY

(Copyright, 1944, For The Journal)

THINGS I Never Knew About Famous Lovers—Paris was the world's first famous roue, Helen the first glamor girl . . . Her "stage" name was Helen of "Troy" although she was born and spent much of her life in Sparta . . . At the age of nine she was known as the most beautiful creature in Greece . . . Theseus, a lecherous old gaffer of 50, kidnapped her and tried to keep her in seclusion until she was old enough to marry him. But her brothers rescued her . . . Later she married King Menelaus . . . When Paris was the king's guest he tried to "win" her . . . But even with the help of Aphrodite, the Goddess of Love (he should have tried Wyoming ketchup), he failed and had to drag her off to Troy by force . . . Ya-Hoo!

The Queen of Sheba was so impressed by King Solomon's wisdom that she fell in love with him before they ever met . . . She was Solomon's guest for six months, but it wasn't until just before her departure for home that they were married, and it took the world's most fabulous "love" setting (Hollywood excepted, of course) to win her consent . . . The merger resulted in one son, Menelik—to whom Ethiopian rulers still claim to be able to trace direct descent. . . . Queen Elizabeth and Robert Dudley (later the earl of Leicester) occupied adjoining cells atop the Tower of London in their youth . . . After Bess ascended to the throne they occupied adjoining apartments . . . When Britain was threatened by Philip of Spain, Leicester raised and trained an army . . . Just to show his undying loyalty to her r. h. . . . But the Spanish Armada was shattered by an English Channel tempest . . . As a result the earl (even though he never had to fight) became a military hero in the eyes of the queen, who allowed him to rest on his laurels for the rest of his days.

DANTE fell in love with Beatrice when she nodded to him on the street . . . He was 18 . . . She was 17 and already married . . . The entire extent of their intimacy was an infrequent salutation and perhaps a few words of idle conversation . . . When Beatrice heard that Dante had taken up with a notorious Florentine woman (a device he used to hide his true love from his friends) she ceased acknowledging his presence when chance put them in the same gathering . . . That was the crushing end of Dante's great love affair.

Marco Polo was held in such great esteem by Kublai Khan, the ruler of China, that he made the Venetian his ambassador. It was in this capacity that Polo traveled from Cathay to the most distant of khan's provinces . . . The princess (with whom he eventually fell in love) and Polo didn't discover their feelings toward each other until Marco was charged with delivering Cococin to Persia, where she was to be married to Argon, Khan of that country . . . The voyage from China took two years, and it was during the last stages of the cruise that they saw that light in each other's eyes . . . (Meaning that they "went" for each other.)

KING Charles II revived the English theatre after it had been abolished by Cromwell . . . He was also the first monarch to permit the appearance of women on the stage . . . Nell Gwyn, the daughter of a drunken woman (and a father of unspecified designation) hawked oranges down the aisle of the Drury Lane in her early teens. . . . She became not only the reigning queen of the theatre within a few short years, but in a sense the reigning queen. . . . As the mistress of Charles . . . Gwyn made her debut in Dryden's "The Indian Emperor," which charmingly enough was dedicated to an illegitimate son of the king, the duke of Monumouth . . . . Samuel Pepys, a local George Jean Nathan of some repute, said of her debut that he was "displeased with her being put to act the emperor's daughter, which is a great, serious part, which she does basely" . . . In other words—scallions! . . . . Along in her career, however, she won the dyspeptic Pepys' praise in the comic role of Florinal . . . About that performance Pepys' wrote, "I never can hope to see the like done again by man or woman."

Mary Stuart, queen of Scots, was a bride at 16, a widow at 18, and a bride again at 22 . . . Lord Darnley, her second spouse, suspecting David Rizzio of being her guy, had him murdered and was in turn bumped off . . . A strange twist in the life of Pocahontas and John Rolfe was that when they returned to England on their belated honeymoon, she was accepted in all the highest places because of her royal Indian blood . . . . While he was pushed aside, since he was only an English commoner . . . The endless wining and dining finally brought about Pocahontas' death . . . She's buried in Gravesend, Eng.

THE Countess Teresa Guiccioli, a gorgeous blonde Italian, was in her teens . . . Her husband, the count, was in his sixties, and Lord Byron was young, handsome and virile . . . What do you think happened? . . . Right! . . . After Byron and Teresa had unabashedly deceived the count for a period of about 15 months, the countess was granted a separation from her husband on charges (brought by her friends) that the count's conduct had been dishonorable

"Senses Play Hookey" During Attack Of Dive Bombers

Ernie Arrives Just In Time For Trouble!

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ernie Pyle is resting following his service with frontline troops in Europe and next plans to go to the fighting zones of the Pacific. While he is on leave The Journal will publish here some of Ernie's earlier articles, not previously printed in Lubbock, upon which first was built the mutual esteem between Pyle and "GI Joe.")

BY ERNIE PYLE

THE TUNISIAN FRONT, March 1943—Late one afternoon I drove my jeep to the cactus patch which contained headquarters. I had often stayed there, and felt like a member of the family.

Without reporting in or anything, I just picked out a little open spot among the bushes, got out my shovel and started digging a hole to sink my pup tent into. I had the hole about four inches deep and only half long enough, when I heard a shout:

"Here they come."

Immediately all over the cactus patch guns started firing. Dive bombers had come out of the sun, and were on us almost before we knew it. My hole in the sand was still not large enough to harbor a man even as slight as myself. But, I assure you, its inadequacy did not deter me from diving into it forthwith.

ERNIE PYLE

As always in an air raid, I was torn between getting under cover and staying out to see what was going on. My policy seems to be the reverse of the ostrich—I stick my rear in the sand and leave my head out, thinking I'm safe.

So I lay there in the shallow depression, but propped one elbow to get a good view.

Confusin', Not Amusin'

Right now I want to say that anybody who can tell, after a dive bombing attack, just exactly what happened is a genius. It is all so fast and confusing. Your senses seem to play hookey on you. After that raid I could not tell you how many bombs dropped, how many planes took part, what kind they were, whether any started smoking, or what direction they went when they left.

They came down one at a time, seemingly from everywhere. As soon as one finishes its dive, you start looking for the next one. You lose sight of the one which just passed, and don't know what happens to him. You see others in the sky in addition to the one now making its dive. They seem to be going in all directions. The air is full of tracer bullets and black ack ack puffs. You get these spots confused with planes.

I REMEMBER feeling a wonderful elation when I saw one tracer tear right smack into its target—only to realize a moment later it had entered a puff of smoke instead of an enemy plane. You hear the scream of diving planes and the clatter of shooting around. You hear explosions of ack ack and shells and bombs going off, and truly can't tell which is which. At least, I can't.

You sense, more than actually see, bombs falling around you—and duck after you hear the explosion, which obviously would be too late if it were really close.

They dive-bombed us twice that evening. Before I got my sand pit finished, men were killed within 200 yards of me. Yet a bomb that far away isn't even considered in your neighborhood. It must be within 50 feet before you start telling big stories about your escape.

Birds Worry Ernie

One of the most vivid remembrances I have of the raid is of a flight of little birds roosting in the cactus patch. They are about the size of sparrows and silver in color. The horrible melee and shooting scares the wits out of them. They start flying hysterically in all directions. Time and again I duck instinctively from flying bomb fragments—only to realize later that it is the little silver birds, darting frantically back and forth amidst the cactus bushes.

I went through another dive bombing attack during the Sidi bou Zid battle. That part of the desert is flat as a polished table top, with not a hole or ditch anywhere. So I psychopathically lay down behind an old dead bush about 12 inches high.

I REMEMBER only two things during the few minutes they were over us. One was getting my breath in little short jerks—almost panting—though lying flat on my back, looking up at the planes, and not exerting myself in any way. The other was my feeling of indignation and frustration that dozens of enemy planes could fly smack overhead, not more than 500 feet, with the sky around them absolutely speckled with tracer bullets and not a single plane be brought down.

Our Air corps contends that dive bombing is relatively harmless and that, as soon as troops get seasoned, we will be knocking them off so fast they will stop it. True, dive bombing does not kill as many people as you would think. But the great damage is psychological. The sound and sight of a dive bomber peeling off from formation, and heading right down at you, is one of the most nerve-shattering episodes of war.

It takes guts, and plenty, not to run or not to turn your head at the last moment. Maybe our troops eventually will get hardened to it.

As for me, I'm too old to change my ways, and my way is just to lie there scared stiff.

"DEATH SCYTHE" IN USE

O'Daniel News

names of some 200 persons, for subscriptions to the O'Daniel paper.

Mrs. O'Daniel broke into tears at a reference to her two sons, Pat and Mike, both in the Army. She said that she as manager of the O'Daniel News was trying to handle not only her own duties but also those of her sons during their absence, and that she usually worked from 7 in the morning till past midnight in the preparation of the newspaper. The O'Daniel boys are listed as executives of the paper.

Crawford testified that he was being paid $10,000 to handle the affairs of the O'Daniel News in Texas from Jan. 1, 1944, to Jan. 1, 1945.

Crawford, subpoenaed by the committee, was in the midst of his testimony when the committee decided to hear Mrs. O'Daniel. He had been detailing a close relationship between the Common Citizens Radio committee, a Texas corporation, and the O'Daniel News, when Senator O'Daniel interrupted to ask if Mrs. O'Daniel could be given an opportunity at once to express her views. Crawford is treasurer of the radio group.

Senator's Presence Unexpected

Senator O'Daniel, not expected by the investigators to attend, appeared early with his wife.

Crawford testified that as treasurer of the radio committee he had received contributions of approximately $109,000 and that about $79,000 of this had been turned over to the O'Daniel News. He said contributions of $25,000 each were received from H. R. Cullen, Texas oil man, and Senator Moore (R-Okla), also an oil man.

Called as the first witness was Robert Coar, president of a Washington radio transcription company. He said that his firm makes recordings of a program featuring a talk by Senator O'Daniel and hill billy band selections. These, he said, are mailed to "about 54 stations scattered all over the United States" and broadcast daily.

$1,100 For Transcriptions

Coar testified that he received about $1100 weekly for making the transcriptions.

Two postoffice officials were summoned concerning the newspaper's application for second class mailing privileges.

R. C. Daffer, bookkeeper in charge of second class postal rate filings, said that an application filed by the paper June 30 was still pending. A requirement not yet satisfied, he said, is the submission of a bona fide list of subscribers.

Nelson B. Wentzel, deputy third assistant postmaster general, testified that data supplied the Postoffice department showed that the O'Daniel News had 1,229 subscribers on its mailing list who paid for their own subscriptions, and an additional 1,270 paid for by others, or gift subscriptions.

Wentzel said that for a publication to obtain second class privileges at least half of its mailing list must be made up of individuals who paid for their own subscriptions.

Other Contributors Listed

Besides the two $25,000 contributions from Senator Moore and Cullen, a contribution list submitted to the committee by Crawford included the following:

Marrs McLean, W. O. Yarbrough, Mace Stewart, T. R. Armstrong, R. W. Briggs, Kay Kimbell and the King ranch, all $2,500 each; Mission Provision Co., $1,250; R. Lacy, J. M. McCauley, J. B. Beach, R. J. Morfa, La Mar Fleming, jr., Bridwell Oil Co., E. Starace and Brothers, A. R. Dillard, G. R. Le Bus, H. E. Butts Grocer Co., and John H. Hinsch, all $1,000 each; E. Firnhaher, $600; R. Morrison, Dee Davenport, D. M. Jones, Frank M. Lewis, A. A. Buchanan and W. D. Sutherland, all $500 each; Booth Brothers and DeWitt Langford, both $200 each.

store windows which had not been boarded up.

The storm swung around Key West last night, moved up the Florida west coast and turned inland just east of Tampa.

Winds up to 100 miles an hour caused some property damage in the Tampa area and the city was warned to expect another hard blow later today. St. Petersburg came through with no heavy damage reported.

The hurricane gave the Florida keys a severe lashing as it moved into the gulf from Cuba, but the city of Key West, which earlier expected to feel the full force of the storm, apparently suffered no serious damage.

Seven Dead, 300 Injured

Seven persons were known dead, more than 300 injured and property damage was heavy in western Cuba after the storm battered the Havana area for more than five hours. Government officials said it would be days before the full toll would be known.

In Florida, residents of the thickly populated beaches at Bradenton and Sarasota moved inland and more than two score families sought refuge in schools and churches. Extra keepers were ordered on duty at the winter quarters of the Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey circus at Sarasota to attend the big herd of elephants in their steel cages.

The entire Florida peninsula was alerted against strong gales, and hurricane warnings were extended into South Georgia.

Virtually all of Havana was left without electric power as a result of the terrific winds which struck there. Store fronts in the Cuban capital were smashed, insecure buildings crushed. The presidential palace, the American embassy and other buildings were flooded when debris smashed windows and wind prevented repairs.

Havana Damage Heavy

Property damage in Havana alone was estimated at several hundred thousand dollars and government officials expressed fear that other communities suffered even heavier casualtis and damage.

In a 6 a. m. bulletin, the weather bureau said that the storm is centered over St. Petersburg and Tampa and that both cities report winds of 100 miles per hour.

Bank Examiner Says Report Suppressed

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 19 (AP)—A Farm Credit administration examiner resigned today and charged in a statement that an examination of a federal bank for cooperatives is being suppressed "until after the November election for political reasons."

The examiner was Roland W. Bush of Houston. He did not name the federal bank in question.

W. J. Snow, acting governor of the Farm Credit association, said there was no politics involved in handling of the bank report and that FCA had decided upon a reexamination of the bank, which was now in progress. He expected the examination to be completed about Nov. 15.

Bush said he was resigning his $5,200 job so that the situation with respect to the bank "can be brought to public attention." Under Civil Service regulations, he was not permitted to "reveal the facts," he added.

Dallas News' Role In Vote Discounted

DALLAS, Oct. 19 (U.P.)—Texas Democrats do not fear the loss of many rural or urban votes as a result of the endorsement of the Republican ticket by the Dallas Morning News and the Galveston News, according to a party spokesman.

The statement was issued last night by Mrs. Ross Woodall, publicity director for the Democratic state executive committee and editor-publisher of the Huntsville Item.

She also said that few of the state's weekly newspapers will endorse the Dewey-Bricker team.

"The Dallas News had never given full and unqualified support to President Roosevelt," she said. "And this endorsement of Mr. Dewey will not influence the rural voters in Texas—the very people who brought about the endorsement of Roosevelt and Truman in September."

Briefs To Be Filed In Phone, Union Row

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19. (AP)—Southwestern Telephone Workers' union (Ind.) and the Southwestern Bell Telephone company were given two weeks to file briefs as testimony was concluded here yesterday in a regional War Labor Board panel hearing on a proposed wage increase for 33,000 employes of the firm.

The union has requested a 17½ cent-an-hour increase for all nonsupervisory employes, contending the weekly pay rate in the five-state area served by the company is $7.03 per week below the national average for telephone workers.

George C. Gephart, vice president and head of the personnel department of the company, said wages paid are in keeping with the general policy and any increase would be a violation of the Little Steel formula.

Reconciliation Of Lies Facing Japs

(By The Associated Press)

Japanese radio commentators faced a task today of reconciling today's reported invasion of the Philippines by General MacArthur's forces and a series of claims concerning a "great naval victory" near Formosa which they were preparing to celebrate Oct. 20.

Radio Tokyo asserted Monday that scores of American ships had been knocked out by Japanese naval and air forces which had delayed the "impending invasion of the Philippines by at least two months."

The invasion, the high command said today, started just one day later.

ships. The figures do not include the toll taken in daily raids this week over the Philippines.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said two enemy transports were sunk, five other ships left in flames, and 19 planes destroyed Wednesday (Philippines time) over Luzon and Camiguin islands. Manila radio claimed 33 Americans were shot down in those raids and 19 more today.

MacArthur's land-based planes sweeping the southern Philippines and its approaches sank or damaged six enemy vessels, pounded airdromes and rekindled fires at the Balikpapan oil refineries on Borneo.

In revised figures on the Formosa raids, Nimitz said 43 American planes were shot down. Tokyo claims 112, and admitted loss of 312 Imperial aircraft. Nipponese propagandists raised their claim of U. S. warship losses to 57 sunk or damaged. Nimitz didn't change his figures of none sunk and two knocked temporarily out of action.

No. 2 Candidates Active

The vice presidential nominees, Democrat Harry S. Truman and Republican John W. Bricker, for the time being stressed matters other than foreign policy.

Truman told an Eugene, Ore., crowd that Dewey traveled to the Pacific Northwest "posing as a liberal, then goes east to tell the old guard he is going to repeal all the liberal laws."

Bricker, in a Los Angeles speech saying that the war is being won "often in spite of the New Deal," attacked Truman as "one who is the product of the corrupt Pendergast machine, which preyed upon the people of Kansas City, which stole elections and perverted justice." Bricker was cheered so much by the crowd that he responded with an encore.

PAC Campaign Cited

Moving on to Bakersfield today, the Ohio governor said he had been informed that agents of the Political Action committee had launched a "campaign of threats and intimidation" among industrial workers to line up votes for the New Deal. "To those who have been approached in this manner," his advance text said, "I want to give this assurance. We still have a secret ballot in this country."

An Associated Press survey showed that far more than candidacies are to be voted on Nov. 7. In 30 states there are 126 proposed amendments to state constitutions, referenda and initiated measures to be adopted or rejected.

In Washington, the Senate campaign expenditures committee decided against a formal investigation of the Statler hotel fight between two Navy officers and AFL teamsters the night President Roosevelt spoke to the unionists. The committee turned to an investigation of the anti-fourth term publication of Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex), "the W. Lee O'Daniel News."

Advance Beyond Venray

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique, officially reporting the seizure of the rail and road town of Venray, seven miles from the German border, said that Allied forces had advanced two miles south of the Venray-Deurne road and gains had been made from the west along the north side of the railway east of Deurne.

The German report on this sector said that bitter hand-to-hand fighting was taking place east and northeast of Helmond, which the enemy has acknowledge evacuating. Helmond is five miles west of Deurne.

End Near For Aachen

Inside shell-ripped Aachen the end appeared in sight.

The Allied communique, however, said that the Nazi garrison was resisting stubornly, and placed the center of the fighting in the northwest section.

From the Berlin radio came a report that the Americans had reached the main Aachen station and were pushing on toward the heart of the city.

In the Vosges foothills, Eisenhower reported that Allied positions had been "consolidated and improved" at several points despite stubborn enemy resistance and "vain" counterattacks.

between the Polish and Hungarian plains.

Moscow announced early today that Col. Gen. Ivan D. Petrov's Fourth Ukranian command, pouring through gaps left in enemy defenses by Hungary's military collapse, had dealt stunning blows to German positions in the rich Danubian basin.

Strategic Passes Fall

The high command disclosed that Russian troops had captured seven important Carpathian passes in advances ranging from 12½ to 31 miles along a 170-mile front.

It also was disclosed that Russian and Romanian forces under Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, commander of the Second Ukranian army, have been fighting near Sighet for two days after a drive northward through Transylvania.

Destruction of the enemy's Carpathian line after a month long struggle costing heavily in blood overshadowed other important successes on the eastern front.

Belgrade Being Cleared

Front dispatches said the mop-up of Belgrade was progressing steadily, with Germans fighting and dying like wild animals in blazing hillside buildings from which they could not escape.

Southeast of Belgrade elements of at least two German divisions were reported surrounded by Russian and Yugoslav partisan forces.

Bulgarian troops spearheaded an all-Slavic drive across the width of Serbia which has now reached Cursumlija, 40 air miles west of Nis, and only 130 miles from the Adriatic sea.

For the seventh day there was no official news of the Red army's crucial battle at the approaches to Budapest. There was the possibility Hungarian forces loyal to Regent Nicholas Horthy may be regrouping for combined action against the Nazis with the Russians.

East Prussia Front Silent

A new defeat was inflicted on the remnants of the German army in western Latvia as Russians crossed the Lielupe river between Jelgava and the Baltic Moscow said.

The Russians remained silent on the offensive operations against East Prussia, either from Lithuania or northern Poland, which have been reported by Berlin.

Conducting the survey are: Capt. Ralph Porges and L. J. Hughes, both of San Francisco, and a field party of five men who have been trapping rodents in the city for the last several days.

Various tests are being made on the rodents to determine whether plague germs are prevalent in their bodies.

The survey is carrying out a nation-wide program of the federal service.

Three German Cities Raided

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—A thousand or more American heavy bombers attacked important military objectives today in the Mainz, Ludwigshafen and Mannheim areas of Southwest Germany.

Some 700 fighters flew with the Flying Fortresses and Liberators.

The three cities on the Rhine have large railyards and numerous war industries including armored vehicle works, ordnance and oil depots and chemical plants. Mannheim was hit by Mosquito bombers last night, while others of the wooden craft bombed Hannover.

Fly Through Overcast

The armada flew through a heavy overcast. It was the first time in six days that U. S. Eighth Air force attacks have been directed beyond the Rhineland city of Cologne, 40 miles from the battle of Aachen.

Night fliers bombed several unidentified objectives in western Germany.

Hannover is one of northwestern Germany's most important industrial and rail centers. Mannheim, on the Rhine, is a major supply point for the lower end of the Siegfried line.

One bomber was lost.

A United States communique said 10 heavy bombers and 23 fighters were lost yesterday in attacks on the northwest German communications centers of Cologne and Kassel.

Texas Politics

they are treading on thin ice from the legal standpoint."

Fight For Dewey Urged

The announcement made it plain that the only common ground was a fight for Dewey and Bricker.

"A vote for the Texas Regular electors is a half-vote for Dewey," the statement said. "Why not a whole vote?"

The statement revealed in full the jockeying for political position that reached a climax in a meeting in Houston Sunday—a meeting which brought the Republican decision to turn its back on the Texas Regulars.

Wichita Falls Rally Set

Pro-Roosevelt Texas Democrats planned a star-studded rally in Wichita Falls tonight to open their battle for votes. Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma and Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham topped a cast of congressmen and political leaders from two states.

Rayburn will speak first, introducing Gov. Kerr, whose 30-minute address is scheduled to be broadcast over a bi-state radio hookup.

Others present at the rally, headed by Col. W. T. Knight, chairman of the Texas Business and Professional Men's Democratic league, will be Congressmen Wright Patman, Lyndon Johnson, Lindley Beckworth, Ed Gossett, and Senator Tom Tyson, Harry Seay, Dallas, and Harrington Wimberly, Altus, Okla., state Democratic chairmen of Texas and Oklahoma, Myron Blalock of Marshall, Democratic national committeeman, and Former Governor James V. Allred.

Regulars To Fight

At Longview last night, Horace Blalock of Marshall, a presidential elector nominee of the Texas Regulars and campaign manager for the party, said "we are first of all interested in defeating Roosevelt and his Communistic masters."

In a radio address, Blalock declared "we prefer to do it with a Democrat but if our course results in the election of Dewey, we feel that this is more to be desired than to have four more years of administration under the influence of Sidney Hillman, Earl Browder and Felix Frankfurter."

On other political fronts were these developments:

Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex) arrived in Marlin for a brief rest before he speaks at two state Democratic rallies. He predicted the Roosevelt-Truman ticket would carry Texas by a heavy majority.

Rep. Luther A. Johnson (D-Texas) in Corsicana charged that Republicans had blocked every possible preparedness before Pearl Harbor and said he believed if the arms embargo act had been repealed sooner Hitler "may not have started the war."

James A. Crenshaw, state Republican speakers bureau chairman, said in Dallas that Col. Alvin M. Owsley, former minister to Eire in the Roosevelt administration, would make four major Republican rally addresses in Texas.

A "Democrat for Dewey" club was formed in Bexar county to work with the Dewey-Bricker club but not to be officially connected with it, Al Buchanan, San Antonio oil man, said yesterday.

McArthur May Be On His Way Back

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(Substituting For DeWitt Mackenzie)

Japanese reports that the re-occupation of the Philippines has begun are, as usual, subject to revision for accuracy, but fit perfectly into the picture of the Pacific war which has been building up for some time.

Whether the Leyte gulf action is actually a part of a general invasion or merely a preliminary is of little moment. Either way it means that within a comparatively short time MacArthur will have kept his promise to return.

Protective Arc Welded

Never before in world history has there been such a battle as that for the Philippines, which is actually what the entire Pacific war has amounted to so far. Japanese outposts have been pushed back gradually for thousands of miles to prepare for this action. Even Admiral Halsey's activities of the last few days, in a comparatively small corner of the great ocean, have been staged on a scale to stagger the imagination. He has thrown a great arc of protection between the Philippines and Japan, destroyed 915 enemy planes and with them the threat of aerial counter-action, sunk or damage 312 ships, and smashed many of the bases from which both operated. Now history's greatest fleet and greatest floating air force can be placed at the disposal of MacArthur.

Philippines Key To War

The battle will be bloody, but we can hope it will not be long. The Japanese have never been able to entrench themselves firmly in the central and southern Philippines, where native guerillas and even some Americans have continued resistance.

Once recovered as a base for further operations against Japan, the Philippines will prove the key to the whole Pacific war. The resources of the Indies, Sumatra and Malaya on which the Japanese have depended will be largely cut off. In three years America, fighting two wars either of which would have staggered the historians of the past, will have returned the Pacific situation almost to its starting point. We know now that we can't "whip the Japs in 90 days" as some thought before Pearl Harbor. But we also know that if MacArthur has Thanksgiving dinner in Manila, Japanese Thanksgiving will be all over.

Seagraves, Tahoka Meet Friday Night

SEAGRAVES, Oct. 19. (Special)—Playing to stay in the running in the red hot pennant scramble in District 5-A, the Seagraves High school gridders tangle here Friday night with the Tahoka Bulldogs, each club once beaten in the conference play which is paced by unbeaten Denver City and O'Donnell.

The Denver City Mustangs, winner over Tahoka last week by a 12-to-0 count, plays a non-conference game with Andrews visiting Denver City. The high flying O'Donnell Eagles, who clipped the wings of the Seagraves club by a 38-18 score, is expected to have but little trouble in their game at Seminole Friday.

It will be the swan song for the loser of the game here, and the ten-count will be sounded. But the winner will still be a contender in the race with Denver City still to face O'Donnell and Seagraves before the close of the season.

Dupre And K. Carter Win With Passes

Flashy aerial circuses were uncovered Wednesday afternoon in the grade school touch football conference games as the "pass happy" Dupre Dogies and K. Carter Coyotes took to the air to gain victories.

Norman Lindsey pitched the Dogies to a 20 to 0 win over the Wilson Wranglers while Jimmy Grace did the pitching honors for the Coyotes in their 26 to 0 victory over the Guadalupe Sombreros.

Dupre scored first on a pass from Johnny Tatum to Norman Lindsey, then Lindsey passed to Tatum for the extra point, and the only scoring done in the first half.

In the last half Lindsey took over, and threw touchdown passes to Dick Lowrey and Johnny Tatum, and tossed another pass to Lowrey for the extra point after the last touchdown.

Frank Ford, Wrangler back, was a constant threat.

Grace did all the pass pitching for the Coyotes, throwing passes for four touchdowns and two extra points. Gene Nelson caught the first touchdown pass, Bob Ed Bailiff the second, James Dunlap the third and Giles Florence the fourth. The extra point passes were to Dunlap and Florence after the second and third touchdowns.

Armour's Hike Lead In Bowling League

Armour's increased its lead to two full games over the second-place Lions club in the City-Commercial bowling league when its five took three in a row from Coca-Cola in a feature engagement Wednesday night at Plamour lanes. The Lions were able to take but two games from Hub laundry.

Other matches on the card also resulted in three-game victories with DeKalb Oilers winning over S. and Q. Clothiers and Meads Bakery winning over the Optimists.

Glen Welch set the pace in the scoring for three games with a hefty 603 series, but there was a close battle for single game honors with James Buckner's 237 the best. Welch also shot a 223 and Harry Holcomb turned in a 220.

AMERICAN COMMAND POST, Germany, Oct. 19. (U.P.)—A barrage of hailstones, the first harbinger of winter, danced on the ancient cobblestones of the courtyard outside.

The gray-haired officer, an old regular Army man with years of service, touched a match to his cigarette and mine and said:

"My best guess is that it won't be over until about the end of next May."

He looked reflectively at the dark sky and up the hill where the trees were turning brown and showering leaves in a cold wind which slanted the hailstones.

Could Be Over This Year

"Of course," he said, "it could be over by the first of the year if the Russians break through to Berlin. But if they don't in that time, the war could last another nine months — even another year.

"Yes, I've seen the newspaper clippings the boys have been getting from home that told of predictions made in August that Oct. 15 would be victory day.

"We've even had that kind of optimism here in the past. I collected 10 marks Sunday from a fellow who had picked the 15th."

His warning that the Allies face winter campaign in Europe is not new. Most of the GI's you meet up with where the fighting and living are the roughest now have discarded plans to be home for Christmas.

Nazis Know Jig Is Up

"My guess is that the end will come when the Russians take Berlin," the officer said. "The Nazis know the jig is up for them, whoever comes in, and they are going to fight to the last because they have no place to go.

"The regular wehrmacht troops may gradually surrender piecemeal, but the SS is going to hold out until the bitter end. One of these days we're going to be on the Rhine, but still a long way from Berlin."

Beriberi is not confined to rice eaters but may occur in persons subsisting on over-milled cereals.

Compress Companies Limit Bale Weight

The Texas Compress and Warehouse company and affiliated companies on the South Plains have notified ginners that no cotton bales "in excess of 600 pounds" will be accepted for compressing by the company, due to scarcity of labor and shortage of repair parts.

Damage to compress and gin machinery is caused by the overweight bales and they are also a problem for handlers at the compresses, the announcement by the company Wednesday stated.

Normal weight of bales should be between 450 and 500 pounds, the company's letter to ginners said.

Court To Consider Transfer Of Funds

AUSTIN, Oct. 19. (AP) — The state Supreme court has agreed to review two cases involving transfer of surplus special funds to the general fund, and held that bonds issued to build the Neches river bridge at Port Arthur were eligible to participate in the county road district highway fund.

In the fund transfer cases, the court granted writs of error on motions for rehearing on two cases, the court granted writs of error on motions for rehearing on two cases, the decision in which will indirectly effect the proposed transfer of approximately $1,700,000 of unexpended balances in special funds to the general fund. These transfers were authorized by the 48th legislature to help get the general funds out of the red.

In the Jefferson county case, the question involved was whether the bonds in question, to the extent the proceeds were used in construction of the bridge, were eligible for payment under the various road bond assumption acts.

The court reviewed these acts, noting in its opinion that it believed the state had the right to believe counties and road districts of obligations incurred for the use and benefit of the state at large. The road bond assumption acts of 1939, 1941, and 1943, it said, broadened the field of eligibility to include all bonds issued prior to Jan. 2, 1939.

Exes In Strickland's County Back Rainey

McALLEN, Oct. 19. (U.P.)—President Homer Price Rainey of the University of Texas today added the backing of ex-students in Regent D. F. Strickland's home county — Hidalgo — in his controversy with the board of regents.

Representatives from five cities — including Strickland's home town of Mission—passed a resolution commending Dr. Rainey in his "courageous and honest fight" after a bitter two hour debate last night.

Friends of Strickland argued that no action should be taken until the regents answer Dr. Rainey's 16 indictments charging "repressive measures" read last week to the general faculty.

Port Arthur Refinery Strike Is Ended

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 19 (U.P.)—The Texas company's huge Port Arthur refinery, one of the nation's largest producers of high-octane aviation gasoline, returned to normal production today following a seven-hour "sympathy" strike last night in which 3,000 oil workers walked off their jobs.

Responding to appeals from J. O. Hubbard of Houston, U. S. labor conciliator, and officials of the International Oil Workers (CIO) union, the men voted unanimously to return to work shortly before 10 o'clock last night.

The workers left their jobs at 3 p. m. yesterday in protest against refusal of the Texas company to re-hire 21 discharged rigger helpers. CIO leaders said the 21 men had been transferred to a labor gang and that when they protested this move the men were discharged.

Tom M. McCormick, vice president of the union, told the men last night that they had "grievances" but urged them to return to work and "seek redress by legal measures."
