SEVEN DROWN IN FLOODS

SENATE PASSES SCHOOL AID AT FOUR MILLIONS

Rural Aid Appropriation Surprise and Passes At $3,000,000

MARGIN OF ONE WINS

$6,000,000 Minority Report First Adopted, Then Reconsidered

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, June 11.—The emergency school aid appropriation was passed finally by the senate late today on suspension of rules at $4,000,000 for the next two years after a heated debate. The senate adopted the minority committee report recommending that the bill pass at $6,000,000 as passed in the house but later reconsidered this action by a vote of 12 to 11. The rural aid appropriation bill also was passed at $3,000,000.

Davidson Breaks Tie.

For a brief period it appeared as though the emergency appropriation would be placed at the same figure as passed last session. The minority report favoring such action was adopted by vote of 12 to 11. On final count, the vote stood tied 11 to11, and Lieutenant Governor Davidson voted for adoption.

On motion of Darwin, who declared he was paired with Baugh, but voted for the minority report, the vote was reconsidered and the majority report adopted without a record vote.

Vote on final passage was 20 to 3, Senators Wirtz, Murphy and McMillin casting the only dissenting votes. Amendment by Pollard to increase the appropriation to $5,000,000 and one by McMillin to decrease it to $2,000,000, were lost.

Minority Report Wins.

Although it had been expected the rural aid appropriation would be reduced by the upper house, the minority report recommending adoption of the bill at $3,000,000 was adopted by a vote of 18 to 7. Vote on final passage was 22 to 3, Murphy, Ridgeway and Wirtz voting against the measure.

An amendment by Davis, reducing the maximum number of scholastics of districts that may obtain aid from 500 to 300 was adopted, as was one by Murphy prohibiting the use of any of the funds for increasing salaries.

The senate had the two school bills before it throughout the afternoon. The upper house declined to concur in house amendments to the departmental emergency bill and called for a conference committee.

An effort was made to reconsider vote by which the rural aid bill was passed, but this failed and motion to reconsider another table failed, making certain that measure cannot be taken up again.

The bill was opposed by a number of members, and the reported oil strike on state lands was brought into the debate.

The house also killed the bill by Stewart of Edwards county, which proposed a 5 per cent gross receipts tax on dance halls. The bill failed to pass engrossment by a vote of 56 to 60.

The Floyd senate bill, changing the name of the state insurance and banking department to insurance department, was passed after adoption of an amendment which placed the salary of the insurance commission at $3,500 a year, and requires five years of practical insurance experience. R. B. Walthall, chief of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission, today received another official report on the Reagan county well from a deputy of the department. The report declared prospects are favorable for a producer and that the oil gushes from the well at intervals of approximately 18 hours. It further stated that although intervals of the spray are becoming longer, the continuance of the spray also is becoming longer. The deputy expressed belief that the well is good for 200 barrels a day as it now stands without drilling deeper.

The report also stated that casing has been ordered for drilling in the well and that storage facilities have been received. The reports continue to declare the oil is of high grade.

In trial at Austin this spring, Foster Bell was given a five-year sentence and John Miller's jury failed to agree. More cases resulting from the gun battle will come up in Austin this month, on change of venue.

Boy Got Knife Wound.

The fact that the Austin county grand jury did not indict Vierek and Schaffner, and that Thompson Bell died in this county, is given as the ground for the Bell county grand jury's action.

Ernest Schaffner, 18-year-old son of Frits Schaffner, received knife wounds in the Sealy encounter.

CITY OPPOSES GAS INCREASE

"Ready to Serve" Charge Frowned Upon At Special Session

A decision to oppose to the limit efforts of the municipal gas company to assess a monthly "ready to serve" rate of 50c on local gas consumers was reached by the city council at a special called meeting Monday afternoon. W. D. Cline, president of the chamber of commerce, met with the commissioners and pledged the support of that organization in the fight.

The new rate was explained by Burton Stayton, commissioner of public utilities, and City Attorney E. M. Mann, both of whom attended a gas hearing at Dallas last week in which the proposed action of the gas company was announced. It was the unanimous consensus of opinion of the council that the rate should not be allowed to become effective here.

Whether or not the gas company can be restrained or not remains to be seen, however. The added charge has been tacked on in other cities, and there is some apprehension here that no effective means to combat the action is in the power of the city.

The probable course of action, it seems, will be to seek repeal of the Cox law, which makes the state railroad commission the final power in all gas rate controversies. All disputes, it is pointed out, go before this body for settlement. With this law inoperative, it is pointed out, injunctions might be obtained against the gas company and the action blocked in this manner.

Denison, in which the ready to serve charge has been in effect for several years, is now in the middle of a court fight, seeking the repeal of this law, so that the power of injunction may be employed. It is suggested that the logical way for Wichita Falls to combat the increase is to aid Denison in an effort to repeal the law and then resort to the power of injunction.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. M'PHERSON
Kahn Bldg., 8th and Indiana
Consulting Engineer

Is it going to be possible to irrigate any more land than is now included in the two irrigation districts?

SEVENTH INSTALLMENT

The question of how much land can be irrigated depends upon how much water is going to be available in Lake Kemp and how much water on the average is going to be required to raise crops.

The question of how much water is required to raise a crop is one that is never settled. It is a question that has been given attention by the best minds in the irrigation world for many years.

The amount of water that is required to mature a crop is called the "duty of water." If but little water is used or required, the duty of water is said to be high, and if a great deal is used, then it is said to be low.

The duty of water here will be a determining factor in the amount of land that can be irrigated.

As we have seen, the amount of land that is available for irrigation is very large, but the quantity of water is limited. Therefore, the question of the duty of water here is going to be a most important one, because it is desirable and profitable to irrigate as much land as is possible.

While it is true that the duty of water has never been definitely settled, still it is not difficult to determine a limit above which the use of water becomes a waste and an injury to the land. It is possible to come very close to defining that limit here.

Our average rainfall is something like 27 inches per annum on the average, or on the average 3 ft. 3 in. of waterfall each year on each acre of land. Now, if three acre-feet of irrigation water is added to this rain fall each year, then there would be over five acre-feet of water for each acre of land each year. Such an amount of water far exceeds the record amount of rainfall that has ever been recorded here. Everyone knows that in years of maximum rainfall the crops never suffer for lack of water.

Therefore, we are safe in saying that if the farmer has delivered to him each year three acre-feet of irrigation water, he will always have plenty of water to raise any crop grown in this climate.

Tomorrow the matter of water supply will be discussed further.

OLYMPIC—Daniel Carson Goodman's "Has the World Gone Mad?"

Young Flappers smoking cigarettes!
Everybody carrying a flask!
$10,000,000 spent for cosmetics in 1922!
Youngsters educating parents!
People getting wilder and wilder!
Dances getting jazzier and jazzier!
Mothers more frivolous than their children!
Long-haired men and short-haired women!
Delicatessen meals!
Daylight nights!
Indolent days!

"Has the World Gone Mad?" Daniel Carson Goodman has produced a ruthless X-ray of Modern Life in this picture at the Olympic. Society grown haggard by the terrific pace! Life-hungry, folly-mad men and women clutching at tinseled crumbs of passing pleasure and missing the pure gold of real happiness.

Extravagance! Folly! Broken hearts! Twitched souls! Goodman goes directly to the core of his subject—the woman, who at 40 forgets her husband and children, undergoes the tortures of face lifting and obesity cure to prime herself for one last wild illicit fling; the husband whose interests are anywhere but in the bosom of His own family; the profligate son who packs a whisky flask in his hip pocket and gives his family many heartaches as a result of his wild escapades; the daughter who smokes cigarettes, pipes and even cigars and who gulps whisky with all the brazen nonchalance of a teamster—all these are lashed unmercifully by the producer who invests his narrative with a degree of understanding that places him in the front rank of present-day screen producers. He spares nobody's feelings, but reveals the truth in thundering situations and emotions.

ELINOR FAIR IN "DRIVEN"

Elinor Fair is starring in "Driven" at the Empress, a powerful picture of primitive life in the Blue Ridge mountains, where elemental passions rule and the law of force is the only law recognized.

Emily Fitzroy as the Spartan mother is magificent—she sacrifices her husband and three sons, revealing the long gought Tolliver moonshine still to revenue officers, so that her "baby" and the girl he loves may be permitted to find the happiness denied them.

Elinor Fair plays her part as the appealing little mountain waif, while Charles Mack of "Dream Street" and "One Exciting Night" fame has been loaned by David Wark Griffith to play opposite.

"BOHEMIAN GIRL"

"The Bohemian Girl" at the Strand, is a picturization of Balfe's famous old opera, from which have come such deathless airs as "The Heart Bowed Down" and "I Dreamt that I Dwelt in Marble Halls," two of the best loved songs in all folk-lore.

There is something appealing in gypsy life, the lure of clear skies, the fresh clean sweep of strong winds, swaying trees, tumbling streams, and the call of the open road. The Gypsy Trail!

The gypsies of "The Bohemian Girl" were not the ragged, dirty, illiterate, scum that drift around over the country in ram-shackle wagons, begging, telling fortues, and stealing as they go. They were real Romanys, natives of the province of Bohemia, in Austria. They traveled with a great caravan of horses and gorgeous gypsy wagons—regular houses on wheels, dressed in bright-hued garments richly embroidered and spangled, and were artists with tambourines and guitars. They were brilliant people, talented, well informed, lovers of beauty, and they pitied the shackled world who were content to spend all their days in one spot.

Romance, love, laughter, fear, and excitement all play their part in this delightful portrayal of the famous story. Just when Thaddeus a Polish lad, played by Ivor Novello who is under the protection of the tribe, and Gladys Cooper as Arline, daughter of an Austrian noble who was kidnaped as a child, find that they love each other more than life itself, the jealous Gypsy Queen places a very valuable medallion that had been stolen by the gypsies around Arline's neck, and sends her to the fair to tell fortunes. She is immediately arrested and sent up for trial with very little chance of escaping death.

But love—love that has shaken the very world, works wonders sometimes—love, and Thaddeus—

"Gypsy blood to Gypsy blood
Ever the wide world over.
Ever the wide world over, Lass,
Ever the trail held true,
Over the world and under the world,
And back at the last—to you!

TRAFFIC ACT BEING STUDIED

New Measure Is Given Its First Reading By City Council

The new traffic laws recently drafted by Chief of Police Hodgins were submitted to the city council by Police Commissioner Young Monday night and on his suggestion were passed on the first reading. No request was made for the emergency clause, which means that the ordinance must pass on three different readings, at least a week apart, before it becomes effective.

An expected protest from a committee representing the chamber of commerce business council was not pushed last night when it was found that at least two more weeks must elapse before the new laws will become effective. The committee, headed by Frank Queisser, was on hand at the session and was provided with copies of the ordinance as it was passed by the commissioners. The committee was asked to make a careful study of the laws and to present their protests at a later meeting.

A few minor changes were made in the rulings Monday afternoon after they had been carefully studied by City Attorney Mann. None of the alterations, however, were of any material nature. Commissioner Young stated that any suggestion from motorists of the city regarding the traffic regulations would be welcomed and, if found practical, embodied in the ordinance.

INDIANA PAVING BIDS ARE ASKED

One Block To Be Improved To Determine Costs

Bids for the paving of one block on Indiana avenue were called for by the city council Monday night, thereby starting actual operations on the move toward repaving the downtown business section.

The one block idea, it was pointed out, was done merely to expedite the calculating of paving costs for the entire project. Inasmuch as all blocks are of the same size, the figure submitted for one will answer for the balance of the work.

Any construction company handling a standard style of paving may bid on the work. This includes brick, bitulithic and concrete, all of which have been advocated as the most suitable type for the business streets.

All bids received will be opened at next Monday's meeting.

Diamond Rattler Killed By Man's Hoe At Newcastle

Special Dispatch to Record News

NEWCASTLE, Texas, June 11.—A huge diamond rattlesnake was killed about seven miles southeast of Newcastle this morning. It measures five feet and nine inches. It carried 10 rattles, with evidence that a portion had been broken off. The snake was killed by Pat Shelton and brought to town and placed on exhibition. It is the largest rattler killed in this vicinity in some time. The snake measures 12 inches in circumference at the largest place. Mr. Shelton was at work with a grubbing hoe when he discovered the snake. He removed the hoe from the handle and threw it at the snake, killing it the first throw.

Preacher Keeps Tom L. Burnett's Marriage Secret For Two Days

Through efforts to confirm the reported marriage of Tom Burnett of Iowa Park to Miss Lydia Shelton of Electra at Iowa Park last Saturday night were difficult due to the fact that repeated phone calls to the home of Rev. E. S. Lowrance, Iowa Park minister said to have officiated at the wedding, were unanswered, a cousin of the minister was finally reached who stated the marriage took place as previously reported.

The man who said he was a cousin of Rev. Lowrance stated the minister had said he was given instructions not to tell anyone about the wedding. When the minister was told that a newspaper was trying to confirm the wedding, he said, "Let them find out from the same place they got the same information," the cousin stated over the phone.

"Then Tom Burnett was really married by Rev. Lowrance Saturday night, as reported?" the man was asked.

"Yes. Go ahead and print it; you are safe, they were married all right," the cousin laughingly said over the telephone.

Tom Burnett is well known as a ranchman, capitalist and rodeo promoter in Texas and Oklahoma and who has resided in Wichita county most of his life. Mrs. Burnett is one of the popular society young ladies of Electra and daughter of M. J. Sheldon, prominent oil man of Electra.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett will make their home at Iowa Park and soon will occupy the palatial new home now under construction.

Rise In Lake

A four-inch rise in Lake Wichita has been recorded in the past few days as a result of recent rains, it was announced yesterday by F. N. Lawton, general manager of the city water department.

This, Mr. Lawton states, relieves at least temporarily the threatened water crisis, and barring unforseen emergencies the city now has sufficient water to last for several weeks. A further rise is expected, Mr. Lawton stated, which may assure a summer's supply.

COUNTY LEAGUE OPENS SUNDAY

Wichita Falls Club Loses To Fast Electra Aggregation

The Wichita Falls and Davidson teams of the Wichita County Baseball League were defeated by the Electra and Frederick, Oklahoma, nines in Sundays opening games.

Frederick got a win by the margin of only one run against Davidson in the opener, the only score being counted when catcher Wilburn hit a fast one over the fence for a home run. The winning run came in the twelfth inning after a scoreless game had been fought for eleven stanzas. Faukner, for Frederick, and Powers, for Davidson, were the opposing hurlers.

"Snipe" Conley, of the Wichita Falls team hurled a good game, but lost, due to a number of errors made by the infielders. Crow, hurling for Electra was hit at times, and was outpitched, but airtight support saved the game.

Team Standing:

JOY OF HEALTH WOMAN'S RIGHT

Mrs. Evans Freed from Female Weakness by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"I had female weakness with pains in my back, and I could not stand on my feet for any length of time. I was working in a factory but had to quit as I was too much on my feet. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and I can hardly believe it myself that I am well. Oh, it is a grand thing to have your health! I feel well all the time and can go out like other women and not feel that awful torture. When I took your medicine first I thought it should cure after the first bottle, but I am glad my husband kept me at it. I have had nine bottles and now I am well."—Mrs. JENNY EVANS, 1604 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

Keeping Pace In The Chess Match

Or a Wee Bit Ahead Houston in Cold Storage Quanah at Bat

Quanah — Bishop takes Knight. Wichita Falls—Pawn takes Bishop.

Considerable interest from various points of the compass has been aroused by the chess game with Quanah and some interesting news has sifted in concerning its chess and checkers club.

The club has a membership of 26 and all of them active chess players. It has eight chess tabls and additional folding tables for emergencies that may arise in entertaining visitors. The club also has a library and among its book treasures contributed by various members are twenty volumes on chess by as many different authorities and a file of the American Chess Bulletin running back to 1915. Quanah's checker champion, T. W. Cogdell recently played a checker match with the Oklahoma champion, O. U. Bellah of Hollis, Oklahoma. They played 101 games as follows:

Bellah 47, Cogdell 30, and 23 games a draw. In the present chess contest with Wichita Falls, the Quanah chess team is composed of Captain Harold McKee, Harry Koch, Wilson Hardin, T. W. Cogdell, J. C. Harper and W. J. Owens.

POLK PAVING CONTRACT LET

Brick Will Be Used Between Avenues D and G

Contract for the paving of Polk street between Avenues D and G was awarded by the city council Monday night to the Plains Paving company. Brick will be the style of paving put down.

Several property owners along the route appeared before the commissioners and expressed their preference for this type of paving.

The Pearl street project, extending from Brook to Grace, was awarded to the L. E. Whitman company for concrete paving.

July 9 was set by the commissioners as a date for a public hearing on the street car routing past the new junior college building. Considerable opposition has been expressed to the proposed routing, which runs down Avenue G from Bell to Giddings and thence north on Giddings to Avenue F. It was originally intended that the line follow this same course with the exception of Avenue G, it being proposed to run the line down Avenue F between Bell and Giddings.

Proposed paving projects on Avenue F have complicated the situation and property owners on both streets want the line barred from in front of their homes.

The prompt payment of debts is the one virtue lacking in many a man's makeup.

Community Picnic In Scotland Park Planned July Fourth For Everyone

A huge community picnic for the entire city is being planned for July 4, it was disclosed Monday night when Mrs. F. C. Barron and Mrs. T. R. Bronson, representing the Civic league, appeared before the city council and asked that all concession rights for the day be granted to the league or its auxiliaries. The request was approved with but little opposition.

In outlining plans for the occasion, Mrs. Barron and Mrs. Bronson stated that luncheon clubs of the city would be asked to lend their support to the affair and that it was the intention to make the picnic one of the largest community events staged here in some time. The picnic will be held in Scotland park, it was announced, and will probably be for the duration of the entire day.

Basket lunches will be the chief feature, but special entertainment features will probably be arranged, Mrs. Barron stated. The concession feature, she said, merely meant that if any cold drink stands, sandwich counters or pop corn wagons were on the grounds, it was the wish of the Civic league that these be under the direction of the league auxiliaries so that any profit that might be made could go for the betterment of civic conditions here. The various league auxiliaries are planning to conduct such stands, it was said.

With ferns and orchid spring flowers furnishing the adornment for one of the most attractive affairs complimenting Miss Sara Dale of Henrietta, bride-elect, was the afternoon at bridge Monday when Misses Mattie Lee Straus and Madelne Mackechney were hostesses at the Wichita club.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS MONDAY

In a letter from the "living link" missionary in Mexico, of the First Christian church at this place, Miss Etta Nunn, read, at the meeting Monday afternoon, to the local society, she told of going to San Pedro in a motor car and being held up by eight Mexican bandits. The car was also carrying the pay roll of the miners, Miss Nunn wrote, and bandits stripped them of every thing they had with them. In the regular monthly letter to the society, Miss Nunn wrote of plans formed for the Penticostal service and program arranged for Children's Day.

The meeting was opened with a song, and devotionals were led by Mrs. A. A. Young.

In a report from the nominating committee, Mrs. W. R. Ferguson was re-elected president; Mrs. Claude Hale, elected vice president; Mrs. A. D. Patillo, secretary; Mrs. R. E. Shepherd, treasurer and Mrs. O. H. Karr, press reporter.

Miss Nunn thanked the society for the Bibles sent by them, and it was decided at this meeting to send 20 more.

During the business meeting mite boxes were given out for the golden jubilee and it is planned to reach the goal of 1,500 by October 1924. The society went over the top on its money making for the "living link," Miss Nunn.

Mrs. E. L. Patterson was appointed Light Bearer superintendent, and a motion was made to send a pair of gloves to the missionary to take the place of the ones taken by the robbers.

A splendid program was given in charge of Mrs. Strange's division in which papers were read by Mesdames T. M. Conrey, P. B. Curd, Bolton and Karr, and two readings given by Mrs. A. A. Young, all of which were very much appreciated.

Society Woman Is Mentioned In Stillman News

Mrs. Joseph Truit Talbert

The name of Mrs. Joseph Truit Talbert, New York society woman, has been brought into the recent stories in connection with James A. Stillman's social affairs. That Stillman has been paying marked attention to Mrs. Talbert is the report around New York. Mrs. "Fifi" Stillman has mentioned Mrs. Talbert several times as a friend of Stillman's.

Housewives Say:

When stewing fruit add one teaspoonful of vinegar or lemon juice to every pound of fruit. This will save you one-third the quantity of sugar you would otherwise require.

To remove iron stains from woolen articles dip the stained part in a saucer or bowl containing a little warm hydrochloric acid. Allow it to soak for a minute or two, then wash the article and rinse in strong soda and water to remove all traces of the acid.

Gas stoves require a great deal more cleaning and polishing than they often get. A dirty stove is the cause of a disagreeable smell in the house.

An easy way to curl ostrich plumes when they are damp is to put them in the oven for a few minutes. But be careful to leave the door open and see that the oven is not too hot, or they may burn.

Stubborn white stains on polished wood, made by hot dishes, may be removed by applying to the spots a feather dipped in sweet spirits of nitre. But this must be used very sparingly and the place must directly be rubbed well with a cloth dipped in sweet oil. When the stain is completely removed polish well with beeswax and turpentine.

To keep the coal hod clean line it with several thicknesses of paper.

When the furniture looks sticky or smeary, too much furniture polish has been used.

Poems That Live

TO ONE WHO HAS BEEN LONG IN CITY PENT

To one who has been long in city pent,
'Tis very sweet to look into the fair
And open face of heaven,—to breathe a prayer
Full in the smile of the blue firmament.
Who is more happy, when, with heart's content,
Fatigued he sinks into some pleasant lair
Of wavy grass, and reads a debonair
And gentle tale of love and languishment?
Returning home at evening, with an ear
Catchings notes of Philomel,—an eye
Watching the sailing cloudlet's bright career,
He mourns that day so soon has glided by:
E'en like the passage of an angel's tear
That falls through the clear ether silently.

UNCOMMON SENSE

BY JOHN BLAKE

NATURE ACCEPTS EXCUSES

The swiftly running river does not take into account the fact that the man who rocks the boat has not learned to swim.

His negligence in that respect is the means of losing his life.

The child who stumbles into the fire place discovers that the fire is not inclined to consider the fact that he didn't know it was hot.

As soon as he learns that ignorance is not an acceptable excuse, he keeps out of the fire.

In the hospitals of every civilized country are hundreds of thousands of sufferers who have discovered too late that nature does not regard as valid their excuses, often made to other people, that they knew nothing of the laws of health.

If they get well they remember that, and take better care of themselves in the future.

If excuses were never valid, there would be less suffering and fewer expensive mistakes.

But man, being fallible, himself., is prone to accept excuses, and to overlook "just this once" misconduct.

It is a kindly thing to do, as far as appearances go, but in the end it results in the perpetuation of a great deal of sin and folly and a great deal of laziness and inefficiency.

There are, of course, valid excuses for many of the wrong things people do, but they constitute about one tenth of one per cent of all the excuses that are made.

The most hopeless victims of the excuse habit are those who make excuses to themselves and accept them.

Gradually they become chronic excusers, and at last feel justified in anything they do, be it right or wrong.

In their relations with nature, however, they must be careful, or they do not remain very long upon this earth.

The laws of nature are firmly laid down. It requires but little effort to learn them.

Once they have learned them people ought to live healthy and happy lives. But while Nature may seem to overlook one violation or twenty, she really is keeping track of them remorslessly and the day will come when it will be too late to be sorry.

It might be a harder world if men were as remorseless in the matter of accepting excuses as is nature. But such a state of affairs would breed a more independent, self-reliant and happier and abler race of human beings.

The excuse habit is one of the worst that can be formed, and it is made still worse when excuses are taken at their face value.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

GEMINI

Today is fairly propitious one for you if you desire to transact business, to shot or to enter a contract relating to machinery. It is excellent for literary matters, short trips, visits and trading.

A child born today should be kept in quiet and calm surroundings as it will have a tendency to become hysterical when over-excited.

If today is your birthday you could easily improve upon your character but the chances ar you will go right along the same old way no matter how much good sound advice you are given.

You are the kind of person who will be courteous enough to listen to friendly advisors and apparently agree with them in a most convincing manner, but at the same time have no intention of doing anything that you are told. You are headstrong and are fully convinced that you know more than the average person, although you have no ground for your self-confidence.

Very independent of what other people are doing and coupled with peculiar tastes of your own, you may often miss good opportunities, while chasing what you think are sure things when in reality they are only bubbles.

You could display much ability if only you would allow your mind to be guided right, and kept in a steady line of thought.

In spite of your unsociable habits there will always be someone waiting and ready to respond to you.

In time you will unconsciously overcome your attitude of independence. It will take on a new form and no matter what obstacles face you, you will always surmount them and carry on with the courage of your former convictions.

Your mind is both profound and romantic, but not very practical. You are capable of very deep interest in a subject when engrossed in it, you have the faculty of making it interesting to others.

In matters of love you will have remarkable tenacity, not giving up until you have gotten the person whom you want. You will encounter discouragement and many rebuffs, without once weakening in your pursuit. You will not take no for an answer and for this reason you will win out, but it may require patient waiting.

Well known people born on this date are: Frank M. Chapman, ornithologist, James M. Baldwin, psychologist, Alice M. Rollins, author.

OLD STUFF

Herewith a tardy acknowledgement to King Tut.

A few years ago The Nation's Business gave Doc Crumbine, of Kansas credit for originating the phrase "swat the fly." It now develops, as the tomb yawns that the credit is not his. Sundry and suggestive fly swatters found among King Tut's treasures are evidence that this astute ruler ready and resourceful to meet possible unrest, floated into office with "swat the fly" as the main plank in his campaign to clean up the banks of the Nile.

Sorry to take this away from Dr. Crumbie, but we still leave him the credit for the 10-foot bed sheet law, the individual drinking cup and putting an end to the roller towel.—The Nation's Business.

FORD AND HIS MOVIE FOES

There is a national organization known as the Motion Picture Theatre Owners Association of America. This association held its annual convention in the city of Chicago. Sydney S. Cohen of New York is the president of this association. Cohen and his friends, before the annual election of officers came, declared that they had discovered a plan of the backers of Henry Ford to obtain control of the moving picture theatres of the United States for the purpose of spreading propaganda which would make him president of the United States.

Then the proceedings became uproarous. President Cohen announced as a candidate for re-election. He declared the Michigan situation "revealed the alleged participation of Henry Ford of Detroit, through his emissaries, in the affairs of the convention and their participation in matters associated with the election of the president and other officers."

Many of the delegates, particularly those from Michigan and Minnesota, were favorable to the candidacy of James C. Ritter of Detroit. President Cohen saw an opening and jumped in. He denounced Henry Ford and his emissaries. He said he wished to be as emphatic as he could on the proposition that the screens of the motion picture theatres should always remain free in the service of the people, unhampered by any political or other centralized control.

"Only in this way," he said, "can we render the maximum of service to the public. To curtail the activities of this great medium of expression would be equivalent to curbing the freedom of the press, which is written into the constitution of the United States. It is unfortunate that a man of Mr. Ford's attainments, one of the industrial giants of the world, should divert any portion of his energies to maligning and traducing a great race whose participation in world affairs dates back into antiquity."

President Cohen referred to Henry Ford's "attack on Jews, many of whom were represented at the convention." James C. Ritter refused to permit the use of his name. Sydney J. Cohen received 234 out of 378 votes cast at a stormy session, during which a number of delegates refused to vote, and the Minnesota and Michigan delegates walked out of the coliseum convention hall. A motion that Cohen be unanimously elected followed his address and produced a storm of objections from the Middle Western section.

As the roll by states was called, many of the Middle Western contingents, totaling 14 delegates, refused to vote. Some delegates left the assembly.

President Cohen had the last word, saying: "This is especially unfortunate, in view of the fact that these same energies (Henry Ford's energies) might be utilized along other lines helpful to the people of the country, where the religion of no person is questioned and the rights of worship and freedom of speech are guaranteed."

As a matter of news, it is permissible to say that the National Motion Picture Theatre Owners Association of America is an independent association composed of 12,000 motion picture theatre owners throughout the country. Many of the dissenting delegates insisted that the headquarters of the association should be moved to a city more central than New York. With President Cohen re-elected, it was declared that control would remain on Manhattan Island.

As a matter of fact, positive denial was made by the delegates from Michigan that they represented Henry Ford or that Henry Ford had any program for them to put over. Col. Will H. Hays resigned the office of postmaster general of the United States to become the general manager of a huge organization of motion picture producers. Colonel Hays is one of the most odroit and resourceful politicians America has known. He was the chairman of the national executive committee of the republican party, and early in 1917 he began the publicity campaign which poisoned the American people, or great numbers of them, against the league of nations and other Wilson policies of government.

There was no riot on the part of motion picture owners when Colonel Hays was elected to his $150,000 a year position, for the good and sufficient reason that Colonel Hays, Henry Ford or any other Napoleon of politics or finance would not be able to control the movies in the interests of any one candidate or set of candidates without inviting the wrath of the people on the other side and inviting legislation of the most hostile nature.

Henry Ford remains the mystery man of American politics. Those who dislike him are doing their best to smoke him out. He is the sphinx of the hour, as well as the mystery man of politics. No man speaks for him. No newspaper has authority to speak for him. He is jogging along in the middle of the road, never turning to the right or to the left, and ever playing havoc with the political dreams of those who assume to be the Napoleonic directors of the two great political organizations.

This is another straw. Senator Henry A. Ashhurst of Arizona, after swinging around the national circle, landed in the city of Washington. Ashhurst is a democrat. He said everywhere in the West, in the agricultural as well as the mining states, Ford sentiment was "oozing out," and the politicians were up in the air.

This is the third democratic senator who has returned to the national capital, giving the same account of his researches in a political sense. Now, what is going to happen next year? What is the political man of mystery going to do when the time comes?

Positively He Knows

Hubby—Goodness sakes, I've just swallowed my collar button.

Wifie—Well, at least you know that it isn't under the dresser.

THE NEXT SUBJECT FOR DISCUSSION WILL BE: — "WHERE SHALL WE GO FOR OUR VACATION?"

The VANISHING MEN

By Richard Washburn Child

Peter DeWolfe had gone to London after the war for a reason typical of him.

For most Americans a single track Success is an inspiration of life; there is a raw meat satisfaction in hewing to the line until some tree falls and also an instinct for playing the latest game. The true sense of play is a rare flower to bloom on the American soil; it is still more rare a blossom to find growing on a family tree, rooted, as Peter's was rooted, in a bed of money.

Peter took an interest in living. The common run of bachelors who are provided apmly with millions accept the alternative of going to hell or going to business; DeWolfe's imagination came to his rescue and provided him with a third choice which, in his quiet way, he seized about the time he left college. It was to live for the sake of living.

Lark skin, blue eyes, thin sensitive lips, the appearance of one well bathed in ice cold water, the flexible lean waist of a good horseman, the long muscular finger of a good tennis player who had not lost the delicacy of touch which made him something less than a distinguished performer upon a cello—these were his outward attractions.

Eversby Benham of the R. A. F. must bear the blame for the months in which DeWolfe found his great adventure. For it was Benham who first steered the young American across the path of Brena Selcoss.

They were talking of women and love.

"What would make you fall in love with a woman?" asked Benham.

"Almost anything," Peter replied. "But that't not the problem; the problem is what will prevent a man falling out?"

"You should try Brena Selcoss."

"Brena Selcoss is a friend of my sister," said Benham. "I must say she takes the breath out of me. It's that queer combination of beautiful fresh youth with the flavor of all the guile and conspiracy of the ages. She's a Saint Cecelia or a Lucrezia Borgia. But that's not bothering my mother."

"What bothers her?"

"Funny things. We don't know who she is. From Texas, I believe. With some money. But why does a girl from the United States come down to Beconshire Heath and buy a curate's cottage next to our place and read lying flat on the grass and see nobody and evade all questions? And the look in her eyes! I didn't see it at first because I was in a funk at the eyes themselves."

"What look?" asked DeWolfe.

"Fear!" said Benham. "And besides there is something about her that tells a person that she is waiting—marking time—treading water—staring out over life—just like a watcher on the shore stares out across the empty sea. The ordinary girl has a personality of a pink color. Brena Selcoss' is the color of firelight on the walls of an old temple."

"You might go on to say that she gives the impression of an Inca princess. Some dried mummy from the sands of a prehistoric citadel. Bather in some magic liquid, her limbs expanded to the lovely contour of girlhood, here face warmed with a renewed coursing of spirited blood."

"You've seen her!" exclaimed Benham.

"My dear fellow, I've never seen her; but I confess that us you talk about her I feel a little as if I had known her—long ago."

Benham said, "Perhaps you could lift the cover—"

He stopped suddenly.

"And I'd like to have you meet Muriel, too. She's a very decent sort of sister. I've a mind to give you a letter to my mother and send you over the Channel to loaf around in flannels at our place in the country.

Benham told more of the attractive Brena.

"Her father was a banished Greek patriot—a fighting professor of chemistry or something. And her mother was Irish."

"Give me a letter to your family," said Peter finally. "I'm off for London to-morrow."

Muriel Benham was savagely a Woman. She conceived woman as a species as distinct from males as flora is distinct from fauna.

And being a woman meant that her brown hair must be made attractive and stable for tennis—a game which she executed with a good deal of dash, in a costume designed to keep freckles off a milk white skin. The same thought made her appear before Peter in the hedge-walled garden before breakfast clad in a part wispy and part fluffy gown with a basket of roses hung on one elbow.

"You do all things so well," said Peter with a great delight filling his being. "There is a thoroughness in your method which positively upsets me. I looked at the library in your study and as far as I can see you have spent your twenty years collecting, among others, books on how to do things—how to ride a horse, how to play golf, how to knit, how to cast a fly, how to speak Italian, how to grow roses and who knows what else."

The English girl was sincerely grateful to Peter. She said, "But I think it is all as nothing compared to the skill of being a woman—a fit woman—a woman whose one aim is to be a woman."

"You have attained it, said Peter.

The girl tossed a ball up and caught it in her white skirt spread from knee to knee as she sat cross-legged upon the edge of the Benhams' lawn.

"Peter, I saw you before breakfast," she said. "From my window."

"You saw me?" he said. "Why didn't you call to me and say one of your cheery good mornings?"

She leaned close. "Because I was waiting to see what you were doing. "What was I doing?" said Peter. "The telescope—father's telescope."

He was thinking that one could not very well tell hosts like Muriel and her mother who had treated him as if he were the owner of the estate, that he had come to Beconshire not to see them. He was thinking that if they had not chosen to mention an acquaintance (other than the rather stiff and dull and correct persons who had come to tea almost every afternoon and to dinners) he could not very well mention this acquaintance!

Furthermore he had begun to feel that Muriel in some strange manner of her own had created an atmosphere of a proprietress.

"You were standing there under that beech tree," Muriel went on. "I thought—"

"What did you think?"

"That you" were looking through the glass across the fields toward that place under the big trees—the place we call 'the Curate's' because one used to live there."

Peter might have spoken then to ask who now occupied the little gabled house, but his characteristic perversity added, at this moment, to his disinclination to disclose one of his reasons for idling under the Benhams' roof, prevented him from speaking. After a long pause, he said, "I was looking around the country."

"I do not believe you," the girl said, jumping up with startling suddenness.

"Where are you going?" he asked.

"Into the house. I have a headache."

But at the vine-covered portico she turned and, making a pretty picture with her high color and her lean young body, called out, "Do you want a walk this afternoon—to Besman Wood?"

Muriel began that afternoon walk with great gayety of spirits. She sang an old hunting song of quaint and engaging melody.

"Let's learn the song together," she said to Peter. "Look over there on the edge of the horizon. That square tower. That's Saint Dunstan's—the very tower in which the fox sought sanctuary in the song—the old song, written six hundred years ago, they say."

Peter, with his usual adaptability, acquired both words and music. He sang. He danced upon the rolling green plain.

And at last seizing Muriel's waist around the belt of her sporting coat, he swung her almost off her feet and together they whirled merrily—two tiny tops spinning upon the vast expanse.

When they stopped, the girl, almost dizzy, and breathless, clung for a moment to his coat and looked up into Peter's eyes. He could feel her warm breath upon his chin.

Peter was not lacking in perception; he knew at once that his visit at the Benhams must come to an end.

Peter, as he chatted with Mrs. Benham that night, at dinner, faced the long French windows of the dining-room. Just outside was the blue stone driveway of the house and the path to the side door. Upon this path Peter thought he had seen a flash of white, a mere flick of movement out of the corner of his eye as he put down his gilt coffee cup.

"What did you see?" asked Muriel suddenly.

"I? Why I thought I saw a white spot in the dark out there—like a person's face."

Muriel stiffened. "I don't know who it could be," she said. "Lucy, turn on the light outside the north door."

The electric lamp above the outer door threw down its light like an overturned bucket of yellow liquid. A woman was standing there, and Peter believed that as she had stood in the dark, unseen she had been looking straight into his face.

She wore no hat and her hair piled up in immense snake-like coils was the color of certain frost-turned leaves of autumn which are neither red nor gold, but both colors at once.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TO GET CONTROL OF CENTRAL PACIFIC

Associated Press Dispatch

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 11.— Decision has been reached by the federal circuit court of appeals to approve the order of the interstate commerce commission giving the Southern Pacific railroad company control of the Central Pacific company, it was learned here today.

This information was given to Associated Press by Judge Walter H. Sanborn who said counsel has been notified to appear next Monday, June 18, to argue on the form of the decision.

DEMOCRATS ATTACK LASKER'S JUNKET

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON June 11.—Prediction that there will be "congressional demands for an explanation of waste of tax payers' money," unless Chairman Lasker of the shipping board "abandons his plans for a 'million dollar joy ride' on the Leviathan," was made in a published statement today by the democratic national committee.

Referring to arrangements made for a six day trial trip for the steamship after her reconditioning for the trans-Atlantic passenger service is completed at Boston this month, the committee's statement declared "an investigation of this junket de luxe is certain to be forced by the democrats of congress."

Omaha Hog Prices Hit Lowest Level Since 1911

Associated Press Dispatch

OMAHA, Neb., June 11.—The estimated average cost per hundred pounds for hogs in Omaha market today, that of $6.00 to $6.05, is the lowest since No. 27, 1922, when it was 6.00, according to the local office of the United States department of agriculture. Heavy receipts were held partly responsible. It was also said that packers have plenty of pork on hand and that their storage facilities are crowded.

CANDY SHOP INDICATIVI

"There are many little straws to indicate what is happening in a town, with regard to its growth and its people's average buying power," says Fred Kelly in The Nation's Business. "The city directory, telephone book and school census give a good idea each year of the rate of growth. And the stores know how readily people are parting with their money. To get a line on spending tendencies, I should rather have information from a cigar store or a candy shop than from a piano store. Each deals in luxuries, but the one selling small articles will more nearly keep pace from day to day with average people's average spending impulses."

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

REALISM

I have no elevated brow;
My culture I misdoubt;
I still am keen to find out how
A novel will turn out.
And though they have enormous sales
I never seem to fall
As other people do for tales
That don't turn out at all!

When characters, from chapter one,
Get more and more involved
I want, when all is said and done,
The problem to be solved.
But now no character escapes
With an undamaged skin;
They never can get out of scrapes—
They only can get in.

The author starts them on their course:
He lets them go too far;
And then, without the least remorse,
He leaves them where they are!
And readers, such as you and I,
Abandoned and perplexed,
Have no recourse except to try
To guess what happens next.

This may be life, as we are told,
It also may be true;
But life is dross, and fiction's gold,
Which old-time writers knew.
The modern sort should have a heart,
Their work may win success,
But they are guided not by art,
But just sheer laxiness!

THEY DO THE BEST THEY CAN

If China were civilized those bandits would all be running bucket shops.

DISCOURAGING

Perhaps the United States would take more interest in Germany if it could get more interest out of her.

A TRIFLE TOO ROUGH

HOME OF THE "BELLE OF WICHITA"

One of the largest of Wichita Falls home industries is the Wichita Mill and Elevator, a master mill with a capacity that ranks it as one of the largest in the south. Among the oldest of Wichita Falls business institutions, the Wichita Mill and Elevator company is owned and operated by Wichita Falls men, who established it in this city more than 25 years ago.

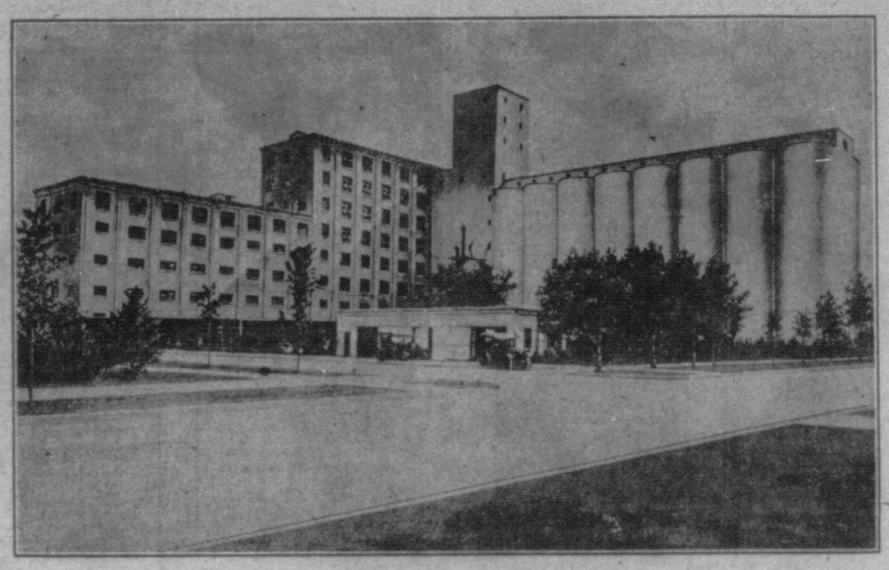

The product of the mill, Belle of Wichita Flour, is as well known both locally and over the world, as the founder of the company, Frank Kell, is known in the Southwest, and is one of the standard grades of flour that is exported to points the world over.

The Picture Below Is That of The Wichita Mill & Elevator Co. What Do You Know About Them?

HISTORY OF THE MILL —AND ITS PERSONNEL

The Wichita Mill and Elevator company, organized in Wichita Falls 26 years ago by Frank Kell, was first known as the Wichita Valley Milling company, having its location in the east part of Wichita Falls. This smaller mill, which had a capacity of only 200 barrels daily, was the first milling venture of Frank Kell in the city, Mr. Kell coming here in 1897 to take over active management of the first mill.

It was not long before the demand for the products of the Wichita mill made a larger output necessary, and it was in 1919 that the present enormous plant was erected at its present site, becoming the permanent home of Belle of Wichita Flour. The new mill, occupying an entire city block, is in size, one of the largest south of Kansas City, having a capacity of 2,500 barrels of Belle of Wichita Flour daily, and 500 barrels of meal.

Management of such a large institution requires a corps of milling experts, and a body of experienced executives is in active charge of the operation of the giant plant. Frank Kell long ago was relieved of actual management when other duties became too pressing, but remains in touch with the mill, through the present manager, T. P. Duncan. Mr. Kell is president of the mill.

Joe Kell, the son of the founder, is one of the officers of the company, acting in the capacity of secretary and manager of the grain department. Joe Kell was connected with the Oklahoma City Mill and Elevator company for several years previous to his enlistment in the army during the world war, coming to the Wichita Falls mill after serving two years with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. He has been at the head of the grain department since May, 1921, when he returned to Wichita Falls.

Other officers of the mill include J. W. Murphy, treasurer; G. H. Wilson, sales manager, and C. W. Beavers, superintendent of milling. Mr. Duncan, manager, became connected with the mill in 1900, but left Wichita Falls in 1908 to become manager of the Waco Mill and Elevator company, later returning here, in 1921, to resume management of the local mill. The mill building, probably the tallest in the city, covers an entire city block, and with its white tower visible for miles, is a landmark that has guided many travelers to The City That Faith Built. In its operation, more than 100 workmen are required. They work in shifts, the mill being operated 24 hours daily, making possible the enormous output of flour that supplies the demand made upon the producers.

In addition to the milling of flour, meal and flour grain feed is manufactured. There is also a large storage tower and several elevators, with a combined capacity of 1,000,000 bushels of grain, the elevators being kept filled the greater part of the year.

Belle of Wichita flour, the chief product of the master mill, is sent, in addition to the local domestic territory that takes in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Arkansas, to many foreign countries. Ambrose Yeager is manager of the exporting department of the mill, and yearly sends many shipments of flour and grain to Europe and South American countries. It is to the Latin-American countries that the greater part of the exported flour goes, even the huge mill being unable to care for the orders that come in from Europe. However, flour in some amounts is sent to Amsterdam and ports in Europe where it is especially in demand.

The Wichita Mill and Elevator company is one of the best known of Wichita Falls' business institutions, making one of the best known of products. It is one of the oldest institution in the city, and one owned and operated by and for the Wichita Falls trade territory.

Exporters Refuse to Be Beaten and Win 6 to 5

KITCHENS CREW SHOWS MUCH BETTER CLASS IN HANDLING SPUDS IN FAST TEN INNINGS

Cotters Gets Home Run That Fails to Win For Salmites; Heavy Hitting Features Game As Shippers Come From Behind.

BEAUMONT, June 11.—Showing a spirit that just would not be beaten, the Beaumont Exporters came from behind three times in the opening game with the Spudders this afternoon, finally winning in the tenth inning by a score of 6 to 5. Both teams went after the game earnestly, and neither was ever more than one run in the lead, the game being a see-saw slugfest from the start, although both hurlers kept the hits sufficiently scattered, holding the scoring low.

In the tenth, with the count tied, three and three, the Spudders scored twice, seemingly assuring them of a win in the extra inning, but with the same spunk that they had shown in the earlier pinches the Exporters managed to get three across, taking the battle by a one-run margin.

Exporters Improved.

The Exporters play plainly showed improvement and renewed spirit of a reorganized club. Pop Kitchens, recently a catcher on the Spudder staff, now managing the Beaumont aggregation, used his knowledge of the Spuds, catching the game himself, and doing an unusually good job of it. His generalship while in the field and at bat, in directing the plays, was largely responsible for the victory.

Five innings went by without a score, the Spudders and Exporters playing airtight ball. Wichita Falls seemed to be getting the best of the hitting in the early stanzas.

Cotter, back in the game for the first time since his injury a week ago, singled to right field, taking third on Grigsby's timely bingle to left. He scored the first run when White sent a hot double to deep center field and three outs stopped the runs, with Grigsby on third base.

Exporters Lead.

The exporters, not content to stay behind, took the lead in their half of the sixth when they got a couple of counters across the plate. Demaggio singled to first, getting to second on a sacrifice by Turgeon. Kirk was out on an infield fly, and Kirkham's single to the right field fence scored Demaggio. Kirkham took third on Allen's single to center field, and scored on Huber's single to the same spot.

The seventh stanza passed rapidly without a run and in the eighth the Spuds again took the lead, only to lose it to the Kitchens club, who tied the count which stayed for an extra inning.

Cotter broke loose the scoring for the inning with a home run over the right field fence. Grigsby attempted to duplicate the feat and nearly did so getting a double over the right fielders head. He scored on Berger's double to left, the Spuds again taking the lead.

Turgeon started things for the Exporters with a single to right that put him in a position to score, and went to second on Blacks sacrifice to left field. Kirkham singled to right, Turgeon being held at third, but scoring on Huber's single to the right pasture. The run gave the Exporters a tie, that finally was broken in the tenth for a win.

In the extra inning Cotter started things again with a double, and went to third on Grigsby's single to left. White was out and Grigsby took second, scoring with Cotter on Berger's double to the left open space.

The scoring for Beaumont was a simple hitting bee started by Allen's double to left, from which he was scored by Huber's single to center. Brown sacrificed, and Kitchens walked. Jacobus broke up the game with a hard double to the center field fence, winning for the Exporters.

SAN ANTONIO, June 11.—All Bear pitchers looked alike to Dallas Monday and 18 hits counted for 13 runs, while San Antonio could score but eight on its 15 hits. The Steers stole five bases off Henry, three of the thefts being committed by Mathes. Pitcher Ryan, who relieved Swartz after batting for him in the fourth, got four hits in four times up, one triple, two doubles and as ingle. San Antonio used three pitchers. Score:

FT. WORTH, June 11.—Wet grounds delayed the opening of the state tennis tournament here today, though many players arrived from Texas and Oklahoma points. Herman Church and Dr. William Rouns, both of Ft. Worth, were selected as referees.

Sarazen Corrects Common Faults of Golfers

Caption for illustration: In these two pictures Gene Sarazen, the youthful open champion of the United States, points out the right and wrong way of "getting set" for a mashie shot. He points out the faults to be overcome by those who stand as shown in the "incorrect" pose. (Lower right.)

By GENE SARAZEN
World's Champion Golfer.

There are a number of things wrong with the "incorrect" posture for the mashie shot. In the first place, in trying to pivot I have bent my left knee forward instead of inward. When you reach the top of the back swing and the pivot is complete, the weight should be on the side of the left big toe—not on all toes, as shown in the picture at the right. Bend the knee inward and slightly forward—not straight forward.

The right knee should always be braced on the mashie backswing so as not to allow the body to sway, but not as indicated in the "incorrect" pose. In bracing myself with the right knee when the left knee is bent straight forward I have thrown myself off balance by swaying the body to the left.

On the back swing, the right knee should be braced, but the line from the right shoulder, right knee to the right toe should be vertical and not diagonal, as pictured above.

You cannot go wrong on the pivot if you remember to bend the left knee in toward the ball and to press on the inside of the left toe as your turn the left hip and left shoulder on the backswing.

Buff Manager Suspended From Texas Loop Games

HOUSTON, June 11.—Word was received today at the headquarters of the Houston baseball club from Doak Roberts, president of the Texas league, that he had suspended indefinitely Hunter Hill, manager of the Houston club, for an alleged attack yesterday on Umpire Daley.

Roberts, who is in Beaumont, wired that he would come to Houston at once to investigate the circumstances surrounding the altercation.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

BODY-PIVOT

FREE MOTION OF HIPS IS MOST IMPORTANT

What about pivoting the body during the driving swing?

Answered by
WILLIE HUNTER

Member and captain British international golf team for several years; the man who introduced golf into British East and South Africa, and New South Wales, Teacher of Willie Hunter, British amateur champion.

* * *

The body pivot is largely a matter of the free motion of the hips. It is absolutely necessary because it makes for a free swing. It allows the weight as well as the strength, of the body to play a part in driving the ball. When there is no pivot, the body is stiff and rigid and the power of the stroke is lessened. This rigidity destroys the timing of the stroke and prevents the ball from being hit at the instant when there is the maximum velocity and momentum in the club head.

Wheezes From The Press Coop

By Don Weldon

Old Pop Kitchens got his Gasser crew into good working order yesterday and they handed the Spudders a beating, 6 to 5. It took 'em an extra inning to do it though!

The Spuds played in hard luck, but it has to be admitted that Pop has put a lot of new life into the Gasser club. The Beaumont crew is shoving a brand of ball that is new to it this season with Kitchens at the helm, and it looks like they might become dangerous, at least from a game winning standpoint, although their chances of getting into the pennant running are small!

Stauffer didn't pitch the best ball in the world, either, and let the Gasser batters get away with 14 safe hits, while the Spuds took one more, getting 15 off Jacobus. He didn't get the best support, and all in all, the Spuds can just admit that they got whipped. But they have a lot better ball club than do the Gassers, so it looks like a win for us today.

Word from the Spudders at Beaumont, tells us that Ace Elliot, Spud first sacker, has gone to Chicago to join the Cubs. He was sold to that club two weeks ago, but final arrangements for his duties there were not completed until yesterday.

The Cubs are getting a good handler of the initial sack. Elliot has played A-1 ball all season for the Salmites, and during the last road trip he has gone on a batting spree that has put his average a few points up the ladder. He ought to be a good addition to the Cubs team, if he keeps up his stride in the big loop that he held here!

It wasn't all a one sided proposition though. By letting Elliot go the Spuds got another outfielder in the person of one Art Weiss, who joins the club on the present road trip. Skipper Salm is really more in need of a man like Weiss in the garden than of a first baseman, for with Hook Cotter on the intial sack little more could be asked. Cotter is back in the game after spending a few days in the hospital, and is as good as ever. He was spiked in the Sunday game with the Steers here, and had to stay out of the game for a few days. Elliot staying with the Spudders until he was able to take his place in the lineup again.

England Leads In Golf Games For New Title

TROON, Eng., June 11.—Age, personal and national, put youth behind today in the first half of the struggle of 222 golfers to qualify for participation in the British championship.

In the first instance, the old golfers of England led the younger generation as represented by the American invaders, and in the second instance the golfers of Old England, for a day at least, had the experience of doing better on the links than their rivals from America.

Jim Braid, who began winning his string of five open championships 22 years ago led the field that swung woods and irons under a glaring sun and blustering sea breezes today. His score of 72 was considerably under that of young Hagen, who drank his first quaff from the championship cup a year ago. Hagen took 82 today and unless he does much better tomorrow, is likely to find himself among the spectators when the championship gets under way, only eighty players, plus those, if any, who tie for the eightieth place, can appear in the grand finale.

Today an even hundred plays slipped in cards of 79 or under, while altogether 166 men did better than Hagen. The best the Yanks could do was 75 and this was accomplished by Gene Sarazen, American open champion, and McDonald Smith of California. Between them and the leader stood the names of eight golfers.

Salm Gets Art Weiss Again As Elliott Goes to Chicago

Art Weiss, who wore the Spudder uniform for a short time last season, will appear in the outfield again with the Salmites this season. He will join the Wichita club at Beaumont immediately, the Spudders having purchased him from the cubs, in the same deal that sent Ace Elliot, first sacker, to the Cubs.

Ace Elliot, who has held down the first sack position for the Spudders during the first part of the season, left the club at Beaumont yesterday afternoon after the completion of arrangements for his sale to the Chicago Cubs. He will report to the Cubs at once, after picking up his wife and son in Wichita Falls.

Outfielder Weiss, ex-Cub who figured in the sale of Elliot, will join the Spudders this afternoon at Beaumont. Weiss will round out the staff of fielders and Skipper Salm will have his club in the shape toward which he has been working for some time. The new fielder has been doing some hitting with the Cubs that will make him valuable here for, although the Spudders already have one of the hardest hitting machines in the loop, a good smasher will add much to the scoring ability of the club.

Elliot has been handling the first bag for the Spuds during the last week, although the sale to Chicago was completed a few days ago. He has stuck with the team while Hook Cotter, who was spiked a week ago here, has recuperated in the General hospital.

COTTON BUYING FOLLOWS RAINS

Short Crop Feared and July Sells 102 Points Higher

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 11.—Reports of heavy rains in the south over Sunday increased the fear of another short crop and led to an excited buying movement in the cotton market today. July contracts sold up to 28.80 or 102 points net higher, while October sold at 25.55, making a net advance of 95 points. There was realizing enough to check the upward movement around these figures, but reactions were limited with October closing at 24.24 or within 11 points of the best. Then general market closed steady at net advances of 55 to 87 points on the active months, while August sold up to 27.38 and showed a closing advance of 128 points.

The buying movement started in Liverpool, which reported increased spot and a much higher level of prices before the local opening. First prices here showed advances of 20 to 64 points and before th end of the morning July sold 102 points net higher, while new crop positions showed net advances of 83 to 95 points.

There were reactions of some 20 to 25 points from the best during the early afternoon. Offerings, however, were absorbed on the declines and the market firmed up again in the late trading on a continued demand from trade and commission houses. Last prices were within 10 to 15 points of the best.

Exports today were 2,972, making 3,485,075 bales so far this season. Port receipts 5,940; United States port stocks 368,886.

RAW SUGAR UNSETTLED

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 11.—The raw sugar market was unsettled today. Buyers were inclined to hold off on account of the sharp decline in futures. There was a sale late of 2,000 bags of Cuban sugar to a refiner at 6.08, cost and freight, equal to 7.78 for centrifugal.

The raw sugar futures market was weak under renewed general selling with final prices a point up from the lowest of covering, although still 18 to 25 points below the previous close. Closing: July 5.74; September 5.80; December 5.25; March 4.02.

The market for refined was unsettled and business was light. Prices, however, were unchanged at 9.75 to 9.90 for fine granulated.

Refined futures nominal.

SHARES IN OIL FORCED DOWN

Active Buying of Rail Shares Feature Day's Stock Market

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 11.—Intermittent bear selling and covering entered today's stock, which was again featured by the active buying of rail shares.

Further reports that oil production was still exceeding consumption had a depressing effect on the oil shares. General Asphalt dropped nearly 3 points to a new low record, and then rallied 2 points. California Petroleum was depressed to 106⅝, but a squeezing of the shorts sent it back to 109¼, where it was up nearly a point on the day. Sinclair, Houston and Cosden also were forced down a point or more, but they made partial recovery later, the net losses being reduced to fractions.

Southern Railway was one of the most active of the carrier issues, touching a new top at 37¼ on transactions of well over 5,000 shares.

Call money opened at 4¾ per cent, advanced to 5 and then to 5½ per cent, where it closed. The time money market was dull with bankers asking 5 and brokers offering 4¾ per cent for all maturities.

The success of the Austrian loans here and in London today, and the more favorable outlook for a settlement of the German reparations problem had a favorable effect on foreign exchange rates.

Demand sterling advanced nearly ¼ cent to 4.61 3-16 and French francs advanced 4 points to 6.45c. German marks rallied slightly to .0012⅝c.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

Associated Press Dispatch

FORT WORTH, June 11.—Salesmen today found the cattle market satisfactory, as far as the desirable classes were concerned, the early trade showing a fair amount of activity on the good to choice. On the inferior and medium cattle, however, there was little demand. Among the forenoon sales were yearlings at $6, cows at $5, calves at $8 and good South Texas grass steers, in the native yards, $6.65. Receipts were estimated at 7,700 head of cattle and 1,500 calves, the cattle count including 1,000 head of cattle that were on through billing.

Prices paid for hogs were very uneven, but the average was steady to shippers and 10c to 15c lower to packers. The shipper top was $6.90 and packers bought up to $6.85. Most of the run of 1,200 head cleared at $6.65@6.85. Pigs sold from $5 to $6, and the market was steady and active. Most of the good pigs went at $5.50@5.75.

Around 3,500 head of sheep were yarded. The market was steady.

WHEAT GAINS GET SETBACK

Prospective Hedging Sales Cause Loss of Early Gains

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 11.—Prospective hedging sales of wheat led to price setbacks today that more than wiped out early gains. The market closed steady, but 1-8 to 5-8 cent net lower, with July 1.11 1-8 to 1.11 1-4 and September 1.09 1-4. Corn finished at a range varying from 3-8 cents decline to half cent advance and oats lost 1-8 to 5-8 cents. In provisions the outcome varied from unchanged figures to 7 cents higher.

At first the wheat market showed a decided upward tendency, influenced in the main by reports of further rains doing extensive damage to crops in southwest.

Corn and oats were governed for the most part by the action of the wheat market. Increased buying rallied the provision after a decline due to the weakness of hog values.

Consumption Not to Be Affected By Uusteady Price of Crude

An indication that the present unsteady market condition of crude is not going to affect consumption to any great extent if al all this summer is shown by reports from local refineries that heavy orders for June deliveries have already been placed.

The fact that these orders have already been made and at a price of 13½ cents wholesale shows that retailers are not afraid of any possible change in market conditions or they would not pay that price so many days is advance. The rumors of an impending high rise in gasoline this June have not it seems had any effect on the rtailers.

It is authentically stated that Texas and Oklahoma refineries have received orders for more than 100 cars of gasoline for June delivery and at a price of 13½ cents. It is believed that refineries in other states have had a like number of heavy orders. This augurs well for the refiners and consumers both as it shows that no slump is imminent.

$1000 PAID FOR WAURIKA LAND

Now Oil Well Will Not Be Put Down As Reported

WAURIKA, Okla., June 11.—A strip of land lying just west of Sugden was sold at public auction last Saturday for a little more than $1,000 per acre. The land was bought by Wade Broder, the high price being on the strength of an oil well which was to have been put down in that vicinity by J. G. Cook Oil & Gas Co. of Ardmore.

The strip of land is two miles long, 17 feet wide at one end and 24 feet at the other. It is reported that the test well will not be drilled on account of the Cook interest failure to buy the land.

A special day in police court is to be set aside to hear the cases of the ablebodied men between the ages of 21 and 50 who seek to evade the payment of poll taxes. In most cases the street commissioner has met with cooperation, but there are a few lagards and they will have an opportunity soon to either pay or face the mayor with their reasons.

Books Are Audited.

L. H. Gambill, deputy state examiner and inspector, who recently completed three months' work on auditing of the county books, has filed his report with the county commissioners and a complete and itemized account will be filed in about two weeks. The cost to the county was $1,000.

There are a number of old and unpaid county warrants out, two reasons being that the balance sheets made at the close of the fiscal year have not been properly gotten out, the other that there is a very large amount due from delinquent taxes.

Mr. Gambill urged the county commissioners to carefully scrutinize all claims to be sure that charges made are within the law. There were several matters of irregularity cited, especially did Mr. Gambill quote the law as regards mileage allowed for the service of criminal processes.

May Take in Township.

County Clerk Will Arner is in receipt of a letter from Governor Walton, inclosing a lengthy list of names signed to a petition in which Courtney township, in the southeast corner of Jefferson county, asks to be joined to Love county. Only those who reside in the territory affected can vote, and if 60 per cent are in favor of the proposition it will carry. County Commissioner Dorsett, in whose district the territory lies, says there will be a good deal of opposition to the change manifested at the polls. The proposed change will run the line between Jefferson and Love counties straight south to the river, instead of following the bend of the river as it does at present. The people feel, with the change made, that they will be able to get a bridge across the river in Love county.

Paving Levy Halted.

Robert H. Pruet, city attorney, and G. A. Paul, attorney for the General Contracting company, which put down the paving of East D Avenue, filed a demurrer this past week to the petition of the Kingfisher Improvement company et al., which sought a court order preventing the city and contractor from levying against the property of the plaintiffs for the payment of paving.

The demurrer states "that said petition does not state facts sufficient in law to constitute a cause of action in favor of said plaintiffs and against defendants."

Bonus Mailed Out.

At the Business Men's club meeting the railroad committee was instructed to mail checks amounting to 7 per cent of the railroad bonus notes, and the checks were mailed Tuesday night.

This is, perhaps, one of the very few cases in history where any money has ever been paid back to the original donors to a bonus, as there usually is a shortage rather than a surplus.

New Brick Building.

Lime and cement have been ordered and the work will be begun at once on the new 50-foot front brick building which C. G. Stuard will build on his lots where the old Monte Carlo building has stood ever since the town was started.

Sims brothers, Guaranty Abstract company and O. E. Heacock are the present tenants, but in the new building Sims brothers will occupy the entire building with their bakery and meat market, giving them one of the really attractive working plants of this part of the country. The building will be well located and modern in every way.

Tourist Park.

W. H. Gresham is building a big free tourist park adjoining his service station on Main street. It will be inclosed with a high wire fence and will have rest rooms, shower baths, car sheds, ovens and all conveniences for motorists.

Motor For Pumping Station Is Received

The electric motor for the city water department's new 10,0000,000 gallon water pump arrived Monday and was taken immediately to the pumping station. Word was received several days ago that the pump was to have been shipped last Friday from New York and that it should come straight through after leaving the eastern metropolis. No intimation as to whether or not shipment was actually made on the prescribed date has been received.

The huge pump was ordered by the city council several months ago when it was found that present pumping facilities of the water department might not prove adequate for demands made during the hot summer months.

NEGRO MAN JAILED AFTER HE WHIPS WIFE WITH PISTOL

A negro man is in jail, his wife is at her home suffering from a severe beating administered by her husband, and a second negro man "may be runnin' yit," as the result of a fight late Monday night in a negro home on Brick street. The woman's injuries were described as being serious. Her head and face were severely bruised and cut by blows from a heavy pistol.

The man now in jail told Detective Will Lay and Night Sergeant Thomason that when he went home last night he found his wife sitting in another negro's lap and that she had a pistol in her pocket. He then said he broke into the room, snatched the gun from the woman and fired two shots at the man as he dashed from the house, "taking the screen and door along with him."

The beating was administered to the woman after that, the prisoner said.

He was locked up, pending further investigation of the nature of his wife's injuries.

SHE AGREES WITH ALTA HEACOCK

Waurika, Okla.
June 7, 1923.

Managing Editor, Record News,
Wichita Falls, Texas.

My Dear Sir:

I read, with a great deal of pleasure, Alta Heacock's story in your Sunday edition.

I have known her personally for the past 16 years, and would like you to know that what she writes is not a flight of fancy, but that she lives the things she tells of. Her ability to find beauty in the common things of life, is a joy, not only to herself, but to her friends.

My sentiments in regard to the story coincide with hers. I am 60 years old, in my 37th year of married life. Mr. Landon and I married with no worldly goods whatsoever, but we had grit, energy, youth, and an abundance of love, the most vital factor in making marriage a success.

The years have brought us financial success, through our united efforts. And the happy memories that we have stored up to live with through the latter years.

We are now [illegible]ing the Indian summer days of [illegible] with all the material things that once seemed so far away, in our possession. But I think so often, how gladly I'd go back over each step of the way, working, planning and persevering all over again, if youth and love could make one-half the company with us, as it did then.

So tell your young people to take Mrs. Heacock's advice, and all us oldones, who have traveled the road and know each step of the way, will give our blessing to those who have the courage to start down the long trail together.

Yours very sincerely,
MRS. A. E. LANDON.

University Club To Debate Income Tax Law

A hot time will be had at the regular weekly meeting of the University club Tuesday noon at the Y. W. C. A., according to Secretary John Myers, who invites the general public to be present at the meeting.

The main feature of the meeting will be an extemporaneous debate on the subject: "Resolved, That the state government should adopt an income tax law, similar to that of the federal government."

As an entertainment feature, Mrs. C. Y. Tully, soloist, will give several special vocal selections.

Some Machine, This

A machine that will "do everything but take your picture," if you let F. N. Lawton tell it, has been installed by the city water department for the posting of ledgers and water bills.

It is a combination typewriter, calculating machine and posting machine, and will mean a tremendous saving of time and expense in the keeping of water department records. In one operation it posts a ledger, makes out a water bill, checks the work and prints a permanent checking record.

A typewriter keyboard as well as calculating and posting machine keys are used in its operation.

CADILLAC STOLEN

A Cadillac touring car owned by Joe A. Kell was stolen Monday night from its parking place in front of the Wichita theater, according to reports made to the police. The machine was left in the street while Mr. Kell attended a picture show, he said.

The car bore a state license number 554-643, and had a motor number 57803.

Rogers Says Everything Is Ready For Entertainment of Water Men

Final details of plans for entertaining delegates to the Southwest Waterworks Association convention to be held here four days starting next Monday were gone over by the publicity committee of the chamber of commerce at a meeting Monday morning. At its conclusion, P. A. Rogers, chairman, stated that practically everything was in readiness for the 400 or more delegates who will invade the city the first of next week.

All down-town streets are to be decorated with flags and buntings, it was announced, and other decorative methods taken for the occasion. It is now believed that the hotels of the city will be able to accommodate all the visitors. This will eliminate the necessity of entertaining some in private homes, a situation which for a time appeared to be necessary.

Entertainment plans for the ladies at the convention have been placed in the hands of Mrs. R. E. Shepheard and it is announced that the entertainment features will include a social at the new golf club, a tea and possibly a swimming party.

EASY MONEY

Minting coin seems to be a business enterprise in China which does not observe the business ethics of western countries. A Chinese mint appears to be run for profit by the persons who happen to have charge of it. So it has come about that one Chinese mint has actually counterfeited the coinage of another.—The Nation's Business.

Our Certificate No. 1005

has just been issued. This means that 1005 individual investors have placed a portion of their funds in this conservative, experienced, successful Building & Loan association, where their money is earning 10 per cent interest compounded each six months. We do not know of another corporation of any kind in this city that has as many as one thousand stockholders. This institution is prepared to close loans on Wichita Falls property. It offers investors everything that is desirable, either for the accumulation of money in regular amounts each month, or by investing a certain sum one time. Your attention is invited. Our new booklet, "The Law and the Evidence" is yours for the asking.

COOPERATION IS NEED OF PRESS

Allison Tells Something Of Toil Necessary In Newspaper Office

Declaring that the average layman had no conception of the work necessary for the publication of a modern newspaper, J. H. Allison, formerly connected with the Fort Worth Record and now associated with the Times, gave to members of the Kiwanis club Monday noon a glimpse of the manner in which a paper is manufactured. In connection with his address Mr. Allison exhibited some of the type moulds and dry mats that are a little known but indispensible feature of every news office.

The speaker traced in some detail the function of the various departments, showed how they were correlated and pointed out some of the problems they were called upon to face.

In closing, Mr. Allison suggested that co-operation from the public was quite as much of a factor in a publication's success as any other item. He urged that this co-operation be supplied.

Music for the day was supplied by a male quartette composed of Paul Von Allman, E. C. Huckabee, Grover Butlington and Ben Neal.

75 CIVIL CASES DISMISSED HERE

Over 75 civil cases were dismissed Monday by Judge Guy Rogers of the county court at law when he went through his docket with the purpose of clearing away some of the dead timber.

It was explained that some of the cases had been listed as far back as 1921 and that there was no likelihood of their ever being brought to trial. For this reason they were wiped from the books.

Farmer Must Get Higher Price and Consumption Must Be Increased

A call, issued by Gov. J. A. O. of Minnesota, as chairman of a committee issuing a joint call for a national wh... conference to be held at Chicago, June 19 and 20 next has been received and Frank Kell has been invited to participate in the proceedings.

The object of the meeting as stated in the invitation being mailed to persons in different parts of the country is to devise some means of educating the American people to use more wheat products. It is stated that unless the wheat farmer gets a higher price for his product an acute economic situation will develop that will affect both capital and labor. Representatives of agriculture, railroads, commerce, elevators, millers, bakers and retailers are to be at the conference.

It is understood that should Mr. Kell not be able to attend the conference, a representative from Wichita Falls will be sent.

60 CARS FOR TRIP NEEDED

Only 20 Secured to Take Delegates to Irrigation Project

Although a vigorous campaign has been launched already, only 20 automobiles have thus far been secured for the Southwest Waterworks Association delegate's trip to the irrigation dam next Tuesday. Al Ellis, chairman of the committee arranging for transportation, states that at least 80 more cars will be needed.

It is proposed to take about 400 visitors and guests to the dam for an all-day inspection tour and the large number of machines will be needed to accommodate the crowd.

Mr. Ellis asks that any one who can provide a car without a driver place their machine at the disposal of the committe e and competent drivers will be provided.

Y. W. CAMPAIGN OPENS TODAY

$35,000 In New Pledges Aim of Committee In New Drive

Real work on the Y. W. C. A. building campaign drive starts this morning, although some solicitations were made by members of the campaign committee Monday afternoon. It was announced by those in charge of the drive, however, that the bulk of the work was to be done Tuesday with a possibility that it could be completed before nightfall.

At a meeting and luncheon of the committee held Monday noon in the Wichita club rooms, cards were passed out and a distribution made of the territory to be covered by those conducting the drive. Personal solicitations will be started this morning.

Walter Cline, chairman of the committee and who presided at the session Monday noon, stated that in his opinion the campaign would meet with complete success. He had no apprehensions, he stated, that it could not be completed within the prescribed time.

It is the intention of the committee to secure about $35,000 in new pledges. This, added with funds already on hand in the association treasury, will be used in erecting a new, modern, home for the Y. W. C. A. on property now owned by it at Eighth and Burnett.

SHERIFF FINDS CAR

An Overland car, stolen last week from Joe Powers of this city, was found Monday by members of the sheriff's department, abandoned and stripped on a road six miles west of the city. The car, which was a new one, was taken from a down-town business district.

All four casings and rims had been taken from the machine, as had the starter and spark plugs.

Y. W. Plans Studied

Plans for the new Y. W. C. A. building were gone over completely Monday afternoon by the building committee of the Y. W. C. A. at a meeting held in the chamber of commerce offices. Jerry Schaffer, architect on the work, met with the committee.

It was indicated that some alterations would probably be made in the original plans but that nothing definite enough to make public had been decided on as yet.

WASHOUT DELAYS TRAIN SERVICE

Train service between Byers and Waurika, on the Wichita Valley, has been suspended, due to the washout of 16 piers of the railroad bridge over the Wichita river, acording to Byers reports reaching here Monday.

Serious damage to the bridge is not anticipated, provided there is not a further rise in the river before it can be repaired.

Boys Use Ingenuity To Escape Penalty

A quintette of youngsters who had been taken in custody by Juvenile Officer Bralley did some figuring on their own account Monday, and as a result are now on probation. If, at the expiration of three weeks' time, their conduct warrants they will be absolved of what might have been a serious charge.

The five boys admitted having entered a grocery store several days ago and left with some candy, cakes and other delectables. Sensing the fact that trouble might result, they proposed to Mr. Bralley that they stay at home each night after 8:30, never leaving the place until the next morning.

Mr. Bralley took them up on the proposition, and the disciplinary period is now in effect.

CITY HALL IS BEING REPAIRED

Workmen began in earnest Monday on repairs at the city hall and by noon most of the offices looked as though they had been hit by a cyclone. Plasterers started on the walls preparatory to the painting work that is to follow.

Construction work on the new cells on the second floor is well under way and these will be in use within a short time, it is thought.

SCOUTS BACK FROM CAMP

Youths Delayed Thirty-six Hours By Rain And Mud

Though 36 hours behind their schedule the last contingent of boy scouts who have been in camp the past two weeks at Crateryille park arrived in Wichita Falls by train about 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Fifty-two boys made the trip but only half got to return by automobile Saturday afternoon. The remaining 26 remained under the direction of Chester Powell, scout executive, and left by train Sunday afternoon.

The trip home was delayed due to washouts and late trains, layovers being made at Frederick and Snyder. Scout Executive Powell remained in camp to look after the equipment left behind. Ben Hamilton and Edgar Willis took charge of the home-coming scouts.

MURPHY ASKS FOR TWO CARS

A request that the county purchase two Ford automobiles for use by his department was made Monday by Sheriff Pat Murphy at the regular weekly meeting of the county commissioners court. The matter was taken under advisement and decision will be reached next Monday as to whether the machines shall be supplied.

The sheriff explained that in the past his department has been self-sustaining, fines and fees of office collected having been more than sufficient to meet departmental expenses.
