The weather didn't cooperate too well with college athletic recruiters Tuesday, which was the first day that high school athletes in Texas were allowed to acutally sign anything that would tie them to a particular college.

Football players were allowed to sign "pre-enrollment applications" beginning Tuesday. Athletes who specialize in other sports will be signed later. The signings represent about the biggest gamble that college athletic departments indulge in. Who can tell what type of football a 17 year old high school star will be playing when he is 20 or 21?

There are examples of the risk every year when you look over the rosters of college teams and determine how many names that were well known three or four years earlier in the schoolboy ranks are missing.

Southwest Conference schools did not expect the new ceiling of 50 signees to affect them. Few ever award more than 50 football scholarships to newcomers in one season anyway. But the pressure is on Southwest Conference recruiters probably more than ever before. For one thing, the league's intersectional record was especially anemic last fall. Then there is the post-season embarrassment of the professional draft. During the first 24 hours or so of professional drafting, 52 football players from Texas colleges were drafted by the pros, but only 13 of that number came from Southwest Conference schools.

The National Association of Railroad Passengers has come through with the information that 75 intercity passenger trains were discontinued in the U. S. between July 1 and Dec. 31, 1967. Applications to discontinue 12 others were not allowed. However, applications for abandonment of 108 more passenger trains were pending at the beginning of this year, including 28 on the Santa Fe, and those through Snyder are included in the 28.

In 1929 there were 20,000 inter-city passenger trains in operation. At the end of 1967 there were only 650, and only 36 railroads now offer any type of passenger service and five of these have announced plans to get out of the passenger business altogether. —WACIL McNAIR

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 14, the 45th day of 1968. There are 321 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

Enriquez' Death Penalty Is Upheld

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld Wednesday the death penalty conviction of Johnny Rudy Enriquez in the slaying of a Beeville housewife—one of five murders he was charged with committing in a bloody South Texas rampage in April 1966.

No reversible error was found in Enriquez' trial at Karnes City for the slaying of Mrs. Kay Foss, a pretty 21-year-old housewife who was shot in the head and thrown from a fast-moving car.

The High Court's opinion, written by Judge W. A. Morrison, was unanimous.

Enriquez' attorneys attacked the conduct of the trial on a number of points, including alleged racial discrimination in jury selection, admission into evidence of the other slayings, allowing the jury to separate at night and failure to halt jury selection and grant a change of trial location.

Enriquez, 19, at the time of the killings, was charged in Corpus Christi with fatally shooting his girl friend, Victoria Perez, her brother and her father. He is charged in Wilson County with the slaying of Highway Patrolman Darvin Hogg.

Police officers said Enriquez went to the Perez home early on April 15, 1966, planning to marry Miss Perez. Shots were heard, and witnesses said they saw him running from the house with a gun.

A massive manhunt resulted in Enriquez' capture the same day in Cuero, where officers said he was found dressed as a woman.

BY SCHOOL BOARD

Contracts Extended

Snyder School Trustees yesterday extended contracts for administrative personnel, approved a proposed change in the athletic department structure and gave their okay to plans for continuing occupational training in the school system.

Contracts of the assistant superintendent, business manager, athletic director, maintenance director, cafeteria director and tax assessor - collector were extended for a year. The assistant superintendent, business manager and athletic director work under two-year contracts which correspond to the contract of the superintendent, while the others involved in Tuesday's action work under one-year contracts.

The board approved an amendment to the summer Title I program, which is a program for children ineligible for Head Start, but who would benefit from such an auxiliary program.

Also approved was a continuation of occupational training, which was initiated this year at Travis Junior High School. The program at Travis this year involves 29 boys and 27 girls and records show that they have benefitted in many areas since they became involved in occupational training, said Travis Principal Jack Gorman. The extended program will move along to the high school level while picking up a new class at Travis. Additional facilities will be needed and these probably will be arranged at the Lincoln School plant by erection of an auxiliary structure.

Athletic Director Wayne Tyrone presented a proposal to change the organizational structure of the athletic department, putting further emphasis on track and on tennis and interschool sports. The track coach would no longer have any obligations to varsity football and the head tennis coach would no longer have responsibility for junior high football, thereby providing more time for tennis instruction and supervision. Tyrone said that some 60 to 70 junior high students are "out for tennis" this year, by far the largest group ever to turn out for the sport here. The new structure, which the board gave the superintendent authority to implement, provides for two new varsity assistants. Bill Hartsfield, head track coach, served as backfield coach last season, and Jack Gray, line coach, has resigned and accepted a position at Ranger.

Other resignations accepted include Joe Raymond Neel, math teacher at Travis; Mrs. Hope Lopez, Title I aide at Central Elementary; and Bill E. Herrington, coach and physical education instructor at Travis.

New personnel approved for contracts include Mrs. Sara Bowman, math teacher at Travis; Mrs. Dolores Fullen, biology and health at high school; Mrs. Mary Alice McCown, homemaking and health at high school; Mrs. Yolanda G. Rosas, Title I aide at Central Elementary.

A contract with Pritchard and Abbott for evaluation engineering services was extended through 1970 at a fee of $17,000. Board member Dan Cotton made a motion to delay action on the contract until the April meeting, but the motion died from lack of a second. Then, on a motion by Ted Crenwelge,

Harsh Exchange By US, Koreans

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — A North Korean representative said today there will be war unless the United States gets out of Korea, and the U.S. delegate replied that the North could insure peace by stopping acts of aggression.

The harsh exchange came at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission called to discuss charges by the U.N. Command of armistice violations by the Communists. There was no discussion of the fate of the 83 crewmen of the Pueblo, the U.S. intelligence ship seized by North Korea Jan. 23.

Meanwhile, U.S. special envoy Cyrus Vance extended by still another day his visit to Seoul, where he is trying to patch up U.S.-South Korean differences over U.S. priorities in Korea.

The South Koreans have complained that the United States is paying more attention to the Pueblo incident than to the attempted assassination of South Korean President Chung Hee Park Jan. 21 by 31 North Korean commandos who invaded Seoul.

Rear Adm. John V. Smith, senior U.S. representative on the armistice commission, cited the assassination attempt today and said there had been 74 other serious truce violations by the North in the last 44 days.

"The decision whether there is peace or hostility depends upon the whim of an apparently irresponsible North Korea," he said. "Your side can have peace merely by unilaterally stopping acts of aggression. You must stop dispatching armed murderers into the Republic of Korea."

North Korean Gen. Pak Chung Kook glared at Smith and replied: "We don't want war but we are not afraid of it."

He said North Korea would match buildup for buildup, blow for blow "and all-out war with all-out war" if it should come to that.

Disapproves Of Judge In Miniskirt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Judge Joan Dempsey Klein disapproves of the miniskirts worn by another blonde judge, Noel Cannon.

"She's a constant source of embarrassment to me and to every Municipal Court judge I know," Judge Klein said Tuesday at a news conference called to announce her candidacy for the Superior Court bench.

"We feel her conduct is not befitting a member of the court."

Judge Cannon delights some and appalls others by wearing miniskirts.

Classrooms Close Doors

The Snyder area had a white coat for St. Valentine's Day as much of Texas experienced hazardous driving conditions as the result of snow and freezing rain.

Snowfall here was more than three inches in some spots, the largest fall of the current winter.

Roads and streets were slippery, causing schools to suspend classes. All school in Scurry County, along with those at Gail and at Hobbs were closed today because of weather conditions.

The moisture content of the snow amounted to .29 of an inch, according to the officials gauge at the Snyder water plant. The high temperature Tuesday was only 23 and the low last night was 19.

Forecasts called for more snow flurries and perhaps some freezing rain today and tonight, with decreasing cloudiness and slightly warmer temperatures by tomorrow.

Panhandle areas reported snowfall up to six inches, virtually halting vehicular traffic.

Icing gradually spread eastward across the north part of the state and cold rain fell through the night and early morning nearly everywhere else in the state.

With snow and ice expected to keep on thickening through the day in many places. Hazardous traffic conditions threatened to cause widespread suspension of public school classes.

Plainview, with six inches of snow on the ground, was one of the first to announce the closing of schools.

Official travel warnings were out for most of the northern half of Texas and for the southwest section west of the Pecos River, where forecasts called for as much as five inches more snow to accumulate.

Chilled Canadian air enveloped all but the state's southern fringes, and warm, moist air overrunning this cold mass aloft was credited for the snow and rain.

Temperatures before dawn dived to 16 degrees at Lubbock, 17 at Childress and Dalhart and 18 at Amarillo.

Travelers were warned of slick roads in Central and South Oklahoma, and the northern two-thirds and extreme Southwest Arkansas.

Around dawn, points reporting freezing rain or drizzle included El Paso, Midland, Abilene, Fort Worth, Dallas, San Angelo and Texarkana. Wichita Falls had snow at that time.

The Fort Worth Weather Bureau radar reported rain, freezing rain, sleet and snow covered 70 per cent north of Wichita Falls, Longview, Waco and Breckenridge.

A traffic accident killed two persons near Denton today to bring the weather-related death toll for the week to five.

Readings at other points ranged through the 20s and 30s in northern areas, up to the 40s farther south and held as high as 52 at Brownsville on the

Fighter-Bombers Down Two MIGs

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers shot down two MIG17 jets today, blasted three North Vietnamese airfields and lent a hand to U.S. Marines trying to drive diehard Communist holdouts from the walled Citadel of Hue.

Two Air Force F4 Phantoms encountered the MIGs 30 to 40 miles northwest of Hanoi and brought them down with missiles and 20mm cannon, the Air Force said.

This raised the total number of MIGs claimed downed in aerial combat in the last three years to 110, compared with 40 American warplanes lost to MIGs.

The U.S. Command said that during strikes against North Vietnam Tuesday; Air Force and Navy bombers attacked the airfield six miles southwest of Haiphong, the Bai Thuong field 70 miles south of Hanoi, and the Vinh airfield 140 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

As the battle for Hue continued into its third week, U.S. Marine jets streaked down on the former imperial capital of Vietnam to bomb, strafe and rocket an outer wall of the old Citadel behind which remnants of a North Vietnamese regiment stubbornly held out.

The jets made pass after pass, attempting to blast a path through the wall for the Leathernecks on the ground. But the North Vietnamese continued to lay down heavy barrages of fire on the Marine positions a few hundred yards away.

The interior area held by the Communists apparently was still off limits to the U.S. fliers because it contained historic 19th century monuments and the imperial throne room.

A senior U.S. officer said the North Vietnamese holed up in the Citadel were believed running low on ammunition and other supplies. He said they apparently had managed to hold out this long by getting supplies at night from the nearby north bank of the Perfume River.

Military Favors Reserve Call-Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The hurry-up shipment of another 10,500 combat troops to Vietnam cuts deeper into a strategic reserve of fulltime soldiers which senior military officers say has been dangerously depleted.

These officers, say privately they believe at least one division should be called up from the Army National Guard to bolster the strategic reserve of divisions available in the United States for swift deployment around the world.

The question of a call-up of group reserve units is under study and no decision has been reached. But pressure for such a call-up is rising.

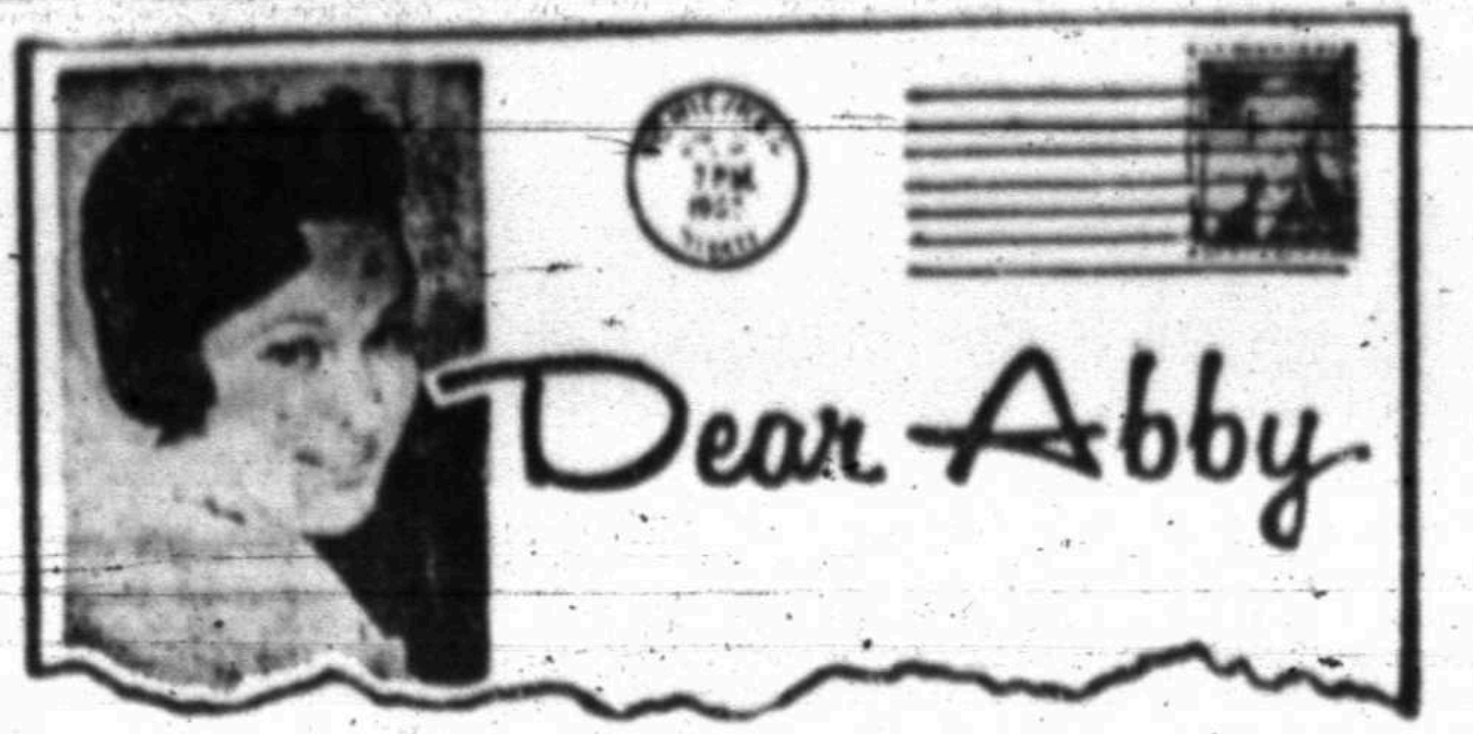
Military officers in the Pentagon express belief further ground force deployments to Vietnam will be necessary and that the current buildup objective of 525,000 will be raised. This also is under study.

A Congress member who declined to be identified said the dispatch of more troops to Vietnam in addition to the 10,500 would be announced shortly. "They're already programmed," he said.

Three days after the Viet Cong opened their devastating city offensive, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told newsmen "we believe that the American forces there at present are adequate."

In the interim, Gen. William C. Westmoreland sent out a call for more ground troops, in view of that offensive and the continuing North Vietnamese threat to attack the Khe Sanh stronghold in northwestern South Vietnam.

Either McNamara was overruled or has changed his mind since his Feb. 1 statement that U.S. forces in Vietnam are adequate.



By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a teen-age girl with the same kind of problem every other teen-age girl has BOYS! First, let me explain that I am not "boy crazy." I'm just tired of going out with my girl friends.

In our social setup, the boys reserve the right to ask the girls to go out with them, marry them, etc. This is stupid. All the boys I know are shy and have no initiative. It is very frustrating!

Could you do me a favor and tell the boys of the world to open up their eyes and notice that there are girls around and to please pay some attention to them, to call them up and show some interest?

And, Abby, if you know of a planet where it is acceptable for a girl to ask a boy for a date, please let me know. I am packed and ready.

A PROTESTER

DEAR PROTESTER: I agree. The system is all wrong. Not only do the girls outnumber the boys, but they mature earlier and are ready, willing and eager to commingle while the boys stand around with their hands in their pocket, blushing it up.

No wonder the women are becoming the more aggresive breed. And even more frightening is the undeniable increase of men who don't care whether they lead or follow.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the girl who wants to change her fiance's name to something shorter and easier to pronounce: Don't do it.

My name has 14 letters in it, too, but I've knows how to spell it since I was three. (I'm 10 now.)

Nobody can spell it, and very few people pronounce it right, but do I care? No. Sir!

I am proud of my name, and your fiance is probably proud of his, too. Just think of someone with a name like "Eleuthere Irenee du Pont de Nemours." How would you like to sign a check with a name like that?

You would be doing your fiance a great favor by keeping his name like it is. You may even learn to like it yourself.

A "BRETTSCHNEIDER"

DEAR ABBY: To the girl who was engaged to a man whose last name had 14 letters in it: NO name is unpronounceable. Some just require a little more practice.

I wouldn't recommend changing one's name, but it might simplify matters if one were to change the spelling. For instance, Hyszczynsky can become Hisschinsky. And Ardziewsky can become Arjeffsky. There isn't much you can do with Baccigaluppi, but as it stands, it isn't ridiculous to one who has used it all his life.

There are 39 William Johnsons in the Seattle telephone directory. Why not enjoy an unusual name?

Thant's Trip Stirs Hopes For Peace

PARIS (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant made a hurried trip to Paris today and went immediately to the headquarters of the North Vietnamese mission, presumably to get a message from Hanoi.

Thant delayed his return to New York, previously scheduled for Tuesday night, after a tour of New Delhi, Moscow and London seeking to open the door to talks to end the Vietnam war. But British officials were not optimistic that peace negotiations were any closer.

NY Garbage Crisis Makes Full Circle

NEW YORK (AP) — The garbage crisis comes full circle today as Mayor John V. Lindsay and the sanitation union sent negotiators back to the bargaining table for new efforts at reaching a permanent contract settlement.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and legislative leaders were unable Tuesday to break the deadlock over his mandated end to New York City's nine-day garbage strike and turned to Lindsay for help as he had turned to the state six days earlier.

Viet War Is Issue For Campaigners

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The battle in the New Hampshire primary campaign between Richard M. Nixon and Gov. George Romney of Michigan appears to be narrowing to a single issue—the war in Vietnam.

"In the main, New Hampshire is a hard line state," said Stewart Lamprey, president of the State Senate and Nixon's fiscal agent. Nixon has been taking a hard line in respect to the war.

A top Romney lieutenant, who asked not to be identified, said, "If we can draw him (Nixon) in on a meaningful basis, I am prepared to make Vietnam the issue." And he added, "What really are his solutions to Vietnam?"

He indicated that Romney's aides would argue that "Nixon's view of the war doesn't differ much from President Johnson's."

As further evidence of the importance attaching to the war issue in the campaign, the Romney chief said that starting immediately only one highway billboard slogan will be posted for Romney, instead of the four now seen throughout the state. He said it will read, "Romney's right. We must be told the truth about Vietnam."

Until now, the Romney billboards have touched on four separate issues.

Nixon and Romney are the principal Republican candidates in the New Hampshire election, scheduled March 12.

The war in Vietnam is the chief topic presented to Nixon in question-and-answer sessions, especially among students.

One New Hampshire observer said, "Seventy-five per cent of the interest in the election relates to the war."

Nixon remarked to students in Wisconsin recently, "I'm not naive about politics. I know it would be popular to go out and be against the war. But I couldn't live with myself if I did."

Nixon indirectly ridiculed Romney on the question of neutralizing South and North Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, a step the governor has proposed.

southern tip of Texas.

These marks compared with Monday afternoon highs varying from 19 at Amarillo to a summer 74 at Brownsville, where the cold front did not arrive until late in the day.

Snow depths by this morning, as clouds started thinning toward the west, appeared heaviest around Plainview, with six inches, Childress, with five inches, and Amarillo, with four inches. Measurements of two to three inches were common in that part of the state.

There also were reports of heavy snow in Guadalupe Pass east of El Paso and falls of one to two inches of snow plus sleet and freezing rain farther south in the Davis Mountains.

The snowfall extended across the state all the way to Texarkana in the northeast corner.

Before daylight fog and snow reduced visibility to no more than one mile in parts of the Panhandle, including Dalhart and Childress. It also was foggy with drizzle at San Antonio in South Texas and at Del Rio on the Mexican border.

Unofficial reports of up to two inches of rain came from the Sinton area, also in South Texas.

As the slushy weather spread steadily eastward, freezing rain with sleet or snow started ice to forming through areas embracing Wichita Falls, Mineral Wells, Breckenridge, Fort Worth Dallas, Sherman, Gainesville, Greenville, Paris, Palestine, Hamilton, Killeen, Kigore and Tyler.

Forecasts called for such conditions to continue into tonight over most of the northern half of Texas and in the southwest, while occasional rain was expected elsewhere in the south. Slow warming was predicted for the chilliest sections.

Long range predictions, covering the period through next Monday, indicated more wintry weather after a brief letup—snow by about Thursday in the northwest, north central and northeast parts of the state, and temperatures average about five degrees below normal in the north and as much as seven below in the south.

Youth predominates in both the Soviet Union and United States. More than half the population in each country is 26 years old or younger.

Long List Of Misdeeds Is Tabulated

Chief of Police Stephen Clark today said that the recent arrest of a "gang" here clears 10 burglaries, 21 thefts and two cases of arson.

Two of the burglaries occurred Dec. 15, 1967 and Jan. 12 of this year at Southwestern Brick and Tile Inc. Two others occurred at Pat Ainsworth's farm near Fluvanna, Sept. 10 and Sept. 27, 1967, and another one involved a breakin at Northeast Elementary School Feb. 15, 1967.

Clark listed thefts cleared by the arrests, as follows: Four at the County Barn near Dermott, four at Bill Baldwin's Auto Salvage, three at Dave Harlin's Hot Oil Service, two at the brick plant, two on Horace Shiflett's property (one northwest of town, the other on Avenue E), and one each at Ezell-Key and the FFA barn.

The Chief said one of the cases of arson occurred Nov. 16, 1967 at a house west of the golf course. The other one occurred Dec. 7, 1967 at Hargrove Street and Clairemont Highway. Charges are pending in both cases, and officers are investigating three other similar cases.

Hanoi To Free Pilots

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BANGKOK (AP) — Three American pilots the North Vietnamese have promised to release are expected in Vientiane Friday night, the U.S. Embassy in the Laotian capital said by telephone today.

Embassy officials said the fliers are expected to arrive there from Hanoi on an International Control Commission flight. A two-man delegation from the United States, Jesuit Father Daniel Berrigan and Dr. Howard Zinn, flew to Hanoi Friday at the request of the North Vietnamese to receive the pilots.

Hanoi has said it would release Capt. John David Black of Johnson City, Tenn., Norris Miller Overly, Huntington, W.Va., and Ens. David Matheny of Indiana.

which drew a second from Dillard Teal, the board voted 4-1 to extend the contract.

H. L. Wheat, Superintendent of Schools at McCamey, and chairman of District I of the Southern Association of Schools, met with the board briefly and discussed membership in the association. All Snyder schools are now accredited by the regional accrediting agency, but local board members some time ago had questioned the benefits derived from membership of the elementary schools. Wheat said that graduates from accredited high schools have an advantage in gaining admission to colleges, especially those out of state. He said elementary school accreditation has been offered only since 1962 and he predicted that it will eventually become a factor in overall membership in the association. At present, he indicated, elementary accreditation at the regional level is mostly a prestige element.

Jim Erwin, director of cooperative services, showed a film titled "Especially for Boys" which is considered for health classes for boys from the 6th through 9th grades.

The board also went on record approving an effort to provide a direct road or street from North Elementary School to Lamar and West Elementary.

Invited guests attending the meeting included Mrs. Marvin Dozier, Mrs. M. L. Broman, Fred Bullard, Bill Eiland, Mrs. Laura Holladay, Mrs. Mary May and Ray Courtney. The Rev. Vernon Hagar, pastor of Bethel Assembly of God Church, gave the invocation.

Seize $1 Million In Bogus Bills

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Detectives raided two houses today and reported they seized more than $1 million in counterfeit U.S. $20 and $50 bills which they said were "almost flawless" copies.

A senior detective said the police were satisfied the raid would clear up one of the largest worldwide counterfeit conspiracies ever handled in Australia. He said the investigation began with inquiries from the United States in 1957.

Halberstam Novel Set In Vietnam

ONE VERY HOT DAY. By David Halberstam.

The setting for this novel is the Vietnam war in the days when American officers were "advisers" to the Vietnamese troops. It was a time of great frustration, and this fictional account of one mission a pointless and futile venture presents a disillusioning picture.

The central character is Beaupre, a paunchy and punchy leftover from earlier wars. A captain, he has been passed over for promotion and is just serving out his time until retirement, if he makes it. Beaupre finds he is fighting fear and tropical heat more than the enemy. As his opposite number in the Vietnamese army, Beaupre has been stuck with Dang, a wholly worthless windbag.

Beaupre's lieutenant, Anderson, is an earnest, eager, ambitious young officer, the captain's complete opposite. He is the efficient West Pointer who plans to use his Vietnam experience in advancing his career. Anderson's opposite number is Lt. Thulong, a proud, capable but reserved young officer.

Ironically, young Thuong has several things in common with the older American captain. He too has been passed over for promotion. Feeling no commitment to the war, he is more concerned with doing a good job for the sake of "face" along. Thuong and Beaupre both have become fatalists, in greatly different ways.

Halberstam's novel is a graphic, true - ringing glimpse of a messy guerrilla war.

Oven-Fried Chicken Breasts

2 large chicken breasts, keel bone removed and split
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon white pepper
¼ cup butter
Paprika

Wash chicken and drain. On waxed paper, stir together the flour, salt and pepper; turn chicken in mixture to coat well. In a shallow baking pan (an 8 by 8 by 2 inch ovenglass cake dish is fine) melt the butter in a hot (425 degrees) oven; place chicken in pan, skin side down, in one layer. Bake in the 425-degree oven for 20 minutes; turn so skin side is up; sprinkle with paprika. Continue baking for 10 to 15 minutes or until cooked through and golden brown. Serve chicken with butter and drippings in pan over rice. Makes 2 large servings.

Homemade winter jellies may be concocted from commercial pectin and prepared fruit juices.

Almond Crescents

1 cup vegetable shortening
¼ pound (1 stick) butter
Confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla
ing)
3 cups unsifted regular flour (stir to aerate before measuring)
1 package (6 ounces) natural whole almonds, blanched and ground fine

In a large mixing bowl cream the shortening, butter, 6 tablespoons confectioners' sugar, vanilla and the salt. Gradually work in the flour, then the almonds. Using 1 level tablespoon of the mixture for each, form into small balls; form each ball into a crescent shape. Pace 1 inch apart, on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees until only very lightly browned — about 15 minutes. With a wide spatula carefully remove to wax paper sprinkled with confectioners' sugar; using a fine - mesh strainer, sift more confectioners' sugar over the cookies. Store in a tightly covered tin container. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

Add an egg to that batch of leftover mashed potatoes; turn into a shallow baking dish. Dot with butter and heat and brown in a hot oven. For really puffy potatoes, separate the egg; add the yolk, then the well-beaten white.

Personal Essay Used

GLUTTONS AND LIBERTINES. By Marston Bates.

Here is a case in which the almost lost art of the personal essay, once so flourishing, is used ably to illuminate some of the aspects of science.

If you have lost touch with the idea of the personal essay, let's say it is essentially chatty, lightly humorous, gently instructive and spicily entertaining.

Bates is a biologist. His specialty happens to be mosquitoes and the diseases they carry. He also is a teacher of zoology in a university; he is widely read, and a commentator on the "human problems of being natural." He confesses to being a complusive amateur humorist, and he gets a lot of fun out of poking through all sort of subjects, from nutrition and population problems to behavioral patterns.

A good bit of the book is devoted to food and sex. Bates has some freshly irreverent views of the customs, taboos and complications of each. He turns both subjects topsy-turvy by speculating on what would happen if we reversed their roles — making food a matter of furtive and illicit desires, and contrasting the social strictures against both incest and cannibalism.

His other topics include drugs and clothing, a chapter on "crackpots, phonies and squares," and another on religion and government. His final chapter on Utopias contains a distrust of potential boredom in such societies, and he decides that "culture has swamped biology."

This is a breezy, provocative, nontechnical journey down the garden path of science; it is a sympathetic view of the human animal, "so deeply encrusted with tradition, with ideas, with learned behavior, that he is hard to find." But Bates finds him, and finds him to be quite a fascinating creature.

Computer Is Cupid—Guaranteed

By MARY ELLEN MYRENE
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — I am 48-001-947 and to a computer that means love.

For hundreds of us observing another Valentine's Day on the brink of spinsterhood, it means an endless string of bachelors who are returnable, exchangeable, and, believe it or not, refundable.

The source of all this good news is Computer Matching International, Inc., which propose to find the perfect man for you and me, or our money back. It's a proposition hardly any of us at 25, or a bit older, can afford to turn down.

The idea is to match men and women who are compatible mentally, physically and emotionally. We all have 50 areas of compatibility, it seems, and when 30 of your areas match 30 of his areas, zap! it could be love.

The first step in computer mating is $225, a small price, indeed, when you consider that this-man-somewhere is going to support you for the rest of your life. For an additional $70, CMI offers a money-back warranty providing a full refund if you are not married off at the end of five years.

Once assured that your bank account is reasonably stable, CMI proceeds to look over the rest of you. Information fed into the computer is drawn from two tests—a one-hour intelligence test and a multipage personality test.

Most people lie a little about their personalities. Some cannot draw the line between what they are and what they would like to be and others, like me, want to make themselves sound as appealing as possible to avoid ending up with a series of machine-picked duds.

Once the tests are processed, you just sit back and receive callers—up to 10 of them every 60 days for the next five years.

My first date was 48-001-822 and I judged from his number that he had been trying a while. Trust a first impression.

48-001-822 was a white collar worker, 29, Protestant, 6-foot-1, 185 pounds, black hair, brown eyes, did not smoke, did not drink, was never convicted of a crime and was never committed to a mental institution.

It wasn't gentle questioning on my part that disclosed all this, but a photostat fact sheet that precedes every man channeled my way. CMI also rates every member—they said he was very good— and includes a picture. His was a little overexposed and for all I knew, I would be going out with a pair of teeth.

Without going into detail, let me say the computer struck out on this one. Perhaps someone bent my IBM card.

My second date is supposed to be 48-001-539, although it's been more than a month now and I haven't heard from him. He lives in Prosser, Wash., some 170 miles away, and since it appears he's too busy to write and too cheap to call, that could be a major hang-up.

In all honesty, I have nothing to complain about. This service was given to me free so I could write a story about it— and I was happy to do it. As one brochure points out: "Only faith, love, patience, understanding and each member working to increase, our membership will bring the happiness and success you desire."

I've done my part, Now it's up to IBM.

Solons Searching Souls On Question Of Interest Rates

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —Liberals in Congress and the executive branch are being forced by unyielding economic pressures to search their souls on the possibility of changing sides on a deeply-felt issue.

The question is whether interest—rate ceilings written into some laws can be maintained although inflation and credit demand have pushed much higher the returns that investors can expect.

President Johnson, certainly not a high-interest man by past performance, signaled he had made a painful decision when he recommended in his economic report that Congress lift the 6 per cent limit on interest charged for loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration.

The reaction in Congress was swift—and discouraging to some administration strategists who were reported hoping that at least a temporary lifting of the ceiling could be passed quickly. If Congress does act, there is every indication it will be only after long, agonizing debate.

The other principal federal provision on interest rates applies to government borrowing. It specifies that long-term government securities may not carry a rate higher than 4 per cent. For more than a decade, secretaries of the Treasury of both parties have been recommending in vain that this limit be raised. At present, the government simply can't raise money at 4 per cent.

But the 4 per cent limit has long been a rallying cry for those who believe in government action to keep interest rates down.

Congress last year relaxed the rule indirectly. It allowed Treasury notes to be issued for terms up to seven years instead of five. Notes are not subject to the ceiling.

So now what actually are medium-term Treasury securities are selling for more than 4¼ per cent, while the limit remains on the statute books for whatever symbolic value it may have. The Treasury still can't sell longer-term securities because of the ceiling.

The private market long ago found a way around the FHA interest limitation. This is the almost universal practice of charging a discount, expressed in "points" or percentages of the amount provided for a loan. Most of this burden usually falls on the seller, so that in effect he receives less than the nominal cost of a house sold.

One of the arguments advanced for allowing FHA to insure mortgages carrying more than 6 per cent interest is that this would eliminate or at least reduce the use of points.

The contention is disputed, however, by such opponents as Chairman Wright Patman, D-Texas, of the House Banking Committee, dean of low-interest advocates in the House. Patman contends that in the past when FHA interest was increased—finally up to the statutory limit—discounting quickly caught up.

He argued also that lifting the FHA ceiling would tend to push interest rates generally up, by bidding up the price of loans, and that states would have to raise their own interest ceilings or see their citizens excluded from FHA benefits.

Mailman Retires From Texas-Sized Route

NOCONA, Tex. (AP) — Roy Gilbreth has retired after carrying a Texas-sized rural mail route: 102 miles long.

Gilbreth served as a rural mail carrier for nearly 43 years. He started at Buffalo Springs in Clay County March 16, 1925.

The post office at Buffalo Springs was discontinued and, on Nov. 1, 1937, he was transferred to Nocona.

Coulton Waugh

QUESTION: How is weather predicted?

* * * *

ANSWER: The U.S. Weather Bureau, through a large chain of weather stations all over the country, is continually gathering facts about local weather conditions — such things as barometric pressure, wind direction and so on, These are summarized and analyzed, and weather maps are made from them. Such reports, forecasts and maps are sent out to Weather Bureau centers in different localities, where they are made available to all who need them, including newspapers, radio and TV stations. We haven't the space to explain about the high and low pressure areas, warm and cold fronts, etc., on which weather men make predictions, but our illustration shows a simple case of forecasting. A mass of warm air has been shown on Monday's weather map (A) moving eastward with rain (shaded area) ahead of it. Tuesday's map shows this "warm front" (dark line) still moving eastward (B). From this knowledge, the forecaster knows that such a front will probably keep moving and sweep up northeast. He therefore predicts rain (C) for most of the eastern states, and he will be right about 85 per cent of the time.

MILDREN MUM ABOUT CHOICE

By JACK DONOVAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The wealth that is symbolized in Texas schoolboy football underwent a thorough distribution Tuesday, the first day of signing young athletes in the Southwest Conference.

But the young man considered the big pot of gold by college recruiters, quarterback Jack Mildren of Abilene Cooper, remained as elusive as a rainbow.

This 185-pounder, who kept Cooper undefeated and ranked No. 1 in the state all season until the championship game with Austin Reagan, says, "I'm not going to make that decision until I am completely satisfied."

He has said his choice will be between a Southwest Conference school and the University of Oklahoma and it might be another week before he makes up his mind.

Tuesday was a day of ups and downs—spiritually as well as physically — for conference coaches. Jet aircraft were used by Gene Stallings of Texas A&M, Frank Broyles of Arkansas and Hayden Fry of Southern Methodist.

Darrell Royal of Texas pioneered this type of air travel in last year's recruiting rounds but he made Tuesday's junket in a propeller-driven plane.

Stallings was probably the most traveled head coach, covering more than 2,100 miles. His day started in Dumas, where he signed highly sought halfback Steve Burks from under the nose of Oklahoma recruiters, and it extended to Baton Rouge, La., where he grabbed off 200-pound Mike Lord, rated the No. 2 high school back in Louisiana last fall.

In between he obtained the signature of Steve Luebbenhusen, 190-pound Fort Worth Eastern Hills linebacker who was one of the 20 blue chip players in Texas.

The Aggies, last year's conference champion and Cotton Bowl victor over Alabama, announced 35 signings but it was known they signed at least 41 boys.

Rice and Southern Methodist each announced recruiting 29 boys although the names of 31 future Mustangs have become known.

Arkansas announced signing 21, including nine from Texas, Texas 20, Texas Christian and Texas Tech 18 each and Baylor 11.

The Razorbacks and independent University of Houston claimed five of the blue chip players.

Arkansas landed 250-pound tackle Ronnie Carroll of Houston Spring Wood and 230-pound center Harvey Chapman of Odessa Permian. Houston got prize linemen in Frank Ditta of Houston Waltrip and Terry Chumley of Houston Sam Houston and halfback Tommy Mozisek of Inez Vanderbilt.

Rice and Texas Christian each recruited a blue chip quarterback. The Owls' selection was Phillip Wood of McKinney and TCU acquired Steve Judy of Longview.

Baylor snatched 225-pound tackle Gary Sutton of Ozona.

Eleven blue chip players named by Southwest Conference coaches remain to be signed. Among those are quarterback Gary Hammonds of Port Arthur Jefferson and two members of state champion Austin Reagan, quarterback Dale Rebold and halfback John Kleinert.

The University of Oklahoma reported signing these Texas schoolboys:

Glen King, Jacksboro tailback; Phil Jordan, Amarillo Tascosa tackle; Mike Mullen, Dallas St. Mark's tackle-linebacker; Jim Gilmore, Jacksboro linebacker; Steve Aycock, Midland linebacker; Bill Holden, Fort Worth Arlington Heights tackle.

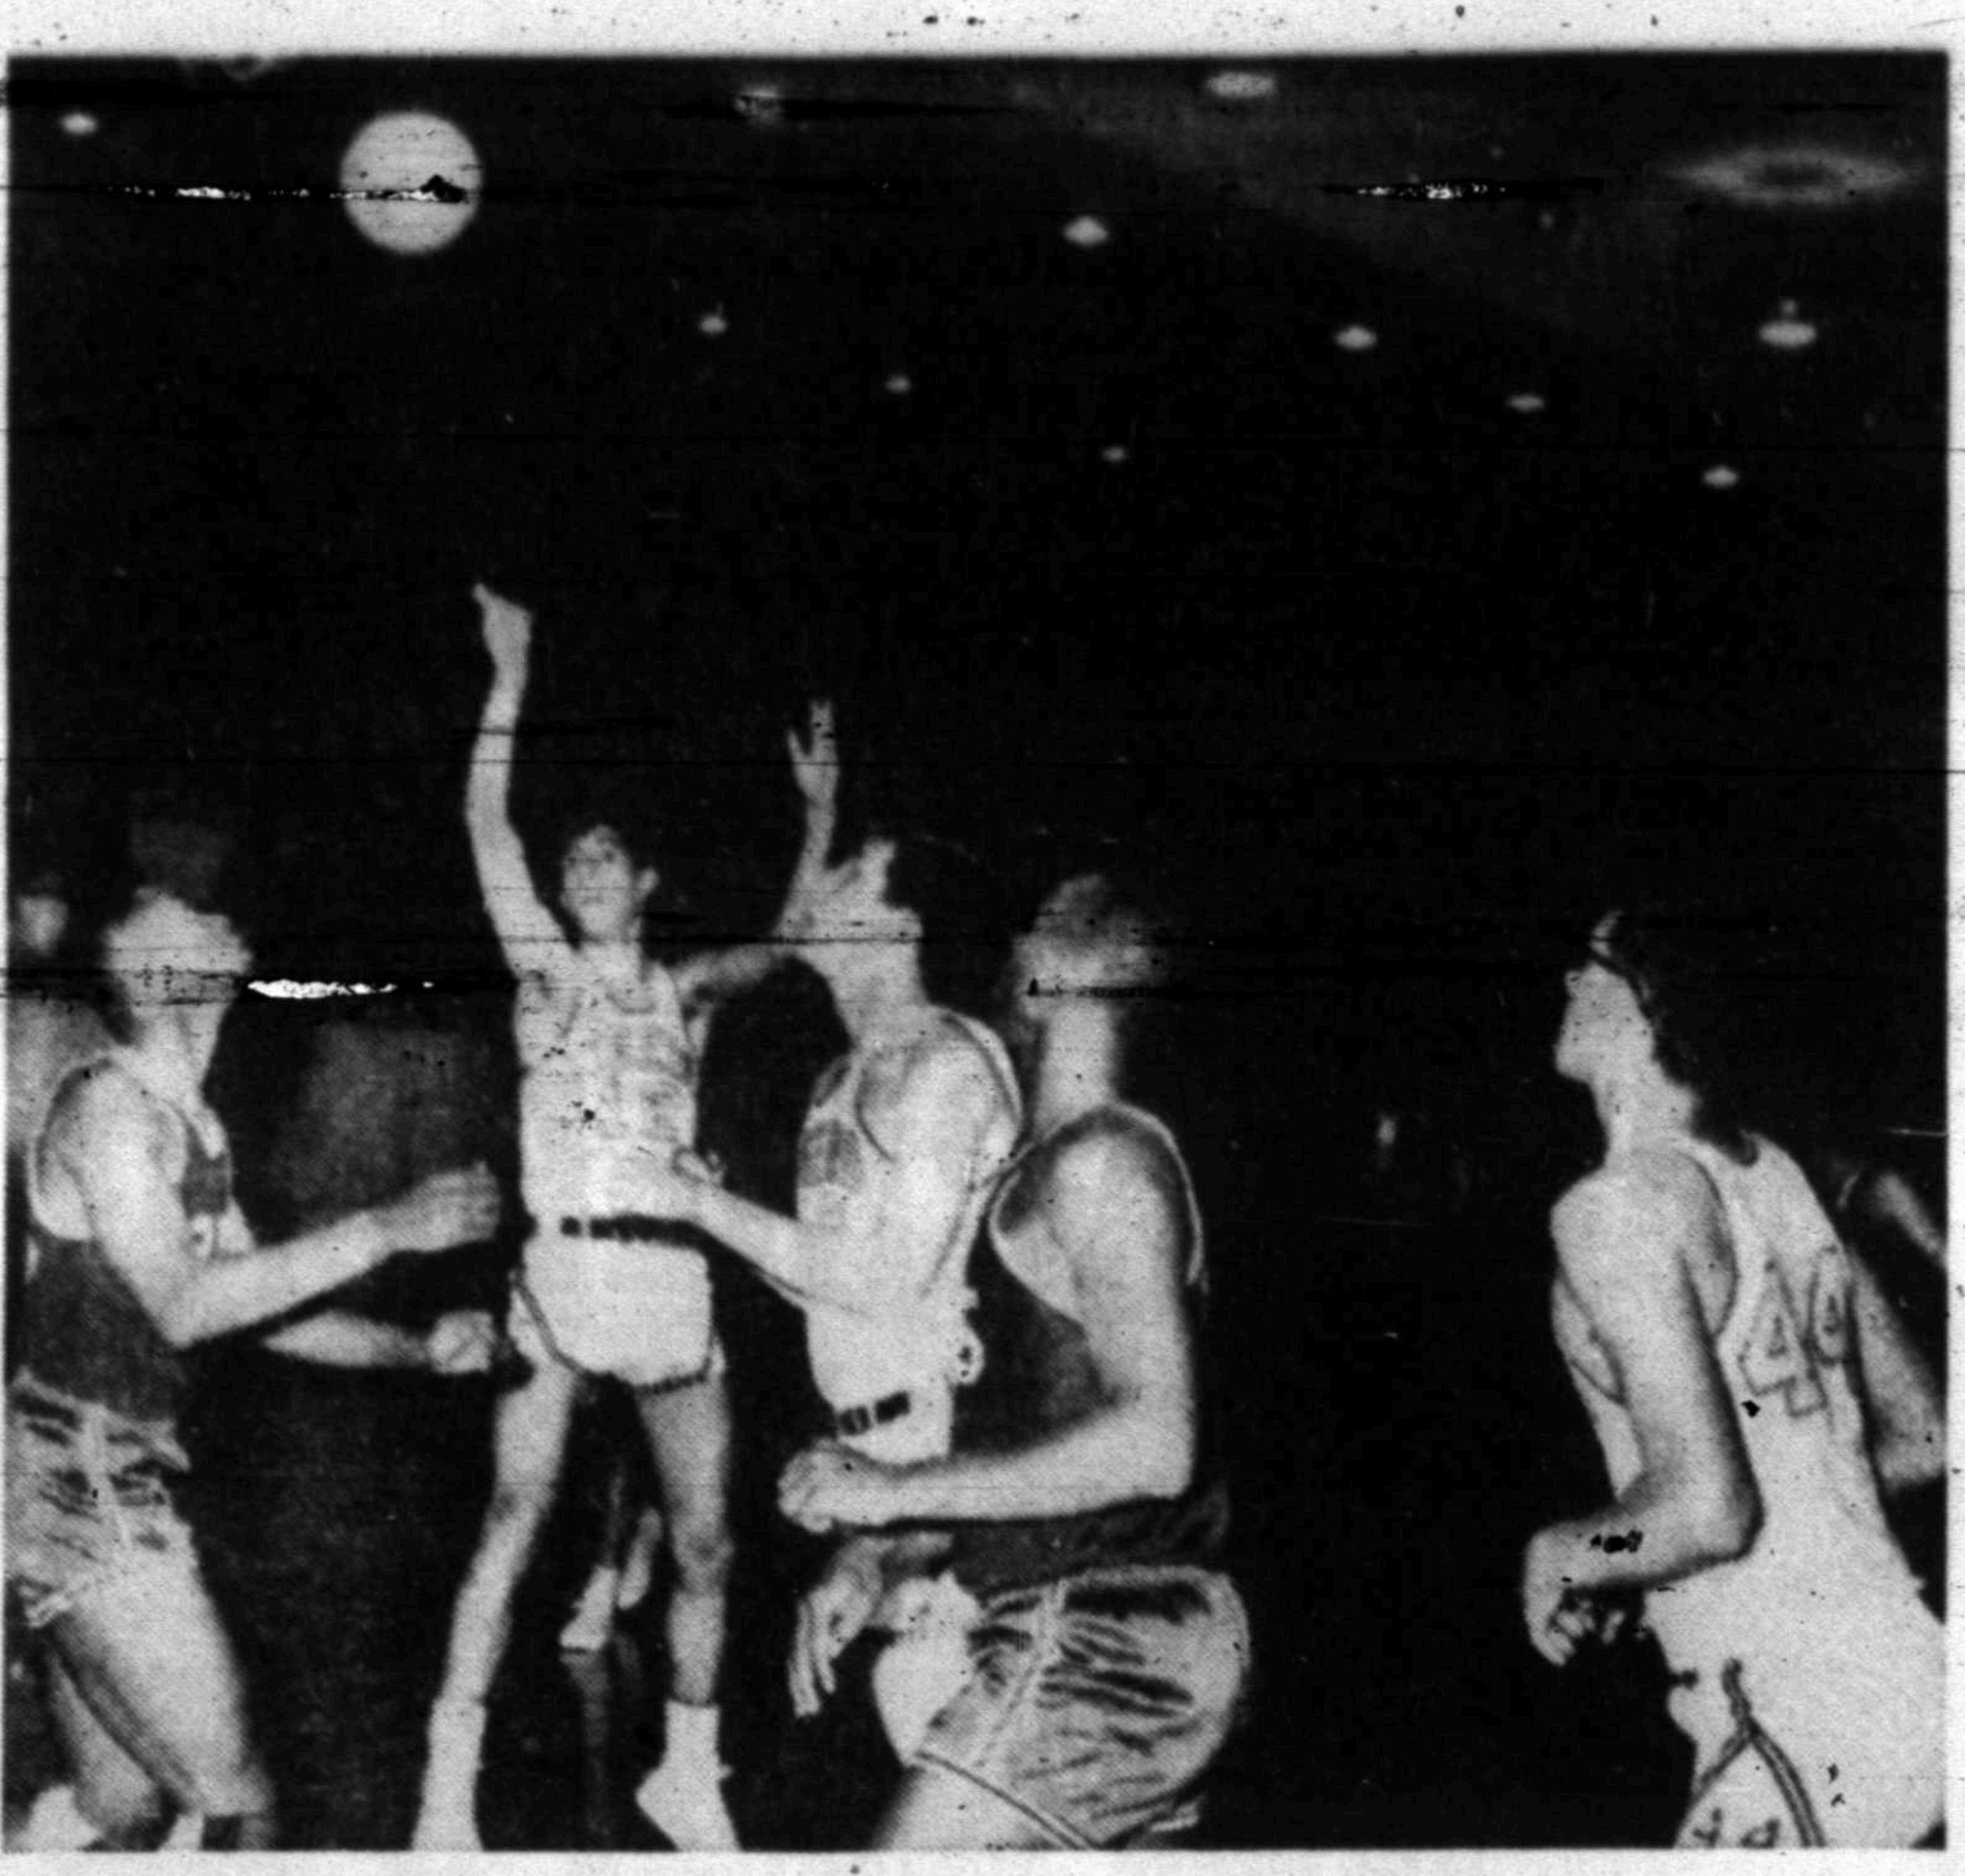
GETS REBOUND — Dunbar's Jerry Phillips (52) leaps high to grab rebound during the 3-AAA thriller in the Coliseum here Tuesday night. Drake Snyder (40) also gets in the action along with Dunbar's Robert Williams (54). The Panthers took an 84-75 verdict and grabbed a share of the second half crown.



SHARP SHOOTING — Snyder's Bill Hood(12) connects on a jump shot during the "B" team's 105-85 romp over the Lubbock Dunbar junior varsity here Tuesday night while teammates Randy Rushing (40) and Dennis Carlton (44) get set under the boards. The two Dunbar competitors are unidentified.

NUDGE TIGERS 84-75

Dunbar Gains Share Of 2nd Half Title

Lubbock Dunbar used the great outside shooting of little James Skief, 5-6 senior, and the astounding rebounding of Marc Wilson, 6-3 sophomore, to sack up a tie for the second half of the Disitrict 3-AAA basketball race with a convincing 84-75 decision over Snyder's Tigers in the Scurry County Coliseum Tuesday night.

The Bengals didn't go down without a struggle. After trailing 23-28 after the first quarter, they fought the Panthers on even terms in the second quarter with each team scoring 22 points. A great third quarter pulled Coach Ned Underwood's crew within one point, at 68-69. Snyder shot 45, 58 and 59 per cent respectively in each of the first three frames.

But an inability to hit the basket in the fourth quarter spelled doom to the rally. The Tigers hit only two buckets for only 18 per cent in the last quarter. If they had equalled their shooting performance of the first three frames, then they probably would have won despite the individual heroics of Skief and Wilson.

Still, the Tigers must be credited with an all - out effort. Everyone tried his best. Dunbar simply had the advantage in height, getting 44 rebounds to only 30 for Snyder. Wilson pulled down 30 rebounds for the Panthers, and he received competent help from Jerry Phillips and Robert Williams. Phillips was especially sharp on tip-ins.

Dunbar's height advantage also is pointed up in the fact that the Panthers were able to claim seven of eight jump balls. Great shooting by the Tigers in the first three periods and an overall superior team performance is what kept the Tigers in contention until Dunbar began pulling away in the fourth quarter.

Snyder committed only 11 turnover mistakes during the contest, compared wtih 16 for the Panthers.

Against an ordinary foe, the Bengals would have gone ahead in the third quarter. But, Skief sank five long shots in this period, and he was able to keep Dunbar ahead.

The Tigers pulled ahead 31-30 midway in the second period aided by the accurate shooting of Mickey Almond, but the bombs of Skief and the sharp shooting of Frank Melton propelled the Panthers back into the lead. They never relinquished it.

Tommy Bullard, who was high point man for the Tigers with 21 points, put in nine points in the third period rally, but Skief also had his best quarter then. Jim Patrick hit a couple of times from the top of the circle and once from the corner during the third quarter, and Frankie Grimmett put in a couple of corner shots. However, Phillips and Wilson managed to grab the ball whenever the Tigers threatened to go ahead again, and they fed it quickly to Skief.

Almond posted 20 points while Grimmett and Patrick each meshed 12 for Snyder.

Skief won scoring honors with 24 points. Wilson put in 21, and Phillips notched 16.

Dunbar can win the second half outright with a victcory over Littlefield Friday. Meanwhile, the Tigers close out the campaign on the same day against Lamesa, the first round winner.

Snyder's Kittens thrashed the Junior Panthers 105-85. It was an aggressive performance by the Tiger "B" team. They kept the pressure on Dunbar on defense and several boys registered superior shooting performances. Lee McNair copped scoring honors for the Kittens with 31 points. Wesley Bishop, who saw action mainly in the second half, tripped the cords for 23 points while Randy Rushing and Bill Hood each contributed 13 points. Dennis Carlton, playing one of his best games, put in 10.

There were two outstanding individuals on the Panther team — Earnest Davis and R. B. Young. Davis pumped in 33 points, and Young hit for 22.

Carlton grabbed the lion's share of rebounds, pulling 18 off the boards. Rushing was runnerup with 13 and McNair was credited with 6.

Coach W. C. Hodges' Cards will tangle with Roby in bi-district. Officials of the two schools will work out details concerning time and game site.

Hermleigh got off to a quick start, taking a 22-9 lead in the boys game. They boosted the count to 38-23 at halftime, then held on while Westbrook rallied to pull within three points, at 49-52 in the third period. Hermleigh pulled away in the fourth quarter, outscoring their opponent 18-14.

Duffy To File Suit?

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State football Coach Duffy Daugherty said Tuesday he is considering filing a libel suit against a student newspaper that said treatment of MSU athletes may have violated Big Ten rules.

Daugherty said he hadn't decided whether to file such a suit, but would leave the decision up to an attorney.

The newspaper, the Michigan Daily, student organ of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, was asked about Daugherty's statement, and managing editor Steve Wildstrom said, "We have no comment other than that we will stand by our stories."

The stories involved were written by Clark Norton, the newspaper's sports editor, who cited certain acts he said had taken place involving Michigan and Michigan State athletes in possible violations of Big Ten rules.

Leaders Lose Road Contests

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

First-place Baylor got an unexpected helping hand from tailend Texas Tech and Southern Methodist but the Bears wasted the opportunity to gain almost unrecoverable ground toward a Southwest Conference basketball championship.

Baylor lost to Texas 79-65 at Austin Tuesday night while second-place Arkansas and Texas Christian also were losing away from home. Southern Methodist upset TCU 70-63 and Texas Tech edged Arkansas 74-72 on Lee Tynes' tipin with two seconds to play.

Texas A&M made it a clean sweep for the home teams by whipping Rice 78-58.

A Baylor triumph would have put the Bears three games in front with five games remaining, three of them at Waco. Now they are 7-2 but still two games ahead of Arkansas, TCU, Texas and Texas A&M, all 5-4.

Rice, Texas Tech and SMU share the last three places with 3-6 won-lost records and are eliminated from title contention.

Texas Tech's last-moment victory was almost foreordained. Earlier Tuesday Arkansas' chartered airplane developed engine trouble and made a forced landing at Wichita Falls. The Razorbacks switched to another plane and arrived in Lubbock several hours behind schedule.

After taking a 43-29 halftime lead, Arkansas lost on fouls its leading scorer, James Eldridge, with 4:13 to play and Gary Stephens with 3:59 remaining. Eldridge scored 15 of his 17 points in the first half and Stephens got 10 of his 12 in the same period.

Then with the score tied 72-72 on Tynes' long basket, Arkansas' Bobby Vint missed a free throw with 13 seconds to play. Tech got the rebound, Jim Nelson's shot bounced off the rim and Tynes tapped in the winning basket.

Gary Overbeck and Billy Arnold, both of whom collected three fouls early in the game, scored 20 points apiece as Texas scored on 67 per cent of its field goal attempts.

The Longhorns never trailed and the score was tied only twice, 2-2 and 6-6. Texas increased a 38-30 halftime lead to 49-32 with four minutes played in the second half. Tommy Bowman led Baylor with 19 points.

Southern Methodist combined a pressing defense in the second half with 47 points scoring by Bill Voigt and Lynn Phillips to avenge an earlier loss to TCU. Voight scored 24 and Phillips 23.

The Horned Frogs led 39-35 at intermission. TCU's Mickey McCarty, the conference's leading scorer, got 21 points before fouling out. James Cash, the Frogs' second top scorer, managed only eight.

Rice's 25 per cent shooting performance in the second half after hitting 48 per cent in the opening period, made Texas A&M's work easy. The Aggies had a [illegible] rebounding edge and 44 per cent field goal shooting for the game.

Billy Bob Barnett paced the Aggies' balanced scoring with 17 points.

Layne In Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Layne, Claude "Buddy" Young, Clark Shaughnessy and six others have been named to the National Football Foundation's Hall of Fame.

Chester LaRoche, president of the hall, said the nine would be inducted into the hall Dec. 3 at a banquet in New York.

The others to be inducted are Claude Monk Simmons, Johnny Pingel, the late Eddie Casey, Adam Walsh, Albert "Ox" Wistert and Henry Ketcham.

Layne, quarterback for the Detroit Lions for many years, played three backfield positions for the University of Texas. Young, a top running back at Illinois, played for several professional teams.

Shaughnessy was coach at Stanford where he developed the T-formation that in 1940 gave the Indians an unbeaten season. Simmons was a great running back at Tulane, Pingel was a triple-threat halfback for Michigan State and Casey was a back at Harvard.

Walsh was on the line at Notre Dame, where he captained the team in 1924. Wistert played at Michigan and on the line for the Philadelphia Eagles for nine years. Ketcham was a lineman at Yale from 1911 to 1913 and won All-American honors.

Bullets Drop Heartbreaker

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Write

BALTIMORE (AP) — Earl "The Pearl" Monroe, taking charge in the manner of Oscar Robertson, scored 56 points and rallied the Baltimore Bullets repeatedly Tuesday night before running out of miracles.

With 27 seconds remaining in overtime, the Baltimore rookie missed a penalty free throw which would have tied the score and the Los Angeles Lakers won the National Basketball Association game 119-116.

TERRORISM INCREASING

Guatemala Upheaval Brews

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
Associated Press Writer

GUATEMALA (AP) — Guatemalans are busily putting together all the ingredients that go into political upheavals. There's increasing fear a government-toppling tremor is not far off.

The 19-month-old government of President Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro, a middle-road lawyer, seems backed against the wall in the battle for survival against leftist and rightist extremists.

The daylight terrorist killing of two U.S. military officers here last month underscored the savagery of a deadly little civil war that has claimed more than 1,000 lives — perhaps as many as 4,000 — since Mendez took over in July 1966.

Despite tightened security precautions and the recent addition of 1,000 men to the national police force, urban terrorism continues.

A stepup in leftist terrorism is regarded generally here as evidence the Castroite left, routed in mountain warfare the past year, has opened an urban front with the remnants of its guerrilla forces.

The leftist upsurge has brought on a correspondingly violent reaction from armed rightist extremists. Gunned down in January violence were at least four persons identified vaguely in newspaper accounts as leftists.

In a communique last month, five anti-communists groups formed into a single organization called Organization of Associations against Communism, appealed for national support in the fight "for defense of the fatherland". The communique closed with the motto, "Communist sighted, Communist dead."

Caught in the middle of this leftist-rightist struggle, the Mendez government, originally pledged to carry out social and fiscal reforms, has been unable to do much more than fend for survival. In an effort to stem the violence, the government imposed a state of alarm under which some constitutional guarantees are suspended and all security forces come under control of the interior minister.

Right-wing activists claim the armed forces are discontented, feeling the government has a soft attitude toward left-wing extremists. They say Communists are everywhere in the administration.

Other Guatemalans, challenging these claims, point out that far rightists have labeled as Communist even members of a U.S aid mission here.

These same Guatemalans, however, believe a Castroite threat has not been liquidated in Guatemala. They cite as an example of Castroite strategy and determination the simultaneous outbreak of fires in the downtown district Dec. 15. While these fires raged, word spread that other business firms were ablaze in other parts of the city. This was false, but the rumors were enough to bring out hundreds of ragged poor from the city's slum areas. Quick and efficient work by the Fire Department and the military placed the fires and crowds under control. The next day, unexploded fire bombs were found in at least two business houses.

The Castroite strategy, it is believed, was to touch off a major conflagration, accompanied by looting and rioting, that might spread into open civil war.

WITH GLOBAL POLITICAL WARS

What Are The Chances For Peace?

By WLLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

What are the chances for the survival of world peace?

Its fate depends upon relations of the two superpowers, the United States and Russia, and the fever chart since World War II looks like a jagged sierra of ups and downs—mostly ups.

In the past 30 months, the chart has steadied at a high level, close to critical. It reached a peak in mid-January when North Korea, the Communist ally of the Soviet Union, seized a U.S. naval intelligence ship.

The record shows that somehow, when the danger is greatest, the doctors are able to agree, however temporarily. The patient's condition now may suggest to both doctors that a major operation is needed in the area of Vietnam and the Far East. But the record also shows that even should such an operation be successful, there are plenty of latent ailments to endanger the patient's life.

Even during World War II it was becoming clear that the Soviet-American alliance had been a marriage of convenience. The guns had hardly fallen silent when global political war began in earnest.

A fever chart might look something like this:

High, 1946: East-West tension exploded over Iran. Russia refused to withdraw from Iran's northernmost province, Azerbaijan, bordering Soviet Azerbaijan. Shielded by Soviet arms, Communists set up an autonomous government, producing a dangerous uproar in the fledgling United Nations. The Soviet delegation staged its first walkout at the world organization.

Receding late 1946: World pressure forced the Russians to withdraw, and the Communist "government" in Azerbaijan collapsed.

High, 1947-48: The Russians installed Communist power in Eastern Europe and supported a civil war in Greece. Joseph V. Stalin created the Cominform—Communist Information Bureau—as successor to the Comintern—Communist International—which he had declared dissolved during World War II as a gesture to his allies. He expelled Tito's Yugoslavia from the Communist family for resisting Moscow. Communists, with Soviet help, seized Czechoslovakia. A Soviet blockade isolated Berlin in an attempt to expel the Western allies. A U.S. airlift of enormous proportions defeated this gamble.

Receding, 1949: Stalin called off the Berlin Blockade. As the China and while the Russians East Germany, Stalin began a off the Berlin Blockade. As the Communists were enveloping China and while the Russians were establishing a Communist East Germany, Stalin began a determined offensive keyed to professed Soviet devotion to "peaceful coexistence."

High, 1950-53: Armed by Russians, North Korean Communist forces attacked South Korea across the 38th Parallel. The United States resisted, along with other allies, for three bloody years until the Russians—and Chinese Communist "volunteers"—abandoned the gamble after Stalin's death in March, 1953.

Receding, 1954-55: A gradual relaxation of tensions followed the Korea truce, while in Moscow Nikita S. Khrushchev was climbing to power. A Geneva conference brought agreement on Vietnam, though none on Korea. The Russians agreed to end the four-power occupation of Austria in a gambit aimed at neutralizing Germany and Berlin. An East-West summit meeting at Geneva in May 1955 produced what the Russians dubbed the "spirit of Geneva."

High, 1955: The "spirit of Geneva" soon became a mocking specter. The West brought West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Moscow responded with formation of the Warsaw militay pact linking European Communist nations.

Receding, early 1956: Khrushchev in a secret Moscow speech denounced the departed Stalin as a blunderer and butcher. East-West tensions eased, but not for long.

High, late 1956: Ferment resulting from de-Stalinization policies produced unrest in Poland and revolution against the Communists in Hungary, put down by brutal Soviet military measures. The Suez crisis exploded in the Middle East. Moscow threatened to rain destruction on the West.

Receding, 1957: Moscow backed away from the threat of war. Combined Soviet and American efforts had forced the British and French to abandon their attempt to occupy the Suez Canal zone.

High, late 1957-58: The Soviet Union orbited the first artificial satellite, causing U.S. nervousness about Russia's missile potential. Tensions in the Middle East produced a Syrian-Turkish crisis, which seemed to dissolve after Khrushchev was safe from his political foes at home. The Middle East continued to boil until, in May 1958 it developed into an enormous, long-lasting crisis which involved a wide Arab area i nbloodshed and turmoil. U.S. troops landed in Lebanon. The Russians howled with anger. But they backed away once again from a war crisis. Khrushchev, applying new pressure, served an ultimatum to the Western allies on Berlin: to agree to end the occupation within six months or see Moscow sign a separate treaty with East Germany.

Receding, 1959: Once again Khrushchev shied away from a war crisis. He withdrew the ultimatum by eliminating the time limit—and Moscow never again invoked it. Preceded by advance visitors from Moscow, Khrushchev made a spectacular tour of the United States, addressed the United Nations with a proposal for "general and complete disarmament" and met at Camp David, Md., with President Eisenhower, whom the Russian leader described as a "man of peace."

High, 1960: In May, the Russians shot down an American U2 "spy plane" over Soviet territory. Khrushchev traveled to Paris for a summit conference, but there exploded in wrath, denounced President Eisenhower as "my false friend."

Receding, early 1961: Once again, faced with a threat of Khrushchev backed away. This situation concerned Laos, Vietnam's neighbor, where Communist pressure and Western presence threatened a major crisis. Khrushchev met with President John F. Kennedy in Vienna. While the meeting was less than wholly cordial, they agreed to try to snuff the Laos fuse and paved the way for a Geneva conference on the issue.

High, late 1961: The Berlin Wall went up, a Communist device to seal off the Soviet sector and deny entry to the Western allies. The situation brought about a nose-to-nose confrontation between American and Soviet tanks at the sector border. Once again, the Russians shied away. Their tanks retreated.

Receding, early 1962: The world breathed a sigh of relief as yet another Berlin crisis faded. The big powers also managed to reach agreement on neutralization of Laos.

High, late 1962, early 1963: The worst crisis of all came in October. Khrushchev had tried to introduce offensive missiles into Communist Cuba. The United States quarantined Cuba and demanded withdrawal of the missiles. For an agonizing span of hours, the two superpowers were looking directly at the specter of nuclear war. Once again the Russians backed down. Khrushchev, in return for a U.S. pledge not to invade Cuba, withdraw the missile installations. But a crisis atmosphere continued, reflected once again in Berlin. There, in April, Khrushchev demanded that the issue be settled as the most pressing of all world problems.

Receding, 1963-64: The Berlin crisis faded again. In mid-1963, to the rage of Communist China, a treaty banning most types of nuclear weapons testing was signed by the U.S.S.R., Britain and the United States.

High, 1965-1968: In August, 1964, the United States reported that North Vietnamese torpedo boats atacked U.S. warships in the Tonkin Gulf. President Johnson asked and received authority from Congress to deal with the situation. Bombing of North Vietnam began. U.S. combat troops were sent to South Vietnam to fight the Viet Cong.

Since then, Soviet relations with the United States have been chronically strained, despite hints from time to time of Soviet interest in lessening dangers of expanded war in Asia, and despite agreement with the Americans on terms of a pact to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. Seldom had the Soviet attitude toward the United States in the post-Stalin era appeared so frigid as at the time of the January North Korean crisis.

Meanwhile, another nation, the fifth in th eworld, was producing a nuclear arsenal. Communist China proceeded from a first crude atom bomb explosion in October 1964 to a hydrogen bomb and nuclear missiles by mid-1967.

They Wear History On Shirtsleeves

By STEVE MOORE
Associated Press Writer

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Montana highway patrolmen, their penchant for the past clearly visible, literally wear history on their shirtsleeves.

On the shoulder patch of each patrolman, and also printed in bright yellow on their patrol car insignias, are the figures 3-7-77, the dread symbol of Montana's frontier vigilantes.

Many historians believe the figures represent the dimensions of a grave—3 feet wide, 7 feet long and 77 inches deep. The 3-7-77 was the slogan of the figures represent the dimensions of a grave—3 feet wide, 7 feet long and 77 inches deep. The 3-7-77 was the slogan of the men who first brought law to the rough and tumble Montana Territory.

"We chose the symbol to keep alive the memory of this first people's police force," said Alex Stephenson, chief of the Montana Highway Patrol and designer of the insignia. "This was the first group of civilians to organize as a body to uphold the laws of this state."

Vigilante activity in the fledgling gold-mining territory began in the 1860s, though the original movement started in the California gold fields. The groups dealt swift punishment to persons they considered to be offenders, though the innocent sometimes suffered when the vigilantes took the law into their own hands.

The cryptic set of sigures soon became identified with vigilante action and were feared by highwaymen and other outlaws. Later they became a symbol of faith and peace of mind for Montana settlers.

The figures may have been a warning to an outlaw that his presence was no longer desired in a particular town. They meant that a grave was to be dug quickly for those who ignored the ominous warning.

In all, 32 persons were hanged by extralegal vigilante groups. A number were banished and others fled.

Pilot May Be Fined

DALLAS (AP) — Edwin G. Duncan has been a commercial airlines pilot for 25 years and his failure to put on an oxygen mask on a routine flight may cost him $1,000.

A Federal Aviation Administration inspector said Duncan, a Braniff International pilot, made no move to put on his oxygen mask on a recent flight to Vietnam when the co-pilot left his seat for a time.

The flight carried servicemen to Vietnam.

FAA regulations require oxygen-mask use if the man flying the plane is alone in the cockpit at altitudes of more than 25,000 feet. Carl Whitman, the inspector, said in federal court that the plane was at 31,000 feet at the time of the incident.

U. S. Dist. Judge Joe E. Estes postponed his decision on the amount of the fine Duncan may have to pay, pending the filing of additional motions.

Mock Convention Appoints Nixon

SOUTH PARIS, Maine (AP) — A mock Republican presidential nominating convention, complete with floor demonstrations, balloon barrages, speeches and gavel-pounding, drew 500 persons to a miniconvention.

Richard Nixon was nominated 222-91 over New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to the tune of organ music and noisemakers. Michigan Gov. George Romney polled 20 votes, and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California received 19. The affair was staged by Oxford County Republicans.

Congress Takes First Of Recesses

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After three weeks of work, Congress is taking the first in a series of scheduled vacations that will do little to insure the Aug. 1 adjournment its leaders claim is possible.

This recess, which began last Thursday, is in honor of President Abraham Lincoln's birthday anniversary two days ago. Republicans traditionally spend the week making speeches in honor of the first president of their party.

The Senate, which met for five seconds on Monday, meets today to resume regular business. But with a filibuster in progress against civil rights legislation, little if anything is expected to be accomplished.

The House, which met for 33 minutes Monday, plans a token session Thursday in order to adjourn until next Monday, when legislative business will be resumed.

Next week will also be a short week, because Washington's birthday falls on Thursday.

Although the leaderships of both houses talked optimistically of adjourning before the start of the political conventions Aug. 5, little has happened since to warrant that optimism.

While most presidential messages detailing proposals outlined in the State of the Union message have come to Capitol Hill faster than in past years, accompanying legislation has not always been ready. As a result, committee work is just starting.

The Senate's first order of business for the year was to decide on vacation dates. Deliberation since has been confined to civil rights.

A handful of bills have been passed in the House, including the interest disclosure measure passed last year by the Senate.

Although the official vacation dates announced in the Senate showed no layoffs for as long as a week, the actual schedule is likely to be more liberal.

The next vacation, for example, is the Easter recess, which is scheduled to last from April 11 to April 17, a Wednesday. If history is any example, activity will not be resumed until April 22, a Monday.

Success Speeds Apollo Program

By JIM STROTHMAN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Recent successes in America's man-to-the moon drive may permit the space agency to squeeze in three manned Apollo flights this year, with the first launch perhaps two months sooner than scheduled.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's announced schedule, calls for astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr., Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham to ride the first manned Apollo moonship into earth orbit in the "last quarter" of this year, meaning no sooner than October.

Unofficially, however, sources say the flight could occur much earlier, perhaps August. They point out that current schedules call for the spacecraft to arrive at Cape Kennedy toward the end of March. The planned launch preparation time is about four months.

The success of America's second Saturn 5 superrocket launching, now scheduled for March 21, plus some key administrative decisions to be made in the next few weeks by NASA planners will determine whether the Schirra-commanded mission is in fact moved up and whether two manned Saturn 5 flights are attempted this year.

Navy Capt. Schirra, Air Force Maj. Eisele and Cunningham, a civilian, will be orbited by a Saturn 1 rocket, a smaller booster than the Saturn 5 which will be used to launch men to the moon.

The official schedule now includes another Saturn 1 launching this spring for a second unmanned test of a lunar module, the craft that will ferry astronauts between the moon's surface and an Apollo command ship in lunar orbit.

Although a decision is not expected until March, most experts now agree that the first lunar module test last Jan. 22 was so successful that a second unmanned flight will not be necessary, permitting launch crews to concentrate on the Schirra mission.

The first manned flight aboard a Saturn 5 now officially is not scheduled until the fourth launching of the superrocket. However, project officials have left open the possibility that—if the second Saturn 5 is as successful as the first—NASA may decide to skip a third unmanned test of the mighty booster.

In this event, the Apollo spaceship now scheduled to fly on the fourth Saturn 5 could be launched aboard the third, possibly in October or November.

Three Die In 2-Car Crash

KARNES CITY, Tex. (AP) — Three motorists died in a collision of a car and a pickup truck one mile north of here in South Texas on U. S. 181 Tuesday night.

They were listed by state police as Henry Katzer, 56, driver of the car, and his wife Rose, 46, of Poth, Tex., and Paul Mills, 54, of Floresville, at the wheel of the pickup.

Officers said the pickup veered across the center of the roadway.

Four other persons in the Katzer car suffered injuries which were not believed serious. They are Robert Katzer and Guadalupe Cantua, both hospitalized overnight, and Henry Katzer Jr. and Gregory Uhlig, dismissed after first aid.

PRACTICING COUNTERATTACKS

Biafrans Are Talking Peace

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The hard-pressed Biafrans are talking peace but making daring attempts to counterattack in the seven-month-old Nigerian civil war.

The Nigerian federal military regime claims it has beaten back Biafran efforts to regain Nsukka, a university town which fell to federal soldiers 10 days after the civil war erupted last July.

High federal officials also discount a Biafran bid for peace talks which brought British Commonwealth Secretary-General Arnold Smith to Lagos for intensive talks with the federal regime over the weekend.

Authoritative sources in the federal regime said Tuesday that before peace talks can begin, they must see more concrete signs that Biafra, the former eastern region of Nigeria, is willing to return to the federation.

In the talks with Smith, they said, there was no consideration of using Commonwealth or other foreign troops to guarantee security of the predominantly Ibo Biafrans during a cease-fire.

But there was some sentiment for using "observers" as "moral pressure on federal soldiers and to enable the Ibo psychology to change to permit a new frame of mind," they added.

About 8 million of Biafra's 13 million people are Ibo tribesmen and they claim the federals are waging a war of genocide against them.

Smith arrived in Lagos Friday with what sources said he considered strong evidence the Biafrans were ready to renounce secession and return to the Nigerian federation. The highest government circles, however, still consider the Biafran stand basically unchanged and unacceptable for peace talks.

Two days before Smith arrived, a small Biafran force launched attacks on the main supply artery south of Nsukka to Enugu, an area long held by the federals.

Reinforced units started mortar shelling of the southwest corner of Nsukka Thursday, according to eyewitness reports arriving in Lagos.

The Biafrans claimed the capture of Nsukka Sunday. Red Cross workers in Nsukka have withdrawn to Makurdi, 100 miles to the north, and the situation remained confused today.

Reports said more Ibo inhabitants are being seen in the Nsukka area but most live in villages off the main roads and have dug deep elephant traps to discourage federal patrols.

CAREER CORNER

By F. J. LAIN

SHORTHAND REPORTER

Q. "I'm number one in my shorthand class; could I make more money as a secretary or as a court reporter?" — O. Z., Santa Rosa, Calif.

A. — Probably as a court reporter, which would put you in a spot to have the last word since court reporters' transscripts are the official records of court proceedings. If you like TV courtroom dramas, you might find this to be a zingy job.

Court reporters are one type of workers in the broader field of shorthand reporters. The others are hearing and legislative reporters, and general reporters. In common, all make verbatim reports of what is said.

Shorthand reporters may use handwritten shorthand — Gregg or Pitman, or use a machine that prints letters used as shorthand symbols. Most entering the field today use machines.

First-rate reporters must be able to take at least 200 words per minute — ever 250 wpm in short spurts! They may type their work or have others do it. However, the reporter has final responsibility for accuracy.

COURT REPORTERS: Appointed by courts and most work at court trials. They are paid about $5,000 to $14,000.

HEARING AND LEGISLATIVE REPORTERS: Usually they work in state legislatures, and the executive branches of federal and state government — either in capitals or in field offices. Salaries are a little lower than court reporters but still good.

GENERAL REPORTERS: Most of them free-lance in large cities covering such activities as business meetings, conventions and stockholders' meetings. Average earnings are between $6,000 to $18,000.

FRINGE BENEFITS: Good to excellent for all except general reporters who are self-employed.

WOMEN: 40 per cent of the estimated 1,000 shorthand reporters in this country are women.

EDUCATION: At least high school graduation, and then training in a business or shorthand reporting school for between 18 months and two years full time, or from three to four years if part time.

In addition to shorthand and typing, reporters need a large vocabulary and good facility with English grammar and spelling. Other necessary knowledge is legal terminology, common Latin phrases, rules of evidence, court procedure and familiarity with medical words and subjects.

CSR: About 10 states grant the Certified Shorthand Reporter certificate which requires applicants to pass appropriate tests.

PERSONAL: You need good hearing, judgment, the discretion to keep certain reports confidential, ability to work under pressure and a liking for detailed work.

OUTLOOK: Excellent.

HEADSTART: Take minutes at school club meetings; visit courtrooms, local legislative sessions, business and shorthand reporting schools; talk with shorthand reporters about their work.

NEXT: URBAN PLANNER

Crawford Breaks Ice

NEW YORK (AP) — The weekly luncheons of the Sales Executives Club of New York soon will be invaded by a long-legged perfumed valentine: Actress Joan Crawford.

The Academy Award-winning star gets enrolled officially today as the first female member of the 35-year-old club. She receives a membership card—and a frilly red valentine—from her male colleagues.

Though a veteran at breaking into the man's world, Miss Crawford was nonetheless excited at joining the largest organization of sales and marketing executives in the world.

"How would it feel to any woman to have 3,400 men around you?" she asked. "It's pretty sensational and I'm extremely flattered and honored."

Summing up her own busy career on screen, in the board room and at home with her children, Miss Crawford said: "We may not get much sleep, but we get things done."

Silent Film Star Dies

HERMOSA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Mae Marsh, who was Flora, the little sister in D.W. Griffith's silent screen classic, "The Birth of a Nation," is dead of a heart attack at 72.

The actress died Tuesday at her home in Hermosa Beach, 20 miles south of Hollywood, where she and her husband Louis Lee Arms had lived for 47 years.

Griffith was captivated by her "frail, wispy look," he said, when he discovered her on a Hollywood lot at the age of 14. Five years later, in 1915, he cast her in his epic.

The auburn-haired girl became one of the silent film era's most popular actresses, earning as much as $250,000 a year.

After appearing in Griffith's "Intolerance," she left him to star for Samuel Goldwyn and become the original "Goldwyn Girl."

Although her career survived the transition to talkies, Mae Marsh's face appeared older than her age and she was cast in character roles. She retired in the late 1920s but returned in 1931 in the early sound film, "Over the Hill."

She played minor roles in several later films and appeared as a mother in a number of Westerns.

Born Nov. 9, 1895, in Madrid, N.M., she attended Convent of the Immaculate Heart in Hollywood and was a bright-eyed 17 year old when she began playing in films for Griffith.

Cold Spell Cuts Demand For Water

Cold and unseasonable damp weather in January cut down on water demands of the member cities, the monthly production report of the Colorado River Municipal Water District shows.

January's 841,294,692 gallons fell 6.64 per cent under the January deliveries of 1967. All of the loss occurred in deliveries to the cities.

Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder together took 442,906,000 gallons, down 11.95 per cent from a year ago. The oil companies drew 398,368,692 gallons, up .9 of one per cent. Odessa took 224,660,000 gallons, down 8.41, Big Spring 173,676,000, down 15.48; Snyder 44,570,000, down 14.90.

At this time of the year, all of the production comes from Lake J. B. Thomas.

While it does not show on production reports until finally delivered to a customer, the CRMWD transferred from Lake Thomas to underground storage in the Martin County well field 64,226,200 gallons in January and to Moss Creek Lake southeast of Big Spring 49,255,000 gallons.

A&M Plans Labor Survey

COLLEGE STATION (AP) —Arrangements for a Texas A&M study of the labor market in the Lower Rio Grande Valley were disclosed Tuesday.

Dr. M. L. Greenhut, head of the A&M economics department, said the project is being undertaken by agreement with the Labor Department in Washington.

One facet will be a survey of laborers themselves and community leaders to determine manpower requirements, he said.

"It is anticipated that this research will yield valuable information useful to farm producers hiring resources in a dynamic market as well as employes competing in the rapidly changing world of business," Greenhut said.

He reported an A&M professor of economics who is a labor expert, Paul B. Miller, will be the major investigator for the study and professors John Allen, Herman Hartley and Rudy Freund will help develop sampling procedures.

NEW STUDIES INDICATE

Warmth, Water On Moon?

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — New studies indicate the moon may have moist, warm areas—possibly conducive to microbial life—a lunar scientist reports.

Dr. Jack Green told a seminar of the University of California at Los Angeles chapter of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics Tuesday that evidence of moisture was found in specially filtered telescope pictures of an area near the crater Aristarchus.

Aristarchus, in the upper left portion of the lunar disk, is the site of red flares—possibly indicating volcanic activity—reported by several astronomers.

Green said his belief that there may be warm, moist areas near the crater is based on apparent detection of sulfur with a filter, producing photographs in which that mineral shows up black. Large black areas several miles square were found in photographs recently made to investigate earlier indications, Green said.

"On earth sulfur, the most abundant volcanic mineral, is always found in the presence of hydrous or water-bearing rock," he said. "If this holds true on the moon, then there must be large areas near volcanic craters which are warm and moist and conceivably could support small organisms.

"Bacterial life has been found in boiling water in numerous hot springs on our planet."

Green, research scientist for McDonnell Douglas Corp. and a consultant on the space agency's Surveyor program, said his study covered only an area near Aristarchus but he hopes to survey other craters later.

Green said a soil-testing device taken to the moon by recent Surveyors was not equipped to detect sulfur.

Water-bearing rocks near sulfur deposits on earth, he said, can be made to yield up to a gallon of water per cubic foot of rock by heating them to 500 to 800 degrees Fahrenheit. On the moon, where surface temperatures rise to 250 degrees at noon, such temperatures could be achieved by focusing solar rays on hydrous rock, Green said.

He suggested that if his interpretation of the "black" areas is correct, manned bases on the moon should be established near volcanic craters to take advantage of water and warmth.

"The possibility of finding water seems to me to be far greater near volcanic craters than in the plains areas tentatively selected—because they are smoother—for astronaut landings," Green said.

Goodyear-installed brake lining is available in three grades — good, better and our best. If the Goodyear installed brake lining should wear out before the time or mileage (whichever comes first) as listed above for the grade you purchase (and upon surrender of the original invoice), we will supply new linings of the same grade at no charge. You pay only for the cost of installation.
