Ford To Stand By Decision

By The Associated Press

Vice President Gerald R. Ford has made clear he plans to stand by his disapproval of President Nixon's decision to bar further Watergate evidence to the House impeachment inquiry.

Ford told a news conference here Sunday night that their differences were laid out "quite candidly" at his meeting with Nixon last Thursday and that "I haven't backed off from it since."

He refused to say what Nixon's reaction to his position was but said, "there was an understanding that my position had been, is and will be what it has been in the past.

"Only the President, at this point, through his attorneys, has taken a different view," said Ford, who repeatedly has urged the White House to cooperate with the House Judiciary Committee as much as possible.

The vice president made it plain he intends to keep pushing for moderation, compromise and cooperation with the committee.

Ford sounded that theme at several points Sunday as he spoke at a hospital building dedication in New York and campaigned in Connecticut for freshman Republican Rep. Ronald A. Sarasin, who faces a difficult re-election fight in his normally Democratic district.

In New York, Ford helped dedicate a $52 million Mt. Sinai Medical Center building named for the mother of U.S. Ambassador to England Walter Annenberg.

Ford said he would do his best to assure enactment of compromise health insurance legislation, adding that "cooperation and compromise are the only means by which our form of government—in this field and others—can move ahead successfully."

He then flew to Waterbury, Conn., where he dedicated a new airport instrument landing system and declared that "cooperation and teamwork gets things done."

In Danbury, Ford also said he expects Nixon will obey any Supreme Court decision in the case involving special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski's subpoena of 64 Watergate-related tapes.

Stand Firm, Nixon Urges Americans

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated press Writer

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon marked Memorial Day today with an appeal for Americans to live up to their responsibilities for world leadership in a day when atomic weapons are spreading.

"America's isolation can lead only to the world's destruction," the President said in a radio speech from the bayside study of the Florida White House.

He called on Congress to stand firm "on the issue of a strong America."

The President said that "our hopes for a lasting peace are brighter than at any time in living memory because we now have a structure of peace and we are carefully working to strengthen it."

He said that "a momentum has been created that makes it easier for the leaders of the major powers to settle differences peacefully, in negotiation instead of in armed confrontation."

Nixon referred to the end of "America's longest and most difficult war" in Vietnam and said the United States has begun in the Middle East "the long, hard working effort to bringing people together at the peace table who formerly met only on the battlefield."

He cited the normalizing of relations with Communist China and a new relationship with the leaders of the Soviet Union after more than a quarter century of confrontation.

While agreeing that America should continue to build the best possible life for its people, Nixon said:

"Like it or not, we are also part of a larger world ... and in a day when atomic weapons are spreading, when famine stalks large parts of the earth, and when the tinder that could ignite another massive conflagration exists in many parts of the world, to turn our back on our responsibilities for world leadership would, in the long run, be disastrous not only for us, but also for all the people in the world who seek peace."

The President concluded his brief radio address by declaring that "peace is the real and right memorial for those who have died in war."

In another radio address Saturday, the President discussed the condition of the nation's economy.

Nixon relaxed at his bayside home Sunday after conferring with aides and reviewing cables on the Middle East situation from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Holiday Death Toll Mounts

By The Associated Press

The death toll on the nation's highways stood at 258 today as the 78-hour Memorial Day weekend neared an end.

The highest number of deaths was expected today as travelers return home.

The National Safety Council predicted that fuel shortages and lower speed limits would result in a lower death rate this year than in previous years. The highest death toll for a three-day Memorial Day weekend was 597, set in 1969.

Energy Just One Shortage

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Energy is only one of a list of vanishing commodities in a coming era of scarcity, an Atlantic Richfield official has told an energy symposium at the Expo '74 world's fair.

"We seem to be running out of practically everything," including food, farm land and raw materials, Leroy K. Cheney, ARCO manager of environmental and energy conservation, said Sunday.

The material growth rate the world now considers normal is "clearly not sustainable—the throwaway society expired of sheer overindulgence," he said.

He said people must learn to live with less, and scarcities of essential materials will require an "inevitable realignment of traditional have an have-not nations. The United States, with 6 per cent of the world's population, will no longer have the freedom to use 35 per cent of the world's energy."

But predictions of world disaster by prophets of doom are wrong because they ignore "the great X-factor—mankind's remarkable ability to cope with his condition," Cheney said.

He said total adoption of a conservation ethic, a government energy policy more intelligent and flexible than it previously has been and a vigorous energy industry will help the country through the next three or four decades.

"Perhaps in 40 years or so, we hope that we will then be ready to turn to the essentially inexhaustible resources of solar and nuclear power."

NO WORD ON PROGRESS

Kissinger, Assad Meet

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Syrian President Hafez Assad met today to discuss an Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement but there was no immediate word on whether progress had been made toward a final agreement.

Kissinger scheduled further talks with Assad before shuttling back to Israel this evening — just about the time Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was scheduled to arrive here.

A spokesman said there was no possibility of a meeting between Kissinger and Gromyko.

Kissinger was to meet with Israeli leaders this evening and leave for Washington on Tuesday, ending his 31-day peace mission.

Kissinger conferred twice with Assad for a total of three hours and scheduled two more sessions today.

"He has no plans to return to Damascus," a spokesman said.

Today's final meetings with Assad were marked by an official Syrian statement charging Kissinger with injecting the issue of Palestinian guerrillas into their deliberations.

Kissinger was advised to address his concern to the guerrilla leadership. The statement from the Syrian Arab News Agency said the Syrians were not prepared to discuss the guerrilla issue. It added that several difficult points remained for discussion.

The Soviet news agency Tass revealed Gromyko's visit, saying he was coming "at the invitation of the leadership of the Syrian Arab Republic."

Syrian sources, however, said he apparently was coming without an invitation and U.S. officials declined to indicate why Gromyko was coming back on the stage.

Observers speculated that Gromyko, who last met with Kissinger May 7 on the island of Cyprus, either wanted to share the spotlight if a settlement was at hand or to block a settlement the Soviets consider contrary to their interests.

Watergate Has Affected LEAA

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The executive branch of government is "just a nastier place to be these days," according to Donald Santarelli, head of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Because of Watergate, "you can't accomplish nearly as much" as before and "you can't use the President's name like you used to be able to do," he said.

The White House staff has been so decimated by the revelations of Watergate that the 36-year-old Santarelli says he is running his $900 million agency almost completely on his own. "There is nobody to tell me no, and there is nobody to can me," Santarelli said in an interview.

Later, after the interview had been published, Santarelli said he had misunderstood the ground rules of the interview and that his remarks were "not meant to be published." He did not challenge the accuracy of any of the statements attributed to him, but claimed they were "taken out of context from a casual conversation."

"It is foolish for me to say that the President can't fire me since I serve at the pleasure of the President," Santarelli said. "What I am saying is that I see no reason for him to fire me since I am carrying out his policies at LEAA."

Earlier, Santarelli said that because of Watergate he is "suspect at every turn in the road of being part of a crippled and lame administration ... everywhere I go, people say, 'what's the story about this stuff,' and you end up responding to questions and charges which are truly peripheral to your mission and which further compromise your mission."

Santarelli said that Watergate has been deeply felt throughout the Justice Department, of which his agency is a semi-independent branch. The rapid succession of attorneys general "has really undermined, ennervated, demoralized the department," he said.

Personally, Santarelli feels "somewhere between bitter and disappointed" about the whole thing, and he wants out —not today, not tomorrow, but soon. He said he still has some things he wants to do at LEAA, but when a presidential nomination to a Republican seat on the Federal Communications Commission was dangled before him recently, Santarelli quietly let it be known he wasn't interested.

Santarelli insisted that he would have felt the same, Watergate or no. "I've just seen too many deals," he said, deals in which political ramifications took priority over moral considerations "almost all the time."

OVER NIXON REFUSAL

Byrd And Smith Express Dismay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key Senate Democrat and the president of the American Bar Association have expressed dismay over President Nixon's refusal to comply with subpoenas for Watergate evidence.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., the Democratic whip, said Sunday that Nixon's rejection of subpoenas has bolstered the prospect that the Senate will convict him in an impeachment trial.

And Chesterfield Smith, president of the ABA, said, "I have been shocked and annoyed that the White House doesn't clearly state that, 'Yes, I am subject to the rule of law. I am not a king. I am only a man elected by the people and when the Supreme Court decides that I have to do something certainly I am going to do it.'"

Smith, interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press," said he would prefer if Nixon could find a way to "withdraw from public power" until Watergate-related charges against him are disposed of.

But, Smith said, he does not know of any way the President could do this. He said he is not certain that the 25th Amendment could be used for this purpose, as has been suggested by some lawyers.

Byrd, interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation," said, "I think what we're seeing here is defiance up and down the line.

"We've seen defiance of the House committee as it carries out a constitutional duty. We've seen defiance of the special prosecutor who was appointed by the administration, and who was given complete independence," he continued.

Nixon has refused to turn over tapes and documents subpoenaed for the Watergate cover-up trial. The White House also says it will not produce notes and memos of former presidential aides subpoenaed for the Ellsberg break-in trial. In addition, Nixon has declined to give the House Judiciary Committee evidence subpoenaed for its impeachment inquiry.

Meanwhile, Vice President Gerald R. Ford made clear that he plans to continue urging the President to cooperate with the Judiciary Committee despite Nixon's stand against supplying additional evidence.

Father Fails To Make Contact With SLA Trio

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The father of a Symbionese Liberation Army member has given up a week-long vigil to contact his daughter, leaving for home after saying he considered her and her comrades criminals.

Frederick Schwartz left for his suburban Chicago home Sunday after fruitless, tearful pleas to his daughter, Emily Harris, her husband Bill and Patricia Hearst to surrender. Schwartz said an intermediary claimed to have made direct contact with the three, but said two meetings arranged for him with his daughter failed to materialize.

Schwartz, a consulting engineer, had said publicly he would walk "hand in hand" to a safe surrender with the Harrises and Miss Hearst if they would only contact him.

However, he told an airport news conference before leaving: "Emily and Bill Harris and Patricia Hearst are in my view criminals, at least in the sense that they are fugitives."

The three, said by an FBI agent to be the last persons sought as members of the terrorist SLA, are wanted on state charges of robbery, assault with a deadly weapon and kidnaping. They also are accused of federal firearms violations.

Schwartz said a claim of direct contact with the trio was made in two telephone calls by someone he identified as an intermediary. He said he went to an appointed place in the Los Angeles area on Friday, but arrived an hour late because of freeway traffic.

No one met him that day or on Saturday, Schwartz said.

Then he reported the calls to authorities.

"I will never again work through intermediaries," he said. "And I will not work entirely on my own without advising the authorities. I am sure that if Emily says I am to meet her alone, the FBI will respect that."

Meanwhile, the search for the three continued. A yellow van was stopped Sunday near Santa Barbara, about 100 miles north of Los Angeles in connection with a possible sighting of Miss Hearst. Police released the male and female occupants after questioning.

The Los Angeles Times reported Sunday that Mrs. Harris, through a job as a clerk-typist at the University of California at Berkeley, had access to data showing when Miss Hearst attended classes and where and how she might spend her free time. Miss Hearst was a sophomore art student there when she was kidnaped nearly four months ago. She now claims to have joined her abductors.

Also Sunday, authorities studied a tape recording received Saturday by Berkeley radio station KPFA. It carried the voices of a woman who identified herself as "General Field Marshal Cabrella of the federated forces of the Symbionese Liberation Army" and a man who said he was the minister of cultural affairs of the Black Liberation Army.

Respect for one's self is rule for relationship

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding "Normal girl" who wanted to know why you replied, "Lovely" to the 16-year-old girl who was saving her virginity for her husband, may I comment!

I am a male, 55, who has been a social worker for 18 years. I don't know how mature "Normal girl" considers herself to be, but if (as she claims) all that is necessary for a beautiful and guilt-free sexual relationship between a guy and a girl is that they "love" each other, it's a wonder we are not all in bed by the time we are 13.

Children, by their own immature standards, start "falling in love" very early in their lives. What keeps most young girls from going all the way is respect for the standards of their parents, teachers, and community.

CLEVELANDER

DEAR CLEVELANDER: As I view it, of equal importance to respect for the standards of one's parents, teachers and community is respect for one's self. But according to my mail, what keeps most young girls from going all the way is fear of pregnancy, fear of V.D., and fear that the boy might tell a few dozen of his closest friends—and in that order.

DEAR ABBY: Norton's wife, who complained that Norton never opened his mouth in company, and consequently everybody thought he was unfriendly or mad, reminded me of a cousin of mine. Her husband also was a very quiet man, but it was beautiful to watch her draw him into the conversation by saying, "Larry, why don't you tell the folks about the night watchman who found the cat locked in the office?"

That gave Larry a chance to talk without making him feel self-conscious. I've always admired my cousin for the consideration she showed for her quiet husband.

KISSIN' COUSIN

DEAR COUSIN: She deserves to be kissed. The world could use more wives like her, and fewer wives who make a practice of interrupting their husbands to finish a story he's telling.

DEAR ABBY: The mother who labeled her son and his wife "selfish" because they were denying her the pleasure of being a grandparent should have applied that label to herself. She apparently wants them to add to an already overcrowded world, regardless of their feelings, simply for her own selfish pleasure.

While the Bible does say, "Go forth and multiply," a more timely quotation is, "Thou hast multiplied the nation and not increased the joy" (Isaiah 9:3).

The last thing the world needs is children whose parents were high-pressured into such a serious and permanent decision. There should be a national organization to assist parents who are being pressured to have children, and to inform those well-intentioned but misguided people who try to make couples feel guilty or abnormal for remaining childless.

FOR POPULATION CONTROL

DEAR FOR: Would you believe there is such an organization? It's the National Organization for Non-Parents: 515 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022.

CONFIDENCIALMENTE A AQUELLOS QUE HE OFENDIDIO: Usted tiene toda la razon de estar enojado por los comentarios que escribi "la maoria de hombres de origen espanol." Fue' una generalizacion absurda de mi parte. Lo debia de haber sabido!

Temps Head Upward Today

By The Associated Press

Temperatures headed upward today as Texans celebrated Memorial Day under most cloudless skies.

The few exceptions were areas from around Lubbock to Lamesa and Floydada on the South Plains, where scattered showers fell early in the day, and near the south tip of the state, where a few showers lingered in the wake of occasional showers and thunderstorms late Sunday.

Temperatures went as high Sunday afternoon as 99 degrees at Alice in deep South Texas, and another hot day was promised all sections.

Early morning marks ranged from 59 at Dalhart and 60 at Wichita Falls up to 75 at Galveston and 76 at McAllen.

Forecasts held out a chance for showers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. It was expected to stay fair elsewhere.

The longest game of tiddlywinks was played in 1970 by eight Chicago students. The game lasted more than 120 hours.

Agnew Makes Plea For IDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — "My fellow Americans, will you give up one martini a year?"

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey poses that rhetorical question in pleading for a display of American generosity to the down-and-out nations of the world.

Congressional support for foreign aid has wavered in recent years, a trend dramatized last January by a lopsided House vote against a $1.5 billion replenishment for the International Development Association.

The IDA is a World Bank subsidiary which lends low-interest money only to the poorest of the poor nations, those with per capita incomes of $1 a day or less.

In slightly altered form, the bill comes up for a Senate vote Wednesday, and Humphrey has been trying to rally support.

"Will you give up three or four packages of cigarettes a year?" he asked.

Prospects are that the bill, providing $1.5 billion to the IDA over four years, will win Senate approval.

India's nuclear test earlier this month provides a good argument for opponents of the bill seeking an end to American funding of the IDA.

Pointing out that India has received some 40 per cent of all IDA outlays, Sen. Harry Byrd, Ind.-Va., said that nation's nuclear device "very likely would never have been built" had it not been for the billions of dollars put in by the United States.

But Byrd's view appears to be in the minority.

The lobbying effort in the Senate has focused on three main contentions:

—Aid money often is used by poor nations to buy U.S. goods and services.

—In an interdependent world, the United States needs friends abroad for providing of raw materials.

—Areas of Africa and Asia face the specter of widespread starvation in coming months because of adverse weather conditions and mounting costs for imported food.

Violence Fails To Take Holiday

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents at the deadliest rate since the fuel shortage were the biggest holiday killer in Texas, pushing the count ever higher as the Memorial Day weekend neared an end.

The count shot up to 41 dead near midday today. The tabulation began at 6 p.m. Friday and was to end at midnight Monday. Of the deaths, 19 were in traffic collisions, nine in drownings, seven in shootings, and two in a plane crash. Others were killed in a variety of tragic ways.

These were among the victims:

Lloyd Bates of Junction drowned after his fishing boat upset shortly before midnight Sunday in the Llano River about three miles above Roosevelt in Kimble County. A companion made it ashore.

Arthur O. Soltwedel, 51, of Northridge, Calif. was killed Sunday in a three-car accident on Texas 183 in Irving. Four other persons were injured.

Warren Charles Jr., 30, was shot and killed Sunday in Houston. Police held a woman for questioning.

The body of Dan Ferguson, 48, of Houston was recovered from the Kemah Channel about 500 yards from shore Sunday. He was lost from a shrimp boat Saturday.

Benny M. Rust, 44, of Fort Worth was killed in a one-car accident there Sunday.

Louis Arden Carter, 19, was shot to death at his Houston home Sunday. Police said the shooting followed a quarrel with another man.

The body of Cindy Lee Eisemann, 18, of Grande Prairie was recovered Sunday off Galveston's West Beach. Sheriff's officers said she drowned Saturday when she was carried under by a wave while swimming.

James W. Brown, 55, was killed in Dallas Sunday when his car was struck by a train, police said.

Marshall Aucutt, 62, of Arlington was killed Sunday when his car ran off the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike.

Motorists died early Saturday occurred at the same farm road intersection near Austin where four others were killed last year. They were Danny Simpson, 23, of Austin, and Odell Thomas, 40; Myrtle McDowell, 40; and Manuel Perkins, 20, all of Elgin.

Two men riding "dirt bike" motorcycles were killed Friday night in West Texas when they collided head-on. They were Larry Ray Robertson, 26, and Albert Lee Grant, 19, both of Big Spring.

James L. Davis, 49, of Pasadena, Tex., died when the motorcycle he was riding hit a bull early Saturday.

Lester E. Jennison, 61, of Dallas was shot to death early Saturday while he stood at a bus stop on a Dallas street. A 15-year-old youth and a 17-year-old woman were questioned.

An 84-year-old Kaufman man, William E. Small, was killed Saturday when the car he was driving crashed into the bedroom wall of a Dallas residence. The family dining inside the house escaped injury.

An Austin boy, Danny Carlile, 11, drowned Saturday in the Gulf of Mexico near Bay City.

Nancy Jean Hood, 17, of Houston was killed in a two-car collision near Carmine, Tex., Saturday.

Cousins Charles R. Anderson, 16, of Fort Worth and Walter Anderson Jr., 18, of Lubbock drowned Saturday when they tried to retrieve a ball thrown into Benbrook Lake.

Jesus Rodriguez, 63, died in a shooting at a west side San Antonio bar late Saturday and his son, Gilbert, 41, was seriously injured when he came to the older man's aid. Investigators said both men suffered shotgun wounds.

Shirley C. Goodenow, 27, of Dallas and Frankie Lee Rinehart, 21, of Mesquite were killed while traveling on U.S. 90 seven miles east of Del Rio Saturday when the trailer hitch of a tractor-trailer going the opposite direction broke. The trailer shot into the passenger car's lane, causing a collision.

Three children died in a fire at their home Saturday in Houston while their father left briefly to buy cigarettes and their mother was on duty at Texas Children's Hospital. They were Kierda D. Nelson, 10; Dariell E. Nelson, 9; and Brian C. Nelson, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lee Nelson. Arson investigator J.D. Caldwell said a lighted cigarette fell from an ashtray onto a sofa.

Flavilla Powers White, 66, of Pampa was killed Friday night in a head-on collision on U.S. 87 north of Lubbock. Troopers blamed rain from a storm which made the highway slick.

Aliens Are Held By City Police

City Police apprehended 15 illegal aliens at 6:35 p.m. Sunday on the Ennis Creek road.

They were being hauled in a U-Haul trailer pulled by a brown car driven by a woman.

Police said they would be turned over to the Border Patrol.

Fires Put Out

City Firemen extinguished a fire in a storage shed three miles north on the Clairemont Road at 2:35 p.m. Saturday. They also extinguished a grass fire across the street from Hillside Memorial Gardens at 3:20 p.m. Sunday.

Trio Held In Deputy Shooting

OAK GROVE, La. (AP) — Three men are being held here under $50,000 bond each on charges of attempted murder, said West Carroll Parish Sheriff W.E. Capers.

Dennis Ledbetter, 22, and his brother Gary Ledbetter, 24, both of Maywood, Ill., and a cousin, Alan Ledbetter, 27, of Alexandria, Ark., are charged in the shooting of Sheriff's Deputy Bobby Capers—the sheriff's brother.

The men were captured Saturday afternoon in a wooded area near the Bayou Macon River after a 12-hour manhunt involving about 90 Louisiana and Arkansas officers who used dogs, airplanes and a helicopter.

"They were spotted from the air," Sheriff Capers said. "One warning shot was fired but they offered no resistance. No weapon was recovered."

They are also suspects in the firebombing Saturday of a Macon bar but no charges have been filed.

The operator of the bar managed to put out the flames, grabbed a pistol and fired several shots at men who fled on foot.

A few hours later the deputy sheriff stopped a car on Louisiana 17 about four miles north of Oak Grove for a routine check. While he was examining a license he was shot three times. He managed to crawl to his car and call for help.

The wounded officer was reported in fair condition at a Monroe hospital.

Gary and Dennis Ledbetter are being held in the parish jail at Oak Grove. Alan Ledbetter is being held in the Morehouse Parish jail.

Simon Says Budget Deficits Wrong

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon says the government should aim toward a balanced budget in 1976 as a key to controlling the nation's "totally unacceptable" inflation rate.

Inflation cannot be contained in the long run unless there is control over government spending, Simon said in an interview.

He added that the federal budget has been in deficit for 14 of the last 15 years and "we have to get back to the old-time religion of spending what we take in in this country."

Simon said that "having budget deficits is wrong ..."

Meanwhile, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said Sunday that continued inflation at the present rate could place "the future of our country in jeopardy."

"If long continued, inflation at anything like the present rate would threaten the very foundations of our society," Burns told graduating students at Illinois College in Jacksonville, Ill.

He said inflation could be defeated, but not easily. He called upon Congress to exercise fiscal responsibility, and said "the federal budget has to be handled more responsibly than in the past."

Secret Of Fitness Is In Excercise

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many people saturate themselves with nostrums that are touted as necessary to body health, whereas the secret of physical well-being — exercise — is at their fingertips. That's the word from Olga Ley, longtime exponent of exercise, who believes "passivity is a sickness."

"Exercise can improve your posture and digestion and keep you stimulated — no matter what your age and even if your body is in bad shape you can still make lots of correction by exercising," she insists.

A lithe size 10, the Russian-born widow of the late pioneer space travel expert Willy Ley has been teaching exercise for 37 years. A ballet career was thwarted by an accident to her knee, but she managed to use some of the movements in a body program established for a major beauty salon. She left it to write an exercise column for a newspaper, where she met Ley. They had two daughters. After World War II she helped Capezio launch its well known line of exercise dance clothes.

Too much emphasis is placed on violent exercise — the kind you do vigorously and then forget about for awhile, she remarked. Exercise becomes a dirty word when one thinks one should do it. This is evident, she points out, in advertisements for diet pills and self-exercise garments which emphasize that "no exercise is necessary." Although Americans are sports-minded, they prefer watching others work out, she remarked.

"Exercise should be pleasurable — done quietly, slowly and joyfully. To music if it is possible. Stretch when you have the opportunity. Look at how much a cat enjoys stretching. Exercise should be done for pleasure, not mechanically.

"Swimming can be done at any age. One should continue to use one's body as one grows older. You need not do exercises at a specific hour. Do one while you stand in line at a movie or while you are stopped for a traffic light. One of my pupils, 87, can bend down, touching her palms to the floor," she observed.

Mrs. Ley's interest in the body came naturally. Her mother was a surgeon, and her father — an architect, painter and member of the Royal Academy of Art of St. Petersburg — interested her in anatomy with his illustrations of the human body, its muscles and bones. The family came to the United States after the Russian Revolution.

At her studio in New York Mrs. Ley illustrated some of the exercises in her book," Keep Moving: Easy Exercises for Figure Control." They concern some of the most serious figure problems that beset young and old.

For example, this one for upper underarms: Press your palms together with fingers extended flat. Lift your elbows high and drop your joined hands down as far behind your head as you can. Keep your head up throughout.

Or this jawline firmer: Drop your head back and keeping this position open your mouth wide and shut it several times.

For strengthening the chin and jaw muscles try this one: Cup your chin in both hands, open your mouth wide and try to shut it by pressing upward with your palms while you resist by keeping your mouth open.

This one for neck tension may be done while you lie in bed: It also helps lengthen neck muscles shortened by poor head posture. Lie on your back. Your entire back and shoulders should be in contact with the bed. Stretch your neck until it is as long as you can make it. Roll your head sideways until you can press your ear down to the bed. Keep rolling from side to side. Do not let the neck shorten. Keep it stretched. Keep the palms up.

And here's a chest stretcher that can be done even when the boss is looking your way: Hook your elbows behind a chairback, palms forward while maintaining contact between your back and chair back.

At least eight of the great variety of exercises illustrated in her book can be done while sitting in the bathtub. There is also an exercise to help prevent leg cramps and one that is a warm-up for tennis players.

Dishwashing, carrying things and even walking up stairs can become effective exercises, she notes.

Ms. DeCrow To Head Feminists

HOUSTON (AP) — Delegates to the seventh conference of the National Organization for Women (NOW) consider resolutions today and discuss policies and priorities for the organization today.

They also will hear an address by Karen DeCrow of Chicago, new president of the feminist group which claims about 40,000 members.

Ms. DeCrow, a lawyer and author, was elected late Sunday night after three ballots. She received 512 votes to defeat Mary Jean Collins-Robson of Chicago, a fulltime NOW volunteer, who received 448. Also receiving votes were Ann Lang of East Hills, Pa., and Marceline Donaldson of Wayzata, Minn.

The three votes were necessary because no candidate had a clear majority after the first two.

Ms. DeCrow will succeed Wilma Scott Heide of Hartford, Conn. Ms. Heide was elected to the Chair-One position on the national advisory committee.

Judith Lightfoot of Decatur, Ga., was elected Chair-One of the national board of directors, the second highest office in the organization.

Others elected included Charlene Suneson of Los Angeles, secretary; Bonnie Howard Marblehead, Mass., treasurer; Mary Lynn Meyers of Pierre, S.D., vice president for finance; Judith Lonnquist of Chicago, legal vice president; Ann Scott of Baltimore, vice president for legislation, and Cathy Irwin of Washington, D.C., vice president for public relations.

In addition to electing officers, delegates held workshops during the second day of the conventions. Many of the workshops were informal and some were closed to news media.

One workshop adopted a resolution calling for the resignation of Dr. James C. Fletcher as administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Gayla Salinas, who headed a workshop on strategy for compliance with fair labor practices regulations, charged NASA with unfair practices in hiring and promotion of women and minorities.

The resolution was not presented to the entire NOW convention for approval or disapproval.

VOLUNTEERS—Quietly talking volunteers as they man telephones and keep files in an effort to bring peace of mind to worried parents and tarrying teenagers. The program is called Operation Peace of Mind and is a nationwide answering service to which runaways can call and leave a message that the volunteers will relay to the folks back home. The program was born in the chilling uncertainties of the Houston mass murders. (AP Wirephoto)

Test Requested For Lady Cadets

By MIKE SHANAHAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says it is preparing for the remote possibility that women may be admitted to West Point or the other military academies.

Officials are evaluating the results of a special endurance and physical fitness test given more than 1,000 female soldiers.

Although the test was requested by officials at West Point, the Army insists it has no plans to begin admitting women to the Academy.

In response to questions, the Army acknowledged that in March and April, a group of 1,062 basic trainees at Fort McClellan, Ala., went through four separate drills.

Each young woman performed the bent arm hang (like a pullup), bent leg situps, a standing broad jump and 600-yard run and walk. In a statement, the Army said, "The reason for the request (that the test be conducted) is that West Point has no data base on women's physical fitness standards."

Academy officials "would have been remiss had they not planned for even the most remote contingency that females might eventually be admitted to the service academies," the Army said.

Over the last few years, several congressmen have attempted to nominate women for admission to West Point and the Air Force and Naval academies.

Officially, the Army says it bars women from West Point because all applicants must be capable of combat assignments even if they serve out full military careers in noncombat jobs.

Army officials said the test given the women—developed by the President's Council on Physical Fitness—is far different from any examination given prospective male cadets at the military academy.

Most Say Nixon Is Involved

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Nearly three-fourths of the country believes President Nixon was involved in the Watergate bugging or cover-up, according to the latest Gallup Poll. However, the percentage has increased only slightly in three months.

Seventy-three per cent of the 1,543 adults interviewed May 10-13 said they believed the President had been involved to some extent in the scandal. The survey was taken after the White House transcripts were released April 30.

Similar surveys showed 71 per cent held the same opinion last February and 67 per cent held it last June.

In all three surveys, those polled were asked to select one of the following statements to match their views:

—Nixon planned the Watergate bugging from the beginning;

—Nixon did not plan the bugging but knew about it before it took place;

—Nixon found out about the bugging after it occurred, but tried to cover it up;

—Nixon had no knowledge of the bugging and spoke up as soon as he learned about it.

A breakdown of the latest survey shows that 8 per cent believed the President planned the break-in, 26 per cent said he knew about it, 39 per cent said he covered it up, 14 per cent said he had no knowledge of it and 13 per cent gave no opinion.

GM Workers End Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Some 8,100 General Motors employes are due to return to work Tuesday after ratification of a contract by striking workers at GM's Fisher Body Fleetwood plant.

United Auto Workers officials declined to discuss the vote Sunday that ended a 13-day strike by 4,000 members of UAW Local 15. They said it passed by a "substantial margin."

Another 4,000 workers in the adjacent Cadillac plant and 100 on an Oldsmobile Toronado assembly line in Lansing had been laid off because of the strike.

GM spokesmen said all the workers would report for work Tuesday.

Negotiators reached a tentative settlement in the strike over local issues Saturday, but details of the contract have not been released.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Vacation bound? There's a chance you might also be heading for trouble if you haven't taken certain precautions before leaving home.

Law enforcement experts and our Consumer Protection Division attorneys say that what is vacation time for most folks is working time for many burglars, pickpockets, and con men.

They suggest that you plan in advance to burglar-proof your home and to guard against possible thefts or consumer frauds on your trip. While the number of such occurrences is small compared to the number of vacationers, it only takes one bad experience to ruin a trip.

Here's a list of things to check before you leave:

-Stop mail, newspaper, and other deliveries.

-Tell a neighbor or your apartment manager that you will be gone and ask them to keep an eye on the place.

-Leave a few lights on or buy an automatic timer to turn certain lights on and off each evening.

-Cut your lawn just before leaving and, if you will be gone a long time, have someone cut it while you're away.

-Check all windows and doors to make sure they are locked. A sliding glass patio door can be more securely fastened by wedging a stick at the top or bottom of the door.

-Check with your local police if you plan an extended vacation. Many forces offer a "close patrol" of homes where persons are away. If your police force does, you will need to tell them what cars or persons, if any, will be making authorized visits to your house.

Have your telephone put "on vacation." Your callers will be told that the telephone has been temporarily disconnected at your request, and you can have them referred to another number if you wish.

-Avoid mentioning to casual acquaintances or strangers that you will be on vacation. Also, avoid telling your newspaper's society editor of your trip until you have returned.

-Before leaving, engrave all valuables in your home and those you will be taking with you in the car with your driver's license or social security number. Some police forces will loan you an engraver to mark your belongings and will register your number on their master list. This may discourage burglars from taking your goods and can make identification of recovered stolen goods much simpler.

After taking precautions to secure your home from burglars while you are gone, don't let down your guard when you get into the car and drive away. There are a few things to remember during your trip too:

-Make sure you have had your car serviced and thoroughly checked before leaving and always get out of the car to watch when having it serviced on the road. There are a few unscrupulous persons who sometimes take advantage of tourists with out-of-state license plates. If your car was given a clean bill of health before you left, you can better evaluate warnings about faulty fuel pumps, air filters, batteries, etc.

-Take traveler's checks or use credit cards, and keep a list of your credit card numbers in a safe spot.

-Men should avoid keeping billfolds in back pockets, or at least button the pocket if possible. To discourage pickpockets, use the inside coat pocket or a money belt.

-Women should select a purse with a secure clasp or zipper and keep a hand over the opening when carrying it.

-Don't wear unusually expensive or flashy jewelry or display large rolls of bills.

-Never boast of wealth or possessions or tell strangers your home town or address.

-Check valuables at your hotel desk for safekeeping.

You could be taken advantage of in more subtle ways, too. Many people spend large amounts of their money on vacation souvenirs without examining them carefully. Many souvenir items are cheaply made, over-priced, and of little or no practical value. Try to set a limit on the amount of money you spend on things you're likely to throw away or put in a closet later.

If you have a consumer problem, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or your local Better Business Bureau.

Three Dead In Kidnap Attempt

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — A doctor and coconut plantation owner, his wife and their chauffeur were killed by five men with submachine-guns who fled by car into rugged country north of here, authorities said.

The attack occurred late Saturday in the village of San Luis De la Loma, about 80 miles north of Acapulco, in an apparent kidnap attempt on Dr. Guillermo de la Pena, San Luis Mayor Manuel de la O said on Sunday night.

He said the five men surrounded the house of the doctor, who also operated a large coconut plantation, and killed the chauffeur, Juan Sanchez.

Later they knocked on the door of the house. The doctor came out, the assailants tried to drag him away, his wife Aurora intervened and they shot both, the mayor said.

Meanwhile Acapulco alderman Filiberto Vigueras Sr. said Sunday he had raised $12,000 to pay part of the ransom for his kidnaped son.

Filiberto Vigueras Jr., 20, a student, was abducted in Acapulco eight days ago by five armed men. In a first ransom note the abductors demanded $320,000 ransom.

In a second note, signed by the youth and accompanied by his shirt, the kidnapers, identified as Lucio Cabanas commandos, asied $280,000.

Vigueras Sr. said that from his savings and contributions from friends he has been able to collect only $12,000 but he is willing to sell his house for $20,000.

Lucio Cabanas is a guerrilla leader who has been operating in the mountains around Acapulco the past six years.

In Monterrey, 200 miles south of the U.S. border, police said Sunday night they captured three alleged members of the 23rd of September Communist League.

Police said the three men were arrested in a boarding house there by federal agents acting on a tip.

The league, linked to several kidnapings earlier, takes its name from a shootout between students and police at Guadalajara in 1971.

French Chief Inaugurated

PARIS (AP) — Valery Giscard d'Estaing was inaugurated Monday as the 20th president of France, ending 16 years of unbroken Gaullist rule and ushering in what he called "a new era in French politics."

A 21-gun salute boomed over the capital as the new president took office in a brief ceremony in the Elysee palace. Giscard d'Estaing formally began his seven-year term when novelist Andre Chamson, acting chancellor of the Legion of Honor, handed him the insignia of grand master of the order.

The 48-year-old president-elect, the youngest chief of state since the turn of the century, was to name his premier after the inauguration ceremonies.

Several political commentators speculated that Giscard d'Estaing would appoint as premier Jacques Chirac, 42, who served as interior minister under outgoing Premier Pierre Messmer.

The election campaign revolved mainly around domestic issues. But President Nixon made a congratulatory phone call to Giscard d'Estaing shortly after he defeated Socialist Francois Mitterrand in the May 19 run-off election, and many observers hoped relations between the United States and France will improve in the near future.

Giscard d'Estaing is expected to announce his cabinet on Tuesday.

Senior Citizens Given Award Here Saturday

Saturday was Senior Citizens' Day in Scurry County, and the Senior Citizens turned out in force Saturday afternoon to enjoy a program planned for them by the Sunrisers Kiwanis Club in the National Guard Armory.

Mrs. Nellie Smith was named Outstanding Senior Citizen on the basis of nominations submitted to the planning committee. She received a certificate signed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, presented by the Kiwanians in cooperation with the governor's senior citizen recognition program.

Charlie Eastman, 86, was recognized as the oldest person present. Mrs. Ada Martin claimed the honor of having been married for the longest time, 67 years. Mrs. Essie Orms took the award for having the most grandchildren and great-grandchildren, a grand total of 56.

Persons over 60 years of age were recognized as Senior Citizens, and registered for door prizes given by Snyder merchants during the afternoon. About 80 Senior Citizens registered, and other visitors brought the total attendance to about 200 persons.

Delbert Downing served as master of ceremonies. Other speakers included Mayor Bill Vestal and County Judge Preston Wilson. Registration was in charge of Mrs. Betsy Duncan, director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) and Mrs. Marilyn Foster, RSVP secretary. The Sunrisers Kiwanis Club served refreshments, and musical entertainment was provided by The Swingers from Snyder High School and by Don Walser, Pat Sadler and Cindy Hataway.

Mrs. Smith, 77, was a teacher in Scurry County from 1917 until her retirement in 1965. She taught in rural schools until 1948 when she moved into Snyder to work with exceptional children in a new special education program just beginning. She continued as the only special education teacher until her retirement. When Humble Oil Co. gave the Snyder school system its office on 37th Street to be used as a school for exceptional children, the school was named for Mrs. Smith and the oil company and is known as the Humble-Smith School.

Mrs. Smith became a member of RSVP last fall when that group began enrolling members in Snyder for the first time, and now she's back in the classroom as a volunteer worker. Part of her volunteer time is spent with pre-school children at the Snyder Day Care Center, and she assisted at Central Elementary School this spring.

She teaches a Sunday morning Bible class at the East Side Church of Christ. She is a life member of Delta Kappa Gamma and a member of the Twilight Garden Club and Business & Professional Women.

Mrs. Smith's husband, Edgar Smith, died in 1948. Their children are Milton Smith of Tularoas, N.M., Mrs. Frances Addison of Mountainair, N.M., Harold Smith of Jamesport, Mo., Wayne Smith of Austin and Kenneth Smith of Lubbock.

Quake Jolts Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — An earthquake measuring 6 degrees on the Richter Scale shook Mexico City and Acapulco late Sunday but there was no immediate report of injuries or damage.

A few tourists ran into the streets under a fine drizzle as the mild 45-second quake shook the city, swaying downtown skyscrapers.

The shock was centered 222 miles southeast of Mexico City in Guerrero state, according to the local seismological center. The epicenter is deep in the rugged mountains north of Acapulco.

Red Cross employes in the jet set resort said it was felt sharply there but no injuries or damage occurred.

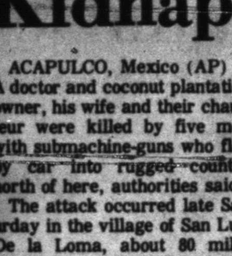

It was also felt in the Guerrero towns of Chilpancingo and Iguala, where authorities said hundreds of residents ran into the streets.

The quake hit at 11:01 p.m. CST as a fine rain fell in Mexico City.

The Richter Scale measures the ground's movement in an earthquake. One that measures 6 on the scale is considered severe and one that measures 7 can cause widespread damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered 8.3 on the scale.

Market Shares Tax Gripe With Individuals, Firms

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of the problems that afflicted the stock market in the recent past were peculiarly its own-home-grown or self-inflicted by friction, greed, inefficiency, timidity, temerity, procrastination and the like.

But the market also shares a common gripe with individual and corporate Americans. Taxes, it argues, are needlessly hurting both brokers and customers. Moreover, they are counterproductive for government; they hurt it too.

If there is one thing that all segments of the market can agree upon, it is this. Nobody believes that a change in the tax laws will set off a bull market, but most believe it will spur considerable activity and revenues.

The main contention of tax-change advocates is that capital gains should be taxed on a sliding scale, based on the amount of time elapsed between purchase and sale. Stocks held for the shortest time would be taxed the heaviest.

Under the existing system, one-half of all 'long-term" capital gains are taxed, no matter if held for the minimum period of six months or for 25 years. Thousands of stockholders are locked into their gains, it is contended, because of this.

If the tax bite were reduced on a sliding scale, based on the length of time held, these shareholders would be inclined to take their profits, thus spurring market activity and automatically providing tax revenue for government.

The Securities Industry Association, made up of brokers, uses this illustration to demonstrate what it feels is the inequity and failure of the existing system of taxing capital gains:

John Jones bought $1,000 worth of stock in 1962 and considered selling it in 1973 for a $300 profit. On this long-term profit Jones would have had to pay a capital gains tax on $150.

During this period, however, the value of the dollar shrank 27.2 per cent. In purchasing power, Jones' $1,300 proceeds would be worth only $946, or $44 less than his original $1,000 — before taxes.

In effect, Jones noted, he would be taxed on an illusory gain if he sold. Unable to face this prospect, and not needing the money immediately he delayed making his move. The money remained locked in. The government got no revenue.

Jones is hardly a typical example; his account is smaller than a good many of those the industry would like to see unlocked. But the SIA argues that a sliding tax scale shouldn't be construed as a gift to the wealthy.

The median income of the nation's 32 million stockholders in a 1970 survey was $13,500, it claims, adding that the largest grouping of shareholders earned between $10,000 and $15,000 annually.

But there are wealthy stockholders too, need anybody be told? The association claims that a Treasury Department estimate places the amount tied up in tax-idled accounts at a minimum of $233 billion.

The SIA estimates that for every billion dollars unlocked, the government would collect $200 million in taxes. That is, if capital gains obligations were scaled down from 100 per cent on shares held less than three months to 10 per cent on shares held more than 20 years.

Junior Editors' Quiz on MINUTEMEN

QUESTION: Who were the Minutemen of the Revolutionary war?

ANSWER: The Minutemen were Colonial volunteers or armed citizens who agreed to serve or fight at a minute's notice. In the years before the Revolution, these volunteers were formed into military companies and trained to bear arms. In 1775, at the suggestion of the Continental Congress, a number of the Colonic. gave military instruction to volunteers. When the Massachusetts militia was reorganized in 1774, it was provided that one third of the regiments were to be composed of Minutemen.

The most famous Minutemen of the Revolutionary era were those of Massachusetts. They fought with the militia at the Battle of Lexington. These were the "embattled farmers" who fought on the patriot side at Lexington and Concord. As the war progressed, the Minutemen became less important because regular armies were organized to fight. The Minutemen have been immortalized by a statue of a Minuteman erected at the end of Concord Bridge, Mass. It was done by the American sculptor Daniel Chester French.

Gloria Playing Herself

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Oh, no, not another crazy actress!" said Gloria Swanson when she was asked to end a 22-year absence from the screen and appear in "Airport 1975."

"As soon as I heard they wanted me to play an actress, I figured it was another wierdo," said Miss Swanson, who is 75 but ageless. "Producers always think of me in terms of 'Sunset Boulevard.'

"But I'm not Norma Desmond. I'm not a recluse, and I don't live in the past. I travel so much that when I wake up in the morning I sometimes don't know which side of the bed to get out of. I have an insatiable curiosity about everything, and I like young people."

Fortunately, producer Bill Frye and director Jack Smight did not want her to play a psycho star in the sequel to Universal's biggest moneymaker. Even so, she found the dialogue "titsie-poo."

She came up with a solution: instead of portraying some mythical movie star, why not call the character Gloria Swanson?

"Then I could talk the way I do normally, and I could bring my own food aboard the airplane — everybody knows I'm somewhat of a nut about food," she said.

The film makers were delighted with her suggestion, and she is now playing herself in the multistar case of jet travelers in jeopardy. After 60 years in films, the magic is still there. When she swept out of her dressing room, tramloads of tourists on the Universal Studio Tours gawked in awe.

She is indeed a phenomenon, linking the film industry to its very beginnings yet refusing to bury herself in memories.

"I think I should get a medal for simply breathing," she remarked, "especially when I look through my telephone book and see how many of my contemporaries are either dead or too decrepit to get around."

Miss Swanson fits neither category. Her skin is smooth, her eyes clear and alert, her mind ever-active. She is a walking — and talking — testimonial for proper eating.

It is a hazard to eat lunch in front of her, even a diet plate ("too much protein"). Take a sip of skim milk and she comments, "No adult should drink milk, especially pasteurized milk; it is simply a repository of dead germs."

Miss Swanson started in movies in 1914 at the Essenay studios in her native Chicago. She has never made a secret of her age and boasts that she has three children, seven grandchildren and a great-grandchild on the way —"that's one up on Marlene (Dietrich)."

"The past never intrigued me," she reflected. "I'm interested in the 'now.' Life is a constant surprise to me, and each morning I wake up and say, 'What now, God?'

"People grow old because they get bored — first with themselves, then with the world around them. They start getting ailments and they take something for the pain, so they're not all here much of the time. That's not my idea of living."

Earthly Paradise Will Merge With Pakistan

By BRIAN JEFFRIES
Associated Press Writer

BALTIT, Hunza (AP) — Shed a tear for Shangri-La.

The decline and fall as an independent state of this tiny landlocked kingdom among the majestic peaks of the Karakoram mountains on the Pakistan-China border is almost complete.

Pakistan's government officials say shortly Hunza, which gained a worldwide reputation as an earthly paradise because of the longevity of its people, will be merged with Pakistan and its ruler deposed with nothing more than a princely pension.

Although the writing of the final chapter which will end 900 years of benevolent feudalism is tinged with sadness for many of the Hunzakutz people, it is being accepted with a certain amount of resignation as inevitable. Some of the young and educated even welcome it.

It was the tranquil life of Hunza that inspired James Hilton's novel "Lost Horizon" with its Valley of Shangri-La and monastery whose inhabitants lived for centuries.

Lt. Gen. Jamal Khan, the mir or ruler sipped tea in the wood-panelled drawing room of his palace looking out on the snow-capped Karakoram peaks and the green valley below. He acknowledged that he expected to be the last of the dynasty to rule Hunza.

He said he had not been officially informed of his fate, "but we are simple people who live in the mountains. We will accept whatever the Pakistan government decides."

He added that 99 per cent of the Hunza population still supported him as mir and as a result he expected "a lot of unrest" if the merger took place, although he had no plans to actively organize opposition to the move.

His critics say that the mir overestimates his popularity and that he has lost support because he has failed to react to the growing demand for change resulting from increased contact with the outside world.

Before the first rough jeep track to Hunza was built along the ancient silk route road to China in 1957, the people of Hunza probably had an even chance of maintaining their traditional self-sufficient way of life.

Then the inhabitants lived largely off their own wheat, corn and apricots which they dried for the winter months and turned into a gruel with potatoes and flour. Crime was virtually unknown and the ultimate penalty for murder was banishment. It was a simple and satisfactory way of life and the Hunzakutz rivalled in age those of the Caucasus and isolated valleys of Equador.

Today the jeep route has been replaced by the Karakoram Highway and it takes three hours rather than the three days it took to travel by foot from Baltit to Gilgit. Imported vegetable oils, tea, flour and other commodities are altering the dietary habits. The number of people living to 100 is rapidly declining.

According to the mir, there are now only about five or six centenarians, compared to 50 or 60 before the first road came.

An exploding population — from 26,000 in 1964 to 40,000 today — has forced widescale emigration to Pakistan and other parts of the world. Money is replacing barter for trade.

Although the old way of life is rapidly dying, it is on the reality and myths of the past that Hunza is expected to trade in the future. Since last year the northern areas of Pakistan have been opened to tourists. A hotel is being built in Baltit and another hotel is planned.

As one Hunzakut put it, "I hope we will be able to retain some of the peace and tranquility that still characterize our way of life in the face of the rapid changes we are experiencing."

Javits Doesn't Mind Wife Dating

NEW YORK (AP) — Marion Javits, wife of Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., says her husband doesn't mind her dating in New York while he is attending to the nation's business in Washington.

"If it's in a column that I'm with so-and-so, it has never meant that one has to be horizontal immediately — or that it is going to threaten our marriage because I'm seen with other people.

"I'm filling in for his not being there, and I think that is important," she said in an interview with People magazine. Mrs. Javits, 49, lives in New York while her husband, who is 70, commutes to Washington.

You can wrap turkey legs in foil and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about two hours. The meat, cut from the bone and diced, will make good salads and sandwich fillings and may also be used in casseroles.

Antique Cars Are Auctioned

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Many of the world's classic old cars and motorcycles are in new hands today, exchanged Sunday in a $1 million-plus auction conducted here by Christie's of London.

Buyers from 19 states and six foreign nations gathered at the Wings and Wheels museum, spending $1,118,000 for 59 cars and 10 motorcycles owned by James C. Leake of Muskogee, Okla. and five cars owned by Gerald A. Rolph of Arlington.

A 1929 Minerva cabriolet once owned by famed stripper Gypsy Rose Lee went for $35,000 but bidders quietly declined to bid on a limousine once owned by Winston Churchill.

"It will require a pretty good bid because it should be preserved in some museum," said auction conductor the Hon. Patrick Lindsay.

A Reno, Nev. man, Ralph Dunwoody, bought the late Miss Lee's car then paid out $65,000 for a 1929 Isotta Fraschini.

Joe Spranza of Dalls purchased a royal-crested 1955 Daimler limousine owned by Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth for $18,000.

The crowd of about 3,000 burst into spontaneous applause at midafternoon when a classic 1933 Isotta Fraschini sport phaeton was driven into the show ring. The car was a show model at the Paris Salon in 1933.

Lindsay opened bidding for the car at $60,000. The price jumped quickly to $100,000 bid by a West Coast businessman.

Jeff Browning of Dallas topped it off with the winning $110,000 bid. "I just wanted to get the wife a nice present," said Browning who owns no other antique cars.

Mistakes Young Jobseekers Make

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I'm writing to ask your help in finding full-time employment. I'm a young woman with a college degree, but I'm unable to find any job that looks like it could lead to a lasting career. I've been out of work for over 8 months. Can you help me? – Ms. X., Chicago

While usually I can't get involved in an individual's jobsearch, I decided to look into this young woman's plight because many young people can benefit from the solution of her problem. The first thing I did was to call Lon D. Barton in Chicago who heads Cadillac Associates, one of the nation's largest executive and technical placement organizations. Barton kindly agreed to help her find a satisfying job.

THE YOUNG WOMAN'S FIRST PROBLEM, Barton points out, was her resume. It was sloppy and had a few misspelled words and typing errors. "Remember that most employers look a resume over very carefully. That sheet of paper tells your story, and if it looks like you weren't willing to take the time to prepare it carefully, most employers will feel you aren't too serious about wanting a job," he adds.

Her next problem was equally serious: She hadn't taken the time to define her career objectives. "Employers want people who have given their future some thought and can explain what they're looking for in a job," notes Era W. Moore, Cadillac's executive vice president.

THIS YOUNG JOBSEEKER lacked work experience and, unfortunately, she made a foolish move by asking a friend to lie for her and claim she had worked for him. "Most employers saw through this immediately. I know young people get frustrated because everyone seems to want experienced people but there are openings for 'green' workers if you look hard enough. Don't ever lie on a resume or employment application," Moore warns.

After Barton and Moore counseled the young woman on how to define her career objectives, revamp her resume and conduct herself on a job interview, they referred her to Helen Haller, president of Office Personnel Service in Chicago, a firm that specializes in placing male and female office workers. (Cadillac generally deals with executive personnel.)

MRS. HALLER IDENTIFIED 2 other problems: "She was terribly shy. Employers would ask questions and they couldn't hear her reply – she spoke so softly and often just whispered. You must be confident when you go on an interview. Let the employer know you're interested in a job and that you'll approach your work aggressively."

Also the young woman had a social science degree, and that really didn't do her much good in the business world, Mrs. Haller adds.

Mrs. Haller worked with the young woman for more than a month to help the applicant overcome her shyness. As for the applicant's lack of business experience, she began taking some business courses on her own and that helped immensely by showing motivation.

THE END RESULT? I got a warm letter of gratitude from the young woman in which she said she had landed a good job with an established firm that eventually will get her into management – and last week Lon Barton wrote to let me know she got a raise after just a few months on the job.

If you're an unsuccessful jobseeker, how many of these mistakes are you making?

'Smith' Swindles Florida Banks

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Police and bankers say an expert forger used unique methods and the name John A. Smith to swindle several Palm Beach County banks out of as much as $150,000.

"We have an account in that name and we think it's the same man" who flooded area banks with bogus checks, Robert Fogelman, president of Tri-City Bank of Palm Beach Gardens, said Sunday.

A police source said a search for criminals who may have used the common name as an alias was hampered because "with a name like Smith, you would tie up the computer for two days."

Bogus checks written by the forger, described by police as a white male in his 20's, began turning up Thursday, and police and bankers said they are waiting for more checks Tuesday.

"The forger's method sounds a little unique," said George B. Preston, president of Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan and also president of the U.S. League of Savings and Loan Associations.

"There are all sorts of con games against businesses, banks and savings and loans around the country," said Preston. "But not this particular type of thing."

Bank reports gave this as one account of the flim-flam:

The man somehow gained access to businesses in the area, stealing blank checks from the backs of checkbooks so they would not be missed immediately.

Then he made out checks to himself, forging the signatures of business officials, and cashed them at the banks on which they were drawn. Tellers, familiar with the signatures, cashed them readily.

One Palm Beach businessman, John B. Nora Jr., co-owner of Nora Construction Co., confirmed his signature had been forged on four checks and the forgeries were "perfect three out of four times."

Another version had the forger open a savings account at a savings and loan with a forged check. He then cashed bogus checks using the account as a reference. He closed out the account on the same banking day, thus making off with cash from both the checks and the account.

Home Federal Savings and Loan comptroller Bernard McCann confirmed his institution had cashed what turned out to be $2,000 in bogus checks for a man who recently had opened an account there.

"The rumor now is that at least 14 of the county's 29 banks have been hit," said H. Loy Anderson, president of the First Federal Savings and Loan on Friday. "And the number is about the same with savings and loan institutions."

Crisp Rites Set Thursday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After 400 films and a 70-year career, Donald Crisp is dead at 93.

Unlike many Hollywood greats, who successfully spun acting careers into positions as directors or producers, Crisp left a production career—one reelers—in New York during the infancy of the silent era at the turn of the century. He moved into directing before turning fulltime to acting.

Cause of Crisp's death Saturday was not announced, but a family spokesman said Sunday that the movie industry pioneer had been in failing health in recent years. He had suffered a number of strokes and had undergone brain surgery about 10 years ago.

Crisp directed about 100 silent films in Hollywood. He directed battle scenes and appeared as an actor in Griffith's silent classic, "Birth of a Nation."

Then he turned to acting fulltime.

"The best move I ever made was to stop directing back in 1929," Crisp said.

His acting reached fruition in 1941, when he won a supporting Oscar for his performance in "How Green Was My Valley."

The distinguished looking character actor played strong supporting roles in such films as "Wuthering Heights," "Lassie Come Home," and "National Velvet."

Crisp was a founder of the Motion Picture Relief Fund, which sponsors the Motion Picture Country House and Hospital in Woodland Hills, Calif., where he lived during the last decade.

Funeral services were scheduled Thursday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale.

Tornadoes Hit North Carolina

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes twisted across the North Carolina coast today, overturning mobile homes and slightly injuring three persons.

One funnel cloud set down during the night at Mill Creek, damaging a store and a house, in addition to mobile homes. In Raleigh, winds churned at 75 to 100 miles per hour.

Another twister destroyed two grain bins and moved a two-ton grain truck near Hazelton, N.D., during the evening.

Western Signs Bryan Hargrove

Bryan Hargrove of Snyder, named to the District 4-AAAA Golf Team this spring, has signed a scholarship agreement and letter of intent to play golf for Western Texas College.

Hargrove was a member of the Snyder High School Golf Team which won first place in District 4-AAAA this year and went with the team to compete in regional play.

He is a three-year letterman in golf, and a spring graduate of Snyder High School. He has been a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Hargrove began playing golf about 10 years ago. He was first place winner in the Texas-Oklahoma Junior Open when he played in the Age 14-15 Division and in the West Texas Junior Tournament in Abilene that year. He took second place in the Age 14-15 West Texas Junior Tournament in Sweetwater, and competed in the West Texas Junior Tournament of Champions.

Hargrove's short game is outstanding," Bob O'Day, WTC golf coach said. "He putts well, but he will need to improve on his long game. With a lot of hard work and practice this phase of his game should improve. I'm looking forward to having Bryan on the WTC golf squad."

Bryan said he chose WTC because of the outstanding golf program. He plans to major in physical education.

Player Wins At Memphis

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

MEMPHIS (AP) — Gary Player has won 18 tournaments on the American pro golf tour, and an eye-popping total of 98 in his globe-trotting career.

And it's getting easier all the time, says the man who won the Masters only last month.

"For 20 years I played golf fearing a hook," the little South African said Sunday after his five-under-par 67 in the final round had lifted him from five strokes off the pace to a two-shot victory in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

"After my operation last year I changed to a more upright stance, which prohibits me from coming over the ball. I have much more confidence in my swing now than I ever did," Player said.

"I don't have the fear I once had. In that respect, winning now is easier than it was for the first 20 years I played golf."

Player capped his dramatic comeback with a birdie from a bunker on the 12th hole—he holed the sand shot from 40 feet for his third consecutive bird—and put together a 72-hole total of 273, a distant 15 under par on the 7,193-yard Colonial Country Club course.

Hubert Green, a two-time winner this season who had led through the second and third rounds and for 11 holes of the final 18, tied for second with Lou Graham at 275.

The group at 276—all of whom challenged for the lead at one time or another over the drive down the stretch—included Don Bies, Bob Wynn and Tom Watson. Watson had a 68, Wynn 71 and Bies 70 despite a double bogey on the final hole.

Dave Hill, a four-time Memphis champion and the pre-tournament favorite, wasn't in it after the first round and finished with a 74-284. Lee Trevino blew to a final 76 and 288.

Player has won of two tournaments in only seven starts on the American tour this season and hasn't finished lower than 18th. His money-winnings amount to $91,000 for the year, including the $35,000 he collected from the total purse of $175,000 here.

Rutherford Wins At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — They buried Johnny Rutherford, but he refused to die.

The square-jawed Texan, forced to start near the back of the 33-car starting grid, put his foot to the floor, barreled out of the pack right from the start and—with some help from A.J. Foyt's gearbox and Bobby Unser's empty gas tank—won an unusually placid Indianapolis 500-mile auto race Sunday.

"I always said if I ever finished this race I'd either win it or finish in the top three. This year I finished it and I won it," said Rutherford, who was in the top three almost before the field had a chance to stretch itself out over the 2½-mile asphalt course.

Rutherford was relegated to 25th place in the lineup—his worst start since his rookie try in 1963—because he didn't get a chance to qualify on the first day of the trials. Still, he wound up with the second-best qualifying time, next to Foyt.

It was Foyt and Rutherford for most of the race—Foyt starting from the pole position he'd won with his 191.632 miles per hour qualifying speed.

But an oil leak with about 40 laps to go black-flagged Foyt from the race and tossed it up for grabs between Rutherford, Bobby Unser, and, for a while, Bobby's younger brother Al, who won here in 1970 and 1971.

Bobby, the 1968 Indy winner and victor at the California 500 and Trenton 200 earlier this year, said he lost the race because of a miscalculation and tire trouble.

"Rutherford just outran us at the end," Bobby Unser said. "As far as I'm concerned, we ran well. I'm not making any excuses.

"Of course," he added, "running out of fuel before the second pit stop didn't help. But that's the way things go."

His car owner and team manager, Dan Gurney, said, "We lost 47 seconds on that second pit stop and then we lost 25 seconds later when the air wrench for the right rear tire didn't work and we couldn't change the tires."

Fuel, decreased from 350 to 280 gallons of methanol for the race, was a key problem for many of the drivers, including Rutherford. His crew said he wound up with only a bit more than six gallons left.

However, only Lloyd Ruby, known as the hard luck guy at Indy, ran completely out of fuel. He coasted into the pits after completing 199 laps and wound up ninth.

Rutherford, 36, from Fort Worth, led 122 of the 200 laps on the famed race course. He averaged 158.589 miles an hour for the 3 hour, 9 minute race, well before Mark Donohue's 1972 record run at 162.962 m.p.h.

Despite his spot in the ninth row, Rutherford said he "never felt so confident.

"I worked my way up cautiously," he said. "I was surprised that I gained ground through the pack that quickly."

A crowd exceeding 300,000 watched the almost routine race, a distinct contrast from last year's death-and-rain-marred event in which Swede Savage and a pit crewman were killed. Salt Walther—who raced again Sunday—was critically burned along with several spectators and the race was delayed three days by constant showers last year. Another driver, Art Pollard, also was killed in practice that month.

That race and the ensuing uproar led to the fuel limit being cut, alterations on the race cars and several changes in the Speedway track.

Rutherford said he was both happy and sad to see Foyt drop out early.

"I hated to see him go out of the race with mechanical problems, but I was happy not to have to worry about him. If he had stayed in the race, it would have been tooth and nail because I was ready."

BIG SNAKE—This 5½-foot rattlesnake, held by Mildred Beavers, was killed Saturday morning by Ricky Highfield, 2315 Peyton. It had 17 rattlers.

"I had my doubts when we started so far back, but everything worked out great. But that one lap was the only one I wanted to lead—the last one," said Rutherford.

He dedicated this race to his father. "He is 61 years old and has cancer. He has always been interested in my career, but this year he couldn't make it."

The only injury was to Jerry Karl, whose car slammed into the outside wall on turn No. 3 late in the race. He was treated for a puncture wound to his leg and released from the Speedway infield hospital.

Bill Vukovich finished third.

Little League Hurlers Shine

There were two fine pitching performances in Little League action Saturday night as the Giants clipped the Yankees 7-4 and the White Sox blanked the Cubs 8-0.

The Giants' Shawn Ragland twirled a 1-hitter, giving up only a single to John Igo. The Giants collected six hits, led by John Reese, who stroked three singles. Sherman Merritt doubled while Tommy Peek and John Bloom crecked singles. The Giants tallied four times in the 2nd and three times in the 5th while the Yanks scored once in the 2nd, twice in the 4th and one time in the 6th.

The White Sox' Tony Degrate fired a two-hitter, giving up only two singles to John Overton. Meanwhile, the White Sox collected seven hits. Allan Pollard homered, John Hanson smashed a double and a single, and Degrate tripled Rodney Glass and Joe Garcia each hit a single.

The Sherry brothers are managing minor league baseball teams. Ex-pitcher Larry pilots the Charleston, W. Va., Pirates in the Western Carolinas League and ex-catcher Norman manages the Salt Lake City Angels in the Pacific Coast League.
