Waves Of Paratroops Swamp Egyptian Army

No Cease-Fire

The British-French attempt to seize the closed Suez Canal (1) was under way after Cyprus headquarters of the combined forces claimed virtual destruction of Egypt's air force. Blasting of an oil pipeline (2) in Syria was reported, the report later denied. Damascus radio broadcast an Egyptian claim—not confirmed elsewhere—that artillery had sunk British vessels off Suez (3) at southern terminus of canal. Trouble seemed imminent along Israeli-Jordan frontier (4) with Jordan predicting attack from Israel even as Iraq and Syrian troops moved into Jordan.

LONDON (AP)— Waves of British and French parachutists landed in the Port Said area at the north end of the Suez Canal today. Within hours, the British announced, the Egyptian commander there began discussing surrender terms with the invaders. A cease-fire was declared.

The cease-fire was announced to cheers in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Eden.

The developments meant the situation of Egyptian President Nasser was becoming more precarious by the hour. Last week the Egyptians lost their vast Sinai Peninsula, east of the canal, to invading Israeli forces.

The announced purpose of the British-French invasion is to safeguard the canal—now closed to shipping—and to separate the belligerents in the Israeli-Egyptian fighting. The British say they are willing to turn over control of the canal area to U.N. forces, once the situation is stabilized.

The parachute troops landed in the canal zone only 4 months and 22 days after the British surrendered to Egypt the military bases they long had occupied there. In the meantime, on July 26, Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal.

The French and British parachutists started landing just after dawn, apparently to seize a bridgehead for land forces at sea on a large armada sailing from Cyprus.

The command at Cyprus said the operations went according to plan, with the troops landing on time and at the right places. Some resistance from mortar and machinegun fire was met.

Assault aircraft provided close cover with rocket and cannon fire.

The first Egyptian announcements claimed the first wave of 3,000 paratroopers was annihilated by soldier, police and civilian fighters and that a second wave was being wiped out.

This was subject to question since last week Egypt had announced it was annihilating Israeli forces in Sinai. Damascus radio quoted the Egyptian army as saying a third wave landed after 15 British and French aircraft were shot down.

Then Eden made his dramatic announcement of the Egyptian negotiations to surrender.

French and British ground forces embarked in an invasion armada at Cyprus yesterday, but there was no hint when they would begin landing. The invasion fleet included warships, transports and support ships.

Just before the drop of chutists was disclosed, the Western Powers announced their decision to go ahead with their "police action" in the Suez area, but said they would cease all military operations as soon as Israel and Egypt accept a U. N. plan for an international police force to enforce the peace between them and to get the Suez Canal back in operation.

Egypt's military command, in its first announcement on the invasion, said "our troops dominate completely the situation." The Egyptians said the troops came hurtling out of the skies at 7:30 a.m. at Port Fouad, Gamil Airport and Baz Gabbanah, all near Port Said at the northern entrance to the canal.

Seven planes were knocked into the sea when they tried to drop military supplies, the Egyptian communique claimed. But at Cyprus the British-French command said the fleet of transport planes dropped its loads of fighting men on time and on the mark and all returned safely, though some were slightly damaged by groundfire.

A second communique claimed Egyptian domination of the situation three hours later and said: "All people are taking part in the resistance."

"The enemy is trying to bomb Port Said from the air after its attack failed and to save the rest of its forces."

A pall of gray smoke clouded the horizon in Cairo, obscuring the city's outskirts to the north and northeast.

The northern suburbs have been a steady target of British and French planes in an around-the-clock bombardment of Egypt that began Oct. 31.

Through the morning, loudspeaker trucks patrolled Cairo's streets blaring the Egyptian claims of destroying the invaders. The loudspeakers said "3,000 paratroopers dropped from the air and were completely annihilated."

There were 13 air raids between 6 a.m. and 10 a.m. north of a Cairo suburb where army barracks and airfields are located. Smoke clouds rose over the area.

Fouad is a small town on the east bank of the Suez Canal where there is a naval repair station, Gamil Airport and Baz Gabbanah are near Port Said on the west of the canal.

Returning British airmen said the initial phases of the operation went off "just like a practice jump."

French forces immediately seized two bridges across the canal backwaters south of Port Said, Cyprus headquarters reported.

Israeli forces in the mopup operations in the Sinai Peninsula claimed the capture of the mainland town of Sherm, controlling the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba and Israeli's port of Elath. Unconfirmed reports yesterday said two fortified islands off Sherm—Liran and Sanafir — had been taken.

The British-French announcement of the parachute strike was in these words:

"Men of Allied parachute battalions were dropped by British and French transport aircraft over the Port Said area this morning. In order not to cause civilian casualties or damage to the town no preliminary bombardment was carried out."

Russia protested to Britain and France that the invasion preliminary of closing the eastern Mediterranean to commercial shipping amounted to aggression against other states as well as Egypt.

U.N. Orders Police Force For Mid-East

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)— The General Assembly early today ordered a U.N. Command set up for an international police force to work for a cease-fire in Egypt.

Britain and France, in a statement issued in London, said they would halt all military action as soon as Egypt and Israel agreed to a police force to stop the fighting, secure the withdrawal of the Israeli forces and get the Suez Canal back into operations.

It appeared unlikely that Israel, anyway, would agree immediately. The Israeli government sent the U. N. a five-part demand for clarification of the latest U. N. cease-fire call, and Israeli Delegate Abba Eban warned the assembly that "the stationing of a force on the territory of Israel is not possible without the consent of the government of Israel."

There was no immediate reaction from Cairo.

The Assembly voted 57-0 at 12:17 a.m. to set up the police force. The resolution for its creation was sponsored by Canada, Colombia and Norway. Nineteen countries abstained.

The vote came about an hour and half before the announcement that British and French troops had landed in Egypt, where Israel has already occupied the Sinai Peninsula.

The new command will recruit officers immediately from small countries for "an emergency international force to secure and supervise the cessation of hostilities."

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, author of the plan, will try to get "the necessary troops" from among 71 of the U. N.'s 76 members, barring only Britain, Nationalist China, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

Hamarskjold reported to the Assembly that Colombia, New Zealand and Norway had agreed to take part in the force. Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson confirmed that Canada would do so subject to parliamentary approval.

U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. announced that the United States was ready to "help in an important way" with airlifts, shipping, transport and supplies.

The resolution appointed as chief of the new command Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, 59. He will be relieved from his post of chief of staff of the U. N. truce supervision organization in Palestine.

The resolution was the fourth the Assembly had passed in four days in an effort to get the week-old shooting stopped. It followed up a 64-5 cease-fire call early Friday sponsored by the United States; a second, 59-5 cease-fire call early yesterday sponsored by 19 Asian countries; and the same day a 57-0 decision for an international force promoted by Canada.

The emergency special session is the first ever held under the "uniting for peace" plan of 1950 promoted by the United States to get around the Soviet veto in the Korean War days.

The U.N. Command is the second ever established. The first fought the North Korean and Chinese Communists in the Korean War. It was controlled by the United States.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev spoke for five minutes without mentioning Israel. He said the U.N. must demand of Britain and France "that they immediately cease the bombing of Egyptian territory."

U.N. Pessimistic Over Enforcing Hungary Resolution

UNITED NATIONS (AP)— Deep pessimism engulfed the United Nations today over the virtual impossibility of enforcing a resolution, overwhelmingly adopted by the General Assembly, demanding withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary.

Delegates cited two hard facts:

1. The anti-Communist rebellion, after a brief hour of victory, appeared destroyed by Russian steel, leaving the Kremlin and Budapest puppets in control.

2. Soviet Delegate Arkady Sobolev virtually served notice a U.N. vote for an investigation in Hungary or free elections would be rejected.

The prevailing view was that the Russian grip would not be loosened by words.

The United States proposed the resolution in an emergency session of the General Assembly last night.

Ike Hopes Appeal To Restrain Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported hopeful today his appeal to Soviet Premier Bulganin would exert a restraining influence on Soviet tyranny in Hungary.

U.S. officials feared, however, that a reign of terror, marked by mass arrests and bloody purges, would follow Russia's ruthless military suppression of the Hungarian people's short-lived bid for freedom.

Though the hope of exercising any major restraint on Soviet conduct was admittedly slight, they said that everything possible and practical must be done to achieve that result.

2 Bandits Rob Corsicana Store

CORSICANA (AP) — Two masked bandits held up a supermarket today and escaped in an employe's car with the weekend receipts.

J. H. Chapman, manager of the Safeway store, told police the thugs were waiting when he and another employe opened up. Both thugs wore masks, coveralls and carried pistols.

U.S. Report Says Dulles Had Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cancer had infected a section of intestine removed from Secretary of State Dulles, it was disclosed yesterday.

A State Department announcement said an examination at the time of the emergency operation Saturday, and X-rays later, indicated the malignancy had not spread beyond the diseased portions.

Dulles' condition was described as "good" in the wake of the 2½-hour operation at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital.

Doctors said they expect the secretary to spend about six weeks in recuperation, some three weeks of that time in the hospital.

This means Dulles will be immobilized at a time when the United States is grappling with crises in Eastern Europe and the Middle East. In his absence, the State Department is headed by Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

Dulles, who is 68, was stricken early Saturday.

He was taken to Walter Reed Hospital where a preliminary diagnosis pointed to acute appendicitis. Later that day, after a team of four doctors had performed the lengthy operation, it was announced a "perforated" portion of Dulles' large intestine had been cut out. The appendix was not affected and not removed.

Arab Commander Calls For Truce

Hungary Rebels Still Fight, Defy Russians

VIENNA (AP) — Hungarian rebel remnants fought on in isolated actions today against the Soviet military tide that has flooded out the flames of anti-Russian revolt across most of the country.

A Soviet ultimatum demanding that the remaining freedom fighters give up their arms by 6 p.m. —12 noon EST—or face court-martial apparently was ignored.

Communist and rebel radio broadcasts alike told of continued shooting in the warfare set off by the lightning Soviet attack that deposed Premier Imre Nagy's national-minded coalition government Sunday.

Via Radio Rakoczy, in southwest Hungary, the rebels announced the battle of Budapest continued and that there was street fighting in the Russian-held city of Kocskemet, 50 miles southeast of the capital.

Rebel units hold the Budapest island of Csepel, a big industrial center in the Danube, it said, adding:

"Russian tanks dare to move only in formation. In many places they have built barricades along the road. Desperate fighting is going on."

Radio Pecs, now in Russian hands, reported late today that rebels were still fighting for the uranium mines of Mecsek, not far from the Yugoslav border. It demanded that the rebels be given no refuge in public buildings or apartments and said anyone molesting Russian soldiers would be shot on the spot.

Radio Budapest broadcast the 6 p.m. ultimatum.

The Budapest station, again firmly under Russian control, sought to win over Hungarians with all sorts of promises of political and economic reforms.

"First it is necessary to restore order," it warned. "The Soviet troops will be withdrawn only after order has been restored."

The new regime, it said, will start negotiations for the withdrawal after peace returns.

The Soviet high command appealed to Hungarian army officers and men to join in crushing the rebellion.

A large part of the Hungarian army eagerly went over to the rebels in the insurrection against Russian and Communist domination which started Oct. 23. Yesterday the Russians unleased a massive assault by their troops, tanks and planes to crush the independence movement.

But the rebels fought on with bare hands and homemade bombs. The resistance appeared hopeless.

From a weak transmitter in Budapest came an appeal by the Russian commander to Hungarian troops to "join in the fight against reaction."

Shortly after the broadcast, a 22-automobile convoy brought more than 100 citizens of Western nations, including 22 American dependents of personnel in the American legation in Budapest, across the Austrian border.

They reported that Russians took over the town of Magyarovar without a fight Sunday although there was some sporadic shooting in the countryside during the day. The Russians have had large tank units stationed in this area.

In Moscow, the Communist party newspaper Pravda published a carefully screened version of Hungarian developments which omitted all details of the role Soviet troops played in destroying the Nagy regime.

Hundreds Of West Berlin Students Riot Against Reds

BERLIN (AP)—Hundreds of West Berlin students shouting "Down with the Russian murderers" and "Freedom for Hungary" broke through police cordons and swarmed around the Russian war memorial today in this divided city.

The students carried signs in Russian and marched to the war memorial after placing wreaths at British and French public buildings in West Berlin denouncing "aggression against Egypt."

The guard on the border separating East Berlin from the Western part of the city had been doubled as Communist newspapers reported the wrecking of Hungary's "Fascist counterrevolution" by Soviet troops.

The armed guards searched automobiles coming from Allied-occupied West Berlin. A tour of East Berlin disclosed strengthened police patrols in the vicinity of government buildings and railway stations.

Last Saturday, party boss Walter Ulbright charged that university students from West Berlin were trying to stir up students at East Berlin's Humboldt University who have been demanding an end to compulsory lessons on Communist theory and the Russian language.

City Gets Drizzle As Rain Hits State

Rain which averaged about one-tenth of an inch fell on Big Spring and most of Howard County early Sunday morning and ushered in a fair sample of winter weather.

Temperature Sunday night dropped to a chilly 34 degrees and Monday morning was maked by a heavy fog which for a short time cut visibility in town to little more than a block.

High temperature for Sunday was 48 degrees.

Rains of Sunday morning were heaviest in this area at Snyder with .31. The U. S. Experiment station here reported its gauge showed .3 inch. Elsewhere around town, the report was from .10 to .15 inch. Only a trace of rain fell at Chalk and at Sweetwater.

Colorado City and Morgan Creek each reported .18 inch. Lamesa had but a trace and Colorado City .17.

The rain brought the Big Spring total for the 1956 period to 7.29 inches.

The area did not share in the state-wide downpours of the weekend which brought soaking rains up 6.8 inches in many parts of drought-parched Texas.

A hard rain fell at Longview early Monday. The Weather Bureau forecast continued cloudy skies and scattered rains over the state through Tuesday. The rain at Longview was estimated at more than an inch.

The heaviest weekend total reported was 7.20 at Clarksville in Lamar County. Six inches fell in a 10-hour period Saturday night, but there was no flooding.

The Sulphur River south of Paris was running at full banks Monday and the Highway Department had a crew stationed at a bridge on Highway 37 to pull driftwood out of the river.

The slow, drenching rains over the weekend extended over most of the eastern half of the state.

5,000 Expected To Ballot Here

Five to six thousand Howard County voters will probably cast their ballots Tuesday in the 1956 general election.

This estimate is the general prediction of observers who have watched many elections in this county. They do not, as a rule, look for a record breaking vote such as was polled in 1952 but they anticipate that the growing interest in the presidential election will push the total well up to the 5,000 to 6,000 estimate.

Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, said all mechanics for the election have been cleared. The only exception was that four or five precinct voting boxes have not as yet been claimed by precinct judges.

The polls will open in the 16 Howard County voting boxes at 8 a.m. They will remain open until 7 p.m. Tabulation of the vote will be at the office of the county clerk and all precinct officials are asked to report their totals as quickly as possible after the tabulation in the precincts is completed.

Only local race in which any competition is involved is the selection of a new district court clerk. Four candidates Wade Choate, L. C. Thomas, James R. Horton and Denver Dunn, are running as independent candidates to serve out the term of George Choate in that office.

Gallup Poll Shows Ike To Sweep Vote

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion. Copyright, 1956

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 4 — President Eisenhower's popular vote strength has shown a sharp upsurge in the final week of the 1956 campaign — a week in which revolts shook Europe and war broke out in the Middle East.

Survey results show the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket polling 59½ per cent of the major party vote, pointing to a nationwide sweep in electoral votes. The same ticket received 55.4 per cent in the election of 1952.

The Institute's final measurement of voter sentiment, based on interviewing done in all areas of the country between Tuesday, Oct. 30, and Friday, Nov. 2, produced the following over-all results:

	Per cent
Eisenhower-Nixon	57
Stevenson-Kefauver	39
Andrews-Werdel, others	1
Undecided	3

On the basis of those who had made up their minds, and excluding third party votes, the division of the major party vote becomes:

	Per cent
Eisenhower-Nixon	59.5
Stevenson-Kefauver	40.5

A small scale re-check made Saturday gave indications of an even further gain for Eisenhower.

In the final nationwide survey, sharp gains for the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket were registered in all sections of the country, including the South. The upswing in the South could shift many close states to Eisenhower.

During the two months following the August nominating conventions, the Eisenhower lead remained almost constant between 55 per cent and 56 per cent.

Today's election survey shows the Eisenhower - Nixon ticket swinging back toward the top figure of 61 per cent to 39 per cent for the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket, which was recorded in an Institute survey early in May before the conventions.

Although today's survey figures do not deal with the races for Congress, the pronounced upswing to Eisenhower and Nixon will improve Republican chances in Congressional races.

Whereas the odds 10 days ago were on the side of the re-election of a Democratic Congress, enough GOP candidates may now ride in on President Eisenhower's "coat-tails" to give the House and even the Senate to the Republicans.

United Fund Gets A Boost

Women's division leaders turned in about $450 at United Fund headquarters this morning, edging the funds drive a little nearer its objective.

Contributions now total approximately $70,500—about 80 per cent of the goal. Another $17,000 is needed and UF President Champ Rairwater has called an emergency meeting of the executive committee and division chairmen for this afternoon in an effort to pump new energy into the stalled drive.

D. M. McKinney, campaign chairman, pledged this morning that the $87,550 needed will be raised this week, but he said new cards may have to be made out on some potential donors. Many workers have ignored McKinney's appeal to turn in cards, either worked or unworked.

Approximately a third of the 1,442 prospect cards are still outstanding—enough to push the campaign "over the top" when they are worked, McKinney said.

Stevenson Charges Ike With 'Negligence' On War Issues

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson said today that the United States is losing its influence around the world "because our friends and allies no longer trust our leadership."

He told a cheering, handclapping crowd at a breakfast rally which attracted upward of 1,500, that the upheaval in Eastern Europe and the Middle East "is a challenge both to the free world and to communism."

The United States, he said, "is the one great power that can take the lead and save the world from this creeping anarchy and disintegration.

"Mr. Dulles obviously can't do it. Mr. Nixon applauds the collapse of our allies. President Eisenhower appears to be isolated, uninformed, and interested only intermittently."

He said that what he called Eisenhower's "negligence on questions of peace and war may plunge the whole world into the horror of hydrogen war."

"And negligence," Stevenson said, "is precisely what we are getting."

He repeated previous assertions that President Eisenhower was away from his post on occasions of crisis after crisis, and declared in a speech prepared for delivery at a Democratic breakfast rally:

"Now no one begrudges the President his recreation, but peace is a full-time job."

The rally, in a hotel here, provided the Democratic nominee his last strictly party audience before he winds up his campaign on a 45-minute television hookup from Boston where he will fly to visit his daughter-in-law, Nancy, and his new grandson.

The speech, made available to reporters in advance, also took Vice President Nixon, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and GOP farm and other domestic policies as targets.

He quoted McCarthy as having endorsed Republican Sen. Alexander Wiley for re-election in Wisconsin on the ground that if the Republicans control the Senate "you'll get some more McCarthyism because I'll be chairman of a Senate committee again."

"I must say that I can't think of a better argument for voting against Alexander Wiley — and for voting against every other Republican senatorial candidate in the country," Stevenson said.

He said the Republicans are conducting "smear" campaigns in some states.

"How do you reconcile the fact that the President holds forth in the pulpit while his choirboys sneak around back alleys with sandbags?"

The answer, he said, is that the

80 Pct. Of Martin Cotton Harvested

STANTON—The Martin County cotton crop is being rapidly put through the gins as dry weather continues. This has been one of the quickest harvests in many years because workers were able to get into the fields almost every day.

One gin manager, Loyd Henson, says his gin is still crowded, but thinks the work will slacken up in a week or so. He says from 75 to 80 per cent of the cotton in the Stanton area has been gathered.

"It's been a good year for picking," he said. "The hot weather in August caused cotton to mature earlier than usual, and pickers have had few bad days when they couldn't work."

He said the grade and staple had been better than in 1955, though the staple has become a little shorter the last week or two. Grades have averaged from strict middling to middling. Lower grades are expected, however, as the top bolls are opened and brought to the gins.

The labor supply has held up until the latest cold snap. Saturday morning dozens of braceros came to town carrying their suit cases and other belongings and immediately headed for the labor association office to arrange transportation back to Mexico.

"We got a lot of them today," said Oscar Fanning, manager of the Basin Growers Association. "But we expected it when the weather turned cold."

Fanning says there may be enough workers left in the county to finish the harvest. If not, a few more Mexican Nationals will be brought in to complete the job.

At the end of yesterday's ginning, the county gins were expected to have a total of about 20,000 bales. The crop estimate for the county was earlier placed at 28,500 bales.

SEVEN SOLID REASONS WHY TEXANS SHOULD SUPPORT EISENHOWER

1. He ended the useless war in Korea and has kept America out of war. He is the main hope of the world for peace today.
2. He has given this country a powerful defense-force at less cost. He does not believe in a policy of weakness.
3. He achieved the conversion from war to peace with the greatest prosperity the American people have ever known.
4. He replaced crook-and-crony government by restoring morality, honesty, integrity and saneness in Washington.
5. He stopped the trend toward socialism by turning to the initiative and ability of the American people rather than government regimentation.
6. He has cut government spending and waste, thus bringing about a cut in taxes.
7. He has kept his promise to the people of Texas by restoring our tidelands.

A LETTER

John Q. Public
State of Texas
U. S. A.

Dear John:

May I take a moment to thank you for the wonderful dinner, and the opportunity to mingle with so many of our mutual good friends last night. Mary joins me in her appreciation. She also had a very enjoyable evening, but showed more restraint than I at the dinner table. The last piece of mince pie you forced on me was just a little too much.

Frankly, John, after I went to bed, I had a most unpleasant case of indigestion, and I also had a dream. It seemed I woke up Wednesday morning, and heard the news that Stevenson and Keyfauver (I never could spell that man's name) had won the election, and had joyously hurried into Washington with all their friends. Adlai had of course made many hurried changes, but had immediately announced to Russia that we would continue to develop the H-bomb ,and maintain the draft, and that only a fool could believe that we would deliberately throw away our biggest military assets.

Harry Truman had been appointed the new permanent delegate to the United Nations, where he could debate with the Russians as he did at San Francisco and Potsdam. Alger Hiss was selected as second delegate at Mr. Truman's request.

Former Senator John Kennedy, the new Attorney General, listed the first item of business of his department the Federal Ownership of Tidelands of the State of Texas. Aiding him directly were Senators Paul Douglass, Mike Monroney, Albert Gore, and Mike Mansfield, 4 of the 22 Democratic Senators who in 1955 signed a petition sent to Herbert Brownell, asking him to file suit against the State of Texas claim to tidelands beyond the 3 mile limit.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the Secretary of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, announced that all programs and activities would be increased immediately, but would be withheld from any state that did not desegregate all schools and teachers, as well as students, immediately.

Former Governor Averill Harriman, Secretary of the Treasury stated that he had been in government with Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman for nearly 20 years, and that neither one had ever made an attempt to have a balanced budget in all that time, and that he could see no reason why he should try to do so now.

Mr. Hubert Humphrey announced that he was somewhat surprised to be appointed to the Cabinet as the Secretary of Defense, but that he had been appointed by Adlai Stevenson, who knew as much, or more, about National Defense as all the military leaders that he had had before.

Also Soapy Williams announced that he was somewhat surprised to be the new Secretary of Agriculture, but that the basic element in the successful management of his department was simply paying full parity for all products, and that the government could, and should, assume all the risk and absorb all the losses for all the products. He stated also that he believed parity should be extended to other interests, as well. Particularly the automobile industry, and that the government should buy from dealers all automobiles that they were not able to sell.

Sam Rayburn stated that he had been reluctant to leave Congress after so many years, but was very pleased to be the Secretary of the Interior. He regretted the changes that the State of Texas would have to make to find replacement of funds for those lost by the government taking over tidelands beyond the 3 mile limit, but that this had been the policy of the Democratic party for years, and that being a good Democrat, he would aid Senator John Kennedy and Vice President Estes Keyfauver in any way that he could to see that these tidelands were properly returned to Federal control.

I tell you, John, about 5:00 A.M. this morning, my house was a bedlam. I was still screaming when Mary finally pushed me off the bed. The kids and dogs were crying, too. When I finally woke up and found this was really Monday morning, and not Wednesday, and that all this was just a horrible nightmare, you will never know how happy I was. I made up my mind then and there, the first thing I planned to do Tuesday morning was to vote, and in spite of what I told you Sunday night, you should know by now who for. It's all much clearer to me now.

Your friend,
Tom

Stage Crews Have Big Job On Play

Production crew for any stage production, amateur or professional, makes a major contribution to the success of the production, in the opinion of F. E. Short, head of Howard County Junior College Drama Department.

"I want to express tribute to the production crew now working on our initial HCJC production of 'Seven Keys to Baldpate' which we will present on Nov. 22, 23 and 24," Short said today.

"Their assistance in the preparation of this farce can hardly be overestimated. When you see the play on any one of the three nights we will enact it, I would like for you to consider the monumental task the production crew performed.

"They had to arrange and construct the settings, provide for the furniture, the properties, the light, the sound and the costumes."

Short pointed out that staging "Seven Keys to Baldpate" posed especial difficulty in the matter of costuming. The time of the play is in the "roaring '20's" and flapper garb of authentic vintage has to be located for the women in the cast. Incidentally, the production crew chief, James Johnson sounded an appeal for Mrs. Irene Wiley, property director, to any one having garments of that era to let the HCJC drama department borrow the clothing.

Assisting Mrs. Wiley will be Mrs. LaVerne McFerran, Lillie Guesen, Shirley Kennedy, Patsy Grant and Mary Boetchler.

Set supervision will be by Joe Neff, Darrell Northcott, Lawrence Alberegg, Jerry Howell, John Beggs, Ernest Hayes and Joe Grizzle.

Lighting and sound will be managed by Ernest Byrd, Ernest Hays, Alvin Cohern and Billy Mays.

Charlie McCarty heads the publicity committee. His aides are Julie Rainwater, Dorothy Baker, and Mary Sue Hale.

Costume offers should be telephoned to McCarty at 4-4467.

Tickets for "Seven Keys to Baldpate" will be designed in the shape of keys. Curtain time each night will be 8 p.m. promptly. The place will be the HCJC auditorium.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Asks Support For Amendment No. 4

To the Editor:

So much has been said regarding the acute shortage of teachers and various other aspects of teaching that I felt I wanted to be sure to remind our parents that now is their real opportunity for action.

Tomorrow, Nov. 6, is election day and these same problems can be partially solved by all of us who are parents. We can do this by going to the polls and voting for Amendment No. 4.

This amendment has been designed to revise and improve the Teacher Retirement System. The present program for teacher retirement was established in 1937 and is outmoded in our present economy. This amendment will help to bring the program up to date.

The state board of managers of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers endorses this amendment wholeheartedly. The Texas State Teachers Association and the Texas Association of School Boards also feel that the passage of Amendment No. 4 will help solve the alarming teacher shortage. It is known by many that Texas will need at least 11,000 new teachers next September. Statistics show that this is almost one-half of the entire graduates this year from the colleges and universities.

This amendment, if passed, will provide an increase to the retirement program from five to six per cent of the teacher's salary, with the maximum contribution up to $504 per year. (The state would be permitted to match this.) The present law allows a teacher to contribute a maximum of five per cent up to $180 per year, which may have been adequate back in 1937—but not today. In addition, the new program would include disability and survivor benefits.

These benefits should do much to attract more and help all teachers to do a better job by giving new assurance. In order to compete with industry and private business, the Texas teacher system needs revising.

If others feel as I do, I hope they will vote for amendment No. 4 tomorrow.

City Council P-TA.

Who says dream cars never come true?

Dynamite from Detroit

Coming! America's first production dream car—it will influence the shape of cars for years to come.

The old Detroit rule was to introduce new features gradually, to make little changes each year. Sometimes a new grille, an engine improvement, or new colors and trim.

We broke that rule. In fact, we broke all the rules. This is dynamite!

For you are not the only one who has dreamed of a totally modern car, a car that has everything you find at automobile shows, in illustrations, and in custom-built experimental cars.

Detroit has had that dream, too. And that's why the 1957 Mercury is the car that has honestly excited the most car-jaded, the most sophisticated of Detroit's automotive experts.

When you see the new 1957 Mercury, you'll see America's first full-production dream car—a car that will influence the shape of cars for years to come.

You'll see a dream car you can own and drive—a car that has far more than startling years-ahead beauty.

THE BIG M for '57 boasts dream-car features never before found outside a designer's dream-book: a Keyboard Control that makes ordinary push-button driving old-fashioned; an exclusive Floating Ride with a revolutionary new cushioning action you have to feel to believe. There are Mercury "firsts" everywhere you look. A Power-Booster Engine Fan in the Montclair series that saves horsepower other cars waste. And many more Mercury exclusives.

You'll see THE BIG M—the new Mercury for 1957—soon. You'll see it. You'll drive it. The first dream car that can be yours. The dynamite is on its way from Detroit to your dealer's—now!

A Bible Thought For Today

Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our LORD Jesus Christ. (Romans 5:1)

Editorial

The Verdict Is Up To You

That quadrennial three-ring circus, our presidential election campaign, is drawing to a close. The clowns and the tightrope walkers, the aerialists who perform without a net to break their fall should anything go wrong have come through their acts, and are ready to slide back to good old terra firma. The toters of water to the elephants and the distributors of hay to the donkeys have performed their customary chores.

The audience has alternately cheered and booed, depending on who was performing and their own feelings. In this particular a genuine circus differs from the political variety; people seldom or never boo any of the performers in a real circus.

You can dismiss as an exaggeration any claim that this had been one of the bitterest campaigns in our history. People have been saying the same thing every four years since our first presidential election. It wasn't the roughest, by a long shot. They really got rough in the old days.

The only presidential candidate who escaped with a full skin was George Washington. But his first campaign drew some abuse, and his drive for re-election drew even more.

After him, the sky was the limit. Anything went in the old days. Communications were slow, and all sorts of wild tales and rumors were set afloat by both sides, and it was impossible to refute them. Today when communication is instantaneous and universal, lies are quickly exposed and false rumors soon exploded. Both sides are more careful what they say as a result, though practiced politicians still manage to mislead by innuendo and half-truths.

In the old days vituperation and abuse knew no bounds. In the old days it was general practice for partisan newspapers to present only their side of the issues and policies.

Today the press endeavors to cover both sides in the news columns, without regard to its editorial stand on men and issues. We have long held the opinion that people make up their minds which way to vote on the basis of what they read in the news columns, not on what they read in the editorial columns.

That is as it should be, for the press has an obligation to the public to present the news without bias or partisanship, and to present the news impartially. Its own opinions are expressed on the editorial page, for whatever they may be worth.

There remains of this campaign only the bounden duty of the sovereign voter to mark his ballot. He should weigh the issues, the personalities and the testimony as he sees it and vote his honest conviction.

Cheering Word From An Old Friend

We were right smart holpen up on receipt of our annual copy of the Old Farmer's Almanac, published in Dublin, N. H., by Yankee, Inc. It went on sale at newsstands throughout the country on Thursday, Nov. 1.

A hasty glance at the Almanac's forecast for this winter reveals that it's going to be wet and cold. "November 1 — Stormy and cold" is the way it starts off, and we see a good many "snow and cold, rain and sleet" predictions scattered through the bill of fare.

If you can forget that most of these predictions are applied to New England, and just sort of let your imagination go, you can get quite a lift out of the Almanac's prognostications.

Last year, for instance, Abe Weatherwise made an overall prediction for last winter that read "as severe as any of the 20th Century!" With the exception of February, he points out, when Europe purloined the bad weather he had predicted for this country, last winter could be described as "severe" enough — at least in his part of the country.

For next spring, the Almanac uses the term, "Cold and late." For summer it says, "Will be as cool in August as it was hot in July." For the fall of 1957 the word is: "Normal, including gales but not hurricanes north of the Carolinas."

What we want to know in this neck of the woods is when's our drought going to be broken? We dare Abe Weatherwise to stick his neck out on that one. We have already given up on it.

Victim Of Own Propaganda

Atop Warsaw University floats a banner proclaiming: "Long live friendship with the Soviet Union on the principle of equality." That's a declaration of Polish independence. It's a symbol of the retreat from Warsaw to Moscow of Communist Party Boss Khrushchev. The Poles want to be first-rate citizens in Poland and not second-rate citizens in the Russian-supervised world of international socialism.

The Poles have discovered — and were willing to die for the discovery— that what's good for the Soviet Union isn't necessarily good for Poland. In 1947 when President Truman announced the Marshall Plan to aid war-ravaged countries of the world, Poland and Czechoslovakia wanted to join, along with Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, and so on. But Stalin would have none of it. The Soviet Union created its own Eastern European Council of Economic Mutual Assistance to offset America's Economic Cooperation Administration. Note the similarity of names!

Erlier Poland had entered into an agreement with the Soviet Union to sell coal. But at a price far below the prevailing market (for goods) in western Europe. The Russians said this low price was in lieu of reparations. The Yugoslavs had a similar experience. It made a pact to sell molybdenum at 45,000 dinars a ton to Russia against a world price of 500,000 dinars. For loyalty to Communism, Yugoslavia paid a price — a loss — of 455,000 dinars per ton. Marshal Tito learned the hard way!

The title of Bertrand Russell's book, "Freedom Vs. Organization," expresses the fundamental conflict between Russia and Yugoslavia, Poland and other satellites. The Kremlin wants to organize the Communist world with Moscow as the political and economic nerve center. Poles must be Communists first, Poles second. Ditto, Czechs; ditto, Chinese, and so on. Freedom is limited by organization.

Karl Marx, said Russell, "assumed that the proletariat, having no property," would have no patriotism. Marx overlooked the love of country, economic nationalism, and economic self-interest. Marx's followers are following suit.

Marshall Tito could assert his independence from Moscow because he got support in trade and financial relations with the United States. Also he received financial aid from The International Monetary Fund and International Bank. His non-Communist ties limited the military and economic force Khrushchev could bring to bear on him.

But Poland and Czechoslovakia both were forced by Russia to withdraw from the Fund and the Bank. Not only that, but both Poland and Czechoslovakia were forced to model their economies after Russia's — to complement the Russian system, instead of fulfilling their own destinies.

This Polish revolution doesn't overthrow Communism. It's a Palace Revolution. The Communists who faced East — who looked to Moscow for orientation— have been replaced by Polish Communists who are Poles first. A few may be Russophobes. A long history of hatred has separated the Russians and the Poles.

Historical Notes

Politics Has Gone Sissy

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Politics has gone sissy. Sure, hot and unfortunate words have been spewn out in this election campaign.

But nothing has equaled, much less surpassed, some things said and done long ago.

Go back 100 years, when a young, upstart party was fielding its first presidential candidate, John Charles Fremont, the great explorer of the West.

Republicans, members of this new party called themselves.

And because they included many Abolitionists, their political enemies tacked on an adjective that was to stick for years in the South like a disfiguring birthmark:

Black Republicans.

Not only that. In one cartoon alone Fremont was accused of being too sympathetic to the Negro, of favoring free love, of secretly being a member of the Roman Catholic Church, and in a curious twist of what was to happen a century later:

The first Republican presidential candidate was accused of being soft on communism.

Naturally the Republicans did not sit on folded adjectives with all this going on. They did their best. They hinted that there was something not quite right about putting James Buchanan, a bachelor, in the White House.

And the GOP also maintained that Buchanan once had said 10 cents a day was adequate pay for mechanics. So tattered banners appeared at rallies proclaiming: "Buchanan's Workshop: Ten Cents a Day."

In the end, Fremont lost.

The year 1884 was the year of double trouble, for both the GOP and the Democrats, with Republican James G. Blaine running against Democrat Grover Cleveland.

Blaine was accused of having used his position improperly, when he was speaker of the House, to influence railroad legislation. And he also was called a liar for saying he never had received any money from the Union Pacific.

But the Republicans were to have their inning in the scandal league, and it was a good one.

Cleveland, a bachelor, had had an affair with a widow, Maria Halpin. Mrs. Halpin had a son, and although Cleveland wasn't at all sure he was the father, he had agreed to support the child.

The voters, faced with having to choose between Blaine's public sins and Cleveland's private ones, strung along with Cleveland.

As for vituperation, the list is endless.

Jefferson was called an atheist. Jackson was labeled a wife-stealer who had a prostitute for a mother and a mulatto for a father. Henry Clay "spends his days at the gaming tables and his nights in a brothel."

Hal Boyle

Odd Things In The Mail

NEW YORK (AP)—Odd things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail, or listen to door-to-door salesmen:

That if Adlai Stevenson believes history runs in cycles he might be cheered to recall that just 100 years ago James Buchanan, a Democrat and a bachelor, defeated a famous soldier, John C. Fremont, the Republican party's presidential candidate.

That although women may be the deciding factor in the 1956 U.S. election, they are even more powerful in France where there are 117 women voters for every 100 men.

That 11 per cent of the lawyers in France wear skirts. So do 23 per cent of the dentists, 28 per cent of the pharmacists, and 7 per cent of the doctors. There are 19 women deputies in the National Assembly, and nine women senators in the Council of the Republic.

That if evil spirits are haunting you, an old remedy for warding them off is to wear a bag of eggshells around your neck. It also is said to help, if you are a woman, to wear your petticoats inside out or, in the case of a man, to reverse his waistcoat. Don't worry about what the neighbors may think. All people think their neighbors are a bit touched anyway.

That Pee Wee Reese, shortstop for the Brooklyn Dodgers, got his nickname because of his skill at marbles. He can still knuckle down and beat any kid in his neighborhood at the game.

That 45 per cent of American men complain the bed they sleep in isn't long enough for comfort.

That a fever of 109 degrees will kill most people, but medical annals list one recovery from a fever that reached 113 degrees.

That there are 31 moons in the solar system—Jupiter has 12—and you can win money by betting your favorite teen-ager he can't name the two planets that have no moon at all. They're Mercury and Pluto.

That the man who doesn't take the trouble to vote tomorrow will be the one who'll cry the loudest about the government for the next four years.

Mr. Breger

"Now, this will probably take your mind off the elections for a little while . . ."

Absentee Voting Lags Behind 1952

By MARSHALL COMERER
Associated Press Staff

Absentee voting in Texas for the Tuesday election is about 40 per cent behind 1952, a survey by The Associated Press Saturday showed.

The spot check of cities showed absentee voting was far heavier in this year's general election than in the Democratic primaries in July and August.

Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and Amarillo reported the general election absentee vote was 100 per cent higher than in last summer's primaries to pick a Democratic candidate for governor.

How this would be reflected in the vote cast Tuesday was not clear. Most observers predict that more than two million votes will be cast, about the same as the 2,072,106 in 1952.

Absentee voting ended at midnight Friday, Nov. 2. Ballots mailed and postmarked Nov. 2 are eligible for counting.

Abilene showed the greatest increase in absentee voting over 1952. To date 1,034 absentee votes have been cast compared to 714 in 1952, an increase of about 42 per cent.

Other cities showing increases were Midland, Paris, Wichita Falls, and Houston. But in each case the increase was slight.

Here is a city-by-city breakdown of absentee voting figures:

Fort Worth 1956, 3,276; 1952, 5,863; July primary 2,207, August 1,469.

Amarillo 1956, 1,448; 1952, 2,367; July primary 689.

Wichita Falls 1956, 1,504; 1952, 1,503; July primary, 972; August primary, 756.

Midland 1956, 1,519; 1952, 1,482; July primary 874.

Abilene 1956, 1,034; 1952, 714.

Marshall 1956, 269; 1952, 541; July primary 432; August primary 316.

Paris 1956, 266; 1952, 254; July primary 354.

Corsicana 1956, 388; 1952, about the same; July primary 415.

San Angelo 1956, 916; 1952, 1,512.

Houston 1956, 10,104; 1952, 10,097.

San Antonio 1956, 5,035; 1952, 5,600.

Beaumont 1956, 2,379; 1952, 4,224.

Denton 1956, 438; 1952, 565; July primary 273.

Dallas 1956, 8,281; 1952, 9,260.

Plainview 1956, 199; July 153, August 113.

Around The Rim

The Things That Are In Our Water!

Little wonder the French drink wine at meal time and insist water has little use other than for bathing purposes.

I saw a plastic model of a drop of pond water recently, magnified 250 times, and it didn't look like anything advertised in a "sky blue" beer ad.

Fact is, it had everything in it from spirogyra, the plant that causes green scum on ponds to nervous little creatures that must send up a fine spray of water when they exercise their muscles.

After reviewing the objects that do abound there, it's a wonder to me that the plants and the minute animals get along as well together as they do.

In addition to the spirogyra, a drop of water contains—according to science—such things as utricularia, a seed plant; diatrom, another plant; hydra, an animal related to jelly fish and corals; paramecium, sometimes called the slipper animal because of its shape; amoeba, one of the lowest forms of animal life; clathrulina, a delicate animal related to the amoeba; and euglena, a flagellate protozona which swims by whipping its tail from side to side.

The hydra, according to those who know, has a suction disk it uses to attach itself to vegetation in a pond or to glass in an aquarium.

I'm afraid it's going to put its appendages to use the next time I try to wet my whistle at some water fountain.

The amoeba, of course, is one of the lowest forms of animal life. Fact is, it is so low on the life scale that it has no definite form and is almost transparent.

As far as I'm concerned, it can frequent new habitats and depart my glass forever.

The spirogyra is said to look like a green hair, which is all I need to get the liquid down.

On the East Coast, scientists are straining sea water for plants similar to those found in pond water, with the idea in mind of finding another food supply. Bread has been made out of the plants, nourishing if not exactly tasty.

All I've got to say is that it's a good thing fish don't wear glasses. If they did, chances are we'd have to move over for them.

Now We've Got 'Legislative Engineers'

Presidents may come and Presidents may go, but there are certain eternal verities in the nation's capital that make for continuity in time, tide and government.

No matter who wins the giant jackpot on this go-'round, Washington's "legislative engineers" will be up, bright-eyed and bushy-tailed, and ready for a hard day's work when the time arrives for the first pre-luncheon Martini.

And if "legislative engineers" sounds alien to your ears—as if something new had been added to the national scene—relax. One of the oldest and most familiar figures in legislative halls has simply taken a flyer in semantics and rechristened himself.

Our old protagonist has obviously realized that this is the age of the engineer, and restyled himself in accordance. He need only glance at the classified advertising sections of any American Sunday newspaper to discover that industry is crying for radiographic, electronic, marine, industrial, missile guidance, radar navigation, bombing system and chemical engineers.

This rechristened rose, who would smell as much by any other name, sees big business begging for inertial navigation, standards, nuclear, materiel, design, metallurgic and communications engineers. And he has scarcely scratched the surface. He sees advertisements for engineers in fields that scarcely existed 10 to 20 years ago.

So that familiar cog in the halls of government, that combination huckster, high-pressure salesman and host-with-the-most, the lobbyist, has streamlined himself for the immediate future as a "legislative engineer."

If an undertaker can call himself a mortician, then there is no law against the lobbyist gussying himself up as a legislative engineer. And it is undoubtedly the only branch of engineering today in which there is positively no manpower shortage. There will undoubtedly be a hundred to a customer—i.e., any Congressman—by the time Congress reconvenes.

It will be interesting now to see if the 5-10-and-15 percenters can come up with a new and classy handle for themselves. I venture a suggestion to this group of Washington influence peddlers. If they are in search of a real designatin to inflict upon themselves the cachet of respectability, here it is.

Why not call themselves "The Georgians," which is a composite of "let-George-do-it, but only for a fat fee on the side."

This urge on the part of lobbyists to translate themselves into "legislative engineers" and promote for themselves an aura of professional dignity is part and parcel of the American dream—the same drive that promoted the hair dresser into a beautician and the real estate man into a realtor.

This is still the country where any ambitious sow's ear can become a silk purse since the decline and fall of head cheese.

Ike Picked, On 'Peace And Prosperity'

WASHINGTON — This is the eleventh presidential election in which this writer has published his forecast of the result. The score thus far has been eight correct predictions and two misses.

The same formula has been used again and again, and in the case of the two predictions that didn't pan out, the mistake was not in the formula but in the information gathered by this correspondent in 1940 and 1948 which led to an overestimate in certain states on the amount of voter discontent due to economic conditions. The party in power in both those election years was better off on the economic side than was generally realized at the time.

For basically, when fifty to sixty millions of persons vote, only the overriding issues — things that can be called the common denominator of the thinking of masses of people — are decisive.

The formula used by this writer in forecasting a presidential election is to examine the economic situation state by state and determine to what extent economic contentment or discontent prevails. A satisfactory economic condition is reflected in the data of production, sales, profits and employment. This is called "prosperity" in the vocabulary of politics. It helps the party in power, whereas a "depression" or "recession" usually means that the party in power will be turned out of office. The economic factor can be overruled when an emotional issue sweeps the country. This happened in 1942 when "corruption" and its near-relative — the taint of "Communism" — and the Korean War furnished the emotional issues. Likewise, in 1916, when World War I was going on, the Democrats had "prosperity" on their side in the West due to heavy wheat purchases from abroad, but depression in the East due to interruption of trade in manufactured goods. Yet, overriding everything else was an emotional issue. Its slogan was "He kept us out of war." So President Wilson won re-election.

In the present campaign "peace" and "prosperity" have been emphasized by the Republicans and questioned by the Democrats. But President Eisenhower's speech last Wednesday night — pledging firmly to keep the United States out of the war in the Middle East — was a dramatic confirmation of the "kept-us-out-of-war" issue, and hence events have in the main benefited the Republican administration. The issue is not whether there is peace all over the world but whether American boys are involved in a war.

As for economic conditions, the nation is prosperous in almost all of the states. In the agricultural areas the situation is somewhat adverse for the Republicans due to the drop-off in incomes for the farmers. But many farm families which don't want to see their sons or farm employes going to war will be influenced, because of the peace issue, to support the President. Also the farm states are heavily Republican anyhow, and many of them can show a substantially reduced majority and still cast their electoral votes for Ike.

Looking at the list of "certain" and "doubtful" states, this writer presents a forecast which endeavors not to estimate the final tally but to establish a basic minimum — how the winning candidate is sure to get the 266 electoral votes needed to elect a President.

Here is the irreducible minimum which makes it certain that President Eisenhower will be re-elected:

Arizona 4, California 32, Colorado 6, Connecticut 8, Delaware 3, Idaho 4, Illinois 27, Indiana 13, Iowa 10, Kansas 8, Maine 5, Maryland 9, Nebraska 6, New Hampshire 4, New Jersey 16, New York 45, North Dakota 4, Ohio 25, Oregon 6, South Dakota 4, Utah 4, Vermont 3, Washington 9, Wisconsin 12, Wyoming 3.

This is a total of 270.

It should be noted that the foregoing table elects Ike without Pennsylvania, Massachusettes, Rhode Island, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, Florida and Texas.

This writer doesn't expect Ike to lose all those states — in fact, quite a number of them will go Republican. For the pattern of prosperity applies to several of them, and the peace issue applies to them all.

There are 90 electoral votes classed by this writer as "doubtful" which could wind up in the Eisenhower column — Montana, Nevada, Minnesota, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. This would make Ike's total 360.

There are 92 votes also in the "doubtful" class that could wind up in the Stevenson column — New Mexico, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Virginia, Tenessee, Florida and Texas — for a Stevenson total of 171.

The "ratio of doubt" — a phrase which this writer has used in previous forecasts of presidential elections — favors Eisenhower in the above group of states which comprise 90 electoral votes. There is, on the other hand, even among the 92 votes classed as "doubtful" but leaning toward Stevenson some question now about several states he has been expected all along to carry, such as Texas, New Mexico and Florida.

So, to sum up, it looks like Eisenhower. A big surprise may come in the election also of a Republican Senate and House. It is a distinct possibility at this writing, due largely to economic conditions in the prosperous and heavily populated states and to the emotional issues of the hour which could influence a good deal more straight-ticket voting than has come the way of the Republicans in recent presidential elections.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Italian Girl Worries About U. S. 'Slimness'

The Weight Problem

Italian Gia Scala believes when the scales rise, immediate reducing is necessary to keep a lovely figure. Gia, who is presently under contract to Universal-International, will soon be seen in UI's "Four Girls in Town."

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — If you compare Hollywood with a race track and the contract players as the studio entries. I'd like to wager that a young Italian girl named Gia Scala will be in the winner's circle some day soon.

There is some indefinable thing that emanates from champions whether on the track, in the ring or on the theatre screen. Soon after I met this star from Universal-International I felt she had it.

As we drove to the hospital to visit some disabled veterans we chatted about many things. And though Gia is just out of her teens she has a surprisingly sage attitude toward life.

"I love to act and I want very much to be a success in Hollywood," she said warmly, "but I do not want my work to consume my entire life."

"How did you learn to speak English so beautifully?" I asked.

With just a trace of an accent Gia explained, "My mother is Irish and she taught me." I wanted to know how she liked living in Hollywood. Gia was enthusiastic.

"But there is one thing I don't like. I think the Americans like women to be too thin. I made a picture in Cuba and the men there like curves the way the Italians do. But a figure that would be considered attractive by the Latins would be called fat here," Gia explained.

"Those models in the high fashion magazines! I don't think they look like women should. Their figures have lost all their curves and are not a bit feminine. As soon as the studio saw me they asked me to lose 10 pounds. It is a struggle for me to stay at this weight," she sighed.

"I take dancing lessons and that helps to burn up calories but I have to watch my appetite. If I want to take off a quick pound or two I have a very good diet. For breakfast I have black coffee, a four-minute egg and grapefruit juice. I like grapefruit very much. We don't have them in Italy.

"My big meal comes in the middle of the day because I can use it up better. I have steak, spinach and skim milk. Then in the evening I have cottage cheese and fresh fruit. I like pineapple." Gia said as we drew near the veterans hospital where Gia would entertain for the afternoon. "When the scales show I have to lose weight I am prepared to have no sweets, no breads, nothing between meals and in one or two days I'm back to normal."

DIET NEWS

You'll find more about taking off a few quick pounds in Leaflet M-57, Margaret O'Brien's Magic Diet. In addition to three days of menus, there are tips from Margaret on how to avoid hunger pangs and eating temptations. You'll find this a valuable leaflet to own. Need More Space For Pot Plants?

When plants crowd your sunny window shelves or threaten to burst your green house at the seams, why not add growing space with artificial light?

As Peggie Schulz points out in the November issue of Popular Gardening Magazine, artificial light can serve as a sun substitute for plants that require low light intensity (African violets, begonias and many foliage plants); to start plants from seeds, cuttings, bulbs or tubers, and to extend daytime for plants that need a long day to flower.

Miss Schulz explains in detail how to obtain and install the fixtures in various sizes for various purposes. Often, it is possible to achieve a very desirable "decorator's effect" by using the lighting units and growing plants as an accent feature in room layout.

FIVE CONFESS

Area Burglaries Solved At C-City

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City police solved a series of area burglaries Sunday, as a quintet of Colorado City youths, two of them teenagers, confessed to break-ins at Abilene, Gail, Seminole, Lamesa and Slaton.

Four of them had been picked up Saturday night by Chief Leon Yeager and city police after the four were reported to be possession of a stock of candy, cigarettes, and chewing gum. The fifth, a 27-year-old Colorado City man, was picked up by police Sunday morning for questioning. He admitted burglaries from a drive-in and filling station in Abilene and a school building at Wylie, sometime in the past two weeks. He and a 19-year-old youth were to be transferred to Abilene.

Sid Reeder, Borden County sheriff, was to take the other three to Gail in connection with the robbery of a service station at Gail. The youths admitted burglarizing the station about 2 a.m. Saturday and taking a pair of cowboy boots, two tires, four tubes, a quart of sweet milk, some anti-freeze, cigarette lighters and an electric razor.

Henry Mayfield, sheriff of Dawson County, was in Colorado City Sunday to take statements from the trio concerning burglaries at two drive-in theatres in Lamesa.

No charges were to be filed in Mitchell County.

Shotgun Vandals Damage County Road Maintainers

Several hundred dollars woth of damage was caused by shotgun shooting vandals to four county-owned road maintainers left parked over the weekend on the Moore road, it was reported Monday by Walter Parks, highway engineer.

Floyd Moore, deputy sheriff, was investigating.

Parks said the gunmen were at close range when they fired at the maintainers. There were no empty shells in the vicinity.

The four pieces of equipment had been left parked approximately half a mile from the nearest house. Parks said that he has instructed workers hereafter to leave the county equipment as near a residence as possible.

Trinidad Musicians Use Old Oil Drums

By RED CAMP
Written for The Associated Press

CORPUS CHRISTI, Nov. 5 (AP)— Steel bands of Trinidad. You'll hear about them if you haven't already. Groups of 5 to 10 musicians making lovely, haunting music on 8 to 20 empty 50-gallon oil drums. Playing everything from the smaller works of Schubert and Brahms to the wildest castillans, meringues, mambos and, yes, even Dixieland and progressive jazz.

I just returned from Trinidad as the guesy of Emory Cook, president of Cook Laboratories, high-fidelity recording firm in Stamford, Conn.

We felt it would add authenticity to an album I intend to record based on West Indian rhythms for me to "sweat out" Cook's recording sessions and "sit in" on piano with steel bands, string and calypso groups and rhythm orchestras. It was a fantastic experience—all of it—but the music of the steel bands moved me the most.

Steel bands have come a long way in quality of tone, range, and general acceptance since their start 15 years ago. One story has it that because of a British ban on native drumming (they claimed the native rhythms incited riots) the natives started casting about for other surfaces to beat on. Someone discovered that by welding a bead across the bottom of an empty oil drum (there were thousands of these hanging around during the war), one side could be tuned independently of the other. This was accomplished by taping with a cold chisel.

There followed a succession of refinements and improvements, which have brought the band up to a four-octave chromatic range.

For ten exciting days I jammed, discussed music with, listened to, and played for the various outstanding steel bands of Trinidad and most of the local people who are intensely interested in fostering and furthering this unique musical expression.

To cap things off I gave a jazz concert during which I improvised against a background of steel drum music. A sort of world premiere I believe.

I've never had such musical "kicks" in my life, and it will be a long time before I forget the rocking rhythms, haunting melodies and eerie timbre that emanated from a bunch of scrap oil cans.

POLITICS

President "doesn't know what's going on and doesn't care enough to find out"; that "The President doesn't run the store."

When the administration started to send a shipload of tanks to Saudi Arabia in February when it was declining arms for Israel, protests mounted and it embargoed the shipment while deciding what to do, he said.

Where was the President? he asked. And he replied to his own question:

"On Feb. 17th, he played golf. On Feb. 18th, he shot quail. On Feb. 22, when the ban was finally removed the President shot 18 holes of golf."

Nixon had a White House date to talk politics and international affairs with Eisenhower.

Ahead of the nationwide broadcast Eisenhower will make a closed circuit telecast to Boston, where he had planned to speak before arrangements were canceled because of foreign developments.

Stevenson speaks from Boston over CBS radio and television at 10 p.m. EST. He changed his plans and arranged to fly to Boston to greet his new grandson, born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Adlai Stevenson Jr.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, Stevenson's running mate, will appear on the same program, speaking from Washington.

Attack Is Fatal To L. E. Keller

Louis Edward Keller, 57, who operated a cafe at 302 NW 3rd Street, died suddenly at 4:45 p.m. Sunday after suffering a heart attack.

Services have been set for 10 a.m. Tuesday at the River Funeral Home with the Rev. Guy Lewis, Wheatland, officiating. Burial will be in the Trinity Memorial Park.

Mr. Keller was born July 23, 1899, in Denton and had lived in Denton and Dallas before coming to Big Spring about 10 year ago.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. Gruth Galvan, Fort Worth, Mrs. Ross Bagby, DeSoto; two sons, Louis Keller Jr., Dallas, and John A. Keller, El Monte, Calif.; and three sisters, Mrs. Roy Goforth, Dallas, Mrs. Martelle McDonald, Odessa, and Mrs. Barbara Johnson, Denver, Colo.

COLORADO CITY—W. R. Akins, 81, retired Loraine farmer, died at 12:40 a.m. Monday at a hospital in Loraine.

He had been ill for a long time.

Funeral is to be held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Church of Christ in Loraine. Max Leach, minister, will officiate, assisted by Luke Shera, Carlsbad, N. M., and burial will be in the Lone Wolf Cemetery under direction of Kiker & Son. Grandsons will be pallbearers.

Mr. Akins was born March 2, 1875, and had lived in Mitchell County for 32 years.

Surviving are his wife, the former Alberdie Wilson, to whom he was wed in Grand Saline on June 5, 1898; two sons, Luther Akins, Edgewood, and Claude Akins, Canyon; five daughters, Mrs. Henry Stelljes, Linn, Kans., Mrs. Bob Kennedy, Mineola, Mrs. Jim Kennedy, Andrews, Mrs. Beauford Claxton, Houston, and Mrs. Cleo Foashelf, Dallas; three brothers, Charles Akins, Dallas, Sid Akins, Meridian, and Jim Akins, Greenville; 25 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

Hoover Denies Kefauver Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover today denounced as "an absolute lie" a statement by Sen. Estes Kefauver, Democratic vice-presidential candidate, that the Hoover family is "involved with Mideast oil."

The Tennessean, campaigning in Minnesota Saturday, noted that Herbert Hoover Jr. is acting secretary of state during the illness of Secretary Dulles, and added:

"We all know how the Hoover family is involved with Mideast oil."

The Republican former president, in a statement issued from his residence in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, said:

"Sen. Estes Kefauver's statement in St. Paul on Saturday, Nov. 3, that Herbert Hoover Jr. and members of the Hoover family have personal interests in Middle East oil is an absolute lie.

"And I might add that Herbert Hoover Jr. resigned all of his professional connections and disposed of any business interests anywhere in the world at great sacrifice to himself when he accepted the position of undersecretary of state."

Ike Readies Final Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower readied his final brief appeal to the voters today while grappling with acute world problems centering in battle-inflamed Hungary and Egypt.

His campaign for re-election comes to an end less than 36 hours after he announced he had sent an "urgent message" to Soviet Premier Bulganin calling for:

"1. Withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary.

"2. Achieving for Hungary its own right of self-determination in the choice of its own government."

In a statement issued after an unusual Sunday meeting with some top advisers, and after a personal call on ailing Secretary of State Dulles, Eisenhower said there also was a "thorough review" of the Middle East situation and this country's efforts in the United Nations to remedy it.

He plans to make his election eve talk — a five to six minute one — in the course of a coast-to-coast television broadcast on the three major networks.

Time: 11 p.m., EST.

While there was no official word, the expectation was that he would stress a get-out-the-vote angle, leaving the tub-thumping for the Republican party and for himself to Vice President Nixon and other participants.

Mrs. Eisenhower and their son and daughter-in-law, Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, will be with the President when he speaks. So will the vice president and Mrs. Nixon. Other speakers will be "cut in" from various points around the country.

Earlier in the evening Eisenhower will make a closed circuit telecast to Boston, where he had planned to speak tonight before the foreign policy crisis arose.

What effect the gunfire eruptions in Egypt and Hungary—with their worldwide repercussions — may have on the President's re-election bid is a question the voters will answer tomorrow.

Democrats, headed by presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson, contend the recent developments show the administration's foreign policy has failed and should be repudiated at the polls.

Republicans, including Nixon, argue that a man of Eisenhower's military experience — one widely known abroad, and acquainted with world leaders — is indispensable at such a time.

Eisenhower himself appears confident he will win. Many of his staff members are outspoken-ly so.

Sunday was no day of rest for the President. He attended church with his wife and their son and daughter-in-law, then spent 15 minutes with Dulles at Walter Reed Army Hospital before going into a long White House conference. Attending were Acting Secretary Herbert Hoover Jr., Director Allen W. Dulles of the Central Intelligence Agency and other officials.

An outcome of the conference was the message to Bulganin, which Eisenhower announced in a statement saying that world opinion has suffered "shock and dismay at the Soviet attack on the peoples and government of Hungary."

Eisenhower's statement said the meeting also went into "ways and means available to the United States" of getting Red troops out of Hungary, but he gave no details on this point and the White House declined to elaborate.

City Plans To Activate New Fire Station

The city this morning started making plans to take over the new fire station at North Main and Eighth this week.

The contractor, G. A. Jones of Lamesa, told H. V. Crocker, fire chief, that doors for the apparatus room were being installed today. Jones planned to paint the doors Tuesday, add another coat Wednesday and turn the building to the city on Thursday.

He also lacked hardware for lockers in the dormitory, but he said the items were coming today and would be mounted as soon as they arrived.

The strcture was built at a cost of $41,667. It has the same general layout as the new station at Eleventh and Birdwell and is of a reddish-tan brick construction.

Electricians have some detail work to complete also, the fire chief said, and phones have not been installed, but with the exception of these items and putting in the furniture, the city is ready to hold open house and begin operation.

Furniture was purchased for that station and the one at Eleventh and Birdwell at the same time and is on hand. It can be installed in a short time, Crocker said.

Six new men have been hired for the department, but they will not all be at the new station, Crocker said. Hired were Doyle Hooper, T. J. Castle, Clarence Croteau, Don Barber, Robert Mullins, and William Bloomer.

J. D. Jenkins and R. T. Hale will be shift lieutenants.

The city last week tentatively set next Sunday as date for open house, and Crocker said this morning that the date will probably be kept.

As was the case on opening the Eleventh and Birdwell station on July 22, the open house will probably be held from 2 p.m. until 6, and then the station will go on operational status.

Little Work For County Officials

Howard County Commissioners Court, working shorthanded, was busy approving bills at the Monday morning session in the commissioners court room.

Only three commissioners were present. R. H. Weaver, county judge is out of the county. G. E. Gilliam, the other commissioner, is recuperating from eye surgery. It was said at his residence that he planned to be present but had to go to the doctor's office first.

Ralph Proctor, Earl Hull and Arthur Stallings, the other three commissioners, were going over the current bills with Lee Porter, acounty auditor. They said there was no special business to be discussed at the session.

L.A. Smog Expert Cussed, Discussed

By BILL BECKER

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5 (AP) — You think you have problems? Stop a while and shed a tear for—and with—Smoggy Smith Griswold.

S. Smith Griswold — that initial "S" really stands for Samuel, which he never uses — is perhaps the most cussed and discussed man in Los Angeles.

As smog control chief for the past year and a half, Griswold has been badgering local industry, auto manufacturers and the trash-burning public into some semblance of cooperation with smog laws.

Progress of a sort is being made. As of Sept. 1 only five smog experts had been called this year, as compared with 15 during 1955.

"This is not a problem that will be licked this year or next, or even in 10 years," Griswold insists. He has consistently hammered the point that there is more smog than meets the eye.

And to drive it home he recently became the city's first human guinea pig.

The result? Smoggy Smith hates the grisly crud—his own word for the stuff—worse than ever. He's convinced that it can be downright sickening—and it's got to go before he does.

Thus far Griswold has managed to clamp tighter smoke restrictions on existing industry and almost complete control over new plants.

Control expenditures, overall, have risen from $122,000 in 1948 to 4 million dollars in fiscal 1956-57.

Main reason: Industrial plants continue to spring up. There are now 16,000 in Los Angeles County and at the present rate of expansion, there will be 25,000 by 1970.

Plus automobiles. The county has some 2,700,000 vehicles — one for every two citizens — the greatest concentration of fume-producing buggies in the world.

Griswold's goals for 1957 include putting a $15 carburetor device on each new or resold car in the county. More efficient combustion of fuel will decrease fumes, tests show.

Rain Fatal To Elephant Here

Today the Big Spring Rendering Plant had a unique job on its hands — disposing of a dead elephant.

The animal, weighing about 1,200 pounds, died between here and Colorado City early Sunday morning.

Owner of the animal was not known by either the police department or the rendering plant. Officials at the plant said they got a call from the police department about 2 a.m. Sunday to come and pick up an elephant.

They complied.

It was reported unofficially that the elephant got wet during rain east of here while traveling and died of pneumonia. He was being carried in an open-top trailer and was headed for El Paso.

Election Day Not Holiday For Banks

Banks in Big Spring will not be closed on Tuesday despite the rather current impression that general election day is a bank holiday.

The banks explained that in the past it was required that they close on election days but that a new law now forbids closing on these days.

Meantime, the holiday situation at the county courthouse remained static. The commissioners apparently had no intention of ruling one way or another on the matter.

Earl Hull, one member of the court, told one county official "Do as you please — the law says it can be a holiday if the official wants to observe it."

Students Return From JC Meeting

Student Council members of Howard County Junior College have returned from Borger where they attended the initial meeting of the new West Texas Junior College Student Council Association. The meeting was held Saturday and Sunday.

A constitution was adopted for the new organization. Under the by-laws, the student council officers of the host city will serve as the officers of the association. Under this rule the Council staff of the Frank Phillips College, Borger, now comprise the WTSCA official family.

Colleges represented were Howard County Junior College, Odessa College, Amarillo College and Phillips.

Local delegates were LaVerne Cooper, Marlene Mann, Betty Earley, Max McCulloch, Bill McIlDibrell. Ray Brussard, HCJC council sponsor, was in charge of the local delegation.

Reds Urge Joint U.S.-Russ Action In Mid-East War

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union called tonight for joint American-Soviet military intervention—backed by the United Nations — to stop British-French "aggression" in the Middle East.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin made the appeal in a message to President Eisenhower, Moscow radio reported.

Moscow also announced that Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov had sent a message to the United Nations Security Council urging it to render military and other aid to Egypt.

K Of P Chief To Visit Local Lodge

Grand Chancello Sam Heaberlin of Nacogdoches is to make his official visit to the Frontier Lodge No. 43 of the Knights of Pythias here Tuesday.

The meeting at 7:30 p.m. has been convoked as the annual roll call, said J. D. Jones, chancellor commander of the local KP Lodge. He said all members are expected to be present for this affair. The traditional offering for the Thanksgiving and Christmas fund of Pythian Home at Weatherford is to be taken. Most of the operations of the home are financed out of offerings made at roll calls.

Heaberlin is well known in this section, having been elected to the post of grand outer guard when the state convention was held here in 1951. This started him up on the ladder which led to the top position last year. Since his visit here in 1951 he has made several return visits to the local lodge. In addition he has traveled several thousand miles through the state in interest of the Pythian order.

Among other dignitaries due for the meeting are Russell Hardin, Lubbock, and H. M. Rainbolt, Big Spring, both past grand chancellors.

Cyclists Collide To Avoid Auto

Two motorcycles were involved in a collision here Sunday.

The drivers of the vehicles, Rupert Hornback and Benjamin Bledsoe, 103 E. 15th, reported that they thought a car was going to run them off the street at 512 E. 14th. When one swerved, he hit the other. No car was involved in the collision, though. No one was injured.

At Third and Goliad, Charles Beatly of Carlsbad, N. M., and Wayne Coggins of Odessa collided. Roger Sterling Williams, 1000 W. 4th, was driving a 1950 Oldsmobile that was hit by another car at N. Bell and Fourth. The driver of the other car did not stop.

Bishop Martin Goes To Philippine Meet

Bishop William C. Martin, presiding officer of the Dallas-Fort Worth Area of the Methodist Church, which includes the North Texas, Northwest Texas and Central Texas Conferences, left Dallas Monday to represent the Council of Bishops, The Methodist Church, at the Central Conference of The Methodist Church in the Philippines.

He was named for the trip at the December, 1955, meeting of the council. Three annual conferences and one provisional conference will be represented. According to latest reports there are 368 organized Methodist churches with 84,041 names on the roll.

Bishop Martin will give direction to the conference in the election of a bishop, who will be in office for the next four years. Bishop Jose L. Valencia, who was elected in November, 1948, was the second Filipino to be elected bishop.

Driver Hurt As Rig Crushes Cab

Johnson B. Hall, 1604 Lark, driver for Duncan Drilling Company, was injured this morning when a drilling derrick he was towing broke loose and crushed the cab of his truck.

The mishap occurred about two miles south of the U. S. 87 intersection on the Garden City road.

He was rushed in a River ambulance to the Malone & Hogan Hospital where his injuries were not regarded as critical. He sustained possible head and back injuries.

Floyd Moore, deputy sheriff, was called to the scene of the accident but said that when he reached the place the victim had already been removed to the hospital.

City Police Attend Midland Meeting

At least four members of the city police force attended the Texas Police Association meeting in Midland today.

Chief C. L. Rogers, Jack Shaffer, A. N. Standard, and A. V. Brown went this morning, and others who were not on the day shift also indicated they might go. The meeting opened Sunday and continues through the afternoon.

Firemen Unable To Find Alarm's Cause

One of two calls answered by the fire department Sunday turned out to be a false alarm.

The call came about a fire at 204 Mesquite, but when firemen arrived, they found no trouble.

A short in a car cigarette lighter caused a small blaze at Second and Main Sunday. No damage resulted, however.

Roles Of Parties Reversed, But Words Have Familiar Ring

By ROGER GREENE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5 (AP)—The thunder of oratory in the 1956 presidential campaign has almost ended. On Tuesday, the nation's voters will return the verdict.

Four years ago the issues and catchwords involved the Korean War, the "mess in Washington," McCarthy and the "road to socialism" vs. "Old Guard Republicanism."

Today the war is over. The "mess" is a musty memory. McCarthy has slipped from the limelight.

This time, as the party out of of power, the Democrats have waged the offensive. The Republicans, in campaigning tradition, have replied by pointing to what they call a four-year record of achievement marked by high prosperity.

Roles are reversed, but the words have a familiar ring.

In 1952, GOP candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower hit what he called the Truman administration's "stop-and-go foreign policy." Currently, it's Democratic candidate Adlai E. Stevenson who is pounding that theme, with critical sallies at what he calls the Eisenhower administration's "quick-change foreign policy" based on "boast and bluff."

Emphasis this year, however, has centered more on home-front issues — big business in government, farm prices, defense, prosperity, tight money and H-bomb tests.

Here, in their own words, is what the candidates have said on major 1956 issues:

PROSPERITY

Eisenhower "Sixty-six million American workers are more prosperous and secure than ever in our history. America looks happy—a darn sight happier than it did four years ago. . . I wonder if the cry of the political opposition is not simply this: things in America are rapidly going from bad — to good. . .

"Together, we Americans have moved a long way forward in the last four years."

Stevenson: "we've been hearing a lot about American prosperity, but I say that every American must be concerned with the weak spots in our economy. We should be thankful for the prosperity and well-being we enjoy. But let's not exaggerate . . . We are being offered a brand of Pollyanna politics labeled peace, prosperity and progress . . .

"There are millions of Americans who live in privation, on budgets that barely feed them, in houses that are dirty and dangerous, in congested slums that cut out the living daylight . . ."

Stevenson: "I think the time is ripe and there is an insistent necessity for the world to stop at least the testing of these terrifying weapons . . . Most Americans, I know, are concerned and deeply concerned about mankind's need to tame the hydrogen bomb . . ."

Eisenhower: "I regret that the American government's policy with respect to the testing of large-scale nuclear weapons has been made an issue. It can only lead to confusion at home and misunderstanding abroad. The testing of atomic weapons (is) an indispensable part of our defense program . . . I do not believe that any political campaign justified the declaration of a moratorium on common sense . . ."

THE DRAFT

Eisenhower: "The man who dismisses our military draft as 'an incredible waste' is a man speaking incredible folly. The issue of our military draft is a matter of the safety of our nation. We cannot encourage our allies in the world to shoulder arms while we throw ours to the ground . . . We must not by weakness invite another war."

Stevenson: "I, for one, am not content to accept the idea that there can be no end to compulsory military service. The draft is a wasteful, inefficient and often unfair way of maintaining our armed forces, and now it is fast becoming an obsolete way . . . It should be ended at the earliest moment consistent with national safety . . ."

AGRICULTURE

Stevenson: "For three years, the Republican leaders watched farm prices fall with philosophical calm . . . They did nothing — until election year came around . . .

"The fact is that farm income declined by one quarter during (Eisenhower's) term of office . . . They (Republicans) have failed to give the farmer a fair share of our national income. Farmers know what's happened to prices and costs and their diminishing share of the consumer's food dollar."

Eisenhower: "I seek and shall continue to seek to assure our farm families their full share of our nation's unparalleled prosperity today . . . The future in agriculture looks better — more promising and more dependable — than at any time in this generation. Farm prices this year — the first full year in which the (GOP) administration's programs have operated — have begun to rise without the cruel assistance of wartime demands for the first time since World War II.

"It is certainly not straight talk to say that our farmers would be better off to return to the programs that caused surpluses to pile up and prices to go down."

CIVIL RIGHTS

Eisenhower: "Sympathetic understanding has been fostered and intelligent progress has been made in civil rights — segregation ended in restaurants, theaters, hotels and schools in the District of Columbia — ended in government departments, the armed forces, veterans' hospitals.

"The opposition believes that the cause of civil rights can be advanced by a formula of much oratory and little performance . . . I see an America where our troubled period of adjustment to the practical meaning of equal opportunity, without regard to race, will have given way to a new spirit of understanding and harmony."

Stevenson: "The Supreme Court of the United States has determined unanimously that the Constitution does not permit segregation in the schools. I believe that decision to be right . . .

"The President has taken no clear position and exercised no leadership in connection with the pressing problem of school desegregation. They (Republicans) have failed to provide any leadership in the mounting crisis over civil rights."

TAXES

Eisenhower: "We have had a $7,400,000,000 tax cut — the largest in our nation's history. And despite opposition charges two-thirds of that cut was given to individuals . . . These (Democratic) political orators promise bigger government spending on every front — lower taxes for every citizen — all wrapped up in the bright package of a balanced national budget. . . ."

Stevenson: "The President implied that the Republican tax cut of 1954 benefited everybody. The fact is that 91 cents of every dollar of that tax cut went to corporations and families with incomes above $5,000 a year."

Rains Big Help, But More Needed

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 5 (AP) — Much of drought-ridden Texas is "greening-up" after widespread rains but more rain is needed for small grains and winter soil building crops, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said today.

"Rain was too late to be of much benefit to pastures as the date of the first average frost is near in many parts of the state, but small grain is expected to furnish much needed grazing for livestock," Director G. G. Gibson said. "Cooler temperatures and some cloudy weather are helping hold moisture."

Farm agents report the crop harvest is complete in most of the state except for cotton and small grain in the Trans-Pecos, South Plains and Panhandle. The pecan harvest is well under way, and the East Texas sweet potato crop is moving to market.

Small grain, "dry-planted" before the rain, now is up and much more land is being prepared and planted in an effort to curb the extreme shortage of feed required by livestock. Marketing of livestock has been reduced in some areas which rain has fallen.

"Deep East Texas still is in the grip of drought as light scattered showers have not been sufficient to bring up small grain, primarily oats, and where they are up they will die soon unless rain falls," Walter Scott at Nacogdoches said. "All crops have been harvested and cattle marketing continues at above normal. Broiler prices still are below cost of production."

Scattered showers in some sections of Northeast Texas will help feed and cover crops already planted, and that more are being planted. Pastures and stockwater are far below the need and cattle are moving to market.

The West Texas irrigated cotton crop is about 80 per cent harvested with yields from two to three bales an acre in the Pecos-Ft. Stockton area. Small grain is up in the irrigated area where rain fell, but surface and subsoil moisture still is inadequate and livestock requires feed. Sheep and cattle are being marketed or shipped to grassland.

V. G. Young at San Angelo said small grains in the Edwards Plateau are up but already are needing rain. Scattered rains have fallen in the area with some parts of Kerr County reporting good rains. Recent rains will not be too helpful for growth of grass as the area in general has an early frost date.

Livestock is being marketed due to feed shortage.

In the Panhandle showers have not been very effective and winter wheat is in critical condition. Much acreage hasn't been planted due to moisture shortage. It still can be planted if rain comes soon. The harvest of cotton, grain sorghum and vegetables continues. Very few cattle remain on ranches and they require feed now and will require feed during winter.

Cotton and grain sorghum harvests have passed the midway mark in the South Plains.

Central Texas is described as "looking much better." Small grain already is up and more is being planted for grazing and harvest of grain in spring.

North Texas conditions are much improved as moisture has helped growth of small grains and supplied stockwater in many areas, said Ted Martin at Denton.

At Vernon in the Rolling Plains, 10 counties got moisture very beneficial to dry-planted small grain. The cotton harvest, nearing its end, was delayed by rain. There has been a slight drop in numbers of livestock marketed since the rain and wheat pasture prospects have improved. A general rain still is needed.

Cranes Expected In Texas Soon

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—The only flock of whooping cranes in the world will probably complete their fall migration to the Aransas Wildlife Refuge here in two or three weeks, acting refuge manager Jim Harmon said yesterday.

Harmon said 17 of the expected 26 cranes completed their flight from northern Canada and the remainder of the giant birds are expected from Wood Buffalo National Park in northern Canada.

With the exception of the flock, there are only three other whooping cranes in the world. They are in zoos.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Mayor Frank X. Kryzan, a Democrat, has announced a noisy plan for getting out the vote next Tuesday.

In a proclamation he asked that between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. —

Churches ring bells.

Shivers Urges Eisenhower Vote

HARLINGEN, Nov. 5 (AP)— Gov. Shivers said today Texas will "go Eisenhower" Tuesday if friends "work unceasingly" to get out the vote.

More and more Texans have realized "the necessity" of re-electing Eisenhower in view of international tensions, the Governor said in a speech.

He said Sen. Lyndon Johnson "doesn't like either Adlai Stevenson or Kefauver, and the feeling is mutual."

"I doubt if Sen. Johnson will be broken-hearted if Eisenhower is re-elected." Shivers said.

Cop, Wife Did Duty As They Saw It

OROFINO, Idaho (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. William Philpot both did their duty as they saw it.

Philpot, Orofino chief of police, issued a citation charging his wife with failure to yield the right-of-way after the car she was driving collided with another.

Then Mrs. Philpot, as correspondent for the Lewiston Tribune, sat down and wrote a news item about the event.

Presley Takes Lady Fair On Cycle, Worries Studio

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The teenagers' rock 'n' roll idol took his Hollywood lady fair out for a fast whirl on a motorcycle last night.

Elvis (The Pelvis) Presley, dapper in tight jeans, leather jacket and peaked cap, roared out of his drivewar, past a small cluster of fans, and sped away with screen star Natalie Wood clinging behind him on the seat.

Natalie, the rising young actress who starred in "Rebel Without a Cause" with the late James Dean, and "Johnny Concho" with Frank Sinatra, was whooping with glee. She too wore jeans.

But what's fun for Natalie and Elvis is a headache for Hollywood producers, who cringe every time a valuable property gets aboard a motorcycle. They think it's dangerous.

The motorcycle is Presley's pet. His manager's urgent requests that he lay it by, at least until he makes a pile, gets small heed.

Presley also rates the lovely Miss Wood highly. He calls her his "favorite actress." They dated frequently when he was in Hollywood recently making a picture.

Natalie arrived Wednesday night to spend a couple of days at the home of Presley's parents.

"My studio doesn't know I'm here," she said. "But I guess they will find out."

Natalie's studio did.

"She's on vacation," said a spokesman for Warner Bros. last night, "and can do what she wants to."

Poppies have arrived for the traditional "Poppy Day" sale to be conducted here next Saturday by the American Legion Auxiliary.

The poppies were made by disabled veterans in the Waco VA Hospital. Proceeds from their sale will go toward rehabilitation of disabled veterans and into the child welfare fund of the local auxiliary.

Mrs. Foy Dunlap is chairman of the poppy sales committee here. Auxiliary members stressed that wearers of the poppies next Saturday will be honoring war victims as well as assisting disabled ex-soldiers and their dependents.

Odessans Shooting Works In Planning Horse Show

ODESSA, Nov. 5 (AP)— Ranchers and business men in the Odessa and Permian Basin area are shooting the works in planning for their Sand Hills Hereford and Quarter Horse Show at Odessa Jan. 1-5. The show will be in the new Ector County Coliseum at the fair grounds.

"Only Hereford cattle can be entered," said Hubert Martin, Ector County farm agent and secretary of the show. Cal Smith is president of the show.

The opening day, Jan. 1, will be devoted to showing and judging the club show, which is open to 4-H and FFA boys from Texas. Only Hereford steers will be entered.

"Rambouillett sheep will also be exhibited and judged as a part of the stock show," Martin said. "We will have some of the best Rambouillett sheep in the nation exhibited at this show."

A cutting horse contest is attracting a wide number of entries from several states.

"We are opening the spring show circuit in the Southwest," Martin said. "Animals in our show will go to the National Western Livestock Show in Denver, and then to Amarillo, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston shows."

Hereford cattle will be from at least four states, and perhaps more.

Andrews' return to winning ways, which co-incided with the beginning of district play out that way, probably saved Coach Glenn Frazier's job.

As of now, there's an inclination on the part of some observers to refer to the Sooners' league as the "Big One And Little Six."

Johnny Malaise, the former Big Spring cage mentor who now holds a similar position at Odessa, says Big Spring and Midland should be given the favorite's nod in District 2-AAAA basketball this year.

Malaise laments that he lost everything he had in the way of material and will have to be starting over.

Observers here are inclined to rate Midland at the time. Big spring potentially has a better club than it fielded a year ago but there are still too many question marks.

The Steers may be a year away.

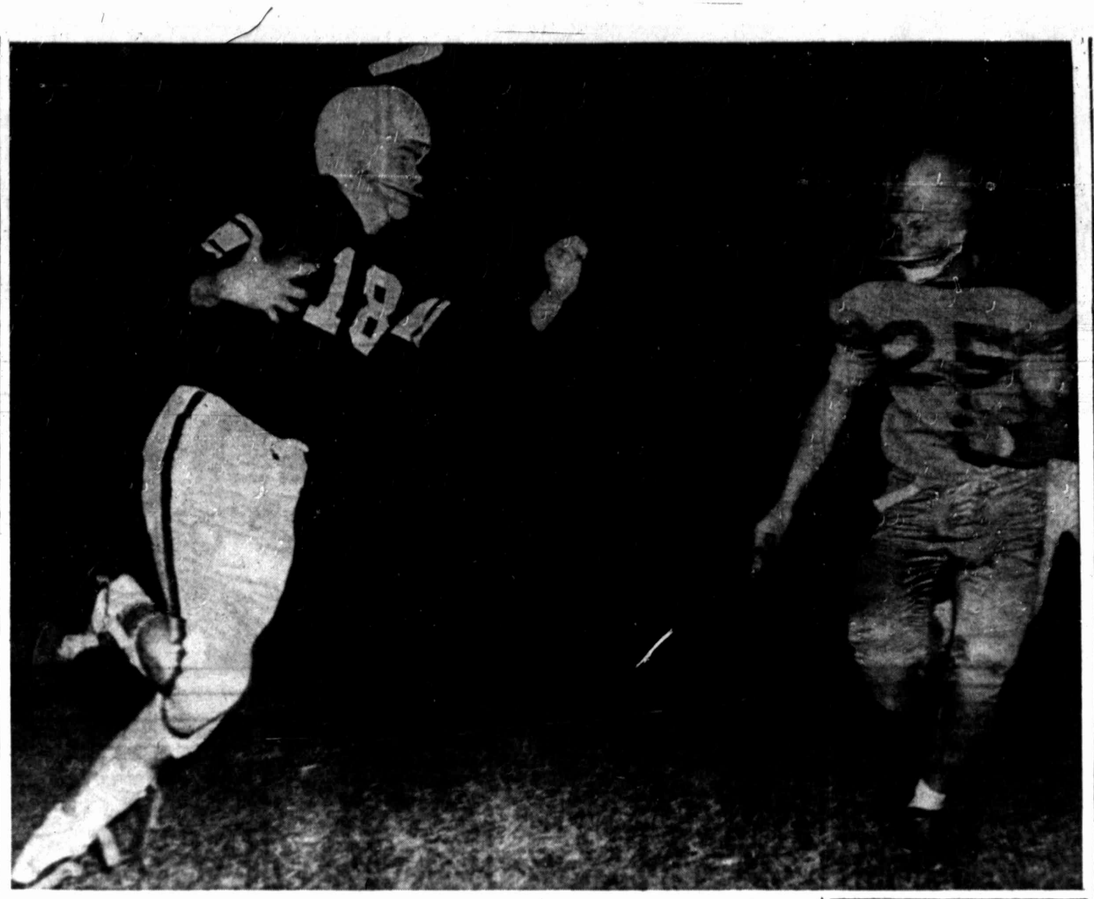

One thing for sure. The circuit won't be as tough as was Big Spring's loop last year, when they competed in District 1-AAA, which produced the state champion (Palo Duro) and probably had the state's second best team (Monterey), as well as a flock of good, rugged teams.

With boys like Larry Cooper and Jim Owens around, Midland will be double tough. Both lads are tall and are good shots.

Big Spring will have to do without one of the boys it named a co-captain last year, Jimmy Bice. Jimmy now resides in Los Angeles.

Bice would have been a regular on the football team this year, had he remained.

The Steers have the nucleus of a good cage outfit, however, in Jan Loudermilk, Jimmy Evans, Mike Musgrove, Donald Lovelady and others. They could be tough.

Texas Tech Raiders Face Rugged TCU This Week

LUBBOCK (SC) — Thirty years since Texas Christian University became the first Southwest Conference school to play Texas Tech the Horned Frogs meet the Red Raiders in Lubbock Saturday (Nov. 10) afternoon.

Now a member-elect of the Southwest Conference, Tech, then in its second year as a school, was undefeated when Coach E. Y. Freeland sent his Matadors against Matty Bell's Frogs at Fort Worth, Oct. 30, 1926. Although Tech scored first on fullback Volney Hill's 43-yard field goal and Percy Walker's 88-yard run and held a 10-7 halftime lead, the Horned Frogs won the game 28-16. Among the TCU stars were fullback Bernard Williams, who scored two touchdowns, and end Raymond Matthews, who caught a pass for another.

A tie-in with that game is provided by the presence of Buddy Hill, son of the late Tech fullback, on the Raider roster. Tech's leading passer, Buddy may be available for limited duty only because of an injured knee.

Including that inaugural in Fort Worth, the series now stands at eight wins for TCU and five for Tech. Even though the 13 meetings have been spread over 30 years, Tech has been matched with TCU three of the five times the Horned Frogs have won the Southwest Conference title.

TCU's 1944 champions beat Tech 14-0. The 1951 titlists were repulsed by the Raiders, 33-19, but the 1955 champs blasted Tech in the series' most lopsided game, 32-0.

Co-incidentally, Tech also fielded Border Conference championship teams in '51 and '55. They did not meet in 1932, when both schools won titles of their respective championships. In 1938 Tech did not play enough Border games to be considered for the title but did go to the Cotton Bowl as SWC-champion TCU accepted the Sugar Bowl bid.

Caughlin, Ramsey Team In Victory

The team of Bernie Caughlin and Marg Ramsey won first place in a scotch foursome held at the Big Spring Country Club Sunday.

In all, 28 players took part in the afternoon of competition, despite unfavorable weather conditions.

The Caughlin-Ramsey combination fashioned a 66, four strokes better than the second place twosome, Marvin Saunders and Mintie DeWees.

In third place, with a 73, were C. A. DeWees and Dot Duncan.

Four strokes back, with a 77, were Carl Marcum and Christene Caughlin.

Steers Get Midland 'Dogs In Sights This Weekend

Still determined to win a district ball game before they're through, the Big Spring Steers return to the drill field again this afternoon to launch preparations for their Friday night engagement here with the Midland Bulldogs.

That one winds up the home season for the Longhorns, who have broken even in four starts on local soil. The Big Springers close out against San Angelo in Angelo a week from Friday night.

In conference play so far, the Steers have yielded to Abilene, 42-6; and dropped a heart-breaker to Odessa, 13-0.

Midland will probably field the best passing team the Steers have faced all year. In Larry Cooper, the Bulldogs have one of the better passers in the state and in Jim Owens the Purple and White boast an outstanding receiver.

The Bulldogs, coached by Audrey Gill, also have the biggest team the Longhorns will have faced all season. That is something, in view of the fact that Kermit outweighed the Steers more than ten pounds to the man.

Chief running threat of the Bulldogs is Freddy Hedges, a 158-pounder.

Judging from comparative scores, the Steers have an excellent chance to topple the Bulldogs—if they can hold onto the ball. Fumbilitis has ruined whatever chances they had to win in their last three games.

Both Midland and Big Spring defeated Lamesa by a touchdown. Midland downed Sweetwater by a 34-7 score, shortly after Big Spring cleaned up on the same team, 28-7.

Midland had also trounced Arlington Heights of Fort Worth in what was a mild upset, 19-13; Pampa, 27-0; and Lubbock Monterey, 27-26.

Ratliff To Be Out Remainder Of Year

FORSAN (SC) — Coach Frank Honeycutt of the Forsan Buffaloes said this morning that Edell Ratliff will not be available to the Bison grid team for the remainder of the 1956 season.

Ratliff, one of the standouts on the six-man club, tore some ligaments loose in his neck sometime ago and has seen no service with the Buffs since that time.

Pat Brunton, star ball carrier of the Buffs, is having to wear a steel brace on his finger, which was pulled out of place in the game against Paint Creek two Saturdays ago.

Brunton will, no doubt, play when the Buffs host Garden City Friday night, however.

PHILLIPS OUT FOR SEASON

Ronnie Phillips, senior halfback of the Big Spring Steers, has been lost to the club for the remainder two games due to an injury he suffered in the Odessa game last week.

Phillips re-injured his toe in a scramble for a pass with Dick Stice, Odessa back. Up until that time, he had been showing signs of a full return to his oldtime form.

Jan Loudermilk, junior end, also injured in the Odessa game, will be available for the game Friday against Midland. He hurt his hand but an X-ray showed no broken bones.

Queen Pins Lead OWC Maple Play

The Queen Pins rolled 2297 to lead the other teams' three game series last week in the OWC Bowling League at Webb AFB.

High team single game goes to the Texas Rangers with 847. Jive Five of the Chicks League beat their own high of 2552 by rolling 2685, but Best Pin-ups still lead the others in team single game with 923.

In the individual category, Mrs. Robert Bishop's 508 is high series among the Chicks, while Mrs. Robert Leighty's 473 has not been topped.

Those high games remain—191 rolled by Mrs. Vincent Best, and the still existing tie of 177 between Mrs. James Gililland and Mrs. Gerald Taylor. A new name appears with high average—Mrs. Thomas McGreevy of the Chicks, with 152, while in the OWC League Mrs. Lawrence Boland stays with 136.

Football A Man's Game, Says Glick

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dick McCann, general manager of the Washington Redskins, tells this story:

Gary Glick, the back who was the No. 1 draft choice of the Baltimore Colts, was being interviewed on radio. The announcer asked Glick: "You have a couple of children of your own, Gary; would you advise them to go into pro football?"

Glick, silent a moment, replied: "Well, no, I don't think I would tell my little girl to."

Aggies And Ponies In SWC Headliner

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M, with another Southwest Conference notch shining in its pistol, looked toward another and somewhat unexpected opponent Monday, Southern Methodist.

A&M crushed what was billed as a much-improved Arkansas Saturday 27-0. Southern Methodist nipped Texas 20-19 to remain undefeated in conference play. Texas Christian slipped past Baylor 7-6 to keep its conference hopes alive and Rice slammed Utah 27-0 in an intersectional affair.

The Methodists have dropped two in non-conference play, but now have two straight loop victories. A&M has three. Baylor, with two losses, is eliminated. So are Texas and Arkansas with three each.

Rice, with one league loss, is still in the running with the Aggies. Even if the Aggies took the conference title, Rice, SMU or TCU might go to the Cotton Bowl because A&M is still under NCAA probation for alleged recruiting abuses.

Texas A&M showed brute ground power with Robby Osborne, John Crow and Jack Pardee slamming out the yardage. In the air, it was Osborne and Jim Wright.

Arkansas never got into the game. Three times the Razorbacks bit into Aggie territory, only to be stopped by a fumble and two pass interceptions.

Osborne was the top ground-gainer with 90 yards. He passed for one touchdown and scored one. Crow scored the other two.

Pardee played only the first half but pulverized the Arkansas line and played a mighty defensive game.

Harold Pollard kicked the extra point that gave TCU its victory. Chuck Curtis made the touchdown to even the game at 6-6 from the one-foot line.

A 32-yard pass and run play from Bobby Jones to Jerry Marcontell gave Baylor its touchdown.

Buddy Dike set up the TCU touchdown with a 31-yard run.

SMU rolled up a 20-0 halftime score, then almost lost it to a Texas team that wouldn't give up in the last half. Charlie Arnold and Larry Click passed the Mustangs' to their first half advantage.

But Longhorns Joe Clements and Walter Fondren ran the Ponies silly in the second half.

Buddy Dial made a couple of beautiful catches in taking touchdown passes from Rice quarterback King Hill. Dial received five passes for 113 yards.

Utah was never in the game as the mighty Rice line refused to let the Skyline Conference team inside its 26-yard line.

This Saturday A&M meets Southern Methodist at Dallas. If the Aggies can win that one, they will be the only Southwest Conference team with a perfect loop record.

Detroit Rolls On In Pro Grid Wars

By The Associated Press

The two divisions of the National Football League have settled down to two-team fights. The pacesetting Chicago Cards and New York Giants came through with victories Sunday in the Eastern Conference and the unbeaten Detroit Lions and the runner-up Chicago Bears triumphed over Far West foes in the Western Conference.

Warming up for their clash next Sunday at Yankee Stadium, the Cards downed the Philadelphia Eagles 28-17 and the Giants edged the Pittsburgh Steelers 17-14. The results left the winners with 5-1 records.

The Lions hung up their sixth straight victory with a 17-13 decision over San Francisco while the Bears, trailing by only one game with a 5-1 mark, turned back the Los Angeles Rams 35-24.

In the only other game scheduled the defending Cleveland Browns snapped a three-game losing streak with a 24-7 victory over Green Bay. Washington and Baltimore were not scheduled.

Lamar McHan threw four touchdown passes to three receivers in leading the Cardinals' attack. Two of the payoff aerials went to Gern Nagler and one each to Don Stonesifer and Dave Mann. The Eagles were unable to cross the goal line until Bobby Thomason took over from Adrian Burk in the final period. Then they drove 84 and 44 yards for touchdowns.

A 32-yard field goal by Ben Agajanian 16 seconds before the end of the first have proved to be the Giants' margin of victory. They capitalized on a fumble recovery and a pass interception to score their touchdowns — one by Alex Webster and the other by Kyle Rote on a pass from Chuck Conerly.

The Lions' one-two punch of rookie Hopalong Cassady and veteran Leon Hart, a pair of All Americas in their college days, powered the Western Conference leaders to victory. Detroit's scoring drives went 71 yards in the second quarter and 80 yards in the third with Hart scoring both touchdowns. Bobby Layne added two extra points and a 30-yard field goal.

The 49ers' scores came on a 90-yard kickoff return by Joe Arenas and field goals of 30 and 40 yards by Gordy Soltau.

Two pass interceptions played a big role in the Bears' triumph, their fifth straight since losing the season opener. It also was the Rams' fifth straight setback.

From 21-21 halftime deadlock, the Bears went ahead when Perry Jeter picked off one of Norm Van Brocklin's passes and ran 9 yards for a touchdown. In the final period J. C. Caroline snared another of Van Brocklin's aerials. Ed Brown promptly passed 23 yards to Rick Casares on the Rams' 7 and then Jeter scored again. A 76-yard punt runback by Bill Sherman accounted for one of the Rams' 3 touchdowns.

The Browns, who once used passing as their chief scoring threat, practically ignored the air as they ground out a victory over the Packers. Babe Parilli threw only three passes and completed two — one for a touchdown. The third was intercepted.

Catholic Loop Is Organized

Another sanctioned bowling league has commenced rolling on Webb AFB alleys, this one a mixed league. Entitled "The Holy Name Society Mixed League," teams are composed of husbands and wives, nurses, and the Deputy Wing Chaplain.

A Catholic group, this league established averages when rolling began October 21. Teams were then set up, and commenced team competition October 28.

Team names and captains are: Hot Shots, M. Sgt. Thomas McGreevy; Yankees, Capt. Lawrence Boland; Alley Burners, S. Sgt. Benjamin Paoni; Woodchoppers, Capt. James S. Murphy; Splits, S. Sgt. Robert Parent; Hit and Miss, Mrs. Harold Kain.

Officers of this new league are: President, M. Sgt. Thomas McGreevy; vice president, Mrs. Lawrence Boland; secretary, Mrs. Harold Kain treasurer, Chaplain William J. Ludlum; and sergeant-at-arms, Captain James S. Murphy.

On October 21, men's high three game series was rolled by Captain Lawrence Boland with 527, while M. Sgt. Thomas McGreevy posted high game of 201. Women's high three game series was earned by Mrs. Harold Kain, with 461, and her 162 game was high for the women. High league averages were earned by Captain Boland with 175 and Mrs. Kain with 153.

On October 28 the picture changed. Captain Boland still has high three game series, but now a 572, while Chaplain Ludlum holds high game of 202. Captain Boland has high average of 183. For the women—Mrs. Boland topped all the gals when she rolled a 490 series and a 180 game, and earned high average of 150.

Dodgers Lose To Japanese

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — The Japan All-Stars jumped on Clem Labine for a run in the last of the ninth inning Sunday to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers 3-2. The setback was Brooklyn's third in 13 games on its Japan tour.

Duke Snider's towering 480-foot home run in the top of the ninth tied the score. But the All-Stars quickly loaded the bases in their half on a double, single and base on balls. Then Tetsuji Kawakami of the Yomiuri Giants drove in the winning run with a single to right field.

A crowd of 40,000 went wild in Nishinomiya Stadium as the deciding tally crossed the plate.

The Dodgers, who now have a 9-3-1 record in Japan, were held to five hits by three pitchers, who also racked up 12 strikeouts. Jim Gentile fanned four times.

Players On Pro Tour Find It Rough, Says Ed Furgol

By DAVE DILES

DETROIT (AP)—Ed Furgol, one of the nation's leading money winners among the golf professionals, was kicking around the question of golfers and their earnings.

Strangely, it's not a touchy subject at all with the former National Open titlist.

"A lot of people think that because a guy is a golf pro, he's rolling in money," says Furgol. "It's not that way at all. A lot of guys—most of them, in fact—have a rough go of it trying to make expenses."

Furgol says a pro has to make $10,000 annually to break even. He says "there are a million and one expenses that the average golf fan doesn't stop to think about. . . things like clothes (a guy has to look right, you know), travel expenses, cleaning, caddy fees, entry fees, living expenses and so on.

"At the minimum, and only if a golfer goes second-class, it takes $10,000 a year for the guy who makes all the tournaments. It costs from $250 to $300 for every tourney he enters. And don't forget, there are just so many winners, and there's not enough big money to go around."

Furgol believes people would "be surprised at the number of young pros who try the circuit for a while, maybe a year or so, then give it up mainly because of financial problems."

For a guy who "got into a lot of tournaments with little more than a prayer and a few bucks in my pocket" Furgol estimates there are 12 to 15 pros who make "real good" livings at it.

Most of the club jobs aren't too lucrative, either, he claims.

Questions, Answers On Tuesday Election

Chances are you know by now who you want to vote for in Tuesday's general election, but you also may be among the voters who aren't sure just how to go about it.

Each year, a number of questions are asked about the mechanics of voting. Here are some of the common queries and their answers:

QUESTION 1: Who is qualified to vote Tuesday?

ANSWER: By signing an affidavit that you have paid your poll tax or secure your exemption certificate. The affidavits will be available at all voting places.

QUESTION 3: Since securing my poll tax receipt, I have moved from one voting precinct to another within the same county. May I vote and, if so, where?

ANSWER: You may vote—in the precinct in which you resided at the time you paid your poll tax, not in your new precinct.

ANSWER: By scratching out all the names of candidates in each race except the one you favor, or by designating your favorite by placing an X in the square preceding his name. In voting on the eight amendments on Tuesday's ballot, you make out one statement so that the one remaining expresses your desires.

QUESTION 6: Am I required to sign my ballot.

ANSWER: Yes. A stub in the upper right corner of the ballot is used for that purpose. After signing on the back, tear off the stub and put it in a box which will be available. for that purpose. Your ballot goes in another box.

ANSWER: Run a pencil line through all other tickets except the one you wish to vote for.

ANSWER: Mark out the names of candidates you wish to vote against, leaving names of ones you wish to vote for unscratched.

QUESTION 9: I want to vote a write-in ticket. How shall I mark my ballot?

ANSWER: Mark through the names of all candidates listed for the office and then write in the name of the person you desire to vote for. A space for write-ins is provided on the ballot.

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (AP)—Eighty-eight miners, all but given up for dead two days ago, survived Thursday's explosion in the No. 4 Cumberland colliery, the Dominion Coal Co. announced today. Thirty-seven other men died.

Shortly after the 88th man emerged from the mine early today, a police official at the pithead said there were no more survivors. The company later confirmed this and issued a new list of dead showing there were 24 bodies still in the mine.

The list showed that 112 men had been trapped when a blast late last Thursday afternoon blocked passages and sent poisonous fumes through the mine.

In addition to the 24 dead reported today, 13 others had previously been listed as victims. They included five other miners, six surface workers and two men who succumbed while engaged in rescue work.

Texas Dems, GOP Step Up Campaign

By The Associated Press

Texas Democrats and Republicans, both predicting victory, stepped up their campaigns Monday in an effort to swing the state.

Republicans seek to repeat their 1952 victory for President Eisenhower. Their opponents back Adlai Stevenson in an effort to return Texas to its traditional Democratic fold.

Republicans have a partial slate of candidates for state and congressional posts, including Texas' lone GOP representative, Bruce Alger of Dallas. Alger faces a stiff fight from Henry Wade, Dallas County district attorney.

More than two million votes are expected in the state Tuesday. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. in counties of more than 100,000 population and from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. in other counties.

Warren Woodward, executive campaign director for the Democrats, said his party's slate would win by 150,000 votes.

The state GOP campaign manager, Paul Ledrick, said a statewide county-by-county check showed Eisenhower would carry Texas again.

Gov. Shivers continued his swing of Texas in behalf of Eisenhower. Three former governors —William P. Hobby, Dan Moody and Coke Stevenson—spoke over 50 Texas radio stations Monday in behalf of the Republican ticket. Former Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, running for governor as an independent, was expected to plug for Eisenhower in a Monday night television program.

Shivers, who will speak at Tyler Monday night and close his talks with an address over 14 state television stations from Houston at 9:30 p.m., said at Corpus Christi and Harlingen that Stevenson was politically unstable.

He said Estes Kefauver is an ultra-liberal one-worlder who Shivers said would place the interests of the United States second to a world organization.

Shivers said Walter Reuther nominated Stevenson and Kefauver "almost single-handedly" and he called Reuther "one of the most dangerous men in America under our form of government." Reuther is a vice president of the CIO-AFL.

Woodward said his prediction of a Democratic victory was based on "a final check of voting sentiment by senatorial districts."

"There continues to be a strong Democratic trend in the cities and metropolitan counties which has not been anticipated earlier in the campaign," he said.

Democratic committeeman Byron Skelton called on Shivers to apologize for what he said was "deliberately misleading" Texans on the H-bomb issue.

Hugh Prather Jr., regional chairman of Texas Democrats for Eisenhower, said a canvass of 30 of 33 counties in his region indicated Eisenhower would carry North Texas by 5 per cent. He said the President was expected to get 65 per cent of the Dallas County vote and at least 55 per cent in Tarrant County. He said Wichita County probably will go for Eisenhower.

Light Is Sent Out From True Stars

By RAMON COFFMAN

From time to time readers ask me to help them settle arguments. Today I have a letter from a young reader, Mary Lee Green, and it reads, in part, as follows:

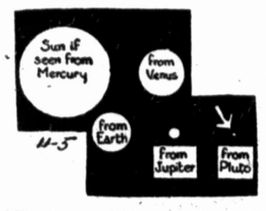

"Some girls and I were having an argument over the stars. They said that the stars are all suns. But I said they were wrong. I said the stars are stars and planets. They said I am wrong. Please tell me which is right, and explain the facts."

What would you think, Mary Lee, if I replied that all of you are right?

In the first place, there is a popular use of the word "star," making it apply either to a star or to a planet. People speak (in a loose way) about Jupiter, Venus and Mars being "morning stars" or "evening stars." Really they are talking about planets, but the old custom exists.

A true star is an object which gives its own light. There are millions of true stars in the sky, and they can be seen, photographed and counted with the help of telescopes. Even without a telescope, a person can see thousands of stars on a clear night.

If we could go to one of the "near stars," —say Proxima Centauri or Alpha Centauri — we might look toward our solar system. Then only one object, the sun, would be bright enough to see, and it would look like one of the thousands of stars in the sky.

How sun would seem to be smaller when viewed from outer parts of solar system.

In that sense, our sun is a star. To us it is the most important object in the sky, but there are true stars, or faraway suns, which are much larger than the sun in our solar system.

A true star gives its own light. Planets, on the other hand, are "dead worlds" in the sense that they have burned out.

If the true stars are distant suns, we might expect planets to go around them. Perhaps that does happen in many cases, but our present telescopes are without the power to give us a clear view of the millions of planets which may exist in the universe.

Yugoslavs Shocked By 'West's Error'

Editor's Note—William L. Ryan, Associated Press foreign news analyst, is starting a swing through Eastern Europe. Here is his first dispatch.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A feeling of profound shock pervades this part of the world at the events in the Middle East.

The feeling among diplomatic circles in Tito's capital is that Britain and France have handed the Soviet Union a gift of incalculable value.

The events in the Mideast so overshadow the developments in Poland and Hungary that world opinion has been effectively diverted and the Russians, in the opinion of many here, will have time and opportunity to wriggle off an uncomfortable hook.

Some go so far as to speculate that British and French action in the Middle East may have the effect eventually of defeating the whole revolution in Hungary and whatever chances it had of spreading elsewhere throughout the satellite world.

For a brief period of a week during which Soviet troops, tanks and heavy weapons moved against popular revolution inside Hungary the Western world could with justice point to the Soviet Union as a nakedly colonial regime.

The Soviet Union can now return the compliment to Britain and France and may drag in the United States as well, no matter what the American position in the U.N.

Already there have been pointed references in the Eastern European and Moscow press to the fact the United States in advance of the Israeli move against Egypt ordered its citizens home from the area.

The implication is therefore being drawn in Eastern Europe that the United States must have been aware in advance of things to come.

As soon as the Israel attack was launched the immediate speculation in Belgrade was that this was a maneuver to present Britain an opportunity to move back into the canal zone under an agreement permitting return of British forces if the Suez Canal was threatened by argression.

From President Tito down, Yugoslavs have condemned the British and French as guilty of outright aggression against Egypt and have made it plain they consider the British and French moves transparent colonialism.

Middle East action erupted just when the Kremlin was in the throes of an ideological crisis which threatened to split its collective leadership. Moscow all but openly admitted it was willing to accept Titoism as fact, in Hungary and Poland at least.

There is little doubt here that the British - French action in the Middle East has pushed the Arab world much closer to the Soviet Union.

In the end, while the British and French might succeed temporarily in occupying the Suez Canal zone, events of the past few days may prove to be the beginning of the end of all Western influence in the strategic Middle East, whose oil is the life blood for Western Europe.

Gary Heads Dawson FB

LAMESA, Nov. 5 — Directors of the Dawson County Farm Bureau elected Ralph Gary as the new president of the organization.

Gary succeeds Fred T. Raney, who has headed the Farm Bureau for the past four years. Other officers elected were Bill Snellgrove, first vice president; Purivs Vandivere, second vice president; and Herbert Green, secretary.

The directors voted to cooperate with the other county farm bureau organizations in District 6 in chartering a bus to the state convention at Houston. The bus will leave on Nov. 10. It will carry directors, their wives, and the district sweetheart, Miss Doty Echols, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Echols.

Raney will leave Tuesday to attend the meeting of the resolutions committee, of which he is a member.
