Sealed Verdict Holds Fate Of Former Wichita Dry Agent In Bribery Trial

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

The Wichita Falls Little Theater will give a performance at the Municipal auditorium on the night of April 22. A few nights later the Little Theater will take part in a statewide competition at Fort Worth. The performance here is being put on to raise money to defray the expenses of taking the cast to Fort Worth. The remainder of the proceeds are to be divided equally between the family relief association and the Salvation Army. The Little Theater requires about $400.

The Little Theater performance will be staged with a minimum of cost. It makes its arrangements public. The price of admission will be low. It is the kind of a performance which Talker would classify as "well and good."

The Graham Little Theater selects its first play to be presented the latter part of April. As said before these Little Theater plays offer fine training for its members who are in the cast and afford delightful entertainment to those who come to see the performances. Graham has a fine municipal auditorium and the Little Theater can put it to splendid use.

The tariff bill has now reached the conference stage after many months in each house separately. After some weeks in conference the two houses may finally come to some agreement. The ordinary citizen has long since lost hope that any tariff bill be adopted that will bring him any benefits, and his only interest in it is to learn how much it is going to take away from him.

It is the duty of the Wichita Falls school board to expend more than half a million dollars annually to obtain the best results in the education of the youth of Wichita Falls. It employs approximately 330 teachers who instruct some thousands of our children. Being a school trustee in Wichita Falls or anywhere else is a job of importance. The selection of these trustees is a matter that many folks treat as of such little importance that they do not even vote.

Veterans of the civil, Spanish-American and world wars will be honor guests of the Kay Bible class next Sunday morning. This Bible class would exalt the Prince of Peace. These veterans have made the sacrifices of war and none value peace more than those who have fought in wars. What honor can be given them is as little as any of us can give.

From time to time this newspaper is offering through the Haskins service of Washington booklets on timely topics. These booklets, which are compiled from authoritative sources, are furnished readers of The Record News at the cost of production and distribution. Just now one on "The Care of the Car" is being offered for six cents in coin or stamps sent to The Record News bureau in Washington. This bureau exists for the benefit of newspaper readers. You are invited to make use of it.

The Wichita Falls Rotary club votes approval of the Boys club that has been conducted in the city hall annex for several months and if funds can be found among its membership, will continue the sponsorship of the club on a tentative budget of $2,600 per year.

The Boys club is furnishing training, recreation and social contacts for boys who probably have little other opportunity for such advantages. It seems to be filling a real need. It is no small work to supply the funds, even under the lowest budget possible, and to supervise the operation of such a club. It is a large order for even such a strong organization as the Rotary club. Talker likes the decision of the Rotary club to undertake this work on its own responsibility and with at least the major part of the funds provided by its own members.

When a decrease is shown in any of the city's record, official, business or otherwise Talker often passes the fact without notice. But here's a decrease that he would give whatever prominence his comment can give it: In the fiscal year ending March 31, the city collected $9,000 less in fines than in the preceding 12 months. Fines collected aggregated $23,042 as compared with $32,264 for the preceding year. This record would seem to show fewer violations of law.

Negroes of the city are joining in the observance of "Better Negro Health Week." Because of ignorance and lack of funds to pay for medical treatment disease is more common, causes more suffering and exacts a greater toll of life among negroes than among whites living in the same community. The aim of Negro Health Week is to make negroes more health conscious and to teach them some of the fundamentals of disease prevention.

Here in Wichita Falls the negroes have always been found responsive to campaigns for the improvement of the community. They are reported to be very much interested in this campaign for their own improvement.

W. R. LOGSDON TO HEAR WISH OF JURY TODAY

Judge to Open Finding in 'Pay-Off' Case Early This Morning

ALLEGATION DENIED

Accused Officer Declares He Tried Only to Get Information

FORT WORTH, April 3. (AP)—A sealed verdict was returned by a jury today in the case against W. R. Logsdon, former prohibition officer charged with accepting a bribe. Judge James C. Wilson will open the verdict at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

Logsdon was indicted in 1928 on a charge of having accepted a $500 bribe from Mrs. Rickie Ketchum, of Wichita Falls, to influence his handling of prohibition cases against Mrs. Ketchum and to aid her in several charges of prohibition law violations which had been lodged against her at that time.

Denies Charges

A blanket denial to all of the charges was made by Logsdon yesterday, when he declared that his only conversations with Mrs. Ketchum had been along the line of using her as a government agent in prohibition enforcement work.

On cross-examination, Logsdon declared that he knew nothing of any prohibition cases pending against Mrs. Ketchum at the time of his conversations with her, and had reported all of his conversations to the office of the prohibition administrator here.

Elijah Crippen, assistant federal district attorney at Dallas, had previously testified that Logsdon had asked him to dismiss a case against Mrs. Ketchum in order that she might be used as a government informer.

Checks Reproduced

Two motions for an instructed verdict were made by defense attorneys, but both were overrruled by Judge Wilson.

The government charged, in presenting its case, that $500 was given to Logsdon by Mrs. Ketchum, $150 of which was in cash and $350 in travelers checks. Photostatic copies of travelers checks were introduced as evidence, by the government, and Mrs. Ketchum later

Five of the indictments charged embezzlement and two false entries.

Gasoline Price Drops To 10 Cents on Coast

LOS ANGELES, April 3. (US)—With every available container filled with 10-cent gas, Los Angeles motorists were anticipating even lower prices as indications today pointed to the renewal of "cut price" warfare between the big and little oil companies.

Babe Ruth, mighty king of swat, not only furnished a couple of home runs for fans Thursday, but cavorted around the lot long before game time, autographing baseballs, shaking hands and proving himself deserving of the reputation of being America's most popular sports figure. The Record News Cameraman stopped activities long enough to get his picture with J. Alvin Gardner (left), president of the Texas league, and Wm. E. Huff (right), president of the Wichita Falls club, who officially welcomed the bambino to Wichita Falls.

SHOALS BILL DUE TO PASS

Liberal Forces Hold Sway During Debate

WASHINGTON, April 3. (US)—The senate today sped the Norris Muscle Shoals bill to the verge of passage in a form intended to give President Hoover "no peg upon which to hang a veto message."

Liberal forces led by Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, who voiced this strategy openly several times during debate, were in full command throughout.

All but one of the amendments opposed by Norris as a possible ground for a presidential veto, or for any other reason, were voted down in rapid fire order. There was no need for record votes.

With all amendments disposed of, and only two or three more senators expected to speak, the bill is virtually assured of passage tomorrow.

Probe of Diplomat's Death Proves Futile

WASHINGTON, April 3. (UP)—The investigation into the death of Basil Miles, diplomat and economist who died here in 1928, has "developed nothing," an official of the district attorney's office said late today. He added that the case would be closed as soon as the justice department investigators make their report.

Largest Crowd Since Dixie Series Watches Spuds Beat Yanks, 9-6

Mighty Babe Ruth Poles Out Two Homers for Edification of Tremendous Baseball Gathering

By FRED D. THOMPSON
The Record News Staff

The Wichita Falls Spudders played great baseball Thursday afternoon before the largest crowd the orchard has accommodated since the Dixie series play-off here in 1927, and the sum total of their efforts was a 9 to 6 decision over Bob Shawkey's New York Yankees.

"Babe" Ruth was, of course, the principal attraction that Shawkey had to offer. The baseball fates were kind to thousands of Northwest Texans and Southwest Oklahomans who had come to see the slugging bambino perform, and it was granted them to see Babe clout two mighty home runs. The first came on Ruth's first trip to the plate, and the crowd went wild.

3,635 See Game

Guy Airey, secretary of the Spudder baseball club, Thursday night announced the official attendance at the game to be 3,635, a little over 3,000 short of besting the record of approximately 12,000 set in the Dixie series play-off here three years ago.

The Spudder victory over the American league nine came as the result of superb pitching by Lester White and Ash Hillin, who held the big timers to eight hits while Prexy Huff's boys collected 11 bingles off Sherid and McEvoy. The Spudder defense worked with precision, and two fast double plays executed by Levey, Storti and Burns helped to offset the three errors chalked up against the nine.

Babe Popular Here

The game got started after the Yankee powers had succeded in rescuing the Babe from the throngs of autograph hunters who flocked to the lot armed with anything including postcards and baseballs, that would receive and hold ink. Babe, the courteous one, welcomed one and all.

This thrill satisfied, the crowd waited patiently for the next. It came quickly. The Babe started the scoring for the Yanks in the first

DINNER RESERVATIONS ASKED BY NOON

Wichita Falls baseball fans are urged to make their reservations for the banquet honoring J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league, by noon Friday in order that the Wichita club may have time to prepare to properly handle the crowd.

This request was made Thursday night by J. S. Bridwell, president of the chamber of commerce, which is sponsoring the banquet honoring Mr. Gardner, former owner of the Wichita Falls club and recently elected the Texas league head.

The banquet will be held at the Wichita club and will start promptly at 7 o'clock, Mr. Bridwell said. Wichitans were asked to make their reservations at the chamber of commerce, 4131.

RASKOB FACES INQUIRY TODAY

Donations to Wet Forces to Be Aired

WASHINGTON, April 3. (US)—The long-awaited lobby probe of "dry" and anti-prohibition organizations will get under way tomorrow with Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee as the first witness.

Raskob has contributed a total of $64,500 to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment during the past three years, according to reports of that organization filed with the house of representatives.

His contributions included $17,000 in 1928, $30,000 in 1929, and $17,500 thus far this year.

Raskob will be questioned by Senator Arthur Robinson, of Indiana, "old guard" Republican of Indiana, who demanded his appearance before the committee.

Robinson intimated he may also

JIM FERGUSON THINKS MOODY WILL NOT RUN

Former Governor Selects Jim Young as Rival In Run-Off

FINANCES ARE ISSUE

Prison Reform and Liquor Question Being 'Forced Upon People'

DALLAS, April 3. (UP)—While Texas gubernatorial candidates are attempting to force prohibition and prison reform down the throats of the people, voters are asking "Where do we go from here?" James Ferguson, twice governor of the Lone Star state only to be ousted his second term, told the United Press in an exclusive interview today.

"The real issue of this campaign is finances," Ferguson, again a candidate for the Democratic nomination, said. "Texas farmers want to know where they can get money to buy food and clothes."

Seeks Rural Vote

"Farmer Jim," 58 years old, has asked the "dirt farmers" of Texas to elect him a third time. Twice before the rural vote put him in the governor's mansion at Austin and once made his wife, Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, the first woman state executive in the country.

Ferguson picked James Young, of Kaufman, as his opponent in the primary run-off election and called Tom Love, barred from the Democratic party because he supported Herbert Hoover in 1928, a "willing martyr." He said Gov. Dan Moody would not run for a third term.

"The present administration and the moneyed men of Texas will support Young," Ferguson said. "But a majority of the people still believe I am best qualified for the governor's chair. They have forgotten the trouble I had at Austin."

Love as "Martyr"

"Tom Love wants to be a martyr and hopes the supreme court will refuse his plea to force the Democratic state executive committee to put him on the ballot. Love, not content with being forgiven for his past political sins in the Democratic party, refuses to promise adherence in the future. Of all the political hijackers this country ever had, Tom is the boldest. He wants

Boy Names Cousin As Kidnaper of Sister

DETROIT, April 3. (AP)—Joseph Suboch, 9 years old, upon whose story police were depending for clues to the abductor of his 6-year-old sister, Mary, told Chief Carl A. Brooks of the Dearborn police department today that the child was taken away by a cousin.

The cousin, the boy said, spent two days at the Suboch home three weeks ago. This was verified by an older brother of the child. The name of the cousin was temporarily withheld. Police learned he had disappeared from his own rooms about the time the child was taken away.

Rangers Open Search For Alleged Bandit

DALLAS, April 3. (UP)—Texas rangers have launched a state-wide search for Yancy Story, Denton county rancher who several years ago became the leader of a gang of bank robbers who conducted a reign of terror throughout North Texas, it was learned today.

A dozen charges of robbery with firearms and assault to murder still are pending against Yancy, Ranger Captain Tom Hickman said. He is at liberty under bonds totalling more than $25,000.

Senate Will Consider Employment Bill Today

WASHINGTON, April 3. (US)—By unanimous consent, the senate today agreed to take up two Wagner unemployment bills on April 15.

One bill authorizes the appropriation of $154,000,000 to be available for public construction in time of business depression while the other provides for a federal unemployment survey.

Hawks At E. St. Louis For Night

Transcontinental Glider Flight to Reach Columbus

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., April 3. (UP)—Having left the halfway mark of his transcontinental glider trip behind, Capt. Frank Hawks landed at 6:10 p. m., tonight completing his day's journey from Tulsa.

About 3,000 persons cheered the flier when he cut loose at 5:50 p. m., above the airport and sailed about for 20 minutes before landing. He was delayed by fog in the take-off this morning and said fog was encountered twice during the trip. A stop was made at Springfield, Mo., for gasoline.

Captain Hawks planned to leave at 6 a. m., tomorrow for Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Columbus, where he hopes to spend the night.

TULSANS DIE IN LEAP TO EARTH

Two Men Desert Flaming Plane in Air

TULSA, Okla., April 3. (AP)—Two men leaped to their deaths from a burning plane from an altitude of 3,000 feet north of the Collier airport, east of here, late today, according to C. J. Lucas, representative of the H. F. Wilcox Aeronautics, Inc. Those killed were Louie Crippen, Tulsa, service foreman at the field, and Joe Bryant, Claremore, a visiting flier.

The men, in a new plane completed recently by the Wilcox company, wore no parachutes.

The men, according to Lucas, had they remained with the plane probably would have been saved, as the plane made an almost perfect landing, suffering little damage, and then was burned on the ground.

Lindbergh Approves New Ship Propeller

LOS ANGELES, April 3. (US)—Very much interested in the possibilities of the variable pitch propeller, installed on a biplane here, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will probably make some more air experiments tomorrow with the new aviation wrinkle.

Following Lindbergh's 30-minute flight in the ship yesterday, some slight changes were thought advisable, and mechanics were busy today adjusting the propeller.

"It is a sincere and valuable contribution to aviation," Lindbergh said after he had tried out the propeller, which, by change of pitch, can be used to control and steady the braking action.

Amarillo Suspect Held On Kidnaping Charge

AMARILLO, Texas, April 3. (UP)—Federal authorities were undecided tonight regarding disposition of the case of Kyle Brumley, arrested in Tucumcari, N. M., on a charge of kidnaping a 16-year-old Amarillo high school girl.

It was charged that Brumley and a companion lured the girl away from the school grounds here and forced her to accompany them to Tucumcari after drugging her. The case may be tried there.

NEW YORK, April 3. (US)—Midtown Broadway, from Twenty-ninth to Thirty-first streets, became a scene of wreckage and panic today when a score of manhole covers were hurled into the air by a series of violent gas main explosions.

Six men were injured. More than 5,000 persons were forced to evacuate hotels, restaurants, office buildings and stores in the neighborhood.

THREE BULLETS END LIFE OF EUNICE MOORE

Husband of Slain Woman Turns Gun on Self, But Lives

COUPLE SEPARATED

John W. Moore Near Death In Hospital After Shooting Wife

Mrs. Eunice A. Moore was instantly killed and John W. Moore, her husband, was probably fatally wounded when he turned his gun on himself after firing three shots into the body of his wife following a quarrel between the two on Seventh street near the railroad tracks about 8:30 o'clock Thursday night.

Two shots entered the woman's back and a third penetrated the heart region, according to onlookers, who scattered for safety when they saw Moore snatch the gun, a small caliber pistol, from his pocket. Opinions differed as to the number of shots fired.

Immediately after firing the third shot, it was reported, Moore placed the gun at his head and fired, the bullet entering the skull just above the right ear and emerging on the other side.

Husband Dying

Ambulances from the Hines mortuary and the Merkle Undertaking company were called but the woman was dead before they arrived. The man was bleeding profusely from the head. He was taken to the Wichita General hospital where physicians stated he had no chance for recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore were said to have been living on Lee street. He is the son of Bob Moore, Wichita Falls furniture dealer. The couple had been estranged for the past several months, police said, and divorce proceedings were pending at the time of the shooting. A clipping from The Record News, found in Moore's pocket, showed a record of the suit for divorce when it was filed with the district clerk here last month. Moore is a driller.

Onlookers stated the quarrel began while Mr. and Mrs. Moore were at the Holt hotel at the corner of Eighth street and Ohio avenue. They started down Ohio avenue, Mrs. Moore apparently reluctant to accompany her husband. He picked her up and almost carried her a portion of the way, it was said. Near the alley on Seventh street he reached in his back pocket and grasped what onlookers took to be the gun. Mrs. Moore at that moment rushed toward him, it was reported, and threw her arms about his waist, holding his arms to his body.

Woman "Afraid"

A moment later they proceeded toward the tracks, still in heated argument. They had reached the door of the Pullman hotel when she stopped. The following words

WIFE SHOOTS RIVAL

DALLAS, April 3. (AP)—Shot once in the abdomen by another woman, as she alighted from an automobile in front of her home tonight, Miss Bernice Burger, 18, was in a critical condition in a hospital. She said she had ridden to her home with a man.

The woman, after shooting Miss Burger, turned her weapon toward the automobile and the man drove away quickly.

About an hour after the shooting a woman went to the office of Sheriff Hal Hood and surrendered. She told Deputy Sheriff Pat Richards she was acting in defense of her home and said her husband recently had left her for another woman.

Hambone's Meditations

Six Rapid Blasts in Fireworks Plant Claim Lives of Ten Persons

DEVON, Pa., April 3. (UP)—This peace-loving little Italian community lay stunned tonight—shocked into a state of utter bewilderment by the sudden disaster which overtook it this morning when one of the town's principal industries literally was blown off the face of the earth.

A deafening blast in one of the central buildings of the Pennsylvania Fireworks Display company factory, followed by five lesser detonations, took the lives of 10 persons, sent 13 to nearby hospitals and threw the countryside into an uproar for five miles in every direction.

Windows were shattered as far away as Philadelphia. Telegraph poles and trees were uprooted and littered over the streets. Roofs were ripped from houses of Devon as though a giant scythe had flashed across the town. The fireworks factory was levelled to the earth. Scarcely a vestige remained tonight to mark the spot where a hundred or more men and women were employed this morning.

Nine persons, including two women, were killed outright by the explosions. Of these, only two have been definitely identified. The others were blown to bits. A check of the list of employes at the factory will be necessary to determine the names of the other dead.

Fourteen persons were injured so seriously they were taken to a hospital at Bryn Mawr, four miles away. Of these one died a few hours later.

Foul Play Theory Dropped After Charges Are Filed in Houston Deaths

HOUSTON, April 3. (AP)—Apparent abandonment by investigating officers of the foul play theory and the agreement of District Attorney O'Brien Stevens to permit R. H. Mahley, Nick Gress and W. D. Cunningham, charged separately with three cases of murder each, their liberty under $1,000 bonds marked the investigation today into the mysterious drowning of three men Monday night.

The apparent exoneration of the three, charged with responsibility for the death of Albert Miller, 25; Joe Scott, 32 and Peter McGee, 49, negro, followed by eight hours the filing of complaints against them.

The charges resulted from a conversation between two girls in the presence of Mounted Officer H. Serres. After hearing the conversation, the officer took them to police headquarters where they made statements.

The women were Avis Larry, 18, and Mrs. Amie Proctor, 19, who lived near the scene of the drowning, which occurred in the San Jacinto river.

The three victims and the three men charged went out on the river in a motor boat. Miller, Scott and McGee were lost, their companions said, when the boat filled with water and sank.

Authorities first thought they saw a possible jealousy motive in Mrs. Proctor's statement:

"Albert miller told me that Nick Gress was jealous of Albert and myself going together."

Miss Larry quoted Cunningham as having said, in discussing the man Claudius H. Huston for the American Cyanamid company in its fight to grab the $100,000,000 shoals plant, Norris declared:

"It seems to me the lobby investigation has created an honest atmosphere so that no man, be he president or a common citizen, could oppose this measure. I do not want an unfriendly executive to have a peg upon which to hang a veto message. I feel sure nobody how gives serious consideration to the Cyanamid company bid. They have been blown out of the water.

"We all realize that the president is probably not in sympathy with some things we have put into this bill."

The power trust's 10-year fight against sale by the government of power from the shoals plant was denounced by Norris and Senator Black, Democrat, of Alabama.

"The power trust stands in the way of progress and prosperity and the happiness of millions of homes today," Norris declared. "Power companies feed the 'water' into their stock as they feed the water over dams.

"Muscle Shoals will be a demonstration that we can develop power here as cheaply as any place on earth."

"The power companies have perpetrated rank robbery on the people," said Black. "Huge dividends have been paid that are a disgrace to the country. Stock in one company, bought in 1912 for $6,500, was in 1929 worth $960,000, in addition to the large cash dividends paid.

"All over the country people have been paying exorbitant rates."

The single amendment adopted which Norris opposed—solely on the ground of a possible veto—would make the contracts for sale of power by the governmental operating corporation to municipalities run for 30 years instead of 15 years. It was sponsored by Black.

Others adopted would prohibit discrimination by the municipalities as between power consumers of the same class and permit cancellation of contracts for sale of power to power companies if municipalities want this power.

Opponents of the Norris bill had little to say, realizing the Norris forces have the votes to pass it. Much more opposition is expected in the house, with the outlook for its passage uncertain.

to be dealt a hand in this game of politics and intends to keep the gains if he wins but will refuse to pay off if he loses," Ferguson said.

Moody Criticised

"Farmer Jim" criticised Governor Moody's plan for prison reform. He said the governor had not exercised his pardon power properly to give deserving prisoners the incentive to reform and that the prison system, especially the prison farms, had not been run on a business basis.

Ferguson will not "stump" the state as he did in 1914 when he traveled 13,000 miles, filled 189 speaking dates and visited all but 75 of Texas' 252 counties.

"I am an old man and must conserve my strength to perform the position to which I shall be elected," he said.

CONSCIENCE RULES LOVE'S SUPPORT

AUSTIN, April 3. (UP)—State Senator Tom Love, appealing to the supreme court from the state Democratic executive committee's decision to bar him from the primaries because he supported President Hoover in 1928, will support Democratic nominees "to the utmost limits of conscience and good faith" a brief filed with the court in his behalf said today.

Love had said that he would not support James Ferguson if he should be nominated in the Democratic party.

drownings: "Well, if there are any bruises on them (the bodies) they'll get us," and this likewise interested the district attorney's office.

But for the fact that charges concerning capital offenses ordinarily are left for the grand jury, the complaints probably would be dismissed immediately. As the situation stands, the district attorney probably will recommend no-bills.

Police Battle With Bootlegging Gang

KANSAS CITY, April 3. (UP)—A near-riot occurred here late today when prohibition agents, raiding a building said to belong to Sam Arnone, alleged bootlegger, clashed with Arnone and his friends.

Arnone refused to take his hands out of his pockets, W. Harold Lane, federal prohibition director said, and instead fired at the agent who had spoken to him. The agent was uninjured and clashed with Arnone.

Police riot cars were called when Arnone's friends stormed the building. Arnone was held at police headquarters on an investigation charge.

CLERKS MEET AT GRAHAM

Committees Appointed in Opening Session

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, April 3.—Appointment of the major convention committees marked the first business session of the North Texas auxiliary to the state association of county and district clerks when representatives of more than a dozen counties assembled for the two day meeting here Thursday morning.

An open discussion of the new fee bill is among the most significant parts of the program announced for Friday when the auxiliary is expected to voice an official stand on the question.

The nominating committee, appointed by Chester Hollis, of Fort Worth, president of the association, included Arch Woods, San Saba, C. B. Whatley, Palo Pinto, and Miss Georgia Singletary, Ballinger, Arch Wood, R. E. Neeley, Fort Worth, and Miss Ima McKown of Runnels county, are members of the resolutions committee. Members of the legislative committee are C. H. Wynn, Henrietta, Miss Wood, Breckenridge, Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger, Wichita Falls, and Hart McCormick, San Antonio.

The convention opened Thursday morning with an invocation from Houston Crump, Graham. The delegates were welcomed in an address from Mayor A. B. Eddleman. L. Emet Walker, of Coleman county, responded. Judge W. F. Parsley, Graham, was among the principal speakers on the morning program.

The auxiliary members lunched at the Driver hotel, after which separate sessions of the district and county clerks were held.

Mrs. Pearl Matthews, Young county clerk, and Willie Riggs, district clerk, were hosts to the visitors.

LOCAL CLERKS ATTEND MEET

Miss Elizabeth Hall, Wichita county clerk, and Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger, district clerk here, are among the delegates attending the convention of the North Texas auxiliary to the state association of county and district clerks at Graham. Miss Hall is secretary of the organization.

Raskob Faces Inquiry Today

question Raskob about the tariff activities of business firms in which he has a financial interest.

Several prominent Republicans, including W. W. Atterbury, national committeeman for Pennsylvania, are also directors of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and demands may be made for their appearance later.

In volunteering to testify earlier in the week, Raskob intimated that his name had been drawn into the lobby probe for political reasons.

The committee's report on the Muscle Shoals lobbying of Chairman Claudius H. Huston, of the Republican national committee, will be delayed next week.

It appeared today that senate leaders were anxious to get a vote on the Norris resolution providing for government operation of Muscle Shoals, before the Huston report is submitted. This will permit disposition of the Shoals problem without an outburst of partisan political debate.

Senator Robinson is also prepared to introduce a report next week on the contributions of Herman A. Metz, New York dye importer, to the campaigns of Senator William H. King, Democrat, of Utah.

French Premier Rallies After Sudden Collapse

PARIS, April 3. (US)—Premier Andre Tardieu tonight is recovering from an attack of indigestion which brought about his collapse today. The premier sank to the floor from his chair while meeting with a commission in the chamber of deputies. He was rushed to a hotel doctor. Tardieu responded, and on leaving the doctor's quarters, smilingly said:

"Not yet, friends, not yet. I'll be as well as ever in a few hours.

Husband Turns Gun on Self As Wife Falls

ensued, according to J. W. Wash, a negro porter:

"John, tell me where you want me to go."

"Just down here a ways," he was said to have replied.

"What for, John? I don't want to go. I'm scared."

"Oh, yes you will. you ——!"

At that moment he seized the gun a second time and aiming at her as she turned her back, he fired twice in quick succession.

As she spun around to face him, he fired again at close range, according to bystanders, the third shot entering her left breast. Her body crumpled to the pavement and she was dead when the ambulances reached the scene.

Before persons nearby could approach her body, Moore turned the gun on himself. He toppled over on his back, his body limp. He was unconscious but gasping for breath, according to B. S. Ferguson, Dallas advertising man, one of the first to reach his side.

Police were called immediately and three motorcycle officer preceded the ambulances out Seventh street. Judge R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, was called to make an inquest over the body of Mrs. Moore. His verdict was that she was slain by her husband. Her body was taken in charge by the Hines mortuary.

Mrs. Moore is survived by her 70-year-old mother, Mrs. F. W. Wells, 406 Lee street; six brothers, F. B., O. G., and F. W. Wells, all of San Antonio; Roscoe Wells of Tipton, Okla., Richard Wells of Bartlesville, Okla., and D. A. Wells of Wichita Falls; and one sister, Mrs. R. E. Rhodes of this city. The dead woman had been living at the family home since her estrangement from her husband.

Shooting of Couple on Street Here Described by Four Eyewitnesses

Four eye-witnesses to the slaying of Mrs. Eunice A. Moore and the probable fatal wounding of John W. Moore, her husband, at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night, gave their version of the shooting to The Record News. The witnesses were F. C. Paul, C. F. Somerville, Arch Fellows and Adolph Michna.

Arch Fellows, proprietor of a cafe at 505 Seventh street, said that he was standing in the door of his cafe when the couple was coming down Seventh street, apparently quarrelling. Just before they reached the cafe, the woman tried to turn back but Moore forced her to keep going. When they were directly in front of the cafe, Mrs. Moore tried to turn into the doorway. It was apparent that she was wanting someone to help her, Fellows said.

Woman Protests

Moore caught her around the waist with his left arm and pushed her on down the street. Fellows heard her say as they moved on, "John, I don't want to go, I'm afraid."

The two stopped about 20 feet from the cafe, because of the woman's holding back from Moore, Fellows said.

"I saw that he was going to try to kill her as they stopped, and I looked for something with which to stop him but dared not interfere unarmed," Fellows said. "The man held the woman against himself with his left arm and with his right, drew a gun from his hip-pocket and fired into her body. As near as I could tell, he fired at her four times and let her fall, then turned the gun on himself and shot once."

Trio Hear Shots

Paul, crossing watchman at the Seventh street railroad crossing, Somerville, special officer for the Fort Worth & Denver railway and Michna, 1700 Monroe street, were all talking together on the crossing, about 50 feet from where the shooting occurred. Paul said he noticed the man and woman as they came down the street and they seemed to be arguing about something. He had turned away and thought no more of them until they stopped and he heard the shot close by. The other two had not noticed them before the first shot.

All three turned and ran toward the two but the man had already turned the gun on himself and shot before they reached him. Both were still breathing a little when they got to the two Somerville said. Paul said that Moore shot the woman three or four times before he shot himself. Both Somerville and Michna thought that it was either four or five times.

OFFICER'S CAR STOLEN

While Deputy Constable John Newman was in the courthouse making out a report at 11:30 Thursday night, thieves took his automobile which he had left parked in front of the courthouse, according to a report turned into the police department.

took the stand to testify that she had paid the money to Logsdon in a Fort Worth garage on August 3, 1928.

Logsdon is the first federal prohibition officer in the northern district of Texas to be tried on a charge of accepting a bribe while in office.

It was shown by government testimony that Logsdon had received notice of failure to pass civil service examinations for the prohibition enforcement forces before Aug. 3, when he is alleged to have taken the bribe.

CHARGES BROUGHT IN COURT HERE

J. T. Bentley, deputy United States marshal, returned Thursday from Fort Worth where he took H. J. Madison to testify in the trial of W. R. Logsdon, former prohibition agent here, on a charge of accepting a bribe.

Madison was convicted on a liquor charge in federal district court here last week and sentenced to 30 days in the county jail. He was released to Mr. Bentley when summoned as a witness in the Logsdon trial.

The charges were first brought against Logsdon in open court here in 1928 when Mrs. Rickie Ketchum, convicted on a bootlegging charge, came before Judge W. H. Atwell in the United States district court for sentencing. She told the court that she had been promised protection by two dry agents in return for $500 in "hush money." Logsdon was one of the officers named.

Judge Atwell halted court proceedings to publicly dictate a letter to the district attorney in Fort Worth asking an investigation. The indictment against Logsdon followed.

VAUGHAN-EVAN BATTLE HEATED

Race for State Superintendent to Be Hard Fought

BY FRANK O. HALL

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 3. (UP)—A heated contest between two prominent Oklahoma educators for the Democratic nomination for state public instruction superintendent loomed today with the announcement of John Vaughan that he would ask the voters to return him to the post he has held for about the past three years.

Vaughan was named state superintendent when M. A. Nash resigned to become president of the Oklahoma college for women, Chickasha.

Dr. Charles Evans, pioneer Oklahoma educator and former president of Central State Teachers' college, Edmond, looms as Vaughan's most formidable opponent.

Battle Lines Drawn.

Already the campaign battle lines have been closely drawn by supporters of Vaughan and Evans and observers believe the race will be one in which the candidates will conduct vigorous campaigns.

Vaughan will seek reelection on a platform based upon the achievements of the state educational department during his incumbency.

In citing the record of his present tenure of office, Vaughan said "for the first time in Oklahoma, the rural schools have averaged a term of more than eight months. Standards have been set up for the accrediting of rural schools, with marked and admitted improvement in efficiency of teaching results.

"In the face of a million dollar decrease in the support of Oklahoma schools, daily attendance has increased and the quality of instruction has improved. Continuous effort has been exerted to improve the state's program of teacher training and certification."

Lists Achievements.

Vaughan said other achievements of his administration included combining of the vocational educational program with that of the state educational board and the creation of a coordinating board for higher educational institutions which has laid the foundation for unified effort by the colleges and universities in the interest of economy and the elimination of duplicated effort."

He said the recently appointed educational commission, with which his department is cooperating, will bring to the next legislature an improved program for the permanent solution of the weak school problem.

Long In Service.

Vaughan has been connected with schools of the state for the past 23 years. He has served as superintendent of schools at Kingston and Kapanucka, registrar and dean of Southwestern State Teachers' College and executive secretary of the state educational survey committee in 1922.

Since his announcement several weeks ago that he would be a candidate for state public instruction superintendent, Evans has conducted an active campaign.

He recently announced that if lected he would "go the limit" for any move or legislative for larger pay for teachers. If the time ever comes when educational institutions are provided all the money they need, yearly salaries of $10,000 for teachers would be a profitable investment, Evans said.

Cotton Miller of Denison Endorses Argotane

"I Think It Is the Most Efficient Medicine I Have Ever Taken," He Says

W. S. Dunaway, the well-known cotton miller residing on rural route No. 3 Denison, Texas, is an ardent believer in Argotane as the following statement shows:

"I suffered from stomach trouble and gall stones," said Mr. Dunaway, "and had severe pains in my side and up around the region of my heart. These complications had extended over a period of about eight years, and my sufferings were hard to bear. After every meal I'd get nauseated and was almost unable to retain what I had eaten. I lost in weight and was in a general run-down condition, had little or no energy and was feeling miserable all the time. I tried first one medicine then another, but didn't get any relief, so I bought some Argotane, and it wasn't long in putting me in first-class condition, and several other people in my neighborhood are now taking it with just as good results as I am receiving.

"Because of my experience with Argotane, I am going to keep on the treatment a while longer as it has done me so much good I feel confident that my relief will be permanent. I am feeling just as well as I ever did, having taken nothing but Argotane, which I think is the most efficient medicine I have ever heard of or taken."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Wichita Falls at the Allison Drug Store.—Adv.

Three indictments of first degree murder have been asked the federal jury and are expected to be returned some time next week.

Hanks, who has confessed the triple slaying, said he committed the axe killings because his wife was "mean" to him.

Musicians Club Presents Original Program Thursday

(By Staff Music Critic)

Eight selections for voice, piano and violin comprised a commendable and well interpreted program given Thursday morning at the Episcopal parish house by members of the Musicians club in the annual local composers' musicale.

The program was not extensive from the standpoint of composers contributing numbers, Miss Annette Walsh, Mrs. Edwin Bebb, Eithel Allen Nelson and Mrs. W. L. Underwood having written all of the compositions heard Thursday morning. But continued activity in the field of musical creation was indicated definitely by the fact that seven of the eight numbers given were accorded their first public performance. There was manifested in the program a technical and thematic standard entirely worthy of concert presentation, and each composition offered was favored with unusually adequate interpretation.

All of the vocal numbers given on the original composition program were written by Mrs. W. L. Underwood, the words for three of these songs having been written by the composer, with the fourth number using a poem by Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, now pastor of the Methodist church at Archer City. A wide variety of theme and musical treatment featured Mrs. Underwood's songs, ranging from the plaintive simplicity of the old French carol to moody, impressionistic tone pictures distinctly in the modern vein of composition.

Two numbers vied for first rank of the four vocal compositions. "Child Jesus," a carol written last December for three-part singing in female voices, was sung with exquisite expression by Mesdames Kenneth Bebb, Stanley Raub, soprano; Mesdames W. L. Underwood, A. H. Mahaffey, mezzo-soprano; Mrs. M. M. Garret and Miss Harriett Bradley, contralto. Singing without accompaniment, the ensemble delivered an appealing version of the traditional carol text with unusual perfection of tonal balance, and with commendable understanding of both theme and musical score. The modulation from piano passages to full-voiced climaxes, and the subsequent diminuendo in the closing movement, were accomplished with delightful finesse.

The other voice composition which ranked with the carol as outstanding in Mrs. Underwood's songs was the closing number of a group of three sung by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey. "Nocturne" is a delicate and visionful settings of Rev. Mr. Moreland's poetic picture of "a little lost wind," stealing among the red poppies beneath mystic moonlight, "seeking a beloved." The piano accompaniment has in it the quiet beauty, the graceful motion, and the fanciful melodies which sing in Mr. Moreland's verse, and delicately voiced counter-melodies which combine with the singer's score to comprise a delectable two minutes of musical inspiration. Mrs. Underwood read the words of "Nocturne" before it was sung, and played Mrs. Mahaffey's accompaniments.

The other two songs in the group were "Far in the Dreaming East," a wistful lyric of love for far-away Kaboul, enriched by a thoroughly dreamy, Oriental atmosphere both in the melody and accompaniment, and "Spring." The latter number projects a momentary but brilliant picture of waking Nature, opening its attractive melody softly and in easy time, but rushes to a brilliant and sudden climax in "Spring's come into the world today!" Mrs. Mahaffey sang each of the three numbers with ease and admirable feeling for their varying texts. Her almost whispered soft tones in "Nocturne," and the climax of "Spring" were excellent extremes in a very competent register of tonal artistry.

Two piano compositions by Mrs. Edwin Bebb, played by herself, comprised one of the most interesting and pleasing groups offered on the program. Mrs. Bebb's spirited performance belied the disarming apologies which preceded their presentation; even though the pieces were a last-hour addition to the program for the morning. Her first, styled "Ballade in A Minor," was rich in harmonic backgrounds for an appealing melody which remained principally in the treble. One of its best passages, however, was the introduction of a theme for the left hand alone, which was intoned with considerable effectiveness. The second number, by its scampering movement and distinctive diversity of tone almost revealed its subject without announcement of its title, "My Two Children Play." That the elder child is a boy was likewise apparent from the delightfully descriptive score. The rapidly changing moods of conversation between children at play was vividly reflected.

Two violin numbers were included in the program, the first a transcription made by Miss Annette Walsh of "Estrellita" by M. M. Ponce, for violin, which was played by Mrs. Flora Greenwood. Miss Walsh's revision of the appealing melody utilizes passages for double-stop harmonies which greatly enriched the tonal atmosphere. The almost florid sweep of melody, and warmth of feeling in the Ponce composition, was admirably reproduced in Mrs. Greenwood's violin and Miss Walsh's piano score.

William Luther Donnell's violin was in excellent voice for the performance of Eithel Allen Nelson's "Lovely Marianne." This delicate and whimsical dance was heard last November at the Memorial auditorium when it was played by the Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra for Madame Delphyne Baleuwa's solo dance. Mr. Donnell was accompanied by Mrs. W. C. Hamilton, who was in charge of the original composition program.

A business session of the Musicians club preceded the morning musicale. Mrs. Edwin Bebb presiding. About 40 persons were present.

Abilene's $150,000 air terminal will be dedicated during the W. T. C. C. convention May 29, 30 and 31.

Mrs. H. B. White was runner-up and received two balls, and Mrs. W. P. Bolding received the consolation of a silver compote. Miss Nell Gibbs was awarded the runner-up consolation prize which was two balls.

In the ringer score for the months of January, February and March, Mrs. Luke McCrory was winner and was presented with a silver dish by Miss Anabel Couper. Mrs. Fred Couper won first place in the benefit tournament while Mesdames J. L. Waggoner and R. A. King tied for second.

FIRST BOTTLE WAS CONVINCING

Cardui Helped a Kentucky Lady Who Had Been Feeling All Out of Sorts

Hopkinsville, Ky.—"About ten years ago, I was in a nervous, run-down condition," says Mrs. R. J. Hopson of this place. "I would get very weak and feel all out of sorts and tired.

"I heard that Cardui was very helpful, so decided to take it. I took one bottle, and it seemed to help me so much I sent for five more. By the time I had taken these I was a great deal better. My nerves were more settled and I felt stronger.

"A few years later I was sick again. I felt bloated and uncomfortable. I felt so uneasy I took Cardui again, three bottles at this time, and again it helped me.

"I have been so grateful, I recommend Cardui to my friends and neighbors. It is a splendid medicine."

The medicine which this Kentucky lady mentions above has been used and praised by thousands of other women for more than fifty years.

Young Man, 22, Too Young to Marry; Says Dorothy Dix

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man of 22. Have just been graduated from college and got settled in a good business and I am debating the question of marriage. I am very much in love with a very pretty girl, but if I marry will it take away from my freedom? Do you think it is a man's duty to marry? Would you marry if you were me? —R. M.

Answer—If I were a young man and in full possession my faculties, I certainly shouldn't marry at 22. That is too young. At 22 you are still immature. Your taste is unformed, so that you do not know what sort of wife you will really want when you are man grown. You have not had enough experience with women to enable you to be a judge of them, and you have not seen enough of life to make you ready to settle down.

The girl who fires your fancy now you probably wouldn't look at three or four years hence. The flapper you find so entrancing would bore you to tears after you became more sophisticated. Just now, while you are still a boy, you could find home a jail and long for variety and change and the bright lights and excitement, and for the moan of the saxophone and good dancing partners, but by the time you are 28 or 29 you will be tired of stepping out and your own fireside will look better to you than a night club.

So my earnest advice to you is to look the fair sex over before you make your choice of a wife, so you will be sure to get the girl who really suits you. Wait until your own character is settled. Wait until you are in a financial position to marry and a wife will be a luxury to you instead of a burden, and wait until you are ready to be a fireside companion.

That way you will save yourself a lot of trouble and some woman a deal of misery, for the boy husbands almost invariably develop into philanderers and rounders, who get over their attacks of calf love as son as they are married, whose tastes in women change, and who leave their poor wives at home with their babies while they are running around with pretty young girls. Statistics show that an appalling number of couples who marry very young get divorces.

Certainly it is not a man's duty to marry. It is purely a matter of inclination, but I think that the man who marries is better off in very way than the bachelor. He is healthier, happier, more prosperous than he would have been if he had remained single. He may not draw the capital prize in the matrimonial lottery, but he generally gets some approximate prize and isn't left with a blank as the unmarried man is.

The married man is healthier because he lives a more ordered life than the single man and because his wife takes care of him. A famous physician recently said that the nagging of wives saved the lives of thousands of men every year. It was wife's incessant "Don't drink two cups of coffee." "Don't eat too much pie." "Remember your diet." "Change your shoes." "Button up your overcoat." and so on, that kept husbands well and healthy.

The married man is happier than the single man because he has the love and sympathy and understanding that we all crave, and without which life is cinders, ashes and dust. The nearest approach to heaven on earth that any man may ever hope to reach is when he has a peaceful, comfortable home to which he can flee as to a temple of refuge from the storms and stress of life, and a wife who is his real mate and to whom he can turn in joy and sorrow, knowing that she would be at his side though all the world were against him, and who has little children watching for him and eager to draw him across the door sill with joyous welcome when he returns at night.

And the married man is nearly always more prosperous than the single man. Very few men ever really settle down to their careers before they marry, or ever save any money. It is only after a man marries and realizes that others are dependent upon him that he plans and saves for the future and gets into his real stride. Employers realize this and that is why they prefer married men and give them the best and most responsible positions.

But certainly marriage will curtail your freedom, and you have no right to marry unless you are willing to lay that sacrifice on the altar of love.

If you marry, you will not be free to go and come as you please. You will not be free to have flirtations with other women, even your money and your time will not belong to you. Your wife will have a claim upon them. You will not even be free to think of your own happiness. Hers must come first.

Certainly marriage is worth having, but, like every other thing, it has to be bought at a price.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Mrs. Stacy To Give Numbers In Spring Musicale

Piano compositions chosen and prepared primarily for the open spring musicale of the Musicians club will form an important and interesting part of that program, which is to be given next Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Junior college auditorium.

Mrs. Harwood Stacy, formerly a resident of Wichita Falls and now of Austin, will contribute a group of piano solos which includes two of her own compositions, while a second group will be played by Miss Erma Nala Voss and Mrs. F. R. Collard, using two pianos. Mrs. Stacy was one of the most active musicians in the city during her residence here, and has achieved more than statewide recognition both through her compositions and performances. During the past two years, two-piano ensembles by Miss Voss and Mrs. Collard have furnished feature numbers on several programs here, and have been marked by a fine degree of musicianship.

Mrs. Stacy will play first in her group next Monday night "Arabesque en forme d'Etude," by Leschetisky, which will be followed by "Waltz Impromptu," and "Ballade in B minor," both chosen from her own compositions.

The two-piano group will consist of "Minuet a l'Antico" (Seeboeck) and "Blue Danube Waltz," (Strauss-Schultz-Evler-Chaslins). All of the stateliness, quaint charm and grace of the minuet of the early 18th century are caught in this "Minuet a l'Antico" by a modern composer, W. C. E. Seeboeck. It offers a pleasing contrast to the accelerated tempo and cacophony of much of modern music.

This waltz by the "waltz king," Johann Strauss, was written soon after a military defeat by the Austrians. Bright, gay Vienna was saddened and depressed by the defeat, and eager to find something to restore her wonted gaiety. The Viennese first heard the "Beautiful Blue Danube" played by orchestra, and received it with wild enthusiasm. Theodore Thomas introduced it to America a few months after its premier in Vienna. Soon it became the popular waltz of the entire world, nor has time dimmed its glory. Wagner once said of it, "It surpasses in grace, refinement and real musical substance many of the works of its time." It is said that Johannes Brahms, once writing his autograph on the fan of Mme. Strauss prefixed it with the opening theme of the "Blue Danube," and added: "Unfortunately not by me."

There have been many transcriptions and arrangements of the group of lovely melodies included in this composition, one of the most brilliant, intricate and difficult being the Schultz-Evler arrangement for piano. A modern writer, Chasins, has taken the difficult Schultz-Evler transcription and freely adapted it for two pianos. The resulting score enhances all its beauty, making it almost orchestral in effect, as was the original.

Besides the two groups of piano numbers, Monday night's program will include violin selections by Eithel Allen Nelson, and a group of songs by Messrs. James Guest, Willard Underwood, Ted Williams and Louis Bond of the Mahaffey studios, accompanied by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey. Mrs. J. E. Hall is in charge of the program.

Play at College Tonight Will Be Colorful Affair

The three-act musical comedy, "Belle of Barcelona," to be given at the Junior college Friday will present to the public a great array of talent both musical and dramatic. Elaborate stage settings laid in the Plaza of Barcelona, Spain, together with beautiful and vivid costumes of both principals and dancers create a very colorful setting for the plot of the play.

Louis Bond, leading man, and Frederick Sehmann, an Irish comedian, already hold an enviable reputation as popular players in Little Theater and other productions, while Lillian McAbee, leading lady, is well known as a radio singer. Margaret Bone as an English governess, has been most successful in high school dramatics, and Mary Clair Burton, a talented young singer and reader, plays the part of Mercedes, the heroine's sister. Springer Williams as the toreador, and several other capable performers complete the able cast which is well supported by the Spanish students and Marine chorus. Between acts the Collegiate quartet, the Girls high school trio, and Bubble chorus add greatly to the interest of the performance. The show is directed by Juanita Kinsey and Hermione Stewart Vaughan.

The two named in the charges were being sought by Wichita county officers Thursday night.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Every Headache Is a Warning

What is a headache? Physicians tell us that headache is "the cry of over-taxed nerves for rest." The cause of simple headache is high nerve tension or strain, which leads to high blood pressure and serious injury to the nervous system.

The next time you have a headache, neuralgic or rheumatic pains, or periodic pains, try the improved method of relief—two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water. Being liquid, Capudine gives relief almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders. It relieves by soothing the tense nerves—not by deadening them. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore, is the ideal remedy.

For over thirty years Capudine has been bringing relief to those who suffer from nervous pains. You, too, will find it a joy and comfort when your nerves are unstrung and when you suffer from pain. At drug stores in 30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

Herbert Kaufman's "TWENTY YEARS AFTER" Daily Editorial

TWENTY years ago the highest admittance price to a motion picture show was ten cents. No producing studio, if memory be accurate, had yet presented a two-reel film, and there wasn't a theater in the country built for the special purpose of exhibiting shadow drama.

The star system, the fade-out, the close-up, the Kleig light, captions and scenarios hadn't even occurred to possibility.

Not a billboard or painted sign in the land advertised the existence of the new industry, whose pioneers, like the proverbial Arab, nightly "folded their tents" and personally toted projection machines in the wake of circuses and carnivals, or squatted on short-term leases in vacant side-street shops.

Twenty years ago, lithographers were still unaware of the prodigious fortunes to be showered into their coffers from Hollywood's horn of plenty. But for that matter, they weren't aware that Hollywood existed.

Messrs. Zukor and Loew, then conducting a catch-penny shooting gallery and phonograph parlor on Union square, didn't know it was on the map, either.

And those three bold musketeers, Lasky, DeMille and Goldfish (later to Goldwyn, his way to vast wealth and distinction), neither heard the call of destiny nor managed to scrape together fifteen thousand dollars to answer it, until 1913.

Motion pictures are exceedingly young, and of decidedly humble origin. In the vernacular of success-biography, they were born poor, and rose by dint of persistence and self-confidence to power and importance.

Twenty years is a very brief period in which to create a multi-billion dollar industry from nothing but vision and intrepidity. It takes boundless time and capital to develop international markets for new habits and ideas.

Nothing less than super-genius could have discovered, in empty pockets, twenty thousand show palaces, control of the world's amusements, and employment for more men and women than the federation of labor now claims to be jobless.

Please remember that necessity was their sole tool-maker, and experience their only rule-maker.

LIKE SETTLERS on any other frontier, they were compelled to begin crudely and push their roads ahead of them.

They made blunders, committed errors of taste and judgment, and sometimes stooped too far to conquer. But let the field of business, without some such sins to its discredit, cast the first stone at motion pictures.

The thing to know is that this particular industry, which contacts so intimately with the daily life of the entire nation, was first to establish regulations, first to set up its own court of morals, and first to admit the public's right to a voice in the management of its affairs.

The motion picture producer is a manufacturer. He must make the goods that his customers demand, or his customers will buy them somewhere else. If his goods are too fine, too exotic, too far over the heads of the majority, he can't expect to sell them widely.

Consequently, the balance sheet warns production to remain within the confines of popular approval or go broke. As merchants go broke when they stock the wrong goods, or publishers when they foist too many high-brow books on the trade.

The announcement by Will H. Hays, that American motion picture manufacturers have just voluntarily agreed to restrain the fervors of love-making, and eliminate from their presentations speech and actions that tend to exalt crime, adultery, coarseness or obscenity, is final evidence of their progressive endeavor to make the theater safe for all the family.

Which, incidentally, serves warning on the Broadway stage that Hollywood is no longer the secondary dumping-ground for its refuse garbage.

In New Orleans they are giving race horses sun baths and ultra violet ray treatment. But it would seem that jockies, not horses, need to get light.

A survey in Chicago reveals that gangsters are better pistol shots than policemen. In the end, however, the gangsters are the bigger shots.

The argument in the Massachusetts legislature over suppressing indecent books seems to be developing into a real battle of the censory.

A grass in Canada is said to absorb noise. The first thing one thinks of is its application in congress.

Opportunity Still Lives

DON'T let any pessimist tell you that the age of opportunity has passed and that there is nothing left for personal enterprise and individual achievement under the present regime of big business.

Back in 1916—the same year that Woodrow Wilson was elected for his second term—O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland's famous brothers, turned from the real estate business to railroading. Raking all the cash they could command and stretching their credit to the limit, they bought the then broken down Nickel Plate railroad. There may have been a worse railroad in the country, but it is doubtful.

Today these same brothers can board a train at Bay View, in the northern part of the Michigan peninsular, and ride to Brownsville, Texas, on the Mexican border, without once leaving railroads they either own or control. They can also board a train at New York and ride to Salt Lake City, Utah, over similar lines—and continue on from there to San Francisco over a road that is very friendly to their interests.

In 14 years they have an 18,000-mile, $2,000,000,000 network of rail lines that eclipses the mileage of systems associated with such well known names in American railway history as Hill, Harriman, Vanderbilt and Gould.

The story of these remarkable brothers—one now 49 and the other 52—has been told many times, but it grows so rapidly that it must be retold at frequent intervals to keep it up to date. Their latest achivement has been the acquisition of control of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad which rounded out a railroad empire which is the largest dominated by private interests.

There are only two railroad systems in the world that are longer than the Van Sweringens' 18,000-mile network. One is the Canadian National, with about 20,000 miles, and the other the German State railways, about 30,000 miles.

Here are some mileage comparisons with American railways: Pennsylvania, 10,466 miles; New York Central, 6,911 miles; Baltimore and Ohio, 5,639 miles; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, 12,383 miles; Union Pacific, 9,857 miles; Southern Pacific, 13,599 miles; Great Northern, 8,409 miles; Northern Pacific, 6,771 miles.

The mileages of the various railroads now controlled by the Van Sweringens are: Chesapeake and Ohio, 2,735; Pere Marquette, 2,244; Erie, 2,316; Nickel Plate, 1,690; Wheeling and Lake Erie, 511; Missouri Pacific, 7,461; Chicago and Eastern Illinois, 945.

The familiar story that the Van Sweringen brothers began life as newsboys is not true, but their start in the business world was far from auspicious. Both are self-made.

Their entrance into the railroad field resulted from a desire to obtain a street car line from Cleveland to a suburban real estate section that they were developing. Discussions about tracking rights on the Nickel Plate caused the young real estate dealers to enter the field of transportation. They revivified the decaying Nickel Plate and began a series of mergers, the end of which apparently is not yet.

Today they have their offices high up in the lofty tower of Cleveland's new terminal station which they built and which, with connecting developments, is said to have cost more than the Panama canal.

No, don't let anyone tell you the day of individual opportunity has passed. Witness the brothers Van Sweringen of Cleveland. And it is here just as much today as it was in 1916.

Saved by a Federal Judge

MR. ALPHONSE CAPONE, a distinguished as well as a muchly advertised citizen of Chicago, was warned by Gov. Doyle Carlton of Florida not to return to the Capone winter mansion at Miami if he valued his liberty. Federal Judge Holstead L. Ritter issued a temporary restraining order prohibiting Florida sheriffs from molesting Mr. Capone, who is said to be a millionaire in his own right and a gentleman of considerable influence in the Windy City. If Mr. Capone is a criminal or guilty of law violation, indictments should be returned against him, or federal or state warrants issued for his arrest.

This is a republic, ruled by a democracy. It is governed by a constitution, and that constitution carries a bill of rights. There are grand juries grinding daily in the city of Chicago and the state of Illinois. They are grinding in the state of Florida. This is not the land of Mussolini; it is not the land where mob law is triumphant or justice "made a joke."

If Mr. Capone is an undesirable citizen, a lawbreaker and a menace, why not establish it in the courts of the country and place the so-called millionaire who has a town house in Chicago, a country estate in Illinois and a winter place on the Florida coast behind the bars?

Labor Objects to Parker

LABOR is a Washington weekly publication. It voices the views of the rail employe organizations of the United States. In an editorial in the current number it characterized the appointment of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to the supreme court as "a bitter disappointment to progressives." This is the pointed indictment of the editorial which caused a sensation in the capital city, "President Hoover picks a judge whose best known decision upholds the yellow dog contract in its most offensive form."

In other words, Judge Parker is not an idol of the labor organizations of the Carolinas, where there is a widening chasm between the powerful interests and the wage workers.

Fool's Errand

Our friends will carry news to you of me,
For friends delight in such unselfish aid;
Great talk of gay excursions there will be
And wild descriptions of the newest maid.
Oh, you will be attentive and polite,
And show a proper interest in their tales,
And bid them all a very sweet goodnight
As soon as opportunity avails.

Their gossip may be true, for I am one
Who never made a friend of solitude;
A laughing girl to share an evening's fun
Is balm and ointment to an injured mood;
But true or not, I'm very well aware
A harem could be mine, for all you'd care!
—A. B. C.

Golly!

Variety has discovered a new stunt employed by a jealous wife, a trick that not only gives a husband the jeebies, but probably would frighten "the other woman" out of her wits as well as the place. The husband, it appears, is in New York and the wife telephoned him from Pittsburgh the other four a. m.: "Have you a woman in that room?" she asked.

"Of course not, honey," said her husband.

"Well," she countered, "if you haven't then repeat this after me: 'If there is a woman in this room, I hope she dies before she leaves it!'"

Friends are now offering the husband addresses of women known to be somewhat hard of hearing.

As if You Didn't Know

Philip R. Davis says the only way to find complete enjoyment with one woman is to be frightfully annoyed with another woman.

Anecdote

Carey McWilliams' blog of Ambrose Bierce (A. and C. Boni), is chock full of breezy bits. Friximple. A Miss McCarthy enjoyed annoying Bierce, who was an agnostic, and one day asked him why he always said, "God Bless You!" when he did not believe in God.

"If I actually believed in Him," replied Bierce, "I wouldn't dare mention his name."

In Fewer Words

Ambrose Bierce is also responsible for these definitions: Bore—A person who talks when you wish him to listen. . . . Egoist—A person of low taste, more interested in himself than in me. . . . Admiration—Our polite recognition of another's resemblance to ourselves. . . . Sycophant—One who approaches greatness on his belly, so that he may not be commanded to turn and be kicked. He is sometimes an editor.

Prophecy

Spring will blow gay trumpets.
And bring fresh lures,
And I will kiss a new mouth
As sweet as yours.

Spring, forever prodigal,
Will spill her wine;
And you will rest in young arms
As strong as mine.
—Sidney P.

Heheheh

The girl in the office next door observes that if Mae West wins her case against the police raiders she'll get so chesty they'll never find a brassiere to fit her.

Newspaper Stuff

The Pulitzer prize for candor belongs to the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph, one of the papers using "Revelations of a Wife," by Adele Garrison (Mrs. Nana S. White), the longest serial in history. It has been running 14 years and mounted to 4,000,000 words in length. The other day the Telegraph decided that the story was a mess and cut it out. After "85 Macon women had called, six had phoned by long distance, six had written postcards and letters," the Telegraph ran an editorial saying: "We yield. We know what a licking looks like when we get it. 'Revelations of a Wife' is back in the paper. We are not convinced, however, that Adele Garrison ever reveals anything and we don't believe she ever will. The women read her, we believe, for the same reason the man kept going to the picture show. Somebody asked him why he went three days in a row just to see the same picture. He said that just as a dozen Mack Sennett bathing beauties were disrobing for the surf a train ran by and shut off the view. Some day, he said, that train was going to be late. Some day, Adele Garrison is going to reveal something and the women are going to be there when she does."

Reprisal

To hear the wags tell it the reason New York show failures are sent to Boston is to punish Boston for what it did to Sacco and Vanzetti.

Just for the Records

Continuing from where we left off the other column concerning Rudy Vallee's book and that part of it where he says "Mabel Wayne is the one woman song writer whose songs have lived"—how about that other little lady whose songs haven't exactly died?

Meaning Carrie Jacobs Bond and her "Mighty Lak a Rose" and "End of a Perfect Day" classics, to mention but two of them.

The Broadway Code

It takes a mighty big man to apologize and a damb phool to accept it.

A Form of Criticism

A Detroit wit says that the Month's Award for Cynical Typesetting should be handed to the Kansas City genius who described a well-known concert pianist as "the prominent painist."

Naturally

Texas Guinan amazes members of her sex with her reducing miracles. They still marvel at the fact that not long ago Miss Guinan dropped 40 pounds in one month by strenuous exercise.

"Goodness!" ejaculated one woman, "doesn't such strenuous exercise affect her heart?"

"Not hers," replied a columnist, "it's too callous from crossing it with her fingers in courtrooms!"

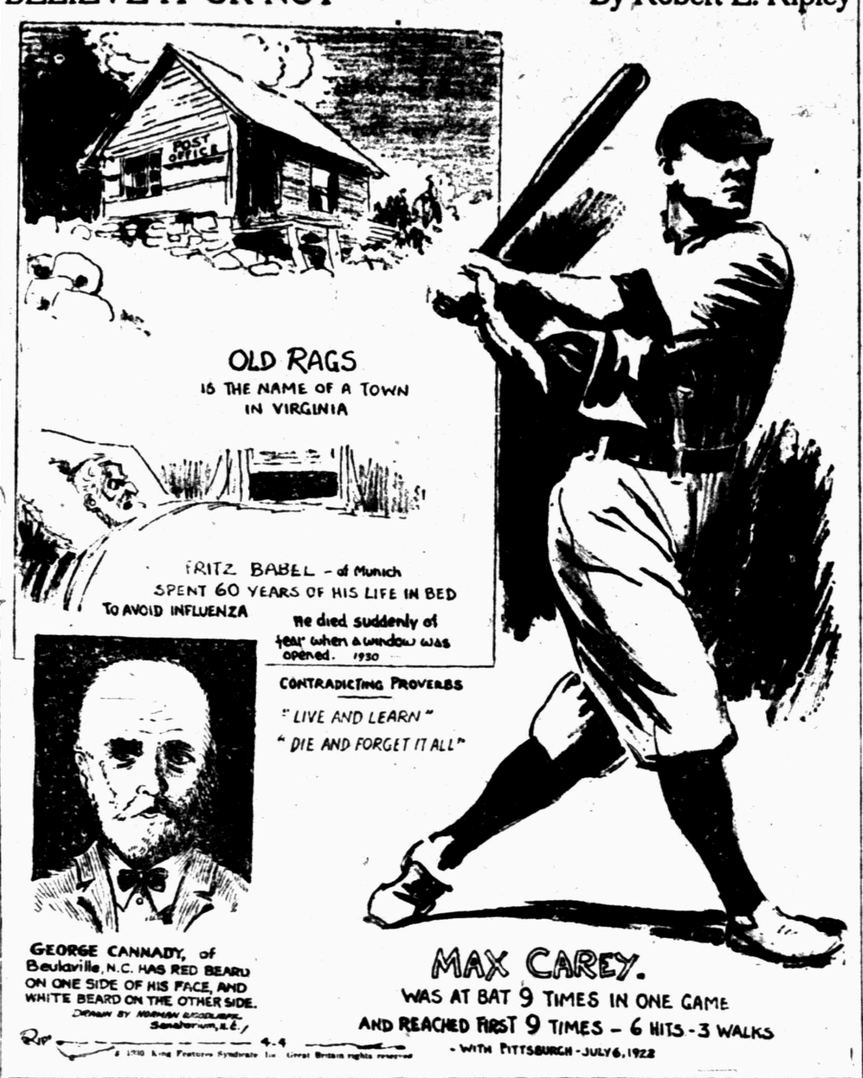

His Best Customer

For the tenth time the room clerk, with adenoids and an expression as though he were smelling something objectionable, insisted to Mr. Goldfarb that there were no rooms available at his ritzy hotel and that there was a waiting list ahead of him up to 50 years hence. And for the tenth time Mr. Goldfarb scratched the egg from his vest and insisted upon knowing the rates per day.

"Why," why'd the stiff clerk, "do you insist on knowing?"

"Becuz," said the dialectician, "furr saven mont's I'm paying here de rant for my baby-doll and I t'ink I'm bing geep'd hon de rates!"

The Girl With The Red Hair by Rob Eden

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ever after the death of her father, when Gay Terris was child, there had been no interest in her life except her mother and none for the mother but Gay. Consquently no sacrifice was too great to make possible a winter for Mrs. Terris in Arizona, when her health failed. In order to obtain the five thousand dollars which was necessary for doctors, nurses and hospital fees, Gay agreed to marry her employer, Frank Patterson, and then to earn an extra two hundred dollars for luxuries for her mother. Gay consents to attend a masquerade, impersonating a prominent society woman, Fania Crandall. Through Fania's accomplice, Paul Ladishaw, Gay learns that this woman who poses as a society woman is a desperate crook and warns Gay to beware. Staying at Patterson's home with his mother and dreading the approaching wedding to the man whom she despises, and all the time desperately in love with Patterson's nephew, Mark Loring, Gay has almost forgotten Ladishaw's warning. Today, she is conscious of nothing except that Mark is going to give Patterson a note for the five thousand dollars and demand Gay's freedom in return.

CHAPTER XXVI

Gay was thankful for the flower beds today. She dug furiously, cumbersome canvas gloves on her hands, a flopping straw hat shading her face. Mrs. Patterson was busy at her side, chattering all the while.

The farm was delightful to Gay, now. She didn't mind Mrs. Patterson's attitude. Indeed, the woman rather amused her. She let her talk on and on, and took her orders pleasantly.

The sun, dripping honey, weaving down into the garden. The sky bluer than she had ever seen it before. Queer, shivering shadows clinging against bright green leaves . . . a bee buzzing near, almost in her face. The whirring motor-like flutter of a humming bird, backing away from the honey suckle vine that sprawled over the fence. Clickety-click of a grass cutter and gardner was running over the already too-smooth lawn.

The girl wanted to sing, but she knew she mustn't. Mrs. Patterson wouldn't like it. Wanted to dance on the fresh, fragrant grass—feel the prickle of the clover on her bare feet. Instead she stopped over and dug, bursting with happiness. True, now and then, a wave of discouragement came into the happiness—the thought that Frank Patterson wouldn't agree, that she would have to marry him after all. At times, it seemed as if she couldn't wait until Mark came; that she must tell Mrs. Patterson, Emma, somebody what was going to happen. It would be easy going to tell Emma, for the maid was going around smiling, and several times she asked Gay if there was anything she could do.

It was perhaps four when Mrs. Patterson announced that they had done enough gardening, and Gay followed her into the house with the big basket of flowers on her arm. Emma met them at the door.

"A lady to see Miss Terris," she announced.

The girl looked puzzled, as if she hadn't heard Emma right, but the maid held out a white card to Gay. Mrs. Patterson took it and snapping on the pince nez that always nestled on her left shoulder, read the name.

The light went out of Gay's eyes as she saw the small engraved name on the card, Fanta Crandall. What did she want? Why was she coming here? The memory of Paul's warning came back.

"I'd—rather not see her," she murmured.

"Nonsense, my dear," Miss Patterson overruled her, "of course, you'll see your friend. Nice of her to come to see you. You'd better run upstairs and dress."

With dragging feet Gay went upstairs and changed her dress. She was purposely slow about it. She was in no hurry to get downstairs. Why should Fania come today? When she was so happy—to spoil it all.

Mrs. Patterson burst in impatiently after a while, and drew Gay down the stairs. Fania was sitting on a prim sofa, looking as prim as it was, dressed in a dark linen suit, and wearing a small brown felt hat. Always before Mrs. Crandall had seemed so overdressed. Now she was demure as she sat there, her gloved hands on the arm of the sofa, her mouth not so red as usual. The necklace was barely visible under the jabot of her cream linen blouse—the snake necklace.

She rose eagerly when Gay entered, and took both her hands in a friendly fashion. "My dear, I'm so glad to see you—"

Gay thought of the exotic lounging pajamas Fania affected. She couldn't believe yet that it was Mrs. Crandall—in this simple, girlish suit.

Mrs. Patterson was quite charmed with her, for Fania put herself out for the old lady. Not a hint of a cigaret, nothing of the superior attitude that Gay was used to. The woman was a superb actress.

Had Paul been right about Fania knowing? That night he had called, half frightened to death, sputtering over the phone, begging Gay to be careful?

Even Gay was puzzled. She had never seen this Mrs. Crandall before.

They sat talking for half an hour, Fania perfectly at ease, Mrs. Patterson thawing out under her charm, Gay nervous, hardly joining in the conversation.

What did it mean? Fania's coming here. There must be some reason. And she was being so nice to Mrs. Patterson . . .

Finally Fania consulted a small watch on her wrist. "I must be going. Had no idea it was so late! But I'd love to see the garden before I go. You'll take me around, won't you?" She looked pleadingly at Gay, and without a word the girl got up and walked toward the door. It was coming, the reason for Fania's visit.

Mrs. Crandall familiarly tucked her arm in Gay's, and the two started off.

Gay was tense as they walked over the grass. Fania's touch on her arm annoyed her, yet she couldn't throw it off now. Mrs. Patterson was standing on the porch watching them.

Finally Fania bent over a yellow rose and plucking it off, thrust it into the button hole of her coat. "Lovely," she said, then gave Gay a searching glance. "I hear you're going to marry Frank Patterson?"

"Yes." She wondered how Fania knew. How she knew that she was staying out here. Paul was afraid of her, and made no pretense about his fear. Gay was afraid, too, as she stood there, while Mrs. Crandall touched the velvety petals of another rose with her gloved fingers.

"Would you like to see your mother before you're married?"

Gay thought she hadn't heard this right. She seemed bewildered so Fania repeated what she had said.

"I—"

"Never mind. I thought perhaps you might like to see your mother. She's in Arizona, isn't she? Sick? You remember you did me a favor once? Well, I came out here today to tell you that I'll do one for you if you want me to. You've just to say the word—if you want to go to Arizona. I'll stand all the expenses." Fania said it so simply, in such good faith that Gay gasped. Had Paul been absolutely truthful about Mrs. Crandall? Offering this—to her. A trip to Arizona.

"She's dangerous—" she seemed to hear Paul whisper. "Dangerous." Don't trust her. At any rate, she had no idea of accepting Fania's invitation.

"I'll probably go—after I'm married." No use telling Fania about Mark, and what they were going to do. At least Fania couldn't know that.

"Well, remember you can go if you want to," Mrs. Crandall replied. They were near her limousine which was parked on the drive. Fania got in and waved. Gay waved in return and set out for the house where Mrs. Patterson was waiting on the porch. She didn't understand Fania's invitation, didn't understand it at all. There was no need for it, unless the older woman was sorry. According to Paul, Fania was sorry for nothing. She wished she could talk to him, tell him of Fania's visit. If she got a chance to phone she would.

Mrs. Patterson was enthusiastic when Gay reached her side. "A lovely friend you have—but you weren't very cordial. You'll have to do better another time. We'll have Mrs. Crandall out to dinner some night. I had no idea you had such charming friends."

The more the girl thought about the invitation, the more puzzled she became. Of course, she had no idea of accepting. She would never take this trip Fania had offered. Mrs. Crandall should have known it was ridiculous to suggest it. Trying to make amends? Again she wondered what Paul Ladishaw would say if he knew. Once or twice she looked longingly at the telephone but when she thought that the call would have to be long distance, and that Mrs. Patterson was hovering entirely too near, she gave it up.

At 6:30 to the dot Frank Patterson came in, and at quarter to seven dinner was served. Gay was frankly nervous. Mark was coming after dinner. Perhaps this would be the last meal she would have here . . . she hoped so. It might not be fair—what she was doing—but she couldn't help it. She loved Mark, and he loved her. They had a right to their love. Mr. Patterson couldn't help seeing that. She was glad they were to face him together. It was the only decent way.

Patterson was in a jovial mood. Gay was glad for this—he wouldn't take it so hard. . . . She smiled at his sallies, and after dinner when he put his arm around her and drew her into the living room, entered into the chess game with some enthusiasm.

After dinner Mark was coming. They were through now, starting the game. He ought to be here. Her fingers were icy cold as she moved a knight across the board, and there was a queer singing in her ears. When she spoke she was surprised at her voice. It seemed strange, shaky.

Would tonight be the last night at this chess board? Or would she be here—forever?

No—

Emma was crossing the floor. That meant the bell had rung. You couldn't hear it in the living room. Mark had come. She heard his voice in the hall, asking for his uncle

A bishop she had been fingering slipped to the floor.

Tomorrow—A Plan for Release.

OLYMPIA, Wash.—"Fire!" shouted William E. Dietz's son to him over the phone. Dietz called the fire department to go to his home and put out the blaze. Arriving there the department saw dense clouds of smoke pouring from the house. Brave firemen entered and presently the smoke stopped. Out came the firemen with the cause of the smoke—a beefsteak, burned to a cinder.

Q.—Please give some information about Nina McKinney, the young colored girl who has gone into the movies.—A. McK.

A.—Nina May McKinney is 17 years old. She went on the stage at the age of 15, in a Harlem negro revue. She is not dark, but a coppery color. Her mother is her maid in Hollywood. She is about 32 years old; has light skin also and claims to be part Spanish. Nina May's father runs a cafe in Harlem, N. Y. As a child Nina was a maid to a wealthy North Carolina family. While she was singing in Black Birds in Harlem, King Vidor saw her and put her under contract for a picture.

Q.—What is the correct pronunciation of Edna Ferber's novel Cimarron? What dotes it mean?—W. S. W.

A.—The title of Miss Ferber's book is pronounced Cim-a-roon, with the accent on the last syllable. In Spanish Cimarron means wild or unruly.

Q.—What is the technical name for a tree which sheds its bark? For one which sheds it leaves?—B. S.

A.—A tree which sheds its bark during certain intervals of the year is called a decorticating tree. One which sheds its leaves is called deciduous.

Q.—Is it better for anyone to sleep in a narrow or wide bed?—A. L.

A.—In a book entitled Sleep: Why We Need It and How We Get It, by Donald Laird and Charles G. Mulier the statement is made that beds should be at least 39 inches wide. This book is a report of the researches conducted by Dr. Laird and his assistants at the psychological laboratory of Colgate university.

Q.—What is the climate of Panama?—A. E. S.

A.—Most of Panama is tropical, having warm days and cooler nights. The temperature of Colon ranges from 68-95 degrees F. Similar temperatures prevail in Panama City. The wet season is from April to December, when the rainfall is from 85-155 inches yearly.

Q.—What is the official name for the game called Contract?—F. E. H.

A.—Contract Bridge is the official name.

Q.—Is glass ever found in natural formation?—D. E. H.

A.—Glass is a man-made product.

Q.—Did Moliere die while enacting the role of a sick man in one of his own plays?—A. O.

A.—Moliere's last play was Le Malade Imiginaire and the story of that play is the history of his death. While critically ill, he wrote this, one of his best comedies, around the figure of a man who was sick only in imagination. When it was produced, he played the part of the man with the feigned illness. The night of its fourth production found Moliere much worse. He refused to disappoint his audience and went on. During the performance a convulsion seized him which he covered with a laugh. At the end of the evening he died.

Q.—Who suggested the plan of putting statues in the capitol of prominent men from each state?—V. C.

A.—Justin Smith Morrill suggested it. The National Statuary Hall, semicircular in shape and designed by Latrobe, after a Greek theater, is one of the most beautiful rooms of the capitol. On the north side it has a colonnade of Potomac marble with white capitals, and a screen of similar columns on the south side supports a noble arch. The domed ceiling, decorated after that of the Roman Pantheon, springs 57 feet to a cupola, by which the room is lighted. Above the door leading from the rotunda is Franzoni's historical clock. This room was the Hall of Representatives, and was the forum of debates by Webster and Clay, Adams, Calhoun and others whose names are indelibly associated with the history of congress. 1864 at the suggestion of Senator Morrill of Vermont (then a member of the house) the room was set apart as National Statuary Hall, to which each state might send the statues of two of its distinguished citizens. Rhode Island was the first to respond, choosing Roger Williams and Nathaniel Greene.

Q.—Do most earthquakes happen near large bodies of water?—H. McM.

A.—Most earthquake regions lie near the edges of the continental platforms which are produced by the collapse of large areas of the earth's crust: These are the zones which are undergoing the most rapid change of level at the present time. In many cases the deeps have become filled with water, producing seas and oceans.

A.—The Post Office Department says that such a letter, if mailed in an envelope under cover, is not unmailable. When written on a card it is unmailable, since it contains a threat of bad luck, if the chain is broken.

HOOVER TALKS ACROSS OCEAN

New Radio-Telephone Service Inaugurated

WASHINGTON, April 3. (UP)—Opening new radio-telephone service to South America President Hoover made good will calls to the presidents of Chile and Uruguay today.

By the modern wizardry of science Mr. Hoover was able, within a few minutes, to exchange greetings similar to those which required a six-week voyage on his part during his good will tour of South America two years ago.

Arrangements had been made for President Hoover to talk also with President Irigoyen of Argentina, but a cablegram from Buenos Aires today stated that President Irigoyen was too ill to participate in the ceremonies.

Reception Recalled.

President Hoover, in speaking with President Ibanez of Chile, recalled "the inspiring and cordial reception" extended to him in Santiago during his visit there in 1928 and expressed especial gratification in participating in the inauguration of radio-telephone communication.

"A brief span of 40 years serves to encompass the extraordinary history of modern means of communication between our respective countries," President Hoover said.

"In 1890 the first direct cable service was inaugurated, effecting a revolutionary improvement in communication which has in the subsequent years been duplicated by the establishment of radio-telegraphic communication, or direct and speedy communication by means of airplanes and now by the present radio-telephone service.

Canal Cited

"Concurrently sea traffic has been immeasurably facilitated by the opening of the Panama canal and by the never-ending improvement in the quality and speed of the vessels which ply between our two countries."

In addressing President Campisteguy of Uruguay, President Hoover referred to his visit "to the great capital of the progressive republic of Uruguay," and declared that the increasingly numerous ties of communications "form the material part of the strong bond, the other part of which is intellectual and spiritual fraternity, that fortunately exists between our two countries."

Acting secretary of state Joseph Cotton, speaking to Chilean Minister of Interior David Hermosilla, asserted that the new means of communication "will contribute to the better understanding and friendship of the citizens of Chile and the United States, because it cannot be disputed that false prejudices and misconceptions which may unconsciously be entertained vanish when strangers know and speak with one another."

New Process May Lower Flying Risk

ITHACA, N. Y., April 2. (UP)—Scientists working at Cornell university have discovered what promises to be a sure method of eliminating the formation of ice on metal, one of the greatest hazards for transatlantic flights, it was learned today.

Working under Dr. William C. Green of the Daniel Guggenheim fund for promotion of aeronautics, investigators have invented a process which they believe will prevent formation of ice coatings on metal surfaces, particularly on airplane wings.

The process involves first an oil coating over vulcanized rubber strips on a wing. The rubber is highly absorbent and the oils used—more than 100 were tried—proved to be mobile under ice forming conditions and nondrying over long periods of time.

Ice may form over such a coating upon airplane wing, it is explained, but the coated wing gives the ice no real chance to adhere.

In order to permit an airplane pilot to break up such a thin ice coating as may form over an oil treated wing, a series of flat rubber air tubes or pockets have been built. These will be connected by pipe to a pump in the cockpit. When a pilot sees ice forming over the oil flow he will pump the tubs full of air. They will expand and break the ice.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and other transatlantic pilots have declared ice to be one of the greatest dangers in ocean flying.

LIQUOR EXPORT BILL DELAYED

Canadian Parliament To Argue Rum Ban

OTTAWA, April 3. (INS)—Delay in consideration of the liquor exports bill, which would place a ban on liquor shipments from Canada destined for the United States, was indicated today.

Arguments in favor of referring the bill to a special committee were advanced in the senate by three of the opposition. One of these, Senator Robertson of Ontario, said that negotiations had recently been opened with the United States for a new treaty to suppress general smuggling and he thought the senate would be "performing a useful service" if it delayed passing the liquor exports bill until Washington had agreed to conclude a reciprocal treaty.

Stamford Official Takes New Position

STAMFORD, Texas, April 3.—After 10 years' continuous service with the United States department of agriculture in the bureau of animal industry and agricultural economics on a job where he has covered a territory consisting of 17 western states in the nation, Virgil V. Instead of having 17 states to cover, Mr. Parr in his new work will have charge of only 110,000 acres of ranch land on which there now are approximately 8,500 Hereford cattle.

Nations Are Relieved as Troublous Wanderer Settles After Long Travels

WASHINGTON, April 3. (UP)—Feodor Borozdoff is back home again and in Moscow, Washington, Simla, and Kashgar the voluminous records of Feodor's troubles are being filed away to rot.

Moscow records Feodor as an escaped prisoner suspected of spying in Soviet Russia for the American government.

Washington records Feodor as a 62-year-old Russian alien who came here in 1907, departed in 1923 and spent the better part of the next seven years trying to get back.

Sihla, which is the hot weather capital of the Indian empire, lists Feodor as an alien whose troubles demanded attention of subsecretaries and consuls.

Prisoner at Kashgar

Kashgar remembers Feodor as a man without a country who was a prisoner for 26 months after he wandered into that capital of Chinese Turkestan from across the snow mountains of the Thian Shan range.

Feodor was a footsore beggar when he reached Kashgar three months and 1,750 miles out of a northeast Russia prison and still bold in his purpose to walk and beg across the whole of Asia, to Shanghai in search of his wife and three children.

Between 1907 and 1923 many things happened to blue-eyed baldish Feodor. Two children, Amelia and Alex were born to him and Mrs. Borozdoff.

The eldest child, Xania, was born in Russia. Feodor bought a farm at Granite Falls, 60 miles from Seattle, Wash. But his wife was unhappy. There was a divorce and she and the children went to her brother at Kamchatka, eastern Siberia.

Suspected as Spy

In 1923 Feodor decided to return to Russia to obtain custody of his children and return them to the United States. He landed at Vladivostok and learned his family had removed to Shanghai. He asked Soviet authorities to return his passport so that he might visit Shanghai to search for his family. Belatedly noting the document had been by Johanovsky, czarist consul general at Seattle, the G. P. U., or Soviet secret police arrested Feodor, charged him with spying for the United States and sent him to prison.

After two months Feodor escaped, penniless, and started to walk across the breadth of Asia, turning southeast to escape arctic cold.

Three months later he entered Kashgar, Chinese Turkestan, beyond which stretches the Takla Makan desert plateau. Feodor's brief description of his journey says he crossed the snow mountains into China.

Arrested in China

Chinese police arrested Feodor for crossing the border without proper papers. For 26 months Feodor remained in Kashgar's prison on the desert edge because to have freed him would have meant starvation and no country would admit he belonged among its citizenship. While making every effort to locate Feodor's friends in the United States, Robert Frazer Jr., American consul general at Calcutta, reiterated to British officials there were no government funds available for the wanderer's relief and explained the man was not an American citizen.

But Frazer was sure Feodor could re-enter the United States and obtained for him an opportunity to work his way to New York in a cargo vessel.

Upon reaching the United States Feodor went to Seattle, Wash. He learned his wife had returned there from Shanghai with her children, but she had died in 1928. Then he searched for his children. Police Chief J. L. Forbes of Seattle found the family, Xania, 24, was working in the Fox studio, Hollywood, supporting Amelia, 16, and Alex, 12.

'RED LILAC' PLEADS GUILTY TO SLAYING WIFE OF ARTIST

LILA JIMERSON ESCAPES CHAIR

Marchand to Be Released From Buffalo Jail

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 3. (AP)—The curtain was rung down today on a drama of nation-wide interest in which an Indian woman was tried for the murder of a white artist's wife and tonight the last of the scenery was being cleared away.

Lila Jimerson, the "red lilac," lay on a sick bed in the Buffalo City hospital and faced a prison term of 20 years to life, a sentence which became mandatory when she pleaded guilty today to a charge of murder, first degree.

In sharp contrast to the earlier scenes of the trial of Lila Jimerson, for murder in the slaying of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, wife of Henri Marchand, artist and sculptor, the final act of the drama took place in the auditorium of the hospital before a handful of spectators, mostly newspaper reporters.

It was from her hospital bed, wheeled into the auditorium, that the emaciated, disease-wracked Indian woman nodded acquiescence to questions by Judge F. Bret Thorne, and entered her plea of guilty to the reduced charge. Not once did she speak.

Her plea accepted, she was removed to her room, and her part in the drama was ended. Ended, save for the epilog to come after her release from the hospital, when she will be sentenced to prison.

Henri Marchand, husband of the murdered woman, who took the witness stand and admitted intimacy with the Indian woman "for professional reasons" only, tonight was preparing to leave the county jail where he had been detained since the start of the trial as a material witness. District Attorney Guy B. Moore said Marchand would be released tonight or tomorrow.

Moore said he probably would decide tomorrow what should be done with Nancy Bowen, aged Cayuga jointly indicted with Lila Jimerson for Mrs. Marchand's murder and whose weird testimony of witches and sorcery intrigued a crowded courtroom several days.

MacDonald's Coal Bill Passes British House

LONDON, April 3. (US)—The Labor party's pet project, the coal bill, in which a minor defect caused such a parliamentary scurrying not long ago, passed the house of commons today by a vote of 277 to 234. The liberal party of David Lloyd George supported the MacDonald government.

The coal bill, which provides for the amalgamation of all coal industries in the country and the creation of district bureaus for the control of production, also reduces hours from eight to seven and a half daily.

The bill now goes to the house of lords for its final reading.

Power Trusts Call International Meet to Push 'Education' of Public

By M. L. RAMSAY
(Copyright, 1930, Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Highly organized and well-financed machinery to spread American power trust propaganda on a colossal scale through an international meeting of the world power conference was revealed today.

Forty-nine countries are scheduled to be represented at this meeting, to be held in Berlin June 16 to 25. President Paul von Hindenburg of Germany is listed as its sponsor.

A reception for the 4,000 to 5,000 Americans and foreigners is to be held in the reichstag building, with ensuing sessions in the State Opera house.

Luxurious Travel

Accommodations for the American power delegates are de luxe, with an "official ship"—the Hamburg-American liner Resolute—to carry them to Germany. A copy of the American program obtained by Universal service alludes to gay bathing beaches of the Baltic, charming medieval towns and yacht racing at Kiel.

A $50,000 a year budget for the American committee of the conference has been guaranted by the National Electric Light association, chief propaganda agency of the power trust. This fund is to be made up by the American power corporations, with some help from allied electrical equipment corporations and financial houses and from $10 membership dues.

Consumers Pay

Through the power companies, American consumers will then foot the bill, in accordance with unvarying practice, in electric rates. The federal trade commission investigation has shown such contributions by the companies uniformly are charged to "operating expenses."

One compensation to the consumers, the program discloses, will be more "education" in power financing, which the trade commission investigation thus far has shown as marked exclusively by inflated rate bases and high rates.

The government will send official delegates to the conference, Universal Service was told at the state department. Government departments are to nominate them, submitting their names to President Hoover, it was stated.

Big Names Used

Big illustrated broadsheets whooping it up for the Berlin meeting carry in large type the names of Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont as honorary chairman of the American committee, and Secretaries Wilbur, Hurley, and Hyde—the members of the federal power commission—as honorary vice chairmen.

Wilbur told the senate Interstate Commerce committee recently they were "put in for window dressing."

Conference records since obtained by this committee reveal the American wing of the conference as having been created and financed for the last six years almost exclusively by the power combines.

Like London Meet

It is revealed also as having sprung from, and adopted the objects of, a 1924 world conference at London which American power leaders made a forum for attacks on the Boulder dam project and on the retention by the public of any of its power resources and equipment.

These attacks served doubly to further the foreign power enterprises of American power companies, since greatly extended, and to advance the propaganda campaign in this country through cabled news stories which claimed front page space in American newspapers.

Program 'Fixed'

Director George Otis Smith of the United States geological survey, from the outset a member of the executive committee of the American conference group, told Universal Service the London program was "a little bit fixed" by the power companies in their own interest. He was moved to protest about it, he said, after the meeting.

Smith added that the American power men had taken a similar attitude toward the Berlin meeting. He thought he had the program made somewhat more liberal, in that certain papers to be read were assigned to government officials and employes, instead of to men from the power corporations.

BACK-TO-FARM MOVE PLANNED

Unemployed Group Works On Project

WASHINGTON, April 3. (UP)—A "back to the farm" colonization project to stimulate employment is planned by leaders of the delegation of unemployed which converted on Washington from all parts of the country recently to seek government aid.

An offer to take a number of unemployed persons on farms already has been received by the conference from a group of Shenandoah valley (Va.) farmers. They plan to establish a permanent community of farm workers. The Virginians offered a 50-50 share of profits on crops grown on cleared land and 100 per cent for those raised on uncleared ground.

Paul Dennie, Philadelphia garment worker and chairman of the conference here, explained the experiment he and his associates will promote to increase employment. Workers, he said, will be cleared to the Virginia farms through local headquarters of the conference here. Later similar projects may be carried out in other sections.

Dennie said money will be needed to "grub stake" those who take up the proposition until they can make a crop this spring. He added he would seek aid from the federal farm board and also seek to interest members of congress.

"This is probably the sanest offer of solution for this problem that's been presented in this crisis," Dan O'Brien, nationally known hobo, said on referring to the Virginia offer.

"There are 50,000 unemployed in New York City who could be helped in this way."

SPITE PLOT FAILS THRICE

Suitor Loses Battle to Mar Girl's Face

NEW YORK, April 3. (UP)—Wallace Downer's efforts to get even with the Swedish girl who snubbed him led to his arrest today and to his acquisition of the title of most thoroughly double-crossed man north of Marie Byrd land.

Downer's romance with Miss Martha Kranquist, a maid servant, collapsed about six weeks ago and to hear him tell it, Miss Kranquist was solely to blame.

Downer immediately set about to "even things up," as he put it to police in his confession today. He hired three men, he said, paid them in advance, and told them to call on Miss Kranquist and disfigure her. The three men later returned, Downer said, told him they had done the job, and then departed. He learned, however, they had not been near the girl.

Twice more Downer hired men to slash his erstwhile sweetheart's face and both times the appointed mutilators double-crossed their employer, Downer said, escaping with the money.

The fourth time, according to the story told police, Downer hit upon a better idea. He hired three men without paying them a cent, told them to visit Miss Kranquist at her place of employment, perform the knife work and then loot the place.

Meantime, police had been tipped off and this morning several detectives were waiting for the men. They were arrested and detectives found two of them carried revolvers.

After questioning them, police arrested Downer, who is 29. He confessed.

The three men assigned to do the slashing gave their names as Jack Lee and John Gray of New York, and Louis DuVall of Louisville, Ky. Lee and Gray are said to be at liberty under bail on robbery charges in Jersey City.

THAT'S BETTER

National Survey Says Trade Conditions Improving

NEW YORK, April 3. (AP)—The New York World in a national survey of business conditions said today:

"Business in the United States, while spotty, has turned the corner, unemployment is on the wane, the trend of trade is definitely upward, and the closing months of the year will find business in larger volume than in the late months of 1929."

Such was the substance of replies of leading industrialists, national merchandisers, bankers, insurance company heads, statistical experts and leaders of organized employers and organized labor to the following query:

"How was business in the first quarter of 1930; what is the outlook for business in the remaining nine months?"

LAMESA DAIRY SHOW CLOSES

Record Breaking Crowds Attend Session

Special to The Record News

LAMESA, Texas, April 3.—Eclipsing former attendance records, the Dawson county three-day dairy short course registered over 1,750 Thursday afternoon during the last session. Two thousand one hundred twenty-five persons were registered during the three days.

Answers to questions featured the afternoon's program, when S. C. Evans and C. N. Shepperdson led a discussion of dairying. Farmers wrote questions on slips of paper turned over to the dairy authorities who answered them. It is believed more than 150 questions were answered during the course in this unique round table discussion. Speakers during the last session included D. T. Simmons, who spoke on the Jersey sire; S. C. Evans and C. N. Shepperdson.

An exhibit of circle bulls and registered dairy cattle was held immediately after the course adjourned, followed by a parade of sires and cows in the business section. G. H. Price and H. G. Talbert won Jersey heifers today, given by Lamesa business men. L. T. Freeman drew the $350 register of merit Jersey bull, which will be kept for use of farmers in his precinct.

Officials of the course were more than pleased with the success of the educational work. "Besides educating farmers in organized dairy methods, the short course served to bring the farmers and business men closer together," William A. Wilson, manager of the local chamber, stated Thursday afternoon.

ROTARY PLANS BOYS' WORK

Glover Gives Talk on New Cancer Treatment

Tentative plans for the continuance of extensive boys' work by the Wichita Falls Rotary club under a proposed budget of $2,600 annually were adopted by the club Thursday noon following a report by Walter D. Cline, chairman of a committee which recently completed an investigation of past work and future possibilities.

During the coming week a survey will be made to ascertain whether the Rotary Boys' club, located in the old city hall building at Ninth street and Ohio, can be maintained on the budget named, and whether the required sum can be raised by members of the Rotary club. A report of this survey will be made next Thursday at the weekly club meeting, it was announced.

A brief exposition of the treatment now being used for cancer of various kinds in California was given by Dr. M. H. Glover, who visited the San Francisco clinic recently in which the much-talked-of treatments originated. Various drawings were shown to illustrate the different kinds of cancerous growth. Dr. Glover said that the California treatment uses an extract from the suprarenal gland of a sheep, and that the method of extraction of this fluid is not yet generally known.

Bill Dickey and Sam Byrd, members of the visiting New York Yankees baseball squad, were guests at Thursday's luncheon. Dickey spoke briefly in praise of extension work among boys of the city.

New directors of the Rotary club will be elected on April 17, according to an announcement made by Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, president.

Taking of testimony began Thursday morning in the 30th district court at Graham in the suit involving several million dollars brought against the Texas company and others by Lee O. Bearden on a claim to a child's share in the estate left by his father. The remainder of the day was spent in hearing testimony and Judge P. A. Martin, of the 89th district, occupying the bench through an exchange with Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district, stated Thursday evening the testimony was likely to continue until next week.

Bearden returned to Young county after an absence of more than seven years, during which time he was adjudged legally dead. He is now suing for his portion of valuable oil properties left by his father.

Butcher Knife Basis of Charge Against Two

By means of a butcher knife which he identified as having been stolen from his place on the Iowa Park road several nights ago, E. B. Neale filed a complaint Thursday charging Ardell Bloom and Delbert Tibbs, who are prisoners in the Wilbarger county jail, with robbery in connection with the alleged holdup of his store, according to Sam B. Spence, district attorney.

After hearing that the butcher knife had been found on the men following their arrest in Vernon, Mr. Neale went there to identify them. The suspects are charged with a similar offense in Wilbarger county and their cases are tentatively set for call next week, officers here were told. Sheriff W. G. Bralley said Vernon authorities had agreed to surrender the accused men following disposition of their cases there.

550 STORES JOIN CAMPAIGN

Manager Here Tells of Value of Advertising

The Ward week sale, which is being advertised by the local Montgomery Ward and company store is a nation-wide event in which more than 550 of the company's stores are participating, according to Jerry Aylward, manager of the Wichita Falls store.

"This is our first Ward week sale," said Mr. Aylward, but if our past exeperience is repeated, every enterprising merchant in the city will profit by the crowds this sale will bring to Wichita Falls during the sale. Although we are using several different advertising methods to reach our customers within a radius of 30 or 40 miles of the city, we are putting most of our effort into newspaper advertising.

"It is estimated that our company will spend nearly a million dollars for advertising in over 800 newspapers to make this sale a success. This evidence of our confidence in the pulling power of the local newspapers is not a matter of guess work. Our experience over a period of there years has convinced us that there is no better medium for reaching the buying public.

"This April sale is intended to stimulate a generally wide-spread interest not only in our store, but in the business enterprises of this community. We tried to make the bargain appeal so strong that this event will attract customers who come here seldom. I am sure that the business men of this city will profit by the throngs of shoppers this widely advertised sale will bring to this community. Previous sales of this kind have proved conclusively that every wide-awake merchant in towns where we have stores is benefited tremendously during the week of this sale."

Judge Expected to Clear Way For Electra Will Test in District Court

Attorneys involved in the legal contest over the estate of E. L. Carter, wealthy Electra recluse who died several weeks ago, indicated Thursday that Judge John P. Marrs of the county court here would probably overrule the contest filed in county court last week to allow the case to be refiled in district court.

Such action, according to C. P. Engleking, Electra attorney who is representing the estate, would detain trial of the contest until late in the summer. The will has already been probated.

The proceedings Thursday resulted in an agreement among attorneys to allow Henry H. Haynes, commissioner from the Electra precinct, to remain temporary administrator of the estate. He had been previously appointed as such and his bond of $25,000 was allowed to stand. C. C. McDonald and George W. Anderson, attorneys for the contestant, contended that an approval of bonds tendered by the persons named administrators in the will would serve to authorize, so far as county court is concerned, a distribution of the property in accordance with the will and in violation of a temporary injunction granted recently in district court.

Judge Marrs declined Thursday morning to approve the bonds aggregating $400,000 offered by Mr. Haynes and Edward and Harry Carter as final executors, as named in the will. Edward and Harry Carter, both of Rockbridge county, Va., are included among nieces and nephews among whom the bulk of the estate will be divided if terms of the will are carried out. The estate, according to Mr. Engleking, its attorney, has an estimated value of about $250,000, the greater portion of the property being located in Texas and the remainder in Virginia.

The contestant is Mrs. Ruth Jaeger, also of Virginia, who claims she is the daughter and only child of Mr. Carter and is therefore entitled to the entire estate. Her name was not mentioned in the will.

Yates on an appeal from corporation court on a charge of double parking is also scheduled for call April 14. Tee Powell, alias S. B. Adams, will be called to trial on a charge of swindling. A total of 26 cases are listed in the settings.

Police Search Coast For Whisky Gang Head

GALVESTON, April 3. (UP)—A search extending along the whole gulf coast was started for George Musey, Galveston liquor gang leader, today by federal and Texas authorities.

Musey has been sentenced to a two-year term in the penitentiary for operating a gambling hall here and another charge of gambling still is on the district court docket. He faces two years in the penitentiary and a five-year suspended sentence for liquor law violations. He also has been indicted by federal authorities for conspiring to violate the liquor laws.

DUCHESS FACES SUICIDE CASE

Former Show Girl Found in Gas-Filled Room

LONDON, April 3. (US)—The latest chapter in the amazing career of the Duchess of Leinster, former beautiful show girl and wife of the Premier Duke and Earl of Ireland, was enacted today when she was arraigned at Lambeth police court on a charge of attempted suicide.

The duchess was found unconscious in a gas-filled lodging house room in Brixton. She was alleged to have turned on the gas after an argument with Stanley Williams, young cook, as to whether they should listen to London or Paris on the radio.

The duchess was remanded for trial.

Duke in London

The Duke of Leinster came to London today on a visit to his attorneys, but did not call at the hospital where the duchess is recuperating.

The duke sent a representative to the hospital, learned that the duchess was out of danger, then returned to his abode in the country.

Stanley Williams, the young chef who rented the Brixton flat with the duchess, has rejoined his wife.

Attempts to further interview Williams were prevented by Mrs. Williams who explained that he couldn't be seen because:

"He's so upset about it all."

Once Chorus Girl

The story of the one-time chorus girl who lived to see herself the bride of the Duke of Leinster was climaxed by the finding of her unconscious in the gas-filled kitchenette of a squalid Brixton flat.

Pair Rents Flat

The duchess drifted, poverty-stricken, from place to place. A month ago she rented a small workman's flat, consisting of a bed-sitting room and a kitchenette, with Williams.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 3. (UP)—It took both H. E. Turner and his wife to acquire a $2,000,000 estate from Turner's operations in the South City oil field, Mrs. Turner alleged today in a divorce suit asking division of the property.

"Although it required our joint efforts in making two million, he alone assaulted me, leaving my face and body badly bruised, eyes blackened and jaw swollen," she charged.

European Wheat Combine Formed

OMAHA, April 3. (AP)—The possibility that a powerful combine of European wheat interests has been formed to keep from buying wheat in the American markets as a move to embarrass President Hoover in his farm relief program and in retaliation for the part he played in breaking down England's world-wide rubber monopoly was seen by Dr. David Friday, noted New York economist, who spoke before the Nebraska Investment Bankers' association meeting today.

"There is no hiding the fact," he said, "that there is high feeling among powerful British interests against President Hoover. They have not forgotton his activity in breaking down the British monopoly on rubber. Now that he is engaged in a pretentious program of farm relief, these interests see their opportunity to take a page out of his own book, and I believe they are taking full advantage of that opportunity."

Try a Star Ham for dinner tomorrow. Notice how pink and plump it is. Notice the nice proportion of lean to fat. Cook it in the regular way. We can predict your verdict. You will say "Star" to your dealer from now on. Armour and Company, Chicago.

'RIBBON STRANGLING' CASE DEFIES CLEVEREST DETECTIVES

BRIDE'S DEATH LAID TO THEFT

Chicago Police Baffled At Every Turn of Probe

CHICAGO, April 3. (INS)—Baffled by a dearth of definite clues, the police, with the aid of the most modern scientific methods of crime detection, made an intensive effort today to unravel the skein of mystery surrounding the ribbon strangling of Mrs. Mildred Helsing, 26-year-old housewife.

Confessing that the crime was the most puzzling they have contended with in recent years, the police admitted that almost 40 hours of investigation had yielded only the most meager information to aid them in identifying the slayer.

The police held to the theory that the young woman, married only about two years and happy with her husband, had been garrotted, with a piece of her own black velvet ribbon, by a thief whom she interrupted at work.

From the statements of neighbors they established that she had been out shopping a few hours before the husband, Reuben, an auditor, returned from work and found the body, partly covered with a blanket late Tuesday. Marks on the front door of the Helsing apartment indicated that the lock, known to have been defective, had been tampered with. Two fur coats, a quantity of lingerie, the woman's purse, containing about $15, and her wedding and engagement rings were taken.

TAXI DRIVERS WIN BATTLE

Court Rules They Can Wear What They Please

By H. ALLEN SMITH

NEW YORK, April 3. (UP)—New York's 28,000 taxi drivers were on speaking terms again today with the city's 16,000 policemen, a supreme court justice named Ford having decided the fender crushers may wear bowler hats and togs while on duty if they want to.

A few weeks ago New York's famous police commissioner, Grover A. Whalen, who has a poetic eye and a gardenia in his buttonhole, decided such things as red sweaters, checker caps and turned up shirt collars are none too esthetic behind the wheel of a taxi. The commissioner, therefore, announced all cab drivers would be refused licenses unless they equipped themselves with a regular uniform.

Snappy Garb

This uniform was prescribed by the commissioner, who decided if the 28,000 drivers all dressed like mess sergeants in the Prussian army, they would look fine. The uniform would consist of a nifty cap, similar to those worn by the police, and a duster.

The Whalen ultimatum stirred up quite a storm.

Matters were brought to a head by an upstanding young man named Michael Convey, a cab driver. Convey appeared at the license bureau with a bundle under his arm and asked for a license.

Cab Driver Balks

"Where's your uniform?" asked the clerk.

"I'm not putting on no uniform," declared the martyr.

"I can't give you a license then," said the clerk.

"All right, we'll see," said Convey, starting to untie his package. "I'll show you and your outfit something. Just because Whalen wears spats and red neckties, he thinks he can make us drivers put on swaller-tailed coats. Well, pooapoo for him."

Rough Stuff

Whereupon Convey pulled out of his package one of the new dusters and one of the new caps. Calmly, as though he were removing an appendix, he ripped the duster to shreds, tore the cap to pieces and threw the leavings in the clerk's face.

Then Convey stalked to the supreme court and put the matter in the hands of the judiciary.

What proved most edifying for the cab drivers, however, was the fact Justice Ford assessed the costs of the action, amounting to a cool $10, against Commissioner Whalen.

Serella told physicians he was justified in shooting the couple "because they were selling me dope."

Boy Comes West To Punch Cattle; Nicked for Roll

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 3. (UP)—Martin Nelsen, 19, ran away from high school at Racine, Wis., to "come out West and punch cattle." He is still looking for a ranch.

When Martin reached Oklahoma City he was equipped with a "10-gallon" hat presented by his sweetheart; Boots, a sack of tobacco and the "makin's" to roll 'em with one hand, a .22 calibre pistol and a .22 calibre rifle.

On his way up town from the depot, a pawnshop display convinced him his preparations were not complete. He came out of the shop after trading his ring, watch and rifle for a .38 caliber pearl handle revolver.

He met a negro. Proudly, he shwed the new own. Suddenly, the gun and negro disappeared.

Martin told police today of his ambition to come "out West" to battle Indians, punch cattle, write a book and, eventually, marry the girl.

"But I'm not going back. I have only $2. There must be some cattle ranches around here where I can work until school begins."

Specify SWP and engage a good painter

Why SWP costs less on your house than any other paint

What will it cost to paint your house? This is what concerns you — not what the paint costs per gallon.

While fine old SWP costs more per gallon, it costs less on your home than any other paint. Why? Because one gallon of SWP will thoroughly paint almost twice as much surface as a gallon of cheaper paint. Therefore fewer gallons of SWP are needed.

So — ignoring the fact that SWP lasts twice as long as cheaper paint, and that its weatherproof colors retain their beauty to the very last — the first cost of painting your house with the world's best house paint is actually less than that of cheaper paint. Buy your paint on a job basis and save. Let us prove it to you by simple arithmetic.

Baby's Layette

In some states the movies are not allowed to show pictures of a young mother-to-be sewing on baby clothes, but whether the movies show them or not, the clothes have to be made. Over a million couples a year are married in the United States, and you can figure for yourself that quite a little sewing must be done before the stork appears.

The baby's clothing should be light in weight and fairly loose, and it should be made of non-irritating and non-scratchy material. The first rule is to make the baby's clothes simple. The baby should not be kept too warm, and he should be allowed the freedom of kicking his legs and wriggling his arms. Dresses that are yards in length and are uncomfortably warm or confining are no longer popular with physicians. The fewer clothes a baby has to wear, the healthier it will be and the sunnier its disposition.

The undergarments should always be made of silk or cotton, and not flannel. If the climate is cold a woolen wrapper or woolen blanket may be thrown over. The garments should be designed so that they can be tied with tapes so the baby's tender flesh will not be pressed against hard buttons, snaps or safety pins. If the clothing opens down the front he can be dressed with much less handling, as too much handling has a tendency to upset his digestion.

During the warm days it is wise to keep the baby as cool as possible. Remember that babies get warm quicker than you do because their bodily heat is higher. If it is too warm to wear a sweater, yourself, it is certainly too warm to put one on the baby. During the warm weather all he needs to wear is a cotton shirt and a diaper, and his feet should be bare during the warmer part of the day. A clean blanket may be placed on the floor on which the baby can play with no unnecessary clothes to hamper him.

In buying clothes, it is well to choose them a little larger as the baby soon outgrows the first size. Do not choose fancy dresses trimmed with lace. All the seams should be flat so they will not bunch up in ridges. I am going to give you a list of some things to get before baby is born. It is well to get the necessities, such as plenty of diapers, first, and such things as silk bonnets and silk coats last.

Four undershirts of silk or cotton, size 2; three abdominal bands; four dozen diapers (one dozen 16 by 36 inches, two dozen 22 by 44 inches and one dozen 27 by 54 inches). Fold the diaper square and never triangular shape. Four blankets, four sheets, one wicker clothes basket or crib. Table felting can be folded to make a mattress. Rubber sheeting or oil cloth to go over mattress. Four pads to go over rubber sheeting, two knitted woolen sweaters or jackets, four pairs of socks, two pairs of woolen bootees, three flannel nightgowns, one thin cotton nightgown for summer, three thin gertrudes or petticoats (on hot days these should be worn), two wrappers or kimonos, four dresses, one box of baby talcum powder, one box of boric acid, two dozen assorted safety pins, one package of absorbent cotton, one bar white soap, one widemouthed nursing bottle for giving water to drink.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Erethemia

Question—Mrs. C. J. G. asks: "Will you kindly advise the meaning of the medical term 'erethemia multiform?' Is its cause known and can it be cured?"

Answer: Erethemia simply means an inflammation of the skin. The multiform is accompanied with papules and tubercles which last for several days, usually accompanied by headaches and pains. The usual cause is a gouty or rheumatic tendency. The use of a cleansing diet regime, using a fast for the first two weeks, should prove helpful.

Meat Broth

Question—Mrs. H. J. asks: "Is there any food value in meat broth?"

Answer: There is not much food value in meat broth. Most of the protein remains in the meat, and the acids are the broth.

Sleepy

Question—J. D. S. asks: "What would you advise for a person who couldn't seem to get enough sleep. She is only 18 years old, and apparently in good health, although a little overweight."

Answer: The young lady is undoubtedly eating too much and not exercising enough. Have her walk three or four miles a day, and reduce the amount of food she is using to about half, eliminating all starches and sugars for some time.

Normal Blood Pressure

Question—Mrs. M. F. W. asks: "Will you kindly state what is considered normal blood pressure? Does altitude make any difference on blood pressure?"

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., April 3.—Frederick dentists have offered their services to give a dental survey of the pupils of the Davidson school. During the recent inspection conducted by the Red Cross nurse, Miss Dorothy Skewes, the number of children who did not have any dental defects was ascertained. These children will be the ones who will be examined by the dentists. Miss Skewes points out that only a dentist can find the small pit and fissure cavities that cause trouble if allowed to go without care.

DRY ENFORCEMENT PROPOSALS DIVIDE JUDICIARY GROUP

TRIAL WITHOUT JURY OPPOSED

Law Commission's Report Up Friday

WASHINGTON, April 3. (AP)—The house judiciary committee failed to agree today on prohibition proposals of the Hoover law enforcement commission, and deferred action until next Wednesday, when a decision on whether they will be approved is planned.

Predictions were made that the commission's bill to broaden the powers of the United States commissioners to hold juryless trials and to define misdemeanors under the dry laws would fall of committee approval.

Chairman Graham said the committee wanted to assist in formulating measures to bring about better law enforcement, but added, "we refuse to rush action on measures that would result in unscientific legislation."

Capone's Financial Record Studied

CHICAGO, April 3. (INS)—Government agents investigating the income of "Scarface Al" Capone today asserted that the beer baron has sent or received almost $100,000 in telegraphic money orders since January, 1928.

At the same time they revealed that a secret inquiry into Capone's financial affairs has been under way for some time for income tax purposes. It was said this probe has been carried on so quietly that no word of it has reached Capone.

In the list of money orders, the name A. Costa appears frequently. The names of a number of his relatives and friends also appear.

In the meantime, Capone's whereabouts are once again a mystery following his visit to Chicago after being released from the eastern penitentiary in Philadelphia.

According to government authorities, Cartier and McAdoo represented to Loffler to have obtained a large amount of French currency which they said was on deposit here and was being held because they could not pay the "taxes" on the money.

Futures Market On Hogs Starts Off Well

CHICAGO, April 3. (AP)—Three million pounds of live pork were traded in on the floor of the Chicago livestock exchange in the first month of the hog futures market. The infant market was pronounced a success by its sponsors as it entered its second month, the world's only hog futures exchange.

The first month's business totaled 184 cars, representing 13,250 hogs weighing 3,036,000 pounds. Deliveries on contract totaled 315,470 pounds. The prices ranged from a high of $12.50 per hundredweight for September lights, down to $9.50 on March heavies.

Tingle Found Guilty Of Liquor Conspiracy

KANSAS CITY, April 3. (INS)—Joe Tingle, former president of the Tingle Oil company, today was found guilty of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws in connection with the operation of a brewery on Fairmount avenue.

Judge Albert L. Reeves deferred sentence until April 19 at request of defense attorneys.

It was Tingle's second trial. He was found guilty at the first trial a year ago and received a two-year prison sentence and a fine of $10,000 but the verdict later was reversed and remanded for a new trial.

Special to The Record News

AMARILLO, Texas, April 3.—A race between Western Air Express and Transcontinental Air Transport to be the first to install night flying between the Pacific and the East is under way with Amarillo one of the key centers in the schemes of the two groups.

Coupled with these announcements were two inspections here of local airports, one by F. H. Rothe, in charge of aviation engineering work for the Pennsylvania railroad and the other by William B. Mayo, chief engineer for Ford.

On the heels of these was a statement from Paul Henderson, vice president of National Air Transport, Inc., as to plans of T. A. T.

One of the plans is said to include a train journey from New York City to Cincinnati, Ohio; from there by plane to Amarillo with stops at probably Tulsa and Oklahoma City; after a night stop here, resumption of air journey to Los Angeles.

Don't fool yourself!

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Halitosis makes you unpopular with children

Some parents blame everything but halitosis (unpleasant breath) when children are not affectionate. As a matter of fact, halitosis is often the cause.

Don't fool yourself that you are free of it, because it is simply impossible to tell when you have it. It doesn't announce itself to the victim.

Eliminate the risk entirely by using full strength Listerine every day, morning and night. And between times, before meeting others.

Being an active germicide capable of killing 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds, full strength Listerine checks mouth fermentation and infection—both a cause of odors. Then it gets rid of the odors themselves; it is an instant deodorant.

Keep a bottle handy in home and office. Use it every day. It puts you on the polite, popular and profitable side. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

SPUDDERS OUTHIT BOB SHAWKEY'S YANKS TO WIN, 9 TO 6

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

"Your criticism of 'The Vagabond King,' which showed this week at the Strand," writes H. D. to this column, "was the most unjust piece of theater writing I ever saw, and it would please me very much if you would finally get to work on something you know about. Evidently you write about the shows in your sport column because you don't know anything about sport. Permit me to advise you that you know nothing about picture shows, either."

It's a great life, mates, if you can weather the storm.

The usual training camp accidents have taken their expected toll among the Spudders. The first serious mishap made Carroll Burrows its victim. In a collision with another player he was knocked unconscious and was out of the game with an injured eye and foot for several days. The next man forced out was Walter Euller, this time with a strained back. Then Bear Allday was incapacitated by sore muscles. In between the more serious accidents came a flock of minor, but painful ones. Fitzgerald and Nebel were pounded on the head by batted and thrown balls. Levey made a dive for a ball and came up with a badly snagged finger. And fingers being the most easily injured portion of a player's anatomy, these snaggings were more or less general in camp.

The players are carefully watchful of one another in efforts to avoid accidents. If they see a man will crash into the grandstand or a fence or any obstruction while trying to catch a ball, they shout warnings. But with the season so near, and everything depending on the good physical condition of the players, Manager Carl Williams is more anxious than ever to prevent accidents, and he may now be heard daily cautioning his charges to exercise utmost care.

Officials of the Wichita Falls Bowling association are going about rosy of cheek and glad of eye as the result of the enthusiastic response to the idea of a city championship bowling tournament. The tournament is still in progress, and will last through Friday evening, and if you haven't dropped around at the Jim Galloway's Spudder bowling alley and looked on you have missed something.

The idea behind this tournament, if it needs repeating, is to assure that Wichita Falls will be represented at Beaumont in the forthcoming state championship tournament. At the present writing it looks as if the Hub Clothing company team ought to do wonders at the state tourney. This firm has a tiptop team and is highly favored to win all honors in the five-man events in the city series. It is a pleasure to watch this team in action. There seems to be perfect team play in the group and the spirit that prevails is that each player has the team's fate directly in his hands. When each player feels this way toward his team, it is no wonder it can top the list.

President William E. Huff at the present writing, is the high-point man in the singles. Now here's a chance to boost our city, as they say. Suppose the Spudders win the Texas title, and their president wins the singles event at Beaumont.

RUTH KNOCKS TWO HOMERS

Spudders Get 11 Hits to 8 By Big-Timers

when he lifted a homer—one of the $80,000 kind—over the left field fence with Koenig, who had singled, on first. The Yanks then went scoreless until the sixth, when Ruth connected with another circuit swat, this time over the center field boards. Dickey of the Yanks also knocked a homer, and with a man on base, too, and while it stirred the crowd it did not bring forth pandemonium. It was not Ruth who did it.

Three Lean Frames

Things looked sad for the Spudders for the first three innings, during which Crouch's single to third was the only hit managed by Carl Williams' hopefuls. But in the fourth, a single and a double by Levey, singles by Storti, Kloza, Burns, Euller and White, Bettencourt's base on balls, and Crouch's sacrifice resulted in seven runs which put the Spudders in the lead they were destined to retain. The remaining Spudder tallies came in the seventh as the result of singles by Fitzgerald and Kloza and two errors on the part of the Yank's center fielder and third baseman.

The Yankees made a desperate attempt to even the score in the ninth. Reese, who doubled, scored on Durst's single, and Dickey drove Durst in with a home run over the right field fence.

Despite efforts of Spudder officials to accommodate the milling thousands seeking admission to the game, it was well into the third inning before the turnstiles stopped clicking. The bleachers were over-crowded, and hundreds of men, women and children were forced to stand or sit along the sidelines flanking left and right fields.

Lady Has Kodak

The left field crowd didn't mind it at all, apparently, because their position offered a perfect view of Babe Herman in action. Once during the game a woman stood patiently waiting for a fly ball to bring Babe close enough for a snapshot. Finally it came. Another player got the ball, and Ruth posed graciously for a photograph as the game went on.

The hunt for Ruth's autograph was not confined to the grown-ups. One little girl accompanied by her mother braved the maseulinity of the dugout and tremblingly watched Babe sign a small card.

There was one fan who obtained an autograph by proxy. A California acquaintance of Milt Steengrafe, veteran Spudder pitcher, sent a brand new baseball from the coast for Ruth to autograph. Steengrafe fulfilled the request by having Babe sign it.

The tilt with the Yankees was the last home exhibition game of the season. Next Saturday and Sunday the Spudders clash with the Oklahoma City team in the Oklahoma metropolis. Skipper Williams has announced that Halt Wiltse will hurl in the game.

The play-by-play account of the Yankee-Spudder game follows:

First Inning

TEXAS TRIBE LOOKS BETTER

Indians Rapidly Near Pink For Opener

SAN ANTONIO, April 3. (AP)—Every day the San Antonio Indians are showing up better in preparation for the Texas league opening game Wednesday.

Manager George Burns put them through their double daily workout today, two hours in the forenoon and two in the afternoon. He has not yet announced how the team will line up.

Athlete Urges Open Pay For Collegiate Players

IOWA CITY, Iowa, April 3. (AP)—Open payment of college athletes is advocated by Dennis Myers, guard on the University of Iowa's 1929 football team, in an oration for the annual university oratorical contest.

"Underhand" methods now used by large and small schools to recruit athletes, Myers contends, have brought intercollegiate sport into disrepute.

OUTBOARD RUNABOUTS

With Electric Starting
Sea-Horse Motors - - -
Concealed and Silenced

$925 to $1065

The fastest newcomer on the waters this season is the Johnson Aquaflyer powered by swift, silent Sea-Horse Motor, electrically started, and neatly concealed in a covered hatch in the stern.

It is steered with an auto type wheel, with all controls conveniently grouped at hand. Makes even shallowest waters navigable and avoids obstructions in deep waters too, because its propeller tilts automatically on contact with logs, rocks, etc. Contains as much usable space as inboard boats one-third larger, because the motor is outside instead of inside. Has greater speed because of great weight reduction—this 2-cycle Sea-Horse has power equal to inboard motors weighing twice as much, and the Sea-Horse requires no engine base.

Water-cooled. Underwater Exhaust discharges fumes and noise below the surface. Famous Johnson Release Charger cuts starting effort in half, enables motor to start on weak battery with emergency rope.

Deep, luxurious upholstery, trim, streamline fittings, and smart color combinations make the Johnson Aquaflyer as comfortable and racy as a modern roadster. Has all the advantages of any inboard boat and will outperform it—and costs but a fraction as much.

Other Johnson Matched Units, Sea-Horses and Boats, electrically started and rope-started, the latter as low as $260.00 complete. All prices f. o. b. factory.

"LOVE LIKE OURS CAN NEVER DIE," MUTTERED MARMADUKE, THICKLY.

"You'd be surprised," replied the sprightly Sophia. "With a rasping voice like yours, love is likely to fly out of the window and land on the back of its neck. What our love needs is insurance."

"What insurance?" he wondered.

"The insurance of OLD GOLDS, boy friend. Throat-ease and tender tones caused by the mellow, mild, heart-leaf tobacco; vocal cords that act without a struggle; no tickle, scratch or scrape. OLD GOLD yourself, Marmie, and we shall be inseparable. There's not a bark in a billion."

INDIANS FACE TASK OF HOLDING OLD HONORS GAINED

INFIELD IS BIG PROBLEM

Tribe Is Confronted by Tough Assignment

(This is one of a series of first hand Associated Press stories on major league baseball prospects).

By BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS, April 3.—The Cleveland Indians face one of the hardest of all baseball assignments—holding their own. The Tribe finished third last year, perhaps a notch higher than they had right to expect—and they may become involved in a desperate struggle to maintain this position.

Roger Peckinpaugh and Billy Evans, who direct playing and business affairs respectively, have found that one cannot have everything in baseball. No fault can be found in advance with the pitching, catching, outfield, or general hitting, but the infield presents a rub.

Fonseca on First

The likely starting infield is a scrambled affair. Lew Fonseca, the American league's leading hitter, will play first base when he recovers from a midwinter attack of scarlet fever which left him in a weakened condition. Peck hopes Lew will be available but is not counting on him and has two subs available.

Zeke Bonura, with only a year with New Orleans in professional baseball, can hit, and although an awkward performer, comes up with hard hit balls and weird throws. As a school boy athlete Bonura from St. Stanislaus and Loyola threw a javelin nearly 214 feet. He can hit a baseball much farther. If it is decided that the jump is too great for the inexperienced Zeke, Eddie Morgan, the outfielder, who has played first in the majors, will be assigned to the bag temporarily.

Johnny Hodapp has found himself at second base and will start, probably flanked by Carl Lind, at short. The reliable Joe Sewell is a fixture at third base. Even when Fonseca returns to first, every man on the infield will be a turnover. The premier hitter formerly was a second baseman, so a second baseman will be playing first, a third baseman playing second, a second baseman playing short and a shortstop playing third.

Good Fielder

Johnny (Jonah) Goldman, the Syracuse star, can field with the game's great shortstops, and as he has been out on option for two years and cannot be sent away again without surrender of claims to his services, probably will be kept as a utility infielder. Ray Gardner will remain in the same capacity. George Detore, promoted from Decatur, is regarded as a great prospect. Bruce Caldwell, Yale football star, probably will have another year in the minors and the same fate may befall John Burnett.

The outfield problem is one of selection. Earl Averill and Bib Falk are sure to start. If Dick Porter picks up in his hitting where he left off last season he will win the other place, but Bob Seeds from Kansas City, Johnny Gill, who played with Albany last year, and Charlie Jamieson, a spry veteran, will stand by. Manager Peckinpaugh will have to let at least one good outfielder go.

Wesley Ferrell, Willis Hudlin, Walter Miller, Kenneth Holloway and Joe Shaute of last year's staff, will furnish the backbone of the pitching. They are expected to receive considerable assistance from Belve Beane, who seems to need only a change of pace; Pete Jablonowski, former Cincinnati Red; Milburn Shoffner left-hander from Jersey City, and Clinton Brown and Mel Narder, both optioned to New Orleans last season. The Cleveland pitchers in the mass can fall short of last year's somewhat astonishing records and still do very well.

Luke Sewell, carrying less weight at the start of this season than he did at the close of the last, is confident he will have a good year behind the bat. The other catchers are Glenn Mayatt, experienced and smart, and Fred (Bud) Frank, Terre Haute recruit.

If the Indians could have their "ruthers" they would trade some of their surplus outfielders for another good infielder.

Slogan Contest Closes Tonight

Send In Your Slogan And Boost Campaign!

The chamber of commerce athletic committee that is working for Wichita Falls to win the Texas league's opening day attendance prize, needs your help. They need a battle cry to carry on their campaign to bring out a record crowd of fans for opening day at Athletic park, April 9. For that slogan they will give six box seats to the opening day game.

'Bargain' Steeds Fool Even Owners by Winning

NEW YORK, April 3. (AP)—Thoroughbred racing took one of its queer turns at Agua Caliente when Greyola, a reformed plater, won the $29,200 derby and Victorian, favorite to win the $100,000 Agua Caliente handicap, March 23, lost a $1,200 allowance affair—all on the same day.

Greyola, a daughter of the famous Gray Lag, was bought by Johnny Coburn for $3,000 last summer. She won several races for him in the fall and then won four of the five races she started at Agua Caliente.

Then Coburn sold his star to Raoul Walsh for $15,000. The next day the little steed won $29,200.

On the same day Victorian, a $100,000 beauty, finished out of the money in a $1,200 purse. The race, however, was Victorian's first appearance of the winter season.

Big Jim De Jernett, center of Washington, Indiana high school champions, is the first negro to play on a championship Hoosier quintet.

Bears Tackle Huskies In Opening Track Meet

SEATTLE, Wash., April 3. (AP)—Two great teams—Washington and California—will open the Pacific Northwest track season this year with a night indoor dual meet here April 5.

It will be the second such event ever held in the Northwest. Last year Stanford and Washington clashed in the Washington pavilion, with the Cardinals winning, 72 to 58.

Washington will pit a fancy band of athletes against the strong Bear combination, including two national champions, to rate the favorite. Steve Anderson, Husky captain, winner of the national collegiate and national A. A. U. high and low hurdles last year, and Ed Genung, national collegiate half mile titleholder, will show against the Bears.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 3. (AP)—Early declines in cotton under further realizing and selling for a reaction based on the apparently less urgent demand for near months and the extent of recent advances, were followed by rallies today on renewal of trade demand on covering. Old crop months made new high ground for the movement with May selling up from 16.17 to 16.58 and closing at 16.53. The general market closed very steady at net advances of 18 to 21 points.

The opening was steady. Some buying on relatively steady Liverpool cables was readily supplied and the market eased during the early trading with July declining to 16.24 and the new October contract to 15.46, making net declines of about 13 to 18 points on the more active months. Offerings tapered off and the market firmed up during the afternoon on renewed buying of near months by spot houses and trade interests, covering by recent local sellers, and buying believed to be for New Orleans account. July advanced to 16.67 and the new October contract to 15.83 making net gains of 21 to 26 points. The close was a few points off from the best under realizing.

Liverpool cables said continental and Bombay liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and covering in that market. Port receipts today 7,487. U. S. port stocks 1,821,939. Exports 15,043, making 5,939,295 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 3. (AP)—Following a morning decline cotton rallied in afternoon trading today and prices recovered $2 a bale from lows under a good demand stimulated by cooperative association buying and bullish fertilizer statistics.

Although Liverpool cables were higher the market here opened irregular. The market started on the downgrade. Old crop positions showed the maximum decline of 21 points with July at 15.92. And October eased only 12 points to 15.50.

The market rallied. At the highest, near months showed gains of 50 points from the day's lows with July at 16.42. October advanced to 15.82, or 32 points up. Final prices were 3 to 5 points off from the best and at a net advance of over $1 a bale.

Banks Frown on Public Speculative Outbreak After Over-Rapid Advances

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 3. (US)—Heavy short covering brought substantial rally in the final hour of another fairly active session in the stock market today. Continued reaction was experienced throughout the morning but offerings were well taken so that when short covering of importance made an appearance rally was started that more than made up for early losses in many leaders. Steel finished unchanged but Radio advanced 2¾ for the session, while Radio-Keith gained 2⅝. American Telephone 3¼; General Electric 1⅞, Warner 1⅛, Columbia Graphophone 2⅞, Gillette 1⅞, Johns Mansville 1¼, Electric Power 1, Public Service 1⅞, Canadian Pacific 3, National Dairy 1⅛ and Briggs 1⅛. American Can lost a point while Westinghouse dropped 2 and American Smelting 1¼. Call money was held at 4 per cent throughout. Turnover dropped off to 4,600,000 shares.

The brokers' loan report was the occasion for the reaction but the reason was entirely technical. Many advances had been over-rapid and therefore were frowned on by powerful banking interests. By withdrawing part of their support they encouraged more aggressive bearish activity and as a result the technical position of the entire market is improved while at the same time public enthusiasm in speculation is cooled off a little. A wild outbreak of speculation at this time is not desired for it would necessitate drastic disciplinary action that would halt the improvement now enjoyed in most lines of industry. The first batch of the reparation bonds will make their appearance within a month or so and every effort will be made to sustain the attractiveness of the investment market until after the initial stages of such financing are passed.

Another reactionary factor — of momentary influence—is the expectation that forthcoming quarterly reports from many sources will reflect the considerable drop in business of that period as compared with last year. Automobile and the retail store organizations in particular will make poor showings. General Motors probably will make a better showing than any other automobile company with stock listed on the big board. The latest estimate—one that is likely to prove the most accurate—places net of General Motors for the first quarter at approximately 90 cents a share. This would indicate upwards of over $2 a share for the first half of the year.

Several important traders expressed bullishness on Loew. There were all manner of hints regarding settlement in the Fox muddle. It was intimated that the bankers interested were in a harmonious mood but there was no indication that Fox himself was reconciled to losing control. Irrespective of the Fox situation, however, it was maintained that Loew earnings now were running at a new high record level. Wothington Pump continued to feel the influence of highly enthusiastic earnings forecasts. Reports from the West indicate that substantial betterment has been enjoyed in American Radiator's business in recent weeks. There were further offerings of Westinghouse influenced by reports of disagreement between directors first told of here last week. Those interested in American Commercial Alcohol are planning to run in shorts.

Increase in loans of $148,000,000 was larger than generally expected. If it were to influence further reaction in the market it would not be unwelcome to many bankers and market leaders who have regarded recent advances as too rapid. Once again the local banks shouldered practically all the burden of increased borrowings as loans for their account recorded $123,000,000 of the gain reported. This put the borrowings of local institutions to $1,547,000,000 or $526,000,000 higher than they were a year ago. Although total borrowings are $1,594,000,000 under those of last April the fact that loans to brokers by local banks are 50 per cent higher takes something from the bullishness of the loan situation. Continued ease in money will cause further increase in the loans of local institutions.

Sterling held firm while other foreign currencies ruled irregular, with most holding to narrow price range. Cotton steadied after early weakness while wheat and other grains continued to rally under influence of favorable Liverpool cables.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 3. (AP)—Wheat on the cash grain market here today nominally followed the advance in contract values; but there was no active demand, mills taking the light offerings in half-hearted manner on the basis of $1.14¾@1.15¾ for No. 1 ordinary hard delivered Texas common points.

Bids and offers on coarse grains as follows, basis carloads delivered freight paid to Texas common points:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 96@97c; No. 2 white $1.00@1.01; No. 2 yellow $1.00@1.01½.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 56@57c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 55½@56c; group three 1c more.

Barley—No. 2 nominal 69@70c; better demand reported.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.71@1.73; No. 2 kaffir $1.50@1.52.

Cane Seed—Bulk country run red top per 100 pounds, according to origin, type, $4.00@4.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 3. (AP)—Skyrocketing wheat prices today went 11¼c a bushel higher in some cases than wheat could be bought last week. With millions of acres of wheat lands southwest reported dry as ashes, and with drouth news coming from the West and Northwest, European demand for wheat showed big expansion. Weather forecasts held no hope of immediate moisture relief.

Excited buying led to a wild close in the wheat market at the day's topmost point, 2½@5¼c higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1¼@2¼c up, oats ¼@1c advanced and provisions showing 2@27c gain.

It was estimated that as much as 2,000,000 bushels of North American wheat were bought today for overseas shipment from Canada and the United States, mostly from Canada, but including at least some domestic hard winter grades.

Corn and oats responded briskly to the skyward movement of the wheat market. General buying of corn future deliveries was witnessed. On the other hand, country offerings of corn to arrive were fairly liberal. Oats traders gave sharp attention to advices that the oats crop southwest as well as wheat was in much need of rain.

Provisions kept upward pace with the grain markets and also with hogs.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, April 3. (US)—Sentiment appeared to swing decidedly to the buying side of wheat today and it was the first time for many weeks that strength followed the upturn. However, with the market hinging on weather conditions entirely and little definite damage yet reported, commission houses are suggesting caution in following the sharp bulges.

While the general situation in corn continues strong and trade in the futures shows further evidence of broadening, the advance today brought out rather substantial marketing. So far there has been no increase in spot demand, and this may result in some opposition to the futures advance until the larger arrivals are digested.

Kansas weekly report says: "wheat is needing rain in all parts of Kansas. It has just about held its own in eastern parts of the state, but has shown marked signs of deterioration in south central counties and over much of the western third of the state. Cool weather also retarded its growth during the past week."

Oklahoma report: "weather last week unfavorable, being unseasonably cold with frost or freezing temperatures at night. Light scattered showers occurred in the northwest sections, but no rain of consequence elsewhere and drouth is becoming serious. Both wheat and oats deteriorated, with condition various in different sections and both crops need rain badly in practically all sections."

Franklin Stresses Importance of Fort Worth Meet

TULSA, Okla., April 3.—The first annual convention of members of the Independent Petroleum Association of America will be held April 18 and 19 at the Texas hotel, in Fort Worth, Texas, and Wirt Franklin of Ardmore, president, is asking the independent oil men of the nation to be present.

"It was the I. P. A. A. which conducted the oil men's fight for an oil tariff before the senate, and lost after several close votes.

Officers of the association propose to make the I. P. A. A. the official mouthpiece of the independent oil producers, independent refiners and independent marketers of petroleum.

The Tulsa division, headed by James G. Cloud, is planning on sending a big delegation to Fort Worth and a special train will leave here the night of April 17. Another special train will go from Oklahoma City and Ardmore.

"Oil men who could not go with us to Washington," said Wirt Franklin in a telephone conversation to John M. Wheeler, assistant to Cloud, "should plan to attend the independent oil men's convention at Fort Worth."

DINNER TONIGHT TO HONOR J. A. GARDNER

300 EXPECTED AT BANQUET

Baseball Leaders and Fans To Attend

Approximately 300 followers of baseball representing Wichita Falls and surrounding territory, as well as six other Texas league cities, are expected to be present Friday night for the chamber of commerce banquet honoring J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league and former president of the Wichita Falls baseball club.

This estimate of the attendance anticipated for the Gardner dinner at the Wichita club at 7 o'clock this Friday night was given Thursday evening by Horrace Robbins, chairman of the athletic committee of the chamber of commerce, on the basis of reservations made during the past two days, and expressions from others who plan to be present. Tickets have been on sale at the Renfro drug store at Eighth and Scott since Wednesday morning, and with all members of the committees which have made arrangements for the banquet.

Three Speakers

Mr Robbins will act as toastmaster Friday night, and will introduce as speakers William B. Ruggles, league statistician from Dallas, Walter Cline, and W. E. Huff, president of the Spudder club. Mr. Ruggles will offer Mr. Gardner the felicitations of the Texas league as the organization which recently chose the former Spudder prexy as its president. Mr. Cline will speak of Mr. Gardner as a citizen of Wichita Falls and Texas, and Mr. Huff will speak from the position of Mr. Gardner's successor as owner of the Spudders.

Among the out-of-town baseball dignitaries who have notified the committee of their plans for attending the banquet are Ted Robinson, president of the Fort Worth club, Fred Ankeman, Houston president, Fred McJunkin, Dallas president, and representatives of San Antonio and Waco clubs. Wired information from Shreveport expressed commendation for the dinner being tendered the league president, but stated that the club's officials could not get away for the affair. Indications Thursday were that Beaumont also would be unrepresented. Sport writers from Dallas, Shreveport, Waco, Houston, San Antonio, and Fort Worth will be present, it was announced.

Musical Program

Entertainment in a musical way will include vocal solos by W. E. Young, and selections by the Paul Seeds band. The dinner will be a stag affair, according to M. Robbins.

Members of the committee on athletics of the chamber of commerce are J. H. Allison, James Galloway, Carter McGregor, T. B. Noble, Mike Ellis, Jean Montgomery and Mr. Robbins. The special committee formed to make plans for the dinner for Mr. Gardner consists of Jean Montgomery, chairman, Hugh McDowell, A. W. King, and Frank Haley.

V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney. Bolding was arrested by City Detective Pat Allen.

MAJESTIC: "Not So Dumb," with Marion Davies, Elliot Nugent, Raymond Hackett and William Holden. Why Marion Davies? Christie comedy. Sound novelties. Sound news.

STRAND: Jack Oakie and Polly Walker in "Hit the Deck," musical comedy on battleship set. Pathe scenic review. Paramount sound news.

STATE: "Fighting Legion," western all-talking with Ken Maynard. Serial, "King of the Congo," with Jacqueline Logan. Sound news.

GEM: Bob Steele in "Breezy Bill." Chapter 3 of "Final Reckoning." Fable comedy.

Ways and means of recalling favorite talk-pictures for brief showings here may result from an innovation enacted at the Majestic Tuesday night. Because of the increased popularity of Maurice Chevalier, which resulted largely from his "Love Parade," and expressions of interest in his earlier picture, "Innocents of Paris," that comedy was added to the April fool's day bill as a house compliment. It followed the final showing of Ruth Chatterton's "Laughing Lady."

If "Innocents of Paris" could be recalled for a single exhibition in a double-header bill, why not others? To which the Majestic management says also, "Well, why not?" So that's settled. It remains for those who would like to bring some particular picture back to register their wishes, by letter, to this department of the Record News. Any production for which there apparently is a demand will be returned at the earliest possible date as a complimentary addition to current bills. Dates of such showings will be announced through this column. For instance, many have lamented "Disraeli's" departure after three short days—they expected to see it but delayed. George Arliss' magnificent play can be recalled within a short time for a brief exhibition if it is desired. Speak up. The Majestic management is pledged to set them up as promptly as possible. Or, for something light, how about Jack Oakie's "Fast Company" as a baseball appetizer?

Those who saw "Dulcy" produced at the forum last year by the Little theater—or who saw it elsewhere on the stage—will be interested in Marion Davies' performance of that delectable comedy at the Majestic as "Not So Dumb." With Elliot Nugent, Raymond Hackett and Sally Starr, in her supporting cast, Marion will have only herself to blame if the piece is not hilariously successful.

Ball Services Wait Arrival of Relatives

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. H. M. Ball, 70, pioneer Texan, who died Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. K. Fretwell, 404 Seventh street, had not been made Thursday. The family is awaiting the arrival of relatives from California.

Funeral services and burial probably will be held at Denison, the old home of Mr. and Mrs. Ball. The body is in the charge of the Dalton-Powell Funeral home.

WICHITAN HONORED

Hamilton and Bryant on Texas Education Commission

Wichita Falls will be represented on the Texas Education commission, which has been termed the "Supreme Court of Texas education," by Burl Bryant and W. B. Hamilton, according to a dispatch to The Record News Thursday. Members of the commission, representing the civic and educational interests of the state, are elected every two years by the executive committee of the Texas State Teachers association.

The commission, created in 1926, functions as a final advisory body on educational and financial problems submitted by various committees for solution, and on measures to go before the Texas legislature.

Youth Asks $10,000 For Injury in Cranking Car

Damages amounting to $10,000 are asked in a suit filed in the 78th district court Thursday against Boone-Kemp, Inc., in behalf of T. H. Harris, a youth, who is alleged to have sustained injuries through negligence of an agent in the company's used car department.

The petition, filed by O. W. Harris, who is described as the youth's next best friend, claims the boy was inspecting used cars at the Boone-Kemp company and selected one which would not start by means of the self-starter. It is further alleged the boy attempted to crank the car after being assured by the agent it could be started in that manner. The crank kicked back and broke the boy's wrist, the petition states.

A little more than 99.9 per cent of the country's 1929 production of sulphur came from Texas.

JURY REFUSES $100,000 PLEA

Verdict Returned in Oil Suit Here

Judgment in favor of the defendants in the suit for more than $100,000 damages filed against the Tidal Western Oil corporation by the Hanover company for alleged breach of contract on casinghead gas rights in a Wichita county lease was returned by a jury in federal district court Thursday after three days of testimony and argument. The plaintiffs claimed the Tidal Western had failed to maintain sufficient vacuum on the wells, resulting in loss of gas and oil.

A verdict for the defendants was also returned Thursday in the suit for $5,000 damages filed against Ed Peterson and J. A. McCarty by Thomas Van Every. The jury received the case about 3:20 o'clock Thursday afternoon and rendered its verdict within a few minutes. The plaintiff alleged breach of contract in developing a lease.

The remainder of the afternoon and evening sessions of federal court were occupied with the suit brought by M. B. Weatherford against the Fidelity and Guaranty company. Weatherford's petition asks that a ruling of the industrial accident board be set aside and compensation be awarded at the rate of either $20 or $15.56 for 401 weeks or a lump sum be granted amounting to about $8,000.

Nicholson to Lead Expedition Into New Mexico Indian Country

Frank Ernest Nicholson, formerly of Wichita Falls and famous for his newspaper work in connection with the flights of the Graf Zeppelin and the recent explorations of Carlsbad caverns in New Mexico, will leave New York Friday on a second expedition into little-explored portions of New Mexico, according to a special dispatch from Mr. Nicholson to The Record News.

His present expedition will explore the Four Corners, New Mexico, Indian territory. Entree to this remote part of the state, which is inhabited only by Indians and which contains spots never before visited by white men, was made possible through the cooperation of Governor Dillon of New Mexico, the dispatch stated.

Mr. Nicholson will spend three months in writing of the unusual country and in making an all-Indian feature motion picture, he said.
