New Regents For Texas U. Board Named

AUSTIN, Jan. 11.—A double prerdicate for full development of the University of Texas controversy was laid before the 49th legislature in the third day of its session today.

Gov. Coke R. Stevenson submitted to the Senate the names of six nominations for places on the board of regents of the university, and Sen. A. M. Aiken, jr., of Paris, introduced a bill limiting the activities of the various state college governing boards 'to general policies" and providing two specified methods under which faculty members may be dismissed.

Biennial Message

A joint session of the House and Senate heard the governor, in his biennial message, outline war and postwar suggestions for state government, then adjourned until Monday. Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith finished his roster of Senate committees, and House organization was completed except for committees. As required by law, the legislature on Monday will canvass the vote for governor and lieutenant governor, a formality necessary to Tuesday's inauguration.

Gov. Stevenson sent to the Senate the names of Ed B. Tucker of Nacogdoches, Ernest E. Kirkpatrick of Brownwood, and Dr. Walter H. Scherer as new appointees to the board of regents of the University of Texas. He also submitted the name of Dr. C. O. Terrell of Fort Worth for reappointment to the board, and his recess appointments of Dudley K. Woodward, jr., of Dallas and David M. Warren of Panhandle.

Expects Early Action

Chairman H. L. Winfield of the Senate committee on nominations, which must first consider these names along with more than 200 other recess appointees of the governor, said he hoped the committee would finish its organization on Monday, and that the Senate would pass upon the nominees by Jan. 26 when the board meets next.

Regardless of whether or not a battle develops confirmation or rejection of the new regents, submission of Sen. Aiken's brief "up to date" furnished plenty of fuel for a full review of the university fight this session. Under the constitution and present laws, the board has broad general powers to manage the affairs of the university in detail. Under Aiken's proposal, 'the details of the operation of the institution shall be the responsibility of the administrative head." It applies not only to the University of Texas, but to Texas A. and M. college and other state colleges.

Admiral Ingram Renews Warning

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — Admiral Jonas H. Ingram, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, renewed today his warning of danger of robot bomb attacks.

"In my opinion such an attack is possible and feasible," he said in an address prepared for the March of Time program on the Blue network.

The Admiral did not, however, repeat his news conference statement of last Monday that it is "probable" the buzz bombs will fall on New York and other Atlantic ports in the next 30 to 60 days.

Navy Comment Recalled

That declaration elicited from the Navy the comment that "there is no more reason now to believe that Germany will attack with robot bombs than there was on Nov. 7, 1944." On that date the Army and Navy called such attacks "entirely possible" but did not go so far as to say "probable."

Otherwise the admiral stuck steadfastly to his guns:

"My recent warning on German robot bombs was in keeping with my ideas of reasonable precautionary measures for the defense of our eastern approaches . . . When I say the threat exists, I mean there is a chance that we may be called upon to stop an attack from enemy seaborne apparatus—and that is my job and the job of the Atlantic fleet."

Swiss Train Is Said Hit By Yank Fighter

BERN, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Swiss Telegraph agency reported a U. S. fighter plane machinegunned a Swiss train in Chiasso station this afternoon, killing the engineer and wounding his assistant.

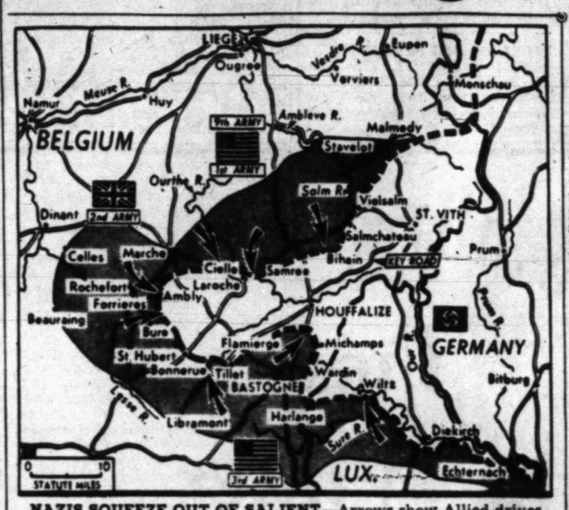

The same plane, one of a formation of 12, then machinegunned a train as it emerged from Mount Olimpino tunnel at the Swiss frontier near Chiasso station, wounding the Italian engineer.

Surprise Blow Routs Nazis Who Flee Belgian Salient

NAZIS SQUEEZE OUT OF SALIENT—Arrows show Allied drives against the German salient in Belgium and Luxembourg. Shaded areas have been retaken from the Germans, and the escape neck narrowed, although it is believed most of the German forces and equipment have been withdrawn.

Powerful Positions Near Bastogne Are Slashed By Patton

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 11—The U. S. Third Army threatened to cave in the Luxembourg front with a surprise stroke today that sent thousands of Germans fleeing into the woods, and in Belgium the enemy began a 23-mile withdrawal that turned loose British patrols on a 10-mile eastward sweep.

The northwestern enemy anchor of Laroche fell along with 15 other towns as German forces were reported evacuating the entire western apex of their Belgian and Luxembourg conquests.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's troops cut in half powerful box positions southeast of Bastogne from which three enemy divisions had been hammering at his lines from the east. The neck out of the box now was no more than two miles wide.

Resistance Collapsing

Resistance in the remainder of this area was reported collapsing rapidly as the Germans caught off guard by the unexpected blow—floundered off into the snow drifts and woods toward the uncertain haven of Wiltz, ten miles east of Bastogne, where other Third Army forces lie in wait.

The last road out of the box was cut by capture of Docols, near its center, and the Germans had no choice but to strike out through the woods to escape annihilation. The bodies of bundreds of enemy slain lay in the snow.

In the first 11 hours of the assault, which jumped off at 1 a. m. in the numbing cold of near zero weather, 400 prisoners were taken and a front dispatch from Associated Press corespondent Lewis Hawkins said the final count would be much more.

Nazis Admit Retreat

The German high command admitted it was quitting all the Belgian bulge west of the Ourthe river and front dispatches said the new line was expected to run from Vielslam on the north for 16 miles southwest through Houffalize to near Bastogne.

This line would contain only about one-fourth of the territory overrun at the height of the Germans' great offensive. It is 23 miles from Grupont, at the tip of the bulge as it existed Wednesday, to Houffalize.

The closing jaws of the Allied vise here expected to catch few prisoners, for Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt apparently had cleared out the bulk and the best of his troops with the help of fog, deep snowdrifts discouraging swift pursuit, and dense mine fields.

While the British were coming up on the west in a general advance of three miles, the Germans had pulled out so quickly that all contact was lost except for a few snipers.

Tommies moved in from the northwest in force and seized the town of Ronchamps, only three miles southwest of doughboys in

Thomas Case Goes To Jury At Lamesa

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Jan. 12—The case of Jim Thomas, charged with murder in the slaying of Dr. Roy E. Hunt of Littlefield, went to the jury early this morning.

It appeared unlikely that the jury would begin deliberations before late this morning.

Arguments were concluded exactly at midnight.

The defense counsel was preparing special charges for bills of exception regarding statements made in arguments by state's attorneys.

Eight Hours of Argument

Eight full hours of argument were presented, each side having been allotted four hours.

Each of the five attorneys for the state made a vigorous appeal for the death penalty.

District Attorney Harold M. LaFont of the 64th district, Plainview, who directed the prosecution of Thomas there last August, opened arguments by the state. He traced link by link the state's web of circumstantial evidence on which the prosecution has sought to connect Thomas with the crime.

C. S. Farmer of Waco opened for the defense.

Other Summations

Other summations were made by District Attorney W. C. Huffaker of the 106th district, Carl Rountree of Lamesa and Geo. W. Dupree of Lubbock, special prosecutors; and by Dawson County Judge Kilmer Corbin of Lamesa and John B. McNamara of Waco for the defense.

Arguments began at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Unexpected objections to Special Judge J. E. Garland's charge to the jury, made by defense counsel, had delayed starting of summations.

The courtroom was literally jammed this afternoon. Spectators were crowded in front of the judge's bench and around the counsel table.

During the supper recess approximately 175 persons remained in the courtroom, many of them snacking on sandwiches which they had brought with them.

Jo Ann Hunt, 6, and Jane, 3, daughters of the slain Dr. and Mrs. Hunt, sat in the laps of various relatives and near the chair in which the defendant was sitting.

Thomas maintained the same impersonal demeanor that was his in the first trial at Plainview.

Jurors were obviously tired. They had heard two full days of testimony and many hours of argument.

Stimson Says No Figures Withheld

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — Secretary Stimson, asserting that the Army has withheld no casualty figures, promises a report next week on American losses during the December phase of the German counteroffensive in Belgium.

He released figures today showing that Army casualties since Pearl Harbor have reached 564,351 on the basis of reports compiled in Washington through December 29. These figures, he said, reflect actual casualties two or three weeks earlier. The German drive in Belgium and Luxembourg began December 16.

The Army's casualties, together with the latest announced Navy toll of 82,029 pushed total casualties for the armed forces to 646,380, an increase of 8,241 over last week's tally. The Army increase amounted to 7,999 and the Navy's to 242.

'Accident' To Nazi General Is Revealed

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP) — The German radio said tonight that Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring, German commander in Italy, had an "accident" recently at the Italian front, but now was fully recovered.

On Dec. 31 the Brussels radio broadcast what it said was an order of the day from Hitler, issued in November, announcing Kesselring's death. That broadcast gave no details.

Ruhr Lashed By British Heavies

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP) — Royal Air force heavy Lancaster bombers resumed the systematic Allied pounding of Germany's great industrial Ruhr district in the only daylight raid today. Raging blizzards halted operations of the British-based U. S. Eighth Air force.

Late in the afternoon formations of heavily-loaded Lancasters escorted by P-51 Mustangs roared through the wintry skies bound for railyards in the Krefeld district 15 miles northwest of the big Ruhr city of Dusseldorf.

Pound Marshaling Yards

They pounded the marshaling yards, which lie about 50 miles east of the Dutch-German border, in an assault aimed at catching any enemy rail traffic which might have been heading for the battlefront over recently repaired tracks.

A great portion of the industrial city of Krefeld, on the west bank of the Rhine, was heavily damaged by RAF bombers in 1943. It is a junction for the main railroad lines running to Belgium and Holland from Dusseldorf and the Ruhr valley. The Krefeld freight yards on the outskirts of the city have a normal capacity for handling 6,700 railway cars and locomotives daily.

Yesterday, despite a blinding snowstorm and temperatures which ranged to 55 below zero, 1,100 Eighth Air force Flying Fortresses and Liberators pounded targets in the frontline areas.

350 Germans Die In Panic And Mutiny

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 12. (AP) —The Swedish radio reported today that at least 350 German sailors were killed when panic and mutiny broke out aboard a German cruiser after it struck a mine off the Swedish coast.

The report said only 20 Nazi sailors were saved. The ship's name and further information were not given.

Movement To Close Pool Halls Gains

ABILENE, Jan. 11—The Abilene (Tex) Reporter-News says that it "understands the federal employment service is backing a move to close all pool halls in Texas to better the manpower problem in the state."

Sheriff W. T. McQuary, of Taylor county, today ordered all pool halls in the county to cease operations on January 31 or before, and E. J. Berry, area director of the war manpower commission promptly endorsed the action.

"This is a worthy act which should cause more persons to become available for war jobs," Berry said.

Yesterday Mayor A. J. Burks of Odessa, Ector county, ordered pool halls closed because "hundreds of able-bodied men hang out there." Recently officials in Runnels county closed halls for a similar reason.

The Reporter-News said it "understood" that the program was statewide.

Pool halls are illegal in Texas, but many operate as clubs.

Train, Power Service Ban Is Tightened

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — The government tonight forbade future operation of passenger trains to provide seasonal service to resorts, recreational or vacation areas.

A tightening up of the September, 1942, "freeze" of passenger service also directed the railroads to discontinue after March 1 any passenger train schedule on which the occupancy of seats and space did not average 35 per cent during November, 1944.

Lighting Also Involved

Meantime, officials went to work to implement War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes' order for a widespread "brownout" of advertising lights and other illumniation drawing upon scarce fuels. The ban, it was tentatively decided, will apply also to show window lighting, and will call for dimming of white way street lighting where public safety permits.

The passenger curtailment orders were issued by the Office of Defense transportation, in response to a request by Byrnes, as a fuel conservation move.

Since Sept. 30, 1942, no railroad has been permitted to operate special or excursion trains without ODT approval, and the agency said "very few special trains" have been approved.

"The effect of today's action is to eliminate seasonal passenger train schedules to resort areas areas which were not discontinued by the "freeze' order," ODT said.

Occupancy Formula

The 35 per cent occupancy formula, the agency added, will eliminate many branch line schedules and result in a "sizeable saving of coal." Where branch lines have operating freight trains with some passenger equipment attached, this service may be continued.

The order does not affect suburban and interurban service.

ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson said that while a general "freeze" order has kept passenger service at the general level of Sept. 30, 1942, "this new order means fewer people will be able to travel now."

Coal Situation Critical

He agreed with Byrnes that the coal situation is extremely critical and that available supplies must be conserved.

The forthcoming "brown-out," it was tentatively decided, will prohibit the use of electricity, produced from scarce fuels, in:

1. Outdoor advertising, promotional and display lighting.
2. Outdoor decorative and ornamental lighting.
3. Show window lighting.
4. Marquee lighting.
5. White way street lighting in excess of the amount determined by local authorities to be necessary for public safety.
6. Outdoor sign lighting except for diretcional or identification signs certified to be necessary by local public authorities for fire and police protection, traffic control, hospitals, doctors, or similar community services essential for public health and safety.

Applies To All Fuels

The proposed provisions of the order were announced today following a meeting of representatives of both private and government-operated public utilities with the War Production board's office of war utilities.

The order will apply to all fuels "in short supply," including coal and fuel oil. Lighting generated from hydro-electric plants and plants using gas, in areas where gas is plentiful, will not be affected.

Carriers Attack Japs Off Indo-China Coast

RISING SUN GOING INTO ECLIPSE—Japs on Luzon island, last major Nip defenses in the Philippines, face a three-way squeeze as American troops close in on the ground and fleet and air units ward off reinforcements. Americans control Mindoro and Marinduque, south and southeast, and are battering their way south toward Manila from Lingayen, where they landed Tuesday.

Naval-Air Battle Indicated In First U. S. Blow In Area

(By The Associated Press)

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Jan. 11.—Carrier planes are "attacking the enemy off the coast of French Indo-China," Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced tonight and it seemed highly probable that a Japanese fleet was the target.

Nimitz cryptically stated the assault constituting the U. S. fleet's deepest penetration of Japan's inner defenses, fell "between Saigon and Camranh Bay."

Probably Reinforcements

He did not specify what was attacked but it is very probable a Japanese reinforcement convoy, escorted by warships, was intercepted while setting out for Yank-invaded Luzon in the Philippines.

Pointedly the brief communique said the blows fell "off the coast."

Camranh bay on the coast east of Saigon is one of the finest natural habors in Asia. It has a large protected anchorage for capital warships.

The Pacific fleet carrier task forces, which a little over a week ago sent planes reconnoitering along 500 miles of the China coast during attacks on Formsos, had to move across the South China sea to unleash the aerial blow.

Admiral Halsey's Job

Adm. William F. Halsey's Third Fleet is charged with the responsibility of preventing Japanese reinforcements from getting to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's expanding beachheads on Lingayen gulf at Luzon.

To carry out the action just disclosed it had to cross Japan's great sea communication lanes to Nippon's stolen empire.

Camranh bay is the closest and best protected Japanese fleet base from which the enemy could attempt reinforcement of Luzon. It is 1,000 miles from the Saigon area to Manila.

Camranh bay's superb natural harbors undoubtedly have been developed into one of Japan's key naval bases.

Anchorages Available

Labor anchorage areas also are available in Vinhba bay and the Grand Passage southeast of the entrance of Camranh bay.

Such a base would be a logical point from which the Japanese would try to launch a Luzon reinforcement expedition.

Camranh bay is on the eastern shore of the South China sea, which never before in the war had been crossed by a major American surface force.

The U. S. Seventh Fleet covering the Luzon invasion cruised at the eastern edge of the South China sea but the American dash

Red Vets Tighten Grip On Budapest

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Friday, Jan. 12 — Russian Stalingrad veterans overran the entire Angyalfold district in northeastern Budapest yesterday, driving to within 20 blocks of the Hungarian Parliament building in the center of the city and winning control of approximately four-fifths of the burning capital, Moscow announced last night.

Simultaneously, in fierce fighting on the snow-covered hills west and northwest of Budapest, other Soviet units for the fourth straight day repulsed large German infantry and tank forces attempting to break through to the rescue of the weakened and desperate Axis garrison, the Soviet communique said.

Outskirts Of Komarno

Forty miles northwest of Budapest Soviet troops were reported fighting in the outskirts of Komarno, strategic Slovak communications base on the north bank of the Danube, but the communique did not mention the battle for that six-way rail town only 83 miles from Vienna.

Steadily herding the battered Germans back into the center of gutted Budapest, the Russians captured a total of 150 square blocks yesterday in Pest, the half of the capital lying on the eastern side of the Danube.

One thousand more prisoners were taken on Wednesday, making a total of more than 9,600 since the Russians broke into Budapest proper more than two weeks ago.

"In the central part of the city," said a midnight Soviet supplemen-

Nazis Transfer Troops To Italy

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP)—The Germans have transferred troops from Norway to strengthen their lines at the extreme eastern end of the Italian battleline and Adolf Hitler has ordered present positions there held "at all costs," the Allied command announced today.

In particular the Germans are declared intent on holding the east-west Reno river line at the southern end of the narrow spit of land separating the large Comacchio lagoon from the Adriatic sea. This neck of land provides a still-usable back door escape route for the enemy.

Weather Cuts Activity

Drifted snow and icy roads kept action all along the Italian front confined to patrol activity.

Despite the severe winter weather, the Fifteenth Air force flew more than 700 sorties over the Italian front yesterday, slashing communications throughout northern Italy and attacking enemy shipping, particularly at the mouth of the Po river near Lareo.

A 400-foot vessel was sunk off Venice and a schooner and five other craft were damaged off Genoa and Portofino. Railways tracks were cut in 68 places, including along the route leading through the Brenner Pass.

Six Service Victims In Crash Identified

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10. (AP)—Identity of six of the 21 service men who perished in the crash of a commercial airliner in a fog outside nearby Burbank yesterday was established today. They are:

Michigan Senator Is Found Slain In Auto

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 11. (AP) —State Senator Warren G. Hooper, Albion, Mich., Republican, was found shot to death tonight in his automobile four miles north of Springport, Mich., and special prosecutor Kim Sigler ordered the Carr grand jury investigators to investigate his death at once.

Police said Hooper's automobile was on fire when the body was discovered. The body, police said, was on the right side of the front seat of the car and no gun was found at the scene. There was a bullet hole through a rear right window of the car.

Hooper has been a key witness in the one man grand jury investigation of bribery in the Michigan legislature.

Seven Men Held For Hartford Circus Fire

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 11. (AP) —Seven officials and employes of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's Combined Shows, Inc., were held criminally responsible by Coroner Frank E. Ealy today for Hartford's disastrous circus fire last July 6, which caused 168 deaths and injuries to 682.

Five officials were arrested soon after the fire on charges of manslaughter and are at liberty under bonds awaiting trial before the present session of the criminal session of the Hartford county superior court.

The coroner said that two of them "left their places under the bleachers when it was their duty to remain there and watch for fires that might occur." The state's attorney said he was studying those cases "to determine what could be done."

Yanks On Luzon Driving Inland

By C. YATES McDANIEL and JAMES HUTCHESON
Associated Press Staff Writers

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Friday, Jan. 12 — American invaders of Luzon, punching seven to nine miles inland from their 25-mile-wide Lingayen gulf beachheads, have seized five more towns and terminals of four main highways and a railroad leading to Manila. They found the first appreciable opposition at their deepest spearhead.

Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger's Sixth Army units have been advancing for two days as far and as fast as reasonable caution and the movement of supplies has permitted.

Nine Towns Captured

The Yanks have now taken nine towns and more than a score of villages.

The 48-hour advance has carried the Americans well south of the maze of swamp country at the mouth of the meandering Agno river and across the river line along which the Japanese might have been able to make a delaying stand.

Only on the extreme left flank, along the Pozorrubio road, have the Americans run into anything more than isolated and quickly eliminated sniper resistance.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today made the first mention of "combat contact" near Pozorrubio, at the end of the deepest spearhead east of the San Fabian landing beach. He gave no indication of the sereverity of the fighting there.

Nazi Stubbornness And Unexpected Speed In Getting To Grips With Japs Lie Back Of Tighter Manpower Control

By W. H. MOBLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—Stubborn Nazi determination to fight to the finish, and unexpected speed in getting to grips with the Japanese, lie back of the demand for tighter manpower controls, War Secretary Stimson said today.

Asserting at his news conference that "measured in terms of effectiveness the Army is understrength," Stimson said:

"If the needs of the armies at the front are to be met, there seems to be no escape from calling into the armed services during this year, substantially all physically qualified men below 30 years of age from factory, farm and government. But when we do this the places of these young men will have to be taken by older men, women and younger men not acceptable, for military service."

He insisted that the real solution is national service legislation.

The secretary's explanation of the new manpower stringency was given while Col. Francis V. Keesling, jr., testifying on "work or fight" legislation, was telling the House Military committee where Selective Service plans to get 900,000 young men for the armed forces by July 1.

January and February draft calls, Keesling testified, will be 112,000 each—80,000 for the Army and 32,000 for the Navy—with the Army quota going up to 100,000 for the following four months to make the monthly total 132,000.

That builds up a six-months draft total of about 750,000 with the remainder of the 900,000 expected to come from enlistments of youths in the Navy and Marine corps.

It is planned to make up the draft totals, Keesling said, as follows: 240,000 youths becoming 18 years old; 180,000 men now classified 1A; 330,000 men not over 38 and holding industrial and farm deferments.

That last 330,000 is where the manpower rub comes.

Keesling broke down the available sources for them: 360,000 under 26 deferred for essential farm work and 100,000 in industry, including 60,000 in the Merchant Marine; 800,000 between 26 and 30 deferred in industry and 265,000 on farms; 3,200,000 between 30 and 38 deferred in industry and 700,000 on farms.

Those figures build up a pool of only 1,525,000 in the under -30 age group. The services are staying as far from older men as they can get, but unless that attitude is relaxed, the 330,000 men would take more than one in five of the younger group.

The Selective Service official endorsed a bill by Rep. May (D-Ky), chairman of the military committee which amounts to a work or fight law for men 18 to 45. The legislation would make men in those age brackets liable for induction into Army or Navy work forces if they shift jobs without draft board approval.

May expressed the hope that the bill can be sent to the House floor next week or early the following week.

Appropriations Of 71 Million For Biennium Asked By Texas Governor

AUSTIN, Jan. 11 (AP)—Appropriations of $71,000,000 for state operations in the next two years, about $9,000,000 more than authorizations for current biennium, were recommended to the legislature today by Governor Coke R. Stevenson.

Adopting the board of control's budget figures, the governor in his biennial message to the lawmakers foresaw the need for increasing appropriations for old age assistance, raising salaries of state employes in the lower income brackets and increasing compensation of rural school teachers.

War Comes First

"I have proceeded in the belief that every effort toward winning the war should come first," he declared.

"Unless we win the war, we can have little hope for peace of any character. Unless we win the war, we can scarcely hope for a government of law in accordance with those charters of liberty known as the constitution, state and federal."

The governor suggested, without making specific recommendations as to methods, the law makers consider these subjects:

More financial aid to assist the postwar economic planning commission's work.

Highway Construction

Continued planning for postwar highway construction under a federal-state program which will result in expenditure of $172,500,000 in three years.

Legislative and judicial redistricting to equalize representation in the legislature and eliminate unnecessary courts.

Development of a practical farm-to-market road system.

Reenactment of the road bond servicing law.

Extension of natural resources conservation, especially of forests and natural gas. He said he might have a specific recommendation of gas conservation at a later date.

Revision of election laws to remove conflicts.

Tax Readjustments

Some tax readjustments, within present levies, to equalize the burden of taxation. He said taxable property not now being taxed should be taxed and that possibly some rates, especially those on insurance premiums, should be adjusted. He said he might have a later message on insurance tax rates.

Adequate provision for the state service office's increasing task of assisting returning veterans reestablish themselves in civilian life.

"Circumstances probably will require further communications from me during the present session and these will be sent in a spirit of cooperation with you in your efforts to give Texas another safe and sound administration, he said.

Romance With POW Presents Problem

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 11. (AP) — Nineteen-year-old Eva Caprari, displaying a diamond ring, says she is engaged to marry an Italian prisoner of war now interned at Chambersburg, Pa., but army authorities indicate the marriage might constitute a violation of the Geneva convention and edicts of the provost marshal general.

Officers at nearby Fort Slocum said a prisoner of war is supposed to be returned to his own country in the same status as when captured. They added that matters of wartime propriety and immigration also were involved.

The prisoner is Corp. Delfino Rosatti, 24, who was captured in Tunis.

Increase In Cotton Fabrics Improbable

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (U.P.) — The War Production board predicted today that supplies of cotton fabrics for civilian use will not be increased until at least the end of hostilities in Europe.

George H. Lanier, jr., WPB director of cotton and synthetic textiles, said that cotton goods may be in limited supply even longer because of continued large military requirements and growing needs for relief in liberated areas.

In releasing his 1945 first quarter report, Lanier said that inability of the industry to increase output was due chiefly to manpower shortages.

Wool Vest With Pockets Saves 10 American Airmen

PRATT, Kan., Jan. 11. (U.P.) — Ten American airmen are alive because of an old wool vest into which a bombardier stitched pockets for first aid equipment, it was learned here today.

Lt. Louis Jones lived with his wife in a garage which had been converted into an apartment. He was stationed then at the Pratt Army Air base.

He heared that many fliers lost their medical kits in jumping from planes so he took that old vest. He and his wife sewed pockets into it and filled them with sulfa drugs, bandages, a morphine syrette, pocket knife and fishing tackle.

Jones was not called to go out immediately after he reached a B-29 base overseas. He loaned his vest to Lt. Joe E. Phalon, according to word reaching here.

The ship was disabled and Phalon was one of 20 men who jumped into the sea. He and nine others were saved because of the items Jones and his wife sewed into the vest.

They lost all their first aid kits in jumping — all but the material in the old wool vest.

Subzero Wave Over Midwest Abating

(By The Associated Press)

Subzero chill which had struck most of the nation east of the Rockies in an almost cycle since late in December "is definitely broken," the Chicago weather bureau predicted yesterday (Thursday).

The southeast and Gulf states are in for moderation of their recent unseasonably cool weather, the entire midwest will have much higher temperatures early today, and the east will feel the first hints of warmer weather late this afternoon.

This comparatively mild spell, blown in from the Pacific ocean, will last for several days, the forecasters predict.

The warm-up began yesterday in the western portions of the plains states. Afternoon temperatures averaged in the 40's in the Dakotas and came close to 60 in Oklahoma.

Subzero weather held on yesterday in eastern Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, and the extreme northern portions of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, but broke last night over the entire Midwest.

Tech Library Adds Books On Politics

Several books on the foreign policy of the United States and world politics have been added to the Texas Tech library, Emma Lillian Main, acting librarian and cataloxguer, announced.

Walter Lippman's "U. S. Aims" presents American future objective and "Postwar Plans of the United Nations" (Lewis Lorwin) explains united aims of democracies. Christian ideals are emphasized by Henry A. Wallace in his "Christian Basis of World Order."

Timely and thought provoking are "Time for Decisions" by Sumner Welles and "Lend Lease — Weapon for Victory" by Edward R. Stettinius.

Postman's Shoes And Raincoat Are "Hot"

TULSA, Jan. 11. (U.P.) — Firemen thought for a time early today that some hot letters actually had ignited.

But when they opened a smoldering mail storage box on a street corner, they found only the mailman's overshoes and raincoat. They had caught fire from a blaze in an adjoining wooden newspaper box.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

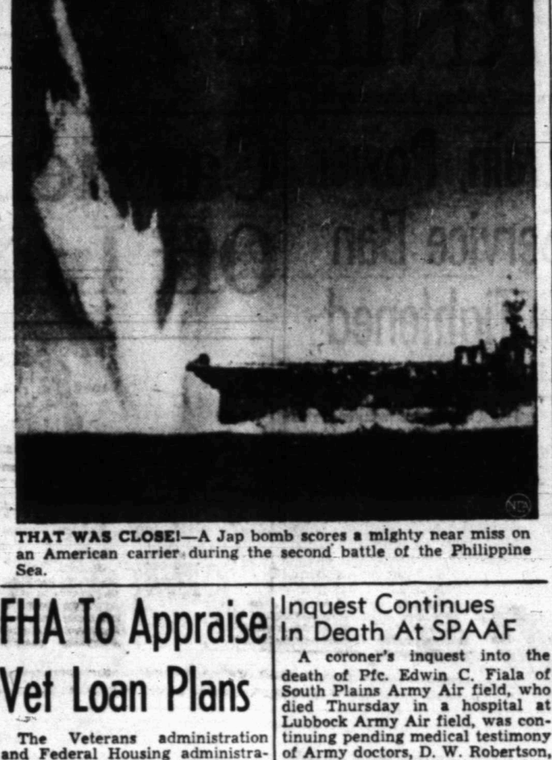

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills. Adv.

FHA To Appraise Vet Loan Plans

The Veterans administration and Federal Housing administration have agreed to utilize the facilities of the Federal Housing administration for appraisal and reviewing purposes on loans to veterans under section 505 of the G.I. Bill of Rights.

Instructions to FHA field offices regarding the new procedure are being prepared and probably will be in the hands of the state and district directors within the next 10 days or two weeks. Meanwhile, FHA will continue to accept applications from lending institutions for section 505 loans but will process such applications only to determine if the first mortgage loan is eligible for FHA insurance.

Provisions Of Plan

Section 505 of the G.I. Bill of Rights provides that if a principal loan is made, guaranteed or insured by a Federal agency, the full amount of a second loan may be guaranteed by the Veterans administration. The amount of the Veterans administration guarantee may not exceed 20 per cent of the purchase price of the property and in no event more than $2,000.

A veteran should apply to a private lending institution for a loan to purchase or build a home. The lender will receive a certificate of eligibility of the veteran from the nearest Veterans administration. Then the loan is ready for the FHA as an appraiser.

Details of the plan can be secured by contacting Judge A. Raley, jr., FHA representative in the Lubbock National bank building.

Inquest Continues In Death At SPAAF

A coroner's inquest into the death of Pfc. Edwin C. Fiala of South Plains Army Air field, who died Thursday in a hospital at Lubbock Army Air field, was continuing pending medical testimony of Army doctors, D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, said last night.

The inquest was begun Thursday by request, Robertson said, but he had been unable to get sufficient evidence to enter a verdict.

The soldier's home was in Newark, N. J. The body is at Rix Funeral home.

Search Is Continued For Clipper Victims

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)—Divers continued to search the depths of Port-of-Spain harbor today for the bodies of six persons who perished when the Pan American African clipper crashed at the Trinidad port Monday night taking 23 lives.

Eight more bodies were recovered yesterday, bringing the total to 17, a radio message to Pan American headquarters here last night said.

An indication that the 26-ton flying boat might have been broken up was given in the message which reported that the right wing and the number three engine had also been recovered.

Four passengers and three crew members survived when the plane crashed as it came in for a night landing at the British-American Naval base city.

The Clipper was bound for Leopoldsville, Belgian Congo.

FDR Pins Flowers On Ration Officials

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — "The whole nation," says President Roosevelt, is grateful to members of the nation's rationing boards "who have served with selfless devotion in the vitally important work of rationing and price control."

"It is my conviction," the president said in a message, "that the American people have been deeply appreciative of this work and have been good sports in accepting the nuisances and inconveniences imposed by the increasing demands of this war."

The message was read by Price Administrator Chester Bowles on a broadcast commemorating the boards' third anniversary.

Commission Discusses Changes In Two Proposed Ordinances In City

Discussion of progress being made on two proposed ordinances —one would regulate sanitation of food products establishments and the other would provide for regulating storage, transportation and use of gas, gasoline and liquified petroleum gases inside the city—took most of the attention of city commissioners when they met Thursday afternoon in semi-monthly assembly.

City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., said several changes in the ordinances had suggested themselves to him and to City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley. The commission suggested further changes before the completed drafts are offered for their attention.

Other Action Taken

Otherwise the commission took this action:

Reappointing Sam Rosenthal and Newton Walton as commissioners of the housing authority of the city.

Decided it would pay to Texas State guard the same percentage as Lubbock county recently contributed after the guard had asked both jurisdictions for money to round out its budget for the fiscal year that began Sept. 1.

(The county had been asked for $860, and paid $500. The city was asked for $1,200.)

City commissioners further provided that should the county decide to pay the rest of the $860 asked, the city would pay the remainder of the $1,200 asked of it.

Buy Company Tax

Voted for publication of proposed ordinance No. 703, providing for paymen of a 2 per cent gross receipts tax by Lubbock Bus company, before final reading and passage.

Approved, subject to the city attorney's approval, a public works bond and a gas fitter's bond for M. E. Tew, and electrician's bond for William Crawford.

Authorized the city manager to negotiate with owners and get permission to drill test water wells on private property. Approximately 7 such wells may be sunk.

Allowed the claim of C. W. Haggard for damage to his car as result of an accident in which a city garbage truck backed into his car. Cost to the city would be $8.50.

City Limit Extension

Deferred action on a petition requesting the commission to extend the city limits so as to include the Phillips addition. Bryan Walker, petitioner, described the addition as a portion of the northeast half of the southwest quarter of section 13, block 13, Lubbock county, which would be adjacent to the city's farthest park site in southwest Lubbock. Commissioners found in study of the petition that such proposal, if granted, would isolate another small tract of land; in effect would create an "island belonging to the county, yet lying inside the city."

Appointed Jack Melton, R. H. Lowery, master electricians, and Allen Loter, journeyman electrician, to the board of electrical examiners as provided by ordinance.

Instructed Mayor Overton W. Ribble to execute a contract with Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company, whereby the company would operate an electric transmission line extending 1,000 feet southward from Twentieth street. There would be no contract consideration paid by the city.

Valves And Couplings

Accepted bids for 338 quick coupling valves and 40 couplers for valves, costing $1,969. The price was as of 1941 quotations. The equipment would be used in extending water facilities in city parks.

Present were: Mayor Ribble, and Commissioners W. B. Price,

Jones, chief of the division of range animal husbandry at College station, and J. H. Jones, animal husbandry specialists, when they visited the campus this week. Tests are being run on plains milo, ground sumac sorghum, and cottonseed meal to determine their food value.

Negligible damage resulted from a fire Thursday afternoon caused by a faulty gasket to a gas connection in the kitchen of the Texas hotel cafe at 718 Main, a fire department official said.

A Nestorian is a member of a religious sect deriving its name from Nestorius, patriarch of Constantinople (now Istanbul).

J. Ray Dickey, Hub Jones and F. H. Childress, and City Attorney Bradley, City Manager Smith, City Secretary Lavenia Williams, and W. D. Wilson, an attorney who represented Bradley until the city attorney, delayed, entered the commission room.

Cultural Relations Inspector At Tech

William B. Dennis, representing the cultural relations division of the department of state in a tour of American colleges and universities to contact Chinese students, visited Texas Tech Thursday to inquire about opportunities offered Chinese students and relative costs of attending Tech.

Although there are no Chinese students attending Tech now, Dennes investigated the possibility of future attendance and conferred with Dr. Bing-Chung Ling, professor in Chinese, and James G. Allen, dean of men. His work is to help formulate an aducational plan in the states that will accomodate the personal needs, aims and financial status of Chinese students.

Dennis advocates a workable plan for the education and training of students of China with as much Chinese study as possible. "There can be no peace without a common knowledge of the problems of all countries concerned," Dennis said.

Blancett drove on to the Oklahoma City Air Service command where he works and learned the major had just landed at nearby Tinker Field. The major, who emerged with pants on (a major is entitled to two pair of pants, isn't he?), reported the other trousers had blown out of the plane as he tested his bomb bay doors.

SUGGESTION

IN 1936 we observed the centennial of Texas being granted independence from Mexico and during that year a great deal of publicity was spread over the nation and men, women and children felt a great up-surge of pride. Honesty confesses us to admit we grew a little bored at the sight of drug store cowboys wearing ten gallon hats and boots but all in all it was a gala year.

Greater than our celebration of independence from Mexico should be our pleasure in recalling the date the Congress of the United States accepted the state constitution of Texas, a date of annexation set by the Supreme Court as Dec. 29, 1845. In case the war is over by the year's end, wouldn't it be a nice gesture to stage a few events in celebration of that centennial?

We haven't thought about it enought to advise anything concrete, but lovers of history and of the Lone Star state should be able to put their heads together and present intresting and worthwhile suggestions for celebrating the centennial of the annexation.

LOST A CAMERA

PVT. HENRY Proffitt of Section C, South Plains Army Air field is trying to find the name and address of a staff sergeant who was in a car driven by a civilian who gave him a ride Tuesday afternoon. When he got out of the car he accidentally left his Kodak 35 in the back seat and Pvt. Proffitt is a very sad young man because of it.

The staff sergeant was on furlough from his base "somewhere in Kansas" and when Proffitt asked him where his home town was he said he waved his hand in a south-east direction and murmured something about 16 miles. Now the young SPAAF soldier is looking through South Plains weekly papers trying to find a picture or a name that may bring light. He doesn't know anything about the driver of the car.

In in the meantime, if the civilian who picked up the soldier Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and gave him a ride to SPAAF should see this notice (and the chances are rather remote we'll admit) he'll be doing a big favor by taking the camera to the gate and leaving it for Proffitt.

DAILY DIET

THE OTHER day we were discussing the daily basic seven, that is the fruit, vegetables, meats, milk, eggs, butter and bread that should be in everyone's diet and a young man said, "Yeah, but who wants to eat all that stuff?"

But because he had never paid much attention to "that stuff" Kay Kyser was turned down last summer by the USO as physically unfit for overseas duty. The reason was improper diet. The bespectacled professor of the Kollege of Musical Knowledge had been so busy with a stage, screen and radio career he had never found the time to balance his diet.

He felt pretty bad about being rejected we suppose but after the doctors told him his physical condition couldn't stand the hardships in the "blood and guts" circuit, he got busy. He went to a famous clinic where the doctors checked his food habits back to his childhood. They found he was suffering from a deficiency in his diet resulting in gout. It had impaired his metabolism so that he could no longer handle his food effectively. Poisons in his system had affected his bones and blood circulation and it was rather painful for Kyser to stand in front of his orchestra and pound out the time with his feet.

WELL old Kay has added vitamins to his menu and eats raw fruits and vegetables as much as possible and according to late reports he has regained much of his old vitality.

And the moral of our story, if any, is to insist that the men in your household eat the basic foods, whether or not they classify them as "that old stuff."

Many of the Navy men wounded in coming battles and many neuropsychiatric cases—called "shell shock" in World War one—will be treated at the new hospital which will cost $6,000,000 and have 1,000 beds, he said.

About 200 civilian employes, all selected by the Civil Service, will be employed at the hospital. Part of the staff will come here soon, but no patients will admitted to the institution until after the official ceremony commissioning it, he said.

Senate Passage Of Storage Bill On Game Sets Record

AUSTIN, Jan. 11 (AP) — Final passage by the Senate today of a bill removing restrictions on cold storage of wild game and fish set what is believed to be a record for legislative dispatch.

At the request of the author, Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston, the Senate suspended all rules to rush the bill's passage by unanimous vote. The House may be able to take it up next week.

Veteran Senate Secretary Bob Barker said never before in his memory had a piece of general legislation emerged so early in the session. The legislature customarily passes an appropriation bill, providing for its salaries and expenses, very early and quickly in each session.

The game bill, introduced yesterday, was finally passed by the Senate in less than five minutes. It removes all restrictions on the length of time wild game, including migratory birds, may be kept in storage after the close of hunting seasons.

No. U. S. Jet Planes Used Against Robots

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP)—Headquarters of the U. S. Eighth Air force, which controls all American combat and reconnaissance planes based in Britain, said today that no American jet planes had been used to intercept German robot bombs.

The information was given in connection with a dispatch from Moscow last night quoting a Russian officer as saying that Airacomets—jet craft manufactured by the Bell Aircraft plant—had been used in Britain's defense against the Nazi V-weapons.

Lower Supplies Of Beef Feared

(By The Associated Press)

Texas Cattle association leaders predict that the new OPA price ceiling on live cattle will reduce the supply of beef drastically.

The top, announced yesterday as effective Jan. 29, was set at $18 a hundredweight.

Joe G. Montague, attorney for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association, forecast "the greatest shortage ever known" after a few weeks.

One Says 54 Per Cent

Jack Frost, president of the Texas Hereford association, estimated a reduction of 54 per cent in the potential meat supply.

J. W. Sartwelle, president of the Houston Fat Stock show and a Matagorda county ranchman, said the ceiling did nothing but add to an already complicated situation.

R. B. Anderson, manager of the extensive Waggoner estate including thousands of acres of ranch land in Texas and New Mexico, comment at vernon today on the ceiling price regulation. Other Wilbarger county ranchers withheld comment until they have had more time to study the government directive .

Can Of Explosive Is Found By Schoolboy

BROWNWOOD, Jan. 11 (AP)—A nine-year-old schoolboy didn't obey that impulse and lived to tell his father he'd found a half-pound can of TNT in a roadside ditch.

He noticed the can, picket it up and drew back to throw it. Then he noticed the label which said "dangerous." He set the can down carefully and notified his father, William Richardson, who called the sheriff's office.

The explosive was returned to Camp Bowie military officials.

BAPTIST CHURCH BURNS

DALLAS, Jan. 11 (AP) — The First Baptist church of Vickery, north of Dallas, a one-story brick structure with a basement, and a one-story frame Sunday school room adjoining, were wrecked by flames which started from a grass fire on the church lawn today.

Ickes Takes Shot At TVA Chief, Asks If It's A Controversy

By JACKSON S. ELLIOTT
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Secretary Ickes (who, as everybody knows, hates fights) says he doesn't want to start anything but TVA Chairman David E. Lilienthal is a great, big "propagandist."

At his news conference today, the secretary of the interior said he had read an article by Lilienthal praising the Tennessee Valley authority and hinting that any future river authorities should follow the TVA pattern.

"Mr. Lilienthal," said Ickes, "is one of the best—and I might add—one of the busiest propagandists the United States of America has produced."

Mindful Of FDR Order

Mindful of President Roosevelt's warning to officials to beware of controversies or quit, Ickes turned to his assistant secretary, Mike Straus, and inquired:

"I haven't started a controversy, have I?"

"Wait and see," replied Straus.

The Ickes swipe was directed at a government official with whom Ickes technically has no formal relation. But Ickes and Lilienthal represent and head the two outstanding types of power authority.

The TVA is a separate entity, much of the land of which is privately-owned. Its purposes mainly are to provide power and to aid agriculture.

Bonneville Is Public

The Bonneville dam project is an interior department undertaking and consists entirely of public land. It is a multiple project in that various government bureaus such as the fish and wildlife service, the Indian division, the forest service and others are actively interested in its development.

The TVA reports to the White House. The Bonneville Valley authority reports to Ickes.

The trouble with controversies, said Ickes, is that he doesn't know just when something becomes one.

"For instance," he said, "when a fellow drops a bomb it isn't a controversy unless the fellow it hits, squeals. Then it's a controversy."

Formal Dedication Features Opening Of "Powder Room"

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 (AP) — Movie players and name bands lent their talents today to the month's goofiest gag: Dedication of the Los Angeles Herald-Express editorial department's renovated men's powder room.

Three bands, Red Nichols and his Five Pennies, Stan Kenton's and the Pied Pipers, played. Comedians Vince Barnett, Doodles Weaver, Billy Gilbert and Eddie Garr cavorted in the city room.

There were speeches by actors Lee Tracy and Jack Larue, and songs by Lynn Johnson and Noel Neill. Reporter Frank Fiske and Arthur Marke, telegraph editor, masters of ceremonies, slashed the red ribbon stretched across the flower bedecked doorway.

The home economics department served punch and hors d'oeuvres. Life Magazine covered the party. It was the first such party Life (or anyone else) ever had attended.

An Army That's Never Been Beaten

THIS vast American agricultural army doesn't know the meaning of defeat. These millions of American farm and ranch people are advancing along the road to final victory, shoulder to shoulder with the men and women in the armed services. No "E" flags fly from the ridge-poles of their barns . . . no medals are pinned on their shirt fronts. Their reward is the inner satisfaction of a job well done.

Look at their record of victories! In 1944, food production again reached an all-time high—158,950,000 meat animals were slaughtered; 3,101,000,000 bushels of corn, 1,115,000,000 bushels of wheat; dairy products, poultry, eggs, etc., in record or near-record quantities! And because they produced all this food, the meat packing industry was also able to process and distribute a record volume of meats—25 billion pounds.

Each year since the war started, what seemed to be "impossible" goals were set for food production. Each year these objectives have been reached and surpassed in spite of shortages of help and machinery. Farmers and ranchers have produced the staggering tonnages of foods required to feed millions in the armed services and the rest of the nation at home.

America is proud of the victories won by this "Army That's Never Been Beaten."

CEILING PRICES ON LIVE HOGS

Under the present regulations, the ceiling price for all live barrows and gilts is $14.75 per hundredweight and for all sows, stags and boars the ceiling is $14.00 per hundredweight.

These ceiling prices are for Chicago only, and vary from market to market. The difference between the ceilings for sows, stags and boars, and for barrows and gilts is 75c at all markets, however.

Present support prices are as follows: "Good" to "Choice" barrows and gilts that weigh between 200 and 270 pounds have a floor price of $12.50, Chicago basis. At terminal and interior markets other than Chicago, the support price is $2.25 below the ceiling price (as of Nov. 15, 1944) at that market for hogs within the 200 to 270 pound weight range.

These support prices will remain in effect until June 1945.

More than 55,000,000,000 produced in U. S. in 1944—420 eggs for every man, woman and child

Another new year starts, full of promise, and questions for American agriculture. Will the war end in 1945? How much food will Europe need from us? Will rationing and price controls be relaxed? What about the feed situation? These are but a few of the "ifs" we are up against when we make plans for the coming year. To help livestock producers, we here condense opinions recently expressed by War Food Administration economists.

CATTLE: They foresee for '45 an increase in the number of cattle and calves slaughtered, partially as a result of the tendency to reduce the size of herds. They also expect an increase in the number of cattle fed for slaughter. From 1946 to 1949, they expect a gradual decline in slaughtering, with yearly slaughter around 28 to 29 million head.

HOGS: Their estimate of total 1945 hog slaughter is about 79 million, against approximately 100 million in '44. They expect hog production in 1946 to be close to 1945 levels, depending on the feed situation.

SHEEP, LAMBS: Slaughter in '45 will likely be the smallest since 1929, due to recent selling of breeding stock. By 1946, they see a demand far exceeding the supply, leading to possible expansion of flocks over the following five years. This trend may be upset by wool-factor uncertainties.

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

In nearly 20 years with Swift & Company, I have talked with thousands of farmers and ranchers in all sections of the United States, and have tried to bring about a better mutual understanding in the American livestock and meat industry. I have benefited greatly from these talks. But even in 20 years, a man can get the viewpoint of only a relatively few people. That is why this page has been born, so that we can talk things over with more of you than it is possible to do personally. We want your constructive ideas, views, and thoughts for the betterment of the livestock and meat industry. We will welcome your suggestions and fair criticisms. Any questions you raise will be answered in these columns, or by letter.

Should you feel like writing me a letter about any agricultural matter, please do so. Or if you are in Chicago, drop in at my office at Swift & Company, Union Stock Yards. If you haven't time to visit, perhaps you can phone me at this number—Yards 4200, local 710.

May the new year bring to all of you good weather, good crops, good returns for your work, good health, and an end of war.

The Sports Eye

By Mack Turner

WITH eight starters due back on a ball club that was good enough to go to the finals in the state schoolboy football race just completed, and the coach that built the team going up to the college ranks, we can't think of a softer spot for a coach to fall than into the job at Highland Park.

We have been doing some wondering during the past few days about just who would get the job. There are very few coaches in this part of the country who wouldn't be glad to grab a good hold on that job, and we have a huch that the scramble will resemble something almost on the order of a cattle stampede.

We knew Rusty Russell rather well, and we have written many columns of newspaper copy about Rusty and his boys. When the polls were being taken all up and down the state last year, we picked Rusty Russell's Scotties for the top place.

At the time we were picking them, we couldn't have named a single man on the ball club, but remembered that last summer Rusty told us at the coaching school that he had some of the best material that he had ever worked with. And for a pessimist like Rusty, that is saying a lot. (Pessimist Russell told the press just before the San Angelo ball game that his boys would be lucky to HOLD SAN ANGELO TO FOUR TOUCHDOWNS.)

We figured that if Rusty had the material, plus Rusty Russell for a coach, there could be little doubt that they had the number one team in the state. Guess the only thing wrong with the reasoning of that picture was the fact we forgot to talk to Tom Dennis from Port Arthur.

UP TO NOW, we have had only two favorite coaches in the Southwest Conference, but it looks like Dana Bible and Dutch Meyer will have to "move over" and make room for Rusty Russell.

We extend our congratulations to Rusty on his new job, and to the SMU officals, we will add, "You couldn't have picked a better man."

Rusty is going to be known very soon as the "Paul Brown of the Southwest Conference."

Paul Brown stepped into the job at Ohio State, fresh from the high school ranks and made himself a great name. Rusty comes from the toughest high school football in the nation, and it is going to take a lot of showing to these "Missouri eyes" of ours to make us believe that Rusty isn't going to make as great a showing.

BUT TO get back to the original subject, that of who will take the job at Highland Park now that Rusty has stepped up the ladder for the promotion that had been due him for years.

We have not had too wide a connection with coaches throughout the state during the past year, so all that we can take is the observations of others, and we find that Hal Sayles, our good friend on the Abilene Reporter-News, comes forward with the first candidate.

Sayles names another coach we knew rather well when he was at the Electra High school post—Eck Curtis now at Breckenridge, and who also has a wonderful record in schoolboy football, and a knack for turning out high scoring powerhouses.

Sayles says, in part:

"THE Highland Park Scotties shouldn't have any trouble finding a capable successor to H. N. (Rusty) Russell, who has resigned to accept the duration head coaching job at Southern Methodist.

There aren't many, if any, high school coaches in Texas who wouldn't like to inherit the material available at Highland Park next fall. The state finalist Scotties have eight starters back from the powerful 1944 team.

Talked as a possible leading candidate is Eck Curtis, who has been very successful at Breckenridge for a number of years.

There are many fine coaches in the Texas high school league and Curtis is one of the best.

Despite the fact that Breckenridge has a population of less than 6,000, Curtis has turned out teams that rank with the best in the schoolboy league year in and year out.

ABOUT the possibility that Curtis will be offered the post, Jinx Tucker of the Waco papers writes:

"It would be a boon for the chances of Highland Park in 1945 if they would hire Curtis. Offhand, we do not know where Highland could find a more capable man to replace Russell.

"When Waco was looking for a coach several years ago, both Russell and Curtis were among the applicants for the job here. That leads us to believe that Curtis would be more than willing to take the job at Highland Park, if offered. Last year he was offered the job at Paschal high, and thought a long time before he turned it down, but finally did so because the job at Paschal didn't pay as much as the one at Breckenridge. Curtis is undoubtedely one of the best half dozen high school mentors in Texas."

Personally, we agree with Tucker as to Curtis' ability, having observed his teams for the past 18 years."

I'll be seeing you.

YANKS TRAIN CHINESE

SPAAF Smashes Amarillo, 87-67

South Plains Army Air Field's Winged Commandos set the nets on fire with another sensational scoring performance to roar over Amarillo Army Air Field's Sky Giants, 87 to 67, last night at the SPAAF Rec Hall before a standing room only crowd.

Chalking up their second smashing triumph in four days over another one of the state's outstanding service cage squads, the SPAAF Commandos reeled off some of the best hardwood play of the season with spectacular shots swishing in from every angle of the court.

McCloud Gets 36 Points

One of the highlights of the thriller — there were enough for a dozen court contests—was the shooting of SPAAF's All-American ace, Leason "Pete" McCloud who rang up a total of 36 points for a new record in individual scoring in this area, breaking his own 35 point mark of last season. However, McCloud's scoring—and he did it although not playing the last five minutes—was equalled and abetted by the all round play of the other SPAAF players—Forward John Kline, Center Doug Wakeland, Guard Bob Edwards, Guard Ed Kalfain, Cox and Timmons, all of whom turned in outstanding performances offensively and defensively.

By chalkin up their second successive two-point a minute scoring spree in a week, the Commandos laid claim to some sort of record. They rolled over a good Childress Army Air Field team at the local field Monday night, 97 to 51, at the time a new high in point making.

Almost Four Points A Minute

However, for combined scoring last night's spree topped them all —both teams racking up a total of 154 points, almost four a minute for the fact fray.

The visitors from the north plains city managed to make a ball game of it all the way but were never ahead of the SPAAF team. The Commandoes jumped away to a quick two-point lead in the opening seconds, saw the score tied a minute later at 2-2, jumped back ahead, again were tied 4 to 4, then jumped back to a 6-4 lead, again were deadlocked at 6 to 6. Then the Commandos pulled ahead and managed to gradually increase their margin until halftime when they then held a 42 to 32 advantage.

Sky Giants' Rally Fizzles

With the start of the final and frenzied half, Amarillo came back to keep an even pace on scoring but still were unable to make up for their losses in the fading minutes of the first half.

With the ball swishing through the hoop with montonous regularity, both teams continued to pile up the points until midway the final period when Amarillo managed to pull with seven points, 50 to 43.

But McCloud, Cox and Edwards came through with some timely shots to send the Commandos on the scoring path again. And by the time McCloud left the game with little more than five minutes to play SPAAF held a comfortable 74 to 63 margin.

Byrnes Tops For Giants

Coach Ray Cagni's SPAAF boys continued their hot pace and though missing a few eacy ones in the fading minutes kept up their machine like scoring.

No one even came close to McCloud's remarkable performance, although Amarillo's Byrnes, sky-scarpping forward and former Seton Hall standout, added up 19 points by dropping in several beautiful looping shots from near midcourt. SPAAF's pint-sized Cox, who was a star and captain at Texas University last season, came into the contest near three-quarters mark of the first period and played havoc in general with the Sky Giant's defense, often stealing the ball from the much larger and taller visitors. He also chalked up 15 points for second high point honors on the SPAAF team.

Both McCloud's and Cox's performances were helped along with the seeming realization on the part of their teammates that they were hot—so as a result they fed the ball to the two high scoring forwards at almost every opportunity.

SPAAF has one more game before the really BIG one of the season. Saturday night, the Commandos entertain Carlsbad Army Air Field and then tangle with the national champion Phillips 66 Oilers in the season's top notch cage contest of the season Monday night.

The box score:

SPAAF	fg	ft	tp	Amarillo	fg	ft	tp
Kline	1	0	2	Stevens	5	0	10
McCloud	14	8	36	Byrnes	8	3	19

Final Showdown For Sports Due

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — There were indications today that War Mobilizer Jimmy Byrnes will soon be asked to make a definite overall decision on what to do with wartime sports.

Some sources predicted Byrnes will find that the most practicable solution is to order as tight a general shutdown as that in effect at race tracks.

The request for Byrnes to act is expected to come from a Presidential committee and Office of Defense Transportation now studying the ban on conventions and trade shows attended by 50 or more persons.

So many complex problems in regard to sports events have been brought before the committee, headed by J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director, that the most satisfactory course may be to check the entire situation back to Byrnes.

"If it reaches a point where complications can't be readily straightened out, we'll go to the White House for a decision on sports events," an ODT source said.

It was emphasized that "in case of doubt, the thing to do is cancel," and that "this thing is very serious; nobody's kidding about the war's pressing needs."

Many inquiries received by ODT as to whether basketball tournaments, track meets and such come under the ban on conventions, involve complex situations.

Byrnes has said that he contemplates no ban on sports . . . and ODT feels that sports in the main have been highly cooperative . . . but some observers see developments the past few weeks leaving Byrnes no choice but to order a general shutdown, if the whole sports problem is tossed back into his lap.

Baseball Expected To Pick Man From Ranks

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP) — Straws in the wind today indicated a baseball man would be chosen to succeed the late Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, possibly at the February joint meeting of the major leagues in New York.

An Associated Press poll of club owners and general managers, who must make the decision, revealed a decided trend toward a man versed in the rules and problems of the game rather than a nationally-known figure not identified with the sport.

With the exception of President Ed Barrow of the New York Yankees, who said he would support any one of four men, none of the moguls offered candidates.

Barrow said he would vote for President Ford Frick of the National League, President Will Harridge of the American League, General Manager Warren Giles of Cincinnati or Louis McAvoy, director of broadcasting in the American loop. He insisted on a man from within the game.

Frick, who has gained surprising unsolicited support from the rival circuit, leads the list of possibilities.

City College Coach Upset Cage Bookies

NEW YORK, Jan. 11. (AP)—Nat Holman, coach of the City College of New York basketball team, said today he did not allow one of his players to attempt a last minute free throw last night because he wanted to foil the bookmakers attending the Madison Square Garden doubleheader.

In the language of the bookmakers, City College was a 6 to 8 favorite to defeat Syracuse university. If a person bet on City College he gave eight points, if he wagered on Syracuse he received six points on an even money basis.

Bill Levine of CCNY, was fouled with only seconds to go and with City College leading, 48 to 42. If Levine chalked up the added point the CCNY advantage would have been seven—and the bookmakers would have won all bets.

Instead, Holman ordered Levine to waive the free throw and his team took possession at mid-court, stalling until the gun.

Coaches Ask For Five New Rules

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 11. (AP) — The rules committee on the National College Football Coaches association voted today to recommend five major changes in the collegiate gridiron code.

Of prime importance were proposals to prohibit the out of bounds kickoff and to permit forward passing anywhere behind the line of scrimmage.

The coaches' suggestions will be presented to the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association when it meets several weeks hence.

Eastern colleges operated during the past season under the proposed forward passing and kickoff rules. The Western Conference had an agreement among its coaches not to kick off out of bounds.

Under the proposed rule a kickoff going out of bounds would be kicked off again with the kicking team being penalized five yards.

Under present rules forward passes may not be thrown closer than five yards behind the line of scrimmage.

The other changes which the coaches voted at an all-day session to recommend were:

1. To make use of a one-inch tee, to be provided by the officials, mandatory for kickoffs.

2. That where the forearm is used in blocking, the hand must be held against the body, and striking in the face with the elbow should be prohibited.

3. To lessen the severity of the penalty for an attempted lateral pass which is thrown forward. Under the suggested rule there would be a five-yard penalty and a down from the point where the attempted lateral was thrown. Present rules call it an uncompleted forward pass and the ball is returned to the line of scrimmage. When a team which did not put the ball in play originally makes such a miscue it would be penalized five yards from where the attempted lateral was thrown instead of 15 yards as at present.

Among the suggestions voted down were proposals to allow running with a recovered fumble and various suggestions designed to curb stalling near the ends of halves.

Cage All-Stars Play At Boys Club Court

An All-Star basketball game will officially close the first round of play in the senior boys league at the Lubbock Boys club, it was announced Thursday afternoon.

Leo Jeffreys, leader of the cage leagues, and captains of each team named two all-star clubs, the Reds and Blues, with ten players on each squad. They will play tonight following a picture show at the club.

The boys will be the guests of W. G. McMillan at the picture show, which starts at 7:30, and the basketball game will follow the show.

Members of the Red squad will be Jimmy Clark, Sammy Adair, Jerry LeMond, Benny Gunn, Bill Seay, Robert Galey, James Johnson, Windell Conditt, Jack Chaney and Jack Smith.

China Clippers Still Winning Cage Battles

CHINA, Tex., Jan. 11. (AP) — The China Clippers have taken up where they left off last season to run their basketball winning streak to 83 games.

This amazing high school girls team, in the words of its coach, C. C. Alexander, is even stronger on defense than the sextet that was so stingy with opposition points in a surge last campaign that carried it to its seventy-third straight win.

A couple of seasons ago the girls lost one or today they'd have 99 consecutive victories and be well along toward equalling the record of Alexander's famed team at Kildare High school which swept through 115 games before stumbling.

The Clippers have just wound up the Southeast Texas tournament by taking the title for their tenth win this season.

Lubbock Westerners Battle Amarillo Sandies Tonight

Amarillo's Golden Sandstorm blows into Lubbock tonight for a pair of basketball battles at the Lubbock gym, starting at 7:30 o'clock, in what should provide the fans some of the best cage thrills of the present season.

Coach Dixie White's Westerners, defending champions of District 1-AA, and Coach T. G. Hull's defending north half champions, offer the first showing of the season for either team against 1-AA foes, and the results of the battle will be closely watched.

Both Are Contenders

Both teams are rated as strong contenders in the race this year, with the two clubs starting off the season with a show of power that has stamped them as teams to be watched. But both will encounter plenty of opposition to their returns to playoff they staged last season.

The picture in each half is much the same, with the Westerners due to get plenty of trouble from Plainview, with Brownfield as an unknown quantity in the race. In the north half, a powerful Pampa club is due to press the Sandies, with Borger of the darkhorse role.

There has been no report reaching here of the Amarillo clash with the strong Canyon Calves this week, but prior to this, the Sandies have won four and lost one. Lubbock has won three and lost one, so there is very little to choose between the records of the two clubs.

Sandies Record

Amarillo has won two games from Tulia, and one each from Tucumcari and Childress. The loss was to the Childress club, runnerups in the state last season, and winner over the Westerners in the bi-district.

Lubbock has won two games over Lamesa and split two games with Levelland.

The Westerners have two veterans of last year's flag winner, the Sandies boast of three veterans of the north half championship club. R. W. Moyers and George Brewer are the returning veterans for the Westerners. Leroy Foster, Jack Waghorn and Jack Hazelwood are the vets Coach Hull has back.

Coach Hull announced Thursday night that he would start Bill Baucum and Foster at forwards, Glenn Williams at center, and Waghorn and Hazelwood at guards.

Coach White indicated that he would use his regular starters in the game, which will include Moyers and Price at forwards, Turner The Sandies are reported to at center, Brewer and Pressley. have a tall, rangy ball club, but one that is not too fast.

Lamesa Cagers Nose Out Tahoka, 24-21

TAHOKA, Jan. 11 (Special)—Lamesa's Golden Tornado was blowing in full blast here tonight, and with a sustained drive in the home stretch, they blew over the Tahoka Bulldogs, 24-21, in a cage thriller that gave the local fans plenty of action.

The ball game was close all the way, and only one point separated the two teams at the end of the first quarter, and Tohaka reached the halfway mark clinging to a 15-13 advantage over the Lamesa five.

But early in the second half, the Tornadoes blew into the lead, and were never headed off. But the Bulldogs remained snapping at their heels down to the final gun.

Otis Roberts set the pace for the Lamesa club, dropping in 11 points for scoring honors of the night. W. T. Hines paced the Bulldogs, getting eight points.

Nolan Jones, leading scorer of the Tahoka five, was missing from the lineup because of illness.

The opening B game tuned up the fans for the finale, and it took three overtime sessions to convince the Lamesa lads that the Tahoka B club was the winner by an 18-16 margin. It was a fast, cyclonic battle all the way with the outcome in doubt to the final gun.

Donaldson of Tahoka, with seven points, topped the scoring for this game, but Lamesa's Bill Taylor was close behind him with six points.

YANKS WIN ON GRIM SCOREBOARD — American techniques and superior firepower are getting the job done in the Pacific, as far as eliminating the Jap is concerned. Since the start of the war, our men have been knocking off Nips at the rate of 13 dead Japs to one dead Yank, as above chart shows. On Leyte Island the ratio was even higher—31 to 1, with the Japs still on the big end of the death score. Center pictures show American grave, left, and Jap grave, right.

Legislature Expense Appropriation Voted

AUSTIN, Jan. 11. (AP) — House Approval of a Senate initiated measure today sent to Gov. Coke R. Stevenson's desk a $350,000 appropriation for expenses of the legislature.

Similar appropriations will follow during the session which will probably cost approximately $1,000,000.

In the House Speaker Claude Gilmer ruled out on a point of order an attempt by Rep. Charley Pigg of Waxahachie to amend the appropriation bill by increasing the monthly $1,900,000 old age assistance allotment by $250,000.

The state's welfare program was the subject of another house proposal, a resolution by Rep. Ben Sharpe of Paris asserting old age assistance was not administered in accordance with statute and opposing Senate confirmation of John H. Winters as executive director of the Public Welfare department. The resolution was referred to the temporary committee on rules for a hearing.

Sharpe said he would appear before the committee, Monday and substantiate the assertion in his resolution.

The House also sent to the rules committee a resolution by Rep. M. B. Morgan of Denison opposing U. S. Senate ratification of the Anglo - American petroleum agreement.

Peace Mission Said Given To Spellman

LONDON, Jan. 11. (AP) — The Morocco radio today broadcast unconfirmed Swiss reports that Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York had been entrusted by Pope Pius XII with an important mission in connection with future peace talks.

It gave no details, but said there was "great diplomatic activity in Rome."

A Rome dispatch last night said some Vatican circles believed there was a possibility Archbishop Spellman might become papal secretary of state, pro tempore, although a Vatican official had denied such an appointment had been made.

The Case Of Lew Ayres

The Exception Proves The Rule

THE war record of former Movie Actor Lew Ayres thus far stands as proof that upon occasion, at least, a man who claims his conscience will not permit him to seek the life blood of others can be entirely sincere.

Ayres, it will be remembered, listed himself as a conscientious objector to war in the early days of the present conflict. Then at the height of a cinema career and the popular star of the extremely successful "Dr. Kildare" series, Ayres deliberately wrecked his standing with the majority of the American public by refusing to become a soldier. He said he simply could not sacrifice principle—and that was that.

Later, however, Ayres went into the Army, serving in the medical branch and, for a time, was stationed in Abilene. Later he became a chaplain's assistant and went overseas. Recently, word has come from Leyte that his work with the chaplains there has been outstanding; that while still refusing to fire a gun at the enemy, he has repeatedly risked life and limb in carrying out his noncombat duties, and in administering to the wounded.

The fact remains, of course, that any nation whose young men were all typified by Lew Ayres would soon lose its resources and its freedom. But it is also true that occasionally a conscientious objector is really what he claims to be, hence, under our form of government, has a right to follow his convictions to the limit. There is no doubt that the vast majority of concientious objectors are shirkers, slackers and cowards, but the Ayres case is the exception which proves the rule and bulwarks the American creed which insists that even in wartime a citizen has a right to believe as he wishes, and act accordingly in keeping with the statutes.

Ayres has been doing, still is doing, a necessary work at the fighting front. Someone has to do the sort of thing he is doing, so it might just as well be an individuel opposed to combat, thus procluding the possibility of wasting a fighting man on a non-fighting job.

Certainly, Lew Ayres has proved his courage under fire and by his actions demands respect, even of those who believe that when a man's country is attacked he should shelve his personal opinions and actively join in its defense.

Georgia's Reconversion Plan

ONE of the most forward-looking reconversion projects so far announced does not concern industry, as might have been expected. Instead it has to do with the solid. In Georgia, 700 business men have joined in an enterprise which promises great things for that state.

Coming from 100 different communities, each has contributed $1,000 to a fund to be used in restoring improverished soil. Farms now considered worthless will be purchased, and through changes in cropping, terracing and fertilization restored to productiveness.

There has been much discussion and in some states considerable action in regard to restoration of depleted soils. In the old South continual cropping of cotton comes in for a share of the blame for present conditions. Erosion is equally responsible, a condition which is widespread throughout the nation. Wherever steps to combat erosion have been intelligently conceived and managed, results have been good.

Those engaged in the Georgia project are acting from an entirely unselfish motive. They do not hope to profit from larger crops. The farms will be turned over to new owners, with the result that the agricultural wealth of the state will be greatly increased and the entire economic situation improved.

The move in Georgia is of interest to business and agriculture circles of West Texas, a new farming area when compared to the Old South. This section has grown rapidly, due to the wearing out of older farm lands and one of the reasons for the Georgia experiment undoubtedly must be due to the belief there that only through innovations can the Old South's population be halted in its westward drift.

Whether Georgia's conservation plan will "hold the line," or not, will be interesting to watch. And what is done there in the next few years may furnish valuable information for us if and when the day comes when our own lands begin to slump in productivity.

"An English psychologist says the human soul weighs two ounces." He was, of course, referring to a normal soul in healthy condition. Many a person has a soul so shrivelled that it weighs less than a dehydrated mustard seed.

For the first time since they were boys, many men are hiding when they smoke cigarettes—hiding, that is, from other cigarette smokers.

THE STORY: Len and Sue Beckley have been entertaining Walt Hilyard and his family, newcomers to Staton, at dinner. Len has known Walt for a long time but hasn't seen Margaret Hilyard in 20 years. He is thunderstruck at the changes in the once beautiful girl. She is fat and overdressed and seems to take a delight in making other people feel ill at ease. Everyone has a miserable evening except young Tom Beckley, home on leave, and Jennifer Hilyard, who are delighted to have discovered each other. Sue is relieved when her guests finally depart.

Len and Sue let their weary smiles relax like flowered curtains.

Sue groaned: "Remember what you prophesied about my saying, 'How on earth did such a nice man get himself hooked by such a woman?' Well, consider it said."

Len sighed: "What gets me is that when I saw Jennifer I thought she was Margaret miraculously preserved."

Sue leapt as if a wasp had stung her: "Good Lord! What if Tom fell in love with her and married her and she turned into another Margaret? He seems to be crazy about her. And soldiers are getting married at first sight nowadays."

"You're borrowing trouble a long way in advance," said Len. "Tom would have been just as crazy about any other piece of fluff. He's famished. He'll be raving about some other girl tomorrow."

They went about the night ritual of putting out all the lights. Then they realized that their son was home again and they turned on the hall lamp for him.

Upstairs, they began to reverse the procedure of a few hours before and took off wearily what they had put on with care and great expectations. They found Margaret vastly more entertaining to dissect that she had been to entertain.

They were not angels and they realized no more than Margaret did, that her nagging and bullying and her airs of superiority were really due to her distrust of herself, her terror of other people's opinions and her inability to believe that her husband could possibly love her.

Since Margaret herself had never reached the heights of "Know thyself!" these strangers could not be expected to see through her false front of apparent self-satisfaction to the despondent soul that cowered behind it.

While Sue was scrubbing off the face she had put on earlier, and Len was working toward his pajamas, he sighed:

"One thing is certain, Margaret is not the girl Walt married."

Sue was tired enough to be a bit peevish. She answered:

"I'm not the girl you married, either."

"And I'm not the lad you married, either. Who wants to spend a lifetime as a kid? Growing old together is the sweetest part of marriage. But Margaret is like so many of the wives you see. She has gone rancid with age. I knew her when Walt was crazy about her, but afraid to marry her because we were going overseas any day. Walt was kind of straitlaced, but Margaret was a wild young thing. She told me frankly she wanted to marry Walt even though he might die in France.

"I can see her now, following alongside our troop train as it pulled away from the station. Walt was leaning out of the window and Margaret was running as fast as she could, throwing kisses and trying to laugh, and her eyes blind with tears.

"When we got back from France, Margaret met the transport at the dock. She had their baby in her arms—a boy. He died a few years later."

Sue's eyes filled with sudden tears: "Poor thing! That may account for her bitterness. When our first baby died, I hated the world."

Len put his arms about her: "But afterward you seemed to be sweeter than ever. No, you can't blame death for Margaret. It's life that's ruining her somehow. And she's ruining Walt's life. He ought to divorce her."

"On what ground?"

"Infidelity."

"You can't mean—"

"Infidelity to herself. Infidelity to the girl she was. It's worse than having an affair with another man. These pretty little bridiewidies catch their men by being on their good behavior and all dressed up in body and soul. Then they don't stay put. They stow their marriage vows away with their bridal veils. They forget their promises."

Ordinarily Sue felt no call to defend women as a class. But she had to say:

"Of course, men never—"

'Oh, of course men do," Len broke in. "When I say 'women' I include men. But it's no wonder the divorce business is becoming one of the largest industries in our country. You can get a divorce for cruelty and almost anything's cruelty in a divorce court. But the real cruelty doesn't get mentioned."

Sue yawned: "I'll bite. What is the real cruelty, Mr. Beckley?"

"It's obtaining love under false pretenses. The bride pretends to be silk and she's just dyed sateen; or she pretends to be all wool and she's mostly cotton. She lets her mind go stale. She loses interest in the world. She gets tired of her husband and tiresome to him. She gets fatty degeneration of the heart and the brain and the character."

Sue was in her pajamas by then and she smiled drowsily:

"I suppose Margaret is saying even worse of me. I wish that daughter of hers would let that son of mine come home."

"A lot of our boys don't come home because Japanese snipers get 'em," Len muttered. "If they do get home, some damn girl ambushes 'em."

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

ONE of the country's great scientists, Edgar B. Burchell, bacteriologist and serologist at the New York Eye and Ear hospital has just celebrated his golden jubilee with that institution and, in honor of the occasion, was made an honorary fellow of the American Academy of Ophtalmology and Otolaryngology, the largest organization of its kind in the world.

"But why do you tell us that in a column such as yours?" you may ask. "That 's an item of interest only to scientists."

No it isn't just that. It is proof once more what a human being can do if the fire is in him and if he has the will to win.

Burchell was born in the Ninth ward of New York City, a ward about as far removed from success as it can possibly be.

His father was a carpenter and young Edgar's first job was an apprenticeship jeweler.

At 16 he became an orderly in the infirmary of the Eye and Ear hospital, where he washed bottles and did other menial jobs.

He was promted to the job of porter, at which he earned $17 a month and worked 12 hours a day.

While on this job he became interested in experiments that he had watched others demonstrate, and he practiced them at night in the deserted laboratories of the hospital. He read and he studied and eventually rose to laboratory assistant and finally to his present post.

Burcell's only formal education consisted of a few years in public school. He never went to high school or to college.

But when King Prajadhipok of Siam came to the United States for a difficult eye operation a few years ago, Edgar Burchell, ex-orderly, ex- porter, was called in as consulting pathologist.

We can't all become great scientists, of course.

But we needn't be failures.

WHEN the war is over many thousands of boys will have to find jobs. They'll look in the classified columns and take any old job that offers them a decent salary.

They'll drift along and complain about lack of opportunities and become disgruntled old husbands and fathers and old men.

And they'll blame it on Roosevelt and the Democrats or on Mr. X who may then be Republican President and on everything else except themselves.

I remember my first job. It was in a corset factory in Newark, N. J. My college diploma was still warm in my desk, but I had to make a living.

My work was putting the laces in the corset boxes. Ten hours a day, $3 a week.

I quit after a week. Another fellow who worked alongside of me is now one of the chief executives of the firm and a millionaire.

If I had been smart, I would now probably be a successful corset manufacturer instead of a columnist.

But to tell you the truth, I get an awful lot of fun out of life.

And that's worth something, too.

Drys Are On The March

(The National Whirligig)

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

JAMES F. BYRNES' belated ban on horse racing and his threat to close down other professional sports have proved a blessing to the drys in their quiet but persistent effort to drum up prohibition sentiment on the basis of the latest war crisis.

Despite election losses last fall that had them punch-drunk, the War Mobilizer's decree has given them fresh inspiration—in Washington, in state capitals and throughout the nation. They contend, and statistics substantiate their argument, that the liquor industry clogs transportation facilities, absorbs more manpower, consumes more vital materials and causes more absenteeism than the ponies, baseball and football combined.

White-ribboners are notoriously secretive about their finances, but they admit privately that the shekels have been rolling in since the original success of the von Rundstedt offensive and the South Carolinian's stern New Year's Day orders. Jimmie, who enjoys his toddy now and then, may be surprised to learn that he has become a prohibition champion by proxy and remote control.

The drys' money goal has now been raised to a total of $12,000,000, whereas previous quotas had been fixed at a more modest mark. The WCTU's figure is $1,000,000, and it is understood that more than $800,000 has already been collected. In fact, more than $300,000 has already been spent on an "educational and advertising program."

The Anti-Saloon League has rounded up $3,000,000 of a $5,000,000 maximum. The Seven Day Adventists are reported to have set $6,000,000 as the amount they will eventually throw into the nonalcoholic kitty. Numerous allied organizations, local and national, are passing the hat, and the repeal treasury may yet amount to about $20,000,000.

PROHIBITIONISTS: The drys' reverses in 1944 were so numerous and impressive that the camel did not get a chance to poke his nose into the national, state or local tents occupied by the liquor interests and their customers. It was, perhaps, their worst year since President Roosevelt brought back beer and booze soon after his first inauguration.

Rep. Joe Bryson of South Carolina, Mr. Byrnes' bailiwick, introduced a bill outlawing beverages of more than one-half of one per cent alcohol for the duration, but it was buried after a single hearing. He plans to reintroduce it at this session.

Professional prohibitionists, however, did not give it solid support because it is only a wartime measure. They prefer to duplicate the 1910-1920 strategy of grass roots growth through local option gains.

WET: On that battlefield their losses were serious last year. In Massachusetts 21 communities changed from wet to dry, while 330 others maintained their status quo—264 wet, 66 dry.

In New Hampshire 18 towns legalized liquor after a drouth, while only three voted vice versa. Two hundred fourteen stood by their record of one 117 wet, 97 dry. In Maine legal control made a net gain of eight towns, reducing the arid area from 32 to 30.4 per cent. The John Barleycorn boys made a slight gain in Vermont.

Nebraska voted 3-to-1 against a bone-dry proposition. Restrictive measures were defeated decisively in North Dakota. Many legislatures refused to consider repeal, mainly on the ground that men overseas ought to have a chance to record their sentiment.

Nevertheless, the prohibitionists take a cheerful view of the national situation. Three states—Kansas, Mississippi and Oklahoma—prohibit liquor. Nine hundred counties, or about 30 per cent, ban hard spirits, while more than 400 frown on beer. The nation's dry area embraces about 25,000,000 people, or slightly more than 18 per cent of the population.

REPEAL: A new element, however, has entered politics to the dismay of the more far-seeing leaders of the revived prohibition movement. Its appearance may prevent either major party from again seeking parched votes, as did the Republicans and Democrats in the years which preceded World War I.

The factor which may seal the permanent doom of the drys is the great labor union vote in the cities, especially that of the CIO-ers, who dominated the November election. It is doubtful whether these workers will ever line up for repeal, and without them and their allies it would be almost impossible to put over prohibition. Moreover, both the Democrats and Republicans need their support and will do nothing to alienate them.

Nevertheless, the battle against booze will probably become more serious and thunderous in 1945 and 1946 than it has been in two decades—thanks to the jovial Jimmie Byrnes.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

WHILE the Empire State legislature takes action on Tom Dewey's annual message, national Republican leaders in New York City, including wealthy financial backers, are studying it as a revelation of the direction in which the governor would lead the party—here and in the country.

Many of them think he is swinging to the left even more than he did in his presidential campaign speeches, when he placed his OK on certain Roosevelt legislation and recommended broadening Social Security to include farmers, domestics and other classifications.

As a result, a new coolness has developed between the governor and the Old Guard. This came at the moment the Martinites in Washington politely told the Deweyites not to meddle in congressional politics. Following the rebuff, they teamed up with Southern Democrats and restored the "Dies Committee," a move that already has had repercussions in New York. So the struggle for the control of the GOP is under way.

ALARMED: The governor immediate objective is to be re-elected to Albany and thus to continue as a figure to be reckoned with in national affairs. Hence the primary purpose of the message is in the nature of an appeal to the New York electorate which approved of the broad social program enacted by his predecessors, Smith, Roosevelt and Lehman.

He advocates extension of workmen's compensation, revision of unemployment insurance tax, pay increases for state employes, housing projects for low income families, a huge financial backlog for postwar public works jobs, state aid to schools, judicial reform and action against racial discrimination.

The red press calls these proposals a hypocritical plan for popular support and the radical American Labor party brands them "a brazen political bid." Many Republican leaders and newspapers in the state champion the governor's program.

But extreme conservatives, the element represented by Wall Street, are alarmed. They privately fumed the presidential campaign when their standard-bearer came out for "some degree of economic direction" by the government, including interest regulation, minimum wages and farm-support prices.

They now suspect that Mr. Dewey wants more state control of private affairs. In their eyes, collectivism is a dangerous principle—whether in Washington or in Albany.

The MPs Are On The Job!

By NEA Service

WITH THE 28TH INFANTRY DIVISION IN GERMANY—That old pibe, "This place must be safe—the MPs are here," isn't used by front-line troops of this outfit nowadays. If some GI does make such a sneering remark about the combat military police you can automatically peg him as a novice because he simply hasn't been around long enough to know what he's talking about.

A quick survey of the 28th's MP platoon will reveal to skeptics that combat MPs are not just traffic cops or killjoys who place "off limits" signs at the edges of towns. They're actually fighting soldiers and they can show you records to prove it. Some of them can show you Purple Hearts that weren't won back in the rear areas.

When the first doughboys of this division fought their way into the outskirts of Percy, France, and deployed along the streets to search out snipers, seven MPs were waiting for them inside the town. The MPs had moved into Percy to control traffic only to find that the traffic hadn't caught up with them yet. So they helped the infantrymen round up the remainin snipers before settling down to policing traffic.

Knock Out Gun

NEAR Florenville, Belgium, three MPs were assigned to work with a task force. Their jeep was third in the column, the first being a light tank. As they were moving down a road a Jerry anti-tank gun let loose and knocked out the light tank. The MPs jumped from their jeep and ran into the brush at the edge of the road. The situation was relayed back to our artillery, which quickly knocked out the anti-tank gun.

At Gathemo, France, Pvt. Harry Rowe, Pardoe, Pa., was at a traffic control post about 300 yards behind the main line of resistance. He had been on duty only a few minutes and hadn't had time to dig a slit trench. Suddenly the Jerries opened up with 88 mm. fire. The first shell burst about 25 yards away. Rowe dashed to the shell hole and jumped in Another shell hit about 30 yards to his left. He sprinted to that hole and hit the bottom. Asked later why he shuttled from hole to hole he said, "I've always heard that shells never hit twice in the same place."

Testimony to the fact that MPs must be rugged to handle their jobs is the fact that all but six men in the division's MP platoon were on their feet directing traffic for more than two days straight—a total of 52 hours. This happened when the division was making a movement of about 100 miles during the German retreat toward the Seine.

However, MPs are hand-picked not only for their physical fitness but also for thier ability to handle ticklish situations with firm tact. In addition to enforcing "off limits" regulations in liberated or captured towns there have been numerous occasions when they have had to settle altercations among civilians. One such case was in a Belgian town, where an MP saw two civilians arguing. One called the other a Nazi collaborator and the other protested so vigorously that the two men soon were fighting in the middle of the street. The MP broke it up.

Requires Tact

DURING the 28th Division's Liberation Day parade through Paris a tremendous problem was keeping the hysterically happy Parisians from blocking the parade route down the Champs Elysees. "When you have to pull a pretty girl out of a jeep, carry her to the curb and set her down—that requires tact," one MP said.

Combat MPs are taught to shift for themselves, because it oftep is necessary for a traffic control team to spend several days at an isolated road junction far from mess lines and bivouac areas. Often these three or four man teams are stationed within 300 yards of the front lines where they're constantly in danger of shell bursts own K or C rations, which they supplement when possible with produce from neighboring farms.

Maj. William Fellman II, of Philadelphia, Pa., 28th Division Provost Marshal, has reason to believe that his military police platoon is made up of some of the best soldiers in the division. When this organization entered combat the platoon was considerably over strength and many MPs were reassigned back to front line infantry units. A rifle company commander who had seen some of the reassigned MPs in action against the enemy told Mapor Fellman, "If you have any more MPs that you can't keep, please give them to me. I could have a crack rifle company with just 50 of these boys and no one else."

Governor Rules Out Inaugural Reception

AUSTIN, Jan. 11. (U.P.) — Texas legislators and their wives today seemed headed toward a quiet social season as Gov. Coke R. Stevenson announced that the usual governor's inaugural reception will not be held this year.

"This," he said, "is not the time for social activities of any kind."

However, the Senate ladies club pre-inaugural banquet honoring the governor, lieutenant governor and newly-elected senators will be held Monday night, Mrs. W. E. Stone, wife of Galveston's senator, said.

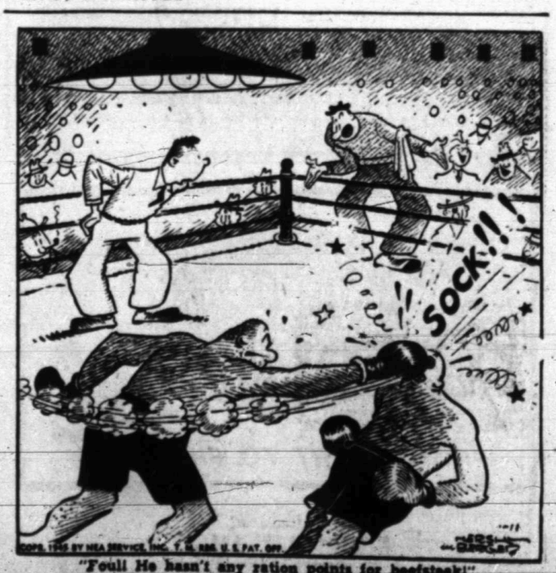

No social plans have been made by the representatives wives' club, Mrs. Claud Gilmer, wife of the new speaker, said.

Blonde Is Sought In Theft Of Baby

FORT WORTH, Jan. 11. (U.P.)—Fort Worth officers continued their search today for an attractive blonde woman about 20 who abducted three weeks old Mildred Louise McGill here Tuesday and abandoned the child in a San Antonio bus station yesterday.

San Antonio officials said the woman, nattily dressed in a gray tailored suit, bought a ticket to Fort Worth soon after turning the baby over to a maid in the bus terminal restroom on the pretense of going out to eat. However, Fort Worth officers met all incoming buses and did not find the woman.

Meanwhile, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McGill, accompanied by Fort Worth detectives, went to San Antonio last night and got their daughter.

Under the pretext of showing the child to her mother, the adductress took the baby from Mrs. McGill into a car and drove off.

Surprise Blow Scatters Nazis

newly-captured Iaroche.

On the south, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army in heavy attacks from three sides, cut the size of the strong Harlange box in half in 11 hours, took 400 prisoners, slaughtered a retreating convoy and sent survivors floundering through snowdrifts into the woods.

The box, from which the Germans had been holding up any advance north of Bastogne by throwing in strong armored counterblows, was five miles long and four miles wide before the attacks began.

On the north, American gains in the last 24 hours carried them into Vielsalm and across the Salm, and to within about six miles of Houffalize on the north.

Canadians Open Attack

The Berlin radio said the Canadian First Army had launched an attack south of Nijmegen in eastern Holland, but this was without Allied confirmation.

The U. S. Seventh Army Repulsed a German attack at Althorn, six miles south of the fortress of Bitche near France's northeastern frontier. Elsewhere along the 60-mile front from Saarbrucken in the Saar to the Rhine, the Germans brought up reinforcements.

AP Correspondent Robert C. Wilson reported the Germans continued to hold the perimeter of their bridgehead north of Strasbourg firmly and that the Yanks were forced to withdraw from Herrlisheim, a village in that area.

French Garrison Trapped

Farther south in the Alsace plain, the First French Army battled a German armored thrust northward along the Rhine-Rhone canal which over-ran Obenheim, 14 miles south of Strasbourg, trapping the French garrison. Planes of the First U. S. Tactical Air forces dropped supplies to the French.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed for the first time that the Seventh Army, in its recent withdrawal in northeastern France, gave up at least 14 miles along the west bank of the Rhine from Berg to Kauffenheim.

It seemed clear that the western phase of the battle of the Belgian bulge was in its last stage and the next would be fought in the wider eastern sector of the Ardennes, where the German holding will be little more than a fourth the size it was the high tide of conquest.

82nd Crosses River

The 82nd Airborne division fought into Vielsalm and crossed the Slam river on a front 1,000 yards wide. To the northeast patrols ranged boldily and deeply into German-held territory south of Malmedy without encountering resistance.

As the mercury dipped to nine above zero, the 83rd Infantry division five miles southwest of Vielsalm penetrated the village of Langin, only three and a half miles north of the last good enemy line of retreat out of the bulge.

The Third Armored division was locked in a tank battle in this area with German forces trying to keep the roof of the sagging bulge from caving in before von Rundstedt can extricate all his forces.

The 83rd also seized Bihain, seven miles north of Houffalize and pressed on nearly a mile south where fierce fighting broke out.

To the west, Laroche fell quickly as doughboys who came in from the north joined up with those who had crossed the Ourthe river south of the town.

Line Moves Forward

Striking straight east, the British meanwhile moved their whole line forward as much as three miles, swept up half a dozen towns or more, and sent patrols on seven miles ahead to the vicinity of Champlon. The main force nowhere made contact with the withdrawing enemy.

It was significant that the patrols encountered no German defense line as they moved up to a point where the St. Hubert-Laroche highway joints the highday from Bastogne to Namur.

The junction controls the last escape route for any enemy forces which may still be in the northwestern tip near Rochefort, or the southwestern tip near St. Hubert, and if they were in either sector in strength this would be the last place left unguarded.

No Claim To Capture

There still was no Allied claim to the capture of St. Hubert, which the Germans said they had evacuated, but the fact that British patrols were able to move unopposed to within four miles north of the U. S. Third Army fighting near St. Hubert indicated the enemy had little strength left in this quarter.

The German southern flank west of Bastogne was beginning to disintegrate. The Third Army reported that the Germans were moving out under cover of small-scale counterattacks.

Ten miles west of the city, the doughboys moved north nearly a mile above Tillet and cut the St. Hubert-Houffalize highway. North of Bastogne, the Fourth Armored division probed a mile up the Houffalize road but pulled back after feeling out enemy positions.

Bastogne Thorn Removed

The 35th Infantry division removed a thorn in the side of the Bastogne wedge yesterday by capturing Harlange, six miles southeast of Bastogne, from where the Germans had been striking with powerful armored forces in an attempt to cut the road south to Arlon.

Then things began to break early today.

One American division attacked at 1 a. m. from the south, and within a few minutes cut a road junction near Doncols, three and a half miles west of Wiltz, enemy strongpoint in northern Luxembourg ten miles east of Bastogne.

The Sixth Armored division struck from the west and chased a German convoy on the Bastogne-Wiltz road into the fire of the division moving up from the south. In all five towns were overrun and 400 prisoners taken.

Nazi Flee In Disorder

The Germans, once estimated at three-division strength in the Harlange box, were fleeing in disorder toward Wiltz, where the Americans are holding high ground overlooking the town.

The 26th Infantry division earlier had moved up to within 500 yards of Wiltz. Farther east the Germans tried to send a raiding party across the Sure river southeast of Echternach, 18 miles northeast of the city of Luxembourg, but it was dispersed by artillery fire.

Wartime Changes Come Too Swiftly For Correspondents

By WILLIAM F. BONI
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 10 (Delayed) — Changes in wartime sometimes are made too swiftly and completely to be accepted with total equanimity.

One afternoon you may be crouching in a shallow slit trench at a Belgian crossroads watching German shells burst in the village just beyond American troops working their way up a hill.

The next afternoon you and your driver are bucking four-foot snowdrifts in an open jeep with a balky distributor and chains which break four times in the 10-hour ride from First Army headquarters to Paris.

Then A Little Later

Only 24 hours later you are stitting in the American Red Cross "rainbow corner" litsening to an AEF band beat out familiar rhythms for a crowd of soldiers and their girls.

Thinking of sharp contrasts, your mind drifts to another—that between the war against the Japanese and this war against the Germans. In broad aspects it's the same war against aggression; in individual parts they are two separate and distinct wars.

The difference lies largely in artillery.

On the Western front—any time you are merely as far forward as division headquarters — you are likely to come under shellfire.

In New Guinea and Burma and now in the Philippines the main Japanese threat is still from snipers.

Nothing Like 88s

The Japanese had artillery in New Guinea, in North Burma and on the Salween against the Chinese. But they rarely had as heavy guns as the Germans. They never had them in the same concentrations and they had nothing to compare with the Nazi 88s.

You could go consistently closer to the New Guinea or Burma fronts with a far lower chance of casualty than on the Western front.

"There is a hell of a lot more stuff flying through the air around here," explains Australian correspondent Geoffrey Hutton, who came here from the Pacific.

On the other hand, the Western front from day to day is usually a fairly stable proposition. Accurate maps permit you to reach division or regimental command posts without straying into trouble.

Question Mark Maps

They have situation maps in the Pacific, too, but generally they are dotted with question marks or terse notations that Japanese patrols and snipers have been active here or there along the jeep lanes.

The first two weeks of von Rundstedt's push brought conditions on the Wetsern front closer to those encountered in the Pacific war.

From the corespondent's viewpoint, the two wars are entirely different in personal comfort.

This is a winter war and for the fighting men it is bitterly brutal business. But, while the correspondent may get half-frozen and dirty, in his quest for news, generally at night he returns to a hot meal and sometimes a hot bath—and sometimes even a bed with a real mattress and sheet.

Travel Lighter In Pacific

Correspondents in the Pacific travel lighter than those over here. The jungle hammock, with perhaps one blanket, is ample on the island fronts. Also in island warfare there are many transportation difficulties.

Against the numbing cold of winter warfare here, there is the heat and mud of the tropics. . . . the tropical rains and the great variety of strange diseases. Against the machine-like brutality of the Nazi SS troops who shoot down American prisoners and Belgian civilians with lack of emotion, you have the fanaticism of the Japanese, who never surrender in groups as the Germans have done repeatedly.

across this sea expanse toward Saigon and Camranh bay undoubtedly startled the enemy.

Formosa Jolted Jan. 8

American carrier forces hit Formosa Jan. 8 in the last of a series of jolting strikes to neutralize that island bastion linking Japan and the threatened Philippines.

The fleet then must have headed west through Luzon straight into the South China sea. Probably an American reconnaissance plane sighted a Japanese sea force heading out from Indo-China ports.

In such a situation it is typical that Adm. William F. Halsey would close in quickly for a killing punch.

Ex-Secretary Gets Portion Of Estate

CHICAGO, Jan. 11 (AP)—Ethabelle Green, 36 year old former secretary of the late William Hale (Big Bill) Tompson, thrice mayor of Chicago, is to receive $250,000 of his estimated two million dollar estate, Probate Judge John F. O'Connell said last night.

The amount represented one-fourth of the $1,000,000 Miss Green claimed in a suit filed in probate court last month.

The pre-war model deluxe television receiver required a total of 33 tubes.

Yanks On Luzon Driving Inland

were widened to at least 25 miles with the capture of the mouth of the Agno, which empties into the Lingayen gulf west of captured Lingayen town.

Nine miles represented the deepest point of penetration in the time covered in the communique. Since the communique always lags 24 hours behind operations it was probable patrols had driven deeper since then.

Planes from Seventh Fleet baby flattops provided close cover for the advance, while land-based Army bombers and fighters raked enemy targets all over Luzon.

Associated Press correspondent Spencer Davis reported from the Seventh Fleet flagship that Navy Wildcats cleaned out a nest of about 70 cleverly-camouflaged barges, small luggers and launches that had lain hidden among the small islets in northwestern Lingayen gulf since the American landing.

Resistance Stiffens

The first stiffened resistance was at the left flank east of the San Fabian beachhead. There the Sixth Army troops had seized the road junction town of Manaoag and were advancing northward toward Pozorrubio when they encountered the enemy forces.

Pozorrubio is on the route to Baguio, summer capital of the Philippines and possibly the seat of Japanese leaders. There was no indication of the severity of the fighting.

MacArthur's communique said the Japanese, still unable to recover from the apparent surprise landings in the Lingayen gulf after an invasion from the south had been expected, were unable to move their forces from the south in sufficient strength to impede the Yanks' progress notably.

Jap Air Activity Nil

Enemy air activity was reported still negligible.

A MacArthur spokesman said gains reported in the communique covered operations up to midnight Wednesday, the second day of fighting.

In expanding their beachhead westward the Americans seized Labrador, on the opposite side of the Agno river. A seven-mile penetration was made beyond Umanday at the western edge of a valley and plain that leads southward toward Manila. Umanday is a focal point on the main north-south highway in the west.

A parallel column moving southward from the center of the beachhead area also pushed seven miles along a highway route, taking the road junction towns of Clasia and Bulog. Bulog is five miles beyond captured Dagupan.

Japs Raid Anchorage

Light Japanese naval craft raided the American anchorage before dawn Wednesday, MacArthur's communique said, "causing damage to our shipping." A spokesman said these were small, improvised craft designed for attacks against shipping. Most of them were reported sunk.

Heavy air strikes over Luzon reported in the communique were on the day of the landing. Ninety tons of bombs were dropped on Clark Field, largest in the Philippines, and Nichols and Nielson fields in the Manila area.

Heavy and medium bombers and attack planes bombed and strafed roads and rail lines by which reinforcements and supplies could be moved by the enemy. Many locomotives and 100 freight cars were reported destroyed or damaged.

Clark Field 40 Miles Off

Clark Field, a major objective ahead of the Yanks, was less than 40 miles distant. Situated on the west side of the wide open plain stretching to Manila bay, Clark Field is but 75 miles northwest of the capital city. It is along the railroad running northward from Manila to Dagupan, the Lingayen coastal town seized quickly by landing forces.

A delayed dispatch from Fred Hampson, Associated Press war correspondent, reported the 14th Army corps had pushed west along the southern Lingayen coast within two miles of Port Sual. This operation gave General MacArthur's forces a solid beachhead base of more than 20 miles, running from near Port Sual to San Fabian.

(The Tokyo radio reported Thursday that the "fiercest and bloodiest" battle of the invasion was raging around San Fabianind that a new American attempt to land at Rabon, north of San Fabian, was liquidated "within ten minutes."

Tokyo's "Immense Battles"

(Tokyo also told of "immense battles" being fought in the gulf and landing barges "being blown off the beaches in the all-out offensive of Japanese forces." All of these unconfirmed claims were made in broadcasts for home and empire consumption.)

As Vice Adm. Thomas Kinkaid's 7th Fleet poured troops, munitions and supplies ashore, it encountered the usual enemy tricks. A dozen Nipponese swimmers, shoving boxes of explosives, were caught paddling around in the transport area. Two were captured. Others were shot in the water when they resisted capture.

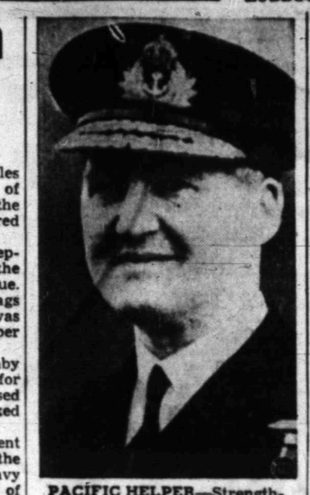

The only enemy opposition Wednesday night to the landing operations came from bomb-carrying Japanese. They used hand-made torpedoes, grenades or tiny bombs. Vice Adm. Adniel B. Barbey, commanding the 7th amphibious force, described the attack as "more odd than effective."

PARIS, Jan. 11. (AP)—Sentences of imprisonment at hard labor ranging from 40 to 45 years were imposed today on five U. S. enlisted men by a general court martial trying a series of cases involving the looting of supply trains and the diversion of cigarets and other Army goods into black market channels.

Sentenced to 40 years were Pvt. Fred C. Jones, 19, Phillipps, W. Va.; Pvt. Edward N. Wagner, 22, St. Paul, Minn.; Pfc. Thomas G. Harper, 26, Centralli, Ill., and Sgt. Leonard J. French, 33, Houston, Tex.

Sgt. Merel A. Young 36, New York City, was sentenced to 45 years.

Signed confessions showed that the five men participated in lootings and black market deals netting them thousands of dollars. All five were of Company C of the 716th Railway Operating batallion. They were the second group to be tried in cases involving 182 enlisted men and two officers.

Russian Embassy Is Hit By Oil Shortage

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — The oil shortage hit embassy row today and Russian Ambassador Gromyko did his desk work bundled up in his overcoat.

The Russian embassy, in fact, was one of the coldest spots in town, drawing no heat from its marble walls or plush carpets once that vital tank in the basement ran dry.

The embassy gets its ration coupons from a local rationing board with the help of the state department but department officials said tonight that they had received no appeals for aid in the Soviet emergency.

The embassy is understood to have inquired of a local oil dealer about replenishing its supply and was told that all its coupons had been used up until February 1.

Diplomatic experts felt confident that some measure would be taken long before that, however, to stop the shivering of the Soviet staff.

Ambassador Gromyko personally appeared to one caller to be rather disinterested in the whole affair. He simply pulled his overcoat collar a little tighter around his neck and casually remarked that someone had told him the place was out of oil.

Jap Workers May Be Placed Under Army

(By The Associated Press)

Tokyo radio said tonight Japanese war plant workers may be placed under military discipline as a means of making them "defend their places of work to the last under an air raid."

Such a proposal, said the broadcast as recorded by the Federal Communications commission, had been made by the Tokyo Economic Association of Commerce and Industry. It suggested to the government that "particularly important" plants be placed under Army management.

The association also advocated the subjecting of "those who are engaging in important war production" to the same type of discipline as that governing "civilians in military service."

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 11 (AP) — Mrs. Florence Johnson Smith of Rio Grande City was endorsed as a candidate for the presidency of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs by a district meeting of the federation held here today. The election will be held in May, it was announced, and district meetings are currently naming their candidates for officers.

PASSES CENTURY MARK

ALEXANDRIA, La., Jan. 11 (AP) Using the starting five for only half the game, the Alexandria Army Air field passed the century mark to defeat Pollock Army Air field 112 to 18 here tonight.

The first air express service, inaugurated 17 years ago, reached 26 cities linked together by 4,508 route miles, while today 350 cities connected by 45,000 miles of airways enjoy the service. The compartment area of the first airplane express was but 25 sq. ft. and today is 250 sq. ft. The time for the flight across the continent has been reduced from 31 to 16 hours while the cost for shipping packages across the continent has been cut two-thirds.

Youth Overcome By Fumes In Bathroom

Billy Watson, 14-year-old Lubbock High school sophomore, was overcome by butane gas fumes while bathing Thursday night at the Watson home, 512 Fortieth.

The fumes apparently came from a heater in the bathroom, which was tightly closed and without ventilation, a member of the family said.

Billy, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Watson, received emergency treatment about 10:30 o'clock at West Texas hospital. A hospital authority said he was not seriously affected.

The door to the bathroom was locked, and the youth's father was forced to smash a window to gain entrance.

A Bryan McDonald and Son Funeral home ambulance rushed the youth to the hospital.

president, and the board of regents, Dr. Rainey charged that one of the chief difficulties was encroachment by the regents on his administrative functions, and the regents replied they were under oath to comply with the existing laws.

Sen. Aikin said he based his bill upon conclusions formed as a result of a long study, including the testimony brought out before the Senate's education investigating committee in its inquiry into the University of Texas muddle. This committee has not yet made its report to the Senate.

Question Of Tenure

The proposed law would dispose of the question of faculty tenure—upon which the regents and Dr. Rainey frequently clashed — by requiring that faculties of state colleges be employed by governing boards upon recommendation of the president of the school. It provides for discharge of faculty members upon recommendation of the president after a hearing by a committee of three faculty members selected by the board, three selected by the president, and three selected by the first six; or regardless of the recommendation of the president by a committee named as above by a two-third vote of the entire membership, recorded and shown in the minutes of the board.

In announcing the appointment of regents at his press conference Stevenson said he had imposed no requirements upon any of the appointees that they vote for or against re-instatement of Dr. Rainey as president. It was also brought out that he had not offered re-appointment to H. J. Lutcher Stark of Orange, who often clashed with Rainey and who voted for his removal, or to Mrs. I. D. Fairchild of Lufkin, who usually sided with Dr. Rainey and voted to retain him as president when he was dismissed Nov. 1.

"Do you yourself object to his re-instatement?" Stevenson was asked.

No Opinion Either Way

"No. I have expressed no opinion either way. That issue is up to the board," he responded. He added that he did not know the attitude of any of the appointees toward Dr. Rainey. Stevenson said also that he found ex-students of the university were split on the Rainey-regent question and he had thought it best in the long run not to appoint an ex-student partisan to either side.

None of the appointees, except Dr. Terrell and Woodward, is an ex-student of the university. Tucker is a graduate of the University of Virginia, Dr. Scherer of the University of Cincinnati, and Kirkpatrick of Daniel Baker college. Dr. Terrell is a physician; Tucker is a sawmill operator and bottler; Dr. Scherer is a dentist; Kirkpatrick is a drilling contractor; Warren a newspaper publisher and banker; Woodward an attorney.

Others On Board

Completing membership of the board are D. F. Strickland, lawyer of Mssion; Orville Bullington, lawyer of Wichita Falls; W. Scott Schreiner, business man and rancher of Kerrville.

The governor today also announced re-appointment of R. W. Briggs of San Antonio and Neth Leachman of Dallas to the board of directors of Texas A. and M. college, and appointment to this board of John W. Newton of Beaumont.

Sen. Grover C. Morris of Greenville introduced a bill designed to increase the pay of rural school teachers $75 per month for the remaining months of the state's fiscal year. It provides for appropriation of $1,575,000, of which $1,175,000 is a surplus carried over from the available school fund.

Bill On Salary Increases

A bill to increase the salaries of state employes and state officials effective immediately on enactment, was introduced in the Senate by James A. Stanford, Austin. The act provides a salary hike of 20 per cent for all employes receiving $2,100 or less; 15 per cent for those receiving $2,100 and not over $3,600 and 10 per cent for those receiving above $3,600.

Other bills introduced in the Senate included one by Jesse Martin of Fort Worth authorizing the state highway department to grant 90 day permits to transport bulk cement for the cementing of oil wells; by L. J. Sulak, La Grange providing for prevention and control of communicable diseases; by Ben Ramsey of San Augustine, exempting ice houses from certain taxes.

Woman Injured Here In Car-Bus Crash

Mrs. E. C. Milner of 602 Ave. K suffered a fractured collarbone, fractured right elbow and mild concussion in a collision between her car and a Sixteenth street bus yesterday afternoon at Sixteenth and Ave. K.

Mrs. Milner was rushed to West Texas hospital shortly after 3 o'clock by a Plains Funeral home ambulance.

Details of the accident will not be known until Mrs. Milner recovers sufficiently to supply some information, Bill Lamb of the traffic department said after a preliminary investigation. Mrs. Milner's car, in which she was thought to be riding alone, was badly damaged but little damage was done to the bus.

Driver of the bus, who wasn't injured, was C. L. Daugherty.

Relief Crews Held Off

From 15 to 20 miles west and northwest of the capital the Germans still were attacking in an attempt to break through to the fanatical Nazi band still holding out in the center of the city, but Moscow said these troops were repulsed and suffered heavy losses.

Berlin commentators vaguely spoke of successes by these German units fighting on a line between Esztergom and Sekesfehervar, but said they were unable to exploit them due to a heavy snowfall.

Moscow announced the wrecking of 42 German tanks on Wednesday, making a total of 640 knocked out since the Germans began their ambitious attempt to drive a corridor into Budapest south of the Danube loop even though Russian forces counter-attacking toward Komarno north of the river threatened to pinch off the rear supply lines of these units.

Berlin said the latest Russian attacks inside the capital were preceded by a terrific 20-hour mortar barrage on German positions amid apartment houses and buildings. When that ended the Russians again went into action with tanks and flame-throwers.

All But Two Bodies In Crash Recovered

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 11 (AP)—Divers today recovered the bodies of all but two of the 23 persons who died Monday night when a Pan-American Clipper crashed in landing at Port of Spain, Trinidad.

Pan American, in making the announcement, said identification of the 21 had been completed.

A search is still underway for the bodies of two crewmen, C. M. Rodgers, 31, junior pilot, and Jayme Azevedo, 35, steward, both of Miami.

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP)—The royal house denied emphatically again today a report that aged King Vittorio Emanuele was in a serious condition at his villa near Salerno and that Crown Prince Umberto had left Rome for his father's bedside.

Weather Joins With Nazi Combat Skill To Aid Escape From Bulge

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Luck and staff skill born of years of actual combat experience are playing into German hands in the escape from the depths of the Belgian bulge just as much as they did at the start of the drive that sent American forces back nearly 50 miles.

At the moment when the Nazi commander had completed preliminary preparations for his surprise drive in mid-December a close-hanging ground fog developed over the whole zone of his contemplated operations. It hung there over the Rhine valley, much of east-central Belgian and northeastern Luxembourg more than 48 hours, blinding Allied air observers. It was under the cover of that fog that the Nazis completed their concentration and launched their counter blow to achieve full tactical if not strategic surprise.

SIMPSON

Aided Allies Later

Fickle weather had much to do, also, with the halting of the thrust short of any critical penetration of American lines or the attainment of Major military results other than postponement and possible total revision of Allied winter offensive time tables. A break of some days duration in the cloud layers over and behind the bulge brought the full weight of Allied air power into action to snarl up enemy communications and supply. It also permitted a rapid concentration of Allied troops around the bulge perimeter in readiness to assume the offensive on both flanks.

The third phase of the action is now in progress as evidence of a German retreat from the western nose of the Belgian bulge comes from every informed source including German official broadcasts. Again, weather is a prime factor in German favor. Blizzards that have piled deep snow drifts over the whole Belgian battle terrain add to Nazi difficulties in effecting a swift and orderly escape eastward with minimum losses in men and equipment; but they also hamper even more Allied efforts to spring the trap while any substantial German force remains within its clutch.

Weather Prevents Nazi Rout

hopes of turning the enemy withdrawal into a rout hinged beyond question on two main factors, Allied air power and the preponderant weight of Allied armor concentrated for the purpose. Allied air attack and observation of enemy movements has been greatly restricted at the critical moment for the foe. Allied armor has been balked by snow and ice of opportunity for lunging local breakthroughs to disrupt and confuse the German rearward movement.

Slav King Objects To Settlement Plan

LONDON, Jan. 11 (AP) — King Peter of Yugoslavia in a delayed communique tonight advanced two objections to the agreement of Premier Dr. Ivan Subasic and Marshal Tito to settle Yugoslavia's constitutional problems.

The first objection concerned the form of a proposed regency, and the second "the provisions by which (Tito's) anti-Fascist council of national liberation would wield unrestricted legislative power until a contituent assembly had completed its work."

The latter provision, the young king said, "suggests the transfer of power in Yugoslavia to a single political group."

Earlier, a press conference at which Yugoslavs said the king would have rejected the proposal for a regency had been cancelled at the last minute, and reports circulated that Prime Minister Churchill had intervened to persuade Peter not to issue that statement.

Legislature Dubbed Centennial 'Edition'

AUSTIN, Jan. 11 (AP) — The 49th Legislature has been acclaimed as the centennial of Texas statehood legislature, and coincidentally Ashley W. Crockett, 87, of Granbury, only living grandson of David Crockett, hero of the Alamo, has been appointed assistant sergeant at arms of the Senate.

Crockett, who was born in Johnson county in 1857, just 12 years after the Texas legislature held its first session, has been a newspaperman for 75 years.

Crockett, a student of early Texas history, does not believe that his famous grandfather died inside the walls of the Alamo. He contends that historical date indicates Crockett, along with six other Texans, was captured alive in the Alamo and taken before Santa Anna who ordered them executed.

Survivor Of Carrier Gambier Bay Relates Story Of Hardships

HILLSBORO, Tex., Jan. 11. (AP) —For two days and nights, men of the escort carrier Gambier Bay, which was sunk off Samar last October, divided time swimming and riding rafts, Lieut. Billy Patterson, former Hillsboro High school, Baylor university and professional football star, said while on a visit here.

Lieut. Patterson, who returned to the States recently and has been at Alamo, Tex., with his wife and daughter, told a joint meeting of the Lions and Rotary clubs that the men had to divide time swimming and riding the rafts because most of the rafts were occupied by the wounded and there wasn't room for all.

Lieut. Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Patterson of Hillsboro, has been in the Navy since April of 1942, was with the task forces in the Saipan and Palau campaigns and in the invasion of Ulithi near Yap. He reports back to San Diego Jan. 15.

On the carrier he served as ship service officer, athletic director, assistant flight deck officer and was with an anti-aircraft crew.

Superforts Lash Singapore Area

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (AP) — Superfortresses blasted shipping installations at the Japanese naval base of Singapore today for the second time.

"Good results" were reported by the War department.

The raid, apparently aimed at pinning down Japanese naval units at the big base while General MacArthur's troops are carrying out their invasion of the Philippines, was hammered home by upwards of 40 B-29 bombers from India.

Roaring in during the early morning, the big bombers may have caught the enemy off guard since only "meagre and inaccurate" antiaircraft fire was encountered.

Four Japs Downed

Four enemy fighters that rose to meet the raiders were shot down by Superfortress gunners, one was probably shot down and 12 damaged.

None of the B-29s was lost to enemy action, the communique reported without saying whether all had returned to their bases.

Singapore previously had been hit on November 5 by a larger force of B-29s from India.

The communique also disclosed that two B-29s are missing from the raid on Tokyo Tuesday and are believed lost "as a result of enemy action." Additional reports on the raid showed that the Saipan-based Superfortresses destroyed 14 Japanese planes, probably destroyed three and damaged nine others.

Contracts Are Let For Pyote Buildings

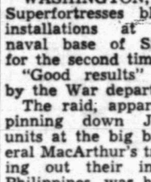

PYOTE, Tex., Jan. 11 (AP) — A $62,081,000 contract has been awarded to Ponsford brothers of El Paso for construction of school buildings at Pyote Army Air field, the War department has announced.

The buildings will care for the increased number of technical personnel required by the B-29 training program of this air field.

Ban Tightens On Coal And Power

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (AP) — The government tonight ordered a widespread blackout of outdoor advertising lights, and asked the American people to turn thermostats down to 68 in all public buildings and homes.

War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, who took the action, said it was to avert "an impending coal shortage." Dwindling stocks of this fuel, it was disclosed, have become a matter of concern to President Roosevelt and his cabinet.

In his appeal for less heat, Byrnes made no exceptions for people who heat with oil or gas. Compliance was left on a voluntary basis.

Special Trains Banned

But he ordered an end to all illuminated outdoor advertising, ornamental lighting and display lighting which draws on the coal supply. And he told the Office of Defense Transportation to ban special trains and extra passenger schedules to resorts.

With soft coal consumption expected to exceed production for the third straight year, Byrnes said it was necessary to cut the former by 25 million tons in 1945.

The War Production board will get out orders for the blackout of advertising and special lighting. What the ODT will do is questionable, since it froze passenger train schedules some time ago and also said "no more specials."

Himstead To Report On Texas U. Rumpus

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (U.P.) — Ralph Himstead, secretary of the American Association of University professor, said today he is preparing a report on a recent series of conflicts between the faculty of the University of Texas and the school's board of regents.

Sharp quarrels between the groups broke out after the dismissal of three professors for participation in labor and political discussions off the campus. Later, University President Homer P. Rainey also was discharged.

Himstead said his investigation will not be complete until he has had a chance to study an inquiry made by the Texas state Senate committee on education. He expressed confidence that the state legislators were conducting an "objective and unbiased" investigation.

The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools also is inquiring into affairs at Texas university, Himstead said.

BRITISH FLEETS READY

LONDON, Jan. 11. (AP)—Two powerful British fleets will operate in eastern waters this year, one of them probably in the Indian ocean, Brigadier J. G. Smyth told the Royal Empire society today.

Army Charged With Wasting Manpower

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (AP) — Rep. Sabath (D-Ill) declared today that Washington cocktail rooms "are crowded with Army officers" and that it is "a damnable outrage."

He proposed a congressional investigation of the armed services' use of manpower, asserting:

"The cocktail rooms and clubs are jammed with service people without any foreign service stripes. I believe we have 30,000 more officers in the Army than we need."

Chairman of the House rules committee and a staunch administration supporter, Sabath proposed "a thorough house cleaning" to reassign officers and men in Washington who he contended could be replaced "by girls and messenger boys."

CHINA BACKS EXILES

CHUNGKING, Jan. 11. (AP)—K. C. Wu, vice-minister of foreign affairs said today that China would continue to recognize the Polish government in exile in London. Wang Shih-Chieh, minister of information, said negotiations with the Communists of North China were continuing.

Food, Nutrition And Rationing News . . .

Why Rationing Of Food Is Tighter . . .

War In Europe Is Continuing Longer Than Was Indicated

By M. L. ARROWSMITH
AP Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP)—The big reason for greatly expanded food rationing is that the war in Europe is lasting longer than indicated a few months ago.

Shortages and spotty distribution of certain meats had prevailed for some time.

These were not put back under rationing earlier because the government feared that the scarcity might become a market-disrupting surplus if the Nazis surrendered soon and meat set-asides for the military were cut back.

Made It Imperative

The same is true with respect to major canned vegetables now back on the point chart.

Unrationed demand and much rougher going in Europe finally made it imperative that the Office of Price Administration crack down drastically.

Here are some of the circumstances which prompted the action:

On Dec. 1, supplies of canned vegetables in the hands of processors and wholesalers were only 56 per cent of those available a year earlier. They must last until the start of the new pack year next summer.

Tagged For Armed Forces

Moreover, 41 per cent of the 1944-45 pack of canned food has been tagged for the armed forces, as compared with 25 per cent in 1943-44 and only seven per cent in 1941-42.

Vegetable stocks would disappear three to five months before the next pack becomes available if rationing had not been tightened, OPA says.

Distribution of meats next year would be even spottier without the new rationing program.

Meat Supply Down

The War Food Administration estimates that total meat supply will be down by two billion pounds, with the entire amount to be pared from the civilian allocation.

This means the home front will receive about 127 pounds of meat per capita in 1945. This is about the same as they ate in pre-war years but less than at any time since the war.

An OPA survey forced the decision to ration more meat. It showed that early in December beef and pork—90 per cent of the civilian meat supply—were short or scarce in areas where 76 per cent of the nation's population lives.

Butter Supply Reduced

The boost of the ration value on butter from 20 to 24 points per pound resulted also from sharply reduced supply and inequitable distribution.

The OPA survey showed that in December the number of chain stores which were without butter suddenly increased from 2 1-2 per cent to 25 per cent.

Three Principal Reasons

Butter production has dropped for three principal reasons:

1. American families are drinking more fluid milk than ever before—191 quarts a person in 1944 as compared with an average of 158 quarts in the immediate pre-war years.

2. Much more milk is going into production of condensed, dried and evaporated milk, and cheese to meet military requirements.

3. A sharp hike in ice cream production for the armed services.

Factors On Sugar

Two main factors forced the tightening of sugar rationing:

1. There is not sufficient shipping to bring into this country all the sugar available.

2. Even if there were enough shipping, the shortage of manpower in refineries would hold down production.

As a result, civilians will get an average of about 78 pounds of sugar in 1945 against 88 in 1944.

French-Fried Deviled Eggs Something New

French-fried deviled eggs are something new to tempt holiday appetites. The eggs can be deviled ahead of time, the batter mixed and both kept in the refrigerator until meal time, then quickly fried in deep fat and served hot.

Good news to mothers are the articles appearing recently in professional journals which report that fried foods are good for children. Men folks love French-fried potatoes, home made doughnuts and other fried foods, and too often mothers have cooked separate dishes for the children.

According to the authorities, "in the average normal individual, fried potatoes are no more likely to cause digestive disturbances than are boiled potatoes." Of course, correct deep-fat frying is essential. This means using a good quality fat, having the right amount and using the correct temperature. Fat should never be too hot or smoking.

Test the temperature of the fat to be used for frying with a thermometer or a bread cube. For these French-fried eggs the temperature should be 375°F., or cube of bread should brown in 60 seconds. Blended shortening is a thrifty all-purpose fat to use for deep frying, and it will not impart any off-lavor to delicate foods fried in it.

French-Fried Deviled Eggs
(Yield: 12 Servings)

6 dozen hard cooked eggs
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup flour
1 cup milk
2 pounds blended shortening

Cut eggs in half. Remove yolks. Mash yolks and add mustard, vinegar, mayonnaise and salt. Stuff yolks. Make a batter of flour and milk. Dip each half egg into batter. Melt blended shortening and heat to 375°F. (a cube of bread will brownin 60 seconds). Drop batter-covered eggs into hot fat and cook about 5 minutes or until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot.

Chocolate Bran Cake Is "Smooth" Pastry

There's no reason to restrict bran to the breakfast table as a healthful and vitamin-rich food. If it's small-grained and absorbent (one brand is double-milled for light texture and smoothness) you can use it in fine pastries and add a subtle new flavor as well as nourishment. Waffles, griddle cakes, cookies and breads are enriched by Bran, and here's a "melt-in-the-mouth" chocolate cake which no one need even try to resist.

CHOCOLATE BRAN CAKE

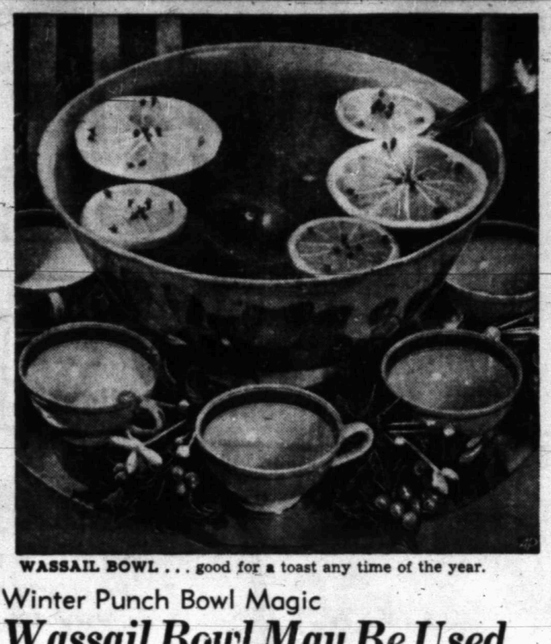

1 cup 100% bran
¾ cup milk
1-3 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
2 ounces unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 cup sifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder

Pour milk over Bran and let stand 5 minutes. Combine shortening, sugar, salt and vanilla in bowl and mix until very well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, and beat well after each addition. Stir in chocolate. Add Bran mixture. Sift flour with baking powder and add to chocolate mixture. Beat until smooth. Pour into greased 9 x 9 x 2 inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degree F.) 30 minutes. Ice with Quick Icing.

QUICK ICING

2 tablespoon butter or substitute
⅓ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons top milk
1 cup chopped nuts

Combine first 4 ingredients in saucepan. Bring to rolling boil over low heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, add nuts, cool. Spread on cake as soon as removed from oven. (Cover cake completely to prevent burning.) Broil under low flames until golden brown. Watch—it browns quickly.

WASSAIL BOWL . . . good for a toast any time of the year.

Winter Punch Bowl Magic

Wassail Bowl May Be Used During Any Time Of Year

THERE is no reason why you have to confine the wassail bowl to the holidays. It is good any time of the year when you want to wish good health to your friends.

One fine thing about the wassail bowl is that it requires no special equipment. Any good, big bowl in your house can hold the drink. Tea cups from the china closet are perfect for serving it.

The drink you serve in your wassail bowl may be hot or cold. It may contain wine, or it may be based largely on fruit juice. Here are some good samples which are especially good in the winter.

Florida Wassail Bowl

1 cup sugar
½ cup water
12 whole cloves
2 sticks cinnamon
1 quart orange juice
2 cups grapefruit juice
1 quart sweet cider
Grapefruit slices
Orange slices
Additional whole cloves

Combine sugar, water and spices in a saucepan; simmer 10 minutes; strain. Combine with fruit juices and cider. Reheat and serve hot from a large bowl. On top float slices of grapefruit and oranges stuck with whole cloves. If desired, 1-2 cup honey may be substituted for 1-2 cup sugar. Serves 12.

Miami Tea Punch

1 cup boiling water
4 teaspoons tea
¾ cup sugar
4 cups water
½ cup lime juice
2½ cups orange juice

Pour 1 cup of boiling water over tea; steep five minutes; strain. Dissolve sugar in hot tea. For hot punch add the 4 cups of water, boiling hot, and the fruit juices slightly heated. Serve in cups with thin slices of lime floating in them. For cold punch, add iced, instead of boiling water and chilled juices. Makes 8 servings.

Mint-Citrus Ade

⅛ cup sugar syrup (made by stirring 1-2 cup sugar and 1-2 cup water in a saucepan over direct heat until sugar is dissolved)
6 stalks fresh mint
2 tablespoons lime juice
½ cup grapefruit juice, canned or fresh
¼ cup water
2 cups ginger ale

Remove tips from the mint. Crush the stalks in the hot sugar syrup. Let tips stand 1-2 hour; strain. Add lime juice, grapefruit juice and water. Chill, and just before serving add ginger ale. Garnish with additional mint.

Mulled wine is a delicious, hospitable and warming drink, easy to prepare and beautiful to look at in the bowl. Any wine may be used, but in my opinion a red one is best.

Mulled Wine

1 bottle Claret or Burgundy
⅓ cup sugar
1 lemon, sliced thin
2 cups water
4 sticks cinnamon
6 whole cloves

Boil the water, sugar, cinnamon and cloves until the steam smells spicy. Add the lemon slices and let stand, covered, ten minutes. Add wine and heat over low flame. Do not let boil. Serve hot.

If a few friends drop in unexpectedly on a holiday afternoon, here's a good drink to serve them.

Sherry Flip
(For Six People)

6 eggs
6 teaspoons sugar
6 scant wineglasses sherry

Place ingredients in shaker with cracked ice and shake vigorously. Strain into glasses and sprinkle a little nutmeg on top of each. Serve at once.

With any of these drinks, thin sandwiches with simple fillings are a good accompaniment. If your taste is on the sweet side you will perhaps prefer fruit cake or thin cookies. Either goes well with drinks which contain sugar, as all of these do.

Use milk that has gone sour in your cake recipes just as you use sweet milk.

Rationing Roundup

MEATS, FATS, etc.—Book four red stamps Q5 through X5. No termination dates have been set; OPA says none will be invalidated before March 1. Next series will be validated Jan. 28.

PROCESSED FOODS — Book four blue stamps X5 through Z5 and A2 through G2 now good. No termination dates set; OPA says none will be invalidated before March 1. Next series will be validated Feb. 1.

SUGAR—Book four stamp 34 good for five pounds. No termination date set. A new stamp for five pounds will be valid Feb. 1; must last three instead of two and a half months. Shoes—Book three airplane stamps 1, 2 and 3 valid indefinitely; OPA says no plans to cancel any.

GASOLINE — 14-A coupons valid everywhere for four gallons each through March 21. B-5, C-5, B-6 and C-6 coupons good everywhere for five gallons each.

Kitchen Korner

The amount of fat in stuffing should depend on how much natural fat the bird contains. Ducks and geese generally have more fat than chickens and trukeys.

Celery leaves as well as stalks give fine flavor when chopped and heated in fat. Use only about a fourth as much chopped onion as celery. Celery salt is a good seasoning too.

Onion, celery and parsley will carry their flavors more evenly through stuffing if they are chopped and cooked in a fat a few minutes before being mixed with the bread crumbs.

Whole scallions, with the tops neatly trimmed to allow about three inches of green, make a tasty vegetable. Steam until tender but not too soft. Serve as you would asparagus with melted fortified margarine, cream sauce, or Hollandaise.

WITH the AEF

by KENNETH L. DIXON

ON THE BELGIAN FRONT, Jan. 8. (Delayed) (AP)—Countless comic strip artists will holler "we told you so" upon being told that the first jet-propelled German soldier finally has flashed across this front.

Unfortunately—from the strictly scientific viewpoint—he came to a sizzling and unsuccessful end, amid a shower of slugs, sparks and rainbow-colored rocket bursts.

They Call Him V-5

Also, it must be reported, he was purely a product of accident, rather than a secret Hitler weapon.

"We called him V-5," said Pfc. James McNamara, Clinton, Mass., sadly. "We thought we really had something."

James was one of two paratroopers who brought this futuristic fighting man down to earth. The other was Pfc. Elmer Pankow of Willo Springs, Ill.

They were chopping wood along this Belgian front the other day when things began to happen.

James and Elmer are members of the 82nd Airborne division and their 504th regiment has been a next-door neighbor of the Germans off and on for nearly two months now.

Allergic Neck Burns

As a matter of fact, Elmer was ruminating about this being his 285th day of combat, when he felt a familiar burning sensation in the back of his neck. Two hundred and eighty-five days of combat will make anybody's neck allergic to rude stares from strangers.

Carefully he raised his head and saw three men sitting on a little rise of ground several hundred yards away.

"GI's," he muttered, and returned to woodchopping.

James also saw the strangers, and he, too, returned to work. But just as he lifted his axe, something clicked in his mind.

"GI's hell!" he snorted, dropping the axe and reaching for his rifle. "Those guys are Jerries."

Nazis Click, Also

Simultaneously, the three watching members of the Waffen SS realized that these woodcutters were not wehmacht men. They leaped to their feet and headed for tall timber. Hot behind them were James and Elmer, shooting on the run.

The first Jerry crumpled in midstride. The second collapsed. But number three kept running. Carefully the two Americans aimed and fired again.

There was a burst of fire, sparks and smoke. The fleeing figure uncorked a super-spurt of speed.

Trails Fire In Flight

Leaping and careening crazily he bounced in great, impossible leaps across the countryside, trailing a long wake of multi-colored flame and smoke and spewing rockets in a dozen directions.

"I thought he'd turned into a jet-propelled plane," said Elmer later.

"He looked like a V-5 to me," insisted McNamara.

They fired again, and the rocket-propelled SS trooper made one final frantic flight, collapsing in flames at the bottom of a small draw.

Cautiously the two paratroopers advanced. They found only the body of a very ordinary Waffen SS soldier. Around his waist was strapped a bundle equally ordinary—signal flares such as often are used along the front.

One of the bullets had fired a flare, and one explosion had touched off another.

China had a flood starting in 2357 B. C. which lasted 152 years.

MacArthur Fighting On Familiar Ground

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH GENERAL MacARTHUR, on Luzon, Jan. 11.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur knows every foot of the ground over which his men are fighting today toward Manila from Lingayen gulf.

A decade ago, he conducted maneuvers along the Lingayen gulf coast as commanding general of the Philippines department, U. S. Army.

This backdoor entrance to central Luzon was used by the Spaniards several centuries ago and by MacArthur's father, Gen Arthur MacArthur more than four decades ago at the time of the Philippines insurrection.

When MacArthur reports as he did in today's communique that the Japanese must fight with such resources as they still have on Luzon he knows whereof he speaks from bitter memory.

That is what he had to do a little over three years ago.

Manila is the great objective of the campaign. That city has few natural advantages for the defender. Military strategy may dictate that the final phase of the Philippine cycle takes place where the opening phase of the American tragedy ended — on Bataan and Corregidor.

FDR To Revise Oil Agreement

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (AP)—President Roosevelt today asked the Senate to return to him, for revision, the Anglo-American oil agreement which has been roundly criticized by most petroleum interests in this country.

Mr. Roosevelt told the Senate there would be further negotiations with Great Britain and revision of the agreement "to remove ground for misunderstanding" which he said followed its submission Aug. 24.

Mr. Roosevelt explained in a message to the Senate today that when he submitted the agreement he thought it "constituted an important step forward in removing possible causes of friction in international trade in petroleum and promoting cooperation among the nations in the development of that trade." He said he still holds that opinion.

Fears Later Arose

He pointed out, however, that fears later arose as to the scope and effect of the agreement. He said there was some concern that it would authorize legally inconsistent acts by the petroleum industry and might be potentially harmful.

"It is my belief that these fears are without foundation," he said, "certainly no such possibilities were intended or designed by the American representatives who negotiated the agreement."

But he said it would be unforunate if an understanding on international trade and petroleum was delayed or prevented through misunderstanding.

Lt. Anderson Takes PRO Job At SPAAF

Lt. Neil C. Anderson of Henderson, Tenn., has assumed duties as public relations officer at South Plains Army Air field, succeeding Lt. Martain A. Mayer of New Orleans, who was one of the veteran officers at the nation's largest advanced glider pilot training center.

Lt. Mayer has taken over duties at Foster Field at Victoria. He had been stationed at SPAAF since early in January, 1943. He assumed his duties at Foster Field this week, it was announced at the field.

Lt. Anderson is a veteran of 14 months overseas as a bombardier on A-20 light bombers. He was on duty in the North African, Sicilian and part of the Italian campaign and participated in some of the heaviest aerial blows the Allies made against the enemy in the softening up of Sicily, the massive raids at Cassino and the aerial blows against the Nazis when the Allies landed at Anzio.

Since his return to the states and after being given new duties, Lt. Anderson was public relations officer at Drew Field, at Tampa, Fla., where he was on duty before assuming his present job at SPAAF.

WITH THE 24TH DIVISION, In The Philippines, Dec. 28 (Delayed) (AP)—After clambering from his hammock to his Leyte island foxhole four times as Japanese planes droned overhead, Capt. Clarence B. Folsom of Wichita Falls, Texas shook his fist at the fifth flight and admonished:

"Well, dammit, go ahead and drop 'em if you're going to."

Down came a series of "daisy cutter" bombs for near misses.

"Whew," exclaimed Captain Folsom from his hole. "I'd better keep my mouth shut."

U-Boat Activity Hints War Far From Ended

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. (AP)—Renewal of submarine warfare and increased Allied shipping losses during December are cited by Anglo-American leaders as another indication that the European war is far from ended.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in a statement on the undersea raiders said the United Nations, despite the undetailed shipping losses, "are regularly continuing to supply their expanding armies . . ."

"The Allies continue to sink the enemy undersea craft in widely-separated parts of the world," the statement, issued late yesterday, said. "The announcement of the recent landing of enemy agents from a U-boat on the Maine coast is yet another indication that the menace of Germany's undersea fleet is real and continuing."

Allied Command Shift Exemplifies Teamwork And Individual Initiative

By JAMES McGLINCY
United Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 11.—Information made available at supreme headquarters plus the already known facts makes it possible to sketch in their proper perspective for the first time today the Allied command changes brought about by Nazi Field Marshall Karl von Rundstedts winter offensive.

Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery had his say, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley followed suit, and now with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's side of it brought out, the entire picture emerges is clear focus.

The three worked smoothly and effectively in the crisis. Each saw his job, and did it.

Team Worked Splendidly

"Eisenhower's Allied team never worked better," said a high British officer who cannot be quoted by name.

Being busy with the war and talking Allied teamwork for granted, SHAEF, from Eisenhower down, neglected the public by not announcing the command changes or even the simple reason that made them inevitable—the splitting of the Allied front that put the First and Ninth armies out of the reach of Bradley.

Now it can be said officials that SHAEF is taking steps to make certain that so-called security in the future does not lead to serious political fissures.

New Policy To Face Test

The test of this new policy will be the handling of the situation when the commands of Montgomery and Bradley are readjusted, giving the First army back to the chief of the 12th army group.

Because Britons are rightly proud of the brilliant, controversial and personally spectacular Montgomery, the British press certainly underplayed the reason for the shifting of the American forces north of the Ardennes salient to his command.

They left the impression that American generalship had failed, and so Monty had to take over. For instance, the Daily Mail said in a banner line that "Montgomery foresaw attack" and added "that he took command several days before this was confirmed in highest quarters," and "asserted his leadship."

Acted Individually, Quickly

Von Rundstedt opened a series of counter-thrusts on Dec. 16 and the next day developed them into an offensive on a 70-mile front. That day Eisenhower, Montgomery and Bradley acted individually and quickly.

From SHAEF where Eisenhower rules came an order to send the 101st division to Bastogne. From Bradley came what has been called the "psychic" decision to send the Seventh armored division to hold St. Vith and keep the enemy spearheads separated.

Montgomery began to look to his rear and took excellent precautions to protect the Meuse river, which rings the Ardennes like a moat. He brought up troops, reconnoitered the Meuse bridges in the American lines, and guaranteed that the river line would hold.

But to the British press which thinks Monty foresaw the attack any more than Eisenhower or Bradley, it should be pointed out that the marshal was able to take his measures so adequately because he was preparing for something else that had nothing to do with the Adrennes when Von Rundstedt struck.

As the flanks held, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton rushed an army from the Saar through Luxembourg and Belgium on Bradley's order.

By the 19th, Bradley no longer had any land communications with Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges of the First army. But Bradley was in touch with Eisenhower. Of Montgomery's moving in at the "instant decision" of all concerned, it can be revealed that a senior staff officer at SHAEF said he tied up the northern battlefield in 12 hours—a bit of high praise. He stabilized the northern flank while preparing the attack now crushing the salient.

Meanwhile Bradley's decisions were paying off at St. Vith, and on the 23rd Patton made gains along a 25-mile stretch of the southern flank. The next day the Nazis ran up against Montgomery's strong new lines at the high water mark of their penetration. The tide turned, at Celles and Cincey, and had been flowing in the right direction ever since.

The name "beet" comes from the fact that when the seed pods of this vegetable begin to swell, they resemble the Greek letter "beta."

German Radio Tries Ruse To Split Allies

LONDON, Jan. 11. (AP) — The German radio, masquerading as the BBS in an ingenious scheme to disrupt Allied unity, faked a broadcast slurring American troops and giving all the credit for stopping the German drive in Belgium to Field Marshal Montgomery, the British Broadcasting company disclosed last night.

"No such broadcast has been made in any BBC service," the company said in revealing the Nazi trick that caused reported indignation in the United States and among American troops at the front.

BBC said the enemy radio relayed from Germany in the proper wave length authentic BBC broadcasts and from Germany in the phony news comment in such a manner that the ruse could not be detected by the untrained ear.

The phony broadcast had said that "Montgomery found no defense lines, the Americans somewhat bewildered, a few reserves on hand, and supply lines cut." (The Associated Press did not report the broadcast.)

One-Plane Flights Of Braniff Line Opposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — Attorneys for continental airlines told a civil aeronautics board examiner today they will oppose an application of Braniff airlines to operate one-plane flights from Colorado to Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Memphis via Amarillo, Tex.

Continental now flies between Denver and Tulsa via Wichita, Kan.

Hearing on Braniff's application was set by examiner Frank Law for March 15 after a conference with attorneys for the two airlines.

At present Braniff operates from Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs to Dallas and Fort Worth, but the company's certificate requires that flights originating in Colorado must terminate at Fort Worth or Dallas. In addition, Braniff has a service between Oklahoma City and Amarillo but may not operate a single plane from Oklahoma to Colorado via Amarillo. The company seeks removal of these restrictions.

Edward Bierma and S. B. Remond, continental attorneys, contended that Braniff's proposed new operation would divert traffic from their firm's Denver-Tulsa line.

The examiner informed Gerald P. O'Grady, Braniff attorney, that his company must show at the hearing there is a need for the one-plane service.

Boys Club Meeting Set For Tonight

President Jimmy Clark of the Lubbock Boys club has called a meeting of all members at 7:30 o'clock tonight. This meeting is very important, he said, in that some rules and regulations of the club need to be discussed with each member.

A movie has been arranged for the meeting. W. G. McMillan will show some pictures which he has taken on hunting trips. Following the showing of the film an all-star basketball game will be played between two teams picked by Coach Leo "Jeff" Jeffreys and the captains of the various teams competing in the senior league at the club.

'Sparking Space' Set Aside By Senate Vote

AUSTIN, Jan. 11 (U.P.)—Through a slip of the tongue the Texas senate voted today to set aside "sparking space" about the state capitol.

Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith so pronounced the title of a measure reserving places for legislators automobiles.

In El Salvador, all men over 18 must vote in all elections.

The Gallup Poll

Social Security Extension Approved By U. S. Public

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 11. — A majority of those interviewed in a nation-wide Institute survey say they think social security benefits should be extended to include farmers, government employees, domestic servants, and professional and self-employed persons.

Provisions for the inclusion of these groups under social security are embodied in the highly controversial Murray-Wagner - Dingell Bill, which may come before the new Congress during the present session.

GALLUP

Whether or not the Murray-Wagner - Dingell bill is finally passed, the present Congress is expected to give serious consideration to some kind of legislation broadening social security, since leaders of both major political parties are on record favoring such a move.

In the present nation-wide survey, the Institute had field reporters in all sections of the country put the following question to a cross-section of the public:

"At present some groups are not included under social security. Do you think the Social Security Program should be changed to include the following groups?"

SHOULD FARMERS BE INCLUDED

Yes	80%
No	3
Undecided	17

SHOULD GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES BE INCLUDED

Yes	81%
No	1
Undecided	18

SHOULD PROFESSIONAL AND SELF EMPLOYED PERSONS BE INCLUDED

Yes	57%
No	25
Undecided	18

SHOULD DOMESTIC SERVANTS BE INCLUDED

Yes	69%
No	15
Undecided	16

Interestingly, when the answers of people in these groups are separated from the others, they too show a majority in favor of including themselves under the social security program.

Business and professional people are more in favor of having themselves included than the rest are of having them included. On the other hand, farmers are less in favor of having them selves included than the rest of the people are of having them included.

Byrnes Denies Plan To Close Night Clubs

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 (AP) — War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes reiterated today that he has given no consideration of the closing of night clubs.

Asked about a statement by Dr. James S. Thomas, deputy OPA district director for Florida, that Washington officials were seriously considering closing night club doors for the duration to "alleviate absenteeism among war workers," Byrnes said:

"I have given no consideration to that question at all."

Byrnes made a similar statement at a news conference on New Year's day.

Changes Sought In Election Laws

DALLAS, Jan. 11 (U.P.)—A subcommittee of the state Democratic executive committee was expected to appear soon before this session of the state legislature to insure that Texas Democrats retain control of affairs and the right to define membership of their party.

Suggestions before the first 1945 meeting of the executive committee in Dallas yesterday emphasized the need to repeal state election laws and the desirability of giving state and national appointments only to qualified supporters of the national democratic administration.

Elmer L. Lincoln, of Texarkana said repeal of all election laws governing affairs of Texas political parties was the only way to escape consequences of the recent decision of the Supreme court of the United States which held that the Democratic party in Texas was an agency of the state government. Under this decision negroes in Texas have a right to vote as members of the party.

Move To Block Results

George Sergeant of Dallas presented a resolution to forestall future party revolts as occured in Dallas last September by stricter attention to partisanship in the distribution of state and national appointments and a program of organization and education in the priciples and policies of Texas Democrats, sometimes known as Roosevelt Democrats.

Under the chairmanship of Harry L. Seay of Dallas, the executive committee exhibited the same harmony which has been evident since the September preelection purge and went on record as favoring the extension of suffrage to 18 year olds by an amendment to the constitution to reduce minimum age of voters' eligibility from 21 to 18 years of age.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. If you're waiting for a telephone in Lubbock

There's still only one reason why we can't furnish telephone service to all who want it. That reason is the vast and vital quantity of telephone equipment needed in the war overseas.

Some telephone equipment is scheduled to be made for civilian use this year. But sudden military demands can change such schedules, and telephone equipment scheduled to be made is still a long way from telephone equipment ready for use. That's why we can't be sure just when anyone now waiting will get telephone service.

Thanks for your continued patience and understanding.

'Silent Death' Often Strikes Yanks 'rom Germans' New Rocket Gun

By ROBERT W. RICHARDS
United Press War Writer

WITH THIRD ARMY In Luxembourg, Jan. 11.—In this winter wonderland which the Luxembourgers call their "little Alps," silent death often comes to American doughboys—almost as if an unseen hand reached from the snow banks and tapped them into eternity.

It results from an improved Nebelwerfer rocket gun the Germans are using in this area, firing from 12 to 20 rockets at one time. Unlike the old model it does not emit the frightful wail that gave intended victims a chance to seek cover. Its projectiles fall and explode before the victims are aware of what is about to happen.

Achieve Blast Effect

The weapons achieve chiefly a blast effect and often are fatal from distances of many yards.

The Germans almost bagged an American major general with this type of fire recently. Two captains and a lieutenant colonel standing in the same group with him were killed but he escaped unscathed.

This menace, however, is only a small nuisance factor in the life of the fighting GI's who are finding the bitter cold and ever present snow more formidable than human opponents.

The front line soldier seldom carries more than two or three blankets with the rest of his battle gear and these offer scant protection when night arrives.

Terrain Aids Germans

The Germans have been using the rough terrain to advantage, digging deep within the snow to hide their self-propelled pieces and heavy machine guns.

We watched from a road as American Thunderbolts almost scraping the mountain tops because of cloudy weather attacked a two mile stretch of road west of Wiltz.

This stretch had been particularly unlucky for the Germans. Earlier 300 troops had been spotted marching along it and American artillery wiped out almost the entire group. A little later Thunderbolts strafed and destroyed 20 German trucks.

Britons Laud Yanks For Stopping Nazis

LONDON, Jan. 11. (AP) — The London Daily Express published today under the headline "Thanks, Yanks," a dispatch from one of its western front correspondents declaring the Germans might have captured Antwerp and caught the British Second army in a fatal trap if the Americans had not held Bastogne.

The dispatch, cabled by Allen Moorhead, said:

"Everything at one moment depended upon the Americans holding Bastogne, had they lost it, there was a reasonable chance of the Germans sweeping on to the coast and taking Antwerp, which would have meant the encirclement of the British armies.

"There would have been no escape route by sea this time. But Gen. Bradley and his Americans hung on somehow.

"Now that full reports are coming in they are saying in British headquarters that Bastogne compares in importance with El Alamein (the turning point of the North African campaign) in its effect upon the war.

"It is a bigger battle than we know about—perhaps one of the greatest American efforts of the war."

British Mercantile Fleet Hit Heavily

LONDON, Jan. 11. (AP)—Britain lost more than two-thirds of her mercantile fleet in the first four years of the war, Capt. J. B. Pollard, deputy director and chief advisor of the Admiralty salvage department, said today.

"We had 17½ million gross tons of ocean-going vessels under the British flag in 1939," he said. "By 1943 we had lost 11½ millions."

Communists Ask To Aid Bridges

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. — The Communist Political association, nee Communist party, wants to intervene in the Harry R. Bridges deportation case to deny the charge that party members seek the violent overthrow of the United States government.

The case of Bridges, president of the west coast Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union (CIO), and alleged Communist, has been pending for five years and finally has reached the Supreme court.

Bridges took the case there on apeal from a federal circuit court ruling in San Francisco which denied his appeal for rehearing of a decision that he should be deported to his native Australia as an undesirable alien. Now submitted to the Supreme court is a 100-page brief signed by Earl Browder, president, and William Z. Foster, vice president, of the Communist Political association, requesting the right to intervene.

CPA Formed Last May

The CPA was formed last May by action which simultaneously abolished the Communist party, officers and members of the two being identical, or practically so. The brief requests permission to intervene in the Bridges case for an opportunity to argue that the whole matter should be referred back to the Justice department for hearings so that Bridges may be relieved of the deportation order and Communists be relieved of the government's charge that they are trying to upset the government by force.

The Bridges case is a five-year wonder of rulings, counter-rulings and appeals. It began in 1939 when James M. Landis, one of the early members of the Roosevelt brain trust and later chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, found after '11 weeks of hearings that Bridges was not a Communist and therefore not subject to deportation as had been proposed.

But the question was referred to Judge Charles B. Sears for rehearing. Sears found that Bridges had been a Communist and issued an order for his deportation. On Jan. 5, 1942, the immigration appeals board unanimously reversed Sears' findings.

On May 28, 1942, Attorney General Francis Biddle overruled the appeals board, ordering Bridges' deportation on grounds that he had belonged to the Communist party since coming to the United States in 1930.

Bridges meanwhile is free on $3,000 bail. Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial organizations, and others denounced Biddle's ruling. The Communist reaction was bitter protest.

On Feb. 8, 1943, Federal Judge Martin I. Walsh, in Sacramento, Calif., denied a haebus corpus petition sought by Bridges to prevent deportation and on Sept. 27 of that year the circuit court of appeals refused to re-hear the case. Bridges then appealed to the Supreme court where the matter still is pending.
