Lions Club Will Conduct Tour Soil Conservation Projects

REGIONAL CONSERVATOR TO SPEAK TUES.

H. H. Finnell, Warren Landrum, and Other SCS Officials Will Be Guests of Club

Expect Large Crowd

Perryton Community is Appreciative of Work of Soil Conservation Service Projects

While Perryton was the place of probably the first water and soil conservation meeting in the Panhandle, this great interest seemingly has grown more as the years go by and the work of the Soil Conservation shows that the future of the Great Plains depends upon a strict adherence to the program laid down by the SCS.

An example of the Soil Conservation mindness of Perryton is shown by the elaborate plans being made for the visit to Perryton next Tuesday of Mr. H. H. Finnell, Regional Conservator of the SCS. Mr. Finnell will be guest speaker at the Tuesday noon luncheon of the Perryton Lions Club. Mr. Warren Landrum, project manager of the Stratford demonstration area to which the Perryton CCC camp is attached will also be here Tuesday.

Following the luncheon, the Lions Club will sponsor a motorcade to escort Mr. Finnell and the members of his party on a tour of the SCS projects. This tour will include a visit to the Wolf Creek dam area, which is being constructed under the supervision of the BAE, a division of the SCS.

It is doubtful if there is an area in the entire 5-state SCS region directed by Mr. Finnell, where there exists such cooperation and understanding of SCS methods as will be found in Perryton area. Ochiltree county was one of the first counties in Texas to organize into a county-wide conservancy district. Farmers and land owners have cooperated to the fullest extent with the SCS officials of the Perryton camp for they realize the benefits to be gained from sincere practice of soil conservation methods.

PAY TAXES NOW AVOID PENALTY

TAXES MUST BE PAID IN JANUARY TO AVOID EXTRA CHARGES FOR INTEREST-PENALTY

All taxes are due and to avoid the payment of interest and penalty must be paid before February 1. Every voter should pay his poll tax before the first.

J. S. Talley, collector of state and county taxes, Mrs. Luther Wade, Tax Collector for the Perryton Independent School District, and M. C. Cudd, City Clerk and collector of City taxes, are urging taxpayers to take care of their taxes this month. Notices appear in this issue of the Herald asking prompt payment.

In addition to state and county taxes, Mr. Talley urges every voter to pay his poll tax.

The collectors state that penalties on 1938 unpaid taxes are added at the rate of one per cent per month, until July 1, 1939, when the penalty is increased to eight per cent and interest charges at the rate of one-half per cent per month.

Miss Edna and Miss Mildred Brillhart, students at Canyon, spent the week-end with home folks in Perryton.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Garrett were in Borger Sunday visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. Hassell Gates and family.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE OPENING

CASTLE DRY GOODS STORE TO OPEN FOR BUSINESS IN PERRYTON, SATURDAY, JAN. 21

An indication that Perryton is ever progressing in spite of crop failures, low wheat prices, etc. is the opening of the Castle Dry Goods Co. for business in Perryton, Saturday, January 21. The Castle Dry Goods Co. is located in the Jones building on south Main St. It is owned by Virgil R. Castle, who will be manager of the new business; and W. E. Castle, Monrovia, California, who expects to move to Perryton soon.

Mr. Castle has been in the dry goods business in Perryton for nine years. He came here in 1930 as manager of the L. T. Hill Store. When this firm went out of business in Perryton, he went to the Bryan Dry Goods Co. as manager. This store recently closed out their stock to make room for an enlarged super-market.

The new store will carry a full line of dry goods, ready-to-wear for men, women and children, shoes, millinery and furnishings. Mr. Castle has installed very attractive factory-made shelving and fixtures and he will have one of the most modern stores in the Southwest.

Virgil Castle is a popular and efficient merchant and he will be ably assisted in the operation of the store by Mrs. Frank Cardinale and Miss Lucille Rupprecht, who have had many years of experience in this business.

Approximately $8,000 to be Paid in 1938 Range Program

Signing of applications for payment under the 1938 Range Program was practically completed last week and are being submitted to the State Office this week according to E. W. Thomas, county agent. Sixty-one stockmen participated in the program in 1938 by carrying out one or more range building practice. This exceeded last year's total of 51 stockmen participating. Reseeding by deferred grazing will account for about 50 per cent of the payments.

Other practices used in the county extensively were building dams, cutting caustic and contour furrowing pasture land. Total payments will amount to approximately $8,000. In 1937 total payments reached $7,500.

Details of the 1939 Range Program have been announced. Provisions are practically the same as for 1938. The only important exception being that no payment will be made for drilling wells. Range building allowances will be computed on the same basis as for 1938 which was $1.00 per head for the normal carrying capacity of the ranch plus two cents per acre of grazing land. On the average ranch in Ochiltree county this figures $52.80 per section less administrative cost which will run between one and two per cent. Indications are that practically all ranchmen who participated in the program in 1938 will again participate in 1939.

IMPROVE PERRYTON CREAMERY

ENTIRE PLANT REMODELED AT GREAT EXPENSE; AWARD-ED MILK CONTRACT FOR CCC CAMP

K. H. Platt, manager of the Perryton Creamery, extends an invitation to everyone to visit the creamery to see the many improvements effected recently. The entire plant has been completely remodeled and much new equipment has been added.

The retail sales room and fountain service department has been redecorated and rearranged, but it is in the plant where the major changes have been made. A new roof and floor has been put in place. The walls and ceiling have been replastered and painted.

Among the new equipment installed is a new Wright stainless steel spray type pasteurizer which meets all requirements of state and federal laws. Mr. Platt states that all raw milk received at the Perryton Creamery comes from herds that have passed TB and Bangs tests.

Just recently the plant has been inspected thoroughly by state and federal inspectors. As a result of the high rating received from these inspections, the Perryton Creamery has just been awarded the contract for furnishing the Perryton CCC Camp with milk.

Butter, cottage cheese and other dairy products manufactured by the Perryton concern are meeting with a ready sale and the plant is taxed to capacity to fill all orders. Pasteurized milk and cream is delivered to many Perryton homes and is also sold in Perryton food stores. With the recent high rating given the plant on account of improved sanitation and manufacturing equipment, the popularity of these "Made in Perryton" products is due for a marked increase.

Mr. Roach states that the lams averaged 94 pounds and brought $8.25. This price was top for Texas lambs on Tuesday's market, which was steady.

Prior to shipping Mr. Roach and Mr. Slaughter had their lambs on grain feed for 60 to 70 days. Each of these men still have over 250 lambs, which they will feed out.

On the same train, Lawson Flowers had a car of mixed cattle, which he sold in Kansas City. W. C. Herndon also had a car of cattle in Kansas City the first of the week.

Recently John Rogers of west of town, who has raised sheep for several years, shipped two cars of lambs from the Farnsworth station.

PLAN LUNCHES FOR CHILDREN

UNDERPRIVILEGED CHILDREN IN PERRYTON SCHOOL TO BE FED BY COMMUNITY SERVICE CLUB

H. C. Graham, Commander of the Pierce Johnson Post of the American Legion under whose sponsorship the Community Service Club is operated, announces that plans have been perfected for the providing of hot lunches at noon for a large group of underprivileged children attending the Perryton school.

AAA Officials Concerned
Over Temper of Congress

WASHINGTON.—Department of Agriculture officials, along with the rest of the world, are looking both backward and forward as the New Year unfolds. They are primarily concerned with the probable temper of Congress when it is presented with plans for perpetuating Agricultural Adjustment Administration policies.

They wonder if Congress can be persuaded to finance next year's farm program with processing taxes in view of what has happened since the Supreme Court declared the uses to which processing taxes were formerly put were unconstitutional.

Secondly, they are conducting post-mortems over the rejection by rice and tobacco producers of marketing quotas for the 1939 crops. They have the consolation of remembering that cotton growers voted for marketing quotas and thereby indicated approval of the whole AAA program.

But the cotton producers are more desperate than producers of the other four basic commodities for which referenda were held.

The domestic and export market can absorb only 12,000,000 bales of cotton currently, and the 1938 crop added to the carry-over increased total stocks of cotton to 25,000,000 bales, or double the so-called quota level.

Producers of rice and three types of tobacco rejected marketing quotas, in spite of the fact that they were warned by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace that "supplies had reached the danger point." For example, stocks of blue-cured tobacco are 23,000,000 pounds in excess of the quota level, stocks of dark tobacco are 25,000,000 pounds in excess, and stock of burley 39,000,000 pounds in excess.

In some cases, where as much tobacco or rice is being produced as the land will yield and the producer is nevertheless within AAA acreage allotments, he will receive benefit payments even though he does not co-operate with the marketing quota program. But in those cases where the producer expands production in an attempt to take advantage of favorable tobacco and rice prices, he will sacrifice his benefit payments.

Since many producers of rice and tobacco rejected marketing quotas as a form of government control over production, it is widely held by inference the rejection of proposed marketing quotas for these crops was a rejection of the whole AAA system of controls.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace takes a more optimistic attitude. He is generally inclined toward those farmers who chose not to avail themselves of AAA benefits. He says, "Of course, if a year from now their price and surplus situation is more like that of cotton today, they can turn their own action back to the use of quotas as a means of dealing with a difficult situation," and adds, "I hope that this decision will not prove too costly to them."

Cost of Production Basis of Farm Bill This Session

WASHINGTON.—Congress will be asked to consider a cost of production bill as a substitute for the Agricultural Adjustment Act. The Massingale-Thomas bill and the McAdams-Eicher bill, introduced in previous sessions of Congress, have proposed the same plan and were defeated. But supporters of the cost of production program believe discontent with existing farm legislation among farmers is widespread and will be reflected here in the favorable reaction of Congress when the new bill is introduced.

The late John Simpson, former president of the National Farmers' Union, is credited with originating the plan. It is simply that by fixing the price of farm commodities, the government can assure farmers a return on their share equal to the cost of production plus a fair margin of profit.

This would apply only to a few part of their crops is sold in the domestic market, the export market farmers would have to shift for themselves, that is, accept the world price. If the world price is low, the theory is that the price would be reduced automatically and by the voluntary action of the individual farmer.

Senator Frazier, one of the chief backers of this plan, explains the principle involved by saying, "American farmers ought to be entitled to a margin of profit just like manufacturers." Sponsors of the cost of production plan oppose subsidies except perhaps for federal payments to farmers who practice methods of preventing soil erosion. They consider the farmer's greatest problem is his inability to get a fair price at home. They believe existing reciprocal trade agreements further handicap the American farmer in the domestic market.

Those members of Congress who would scrap Secretary Wallace's "balanced economy," or reduction of acreage compensation, for by benefit payments, say that benefit payments have not worked. They argue that in most cases benefit payments have not covered the difference between the price in the domestic market and the cost of production. In point, that payments for reducing acreage have largely resulted in increased production, as in the case of the cotton grower for example who reduces his acreage one year, uses his benefit payments to buy fertilizer, so he can increase production the following season.

Congressmen sympathetic to the New Deal farm program will introduce amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment Act in this session. Among other things there will be an amendment to revise processing taxes. By the device of requiring that these taxes be paid directly into the Treasury, it is believed that the unconstitutional features of the earlier law can be avoided.

Both administration and anti-administration forces lined up for battle in the interest of the dirt farmer admit it is most likely a compromise measure will be developed by the first session of the new Congress.

Advisory Board Asks Farm Hands
Be Included in Security Act

WASHINGTON.—Farm hands and domestic labor should be brought under the National Social Security Act and the benefits of old age insurance, the Social Security Advisory Council has recommended in a 54-page official report.

The council recommended that some 6,000,000 farm hands and domestic laborers be included in the act not later than Jan. 1, 1940, and that the tax be collected from the individuals by means of stamps sold to them which they would be required to keep in stamp books.

These recommendations were part of a broad general plan for extending the insurance plan to virtually every man, woman and child in the country.

Other new groups which the council advised bringing under the provisions of the act include 600,000 seamen and bank employees, as well as 2,000,000 employees of non-profit religious, charitable and educational institutions. The council also recommended that a study be made of insuring self-employed persons and governmental employees now outside the act.

The council was composed of 25 prominent persons in private life, one group representing the employers, another the employees, and a third the public.

Senators Vandenberg (R.), Michigan, Byrd (D.), Virginia, and Harrison (D.), Mississippi, of the Senate Finance Committee co-operated with the Social Security Board in the appointment of the Advisory Council in 1937.

The present set-up of the Social Security Act provides for the payment of $10 to $35 a month to workers when they reach the age of 65, the amount depending upon what they had paid into the fund. It is estimated that 30,000,000 people are now enrolled under the act. Both employers and employees now pay 1 per cent to the federal fund. This amount is to be increased to 1½ per cent Jan. 1, 1940.

The Advisory Board recommended the federal government contribute one-third to the fund, thereby easing the load for employers and employees. The money would come from general revenue and its use would reduce if not remove the relief burden, it is expected.

July 27, 1938
Submitted to the Herald
by J. R. McLarty:
Dear Mr. Townsend:

"Upon the occasion of my visit to your office in Long Beach, California, in July, 1934, I was very much encouraged to continue my endeavors to secure the gross income tax for the Hawaiian Islands. We had formerly called our tax the transaction tax, but discovered it needed so much explaining that we changed it to gross income. The thing back of this was that a great many people at this time were earning only a small or no income at all. They were thus confirmed in the belief that those who had a large income would pay largely towards the tax. We were successful in getting the 1935 legislation to pass this legislation and it has been a success beyond our fondest dreams. One thing you can be assured, Doctor, the transaction tax will work and produce money. We have proved that to our own satisfaction."

I have been very much interested in your plans for circulating money. While I have endorsed the acts of the present administration because it was apparently the only thing that could be done, I recognize that it is only temporary and something else must be done to make prosperity permanent. I believe your plan is the only plan that has been offered to the American people that will do what is claimed by it. We have found that circulating the money every month has created a stimulus to business. We found further, that the payments of taxes on a monthly basis lightened the burden and disarmed the majority of its opponents. The common comment now is "Oh that's fine, I only pay a small sum each month and don't miss it."

The collection of taxes on an annual basis upsets the economical status of every community in the United States. Vast sums of money are collected, held in the treasury and not spent for many months afterwards. I recall that under President Cleveland's administration, he was soundly berated for permitting the accumulation of $125,000,000 in the U. S. Treasury. At that time you will recall that the entire circulating medium in the United States was little less than $500,000,000, and to have almost one-third of it tied up in the treasury seemed to be a terrible mistake and the people resented.

A few days ago I noticed a report in the press that a large manufacturing cash reserves, a sum vastly greater than the entire medium when you and I were boys. I suppose he is saving this for a rainy day. If $125,000,000 in the federal treasury under Cleveland's administration upset the economic system and one man has the sum I named (and there may be others with greater sums, I do not know) it seems to be high time that the people found some means of getting this money back into the channels of trade. Your plan will sure do it.

Many thanks for your kind letter and more power to you.

"The whole improvement should be mapped at once and a definite amount of work should be planned for each year," continued Mrs. Martin.

WINTER JOBS
IN GARDENING

CONSTRUCTION OF HOTBEDS IN SECTIONS WHERE NEEDED TO START PLANTS IS LISTED FOR 1939

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—Winter jobs for gardeners include construction of a hotbed in sections where these are needed to start plants, building flats for growing plants, checking over tools for possible repairs or replacements, and building a fence around the garden if one is necessary.

These are some of the winter jobs listed by J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, as he looked forward to 1939.

"Now is the time for getting the hotbed ready if seeds are to be planted in January," he said. He pointed out that mature heated hotbeds should be allowed to heat for three or four days before planting.

If the old hotbed is to be used, it should be disinfected; all of the old soil should be removed and fresh manure and soil added. Rosborough said that the electrically heated hotbed was practical and economical where current was available.

"Southern exposures are best for the location of the hotbed," the horticulturist stated. "A fence or a building on the north side makes an excellent windbreak. Above all, the hotbed should be located on a well drained spot, for water logged manure will not generate much heat."

Detailed information on hotbed construction can be obtained from county agricultural and home demonstration agents, and these also have free bulletins on the subject available for distribution.

Above is shown a map of the State divided into 10 regions for the purpose of carrying out the State-wide wildlife survey, demonstration and management project under terms of the Pittman-Robertson act passed at the last session of Congress.

In each region there is stationed a Regional Game Manager, and in addition there are three assistants. The names and headquarters addresses are given for the convenience of those desiring to get in contact with them.

This project is financed mostly with Federal funds derived from the tax on firearms and ammunition. The Pittman-Robertson act diverted this tax money to the States for wildlife restoration and research, each State to receive an amount determined by the area of the State and the number of hunting licenses sold. Texas lags in the sale of hunting and is entitled to receive $150,000 annually, the maximum amount allowed any State under the act. To obtain this wildlife money States must submit projects that meet the approval of the Biological Survey and the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture. Texas' first project submitted was the survey, demonstration and management program, which was approved early in August without change and is now under way. The Federal government allotted $40,200 and the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission matched this amount with $13,400 to finance the project through July 31, 1939. States must match Federal funds for each project in the ratio of 1 to 3.

The Texas program is essentially a research program. It is expected to last five years. Overnight miracles are not expected. The Regional Game Managers, cooperating with Wildlife Planning Boards in each county, and with other interested agencies and individuals, will make a survey of wildlife populations and possibilities in their regions, start restoration projects where they are justified, and recommend others that may be undertaken either with State funds or with additional Federal funds made available by the Pittman-Robertson act.

Katie Kilowatt says: HELP YOUR BOY MAKE GOOD GRADES BY GIVING HIM THE RIGHT KIND OF LIGHT FOR SAFE SEEING

Safe Light for 9 hours of home study costs no more than one five-cent lead pencil

Many a child is called lazy for shirking his home studies when lack of proper light is the real cause. Poor light tires the eyes, increases nervous tension and makes concentration difficult. There's no need for any child to work under this handicap when good light is so cheap. Under this company's low average residential rate . . .

A modern study lamp equipped with a 100-watt bulb will provide 9 hours of glareless light for the price of a 5-cent lead pencil

If you are in doubt about the light under which your children read and study, let us measure it with a light meter and find out whether it conforms to safe seeing standards. At the same time let us measure the lighting elsewhere in your home. There is no obligation for this service.

FSA LEASE FORMS MONEY-SAVER FOR LAND OWNERS AND TENANTS

Year-end moves will cost Ochiltree County tenant farmers more than $6,000, and that is only the beginning of the cost to them and to the general public, it was stated by Arthur R. Turner, County Supervisor of the Farm Security Administration.

The supervisor estimated that 120 farm tenants of this county move every year. The actual cash cost is around $57.00 per family he said, but the final cost to the tenant and to the public is much greater.

Most of the tenants who move could be stabilized through leasing methods which would encourage them to remain upon the same farm and to improve it, the supervisor stated. He said that the FSA flexible lease form, now being distributed by his office is winning favor with both landlords and tenants and that a considerable number of farms in this county will be operated under it during the coming year.

"A tenant who stays upon a given piece of land for only a year has no opportunity to build up that land and no incentive to do it," Mr. Turner continued. "Instead, he is inclined to take out all of it that he can. The land owner may be struggling along like the tenant on an inadequate income. He has his money invested in the land and taxes to pay, so he also is interested in having the tenant get the most possible out of this year's crop letting the future take care of itself. In many cases, the landlord does not live in the county or state, and fails to realize what is happening to his soil."

The supervisor said that tenant families move during the winter after the crops are harvested, which means that the movement is made at a time when the children must be taken out of school. "They not only lose several weeks of school, they often stay out for the remainder of the school year. When they do go back to school they are likely to be set back in their classes, and become discouraged and disinterested. The same discouragement and lack of interest occurs with the tenant farmer himself, and with his wife, in regard to participation in community activities."

The estimate of tenant farmers moving in this county was based upon the state average of approximately 40 per cent of tenants moving annually, and the last census figures which show the number of tenant farmers in this county to be 299.

STENO IN LEGISLATURE

Miss Helen May, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. May of this city, has been officially confirmed by the House of Representatives, Austin, as a member of the stenographic force for this session of the Legislature, according to word just received. Miss May will also act as private secretary to Representative Max Boyer.

While the number of stenographers was greatly reduced at this session, Miss May was one of the 50 employed. She has the distinction of being the youngest stenographer in the group. This speaks well for her ability and her many friends are pleased to learn of her appointment.

Ted Tisdale went to Coleman Wednesday returning Thursday with Mrs. Tisdale and daughters, Patricia and Delle, who have been visiting with her parents.

Urge Annual Exam

Regular Physical Examination To Help Avoid Heart Ailments In Future Years

Austin, Texas—"The steadily increasing rise in death attributable to heart disease represents a major health problem. That certain childhood infections such as scarlet fever, diphtheria, rheumatic fever and even measles frequently are responsible for undermining the heart and thus causing it to weaken in later life is generally recognized," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"The well directed efforts by physicians and health officers to reduce the number of these serious afflictions of youth through the application of preventive methods, early diagnosis, quarantine, and proper care during illness and through convalescence, all should have a marked influence eventually in reducing heart disease from those causes. Syphilis, which also is one of the main, if not the greatest heart-crippler, is being waged against energetically," Dr. Cox further states.

"However, in spite of the public health problems associated with heart disease, and the successful attacks being made against them, many of the premature deaths caused by ailments of this vital organ could be eliminated if the factor of intelligent personal cooperation were more generally applied."

"One's life habits sometimes influence the heart. For example, if stimulants are excessively used, and susceptibility to their influence is more than average, the effect over a long period of time can result in heart impairment. Again, over exercise or any other undue strain on the adult heart can affect it seriously. Moreover, too much fondness for food by those of middle-age or beyond who already are overweight certainly is no boon to the heart, and with other causes may be a contributory factor in embarrassing its action."

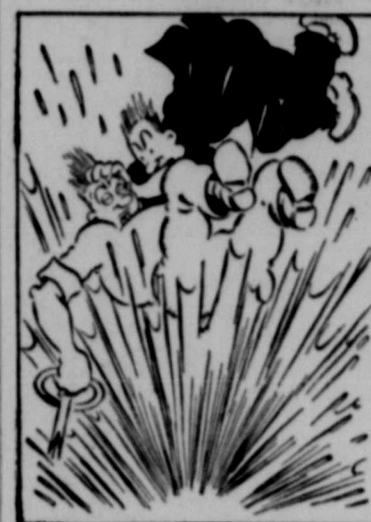

"Or to express it positively, the reasonable application of the rules of hygienic living aid in keeping the bodily mechanism, including the heart, in good condition. And if to a sensible routine of living be added an annual physical check-up by a physician (a procedure that frequently makes possible the early detection of weakness, if existing, and the application of cure or care) many premature cases of fatal heart disease could be avoided. Therefore, to keep the whole body functioning healthfully including the heart, is an object in which every adult should be most interested."

Winter Now Most Popular as Sporting Season

Maureen O'Sullivan takes off for a swift trip down a ski slide in Yosemite National Park, California.

THE pursuit of happiness increasingly claims man from his friends and takes him outdoors in the snow and ice of winter. This year the celebration of winter sports has become nationwide and national and state programs of winter sports events seem to assure their popularity for years to come.

Skiing has been the most popular of week-end sports in the east for a number of years. The establishment of Sun Valley Lodge in Idaho made the sport fashionable in the west and it now claims devotees in practically every state where there is sufficient snow to enjoy the sport.

The movies contributed a great deal to the increasing popularity of skiing and the construction of splendid toboggan slides in the national parks brought that sport back to popularity. The discovery that an ash can lid made a good one-man sled was hardly revolutionary but ash can lids minus their handles and furnished with a cushion-furnish as much sport as ever a toboggan did.

The co-operation of various state recreational agencies has supplemented the national program until now there are few states that do not have some winter recreational facilities.

Winter sports are commonly supposed to be more healthful than summer sports. At any rate the national health seems to be improving as the popularity of winter sports increase.

Four national parks in California have winter sports, Lassen Volcanic, Sequoia, General Grant and Yosemite. Glacier National Park in Montana is one of the great winter recreational areas as is Crater Lake National Park in Oregon.

Skiing Drive in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia makes Shenandoah National Park with its splendid winter sports available to the populations of the eastern cities. Morristown National Historical Park in New Jersey and the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee are popular with easterners.

Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado is one of the most popular of the western areas and scattered all the way from Maine to Washington are other areas where men and women find new pleasure in the exhilarating outdoors.

International Sunday School Lesson

Peter Denies the Lord

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 22.
Text: Luke 22:31-34, 54-62.

IT is a far cry from the figure of Peter on the Mount of Transfiguration and his arrest and denial that he was a disciple of Jesus or that he knew the man.

Poor Peter! Jesus understood him far better than he understood himself. He had seen deeply into Peter's strength and weakness when He had said the memorable words, "Simon, Simon, Satan hath asked to have you, that he might sift you as wheat." Peter was indeed being sifted, but it was the chaff rather than the wheat that was most in evidence. But Jesus had prayed for Peter, and the denial was not the end. The real Peter was the wheat that was left after the chaff had been blown away.

It is strange that Peter, having been warned of his defection, should not have been also safeguarded against such a lapse. Probably it was Peter's own self-confidence that was his undoing. He was so sure that even if all the other disciples denied Jesus, he would prove steadfast that this led to his undoing in the hour of actual trial.

IT is not strange that Peter should have denied Jesus three times. When one has done the first act of sin or weakness, it is easy to do the second and the third. But after the third denial, when the cock crew, Peter remembered the words of Jesus. Then it was that he came to himself and that the prayer of Jesus for him became efficacious, for he went out and wept bitterly in genuine and sincere repentance.

Here is a thoroughly human story. Many of the bravest and best of men are like Peter, with their courage and their earnestness of purpose counter-balanced by deep temptations and real weaknesses, and with the capacity of falling just as they have the capacity for rising far above the level of men of lesser intensity and ability.

The important thing to remember is that man's destiny is never determined by his sins, but only by the lack of will and the lack of self-recovery by which he allows his sins and missteps to overcome him.

NOR is it a matter only of self-will and self-discipline. It is the Peters—if they only knew it—who need the keeping power of God's grace. It is because a man's will is so strong that he is liable to put trust in himself, where he ought to be putting his trust in God and seeking the strength of the divine through prayer and communion, that he finds himself too late overcome by evil, or conquered by lack of watchfulness. It was not too late but too strong that Jesus said, "Watch and pray lest ye enter into temptation."

CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Truth" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 22.

The Golden Text is: "Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he" (Deuteronomy 32:3, 4).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will praise thee, O Lord, among the people: I will sing unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds" (Psalm 57: 8, 9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals try to believe without understanding Truth; yet God is Truth" (page 312).

Miss Minnie Gamel is assisting at the Edwards Tugary.

"Affaire d'Amour"

The scandalous love affair of "Zaza" and "Dufresne"—which set tongues wagging around the world during the Edwardian era—is revived on the screen by Claudette Colbert and Herbert Marshall, in "Zaza," their new picture together. Paramount will present it January 22-23 at the Ellis Theatre.

Buck Benny Rides

"Artists and Models Abroad" To Show at Ellis Theatre This Thursday and Friday

Comedy by Jack Benny, romance by Joan Bennett, assorted antics by the Yacht Club Boys and Mary Boland, four new hit songs by Ralph Rainger and Leo Robin and specially-designed fashions by such world-famous stylists as Alix, Lanvin, Le-Long, Schiaparelli and Worth—these are the ending attractions in "Artists and Models Abroad," the new musical comedy which Paramount presents Thursday and Friday, January 19-20 at the Ellis Theatre.

Benny, in his first screen role since the sensational "Artists and Models" of a season ago, now plays a happy-go-lucky, wise-cracking American vaudeville hofier who copes with the problem of being stranded in Paris in a series of rollicking adventures. His new leading lady, Miss Bennett, cast in a role different from what she has previously played, is the American oil heiress who joins a theatrical troupe for a new thrill and stays to find love.

"Artists and Models Abroad" differs from most screen musical comedies in that the accent is chiefly on the story, which has been written by two famous wits, Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, authors of the big hit, "Anything Goes." Using the glamorous Paris Exposition as its background, it carries Benny through some of the gayest and most mad-cap experiences of his career.

The Robin and Rainger songs which already have won a preferred place on dance floors and on the air, are: "You're Lovely, Madame," "Do the Buckaroo," and most popular of them all, "What Have You Got That Gets Me." In addition, the Yacht Club boys sing a novelty of their own, "You're Broke You Dope," the title of which explains their condition throughout the picture.

Producer Arthur Hornblow, Jr. stakes his newly-acquired reputation as "Hollywood's Ziegfeld" on the girls he has chosen to play members of Benny's theatrical troupe. Picked after a nation-wide competition, the group includes several dozen of the most beautiful charmers seen in the films in many a season. Among them is Linda Yale.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burkhardt and Miss Cyrene Burkhardt went to Cushing, Okla., Monday and returned Wednesday. Their mother, Mrs. Sam Burkhardt, who has been visiting the past month with a sister, who is ill, and other relatives in that community, accompanied them home.

A. J. George and daughter, Miss Wilma, returned home last Friday from Katy, where the George family have been visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Tucker. Mrs. George and son, Gary, and daughter, Miss Claudine, remained for a longer stay. Miss Wilma has accepted the position as bookkeeper at McLellands store.

"Zaza", Daring Picture of Famed Love Affair Coming

"Off The Record"

Pat O'Brien and Joan Blondell Star In Newlywed Yarn At The Ellis Theatre

Ranking ace-high as one of the favorite stories of theatre goers all over the world, "Zaza," the half-gay, half-tragic story of the musical hall darling, gets the most nearly perfect and certainly the most sumptuous, production it has ever had in the Paramount picture showing at the Ellis Theatre, Sunday and Monday, January 22-23.

Always a character to dazzle the eye and stir the heart, "Zaza" takes on a new glamour and wider appeal than ever in the capable hands of Claudette Colbert, the star of the picture. Miss Colbert's return to the screen is always an event; her return as "Zaza" is an event which can only be described as epoch-making.

The story of "Zaza," which has consistently shocked theatregoers in successive productions, revolves about the experiences of a French music hall entertainer, who knows only one law in the world—and that is love. As scripted by Zoe Akins, it has all the verve, naughtiness and poignancy that Miss Colbert's unique personality demands.

"Zaza," whose attentions are competed for by every dandy in France, meets her fate in the person of "Dufresne," a suave man of the upper classes, played with his usual sleek perfection by Herbert Marshall. Stamping the strict conventions of the day under her feet and ignoring the warnings of her foster-mother, Helen Westley, and her vaudeville partner, Bert Lahr, "Zaza" has an idyllic, though scandalous, romance with him.

The climax of the affair comes when "Zaza," hearing rumors that her sweetheart is a married man, goes to his home in Paris to see for herself. Here, in an intensely dramatic scene, she meets his six-year-old daughter and realizes what "Dufresne's" mad infatuation for her will ultimately mean to his innocent family. Faced with this realization, "Zaza" makes the decision that leads to tragedy.

In the supporting cast of "Zaza" are enough first-rate stars to make up a half-dozen pictures! The list of players includes Constance Collier, Genevieve Tobin, Walter Catlett, Rex O'Malley and Ernest Cossart.

Pat O'Brien and Joan Blondell star in "Off The Record," the Warner Bros. picture coming to the Ellis Theatre, Thursday and Friday, January 26-27.

Either because Pat O'Brien owns an Irishman's instinct for being ingratiating, or because eight years as a husband in one of Hollywood's most happily married families has taught Pat a deft domestic "approach," this actor was able to improvise a piece of "business" that gave a distinguishing touch to one of his scenes with Joan Blondell in "Off the Record," the Warner Bros. picture coming to the Ellis Theatre, Thursday and Friday, January 26-27.

In the story Pat and Joan play newspaper reporters. After being crazy about each other for some time, they blithely get married. But they have a disagreement shortly after the ceremony.

That night Pat returns to the apartment, carrying his suitcase, the new latchkey which Joan gave him, and a sheepish grin. Walking through the apartment building's lobby, Pat spies a big vase filled with gladioli, placed on a table there by the apartment building's lady manager.

Pat lifts the bouquet out of the vase, bundles the flowers under his arm, fits the latchkey into the lock, and marches triumphantly into the honeymoon flat, whistling and reaching the flowers toward Joan.

Although the script had made no mention of the flowers, Pat's way of building up the little scene won the commendation of Director James Flood, who kept the bit of action in the picture.

"It will be a realistic touch that will please every wife who sees the picture and remind every husband," Flood said.

Penal Colony Drama

Grim Reality of Set "Gets" Boris Karloff In New Film "Devil's Island" January 24-25

Boris Karloff, in ragged, soiled dungarees and shirt of hop-sacking, lies on a plank cot in a filthy, oppressive cell.

It is for a scene in "Devil's Island," Warner Bros. picture of life on the dread penal colony, which will show at the Ellis Theatre, Thursday and Friday, January 26-27.

The cell is a cement-lined hole in the ground, approximately four feet wide, seven feet long and twelve feet deep. The filth is synthetic but nonetheless depressingly real. A negro convict orderly comes to the grating over the pit with food for Karloff and a message of cheer from the commandant's wife. Karloff stands on the cot to receive the food and message. Then the guard returns to hurry the orderly along about his business, giving him a kick to aid him. Karloff, seeing the kick, cringes and Director William Clemens stops the scene.

"No Boris, you mustn't cringe," he says. "Remember that your spirit remains unbroken despite the cruel treatment you have had and the brutal things you have witnessed." "I know," Karloff replies, abashed, "but I couldn't help myself. It's the reality of this set that's getting me. From a physiological standpoint I don't see how any man's spirit could remain unbroken under such conditions."

Nazi Terror Film

Victims of Nazi Brutism is Seen In Latest Release of "March Of Time" Sunday-Monday

What is to be the fate of the refugees from Nazi terror?

This is the provocative question posed by "The Refugee—Today and Tomorrow," the new MARCH OF TIME release which will be shown at the Ellis Theatre on Sunday and Monday. The first motion picture to tell about the helpless victims of German terror, this MARCH OF TIME lays the responsibility for new atrocities squarely at the door of the leaders of the Nazi state. It reveals the lives of people in Germany whose politics, race and religion differ from the State's doctrine, and shows how many have been forced to emigrate only after confinement in Nazi concentration camps.

In analyzing the refugee problem, MARCH OF TIME considers what the future holds in store for these victims of German intolerance. Reporting on the possibility of solving the refugee problem, MARCH OF TIME turns its cameras to Palestine, shows what has been accomplished there by Jewish immigrants by hard work and limited financial support.

In bringing this pictorial indictment to the screen, MARCH OF TIME shows how Hitler's outrages have affected the rest of the world and how, reacting to new atrocities, civilized nations have set about to help these refugee peoples build new lives.

Collegiate Artists Substitute for Experts In Designing Windows and Lights for Chapel

Two young Texas artists have suddenly found themselves entrusted with one of the largest and most unique tasks ever attempted by students—the design and construction of stained glass windows and hand-wrought metal furnishings for a campus chapel at Texas State College for Women. Miss Paschall (left) of Ennis will create the metal fixtures, and Miss Beatrice Paschall, Amarillo, is working on the windows. Few original designs have been used for church windows anywhere in Texas, this work usually being left up to craftsmen in large factories.

Miss Paschall is shown as she works on an experimental pattern, trying various pieces of colored glass in the light. Miss Tate begins with a spherical wire frame on which she places strips of cardboard to determine the design. The finished product will be a metal frame around a frosted globe. The chapel, on which construction will be started this spring, will be located on a wooded hilltop back of the college.

Matanuska Farmers Have Trouble Despite Prosperity

REPORTS coming from the federal farm colony in the Matanuska Valley of Alaska indicate that prosperity has its problems as well as adversity and poverty.

For it appears that at least one farmer who has done well in Recovery Valley has demanded that he be permitted to quit the co-operative marketing agency and to market the products of his 40-acre farm as he sees fit. Under the present plan the farmers who were taken from communities in Minnesota, Wisconsin and other northern states and organized in a co-operative marketing group. Five per cent is deducted from all money collected by the agency for farm products.

Walter Pippie, said to be the ace farmer of the more than 130 farmers who were in the original group, is reported to have made $11,000 in the last two years. When he asked to quit the agency his request was refused. Now officials of the agency are asking a court that he be ejected from the colony entirely.

Farmers and their families who were taken to Alaska were given government loans to permit them to clear their small farms and make a new start in the country. It cost the government approximately $3000 to take each family to Alaska. Some of the families borrowed as much as $16,000 in an attempt to get a new start farming. When their credit was exhausted they quit the colony and returned to the United States. There are about 800 persons now in the colony. This number represents a turnover of approximately 50 per cent since the colony was started three years ago. During the three years the transplanted farmers have been born.

The government loans were for a period of 30 years and it is now indicated that every one of the farmers remaining on the land will be able to repay the government a reasonable return. The money advanced to those who have abandoned the project will be lost, it is anticipated.

One of the reasons for the failure of those who have left the colony was the generous credit extended to them, many of those connected with the project feel. The experience of Pippie in snaring prosperity has not been entirely typical.

He built a greenhouse on his property and was able to market his produce much earlier than most of his neighbors. Food is high in Alaska and he was paid top prices for everything he could raise. Cucumbers and cabbage which started in his greenhouse accounted for much of the profit he is said to have made in the last two years.

Another factor in the success of Pippie was the fact that he arose early and was on his way to market before his neighbors were up. His produce, first on the market, was usually sold before the co-operative marketing produce was available.

TEXAS U. SPONSORS PROJECTS

UNIVERSITY AND COOPERATING AGENCIES SPONSOR STATE WIDE INVESTIGATIONS AND PROJECTS

Austin, Texas—More than 1,300 needy professional, educational and clerical workers have been given employment through the operation of Works Progress Administration projects sponsored by The University of Texas in the fields of archaeology, paleontology, geology, social science, and business research, a recent report from WPA headquarters in San Antonio showed.

Involving expenditures of $995,500 in WPA funds and $104,000 supplied by the University and cooperating agencies, the program has resulted in the collection of material of scientific and commercial interest. None of the work being done or contemplated is included in the normal budgetary activities of the sponsoring agency and no regularly-employed personnel is being displaced.

Of particular interest to individuals and firms concerned with the development of natural resources is the mineral deposits survey sponsored by the Bureau of Economic Geology. The statewide investigation involves expenditures of $389,000 and provides jobs for 537 workers. Minerals and mineral products believed to be worthy of investigation include: Building stone, celestite, cement materials, chromite, clays, coal and lignite, copper, feldspar, glass sands, glauconite, granite, greensand, gypsum, hot and medicinal springs, iron, kaolin and china clay, lead, limestone, manganese, mica, mineral waters, molding sands, molybdenite, novaculite, potash, precious stones, rare earth minerals, rock asphalt, salt sand-lime brick, sandstone and abrasives, serpentine, silica refractories, slate, stones for carved ornaments and souvenirs, talc (soapstone), tin, quicksilver, volcanic ash, zinc, gold, silver, oil and gas, and by-products. Exploration of stream terrace deposits of the State, some of which will soon be covered by rising water in the vicinity of dams now under construction, it was pointed out, is directed by the Bureau of Economic Geology, sponsor of a $306,000 project for this purpose. These geologic localities are yielding vertebrate fossils and records of early man which are invaluable to students of the prehistory of Texas. Specimens of interest are being obtained for the Bureau's museum. This statewide project includes the excavation for educational purposes of a meteor crater located in Ector County and possible work on other craters. This proposed excavation has awakened widespread scientific interest and a request has been made by officials of the American Museum of Natural History that duplicate specimens taken from the crater be sent to that institution.

"Also endangered by the erection of dams over Texas rivers and by the activities of untrained commercial explorers are Indian mounds, kitchen middens, ancient cemeteries and rock shelters which hold invaluable material regarding the Indian tribes," the statement said. "The department of anthropology is sponsoring a $181,000 project, employing 275 workers to collect and preserve this material in North Central, Central South and East Texas.

Problems of population mobility, including the movement of families in and out of urban centers, net change, rate of change, and trends of direction of resident movements, extent and location of doubling up of families, trends and rate of vacancies by type of occupancy for residence units, are being investigated through cooperation of WPA and the University Bureau of Research in Social Sciences. The project is being financed by expenditures of $199,

Krieger Visions Conn as Future Heavyweight Champ

BY IRVING DIX

SOLLY KRIEGER, world middleweight champion from Brooklyn, usually knows what he's talking about . . . and Krieger predicts that some day Billy Conn of Pittsburgh will be heavyweight champion.

Conn, a good-looking youngster of 21, is only a middleweight, but is growing fast. He beat Krieger in a non-title affair not so long ago, and Krieger is amazed at the improvement Conn has made since Krieger whipped him a year ago.

"Conn is six feet tall and has the frame of a heavyweight," says Krieger. "He's going to grow plenty . . . and in a couple of years he'll be a 195-pound heavyweight. That boy can stand up and fight. In fact, he has no business fighting middleweights now. If I had him I'd send him against second and third-rate light heavyweights."

FOOTBALL isn't held very highly in the estimation of the president of the Oklahoma state board of agriculture . . . who believes the state would benefit more if the money spent for football coaches was used to improve livestock . . . He claims a dozen good bulls could be purchased for the price of one coaching staff.

After a lapse of two years Army finally has gotten around to placing rifle shooting on the varsity sports list . . . which seems most appropriate for the Cadets.

Al Sutphin, owner of the Cleveland Barons hockey team, overlooks no bets when it comes to publicizing his ices . . . Sutphin recently gave every barber in town two tickets to a game . . . assuming that barbers, being good talkers and carriers of public information, would do a little talking about his hockey club.

TOM ROBINSON, starting his 30th season as Northwestern swimming coach, has been serving longer than any other Western Conference coach . . . in any sport.

Y., is two miles long on the eastern slope of Whiteface Mountain . . . and has a vertical drop of 2400 feet. Statistics compiled from 100 leading colleges show that the average salary of a football coach is $6107 a year . . . while that of a professor is $5158. Maybe that's one of the things the gridiron de-emphasizers are howling about.

LOVING MOTHER TAKEN IN DEATH

FUNERAL RITES HELD SUNDAY FOR MRS. THEO. H. PICKLE BODY TO INDIANA FOR BURIAL

Mrs. Theo. H. Pickle passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. C. Spencer, 521 Southwest Seventh street, Saturday morning, 10:45 o'clock, at the age of 83 years, a month and 23 days. The end came quickly and peacefully while she was writing a letter.

Impressive services were held Sunday afternoon, 1:30 o'clock, at the Methodist church. Pastor P. E. Yarborough, assisted by W. C. Bryan, gave a fitting tribute to the sweet life of "Grandma" Pickle, as she was lovingly called by the many who knew her. Our little city and its hospitable people ever held a warm corner in her heart.

Musical selections were given by members from the church choir. They were Miss Marjorie Yarborough, Mrs. W. C. Herndon, Mrs. Rufus Bolerjack, Mrs. Howard Holt, Mrs. O. A. Bush, Mrs. W. E. Fogle, Miss Moina Caldwell and Miss Opal Fogle. Mrs. A. P. McCravy was at the piano. Members of the Busy Ladies Sunday School class acted as flower bearers. Pallbearers were L. H. Lane, W. E. McMillen, D. D. Shanks, H. C. Graham, J. H. Newfield and R. B. Kent.

Following the services the body was taken overland to Canadian and shipped to Fort Wayne, Ind., where burial was made in the family plot by the side of her husband, Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Spencer accompanied the remains to Indiana.

Obituary
Henrietta Estrella was born to Warren and Lydia Richards at Roscoe, Ind., June 21, 1855. She grew to young womanhood at Roscoe and united in marriage to Theodore H. Pickle November 11, 1875. They moved from Roscoe to Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1900.

Mrs. Pickle was converted when a young girl and united with the United Brethren Church. After moving to Fort Wayne, she joined the South Congregational church, where she continued to be a member until her death.

She was the mother of four daughters and three sons. Her daughter, Mrs. F. C. Spencer, the oldest, lived in this county for many years and is known throughout the community. William B. the son, lived in Cleveland, Ohio, and died at Kerville, Texas. Mrs. Pickle passed away September 1, 1938. Mrs. Pickle came to Perryton since made her home.

A beautiful Christian, she was a cheerful, sweet and a benediction to all who knew her. She and her neighbors and friends will miss her. In the good providence of God she did not linger in this beautiful fragrance of life.

She is survived by the daughter and two sons, Mrs. B. Rogers, Mrs. Lel Lewellen, Robert Thurman, Mrs. Olen, Miss Pauline Spencer, Mrs. Bert Carr, Kerville; and great-grandchildren and a host of loving friends.

A. R. TURNER, RURAL SUPERVISOR OF FSA WAS GUEST SPEAKER AT MEETING IN COURTHOUSE

"We are interested in caring for the rural families of low income who are without the necessities of adequate clothing, proper diet, medical care, etc.," stated A. R. Turner, Rural Supervisor of the Farm Security Administration, to members of the County Home Demonstration Council which met Saturday, January 14, 1939, at the courthouse.

"The Farm Security Administration has funds available for grants to such families in need of clothing, food, fuel, canning equipment, milk cows and chickens. We wish to work with the home demonstration members and ask that names of needy families be turned in and the cases will be investigated immediately," further explained Mr. Turner.

Dates for the 1939 summer Short Course at College Station have been set for July 5-6-7 for 4-H boys and girls, and July 12-13-14 for adults. Ochiltree County home demonstration reports were among those from six counties selected to be sent over this district. The 1939 Yearbooks are being distributed to club members.

Topics chosen for the February Council Roll Call are: The number of members having drawn plans of their yards; the number and approximate live weight of hogs and beef killed for home consumption; and the success and interest manifested at second meeting.

The attendance for the first meeting in 1939 was 100 per cent strong with 17 members; one visitor, Mrs. M. F. Hethcock; and Mrs. Hazel Martin, County Home Demonstration Agent. Members present were: Mesdames A. W. Henry, G. K. Plowman, J. H. Kendra, C. O. Roach, Missouri Avenue, J. R. Stump, Van E. Stead, Fred Butler, Waks, H. D. DRIVERS FACE LICENSE TEST

PRESENT LICENSE OF ALL CAR DRIVERS EXPIRES APRIL FIRST REGARDLESS OF ISSUANCE

All drivers' licenses issued in Texas will expire April 1 and the license bureau of the department of public safety has announced none will be renewed until further notice.

Although there has been no official comment, the "further notice" announcement has been taken to mean the department expects changes—perhaps more teeth—in the drivers license law before April 1.

The present law, which requires all drivers of motor vehicles to have drivers licenses, became effective in April, 1936. At that time, drivers licenses were issued along with number plates without examination. Later the law was amended to require a rigid examination of applicants for licenses first had to pass an oral examination and a test in driving.

There is a possibility new laws will be passed upon the basis of the findings of the highway department in the painstaking analysis of 15,000 of last year's accidents.

Miss Grace Spencer, who has been confined to her bed the past week, is now able to be up part time.
