Texan Assails Raskob On His Pro Law Stand

Chairman Of Democrats Urges That Party Declare For A Referendum On Prohibition During Coming Year

Move Rapped As One Calculated To Disrupt And Divide Party Strength Instead Of Promoting Success

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee said today he opposed the party taking either a wet or dry stand in 1932 but wanted it to declare for a referendum on prohibition.

As he issued this statement through the committee his move to bring up the controversal prohibition issue was assailed by Senator Connally, Democrat, of Texas, as one "calculated to disrupt and divide the party's strength instead of promoting its success."

At the March meeting of the committee, Raskob proposed a plank providing state liquor control. His declaration today on the eve of another national committee meeting was unexpected. He made the statement in defending his position in reply to a newspaper editorial. He said:

Take Neither Side

"I strongly feel the party should take neither the wet nor the dry side of this highly controversial question, but that its platform should definitely commit the Democratic members to congress to vote in favor of some resolution which will give the people themselves opportunity to vote on the question as to whether they wish the eighteenth amendment retained, repealed or modified."

Raskob also challenged the published assertion that Governor Roosevelt of New York opposed his selection by Alfred E. Smith in 1928 as head of the committee.

"Former Governor Smith advises that Governor Roosevelt never opposed my election as national chairman and I am very sure that this is the fact," he said.

Cattleman Is Sought For Deaths Of Two In Mishap

Two Women Die And Young Girl May Not Survive

(By The Associated Press)

PECOS, Nov. 24.—Lewis Phillips, cattleman, was indicted here today on a charge of failure to stop and render aid in connection with deaths of two Mexican women near Balmorhea.

The women were fatally injured Saturday night when struck by an automobile while walking on a highway. A man and a 13-year-old girl were seriously injured. The girl may not live.

Phillips grazes about 500 head of cattle in the Medera canon of the Davis mountains, about 25 miles from Balmorhea. He leases a large amount of ranch land.

Watch Is Urged

Sheriff Louis Robinson of Pecos notified officers in southern New Mexico, eastern Arizona and West Texas to watch for Phillips, last reported driving west from El Paso.

The indictment was returned coincident with discovery of an automobile in an El Paso garage believed to be that which struck the party of Mexicans. Officers said it had been traded in on a new one Monday and bore evidence of having been in an accident.

Damage to his automobile and efforts to repair it led to direction of suspicion against Phillips, Sheriff Robinson said.

Picks Up Man

"The accident was about 7 p. m. Saturday," he said. "About an hour later Phillips drove to a tourist camp in Pecos and picked up a man named Jordan.

"The two then went to a garage where they had a mechanic straighten a broken fender, repair a smashed radiator and repair the hood, which was badly bent."

From Pecos, the sheriff said, Phillips and Jordan drove to El Paso and into New Mexico, where he understood there was a collision with another automobile.

Texarkana May Rival Reno For States' Divorce Trade

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 24. (AP) Texarkana, too, may rival Reno.

The accessibility of Texarkana to three states—Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana—made it apparently a strategic center.

Statistics On Amarillo In Demand By State Teachers

AMARILLO, Nov. 24. (AP)—Chamber of commerce officials today were seeking a promoter from California or Florida to help dispel the idea Amarillo is in the Arctic.

Telegrams were flooding the chamber office from prospective delegates to the Texas State Teachers association, opening Thursday, wanting to know if Amarillo is really isolated, if travel over the highways is safe, if danger from blizzards is great, and how deep the snow is.

Papa's Pipe Dream Has Come True; Thanksgiving Dinner Tomorrow May Be Prepared For Low Cost Of $4.70

THANKSGIVING dinner for a family of five persons—for $4.70!

That's not a pipe dream of Poor Papa's, but a reality in Lubbock. Last year the same dinner, topped with an eight-pound turkey, would have cost $6.52 and the year before that—in 1929—well, that was when Poor Papa was dreaming in vain.

Or, if you prefer chicken, you may have Thanksgiving served for your family of five for $4.62. At this price, you can include Two four-pound hens to make the equivalent of the eight-pound gobbler.

Prices for these dinners were taken from Tuesday's Avalanche-Journal grocery advertisements and totals are based on food for five people.

Here's the way it figures out: Three small grapefruit, 15 cents; three pounds of sweet potatoes, 7 cents; four pounds white potatoes, 6 cents; one pint of oysters for stuffing, 38 cents; four pounds of turnips, 20; two pounds cranberries, 22;

Military Authorities Say That Offensive Was Not Directed At Chinchow Where 50,000 Troops Are Massed

(By The Associated Press)

A DRIVE against 12,000 bandits southwest of Mukden, started by Japanese airplanes and troops yesterday morning, cleared out the area, Tokyo was informed.

Japanese dispatches said the bandits were driven west of the Liao river.

Military authorities in Tokyo denied the offensive was aimed at any way at Chinchow, where 50,000 Chinese troops are reported to have been massed.

Ask League Aid

The Tokyo government decided to ask the League of Nations to persuade Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria to remove a threat of future conflicts by withdrawing his forces from Chinchow.

Colonel J. G. McIlroy, the first American army observer to reach the scene of the Manchurian conflict, arrived at Mukden with other Tokyo military attaches.

An encounter between Chinese and Japanese troops at Kautaishan, originally reported by Japanese army headquarters to have resulted in heavy fighting, turned out to be a minor affair.

Cruiser Arrives

Shanghai learned that a Japanese cruiser, with fresh troops and munitions, arrived at Chinnwangtao, on the Gulf of Liaotung, just south of the Manchurian border.

A Chinese dispatch said the Japanese were planning to sever communications between Peiping and Manchuria.

British Ports Swamped By Goods Sent To Beat Tariff

LONDON, Nov. 24. (AP)—The customs sheds of British ports hummed with activity today as officers wrestled with mountains of manufactured goods sent to Great Britain in the past two days to beat the new 50 per cent tariff duties which go into effect at midnight.

The crucial hour was four o'clock inasmuch as all goods not cleared by the customs at the time will have to pay duty. Inquiries at many ports showed the number of ships arriving from abroad with imports maintained the high average set since the beginning of the month.

Calm Leader Sits Through Day Of Cross Examination With Fearless Answers To Trying Committee Questions

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP) — The farm board bared its operating secrets today in a battle for its life before the senate agriculture committee.

The spectacular story of a two year effort to help the farmer by gigantic stabilization operations and cooperative marketing was unfolded by Chairman Stone to justify the board's existence.

The quiet-mannered chairman delivered facts and figures on the board's operations in the form of an annual report to congress. Then he sat through almost a full day of running cross examination by critical members of the committee.

Holdings Reported

The report showed the board still holds through its subsidiaries 189-656,187 bushels of wheat and 1,-310,789 bales of cotton.

Toward the end of the day, Carl Williams, cotton member, took the stand and promised the board would hold its stabilization cotton off the market another year if the southern farmers would go through with their acreage reduction program. Under the present arrangement the surplus will be held until July 31.

Committee members, many of them open critics of the farm board policies, augmented by one or two other senators, sat around a long

Tom Mix Suffers Peritonitis Following Operation For An Appendicitis Attack; Serum Rushed To Hospital

(By The Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 24. — Sudden development of peritonitis made critical tonight the condition of Tom Mix, cowpuncher star of the screen and circus, after an operation today for a ruptured appendix.

In response to a call by his physician, Dr. R. Nichol Smith, for a special serum, an airplane from San Francisco arrived tonight at United airport with a supply from the laboratories of Stanford university.

Serum Only Hope

A motorcycle messenger met the plane and rushed the serum to the hospital. Pilot Harry Downes of the Varney airlines, buffeted by a heavy gale, was forced to make two attempts at langing with the serum and six passengers.

"Mix's condition is critical and will remain so for at least 48 hours," said Dr. Smith. "As soon as the bacteriophage arrives it will be administered. It is our best hope for recovery. Mix's mind was clear when he awoke after the operation, but because peritonitis has set in, his condition is now dangerous."

Lubbock's New Jail Accepted

Final Settlement Is Delayed To Await Outcome Of Claim Lodged By Two Local Firms For Damages

County commissioners' court, after an all-day hearing, Tuesday received the new Lubbock county jail but delayed final settlement with the Southern Prison company, which supplied steel equipment used in the building. The court withheld payment of $3,000 on the final estimate until alleged damages because of delayed steel are settled with the county and two local firms.

County prisoners will be moved into the new building, which will care for 104 persons, some time this week, Sheriff Wade Hardy said Tuesday night. The county has 35 prisoners in city jail and five or six in the Plainview jail.

Claim Is Lodged

On recommendation of S. B. Haynes, architect, the commissioners have lodged a claim of $1,550 as liquidated damages against the Southern Prison company because of about a 90 day delay in completion of the jail. Contract called for the structure to be finished Aug. 11,

Special Interest In Election Centered On Bearing It May Have In Organizing Coming House For Garner

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 24.—Richard M. Kleberg of Corpus Christi, a Democrat, was elected to represent the fourteenth congressional district of Texas in the national house today to succeed the late Harry M. Wurzbach, Republican, who was serving his sixth term when death removed him.

Returns from the 11 counties of the district, the vote being complete in four of them and the others so nearly complete that outstanding votes hardly could change the result, gave him a plurality of approximately 5,000 votes over a field of eight candidates.

Johnson Second

Kleberg polled 18,866 votes to 13,752 for Carl Wright Johnson, Democrat, of San Antonio, and 5,586 for C. W. Anderson, Republican of San Antonio, on whom Republicans centered in an effort to fill the vacancy with a grand old party partisan. Anderson had been a close friend of Wurzbach and managed several of the dead congressman's campaigns.

Special interest in the election was centered on the bearing it would have in organizing the next house, since John N. Garner of Uvalde, Texas, was virtually assured of election to the speakership by a narrow margin should the political complexion of that body remain as it now is constituted, the Democrats maintaining a majority of four should a Democrat win Wurzbach's seat.

Johnson and Kleberg had declared for modification of the 18th amendment and proposed submission of its repeal to a vote of the people. This probably is the only district in Texas where "wets" are regarded in the majority. Anderson did not make a clear cut pronouncement on prohibition, having been satisfied to tell the voters he favored compliance with all amendments to the constitution.

The winner of the election will be privileged to take his seat when Carter, about 16 miles east of Lubbock, were recovered. Three of the negroes were taken into custody here by police and the fourth was arrested at his home near the Lubbock-Crosby county line by a deputy sheriff and a policeman.

College Co-Eds Lag Behind In Love And Business And Have Less Chance To Get Themselves A Mate; Salary Schedule Is Also Reported Lower

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 24. — Whether love or business, the college girl lags, says Dr. Roy N. Anderson, personnel investigator of teachers college at Columbia university.

He observed that the college girls have about 20 per cent less chance to get married than have the non-campus ladies, and that girls with degrees get salaries ranging from $950 to $1600 as compared with $905 to $2,275 earned by business and professional women.

Dr. Anderson concluded from his survey of 891 college girls in 225 schools that they ought to learn a busines or profession in addition to their college education, both to make up for their reduced chances in the marriage mart and to compete with less learned women.

"After four years of mental stimulation in the class rooms and libraries of our institutions of higher learning; after four years of social life on the campus; after four years of specialized study and contact with keen-minded individuals," Dr. Anderson asks, "What may a college woman expect by way of a job?

Perhaps you have made less during this year than you did during the boom of a few years ago. In that case, you may of necessity curtail your expenditures but, if you have any loyalty, don't grasp your nickels and decide that you won't spend a dime. Of course, all the dark clouds are not going to turn out their silver lining simply because you decide to put your week's salary into circulation. But things aren't going to get so dark again, if people will have an optimistic instead of a pessimistic attitude. The thing seems to be—if you want to take the opinion of a financial expert such as I am—that things don't depend so much on how much money there is in the town but on the amount that is in circulation. And, don't fool yourself, every citizen is a part of the town, including you.

Perhaps You Knew

DID YOU know that curtains hung from the top of the window to the floor make a room look much higher than those which stop at the bottom of the window? If you have trouble with your evening frocks slipping off hangars and getting mussed, velvet coat hangers are the thing you need. They come inexpensively, singly or in half dozens . . . . for your six evening gowns, of course.

Take that dirty ring out of your bathtub!

AFTER a bath, hard water leaves a dirty ring. The soap combines with the hardness and makes scum. The scum collects dirt. The dirty ring sticks to the sides of the bathtub. It has to be scrubbed off.

But soften the water with Mel'o and there isn't any dirty ring on your bathtub. Mel'o makes water delightfully soft and a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. It saves from ½ to ⅔ the amount ordinarily used. It makes soap more effective. Use Mel'o wherever you want soft water. Get it at your grocer's.

LYRIC NOW SHOWING
Jack Holt, Ricardo Cortez and Mary Astor in
"White Shoulders"

ON GREENS

When the salad is served between the main course and the dessert, it should be appetizing, light and tart. It should not be too heavy. The fresh simple flavors of greens are most appropriate. Lettuce, endive, cucumbers; or cold vegetables, such as asparagus, Brussels sprouts or string beans. These salads suggest a tart, stimulating dressing . . . Bachelor Club Dressing, Vinaigrette Dressing, or French Dressing.

To make French Dressing: Mix twelve tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, and a dash of paprika.

ON FRUITS

Fruits, fresh or canned, have a more pronounced flavor than the simple greens. They call for a dressing less sharp, with perhaps a dash of sweetness or the tang of cheese, to encourage them to give us back their sunshine and full fresh flavor.

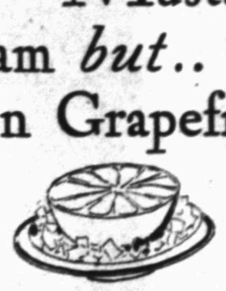

The next time you have a fruit salad, try this Cheese Dressing: Cream two packages of cream cheese with four tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil. Blend one-half teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of paprika, one-eighth teaspoon of white pepper, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of granulated sugar, four tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil and one of lemon juice. Beat into the cheese until it becomes light and fluffy. Then dust with paprika to give color to the dressing.

ON SEAFOOD

When salad is the main dish at a meal, as at luncheon let us say, and boasts the full flavor of lobster, crabmeat, or shrimp, the finished salad should be garnished with Lemonaise (mayonnaise made with lemon juice), or Tartar Sauce, but the fish should first have been marinated.

"To marinate: Mix twelve tablespoonfuls of Wesson Oil and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Add one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper. Pour this over seafood and set aside in the refrigerator for several hours. Serve with Lemonaise.

Mustard on Ham but.. not on Grapefruit

Mustard on cold meats tastes mighty good, but don't try spreading it on your grapefruit next Sunday morning . . . for some things go together and some do not. The same thing is true of salads and salad dressings. Why make salads of orange, grapefruit, pears, cucumbers, asparagus, string beans, shrimp, crabmeat or lobster, and smother all their different flavors under a heavy dressing like mayonnaise? No! It just won't do.

mix a dressing
to the salad

If you have a salad of light greens or vegetables, select a tart dressing like Bachelor Club, Vinaigrette or French Dressing. For fruit salads, try a rather sweet dressing or one to which a dash of cheese has been added. Seafood and Lemonaise seem to be meant to go together. But before the salad is made the seafood should be marinated in French Dressing.

We would like to send you with our compliments, a little book by Mary B. Murray on appropriate salad dressings . . . a book that not only suggests what dressings go with what salads, but which offers many helpful suggestions to the hostess as to correct salad service. New Plan by Makers of Vicks Cuts the High Cost of Colds

Saves Money, Time And Health By Better "Control-of-Colds"

Test of Plan Offered by Lubbock Druggists on Unlimited Guarantee of Satisfactory Results.

The high costs of colds are more than ever a problem this winter. In every family, therefore, it is news of peculiar interest that the makers of Vicks VapoRub have developed a Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. A Plan to reduce the number, the severity and the costs of colds.

A New Vick Product

The Plan is made possible by a new preparation — Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea in "preventing" colds, it is a companion to Vicks VapoRub, the modern external way of "treating" colds. The two aid and supplement each other. Together, they make possible further reduction of the burdensome family "Colds-Tax."

Trial Offer to VapoRub Users

Use of this Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in your home will mean fewer colds—less severe colds. It will mean cutting your high costs of cold troubles—a saving in money, loss of time and health. To say nothing of the discomforts of colds and the severe ills that often follow colds. Test the Plan for yourself—without risk. Get a bottle of the new Vicks Drops today. Use it with Vicks VapoRub as directed. Unless results are entirely satisfactory, your druggist will refund the price of the Nose Drops—and the test will have cost you nothing.

Here, briefly, is the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds."

1.—Before a Cold Starts

Use Vicks Nose Drops—a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to give you a cold—contact with others having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold—inhaling smoke, dust, gasses—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking—after a hard day, when you are over-tired.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passges—Natures' warning that you are actually "catching cold."

2.—After a Cold Starts

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub—now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day, use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours—any time, any place. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vick Cough Drops, actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children—and lowers body resistance to disease at a time when it is most needed. Don't "dose" colds except on your doctor's advice.—Adv.

Damages Asked In Suit Filed

Illegal Disposition Of Property Is Alleged In Petition Filed Against B. And P. L. Sherrod Tuesday

J. C. Eastman Tuesday filed suit in 99th district court against B. Sherrod and P. L. Sherrod for damages totaling $24,512.50. Eastman alleged his property was disposed of illegally to satisfy a debt and that his credit was impaired unfairly. Of the amount sought, $10,000 is asked as exemplary damages.

In his petition, Eastman says the Sherrods brought suit for recovery of a debt in county court, July 20, and a writ of attachment was issued for merchandise valued at $2,712.50, according to Eastman.

Alleging the property would depreciate until its value would be destroyed, if held till final determination of the suit, the Sherrods had the goods sold after a day's notice of sale and obtained an injunction preventing Eastman from entering his business quarters, the latter alleges. Because of the short notice of sale, not enough prospective buyers were present for the property to bring a reasonable price, according to Eastman.

Eastman asks $2,712.50 as the amount lost by being "forced out of business," $10,000 for impairment of credit and damage to feelings, and $1,800 for loss of profits on property disposed of at the sale.

Old Santa Leaves North Pole At Top O' World; Will Visit Lubbock, Friday, December 11 For Big Christmas Party

OLD SANTA CLAUS has started on his annual trip to America and it won't be long until his reindeer will be seen prancing through the streets of Lubbock.

A radiogram from the merry old gent Tuesday informed the Avalanche-Journal that Santa was on his way here and expects to arrive on Friday, December 11 for the big Christmas celebration and pageant. The advice told of the route the old gent and his party will take.

Leaving the North Pole at the Top O' the World they are traveling through Asia. Santa Claus has instructed Prince Of Love to remind us that Asia is the largest continent of the earth, being six thousand miles from the east border, over fifty-three hundred miles from north to south border, or approximately seventeen million square miles in area. North America being about eight million square miles it will be seen that Asia is more than twice as large as the continent on which we live. North America has a population of one hundred thirty-eight million people, while Asia has nine hundred and fifty million. Just think, Santa Claus is passing up all those people to come direct to Lubbock so that we can entertain him, be close to him and actually see him.

Is There a Santa Claus?

Some people who have never had the opportunity to see Santa Claus will argue about his actual existence. Those who have seen him and have really been close to him do not need any proof. To doubt that there is really a Santa Claus is to doubt love itself.

Many people believe only in the things they can see with their eyes or feel with their fingers. Such people are to be pitied for without faith one cannot know the full measure of true happiness. One never sees a pain but how sure everyone is that pain actually exists at times. It is the same with Santa Claus. He exists only when we let him live in our hearts.

Santa Spirit Endures

We do not have to wait until the Yuletide season to feel Santa Clause. He can exist in many ways many times throughout the whole year if we will give him life through good thoughts and kind deeds.

After all, there is no sweeter or richer self-content than that which is born within us when our hearts and minds are given unstintingly to our fellowmen. Often a good word, kindly deed or thoughful act for someone else does more good than food, money or material things can ever do, not only for the one favored but for the one who does the kindness. A pet dog, kitten or bird has no way of appreciating a gift of material substance, but we all know that in their dumbness they speak a word of thanks, louder than humans can speak, when we show them kindness and attention. Of course everyone who has pets of any kind wants to keep them looking nice, and that is why we like to dress our doggie in a fancy harness, the kitty in a big clean ribbon or provide a nice cage for the birdie, but it is the feeling of love we have for them which counts most after all and which the pets know about and actually live for.

Most people believe in Santa Claus because they believe in love and it is for these that Santa Claus exists as he is nothing more and nothing less than the personification of love, happiness hope, faith and charity.

Sweetest Love Is Given Away

What a sad world this would be if most people did not believe in love and in Santa Claus! But fortunately the very great majority of people live and thrive on the love they know and feel for others—and the sweetest love that can ever be known is the love we give away. True love asks for no receipt, no return and no reward—it is never loaned—never leased—never sold—it is always given away. And no one can ever know that Santa Claus actually, really, truly exists unless they give their love to their fellowmen and then to them Santa Claus is born to live forever.

It is this vast majority of good people that live Santa Claus, think Santa Claus, love Santa Claus and know Santa Claus who will join together in brotherly love and assemble in greater numbers than our city has ever before known to pay homage to the jolly good fellow when he arrives here, Dec. 11.

WOMEN: watch your BOWELS

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles.

It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

City of Detroit purchases 137 new Ford cars
Hundreds now in use prove low cost of operation

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time.

21 radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 78,434 miles to 143,723 miles with a grand total of 2,283,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2.284 cents a mile — less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile.

Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive proof of Ford economy.

In the paragraphs above, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford cars in all branches of Detroit police work averaged 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four hours a day, these Ford cars are in operation. Few branches of transportation demand such grueling service. The records show that low fuel and oil consumption is but one of the Ford's many economies. Ford materials, simplicity of design and accuracy in manufacturing provide unusual strength, stamina and freedom from replacements and repairs.

The individual car buyer as well as the purchasing department of a city or a business cannot afford to ignore the proved economy of the Ford car.

back, is excepted back for Tuesday's practice. He was out for the first time in a week last Saturday. The rest of the squad is in excellent condition.

Here at home the Sandies are a grim-faced crew, working and practicing with an eager and careful air. They are not taking anything for granted, these Sandie boys. They're bending themselves to the task in a manner quite gladdening to the coaches.

If spirit and pep, fine morale, and desire to win will beat the Westerners—then the Westerners are whipped before the game starts. At no time in the past has a Sandie team buckled down to business like it is one. At no time in the memory of the writer has he seen a Sandie team so full of the old "ginniggar" and zip. Shouting when they leave the club house, the Sandies run out on the field, start their unlimbering exercises, and snap into signal drill almost before Coach Blair Cherry can give his orders.

A Thought For Today

And best of all, the Sandies have faith in each other. There is not the slightest sign of dissension out at Butler Field. One Sandie, a veteran who is through this year, replied as follows to a question put to him at the high school Monday.

"What kind of a game am I going to play? Well, if I turn in as good a game as I know the rest of them are going to, I'll be playing on a winning team."

It is generally conceded the thing the Sandies need to beat Lubbock is fight in the nth degree. And this is just what the Sandies are striving to get under their hides—the kind of fight that sweeps aside dope and predictions, better football teams, and makes the underdog of the day rise to heights of glory.

Lubbock Game At Sandyville Important Go

Race For Bi-District And Sectional Honors To Start Next Week As Ranks Become Thin After Tomorrow's Tilts

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 24—The sixteen Class A football districts of the Texas Interscholistic League will stage a grand finale Thanksgiving Day—a finale whereby all regular district schedules will be closed but where possibilities loom for post-district games in order to determine respective championships.

Following the determination of district champions, the title holders will go into bi-district action—up the trail that will lead to the 1931 Texas Interscholastic League State Championship which was won last year by the Tyler High Lions.

A few district championships have been settled, central of Fort Worth is champion in District Five; Corsicana has a cinch tie for the District Nine crown, being the only undefeated team in that district; Tyler rules District Ten and will make a strong bid to retain the state championship; John Reagan is undefeated champion in District Thirteen, and Harlingen is champion in District Sixteen.

The headline game last week between Oak Cliff and Highland Park in District Six terminated in a 6 to 6 tie, leaving District Six still with out a champion.

One of the big games this week will be the Lubbock and Amarillo clash at Amarillo. A win for Amarillo will put District One in a three way tie between Lubbock, Pampa and Amarillo. Cisco and Abilene, both undefeated in District Three will play Thanksgiving. Other important championship games include Greenville at Marshall, Corsicana at Cleburne and Quanah at Childress.

Matadors Must Stop This Big Crew Tomorrow

Picadors Play Wayland Today

Morgan Takes Frosh To Plainview For Final Game Of Year With Kimbrough's Rabbits; Wayland Is Favored

Del Morgan and more than two teams of Texas Tech Picadors were to leave this morning for Plainview where they meet the Wayland college Jackrabbits this afternoon in the final game of the season for either team.

Under ordinary circumstances a junior college team would be doped to win over a college freshman team. The Jackrabbits have proven their strength as a junior college outfit several times this season and are favorites over the Picadors today. The latter, however, are still full of the memories of victory, still taste the sweetness of a tide turned in their favor, and they are confident, but not cocky, as they enter the Rabbit lair.

Coach Morgan intimated that he would start the same outfit which had little trouble in piling up a lead which resulted in a 38 to 0 victory for the Picadors over the Simmons University freshmen last Saturday. This would mean Martin and Larsen, ends; Curfman and Burton, tackles; Trice and Morris, guards, Fortner or Priddy, center; Clark, quarterback; Turner and Fuqua, halves and Dowell, fullback. Other men likely to see service are the Gilmore Bros. at ends; Pool, Stockton, McElroy, Crittenden, Roy Morris and Alabama Tuck in the backfield.

Texas Longhorns In Final Workout Before Big Battle

AUSTIN, Nov. 24. (AP)—The last regulation workout of the 1931 football season was held today by the University of Texas Steers who Thursday will play Texas A. and M. in the conference finale for both schools. The Texas squad will entrain at 3 p. m. tomorrow for College Station.

Today's workout was a repetition of yesterday's strenuous session, the squad being drilled at length in the fine points of blocking and tackling and in Aggie offensive and defensive tactics. Stress was laid on greater accuracy and better timing in the Longhorn overhead attack and on putting more drive in running plays.

For giving a woman a permanent wave in her home on Sunday, Betty Godfrey, a Nottingham hairdresser, was arrested and fined under England's new Hairdressers' Sunday Closing Act.

Kyle Field Is Being Dressed For Grid Classic Tomorrow With Steers From Texas U. Coming To Battle Farmers

Seventeen Special Trains To Bring Fans To Game

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 24. — Historic Kyle Field at College Station with its mammoth seating capacity of 33,760 is expected to be too small to accommodate the crowd here Thanksgiving when the University of Texas and the fighting Aggies of Texas A and M stage their thirty-eighth annual football classic.

It will be the first time in years that a football game here has been the occasion for a homecoming celebration. From the world's four corners, Texas A and M exes are coming and extensive preparations to make the event colorful and successful have been completed.

Governor Ross Sterling will open the game by tossing the game football from his box to Captains Moulden of Texas A and M and Baumgarten of the University of Texas.

The Texas A and M cadets corps will stand in military formation on the gridiron while "silver taps" are sounded at the conclusion of a memorial service to be held for the late Knute Rockne.

High Officials Present

President T. O. Walton of A and M and President H. Y. Benedict of the University of Texas will occupy boxes flanking that of Governor Sterling. More than seventeen special trains have been scheduled to convey people to this annual classic.

It will not be a game for the Southwest Conference championship. Texas Christian Frogs and Southern Methodist Mustangs will settle that little issue Saturday at Fort Worth. But it will be a game for third place in the conference and a game rich and glorious in tradition, a game where many of the boys will be wearing the football uniform of A and M and Texas for the last time in a conference game.

To Stage Rally Today

Preliminaries will start Wednesday when A and M cadets will stage one of the greatest pre-game rallies ever held on the A and M campus. The usual huge bonfire which is always lighted at this college the night prior to a game with Texas is of gigantic proportion.

Of the eight annual games played at Kyle Field only one resulted in a victory for the University of Texas. But it may be a second trip for the Longhorns Thanksgiving, for they are coming fast now after a slow conference start. They have their power plays ready to explode in all their fury against A and M, power plays that are expected to bring new football glory to Ernest Koy, Harrison Stafford, Wilson Elkins, Captain Baumgarten and other colorful Texas stars.

But playing against the Longhorns in their last conference game for A and M will be Captain Carl Moulden, Paul McFadden, Byrom Magrill, Jack Christian, "Bus" Moore, Dick Hornsby, Walter Davis, Luther Bell, Oran Dawson, Tom Hill, Oliver Gusman and Andrew Golasinski. These fighting men of Texas A and M will make their grand finale on Kyle Field. Some are nursing injuries from their last game, but injuries will not matter to the football warriors of A and M Thanksgiving afternoon.

It never matters where these two great football rivals stand in the conference marathon. Their supreme gridiron bid is always made in their annual Turkey Day combat.

Loyola At Chicago Discovers Football Is Not A Necessity

Pop Warner Hopes To Stage Comeback In Dartmouth Tilt

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24. (AP)—While Stanford's Indians headed for eastern battle grounds today to face powerful Dartmouth, hopes of their partisans were revived with the reminder that wily old Coach Glenn Warner has a reputation for winning intersectional games just when the outlook seems darkest.

The coast's most paradoxical gridiron creation — a team feared by every western opponent this season despite its most unimpressive record since 1923—the Warner-coached eleven will line up against Dartmouth in Boston November 28, with new found strength in the expected return of Phil Moffatt, star halfback.

Eighty-one-year-old John Wilson recently won for the second year the Stonehaven, Scotland, flower show cup for the competitor with the largest number of points in the working men's class.

Dropped As Experiment A Year Ago, Football Will Not Be Brought Back To Big School, And Prexy Tells Why

CHICAGO, Nov. 24. (AP) — Intercollegiate football, the robust king of college sports, today appeared dead forever at Loyola University.

Almost a year ago, the large Chicago school with an enrollment of almost 7,000 students dropped the sport as an experiment. Today, the Rev. Robert M. Kelley, president and instigator of the drastic move, said he was so pleased with results that he was certain it would never return.

"Naturally, there are a few students who still think Loyola made a mistake in discontinuing intercollegiate football," President Kelley said, "But the preponderant feeling is that we have made a wise move. Personally, I am so elated with the reaction and results that I am for its permanent abolishment here. Student registration has not fallen off. My administrative problems have been greatly eased. Students have been pleased with the program of interclass and intramural sports, and the faculty advises it has found the outcome more favorable than I had hoped.

"A definite check up on grades will not be possible until after the school year, but the board of regents recently advised that the general trend is upward as compared with those during the football era."

Football never brought big financial returns to Loyola. Hence, the university actually has saved money instead of losing it.

GRID PLAYER DIES

CRESTON, Iowa, Nov. 24. (AP) — Donald Stickels, star end on the Creston High school football team until he became ill about three weeks ago, died today.

Physicians said Donald died from a general infection possibly aggravated by bruises received in a football game.

Tech Gridders Pause Enroute To Abilene Go

Matadors Work Out For Last Time This Season On Home Field; Will Not Be In Top Physical Condition

Coaches Pete Cawthon and Dutchey Smith sent their Texas Tech Matadors through the last scheduled workout of the season yesterday on the home lot as Tech rounded out its practice by way of preparation for the annual Thanksgiving Day game with the Simmons University Cowboys in Abilene tomorrow.

The squad and coaches will leave at noon today by bus for Abilene. They will stop at Sweetwater this afternoon for a workout before continuing on into Taylor county.

Hungry for vengence and anxious to round out their season with a victory over one of the most ancient and honorable of enemies, the Matadors have hustled through the workouts this week with true football spirit, have listened to their coaches' advice that the Cowboys will be tougher than usual tomorrow, in spite of their 20 to 0 reversal last Saturday at the hands of the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets. The Bullfighters were forced to bow to a heavier, harder team last year on Tech Field and the Simmons contingent took home a victory. Red Waller's 80-yard sprint for Tech's only touchdown featured the game, so far as Tech's offense was concerned.

Both Teams Stronger

It is a better Tech team which meets Simmons this year, younger and more inexperienced than the 1930 club but heavier and harder. They are entering the game as underdogs, all dope pointing to a Simmons victory, but they will be in to put out all they have if their work on the practice field this week is any indication of their plans.

Simmons' Cowboys, whose offense is featured by the brilliant Carl Pee, leading scorer in the Texas Conference, also are stronger this season than last. It is a veteran team over at Abilene, undefeated and untied by Texas Conference member teams until Saturday, and it is a team which will be trying hard to strike back tomorrow.

Homecoming At Simmons

Thanksgiving Day has been designated as Homecoming Day for Simmons alumni and ex-students, the Tech-Cowboy game to feature the Homecoming program. One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to be on hand for the game.

Cawthon's men are in only fair physical condition for the game. The game with the University of New Mexico last Friday found them in ill shape and left them worse. They have recuperated considerably but are still not in the best of condition. Numerous scratches and bruises, black eyes and charley horses will impede the Matadors in their classic of Thanksgiving, their last game of the season unless local officials arrange for a charity contest.

Sportsmanship

UP at Amarillo Thursday, the Westerners of Lubbock high school engage the Amarillo Sandies in the high school football classic of the year. Thousands of people will be on hand for the game. Down at Abilene, the Texas Tech Matadors will be battling the Simmons University Cowboys for the college supremacy of this territory.

The Westerners of Lubbock high stand a chance to go far in the state schoolboy race. The Matadors could, by winning from Simmons, close a fairly successful season.

Whatever the outcome of both games, the Morning Avalanche hopes and believes that the local boys will defend themselves nobly and well. We hope that the "Sportsmanship, Then Victory" slogan of the Westerners will predominate the players and playing of both teams and that regardless of whether they win or lose, they will play the game fair and square.

The Morning Avalanche also hopes that Lubbock grid fans will take victory or defeat in a like mein. "For when the one great scorer comes to write against your name, he writes, not how you won or lost, but how you played the game."

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

"It's only 31 days, the shortest days in the year, till Christmas." In a practical way it is well to remember that the chief festival of the Christian world is only a little way down the road. Santa Claus' outline is almost visible over the chimneyed horizon. The sound of the tinkle of his sleigh-bells is nearly audible. It is a time for doing what there is to be done in preparation for the holiday. Shopping early is a good piece of business, early in the morning of each shopping day. It will be to the advantage of the buyer, to the pleasure of the seller and for the relief of the overworked store forces.

All the systematic work done in advance of the rush to avoid the confusion that sometimes makes the Christmas eve a horror and the Christmas day one in which there is no rest and delight because one is all in and tired out—will not be its best unless there is a flavor of the Christmas spirit through it all. In the rush and confusion, if there must be such, in the crowds that surge through the stores, in the jam and push of the street throngs, take the Christmas lesson to heart for use in the advance days—and be pleasant. Be patient with the clerks and the delivery men; be courteous to the folks you buy from; be pleasant to the jostlers who almost knock the parcels from your arms as they stumble, themselves package-laden, on the street; use the smile that helps everybody over every stressful time and some distressful times.

Indeed, there are opportunities now for more effective and beneficient use of the Christmas spirit in its fine unselfish expression than there will be after the day's climax is over. It will not be regarded by Santa Claus as in any way violative of his rules of "don't peep" to use "before" Christmas the same cheer, the same unselfishness, the same courtesy, the same thoughtfulness, the same spirit of "giving happiness" that you will use on Christmas Day.

There won't be another war until there's a new generation that never got bawled out for neglecting to salute a second looey.

The college boy who used to pay his way by selling subscriptions appears to have found something easier in inventing examination "boners" for the syndicates.

Learning isn't the hard part. The hard part is unlearning untruths.

Practical Health Problems

CHILD'S DESIRE FOR CANDY

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, And of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

THE conception that candy and sweets are a serious menace to child health is based upon years of belief by both physicians and parents.

For years it has been thought that the eating of candy was the cause of dental caries. More recent evidence indicates that proper feeding of vitamins A, C and D, and proper amounts of calcium and phosphorus in the diet, are far more important in relationship to dental caries than could be the eating of sugar and sweets.

Dr. A. A. Osman presented the subject before the Section on Odontology of the Royal Society of Medicine in Great Britain. He pointed out that the child which is growing rapidly requires more carbohydrate to provide for its energy and muscular output than does the adult. He pointed out that the harmful results of depriving the child of carbohydrates in the form of sugar and sweets might greatly outweigh any possible harm that might be caused to the teeth by including a proper quantity of sugar in the diet.

THE DESIRE of the average child for sweets may be simply the natural expression of the call by its cells due to fatigue or to its growing body for additional carbohydrates. The determination of how much sugar may be necessary for the child is, of course, a matter of dietetic computation. Parents must learn the caloric values of various foods and make certain that the child's intake of energy-providing material is sufficient to meet its needs.

It is, however, essential to choose the right kind of carbohydrate in feeding the child. It must be realized that cereals, potatoes and most vegetables provide considerable amounts of carbohydrates, and that sweets vary in their nature. Substances that are extremely sticky and hard to chew may be very bad for the teeth and the gums. Hard candies, such as the usual lollypop or all-day sucker, are in general preferable.

Grandi Popular Figure

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Just how serious were the threats of danger to which Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy was exposed during his visit in Washington probably never will be known to the general public. The state department unquestionably was in a fever of anxiety throughout the entire period of his stay, but whether this worry was on general principles or because of actually plotted violence has not been disclosed, nor is it likely to be.

That the plan to bring Premier Mussolini's emissary and his party to Washington by plane from New York harbor was with a view to lessening the possibilities of trouble on the way is tacitly admitted.

As a state department official remarked, in issuing the news of the arrangement for the aerial trip, "Reading between the lines this announcement may fairly be interpreted as of the highest importance."

THE AVIATION arrangement having been upset by unfavorable weather, precautions adopted for the visitor's protection were on a scale unprecedented in the history of previous entertainments even for royalties in the capital. What were described as military honors obviously had a deeper meaning in Signor Grandi's instance than mere show.

It, is true that the state department did have more, however, than the peril of an attack involving danger to the visitor's life with which to reckon.

A well-aimed egg, for example, would have been nearly as bad from a diplomatic point of view, as a bomb.

ANYWAY, the merest venture into the Italian guest's vicinity while here was an enterprise involving some little risk of rough handling by secret service guards unless undertaken with adequate credentials and with due deliberation to give time for various challenges and explanations.

Curiously, despite the fact that the Grandi visit obviously was regarded, and properly so, as attended by far greater prospect of untoward developments than the recent visit of Premier Pierre Laval of France, the Italian minister nevertheless met with a much more cordial popular reception than the French premier.

M. Laval, if he aroused no indications of enmity, on the other hand created no enthusiasm.

Signor Grandi, except by those who were presumably not actively hostile to him, seemed to be accepted as a friend with claims to a more than ordinarily warm welcome.

Doubtless, the contrast in the personalities of the two men partly accounted for the difference.

M. Laval was colorless.

Signor Grandi has "it."

M. LAVAL spoke virtually not a word of English. Signor Grandi is tolerably fluent. He never strayed far from an interpreter, and occasionally was stuck for a word, but could, in a pinch, have done fairly well alone. He is, in fact, not necessarily an abler, but a quicker-witted individual than the Frenchman.

ABOUT medium size—a trifle shorter than Secretary of State Stimson—rather thick set, with a fattish face peering out from behind his black beard, Signor Grandi is the gesticulatory type of Latin.

Aside from the man himself, either he or Premier Mussolini contrived somehow in advance to give an impression of better will toward the United States than M. Laval managed to convey.

M. Laval was here quite openly to drive as good a bargain as he could for France.

It may seem difficut to imagine in connection with a representative of the hard-boiled Mussolini, but Signor Grandi suggested some atmosphere if not of altruism at least of recognition that other countries as well as Italy have rights and a disposition to give due weight to them.

Notably his attitude toward Germany was sympathetic.

His views, in brief, appeared broader and less provisional than the French premier's.

The Laval visit was a matter of cold politeness, the Grandi visit friendly.

FADS IN AUTOS

Until a few years ago foreign visitors to the United States remarked upon the funeral aspect of American motor cars. It was a time when black was accepted as the conventional color, and to offend against it was to invite criticism for garishness and vulgar taste. When bright colors did sometimes appear on automobiles, they seemed to suggest moral turpitude of one kind or another on the part of the driver.

Suddenly the convention and prejudice were cast to the winds. Brilliantly colorful paint jobs became the outstanding feature of new models and the sensation of the automobile shows. As a revival of color in a two drab world, the innovation was welcome.

But already the pendulum swings back again. Motor cars in dashing yellow, pastel blues and conspicuous tans and greens still pursue the elusive horizon and course the boulevards, and they probably still predominate, but the blacks and dark blues are coming back. Each appearing line of new models has its standard jobs in shining black and rich dark blue. And the public welcomes the revival.

The motor car industry has a fickle public to deal with. What is demanded today is scorned tomorrow. After being declasse several years, the open model returned to popularity a year or two ago. Some time back the cry was for durability in motor cars. Today the public demands speed and flexibility. It is an uncertain business, and no one knows that better than the automobile dealers.

A cable relates that the once fabulously wealthy Rothschilds are broke. There's nothing, though, in the story that Mr. Rockefeller is diming himself into insolvency.

The happiest times are those placid periods during which the world produces no great men.

Republics really are ungrateful. There's no statue of the cook who invented pumpkin pie.

Possibly as near as we can expect to come to direct proof of evolution, in this hitch-hiking age, is the birth of a child in West Virginia with four thumbs.

History devotes few pages to men of a retiring disposition.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

ETHAN DODDS—RECORD PATENT HOLDER:

Ethan I. Dodds of Cent al Valley, N. Y. amassed 1 800 patents in 25 years, at the rate of 72 a year. He made his first invention as a 7-year old, when he rigged up a contraption of wheels and belts, to stir up apple butter which could be operated from his mother a rocking chair.

He could not read at the age of 21, was sent away from college as hopeless after one week of study, and started as a blacksmith's helper in the Westinghouse Works. He is rightly considered the pioneer in the line of invention relating to household work and railroad engineering. Many are the devices used by the modern housewife or railroad passenger which originated in Dodd's fertile brain.

THE TOWER OF DEATH:

The Tower of Death in Burkhara, was erected by T ghluk. Kahn of Turkestan, in the 14th century. It is a minaret decorated with azure-blue tiles and adjoins the Great Mosque of Bukara. Once every week on Friday, the head priest of the city ascends to the top of the minaret to issue his call to prayer to the faithful below. For many centuries the tower served as the spot from which criminals were precipitated to their death 180 feet below. Combining the suggestiveness of religion and death, it is a famous "landmark" of the city.

SNAKES HAVE NO EXTERNAL EARS:

According to Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, Curator of Reptiles at the New York Zoological Park, a snake has rudimentary ears under the skin, but it really hears with its tongue. The snake's long, pointed tongue, that is so intriguing in its easy, flashing movement, is so sensitive to taste that it is practically an organ of smell also, and it is sensitive enough to enable a snake to "tune in" on sound waves.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Rich old MRS. JUPITER is robbed and murdered during the engagement party she gives for her secretary, MARY HARKNESS. Mary's scrapegrace brother, EDDIE, was to have been admitted at the murder hour. No one knows this but Mary.

She tells her fiance, DIRK RUYTHER, who hunts Eddie. He arranges a rendezvous with the boy but oversleeps. BOWEN of the Star drives Mary there instead. Eddie is run down and killed as he crosses the street to meet Mary.

INSPECTOR KANE drops the case, believing Eddie the murderer. When Mary protests he tells her MR. JUPITER and Dirk believe the same. Bowen tells Mary there is a racetrack gambler called THE FLY to whom her brother owed money.

He gives Mary a coat he found in the Jupiter house the night of the murder. It is her brother's. The Jupiter butler recognizes it as having been worn by a "gatecrasher" he ejected night of murder. Dirk forbids Mary to go on with the investigation because his family objects to notoriety.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

XV

At the door Dirk turned back, hesitantly.

"Mother's expecting us for dinner. Can't we postpone talking about this until later?"

He couldn't bear to quarrel, either, his eyes said.

"Of course," Mary replied, and got her wraps and followed.

They were very quiet on the way over and it was not until Dirk had tooled the little car up the abrupt, winding drive and under the portico, and put on the brake, that he kissed her quickly and said "I'm sorry."

"I'm sorry, too," Mary had time to whisper before they went into the house.

It was an awful dinner. Every one was silent and depressed, except Cornelia and the girl, Ethel, who was inspired to unbelievable heights of kittenishness by the situation, of which she apparently had full knowledge. That much was evident in every twinkling glance she sent from Dirk to Cornelia to Mary, and back again.

Even "Mother Ruyther," as Cornelia persisted in calling her, soon looked as if she regretted her invitation and her thin, aristocratic nose began to look a bit pinched at the nostrils, as if she were holding in her feelings with an effort. As a matter of fact only consideration for Cornelia, to whom she wished to be kind, prevented her giving the blond chit a verbal spanking.

Dirk sad said he was sorry, but his spirits did not rise with the knowledge of their having "made up." Mary noticed worriedly. He was quiet and abstracted during dinner, and his conversation confined chiefly to biting the daring Ethel with a venom which passed right over her pretty yellow head.

Mary was suffering an attack of intense lonliness of spirit. Since she had rushed out of Mr. Jupiter's presence to hide her tears at his remarks about her brother it had been coming on. And when Dirk turned to go, for one terrifying instant she had felt utterly alone in the world. Dirk had turned back, just in time to bring the breath back into her lungs and set her heart to beating again. But that one instant had taught her a lesson. She had loved Dirk before but never like this. Whatever she must do to keep him, she would do—for if she lost him, nothing else mattered.

"Oh, my dear, I've so much to tell you," Cornelia burbled breathlessly to Mary during one of the silences that fell like a blight on the dinner-table. It was ostensibly an aside, but since a pin-fall could have been heard in the room, she might have been speaking into a microphone.

"The grandest man, my dear! Ethel met him, and she introduced him." The two girls exchanged enchanted glances. "He's a marquis or something, whatever it is they have in South America. Handsome, and so—so brutal! He has what they say Peggy Hopkins Joyce's fascination

School Session At O'Donnell Started

By Staff Correspondent

O'DONNELL, Nov. 24. — O'Donnell's schools opened their 1931-32 school year Monday, November 16, with an enrollment of about 450, but the public program which had been planned for Monday night was "rained out."

School opened with 13 teachers, eight in the grades and five in the high school. L. F. McAfee is the superintendent. All of the teachers were on hand before the opening of school.

Collection of taxes for the district is much better this year than last, W. A. Treadway, secretary and collector, said. "Our collections for the 1931 taxes are several times better than they were last November," he said. "We are getting a good deal of our 1930 taxes, too."

Better than 60 per cent of the 1930 taxes were paid into the school district and Mr. Treadway and members of the board believe that they will be nearly 100 per cent collected.

The board is planning only a short vacation Christmas. School will be closed only a few days.

"After the holidays the board is planning to have classes on Saturdays in order to make up some of the time," Mr. Treadway explained. "It is hoped that by this means we can make up some of the time we lost by starting school late."

Whether the school will have a vacation on Thanksgiving or not has not been determined, it was added. It is believed that the schools will be closed for that day.

s, only the other way 'round, of ourse—he looks at you as if you ere the only woman in the world!"

Ethel nodded confirmation. "You now it's a line, but you swallow —and my dear, you love it! Pos.- ively!" She sighed blissfully.

Cornelia's veiled eyes held dis- ike, Mary was sure. The strain of laying up to Ethel was wearing on her, and no wonder. Vivacity was ot Cornelia's manner and she did t badly. She abandoned it suddenly nd turned on her friend with one f those quick changes of feeling hich were characteristic of her.

"She's ga-ga about him. Simply one," she smiled wryly around the able, her eyes lingering on Dirk's. I can't say as much myself. After ll, he's stone broke and he was nce a dancing teacher, or some- hing, wasn't he? Well, imagine!"

"But he gave it up!" Ethel pouted. He said the strain of holding up runken debutantes was too hard on im. So now he just sits in night ubs and sulks."

She seemed to have run out of breath, and to be waiting for com- ment.

Mary was only half listening. She had a funny, far-off feeling as if she were not quite present, or were dreaming. She was sensitive to every movement, every expression of Dirk's —the rest was merely a backdrop for her own love drama.

Mrs Ruyther dutifully made con- versation. "You might have brought him along tonight. I should like to have met him," she remarked sur- prisingly.

"Oh, he really doesn't rate that," Cornelia laughed. "I think he's a gunman. There's something rather —sinister about him."

Heavens, thought Mary, he's pro- bably just some little gigolo of the speakeasies, some collegiate "sheik" with a flair for dramatizing him- self. Had she ever been as silly as these two girls now seemed? She was exactly Cornelia's age, but she felt much older—more like a settled matron, nowadays.

"He can't be broke if the night clubs take him in," Mr. Ruyther ob- served.

"Oh, well, not stony," Ethel re- buked Cornelia's description. She shrugged a sulky shoulder at her friend. "She only says that because she has bucketfuls herself. Be just like her to step in and take him, just because she can, and leave poor lit- tle me out in the cold."

Ethel's effevescence had its nadir also, Mary noted with amusement, in a sulky ill-humor which must make friendship with her a rackety business. Or was she merely flat- tering Cornelia cleverly? Mary did- n't know and really didn't care. Oh, let the time go by quickly so that she and Dirk could go.

"I don't want him," Cornelia sneered. She turned abruptly to Mary.

"Well, when are you going to have another murder at your house?"

Mary was completely taken aback. "My dear," Cornelia rattled on "don't apologize. I haven't had such a good time in years." She turned to Ethel with a resumption of her vivacious air but Mary felt the sting underlying her words.

"Searched, if you can believe it, by the best-looking policeman! No- thing ever happens at our house like that." She sighed. "We have to be content with marquises and such. Synthetic thrills. Just a hol- low life of pleasure, n'est ce pas?" She laughed, and rested her head against the back of the chair lazily, half-closing her eyes.

In the uncomfortable silence that followed, broken only by Ethel's gig- gle, Dirk spoke to Cornelia for the first and last time during the meal.

"Cut it, Con," he said.

Cornelia's veiled eyes glittered angrily for a second, but she made a quick recovery. She waved a neg- ligent hand in his direction, and spoke through a mouthful of ice, as if she had just remembered some- thing.

"Oh, Dirk, don't let me forget to give you your lighter. It's in my car," she said lightly and flicked malicious eyes in Mary's face.

Mary felt herself flush. Did Cor- nelia just think that up, or had Dirk really been seeing her? She would have liked to be a little girl again and fly at that slyly triumphant face and scratch it. Instead, she lifted her water-glass with steady fingers and prayed that her face did not betray the way she felt.

"Lighter?" Dirk was saying, in honest perplexity. "But I don't own a lighter!"

"Dirk, my dear!" Cornelia pro- tested, in a small shriek. "I gave it to you!"

Dirk was obviously performing a feat of recollection. "Oh, that one! It's been lost so long I'd forgotten I ever had it. Thanks! Thanks a lot!"

It was Cornelia's turn to flush now, and from the way the angry color beat in her cheeks Mary felt actual fear of her. She looked dan- gerous. And when a dangerously angry woman is copuled with sev- eral millions of dollars, almost any thing can happen—though Mary at the moment had no clear idea what, nor had Cornelia, perhaps.

After dinner there was no oppor- tunity for the lovers to be alone, for Dirk was suddenly inspired to a coltish sort of gayety with the bub- bling Ethel as playmate. They walk- ed imaginary chalk-lines with a basket of glaced nuts on their care- fully poised heads, while Mrs. Ruy- ther pleaded for her expensive rugs, they pummeled each other with pil- lows and juggled mints and wax fruits from the sideboard. Mrs. Ruyther looked faintly gray of coun- tenance, as if she thought her care- fully reared son was losing his mind. Never again, Mary guessed with amusement, would she give a dinner of this kind!

Cornelia played Chopin wistfully in the music-room. It finally be- came apparent that no one was com- ing in to lean romantically on the piano and she came out again, sulk- ily, and sat down with her dress high, smoking furiously. Turning the pages of a magazine busily, she watched the breathless antics of Dirk and Ethel out of the corner of her eye.

Mary simply sat. It was all a play to her, which did not amuse her much. Perhaps if she looked sufficiently bored, Dirk would take her home.

She had never liked her father- in-law -to-be so much as when he said, with a humorous quirk of the eyebrow which seemed to make them confidantes. "They tell me you're not a bad cribbage player?" And brought out the board.

She was tired and sleepy enough to drop before the girls went home. Cornelia won out simply by sitting on the davenport until Dirk fell upon it in sheer exhaustion, the madcap, Ethel and her grim-face hostess having retired to effect re- pairs on Ethel's shattered stockings. Mary played cribbage mechanically for what seemed hours, while Dirk and Cornelia smoked and held low- voiced commune on the davenport.

At least Cornelia rose.

"Drive you home, Con?" Dirk asked.

"No, thanks."

Well, he'd asked, and perhaps that was all she wanted. And a moonlight drive with the bright- eyed Ethel for companion would have been sour fruit anyway. No one mentioned the lighter, if it had ever existed.

Mary suffered Mrs. Ruyther's good night kiss with good grace. She thought there was a shade more enthusiasm in that icy salute than usual, but she couldn't be sure.

Hatless, under the dim porch light, her coat laid lightly about her shoulders, she looked like a nice, sleepy child and not at all like the weary, emotion-worn woman of the world she was feeling. But she couldn't know that. No wonder that her future mother-in-law's eyes rested on her with unwonted gen- tleness. It was hard to remember at the moment just what those "un- desirable" matters were that had steeled her heart against the girl until now.

Mary caught the glance and thought ironically, "Wouldn't it be funny if she began to like me now that Dirk and I have quarreled?" Her heart was heavy with premoni- tion. Dirk's aloofness all evening had utterly humbled her spirit. She was sure now that he had stopped loving her, that on the way home he was going to tell her their mar- riage would be a mistake. It was ridiculous, but how else could she explain his terribly changed man- ner? She climbed into the little coupe feeling like Marie Antoinette going to her doom.

But they did not quarrel—at least, not then. Dirk settled beside her with a comfortable sigh, adjusted the window, and gave her hand one hearty squeeze before setting the little engine to thundering.

"Sleepy?" he asked.

Mary murmured assent.

"Well, don't go to sleep yet, kid You and I have got a lot to talk about."

Mary's heart skipped a beat. Now what did that mean? They passed the Jupiter gates as if they had not been there and Mary saw that Dirk was guiding the car off the high- road onto the small road that led to the Point, which overlooked the moonlit sea.

Cotton Price Advance On Cotton Is Steady — Livestock Good Increase In Livestock Noted — Grain Wheat Reels But Stages A Rally

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24. (AP)—Today being notice day for December contracts the market was largely dominated by the prompt stoppage of the notices. Tenders for 23,800 bales were issued locally and for 13,300 bales in New York. A good demand for December developed from the start indicating prompt stoppage of the notices.

Liverpool was better than due and this and the December demand caused prices to advance from the start and prices showed gains of 10 to 13 points in the early trading. Later shorts covered freely and by noon prices had advanced to levels 15 to 18 points above the previous close. In the early afternoon the market was further stimulated by a bulge in wheat and a good trade demand based on the acreage reduction resolutions adopted in Jackson, Miss., yesterday.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 24. (AP) — Cotton was generally higher today.

January contracts sold up to 6.38 and closed at 6.37, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 24 to 28 points.

The opening was steady 5 to 9 points higher on covering and trade buying promoted by the relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports that notices representing only 13,300 bales had been issued against December contracts. Trading was comparatively quiet at the start, but became more active after the call and seemed to include some commission house buying. The failure of offerings to increase as prices worked upward, or of southern selling to make its appearance in any appreciable volume, seemed to stimulate covering movement, while there was talk of a firmer technical position following recent declines. December sold up to 6.38 and May to 6.75 in the late trading, and the close was within a point or two of the top.

Stocks Move Forward Briskly After An Early Irregularity In Session

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 24. (AP) — Better buying of cotton and wheat encouraged traders in securities today and after early irregularity stocks moved forward somewhat briskly.

The bond market was irregular. U. S. government issues were firm, but rails slumped to new lows.

Principal interest in the stock market centered around railroad securities. They followed a zig-zag course, with Pennsylvania and New Haven going to new lows under weight of concern over New Haven's next dividend action, now slated for Dec. 8. Because of its large investment in New Haven, Pennsylvania shared in the decline.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 24. (AP) — Staggering under stop loss selling which followed divulgence that United States government-financed wheat holdings aggregated 190,000,000 bushels, wheat prices reeled today, then rallied. Recovery was aided by the fact that export purchases of North American wheat today were large, 1,000,000 bushels, most of it however, wheat grown in Canada. Late renewal of speculative buying resulted also from predictions that private domestic crop estimates to be issued next week would prove decidedly bullish.

Wheat closed nervous, 1-2 to 1 1-8 higher than yesterday's finish, corn at 3-8 to 7-8 decline, oats a shade down to 1-4 up, and provisions unchanged to 7c higher.

New Jail

County Judge E. L. Pitts said last night.

The steel company was paid $6,000 in county warrants. Part of the $3,000 held back by the court is sought by two other contractors on the job, who allege they were damaged by the delay. H. H. Shell and son, claim $796 and Roche Newton and Company, the plumbers, seek approximately $480, said Judge Pitts. Shell was general contractor on the job. He was paid $16,000 in county warrants Tuesday as final payment. Roche Newton was paid $3,000 in county warrants, and cash totaling approximately $3,000 was paid to Dewitt Electric company, to Sherrod Bros. for kitchen equipment and to Otis Elevator company for elevators. These payments were made on final estimates.

No New Employe

The Southern Prison company, said Judge Pitts, did not accept responsibility for all delay in completing the building, but did not name any other firms.

Lack of bedding will keep the new building vacant for a day or two, said Sheriff Hardy. "I already have the keys," he said. "We will not employ an additional man to serve as jailor for a time. Of course, if we find one is needed, the sheriff's department will add another deputy for this purpose."

The jail was completed at a cost of approximately $125,000, of which $110,000 was in county warrants and $15,000 in cash from an old jail building fund. Previous estimates had set the figure at $127,000.

Raskob Assailed

his opposition to Raskob's selection. The Roosevelt-Smith relations, apparently none the best in a political sense for some time, appear further aggravated.

Connally issued his statement in response to a letter he received as a campaign contributor in 1928 from Mr. Raskob asking his views on a prohibition stand by the party.

He opposed repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment and supported the contention of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader that the 1932 campaign should be waged on economic issues.

To Disrupt Strength

"The efforts of those who have been honored by the party," said Connally, "and who are now pressing the demand for such a plank (repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment) are calculated to disrupt and divide the party's strength instead of promoting its success. Those who really desire a united party will not inject an issue that all men know will produce discord and bitterness in the party ranks.

"The chairman of the national committee can render his party greater service by seeking to preserve its unity and converting it into a militant force to redeem the country from the disasters that have befallen it under the Republican administration, than by promoting factional strife to becloud the otherwise brilliant prospects of our party's triumph."

Raskob issued his statement in reply to an editorial in the New York Times. His reference to Governor Roosevelt brought into more bold relief the apparent row in the Democratic party.

Two Sisters Undergo Operations For Appendicitis In Lubbock On Tuesday

Two sisters—June and Jessie Middleton—underwent operations for appendicitis at the Lubbock sanitarium Tuesday morning, after both of them became ill Monday.

June, 20, employed at the Bluebird shop here, became ill Monday afternoon and Jessie, employed at Tahoka, was declared suffering from appendicitis a few minutes after her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Middleton of O'Donnell, informed her of the illness of her sister.

Condition of June was reported to be serious, but Jessie's condition was much more favorable Tuesday night.

Enroute to Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Middleton stopped in Tahoka to tell Jessie of her sister's illness. She complained of not feeling well and her parents advised her to call a doctor. He diagnosed the case as appendicitis.

college women the percentage who marry is somewhat lower. It has been variously reported as 40 to 60 per cent.

"It is evident that the range of occupations upon which these college women have entered is very restricted," Dr. Anderson comments. "More than half have followed the beaten path and aligned themselves with the clerical occupations. What are the reasons for this? It is generally assumed that all walks of life are open to college graduates, but we must add that all are not acceptable. Jobs in manufacturing and mechanical industries and in domestic and personal service would not be considered by college graduates."

table and took turns firing questions at the board chairman.

Answers Calmly

Stone, cool and calm, sat in their midst with an arm over the back of his chair and much of the time a cigarette in his hand. He answered their questions in a quiet voice which could hardly be heard in some parts of the room.

Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa criticised the board for confining its efforts to removing the surplus in cotton and wheat, declaring the troublesome surpluses in corn, oats and livestock were much more susceptible to exportation.

Stone said it would have been impossible for the board to handle the surplus in all crops with the $500,000,000 provided by congress.

"I blame you for not coming to congress and asking for more money," Brookhart said.

Saves Country

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, contended the board had gone back into the stabilization of wheat in the winter after the crop had left the farmers' hand and then got out of the market again before the farmers were ready to sell in the spring.

Stone said the board, by returning to the market, had saved the country from a possible collapse of its credit structure, and that it had continued stabilization activities long enough to let the farmer adjust his acreage.

The board chairman told the committee he was holding back nothing, that there was nothing he would not tell.

Sales Are Told

Questioned by Chairman McNary, Stone said 47,500,000 bushels of wheat had been sold to foreign governments, based on the Chicago price at the time of the deal.

The average price for all of the board sales was estimated by the chairman at between 53 and 54 cents a bushel. It was purchased at 81 cents, on the average.

The board has $45,000,000 of committed funds remaining from its $500,000,000 revolving fund, Stone testified. It has $22,000,000 of funds committed but not used he added.

He estimated the board's losses on loans outside of wheat and cotton stabilization would not exceed two per cent. McNary attempted to get an estimate of the entire loss, but Stone said he could not give it then, but might later.

O'Donnell Now Looking Ahead

Business Conditions Reported As Good In Two-County Town With Brighter Prospects To Show Big Increase

(By Staff Correspondent)

O'DONNELL, Nov. 24.—Farmers in the O'Donnell territory have been "digging in" for winter by laying in a supply of home grown and preserved foods and also enough feed to take care of their livestock for the winter and a little bit more. Cotton crops are well gathered, too.

All of this has had its effect upon the business interests of this two-county town. The stores report a good business, better than for months, with week-end trade far in excess of expectations.

The gins have been running night and day, turning out an excess of cotton. Farmers now are in a position to hold a portion of their crop and sales have been only for enough to take care of expenses.

"Yes, business conditions are much better this fall than at any time in many months," J. L. Shoemaker, Jr., cashier of the First National bank, said in response to a question on conditions. "Our deposits show a nice, steady increase. Farmers and others are reducing loans.

"Store owners are buying larger stocks as the public begins its spending. There will be little need for helping people this year—that is compared to last year. Everybody here has been working and all have a little money."

The ginnings were estimated at around 7,500 bales for the season. Should weather conditions and price permit, farmers say, probably 5,000 more bales will be picked. If the cotton market jumps higher, there will be more than that figure.

"We have handled over 2,700 bales of cotton this season," Charles Hoffman, T. C. C. A. branch office manager, said. "Last year this office handled around 3,000 bales altogether. We should do better than that. At this time last year we had handled just about half what we have so far."

W. A. Tredway, city and school tax collector, reports fair tax collections. Those of the school are better than the city's collections, he added. The schools will get enough to carry on and that means something," he explained.

Hal Singleton, postmaster, said Uncle Sam's business was very good. More money was sent by cotton pickers "back home" than usually is sent out. Mr. Singleton's son, Hall, Jr., a hardware store owner, reported good business.

Grocers are buying eggs from farmers paying slightly more than produce houses and getting most of the business according to J. A. Cornett, produce man. No storage eggs are coming in, and there are enough raised here to take care of local demands. Cream shipments are good, the price having gone up and then holding steady.

W. E. Vermillion, druggist, said his business was steady. The transient business this fall was better than usual.

Most farmers have several hogs for butchering. Wheat is up and making good pasture. Farmers have surplus feeds; some are feeding cattle and the general agricultural tone is better than for years.

Members of Sir Henry Wood's orchestra adopted dress reform during the Queen's Hall "prom" concerts in London recently when their clothes included silk shirts, polo collars and dinner jackets.

First Telephoto From Vatican

Another modern miracle has been introduced within the walls of the Vatican City. For the above portrait of Pope Pius XI was transmitted by wire directly from the Vatican, over an apparatus installed by Edoard Belin, French inventor. This picture, the first sent from the papal city by telephoto, was received in Paris. The photograph was taken as the Pope inspected the intricate device. A radio broadcasting station also was installed recently within the Vatican.

How CARDUI Helps Women

"I WAS passing through a critical time in my life, and I suffered a great deal," says Mrs. Mat Howard, of Quilan, Texas. "I improved very much after I had taken Cardui for a while. Since then, I have given Cardui to my five daughters. As each one of them arrived at womanhood, I gave her Cardui for several months. I found they were less nervous and felt stronger. All of them have continued the use of Cardui in their homes. In my home we have all been better for having taken it." 898-1
