PATRONIZE LOCAL MERCHANTS

Great Throng Present At Lyntegar Meeting

One of the largest crowds ever to attend such a meeting here was present for the 13th annual membership get-together of Lyntegar Electric Cooperative, Inc., at the Tahoka gymnasium Tuesday afternoon.

The crowd, conservatively estimated at between 2,500 and 3,000 people, filled the gym to capacity and overflowed into the corridors and adjoining rooms. All ten counties served by the Co-op, were represented.

Mrs. Werner Klaus of Route 1, Slaton won the top door prize, a deep-freeze unit given by the Co-op. Thirty-three other valuable prizes were awarded as many members. Presentation of prizes was made by Joe Peterson.

Attorney Tom Garrard acted as master of ceremonies. Interesting addresses were given by State Senator Kilmer Corbin and Representative Waggone Carr, and Co-ordinator Sam Allen reported on progress of the Poka-Lambro rural telephone cooperative.

The invocation was by W. H. Moore, the welcoming address by Calloway Huffaker, guests were introduced by Garrard, and Secretary G. Q. Hensley made his report.

Church of Christ Meeting Starts

The annual summer Gospel meeting of Tahoka Church of Christ got underway Wednesday night. It will continue through Sunday, August 26.

T. J. Finley of Loveland, Colo., who conducted a meeting here last winter, is doing the preaching, and Ernest West, the local minister, is leading the song services.

Services are being held at 10:00 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. daily.

An unfortunate circumstance is the fact that a "medicine show" is loudly holding forth on the lots just across the street from the church. No one locally is to blame for the circumstance, but the situation is embarassing, to say the least, to the church and to the town.

Fair Is Postponed Until Fall Of '52

New High Gin Near Completion

Work of installing the new W. C. High gin plant is nearing completion, and Mr. High says he will have one of the best plants in this entire section.

A completely new plant is being installed, including 4 90-saw Murry gin stands, Mitchell extractors, and all other Murray equipment. A jug-type burr pit will be installed, the first one here. New electrical equipment is being installed in the conversion.

The buildings are also being rebuilt to accomodate the modern equipment, and the seed and cotton storage buildings remodeled.

Mr. High moved here last year from Thackerville, Okla., to make this his permanent home after having bought the gin, and has built a new home in northwest Tahoka. He made improvements in the plant last year, but decided to install a new gin for this season.

He is an experienced ginner, having been in the ginning business all his life. In fact, he is the third generation of ginners, his father and grandfather having been ginners likewise.

Deputy Victim Gun Discharge

Deputy Sheriff Otis Curry was the victim of an unfortunate accident late Sunday evening, when he received a pistol bullet wound in the right shoulder.

He and City Policeman Dwain Jones, accompanied by Deputy Chester Roan, Gus Bairrington, and Jack Brice, had gone to a field west of Tahoka to engage in practice, shooting with .22 calibre pistols.

Dwain was preparing to step from the car as it slowed down, but the driver made a short left turn, unexpected by Dwain, throwing him off balance. At the same instance, in some way, the .22 was accidentally discharged, and the bullet struck Otis in the shoulder.

Otis was rushed to Tahoka Hospital, where X-rays showed that no bones were hit and only a flesh wound. He was able to be down town Wedensday.

Dwain and Otis, naturally, both deeply regretted the accident but are thankful it was not a serious one.

Telephone Co-op. Work Progresses

Poka-Lambro Rural Telephone Co-op., which has headquarters in Tahoka and which will ultimately serve most of the lower South Plains rural areas, is now working up estimates on materials preparatory to calling for bids on the first unit of the huge project.

Final "OK" on the area coverage design, or overall plan, was recently given by REA authorities in Washington, according to Sam Allen, co-ordinator.

The schedule of construction calls for construction of the Southland exchange area during the last quarter of 1951, the Tahoka exchange area during the first quarter of 1952, Lamesa the second quarter and O'Donnell the third quarter of 1952.

These four exchange areas compose the eastern half of the Poka-Lambro area. Definite assurance has been given Mr. Allen by Washington authorities of REA that allocations will be available for the west half when the sign-up over there is sufficient to warrant construction.

Estimates of cost of immediate construction bring the bill to a total of $1,472,434.00, with $1,008,000.00 allocated for materials and the remainder for engineering and labor.

John B. Hurley is moving from Lamesa to Tahoka, having accepted a position with Poka-Lambro Rural Telephone cooperative as project superintendent recently.

Tahoka received .75 of an inch of moisture in last Friday's rain. Varying amounts were received in different portions of the county.

The rain was of some benefit to crops, but the ground was so dry from the long drouth and hot weather that the moisture was not sufficient benefit to increase production materially, as a whole.

Since establishment of the new Corporation Court on June 11, fines totaling $1,064.25 have been collected, The News is informed by City Policeman J. B. Florence.

Odds and Ends

(By E. I. The Elder)

At last, folks, we have gotten around to The Double Lake,—more properly the Twin Lakes, for there are two of them separate and distinct. They are both in the same general depression but it must be a quarter of a mile and perhaps nearly a half mile from the end of either to the nearest point on the other. We are speaking now of their flat alkali beds, which is a common feature of all the lakes about which we have written and of all the larger lakes, in fact, on the entire South Plains.

Like Tahoka Lake, Guthrie Lake, Mound Lake, and others, these two lakes are enclosed in a large ranch and are almost inaccessible to the general public. Few people ever see either of these lakes at close range. Travelers on the Tahoka-Brownfield highway eight to ten miles west of Tahoka can look across country to the north or northeast and get a fleeting view of a portion of the bed of the south one of these lakes, but to most of us it is just a fleeting view, and we give it but a fleeting thought. It is just "another lake" away over there, and we have little opportunity and take no trouble to see it at close range.

Nearly everyone of them also has a history or is associated with some historical event that enthralls us when we hear the story related or see it in print. All of them have a history that involves the buffalo and the Indian—the buffalo, the most imperious, the most kingly, and perhaps the most mysterious of all the animals native to North America; and the Indian, whose origin and whose presence on this continent is still a mystery and whose life and activities have been influencing our own history and civilization ever since the London Company planted that first English colony at Jamestown, Virginia. And the story of Captain John Smith, the Indian Chief Powhatan, and his daughter Pocahontas is yet one of the most romantic and thrilling stories in American history. Cooper's Indian tales and Longfellow's Hiawatha have clothed the the Indian with a degree of glamor but the warlike spirit of many of the tribes has written many a bloody and cruel chapter on the pages of American history, even down to the closing years of the nineteenth century.

* * * * *

The Double Lakes, Tahoka Lake, Mound Lake, and Cedar Lake had been the main camping grounds of the Indians in this area for many decades even before Uncle Sam spread his sway over Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and parts of other southwestern states. They had become Indian camping grounds because they were buffalo watering places. Of course there are other lakes on the South Plains that played a minor part in the history and the lore of the Indian and the buffalo, but Lynn county itself has more large lakes and more historic lakes, if we include Mound Lake, which lies partly in Lynn and partly in Terry county, than all the other lakes of the entire South Plains combined. And Double Lakes is one of the richest in historic lore.

"More history has been written about Double Lake than any other lake on the plains." That is what Frank told me some time ago when I began writing these sketches about the lakes of Lynn county.. When I say "Frank" I mean Frank P. Hill of The Lynn County News, who, twenty years ago, wrote and copyrighted a biography of the late Jack Alley of Tahoka, which was in fact more than a biography, it was a history of Lynn county and most of the South Plains area, which production was published serially in The Lynn County News and The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

* * * * *

Much of the "written history" to which Frank referred was contained in or derived from U. S. Army reports made by military leaders while Uncle Sam was undertaking to subdue or destroy marauding bands of renegade Comanche Indians who kept slipping away from the reservations in Indian Territory on which they had been settled and making raids down into Texas, stealing horses and other live stock and sometimes committing murder.

In that production which Frank wrote and published in the newspapers mentioned, but not in book form, he set forth graphically the slaughter of the countless thousands of buffaloes that visited the lakes in this region, the conflict with the Indians, the coming of the cow men and cattle kings, the establishments of the big ranches, including the Slaughter ranches and the T-Bar, and finally the invasion of the Plains by the man with the plow and the hoe.

We are going to draw on this historical production for one story which vitally concerned Double Lakes, as told to him by Jack Alley.

* * * * *

The last fight between cowboys and Indians on the South Plains took place at and near Double Lake in 1879.

Jack Alley was then working on the second ranch ever established on the Plains, the Slaughter Ranch lying in Crosby county. The first ranch ever established on the Plains was the Hank Smith ranch in and along Blanco Canyon in Crosby county in 1877, the ranch house and headquarters being situated about ten miles north of the site on which Crosbyton now stands. The Slaughter Ranch, about 20 miles square, lay immediately south of and adjoining the Hank Smith Ranch.

One night a band of 40 or 50 renegade Indians raided the Slaughter Ranch and stole 35 or 40 head of horses. The next day Bill Slaughter, one of the owners of the Ranch, Charles Hensley, another ranchman from Dickens county, and four or five cowboys followed the Indians and found them at Monument Lake, wherever that was—Mr. Alley could not definitely locate the place, but it was somewhere further west than Double Lake. The little group of ranchmen and cowboys decided to make an attack on the Indians—it was at night, I understand—but they soon found themselves surrounded by Indians. So they slipped out and hurried back to the Crosby county ranch for help.

* * * * *

A party of 13 ranchmen and cowboys, including Bill Slaughter and also Jack Alley this time, was soon organized and struck out and followed the well-known Indian trail to the Double Lakes. From the Double Lakes they went southwest to Cedar Lake, then turned and went northwest—the record doesn't state how far—to Monument Lake. But they found no Indians anywhere. So then they started for home, coming by way of Double Lakes, and there, to their surprise, they found the Indians camped about a mile out from the lake. The Indians fled south with their booty and the cowboys gave chase, each band firing upon the other as they went.

The flight of the Indians and the pursuit by the whites must have been a rather slow procedure, however, for the Indians were cumbered with their booty, their tired-out horses, and their squaws and papooses, and the warriors found it necessary to stop frequently behind sand-hills and possibly other obstructions until the squaws could catch up and get in the lead. This apparently made the cowboys and ranchmen cautious, for it is said that they never approached closer than a quarter of a mile toward the fleeing enemy. That was almost out of gun-shot, though it is said that many shots were fired. Not a white man was wounded, and only two or three Indians received wounds, none of which was fatal.

After having pursued the Indians for about fifteen miles, the cowboys decided to abandon the chase, but not until they had captured 11 of the straggling horses and enough plunder to load six pack horses. So that was the battle of Duble Lakes!

Returning from the chase by way of Double Lakes, the victorious cowboys stopped there and quenched their thirst and then proceeded homeward.

* * * * *

Dee Sanders, who worked on the T-Bar Ranch for many years, says that there are some Indian graves on a hill west of the lakes; and A. L. Dunagan, who lives a little more than a mile east of the north lake, says that he has picked up many arrowheads in his field. Once, a good many years ago, he found a metate, a kind of tray ground out of a stone, in which the Indians ground their corn into meal with another stone used as a pestle.

He loaned this metate to one of the high school boys in Tahoka to show to the other students, and one day one of the boys dropped the metate onto the concrete and broke it into a dozen pieces, an accident which Mr. Dunagan greatly deplores.

* * * * *

If that attempted march of a company of United States Negro soldiers across the South Plains back in the '70's came through Lynn county and into Terry county, as authentic records show, in pursuit of a band of Indians, it must have passed by or near Double Lakes. Having a Mexican for a guide, he either betrayed the soldiers or was mis-led by the Indians, and led the soldiers away from water instead of to it. Fourteen of them perished for lack of water after days of wandering over the waterless plains. Some of them, possibly most of them, perished in the vicinity of Double Lakes or Mound Lake, it is believed. It was a cavalry company and soldiers are said to have killed one of the horses and drank his blood. Terrible must have been the suffering of those Negroes. Uncle Sam should some day erect a monument to commemorate the sacrifice that they made for their country, it seems to us. They were serving to protect the white people of west Texas from the Indians, and it seems to us that the white people should have taken steps long years ago to show their gratitude.

* * * * *

While the Indians were being subdued, the cattle men of the central west were pushing further westward. Hundreds of the great ranches of Texas were being established. The first ranch established in Lynn county and lying wholly in the county was the T-Bar Ranch, started by Porter brothers from Parker county in 1884, purchased from them by Cass O. Edwards in 1885, and owned by him and members of his family until very recent years.

Mr. Edwards had come out to the Crosby county ranch of the Slaughters in 1879 with a herd of 2,500 to 3,000 head of cattle and for several years he ran them on that ranch. When the Porter brothers, Boyd and Frank, established their headquarters at Double Lakes in 1883, they stocked the little ranch with some 300 or 400 head of cattle. The ranch house which they built was a comparatively small structure. When Cass O. Edwards bought them out in 1885, he immediately began buying more land, and he

COLLEGE STATION, —An increase in the acreage of fall planted legumes is needed in Texas if farmers are to maintain high production per acre of cotton and other cash crops.

According to the agronomists of the Texas A. & M. College System and Soil Conservation Service, legumes, when properly fertilized and inoculated, have very beneficial effects upon the soils where they are grown. One of the most important effects is the influence legumes have on improving soil structure or condition. The agronomists point out that this refers to the way small particles are held together in the soil. In some soils the particles "run together" to such an extent that little or no water or air can get into them. Planting deep legumes such as sweet clover and alfalfa on such soils will materially improve this condition. The use of legumes like vetch, winter peas, annual yellow sweet clover, and crimson clover add materially to the organic matter and nitrogen content of soils, but do not necessarily open subsoils, say the agronomists.

Some soils have a poor plant-soil moisture relationship. That is, they have heavy subsoils at a shallow depth. These subsoils restrict the movement of air, water and plant roots which also limits the activity of life in the soil. Growing of deep rooted legumes or grasses will punch these heavy subsoils full of holes and cause better movement of air, water and plant roots through the soil.

Soil life, says the agronomists is made up of small animals and plants such as earth worms, bacteria and fungi. These organisms are a lot like plants for they too must have food, air and water to grow. Their food comes from legumes and other plant residue that is plowed under, as well as from the roots of these plants. Since air is a necessity, these small organisms are much more active at greater depths in soils that have been punched full of holes by deep rooted legumes. Growing deep rooted legumes such as sweet clover not only improves the soil home for the organisms, but also increases the water penetration as well as water holding capacity and aeration of the soil. All are needed to maintain and increase the productivity of cropland soils.

Legumes, especially when plowed under as a green manure crop, increase the organic matter in soil. This organic matter helps hold together the small soil particles and improves the soil structure by making it granular. Soils high in organic matter have better air circulation and air space and will absorb and hold water that is needed by the plants and soil life. Growing deep rooted legumes, point out the agronomists, puts the organic matter from decaying roots deep in the soil and thus improves soil conditions.

The agronomists urge farmers to make plans now for their fall legume plantings. Soil samples should be taken from the fields where the legumes are to be planted and sent to the Soils Laboratory at College Station for analysis. The analysis will supply information on what kind and the amount of fertilizers needed to make legume growing more successful in the various soil type areas of the state. The agronomists suggest that you see your local county agent or work unit conservation for information on the legumes best adapted to your section of the state and on taking and mailing soil samples.

Use Plenty Of Spray On Cotton

COLLEGE STATION, —The thorough coverage of cotton plants with chemical defoliant is essential for good defoliation, cautions F. E. Elliott, cotton work specialist for the Texas Extension Service.

"This means going to the field with plenty of water," Elliott said. "Under most conditions 25 gallons of water per acre will be necessary. In West Texas 30 gallons per acre are needed. Six to eight spray nozzles are required per row, depending on the size of the plants.

Elliott recommends using dust defoliants only when plants are wet with dew or when adequate dew is forecast. He cautions that the dust must remain in moisture on the leaf for at least two hours; four hours is preferred.

The cotton specialist suggests that farmers contact their county agents or local defoliant dealers about the amounts of defoliant to use and the proper procedure for applying.

Leaflet 145, "Cotton Defoliation Guide," may be obtained at county Extension offices.

This year the President requested nondefense expenditures nearly double those of 1948.

Family Farm Policy Review To Be Held

Do you have some suggestions about how our farm programs and policies can be improved in order to give better service to farmers in our country? Accompanying this newsletter you will find a schedule of meetings which will be held in this county so that you farmers will have an opportunity to voice your suggestions and criticisms about how to improve various farm programs.

These meetings will be held all over the United States and a report from each county will be made directly to the State Mobilization Committees who will in turn make a report directly to the Department of Agriculture.

The Department of Agriculture thinks the family is so vital to the economy prosperity, and military defense of the nation that it is reviewing all its programs and activities to make sure that they are serving the family farm well —and how to find out how they can serve it better.

You can be of assistance in this important undertaking and you are urged to be present at one of these meetings.

Cotton Insurance Claims Sent In

At this date, the Federal Crop Insurance Adjusters have made over 300 inspections of losses in this county. Of the 300 losses, 55 have been total losses; and claims for these losses have been transmitted to the Branch Office for payment. It is expected that these payments will be made to the insured in the near future.

Practically all the losses in this county have been caused by drought, wind, and sand. The Crop Insurance Corporation has four local adjusters here in this county, and these four have been able to keep up with the adjusting and release those having losses in ample time for them to plant over.

The claims that have been submitted thus far have averaged $751.72 per claim, and range from $54.03 to $3,979.67.

Applications For Stubble Practice Being Taken Now

The practice of leaving stalks or stubble of sorghums or millet on the land as protection against wind erosion is an approved practice in Lynn county for 1951. The specifications for this practice include: The stalks or sorghum, at least 10 inches high, must be left on the land until sufficient moisture is available to prepare the land for the following crop; but in any event, until January 1, 1952. The payment rate for this practice is 25 cents per acre.

If you intend to qualify for this stubble practice, secure a written prior approval from the local PMA Office by not later than October 1, 1951.

Additional Money Received FOR ACP Program

An additional allocation of money has been received from the State Office for Lynn county for the purpose of carrying out approved conservation practices for 1951. If you intend to terrace, deep plow your land, carry out reorganization of irrigation system practices, or any other approved practice, make your application for a prior approval in the PMA Office. The Soil Sonservation Service will furnish technical assistance for any of these practices, but it will still be necessary for you to make your application for a prior approval at the PMA Office before you start the practice.

Our farmer limit for 1951 has been set at $750.00 and will still apply.

DAVISES ATTEND OLD SETTLERS' REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Davis returned Monday from a visit with friends and relatives at Desdemona and Stephenville, Mrs. Davis visiting with a sister at Stephenville while Dave was over at Desdemona entertaining their friends in that community.

They were having an Old Settlers' Reunion at Desdemona and the chairman called on Dave to respond to the welcome address, which had been given by a former well-known school teacher of that old pioneer town. This teacher was somewhat younger than Dave but was a good friend of the Tahoka man and made a few wisecracks at Dave's expense. So Dave came back at him. He began to tell off on his old school teacher. Four old bachelors about Dave's age were in the audience and Dave told the crowd that the reason they had never married was that their said teacher would not permit the boys to pass notes to the girls and in that way broke up several courtships, as a result of which these old bachelors never had married. Both Davis and his bachelor friends all were possibly ten to 15 years older than the school teacher, who had always been very secretive as to his age, and so his remarks, we inferred brought roars of laughter.

Well, any way, Dave said he had a good time meeting old-time friends, old maids as well as old bachelors.

Now, we have recited all this just to show the people how some of our good citizens will act when they get away from home.

But, laying all jokes aside, Dave declared that when he got back home he could not miss a single one if his chickens. He ascribes that to the fact that before slipping off he asked all his neighbors not to let John Evans know that he was gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Henderson visited several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. "Shorty" McNeely, Santa Fe relief agent, in Eldorado, and enjoyed a bit of fishing at Fort McKavitt. "Shorty" is workinga at Hamlin this week.

MANY ATTEND O'DONNELL BROTHERHOOD MEETING

One of the most largely-attended Associational Brotherhood meetings in the history of the organization was held in the First Baptist Church in O'Donnell Tuesday night, and many thought that one of the best program was rendered. Present were 192 men and boys, 40 of them being from Tahoka.

Ralph Fults of Dallas, a layman, an ex-convict, and a former assicate of such outlaws as Clyde Barrow, Bonnie Parker, Hamilton, and others of that gang, was the principal speaker.

Through the persistent efforts of three men, he had been converted a number of years ago, was finally released from prison, faced about morally and religiously, and has since been zealous in Christian work. In the face of the fact that he had operated as a criminal in six states, had been convicted of crime in several of them, and had many years of imprisonment marked up against him on the dockets of the courts, he in some way which he did not explain, had gained his release. He attributed his release to the grace of God which had come upon him through prayer.

Of course he had much good advice to give boys and young people generally, and older people too, as for that matter, and the congregation listened as if spell-bound. He evidently had won the confidence and sincere sympathy of most of his hearers.

Preceding the main speaker, Rev. Matthew Doyle of Meadow made a brief talk outlining some of the fine accomplishments of Brotherhood groups in this, the Brownfield association.

In addition to splendid congregational singing, Bill Sweeney, educational director and choir leader at O'Donnell, rendered a solo most effectively.

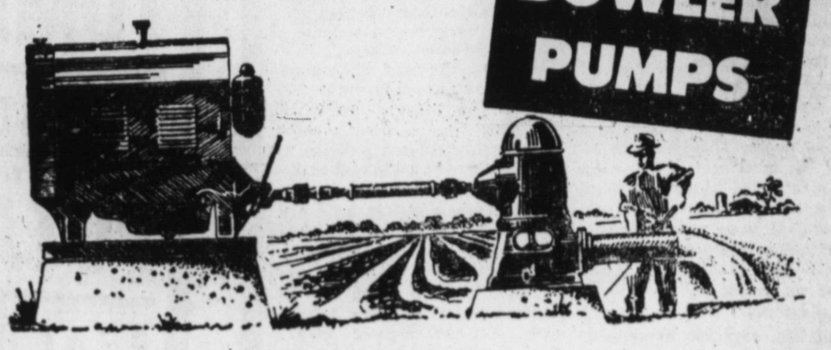

Associational president Bill Reddell of Thaoka, presided, and Mr. Smith of Brownfield had charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Dub Riddle and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fisher of Tahoka and Mrs. Herman Timmons of Levelland, returned Monday from Houston, where they were called to the bedside of Mrs. Martin Richardson, a sister of Mmes. Riddle and Timmons, who was seriously ill but who is now improving nicely.

70 At Methodist Men's Meeting

More than seventy men, 17 of them from Post, attended the monthly meeting of the Tahoka Methodist Men in Fellowship Hall of the local Methodist Church Monday night.

A. N. Gamble, Lubbock business man and district Methodist lay leader, was the principal speaker on the subject "Christian Stewardship," and his talk was greatly enjoyed by those present.

Special musical numbers on the program were unusually fine. Charles Verner sang a solo, accompanied by Winston Redwine. A male quartet, composed of Aaron DuBose, Sargent Munn, Marvin Munn, and Ira Joe Hart, accompanied by Horace Lindley at the piano, sang two numbers.

Post Methodist Men were returning a visit of the local club made to Post recently. Rev. Jim Sharp welcomed the visitors.

President C. O. Carmack presided. The program was presented by H. W. Pennington and Frank Hill.

Preceding the program a steak dinner, one of the best ever given the club, was served by A. C. Weaver and J. M. Uzzle.

Following the regular program, A. M. Bray presented a very interesting color movie, "Just Fishin," which most of the men stayed to see.

Next month's program will be arranged by Charles Reid and Eldon Gattis, and the meal will be prepared by Perry Walker and Charles Stewart.

Interest in the Methodist Men's club has been growing in recent months, and the program Monday night attracted one of the largest groups the club has ever had present.

OPS Man Will Be Here August 22

Continuing all-out efforts to assist business men of Tahoka and this immediate area, the Office of Price Stabilization will send Leonard C. Tyson, price specialist here next Wednesday morning, August 22. While in town, he will maintain offices at the Fire Station-Chamber of Commerce.

The government power program is being used to destroy collective bargaining, to break unions and to keep substandard wages and conditions of labor, says a labor union leader.

CRAFTS CLASS BEING HELD WEEKLY HERE

Mrs. Jeannine Smith Jones, Tahoka High home ec. teacher, has opened a free adult crafts class which is meeting at the High School each Thursday night at 7:00 o'clock.

Instruction is being given in textile design and in working with leather. Anyone interested is invited to join the group. There are no fees.

PENNINGTON OUT AGAIN

Garland Pennington returned to his office Wednesday after having been out since Sunday with an illness. He became ill Sunday night and was rushed to Tahoka Hospital. At first, it was feared he had suffered a heart attack, but a heart specialist was called and the Doctors declared his illness of less serious nature.

CONNOLLY EN ROUTE HOME

Sgt. Keith Connolly early this week wired his mother, Mrs. James Connolly of Tahoka, and his wife, who lives in Denver, that he was in Japan en route home from the Korean battle-front.

Sgt. Connolly, a veteran of World War II and a graduate of Denver University, was called back into service last year, and has been in Korea for several months.

In 1925 the average automobile lasted only 6.5 years and ran about 26,000 miles in its lifetime. By 1948 the average scrapped automobile had run 120,000 miles and was 13.6 years old. Thus, today's car lasts twice as long and runs four times as far as did the car of the middle twenties.

To escape the effects of socialization, five British mining and refining companies are moving their entire managements to Northern Rhodesa, in Africa. They expect to reduce their tax burden to the extent of about 24 percent of their earnings by the move.

Planting seed of the better adapted small grains are in short supply and producers should take care of all seeds which may be suitable for planting purposes.

On February 4 the British meat ration was decreased to 9c per head. For many families this will mean only one meat meal a week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Riddle and Harold Wayne, their son, and Mrs. J. C. Mathers, their daughter, her husband and their daughter, Carolyn Joyce, all of Itaiy, Texas, have been visiting relatives here.

Harold Wayne Riddle and Mrs. J. C. Mathers, grandchildren of Ollie Riddle and children of the L. E. Riddles, were each born on their grandfather's birthday, and hence their birthdays were observed jointly with his.

Thirty-three were present at this birhtday dinner celebration as follows: Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Riddle and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Riddle and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Christopher and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Riddle and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mathers and Carolyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Riddle. Carolyn is the only great-grandchild of Ollie Riddle.

Steel mills and foundries need scrap metal badly, especially heavy cast iron such as old tractors, mowers, etc. It will pay you to do one of three things, now, with every old farm machine:

1. Fix it up and use it.
2. Sell it to a neighbor who needs it worse than you do.
3. Sell it to a commercial scrap dealer who will break it up and classify the metal for shipment to a waiting mill or foundry.

Scrap collection has become a man-size job . . . with mill requirements totaling 75,000 tons each day to give the nation finished steel we all need. It can't be done without farm scrap.

A good sign to "go" by!

THIS shining emblem "GMC" is the sparkling sign of the fastest growing line of trucks in the land—with sales growth unmatched this year by any other manufacturer. The reasons for this are sound ones.

For in the chassis of a GMC you find "long-time, stay-with" stamina—truck-building that dares comparison with anything on the roads today.

Under the GMC hood you find real power—the kind of truck-built power it takes to keep goods moving year after year. Whether it's a nimble ½- to 2-tonner with horsepower unsurpassed in its class, or the fabulous two-cycle Diesel which is outselling, outperforming every other make—a GMC puts more "go" to the load!

And in the cabs—drivers who work in comfort and safety. They have the look of men who know their truck will get the job done quicker and better.

You'll feel the same way when you try a GMC yourself. Come in—compare the facts, the features, the way they haul. Listen to the savings talk.

Estacado Reunion Last Sunday Was Attended By Crowd

Former residents of Old Estacado, located on the Lubbock-Crosby county line, the former Quaker settlement and the first community of the South Plains, met at MacKenzie State Park 162 strong Sunday for their first reunion in many years.

At least four of the former Quakers who came to that area in the early 1880's, and scores of other oldtimers enjoyed the day recalling old times in that area and visiting old friends.

An organization was formed to sponsor annual reunions of the community and to seek the establishment of the abandoned school and grounds as a county park.

Harry Kelsey of Lubbock was named chairman, Mrs. Frank Hill of Tahoka secretary, and Bob Brown of Lorenzo as program chairman of the organization.

Among those attending the meeting from Tahoka were: Mr. and Mrs. John Witt, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill, Mr. and Mrs. "Shorty" McNeely and baby, Miss Jo Ann Henderson and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Jacobs and baby.

The U. S. farm plant — land, buildings, livestock and equipment is estimated to be worth about $91 billion.

Small Grain Leaders Fight Diseases

An educational program to fight diseases of small grains is being conducted this fall in Texas by agricultural leaders. The objective of the campaign is to reduce the annual losses which small grain producers suffer because of seed borne diseases and from planting seed that is mixed with weeds or other undesirable plants.

Proper seed treatment with a seed disinfectant can reduce the effects of seed borne diseases. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is taking an active part in the campaign and your local county agent can supply information on how best to do the seed treating job. In view of the great need for the continued high production of all grain crops and the shortage of manpower on the farms of the state, it is highly important that all known steps be taken that can mean larger yields with the least amount of labor. Planting cleaned and treated seed will help.

Circus Coming To City Sept. 7

Wallace & Clark Wild Animal Circus prides itself upon presenting an outstanding feature attraction each year to the American public. The elephant herd of Wallace & Clark Circus was contracted last winter by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios to work in a picture entitled "Soldiers Three," and at that time, the manager of the circus had the opportunity to meet Mr. George Emerson, head animal trainer of MGM studio During the course of conversation, Mr. Wallace mentioned that he was looking for a feature for 1951 and Mr. Emerson informed him that on one of his trips to the Upper Nile River in Africa for his studio he had seen an enormous blood-sweating hippopotamus, too large and too vicious to be used in picture work, and through Mr. Emerson's cooperation, contact was made with Mr. Henry Trefflich, wild animal dealer, who sent a special expedition to Africa to bring this giant beast to America. The circus immediately began construction of a 28-foot all-steel cage, even before the news of Goliath's capture had reached America, and on March 15th of this year, Goliath arrived in Los Angeles, California, and on circus day in Tahoka on September 7, Wallace & Clark cordially invites everyone to see this monstrous beast fed and watered, together with the other wild animals at 10 A. M., absolutely free. Auspice of Tahoka Fire Department.

Junior Baseball League Play-Off To Will Begin On Sunday, August 19

Wayside will play at Southland next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. opening the play-off in the Lynn County Junior Baseball League, Coach Jake Jacobs, who was chosen to act as commissioner of the league, has announced.

Southland ended the season in first place and Wayside in second. Wilson came in third, and Northside Tahoka fourth.

Wayside lost to Northside here Sunday afternoon, but Southland jumped on Wilson in both ends of a double-header at Wilson to take over the first place slot.

Last Sunday, Wayside had its ears pinned back by fourth-place Northside in a high scoring 17 to 14 game. North pounded three Wayside pitchers, James Foster, "Punk" White, and Lynn Halamicek, for 23 hits and the 17 runs. The loss went to White (3-4). Ronny Gurley (2-0) went all the way in the 9-inning game, allowing 16 hits and 14 runs.

Wayside committed five errors to North's four.

Trailing 12 to 2 in the fourth, North came fighting back to tie the count at 12-all, and went on to win easily. The game was highlighted by Clayton's Carter's second home run in the second inning with one on base. Steve Slover hit his first homer for Wayside in the third with two mates on base.

Southland Wins Two

Southland's "up and down" boys took both ends of the double header at Wilson Sunday over the slowly Wilson nine. The last was Wilson's fourth straight loss.

Southland won the first 9 to 1, with pitcher Amson going all the way to win his first victory. Breiger (4-4) started for Wilson but was relieved by Crooks.

They won the second game 6 to 0 with Lefty Tremble going all the way to become the first hurler in the Junior League to earn a shut-out victory over any team. Tremble has a record of four wins against only one loss Thomas Mason (1-) went all the way for Wilson.

Final Standings

The games Sunday ended the regular season of play, with the final standings as follows:

	W	L	Pct.
Southland	7	4	.637
Wayside	6	5	.546
Wilson	5	6	.455
Northside	4	7	.364

Southland had its ups and downs all year, but managed to have what it took when the chips were down. Mr. Norman is the manager.

Wayside, managed by James Foster and Lynn Halamicek, showed fine hitting power and good pitching all the season.

Wilson, with Thomas Mason as manager, made a good start in the league, but fell off at the last when they needed victories the most.

Tahoka Northside made a poor start but finished a good fourth, winning three out of the last four games. Glenn Wells was the manager.

Play Next Sunday

In the play-off game at Southland next Sunday, Lefty Tremble will be the likely starter for the league leaders, while "Punk" White is slated to take the mound for the hustling Wayside crew.

Out of the four times these two teams have met this season, Wayside has won three and Southland one. Fans are welcome to attend the game starting at 2:30 p. m.

Starting lineups follow:

Wayside: Tekell, c.; Hamalicek, first; John Foster, second; James Foster, third; Brookshire, ss; J. Slover, lf.; S. Slover, cf.; Charles Shultz, rf.; and White, pitcher.

Southland: Leak, c.; D. Basinger, first; Norman, second; T. Gentry, third; R. Gentry, ss.; Anderson, lf.; Debbs, cf.; Amson, rf.; and Tremble, pitcher.

kept up that policy until the ranch consisted of some 110 sections. An addition to the ranch house was soon constructed also. For fifty years and more that ranch house has been one of the best known on the South Plains. It has been kept in excellent repair and with its eight attractive rooms it is today one of the most commodious and elegant ranch houses on the plains.

While much of the land has been sold off in recent years, the T-Bar ranch yet contains many section of land, now operated in part by Pritchard brothers, W. B. Pritchard who lives in the elegant home and runs the ranch, and Ed Pritchard of Dalhart who looks after property interests in that area.

* * * * *

Some weeks ago I drove out to the home of A. L. Dunagan, who lives in that vicinity, picked him up, and went out to see Double Lakes for the first time in many years.

But my brakes had been a little bad for several days, and on that morning on my way out to Dunagan's, I discovered that they refused to work at all. But since we were little more than a mile from the lake I decided to go on and manage to control the thing in some way. But the further I went the worse it got. In fact any effort to stop the thing seemed only to speed it up. Running down hill toward the lake was out—for I knew that the stubborn thing would dive right off into that lake if it got half a chance. So I had to stay far out from the lake and dodge all the mesquite trees I possibly could dodge. So, all I did on that visit was to stop the car headed up-hill, walk over to the lake's edge, and take a couple of pictures. I got Dunogan's mug and heavy suite of hair in one of the pictures, and you have no idea how much that adds to the scenery. Everybody that I show that picture to, begins looking at Dunagan and doesn't see the lake at all.

* * * * *

So, the other day, I invited Dunagan to go with me again and he went. It almost broke his heart, however, for he was hoeing that morning and he surely did hate to quit.

Well, this time we drove directly to the ranch home, at the north end of the lake, and there we found Mr. Pritchard stretched out on his bed nursing a broken foot. He had suffered the misfortune several weeks before when his horse fell with him.

We found him to be a most elegant and accommodating gentleman. He gave us the run of the place, gladly answered all of our questions, instructed us how to get down to the south lake area, and told me to take just as many pictures as I pleased. So, for one picture I snapped his elegant home, and for another I snapped the premises. Then I left Dunagan with him and just took a stroll all around over and about the headquarters, and so I Have Gotten Around To It at last, and here I am, ready to give you a little pen picture of the Double Lakes.

But I find that I have already used up all the space allotted for my column; so, if you will come with me back out to the Lakes next week I will try to show you some of the beauties of them—and you will not have to walk a step, although I have walked miles to get the pictures. It was a tough job but I would not have missed it for money, as bad as I need the lucre.

Will see you next week, folks, if my light holds out to burn.

MAKE GOOD CATCH AT LAKE BUCHANAN

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Webb spent Friday and Saturday fishing at Buchanan Lake, down in Central Texas on the Colorado River.

Clyde reports they caught two catfish weighing 11 and 9 pounds, several smaller and a lot of other fish. They had plenty of fish to eat and to bring home for future feasts.

Of the 722 new ensigns recently graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy, 263 (or 36.4 per cent) were former enlisted men in the Armed Forces.

Weathers . . .

Born at Celeste in Hunt county on February 19, 1895, Raymond was 56 years, 5 months, and 27 days old at the time of his death. He came as a ten-year-old lad with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Weathers, from Hunt county to Lynn county in 1905.

As a boy he attended and graduated from the Tahoka high school and held minor business positions about town until he finally went to work in The First National Bank of Tahoka. He remained with that institution for about twenty years or more, resigning his position with the bank when he became a candidate for county tax assessor-collector in 1940. He was elected to that office and served for three consecutive terms.

At the end of his third term, he declined to run again and went into the grocery business here, with which business he was connected up to the time of his death.

Following his retirement from office, he did hold a position for a time with the First National Bank of Levelland, but finally gave that up on account of failing health.

Mr. Weathers was married to Miss Pauline Ramsey in the home of the bride's mother here on April 12, 1916. This has been their home ever since, and here they reared a family of three fine children.

Survivors include the widow, one son, David Weathers, and two daughters, Mrs. Nan Evans of Tahoka and Mrs. Mary Jane Sewell of Lubbock; one brother, Louie Weathers of Tahoka; and two sisters, Mrs. Nanna Burk, who lives in Oregon, and Mrs. Henry Perkins, who lives in Celeste, Hunt county. Also five grand-children survive.

Raymond Weathers united with the Baptist Church here many years ago and retained his membership in that church throughout his life.

He was a genial, efficient, capable, fun-loving gentleman, and one of the most popular citizens, business men, and county officials this county and city have ever claimed as their own. Although he has been prevented for the past year or two from participating very actively in business and civic activities on account of ill health, yet he will be greatly missed and kindly remembered by the people of Tahoka and of Lynn county for a long, long time.

Lyntegar has 3,300 miles of electric and power line in operation, and serves 6,501 connected customers. The Co-op. system has a value of $3,258,190.90, most of which was borrowed from the Government through REA. Loans totaling $3,079,000.00 have been made by the Government.

The local electric co-op. has not only paid every loan installment in full, with interest, but also made pre-payments on loans totaling $200,496.27 and other assets include $159,421.02 in cash and $118,224.00 in Government Bonds. Assets total $3,846,098.47.

Mr. Heck said in his statement the co-op. has never yet found it necessary to raise rates, in spite of the fact that prices of labor and materials have doubled. He expressed the hope that it would never become necessary to raise rates but, instead, that rates may be reduced when prices return to normalcy.

BEN MOORE ATTENDS ROUNDUP IN NEW MEXICO

Ben Moore of O'Donnell was up at Bent, Mescalero, and Lincoln, New Mexico, several days this week, attending the big Pioneer Roundup one day, and he dropped The News a note about it. Here it is :,

"The Pioneer Roundup at Lincoln yesterday was rather colorful. The young gal announcer did very well all day—except that she bawled out: 'Present is the only survivor of "General" Geronimo, a son.' Of course he did not go to the platform—I don't blame him.—I am about to freeze up here. These here Injuns get more rain, so grass is fine. —Ben.

Postmaster and Mrs. W. E. (Happy) Smith and daughters, Pat and Sue, and Mrs. Smith's father, J. E. Ketner, returned Tuesday night from a vacation trip to Santa Fe, Taos, and the Chama River country of New Mexico, and the Conejos River country of Colorado. The Hugh Gray family of Belen, N. M., accompanied them. Happy reports that his trout fishing luck was none too good.

Mr.and Mrs. D. V. Smith returned home Thursday evening after a visit with Mrs. Smith's brother at Cleburne and with Mr. Smith's relatives at Clarksville. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Taylor White, a former resident of Tahoka, who now lives at Honey Grove.

Mrs. Elmer Sproles, a medical patient in Tahoka Hospital the past several days, is reported to be improving.

Cook New Mayor City of Wilson

H. G. Cook was elected mayor and F. C. Smith a new alderman in a special City of Wilson election held recently because of the resignation of Mayor Pat Campbell.

Mr. Campbell's resignation became necessary because of the fact that he is the town's postmaster and the Postoffice department looks with disfavor on its men holding any other public office.

Cook, already a member of the Council, was replaced by Mr. Smith. Other members of the Council are: Clarence Church, Ira Clary, Pat Swann, and John Covey.
