"Bad John" Wright, Picturesque Cumberland Mountains Character, Succumbs To Illness

POUNDS, Virginia, Jan. 30 (AP)—John W. Wright, the "Devil Judd Tolliver" of the John Fox, Jr., "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and picturesque had man of the Cumberland mountains, died at his mountain cabin near here today. During his eighty-eight years of life "Bad John" is reputed to have killed at least 25.

"Bad John" had been in ill health for a number of months. Courageous, of gigantic stature, and acquainted with his native Cumberland as well as any man of his day, the noted mountaineer as an officer of the law gained a wide reputation for "getting his man." He won his reputation in a day and a section when this depended to a large extent on a quick eye and an equally alert trigger finger. "Bad John" had both.

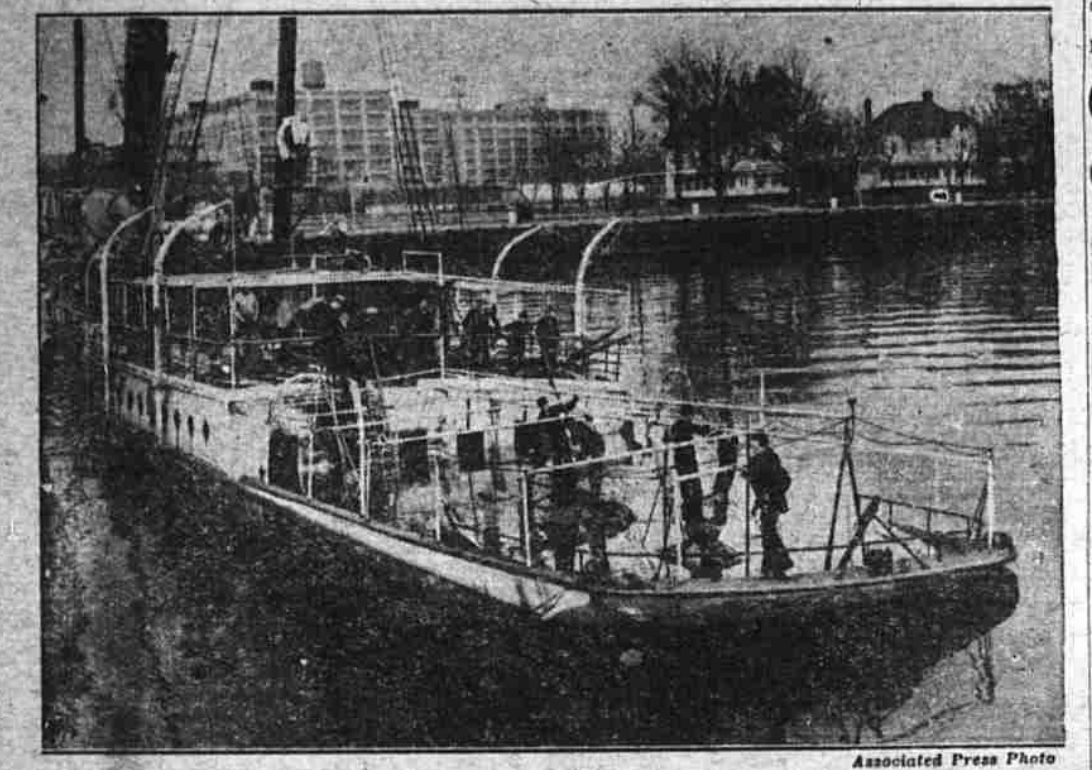

While he had been in ill health some time, he apparently made a complete recovery from his sickness last fall and his death today came as a surprise to many of his friends.

John W. Wright, better known to mountain outlaws as "Bad John" Wright, lived his active life in a day when only a tough man could survive if he went hunting for his fellow men. And "Bad John" was tough in those days.

As a deputy sheriff he is reputed to have killed many of his subjects.

Howard County Will Continue To Keep Credit Sheet Cleared From Obligation Regardless of Bill

Howard county will continue to adhere to the "pay as you go" policy, regardless of the measure passed by the Texas legislature, and enacted into law Thursday when it was signed by Governor Ross S. Decision Says Railroads Not To Build Line

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 30 (AP)—The authority of the interstate commerce commission to require a railroad company to build lines against its wishes was denied in a federal court decision on file here today.

The court upheld the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation company, which sued to annul the order of the commission requiring it to build a 185-mile cross-state line from Crane to Crescent, Oregon.

The decision held that the commission may not require railroads to construct new lines in territory they do not profess to serve and that in the present case the O. W. R. and N. did not profess to serve the territory through which the proposed road would run.

Attorneys connected with the case said they expected it would be carried to the United States supreme court.

Government To Oppose Ruling German Courts

Repudiation of Sale Texas Cotton Is Involved

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, said today the state department had agreed to protest to the German government a decision in the German courts repudiating a sale of $2,000,000 worth of cotton purchased for future delivery from Texas growers.

The Texas senator made this announcement after a conference with assistant Secretary Castle.

As explained by Connally the cotton was purchased in 1926 through the New York stock exchange for a railroad company to build lines against its wishes. He said the decision of the German courts supporting the repudiation of this transaction by a number of German spinners was based upon the grounds that it constituted a gambling operation.

He asserted, however, the courts had ruled the transaction would not have been gambling had it been made through the German exchange. The Texas said he believed the course to be followed would be for American-Ambassador Sackett in Berlin lay the protest before German authorities, with the possibility that it might be settled by some neutral cotton authority.

Lee Birthday Now A Texas Holiday

AUSTIN, Jan. 30 (AP)—Texas today was added to the list of southern states observing January 19, the birthday of Robert E. Lee, as a legal holiday.

Governor Ross S. Sterling, son of a confederate veteran, signed a bill passed by the legislature for this purpose.

Mrs. J. C. Burdell, president of the Bonnie Blue Flag Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at Dallas, who had considerable influence in the passage of the bill and Mrs. Murrell Buckner of Dallas, member of a committee raising $75,000 to erect an equestrian statue of Robert E. Lee at Dallas, witnessed the signing of the bill. The pen with which it was signed will be placed in the Confederate Museum at Richmond, Va.

The bill was introduced by Representative Charles McCombs of Dallas. Senator Margie Neal of Carthage offered a like bill in the senate.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, Jan. 30 (AP)—Will Rogers opened his Red Cross charity matinee show here this afternoon before a house that exceeded $10,000. This is the record ticket sale for his Texas tour so far.

House Passes Jury Measure

AUSTIN, Jan. 30 (AP)—The House today passed a bill to permit waiver of the right of the trial by jury in felony cases. Although opposition was stubborn, the bill finally passed, 112 to 9, after several amendments had been voted down.

The bill was steered through by Graves of Georgetown. Laird of Lufkin charged it was the opening wedge toward abolishment of the right of trial by jury. Representative Greathouse also opposed it, claiming the rights of defendants were not adequately protected.

Graves said the bill would save the state thousands of dollars a year in jury fees. Under the present laws, the judge cannot accept a plea of guilty in felony cases and must impanel a jury to hear the case.

Houston Mills Reopen Monday

HOUSTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Twelve hundred men, out of work for months, will be reemployed Monday when three pine mills of the Kirby Lumber company resume operations in the Silsbee, Texas, area, John Henry Kirby, head of the company, said today.

The mills will operate six days a week, and on an eight hour basis. The three, along with five other pine mills and the company's hard wood mills, have been closed for months, some since last July.

"We're governed, of course, by demand," Mr. Kirby said, "but we hope to have all the pine mills running again within six months."

America's Oil Supply Good For 500 Years Senate Body Is Told

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—The Senate commerce committee was told today America had an oil supply sufficient for 500 years on the basis of present consumption.

Ralph Arnold, engineer, in endorsing legislation to curb foreign imports, testified domestic independent producers face an emergency because of foreign oil importations and warned that quick action to put up a protective wall was necessary.

Arnold approved the measure of Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, to restrict syndicate importations to 15,000,000 barrels annually and to prohibit all refined products.

The witness, who has spent years in geological and mining work, said the present known oil assets of this nation were 714,000,000 barrels. This represented, he said, about 98 per cent of the original assets.

About 10 per cent of the oil now used in this country is imported, Arnold asserted.

Referring to Venezuela as the greatest oil field supplying American importers, he said 70 per cent of the fields in that country were owned by the Royal Dutch Shell Company. He added that American oil producers had passed up an opportunity to get these rich fields.

Resolution Is Passed Asking Tariff On Oil

Importation of Crude Oil Is Attacked In House

AUSTIN, Jan. 30 (AP)—A resolution asking congress immediately to place an adequate tariff or embargo against the importation of oil was adopted by the House today by a vote of 85 to 32.

Representative McDougald of Beaumont opposed the resolution on the ground that erecting a tariff wall placing an embargo would cut off American export markets. Hatchitt of Wichita Falls also opposed the resolution saying that increases in the price of gasoline would raise the price of crude oil and materially affect the automobile user.

Housley of Albany author of the resolution argued the American export market would not be cut off since most of the American exports went to Canada. He declared the small producers in Texas were being throttled and the American market flooded with foreign crude and refined products coming in tax free.

Wentz Planning To Remain With Highway Solons

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 30 (AP)—Declaring that "to abandon my task now would not be possible without a loss of self respect," Lew Wentz, republican, former chairman of the Oklahoma highway commission said today he would remain as a member of the state highway commission.

Wentz said that while he considered the executive order issued by Gov. W. H. Murray removing him from his chairmanship of the commission and directing that Sam R. Hawks, Clinton, head the board, was "a vain document," he believed the action of the commission in electing Hawks formally was effective legally.

Wentz said he was issued a commission as chairman for a six year period and his name was confirmed by the senate. The contract, he said, should have been carried out.

Gov. Murray immediately issued a statement after being advised Wentz had prepared one.

Wentz, he said, was going to find out "that I am governor of this state."

"He is going to discover for once in his life that $7,000,000 will not control the state government."

"If the activities don't cease," he continued, he will urge the other two members of the highway commission to discharge the employees, "and this is notice now that the employees of the commission throughout the state will cease trying to slander the governor of the state."

Wentz, he said, had "assumed he is a law unto himself and his acts could not be modified either by the policies of the governor, the vote of the people on bonds in a particular county, or the legislature."

He said Wentz had never replied to a statement asking about records in the federal equipment account which Wentz "has assumed to settle."

He challenged Wentz "to show

Extra Session Is Threatened After Meeting

Six Point Plan Outlined By Democrats At Conference

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Notice was served today by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, after a party conference, the Senate Democrats would insist upon their relief program to the limit of forcing an extra session of the new congress. The Democrats outlined a six point relief program for the party, said it represented "the minimum of emergency measures which in the opinion of their advocates are required by existing conditions in order to avoid the necessity for an extra session of the congress."

Robinson issued a statement setting forth the Democratic program. He gave formal notice that unless the $25,000,000 relief appropriation or a satisfactory modification of it was passed the interior department appropriation measure of which it is now a part will fail.

After detailing the program, Senator Robinson said:

"This statement is made in order that it may be well understood that the provisions referred to, or acceptable substitutes therefor, represent the minimum of emergency measures which in the opinion of their advocates are required by existing conditions in order to avoid the necessity for an extra session of the congress."

"It is not intended to prevent the presentation of or insistence upon other measures."

The program follows:

- $25,000,000 for relief.
- $15,000,000 for flood loans.
- $3,000,000 for medical supplies.
- Twenty million bushels of farm board wheat for the hungry; $5,000,000 for organization of relief corporations; and reappropriation of $2,500,000 for flood relief in southern states.

Council of War For Democrats

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Democratic leaders were mustered into a council of war today in their campaign to appropriate government funds for relief of suffering in the drought area.

The house also squared away for a finish fight on the proposal, already approved by the senate, that $25,000,000 be turned over to the Red Cross. An agreement providing two-hour debate followed by a vote was in effect.

Following the refusal of the Red Cross to accept the fund, the Democratic chiefs were seeking to determine upon some other agency to handle the money. They suggested the Salvation Army, the Public Health Service and the American Legion.

The crucial question of an extra session, bringing in the evening divided seventy-third congress shortly after March 4 was involved in the Democratic meeting.

The $25,000,000 fund is attached to the interior department appropriation bill as an amendment. Should an untitled controversy between the senate and the administration, which is determined against the proposal, the bill the whole measure, a special session must be called.

ANGELO'S COACH

Another of those perplexing problems of who is going to coach which, has been settled. The country's activities can move on with the usual amount of gusto once again. San Angelo school officials have selected their mentor, Harry Taylor, the red checked boy of Fort Worth athletic fame, who is probably better known at the present moment as Colorado high school's coach is the new member of the Oil Belt district. Taylor succeeds the veteran Bill Bissett, the salty one. There still exist down around Fort Worth those fans that can remember when the team of Harry and Gene Taylor whipped their way to the top in high school football. That was about the time the Interscholastic League was wandering around in its baby clothes. The two brothers, each endowed with two feety arches, were the pride of Polytechnic high school. They wrecked more than one high school aggregation in that day. That was about 1921 to 1923, to be exact. Then came Texas Christian University, and after that the coaching job. Gene is the Spur coach. Taylor has stepped into faster company. In succeeding Bissett, he replaces a veteran in this section. It behooves this department to extend congratulations to San Antonio, and sympathies to Taylor. He knows not what he is getting into when he rows his canoe down to the Concho dock. We sincerely believe Taylor has done nothing to deserve such a fate. Imagine being doomed to servitude in the sheep corral, with that bunch of wolves hanging around the gate waiting to snip at the heels.

JUST A FAIR

Selection of Taylor leaves but two doubtful berths open. One of them is Cisco; the other Ranger. Cisco is dickering with several to replace the veteran Weldon Chapman; Ranger has not definitely announced whether Eck Curre's will or will not be among those present this season. In the meantime, the village that sits between two fires—Eastland—is serenely going about its business, with the best chances in history to win something. The galloping Rex Clark and his horde of red jerseys are expecting to go places when the 1931 season dances around.

LAMESA AGAIN

The Big Spring High School Steers, an organization composed entirely of basketball players with more assets than liabilities, will depart this afternoon about the time the sun is scheduled to go down, if it ever comes up, for Lamesa. They will enter the Lamesa invitational tournament, climbing in one contest tonight returning home for a night's rest and returning to spend Saturday in the Dawson County stronghold. It looks as if the Bovies will play around a bit before the time for the district meet rolls around. At that time they will don their abbreviated raiment and endeavor to put a few opponents through the elimination process. Dependable, it seems, are not as enthusiastic in their impressions of the Steers at the present. They admit that figures are not in the habit of prevaricating, and accept without challenge that the Steers have won 15 games in a row, with but one defeat to mar their 1930-31 record. Still, they launch a counter argument, declaring the Steers haven't met any strong teams. Of course, that is a matter of conjecture. Just exactly what does a team have to do to be rated a strong team? Personally, we're not interested in the answer. It was just a good place to ask a question.

AMBITION FATAL

The Couden Refinery cagers are becoming ambitious of a sudden. Plans are being formulated to enter the cage organization in either a Fort Worth or Dallas amateur tournament. The Coudenites, had better watch the direction their pedal extremities take. They might do something in the tournament, but they play terrific amateur basketball down in Tarrant and Dallas counties. Personally, we think it is merely an excuse on the part of Mr. C. E. Henninger to take Fort Worth by storm. Mr. Henninger is good at that.

HARDLUCK HICKS

Mike Hicks, the rambling, Roscoe rammer, has his shoulders bowed with trouble again. If the statement of Prexy Anderson, Abilene Reporter-News liability, can be accepted without question, Mike may be back in Roscoe next year, attending to his grid affairs. At the present, they say, Hicks is enjoying life at Sweetwater, looking with dimmed eyes upon the future. Says Anderson regarding the Roscoe Flash:

The word comes in from Sweetwater that Mike Hicks, pride of the Roscoe gridiron for the last two seasons, has encountered new difficulties in his attempts to transfer to class A. Mike, it is remembered, the past summer, had been absent, securing a "pink slip" from the P. O. officials. Sweetwater recently obtained waivers on the Howley fullback, who either moved to the Nolan capital, or else made ready to do so. As we have it, Mike was not faithful to his studies the past term and failed to pass the required number of courses. Now it seems that a rule has been discovered whereby Hicks would be ineligible in Sweetwater should fail even though passing his work at Sweetwater during the spring term; but by continuing at Roscoe the remainder of the year, and getting along with the teachers, he can play with the Mustangs.

Columbus Pro And Teammate Are Winners

$6,500 Purse Awaits Call of Over 100 Professionals

By GAYLE TALBOT, C. L.
SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Six thousand, five hundred dollars in coil of the realm beckoned more than a hundred professional linkmen who teed off today in the first round of the tenth annual Texas open tournament.

A tidy $15,000 awaited the winner of the 72-hole test, ending Sunday, with $800 for second place. Most of the touring pros who fought the recent battle from Los Angeles to Agua Caliente and back again were on hand. Eighteen holes were scheduled today and tomorrow, with the final 36 Sunday.

If their form in yesterday's preliminary may be taken as a criterion, the masher welders will find the soggy course no particular handicap in the main event. Twelve amateur and professional teams succeeded in bettering par for the course, and seven more equaled perfect figures. T. One pro, Abe Espinosa of Chicago, turned in a 68 on his own hook, and there were a number of individual ars.

Win First

Densmore Shute, who came from Columbus, Ohio, to win last year's Texas open with a sub-par total of 277 for the 72 holes, paired with Lorraine Young, 20-year-old San Antonio amateur, to capture first prize of $100 in yesterday's event. The two had a best ball score of 65, six under par, and honors were about evenly divided. Shute carried the burden for the first nine with a 35 and Young gave him plenty of help with a swell 32 on the way in. Each carried an individual 71, even par.

Bunched for second honors were a quartet of 67s, posted by Sam Schneider, professional, and Lieutenant Gus Shea, amateur, both of San Antonio; John Golden, Stamford, Conn., professional, winner of the Agua Caliente open, and Byron Nelson, Fort Worth; Al Espinosa, veteran Chicago pro, and Lieutenant H. M. Turner, San Antonio; and Abe Espinosa, Chicago, and Jack Wood of San Marcos, Texas.

Professionals who teamed up with their amateur assistants to register 69s included Frank Walsh, Chicago; Phil George, Liberty, Texas; Tom Lally, San Antonio, and Edwin Juleg, Houston, Texas. Juleg was paired with Johnny Dawson, eminent Chicago simon-pure, who had placed second in the amateur qualifying round the previous day.

Other Scores

Included in the professional half of the 71 teams were such stars as Ralph Guldari, Dallas, winner of last week's movie industries meet at Los Angeles; Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., runner-up to Guldari at Los Angeles, and Wifly Cox, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Such crack shots as Harry Cooper, Horton Smith, and John Rogers either failed to shoot low enough or to receive enough help to press the leaders.

Harper Holds Amateur Lead

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Robert Harper of Denver, the defending titleholder, held a 16 point lead over Dr. Andrew Harris of Chicago as they battle for the national amateur three-cushion billiard championship extended into the second of three 50-point blocks.

The champion opened defense of his title yesterday by winning the first block, 50 to 34 in 61 innings.

Oklahoma Courthouse, Other Buildings Are Destroyed By Blaze

ENID, Okla., Jan. 30 (AP)—Fire last night destroyed the Garfield county courthouse, a grain elevator, and threatened the business district. It originated in the elevator of the Enid Milling Company and spread to a machine shed and storage room. Both were destroyed.

Sparks were believed to have ignited the roof of the courthouse, built twenty years ago.

With the entire fire department fighting flames at the mill, fear was held for a time that 27 prisoners in the jail, on the fourth floor of the courthouse, were doomed.

Only a garden hose and a volunteer brigade were available to combat the courthouse fire.

Volunteers chopped a hole in the roof, freed the prisoners who stood around watching the fire until removed to the city hall. Four of them were treated for slight injuries.

Loss was estimated at $187,000.

Coach Les Cranfill went into freshman ranks to pick his other starters and found that Eugene McCollum, brother of Bob, Estelene, Jim Neely, Frederick, Okla., and Bernard Seed of Hereford filled the bill. G. L. Huestis of Snyder is also playing a large share of the time.

Yale Professor's Son Dismissed by Harvard Official

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 30 (AP)—The Boston Post says James S. Angier of New Haven, Conn., Harvard student and son of Professor Roswell Parker Angier of Yale, was dismissed from Harvard University by the faculty today.

The dismissal, the Post adds, followed a series of escapades which ended last Thursday night, when grapefruit were hurled at Rudy Vallee at the Metropolitan Theater.

Angier, the Post says, was one of three Harvard boys taken to a police station in connection with the grapefruit episode. The fruit was hurled at the radio singer from the balcony of the theatre during a performance.

The three students were released by the police when Vallee and the theatre management refused to press charges against them.

At the time, the students denied they had hurled the missiles, but, the Post says, Angier said that the grapefruit throwing was a "great idea."

Expulsion of Angier by the Harvard administrative board today, the paper says, followed an investigation of the Vallee affair by the Harvard faculty.

William P. Blane of New York, according to the Post, one of the other of the trio, was placed on probation by the faculty.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30 (AP)—Harold Lloyd, Jr., tiny son of the film comedian and Mrs. Mildred Davis Lloyd, weighed yesterday for the first time, tipped the scale at 2 pounds, 14 ounces.

Physicians said the infant, born prematurely six days ago, had lost a little weight since birth, but the loss was common among incubator babies. They said it would be several days before the child was out of danger.

Proselyting of Football Stars At West Point Will Be Probed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30 (AP)—Charges that West Point authorities have permitted proselyting of football players are to be investigated by the military academy.

Such an inquiry was demanded by Representative Fish, Republican, New York, late yesterday. General Douglas MacArthur, the chief of staff, said the charges would be forwarded to the academy for investigation.

Specifically, Fish asked an investigation of the activities of W. T. Wrightson, a member of the Navy athletic association, and of Paul Carroll, a cadet, in connection with alleged efforts to induce Kenneth Goff, star Rhode Island State football player to enter the academy.

Hall Defeated By Thurnblad For Crown

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago, who thought he could play billiards because he was a good geometry student, is the new three-cushion champion of the world.

The lanky Swede captured the title worth between $20,000 and $30,000, by upsetting another Chicagoan, Allen Hall, 50 to 43 in 53 exciting innings last night in the final match of the 1931 championship tournament. His victory was one of the most surprising triumphs since the days when the famous Willie Hoppe hatched up his short trousers and tropped over the gray thatched masters of yesterday.

Thurnblad, a draughtsman by profession, played a consistently brilliant game against Hall as he did in brushing through to the finals. Shaky and erratic at the start of the championship match, he made mistakes that enabled Hall to gain a 25 to 18 lead at the end of the twenty-third inning. Then he found himself and his steady stroke, tied up the count and then took the lead at 30 to 29 in the twenty-ninth inning.

After that it was a close up and down match until Hall was stopped by three consecutive kisses in the forty-sixth, forty-seventh and forty-eighth innings that gave the new champion a lead of four points and shattered Hall's nerves. The hard match ended with Thurnblad running out with a cluster of four points. Hall had given him a perfect position after missing a long, treacherous bank shot.

Retzlaff And Risko Signed

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—Charlie Retzlaff, the big knockout heavyweight from Duluth, Minn., has been signed to meet the veteran "trial horse," Johnny Risko of Cleveland in a ten round match at the Olympia Arena, Detroit, February 6.

The Duluth heavyweight, principally because of his habit of stopping his opponents, never has fought ten rounds in his career. In 28 fights, he has won 25 by knockouts. He weighs 195 pounds and is a terrific puncher with either hand.

Chief W. C. Huddleston, Constable J. W. Snow and Constable Williams of Estelene, organized the search.

Hart was believed to have a wife and children at Sonora, Texas, and he lived for several years at Kerrville.

Ardmore officers said Hart was wanted at Texarkana, Clarksville and Hope, Ark., on hijacking charges; warrants were out for his arrest in connection with three toll bridge robberies and a robbery with firearms charge was pending against him at home.

Kid Berg Meets Perlock Tonight In Third Battle

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Jack (Kid) Berg, British lightweight ace, and Herman Perlock of Kalamazoo, Mich., clash in Madison Square Garden tonight for the third time but is not a "rubber" match. Berg won both their previous meetings and rules a heavy favorite to make it three in a row from the middle westerner.

At that Perlock may have some betting support at the current odds of 2 to 1 against him. The Michigan lightweight gave Berg a stiff argument all the way in their last clash at the Queensboro stadium here last summer.

Berg will be making the second start of his 1931 American invasion. He defeated Goldie Hess at Chicago last week with somewhat synthetic junior welterweight championship at stake.

Three other ten rounders are on the card. Tony Herrera of El Paso, Texas, battles Sammy Dorfman in the semi-finals; Kid Francis, Italian featherweight, clashes with Pete De Grasse of New York; and Joe Scalfaro and Lew Feldman, local featherweight rivals, are matched in the remaining bout at ten rounds.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 30 (AP)—Sam Breadon is so well satisfied with his Cardinals and their chances to retain the National League championship they won last year that he believes he can attend a meeting of the league's magnates without even stily suggesting a trade to anyone.

"But," he qualified, "if somebody wants to do a little trading that will benefit the Cardinals, I'll get interested."

As he prepared to depart today for the National league schedule meeting in New York next Tuesday, Breadon told reporters there were no deals pending between the Cardinals and any other club and "if I should do any trading it'll surprise me."

"We were the champions last year," he said, "and it's up to the other clubs to improve in order to dislodge us from the top."

The quick starting feature of Couden Liquid Gas makes you know it has pep and plenty of it.

The unusual power developed by cars using Couden Liquid Gas is not an accident, but is the result of Howard Couden's endowment of Howard-Glascock crudes with a large Benzol equivalent (Nature's anti-knock), which is conserved through to the finished product by the modern Couden refining methods.

Couden Liquid Gas is in fact a premium gasoline at standard common gasoline prices.

Birth of New Faction Seen After Battle

Baldwin and Churchill Differ In Indian Policy Views

LONDON, Jan. 30 (U.P.)—Birth of a new faction within the ranks of the conservative party was seen today as the probable denouement of a disagreement on Indian policy between Stanley Baldwin, and the outspoken Winston Churchill.

From correspondence between the two conservative leaders just published it appears that Churchill, while his "warm, personal friendship" for Baldwin is undiminished, thinks it best that he abstain from meetings of the party's business committee—or war council—which is composed of the inner few and includes chiefly, former cabinet ministers.

Baldwin, while equally warm in his personal remarks, accepts Churchill's view that he should cease attending the committee meetings.

Churchill is not alone in dissenting from the Baldwin Indian views. Lord Lloyd, former Egyptian high commissioner and always outspoken, starts tonight in Manchester on a barnstorming tour of denunciation of the Indian round table conference and its works.

Paul Springman, the Beaverbrook candidate in East Kelington, is making Baldwin's alleged "surrender to the socialists" on India prominent plank in his platform. Churchill will make a speech for a conservative candidate in East Toxteth who is not particularly attached to the official attitude of his party toward India.

Free Trade? "A new faction, if it is born," the Liberal News Chronicle said today, "need not confine itself to a policy of treating India rough. What about free trade? Mr. Churchill's real views on this subject are well known and they are certainly not those of Mr. Stanley Baldwin."

With development of the factional differences in the conservative ranks new troubles appeared on the labor horizon. The News Chronicle said the left wing group of the labor party decided last night to oppose the alternative vote proposal of the government's electoral reform bill. This decision may make it difficult for the government to carry the measure through the house as the conservatives already have given warning of an organized attack upon the bill, debate on which will be resumed Monday. It is upon the bill that new liberal labor alliance is supposed to depend, since it is designed to meet disproportionate representation in parliament and has general liberal support.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

"Cautious Confidence"

Kansas City Star:

MOMENTARILY, at least, the decline of business activity in this country appears to have been checked. For the last month the various "barometers" by which that activity is ordinarily measured have shown a slight tendency to rise. The holiday season at the end of each year is a slack time from the point of view of business and is normally followed by an upturn in January. This January has been no exception, although the rise has not been so marked as it was either in 1929 or 1930. Despite the reservation, however, many observers of business have been cheered by the situation and are beginning to recall that business a year after a stock market crash has never been as bad as the first.

In the last two weeks, for example, steel mill operation has risen from 36 per cent of capacity to

44. The daily average of building contracts has somewhat increased.

Coal and oil production is up a little and there has been a definite improvement in the consumption of electric power. The daily average of car loadings has gained about 10 per cent. Wheat, cotton and hog receipts are all higher. The commodity price index has continued downward, but, slightly.

It is on the basis of such "owings that business and financial observers are now cautiously suggesting that the depression in this country has reached bottom and industry may already be launched on its upward cycle.

Praise for Mr. Wickersham

Spokane Spokesman-Review:

FROM George W. Wickersham, chairman of the law enforcement commission and former attorney general of the United States, comes this illuminating statement, the clearest and most coherent summing up of all the various statements from the eleven members:

I cannot believe that an experiment of such far-reaching and momentous consequences as this "national prohibition" should be abandoned after seven years of such imperfect enforcement, and only three years of reorganization and effort to repair the mistakes of the earlier period. The older generation very largely has forgotten, and the young never knew, the evils of the saloon and the corroding influence upon politics, both local and national, of the organized liquor business. But the tradition of that rottenness still lingers, even in the minds of the probhibition law, substantially all of whom assert that the licensed saloon must never again be restored. There must be no modification of the Volstead law. In other words, no sly and deceptive nullication of the Constitution. So long as the eighteenth amendment is in the Constitution it must be enforced and respected.

And ten of the eleven commissioners declare opposition to the government dispensary.

It is not surprising, therefore, to find the wet leaders generally disappointed and condemnatory of the report, while the prevailing judgment of the prohibition leaders is glooming and cheerful.

Home Garden Club Meeting

Plant Exchange Date Set for February 19th; Members Discuss Floral Decorations for Spring District Meet of Clubs

The Home Garden Club had an enthusiastic and well-informed group of women out yesterday afternoon, at the club house.

Mrs. J. M. Morgan presided over the meeting and encouraged the women to ask for information and to suggest plans for making the club as practical as possible.

She and Mrs. B. Reagan and Mrs. Joye Fisher told the club what was expected of it in the way of floral decorations for the district meeting of the Federated Clubs of Texas in the spring.

Women were asked to plant flowers with this meeting in mind, not only for the purpose of decorating but to show visitors from wetter climates what the dry sections can produce.

Plant Exchange Day
Plant exchange day was set for the third Thursday, the 19th, in February. Unless this should be a very cold or stormy day, the club will see to it that someone will be at the Federation club house to receive and distribute plants which the members want to give away or to exchange. Such plants as Shasta daisies, larkspur, phlox, iris, rain lilies, chrysanthemums, Michaelmas daisies (which bloom in October) and tubers of vines are among those which do well here and which are plentiful.

Any woman, whether a member of the club or not, is privileged to take part in this exchange. Those who have plants to give away are asked to call Mrs. Morgan. Those whose beds will be prepared earlier than this date and want plants before then, can find out where they can be obtained by calling Mrs. Morgan.

Time to Start Now
It was suggested that this is not too early to prepare beds to be planted in. It is a little too early to plant seeds out of doors. Those who do not want to risk seeds may obtain small plants from the florists here, who sell them very reasonably.

Members who have shrubs they want to dispose of were asked to take them to the City Park. If they will get in touch with Mr. Woods, who is in charge of the park grounds, he will see that the shrubs are properly planted.

Vine Information
Information concerning vines was given out. The Virginia Ivy was recommended as a better vine for this country than the Colorado creeper which is subject to blight. Vines that do well and grow quickly are the Madeira, the balsam, the honeysuckle, the Virginia ivy, the jack bean and the morning glory.

Dues for the club are fifty cents a year. The club magazine is "Better Homes and Gardens," which is sixty cents a year.

The next meeting will be Thursday. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

Those present yesterday were Mrs. E. T. Mary, P. H. Liberty, J. O. Barker, Lindsey Marchbanks, W. E. Bonham, Jr., H. G. Phillips, R. A. Lomon, Henry De Vries, J. M. Morgan, L. D. Jenkins, J. I. Prichard, R. E. Lloyd, Steve Tamsitt, E. Reagan, Joye Fisher, Seth Parsons, Chas. K. Bivings, F. F. Cary, and L. S. McDowell, and Miss Kathryn Phillips.

Informal Bridge Party
Mrs. W. V. Nichols entertained informally with a two-table bridge party last evening in their home.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ford, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McCleskey, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. McCleskey.

A delicious salad plate was served. Four prizes were awarded. Mrs. Ford made high for the women and received a fancy tissue facial roller. Mr. Ford made low for the men and received a cigarette holder.

Mr. McCleskey made high for the men and was given a deck of cards. Mrs. McCleskey made low for the women and was given a bridge pad.

Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh when you buy it because it is packed in vacuum. This process takes air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, from the can and keeps it out. DOUGHNUTS ARE BETTER IF COOKED A FEW AT A TIME
Likewise Coffee Has More Delicious Flavor When Roasted in Small Lots

Experience shows that if too many doughnuts are put into the hot fat at once, the cooking process is hindered. The temperature of the fat is reduced and the doughnuts become greasy.

A similar situation occurs when coffee is roasted in bulk. It is difficult to apply the heat evenly, and as a result some of the coffee berries may be overdone and some underdone. Such variation in the roast causes disappointing variation in the result.

Triangle Bridge Club Has Mexican Party; Mrs. Ellis Has Dinner

Winter months make the hot, spicy foods of our neighboring nation taste too good to miss; so before the cold days are gone, clubs and individuals are taking advantage of the opportunity to go Mexican in their entertaining.

Three social events of the week were marked by a decidedly Mexican atmosphere. Among them is the dinner which V. R. Smith, City Manager, is giving the office and salaried employees of the city tonight at Gomez Mexican Cafe across the tracks.

Mrs. Ellis' Dinner
Mrs. Jack Ellis entertained at her home on Scurry street yesterday with a Mexican dinner honoring Mrs. H. L. Stahlman.

Mrs. Ellis oversaw the preparation of the menu herself. It consisted of enchiladas, tacos, vermicelli, frijoles, chile, Mexican peacan candy and coffee.

In addition to the honoree, the guests were Meses. L. D. Davenport, C. W. Deats, H. C. Timmons, W. C. Jones, Chas. K. Bivings and Miss Ruby Burnett.

Triangle Club Party
The members, friends and husbands of the Triangle Bridge Club were entertained last evening with a Mexican supper at Gomez Cafe and a bridge party following at the home of Miss Jena Jordan.

Assisting Miss Jordan were to be Mrs. Omar Pittman and Mrs. E. W. Lomax. Mr. and Mrs. Lomax were unable to attend.

The Mexican atmosphere was carried out in tallies and decorations at the Jordan home.

Eight couples played auction bridge.

The following enjoyed the club's hospitality, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Fahrkamp, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Pittman, Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. James Davis, Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Cardwell, Mrs. Roger Gallemore and Mr. C. E. Barker.

The prizes were jars of Mexican pottery filled with Mexican candy. Mrs. Fahrkamp won high for the women; Dr. Hardy, for the men.

Plan the Bridge Supper
With an Eye to the Men

By JOSEPHINE E. GIBSON
A wise hostess plans a substantial menu for her bridge party when men are to be present, for she knows that most men do not like the "salad and sandwich" type of meal so popular with women.

Food does not need to be overly elaborate to please the men, but it must be well prepared and served. The next time you have an evening bridge party where men are to be present, try serving some simple hot dish, with rolls and relishes, and plenty of coffee. And then, of course, you must plan a dessert—because men are just as enthusiastic about sweets as women are, whether they admit it or not.

These three menus for late evening suppers are unusually good, and they have been planned especially to please the men guests:

Creamed Chicken and Ham with Olives on Buttered Toast
Hot Rolls Fresh Cucumber Pickles
Ice Box Apple Butter Pudding
Coffee

Chow Mein with Boiled Rice
Hot Cloverleaf Rolls
Preserved Sweet Gherkins
Divinity Fudge
Coffee

Individual Cold Platters
Prepared Mustard
Chili Sauce
Hot Rolls
English Tart
Coffee

Creamed Chicken and Ham with Olives on Buttered Toast: 4 table-spoons butter; 4 table-spoons flour; 2 cups rich milk; 2 hard cooked egg yolks; dash of pepper and paprika; few drops Worcestershire Sauce; 1 cup cold cooked ham, sliced; 1 cup cold cooked chicken; 1-2 cup stuffed Spanish olives, sliced.

Melt butter in a saucepan, add flour and stir until well blended. Add milk and egg yolks which have been forced through a sieve. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Season with pepper, paprika, and Worcestershire Sauce. Add ham, chicken, and then, sliced olives. Heat thoroughly, and serve on slices of buttered toast.

Chow Mein with Boiled Rice: 1 lb. fresh pork, chicken, veal, lobster or crab meat; 4 table-spoons fat; 1-2 cup water; 1 teaspoon salt; 1-2 teaspoon pepper; boiled rice; 1-2 cup tomato ketchup; 1 teaspoon corn starch; 1 onion; 1-4 lb. dried mushrooms; 1-2 lb. fresh mushrooms soaked for 2 hours in cold water, drained, and cut in thin slices.

Cut pork in 1 inch strips and fry 5 minutes in 2 table-spoons fat.

ing the ten years I have been gathering material for Coronado's Children I have given them form and coherence and told them in an interesting manner; but the country is busy with not hundreds but thousands of others. As I say in the introduction, the legend is lost, or, hidden, wealth is the representative legend of America. And it has come to full flower in the southwest.

"Legends of Texas"
"In 1924 I brought out for the Texas Folk-Lore Society 'Legends of Texas.' A large part of that book is made up of stories of lost mines and buried treasures, told by various contributors. Since then I have added to my stock ten-fold, and I have written the legends for various magazines. This writing, plus my rather extensive wanderings in search of legends, has made me a kind of recognized 'authority' on lost mines and buried treasures. As a result I have received scores of letters on that subject. I don't suppose that any other man has ever accumulated such a mass. I could send you many more of the same kind of letters that I am sending. Incidentally, I am going to ask that you preserve these letters and return them to me after you are through with them."

"In addition to letters I have preserved hundreds of clippings from current newspapers regarding treasure and lost mine hunts. I have had photostats made from California papers and kept thick packets regarding legends of Oklahoma, Mexico, etc., as well as of Texas."

EXTRACTS FROM Letter By J. Frank Dobie
Explains to Publishers How He Found His Material

"If you have read 'Coronado's Children,' you know already that while many of the stories run into the past, they are with few exceptions derived from present day tellers and seekers. Last March and April Holland's magazine ran one of the best stories appearing in the book, 'The Lost Nigger Mine.' As a result of that story I received dozens of letters, many of them from people away from Texas, wanting 'more information' about the 'Lost Nigger Mine.' (Of course, and then some). I have been reliably informed from at least three sources that a perfect deluge of seekers have been down in the Big Bend hunting the nigger's mine during the last few months."

"As for the lost San Saba, the lost Bowie mine, I suppose there has not been a time during the last hundred years—certainly during the last ninety years—when some man was not looking for it. When I say that dozens of men are looking for it now, I am not exaggerating. Never a week goes by that some party does not call personally to see me or write me concerning it or some other hidden lode. I know plenty of sober stay-at-home business men, professional men, laborers—who yearn to go in search of some treasure or mine about which they have heard plausible stories. I think that dur-

Kiwanians
Give Dinner
To the Ladies

Supt. Blankenship; Mrs. B. Fisher, Hilo Hatch, Dr. Barcus on Program

The Kiwanians have decided to entertain their wives and lady friends on every fifth Thursday during the year. So last night was the big night.

The occasion was a four-course turkey dinner at the Crawford Hotel.

Hilo Hatch was in charge of the program. Dr. Hilo Barcus led the singing of the many club songs which were part of the entertainment.

Mrs. Bernard Fisher read a paper on "What The Kiwanis Club Could Do For The P.T.A.," which was said to be one of the best and most practical talks the club had ever heard.

Supt. W. C. Blankenship spoke on "What The Kiwanis Club Could Do For Our Schools."

The music for the singing and the dinner was furnished by Grady Gilder's Orchestra.

A clever drawing of numbers mixed up the married couples and assigned partners for the meal.

It was announced that the Kiwanians would go to the new Lomax schoolhouse on Feb. 26 for a meat of fried chicken and other good eats, all which has been grown in Howard County. The ladies expect to accompany them.

The victors of the club were Supt. and Mrs. Blankenship; Morgan Nichols of Fort Worth, and Misses Lola Belle Stewart and Winona Taylor.

Club members attending and their wives were, Meses, and Mrs. G. R. Porter, L. W. Croft, Felton Smith, Hilo Hatch, Bernard Fisher, Joye Fisher, George White, Steve Ford, Garland Woodward, V. R. Smitham, Robt. Middleton, C. W. Deats, Calvin Boykin, George Gentry, Jack Ellis, Victor Melling, Ray Wilcox, H. C. Timmons, J. L. Webb, D. W. Cornelson, T. S. Currie, John Wolcott, Tom Coffee, L. D. Davenport, J. E. Kuykendall, Marie Stewart, L. E. Canbie, and Meses. Lib Coffee, Lewis, Rex, Dick Collins, D. H. Reed and Dr. J. R. Barcus.

Texas Ranger Captains Are Named By Gov.

AUSTIN, Jan. 30. (AP)—Governor Sterling today named state ranger captains for the next two years.

New captains were former Sergeant Light Townsend of Wharton county, who will be in command of Company C with headquarters at Del Rio, and C. O. Moore of Austin, sheriff of Hutchinson county after the martial law era at Binger in 1929, who will be captain of the quartermaster corps here.

Townsend was sergeant under Bill Sterling, former captain of Company D, who is now adjutant general.

Captain Frank A. Hamer of Austin, was reappointed captain of the headquarters company here. Other captains reappointed were Will L. Wright of Pecos county who will captain Company A, Fort Stockton, Tom R. Hickman of Fort Worth, Company B with headquarters at Fort Worth, and Albert R. Mace of Lampasas county, Company D.

Captain R. W. Aldrich of Austin was not reappointed. He had been in the ranger service 12 years.

Will Rogers Leaves For Fort Worth for Speaking Engagement

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 30. (AP)—Having rolled up a total of more than $44,354 in nine appearances in Texas for the Red Cross drought relief fund, including $8,500 paid by an audience here last night, Will Rogers prepared today to hop to Fort Worth by plane, for a speaking engagement there tonight.

The auditorium was packed to the rafters and Rogers appeared enthusiastically over Houston's welcome. He arrived in a plane piloted by Captain Frank Hawks. Landing at the airport, the ship became stuck in the mud and Rogers exchanged wisecracks with his friend, Jesse H. Jones, Houston capitalist, who waded through the mud of the airport to meet the humorist.

His appearances thus far have netted $2,600 at Austin, $6,553 at San Angelo, $3,911 at San Antonio, $1,899 at Abilene, $3,836 at Dallas, $2,500 at Port Arthur, and $7,035 at Beaumont.

$50,000 Legacy Is Left Man Who Aided Mother of War Chum

OTTAWA, Ill., Jan. 30. (AP)—John G. Schumacker, city commissioner, and Irving Campbell were chums when Campbell went to the Spanish-American war.

"Look after mother," Campbell said to Schumacker, "I may not come back."

Campbell died aboard ship during the war, and in the years that followed Schumacker found time for many little kindnesses for the woman who had lost her only son. Last week Mrs. Campbell died. Yesterday her will was made public. In it was a legacy for Schumacker and his family. Its value was fixed at $50,000.

"GREAT HELP IN RAISING FAMILY"

That's What A Texas Lady Says About Black-Draught After Years of Use.

Austin, Texas.—An interesting story of how Thedford's Black-Draught has proved valuable in her home life was related here recently by Mrs. T. C. Law, of 1704 Willow Street. She wrote:

"During my childhood, my mother used Thedford's Black-Draught in our home frequently. She gave it to us children for little spells of sickness. Whenever we would complain of not feeling well, she would give us a course of Black-Draught which straightened us right out. 'Since I have been married, I have found Black-Draught to be a great help in raising my family. It is a handy medicine to keep in the house. I give it to my children and I take it myself. It is splendid to treat constipation and colds with. I also use it when I have spells of indigestion.'

"Sometimes I suffer with bad, sick headaches and gas pains. Black-Draught always gives me relief, and after I have taken it I feel fresh and energetic."

"I give it to the children in form of a tea. They do not object to taking it."

Extracts

I have material for a whole book of Mexico legends—the most of them coming to me through American believers. I wish I could show you my newspaper collection of clippings. If they do not indicate a living 1930-2000 interest I don't know what does.

Appeals to Venturesome
"I have been approached more than once by men who wanted me to enter with them into a corporation for furnishing maps, etc., to prospective for money, or else to form a stock company for selling shares. A representative of one of the outdoor magazines, who assured me that he was in touch with hundreds of adventure loving men over the world, showed me how we could both get rich, by furnishing these fellows "leads." The ordinary man wants to run away from machinery and plow-horse routine.

He wants to be pointed to the rainbow's end. He wants to know where there is land not plowed up, land with secrets and strange possibilities of wealth.

"I have not told these stories to feel anybody, but I know absolutely that for the next ten years I'll be getting responses thick and fast from men, young as well as old, who want to go out and dig. If you will read the long chapter on "The Lost San Sabé Mine" and the long one on "The Lost Nigger Mine," you will see how really the stories do not come to an end. They can't come to an end, for the searching and the telling are still going on.

Varied Appeal
"It seems significant to me that parts of Coronado's Children have appeared in such divergent places as The Yale Review, and The Texas Star, American Mercury and Holland's Magazine, The Country
Gentleman and The Atlantic, etc. I look for it to be read by a varied people, but if it does not prove to be acceptable to boys from twelve years old up, I shall miss my guess."

"Coronado's Children" will be reviewed in the Herald Sunday in the book review department.

Ford Output Increase Due

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (AP)—Reports in Wall Street say the Ford Motor Co. soon will increase its output and add to its employment rolls.

Several indications are said to point to such a move. One company financing Ford retail purchases has been increasing steadily during the last two weeks. It is said that the recent price cuts underlying stimulated business, roads out of Detroit are reported again lined with carrier trucks delivering new cars and a company supplying material reports it has increased releases for next week.

The Ford plants have been working on part time since operation were resumed after the holiday shutdown.

Girl Discovers Body Of Gunman

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 (AP)—A ten year old girl, playing last night near an automobile that had stood in Lincoln avenue for two days, discovered in the rear of the car the body of a man shot to death. Police almost immediately advanced the theory that he might be one of the robbers shot and wounded last Monday when the Weiboldt department store in Lincoln avenue was held up and robbed of $19,000.

The dead man, police said, was identified through finger prints as George Smith, who served six months for burglary in 1916, and resembled one of the five men who invaded the Weiboldt establishment.
Belief was expressed that a can of alcohol found in the car was left to divert suspicion from the Weiboldt robbery and leave the impression that an alcohol war was the motive for the slaying.
Dozens of passersby had no need the parked automobile but no particular attention was paid to it until Helen Becker, 10, discovered the body.

Tax Payment Bill Passed By Majority

Ten Per Cent Interest To Be In Force After Feb. 1

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (AP)—The final date for paying 1930 taxes was two days away today and all that stood between the tax payers and tax relief was the signature of Governor Ross S. Sterling. Proponents of emergency tax legislation said the governor would sign, probably today. The tax bill adopted yesterday by a free conference committee after the senate had failed to concur with the house in passage of the Weinert bill, was the embodiment of both the Oneal and Weinert plans. The bill passed both houses yesterday with only six votes of 171 cast marked against it. All taxes unpaid by February 1, under provisions of the bill, would start drawing ten per cent interest October 15 was given as the final date for payment of 1930 taxes. After that date a five per cent delinquent tax penalty would go into effect. A provision included by the Oneal bill and incorporated in free conference committee's bill would allow taxes to be paid in two installments. The tax bill stood out as the largest legislative accomplishment this session. The house yesterday passed a resolution on a vote of 80 to 20, extending the benefits of prohibition. The resolution admitted that the prohibition laws were being flagrantly violated but added that the state had benefitted by prohibition and opposed modification or repeal.

Metcalfe, Others Complete Bill To Pay Back Farmers

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Representatives Penrose Metcalfe, San Angelo, Lee Satterwhite, Odessa, J. E. McGill, El Paso, and G. E. Lockhart, Lubbock, completed plans Wednesday night to introduce Thursday a bill for emergency appropriation of $500,000 to pay farmers of West Texas counties for losses in destruction of cotton and enforced fumigation in the pink bollworm zone, under the law of 1929 assuming responsibility for the losses, which was passed by Metcalfe and others.

PAMPA GRAVE IS MOLESTED; PROBE STARTS

PAMPA, Texas, Jan. 29. (AP)—Discovery that the grave of Mrs. Clyde Felger, who died here recently, had been opened, led authorities today to send the viceroy to Austin for chemical examination. The woman was found dead in an automobile a short time ago. Coroner James Todd, Jr., rendered a verdict of death due to alcoholism. The coroner late yesterday ordered the grave opened after the cemetery caretaker had reported finding a shovel and freshly turned earth beside it. Dr. V. E. Von Brunow examined the body and found that it apparently had been taken from the casket, then replaced and the grave refilled. The physician said that the body had not been molested but stockings worn at the time of burial had been removed. Partly burned matches and clods of earth were found in the casket.

Missing Ranger Ranchman Is Located

Found At Putnam After Spending Night In Hotel

RANGER, Texas, Jan. 29. (AP)—A three days' intensive search for Wes Marchbanks, 50, of Ranger, ended at Putnam, Callahan county, this morning when the missing ranchman was found, tired but in good health, by an old acquaintance, C. S. Flournoy. Flournoy took Marchbanks to his Ranger home, and today the ranchman was resting in seclusion. He said he did not recall leaving his ranch last Sunday morning, adding: "It seems to me I left home yesterday morning." He said he spent last night in a Putnam hotel. Marchbanks looked greatly worn. The boots he was wearing when he disappeared had been cut away, and he was wearing the tops with shoes underneath. Flournoy, an oil field worker living north of Putnam, knew Marchbanks but had not seen him in five years. This morning, while driving his children to school, he saw the missing man in front of the Putnam hotel, and hailed him. They talked a moment, then Flournoy took his children to school and drove back to the hotel. Marchbanks was waiting.

Apology for Major General's Speech Offered to Premier Mussolini After Letter of Explanation Is Received

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. (AP)—An apology to Premier Mussolini of Italy by the American government and a court martial for Major General Butler, today came as a result of the now celebrated speech the marine officer made recently in Philadelphia.

The officer's letter of explanation of the address had reached Secretary Adams only a while before. In it was confirmation of the fact that the fiery Butler had quoted a friend as telling him Mussolini had run over a child in an automobile and then driven off without notice.

Limelight Has Often Been On Butler

By REID MONFORT
WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. (AP)—General Smedley D. Butler, famed Marine leader for whom a general court martial was ordered today by Secretary Adams, often has known the limelight. The commandant at Quantico is unquestionably the most talked about United States Marine. "From the Hall of Montezuma To the Shore of Tripoli." To his notable doings has been added his alleged remark about Benito Mussolini, premier of Italy. Popular Marines would follow him "through hell and back" is how fellow officers describe this stormy "Leatherneck" leader. Pride of the "Devil Dogs," General Butler has won valor decorations on many widely-separated battlefields. Two congressional medals of honor have been awarded him for bravery.

He is not so big; but neither is a machine gun. One is about as energetic as the other. "Gimlet Eyes" as he is known to many, puts his whole 150 pounds, or more, into everything he does whether it is leading a cheer or charge. Dramatic and democratic, he is pictured by associates as a man of engaging personality "who makes you work and like it." General Butler, who has the reputation of "patting his men on the back" when they do the job well, probably calls more marines by first names than any other officer.

This fighting descendant of Quakers, who still retains in speech his "thee's and thou's," likes to talk. His range of topics is wide. Gesticulating with a long, bent forefinger, he launches a yarn with zest. His deep and measured voice carries abundant humor and wit.

Although no athlete himself, he likes all outdoor games. Football is a favorite, and it is no uncommon sight to see this "light, wiry marine" leading the cheering at a Quantico gridiron battle. A fast automobile also finds favor in his eye. Most of General Butler's nearly 50 years have been given to the Marine Corps. Enlisting shortly after he was sixteen by "putting" his age up a bit, he soon became a lieutenant. He was a brigadier general at 39.

Philadelphia borrowed him during 1924-25 to act as director of public safety. He relentlessly fought bootleggers and politicians only to be replaced by the mayor with another man. Some epigrams of Butler vintage: "When the Marines get a job they go and do it. We are not diplomats. Soldiering makes a man direct in his methods and sometimes abrupt."

"I believe that God made us the most influential nation in the world for a purpose, and that it is our duty to keep our neighboring nations from murdering one another."

"I have shed more blood for my country and your country than all the politicians in seven 'ragans'."

"I have learned a lot of things, and no one can ever persuade me to serve in public office again except in war time."

ATTACK HEFLIN
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 29. (AP)—The Alabama house of representatives today adopted a joint resolution expressing "its condemnation of the very poor sportsmanship exhibited" by Senator J. Thomas Heflin, "in being unwilling to admit like a man that he was defeated in a fair election."

Speech Made Before Club In Philadelphia
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29. (AP)—The general spoke on the possibilities of future wars and is said to have related a story he said was told him by a friend. According to newspaper reports, the general said this friend told him of an automobile ride he took with Premier Mussolini. During the ride a small

MARLIN CRASH PROVES FATAL

MARLIN, Texas, Jan. 29. (AP)—Henry Hanna, 21, was killed instantly and Lanier Bennett, 19, suffered a broken arm and a brain concussion near Marlin early today when an automobile driven by R. B. McDonald ran into the rear end of a loaded cotton truck. All three of the young men are from Abilene. McDonald said he failed to see the truck because of a heavy fog.

The truck was driven by P. J. Lewis of Huntsville. His brother, Bill Lewis, was asleep by his side. Neither was hurt, nor was McDonald. The truck was damaged and bales of cotton scattered along the road.

All three of the Abilene youths were freshmen at A. & M. college last year and McDonald was on his way to College Station to enroll again, the others going with him to witness assembly at the college.

Bennett was taken to a Marlin hospital for an operation. Hanna's body was to be sent to Abilene.

Wentz Replaced As Chairman Oklahoma Highway Commission

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 29. (AP)—Lew Wentz, millionaire republican, was replaced as chairman of the state highway commission today, but he indicated in a statement that the change was due to the desires of the other two members and not because Governor Murray had ordered it.

Sam Hawke, Murray's campaign manager who the other day was named to the commission, takes the place of Wentz. Murray had designated Hawke as the new chairman. Wentz continues as a member of the board.

Hawke then issued a statement in which he said he would not change the present employees, including the secretary, until "I have my feet on the ground and have found my bearings."

It was indicated the cement letting set for February 3 would be postponed.

Hawke expects, he said, to take citizens of counties into his confidence and consult with them in construction of highways in their respective localities, especially where bonds have been voted calling for certain roads and taxes are being paid into the highway funds.

Newspapermen will not find him a great source of news, he continued, because he has "always been able to get along without making many statements."

Japanese Arrested Here By Patrolmen

In all probability he will be deported, officers said.

FAVORABLE REPORT ON COURT BILL

(Special To The Herald)

AUSTIN, Jan. 29.—Garland A. Woodward, Big Spring, and J. H. Beall and John Hendrix, Sweetwater, were here today in conference with Rep. Penrose B. Metcalfe, and Sen. Pink L. Parrish, regarding a bill which, if passed, would create a new district court for Howard and Borden counties.

The bill, which not only would create a new court but would reduce the Sweetwater district, has been reported favorably to the senate, but in the house a substitute measure was being written.

The new measure would create a temporary second judgeship for the entire district. It is expected to be acceptable to the senate.

Atlanta Policeman Fired, Suspended

ATLANTA, Jan. 29. (AP)—The discharge of four police officers and suspension of two others was ordered today by the city police committee after a turbulent six-hour meeting during which Chief James L. Beavers said there was more drunkenness in the department now than ever before.

R.mond Paul, inspector of weights and measures, was removed on the ground that on the night of January 11 he was a visitor in downtown hotel room in which bandits were reported to have held a dice game for $3,000. Paul said he went to the room to find a relative and there was no testimony before the committee that he was in the room while the game was in progress.

Patrolmen J. A. Etheridge and J. D. Buice were discharged on charges of drunkenness, and Patrolmen J. K. Patterson and M. V. Moss were suspended for five days for "taking care" of the former pair instead of reporting them. Patrolman R. J. Smith was discharged on charges of attacking Bill Simpson, a prisoner, whom he arrested for a traffic violation.

The committee said in the future that conviction of drunkenness would result automatically in the dismissal of police officers.

Young and Wise County Officers Hunt For Lone Bandit Who Looted Chico Bank

CHICO, Texas, Jan. 29. (AP)—A posse composed of Wise and Young county officers and citizens at noon Thursday were reported close on the trail of a lone bandit, who held up the Chico State Bank a few hours before, locked two men in the vault and escaped with $1500 in currency. Farmers along the Chico-Jacksboro highway about six miles from Chico reported that a running battle was in progress.

Cashier V. E. Baldrige and a customer, F. W. Roberts, were the only two in the bank when the bandit made his appearance. He was heavily masked and armed. The men were ordered into the vault and Mr. Baldrige was forced to gather up the money. The bandit took only currency and refused two sacks of silver. The two men were left locked in the vault while the bandit made his escape.

Butler Pleads Guilty To Slaying

Sterling Pardons Suspect So He Could Appear As Witness

FORT WORTH, Texas, Jan. 28 (AP)—Hugh D. (Hop Toe) Butler today pleaded guilty in district court for his part in the torch murder of Roy Hawthorne and was sentenced to 99 years in the state penitentiary.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 28, (AP)—Hugh D. (Hop Toe) Butler, 23, today pleaded guilty in criminal court of the torch murder of Roy Hawthorne, and District Attorney Martin recommended a 99 year term for him.

During the trial of Herbert A. (Hub) Stanley, who was given 99 years in the same case last night, Butler testified for the state. Martin announced during his argument that Butler had been pardoned yesterday by Governor Sterling on a previous conviction, at Groesbeck, so that Butler could appear against Stanley.

It was the first pardon for the new chief executive, and came after Martin had stated Butler would plead guilty to the torch murder of Roy Hawthorne.

Butler, whose home is at Groesbeck, said on the stand that he had killed two men at Groesbeck, had been tried and acquitted in one killing, and given two years for manslaughter in the other. The conviction was in the district court of Hill county, December 3, 1926, and it was in this case that the pardon was granted.

Hawthorne was killed in the Stanley home last July 26 and his burning body found in a pasture near Lake Worth. Four men were indicted on a charge of murder: A. E. Stanley, father of Herbert Alvin Stanley, also indicted; Butler and James Lloyd (Speck) Castevens. The Herbert Stanley trial began Monday.

Butler Once Freed By Amarillo Jury

AMARILLO, Tex., Jan. 28 (AP)—With the sentence of "Hub" Stanley to 99 years in the penitentiary for the slaying of Roy Hawthorne at Fort Worth, Amarillo officers recall that a Potter county grand jury acquitted Stanley in a liquor trial here last spring because "he looked too nice to be a criminal."

Airport Rates Among 10 Best Sanders Says

American Airways Official Speaks at Business Men's Luncheon

"The Big Spring airport is one of the ten best airports in the United States today," declared Lee Sanders, manager of the local airport and representative of American Airways, Inc., in an address at the Business Men's Luncheon Club today.

Mr. Sanders gave a brief history of aviation, stressing with statistics the leadership of the United States in both civil and military aviation activities. Among the aviation facts which Mr. Sanders mentioned were: the record non-stop, non-refueling flight of 5000 miles; the speed record of 366 miles an hour; the 101 air transportation companies now operating in the United States and flying 117,000 miles each day; the 15,000 licensed pilots in America today.

Lines of the American Airways, Inc., with which Mr. Sanders is associated, extend from Montreal, Canada, to Los Angeles. The company has fourteen air mail contracts.

C. T. Watson told of the history of the Big Spring Airport and of the difficulties encountered in its establishment. The airport is now leased to Texas Air Transport for a 3-year period. He emphasized his belief that while the ownership of the airport was still in the hands of the citizen-stockholders that it should be owned by the city inasmuch as the entire city profits most by the distinction received from being an air mail stop and the divisional point of two air lines.

Guests who attended the luncheon were: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond and C. E. Shire. The program was in charge of E. A. Kelley who read on Charles Quereau, who said that it was the consensus of eighty per cent of the citizens whom he asked that business should be slowly improved.

BUSY BLES MEET TONIGHT The Busy Bee Sunday School class of the Methodist Church will have a social for members and guests tonight at the church parlors.

Weather Great Disappointment To Rogers Fans

There was almost $101 worth of disappointment in town today over several useless Will Rogers tickets.

In fact the supply of free tickets for the Rogers' performance this morning in Abilene greatly exceeded the demand. Several were willing to pass their on, if anybody wanted to go and use them.

The news of the postponement of the Abilene lecture from yesterday afternoon until this morning did not reach Big Spring in time yesterday to prevent the half dozen from going, who had set their hearts on the trip.

Mrs. W. C. Hardy and Mrs. Monroe Johnson defied the weather and drove down. They were back when they got to stick it out until Will Rogers showed up. Mrs. Jack Ellis had the honor of being the only Big Spring woman so far as we know, invited to the luncheon at the Hilton which was to be tendered the famous comedian by Abilene women. The weather kept her and the honor guest away. We don't know whether the luncheon plans were carried out, when Mr. Rogers could not appear.

C. W. Mitchell, proprietor of the State Hotel, was the only purchaser of a $10 ticket who got near enough to Abilene to use it. He went down on the train yesterday and stayed over.

Federal Loans For Veterans On Increase

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Federal loans to veterans on their bonus certificates increased 25 per cent in number during 1930 over 1929.

Testimony before the senate finance committee again today on proposals for cash redemption of the certificates, veterans administrator Hines said 1930 loans numbered 1,011,005 and amounted to $90,309,606. Loans during 1929 totaled $69,520,536.

Loans during 1929 were 40 per cent higher in number than during 1928, when $32,658 loans were made aggregating $33,244,418.

The veterans administrator testified yesterday loans so far this year are running at the rate of about $1,000,000 a day.

Hines elaborated today on the cost figures he presented to the committee yesterday. The amount of money which the treasury would be required to raise in order to pay cash on the face value of the certificates would be $3,409,000,000. The treasury would need to raise $1,697,000,000 for the Vanderberg bill proposing to loan veterans 50 per cent of the face value of the certificates.

The Fish bill, in the House, proposing a cash payment of 25 per cent of the face value of the certificates without interest, would require $855,000,000.

Hines testified it would require the government a year to complete the payment of cash on the face value of the certificates, but it could begin within 10 days.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Jan. 27 (AP)—More than 100 ex-service men of Floyd county attended a meeting here last night called by Roy L. Snodgrass, commander of the McDermott Post, American Legion, to urge upon congress the desirability of paying in cash the adjusted service claims of world war veterans.

Copies of resolutions were sent to Texas representatives and senators.

Speakers included the Rev. P. D. O'Brien, Judge L. G. Mathew, aide to General John A. Hulen of the Texas National Guard; and H. M. Mason of Lockney, former member of the British air forces.

Buren Edwards Appointed For Academy Place

The third alternate appointment was made by Congressman C. B. Hudspeth.

Edwards, track and basketball star, is a student at the University of Kansas.

Louille Allgood's Weekly Letter Warns Against Undernourishment From Eating Wrong Kinds Of Food

Dead Club Members: Are you buying health protection with your food money? There is evidence that even in prosperous times many persons do not use proper food to insure good health.

Indigestion, constipation, soft and poorly formed teeth, and poorly shaped bones are some of the conditions we see daily, which are brought about by unsatisfactory diet.

Tuberculosis finds a foothold most readily in undernourished individuals. Scurvy, pellagra, and rickets are brought about by lack of certain vitamins in the diet. While we know very little about scurvy, we know it is a disease prevalent in armies where soldiers eat concentrated, canned and dried foods, with a deficiency of milk, eggs, and green vegetables and fruits. But pellagra and rickets are more prevalent. It has been estimated that 200,000 people in our country suffer from pellagra.

It is likely that with people trying to eat food costs in 1931 that there will be even more cases. Farmers who have their own milk, butter, eggs, turnip patches, canned vegetables and meats have nothing to fear. The 4-H pantry demonstrators of 1930 planned canning budgets and menus to take care of their body needs.

Mrs. W. C. Rogers, R-Bar community, after studying adequate diets in club work in 1929 said: "I used to think lettuce and fresh vegetables were too expensive to buy during the winter months, but since I have started including them in my diet, the entire family has been in better health, and we very seldom have a cold in the family."

Jessie Whitacre, Research Division of the Texas Experiment Station, suggests a standard by which to judge the amount which will be necessary. The list given includes the least amount of foods which will furnish the necessary minerals and vitamins.

Dairy For Family Of Five Two dairy cows should yield two gallons per day. One gallon can be reserved daily for food and drink and three or four gallons per day. One gallon can be reserved for butter. Two cows are suggested so that they will freshen at different seasons, and thus furnish a continuous supply.

Poultry A flock of 60 pullets should furnish the eggs and meat supply. To maintain such a flock, 300 baby chicks should be hatched each spring. From this hatch may be expected 200 birds, about 100 of which will be cockerels, and 100 pullets. From the 100 pullets about 64 can be kept for producers. The other 36 pullets will be culled and may be classed with the cockerels to furnish the meat supply.

Meat Animals In addition to poultry and eggs, a meat supply could include enough pork, mutton, wild game, and fish to furnish one of the two servings of protein each day. In sections where a lack of iodine in water and foods has caused a simple goiter, it is suggested that salmon and oysters (both rich in iodine) be served at least once each week.

Milk At least 1-2 pints per person each day (1 quart, if possible). Milk furnishes Vitamins A, B and C, protein, calcium, lime, phosphorus, and iron. It may be used sweet, as clabber, or buttermilk, cottage cheese or in cooking.

Butter At least one serving per person each day to furnish Vitamins A and D.

Whole Cereal At least one serving per person each day. Whole grain cereals furnish phosphorus, iron, protein, and Vitamin B. They include products made of whole wheat flour and whole grain corn meal, whole grain breakfast foods, rolled oats, and hominy.

Fruits Raw fruits—At least one serving raw per person each day. Tomatoes or citrus fruit—at least three servings per person each week (more if possible).

Other fruits—at least four servings per person per week.

Protein Two servings per person each day. (Different kinds, if possible). Protein includes meat, eggs, nuts, dried peas, dried beans and cheese (Bacon is not classed as a meat).

Nutritionists suggest one egg per person each day and poultry once a week. In sections where there is lack of iodine, and simple goitre is prevalent, salmon or oysters, both rich in iodine, should be served once a week. Protein for children should come from milk and eggs.

Leafy or Green Vegetables These should be served daily or 2-3 times during the year. Since leafy vegetables can be grown out of doors most of the year, a three month supply should be sufficient for the unproductive months.

These vegetables may be chosen from spinach, Swiss chard, rape, kale, cauliflower, cabbage, collards, Brussels sprouts, mustard, turnip tops, beet tops, onion tops, Kohlrabi, lettuce, cress, broccoli, wild greens, asparagus, kraut, endive, Chinese cabbage, string beans, snap peas, English peas, and green peppers.

Starchy Vegetables One every day. Starchy vegetables include sweet potatoes and Irish potatoes, parsnips and very young corn. Since potatoes can be stored and parsnips are not grown extensively in Texas, this leaves corn as the only product to use and most homemakers plan to serve it twice each week for fifty unproductive weeks.

Other Vegetables One every day for 365 times a year. These vegetables include, turnips, beets, squash, cuscush, carrots, pumpkins, rutabaga, radishes, okra, green plant, fresh shelled peas or beans, cucumbers and radishes.

Since many of these can be stored or kept in the ground, it is not necessary to can a large quantity. Most housewives find beets, okra, squash and carrots sufficient. (This does not include beets if they are pickled.)

Local Couple Steals March On Friends

Juanita Ralph and James H. Jennings Married In Oklahoma Sunday

Friends of Miss Juanita Ralph and James H. Jennings were informed yesterday of their marriage Sunday in Marietta, Okla.

Juanita and Jimmie had driven to Dallas over the week-end to bring back a college friend with no intentions, they said, of taking the final step when they left.

The friend, Mrs. Jack Stephens of Mt. Pleasant, became a matron of honor, however, before all three started back for Big Spring.

Juanita is a Big Spring girl well known and liked for her vivacious manner. She is a graduate of the city high school and attended C. I. A. for three and a half years. She has been teaching this year in the Hart Wells school and will finish the term out.

Jimmie is a Dallas and Wichita Falls boy, and a brother of New Jennings of this city. He is a graduate of the Wichita Falls Junior College. He is employed by the Family Service Laundry.

Mrs. Jennings is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Ralph of the Self-Service Grocery. Mrs. Ralph is convalescing from a long illness, and it was to save her worry that the marriage was unexpected and kept a secret for a few days.

Mrs. Jack Stephens is returning to Mt. Pleasant today.

Railway Clerks Hear Houston Speak

W. J. Houston, general chairman of the Railway Clerks, spoke at a meeting of the Clerks held at the Settles hotel Tuesday evening, his subject being in connection with the general depression and the depreciation of railroad revenues, stressing the importance, which is of vital interest to railroad employees, of tax relief regulating bus and truck traffic.

He also urged each individual employee to use his influence with the local business men in handling shipments by railroad freight, as the decrease in railroad revenues results in a reduction of forces, and this reduction of employees robs them of purchasing power, which reverts upon the business men.

Mr. Houston was formerly employed as a clerk in the yard office at Big Spring, but was elected general chairman of the clerks organization succeeding M. A. Miller of Longview.

Under the auspices of the College of Pacific, California, and has given social economics considerable study and thought.

Parents Annoyed By Children In Only 2,124 Ways

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 29 (AP)—There are 2,124 ways in which children annoy parents.

Dr. Mandel Sherman, director of the Child Research Center, Washington, D. C., made that statement here today before the 24th annual farmers week and marketing conference at the Georgia State College of Agriculture.

Dr. Sherman said a survey was made by 32 parents, who were asked to keep account of the ways in which their children annoyed them. They carried small notebooks around with them and kept a record each day of the week.

The greatest number of annoyances, Dr. Sherman said, was caused by disobedience, but all sorts of conditions were put down as annoying. Some parents were annoyed because their children were too slow, or because they were too quick or alert. A few parents were annoyed because the children were not neat, while others were disturbed by their primping.

"The results," Dr. Sherman said "showed that the attitudes of the parents, their emotions at a given time, and their feelings of well-being affected greatly the kind and number of annoyances with their children."

Discussing "education of parent hood," he said the problem of personal welfare and of happiness can be solved by properly preparing the youth for life, and education for parenthood can do much in this respect.

"Many people still believe that a child develops 'naturally' and that what he inherits determines what he will be later on. But our work with children in the past 25 years has given proof that the way in which a child is brought up determines what he will be later on as youth and as an adult."

"The most easily influenced of all a child's development is personality. All of us can agree that one of the most important causes of unhappiness is a personality which fits in poorly with conditions and with other people."

More Regulations Of Automobile Lights Aim of Williamson

AUSTIN, Jan. 27 (AP)—Calling attention to the increasing number of fatalities among Texas motorists as the result of tax headlight laws, Senator Williamson of San Antonio said today he would introduce a bill calling for more stringent regulations.

Senator Williamson, while a member of the house in 1923, was author of the present headlight law. He said legislators at that time had a limited knowledge of their subject.

Under the provisions of the bill drawn by Senator Williamson a heavy penalty would be imposed on headlight testers failing to make proper adjustments. Senator Williamson said there had been no penalty provided for the man who made tests in violation of the law.

The regulation of headlights would be placed under the supervision of the highway department, he said.

He said there had been no way to tentatively enforce headlight laws prior to the creation of the state highway patrol.

Another provision would suspend operators of motor vehicles who fail to observe the new headlight regulations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Responding to a statement by Chairman Payne of the Red Cross, that his organization will not accept government relief funds, democratic leader, Robinson said in the senate today congress will set up its own agencies for distribution of relief funds.

The statement by Judge Payne was in testimony today before the house appropriations committee hearing on the senate's $25,000,000 appropriation for the Red Cross. The chairman revealed the central committee of the relief organization had voted unanimously against acceptance.

"If the Red Cross refuses to measure up to the proper standard in this emergency and refuses to respond to the ordinary impulses that move human hearts," Robinson said, "congress will find its own Druggists—adv."

"TWO-COAT CONSCIOUS"
In a recent advertisement a department store urged its customers to become "two-coat conscious" and have a light winter overcoat for mild weather and a heavier one for stormy and freezing days.
The idea of a light and heavy overcoat to suit variations in weather is based on good sense. The problem of adequate clothing in winter time sums up to this—that one should be able indoors and outdoors to keep a fairly even body temperature.

The outer and under-garments should be of such weight that one does not become overheated indoors nor subject to freezing outside. In this, of course, more than overcoats are involved. The other garments worn play an equally important role.

Since the average American home is kept fairly warm in winter time, the heavier undergarment that formerly heralded the advent of cold weather appears to be out of style.
Even the cartoonists no longer burlesque the winter itch of woolen garments. Except for the outdoor workers this extra precaution does not appear desirable. On the other hand, adequate outer garments should be worn whenever the weather is severe.

Winter stock-ings, socks and shoes should be substantial enough to protect the wearer against chilling and freezing, particularly during wet weather. It has been shown that chilling the extremities tends to lower resistance to disease and predisposes one to the respiratory infections.

Children, especially, should be guarded against excess exposure.
It should also be borne in mind that the child's body radiates more heat than does proportionately the adult's, and they are more easily chilled.

Hollywood Sights
By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — Some observations on studio visitors and how they act:

The a-much-impressed party of tourists from the middlewest, who are "so nervous" to meet jary Cooper because a friend of theirs went to Hollywood with him.
Would-be blas-phemies who follow their suffering studio guide with an air of "concocted" borrowed as the studio sights are pointed out.
They are not really movie fans, they are careful to make clear, but as long as they're in Hollywood they thought they should see how movies are made.
If they are permitted to visit a set, they stand smiling, mildly interested in the proceedings, and usually having to be politely shushed as recording begins.
They leave with a patronizing
"Thank you, so much" to the guide —and rush to their hotels to write the folks a vivid account of studio life at first hand, with embellishments involving intimate chats with Ramon Novarro, Ronald Colman or Lupe Velez.

GIGGLES
Fluttering girls who are agog over Clara Bow, and nearly faint if they are accorded an introduction to Charles "Buddy" Rogers. They are "so thrilled" by everything.
Timid but curious housewives from the east, who have heard all sorts of tales about Hollywood and scarcely listen to the guide at all because their eyes and minds are busy prying covertly into studio corners in hope of observing a scandal in progress.
And self-important folk who by some book or crook have inveigled a permit to visit, and are obviously dissatisfied with the reception accorded them.

They leave, you suspect, disappointed because Greta Garbo, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks,
Charlie Chaplin and Mickey Mouse were not trotted out for their inspection.

MODEL
And last, and most welcome—the genuinely interested but unobtrusive visitors who realize that picture-making is a business enterprise, not a three-ring circus staged for their exclusive entertainment; who appreciate that they are lucky even to be admitted within the walls—so expensive and ir-some have been previous studio experiences with visitors.

Masked Longing
By HOWARD ROCKY A ROMANCE OF RADIO

SYNOPSIS: Vivienne Gray's jealousy of her sister Aileen brings tragedy to the latter. Viviene, who models for Dwight Channing, artist, attends a party he gives to celebrate Aileen's success as a musical comedy star.
Incensed because Aileen is in the limelight, Vivienne takes a dare to bathe in the fountain. Aileen tries to stop her, is disfigured when she plunges through a glass door. Aileen goes into seclusion, with a silk mask, concealing her scars, and buoyed up only by the loyalty of Jimmy Crane, the theatrical press agent who loves her. Vivienne meets Arnold Kronberg, movie magnate of doubtful repute. Channing proposes to Crane that Aileen can become a "mystery" radio singer, with a porcelain mask to conceal her scars. Viviene phones suddenly that she is at Kronberg's office and she thinks Kronberg is dead.

Chapter 17
WHO SHOT KRONBERG?
"Do you suppose she's killed him?" Jimmy expressed his fear to Channing as they sat on the edge of a taxi seat, cursing the traffic delay.
Channing nudged him, shook his head. There was no sense in chanc-ing a possibly sharp-eared chauffeur.
"Lord! I'm glad you were with me," he said guardedly. "We'll have to do some fast thinking and decide what's best to do. Luckily, I have a key to Kronberg's private sanctum. He left it with me when he went west—so that I could drop in with my murals. The chances are there'll be no one in the building but the watchman. You get into Kronberg's office through a side door off the street."
They could see the theatre's outlines in the block ahead.
"Better get out here," Channing warned. "We'll attract less attention."
Silence reigned in what was to be Kronberg's outer office. A thin yellow line beneath a door at the opposite end of the room guided the two men. Both of them listened. Then Channing deliberately moved a chair. There was no response.
Channing called, "Kronberg, are you there?"
Another crack of light grew visible as the door was partly opened and Vivienne peered out.
Face down, Kronberg, was sprawled on the rug. There was no sign of any struggle, but on the floor near Channing's feet was a small automatic. He looked from it to Vivienne, and she slowly shook her head.
"Luckily I'd presence of mind not to touch the thing," she looked from one to the other, and under their startled scrutiny Vivienne lost her poise.
"You don't believe I shot him?
You can't believe that!"
"Of course not—" Jimmy started to say, but Channing touched his arm. "Tell us just what happened.
Quickly. Viv, for you can't stay here. Someone may come any moment."
Her long nails were cutting into her palms.
"He asked me to dinner and I phoned to ask Aileen if she'd mind."
"From here?" Channing interrupted. "That might prove important—if the police check up."
"No," she replied. "He said he wanted something that was locked up in his desk, so we stopped in—myself. No jury would ever convict me of killing Arnold Kron-berg! If whoever it was had not come in—I'd certainly have tried."

Vivienne's story rang true. But Channing and Jimmy were both aware that her statement about the girl in the mask would probably be taken with a grain of salt.
Even if it were accepted, the mention of the domino—in view of the whole circumstances—could only point to Aileen.
"Now the thing is to get you out of here," said Channing decisively.
"Put her on a train for Philadelphia," he told Jimmy.
"What'll you do?" asked Jimmy.
"Get a hospital first of all," Channing took up the telephone.
"But we can't both desert you!"
Vivienne stepped toward him.
"Do as I tell you!" Channing growled. "It's perfectly natural for me to be here. There's no apparent reason why I should quarrel with Kronberg."
Headlines in the morning papers declared Kronberg was expected to recover. He had refused to make a statement. Channing was thankful for that, but he knew if Kron-berg lived he probably would seek revenge. There had been no mention of an unknown woman wearing a domino—no finger marks on the automatic.
Channing secretly wondered whether there had been any woman—whether Vivienne had been frank in telling her story.
"The only move is to sit tight," Channing advised.
"But you are bound to be questioned again," Jimmy persisted.
"That's perfectly safe," said Channing. "What possible motive could I have . . . ?"

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take.
Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to "creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Will Rogers Declares Big Spring Associated Press Representative Recently 'Got Everything Wrong'

Our Will Sam Pepps

By WILL ROGERS

I used to write a good deal about what I read in the papers. But you know I been reading a lot of these other Writers of Sundays, and they write mostly about themselves, and they seem to be doing mighty well too.

It seems that away back in Caesar or Hefline or somebody's early days there was some old Writer called Peppy, and all he did was just write what he did. Well he didn't do much, (but write) for there wasn't much to do in those days. Oh yes, drink. Well he had some kind of peculiar ways of saying things and his spelling stand anybody that can't spell.

But this old fellow could make nothing sound good the way he laid it out on the line. He had two expressions, and if he just hadn't happened to use them, why none of our modern Writers could have copied him, for that all they can copy him in, they just use these two lines over again and again. Well think they are doing a Peppy. One was "Lays late," and the other was "Woke betimes." Well I am going to do some of that "Lays late" and "Woke betimes."

I will start on my trip east from California a couple of weeks ago. The night before I started I "Lays late." No I didn't, it was two nights before I started that I "Lays late." The morning that I started I "Lays late" for I had to catch a train. An airplane that was leaving away over in Burbank, Cal. (That's not Burbank home, it's Jim Jefferson) and I was away out at my little ranch at Santa Monica. It was leaving around five o'clock and you can't do much "Laying late" and make that kind of a get away.

My Oldest Son Bill was to drive me, and that meant I had to get up just one hour earlier than usual in order to start trying to get him up. Well anyhow I "Woke betimes." I woke betimes because I had two alarm clocks set for the job, and they both went off thirty minutes early.

Well 3:30 A. M. is pretty tough time to start a diary. Should be working on a Dairy, and juicing a Jersey Heifer at that hour. Well it was dark, and we drove in toward Hollywood, and got pretty near through it before we saw a single car. Hollywood is so wild that there wasn't even a Street lamp burning at that hour. We got to the field, bought my Ticket for Ft. Worth Texas, had some Baggage Excess, (I told my wife I didn't need all three of those shirts). Stood around about half asleep, and then had a cup of Coffee. I don't do much eating when I am in a Plane, or getting on one. I am mighty easy to get sick. It's a big three, Wasp Motored Fokker Plane. It's still dark when I tell the Kid goodbye, and to take care of my Ponies, and to stay off em, and only play his own.

Burbank and Glendale look mighty sparkling from the early dawn, then out over Los Angeles, its spread out, well you leave to look at it by lights to see how far it is spread out. Then we hit for over Pemonia, and on over through the mountain pass at Banning and the fashionable Palm Springs. Then nothing to see till we hit Phoenix, or near Phoenix where the Irrigation flats start in. Those thousands of flat squares are beautiful from the air.

At Phoenix was met by a band of Citizens that wanted me to stay over or come back to a big affair where they were going to have 17 rail road Presidents at the Fruit Shippers Convention, and they was going to have a Golf Game, between the seventeen and seventeen Vice Presidents were to be nothing new, they had been carrying the Bag for em all the time. But it was Vice Presidents a chance to do something. Then the rest of the Audience was composed of other Vice Presidents. But they did plan on having a great time and I hear they had it. They've me a big box of the finest dates I ever ate. (Smuggled over from California I bet). Then on down over Tombstone, Ariz. and the next stop was Tucson. Another Delight had some kind of a "Racket," they wanted me to stop over and enter into. No it was Douglas. I was this bunch was. It was on the Mexican Line. I wouldn't have minded stopping there. Then they had a "Racket," changed Flies, not there about 1:30 P. M. about three days ride on the train, then started across Texas.

Now you have started something.

Two popular Big Spring boys who were graduated from high school here last year and filled star roles on athletic teams, will go through their first season in college without having to drop out due to "old times."

This was made possible Saturday. The Kiwanis club committee in charge of its student loan fund, announced through Dr. J. R. Dillard that each boy would be loaned $50. They had already been loaned $10 each by J. B. Pickle and Fox Stripling, thanks to interest shown by Shine Phillips after he was informed over telephone by Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of McMurry college in Abilene where the boys are enrolled that they would have to drop out next Wednesday unless they could borrow $60 each.

Mr. Phillips also relayed the matter to the Kiwanis committee. He and Dr. Dillard informed Dr. Hunt by letter last night of the committee's action.

These loans will bring the total loaned by the Kiwanians to students since the fall of 1929 to $285, as follows: Miss Opal Lawley, Texas Tech, $450; Miss Gertrude Laney, John Seely hospital student of nursing, $35; John Hutto, State Medical college, $200; Buren Edwards, University of Kansas, $200; Buster Bell, McMurry college, $50; Paul "Allopy" Smith, McMurry college, $50.

Amarillo To Fight Train Discontinuance

AMARILLO, Texas, Jan. 24 (AP)—Civic organizations and railway trainmen of Amarillo will oppose removal of two overnight trains of the Fort Worth & Denver between Amarillo and Dallas. It was announced Saturday. A second hearing on the request of the railroad to discontinue the trains has been set by the railroad commission for February 2. An application for authority to remove trains was denied by the commission on November 22, when the commission's order declared the case could not be re-opened prior to April 1.

644,253 Daily Tax Payment Bill Causes Tangle As Second Week of Legislative Session Ends; Race Track Bill Up

By HARRELL E. LEE Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 24 (AP)—The second week of the 42nd legislative session ended with the proposal to keep the taxpayer from having to pay all his taxes before February 1 in a tangle and the rules not definitely settled.

The rules argument seemed about over, however, and progress had been made on the tax legislation. The senate passed a bill to let half the taxes "ride" until June 30, only to see it killed in the House committee and replaced by a bill which would allow all taxes to go over until October 15 with interest at the rate of ten per cent the only penalty.

Two hundred and forty six bills had been introduced, 156 of them in the House. Among them were proposals to legalize the contribution system of betting on horse races, to levy a tax on sulphur, to place a tax on chain stores and to repeal the evidence clause of the search and seizure act, a step demanded by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Each of these bills was sure to cause warm debate, and it was doubtful if floor action on them would be taken before the second half of the session.

Representative Farmer of Fort Worth proposed to levy a tax of $1.50 a ton on sulphur. Observers considered he planned to use the $1.50 figure as a lever, since the highest tax proposed in the 41st legislature was $1 and the present tax is only 35 cents. People who love legislative scraps already are looking forward to the sulphur tax fight, which promises to be one of the most intense of the session.

Representative Dyer of San Antonio offered the race track bill. Two years ago a bill to legalize the pari mutual system of betting on horse races was killed in the House, where it was introduced, by a few votes. Governor Ross S. Sterling, in his campaign said he was opposed to "race track gambling."

Representative Graves of Georgetown and Fort Worth proposed to allow evidence to be admitted in court, no matter if illegally obtained. This is an effort to do away with another part of the search and seizure act, which has been a storm center ever since its passage during the Ferguson administration. Dry organizations charged the search and seizure act handicapped officers and gave unfair advantages to the bootleggers. A compromise was effected in the 41st legislature and that part of the law allowing suits for damages to be filed against officers making illegal searches was wiped out. The $200,000,000 highway bond issue was proposed by Senator Walter F. Woodul of Houston, administration leader. The proposal to hold a referendum on this subject brought on a hard fight two years ago, finally losing in the House by a few votes. No action was expected in the immediate future.

Cotton Acreage

The House spent quite a bit of time this week discussing cotton acreage. One-fourth, was defeated Representative Pope of Corpus Christi to endorse the Garrett plan, which would cut off credit unless the farmer agreed to cut his cotton acreage. This bill was sponsored by J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture.

The House is expected to consider the tax payment bill Monday. Its revenue and taxation committee fashioned a bill of its own. If the House passes the bill of its committee, the senate is expected to refuse to concur and ask for a free conference committee. Senator Ornel of Wichita Falls who introduced the bill passed by the senate, was not an enthusiast over the proposal which the house committee had recommended. He said that under his semi-annual payment plan the counties would get some money now, which they needed, and that he feared they would not get that money under the House committee bill. He also pointed to the hardship of paying one year's taxes October 15 and the next year's the following February 1.

The two houses were unable to get together on joint rules so it looked as though they would have separate rules. The House will be able to do anything it desires by two-thirds vote notwithstanding that the constitutional amendment adopted in November suggests a specified order of procedure.

The senate apparently will stick to the procedure outlined in the constitutional amendment, although final action has not been taken. The senate likely will require a four-fifths bill to give final consideration to a bill the first sixty days or to introduce a bill the last sixty days.

City Park Plan Starts; Expert Flies Here Saturday

E. L. Baker, of the Baker Brothers Nursery, Fort Worth, was brought to Big Spring Saturday on the regular B. A. F. E. air mail-passenger ship free of charge with compliments of the aviation concern as a result of the interest of Lee Sanders, division manager located here, in proper landscape gardening and planning of the City Park.

Mr. Baker had been employed by the city and will deliver plans and specifications for systematic improvement of the park, within the next ten days.

Native material will be used whenever possible. Large trees will be used for shade as well as to give immediate effect. The park will be divided into several sections. All playground activities will be included in the layout.

The city zoning plans were mentioned at the last meeting of the Rotary club, at which Lee Sanders was a guest. He offered to bring Mr. Baker here on the company ship.

"I am always ready to aid Big Spring in such civic matters," said Sanders.

County Commissioners Not For Bill Seeking Creation Of New Judicial District

Opposition to creating a new judicial district composed of Howard and Borden counties, and automatically removing these counties from the old 32nd district, will be voiced by some Howard county residents and attorneys, it was learned today.

The opposition took form Saturday afternoon when the county commissioners and the county judge, authorized a letter be written to Penrose M. Metcalfe, representative, protesting the proposed bill.

The house judicial district committee will hold a hearing on the bill Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at Austin.

The commissioners were of the opinion that the cost to the state would not warrant a new district being carved out of the old one. They did recommend, however, that additional time be allotted this county in order to handle court procedure.

It was pointed out that should the district be created, Howard County would have approximately 50 of the 52 weeks during the year inasmuch as very few cases are filed in Borden county, and two weeks only would be needed to clear the docket in that county.

In the meantime, the Nolan County Bar Association will present a formal request that Fisher County be added to the 32nd district, if Howard and Borden are withdrawn from it. Fisher, at the present, is in the 10th district.

James Henry Egan, Jr., Ed. J. Hamner, W. W. Beall, and E. Earl Harp, Sweetwater attorneys, were named as a committee to present the application to add Fisher County to the district.

The bill to create the new district was offered by Metcalfe.

Rain Nearly One Inch Here

.90 Precipitation Registered; Whole T&P Route Wet

A general rain which started falling over this county Sunday night, continued today, falling slowly and giving a wonderful seasoning to farm lands.

The rain was nearing the inch mark this afternoon. Since Sunday night, .90 of an inch has fallen in this vicinity, according to the gauge at the United States Government experiment farm, south of Big Spring.

From Sunday night to 8 a. m. Monday, .41 of an inch fell. From 8 a. m. Monday to 8 a. m. today, .40 of an inch was registered. One-tenth of an inch had fallen up to 2:30 p. m. today.

The mercury stood at 45 degrees this afternoon. The maximum temperature for Monday was 50 degrees, with a minimum of 40 degrees. East, west and north bound schedules into Big Spring were cancelled today. Ships ran Monday.

From El Paso to Fort Worth rain or mist was reported according to the Texas and Pacific dispatcher. Although the precipitation was not heavy, cloudy weather, mist and light rains at intervals have existed since Sunday.

Heavy moisture-laden clouds continued to rule the skies this afternoon, as a fine mist was falling. Big Spring streets, after being saturated with the slow falling rain, were in a muddy and slippery condition.

Reports coming in from scattered parts of the county indicate the rain has been evenly distributed in this section.

The rain was welcomed by Howard County farmers.

SWEETWATER, Texas, Jan. 27 (AP)—Rain which began yesterday and continued through the night was still falling today, the total precipitation being approximately one inch. Flying weather was bad and lateral roads were impassable.

LAREDO, Texas, Jan. 27 (AP)—A quarter inch of rain fell here last night and early today, with heavy clouds promising more.

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 27 (AP)—Rain measuring .69 of an inch fell here yesterday and today, benefiting grazing lands. Precipitation was reported general in this section, but not in New Mexico or Arizona.

Poetic, of Course But A Divorce Is Another Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28 (AP)—"I do not drink, I do not curse, nor have I habits that are worse," poetic Frank B. Brice averred, before his wedding bells were heard. Thus Mrs. Brice declared him a vin, in seeking a divorce.

Spring Style Notes From the Paris Openings

PARIS, Jan. 28 (AP)—The frills and furledowns of the elegant eighties, combined with the daring sleekness of the twentieth century, paraded through the flower decked salons of one of the leading Parisian couturiers last night, an illustration of what smart sophisticates will wear this spring.

From lace edged petticoats showing inches below dark crepe daylines to transparent black lace evening gowns minus an undergarment, the collection contrasted diffidence and sophistication of fifty years ago and today.

Satin evening gowns decked in rows of iridescent fringe, pale pink lace dancing dresses embroidered in white star and black lace gowns designed over a scant knee length slip were among the outstanding models.

Gowns were cut lower than ever in the back, some of them having no back save a cove of brilliant straps across the shoulder blades. Most of them were long enough to brush the floor and were designed with ruffles. They were accented by long or three quarter length wraps trimmed in dark fur.

Daytime frocks ranged from trim suits of soft wool and silk in diagonal stripe or across barred design to crepe frocks fashioned with a short or three quarter length sleeves and tightly swathed hip lines with the fullness released at the knee in full godets or pleats.

Several demure crepe frocks had ruffled petticoats of cream or pale pink lace showing below the hem. Daytime coats were generally full length, designed in the fitted one and wrapping around the figure. Many were richly furred with lynx or light fox.

'Liquor Soaked' Farmer referred to his home county as "liquor soaked Tarrant county." Representative Beck of Fort Worth took exception to this remark, declaring Tarrant was no worse than any other county.

A sub-committee of the committee on liquor traffic was authorized today to redraft the resolution and remove "some of its obnoxious features." Several members said yesterday they would be unwilling to vote for the resolution in written because it challenged sincerity and honesty of several members of the Wickersham investigating committee.

Representative Coltrin of Mathis was named chairman of the sub-committee.

A bill was introduced in the House to provide for the election of county school superintendents. They are now appointed.

Re-Districting Representative Metcalfe of San Angelo introduced his congressional redistricting bill today. It would increase the number of Texas districts from 18 to 21 and consolidate several districts.

Representative Harman of Waco introduced a bill to provide for the preferential primary system. Under the plan, voters would ballot for first and second choice and if neither candidate received a majority of first choice votes, the candidate who received the most second and first choice votes would be nominated.

Representative Hardy of Breckinridge introduced a bill prohibiting teachers from requiring school pupils to purchase books other than the texts authorized by the school board for classroom work.

A bill to abolish the three day application provision of the state marriage law was introduced by Representative Sullivan of Gainesville. The law would retain the physical examination feature.

Representative Rogers of Celeste and Savage of Dallas introduced a bill to prohibit writs of execution on Confederate pensions.

A bill to license chiropractors was introduced by Farmer of Fort Worth. The bill would set up a board of chiropractic examiners to examine applicants.

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 24 (AP)—Stricken with a heart attack when he saw the body of his slain brother, C. A. Bashara, George Bashara, 45, Electra, Texas, was in a critical condition here tonight.

C. A. Bashara was shot to death yesterday by Fred L. Salles, tenant farmer, who claimed when arraigned today on a murder charge that Bashara threatened him with an ax on the Salles farm seven miles northwest of Norman.

Hogers' appearance was preceded by the Cowboy Band of Simmons University, which gave a 15-minute concert featuring Johnny Regan, trick whip artist, and Will Rogers, singer and guitarist. Rogers is chauffeur in Will in his big high-powered car, and they were to leave at 12:30 for Breckenridge for a 3 p. m. address. An airplane was available here if Will wanted to fly to Dallas for the night show, but Jimmy Rogers said he would drive the hummer.

"If This Keeps Up I'll Miss Bath," Says Will

ABILENE, Texas, Jan. 28 (AP)—"If this here keeps up I'm going to miss my bath this coming Saturday night," said Will Rogers, opening his deferred unemployment benefit matinee here this morning. Starting time had been set for 10:30, but it was nearly 11 when the humorist arrived, after a fast automobile ride from San Angelo. A crowd of 2,000, filling the hall, had been patiently waiting for him, and he got a rousing ovation when he came on the stage, grinning.

C. V. Terrell Is Choice of Lon A. Smith

Former Governor Now Chairman By Tacit Consent

OIL POLICIES CAUSE Disagreement Has Extended Several Months, Says Report

(Special Dispatch) AUSTIN, Jan. 27.—Railroad Commissioner Lon A. Smith said Tuesday he will nominate, at the next formal session of the commission, his colleague, C. V. Terrell of Decatur as chairman.

This will displace former Governor Pat M. Neff as chairman. Smith said Mr. Neff was never formally elected chairman, but held the title by tacit consent. The vote will culminate several months disagreement over oil policies.

Under the 1928 ten per cent interest law would be charged an interest for tax payments after February 1. The delinquent tax penalty would be cut from ten to five per cent on all 1930 taxes unpaid on October 15. All provisions made were for 1930 taxes only.

Thirty Bills Placed In Lawmakers' Hopper

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—Tax relief continued to lead the commanding position today in the legislature. The Senate had sent over to the House Senator Oneal's second tax relief bill, which would postpone the delinquent tax date until February 21. The bill would allow the legislature more time in which to enact emergency tax legislation.

A free conference committee was appointed yesterday to decide on emergency tax legislation after the Senate had failed to concur with the House on the Weiner bill.

Yesterday's sessions brought out a variety of legislation. In the House the principal flare-up had as its focal point prohibition. The Senate working only half of the day had a rather calm session.

Thirty bills were piled into the hopper yesterday, 19 in the House and 11 in the Senate.

One of the provisions of a redistricting bill introduced by Representative Metcalfe of San Angelo last night would be divided into 21 congressional districts. Senator Martin of Hillsboro introduced a bill to permit officials to try persons charged with the sale or delivery of liquor either in the county where the sale was made or in the counties through which the liquor was transported.

Insanity would be a ground for removal under provisions of a bill introduced by Senator Woodruff of Decatur.

Other bills introduced in the House proposed the preferential primary system; construction of a $250,000 state highway building; abolishment of the three day requirement of the marriage license law; nomination of the judiciary by the convention system; fire insurance and had insurance for tornado, lightning and hail damage; licensing of chiropractors; and establishment of a state chiropractic board and the creation of the office of building and loan commissioner.

Bills introduced in the Senate included three which called for more stringent enforcement of the state hunting law. Two others would authorize the state to purchase public lands and establish game preserves.

State Highway Patrolman Warns Howard Motorists To Get Plates

With the final day for obtaining 1931 automobile and truck license plates drawing near, L. B. Barkley, state highway patrolman, today reiterated his warning of several weeks ago regarding penalties for not obtaining registrations.

Barkley pointed out that tax collectors are compelled to collect twenty per cent of the registration fee, if licenses are obtained after January 31, if the vehicles have been used during the month of January.

The highway patrolman also announced that owners of cars and trucks without 1931 plates are subject to a fine not to exceed $200.

The last minute rush for plates had not started today, and payments are far below those of last year. It is estimated that not more than half of the cars and trucks in the county have been registered.

By J. C. STARK

MARVELL, Ark., Jan. 28 (AP)—One meal a day, consisting usually of bread and molasses and perhaps beans or plain salt pork, is what the average drought sufferer's family gets out of what the Red Cross gives him.

"But we're thankful to get that because it keeps us from starving," said Jacob Miller, a negro tenant farmer and life long resident of this community. "About all it does is keep us alive though."

Miller's case is typical of that of most of the tenant farmers of this and other counties—whites and negroes alike.

He has a wife and two children and has been receiving food from the Red Cross for three weeks. It amounts to about $5 a month.

"We eat one meal a day," he said. "If we tried to get more than that out of the food we get, it wouldn't last two weeks."

The food is allotted every two weeks.

"We don't get enough at one meal. If I ate all I wanted, there wouldn't be any left for my family so lots of times I do without."

"The people over here, both white and colored persons, have just about killed all their hogs that didn't die of the five hogs and was afraid to eat them. I know of others who also lost their hogs. I don't know what was the matter with them—I suppose it was because they hadn't got the right kind of feed."

"Now people are going to have to kill their cows as poor as they are, to get enough to eat."

Miller's children are not in school because he said they did not have clothes to keep them warm. Many others are keeping their children out for the same reason.

Like many of the other tenant farmers Miller saved nothing from last year's crop. His cotton brought him ten cents a pound and barely paid for the picking. He could not pay for the food furnished him on that crop. He bought a mule which he lost because he could not pay for it.

Will Rogers' Texas Charity Work Begins

Members of Legislature Among Hearers in Austin

PROGRAM AT NOON

Frank Hawks To Fly New York to Abilene To Join Will

AUSTIN, Jan. 26. (AP)—Will Rogers, cowboy comedian, will start his Texas tour for the benefit of the unemployed at noon today with indications pointing to a record crowd. The performance will be given at a theater here.

Members of the house and senate of the Texas legislature planned to attend in a body to hear Rogers' pointed barbs in their direction. On his arrival yesterday, Rogers was given hearty cooperation along this line, former Governor Dan Moody and newspapermen agreeing to lend aid in furnishing interesting bits of local color.

Legislatures, according to Rogers, are his meat but he explained that all he knew was what he read in the papers and this session has not progressed far enough for anyone to make a fool of himself.

The traveling cowboy appeared to be in good condition for his Texas tour. And the tour is not being made for his health, Rogers saying, "I'm trying to get some money from somebody I give to somebody to help me out of it."

He also was well posted on the sections of Texas that were worst hit by drought and unemployment, the former cowboy expressing genuine concern for the farmers of West Texas. He listened attentively while Moody went over the situation with him.

Rogers will go to San Antonio tonight for another performance.

ABILENE, Texas, Jan. 26. (AP)—Frank Hawks, famous speed pilot, will make a night flight from New York to Texas tonight, joining Will Rogers at Abilene tomorrow. Rogers told the Abilene Reporter today over telephone from Austin, Rogers' third engagement in his unemployment benefit tour of Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma is a matter here Tuesday at 2 p. m.

"Frank tells me," said Will, "that he is to be chief speaker at some Shrine blowout in New York tonight, but that he'll leave immediately afterward in the navy department's 'Hell Diver' Special and fly all night. With good luck he plans to join me in Abilene tomorrow afternoon."

Rogers is being flown in a Ford tri-motored plane loaned by Erie P. Halliburton, organizer of South-west Air Express, recently absorbed by Aviation Corporation. At the controls is Bob Cantwell, Illinois burlesque personality and almost as famous as Hawks. Will is being accompanied by Jimmy Rogers, recording singer and guitarist, and Chester Byers, rodeo ace and trick rider. A roping contest between Rogers and Byers is a part of the show.

Glasscock No. 9 Right-of-Way Is Sought By Group

All except five owners of property in the corner of Glasscock county, across which the state highway No. 9 is being built, have indicated they will oppose building of the highway. The state wishes to pave the highway strip to join up with the paving that has just been contracted for No. 9 in Sterling county and across the corner of Coke county.

The commission, knowing that their survey called for the road to cut across the extreme corner of the county, does not expect it to pay any of the cost of the paving and will handle all expenses connected with it with exception of the right-of-way.

Webb Returns From Session

J. L. Webb, proprietor of the Webb Motor Company, Buick dealer here, has returned from the spring sales meeting held in Abilene and attended by 35 Buick dealers, salesmen and service managers from ten West Texas cities. The zone manager, Allen Wright, had charge of the meeting. Other zone officials attending were J. A. Hart, manager of the Dallas regional offices; Raymond Foy, sales promotion manager; John M. Holt, Dallas district representative.

"Our men are very optimistic over definite signs for better conditions," Mr. Wright was saying. "Factories are sending men back to work, the unemployment situation, decreasing and things loosening up in general."

Lamesa-Big Spring Truck Line Given Schedule Changes

AUSTIN, Jan. 26.—The railroad commission has approved, effective January 26, application of McCauley Transfer and Storage company, for permission to change its schedule on its Lamesa-Big Spring line.

Independent Oil Session Report Includes Talks

Included in the sessions held last week in Washington, D. C., by representatives of independent oil producers of 18 states, including a strong representation from Texas, the following things were said:

In the early part of 1929 Mr. M. L. Requa, reported at the time to be acting in behalf of President Hoover, called upon the governors of the several oil-producing states to enlist their aid in holding a conference of the petroleum industry to later called such a conference to meet at Colorado Springs, Colorado, on June 10, 1929. This conference was attended by several of the governors and also by a large number of delegates from the various oil-producing states, representing all branches of the industry.

The conference was opened by Mr. Requa, with a statement of the aims thereof. Dr. Wilbur, secretary of the interior, again announced the conservation policies of the federal oil conservation board, and Dr. George Otis Smith, director of the United States Geological Survey, among other things stated in substance, that the next year would be a critical year for the exhaustion of our petroleum reserves to the point of endangering national defense. The doctrine of conservation was again expounded, and the delegates representing the various states were asked to form a compact among the states producing oil, which compact, when adopted and approved by congress, would become the supreme law of the land; a commission would be appointed under the authority of the compact, with power to regulate and control the production of oil, to determine how much oil should be produced within the United States, and to allocate that production among the several oil producing states.

When it became apparent that the real purpose of the meeting was not conservation in its real and accepted sense, but that the purpose was by degrees and from time to time, to reduce the production of oil in the United States and reserve our supplies in the ground for an indefinite period to come, and at the same time import our requirements in large part from foreign countries, the Colorado Springs conference adjourned, without having accomplished anything whatever toward the consummation of the purpose for which it was called.

However, this conference had far-reaching effects. It revealed in all its hideousness, to the rank and file of the petroleum industry the true intent and purposes of those who had been fostering and promoting the so-called conservation program, to shut in domestic production, to stop development, to reserve our oil supplies in the ground, to be developed and used after the foreign supplies have been exhausted, and to turn the markets for petroleum in the United States to the hands of a few large companies engaged in exploiting the petroleum reserves of South America and in importing the production thereof into the United States. If there has been any doubt as to these intents and purposes in the past, all doubt must now be dispelled, since under date of January 6, 1931, Secretary Wilbur, after having received an invitation from the governors of Oklahoma and Kansas to participate in this conference, gave to the Associated Press an interview declaring himself against a tariff on oil, and saying, if he is correct, by what he has said, "The chief result would be that the big companies, which now have many wells shut in and not in operation, would open them up, adding to the production. Over production is the basic ill of the industry."

It might be pertinent at this time to inform the public that the companies have advised Secretary Wilbur in advance as to how they would defeat any beneficial results from a tariff on oil. The honorable secretary also said: "In the future the country with the oil will dominate civilization. In it will be centered the wealth. America must conserve her supply. If we waste our oil reserves now we will pay foreign countries through the nose for every barrel we import later. If I were the landlord of this country, I would see that we used as much imported oil as possible, and let the other fellow waste his reserves."

That quoted sentence is a full and complete admission of the purposes of those promoting the so-called conservation movement—to turn over to four companies, chiefly engaged in importing oil, the entire markets of the United States even though it might mean the destruction of one of the greatest industries in the United States, the impoverishment of a section of the United States and of the people thereof, almost if not quite one-third the area of the entire country, with a population of some 22,000,000 of people, and a civilization built upon the oil industry.

In speaking thus, does the honorable secretary present to the public the views of the administration, or is he simply holding fast to ideas and convictions acquired some years ago under circumstances which might have excused the views, but which in the light of subsequent events are indeed archaic?

The conference at Colorado Springs, having failed to bring forth a compact under which production could be controlled, the efforts by voluntary cooperation and in some states under the provisions of state law, to curtail production, proceeded with remarkable success. Indeed, the figures are startling. We find that for the week ending August 24, 1929 the production of crude oil in the United States averaged 2,975,435 barrels per day, and for the week ending January 2, 1931, 2,082,109 barrels per day, or a curtailment in production in that period, brought about by the cooperation on the part of small and large producers alike throughout the country, of 822,325 barrels daily. We will produce in the United States this year approximately 100,000,000 barrels of oil less than we did in the year 1929, and while we have been reducing the domestic production 100,000,000 barrels, the importers have, during 1930, brought into the United States and thrown upon our markets, duty free, more than 100,000,000 barrels of crude oil and refined products. In fact, the imports of gasoline during the first nine months of 1930 increased 125 per cent over the same period of 1929. The report of the committee on economics of the American Petroleum Institute at its Chicago meeting, November 10, 1930, shows that each 5,000,000 barrels of gasoline imported would displace, for the six months ending March 31, 1931, 114,000 barrels of domestic production, while the report of the economics committee appointed by Secretary Wilbur to forecast the demand for petroleum products and ascertain and allocate oil production necessary to supply that demand for the six months ending March 31, 1931, shows that each barrel of gasoline imported displaces from the market four barrels of domestic crude. Crude oil, gasoline, and other refined products, imported in the year 1930, have displaced from the market approximately 400,000 barrels daily of domestic production.

Since for a period of more than seven years, there has been an intense propaganda fostered and promoted throughout the country, in the daily press and in many of the nation's most prominent magazines, to convince the public of the early exhaustion of the petroleum reserves of the United States, it appears advisable at this point to outline briefly some of the former estimates of future oil production in the United States, and later to call attention to the vast petroleum reserves which we actually possess.

It would also be pertinent to inquire what forces and organizations, corporate or individual, have promoted and paid for this propaganda, and who are the beneficiaries thereof. An inquiry of this nature, properly and fairly conducted, would in all probability go far toward explaining the so-called conservation movement, and why it has been urged for a period of years.

When it became apparent that the real purpose of the meeting was not conservation in its real and accepted sense, but that the purpose was by degrees and from time to time, to reduce the production of oil in the United States and reserve our supplies in the ground for an indefinite period to come, and at the same time import our requirements in large part from foreign countries, the Colorado Springs conference adjourned, without having accomplished anything whatever toward the consummation of the purpose for which it was called.

Crude oil, gasoline, and other refined products, imported in the year 1930, have displaced from the market approximately 400,000 barrels daily of domestic production.

Since for a period of more than seven years, there has been an intense propaganda fostered and promoted throughout the country, in the daily press and in many of the nation's most prominent magazines, to convince the public of the early exhaustion of the petroleum reserves of the United States, it appears advisable at this point to outline briefly some of the former estimates of future oil production in the United States, and later to call attention to the vast petroleum reserves which we actually possess.

It would also be pertinent to inquire what forces and organizations, corporate or individual, have promoted and paid for this propaganda, and who are the beneficiaries thereof. An inquiry of this nature, properly and fairly conducted, would in all probability go far toward explaining the so-called conservation movement, and why it has been urged for a period of years.

When it became apparent that the real purpose of the meeting was not conservation in its real and accepted sense, but that the purpose was by degrees and from time to time, to reduce the production of oil in the United States and reserve our supplies in the ground for an indefinite period to come, and at the same time import our requirements in large part from foreign countries, the Colorado Springs conference adjourned, without having accomplished anything whatever toward the consummation of the purpose for which it was called.

However, this conference had far-reaching effects. It revealed in all its hideousness, to the rank and file of the petroleum industry the true intent and purposes of those who had been fostering and promoting the so-called conservation program, to shut in domestic production, to stop development, to reserve our oil supplies in the ground, to be developed and used after the foreign supplies have been exhausted, and to turn the markets for petroleum in the United States to the hands of a few large companies engaged in exploiting the petroleum reserves of South America and in importing the production thereof into the United States. If there has been any doubt as to these intents and purposes in the past, all doubt must now be dispelled, since under date of January 6, 1931, Secretary Wilbur, after having received an invitation from the governors of Oklahoma and Kansas to participate in this conference, gave to the Associated Press an interview declaring himself against a tariff on oil, and saying, if he is correct, by what he has said, "The chief result would be that the big companies, which now have many wells shut in and not in operation, would open them up, adding to the production. Over production is the basic ill of the industry."

It might be pertinent at this time to inform the public that the companies have advised Secretary Wilbur in advance as to how they would defeat any beneficial results from a tariff on oil. The honorable secretary also said: "In the future the country with the oil will dominate civilization. In it will be centered the wealth. America must conserve her supply. If we waste our oil reserves now we will pay foreign countries through the nose for every barrel we import later. If I were the landlord of this country, I would see that we used as much imported oil as possible, and let the other fellow waste his reserves."

That quoted sentence is a full and complete admission of the purposes of those promoting the so-called conservation movement—to turn over to four companies, chiefly engaged in importing oil, the entire markets of the United States even though it might mean the destruction of one of the greatest industries in the United States, the impoverishment of a section of the United States and of the people thereof, almost if not quite one-third the area of the entire country, with a population of some 22,000,000 of people, and a civilization built upon the oil industry.

In speaking thus, does the honorable secretary present to the public the views of the administration, or is he simply holding fast to ideas and convictions acquired some years ago under circumstances which might have excused the views, but which in the light of subsequent events are indeed archaic?

The conference at Colorado Springs, having failed to bring forth a compact under which production could be controlled, the efforts by voluntary cooperation and in some states under the provisions of state law, to curtail production, proceeded with remarkable success. Indeed, the figures are startling. We find that for the week ending August 24, 1929 the production of crude oil in the United States averaged 2,975,435 barrels per day, and for the week ending January 2, 1931, 2,082,109 barrels per day, or a curtailment in production in that period, brought about by the cooperation on the part of small and large producers alike throughout the country, of 822,325 barrels daily. We will produce in the United States this year approximately 100,000,000 barrels of oil less than we did in the year 1929, and while we have been reducing the domestic production 100,000,000 barrels, the importers have, during 1930, brought into the United States and thrown upon our markets, duty free, more than 100,000,000 barrels of crude oil and refined products. In fact, the imports of gasoline during the first nine months of 1930 increased 125 per cent over the same period of 1929. The report of the committee on economics of the American Petroleum Institute at its Chicago meeting, November 10, 1930, shows that each 5,000,000 barrels of gasoline imported would displace, for the six months ending March 31, 1931, 114,000 barrels of domestic production, while the report of the economics committee appointed by Secretary Wilbur to forecast the demand for petroleum products and ascertain and allocate oil production necessary to supply that demand for the six months ending March 31, 1931, shows that each barrel of gasoline imported displaces from the market four barrels of domestic crude. Crude oil, gasoline, and other refined products, imported in the year 1930, have displaced from the market approximately 400,000 barrels daily of domestic production.

Since for a period of more than seven years, there has been an intense propaganda fostered and promoted throughout the country, in the daily press and in many of the nation's most prominent magazines, to convince the public of the early exhaustion of the petroleum reserves of the United States, it appears advisable at this point to outline briefly some of the former estimates of future oil production in the United States, and later to call attention to the vast petroleum reserves which we actually possess.

Mother Begg Governor To Spare Her Son

DENVER, Jan. 27 (AP)—A seventy-one-year-old mother has learned that her son must die on the gallows at the state penitentiary at Canon City, Colorado, this week.

Learning the processes of law which will take the life of her son, John Walker, one of the trio of Manter bank bandits, Mrs. Julia Rhodes, mother of the convicted man last yesterday asked Governor W. H. Adams to spare his life.

On either side of the weeping aged woman as she entered the governor's office were Mrs. Mary Taylor, Walker's sister, and Mrs. Bert C. Brown, his half sister.

Governor Adams refused to intervene.

The Colorado supreme court yesterday denied the petition of Walker, Andrew Halliday and Claude Ray, for a re-hearing and reaffirmed their conviction of first degree murder in the Kiowa county district court for the slaying of Under Sheriff C. A. Hickman of Eads, Colorado. Hickman was slain last March when he sought to arrest the three men who made a foray into Colorado after holding up the Manter, Kansas, state bank.

Last April, Mrs. Rhodes came to Denver at the time the three Manter bandits were tried at Eads, Colorado. She was not told the real verdict of the jury. Walker, seeking to spare her the shock, told his mother he escaped with a 20-year sentence in the penitentiary.

The aged woman believed the story then and was content—but yesterday she found out the truth.

Arrangements were completed today at the state penitentiary for the first triple execution in Colorado since 1886.

At present the expense is about $210,000 a year for each 1,000 miles of lighted airways, distinctly above the original estimate. The eventual total cost was computed by Secretary Lamont, under whose jurisdiction in the commerce department the expenditure comes. Yet he has concluded after a special last March when he sought to arrest the three men who made a foray into Colorado after holding up the Manter, Kansas, state bank.

Smitham Reviews Costs Of City Water and Sewer Department Expansions

V. R. Smitham, city manager, and James Little, county attorney, were speakers Thursday before members of the Kiwanis club in their regular luncheon session in the Crawford hotel.

Mr. Smitham read financial reports connected with construction work done within the past few months by the city. He pointed out that all details of the things reviewed in his talk were open to the public on the records in the city hall.

He reviewed sewer improvement operations of the past 12 months, made possible to a great extent through passage last March of a bond issue. Sewer lines built included the following: 3,000 feet of 24-inch line; 400 feet of 18-inch line; 6,400 feet of 15-inch line; 2,600 feet of 12-inch line; 17,500 feet of 8-inch line and 67,300 feet of 6-inch line.

The total length of these new lines is 20.3 miles.

Cost of the sewer line construction includes these items: outfall lines, $37,513.47; lateral lines, $44,161.44; disposal plant, $45,693, a total of $130,368.91 for $369.91 more than the sewer bond issue.

In the water department, he said, 7,046 feet of 12-inch line, 3,119 feet of 8-inch line, 49,878 feet of 6-inch line, 65 fire hydrants and 57 gate valves have been put in at a total cost of $71,482.29.

"For comparison and to justify my conviction, I compare the cost to us to the cost to Midland of unit buildings. We have done this pipeline work on a day labor basis, said Mr. Smitham.

The amount of work done by Big Spring would have cost $7,400 more if handled on the plan Midland employed, he said.

In addition to the waterworks items listed above Big Spring has built a 215,000-gallon reservoir above Edwards Heights and a 1,035,000-gallon reservoir south of the city near the city's wells. These, done under contract, cost $15,705.

Local labor was used on them. In addition seven new wells have been drilled and this week the city commission closed a contract for water right on an additional 1.4 section of land where hydraulic engineers have found valuable water veins exist. This additional land will be used to form an emergency supply.

A financial statement is presented to the city commission every month. Up to December 31 it was under-run of $4,013.93 under the budget had been effected over a period of nine months.

Mr. Little delivered an address on the 15th anniversary observance of Kiwanis International. He pointed out that old practice of letting the public be damned and "let the buyer beware" had been overcome by principles included in the international. Adoption and application of more intelligent and aggressive citizenship, provisions for practical means of altruistic friendship, cooperation to create and maintain sound public opinion, righteousness, justice and good will were other things Kiwanis stands for, he declared.

McDowells Buy Grand Champion Hereford Carlot In Denver Show

The grand champion carlot of Hereford exhibited in the National Livestock show in Denver, Colorado, last week was purchased by L. S. McDowell and son Lorin, the pioneer and popular cattlemen of Big Spring, who returned from Denver Saturday.

The cattle were from Montana and will reach here about Tuesday.

The local men were away a week, having motored to Dalhart, Texas, and going from there on trains. They were surprised at the favorable weather they encountered while away, although snow that fell during November still was on the ground in New Mexico and Colorado.

Howard and Mitchell Counties In Northern End Of Proposed 20th Texas Congressional District

AUSTIN, Jan. 29 (AP)—A congressional redistricting bill will be introduced in the legislature today. Representative Metcalfe of San Angelo said. His bill would create three new districts, the 19th representing the south half of the panhandle; the 20th, the east end of the El Paso district and the 21st a section along the coast from Aransas through Wilcox counties.

Metcalfe said the 20th district would take in part of John Garza's district and would break up the old San Antonio to the Gulf Shoestring district now represented by Representative Wursbach, only a Republican representative from Texas in congress. The district that ran from Texarkana to the Gulf was cut in half.

Harris, Dallas, and Bexar counties were made one-county districts strictly on the basis of population, Metcalfe said.

Following would be the districts: First District: Bowie, Caddo, Red River, Franklin, Tarrant, Morris, Camp, Hopkins, Marion, Harrison, Upshur and Gregg.

Second District: Jefferson, Orange, Hardin, Tyler, Jasper, Newton, Sabine, San Augustine, Nacogdoches and Shelby.
