Crop Insurance Program OK'd By FDR

Action Is Needed -And Right Now!

NO one, after giving any thought to the matter, can justly claim that recent sensational crimes would have been impossible of perpetration if Lubbock had a larger and adequately organized police department.

It is entirely possible that gun-waving Bennie Carver could have eluded early capture and that the coolly efficient kidnaping hijackers of the A. H. Maas-Montgomery Ward case could have "pulled their job" in New York, St. Paul, Baltimore, or anywhere else where exceptionally strong and well trained police departments are the order of the day. The same thing can be said of the half dozen or more less sensational burglaries and break-ins which have happened during the past week.

But on the other side of the ledger, neither can anyone say that the policy of having an under-manned, loosely organized police department does not invite such fiascos as have been Lubbock's dish during the past week.

It is a matter of common knowledge that Lubbock does not have enough patrolmen to sufficiently safeguard life, limb and property.

It should be a matter of common knowledge that we have nothing in the way of a trained detective, or even plainclothes force; that even the district attorney's office has never been given the services of a trained under-cover operative—something that has been needed in this city for almost a decade.

Since we are absolutely unfitted to cope with clever crime, and since we are given the bare minimum of protection against lawlessness, it is no wonder that criminals periodically come here to prey upon society.

COMMENTS such as these are not new to Avalanche-Journal papers. They are not prompted, as readers well know, by the latest "crime wave". We have been stressing these ideas for several years.

But in the face of recent occurrences, we stress again the following points which we believe officials and private citizens alike might well consider — and then do something about:

Efforts to operate a police department as a money-making, or even a self-sustaining branch of city government are farcial and ill-conceived.

A police department, like a fire department, best serves any community as an "insurance policy", if you please. And while it may look like we're saving money by pinching pennies in police protection, we're simply fooling ourselves—like the fellow who "saves" $19 by going for a year without fire insurance, then loses thousands when his foolishness is overtaken by a disastrous conflagration!

THIS city in which we live and which is a mecca for thousands of neighboring people every week is no longer a cross-roads community.

Old, worn out and outmoded methods of policing are no good here now. As the city moves forward along every other front, it must move forward in the matter of crime detection and protection of the citizenship against the criminal element which is certain to be drawn here—as good people are drawn here—by national publicity about our growth, expansion and general prosperity.

We would like to see the City commission show some interest in the very definite police needs of Lubbock.

We do not believe it is asking too much to ask that the commission make a study of the situation and ACT, then, to improve it.

The commission was due to hear a discussion of police expansion and traffic control at its meeting last Thursday afternoon but did not get around to the subjects in the face of other pressing business. There's no reason for criticism there—but there is room for criticism over the fact that it has been a year, if not longer, since the topic of strengthening and improving the police department has been discussed to any extent in commission meeting.

THE Morning Avalanche is not being destructively critical in this situation. No one on the staff of this newspaper is an expert in police matters. We are merely, as a voice for the public, attempting to be helpful in a very definite and a very important community problem.

On that basis, we make this statement and honestly invite its disproof on the part of any citizen in public or private position:

Lubbock is not adequately policed, either in number of men or in general methods of policing.

The condition can be and should be improved NOW—without further procrastination, or talk about economy, falsely supported.

Not only will we stand on these statements but our columns are open to both officials and to private citizens who disagree and who desire to disprove our opinions.

Poll Taxes Still Going At Slow Pace With Total At 5,243, Far Below Expectations

With only two days left for payment of poll taxes, total for the year is far below what observers had predicted would be largest aggregate for all times in the county.

Receipts to last night totaled 5,243, with 290 payments being made at the courthouse here and 52 at Slaton Friday, H. B. Bryan, county collector-assessor, said last night. Officials are expecting big rushes today and Monday.

To extend the record of more than 8,000 is almost beyond ability of the collection force. Monday midnight is the deadline.

Japs Preparing For War With Third Power

Parliament Is Told Of Plans By Militarist

Strategists "Mapping Plans To Meet All Contingencies," Says Premier; Crisis With Russia

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, Jan. 28 — The powerful Japanese war minister, General Gen Sugiyama, told parliament today Japan must prepare to fight an unnamed third power because of the undeclared war against China.

Gen. Sadao Araki, who as war minister directed Japan's 1931-33 conquest of Manchuria, frankly declared last Oct. 25 that "it probably is necessary for Japan to strike directly at Russia."

Araki recently emerged from retirement to become a member of the cabinet advisory council on the war.

Strategists Mapping Plans

Gen. Sugiyama assured parliament Japan's military strategists were "mapping plans carefully to meet all contingencies."

The China war, he admitted, "gradually is assuming greater proportions and the situation rapidly is becoming graver . . .

"Since Japan must fight a long term war with China, we must prepare for a country other than China."

In answer to questions put by members of the diet, Sugiyama said Japanese forces in China must be

EMPHATIC REPRESENTATIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. (AP) — The state department instructed Ambassador Joseph C. Grew at Tokyo tonight to make emphatic representations to the Japanese government against the attack on John M. Allison, an American diplomatic representative at Nanking.

Allison was slapped by a Japanese sentry, and a Japanese spokesman at Shanghai said the sentry would not be punished because he was "only doing his duty."

The state department published an account of the affair, which is at considerable variance with the official Japanese version, and Secretary Hull took occasion to praise Allison's work.

Witnesses Favor McDonald Stand

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Questioners in a senate committee investigation of Land Commissioner William H. McDonald laid added emphasis today on the contention his policy of frequently preferring high royalty bids to high cash offers was unsound.

They sought through interrogation of I. E. Harwell of Burkburnett and W. M. Harris of Houston, partners in successful bids on numerous submerged land leases, to show the state risked hundreds of thousands of dollars on such a policy while the bidders had virtually nothing to lose.

Harwell gave the committee records of a group which jointly made the accepted bids on a number of tracts and cancelled checks evidencing business transactions among members of the group.

The Burkburnett banker and oil man was questioned concerning why bids were offered in various names, including the name of one man who did not care to participate in development of any of the leases, instead of all of them being offered in one name.

Harwell first said "I didn't think

Turkey Gehrke Decides To Leave Weather Forecasting To Animal

WATERTOWN, Wis., Jan. 28. (AP) —Arthur E. (Turkey) Gehrke, dubbed the human groundhog, today decided he would remain between the blankets Feb. 2 and leave the job of weather forecasting to the furry variety of groundhog.

Gehrke, who spends his winters in bed because, he says, cold weather gives him a misery, began his hibernation last fall. After receiving current weather reports, he declared he would remain holed up until balmy breezes blow in the spring.

Area's Highway Work Mapped By Department

Among a $3,000,000 spring highway construction program in Texas were included more than 40 miles of surfacing in division 5, the Lubbock district, of the Texas Highway department, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Austin Friday night.

Of the amount for this division, more than 10 1-2 miles of surfacing is scheduled for Lubbock county. Lubbock's projects include surfacing of: 4.6 miles from highway 24 east toward Acuff and 6 miles from Slide east to an intersection with highway 9, the report said.

Other Projects Outlined

Other projects, outlined in the program, included: King county, 20 miles surfacing from Guthrie to Knox county line, highway 24; Castro, 4.2 miles surfacing from Dimmitt to 4.2 miles east, highway 66; Dawson county, 5.3 miles surfacing from Sparenburg to intersection with highway 9 approximately 7.2 miles southeast of Lamesa; Parmer, surfacing spur in Friona; and Swisher, Middle Tub Creek bridge and approaches near Tulia.

Described by authorities here as one of the most important was the King county project which will almost complete paving of highway 24 to make connections with Fort Worth, Dallas and other Central and East Texas points.

Part of the road, that between Dickens and Guthrie, still is unpaved.

Special Prosecutor In Case Threatened

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28. (AP) — Joseph Fainer, special prosecutor in the Raymond bombing case in which a police captain has been arrested, said today he had received telephone kidnap threats against his 4-year-old son.

Fainer said the threats started Wednesday and that he had sent his wife and son aboard the liner Matsonia for an "indefinite" stay with her parents in Honolulu.

"If you don't get out of the case, we will pull a Lindbergh on your baby —and we mean business," Fainer said an anonymous telephone caller told him.

The district attorney's office provided an armed guard to accompany the Fainers to the Matsonia dock today. Fainer said he also had arranged police protection for his wife and son at San Francisco when the Matsonia puts in there enroute to Honolulu.

Acting Police Capt. Earle Kynette is under $15,000 bond on a charge of attempted murder in connection with the bombing of Harry Raymond and District Attorney Buron Fitts is seeking further evidence which he said might link Kynette with other bombings.

Roosevelt Calls For Expansion Of Defense

Presidential Request Meets Both Approval And Criticism Friday; 'Forces Inadequate'

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—A presidential request for the broadest expansion of the army and navy in the nation's peace-time history went today to Capitol Hill, where it encountered much approval and some sharp criticism.

Declaring the armed forces "inadequate for purposes of national security," Mr. Roosevelt recommended, among other things, a 20 per cent increase in the navy building program at a cost estimated by navy officers at $800,000,000.

To Explore All Phases

While many legislators called the recommendations "modest," "very good" and "very wise," other statements indicated that senate debate would explore all phases of the Roosevelt foreign policy.

"What is the foreign policy which must lead us into the very maelstrom which the president condemns?" asked Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.)

Mr. Roosevelt placed the responsibility for his request "specifically and solely" upon "the piling up of additional land and sea armaments in other countries, in such manner as to involve a threat to world peace and security." He promised to continue his efforts at arms reduction by international agreement.

Proposals Are Listed

His proposals were:

(1) An authorization of $8,800,000 for increased army anti-aircraft weapons; $6,080,000 of the sum to be spent in the next fiscal year.

(2) An expenditure of $450,000 for "the better establishment of an enlisted reserve for the army."

(3) An expenditure of $6,080,000 for gauges, dies and other "aids to manufacture" of army material. $5,000,000 to be spent in the next fiscal

Oil Pit Flooded By Texas River

(By The Associated Press)

The swollen Sabine river collapsed an East Texas oil field pit near Gladewater Friday and 62,000 barrels of crude tumbled into the stream.

The oil, valued at about $36,000, created a fire hazard and operators feared the incident might be repeated.

The Sabine overcame hours of work by volunteers who dyked the pit with sandbags, and oilmen hastened their labor at other sites.

Contained Confiscated Oil

The collapsed pit had contained oil confiscated by the state, assistant Attorney General Tom D. Rowell said, on the grounds it was illegally produced.

Other flooding East Texas rivers, swollen from recent rains, forced more than 200 families from their homes and endangered highways.

Lowland residents along the Little and Red rivers fled across the Texas line to McNab, Ark., in the hills. Jett Orton, Fulton, Ark., landowner, who estimated 10,000 acres in the area were under two feet of water, said a few cattle, some unpicked cotton and tenant houses were lost.

Kidnap-Robbers Get $5,000 Here

By DAN TARPLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

MYSTERY at midnight continued to shroud the identity of two, possibly three, men who at gun's point abducted Arnold H. Maas, manager of Montgomery Ward & Co. store, took from him the keys to the store and the combination to the safe, and escaped with an estimated $5,000 in cash.

F. B. Herron, district supervisor out of the Fort Worth office but who is stationed most of the time at Amarillo and who arrived here Friday to assist in investigations, said he estimated the loss at between $5,000 and $5,500. No definite check had been made last night.

Suffering From Exposure

Maas Friday night remained at his 2901 Twenty-first street home under care of a physician. He was "resting fairly well" but was nervous. It was reported by attaches of the department store. He was suffering from exposure brought on by being tied in his automobile two hours about six miles west of Lubbock on the Levelland highway and about a mile and a half north on a lateral road.

There were abrasions on his wrists and ankles where sash cord and surgeon's tape had tightly bound them.

No Clues Available

No clues were available for police and other investigating officers to work on. Only two small pieces of the tape which bound Maas and broken pieces of glasses assertedly worn by one of the man's abductors were found at the scene where Maas was taken and where he abandoned his car to walk to town. His abductors had disposed of the keys to his car.

Maas was unable to give descriptions of the men. He said he believed there were three, although he was unable to determine definitely if there were more than two.

Officers Investigating

Assisting in investigations are District Attorney Burton S. Burks and his assistant, Victor H. Lindsey, Sheriff Tom Abel, Deputies Grady Harrist and Jas. P. Posey, Chief of Police Don Reeder, Bill Mabray, police identifications officer, L. W. Bell, special officer for Montgomery Ward & Co., and other officers.

According to the manager's own story, he was en route to his home about 10 o'clock Thursday night from the depot where he had gone to mail letters when he was forced to stop his car near the intersection of Twenty-first street and College avenue.

The car, believed to be a 1937 Plymouth with a yellow fog light in the middle of the front bumper forced him to the curb and a man standing near where Maas stopped

Another Dictator Is In Power In Europe

VIENNA, Jan. 28. (AP)—The Greek army was reported mobilized today to put down possible disturbances growing out of the mass exile of leading opponents of the dictatorial government of General John Metaxas.

Private advices from Athens said that Metaxas, premier and "strong man" of Greece since 1936, had arrested all former leaders of parliament and sent them to remote islands. Metaxas warned:

"The dictatorial Metaxas regime abondons its previous measures and enters upon a new period—a period of severity without any pity . . . If necessary, other and even more severe measures will be taken."

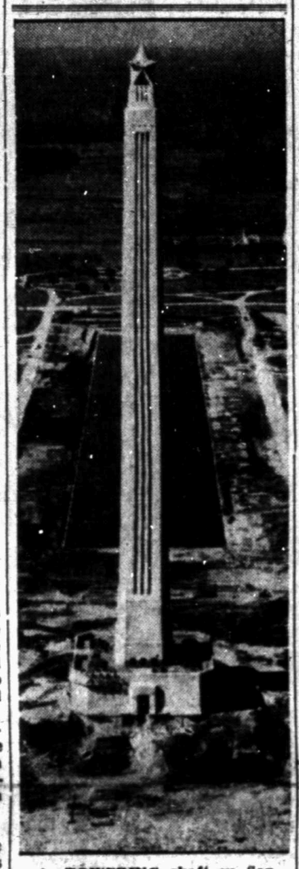

The government statement, published in the controlled Greek press, said old parties "refused to let bygones be bygones" and "allied themselves with various criminal elements which stir up unrest as a possession."

The announcement was interpreted by some quarters here to mean the establishment of an absolute Metaxas dictatorship.

FIFTEEN PERSONS "DETAINED"

ATHENS, Jan. 29. (AP)—Fifteen persons, including three army officers, were arrested tonight for participation in an alleged plot to assassinate Premier General John Metaxas, Greece's "strong man." A brief police announcement said the 15 would be "detained" one year.

Provisions For Wheat May Be Started In Fall

White House Conference Held With Pope And Jones Present; Bill Now Being Drafted

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—A beginning on a broad system of government insurance of crops will be made under the "ever normal granary" program, legislators said today.

They reported a proposal to start all-risk insurance for wheat next season had received President Roosevelt's approval at a White House conference attended by Rep. Jones (D-Tex.) and Senator Pope (D-Idaho).

Bill Nearly Drafted

Pope and Jones are members of the joint congressional committee which has nearly completed the job of drafting a single new farm program on the basis of separate granary bills passed by the house and senate.

At the White House conference, the president was informed wheat insurance could be financed with funds remaining from 1937 farm benefit payments.

Senator Pope, sponsor of the insurance plan drafted by the agriculture department, estimated administrative costs could be limited to about $6,000,000 the first year, and that a reserve of about $20,000,000 would be needed to meet possible losses from drouth, flood, frosts, insect pests or other natural hazards.

Developed After Study

The program was developed after a study of acreage and production records. Similar studies have been undertaken for cotton and corn, and several congressional leaders have argued that crop insurance was needed even more for perishable products, such as fruits and vegetables.

The senate had previously approved a separate wheat crop insurance bill, sponsored by Senator Pope, but the house had not acted. The bill called for government insurance having $100,000,000 capital.

A farmer would pay his premiums in so many bushels of wheat to the acre, based upon past production and risk data. If he suffered losses, he would collect part of his acreage yield in wheat, or its cash equivalent.

UNIFORM AT T. S. C. W.

WONDER what ex-students of Texas State College for Women (C. I. A.) think of the vote of a student faculty committee to end a 34-year old practice by abolishing all uniform dress regulations at the institution? We know the opinions of two exes, Mrs. W. L. Bradshaw, a popular student there several years ago, and Mrs. Billy Murray who attended the college last year.

"I think it's a shame," said Mrs. Bradshaw. "The uniform dresses made for a democracy that was good for the school. Each girl felt that her clothes were as good as anybody's else and the poor girl had as much chance for leadership and popularity, as the girl whose parents were wealthy. When I went to C. I. A. the uniforms were rather severe and their hard lines did not become all of the girls, but the present day styles are attractive."

Mrs. Murray agrees with Mrs. Bradshaw. She feels "terrible about the thing" and believes that the girls will reconsider their vote since they have been bringing this question up for several years, and it has always been voted down. The many uniforms gave the girls choice in selection of their wardrobes and being traditional, as well as compulsory, helped to bring about a sisterly feeling among the girls, she believes.

MODERN VALENTINES

DAN CUPID'S age-old story of romantic love attachment will be told in a very modern accent on St. Valentine's Day this year. While red is the traditional color for Valentine hearts, this year St. Valentine declares himself no respector of tradtion. There are hearts of Mediterranean blue, for example, scalloped in silver. Another heart is done in monotone of gray and rose.

This year Dan Cupid does all sorts of clever tricks with hearts as the design motif. A broad silver heart becomes a mirror for a modern dresser. Hearts of satin, delicately perfumed, bear letter greetings.

As for flowers, roses, naturally for memory you know. However, old-fashioned garden and field flowers won't be amiss. After all, isn't being remembered the important things?

Well Groomed, Intelligent, Witty Girl Comes Closest To Argentine's Ideal Of Beautiful Woman

BUENOS AIRES — The well-groomed, intelligent, witty girl with finely-chiseled features and slender figure comes closest to the Argentine's ideal of beauty, says Martin Noel, Argentine artist.

There are two Argentine "types," he holds. One is the Portena—born and reared in cosmopolitan Buenos Aires; the other the interior belle, especially if she comes from the north, where old Spanish traditions are stronger.

A Blend Of Races

In Buenos Aires, the typical beauty is likely to have a dash of the smart Parisienne, the restrained femininity of the Spanish senorita, and just a bit of the American athletic pal type.

"The Buenos Aires girl," said Mr. Noel, "is far more cosmopolitan and 'evolutionized' than the girl of the interior, but lacks the interior senorita's vivacity.

Light And Tall

"Girls descended from pure old Spanish stock often resemble the beautiful women of Andalucia—dark complexion, medium height, extremely gracious and witty.

"The Portena is an elegant woman who devotes much time to her appearance. Grooming is the keynote but she also is well-groomed mentally. She generally is of fairly light complexion and is rather tall.

Counties in which the project is in operation are: Stonewall, King, Cottle, Dickens, Bailey, Crosby, Hockley, Lubbock, Hale, Dawson, Floyd, Scurry, Jones, and Fisher. Other counties expected to participate in the project after it is made district wide, according to Bullock, are: Lynn, Lamb, Terry, Garza, Motley, and Cochran.

The youths participating in the project, for the most part, are girls, it was pointed out, and do typing, filing, and other routine office work.

A number of them have been placed in private employment, an object for which the NYA is working.

The transformation of projects into one throughout the district has been tentatively approved by state officials, it was explained, and formal approval is expected soon.

Bullock described the project as one valuable to the youths participating as well as to the sponsors.

Deep Oil Test To Be Made Soon In Area Southwest Of Spur

SPUR, Jan. 28. (Special)—Location of a 7,500-foot test for oil in section 10, block No. 1 H. & G. N. R. Co. survey in Kent county, has been announced by the PHN-Maracaibo Oil company of which Thad Bryant is trustee.

The 1936 Canadian cheese production amounted to 117,979,000 pounds factory made and 1,032,000 pounds farm made.

Do You Remember One? Then You're Getting Old; Buggy Goes Into Smithsonian Museum

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—Does this make you feel old? The Smithsonian institute put a buggy on exhibition today as a museum piece.

"Not only is the buggy something to show," said C. W. Mitman, curator of arts and industries, "but it's extremely difficult to find a good example of this typically American vehicle."

The model was used for 32 years by Dr. Alexander Hamilton Bayly, of Cambridge, Md. It was presented by a descendant, Mrs. H. C. Orem.

"Finding a wooden horse, the kind you used to see in the harness shops and livery stables," said Curator Mitman, "is even harder than getting a buggy."

The institution once surveyed the commercial pastures and the best bargain was: $2,500 for a hand-made horse!

"It would have been cheaper," Mitman explained, "to buy a fine horse, wait until he died and have him stuffed. We abandoned the whole idea."

Texas Doctor Dies Of Heart Attack And Son Fatally Shoots Self In Grief, Officer Says

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 28. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff George Jump said today Dr. L. A. Barnes of Huntsville, Texas, died of a heart attack at a fishing camp near here last night and his son, Dr. Carl F. Barnes, 26, fatally shot himself.

The deputy said the younger man's death was "a plain case of suicide" caused by grief and no inquest would be held. The elder Dr. Barnes, his wife, their son and their daughter had been vacationing at the lakeside fishing camp for several days.

Tingley Fans Flames Of His Good-Natured Feud With Allred; Invites Him To Attend Mother-In-Law Celebration At Amarillo

(By The Associated Press)

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 28.—Governor Clyde Tingley fanned the flames of his good-natured feud with Governor James V. Allred of Texas with a challenge today.

In a letter, Tingley invited Allred to "come out to Amarillo, Tex." For the mother-in-law celebration March 9, when Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the president's wife, is scheduled to be guest of honor.

"I am going to lead the parade on horseback, and if you can make arrangements to find a gentle nag, I'd like to have you ride with me," Tingley wrote. "Perhaps it might be best if you'd come over to New Mexico for a few days first and I'll arrange for a few riding lessons for you."

Tingley urged Allred to "make every possible effort to attend, as this will be the biggest celebration Amarillo has ever staged and we'd like to have a visiting governor on hand."

The two governors exchanged light verbal blows this week when Tingley expressed regrets at Allred's non-participation in an oil conference at Hot Springs, Ark.

New And Greater 'Honeymoon Bridge' Planned To Replace 39-Year-Old Fallen Span

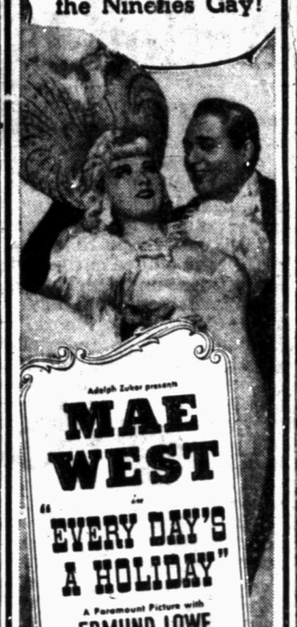

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 28. (AP)—A new and greater "honeymoon Bridge" was planned at Niagara Falls today even as the gaunt skeleton of the old bridge which crashed yesterday continued to groan and settle into the ice-covered river.

The International Railway company, owners of the fallen span, announced that architects will be asked at once to design a new and finer span.

It will rise from the site of the 39-year-old steel arch which crashed 200 feet into the Niagara gorge late yesterday, after resisting for two days the worst Niagara ice jam in many years.

Hailstones may reach a diameter of 3 or 4 inches and a weight of a pound or more.

National Labor Board Charged With Attempts To Throttle Free Speech, Press

Probe Is Asked By Sen. Burke

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Senator Burke (D-Neb.) charged before a senate judiciary subcommittee today that the National Labor Relations board had made "several attempts" to violate the freedom of speech and the press.

Burke, pressing for a senatorial probe of his charges that the board is biased, listed several cases in which he said the rights of the press were invaded.

Should Be Investigated

Senator Burke said the record of the labor board's investigation of the Stackpole Carbon company case at St. Mary's, Pa., should be "investigated by some senate committee."

He read from the testimony of Harry T. O'Brien, editor of the Daily Press at St. Mary's, in which a labor board examiner said, referring to an article in O'Brien's paper attacking the C. I. O.:

"Now this man (referring to O'Brien) has complete power here to select, edit and run whatever he pleases. What I am trying to do is to see how he exercises that power and whether he consciously tried to help the one and withhold aid from the other."

Constituted A Threat

Burke said the examiner's attitude constituted a threat to the rights of a free press. He said O'Brien had been forced to reveal the name of the contributor of the article.

Burke said the labor board "lost its head, when it subpoenaed Hartly W. Barclay, editor of Mill and Factory, to bring in all of the records pertaining to a story in his New York trade magazine about the board's inquiry into unfair labor practice charges against the Weirton Steel Co.

The senator read a deposition he said was made by Fred A. Moore, of the Dearborn, Mich., Herald, a weekly newspaper, in which Moore charged a labor board agent with biased statements and questions about an article he published concerning the Ford Brotherhood labor organization.

Moore said in the deposition the labor board's agent had attempted to gain an admission from him that there was some connection between the Ford Motor company advertising and the publication of the story.

Tahoka Pioneer Hurt When Struck By Car

Condition of "Uncle Will" Brown, 80, of Tahoka, who was struck by an automobile in Tahoka Friday morning, was reported by attaches at West Texas hospital as possibly critical though he was "resting well" late last night.

Brown was rushed to the hospital here in an ambulance of W. M. Harris Funeral home of Tahoka. Physicians said he suffered a broken leg and other injuries, which resulted in shock that left him in a weakened condition.

He was reported to have been crossing the street at an intersection when struck by the car. Driver of the automobile was not learned here.

Walked Into Path

Brown is feeble and nearly blind and, according to witnesses, walked from in front of one moving car into the path of another.

His wife, to whom he was married about 55 years ago, is seriously ill, having been an invalid many months. They make their home with a daughter, Mrs. W. C. Wells, widow of a former postmaster here.

Milwaukee Ministers To Go Into Night Club Business; Ice Cream Soda Bar Is Planned

(By The Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 28.—As another step toward "dry-cleaning" the city's night life for the benefit of its young people, Milwaukee ministers are going into the night club business.

The Rev. Raymond H. Ewing, chairman of the militant ministerial association which campaigned for and helped bring about a 2 a .m. tavern closing ordinance to start off the new year, now announces that the association intends to prove liquor is not necessary to a good time by opening a model liquorless night club with a soft drink "bar."

The pastors arrived at their decision after making a liquor and vice survey of the city's night spots and being dismayed at the considerable "drinking and obscene floor songs" which they said were offered young people.

Mr. Ewing revealed that the ministerial association is negotiating for use of a roadhouse frequently raided during prohibition days. Church-sponsored entertainment will begin there as soon as remodeling operations are concluded. An extensive ice cream soda bar is to be installed.

Wright To Take Stand Monday

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.—Dapper, 35-year-old Paul A. Wright, near nervous collapse as his trial once again was delayed today, will tell the jury Monday his version of what drove him to kill his wife and John Kimmel, his close friend.

This announcement was made by Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler, who awaited resumption of Wright's trial for his life this afternoon.

Superior Judge Ingall W. Bull postponed the trial until then because of other court duties.

Courtship Is Bared

Wright yesterday heard testimony which laid bare the details of his courtship and five-year marriage to Mrs. Evelyn McBride Wright.

Summoned as a character witness for Wright, Kenneth M. Stevens, Detroit attorney, told of introducing Wright to the woman who later became his wife.

The jury, however, was not permitted to hear Stevens' story concerning Wright's sterilization operation for the safety of his wife and of financial worries which he said beset Wright.

"It Is Our Clear Duty To Further Every Effort Toward Peace But At The Same Time To Protect Our Nation"--FDR's Defense Message

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. — Pertinent phrases from President Roosevelt's message to congress today on national defense:

We, as a peaceful nation, cannot and will not abandon active search for an agreement among nations to limit armaments and end aggression. But it is clear that until such agreement is reached—and I have not given up hope of it—we are compelled to think of our own national safety.

As commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States it is my constitutional duty to report to the congress that our national defense is, in the light of the increasing armaments of other nations, inadequate for the purposes of national security and requires increases for that reason.

Adequate defense means that for the protection not only of our coasts but also of our communities far removed from the coast, we must keep any potential enemy many hundred miles away from our continental limits.

I believe the time has come for the congress to enact legislation aimed at the prevention of profiteering in time of war and the equalization of the burdens of possible war."

It is our clear duty to further every effort toward peace but at the same time to protect our nation. That is the purpose of these recommendations. Such protection is and will be based not on aggression but on defense.

Adequate defense . . . affects there the simultaneous defense of every part of the United States of America.

It is an ominous fact that at least one-fourth of the world's population is involved in a merciless, devastating conflict in spite of the fact that most people in most countries, including those where conflict rages, wish to live at peace. Armies are fighting in the far east and in Europe; thousands of civilians are being driven from their homes and bombed from the air.

Protests Entered On Law Changes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Representatives of Texas border business men protested to senate finance subcommittee today against proposed changes in the tariff law which would require American tourists to spend at least 48 hours in Canada or Mexico in order to receive duty exemptions up to $100.

Philip Kazen, representing the Laredo Chamber of Commerce, declared the law was "discriminatory" and predicted it would result in retaliatory measures by Mexico.

He said that because more Mexicans do business with American merchants on the Mexican border than do Canadians with Americans on the northern border, the law would discriminate against Mexico border business men.

Kazen and Captain E. H. Simons, of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce urged that exemptions up to $100 in customs duties apply only to tourists returning from countries which extend similar provileges to their citizens.

Traveling Board To Be Sent Out To Examine Cadet Applicants

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 28. (AP)—As a means of obtaining more students to be trained at Randolph and Kelly fields here, the air corps training center will inaugurate a new policy of sending a traveling board to various points in the Eighth Corps area to examine applicants and give information to others contemplating entrance into the center, it was announced at corps area headquarters today.

Evidence Of Oft-Mentioned Man Is Before Los Angeles Officers; Steal Gold Teath

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28. (AP)—Evidence that there actually exists the oft-mentioned man who would "steal your eye teeth if you don't watch him," was placed before sheriff's deputies today.

William Edward Morris, 30, a transient, told officers there are, in fact, two such men. He said they knocked a tooth out of his mouth and walked away with it. It was gold—assay value $25.

Ralls Woman Collecting Match Covers As Hobby; Well Supplied

RALLS, Jan. 28. (Special)—Two bushel baskets of match covers is evidence Mrs. Pearl McLaughlin, wife of the district governor of Rotary International, has to show for a hobby she began three years ago.

They are still coming in. She began collecting match covers to cover a bed room screen.

"I don't know how many I have, it may be thousands," she said in reply to a query. "I began three years ago, as I wanted to cover a screen. I kept getting them, here and there. Friends sent them to me and others gave me some as they found them.

"When Mr. McLaughlin and I were in Europe last year at the Rotary International convention we bought a good many. I have given nearly all my duplications away. I have them from nearly every state in the union."

Dodgers Sign Van Lingle Mungo To One Year Contract To Allay Trade Talk

MacPhail Signs Temperamental Moundsman

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Van Lingle Mungo, fireball pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers, signed a one-year contract today, allaying latest reports that he was to be sold or traded to another club.

Larry MacPhail, executive vice-president of the Dodgers, declined to reveal terms of the contract but baseball men believed it called for not less than $15,000. That was supposed to be the figure on his 1937 contract.

Mungo, temperamental right-hander and one of baseball's most stubborn holdouts in the past, was just a "set-up" for MacPhail.

MacPhail and the Dodgers' most valuable piece of baseball bric-a-brac arranged a rendezvous at Columbia, S. C., held a long conference at which Mungo's troubles in the past were given a thorough airing and parted with mutual expressions of esteem.

With his signing, trade talk involving Mungo hit a new seasonal low. Ever since the World Series, National League clubs have manifested extreme interest in the fireball right-hander. The New York Giants, Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates all were in the market but the Dodgers hung on for a better offer. The Cubs' final offer for Mungo involved $75,000 in cash and four players—First Baseman Rip Collins, Infielder Lonnie Frey, Outfielder Joe Marty and Pitcher Clyde Shoun. The Dodgers bounced that one back with the remark that they would take "less cash and better players."

"Difficulties" Discussed

"Unless we get an offer that we couldn't afford to turn down," MacPhail said, "Mungo will pitch for the Dodgers this season."

The Dodger official said that Mungo had called him at Cincinnati a few days ago and suggested a meeting. MacPhail was willing and the Columbia conference was the result.

"We talked at length about Mungo's difficulties with the club," MacPhail said, "and I'm convinced that everything is all right now. He wants to pitch for me and for the Dodgers and I have faith in him."

Although ranked a leader among National League pitchers for years, Mungo won only nine games and lost 11 last season when he was at odds with the club most of the time. He had achieved considerable notoriety in 1936 when he quit the Dodgers without permission at Pittsburgh. A $200 fine and three-day suspension was the result.

He conducted a long hold-out campaign last season and had barely ended it by signing for $15,000 when he drew a $1,000 fine and a three-day suspension for fighting with teammate Jimmy Bucher in a St. Louis hotel. Several weeks later, he developed a sore shoulder, and underwent a tonsillectomy. Grimes ordered him to take certain treatments to get back in condition, and then suspended the big righthander indefinitely and without pay, charging he made little or no effort to follow the prescribed course. Mungo returned to his home in Pageland, S. C., for the rest of the season.

Cecil Smith Heads For Polo Fields

LLANO, Jan. 28. (AP)—Strapping Cecil Smith, Llano's "cowboy" polo star with the game's highest ranking of ten goals, left here today for California and the start of another season delayed by the mending of a broken collarbone.

Injured several weeks ago, Smith has been recuperating here at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Smith.

Smith said upon departure he hoped to be back in condition by mid-February and would start playing with the Midwick club, composed of Charles B. Wrightsman, Houston, C. V. Whitney and Stewart Iglehart.

He will return to Texas early in April before going East to embark for England and summer polo tournament play near London. Later he will compete in a series of India tourneys before returning to the United States for the Long Island fall season.

His cowboy partner, Rube Williams, off the same ranchlands as Smith, is in California now.

On the following week-end, Feb. 18th and 19th, county championships in the junior boys and girls divisions will be decided.

After Ruth, Holdouts No Worry For Col. Ruppert

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Feature Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, we hasten to reveal, is calm and resting as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

The circumstances being that a flock of muscular guys named Joe and Lou and Lefty, identified with a gang of Bronx Bombers, have gathered some winter book prices on their values and, reportedly, are advancing on the benign old Colonel with the somewhat ulterior purpose of chiseling as much dough as they can out of the Yankee brewmaster.

Now that is perfectly okay. The Colonel would be the last to deny that a guy is a sucker, and perhaps also a sap, if he doesn't grab all he can.

But the owner of the New York Yankees is unflustered. After a man has gone to the monetary mat with a husky gent like Ruth he can't be ruffled by the crackling bats of Joe DiMaggio, or Lou Gehrig or the fireball of Lefty Gomez.

'There's A Limit'

We had the sophomoric idea that stipend demands of such magnitude would dismay an owner. So we breezed out to the brewery to see how the Colonel was taking it. And, goodness gracious, the Colonel wasn't a bit worried.

"Salaries?" he asked, puzzled. "Why, I anticipate no difficulties.

"We've offered the players what we think they're worth and we're willing to enter compromise conferences. That's fair enough.

'Salaries, you know, depend on receipts. You can't pay out more than you take in. There's a limit and we'll go no further.

"The owner takes all the risks. He contracts to pay a player, on the basis of what the athlete did last season. He has no assurance that the player will do as well again. The athlete may flop or break a leg but the owner must pay his salary anyway.

"The owner spends a large sum buying a player to strengthen the club. The individual players do not contribute to this purchase, but the acquired performer may bring the team a championship and the players all benefit in World Series money that is not included in their season salary."

No More Ruths

The 70-year-old proprietor of Ruppert's brewery, owner of valuable New York real estate and possessor of millions, paid Babe Ruth $80,000 for a year's play. He doubts if there ever will be another baseball pay check like that.

In 1929 his Yankees cost him $375,000. Last year salaries totaled about $300,000. For the coming season salary hikes likely will boost the payroll to around $350,000—and there's no Ruth in the lineup.

The carefully-tailored bachelor beer baron spends his days in the brewery office; lets secretary Ed Barrow handle most of the Yankee business, and rarely sees a game.

But he wants the Yankees to win the world championship every year.

Jimmy Hines Takes Lead In Oakland Golf Tournament

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 28. (AP)—Jimmy Hines, metropolitan open champion, posted a 67 to lead the field today in the opening round of the $5,000 Oakland 72-hole open tournament.

The tall, blond shot master from Garden City, Long Island, N. Y., who has definitely arrived at the peak of his game since the winter tournament swing got underway, hit the short but trying Sequoyah course for a 32 on the outgoing nine and finished with a 35 to set the pace for nearly 200 starters. Par for the layout is 70.

But Yankees To Keep Up Fight

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—In spite of the salary squawks already put forth by Joe DiMaggio, Lefty Gomez, Monte Pearson and Tommy Henrich, it would appear those Yankees haven't even begun to fight yet over the size of their 1938 pay checks.

For three reasons—namely, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, and Red Ruffing—Colonel Jacob Ruppert won't have any idea for several days just how big a headache he's really going to have.

While he's already celebrating the signing of Jake Powell and George Selkirk, and is readying new arguments for DiMaggio, Gomez, et al, the genial colonel must wait until Gehrig, Dickey and Ruffing let him know whether they think he's aces or just a Philadelphia straight, as far as salary offers are concerned.

Gehrig In Movies

For the time being, Gehrig is too busy being a cowboy in the movies to drop a line to the Third avenue brewery, and Ruffing, taking a California vacation, apparently can't be bothered just now.

Dickey's reply, however, was in the mails today. It seems Col. Ruppert made an initial offer to Dickey somewhere in the vicinity of his 1937 salary of $18,000. Dickey took one look at it and didn't like it. For the man who was one of the three siege guns that blew the world champions' pitching opposition into so much hash, Belting Bill figured he's due for heavier sugar.

In due time, the Colonel is going to hear from the rest of the boys.

The likelihood is none of the others will pull a DiMaggio on the boss, like asking $40,000 in reply to a $25,000 offer. But there are certain to be howls comparable to, or exceeding, those of Gomez, who was offered $15,000; Henrich, who is asking for a $1,000 raise, and Pearson, who can't see why the colonel took a chunk out of his salary in making out the 1938 contracts.

Rolfe Still Out

The latest to be heard from, besides Dickey, was Red Rolfe, the third-sacker, who said he hadn't signed yet but pointed out he's neve rhad any trouble before in settling the thing.

Then there's Gehrig. Lou was top man in the business last year at $36,000. The word is that the Yanks, as a preliminary offer, have suggested the same figure for this season.

Gehrig, just winding up his film debut, returns to New York late next week. The chances are he wants to see what happens about DiMaggio's $40,000 demand before he starts firing, because Columbia Lou certainly doesn't want to lose the distinction of being baseball's highest salaried performer.

Slaton Oilers Hang Up 394 Points In First Six Games

SLATON, Jan. 28. (Special)—The Slaton Oilers, Southwestern A. A. U. basketball champions of 1937, have made an impressive start toward successful defense of the title won last year at Dallas.

The team, sponsored by the Slaton cotton oil mill and managed by Joe Bob Stephens, rang up its fifth and sixth victories Thursday night here, scoring a total of 155 points while holding the opposition to 60.

First victim in the double header was the Wilson Independent team. The Oilers won, 77 to 22, with Jim Neely scoring 25 points for the Oilers. Paul Morris, ex-Texas Tech captain who recently completed his eligibility, and Hugh Snodgrass, Tech captain of 1937, scored 14 points each, with Jack Miller shining on defense. Milliken and Lamb of Wilson scored 8 points each.

The Oilers then trounced the Peel Packing company team of Lubbock, 78 to 38. Stevens of the Packers took scoring honors with 22 points. Neely led the Oilers with 20 and Snodgrass scored 18.

In six games so far, the Oilers have scored 394 points against 77 for the opposition. Next games for the Oilers will be in the Southland Independent tournament, scheduled Feb. 3, 4 and 5. Gene McCollum, former Hardin-Simmons star, and Wilson Gilmore, another ex-Texas Tech player and captain, will be with the club in the Southland tournament, and also with the Oilers when they play in the Southwestern A. A. U. at Dallas late in February and early in March.

Dick Bartell Demands Boost From Giant Headquarters

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 28. (AP)—Dick Bartell, peppery shortstop of the New York Giants, said today he had returned his 1938 baseball contract unsigned.

He wants a raise even though his salary of $17,000 did make him probably the highest paid shortstop last season.

Bartell figures it out this way: "I received $17,000 last year and even though I was the highest salaried shortstop in the game I feel that I am worth more money now. I had the best season of my career last year and I expect to be better this season. If a man cannot command his highest salary at his peak, when can he?"

SOUTHLAND WINS PAIR

SOUTHLAND, Jan. 28. (Special)—The Southland basketball teams won a double victory here tonight over New Deal in the South Plains high school basketball league.

Southland defeated New Deal, 44 to 9, in the boys game, and won from the New Deal girls, 39 to 16.

COOPER, SHALLOWATER SPLIT

SHALLOWATER, Jan. 28 (Special)—Cooper and Shallowater cage teams divided a twin bill here tonight, Cooper winning the boys game, 40 to 38, after a 5-minute overtime period, and Shallowater taking the girls game, 25 to 21.

Tex Oliver To Study Oregon Contract Before Signing; Is Offered $6,000

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 28. (AP)—Coach Tex Oliver conferred again today with President Alfred Atkinson of the University of Arizona regarding the offer of a three-year contract, at $6,000 annually, to become football mentor at the University of Oregon.

Dr. Atkinson said "we were going over the details" of the Oregon offer. He reiterated that Oliver had not resigned his coaching post at Arizona.

Oliver asserted he had not decided to sign the Oregon contract, now en route from Eugene, and would make no announcement until he had studied terms of the offer.

Cherry, Kimbrough Mentioned

Only positive development in the coaching situation here was that stacks of telegrams poured in from candidates for Oliver's post here if he decides to leave. Prominently mentioned for the job were Garrett Arbelbide, former Southern California star now coaching at Arizona State Teachers college, Flagstaff; Frank B. Bridges of St Mary's college, San Antonio, Frank Kimbrough of Hardin-Simmons, Abilene; Blair Cherry, assistant coach at the University of Texas, and Ray Brancheau of New Mexico Teachers college, Silver City.

Dixie Howell Signs Contract At Tempe State Teachers

TEMPE, Ariz., Jan. 28. (AP)—Dr. Grady Gammage, president of Arizona State Teachers college at Tempe, announced today Dixie Howell, former Alabama grid star, had accepted a contract as football coach here.

A telegram from Howell in Birmingham, Ala., said:

"Accept head coach position on terms discussed."

These terms, unofficial sources said, provided that Howell be paid $2,100 for seven months, $300 for spring practice and may bring with him an assistant of his own choice.

Track Stars Enter Boston Contests

BOSTON, Jan. 28. (AP) — After warming up at odd distances, the nation's outstanding track and field performers will get down to serious competition tomorrow night when they return to their various specialties in the Prout meet at the Boston garden.

Don Lash's indecision about whether he will start in the mile or two-miles, or both, adds much uncertainty to those two featured events.

Meet officials hope the two-mile indoor record holder will agree to match strides with such stars as Glenn Cunningham, Archie San Romani, Gene Venzke, Norman Bright and Ray Mahannah, the junior national 1500-meters titlist, in the prized Knights of Columbus mile. The "Badgers" believe Lash's presence is needed to spur Cunningham or San Romani into a 4:10 or better performance.

Ralls Defeats Littlefield In Basketball Play-Off

RALLS, Jan. 28. (Special)—The Ralls High school Jackrabbits won the championship of the northern division of the District 5-B basketball race tonight and qualified to play Lamesa in the district final, by defeating Littlefield, 28 to 21, in the second game of the play-off series.

Beans Reed, with 17 points, led the Jackrabbit scoring. Anstead scoring 7 points.

Ralls and Lamesa will play for the non-official title early in February, the time and place to be set later.

PATTY BERG WINS

PUNTA GORDA, Fla., Jan. 28. (AP) Patty Berg of Minneapolis won the annual women's winter golf tournament here today, defeating Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., 10 and 8 in the 36-hole final match.

Yank Castoff Makes Good With Giants On Mound

By GEORGE ZIELKE
(By Associated Press Feature Service)

Arrival of King Carl Hubbell for the title of best lefthanded pitcher in the National league won his spurs in 1937: Cliff Melton.

The official averages bear out the fact the Giants made a tenstrike in picking up this Yankee castoff. Melton, while chalking up 20 wins against 9 defeats for a .690 percentage, allowed an average of only 2.61 earned runs per nine-inning game. He ranked second in the league in both respects. Hubbell, the percentage leader, and Lee Grissom of Cincinnati, Cliff's rivals for southpawing honors, were well down the list with 3.19 and 3.25 earned-run averages, respectively.

Cliff worked in more games than any other Giant pitcher—in 46. During the early part of the season, Manager Bill Terry used him principally as a relief hurler, but Cliff reached his greatest heights as a starting pitcher. He shared with Hubbell the burden of the Giant's stretch drive for the pennant.

Melton had scant success in the World Series, in which he had hoped to gain some personal revenge against the Yanks. Joe McCarthy, the Ruppert Rifles' boss, took Cliff's 6-feet-41-2-inch, 205-pound frame to spring training camp in 1935 but it was "just for the ride." The elongated lefthander came back strong with Baltimore in 1936 to win another chance in the big show.

He had something of a reputation as a wild southpaw in his early league experience, beginning in 1931. He had the hop on his fast ball working, though, in 1933 and 1936 with Baltimore, reaching a top figure of 158 strikeouts in '36. Last season he fanned 142 National leaguers who couldn't fathom his loose wind-up and cross-fire delivery. He issued 55 walks.

"Mickey Mouse," now 25, was born at Brevard, N. C., but first attracted attention athletically in his high school days at Black Mountain, N. C., where he was known as "Slim." He joined Asheville of the Piedmont league in 1931 and was sold to Baltimore. The Orioles sent him out to Erie of the Central league for a brief spell, and eventually sold him to the Yankees. The Yanks had him at Binghamton and Newark for a while before relinquishing title to his services.

Shreveport Due To Return To Texas League

DALLAS, Jan. 28. (AP)—Officials of the Texas Baseball league here today authorized President J. Alvin Gardner to complete negotiations with Shreveport interests for re-entrance of the Louisiana City in the circuit through purchase of the Galveston franchise.

Terms on which the negotiations will proceed, as outlined in a statement after a day-long session with representatives of Shreveport, included an agreement by Shreveport to operate a Texas League club indefinitely; purchase of the Galveston franchise for cash, and erection by Shreveport on or before April 1 of suitable stands, and lighting equipment on the present partially-improved ball park site in that city.

League Offers Loan

The league agreed that when satisfactory evidence is furnished that the franchise has been purchased and the construction made free of debt, it will sell the ball park, which it owns, to the new franchise owners for $18,500. The league also agreed to advance a loan of $20,000, bearing interest at 6 per cent, payable over an eight-year period, and secured by first liens on the park and franchise.

Henry O'Neal, president of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce, and Major B. A. Hardey, president of the last Shreveport baseball club in the league, represented Shreveport interests in the meeting.

Both expressed confidence terms would be met during the coming week, and the league could be assured at its annual schedule meeting at Fort Worth next Saturday and Sunday that the deal would go through.

Consider Both In Schedule

Officials said schedules would be prepared for the season with both Galveston and Shreveport considered.

League members present at the meeting included President J. Alvin Gardner and Secretary Milton Price of Dallas; President Sol Dreyfuss and R. S. Tarleton of the Dallas Baseball club; President John Holland and Business Manager Jim Humphries of Oklahoma City; Don Stewart, Tulsa business manager; Cecil Combs, business manager of Fort Worth; Fred N. Ankenman, Houston president; Guy Airey, executive vice president of San Antonio, and Jack Zellers, representing Beaumont.

Leading Railroad Chiefs Of Opinion Nation Is Pulling Out Of The Recession

Increases Being Made Already

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28. — Five railway chiefs—including heads of three of the nation's largest roads—surveyed the business front today and concurred in the opinion that the country is pulling out of the recession.

In Pittsburgh for a directors' meeting of the Association of American Railroads and a Traffic club banquet with leaders of other industries, the railway executives expressed their views to newspapermen.

Gradual Increase Reported

M. W. Clement, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, reported a gradual increase in carloadings during January which he said indicated increased business for industries served by the company's lines. He added:

"Business has already dragged bottom. It is starting on the upgrade."

E. E. Morris, president of the Southern railroad, commented:

"Very soon things will be humming so that the American people will hardly know they have had a depression or a recession, business is down as far as it will go and is on the upwing."

On The Way Up

L. W. Baldwin, headof the Missouri Pacific railroad, asserted "we have not only hit the bottom in this depression, but we are on the way up."

John J. Pelley, president of the association, who said yesterday in a speech to the association that freight rates must be increased to bring the railways out of a "financial bog," expressed the opinion "America has begun to pull out."

H. E. Fries of the Winston Salem Southbound, felt that business would improve, but asserted it needed a helping hand from congress.

F. E. Williamson, head of the New York Central, joined Pelley in a demand for higher rates, asserting:

"If rates are boosted, as I believe they will be the railroads will begin purchasing rails, cars, brakes and other needed materials."

Former Officer Of City Fatally Hurt

Last rites for T. D. Whitehorn, 48, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident near Rowena about 1:30 o'clock Friday morning, will be conducted at Corpus Christi.

Whitehorn, formerly a Texas Ranger, was stationed at Lubbock as a special officer about two years shortly after explosion of stench bombs in theaters here several years ago.

He was a special officer for Lindsey Theaters, Inc. A son, Starkey Whitehorn, was a member of Lubbock's high school football team when here.

Whitehorn died en route to a Ballinger hospital, having suffered a broken neck. He was found lying on the pavement clear of his car, which was badly damaged. It was believed that he fell asleep when driving and his car ran into a ditch. He was cigaret tax supervisor of the state comptroller's department of the Ballinger district and lived at Carbon, near Gorman.

He left San Angelo about Thursday midnight after conferring with county officials at Ballinger.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and four daughters.

Area Highway Work

cations for projects in the state costing $3,000,000 were in preparation and most of them probably would be completed for submission to bids Feb. 21.

The proposed letting, larger than any in recent months, included 10 feeder road projects under the 1938 secondary road program recently approved by the federal government.

Leave For Washington

Coincident with the announcement, members of the highway commission, engineers and good roads association officials left for Washington to appear before house and senate committees considering state aid for highways in 1940 and 1941.

R. L. Bobbitt, commission chairman, said the group also would oppose a proposal to reduce federal aid, according to the report.

Pointing out that completion of the present Texas highway system would require $285,740,000 and many years work, he said a cut in 1940 and 1941 aid would slow down the program.

Another Community Program To Be Held Here On Sunday

Second community program for the community house in the Panhandle South Plains fair grounds will be given Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It will be a mixed program of music and talks.

The work is being sponsored by the Women's Church Federation. A committee has secured furnishings for the house, located near the south entrance on East Broadway.

OKLAHOMAN ELECTED

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 28. (AP)—William Stewart, of Shawnee, Okla., was elected president of the Southwestern Lumbermen's association at its closing session today.

Interest Being Shown In Welding School

Interest in the third biennial welding conference at Texas Technological college Friday and Saturday has prompted a prediction that it would be the largest of its kind in the world by H. O. Green, of Amarillo, of Linde Air Products company. Green is here to arrange for participation in the event.

Green was active in the organization of the short course when it was brought into existence five years ago.

Run Up To 600

Attendance at the first school totaled approximately 250 and Green predicted, from observation in the Texas Panhandle and Tulsa oil fields and from other sources, that this year it may run between 500 and 600. He added that at least 20 companies in the vicinity of Amarillo will send from two or three to 10 or 12 men to the school. Green recalled that those enrolled at the second biennial conference included representatives from cities as distant as Kansas City, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Denver.

Accompanying him was J. Ernest Stroud of Clovis, agent for the Linde company, who was here in connection with the opening of his third store at 1209A Avenue G. He already has establishments in Clovis and Plainview. P. R. Riley has moved from Amarillo with his wife and daughter to become manager of the establishment here, Stroud said.

In addition, he said his objective was a national defense capable of "the simultaneous defense of every part of the United States of America." The nation can not assume, he said, "that our defense would be limited to one ocean and one coast and that the other ocean and the other coast would with certainty be safe."

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house naval committee introduced a bill to carry out Mr. Roosevelt's naval recommendations. It would authorize the navy to build 47 vessels aggregating 285,158 tons, in addition to the vessels it is already empowered to build.

Includes 47 Vessels

The increased authorizations would include three battleships, two airplane carriers, eight crisers, 25 destroyers and nine submarines.

It should be noted that "authorizations" merely give the navy permission to build ships sometimes in the indefinite future and are distinct from legislation for construction at a definite time.

Much interest was expressed in the proposal for making gauges and dies to help in the manufacture of army supplies. Many observers were disposed to consider this part of a program for enabling industry to turn to the manufacture of war time equipment at short notice.

May Be Tax Amendment

As for the recommendation for anti-profiteering legislation, a bill already on the house calendar would enable the president to place a ceiling on war time prices.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.), saying he believed "the best way to have peace is to be well prepared," asserted the senate finance committee probably would report anti-war profits legislation in the form of an amendment to the tax bill now pending in the house ways and means committee. A finance subcommittee, of which he is chairman, has approved, he said, a guaranteed scale of taxes which would eliminate all profits above a peace-time level. The measure would provide also for industrial mobilization in war time.

Oriental Situation

increased now to meet the threat of imediate or future aid for China which he found evident in arms shipments through Mongolia, Canton and Indo-China.

A Russian official news agency dispatch last month from Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, acknowledged war material had been sent from Russia to China but asserted Japanese reports of its extent were exaggerated.

The war minister argued that the "present hostilities warn us particularly to increase our air force" and as for naval strength—"Japan cannot permit other nations to become superior in this manner."

China Said Facing Crisis

Premier Prince Fumimaro Koncye asserted the central Chinese government faced a financial and military crisis, but added that "the Chiang Kai-Shek regime may restore its strength in the future."

"If Japan must station large military forces in China, Japan may be forced to declare war on China. All depends on the future situation," the premier said.

The latest of the long series of Russian-Japanese disputes—usually tied up with incidents on the Manchouquo-Siberian frontier — centered today on the Soviet action to suspend all parcel post service with Japan.

The step was taken in reprisal for detention of a Soviet plane and two-man crew after it was forced down in Manchoukuo Dec. 19. Russia said it was a regular mail plane but Japanese asserted it carried machine-guns and bombing equipment.

Fort Worth Man Is Held Here After Stolen Car Recovered

A 24-year-old Fort Worth man was arrested early Friday night by police in the possession of a 1937 Ford coach which was stolen at Paris, Texas, Sunday night, according to the members of the police department.

Arrest was by O. E. Rush and Melvin Alvey of the police department about 6:15 o'clock in the 1200-block Avenue E. Officers said the automobile had two bullet holes in the back of it and that they had been plugged up.

The vehicle was positively identified as the one stolen at Paris by the motor number when officers here communicated with authorities there. The license number had been changed.

The man was transferred to custody of county officers to be held, pending further communication with Paris officers.

Land Office Probe

Bill McDonald would give all of them to me" but added almost immediately he believed the land commissioner always would award a lease on what he (McDonald) considered the best bid.

"The other members of the group wanted to have some of the leases in their names," he said later. "We thought it would be better to put in the bids in different names."

Sen. Joe L. Hill of Henderson wanted to know particularly why one person given an interest in some of the tracts was carried in the records as "brokerage" instead of his name being given.

Harwell explained that the man, J. T. Dawson of Houston, asked that his name not be used. Dawson gave the group geological information on coastal areas, Harwell said.

"Why did Dawson want to be so secretive about this thing?" inquired Hill.

"I don't know," Harwell replied.

Fact Is Brought Out

Hill brought out that since Harwell and his partners had contracted with a driller without cash consideration to sink a well on one of their Jefferson county leases, they would be able to ascertain whether there was oil under the tracts without spending any considerable amount of money.

Harwell and his associates agreed to drill on a tract adjoining the one on which a test is being sunk under contract but Harwell testified the land commissioner extended until July 1 the deadline for the start of that well. No payment was made for the extension, he testified.

Will Know About Oil

"In other words," Hill questioned, "you will know whether or not you will find oil before you have to start drilling the second well?"

"We hope the first well is completed before July 1," Harwell replied. "As a matter of fact, we could start production from either of two oil sands already encountered. I don't know how productive those sands are. The well is now at 3,700 feet and the drilling contractor intends to go to 8,000."

Harwell voiced the opinion an award on a logarithm bid was the best kind the state could make "provided the oil business does not go into an extreme slump." Part of the high royalty bids accepted by McDonald have been on a logarithm basis.

Under logarithm bids the royalty varies according to the allowable production and the price of oil.

Questioned In Detail

Harris, an attorney and oil man at Oklahoma City until last year, was questioned in detail about the business he trancasted while he maintained an office here for a time in 1937.

He corroborated testimony of McDonald that the land commissioner had been to his office only "about three times." Questioned concerning how many times a certain employe of the land department had visited the office, the witness replied he had gone there several times because he was from the same town as one of Harris' business associates.

The name of William O. Coe of Oklahoma City, a state representative in Oklahoma, was brought into the investigation. Harris testified Coe did some legal work here for him. Harwell's records listed Coe as a partner in a few successful bids on submerged lands along the Gulf coast.

Harris was asked to send the committee all cancelled checks evidencing any payments by him in details among the group in partnership and also rent payments for his office here.

Other witnesses were W. F. Bridewell of Marshall and R. E. Kennedy of Kilgore, who participated in some of the successful bids.

Hopes Of Administration Aid Of Licensing Bill Bolstered

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. (AP)—Hope of administration backing for legislation to place interstate corporations under a federal licensing system grew among supporters of the measure today after Senator Borah (R-Idaho) had discussed it with the president.

Borah did not disclose Mr. Roosevelt's attitude when he talked with reporters after the conference. Other friends of the licensing bill by Borah and Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), took hope, however, from the fact the Idahoan gave no sign of having been discouraged.

Official Circles In Berlin Are Puzzled Over Hitler's Move

BERLIN, Jan. 28. (AP) — Official circles were puzzled today over Chancellor Adolf Hitler's decision not to call a session of the Reichstag for Sunday.

Der Fuehrer surprised his own collaborators as much as he did other countries in his ruling that the fifth anniversary of his seizure of power would not be celebrated by a solemn Reichstag session.

Mass Meeting On Safety Is Planned

Plans for the mass meeting to promote traffic safety in Lubbock were discussed at a session of the Lubbock Safety council at the American Legion hall Friday night. O. B. Conley, president, was in charge.

Feature of the Feb. 2 meeting will be a talk by L. G. Phares, chief of the Texas state highway patrol, it was definitely announced. A committee, composed of Mrs. H. F. Godeke; W. B. Irvin, superintendent of Lubbock schools; and R. W. Matthews, principal of Senior High school, was appointed to arrange the program.

Decision to hold a dance Feb. 14 to finance the safety drive was made after a discussion by council members

Further discussion centered on plans to bring about cooperation of other units in Lubbock in the program mapped out by the council.

Missionary To Tell Of His Experiences

Dr. Wid A. Gilbert will relate experiences of 14 months missionary work in Brazil at Central Baptist church, 1311 Eighteenth street, as first of several lectures in the South Plains area, according to Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor.

Dr. Gilbert arrived in Lubbock Friday morning. He returned from South America Oct. 1.

Tonight he is to attend the opening session of the fifth Sunday meetings of the Plains Baptist Missionary association to which the First Baptist church of Ralls is to be host. Rev. R. F. Pepper is pastor of the church there and Rev. F. E. Bennett of Olton is to deliver the sermon tonight. Sessions close Sunday night.

Most important business to be transacted by the association, Welch said, will be the election of a missionary to succeed Rev. J. A. Banaman, who resigned to become pastor at McAdoo. Thirty-four churches are included in the association.

Dr. Gilbert is now making the last of a series of lecture tours following his return from the foreign field. At the end of his present tour, he announced, he will become pastor of the First Baptist church at Wewoka, Okla.

His itinerary while on the South Plains probably will be completed Saturday, Welch said.

East Texas Floods

of water from the Sabine, hastily sandbagged slush pits.

The river reached a crest of 38.52 feet at Gladewater about noon Friday, and was receding in the afternoon. Observers predicted the lowlands would begin draining tomorrow and the river be normal within ten days unless more rain falls.

At Longview where the gauge was 30.61 feet at noon, the crest was expected Saturday night.

Spread Over Wide Territory

The muddy waters had spread over a wide territory, forcing many farmers in the river bottom to leave their homes.

Part of the Gregg county lateral road system was under water near Gladewater. Two new bridges were washed away on the Swamp City road, and about a mile and a half of the road was under water.

District Judge J. D. Moore at Austin said Friday waters from the Sabine were endangering 16,000 barrels of oil in litigation and he had signed an order for the oil's removal.

Agrees To Removal

He said steel storage was at a premium in East Texas and while it was against the law to remove oil from one earthen pit to another, he had agreed to the removal because an emergency existed.

The oil was involved in a confiscation suit filed by the attorney general's department against the Beaver Reclamation company, Judge Moore said.

The Trinity river was gauged at 44.85 at Long Lake and as the rise continued a crest of 46 or 47 feet was expected. The Red river continued to rise in south Arkansas and north Louisiana, but both the Sulphur and Cypress rivers in East Texas were falling, although they remained above flood stage.

Livestock in the Port Caddo area, where the Cypress was spread over a broad section, had been moved out, but few residents had yet evacuated.

Green Prepares To Face Miners

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28. — William Green made plans today for a face-to-face encounter with John L. Lewis at the United Mine Workers convention, asserting the miners were the only dues-paying members of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The American Federation of Labor president, a member of the UMW himself, was summoned to appear before its convention now in session at Washington on charges of fostering dual unionism by chartering the Progressive Miners of America, a rival of the United Miners in Illinois.

"I wish very much I might meet my accusers face to face at the convention and make answer to their unfounded charges," Green declared, indicating he was trying to wind up his work here but could not tell yet whether he would be able to go.

The AFL executive council concluded the mine union was the "financial angel," in Green's words, of the CIO after studying the union auditor's report for the six months ended Dec. 31.

The report showed total income of the UMW was $1,497,426.62 and Green said the union paid $1,434,000 into the CIO in that period.

Where Are The 4,000,000?

"Where were the 4,000,000 members of CIO claims?" Green demanded. "Why did the UMW have to contribute such large amounts of the miners' money?"

The AFL president said the figures answered "the inquiry why one man rules the CIO—because it is financed by one union."

The United Miners' payment to the CIO of between $130,000 and $140,000 a month, Green pointed out, was more than the AFL received from all its affiliates together.

The AFL council adjourned for the week-end after authorizing telegrams to Senator Wagner and other members of congress protesting elimination in the conference report of the housing bill amendment requiring payment of prevailing wage scales.

Asked for comment on President Roosevelt's special defense message to congress, Green said he felt that "in this period we must take into account the happenings in the international field and must rely on the judgment of the chief executive."

Wink Sophomore In Tech Band Boasts He Can Hold Note On Clarinet Indefinite Time

Holding a note indefinitely and playing a difficult musical passage without stopping to get a breath is easy for Bob Dickason of Wink, sophomore arts and sciences student at Texas Technological college and second clarinetist in the Matador band.

Accomplishment of the feat, Bob says, came after four years of diligent practice. He gathers air into his mouth and throat, then closes his throat, forcing the air into the instrument at the same time that he draws in more air through his nose. He repeats the process indefinitely.

Dickason, member of a musical family, who began his musical career in 1930, has played in every kind of band from a dance orchestra to a circus band. He has collected more than 11 medals playing solos and ensembles with the clarinet, saxophone, and oboe. He aspires to conducting a concert orchestra in New York, Chicago, or Los Angeles.

Approximately $150,000 in paper and bank stock was at stake in the first case. The companion case was a suit on a note in controversy in the first action.

Kidnap-Robbers Get $5,000 Haul

his machine entered his car through a back door.

Announcing a hold-up, the bandit pushed a gun against the back of Maas' neck, he said. He was instructed to drive toward Levelland, then to turn west. When Maas was commanded to stop, the car with the fog light was there, although Maas said he did not see it ahead of them.

"If You'll Be Nice"

"If you'll be nice you won't get hurt," the spokesman said. "Do what we say." The store manager was bound with cord about the wrists and tape on the ankles.

The bandits accented demands for keys to the store and combination to the safe by raps on the back of Maas' neck presumably with the butt of a gun. Protestingly Maas pointed out the key to the Texas avenue entrance to the store, at the intersection of that avenue with Broadway, and the combination to the safe. Driver of the car with the fog light left and left his accomplice to guard Maas. Driver of the bandits' car returned shortly after and cursingly addressed Maas: "I told you I didn't want any funny stuff. Why the hell didn't that safe open."

By flashlight Maas read the paper on which the man had the combination and said it was correct. He pointed out the safe was hard to open.

Threatened To Kill Wife

"It better be! We'll get you—and that ain't all; we'll kill your wife if you don't play straight." Maas quoted the spokesman.

On the bandit's second return, Maas saw he had been successful. They took his keys, however, and said they would throw them out "in front of the first house to the south—in the middle of the road."

They unbound his hands and left the tape on his ankles. They did not know he had broken the tape. He was warned to "stay here 30 minutes and don't report this for three hours."

Telephoned Assistant Manager

Maas walked back toward town and on reaching Coffman Courts and the filling station nearby, telephoned T. J. Murray, assistant manager of the store. He was taken to town in a police squad car, arriving at the store shortly after 2 o'clock Friday morning.

The bandits had taken $9 from his bill fold, but left a diamond ring, a pocket watch and a wrist watch with him.

Maas said he believed the crime was committed after the thugs had observed him and his actions over a considerable period of time. "They knew too much about me—where I lived, how I drove to and from home, exact location of the store," he said.

Recalled Wednesday Incident

He recalled that early Wednesday night, as he was preparing to leave his home for the weekly wrestling match; two men accosted him from a car which had been halted in a blind street. They inquired if any of the employes were working at the store that night.

It was reported the payroll for about 65 employes had been made up Thursday night. The store had nothing Friday morning even for "change."

Herron said he thought the loss was covered, at least partially by insurance.

The authorized strength of the United States army is 165,000 enlisted men, 6,415 Philippine scouts and 12,374 officers.

Program For Scout Week Is Prepared

George W. Dupree presented the new plan for reviewing of troops. Scouts will be reviewed once each month by a board of review, under the new plans.

George Langford, chairman of the neighborhood commissioners, named commissioners for each troop. The chosen and troops are:

Carroll Thompson, 10, 11 and 15; Joe L. Kennedy, 2, 6 and 14; P. B. Williams, 5, 7 and 13; P. H. Polk, 3, 4 and 9; and Ed McKeever, 8 and 12. Thomas Atkinson will assist Dr. C. C. Schmidt, field commissioner, in cub scout work.

Strange Illness

The others became ill later. Hugo succumbing last week in Malone and Mrs. Kannatz dying in a hospital here last night.

State Epidemiologist Goes To Investigate Illness

AUSTIN, Jan. 28. (AP)—Dr. A. M. Clarkson, state epidemiologist went to Malone, Hill county today to offer aid in trying to diagnose a reported strange and virulent illness there.

Dr. Richard Beskow, Hill county health officer, asked that Clarkson be dispatched to the scene.

State health department officials said they were informed that three persons attacked by the malady had died and 12 others still were sick. Their meager information indicated they said, that it possibly might be a form of influenza.

Advices here were that physicians at a Waco hospital were making an autopsy on the body of one of the victims.

Only Two Paying Days Left!

JUST two more week-days — today and Monday—and you will be "out in the cold" politically unless you pay a poll tax or secure an exemption certificate.

Only two more days of delay—or "putting it off"—and you will be on sidelines instead of in the game during a political year which promises to be one of the "hottest" in the last decade.

To those who have been laggard, The Morning Avalanche can offer little consolation. If they pay their poll tax Monday, they undoubtedly will have a tedious job of standing in line ahead of them. It will be tiresome and irritating.

Yet, even though one must stand in line for an extended period, that will be forgotten before the first election rolls around. The reward will more than justify the sacrifice.

As we have said on numerous other occasions, the poll tax receipt holder will get big value for his money. We have listed the assured and prospective elections previously, but we list them again: school trustee elections; city election to choose mayor and two commissioners; probably at least one or two other city elections on an amendment to the city charter and on a proposal to issue bonds somewhere in the neighborhood of $300,000; the first and second Democratic primaries; and the general election in November.

Remember, you've only two more "shots!"

Better get busy!

Tax-Paid Collection Agencies

THE county attorney of a certain Central Texas county boasts campaigningly of the number of "hot" checks he has been instrumental in collecting without the necessity of prosecution during the last year. The number totals more than 200.

The reaction of The Morning Avalanche to that boast is that the citizens of the particular county are welcome to keep the official, if they choose. For our part, we want none of him in Lubbock county.

It of course is a desirable thing that worthless checks should be collected wherever possible. But it is not our belief that the county attorney's department in that county or any other should become a collection agency which lets the chronic hot checker—and usually they are chronic—escape merely by paying the face value of the instrument he has given.

Instead, when a check becomes so difficult to collect that the victim must seek the aid of the tax-paid county prosecutor, the official's only course of action save in rare instances should be to penalize as severely as the offense merits one of the most troublesome types of law violators.

With Our Contemporaries

The One-Minute Sermon

Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth:

But I say unto you. That ye resist not evils; but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also.

And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain.

Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.—St. Matthew 5, 38 through 42.

LINDA BENTON—Heroine, daughter of a famous singer.

CAPT. BARRYMORE TRENT—Hero, flying "daredevil."

MIRANDA TRENT—Barrymore's grandmother; a "strong woman."

Yesterday: Befriended by Tony Abruzzi, Linda is a Christmas sensation at the night club. She is called "Titania." It brings back painful memories of Barry.

CHAPTER XIV

When Linda heard that name, with its tender, whimsical associations, her sudden cry of pain was irrepressible.

Now that the opiate of her shock and deadly weariness had worn off, it was all there with her again—Barry's voice; the laughing caress in his eyes; his arms about her that last evening, the agony of those sleepless nights—those worse than sleepless nights when in her dreams she had followed Barry's ill-starred course through cloudy skies.

The doctor was right. If she were to go on living—and it seemed that she was in spite of the pain at her heart—she must keep herself busy. It didn't matter much how.

"All right," she said briefly. "But if I'm going to sing tonight, I must get up now."

So that night again the Villa Abruzzi was darkened to an expectant hush. Then—this was one of Tony's "ideas"—a muted orchestra played very tenderly a few bars of a quaint, wistful old song. A baritone voice took it up—still very softly:

"Who is Silvia What is she,
That all our swains commend her?
Holy, fair, and wise is she;
The heaven such grace did lend her
That she might admired be."

Then in a silver frame against the lustrous shadow of black velvet, the overhead light making a misty halo of her fair hair, was Linda, singing.

"No hot stuff!" Tony had insisted. "No operatics! No funny business! Just the quiet, simple little tunes that take hold of hearts and twist 'em."

So Linda sang "I Bring Thee Tales of Araby"—"The Night Has a Thousand Eyes"—the Schubert "Serenade"; and when voices in the audience clamored for "O Promise Me!" she sang that, too.

And her success was even greater than the night before.

Tony strutted like a bantam rooster. People besieged him for introductions. Tony was sorry—so sorry—but Miss Star did not meet people. No, and Miss Star did not pose for pictures or allow herself to be interviewed.

Most of the newspapermen submitted, grinning, to the ruling. It was a good line as long as it lasted. They did not think it would last long.

One columnist, Reggie Grimes of the Index-Tabloid, was more persistent. He was a fox-like man with a long experience in the theatrical field, and a flair for the unexplored. He managed to way-lay Linda on her way to her dressing-room. When she eluded his questions and hurried on with a faint, apologetic smile, he went back fuming to Tony.

"Say what's the girl's game?" he demanded. "Here I am handing her free publicity on a silver platter, and she tosses me a smile and says, 'Excuse it, please!' "

"Miss Star does not need any free publicity," said Tony sturdily; but he looked thoughtful.

After the show that second evening, Linda was waiting in the car for Mrs. Campagno—for Tony's sister had insisted that Linda leave her hotel and come to share her own apartment—when a man stepped to the door and raised his hat.

"Forgive me," he asked, "but aren't you—or rather, were you not Linda Benton?"

Linda shrank back; then caught by something familiar in his clipped inflections, she faltered, "I—who are you?"

"About a week ago, I witnessed a wedding in a town called Nordhof." The man was choosing his words carefully. "I have a feeling that you were present, too."

The chauffeur leaned around from his seat to ask, "This guy bothering you, Miss Star?"

"No," said Linda faintly. "No. He—he is an old friend. Please, Mr. Chadwick, come in here where we can talk."

She held the car door wide, and the Englishman stepped in and sat down beside her.

"I thought I could not be mistaken," he said, "although I saw you for so short a time that day. You are not an ordinary type, Mrs. Trent. I saw Linda Audubon on the stage years ago—a play in which she sang several songs. A great singer was lost when your mother turned to purely dramatic work. . . . And you are wonderfully like her."

"How did you know that Linda Audubon was—my mother?"

"Why not? Her name appeared in your marriage license."

"Of course. I had forgotten. . . . But I thought you were leaving for England that day."

"I was; but circumstances altered that. And it's the merest chance—my being here and seeing you tonight. When I called at the Trent house to give you Judge Baldwin's message, I was told that you had left town, and that your address was unknown."

"Judge Baldwin's—message?"

"You see, his illness came upon him just before my train pulled out. Naturally, I went with him to the hospital. He entrusted me with the duty of seeing that your papers were recorded with as much secrecy as possible—since that was the way you wanted it—and of getting your copy into your hands. He seemed to guess that his end was near, and this affair of yours was praying on his mind. He kept saying over and over, 'Miranda Trent should have been told'."

"But you didn't tell her!"

"I had no such instructions. But I must admit," said Mr. Chadwick a little stiffly, "that I was tempted when I saw Mrs. Trent. She is an old woman, and bitterly lonely. You could mean a great deal to her now."

Linda smiled a little bleakly into the darkness.

"And but for the fact that she was definitely ill when I called to see you on Christmas Day, I am afraid that I should have been more than tempted."

Linda's heart contracted. . . . Old Miranda ill—and bitterly lonely. She had a sharp picture of Barry's grandmother, sitting that night alone by the dying fire, her fingers absently caressing the sleeve of the coat that lay across her lap. . . . And Barry had left the Duchess in her care.

As if piqued by her silence, the Englishman sad again stiffly. "The papers are in a safety deposit box in your own bank at Nordhof. The bank will recognize your signature. But you will need the key, of course. When I could not locate you, I finally left that in a sealed envelope with your husband's grandmother." When Linda did not speak, he went on. "You puzzle me, Mrs. Trent. Has all this no interest for you?"

"Does it really matter?" asked Linda drearily. "Now?"

Then as he moved as if to leave her, she laid her hand swiftly on his arm.

"Forgive me," she begged in her soft, low voice. "I do thank you. You have taken a great deal of trouble about me. I—I will think about what you have said. . . . But you won't tell Barry's grandmother—where I am?"

"Certainly not," he said in a mollified tone. "If that is your wish. Yet, as an old man, please let me say that I think you are making a serious mistake; but since you think it best to alienate yourself from your husband's family, there is no question that Mrs. Trent will forward the key to any address you suggest if you write her for it."

If I write her, Linda thought; and wondered if she would.

The events of the next day definitely decided that.

When Linda came into the dining room next morning, Tony, who often took breakfast at his sister's apartment, was sitting with a copy of the Index-Tabloid spread out on the table before him. He pushed the sheet towards Linda as she sat down, and pointed out an item in Reggie Grimes' column.

"I guess mebbie you'd better see this," he said.

Two Singers Are Heard Friday In Business Club's Luncheon

Two local singers, H. W. Moore and Miss Jane Higgins, furnished the musical program Friday noon for the American Business club at its regular luncheon in the Hilton hotel. Ross Hanna and John Clark were program chairman, the former presiding.

Mrs. Moore played for her husband's two solos. Miss Higgins was her own accompanist for two numbers.

Committee reports were called for by President William M. Collins.

The president announced the club would probably sponsor a Scout troop in the Mexican center. Scout Executive Earl McClure is to discuss the plan next week at the luncheon.

Secretary Jimmie Wilson presented the club with a gavel that he had made, to replace one taken by a souvenir hunter on last ladies' night.

Special Program To Be Given At Salvation Army Tonight

A special musical program featured by contests to select two singers to represent Lubbock in the choir of 50 which will sing at the state young people's convention in San Antonio next March will be presented at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Salvation Army hall, 1112 Seventeenth street.

Five entries in the contest here are Misses Irene and Melba Rawlins, Coena Hutchins, Mildred Mooring and Cornelia Wilson.

Other numbers will be presented under the direction of Mrs. L. T. Chambliss.

Sombrero comes from the Spanish word sombre, meaning shade.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE New Dealers' choice of judges and jurisdictions for trial of key cases has been uncannily fortunate. The Roosevelt-Cummings almost unnoted reorganization of personnel in the lower courts matches in significance the recent capture of the Hughes tribunal.

Judge Patrick T. Stone, who presided over the oil trials at Madison, where the government won a smashing anti-trust triumph, was the first member of the judiciary to be named by Mr. Roosevelt early in 1933. Wisconsin was chosen as the jurisdiction, as it was in the auto financing litigation, because it was believed LaFollette idolators would provide a pro-government jury. They did. Another New Deal sympathizer, Miss Florence E. Allen, will sit in judgment at the judicial showdown between Henry Ford and N. L. R. B. The latter's lawyers threw their hats in the air when they found that the trial had fallen into her hands.

Jurists appointed during the Harding-Coolidge-Hoover regime still dominate the lower federal courts, and through the seniority system have the say in making assignments. But most of them are now well along in years, loath to become involved in controversy, and are only too happy to permit younger, Rooseveltian colleagues to handle difficult, dangerous litigation. It's a break for F. D. R. from an unpublicized quarter.

LICENSING: The Madison triumph over oil officials and eight billion dollars worth of corporations may turn out to be a Pyrrhic victory. Despite their careful advance work, government lawyers had scant hope of winning it.

They would have ballyhooed an adverse decision as proof of Roosevelt-Cummings-Jackson statements that existing anti-trust statutes are as ineffective as a popgun because of court interpretations and new methods of price fixing. That has been the theme song of the recent anti-monopoly chorus, although the Borahs insist the laws are sufficiently sharp if there is a desire to enforce them. Now the government has been deprived of that argument in its expected demand for a new and sweeping anti-trust law.

Post-Madison strategy contemplates resort to licensing power over corporations—either along the line of the O'Mahoney provisions or the Canadian system. Under this method Washington could dictate on wages, prices, working conditions—on almost everything except the color of the workers' overalls. F. D. R. would have gone for the idea long ago could he have avoided giving credit to two such anti-Rooseveltians as Mr. Borah and Mr. O'Mahoney.

PRACTICAL: Washington's left wingers—the Cohen-Corcoran crowd—are complaining bitterly against organized labor's apparent desertion of Franklin D. Roosevelt and marriage with moneyed spokesmen for capital. They refer particularly to the friendship which John L. Lewis, George Harrison and William Green have struck up with the Lamonts, Sloans and Youngs.

To the New Dealers it represents the rankest form of ingratitude. Here, they say, is the first President in recent years who has given a break to the working man—higher wages, collective bargaining, the prestige of a White House latchkey. And yet, at the first sign of a Roosevelt recession economically and politically, they abandon ship and ally with the "economic royalists." Aside from forming a close friendship, as Mr. Lewis has with Myron S. Taylor of U. S. Steel and Thomas W. Lamont of Morgan & Co., they also subscribe to the latter's economic theories against the President's.

Ironically, Mr. Roosevelt himself is responsible. In his early favoritism toward the C.I.O., he taught Mr. Lewis that the latter can wrest better terms from Big Steel (Mr. Taylor) than from Tom Girdler's smaller units. Mr. Green is learning the same lesson. So both champions are souring on the new program for break-up of their friends' monopolies, price-and-wage structures, bargaining bigness. On their side, Messrs. Taylor, Lamont and Young are discovering that Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green are more reasonable than Franklin D. Roosevelt.

PROFITABLE: Senate accounts estimate the cost of the anti-lynching filibuster at approximately $250,000—one of the most expensive talkfests in recent years. The over-all rate, including expenditures difficult to enumerate, amounts to almost $10,000 a day.

The tentative figure includes salaries of the Senators (about $2,529.12 a day), daily expenses of $4,311.46 for Senate clerks, stenographers, pages and other personnel, $55 a page for the Congressional Record, light, heat, police, stationery, franking costs and other incidentals. The $250,000 computation does not take into account the extra days the Senate may have to sit as a result of frayed tempers and party discord which will block swift enactment of key legislation late in the session.

With only a few exceptions, however, most filibusters have earned their keep; they have prevented unwholesome legislation from reaching the statute books.

SOLUTION: An ardent 12-year-old New Deal daughter recently advanced a happy solution for the problem of American hosiery workers who may be tossed out of their jobs because of the proposed boycott on Japanese silks.

When the youngster expressed her sympathy with the buyers' anti-Tokyo strike, her father suggested that the boycott might be a two-edged Samurai sword in that it would shut down American factories. But she had a ready answer to that dinner table poser.

"Why, Daddy," she said, "Jim Farley and Harry Hopkins will put them on relief!"

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

A POWERFUL unseen factor is helping John L. Lewis in his negotiations to renew C.I.O. contracts with U. S. Steel and other companies in that industry.

Lewis is well aware of backstage administration maneuvers to undermine him as head of the C.I.O. So are the steel men. Lewis' position is further weakened by the recession and the terrific shrinkage of C.I.O. revenues. He needs a striking success to recapture prestige with his followers. Renewal of the steel contracts under depression conditions would fill the bill nicely—provided there is not cut in the wage rate.

There is excellent reason to believe that steel leaders will cooperate on this to give the C.I.O. chief a lift. Their attitude towards him has changed markedly since he broke with Mr. Roosevelt. They would much rather continue to do business with him than risk an upset in labor leadership that might plunge their labor relations into fresh turmoil. Moreover, they figure it would only be playing the White House game to try to kick him when he's down. Fact is the administration has driven Big Steel and John L. into a sort of silent defensive partnership.

HOPE: The automobile and auto finance executives who called at the White House last week were agreeably surprised by the warmth of their reception. The President was cordial to everybody, including Edsel Ford. He did more listening than talking and indicated approval of the industry's own plans for clearing up conditions of which he had complained.

The motor men agreed without argument that they had been overselling their product in the past two years and had made easy payments altogether too easy. They pointed out to Mr. Roosevelt that they have already stiffened down payment requirements, eliminated 24 month installment contracts, and are gradually shortening the average period for time payments. The finance company people also stated their case for the present system of financing as the most efficient and cheapest for the purchaser.

No one mentioned the subject, but all hands carried the secret hope as they left the White House boys from now on, the administration might perhaps forget about that anti-trust suit to break up existing relations between manufacturers and finance companies.

Side Glances---By George Clark

"My bankers must think I'm a little minx. My account is overdrawn half the time."

The Plainsman Says:

That Girl on Broadway says most women want to marry men of wealth, character, brains and a sense of humor—and they can do it, too, by practicing bigamy.

THE eyes of Superintendent W. B. Irvin and his public schools faculty people are turned, at the present, upon bicycles and safety.

All over the city's far-flung educational system, children are being counseled concerning the dangers of bicycle riding as effort is being made to safeguard against accidents.

Mr. Irvin believes that parents, too, may well enter into this plan to make school kid cyclers more safety conscious and asks The Plainsman to suggest that parents talk to the youngsters in that regard.

Doubtless you had no idea that so many school kids ride bicycles, but an actual count at all buildings yesterday disclosed a total of 587 "wheels" parked in the racks.

According to school officials, not as many bicycles are in use at this time of the year as in the fall and spring and during the peak seasons around 800 bicycles are daily to be found on school grounds of Lubbock.

Further than that, year after year bicycles become more popular and year after year Lubbock's school population grows.

Hence the bicycle presents considerable of a problem here.

THERE are no figures available for Lubbock, but Mrs. Ross Ayers, public schools journalism teacher, has dug up some from Ft. Worth which she believes will, in ratio, fit Lubbock.

Every day an average of 3,000 bicycles are used by school kids in Cowtown.

Every day in that city "where the West begins" there is at least one minor accident involving a schoolchild cyclist.

Every month there is a serious accident involving a school kid on a "wheel".

And every year there is one fatality.

Lubbock, roughly speaking, is about one-eighth the size of Ft. Worth in total population, but has a higher ratio of school children and automobiles on the streets. One may safely say that the risk in Lubbock would be about one-fifth the risk in Ft. Worth, as far as kids and bicycles are concerned.

* * *

For the benefit of mamas and papas, who are not too tired to go to the trouble of talking to their bicycling youngsters, here are the rules laid down on the subject in the new city traffic ordinance:

Bicycles must not be ridden on sidewalks.

Bicycle riders must not "hang on" to any other vehicle.

Not more than one rider may legally be on a bicycle.

School authorities hope, also, that parents will counsel their children not to weave their bicycles in and around automobiles and not to engage in "stunting", such as riding without using the handlebars, without keeping feet on pedals, and riding in a half-stand on the seats.

* * *

WITH three boys of his own—two of whom are of school age—The Plainsman wishes there were a law against permitting any child of less than 12 years to ride a bicycle.

But there isn't, and as a result we have a flock of kids as young as seven riding the contraptions.

Since an ounce of prevention allegedly is better than a pound of cure, it is to be hoped that parents will back up school authorities in their efforts to make bicycling less of a hazard to life and limb in Lubbock.

That Man on Avenue Q says science teaches us that life began in hot water—and it seems to be holding its own!

* * *

The little girl was telling her mother what an older friend had told her about high school.

"And mama," she breathed, "they teach you domestic silence, too!"

"It's domestic science, dear," the mother corrected.

"Come, come, mother," remarked the father from behind the sports page. "There's a bare chance that the child means what she is saying!"

* * *

AS Lubbock and its South Plains neighbors look into the next few years expectantly rolling upon their tongues the magic word "oil" over in Wichita Falls and vicinity the folks are already getting "black gold" on their boots and dungarees.

For a miracle—or, at least, a near miracle—has unfolded before the eyes of North Texans living in that area.

Another oil play of perhaps gigantic proportions is tickling them under the chins.

For no reason other than he thought it would be nice to break a return trip from Oklahoma City there, The Plainsman spent last Saturday night in "The City that Faith Built." Scenes there were reminiful of those other days, when the creaking of the bull wheel and the roars of the gushers coming in over the crown block smashed the silence of the Waggoner ranges in the Wichita country.

The lobbies of the hotels—particularly of the Kemp—were teeming with booted men wearing corduroy pants and leather jackets; the papers were full of oil news, both actual and prospective; and Wichita Falls—the same Wichita Falls which a short time ago was groaning in the grip of hard times—was simply buzzing from curb to curb.

* * *

THE new KMA field, located roughly, a dozen miles south, west on the way to Seymour, has turned the trick of transforming Wichita Falls from a quiet and somewhat tired city to a new whizzeroo.

Just what the KMA play will do remains, of course, a question which will not be soon answered in its entirety.

It may be safely said, however, that "they've got something there" and even if the field never approaches the East Texas area—as some believe it will—it's going to do good for Wichita, Electra and the other nearby communities.

Incidentally, an oil man told The Plainsman the other day that it looks like Lubbock is going to have operations at both its east and west doors.

Citing the Gulf's 8,500-foot test soon to go down on Swenson Land and Cattle company property near Spur, he said he'd been informed that two other tests soon would be sunk in that vicinity and that the boys in Ft. Worth and Dallas offices expected Lubbock to be sandwiched, ere long, between activities.

* * *

THEREFORE—and because we need it now, regardless of whether or not we ever have oil outside of cans—let Lubbock's cry continue to be "An office building! An office building! For Pete's sake, an office building!"

Without it we are and will continue to be terribly handicapped

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT No. 11 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The prisoners stood bewildered before the twin thrones of Gonfala, the Queen, and Mafka, the sinister wizard. Each of the four was occupied by his own racing thoughts. Spike glanced furtively at the scowling Amazon to whom he had been assigned as husband-slave.

"Gee," he sighed under breath; "I come to Africa to get away from my old woman, and here I get tied up to a dame twice as worse." Troll, who had once worked in the famous Kimberley diamond fields, had eyes only for the stupendous gem that Mafka fingered.

Van Eyk's interest as a scientist was centered on the puzzle of a savage white tribe in the heart of Africa. He concluded they must be decadent descendants of Portuguese bands who centuries ago adventured in the dark continent as traders and explorers.

Stanley Wood alone was struck with full force by the horror of their plight, doomed as they were to spend their days in tortured slavery. If only Tarzan were here! But what could Tarzan do against this army of fierce Amazons and Mafka's mystic powers?

Ask The Master Psychologist
Dr. La. Rose, Ps. D.

How to obtain Love, Happiness, Success, being loved and admired for yourself alone, capturing the hearts and friendship of all about you, can bring you more happiness than all the jewels and fine clothes you could wear than all the wealth you could spend in a lifetime. Without friendship and love life would not be worth living, for admiration and affection are the breath and heart beat of all human happiness. Within you is a power that controls your destiny. It is in every woman and man, but few discover it. Those who do are blessed with the key to Life's Happiness. With all my heart I urge you to bring forth this innate charm that is yours. Develop it, and you will attract to yourself those things that make life worth while. You are helpless in the hands of women who have learned how to use their hidden powers of attraction. You have these powers. You can discover and develop them and swiftly make yourself irresistible to men given in competition with women far more attractive-looking. You can win and hold the love of the one you want. So if in doubt, ask the man who knows.

LEADERS END UNDER WATER

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. (AP) — Selling of stocks followed release of the president's long-awaited rearmament message today and, despite a last-minute rally, market leaders ended under water.

The recommendation for a 20 per cent increase in the authorized naval building program, brokers said, was somewhat below expectations of trading forces and some of these shelved commitments and adjourned to neutral territory.

While the recommendations failed to include increases in the aviation branches of either the army or navy, some aircraft stocks came back to end moderately ahead.

Gold mining issues were prominent throughout. Dome and McIntyre touching new highs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 42.3. The rail and utility composites fell to new lows, the former since 1933 and the latter since 1935. Transfers totalled only 1,189,830 shares compared with 1,208,050 yesterday.

On the constructive side was another upturn in wholesale and retail trade, lessening of the flow of dividend omissions and a few good earnings reports.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28. (AP)—Maximum declines of approximately 50 cents a bale met increased covering in cotton here today and the market closed at net losses of 3 to 4 points.

Lower foreign markets and lack of incentive on the buying side contributed to the easiness of prices during most of the session.

During most of the day demand was confined to scale-down buying by the trade while offerings were composed of foreign and domestic liquidation on the easiness overseas and hedge selling as a result of the increased spot turnover.

The major part of the buying was encountered in the last hour and final prices were at the top. March closed at 8.48-bid, May at 8.56, July at 8.62, Oct. at 8.71 and Dec. at 8.75.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 28. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under liquidation. May eased from 8.45@8.38 and closed at 8.41 with final prices 3 to 6 points net lower.

Opening quotations also showed losses of 3 to 6 points but after the initial selling had let up, prices recovered to around the previous closing levels. There was no follow-up to the buying and selling increased moderately. Prices displayed a heavy tone during most of the afternoon with buying restricted principally to trade price-fixing. Toward the close a little scattered covering caused partial recoveries.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.45 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.48 cents a pound.

National Geographic Society To Take Color Pictures In Valley

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28. (AP)—Representative West (D-Texas) said the National Geographic society would take a series of color photographs of the Rio Grande valley for use in its magazine.

He said McFall Kerby of the magazine's editorial staff would go to Brownsville to spend two weeks obtaining information and pictures of citrus fruit groves and historic points of interest in that area.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 28. (AP)—Jarred by stock market downturns and forecasts of moisture in domestic dry areas, Chicago wheat values today fell a cent a bushel maximum.

Late reports of dust storms in Kansas and Oklahoma acted, however, as something of an offset for price losses here. The setbacks of Chicago wheat quotations were in the face of reported purchases of Argentine wheat for Germany and notwithstanding predictions in Canada that the United States may export more than 100,000,000 bushels this year, although the total so far has been only about 36,000,000 bushels.

Approximately 300,000 bushels of Canadian wheat was bought today for export, half of it new crop wheat not yet planted. One boatload of United States wheat was also purchased to go to Portugal from Portland, Oregon.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ⅜ of a cent lower to ⅛ higher compared with yesterday's finish, May 93½@93⅝, July 88¾@88⅞, corn ⅛ off to ⅛ up, May 60⅛, July 60⅝@60¾, oats unchanged to ¼ lower, rye unchanged to ⅜ advance, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 7 cents.

DOTHAN, Ala., Jan. 28. (AP)—County School Superintendent Solomon Baxter today indefinitely suspended classes at Rehobeth High school where pupils struck yesterday protesting the dismissal of Coach Hugh Wynn.

Law On Car Fees To Be Enforced

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Highway department officials served notice today they were prepared to prevent a repetition of "cut-throat competition" among counties for motor vehicle registration fees.

R. L. Bobbitt, highway commission chairman, said the law was specific in stating cars must be registered in the county of the owner's residence and the commission would take drastic steps if necessary to prevent a practice which "last year robbed the highway fund of several hundred thousands of dollars."

To Investigate Reports

Bobbitt said the commission would investigate reports a 20 per cent reduction in registration fees had been offered in one instance.

"We found upon investigation last year that a small proportion of counties were issuing plates at fees below those prescribed by the law," he said.

Counties Issued Scrip

"We also found instances where counties had issued scrip to machinery and supply companies in payment of registration fees"

He pointed out vehicles not registered in the county of residence were, in fact, not registered and owners were subject to $200 fines for operating an unregistered car. In addition, he explained, the department had authority to take over registration in counties where it has cause to believe the law is disregarded.

Boy Scouts To Meet Today To Select 'Officials' For Day

Organization of two political parties for an election to choose "city officials" to guide Lubbock destinies Feb. 11 will be held in a general meeting of Boy Scouts of Lubbock in the basement of First Methodist church at 9 o'clock this morning, Earl M. McClure, council executive, said Friday.

The election will be held sometime next week, when scouts to serve as mayor, city commissioners, city manager, police and fire chiefs and in various other official capacities will be named. The event will be one of the features of the observance of national Boy Scout week Feb. 6 to 12.

Detailed plans for observance of the week are to be worked out at a meeting in the 99th district courtroom at the courthouse tonight to which all adult leaders are invited. Especially urged to attend, according to Thos. A. Atkinson, scout week chairman, are scoutmasters, assistants and neighborhood committeemen. Atkinson will preside.

China's Hopes For Action By League Against Japan Dashed

GENEVA, Jan. 28. (AP)—China's hopes for strong League of Nations action against Japan apparently were dashed today.

Authoritative sources said China's delegate, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, was told that if he pressed his request for action before the current council meeting China might win a moral victory but the final effect would be further weakening of the league and no practical benefit to China.

Carver Charged With Forgery

Bennie Carver, 26, described by officers as being an ex-convict, Friday formally was charged with passing of three forged checks amounting to $486.39.

Three complaints were filed with Walter Davies, justice of peace, after having been prepared by Victor H. Lindsey, assistant district attorney, and sworn to by Jas. Posey, chief deputy sheriff.

Signed Statement

Carver, after his arrest Thursday by Ragan Reed, Slaton constable, signed a statement made to Burton S. Burks, district attorney, in which he admitted forgery and passage of four checks aggregating more than $800.

According to the charges, Carver passed a $225 check for $225 at the Lubbock bank on which it was drawn on Dec. 4; a $37.25 check to Levine Bros. Dec. 7; and a third for $224.14 to A. I. Glassman of Levine's Dec. 20. The name of A. Hassen allegedly was forged to the checks.

Late Friday Carver had not been arraigned, but it was indicated he would be today.

Government Is On Final Phase

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—The federal government started today the final phase of its effort to send John Henry Seadlund, confessed kidnaper of Charles S. Ross, to the electric chair.

District Attorney Michael L. Igoe prepared to ask a United States grand jury to indict the rangy woodsman on the basis of the 27 page statement which Seadlund made to federal men after his arrest in Los Angeles two weeks ago, and the testimony of key witnesses.

Denied Slaying Ross

Federal agents said Seadlund, who prefers the alias, Peter Anders, confessed he abducted Ross, retired greeting card manufacturer, collected $50,000 ransom, and slew his companion in crime, James Atwood Gray, but denied, several days after his capture, that he killed Ross. The 72-year-old victim, he claimed, died of relatively natural causes.

Indictment of Seadlund was sought under the Lindbergh law, it is the first such case in the Chicago courts. Ross was snatched on a suburban highway last Sept. 25 and was slain near Spooner, Wis.

ENROLLMENT INCREASES

In the grades are approximately 500, a slight decrease from last year. This is due to the fact that a number of farmers have left the county, unable to secure locations.

ANOTHER TEXAN ADDED

Additional names were expected to be announced tomorrow.

The list today included: G. L. Childress, Houston, Texas.

Drug Which Cuts Down Appetite And Steps Up Physical Activity Is Described In New England

BOSTON, Jan. 28. (AP)—A drug which cuts down the appetite and steps up physical activity, and is an "important aid" in the treatment of persons suffering from overweight, was brought to the attention of New England physicians this week.

No harmful effects were observed from its use in any instance, the New England Journal of Medicine reported.

Besides decreasing the appetite, the Journal said it "so increases the sense of well-being and of energy that physical activity is spontaneously increased."

The name of the drug, a benzene derivative, was withheld from the public and hospital doctors emphasized it must not be used except under expert medical supervision.

Actually medicated with throat-soothing ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.
