County Candidates Fix Dates For Five Political Rallies For First Primary

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Time and again this Talker has iterated and reiterated that he was just a talker who spoke without authority and who is not to be taken seriously. Nobody ought to know this any better than Ray Nichols who writes "Home Town Stuff" in the Vernon Record. "Nick" knows just how irresponsible a columnist can be. But here he goes assuming that something Talker wrote about the hook-up and the Gulf Texas and Western with the Frisco-Rock Island and its extension from Quanah to Shamrock or Pampa or wherever it is to be voiced the attitude of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce. Talker wouldn't assume to speak for the chamber of commerce and he is quite sure that the chamber of commerce wouldn't assume responsibility for Talker or anything he might say.

Talker in commenting upon the support of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce to the Fort Worth and Denver in its application for a permit to build from Childress to Pampa had said that the C. of C. was not opposing the Frisco-Rock Island plan notwithstanding that the "proposed hookup of the Gulf Texas and Western with the Frisco-Rock Island and Vernon will cut around Wichita Falls and deliver some of its trade territory to Fort Worth." Whereupon Mr. Nichols comments as follows:

"Talker probably exaggerates the effect of the completion of the Frisco-Rock Island projects. It is doubtful if any trade territory would be delivered to Fort Worth. The region affected would still be just as near to Wichita Falls and its rail and highway connections with Wichita Falls would be unimpaired. Fort Worth has now direct connections into both Vernon and Seymour over existing lines of railway. Perhaps these would be slightly improved, assuming that the G. T. & W. is to be better under Frisco management, but Wichita's access to the territory would not be affected.

"If 'Talker' reflects the views of Wichita Falls, our neighboring city seems to be fearful of competition. The personal opinion of the writer of this column is that 'Talker' understates, rather than exaggerates the attitude of Wichita business leaders. If he has erred at all, it has been on the side of friendliness toward Vernon and Seymour. Since the facts argue rather persuasively that Wichita Falls will not suffer any impairment of business prestige, if the Frisco-Rock Island program goes through, many people will think that the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce has adopted a 'dog-in-the-manger' attitude.

"Whether that is just or not, farsighted business men should be able to see that the only assurance of future growth in Wichita Falls is the development of Northwest Texas, even if Vernon and Seymour and Quanah do happen to profit through the building of new railroads that do not lead into Wichita Falls. If Wichita can't compete with Fort Worth in the territory right in her own front yard, it will take something more than favorable routing of railroads to help Wichita. At any rate, H. T. is for Wichita's baseball team in the Texas league, even if their chamber of commerce lacks enthusiasm for our proposed new railroads."

Talker isn't going to be outdone by Mr. Nichols and declares here and now that he is for Seymour's, Vernon's and Quanah's railroad whether the Fort Worth and Denver's application is granted or not. Of course he doesn't blame the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce for joining in support of the Fort Worth and Denver's application because that would furnish Wichita Falls with a direct rail connection with the rich Northeastern panhandle section. And having seen

Mount Vesuvius In Active State

NAPLES, Italy, July 7. (AP)—Mount Vesuvius today burst into a state of active eruption, developing three mountains of burning lava that invaded the whole northwest section of the vast platform of its crater.

The eruptive cone fell 95 feet down into the crater.

Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvius observatory, said the eruptive activity would continue for several weeks, but the lava probably would solidify in the crater and in the valley of the inferno.

He thought it would not pour out over the neighboring fertile slopes.

Refunding of $640,000 worth of the city's 5 per cent water bonds maturing in 1960 by conversion before Aug. 10 into serial bonds at an average interest rate of 4.7 per cent. was authorized by the city council Monday night. Faith in 'Message' to Come Softens Grief at the Passing of Conan Doyle

Famous Creator of Sherlock Holmes Dies Secure in Spiritualistic Convictions

CROWBOROUGH, Sussex, England, July 7. (UP)—The tranquil death of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, not unexpected, occurred at 9:15 a. m. today.

Members of his family, at the bedside when he died in his pleasant home at Windlesham here in Sussex, were busy with funeral arrangements this evening. Though grieving, they would not lessen their belief, profound and very real, that the famous spiritualist would communicate with them from the world into which he—and they—believed he has gone.

"I know perfectly well I am going to have conversation with my father," a son, Adrian Conan Doyle, said. He expressed the firm belief of the others, a belief instilled in a lifetime of association with Sir Arthur, possibly the world's most noted spiritualist.

Family at Bedside

Death was caused by heart trouble which had forced the creator of Sherlock Holmes to remain confined to his room almost constantly in recent weeks. He was 71 years old.

His wife, Lady Conan Doyle, the former Jean Leckie, and two sons and a daughter were at the bedside when he died.

"My father and mother were lovers to the end," the son, Adrian, said. "His last words were to her. He simply smiled up at her and said: 'You are wonderful'."

Conan Doyle little realized the truth of his words uttered last New Year's when talking with the United Press correspondent. A welcome cheery fire burned bright in the open fireplace of the Sussex house as he told the visitors, in the presence of Lady Conan Doyle, of his plans.

Foresaw End

"This is my last interview with the press for some time to come," he said. And Lady Conan Doyle quickly, as though to correct the possibility of a false impression that her husband was referring to the probability of approaching death, added:

"You see, he is very, very tired and overworked. The doctors have ordered a complete rest. You un-

Irate Subscriber Tests Status of Dial Telephone

BALTIMORE, July 7. (AP)—United States senators aren't the only ones to be riled by the automatic dial system which is coming into vogue with telephone companies. Whether the phone subscriber has to submit to installation of the dial system is the knotty problem placed before the Maryland Public Service commission by an irate patron.

When senators objected to the dial, congressional action was obtained. Rodney Niles here is no Senator Glass, but doesn't want the contraption in his home, and cited various reasons in his complaint to the state body.

SENATE QUICK TO QUARREL OVER TREATY

President's Plea for Pact Sets Off Fireworks Immediately

SECRETS DEMANDED

Unpublished Documents On London Parley Center Of Arguments

WASHINGTON, July 7. (AP)—President Hoover opened the special session of the senate for consideration of the London naval treaty today with a 2,400 word message calling for its ratification as "an important step in disarmament and in world peace."

Hardly had the presidential message been read to the 58 senators who answered the first roll call when Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, offered a resolution requesting the documents relating to the London conference which President Hoover had refused to turn over to the senate foreign relations committee.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, a member of the American delegation, replied the documents were in the possession of members of the delegation and he offered them in confidence to any senator who wished to see them. He said "the senator who accepts my suggestion will readily see the reason why the correspondence ought not to be made public."

Offer Scorned

However, Senator Johnson, Republican, California, who with McKellar is one of the chief opponents of the pact, scorned the Reed offer and demanded the papers "for the United States senate and for every member of it, and for my government here."

McKellar will call up his resolution tomorrow after Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia, has delivered the opening address in behalf of the pact. There was doubt tonight over the outcome of a vote on the resolution and what effect its adoption would have.

In his message to the senate, President Hoover touched on this subject. He said "every solitary fact which affects judgment upon the treaty is known, and the document itself comprises the sole obligation of the United States."

Language Strong

Senator Reed said the documents related to cablegrams exchanged between Ambassador Dawes and the state department prior to the London conference. There have been intimations that the picturesque

CANDIDATES IN EVERY SECTION

Week Opens With Speakers Shifted Around

(By The Associated Press)

Texas' Democratic gubernatorial campaign, almost completely submerging interest in the races for other state offices, went rollicking along without variations Monday except the candidates had been shaken up and dumped into new sections to conquer.

DAILIES ENGAGE IN OLD STYLE EDITORIAL WAR

Accusations Made Against Police Reporters to Be Investigated

TRIBUNE ATTACKED

Five Powerful Publications Aligned Against Jake Lingle's Paper

CHICAGO, July 7. (UP)—Charges that Chicago journalism is steeped in racketeering went to a grand jury tonight.

The accusations, which had every newspaper in the city filling its front pages with counter charges and editorialized protestations of innocence, grew out of the murder of Alfred Lingle, veteran Chicago Tribune reporter.

His assassination almost four weeks ago rolled up new reverberations. The headlines concerning Lingle grew blacker and blacker, as did the news matter concerning his reputation.

Accusations Printed

Finally came printed accusations against other Chicago newspapermen, charges that they were racketeers, that they were intimate with gangsters, that they profited thereby.

That brought on bitter front page editorials, demands that the charges be proved, that the men who made them be forced to appear before a grand jury. The slaying of Lingle, whose newspaper salary was $65 a week and whose yearly income was $60,000, almost was forgotten.

An old-time newspaper war apparently was brewing, with the Daily News, The Evening Post, The American, The Herald-Examiner and The Daily Times, all rich and powerful papers, lined up against the Chicago Tribune, which is advertised as "the world's greatest newspaper."

Quiz Demanded

A new grand jury was called, ostensibly to investigate the Lingle slaying, but the newspapers were united in insistence that Harry T. Brundige, famed reporter for the St. Louis Star, be questioned. Brundige was sent here by his managing editor, Frank W. Taylor, to write a series of articles about the Chicago crime situation.

Two of them have appeared. Both have been reprinted in the Chicago Tribune in full, with their accusations against several unnamed reporters and "minor editors."

State's Attorney John A. Swanson finally bowed to published de-

Co-Ed Takes Suicidal Leap From Plane as Pilot Strives to Save Her

LINCOLN, Neb., July 7. (AP)—Miss Alberta Brinkerhoff, University of Nebraska senior, today jumped to her death from an airplane near here, Coroner C. A. Hughart said the Mount Clare, Neb., woman committed suicide.

After riding to the airport in a taxicab, the young woman entered the plane of Pete Orr, a pilot for a Lincoln flying school. While flying near the airport, Orr said, he saw Miss Brinkerhoff climb on the wing of the ship. He manipulated the controls and was able to throw her back into the cockpit of the plane.

Orr immediately prepared to land and when he reached an altitude of approximately 1,200 feet he said the young woman jumped. Her body was found on the flying field.

A wrist watch on the girl's arm was stopped at 4:28 p. m. Coroner Hughert surveyed her body and pronounced the death a suicide. The motive was unknown. When Orr brought his plane to earth he showed the effects of shock, speaking of the deliberateness with which Miss Brinkerhoff stepped off into space, without apparent fear.

Texas-Oklahoma Border Dispute May Cloud Validity of Marriages

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 7. (AP)—Validity of all marriages, mortgages and other legal proceedings executed in the 28,000 acres of land in dispute in the Wortham suit for recognition of the government survey of the 100th meridian on the Texas-Oklahoma border, may be thrown in doubt pending a ruling by the Texas supreme court.

Thomas Martin of Oklahoma City, owner of approximately 4,000 acres of the tract, conferred with Attorney General J. Berry King today concerning rights of Oklahomans in the land case.

Martin said that if the court mandamuses the Oklahoma state land commission to issue patents on the property, the legal proceedings or early this fall, pected in the land involved would be clouded.

The heirs of John L. Wortham, Houston, have filed suit before the Texas supreme court to compel the state of Oklahoma to issue the patents. They claim the 100th meridian is one half mile off at the Texas boundary.

The tract in question extends from west of Hollis to a point southeast of Higgins, Texas. The attorney general has sent representatives to Austin see that rights of the Oklahoma land owners are protected.

If the court issues the mandamus, Martin would lose title to about 800 acres. Final action is expected

GRAND JURY STARTS WORK

Four-Day Session Expected As Court Opens

The work of presenting almost 50 cases to the grand jury for the July term of the 30th district court, convened Monday morning by Judge Allan D. Montgomery, was under way at the time of adjournment Monday afternoon and indications from the size of the docket and the nature of several of the cases were that the grand jury would not adjourn until Thursday or later in the week, according to Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney.

The first partial report of the jury will be made at that adjournment and work will then be suspended until late in the term when the body will be reconvened for its final report. Of the 50 cases scheduled for submission to the jury, nearly half are on charges of wife or child desertion.

N. H. Martin is foreman of the new grand jury. Other members are Roy E. Carter, J. T. Harrell, J. W. Lyle, Frank Creighton and J. M. Alexander, all of Wichita Falls; W. R. Hill, A. Lohoefner and H. S. Grace, all of Burkburnett; R. N. Richardson and R. E. Schuerer, both of Electra; and J. N. George of Iowa Park.

JURY TO HEAR HIJACKING STORY

The case of a 21-year-old man who Monday made a statement concerning his connection with eight hijackings here several weeks ago will be taken directly to the grand jury for the July term of the 30th district court, now in session, without the filing of charges, according to the statement of Sheriff W. G. Bralley.

The young man was arrested Sunday in Fort Worth at the request of Wichita county officers, Sheriff Bralley having returned him to the county jail here Monday afternoon. Among the hold-ups named in the young man's statement are several in which persons were robbed while they sat in automobiles, three near Staley field on the Henrietta road, one in Weeks park and another at Lake Wichita. Filling stations and grocery stores were also included in the statement, about $80 having been taken from the C. H. Parker store on Seventh street.

HOME-TOWN TALK

By B. D. D.

an advance copy of Wichita Falls argument before the Interstate Commerce commission he can say there is no word of depreciation of the Frisco-Rock Island plan in it.

Wichita Falls has no better neighbors than Vernon and Seymour and, in fact, if it wasn't for her neighbors Wichita Falls just wouldn't be a city. Talker knows that and he believes the chamber of commerce knows it too.

Walter Dimmitt Bentley who died the other day at Stillwater, Oklahoma, is remembered by old friends here and at Thornberry as a fine friend and neighbor who contributed his full share to the community life, whether it was in a young city or developing country neighborhood. Mr. Bentley was a college trained man, he had had wide experience as an agriculturist and he was one of those favored persons who had a natural gift as a teacher. He had won success as a teacher and farmer, but his great opportunity came when the attention of Dr. Seaman Knapp, the founder of farm extension work in the United States, was directed to this Thornberry farmer.

It was the enthusiasm and loyalty of such men as Mr. Bentley who made possible the great success of Dr. Knapp in the development of farm demonstration work in this country. Without the intelligent cooperation of such men Dr. Knapp would probably never have won recognition for this work and obtained its adoption by the federal department of agriculture.

Writing of Mr. Bentley recently D. P. Trent, extension division director of the Oklahoma A. & M. college said: "His teachings and influence contributed largely to the comfort, happiness and joy in thousands of homes, and thousands of boys and girls have had their ideals and their visions of life enlarged, broadened and enriched through his service." What finer words could be written of any man!

language employed by America's outspoken ambassador in London forbids their publication.

Whatever the result, the McKellar resolution promises to give the opposition a talking point and delay is in their favor. There are serious doubts in the minds of senate leaders that the 58 members who answered the opening roll call today can be kept here for a lengthy debate on the treaty.

However, Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, who is one of the leaders of the opposition, asserted the opponents would not filibuster. He also said they would not seek to break a quorum by staying away from the chamber. They probably will have the power to break a quorum.

Galleries Filled

The opening session on the treaty attracted well filled galleries. Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the secretary of state, who headed the American delegation to London, sat alone in the diplomatic gallery.

Most of the hour and a half session was consumed in the opening formalities. Vice President Curtis appointed Senator Watson, Indiana, the Republican leader, and Senator Walsh of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, to inform President Hoover that the senate was in session. Then the president's message was read.

Taking charge of the proceedings, Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee called up the treaty and had the document formally read to the senate.

Advocates of the treaty were confident tonight of its early ratification by an overwhelming vote. However, Senator Moses said it would require three weeks at least to complete the debate.

doubtedly will be the last newspaper man to see him for some time."

In an earlier interview, with the United Press, given last July, Conan Doyle revealed he was determined to try to communicate with his family after death.

SPIRITUALISM GIVEN AUTHOR'S INTEREST

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle in recent years devoted himself almost entirely to the study of spiritualism and to its preaching.

In the lecture tours he made in the United States, beginning in 1922, Conan Doyle spoke on life after death and the manner in which he expected to find the spirits of men living in the place to which he thought we all go—"summerland," he called it, where life went on much in the manner that it goes on among human beings on earth.

There would be men and women, eternal youth, sunshine, cocktails, a society fashioned on the society on earth, but no childbirth. He thought often he had received messages from friends in the next world, and his passion for spiritualism and its doctrines overshadowed all else in his life of the latter years.

Trained as Physician

Sir Arthur was destined originally for the medical profession, and, in fact, was a practising physician at Southsea, England, from 1882 until 1890. The lure of journalism and authorship proved too strong, and when after several small efforts, he produced his first Sherlock Holmes story, "A Study in Scarlet," in 1887, an eager public demanded more. He forsook the stethoscope for the pen with great profit to himself.

He was born at Edinburg on May 22, 1859. His father was a talented artist and his uncle a well-known writer on "Punch," humorous magazine. His grandfather also was a writer of note, hence his literary learnings were hereditary.

When he wrote his first Sherlock Holmes story nothing was further from his mind than that he was creating a character destined to go down in history. He took as his model for the famous detective one of his hospital preceptors, Dr. James Bell, who used to amuse his classes by displaying remarkable powers of observation and deduction. Conan Doyle conceived the idea a detective with such powers considerably exaggerated would make a good story—and "A Study in Scarlet" was an instantaneous success.

TOM LOVE CLUB FORMED HERE

Judge W. M. Taylor Speaks At Rally

A Tom Love-for-Governor club with a starting roster of 63 members was organized Monday night at a meeting in the 78th district courtroom when Judge W. M. Taylor of Dallas addressed the assembly in the interests of Love's campaign.

Judge Taylor was introduced by Charles H. Smoot, local attorney, as "one of the outstanding jurists of the state." Following his address the organization of the club was begun with the election of "Uncle" Ben Ferguson of Iowa Park, 94-year-old pioneer of this section and a Confederate veteran "who never bolted the party until 1928," as president and J. R. Welch as vice president. F. H. Harris was named secretary.

In his address Judge Taylor recounted Mr. Love's work in revising the Texas election laws and his cooperation in the writing of the Terrell election law, which supplanted the old convention system and "gave to the people of Texas the right to a direct vote."

"When Senator Love said in the capitol building at Austin that he wanted to be governor of Texas because of the good he could do in that office," the speaker said, "I accepted that statement in all sincerity. Senator Love has secured the passage of more constructive legislation than all the other candidates for governor combined."

"A lot has been said about the need of constructive statesmanship in Texas. I agree that there is a great need for it. Tom Love has shown through his accomplishments that he is capable of bringing about the constructive legislation we need.

"Nothing has ever been known to cast a blot or scandal on his private life. He has had bitterness shown toward him ever since he first advocated prohibition. But his blows toward the establishment of prohibition have always told heavily.

"Tom Love framed the law making it possible for the supreme court to have original jurisdiction on applications for mandamus writs to compel committees to print candidates' names on the ballot, in order to settle controversies before the election is over. I am confident, just as he is, that Tom Love will go into the second primary and win."

'News Racket' Charges Aired

mands that Brundige be questioned by the jury. Swanson sent a letter to Elzey Roberts, publisher of the Star, requesting that Brundige appear before the jury.

"We will try to get at the truth of the charges he has written," said Swanson.

Activities Defended

The Daily News, meanwhile, printed an unprecedented article in which its star police reporter, Leland H. Reese, defended his own activities against the Brundige charges which he said he assumed were directed against him.

Reese figured in an automobile accident over the week-end to which the Tribunte devoted almost two columns of space.

The reporter explained that his car was sideswiped deliberately. He added that after the Brundige articles appeared, he learned that he had been marked for death. Reese continued:

"On Thursday, July 3, I received a really definite message that I was to be attacked and beaten, if not killed."

He explained then why criticism had been directed against him in the killing of Julius Rosenheim, police informant once engaged in gathering information for Reese.

"I deny most emphatically that my 'relation' with Rosenheim was scandalous," said Reese. "I assert it was part of a recognized practice in newspaper service.

"I have been told by men who ought to know that he (Rosenheim) was killed in an effort to frighten the Daily News from its attack on the Al Capone beer racket in the loop. Of course it failed.

"Now in newspaper circles, among the police and in other quarters the insinuations and charges against Rosenheim have been made deliberately and for a purpose—to reflect on me as well."

Reese concluded the article by saying he never had received "money from any illegitimate source" and that he was "ready to confront in any proper investigation any person who cares to accuse me of acts either dishonest or unbecoming a newspaper man."

WRIT DELAYS FOSTER'S REMOVAL

LOS ANGELES, July 7. (AP)—Frankie Foster's scheduled departure today for Chicago was interrupted by filing of a habeas corpus writ returnable tomorrow, so tonight the dapper lieutenant of the Bugs Moran gang, charged with suspected murder of Alfred Lingle, Chicago newspaper men, remained in the Los Angeles county jail while Chicago detectives canceled their reservations on east bound trains.

Tomorrow Sheriff William Traeger must show cause for custody of the reputed gunman. Authorities were confident the court would order Foster held and he would be on his way to Illinois by tomorrow night. Extradition papers already have been signed.

Hall County Pioneer Fatally Wounded by Shotgun Discharge

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, July 7.—Thomas L. Martin, 62, Hall county pioneer, was fatally wounded Monday morning by a shotgun discharge which tore away a section of his skull. The gun was fired in the yard of the Martin home 12 miles west of Memphis, near Lakeview. The wounded man died 30 minutes later.

Mr. Martin, a prominent resident of Hall county for 20 years, has been in ill health since an attack of influenza from which he was unable to recover. He had hitched his team Monday morning in preparation for work in the fields, and had driven by the house to get his hat, relatives reported. Mrs. Martin was in the yard, on the opposite side of the house from where the shooting occurred.

Neighbors heard the shot and rushed to carry the wounded man into the house. His brains had been blown out by the force of the discharge close to the temple.

He is survived by his wife, his mother, one son, Howard Martin, and one sister who lives in Meridian. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at the Webster Methodist church. Burial will be in Union cemetery.

It was also voted that each candidate be assessed $1 toward defraying the expenses of arranging seats and locations for each speaking engagement. A committee composed of Judge John P. No. 4.—When the candidate is not present when his name is called in turn, he shall forfeit his right to speak at that meeting.

No. 5.—The rulings of the presiding officer shall be final.

No. 6.—The position of each candidate on the program has been drawn by lot by the committee for the first speaking date, and after that date he shall alternate with his opponents as to the order in which he speaks, with the exception that the order of speaking at the two Wichita Falls engagements shall differ.

BALLOON RACE AWARD WAITED

Association to Check On Barographs

HOUSTON, July 7. (UP)—A final check of barographs and mileages of the balloons which completed their flights in the national races last night will be made by the national aeronautical association at Washington before official winners are announced, race headquarters here said tonight.

A tentative survey by officials here, however, indicated the Goodyear-Zeppelin bag which landed at Greensburg, Ky., took first place; the Detroit Times entry second place and the United Van Service balloon third.

It was believed the Goodyear bag covered more than 800 miles in the race which started last Friday and which carried the bags into northeastern Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kentucky.

Capt. Fred S. Wilbur, secretary of the race association, believed that three of the 15 competitors in the national race would be entitled to enter the international Gordon Bennett cup event at Cleveland, but emphasized that the aeronautical association would finally determine these arrangements.

When the places are officially determined for the national race, the winner will be awarded the Litchfield trophy, symbol of the national championship.

Stumpf's trial also will be held during the fall term of court. The other indictments were for violation of the liquor laws, Mann act and transportation of stolen automobiles with a few on narcotic complaints.

REPORTS FILED WITH COURT

Iowa Park Constable's Post Left Vacant

Bob Bain, recently appointed by the county commissioners court to fill the vacated office of former Constable J. P. Williams at Iowa Park, failed to qualify for the position by reason of having given no bond for the office, according to the announcement Monday of Judge John P. Marrs at the weekly session of the court. The commissioners did not name another person to fill the office, Judge Marrs pointing out no appointment would be necessary in view of the short time remaining before the election.

The May report of Paul Barnett, county auditor, was presented to the court Monday, indicating a balance of $530,930.32 on May 31. Receipts during the month amounted to $29,097.12 and disbursements to $59,583.17, according to the report.

The report of T. W. McHam, county treasurer, for the month of June was also submitted to the court. Balances in various of the funds were shown as follows: Precinct No. 1 $33,752.26; precinct No. 2, $35,171.64; precinct No. 3, $31,078.43; precinct No. 4, $10,623.96; and the general fund, $56,673.25. Judge Marrs pointed out expenditures on large amounts of road work accounted for the small comparative balance in the fund for precinct No. 4.

Mr. McHam also presented to the court his treasurer's report for drainage district No. 1, indicating $233.73 in the construction account, $209.82 in the interest and sinking fund and $244.07 in the maintenance account.

The quarterly report of J. B. Fitts, county highway officer, for the months of April, May and June showed a total of 316 cases disposed of, with nine pleas of guilty out of 11 cases filed in court. Heading the list of cases on the report was "rendering aid to ladies, 10." The report was concluded with the statement "the roads of the county are in good shape and traffic violations are on the decrease."

Nebraska Race Getting Warm

Senator Norris Opposed By Grocer of Same Name

LINCOLN, Neb., July 7. (UP)—Three names conjure up the highlights in the Republican senatorial primary fight in Nebraska.

They are Senator George W. Norris, George W. Norris, an employe in a grocery store at Broken Bow who is not related to the present senator and Aaron Read, bewhiskered octogenarian who has taken a flat stand against the prohibition laws.

Senator Norris will campaign on the basis of his long record as a representative of Nebraska in congress and in opposition to so-called power interests in the state.

The second George W. Norris has not announced a platform. Friends of the senator today assailed the filing of the grocer's name as "another demonstration of the dishonorable and disreputable means which are being resorted to by political enemies of Senator Norris."

Read announced he will stand or fall on the effectiveness of his opposition to prohibition, asserting that " as long as dandelions, corn and other makings grow, there can be no prohibition."

Robert Smith, who has been identified with campaigns of Senator Norris and Senator Howell in Nebraska, today announced he would seek to prove the filing of the second George W. Norris is illegal on the basis that it reached the secretary of state too late for regular recognition. Smith characterized the filing as an attempt to confuse the voters.

Government Appeals Denison Case Decision

WASHINGTON, July 7. (INS)—An appeal will be taken from Justice Peyton Gordon's decision sustaining a demurrer to the indictment of Representative Edward E. Denison, Republican, of Illinois, on a charge of violating the prohibition laws, it was indicated today.

District Attorney Leo Rover formally requested permission from the solicitor general to file such an appeal with the court of appeals.

Denison, a dry congressman, was indicted last November after a "leaky" suitcase consigned to his office was found in union station. Investigation disclosed a trunkful of liquors in his office. John Layne, said to be a former secretary to the congressman, also was indicted.

Six Months Allowed For Gas Tax Returns

AUSTIN, July 7. (AP)—Farmers and others are entitled to six months in which to make application for refund under the state gas tax law, Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt today advised George H. Sheppard, state comptroller.

The opinion controverts a previous verbal ruling that the application must be made within two months. The two months rule has been enforced by the comptroller, and according to today's ruling "has worked a hardship" on many persons.

George H. Sheppard, state comptroller, expressed gratification at the ruling of the attorney general.

Dancer Brings Black Eye And Film Actor Into Sunrise Court

LOS ANGELES, July 7. (AP)—With a badly swollen eye as evidence, Vivian Duncan of the Duncan sisters dancing team, today hailed Rex Lease, film actor, into a sunrise court at Malibu, beach resort near here, on a charge of battery.

The dancer said Lease struck her as they sat in an automobile in front of the home of John Farrow, a writer, following an informal gathering at the home of Charles Farrell, film actor. She said Lease became angered after she had refused his advances.

Lease was released on $500 bail and ordered to face a hearing next Thursday.

Everything went smoothly at the party, Miss Duncan related, and Lease offered to escort her home. A half hour later the dancer and a night watchman appeared before the court. Miss Duncan's eye was assuming abnormal proportions. She declared Lease had made advances to her and when she refused, Lease swung at her face, knocked her down and kicked her.

Lease refused to affirm or deny the charge.

Oklahoma's Newest Town Strikes a Legal Snag

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 7. (UP)—Oklahoma's newest town became involved in legal tangles two days after a vote to incorporate it.

By a vote of 46 to 41 residents of Council Grove township Saturday voted to incorporate on a 330-acre tract a town to be named "Cosmoceramics." The name was derived from pottery and glass industries there.

Two protests accompanied the ballot boxes brought before the county commissioners today. The protests alleged election irregularities.

HEART BALM NOTES DENIED

Star Cleared of Alienation Charge

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 7. (INS)—Harry Langdon, film comedian, today won the lawsuit brought by Thomas J. O'Brien, former husband of the present Mrs. Langdon, to collect $11,500 in notes.

Superior Judge Samuel R. Blake held Langdon was not guilty of alienating the affections of O'Brien's former wife and that, therefore, the notes which were said to have been given in settlement of a threatened $250,000 heart balm suit by O'Brien were not legal.

Work Resumed on New K. M. A. Baptist Church

Special to The Record News

VALLEY VIEW, Texas, July 7.—Work has been resumed on the K. M. A. Baptist church. The roof is being placed on the building this week and plans are to hold services in the new church next Sunday.

This structure replaces the one that was destroyed by fire several months ago, and is the only church in the town. A vacant store has been used as a meeting place for church services since the fire.

AMERICAN RACE STRIFE TALKED

Congregational Council Meets in England

BOURNEMOUTH, England, July 7. (AP)—Race prejudice in America held attention of the International Congregational council today. The topic for discussion was "Church and World Paganism," with Dr. George L. Cady of New York as principal speaker.

There is no room for race prejudice and Jesus Christ in the same church, he held, yet Christians were at present attempting to make room for both. In America, he said, the negro was shut out from a large number of Christian churches of the North and from many more of those in the South.

"On the other hand we profess brotherhood, and on the other we deny it," he challenged. "People will not believe in the Christianity which the church in practice repudiates."

The churches, Dr. Cady concluded, would be unable to fight world paganism efectively so long as the church repudiated the Christianity which it professed by not practicing Christian brotherhood between the races.

MEXICO CITY, July 7. (AP)—Incomplete returns from yesterday's nation-wide congressional election this afternoon indicated that the national revolutionary party will have a large majority in both houses.

Wiley Wins Delay In Murder Trial

TEXARKANA, Texas, July 7. (AP)—The trial of Drew Wiley, 22, Cass county farmer, charged with the murder of Rube Huff, 40, of Queen City, was continued until Nov. 3, when called at Boston today.

The continuance was granted because a material witness for the defendant was too ill to appear.

The case was brought to Bowie county from Cass county on a change of venue.

Huff was shot to death last April 2 on Sulphur river, in what was said to have been an argument over a dice game. Hugh Wiley, Drew Wiley's father, is under a sentence of four years in connection with the killing.

The investment in the shrimp industry in Texas is estimated between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

IS THIS YOU
five years from now?

When tempted to over-indulge
"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*An investigation conducted by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors and the Actuarial Society of America revealed the fact that the death rate increases practically 1% for every pound of excess weight carried between the ages of 40 and 44 years. In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Too Much for Campbell
Tried to Dry the City
"Sipping" Music
A Scientific Stunt

By EMILE CAUVREAU

Dry Chief Maurice Campbell, trying to enforce the prohibition law for three years in New York, throws up his job and advocates the repeal of the 18th amendment "before the nation is consumed in the fire of its consequences." He ought to know what he is talking about. He has had to fight coercion, threats, bribes, dismissal. He resigns "a victim of a political plot of Republicans desiring to protect themselves at the polls this fall by increasing the number of brewery, whisky and alcohol permits."

Every prohibition agent who is not a grafter will say the same thing. He finds himself up against the same problem every day. The very duty he is paid to perform he is compelled to betray. An honest man in the dry enforcement racket in New York is about as effective as the foam on a glass of near beer. He has as much chance of doing anything as a reformer has in Chicago.

Those who have lost their hearing but still have good teeth will enjoy Beethoven or Stravinsky along with other good music lovers. Professor Bedell of Cornell university has invented a device which will enable the deaf to "sip" music through one end of a straw, the other end being in contact with vibratory mechanism.

Psychiatrists, like Prince and Lombroso, some years ago cited cases of "abnormal" persons who could see with their stomachs. This transposed faculty was considered not only pathologic but phenomenal. Today it is explicable on normal grounds. Tomorrow, infirmities may be overcome merely by power of will. What Einstein and Eddington predicated of the potentialities of the atom may be predicated with equal justification of the power of human volition.

The Chicago Tribune, which has pledged itself to rid Chicago of gangsters, is forced to start its campaign by explaining that for years it misplaced its trust in one of its own reporters, Alfred Lingle, who, it seems, was not as much of a hero as his suspiciously elaborate funeral would indicate. A racketeer himself, he was shot to death, not because he knew too much, but because he had betrayed his gangland partners as well as his newspaper.

Gang killings are becoming so common in New York that enterprising young reporters inform their editors before the shooting happens. In New York, police reporters are getting ready to report the "bumping off" ritual of "Little Augie," successor to the late Frankie Yale in the Brooklyn ice and laundry racket. Presumably "Little Augie" will do everything he can to postpone the day.

Daughter of Famous Poet Weds in Iowa

KEOKUK, Iowa, July 7. (INS)—Miss Marcia Masters, daughter of Edgar Lee Masters, the poet, was honeymooning today following her marriage here yesterday to Malcolm A. Jennings.

Both the bride and groom are prominent in Chicago's younger social set.

Miss Masters won fame at the age of 10 by writing a book. Since then she has written considerable poetry.

HONEYMOON

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., July 7. (INS)—Alice Day, motion picture actress, and Jack Cohn, a Hollywood broker, were on their honeymoon today following a simple wedding ceremony here yesterday. The couple kept their honeymoon plans a secret.

"You look around in the bushes fer the liquor an' I'll see if I kin find the woman," said Constable Plum yisterday when he found a lifeless stranger slumped in a car seat east o' town.

An American clothier declares that since the Mussolini regime the men of Italy are becoming the best dressed in the world. And considering the Duce's disposition to speechmaking, they're also the best addressed.

The first quarter of an hour after birth, says a physician, is the most dangerous period of life. Except that period when you try to beat out a changing traffic light.

The Sense of Mystery

THERE is something about the spectacle of a man flying around the earth that stirs old memories.

It is impossible to review the amazing flight of Major Kingsford-Smith and the Southern Cross without casting back in the mind to other trips around the world—to Magellan, and Drake, and the other hard-bitten adventures of old days who refused to be afraid of unknown seas.

Magellan set out with four rickety ships and got one back to Spain, giving his own life in the Philippines as a climax to a cruise of unimaginable hardship and peril. Drake dodged Spanish cruisers, doubled Cape Horn and came back with his ship crammed with gold and jewels. The others of that era who followed in his track had tall tales to spin when they dropped anchor in home waters again, and the story of the marvels they had seen was fully equaled by the story of the dangers they had undergone.

There couldn't be a more dramatic contrast; Magellan and Drake in cranky, snub-nosed cockle shells, painfully reeling off the miles on an almost endless journey, and this young Australian sailing through the air at 100 miles an hour, endangered chiefly by the possibility that his compass might go wrong and let him fly about in circles instead of hitting the mark.

The old-timers had a slower, more laborious job. Kingsford-Smith went faster. The risks he faced were more sudden, less predictable. The news traveled ahead of him. Magellan went over the horizon and dropped out of human knowledge for months; Kingsford-Smith was on schedule almost to the minute, with crowds waiting for him at every stopping place.

The world obviously has taken to moving somewhere at a speedy clip. Just where it may be bound, however, and whether the change is going to be for better or for worse, are other questions, to which the answer isn't always quite clear.

Kingsford-Smith's fight symbolizes the marvelous growth in communications that has come since the old days. The isolation, the loneliness, the infinite distances that separated man and man in Magellan's day, are gone forever. The peoples of the earth are being drawn closer and closer together. We are getting much more familiar with each other and with the world we live in.

Indeed, we may be getting too familiar. For Magellan, climbing up the Pacific, was like a man on a strange planet. He could expect anything. Golden cities and islands of enchantment were within the range of his possibilities. He had the sense of wonder, the sense of strange, unimaginable glory, ahead of him. And Kingsford-Smith—like all travelers today—knew precisely where he was going and what he would see there. There were no fables to explore. Great flyer that he is, he cannot pilot his monoplane to any spot that has not been photographed and described already.

We may have lost more than we think, in this connection. The feeling of mystery and amazement that environed the ancients has left us, forever. Its loss has not been entirely good for us.

When a Man Gets Angry

WHEN a public official loses his temper and his job simultaneously, he is apt to do some highly interesting talking.

Major Maurice Campbell, retiring as New York's prohibition administrator, emits a swan song in which he accuses certain New York politicians and Washington officials of insincerity in regard to the dry law, and asserts that party politics called for the restoration of certain liquor permits which he had revoked.

Unfortunately, Major Campbell was not quite angry enough to mention any names. The general public, then, is left just about where it was before. Its long-standing suspicion that there is a good deal of back-stage skullduggery in connection with the dry law is confirmed, but it isn't given any definite evidence on which it can go out and detach a few scalps.

Nevertheless, it is better off than it was before. When there are queer doings in connection with any public office, the best way to start their correction is to start the officeholders, present and past, to talking. Get them sore enough and you'll eventually learn something.

Indeed, it might be to the public interest to have some system whereby every man who held any public office would be grossly insulted when it came time for him to leave. This, of course, would make him angry and would fill him with hatred for the higher-ups; and while it might work an injustice on some, in the long run it would cause others to tell tales out of school, and the general public would get a much clearer picture of what was going on.

At all events, Major Campbell has done the American people a service by speaking out frankly about conditions surrounding the prohibition office in our largest city. The only trouble is that he has not been frank enough. Having said so much, he has practically put himself under the obligation of saying a good deal more. We would like to hear a few names named.

Kansas City Balances the Books

VISITORS to the Republican national convention in Kansas City in 1928 will remember that a group of bandits picked that week to stage an unusually daring bank holdup, during which they murdered a policeman who tried to interfere.

Kansas City instantly got busy to square the account. First, it raised a fund to build a home and provide an income for the officer's bereaved family. Then it went after the bandits. It caught them—and three of them are to be hanged on one scaffold late this month.

Whatever you may think of capital punishment, here is one case where it seems amply justified. Men who kill a policeman while they are committing a crime have mighty small claim for consideration. Kansas City seems to have done an excellent job of wiping this business off the books.

Resignation

The moon is quite as yellow as before,
The breezes drift with all their old allure;
But we are well aware it takes far more
Than this to make a vagrant love endure;

Our glances meet with steady unconcern,
Our phrases now are dull and commonplace,
And so we grasp what lovers all must learn,
That Cupid sets a rather dizzy pace.

Well, that is that, the binding vows we made
Are broken with the coolness of a kiss;
Why stand about and watch the embers fade,
Since love is just a game of hit and miss?

I will forget that love once loitered here—
Even as you've forgotten me, my dear! —JACK ESS.

"Always Belittlin' "

The other Monday evening, James J. Walker, the town mayor, was listening to radio entertainers and others who are on the air. As the program concluded, a confrere ankled into the mayor's shack. "Ah, a radio fan!" said the visitor. "Have you ever listened to Walter Winchell?"

"Just heard him," said James, who wins the season's awards for non-committal comments.

"Well," said the confrere, "how is he?"

"Just like his column," was the reply.

Add Surefire Laffs

Benny Leonard has been enticing robust howls with it since he quit the prize ring. The one-time lightweight champ was called on at the opening of the Sea Breeze Beach club (Long Island) the other night and after the roof-lifting ovation subsided, he swiftied: "Ladies and gentlemen, I cannot sing and I cannot dance—but I'll fight anyone in the house!"

The Squelch Terrible

At the Friars club the other afternoon "Bugs" Baer saw a certain actor in a new suit of clothes. "Where ja have that made?" queried Bugs.

"In London," replied the upstage ham.

"Were you there?" countered the fastest thinker in town.

Tee, Hee

Far be it from one of his contributors to twit the editor of the New Movie magazine (Woolworth distributed) but p. 73 offers a full page likeness of John Barrymore, the caption accompanying it reading: "John Barrymore as Moby Dick in his new talkie version of 'The Sea Beast.' "

We always thought Moby Dick was the whale.

Just for the Records

President Hoover, it appears, has dropped 15 pounds since assuming his great responsibility.

Now that Mr. Coolidge has turned columnist, it is a safe wager to make that he will lose that much weight and twice as many friends if he desires to be interesting and readable.

Mr. Coolidge, however, need not worry about losing friends. For every one he loses there will be a dozen of the fair-weather brand.

Circumstantial Evidence

He probably will never be kind to a woman, again. The other night at one of those orgies in the 05's he observed a chorus girl pass out after the third highball and he placed her limp form on a divan, where she snored soundly.

Later, when the alleged party broke up he couldnt arouse her. He took his departure. The following night every detective on Broadway was looking for him on her charge that he thefted her diamond wrist watch.

The whole street buzzed about his turning thief and he was eventually found and brought to the station house.

"That's the man!" she shrieked.

He explained that he removed the watch because he feared someone might steal it—but that he placed it in her purse.

Examination of her purse proved he was right.

But it will be many years, one fears, before he will live it down—Broadway being the village it is.

Oop!

The publisher of theh N. Y. Times met Marie Dressler on the liner and persuaded her to immediately visit the plant of the great newspaper. He hurried her to the Times dining room, just as luncheon was being served.

"Here, here!" he cried. "Stop eating awhile, we have Marie Dressler with us!" Then he urged Miss Dressler to stand up and say a few words.

"I'm starved!" bellowed Marie, as she sat down.

Merciless Truth

A motion picture editor reports that there was the usual crowd of admirers choking the pavements in front of a theater in Hollywood—watching two popular screen stars waiting for their cars.

"It's a shame," mumbled an old fogy in the crowd, "the way people stand around and stare at those actresses. It sure is a pity."

"Save your pity," interrupted a has-been. "They'll need it more when there isn't a crowd to stare!"

James and Georgette

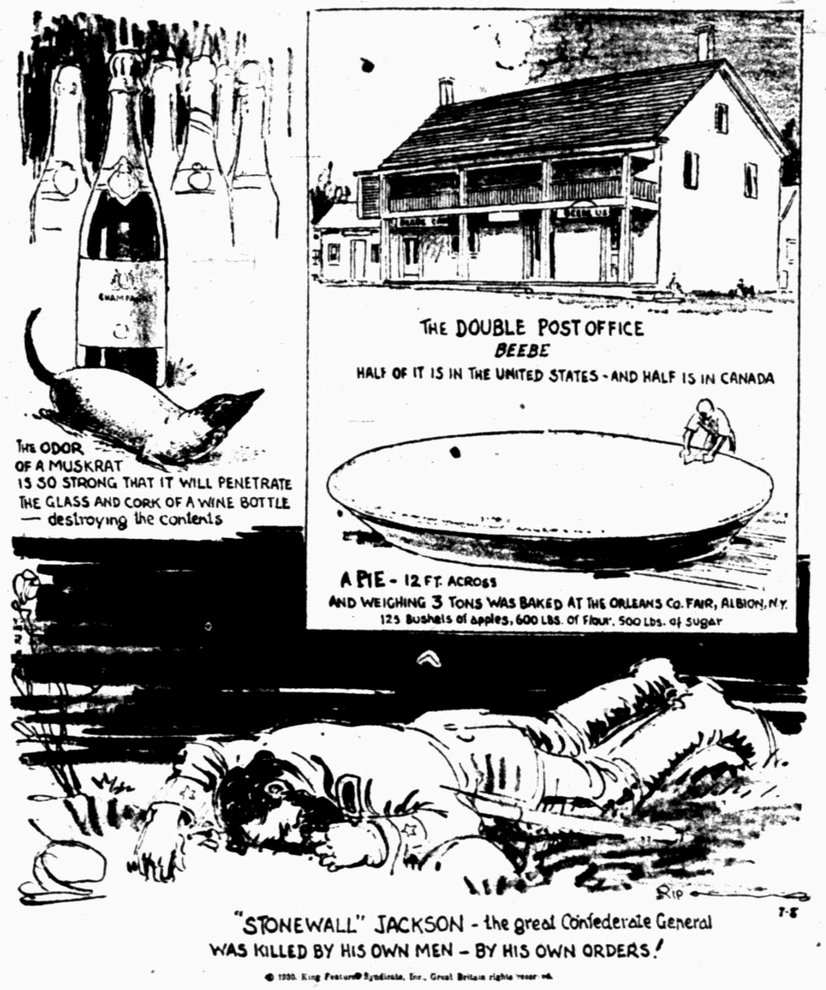

The next Wall streeter and Broadway "santy Claus" to crash the page ones will be a middle-aged gent who is getting weary of paying a certain divorcee's bills, knowing that the minute he goes up—others come down. He is trying to get out of the arrangement, but she threatens trouble. She probably has a sweet weapon—the low-down on his stock deals, information he told her when love was alive.

The sitch-ee-ay-shun is getting more tense each day and a grand blow-off, with plenty of mud-slinging, may be expected any minute.

It has been going on for almost two years, the girl telling intimates all along the name of her keptor—so that she may have impressive witnesses when she puts the screws on.

Just a couple of phonies "taking" each other, and some fun for the scandal-loving public when the fireworks begin.

"SHEILA"

Love and Mystery
Humor and Tragedy

A Story of Wichita Falls
By GORDON TURNER

CHAPTER XXXVI

Much happened during the time that elapsed between the dramatic denouement at Mrs. Rogers' home and the dinner given by Sheila, a week later.

Andy Masters had made his peace with his uncle. He had confessed in full his part in Menton's blackmail plot. He had not spared himself in telling, but Wilber was so relieved by the lifting from Sheila of the menace of embarrassing disclosure that he was more than willing to overlook the ugly past. Andy's seemingly sincere repentance and his faithful adherence to his self-imposed promise to keep from drink brought full forgiveness.

Andy still was carrying his arm in a sling, but as soon as he was fully recovered he was to resume his old place in Wilber's office. His financial affairs, too, were looking up. A sudden upturn in the stock market had enabled him, with Wilber's advice, to close out his speculations without heavy loss. He and Mercy were to be married as soon as he re-established himself.

Mercy had been received without question in the Wilber family circle. Her whole-hearted repudiation of the fast crowd whose influence had led to Andy's downfall and her unswerving devotion to Andy after the collapse of his fortune had proved her sincerity and won for her not only respect, but real affection.

It was a happy group that gathered for Sheila's dinner, with one exception—the subdued, quiet, sad-eyed hostess. Sheila for a day or two had been buoyed up by the glad discovery of her mother's identity, but had relapsed to her former melancholy. She was sincerely in love with Joe Hedley, but she still was under the obsession that in breaking her engagement she had pursued the only course open to her. She assumed a forced gayety in courtesy to her guests, but her spirits would not fully respond to her will.

They were gathered in the living room following the dinner—Wilber, Sheila, Edna, Mrs. Rogers, Andy, Mercy and Sheridan. The servants had been banished and the doors closed. The time had come for Sheridan to fulfill his promise of another surprise. They drew their chairs in a close circle around him.

"Everything that occurred during the past hectic month has been explained," he began, "except the death of Lena Swartz. It had all the earmarks of murder or at least, of malicious design. Only six persons were in the laboratory when Mr. Wilber demonstrated his invention, the two Demorel company experts, Enderby and Westervelt, the boy Dicky, Andy, Mr. Wilber and myself. The electric switch had been thrown off and the cylinder was in the clips when we left the room, unfortunately leaving the door unlocked. Yet when Lena's body was discovered, the deadly switch was closed and the cylinder was on the floor where it had fallen from her lifeless hand. Somebody had been in that room and had thrown the switch between the time we left the room and the time of Lena's death a short time later. It looked like a deliberate attempt to kill some one, probably Mr. Wilber. Suspicion in my mind attached to several persons—it would be unkind and useless now to name them. Riley Morgan, the burglar, was one. But absence of motive and subsequent investigation eliminated every suspect. It remained a mystery. I cudgeled my brain and finally there flashed back into it a scrap of conversation that game me the clew."

He paused and smiled at the rapt faces of his auditors.

"I followed that clew to Utica, N. Y., where Dicky Enderby just two days ago told me all about it."

"Dicky Enderby!" The exclamation was in chorus.

"Yes. You remember Dicky was put to bed in Mr. Wilber's room just across the hall from the laboratory. However, you probably do not remember a remark he made to his father after he was awakened and just before Westervelt and Enderby took their leave: 'Pa, don't you buy Mr. Wilber's light; it's no good.' That's the clew that took me to Utica.

"Dicky did not go to sleep immediately he was put to bed. His little brain was seething with curiosity over the new light he had seen demonstrated. He wanted to see it work again. He crept out of bed, across the hall and into the laboratory, pulled a chair to the bench and climbed up. He threw the switch again as he had done during the demonstration. But the cylinder failed to glow. We know now it had been accidentally insulated. Dicky in his disappointment failed to throw off the switch and stole back to bed. Nothing probably would have come of it had not Lena, in obedience to her burglar lover, tried to steal the cylinder. And that's that—like all seeming mysteries, it is very simple when all the facts are at hand."

Sheridan was receiving hearty congratulations on his solution of the death mystery when Wilber leaned over and whispered to Mrs. Rogers. She hesitated, blushed and then nodded assent to his question. Wilber arose, smiled and turned to Sheridan.

"You have been giving us a series of surprises lately, Sheridan," he said, "and all of them have been pleasant ones. Now it is my turn. I have Mrs. Rogers' permission to make an announcement, which I imagine will be a surprise and, I hope, a pleasant one to all of you. Mrs. Rogers has graciously consented to be my wife—"

He got no further. There was a clamor of congratulations. Mrs. Rogers was kissed again and again by the three girls and Wilber was hugged until he cried for mercy.

"What a perfectly beautiful climax," Sheridan observed to Wilber and Sheila during a temporary lull in the medley of animated voices. "It solves everything. Sheila retains a father and gains a mother and a sister, and when this marriage takes place Sheila's legal status cannot be assailed. It will wipe the slate clean."

A few moments later Sheila slipped from the room into the library, where there was an extension telephone. She called a number.

"Joe," she said when the call came through, "Joe, this is Sheila. Something wonderful has happened tonight that changes everything and—and I want you, dear. Can you come out now—right away?"

"Can I?" he replied joyously. "Watch me!"

She was waiting on the veranda. A car whirled into the driveway. Hedley leaped from it and up the steps.

"Sheila!"

"Joe!"

They melted into each other's arms.

Note by Maizie Brown to her correspondence school instructor: Well, that is the end of the story. I finished it two weeks ago and have been busy revising it, but now I do not think I shall ever send it to you. I have no more interest in story-writing.

This morning Frank Sheridan came into his office all in a glow.

"Maizie!" he cried, "congratulate me; I am to be married!"

He was so full of his new-found joy that he never noticed that I was unable to say a word. As soon as I could I pleaded illness and came home. Edna Rogers has robbed me of Frank Sheridan. I had been half afraid of it for a long time, but I kept kidding myself that maybe—

Oh, I don't blame him a bit—she is a fine girl, young, vivacious, intelligent, pretty and I—I am only a plain, cross-tempered old maid! But my heart is broken—he was my hero, my god. He was kind to me, but I have sense enough to know that he never looked upon me with the eyes of love. The disparity in our ages and in our social positions raised an impossible barrier. He did, I believe, look upon me as a loyal pal and he gave me the affectionate friendship of a partner. But that's so small a grain of comfort. His joking deduction that I dreamed of myself as Cinderella awaiting the coming of the Prince, was all too true. He is the Prince and I know now that fairy-tale dreams cannot be realized.

Ambition has deserted me. I am ill, sick at heart. I see other apparently on the road to happiness, but my feet seem set upon a path of hopeless misery. I wonder . . .

Note by the Editor—Maizie Brown died after only three days' illness. The attending physician said death was the result of "pneumonia, superinduced by severe mental or emotional shock." A less scientific, but perhaps no less accurate diagnosis, might have been heart-break.

THE END.

New Posts Given Army Generals

WASHINGTON, July 7. (AP)—Orders assigning five general officers of the army to new posts were issued today by the war department.

Maj. Gen. Preston Brown of Lexington, Ky., deputy chief of staff, was assigned to command of the Panama canal department. He will sail late in October.

Maj. Gen. Malin Craig of St. Joseph, Mo., was assigned to command the eighth corps area with headquarters for Sam Houston, Texas.

Maj. Gen. John L. Hines of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., was relieved from command of the ninth corps area with headquarters at San Francisco and ordered to the command of the Philippine department.

He will be replaced by Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, now commander in the Philippines. General MacArthur's home is at Little Rock, Ark.

Gen. William Lassiter of Petersburg, Va., was relieved of command of the eighth corps area and assigned to command of the Hawaiian department, sailing for Honolulu from New York Sept. 27.

Seven-Year-Old Suit Postponed Once More

SAN ANTONIO, July 7. (AP)—The seven-year-old suit of the Commonwealth Bank and Trust company against the Lone Star Motor Truck association, Ltd., was delayed another week in 45th district court today when Clinton G. Brown, receiver for the defendant association was granted seven days in which to receive further contributions from members of the association.

The suit, which involves over 2,200 defendants, concerns a note which the banking company seeks to collect from the motor truck association.

Trial of Banker For Murder Gets Started

WEWOKA, Okla., July 7. (UP)—Paul D. Cole of Wewoka, former banker, went on trial alone in district court today on a murder charge in the death of Ernest Irby, former Wewoka druggist.

Irby's body, beaten and shot, was found in Lake Wewoka April 10.

Shortly before the trial opened, Frank Hunt, charged jointly with Cole, appeared before Judge C. Crump and obtained a severance of trial. Hunt will be tried at a later date, County Attorney Homer Bishop said.

Stop a minute and think about this fact. You can ask our Information Bureau any question of fact and get the answer back in a personal letter. It is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Get the habit of asking questions. Address your letter to the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—How much money do people spend going to fortune tellers—S. L.

A.—As far as we know there is no estimate for the United States. It is said that New York people pay approximately $5,000,000 a year to fortune tellers.

Q.—What is the difference between pale dry and extra dry ginger ale?—K. A. M.

A.—Pale dry has less sugar than regular and extra dry the least sugar of any ginger ale.

Q.—What is the value of this country's apple crop?—B. F.

A.—It is valued at about $100,000,000. There are about 32,000,000 barrels of apples sent to market each year.

Q.—Is Lake Lure, North Carolina, an artificial or a natural lake?—P. T.

A.—It is artificial. It lies near Asheville and was made by damming a small stream in a narrow valley in the mountains. It has a shore line of about 50 miles, while its width is seldom more than a quarter of a mile. It is one of the scenic marvels of North Carolina.

Q.—How much water goes over Niagara Falls every minute?—E. H.

A.—The normal flow of water over the Falls of Niagara is 500,000 tons a minute, which is equivalent approximately to 120,500,000 gallons.

Q.—What is the price of silver at present?—B. R.

A.—Bar silver is quoted at 34 cents per ounce.

Q.—Is the Labrador duck extinct?—T. L.

A.—The Labrador duck and passenger pigeon have become entirely extinct among American game birds, and the Eskimo curlew has been almost exterminated.

Q.—In proportion to the size of a novel, how does a 48-page newspaper compare with the average book of fiction?—V. T.

A.—Such a paper contains as many words as two novels.

Q.—Is there a telephone book listing subscribers in various countries?—G. A. B.

A.—In Denmark there has been published a world telephone directory listing the names of between 5 and 60 thousand subscribers in many countries who make habitual use of international telephone lines. There are editions in English, French and German.

Q.—What size mast has the Enterprise?—C. D. R.

A.—America's cup defender, the Enterprise, has a 168-foot mast. She, as well as all the other racers, has adopted the Marconi rig, in which a single narrow mainsail tapers from the boom to the tip of the mast without a topsail. The new type of sail, installed upon the giant masts, is expected to give the racers exceptional speed, since it is aerodynamically superior to any that has been used before.

Q.—What are the qualifications for becoming a driver on one of the transcontinental busses?—R. L.

A.—One of the large companies does not accept boys under 21 or men over 40. Preference is given to high school graduates. Generally about nine months elapse from the time a man applies until he is given a run as a regular driver. The applicant undergoes two physical examinations, one for general fitness and the other by eye and ear specialists. If he passes, he is enrolled in the company's training school where he receives a course in driving and one in business routine. After that he makes short runs and substitutes for drivers until his trial period is completed and he receives a full time job.

Q.—In the statement that Mrs. Charles Phelps Taft has given $2,000,000 to the University of Cincinnati to endow the study of the humanities, what is meant by "the humanities?"—W. W. A.

A.—In her letter to the board of directors of the university with reference to the fund established as a memorial to her husband, Mrs. Taft defines her meaning thus: "In referring to 'The Humanities,' I include particularly literature and language, philosophy and history, and with these I have also in mind economics and mathematics. Without wishing to lessen, or to regard in any way lightly, the great efforts being put forth for the material and physical betterment of mankind, to which great funds are everywhere being devoted, I believe that there is some danger of a lack of emphasis on that value of thought and conduct and character, and I have therefore confined my gift to 'the humanities,' which are concerned particularly with the development of ideas, of thought and of character."

Things to Do With an Orange or Lemon

It is surprising how many delectable concoctions have oranges and lemons as their basic ingredients. There are 48 pages of recipes in the booklet now available to readers of the Record News and many of them are new and unusual.

The section devoted to hot weather drinks is especially interesting, and just now is timely. Specifications for some 25 or 30 libations are to be found there, including everything from a "Piazza Punch" to a "Red Cross Cocktail." None of them calls for anything stronger than ginger ale, in addition to the fruit juices, to make it altogether refreshing.

In ordering this booklet, use the coupon.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Courtesy, some one has said, has done much to destroy honesty. Some one was making a brilliant play on words. There are those who say, "Tell the truth, and shame the devil." They tell it when it has not been asked and hurt more than they help.

Courtesy, it seems to us, is a beautiful thing much less known than it should be in this decade.

We have seen young striplings, not much past their majorities, yell into the telephone when interrupted at their work, and as soon as they could close the conversation, slam the receiver on the hook. And the work interrupted was not very important.

We have felt often a deep sympathy with girls on the P.B.X., even if our souls are irked when we become mixed on our calls.

It is the gentle souls that suffer from lack of courteous treatment. We fancy sometimes in business that men who rub shoulders with women are intentionally rude—thinking, "they have put themselves on our plane, now let them stand the gaff."

As a general thing, man is least courteous at home. If we might plan a school of life, it would be one that would teach the male creature to always treat tenderly his women folk; then he would treat courteously the same sex when he met them in business.

So far as that goes, remembering times when not feeling our best we have been a grouch, we would have the same sort of school for women.

Life is so short. (We shall stop saying that for people begin saying it more as they grow older).

We sat today in a hospital coridor and watched nurses and doctors working with an oxygen tent. It seemed the last frontier of life over which they were fighting.

Nothing is quite so miraculous to us as the development in science and surgery of the last two decades. Physicians and surgeons go right down into the river of death and drag patients back.

We own a most fascinating tome written by a New England girl whose lovely voice and personality won her the name of de Hagermann-Lindencrone, and we will never forget her conversation with a veteran of the Mexican war who told her of how long he was left for dead on the battlefield. He wore a silver shield over part of his abdomen.

Anesthesia seems to us one of the greatest blessings of the age. Many a limb was sawed off before surgeons could give a merciful anesthetic. Every day anesthesia goes a step further. The new spinal anesthesia, that saves the terrible after effects of gas, must have saved much shock.

It is a pity that a gentle anesthesia could not be found that a person might apply who had sensitive feelings; so that no matter how roughly she was answered, or how much like a cipher she was treated, it would never leave any depression or any slightest heart ache.

I. O. O. F. and Rebekahs Have Annual Picnic

Approximately 200 Rebekahs and Odd Fellows attended a picnic given July 4 at Lake Wichita when a basket lunch and fish fry were enjoyable parts of the day.

In the program the following were winners: Free for all foot race, 50 yards; first, W. B. Price, time 11 seconds; second, J. W. Eakins, time 23 seconds; high jump, Jimmy Ruth Martin, 3 feet, 4 inches; boat race; first, John Singleton.

Through the day, the Rebekahs sold cold drinks to furnish room 14 at the Odd Fellows' home at Corsicana.

Dorothy Dix Tells Why Mothers And Daughters Quarrel

"Perhaps No Other One Thing Has Ever Caused More Misery Than the Old Superstition That Parents And Children Should Go On Living Together, No Matter How Uncongenial They Were."

"Why do two people who really and truly love each other make each other miserable?" asks a bewildered mother. "My daughter and I," she goes on to say, "are devoted to each other and in any time of stress we could depend upon each other for help. I have sacrificed everything to care for her, to educate her, to give her pretty clothes and a good time and when I have been sick she has nursed me faithfully. But we simply cannot get along together. We cannot live in peace and harmony. We rub each other the wrong way somehow. We wrangle over trifles. We say things that stab each other to the heart and when a scene is over we actually don't know what it was that we quarreled about. Why is it that I don't understand my own child and she doesn't understand me and we simply can't adjust ourselves to each other? What is the matter with us?"

Nothing, except nature. It is just that you are two antagonistic temperaments that can no more blend than oil and water. The old theory that mothers and daughters are invariably cut off the same bolt of human cloth and are of the same texture and pattern and width and weave and that they inevitably have the same tastes and desires and aspirations has no foundation in fact.

Sometimes the girl is a replica of her mother, and is worldly or pious, highbrowed or light-heeled, a club woman or bridge fiend, as mother is, and then we see the sympathy, the understanding, the harmony that makes the ideal relationship between mother and daughter about which poets and romancers rave. But just as often the mother and daughter are exact opposites in character and disposition. The girl is serious-minded while the mother is frivolous. The girl yearns for a career, while her mother is determined she shall get married. The girl longs for freedom and independence, while her mother is set on keeping her in leading strings.

In such a case, no matter how much the mother and daughter love each other, they are bound to clash continually because they see everything in the world from different angles. They have different scales of values. They have not a taste nor a desire in common. And just because the relationship is so close, just because they are both women and because the mother has always looked forward to having a daughter who was a rubber stamp of herself and who would think as she thought and want to do the things she wanted to do makes the clash of these opposing temperaments not only inevitable but incessant.

For at every turn some question is coming up about which mother and daughter disagree, and while mother is willing to grant her son a right to his own opinion, she does not extend the same privilege to her duaghter. She is sure mother knows best when it comes to the girls.

Besides the uncongeniality which frequently exists between mothers and daughters and for which they are in nowise responsible, there is often that intangible quality that we can neither explain nor define that makes them get upon each other's nerves. We all have that Dr. Fell feeling about certain people. We may know them to be admirable individuals, models of all the virtues. We may respect their integrity and honor them for their achievements, but all the same everything they do irritates us.

If they express an opinion on any subject we find ourselves hotly combatting their view, no matter whether we have ever thought of it before or not; if they want us to do a certain thing, we will do the opposite or die in the attempt. Wild horses couldn't drag us into their political party or their church or to their doctor or force us to wear the kind of clothes they like.

Now, although we refuse to recognize a very patent truth, parents and children often have this Dr. Fell attitude toward each other and, without intending it, rile each other beyond endurance. It is this latent antagonism, or sympathy, as the case may be, that causes one child to be the storm center at home, always picked on by the parents, while the other is the fair-haired boy or girl who can get away with murder, so to speak.

Perhaps no other one thing has ever caused more misery than the old superstition that parents and children should go on living together, no matter how uncongenial they were, no matter how much they quarreled, no matter how wretched they made each other. Fortunately, we are becoming more enlightened now and we perceive that often the only way to save the family circle is to break it and that frequently parents and children love each other better at long distance than they do at close range.

So, when parents and children find themselves in continual conflict the common-sense remedy for their trouble is simply to separate. Nothing is truer than that absence makes the heart grow fonder of our families. Distance gives us a perspective on their virtues, and from a hundred miles away we can appreciate the love that prompted the nagging, the anxiety that was back of tyranny and even see the humor in the petty fault-finding which we could not perceive when we were right up against it day by day.

We can't help the uncongeniality of our relatives, but, thank heaven, we can get away from it if we have sense enough to buy a railroad ticket. —DOROTHY DIX.

Slayer Makes Peace With Accomplices

CANON CITY, Colo., July 7. (UP)—Ralph Fleagle, under sentence to hang at the Colorado penitentiary here this week for the Lamar bank robbery murders, has effected a reconciliation with George J. Abshir and Howard Royston, accomplices condemned for the same crime.

Fleagle brought about the reconciliation today by begging the pair to forgive him for "peaching" on them and offering to finance any 11th hour moves they might want made in an endeavor to save them from the gallows.

Both accepted. For the first time since their incarceration in the death house the trio talked on friendly terms.

National Roads Association Meets

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 7. (UP)—If Mr. Smith started on his vacation today with the intention of traveling all the highways in the United States he might return home in 1971.

But he would have to urge the family car over more than 2,400,000 miles of the nation's 3,000,000 miles of highway, J. A. Rountree, director general of the United States Good Roads association, estimates. The association's convention opened tonight.

"The purpose of our 18th annual convention here is to get Mr. Smith's family car out of the mud and to give the nation a system of highways which if viewed from an airplane would make the country resemble a uniformly patterned table cloth.

"At the present time, we have to travel unimproved roads to most of the resorts vacation time. Not only do the tourists have to battle mud and dust but the farmer is hampered in his marketing of crops by poor by-roads," Rountree said.

The good roads meeting is held in connection with the fifteenth annual meeting of the Bankhead National Highway association. The Bankhead highway is one of the two routes designated by the government as a military road. The other is the Lincoln highway.

MILLER COUNTS PAST BALLOTS

Candidates Hold Forth At Comanche

COMANCHE, Texas, July 7. (AP)—A talk by Barry Miller of Dallas, desirous of being promoted from lieutenant governor to governor, climaxed Comanche's "political day" today.

Miller said he could gain comfort from the votes he derived in the past while his opponents were making claims about votes "they are not going to get."

The candidate mentioned a large plurality he obtained in the lieutenant governor's race two years ago and pointed to the fact he received a clear majority in this county over all four of his opponents.

Besides being political day, this was monthly trades day and the annual fruit show was on. Others on the speaking program included Paul Loven of New Braunfels, candidate for governor; former Lieut. Gov. Lynch Davidson of Houston, supporting Jim Young and Clint Small in the gubernatorial derby; Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene, candidate for re-election, and State Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman, unopposed for another term.

For 30 years more people have used Colgate's than any other dentifrice ever made

FOR 30 years—toothpastes have come and gone. Now one springs up and bids for leadership . . . now another.

BUT today . . . as 30 years ago . . . and all the years between . . . Colgate's is the biggest seller.

THAT'S a fact worth pondering—and here are some facts—equally worth considering.

COLGATE'S has healthfully and completely cleansed more people's teeth than any other toothpaste the world has ever known.

COLGATE'S has done this for more years and more people than any other toothpaste ever made.

COLGATE'S has been more universally recommended by dentists than any other dentifrice ever made.

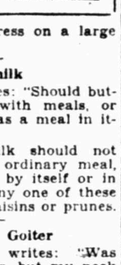

COLGATE'S is advised by leading authorities who have been retained to make analytical tests and render expert opinion. Such eminent authorities as Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, Commissioner of Health of New York City, Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Dean of School of Sciences, Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., and others agree Colgate's has cleansing properties found in no other dentifrice.

COLGATE'S toothpaste costs as much to make as any toothpaste on the market. The large demand created over all these years has enabled the company to manufacture this superlatively fine product and to sell it for 25 cents.

THE price is important—but the quality, not the price, has held Colgate leadership for 30 years.

For 30 years—toothpastes have come and gone. Today—as 30 years ago—and all the years between—Colgate's is still the biggest seller.

Summer Squash

The summer squash is a member of the gourd family, along with the cucumbers and melons. It is the same as the vegetable marrow of Europe and Canada, and is almost exactly like the edible gourds used in Spain and India.

As one cook has said, "Summer squash is mostly water—but what water!" For this reason it makes a good cleansing, cooling summer vegetable. It is a very delicious addition to the everyday diet. Summer squash may be secured in most parts of the country during the season and should be used as much as possible when available.

Several varieties are used, some are scalloped, some flat, some round, some crook-necked, some yellow, some white. The taste is very agreeable, being mild and bland. The squash of this group belongs to the non-starchy vegetable class and may be combined well with either a starch meal or a protein meal.

One particular kind of little summer squash called Italian squash or zucchini, is green with stripes. Inside it is yellowish to white. It is used a great deal in Italy. These squashes may not be obtained in every market, but they are finely flavored when used young and are tender and of delicate taste.

Summer squash are classed with the alkaline foods, offering potash, lime and soda.

Squash has a number of qualities to commend it to the cook. It does not cost much, does not take long to prepare, and does not take long to cook. Since it cooks very quickly it does not warm up the kitchen on a summer day. It needs no preparing, as the skin mashes up easily when cooked. The seeds are left in it. It should be washed, diced and cooked in very little water, just enough to cover it so that too much of the flavor does not cook out into the water. If carefully watched it is often possible to cook squash by cutting it up and adding no water at all, using a little butter instead. Squash cooked in this way will be sweeter and will lack that watery flavor which clings to a squash which has gone to a watery grave in the pan before it reaches the table. Most summer squash is cooked in too much water which renders it tasteless and unpalatable.

As summer squash is a non-starchy vegetable it may be combined with almost any other kind of food, and it, therefore, lends itself easily to many mixtures with other vegetables.

In tomorrow's article I will give you some recipes which are suggestions of a number of different ways for using summer squash during the season. After reading these recipes I will be glad to have any of my readers send their favorite ways of preparing summer squash so that in future articles I may pass the recipes on to my readers.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Anemia

Question—J. V. D. writes: "A member of my family is suffering from anemia. She complains that her limbs from the knees down feel just like wood. Is this a usual symptom? What will relieve this condition?"

Answer: You did not say whether the trouble is primary or secondary anemia, but the systems you describe are more like those of primary or pernicious anemia. This is too serious a condition to be prescribed for in this column, but I will be glad to send special information on the subject of primary anemia if you will send me your full name and address on a large stamped envelope.

Buttermilk

Question—T. writes: "Should buttermilk be taken with meals, or should it be taken as a meal in itself?"

Answer—Buttermilk should not be taken with the ordinary meal, but should be used by itself or in combination with any one of these fruits, figs, dates, raisins or prunes.

Germs and Goiter

Question—W. R. writes: "Was told I have a goiter, but my neck is not large—you cannot see any evidence of it. I am afraid that it may become large, however, and would like to know how I could kill the germ before it takes effect?"

Answer—The exophthalmic goiter does not show much except to make the eyes protrude. You may suffer from hyperthyroidism, the diagnosis of which must be accomplished mostly by studying symptoms, as the gland does not appear to change in shape in most cases. All forms of goiter are caused from the effect of bodily toxins, and the cure depends upon the elimination of these poisons.

California Governor Ponders Mooney Pardon

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 7. (INS)—Gov. C. C. Young today remained silent over his deliberations as to whether he would pardon Tom Mooney from San Quentin prison where he is serving a life sentence for asserted complicity in the San Francisco preparedness day bombing in 1916 that cost 10 lives. His decision was expected this week.

The state supreme court last week recommended that Governor Young not pardon Warren K. Billings, convicted with Mooney. Billings, a recidivist, is serving a life sentence in Folsom penitentiary.

At a mass meeting addressed by William McDevitt, Socialist leader, in San Francisco last night a resolution was adopted urging Young to immediately "issue an unconditional pardon to both prisoners."

MOVE TO CURB WHEAT OPENS

Secretary Hyde and Legge Begin Campaign

HASTINGS, Neb., July 7. (AP)—Promising to give the facts concerning the world outlook for wheat, the federal farm board and the U. S. department of agriculture today opened a campaign in the so-called southwestern hard winter wheat area for the reduction in the crop's acreage.

Headed by Secretary Arthur Hyde of the department of agriculture and Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board, the government's spokesmen on agricultural questions brought to the wheat growers their suggestions for meeting the current depression in prices for the grain.

Explaining the group's mission, Chairman Legge said they were trying to present the world situation regarding the outlook as to wheat.

"In the last analysis," he said, "the matter of what you are going to do about the situation must be left to the producer."

Chairman Legge said the farm board had been "charged with a lot of things," and that he had no doubt but that "the fellows who always find trouble will find a way to charge us with the decline in prices of securities and other products in addition to those produced by the farmer.

"We are going through a world-wide depression in business. I doubt if we ever will be able to eliminate these periods of ups and downs.

"I don't believe there is any justification for the theory that we are facing a permanent period of lower prices. I believe there will be better times, but I am not prepared to say when they will come."

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

SPUDS WHIP SPORTS TO SQUARE ACCOUNTS IN FINAL SERIES

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The Waco night owls storm into town tomorrow for two games, and will subject themselves to a thorough examination by Wichita Falls fans, who are seemingly very much interested in seeing for themselves what moonshine has done for Mr. Pratt's boys.

That night warfare has somehow put new life in the Cubs is more than evident. Their capacity for winning games at night has even lasted on into the dawn, and as if playing in a hangover, the erstwhile harmless second division contenders for the cellar took the Houston Buffs down in a daylight game after whipping them twice at night in the Waco arc-arena.

It is scarcely expected that this orgy of wins will continue for long, that is, as long as the Cubs come out in the sunlight and fight like men. The Spudders will have a chance Wednesday and Thursday to remind the visitors that moonshine might be all right, but it's sunlight that breeds the golden corn.

The relief work of Chappie Geygan at third base is proving to be quite satisfactory to Wichita Falls fans. People are talking about the boy. They like him. They like to watch him play. Above all, they like to see him swat the pill. It may be cruel to say so, but the fact that Bo Euller was injured gave the fans an opportunity they had been waiting for—an opportunity to see what our utility infielder could do. And since Bo Euller's ankle injury is nothing so serious, he should not be offended. He won't be offended anyway, because he's a darned good guy. It is a fact that many were anxious to see what Chapple would do at the hot corner, and it is now a fact that the majority are for him.

Some have found fault with his throwing, and it is true that had we not a genius at first base in the person of Irving Burns, Chappie would get into no little trouble. His throws to first are sometimes mighty bad. Burns, however, picks them out of the dirt and snags them out of the sky, and so nothing much has been said about them. Also, Chappie does not have the knack of halting the hot ones like Euller does. But considering that Chappie was called on to relieve such a steady performer as Euller, it is to his credit that most all of the Spudderites are very well pleased with him, indeed.

Particularly are they pleased with his hitting. The boy can sock 'em, and at the right time, too. His specialty seems to be the Texas leaguer, but he can sock a double and a triple at quite regular intervals.

Now that Geygan has been seen at work, we have an idea of what every man on the team can do, for Garland Orr has been in the ranks numerous times, both in the outfield and as a pinch hitter. 'Tis sad but true, but the records show that Garland is a much better fielder than he is a hitter. But the boy must have something in him. Nobody could look so much like Babe Ruth and not have the ability to knock out a few hits!

Less and less do we hear of the greatness of our 1929 players, and more and more do we hear the names of our 1930 Spudders in chaunts of praise. At the beginning of the season the ar was still full of "Stapleton—Stapleton, the great first baseman." When the Beaumont Exporters came here for the first time this season, Stapleton was the boy they wanted to see. Stapleton it was who got a round of cheers when he came to bat. Stapleton, and not Burns.

But now Stapleton has gone the way of heroes of another day, and the wise Spudderites wouldn't trade Jack Burns for a carload of Stapletons. How did the two stand in averages at the end of the first half? We haul out the records and see that Burns, performing in 75 games, made 734 putouts and 36 assists and took part in 76 double plays and made only 12 errors. Stapleton participated in 74 games, one less than the Spudder, made only 703 putouts, gave 38 assists, two more than the Spudder, and participated in only 48 double plays. And he made 13 errors, one more than Jack. Jack's final fielding average for the first half was .985, while Stapleton trailed him by two points with .983. Not much of a difference. Both, in fact, are derned good first basemen. But the point is, Jack is the better of the two!

There's a boy in town whom we like very much for several reasons, one of them being that he can sing that great and noble ballad, "Ivan Skavinsky Skivar," to perfection. His name is Eddie Shields. He is with the Texas company and you should meet him, for, we repeat, he is a noble fellow. BUT: he says he doesn't trust the newspapers and doesn't believe a derned word they print about anything.

Mr. Shields' great-grandfather founded the Baltimore Sun.

4,000 Watch Cubs Beat Tribe in Night Game

WACO, Texas, July 7. (AP)—Before a crowd of more than 4,000 persons, the largest Monday gathering in Waco's class A baseball history, Waco nosed out San Antonio, 4 to 3, tonight, but not until the score had been tied twice after the fourth inning.

When Rye doubled in the eighth to score Speer from first with the winning run, going out himself as he tried to stretch it into a triple, the lights went out and the game was delayed 15 minutes on account of darkness. Bill Harris and Lucas pitched splendid baseball. Eddy Speer made a great leaping catch in the sixth to deprive Dondero of a double and San Antonio of a couple of scores. Score:

HILLIN TOSSES 7-3 VICTORY

Squad Rests Today; Cubs Here Wednesday

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The Shreveport Sports made their last appearance in Wichita Falls of the season Monday and left with the series squared, two and two, the Spudders winning the contest behind the excellent pitching of Ash Hillin, 7 to 3.

Hillin, in allowing the Sports only six hits, provided the biggest sensation of the day in a game that was hardly replete with thrills despite the fact that a home run every now and then served as an eye-opener. The big iron-armed pitcher was touched for a home run in the second, Perry belting one over the left center field palisades, but only once more did Ash weaken.

Spudder Banquet

Members of the Spudder squad tonight will be guests at the annual Spudder banquet at the home of Fred Weeks, President William E. Huff announced. The spread has come to be a tradition of the team. Both players and club officials have been invited to attend. Festivities are scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m.

That was in the fifth inning, when the Sports scored two runs, but even then Ash allowed only one hit. After McClanahan fouled out to Bettencourt Holman strolled. Then when Huarte singled to center, Fitzgerald let the ball roll through his legs, Holman scoring and Huarte going to third. Starr then sacrificed to Fitzgerald and Huarte scored after the catch. Cooper, batting for Morrell, walked and so did Whelan, but Hillin knocked down Hutson's line to the box and threw him out at first to wiggle out of the pinch.

Then He Tightened

Thereafter Hillin tightened up and pitched masterful ball, allowing only three hits in the last four innings.

It was different with the Shreveport chunkers. Morrell was knocked around pretty well during his four-inning stay on the mound, the Spuds touching him for seven hits before Cooper finally came in. Cooper fared a little better, yielding only five and allowing only one run.

Levey's hot single past third was the only hit the Spudders managed the first two innings, but in the third, after Hillin had struck out and after Levey had grounded out, third to first, Storti doubled to right. Things began to get real lively then, and Fitzgerald sent one zooming over the right field wall, scoring Storti and himself. Then Big Boy Kloza, not to be outdone, strode to the plate and knocked another one out of the park, this time over the center field wall. Burns grounded out to first unassisted to close the inning.

Three more runs came in the fourth inning, more or less in the orthodox manner. Bettencourt zipped a grounder to left for a single. Crouch arched one in the same direction for a single and Bettencourt went to second. Geygan hit to Baker at short who threw to the catcher in an effort to snag Bettencourt at the plate, but Larry was safe. Crouch went to second on the play. Hillin sacrificed, catcher to first, advancing Crouch to third and Geygan to second. Levey sacrificed to center and Crouch scored after the catch, Geygan going to third. Storti singled to right, scoring Geygan. Fitzgerald popped out to third and the inning was over.

Cooper Contributes His

The seventh and last Spudder run was made off Cooper in the fifth. Kloza walked. Burns sacrificed, third to first, Kloza taking second. Bettencourt dropped one behind third, scoring Kloza. Crouch singled to center and Bettencourt went to third, but Geygan hit into a double play, second to short to first, closing the period.

Tuesday's scheduled game with the Sports having been played Sunday, today will be one of rest for the Williamsmen. Wednesday they open a two-game series with the Waco Cubs.

Southwesterns Defeat McClurkans, 5 to 3

Slim Hayes was in rare form Monday afternoon as he let the McClurkans nine down with three hits and Southwestern Glass and Paint company team won the game, 5 to 3, on Wilson field. Hayes capped off his great work on the mound by leading the hitters for the afternoon with two singles in three times at the plate.

Southwestern got away to a flying start in the first inning with three runs, but the McClurkans nine tied them in the second, but the winning margin was scored in the third to ice the game away. The game was called in the first half of the fifth inning on account of darkness after the Southwestern and McClurkans players held a lengthy argument over the decision on an infield fly on which two runners had scored. Umpire Lauderdale benched Utility Man "Ping" Long in the early part of the game. Score:

DEATH RULES AGAINST YOUTH

Al Lassman, Great Athlete, Drowns in Maine

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 7. (AP)—Death finally has ruled and the great ambition of one of the finest and gamest young athletes college sport ever developed can never be fulfilled.

Al Lassman, drowned yesterday in Long lake in Maine, was a blazing, raging tackle on a football field; a mighty stroke in his prep school crew; an exceptional baseball player and all-round athlete, but greatest of all was his ability in a prize ring.

Was Born Fighter

Six feet four inches tall, 225 pounds of brawn and speed, Lassman was tabbed for the battle pits long before he came to New York university in the fall of 1925 to develop into the greatest tackle, but the most unfortunate as well, in the history of powerful Violet machines. He was not a natural football player for all his great strength, courage and stamina, but he was a born fighter.

They dubbed him "T. N. T." for the way he blasted a line apart but the nickname fitted him better in the ring. While still in prep school and only 17 years old, he sneaked away one night from Cushing academy on the excuse that his mother was ill and fought in the national amateur championships in Boston. He was the sensation of the tournament though he lost out in a late round to a far more experienced opponent. He had a terrible time explaining to the principal of his school how he acquired a black eye visiting his sick mother.

In intercollegiate competition, he was a still greater sensation. He won the intercollegiate title in his sophomore year and rarely did a rival last to hear the bell for the end of the first round.

Every big league fight manager in the business camped on his trail and he was offered as high as $10,000 to sign a contract and quit school.

Then Came Accidents

Then the first of a series of accidents that finally left him a semi-cripple overtook Lassman in 1927, his junior year at N. Y. U. He fractured an akle and the break healed slowly. He was told to choose between boxing and football for fear of another injury. He was elected captain of his team and chose football.

Late in the second half of the next to the last gridiron battle of his college career against Carnegie Tech, Lassman suffered a second injury that all but caused his death. Undoubtedly it contributed to his end in Long lake where he had gone for a paddle in a canoe while visiting friends at Camp Zakello where he had been a counselor.

For months he lay unconscious in Pittsburgh and New York hospitals suffering from a fractured skull and blood clots that formed at the base of his brain, paralyzed his left side and left him subject to temporary spells of coma. In just such a spell as that he may have tumbled from his canoe during a lightning storm and drowned.

A drastic operation was performed in 1929 to relieve the pressure and clots on his brain but it was not entirely successful.

A Phantom Fight

One day he struggled into the corridor from his hospital room and tested the left hook on a phantom opponent. The doctors shook their heads. He laughed at them.

"Maybe I'm not rugged any more," he said with a twisted grin, "but I'm still no cream puff. I'll fool you all. You'll be buying ringside seats yet to see me fight."

But he never did.

The night before his last football game he sat across the table and talked of his ambitions.

"My folks haven't much money," he said, "and it's been hard to give me an education. There's a red checkered table cloth in the kitchen and some day, after my first big fight, I'm going to pack a bag with dollar bills, walk in on them and dump it on that cloth. They never saw that much money before. That's why I want to fight."

He never did that either.

P. B. M. Team Quits Merchants Loop After Hearing on Protested Game

The ranks of the Merchants baseball league, one of the best amateur loops of the city, were shattered Monday with the announcement that as a result of a decision handed down by League President C. A. Bolton that the final and deciding game of the play-off for the first half championship must be played over. The game, played Sunday between P. B. M. and the Texas Electric Service company, was won by P. B. M., 18 to 3, and the latter thereby annexed the crown as first half champs. The Kilowatts, however, protested the use of Harry Costley in the P. B. M. lineup, claiming the player, formerly a member of the team, was returned to the lineup only for the play-off series.

Managers of the various teams in the league were called Monday to decide on the protest and the vote decided the game must be replayed.

The P. B. M. team then announced its withdrawal from the league, leaving the Texas Electric company team champions of the first half by forfeiture.

Another meeting will be held Tuesday to decide what will be done in regards to filling the vacancy of the P. B. M. nine. Should no other team be found to fill into the gap it is possible that one team from the league will be dropped.

The P. B. M. team was represented at the meeting by John Barnard while the Texas Electric side of the case was presented by Paul Whatley, Lefty Hovis and Lloyd W. Goodwin. The managers who voted on the question were Walter Elliott, of the Furniture Dealers, John Lindsey, of Southwestern Glass and Paint company, and Rabbit Gordon, of the Security bank. The W. B. McClurkans team was not represented at the meeting.

Shovel-Bill Cat Is Caught by Local Ike

A shovel-bill catfish, a rare specimen for this part of the country, and rare even in eastern waters, was caught below the dam at Diversion lake Monday morning by R. W. Ross, of 2215 Taylor. The fish weighed about six pounds and the shovel protruding from the fish's mouth was about a foot long.

Local Ikes said the shovel-bill is encountered once in a while in eastern and middle-western streams, but many declared Mr. Ross' catch was the first of its kind they had ever seen in Texas.

Six of the first nine players on the University of Illinois baseball team this year were sophomores.

ALLISON-RYN WIN DOUBLES

Tilden Won't Play on Davis Cup Team

By ROBERT DOWSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 7.—Two tennis situations were cleared up today. Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, and John Van Ryn of East Drange, N. J., won the British doubles championship. Fitz-Eugene Dixon announced that Bill Tilden would not play on the U. S. Davis cup team this year.

Allison and Van Ryn scored their second successive Wimbledon victory by defeating George Lott of Chicago and John Doeg of Santa Monica, Calif. The scores were 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

Thrilling Contest

The final contest ran along expected lines, but the play was filled with thrills, most of which were found in watching the services of the quartet. Each player scored many an ace from the service line.

Doeg was especially brilliant in his recovery shots. Lott's fast cut worked well. Van Ryn excelled at the net and teamed almost perfectly with Allison.

Mrs. Allison, spending her honeymoon with her tennis-playing husband, kissed him when the match ended. She also kissed Van Ryn.

Even after the doubles play was complete, the make-up of the Davis cup team remained in doubt. It was still in doubt tonight, but leading tennis writers have "nominated" Allison and Van Ryn to play the doubles match, with Doeg and Lott "scheduled" to divide the four singles events.

This opinion was generally expressed after Dixon, the non-playing captain, said that Tilden would not be a member of the team.

Tilden to Write

It is understood that Tilden has contracted to write newspaper stories on the Davis cup play. Tennis association rulings prohibit a player from writing currently on a tournament in which he is a contestant. Tilden is well aware of this rule because a violation of it once brought him a suspension.

Domination of U. S. players in the 1930 Wimbledon tourney is indicated in the following table of champions and runners-up:

Men's Singles: Winner, William T. Tilden, U. S.; runner-up, Wilmer Allison, U. S.

Men's Doubles: Winners, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, U. S.; runners-up, George Lott and John Doeg, U. S.

Women's Singles: Winner, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, U. S.; runner-up, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, U. S.

Women's doubles: Winners, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, U. S.; runners-up, Miss Edith Cross and Miss Sarah Palfrey, U. S.

Mixed Doubles: Winners, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, U. S., and Jack Crawford, Australia; runners-up, Frauldin H. Khahwinkel and Dr. Daniel Prenn, Germany.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 7. (AP)—Relatively easy Liverpool cables, a bearish view of private crop and acreage reports and weakness in other markets were reflected by declines in cotton here today.

Offerings were comparatively moderate but there was not much buying and prices sold off to 13.12 for July and for the new October contract in the late trading. July closed at 13.18 or 6 points up from the lowest on covering but there was very little rally in the later months with the new October closing at 12.79. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 17 to 31 points.

Selling was attributed partly to liquidation promoted by private crop reports. Three were published early, one of them placing the reduction in acreage at 2.3 per cent, while another made it 2.9 per cent and the third estimated the probable decrease as compared with last year at only 1 per cent. The latter put the end June condition of the crop at 73.6 compared with a report of 74.1 at the same time last year, and said this year's condition was probably slightly above the average for the beginning of July.

Part of the selling here was supposed to represent a disposition to discount comparatively large acreage figures from the government tomorrow and a belief that the crop has been making continued fair progress, although rain is supposed to be needed in some sections.

Liverpool reported a quiet market there and said business in cotton cloths and yarns was small with producers losing ground. Exports today 225, making 6,699,769 so far this season. Port receipts 3,884. U. S. port stocks 1,634,998.

Renewed Bear Pressure Unsettles Market As Leading Stocks Yield

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 7. (US)—Pressure against the stock market persisted throughout today's session as active support again was absent except as prices yielded. The trend was downward from the opening of the market. Failure of the extended week-end to produce an encouraging developments tradewise caused an accumulation of selling orders which helped considerably the bear crowd's efforts to unsettle prices. The entire list sold down rather sharply in the first hour with only a minor rally during which additional exceptionally weak spots were uncovered. The close found most leading stocks down several points on the average. Requiring only the slightest excuse, selling was renewed on a rise in call money rates from the renewal of 2 per cent to a closing rate of 3. The street had known that some firming up from the exceptional ease which prevailed recently was to be expected but in its present frame of mind the firming of the rate was accepted bearishly. The professionals had another field day in various stocks whose position was rendered insecure by persistent liquidation.

Air Reduction continued under constant pressure which forced it down sharply as additional emphasis was placed on the poor comparison its current earnings are making with the same period a year ago, when net was running at a record level. Ingersoll-Rand, a stock highly rated by many investment and speculative interests, was also singled out for attack and it dropped sharply. Its business, according to the reports, is beginning to reflect the general trade quietness. In 1929 the Ingersoll-Rand net equalled $10.54 a share. Gillette declined to new low ground as only occasional support appeared. It was evident that the bear crowd, encouraged by the market's failure to rally despite the sharp decline from the high of the year, had resumed activities. As a matter of fact, as recorded here Friday, a bear raid was well advertised, usually a sign that the opposite may take place. But the disorganized condition of the constructive party in the market, lacking aggressive and powerful leadership, permits the bears to achieve continued success.

Leading stocks were freely offered. American Can dropped over 3½ points net, with Steel suffering a decline below 154, to close at 154½, off 3⅜. The street is anxiously awaiting a test of Steel at its panic low of 150, which level was approached in the late June break was not actually tested. Union Carbide dropped almost three points although report was broadcast that its earnings had improved, a story which received little credence since Air Reduction's net is known to be showing a discouraging comparison with the early months of the year. Proctor & Gamble was closely watched by the street for possible reflection of the Morgan market sentiment. J. P. Morgan & Co., have an option on a block of this stock which expires soon. Earnings of the company are understood to be running at a most satisfactory rate, so that the background exists for a constructive operation in the stock if the Morgan interests are so inclined. Their opinion is above the present price.

General Motors sold off more than a point and the rest of the group continued heavy, although a few of their more devoted and courageous friends were expressing faith that the second half of this year will have established a firm foundation for renewed prosperity in the industry. A factor upon which they count heavily is knowledge that most progressive auto managements contemplate radical model-alterations, with new models planned by many companies. All of this is expected to stimulate the industry, since the new models with their originality and style appeal, combined with general appreciation of the unusual values now available in automobiles, it is hoped at least, will revive active buying of new cars. While some of the weak units in the auto trade may be unable to outlive the period of depression, most of the big auto companies are amply supplied with working capital. In the meantime motor stocks are in disfavor and yields on dividends are the highest in several years.

Further break in wheat and other grain prices to new lows served only to heighten the pessimism. July wheat closed down 2⅜ cents a bushel. Cotton also was lower. The foreign exchange market generally was higher. Stock transactions for the day were slightly higher than on Thursday.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, July 7. (AP)—Low prices for wheat marked the opening of the week on the Fort Worth cash grain market. Demand was reported good at the decline which followed the break on contract values. Export bids were 90⅞ to 91⅝ for extraordinary export grain delivered Texas gulf ports. Miller's bids ranged 91¼ to 91¾ for ordinary No. 1 hard wheat delivered Texas common points, while 13 per cent protein brought 91¾c to 92¼c with an additional quarter cent for each quarter per cent of additional protein.

Corn and oats were in fair demand and dealers reported barley fairly easy to sell. Milo was slow while kaffir was in fair demand.

Estimated receipts, wheat 628 cars, corn 2, oats 15, barley 2, and sorghums 1.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed 91 to 92c; No. 2 white 96 to 96½c; No. 2 yellow 96 to 96½c.

Oats—No. 3 red 45½ to 46½c.

Barley No. 3, 59 to 61c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally $1.69 to $1.70 with only one car sold bringing $1.69; No. 2 kaffir nominally $1.50 to $1.53 with no offerings.

Dealers also quoted as follows, basis delivery Texas group 1 points; No. 2 mixed corn 89½ to 90½c; No. 2 white or yellow, 94 to 95c; No. 3 white oats, 44½ to 45c. To which add 1c for delivery Texas group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 7. (AP)—Thousands of carloads of wheat arriving from the harvest fields and piling up the visible supply sent wheat values downward today.

Receipts of wheat at 10 points in the Southwest today totaled in excess of 5,000 cars, and the domestic stock of wheat in sight piled up a 3,478,000 bushel increase for the week, with virtually no wheat taken by exporters during the last three days. Wheat prices reached new low-price records, and also oats.

Wheat closed nervous at but little over the day's bottom figures, 2¼-2⅜c a bushel lower than Thursday's finish. Corn closed ⅞-1⅛c down, oats ⅞-1¼c off, and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 15c.

Corn and oats were chiefly dragged down by the effect of wheat weakness. Corn, however, was relatively firmer than wheat owing to reports that the corn crop prospect in Chicago territory is unsatisfactory, much of the crop being late with growth less than normal and the stand also inferior.

Provisions averaged lower, influenced by the action of grain.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, July 7. (US)—Local bearish sentiment and hedging pressure in the wheat market today were overwhelming in their influence. The lack of response to European news which appeared to favor the constructive side and the fact that there has been little rain and high temperatures in the Northwest the past few days led commission houses to caution their clients against the selling side at the close.

A local house says of corn: "A decided tendency on the part of the farmer now is to hold his old corn for better prices; and when he can feed on the basis of 30 cents a bushel better than if he shipped the corn to market, we do not believe there will be a heavy movement until such time as more is known about the prospects of the new crop."

Weekly shipments from North America last week were 7,867,000 bushels, compared with 6,808,000 bushels the previous week and 8,692,000 bushels the corresponding week a year ago, by Broomhall's compilation.

Press dispatches from Australia said that the bill providing for establishment of a compulsory wheat pool and a guarantee to growers of about 95 cents a bushel has been rejected by the senate of the commonwealth.

The Sanford Evans crop report said conditions in Manitoba were favorable. In Alberta and Saskatchewan many districts affected early by drought and blowing have recovered considerably, but will require more rain soon and frequent showers to maintain present promise.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, July 7. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trade around the 11 market circuit was somewhat spotted on slaughter classes. Although stocker and feeder classes were comparatively scarce, demand was slow with adidtional weakness developing. Chicago had a top of $12.25 on steers whils good heavy Texas cake feds at Kansas City went at $10.00. Medium quality Texas cake feds brought $8.25@8.85 and plain light weight Oklahomas were fairly numerous $5.50@6.35. Aggregate receipts, estimated at 61,500, were 13,000 heavier than a week ago and 2,000 short of the corresponding day last year.

Medorate supplies served to stimulate demand for fat lambs and prices were steady to 25c higher. Firm values were maintained on mature classes of sheep. ECTOR OIL MEN ASK PRORATION

Penn Pool Operators Give Testimony at Hearing

FORT WORTH, July 7. (AP)—Testimony from operators in the Penn pool of Ector county at a meeting today was taken under advisement by Lon A. Smith, railroad commissioner, and R. D. Parker, chief supervisor of the commission's oil and gas division. No decision is expected within six days.

Testimony from W. L. Todd, vice president of the Simms Oil company; R. R. Penn, Penn Oil company, Dallas; L. A. Barrows, Texas company, and E. A. Landreth, of the Landreth Production company indicated proration will aid in preventing waste in the pool. However, Landreth suggested that outlet of the pool be placed at 25,000 barrels daily rather than 12,000 barrels as is provided in the tentative proration set up.

R. S. Shapard of the Texas and Pacific Railroad company, requested a hearing before the Ector county proration advisory committee, saying his company is planning a series of tests along the railroad right of way which crosses near the northern portion of the pool. Shapard said the T. & P. expects to use production, if any is developed, as fuel oil and will therefore not increase the burden on pipe line companies serving the area. In view of such facts Shapard requested special consideration in the matter of proration.

Electric Violin

LONDON.—An electric violin, the notes of which are amplified by radio tubes, is causing no little comment in music circles here. The violin has no sound box, although there are four regulation strings. When the violin is played, amplifiers and transformers cause the tube circuits to emit perfectly pure tones of far greater volume than those produced by an ordinary violin.

'ASPHALT' SUES SHELL OIL CO.

Venezuela Claim Cause Of Dispute

NEW YORK, July 7. (AP)—The board of directors of the General Asphalt company today advised stockholders it had started suit against the Royal Dutch Shell group to test the former's claim to royalty rights in the Vigas oil concession in Zenezuela.

In a letter reviewing its relations with the Royal Dutch Shell group in the financing and operation of the Zenezuelan oil fields, the General Asphalt company states that the group has failed to honor a contract made in 1923 under which the asphalt company was to receive, it claims, a royalty of 9¾ per cent of the entire production.

"In excess of 2,000,000 barrels of oil have been shipped since Feb. 1, 1930 from the Vigas concession under the group's management. Stockholders are advised and we are informed that deliveries are being made daily but the group has refused to deliver any royalty or to render an accounting of the oil produced from this property although the group obtained the property from us without other consideration than its commitment as to royalty.

"Your company has, accordingly, issued a writ in the British courts and will, in due course, endeavor to secure a decision to the effect that the General Asphalt company's rights have been violated and that corresponding damages have accrued."

CHICAGO.—Walking fish had the curiosity seekers gaping here recently when several of them were exhibited at the Outdoor Life show here. This species has its breathing apparatus adapted to life out of the water. By means of its fins and gills it can travel overland from one body of water to another. It is found in Asiatic waters.

HAWKS TUNES MIDGET PLANE

Small Ship Flies 240 Miles Per Hour

WICHITA, Kan., July 7. (UP)—Flying men, mopping the grease and perspiration from their faces with waste, today gathered around a "miniature" airplane here and speculated with Capt. Frank Hawks on whether the craft would make speed history.

The captain periodically whipped the tiny plane upward and whirled in blurred circles around a measured course. It gave him 240 miles an hour in its first test Sunday. The process of tuning it up continued today.

Friday the captain will sail away toward New York where he plans to start a round trip to Los Angeles in an assault on speed records for the long voyage overland. He expects to arrive in New York Sunday and start the fast dash as soon thereafter as the weather is satisfactory.

It will be only the first bid of the small craft for fame in aviation annals. The ship was built here secretly by the Travelair company and equipped with a special Wright motor. Captain Hawks announced today he would take it into the national air races at Chicago this fall and make an effort to prove it the fastest craft in the nation.

The plane is just 20 feet long and has a wingspread of 30 feet. Its instrument board is crowded with special devices, many of which were designed by the captain from his past experience on flights such as he plans to attempt.

Fuel tanks will hold only 109 gallons of gasoline and stops for refueling are scheduled for Indianapolis, Wichita and Albuquerque.

Hawks has established crews of four men at each of the stops to hasten the work of refueling.

He will be accompanied on the trip by a white mouse which, he explained, will serve a double purpose.

A special cover has been placed over the cockpit that the captain believes adds 20 miles an hour to his speed. Should the mouse "turn up its toes," Hawks said, "I will know it is time to lift the cover for fresh air."

City Approves Bond Refund

Walker, superintendent of safety for the M.-K.-T. railway, relative to the locomotive engine ordinance proposed last week by Fred Weeks were read by Mr. McBroom. Mr. Martin's communication stated that the ordinance as proposed would be valid in all respects if passed, but stated that the speed of locomotives at grade crossings within the city is already limited by ordinance No. 508. He suggested that the speed clause in Mr. Week's proposed measure be eliminated. The ordinance would restrict the blowing of locomotive whistles to three blasts of no more than one-second's duration each, loud enough to be plainly heard at a distance of 90 rods.

Mr. Walker's letter sought to show that the number of grade crossing accidents recommends the continued free use of locomotive whistles as a means of saving human life. Its prevention of accidents through audible warning is more important, the latter declared, than the amount of annoyance which property owners near the right-of-way may suffer from railroad noises. Discussion of the matter was deferred by the council to a later meeting.

Those present Monday night were Walter Nelson Jr., mayor; George D. Fairtrace, city manager; R. O. Harvey, J. M. Spoonts, C. E. McCutchen, E. H. Eddleman, J. N. Prothro, and W. E. McBroom.

Former Mayor Named In $50,000 Damage Suit

HAMMOND, Ind., July 7. (AP)—Dr. Raleigh P. Hale, former mayor of East Chicago, now under two-year sentence for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, was made defendant in a $50,000 damage suit today by James X. Bell, graduate student of Notre Dame and Oxford. Bell charged that Dr. Raymond J. Liehr, associate of Dr. Hale, diagnosed a leg fracture as a sprain, the diagnosis resulting in making one leg shorter than the other.

French Flier Ready For Atlantic Attempt

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 7. (AP)—Jean Mermoz, French mail flier was poised today for a transatlantic hop to San Luis, Senegal, from Lake Bomfim, 20 miles from Natal.

Arthur Hale, 16, read 60 books outside the classroom in his first year at Berea college, Kentucky.

Land Owner Asks $3,500 for Damages To Pond by Oil Well's Salt Water

Damages amounting to $3,500 are asked in a suit filed Monday against the Progressive Producing company in behalf of J. W. Ferguson on a claim growing out of damage alleged to have resulted from salt water flowing from oil wells near Mr. Ferguson's stock farm.

The petition states Ferguson built a dam across a small stream to form a lake for domestic uses, water for his stock and for "enjoyment and recreation." Salt water from the Progressive company's oil wells half a mile away, it is claimed, has flowed into the lake at the rate of 200 barrels a day for the past two years, contaminating the water, killing all the fish with which it had been stocked, rendering the water unfit for either stock or domestic use and destroying all vegetation, trees and grass along the stream. The petition also asks a permanent injunction to restrain the company from allowing the salt water to flow over Mr. Ferguson's land.

HUSTON READY TO QUIT POST

G. O. P. Chairman Agrees To Turn in Resignation

WASHINGTON, July 7. (US)—Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, has assured President Hoover he will resign within the week, it was learned today.

The decision was reached at a long conference with President Hoover at the White House, the first the two old friends have had since Huston fell into party disfavor as a result of the senate lobby investigation, which found him active in Muscle Shoals legislation.

Whether Huston would tender his resignation at, or after a meeting of the officers of the Republican national committee and the chairman of senate and congressional campaign committees Thursday, had not been determined, it was stated. It was made plain, however, that he has definitely agreed to step aside and that the officers of the G. O. P. have been so notified.

The president, Republican senate leaders and members of the organization are already holding a series of conferences to decide upon a successor. Huston himself went to the capitol this afternoon to confer with members of the senate.

Two names are uppermost in the minds of the president, whose recommendation is followed as a matter of custom. These are Ralph Williams, Oregon, now vice chairman of the committee, who has just been re-elected for a period of four years and Senator Simeon Fess, Ohio, favored by the old guard in the senate.

Two alternatives are offered. The first is that when Huston resigned the chairmanship be left vacant, and that Williams act as chairman until after the November elections when a permanent chairman is to be selected.

The other is that Senator Fess be made temporary chairman, retaining his seat in the senate, while Williams, as vice chairman, will devote his entire time to active direction of the coming campaign, calling on Senator Fess only for consultation and advice.

Huston's difficulties with the G. O. P. arose at the senate lobby investigation last winter when it was revealed he had been active in the Muscle Shoals legislation and that he had temporarily deposited funds given him by the Union Carbide company to use in this connection, to his private brokerage account.

FORT WORTH GROUP HERE

C.-C. Visitors Guests At Kiwanis Luncheon

Fifteen business and professional men from Fort Worth, the vanguard of a much larger group which started on a good-will tour of West Texas Monday morning, were guests of the Wichita Falls Kiwanis club at its weekly meeting at the Kemp hotel Monday noon.

It was explained that the group which took lunch here Monday was the only section of the good-will caravan to reach this city by noon. The entire party was expected to assemble in Childress Monday night for an over-night stop.

The visitors were greeted by J. S. Bridwell, president, and John Boswell, general manager, of the chamber of commerce, after which E. C. Lowden, chairman of the trade extension department of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Fort Worth Kiwanis club, took charge of the meeting. Sam Ross McElreath and Charles Cotton of Fort Worth made short talks. Jerry Vinson, president of the Junior chamber of commerce, and Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., were introduced.

Assisting Mr. Bridwell in extending greetings to the Fort Worth representatives were Wilburn Page, secretary of the Junior chamber of commerce, Orville Bullington, Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, and Jim King. In the absence of Dr. R. H. Peterson, Kiwanis club president, Jouette Ponner, vice president, presided during the early part of the hour.

Mrs. Emily Blair Forecasts Events Of Political Strife

NEW YORK, July 7. (INS)—Prohibition, protection, and a party struggle were features today as Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Joplin, Mo., former vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, forecast aspects of the next presidential campaign.

Prohibition, Mrs. Blair said, is being thrust back into local campaigns, where it belongs.

"I think the country at large has more wet sentiment than it had a while ago," Mrs. Blair offered. "I don't look for any quick repeal of the 18th amendment, however. People are cautious about a change."

The noted Democrat hinted that the next presidential campaign may be fought on the tariff—the Democrats fighting to lower the present "tariff abominations."

"You know," said Mrs. Blair, "the Democratic party has never lost a nation-wide tariff fight."

"The international bankers and the foreign markets group will try to nominate Mr. Morrow, I think," said Mrs. Blair. "If they fail, I think a party split is possible, with the international bankers coming over to the Democratic party.

"I don't think President Hoover will be nominated again. I don't think he has shown himself strong enough."

Midwestern Wheat Receipts Are Heavy

Not since the Roosevelt ian era has the large family been so honored! For one night, however, the louder, larger and funnier ones will have their innings in Wichita Falls."

The three largest families (counting only papa, mama and the kids without the in-laws) who report to Manager D. L. Johnson of the State theater before Thursday will receive free tickets to the "Family Night" program scheduled for Thursday night, when "Harmony at Home" opens at the State. "And I hope I have to give away a lot of passes," says Mr. Johnson.

"Harmony at Home," a picture of typical family life, was adapted from "The Family Upstairs," an unroariously funny story revolving about the home life of an average American family. William Collier Sr. as the father supplies much of the comedy element, especially when he orders his son home from a dancing contest and then takes his place and wins the cup.

There's no way of telling the average I. Q. in Wichita Falls, but it's true that Alice White means more to a box office than George Arliss or Lawrence Tibbett. "Sweet Mama" has already won the race.

The ushers at the Majestic may look like the Royal Mounted Police, but they're the same grinning boys underneath all the gold braid and military stance. The new uniforms, in shades of blue a la Publix, are their chief delight, and the little boys who used to want to be street car conductors or policemen can now direct their ambition toward ushering at a Publix theater—the uniform is better looking.

Somehow, the uniform idea isn't so comfortable—maybe because it's new. The military click of the heels, the admiral's hat and the knife-creased trousers make one wonder if his pass is really all right. Gold braid is too awe-inspiring for us common folk. It gives us the same feeling that we have when the waiter looks disapprovingly at the spoon we are using instead of a cocktail fork. Even cocktail forks become commonplace, however, and there is hope for the blue-and-gold uniform.

Senator to End Campaign In Wichita Falls

Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in the Democratic primaries on July 26, will close his campaign in Wichita county, winding up the day of July 25 with a public address in Wichita Falls at 8:30 p. m., it was announced here Monday by officials of the Small-for-Governor club.

Senator Small's speech on the eve of the primary election will be broadcast by remote control through radio station KGKO, it was said. The place for the meeting has not yet been announced.

"We have persuaded Senator Small to consider Wichita Falls as his campaign base, and to honor this city with his last address before the election," said E. H. Eddleman, leader in the Small forces here. "Reports that we receive from the central portion of Texas indicate that he will carry that section and may safely turn to Northwest Texas for the closing part of his campaign."
