Walton Holds On With 7 Counts Against Him

SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE WHO IS GOV. TODAY

Attorney General Declares Trapp Is Now Governor

GRAND JURY MAY ACT

Walton Makes Appeal to Members of "Visible Empire"

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 24.—With seven counts against him in the impeachment bill being perfected by the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature, Governor J. C. Walton today continued his refusal to recognize the authority of a senate resolution to suspend him and awaited a hearing in state supreme court tomorrow to determine whether he or Lieutenant Governor M. E. Trapp is the legally empowered chief executive of the state.

At that time the court will rule on the application to make permanent its writ of prohibition which restrains Governor Walton from interfering with the duties of Lieutenant M. E. Trapp as acting governor.

When the house adjourned shortly before six p. m. it wound up a day which had been replete with feverish preparation for the impending trial of the chief executive.

Speeding up its consideration of the charges against the governor contained in the report of its committee of investigation and impeachment, the house today approved five articles in the impeachment bill, bringing the total to seven. Every charge thus far considered has been approved by heavy majorities.

The governor tonight stands accused of:

Diversion of public funds to his private use.

Prohibiting the convening of a legally ordered grand jury.

Use of his official influence to secure private credit and property.

Accepting a bribe to approve a legislative bill.

Suspension of the writ of habeas corpus.

Unlawfully preventing a meeting of the state legislature.

Attempted prevention of a special state election in violation of law.

Following a long conference with his attorneys Governor Walton late in the day opened the court action to settle the question of who is governor by filing in district court an application for an injunction against Lieutenant Governor Trapp to restrain him from assuming the duties of the executive office. Judge Tom G. Chambers, who was appointed to his position by the governor, issued a temporary writ against the lieutenant governor and set tomorrow for the hearing to make it permanent.

Scarcely an hour later, Attorney General Short went before the state supreme court with his application for the writ of prohibition against Governor Walton and Judge Chambers; and the temporary order was issued after a brief oral presentation of the case.

The attorney general said he represented Lieutenant Governor Trapp, as the acting governor.

In the senate plans went forward rapidly for the impeachment trial. With Chief Justice J. T. Johnson of the state supreme court presiding, the senate late today organized as a court of impeachment and instructed a committee to perfect rules of procedure which are to be passed on tomorrow afternoon.

It was indicated that the senate may at that time set a date for the trial and then adjourn until the house completes its consideration of the remaining charges in the committee draft of the impeachment bill. Under this program, the trial would not commence until all charges are before the senate.

The way for possible criminal action in connection with matters investigated by the house committee was opened today when Representative W. F. Disney of Muskogee, chairman of the committee, announced that all evidence adduced by the committee would be submitted to a district court grand jury in session here.

Governor Walton broke his silence today for the first time since the impeachment proceedings formally were instituted, by declaring in a public statement that he would die officially as he had lived—"fighting for orderly and constitutional government, honestly and fearlessly administered."

THE WEATHER

Oklahoma: Thursday generally fair in east, rain or snow in northwest; probably rain in southwest portion, colder; Friday, partly cloudy, continued cold.

West Texas: Thursday unsettled, probably rain in east and north portions, except rain or snow in the Panhandle, colder in north and west portions; Friday unsettled, probably rain in southeast portion, colder in south portion.

Star's Prayer to One Goddess Answered, But Venus Scorns Her

Corrine Griffith, as worshipper of ancient days, offering a prayer to Ceres, goddess of the harvest.

One of the most striking photos taken of Corrine Griffith, movie and beauty queen, shows her thanking Ceres, goddess of the harvest, for the bountiful supply of good things for the year. When the photo was taken Corrine had little idea that Venus was grinning derisively at her. But Venus goddess of love, has snubbed Corrine. Dispatches states that the star has obtained a divorce from William M. Campbell, movie director.

Fire Destroys Bld'g 80 Children Saved

150 Nuns and Little Children make Way From Burning Academy Without a Fatality.

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24.—Fire tonight practically destroyed the academy of Our Lady of Mercy, located in the Oakland district, entailing a loss estimated at nearly a half million dollars.

Eighty children, students at the academy, and 150 nuns hurried from the building in fire drill formation a few minutes after the fire was discovered on the top floor of the three story structure. None was injured.

One thrilling rescue was reported by firemen. While the flames, fanned by a biting nearly winter wind, lapped fiercely at a section of the building used as a girl's dormitory, a nun, heedless of the warnings of police and firemen, rushed into the building and rescued a small girl asleep on the third floor.

The fire visible from nearly every section of Pittsburgh, attracted thousands to the scene. Public officials attending a banquet tendered to Lloyd George, British war-time premier, were called away to direct the work of the firemen.

The children and sisters escaped prolonged exposure to the wintry weather by hurrying to another building on the academy grounds where they spent the night.

Fire inspectors said late tonight they had not determined the cause of the conflagration.

SHERIFF AND DEPUTY IN BOOZE CHARGE

By The Associated Press.

MARLIN, Tex., Oct. 24.—Sheriff C. O. Moore, Westly Honeycutt former deputy sheriff, and Ben Briggs, Falls county farmer, all were bound over to await the action of the grand jury on liquor selling charges at examining trials held at the Reagin justice court this afternoon. Sheriff Moore's bond was fixed at $2,500 and that of Honeycutt and Briggs at $1,500 each. They made bond and were released.

Rex Lewis, deputy sheriff, testified at Sheriff Moore's examining trial that he bought whiskey from Moore two different times and that on the second time he bought the liquor in the county court house hallway, paying Moore $5.

Son Declares Mother Killed Her Husband

By The Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 24.—Following the finding of the body of Adrian Sowa, Polish farmer, near Yorktown, Texas, yesterday by a Mexican farmer his son Conrad Sowa, accused his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Sowa of the killing. Both mother and son were arrested. Zowe had been shot through the head.

Last night Sowa told officers he and father and mother drove in their car to Yorktown, his mother directing him to put a spade in the car to fix a little rough place in the road.

After the three had completed their stay in Yorktown and started home and were about opposite the Von Roeder place, the car was stopped, Conrad, Sowa said, and he got out on one side and his father on the other. As Adrian Sowa stood by the side of the car his wife shot him in the left temple, and when he fell to the ground and started to get up, he was shot again in the breast, the boy told the officers.

Conrad Sowa stated that after that, under instructions of his mother he dragged the body of his father out into the pasture and coming back after the spade, dug the shallow grave and placed the body of his father in it, while his mother sat in the car by the side of the road.

As Conrad Sowa carried the body of his father into the pasture, he says, the man's hat fell off and he picked up and threw it in some bushes, forgetting all about it until he had filled in the grave. Later he led the officers to the place and the hat was found. It had a small calibre hole in it and powder burns to indicate that a bullet entered Adrian Sowa's temple through his hat at close range.

IDENTIFY BODY OF AGED MAN

By The Associated Press.

HILLSBORO, Tex., Oct. 24.—Officers this evening reported their identification of the decomposed body of a man as that of Homer Custard, about 60 years old, whose home was in Georgetown.

The body was found by negro cotton pickers in a culvert yesterday morning near Brandon, Hill county, with bullet holes in the back of his head.

Custard had been in this county only a few weeks.

300,000 ATTEND FAIR KLAN DAY; WIZARD SPEAKS

Foundling Home Also Dedicated Before 30,000 Members

EVANS TELLS OF PLANS

Bands, Athletic Events, Gaiety, Feature the Ceremonial

By The Associated Press

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—Klan day at the state fair of Texas today drew more than 300,000 persons, according to Fair Secretary Stratton, and tonight more visitors were pouring through the gates to the vast grounds where a public initiation was planned.

Upward of 30,000 klansmen from all parts of the southwest and some from almost every realm, arrived on special trains this morning, George K. Butcher, Dallas Klan No. 66, general chairman reported.

Altogether 21 special trains of klansmen arrived before noon, while other knights reached the city overland by automobile. One special train in two sections arrived today from Chicago. The special train of the Houston klan had 16 coaches and that from Beaumont had 12 cars.

The klansmen swarmed around the bandstand shortly after noon to hear Dr. H. W. Evans of Atlanta, imperial wizard of the ku klux klan, on the klan policies on immigration.

Immigration is the outstanding problem confronting the United States today, beside which all other national difficulties are trivial, Dr. Evans declared, speaking for several hours into the loud speaker, which carried all over the vast grounds. To determine and apply a just and lasting remedy is the supreme task of all true Americans and the ultimate objective of the knights of the ku klux klan, he said.

Dr. Evans recommended that the United States revise its policy so as to make its own selection of the class of immigrants wanted and then to invite them, while excluding all not invited. Dr. Evans said:

"Our cause is true Americanism. Our destiny is the common welfare, materially and mentally, physically and spiritually, up a plane high above any mankind has ever known. I recognize fully the political, governmental, economic and social problems of this generation. But the time has come to look far beyond any or all of them to this greater American problem of our composite people. That is the bedrock of every national danger, and hope.

"The streams of population that have been and are pouring in upon us are ages old in racial character and capacity. We are the melting pot. Into it has been poured every dross ingredient of citizenship that the earth produces, the good and the bad. Out of it must come in the end our success or failure as a republic. The immigrant stream is monthly more and more inferior as I shall show by indisputable facts. Within the year congress will enact a new immigration law.

"I have undertaken a comprehensive study of our immigration problem. It involved statistics from all the established truth with respect to anthropology. Eugenics entered into it, as did government and politics and economics and religion and racial values.

"The present population is much less than half, perhaps little more than a third, of native Anglo-Saxon stock. We have in this country today illiterates to the almost unbelievable number of 4,931,935 and mentally and physically diseased persons totaling more than 5,000,000. It is undeniable that we have not more than 35,000,000 one-hundred per cent American men, women and children—perhaps 30,000,000 would be the limit.

"There is no hatred in my heart for any individual, nationality or race upon the face of the earth today. I love all humanity; for that reason my supreme love is for America. In the beginning of the national life, our policy was rightly that of the open door. Out of that grew the America of the last generation—prosperous and proud.

Charge Debauchery and Corruption To Forbes As Veteran Bureau Head

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Intrigue, debauchery and corruption in connection with contracts for veterans' bureau hospitals were charged today before the senate committee investigating the bureau.

Elias H. Mortimer, of Philadelphia, formerly a representative of the Thompson-Black company of Chicago, was the witness. He testified that while seeking a hospital contract in 1922, he loaned $5,000 to Charles R. Forbes, then director of the bureau; that on another occasion, he advanced him an additional $1,000 or $1,500, and that none of the money had been repaid.

Moreover, the witness told the committee that James W. Black, a member of the Chicago firm, now dead, had told him that W. J. Thompson, the other partner, had made advances to Forbes aggregating $32,000. Mortimer testified also that he had paid Forbes' expenses on various trips about the country, official and unofficial.

Mortimer's story required four hours for the telling in a crowded committee room, was interspersed with incidents of what he described as "drinking parties" at which he said, were present Forbes, Mrs. Mortimer, himself, and others. The trail of these parties, as he outlined it, led from Washington to Atlantic City, Philadelphia, New York, thence to Chicago and San Francisco and up and down the Pacific coast. They culminated, according to his versions, at Hayden Lake, Washington, where Forbes and some of the women guests, on a dare, jumped into the lake with their clothes on.

ADMITS HE KILLED 2 YET MAY NOT HANG

By The Associated Press.

DENVER, Oct. 24.—A. H. Mitchell, Denver plumber, who confessed yesterday to a minister and to the police that he had slain Mrs. Georgia A. Bryan and A. J. Sherie, because of jealousy, may never hang for the murders, according to the authorities. The bodies of Mrs. Bryan, wife of assistant fire chief, W. P. Bryan and Sherie were found in Sherie's front yard yesterday.

District Attorney A. L. Boatwright of Arapboe county, who will prosecute Mitchell for the double killing, pointed out there apparently was no eye-witness to the double slaying.

"Many attorneys believe, and so do I, that under the law a murderer's confession is not sufficient to hang him," said Boatwright.

"Under the Colorado law, the testimony of an eyewitness is necessary to obtain the death penalty in a murder trial."

WAVERING OF SEPARATISTS IS NOW CERTAIN

Haphazard Plans and Little Preparation Halts Advancement

By The Associated Press.

COBLENZ, Oct. 24.—The position of the separatists at the close of the fourth day since the proclamation of a Rhineland republic at Aix La Chapelle is little improved, they nominally holding about one-fourth of the territories under foreign occupation. Today, however, was marked by the republicans' most signal and costly victory, at Crefeld, where 12 separatists were killed and 50 wounded, and the peaceful occupation of Mulheim and a few villages in the vicinity of Trieves.

In many instances the occupation has been limited to the confines of the city halls, with the garrisons on the defensive, fighting not only for the existence of the republic, but for their own very lives.

The failure of the separatists at Mayence and Coblenz, which were counted upon as certain adherents, the aimless and desultory offensives at various unimportant centers, the increasing effectiveness of the reactionaries defense and the evident haphazard plans of a poorly organized partly, itself rent with internal dissensions, in a prematurely launched movement make it appear doomed unless a change of attitude occurs on the part of the troops of occupation, which is not likely.

With Joseph Matthes, a member of the separatists' directory for a Rhineland republic, in flight from his chosen capital after that city had declined with more than thanks the honor thrust upon it, Coblenz tonight is the ethereal capital of phantom state. Duren, Trier, Duisburg and Muelheim are the only cities of any importance in the hands of the separatists this evening.

Calm has been restored at Aix La Chapelle, with the separatists thoroughly whipped in the cradle of their movement. The intervention of French troops at Coblenz and Mayence proved the salvation of the lives of local leaders in the attempt to install a republic.

At Viersen, a city of 30,000 inhabitants in the vicinity of Muenchen-Gladbach, the separatists hold the city hall.

OFFICIAL COMPARES JAILS TO HOG PENS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 24.—Health problems were discussed before the Texas convention of the league of women voters today by Dr. W. H. Beasley, state health officer, and Dr. H. Garst of the bureau of child hygiene. Dr. Beasley said 75 per cent of the prisoners in state penitentiaries were afflicted by contagious diseases and that some jails were "no better than hog pens."

Dr. Garst said three things were necessary to improve health conditions among children, control of midwivery, adequate birth registration and prenatal treatment.

Sen. Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama.

Underwood's 1st Nomination Hint Made At Nocona

The first reference to his candidacy for the presidential nomination at the hands of the democratic party, to be made in Texas by Senator Underwood, was expressed by the Alabama leader at Nocona. He spoke for a few minutes there from the rear end of the train.

From the rear platform he said: "I have come to ask something of you. I have lead the democratic party in both houses of congress for years. I am a southern man, bred and born.

"We are approaching the time when the democratic party must name the man to carry its banner of democracy. It has been eighty years since the south elected the president of the United States.

"I am going to give the south a chance to select a southern man to carry the banner of democracy. The south must assert itself and I believe if the south asks, the great democratic north will recognize the right for you to carry the banner yourself. If you don't think I am the man to carry the banner, send a delegation to the democatic convention pledged for another southern man, but let him be a southern man."

The senator left the train which brought him from Denison at all stops along the way. Crowds of various sizes met the train. In the few minutes at each place he shook hands with those at the station and exchanged greetings. His only brief speech between Denison and Wichita Falls was here.

FALL EXPLAINS 'TEA POT DOME'

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Testifying today at the senate public lands committee's investigation of the leasing of the Tea Pot Dome, Wyoming, naval oil reserve to the Harry F. Sinclair interests, former secretary Fall, of the interior department, told of his business relations with Sinclair since his resignation from the cabinet last spring. The Tea Pot Dome contract, which has been sharply criticized in some quarters, was negotiated for the government by Mr. Fall and Secretary Denby, of the navy department.

About the time of his retirement from government service Mr. Fall said, Mr. Sinclair consulted with him regarding a contract for oil development in China, in that connection, he added, he made a trip to London for conferences on the subject. For his services, the committee was told, he received no compensation, although he was paid $10,000 for expenses.

Declaring he intended to "capitalize as well as I can my ability during the remaining years of my life," Mr. Fall continued.

"I will accept employment from Mr. Sinclair, Mr. Denby, or any one else as I see fit. I expect to form a connection with one of the oil interests named, or with a coal interest, a transportation interest or a syndicate interested in railroads in this country. Offers have been made me by such interests, but none has been accepted."

THE FEMALE OF THE SPECIE

By The Associated Press.

BROWNSVILLE, Oct. 24.—A butcher knife and boiling water were used by two Mexican women, a mother and a daughter, today to prevent deputy sheriffs from arresting the daughter for a minor crime. Officers attempted an arrest last week, but the young woman took some drugs, narrowly escaping death. The arrest today was finally effected after the officers received a few minor cuts and scalds.

WASHINGTON—The postoffice department today announced that the office at Filigonio, Hidalgo county, will be discontinued, effective October at once, at which time all mail will thereafter go to Raymondville, Texas.

Announces His Candidacy at Citizens Banquet at Kemp and Tells Policies In Night Speech

Oscar W. Underwood belonged to Wichita Falls for 12 hours yesterday.

The senator from Alabama arrived here at 4 yesterday afternoon and departed at 3 this morning.

Within the 12-hour interim, the United States was given a message from a man, a southerner, a democrat, who aspires to the highest office within the gift of American people. Wichita Falls in honoring its distinguished guest by offering the best she had, was in return honored when Senator Underwood chose this city to first utter his declarations upon which he hopes to be elected president.

"It is not necessary to form organizations outside the government to enforce the law.

"The way to obtain law enforcement is not by forming organizations, but by electing men to office to will enforce the law.

"No one, according to our constitution, can challenge your liberties, or even your violations of the law, except the law itself.

"I voted against the 18 and 19th amendments to the constitution because I believe they were problems to be solved by the states in their own way, but no man could hope to aspire to the great offices of this land and be against the enforcement of all its law without tearing down the very structure of the government.

"Indifference of the voting public has allowed Washington to infringe on the rights of states and localities until the liberty of the individual has been almost lost.

"Centralized government has been allowed to grow in power until Washington now inflicts penalties, restrictions and taxation upon citizens of the states as never before.

"I believe that, as far as possible, government should be left in your hands. That is the fundamental structure of government as outlined by Thomas Jeferson, who said: 'The government that govern least is the best government.'"

These were the feature points in the address delivered by Senator Oscar W. Underwood last night to a huge gathering of supporters that filled the Palace Theatre until not a seat was left vacant. Many stood throughout the address.

The senator, although he did not refer to himself in any phase of the address as a presidential candidate, explained his beliefs and what ac-

CITIZENS' BANQUET GREAT SUCCESS

Declaring himself ready to carry the banner of the south in securing representation for it in the White House and in the government of the nation, and making a strong plea for recognition of the great southland, Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, in an informal address at a dinner in his honor at the Kemp hotel last night, made known in no uncertain terms that he is a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination.

In fact, the senator declared, that it was this lack of recognition of the south that persuaded him to make the race for the presidency, after the legislature of Alabama had asked him to become a candidate. Senator Underwood was heartily aplauded when he rose to his feet and frequently intercepted by applause during his address.

"The declaration that it is inexpedient to nominate a man from the south to the highest office in the land is the battle cry and a shibboleth of some northern politicians who want the governmental offices for themselves. The south has yielded to this cry of inexpediency; has surrendered its right to select a president of the United States.

"I am here to tell you that long, long ago the people of the north have laid aside any sectional feeling they had against the south, but the northern politician appreciates the value of this talk of inexpediency.

"Our government has become a government by commission. The federal trade commission, the interstate commerce commission, the federal reserve bank, and other commissions control the things which vitally effect the north and the south. Yet because the south has bowed its head to the cry of expediency we have on

Steamer Is Sinking, 24 Are Aboard

No Known Lives Lost and Cutter Rushing to Assistance.

By The Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 24.—The Boston and Gloucester steamer Muscottee is sinking in four fathoms of water off Cape Canavereal, off the west coast of Florida, after having sprung a leak about 10:30 o'clock this morning, according to a telephonic message from the United States coast guard station at Cape Canavereal.

The coast guard cutter Yamacraw of Savannah is rushing to the steamer's assistance, according to information at the coast guard station, and was expected to reach her about midnight. So far as is known, no lives have been lost and it is expected the steamer can be kept afloat until the Yamacraw arrives.

A dispatch from Daytona stated that that the Mascotte had twenty four passengers aboard.

LARGEST NAVAL COURT MARTIAL ON

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The largest single court martial in the history of the navy was ordered today as a result of the inquiry into the loss of seven destroyers off Honda Point, California, last September 8. A squadron commander, two divisions commanders, seven commanders of destroyers and the flotilla navigator will be brought to trial at San Diego before a general court.

Secretary Denby, acting on the findings of the board of inquiry as reported to him by Admiral S. S. Robinson, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, ordered that the court sessions begin at once.

The secretary emphasized that inclusion of an officer's name in the list of those to face court martial should not be taken to imply that such officer had been held responsible for the disaster. It was intended, he added, as much to afford an opportunity for the officer to clear his record as to fix blame and determine punishment.

The officers whose trial was recommended are: Captains L. H. Watson and Robert Morris; Commanders W. S. Pye, L. P. Davis, W. H. Toaz, W. L. Calhoun; Lieutenant Commanders W. P. Seed, H. O. Roesch, D. T. Hunter, A. H. Booth, and Lieutenant

Women Declare "Lady Nicotine" An Outcast

By The Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 24.—The renewal of the fight on tobacco and especially cigarettes, was advocated today at the convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union by Mrs. Claude de Van Watts, state president of the organization, in her address to the delegates at the morning session. The afternoon session was devoted to the reports of committees, and the discussion of finances.

At the night session, marked by an address by Dr. Mary Harris Armor, national representative of the W. C. T. U. and known throughout the land as the "Cyclone of Georgia," the speaker compared the United States with the other nations of the world and declared that New Zealand, said to be the "dryest wet country on earth" is in a deplorable condition as compared with America.

"It will be only a short time," the speaker said, "until the man who buys liquor will be prosecuted just as diligently as the man who sells it today."

The night meeting was attended by the Texas League of Women voters, which organization also is in convention here.

BAIL DENIED WOMAN ON MURDER CHARGE

By The Associated Press.

MERIDIAN, Texas, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Phillips Bosche, charged with the murder of her stepdaughter, Mrs. J. H. Kellersberger, near Kopperl, yesterday was denied bail at a habeas corpus hearing held in the county jail here today before Justice of the Peace E. Jenkins.

Mrs. Bosche previously had waived examining trial and had declined to make a statement. She also declined to appear in public and for this reason the habeas corpus hearing was held in jail. Mrs. Bosche and her stepdaughter are both 25 years old and her husband, Philip Bosche, is 65 years old.

47 BUSINESS MEN GET RIGHT

Somerville's Warning Results in Much Action Wednesday

The warning by Wayne Somerville, assistant county attorney, issued Tuesday to business men of Wichita Falls that they would be fined from $20 to $100 if they did not comply with the law by registering properly the names of those engaged in un-incorporated businesses, resulted in 47 affidavits being filed Wednesday in the office of Mrs. Alma Y. Miller, county clerk.

The publication of the assistant county attorney's statement which appeared exclusively in the Wednesday morning issue of The Record News, resulted in the county attorney's office being swamped with business men all during the morning. Many of the business men said they did not know such a law existed and had no idea they were violating it. Somerville explained the notices regarding the penalty and enforcement of the law had been published three times in local papers.

Somerville said besides those who called in person that about 100 had telephoned and asked the law be explained to them. By the middle of Wednesday afternoon 47 business proprietors had made out the proper affidavit blanks in the county clerk's office.

Somerville said a new phase of the law had been discovered which would mean a number of other business men would have to make out additional affidavits or have charges filed against them. This phase, as pointed out by Somerville, is that when one of a business partnership severs connection with the other members of the firm, an affidavit to that effect must be made and filed for record in the county clerk's office.

Somerville has given the business men who have not complied with the law, until next Saturday noon to straighten the matter up. After that time suits will be filed on the remainder who have not complied with the law, Somerville said Wednesday.

these commissions only a few out of a hundred men who decide the fate of a nation.

"We have a third of the population of the northern states and nearly as much wealth, but we do not have the representation on these boards and commissions to which the southland is entitled. I am not saying that the men who are on these boards are not competent, but they do not know your business and your needs."

Senator Underwood declared that a majority of the men on the important governmental commissions are now and always have been from a radius of one hundred miles from New York. He emphasized that his statement was not a criticism of the commissions; that it was due to the fact that the south had yielded, and had not only surrendered its right to select a president, but had surrendered as well its just representation on the commissions which are the determining factors in the conduct of governmental affairs.

The Alabamian declared that it had been 80 years since the south had nominated and elected a president, and that the south should assert itself. "There may have been a time when it was inexpedient to choose a southern man for the presidency, but that time is past. But the boys who fought under that flag," he declared, pointing to the colors under which the sons of the south fought in the world war, "sacred to the heroes of the battlefields of France, have demonstrated the rightful place that the southland takes in the nation. The man who now says it is inexpedient to send a southern man to the White House, dishonors the south and the place it won on the battlefield of the nation."

In opening his address the senator from Alabama told his hearers how very much he appreciated the greeting and hearty welcome Wichita Falls had given him, saying "it warms my heart to Texas as always since the days when I lived with you as a boy many years ago.

"You know why I am here tonight and I am not going to indulge in any formal speech now, but I do want to tell you why I have declared myself a presidential candidate." He then told how he happened to become a candidate; of the serious thought he gave the matter before he consented to make the race, and how his desire to see the south represented in

READIN', RITIN', and 'RITHMETIC! Is Not All That's Taught These Days

Blunt pointed scissors, clay, colored yarns, paints raffia, reeds, colored crayons, colored sticks blunt pointed needles with large eyes, colored paper strips, cardboard and paper in every conceivable hue and texture, beaver board, linen binding tape, tacks, enamel and carbon paper.

"What is this," you ask, "a list of stock for an art shop?"

"No indeed," you are told, "this is a part of the equipment that is used to teach art and handcraft in the public schools in the first five grades."

It's a far cry back to the days when the district school trustees raised Cain if they had to buy a box of chalk once every three months in a five month term. In those days, a little child had his hands blistered with a ruler if he attempted to "play" in school by drawing pictures in his tablet or folding his arithmetic paper into a little fan.

Nowadays, a special time of the day is set apart for the children to "play." They are taught to draw and to cut things out. They are taught to fold paper into all sorts of interesting things, and to cut marvelous designs out of folded paper. They fold and paste and cut until they have formed a complete set of doll furniture—and then they build the doll house and furnish it, hanging curtains and laying tiny rugs.

They learn to form their first letters and numbers with bright colored little sticks and love to learn. They model with colored clays, things they see and use every day, dishes, a box, a ball, a dog or cat.

As they get a little older they take up drawing and painting, using as models things from nature, fruit flowers, boxes, baskets and even children.

Raffia and reed work is used in making baskets, trays and lampshades. The results are surprising, and the work is finished off neatly and skillfully.

Lettering and poster work is very carefully taught. Posters are made for special days or occasions and every child that finishes the fifth grade can letter neatly and intelligently.

Near the holiday season, most attractive gifts are made by the children; desk sets, blotters, memo pads, calendars, candy boxes, slipper trees, all correctly designed and planned as to color, motif and material.

Animals are traced in beaver board or thin wood and after being carefully sawed out, are enamelled in bright colors, with close attention to detail, mounted on a base or wheels and the resulting toys are quite as clever as those bought in shops.

Mrs. Van Emden to Review Opera; Find Noted Woman Writer Here

By MABEL CARTER

Lovers of good music and of the artistic in opera are looking forward with enthusiasm to the presentation of Madam Butterfly by the San Carlo Grand Opera company here on the evening of November 8. For Grand Opera is not a common occurance in this city this being probably the first attempt in presenting such a pretentious production.

That the realistic story of the love of the little Japanese cherry blossom maiden, Cho Cho San, for the naval lieutenant, Benjamin Franklin Pinkerton, whose ship brought him into the port of Nagasaki, and the romantic love scenes that followed may be better understood and appreciated, Perkins-Timberlake will present Mrs. Frieda Van Emden on the second floor of their store Saturday evening in a lecture on the opera.

The above paragraph, however, is not my story, but rather an introduction, for I, like many others I am sure, have asked the question, "who is Mrs. Van Emden, and what does she know about Madam Butterfly?" To satisfy this curiosity, I started out to learn who she was. The first person I made inquiries of concerning her was Sellers Rogers (for Sellers usually knows everyone musical) my answer from him was — "Mrs. Van Emden plays a good game of tennis for a woman of her age, she can fence, and swim like a duck in fact she has made ducks of her whole family."

Not being very well satisfied with this information, I went up into her neighborhood and asking who she was. One of her neighbors replied: "she has three children, rides horseback, plays polo, even got her jaw bone broken playing polo and some of her teeth knocked out." That didn't help much about what I wanted to know either, so I accosted another neighbor, who said, "I don't know much about her only that she has recently had her hair bobbed.

So finally becoming disgusted I thought I would call on Mrs. Van Emden herself and I found her washing for the baby, whom she couldn't seem to get off her mind entirely. Kept talking about it being a blue ribbon baby at the Texas-Oklahoma fair and about some old china she brought over with her from her native home, Holland, and about her mother over there whom she hasn't seen since leaving 10 years ago, and who has never seen her only grandchildren. Mrs. Van Emden's three lovely daughters.

After pinning her down, however, and insisting on her telling me about herself, her career since coming to America, she said, "I attended an average of from four to five opera performances a week while in New York City where I was employed on dailies during the years of from 1912 to 1919, serving as assistant musical critic and for many foreign papers as well. I also wrote for the Literary Digest and am a member of the Authors' League of America. I have lived a retired life for the past 18 months, because of rearing my family, the youngest being an infant of seven months old.

"During the three years I lived in Dallas in 1920-21 and 22 I was the preliminary lectures for three opera companies. I lectured at the Whittle Music company, Bush and Gerts and Sanger Brothers giving several a week at times, she said.

I went on my way convinced that Mrs. Van Emden, who has only been a resident in Wichita Falls a few months, is very competent to lecture to Wichitans Saturday evening on "Madam Butterfly."

tions he would take on important national questions if he were "given the right."

Although the senator handled the prohibition question as one of the most important features of the coming presidential race, he handled it in a manner which gave both wets and drys some encouragement, saying his personal opinion had been against the 18th amendment, but left no doubt but what he stood for enforcement of the law to the letter as long as it had become a law.

He classed all rum runners as "pirates," and therefore rightful targets for revenue cutter guns, no matter how far they were from the shores of the country.

He picked holes in the present republican administration in the enforcing of the so-called Volstead Act, and drew boisterous applause when he called the recent calling of governors to Washington to confer with President Coolidge on the enforcement of law as a "travesty."

Senator Underwood said that never before in the history of the country had the governors of the states been called to Washington to be asked whether or not they were for the constitution.

All hopes of a wet avowal were blown up when the senator, after giving his personal opinion, came out even more strongly with assertions that the dry law should be enforced and would be if he was given the right.

Some confusion was apparent however, when he stated more than once that the enforcing of the dry law now a federal law, was up to the "government," many being of the opinion that he leaned toward federal enforcement and responsibility rather than enforcement by state and local officers.

The senator came out flat-footedly against the Klan issue, although he did not mention that organization by name. He did not dwell on the subject at length, confining his remarks on that question to three or possibly four statements in which there was no shadow of doubt left in the minds of his hearers that he was determinedly opposed to organizations formed outside the law to enforce the law.

Each anti-Klan statement was received by thundering aplause.

The senator said that he believed the democratic party, nationally, had strayed far from the fundamentals laid down by Thomas Jefferson, founder of the party. Several times he quoted the former's famous remark, "the government that governs least is the best government."

He said that many complaints were being heard throughout the country as to the making of federal laws that defied personal liberty and happiness "at the hearthstone," together with the accusation that the people had lost control of the government.

The senator said that the people had never lost control of the government, their habit of taking it as a matter of course, was the real cause of such a situation.

The meeting was opened by Rev. Black, local Methodist pastor, who led in a short prayer.

Following this several songs, the lyrics for which were written locally and especially for the "Underwood for president" movement, were sung lustily by the audience, led by R. E. Shepherd.

W. W. Silk, chairman of the Underwood reception commitee, made the address of welcome.

A. B. Britain, local attorney, introduced the senator as the "next president of the United States." The senator began speaking at 8:30.

NO BLUE SUNDAYS HERE THEN Judge Huff Tells Lions Of Old Days

"Since the early days there have been people who have had faith in Wichita Falls," announced Judge R. E. Huff in his address on "Pioneer Days of Wichita Falls" to the Lions club Wednesday at the weekly luncheon at the Kemp. "Their faith and their staying here have made Wichita Falls the city it is today."

It was about 41 years ago, that Judge Huff as a young lawyer came to Wichita Falls from Tennessee. In his talk he told of the long journeys that were made in this section of the country where there were no railroads. He mentioned the travel in a buckboard in coming to this city. At that time, Wichita county was not organized, but efforts toward that end were being made. The day of his arrival here, Judge Huff said he was asked to sign the petition to make the county of Wichita. He told the petitioners that he was neither a resident nor a voter. The necessary 150 signatures were secured for the petition, but Judge Huff said that on election day, there were only 81 votes.

The county seat had to be established, and it was only after three elections that the decision was reached that Wichita Falls should be the capitol of the county.

"It was at this time that I was attorney here," continued Judge Huff. "There was a gambling house located in Wichita Falls, and the first thing that was done, the proprietor showed me through the new enterprise. The business men of the city begged me not to interfere with the gambling houses. The city was 'wide open' then. The juries would not convict a man if a conscientious officer did make a complaint.

"Cowboys had lots of fun coming into town and hooting down the signs. It took the rangers to stop some of the trouble."

In the talk to the club, Judge Huff also mentioned the growth of Wichita Falls and compared it with a number of neighboring towns. In speaking of the panic of 1893, the banks of Wichita Falls were able to stand, while those of several nearby towns went under.

A special number of music was given by a trio composed of Mrs. O. H. Berryman, pianist, Mrs. C. R. Eyssen, violinist, and Mrs. Kenneth Bebb, who sang Cadman's "At Dawning," and who sand a folk melody, in answer to the applause of the club.

In the absence of the president, H. L. Reuhl presided at the meeting. A short business session was entered into before the meeting adjourned.

Waggoner Is Now President Wichita State

R. M. Waggoner, well known oil man and capitalist, succeeds W. R. Ferguson as president of the Wichita Falls Bank and Trust company, it was announced yesterday morning, when it became effective. Mr. Ferguson has resigned to devote his time to his large ranch holdings and oil interests. He will remain a stockholder in the bank, although having disposed of the larger part of his stock holdings to a group of other stockholders.

Mr. Waggoner is to enter work only in an advisory capacity, leaving the active management of the bank in the hands of active Vice-Presidents Pat H. Simmons and W. W. Gardner and Cashier Lester Jones, it is announced.

Purchasers of Mr. Ferguson's stock in the bank are P. B. Cox, B. J. Shaw, W. T. Willis, Ed Patterson, R. M. Waggoner, T. J. Waggoner, J. L. Waggoner, Pat H. Simmons and Lester Jones.

The present officers and directors of the bank are R. M. Waggoner, president; G. C. Wood, vice-president; M. J. Gardner, vice-president; Pat H. Simmons, active vice-president; W. W. Gardner, active vice-president; Lester Jones, cashier; these, with P. B. Cox, T. J. Waggoner, J. M. Kenney, B. J. Shaw, W. T. Willis, S. M. Gose, W. R. Ferguson and Ed Peterson, who has been recently added, constitute the board of directors.

W. R. Ferguson, who is retiring from the presidency, has been with the bank and heading its affairs for more than 12 years. The bank had a capital of $25,000 when he first became its head, and has attained since a capital of $400,000. At present it is considered one of the largest and strongest banks in the state. Besides his large oil and ranch holdings in this part of Texas Mr. Ferguson has a 30,000-acre ranch in Colfax county, New Mexico. In retiring from an active position in the bank, Mr. Ferguson states that he will not remove his home from Wichita Falls.

Piggly Wiggly Will Have Seven Stores Here Now

The local Piggly-Wiggly company under the management of G. S. Wyatt of this city has taken a five year lease on the location at 816 Indiana avenue. The building was formerly occupied by the Washington Cafe, and it is owned by Wylie Watt. The deal was consumated at a consideration of $25,000, it is said.

Work toward remodeling the place has already begun, stated Mr. Wyatt, and it is thought the store may be opened by November 10. Acording to the manager, the five cent bread and other cheap prices have caused a congestion in the stores which can be remedied with the opening of other stores.

On Monroe street a building to be occupied by the same concern is being constructed. The work is being done by A. C. Camp of the Cap Oil and Gas company. This building is brick and 25x90 feet in size. It is expected to open by December 1.

The third store to be opened by the Piggly Wiggly company by the first of December is located on Eighth and Brook street. This building is being erected by Joe Jones.

When the three new Piggly Wiggly stores are opened, the total number of these stores in this city will be seven. Others of the same company are operated in Wichita county.

Five cent bread has been made possible because the bakery is owned by the company and supplies the commodity direct to the consumer. The bakery supplying the Piggly Wiggly stores was opened Tuesday, October 23. It is said that its entire output will be consumed by the stores in Wichita Falls and in Wichita county.

Miss Lansford Conducts Culling Demonstrations

Women of the east side of the city will meet Monday afternoon, Oct. 29, at the home of Mrs. Chas. S. Foote on Petrolia road to witness a poultry culling demonstration by Miss Georgia Lansford, home demonstration agent for Wichita county.

Following the culling demonstration Miss Lansford will make a talk on home demonstration club work and will discuss the possibility of the organization of the Bowie school district. Light refreshments will be served and all ladies are cordially invited.

The flock of Mrs. J. M. Shook on the Iowa Park road was culled yesterday, and Miss Lansford is more than glad to call poultry flocks anywhere in the city providing there are at least five women present to witness the demonstration.

Poultry is only one of the many lines of rural interest in which Miss Lansford excells, and her numerous clubs over the county are teaching women to manage clean, comfortable, practical homes, and to still have time and money left over for all the very necessary "little things."

FISHER STORE WILL MOVE TO NINTH ST.

Will L. Fisher, owner of Fisher Dry Goods company, has purchased the Winston bankrupt stock, which he will move with a complete new line of merchandise to the place formerly occupied by the Southwestern Paint and Varnish company at 713 Ninth street. Fisher has been operating his store at Seventh and Indiana.

The new establishment has been remodeled and refurnished, and an invitation is tendered all old customers as well as new ones to come and look over the new store.

Mr. Fisher left last night for St. Luois, where he will buy more winter merchandise and look over the spring fashions at the style shops and wholesalers.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over RHEUMATISM

Has Also Proven Remarkably Successful in Severe Cases of Rheumatic Neuritis

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. Palace Drug Co. and Central Drug Co., will supply you. Mail orders accepted.—Adv.

High Juniors To Banquet Senior Class

In the latter part of November the juniors of the Wichita Falls high school will entertain the 1923-24 seniors with a junior-senior banquet, announced Sam Bashara, president of the junior class Wednesday. A committee composed of Misses Marjorie Bright, Elizabeth Weldon, and Iris Francis was appointed to take care of the social arrangements.

A finance committee is made up of Loebert Carter, Clifton Clay, Shumake Baker and Miss Dorothy Skeen.

On the decorating committee are Sidney Austin, Guy Hawkins and Kathleen Stocks.

In the meeting of Tuesday afternoon Marjorie Bright was appointed class poet, and J. B. Martin was elected yell leader of the junior class.

Plans are under way for the class to have a home talent play which will be given in the early part of December. The play and the cast will be announced later.

In order to defray the expenses of the banquet, a candy sale was held Wednesday. According to the president of the class, other sales will be held in order to meet the deficit which will occur when the expenses of the class are paid.

The junior class will be entertained Friday evening, October 26, with a Hallowe'en party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jamison, 1716 Tenth street.

Thompson Tells Wichita Club About Water Here

Lake Kemp is a wonderful asset to the people of Wichita Falls and will grow in value," said R. A. Thompson, guest speaker at the irrigation project at the weekly luncheon of the Wichita club Wednesday noon.

Mr. Thompson said that the recent floods with the large heads of water that have emptied into the lake have only filled it to one fourth capacity. The reservoir when full will hold 170 billion gallons of water and will provide water for 100 million acres of land besides supplying water for a city of a million population. These statistics, though repeated many times would bear stressing, Mr. Thompson said.

The dam, he remarked further, has been completed according to schedule and is now finished with the exception of a few yards of rip-rap yet to be laid.

The natural location of the dam is much better than any of the reservoirs in the surrounding country, he said. Dallas is searching for an additional water supply and is willing to pay five million dollars for a reservoir that is not half as large as Lake Kemp.

Beside being a great source of water supply, Mr. Thompson pointed out the scenic beauty of the lake with its picturesque wall of cliffs, and told of its popularity with tourists. He mentioned the good fishing that some men are enjoying; one string of 23 large mountain trout in particular. The caretaker at the dam has caught 2,000 sun perch which he has turned into a large tank so that visiting parties may enjoy fresh fish dinners at all seasons.

SAN JACINTO CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

At a meeting of the San Jacinto Mother's club Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. L. C. Blakeley was elected president, Mrs. Whitlove, vice president, Miss Billie Veasey, secretary, Mrs. Calvert treasurer, and Mrs. Ed Reesby, press reporter.

Miss Suzanne Schnemayer, public health nurse from the University of Texas, talked to the mothers about the nutrition of the children. Posters showing the good that milk will do toward making the child healthy and growing, as well as others, were shown.

In order to gain funds for the club, there will be a picture show given at the San Jacinto school building Friday evening beginning at 7:30.

WELK GIVEN DEATH PENALTY

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Oc. 24.—Sidney (Pete) Welk was given the death penalty by a jury in the criminal district court today when the jurors found Welk guilty of murdering Jailer Willis Champion when Welk and Charles E. Gaines, Welk's fellow convict, attempted to break out of jail recently. Gaines was killed in the fight with officers.

Welk had been under a sentence of 40 years on his conviction of murdering Sheriff Tom Wood last December. Welk's attorneys announced they would ask for a new trial.

Reduce Those Dangerous Swollen Veins

Doctor's Recent Discovery Also Heals Boils, Carbuncles, Abscesses, and Open Sores in a Few Days

Physicians are prescribing and hospitals using a new and harmless, yet very powerful germicide that not only causes enlarged or varicose veins and bunches to become normal, but also reduces goitre, enlarged glands and tens.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not produce the results anticipated, you can have the price refunded.

It is not wise for anyone to allow swollen veins to keep on enlarging. Often they burst and cause weeks of pain, suffering and loss of employment. Start the Emerald Oil treatment as directions advise and improvement will begin at once. Your druggist can supply you.—Adv.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS RECEIVE NEW MEMBERS

Reports concerning new members were given at the weekly meeting of the Community Players yesterday noon at the Kemp. A report of the one-act plays stated that Mrs. Bruce Ruffner would be unable to direct her play, "The Will of the Wisp." Ernest Robertson will select another play which he will direct.

A very interesting talk was given by Mrs. Eugene Graham on the two pageants which she saw while spending the summer on the Pacific coast. One, "The Americano," was produced in Seattle. It is a patriotic display which was highly recommended by the late president, Warren G. Harding. The other was the famous American Passion play, "The Wanderer," given in Los Angeles. Mrs. Graham took special note of scenic effects which will be of benefit to the chief for forthcoming productions.

th affairs of the nation caused him to reach his decision.

Senator Underwood also made it plain that if he is not the choice of the democratic party, that he will willingly follow the banner of any man who is a true representative of the southland.

"If I am not the man to carry the banner of the south, I am willing to follow the banner of some other southern man. The time has come when the south must assert itself; when the great south is entitled to be represented in the councils of the nation."

The warmth of the reception which Senator Underwood received, as planned under the direction of W. W. Silk, was made apparent by the fact that in the crowd of banqueters at the Kemp last night practically every walk of life in Wichita Falls was represented. Business men and professional men; even those who have not chosen the Alabama man as their standard bearer, but who gladly accepted the opportunity to do him honor, were there. It was a typical Wichita Falls welcome.

With Walter D. Cline acting in the capacity of toastmaster, following the invocation by the Rev. N. F. Grafton, and the singing of America, the dinner program was fittingly opened by Sam Beatty, Wichita Falls American Legion post commander, with a story of the small United States flag which hung at the west end of the banquet hall.

"That flag is very dear to me," said Mr. Beatty, "and to many boys from Wichita Falls and the surrounding country, because it was the regimental colors the 142nd infantry followed in France." Mr. Beatty reviewed the story of how on the sixth of September, 1917, three hundred and fifty boys from this section volunteered their services to their country, and told of the assembling of the 142nd infantry. The flag, he explained, was to be used by the local legion post in burial ceremonies, but had been displayed last night because of the interesting history that was attached to it. His recital of the use of Choctaw Indians from Oklahoma in the transmitting of messages to escape the vigilance of the German troops, created much merriment. The Boche, he said, just couldn't understand "Choctaw."

Judge R. E. Huff, chosen to address the banqueters, because of his long residence here and his unfailing faithfulness to democracy, expressed gratification at "the unanimity with which the city came to pay honor to our distinguished guest." Judge Huff said that Oscar Underwood was well known as a leader of the democratic party and that while progressive in his thoughts, he had always been conservative enough to weigh a question of importance to the nation.

He expressed the hope that Senator Underwood would meet with the approval of the democratic party and said that he felt sure should he be elected to the presidency as a representative of the south, that he would serve the people of the entire country well. "I hope," he said in concluding his brief talk, "that the 40 votes of Texas will follow the votes of Alabama and that Senator Underwood will be selected as the standard bearer of the democratic party."

Mr. Cline, in introducing briefly the honored guest, paid the Alabama senator high tribute, expressing for Wichita Falls the city's gratification in being permitted to entertain so distinguished a son of the south.

R. E. Shepherd acted as song leader throughout the evening. Aside from "My Old Kentucky Home" and the ever-stirring "Dixie," two songs especially worded for the occasion, and set to familiar tunes, were sung. They closed the program, except for an informal personal greeting extended by those who had not had the privilege of shaking Senator Underwood's hand.

Senator Underwood's train pulled into the union station almost an hour late yesterday afternoon, but the delay was unavoidable and the large crowd which had gathered to meet him stood their ground. After his arrival he was taken to the Kemp hotel, where a short time later a reception was held for him on the mezzanine floor.

MONUMENT TO A GERMAN COOK

Woman Who Began Experiments Century Ago Honored

The Associated Press.

MUNSTER.—Every school girl and every woman in Germany knows the name of Henriette Davidis, but it was not until recently that the government officially acknowledged her as one of the country's benefactors, by numerous monuments to the memory of Empress Victoria, Queen Louise and Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, the former kaiser's late wife, have been erected in Berlin, Hamburg and other centers but in the old days the government never gave Henriette Davidis even a passing thought—Henriette came from very humble parentage, and it is said she did not care a snap about royalty and pomp and ceremony, and "wasting her time running up to Berlin to see what the city folks were doing." Instead, she devoted her efforts toward the education of young women, and compilation of a cook book which was her chief aim in life.

Henriette Davidis began her cooking experiments about 100 years ago in her parents' home in Wengern near Witten on the Ruhr. As a girl she became famous locally for her cookies and the people often came for miles for a taste of her home made bread and cakes. And in those days when there was an entertainment in the neighborhood word was always passed around that Henriette Davidis' dishes were to be a feature of the event.

Henriette did all her cooking in an old fashioned kitchen with its great brick stove with enormous stone chimney. Henriette's father was a minister and there were frequent guests at the house, and when a particularly tempting dish was prepared, and liked, she made notes, and in years to come it was publication of these receipes in book form which gave her fame throughout Germany. Plain, substantial cooking was Henriette's forte, but her cakes and pastries are known today by nearly every housewife in the land.

Henriette died in 1876. Some time ago the weather beaten frame house of the Davidis family—the house with the old fashioned kitchen where Henriette had perfected her culinary art—was torn down to make way for railroad tracks which ran through the front yard of the old Davidis place. Before the work of demolishing the house had been completed the local population took steps to preserve the ancient stone chimney of the Davidis home in remembrance of Wengren's most distinguished citizen. The Berlin government was appealed to, and as the chimney is upon state property official recognition of Henriette's services have been taken. Orders have gone out that the stones must remain intact and that the chimney is to stand always as a monument to the memory of Henriette Davidis—who was too busy with her cook book to even think of marriage—with a bronze plaque telling of her achievements and "of her services to mankind."

NEW CITY COUNCIL FOR CLEVELAND

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Ohio.—The first big city in the country to try the city manager form of government, Cleveland is preparing to elect 25 city councilmen on November 6, under its new charter which provides for proportional representation ballots. The councilmen will be elected from four districts, will take office January 1, and elect the city manager shortly after.

One hundred and twenty-nine candidates, including four women, filed petitions carrying 500 signatures each when the time limit for filing nominating petitions expired. Forty-two candidates for various terms as municipal judge and three candidates for city clerk also will be on the ballot. The judges and city clerk will be elected under the present method of voting.

The new form of government without an elective mayor, places all of the power of government in the hands of the city council of 25 members. The council will elect from its number a presiding officer to be known as "mayor" but he will have none of the executive or administrative functions which the mayor now has.

The city manager will be the chief administrative officer of the city. He cannot be appointed for any definite term but will serve during the pleasure of the council.

The big issue developed in the campaign is whether the new city manager must be a resident of Cleveland.

Glass Has Remarkable Career

God-son and student of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt; aviator in the French Air Service until he was shot down by the enemy, and actor of all sorts and roles on the screen—these are the high spots in the career of Gaston Glass, the youthful photoplay star, who is seen in the leading role of "Mothers-in-Law," now showing at the Olympic theatre.

Except for the time that he spent in the air service of his country, Glass, since boyhood, has been connected either with the stage or screen. His roles have varied in different productions. In "Mothers-in-Law," directed by his fellow countryman, Gasnier, he plays the part of a country youth who later becomes a successful business man. As the husband of a vivacious and wealthy young heiress, he runs into some of the domestic difficulties of modern society.

Ruth Clifford is the young wife and Edith Yorke is "Mom," the mother-in-law. Others of the capable cast are Yola Vale, Cranford Kent, Josef Swickard, Doris Stone and Marie Curtis.

"The Eagle's Feather" Here

"The Eagle's Feather," a Metro picturization of Katharine Newlin Burt's famous story of the same name which appeared in the Cosmopolitan magazine some time ago, is the feature attraction at the Strand Theatre the remainder of this week.

Those who have read the story will remember the thrilling cattle stampede, the great fight between John Trent and his accusers, the delightful banquet scene, the forest fire and many other incidents which made "The Eagle's Feather" one of the outstanding short stories of the year. All of these have been incorporated with unvarying fidelity and thrilling realism in the screen version.

A fine cast, headed by James Kirkwood and Mary Allen, serve to make "The Eagle's Feather" a great entertainment. There are Elinor Fair, Lester Cuneo, William Orlamond, John Elliot, Charles McHugh and George Siegmann. "The Eagle's Feather" was adapted by Winifred Dunn and directed by Edward Sloman.

Gloria's Father Dies

Joseph F. Swanson, father of Gloria Swanson, passed away at San Pedro, California, last week following an acute heart attack. He was fifty-two years of age and an army field clerk. His death occurred at the Fort McArthur Post hospital.

"Girl of the Limberlost" Cast

Gloria Grey, declared by Gene Stratton-Porter to be so close to the type that she might have stepped right out of the book, is to be the Elnora Comstock of "A Girl of the Limberlost," the second of the famous books of Mrs. Porter to be prepared for the screen. Production is under way under the personal supervision of Mrs. Porter. Miss Grey, though but 17 years of age, is one of the dramatic "finds" of the year. She has been before the public for 14 years, starting in her baby-hood as a protege of Gus Edwards and attaining an enviable reputation as a singer and dancer on the vaudeville circuits before her entry into pictures. James Leo Meehan, who successfully directed "Michael O'Halloran," is directing "A Girl of the Limberlost," which will be an early winter release.

Cranford Kent and Ruth Clifford in "Mothers-In-Law"—Preferred Pictures

Doug Jr., Completes Film

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.'s, first motion picture, "Stephen Steps Out," has been edited and titled at the Paramount west coast studio. The story is a screen adaption by Edfrid Bingham from Richard Harding Davis's story, "The Grand Cross of the Crescent."

The youthful star—he is now thirteen—is first seen in a prep school where he is flunked in Turkish history with the result that his father sends him to Turkey to study. The adventures multiply rapidly thereafter.

The supporting cast is headed by Theodore Roberts and includes Noah Beery, Harry Myers, Frank Currier, James O. Barrows, Fanny Midgley, Bertram Johns, George Field and Maurice Freeman. The picture was directed by Joseph Heneberry.

Jacqueline's Favorites

Jacqueline Logan, featured in George Melford's picture, "The Light That Failed," says that her six favorite pictures are "Robin Hood," "Java Head," "The Four Horsemen," "The Miracle Man," "Birth of a Nation," and "Passion."

Gloria's Newest

Gloria Swanson began work this week at the Paramount Long Island studio on "The Humming Bird," her second picture to be made in the east by the company. Sidney Olcott, producer of "Little Old New York" and "The Green Goddess" who just recently signed a contract with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, will direct the picture, which will be made for Forrest Halsey's adaptation of Maude Fulton's play.

Miss Swanson will have the role of Toinette, a girl of the Paris underworld, leader of the Apaches, whose undaunted courage makes her a heroic figure during the dark days of the World War when Paris was threatened with invasion. She falls in love with Randall Carey, representative of an American newspaper in Paris, and this act furnishes the motivation for the story.

Edward Burns, who has come on from the coast, will have the leading male role, that of the newspaperman, and the other members of the cast include: William Riccardi, Cesare Gravina, Mario Majeroni, Mme. D'Ambricourt, Helen Lindrath, Rafael Bongini, Regina Quinn, and Aurelie Occia.

Young Casting Director

Seven-year-old Mickey Bennett, who has an important role in Allan Dawn's production, "Big Brother," now being filmed at Paramount's Long Island studio, has been granted the privilege of casting the other youngsters who will make up his "gang" in the picture. In the first few days of production on "Big Brother," Casting Director William Cohill assigned several urchins to play in Mickey's gang and Mickey was seen to fret a bit. So he marched up to the casting office and demanded to see Mr. Cohill.

"Gee," complained Mickey, "can't a feller even pick the kids for his own gang? Those other guys you gave me were a lot of sissies and when I told them I could lick any kid in the crowd they started to bawl. Why don't you let me cast my own gang?"

So Casting Director Cohill could do nothing but seat litle Mickey in a swivel chair before a mahogany desk and anounce the fact that Mr. Mickey Bennett would be casting that day between the hours of 2 and 4.

Swedish Flat-Dwellers United for Protection

Special to The Record News.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 27.—A growing scarcity of unfurnished apartments, accompanied by increasing rents, has induced flat-dwellers of Sweden to form a national organization, a congress of Tenants' Societies from all parts of the country having been held at Gothenburg for this purpose. The protection guaranteed tenants through this national body will be supplementary to the assistance already afforded by the municipal rent committees and apartment renting agencies.

At the beginning of the new rent year it is estimated that about 1,000 families in Stockholm and 200 in Gothenburg will be without homes, having been forced to vacate their apartments, because of termination of their leases. Temporary domiciles are being arranged by the municipal authorities, while new apartment houses of American pattern are nearing completion. In many cases office floors are being remodeled for housekeeping, and it is even being proposed to relieve the situation by renting out cabins of ships in the harbor of Stockholm.

The organization completed at Gotisenburg plans to submit proposals for new rent laws, as well as to furnish its members with legal advice and information.

It Is Safer to Fly Over Than Walk in London

By The Associated Press.

LONDON.—According to officials of the London Safety First council, it is less safe to walk the streets of London than to travel by rail or by air.

During the past year 634 people were killed and 26,322 injured in London's streets. During the same time the toll on the whole of England's railways was only 728 killed and 19,602 injured.

Long periods of flying occur without a single passenger being killed.

Of the fatal accidents in London, 505 were caused by motor cars, motor vans, etc., and 63 by motor buses.

In the first quarter of the present year, street accidents in the metropolitan area totalled 13,130, of which 149 were fatal. Of the latter 107 were caused by motor cars, motor vans, etc., and 16 by motor buses.

TURK EMBASSY WILL REOPEN

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—It is expected that the Turkish embassy which has been closed since 1914, will be re-opened soon. The embassy which is in Portland Place presents a stately exterior for it has remained untouched all these years. A solitary caretaker has been in charge of the building and he stated today that the furniture was just as it had been left in 1914. He complained that he had been without wages for months but he expected his little account would be satisfactorily settled.

"No we have had no burglars. There is not—here to steal," he concluded.

Vigorous Old Age

WHY separate youth and old age with a deep and ever-widening abyss?

The bloom of youth and the hardy, ruddy glow of Old Age—sixteen and sixty—should be separated only by the span of years and not by varying differences of physical wholesomeness.

Vigorous old age is within the grasp of all. S. S. S. brings that hale and hearty feeling back with a rush. Rich red blood is the greatest enemy of weakening, health undermining Old Age. S. S. S. builds Red Blood Cells. Rich, red blood coursing through your veins sweeps away impurities that retard the proper functioning of your system. Old Age—once a dreaded agony becomes a vigorous, enjoyable, care free time of life.

S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks—scientifically prepared and proportioned. Welcome Old Age when it comes. Be ready to withstand the attacks of diseases that follow in its wake. Meet Old Age with a hearty handshake. A handshake that speaks of well being—of a vigorous, clear thinking, red blooded constitution. S. S. S. is your best friend when Old Age is seen rounding the corner. Get a bottle and drive care and worry away. All leading drug stores carry it. The large size is the more economical.

Warning signs, plain enough so all that drive may read, have been placed at the intersection of Eleventh street and Lamar avenue by the police. This probably is the most dangerous corner in the city. There have been 11 accidents there in the past two months.

But the public should be reminded that warnings of little avail if they are not heeded. These signs that the police have placed on the street to lessen the number of motor car accidents will be of little avail if the drivers of motor vehicles do not heed them.

The police are doing their best to improve motoring conditions a little. Why not help them a little?

DAVIS AND PINCHOT

Governor Jonathan Davis of Kansas is a democrat and a Henry Ford boomer. He has recovered from his recent illness and is inclined to trail with Governor Pinchot in his proposal that the president should be the chief of the prohibition department of government and that the federal government should take it upon itself to enforce the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

Governor Jonathan of Kansas never did have any political use for former Governor Henry J. Allen. They do not speak the same political language.

AN EDITORIAL FOR WOMEN

This is not a man's editorial. The men readers of The Record News may read it if they like, and are quite welcome. But it is intended for the women of Wichita Falls and surrounding territory.

It is just to call attention again to the writings of Dorothy Dix, which will appear in The Record News, beginning next Monday. We are really quite proud of the fact that we have been able to secure this superfeature for our women readers. Frankly, we bought this feature because we know the women of the country like it, and we want the women in our territory to like us.

Dorothy Dix is admittedly the highest paid woman writer in the newspaper world. She has a keen insight into the affairs of us folks, and she is in intimate touch with the problems which concern us. And with all this, she does not depend entirely on her ability as a writer to appeal to her women readers. She has a broad and tolerant philosophy, and speaks a language that all can understand.

You will find much good in the Dorothy Dix talks and the Dorothy Dix letter box, which will appear in The Record News beginning Monday, October 29, and appearing six days of each week thereafter. Don't miss this feature.

PITY THE DOWN-TRODDEN RICH

New York has another sensation. Francis O. French, eldest son of the house of French and cousin of William H. Vanderbilt, has become a wage-earner and is driving a taxicab in the city of New York. He has been given his license as a motor car operator and is to take down $50 a week and commissions.

He belongs to all the fashionable clubs of New York. His rich wife has divorced him, he lost out in Wall street, now he's going to make his own living. New York society has been given another shock. Taxicab Driver French, speaking of his haughty family connections, remarked that "they could all go to hell if they didn't like it."

Commodore Vanderbilt was the founder of the Vanderbilt fortune. He began life a clam digger and sold his clams from a peddler's cart. French's father has palaces in a dozen cities of the world, but regardless of this Francis O. French, with the blood of the Vanderbilts coursing in his veins, hopes to make money as a taxicab driver and show the world that he can make his own way.

And thus it is that the soul of the clam-digger goes marching along.

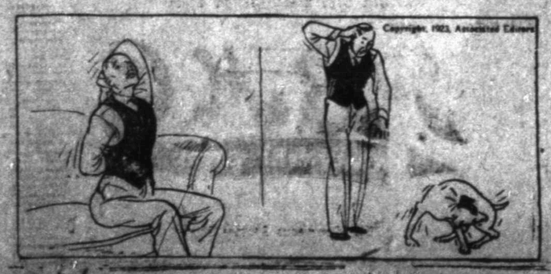

Israel Zangwill predicts that the Jewish people in Jerusalem can never build an independent nation. Zangwill may be a false prophet. There are many independent nations on the map today that were unknown in 1914. Poland is a free republic.

Ireland is a free state. Why not Palestine?

David Lloyd-George talked himself into a sick bed in the city of Chicago. He is the last of the big four in active life. His American tour may be his finish. Man is not made of iron.

Awake, Arise, Our Duty Calls

Black Money

BY J. S. FLETCHER AUTHOR OF "SCARMAN KEEP", "THE BOROUGH TREASURER", ETC.

"We're going to the General Medical Council," answered Matherfield. "I'm going to find out all about this Dr. Baseverie and Ambrose. We've done a bit of good work this morning, Mr. Hetherwick!" he went on, as they entered a taxi. "We've practically made certain that Ambrose was the man who met Hannaford at Victoria, and we're sure he's the man to whom Macpherson supplied the bottle in which the poison was discovered at Granett's room. And now we'll hope for a bit more illumination in the darkness!"

Hetherwick presently found himself closeted with Matherfield and a grave official, who, after listening to Matherfield's reasons for his inquiry, began to consult various books of reference. Presently he left the room and was away some time; when he returned, he brought with him two slips of paper which he handed to Matherfield.

Charles Ambrose, M. B. Oxon. Medical Officer of Health, Crayport, Lancs. 1903-4: in practice Whiteburn, Lancs. 1904-9; police-surgeon, Sellithwaite, W. R. Yorks. 1909-12: in practice Brondesbury, London, 1909-18. Struck off Register by General Medical Council for unprofessional conduct, 1918.

"So much for him!" said Matherfield. "Now to'other."

Cyprian Baserverie, L. R. C. P., L. R. C. S. In practice Birmingham, 1897-1902; at Wyborough, Northants 1902-11; at Dalston, N. 1911-17. Convicted of fraud at Central Criminal Court 1917, and struck off Register by General Medical Council 1918.

"Ho-ho!" exclaimed Matherfield. "A promising pair—for our purpose! What do you think?"

"My belief," answered Hetherwick, "is that Baseverie and Ambrose are partners in this affair. And how do we know that they didn't meet at Dover and that they haven't gone off together?"

Still wondering about this, Hetherwick next morning went around to see Major Penteney.

"I called," explained Hetherwick, "to ask if you had any more information about Baseverie's disappearance at Dover?"

Penteney made a wry face.

"More vexed than ever about that!" he answered. "Most inexcusably stupid conduct on the part of our man—"

The telephone bell rang. With a word of excuse Penteney turned to it. A moment later he turned on Hetherwick.

"Good Heavens!" he exclaimed. "What's all this? This is Lady Riversreade speaking. She says her sister, who came yesterday, and Miss Featherstone have been kidnaped! Kidnaped—this morning!"

With a sharp exclamation, Hetherwick leaped to his feet.

"Impossible!" he said. "Kidnaped—in broad daylight? And—from there?"

But Penteney was still busy at the phone.

"Yes, yes!" he was saying. "To be sure! Police—yes! I'm coming straight there, now—car—tell police to get busy."

He turned sharply to Hetherwick.

"Fear there's there no impossibility about it," he said. "Lady Riversreade says they were carried from the Court to the house—she's heard something of a big car with strange men in it. I'm going down there at once."

"I'll come with you," said Hetherwick. "Where can we get a car—a fast one?"

"Garage close by," answered Penteney. "You know," he continued these fellows probably believed they were kidnaping Lady Riversreade—and got her sister in the take for her. Ransom, you know! A desperate and dare-devil lot, evidently!"

When, some fifty minutes later, they dashed up to Riversreade Court Lady Riversreade herself came hurrying out to meet them. She addressed Hetherwick before Penteney could go through any hurried introduction.

"I've seen you before!" she exclaimed abruptly. "You were with my secretary, Miss Featherstone, (as Rhona Hannaford was known) at Victoria, Sunday morning. Are you engaged to her?"

"No!" replied Hetherwick. "But we are close friends."

"Well, Miss Featherstone's been run away with—and so has my sister, Madame Listorelle," continued Lady Riversreade. "They've been kidnaped, under my very windows. And we haven't a single clue, no trace of any sort."

"So far, you mean," answered Penteney coolly. "What are the details?"

"Details!" exclaimed Lady Riversreade. "All I know is this: my sister came to stay a few days. This morning, after we had breakfasted, she and Miss Featherstone set out across the park for the Home. I wasn't ten minutes behind them. But when I got to the Home, they weren't there; and Mitchell, the man at the door said they hadn't come. Then I began to make some inquiry. One of the housemaids said she'd seen a car go at a great rate down the middle drive in the direction of the highroad soon after Madame Listorelle and Miss Featherstone left the house. And of course there's no doubt about it—they've been carried off in that! This is more work of that man Baseverie's!"

"I think we'd better go across the park and see for our selves if there are any signs of a struggle at any particular place," Penteney said. "I don't think either Madame Listorelle or Miss Featherstone likely persons to be carried off without making a fight for it. Probably the two captives were forced into the car at the point of revolvers. Come down and let's examine the roadway."

But there was nothing to see. The road was in a perfect state of repair, and there was no trace of any grain of dust on its smoothed surface. Certainly there were no signs of any struggle.

"There's an old chap coming down the road who seems to have his eye on us," remarked Hetherwick, looking round.

"Be you gentlemen inquirin' about a moty-car what was round here this mornin'?" the old man asked as he came up.

"We are," answered Penteney. "Do you know anything?"

The old man pointed up the sunken road to a part of the park where it was lost among trees.

"Lives up there, I do," he said. "When I was a-gardenin' this morning I sees a moty-car what came along from your way."

"What sort of a car was it? Closed, or open?"

"Oh, 'twas closed up," said the old man. "But I see inside it, for all that. Two gentlemen."

"Two gentlemen, eh?" repeated Penteney. "Just so. And a driver outside, of course."

"Well, a sort o' yaller, lightish yaller or dunnish."

"Lightish—gray, yellow or drab—something of that sort?"

"Surely! But the feller what drove, now he were in a dark livery. Green, that was his color, and gold lace."

Penteney rewarded the informant with some silver, and turned to his companions with a shake of the head.

"A light-colored car with two men in it, driven by a man who wore a dark-green livery with gold lace on it!" he remarked. "And—if this has been a carefully planned affair, the chauffeur would change his livery before they're gone far—slip another coat on! However—"

They went back to the Court, consulting together, obviously there was nothing to do but to send out inquiries in the surrounding country.

But during the afternoon a man came to the house who was sure that he had seen a car, such as that the police were inquiring after, pass his house.

"There was a couple of men on the front seat, and a couple of ladies in the back," he said. "It seemed as if they were all either quarreling or having high words. I saw them clearly enough to see that one of the men inside was a man I've seen in London—a tall, goodlooking, smart-dressed gentleman, with a beard and mustache."

Hetherwick put in a question.

"The second man in the car? Did you notice him? Can you remember him?"

"I remember that he was a white-faced chap" the man said at last. "Were a top-hat, silk."

When this witness had gone away, Hetherwick turned to his companions.

"That sounds like Ambrose for one man, and Baseverie for the other," he said. "What deviltry are they up to now? Penteney, we must get back to London."

So Goes It

By B. H.

Dr. Carl Hartman, of the University of Texas, is going to the far away tropics for a close-up study of the monkey. We have no objection to Dr. Hartman monkeying around in the trees and associating with monkeys if he chooses to do so. That is his business.

But when Dr. Hartman tries to tell us that monkey meat is a delightful food—that it is better than chicken, we rise in indignant protest, and without fear of contradiction on first hand information on monkey meat, declare him to be wrong. Anyhow, we don't have to eat the fuzzy things. That's our side of it.

Too Public

"For Rent—Sleeping porch on the pavement—Want ad in the Record News.

The number of auto drivers who disregard the "stop" and "slow down" signs at Eleventh and Lamar, Wichita Falls "accident corner" lead to the conclusion that there is much illiteracy among auto drivers. Either that, or they just don't believe in signs.

Dr. N. F. Grafton delivered quite a tribute to the lowly union before the university club. We agree with him that the onion has no press agent. But it doesn't need one. The average onion has the strength and endurance to take care of itself.

But the onion has a bad reputation. Folks know that it isn't safe to associate with the onion when you expect to associate with anyone else. No matter how popular the onion may be, no one likes a second hand onion.

And as far as its permeating influence is concerned, all you have to do is to sit in front of an onion indulger in the church or theatre to appreciate its fine qualities.

But the onion is all right in its place and its place is on the table. As we have before remarked an onion a day will keep everyone away. We are not finding fault with the doctor's remarks. They were very much to the point. The onion gets a lot of abuse it doesn't deserve, just as the prune is cursed.

The prune got a bad reputation through its early associates. There was a time when prunes were served only by cheap and unworthy boarding houses. And as a rule they were cheap prunes. And as a matter of fact the prune and the onion are altogether choice and delectable.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Bird Lovers in Winter

Gine Mother Says:

My older boys built a bird tray which they fastened to the library window. All winter long we keep a bowl of water, sunflower seed, bread crumbs and chopped suet on this tray, caring for it morning and afternoon. I keep a bird guide and as the birds come we observe them and their habits, finding it a never failing source of amusement.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

SCORPIO

Very good conditions prevail today, the best period being between three and six in the afternoon. There will be a strong inclination towards extremes in all forms, especially unconventionality. Resist this temptation or you will have great regrets.

A child born today will be courageous and adventurous, affectionate and self-sacrificing.

To you all the world is a stage, if today is your birthday, and all its people merely players and the role you may be called on to play, you will do it with earnest feeling and importance.

You are idealistic, romantic and sensational. You will do anything that appeals to your sense of the dramatic and nothing that does not. What counting work you fine necessary to living, you make into a task of tragic magnitude or frivolous triviality. Nothing ever happens to you that is not dwarfed or magnified by your imagination.

You are a natural born leader. People will follow you where they would not dare to go alone. This is partly because you are inherently reckless and partly because you have almost no gift of analysis. What dangers you might see you will not heed anyway. Thus it is no great struggle for you to believe in your own destiny.

You are altruistic and self-sacrificing for this same reason. You do not care to act for your own advantage, because you do not see it and would not desire it even if it were pointed out to you. Your reward is neither in heaven nor earth, but in the thrill of momentry action.

You are deeply and blindly religious but orthodox only when it does not inconvenience your errant and adventurous spirit.

You advocate the accepted order of society and have due regard for public opinion and that of your associates.

Unless you marry someone who is willing to put up with your temperamental nature and who understands it your marital happiness will never be realized. You adore children when they belong to someone else, but you lack the patience to have them with you constantly.

Successful people born on this date are: Robert H. Thurston, mechanical engineer; George P. Upton, musical critic; Francis A. Marsh, philologist.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

FUTILE

I used to lie with my head on a chair,
At a tenuous smoke column blinking,
And with wandering finger tips rumple my hair,
Which, I fancied, would stimulate thinking.
This method—which actors pursue on the stage—
I followed for nights without number,
But I never developed the thoughts of a sage
Or anything else—except slumber.

Then somewhere I heard that an editor said—
A man of profound reputation—
That tilting the body and bowing the head
Would surely induce cerebration.
This posture, he said, kept the blood in the brain
And if it were held for an hour,
A person would find he would speedily gain
Tremendous cerebral power.

Next evening I stood on my head for a while,
My feet toward the ceiling extended;
"With my blood running downward," I thought, with a smile,
"My thoughts should be perfectly splendid."
But somehow ideas would simply not come,
And thwarted in hope and ambition
With a brain that was utterly lifeless and numb
I resumed a recumbent position.

The editor's dictum perhaps may be sound,
But I've given up thinking at present,
For when I'm at home of an evening I've found
That idling is vastly more pleasant.
A mole cannot learn from a rule book to wink,
For the creature has nothing to wink with,
And rules cannot teach any fellow to think,
Unless he has something to think with!

TIMELY VIEWS on WORLD TOPICS

"FIGHT IN CHINA BETWEEN THE RED SCHOOLHOUSE AND THE RED FLAG."

"The future of China depends on the formation of a wider, enlightened public opinion among its people, and this can be brought about solely by education of the Chinese masses." So declares Rev. Robert G. Boville, president of the World association of Daily Vacation Bible schools. "The truest safeguard of American life is the American public school. China is short on the little red schoolhouse. It has 73,000,000 children between six and 12 years, and 69,000,000 of these have neither school teachers, school books, nor schoolhouses. That is why 300,000,000 of the most industrious and peace-loving people on earth allow themselves to be manhandled and mishandled by a few million scalawags. China has a million and a half soldiers it doesn't need and doesn't want, instead of a million and a half teachers it both needs and wants."

Rev. Boville recently returned from China, where he assisted the Chinese student campaign, against illiteracy and insanitation. Last summer, he said, 5,000 Chinese students spent two months teaching in elementary vacation schools.

Referring to the operations of bolshevism in China, Dr. Boville said:

"Moscow is the center of the most daring and deliberate propaganda of today. It has set out to capture the illiterate populations of India, China and Central Asia. It functions already in China in the growing banditry, which is bolshevism without any previous study of Karl Marx.

Next Fifty Years to Decide.

"In the next fifty years China will become either the stabilizer of peace on the Pacific water front or a volcano erupting bolshevism. It will be a fight between the red schoolhouse and the red flag. What America needs to do is to promote in every way possible schools for the children of China—public schools and normal schools. China is at present top heavy with universities.

"The Chinese people are hungry for schools. Even the coolies have the highest respect for a scholar. One of these, in answer to the question 'How many children have you?' replied, "I have eight, months and one scholar.' Real friends of a peaceful progressive China must give more attention to elementary schools and whatever other foundations are needed there is needed supremely a foundation to foster Chinese public schools."

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg., Eighth and Indiana

THE COLONIZATION QUESTIONNAIRE

The Amount of Land That Has Been Cleared and Plowed.

Most irrigation projects were built in a much wilder country than we have here.

Very few indeed have had the advantage of miles of concrete highways, several railroad lines and a city of 50,000 to start off with.

One thing that was generally faced by the pioneer settlers on the western irrigation projects was the clearing of the land. Not clearing it of timber, for irrigation projects are generally located in a desert country, but clearing it of sage brush, bush mesquite, chaparal, greasewood, and cactus.

Clearing such land costs from $3 to $30 per acre depending upon the nature of the brush and other conditions. Clearing was done by hand with a grubbing hoe, by teams dragging a railroad rail, and by using several patented machines invented for such work.

Here there are thousands of acres that will not need clearing thousands of acres that have been plowed and cropped for years.

The settlers were asked to tell whether or not their land was cleared and plowed. Of those who answered there was about 10,500 acres that had been.

As the questionnaire only covered the owners of about 16,000 acres of land then about two-thirds of this land is cleared and has been plowed. If the 16,000 acres is typical of the whole project then about two-thirds of the project has been cleared and plowed.

This means that many of the settlers who come in here will miss the first job that usually confronts the pioneer irrigation settler and that is clearing the land.

BEST LOVED WOMAN IN WORLD

This Is Tribute Paid Dorothy Dix

(Wynonah B. Johnson, in Holland's Magazine)

She's the highest-paid newspaper woman in the world. Does that awe you? And she's the best-loved woman in the world. Does that interest you?

This high-paid, best-loved, small lady familiarly and lovingly known across our country, in every corner, afar in China and in Hawaii and in India and Thibet and New Zealand and Africa and all 'round, is deluged with letters from all those points.

Mothers and maiden aunts and grandmothers and sisters write to tell Dorothy Dix of the comfort and peace and heart-healing her common sense and understanding and whimsical articles have brought them.

She's little and twinkly and white-haired and extremely bright-eyed and most expressive. She is exquisitely well groomed, and simplicity and artistry combined in the celection of her clothes and her few ornaments. Oh, dear, "ornaments" do not fit Dorothy Dix! They sound like jeweled stomachers or something. I mean the brooch which held her collar is of antique design, of old gold and topaz and pearl. And her house exactly matches.

Dorothy Dix is really Elizabeth Meriwether Gilmer, best-known writer in the world and a southern woman This winter she is back in her New Orleans home; she spends much time in New York; she recently made a "Joy Ride 'Round the World" and penetrated into all sorts of odd and interesting places, the while she was studying women, and their homes, and men and children, in every country. For it is concerning the problems, the joys and sorrows of domestic life that she writes mostly, and it is to the average woman, the housekeeper and homemaker, that she brings words of understanding and comfort and wisdom.

Mother may not know who Dreiser or Fitzgerald, or Mencken is; she may think "Potterism" a jazz-disease, and "Cytherea" a flower, but you can wager she knows what Dorothy Dix has to say about the effect of judicious absence on spoiled hurbands, and on naming babies, and treating flapper symptoms in small daughters, on Platonic friendship, and relations between sister's employer and sister, and on a sense of humor as a domestic lubricant, and on endowing children with a priceless gift—the love of books.

Well, mother reads what Dorothy Dix thinks about them, and though she may be a deep-feeling, taciturn lady, she writes and tells said D. D. so every once in so often. I know, for I've seen the mail man staggering with the contributions!

Dorothy Dix has the kind of house she advocates; a homey one. She has the advantage of having selected, or having had given her, many of the lovely things in it from all over the world, but I venture to bet—no matter how unladylike that sounds—that given, a chair and a rug and a piece or two of china and a vase and shelf of books, she'd set up housekeeping on a desert isle, and make a home in 15 minutes after the fire was burning. And if she were wrecked without these items, she'd probably evolve them from stones and sticks and leaves and twigs, and still have a homey home.

The whole house breathes taste and individuality, as does the little chatelaine who pours your tea, or regales you with southern Creole delicacies while relating her adventures or the fascinating histories of the things which have drifted to her home. Of course, her acquaintance in the literary, artistic and political world is extensive, and books, pictures and souvenirs of the great who's-who are unlimited.

"I always try to give a word of cheer; my articles are constructive wherever possible, and make for healing and comfort, or at least for the touch of humor which so often leavens the whole," averred the little lady. She has no fight with the young intellectuals and their orgy of realism, but she is a confirmed optimist and believer in the ultimate revival of simplicity and modesty in dress and demeanor and of the wholesome things which have made America what it is.

To come within reach of Dorothy Dix's magnetic personality is to recognize the sincerity of her, and the reason for her remarkable success in reaching and helping the "average woman," if there be such a creature, all over the world. The south has reason to be proud of her, for she is a typical southern woman exponent of the tradition of the south. The world has reason to love her, and following the waves of her influence over the land and water, one sees that she has come into her heritage, which like Ben Adhem's is that of one who loves her fellow men.

No woman in the world receives so many letters as does Dorothy Dix. They come to her from ever part of the world, and they coddle to her every possible variety of human experience. They ask her every sort of a question, from how to save one's soul to how to keep one's hair in crimp. Nor are these letters written only by the illiterate and unsophisticated. Just as many come from people of culture and worldly experience, and just as many of them are written by men as by women.

CHANGE OF LIFE LOSES TERRORS

For Women who Rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Pa.—"I took your medicine through the Change of Life and it did wonders for me. I was down in bed when I started to take it and weighed 96 pounds. I had hot flashes and was so nervous and weak that everything would get black and I could not see. I would sit and cry and did not know what I was crying for. Since I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel younger than I did ten years ago, and my friends all tell me I look younger, and I owe it all to the Vegetable Compound. I do all my housework for a family of seven now. I will be glad to answer any woman who writes me in regard to my case."—Mrs. JOHN MYERS, 55 Union St., Greenville, Pa.

Many letters similar to this have been published testifying to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They are sincere expressions from women who describe as best they can their feelings before and after taking this well-known medicine.

THE SENSELESS CAT

"At a Hallowe'en party, you must have one or two games that are played for prizes," stated Natalie Clipper thinking out loud.

Betty Cut-out, coming up behind her, cried, "Then play Senseless Cat!" It's a game of pinning a tail on a black cat when you're blindfolded Of course you're apt to fasten the tail anywhere from the lefthand whiskers to the bump on the back!"

"I have often practiced drawing cats" mused Natalie. "I'll make one from black paper with a separate tail!"

Paste the cat on the fence in Shady Lane, which is just inside the gate of your hat box. The owl and bat are for the poles of the Apple Line you will find tomorrow. Color the cats eyes green, and his mouth red, and the owl brown with a yellow bill.

Heart and Home Problems Solved

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is there any cure at all for jealousy when there is no reason to be jealous? I am nineteen years old and have been married eight months. At first when I was married I didn't love my husband and I prayed every night that I would learn to love him because he was so good. Now I love him too much and find I love him more every day.

He is nineteen too and very good-looking. Every one goes crazy about him. Yesterday three girls, their boy friends, he and I went for a ride. I was in the front with another girl and fellow. My husband was in the back. Little did I realize how greedy I am getting for I was so jealous. He paid attention to all of us but I wasn't used to his being so friendly with others. I must admit there was not a thing to make me jealous. I guess he noticed how I felt because he tried so hard afterward to avoid a quarrel, but I couldn't help telling him how I felt. He told me he could never even like anyone else and babies me. I took advantage of his kindness and kent it up and in the end he lost patience. I know I love him too much or I wouldn't be so ridiculous.

We are a happy couple, but if my jealousy keeps up I suppose it will cause trouble. Please tell me how to overcome it. BABY.

Your jealousy is a silly thing, and as you anticipate, it will bring you trouble unless you control it. When you know the right thing to do, why do you act contrary to your judgment and carry on your grievance until your husband loses patience.

The way for you to control your jealousy is to reason with yourself. It will help you to take a sane view of matters and stick steadfastly to the thought that your husband loves you and is faithful to you. Have too much faith in him to let yourself think he is false to you.

Close your lips tightly to expressions of jealousy. Do not irritate him by telling him how you feel and demanding an expression of his devotion when it is obvious that you are the one he loves.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am fourteen years old and a high school girl. There is a certain boy whom I admire very much and my parents seem to approve of him. He lives a little way out in the country, not far from my aunt's house. Many times when I have visited my aunt I have seen him and he has asked me to go for a walk with him alone.

I see him nearly every day at school but I have never gone walking with him. Do you think it right for a girl of my age to go out walking with a boy of the same age? My parents do not object. He has only asked me to walk with him in the afternoon and not at night.

WONDERING BLUE EYES.

It seems to me it would be all right for you to go walking with the boy. The fresh air and exercise might be good for you. Some young people would take advantage of such freedom and "spoon," but from your letter I don't believe you would.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Since baby came I have received many dear little presents from friends. I would like to know how I should thank my friends for them. Many live out of town, but not all. Should I write a letter of appreciation, or should I call and thank my friends personally where it is possible?

IN DOUBT.

A letter of appreciation would be all right in every case where you have received a gift. It would also be correct to call and express your appreciation personally. Now that you have the baby, however, your friends will know you are very busy and will not expect more than a letter.

Child-birth

WHEN the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA-75, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores.

Orioles and Blues Now Tied In Junior Series

BALTIMORE TAKES 8TH GAME WEDNESDAY, MAKING 4 EACH; NINTH AND FINAL TILT TODAY

By The Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24.—Slugging their way to victory over the Kansas City Blues of the American association here this afternoon, 9 to 5, the Baltimore Internationals climbed to even terms in the junior world's series. Each club now has won four games, and the ninth and deciding game for the minor league championship will be staged tomorrow.

The Orioles had on their batting clothes and hit three Kansas City pitchers—Wilkinson, Thormahlen and Saladna—at opportune times.

The game was played under weather conditions so damp and disagreeable that the handful of spectators were bundled up in overcoats and wraps, and Umpire Chill of the American association, officiated in overcoat and gloves. The turnstiles registered only 973 admissions and the receipts amounted to $547. The score:

THEY'RE PLAYING GOLF AT NIGHT

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 24.—Moonlight golf is the latest sport innovation here.

Several members of the North Hills Country club, who have been playing at night, said the only requirement was to stand still after hitting the ball so as to hear it drop. Midirons are used on all shorts. The other night three moonlight players turned in scores of 53, 55 and 56, respectively for nine holes, and only one ball was lost.

MANY FAVORITES BATTLE TONIGHT

Legion Sluggers Mix It at Opera House Ring

A bunch of old timers will grace the squared ring tonigh, at the opera house for the approval of all fins, in the Legion boxing tournament. There will be no titles given away, but the bill shows up several men who are known to relish giving and taking blows. Everything is set for the big show.

Kid Snyder, the Burkburnett old-time pastimer here, has been elected to entertain with Joe Rivers, the Fort Worth Mexican youth, it was announced last night by officials. Both Snyder and Mickey Savage of Sapulpa were on the waiting list to meet Rivers, and Snyder is the boxer chosen to step, after which he will journey to Amarillo for a bout. Rivers has a reputation at Cow Town ob being a flashy product, and this insures just such a match when he meets the Burk Kid.

Speedy Binyon and Jimmie Carroll are already in town, and the other entrants will come in this morning. Duke Trammell, the Fort Worth Hi boy who did so much to Alvin Williamson last week here, will be the second Panther City representative here, which will make appearances something like last Thursday night, the "Panther City Night." Dago Ryan, the well known boxer here from Dallas, will meet Trammell for the honor of rival towns. This with the Binyon-Carroll go will make the twenty-round double bill for tonight.

Preliminaries start at eight o'clock, in which the small boys will start the slug-festing. Rattlesnake Kid will be furnished with the Electra Tar Baby, which suggests another battle.

Managers Beattie and Waufford announced last night that the bill has been arranged to the best of their ability for the pleasure of all fans.

ture and patriotic. Then suddenly the character of our immigration changed.

"The problem of assimilation can not be measured by the 58,000,000 of native whites as against the 47,000,000 of alien and colored stock. The south is almost untouched by immigration. It is the east, the north and west that has received the inundation."

Preceding Dr. Evans' speech the only formal event on the program was the dedication of Hope Cottage, home for foundlings.

"So far as I know this is the only institution of its kind erected solely for the purpose of caring for the helpless babies that have come into the word unbidden," J. D. Van Winkle, exalted cyclops of the Dallas klan, presiding over the dedication, declared.

"Instead of indulging in tar and feather parties as our enemies have accused us of doing, we have said nothing and built Hope Cottage," he said, "and by a little attention to the election precincts a short time ago we gave Dallas the best city and county administration we have ever had."

Klansmen of Oklahoma were given a hearty hand when they arrived at the band shell. Wearers of the white and crimson uniform of the klan with masks rolled back, were interspersed through the crowds. Confederate veterans in uniform with distinguishing badges identified some of the members of the original klan.

Klan bands from all portions of the state and from five states of the southwest lent gaiety and color to the festivities.

Following Dr. Evan's address, athletic events were held in the stadium, and in the evening before the grand stand fireworks and a spectacular parade of klansmen and klan women in uniform was arranged with the public initiation ceremony taking place at 9 o'clock tonight.

A send-off for all outgoing delegations was planned for 11 o'clock tonight on Pacific avenue downtown. Vehicles were barred from the avenue in order that the long parade and street dancing might take place.

SUPREME COURT

The governor charged that W. D. McBee, speaker of the lower house, has disbursed money reported to have come from the ku klux klan to pay the expenses of members of the house who gathered here to conduct an impeachment investigation of the executive on September 26, only to be dispersed by the state militia acting under the governor's orders.

He condemned alleged star chamber methods of the legislature, but declared he could not believe that members of the senate impeachment court would refuse to consider or be bound by the testimony "in an effort to sustain any charge" backed by insufficient evidence.

"No matter what the future holds for me," Governor Walton concluded, "the principles of righteous government in this controversy mean everything."

The statement was addressed to "The people of the visible government."

Earlier in the day a message from the governor was read in the house, asking an inquiry into rumors that a large amount of money now is on deposit in a local bank to be used in influencing the impeachment vote of the legislators.

The governor referred to a recent newspaper article which quoted local klan officials as saying the $250,000 "to be used in the senate," already had reached here.

The house did not act on the executive's message.

Opening its meeting with the most bitter clash that has occurred in the special session, the house passed rapidly through the reading of testimony of several witnesses and then in quick sucession passed upon the five charges.

Here's 7 Strong Reasons Why Vandy Now Ain't What She Used To Be

The eyes of Texas were upon Captain Buddy Tynes, the gentleman standing with the ball under his arm, when he put the first feather in his captaincy by literally overwhelming Old Vandy at Dallas last Saturday. Tynes made the first touchdown. Braley, center, Joe Ward, and Morley, were a part of that Texas line which upset the dope and held the Commodores. Ed Bluestein, of Port Arthur, showed 'em how a light veteran linesman can scrap.

Punting the old pighide is "Big Os" Eckhardt of Austin, the shining light in Saturday's battle. Eckhardt flashed the entire game with his field running and brilliant punting. He made the second Texas touchdown. "Blue" Smith, former Cleburne Hi backfield star, is pointed out as Texas' future sensation, which may happen any time.

"What stroke do you use in a six-day bike race?"

Answered by
HAMMOND EGG.

Cycler to her majesty Queen Cauliflower of Cuba, champion six day potato racer of Ireland, holder of all world's records for bicycles, tricycles, icicles and Kiddie Kars.

I used the six beat trudgeon crawl in a six day bike race—one beat for each day. Or, if you can't get beets, get carrots, as they are as good for the complexion and a bike rider uses his complexion to slide on so often that he needs a good one. In mounting your steed, use a stepladder, and have some one hold that and the bike as well. Seat yourself gently in the saddle, place your feet in the stirrups, grasp the reins tightly with one hand and hold your whip in the other, then commence your six beat stroke. You must beat the bike six strokes with a riding whip, too, and if it doesn't shy at a piece of paper you are off. If it does you're off too. I had a bike once that was the city tacks collector, and found that a puncture a day kept the money away.

Neff Who "Never Fired A Gun" To Hunt Deer

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—Governor Pat M. Neff has received his 1925 hunting license, and will this winter go upon his second deer hunt. He will probably go to a border county, soon after the deer season opens. The governor, who had "never fired a gun," as it was said when Neff entered office, may be the first governor to bag a deer in the past decade. Neff went on a deer hunt last year and "winged" a buck, but did not succeed in killing it. So he is going back again this year with the purpose of bringing back some venison.

Swedish Railroads May Unite

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM—A proposal to organize the private railroads of Sweden, about 100 in number, into 12 large groups, has been submitted to the minister of communications by the chairman of a committee that has been studying this question for five years.

The private lines in Sweden carry 40 per cent of the traffic; the remainder goes over the state lines. It is believed that consolidation will result in improved service.

JURY FEE DISPUTE CAUSES REVERSAL

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 24.—Conversation witnin the jury room concerning attorney's fees, characterized by the court as improper, caused the supreme court in an opinion rendered today, to reverse a judgment obtained by J. A. Wilson of Waco against the Southern Traction company.

A discussion among the jurors as to the probable fee the plaintiff's attorneys would get was cited by the defendant company as error. Following the trail, one of the jurors made an affidavit to the effect that "except for the fact that he wanted to provide for Wilson's attorney's fees and other expenses to give Wilson about $7,500 he never would have consented to return a verdict for more than that amount."

The high court, in ruling that this was reversible error, declared that "verdicts of our jurors must be zealously safeguarded from all outside influence. The courts must maintain the efficiency of our jury system if that priceless system is to remain the pride of our race."

Exemption of charitable institutions from payment of taxes does not apply to property which is not used exclusively by them for charitable purposes, the supreme court held in reversing a judgment in the case of State of Texas against J. J. Stettegast, Jr., et al. This case involved taxes assessed against property of the Herman Hospital in Houston. While the hospital, now in process of construction, is to be used for charitable purposes, a number of cottages occupy a portion of the land. Rentals from these cottages are to be used by the hospital.

Pleads Guilty

By The Associated Press.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Oct. 23.—Embezzlement of postofice funds was the offense E. Dutro, former postmaster of Mission, Texas, today pleaded guilty to in federal court. The court passed no sentence. Dutro was relieved from office several months ago when inspectors discovered a serious shortage.

COYOTES WILL MEET DALLAS

McCallum Says Dallas Academy Agreed to Play Here Next Saturday

The Coyotes will meet Dallas academy here here Saturday, according to an agreement made before the Electra game. Dallas agreed to meet Wichita here if Wichita won the Electra game, and unless it is called off at the last minute by the academy, the contest will be staged, said McCallum yesterday afternoon. The Coyote mentor said that he is going to put on some good games here, both for the fans and the good of his team. Should Dallas not be able to come, Frederick, Okla., will probably be matched here, but such contingency is unlikely.

Wichita Falls high school will not play Vernon or Quanah next week or any other time through the middle of the season, unless the Coyotes want to, said Coach McCallum yesterday afternoon in explaining the decision given him while at Austin. Schools in the interscholastic league can now play any team they wish, until the final eliminations for their respective districts make necessary the play-off of a tie, according to the rules governing the league.

This does not mean the Wichita coaches do not want to meet the winner of the Vernon-Quanah game Friday, and will probably do that very thing if everything can be arranged suitably, was McCallum's statement in regard to the much-mooted question now centering on high school football in this section. Furthermore, should the game be played, it must not necessarily be played at Vernon, assuming that Vernon wins Friday, if that team will agree to play somewhere else. However, if Vernon insists upon their perogative in this matter, the game, if played, must be played there.

INVOLVE COX IN OIL FRAUD CASE

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24.—Herman Danielson of this city, a former employe of S. E. J. Cox, one of the 13 defendants on trial in federal district court here with Dr. Frederick A. Cook, charged with using the United States mails to defraud in furtherance of the oil promotion schemes, gave testimony this afternoon linking Cox with the activities of the Petroleum Producers association, Dr. Cooks' concern.

Danielson testified that he was in charge of drilling operations on one of Cox's leases in Stephens county and that the cost of the operations were paid for through drafts drawn on Dr. Cook.

He said that Cox told him that the average stock sale per day was between $1,000 and $2,000, but after he began writing it, the sales, increased to $5,000 a day.

Fred K. Smith, one of the co-defendants, said that 90 per cent of the stock sold was "sold by the literature written by Cox." Danielson testified.

John S. Swenson, inspector, testified Cox told him that he was preparing the literature for Dr. Cook's association and several other companies, and that his salary was $2,000 a week.

How can a defensive team often figure out in advance what plays the offensive team will use?

Answered by

KNUTE ROCKNE

Coach of football, Notre Dame University. Famous for his fighting teams beaten only twice in last four years.

A defensive team can often solve the offensive in advance by keeping in mind the down, yards to, position on the field, score and amount of time left to play. For instance, if the offensive have third down, one yard to gain near defensive goal line plenty of time to play, even score, it will not be likely that a sweep or pass will be used. On the other hand, with third down and ten yards to gain, there would not be much chance of their using a thrust through center.

RACE OFFICIAL DIES FROM SHOT

By The Associated Press.

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 24.—Fred W. Gerhardt of Detroit, prominent race track official, died in a hospital here tonight from wounds received Saturday when he was shot by Marion Webb, a trainer. His son, Fred W. Jr., and Mrs. Gerhardt were at his bedside.

Peter Callen of Toronto, another official who was shot at the same time, was reported on the road to recovery.

Gerhardt and Callen were judges at the North Ampton race track here. They suspended Webb for alleged inconsitent performances of his horses.

AGGIES SEEK S. M. U. REVENGE

Tilt at College Station This Saturday Promises Thrills

Special to The Record News.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 25.—As equipment in their fight against the Aggies at College Station, Friday, the S. M. U. Mustangs will have information on Aggie tactics that they have secured from scouting the Aggies in their fight against the Sewanee and Louisiana state university teams. And they have learned considerable for the Farmers showed something of their tactics in these games. On the other hand the Aggies will know little about the tactical methods of the Mustangs. Bible had had little opportunity to scout the pupils of Morrison and Freeland in action.

It is unlikely that the Mustangs backs will be able to penetrate the Aggie line. With Evans and Wilson at ends, Dansgy and R. O. Wilson at tackles; Forgason and Johnson at guards and DuBois at center the Farmers have what has proved in past contests to be an almost impregnable line. And for each of the positions Bible has a capable man in reserve. So with its flashy running attack foiled by the perfect defensive Aggie team, the Mustangs will give this sort of play a thorough trial Friday.

It is pretty safe to say that they will not succeed as Sewanee succeeded for Coach Bible has spent much time in training his team against this form of offensive, but in the backfield Morrison has a quartet of outstanding stars, including Henry, Reisor, King and Stollenwerck, who are dangerous at all stages of the game and may vary their attack to suit the occasion. They are capable of a versatile attack and may spring something that will ease the Farmers' troubles.

It will be the first conference game for both of the teams and the first visit to Kyle field for the Mustangs although the two teams have met on the gridiron for four consecutive seasons. It will also be the Aggies' first game of revenge. They have a year-old grudge to settle with the Mustangs. Captain Johnson and his team mates are anxious for an opportunity to wipe out the 17 to 6 defeat of last year administered by the S. M. U. eleven.

CANYON BUFFALOES READY FOR SIMMONS

CANYON, Oct. 24.—Coach Burton did not need to drive the Buffaloes in their training period Monday afternoon. They fairly dashed through signal practice after their decisive defeat of the University of New Mexico on Saturday by a score of 22 to 8. They are going after the Simmons Cowboys in grand fashion, says the bugs. The bugs, too, are going to make the pilgrimage to Cowboy town to see them do it. Several students and members of the faculty have announced their intention of watching the Simmons Cowboy-Buffalo clash. A meeting of the Baptist Students Union convention will enable them to get reduced rates to the game.

The Buffalo fans were elated over the victory which gives the Buffaloes revenge for a past defeat at the hand of the University of New Mexico by a margin of 13 points. The game Saturday gave the Buffaloes a one-point margin on the composite scores.

There are three squads of football players, all wearing the Buffalo colors, who are now training at the West Texas State Teachers' college. The Buffaloes, who are believed to be strong contenders for the T. I. A. A. conference championship, have a squad of about 40 regular men and in this squad is the Yearlings, a second team organization which plays the larger high schools of the Panhandle. Next there is the Calves, a squad of about 20 men who play the smaller high schools over the Panhandle, and last a squad of 15 grammar and freshman high school students, who style themselves the Doggies and are working on the same principle of football play as used by the senior squad, the Buffaloes.

DALLAS—Texas stands thirteenth among the states in mileage of electric railways according to official statistics with 973.69 miles. From 1917 to 1922 twenty four miles of electric railroad were built in Texas. From 1912 to 1917, 228 miles were built.

Grid Gambols

It's Wichita Falls, Vernon, Quanah, Strawn, Cleburne, North Fort Worth now for honors this district. Where will the Coyote strike next?

If the coach says we don't have to play Vernon or anybody else unless we want to, then we won't. Frederick, Dallas academy all look good as stiff practice for the boys these days, is the further promising remark made by the Coyote mentor yesterday. He says that the Wichitans need some good, hard games, and are going to register, forthwith. Looks like great grids in these parts from now to then.

Henrietta moves in with the Electra Tigers next Saturday, reports say. That will be at least the third good game in this part of the district this week-end. Electra lost to Wichita by three touchdowns and so did Henrietta, except that the Clay county team scored on the Coyotes. This should place the two teams on something like terms, thrown in with the fact that they are old rivals, also. Last year the Tigers were beaten by Henietta at Henrietta, and will no doubt go out to even up the story. The two passing machines will probably be a feature.

Coyote camp is filled with lots of slow pep this week and some sore spots that haven't healed since Saturday. Things began to pick up yesterday, however, when the men were told to prepare for scrimmage.

If the usual happens, there are about five teams now in the southwestern conference grid race: Texas, A. and M., Baylor, S. M. U. and T. C. U., Rice, Arkansas U. and Oklahoma A. and M., are those teams already under percentage. It is a seldom occurance that the winner of this conference which is growing stronger every year, loses a game in its winning year. Last year came the nearest, when Baylor won the honors with five straight conference wins, and losses, for had that team been defeated, there would have been another or two who could boast as good a record. Saying which, Rice et al have a chance yet.

NEW YORK. — Notre Dame will meet the Army and Princeton on successive Saturday's next year, it has been announced here. The Irish will play the Cadets here on October 18, and will go to Princeton on October 25.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — Mike Palm, Penn State star quarterback, has a badly injured hip and may not be able to get into the West Virginia game Saturday in New York. Johnny Patten is being used in his place.

ITHICA, N. Y. — Getting away from his usual state of gloom, Coach Bobie told his Cornell team he was "well pleased" over the defeat of Colgate. The squad will start work today for the next big game with Darthmouth.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Barchet, Cullen, MceKe and Flippin wil probably be in the Navy backfield in the Princeton game Saturday.

NEW HAVEN.—Getting ready for Brown, Coach Jones has made several changes in the Yale varsity team. Blair replaced Miller at tackle and Richeson was sent back to quarter. Steven's was moved up to O'Hearn's place in the backfield. O'Hearn, the great Yale star, broke his leg in last Saturday's game.

LAWRENCE, Kan.—The Kansans are back to intensive practice, concentration on an aerial attack. The Jayhawkers their inability to score on Nebraska last week to the fact that their passing game has not been fully developed.

COLUMBUS, Mo.—Secret practice was started by the U. of Missouri football team today in preparation for the game here Saturday with Nebraska. The Tigers' offensive will receive special attention.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Tackle subs will receive a trial today as Coach Zuppke picks a man to fill the vacancy in the Illinois line by injuries to Brown Saturday.

SINECURES' END BRINGS DISMAY

Spain, Under New Rule, Shows Many Changes

By The Associated Press.

MADRID, Oct. —The public pulse of Latin countries is beating true to form in Spain. The government has been overthrown by a coup d'etat, yet the excitement soon was over and today the crowd is busy as ever with its distractions and pleasures.

The cafes are crowded, and one can rarely find an empty seat at the out-door tables. Bull fights are to the fore, and will continue to attract crowds until the weather breaks. A roulette table, it is rumored, is to be installed at the Ice Palace by permission of the dictator, Prima Rivera, who is said to be not insensible to the attraction of the game. The well-to-do residents of Madrid have begun their exodus from San Sebastian, returning to the capital as fast as the limited train service can bring them.

Probably nothing has caused as much excited comment and speculation as the famous decree, the purpose of which is to make government employes do some work. It has been a veritable bombshell. It requires that all such men report at nine in the morning and be on duty until two in the afternoon. As a result the government buildings are overrun with strangers, stumbling over each other, asking where their offices are located, and when they find them wondering what to do. A caricaturist suggests that concentration camps be established.

Thousands of government officials, in the enjoyment of a mere pittance learned in the past how to reduce their output of energy to a minimum, often not exceeding the mere act of signing the monthly paysheet. Thousands more by means of an occasional "act of presence," as it is picturesquely called, in various departments managed to derive a multiplicity of incomes from many sources. Under this system sinecures for the relatives of cabinet ministers, down to the most distant degree, were easy to obtain and by a series of compromises often maintained while the party was out of office. Room on every pay sheet was found for a host of party supporters.

One particular instance, much commented upon, is worth mentioning. The hero, a man known in his proper sphere of operations as a journalist lying a party pen, had recently progressed so rapidly in his departmental connections that he might, but for his dismissal, now be faced with the problem of daily attendance in fifteen different offices, from all of which he drew an unearned salary. Another journalist's monthly pay had for many years been accounted for as "fodder for a mule."

The new decree has not spared those in high stations of life, and as a display of Draconian justice the initial act of Millan de Priego who, on taking over the duties of the home office, dismissed his own brother from a fine sinecure in the post office, calls for a tribute of respect. General Weyler's son has also lost a post believed to be especially lucrative.

Bars and Fences Have No Place In New Chicago Zoo

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—The physical and psychological atmosphere of their native jungle freedom, with woods, mountains and streams unchecked by metal bars and other evidences of restraint, are to be the surroundings of wild animals dwelling in the Chicago Zological Park colony, only a few miles from the center of this city. About 200 acres have been acquired some 12 miles west of Chicago's loop, and will be transformed into a land "conducive to happiness and longer life to animals" through the installation of the barless type of zoo.

Zoo specialists, architects and animal authorities from all over the world were called here to pass upon the tract, and the model ultimately experienced in the construction of other large zoos, George F. Morse, for many years head of the Boston zoo, will direct the Chicago plan.

Dens will be provided for the lions in which they will be able to move about at will, with no bars, the public being protected by concealed moats beyond which the animals cannot go. Goats and other climbing animals will be in enclosures where there will be crags and rocks and various other natural fixtures that will permit them to exercise their natural instincts.

The psychological effect of displaying wild animals apparently unconfined is said to be of great value not only to the public, but to the animals themselves. The prison atmosphere is removed, and the animals enjoy a degree of freedom which is conducive to happiness and longer life.

The construction methods employed to prevent the animals from escaping are novel. The sides and back of the various parks will be of some inaccessible rock formation, while the front will have a wide deep moat of water with smooth retaining walls which will give the animal no foothold, even if he should swim the moat.

In Collaboration With Russell Gore Writes On

CONCERNING HOBBIES

"He's all right," his friends said. "He has a hobby."

Everything had gone wrong with him—finances, family, certain friends. He seemed left alone with nothing to begin on. Yet everybody who knew him and liked him felt quite cheerful about him. "He's all right—he has a hobby."

What was his hobby? It had, in happier day, driven his family nearly wild. For on country roads, bowling along at so many miles an hour that it was a wonder his eye could be so quick, he would slow down and say: "Hold on, there's a clump of maidenhair I want!" Or it might be: "Bitter sweet! The first I've seen this year!" Or even it might be: "By Jove, I thought I caught sight of gentians——"

And if he did, he was off to the middle of the field where the slanting light had glowed for him on a flash of the unmistakable blue.

Then they would all berate him while he clambered patiently about and came back with grimy hands and an air of triumph which they could not understand.

Or they would go for a drive and abruptly he would leave behind him smooth wide cement and turn down a rutty road with no evident destiny.

"It's all right," he would toss back. "I think this is the place where those big Jack-in-the-pulpits were last spring—largest ones I ever saw. I want some roots of those."

Or he would disappear from the edge of the wood and be an endless time looking for a little rag which he had tied on a shrub when it was blooming, to mark it well so that he might return in the proper season, and dig it up.

When the family started off for a drive, he would be seen smuggling a trowel or a spade into the car, and then they knew that they were in for a peaceful interval, parked by the wayside.

"He's a botany bug," they told one another, "and it's a bore to the family. But there is nothing to do about it. It's his pet vice."

"I ought to have been a farm chap," he would say mournfully, "Or run a hot house. That's the only thing I really like. What are stocks—honestly now, what are stocks to shrubs?"

They laughed at him. But when the crisis came, all the same they were thankful for this resource of his. When ill health came, the doctors told him his hobby might save his life if he'd let it.

Like the old runner, he touched the earth and found his renewal. He had not only a hobby but an interest which touched open for him some door to eternal values.

Unhappy he who has no hobby horses to ride into reality.

Criminal Appeals Court Delivers Many Decisions

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—Sentence of twenty years for murder given Jesse Bradley in Limestone county was affirmed by the state court of criminal appeals here today. Bradley was convicted of killing Elisa Downie on June 18, 1922.

The case of James Hill of Bowie county, sentenced to one year in the penitentiary on a conviction of unlawfully transporting intoxicating liquor, was reversed and remanded by the court on the ground that there was not sufficient proof that the article in question was whiskey. Refusal to admit as evidence testimony of a witness that Hill when arrested had declared he had found the whiskey also was held reversable error by the court.

Because a juror was permitted to spend a night at his own home unaccompanied by an officer after a portion of evidence had been introduced the case of W. C. Embry of Montague county, charged with cattle theft, was reversed and remanded.

Motion for a rehearing filed by J. K. Freeman of Hopkins county, sentenced to 10 years for the murder of Walter Grayson, was over ruled by the court.

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—The following proceedings were had in the court of criminal appeals today:

Affirmed: Ex parte B. Hennington, Bastrop; Henry Cook, Barnet; G. Rambo, Burnet; Fred Retzs, Galveston; E. B. Donaldson, Hall; R. G. Gould, et al., Hardeman; Robert M. Johson, Harris; R. A. Burge, Jr., Harris; Early Tucker, Harrison; Horace Redding, Hopkins; Earl Pendergrass, Jones; G. C. Richmond, Jones; Ella Bradford, Tarrant; Marie Reed, Tom Green; John Boortz, Washington; Jessie Bradley, Limestone.

Reverse and remanded: Riley Alexander, Lamar; Jim Hill, Bowie; W. C. Embry, Montague.

Appeal abated: Rix Rutland, Harrison.

Motion for rehearing over ruled: F. H. Latson, Rockwall; J. C. Harrison, Cass; Cleve Brewer, Van Zandt; J. K. Freeman, Hopkins; Joe Ratliff, Delta; John L. Sullivan, Jefferson.

AMENDMENT IS FIGHT SUBJECT

Way Being Paved Preliminary to Opening of Congress

BY B. N. TIMMONS

WASHINGTON, October —A campaign to add the twentieth amendment to the constitution of the United States, and pave he way for legislation to prohibit child labor, is being vigorously prosecuted preliminary to the opening of congress.

Heretofore attempts to regulate child labor by federal statute, when successful have been declared unconstitutional. During the last congress several resolutions for constitutional amendment were offered but none were given consideration.

To meet the present situation, Representative John Jacob Rogers of Massachusetts has given notice of his intention to reintroduce his proposed amendment, giving congress authority to regulate the employment of minors, and it is understood similar proposals will be made by others. That one of the plans will be accepted appears to be certain.

The children's bureau of the department of labor has formally suggested that any amendment, adopted by congress, shall provide for congress to have the power to limit or prohibit the employment of persons under 18 years of age, and shall reserve to the states the right to establish higher standards than those which might be prescribed by congress.

Statitsics show that child labor is on the increase in the United States and that there was an increase this year over last year, and last year over the year preceding. The figures gathered by the children's bureau are based on the number of children receiving work permits, or employment certificates, but not including those issued for vacation employment.

Increases in child labor began during the war and reached the peak during 1918, but began to decline in 1920. The readjustment early in 1922 brought a new increase of child workers.

Ten states have more than 10 per cent of the children between 10 and 15 years of age gainfully employed. These states are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tenessee, and Texas. Illiteracy is above the average, and school attendance below the average in each of these states.

The total number of child workers in the United States is 1,060,858, or one in every 12 children of 10 to 15 years of age in the country. Most of them, or about 61 per cent are engaged in agriculture, forestry, and animal husbandry; 17.5 per cent in manufacturing and mechanical industries; 7.6 per cent in electrical occupations; about 6 per cent in trade; and about 5 per cent in domestic and personal service.

In the entire United States 8.5 per cent of all the children from 10 to 15 years of age are workers. Limiting the figures to non-agricultural occupations, 3.3 per cent of all children in the United States are found in such occupations.

States with the largest number of child workers are: Alabama 84,000; Arkansas 48,000; Georgia 89,000; Louisiana 32,000; Illinois 37,000; Kentucky 27,000; Massachusetts 34,000; Mississippi 70,000; Missouri 23,000; New Jersey 23,000; New York 50,000; North Carolina 62,000; Oklahoma 23,00; Pennsylvania 56,000; South Carolina 64,000; Tennessee 40,000; Texas 81,000; and Virginia 25,000.

States with the largest numbers in non-agricultural occupations are: Illinois 31,000; New Jersey 25,000; New York 47,000; Massachusetts 33,000; and Pennsylvania 50,000.

Since adjournment of congress the children's bureau has made investigation and report of child labor in mines in manufacturing, including industrial home work in Rhode Island, and in transportation and agriculture in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Has Suitcase Full of Evidence For Stokes Trial

By The United Press.

NEW YORK, Oc. —Edgar T. Wallace will take the stand today as a witness for Helen Elwood Stokes in her fight against the divorce action brought by her aged millionaire husband, W. E. D. Stokes. Wallace who arrived yesterday from San Francisco, said his testimony "will prove a surprise."

"I have a saitcase of evidence," he said, "that will blast any charges made against Mrs. Stokes and myself."

Wallace is alleged by Stokes to have entertained the latter's wife in his New York apartment on numerous occasions.

Heated arguments between the opposing counsels during the time Stokes was on the stand yesterday, marked yesterday's legal battle as one of the bitterest in the present trial.

The court came in for its share when Samuel Untermyer, chief attorney for Mrs. Stokes, took several sarcastic digs at Justice Mahoney, who threatened several times to adjourn the hearing if the former didn't curb his tongue.

COWBOY ROOTERS PEP UP LONGHORNS

Trial Judge Who Censored Klan Reference Upheld

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Oct. 24.—Refusal of the trial judge of Harrison county to permit a prosecuting attorney to refer to "the clan" in argument before the jury was commended by the court of criminal appeals today in a decision in the case of Early Tucker, convicted of cattle theft.

Tucker was indicted on a charge of branding a calf belonging to Charley Jackson. In arguing to the jury the prosecuting attorney made the following statement:

"If there is a member of this jury who is a member of any sect, organization or clan whose purpose and designs are the more rigid enforcement of the criminal laws of the state, you have an opportunity in this case to demonstrate your sincerity to the teachings and doctrine of such organization."

The trial judge reprimanded the prosecuting attorney for making the statement and instructed the jury to disregard it. In taking cognizance of this action of the trial judge the high court said:

"In view of the prompt action of the judge no reversible error is found."

The sentence was affirmed.

STATE U. PRESS COMPARES WITH BEST

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 24 — According to A. C. Wright, manager, the University of Texas Press is probably as well equipped as any other college press in the south. New equipment valued at $10,000 was installed during the past summer. A flat-bed duplex perfecting press was purchased specially for the printing of the Daily Texan, student newspaper, and was put into operation last August. A new model linotype was also installed.

Mr. Wright states that the new machinery greatly facilitates work. Printing the four-page Daily Texan was formerly an all-night process. Now 4,000 copies of an eight-page paper can be printed and folded in two hours and a half.

TEXAS ELECTRIC OUTPUT IS UP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The amount of electric current generated for commercial purposes in Texas, as throughout the United States, has shown a rapid increase since 1912, a report of the department of commerce, made today, shows.

Kilowatt hours of current generated by central electric light and power stations, and electric railways in Texas in 1922 were 839,950,000, as against 436,765,000 in 1917, and 212,867,000 in 1912, according to the census, and these figures do not include the output of electric plants operated by mines, factories, hotels, and the like, for their own consumption.

The amount of current generated in the nation for commercial general purposes in like manner for 1922 was 49,307,536,711 kilowatt hours, as compared with 32,678,806,061 kilowatt hours in 1917, and 17,621,800,000 kilowatt hours in 1912.

The rapid increase of use of electricity from central power stations has led Secretary of Commerce Hoover to suggest the establishment of large main stations which may serve states as a measure of business economy and fuel saving.

TO CHOOSE CITY OF CONVENTION

Nothing Yet Certain as to Where Gatherings Will Be Held

B. N. TIMMONS

WASHINGTON, October 24.—Within two months it will be known where and when the next national conventions of the Democratic and Republican parties will be held. If precedent and custom be followed, the republican convention will be held near the middle of June, with the Democratic convention following early in July. But nothing is certain yet as to where either convention will be held.

If precedent and custom be followed, the Republicans would hold their convention in Chicago. It has not always been so, but in recent years Chicago has come to be the regular convention city for the republicans. And there is reason to believe that a majority of the republican national committee at this time favors Chicago for next year's convention.

Had President Harding lived and been a candidate for renomination, Cleveland in all probability would have been selected for the convention, being the best equipped city in Mr. Harding's home state for the handling of a national convention. But since his death, Chicago has again come to the front, and Treasurer Fred Upham, of the republican national committee, has stated that, unless President Coolidge opposes the plan, the convention will go to Chicago.

Both national committees will meet in Washington in December, to determine the time and place of making their presidential nominations next year. It is now planned to have the republican committee meet during the week beginning December 10, and the democratic committee during the following week. At these meetings the calls for the national conventions will be considered and, unless unforeseen events interfere, the formal calls for the conventions will be issued.

While there is likely to be little or no controversy over the meeting place of the republican convention, it looks like a wild scramble for the honor of entertaining the democratic convention. New York and San Francisco both want to be the 1924 convention city, while several cities between them are also aspirants. Louisville, Ky., has placed a formal application with the democratic national committee for the next national convention, and if Kentucky this year elects William J. Fields, its democratic nominee for governor, the state might appeal to the national committee.

Cleveland and Washington both want a national convention this year, and probably both conventions will be invited to each of these cities. Cleveland will make a fight before the republican committee, which will meet before the democratic committee, and if it fails to land the republican convention will apply for the other. Washington will follow the same plan, and in all probability both will be among the contenders for the democratic convention.

New York was early in the contest, with a pretty active campaign under way to take the convention there. But there is a strong element in the party which would oppose New York, fearing the opposition would raise the cry of surrender to Tammany. New York probably would not be acceptable to the Bryan wing of the party, since that state repealed its own "dry" laws at the last session of congress, and its governor "Al" Smith is looked upon as a presidential aspirant. New Jersey, with its Senator Edwards, avowed "wet," is so close to New York that those opposed to any modification of the Volstead act probably would object to taking the convention into a section where modification is urged by a large element.

San Francisco is a model convention city, and its treatment of the convention crowd in 1920 won friends for the city from everywhere. But the populous east, with its larger number of delegates, might object to going so far away from home twice in succession. However, San Francisco, having had one convention, wants another and it has a habit of getting what it goes after.

St. Louis and Kansas City probably will be contenders for the honor of entertaining the convention next year, although formal invitations have not been received from them yet. Chicago would be glad to entertain the democratic convention, as well as the republican. But, if the republicans hold their convention in Chicago, the democrats probably would go to some other city.

While New York and San Francisco are both making earnest efforts to obtain the next convention, the democratic national committee may hesitate to select either city and may select one far from either coast as a compromise between them.

Each of the two national committees, at their December meetings, will be called upon to consider a radical departure from previous custom in connection with the national conventions. Final action in each case will rest with the respective conventions, but each committee will be required to give consideration to the subject before it is presented to the convention.

Reduction of the representation of southern states in the national convention will go before the republican committee; and the abolishing of the rule requiring a two-thirds vote of the convention in making a nomination will be before the democratic committee. Each is a departure from past customs and each will be bitterly fought, although it seems probable that both customs will be changed.

The republican national committee probably will try to side-step the issue of reduced representation in the south by placing the responsibility for the change on the last national convention, which is now a matter of history, with no present status. The last convention directed the national committee to formulate a plan for reducing the representation in national conventions of states which have few republican votes. The resolution adopted directed the national committee "to adopt a just and equitable basis of representation in future national conventions, which basis shall be set forth in the call for the next convention and be binding upon the same and all other future conventions until otherwise ordered."

The republican national committee has adopted a new basis of representation, by which Georgia and Mississippi each lose eight votes in the national convention, South Carolina loses 7, Texas loses 6 and Louisiana loses 3. On the other hand Tennessee gains 6 votes, New York gains 4, Massachusetts gains 3, Virginia gains one vote, and each state which cast its electoral vote for the republican national ticket in 1920 gains two votes.

The southern states thus reduced intend to protest against the action of the national committee, it is stated here. The committee is expected to ignore the protest, issue its call for the national convention upon the new basis of representation, and let the convention handle the protests. As the order of the last convention is binding "until otherwise ordered," the convention has the power to change the basis of representation and restore the old number of delegates to each state, should it see fit to do so. But it probably will not do so.

The democratic national committee, at its December meeting, will be urged to recomend that the time-honored rule, requiring a two-thirds vote of the convention to make a nomination, be rescinded by the convention. The move to permit a nomination to be made by a majority vote will be made by the friends of William G. McAdoo, who are urging the change, but there may not be a great deal of opposition to it.

Ever since Champ Clark had a majority of all the votes cast for nine ballots in the democratic national convention at Baltimore only to be beaten because more than a third of the delegates were controlled against him, there has been a strong sentiment among democratic leaders that a majority should rule. In 1920 Governor Cox received a majority of the votes in the democratic convention on two ballots before he got the necessary two-thirds and the nomination. At that time, a motion to abrogate the two-thirds rule and allow a majority to nominate was tabled, with the McAdoo forces opposing the change. Now they are leading the movement to bring about the change.

There has been a good deal of speculation as to whether the two-thirds rule would not effectually bar a number of the leading aspirants for the nomination, and it is believed by some there would be combinations which would prevent several of them from receiving two-thirds of the votes at any stage in the proceedings. The very fact that there may be several candidates who could be defeated by such combinations tends to strengthen the belief that the two-thirds rule may be changed. At any rate the national committee will have to give the subject consideration as its December meeting, although the convention alone can change the rule; and it will require a two-thirds vote of the convention to abrogate the two-thirds rule.

Altogether the meetings of the republican and democratic national committees in Washington in December will be full of interest for the whole country.

BONUS QUESTION AGAIN WORRIES

Some Predict Coolidge Will Veto It as Harding Did

By B. N. TIMMONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Among the difficulties in the emediate future for consideration by President Coolidge, and a problem which is causing more than a little worry to managers of the administration party, is the question of the soldiers' bonus.

With recognition that the adjusted compensation for soldiers of the world war is bound to pass, whether or not it receives approval by the president, those who must be responsible for it are today meeting to try to hit on some plan which will relieve the burden on the treasury.

Should President Coolidge veto the bill, as it is predicted in some quarters he will do, he will arouse the resentment of beneficiaries just as the late President Harding did, for the reason American Legion men hold they have the administration pledge for relief. On the other side are those who oppose the bonus on economic grounds, and this means the administration must try to find a way to finance the new expenditure without adding greater cost burdens on the people. Senator Smoot, now advocating the bonus bill, is one of those who declares it cannot be passed without provision be made at the same time for additional revenue, and this of course means additional tax in some form or other. Because of this view the Utah senator will again propose a form of indirect tax, similar to the sales tax he proposed two years ago, when President Harding refused to approve any bill which did not carry revenue producing features.

Without any hope of success, members of the next congress who will oppose the bonus measure as economically wrong, and as an unjustifiable "raid on the treasury," have prepared statistics to show, that without additional taxation immediately, a sum of $3,845,659,481 will be added to the national debt.

Advocates of adjusted compensation have declared the figures quoted to be nearly double the actual amount which will be required under the plan proposed, for the reason, which they give, that beneficiaries will not immediately avail themselves of the cash plan, under the five way proposal, while, if the certificate plan be employed, demand for government cash will run over a period of years.

As the bonus bill passed the last congress, which is believed to be the form in which it will come forth again, four alternative plans are provided for rewarding the veterans of the world war. Should all the veterans elect to receive under the same plan, according to the national industrial conference board which is opposing the proposal, adjusted service pay would cost $1,495,000,000; the farm home land plan $1,833,000,000; the vocational training plan $2,003,000,000; and the certificate plan, $1,486,645,975.

When the former bill was in process of hearing before the senate finance committee, it was estimated that 25 per cent of beneficiaries would elect the certificate plan, which would cost $3,364,900,481; the 22 1-2 per cent would come under the farm loan home land plan at a cost of $412,425,000; that two and one-half per cent would elect the vocational training plan which would require $52,325,000; and that cash payments would demand $16,000,000. Taking these figures the total estimated requirements are fixed at $3,845,659,581.

Based on the senate committee's figures, the conference board, states that $1,136,741,670 would have to be paid by taxation or by loans within 20 years; while $2,708,917,811 would have to be paid after 1923. Treasury estimates were that the first year's cost would be $145,000,000, the second year $225,000,000, the third year $114,000,000, the fourth year $312,000,000, and so on, exclusive of costs of administration.

While all questions of mlure of the adjusted compensation bill may be eliminated, as it appears today, it promises to be the most vexing matter of the next session; for with it will come demand for appropriations to cfera odrasbledi 00. b-ETAO ES 88 care for disabled and wounded soldiers; and pressure for passage of the Bursum pension bill, vetoed by President Harding, and carrying an annual outlay of approximately $40,000,000. All of these matters demand money and this may wreck plans to show economy in government.

BOY, 17, IS GOOD DAIRYMAN

Special to The Record News.

CANYON, Oct. ..—Harold Shanklin, a 17-year-old student in the vocational agricultural department of the West Texas State Teachers college holds a remarkable record in dairying, according to Professor Frank R. Phillips, head of the department of agriculture in the college.

Following his choosing of the agricultural course in the high school last year, Harold became interested in dairy cows. He secured a loan of $100 from his father for his first cow. Before the end of the year he had paid for the cow and had sufficient funds to make the first payment on an eight-cow dairy.

At present with the help of another boy, who like Harold, is paying his expenses through school, young Shanklin milks his cows, delivers the milk and is doing all of his required work in school.

Shanklin expects to be a full-fledged freshman by next September and after four years work in the Teachers' college will devote all of his time to the dairy business.

Court of Claims Will Hear Cases Involving Billions

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The court of claims has reconvened with a calendar of cases for the winter term which in the aggregate amount claimed and the novelty and importance of the issues involved, exceeds all litigation ever before pending against the government at any one time. The amount involved in the cases now pending is approximately $2,500,000,000, mostly arising out of the world war.

Claims filed against all departments of the government, among which are a large number that never have reached the court, include the following: the war department, in which claimants have filed claims involving approximately $5,000,000,000; the bureau of internal revenue, which has before it claims for rebates and refunds aggregating many millions; the shipping board, where the amount of cancellations alone amounted to over $850,000,000; claims for patent infringement estimated by the department of justice at $800,000,000; claims made by the railroads which as filed with the railroad administration amount to approximately $2,-250,000,000; claims proportionately large arise from the housing corporation, war risk bureau, food and fuel administrations, and there are also a large number of claims of a miscellaneous character.

The variety of the claims is almost unlimited. They include actions for requisitioning of ships and railroads, transportation of troops, ammunition and supplies, infringement of patents for high explosives, submarine boats and torpedoes, wireless and radio apparatus; contracts for anti-aircraft engines and guns, military and naval supplies and ammunition, appropriation of camp sites and naval bases, together with contracts for manufacturing and acts of commandeering of almost endless diversity.

Many novel and interesting questions are raised in the court, especially in suits for infringement of patents. The petition of one inventor claims $1,000,000 for the little pocket books of stamps which are sold at every post office. Another claims that as early as 1905 he invented a gliding machine involving the principles upon which every airplane operated by the government is constructed, and if successful he may recover $10,000,000. The sum of $995,400 is asked for infringement in the manufacture of torpedoes, and about $30,000,000 for radio apparatus.

One tent case is brought by a savings bank to determine the liability of the government for stolen government bonds and coupons, and if successful will result in other suits which, it is estimated, will swell the government's liability to $150,000,000.

Claims are made for injuries to person and property by mail trucks, and reimbursement is claimed by farmers for destruction of lands and crops by alighting mail planes. Owners of intoxicating liquor whose supplies have been confiscated by prohibition enforcement agents seek indemnity in money damages.

fresh Snowdrift in a new blue airtight bucket as easy to open as winding the clock!

THE only way to keep cooking fat fresh as the day it was made, is in an airtight tin.

An old fashioned airtight tin not only kept out the air, but it tried to keep you out, too. You had to tackle it with a knife or can-opener. The difference between fresh Snowdrift and ordinary cooking fat was worth the trouble—and more—

But the new Snowdrift bucket gives you freshness without the bother. It's absolutely airtight, but it's the easiest thing to open you ever saw.

The New Universities Dictionary

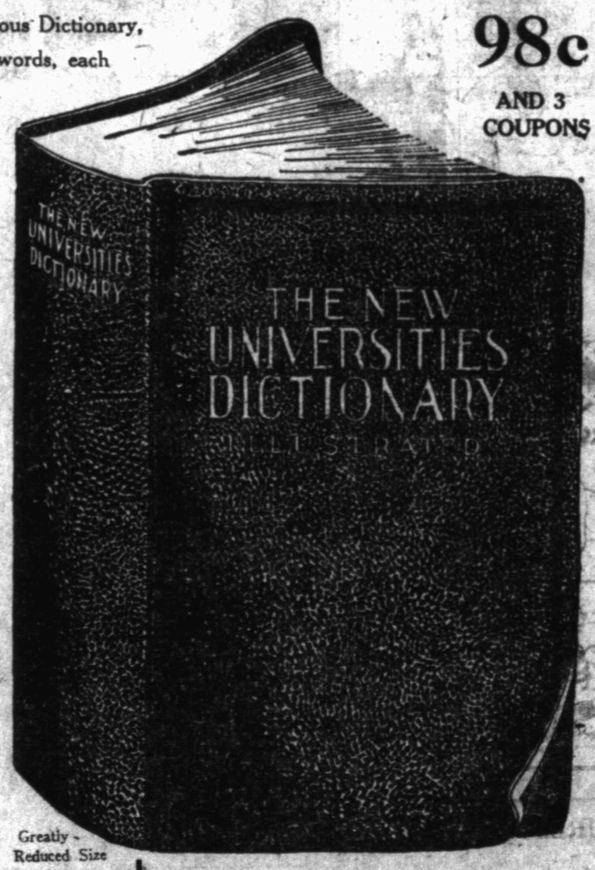

Has been recently compiled. Contains articles on uses and growth of to-day's English written by great educators of Harvard, Cornell, Columbia, Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania. Best Dictionary ever published.

EACH of these distinguished educators teaches readers of The New Universities Dictionary the use and growth of to-day's English. Their articles show how fashions in words changed and outgrew the old dictionaries. They tell every possessor of this wonderful book how to build and punctuate sentences—how to acquire refinement and force in speech and writing.

All previous dictionaries are out-of-date. This one, offered exclusively to readers of this paper, for a limited time only, is right up to the minute. You need it—your family needs it—your children need it every day.

All Previous Dictionaries Are Out-of-Date

Thousands of new words brought in by scientific, artistic, military and political changes since other dictionaries were printed appear clearly defined in The New Universities Dictionary. Get it promptly—supply limited.

QUIET MARKETS FEATURE STOCKS

Slight Improvement Is Noted in Foreign Exchanges

Total stock sales 551,000 shares.
Twenty industrials averaged 87.12; net loss .21.
High 1923, 105.38; low 86.92.
Twenty railroads averaged 81.10; net gain .08.
High 1923, 90.51; low 79.53.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Except from some sharp recessions in the copper stocks and low priced northwestern railroads, many of which dropped to new low levels for the year, stock prices moved within a restricted trading area, in today's relatively quiet stock market.

Liquidation of the coppers was based on reports that few of the producing companies were able to operate at a profit at the existing price of the red metal. One dozen stocks in this group either broke to new bottom prices or duplicated previous ones, among them American Smelting, Anaconda, Kennecott, Utah and Inspiration, the net losses averaging about a point each.

Good buying support was forthcoming for such pivotal stocks as U. S. Steel, American Can, Baldwin and Studebaker, which closed practically unchanged on the day, but operators on the long side of the market showed little disposition to lift them from the narrow area in which they have been moving.

The Iron Age, in its weekly review of the iron and steel trade, reports "some expansion in automobile manufacture, sustained structural steel activity, and, for Japan, buying and definite inquiries," while "in bookings of finished steel the rate so far in October approaches 10 per cent better than for the same period in September." The Bethlehem Steel corporation, in its report for the third quarter, calls attention to a "noticeable improvement in new business," in railroad building.

More time funds were available for 90 days maturities in the money market at five per cent, but business generally was quiet.

Cable dispatches indicating a weakening of the Rhenish separatist movement brought about a slight improvement in the foreign exchanges. Demand sterling advanced about 5-8 of a cent to $4.40, French francs sold around 5.82 cents and German marks which had been as low as one cent a billion, rallied to 1.2 cents.

Fort Worth Cattle.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24.—Liberal receipts were recorded in the cattle division Wednesday, approximately 5,500 head of cattle and 3,500 calves being yarded, but the count included around 1,700 head of cattle that were on through billing.

Buyers were late in starting. Bids were lower on everything, practically. Beef steers averged steady to 15 cents down, cows and mixed stock suffered a downward revision of about 10 to 15 cents and calves averaged fully 50 cents lower. Bulls sold on a steady basis. One car of good steers sold at 6.90. A good demand prevailed for bulls and prices were well in line with anytime this week. Carlots sold up to 3.50 and old bulls brought fair figures.

Brisk trading developed in the hog division, where receipts amounted to 2,500 head. Shippers and packers made purchases that were generally 10 to 15 cents above Tuesday's average, and secured hogs at the day's top, which was 7.35. Quality made a very good average. Most of the run was decent enough to clear at a spread of 7.25@7.35.

Pigs went scalleward with freedom at prices that remained unchanged. Good weighty lots brought 6.50 and the fairly useful kinds sold around 6.35.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

CHARACTERISTICS OF
LISTED BONDS	UNLISTED BONDS
(1) QUICK MARKET	(1) MORE SUPERVISION
(2) DAILY QUOTATIONS	(2) LESS FLUCTUATION
(3) WIDER FLUCTUATION	(3) MAY OR MAY NOT HAVE QUICK MARKET
(4) USUALLY BETTER COLLATERAL

A listed security is not necessarily better than an unlisted one. Each has its advantages.

The characteristics of listed and unlisted securities are shown in the illustration.

Listed bonds have several advantages. They have a quick ready market, their prices being quoted daily in many newspapers. This gives them a higher collateral value, particularly in the large financial centers.

The vast majority of unlisted securities do not have as quick a market as the listed, although there is a large volume of trading in them. Consequently an unlisted bond is not so likely to slump in sympathy with a general decline in the stock and bond markets.

In comparing the two, it is important, in the case of a listed bond, to analyze carefully the company issuing the securities. In the case of the unlisted bond, the bank or bond house selling the security must also be considered because the house behind the bond is going to watch it and make a market for it. A good house feels the responsibility of its bonds keenly while a poor one is only interested in making a sale.

WHEAT BUYING IS INCREASED

Proposed Meeting to Aid Farmers Affects Market

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Reports that several prominent grain traders were to go to Washington to confer with government officials about methods of helping farmers get higher prices led today to increased buying in the wheat market. Largely as a result, values although finishing unsettled, were at half to 3-4 cent net gains, with December 1.06 3-8 to 1.06 1-2 and May 1.11 to 1.11 1-8. Corn closed unchanged to 5-8 cents down, oats 1-8 to 1-4 cent up, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to 7 cents advance.

With fine weather for drying the new corn crop and with twenty cars of new corn in today's receipts here, the corn market eased down notwithstanding the upward tendency of wheat values. Oats, however, responded to wheat strength.

Provisions averaged lower because of lessened cash demand.

COTTON SEED OIL SUSTAINS REACTION

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—After reaching new high levels in the early trading as a result of covering, cotton seed oil sustained a sharp reaction under selling induced by easier lard and pressure from refiners. Closing bids were 2 to 10 points net lower. Prime crude 9.75@10.00; prime summer yellow spot 12.00 bid. October closed 12.35; December 11.03; March 11.08; May 11.20, all bid.

Field Museum Enriched By Fine Malay Exhibits

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO.—The Malayan expedition of the Field Museum of Natural History has returned with more than 3,000 new specimens for the extensive collections now on exhibit in the institution. Officials of the museum announce the most complete Malayan and southeastern Oriental display in existence.

The expedition spent 16 months in the Malay region, under the leadership of Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole. It explored the mountain jungles of the Malay Peninsula and brought out full collections showing the life of the pygmies and other wild tribes which inhabit those little known regions. The party penetrated also to the center of Borneo to study the customs of the head hunting Dyaks.

Among other trophies brought from the interior of Berneo is a carved 10 foot pole representing a powerful chief who died about 40 years ago. At the time of its erection a number of slaves were sacrificed and "fed" to the image and, until recently, a similar sacrifice was made to it each year. Its removal was accompanied by a festival and sacrifices to the ancestral spirit, who is henceforth to dwell in the field museum.

Rich collections of silver, gold and brass work, jewelry, wood carving, embroideries, and weaving in gold and silver thread, batik work and weapons, were obtained from the more advanced Malay peoples of the Federated Malay states, Sumatra and Java, while an interesting and valuable collection was obtained from the Batak of North central Sumatra.

The Batak are a powerful pagan people just emerging from cannibalism, and the collection shows many grewsome reminders of that period. Idols fitted with compartments for the reception of human brains, magician's staffs elaborately carved and made powerful by the sacrifice of captives, magical charm books, and huge house carvings make up a part of this addition to the museum's collections.

WEATHER TURNS COTTON MARKET

Market Closes Steady After Wednesday's Fluctuations

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. — Cotton futures closed steady on near months barely steady on distant.

	High	Low	Close	Prev.
Oct.	30.50	30.00	30.50	30.35
Dec.	30.32	29.95	30.12-15	30.15
Jan.	29.90	29.48	29.60-65	29.80
March	29.93	29.55	29.70-73	29.85
May	30.04	29.66	29.75-80	29.91

Opening: Oct. 30.35; Dec. 30.12; Jan. 29.70; March 29.74; May 29.78.

NEW YORK Oct. 24.—Early declines were followed by an advance which carried all months into new high ground for the season in the cotton market here today. After selling up from 29.97 to 30.37 for December, however the price eased off to 30.10 compared with 30.17 at the close yesterday. The general market closed steady on nearby, but barely steady on distant months with prices net 15 points higher to 40 points lower.

The market opened barely steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 16 points and sold 22 to 35 points net lower during the early trading under realizing and scattered offerings from the south.

The market turned firmer during the middle of the day on very unfavorable weather reports from the south and bullish private crop figures. Early sellers covered while there was replacing of long contracts on the advance which carried October up from 30.00 to 30.50 and January from 29.48 to 29.90 during the afternoon.

There were ten more October notices which accounted for the relatively easy ruling of that month during the early trading but they appeared to be stopped before the end of the morning, and at the close October showed a premium of 40 points over December, compared with 18 points at the close of the previous day. This near month strength probably promoted the advance of later deliveries, but the close was some 25 to 30 points off from the best on December and later months.

Exports today 15,424, making 1,422,545 so far this season. Port receipts 38,886. U. S. port stocks 716,049.

Special to The Record News.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—While new high levels for the session were made by cotton today, the market finally ran into a great deal of realizing from the long side under which it reacted and closed at net losses on the session of 12 to 18 points, the closing range of sales of December being from 29.67@29.72. At its best, December traded up to 29.93. A large local trader was credited with being a heavy seller in the late session.

Extremely unfavorable weather news, reports of snow in some northern portions of the belt and the forecast of more snow, rain, frost and freezing weather to come over wide areas were back of the buying movement of the day. The weather conditions over the belt appeared to stimulate the output of small crop estimates and one private guess of 9,968,000 bales appeared while another put the yield at only 9,950,000 bales.

Following a rise to 29.90 on December on the opening, the market sagged and on this initial downward movement went 23 to 26 points under the close of yesterday, to 29.57 for December. Here new strength was taken on and a rally carried the market to 29.93 for December and to net gains on the list of five to 13 points. Following this period of strength the tendency was to sag under realizing sales by longs.

Musical Shows Give Way to Shakespeare in Berlin

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, — Shakespeare figures prominently in autumn offerings of Berlin theatres, most of which have abandoned the sketchy musical comedies which drove legitimate drama out of the German capital throughout the summer. "Merchant of Venice," "As You Like It," "Merry Wives of Windsor" and "Midsummer Night's Dream" are already being offered in four theatres and "Macbeth," "Othello," and virtually all of the best known Shakespearean tragedies are scheduled for production later at the State theatre and various independent play houses.

The productions are not new and many of them are doubtless revived because of the low earnings of the theatres under the financial crash and the inability to make new productions. However, German audiences never seem to tire of the classic drama. "William Tell" is now being offered in two Berlin theatres. "Faust" seldom fails to draw a crowd. Lessing's "Nathan the Wise" is also a steady favorite. Old plays and old operas apparently appeal to Germans more than modern products.

Stock companies live on indefinitely in Berlin as well as in provincial towns, playing only old favorites. Drama and opera alternate in the smaller cities, and the only variety afforded is through visiting stars who interpret the leading roles. Oscar Wilde and Bernard Shaw plays have reappeared this season in many of the theatres and "Charley's Aunt" has been revived. "Man and Superman" and "Lady Windermere's Fan" have been played almost constantly in Berlin for many years.

Three Berlin theatres are now devoting all their time to Wagner and other grand operas. It is not uncommon to have three Wagnerian performances in the German capital the same night, as well as Wagnerian concerts.

War Monuments Keep Marble Cutters Busy

By The Associated Press.

BRIEULLES, France—The track of war along the river Meuse, between Verdun and this little city, where there stands a monument commemorating the capture of the place Oct. 9, 1918, by the Third American corps, furnished evidence of the stimulation that the war has given to the marble cutting trade.

Thirty thousand monuments have already been erected by the French to their dead ,and this department of the Meuse, where the French fought the Battle of Verdun and where the Americans fought the battles of the Argonne and Meuse, has its share of them. An enumeration of the positions around Verdun and along the Meuse where there occurred actions deserving commemoration would be tiresome. The marble cutter has work ahead for him there for many years.

It is in this region, also that the Americans find more occasions than anywhere else to commemorate the participation of their troops in the war. It was here that the American forces, as separate units did the greater part of their fighting. Some monuments have been put up by American divisions and American corps.

German monuments are more numerous than American. They were erected during hostilities. Where they mark the resting place of German soldiers they are respected, but those that seem to have been erected to the glory of the German armies are being destroyed.

Money in Banking But John Prefers Barbering

Special to The Record News.

SAN FRANCISCO.—John Kerment of this city prefers to be a barber in the United States than a banker in Jugoslavia, and he proved his statement by giving up the vice-presidency of four banks in Jugoslavia and returning to San Francisco, where he is again manipulating a razor.

Kerment, better known as "John the Barber," left here three years ago for his native Jugoslavia. He carried with him $11,000 in American money, which he exchanged for 2,000,000 crowns. Having become a "millionaire" overnight, John started a bank at Viriratica. The institution, capitalized at 5,000,000 crowns, grew and three branches were added. The San Francisco barber became vice-president of the group, being in charge of the branch at Zarget, Croatia.

"We made money, and while I like the banking business better than the barbering business, I didn't like the unsettled condition of the country," explained the barber-banker on his return here. "Everybody in Jugoslavia wants to be a general and shoot somebody. Nobody wants to work. Every morning I would shake my head to see if it was still on my neck.

"After I had been there for several years I learned that I would lose my citizenship in America if I stayed any longer. I wouldn't lose that for a dozen banks in Europe, so I quit and came back to San Francisco to reenter the barbering business."

STOKES' WITNESSES ARE CONTRADICTED

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Testimony of several of W. E. D. Stokes staunchest witnesses was contradicted today by a group of witneses for Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes at the re-trial of the wealthy hotel owners suit for divorce.

May Corkery, formerly secretary to Mrs. Emma Goodwin in her corset shop in the 35th street apartment house where Edgar T. Wallace, principal co-respondent lived, denied she had been present with Mrs. Goodwin when Mrs. Stokes entered the shop to use the telephone.

Mrs. Margaret Pell, who bears a striking resemblance to Mrs. Stokes, asserted she was at the eBthel, Conn. home of Thomas W. Brander, manufacturer, about the time witnesses for Mr. Stokes swore they had seen his wife there with Wallace.

PREPARES FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHT

By The Associated Press.

COPENHAGEN. — Lieutenant Crumrine of the United States air service has left here for Greenland to investigate the possibility of using the Danish Crown Land as the stage for the eventual American military seaplane attempt to cross the Atlantic next summer from New York to England. It is planned to use Labrador, Greenland, Iceland and the Faeroe islands as stopping off places, if necessary.

Lieutenant Crumrine also will visit Iceland and the Faeroe islands.

RAT MITES ARE A TEXAS WORRY

Outbreaks of Pests Are Coincident With Big Rat Invasions

Bites from a mite, a known parasite of rats, have proved an annoyance to a great many people in the south. The trouble has been particularly prevalent in certain localities in Texas and Mississippi. In some instances it has been acute, causing the expenditure of much time and money in efforts to combat it, and, in certain cases compelling the abandonment of parts of buildings.

Outbreaks of this pest, it has been observed, are coincident with the presence of many rats, and the repression of the mite appears to be essentially a problem in rat-control. Department circular 94, "The Rat Mite Attacking Man," by F. C. Bishop, entomologist, recently issued by the United States department of agriculture, deals with the life history and habits of the mite and the character of its attack on man. It has not yet been shown that the mites carry disease, but their bites are distinctly painful and annoying. Both nymphs and adults attack man freely, crawling and running about over the body, and biting here and there, especially on the upper arms, legs, and around the belt or in other places where there is some constriction of clothing.

In the city of Dallas rats began to appear in unusual numbers in 1920 and 1921. Even newly constructed buildings of steel and concrete were overrun, and residences in which a rat had never been seen before were frequently invaded. The mites seem to have been confined to buildings in the business sections of the city rather than to residences. Apparently they feed largely on the young or adult rats while they are quiet in their hiding places. Then hungry the mites crawl about, passing from one floor to another along pipes, in search of food.

In addition to a continuous and energetic warfare against rats, the bulletin recommends the cleaning out of all debris and nests and a thorough spraying with kerosene. On floors a mixture of one part anthracene oil with two parts kerosene has been used, with success to destroy and repel mites for several days. A fine mist spray of gasoline on cabinets, desks and shelves gives temporary relief. Fumigation with hydrocyanic gas is also recommended if done by an expert.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

THE STATE OF TEXAS.
County of Wichita.

By virtue of an order of sale issued by order of a judgment decree of the 78th District Court of Wichita county, Texas, by the clerk of said court, on the 8th day of October A. D. 1923, in a certain suit No. 11034 1-2 B, wherein the state of Texas, is plaintiff, and H. W. Wiseman, Geo. McDaniel and J. P. Brunton, trustees for the city of Electra, Texas, C. W. Anderson and S. S. Walker & Son Lumber Co., defendants, in favor of the said plaintiff, for the sum of Forty-two and 78-100 dollars for state and county taxes, interest, penalty and costs, with interest on said sum at the rate of six per cent per annum from date fixed by said judgment, together with all costs of suit, that being the amount of said judgment rendered in favor of said plaintiff by the said 78th district court of Wichita county, on the 12th day of September A. D. 1923, and to me directed and delivered as sheriff of said Wichita county, I have seized, levied upon, and will, on the first Tuesday in November A. D. 1923, the same being the 6th day of said month, at the court house door of said Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. on said day, proceed to sell for cash to the highest bidder all the right, title and interest of said defendants in and to the following described real estate, levied upon as the property of said defendants, the same lying and being situated in the county of Wichita and State of Texas, to-wit: Lot No. 9 in Block No. 127 of the original townsite of the city of Electra, Wichita county, Texas, or, a sufficient portion thereof to satisfy said judgment, interest, penalties and costs; subject, however, to the rights of the plaintiff for any other or further taxes on or against said property that may not be included herein, and the right of redemption, the defendants or any person having an interest therein, to redeem the said property, or their interest therein, at any time within two years from the date of sale by paying double the amount paid for said property, and subject to any other and further rights the defendants or anyone interested therein, may be entitled to, under the provisions of law. Said sale to be made by me to satisfy the above described judgment, together with interest, penalties and costs of suit, and the proceeds of said sale to be applied to the satisfaction thereof, and the remainder, if any, to be applied as the law directs.

W. W. MURPHY,
Sheriff Wichita County, Texas.
Dated at Wichita Falls, Texas, this 9th day of October, 1923.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF TEXAS: To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon J. W. Neely by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the county court of Wichita county at law, Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof, in Wichita Falls, Texas, on the first Monday in December A. D. 1923, the same being the 3rd day of December A. D. 1923, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 4th day of April A. D. 1923 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 6011, wherein Sol Meyer and Sol Kiser, composing the partnership of Meyer & Kiser, are plaintiffs, and J. W. Neely defendant, and said petition alleging, in substance the following:

That defendant is indebted to plaintiffs herein in the principal sum of $215.98 as evidenced by his certain seven promissory notes executed on August 16th, 1922, and payable to the order of plaintiffs; six of said series in the sum of $31.00 each and one in the sum of $29.98, the first of this series is due February 15th, 1923, and one each month thereafter until all are paid and each note drawing interest after maturity at the rate of eight per cent per annum and each note provides for a 15 per cent attorney fee in case suit is brought etc., and each note, on its face, provides for the holder to declare the whole of the series due, payable when default in the payment of any one note when due, and the plaintiffs have elected to so declare. That to secure the payment of said series of notes at maturity, defendant executed a chattel mortgage upon one Ford automobile, model T, motor No. 6305904, style roadster, 1922 model, cylinders 4; that plaintiffs have placed said notes in the hands of Orus O. Ross, an attorney, and have promised him the 15 per cent attorney fees provided for in said notes.

Plaintiffs pray for citation, judgment and foreclosure of their lein on said automobile and for costs for suit, etc.

Herein fail not but have before said court, at its aforesaid regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, on this 2nd day of October, A. D. 1923.

ALMA Y. MILLER,
Clerk, county court at law, Wichita county, Texas.
By M. F. Yeager, deputy.

NOTED SPEAKERS WILL BE HERE

Welfare Convention Next Month Brings National Authorities

Mrs. E. B. Gorsline Jr., local welfare secretary Wednesday said when the Texas conference of social welfare meets here next Nov. 4 to 7, the leading welfare experts of America will be present.

Among these will be the following:

Miss Emma O. Lundberg, director of social service division, Children's bureau, United States department of labor, Washington, has done most notable work on the legal protection of children born out of wedlock. The problems for which she stands are condensed in the following statement quoted from one of Miss Lundberg's speeches at the national conference of social work held at Providence, Rhode Island in 1922. The quotation follows:

"The child born out of wedlock constitutes a very serious problem, and for this reason special safeguards should be provided. For these unusual reasons both parents should be held responsible for the child during its minority, and especially should the responsibility of the father be emphasized."

This statement is an echo from the conference of commissioners on child welfare standards. There is no problem in Texas that should receive more careful thought than this neglected problem of children born out of wedlock. Miss Lundberg has appeared before every prominent welfare conference in America and is accepted everywhere as an unusual well informed woman on child welfare.

C. C. Carstens was for many years, general secretary of the Massachusetts society for the prevention of cruelty to children. He is now director of the child welfare league of America, the object of which, is to promote methods of caring for dependent children either in institutions or in family homes. Mr. Carstens is known as the "Consultant" for child welfare agencies all over America. The stand which he has taken may be well indicated by the following quotation: "A state cannot be considered well equipped until it has a department of child protection which shall not only be ready to protect the child in any individual case, but which shall also be an alert agency in the development of a better world for its children."

Miss Margaret J. Carey of the child health organization of America has been successful in dramatizing health. She will give a play which not only will be beautiful to look at but which will teach the children of Wichita Falls the great value of the personal habits that will make possible the preservation of physical health. Miss Carey represents the child health organization which was founded by Miss Sally Lucas Jean. Miss Jean has probably done more to arouse interest in public health for children than anyone else in America. In a recent address Miss Jean says:

"Boys and girls are just as much interested in [illegible] as we strive to make them. As social workers we must help create a community demand for child health."

Clifton Beasley of Sulphur Springs, was chairman of the house committee on eleemosynary institutions of the last session of the legislature. Mr. Beasley has been making definite study of the conditions in the eleemosynary institutions and as a member of the commission appointed by the governor to investigate these institutions he has a remarkable opportunity for making constructive suggestions. His interest in the Texas conference of social welfare and his willingness to appear on the program is most encouraging, indicating as it does, that the legislators recognize the great importance of social work and class themselves as social workers. Mr. Beasley's splendid enthusiasm for the cause will undoubtedly crystalize in improved legislation for the state.

Old Home Town Stuff

THINGS YOU SAY, DO AND SEE AND SOME YOU DON'T

Over the wires: Empire Cliff officiated today in overcoat and gloves at the tie game between Baltimore and Kansas city, at which over three hundred people attended. A chill wind swept the park during the contest.

Our sporting telegraph operator says that today's Baltimore-Kansas City box score is the record for late season baseball dope of that sort. If rain and cold snaps keep holding back the games in the latte world series, there will be another record-breaking late season box score, the lead to which will read something like this:

X win the little world series today 26 to 25, in a game featured by X's shut into home plate with the winning run after the ball had been lost in a snow bank just off second base. The game was witnessed by a record crowd, a drunk, a robin, and the two umps. Nine pitchers were used by each club each one lasting an inning before being driven to the stove. Pitcher A. was ordered from the field twice after fanning three men, when it was discovered that he was using a banned delivery, the snow ball.

Y lost her chance to tie the score in the ninth after a thaw by Pitcher B. when shortstop B failed to touch third while sliding from second to home on a blow at second. The hit ball struck the ground at second and bounced over the park wall.

Eighteen infured shins were sustained as a result of fielders trying to stop grounders.

Outside of a blue blizzard the final day was a typical southern cotton-patch scene

Here's an excuse, boys, that is not noted for its superabundance of whiskers and gray hair: Tell the wife that you have been out at a long session of moonlight golf. They're doing it in St. Louis.

WO-OO, Hallowe'en. A snow window displays the spirit of Hallowe'en riding a bike through a cornfield, down between the furrows, with the corn stacked all around. Perched upon a ghostly shining punkin-head is an old silk topper. Ghosts make gay in the fields in the bright of the harvest moon, says the startling wide grin on the face of the figure. It may be seen at the Grover Bullington bicycle shop.

There once was a young Irish Spalpeen
Who woke from a late summer's night dream—
The dream was a flivver,
There being no spook,
But he knew it was drawing near Hallowe'en.

Thad Gill, who is employed in the Archer oil fields, was in town yesterday, returning from a visit with home folk at Henrietta.

Thaviu's Band Will Depict Ballet Origin

Ballet dancing is a species of dance in which a company of trained performers, either singly or in groups, interpret music by means of the choregraphic art. The earliest ballet performances of which there is a record was in Milan, at the wedding of the Duke of Milan to Isabel of Aragon, 1489. The home of the modern ballet was undoubtedly Italy where it was first employed as a court spectacle. From Italy the ballet was carried to the French court in the time of Catherin d'Medici.

In 1758 appeared the publication of Jean Noverre's "Letters sur la danse et les ballets" which revolutionized the form of ballet dancing.

The first movement in Russia toward the formation of a ballet was when Czar Alexius in 1672 ordered Johan Gregory to collect performances of the dance. In the reign of Czarina Anne, 1730-1740, C. Friedrich Wellman was ordered to secure recruits for public entertainments, and 12 ballet masters were appointed. This was the beginning of the ballet dancing school of St. Petersburg.

When Thaviu's band comes to Wichita Falls, Monday evening October 29, there will be an opportunity to see some products of this school of dancing.

With the group is the solo dancer, Suzanne Berentes, a native Russian girl who has studied in the St. Petersburg school of ballet dancing. With her are Misses Elsie Boquist, Rose Laevel, Yvette Deeter, Phi Delta Evans, Dorothy Lynch, Clare Wales, and Ruth Gilbert.

Thaviu's band is noted for its entertaining performances, and press reports from various sections of the country say that his organization is one of the best in the United States. The band numbers 32 pieces, of which Thaviu himself is director. The grand opera division of the company has six members, the cast being Mrs. Lillian Cummings, soprano; Mme. Juluis Revueltas, contralto; William Greene, tenor; Sebastian Burnetti, baritone; H. Bing, baritone; and Arthur Dean, basso.

The concert will take place in the Maskat Temple located on the fair ground. Street cars will be operated here going to the entrance of the ground. The stage at the Temple is the largest one in this section of the country, and it will afford ample space for the great organization, Thaviu's band, when it appears here.

STANDARD CLUB HAS SPLENDID PROGRAM

The coming state convention of Federated Wocet at the meeting of the Standard club Tuesday afternoon, at the library. Much enthusiasm was manifested in the discussion.

Frank Dunby's "Pigs in Clover" was the subject for an interesting program conducted by Mrs. T. M. Conrey. "Modern Realism" was discussed by Mrs. J. M. Isbell and "Technique of the Novel" by Mrs. Conrey. Mrs. C. W. Staley read a paper on "The Author's Outlook on Life." All other subjects were given over to general discussion.

Mrs. J. M. Isbell was appointed vice-president of the club to fill a vacancy caused by a resignation. Mrs. S. B. Daniels was elected to active membership and Mesdames F. E. McConnell and J. L. Downing to associate membership.

The following members were present: Mesdames A. D. Patillo, O. M. Di Siere, C. C. Parfet, R. W. Gutzler, R. D. Ford, S. S. Conn, T. M. Conrey, C. G. Murray, E. E. Fischer, R. A. Lincoln, C. E. Bailey, J. M. Isbell, T. P. Kelm, G. H. Wilson, Anna Witherspoon, A. C. Price, J. E. Shipley, and Miss Cheila Hendrick. Mrs. Shipley had as her guest Mrs. J. B. Fletcher.
