CoC Opportunity . . .

We have not learned the plans of County Agent L. C. Herron and Vocational Teacher E. F. Schmidt regarding the 4-H and FFA spring stock show set March 3. We are observing what other towns are doing with their club stock shows. Here is a good opportunity for the chamber of commerce to promote some good will and get some favorable publicity. We wonder what their plans for prizes for this year's show are. Recently we read that Lubbock directors were planning to change the premium prize awards in the South Plains show and give more specific awards for outstanding work. As we said, we do not know what the local 4-H and FFA directors have planned, but personally we would like to see something more valuable than ribbons given as prizes this year. For those boys and girls who are not ready to sell their calves or other stock, winning in the local show can be rather empty. Local people worked hard on the South Plains fair in Lubbock last year. Why not put out a junior stock show in Garza county? Excellent judges are always secured by the directors. Lynn county manages to have some civic organization sponsor their show. How about it, chamber of commerce?

ROGER W. BABSON WRITES THIS WEEK

Some Stocks Reach Record High Now Ranging up to 245, from 93 in 1942.

BABSON PARK, Mass. —Have just telephoned an important brokerage house in New York City to ask its opinion on the stock market. The reply was: "We guess the market is finally getting high enough for the public to buy."

The Dow-Jones Industrial averages struck a high of 381 in 1929; they fell to 41 in 1932; they rose to 194 in 1937; fell again to 93 in 1942; rose again to 212 in 1946, from which they declined until a few months ago. They are now around 245, the high for 20 years; but this statement applies to only 30 stocks out of over 1,000 stocks.

Many good stocks are now selling for less than they did in 1946, or earlier. Many people say: "All stocks have gone up except those which I hold. What is the reason?" The truth is just the reverse of this. Only a few stocks are selling at their 20-year highs.

All the above causes the wisest investors to be neither bullish nor bearish just now. They believe stocks are good for income, but not for speculation. The stock market is very selective and the war outlook is very uncertain—either way. We are doing right to prepare actively for World War III, but it may not come for years. Our hurried preparations may be useless.

Mr. Hoover apparently believes that, unless there is a revolution in Russia, all of Europe—war or no war—may, for a period of years, try Communism and that no War III can prevent it. He also thinks that the Russians now have no intention of striking North or South America unless we attack Russia. He Expediency and Compromise . .

We make no pretense about our ability as politicians or diplomats. However, we do know right from wrong. And we do not believe the end justifies the means. We read and hear so much about accepting Franco Spain as a friend and ally. We are told we need him as a bulwark to complete our European defenses. 'Franko,' we read, 'has the largest anti-Communist army in Europe.' Less than six years ago, we wipped out a larger one. Our expedient friendship with Russia got us into the mess we now struggle to overcome. Geographic limitations will prevent Franco's ever becoming another Stalin. Still, is it wise of us to allow him any decisions? It has not been too long since Neville Chamberlain's 'Peace in Our Time,' the expedient compromise that destroyed Czechoslovakia. The Battle of Britain, with all its horrors, still left the British people eager to compromise. For a few pounds now they are strengthening the Red Chinese. Maybe a few years will pass before they are in a war of annihilation with other Reds. We think since the United States has set itself up as the guiding angel of the world, it should operate on principles of right, regardless of the present cost. With offense intended.

believes we should now avoid war and concentrate on strengthening the United States militarily, economically and spiritually until the Europeans unite and show an enthusiasm to fight Communism. Under this Hoover policy our markets should hold up.

If we should get into war with Russia and one or more of our cities are bombed, the Stock Exchanges would be closed to prevent financial panic. Everything—securities, commodities, rents, banks and wages—would be frozen. We would be ruled by a dictator and stocks would go down. Those who expect war should not buy stocks—certainly not unless they are very carefully selected by experts. Inflation, however, should help a few stocks.

Certainly, anyone who does not own a house and an acre of land in a safe country village, should make such his first investment—war or no war. Many such places—well located, with water, fuel and neighbors—can be purchased today for one-third what it would cost to build them. I'm not advising their purchase for immediate occupancy; but for insurance and security.

Next, keep healthy, have a good bank account and a job which will give you a living. If you are dependent partly in investment income, then buy a very broad list of 30 stocks which have paid dividends for many years and which should give you about five per cent. If your local bank is unable to supply you with such a list, the bank can send to me at 270 Washington Street, Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, and I will freely send such a list to the bank for you.

Getting Out On the LIMB . . .

by EDDIE the editor

Well, the recent chamber of commerce meeting was a good example of satisfying everybody and at the same time getting a good job done.

Before they held the meeting there was a lot of discussion about new officers — how they should be nominated and such. Thirteen names were given chamber directors throughout the year as possibilities. These men were recommended by interested citizens who thought they would do the best thing for Post.

Too often the popular man is not the man best qualified for the job. Too often he isn't even interested and does not want the job. Then he doesn't work and is so much deadwood on the board.

With this in mind, the chamber of commerce directors presented a list of these names that had been suggested to them as good prospects for the 1951 board. As Chairman Shelley Camp explained, they had no wish to dictate, but they could not in good conscience fail to present these names.

For a more businesslike, orderly procedure, the board had listed these 13 potentially good directors and left space for seven write-in candidates. That way they felt that anyone not satisfied with the choices they had given them would be free to select candidates of their own.

This was a very good procedure and a fine idea. Personally, it would have suited me. But the point I would like to bring out and the thing that made the chamber meeting so successful was the fact that Pat Walker got up and said it didn't suit him.

Pat felt that a write-in campaign would not be satisfactory and that such an election would be undemocratic. He thought nominations should be made from the floor and voted on. The main thing that I appreciated about Pat was that he got up right there and said what he thought. Now no big kick would have been made if he had never said a word. But a lot of the men felt as he did and there would have been much murmuring after the meeting and throughout the year had he kept quiet.

So Pat opened the way for everyone to express his own opinion and in the final vote, his plan was adopted.

Being a member of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce is about as thankless a task as being a member of the city government. The seven directors felt that they had done their patriotic duty and all seven planned to retire.

Press of business has caused one to drop out of a service club already. Another has illness in his home that caused him to want to quit. So they all planned to retire after the meeting.

So Dave Willis got up and pointed out how unwise it was for an entirely new directorate to take over. He said he agreed wholeheartedly with Pat but that he didn't think the old directors should all go out. At least half, he felt, should remain.

Then one of the old directors got up and said, well, he was like all his fellow board members, he was ready to retire. But, he admitted Dave was right and he said he did not think any old director should refuse to serve, but should continue to do his best if reelected.

This all cleared up the atmosphere and made the meeting more congenial and its effects more beneficial because the majority were satisfied. As it was, a big part of the board, more than half of those originally nominated or suggested by the old board were nominated from the floor and elected.

No doubt there would have been some dissatisfaction if the group had gone on as first suggested. The important thing, as I see it, was the exercise of the democratic process.

Pat's idea was accepted by the entire body in full harmony. An excellent group of directors was selected. It also showed how the chamber is progressing, through the interest at the meeting.

We are lucky that the election was carried on on this basis, and not in the typical little town manner of electing someone because he is a good old boy. Men were selected who will work at the job. Too often in cases like this, people vote for their friends with no thought of whether they will work at the job. Or no thought of the time they might have to devote to it.

It looks like we are getting away from the childish method of "follow the leader and then gripe" and actually doing something as it should be done.

Post is finally waking up to the need for a good chamber of commerce and what it takes to have one. We are finally taking the attitude that we should always get the best available.

It is a funny thing about jobs like that. Men who go into these positions only for the prestige never amount to much. Those who don't care about prestige and have 10-12 hours of work cut out for them at their regular business usually give their time and efforts to the chamber of commerce or the city commission or something like that, too.

People that serve in these positions rarely get any thanks. Under libel law, there is that thing called privilege which makes the doings of public officials grist for the writer's mill. Too often it is easier to criticize than to praise. That is why it is so hard to get people to serve in these offices.

That is why it is especially hard to get people to serve in any of these jobs for a second term.

In the new Readers Digest, I read, for a welcome change, an article on what is good about Americans. I read it because I am getting so tired of what these foreigners write about what is wrong with Americans, meantime taking the shirts off our backs or at least our wallets out of our pockets.

This writer said that the most outstanding thing about Americans was their willingness to work at these unpaid jobs from which they derive no benefit and often only make personal enemies. He said in no other country did people band together and work so sincerely for the common good with no thought of being paid.

We have had a real illustration of this in our town with our chamber of commerce board. It hasn't been confined to the board either. Many of the members have worked hard on chamber projects. Also, the city commission.

Like Shakespeare said, the good men do is oft interred with their bones. At least it is sometimes forgotten by the short memory of the benefiting public.

Anyway, things were worked out well at the annual meeting. I hope the chamber of commerce gets the cooperation to continue through the year as it started.

Hospital Bond Election

With February 3 just nine days off, the hospital issue is taking first place as a topic of conversation this week. With most of the talk "for it," there seems to be little doubt in most folks' minds but that it will carry—some say 3 to 1 while others expect a larger vote by the opposition.

Texans In WASHINGTON

By TEX EASLEY,
Associated Press Washington Service

WASHINGTON, P. —Rep. Olin Teague of Texas says the special house committee he heads has only scratched the surface in its inquiry into the 11-billion dollar GI education program.

The House last year authorized an investigation of the education and training program for World War II veterans.

Teague says the committee has just started on the stacks of complaints from all parts of the country. It has nine members and seven staff employees.

"By and large the GI training program is a wonderful thing," Teague said, "but there are too many instances in which unscrupulous and dishonest individuals have worked their angles under it at the expense of the government."

The purpose of the committee study, he said, is primarily to discover the weak spots and to make recommendations which will avoid similar mistakes when a program is enacted for veterans of the Korean war.

At present the over-all GI education benefits are extended only to those who served in the armed forces between Sept. 16, 1940 and July 26, 1947, or who volunteered for service between Oct. 6, 1945 and Oct. 6, 1946.

There is little doubt but what Congress will extend similar benefits to the Korean war veterans. As it is now, only those Korean vets with disabilities qualify, and solely for vocational rehabilitation.

Teague is a World War II army combat veteran of European fighting. Wounded half a dozen times and holder of 11 medals, including three silver stars and the French Croix de Guerre, the former colonel is married and has two sons and a daughter.

Around the Capital:

Pretty little Kiley Parkhurst, 11, Dallas, knows a good deal about the Federal Power commission and legal arguments.

She flew up here with her daddy, Millard Parkhurst, one of the attorneys in the Brazos River Conservation and Reclamation district case. She sat on the front row throughout the long day's hearing to hear her father and other lawyers argue whether an FPC permit is necessary to build three new dams on the Brazos.

It was her first trip to Washington, as her father hurried her out for some fast night-seeing before the flight back home.

The Panhandle's new Congressman, Walter Rogers of Pampa, has finally solved his housing situation.

He came up with his wife and four of their six children to take the oath of office Jan. 3. After a few days house hunting—and living in a hotel meanwhile, they located and bought a house in northwest Washington.

"The funny thing about it," Rogers told his Texas colleagues, "we found it actually cheaper to buy a house big enough for us than to rent one."

"The monthly payments on the mortgage are a way less than monthly rent on the same kind of place. In time the difference will make up the down payment."

Mrs. Rogers then went back to Texas to bring up the other two children.

Mrs. Kate George, secretary to Rep. Ken Regan of Midland is retiring after 32 years on Capitol Hill.

A native of Mississippi, Mrs. George moved to San Antonio with her widowed mother when a child.

She grew up in San Antonio and taught school there for a while before going to California. At the end of World War I she came to Washington, when her husband, W. J. George, was discharged from the army. He retired recently after long service with a local furniture company.

First Congressional secretarial job for Mrs. George was with the then San Antonio Representative, Carlos Bee, in 1919. She went to work for the late Claude Hudspeth, El Paso congressman, in 1923 and was with him until the now U. S. Judge Ewing Thomason of El Paso came here to represent the district in 1931. She stayed on with Thomason throughout his service in the house, and then remained on with Regan when he came up as Judge Thomason's successor.

Boy Scout week begins next Tuesday and runs until Feb. 12. All over America, more than 2,750,000 scouts and leaders will join in its observance. Scouting is the American answer to Communist Youth and the Nazi and Fascist youth movements.

46 YEARS OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP AND PUBLIC SERVICE

Selection of Clothing for Proper Style, Fit Is Important thing demonstrations are being emphasized again this year. In view of the war situation it is well for all housewives to give more attention to the purchase or making of the clothes.

Children's clothing is an important item. Garments should be designed to promote the growth and development of the child. Eight points are to be considered:

1. Full cut with attention placed on the armhole, sleeves, second is across the hips. Highly resistant in children's clothing. Garment should be light in weight, not too smooth and soft to the touch.

2. Children are more active. The wise buyer sees that clothes are made for action, Mrs. Jewell Strasser, county home demonstration agent, says. Fabric should be sturdy and workmanship must be able to take it.

Wide Shoulder Straps
Adjustable shoulder straps should be wide. Hems should be from five to eight inches deep and tucks should be wide. There is no standard size in ready-made clothing, the only safe way to judge is to have the child try the garment on. When making clothes, use the pattern size with measurements nearest measurements of the child.

It is more practical to buy some clothes ready-made, Mrs. Strasser points out. For some women, it is more practical to buy all clothes ready-made. Each ready-made garment should be examined for the above eight points.

Little girls from 2 to 6 years of age are best dressed in frocks suited especially to a child's way of doing things. While styled for comfort, they allow for growth and freedom of action, Mrs. Strasser points out.

Children should be encouraged to dress without help — their dresses must be easy to put on and fasten. Dresses should be dainty yet sturdy enough to withstand playing and washing. Their beauty lies in simple styling, with becoming lines and colors, not in fussy decorations, Mrs. Strasser believes.

No Waistlines
Remember, she warns, children have no waistlines. Make their dresses without belts. Set in the fullness, either gathered, pleated or circular, at each side of the front and back to look best and permit action and growth.

Roomy armholes and short sleeves without cuffs or bands are preferable. Bands not only hamper arm movement, they grow tighter as the child grows. Sleeveless dresses with wings or ruffles are good for hot weather.

Necklines should be collarless and low in front. High necklines are too soon outgrown, besides being uncomfortable. Collars are inconvenient under wraps.

It is important to have the dresses short enough for when the child stoops to play. They should come well above the knees but not be too short. The mother should experiment to see what length looks best. A wide hem allows for letting a dress down.

Leave off the fancy trimmings, says the agent. Sashes and bows that become untied, any dangling trim can get in the child's way and may even become hazardous. Simply-styled dresses meet every need and are easily washed and ironed. This lightens work and saves time for mothers.

Front Openings
Front openings are most easily managed and are best to use in training a child. Neck openings should be big enough for the head to go through without strain.

Fasteners should also be easy to operate. As few as will make a secure closure should be used, no more. Little fingers find medium-sized buttons, flat with an edge groove are usually easiest to hold to. Sashes and ties require the help of grownups.

Each little girl needs several fresh dresses each week. Least expensive and most suitable material for these are washable. Close-woven goods should be chosen for long wear, with soft textures for comfort. Harsh materials and those requiring starching should be avoided. Dirt does not collect as readily on smooth-finished goods.

Reputable manufacturers now tag goods with facts regarding shrinkage and color. Mrs. Strasser reminds. Buy material that will not shrink more than 1 or 2 per cent, so the fit of the dress will not alter with washing.

Check for colorfastness to washing, sun and perspiration. Select dresses with good quality trim which is colorfast. Select gay but not gaudy colors. Prints with colored backgrounds or all-over patterns do not show dirt or wrinkles as readily as materials with white background and spaced patterns.

Narrow French Seams
When buying ready-made clothes, look for narrow French seams or at least smooth, flat seams in thin soft goods. Plain pinked seams are adequate in heavier cottons. Stitching should be close and even, with strong thread.

Be sure that there is nothing stiff or scratchy around the neck and armholes. Soft, flexible finishes prevent rubbing the skin and causing discomfort.

Clothing should be reinforced at placket ends, under arms and wherever undue strain is exerted during wearing, dressing and washing. Buttonholes should be closely worked, so as not to tear out easily.

Club members are taught that really becoming clothes must flatter the figure. Regardless of whether the model is tall or short, slender or stout, there are lines that are becoming to her.

The woman or girl who wishes to know her best lines should first take a good look at herself in front of a full-length mirror. The short slender person wears vertical lines, curved lines and flares best. For her, the round or heart-shaped necklines, Peter Pan collars, high rounded neck sweaters and oval yokes accented with narrow ruffles and binding.

Princess Coats
Coats can be princess or semi-fitted. Fabrics suitable are light weight wool or rayon such as crepes or gabardines, fine muslins, lawn and dainty floral prints. The short, slender type avoids heavy materials such as tweed and heavy corduroy and leaves off floral prints.

The short, stout person wears vertical and diagonal lines. The fit of her dress should be soft and easy. Most becoming are the pointed Peter Pan collar, V or low val neckline, with beads forming an oval. Her face should be the center of interest.

Good for her are princess lines without flare and moderately belted. Her dresses should be of one color. Wrist-length semi-fitted jackets with straight short, or long set in sleeves are most becoming.

She wears belted, full-length semifitted coats.

Materials suited to the short stout are soft crepe in wool or rayon, with a close, smooth even weave. She stays with solid colors or small prints.

The short and stout woman never wears tweeds, corduroy, taffeta, and extremely large prints or plaids.

The tall, slender girl wears horizontal and curved lines. Her skirts are short and full. She prefers a draped neckline, soft rolled collar, moderately wide lapels, wide bows at neckline, waist gathered on to round and square yokes, high round necklines and shawl collars.

Full Dresses
Her dresses should be full with pockets and gathered or pleated skirts. She can wear long sleeves, full at the wrist. The tall slender girl finds two piece dresses or a contrasting waist and skirt with a wide belt flattering.

Her materials are corduroy, crepe, taffeta, flannel, tweed, plaids and large prints. She never wears princess lines. She prefers swag or box coats in three-quarter or seven-eighths length.

The tall, stout person combines horizontal and vertical lines with suggested yokes. Her neckline is softly draped, V yoke or with moderately wide lapels. All lines should accent her face.

This type looks best in four or six gore skirts with medium narrow belt, plain, well-fitted sleeves which are not too tight. She likes the longer jacket and two piece dresses. Her coat is semifitted or box style in three-quarter or full length.

For her clothes, the tall stout woman chooses gabardine, light weight wool, soft crepe, voile, muslin and medium large prints. She avoids wearing shiny or bulky materials.

Silhouette Lines
Silhouette lines are made by the outline of the figure. Lines are created by the construction of the dress, such as seams, neckline and armhole. Decorations also form lines. This includes pleats, tucks, bows, pockets, belts, yokes, collars, cuffs and trimmings.

Vertical lines are those lengthwise lines created at the sides of the dress, as well as lengthwise seams. Crosswise lines are called horizontal lines. The come at the shoulder and dress bottom and through crosswise seams on the pattern.

The slender, well-proportioned figure can wear vertical, horizontal or diagonal lines. Vertical and diagonal lines may be used to accent height and slenderness.

NEWCOMERS

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dobbs Are Living Here at West Ninth

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dobbs moved to Post from Snyder, Jan. 14. Their experience was different from most newcomers to Post-in that they found a house at 14 West 9th Street to move into that day.

Dobbs bought a third interest in Fenton and Thompson Shoe stores here and in Snyder and assumed management here, replacing Don Thompson who moved back to Snyder. They took the Thompson's house here—that boy they were so lucky in finding a place to live.

Mrs. Dobbs is the former Jan. 14 graduate of Carlsbad high school. Born in Anson she has lived several places. Her father is a welder. Her parents still live in Carlsbad where the Dobbses lived a year before coming to Snyder.

Dobbs considers himself from Kansas and Oklahoma. He graduated from high school in Liberal, Kan. His mother lives there. During the war he was in the Air Force.

Mr. and Mrs. Dobbs attend the Methodist church. They came to Post because of the business opportunity here. "We came over and thought it was a nice little town so we decided to move over," Mrs. Dobbs says.

Both play cards. She especially likes bridge although it has been some time since she played. They like square dancing. Dobbs likes to play golf.

Up until recently, Mrs. Dobbs worked in a ready-to-wear store. She did not cook much before she was married but now she really enjoys it. The couple is building a house in Snyder which she wishes was over here. She thinks she would enjoy decorating her home.

So far, the Dobbses have not met many young people. They are looking forward to becoming acquainted in Post.

The Rev. and Mrs. Frank Gillham of Brownwood, who were married recently, were honored with a tea shower here Thursday afternoon. The party was from 4 until 5 o'clock in the First Baptist church parlor.

Hostesses were Mrs. L. W. Dalby, Mrs. R. P. Tomlinson, Mrs. Henry Tate, Mrs. A. B. Haws, and Mrs. D. H. Mayfield.

Recorded organ selections provided the music. Gifts were displayed by Miss Sue Gillham, sister of the bridegroom.

The refreshment table was laid with lace and centered with a pink and white floral arrangement. Miss Anita Kennedy presided at the table.

Forty guests were registered by Miss Pearl Self.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Scott and daughter, Tommye Lou, spent the weekend in Odessa and Kermit.

Scripture

I, therefore, the prisoner of the Lord, beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called. With all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, forbearing one another in Love; Endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. There is one body and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; One Lord, one faith, one baptism; One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all. Ephesians 4:1-6.

the Railroads RESPECT...

the Labor Unions seek to REPUDIATE this agreement!

What is the TRUTH?

At various states in the present dispute with the brotherhoods of railroad operating employees... the railroads agreed to arbitrate. ... the union leaders refused. ... the railroads accepted the recommendations of President Truman's Emergency Board. The union leaders refused. ... the railroads accepted the White House proposal of August 19, 1950. The union leaders refused. Finally an Agreement was signed at the White House on December 21, 1950. Now the union leaders seek to repudiate the Agreement. The railroads stand ready to put the terms of this Agreement into effect immediately, with back pay at the rates and date indicated. The Agreement is given in full below.

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

Washington, D. C.
December 21, 1950

1. Establish 40 hour week for yardmen with increase of 23 cents effective October 1, 1950, and additional 2 cents effective January 1, 1951.
2. Set aside 40 hour week agreement until January 1, 1952, and establish 6 day work week for yardmen. Effective with the first pay roll period after 30 days from the date of execution of the formal agreement, yardmen required by the carrier to work on the 7th day to be paid overtime rates except engineers who shall receive straight time rates for the 7th day. This does not create guarantees where they do not now exist. On and after October 1, 1951, three months' notice to be given of desire to go on 40 hour week. Provide for consideration of availability of manpower and 4 cents per hour if and when the 40 hour week actually becomes effective.
3. Settle rules for 40 hour week and 6 day week.
4. Grant yard conductors and brakemen other rules such as daily earnings minimum, car retarder operators and footboard yardmasters as recommended by Emergency Board No. 81.
5. Settle following rules:
Initial Terminal Delay (Conductors and Trainmen)
Interdivisional Runs
Pooling Caboose (Conductors and Trainmen)
Reporting for Duty
More than One Class of Service
Switching Limits
Air Hose (Conductors and Trainmen)
Western Differential and Double Header and Tonage Limitation (Conductors and Trainmen, all Territories)
6. Road men to receive 5 cents per hour increase effective October 1, 1950 and additional 5 cents per hour increase effective January 1, 1951.
7. Quarterly adjustment of wages on basis of cost of living index (1 point to equal 1¢ per hour. First adjustment April 1, 1951. Base to be 176).

8. Agreement embodying principles applicable to yardmasters to be entered into for benefit of yardmasters.

9. Effective October 1, 1950, the basic hours of dining car stewards shall be reduced from 225 to 205 hours per month; no penalty overtime to accrue until 240 hours have been worked, the hours between 205 and 240 to be paid for at the pro rata rate.

Effective February 1, 1951, overtime at time and one-half shall accrue after 220 hours have been worked. The basic monthly salary to be paid for the 205-hour month shall be the same as that now paid for the 225-hour month. Except that four dollars and ten cents ($4.10) shall be added to the present monthly rate effective January 1, 1951.

10. In consideration of above, this agreement to be effective until October 1, 1953, and thereafter until changed or modified under provisions of Railway Labor Act. Moratorium on proposals for changes in wages or rules until October 1, 1953, as follows:

No proposals for changes in rates of pay, rules or working conditions will be initiated or progressed by the employees against any carrier or by any carrier against its employees, parties hereto, within a period of three years from October 1, 1950, except conditions which may have been initiated prior to June 1, 1950. Provided, however, that if as the result of government wage stabilization policy, workers generally have been permitted to receive so-called "improvement" increases, the parties may meet with Doctor Steelman on or after July 1, 1952, to discuss whether or not further wage adjustments for in addition to increases received under the cost of living formula. At the request of either party for such a meeting Doctor Steelman shall fix the time and place for such meeting. Doctor Steelman and the parties may secure information from the wage stabilization authorities or other government agencies. If the parties are unable to agree at such conferences whether or not further wage adjustments are justified they shall ask the President of the United States to appoint a referee who shall sit with them and consider all pertinent information, and decide promptly whether further wage increases are justified and, if so, what such increases should be, and the effective date thereof. The carrier representatives shall have one vote, the employee representatives shall have one vote and the referee shall have one vote.

11. If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for final decision.

The usual protections for arbitrators, miscellaneous rates, special allowances, and existing money differentials above existing standard daily rates will be included in the formal agreement.

12. The foregoing will not debar management and committees on individual railroads from mutually agreeing upon changes in rates, rules and working conditions of employees covered by this agreement.

New Oldsmobiles Are Shown At Connell Chevrolet Company

A smartly restyled Series 98 line features the new Oldsmobiles for 1951, going on display all over the nation yesterday.

A blue 98 was on the show-room at Connell Chevrolet company.

The 1951 line has four body styles in the 98 and four in the 88. Distinctive improvements in exterior appearance and body suspension and important advances in the application of high compression engine design principles are featured.

Compression ratio of the Rocket engine has been stepped up. Combustion chamber of the engine has been redesigned to obtain advantages that are not wholly dependent on high octane fuels. New are the carburetor, distributor, air cleaner, muffler and waterproof sleeves on the sparkplugs, added to improve the power plant.

Four body styles in the luxurious 98 are the deluxe Holiday four-door sedan, the Holiday coupe, the deluxe Holiday coupe and the convertible coupe. Wheelbase is 122 inches but the overall length is reduced to 208 inches. Hydramatic drive is optional on all 98s.

The four body styles available in the 88 are the two-door and four-door sedans and the deluxe two-door sedan. Wheelbase is 119 1/4 inches and overall length is 202 inches. Hydramatic drive is optional on all 1951 Oldsmobiles.

Exterior trim features highly-polished stainless steel. A stainless steel moulding extends the entire length of the car from a few inches back of the headlight down the fender and through the doors to a point just above the new spear-like ornament that doubles as a gravel shield. There it curves slightly upward and follows the rear fender to a point just back of the tail light. The front bumper and grille have been restyled with the top grille bar wrapping around the fender.

In the 98 sedan, leg room has been increased in the rear seat by two and one-half inches. The new leaf-type rear springs are controlled by double-acting shock absorbers which coordinate their action with that of the knee-action front wheels. Hydramatic drive was pioneered by Oldsmobile in 1940 and improved in the 1951 installation. A new method makes shifting into reverse easier. It utilizes a friction reverse engagement which means merely shifting a hydraulic valve to reach reverse. This replaces a reverse pawl arrangement that did not respond too readily.

A newly designed combustion chamber in the Rocket engine cylinder head will capitalize on high compression advantages even if fuel octane numbers are lowered in the present national emergency. New compact shape of the combustion chambers will shorten the flame travel and provide a more effective quench area above the pistons.

Increased mixing of the gasoline particles with air during the compression stroke will result in a more homogeneous mixture which burns more evenly and completely. This is designed for greater engine economy and performance at the new compression ratio of 7.5 to 1.

The down draft carburetor with a vertical air inlet facilitates faster cold weather starting and quicker starting after heavy duty operation. Flooding is minimized by a change in internal design.

Social Security Representative Is To Visit Post

Gerald L. Schantz, field representative of the Lubbock Social Security office will be at the post office here at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The 1950 amendments reduce eligibility requirements to about one and one-half years, or six quarters of coverage. This new provision affects only those cases where the wage earner was living on September 1, 1950. From now until July 1954, six quarters of coverage is sufficient for a fully insured status.

Many individuals who previously could not meet the requirements may now qualify for monthly benefits. The Lubbock office is undertaking to contact persons whose claims were denied in the 1940-1950 period.

Some addresses are now incorrect, and a few may have died during the intervening years. Any reader of these articles who knows a person over 65, who has worked under six social security calendar quarters, should pass the information along to him, the Lubbock office asks.

March 10 Is Deadline For Talent Entrants

March 10 is the deadline for local entries in the annual Producers Grain cooperatives' talent contest for 4-H club members. Mrs. Jewell Strasner, agent, reveals.

A brief story of each entrant's accomplishments and leadership must be written. Entrants must be at least 14 years old and have at least three years of club work.

Winners will get a week's trip including visits at the state capitol, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and other points in June. Lenora Stone has been a Garza county candidate in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Gossett Live in Barn on Coming Here

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Gossett and their family, who came to Garza county in January 1915, lived in a barn for the first four months. Their home on one of the Double U farms was not completed until April. Gossett moved the first load Jan. 17, the day they landed here. They sent their belongings and came themselves on the train. They brought seven children with them.

The place was known as the old Llano truck farm and was located on the plains, two and one-half miles past what is now Camp Post. Gossett bought the place in 1914 in December.

The Double U company had four or five cars, as Gossett recalls it, to take prospective farm buyers around in. When he was looking over the farms in the area, he went to an experimental farm that showed what could be done here.

"Cotton was about three feet high and just covered with bolls," he recalls, "even though it was December. The man had broken the sod and then rolled it flat with a steel roller. Then he didn't cultivate it any more. He planted the rows about 18 inches apart and it looked like a solid field of white."

1914 Crop Good

The 1914 cotton crop was extra good, Gossett says. Cotton made a bale to a bale and a half to the acre. However, there was no body to gather it. The Gossett children picked cotton after coming here in January. Feed even went to waste.

"At first they tried to sell me a place about 15 or 16 miles from town," Gossett remembers, "but I told them I had had my fill of that. If I was going to leave a good rent farm like I knew I had in Montague county, I wanted to get a better one close to town."

One land agent took him out to the Llano truck farm which had been out of cultivation for seven years. It was a solid mass of cockleburs as high as a house. The agent told him he had an option on 480 acres but that he would cut off whatever size farm Gossett wanted and also 80 acres for Gossett's brother, which the prospective purchaser was empowered to buy.

Moved From Montague

So the Gossetts moved from Montague county, where they had lived off and on for 14 years near the Oklahoma border, to Garza and settled on the plains. Farming was quite different, the Gossetts found, with not nearly so much work attached. It was difficult in Montague because the farm Gossett worked was near the Red River and overrun with crab grass.

For the first few years here, he did not have much to do. There were no goatheads, roots and thistles to contend with in the new land. He had shipped all his tools and stock, except the cows from Montague. He used a four mule team. Some of his tools are still out at his son's farm near here.

Their oldest son, Frank, was in school in Bowie when they first came out here and he did not arrive until a few months later. In 1915, a good crop was made. They just broke the sod, rolled it and planted without having to work it any more.

The children went to Graham school during 1915. The Gossett farm was located in the Post board school district but 30 families were cut off and made into a new district. Gossett gave land for the school location, so it was known as the Gossett school. It operated for about 14 years.

When he bought the place from the Double U company, Gossett says, they told him a school would be built about two and one-half miles up the road. However, they went ahead and organized the new Gossett district, building a school there.

Half Bale to Acre

Gossett at times made a half-bale to the acre. He was farming during the time cotton was plowed up and cattle slaughtered. He felt that this was a terrible waste.

"I went over to the Slaughter ranch one day when they had rounded up about 500 calves and were shooting them," Gossett recalls. "It seemed such a shame to kill those poor little calves. That was such a dry year that they had no meat on their bones. There was nothing to them that was worth anything except the hides."

Miss Myrtle Robertson was the first teacher at the Gossett school. Later, Miss Lizzie Robertson taught, during 1918. The first school was built by the company at Graham in 1916, Gossett said.

They had no neighbors when they moved to their place. The late Mr. Graham had a house at Graham and the Rogerses and Whites lived in that part of the county. "It really looked lonesome," Mrs. Gossett recalls.

The year 1914 had been rainy and there were numerous lakes in the area when the Gossetts moved to their new farm. They drank lake water until they could dig a well.

Worst Day of Life

"January 8, 1918, is the worst day I ever lived through and I have lived in West Texas all my life," Gossett reminisces. "That year was the driest year I've ever seen on the plains. It was really bad in February and March. It quit dust and blew rocks."

January 8 was not the coldest day, Gossett says, although the temperature dropped to four degrees below zero. But it began snowing and sandstorming about 9 or 9:30 o'clock in the morning. As the day grew later it got worse.

"Miss Robertson let out the school children about 10 o'clock," recalls Gossett. "Mr. Stiles had some pretty small children so I walked them home. They sure got cold and squaled and carried on. You could hardly walk against the north wind. The snow and dirt were blowing and freezing. My cap froze to my head, just a solid sheet of snow and dirt around the edge."

Mrs. Gossett was born in Tennessee but came to Throckmorton at an early age with her parents. Gossett is a native Texan, born in 1869 in Coleman county in a "little fortified up place on Ford's creek." People had to live together because the Indians were still bad in that area, Gossett remarks.

Married by Judge

In 1879, he came with his family to Throckmorton. He and ty, telling her she could not go to church. At first they could not attend the Church of Christ which was their choice. Once they went to Spanish Fort to church in 1917.

"A car started down the road behind us and I just knew we were going to get run over," Mrs. Gossett recalls, laughing.

Union Sunday School

Later a union Sunday school was organized at the Gossett school and families in that area attended. The women got together and organized to let the young people meet at their different houses for parties.

The Gossetts planted a 300-tree orchard. C. W. Post gave a premium of $25 for the best kept-up farm. The Gossetts won the first and only prize he gave away. Mrs. Post presented Gossett the check. Pictures were taken of the pumpkins, sweet potatoes and other produce they raised.

These were sent to Michigan to show what could be raised in Garza county.

"I have never been sorry I moved here," Gossett says, "although during 1918, I got awfully blue. We did not raise a thing. That was when I went into the dairy business."

Dairy Venture

A group of men got together and sent Doug Morrell to Wisconsin or some place to buy some Holstein cows. According to Gossett, the Santa Fe, backed this venture. Each cow cost $154. Some of the cows would give eight gallons of milk daily but it was not a paying proposition.

Feed was scarce and had to be bought. Finally Gossett gave some of his cows away and sold one to Jim Power for beef. "I wanted to get out of that as soon as I could. Some people lost their farms as a result of it."

Two of the Gossett's children are dead. Lucy died as a baby. Johnny died in 1924. The others are Frank of Bowie and Fred, Mrs. Ida Stewart, Mrs. John Wallace, Mrs. V. M. Stone, Mrs. Elmer Cowdrey and Buck, all of Post. They have 30 grandchildren and 33 great grandchildren.

George and Martha Walton moved to Mount Vernon, 1759.

Long-term Investment that pays daily dividends

THESE days thoughtful people turn their minds to the durability of things they purchase.

But it's rare when doing your duty turns out to be the best way to satisfy your heart's desire.

That's what's so marvelous about this '51 Buick.

If you picked a car just for the lift it gives you—your pride in its power—or its generous comfort—you couldn't make a better choice.

But make note of this:

That gleaming new push-bar forefront, which greets your eye with flashing beauty, contains 25 grille bars made of stamped steel, individually mounted to "give" and come back unharmed. Combined with a massive, wrap-around bumper, fortified by two stalwart "bumper bombs" and two added uprights, it gives unsurpassed protection.

Springs of stout spiraled steel on all four wheels let your wheels curtsy over bumps, while you ride level as a lance. But they also need no servicing, and breakage is virtually unknown.

Buick's great-powered engine is a Fireball, wondrously lively and eager at the mere touch of your toe—but it also wrings extra power from every drop of fuel, and has the mechanical perfection that comes only from years of experience with this basic design.

Dynaflo Drive gives you effortless smoothness of control—but it also eliminates clutch repair bills, saves tires, eases strain on the whole driving mechanism, from engine to differential.

The road-steady gait of a Buick assures relaxed security—and is also evidence that you have a durable, deep-silled, X-braced frame beneath you. However you check it, you'll discover this: The things that make you years for a Buick on first acquaintance, are the very same things that make Buick such a smart long-time buy.

Better see your Buick dealer—soon.

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.

No other car provides all this:
DYNAFLO DRIVE • FIREBALL POWER
4-WHEEL COIL SPRING • DUAL VENTILATION
PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT • TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE
WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS • DREAMLINE STYLING
