Local SSC site fight not over yet

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

If you thought the fight to bring the superconducting supercollider to the Garden City site had ended — think again.

West Texans reportedly dropped their independent uphill fight to obtain the supercollider after a June 8 vote in San Angelo.

Garden City SSC Commission members now say that vote didn't count.

The 13-10 vote against submitting an independent proposal to the U.S. Department of Energy has been declared invalid, Garden City SSC Commission Project Manager Thane Akins said today.

Another vote will be taken at 10 a.m. June 24 in the Glasscock County Courthouse, he said.

Akins said the group failed to properly follow its bylaws at the June 8 meeting.

"With such an important decision we feel it should be made properly," Akins said today from Midland.

The Garden City site was eliminated as a state-sanctioned supercollider site during May meetings of the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission, which chose Dallas and Amarillo sites to represent the state.

Although only the Garden City Board of Directors voted at the San Angelo meeting, the meeting wasn't specified as a Board of Directors' meeting, Akins said.

Other commission members besides the Board of Directors were present at meeting, but not all had been notified, Akins said.

In addition, bylaws require that the commission give two days notice of a Board meeting, but 10 days notice of a commission member meeting.

A 10 day notice was not given for the June 8 meeting, he said.

Akins said 10 days notice has been given of the June 24 meeting, in which all due-paying members — or approximately 25 people — will be allowed to vote.

Some who were allowed to vote in San Angelo shouldn't have been because they had not paid dues to the commission, he said. Akins also questioned the use of proxies for voting purposes at the San Angelo meeting.

Members will vote June 24 to submit the Garden City proposal directly to the Department of Energy, or to drop the West Texas plan altogether.

Garden City Commission Chairman Ralph McLaughlin said the five-member Big Spring delegation voted unanimously for an independent submission of the proposal at the San Angelo meeting.

State Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, has said his political and personal credibility could be destroyed if he supports a Garden City independent bid for the supercollider.

Shaw said he signed an agreement to support sites the National Research Commission selected.

Clements: 'Texas open for business'

AUSTIN (AP) — A number of bills newly signed into law will get the state's stalled economy moving again, Gov. Bill Clements says.

"What we are doing here today is literally putting our derailed Texas economy back on the tracks of economic prosperity," Clements said Tuesday, seated before a large sign saying, "Texas is open for business."

The governor signed legislation that:

- Merges seven economic development agencies into a unified Department of Commerce.
- Provides regulatory relief for small businesses.
- Creates an Economic Planning Commission to chart a long-term course for development.
- Enacts so-called "tort reform" to revamp the civil justice system. The new law will change court procedures governing personal injury and damage lawsuits and is designed to limit punitive damages in some cases.

- Deregulates the trucking industry within Texas, a move backers said should spark increased competition and help lower costs.

Clements said the economic development bills were needed to rebuild an economy battered by tumbling oil prices and soaring unemployment rates.

"Business, in partnership with state government, will help forge the economic foundation in which all Texans will prosper," Clements said.

"The need to foster an economic turnaround certainly was one of the legislative topics that all state

Man arrested for sexual assault

Herald staff report

A Big Spring man has been charged with the sexual assault of a Big Spring girl, Police Lt. Jerry Edwards said this morning.

Salvador Calvio Sr., 41, 1208 Lindbergh St., was arrested at 3:05 p.m. Tuesday at the police station and charged with aggravated sexual assault. Edwards said it was aggravated because the victim was a juvenile. No weapons were involved, he said.

The girl, whose age and identity were not released because she is a juvenile, was not badly physically injured in the incident, he said.

The assault occurred on the west end of town, Edwards said, but added that the Police Department would not release exact details of when the recent incident occurred.

The crime involved one suspect and one victim, he said, adding that no other crimes are believed connected with it.

Calvio was transferred to the county jail and released on $7,500 bond.

Edwards said Calvio came to the police voluntarily, spoke about the incident, and was arrested.

Edwards said the Attorney General has ruled police departments may decide how much information to release in cases of sexual assault of a juvenile.

County facing lack of revenue sharing funds

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners will be faced with a lack of federal revenue sharing funds for the 1987-88 budget, County Auditor Jackie Olson said today.

The commissioners will begin work on the 1987-88 budget at a 9 a.m. Thursday budget workshop in the Commissioners' Courtroom.

Olson said the county carried over $174,000 in revenue funds from 1985-86 to the 1986-87 budget and also received $4,400 in adjustment payments from the defunct federal program this year.

The $174,000 will be used for the county's paving program, said Olson, who added that she doubted any money would remain from the 1987-88 budget.

Commissioners Thursday will consider the budget item by item, Olson said.

After Thursday's meeting, Olson said she will organize a preliminary budget based on figures supplied by commissioners.

Because this is the Commissioners' Court first day-long budget workshop session, she said it's too early to tell how the 1987-88 budget will compare to the current $8.1 million budget.

In 1986 the county assumed responsibility for funding indigent health care for the first time and taxes were raised to cover that expense, Olson said.

Commissioners raised the tax rate last year from 22 cents per $100 of property valuation to 26 cents, Olson said.

"Last year about $340,000 was transferred from the general fund into indigent health care, and that will have to be replenished," she said.

Olson said she doesn't think the county will have to set aside as much money for the indigent program next year, however.

The fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

Crenwelge graduation makes 'three of a kind'

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

Bret Crenwelge enters active duty in the Air Force July 14 — 32 years to the day that his father, retired Lt. Col. Joe Crenwelge, did in 1955.

Crenwelge recently became the third son in the Big Spring family to graduate from the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

"It's very unusual to have all three of them," said Bill Madsen, public affairs officer at the Academy. "It's the first time in my experience. I've been here 20 years."

Bret Crenwelge was sworn in as a second lieutenant this month by his father, after being graduated from the Academy May 27 with a bachelor of science degree. His first assignment calls for a year of jet pilot training at Reese Air Base in Lubbock.

His brothers are Capt. Wayne E. Crenwelge, nine years his senior, stationed in Panama, and Capt. Kevin D. Crenwelge, five years older than Bret, a navigator at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene.

The brothers' parents "had quite a strong, guiding hand in their (sons') careers," Madsen said, adding "opportunities in the Air Force today for career officers are unparalleled."

Joe Crenwelge said, "I guess the boys just naturally took a liking to what was going on" when he was in the Air Force. He says he encouraged them to participate extensively in the Boy Scouts — all three were Eagle Scouts — extracurricular school activities and leadership positions.

"All my sons intend to make the military their total career," he said.

Wayne Crenwelge said his father was in the Air Force 22 years, part of the time stationed at Webb Air Base. He entered the Air Force through the Texas A&M ROTC program.

"We grew up in that atmosphere," Wayne said. "We all decided we liked it." Patriotism and serving the country were stressed in his family, he said.

Wayne decided to attend the Academy in his junior year of high school, when a friend decided to go, and his brothers followed in his footsteps, he said.

Bret planned to attend the Academy all through high school, participating in activities with that goal in mind, Wayne said. Thus, he was better prepared for the kinds of challenges faced there, Wayne said.

He said the Academy stresses the "whole man concept," physical as well as academic development.

The college is relatively small, he said, in keeping with a 4,400-student government-established maximum. Between 10,000 and 15,000 students apply for admission annually — 1,000 of whom are accepted.

Academy life is quite regimental, he said. Students wear uniforms, march, face inspections and are very much controlled, but "not in a negative, zombie-like way," he said.

Joe Crenwelge said Academy graduates are better prepared to serve as military officers than those who enter the military through other programs, because the Academy is specifically geared toward training professional officers.

Bret Crenwelge's training is far from over. "It's going to be extremely tough" to successfully complete his scheduled pilot training, because the Air Force needs fewer pilots now, Joe Crenwelge explained.

Joe, a pilot instructor in his years in the Air Force, said Bret passed the Academy flying programs with no problems.

Bret's main goal is to finish his training near the top of his class, in hopes of improving his chances for his choice of assignments later in his career, his father said.

Retired Lt. Col. Joe Crenwelge, left, swears his son, Bret, into the Air Force as second lieutenant May 27, when the younger Crenwelge graduated from the Air Force Academy. Bret Crenwelge is the third of three brothers to graduate from the Academy. Capt. Wayne E. Crenwelge, Class of 1978, is assigned to the 24th Composite Wing at Howard Air Base, Panama; and Capt. Kevin D. Crenwelge, Class of 1982, is a C-130H airplane navigator in the 773 Tactical Airlift Squadron at Dyess Air Force Base. A related photo appears on page 8A.

First farmers' market due by July

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Big Spring residents who buy their produce from area supermarkets will soon have another option.

Before long, fresh fruits and vegetables will be available to Big Spring residents at the city's first farmers' market.

Joe Hollingshead, Howard County Director of the Permian Basin Farmers Market Association Inc., said the market will be started as soon as fresh produce becomes available — perhaps by the end of the month.

The Association, representing a 12-county area, last year organized markets in Odessa and Midland. Those markets, along with the Big Spring market, will operate on alternate days allowing members of the association to sell produce at any of the three markets.

The Big Spring farmers' market is tentatively planned for 8 a.m. to dusk every Wednesday at Highland South Shopping Center, Hollingshead said.

The Association's Board of Directors decided to have the market one day initially and could add another day later, Hollingshead said.

Markets in Midland and Odessa each operate two days a week, he said.

Hollingshead said he expects farmers from Glasscock, Howard, Midland and Martin counties to sell produce at the market.

Sellers must be members of the association, and at least 50 percent of a seller's produce must be home grown, he said.

In addition, all produce must be Texas produce.

Anyone wishing to sell produce should contact the Howard County Extension Office, Hollingshead said. Sellers must be members of the Permian Basin Association. Members who joined before Feb. 1 pay $10 per year, and members who join after Feb. 1 pay $20 per year, he said. The Association currently has approximately 100 members, Hollingshead said.

Officials say cotton industry doing well

CONROE (AP) — Domestic price protection, as well as more competitive prices for U.S. products overseas, is helping the domestic cotton industry move toward its second-best year in the last two decades, according to a top industry official.

"The intrinsic good qualities of cotton are still unmatched in spite of the billions of dollars spent on research by man-made fibers," said Earl W. Sears, executive vice president of the National Cotton Council.

Domestic mill consumption during the first was up 39 percent from a year ago, while cotton's share of the fiber market has risen three percentage points in the last two years, he said.

"Cotton is on the offense as never before. I am so excited," he told the annual National Cotton Outlook Conference on Tuesday.

The U.S. cotton industry also has done well overseas as prices have become competitive in world markets.

"Foreign cotton acreage and production have declined for the second consecutive year," Sears said. "At the same time, world cotton consumption today is growing at an accelerated rate of more than 2 million bales a year. This combination of events has made our exports skyrocket."

Sears credited some of the cotton resurgence to the 1985 Farm Act that guaranteed price protection for cotton growers.

"I can't say enough about how well the cotton program has worked for our commodity," he said. "What's more, if this five-year program is left intact, some economists project that cotton production over this period will increase by a total of 26 million bales."

The future also is promising, he said, with commitments for exports already strong for next year.

Sears said an advertising campaign, "Grown and Made in the USA," is contributing to the industry's success.

"The campaign was initiated to right the wrongs caused to our industry and its suppliers by the flood of foreign cotton pouring into this country in the form of cotton textiles and apparel," he said.

At the same, the industry has signed advertising agreements in Japan and Korea and similar pacts with Italy, France and the United Kingdom are nearly complete.

Sears cautioned, however, that the industry must continue to strive for efficiency, since government subsidies are threatened by moves to reduce the national budget deficit.

"There is only so much money and the political menu to deal with it is sliced thin," he said.

Earl W. Sears, executive vice president of the National Cotton Council, speaks to cotton growers at the annual National Cotton Outlook Conference Tuesday afternoon at Walden on Lake Conroe. Sears said that the domestic cotton industry is booming and this year should be the second-best in the last two decades.

Loraine appoints new mayor

COLORADO CITY — Catarino Martinez, 41, a member of the Loraine City Council since 1985, has been appointed to fill the position of mayor after the resignation of Roy Price.

Price submitted his resignation May 14 for health reasons.

Martinez works for U.S. Gypsum in Sweetwater. He will be sworn in at the next Council meeting.

The Council will fill Martinez's Council position by appointment. It also will appoint a municipal judge, a position formerly filled by Price.

• Mayor Pro-Tem C.H. Hamilton said the city will apply for a $271,000 grant from the Texas Community Development Program which, if received, will pay for paving 11 blocks of city streets. The grant application is being prepared by the Lubbock firm of Gary R. Traylor and Associates.

Police beat

$2000 in boating equipment stolen

Thieves stole $2,084 in boating equipment owned by Jerry William Currie, No. 2 Chevy Chase, between noon May 29 and 4 p.m. Monday.

Stolen were seven life vests, a depth finder, a trolling motor, two six-gallon boat fuel tanks, two tackle boxes with tackle. The items were taken from a storage shed at 400 S. Abrams St. No. 15.

• Two people were arrested at Wal-Mart Tuesday morning, on charges including unlawfully carrying a weapon and theft by appropriation. Police Lt. J.D. Carter said the two are accused of stealing a firearm.

Danny William Craft, 25, 729 Cypress Creek, Colo. (address incomplete) was arrested on suspicion of unlawfully carrying a weapon and theft by appropriation.

Allie Crider Beyers, 28, no address given, was charged with theft by appropriation and failure to identify himself to police officers.

Carter said a theft by appropriation charge is often leveled when a suspect is accused of possessing a stolen item.

• Someone stole a 4½-foot windmill, valued at $45, from the residence of Jim King, between 8:30 p.m. Monday and 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Colorado woman in hospital following one-car accident

A Colorado woman is in Scenic Mountain Medical Center today following a one-car accident Tuesday afternoon, a hospital spokesman reported.

Marilyn Ruth Crimmons, 61, Arvado, Colo., was admitted Tuesday for facial injuries and a fractured foot, according to the spokesman. Crimmons was traveling north on U.S. Highway 87 about three miles south of Big Spring at 4:29 p.m. when the car she was driving went off the road and turned over, according to a Department of Public Safety accident report.

She must have been fatigued or asleep, the report stated. Crimmons apparently did not know what had happened, the report said. She was cited for driving at an unsafe speed.

leaders agreed on," he said.

As for the tort reform bills, Clements said that is a good sign to the nation's businesses.

"This legislation sends a positive signal to the business community that we are serious about holding down the cost of doing business in our state," Clements said.

The tort reform measures will show consumers that the state intends to hold down the cost of products and liability insurance, Clements said.

Rep. Mike Toomey, R-Houston, House sponsor of the tort reform effort, said it eventually will mean lower liability insurance rates.

"For many years, I think Texas has been at a disadvantage because of the unpredictability of the civil justice system,"

Indian couple join VA staff

A husband and wife physician team has been appointed to the staff of the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Big Spring, Director Conrad Alexander said.

Dr. Sambasivarao Moparthy and Dr. Jayasree Moparthy both graduated from Guntur Medical School in Guntur, India, and served their internships at the Government Hospital there.

The doctors held previous medical staff positions with VA medical centers in Biloxi, Miss., and Alexandria, La.

Alexander also announced the appointment of Dr. Bakhshish Masih. Board certified in general surgery, he graduated from Christian Medical College, Ludhiana, of the Punjab University, India. He previously was in private practice in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Alexander said all three doctors received their specialty training in the U.S.

Area sales tax refunds drop 20 percent from '86

Big Spring sales tax refunds from the state Comptroller's office for 1987 so far total $698,118 — a drop of 10.1 percent from the same time last year — according to figures released by State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office.

Crossroads Country city sales tax refunds were down an average of 20.63 percent from payments this date a year ago.

Bullock sent checks Thursday totaling $52.6 million in local sales tax to 1,039 cities that levy the one-percent city tax. He said 1987 payments were down 6 percent state-wide as compared to payments to date made in June last year.

June checks represent taxes collected on sales made in April and reported to the Comptroller by May 20.

The highest drop in payments percentage-wise of area towns was in Westbrook. The Mitchell County community has received $4,130.89 so far this year, compared to $7,139.46 for the same period last year — a drop of 42.14 percent.

The area town that has suffered the least drop in sales tax refunds was Colorado City. Its 1987 refunds to date total $120,786.65, a drop of 9 percent from the same period last year.

Elsewhere in the area:

• Coahoma — $11,333 in 1987 (year to date) compared to $15,112 in 1986 (year to date) — a drop of 25 percent.

• Forsan — $6,475 in 1987 compared to $8,079 in 1986 — a drop of 19.85 percent.

• Stanton — $23,652 compared to $31,692 — dropped 25.37 percent.

• Lamesa — $210,188 compared to $244,314 — dropped 13.97 percent.

• Snyder — $334,117 compared to $443,562 — dropped 24.66 percent.

• Sterling City — $23,170 compared to $27,034 — dropped 14.29 percent.

• Loraine — $2,971 compared to $3,809 — a drop of 21.98 percent.

Los Ybanez, near Lamesa, has received $3,527.54 for 1987 to date. The Comptroller's office was unable to compute the percentage change from last year.

Sheriff's log

Man arrested on warrants

Allen Dale Shepherd, 22, 2112 W. Third St., was arrested at 12:40 a.m. this morning on outstanding Department of Public Safety warrants. He is being held in custody in the Howard County jail, according to sheriff records.

• Shane Heath Clanton, Box 305 Kyle Road, was arrested Tuesday afternoon on Department of Public Safety traffic warrants. He was released on bonds totaling $400.

U.S. proposes global scrapping of missiles

GENEVA (AP) — The United States formally proposed the elimination of all of both superpowers' shorter-range intermediate nuclear forces in arms talks with the Soviet Union on Tuesday, a U.S. statement said.

The U.S. delegation called on the Soviets to join in also agreeing to a global scrapping of longer-range intermediate nuclear missiles, the statement said.

The proposals were put forth at a meeting of the negotiating group dealing with intermediate-range nuclear forces.

President Reagan announced the initiatives Monday night in a national broadcast from Washington.

His announcement came after the West European allies endorsed U.S. arms control proposals at a NATO meeting in Reykjavik, Iceland, last week. NATO foreign ministers approved the elimination of the superpowers' so-called longer- and shorter-range missiles from Europe.

The United States has said it will pull out its 316 longer-range cruise and Pershing II missiles. Moscow would destroy all of its 441 SS-20 missiles but has said it would keep 33 launchers in Asia aimed at China and Japan.

Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev told Secretary of State George P. Shultz in April the Soviet Union also would scrap about 40 SS-12 and SS-23 shorter-range missiles in East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Gorbachev also offered to negotiate the elimination of 100 shorter-range rockets based in the Soviet Union.

The United States has no such weapons in Europe. West Germany has 72 aging Pershing IA shorter-range missiles whose nuclear warheads are under U.S. control.

West Germany has insisted that the 72 missiles be exempt from any superpower accord. That position has been supported by Washington.

But in Moscow on Tuesday, the Soviet Foreign Ministry said the exemption of West Germany's Pershing IAs from a U.S.-Soviet pact would make such an agreement "completely devoid of any substance."

Spokesman Gennady Gerasimov told a news conference the United States "exercises control over those warheads, so they cannot be considered to be weapons belonging to third parties. They must be included in the number of warheads which are to be destroyed."

He said their exclusion "would create a loophole to bypass the Soviet-American agreement to make it completely void of any substance."

If Moscow agreed to let West Germany keep the Pershing IA missiles, a precedent would be set permitting the United States to transfer other missiles and warheads to Turkey, Italy or other countries that were not parties to an arms control agreement, Gerasimov said.

The Soviet spokesman said such a precedent could "theoretically" lead to similar action by the Soviet Union, which could turn to allies such as East Germany or Czechoslovakia and "supply them with Soviet-made warheads while stating that those are weapons belonging to a third party."

Panhandle town has oil celebration

PERRYTON — Local officials poured the drinks in a celebration of crude oil prices edging past $20 a barrel, and although the beverage ran dry, this town is hoping the party lasts a long time.

Members of the Perryton-Ochiltree Chamber of Commerce broke out seven cases of non-alcoholic champagne that had been on ice since February and hit the streets spreading the revelry to businesses and the streets.

"We all know the price of oil has been down, and the price of oil is very important to our economy. Oil is down, we've been down," said Bruce Jones, chamber president. "Now oil is back, our community is back and Texas is back."

Contracts for July delivery of West Texas Intermediate closed on the New York Mercantile Exchange at $20.27 per 42-gallon barrel on Tuesday, up 21 cents from Monday's close.

Ochiltree County Sheriffs Deputy Gwen McKnight and co-celebrator Pat Ragsdale share a little fake bubbly in celebration of the rising price per barrel of oil, which has surpassed the $20 mark.

LULAC calls for border patrol probe

EL PASO — A series of violent incidents linked to U.S. Border Patrol agents in El Paso should be investigated by Congress, an official of a major Hispanic group says.

John Garcia, director of the El Paso Council of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC), said Tuesday, "There have been a series of events in the last months where agents have abused their power, and nothing has been done."

"We want a general investigation done so a new permanent policy is set that will not allow agents to abuse their power," Garcia said.

The call for a Congressional investigation was prompted by the June 8 drowning of Armando Valenzuela, 25, of Juarez. The man drowned after he and four others entered the United States on a raft.

When they spotted two Border Patrol agents, they ran back to the raft and began crossing back into to Mexico, Valenzuela's brother, Victor, said.

At that point, Victor Valenzuela said, the agents allegedly began wiggling a rope that was being used to guide the raft across the Rio Grande.

Despite pleas by Armando to stop because he didn't know how to swim, the agents continued until the raft overturned, Victor Valenzuela said, and his brother fell in the river and drowned.

Preliminary reports indicate that the agents didn't do anything wrong, Gus De La Vina, Border Patrol deputy chief in El Paso, said.

Garcia called on U.S. Rep Ronald Coleman, D-Texas, to seek a Congressional inquiry on this drowning and other recent alleged acts of violence by Border Patrol agents.

"We need someone to do a fair and impartial investigation," Garcia said. "The Border Patrol's own actions are maligning them. After all these years, they have become callous towards Mexican citizens, forgetting they too are humans."

Theft injury proves fatal

BAY CITY — A woman who was mugged by two teenagers earlier this month died 11 days later from injuries she suffered in the attack, an autopsy indicated.

The autopsy revealed that Doris Mae Simpson, 64, died of a massive cerebral hemorrhage that was a direct result from a blow to the head she received during the June 2 mugging, police said.

Thelbert Simpson said he found his wife lying unconscious on a bed at their home on Saturday. She was pronounced dead at Matagorda General Hospital.

Simpson said a youth grabbed his wife's purse as they were getting into their car at a grocery store parking lot and, after a short chase, escaped in a car driven by another youth.

Justice of the Peace Ralph Lewis said family members told him she had complained of frequent neck and shoulder pain and severe headaches from the time of the incident until her death. Mrs. Simpson had been under her physician's care since the attack.

Groups accuse charities

DALLAS — Some charitable organizations may be just as guilty of funneling money to Central American communists as other groups are of giving military aid to the Contras, according to two conservative groups.

L. Francis Bouchee, president of the Council for Inter-American Security, and L. Brent Bozell, president of the National Conservative Political Action Committee, said Tuesday that Congress should launch an investigation of what they said were illegal tax-exempt deductions.

Teens burn dog

HOUSTON — One of two teenage cousins who admitted setting fire to a prize-winning dog after getting the idea from a movie was charged with animal cruelty, officials said.

"This case is appalling," Harris County Assistant District Attorney Kris Moore said Tuesday. "There's evidence that this may have happened more than one time, and that concerns me."

The youths, ages 15 and 16, may have burned other animals prior to June 2, when they doused a 5-year-old English springer spaniel with charcoal lighter fluid and ignited it at a Pasadena apartment complex, Ms. Moore said.

Indians attend drug suit

DALLAS — American Indians from as far as Arizona have come to Dallas to observe a lawsuit that they believe threatens what's left of their heritage and beliefs.

The Peyote Way Church of God, a 58-member group, is suing Texas and the federal government, demanding that it be allowed to use peyote at its commune near Klondike, Ariz.

Allowing the group to use the hallucinogenic plant in its ceremonies would threaten a way of life that native Americans have practiced for more than 700 years, a government attorney said in opening arguments Tuesday.

The Native American Church of North America is the only group that can legally use the plant, and the lawyer, Doug Becker, said it took a long battle spanning decades to win that right.

Hispanic AIDS cases double

SAN ANTONIO — The number of Bexar County AIDS cases has increased three times faster among Hispanics than among Anglos in the past six months, county health officials say.

Since December, the number of Bexar County Hispanics with confirmed cases of the fatal disease has more than doubled, rising from 16 cases to 35 cases, according to information presented at a Guadalupe Cultural Center workshop.

During the same period, the number of Anglos with acquired immune deficiency syndrome increased from 56 to 76.

"It started out late in the Hispanic community, and recently it has speeded up," said Dr. Diane Simpson, Metropolitan Health District coordinator for communicable diseases.

City Hall has been listening

Who says City Hall won't take advice or listen when citizens speak?

City Hall may seem to be a bit hard of hearing at times, but we do see appropriate responses to various issues and concerns taken to City Hall.

A recent example is City Hall's response to various beekeeping complaints and issues brought to the attention of Big Spring City Council.

Council members over-reacted and displayed their lack of knowledge about bees when complaints first came before them. That was when the Council was proposing an ordinance to ban bees in the city.

Since then, however, various citizens have pointed out the benefits that bees provide to a community and that middle-ground compromises should be considered rather than a ban.

In both cases, City Hall listened and reacted — both to the original complaints and the later calls for moderation and compromise.

Now, Council appears about ready to adopt an ordinance that will allow beekeepers within the city to maintain a maximum of three hives after obtaining a permit and renewing it yearly.

That action appears sensible and appropriate, and we applaud city officials for taking it.

Summit results seem minimal

It's always nice for the leaders of the free-world industrial powers to get together from time to time to size each other up and talk eyeball to eyeball. But given the shaky world economy and the possibility of a major conflagration in the Persian Gulf, much more should have been accomplished at the summit in Venice.

For U.S. purposes, the three-day conference wasn't necessarily an embarrassing setback, but it didn't produce any major strides forward, either. One gets the feeling that it resulted in sort of an unspoken vote of no-confidence.

On the economic front, President Reagan wanted England, France, Canada, Japan, West Germany and Italy to commit to phase out agricultural subsidies by the year 2000. But the bland communique issued at the end of the meeting only called for a "concerted reform of agricultural subsidies."

Mr. Reagan also wanted the allies to issue a stern warning to Iran. But the statement that was finally agreed on only gave lip service to the "principle of freedom of navigation in the (Persian) gulf," while emphasizing the importance of the free flow of oil through the Strait of Hormuz.

Otherwise, the nations called for easier credit for poor countries and agreed to press for steps back home to ease large fiscal imbalances. They agreed to use certain economic indicators to guide monetary and economic decisions and to monitor each other's economies in order to head off wild fluctuations in exchange rates.

All that sounds good, but President Reagan was unable to exercise much leverage because the United States has failed to address its own economic problems adequately. During the past four years, it has gone from the world's largest creditor nation to the world's largest debtor nation.

Its agricultural subsidies have quadrupled in the past six years. Its huge budget and trade deficits are reigniting inflation.

The United States must get its own house in order if it expects to wield strong economic influence internationally. On the foreign policy front, it needs to plan its moves carefully and present a united front, particularly on such touchy problems as the Persian Gulf, before trying to convince its allies to buy its initiatives.

Quotes

By the Associated Press

"There ain't no smoking gun." — President Reagan, as the White House denied he received a memorandum that could implicate him in diverting Iranian arms-sale profits to Nicaraguan rebels.

"I'm glad it's over. The last two years have been hell." — Bernhard Goetz, to the limousine driver who sped him from a New York courthouse after his subway shootings trial ended.

"He didn't get on the train looking to murder people, he didn't get on the train hunting people, he didn't approach these people in any way. They approached him and he was just sitting on that train." — Michael Axelrod, a juror in the New York City trial that ended with Bernhard Goetz being acquitted of all attempted murder and assault charges.

"Yeah, I think I'd rather be fishing." — Convicted murderer Jimmy Glass, when asked if he had a final statement before his electrocution in Louisiana for the shooting deaths of two people.

Hold the pickles, lettuce, burger; let's have onions

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

Alright Texas, you've made your point with me.

This business of trying to impress visitors and newcomers is great, and proving the adage "Everything's bigger in Texas" is quite admirable — to a point.

For me, that came when I recently discovered the size of mosquitos this state produces.

Let's be realistic.

How big does a mosquito really need to be to do its dirty work?

I don't think I need to worry about them carrying off my two daughters, but if the rains continue and the insects maintain their muscle-building efforts, anything may be possible.

An article in last week's Herald clued you in to several tricks that will help reduce our plentiful mosquito population. A bit of oil on a standing pool of water will reduce their larvae to nothing. If you don't take satisfaction in that, you must be among the lucky few who are not just another pin cushion for these winged insects of the Culicidae family.

For those of you who are, and know well the sting of a mosquito's attack, I have some information you might be appreciate and put to good use.

Understand, please, that I'm no old wife. But that doesn't stop me from passing along what some of my friends call an old wives' tale. My family has a long-standing method of handling attacks from stinging creatures, such as mosquitos and wasps — onions.

It all began several years ago at a family outing when one of my sisters was stung by a nasty-looking wasp and her reaction was quick and harsh. The swelling and the pain began immediately.

An older sister grabbed a slice of onion, slapped it on the wound and insisted: "Try this."

There were no arguments under the circumstances, although in retrospect everybody — including the one who initiated the vegetarian treatment — thought it a little strange.

The fact of the matter is, however, that the onion served to draw and absorb the poison left by the wasp.

The end result was an onion slice, compressed on the sting, that was discolored by the poison that otherwise would have caused considerable discomfort and an attacked arm that responded immediately to the unorthodox treatment.

If you are going to look for a scientific explanation for all of this, you will need to look elsewhere. My sources proved shallow on proving that it works or why.

My oldest sister doesn't even know what prompted her to try such a thing — but it worked.

However, County Extension Agent Naomi Hunt did share some words of wisdom that I was glad to hear.

"There's a big connection between mind and body. If you think it will work, and it does, fine."

She agreed that an onion would tend to draw fluids, and although she disclaims responsibility for such an idea, she didn't think it could do any harm.

A friend of mine knows it causes no harm. A huge Texas-style mosquito zeroed in and produced an ugly welt on her wrist. A bit of onion squeezed on the spot and held there momentarily produced the desired result: reduced sting and reduced welt.

I'm no scientist, but it's hard to argue with success.

Besides, I would prefer the smell of onion to commercial bug repellents any day.

Happy mosquito hunting.

Enemies Iraq and Syria meet

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — A dramatic secret meeting in late April between two bitter Arab enemies — Syrian President Hafez Assad and Iraqi President Saddam Hussein — has laid the groundwork for rapprochement between the two key Middle East neighbors.

The clandestine two-day meeting, according to intelligence sources, was held in the southern Jordanian town of Al Jafr. The "honest brokers" who arranged the conference were Jordan's King Hussein and Saudi Arabia's Crown Prince Abdallah.

The two dictators arrived at a Royal Jordanian Air Force base near the desert rendezvous late on the afternoon of Sunday, April 26, and met briefly. It was the first meeting between Assad and Hussein since the Iran-Iraq war began in September 1980. Iraq understandably has considered Syria an enemy for its active military, diplomatic and intelligence support of Iran in the stalemated war.

In fact, it was the first time the two men had conferred when both were rulers. In 1978, when they met during unity negotiations between the two countries, Hussein was only vice president of Iraq.

The two presidents got down to business on April 27, when they met continuously for 12 hours. This is not unusual for Assad, who insists on intricate examination of every issue in diplomatic negotiations. "If Assad meets with someone for an hour, they probably only talked about the weather," one observer quipped.

The two were left alone for the most part and covered a wide range of issues that have separated their countries in recent years. They could not agree on the major obstacle: Being on the opposite sides of a bloody war.

Jack Anderson

But our sources said the two leaders' agreements on other problems were significant. They agreed, for example, to cease hostile covert operations injurious to each other. Syria has supported Kurdish separatists fighting in Iraq, while Iraq has supported subversive elements trying to overthrow Assad by assassination or other means.

In addition, the two dictators reportedly promised to scale down inflammatory campaigns in the government-controlled media, and agreed to set up future meetings of their prime ministers, interior ministers and oil ministers.

Oil is an important lubricant of any rapprochement between Syria and Iraq. Syria now gets about 20,000 barrels of free oil from Iran, and much more at cut-rate prices.

If Syria dumps its ally Iran, Saudi Arabia has secretly pledged 50,000 free barrels of oil a day — but the Syrians are worried about the price they'll have to pay for the rest of their oil needs.

Assad and Hussein also discussed the possibility of reopening the Iraq-Syria oil pipeline, which was closed at the outset of the war. One of the earliest signs of eventual rapprochement between Syria and Iraq will be the day oil starts coming through the Syrian end of the pipeline at Tartus.

Finally, the two presidents tentatively agreed to meet publicly at the next Arab summit conference, scheduled for either September or November in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

The roots of the surprise secret meeting between the two supposedly mortal enemies can be traced back to an Arab mini-summit in August 1985. Saudi Prince Abdallah was given the assignment of reconciling the Arab enemies. The April meeting in Jordan was a direct result of Abdallah's efforts, aided by King Hussein.

The Jordanian monarch was "in and out" of the 12-hour conference between the Syrian and Iraqi leaders, according to a knowledgeable source. Prince Abdallah did not attend, the source said. But the main idea was to leave the two leaders alone to talk over their differences.

SOVIET SPACE SHUTTLE: The Soviets' belated space shuttle will probably fly by 1991, according to CIA sources. The Soviets have already built two orbiters, which have undergone flight tests piggybacking on a Bison bomber. And according to some sources, the shuttles have been subjected to independent glide tests as well.

The Soviet space shuttle probably won't have as much recoverable hardware as the U.S. spaceships, but our sources say this difference may not be significant. It doesn't mean the Soviets' shuttle will be less economical than ours. That's because, despite fewer reusable systems, the Soviet launchers will have a greater degree of "parts commonality." This means that mass-production techniques can be used for many parts, and this will bring substantial savings in production costs.

Father and son share life, career

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Harry Carey, the voice of the Chicago Cubs, is back at work after a stroke, and that was big news all over the country.

The Cubs, and Harry, are on cable and they've got fans in all the four corners.

Harry, who is 70, has that devilish smile, the great voice, and when he does a beer commercial, you immediately want to go out and buy a case of what he's advertising.

Even President Reagan called Harry in the Cubs broadcast booth on his first day back, which is indicative of Reagan's appreciation of Harry's work.

Reagan is up to his ears in congressional hearings and Iraqi jets but he still had time to call Harry Carey.

I ran into Harry's son, Skip, the other night in Atlanta. Skip followed his father into broadcasting. He is an announcer for the Braves, who also are on cable. The two Careys reach untold millions each day and night of the baseball season.

There are some similarities in their styles, but Harry's got something I'm not certain Skip has — the ability to sing.

Watch a Cubs game on television, if you haven't already. During the 7th-inning stretch, Harry gets on the Wrigley Field public address system and leads the crowd in the singing of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

It's a nice homey touch in these days of huge salaries, crooked agents, and the shadow of drug use that is on nearly all of professional sports.

Over the years, I've always taken notice of father-son relationships.

It's something that I mostly missed in life. My daddy, who left home when I was 6, died when I was 23.

The last 17 years of his life we might have been together a total of three months. I spent a large portion of my youth missing him.

Skip Carey was telling me about the day he went to Chicago as a guest announcer, filling in for his dad during his recuperative period. "I'm in a cab three or four blocks from Wrigley Field, and I suddenly said to myself, 'Hey, this isn't going to be that easy. I could crack up on the air.'"

"I got out of the cab and had a little talk with myself and I made it through somehow."

"Sitting in that booth filling in for him made me appreciate him even more."

I listened to Skip and wondered, as I often have, what it would be like if my father were alive today.

I'm sure we would go to some ball games together and he would be an incredible source of column material. The man had some stories, and he told them relentlessly.

I could do some things for him now I couldn't do for him before.

I could bring some comfort and stability to his life. I could take him on trips and I could introduce him to my friends, and I could, on occasion, put my arms around him and tell him how much I love him.

I said to Skip Carey, "You ought to get down on your knees every day and be thankful you've got your dad. Fathers and sons are special."

Skip agreed. I went home that night and couldn't get to sleep for a couple of hours. I kept thinking of an old soldier a long time gone.

Holy cow, as Harry would say. What I'd give to have him back.

Gore addresses AIDS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Sen. Albert Gore, a likely entrant into the ranks of Democratic presidential hopefuls, says "history will deal harshly" with President Reagan's administration for failing to meet the AIDS threat.

The Tennessee Democrat on Tuesday called for "a Manhattan-style project" to find a cure for AIDS.

At the same time, he and another 1988 Democratic hopeful, Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware, told the nation's big-city mayors they would make urban ills a top priority.

Mayor wins new term

DENVER — Frederico Pena, the city's first Hispanic mayor, won a close, come-from-behind re-election battle over corporate attorney Don Bain, then called on supporters and opponents to work together for a better Denver.

With all precincts reporting, Pena won by a 51-49 percent margin, getting 79,674 votes, only 326 votes more than Bain's 76,648 in Tuesday's nonpartisan runoff election. The unofficial returns include absentee ballots.

Drug charges probed

ATLANTA — A U.S. attorney said today there is insufficient evidence to prosecute Mayor Andrew Young or other city officials for obstruction of justice in the handling of drug allegations against civil rights activist Julian Bond.

But federal prosecutor Robert Barr said an investigation of narcotics allegations against a number of prominent Atlantans is continuing. He declined to identify any of those involved.

"There is evidence that federal laws have been violated," Barr said at a news conference.

He stressed, however, that the focus of the investigation has narrowed to "the possession and distribution of dangerous drugs."

Minors allowed in club

ST. PAUL, Minn. — A lounge offering nude dancing does not violate zoning laws because the audience includes minors, and that's OK under state law because the youths are not charged admission, a judge has ruled.

The Playboy Lounge, which is not affiliated with the magazine of the same name, is not an adult-use business because it allows minors inside, Ramsey County Chief Judge David Marsden ruled Tuesday.

It therefore does not violate city zoning ordinances prohibiting adult-use businesses near residential areas, he said.

An unidentified man who told reporters he was homeless, engages in a shouting match with two members of the Revolutionary Communist Party in lower Manhattan Tuesday over the sign the man carries in support of Bernhard Goetz. The three were part of a crowd gathered outside State Supreme Court after a jury acquitted Goetz of attempted murder of four youths he shot because he said they were going to rob him on a subway car in December 1984.

Goetz

Jury clears gunman of most charges

NEW YORK (AP) — Jurors who cleared Bernhard Goetz of shooting four men on a subway felt he was a man living a nightmare, not a hunter on the prowl, when he opened fire.

Goetz, who had been charged with attempted murder and assault in a case that gained international attention, was convicted Tuesday only of illegally possessing the gun he used to shoot the four on Dec. 22, 1984. He could be jailed for up to seven years, or avoid prison altogether.

As he left the courthouse, some of the jurors asked for his autograph.

"I'm glad it's over," Goetz told the limousine driver who sped him away. "The last two years have been hell."

The shooting raised basic issues of self-defense, crime, vigilantism and the right to carry guns.

Some people saw Goetz as a thug-buster fighting back against urban crime, while others said he was a menace for firing five rounds in a crowded train. On the videotape, Goetz told police that he feared he was about to become a victim of a crime, and wanted to make the young men suffer.

"The public may wonder why we reached this verdict. They may wonder why we didn't believe Goetz when he said he did it, himself," said juror Mark Lesly, 27. The four-woman, eight-man jury included two blacks. Six of the jurors had been victims of crimes, three of them in the subway.

Lesly said they discounted the confession, because "it was obvious he was a man close to a nervous breakdown. He was living and reliving a nightmare."

The case also had racial overtones, because Goetz' victims — Barry Allen, Darrell Cabey, Troy Canty and James Ramseur — are black.

"We didn't feel it was racial," juror Michael Axelrod said on ABC's "Nightline." "We didn't lower ourselves to that. ... To say that this is a racism thing or this is a vigilante thing is a bunch of garbage, because it just wasn't there. This was another attempted murder case."

Mayor Edward I. Koch said, "Some may be apprehensive that the verdict is a signal that vigilantism will be condoned. They are wrong."

"Vigilantism must be condemned and those who have engaged in such acts must be punished to the fullest extent of the law," Koch said in Nashville, Tenn., where he was attending a mayors' conference. "The law is the law," said Gov. Mario Cuomo.

Soviet official ousted

MOSCOW — Soviet officials removed the chief of Moscow's air defenses and strongly criticized his district for practices that may have helped a West German pilot fly unimpeded to Red Square, the army newspaper said today.

But the Defense Ministry daily Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star) did not say whether Marshal Anatoly U. Konstantinov had been replaced before or after Mathias Rust's unauthorized flight in a private plane from Finland to the heart of Moscow.

A Western defense attaché said the article was the first announcement of Konstantinov's removal.

The defense attaché said the Krasnaya Zvezda report was the harshest criticism he had ever seen of the military in the state-run Soviet press.

Israel attacks Lebanon

SIDON, Lebanon — Israeli warplanes and helicopter gunships launched separate attacks today against Shiite Moslem and Palestinian targets in south Lebanon. Police said two people were killed and four wounded.

Also today, Israeli forces and their Christian-led Lebanese militia allies pounded six Shiite towns and villages in south Lebanon with field artillery. Police said one woman was killed and six people were injured in the barrage.

A police statement said two helicopter gunships fired five rockets into the main square in the village of Qabrikha at 6:30 a.m. and killed one person. It gave no further details.

Police fire on crowd

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Police said today they fired rifles and tear gas at a stone-throwing crowd, killing one black man and wounding two on the anniversary of the 1976 Soweto riots.

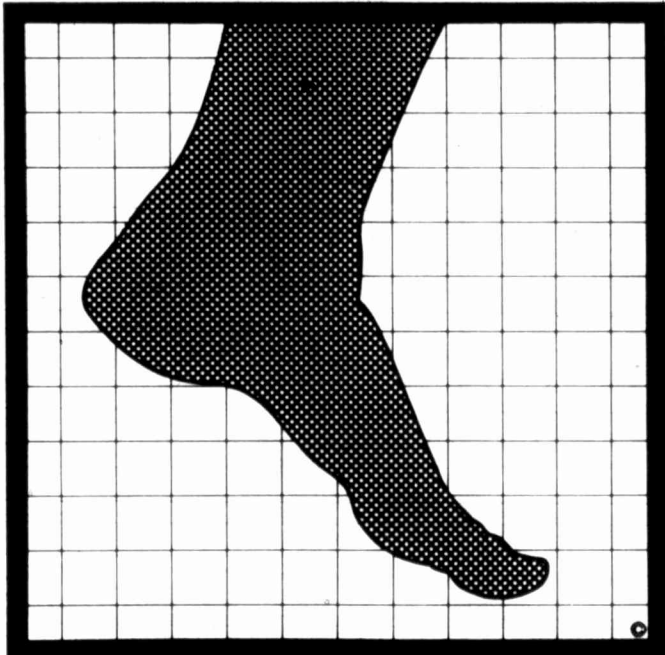

Another black man, 40-year-old Martin Mashue, was beaten to death by four white men behind a shopping center in the white Johannesburg suburb of Boksburg, police said. They said they did not know the details of the attack.

Riots won't move games

LONDON — The International Olympic Committee said today that violent political demonstrations in South Korea have made "absolutely no change" in its plans to hold the 1988 Games in Seoul.

Michele Verdier, the IOC spokeswoman, said that barring an act of war, the Olympics next year would remain in the South Korean capital, where they were awarded in 1981.

Military family

The third Crenwelge son, Bret, recently graduated from the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. He follows brothers Wayne and Kevin, both now captains in the Air Force, and their father, Joe, a retired Lt. Colonel. Joe said Bret plans to train as a pilot, as he did in 1955. The older brothers are navigators. The family gathered in Colorado recently for the occasion. From left are Kevin; Joe; Bret; Elizabeth, the brothers' mother; Denise, their sister; and Wayne Crenwelge. Related story appears on page 1A.

Cannibal Draw Reunion a success

The tenth annual Cannibal Draw Reunion on June 13 at La Posada Restaurant was an "outstanding success," according to Mack Underwood, founder of the organization.

One hundred attended this year's event. The reunion is conducted annually on the second Saturday in June. Persons eligible for membership in the club must have lived in the Cannibal Draw section of Big Spring in the 1930s or before.

A short memorial service was conducted for the seven members of the club who died since the 1986 meeting.

Special guests attending were W. L. (Squeaky) and Marguerite Thompson; Bill and Zay Birrell; Pat Flowers; and Pyle Bradshaw, all of Big Spring.

Also Tom and Linda Angel and Jim Wheeler, of Stanton; and Buster Bray and Lillie (Petty) Bray, both of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Styber was presented with an award for having traveled the greatest distance to attend the reunion. Janice (Pickle) Harris was recognized as the oldest female member present and Alvin Smith was the oldest male member in attendance.

Hayes Stripling Jr. served as master of ceremonies for the again this year and he presented Underwood with a $50 gift certificate, pointing out the hours of service Underwood has given to the club.

After the dinner, pictures of pre-World War II and its spirit of camaraderie were shared, Underwood said.

Range Management Clinic June 18

The Howard County Agricultural Extension Service will conduct a Range Management Clinic June 18 at the Dora Roberts Fair Building at 7:30 p.m.

A barbecue, courtesy of Dow Chemical Company, will be provided and Dr. Alan McGinty, Extension range management specialist, will discuss the latest information on chemical control of mesquite, perenn nial broomweed and prickly pear.

Sam Buchannon will discuss the format of CRP ACRES and the next sign-up period.

Anyone interested in attending the clinic may make reservations at the local extension office, 267-6671.

Ladies Auxiliary chooses delegates

Six members of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of World War I, Barracks 1474, will represent the chapter at the state convention in Irving June 26-29.

The group met June 13 at Kentwood Senior Citizens Center. Delegates to the Irving convention are Eula Phillips, Viola Younger, Jennie Barber, Dorothy Hull, Maxie Irland and Virginia Younger.

Letters from the state president, Louise Neidermaier, were read urging as many as could do so to attend the state convention in Irving.

Correspondence communications from the national president urging members to attend the national convention in Oklahoma City Aug. 22-27 were read by Gladys Hudson.

The meeting was called to order by Virginia Younger, president.

Cakes will be furnished by the auxiliary and served to the patients of the Veterans Administration Medical Center on June 30.

Next meeting will be July 11.

Desk and Derrick Club has speaker

Fred Morrow, vice president of engineering at Fiberflex, spoke to the Big Spring Desk and Derrick Club at the Fiberflex conference room recently.

He spoke about the economics of producing oil with beam pumping units.

Morrow has been with Fiberflex since 1979. Prior to that he worked for Lufkin Industries and Joslin. He is a Texas A&M graduate and a member of SPE — and has had patents issued in his name.

He conducts seminars in several countries, including Indonesia, Venezuela and Canada. Once a year, he goes to the University of Wyoming Engineering School to speak to graduating engineers.

Charlotte Sheedy and Margaret Wise will go to the ADCC convention in Oklahoma City Sept. 16-20.

Next meeting is Aug. 3 at Albertos at 6 p.m.

NARVE meets at Kentwood June 18

The National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees (NARVE) will meet at the Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center for a potluck supper and a business meeting on June 18 at 6:30 p.m.

Teens hunting for summer jobs need attitude check

DEAR ABBY: Will you please reprint that letter you ran beginning "Dear Kid"? It was signed "The Boss" — explaining why he picked "the other kid" who had applied for a job. It appeared in your column several years ago, but with summer here it would be helpful if you ran it again. I am a businessman, and you wouldn't believe what comes in here applying for a job. Thank you.

PORTLAND, ORE.,
BUSINESSMAN

DEAR BUSINESSMAN: With pleasure. Here's the piece, and well worth the space. It appeared in The Cincinnati Enquirer, in William Raspberry's syndicated column. It was written by Karen Rak, who teaches English to students at Center Junior High School in Strongsville, Ohio.

Ms. Rak composed a letter (ostensibly from an employer) designed to let her youthful job seekers see themselves as they are seen. With so many young people looking for jobs now, I think this piece deserves all the exposure it can get.

"DEAR KID: Today you came to me for a job. From the look of your shoulders as you walked out, I suspect you've been turned down before, and maybe you believe by now that kids your age can't find jobs."

"But I hired a teen-ager today."

Dear Abby

You saw him. What was so special about him? Not experience; neither of you had any. Attitude, son. A-T-T-I-T-U-D-E. He did his best to impress me. That is where he edged you out.

"He wasn't dressed like Easter Sunday, but then that wasn't necessary. His clothes were clean, and he had gotten a haircut. He filled out the application form neatly and completely. He did not ask to borrow a pen. He carried his Social Security card, had basic identification and did not ask, 'What's a reference?'"

"He didn't have two friends waiting for him by the pop machine. He didn't start to chew gum or smoke while being interviewed. He didn't keep looking at his watch, giving me the impression that he had something more important to do.

"He took the time to find out how we 'operate' here, and what his day-to-day tasks would be. I think he'll keep his eyes open and work for me like he'd work for himself."

"He was willing to start at that point where I could afford to pay. Someday, perhaps, he'll get to the point where he'll have more authority over others and a better paycheck."

"You know, kid, men have always had to get a job like you get a girl: case the situation, wear a clean shirt, and try to appear reasonably willing."

"Maybe jobs aren't as plentiful right now, but there are jobs. You may not believe it, but all around you employers are looking for young men and women smart enough to go after a job in the old-fashioned way."

"If you have even the vaguest idea of what I'm trying to say, let it show the next time you ask for a job. You will be head and shoulders above the rest."

"For both our sakes, get eager, will you?"

THE BOSS"

"Problems" Write to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 69410, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential."

Cooper in state baseball finals

AUSTIN (AP) — Robert McAdams stroked a solo home run and Jason Satre struck out 13 batters to lift Abilene Cooper, 32-3, past Galena Park North Shore.

McAdams blasted a two-out, 3-2 pitch over the left field wall to break open a scoreless tie and give the Cougars the win.

McAdams preserved the win on defense in the very next inning after making a diving back-handed catch of a Terry Martin shot and robbing him of a sure extra base hit with a runner at first.

Satre pitched brilliantly through seven innings, giving up just four hits and the junior righthander did not walk a batter. He improves to 11-2 on the season.

Brian Bohanon, drafted in the second round of the major league baseball draft last week and a Texas A&M signee, lost for only the second time this year against 17 victories. The big lefthander struck out nine and walked only one.

Bohanon had ripped a triple in the first inning but was left stranded and was the only Mustang to get past first base all night. North Shore finishes the season at 22-9.

In other games, High Island won a spot opposite Burton in the Class A final by defeating Savoy, 5-1. Three Rivers beat Holliday, 2-1, and China Spring beat New Diana, 2-0, in Class 2A semifinals. San Augustine beat LaVega, 4-1, and Hooks shut out LaGrange, 5-0, in Class 3A; and San Antonio MacArthur beat Plano East, 3-2, and Burton defeated Lefors 11-1 to advance to the Class A finals.

The game only lasted five innings, but it was enough to put Dwayne Mathis in the record book as only the second pitcher to hurl a no-hitter in Class A tournament history.

Mathis' pitching helped Burton gain a berth in the finals as Burton defeated Lefors, 11-1, Tuesday.

Mathis struck out seven batters and walked only two. The game ended after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Rodney Roehling had three of the Panthers' 10 hits, and Johann McGowan drove in three runs.

Burton improved its record to 25-2, while LeFors dropped to 7-3.

Brenham and Fort Worth Brewer advanced to Wednesday's Class 4A state championship game.

Brenham defeated Robstown 5-2, and Brewer pounded Powderly

North Lamar 8-1. Robstown, 24-7, and North Lamar, 25-6, are through for the year.

Phil Thomas and Chris Hicks had two hits apiece to lead Hooks, while Thomas also picked up the win on the mound and struck out nine.

Donnie Swain lost a chance to at least share the state victory record with Ronnie Powers of Fort Worth Brewer when New Diana lost to China Spring.

Swain, now 21-6, gave up only three hits but his Eagle teammates could manage only two themselves.

David Stone was the winner for China Spring, 23-2, and raised his record to 12-1.

San Antonio MacArthur scored three runs in its first time at bat and made them stand up in edging Plano East.

In a pitching duel between Mike Copple of MacArthur, now 28-5, and Andy Beckerman of Plano East, 28-8, the Brahmas were out hit 5-4 by the Panthers and had only one hit after the first inning, but still managed to pull out the victory.

In seven innings of work, Copple, who now is 16-3, fanned 10 batters while giving up only one walk. Beckerman, who fell to 12-4, struck out two and walked two in the loss. No one on either team had more than one hit.

In its three-run first, MacArthur's first three batters reached by way of an error and a pair of singles, and all three batters scored.

Catcher Kirk Piskor, a .498 hitter during the year, gave Plano its two runs with a towering home run in the sixth inning after Ron Walker aboard.

Junior shortstop Jon Gryseels went 3-for-4 as Three Rivers slipped by Holliday in their 2A semifinal.

Tim O'Brien and Scott Broyles had the lone hits for Holliday, 13-8, as Michael Zamzow struck out eight and went all the way for the win for Three Rivers, now 22-4.

Todd Kahla led High Island, 18-7, in its victory over Savoy. Kahla had two hits and two runs batted in, while Robbie Van Zandt held Savoy, 23-5, to two hits. Van Zandt struck out eight in improving his record to 10-4 for the season.

Stars win game five

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — With Prek scoring a goal and adding two assists, the Tacoma Stars have moved to within one victory of their first Major Indoor Soccer League championship.

They beat the Dallas Sidekicks 5-3 Tuesday night for a 3-2 lead in the MISL finals.

Game 6 of the best-of-seven game playoffs will be played Thursday night in Dallas with Game 7, if necessary, set Saturday night in the Tacoma Dome.

Before the first capacity crowd of 20,284 in the Stars' four-year history, Ricky Davis gave the Stars a 3-2 lead on the first of Preki's two assists at 11:24 of the second quarter.

Neil Megson of Tacoma opened the scoring 4:12 into the game after a Steve Zungul free kick. The Stars made it 2-0 on a power play goal by Godfrey Ingram on an assist by Davis with 48 seconds left in the first quarter.

Dallas struck back with two goals in a 2:02 span in the second quarter. Kevin Smith scored on Eddie Radwanski's assist at 2:16 and Radwanski tallied at 4:18 to tie the score at 2-2.

The 23-year-old Preki, who was held without a goal in Sidekicks' victories in Games 3 and 4 in Dallas, scored his 18th goal of the playoffs, rebounding Gary Heale's shot on a power play with 2:21 remaining in the third quarter for a 4-2 Tacoma lead. Dallas came back with Tatu's 19th playoff goal on Willie Molano's assist, cutting the Stars' lead to 4-3 at 7:11 of the fourth quarter.

Howard bull rider in fifth place

Herald staff report

BOZEMAN, Mont. — Howard College bull rider R.D. Christian is fifth after the first go-round of the bull riding competition at the national college rodeo championships, reported Hawks rodeo coach Dusty Johnston.

Christian scored a 72 on his first bull. He'll ride his second bull Friday night, and if he's in the top ten after the second go-round, he'll compete in the final go-round on Saturday night, Johnston said.

Three of the top five bull riders were from this region, though Jim Sharp of Odessa was not among them. Johnston said Sharpe, the top ranked bull rider in the nation, drew a weak bull in the first go-round and was unable to score many points.

Johnston said both Christian and Sharp drew strong bulls for Friday's second go-round. In a bull ride, the bull's score factors in with the cowboy's ride.

The winner will be determined by the top average score from the three go-rounds, Johnston said.

It's party time in Lakerland

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As the Los Angeles Lakers and their fans celebrated the team's fourth NBA championship of the 1980s, already there was talk about "Same Time, Next Year."

But can the newest NBA champions repeat, something that 17 successive champions have failed to do since 1969?

"I'm not going to guarantee anything like this year next year, but I know we'll be there," Coach Pat Riley of the Lakers told fans Tuesday after the team was showered with computer paper during a 10-block parade.

"We're going to try to get this to happen again next year so we can make this an annual event," said Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Lakers' captain and, at age 40, the oldest player in the NBA.

"Make a note to yourself," said Chick Hearn, the radio voice of the Lakers. "We'll be back here one year from today."

Team members rode three floats during the parade, which ended at City Hall where a boisterous crowd packed the lawn to hear Riley and Abdul-Jabbar, among others.

The Lakers set up the celebration by beating the defending champion Boston Celtics 106-93 on Sunday. Los Angeles won the best-of-seven NBA finals four games to two.

The Celtics, incidentally, are the last team to win consecutive titles, in 1968 and 1969.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 either lined the parade route or attended the ceremonies at City Hall, according to Fabian Lizarraga, a police officer in the Los Angeles Police Department press relations section.

Addressing the crowd, Mayor Tom Bradley pronounced the Lakers "the best basketball team in the history of this land" and presented Abdul-Jabbar with a proclamation from the City Council.

The City Hall crowd began to gather Monday night and, for the most part, was in place well before the parade's 11 a.m. start.

Team pennants sprouted from the crowd, along with signs that played off the names of favored players like advertising jingles.

"Lakers are Magic-al," "L.A. Kareem'd the Celtics," and "Lakers are 'Worthy' Champions," read signs referring to Magic Johnson, Abdul-Jabbar and James Worthy.

"We're the No. 1 team, You're the No. 1 sports fans, we're in the No. 1 city and we've got the No. 1 mayor, so hey, have a good time," Johnson shouted to the fans. "I don't think there's any more words left to say. It's been a great season for everybody."

"I see all of Los Angeles out here — I see folks from the valley, Koreatown and Chinatown. I saw a sign that said, 'Saluda Lakers, campeones mundial,'" Abdul-Jabbar said, recognizing Spanish-speaking fans, who responded with an ovation.

"Right now, I'm delighted and happy that we lost in Boston in Game 5 so we could win it at the Forum," Riley said. "What this

World's best geared for 87th U.S. Open

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The world's best golfers, millionaires who follow the sun, would prefer that it stay out of sight during the 87th U.S. Open Championship.

"After today, I don't know if anyone can feel confident about this course," defending champion Ray Floyd said after his Tuesday practice round. "If it stays sunny and windy, I think we could see some of the highest Open scores in years."

Jack Nicklaus predicted, "Par will be a very good score. I'm not sure if it's going to win, but it will be a good score."

Spain's Seve Ballesteros added, "A lot depends on the (weather) conditions. If they were good, I'd take even par right now."

He meant "good" from the spectator's standpoint. The players would welcome chilly fog through the four rounds of play.

The Open will begin Thursday on the Olympic Club's par-70 Lake course, a quarter-mile from the Pacific Ocean. On most spring and summer days, fog covers the course at least through the morning and keeps fairways and greens relatively soft.

An overdose of sunshine firms up those fairways and greens, and that's what has happened this week.

"The greens are firm and fast and they're not going to be very easy," said Nicklaus, adding that because of putting troubles he hasn't found any green in the country easy lately.

"The fairways are very firm, and it will be important to keep the ball in the fairway. If you don't, you're not going to be able to get it on the green," he said.

Most of the Lake course's greens are very small by modern Tour standards. And, even compared to other Opens on other courses, those targets will appear even smaller on approach shots from off the fairways.

Ballesteros described the four-inch rough as "about the same as for any Open, big and fluffy and difficult."

"The most difficult thing will be just putting the ball in play. It always is on an Open course."

Nicklaus, winner of four Open titles, said he believes this year's champion will be "a plodder, a guy who keeps the ball down the middle, gets it on the green and doesn't try to be a hero on too many holes."

On an Open course, Floyd said, a golfer off the fairway often has to lower his goals.

"You have to try to make bogey sometime, because if you go for a par you might end up with a double- or triple-bogey," he said.

Floyd, Nicklaus and Trevino are all in their 40s. Floyd, who won his first Open title at 44 and collected $380,000 in Tour winnings last year, is 62nd on the money list this season with $84,673. Nicklaus, 99th with $47,431, and Trevino, 187th with $6,134 have played in only seven Tour events apiece this year.

Younger players such as Ballesteros, Greg Norman, Payne Stewart, Ben Crenshaw and Lanny Wadkins — all looking for their first U.S. Open victories — are generally considered the favorites this week, regardless of the weather and course conditions.

Nicklaus was 66th in his own Memorial Tournament last month and last week missed the cut at Westchester with rounds of 77 and 76.

"Last week, I played about as badly as I can ever recall playing," he said. "My golf game should be decent. I've got two days to find out whether I can play better."

Floyd believes he has regained his putting touch, the strongest part of his game. He was 13th at the Kemper event two weeks ago after missing the cut in three straight tournaments.

"I didn't make the kind of critical errors I had been making, and that gave me some confidence," he said.

Trevino, fourth in the 1986 Open, was asked Tuesday if he thought he had a chance this year to win his third Open title.

"Not at all," he said. "I haven't been playing well and I'm almost 48 years old."

Besides, he added, "I've never won a major championship when the greens were hard. I won in the mud."

Yankees coming out of slump; win fourth game in five tries

By The Associated Press

Embarrassed by a one-sided sweep of a three-game series last week at the hands of Toronto, the New York Yankees are determined to turn things around. So far, they're getting the hitting and pitching when they need it.

On Tuesday night, it was the hitting which came through. Dave Winfield had two homers and Willie Randolph's opposite-field single drove in the key runs in a 6-5 victory over the slumping Baltimore Orioles. Since being outscored 21-3 by the Blue Jays, who moved past the Yankees and into first place in the American League East, New York has changed direction. The Yankees have won four of their last five games.

"It shows that we did not concentrate all of our hopes on the one series," Randolph said. "We have played really good ball since then, especially with all the guys out."

Even without stars Don Mattingly and Rickey Henderson, both on the disabled list, the Yankees have had a solid offense in the five games. They've scored 31 runs in those games.

Trailing 4-2 after Cal Ripken's two-run single in the sixth, New York sent nine men to the plate in the bottom of the inning off starter Ken Dixon and Mark Williamson, 2-4.

Rangers 5, Angels 4

Guzman's no-hit bid ended on a double by Doug DeCinces, who added a ninth-inning two-run homer off reliever Dale Mohorcic to scare the Rangers. But they held on.

Guzman faced the minimum number of batters, striking out nine in 7 1/3 innings. He walked Brian Downing leading off the second inning, but DeCinces then hit into a double play. Dick Schofield walked leading off the third, but Bob Boone also hit into a double play.

Guzman struck out nine. "I won't kid you," he said. "I started thinking about the no-hitter in the third inning. As soon as I went back to the field, I reminded myself to keep concentrating."

Athletics 11, Royals 1

While Oakland bats were potent, the Royals' pitching continued to falter. Kansas City has allowed 34 runs in the last four games, all losses.

Jose Canseco two solo home runs and both Reggie Jackson and Mike Davis added two-run shots for the Athletics, who have won seven of their last eight games. Jackson's home was his seventh of the season.

Twins 7, Brewers 3

Minnesota moved 10 games over .500 for the first time since July 24, 1979, when the Twins were 53-43. Shortstop Greg Gagne had two doubles and a triple and knocked in four runs as the West leaders won for the 10th time in their last 11 games and 16th in 21. Frank Viola, 6-5, won his fourth straight decision.

Indians 8, Red Sox 7

Brett Butler provided the spark for Cleveland with a bunt single, a double and a triple, and scored three runs.

Blue Jays 10, Tigers 4

Toronto, held to one run the previous night, unleashed a 16-hit attack, led by Tony Fernandez and Jesse Barfield with four hits apiece. Fernandez drove in three runs and Ernie Whitt capped a six-run fourth with a two-run single.

Mariners 8, White Sox 6

Manager Dick Williams got his 1,500th career victory (against 1,366 losses) as Mickey Brantley drove in five runs, three with a home run. Mike Kingery's two-run triple in the eighth inning snapped a 6-6 tie.

up front bonuses, interest on money loaned," Patterson said Tuesday.

"The difference is in the interpretation of the contract. I'd say his (Sampson) contract exceeds Akeem's in the way we interpreted it."

"But that's about as specific as I want to get because we're still negotiating in good faith and I want to keep it that way."

Rodeo offers big purse

Big Spring Rodeo liaison Bob Lewis announced today that approximately $34,000 in prize money will be given away at this year's Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

According to Lewis, 365 of the highest ranking professional cowboys in the USA have signed up for the rodeo.

A few of the big names include the world team roping duo of Clay O'Brien Cooper and Jake Barnes. The bull riding competition has drawn a number of big names including Ted Nuncie and Lane Frost, who finished second and third in the world last year. Also competing in the bull riding will be college champion Jim Sharp, as well as Bobby Del Vecchio and Joe Wimberly.

Webb said. "I don't think there were any arrests. I think there were two fairs. I think one of them was a fire marshal."

"Red is dead," said spectator Bryan James in a joyous requiem for Red Auerbach, general manager of the Celtics.

Auerbach was the subject of perhaps the most creative sign — "We Broke Auerbach's to be Champs."

"The mayor thought it was the best parade he has ever ridden in," Ali Webb, an aide to Bradley, said. "He was really psyched."

"Everyone was really pleased," other scraps rained down on the dignitaries from office windows as police mounted on horses and motorcycles pressed back the crowd. Street vendors hawked white, purple and gold Laker T-shirts and Laker-purple cotton candy.

Along the parade route, ecstatic spectators exchanged "high fives" amid the full-court press on the sidewalks, and somebody staged an unofficial, five-minute firecracker exhibition on a side street.

Cards rout Pirates

By The Associated Press

Willie McGee says he and his St. Louis teammates, who have won nine of their last 12 games, are playing like amateurs.

"This is like a high school team, scoring runs the way we are," McGee said after the Cardinals got 16 hits in an 11-1 rout of the Pittsburgh Pirates on Tuesday night. "I've never seen anything like it."

St. Louis, which averages a league-best of nearly six runs a game, enjoyed its most productive inning this season by scoring nine times in the sixth when Jack Clark hit a three-run homer and John Morris a bases-loaded triple.

NL

Pinch-hitter Jose Oquendo, Tony Pena and Ozzie Smith also drove in runs with singles in the inning.

Cardinals starter Tim Lincecum walked four of the first five men he faced, including a bases-load pass to Jim Morrison. But Bill Dawley, 3-4, pitched 5 2/3 innings of scoreless relief and Rick Horton went the last three innings for his sixth save.

The Cardinals sent 13 men to the plate and collected nine hits in the sixth inning to break open a 2-1 game.

The victory put St. Louis six games ahead of second-place Chicago in the NL East.

The Cardinals tied the score in the fourth when Tommy Herr reached base with two outs on an error by first baseman Sid Bream. Clark singled and McGee hit an RBI single.

St. Louis made it 2-1 in the fifth on Vince Coleman's run-scoring infield hit.

Astros 4, Reds 1

Jim Deshaies pitched a five-hitter for eight innings, struck out nine and walked one for his fourth straight win, pulling Houston within a half-game of division leading Cincinnati in the West.

"I think I've thrown well all season, but the last three or four games I've had better command of my pitches," said Deshaies, 6-2.

Glenn Davis homered and had an RBI single to help the Astros win for the seventh time in their last nine games.

Ted Power, 5-3, went six innings, allowing four runs on 10 hits, while striking out six and walking none.

Braves 7, Giants 2

Atlanta's Doyle Alexander allowed hits to the first three men he faced and then retired 20 of the last 21. He finishing with a five-hitter against San Francisco, which lost its fourth straight game and sixth in its last nine.

Ken Griffey hit a three-run homer off Kelly Downs, 5-3, in the fourth inning and Ozzie Virgil hit his 17th homer, a two-run shot, and first since May 29, in the sixth.

Alexander, 3-1, began the game allowing a single to Chris Speier, a homer to Will Clark and a single to Jeffrey Leonard. After a single by Clark in the third, Alexander allowed only a seventh-inning walk to Chili Davis.

Mets 7, Expos 3

Terry Lincecum gave up seven hits over eight-plus innings and Kevin McReynolds and Darryl Strawberry both homered, lifting New York over Montreal.

Leach, 5-0, began the year in the bullpen and was starting only his third game. He did not walk a batter and struck out four. Roger McDowell got the final three outs after Montreal got three straight hits off Leach opening the ninth.

Leach had retired the 17 consecutive men between Herman Winningham's third-inning and ninth-inning singles.

Padres 3, Dodgers 2

Randy Ready drew a bases-loaded walk off Alejandro Pena with two outs in the seventh inning, giving San Diego its four straight victories for the first time this season.

Pena, 0-6, walked Shane Mack, balked him to second and after Kevin Mitchell struck out, Garry Templeton was intentionally walked. Pinch-hitter Tim Flannery singled to right but Mack was out at the plate on a throw from Mike Marshall. Pena intentionally walked Stan Jefferson and then walked Ready on a 3-2 pitch.

Lance McCullers, 3-3, worked 1 2/3 innings. Rich Gossage pitched the final two innings for his fourth save, striking out four.

Cubs 7, Phillies 2

Steve Trout pitched a six-hitter over 8 2/3 innings and Jerry Mumphrey and Dave Martinez homered, snapping Chicago's five-game losing streak.

Trout, 3-1, who made his first start since going on the disabled list May 4 with a deep thigh bruise, walked four and struck out five before Ed Lynch relieved him with two men on in the ninth.

Mumphrey hit his third homer in the first inning off Kevin Gross, 4-6, and Martinez hit a leadoff homer to start a three-run sixth.

Reds 13, Expos 7

Joe Conaway pitched an eight-hitter as the Reds rolled over the Expos. Joey Martinez was the losing pitcher for the Expos.

Pat Chavarria and Steve New paced the winners with two hits each. Conaway and Kevin Rodgers each got a hit for the Reds. For the Expos, Shane Myrick led the way, going four-for-four, with a single, double and two triples. Martinez hit two singles and a double.

Reds 8, Blue Jays 5

Steven New and Mark Arguello combined for a three-hitter as the Reds continued to roll. Josh Wooten took the loss for the Blue Jays.

Sammy Gonzales, Brent Elmore, Chavarria, Rogers, Conaway, Nick Roberson and Mauricio Torres all had hits for the Reds. Wooten paced the Blue Jays with a double.

their state championship. Brenham scored two runs on a pair of Robstons errors on the same play in the fourth inning to rally from a 2-1 deficit. The Cubs tacked on two more runs in the seventh on a pair of walks and a single.

Sophomore righthander Jon Peters went the distance in picking up his 15th win of the season without a loss. In two years of varsity competition, Peters has a record of 27-0.

After allowing three hits and two runs in the first two innings, Peters breezed through the final five innings and retired 17 straight batters. He also struck out five.

Matt Fisher and James Nix each had a pair of hits to lead Brenham. Brenham, 27-2, and Brewer, 25-12, will play for the 4A title at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Junior righthander Ronnie Powers improved his record to 22-6 in leading Brewer past North Lamar.

Coming into the tournament, Powers had a share of the state record for most wins by a high school pitcher. He was tied with Swain, who led his Class 2A New Diana team to the state meet.

Powers set down North Lamar in order for the first three innings. For the day, he scattered four hits, walked three and struck out two.

Wesley Moore led Brewer at the plate with a couple of hits and Shawn Hammack drove in three runs. Brewer scored three runs in the second inning and four in the fifth.

Rodney Bryan, 13-4, went the distance for North Lamar.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1987

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Although anxious to begin some new interest or activity, you should study your plans carefully to know what is expected of you. Not a day to ask for favors. Rely on yourself.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be considerate of others, even if you're busy or worried. Make a new influential friend, and improve your lifestyle.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be alert — don't let worry cloud your vision. Your mate may want a change, but remain firm and logical.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't let a disgruntled friend influence your opinion, but jump on a career advancement opportunity. Stay cheerful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Don't tell others how to do their jobs. Do well at yours so you're not criticized. Drive carefully.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Study a new project before involving yourself — know the facts. Be careful of a newcomer, and be cautious all day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Fulfill a promise — don't try to change the terms. If your mate is restless, use kindness and patience to alter the mood.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't allow a dynamic partner to change an agreement, but be tactful. Watch troublesome public matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study new ideas before using them in your work. Listen to gripes from fellow workers, but don't act on them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't give up a proven pleasure for an unknown. Take no risks today, and don't daydream while driving.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study the matter before making a big change at home, then let it wait. Allow no strangers in your home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get to the source to find the facts. Not a good day to visit a prominent person as you may have planned.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Changes in business to increase income are risky — set up a wiser budget instead. Enjoy time with your mate tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have insight into modern advances to find ways of making them work to great advantage. Your child will have great ideas, so give him or her an education suitable to the brilliant mind he or she has. Training in psychology and sports are beneficial.

Local women share delicious dessert recipes

By CARLEEN EVERETT - Lifestyle Editor

Four local women from the United Blood Service of San Angelo have shared some of their delicious dessert recipes for this week's Recipe Exchange.

Jackie Olson, president of the advisory board council; Lupe Dominguez; Cheryl New, vice president of the council; and Joy Decker, secretary of the council remind the public that the United Blood Service needs the support of healthy individuals to donate blood.

A blood drive will be conducted June 20 at the Big Spring Mall from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Recipe exchange

CHOCOLATE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

Grease and flour 9x13-inch pan. Spread 2 cups chopped pecans in pan. Using a Pillsbury Plus Cake (Devils Food or German Chocolate), mix according to directions and pour over nuts.

Soften 8 ounces cream cheese, mix with 1/2 cup melted oleo and 1 pound powdered sugar. Spread over cake mix. Bake at 300 degrees for 1 hour.

TWINKIE CAKE

One box Twinkies
3-4 large bananas
3 oz. box instant vanilla pudding mix
16 oz. can crushed pineapple, drained
8 oz. Cool Whip
Slice Twinkies in half. Line bottom of 9x13-inch pan. Slice bananas. Cover Twinkies with bananas. Prepare pudding mix as directed on box. Pour over bananas. Spread well drained pineapple over pudding mix. Cover with Cool Whip. Sprinkle with chopped nuts.

TOASTED COCONUT BROWNIES

2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
2 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 1/2 cups Baker's Angel Flake Coconut
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tbs. sugar
2 tsp. butter, melted
Measure sifted flour, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Melt butter and chocolate over hot water. Add 1 cup sugar gradually to eggs, beating thoroughly. Add chocolate mixture and blend. Add flour and mix well; then add half of the coconut and the vanilla. Spread in greased 8x8x2-inch pan. Combine remaining 1/2 cup sugar, melted butter, and remaining coconut; mix well. Spread over batter in pan. Bake in 350 degrees oven about 25 minutes. Cool in pan; then cut into 20 squares.

PINEAPPLE ORANGE CAKE

Local fast-pitch softball team, the Fina Oilers, formerly the Cotton Chippers are getting ready to hit the fast-pitch circles this season.

According to their manager, Cotton Mize, his team has acquired the reputation of being "the team to beat and the team of the future."

Mize said 10 of his team members have been All-State and two have made All-American honors. Amazingly, the average age of the team is 26 years old per player. Team members include locals Tommy New, Mike Ritchey, Phillip Ritchey and Ronnie Schornick.

Mize is very confident. "We have the talent and chemistry to win state. Fast pitch is exactly what the name implies — pitching fast. We are loaded with All-State pitchers Johnny Mize and Dale Watson, plus fast developing 6-7 Phillip "Tree" Ritchey, gives us three excellent pitchers, plus a strong defense and as even stronger offense.

We have all the ingredients to dominate fast-pitch softball in Texas for years."

Mize, who played the sport for nearly 50 years, says he's having more fun coaching than when he played. The only negative thing is the extreme travel distance the team has to go.

For instance, their schedule for the next five weeks include tournaments in Austin, Dallas, Wichita Falls, Waco and Fort Worth. Following that will be tournaments in San Antonio, Killeen, Stephenville and Fort Worth.

"You just have to like it to travel that far every weekend," Mize said.

Monday evening 20 students — all of them former dropouts — will graduate from a program designed not only to teach them a skill, but to help them contribute to society.

The Howard College Nursing Assistant's Program, under the direction of coordinator Carol Girvan and instructor Wanda Denson, is an attempt to upgrade nurse's aide care in the area, and to give a skill to people in danger of becoming welfare statistics, Girvan said.

The program, in its infancy, may become a part of the Continuing Education offerings. It could become part of the regular curriculum as early as July, depending on student interest in the program, said Elaine Oliver of the department.

Besides teaching basic bedside care, the five-week program also prepared students for their General Equivalency Diploma exam. Practical job hunting techniques were also studied, Givran said.

The program was coordinated with the Job Training Partnership Act, under which the students were recruited, Denson said.

The first week of the program was devoted to preparing students to take their GED test. Girvan said that although passing the GED did not affect the rest of the course, the coordinators believe it is in the student's best interests to achieve it.

The second week introduced students to the basics of bedside care, such as cleaning the patient, and disinfecting supplies. The assistant trainees also began their instruction in basic human anatomy at that time, Girvan said.

Bedside care instruction was

increased during the third week, and in week four the students began on-the-job training at two local nursing homes.

It was at this point, Denson said, that the student's sincerity and drive were put to the test.

"They learn why they do what they do, and so far, they're doing fine," she said. Both seem pleased with the students' success, noting that all but four of the original 24 enrollees will complete the course.

The final week of the course was spent on job hunting, when appropriate interview attitudes, resume writing and dress codes were discussed. "We tell them 'We've given you a skill, now go show an employer that you can use that skill,'" Girvan explained.

The students must pass weekly exams after the first week to advance in the course, Girvan said.

The instructors see at least two advantages of state-certified nurse's assistants over non-certified aides.

The big advantage, to Girvan, is that the potential employer is assured he is hiring a trained person. This translates into less training time, and higher quality care, which will save the employer money, she said.

Reduced employee turnover is another benefit for employers is Denson's estimation. "You have a regular aide start to work in a nursing home, in a week he might say 'Whoa, this isn't for me,' but with my students, they know what they're getting into," she said.

The program has shown success in placing the students, Girvan said. Of the 20 students, nine have been hired by area employers — eight by nursing homes, and one as a private caretaker.

Just as important – in Girvan's view – is that several of the students are continuing their education.

She said that six of the trainees are planning to take the Licensed Vocational Nurse program at Howard College this fall. Two students will attend college in September, one as a computer science and another as a business administration majors.

"We're excited, because health care will not be the only area to benefit from this program, but the general population will benefit as well," Girvan said.

Tidwell-Jobe

Stephanie Gayle Tidwell, Rt. 3 Box 258, became the bride of Jackie Justin Jobe at a 3 p.m. ceremony on May 30 at Wesley United Methodist Church with the Rev. Johnny Robertson, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Charles and Dorothy Tidwell, Rt. 3 Box 258. Bridegroom's parents are Randall and June Jobe of Albuquerque, N.M.

The couple stood before two brass heart-shaped candelabra and an archway with pink roses, carnations and peonies with greenery and pink and white bows.

Organist was Joy Grimes and vocalist was Nancy Hardison.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin and tulle gown with a Queen Anne neckline, a fitted bodice, basque waist and modified Elizabethan sleeves. Her full skirt of chantilly lace and ruffles extended to a chapel-length train. Her veil featured double layers of illusion and lace attached to a headpiece of lace and re-embroidered with seed pearls and iridescents.

Maid of honor was Dena Bond of Big Spring. Bridesmaid was Shana Sullivan, cousin of the bride, of Big Spring.

Flower girl was Stevi Bingham of Big Spring and ring bearer was Jason Shifflett, cousin of the bride, of Big Spring.

Best man was Wesley Jobe, brother of the bridegroom, of Albuquerque, N.M. Groomsman was Shannon Jobe, brother of the bridegroom, of Albuquerque, N.M.

Ushers and candlelighters were Chad Tidwell, brother of the bride,

MRS. JACKIE JOBE
...formerly Stephanie Tidwell

of Big Spring and Brandon Shifflett, cousin of the bride, of Big Spring.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church hall. The bride's table, draped with a pink cloth and white lace overlay, featured a four-tiered wedding cake with a pink fountain trimmed with pink roses. The bridegroom's table, draped with gray and white cloths, featured a German chocolate cake.

The bride attended Coahoma schools for 11 years. The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and was employed as a mechanic.

After a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple has made its home in Albuquerque.

Wedding

Archer-Shoffner

Linda Kay Archer and Frederick James Shoffner, both of San Antonio, were united in marriage on June 6 at 7 p.m. at Kirby Baptist Church in San Antonio, with Rev. Kenneth Brown, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Archer of Ackerly. Bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Marion Archer of Bellefontaine, Ohio.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with a unity candle, flowers and palm trees. A table was also decorated with a large bouquet of fresh flowers in shades of pink and burgundy, flanked by candelabra entwined with ivy.

Vocalists were Kenny Miles and Beth Davis, both of San Antonio.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white polyester and lace wedding gown, with a close fitting bodice embellished with simulated pearls and sparkling sequins. Schiffl embroidery detailed the lace stand-up collar and illusion net yoke and ruffle trim. The gown featured a full skirt with tiers of lace and sheer extending into a heart-shaped chapel train. A fingertip veil and blusher of tulle fashioned the headpiece of soft polyester flowers and tiny simulated pearls.

The bride carried a bouquet of pink, burgundy white rose buds and baby's breath, featuring traditional something old, something borrowed and something blue nestled in the bouquet with a lace bow and streamers.

The matron of honor was Kathy Bass of San Antonio, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaid was Ivalee Shoffner of San Antonio, daughter of the bridegroom.

Flower girl was Bethany Faulkner of San Antonio. Ringbearer was Jeffery Padalecki of San Antonio.

Best man was John E. Cagle of San Antonio. Groomsman was Oscar Bates of San Antonio. Ushers were Don Aldridge and Bill Sellers, both of San Antonio.

MRS. FREDERICK SHOFFNER
...formerly Linda Archer

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the fellowship hall at Kirby Baptist Church. The bride's table, draped with a white lace floor-length cloth, featured a three-tiered white cake decorated with pink roses and topped with Keepsakes Ceramic bride and bridegroom standing on a pedestal on a lace heart. The centerpiece was an arrangement of silk flowers.

Bridegroom's table, draped with a burgundy cloth overlaid with white lace and skirt, featured a burgundy candle surrounded by a ring of silk flowers, and a German chocolate cake.

The bride is a graduate of Sands High School and attended Howard College. She is employed with Express Temporary in San Antonio.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Bellefontaine High School and Baptist Bible Institute of Graceville, Fla. He is employed with Guess Industrial Uniform in San Antonio.

After a wedding trip to Honolulu, Hawaii, the couple will make their home in San Antonio.

BUSINESS & INDUSTRY REVIEW

Carroll Coates offers quick financing

Carroll Coates Auto Sales, 1101 West 4th Street, offers one stop sales and financing for used cars, pickups and motorcycles.

The firm maintains a finance division, and offers on the spot financing with no credit checks and no added on interest.

"This service has been very successful in the Big Spring market," says A.C. Neighbors, general manager. "We also offer special prices for cash sales."

Neighbors emphasizes that Carroll Coates has been in the car business for about 24 years, and has operated Carroll Coates Auto Sales for about 15 years, six years in the present location.

The firm buys and sells all kinds of vehicles ("just about anything on wheels," the manager says) as well as boats and motorcycles.

"We try to give customers an honest appraisal of the vehicles in our stock. We're looking to build a relationship with customers that will bring us repeat business," says Neighbors. "Satisfied customers are our main concern."

Their business philosophy has been successful. Carroll Coates has opened two car dealerships in San Angelo in the past year.

Local business has been good in spite of the recent downturn in the economy, Neighbors says.

"We're taking a positive attitude and tightening our belts. We're expecting business citywide to improve slowly but surely—and we'll be here to provide cars and financing."

Customers can expect to find a varied inventory to choose from. By having several lots, the firm can frequently locate just what a customer is looking for.

When you get ready to buy or sell a car or truck, make a leisurely visit to Carroll Coates Auto Sales' roomy sales office at 1101 West 4th Street. Hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

READY TO SERVE YOU Come by Carroll Coates Auto Sales at 1101 West 4th Street for on-the-spot financing when you buy your car or pickup. Ask for A.C. Neighbors, manager, (left) or Ricardo Saucedo.
