DESIGNATING MONDAYS as official holidays to replace many traditional dates in order to create long weekends is a federally sponsored plan that hasn't always met with universal approval among the states.

Since Independence Day falls on Tuesday this year, we've had a few calls to inquire if July 4 would be one of those lovely Monday holidays this year. Nope. As far as we can determine, ole July 4—like Christmas, New Year's and Thanksgiving—is among the holidays too sacred or traditional to get shuffled to a Monday.

Since it isn't tacked to a weekend, July 4 will be one of those one-day blasts, separated from the weekend by a partition of a single blue Monday. For the self-employed and others who are masters of their destiny, that will offer no special problem. For the rest of the poor working souls who want to spend time on the lake or other recreation, they'll have

Briscoe Okays $30,000 Grant To DA Office

Governor Dolph Briscoe this week approved a criminal justice grant in the amount of $30,209 for the Deaf Smith County district attorney's office.

The grant will finance the addition of an investigator to the DA's staff, an electric typewriter and other office equipment. The money also pays the salary of an office manager, a position taken by Edwina Thomas, the DA's secretary. Ex-police sergeant Larry Burelsmith has assumed the investigator duties.

DA Andy Shuval applied for the grant with the blessings of the county commission last year to gear up for the Speedy Trial Act, which goes into effect July 1 and accelerate the pace of the judicial process from arrest to trial for misdemeanors and felonies.

Shuval also asked the commission for a second assistant district attorney, whose salary would be paid by the county. Lorin Constanzo, of Houston, filled that position, joining Schalan Atkinson as assistants.

There will be one other opening in the DA's office to fill. Shuval has resigned, effective July 1, to become executive director of the Prosecuting Attorneys Coordinating Council, a new state agency created to improve the office of prosecutors throughout the state.

Briscoe will appoint someone to fill out Shuval's unexpired term, although a governor's aide said this week that the matter has not yet been considered.

"I'll meet with the governor soon, and someone will be appointed," said Don Adams, who heads up Briscoe's appointment staff. "It's not likely that Deaf Smith County will be without a prosecutor on July the first."

"For one thing, if we haven't named someone by then, you do have an assistant DA, don't you?"

Shuval was defeated by attorney Roland Saul in April's county election.

Carter Nearly $28,000 Poorer Than in 1977, Return Shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, who has been getting poorer on the job, plans nevertheless to make a $6,000 contribution to the U.S. Treasury this year.

Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, disclosed their 1977 federal tax return Thursday, along with financial statements that showed their net worth dropped by $27,281 last year.

The complex return put their 1977 income at about $191,000. They paid federal taxes of $48,952 and claimed a refund of $35,161.

The Carters would have had an income of $497,000 except that their properties placed in a blind trust with Atlanta attorney Charles H. Kirbo produced a loss of more than $306,000 for the year.

Robert J. Lipshutz, the White House counsel, said even the Carters cannot find out the reason for the loss because Kirbo is barred from telling them under terms of the trust. Lipshutz said much of it presumably stemmed from operations of the family's peanut warehouse.

The Carters, who are in the 50 percent tax bracket, made a $6,000 contribution to the Treasury last year but got half the money back because it was a deductible contribution.

In order to make sure the Treasury gets the full amount, press secretary Jody Powell said, they will donate the same amount this year.

The Carters promised to pay the $6,000 a year ago when they faced the politically embarrassing situation of owing no federal taxes on their 1976 income because of a large tax credit due them on investments in the family business.

Made public along with copies of the Carters' tax return were financial statements prepared by accountant Robert Perry of Americus, Ga., that showed the president and his wife had a net worth of $795,357 at the end of 1977, down from $822,638 a year earlier.

The tax return showed Carter was paid $236,458 as president last year, and that he and his wife collected dividends of $114,282 on property entrusted to Kirbo. They reported interest income of $7,515.

Nanes Released From County Jail

Ernesto Nanes, of Hereford, who was released from the Texas Department of Corrections at Huntsville earlier this year, today got out from behind bars for the second time—this time as a free man.

Nanes won his appeal after serving 10 years in prison for rape when the Court of Criminal Appeals said his interpreter in his 1968 trial failed to provide him certain information about the proceedings.

He was released from Deaf Smith County Jail today while awaiting a new trial for allegedly raping his daughter because "the complainant no longer wishes to testify," according to Sheriff Travis McPherson.

Briscoe Hints Of Tax Cut

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Proposition 13 fever broke out in the Capitol on Thursday with several reports that Gov. Dolph Briscoe might call a special legislative session on tax relief.

House Speaker Bill Clayton said Briscoe had talked of that possibility, but only casually.

"I talked to the governor the other day. He made some mention of the fact that a special session could take care of a tax rebate to the people and some kind of tax limitation," Clayton said.

Attorney General John Hill, the Democratic nominee for governor, and Clayton talked taxes for 30 minutes in Clayton's office Thursday.

When asked the subject of their discussion, Hill answered, "Proposition 13," referring to California's overwhelming vote for a cut in state and local taxes.

Briscoe's press secretary, Bob Bain, discounted the special session rumors that saturated the capital city.

"His policy's the same as it always has been. He doesn't like special sessions," Bain said.

Clayton said he told Briscoe his staff was working on various tax relief proposals and one that would put a cap on state spending.

Briscoe said if we did come up with a program of any kind that would look good, let him know about it," Clayton said.

"I would almost be willing to say that in all probability he would be wanting to look at more than a spending limitation—at getting money back to the people in some form or fashion," the speaker added.

He said he did not put much weight on the chat as indicating a special session was imminent.

"I just gave it a passing thought because nothing in the form of legislation was ready," he said.

Clayton's chief aide, Jack Gullahorn, said he has been at work on a proposal that would limit state spending to the present per capita level, plus an inflation factor.

Hill said he asked Clayton to expand the charge of the Legislative Council's property tax study committee "to include a study of the implications of Proposition 13 to Texas." Clayton said he was willing, but Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, council chairman, had to make the decision. Hobby was not in Austin.

The committee is headed by Rep. Wayne Peveo, D-Orange, a crusader for simplified administration of the property tax arising from Proposition 13.

Clayton said he would ask the House Ways and Means Committee to look at spending limits and various forms of tax relief, including repeal of the sales tax on utility bills and higher inheritance tax exemptions.

He said many representatives were upset that only one in seven school districts took advantage of increased state aid to cut property taxes. Lawmakers intended that result but did not require it.

"Members have expressed pretty strong sentiments about it," he said, adding that the upshot could be mandatory property tax cuts the next time state school aid is increased.

Hill said he was "sure we will" provide some tax relief but "we want to provide it."

Corporate Feasibility To Be Topic

The advantages and disadvantages of incorporating will be discussed during a seminar sponsored by Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Hereford Community Center.

The corporate feasibility seminar is co-sponsored by the chamber and the Lubbock office of the Small Business Administration. Lubbock officials to meet with members of the public include Gary Ward, attorney; Wayne Ricketson, CLU; David Cain, representative of the state comptroller's office; and Bill Thompson, of the Small Business Administration.

The purpose of the program is to better acquaint business operators with incorporation regulations and to assist them in deciding whether to incorporate.

Topics to be discussed include legal and tax advantages, Section 1244 stock, fringe benefits, 85 percent dividend exclusion, buy-sell agreements, estate and gift tax advantages, Sub Chapter S Election, legal and tax disadvantages and methods of incorporating.

"These experts will go into deal on each step of incorporating," said Mike Carr, chamber business committee chairman. "I believe that the more information the people, the businessmen in Hereford, have with the legal aspects

'Killer Bees' Cause USDA Examination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although some experts say that reports of "killer bees" in South America have been exaggerated, the Agriculture Department continues to spend money on projects to find out more about them and to chart their migration northward.

Since the early 1970s, the department has spent almost $250,000 in grants for studies of the bees, usually described as "Africanized honey bees" or hybrids which are more aggressive than their North American cousins.

The latest grant announced by USDA is for $50,621 to help bee researchers from the University of Kansas at Lawrence, to work in Venezuela to "assess the impact of the Africanized honey bee on humans, beekeeping and agriculture."

According to the department's

Science and Education Administration, the money will finance the Venezuelan project for one year.

Other grants for similar work in South America include a four-year project costing $125,000 announced in 1974, and another for $26,300 the same year to Brazilian scientists.

Earlier, USDA provided $40,000 to the National Academy of Sciences for a study of the bees, including a trip to Brazil by a team of experts in 1971. The report on the team's findings was made public in August 1972.

Reports written about the Africanized bees have included a wide range of language relating to their reputed ferocity and deadliness.

For example, the 1972 report described the bees as "both objectionable and dangerous" to humans and animals. But the scientists also warned against inflammatory news coverage.

"An unfavorable press will exaggerate the problem, as it has in Brazil," the 1972 report said. "The problem is likely to be magnified all out of proportion if the Brazilian bees get wide adverse press coverage."

The bee situation began in 1956 when some queen bees from Africa were introduced into Brazil with the intention of improving the European types of bees there. But some of the queens and their swarms escaped in 1957.

Those established the so-called Africanized hybrid bees which have spread gradually into other parts of South America, raising concern that they eventually may migrate into the United States.

A USDA insect report six years ago said that African-type bees produce more honey than the European types, which are also the basis of bee culture in the United States.

The USDA report said further that some authorities believe "beekeeping in the United States could become obsolete" if the South American bees do come north and their aggressive behavior is lived up to.

More recently, the department has been more conciliatory about the African bees. Last January, I issued a report which said that "the ferocious insects featured in magazines and newspapers, on television and in movies are fiction. The real bees behind the fiction are not that ferocious."

Further, the latest report said, the African-type bees have not been seen closer than 2,500 miles from the southern U.S. border and that at their present rate of migration would not arrive for 10 to 15 years, barring the entry of some hitchhiking bees aboard airplanes or ships.

But even the milder report said that Africanized bees are "unusually aggressive" and require special handling.

"When they are disturbed, they attack in large numbers, keep up the stinging longer and chase the intruder farther than most domestic bees," the report said.

"Although the sting of Africanized bees is no more venomous than that of domestic bees, the attack on an Africanized swarm is definitely more frightening and painful—but not more deadly," it said.

DA's Office Probes

Brooke's Perjury Charge

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A decision on whether Sen. Edward Brooke will face perjury charges is in the hands of the district attorney who was defeated by the Massachusetts Republican six years ago in his bid for the Senate seat.

The case was turned over to the district attorney's office Thursday by a probate court judge who found Brooke did not make "a true and complete disclosure" on sworn statements filed in connection with his divorce action.

Middlesex Probate Judge Lawrence Perera in that same order gave Remigia Brooke the right to reopen the divorce case.

Brooke and his wife, both 58, have been married for 31 years. He filed for divorce in 1976.

Assistant Middlesex County District Attorney John Kerry said he and District Attorney John Doney would meet today to discuss whether to pursue the question of whether Brooke committed perjury. Doney, a Democrat, was defeated in his 1972 Senate bid when Brooke polled more than 60 percent of the vote.

During a two-day hearing before Perera last week, Brooke admitted making "misstatements" in depositions filed in his divorce case.

Italian President

Announces Resignation

ROME (AP) — Italy's ruling Christian Democrats, still reeling from the murder of party chief Aldo Moro, have been hit by the resignation of Italy's president, Giovanni Leone, because of accusations of corruption. Urban violence continued, meanwhile.

Leone, one of the group of Christian Democratic leaders that has run the Italian government since World War II, denied the charges of tax evasion and involvement in the Lockheed payoff scandal. But he moved out of the Quirinal Palace with no ceremony Thursday night, six and a half months before his seven-year term was to expire.

A bomb exploded early today at a city-run dairy in Rome, and others were discovered unexploded at the city's main prison, a Communist Party office and three other sites in Rome. The dairy bombing caused an estimated $33,000 in damage. There were no injuries.

In a message to the news media, a group calling itself Armed Revolutionary Nucleus claimed responsibility and said the bombing was a protest against government-approved price increases. There was no apparent connection with the Leone scandal.

Carter To Talk To Southern Baptists

ATLANTA (AP) — President Carter was to speak "as a Southern Baptist to Southern Baptists" today following the annual meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Officials said sales of $12.50 tickets to a breakfast and the Carter appearance had not reached expected levels and that the address would be opened to the public.

About 15,000 seats were available in Atlanta's Omni coliseum for the speech to the National Conference of Baptist Men. "We expect to fill it up," convention spokesman Roy Jennings said Thursday night.

The president's scheduled stop here precedes a visit to Panama, where Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos will sign the diplomatic documents indicating final acceptance by the two countries of the treaties ending U.S. control of the Panama Canal.

Carter, who transferred his membership from the Plains Baptist Church to a church in Washington after he took office last year, spoke to the Southern Baptist Convention by videotape last year when the denomination held its annual meeting in Kansas City.

In that speech, he appealed to the Baptists to support the newly formed Mission Service Corps, a project to place 5,000 volunteer missionaries at home and overseas by 1982 to supplement career missionaries.

Taxpayers To Finance Inmate's New Face

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Convicted murderer Gary Hastings, who blew off half his face in a suicide attempt, scribbled a message of joy to his jailer after a judge ordered county taxpayers to pay for his plastic surgery.

Chester County Court Judge John Wajert issued the ruling Thursday. The surgery will permit Hastings to breathe and eat normally, but doctors say he will never look normal. Attorneys for the county estimated the cost of corrective surgery at about $5,000.

Hastings, 33, a former Delaware bank executive, was convicted in the April 26, 1977, shotgun death of his wife, Margaret, in her Chadds Ford home.

Hastings turned the weapon on himself afterwards and the blast destroyed the lower half of his face, leaving him unable to speak.

He wears heavy bandages around his grotesquely disfigured face. He breathes and eats through tubes.

Wajert ordered Hastings transferred from Chester County Farm Prison to Chester County Hospital for the surgery, which will involve four operations.

The plastic surgery, to be performed by Dr. Roslyn Souser, is to include reconstruction of Hastings' nose, lower lip and parts of his mouth.

Pawnbroker Charged Thursday With Kidnapping Homosexuals

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A burly, bearded pawnbroker with reported Nazi sympathies is sitting in jail today, suspected of luring young homosexuals from New York's Greenwich Village to torture sessions with leg irons and chains.

Out behind his tarpaper shanty, a backhoe is ripping through a tiny yard looking for bodies of perhaps as many as seven, according to one published report.

Kenneth Appleby, 27, whose friends described him as a "gentleman" and the "greatest human alive," was held on $100,000 bail on a charge of kidnapping.

Thursday, police resumed their digging, bringing in a second backhoe to continue their pains-taking search for bodies.

"We found nothing," police Capt. Richard Kulig said Wednesday after 12 hours of digging.

"We're looking for one specific body in particular, and there may be others," Matthew Ryan Jr., Hampden-Berkshire district attorney, said Wednesday.

Kulig also said police were considering bringing new charges against the pawnbroker after a hitchhiker told them he was forced to take drugs at gunpoint.

Kulig said the hitchhiker approached police Wednesday and said he had been picked up by Appleby, who took him to his hut and then forced him to take drugs. The young man told them that he passed out, and when he awoke, he was being rushed to a hospital in a police cruiser for treatment of a drug overdose.

The New York Daily News reported today that five informants, acknowledged homosexuals, believed as many as seven Manhattan teen-agers who were taken to Appleby's house "never returned to the city."

Quoting a spokesman for

Manhattan District Attorney Robert Morgenthau, the News said the five informants "each had been picked up on Greenwich Village streets and driven to West Springfield."

The informants told investigators that Appleby, when he picked up young men, was always armed and accompanied by another man who blindfolded and handcuffed the victims before the drive to Massachusetts, the paper said.

The Appleby shack was described by the informants as "a chamber of horrors." Morgenthau aids told the News.

Tax Formula Up To States

WASHINGTON (AP) — A state may use its own formula to tax profits of interstate businesses, the Supreme Court said Thursday in a decision that could lead to wholesale changes in state tax policies.

The court, by a 6-3 vote, upheld a unique tax formula in Iowa that permits the state to get higher-than-normal revenue from out-of-state firms that do business in Iowa.

Justice John Paul Stevens, in the majority opinion, said the U.S. Constitution does not bar states from using different tax formulas to their own benefit.

The burden of proving the system unfair rests with the individual business corporation, Stevens said. A firm must demonstrate that it was subject to an arbitrary system that forced it to pay taxes to two different states on the same profits, the justice said.

To rule otherwise would impose a burdensome uniformity on state tax formulas, which the Constitution does not require, he said.

The court ruled in a dispute between Iowa and Moorman Manufacturing Co., an animal feed firm based in Quincy, Ill. Moorman has plants in Texas and Nebraska as well as Illinois, but has none in Iowa.

Iowa is alone among 45 states in taxing profits on interstate businesses based solely on the firm's sales within Iowa. The other 44 states levy the tax after taking property and payroll expenses, as well as sales, into account.

Iowa is seeking to collect approximately $300,000 from Moorman in back taxes for the years 1968 through 1972.

Moorman's annual sales in Iowa during those years amounted to 20 percent of its over-all sales, and its tax liability in the state was based on that percentage.

The firm said its tax liability in Iowa would be based on approximately 13 percent of its total sales if Iowa took the company's Iowa property and payroll into account.

The Supreme Court's ruling opens the way for other states to revise their tax systems to increase revenue.

Moorman contended that Iowa was taxing profits that were made in other states.

But Stevens said the company failed to prove its case.

"As do not know whether Illinois and Iowa together imposed a tax on more than 100 percent of the relevant net income," Stevens said.

In a dissenting opinion, Justice Lewis F. Powell said Iowa's formula "operates as a tariff on goods manufactured in other states and as a subsidy to Iowa manufacturers selling their goods outside of Iowa."

The Abundant Life

A HELPING HAND

BY BOB WEAR

HELPING OTHERS, as we have the opportunity, and the means for doing so, must surely be the greatest and most satisfying experience. There are many ways in which we can help each other.

MUTUAL HELP IS part of a meaningful interaction among people. History reveals many instances in which people helping people made the difference in survival and death; the difference between success and failure; the difference between going on and giving up; the difference between victory and defeat.

IT IS THRILLING to read the history of how our forefathers assisted each other. Of course, they had their differences and conflicts; but they had to help one another in order to survive. It was easy to see the urgent necessity of giving "a helping hand."

THE DANGERS WHICH THREATENED these early Americans were tangible, and everybody knew what they were. When time came for action against the common enemy, the people just laid their differences aside and rallied to meet the challenge. Here is a good example to follow.

WE ARE JUST AS DEPENDENT upon each other now, as they were then. The need for extending "a helping hand" may not be as obvious now, but it is just as real, and, in some ways, more necessary.

OUR WAYS OF GIVING assistance are different, but the assistance must be given. We must awake to the fact that we have common enemies; and common effort against these enemies will contribute to the common good.

"A BETTER WORLD BEGINS WITH ME" is a sound conclusion, and each person who accepts it as a working principle is doing much to establish the wholesome concern so greatly needed in our time. Most people are inclined to follow good example, but somebody must take the initiative. We must not wait for somebody else to make the first move.

WHEN WE OFFER A HELPING HAND, someone will see; perhaps many will see. Some who see our action will be inspired to do the same, and others will be influenced for good. Such good set in motion spreads abroad.

WE MUST STOP being enemies. It is so much better that we be good neighbors. We must stop working against each other, and following so many cross-purposes which so critically dissipate our strength and resources. Our combined strength, channelled in one unified movement, will bring the victory and well-being we seek.

WE MUST JOIN HANDS and move together into the future. Our combined power, under God, will be sufficient to do what needs to be done. When we help others, we help ourselves. "When you help someone up hill, you find yourself closer to the top."

DIVISIVENESS AND DISCORD are destructive forces in our society. These and related internal evils are the real enemies. It would be so much better to help one another than it is to fight each other.

THE HELPING HAND EXTENDED is going to accomplish more for the good of all than the clenched fist raised in hostility and hate.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 15, not beautiful but my looks wouldn't scare small children.

I had four dates with this cool cat I'll call Ron. We got along neat. He seemed to like me as much as I liked him. Last night after a terrific evening, he hemmed and hawed at the front door and finally said, "This will be the last time. I think we'd better stop seeing each other before we get into trouble. I haven't been around much and I don't think I'm ready for anything heavy."

I was grossed out. There was no reason for Ron to be worried about "anything heavy." He held my hand in a movie once and that's as far as it went.

I cried for two hours last night and I'm crying again as I write this letter. (Forgive the smeary looks of it.) I just can't believe Ron wanted to end our friendship for the reason he gave. Please help me figure this dude out. -- Weepy Wanda

DEAR WANDA: If Ron told you he didn't want to see you again because you have purple toenails and two heads would you feel better?

The point I'm getting at is this: What difference does the reason make? Ron wants to cool it so take the hint and stop crying already. Your letter looks as if you dropped it in the bathtub. Fish in other waters, Doll.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter and our son's wife are both wonderful girls. My husband and I love them very much. We know they love us a lot because every Sunday they came here for dinner with their children. (A total of six young ones.) This means ten people to cook for and serve. (Yes, they do help me clean up.)

Sunday is the only day Dad doesn't have to work. It would be heaven if we could take a nap after church once in a while and have a sandwich by ourselves -- or go out, just the two of us. But we can't. This ritual has been established -- and I seem to be stuck with it.

I wonder how many married children realize what dinners mean in terms of work. If married children enjoy Sunday dinners with their parents, why don't they at least take turns? I wouldn't mind having mine every third week -- or better yet, every fourth week. Then Dad and I could go out by ourselves once a month.

Please print my letter, Ann. It could be the salvation of many gnarled hands and tired feet. If my daughter or daughter-in-law asks me if I wrote it (they both read your column) I'll say, "Yes." -- I Live In Durham, N.C.

Hereford CowBelles Promote Beef for Father's Day Menu

In promotion of Beef for Father's Day, Hereford CowBelles will be giving away free bite-sized morsels of beef brisket today and Saturday in the meat section of Furr's Supermarket. The brisket, prepared with liquid smoke is a less expensive cut of beef, according to Rachel Hunter, chairman of the Beef for Father's Day promotion here. In giving the free samples, the CowBelles hope to inspire local housewives to prepare beef for their husbands on Father's Day, this coming Sunday.

The CowBelles, who are dedicated to the promotion of the beef industry in cooperation with the Texas Cattlemen's Association, share the following recipe as a suggested menu for Father's Day:

BEEF AND POTATOES AU GRATIN
4 lbs. ground beef
2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. pepper

DEAR N.C.: Here it is -- and if it doesn't solve the problem I hope you will tell those two lovely girls flat out exactly what you told me. If they are as "wonderful" as you say, they won't be offended. They'll take turns and encourage you to have that fourth Sunday free so you and "Dad" can do as you please.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MYSTIFIED, HURT, HUMILIATED, and Searching for Answers: It is impossible for a woman to be married to the same man for 50 years. After the first 25 he's not the same man. This can also be said of women. And this, my dear, is what happens to a great many marriages that looked perfect -- at the altar.

Mrs. Wilson Honored At Baby Shower

A layette shower honoring Mrs. John Wilson was held Sunday afternoon in the home of Jay West.

A plant with a red and white bow centered the table. The red plaid cake was decorated using a western theme.

Special out of town guest were the honoree's mother Mrs. W.S. Olford and her sisters, Carla and Darla Olford, all of Iraan; her grandmother, Mrs. W.S. Olford of Lubbock; and in-laws, Mrs. Glen Wilson, Mrs. R.L. Wilson and Mrs. Art Lewis.

Forty guest were present. Those serving as hostesses were Mmes. David Wagner, Ernie Murphy, Oscar Williams, Phil Berend, Wayne Davison and Mrs. Jim Bob Perrin.

Heat only the amount of water needed, and save money. Less energy and less water is wasted, and it takes less time, says Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

2 small onions, finely chopped
1 cup crushed saltine crackers
2 eggs
12 medium potatoes (4 to 5 lbs.) pared and sliced
1/4 cup flour
2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika
1 can (11 ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
Sprinkle 2 tsp. salt and the pepper over ground beef. Add celery soup, onion, cracker crumbs and eggs and lightly combine. Place half of potatoes in bottom of each of 2 greased foil roasting pans (approximately 12 x 10 inches and at least 2 inches deep). Combine flour, 2 tsp. salt and the paprika; sprinkle half over potatoes in each pan and mix thoroughly. Put half of meat mixture over potatoes in each pan. Score meat in each pan to divide into 8 or 9 rectangles. Spread half of cheese soup over meat in each pan. Cover pans tightly with aluminum foil, securing edges, and cook on grill top at moderate temperature 1 hour or until meat and potatoes are done. 16 to 18 servings.

Tiny Fish Stops Big Electric Dam

WASHINGTON (AP) - The snail darter, the creature for whom the Supreme Court ordered a halt Thursday on a $116 million dam, is a three-inch long fish.

The existence of the fish, a member of the perch family, was discovered only five years ago. Its only known natural habitat is a 17-mile stretch of the Little Tennessee River, an area that would become part of a reservoir if the dam were completed.

It's called a snail darter because it feeds upon freshwater snails.

Estimates vary on how many exist, with environmentalists claiming there are only about 1,000 and the government saying 10,000 to 15,000. About 700 have been transferred to the Hiawasse River with apparent success. Some experts say it will take at least five years to be sure the tiny fish can survive there.

The small darter was discovered in 1973 by Dr. David A. Etnier, a University of Tennessee ichthyologist.

Cooking Ideas Suggested for Chops

LUBBOCK -- As there is more than one way to skin a cat, there are a variety of ways to cook a pork chop with good results.

No matter what opinion of diners at the family table is, taste panels in Texas Tech University research indicated that one can broil a chop or cook it on high, roast, medium or low settings in the microwave oven and the differences in taste, tenderness and juiciness are slight. They are measurable, however.

The research was conducted by Dr. C. Boyd Ramsey, professor of animal science and director of the meats laboratory in the College of Agricultural Sciences. He was assisted by graduate student R.C. Hines.

Ramsey explained that older microwave ovens had only one temperature setting, high. Newer models have the variety of settings used in the study.

"The method chosen to cook meat is one of the major factors that determines its palatability or acceptance," Ramsey said. "Microwave cooking is becoming more popular because it offers increased speed, convenience and savings of energy over conventional cooking methods."

"Yet microwave cooking research has produced conflicting results. Our research was designed to resolve some of the conflict."

The meat itself, 12 loins from six pork carcasses, was evaluated, and even the slightest differences were noted in the cooking results.

For a cook seeking absolute perfection, the broiled chops had a flavor edge over the microwave cooked chops. But the juiciest were chops cooked on the lowest microwave setting. Each of these two methods scored higher in tenderness than chops cooked in the microwave ovens at roast, medium or high settings.

The apparent difference, Ramsey said, is that at low settings the microwave oven heat is intermittently turned on and off.

The higher the setting in the microwave oven, the less tender the chop becomes. The least attractive to the taste panel's palates were chops cooked at the highest microwave setting.

"Differences among the cooking methods were consistent," Ramsey said, "but they were so small that they probably would not be detected at the dinner table at all."

Taste panelists might have been swayed by the color of the chop bites they ate, Ramsey said, and to offset the influence of the broiled chops' brown color and the lack of browning by microwaves, all meat was served under a red light, eliminating the factor.

Hussein Marries American, 26

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) - King Hussein married 26-year-old American beauty Lisa Halaby Thursday and surprised his nation by proclaiming the blonde, blue-eyed architect his queen.

It had been expected that the bride, daughter of former Pan American World Airways president Najeeb Halaby, would be named a princess.

Koranic law - the monarch and his new queen appeared briefly for the press for photographs but made no public statements.

No public fanfare had been planned for the wedding, the king's fourth and Miss Halaby's first.

The bearded, 42-year-old Hussein, in a plain blue suit, and Miss Halaby, wearing a floor-length white wedding gown, were wed in a four-minute Islamic ceremony at the Zahran Palace, home of Queen Mother Zaini in central Amman. The ceremony, during which the bride was converted to Islam, was presided over by the chief justice of the Islamic court, Ibrahim Kattan.

After the ceremony - attended only by men, according to

FAITH HELPS US APPRECIATE A FATHER'S WISDOM

Despite a variety of unflattering images depicting a father as either too stern or too spineless, the true picture is more likely that of a kindly, hard-working provider and protective shield for his family; the wise arbiter of right and wrong; the author of firm but loving discipline; and a tower of strength at all times. A father tries to conceal his anxieties while setting the example of character and courage for his children, and must provide the answer to any physical or moral crisis that may arise. The Bible is filled with passages in praise of a father's wisdom and guidance, and you should learn to honor and respect your father at the Church of your choice; not merely on special occasions, but every day of the year.

Be kind to thy father, for when thou wert young,
Who loved thee so fondly as he?
—Margaret Courtney

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I think I read in one of your columns that you stated most cholesterol problems come from eating beef and drinking cow's milk. I hope I'm right. Yesterday we had a dinner of venison. There was no trace of any fat at all in the meat. Would it be better if we used this meat more?

Recently we obtained a roast of grass-fed beef and that meat seemed to have less fat than regular meats. I'm inclined to think that beef fattened in pens like they do to make them get fatter is not good for the health of those who eat it. I would appreciate your answers on the subject.

Tips for travellers
By Polly Cramer
POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I am going to do some extensive traveling and hope you can help me with my wardrobe. I would like to know what kind of fabrics will not get messy and crumpled looking while traveling and will look neat and fresh when I get off a plane. If there is any special care they would need I would like to hear about that, too. Thank you for any help you can give me. — DEBBI

DEAR DEBBI — I have found 100 percent polyesters and nylons with a weave-like jersey prove most satisfactory when traveling. They can be rolled up to take less space in a bag and are light in weight. Any wrinkles seem to disappear very quickly when the garment is spread out for a bit. A friend with whom I have traveled frequently always uses a wash cloth wrung out of warm water to go over any wrinkles in her clothes and then hangs them on a shower rod to dry.

One of the most important things to consider when planning a travel wardrobe is to be sure it is color coordinated so that the least number of shoes and purses, sweaters and coats are required. Plain basic clothes that can acquire a different look by changing accessories are invaluable. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I would like to suggest that the reader with grease drippings use them to make soap. The following will make 12 pounds of snow white laundry soap. I use 6 pounds of clean, strained warm grease, one can of lye, one cup of ammonia, and one-half cup borax. I strain my grease into a shortening can as I cook. For the soap I use a porcelain container and stir the lye in a quart of warm water until dissolved and cool. Stir with a wooden spoon and continue stirring as you add the grease, ammonia and borax and it will be thick like honey. Previously line a wooden box with cloth, pour the soap mixture into box and let stand until hard enough to cut in blocks or squares. Store for two or three weeks before using and find you have very good laundry soap. — JENNIE

DEAR POLLY — I am a custodian who has the job of caring for several green plants in an office. I used an extending type radio antenna in one plant and after a year the plant nearly touches the ceiling. I just keep extending the antennas length to fit the plant. — ED

DEAR POLLY — While stationed with the army in Korea I learned the following solution for the problem of hard sugar. It seems sugar is sprayed down with water for easier shipment overseas and personnel at the commissary told us to place such a bag of sugar in the freezer overnight or longer if necessary. It will become soft again. This worked for me the two years I was there. — A MILITARY WIFE

'Jew for Jesus' Kidnapped

NEW YORK (AP) — After 14 days of captivity and pressure to abandon his beliefs, says Kenneth Mark Levitt, 25, "I was very confused, scared and depressed... But all the time, I knew inside I was right."

As a "Jews for Jesus" member in Massachusetts, he says he was seized May 18 by deprogrammers on the eve of his scheduled marriage to a Christian bride, and held in various places until he escaped June 2.

"It was an awful experience," he says.

But now, back with messianic Jewish friends, staying temporarily in the San Francisco area, and married in a substitute civil ceremony in Reno, Nev., to Christine Cox, 24, a Christian "I'm still Jewish, according to the God of Israel, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Moses, and I also believe Jesus is the messiah of Israel. I'm just as Jewish as his apostles Peter, Matthew and Paul."

Although abductions and deprogramming procedures have been common for members of various insular cults ruled by authoritarian figures, the technique generally hasn't been used against the "Jews for Jesus," who stress customary evangelical view of Scripture.

But tensions over their proselytizing fervor has been mounting, with Jewish leaders keenly critical, as well as some Christians, causing President Carter's sister, Ruth Stapleton, to cancel a recent scheduled appearance before a messianic Jewish group on Long Island.

Levitt said that on a visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Levitt, of Newton, Mass., just before his planned wedding in a nearby Boston suburb, he was seized by several men, bound, a hood put over his head, and was taken in a closed van to a boarded-up attic.

"They worked on me in six-hour shifts, interrogating and badgering me, yelling that what I believed was wrong, that belief in Jesus as the messiah was unfounded, that it contradicted Judaism."

Eventually, he said, he was taken by car to a camp in the Catskill mountains where he was kept under guard, but he began planning his escape, treasuring a dime he found as a means of telephoning police, since his wallet had been taken from him.

Since the door of the cabin where he was kept had a squeaky hinge, he said he managed to "grease" it with soap to silence it, and that night, while his guards slept, sneaked out and walked 10 miles until he found a house where the occupants let him call police at Phillipsburg, N.Y.

He said they charged the "He kept telling them not to hurt me," young Levitt said. Efforts to reach the parents for their comments were unavailable.

The son added: "It's very sad. I'm upset about it. I love my parents very much and I'm sure they love me. But it's an overprotective love and they don't understand."

Court Not State Agency

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Members of the Texas Supreme Court let it be known Thursday that they do not consider the court a state agency, except for budget purposes.

"The Texas Supreme Court is one of the three independent branches of the government of this state," said Associated Justice Sam Johnson at a budget hearing before the Texas Legislative Budget Board and the governor's budget office. "That independence must be preserved. The judiciary must remain independent and you must not intrude upon it other than to provide things we need to do our work."

Chief Justice Joe Greenhill said the court is now passing on 20 to 25 cases a week plus other writs and requests.

"By the last Wednesday in July we will have looked at and in most cases passed on every case that has been filed with the Supreme Court by June 1," Greenhill said. "That's about as current as you can get."

The Supreme Court is asking $3.04 million from all sources for its operations in the 1980-81 period, compared to the $2.21 million received for 1978-79.

Greenhill said one of their primary requests was that each justice's secretary be upgraded in salary and title to an administrative assistant.

The central section of the court also is asking for six more attorneys to help in researching and briefing cases for the justices.

Thomas Jefferson's father, Peter, was a civil engineer of Welsh descent.

Age groups for the meet include Bantam (Nine and under); Midget (10-11); Junior (12-13); Intermediate (14-15); Senior (16-17); and Open (18 and above).

Field events include the long jump and high jump for all age groups, the shot put and discus for the top four divisions, and the pole vault for the top three divisions.

The running events will include hurdles, mile run, 220, 100, 50, 440, 880, 2-mile, and the 440 relay and mile relay.

The hurdles finals will begin the running events at 10 a.m. to be followed by the finals of the mile, 220 prelims, 100 prelims, 50 prelims, 440 prelims, and 50 and 220 finals in the morning session.

The Hereford Brand Sports Dory Funk Slates Match

Gun Club Sponsors Shoot

The Hereford Gun Club will sponsor a trap shoot tonight at 8 at the club range, east of the Hereford Municipal Airport.

Tonight's 8 o'clock shoot marks the first event held in that new time slot, after club members voted to move up the starting time.

Twenty-five shot rounds of trap will be open to members at a fee of $1.50, while non-members may shoot at a fee of $2.

Floodlights at the club provide ample light for night shooting.

In the event of inclement weather, club activities may be confirmed by calling 364-6497.

Lions Club wrestling at the Hereford Bull Barn goes dark next Saturday, but will return June 24 with two of the best names around. Dory Funk Jr., former World Heavyweight Champion, will appear, and Adrian Adonis will make his Hereford debut.

Funk, 243-pound Canyon and Umbarger rancher, will challenge Roger "Nature Boy" Kirby, a stocky 250-pounder who once held the world junior heavyweight title.

Adonis, 6-1, 245-pounder, has put up the $5,000 "Golden Challenge" to anyone who will sign a legal release form. The challenge: anyone of age who understands the rules, and who can pin Adonis for a three-count in 10 minutes under National Wrestling Alliance regulations, will receive $5,000. He has a taker in Super Destroyer, the bear-like 250-pound Los Angeles-based masked man. The Super Destroyer admittedly will do anything to win. Since, as he says, "the name of the game is money."

Larry Lane, former amateur great, and Rip Hawk, will also appear on the card June 24. Lane will be returning after an injury. The Sheik burned him in Lubbock May 28 by throwing fire. Lane and Hawk will be appearing against opponents yet to be named.

In last Saturday's action

Randy Morse drew with Hawk in the opener. The towering 6-7 Morse had a 35-pound weight advantage at 265, but the squat and ape-like Hawk was experienced enough to hang on until the bell.

In an action-packed contest, Lord Jonathan Boyd dropped a close decision to "Hooker" Ted Heath. Heath, a pocket giant in size and ability, is an Englishman. He surprised his Aussie opponent with a back slide.

Kirby eked out a win over popular Scott Casey, after Casey hurt his neck on the ropes when attempting a flying body scissors.

Mr. Pogo was disqualified in the main event when manager "Sir Oliver" Humperkinck attempted to interfere. The crowd cheered when Super-Mex Ricky Romero had his hand raised, but Pogo won the Battle Royal which followed the main.

His manager, the blimp-like Humperdinck, donned tighties to join the quest for the prize of $1,000. Each wrestler had posted an entry fee of $100, with the promotion adding $100. When the battle had dwindled to Humperdinck, Romero, and Pogo, the wily Japanese waited until Romero was getting rid of Humperdinck, and surprised him as he turned.

Action returns to the Bull Barn at 9 p.m. June 24.

Team Roping Popular

Team roping was most popular at the initial performance of the riders' club rodeo here Thursday night. A total of 15 teams tried their hands at the event, which was topped by Bruce Potter and Button Shugart in a time of 6.2

seconds. The rodeo has two days yet to run, and the cowboys and cowgirls get a respite from the hard work at dances following both tonight's and Saturday night's performances. [Brand photo by Bob Nigh].

Leads Field

Donald Templeton of Earth has his hands full with "Billy The Kid" during bull riding action at the Annual Hereford Riders' Club Rodeo Thursday night. Templeton managed to stay on the bull for the full count, and was awarded 66 points to lead the other competitors in the event. The rodeo continues here tonight and Saturday. [Brand photo by Bob Nigh.]

Rider Scores 66

By BOB NIGH
Sports Editor

Donald Templeton of Earth rode "Billy The Kid" the full eight seconds and was awarded 66 points from the two Bull Riding event judges to highlight opening night action at the 27th Annual Hereford Riders' Club Rodeo Thursday.

A small, but enthusiastic crowd enjoyed the first of three consecutive rodeo performances at the local riders' club arena. The stock of the Halliday Rodeo Company of Elida, New Mexico proved to be more than some of the contestants wanted, however, with the animals coming out on the long end of the score a majority of the time.

Jon Jarvis of Stinnett rode "Number 44" to a score of 65 to challenge Templeton in the bull riding chase, while Doug Jones rode "Brown Bomber" for a score of 56.

Competition was very close in the barrel race with just one-tenth of a second separating the top two girls. Paula Best of Portales rode her steed to a time of 17.4 seconds to top the event, while Vicky Snodgrass, also of Portales, was second with a time of 17.5.

The bull dogging event was a complete washout as all three entrants failed to even get off their horse. John Wilson, Jim Bob Walden, and Larry Noland, all from Hereford, will have to wait until tonight for another chance at some points and money.

Other leaders in the remaining events included Kenneth Smith of Lubbock with 60 points in bareback broncs, Larry Luce of Portales in 18.8 seconds in calf roping, Marsh Timmons (54) in saddle broncs, and Bruce Potter and Button Shugart with a time of 6.2 seconds in team roping.

The rodeo continues tonight and Saturday night with performances at 8 p.m. each night. In addition to the cowboy and cowgirl events a childrens' calf scramble is held at each performance.

Dances will follow both night's and Saturday night's performances with the "Sound Express" featuring Tex Rhodes providing the music.

The Mini Page asked Buffy, the 7-year-old son of Gunther Gebel-Williams, to tell us about his father.

"My dad is an elephant trainer. He trains horses, tigers and leopards. He practices with a lion and five baby tigers.

"He has taught me how to file an elephant's nails. They are like fingernails . . . except bigger.

"He has taught me how to unload elephants from the train and how to crack a whip."

Buffy's parents don't want him to grow up to be the spoiled son of a superstar.

Buffy is taught that his dad has a job and works very hard, just like everybody else.

Most people think Buffy's dad is the greatest animal trainer in the world.

Buffy thinks he's special for another reason.

He is his dad.

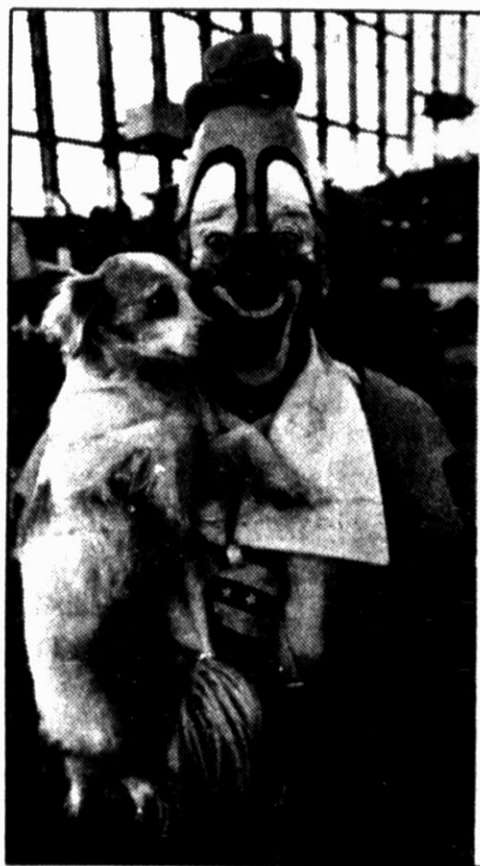

Kids all over the country will be thinking especially about their dads soon.

Father's Day is June 18.

Suiting Up Buffy

There is another Buffy with the Ringling Brothers Circus.

This Buffy is a dog.

She belongs to the most famous clown in the world, Lou Jacobs.

Buffy does one of our favorite tricks.

When you see it, you wonder . . . is that a tiny, tiny baby elephant?

But we know . . . we saw Lou Jacobs suiting up Buffy.

Magic Trick

Sniff the Card trick

What to say:

"Just by sniffing a card, I can tell which one you pick. I will go out of the room while you make your choice."

What to do:

Put five cards out on a table. Ask a friend to help you by giving you hand signals. Leave the room while someone picks a card. Your friend will give you a signal when you return. Pretend to sniff the cards on the table, while checking for your friend's signals. The signals are the number of fingers she puts on her chin. One finger means the first card and so on.

His Dad

"My Dad is the catcher in my act," 9-year-old trapeze artist Tato Farfan told The Mini Page.

"When he trains us, he is firm. You have got to be.

"If our shoulder muscles are sore, he rubs alcohol on our shoulders.

"He understands. He was a flyer when he was a kid," said Tato.

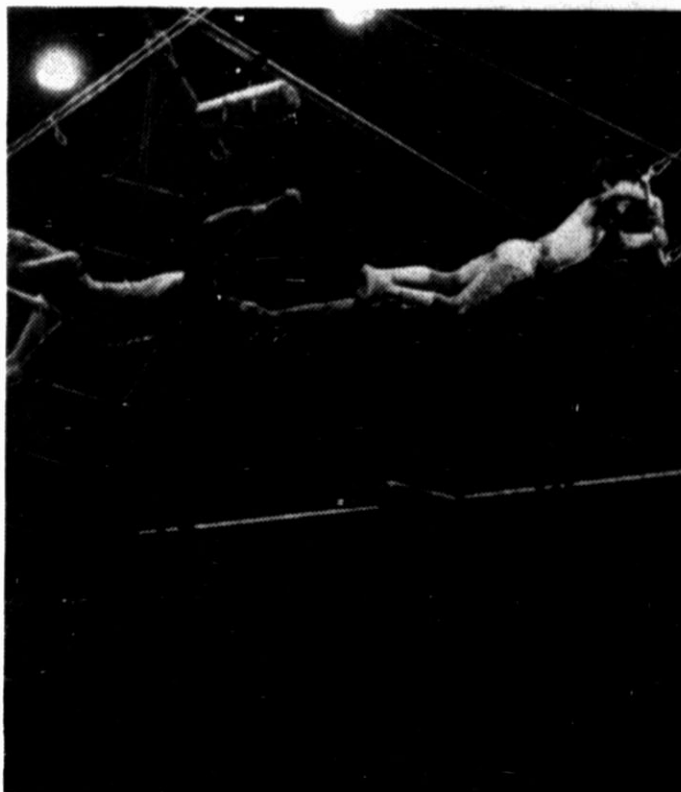

Flying is a family tradition. The Farfans have been doing it for five generations.

His thoughts

"What do you think about when you are up there?" we asked him.

"How I am going to do my trick. How to make it perfect . . . my style . . . how I look and how I take a bow," he said.

Tato has a lot of "style." He has been flying since he was 5 years old.
