U.S. Officials Are Doubtful Cease-Fire in Good Faith

TRUMAN SPEAKS AT DEDICATION

President Harry S. Truman addressed several thousand people at the dedication of the Arnold Engineering Development Center, at Tullahoma, Tenn., named in honor of the late Gen. Hap Arnold. A portrait of the general, a pioneer in the field of aviation, hangs in the background.

Senate Clash On Rollbacks, Farm Supports

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP) — Senators angled for a compromise today in the steaming fight over government price-wage controls and price rollbacks, but no solution was in sight.

And the CIO threatened to boycott the stabilization program again unless Congress approves a program more to its liking than the one now embodied in Senate and House bills.

Present authority for economic controls expires at midnight Saturday.

At hottest issue in the senate were clashing moves:

1. A proposal by Senator Douglas (D-Ill) to strike out the controls bill a drastic proposed limitation on price rollbacks.

2. A motion by Senator Williams (R-Del) to withdraw goverment price support from all farm products if a price ceiling is in effect on any farm product.

Douglas frankly invited a compromise on the rollback issue, but tore into Williams. proposal without any indication of willingness to strick a deal on that one.

The House hasn't even started debate on its version of the controls extension. It is due to do so Wednesday. There was considerable doubt that it could finish up with the bill this week, since some 100 or more amendments were in prospect.

CIO THREATENS

Senate leaders of both parties concede it may be necesary for Congress to adopt a resolution simply extending the present controls law a month or so, to provide more time for action for the extension bill. But they expressed disaster on such an expedient.

The CIO threat to walk out of the stablization effort was voiced late Wednesday by Emil Rieve, chairman of the big labor organization's committee on economic policy and a member of the Wage Stabilization Board.

The program now before congress, Rieve told newsmen, insures "nothing except the profits of business and industry."

State Police Chief Blasts Open Gambling

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN, June 26. —State Police Chief Homer Garrison, Jr., repeated today that Galveston is "a thorn in his side" with respect to enforcement of gambling

He suggested to the House Crime Investigating Committee two possible pieces of legislation to remember.

1. A law to allow the state "to step in and prosecute" when local officials fail to do their duty.

2. A law allowing change of venue in filing felony charges in gambling cases.

Garrison was followed on the witness stand by Galveston County Attorney Raymond Magee who told the committee:

"We have never refused to take any case before a grand jury."

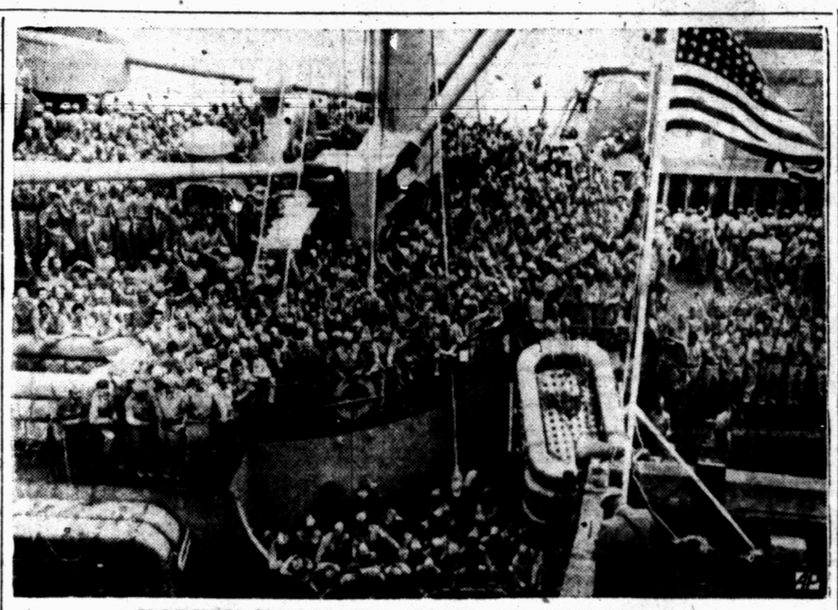

And, Magee added:

"Any charges brought by a grand jury and indicted by grand jury will be prosecuted by our office.

Galveston County has no district attorney. This makes the prosecution of both misdemeanor and felony charges.

Garrison was the second witness at today's hearing, at which Galveston's public officials and civic leaders were given an opportunity to say what they think of gambling conditions on the resort island.

The Maceos and their gambling associates were on the stand all day Monday.

KOREAN VETERANS HOME ON ROTATION

Some of the 3,377 Korean combat veterans, the largest contingent yet to arrive, crowd the decks of the Transport Gen. John Pope, as the vessel docked in San Francisco, California. After processing at nearby Camp Stoneman, they will receive 30-day leaves.

Allied Peace Conditions To Be Specified

UNITED NATIOS, N. Y. June 26. (AP) The United States showed increasingly skepticism toward the Russian cease-fire proposal today as Secretary General Trygve Lie hurried home from Europe to coordinate plans for U. N. consideration of the Malik proposals.

State Department officials questioned whether the Soviet Union's Jacob Malik had not come up merely with a political proposal designed to improve the military position of the North Korean and Chinese forces. This view became known in a memorandum distributed at Supreme Headquarters in Tokyo. The memorandum expressed doubt whether Malik had made his approach in good faith.

Malik proposed Saturday that the "belligerents" in Korea discuss a cease-fire and mutual withdrawal from the 38th Parallel. He mentioned no conditions, but Monday the Chinese Communists brought up the old questions of a seat for Red China in the U.N.

Lie interrupted his Norwegian vacation to fly here. Asked what he thought of the chances of peace, he said "that's what I'm going to find out." Lie is due in New York Wednesday.

Britain announced it was beginning talks in Washington with 15 other governments which have forces in Korea. The idea is to map some sort of joint approach to the Communist nations to estanlish exactly what they have in mind in the way of a cease-fire plan.

Nasrollah Entezam of Iran, president of the U.N. General Assembly, gave no indication whether it would be called into on this issue Entezam said today he had not had a chance to confer with Malik, who was reported ill.

In Moscow, Pravda printed an editorial saying the Soviet people are convinced that "there exist all possibilities for a peaceful settlement of the Korean question." It pictured President Truman as supporting the Malik plan. Actually President Truman said there must be a "real settlement" that ends the aggression and brings an assurance of security to the Korean people.

The South Koreans, whose republic was founded under U.N. sponsorship, officially want no ceasefire that does not reunite the entire Korean peninsula.

In adressing the U.N. assembly today, the Ecuadorean President urged that the Malik proposal be explored thoroughly "to create a tranquil atmosphere that permits appreciation of the problems according to their own merits."

"Now is the hour to make a new and serious effort" to end the war, Galo Plaza said.

Bumper Cotton Crop Hopes Fading Fast

The 1951 cotton crop in Scurry County looks pretty gloomy at this time.

Only 50 per cent of the normal yeild is anticipated, according to Nolan von Roeder and Haskell O. Beard, co-ordinator for the county agricultural vocational schools.

TOO LATE

Von Roeder, member of the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District, and well-known farmer said:

"Because of the prolonged drouth which delayed planting of cotton, and the spotty precipitation which followed, with hail in a several sections, the county's farmers will harvest less than the normal crop this year.

"While there has been several hard rains in certain sections of the county, the precipitation did little good because of the runoff, destroying scores of terraces.

"Perhaps the northwest area of the county was hardest hit, particularly around Fluvanna, where hail did considerable damage.

"In my opinion, it is now too late to plant cotton, and I so advised a farmer yesterday. The latter part of June is too late for cotton planting.

"What little cotton has been planted has in several instances been hit by cotton worms and the crop injured."

Beard, who is in contact with farmers daily at his office in the courthouse, is of the same opinion as Von Roeder.

PLANNED BIG CROP

It was pointed out that Scurry cotton farmers had planned to plant cotton on around 190,000 of the county's 211,000 acres in cultivation. The government had requested the planting of about 130,000 acres in cotton this year, but the farmers had planned to raise this figure by 60,000 acres.

About 75,000 acres of cotton was planted last year, with a total of 39,245 bales produced.

Argentina Offers To Tell Atom Secrets If Right Deal Is Made

BUENOS AIRES, June 26. (AP) — Argentina might be willing to swap some of her new atom secrets, if she could get the right raw materials in return, says the nation's top atom scientist, Ronald Richter.

"If she can make a good deal," Richter told newsmen, Argentina might sell her nuclear secrets out right, or trade them for machinery and raw materials she needs for atomic industrial development.

The Austrian born Richter, showed newsmen through the Huemul atomic plant 850 miles south of Buenos Aires.

He said his new experiment, which will be ready in six or eight months, "will amaze the torld" and might pave the way for use of atomic energy in iron smelters and electric power plants.

Engagment of Cancer Doomed Girl Will End

ATLANTA, June 26. (AP)—Pretty 18-year-old Betty Thompson, given only a short time to live because of cancer, has decided to break her engagement to Sailor Tom Amburn.

She met Tom when he visited a neighbor and he later made several visits here from Norfolk, Va., where he is stationed. On the latest visit a few weeks ago, Tom said his mother in Sioux Falls, S. D., had collapsed on hearing of his engagement.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26. — Cpl. William T. Green, son of Mrs. Gladys Lagrone, 1500 Avenue T, Snyder Tex., was among the 3377 combat soldiers brought home from Korea on the transport General John Pope yesterday.

The vetreans were on the way to their homes today on rotation and 30 day leaves.

Cpl. Green 19 has been in combat duty since Oct. 12 of last year. He enlisted in the Army in March, 1950 in Seattle. His mother moved to Snyder in October last year, and he will be making his first trip to see her here.

Mrs. Legrone was excited upon receiving word that her son was among the 194 Texans who arrived on the ship yesterday. He had previously sent her word that he expected to arrive in San Francisco yesterday, but failed to call her as he had planned. The Associated Press story was the first definite word she had received that he was aboard the ship.

Sen. Johnson Believes Reds Are Insincere

AUSTIN, June 26. (AP)—Soviet Russia's talk of peace is "two-faced," Senator Lyndon B. Johnson charged here Monday.

"The Kremlin wants peace in Korea only because the Kremlin needs time to make war elsewhere," he told the homecoming 27th Fighter Escort Wing at a public assembly on the balcony on the Stephen F. Austin Hotel.

The talk was part of the celebration that started with a parade down Congress Avenue for the airmen and their families.t the airmen and their families. they rode in 100 open cars voulnteered and driven by Austin citizens. Three bands participated.

"There can be no lasting peace on Communist terms. The fight must be carried on — it must be settled on our terms."

Acheson Says Iranian Oil Situation Moving 'On Road to Disaster'

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today there is every indication the Iranian oil situation is "moving rapidly along the road to disaster."

Acheson expressed this view while testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in support of the administration's proposed $8.5 billion foreign aid program.

Committee members asked him about Iran's dispute with Britain over nationalization of the Iranian oil industry and the effect on oil supplies for the non-Soviet nations.

It is "inescapable," he declared, that Iran's oil is "a vital resource" to the free world.

"I regret to to say there is every indication the situation is moving rapidly along the road to disaster," he said.

"I see no bright spots on it."

Byrd Rallies Georgia To Restore States' Rights to Platform

ATLANTA, June 26. (AP) — Southern Democrats can force repeal of the civil rights plank and restoration of a states right plank in the party platform, Senator Harry Byrd (DVa) said Monday night.

Demands for these changes can be enforced, he said at a Jefferson-Jackson dinner by making clear to national party leaders that they must have Southern support to elect a President.

More than 1,000 Georgia Democrats, including Gov. Herman Telmadge and Georgia party leaders, cheered Byrd as he sharply criticized President Truman's administration.

He said the American system of free enterprise is the only force Russia fears and that the system is threatend by the President's policies.

Taft Denies Bipartisan Policy In Effect Since Last Election

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP)— Senator Taft (R-Ohio) declared today it is an "absolute untruth" to say, as President Truman did Monday that this country has a bipartisan foreign policy.

Taft, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, dismissed without a direct reply Mr. Truman's charges in a speech at Tullahoma, Tenn., Monday that the Republicans are "playing right into the hands of the Russians" by conducting a "smear campaign" against the administration.

But the Ohioan — a possible GOP Presidential candidate disputed Mr. Truman's assertion "that we have a bipartisan foreign policy in this country since Pearl Harbor" and "I would like to keep it that way."

The President went on to say that some Republicans — and he obviously was striking at Taft — "want us to play Russian roulette with the foreign policy of the United States — and with all of the chambers of the pistol loaded."

Taft told reporters it is an "absolute untruth" that any bipartisan policy exists now.

"The 1948 election so went to the President's head that he has consulted no Republican leaders since that date," the Ohio Senator declared.

"Senator Vandenberg pointed out that the Republicans were never consulted on the disastrous foreign policy in China, which he opposed." His reference was to the late Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich).

If Mr. Truman is going to run for re-election, he laid out a pattern for 1952 campaign speeches in his Tullahoma talk. Any other nominee hardly could escape using the same pattern.

Basically Mr. Truman showed his intention of carrying the fight to the Republicans while defending his own administration as the champion of world peace.

They are Miss Nancy Teague and Miss Mary Edith Scarborough. Miss Teague, who will be a junior at the University of Texas next fall, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Teague, 3724 Rose Circle. Miss Scarborough is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scarborough, 2207 Thirty-second Street.

It was announced that several business firms here have agreed to sponsor entries in the contest. Myron Fenton, club president, announced again that Miss Snyder contestants will be eligible to enter the Miss West Texas contest to be held in Odessa July 4.

Juvenile Dope Traffic Takes TV Spotlight

WASHINGTON, June 26. (AP) — A 17-year old youth, now being treated for drug addition at a federal hospital, told Senate Crime investigators today that he quit school to earn money to satisfy his craving for dope.

The testimony of the slim, dark-haired boy at televised hearings dramatized an earlier warning from a Unitde Etates Public Health Service official that "we're faced with an epidemic" of drug addiction first started using marijuana at the age of 13 and then shifted to heroin, appeared voluntarily.

The young addict, who said he among teenagers.

His face was not televised. Only his hands were pictured.

he said that he was of Puerto Rican His name also was withheld, but descent and had gone to an aviation school in New York before he dropped out to take a job as a clerk so that he could buy heroin.

Dr. Victor H. Vogel, medical officer of the United States Public Health Service Hospital at Lexington, Ky., said there was a 20-fold increase between 1947 and 1950 in admission of youths to federal institutions for treatment of narcotic addicts.

The problem is most acute in the large cities, he testified.

Dr. Vogel was the opening witness as the crime committee began two days of televised hearings in an effort to put the narcotics traffic in the nation's spotlight.

SAPS MORALITY

Saying drug addiction saps morality, Dr. Vogel said eight out of 10 of the young patients he has treated had "turned to many types of crime" to raise the $10 to $20 a day required to pay for their drugs.

The same 80 per cent, he said, had "no record of juvenile delinquency" before they became addicts.

Dr. Vogel called the government's program for attacking the problem seriously inadequate. He said there is not enough effort to tell youngsters of the dangers of experimentation with narcotics.

Chairman O'Conar (D-Mo.) in opening the hearing said illeagle drug use has reached even to youngsters of school age. He called that "one of the most alarming aspects" of the problem of narcotics traffic.

Acheson Urges Passage Of Big Foreign Aid Bill for Allies

By BARNEY LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGON, June 26. (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson, urging Congress to vote a new $8.5 billion foreign aid program, said today Soviet expension by "encroachment" has "got to be stopped."

Acheson said enlightened self-interest "requires us to make sure that we have strong and reliable friends and allies." The huge foreign economic and arms aid program, he said, is essential to the security of the United States.

As Acheson spoke, before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, speculation mounted in Congress over the possibility that a cease-fire in Korea might be in the making.

But Acheson's prepared statement made no direct reference to the proposed cease-fire.

The secretary assailed Moscow policies as a threat to the free world. He said Moscow wants to see the United States try to "go it alone." The big aid bill, he said, by strengthening America's allies both economically and militarily, and by tightening the bonds of alliance, would yield bigger and swifter returns, in American security, than if the money were spent at home.

The Politburo — Russia's executive council — like the Russian czars, "still prefers to bet on a sure thing," Acheson said. He added that the "discovery that Korea was not a sure thing was undoubtedly a great shock to the Politburo, which called for some sudden changes in their planning."

The arms aid fund faces attack from administration foes. It includes $6.3 billion for military aid and $2.2 billion for economic aid. For the first time it pulls together economic, technical and military assistance into one bill. Acheson said the points interlock closely.

County Accepts Estimate For State Construction of Roads

Final approval by the commissioners court for the State Highway Department to let contracts and supervise building of 80.2 miles of county roads was granted yesterday.

The commissioners voted to accept an official minute of the high way department authorizing the department to proceed with the building of the roads which the state has agreed to maintain.

COST ESTIMATE

The estimated cost to the county of the 80.2 miles of roads was set out in the minutes as $1,461,400, more than had been anticipated when $2,500,000 in county road bonds were voted Feb. 10.

The vote was taken in the presence of S. J. Tradaway of Abilene district highway engineer for the state, who was visiting with the court while passing through Snyder.

Also present was George P. Green, of the Lubbock firm of Hasie & Green, engineers on the remaining portion of the county's 157 mile road project. Green presented an estimate of $1,250,000 for the construction of 77 miles of roads engineered by his firm.

The court discussed the possible shortage of $211,400 if the roads cost equal estimates and talked of ways to eliminate the shortage. None present, however, was in favor of decreasing the project, but it was agreed that if the county should be forced to decrease the amount of roads in the project, such would be done equally in the four precincts. If such were done, three to four miles of the program would probably be dropped in each precinct.

This was not believed necessary, and the court agreed to drop the matter until the roads were near completion.

As alternatives, it was pointed out that the roads may be built for less than the estimated costs, or the county may be able to pay the difference from funds on hand near the completion of the project, or additional state aid may be sought later if necessary. A 30-cent ad valorem tax for road purposes may be voted as allowed by recent action of the legislature, but this was not believed necessary, either.

Both the highway department and Hasie & Green have been making preliminary surveys on the projected roads. The surveys made by the state during the past 60 days show drainage, tests for gravel and caliche. As soon as grade settings and new fence lines are made on 10 or 15 mills of the state's part of the project, the department will let contract for that portion and construction will proceed.

Preliminary surveys have been made on most of Hasie & Green's portion, but testing for gravel or caliche has not been completed, and all deeds have not been secured, Edgar Taylor, county judge said.

The court voted to pay Hasie & Green $17,534.66 for preliminary surveys made on 69.5 miles of the roads. This figure was based on 30 per cent of the six per cent of the estimated cost of the roads.

Martin Water District Board To Draft Well Pumping Rules

Members of the Colorado River Municipal Water District are watching with interest the work of the Martin County underground water conservation district directors now at work on rules governing production from water wells within that district.

The creation of the district was authorized by a majority vote of landowners within the area Saturday, and directors began work on rules and regulations yesterday. James McMorries, Martin County judge, said these rules might restrict wells to one per 80 acres, with a maximum production of 50 million gallons per well annually.

The Colorado River district has land leased within the area, from which it expects to get water to supplement the supply at the dam in Scurry County. The production regulations could limit this additional supply sharply if they are held valid.

Col. E. V. Spence of Big Spring, manager of the Colorado Rivre district, has said he doesn't think the Martin County district has the legal power to set an arbitrary figure as the maximum production of each well.

"Naturally, we expect to comply with the law" Spence said, "but we do not necessarily have to follow any arbitrary rules. Any production allowable set by the Martin County district must be based on the available supply as shown by thorough study. We intend to be fully heard before any such figure is set."

He added that the district has no intention of pumping water from the area to an extent which would seriously deplete the supply.

W. H. Oswalt, Midland city manager, said such a move would also seriously affect the water Midland could get from Martin County, Midland is not directly connected with the problem at present, but is considering boosting its own short supplies with water from Martin County in the near future and has discussed joining the Colorado River district.

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

New Pitcher in Spectacular Debut for American Legion

Two spectacular ball games were played in Memorial Park last night—one outstanding in that a new pitcher who may shape up to be the hottest in the league was introduced by the American Legion, and the second in that more than 20 runs were scored in one game for the first time this season.

The American Legion in the fifth slot in the industrial league, beat out an 8-2 victory over first place Sunray with the aid of Ted Masters, the new pitcher.

The Legion's win pushed them to a tie for fourth place with Pasotex, and gave them seven wins and four losses for a .636 average for the season.

Almost a comedy of errors, the second game was played between Sun Oil and West Texas State Bank in the city league. Sun ran up a total of 35 points to win over the Bankers by a margin of 18 in a game which ended at 11:30 o'clock.

Final score was 35-19, with West Texas State Bank making 11 runs in a vain effort to recover the lead in their last time at bat.

Zelmer Glover, Sunray's pitcher who has led his team to top place in the industrial league all season, didn't do bad on the mound himself. The American Legion made their eight runs from only nine hits, but they made no errors for the night, and had four men left on base.

Sunray had their two runs from four hits, had three errors which were costly, and left four men stranded on base.

Both Masters and Glover struck out 11 batters, and each gave up two walks in the seven inning game.

However it was quite a different pitching story in the second game. V. E. Dieke pitched all the way for Sun, but West Texas State Bank used three mounders before the night was over.

Doc Hargrove, Kenneth Crook, and Bearden pitched for West Texas State Bank, with credit for the loss going to Hargrove who started the game, was relieved by Bearden, came back on the mound for a second try, and was then finally relieved by Crook who had played third base until that time.

For Sun, Raspberry homered with the bases loaded to lead in hitting for the night. Dieke hit a homer, and Miller hit one for Sun.

Bill Zimmerman hit West Texas State Bank's only home run with two men on base in the last frame when the Bankers were making their final bid to get back in the ball game.

Tonight Parker Drilling Co. plays the American Legion, and Pasotex plays Halliburton.

Parker Drilling Co. is in seventh place in the industrial league, and the Legion is tied for fourth place. Pasotex is the other half of that knot, and Halliburton is in the bottom slot with only one win and 10 losses for the season.

Texan Paces Golf Tourney

COLUMBUS, O., June 26. (AP) — Defending Champion North Texas State and a 32-year-old former GI set a blistering pace today as the National Collegiate Golf Tournament went into its second and final day of qualifying over Ohio State University's sprawling course.

The unusually rugged foursome from the Lone Star State carried a 294 total into today's firing, three better than its nearest rivals, Ohio State, North Carolina and the University of Detroit. They each had 297.

The team title is awarded on the basis of the four low scores in the 36-hole qualifier.

But the real sensation of opening day Monday was Sam Kocsis, 32-year-old University of Detroit senior. He slashed five strokes off par for the 6915-yard course with a 67.

Kocsis coupled a three-under par 33 going out and a two-undar 34 on the incoming nine for his phenomenal round.

Don January of North Texas State slid in with 35-34—69, for second place.

HEN SETTLEMENT

PASADENA, Calif., June 26. (AP)—The hen that lives on Penn street beat the rap.

Henny Penny's her name, a pet chicken belonging to five-year-old Joyce Mones of 245 Penn St.

A neighbor, Arthur H. Dreiser, 58, of 237 Penn St., carried Henny Penny into the police station Monday. The squak was that Henny Penny was scratching the very devil out of his brand new lawn.

Presumably because Henny Penny is under 18, the case was taken over by the juvenile department. A settlement was hatched; Joyce's mother, Mrs. Emil C. Mones, agreed to tether the hen in the yard.

The Mones family is moving soon, anyway.

Longhorn 1st Division Tilt

By the Associated Press

The middle of the Longhorn is becoming congested again. Four of the clubs trying to prove that two or more objects can occupy the same place at the same time.

Maybe it can't be done actually but in baseball standings it is possible.

Odessa, Vernon, Roswell and Big Spring are battling for the three lower spots in the first division. Currently there is a game and a half spread between the four.

Odessa is second half a game in front of Vernon. The Dusters are one game ahead of Roswell and Big Spring, now tied for fourth.

Big Spring moved into the fourth place tie last night with 4-1 a victory over Midland while Roswell lost to Artesia, 14-10, in the first game but won the second, 10-4.

San Angelo increased its first place lead to nine games with a 13-10 victory over Odessa and Vernon whammed Sweetwater, 12-1, to cut the Odessa advantage in second place to a half game.

Fans Hold Their Breath As Dodger-Giant Series Starts

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press

Back in 1934 Bill Terry, then manager of New York's world champion Giants, was asked what he thought of the dreary Brooklyn Dodgers.

'Are they still in the league?" he retorted.

Now 17 years later, another Giants manager, Leo Durocher, will attempt to prove that the Dodgers are still in the league.

Pacing the pack by six full games, the Dodgers appear to be in a league all by themselves. They are threatening to make a shambles of the pennant race in the National circuit. The responsibility of halting the Brooklyn runaway rests squarely on the Giants.

The bitter interborough rivals open a vital three-game series tonight at the Polo Grounds.

There is a side issue to the Dodger-Giant battles. That is the threat of beanball hositilities. The April 30 when some of the Brooklyn hitters accused pitcher Sal Maglie of throwing at them.

Nobody knows what to expect. "I don't know yet what I'm going to do," League President Ford Frick said. "I might issue instructions to Managers Durocher and Dressen. I haven't decided yet."

Dressen has preacher Roe (10-0) his unbeaten southpaw, ready for tonight. He'll be opposed by Maglie (11-3).

The American league appears set for a blistering pennant race with Chicago's White Sox, New York's Yankees, Cleveland's Indians and Boston's Red Sox all figuring prominently.

The open against Detroit tonight at home, where they remain for nine games before moving to Cleveland at St. Louis for seven more. They split 16 games on their just completed Eastern swing.

New York's runnerup Yankees visit Washington for the first three games.

The Red Sox open a two-game home stand against the hot Philadelphia Athletics.

Cleveland, glad to get away from Yankee Stadium, where they dropped three straight to extend their non-winning skein to 11 in a row in New York, are back home to meet the last-place St. Louis Browns.

In other games, the St. Louis Cardinals play host to Chicago's Cubs, the Phils take on the Boston Braves in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh engages the Reds in Cincinnati.

Musial Leads League Batters

NEW YORK, June 26. (AP) — The National League batting race tightened during the past week as Stan Musial of St. Louis skidded 11 points to still a comfortable six-point margin over Jackie Robinson's .365.

Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia and Bob Elliott of Boston, moved up to a third place tie with a .349.

Al Dark of New York edged past Roy Campanella of Brooklyn to take over fifth at .330 with the Dodger catcher right behind at .329.

Frank Baumholtz of Chicago remained in seventh at .327 with Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh, eighth at .320, Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn and Peanuts Lowrey of St. Louis, not in the big 10 last week, just made it with a ninth-place tie at .315.

Hitters Battle In American

CHICAGO, June 26. (AP — Pholodelphia's Ferris Fain and Chicago's Minnie Minosa and Nellie Fox continued their percentage League batting lead during the week.

Fain held the top spot through Sunday with .358, but on his heels were Rookie Minoso with .356 and Fox with .355. Boston's Dom DiMaggio was fourth with .341.

In the biggest hitting spree Ted Williams of Boston jumped to fifth place on the top 10 list with .332. He was followed by teammate Vern Stephens with .326; Jim Busby, Chicago .319; Gil Coan, Washington, .318; Roberto Avila, Cleveland, .317; and George Kell Detroit, .316.

Boyle Alienates Spouse; Any Coolness Is Welcome in Summer

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, (AP) How to beat the heat?

That is again becoming the nation's number one problem, as the dog days again roll toward us.

Every one collects a few rules of his own on how to be comfortable in hot weather. Today I'd like to pass on a few hints I've picked up over the years.

An elderly Republican I know, whenever a humid day comes, goes about muttering to himself, "Keep cool with Coolidge."

But don't carry imagination too far. During one bad heat wave a friend of mine insisted "it's all in your head." He came to work wearing a winter coat and vest. Never felt cooler, he said. The next day he arrived in an overcoat. The following day he arrived wearing galoshes, earmuffs and a heavy wool scarf. The fourth day he came down wih a bad case of frostbite.

If you don't work in an air-conditioned office, change jobs. It takes moral courage to keep cool.

Avoid talking yourself but strike up conversations with your longest-winded friends. Any breeze helps.

There's an old Boy Scout trick that sometimes helps. Line your hat with leaves. My favorite is the maple leaf, but elm or oak will do. Leave them in the office water cooler during the day and they'll be still fresh at quitting time.

The average beach today is like the average airport — it is too far from where you live. Spend next Sunday lying in bed under a sun lamp. Put a conch shell next to your ear on the pillow, and have your wife throw sand and orange peels at you. That way you can hear the sea, and enjoy every pleasure of a quiet day at the beach.

The coolest places this time of year are bars, basements and Nova Scotia. Try to spend as much time as possible in a bar in a basement in Nova Scotia.

Come home late for dinner four nights in a row. That'll put a feeling of coolness between you and your wife.

In this respect, take a tip from your dog. He sticks out his tongue and pants, and the evaporation cools him. Try that yourself at the office. Stick out your tongue and start panting. Hard. You may not feel chilly all at once. But if the boss sees you he is sure to give you the afternoon off.

Snyder Man Regains Consciousness After Hear-on Collision

L. T. Adams of Snyder, who was injured in a two-car collision six day, was reported to have regained miles east of Loraine early yesterconsciousness about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He is not believed to be in dangerous condition.

Five other persons injured in the accident, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Robinson and their three children, all of Littlefield, were also hospitalized as a result of injuries. Mrs. Robinson was taken to Hendrick Memorial Hospital in Abilene, where her condition was described as critical. She suffered a fractured leg and dislocated hip. Their youngest child, Brent, one year old, was the only occupant not injured.

An eye-witness to the accident said the car driven by Adams and the station wagon driven by Robinson collided head-on.

Both Robinson and Adams were taken to the Johnson hospital in Loraine. The children were taken to Sweetwater Municiple Hospital.

Veterans Plan Float For Rodeo Parade

The American Legion Post voted last night to join with the Veterans of Foreign Wars here to sponsor a float in the rodeo parade, according to George Killam, Jr., post adjutant.

The float will be under the name of "The Veterans' Club" Killam said.

As part of the entertainment features at the clubhouse, the Legionnaires decided to purchase a shuffle board, which will be used by both organizations and their families.

The annual election fo post officers will be held July 9, with nominations to be made from the floor.

Hollywood Director Ill

HOLLYWOOD, June 26. (AP)—Jovie Director Henry Hathaway is recovering from an emergency operation for an abdominal obstruction, his doctors said today.

Hathaway, a veteran of 43 years in motion pictures, entered the hospital for observation last Tuesday and was operated on Sunday night.

Year Packed With Action For Soldier

GLENDALE, Calif., June 26. (AP)—"Boy! What a year this has been!" exclained Henry Cullum, grinning through the nursery window at his day old twins.

Chronologically, Cullum, 32, a Los Angeles policeman, was called back to the infantry in January. On Feb. 27 he hit the Korean front line, as a lieutenant with the Third Division. For four months it was nothing but war, while he fretted about his wife, Joyce, 24, expecting their first child.

On June 17 he was granted emergency leave. He was ready to fly in 20 minutes. He arrived last Wednesday. The "baby" arrived late Sunday night, only "it" was twins, Jeffrey and Deborah.

Monday Lt. Cullum got his first good look at them."

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sears and Carolyn Ann, 3011 Avenue X, are spending several days in Ruidoso, N.M.

Changing, Poignant Story In Endless Evacuation Flights

By FRANK H. KING

A KOREAN PORT, (AP) — The wounded fly smoothly and peacefully from this tragic land.

They flew today, as they fly every day the weather permits, slung in litters lining the big planes that lift them above the clouds that help blot Korea from their sight and memory.

"Six months ago it wasn't this good," said the pilot, Capt. Peter A. Bechtel of Hanover, Pa., as we followed the last stretcher up the ramp to an air evacuation plane.

"We landed on dry rice paddies in North Korea and flew ammunition almost to the Yalu River. The wounded would come out of foxholes with shattered arms and body wounds in bloody bandages. We crowded them into the empty cargo space and headed for Japan."

FEW ARE GAY

The "Air Evac" is an old story, yet a new story every day the torn and broken Americans from the Korean hills are stacked in planes and flown to greater safety and better medical and nursing care. All are young, but few are gay. Some are insensate from battle shock. Occasionally a man dies in the air. The others may not know it, for many sleep deeply on the journey from one strange Oriental land to another.

At first glance the Air Evac planes look like the big liners that fly between American cities, but the interior is rough, barnlike cargo space.

The litters of the wounded are slung one above the other until men lie four deep with just enough space for comfort.

The first plane out has Nurse Capt. Miriam Troxell of Lewistown, Pa., a tiny bit of combined feminine charm and professional nursing efficiency, in charge of the 27 litter cases and several walking wounded.

PILOT RAF VET

The pilot is a happy-go-lucky veteran who flew with the RAF in World War II, racked up 340 missions on the Berlin air lift, and has flown in Korea since the fighting started.

Through the mists the flight skirts the peaks that rise from the shoreline. Up the valley are the flags of the United Nations cemetery where nearly 5,000 Americans have been burried. A bulldozer is leveling the rice paddies to make room for more dead. Over another hill to the right are the camps where thousands of war prisoners, both Chinese Reds and North Koreans, await removal to a concentration area.

In 20 minutes the Air Evac plane is cruising above the clouds. Many of the men have their own cigarettes. A crewman opens a sack of old comic books and magazines, also a big box of sandwiches.

The little nurse is everywhere at once, up and down the tiers of litters, adjusting bandages, attending wants, answering questions.

The ambulatory cases want to help out, and the nurse humors them. A big fellow hobbling on one leg is using both hands to hold a cup, while a badly injured man tries to suck a drink through a glass tube.

It is a routine flight, one of many made every week. When the going is tough at the front and the casualties heavy, the helicopter rescue more frequent, and the hospital trains more numerous, there are more flights.

Within an hour, most of the men turn their faces to the shadows of the curbed wall of the plane and are asleep. On a bottom row litter a man racked with battle shock clenches his hands and keeps his eyes squeezed tightly shut.

PLANE KISSES RUNWAY

Over the straits the panorama of Japan opens up through the clouds. Soon the snow-capped cone of Mount Fuji is a landmark to the left, but the Air Evac planes give it a wide berth. Few of the wounded see the scenery, nor do they care.

At the port of destination in Japan, the pilot brings the big plane down to kiss the runway with the gentlest, softest touch imaginable. The sleeping wounded do not stir. The litters are carried out as carefully as they came in, and distributed to waiting ambulances. Some of the sleeping men will fly on to America. After a rest others will go back to duty in the Korean hills.

THE STARS

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 26, (AP) —The Hollywood Canteen, which entertained 3 million servicemen in World War II, is gearing for the new war.

This word came today from Film Producer Carey Wilson, one of the three guiding forces of the canteen. The others: Bette Davis, Talent Tycoon Jules Stein Wilson has signalled his volunteer workers to be ready to start operations on Labor Day or thereafter.

"At first I told them to be ready July 4 or thereafter," he declared. "But after a survey of the entire situation, I discovered that there were not enough servicemen visiting this area. The big camps which existed in neighboring areas during the last was have not been re-activated.

"Ours is a big operation. During the last war our expenses ran $3,700 a week, even with getting the talent and workers free and the food wholesale. You can imagine what prices would be now. When we reopen, we want to do the maximum job. And we wouldn't want to close again; that would be bad psychologically."

The new Hollywood Canteen will be more glamorous than the last one, which was a barn-like structure off the beaten path. The Canteen organization has bought control of the Florentine Gardens, a defunct night club on Holywood Boulevard. Even after the purchase, the canteen still has a half-million dollars for operation.

"The money came from percentages of two pictures, 'Stage Door Canteen' and 'Hollywood Canteen,'" Wilson reported.

"When the Korean War and the present emergency came along, we started making plans to reopen the canteen."

Wilson's favorite memory was the Christmas Eve before the canteen closed. Bing Crosby always came on that night to sing "White Christmas." But he hadn't arrived yet and Wilson was worried. Finally, just before midnigh, Bing drove up. His four sons were with him and they sang all the Christmas carols they knew.

The audience wouldn't let Bing go. Wilson had to plead with them to be satisfied with one more song. So, without any accompaniment, Bing sang "I'll Be Home For Christmas." They say there wasn't a dry eye in the Canteen that night.

Texan Finds Touches of Texas, Sand and Oil, In Venezuela

Maracaibo, Venezuela, has been the home of Texas-born Mrs. William G. Berry for two and one-half years now—and she loves it!

Mrs. Berry and her young son, Keith, have been here visiting Mrs Berry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Johnson, who live in the Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line Co. camp on the Clairemont Road. And, although the visit has been wonderful, Mrs. Berry says she is looking forward to returning to South America this week.

NO TOURIST MECCA

Maracaibo isn' one of the tropical cities which attract tourists, Mrs. Berry said, and it isn't likely to be immediately appealing to any new resident. She moved there with her husband when he went into an oil field equipment business with his brother. She definitely didn't like it at first, but, like many strangers who move to Texas, she found it grew more and more like home.

Of Maracaibo's 300,000 population, Mrs. Berry estimates that one-third are foreigners who either work for major oil companies or are associated with the oil industry in some manner. hey lead a leisurely life, as is befitting such a tropical setting, and are frequently amazed to find themselves dissatisfied with the rush of life in the states when they return. Most of the North Americans are from Texas, while the other oil workers are mainly from England and Holland. There are thousands of displaced persons flocking to the country seeking whatever occupation they can find, Mrs. Berry said, and Italians seem to distinguish themselves by making a success of working outside the oil fields.

HABLA ESPANOL?

Spanish is the native tongue of Venezuela, although few North Americans seem to make an effort to learn more of it than is absolutely necessary. Mrs. Berry said. Her son speaks it fluently, while she is only a little past the grammar-book stage.

The natives are infinitely patient with North Americans learning the language, and are gracious enough to help without making the speaker feel self-conscious. North Americans, on the other hand, are often rude enough to ridicule the Venezuelan who makes an error in English grammar or pronunciation in trying to make conversation easier for his guest.

The native living standard is very low compared to that of the United States, although the government is attempting to raise it by setting up employment regulations and providing public schools. It is customary for several families to share the same dwelling, with whole families sleeping in a family-sized hammock. The hammocks, fastened to hooks on the walls are taken down during the day to give more room. None of the native houses are built with closets, which doesn't inconvenience them much because they wear their only clothes. Those who own extra clothes keep them in huge wardrobes.

CITY BUILDING

Maracaibo is taking on a cosmopolitan air now, Mrs. Berry said, with expensive new business buildings as modern as any in the states. The native quarter remains as it has for centuries, complete with it's market square offering every variety of merchandise. Large hotels now under consruction will probably help the country attract more tourist trade, since accommodotions at present are very limited.

Mrs. Berry said she found the heat here more oppressive than in Maracaibo, but pointed out that the two places have at least one thing in common. Venezuela has dust storms too—four months of constant wind during the winter months. However, Venezuela also has a rainy season between storms. The weather is dependable as the slow, easy living.

A dream of every housewife come true in Venezuela is the abundance of domeste help. Everyone who has even a moderate income can afford a housekeeper, who will receive an average wage of from $35 to $40 per month. Mrs. Berry pays her housekeeper $60 a month, and says she is as perfect as could be imagined. In addition to keeping the house spotless, she does the laundry and helps take care of Keith.

COOKS A PROBLEM

The only problem with native domestic help comes in finding a cook. Since the national diet of Venezuela seems to be composed mainly of fish, platonos and rice, they rarely bother to learn fine cookery. They will learn, but it is often easier to hire a Jamaican than begin from the first to teach an adult.

Mrs. Berry herself hasn't any problem with a cook because she has no kitchen. All their meals are prepared in a hotel nearby, and the arrangement is completely satisfactory.

West Texas housewives who groan over the family food bill would find little relief in Maracaibo. It is not unusual for a family of three to spend $250 for groceries alone there, Mrs. Berry said. The country is not suitable for farming, and most of the food must be imported. There are some native fruits, but they are hardly enough to build daily meals on.

Social life is built around the clubs which are operated by the oil companies, Mrs. Berry said. In addition to dinner dances or other parties over the week ends, the clubs offer movies two or three nights during the week. There are courts, and the clubhouses are popular gathering spots. Children are not allowed to attend evening movies, so special matines are arranged for them. The Venezuelan government forbids all children attending late movies to keep them off the streets in an attempt to halt juvenile crime.
