Eagles Stop Project

ORLANDO, Fla. AP — A family of bald eagles has moved into an area where 100 new homes were planned, and the builder has declared the site a sanctuary.

Dick Bonds, president of the company developing Sterling Park, said Tuesday that as long as the eagles remain, their nest will not be disturbed by builders.

The eagle nest was sighted by architects for the project and Bond's decision was immediate: The eagles stay.

"I don't see how there could have been any other decision," he said.

Bonds said the nest has two full-sized adults and one fledgling. He's not sure how old the birds are but says they have a life span of 25-35 years.

The birds mate for life and although they migrate north in the summer, they always return to the same nest if it's not disturbed, he said.

"I saw them from a distance, it was late in the afternoon. The sun was setting and they were wheeling around a lake. They were beautiful, just beautiful," Bonds said.

The local Audubon Society told Bonds that studies indicate the eagles need a radius of 660 feet of wild land from their nest if they are to remain.

He subsequently designated 32 acres of choice woodland surrounding the nest as a sanctuary.

One hundred homes had been planned for the site which, he said, when developed would be worth an estimated $620,000.

Bonds said plans for the 1,100-acre development north of here were not altered to build the homes elsewhere.

"We will have just that many fewer houses," he said.

To ensure the tranquility of the nest, Bonds had the architects, all members of the Audubon Society, put a moat around the site and then changed the line of a golf course fairway to run next to the moat.

The sanctuary land costs Bonds approximately $2,000 a year in taxes. As the surrounding land is developed he said he expects the taxes may double, "but we'll certainly try to keep the taxes down."

"It was a tough decision to make in that there is a lot of money tied up in it," Bonds said. "I don't mean to sound too altruistic; we feel we'll be able to use the land some day, but as long as they're there, they'll have a home."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 4, the 216th day of 1971. There are 149 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in hostory:

On this date in 1914 Britain declared war on Germany in World War I and the United States proclaimed its neutrality.

On this date:

In 1781, Lord Cornwallis retired with his British army to Yorktown, Va.

In 1790, a U.S. naval force that later became the Coast Guard, was formed.

In 1826, the last stocks from criminals were removed in London.

In 1916, the United States bought the Virgin Islands from Denmark for $25 million.

In 1936, Gen. Francisco Franco proclaimed himself chief of Spain's Falangist party and made it Spain's only political party.

In 1944, a train wreck near Stockton, Ga., killed 47 persons.

Ten years ago: The founder of the John Birch Society, Robert Welch, announced a contest with $2,300 in prizes, for the best essays on "grounds for the impeachment" of Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Five years ago: The White House denounced steel price increases as inflationary but did not attempt to force a rollback.

One year ago: President Nixon declared the area of Corpus Christi, Tex., a major disaster area after Hurricane Celia swept across the Texas coast leaving 12 dead and more than $375 million in property damage.

CHARGES "DOUBLE-DEALING"

Peking Attacks US Efforts

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Peking threw a charge of "double-dealing" today against U.S. efforts to solve the China question in the United Nations.

It accused Secretary of State William P. Rogers of lying in trying to push "the preposterous proposition of two Chinas."

"Rogers' so-called realities of the two Chinas are his sheer fancy," said Red China's official news agency in a broadcast from Peking. "The clumsy 'two-Chinas' trick played by U.S. imperialism is absolutely illegal and futile."

This condemnation came as the United States was working behind the scenes to line up support for two resolutions, one inviting Red China to join the United Nations and the other to prevent the expulsion of Nationalist China.

Diplomatic sources said U.S. Chief Delegate George Bush outlined the two resolutions and asked for cosponsors at a meeting of representatives from about 20 delegations Tuesday at his office opposite U.N. headquarters.

The sources said the resolutions would be submitted for the General Assembly session opening Sept. 21 as soon as the delegations determined whether their governments would become cosponsors.

The first resolution would offer the Communist regime in Peking a seat in the United Nations, would specify that the Nationalist government on Formosa would continue to be seated and would direct the specialized U.N. agencies to take the decision into account.

As a further safeguard to Nationalist China's membership, the second resolution would classify any resolution to expel the Nationalists as an "important" question requiring for its adoption a two-thirds majority of those voting.

This is the maneuver by which the United States barred Red China's admission to the United Nations last year. Asked at his news conference Monday whether the U.S. government was dropping its claim that Peking's admission was an important question, Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the Nixon administration's decision to no longer oppose the admission of the Communist regime made this "academic."

Albania and 17 other friends of Peking have already submitted the annual resolution to seat the Red Chinese and expel the Nationalists.

Adoption of this resolution would automatically throw out the two American proposals, and the United States will seek a special vote in the assembly to have its resolutions voted on first.

The Americans' "important question" resolution was approved last year by a vote of 66-52, with 7 abstentions.

Campaign Spending Limited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heeding pleas the public trust was at stake, the Senate today voted the amount of money a candidate for federal office can pay out of his own or a family fortune to win election.

"This is a rich man's amendment," said Sen. Charles McCM Mathias R-Md., who offered it to a sweeping election reform bill aimed at curbing campaign costs.

"We cannot afford even the suspicion a man can buy a seat in the House of Representatives or the United States Senate," he said.

The amendment was approved by voice vote after a motion to table it failed 33-58.

It would limit a presidential candidate to spending no more than $50,000 of his own money or that of his immediate family. Senatorial candidates would be limited to $35,000 and House candidates to $25,000.

Opponents of the amendment, including some of the wealthiest men in the Senate, argued the limit would be unworkable, unenforceable and possibly unconstitutional.

Vote Due On Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House appeared ready today to approve an antiwar amendment as the price for extending the draft two more years.

But while House approval was expected with little trouble, antiwar senators said they will not even have to filibuster to block enactment of the draft bill until at least September.

House Armed Services Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., says the Indochina war language worked out by House-Senate conferees "will not tie the President's hands."

The House, by ever narrower votes, has turned down all previous war-pullout measures.

NIXON WILL CONSIDER

Wage-Price Restraints Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said Wednesday he would consider a wage-price review board to combat inflation if hearings in Congress convince him it could be done "without stifling the economy."

In a switch of tactics, Nixon softened his once-rigid opposition to the idea of a wage-price review board as a dozen Republican senators proposed a system of wage-price restraints to Capitol Hill.

Nixon reiterated his opposition to the wage-price board approach which has been urged by Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns, but indicated to newsmen he is now more open-minded about it.

He said the idea of such a board would be considered only if congressional hearings "convince me that enforcing an incomes policy could be accomplished without stifling the economy."

Shortly before Nixon held his news conference, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said in a statement the administration, while opposing a wage-price board and the restraints it implies, now welcomes a "full-fledged debate in the Congress" over the issue.

Nixon followed that up with his statement.

The President said he would bring the power of his office to bear in an effort to see that industry and labor contract settlements "are responsible."

Even this classified as "incomes policy," which ie economic jargon for the use of White House power cto hold down big wage and price increases. But the wage-price board approach would imply some type of enforcement, as opposed to presidential efforts to achieve lower wage and price boosts through persuasion.

Nixon reiterated his prediction that 1971 "would be a good year for the economy" and 1972 "a very good year."

"We are making progress against inflation," the President said. But he added, "it's going to require continued strong policies" and will need congressional aid in limiting the budget expenditures within the limit of full employment revenues.

APPEALS AUSTIN CASE

Nixon Raps Busing Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disavowing a Department of Health, Education and Welfare action in an Austin, Tex., school desegregation case, President Nixon has promised the nation's cities he will stand for no more busing than "the minimum required by law."

Nixon found faulty under recent Supreme Court decisions a plan submitted by local officials and ordered into effect by a federal judge. And he said Tuesday his administration will not use those Supreme Court decisions to push for extensive busing of pupils to eliminate racial segregation.

In appealing the judge's ruling in the Austin case, Nixon said, the administration will back away from an alternative plan drawn up by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare requiring cross-town busing to achieve a racial balance in the city's schools.

Nixon also sought to ensure none of the $1.5 billion he seeks from Congress to ease the trauma of Southern school desegregation will be used to pay for busing-extensive or minimal. He said HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson has submitted to Congress an amendment "that will expressly prohibit the expenditure of any of those funds for busing."

Nixon's statement followed an announcement by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell that the Justice Department will appeal the July 19 ruling by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Jack B. Roberts in the Austin case.

Roberts rejected the HEW busing plan, favoring instead one drawn up by Austin school officials requiring only part-time integration.

The HEW plan was the first drawn up by the administration following the Supreme Court's ruling in April that busing is a permissible means of achieving school desegregation.

Nixon said in appealing Roberts' ruling, "The Justice Department will disavow the HEW plan on behalf of the government."

He pointedly added: "I have instructed the attorney general and the secretary of health, education and welfare that they are to work with individual school districts to hold busing to the minimum required by law."

Despite Nixon's antibusing stance and Mitchell's assertion that the appeal "was required because the order of the district court did not comply with prior decisions of higher courts," the action was attacked by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

It appears Nixon "does not really oppose forced busing or that he lacks the resolve necessary to control those who pursue it in his name," Tower said.

Boatman Rites Set Thursday

W.S. Boatman, 87, a long-time Scurry County resident, died early this morning in Hickman Nursing Home in Brownwood.

Funeral services are scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday in the Fluvanna Church of Christ. Burial will be in the Fluvanna Cemetery. Local arrangements are being handled by Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mr. Boatman married Minnie Alice Caffey on Nov. 7, 1909. She preceded him in death.

Surviving are three daughters, Cora Dell Fudge of Houston, Blanche Mixon of Chanelview, and Edna De Shazo of Amarillo; two stepsons, A.P. Townsend of Blanket and Bill Townsend of Goree; one sister, Mae Wilkerson of Houston, 17 grandchildren and a number of great-grandchildren.

Astronauts Are Heading Home

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTERN Houston (AP) — Apollo 15's astronauts neared the end of six days of moon exploration today and prepared to fire out of lunar orbit for the trip home and man's farthest-out space walk.

Before they leave, they'll add another dimension to one of history's greatest scientific expeditions. They'll eject into orbit a small satellite to probe additional moon secrets.

David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden will complete the experiments in their flying science lab when they kick the satellite loose at 4:10 p.m. EDT.

At 5:20 p.m. they plan to trigger the engine of their spaceship Endeavour to break away from the grip of lunar gravity and start the three-day journey back to earth.

The astronauts were quiet today as they busily aimed their cameras and scientific instruments at the bleak surface 70 miles below, trying to squeeze as much knowledge as possible out of the alien moon.

In one brief exchange Mission Control told them: "It's been raining a lot in Houston, and you guys will have a lot of grass-cutting to do when you get back down here."

"The weather's been good up here," Scott commented.

At Misson Control Center, experts today remotely switched on the television camera which Scott and Irwin left on the moon, mounted on their moon buggy.

They swung it back and forth and it relayed a sharp picture of the landscape at Hadley Base, including the lower half of the lunar lander Falcon and the experiments left on the surface.

"Looks like Boot Hill from a distance," one controller said.

The instruments in the distance looked like tombstones.

After 14 minutes, the camera suddenly ceased transmitting. Efforts to restart it failed. Experts had no immediate explanation for the loss. Its batteries may have given out.

Scientists had hoped the camera would retain power at least until Friday to view an eclipse of the sun as seen from the moon.

Ky Seeks Place On Ballot

SAIGON AP — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky asked the Supreme Court today for a place on the Oct. 3 presidential ballot, but his petitions lacked 98 of the 100 necessary certified endorsements by provincial councilmen.

"I have not given up," Ky told a news conference. "I am still fighting. I will fight until the last minute."

If the court rejects his petitions, Ky said, "then we will see what happens."

Minutes later, retired Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, who filed his qualifying petitions last week, announced his support for Ky's attempts to get on the ballot.

New Jr. High Coach Killed

School authorities were notified early this morning of the death of Lannie Joe Baker, one of the junior high coaches who was to report on August 23 for assignment to Lamar as seventh grade English teacher and assistant ninth grade football coach.

Baker was enrolled in McMurry, completing the requirements for a degree this month. He was a graduate of Kermit High School.

Baker was killed in a car accident in Abilene. Details of the accident were not avaiilable at press time.

Jr. High Bands Set Schedules

The junior high schools will begin their summer band schools on Monday, Aug. 9, and they will continue through Aug. 20. The eighth and ninth grade students will meet from 8 to 10 each morning.

The seventh grade students will be divided into three classes, with the woodwinds meeting from 10:15 to 11, the brass from 11:15 to 12, and the percussion class from 1 to 1:45.

Glen Thompson is the Travis band director and Bob Chapman is the Lamar band director.

Redistricting Bill Goes To Supreme Court

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Supreme Court will be asked to decide whether the much-criticized bill drawing new districts for state representatives is valid.

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin announced Tuesday he will appeal Austin Dist. Judge Herman Jones's decision that the redistricting plan violates the Texas Constitution.

The Supreme Court is in summer recess until Oct. 6. A decesion that the bill is unconstitutional would almost certainly bring the legislature back in special session to write a new plan. Candidates for all state offices—including representatives—must file by Feb. 7.

Jones ruled the measure was unconstitutional because it unnecessarily divided counties to create House districts. The judge forbade Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. from taking any action as Texas' chief election officer under authority of the redistricting bill.

"We are in the process of perfecting our appeal to the Supreme Court of Texas," Martin said. "When the validity of a legislative act is challenged in the courts it is a long-standing policy of the attorney general's office to advocate the validity of the act until the question is resolved by the Supreme Court of Texas."

First Asst. Atty. Gen. Nola White said the attorney general would not ask the high court to consider the case on an emergency basis before its recess ends.

"We'll need that long to prepare briefs," White said.

He said the attorney general has 20 days to file his motion asking the court to take the case and another 55 days to submit his briefs. Opponents of the bill have an additional 20 days to prepare an answer to the attorney general's briefs.

Judge Jones ruled in a suit filed by Rep. Tom Craddick, a Midland Republican and a member of the "Dirty 30" House coalition which opposed Speaker Gus Mutscher's leadership during this year's regular legislative session.

Only five members of the "Dirty 30" escaped unharmed from the bill, which placed numerous dissidents in unfavorable districts for re-election.

Midland County — Short only 9,000 people of having the ideal 74,645 population for a house district—was divided in half.

Part of the county went into a district running to the Rio Grande. Craddick lives in the portion placed in a district extending to Abilene. Rep Grant Jones of Abilene, a Conservative Democrat, also lives in the district which contains Craddick's home.

Judge Jones said the "integrity of the counties, which Sec. 26 of the state constitution was designed to protect, has been violated beyond anything that was reasonably required by the one-man, one-vote decision of the United States Supreme Court."

Transplant Patient Is Critical

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Adrian Herbert, who underwent a heart-lung transplant 10 days ago, was in critical condition today after emergency surgery to repair a losse connection in his new organs.

Herbert, 49, has lived longer than anyone else after a graft of both heart and lungs. His operation by Dr. Christiaan Barnard's transplant team was the fourth attempted and the first outside the United States.

The previous longest survivor of such surgery lasted eight days.

It was discovered Tuesday that one of the couplings made during the operation July 25 had sprung a leak, and late Tuesday night, surgeons decided to patch the break in his right windpipe connection.

The surgery was successful, a spokesman at Groote Schuur Hospital said. He described Herbert's condition variously as "reasonable," "weak" and "satisfactory."

Informed sources said the patient's life was hanging by a slender thread and his condition was critical. Herbert had a close call last Wednesday when his body began rejecting the new lungs, but massive injections of drugs pulled him through.

NEW BRICKS FROM OLD NEWSPAPERS GROW — Grade school and junior high school students are participating in a laboratory project that is not only educational but helpful to the ecology. By using a process invented by Robert Matteson, a retired Standard Oil research engineer, the students use shredded paper combined with chemical binding agents and exert 2,000 lbs. of pressure in a brick forming machine to produce the brick. Matteson feels certain paper bricks will find a place on our lives. (AP WIREPHOTO)

U.S. Postal Service Has Solid Competitor

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — "Now you have a choice—IPSA's mail or Uncle Sam's," the slogan says.

IPSA?

The acronym for Independent Postal Service of America may not be a household word and the idea of getting bags of mail hung on door knobs may be a bit startling. But officers of IPSA say the U.S. Postal Service now has a solid competitor and a possible unofficial, future partner.

Thomas L. Murray, president of the firm since it was founded 3½ years ago, says IPSA carriers will be delivering mail to residents in every city with 50,000 or more residents by 1975.

The service deals in third-class mail, or so-called "junk mail" although the term is taboo among IPSA employes. It now delivers the material at cheaper rates than the Postal Service in hundreds of cities in 19 states and Canada.

And it has other projects in the works:

—Construction of permanent post office buildings in 15 locations, stretching from Oklahoma City to Buffalo, N.Y.

—Expanded use of the "IPSAgram," a modern version of the telegram. It uses facsimile transmission, which lets customers send messages in their own handwriting.

—Attempts to corral what could be its most lucrative business wide-scale delivery of magazines and other publications.

—Public service projects in certain areas, such as free mail from taxpayers to their congressmen and five-cent rates for intracity delivery of Christmas cards.

"We're playing post office for real now," says Murray, recalling the firm's somewhat shaky start.

"Since the first of the year we have been able to get all the financing we need," he added in an interview. "We didn't get this in the past and it caused problems—operating on a cash flow basis."

Murray, who immigrated from Ireland 17 years ago, points to two other factors for the upswing in business.

One was the recent rate increase by the Postal Service. IPSA currently charges $33 to $34 for 1,000 saturation-type third-class mailings. The national service gets $40 per 1,000 mailings up to 250,000 pieces. After that, the U.S. rate jumps to $42 per 1,000. IPSA's rate does not change and customers are guaranteed that the mail will arrive on the specified day.

"Uncle Sam is the only person in the business world who penalizes his clients for doing more business for him," one IPSA official commented.

Murray also contended that IPSA was helped, ironically, by passage of the Postal Reform Act.

"They could have about put us out of business if they had true postal reform, but they didn't," he said.

Murray said the postal reform as passed caused widespread dissatisfaction among the nation's biggest users of mail, adding: "The lobbyists for the magazines and other concerns saw all their years of efforts go down the drain."

IPSA wants to get into the business of delivering magazines on a national scale someday and has been negotiating with several publishing companies. A spokesman for one firm, publisher of the top five national magazines in circulation, declined to elaborate but said of IPSA: "We've used them in the past and expect to use them more in the future."

IPSA now lists many major retail corporations and business firms among its clients, including Sears-Roebuck, Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Montgomery Ward. The state of Kansas has expressed interest in doing business with IPSA because of the cost for official correspondence under the new postal rates.

Under federal law, IPSA employes are barred from using residential mail boxes, so they hang plastic bags of letters around door knobs.

The law has never been fully challenged in the courts by IPSA for several reasons, Murray said. "First, in the beginning, we didn't feel we were big enough to take on the post office. Also there was the problem of mail thefts, there are thousands of thefts everyday and we didn't want to take the blame. Then we didn't want to open the mail boxes to every Tom, Dick and Harry just as we were getting started."

IPSA attorneys have advised that they think the U.S. law on mail boxes is not valid, because it regulates the use of private property.

While IPSA officials speak only in glowing terms about the company's future, they admit to facing several obstacles. IPSA's future will likely depend on gaining recognition—both from the public and the U.S. Postal Service.

Orville DeClaire, IPSA vice president and general manager hopes official recognition of the U.S. Post Office will come in time. "We're interested in handling all types of mail-second-third-and fourth-class-and we hope someday to reach a cooperative agreement with the post office," he said.

Steel Hike Spreads

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Three more major steel firms have announced price increases on almost every kind of steel product, saying the boosts were needed to offset the cost of the new labor agreement reached Sunday with the United Steelworkers Union. A fourth steelmaker boosted prices on some selected products.

Announcing the average 8 per cent hikes Tuesday were Wheeling-Pittsburgh and Inland Steel Corps., the sixth and seventh largest, and Lukens Steel Co. of Coatesville, Pa., ranked 14th.

Kaiser Steel announced increased prices, effective today, on selected trade and tubular products and said it was studying boosts on other types of steel.

U.S. Steel Corp, the nation's largest, was the first to announce the increases Monday, hours after the basic steel industry settled on the new contract and four other major steel producers followed suit that day.

Meanwhile, companies which had geared down in an anticipation of a strike said they were slowly returning to production but were laying off workers because of a lack of new orders. Some customers had stockpiled large quantitities of steel earlier this year in case a strike occurred.

Police Probe Collision

Minor damage resulted from a two-car collision in the 2600 block of Avenue S at 2:17 p.m. Tuesday.

Involved were the 1967 Model Dodge of Ollie Neidecken Vernon, 3111 Beaumont, and the 1967 Model Pontiac of Mary L. Reyes, Sylvania, Ohio. Officer Bill Roach investigated the mishap.

Bentsen, Barnes Favored

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Democratic party leaders want Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes to lead the Texas delegation to the Democratic National Convention next year, says a poll by the Austin American-Statesman.

The newspaper said Barnes was favored for delegation chairman by 20 Democrats, Bentsen by 15, Gov. Preston Smith by 8 and former Sen. Ralph Yarborough by 6 votes.

The reaction to Barnes' suggestion that the delegation be pledged to Bentsen as a favorite son candidate for president showed 34 in favor of the idea and 25 opposed.

Capitol reporters Glen Castlebury and George Kuempel said their survey "covered a representative cross-section" of Democratic county chairmen, members of the state Democratic executive committee, lobbyists and "factional leaders who make things move and shake in local and state party circles. Those questioned included many delegates to past conventions."

The survey showed Smith's chances could improve.

Work-Study Funds Available At WTC

Students needing money to attend Western Texas College are encouraged by Mrs. Wilma Crawford, financial aids officer, to make application to the college in the work-study program.

"We had depleted our initial source of funds for the work-study program previously," she said, "but the government has replenished our supply with a grant. We are now able to accommodate those who meet the requirements to be eligible to receive funds."

She explanied that so many students who apply for money from the work-study program are unaware of the requirements and procedures and are turned down because they don't qualify. In order to clear up their confusion, Mrs. Crawford lists the following requirements. The student may receive money if he is:

1. A national of the U.S. or is in the U.S. for other than a temporary purpose and intends to become a permanent resident thereof, or is a permanent resident of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands;

2. In need of the earnings from such employment in order to pursue a course of study at the institution.

3. Capable, in the opinion of the institution, of maintaining good standing in such course of study while employed under this program;

4. Has been accepted for enrollment as a full-time student at the institution or in the case of a student already enrolled in and attending the institution, is in good standing and in full-time attendance there, either as an undergraduate, graduate, or professional student.

Work-study students work either on campus or in an off-campus agency which has been determined to be a public or private non-profit organization, and their work must be in the public interest, devoted to the general, national or community welfare rather than that of a particular interest or group.

Students may obtain application forms by writing to the financial Aids Officer, Western Texas College, 3610 Ave. S, Snyder, 79549.

Big Spring Voters Nix Recall

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) — Voters Tuesday defeated efforts to recall three city commissioners who backed the recent dismissal of former Texas Ranger Jay Banks as police chief.

The turnout was described as heavy.

Removal of commissioners Eddie Acri, Jack Watkins and Mayor Pro Tem Wade Choate was supported by a group known as Citizens Seeking Responsible Elections. Opposing the recall was the Fight Against Irresponsible Recall group.

For the recall of Watkins, 1,728 voted for the 4,299 against. Choate won 1,644 to 4,362 and Acri won 1,768 to 4,238.

WTC Sets Basic Adult Education

Adult Basic Education will begin early in September. This year these tuition-free classes will be under the direction of the Western Texas College.

A large amount of new material and equipment will be put into use this fall. Also, new teachers and a new director will conduct the classes, although Mr. Kayser will oversee the program. Mr. Corckran of the college (a reading specialist) will direct.

The college will offer basic reading, writing and math to those below the eighth grade level. Also, a refresher course in various areas will be offered as preparation for the G.E.D. test. The written portion of the driver education will be offered.

Classes for aliens seeking naturalization are available. Also, a refresher for preparation for the A.C.T. test can be arranged.

Those eligible are people who never went to school, those who wish to improve their use of basic English and those who dropped out before finishing high school.

The college would like to get applications from those interested. The necessary forms may be filled out at the Child Development Center, 34th & Ave. K., or by telephoning J. M. Kayser at 573-7583 or 573-9841 after 6:00 p.m.

Two Dallas Banks Robbed

DALLAS (AP) — Armed robbers raided two Dallas banks within three hours Tuesday and fled without difficulty.

Two men in business suits, one carrying a .30 caliber carbine and the other a pistol, held 15 to 25 persons at gunpoint while taking an undisclosed sum from three women tellers at the North Central State Bank near Southern Methodist University.

A lone bandit made off with nearly $700 in the other holdup, staged earlier at a drivein window of the Trinity National Bank across town in the Oak Cliff section.

Snyderite's Mother Dies

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Bula Harvey, 77, of Ft. Worth. Mrs. Harvey died at 6 a.m. today in a Ft. Worth hospital.

Funeral services are set for 11 a.m. Thursday at Shannon Funeral Home Chapel in Ft. Worth.

Mrs. Harvey is the mother of Mrs. Grady Erwin of Snyder. Other survivors include her husband, W. H. Harvey; two sons and two other daughters.

TSTI Graduation Exercises Set

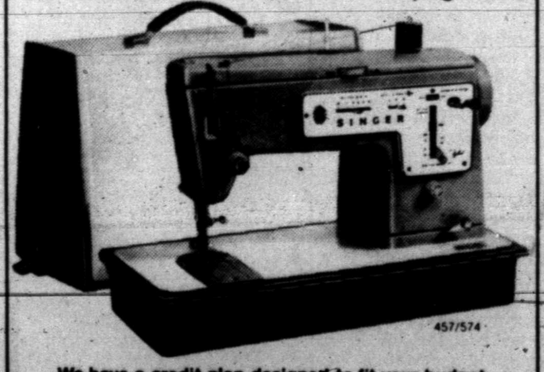

WACO, TEXAS — Graduation exercises for four hundred and twenty-one Texas State Technical Institute students are slated to begin at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Heart of Texas Coliseum.

Also participating in the commencement exercises will be thirty-eight students who completed work in April on the James Connally Campus. The April graduates will formally receive their diplomas, degrees, and certificates.

Harrison, Row Wed In Home Ceremony

Miss Sidney Ann Harrison and M-Sgt. Jerrell Wayne Row were united in marriage, Thursday, July 26, at 6 p.m. in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Row, of Snyder. Rev. Jack Riley, associate pastor of First Baptist Church officiated at the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Harrison of De Funiak Springs, Fla., are parents of the bride.

The bride wore an aqua blue dress of polyester crepe, which she fashioned. Her bouquet was of white gardenias.

A reception was held following the wedding. The bride's table was laid with a white lace tablecloth and adorned with a bouquet of white daises and candles.

For the wedding trip to Mexico the bride chose a red knit jumpsuit with matching accessories.

Following the wedding trip they will reside in Ft. Walton Beach, Fla., where the groom is stationed with the US Air Force.

Art Of Making Muffins

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Don't work hard when you are making muffins. Easy does it. If you mix the batter too vigorously your muffins will be riddled with tunnels, on the tough side and peaked. Their exterior, too, is likely to be smoother and paler than that of muffins made by stirring gently.

The following recipe produces a pleasant hot bread that's a little different from the usual variety. That's because cinnamon raisin bran, a new ready-to-eat cereal, is added.

Muffins should be served as soon as they have finished baking. Although for convenience sake we have reheated many a muffin we must confess that this way they aren't quite so good as when they are eaten fresh from the oven.

RAISIN BRAN MUFFINS

1 cup unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1-3rd cup butter or margarine
1 large egg
¾ cup milk
1¼ cups cinnamon raisin bran

Butter 10 muffin-pan cups, each 2½ inches across top and 1 inch deep.

In a medium mixing bowl thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. With a pastry blender, cut in butter until particles are tiny.

In a small mixing bowl beat egg until thickened and lemon color; add milk and beat to combine. Add to flour mixture; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fold in cinnamon raisin bran.

Fill prepared muffin-pan cups about 2-3rds full. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and muffins are lightly browned—about 20 minutes.

Makes 10.

Rare Coins Auctioned In Dallas

DALLAS (AP) Over $33,000 in rare coins were to be auctioned off recently in Dallas to satisfy liens in a bankruptcy case.

The coins were owned by two Dallas coin companies and were seized by the sheriff's department to be sold.

Among the coins to be sold were 371 gold $20 pieces valued at $27,083 and a flowing hair Stella $4 piece valued at about $5,500 on the coin market.

The coins were being held by a Dallas bank but were ordered seized pending outcome of a legal fight between the coin companies and the bank.

The coin dealers claimed the bank's demands had been met and that the bank was unjustifiably holding the coins.

A district judge ordered the coins taken from the bank to block a threatened sale, pending outcome of the legal struggle.

Outdoor Meals Not Limited

COLLEGE STATION, — Roughing it on a camping trip doesn't mean you have to forfeit nutritious well-balanced meals, reports Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

Supermarkets stock a variety of foods suitable for a camp out, Mrs. Clyatt explains, including freeze-dried items, mixes and packaged main dishes.

Remember to plan meals around the four basic food groups to maintain health and to meet energy requirements for active vacation days. The rule to follow is "2-2-3-4"—two or more servings from the milk group, two or more from the meat group, four or more from the fruit and vegetable group, and four from the cereal group, she says.

From the milk group, Mrs. Clyatt suggests using instant non-fat dry milk, which can be mixed with water and used as a beverage, on cereal, or in cocoa, instant pudding and other mixes. For cheese, select a pasteurized process cheese spread which needs no refrigeration.

Consider meat group main dishes such as packaged macaroni and cheese, spaghetti with meat sauce and beef stronganoff, she says. A large variety of canned meats are available, including stews, hash, chili, chicken and fish. To check what ingredients are added in the products, read the labels; labels list the ingredients in order of decreasing amounts.

In the fruit and vegetable group, select individual cans of fruit and vegetable juice, and powdered fruit-flavored juices fortified with Vitamin C. For powdered fruit juices, simply mix with water and serve. Dried fruits, including raisins, peaches and apricots, make great snacks. Also look for canned fruits and vegetables.

Don't forget the whole range of potato products available, Mrs. Clyatt adds. Potatoes can be purchased in boxes or foil packages, and can even be found with chives, onions or bacon added.

From the cereal group, the specialist says to choose from ready to eat dry cereals or from instant oatmeal and cream of wheat. Pancake, cake, cookie and muffin mixes can be purchased and prepared at home or at the campsite, where only water needs to be added.

Possibilities for outdoor meals are limited only by the imagination of the camping cook, Mrs. Clyatt concludes.

Since hot dogs are fully cooked when purchased, it's easy to prepare a hearty hot dog salad. Arrange on a bed of lettuce, strips of hot dogs and Swiss cheese, tomato wedges, sweet onions separated into rings and sliced cucumbers.

BRIDAL SHOWER — Sheila Martin of Hermleigh was honored with a bridal shower last night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Williams north of town. From left, are Mrs. Jimmy Mason, sister-in-law of the bride-to-be; Mrs. L. F. Mason of Hermleigh, mother of the bride-to-be; Sheila Martin, the honoree; Mrs. Homer Stokes, mother of the prospective groom; Mrs. D. T. Pierce, grandmother of the prospective groom; and, Mrs. John Borchardt, sister of the prospective groom. The prospective groom is Danny Stokes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stokes, 400 East Thirty-third Street. The wedding will be held Aug. 19. The bride-to-be is a 1969 graduate of Hermleigh High School. The prospective groom graduated from Snyder High School in 1966. He is employed by Go International. The couple will make their home at 2306 Twenty-ninth Street. Hostesses were Charlcie Roberson, Wanda Eicke, Louise Rice, Bettie House, Brenda Cantrell, Ruby Williams, Sharon Farmer, Norma Lofton, Avanell Sullinger, Virginia Johnston and Trellice Perry.

Afternoon Refresher

RUM BALLS

No cooking necessary!

1¼ cups finely crushed vanilla wafer crumbs
Sifted confectioner's sugar
¼ cup finely chopped walnuts
1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa
1½ tablespoons dark corn syrup
2 tablespoons light rum

Mix together well the wafer crumbs, ½ cup sifted confectioner's sugar, walnuts and cocoa. Add corn syrup and rum and blend well. Using 1 scant tablespoon for each, shape into balls; roll in confectioner's sugar. Makes about 1½ dozen.

Band Opens With Extra Dividends

NEW YORK (AP) — Duke Ellington and his band opened at the Ranbow Grill on Monday night and there were a couple of extra dividends—Tony Bennett sang and Geoffrey Holder danced.

The nightclub's management knew that Bennett would be in the audience, and that it was his birthday, and had a cake ready with a model of the Golden Gate Bridge on top. Bennett expressed his thanks by singing his biggest hit, "I Left My Heart in San Francisco."

Holder, the modern dancer who is about 6-feet-6 and who almost never dances in public any more, got up during the last number of the evening, 'One More Time," and improvised a dance.

Mail Offer Loans Are A thriving Business

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Many executives and professional persons these days are receiving offers of $5,000 loans for as long as five years from strangers merely for fixing their signatures to an application. Thousands are doing so.

The offers, which are made through the mail, require no security. The questionnaire may take only 10 minutes to fill out. The applicant's business associates may not be checked. The reason for the loan may not be verified.

Understandably, business seems to be thriving. Substantial companies are involved in the lending, and the record to date suggests that not only is demand high but that profits can be even higher.

Who borrows? Universal C.I.T. Credit Co., which entered the field three years ago, reports that doctors are the most frequest borrowers, followed in order by bankers, business executives, certified public accountants and dentists.

"We really don't care what they want the money for except that it must be for a legitimate purpose," said Edward W. May, vice president of the C.I.T. subsidiary.

The important thing to the lenders is that the borower is not overextended, that the loan is for a reasonable amount and for a good purpose, and that the borrower has a good, steady income above $15,000 a year.

Despite the lack of security, almost all loans are repaid properly. May reports that out of many hundreds of loans made since his company end tered the business he is currently concerned about only two, both to doctors.

In one instance the doctor lost his license and went to jail.

"The other is going hippie on us; he joined a commune," said May.

Most loans to doctors are made only after the applicant has been in business many years. Many young doctors are overextended, May has found.

Bankers are frequent customers because of an old tradition that they not borrow from their own bank and because of a desire for confidentiality that would be breached by borrowing from a competitor.

They pay well for their loans, 18 per cent a year on the unpaid balance, or 1.5 per cent a month. That means a $5,000 loan paid back in 48 monthly installments costs $2,049.28 in interest charges. For the five-year limit the price is $2,617.60.

One of the obvious hazards for the lenders involves the unknown financial obligations of the applicant.

The industry faces this problem by trusting to the philosophy of "trusting the applicant and then checking him" insofar as it is possible. But the averages are on its side.

In May of this year the median income of borrowers was $23,000 and the average length of employment was 14 years. Almost all borrowers are well established in their communities. Not only do they have the ability to repay but the reputation to uphold.

And there is one other assurance that the lenders insist upon. The wife must sign also. "An unsecured note should be a family obligation," said May.

Contracts Let On Bridge

AUSTIN (AP) — Civil engineers at the University of Texas at Austin say they are developd ing a revolutional concept in this country for long-span bridge building.

Nearly three years in its development, the bridge will soon be constructed across the Intracoestal Canal near Corpus Christi.

The project utilizes precast concrete units erected in segments to form long-span bridges. It is sponsoed by the Texas High Department under a contract arrangement with the Department of Civil Engineering.

"This is the first bridge of its type presently under contract in the United States," said John Wall, a graduate student in civil engineering from Tyler.

Wall has worked on the project during the past two years. He is being supervised by the principal investigators, Dr. John Breen, professor of civil engineering, and Dr. Ned Burns, associate professor.

The concept of using precast sections has been used for several years in European countries but has never been tried in the United States, according to Burns, who has done much of the analytical work on the project.

Contracts on the bridge have been let, and construction is scheduled to begin in September. It wll span the Intracoastal Canal from the mainland to Mustang Island on Park Road 22, near the Naval air station at Corpus Christi.

All Yearn To Live Life Over

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Oh, to be 70 again!", said octogenarian Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, as a pretty girl passed by.

The yearning for a second try at life comes to all of us now and then. Or at least we feel it would be better to be any other age than the age we happen to be at the moment.

What do you think you would actually do if you could relive not all your life over again but just one year for every decade up until now? It's a teasing thought, isn't it?

Well, if I were 10 years old, I think I'd—

Play with girls more often than I did before.

Learn chess instead of checkers.

Read fewer fairy tales and more biographies.

Ask my father and mother more questions about life and get to know them better as people.

What would I do if I were 20 years old? I'd—

Climb more balconies than I did before. At least a dozen more I'd say offhand.

Train sedulously to become skilled in at least one sport I could follow all my life.

Ridicule my professors less and listen to the best ones more.

Strike down the dastard fellow student who told me it makes you feel better to drink straight gin out of a bottle.

What about 30 again? This time I'd—

Still marry for love instead of money. Love may have its lulls, but no man has less manhood than one living on the money of a woman he can't stand.

Settle down to a life task which would be morally acceptable and held the hope of financial comfort.

Strike down the dastard who told me that a Martini made of three parts gin and one part vermouth would make life more livable.

How about being 40 again? Well, I guess I'd—

Cry for six months, then adjust my mind to endure what I could not cure.

Finish the correspondence course in ventriloquism I started at the age of 12.

Think of old girl friends on rainy afternoons.

Strike down the dastard who told me that a Martini made of four parts gin and one part vermouth could still make life beautiful.

And how's about being 50 again? I would—

Get used to seeing girls run from the water cooler when they saw me coming.

Go to more bridge games than cocktail parties.

Become accustomed to listening to dull banquet speakers.

Strike down the dastard who told me that a Martini made of six parts gin and one part vermouth was the answer to the search fot a perfect life.

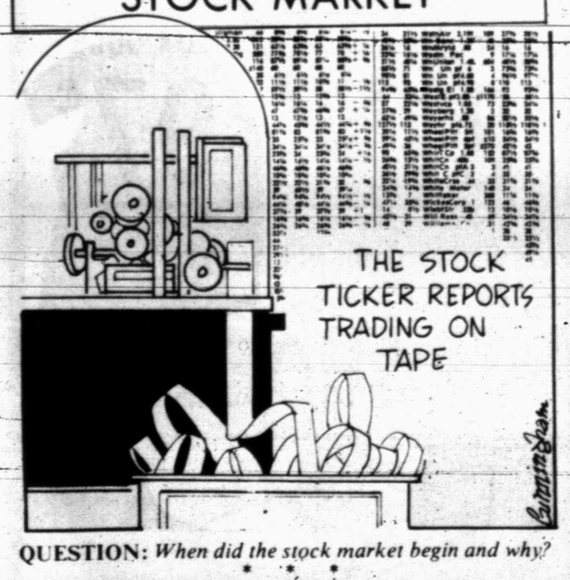

And what about being 60 again? What do you mean—again! That's what I am now.

I have already ordered a 10-speed wheel chair and struck down the dastard who told me that the only sensible solution to the problem of existence is a Martini made by mixing a thimble of vermouth and a full bottle of gin.

Man, this is real living! Let your past be past.

Oh, to be 70—!

Junior Editors Quiz on STOCK MARKET

QUESTION: When did the stock market begin and why?

* * *

ANSWER: The stock market has its roots in the transactions of merchants in medieval times. Governments began to rely on loans from merchants to use in conducting wars and other enterprises. By the 17th century, certificates were used as proof of these loans. As governments came increasingly to rely on public loans for conducting wars, issues of stocks and bonds multiplied, making it necessary to seek a more elaborate machinery for the maintenance of a steady market in the various types of paper in issue. Out of this need, the stock market was born.

The first stock exchange to become firmly established was located in London. At first English merchants conducted business transactions in the Coffee Houses which were popular in London. Business became feverish in the 19th century due to the raising of funds for the Napoleonic wars. In 1802, the London Stock Exchange was built. The stock market was further stimulated by the rise of corporations in the 19th century. Family-owned establishments started to expand and, in order to do this, opened up their businesses to the public. They sold shares of their business, or stock in the corporation. The New York Stock Exchange traces its origin to the financing of the American Revolution. The New York Exchange started in 1792. 8-4

North Gets Cage Nod

FORT WORTH (AP) — The North rated a slight edge for tonight's Texas High School Coaching School battle with the speedy South in the annual All-Star basketball game at Tarrant County Convention Center which is expected to draw some 11,000 fans.

North coach Glynn Stevens of Dallas South Oak Cliff appears to have better overall balance, but the South outfit of Clear Creek's Bill Krueger has an explosive, fast-breaking offense which could leave their northern neighbors behind.

The overall series is tied 13 games each with the South winning an 88-82 thriller in Houston in 1970.

The North will use a tight man-to-man defense and run a tandem offense with Edwin Lynum of El Paso Bel Air and Cedric Joseph of Fort Worth Arlington Heights at the low post. Other North starters include Carl Jones of Wichita Falls Hirschie at the point and Jimmy Murphy of Carrollton Turner and Ray Roberts of Garland at the wings.

The South will field a press defense with a fast-breaking offense built around a high-low post setup with three outside players. The South starting lineup includes 6-foot-10 Maurice Presley of Houston Davis, William Johnson of Houston Yates, Jerrald Taylor of Houston Lincoln, Mike Horn of West Sabine, and Carl Barnett of Baytown Sterling.

"I think both squads are capable of scoring quite a few points," said Krueger. "But rebounding will be the key. The team that gets the second shots will win. It should be a real battle inside."

Krueger said the strongpoint of this team is quickness and aggressiveness.

"We're kinda fast," Krueger smiles.

Stevens has been pleased with the deadeye shooting of Murphy, who will be playing forward for the first time.

"This is the most talent I've ever been around," said Murphy. "We got some guys who can hit that basket."

Stevens said he plans to combat the South zone by letting Roberts throw the ball in.

"He (Roberts) can throw it in a cup, he's so accurate," Stevens said.

Cuba Edges U.S. In Baseball 4-3

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CALI, Colombia (AP) — U.S. heroes are dead in men's gymnastics, staggering in baseball and fighting for dear life in basketball at the Pan American Games.

That's the bad news.

Uncle Sam's vastly superior track forces continued to harvest gold medals by the basketful Tuesday night to keep the highly favored Yankees a step ahead of an ambitious sports army from Cuba.

That, for USA faithful, is the good news.

The United States had a 21-11 edge over Castro's kids in gold medals and a 52-39 bulge overall, but Cuba had the USA on the ropes both in baseball and basketball.

Brazil almost sent the American cagers home, but 6-foot-10 Bob McAdoo of the University of North Carolina ripped a jumper to save the Tuesday game, 81-79 in overtime.

Even at that, using the complicated international playoff system, the USA will be finished if Brazil happens to upset Cuba by more than three points. Cuba earlier shocked the Yanks 73-69.

Cuba's favored baseball team got a clutch two-run single by big Armando Capiro after shabby USA fielding loaded the bases in the seventh inning to edge the Americans 4-3.

Cuba pulled another in its line of international athletic surprises by capturing the gold medal in men's gymnastics, long a producer of medals for the United States.

The bleak afternoon became the bright evening as American track and field performers grabbed six golds in eight events to make it 14-of-16 in men's events since the games opened.

Javelin thrower Cary Feldmann of Seattle, 100-meter dash heroine Iris Davis of Pompano Beach, Fla., 400-meter hurdles flash Ralph Mann of San Diego, and 800 meters runner Ken Swenson of San Pedro, Calif., all won golds in record performances.

Larry Young took 4½ hours to do it, but the Sibley, Mo., resident claimed a gold for the USA in the 50-kilometer walk.

Young was the Games' first repeat gold medal winner in track.

The United States' gold medal opportunities increase later in the week when swimming and diving gets going full throttle. With 33 golds available, the Yanks are expected to load up their pockets.

Boxing continued to develop as a USA strong point as heavyweight Duane Bobick, one of 12 brothers in a Bowlus, Minn., family, scored a first-round knockout over Colombia's Wesley Zuleta to lead three men into the semifinals.

The American fighters are undefeated. Also among the winners Tuesday night were South Carolina convict Bobby Lee Hunter in the flyweight division and Ray Russell among the light-heavies.

Despite all the USA-Cuba business, Tuesday night's most sensational performance came in the 200-meter dash when Jamaica's Don Quarrie equalled the world record of 19.8 secondsm

Quarrie, a Southern Cal collegiate ace, needed a flash showing to beat the 20.3 efforts of 18-year-old Detroit schoolboy Marshall Dill and Trinidad-Tobago's Edwin Roberts, who had a dead heat for the silver medal.

The USA's John Carlos set the old mark of 20.5 in 1967 at Winnipeg.

Convict Competes In Pan Am Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

CALI, Colombia (AP) — When Bobby Lee Hunter steps into the ring at the Pan American Games, he can always look over the ropes and see a burly, dark-haired man from Columbia, S.C., sitting in the front row.

The man is waiting to take Bobby Lee back to jail.

From his corner, Bobby Lee throws a smile in the man's direction and the man responds with an encouraging gesture.

Who would imagine that the fighter is a convict, serving a 16-year sentence for manslaughter and the man at the ringside is a cop technically here to see he doesn't run away.

"It's more like father and son although their skins are a different color," says the U.S. boxing team manager James McCarron.

"The kid loves the guy."

Bobby Lee is black. The man, corrections officer Ray Satterfield, 35 is white.

It's truly one of the most bizarre and poignant stories of these or any other games.

Bobby Lee was just 17, a wild kid on the streets of Charleston, S.C., four years ago when one night got into a shoving match with an older man in a neighborhood store. A girl was involved.

"The man swung at the girl and hit me," Bobby Lee explains. "I got mad and pulled a knife."

Before it was over the other man was dead and Bobby Lee, although his defenders argued aggravated assault, was in the Carolina Correctional Institute on a 16-year sentence.

Bobby Lee worked in the laundry. He took up boxing as recreation. He was good with his fists. Although small, 112 pounds, he hits like a hammer.

He started going to tournaments and winning them. He won the 1971 National AAU flyweight class. This qualified him for the Pan Am Trials. He won there, too.

"It put us in a rather uncomfortable situation," said Clifford Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee. "We debated a long time whether we should permit him to represent us. We were worried about our international image.

"But we got some very nice letters praising the man. One from Senator Fritz Hollings. Another from Warden W. T. Cave of the correctional institute. We decided if we could invite him to our trials we would have to let him compete."

Another complication arose. Bobby Lee is a prisoner. Should he be let out alone? It was decided a corrections officer should go along.

"Bobby Lee asked for Satterfield himself," explained McCarron. "He had befriended the youngster. Bobby Lee said he wouldn't go without him."

So the venture began—back on July 9. It ends Aug. 14 when Bobby Lee and Satterfield are to return to Columbia.

Bobby Lee won his quarterfinal bout Tuesday night, outpointing Daniel Lopez of Panama.

Colonels List Practice Games

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Colonels announced Tuesday an exhibition basketball schedule that includes home games with the Milwaukee Bucks, champions of the National Basketball Association, and the New York Knicks and Baltimore Bullets of the NBA.

The Bullets will be here Sept. 22 at Freedom Hall.

On Oct. 8 Virginia will meet Memphis in the first game and Kentucky will play Milwaukee in the second game. On Oct. 9 the Colonels will play New York.

Ty Cobb won baseball's triple crown in 1909 by leading the American League in batting, home runs, and runs batted in.

J.C. Davis To Play In Bowl Game

John Charles Davis, Jayton All-District halfback on the regional championship Jaybird team of 1970, has been chosen to play with the East in the Greenbelt Bowl game at Childress Aug. 14th.

Bill Blackburn, with the Greenbelt Committee, says young Davis was chosen to participate in the classic because of his athletic and scholastic abilities. He has been active in the Jaybird Band and was a state qualifier in both the long jump and as a member of the sprint relay team in 1970. He was named an Outstanding Teenager of America in 1971. He plans to enter Texas Tech as a music major.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Davis of 3103 38th Pl. in Snyder.

Oilers Let Up

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — For the Houston Oilers this is the last day the 63 men in camp will have to suffer through two-a-day workouts.

Starting Thursday, the Oilers go to one-a-day workouts and begin getting ready for their game Monday in the Astrodome with the New York Giants.

Also starting Thursday, at least three of the current residents of this training camp won't be around. Thursday the Oilers must cut their roster to the 60-man limit.

Tuesday the Oilers picked up another player to bolster their punt and kick-off return game.

They got Goldie Sellers, a seven-year veteran, from the Kansas City Chiefs for an undisclosed draft choice.

Head Coach Ed Hughes said the trade was made after his evaluation of the Oilers' kick return work in their loss last Saturday to the Los Angeles Rams.

"From the standpoint of last Saturday's game, the kick return situation I'd say is lousy," Hughes said.

Lee Trevino Gets Hero's Welcome

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — "Welcome home, Lee Trevino. Girl's panties, 2 for $1."

It was a sign on the marquee of a shopping center in suburban El Paso. The second line may not have been entirely in keeping with the spirit of the occasion, but the message was there.

It was a spontaneous outpouring of affection for the have-not who made it big, this Lee Trevino Day in El Paso and neighboring Juarez, Mexico.

The officials were there, the U.S. ambassador who read a congratulatory letter from President Nixon, the governor of Texas, the mayor of El Paso, generals from nearby Fort Bliss, Hollywood celebrities.

But mostly it was "los poprres," the poor ones, the have-nots, who celebrated Tuesday as El Paso welcomed Lee Trevino, back home for the first time since he swept the U.S. Canadian and British Open golf titles—a feat without precedent.

They lined the streets five deep, hung out of second-story windows, clung by their fingernails from the sloping rows of houses, climbed high onto rooftop advertising signs to get a glimpse of the guy who came from nowhere to the front rank of pro golf's superstars.

There was a 20-car motorcade through El Paso and Juarez, with kids busting through police lines to pat Trevino on the back, beg his autograph as the open car went by, the boys and girls trotting along side as he scribbled his signature over and over again.

"This is home," he said. "I moved here in 1966 and the people accepted me immediately, even before I did anything big. They've always accepted me for what I am.

"I thought I'd had some thrills before, like winning the U.S. Open, or the British, but this is something else."

It was his first trip home in almost four months, four months in which he had competed almost constantly, week after week in three countries.

"I don't even know where I live," he said. "Since I've been gone, my wife sold our old house, bought a new one and moved in and I don't even know the address."

In 1966, when he moved here from Dallas, Tex., the address was a second-hand housetrailer parked on the grounds of the Horizon City Golf Course, the driving range where he worked as a $35-a-week assistant. He was a Mexican-American from a poverty background, a seventh-grade dropout who went into the Marines to earn a living, a golf course hustler scraping up $2 bets to make his way.

Since then have come a pair of U.S. Open titles, more money than he knew existed, five victories this year, the leading money winner, the Vardon Trophy champion.

Giants Break Losing Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Amarillo Giants broke their losing streak in style Tuesday night.

Beaten in their last four games and in eight of their last 11, the Dixie Association West leaders clubbed San Antonio 9-0.

In other Dixie action, Dallas-Fort Worth stayed just two games back of Amarillo by smashing Albuquerque 8-3, Montgomery ripped Memphis 11-4, Columbus shut out Birmingham 5-0 and Savannah edged Charlotte 4-3 in 11 innings, enabling Asheville to move ahead of Charlotte by percentage points in Dixie East.

The Asheville-Dixie Central leader Arkansas game at Little Rock was postponed because of wet grounds and a Jacksonville at Shreveport doubleheader was rained out.

Tulane plays seven night football games this fall.

Mat Card Set In Coliseum Friday

Wrestling returns to Snyder at 8:30 p.m. Friday with the biggest card ever to come to the Scurry County Coliseum. There will be six bouts on tab.

The last match on the card will be a 12-man over the top battle royal. A $1,000 purse goes to the winner. To be eliminated, a man must be thrown over the top rope onto the floor. The participants are Farmer Brown, (6-7, 325-pounds), Salvador Dominguez, Killer Karl Kox, Bob Roop, Pak Song, Don Duffy, Duke Myers, Lorenzo Parente, Bobby Hart, Woody Farmer, Mr. Wrestling, and Ciclon Negro.

The main event will be Ciclon Negro going against Bob Roop. This will be the battle of the unbeaten wrestlers. Ciclon Negro lays claim he has never been beaten since coming to the United States. Last week in the Coliseum, Ciclon Negro attacked Bob Roop and this week the Olympic champion said he would even the score.

In the semifinals, Pak Song will meet Farmer Brown.

There will be a special tag team match between Bobby Hart and Lorenzo Parente and Mr. Wrestling and Woody Farmer.

Killer Karl Kox will tangle with Salado Domingues while Don Duffy grapples with Duke Myers in the opener.

For reservations, call the Scurry County Coliseum.

Belly Dancing Gaining Popularity In Mideast

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Often misunderstood in the West and frowned on by many of the puritan regimes in the Middle East, the ancient art of the belly dance is emerging from a state of decline to increasing popularity.

Once confined to seedy night clubs in Beirut, Damascus and Cairo, belly dancers now appear at posh charity balls or music festivals on the same bill as European orchestras.

"It is an art, one of the most beautiful and difficult expressions in the field of dancing," said Nadia Gamal, perhaps the leading dancer in the Middle East. "It is only recently that people at all levels have begun to realize this."

The dance received a bad reputation from European travel writers of another century who stressed what they considered its salaciousness and the immorality of the performers.

With Western appetites thus whetted, belly dancers, invariably named Little Egypt, began turning up at world's fairs in Paris and Chicago at the turn of the century.

But these dancers and the ones presently at work in New York clubs as "Oriental dancers" have "more in common with American burlesque than with serious belly dancing in the Middle East," says one Cairo connoisseur.

Miss Gamal, an Alexandrine of Greek-Italian parentage, is more emphatic.

The dance, she said, "is definitely not a matter of shaking or exposing the flesh. It is essentially an expression of femininity. It must suggest sex, but it must do so delicately, hinting rather than asserting, and it must always be in good taste."

Miss Gamal, who is 32 and has long black hair and dark, smouldering eyes, appeared at Lebanon's prestigious Baalbek festival in 1968 on the same bill as Herbert Von Karajan and the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra.

Unlike the striptease, the belly dance never promises more than it can deliver. The dancer never takes off her clothes, and the music is more than incidental.

There are two basic styles of belly dancing. In one, the dancer highlights muscular movement while remaining stationary. This style stems from the "awalem"—those who teach—women whose function at weddings was to stimulate the groom and instruct the bride in lovemaking.

The need for "awalem" has disappeared now that Arab society has become more educated about sex, but belly dancers still are a popular feature at weddings and birthday celebrations.

The second style of dancing, practiced mostly in villages, stresses slow movements across an area. The women are fully clothed and tie a scarf around their hips to accentuate them while men beat on the floor with canes.

No one knows how the belly dance started.

Whatever its beginnings, the dance has had a long tradition. Since the last century is has been most closely associated with Egypt where there are at least 500 belly dancers, some of whom work a circuit that stretches from Rabat to Karaci.

They are well paid in an area of the world where the earning power of women is not high. The leading dancers get $100 to $200 a night for a half-hour show and receive many times that for private performances.

But belly dancing has all the trappings of western show business and from these earnings of dancers must pay agents, publicity and costume costs which sometimes run as high as $500.

If the financial rewards are great, permitting dancers to indulge their tastes for sports cars, high fashion, mountain villas or real estate deals, there also are sacrifices.

Few of the top stars marry or, if they do, they refuse to have children because they say it will ruin their figures. Consequently there is a high divorce rate.

Facilities Needed For 'Superships'

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — An offshore port facility to accommodate "superships" is mandatory if Texas is to survive worldwide industrial competition, according to a work plan for feasibility studies.

Prepared by Dan Bragg and James Bradley of the Industrial Economics Research Division of Texas A&M, the report calls the building of such a facility off the Texas coast "urgent in view of the deep water terminals and harbors throughout other parts of the world, along with the continuing trend to even larger sizes in new ship construction."

The study was supported by Texas A&M's Sea Grant Program and the South Texas Regional Export Expansion Council, with additional funds supplied by the ports of Galveston, Freeport and Port Arthur.

The Texas A&M team identified specific research areas and schedules of activities needed for offshore terminal development to handle "superships" in the Gulf of Mexico.

"By 1983, more than 1,400 of the projected world tanker fleet of 4,384 ships will be unable to enter present Texas ports," noted Ray R. Brimble, chairman of the South Texas Regional Export Expansion Council.

"Texas industries—both the shippers and the ports—are going to have to plan and prepare for the size revolution taking place in water carriers," he emphasized.

Hydrocarbon and petroleum industries concentrated along the Texas Gulf coast require low-cost transportation for survival, which calls for deep water ports, the report points out.

The work plan calls for physical and economic feasibility studies to be accomplished in 18 months at a cost of $460,000.

In addition to the need for an offshore terminal, the report treats factors to be considered in determining its feasibility.

Engineering studies are recommended to evaluate deepening of an existing port as opposed to building a new terminal offshore in deep water. Studies of environmental effects of the operation of a supertanker port are also outlined.

"Prevention of pollution will be a major factor in these studies," Brimble said.

"Socio-economic studies of what the port will do for the South Texas economy, and possible economic consequences if the port is not built, are other areas recommended for evaluation," he continued.

"If the port is built in deep water offshore from the Texas coast, it will very likely be outside U.S. territorial waters, and for this reason, detailed studies of the legal aspects are important," Brimble added.

Studies on financing, port management, storm protection and structural design are other areas covered in the report.

"Construction of a 'supership' port along the Gulf Coast," Brimble said, "must be based on a strong need, sound engineering principles and in-depth environmental studies."

"Other sections of the United States are presently studying and planning offshore ports," he continued, "and if we do not move ahead on this project, Texas will experience a rising freight rate plateau that will mean higher costs for area industries and will tend to stifle economic growth in the region."

The Texas A&M Sea Grant Program is part of the National Sea Grant Program, administered by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration within the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Daughter likes older men

By Abigail Van Buren

[c 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: We have a 17-year-old daughter who prefers to date older men. Last year it was a 21-year-old, and when we found out how old he was we put a stop to it immediately.

Last month we learned that she was seeing a 24-year-old man behind our backs. When we confronted her with it she said if we tried to stop her from dating him she would run away.

Abby, she tells us now that if we don't allow her to openly date whomever she wants, and if we don't make him welcome in our home, she will leave. She is our only daughter and we don't want her hurt, but I guess we just don't know how to handle her. Can you give us an outside opinion? Please hurry your answer.

CONCERNED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Don't automatically turn thumbs down on older fellows. Some are more responsible than the younger ones. The important factor here is the degree of maturity your daughter has achieved at 17. Threatening to "run away" unless she has her own way strikes me as being immature. But insisting that she be able to bring her dates home for you to meet sounds quite mature. Let her bring her dates home, then meet them, and judge them on their personalities—not their ages.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a son who writes to his mother and tells her how long she can stay when she visits him?

In the four years my son has been married I have visited him only once, and that was at Christmas two years ago. I stayed for eight days.

I plan to visit again in September, and the following is a quote from a letter I received from my son yesterday: "We hope you will come to visit us, but, Mom, please don't plan on staying any longer than five days as that is our time limit for guests."

Abby, since when is a mother a guest? I never get in their way and I thought we got along fine. They have a spare bedroom and I never made any extra work for anybody.

I felt so badly when I got this letter I considered not going at all, but I get so lonesome for my son as he is my only child and I am a widow.

It's not an easy trip as I have a lame back and it's 10 hours on a bus. Please tell me what to do. HURT IN OHIO

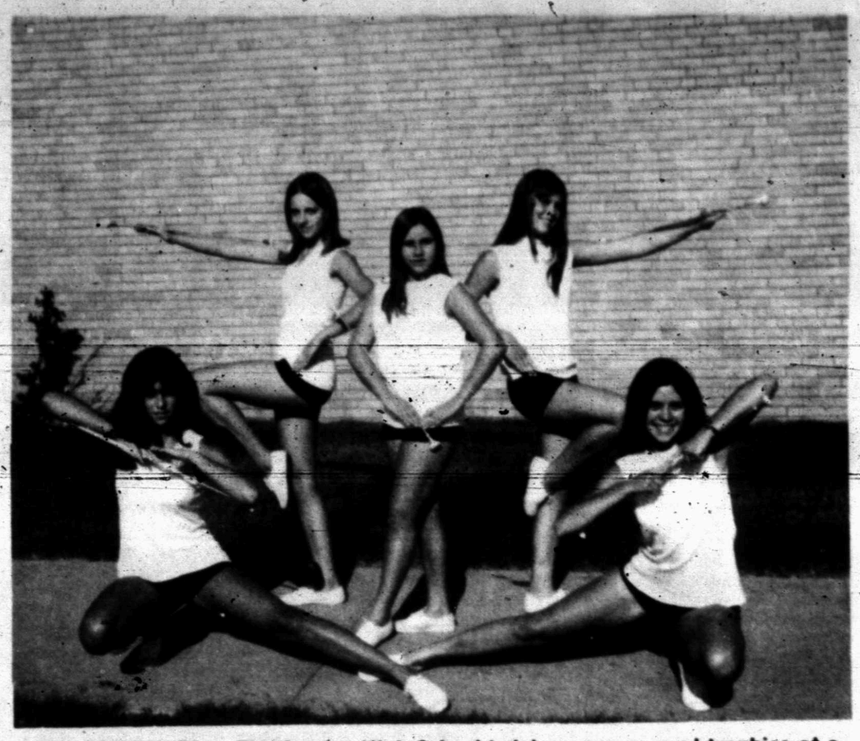

DEAR HURT: If you were to deny yourself the trip you would punish yourself more than your son. Make the trip, Mother, and stay five days.

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to "Can't Forget in Minnesota." He married an unwed mother who told him who the baby's father was and all the sordid details of her mistake. Then he said he had wished a thousand times that she had never told him. Well, I will lay you odds that she has wished 2,000 times that she had never told him.

The letter didn't say how long they've been married, but if he still makes her pay daily for her mistake by letting her know that he "can't forget," I sincerely hope she looks herself in the mirror soon and says, "I have had enough. He will never change." And then leaves him. It will not be the end of the world. Sign me. BEEN THERE

CONFIDENTIAL TO "OLD MAID IN ORLANDO": If you label yourself "Old Maid" everyone else will. A very wise Frenchman once said, "No woman under 40 can possibly have acquired the experience, wisdom and emotional maturity to be interesting to a mature man."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

SHS Twirlers Take Honors At Santa Fe

The Snyder High School twirlers won several trophies at a State and Open contest held Saturday, July 23, at an annual twirling school in Santa Fe, New Mexico. The trophies are on display in the front hall showcase at Snyder High School.

Kate Nitsch won first place in solo competition, and Christy Suttle won second place. Shauna Browning, Kate Nitsch and Christy Suttle won first place in trio competition.

During the camp competition, Christy Suttle was chosen Miss Majorette of the Camp of Champs. Pam Block won runnerup honors in the funny costume contest, and was named, "Miss Litterbug." Her costume was designed by the other twirlers.

The Spirit Baton also was won by the Snyder High School twirlers. This award is presented to the group of twirlers who came to classes on time, practiced before and after class hours, are attentive and active in class, enter activities in camp, are cooperative and have good relations in their group and with other students. The camp staff chooses the winner.

Twirlers from New Mexico, New York, Texas and Arizona competed against each other at the State and Open Contest, held last Saturday. Judges included the state champions from Arizona, Texas and California and Miss Majorette of America.

Miss Majorette is chosen by the camp staff, eliminating the girls on poise and talent. Six finalists are chosen at an assembly and given questions concerning twirling and problems that arise possibily in a majorette's career. The answers are evaluated and the winner is presented a trophy at the close of the program. Christy's question was, "What is your definition of showmanship?"

Some of the classes the girls participated in included 2-baton, fire, flag, hoop, show tricks, solo tricks, duet twirling, struts, dancing and majorette twirls.

The girls toured the sites of Santa Fe before returning home Friday. They visited the cathedral where the Miracle Staircase is on exhibit and were amazed by the age of the missions and home dating back to 1610.

Santa Fe College hosted the camp of 250 girls and boys. The St. Michael's and King dormitories, the double gymnasium and excellent dining facilities were used by the students.

Money for the trip was raised by the girls through a garage sale and by selling Stanley products. The girls will have other projects to raise money for costumes.

Veteran Benefits Enlarged

It is a good idea for families of veterans and servicemen to keep abreast of the new benefits and programs available to them from the Veterans Administration, Jack Coker, VA Regional Director in Waco, said recently.

Citing some examples, Coker explained that wives and children of veterans (permanently and totally disabled because of service-connected disabilities) are now eligible for educational benefits.

He noted, too, that wives and children of servicemen (missing in action or prisoners of war for more than 90 days) have schooling benefits available to them. Furthermore, widows and children of veterans who died as the result of service-connected disabilities are also eligible for educational help.

VA-guaranteed home loans are available to wives of veterans whose deaths were service-connected.

Coker also pointed out that widows and minor children may be eligible to receive one of two types of monthly payments - dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) if the veteran's death was service connected; if his death was non-service-connected pension payments. In certain cases, he said, parents may be eligible for DIC checks.

Except for service-connected disability or death, most VA benefits are based on at least 90 days of military service by the veterans and servicemen must have at least 181 days of service to qualify for GI home loans and educational benefits.

Full details on these and other veterans' benefits are available from any VA office, Veterans County Service Officer, or veterans service organization representative.

Professor To Attend Meeting

Harry Dietz, assistant professor of mid-management at Western Texas College, will attend the Fifth Annual Mid-Management Conference at San Jacinto College in Houston Aug. 3-6.

Meetings on the agenda from which Dietz hopes to gain valuable information for the WTC Mid-Management program are Employee Satisfaction and Productivity, Management Situation, Management Seminar and Internship Research Study, and Coordinator Information Exchange.

The Mid-Management Program will begin at WTC August 30. The college will offer a day and a night program the first semester. Anyone interested in taking the Mid-Management Program on a full-time or part-time basis is invited to come by the college offices for more information. The offices are open Monday through Friday from 8 to 5.

Laughlin AFB Involved In Desegregation Suit

By PEGGY SIMPSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two officials of the U. S. Civil Rights Commission said Tuesday the Air Force has petitioned the Justice Department to intervene in a desegregation suit involving busing of Laughlin Air Force base children to a predominantly Anglo Del Rio, Tex., school district.

The base has been refused permission for the first time to move 850 students past adjacent San Felipe School District schools, which are overwhelmingly Mexican-American, to the Del Rio district.

The commission accused the Air Force and the Justice Department of using their influence to perpetuate segregated schools in Del Rio.

The commission said the Air Force has also asked Sidney Marland, the U. S. education commissioner, to grant the base funds to construct on-base schools if they are not allowed to bypass the Mexican-American district.

In addition, the commission said it has received a complaint from the president of the firm building new facilities for the San Felipe district that an advocate general at Laughlin warned him he might never get paid for his work. W. E. Curtis said a Captain Yagley told him the base would close rather than send its pupils to the San Felipe district.

Most federal employes have sent their children to the Del Rio district for as long as the base has been in the area. The district receives "impact aid" from the federal government at a current rate of $280,753 a year.

In the past, the Texas Education Agency has given permission for the students to be bused past the separate San Felipe district, but this year, however, TEA turned down the requests to send children to the Del Rio schools. TEA quoted from a federal suit last year against TEA which stipulates that transfers may not be approved if they perpetuate segregation.

Del Rio schools learned of the refusal several weeks ago. The district will appear Friday in a federal court in Tyler before Judge Wayne Justice to ask that the transfers be allowed one more year. In lieu of that, they will ask that the Del Rio and San Felip districts be combined.

San Felipe district officials will contest Del Rio's motion.

Civil Rights Commission staff attorney Judith Lictman said, "No one who's ever been in San Felipe schools would dispute the fact that the Del Rio School District offers a better education, but in fact it's been federal aid that allowed Del Rio to provide better education."

She said quick-construction modular units for the San Felipe schools will be ready in 60 to 90 days.

In the meantime, she said, the San Felipe schools could handle its potential extra student load of 850 students by going on half-day classes. Or, she said, the base could provide temporary facilities if it put its mind to it.

"I'll Be Seeing You" Crew Holding Reunion

By GARY GARRISONQ
Associated Press Writer

HARLINGEN, Tex. AP — Nine men who risked death together 30 times in the flak-filled sky over Europe in World War II waited today for the sky to clear before their 31st mission in a B17 Flying Fortress.

"They are crew members of the "I'll Be Seeing You" who are holding a reunion. Most of them had not seen each other in more than 26 years.

All are a little grayer, heavier and perhaps less venturesome, but their eyes lighted with excitement Tuesday when the Confederate Air Force opened a hangar door and showed them a B17 bomber which had been painted with their insignia and a scantily clad beauty coped after the original.

"It sure brings back a flock of memories," said Dodge City, Kan., City Commissioner Robert J. Coffin, who admits he probably could not fit in the ball turret where he once sat.

Rain forced cancellation Tuesday of a planned flight in the B17, but a CAF spokesman said an attempt would be made to make the flight today, weather permitting.

The men chose Harlingen as the site for their reunion because the Confederate Air Force Museum, the largest collection of World War II planes in flying condition in the world, is located there.

In addition to Coffin, other crew members of the plane are pilot Joe Cromer, a Tyler, Tex., insurance agent; co-pilot Ralph Trout, an executive with the H. J. Heinz Co. at Tampa, Fla.; Bombadier Jack G. Waldhoff, a Burlington, Iowa, Druggist; navigator Michael T. Phillips, Norwich, Conn., dentist; engineer-top turret gunner Douglas Stott, an insurance man from Mechanicsburg, Pa.; radio operator Martin Goodman, now a liquor retailer at Los Angeles; waist gunner Eugene Clark, a Seattle restaurant owner, and tail gunner Vincent Villagio, a supervisor for a Brooklyn, N.Y., Glass firm.

The arrival of a B29 Superfortress re-built by the Confederate Air Force at China Lake, Calif., and brought to Harlingen was a highlight of Tuesday's activities.

The B29, one of only a few still in flying condition, was put together at China Lake by a crew headed by Jack Kern of Tucson, Ariz. The plane, similar to the ones used to drop atomic bombs on Japan in World War II, was constructed by cannibalizing about six other B29s.

The reunion schedule includes dinner parties, a sightseeing trip to Matamoros, Mexico, and lots of time for talking over old times. The reunion will wind up Thursday.

Computers Aid In Water Planning

AUSTIN — Computer technology is proving its worth to water planning in Texas, as shown by the Texas Water Development Board's newest publication. The report demonstrates how modern-day computers can be used to thoroughly evaluate complex river basins that have a host of possible combinations of streams, reservoirs, canals, and water uses in order to show the least costly methods of obtaining water supplies.

"These methods are applicable to all river basins in Texas, and should be of great value to the many councils of government, river authorities, federal agencies, consulting engineers, and others dealing with complex water resource systems in the State," said Harry P. Burleigh, executive director of the Water Development Board. Arden O. Weiss, director of the Board's Systems Engineering Division, and Dr. Wilbur L. Meier, Professor at Texas A&M University, served as principal investigators in compiling the report.

The publication is the product of research carried out by the Water Development Board and the consulting firm, Water Resources Engineers, Inc. A highly qualified consulting panel guided the Board's research staff in this relatively unexplored area of computer-assisted natural resource planning.

Copies of Report 131 are available without charge from the Texas Water Development Board, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711.

Learn To Speak Well

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: Many of your readers could benefit greatly and help their careers by joining a Toastmaster Club – a nonprofit organized group which provides its members a program to improve their abilities in communications, conducting meetings and developing their leadership and executive potential.

Toastmasters are NOT naturally gifted silver-tongued orators, but a group of ambitious men from all walks of life who are basically interested in acquiring skills as public speakers, in social graces, and in expanding their own personality and thinking abilities. Toastmasters help each other learn – by evaluating fellow members as speakers and making suggestions.

Many talented men dread speaking in public, and when they must communicate their thoughts, their performance is dry-throated, uncertain and strained. Their delivery is wooden if they read verbatim and if they depart from a written text, they are plagued with "aaahs" and talk themselves into corners that are almost impossible to escape from gracefully. But public speaking can be a highly enjoyable experience if the speaker first acquires confidence through proper training in the art.

Through its some 3,500 clubs in 54 countries, Toastmasters can provide good training at little cost. Each club is autonomous with no paid staff. Membership ranges from about 15-40 men per club with beginners constituting approximately 35 percent. Meetings are often held weekly or twice a month and last about 2 hours, and may be held at breakfast, the noon hour or in the evening. Every member participates in each meeting.

Those not scheduled to make speeches are given the opportunity to make extemporaneous speeches during the program. Initiation fees are about $5-10, plus moderate monthly dues set by each club.

Readers who can't locate a Toastmaster club in their community – or who wish to start a new club – can write: Toastmasters International, 2200 N. Grand, Santa Ana, Calif. 92711.

– ROBERT T. OELRICH, PRESIDENT
IRVING PARK TOASTMASTERS, CHICAGO

A similar organization for women is International Toastmistress' Clubs, with headquarters at: 9068 E. Firestone Blvd., Suite 2, Downey, Calif. 90241.

These clubs can help you learn to speak persuasively, and improve your thinking and listening skills by serving as an evaluator of others' presentation.

Steph Is Charged In Wife's Murder

GALVESTON AP — A former managing editor of the newspaper here has been charged with murder in the drowning of his wealthy wife.

Thomas G. Steph, 48, was accused of murder and ordered held without bond after his wife was found floating in English Bayou near their home Monday.

Police said the charge was filed after he was given a polygraph test Tuesday in Houston.

His wife was Patricia Steph, 43, a member of a wealthy San Angelo, Tex., family.

County medical examiner Robert Bucklin said her death was caused by drowning. He said there was some evidence of a hemmorhage on the left side of her head.

Mrs. Steph had worked for Time magazine and with the Justice Department in the Nuremberg, Germany, war crimes trials, and lived in Paris, France where she was married previously, before marrying Steph in 1964.

Long active in Texas politics, she was state Democratic committeewoman from the 25th congressional District, which includes San Angelo, at the time she married and moved to Galveston.

Steph was managing editor of the then Galveston News-Tribune from 1963 to 1967. He was news editor of the San Angelo Standard-Times earlier.

The two met while he was at San Angelo and she was working as an amusements writer on the Standard-Times after her marriage to Pierre Massarano of Paris had ended.

Steph left the Galveston paper after its ownership changed. He retired and managed his investments, friends said.

The Stephs had one son, Thomas Carter. Mrs. Steph had a son, David, and a daughter Gwinn, by her previous marriage.

She was a grand daughter of Leasel Harris, a one-time Texas Ranger and rancher who founded the first national bank of San Angelo. Her mother, Beverly St. George Tucker, also was active in politics.

An aunt of Mrs. Steph, Helen Weaver, was killed in an automobile bombing at San Angelo in 1955. Mrs. Weaver's son-in-law, Harry Washburn, was convicted of the bombing and is serving a 99-year term in state prison.

Architect Working On 'Square'

DALLAS (AP) — Philip Johnson, the 65-year-old New York architect who designed the Kennedy Memorial here, is working on another scheme for the city—a Thanksgiving Square, which he plans as "a green island with an upbeat mood."

This square will necessarily be a triangle, built on a one acre site downtown.

The Thanksgiving Square, Foundation already has raised $2.2 million to buy the land and a further 1.75 million to clear it and re-develop it as a public plaze. Pedestrian ways and truck passages will pass under the square.

At the west end, Johnson intends to scoop out a wide, shallow bowl about 15 feet below street level, separating pedestrians from the sound and sight of nearby traffic. From this grassy blow, a landscaped area will slope up to a nonddenominatinal chapel, whose center will be a bubbling well of water.

Elevated walkways, pools, a bridge and a grove of small trees will complete what John son has in mind for the city's new mini-park.

To reach a neighboring United States city, Point Roberts, Wash., residents cross into Canada and re-enter at Blaine, Wash.
