Savage Bombing Raids Exchanged

Greeks Capture 10 Heavy Italian Guns And More Prisoners

Defending Army Continues Drive Into Albania

Fascist Columns Are Bombarded By Greek Airmen

(By The Associated Press)

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 16, (Saturday) — The capture of 700 Italian soldiers and 10 heavy guns in a continuing Greek advance along the 100-mile Albanian battlefront was reported by the high command early today. Both artillery and air action were described as "intense."

Greek pilots were declared to have bombed Italian columns in action and to have shot down three Fascist planes against two Greek losses.

"Serious Battles"

Summarizing the position briefly, a government spokesman said the Italians were retreating all along the front, although remarking that "quite serious battles" were raging.

The Italian guns were understood to have been seized by the Greeks in the recapture of an important hill; the prisoners in the Kalamas river region.

In the sector near the coast the Greeks declared the Italians had been pushed back up against the Albanian frontier in a retreat described as reaching the proportions of a route. This is one of the few remaining points where the Italians still are on Greek soil after 19 days of fighting.

Koritza Attacked

Above this area in the Pindus mountains, where the Greeks are fighting on Albanian soil, advices from the front said Greek mountain fighters had planted their artillery along the few good routes of invasion which had been open to the Fascists.

It was in this rugged border area the Greeks know so well that they reported two Italian divisions — probably 30,000 men—were cut to shreds, one when it was advancing into Greece and the other when it attempted to come to the aid of the first.

On the northern flank, Greeks attacking long-besieged Koritza, 10 miles inside Albania, were reported to have captured additional Albanian heights surrounding this Fascist invasion base.

The British air force command reported its planes destroyed a bridge across which Italian reinforcements were moving yesterday.

Unknown Slayer Kills Man, Then Himself

LUZERNE, Ia., Nov. 15. (AP) — Identity of an intruder who killed a Luzerne farmer and fatally wounded himself after an all-night siege, during which he covered a family of six with a revolver and demanded $500, remained a mystery tonight.

The dead farmer was Arthur Knoke, 32. His father, William Knoke, 70, was released from a Cedar Rapids, Ia., hospital after a bullet was removed from his head. Mrs. John Liddle, 29, sister of Knoke, shot in the back, was expected to recover.

The gunman, who died without regaining consciousness approximately three hours after the shooting, bore no identification marks.

After 12 hours as jailer, he announced he was going to kill Arthur Knoke, who apparently had angered him by pleading for the safety of the two Liddle children. Mrs. Liddle flung a comforter over the captor, but Knoke died instantly when a shot struck him in the heart, Sheriff Franklin related. The tramp shot himself in the right temple, the sheriff said.

RAILROAD MAN DIES

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—William Walton "Buck" Marshall, 50, retired employe of the Missouri-Kansas & Texas railroad, died at his home here tonight. He had served as district engineer at Waco, Brooneville, Mo., and Wichita Falls prior to his retirement five years ago.

BOND ISSUE VOTED

MIDLAND, Nov. 15 (AP)—Issuance of $250,000 in bonds to pave 31 miles of road from the Upton to the Martin county line was overwhelmingly approved by Midland county voters in a special election yesterday. The vote was 287 to 24.

Italy Calls On Axis Partner For Help Against Greeks; Big Move Expected

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, Nov. 15—A big offensive in the Mediterranean and new impetus for Italy's campaign in Greece were expected in foreign circles tonight to result from the conference of the chiefs of the German and Italian high commands.

The meeting between German Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel and Italian Marshal Pietro Badoglio today at Innsbruck was described officially in a communique as

GET HEADS TOGETHER

BERLIN, Nov. 15—The highest officers of the German and Italian military commands held a sudden and unexpected conference today and everywhere the impression arose that some new military stroke of the greatest importance was afoot.

They met—Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command; Marshal Pietro Badoglio of Italy and their respective staffs—at the old Austrian town of Innsbruck, near the Italian frontier.

"military conversations on joint conduct of the war." (This paralleled a similar, cryptic announcement in Berlin).

Some usually well-informed sources predicted that pressure would be made on Turkey to allow German troops to spread their occupation from Rumania to the Dardanelles in a drive against the British at Suez and, beyond, in the oil-rich Near East.

May Aid Italians

Others said German troops might aid the Italians against Greece through Yugoslavia or Bulgaria or both.

Little progress has been reported here from Italy's newest front and observers agree that the high command is anxious to speed up operations.

It has not been the policy of the Axis powers to let an offensive lag. The Innsbruck staff talks would be useful, in the view of foreign observers, if the Italian command had decided to accept an offer of help from Germany.

It was pointed out, however, that the Greek campaign is only one phase of the Axis war plan and observers said a showdown on Turkey's position may be imminent.

Newspapers indicated that Soviet Russia probably would help put pressure on Turkey to prevent her opposing German plans.

It was considered significant that

Jack Hankins Is Charged Again

(Special To The Avalanche)

LEVELLAND, Nov. 15.—Jack Hankins, who assaulted a Lubbock young woman Nov. 9, 1939, with intent to rape, has been charged in Hockley county with rape of another Lubbock woman.

He is at liberty under bond of $1,500 it was announced this afternoon.

Ed Halsell, another Lubbock man, is at liberty under $750 bond charging attempted rape, officials said.

Sheriff Ed Hofacket, arresting officer, went to Lubbock today to confer with the district attorney's office. Hockley county is in the 72nd judicial district.

Under Sentence

Hankins already is under two-year sentence for his Lubbock county conviction, in 99th district court. The sentence was affirmed approximately three weeks ago and the sheriff's department there merely awaits mandate of the court of criminal appeals to jail him awaiting orders from penitentiary authorities.

He had the right to file a motion for a rehearing but, it was understood among officials, his 15-day period of grace has been exhausted.

According to the story told here, Hankins and Halsell are accused of

Urgent Need Of Air Service In Area Is Cited

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. — The Civil aeronautics board was told today that adequate air service must be provided in West Texas and New Mexico to keep pace with development of the Permian Oil basin.

Describing the basin as one of the most important in the nation, Thornton Davis, Santa Fe geologist, testified that lack of adequate air mail and passenger transportation was handicapping oil men going to the field from their home offices.

Davis was one of several witnesses at a hearing before Thomas Wrenn, cab examiner, on applications by four airlines seeking extensions in Texas and to Colorado and New Mexico points.

Aid For Defense

Davis said San Antonio geologists would benefit especially from an extension of air service to Hobbs, N. M. He said that rapid exhaustion of oil resources in Illinois, Oklahoma and Louisiana was giving the Permian basin an important future in the oil industry.

Col. Neill E. Bailey of San Antonio, retired army transportation chief, said air transportation development in Central and West Texas was needed from the national defense standpoint. Emphasizing that, he spoke as a private individual and not for the war department, he said that "every installation of any air line bears on the betterment of the

Newspaper Work Glamorous, High School Journalists Are Told At Press Clinic

NEWSPAPER work is still glamorous and newspaper reporters still lead fast, dangerous lives, 266 members of the West Texas scholastic Press clinic were told at a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored banquet in Lubbock hotel Friday night.

High school journalism students from all over West Texas and the Panhandle heard addresses by Herschel Schooley, head of the journalism department at Hardin-Simmons university, and J. Edward Connor, director of extension and publicity at New Mexico Normal university at Las Vegas.

Schooley discussed "Newspaper Glamour," pointing out that boys want to become reporters nowadays, not firemen or policemen. He showed that there is excitement and action in all phases of newspaper work—sports, crime, war, politics. He emphasized that it is "a dangerous game" and that newspaper men must have the courage to tell the truth.

Interesting Profession

Connor, a graduate of the University of Missouri journalism school, said that journalism is "the most interesting profession," but it requires courage and hard work. "You have to have push- not pull. It's all in using your head in little things."

Connor briefly alluded to his acquaintanceship with Richard Halli-

Strike Closes Plane Factory

By The Associated Press)

DOWNEY, Calif., Nov. 15 — The West Coast's fourth largest airplane factory was closed by a strike today, partially crippling the national aerial defense program for the first time.

Union employes of the Vultee Aircraft company, which has on hand $50,000,000 in orders for military aircraft, walked out at 5 a. m. in support of a demand for a wage increase.

Shutdown Announced

Two hours later the company announced shutdown of the huge plant, in which scores of airplanes are in all stages of production. The company said the suspension also affected "more than 20" airplanes ready for delivery tomorrow.

Vultee has a payroll of 5,200 employes, 3,700 of them in the production department. The CIO United Automobile Workers union, which claims 3,000 of the latter as members, demands that the minimum wage be increased from 50 to 75

Stranded Members Of Flying Boat Rescued

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15. (AP) — Two crew members of the flying boat "Transatlantic," marooned for 38 hours aboard the ship on the windswept waters of Lake Pontchartrain here, were removed today and taken to their hotel to rest.

The men, Captain Dick Mitchell and Flight Mechanic Ralph Carlson, shaken up by their ordeal, are expected to take their places on the big American air lines plane at daybreak tomorrow for a pathfinding flight across the Gulf of Mexico to Caribbean ports.

Cattlemen Fear Livestock May Be Non-Combatant Victims

Native Ranchers Will Stay Out Of Range Of Armed "City Fellers" Hunting Deer

(By The Associated Press)

MASON, Nov. 15 — Native hunters worried more today about how to haul their game into camp than they did over bagging a buck on the opening of deer hunting season here tomorrow.

Ranchmen hoped too many cattle would not be non-combatant victims of the city fellers' rifles. Wise hunters wore red caps to keep their identity clear, but stockmen made doubly sure by planning to stay around the barn, out of range.

They pocketed the folding money incidental to the sale of hunting privileges in their pastures, and agreed with County Judge Otis Shearer, who said the biggest job in buck hunting is toting the deer back to camp.

Lots of them were like Ned Polk, ranchman and cattle dealer, who said he'd just stay at home and butcher a goat.

"Personally, I can't stand all that walking," he remarked.

Roscoe Runge, a lawyer who likes to hunt deer the easy way had a tip for the city visitors. He insisted that a hunter is lacking in good sense who will shoot down a deer in country that is too rough to be reached in an automobile.

That's how plentiful the deer were this season in the heart of the hill country where buck and turkey hunting has become a big business.

Swinging a dead deer on a pole and carrying it to camp over terrain that is principally up and down was one old custom frowned on by the experts who try to make hunting a push-over for their visitors.

"Uphill," said Barber Jim Brown, "the man behind carries the buck and the pole. Downhill, the fellow in front does all the work."

Practically everybody agreed a horse was the best burden bearer, but how to get your deer up on a horse? Someone recalled a resourceful hunter who solved the problem by throwing and tying his horse, then lashing the deer to its back. The horse got up under its own steam and jogged easily back to bed roll and campfire with hunter and victim.

Homecoming At Tech Will Be Observed Today

Gala Program Is Opened As Rally Held Last Night

ENTHUSIASM ran rampant Friday night at Texas Technological college.

Gathering nearly 2,000 strong, students and former students heard speeches and band music and cheered during a 45-minute program which was broadcast over KFYO from the college gymnasium.

They then were joined by hundreds of others at a rally centered by a huge bonfire.

The general attitude of speakers and many expressing themselves privately was that although victory may not be certain in this afternoon's game between Texas Tech and Wake Forest squads a strong battle is certain.

9 a. m.-2 p. m.—Registration in east rotunda of administration building, sponsored by Council of Women Grad-uates; tickets available for luncheon, football game, dances and the Nov. 22 Tech dinner in Fort Worth.

"We make no prediction for outcome of the game, but we do predict a clean, fine, hard-fought game," said President Clifford B. Jones on the radio broadcast.

Raymond Lee Johns from Lamesa, president of the Alumni and Ex-Students association, led the list of speakers. Others included Head Coach Pete W. Cawthon, Captains

South Warned Of More Cold

By The Associated Press)

Chilled by record-breaking November cold that caused widespread crop damage, Southerners piled on more blankets Friday night as forecasters warned of a further drop in temperatures.

In the North, warmer weather was moving eastward from the Great Plains to thaw snows that reached depths of 6 inches in the Great Lakes region. But temperatures still remained below the customary pre-Thanksgiving levels.

A Minnesota state agricultural statistician, Paul K. Kirk, estimated the early cold cost turkey farmers of his state as much as $2,000,000. Reports there indicated one-third of the prospective crop of 2,900,000 birds was lost.

New Orleans Escapes

Texas farmers suffered materially from the record cold, too. The earliest killing frost in two decades damaged tomato, bean, squash and pepper crops in the lower Rio Grande valley. With oranges and grapefruit being moved to market,

Brownfield Woman Hurt In Accident

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 15 (Special) — Mrs. S. Johnson, 74, of Brownfield was in a hospital here tonight for treatment of acid burns suffered to her legs when an automobile driven by her son was overturned eight miles west of Plains.

Her son's wife, Mrs. Luther Johnson, 36, of Tokio, was released after treatment for a lacerated knee.

The woman, Johnson and a 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were in the car when it overturned. The son was thrown clear and, assisted by C. D. Brown of New York City, a perfume company salesman, and Ralph S. Thomas of Lubbock, a truck driver, lifted the car from those trapped.

They, en route to Lovington, N. M., were taken to Plains, then to the hospital here.

The elderly woman's injuries were not described as dangerous.

London, Hamburg, Berlin Attacked; Coventry Suffers

(By The Associated Press)

GERMAN planes struck heavily at London and British bombers raided Hamburg last night and early today.

The trading of blows followed Thursday night's "monster" Nazi air assault on the British industrial city of Coventry that left more than 1,000 dead or injured.

The German radio heard in New York by NBC also reported British attacks last night on Berlin in which it was declared twelve RAF planes were shot down, six over Berlin and six near the English channel. (Those figures were the same as those given for the previous night's British attack on Berlin).

Military Points Escape

DNB, official German news agency, said German pursuit planes and anti-aircraft barrage blunted the British attack on Hamburg, and that no military objectives were hit. A number of persons were killed and injured, it said, when one bomb struck a large hospital.

Two British planes were declared downed in flames.

More than 100 Nazi planes struck at London early today, starting scores of fires which were extinguished quickly, leveling apartment buildings in which many civilians were believed buried.

Nineteen German warplanes were claimed to have been shot down yesterday up to early evening.

British rescuers worked with bleeding hands amid the ruins of ancient Coventry to recover victims of the worst Nazi raid inflicted on Britain.

"Monster Raid"

The Nazis officially called it "a monster raid . . . causing tremendous devastation," and meanwhile plunged into a new flurry of military and diplomatic conferences presaging a possible big offensive in the Mediterranean, with Greece and Gibraltar as likely objectives.

Coventry, the modern Midlands industrial city now ringed with motor factories but famed for nine centuries as the scene of Lady Godiva's nude ride on horseback, counted at least 1,000 killed and wounded in the full-scale blitzkrieg by 500 German warplanes.

The 12-hour attack began after

Ban Placed On United States Press In Spain

By J. C. STARK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 — Friction developed between the American and Spanish governments today as the United States re-asserted its 34-year-old treaty rights in the international zone of Tangier and Madrid announced a probable ban on operations of all American press correspondents in Spain.

These developments came as the visit of Ramon Serrano Saner, Spanish foreign minister, to Paris and a Berlin announcement that he had been invited to return to Berlin stirred new speculation over possible active moves by Spain to cooperate with the Axis powers.

Representations Made

The state department announced that representations had been made in Madrid over the recent Spanish seizure of full control at Tangier, the strategic international zone in Morocco which commands the approach to the Strait of Gibraltar from the Atlantic.

They were based on treaty rights acquired in the 1906 act of Algeciras which grew out of an international conference to stabilize administration in Morocco. The United States, in becoming a party to the act, disclaimed any obligation or responsibility for its enforcement.

It did not adhere to later conventions adopted by Mediterranean powers which gave Spain certain police rights at Tangier. Spain occupied the zone several months ago and less than two weeks ago seized full control.

None Said Asked

In view of the slight interest shown by the United States in the Tangier zone in recent years, the representations were interpreted here as a means of registering this government's interest in any Spanish move to assist the Axis powers in seizing Gibraltar.

Spanish authorities in Madrid notified American correspondents they would not be permitted to send out any dispatches, effective next Monday, and said the action was a result of refusal by the United States to grant visas for correspondents of the Spanish news agency EFE to come to this country or for that agency to operate here.

State department officials asserted, however, that no visa applications had been received here for correspondents to represent the Spanish agency or for permission for the agency to operate.

Stabbed Woman Overpowers Man

Cut dangerously and thrice stabbed, a 47-year-old woman of 1100 block Nineteenth street retained enough strength to wrest from her husband a knife a few minutes before midnight and save her life, police said.

At Lubbock sanitarium it was said she would recover.

F. D. Land, police patrolman who with Earl Horton arrested the husband, about 55 years old, said he and Horton taught a radio message telling them to go to the woman's boarding house.

They found the woman in the bath room bathing her throat. A three-inch wound and the three stab incisions were bleeding profusely.

Woman Was Asleep

Blood was all over the place, Land said.

From several men boarding at the place Land and Horton were informed that the woman was asleep in her bed. The husband, Land said, was related to have drunk iodine, then vinegar and to have leaped on the bed, fully dressed minus his shoes, and to have struck several times.

The woman, screaming in pain and

Every Muscle In The Body Seemed to Ache

So Weak It Was Impossible To Do A Full Day's Work; But With Proper Elimination, Gly-Cas Made His Life Worth Living.

"Until I began Gly-Cas, constipation had been a constant source of distress," said Mr. J. T. Davis, 1412 Oak St., San Angelo, Texas. "Aches and pains developed in my joints and muscles until I could hardly stand it. It seemed every muscle in my body twitched and pained and I was in continual agony. It was almost impossible for me to get much rest or sleep in this condition. My digestion had become upset too and the least thing I ate would cause me such distress afterwards. I was so weak I could not do a full day's work at a time and although I was taking first one medicine after another, I met only with repeated failure until I began Gly-Cas.

"From the first few doses Gly-Cas began to show me great improvement," continued Mr. Davis. "Now that my bowels are regular and those poisonous impurities are being properly eliminated those miserable aches and pains have ceased up until I am not bothered at all now. Then too, I have no trouble at all with my digestion but eat the foods I like best and without ill effects following. I have sufficient strength and energy now to resume my daily work and cannot keep from praising the wonderful ability of Gly-Cas."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mack Haisey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. Adv.

AUSTIN, Nov. 16, (Special)—Final formal message to the convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, delivered in the beautiful Union building at the University of Texas, at a Texas dinner by Mrs. Joseph Perkins of Eastland, retiring president, was on the much discussed subject of unity. The federation's motto is, "In great things unity; in small things liberty; in all things charity."

In her forceful remarks this brilliant and beautiful woman emphasized the theme of the convention "Intelligence, Patriotism and Christianity." Of course the writer does not have to suggest that she hinted all these characteristics were practiced in the world at large we would not have the confusion and turmoil that has saddened so many hearts.

Since this was her last formal appearance, Mrs. Perkins adapted a yesterday motif, wearing a Spanish mantilla and referring to herself as a "manana" girl. The delicate black lace set off her brunette coloring and long, black, hair. She wore a white evening gown and later in the evening she was presented with a bouquet of red roses which completed a striking picture. If more club women were like Mrs. Perkins as well, we won't go into that here!

Incidentally, she was presented with a green emerald ring, surrounded with diamonds, as a farewell gift from the board of directors.

HIGHLIGHTS.

ROGER BUSFIELD, Austin news commentator, appears each night on the convention as the final number on the program and in the manner of a radio announcer gives highlights in the world's happenings. Wednesday night after we heard him say an estimated 4,000,000 turkeys died in the blizzard that is sweeping the land, we sat in shocked silence to hear a bright eyed little woman sitting across the table from us remark to a companion in worried tones, "I bet my husband doesn't think to turn the water off." This is the third day of the session, and many women are beginning to wonder if their children are getting off to school on time each morning or if they are taking colds and secretly we imagine hundreds of them are just downright homesick.

After watching women haggle over the price of hotel rooms we suggested to a bell boy that women are stingy and were chastened by his remark, "Not stingy madam, thrifty."

Milton, the poet might have written of this convention, "they also serve who only stand and wait" because everyone has done her share of sitting, standing and standing. Some we stood in was in front of the Governor's Mansion Wednesday afternoon and a chill wind blowing out of the north made such a wait decidedly uncomfortable for many delegates and visitors there to attend a tea given by Mrs. O'Daniel. A look at the lovely rooms compensated our discomfort and we remarked as such to a guard who said he was sorry for the delay but the women arrived before they were ready. Some of the women bawled me out for making them stand out in the cold," he said. Democracy! And when we left and thanked him he said, "Thank you, you all come back."

Molly O, wearing a tight fitting satin evening dress, assisted in serving. She is a pretty girl but if she ever should become fat she will be a young amazon.

AGAIN we were proud of club women to hear a lavish woman demands of a guard in the famous Sam Houston room, "Are you SURE Sam Houston slept in this bed," as she tested the mattress and bedstead. "I have only the word of authorities," he replied with patience and a bored look. And we hope the woman who broke off a stem of gorgeous gladioli from a floor vase in the hallway got home with it safely.

After Evelyn Boyd and the writer left the mansion we strolled over to the capitol to see where Hop and Marshall will hold forth come January and to pay our respects at the press room. We met Gordon Shearer and Howard Marshall, who "cover" the legislature for the United Press and Associated Press, respectively, and whose columns appear in the Avalanche and Journal. They were nice and invited our questions but we couldn't help but detect a tongue in the cheek when they referred to the convention. Why ARE men that way about women's conventions?

After the dinner meeting Wednesday night we met Col. Ernest Thompson, resplendent in uniform, standing in the doorway of the hotel talking to Austin's Mayor Tom Miller.

So far our impressions of Austin are mainly of these mansions, the tall street lights, the intricate carvings on doorways and furniture, the gorgeous chandeliers, the capitol dome at night and don't let Charlie Guy see this) the university campus. Somehow, we can't help but think that there is in our state a campus as glorious as this one. Yet Wednesday night as we entered the union building we agreed with a West Texas woman who said, "Yes, this is grand for the university town students but Tech college hasn't even got a tent for hers."

The Rural Electrification administration supplied more than 568,000 consumers with electricity.

Quick Approval Is Expected

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (U.P.) — President Roosevelt today nominated Dr. Harry A. Mills of Chicago as chairman of the National Labor relations board, succeeding J. Warren Madden whose term expired in August.

At the same time Mr. Roosevelt sent to the Senate the nomination of Madden to a $12,500-a-year judgeship on he U. S. Court of Claims. The NLRB post pays $10,000.

Mills, 67-year-old educator and veteran labor arbiter, announced yesterday that he regarded the appointment as a "draft", which he never the less would accept. He was named for a five-year term ending Aug. 27, 1945.

Approval Expected

Speedy Senate approval of his nomination was expected, particularly in view of the desire of Democratic leaders to adjourn Congress sine die next Tuesday.

There were no immediate indications where Madden's appointment would be approved immediately or put over until next session to give the Senate judiciary committee an opportunity to conduct full hearings.

Madden has been under fire from some groups in Congress, labor and industry. His reappointment was sought by President John L. Lewis but bitterly opposed by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor. Green has charged Madden with bias in favor of the CIO.

Green, in a statement made today a New Orleans, scene of the forthcoming AFL convention, said he was "perfectly agreeable" to Mills' nomination.

All Are Satisfied

Mr. Roosevelt's choice of Mills was considered his latest move to bring peace between the AFL and CIO. While Several CIO leaders, like Lewis, were said to favor Madden, it was believed that they would register no strong objection to Mills.

Once confirmed by the Senate, Mills will serve on the NLRB with Dr. William M. Leiserson and Erwin S. Smith, who have been functioning alone since Madden's term expired on August 27.

Leiserson, who reportedly was among those urging Mr. Roosevelt not to reappoint Madden, described the Mills selection as a "splendid appointment."

"I don't know of a man better qualified for the job," Leiserson said.

Draftees Reminded Of Instructions

Requests addressed to advisory board members and to registrants were made Friday by members of Lubbock county draft boards.

Advisory board members were urged to make certain that all questions on questionnaires they examine have been answered. They asked particularly that if the registrant has no dependents, to so specify. Many single men are leaving that particular question unanswered, it was explained.

To registrants, draft board members addressed the reminder that questionnaires must be filled out in ink and that it must be attested either before a notary of public or an advisory board member. It has been necessary to mail back to the registrant the questionnaires filled out with pencil, the officials said.

Russia Ignores Offer From Great Britain

LONDON, Nov. 15. (AP) — Soviet Russia has ignored for nearly three months British proposals which included an offer of assurance that Britain would not be associated in any attack on Russia, authoritative sources said tonight.

They asserted the proposals were submitted as long as Aug. 22 by Ambassador Sir Stafford Cripps to Andrei Vyshinsky, vice-commissar for foreign affairs, but no reply has been received.

The proposals were said to have included a guarantee that Russia would be a participant in any peace settlement after the present war and British de facto recognition of the Soviet union's absorption of the three Baltic states, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

Father Admits He Killed Crippled Son With Fist

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 15. (U.P.)—Police said today they had obtained a confession from a typewriter salesman, identified as Norman Burgoyne, 33, that he killed his blind and crippled son, Robert, 5, three years ago while living in Scarsboro, Me., because he "felt sorry" for the child.

Detective Ralph Murphy said that Burgoyne confessed he killed his son by striking him with his fist.

Murphy quoted Burgoyne:

"I killed him because I felt sorry for him. I thought he would be much better off dead."

According to police Burgoyne informed his wife, after the boy's death, and the parents buried the body in a woods.

Burgoyne and his wife separated later, and she moved to Kalamazoo, Mich., police were told. They said they understood first information concerning the death came from her.

Truett Address Ends Convention

HOUSTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—The Baptist General convention of Texas ended toda, with an inspirational address by Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas, who exhorted his hearers to do God's will in these "poignantly troubled days."

In concluding business sessions, the Baptists named trustees for institutions o the denomination in Texas and named Mrs. J. W. Neal of Houston to replace her late husband on the board of trustees for Memoria. Hospital here.

It was the first time a woman has been named to the board of any Baptist hospital in Texas.

The convention also voted to request President Roosevelt to cancel the appointment of an "ambassador" to the Vatican.

The resolutions committee's motion, approved by the convention, said the president appointed "the Hon. Myron C. Taylor as the personal representative of the president to the Vatican with the rank of ambassador."

"The Texas Baptist convention is entering its protest to this appointment and beseeches the honorable president to officially terminate this relationship at the earliest possible moment."

The resolution said the action was taken because the appointment constituted a violation of the constitution; "because it looks toward union of chuch and state, and because Baptists have stood for a free church within a free state through all their history."

The resolution also said "we look with disfavor upon every bill before Congress proposing to tax church property, church boards and the salaries of non-ordained workers. . . ."

It was voted to send copies to the president and to each Texas member of Congress.

A green bottle found on the shore of Bahia, Brazil, contained a note from the United States Hydrographic service.

Wake Forest Threatens Tech Record, Homecoming Today

Experts Give Deacons Edge In Final Home Game Of Season For Raiders--But Raiders Seem Ready

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

WELL, this is the day, folks.

The Homecoming Day for Texas Tech ex-students and alumni—the "make or break" day for Texas Tech's 1940 football team.

The big, fast Deacons of Wake Forest college, from the heart of North Carolina's industrial and educational center—there are about five major educational and football institutions within a 40-mile radius of Wake Forest—are here to play the Texas Tech Red Raiders.

They appear to be two fairly evenly matched teams; the "experts" and the "rating systems" have agreed that Wake Forest is just a little bit tougher than Texas Tech; the betting odds are even, favoring, if anybody, the Deacons. It stacks up as a "natural."

Coaches Are "Optimistic"

Pessimistic D. C. "Peahead" Walker of Wake Forest has said: "Tech is too tough for us, I'm afraid. We'll do well to hold the Raiders to two touchdowns, and I doubt if we can score."

Pessimistic P. W. Cawthon of Texas Tech has said: "We've got more than our match this time. We'll be lucky if we aren't beat more than two touchdowns, and I doubt if we can score."

But here are the boys to decide the business. We give you the probable starting lineups, numbers and weights, of today's opposing teams, the boys due to kick-off and receive at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon:

No.	WAKE FOREST Player	Wt.	Pos.	Wt.	TEXAS TECH Player	No.
82	John Jett	215	LE	175	Robert Duncan	76
41	Paj Preston	195	LT	211	Jack Shanks	80
90	Carl Gisler	205	LG	184	Will Allbright	29
33	John Prendergrast	181	C	223	Rafe Nabors	78
66	Louis Trunzo	190	RG	196	Lonnie McCurry (C)	85
88	Tony Rubino	200	RT	213	Newman Ledbetter	57
42	Paul Walvers	180	RE	183	Prince Scott	84
38	J. V. Pruitt	177	QB	178	Tyrus Bain	39
32	John Polanski	210	LH	189	C. L. Storrs	81
77	Tony Gallovich	180	RH	162	Milton Hill	74
98	Jim Ringgold (C)	185	FB	190	Walter Webster	55

The officials may have something to say about the game, too, and they are, for today's game: Referee, Joe Dobbs (Texas); umpire, Ziggy Sears (Kentucky Mines); head linesman, Leo Butler Alired (Austin college) and, field judge, W. W. Bushman (Missouri Wesleyan).

To glance at the records: Wake Forest, the "little giant killer" of the South, has won six games, four of them by shutouts, and has lost a couple.

The Deacons started with a 79-0 victory over William Jewell college, followed with a 12-0 victory over Bear Wolf's North Carolina university team, then took Furman university, 19 to 0. Something happened the next week, the Deacons slipped and fell before Clemson, 0-39, in one of the greatest upsets of the nation this year. They rallied the following week to down husky Marshall college, 31-19, then lost to Duke university, 0-23, then blanked George Washington university at Washington, D. C., 18-0, and last week cut down North Carolina State, 20-14.

This gives the Deacons a total of 179 to 95, while the Red Raiders, winning their last six games after tying their first contest with Oklahoma A. and M., have run up 185 to the oppositions' 78.

Game They're Waiting For!

The teams have played no common foe, and a comparison is impossible, although at best comparisons are improbable definitions of power.

The Red Raiders have looked forward to and planned for this particular game all season, especially after the Deacons downed the powerful North Carolina team by a decisive score. In fact, they have anticipated today's game to such an extent they haven't "born down" in all their games, particularly their last one against Centenary early this week.

Who has been doing all that running for the Deacons?

Well, a 200-pound left halfback named John Polanski, old "Jolting John" himself, has done a lot of it. He's a rip-snorting sonufagun who can do almost anything there is to do in a well-reared backfield. Besides running, he passes and kicks, blocks and tackles, and is a hard customer to shake off when he carries the ball.

Watch Tony, Too

Tony Gallovich is a little lighter, but plays the other halfback position with a lot of stuff. He also punts and passes. Captain Jim Ringgold, the fullback, and J. V. Pruitt, quarterback, are experienced ball carriers and blockers.

Checking back, Polanski's individual record shows that he has carried the ball 118 times in the eight games, for a total of 572 yards, for average per try of 4.7 yards. He has made six touchdowns for 36 points.

Pruitt is the passing ace of the team, has tossed 64 passes, completed 24 of them, and scored two touchdowns. He has carried the ball for a total of 301 yards. Gallovich, possessing the second best running average in the country, has toted the mail 98 times for 711 yards, or an average of 6.3 yards per try.

Then there are Marshall Edwards, Rey Mayberry and, of course, Ringgold, who have done their share of kicking and running and blocking.

Right is Douglas C. Walker, known to all and sundry as Peahead, who coaches the Wake Forest gang. Under his tuteiage, the Deacons have attained national recognition in the gridiron world.

Tickets Still Available

The principal's office at Senior High school will be open from 9 a. m. until noon today to sell the approximately 300 tickets remaining in the temporary bleachers to be erected at the south end of Texas Technological college stadium for the Lubbock-Amarillo High school football game Thursday, according to Dr. W. B. Irvin, school superintendent.

Dr. Irvin said also that about 150 additional box seats will be placed on sale in the principal's office Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock.

The seats, he explained, will be located in temporary boxes to be erected in front of the east and west sides of Texas Technological college stadium. The price will be $1.25 per ticket.

The temporary boxes, Dr. Irvin said, will make provision for a total of 1,792 spectators instead of the 2,400 originally expected. All of those tickets except the 150 have been sold.

Dr. Irvin emphasized that no reservations for the remaining tickets will be accepted and that none will be sold before Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock. Then, he said, it will be a case of "first come, first served."

Cowhands Win Season's Finale

(Special To The Avalanche)

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 15.—Scoring once in each quarter, Coach Cy LaMaster's Lubbock Cowhands powered to a 24 to 0 victory over Plainview Reserves here this afternoon.

J. R. Allison scored in the first period with a plunge from the two-yard line. Lennis Mitchell smashed over from the one-foot line for the second score. The third came on a 25-yard pass from Mitchell to Joy Hendricks, who ran 10 yards to score. Allison added the final tally on a three-yard dash.

The victory was the second for the Cowhands over the Plainview eleven and brought them to season's end with six victories and three defeats. LaMaster used every one of the 34 players on his squad in the game.

Aggie-Rice Tilt Features SWC

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 15.—Cold, calculating Texas A. and M., winner of 18 straight football games and now on a dead "point" for the Rose Bowl, tomorrow plays Rice institute—and cages Jess Neely.

The Aggies just don't get jittery, but if they did, right here would be the spot for a case of nerves.

Rice is in that feared "nothing to lose" position. The Owls started the season with everything brand new, Jess Neely came over from Clemson, where he could have settled for life, and rejuvenated a very sick Owl. The five victories and one loss record compiled to date represents a terrific season—more than expected.

Only Passes Scare Aggies

Tomorrow the Owls, a precision team with a fine running game, become the eighth challenger of the season to an Aggie team now quite accustomed to one and all seeking their scalps. Rice ranks second only to the Cadets in rushing yardage—and they have played one less game. The Aggies have powered for 1056 yards; Rice, 1048.

But the Aggies have shown time and again that only passes can dent their hides. The massive line has held for an average enemy gain of 23.3 yards by rushing. Rice has gained only 340 yards on passes.

Everybody's Ready To Play

Jarrin' John Kimbrough, the All-America Aggie fullback who crushed Southern Methodist's mighty team last week, was ready for a Rice line that has been effective against rushing. Rice had its own fullbacking noise in Bob Brumley, a stout boy who has been spearheading their attack.

The Aggies were clearly favored with their 50 per cent passing game, engineered by Marion Pugh, and their league-leading ground game, both unhampered by a single injury.

Rice was weak at the tackle posts from injuries—and that is where Aggie lightning strikes.

McAdoo To Play New Home In Six-Man Grid Game Here Saturday

McADOO, Nov. 15. (Special)—McAdoo's six-man footballers gained revenge for a previous beating here this afternoon by clouting the invading Roosevelt team, 30 to 6. Clinton Formby paced a consistently powerful attack that netted four touchdowns and six points on tries after touchdowns.

Formby tossed a 25-yard pass to Roy Allen for the first score and Austin Rose, jr., plunged for the point. In the second quarter, Formby intercepted a pass and raced it back 30 yards for the second touchdown, then booted the try to add two points.

McAdoo vs. New Home

Roosevelt scored on a 20-yard sprint soon after.

It was Formby again in the third on a 35-yard jaunt, and Bertrand Robertson added the point, running.

Formby added the fourth tally on a lateral pass play late in the game, and Rose kicked the point.

McAdoo will meet New Home in Tech Stadium next Saturday afternoon for the South Plains six-man championship.

Boni Picks Raiders To Win

Aggs, Minnesota, Indians On Spot

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Minnesota, Stanford and Texas A. and M., whose football teams so ably met the challenges hurled at them a week ago, again will be on the spot tomorrow when they square off in conference battles against Purdue, Oregon State and Rice.

Together with Cornell, meeting an old Ivy league foe in Dartmouth, they each are two games away from a perfect season, in the home stretch where even the most momentary lapse may be costly. But inevitably, off their records, they have been made pronounced favorites.

Such is not the case in the Boston college-Georgetown and Michigan Northwestern games, however.

Capacity Crowd At Boston

This is the season's high spot for B. C. and Hoyas. Both have been highly-touted and neither has been beaten or tied. Nor has either one been tested since early in the season. That's why a capacity crowd of 30,000 will be on hand at Boston to find out which deserves to be ranked with the best.

For Michigan and Northwestern there will be a two-fold stake. With 85,000 watching from the Ann Arbor stands these two, each beaten only by a Minnesota extra-point, will fight it out for runner-up spot in the Western conference and a chance to tie the Gophers for the lead if by any chance they should slip.

Northwestern Over Michigan

To get down to cases, here's how they look from this corner (home teams first, probable attendance in parentheses):

Boston college—Georgetown (39,500)—The lines look about even. Taking Boston college on backfield versatility, for we're told the Hoya passers can't run and the runners can't pass, which may simplify B.C.'s defensive task.

Michigan-Northwestern (85,000)—This vote for Northwestern also is based on the backfields—the fact that the Wildcats, to match Michigan's Harmon, can call on Decorrevont, Clawson, Hahnenstein, Soper and Chambers, all of them better than average.

Stanford Stepping To Bowl

Stanford-Oregon State (40,000)—Next-to-last step into the Rose Bowl for Stanford.

Rice—Texas A. and M.—(27,000)—Too much experience, power and poise on the Aggies' side.

Dartmouth-Cornell (12,000)—The same applies to Cornell, only more so.

Tennessee-Virginia (12,000)—Tennessee all the way.

Minnesota-Purdue (30,000) — Minnesota.

Princeton-Yale (50,000)—Princeton to make it three straight over the Elis.

Irish Roll Again Maybe

Notre Dame-Iowa (50,000)—One back as good as Bill Green doesn't look like enough to halt the Irish.

North Carolina-Duke (42,000) — Duke even if the Tarheels were up to their physical par.

Pitt-Nebraska (35,000)—A chance for the East to get some of those backs loose.

Penn-Army (50,000)—Penn.

Georgia Tech-Alabama (25,000) — The Engineers aren't the Rambling Wreckers of a year ago. Alabama.

Illinois-Ohio State (35,000) —

Olton Captures 5-A North Half Title; To Play Cubs

(Special To The Avalanche)

SUDAN, Nov. 15.—Olton's Mustangs rallied sensationally in the last half here today to submerge Sudan's Hornets, 39 to 6, thus clinching the District 5-A north half title and the right to play Brownfield for the district championship.

The playoff game will be at Olton Nov. 21. Last season the two teams met at Brownfield for the district title, the Mustangs winning 13 to 0.

Olton had a thin 7 to 6 lead at halftime today, and were being badly outplayed by the Hornets. But Olton came out for the third quarter all fired up, shoved over one touchdown in the third and four in the fourth to rack up the heavy score.

The Hedges twins, Willis and Willard, did all the Olton scoring, splitting six touchdowns evenly between them.

WT-NM League Meet Here Tomorrow

DALLAS, Nov. 15. (AP)—President Milton Price of the West Texas-New Mexico league said today the loop would operate again next season as an eight-club circuit.

The annual meeting will be held Sunday at Lubbock (Hilton hotel) at which time a check-up will be made to determine if all the clubs that participated last season will be back.

He added that if any replacements are necessary, sufficient clubs have made application to insure eight teams.

Attendance in the league was off eight per cent during 1940 in comparison with 1939, Price said.

The Roman Emperor Maximum, a Thracian, was nearly nine feet tall.

Matador Ready For Paducah

(Special To The Avalanche)

LOCKNEY, Nov. 15. — Matador's unbeaten Matador's rolled a step closer to the District 4-A football title this afternoon, winning a touchdown spree from Lockney's Longhorns, 33 to 19.

The victory left the championship to be decided by next Thursday's Paducah-Matador game at Paducah. Each eleven has an unbeaten record, both in and out of conference play, but Paducah has one tie on the conference slate. A clear decision for either team will mean the title, a tie will send the championship to Matador.

Johnny Allsup, who furnishes Matador's backfield speed, and Mutt Berryman, who is responsible for the power in the secondary, ran wild to score six touchdowns between them this afternoon.

Bob Davis, captain and fullback, engineered a Longhorn passing attack that piled up more points than had previously been scored on the Matadors in any single game. Curtis Keily was on the receiving end of most of his tosses.

Lockney led in first downs, 14 to 11.

Littlefield Slaps Muleshoe, 12 To 6

MULESHOE, Nov. 15. (Special) — Littlefield's Wildcats, led by the sparky playing of Babe Hammonds, chalked up a 12 to 6 win over Muleshoe here this afternoon.

Hammons scored both Wildcat touchdowns, both coming as climaxes of sustained downfield drives.

The Muleshoe touchdown was set up by the couple of blocked punts, the second recovered by Muleshoe over the goal line for a touchdown. Jack McNutt blocked it, Hubert Park covered for the score.

For Muleshoe, Cliff Gordon, Marshall Morris, James Warren and Eugene Standefer did outstanding work in the backfield, while McNutt, an end, and Park, a tackle, led the line.

Picadors Roll Up 25-3 Score On Simmons Frosh

By JOE PIERCE
Avalanche Sports Writer

Texas Tech's freshman footballers rounded out a very successful season Friday afternoon with a convincing 25 to 3 triumph over the Hardin-Simmons freshmen.

The Picadors, as classy a gang of first-year men as ever graced the Tech turf, simply outhustled and outfought the visitors. A stout-hearted line held the Little Cowboys to a total running gain of 14 yards and when they turned to passing, crowded the throwers so hard they were rarely able to get off good pitches.

Simmons Punting Good

The Techsans started the scoring midway in the first quarter, recovering a fumble on the HSU 40 and driving to pay from there. On the first play, J. L. Bates pitched to Vernon Ray, good for 36 yards to the six. Bates carried to the one and Marvin McKown hit the middle for the score. Sewalt kicked a perfect placement and Tech led 7 to 0.

The second quarter resolved into a punting duel, with the visitors getting the better of it. C. Haynie, a substitute halfback was the big reason. Two of his boots travelled 78 and 66 yards, the last rolling to a stop on the Tech one. Tech's Jack Everett wasn't far behind, though, and superior running evened things up.

Cowboys Score Field Goal

Near the end of the quarter, the visitors hit a long and lucky pass, Hoss Bledsoe to Charles Nelson, for 65 yards to the 15. After three unsuccessful passes, Bledsoe dropped back and booted a perfect field goal, making the score 7-3 as the half ended.

It was Tech without a break all through the second half. After a couple of kick exchanges, Tech took charge on the 35 and scored from there on straight power with McKown, Everett and J. R. Callahan taking turns carrying. McKown scored from approximately the six-inch line.

Only eight plays later, Tech scored again, Maxey McKnight skipping 36 yards through the middle. Sewalt and Baker missed the two tries for point.

The Cowboy passing attack, operating all-out in a futile attempt to come from behind, back-fired to give Tech the final score. R. Sailors had just completed one from his own end zone for a 20-yard gain. He dropped back to try another and Earl Williams rushed him fast, batted the ball in the air, caught it coming down and trotted 14 yards for the score. Everett missed the point.

The Little Cowboys played listlessly and without fire, not at all as Lubbock fans expect any Hardin-Simmons team to perform. Bledsoe, a fine little back from Seymour, furnished what little spark there was with a fine job of passing and kicking.

For the Picadors, there were any

Group Of American Officials Invited To Mexican Inauguration Ceremonies

LaGuardia And Others Asked

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (U.P.) — The Mexican government today invited a group of American officials, including two cabinet members and Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, to attend the inauguration ceremonies of President-elect Avila Camacho at Mexico City Dec. 1.

The makeup of the group, which was asked to accompany Vice-President-elect Henry A. Wallace to the ceremonies, emphasized Mexican interest in U. S.-Mexican problems of defense, finance and foreign policy which have been discussed by the two countries for some time.

Others Invited

Those invited included Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones, Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary Adolf A. Berle, jr., and Labor Defense Commissioner Cidney Hillman.

It was not known whether Morgenthau and Jones would be able to attend the ceremonies. Welles will be unable to go and it is not certain whether Berle can make it.

The Mexican government also invited Laurence Duggan, political adviser to the secretary of state on Latin American affairs; Maury Maverick, mayor of San Antonio, Texas; Senators Robert F. Wagner of New York, George W. Norris of Nebraska, Sheridan Downey of California, and Charles L. McNary of Oregon; Reps. Sol Bloom of New York, chairman of the House foreign affairs committee and Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts.

May Talk Defense

Col. Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war and legal counsel for the Consolidated Oil company, was invited.

Diplomatic circles here were particularly interested in the invitation to LaGuardia, who heads the joint U. S.-Canadian defense board, and speculated over the possibility that that a similar organization might be set up by this nation and Mexico.

Paris Defeats Sherman, 14-7

PARIS, Nov. 15. (AP)—The Paris Wildcats defeated Sherman's Bearcats 14-7 here tonight in the top schoolboy football game of the week but an upset that tumbled the brilliant Kerrville team from the ranks of the undefeated and untied stole the show.

Paris' victory virtually clinched the District 5 championship and branded the Wildcats as a strong favorite to crash into the state quarter-finals.

Kerrville fell before oft-beaten Laredo 13-0 in a shocking surprise that left the list of undefeated teams standing at ten.

Wichita Takes 2-AA Lead

Temple virtually sewed up honors in District 10 with a 14-0 victory over Corsicana.

Patched-Up Tahoka Team Beats Eagles

TAHOKA, Nov. 15. (Special) — Tahoka's injury-ridden Bulldogs won their second consecutive Conference 5-A game here tonight, defeating the O'Donnell Eagles, 18 to 13.

The game featured the Homecoming celebration of the school, and gave Tahoka the unofficial Lynn county championship.

O'Donnell Scores First

With six of the team riding the bench, a lot of position-shifting was necessary before Coach Leo Jackson got eleven able-bodied players on the field. When finally the team was assembled, Guard Kelly King was at quarterback and Center Jack Swafford at fullback.

O'Donnell started the scoring early in the opening period. The Eagles recovered a Bulldog fumble on the Tahoka 20. On the first play Edward Teeters rifled a 10-yard pass to Tex McLaurin, who chased ten more yards for the touchdown. The point was missed, and O'Donnell led, 6 to 0.

Swafford Intercepts Pass

Tahoka got it back early in the second when Rusty Waldrep scored with a 20-yard shot to Cotton Davis, and went ahead when Waldrep plunged over from the one-yard line a few minutes later.

Tahoka took a commanding lead early in the third period when Swafford intercepted an Eagle aerial and raced it back 35 yards for the final Bulldog score.

A one-yard plunge after a 15-yard penalty added the other O'Donnell score in the fourth period.

favorites, has caught 5 passes for 42 yards, scoring a touchdown against North Carolina university.

The Wake tackles, Pat Preston and Tony Rubino, and the clever center, John Pendergast, along with Paul Dakvers, the other end, and the big guards, Carl Givler and Louis Trunzo, are there with the goods when the goods need delivering.

Both squads worked out yesterday, the Deacons taking the Freshman practice field while the fish themselves were drubbing the Hardin-Simmons university freshmen, and the Tech Red Raiders working out later on the varsity field.

Webster For Dvoracek

All Raider hands seem to be in good shape for the game with the exception of the backfield ace, Charles Dvoracek, who will be sorely missed from this, the outstanding and final game on the Tech schedule.

Dvoracek's place will be taken, at the outset today, by Walter "Jumbo" Webster, the ex-Lubbock High flash who is out to make a collegiate name for himself today and who is man enough to do it when he bows his neck. Waiting for him to weaken will be the slighter but no less ambitious Tom Douglass, whose speed and plunging ability has made him a man to be feared.

Seniors In Final Show

Milton Hill, the speedy right halfback, will be one of the few Tech players making his final appearance as a college player before the home folks today, and he's likely to polish off his Tech career with a burst of sensational playing.

Another player making his final home appearance with the Techs is Rafe Nabors, center, former Lubbock High steady who has held down the regular pivot berth this season.

Other seniors and highly important factors in Tech's lineup this year are Captain Lonnie "Primo" McCurry, guard and line star profundo; Prince Scott and E. J. McKnight, ends, and Bill Brown, alternate quarterback. McCurry is another Lubbock boy, having starred on Westerner teams with Nabors. Scott is from Grapevine, McKnight from Mexia and Brown from Kilgore.

Advance ticket sales indicated the largest college crowd of the season, with hundreds of "homecoming" exes and alumni coming to town as early as Thursday and staying over for the game and ceremonies.

number of stars. Perhaps outstanding during the time he played was Avon Sewalt, the former Lubbock High tackle, who was right in there on practically every play and did a swell job of kicking off and pointbooting. Maxey McKnight, the fiery-haired Littlefield lad, Howard Alford, the All-State back from Lubbock High, Bates and McKown were possibly the best-looking of the backs. In the line, there were Vernon Ray, the stocky end from Hughes Springs, Pat Farris of Lubbock, the Williams brothers, Earl and Albert, of Childress, Center Garland Head . . . The list could go on and on.

Starting lineups: Hardin-Simmons — Roberts and Rucker, ends; Jones and Carzell, tackles; Cox and McPhail, guards; Reeves, center; Bledsoe, Brown, Brian and Nelson, backs.

Tech—Ray and Crossett, ends; Sewalt and A. Williams, tackles; Reed and Farris, guards; Hale, center; Bates, Alford, McKnight and McKown, backs.

Vultee, in a statement, charged that "the local conciliator has been unable to get the union leaders to meet with the committee from the management."

L. H. Michener, region director of the union, said the company was 21-2 hours late yesterday in filing an answer to union demands with a federal conciliator.

Since it did not meet the union demands, Michener added, the company's proposal would not have forestalled a strike order anyway.

Bland Habeas Corpus Case Is Slated Today

A hearing of the habeas corpus application of C. B. Bland, who is serving time in the penitentiary for a swindling by worthless check conviction in 99th district court, will be conducted at 10 o'clock this morning before Judge E. L. Pitts.

Bland, known as "the most persistent prisoner in Texas," claims the original indictment failed to set out a description of merchandise allegedly received by Bland upon his alleged presentation of a worthless check to Hester's Office Supply Co. He contends, too, that an error was committed by the trial court in the way it allowed the sentence to run cumulative with a five-year robbery conviction from another county.

The case of Mack Shipley, charged with robbery, was passed Friday by agreement, when witnesses necessary to the case were not available, Judge Pitts dismissed his jury for the week.

Members will take part in pantomime on household tasks at the next meeting Dec. 12.

The unit will sponsor a program entitled "The Mother of Thanksgiving" next Thursday over KFYO. Miss Florence Stark is directing arrangements.

Welcomed By C. C.

Kirby, girls' physical education instructor at Senior High school, later led the students in square dancing.

Informality was the keynote of the dinner. Students wore cowboy regalia and stood up voluntarily to tell funny stories, during the meal.

The students had heard welcome addresses by Dr. Clifford B. Jones, president of Texas Technological college, and Chas. A. Guy, editor and publisher of the Avalanche-Journal publications, at an afternoon session.

Problems Discussed

Professor Schooley also addressed the students at the afternoon session. His subject was "Common Problems of High School Newspapers and their Solution." Fred Griffin, English instructor, and Wilmot Eaton, press superintendent at the college, spoke to the students. Group meetings were held afterward to discuss problems of high school publications.

Italian air bombardments were reported on scattered points behind the Greek lines, and on British-held towns in East Africa and on the Alexandria naval base. One Italian plane was reported missing.

Hankins Charged

having picked up the two girls in Lubbock. One works for a cafe on Nineteenth street, the other in a cafe on Texas avenue. The drove toward Levelland and, when almost there, pulled into a side road and parked.

One Girl Escaped

Officials said they further were informed by one of the girls that she escaped the car and informed her father and a sister. The relatives got in touch with Sheriff Hofacket, who went to Lubbock in search of the men.

The girl accompanied the sheriff and showed him where Haisell lived, the story continued, and at a service station an attendant gave information regarding Hankins.

The sheriff drove back toward Levelland and found Hankins' car stalled with a flat tire, in Hockley county, Sheriff Hofacket said. He asked where the other girl was and she climbed out of the car and claimed she had been raped, the sheriff said.

Charges were filed by Edgar E. Payne, Hockley county attorney, in the court of W. R. Baker, justice of peace in precinct 1.

Two Counts

The charge against Hankins recited two counts. That by force, threat and fraud the defendant had held carnal communication with a woman not his wife; that that the woman was under the age of 17. The law provides that such relations with a woman under the age of 17 constitutes rape, either with or without her consent. When she is more than 15, however, the defendant has a right to bring up the issue of the girl's character before the date of the offense for which he is on trial.

Vic Lindsey, assistant district attorney, will be in Levelland Saturday to look further into the case.

Hankins was sentenced in a Jan. 29, 1940, judgment.

Tech Homecoming

"Ty" Bain and "Primo" McCurry, and W. L. Stangel, chairman of the athletic council.

James Snyder, president of the student council, presided for the program. The Tech band opened the program with the Red Raider Pisht song and closed with the Matador song.

Despite someone's effort to spoil the bonfire by setting fire to the huge pile of kindling early Friday morning, the stack was brought back to its original height Friday and the event was held as scheduled.

Alumni Make Speeches

The student council made no effort to determine who was responsible for reducing the original pile to ashes. Precautions had been made against early burning of the pile, but the sentries who had been stationed nearby apparently were asleep or absent.

Several alumni were called for impromptu speeches at the bonfire. They included Jason O. Gordon, county agent of Parmer county, Farwell; Bill Collins, president of the Lubbock county chapter of former students, Lubbock; Leon Ince, former president of the student body, Kilgore; George Langford, former football letter man, Lubbock; Senator-elect Marshall Formby, former editor of the Toreador, student newspaper, Dickens, and Arch Lamb, organizer of the Saddle Tramps, cheering unit, Fort Worth. Sid Knowles, one of the first letter men on a Tech football squad, and his wife were present for the rally, but Knowles was absent when called on to speak.

Programs Scheduled

Numerous organizations have scheduled homecoming functions in addition to the general homecoming events sponsored by the Alumni and Ex-Students association.

Wendell Watson, secretary of the association, said Friday night Manuel DeBusk of Dallas had informed him several former students planned to come from Dallas. According to plans of which he was informed recently and which are unchanged so far as Watson knows, 40 to 50 former students plan to come from Amarillo.

Fifty former students representing the Women's Athletic association alone plan to attend the luncheon at 12:30 o'clock in the agricultural grove northwest of the main agricultural building.

To Serve Lunches

Box lunches will be served and some indication of number of boxes necessary is needed, said Watson. He asked that former students buy tickets to the luncheon as soon as possible.

The tickets may be purchased for 50 cents each from the registration desk to be maintained by the Council of Women Graduates from 9 a. M. to 2 p. m. in the east lobby of the administration building.

Tickets also may be obtained for the two dances, $1.10; for the football game for $1.70 or at a 50-cent reduction if the former student has paid dues in the Alumni and Ex-Students association, and for the Texas Tech dinner scheduled for next Friday night in Fort Worth, $1.10.

To Have Shoe Race

Former students and their guests may buy tickets to the downtown dance to be held in Lubbock hotel and be admitted to the dance in the gymnasium with the same tickets, but those buying tickets to the dance on the campus will not be admitted to the downtown dance with the same ticket.

Snyder said approximately 20 floats are expected to be entered in the parade opening at 10:30 o'clock this morning at City hall. The parade will go down Broadway. Prizes will be given to winning floats. Amounts of prizes are to be decided this morning.

A freshman shoe race is scheduled between halves of the football game this afternoon.

Tech's Engineering Alumni Plan Meet

Alumni and ex-students of the engineering division of Texas Technological college are to gather in a homecoming dinner tonight at 7 o'clock in the Chimayo room of the Hilton hotel.

Featuring the dinner will be the introduction of a "give a piece of equipment" campaign for the engineering division and talks to acquaint the ex-students with the pressing needs of the school with regards to equipment.

J. C. Moore, president of the engineering society, will extend a welcome to the ex-students and alumni. Arch King, assistant city engineer of Lubbock, will preside. Garland Nystel of Lubbock will tell of equipment appropriations for the school and W. E. Street will talk on the rating of the Engineering Council for Professional Development.

Jimmie Kerr will then introduce the "give a piece of equipment" campaign after which Dean O. V. Adams will speak briefly.

Oklahoman Held In Forgery

A 22-year-old Oklahoma man late Friday night signed a waiver and said he was willing to go back to Purcell, Okla., and face a forgery complaint, said police early today.

Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police, said he had ordered two men and two women held in connection with possibly other offenses.

Hockley county officials, Sheriff Ed Hofacket and Boyd Latham, his deputy, were here to investigate a report one of the men cashed an $18 check at a store in Levelland before being arrested early Friday night in Lubbock by Walter Wharton and John Truly, prowl car patrolmen.

Youths Detained

With the officials were Jimmie Denton, store owner, and Len Williams, a clerk.

The men bought a tire and a mirrow and received cash for the rest of the check, drawn on a widely-known cattle buyer of this section, officers said. Bank officials were telephoned to go to the station and lend assistance.

The girls said they were 18 years old and live at Vernon. The other man is 24.

Police late Friday detained two boys, about 12 years old, and subjected them to quizzing in regard to several recent burglaries here.

Boys Suspected

Police said they believed the boys were responsible for two breakins at 2015-B Tenth street. A coin bank was missing, possibly other property. The investigation was slowed somewhat because family members at the address had been away from home, it was indicated.

Harry Searcy, 58, a Bryan negro, was held in connection with theft of a pair of trousers from Sears Roebuck and Co. store.

V. S. Stewart of 2809 Nineteenth street reported a radio had been taken from his quarters. A burglary was defined in the method of taking the instrument, said police.

Subfreezing cold gripped the area from the Ohio river valley to northern Florida. New Orleans was one of the few Southern cities to report an above freezing reading, 34.

Atlanta's 20 above clipped a day off the seasonal record. A reading of 20 was taken there on Nov. 16 several years ago. It was 20 also at Birmingham, Meridian, Miss., and Ft. Worth, Memphis had 17.

Warmer Today

The Texas agricultural experiment station at Weslaco reported a low of 30 degrees in the mid-valley area. "Beans are practically gone and all young vegetables definitely injured" was the station's announcement. However, near-mature beets, spinach and carrots were not seriously damaged.

The cold wave sent temperatures down to 28 at Elsa, 26 at Brownsville, 30 at Raymondville and 32 at Mission. The cold snap was accompanied by sunshiny weather, which growers said would add to crop damage.

On the coast early Friday Houston reported frost and a temperature of 29-1-2 degrees, lowest on this date in 24 years.

Rising temperatures were predicted for Texas Saturday.

Columns of refugees, the terror of their experience written on pinched white faces, straggled toward the open countryside, though some were pursauded to return.

In Berlin, the Nazis characterized the raid as "revenge" for the RAF attack on Munich while Adolf Hitler was speaking there Nov. 8. They said 30,000 incendiary bombs and 1,000,000 pounds of high explosives were hurled on Coventry, a city of 190,000, ninety-five miles northwest of London.

The German reported 29 huge fires were raging in the city. A British communique acknowledged serious suffering but called the bombing "indiscriminate," and said military objectives were not badly hit.

How To Handicap Scalpers

HERE'S a chance to help scalp the scalpers.

It's a chance to hit back at some of those selfish schemers who, for the sake of a few dollars personal gain, are willing to give Lubbock a black eye in its effort to serve and prosper as the Hub of the Plains.

It is an opportunity to combat in some degree the resentment and ill will aroused among fans in Lubbock and some of our neighbor towns by certain incidents attending ticket sales to the Lubbock-Amarillo football game.

As yet, it is impossible to count the cost to Lubbock because of ill-will that unquestionably has been stirred among some of our neighbors. But, without question, some are mad as hornets—as mad as were some of the home town fans. Some of those neighbors made special trips to Lubbock on the day announced for the start of the reserved ticket sales. They didn't like it any better than did the fans here when they were told the tickets were gone even bfore they were supposed to go on sale.

Then, to make matters worse, some would-be scalpers got busy. We'll try to suggest how to make those scalpers very unhappy further along in this dissertation.

But first, we want to tell you about a letter to the editor from a prominent business man in one of Lubbock's most important neighbor towns. A lot of fans over the South Plains may feel like he does about the matter.

He was disappointed when he couldn't buy tickets. But he really saw red when a would-be scalper from Lubbock tried to sell him $1 tickets for $2.50 and then brazenly boasted: "You small town guys will be glad to pay $4 or $5 by game time." The letter quoted a man whose tickets were cancelled after the incident by Dr. W. B. Irvin, school superintendent, when the incident was reported to him.

The writer of the letter visits Lubbock frequently. He spends quite a bit of money here. He has accounts in several stores. Now he writes: "Brother, you're off the list"—meaning that Lubbock is off his trading list.

He admits he was angry when he wrote. Fortunately, he isn't a man likely to harbor enduring resentment against an entire city because of one rat-like act. But Lubbock doesn't want good people to feel that way toward us, even for a little while. The incident illustrates the harm that one selfish individual might do to the entire community.

HAPPILY, scalping attempts seem to have been relatively few. But if a scalper should call on you, here is a possible course of action:

Ask to see the tickets. Remember their location. Try to learn the name of the person offering them. Then telephone the information immediately to Dr. W. B. Irvin, No. 1036. He assures that he will make every effort to void them.

Furthermore, school officials are making every effort to insure that this unhappy episode will not be repeated. They give assurance that in the future every person will be given an equal opportunity when tickets are ready for reservation or sale. Nothing more could be asked of them.

Meanwhile, let's all join in the effort to make Lubbock the worst place possible for a scalper to attempt to ply his racket.

With Our Contemporaries

"The best cockle-burr hater that ever lived in this country," Amos Harper recalls in the Seagraves Reporter, "was the late Bill Steel. He carried a hoe in his car and the first sign of spring was a war sign for him. He would stop the car on a tract of land anytime to get to kill a cockle-burr, and he made his living selling land."

* * *

"A resort," believes Jess Mitchell in the Muleshoe Journal, "is a place where the natives get theirs while the getting is good."

"Irrigation is here to stay," Tom Rambo states in the Petersburg Journal. "It will be the making of this rich farming territory into one of the greatest diversified farming centers on the plains."

Chapter 35

The Orchid Door

Temu opened his eyes in the morning to find Lynn sitting beside him and a Mongol guard at the door. Healthy color had returned to his face. His hands and feet were bound.

"I thought it best," she said. He made no remonstrance. A man came in bearing a basin of water and a shaving kit.

"I'll fetch your breakfast," Lynn said and left. His quietness had surprised her. But then, he was always surprising her, and she remembered that acceptance is part of the philosophy of the East.

When she returned, he was standing up, looking ruefully at the bonds on his ankles and wrists.

"Now," he said, "I know how a hobbled horse feels."

"Does that mean you will never hobble a horse again?" she asked.

"It means that I will never get into this kind of a predicament again if I can help it. What are you planning to do with me?"

"Hold you prisoner for a while." She had the guard bring in a camp box for Temu to sit on. She stood at his side and fed him cheese and tea and candied persimmons.

He oit her fingers and they were soon laughing together. "I'm helpless, tell me your plans," he coaxed.

"For one thing, I'm going to Delun."

"So I have always maintained," he jested.

"But I am going of my own free will," she reminded him.

He looked at her with his clear, tea-colored eyes. "So you are, Tara Lynn."

"Chin Pak and I are riding on ahead to find out what luck Dick and the Duke of Sachto have had."

"I hope it's rotten," he grinned.

"Your hopes don't seem to be coming true lately." She sobered. "I'll tell you this—if I have my way your Prince shall not be harmed. Neither shall he be imprisoned. I wonder if he would prefer to live in Paris or America."

Temu spoke sadly. "I surmise he would prefer not to live at all."

With his cheek, he caught her hand against his shoulder in the only caress he was free to give her. "I love to hear you talk, Tara Lynn. I wish I could put my arms around you."

She met his eyes and some imp of perversity prompted her. "I notice," she said, "that you wait till your hands are bound before you make that statement."

Lynn felt the next instant as if she had ignited a powder keg. With one motion Temu rose, burst the bonds on his wrists, took her in his embrace and covered her face with kisses. At first his violence frightened her. Then, when she had ceased resisting him they clung together for a moment, that opened into paradise. She broke away and ran to the door.

"Bind the prisoner's hands," she directed the guard. "He has broken the cords."

She did not go near his tent again. In half an hour she and Chin Pak were on their way. They arrived in Dorchi that night at dusk.

"Do you know the house where my brother and the Duke were to establish headquarters?" she asked Chin Pak.

"I show you," he said.

The town was a great trading station, with a motor road reaching to Delun and caravan trails branching out to Tibet, to India, to Sinkiang, to Russia, and across Gobi to the Pacific ocean. About it were irrigated farms and orchards. The streets of the town hummed with an unusual activity, the hum of holiday or successful revolution.

Chin Pak conducted Lynn to a semi-foreign house inside a walled garden. As Chinese servants met them and bowed her in, he disappeared. She ate dinner alone and felt rather lost. The servants could not talk to her or she to them. She longed for Little Bamboo and Gersing. Presently, walking through the rooms all elaborately furnished, she spied on a massive, rosewood table, a pair of gloves that she had seen Dick wearing. She realized he must have been here recently. A servant brought her a note from Chin Pak.

"We are success as planned. You go palace by morning. Wear Chinese dress. Servants know. I come. Reverence.—Chin Pak."

Lynn interpreted the note as best she could. Tomorrow would tell the tale if she were to have any power against her brother or not. And if not, what a tragedy her coming had brought to Sherdock, to Temu, and the Prince!

Despite firm intentions she woke very late the next morning and was dressed by servants who had feared to disturb her. Donning the Chinese dress was a slow and maddening process. After the bath and the painting and the powdering that made her look like an Oriental doll, they wound her from armpit to hip in bias folds of strong white silk and covered this with a trouser suit of heliotope satin. They drew white socks on her feet and wrapped her ankles in neat spirals of apple-green silk. One dressed her hair in the Chinese fashion while another stood ready with a gown of heavy, yellow satin covered with a long, blue, sleeveless mantle embroidered in gold.

She asked at last distractedly for Chin Pak. He appeared as if he had been waiting long for her summons.

"Are you to go with me to Delun?" she asked.

"Yes, Missie."

"And if I should wish to summon Temu Darin, could you have him brought to the capital swiftly?"

"Yes, Missie. I arrange."

The serving woman bowed and giggled. One laid a white cape on Lynn's shoulders, fixed a lily in her hair, a gold disk on her chin and another between her eyes. Someone placed an apple in her hand.

She went down to the courtyard where a state automobile stood waiting, yellow silk curtains at the windows of the long, cream-colored limousine.

She asked Chin Pak about the apple.

"A lady-in-waiting take it when you pass the orchid door," he explained gravely.

It didn't make sense to Lynn. "Orchid door! To match my pajamas?"

He looked bewildered and Lynn laughed. She knew she was being silly. But all this rowing and ceremony was getting on her nerves. And what was ahead of her? Probably more deadly ceremony. Then a struggle against Dick. Could she curb his greed for gold? Could she do the thing she wished to do?

And she remembered Temu Darin's query. "Can you imagine what it means to be loved by a million people with never a thought of criticism?"

Stange Journey

The recollection thrilled and comforted her. Her chin went up. She put her hand to the charm box at her throat; it had brought her through so far.

She rode along in grandeur on a highway lined with merry-makers the whole length of its sixty miles. There appeared no mourning for sherdock's death or for the Prince's overthrow.

They climbed steadily towards the mountains. The climate and the scenery changed. Yet, under it all, she felt a strange depression as if, against all logic, something told her she had done wrong in opposing her will to Temu's.

As they approached the capital city, the road cut across a wide plain dotted with countless Mongol tents. At the gate-tower the driver slowed the car to a crawl. Firecrackers exploded. Confusian music wailed and keened. Sturdy Mongols cracked their voices hailing the approach of the Goddess.

Footmen opened the car door. A tall Chinese lady with two remarkably long fingernails on her left hand greeted Lynn.

"The Princess Mother. How does she feel about this?" wondered Lynn. The woman's eyes met hers searchingly.

The Princess Mother conducted her down the long reception room to a passage where a lady-in-waiting took the apple which Lynn had carried so faithfully.

"The orchid door, whatever that means," thought Lynn, overcome for the moment by an apprehensive excitement, half pain, half pleasure. She stepped inside and stood alone trembling in a cool, dim, incense-filled room.

Somewhere a rich voice chanted the low haunting melody of an ancient song. An orchestra of violins and great guitars, played in the courtyard below the windows. As the music died, she heard the rustle of silk and through the shadows of the room, she saw a tall form garbed in a Chinese costume of rich dark silk come towards her with the stride of a man.

"Temu!" she gasped, and warm blood leaped to her face.

He bowed, his eyes blank, inscrutable, recalling to her mind that first encounter with him in the house in Pai Shu where a sense of his strange, personal power had so disturbed her.

"Chin Pak said you would be wanting me."

"But not now!" she cried. "Later, after I have seen Dick and know where I stand."

"I know where you stand. The power here is yours, not your brother's."

"Then Chin Pak has not betrayed us?"

"Chin Pak is faithful to his gods." He stepped closer. "You have made the Princess Mother very happy by coming in Chinese garb." He scrutinized her face, her hands, her hair, her tall and graceful form. Though puzzled, she stood proudly before him.

"Do I pass inspection?" she asked ironically.

"The Princess will be pleased. I am sure."

She turned on him swiftly. "What do you mean?"

"There was no revolution. Lynn. Your brother is on his way to Russia under guard. When he and the Duke of Sachto arrived at Dorchi they were captured and dispatched to the north."

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE deaths of Key Pittman and William Edgar Borah—and the enfeeblement of several Senate associates—symbolize the passing of an era in American politics. The mortality on Capitol Hill reveals strikingly how new faces and issues now occupy the public stage. There was more than campaign humor in the Willkie slogan that "American political life begins in 1940."

Because of age and the swift rush of events it is probable that many famous political veterans have fought their last major battle — Roosevelt, Hoover, Smith, Hiram Johnson, George Norris, Carter Glass, John Garner. On both sides new and younger men are coming up—Willkie, Lodge, Danaher, Burton of Ohio, Lee of Oklahoma, Green and Lucas of Illinois, Bricker, Saltonstall. The substitution means more than the arrival of a new cast of actors. The older men represented an age when the dominant problems were the tariff, gold-versus-silver, continental expansion. They were "rugged individualists." The newcomers entered public life after the World war and world depression created strange issues—social security, federalization, guarantees to labor, drastic regulation of all forms of human activity.

The transformation is most vividly reflected in the personalities of Vice President-Elect Wallace and House Speaker Rayburn. On the rostrum once occupied by Coolidge, Dawes and Garner will sit the head AAA-er, Sam Rayburn, author of the Holding and the Securities acts, supplants old-fashioned conservatives like Bankhead, Byrnes, Rainey and Longworth. Today's generation of rulers are a different breed from Key Pittman, who once clawed for Klondike gold with his fingers and didn't know where his next meal was coming from!

CUT: The American motion picture industry is a major victim of the war involving half the world. It has lost 75 per cent of a foreign business once estimated at $300,000,000 a year.

No new pictures are being exported to Hitler-held countries, and Der Fuehrer has confiscated the films previously shipped to European centers. He permits them to be shown, but no revenue accrues to American producers from this source. He has buried thousands of feet of costly film assailing him and his regime. The British blackout system—and the demoralization in the Orient—has reduced these markets. And London allows only a small percentage of funds to be shipped here in payment for movies she buys, despite Ambassador Kennedy's good offices.

Almost the only markets open are Canada, Australia, South Africa, South America and—until lately—the Balkans. And none of these portions of the earth are very productive, due to inadequate theaters and limited audiences. So "C'est la guerre" has become a popular—or unpopular—slogan in Hollywood.

HOWLS: The industry is also suffering on the home front from Thurman Arnold's anti-trust attacks. His consent decree scheduled for submission to a New York court yesterday may cramp Hollywood's style further. It appears to satisfy nobody in the business.

The government action was originally inspired by independent exhibitors. They beefed mainly against (1) movie producers' ownership of and favoritism to theaters and (2) the system of blind block booking. Under the plan devised by Mr. Arnold producers may still control outlets, though they cannot expand their holdings for three years. Instead of forcing local theater owners to buy, willy-nilly, a batch of good and second-rate pictures, the producers may sell five at a time to their customers. Moreover, the pictures offered must be in actual production, and not merely a vague idea in some Hollywoodish imagination.

The exhibitors who started the original suit are rebellious against this kind of settlement. They insist that it legalizes the monopoly they want to smash. Producers maintain it will result in poorer pictures or increased charges at the box office. It may hit the pocketbooks of the 85,000,000 Americans who pack 17,000 movie houses every week in the year.

INTENT: As a third-term President, Mr. Roosevelt has the best chance of recent Chief Executives to inaugurate a government career system. It is a project in which he has always shown deep concern.

FDR's opportunity lies in the fact that he has overhauled federal personnel almost completely in eight years. In his third term he will make even more changes. His appointees have gained experience in handling new problems, and it would be difficult for any successor to replace them. Government operations would be at a standstill for months during the training of officials named under the old spoils system. Inside and outside Congress there is general realization of this stubborn fact. For that reason the usual political opposition to blanketing employes under Civil Service will not be voiced.

The Ramspeck bill gives the President authority to carry out this reform. It is now jammed in a House-Senate conference row, but a Presidential push will prod it loose. Mr. Roosevelt has told Congressional leaders to compose their minor differences, and they will—either at this or the next session.

NEW YORK
By Richard Waldo

TAX laws need not necessarily be high or confiscatory to reproduce here the tax muddle which has become common to all Europe's dictatorships. New York bankers see signs that the Morgenthau plan for taxing all future issues of government bonds, while retaining the exemption on currently outstanding issues, is just such a duplication, intended or not.

There is no tendency to criticize Secretary Morgenthau, nor any denial that the money has to be raised and that an assessment on government paper will swell the total. It is simply pointed out that the need of meeting an old 45 billions debt, plus a new 20 billions arms installment, plus an estimated 25 billions more before the country is ready, mean the same frantic clawing for new and discriminatory schemes that have replaced equitable taxation abroad. A few parallels out of many show the drift.

EXAMPLES: First in Italy, later in Germany and Spain, the authoritarian governments discovered that investment capital would hibernate until smoked out. To encourage real estate building, Mussolini pioneered and Germany and Spain emulated, the system of declaring tax exempt in perpetuity any building completed within a specified twelvemonth. Housing would be mushroom during the tax-free period with the result that the next year's builders were embittered by reimposition of building taxes.

The system was elaborated by the finance ministers for all Europe's assorted Toto treasuries. To favor a bond issue, subscribers of the first two-thirds of the flotation received a tax exemption premium, while later, forced buyers were saddled with the normal tax levy. France and Spain thought up other refinements, in turn copied by Il Duce. Where an industrial area was underbuilt, a slum area in need of an overhaul, a suburban or agricultural district in need of building up, the usual tax exemptions—always in perpetuity—brought investment money out of hiding. As applied to real estate, securities, government bonds and industrial enterprise the result today is a taxation crazy quilt in which two individuals in identical circumstances seldom pay the same tax. The fiscal policy of Europe's dictatorships can be summarized as a series of arbitrary short-term schemes, which boil down in the end to a lottery.

Unavoidably the proposed tax measures, recently announced in Washington foreshadow the same patchwork. Even before new government issues are taxed the value of tax exempts will go up with resultant hoarding by fortunate owners. With respect to government built and privately operated government factories, the same tax exemption discriminates against the plant owners who carry their own capitalization. The Excess Profits law repeats the same discriminations which the harassed totalitarians adopted out of expediency.

Here And There In Texas

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
Associated Press Staff Writer

GALVESTON'S Goliad school just isn't the same any more.

For J. H. Pendley, teacher for 55 years, and Galveston's Mr. Chips—has retired.

The kids miss his friendly greetings, his kindly tolerance, the way his mustache spreads when he smiles.

They haven't forgotten him. They write him letters and drop in to visit him at his home a few blocks away from the schoolhouse.

Pendley watches like a proud parent as the tots scramble over his yard, swinging, shouting, playing.

He sighs and wishes he were back at his place in Goliad school.

Pendley taught on the same spot and in the same institution 52 years—a record believed unequalled in American educational annals.

He Keeps Busy.

Through lean years and full, through historic periods of American life — Reconstruction days, tribulation and prosperity, war and the threat of war, the great Galveston hurricane.—Pendley drilled his children in the three R's.

The venerable 88-year-old educator was retired after the 1939-40 scholastic year.

Despite his age and the growing dimness of his sight, Pendley is too healthy, too alert, too industrious to remain idle. He passes the time with his hobby of carpentering, building desks and household furniture.

Occasionally he visits the school, wandering into classrooms to say hello to his beloved boys and girls.

PENDLEY was graduated with honors—"because I was so good-looking, I guess" — from Peabody Normal college in Nashville, Tenn., in 1882, and came to Texas with a fellow student, E. G. Littlejohn.

They taugh a year in Jacksonville and then came to Galveston, "because we had never seen the water," and entered the school system.

Littlejohn compiled a record almost equal to that of his dear friend Pendley.

He died five years ago after 52 years of teaching here, but not before the high spot in the lives of both men—a great civic "blowout" as Pendley expressed it, on the 50th anniversary of their entrance into the Galveston school system.

Calls Modern Life "Soft"

Pendley served as superintendent of county schools for a period, but in those days the position was not a full-time job, and he never relinquished his post at Goliad school.

As superintendent, he used to peddle his bicycle across a long wooden bridge over the bay to inspect the mainland schools. When the going was slushy, he got off and pushed.

As he compared the present with the past, Pendley said he believed a weakness of modern life was its tendency toward softness.

"It's a pity a boy can't have two or three years on the farm," he said. "I lived on a farm in Alabama as a boy, when going to school was a privilege allowed only in the summer months, after we had laid away the crops.

"It was root hog or die with us, and we learned self-control, self-reliance and thrift.

"Nowadays many students have to be carried to school in automobiles although they may live only a few blocks away."

THE MODERN educational system is far superior to the old in many respects, Pendley said, but he believed the money spent on buildings and equipment was too high in proportion to teacher's salaries.

Pendley is retired without a pension. The state teachers retirement fund plan was inaugurated several years ago but thus far the legislature has not raised the money with which to match the teachers' contributions.

Pendley feels pretty strongly about this.

"There is no way on scaring up that money," he said, "without having people go into their jeans and pay it in taxes."

Has No Regrets.

On the occasion of his retirement, Pendley wrote a personal letter to relatives in Oneonta, Ala., his native home. He had not intended it for publication, but it appeared to be such a fine summary of his character, his relatives delivered it to the hometown paper.

An excerpt read:

"This has been my life work, and to it I have given heart and soul for more than half a century. I see where I have made many mistakes and fallen short of what I might have done, but on the whole, I am satisfied, and cherish no regrets, and hold no resentment toward anyone.

"On the contrary, I see where I have a great cause to be thankful to the Hand that has guided me thus far on the tempestous sea of life, and whom I shall trust to see me safely anchored on the other shore."

GENERAL Ramon Galavis, owner of an Argentine ranch of more than a million acres, inspected the King ranch near Kingsville, recently as a guest of Robert J. Kleberg, jr. He was especially interested in the Santa Gertrudis beef cattle.

Under the leadership of a girl of 17, a gang of boys raided 87 gas meters in vacant houses in London and stole the contents.

Stephen Foster Is Honored

By TOM WIANT
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 — A song writer who died penniless, obscure and broken in spirit at the age of 38 has just been elected to the Hall of Fame.

A commemorative tablet and bust honoring his memory will be placed among those of 72 other great Americans next spring.

The name on it will be "Stephen Collins Foster."

He is the first musician ever named one of America's immortals.

Wrote Ballsy Tunes.

He wrote down-to-earth, folksy easy-to-sing songs. He wrote them to pay the rent, to buy a few meals. And for most of them, he got only a few dollars each.

They were never-to-be-forgotten songs. Such as "Old Black Joe," "Old Folks at Home," "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair," "My Old Kentucky Home," "O Susanna," and "Massa's In De Cold Cold Ground."

At the age of 14, he wrote "Tioga Waltz." From then until his death in New York City Jan. 13, 1864, he turned out more than 200 songs, a dozen instrumental compositions and several musical arrangements.

Last night, Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, chancellor of New York university and director pro tem of the Hall of Fame, announced that Foster was the only one of 141 nominated candidates to receive the required three-fifths vote of the 110 distinguished Americans who comprise the college of electors. It was the first time since the founding of the Hall of Fame in 1900, that only one nominee was selected.

Foster's closest competitors were Walter Reed, scientist; Sidney Lanier, poet; Henry David Thoreau, author, and Booker T. Washington, negro educator.

The song writer who died thinking he was a failure received 86 votes.

The Falkland Islands contributed $4,500 to the British Red Cross.

LOSSES ARE GENERAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Pressure on steels was communicated to other departments in today's stock market and leaders generally turned in losses of fractions to more than a few points. There were isolated declines of 4 or so.

The list was no more than irregular until shortly after mid-day, when selling became somewhat insistent. Prices touched lows of the day in the final hour.

Dealings topped the million-dollar mark for the ninth consecutive session. Transfers totaled 1,050,090 shares. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 4 of a point at 43.7, the fourth day in a row wherein the composite has been unable to register progress.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Steel, Crucible and Republic were soft throughout.

In arrears were General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, du Pont, Westinghouse, American Can, Anaconda, Kennecott, Consolidated Edison, Western Union, North American, Sears Roebuck and Great Northern.

Up moderately were U. S. Rubber preferred, Worthington Pump, Zenith Radio and Texas Corp.

Setbacks of as much as 2 in the curb were posted for Aluminum of America, Bell Aircraft, American Cyanamid B, Reagan Aero, Electric Bond and Share, Glen Alden Coal and N. J. Zinc. Modest advances were retained by Celluloid, Gulf Oil and Carrier Corp. Sales here were around 172,000 shares against 241,000 yesterday.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Cotton futures shot up 12 to 18 points today to the highest levels since last May. All deliveries, except July and October crossed the 10-cents a pound line.

Vigorous demand came from trade interests, Bombay and Wall street but brokers said an equally important factor was comparatively limited hedging pressure from the South.

Back of the buying, dealers said, was the expectation a shortage of supplies of free cotton might develop. Large amounts of the staple have gone into the government loan.

Worth street textile agents reported moderate business in heavy goods but only light interest in prints and broadcloths.

Exports Thursday 4,600 bales; season so far 418,144. Port receipts 62,348. Port stocks 3,140,342.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15 (AP)—The average price of middling 15/16ths-inch cotton today at ten designated southern spot markets was 11 points higher at 9.75 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 9.41 cents; middling 15/16-inch average 9.94 cents a pound.

Liquor Control Board Will Observe Its 5th Birthday Today; Revenues Are Surveyed

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—In preparation for its fifth birthday tomorrow, the Texas Liquor Control board surveyed its ledgers today and found receipts and revenues since 1935 amounted to $33,031,933.

Allocation of the income included $21,923,783 to old age assistance, $6,283,903 to the available school fund and $372,508 to the state's general fund.

Administrator Bert Ford said that although enforcement was begun at the board's birth the "wide open" era did not end until 1937 when continuous inspection—popularly called "sit-down" operations—brought an end to flagrant violations of sale-by-drink prohibitions.

Authority Used

Inspectors, operating individually and in cooperation with local officers, filed 20,644 complaints in five years, resulting in 19,769 convictions with 1,734 jail sentences. Total assessment in fines was $984,709 which went to counties in which convictions were obtained.

In 1938 the board used a newly granted authority to suspend licenses after dealers were warned to clean up or get out and, Ford said, 2,311 suspensions and 2,817 cancellations have since been ordered. The board conducted 10,326 hearings on complaints seeking suspensions and revocations.

Only once in history has the civilian population not been concerned with war. The army of Carthage from 264-202 B. C., was made up entirely of soldiers of fortune.

German-American Bund Leader On Bond

NEWTON, N. J., Nov. 15. (AP) — Wilhelm Kunze, national leader of the German American bund, was released in $1,000 bail today after he pleaded innocent before Sussex County Judge John C. Losey to an indictment charging him with "promoting race hatred" against Jews.

Kunze was indicted with nine other bund members and associates who pleaded innocence when arraigned October 18. The national leader's arraignment was deferred because Kunze was in California.

Kunze was indicted for having permitted the speeches to be made at the bund's Camp Nordland at Andover.

Total Of 20,468 Still Needed

Today is the final day of the West Texas museum "Give a Brick" campaign.

Before the campaign can be brought to successful close, however, 20,468 bricks must be donated.

The town of Ralls did its share toward reaching the goal of 230,000 bricks Friday when it submitted a check covering cost of 1,000 bricks. And three Seagraves citizens added 600 bricks late Friday afternoon. In addition, several individuals made donations Friday.

Check Delivered

J. Edd McLaughlin of Ralls brought a check for $27 to R. F. Hinchey, general chairman of the brick campaign. The check represented these donations: McLaughlin, 500 bricks; Will Marr, 100; Higginbotham-Bartlett, 100; L. D. Moore, W. C. Snow, Harrison Watson, A. L. Winfrey, Jarl Hyatt and L. D. Moss, 40 each, E. E. Hancock, and W. R. Derr, 20 each; and W. P. McKee, 100.

Ralph V. Oberholtzer, M. Woodson Jones and Cliff M. Armstrong of Seagraves each donated 200 bricks, which were delivered to the museum site.

The campaign committee is making every effort to obtain enough donations to reach the goal today. Request was made that persons with contributions take them to the office of J. Doyle Settle, secretary of the museum association, in 109 administration building, give them to a member of the campaign committee, or mail donations to Settle.

Numerous former students returning for homecoming are expected to contribute bricks today.

Former Attorney Of Galveston Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 15. (AP) — John William Campbell, 74, a former Galveston attorney, died in a hospital here early today.

A Native of Texas, he had lived in San Antonio for a year and a half.

Surviving are two sons, Col. W. N. Campbell of Kennebunk Point, Maine, and Mark a. Campbell of Cincinnati, O.; two sisters, Misses Mary C. and Nancy W. Campbell both of San Antonio, and a brother, Samuel W. Campbell of White Plain, N. Y.

The body will be sent to Galveston tomorrow for funeral services and burial.

Investigation Asked Of Kansas Election

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 15. (AP)—The close and as yet undecided race for Kansas governor brought an appeal today to the United States attorney general for an immediate investigation.

Charles E. Young, Democratic chairman, telegraphed the attorney general, Robert Jackson, charging "the election laws are being flagrantly violated" in the counting of the vote in Shawnee county, where Topeka is located.

With the out-state absentee ballot counted, the Republican incumbent, Payne Ratner, is trailing William H. Burke, Democrat by less than 1,000 votes.

Shawnee county is the last county in Kansas to report both its in-state absentee vote and its official canvass of the entire vote in the hotly contested governorship battle.

Governor Ratner picked up 62 votes on the basis of incomplete returns from the Shawnee in-state tally today and trailed his Democratic opponent, William H. Burke, by only 1738 on the total state vote with only Shawnee unofficial and incomplete.

Comfort For Seasick Offered By Inventors

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP) — Comfort for landlubbers who get seasick was offered today by the inventors of "cinema integraph."

The device calculates the pitching and heaving of a ship in a rolling sea and reduces them to formulae by which vessels may be designed to virtually eliminate the gyrations that make passengers seasick.

The "cinema integraph" was described before the 48th annual meeting of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers by Prof. H. L. Hazen, of the department of electrical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and P. T. Nims of the American Bosch corporation of Springfield, Mass.

New Heads Chosen By Peace Officers

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (UP) — Texas sheriffs, police officers, rangers and highway patrolmen attending the third peace officers training class at Camp Mabry today elected for class president a district attorney.

The president is R. M. Briggs of Silsbee, Tex., one of the few non-officers who has attended the schools.

Other class officials are: Ed McDonald, Wichita Falls, 1st vice-president; Clint Lewis, jr., Caldwell, 2nd vice-president; Jess Carlurer and H. H. Boethel, Houston, sergeant-at-arms.

A banquet tomorrow will close the training school.

New President Of Oklahoma U. Named

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 15. (UP) — Joseph A. Brandt, director of the Princeton University Press, today was appointed president of the University of Oklahoma succeeding Dr. William B. Bizzell.

The appointment was announced by Lloyd Noble, president of the university's board of regents, following a session of the governing body.

Noble said Brandt had immediately accepted the offer to head the school from which he had been graduated and where he headed the university press for 10 years.

Two Are Killed When Bus, Train Collide

TYLER, Nov. 15. (AP)—A father and son were killed today when a bus en route to pick up pupils for the Union Grove school was in collision with a Cotton Belt passenger train near Smith's Switch, 10 miles south of Gilmer.

Dead were Clyde Richardson, 32, and his son, Joe Lynn, six. The boy died instantly and his father died three hours after the crash in a Pittsburgh hospital.

They resided in the Pine community, Upshur county.
