City water customers encouraged to take precautions for winter

By THOMAS JENKINS
Staff Writer

With freezing weather forecasted in the evenings for the next few weeks, officials with the city of Big Spring Water Distribution and Collections Department are urging local water customers to take precautions.

"We're really hoping people will take proper precautions as the temperature drops," said Rick Boiles. "That means leaving your hot and cold water dripping just enough to keep the pipes from freezing, as well as insulating any exterior pipes or fixtures."

"We also suggest people take old newspaper or towels and stuff them in their meter boxes to help keep them from freezing."

Boiles

The boxes are underground, but they still sit in a void, so they are susceptible to the freezing temperatures and could burst."

Boiles said area residents should also remember to insulate any sewer lines that are above ground or not buried at a safe depth, which would be 12 inches to 18 inches.

"If people don't take precautions, I expect we'll be handling quite a few emergency water cut-offs," said Boiles.

Boiles said freezing temperatures can also cause numerous breaks in the city's main water lines — deemed "Code Blue" by Boiles and his crews — something he's hoping to avoid during the current cold snap.

"We're really not expecting that many main breaks due to the cold weather," said

For the 20th year, Nazarene church to present dramatic, colorful drive through nativity

By BILL MCCLELLAN
News Editor

Anyone in search of the true meaning of Christmas can find it in a parking lot in Big Spring.

Each year, the First Church of the Nazarene transforms a simple asphalt-covered patch of ground into one of West Texas' most colorful and dramatic displays — a drive-through nativity depicting the life of Christ.

"It really is quite an extensive gift from our church to the community that tells the entire story of Christ's life, from prophecies foretold, to his birth, to his growth, to adulthood, to his mission becoming savior to the world, his sacrifice on the cross and his resurrection and ascension into heaven," said Senior Pastor Byron Brown. "It tells the story very dramatically."

Entering its 20th season, the Drive-Through Nativity is a tradition that draws spectators from a wide area.

"We have people call in from out of state who want to know when we are putting it on," said Brown.

Reenactments this year are from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Dec. 8-10.

Each season, several thousand people will view the highly detailed scenes with a cast of more than 130 — not including the live animals.

The First Church of the Nazarene Drive Through Nativity is a large undertaking that requires about 150 people each night to portray the various characters.

"A lot of our community people do request to be a part of it and we welcome their participation," said Senior Pastor Byron Brown.

The production is from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. Dec. 8-10. Members of the cast arrive about 5:30 p.m. for makeup and costuming. Meals are served at the church for those involved.

Participants are rotated in and out every half-hour to hour, largely depending on the weather.

Man, Woman of Year

Chamber accepting nominations

By BILL MCCLELLAN
News Editor

OK volunteers and community leaders, who among you has gone above and beyond in helping make your community a better, more interesting place to live?

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce is accepting nominations for Man and Woman of the Year. The winners will be announced at the Chamber's annual banquet, scheduled for Jan. 18, 2007.

"We are encouraging nominations right now," said DeWayne Valverde, the Chamber's executive director. "We're looking for people who have, either behind the scenes or otherwise, made a difference in our community without expecting any recognition in return."

There's just one catch in the process. Those who nominate someone must be members of the Chamber. Nominees do not have to be chamber members, however. So if you know of a deserving man or woman and you are not a member of the Chamber, you should consider suggesting that person to a Chamber member. Or, of course, you can always join the Chamber.

Here are some other guidelines, as set out by the selection committee.

- The selection will be made on the basis of all-around contributions to the community, not just for extraordinary performance in the individual's business or employment. The nominee should have a consistent track record of accomplishments rather than being honored for a single act of merit; although a single contribution or achievement is not ruled out if it is of sufficient importance.

- The term "community" as used above should be taken to related to the "area" served by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

- Those currently holding a political office should not be eligible for nomination.

Applications are available at the Chamber, 215 W. Third, or by calling Valverde at 263-7641. The application deadline is Dec. 18.

Tennessee judge considers Texan's latest attempt to drop appeals

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A judge is studying the latest effort by condemned killer Paul Dennis Reid to drop his appeals and be executed.

Reid, formerly of the Fort Worth, Texas suburb of Richland Hills, terrorized the Nashville area in 1997 and was later convicted of three incidents of multiple murder covering a three-month period. He received seven death sentences for the string of slayings at fast-food restaurants in Nashville and Clarksville.

Reid had paroled in 1990 in Texas after serving seven years of a 20-year sentence for aggravated armed robbery at a steakhouse in the Houston area.

At the height of the Tennessee rampage, fast food restaurants closed early out of fear for their employees, or were forced to close at night because they could not find workers willing to risk their safety.

Reid answered questions Friday in Criminal Court Judge Cheryl Blackburn's courtroom about why he wants to withdraw a petition, which would essentially end the appeals process in two of the execution-style slayings.

"I don't believe there's anything that could entertain me to, to continue forward. I'm just totally exhausted over this," Reid told Blackburn. "I'm a Christian, and I believe I'll go to heaven by my spiritual beliefs."

The judge took Friday's testimony under advisement. She can either grant Reid's wish allowing a new execution date or she can order another hearing to see if Reid is competent to make decisions on his own.

In July, he was within a day of execution when he won a stay over his competency. In 2003 he came within hours of execution before he was talked into resuming his appeals and got a stay.

A drifter who moved from Texas to Nashville to attempt a career in country music, Reid was fired as a dishwasher from a Shoney's restaurant Feb. 15, 1997, for losing his temper and throwing a plate that hit another worker.

The next day, Sarah Jackson, 16, and Steve Hampton, 25, were slain execution-style at a Captain D's restaurant.

In March 1997, Ronald Santiago, 27; Robert A. Sewell

Jr., 23; and Andrea Brown, 17, were shot and killed in a mid-night robbery at a McDonald's a few miles from the Captain D's.

A month later, Angela Holmes, 21, and Michelle Mace, 16, were kidnapped in a robbery at a Baskin-Robbins ice cream store in Clarksville. Their throats were slashed and their bodies were dumped at Dunbar Cave State Natural Area.

Reid was arrested in June 1997 and linked to the murders after attempting to kidnap and kill the Shoney's manager who fired him.

sented with a cassette tape or compact disk which they can play in their car stereo. There they will hear the story of each scene.

There is no admission fee. For those who wish to donate and help enable the tradition to continue, there is an opportunity to make a financial contribution at the exit.

Brown said the Drive-Through Nativity has touched many people.

"It is a wonderful dramatization of the life of Christ, one that really presents a message of hope in a hopeless word," he said.

"We had a couple of e-mails at the close of last year's drive-through nativity from a couple who were just passing through on their way back to Lubbock. They were having problems in their marriage but they decided to stop here and went through the presentation. They said their lives had been so impacted they had decided to put their marriage back together, get back in church and work for the Lord," said Brown. "That is very powerful."

Boiles. "As long as the temperature warms up gradually, we should be OK. However, if the warmer weather comes back quicker than we're expecting, we could certainly see a lot of main breaks in the city."

And while the final outcome of the city's Water D&C "Code Blue" is ultimately up to Mother Nature, Boiles said he and his repair crews do have something else working in their favor.

"We've seen a pretty drastic reduction in the number of main breaks, even during Code Blue, thanks to the water line replacement program we've been working with over the years," said Boiles. "The newer pipes aren't as susceptible to the weather changes, among other things. However it goes, we'll be ready."

OUR VIEWS

Contest a good reason for us all to be decorating

Big Spring decorates during the holiday season, doesn't it? Well maybe not everyone, but a great many take part. And if anyone in our community needed incentive to join in and decorate their home or business this holiday season, it has now been provided.

Boasting the Festival of Lights, the Big Spring VA Medical Center's outdoor display, and the brightly colored poinsettias adorning the Comanche Trail Park, Scenic Mountain and countless homes and businesses, Howard County is well known throughout West Texas as a good place to view Christmas lights.

That's why it only makes sense that we all take part in the annual Christmas Decorating Contest.

Sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Big Spring Herald, Big Spring Home & Garden Club, Johansen's Nursery and KBST/KBTS, the contest has three categories: Residential, commercial and non-judged.

Best of all, it's free. That's right, there is no entry fee.

But you do need to act quickly.

Entries are due by noon, Friday Judging will be held Monday, Dec. 11.

There's only one major change to this year's event. Debbye ValVerde, the Chamber's executive director, says there will be no inside judging this season. "It has to be outside lights or a window display, but nothing inside. That was a request from the judges," ValVerde explained.

Those wishing to participate can obtain an entry form at the Chamber, 215 W. Third St. Or more information, call the Chamber at 263-7641.

Residential entries can choose between religious, lights only, original homemade and "other" categories. Commercial entries can pick either show windows only or lights only. Non-judged entries can be residential or commercial.

"Once again, we will have a list of everyone who enters and will compile that for the public so that they can drive by and see the lights," said ValVerde. "So, if you don't want to enter as a competitor but would like to let others know about your lighting display, enter the non-judged division and we'll all know where you are."

We hope that everyone will enter. As is the case with the annual Community Christmas Parade, we here at the Herald want the entire community to get involved.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

If we will regroup and use the skills that You have given us, Lord, we can easily come up with solutions.

Amen

Keeping a jaundiced eye wide open

Let me start by saying I am not a doomsayer. Old man Webster defines doomsayer as one given to forebodings and predictions of impending calamity, and that doesn't describe me or my feelings toward recent efforts to revitalize Big Spring's historic downtown.

I am, however, a true, to-the-bone — and quite possibly eternal — cynic.

Webster was a little kinder with his definition of the cynic, labeling us as those who believe that human conduct is motivated wholly by self-interest.

Don't get me wrong, because I see that theory slam dunked in the wastebasket on a daily basis by people like Salvation Army Capt. Russ and Linda Keeney, volunteers with Isaiah 58 and the local Victim Services administration. In other words, I've been wrong on more than one occasion.

On the other hand, being a cynic has made my life safer from frauds hocking their wobbly wares on late night television (how many times have you used that rotisserie or juicer you bought?) and the Internet, and if those crazy people in Nigeria think I'm sending them my bank account number they're crazier than I give them credit for.

And with the impending purchase — and renovations — of the Settles Hotel on the horizon, the little cynical hairs on the back of my neck have most certainly perked up to see just what all the hoopla is about.

For those new to the issue, here's the deal.

Dallas-based Settles Hotel Development Company — fronted by Big Spring native G. Brint

Ryan — has agreed to purchase the pride of Big Spring's skyline, the Settles Hotel, from the city of Big Spring for $75,000. The deal is expected to become final sometime this month.

According to information released by Ryan, he plans to renovate the structure into a mixed use commercial and residential complex, a fancy way of saying they want to put businesses like restaurants and retail shops on the first two floors, and turn the higher floors — there's 15 of them — into residential space.

Information released by the board of directors for Moore Development has the total price tag for the project coming in around $10 million to $12 million, with the project taking approximately 18 months to complete.

According to Moore Board President Larry McLellan, Ryan is asking the economic development agency to front up to $3 million for the project, with the remainder of the cash coming from his company and government historic preservation funding.

Sounds great, doesn't it? I can close my eyes and see Ryan snipping the red ribbon in front of the landmark hotel, beginning a new era of prosperity — and interest — in the downtown area.

What can possibly go wrong? Does the phrase "once bitten, twice shy" mean anything to you? Big Spring has been down this path before. Ryan isn't the first investor to ride into Big Spring on a white horse with plans to refurbish the Settles to its original glory.

It wasn't too long ago Evos Homes — another multi-million dollar corporation — brought the exact same idea to the city council before making a break for the door and ditching the plan altogether.

And I'm not even going into the number of owners that have put their Hancock on the deed of the Settles, concerned more with the price of recycled copper pipe and wiring than any kind of effort to renovate.

I'm not saying Mr. Ryan doesn't have the purest of intentions, and the idea that his dream could become a reality brings a smile to my face. A big smile.

However, the cynic in me is jumping up and down and screaming the same two words I say to my daughter before she gets on her powerwheel motorcycle — be careful!

I hope I'm wrong when I think 18 months isn't long enough the renovate half of the Settles, much less have the entire building ready to open its doors to the public.

I hope I'm wrong when I think the pricetag on this project seems insanely low. Can it possibly cost the same to totally renovate the Settles as it would to build a new county jail?

In the end, I sincerely hope our city government leaders — from the city council to Moore Development — keep their blinders off and remember just how wrong these things can go.

I could most certainly be mistaking enthusiasm for blind allegiance. Like I said, I've been wrong before.

Like Frank Parker, a member of the Moore Board, said during a recent meeting, we need to take this matter one step at a time.

Our government officials need to be sure they are investing $3 million of our taxpayers' money in a project that's going to pay off and benefit Big Spring.

I've got my fingers crossed. How about you?

Feeding pythons and staying calm

Random thoughts while bundling up. And the first of those thoughts goes something like this: It's not easy being a python.

Then again, it's not easy feeding a python, as the following attests:

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A police officer used a Taser to subdue a python that had wrapped itself around a man's arm and would not let go.

Steve Crilly, 47, was feeding a rat to the eight-foot-long albino Burmese python, which belongs to his daughter, when it bit his left hand and wrapped tightly around his left arm Wednesday night, Uniontown patrolman Ray Miller said.

"The snake was on his arm and was eating his hand," Miller told the Herald-Standard of Uniontown for Friday's editions.

Crilly "was very calm, considering there was a good bit of blood," he said.

In an effort to free the man without permanently harming the snake, Miller said he shot the animal with his Taser, a gun that sends an electric shock through wires attached. The snake immediately went limp and released its grip.

Crilly was treated by paramedics at the scene for what Miller called "a nasty cut" on his hand. The snake was uninjured and remained at the home, Miller said. Crilly did not immediately return a message left at his home Thursday by The Associated Press.

Miller said the incident was unique, but not especially scary. "Snakes don't bother me," he said.

Just a few observations: "Snakes don't bother me," said the police officer.

Yeah, maybe, but it wasn't YOUR hand the thing was eating!

Jiminy, if I had been in Mr. Crilly's place — and rest assured, dear readers, I'd do everything in my power not to be — my screams would have been heard in the next area code, causing windows in far-away buildings to shatter and dogs to suddenly perk up their ears and whimper.

My stance on snakes — and other slimy critters — should be fairly well known by now. To refresh your memories, let me simply state that, as a creation of God, snakes have their place in the universe.

That place, however, is nowhere near me.

I hate snakes. Haaaaaaate.

And my cat feels the same way. Sylvester and his late running mate, Keyko, once came across a small garden snake in the back yard. While Keyko alternately tried to play with and eat said snake, Sylvester decided he wanted nothing to do with the beast and ended up on the highest tree branch he could reach.

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

At a place I used to work, I had just started to eat lunch when someone lit a cigarette. I asked her if she could smoke outside and do you know what she did? She said, "I can wait, ma'am. It's no problem." She was absolutely gracious and understanding.

I have worked in two smoking environments in Big Spring. At both places, I would become very ill with allergies and a sore throat. I asked my bosses, on numerous occasions, to make their businesses "non-smoking." Even though my employment situations were very different, with totally different bosses, the reply from both managers was this: "If I go 'non-smoking, I'll lose my customers. The only way it will work is for the whole city to go non-smoking." My bosses (both wonderful gentlemen, by the way) wanted to please both sectors of their paying clientele.

However, I recently went to one of my old places of employment. The ordinance had not yet been introduced. To my surprise, there was a "No Smoking" sign placed on the door. I asked if that had hurt business and he said, "No."

I believe that the leadership of Big Spring has made the right decision. I have faith in the smoking, as well as non-smoking public, that business will carry on as usual. I'm a diet cola drinker. When I'm not allowed to carry my drink into a place of business, I leave it in my car and get it when I'm through shopping or eating. When tobacco isn't welcome, I believe users are generous and mature enough to not smoke until they are in the appropriate place. This ordinance can work because this is a town that works well together and, at heart, wants what is best for the community as a whole.

Thank you to my councilwoman, Gloria McDonald; my friend, Joann Knox; and to the others who felt they were doing the right thing for Big Spring. I feel you did, too.

CHRISTY ALTON

TO THE EDITOR:

The smoking issue has gotten way out of control. As time goes by more and more cities are passing city ordinances to stop smokers like myself from lighting up in public areas.

I understand it's my choice to smoke, but is it not a person's choice to be around smokers?

And businesses, isn't it their right to choose if they want smokers in the stores. What about their rights?

This is just an example of how government tries to control its citizens.

Answer me this: If the city council feels that smoking should be banned because they know cigarette smoke can be harmful to users as well as the second hand smoke is to others, why don't they outlaw the sale of cigarettes in general?

There are cities that outlaw the sale of alcohol. Why not cigarettes? A smoke free city.

People should have the freedom to light up if a business does not have a problem with it. For the city to pass an ordinance that basically discriminates against its citizens by saying it will protect a certain group of people, but not the rest is wrong.

The true problem is that everyone knows that cigarettes are bad, but no one has the guts to say that the sale of cigarettes is wrong and its time to bring this to an end.

As a smoker, I can understand that.

Yes, it's my choice to smoke, but it should also be the choice of a business owner to allow smokers.

Today it's cigarettes. Tomorrow what is it going to be, cell phones not allowed in businesses?

This is a lawsuit waiting to happen and I'm willing to take up the challenge.

TO THE EDITOR:

I am a social worker and a few nights ago I got to ring the bell for the Salvation Army as a volunteer in front of Wal-Mart. I loved it. People were kind and generous and I got to meet and visit with everyone in town.

There was a little girl, about 7 years old, who came up to me and asked, "Why are you ringing the bell?"

So I told her that there are some people who have a hard time buying groceries and medicine and the money that is put into the kettle helps them.

She replied, "It looks like you get enough to eat!"

Her mother said, "C'mon. Let's go."

Kids can just kill you sometimes.

ORAND CARROLL
BIG SPRING

TO THE EDITOR:

I have been following the story of the Settles Hotel with some interest of late and would like to share my thoughts on the matter.

We as a city first heard about the possible sale of the Settles when the city council voted to advertise for bids on Oct. 10. It voted to again advertise on Oct. 23 and approved the single bid of $75,000 by Mr. Ryan's company on Nov. 17. Mayor McEwen immediately targeted the money for "downtown" (i.e. "Settles" area) development.

According to the Texas Secretary of State, the Settles Hotel Development Company L.L.C. was formed on June 12, 2006. Obviously, Mr. Ryan was confident enough about winning the "competitive" bid process to name his company after the hotel a full five months prior to winning the bid. Mayor McEwen has stated that he has been working for months to bring this project to Big Spring.

At what cost?

Since the Settles Hotel Development Company was formed, the mayor and the council have gotten across a $9 million bond project that will improve our downtown (ie "Settles") area. The mayor and the council also agreed to apply the purchase price of the Settles to "downtown improvements".

Now, Moore Development is working to give an additional $3 million to Mr. Ryan's company.

The one thing I haven't heard yet is this: Has Mr. Ryan's check cleared yet?

Please don't misunderstand me; I think that the plan to renovate the Settles is a great idea and a great thing for the city of Big Spring. I just ask those people who get starry eyed over the deal to maintain a healthy dose of common sense and don't forget the past deals with the hotel.

Before approving any money to the project, why don't we (or Moore Development) simply ask the Settles Hotel Development Company to put up a completion bond in the amount of $12 million (the estimated completion cost of the project)? With a completion bond, if for some unknown reason the project founders, we the citizens of Big Spring can continue the work begun here and restore the Hotel Settles back to its former glory.

Or does that make too much sense for the mayor, the city council and the Moore Board?

I am compelled to write to call attention to your letter policy.

I read Scott Ragle's letter (all 300 words). Ha! That I learned from his letter and the Big Spring Herald wasn't anything new.

In Big Spring it doesn't matter who or what is right, only who it is and what they want.

J.J. MURPHY

TO THE EDITOR:

There are people spending time collecting names for a recall petition to remove the officials who voted for the ban on smoking in public places.

Why do smokers think it is their right to pollute our air and spew harmful vapors into the air for others to breathe? Second hand smoke is just as harmful as smoking itself.

I would appreciate it if they would only inhale and not exhale or allow their cigarettes to leave a trail of smoke while burning. They have the right to shorten their own lives, but not the lives of others.

Smokers: Do you want the younger generations to follow your example?

Is your filling the air with harmful substances, to the harm of others, your personal right and freedom?

Is someone drinking alcohol openly on the street, their right?

Is someone reading pornography on the street, their right?

The alcohol and porn above are not imposed on others, so it must be all right.

We need to curb our rights, and only do things that make our community better for everyone and set the best example for our children to follow.

I want public officials who are for making our community safer, prettier and more enjoyable for all. That is their job. We need this kind of change to attract new business and families to our community.

DENNIS WALKER

TO THE EDITOR:

I, for one, am tired of having the citizens of Big Spring and Howard County blamed for the fiasco our county jail is currently in.

We have the county commissioners to thank for the deplorable condition of the jail and it's subsequent failure to pass inspection. Having attended city council meetings, it would appear that recommendations were made by knowledgeable persons and their recommendations were never acted upon.

When the commission knew that the smoke did not evacuate properly, why didn't they ask the Texas Jail Commission for recommendations for a company that could bring this up to compliance at the time of its first failure? Why wait until failure and closure to ask for references?

If the commission had given the public a choice of jails such as: 144-bed, 96-bed or fix the current one, a vote to build a new jail would have been quite probable — just not the overpriced, oversized monument to crime that we were asked to vote for.

The biggest fact that some seem to ignore is that even if a new jail was approved, nothing would have changed regarding the status of our current jail — it still would have failed its test and it still would have been shut down because of the lack of concern for its condition by the commissioners.

Thank you, county commissioners, both past and present, for ignoring maintenance on the jail as it was needed and imposing hundreds of thousands of dollars in taxes that would not have been necessary if you'd done your job all along. This money that is being wasted could have gone a long way in building a new jail.

I would have voted yes for a 96-bed jail because I am concerned about the safety of the workers and inmates, but, now that we need to spend all this money to fix the current one, I think we'd better keep it for a number of years because of the cost to fix it.

In the weekend addition of the Herald the citizens were criticized for voting for a sports complex and road improvement and against the proposed jail. This action tells me that the citizens would rather invest their money in the youth of Big Spring than the criminal element.

Again, I feel a smaller jail would have passed readily, but we were not given that option.

We were asked, "How many inmates can you house in a dugout?" I reply, "How many future inmates have we avoided by having a dugout for them to play in rather than committing crimes?" The roads are another matter. Money should be set aside in each budget for road maintenance — not as a special bond issue. And yes, there are roads other than the proposed ones that are in much greater need of fixing. And, just so you don't include all citizens of Big Spring as "boneheads," I voted against all the bonds.

BIG SPRING

TO THE EDITOR:

A story from World War I calls to mind the glory of the Christmas season and the fickle nature of human beings. The German soldiers and the Americans were in their trenches and were doing what they were required to do — fighting and killing each other.

It was almost Christmas and many of the wiser soldiers on both sides were thinking of home and celebrating Christmas or Weinacht, as the Germans called it. As Christmas Eve came, some leaders on both sides met each other in "no mans land" and were able to establish a truce for the day.

As the day progressed, the soldiers from both sides began to meet each other out between the trenches. Some played various ball games. Others who were able to converse in each others language, began to sing "Silent Night, Holy Night" and "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht."

Some had various beverages that they shared and became rather festive in their celebration. Most of them became quite friendly and had a good old time singing, eating and drinking, but alas! The good times of fun, fellowship, eating and drinking had to come to an end!

You see, they weren't out there to worship, have fun, sing and talk. They were out there to kill each other!

So, down to business they went.

What a wonderful story and what a tragic end!

Let's remember what Christmas is about, peace on Earth, good will to all people.

The bidding:

Opening lead four of spades.

Establishing a long suit at either notrump or suit contracts is one of the most common of all procedures. Before attempting to set up a suit, however, declarer should consider whether one approach to the suit's establishment offers an advantage over another.

For example, take this deal where West led a spade against three notrump. South took East's nine with the king and, needing four club tricks to make the contract, led the deuce to dummy's queen as West followed suit with the three.

When East showed out, there was no longer any way to produce four tricks from the club suit. West's remaining holding of the A-10-9 made that task impossible. Furthermore, regardless of how declarer chose to continue, he could not score nine tricks before the opponents took five, and he finished down one.

Before attacking clubs, South should first examine the combined club holding to see whether it matters how he imitates the suit. Obviously, if the missing clubs are divided 2-2 or 3-1, it makes no difference how he begins. But if one opponent holds all the missing clubs, the contract is in danger, so he should address himself to that possibility.

If East has four clubs, South cannot score more than three club tricks no matter how he plays. But if West has A-10-9-3, declarer can make four tricks in the suit if he starts by leading the jack from his hand.

Let's say West takes the jack with the ace and returns a spade. South wins and leads a club toward the K-Q-8. When West plays the nine — if he does not, dummy's eight wins the trick — declarer takes the queen, returns to his hand with a heart and traps West's 10-3 of clubs by leading toward dummy's K-8. A diamond to the ace then allows South to score his fifth club, and the contract is home.

Teen finds new way of streaking

COLUMBIA CITY, Ind. (AP) — A teen accused of ordering from at least three fast food drive-throughs nude faces an indecent exposure charge.

David Gatton, 18, of Columbia City, was found in the parking lot of a McDonald's by a sheriff's deputy after police received a call that the teen had been nude when he ordered from his car at the Arby's drive-through.

"Maybe it was a way to enjoy the last of the warm weather," joked Capt. Brian Anspach of the Columbia City PD.

Sgt. Mike Engle passed the car in Columbia City, 20 miles west of Fort Wayne. Engle said he turned around to stop the car and saw that Gatton had driven into the McDonald's lot.

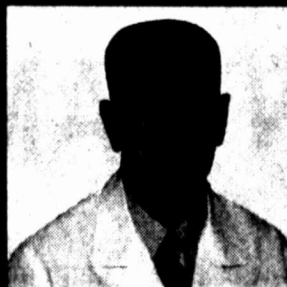

When Engle got to the car, Gatton was putting his clothes back on.

Mexican-American son of cotton farmers reaches top post

By SUZANNE GAMBOA

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON

Silvestre Reyes was unable to speak English until he was 6 years old. Now the Texas congressman must master the lingo of the nation's spy agencies and the politics of the war in Iraq.

The son of West Texas cotton farmers, Reyes was held back in school along with other Mexican-American children because of limited English. Both Reyes' parents were born in the U.S. His father was a successful farmer and both parents were avid readers who instilled a love for reading in him.

"I always look back and am amused," Reyes said, recalling his school days. "I was tagged as (one day) being a chicken farmer (and) a high school counselor said I was good with my hands and could be a welder."

Instead, he became a combat soldier, a Border Patrol agent and chief and then was elected to Congress. This week, he added one more achievement: chairman of the House Intelligence Committee.

Reyes takes over the key post next year, becoming the first Hispanic to serve in the job.

He'll head the panel, in part, because Democrats capitalized at the ballot box on the dissatisfaction among American voters with the war in Iraq and what some believe was faulty and politically manipulated intelligence that led the nation into war.

"We're going to do the oversight with the administration about how do we proceed and what are the options. How does intelligence play into that and how will we be able to operationally support what we are trying to accomplish getting out of Iraq," Reyes said about his agenda as chairman.

Reyes voted against the Iraq war resolution and has supported setting a timetable for withdrawal. He said he voted against the war because he thought intelligence was being "cherry picked" and "manipulated" to make the case for war. He supports fighting the war on terror, but warns against relinquishing individual rights.

He has been an outspoken critic of the administration's warrantless domestic wiretapping program. But he said Friday he will not pledge to bring American troops home right away.

House Speaker-to-be Nancy Pelosi chose Reyes over two more senior committee members — Rep. Jane Harman, D-

Calif., and Alcee Hastings, D-Fla.

A moderate Democrat, Reyes often takes a pro-defense stand. He also serves on the House Armed Services Committee and has served on the Veterans Affairs Committee.

He has cast votes against partial-birth abortion and human cloning, but also voted against Bush's tax cuts and rejects deployment of military personnel to the border.

Reyes has been a long-time advocate of the Border Patrol, pressing for more resources for the agency since he first entered Congress. He is credited with initiating "Operation Hold The Line" on the Texas-Mexico border, which stationed agents to stop illegal entry. The technique is now used all along the border.

He said his experience as a Border Patrol agent who had to rely on intelligence to do his job helps qualify him for the job as chairman.

Ballyhooed business tax riddled with errors, loopholes

By APRIL CASTRO

Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — The ink is barely dry on the state's new business tax, but for a small fee, tax attorney Jimmy Martens will show you how to get around it.

His idea is simple. He shows accountants how a corporation can legally shield certain assets and income by transferring them into a tax-exempt partnership.

It's one of several purported escape hatches and errors in a tax law enacted by the Legislature last spring specifically to close decades-old loopholes and force Texas businesses to contribute more money to public schools.

Most glaring is the apparent failure to eliminate one of the most notorious tax havens in Texas history: the tax-exempt limited liability partnership. Its widespread use in Texas became one of the chief reasons the state franchise tax was known to accountants as a voluntary tax.

Despite intentions to close that loophole, most experts believe limited liability partnerships were again exempted from the new tax structure. It's a mistake that, if not fixed, would cost Texas billions of tax dollars.

"With any change of this magnitude, you're going to learn as you go along and that's the process we're currently going through," said Dale Craymer, an economist for the Texas Taxpayers and Research Association.

Lawmakers already have promised to address a handful of errors in the upcoming legislative session, which convenes Jan. 9. But it won't be easy to fine tune the 115-page legislation that took three years and a court order to pass the first time.

"The last thing any of us want to do is to make changes that will create loopholes like we had in the system that we just got rid of, something that would cause a whole segment all of a sudden to gain favoritism," said Rep. John Otto, a Dayton Republican who was active in designing the new tax law.

So far, the session is shaping up to be a 140-day game of cat and mouse between tax-writing lawmakers and accountants looking for ways to outsmart them. Already, capitol policy wonks have been studying manuals published by tax attorneys. Martens said an analyst for House Speaker Tom Craddick even attended one of his eight-hour, $300 seminars usually directed at accountants.

"There are some very bright

Since Gov. Rick Perry signed the tax into law in May, numerous technical errors have been identified. For instance, real estate companies can save money if structured as a partnership rather than a corporation. That's because of a tiny typo in the bill that misidentifies a line on federal tax forms.

and creative lawyers and accountants who, I'm sure are looking at (the tax law) the way it passed to figure out where the loopholes are," said Robert Howden, spokesman for the Texas Association of Manufacturers and former staff member for the panel that initially designed the new tax.

Lobbyists for business and trade associations — real estate, oil and gas and manufacturers to name a few — will add to the pressure as they maneuver for special treatment.

The tax takes effect next year and the first due date is May 2008.

Since Gov. Rick Perry signed the tax into law in May, numerous technical errors have been identified. For instance, real estate companies can save money if structured as a partnership rather than a corporation. That's because of a tiny typo in the bill that misidentifies a line on federal tax forms.

Other potential problem areas include:

— Credits that businesses were promised under the old tax system for years in which they operated in the red. The credits were initially intended to be spread out over ten years, but that section in the new law is "so flawed no one really knows how to enforce it," Craymer said.

— An exemption allowing attorneys to write off charitable legal work also lets them deduct any fees they pay to other attorneys.

— A provision that could help businesses become tax exempt if enough of their revenue comes from so-called passive income, such as interest payments, dividends and royalties. In Texas, unlike federal tax law, capital gains from real estate also fall into that category.

Most experts say the tax will favor capital intensive industries, or those with a lot of land and equipment such as the oil and gas industry. Service-oriented businesses, like accounting and law firms, will have a harder time.

Businesses will be taxed at 1 percent — 0.5 percent for retailers — of gross receipts. Companies can deduct for cost of goods or employee benefits like salary and health care. Sole proprietors and general partnerships are exempt. Companies with annual gross receipts of $300,000 or less also are exempt.

Lawmakers spent years trying to fix the loophole-ridden franchise tax. They stumbled over how to structure a new tax within legal constraints that would apply equally to different business structures. And business-friendly Republicans were hesitant to levy a new tax that could be harmful to job creation and economic growth.

"There's going to be some folks that have completely avoided taxes for a very long time, who are going to try to slip under the radar again," said former Comptroller John Sharp, who led the panel that designed the new tax. "But I'm pretty sure the rest of the businesses are going to make darn sure that doesn't happen."

Perry: Messy inauguration reflects democratic growth

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Texas Gov. Rick Perry said the antics surrounding Mexican President Felipe Calderon's inauguration — which saw jeers, fist fights and lawmakers throwing chairs on the floor of Congress — are a sign of "good, healthy growth" toward a more mature democracy.

Perry and California Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger were part of a delegation of U.S. dignitaries who sat in the balcony of Congress and watched Calderon take the presidential oath Friday, after a morning brawl between his allies and opponents who tried to keep him from his swearing-in ceremony.

"That seems to me to be to be a natural progression in a democratic society," Perry said. "People are feeling comfortable about expressing their opinion and what have you, so I was pretty excited about a little fisticuffs, a little protest."

"I think it's a good progression of growth for Mexico," Perry said. "I think it's a good, healthy growth."

The conservative

Calderon won Mexico's June 2 elections by less than a percentage point over his leftist rival Andres Manuel Lopez Obrador, who claimed the election was stolen and recently declared himself Mexico's "legitimate president."

Lopez Obrador's party allies led the unsuccessful effort to block Calderon's inauguration, and afterward the former candidate led a march of tens of thousands of supporters in protest.

State Briefs

Border soldier charged with cocaine possession

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — A Texas Army National Guard soldier is charged with carrying a piece of crack cocaine while on duty at a Border Patrol station.

Sgt. John Carlos Jones, 28, was arrested Thursday after a Border Patrol agent noticed cocaine on Jones' chair. According to a police report, Jones told investigators he bought the drugs for $25 on Tuesday and smoked the cocaine in a cigarette.

The Texas Army National Guard Capt. Dick Jinks said he did not know if Jones has been placed on administrative leave. Jones was being held Friday at a South Texas jail on $10,000 bond.

The police report states that Jones took "full responsibility for the cocaine," the Brownsville Herald reported in its Saturday editions.

Jones has been with the guard since 1997. He was stationed in Brownsville in July as part of President Bush's "Operation Jump Start" plan to bolster the ranks of border enforcement, Jinks said.

Natural death a cause in one truck stop death

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — One of the four people found dead inside their rigs at two San Antonio truck stops last month died of natural causes, authorities said Friday.

The cause of death for the three others remain pending, the Bexar County medical examiner's office said.

Solved was the death of Hubert Ray Hardesty, 53, who was found Monday in a rig at the Flying J on Interstate 10 in San Antonio.

His family reported him missing after Hardesty, a driver for Watkins Truck Co., didn't arrive in Birmingham, Ala., as expected, said Brad Alston, safety director for the company.

On Nov. 1, two bodies were found dead inside a rig at the Petro Stopping Center, just west of the Flying J. Police identified them as Harry Ackroyd, 35, and Michelle Ackroyd, 32. Police said the Ackroyds were a common-law couple and that Harry Ackroyd was a trucker.

The Bexar County medical examiner's office said a third body, identified as Byron Gonzales, was discovered inside a rig at the truck stop on Thanksgiving Day.

Police have said one theory they are investigating is whether bad drugs are being sold in the area of the stop.

Investigators to talk to father of missing nurse's daughter

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — A Texas man who fathered the daughter of a missing Air Force nurse has agreed to talk to police after initially refusing, Colorado authorities said.

Jefferson County sheriff's spokesman Jim Shires said Thursday that Edward Vehle agreed to meet with investigators at his home in Bexar County, Texas.

Detectives want to talk to him about Nonnie Dotson, 33, who hasn't been seen since leaving her brother's Jefferson County home for a walk Nov. 19. She and her 16-month-old daughter were visiting from Lackland Air Force Base in Texas, where she's stationed.

Vehle, citing his lawyer's advice, had declined to talk to detectives Wednesday.

About two months ago, Vehle, 53, was ordered by a Texas court to pay medical expenses for the toddler and $1,200 a month in child support. Bexar County court records show Vehle tried to contest paternity of the child, Savannah.

Dotson's brother is taking care of the girl.

Texas authorities said the dispute over paternity and money was not the first between Vehle and Dotson. Vehle called Hollywood Park police to his home on June 22, 2005, because Dotson refused to leave, according to a police report.

The officer who responded said an argument started when Dotson went to pick up her belongings. There was no physical violence, according to the report.

Dotson was due to return to duty Nov. 21. She is scheduled to be discharged from the military in March.

Border agents find nearly nine tons of marijuana

RIO GRANDE CITY (AP) — Authorities found nearly 9 tons of marijuana hidden in two underground bunkers in one of the largest drug seizures in South Texas history, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement said Friday.

Officers found the 17,564 pounds of pot valued at about $8 million Thursday, along with numerous firearms, ICE said. The bunkers were hidden beneath a pair of garages on 5 acres of private property.

As of Friday, no arrests had been made.

Jerry Robinette, acting special agent in charge of investigations for ICE in San Antonio, said the drugs were found as part of ongoing investigation involving federal and local officials. He said the drugs appeared to be packaged for shipment throughout the United States.

2 soldiers accused of sexual assault of a child

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Two soldiers have been indicted on separate sexual assault charges after being accused of having sex with a San Angelo girl they met on the social networking Web site MySpace.com.

Ephrem Christopher Jones, 18, a Fort Hood soldier now in Iraq, told investigators he met the 14-year-old girl twice, according to a report that appeared in Saturday editions of the San Angelo Standard-Times.

Jones told police he had sex with the girl in a car during June and engaged in a sex act with her at a motel during August. Floyd Karl Parker, 33, a drill sergeant at Fort Sill, Okla., is accused of having sex with the same girl at the same hotel in September.

San Angelo police said Jones has not yet learned of the charge.

Jones told authorities the girl said she was 20 years old, but later said she was 16. Under state law, people younger than 17 are not capable of consenting to sex with an adult.

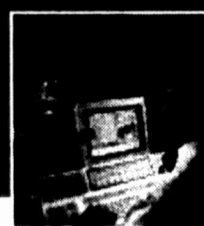

In a police report, the girl said she went to the hotel room with Parker, who she said forced her to have sex but did not threaten her.

Parker was arrested by the Comanche County Sheriff's Department in Oklahoma on Nov. 14. He was released from Tom Green County jail in Texas on Tuesday. A pretrial hearing is set for Jan. 2.

Parker did not respond to an e-mail from the newspaper. A phone listing for him could not immediately be found.

Both men faces charges of second-degree sexual assault of a child, and face a possible punishment of two to 20 years in prison, if convicted.

It was not clear whether either man faced punishment from the Army, which did not release Jones' rank.

Quarterback Club meeting scheduled

Big Spring High School's Quarterback Club will meet Monday at 7 p.m. in the Big Spring High School Athletic Training Center.

Mark Tissue, the booster club's president, encourages all parents of BSHS football players and the teams' fans to attend.

Officers for next season will be the topic of conversation.

For more information, call Tissue at 816-3458.

Texas Longhorn football update

Jevan Snead, Texas backup quarterback, has informed school officials that he will transfer after this semester.

The statement did not say where Snead, a freshman, planned to attend.

In high school, Snead had verbally committed to the Florida Gators before changing his mind to attend the University of Texas.

Rice University accepts bowl bid

Rice made its first bowl appearance since 1961 official Tuesday by accepting a bid to the New Orleans Bowl.

The Owls, representing Conference USA, will play the Sun Belt Conference champion Dec. 22 at the Superdome in the first bowl game there since Hurricane Katrina. Troy will be Rice's opponent if it beats Florida International this week. A loss would give Middle Tennessee the berth.

Rice (7-5, 6-2 C-USA) made a stunning turnaround from last year's 1-10 season, winning seven of its last eight games after an 0-4 start.

The Owls lost to Kansas in the 1961 Bluebonnet Bowl.

Texas Aggies accept Holiday Bowl bid

No. 22 Texas A&M will represent the Big 12 against No. 21 California in the Holiday Bowl on Dec. 28.

The Aggies finished their regular season Friday with a 12-7 upset win over Texas. This will be the 29th bowl appearance for Texas A&M (9-3, 5-3 Big 12).

It will be the second trip to the Holiday Bowl for the Aggies.

They won the 1990 game against Brigham Young 35-14, which is the highest margin of victory in Holiday Bowl history.

California (8-3) is playing in the bowl for the second time in the last three years.

Broncos crash Bearkats' football season

MIKE GRIMES

STANTON — This was not supposed to happen Friday night, not like this.

Garden City standout Bo Eggemeyer finished the season with another 200-plus yard rushing night; unfortunately his three costly turnovers that led to three Meadow touchdowns overshadowed an otherwise great individual performance in the Bearkats 54-34 loss.

The highly anticipated matchup of No. 1 Meadow and No. 3 Garden City got off to a bang when the opening kickoff was returned 80 yards by freshman Adrian Sanchez for a quick Broncos lead. The rest of the first quarter was a defensive battle as both teams failed to put any more points on the board.

On the first play of the second quarter the Bearkats of Garden City took their first and last lead of the game on a 5-yard touchdown run by Eggemeyer. The two-point kick that followed was good and the Bearkats led, 8-6.

Three plays later, the Broncos answered the Bearkats' score and took the lead for good on a 15-yard run by Zach Morrow.

After the first costly fumble by the Bearkats, Sanchez caught a 4-yard crossing route and turned it into a 16-yard touchdown pass to put the Broncos up 20-8.

"Against a good team, you can't do that," Bearkats coach Vance Jones said of the fumbles, after he addressed his players following the loss. "They are a good football team. When we did man-

Cougars crowned 2006 conference USA champs

By CHRIS DUNCAN
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — As their fans spilled onto the field, the Houston Cougars took turns hoisting a trophy that marked the end of a decade of mediocrity.

Kevin Kolb threw two touchdown passes to Biren Ealy and ran for another score to lead Houston to a 34-20 win over Southern Mississippi in the Conference USA championship game Friday night.

"A lot of people doubted us and said it couldn't be done," said Kolb, who completed 19-for-31 passes for 258 yards and two touchdowns. "It was done tonight and hopefully, for the program, it will continue to be done."

The Cougars (10-3) won their first C-USA title in 1996, but went 37-66 over the next nine seasons. Houston hired Art Briles in 2003 and he lured Kolb, the quarterback Briles coached in high school.

On Friday, Kolb became the conference's all-time passing leader, leapfrogging Louisville quarterback Chris Redman. Kolb, who made his 49th career start, now has 12,578 passing yards.

Kolb also had a 46-yard touchdown run in the third quarter that gave the Cougars the lead for good. His two TD passes moved him into second place on the league's career list, two behind Redman's record of 84.

After the game, Kolb only wanted to talk about the championship.

"I've been telling people since the beginning of the year that that's all that matters and that's the truth," he said. "This means a lot more to me than any records."

Vincent Marshall, Houston's career receiving leader, caught eight passes for 100 yards and had a touchdown run on a lateral for the Cougars.

Marshall, a senior, was named the game's Most Valuable Player. He finished with 224 all-purpose yards — 100 receiving, 18 on his first career pass, 22 on the TD run and 102 on three kickoff returns.

Forsan senior wins series on professional moto circuit

Herald Staff Report

Forsan High School senior Corbin Brown won the 10th annual Texas Pro Circuit (D Class), was sixth in 2004 and missed 2005 due to an injury.

He is sponsored by Midland Yamaha for the fourth year and his grandparents, L.J. and Sugar Brown, furnished his second motorcycle for the 125 Class.

He is the son of Ricky and Angela Brown. His sister is BraShara Brown, who is currently sitting sixth in Region 2 barrel racing in the Texas junior high rodeo competition.

In addition to his other competitions, Corbin Brown qualified in June for the Loretta Lynn National Regional. He was running a local race when another rider wrecked, causing Brown to take a spill. He injured his Achilles tendon seven days before the trials and was unable to compete.

"We would really like to thank Gaylon Knowlton, Jimmy Taylor, Jimmy Johnson, James Taylor and Cindy Redding for their support during the 2006 season," said Ricky Brown. "Corbin is getting ready right now for 2007."

Corbin Brown won the 10th annual Texas/Oklahoma Pro Circuit Series this year. The Forsan High School senior is gearing up now for the 2007 racing season.

Mavericks streak to 12 straight victories

By JAIME ARON

AP Sports Writer

DALLAS — Sure, the Dallas Mavericks have won 12 straight games and they haven't even trailed the last four.

But they have a flaw that gnaws at coach Avery Johnson: They're getting bored with all the big leads they're piling up.

Fueled by a 38-point first quarter and a 62-point first half, the Mavericks cruised past the Sacramento Kings 109-90 Friday night despite some obvious bouts with complacency.

How else do you explain Jerry Stackhouse shooting an airball from 12 feet at the end of the first quarter?

Or Devean George blowing a dunk just before halftime?

As proud as he has to be over the third-longest winning streak in club history — all since an 0-4 start — Johnson rarely lets it show. He called a timeout after a few defensive breakdowns while up 25 in the third quarter, and in the huddle barked about them having several fouls in the quarter while the Kings didn't have any.

"It's not always going to be like this," Johnson said. "We've hit a stretch where we're getting away (from opponents) with some leads now."

Josh Howard made 10-of-14 shots and scored 24 points, and Dirk Nowitzki added 18 in 20 minutes, but still seemed bothered by the blurred vision that knocked him out of the previous game. He missed eight of his first nine shots and finished 4-of-15; he went 10-of-10 from the line, though, and had 10 rebounds.

"That Nowitzki kid is going to have to work on his shooting," Johnson said, proving he can have some fun.

Said Nowitzki: "I had a lot of good looks tonight, especially in the first half, but I really couldn't get anything going."

And, yes, he was able to see those good looks, saying his vision "was great today."

The key to the Mavs' strong play lately has been terrific starts. They've scored at least 33 points in five straight first quarters, all since Howard returned from an injury. The 62 points at halftime was a season high.

"Zoom, zoom, zoom, we come out running," said Devin Harris, who had 13 points and six assists.

Actually, it was 3-pointers that built this lead.

Dallas went 7-of-9 in the opening period to finish it ahead 38-19, then opened the second quarter with another 3. The Mavericks were 3-of-11 behind the arc after that, but it hardly mattered.

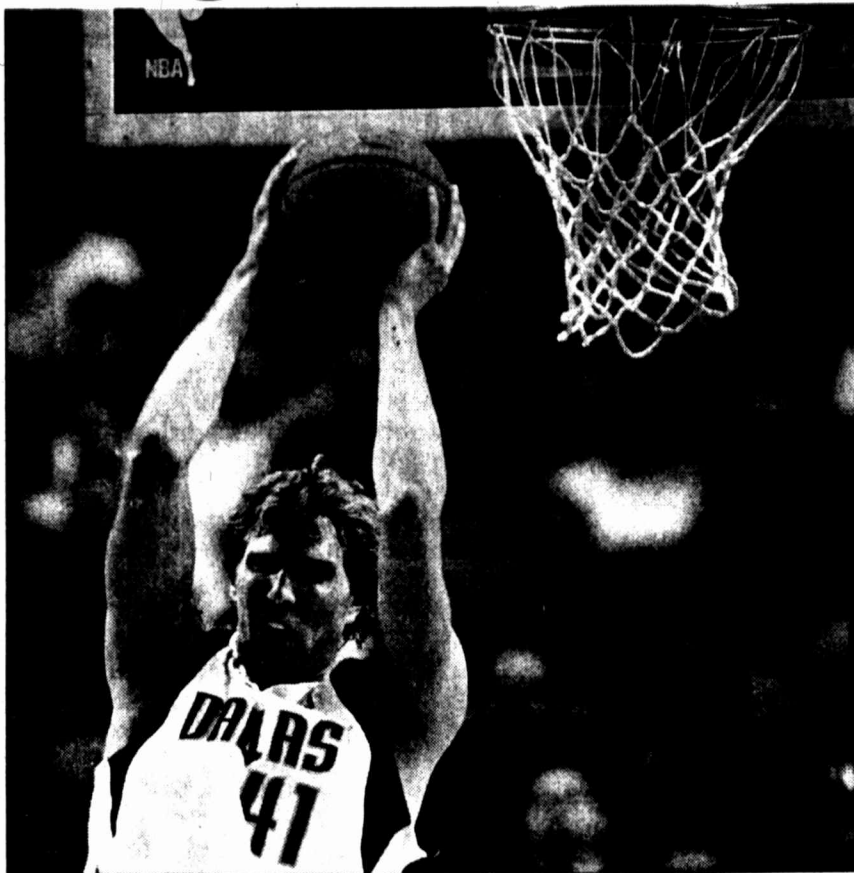

Sacramento scored 41 points in the first half, only three more than Dallas had in the first quarter. The lead peaked at 32 in the third quarter, and the Kings didn't get within 20 in the second half until the game's final basket.

Sacramento had won two straight. The Kings had not trailed by more than 12 after one quarter or one half this season and their most lopsided loss had been by 13.

Perhaps the worst thing Dallas did was anger Ron Artest.

"I'm going to remember this game," said Artest, who didn't start because of a flare-up of an ongoing back problem, but led the Kings with 15 points. "I want to come back to Dallas and take a victory."

Kevin Martin was the only Sacramento starter to crack double digits, scoring 13. Then

"The only thing I was thinking about was all the hard work we've put into this," Marshall said.

Houston has matched its highest win total since 1990 and heads to the Liberty Bowl on a six-game winning streak.

"It's very gratifying," Briles said. "We've battled our tails off now for four years and got this thing where it needs to be."

Jeremy Young had a touchdown run and threw a TD pass to Chris Johnson to lead the Golden Eagles (8-5), who will play Ohio in the GMAC Bowl.

Southern Miss was denied a fifth Conference USA championship, but will play in a bowl game for the ninth time in 10 years.

"Our guys played hard and I am proud of our football team for getting to this game," said Eagles coach Jeff Bower. "We certainly would have liked to have won it, but I'm proud of them for what they've done this year."

The Cougars trailed 17-13 at halftime, but came from behind to win for the sixth straight game.

Early in the third quarter, Kolb faked a handoff to Battle and sprinted for a touchdown, the longest run of his career.

Kolb, Conference USA's career leader in total offense, went 6-for-6 on Houston's next drive and found Ealy for a 33-yard touchdown with 2:52 left in the third quarter.

While Kolb hit his stride after a sluggish first half, Houston's defense held Southern Miss to 46 yards and two first downs in the third quarter.

Darren McCaleb kicked a 31-yard field goal midway through the fourth quarter to cut Houston's lead to 27-20.

But Kolb drove the Cougars to the Southern Miss 32, then lofted a TD pass to Ealy down the sideline with 4:25 left. After the touchdown, Kolb jogged to the sideline and high-fived quarterbacks coach Philip Montgomery.

versus the Broncos' two turnovers and two penalties for 10 yards.

"The ball just didn't bounce our way," Jones added. "That is the nature of the beast."

Southern Miss had beaten Houston in seven of the previous eight meetings, including a 31-27 victory on Oct. 14th.

The game drew 31,818, the largest crowd in the history of Robertson Stadium, which was built in the 1940s and expanded in 1999.

The Golden Eagles came into the game with the league's top rushing offense, but mustered only 44 rushing yards after the break.

Southern Miss freshman Damion Fletcher, the league's second-leading rusher, finished with 90 yards, 13 below his average.

was stripped for the second time.

Once again, Meadow made the most of the opportunity. Using the ground attack behind Morrow and Shane Moreland, the lead was stretched to 26-8. That marked the largest deficit of the year for Garden City.

In the opening moments of the third quarter the Bearkats fought back to within 10 points when Eggemeyer, the leading rusher with 244 yards on 24 carries, cashed in on a 50-yard scamper. However, facing a third and long, the Broncos found Collin Allison for a 45-yard touchdown to answer the score.

As the two ranked teams traded scores, Colton Schwartz blasted his way from 2-yards out for the first of his two scores.

Bearkats quarterback Evan Jansa completed 11-for-22 passes, totaling 149 yards. Behind Eggemeyer and Jansa, Garden City out-gained Meadow 422 yards to 260.

The difference in the game was turnovers and penalties. The Bearkats had four turnovers and six penalties for 39 yards,

The last three weeks have changed the NFC East

By TOM CANAVAN

AP Sports Writer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — In just 21 days, the Dallas Cowboys and New York Giants have undergone a startling transition.

Three weeks ago, the Giants had a two-game lead over Dallas in the NFC East as they prepared for a showdown with the Chicago Bears for supremacy in the NFC.

The Cowboys (4-4) were in flux. Bill Parcells was looking old. T.O. was being T.O. Tony Romo was 1-1 since replacing Drew Bledsoe at quarterback, and there were many who questioned whether Jerry Jones' club would even make the playoffs after a last-second loss at Washington.

Fast forward and the picture has changed dramatically as they head into an NFC East showdown at Giants Stadium on Sunday.

The Giants (6-5) are in turmoil after losing three straight, capped by a 24-21 gift to the Titans during which they blew a 21-point fourth-quarter lead. Players are griping and there are questions brewing about Tom Coughlin's future as coach.

Dallas (7-4) and Romo have become America's darlings once again after a three-game winning streak.

It's the NFL at its inconsistent best.

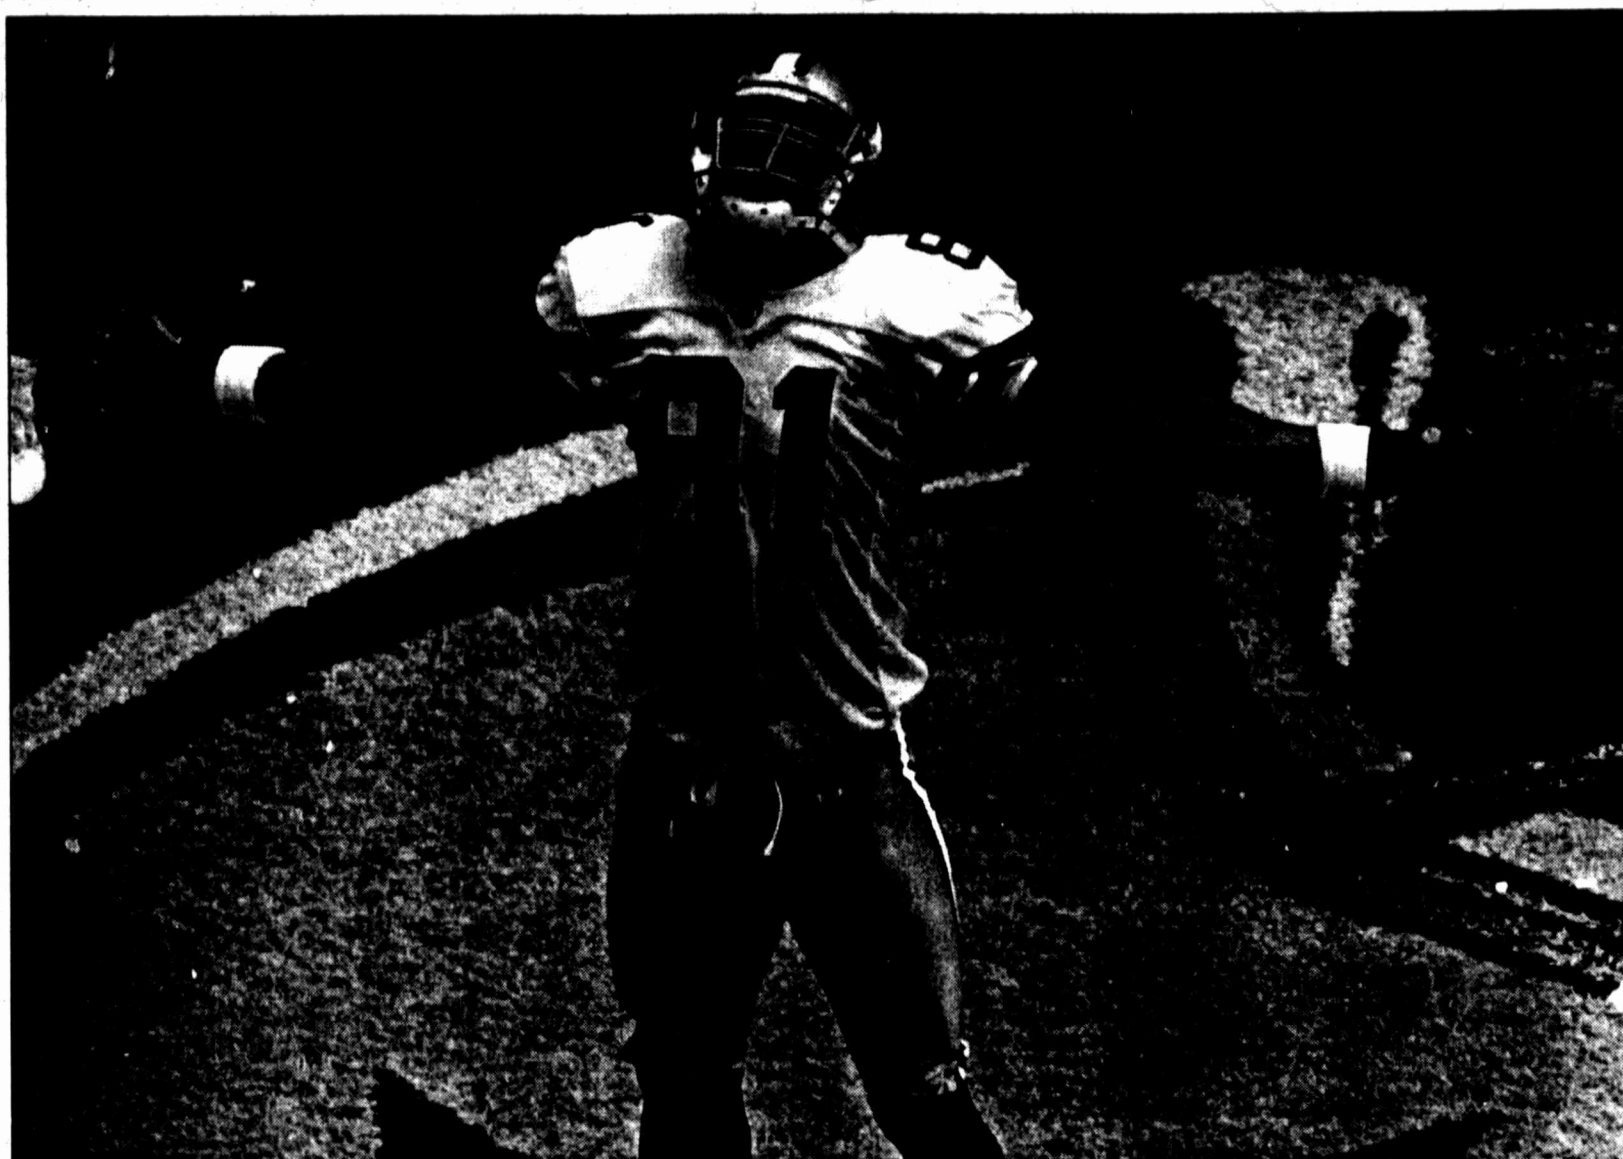

"It just seems like you don't really know what's going to happen any week that you go out there," Parcells said. "We were struggling, there isn't any doubt about it. I got a lot of calls from a lot of my ex-players — letters, e-mails, calls and some personal visits."

The support picked up Parcells, and Romo did the rest. In the last three games, he has thrown seven touchdowns and one interception. His 110.8 quarterback rating is the NFL's best. Dallas' defense also has picked its game, giving up 34 points in the winning streak.

"There's always next week and that's one of the great things about the game," Parcells said. "It can be a very exciting thing and it can also be very humbling."

The last time the teams met, the Giants humbled the Cowboys 36-22 in front of a national audience on Monday night.

But this is a different Giants team, due in large part to injuries. Linebacker LaVar Arrington (Achilles' tendon) and receiver Amani Toomer (knee) are out for the year. Pro Bowl defensive ends Osi Umenyiora and Michael Strahan, linebacker Brandon Short, cornerback Sam Madison and offensive tackle Luke Petitgout haven't played in weeks because of injuries, while linebacker Carlos Emmons and cornerback Corey Webster have missed games here and there.

"That's just the league, unfortunately," Giants halfback Tiki Barber said of the changes. "It takes one thing. For the Cowboys, it was Tony Romo providing a spark. For us, it's a depletion of some of our talent."

In the past two weeks, Barber criticized the team's play calling and Strahan ripped the media for comments he made about receiver Plaxico Burress loafing on a big play in the loss to the Titans.

Eli Manning also has slumped horribly in the slide, throwing for two touchdowns and six interceptions, including one late Sunday that set up Tennessee's

The good news for the Giants is that Umenyiora, Short and Madison appear ready to return this week, putting three starters back on defense. Rookie receiver Sinorice Moss, who had played only one game because of a quad injury, also may be ready to step in and help fill the void created by the loss of Toomer.

New York also knows that if it wins, it sweeps the season series with Dallas and moves back into first place in the division with four games left in the regular season.

Patrick Goodgame, left, studies the board as Zach Hollis considers a move during their checkers game at Kentwood Elementary Wednesday afternoon.

Kara Saunders wishes good luck to her opponent prior to the start of a checkers tournament at Kentwood Elementary Wednesday afternoon. Students in Kentwood's "Math Club" occasionally play math-based games such as checkers in addition to regular tutoring.

A fun approach to mathematics

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Want to get better at math? Try playing a good game of checkers.

At first blush, playing checkers may not seem to have a lot to do with addition, subtraction and other math skills, but there may be a method to the apparent madness of Kentwood Elementary officials, who recently instituted game-playing into their after-school math tutoring.

Kara Saunders, Kentwood principal, said it is all part of the school's highly successful "Math Club."

"Every week, we do after-school tutoring for children we feel are at risk of not passing the TAKS test," said Saunders. "This is something we use to capture the children's attention."

Aside from the fun factor, there is a direct link between being good at games and being good at math, Saunders said.

"Playing games like checkers lays a foundation in children's minds for problem-solving skills," she said. "And problem-solving skills lend themselves directly to math. The more children are exposed to it, the better prepared they will be for math."

Who's Who

Bob Bryant, executive director for the Katy Independent School District Fine Arts Department, has been named a 2006 Texas Tech University Distinguished Educator.

Each year, the College of Visual & Performing Arts identifies Texas Tech alums who have distinguished themselves in music education.

Bryant, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Bryant of Big Spring, was invited to visit the campus Oct. 30-Nov. 2, to speak to graduate and undergraduate students majoring in music, music education and administration.

"To be receiving recognition from one's alma mater for contributions to fine arts education is a tremendous honor that is a direct result of support from every level; parents, students, fellow teachers and administration," said Bryant. "Research repeatedly shows the benefits of the arts in achieving overall student success, and I look forward to speaking to future music educators about the critical role they will one day play in educating and preparing our young people to meet the challenges of tomorrow."

In addition, Bryant met with faculty and community members and was recognized at a School of Music recital honoring his accomplishments.

While in Lubbock, he had the opportunity to observe band and orchestra rehearsals and collaborate with Lubbock and area band, choir and orchestra directors.

Texas Tech Distinguished Educators are selected for the distinction based on their ongoing excellence in education, passion for teaching and contributions to the music education profession in general.

Added Bryant, "Music transcends the performance stage and the classroom learning environment. It provides our students with an engaging opportunity to deepen their knowledge of our diverse cultural heritages, our emotional and intellectual processes, and music's connections — through practical application — to the many concepts and principles of mathematics and science while providing them with skills that will touch their lives forever."

Bryant has been with Katy ISD for 24 years. During his tenure as executive director of Fine Arts, Katy fine arts students have consistently garnered state and national recognition.

Prior to his position as executive director, Bryant served as Katy High School's head band director and fine arts department chair for 17 years.

Before his career with the Katy ISD, Bryant was the director of bands for Lamesa High School for six years and spent three years as the band director at Sudan High School.

Bryant received a bachelor's degree and a master's degree in music education from Texas Tech University.

He is an active member of the Texas Music Educators Association, Texas Bandmasters Association, National Band Association, Texas Music Adjudicators Association, Texas Music Administrators

Conference and the Phi Beta Mu — Alpha Chapter professional band fraternity.

He also fulfills a busy schedule as a clinician and adjudicator throughout Texas and Louisiana.

Bryant and his wife, Felicia, a first grade teacher at Katy Elementary School, are the parents of Nathan, Natalie and Noel.

A 1970 graduate of Big Spring High School he was active in the Steer Marching Band, the Golden Horns and participated in Campus Revue.

Once called 'poor man's silver,' mercury glass is chic nowadays

By JESSIE MILLIGAN

Fort Worth Star-Telegram

Its silvery shimmer is reminiscent of Grandma's candlesticks and Christmas decorations. Its style statement also is very right now.

Mercury glass returns to store shelves most often in the fall-darkened days of a waning year, just in time to add sparkle to home decor.

You'll see mercury glass candlesticks, vases and Christmas trees, gazing balls and other decorative goods on the market now.

Our FAQs will help you understand why mercury glass is traditional and new, and whether it's for you.

OK, IT'S HIP, BUT WHAT IS MERCURY GLASS?

Mercury glass is coated on the inside with a silvery finish. A lot of silver-painted decor is on the market, but true mercury glass is a hollow glass form with the silver coating protected inside.

WHY IS IT CALLED MERCURY GLASS?

A concoction using mercury was used for the silvery coating on the earliest pieces dating back to the early 19th century, but the toxic metallic element was soon abandoned as too expensive. A mixture of silver nitrate and glucose was being used for the coating by the time the first patent on mercury glass was taken out in England in 1849. The formulas of today vary, but the result is the same — silver on the inside of the glass.

The mercury glass name stuck. It's also called silvered glass, or Varnish glass after the last name of an early manufacturer.

When it first came on the scene, the English called it "poor man's silver." The Germans called it "farmer's silver."

WHAT MAKES IT POPULAR?

"It's being used today for the same reason it was used in the past," says Debbie Hughes, who sells china and Victorian-era glass at the Montgomery Street Antique Mall in Fort Worth. "It was a very pretty way to spark up the common person's home without spending the money on silver."

Mercury glass has been, and still is, less costly than silver. It's also less labor-intensive. It doesn't tarnish.

Although known as working man's silver, mercury glass also was in use in homes of the wealthy. One popular use was the "butler's ball," a mercury glass orb on a pedestal. Butlers could look in its reflective surface and see if any guests needed attention.

TIP: Pottery Barn is selling a modern equivalent of a "butler's ball" this season. The Pottery Barn folks call it a mercury sphere, and it rests atop a wooden pedestal. Cost, $29 for the 11-inch-high version; $39 for one that is 14 inches tall.

Mercury glass' popularity declined in the late 19th century. Martha Stewart blames its temporary demise on electric light, which lessened the desire for reflective surfaces in decor and also drew mercury glass out of the shadows, where it could be judged as "fake" silver.

WHY IS SOME OF IT SHINY AND SOME BLACKENED?

Particularly in style this year are mercury glass pieces intentionally made to look aged, with a blackened or flaked appearance.

The look takes its cue from the natural way the original mercury glass used to age.

The first makers of mercury glass poured a silver nitrate solution into the double-walled glass form through a hole in the bottom, then sealed the hole. Mercury glass would stay shiny until the seal wore off. The exposure to air caused oxidation that darkened and eroded the interior coating. Today, that look is a good thing.

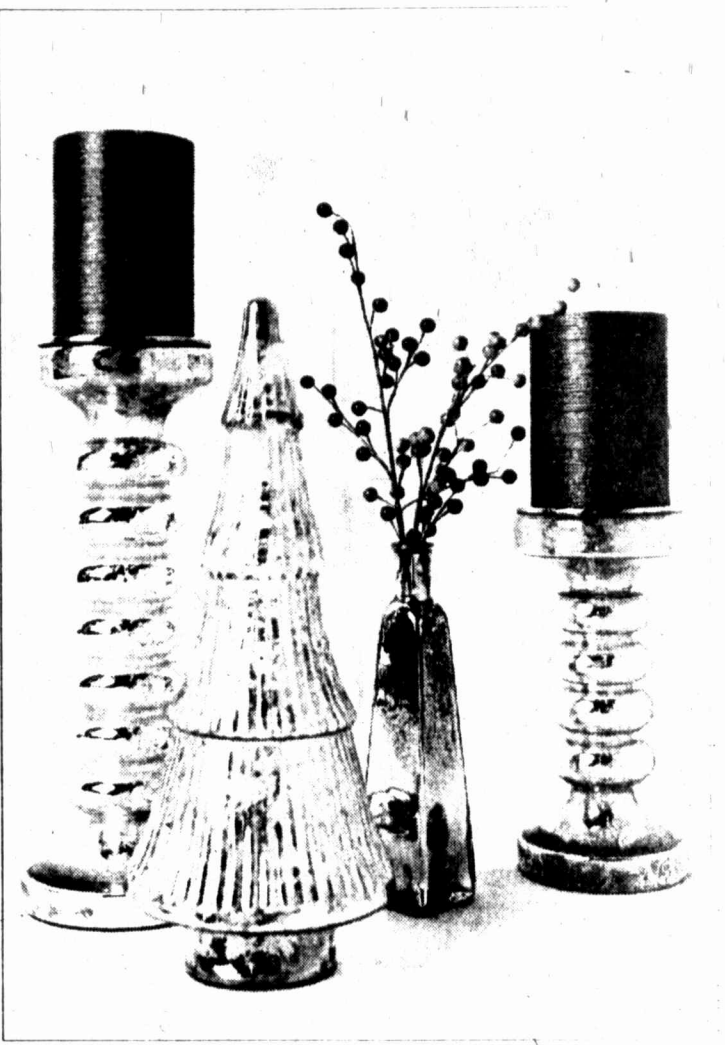

WHY IS IT ASSOCIATED WITH CHRISTMAS?

Mercury glass returned in the form of Christmas ornaments in the early 1900s, and again became popular for Christmas ornaments around 1950.

In one of its most recent holiday revivals, ornament designer Christopher Radko introduced a line of painted retro tree ornaments in 1986. Much of Radko's line is made of mercury glass that is then painted. To see his work, check out www.christopherradko.com. His ornaments are carried at a variety of stores, including Neiman Marcus and Macy's.

Yet it is the unpainted mercury glass in its silvery form that is the most widely seen in stores this season.

Where to get it: Check out www.ebay.com or antiques stores. Antique mercury glass can run into

Pact makes obtaining bachelor's degree here possible

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

How can you attend a university 100 miles away with actually traveling 100 miles?

By attending Lubbock Christian University classes at Howard College.

For the past four years, LCU has offered local residents with at least 60 hours of college credit the opportunity to obtain a bachelor's degree in organizational management without ever leaving the Big Spring city limits.

That partnership was cemented earlier this week when LCU joined the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Through the program, local residents attend one four-hour class a week at the HC library. Less than two years later, they earn their degree.

"Those who have an associate's degree — or are close to having an associate's degree — can begin work with Lubbock Christian to get a bachelor's degree in organizational management, and the nice thing is that they never have to leave Big Spring," HC President Dr. Cheryl Sparks said.

The program, Sparks noted, is a result of years of negotiation between the two colleges.

"LCU officials came to visit us several years ago. They were interested in establishing satellite opportunities for students interested in pursuing a degree," Sparks said. "We kept pursuing it for several years ... and started the satellite program in June 2002."

Hilary Faircloth, a LCU admissions counselor for the program, said a degree in organizational management is one that can be used for anyone interested in pursuing a variety of business ventures.

New classes begin in June. For more information, contact HC at 264-5000.

Scams!

Use caution when buying prepaid gift cards, BBB says

More than $18 billion in gift cards were purchased in 2005 and retailers are expecting that to increase before this year is over.

Many of the cards, which essentially are used like cash, will be purchased this holiday season as gifts for hard-to-shop for friends and family.

The Better Business Bureau, however, warns that a number of scams surrounding gift cards have evolved and consumers should be cautious about where and how they purchase them.

Two types of gift cards exist: Those sold by retailers, which can only be used at that store or sister stores; and bank cards, which can be used almost anywhere. The bank-issued debit cards, however, come with a variety of fees and restrictions.

Gift cards can also be purchased on Internet auction sites, but oftentimes these cards have been stolen and ultimately hold no value.

In another scam, crooks copy down the numbers on the back of gift cards displayed on retail store racks then wait several days in hopes the card is sold before calling to find out the balance left on the card. When they find one with a balance, they go online for a free shopping spree using that card number, essentially picking the pocket of the legitimate customer or gift card recipient. Another scam involves corrupt cashiers who pocket newly loaded cards and hand customers blanks.

Retail experts say there are several steps consumers can take to guard against ending up with a fraudulent gift card.

- Buy from reputable sources, preferably directly from the store and, if possible, not off a rack.

Many experts discourage buying gift cards online because it's difficult to know whether the card is stolen or will arrive with the promised amount.

- When buying a gift card, keep the original purchase receipt with the card as proof of purchase.

- Immediately after buying a gift card, ask the cashier to scan the card itself to ensure the card is valid and has the proper value.

- Reputable companies do not ask for sensitive information such as Social Security number, bank account information or date of birth when purchasing gift cards.

For additional consumer tips, contact the BBB at www.permian-basin.bbb.org or call at (432) 563-1880 or (800) 592-4433.

House GOP reaches consensus Friday on offshore drilling bill

By BEN EVANS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Abandoning months of opposition, House Republicans agreed Friday to move a compromise offshore drilling bill passed by the Senate this summer that would open new territory in the Gulf Coast area to oil rigs and create a cash cow for nearby states.

But it wasn't clear whether party leaders could summon enough votes to pass it quickly before lawmakers adjourn in the coming weeks.

With time running out on the party's majority rule, GOP leaders will send the measure to the floor on Tuesday as a "suspension" bill requiring a two-thirds majority to pass, said Kevin Madden, a spokesman for Majority Leader John Boehner.

House leaders had previously blocked the bill, hoping for more ambitious legislation that would allow drilling in coastal waters across the country unless a state objects. But industry groups have lobbied heavily for Republicans to take what they can get and pass the Senate bill.

Madden said Republican leaders would now support the compromise measure and work to pass it. Moving it as a "suspension" bill will speed the process and block amendments, lawmakers said.

Dave Parker, president and CEO of the American Gas Association, said the hurdle of winning a two-thirds majority could prove difficult but that he was optimistic.

"We're pleased that this bill is going to

Toyota's U.S. sales surpass Ford's for 2nd month this year

By JOSEPH ALTMAN

Associated Press Writer

DETROIT — Toyota Motor Corp. sold more vehicles in the U.S. last month than Ford Motor Co., marking the second time ever that the No. 2 domestic automaker was beaten out by its Japanese rival.

Ford reported Friday that its U.S. auto sales dropped 9.7 percent in November compared with the same period a year ago. Toyota sold 196,695 vehicles in November, a 15.9 percent increase over November 2005, compared with Ford's 181,111.

DaimlerChrysler AG sales rose 4.7 percent.

Toyota's sales, including its Lexus luxury brand, were boosted by a 17.8 percent increase in light truck sales. Sales of the RAV4 compact sport utility vehicle had their best November ever, up 156.9 percent to 11,425. Toyota's car sales were up 14.5 percent, to 109,126.

Ford's light truck sales dropped 13 percent to 119,259, while car sales fell 2.6 percent to 61,852, reflecting lower deliveries to fleet customers.

The Dearborn-based company said car sales to individual retail customers

Prevent debt during holiday shopping season

Take Charge America offers 5 tips to help keep your spending in check

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Millions of consumers may find that their open hearts will lead to empty wallets this holiday season.

Mike Sullivan, director of education for Take Charge America, a national non-profit credit counseling agency, says shoppers don't need to go broke in order to spread some holiday cheer.

"Many Americans have a misconception that the best gifts have to cost a lot of money," he said. "You can show your love and affection without driving yourself further into debt."

Consumers are expected to spend an average of $791.10 each on holiday merchandise this year, according to the National Retail Federation. Sullivan says shoppers who charge their holiday purchases will ultimately pay much more.

"The interest alone on credit card purchases can become a huge burden," he said. "I've seen many people get credit-card-statement-shock when they examine just how much money they've accumulated in interest — all money they originally hadn't planned to spend."

Sullivan has five tips to help shoppers stay out of debt:

Make a List — Compile a list of all the holiday gifts you plan to purchase, and stick to the list. This can prevent you from purchasing extras, both big and small. Remember, all those trinkets can add up to big bucks. Your list should also include your max spending limit for every item. If you have to ship gifts to people on your list, be sure to consider the size and weight of gifts as you make your list.

Keep the Plastic at Home — If carrying your credit card presents too much of a temptation to over-spend, leave it home. If you do bring your card, charge only gifts you can afford to pay off when the statement arrives. Just remember that you will be charged interest on any balance you can't pay off immediately.

Gifts from the Heart — A thoughtful gift doesn't have to empty your wallet. Loved ones are often touched more from gifts of the heart. Create a scrapbook, recipe collection or CD of special songs. You can also volunteer your time helping those less fortunate in honor of someone you love.

It's Better to Give than Receive — When you are holiday shopping, don't squeeze in unnecessary purchases for yourself. These items can add up quickly. Remember to stick to your list.

Go Online First — Scope out prices online before you head to the stores. This way, you'll know where to go for the best deals. If you purchase your gifts online, remember to calculate additional shipping and handling costs into your holiday budget.

were up for the Fusion, Mercury Milan and Lincoln MKZ midsize sedans. Ford's figures include the Ford, Lincoln, Mercury, Jaguar, Volvo and Land Rover brands.

Ford's share of the domestic market has declined from around 26 percent in the early 1990s to 17.6 percent at the end of October, when Toyota's share was 15.5 percent. In July, Ford sold fewer vehicles in the U.S. than Toyota for the first time, but Ford's U.S. sales surpassed the Japanese company's in August through October.

Ford on Friday also lowered its North American production estimates 2.5 percent for the current quarter and announced production goals for the first three months of 2007 that were in line with previous estimates.

Ford said it plans to build 620,000 vehicles in October-December period, including 240,000 cars and 380,000 trucks.

That's 15,000 fewer than previously announced.

move ... you take what you can get," Parker said.

The bill would allow new oil and natural gas development in 8.3 million acres of federally controlled waters in the eastern-central Gulf of Mexico, with backers saying it would help ease tight markets, particularly for natural gas. The Senate passed the bill 71-25 in August.

Along with opening new territory, the bill would sharply increase royalty shares for Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Texas from less than 2 percent to 37.5 percent. In 2017, the new royalty formula would apply to all oil and gas produced in the Gulf, not just from the 8.3 million acres newly opened.

"We're obviously working hard to make sure that we have the necessary votes," said Rep. Bobby Jindal, a Republican from Louisiana who has pushed the proposal. "We're optimistic this time. It's a compromise approach, and I think it's done in a way that can get that super-majority."

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: On Dec. 10, 2006, The Compassionate Friends, allied organizations, churches, hospitals and funeral homes will observe the 10th anniversary of the Worldwide Candle Lighting — a day set aside each year to honor and remember all children who have died far too soon. At 7 p.m. local time, candles will be lit for one hour in remembrance of the children gone, but never forgotten, creating a wave of light around the world.

Unfortunately, every year we are faced with tragedies that make this circle of light grow ever larger. As we light our candles, we remember the servicemen and women who have died in defense of their country, school-children who have died senselessly at the hands of others, those who have suffered long-term illness or died before they could see the light of day, and the many, many others who have lost their lives to AIDS, suicide or accident.

Your readers need not have had a child of their own perish to appreciate why this day is so special. We invite them to join The Compassionate Friends Worldwide by lighting a candle, whether at one of the hundreds of formal services around the country, or simply by lighting a candle with friends and family in their home.

Anyone wishing to locate a nearby service or receive more information is welcome to visit TCF's national website at www.compassionatefriends.org or call 1-877-969-0010. In addition, throughout the day of the Worldwide Candle Lighting, your readers are invited to leave a caring message in our online Remembrance Book.

We light a candle to remember our lost sons and daughters, brothers and sisters, grandchildren, friends and neighbors, that their light may always shine. — Patricia Loder, Executive Director, The Compassionate Friends/USA

Dear Patricia Loder: We hope our readers will again participate in the Worldwide Candle Lighting and light a candle next Sunday, Dec. 10, at 7 p.m., and remember every child who is no longer with us.

Dear Annie: I'm a 12-year-old boy, and I have a problem with another kid at school. "Jimmy" is a nice guy and all, but he always sits next to me in class and is very distracting. He rarely gets his homework done and always asks me for either my notes or the assignment just before it is due.

How do I tell him to stop distracting me, and that he needs to study and do his homework? I don't want to hurt his feelings.

— Distracted and Annoyed

Dear Distracted: Do you have assigned seats? If so, ask the teacher to move you. Otherwise, park yourself between the window and another student so Jimmy cannot sit near you. If that doesn't work, tell Jimmy that doing his homework on time will help him do better in class. Suggest he talk to the teacher about getting extra assistance. He may be a little miffed, but that's OK. He's taking advantage of your kindness, and in the long run, you aren't really doing him any good.

Dear Annie: My wife and I retired to Florida several years ago and have since been visited by friends from up North who ask if it's OK to visit us for a day or two. Unfortunately, their plans are flexible enough to change with anything we can come up with to be busy.

It was fun at first, but has turned into a lot of work to house, feed and entertain people. How do we gracefully discontinue putting up friends without offending them? Pointing them to a nearby motel would really hurt their feelings. Can you help? — Too Much Company

Dear Too Much: You aren't going to find any peace and quiet if you aren't willing to speak up. It's perfectly OK to tell your friends that you love them dearly, but you can no longer handle the constant entertaining. Offer to take them out after they get settled at their motel.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS
One thing to remember on the eve of a Gemini moon is that it's a bad idea to expect others to remain the same. People are multifaceted, with many different potential reactions and behaviors. Mood swings, circumstances, energy shifts can all bring about the emergence of a person's "twin." Be prepared for it, assuming nothing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You agree to the obvious. Yes, pollution is bad, world hunger and disappearing rain forests are bad, bad, bad. But your quest is to strive for more specific healings, maybe smaller, but equally important to the planet.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You're facing one of those times when everything is on the line. It's all or nothing. Trying doesn't count. Achieving is the name of the game. You're strong and determined.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). It's funny what people give their attention to. If you can't get noticed for being proficient, competent and talented, you may get noticed for being goofy, inappropriate or shocking. It's just as satisfying when you do.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You're uplifting and bold, even around friends who, it seems, have every right to be depressed. You can't let that happen. If people are near you, you feel it's your responsibility to lighten them up. And you do it, too.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You're supposed to be relaxing. You can't help it if the way you relax usually entails a lot of work. You could even be moving equipment, sweating and getting yourself places, all in the name of leisure.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). It's a brisk, hoppy-choppy day. You get to the point, so you have more quality time to yourself. Hopefully you won't be accused of being curt. Besides, you're perfectly willing to elaborate for anyone who takes issue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You have a right to your opinion and also to know what's going on with your various contributions to others. Be candid. This is no time to drag your feet about declaring good news, or bad news for that matter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Almost any problem you could encounter now is made better by acquiring specialized knowledge or a skill. Open wide the doors of conversation — you learn more this way than through reading.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Love conquers all, including financial considerations. Acting in a loving way could melt away money issues with you even having to deal with them directly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). It's not healthy to ruminate over the same problem over and over. If the details of a project are getting too troubled and messy, cut your losses. Start over from scratch. It saves you time in the long run.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Everyone has a story. Luckily, you're not a captive audience to most of them ... just one or two today. That's more than enough to get you primed to go out and live your own story, glad to be you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). The stars declare this to be your perfect time to adopt a new financial strategy. Get input from a money-smart friend. This will keep you from falling into the same old debt-to-income ratio in the future.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: The full moon is like a wild party. As any good host knows, the time leading up to a party can be the best part. Basking in the glow of a momentous event isn't so bad either. Just as the moon appears to be full before and after it reaches its absolute glory, the effects of the full moon can be felt leading up to, and then after the event. In order to take advantage of this lunar transit in Gemini, some preparation can be done on Sunday. Gemini energy is social and talkative. Catch up on all your calls, and dare to invite a few friends over to enjoy the full moon energy on Monday night. You don't have to do anything lavish food- and drink-wise (and don't expect help in this area either). The Gemini full moon is more about a meeting of minds. Games of intellect, especially ones that get the conversation bubbling, are especially suited for the moon. Also, there won't be many volunteers for cleanup duty. During this transit, people feel they're contributing with their smart dialogue, quick exchange of ideas and clever essence — and indeed this winds up being the most memorable contribution of all.

'You, Me and Dupree' falls flat on DVD

Sometimes I just get a good feeling about a film — no matter how bad the trailer or the box office outlooks appear to be — and I'm usually right.

Usually.

"You, Me and Dupree" gets neatly filed into that list of films I had thought would be stellar but amounted to nothing more than a fizzle.

Thomas Jenkins

When Owen Wilson ("Cars," "Wedding Crashers") is set loose to follow his every comic whim as Randy Dupree, the results can be irritating. "You, Me & Dupree" instructs Wilson to carry all the comedy, and the film dies a little every time he opens his mouth. Miscasting also wounds the potential merriment of the picture, but truthfully, the whole enterprise is a severe test of patience.

Newly married to his sweetheart Molly (Kate Hudson, "Almost Famous," "How to Lose a Guy in 10 Days"), Carl (Matt Dillon, "Drugstore Cowboys," "Wild Things") is looking forward to a time of prosperity and privacy.

Suddenly, into his life comes old buddy Dupree who needs a place to stay while he confronts his crumbling life of leisure. Initially, Dupree crashes on Carl's couch. Apparently, the Peterson home doesn't have a guest room.

The first morning the newlyweds find Dupree sleeping nude on their plush leather couch. And for those of you who've seen the trailer, you'll notice that the TV version has Owen Wilson wearing some kind of thong underwear. In the PG-13 version we get what the censors would call "brief nudity," Wilson's bare butt.

My thought is that the thong would be funnier production.

Personal peccadilloes aside, "You, Me and Dupree" isn't an especially funny film. It leans heavily on the persona of star Owen Wilson — playing the usual laid-

I was vaguely offended by the notion that anyone single and over 30 is ipso facto an irresponsible Peter Pan with nothing to do but mooch off his more grown-up (i.e., married) friends. It bugs those of us who labor under such misperceptions. A lot.

Just because we haven't paired up doesn't mean we have problems paying our mortgages, keeping our jobs, or caring for pets, children, and elderly relatives without any of them wandering off. But you wouldn't know it judging by films like "You, Me and Dupree."

Pop culture loves this particular permutation of the "Marry and Reproduce Agenda," and periodically insists on cramming it down our throats. Nothing like that feckless third wheel to clog up the couch and keep you from cranking out a couple of kids like grandma wants, right?

The script by Mike Le Sieur attempts to skewer our sense of obligation to our friends — how a well-meaning effort to stand by a buddy on the ropes can lead to disaster. But it has no real idea how to frame that notion in any kind of proper context, instead glomming it onto a series of half-baked subplots involving Carl's conflicts with his boss-father-in-law (played by Michael Douglas who delivers the only good performance of the film) and Molly's efforts to get her new husband to communicate with her.

Dupree alternately exacerbates and mitigates these troubles with a varying series of slacker fumbles and Zen philosophy. None of the story arcs goes anywhere, and Dupree's hosts/foils have little to distinguish them beyond Hudson's basic likeability and Dillon's ability to look put-upon.

Within that soggy mixture, the jokes just never find any traction. There are a few predictable sight gags of the "Locked Out of the House While Naked" variety, but mostly, the onerous falls on Wilson, whose well-meaning loser follows the same pattern as regardless whether it's really Wilson's bare bottom that's featured.

Later Dupree takes up in what appears to be a closed in porch converted into an office, but we never get the feeling there are any other bedrooms. Frankly, this contrived arrangement smelled of script tinkering for the sole purpose of squeezing out laughs. But instead of being genuinely funny, the whole thing rings false, casting an artificial tone over the entire back, lovable screw-up who can't do a thing right, but always has some deeper wisdom to teach us — without bothering to develop a decent narrative around him.

Directors Anthony and Joe Russo are probably best known for their work on the brilliant "Arrested Development," but little of that lamentably canceled series' pluckish wit is on display here.

far too many of his other characters.

If you're a fan, that might be enough. He has some decently goofy one-liners, and as thin as the material is, his combination of sunny disposition and inadvertent bungling is never entirely unwelcome. But the film can't settle on the right tone for him. At times, he's the fly in the ointment, perpetrating all sort of wacky disasters while Hudson and Dillon play straight man for him.

Other times, he's the sage advisor, dispensing nuggets of bubble gum wisdom or arriving just in time to prevent some disaster. The mixture is presumably intended to make him well rounded, but the resulting tone is supremely uneven and prevents the premise from settling into a decent rhythm.

In an effort to keep things from growing stale, the film shifts midway through, as Carl begins to suspect Dupree of amorous intentions towards his wife. But that never strikes the right chords either, feeling more like filler than genuine development.

And while Douglas makes a fine bastard — you can start making good movies again any time, Mike — Dupree doesn't know what to do with him, trundling out an unconvincing finale after a series of mildly amusing but relatively toothless confrontations.

As is typical with films like this, none of that would matter if the jokes hit more often. But laughs become a thing of beauty — check out "There's Something About Mary" — and the actor knows how to make the absurd work.

"Dupree" sticks him with the straight man role, and Dillon melts away into the background. There's nothing in the script for him to play with, and his chemistry with Owen Wilson doesn't speak years of friendship, but merely five minutes of touch football before cameras rolled.

As for Wilson, "Dupree" seems to have forgotten that it was Vince Vaughn with the comedic thunderbolts in "Wedding Crashers." Directors Joe and Anthony Russo — yep, it took two guys to make this film — really play up Wilson's more forcefully obnoxious traits, losing the vital feeling of sympathy for the character by having Wilson play to the rafters.

While peppered with some appealing, if completely unrealized bits of goofiness — most provided by co-star Seth Rogan as Carl and Dupree's whipped married friend — "Dupree" is mostly a failed sitcom, burdened with lame scripted twists that even the Fox Network would turn down.
