Child Killed at Main Street Railroad Crossing

T.J. Wilson,8, of Clarendon, was killed instantly when he ran in front of a train on Kearney Street. His brother, Ben, and several other children dashed in front of the locomotive, but made it across the tracks in time to avoid injury. Officials at the scene said that young Wilson lacked a step or a step-and-a-half of clearing the engine.

According to the accident reports, his body was thrown 98 feet by the empty coal train. The engineer put the brakes on emergency and stopped the train by the time it reached overpass behind Thriftway. That is very short distance to stop a train of that size, with 100 or more cars. Had the train been loaded, it would have probably taken more than a mile to stop.

This was the second fatality and the third serious accident within the city limits in just a few years.

The crossing has blinking lights, but no cross arms.

According to the report, the train was traveling at 45 mph at the time of the impact. The legal speed limit is 49 mph.

Locomotive engineers had complained earlier about children taking chances running in front of trains, but it is very difficult for railroad detectives or local law enforcement officers to catch the culprits.

Area officials hope to be able to set a lower speed limit on trackes within the city limits. The maximum speed within Clarendon at present is the same as the Federal speed limit in open country. If and when Centralized Traffic Control is implemented, the Federal speed limit would be probably be increased.

Paper to Close

The Clarendon News will be closed for the Thanksgiving Holidays on Thursday, November 25 and Friday, November 26. They will be open for business as usual on Monday, November 29, 1993.

Local Teacher Honored

At times it may seem that teaching is a thankless occupation, but during this holiday season when we're giving thanks, it is time to recognize the contributions teachers make.

Mary K. Hayes, an English/Spanish teacher at Clarendon High School, was chosen for local recognition through the Texas Excellence Awards for Outstanding High School Teachers awarded annually by The Ex-Students' Association of The University of Texas at Austin.

Hayes, a teacher for 19 years, was nominated by Principal Kent Hargis.

The award, sponsored by The Ex-Students' Association in cooperation with UT's College of Education, recognizes teachers who make a special effort to prepare their students for higher education. It was established in 1986 to promote public esteem for the teaching profession in Texas. Out of the 220 local honorees statewide, 10 will be selected to represent all the honorees at a banquet and conference held in their honor in February.

The Ex-Students' Association is an organization of more than 54,000 former UT students and friends.

Drug Raid Nabs Three

A drug raid about 9:30 Wednesday night in Hedley resulted in three arrests and the confiscation of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

Jim Shadle, investigator for the District Attorney's Office, Sheriff Jimmy Thompson, Deputies Milton McElroy and Pat McElroy, Constable Blackie Johnson, Reserve Deputies Joe Shadle, Kelly Hill, Randy White, Refugio Benavides, and Ronnie Hill, and Warden Gary Hunt conducted the raid.

Officers arrested Leslie Clayton Brown, Brent Wayne McNutt, and Robert Arthur Bullock.

In other matters, local law enforcement officers arrested Victoria Sue Rogers and Donald Ray Mason both of Memphis, for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. According to local officials, the woman is wanted in Florida for charges of assault on a police officer. They expect extradition papers to arrive soon.

Holiday Tips On Driving

Texas Department of Safety Region 5

A time to be thankful is once again upon us, It seems that during the Thanksgiving period, most people are trying to get home to their loved ones. This is a time when families reunite and gather together for big turkey dinners and a period of time when we give thanks for being able to get together and enjoy ourselves. This also brings on an increase of traffic on our streets and highways. We, the Texas Department of Public Safety, urge everyone to use extreme care this year, so that we can live to have another Thanksgiving.

It is true that many Texas citizens will become a statistic during this holiday period and that many planned gatherings will be ruined by these tragedies. Let us keep in mind, as we plan our trips and gatherings, this year to plan ahead and give ourselves plenty of travel time and plenty of rest stops.

Order Trees Now!

The Donley County Soil and Water Conservation District will be able to offer trees this year in one-gallon and five-gallon containers as well as the traditional "economy size". However, supplies of some of the smaller trees have already been exhausted, and there are limited numbers of some of the larger sizes available. Plants will be alloted on a "first come, first served" basis.

The Texas Forestry Service, Colorado Forestry Service and private Texas nurseries are providing plant material to the district. Prices for the trees are very reasonable.

For a list of trees, bushes and packets available, call the SCS Office at 874-3576. There are packages available to attract birds and wildlife as well as trees and bushes for conservation or scenic use. Plants are available to any or all Donley County residents.

LARGER SIZE TREES will be available this year from the Conservation District., including some fruit trees. The plants above are one-gallon and five-gallon sizes. These may be up to five or six feet tall.

Angel Tree Announced

Panhandle Community Services, Clarendon, is please to announce that they have their Angel Tree up and going for the 1993 Christmas season.

As most of you may remember, in 1992 Robbie Hill, Regional Manager, and Carlene Hollar, Center Coordinator, borrowed an idea from the Salvation Army and had their first Angel Tree, with names of boys, girls, men and women from the community on the tree. There are blue angles for boys, pink angels for girls, orchid angels for women, and green angels for men. As the angels are picked from the tree, the angel is replaced with a ball that says "I've gone home with the (name of person who took the name) family."

In cooperation with the Texas Department of Human Services worker Ronda Roper-Hutchins of Memphis, First Bank and Trust and Donley County State Bank have agreed to have Angel Trees in their facilities, containing the names of Donley County residents who are elderly and\or disabled.

If you would like to have your name placed on the tree at the local PCS Office, or if you know of anyone who might benefit from having their name placed on the tree, please go by their office, located in the old courthouse, or call Robbie or Carlene at 874-2573 and they'll be happy to help you. In addition to names, they also need sizes and ages for any children to be placed on the tree.

Those in the community who took names last year were very quick to reveal how much of a blessing it was to them to be able to do for someone who was perhaps less fortunate than they were.

If you and your family prefer to provide Christmas for a child or children, visit the PCS office. Visit either bank or the PCS office if you are interested in providing holiday cheer for the elderly or disabled. Names will be available in the PCS office starting November 10.

Light Up Clarendon

The Clarendon Merchants Association will again light up Clarendon for the Holiday Season. The Christmas lights are scheduled to be turned on, Monday, November 22, with stores staying open for late night shopping. Please help light up Clarendon! If you are interested in lighting up your homes or businesses, you may purchase lights at Henson's. Participating merchants are again planning on late night shopping, and spinning the wheel for prizes and bucks. More details will be given in a later issue.

Christmas Celebration Set

Once again the Girl Scouts are organizing the community Christmas celebration. The celebration will be held on the courthouse lawn on Monday, November 29 about dark. They would like to encourage more community participation. If your club, church or civic organization would like to put up decorations, sing, make contributions to those who are, please contact Debbie Hines or Denise Bertrand.

Time is running out, please call now.

Dear Editor:

I'm writing this letter to say how fortunate we are in this community to have so many good young people. One especially that I would like to commend is Krystal Green, better know to the children who love her as Sparky, the Bronco mascot. She has taken a lot of time this year as mascot to make all the children at the ball games feel that they are special. I have a granddaughter, Leigh Ann Layton, and she wanted to go to all the games so she could see Sparky. I noticed that at every game Sparky was constantly surrounded by children-most teenagers would not have taken the time to visit with those children. So Krystal on behalf of all the children that you made feel so special, I say thank you for making this a better community to live in.

Respectfully,
Sandra Layton

Dear Editor,

Imagine the reaction of Texas Stadium one Sunday afternoon if Troy Aikman, Emmitt Smith and the rest of the cowboys strode out of the tunnel in the standard football gear of the 1930s-leather helmets, little or no padding, and stiff, clunky cleats. Worse, suppose Jimmy Johnson had decided to use the play book from that era. No matter how the opponents lined up, he set his strategies based on what worked way back then. It doesn't take much to figure out the results would be disastrous. What worked yesterday won't cut it today when the rest of the teams are improving and changing strategies.

When the North American Free Trade Agreement goes before Congress in a few short days, our representatives will make a crucial decision on how the United States will compete in a global economy that's changing far more quickly that any football game. If our country is going to succeed, NAFTA needs to be part of the play book.

NAFTA's 15-year plan to open the borders to free trade between the United States, Mexico and Canada will create jobs and position us to compete in a world economy rapidly becoming based on trading alliances. The European Community and Pacific Rim trade blocks already are making an impact on the world's economy by pooling their resources. If the United States misses its opportunity to lead North America into a similar agreement, our business and industry won't be competing on a level playing field with our counterparts in countries like Japan.

Of course, change is unsettling, and every policy shift has its drawbacks as well as its advantages. But many of the arguments against NAFTA are rooted in fear, not facts.

Some low-skill level jobs may be lost as companies move to take advantage of Mexico's lower wage scale. We are loosing those jobs now. But most economists agree that the United States will gain jobs

We must remember to be a defensive driver and to watch out for the other person at all times.

Remember, no matter how good of a driver we may be that we cannot control the person that we are meeting. We have no guarantee that that person has not dropped a cigarette, had a cardiac arrest, tanked up on booze or hopped up on pills. Let's drive as if each driver will always do the unexpected and in this manner we can live to enjoy another holiday. Remember, to always be a defensive driver.

This is also a time that hunters will be on the highway. This will also add to the congestion of our streets and highways. Let us all take the time to be a courteous driver and to keep our minds in the right frame of mind.

American Cancer Society Prepares For GASO

The American Cancer Society has declared Thursday, November 18, as the day for the annual Great American Smokeout.

GASO chairman Carroll Duncan will be distributing materials to various business locations in town. Anyone wanting to participate by "adopting" a smoker or just stopping smoking for the day will be able to find help in the aids provided by the Cancer Society. Pamphlets on smokeless tobacco will also be provided.

Nearly 5.5 million adults used chewing tobacco and snuff in 1991, according to the Centers for Disease Control. This is the most recent data available. Men age 18 to 24 has the highest percent of usage.

Surgeon General Antonia C. Novello warned in December that the United States faces an epidemic of oral cancer in the coming decade because of the widespread use of smokeless tobacco. Twenty three percent of the people who chew tobacco also smoke. What this means is that they are getting a double dose of a product which can produce cancer as well as gum and mouth disease.

Dear Editor--Cont'd.

from NAFTA. Gary Hufbaker and Jeffrey Scott of the Institute for International Economics predict a net gain of 171,000 American jobs over the next 5 years as we gain expanded opportunities for trade with Canada and Mexico. And the jobs we gain will be better, higher-paying jobs than the ones we lose. American jobs related to trade with Mexico pay about 17 percent more than the average U.S. job, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

But when it comes down to it, estimates and predictions are just our best guesses of what will happen. For concrete evidence of what happens when rich and poor nations join forces in a trade zone, we need a real-life example. Fortunately, we don't have to go far to find one. In 1986, when the European Community brought Spain and Portugal in to their common market, they were in a similar situation. Just like the opponents of NAFTA are today, Europeans in the richer northern nations feared the flight of jobs to the nations with low wages. The results proved different. Wages and economic growth exploded in Spain and Portugal, with the per capita Gross National Product in both countries more than doubling in 5 years time. And the wealthier nations of the north, in addition to gaining profitable export markets, also saw their job-creation rates accelerate. Stanford University professor Anne Krueger, a former chief economist for the World Bank, summed the situation up pretty succinctly. "Ahead of time, people said terrible things would happen. And then, of course, nothing terrible happened."

Every businessman or woman knows that success involves taking risks. But when we weigh the pros and cons, and look at it in a fact-based, not fear-based light, NAFTA is clearly a step the United States needs to take. We can't stop the changes in the world economy any more than the Dallas Cowboys could make every team in the NFL run 1930s' plays and wear 1930s' equipment.

What we can do is learn the new strategies, sign the new players, and do what it takes to win on today's playing field. One thing is certain, our economic future is too important for anyone to sit on the sidelines. If you feel strongly about this issue, write your congressional representative today.

Glenn Files, President and Chief Executive Officer of West Texas Utilities Company.

Social Security News

New Social Security Handbook Now Available

"The newly revised Social Security Handbook is an essential resource for lawyers, accountants, and other representatives and advisers who need to keep up-to-date on Social Security matters," according to Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo.

The 1993 edition of the handbook updates major provisions of the Social Security Act, as amended through December 1992. It is designed to be a resource for those who need detailed information about the Social Security program. It explains regulations and rulings that affect the retirement, survivors, disability, health insurance, supplemental security income, and black lung benefits program. The handbook also provides brief descriptions of related programs.The Eleventh Edition of the handbook helps people understand how the various programs operate, who is entitled to benefits under each, and how to obtain benefits. A number of major changes have occurred since publication of the Tenth Edition (1988), including revisions to the disability insurance program that redefined childhood disability.

The handbook is for sale by the U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO). Individual copies are $20 for domestic orders and $25 for order to foreign countries. If you order 100 copies or more, a 25 percent discount applies. Because GPO's price changes periodically, it is best to check on the current price before ordering the handbook. You can fine out the price by calling GPO's Publication Department, (202)783-3238. Copies may be purchased directly from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC., 20402. Boss Lion Cherry adjourned the meeting with this thought. "If it weren't for the fact that the TV set and the refrigerator are so far apart, some of us wouldn't get any exercise at all."

Check It Out

by Mary Beth Nelson

In my last article, I promised to say more about Burton Memorial Library's video tape section. If you've never investigated this part of the library, you are due for a pleasant surprise.

As previously mentioned, the Clarendon Rodeo tapes are the most recent addition. Two other tapes of special local interest are-History of the JA Ranch, colorfully narrated by Montie Ritchie; and an interview with Dema Savage Justice, school teacher in the early days of Collingsworth County. A lovely portrait of Dema currently hangs on the library's south wall. She was our City Librarian for many years. In fact, she was instrumental in encouraging Karen Simmons and me to originate the Summer Reading Club approximately twelve years ago. Remember, Karen?

Not only tapes of local personalities are in this section, but dramatizations under titles, American Playhouse and American Short Story Video Series are included. Also, a Life on Earth series in which scientific data is blended with fascinating wildlife photography; a documentary, Nova Whale Watch which alerts viewers to continuing advance in scientific research; The Story of English hosted by Robert McNeil of the McNeil, Lehrer News Hour; and Great Performances are only part of the variety of numerous selections available for your viewing.

Before you express disappointment in not finding something for your young children in this section, simply cross the library to the Youth section where you'll find Snow White, Ninja Turtles, Robinson Crusoe, Shirley Temple, Little Red Riding Hood, Winnie the Pooh, Dr. Seuss, Robin Hood, Pinocchio, Mickey Mouse, Ugly Duckling, Paul Bunyan, and twenty others to delight youngsters. I know! I counted them.

You may have a tape or two that you no longer care about keeping, but which could benefit someone else in the community. Burton Memorial Library remains appreciative and receptive of all donations. Each contribution to the library is a step toward quality improvement within our City Library. I'm sure it is a good feeling for those who have made contributions to know they have been part of that improvement. So, before you discard that tape, why not check with Mary Linn, and watch the video section grow?

Winter Safety Tips Given

With winter just around the corner, most people start thinking about hot chocolate, snowmen and Santa Claus. But as the coldest months approach, Lone Star Gas Company reminds us that everyone should also think about ways to keep safe - and warm - during the winter season.

* Use a gas appliance only for its intended purpose. An oven, for example, should not be used to heat a room.

* If an appliance's pilot goes out, turn off the gas at the appliance for several minutes before you attempt to re-light it. You should find instructions attached to the appliance.

When re-lighting a pilot light, strike the match and hold it to the opening first. Then slowly turn on the gas.

* Never store or use gasoline or any flammable liquids (such as paint, paint thinner, cleaning fluids, etc) in the same room with any gas appliance.

* Never store rags, paper or other combustibles near any appliance with a pilot light or open flame.

* Never store combustibles near floor or wall furnace grills.

* Have qualified service people install and maintain all gas appliances.

* Always follow the manufacturer's instructions for the installation and operation of each appliance.

* Before you dig in your yard, take precautions against disrupting underground gas lines by calling your local plumber.

* Contact your local plumber to make periodic inspections of gas lines under your home and gas lines on your property.

And if your use space heaters in your home, the following guidelines should also be observed:

* Clean space heaters before using; remove cobwebs, dust and dirt that may have accumulated during the warmer months.

* Be sure the space heater, if it is vented, is operating properly.

* If the space heater doesn't have a vent or an oxygen cutoff switch, provide proper ventilation with a slightly open window.

* Check the air/gas mixture of your space heater's flame. Make sure it is blue - not red or yellow.

* Make sure the grille is intact and in place.

* Keep space heaters away from furniture, drapes and other combustible materials.

Whether you have a space heater or not, if you ever do smell the odor of gas in your home, follow these three steps:

1. Do not switch anything electrical on or off. Do not use your own telephone (telephones use small amounts of electricity). Do not strike a match, and do not do anything that might cause a spark.

2. Have everyone leave the house immediately, leaving the doors open for ventilation.

3. Go to the nearest telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the cause of the odor before returning to your home.

If you ever smell gas outside your home or anywhere in the community, contact Lone Star Gas immediately at the number listed in your local telephone directory. Lone Star Gas is always ready to answer any questions concerning the safe usage of natural gas.

TIPS ON STAYING SAFE AND SOUND WITH NATURAL GAS.

For more than 80 years, Lone Star Gas has been providing safe, dependable energy to its customers. By following a few simple rules, you can help make sure you and your family stay safe and sound with natural gas:

- Always have qualified service people install, regularly check and maintain all gas heaters and appliances, following the manufacturer's instructions for installation, ventilation, and operation.
- Always use a gas appliance only for its intended purpose. An oven, for example, should not be used to heat a room.
- Always keep flammable materials and substances away from gas heaters and appliances. Remember, a pilot light is constantly burning.

IF YOU SMELL GAS in your home, or know you have a gas leak, follow these rules:

1. Everyone should leave the house immediately, leaving the doors open for ventilation.
2. Do not switch anything electrical on or off.
3. Do not use your telephone (telephones use small amounts of electricity).
4. Do not strike a match or do anything else that might cause a spark.
5. Go to the nearest telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the cause of the gas leak before returning to your home.

If you smell gas while you're outside, contact Lone Star Gas immediately.

Social Security News

by Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo

Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) beneficiaries will receive a 2.6-percent raise in their benefits for 1994. The increase will appear in the checks Social Security beneficiaries receive on January 3, 1994, and SSI recipients receive December 30, 1993.

The latest increase raises the average Social Security benefit for a retired worker from $657 to $674 per month. The average monthly benefit for a couple where both spouses are receiving benefits will be $1,140 in 1994, compared with $1,111 in 1993. Average monthly disability benefits will be $641 in 1994, a $16 increase from the current amount. A young widow with two children received an average monthly payment of $1,282 this year; in 1994, the amount will increase to $1,316 a month.

The maximum Federal SSI monthly payment for one person will be $446 in 1994, up from $434 in 1993. For a couple, the maximum monthly amount will increase from$652 to $669 in 1994. Since some states add money to the federal benefit, total payment amounts will vary from one state to another.

The maximum amount of money that beneficiaries between the ages of 65 and 69 can earn in 1994 without reducing the amount of their Social Security benefits is $11,160. In 1993, the limit was $10,560. For every $3 a person earns over $11,160, $1 is withheld from his or her benefit.

For people under age 65, the corresponding limit will be $8,040 next year, up from $7,680 in 1993. For every $2 a person under 65 earns over $8,040 $1 is withheld from benefits. The benefits of people aged 70 or older who continue to work are not affected, no matter how much they earn.

For planning purposes, those Social Security beneficiaries with significant outside income need to be aware that effective for taxable years after 1994, the tax rate on their benefits will be increased. Couples whose income is more than $44,000 and individuals with income exceeding $34,000 will pay income tax on 85 percent of their Social Security benefits. Currently, couples whose income is more than $32,000 and individuals who have income exceeding $25,000 pay tax on 50 percent of their Social Security benefits. Only about 20 percent of all Social Security recipients pay taxes on their Social Security benefits.

1994 Social Security Taxes Increase for Some Taxpayers

Beginning January 1, 1994, the only taxpayers who will see an increase in their Social Security taxes are those who earn more than $57,600. The 1994 "wage base," the maximum amount of earnings subject to Social Security tax, will be $60,600, up from $57,600 in 1993. The tax rate remains the same: 7.65 percent (6.2 percent for Social Security and 1.45 percent for Medicare). The tax rate for self-employed individuals remains the same: 15.3 percent (12.4 percent for Social Security and 2.9 percent for Medicare).

Also beginning January 1, 1994, individuals who make more than $60,600 will continue to pay the Medicare portion of the Social Security tax - 1.45 percent for wage earners and 2.9 percent for self-employed - on the rest of their earnings. In 1993, they paid Medicare taxes only up to a $135,000 wage base.

The amount of wages needed to earn one Social Security "credit" will be $620 in 1994, up from $590 in 1993. The maximum number of credits that can be earned each year is four. Thus, anyone earning more than $2,480 in 1994 will receive the maximum of 4 credits for the year. To be eligible for Social Security benefits, a worker needs a specific number of credits. The number depends on his or her date of birth and the type of benefit involved. Most people need 40 credits to be eligible for retirement benefits, but some younger people qualify for disability and survivors benefits with as few as 6 credits.

Social Security Recipients to get Benefit Statements

Social Security beneficiaries will receive statements in the mail in January showing the benefits they received in 1993," said Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo. This statement should be used to determine if any benefits are subject to Federal income tax. "to ensure you receive the statement," Talbot said, "make sure Social Security has your correct address. This is especially important for individuals who receive their benefits by direct deposit."

Most of those who receive the statement - Form SSA 1099 - will not have to pay taxes on their Social Security benefits because their total income is less than the taxable ceiling. "If you receive Social Security benefits as your only source of income, you are unlikely to owe Federal taxes on the benefits," Talbot said.

An Internal Revenue Services (IRS) worksheet - IRS Notice 703 - comes with the benefit statement. "The worksheet shows you how to determine if your Social Security benefits are subject to tax," Talbot explained. "If, after completing the worksheet, you have questions about your tax liability, you should call the IRS toll-free number, 1-800-829-1040 and ask for Publication 915, which contains tax information about Social Security benefits.

Beneficiaries who file an individual tax return may owe taxes on some of their benefits if their combined income exceed $25,000. Married couples who file joint tax returns may have to pay taxes on some of their benefits if their combined income exceeds $32,000. Married couples who live together but file separate tax returns probably will pay taxes on part of their benefits. "For income tax purposes, if you have any benefits taxed, you will receive a Form SSA-1099 in January showing the benefits you received in 1993," Talbot said.

Short-Term Railroad Workers Collect Social Security Benefits

"If you worked for the railroad industry, but not long enough to be eligible for an annuity when you're ready to retire, don't worry. Your railroad wages will count toward you Social Security if you had less than 10 years of railroad service," according to Jim Talbot, Social Security Manager in Amarillo.

Generally, wages from railroad employment are not counted for Social Security if you had less than 10 years of railroad service," according to Jim Talbot, Social Security Manager in Amarillo.

Generally, wages from railroad employment are not counted for Social Security because railroad employees have a separate retirement system that is administered by the Railroad Retirement Board. "But, If you have fewer than 120 months of railroad service," Talbot said, "your railroad credits are transferred to Social Security upon retirement and combined with your wages (or self-employment income). Those combined railroad and Social Security earnings will be used to determine your Social Security benefits."

Social Security recently added Railroad earnings to the statements it provides individuals who want to check their earnings record or get an estimate of their Social Security benefits. "You can get an estimate by calling Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, to ask for a Form SSA-7004 (Request for Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement)," Talbot said. "Complete and return the form in the envelope that accompanies it. Your personal earnings and Benefits Estimate Statement should arrive 4-6 weeks after Social Security receives your request."
