LINDBERGH HOPS OFF FOR MEXICO

FARMER SLAYS FAMILY THEN HIMSELF

FIVE CHILDREN AND WIFE ARE VICTIMS OF AX

BRUTALITY RECOUNTED BY VISITOR AFTER HER ESCAPE

(By Associated Press)
HENNESSEY, Okla., Dec. 13.—Phillip Millis, farmer of near Hennessey, killed his wife and five small children with an axe early today and then hanged himself from a rafter in his barn.

Neighbors said Millis, who was 40 years old, was despondent because of financial losses and family trouble.

Mrs. Millis, who was about the same age as her husband, and a six month old baby on her arm, were killed as they slept. Twins, a boy and a girl, about 8 years old, and two smaller children likewise were killed in their beds.

School Teacher Escapes
Mrs. Mamie Brunley, a school teacher who was spending the night at the Millis home, was sleeping with one of the smaller children.

She was awakened as the farmer entered the room with an axe in his hand and jumped up screaming as he walked toward the bed. Millis cursed her as she ran from the house she said. She ran to the house of the nearest neighbor, about a quarter of a mile away, and asked for help. It was her belief that Millis had already killed his wife and other children when he entered her room.

Despondent Over Debts
A crop failure this year plagued Millis deeply into debt, neighbors said, and he had been despondent over his affairs for several weeks. Visitors at the home said Millis and his wife had frequent quarrels.

Millis had lived in the vicinity of Hennessey all his life and his wife also was a native of this part of the state.

Woman Indicted On Auto Theft Charge

Following her capture by officers in Sapulpa, Oklahoma, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, an indictment was returned by the Lubbock county grand jury this morning against Lillian Carlson, alias Lois Carlson, alias Mrs. J. W. Johnson, charging her with theft of a car from a local rent car station. The grand jury convened at 9 o'clock, returning the indictment a few minutes later.

The woman left Lubbock with the car last Friday and was taken into custody by the officers yesterday acting on instructions from the local sheriff's department.

Schools Here Hold Credits In Ass'n

Superintendent M. H. Duncan, of the Lubbock schools, announced today that he had received word from A. M. Blackman, of Austin, representative of the Southern Association of Accredited Schools and Colleges, that the Lubbock high school meets all the requirements of the association and retains its membership in high standing in that body. The annual inspection report of the local schools was very satisfactory. It was learned that the high school was taken into custody by the officers yesterday acting on instructions from the local sheriff's department.

GANG WARFARE FLARES AGAIN

TWO HERRIN OFFICERS VICTIMS OF GUNMEN IN NEW OUTBREAK

(By Associated Press)
HERRIN, Ill., Dec. 13.—A year of peace in Herrin, one of the storm centers of the southern Illinois coal fields, was broken here last night when an automobile filled with gunmen left behind two wounded police officers.

Mayor's Brother Hurt
Elmer McCormick, brother of Mayor Marshall McCormick, was in a critical condition today from gun shot wounds in his neck and breast and John Stamm, day chief of police, was nursing wounds in the shoulder from the rifles of the gunmen, who drove twice around the city hall, firing a volley upon each circuit.

Noted for its fitful outbreaks of rioting and shooting since the mine riots in 1921, Herrin has made consistent efforts in the last year to rid itself of its sanguinary name. Last night Mayor McCormick, his brother, a patrolman, and Stamm were standing on the city hall steps when the gunmen's car circled, the square and Stamm, who had taken refuge in an alley between the city hall and the fire station, received a bullet in the shoulder from the second volley. The car disappeared in the direction of Carbondale and Murphysboro.

Officers could give no motive for the shooting other than that it might have been a flare up of the Ku Klux Klan and anti-Klan troubles which have taken a number of lives here.

Light Showers Aid Littlefield Crops

LITTLEFIELD, Dec. 13.—Showers have been falling over the country for the past two days. The moisture is sufficient to be of inestimable help to the wheat. The largest wheat acreage known to the country has been planted, and is doing well, and with this moisture promises large yields for next year. The farmers have gathered their crops quicker and saved more of them in any previous year, and general conditions of the country are the best so far experienced.

B. C. D. NAMES COMMITTEE TO MEET COMMISSIONERS COURT ON COUNTY HIGHWAY ROUTING

A committee was authorized by the Board of City Development to meet with the County Commission to see if some decision can be reached on routing of certain Lubbock county highways within the near future before a county wide bond election for hardsurfing Lubbock county roads is to be called. The board authorized the appointment of the committee Tuesday morning in a regular semi-monthly meeting when a number of important matters were brought to their attention and acted upon.

REDS CONTROL CHINESE PORT IN NEW REVOLT

LOOTING HOLDS SWAY WHILE U. S. LANDS MEN AND GUNS

(By Associated Press)
Southern China appeared in the throes of a red revolt today with Canton completely in control of communists and other southern cities threatened.

The United States gunboat Sacramento landed men and field guns at Canton to protect foreigners, while two other American gun boats stood by.

Refugees reported looting and pillaging in Canton, while advisers from Hankow stated that outlying districts were completely communistic with peasants murdering wealthy land lords.

Serious mutiny reported at Loochow in northern Hupeh about 200 miles from Hankow; agitators were busy in Shanghai in the hope of bringing about a strike. Communist outbreaks reported at various ports along the Yangtze river including Changsha and Wuchang, suppressed by nationalist government.

Adding Machine Is Taken From Church

The First Methodist church adding machine is lost again. About a year ago the machine disappeared from the church and was later apprehended at Abilene, with other stolen goods from here. Last night sometime the machine was taken again. H. W. Richardson, finance and educational director of the church, reported. Officers have been notified of the disappearance, but nothing had been heard of the machine this morning. This is a Bureau of portable column teller machine.

Without a pass key or skeleton key, entrance could not have been gained to the room where the machine was kept, Mr. Richardson said.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS WILL BE READY FOR CHRISTMAS

Lubbock is to have traffic signal lights by Christmas Eve as a result of a short meeting of the city commission in the city hall this morning. When the order for the signals was placed for immediate shipment. The lights will be here sometimes during the next week and installed, officials said, following the meeting.

Simultaneously with this came word that workmen were to start at once on erection of one light which is now here, and this was almost completed this afternoon. Officials said it might be in operation by tonight, giving a sample of what is to come when the others are installed.

Only five of the signals will be placed in the city at the present time, officials say but should the traffic warrant them others will be installed. The designations have not been selected by the commission but officials say that four of the lights will likely be placed at the intersections of G, Texas, J and K Avenues on Broadway and probably at Texas and Main.

Lights Are Standard
The lights are of the standard regulation used in all of the larger cities of the United States, having the red, green and yellow traffic signals. They will hang from the center of the intersections above the streets.

The lights were purchased from the Eco manufacturing company, of Peoria, Illinois.

A number of other routine business matters were attended to by the commissioners in their meeting.

BOMB FIXED AT VIRGIN SHRINE

MEXICO CITY STIRRED BY PLOT AS MANY ARE ENDANGERED

(By Associated Press)
MEXICO CITY, Dec. 13.—An attempt to explode a bomb disguised as a holy candle was made at the shrine of the Virgin of Guadalupe yesterday "as many" worshippers made their devotions on the annual national holiday devoted to her memory.

The dangerous nature of the candle was discovered before it was lighted. Police today were endeavoring to find a motive for the attempt.

Seed Crashings In November Fall Off

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP).—Cotton seed crashed in four months from August 1, to November 30, totaling 2,401,824 tons compared with 2,470,078 tons in the same period a year ago, the census bureau announced today. Cottonseed on hand at mills November 30 totaled 1,137,944 tons compared with 1,391,920 tons a year ago.

Germany, Italy and Russia Hold Europe's Greatest Problems In Bronner's Opinion After Survey

Throughout the day a constant stream of pilgrims marched through the church and past the shrine. They carried lighted candles, kneeling and praying and joining in chants.

Through this worshipping crowd an unidentified man approached the altar. He carried what seemed to be a large unlighted candle. He handed this to a worshipper, saying: "Burn this for the Virgin." The worshipper, noticing the unusual weight of the candle, turned it over to the police. It was a wax-covered bomb.

With three drunks paying off today and six more, erring individuals behind the bars, activities around the city police court are on the usual pre-holiday rush. Three of the men held are Mexicans, charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

One man paid a fine of $40 for being drunk and disturbing the peace, bringing December's total of fines to $450.

DARING FLIER, TRUE TO FORM DECIDES SUDDENLY ON LONG NON-STOP JUMP AND IS OFF

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Charles A. Lindbergh sailed away today in his Spirit of St. Louis for a non-stop flight to Mexico City, which will take him over 2,000 miles of mountains, plains and valleys.

The young hero of the New York-to-Paris air epic decided the time and weather were right and without more ado, he announced that he was ready to go on his errand of good will which is expected to require about 26 hours in the air. He took his plane up at 12:29 p. m.

SOONER STATE HEAD CHARGED IN SIX COUNTS

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE AFTER EARLY MEET OF SOLONS TODAY

(By Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 13.—Quietly assembling in a downtown hotel while national guardsmen who had been called out to prevent their meeting dispersed at the state capitol, a self-convened executive session of the Oklahoma house of representatives in the dark hours of early morning today voted six impeachment charges against Governor Henry S. Johnston, Charles Moon of Muskogee, announced at the door of the executive session.

It also voted impeachment charges Chief Justice Fred Branson and Harry Cordell, president of the state board of agriculture, it was said.

Big Majorities in Votes
Each of the charges was voted, Moon said, by an overwhelming majority of the disheveled legislators, who were summoned in bath robes and every conceivable undress costume from their beds.

The session, by a vote of 49 to 6 charged the governor with making the military authority suppress over civil authority, Moon said.

At the same time, Moon said, charges of corruption in office had been voted against Chief Justice Fred Branson of the state supreme court. The charges were 21.

Then Moon announced that the house session had voted 49 to 5 charging the governor with incompetency, and 44 to 5 charging him with giving Jose Alvarado, alleged robber, a commission as a state attorney in question.

Moon said the executive session had voted 49 to 15 to prefer impeachment charges against the governor for alleged illegal employment of Kirby Fitzpatrick, of Ardmore, as an attorney for the state banking department.

A fifth charge, he said, soon afterward, had been voted 42 to 13, one present not voting. This charge he said, was made in connection with a $7,900 deficiency certificate on the banking department alleged to have been paid to employees illegally on the payroll.

A sixth charge was voted 46 to 8, Moon said. He alleged that it charged the governor, Mrs. O. O. Hammonds, his confidential secretary, and an unnamed woman had engaged in a conspiracy in connection with the collection of a

$50,000 Raw Silk Taken In Big Raid

LANGHORNE, Pa., Dec. 13 (AP).—Raw silk valued at $50,000 was stolen today when a Reading company freight train was held up near Nesheim Falls, near here, by a band of fifteen men.

In an exchange of shots with the train crew, which did not prevent the bandits from carrying out the robbery, one of the band is believed to have been wounded. He was seen to be carried into an automobile and made his escape with the others.

Baylor Boy Given Rhodes Scholarship

AUSTIN, Dec. 13 (AP)—Dixon Wector, of Baylor University, Waco, was selected as the Texas Rhodes Scholar for 1928, the selection committee announced here yesterday.

Studies Charts, Decides

He studied his charts, his machine and the weather which he will meet, and then quietly told the war department to notify the newspaper world that he was going, and going immediately. An escort was provided by the army, the navy and the commerce departments to follow the famous flier as far as Richmond, Va., and when it was in line, Lindbergh gave the word and they were off to the southward.

It was a murky sky through which the pilots guided their planes and the ground beneath them was sodden from long and steady rains. Lindbergh was forced to taxi the entire distance of the field before he rose, and he seemed to have some difficulty in gaining altitude as he disappeared to the southward. The wheels of his plane barely missed the tops of trees at the southern end of the field.

Fails in Two Attempts

The Spirit of St. Louis failed in two valiant efforts to get into the air, before succeeding in the third attempt. After Lindbergh had traversed nearly the whole distance of the board landing grounds he lifted his plane a few feet from the ground as if by superhuman effort.

The pilot attempted to gain altitude immediately, and very slowly his silver partner lifted into the air over the Potomac river and was lost in the heavy mist as it headed toward Frederickburg, Va.

Major Harvey S. Burwell, commander at Bolling field, with whom Lindbergh had spent the night at the field, said that the daring take off was one of the most masterful pieces of flying technique that he had ever seen.

Expected Bad Weather

Before reaching his goal at Mexico City, Lindbergh probably will encounter more bad weather, but all in all he decided that wind conditions were made to order for him, and this guided him in his decision to start.

Lindbergh, in fact, did not finally decide to jump until 11:15 o'clock this morning. When he found the navy hydrographers agreed with the weather bureau in their prediction.

Ring And Schulte Traded By Cards

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals today traded pitcher Jimmy Ring and catcher John Schulte to the Phillies in exchange for three players, Shortstop Jimmy Cooney, Outfielder John Moran and Catcher Clarence Jonnard. In making the announcement, Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cardinals said no cash was involved.

Billy Evans Says:

Memorable Battle
The Yale-Princeton game of this year was one of the greatest I have ever seen," was my greeting to Coach Tad Jones of Yale as I bumped into him at the Notre Dame-Southern California game at Chicago.

"I can get that viewpoint now," remarked Jones. "I didn't strike me that way until about the last 10 minutes of play, for up to that time Princeton was leading 6-0."

"Princeton and Yale put two remarkable teams on the field that day. Seldom, if ever, have I seen two as great lines with both eleven possessing a variety of stars in the backfield."

"I recall it as a wonderful game now. Had that feeling one minute after the crack of the gun announced the close of the game, but for three periods all I could see was the mistakes we were making and the opportunities we were passing up."

Jones refused to comment on the possibility of his reconsidering his decision to retire as head coach at Yale. I am inclined to think he will continue in that capacity for another year at least.

High Opinion of Caldwell
Jones has a mighty high opinion of Bruce Caldwell, Yale star who was declared ineligible just prior to the Princeton game, being lost to the Blue in that important game as well as Harvard.

Not given to openly expressing his enthusiasm, the superlatives that Jones used relative to Caldwell made it apparent he thought mighty well of the barred Eli back.

"Caldwell is one of the greatest backfield stars Yale has ever boasted," said Jones. "As far as I could discover, he hasn't a weakness."

"A great broken field runner, a wonder at crashing the line, highly proficient in passing, fast of foot and hard to tackle, Caldwell is a wonder at offense. Usually such stars have a weakness on defense, but not Caldwell."

"Since we beat both Harvard and Princeton what I am about to say will not be construed as an alibi, but I really believe we would have beaten both teams from two to four touchdowns more had Caldwell been in the game."

Much of Yale's offense, particularly the forward passing, had Caldwell the main cog, doing the passing. With him out of the lineup Yale was seriously handicapped.

Trick Play in Reserve
Incidentally, I got the lowdown on a play that has had me guessing since the finish of the Yale-Princeton clash. It was the play that really decided the game, the pass, Hoben to Fishwick, that resulted in a touchdown, evening the count at 6-6, Yale eventually winning 14-6.

"If it isn't revealing any Yale secrets, was the Hoben to Fishwick pass a scoring play held in reserve for that particular critical moment?" I asked Jones.

My reason for so doing was prompted by the fact that in the first three periods of play Scott, the other Yale end, had been doing practically all the receiving.

"Yes, that was a play we held in reserve as a needed scoring weapon," replied Jones. "It carried considerable deception, since Fishwick had to sift through both

Eight Years On Same Team

CHARLIE ANDREWS, LEFT, AND LOUIS BEHR

When Charlie Andrews and Louis Behr, forwards on the Wisconsin basketball team, hang up their basketball bags at the end of this season, it will be the culmination of play together for eight seasons. The two were stars for four years on the Rockford, Ill. high school team and are now playing their fourth year together at Wisconsin. Andrews weighs only 135 pounds but, like Behr, who is captain of the team, is one of the best point-makers in the Big Ten conference.

LOUGHRAN NEW CENTRE LOSES CHAMP AFTER SPOTLIGHT OF SLATTERY WIN AMERICAN GRID

POUNDS WAY TO HARD VICTORY IN DECISION BOUT AT GOTHAM

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia was the undisputed light heavyweight champion of the world today by virtue of a 15 round victory over Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, former title holder in the domain of the National Boxing association.

"This victory means everything to me," said Loughran as he left the Madison Square Garden ring last night, for it clears up the light heavyweight situation.

Bars Thrown Down
"I intend to give anyone a bout who wants to try for the title and will defend it twelve times a year if there are that many opponents. Of course my next battle will be with Lew Louiski on January 6, but I hope to oppose Mickey Walker and Jack Delaney soon afterwards."

Asked if he had any plans in the heavyweight division and at Gene Tunney's title, Loughran replied he would not consider entering that division for another year.

Loughran entered the ring last night with an eight point advantage over Slattery, who sealed 16th, 17th and 18th rounds.

Strong Opposition
Loughran received strong opposition from the Buffalo battler and it was not until the closing rounds that he pounded out his margin of victory. Bleeding slightly from a cut, Slattery had ripped under his left eye, Loughran battered his opponent in the ropes in the 13th round in his best showing of the night.

Slattery was wary in the succeeding chapters and kept out of range of Loughran's dangerous body punches. Slattery tried a desperate rally at the finish but Loughran stayed him off with a jabbing attack.

Two Unmasked Men Rob Bank At Carbon

EASTLAND, Texas, Dec. 12 (AP).—Two unmasked and armed men, after ordering four employees and four customers into the vault of the First State bank at Carbon, 10 miles south of Eastland, secured $5,000 in cash from the bank (ill) and escaped. The robbery happened shortly after 12 o'clock. The two bandits fled toward Gorman, travelling in a light touring car.

Teams from his position at right end to the sidelines on the left side. Of course we got the break in that it was perfectly executed. That is the gamble one must take," Jones then reiterated that had Caldwell been in the lineup Princeton would have seen a lot of far more intricate forward passing.

Four Youths Loot Fort Worth Home
FORT WORTH, Dec. 12 (AP).—Four unmasked youths, one of whom was armed, entered the residence of Mrs. L. A. Peterson here at 12:30 a. m. Tuesday, tied Mrs. Peterson and two men with a rope and escaped in a waiting automobile after looting the residence of $200 in cash and approximately $1,200 in jewelry.

The slanted over himself a few minutes later the bandits had sped away and notified officers who were unable, however, to find any trace of the four.

C. W. Elrod who rooms at Mrs. Peterson's residence and J. W. Webb, employed by the woman, were the two men who were robbed.

RUTH, MEUSEL HUG'S CHOICE

THESE PLAYERS HAVE BEST ARMS IN GAME, SAYS YANK BOSS

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees says he has the two greatest throwing outfielders in the game. "Bob Meusel is the peer of all right handers," opines Huggins, "while Babe Ruth is his equal and the best of the left handers."

Meusel gets his throws away a trifle more quickly than Ruth but the Babe I believe is more accurate for it seems his throws are always right on the runner as he slides into the plate.

"With those players in left and right, any weakness that Earl Combs may have as to throwing isn't noticed."

College Lads Crowd Elders In Cage Play

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—College trained youngsters are crowding the old timers for the center of the spotlight in professional basketball this year.

Such hardy and foxy members of the old guard as Nat Holman and Johnny Beckman still rank among the best of them all, but rising around them as worthy team mates are the products of the colleges.

"The old college try," they call it in baseball when a rookie makes a valiant stab at an impossible feat, and the same whole hearted spirit is carrying young Vic Hanson, former Syracuse university captain, and Shang Chadwick, ex-Wabash university star, to a top rank place this season. A half dozen other college lads are making good alongside them in the American Basketball league.

In basketball education the newcomers after marked contrast to the old school of hard knocks that produced Nat Holman.

This incomparable Jewish star, now with the Celtics, learned his basketball in New York's east side and played with a settlement house team before he rose to greatness as a forward in the old Interstate and Penn State leagues.

Hanson on the other hand got his start at central high school in Syracuse, N. Y., and the Manlius school, near that city, reaching big league calibre at Syracuse university, where he captained basketball, baseball and football, making the all-American eleven at end in 1926.

When Hanson joined the Cleveland Rosenblooms at forward this winter he became a "three letter man" in professional sport, an accomplishment which puts him in a class with the immortal Jim Thorpe.

Hanson helped coach football at Syracuse last fall as his first professional undertaking, now is playing with the Rosenblooms and in the springs goes south for a tryout with the Yankees.

Shang Chadwick owes his advent in big time basketball circles to nothing but the aforesaid college try.

Fresh from Wabash, young Chadwick bobbed up with a pair of rubber soled shoes under his arm one night four years ago and asked Johnny Beckman for a job with the Celtics. Looking for fun, they gave him a tryout. About all he showed was plenty of nerve. When he left the floor, dripping with sweat, he looked around and inquired, "You want money for what you did?" Beckman asked, with incredulity.

But Chadwick tried again, did better, caught on and now is going great guns at center with Fort Wayne.

The league this season, besides Hanson, has another college captain of last year in its ranks—Paul Davenport, Penn leader for two years, had a fling at the game with the Philadelphia Warriors and was going well as a forward when injury put him out.

Other collegians on the pro court include Vince McNally, ex-Notre Dame football and basketball player; George Halas, Illinois; Frank Mahoney, Creighton university; Mike Wickhorst, Indiana and Cook Cunningham, Ohio State.

Real estate continues to be active in Lubbock and transfers totalling $13,869 in considerations were filed in the office of county clerk Amos Howard yesterday. This brought the December transfer total to 163,634.30.

COLLEGE LADS CROWD ELDERS IN CAGE PLAY

OLD GUARD TAKE BACK SEAT AS YOUNGSTERS CLIMB UPWARD

By F. G. VOSBURGH (Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—College trained youngsters are crowding the old timers for the center of the spotlight in professional basketball this year.

GIRL SPORTS SCRIBE TALKS

SHE CHOOSES HER ALL-STAR ELEVEN FOR THE SOUTH

GRIFFIN, Ga., Dec. 13.—Miss Emily Boyd, sports editor of the Griffin Daily News, the only woman sports editor in the south, has selected an all-southern football team that she believes would make any team in the country "strut its stuff."

Miss Boyd works in a dual capacity for the News. She not only covers all sporting events but edits the sports page. She has been writing sports for the News for four years, since she graduated from Gunston college in Washington.

Miss Boyd's selection for all-southern honors follows: Nash and Shiver, Georgia, ends; Pickard, Alabama; and Barnhill, Tennessee, tackles.

Gene Smith, Georgia, and Drennon, Georgia Tech, guards; Roland, Georgia, center; Speaks, Vanderbilt, quarterback and captain.

McCrory, Georgia, fullback; Hooks, Green-Southern football team; and McCarty, Georgia Tech, halfback.

Tech Seeks Funds For Student Meet

Workers are canvassing the Tech campus this week for funds to send the students to the Tenth Quadrennial Student Volunteer conference which is to be held in Detroit, December 23 to January 1. Six students have been selected to represent the college at the meet and the students intend to raise the funds for their expenses themselves. About $600 is needed.

The churches of the city are also planning to send a number of delegates.

He announced he would go on once.

Few were aware that the famous flyer would dare go under the weather conditions prevailing. The water-soaked field was in bad shape and it was necessary to wade in order to reach the celebrated Spirit of St. Louis which was drawn up with its engine ready to take the air.

Keeps Secret to Self

Lindbergh had taken precautions to keep his secret all to himself to prevent crowds from swarming over the field and thereby endangering his chances of getting the heavy plane into the air. With a non-stop flight contemplated, it was necessary to take a big supply of gasoline and oil.

To supply him with nourishment during the long flight through the southeastern states, across land to Texas and thence into Mexico, Lindbergh carried a week's supply of concentrated food and two canteens of water. The flyer expects to take a direct air line route to Galveston, Texas, thence south along the coast line of the Gulf of Mexico until dawn shows him his location. He said that no effort would be made to turn inland until after daylight, and that his course across Mexico would be guided by such conditions as he found were most favorable.

Decision Is Surprised

The plan of the flyer to take off immediately came as a surprise to his associates and the information that he was ready to go became public with the issuance of a special weather report showing conditions between Washington and Mexico City. This report advised the flyer that the first part of the flight should be made east of the Appalachian mountains where conditions will be more favorable as far south as the Gulf coast.

Weather bureau officials said that general conditions over the proposed route were about as good now as they will be for several days and that they would get worse before they got better.

The special forecast indicated that conditions would not improve Wednesday due to probable showers and considerable cloudiness over the first part of the route.

Washington To Alabama

From Washington to Alabama, the forecast was for partly overcast skies this afternoon with risk of light showers in the mountains and with moderate south and southeast winds up to 1,000 feet and strong southwest and west winds at 5,000 feet.

From Alabama to Corpus Christi, there will be partly overcast skies tonight with risk of occasional showers late in the night or before daylight on the Texas coast. Fresh south winds, probably strong at times over Texas, with risk of rain to northwest near Corpus Christi in the early morning up to 1,000 feet and strong southwest winds at 5,000 also were predicted.

Corpus to Tampico

From Corpus Christi to Tampico, the outlook was partly overcast Wednesday forenoon with risk of showers on south Texas coast, and fresh south winds, strong at times on Texas coast and probably shifting to northwest on Texas coast up to 1,000 feet and strong southwest on Texas coast and fresh and possible showers.

highway claim made by C. B. McCormick, contractor of Altus. The charge, Moon added, that a woman had collected money from McCormick to intercede for him with the governor and Mrs. Hammond to collect the claim.

Charges Consolidated

A motion then was adopted to consolidate the charges against the governor, Moon reported, and the session voted to submit them to the senate for impeachment action as soon as the senate might convene.

Three impeachment charges were voted by heavy majorities against Harry Cordell, president of the state board of agriculture. Robert C. Graham, of Oklahoma City, declared soon afterward, from the door of the executive session.

Two of the charges, he said, alleged illegal expenditure of state funds and the third padding of payrolls in his department. The first illegal expenditure charge, he announced, was voted 46 to 8, with two members not participating, and the second, 47 to 8 with one not participating.

Defy Court Ruling

The meeting was held in defiance of a ruling of the state supreme court that a special session of the senate would be illegal, and that the session should be adjourned until after the next regular session.

The house meeting adjourned at about 7 a. m., subject to call of the speaker.

It was a motley appearing crew of legislators who had assembled when Speaker Hill called the meeting to order at 7:30 a. m. The rooms at a local hotel, where, despite the fact that three windows were opened, the air speedily became stuffy and filled with tobacco smoke. There were few chairs. Some of the men sat or lay upon the floor some on two beds. Some were clothed only in paunias, others also had on bath robes. Many were in shift sleeves. here Monday night in a special car for Austin, accompanied by a party which had been hunting in Willacy and Kenedy counties.

Governor Explains Case To Bankers

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 13 (AP)—Appearing to more than 100 delegates to the State Bankers' association, in annual session here to inform legislators who are attempting to impeach him of "the sentiment back home," Governor Harry S. Johnston today placed his defense before the bankers.

His address was taken to indicate his stand on impeachment charges voted against him by members of the house of representatives.

No Dual Government

There will be no dual government in Oklahoma, the chief executive asserted. Oklahoma is not under martial law, he declared, but the troops have been stationed about the capitol until "things get back to the law and order side."

The governor declared that in employing Jose Alvarado, who at the time was under criminal charges, to capture bank robbers, he had acted upon the request of officers of the State Bankers' association.

"And yet they attempt to impeach me for this," he declared. "Even if the supreme court of Oklahoma was in error on its ruling, that there should be no special session, every lawyer should say that America comes first and that the laws should be upheld," the governor said.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady. December 18.50; January 18.50; March 18.53; May 18.70; July 18.66.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP)—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 6 to 15 points, active months showing net advances of 23 to 30 points on active covering by recent sellers and fresh buying promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables.

January sold up to 18.48 and May to 18.58 on this initial demand, but the higher prices encountered a renewal of realizing or scattered selling and there were reactions of 8 or 10 points from the heat by the end of the first hour. Demand tapered off after the close of Liverpool, while offerings increased. Selling became more active as prices worked lower. Active months broke into new low ground for the movement during the morning, with January selling off to 18.10 and May to 18.50 or about 14 to 15 points below yesterday's closing quotations. The market showed rallies of a few points from the lowest at midday.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 13 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady. December 18.45 bid; January 18.50; March 18.63; May 18.73; July 18.63.

NEW ORLEANS TRADING

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 13 (AP)—The cotton market opened firm in sympathy with higher Liverpool cables and first trades showed gains of 8 to 14 points.

Some realizing developed soon after the start and prices eased off 2 to 6 points, but the market firmed up again on bullish British board trade reports for November. January traded up to 18.55, March 18.60, May 18.90, 22 to 25 points over previous close.

Towards the end of the first half the market was steady, a few points under the highs. The market was quiet and inactive after the morning and made new lows for the session under pressure of ring selling induced by a further curtailment by New England mills. January sold off to 18.15, March 18.55 and May 18.45, 18 to 45 points down from the highs and 19 to 21 points under the previous close. At noon the market still trended downward.

WALL STREET TRADING

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP)—Operators for the advance were again in control of the stock market at the opening today. A block of 5,000 shares of American Steel Foundry was bought at 69 1/2, a new peak and an overnight gain of 1 1/2. New tops also were registered at the opening by Calumet and Arizona, Continental Can and Hupp Motors.

U. S. Rubber opened a point higher probably on reports of recent buying of the shares by members of the Dupont family and associates. Buying spread out rapidly in the subsequent trading, advances of 1 1/2 to more than 2 points being well scattered through the list. U. S. quickly sold up 2 points on expectations that the increase in unfilled orders would be followed by a stepping up of full operations.

Several of the motors, including General Motors, Chrysler and Hudson, were higher in the early hours, and Wright Aeronautical rose six points to 97 1/2, a new high record. A more definite view of the scope of the St. Louis and O'Fallon decision was a constructive element.

Southern Pacific advanced about a point soon after the start, and Tobacco products quickly reached new peak territory on dividend expectations and Liquid Carbonic and Endicott Johnson also sold at new peaks.

An overnight jump of 1 1/2 points—Swedish—led the ground 16.85 cents featured the foreign exchange opening, demand sterling ruling around $4.87 1/2-1/2 and French franc just above 2.53 1/2 cents.

Grain Market

CHICAGO TRADING
CHICAGO, Dec. 13 (AP)—Grain values underwent a decided 2 1/2 to 3 point advance early today, when corn in particular. Report were received of selling of large lots of new wheat from Argentina and Australia at a sharp discount under what from North America.

Steady, accounting for 14 per cent of deaths at all ages and 25 per cent at 40 and over. Many believe, he said, that the increase is due to the strain of modern business and social life upon the nervous and digestive systems, with resultant effect on the circulatory system.

Cancer and Diabetes
Cancer and diabetes also were shown to be responsible for a large percentage of deaths. The former has moved from sixth to third place as a cause of death in a generation, Mr. Gore explained, but propaganda as to diet and exercise has effected a slight reduction in diabetes fatalities.

"In general, countries in the tropics have the highest death rates with the rate among males higher than that among females in all countries," Mr. Gore said, and the heavy mortality rate among American negroes together with higher death rate in this country than would be the case in a population more nearly homogeneous.

Stalling of the world's death rate, he said, has not resulted in an increase in population because there has been a corresponding decrease in the birth rate. "Preventive medicine," he said, "is a real factor in maintaining public health. Never in the world's history has the fight against disease been more hopeful than now."

WITNESS CLAIMS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Testimony that Henry Mason Day, Sinclair oil official, had personally investigated a mortgage in his real estate office during the recent Fall-Sinclair conspiracy case was given in the Sinclair-Darus contempt proceedings today by Britton Brown of the Randall-Hagner firm of this city.

Brown said that Day, whom he knew personally, obtained the information sought, but added he did not remember the name of the person Day wished to know about.

The government has attempted to show that Day had investigated the property of John P. Kern, a juror in the Fall-Sinclair trial which ended in mistrial and the present contempt proceeding after attempts to shadow the jury came to light.

Taylor's Fire Loss Fixed At $125,000
TAYLOR, Texas, Dec. 13 (AP)—Incubation was the chief problem here today after Monday night's fire which swept the business section and caused loss estimate at $125,000.

The fire destroyed seven business homes and was believed to have originated in the A. Roseberry Mercantile store, occupying half of the ground floor space of the Carl Graub building. It spread to the R. B. Crowder Jewelry company and H. H. Sams Drug store, the F. W. Woolworth novelty store, C. O. Deller Drug company and burned its way upward to destroy the equipment of the Walden Business college and Taylor Herald, occupying second floor locations.

Three firemen were overcome by smoke and heat.

U. S. IS TENTH IN REDUCTION OF DEATH RATE

11.7 PER THOUSAND IS SHOWN AS RATE AT INSURANCE MEET

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The United States stands tenth among the nations of the world in the reduction of its death rate, John K. Gore, vice president and actuary of the Prudential Insurance company, told the Association of Life Insurance presidents.

"A world war against disease," he said, "has brought prolongation of life in 32 countries to 635,000 persons. In 28 countries the general death rate has been materially reduced and in only four has it increased. The death rate in the United States is 11.7 per thousand. New Zealand leads the world with a rate of 8.1 per thousand.

Among 75 countries with low death rates, however, the United States from 1911 to 1925 showed a reduction of 2.3 per thousand, Mr. Gore said. "It is claimed by many," he added, "that prohibition was the outstanding cause of this reduction, but in England and Wales, without prohibition, there was a somewhat greater reduction than in this country, which throws some doubt upon this claim. Higher standards of living and greater attention to health conservation probably are the chief factors."

Heart disease, he reported, is the leading cause of death in this country, accounting for 14 per cent of deaths at all ages and 25 per cent at 40 and over. Many believe, he said, that the increase is due to the strain of modern business and social life upon the nervous and digestive systems, with resultant effect on the circulatory system.

Flashes Of Life

(By The Associated Press)

Quite Startling
NEW YORK—Society hears that Gloria Gould Bishop, who is living in Rome, has changed the name of her baby daughter Gloria to Gioia.

What Price Test
ATLANTIC CITY—What price visiting stockings? Two experts asked a total of $750 for three examinations of blood stains on Mrs. Lillend's knee. The board of free holders is holding up payment, thinking $25 per analyst is enough.

A Big Difference
NEW YORK—Descendants of our colonial stock are far more precious than early American furniture, for which there is a craze, says Mrs. Walter Price of the Colonial Dames of America. Such is her explanation of the plans of the organization to afford descendants of the colonists opportunity to attend schools and colleges of colonial foundation.

Poor Old Will
MEXICO CITY—Will Rogers is off Lindy. "I've got to give up my nice room at Mr. Morrow's embassy and let Lindy have it," he explains.

Last On Record
NEW YORK—There are no really devoted home-loving persons left in Hollywood, if Vivian Oakland of the screen has it right. She and her husband, John T. Murray, were the only two such extant, she says, and now they are separating after ten years of married life.

Right As A Fox
MOSCOW—Raphael Bendavid, of Italy, who forecast that there would be quite an earthquake in northeastern Asia December 11, seems to have been nearly right. On December 12, houses collapsed and fissures appeared after shocks lasting five minutes in the semi-Palatinsk district of Siberia.

Rich Restaurantier
NEW YORK—Having made money by feeling bulls and bears, William J. Baron, is to be one or the other himself. He has bought a stock exchange seat for $219,000. He was a telephone clerk and order clerk for a stock exchange house when he went to war. On his return he opened a restaurant, which he has now sold.

Wealthy Old U. S.
PHILADELPHIA—As spun up by Philip Kore, formerly secretary to Lloyd George, Uncle Sam soon will own one half of the organized wealth of the world, and it will be a good thing; he virtually controls Italian industry and soon will have a mortgage on German industry.

The manager reported to the board that a number of complimentary letters have been received from individuals and organizations over the Southwest regarding the first issue of "The Hub," Chamber of Commerce monthly magazine which made its appearance in November. A number of Lubbock citizens have requested that the publication be sent to various individuals over the Southwest who are known to be interested in Lubbock and the South Plains.

Report On Ad Campaign
A report was made on the proposed advertising campaign. A committee is at work to devise ways and means of financing the project and are expected to have a definite plan worked out soon after the first of the year.

A report on the meeting of the South Plains Commercial Executives Association meeting in Lubbock Dec. 4 was made. Visitors were entertained with a luncheon at noon attended by 100 local people.

Letters have been sent to the executive committee of the State Teachers Association joining Amarillo in inviting the association to meet in Amarillo next year, at which time a large number are expected to visit the Tech while going to and from the convention.

A Santa Fe demonstration train will be in Lubbock at 7:30 p. m. Feb. 13th. Cooperation in helping advertise the visit of the train has been promised by the Chamber of Commerce.

EUROPE'S TASK

some measure of property, the republic will be founded on a firm basis. This is not true as yet. Sigh for Lost Laurels There is a powerful monarchist party in Germany. All the princelings who were kicked off their thrones, all the courtiers who surrounded them, all the monarchist officers who found a career in big army and navy, all the higher hierarchy of the one-time state church, most of the higher judges, most of the old professors in the universities, are convinced monarchists. They sigh for the old days of privilege and power. They are backed by the rich Junker class which owns the great agricultural lands. Many of the powerful industrialists are monarchists. They have a powerful and active press. Secret organizations of army veterans or of young men who are drilling themselves, provide the weapon for a "putsch" if the time is ever ripe. On the other hand, the mass of ordinary business men, a large part of the lower middle class and over 90 per cent of the workmen are for the republic. They constitute the Democratic, the Centre and the Social parties. In the Reichstag they have an organization devoted to the defense of the republic. The republic means a continuance in the paths of peace. The monarchist probably would mean dreams of revenge and new wars. Italy's Experiment Italy is the scene of one of the greatest experiments of modern times. Mussolini and his fascists have passed their heyday and their testing time has come. The parliament is an echo of Mussolini's wishes. The press is his. Political opposition in the open, at least is over. But now Mussolini is facing not men, but economic facts. It will require all his undoubted genius to solve the pressing economic problems of his country. The early days of fascism, when bolshevism and communism were stamped out, Italian industry flourished. The lira was cheap, wages were low and exports were largely kept out. Mussolini has stabilized the lira. The working man has suddenly discovered an unbridgeable chasm between his wages and what he wants to buy. The government tried to assist him by ordering that retail prices must come down. Many little merchants have been unable to comply and have been forced to close their shops, not by Mussolini, but by the inexorable march of world prices. No only the workmen are being tried in these hard times, but also the great industrialists. Says M. Beni, president of the General Confederation of Italian Industry promptly: "Many enterprises will have to give up their profits, even submit to losses. The most feeble will not be able to resist the inevitable trials in a time of financial sanitation. We must reduce wages, because we cannot impose on the workers such sacrifices because of the stabilization of the lira. The state, on its side, out to reduce the costs of freight and the taxes if it can do so without injuring its budget. We can then reduce unemployment by preparing normal production." Well, that is all the miracle Italy expects of its miracle man—normal budget, normal production, lower prices for food and rents, lower freight, lower taxes. Upon his success or failure may hinge the future of the fascist state. Russia's Troubles In Russia the leaders of the 200,000 or 1,000,000 bolsheviks, who have imposed their will upon a people numbering 150,000,000, are having troubles of their own. While seeking everywhere in the world to undermine constituted authority and constitutional government, they are fighting among themselves. Those stubborn things—economic facts and human greed—are proving too strong for bolshevik theories. The ruling bolshevik group comprised of Stalin, Voroshilov, Trotsky, Serebrennikov, and others are slowly but surely having an orientation towards the much hated capitalist civilization. The theorists complain of the Stalin ruling group that the interests of the factory workers are being sacrificed to the interests of the soviet bureaucracy and the new bourgeoisie. Instead of trying for a rapid industrialization of the country, Stalin attaches first importance to the countryside. But even in the country they say his policy is wrong, because he is leaning on the "kulak" the well-to-do inhabitants of the villages, whereas the village poor are losing all their influence. They say Stalin, to win the peasants who produce the food, has lowered the prices of the goods the city workers manufacture. This has intensified working hours and kept wages down. It has increased unemployment. It may yet come to a civil war between the country and the city.

SON-IN-LAW OF BRYAN DIES AT HOME IN MIAMI

(By Associated Press) MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 12.—Major Reginald Owen, son-in-law of the late William Jennings Bryan, and a veteran of the British army, died here last night from illness contracted during the Dardanelles campaign in the world war. Recently his condition had become critical and a few days ago Dr. Ellis McDonald of Philadelphia, a specialist, was called in for consultation by local physicians. Born in India, July 26, Major Owen was a son of the late Sir Theodore Owen and received his earlier education in Wellington college before attending the Royal Military academy. His entrance into the British army was with the engineering corps in 1902. He married Ruth Bryan in Lincoln, Neb., May 3, 1910. The couple both saw service in the world war and were for a long period stationed in Egypt, where Mrs. Owen was associated as a nurse with the volunteer air detachment and the major was on duty with the British army. Major and Mrs. Owen came to Florida from Egypt, where he had been granted sick leave after contracting "trench fever" during his service in the Dardanelles campaign.

REDS IN CHINA

Attempts to recapture Canton from the communists failed. Yenching newspapers in Shanghai stated four Russians are on staff of the Canton "red army" and declared that soviet influence was behind the Canton movement. "Soviet Government" A "soviet government" was set up Sunday in Canton for the province of Kwangtung, refugees reported.

The moderate nationalist government at Nanking was denounced by communists in violent posters in Hankow with indications the nationalist commander there might switch to the communists. Between 30 and 40 refugee missionaries, mostly Americans and Germans, arrived at Hong Kong from Canton.

Serious Mutiny Is Reported In North

HANKOW, China, Dec. 12 (AP)—A serious mutiny is reported to have broken out in Hankow in northern Hupeh, about 200 miles northwest of Hankow. The troops there were reported to be looting and burning the city which is on the Han river.

A. Marcus, Abe Marcus and Plains Coca Cola Bottling and Ice company in and to said property.

Witness my hand, this 13th day of December, A. D. 1927. H. L. JOHNSTON, Sheriff of Lubbock County, Texas. By Vernice Ford, deputy.

Rio Hondo Deputy Is Fatally Stabbed

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Dec. 12 (AP)—Claude Harrison, deputy sheriff at Rio Hondo, was stabbed fatally Monday night at a dance hall near Rio Hondo where he had gone to investigate reports of bootlegging. He had made one arrest when he was attacked. Officers Tuesday declared they know who is responsible for the attack. Harrison died almost immediately.

Editors Conclude Meet With Barbecue

WACO, Dec. 12 (AP)—Texas managing newspaper editors, concluding their annual convention in Waco last night with a barbecue, left the selection of the 1928 meeting place of the convention in the hands of a committee.

The committee, which has Bryan and Laredo to choose from, must report back to Max Bentley, Abilene, newly elected president, within ninety days. Edward Dornan of the Dallas News was elected secretary of the organization for the succeeding year.

Jardine Must Quit Under Heflin Plea

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Resignation of Secretary Jardine and Lloyd K. Tenney, of the bureau of economics in the department of agriculture, was demanded in the senate today by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, because of the break in cotton prices recently following issuance of a department price estimate.

The Blazing Horizon

by ERNEST LYNN

THE STORY THUS FAR
CALDWELL, Kan. In 1880 was a wicked cow town, close to the border of the Indian territory. There GORDON W. LILLIE, later to be widely known as PAW-NEE BILL, was waiting on tables in a restaurant, when JOE CRAIG, foreman of the Bar K ranch in the Cherokee Strip, came to town and quarreled in the restaurant with TOM BENTON.

Smarting under the quarrel, Benton later that night picked a fight in a poker game with JEFF HARRISON, professional gambler who had come to Caldwell with his small son, TONY, and shot him.

After the killing Benton rode away and Craig took Tony Harrison under his wing.

CHAPTER III
Colonel Titus Moore held about 50,000 acres of grazing land in the Cherokee strip and was just beginning to fence some of it in. It was wonderful money, much better in his opinion than the stuff he had owned in Kansas, just north of the border, and had sold a few years before.

The colonel was an individual of some character. He had gained his title and lost an arm in the civil war. A Virginian, from Prince William county, near Manassas, he had organized a company of cavalry just before the first battle of Bull Run and offered it to the Confederacy. Stonewall Jackson himself had complimented him after the battle. Later he had ridden with Jeb Stuart, and it was while serving with the famous cavalryman that he had received the saber cut that necessitated the amputation of his right arm. "Appomattox" had found him in line for promotion to brigadier general, and at the unbelievably youthful age of 29.

The task of reconstruction was more than one of his impatient characteristics. He cheerfully turned over his rights in the ancestral plantation to his brother, cashed in what he could and turned his face westward. That was long enough to marry Katherine Fiddmore, daughter of an adjoining neighbor.

Kansas and cattle had been kind to him. In less than 15 years he had accumulated a tidy fortune, and what was equally important to him, the finest mare in all the southwest. Now that his herds were fattening contentedly on Cherokee nation grass, the future promised even better things than the past had delivered.

At the moment he was astride the black Kentucky mare, sitting as straight as a poker in the saddle and watching a horse coming toward him beneath the double burden of a man and a boy.

"Joe Craig's one of 'em," he pronounced. "Now, what do you suppose kept him in Caldwell all this time, Fanny?" he addressed the animal he sat on.

Fanny snorted and threw up her head. She was impatient to be off on a mad dash over the rolling plains.

The colonel checked her with an iron hand. "Behave yourself, Fanny. Where's your manners?"

Where was that with Joe Craig? Can't be a new hand. Too small. He allowed the mare to munch grass and waited.

A few minutes later Joe Craig dismounted before him, helped the boy out of the saddle and paused, a wide grin on his face, to pat the colonel's mare.

"Afternoon, Colonel. I'd like you to shake hands with my friend, Anthony Harrison."

Titus Moore smiled. Explanations would come in Joe Craig's own good time. There was no rushing the fellow. "How do?" he said hospitably, and reached down his one hand to the boy.

"Name's Anthony," Craig continued, "but I call him Tony."

"Indeed. Do you mind if I call you Tony?" The colonel turned to the boy, who smiled shyly, shy smile.

"No, sir. I'd like it."

"That's fine. We're getting along real well, ain't we? Now, you just make yourself at home, sub. Joe Craig will show you the place."

The colonel started to ride off. It was not his way to ask questions of strangers, especially when they were his guests. A word from Joe Craig detained him. "Colonel," Titus Moore's eyes twinkled. "Yes, Joe."

"Tony's daddy was killed Saturday night in Caldwell. Five sort of appointed myself to look after his affairs and I thought maybe you might advise me when it comes to choosing a place for him to live."

An understanding sympathy was in the colonel's expression of sorrow.

The little black haired figure with the brooding brown eyes had touched him from the start. Runneth levelly, he scratched the back of his head. "Well, now, you can't be too careful picking the proper kind of home for a young boy like Tony. What would you think about the Bar K? I don't know any place where he'd be more welcome, although I can't think very highly of the associates he'd be picking."

"I was thinking the same thing myself," Joe Craig said very gravely. "That is, about the welcome I guess you might say that Tony picked a somewhat worthless guardian, but I'm predicting that responsibility will make a new man out of me."

Titus Moore laughed outright. "Craig," he said, "I sometimes think you show extraordinary powers of judgment. I'm right proud now that I made you my boss rider."

Craig grinned. The colonel's warm hearted response had dissipated whatever fears he might have felt at overstepping his authority.

Some time later, entrenched behind a plate of bacon and eggs Craig related to his employer the details of the killing of Jeff Harrison. Titus Moore frowned heavily at mention of Tom Benton and from time to time he turned to look at Tony, his usually stern features relaxed in an expression of pity.

"You were right about Benton," he commented to Craig. "Son," he said to Tony, "there isn't much we can do to make up the loss of your daddy, but I'd say that when Joe Craig took charge of you, you fell into good hands. He's a mite irresponsible, as far as I know, he handled your daddy in five years, due chiefly to an irresistible desire to examine the other man's hole card; but he's square and he's dependable. I'm tell you this because you have a right to know what sort of a man you're lining up with."

Craig reddened beneath the praise. The boy, who had been staring at the plate, as if to hide from the other's misery of his eyes lifted his face and smiled.

"You've been very kind to me, you and Mr. Craig. I'll try to make myself useful around here. I won't be too much trouble."

The colonel was loud in his protests. He saw that the lad was on the point of breaking down under the shock of bereavement and the unkind for kindness on the part of total strangers.

"We're not aiming," he declared gruffly, "to find anything for you to do. This," with a sweep of his arm, "is your home. You just settle right down here and grow up."

The boy's eyes followed the colonel's gesture. "My father," he said simply, "taught me not to take any favors. If I can't earn my board I'll have to pay for it. Daddy left me something like $1,500."

"Which," supplied Joe Craig, "I'm turning over to you, Colonel, for safe keeping. I reckon I'm not qualified to plant dollars and cents in the ground. They have a habit of stopping off for brief visits in my pants pocket and then heading for a permanent destination."

Titus Moore's eyes twinkled. "Young man," he said to Tony, "since you're so insistent on standing on your own feet, I'll take that money, and I'll take it in cattle for you. They can hang right here with my stock and I'll deduct grazing fees when they're sold. You're loaded up with responsibility now. As for making yourself useful, I'm turning you over to Joe Craig with instructions to make a cow hand out of you. When you reach the point where you're earning more than your feed bill you go on the payroll for whatever Joe thinks you're worth. How does that strike you?"

An hour later, young Harrison had been installed in the shack that housed the bunks of the Bar K riders, had become owner of an Indian pony, which Colonel Moore had offered as a gift, but which the boy had insisted on paying for. Titus Moore had charged him $25.

Craig spent another two hours showing him how to saddle the pony and how to stay on the frisky little beast. "You'll be a darn good rider before you know it, Tony. You'll fall, maybe a few times, but you just stick to him now, while he's in and talk to Colonel Moore."

He found the colonel seated at his rickety constructed writing table, gazing thoughtfully at the landscape through the open window. The cigar between his teeth had gone out.

"Joe," he said, "I'm anxious to know just what prompted you to do it."

Craig perched himself on the table, one knee drawn up between his clasped hands. "Well, you might say as how I was downright sorry for the little maverick. Nobody to look after him—and Caldwell ain't exactly the best atmosphere in the world for an orphan."

Titus Moore regarded his dead cigar. "That's not all, Joe."

"Huh? Well, I reckon I felt some responsibility in the matter. Benton and I had a run-in earlier in the evening that likely put him in a killing mood. When I parted company with him he was downright amiable."

"That doesn't hold water. If you and I quarrel and then you run into someone tonight and kill him where is his responsibility?"

Craig studied the floor in silence. Moving over to the window, he gazed longingly toward a clump of redbud trees that bordered the creek. The moving figure of Tony Harrison, astride his Indian pony, came into view, and this seemed to hold his interest for a while. His eyes softened as he turned around to face his employer.

"Doggone it, Colonel, I like the boy. There ain't any explaining it, I guess, but what fascinated me, sort of, was his independent spirit. He's led a kind of lonesome life, but he never looked around for sympathy or nothing. And when his daddy was killed he didn't spend his time crying, although you don't expect much of anything else from a kid that's going on 13. He kept on firing questions at me about Tom Benton. I reckon I knew what was in his mind, and it doesn't lessen my affection for him, either."

Colonel Moore smiled. He threw the dead cigar away and plucked thoughtfully at his graying red goatee. "Joe," he said, "there are times when I'm downright proud of you. I've been wondering if you felt the same way about that boy that I do. Look at him ride that foot pony. He'll learn to break his neck; he's that kind. Did I understand you to say that his mother was dead?"

Craig's face clouded. He fumbled in his hip pocket a moment and then produced a worn leather wallet. "That's something I don't rightly know," he said slowly. "I've got reason to think she was dead to Jeff Harrison."

TOTAL ASSETS OF INSURANCE FIRMS MOUNTS

BILLION AND HALF IN YEAR BOOSTS TOTAL TO 14 BILLION

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—An increase of more than one and a half billion dollars in the assets of American insurance companies was reported by James L. Loomis, president of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, speaking at the 21st annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

The new mark breaks all records, he said, and brings to $14,500,000,000 the total assets of the nation's companies. Most of that amount is invested in mortgages, government bonds, railroads and public utilities. Canadian investments by American companies, it was reported, total $440,000,000.

Revision of Statutes
Mr. Loomis urged revision of investment statutes so that "limited possible advance" into other investment fields might be permitted in insurance companies. The basic industry of steel and the field of banking he suggested as additional investment outlets.

"Whatever the statutes may be," he said, "the security of the invested funds rests primarily in the integrity and intelligence of each company's executives. The confidence of policy holders is attested by the unexcelled investment record of this year."

Investments in this country, Mr. Loomis reported, include $5,716,900,000 in mortgages, of which 43 per cent is in city mortgages, with farm mortgage investment showing an increase over 1926. Railroad investments total $2,574,000,000; public utilities holdings, $1,000,000,000; and government securities, $122,000,000.

City Mortgages Aid
"It is in city mortgages that the most marked change in investment policies is noted," he said. "The extensive use of this outlet for funds seeking investment in the absorption of capital, the outstanding trend and development of the whole investment field." Life insurance in this field, he explained, has increased on an average of $400,000,000 a year since 1921.

Farm mortgages, railroad and public utilities investments also showed an increase over 1926, he said, but investment in government securities has decreased more than 7 per cent in the past six years. The greatest increase, he reported, was in public utilities investments.

BOOTBLACKS PROUD

ROME, Dec. 13 (AP).—Not the least of those into whom Mussolini injected the pride of labor are the bootblacks of Rome. Their self-esteem has been increased by a system of licensing and definite "stands" where each is supreme. The license, which must be framed and on display in view of all customers, bears a photograph of the man, his name, age and other personal details as well as his scale of prices, which must be the same for all.

TRIPLET CALVES

GILMER, (AP).—A young Jersey cow, belonging to John Thornton, Simpsonville, has given birth to triplets, two heifers and a male.

WHIDDON TO AID NAZARENES WITH CAMPAIGN HERE

Having secured $12,000 in property and subscriptions, the Nazarene church building drive will be continued under the leadership of Rev. E. L. Whiddon, of Dallas, it was announced yesterday by S. H. Erwin, pastor of the church. Rev. Whiddon has had considerable experience in campaign work, having worked in Salvation Army, Y. M. C. A., Liberty Bond, Baptist Campaign, Red Cross, and Methodist Centenary campaigns. At present he is in charge of the Salvation Army drive for Lubbock county.

The new Nazarene church is to be erected at 14th and Avenue Q and will cost $25,000 according to the plans of the building committee.

The church's revival in progress with a number of additions, official report Rev. Len R. Woodrum, of Kansas City, preached Monday night, after closing a good campaign at Plainview. Tonight a special program will be presented with an evangelistic party in special songs.

Pep Messages Aid Football Players

AUSTIN, Dec. 13 (AP).—Pep messages from the fans back home strengthen the morale of football teams before they go into battle on "foreign" soil, Texas college coaches believe.

Clare Lathfield, head coach at the University of Texas, avers that his experience as a player and also as coach convinced him that encouraging messages raise the spirit of teams away from home if they reach the athletes just before the game. This is particularly true, he says, when only a few students accompany the team.

Practically the same views are held by Dana Bible, coach at Texas A. and M. college; Morley Jennings, Baylor university coach; and Jack McLaughlin, St. Edwards' mentor at Austin.
