GUTHRIE JURY FREES RUCH ON PAYOFF COUNT

Court Gives Instructions Favorable to Verdict Of Not Guilty

TRIBUTE DENIED

Decision Reached After 40 Minutes Study Of Evidence

GUTHRIE, Okla., March 30. (AP)—P. V. Ruch, former Tillman county attorney, today was acquitted by a federal court jury of conspiracy to violate prohibition laws. The jury was out about 40 minutes.

In accepting the decision of the jury, District Judge Edgar S. Vaught said the verdict met the full opinion of the court.

Judge Vaught asserted the evidence had been "purely circumstantial" and "very damaging."

Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught instructed the jurors after the final argument of the government was completed. A night session was held Saturday to hear the closing argument of the defense counsel and the first argument of the prosecution.

The government, represented by District Attorney Roy St. Lewis, and his assistant, Herbert K. Hyde, charged that Ruch conspired with three other county officers to furnish protection to bootleggers.

The tribute money collected allegedly was divided between the county attorney, Charles Wages, former sheriff; R. S. Rogers, former Frederick constable, and Bud Walls, former deputy sheriff. The latter three officers pleaded guilty on the conspiracy charge. They were the government's principal witnesses in Ruch's trial.

Ruch occupied the stand for nearly a day and a half during which time he made a general denial of all the charges made against him.

Five rebuttal witnesses were called by the government after the defense rested its case.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., March 30. (AP)—William Gibbs McAdoo Jr., pleaded guilty today in a justice court at Sherman, near here, to charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace. McAdoo and a companion, John W. Montgomery, were fined $10.

They were arrested Saturday night after an argument with a taxi driver.

Midget Wife Wants Tiny Husband Declared Dead

WASHINGTON, March 30. (US)—It's the little things in life that sometimes cause the most trouble.

Mrs. Irene O. Bagonghi, 4 feet tall, today asked the district supreme court to declare her husband, Guiseppe Bagonghi, 3 feet tall, legally dead.

She has heard nothing from her diminutive spouse since he quit a circus in 1923, she told the court.

CONFEDERATE HALF-DOLLAR INCREASED IN VALUE 20,000 TIMES

FROM a collection of coins dated back to the eighth century, B. C., now in possession of the American Numismatic Society, New York City, the rarest coin is a Confederate half-dollar. This old Southern coin is today valued at ten thousand dollars. As the Confederacy could not accumulate enough bullion to make a quantity, only four of these coins were minted. Two are in existence now, but the owner of the other is unknown. A 1799 one-cent piece is worth twenty-five hundred dollars if in good condition, but can be rubbed or worn off so that it is valued at only five dollars. Smith County Joins Ranks Of East Texas Oil Producing Areas

Guy V. Lewis Well Blows in With Estimated Output of 20,000 Barrels Daily

TYLER, Texas, March 30. (AP)—Smith county's long hunt for oil, during which many dry or salt water holes have been obtained, ended successfully today when the Guy V. Lewis No. 1 S. S. Cook, three miles southeast of Arp, blew in as a 20,000 barrels daily producer.

First estimates of its production ran as high as 75,000 barrels, when the gusher sprayed oil across a highway for several hundred yards, but were reduced to more conservative proportions when the well was pinched in and production turned into storage tanks.

The well was drilled by Guy V. Lewis, Smith county resident who set out to bring oil to his home county and who will get a $10,000 bonus offered by the Tyler Chamber of Commerce for the first producer brought in within the county. The well was spudded in Feb. 17 and cored oil sand March 18.

The Lewis well extended production of the Joiner pool a mile and three-quarters westward. It is located 150 feet from the east and 150 feet from the south line of the 56.5-acre S. S. Cook tract in the J. Jordan survey.

The Lewis well is on a line with the Selby No. 1 Snavely, a mile southeast of Gladewater, which has cored oil sand, and the De Armand-Burke No. 1 Cobb in Upshur county, which has drilled the plug and has been coring for two days. Drillers expected the De Armand-Burke well to be brought in tomorrow.

It was shut off Sunday with a gate valve at 10:30 a. m. after having flowed wild since 4 a. m.

NEW PRORATION ORDER WAITED

Production Schedule For Texas Due Today

AUSTIN, March 30. (AP)—R. D. Parker, supervisor of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission, spent the day working on his recommendation to the commission on proration of the state and of the new oil area in East Texas.

David Donoghue of Fort Worth, technical adviser of the central proration committee, conferred with Parker. The committee had recommended limiting the state's output for the next six months to between 656,000 and 686,000 barrels daily and that of East Texas to between 50,000 and 70,000 barrels daily. The maximum would be reached Aug. 1.

The railroad commission did not say when it would make its order but it was considered likely the order would be issued tomorrow. The present order, allowing 643,000 barrels daily, exclusive of the East Texas area, which has not been prorated, expires at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

A long hearing on state-wide and East Texas proration was finished Saturday. East Texans opposing proration said they would seek a court injunction to restrain the railroad commission from enforcing curtailment of production in the new pools if the commission should order it.

Negro Arrested at Stamford For Attack on Young Haskell Girl

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, March 30.—George Morris, 35-year-old negro charged with criminal assault upon a 15-year-old Haskell white girl Saturday night, was arrested by City Marshal Al Cousins near Stamford Monday and is being held in the Stamford jail.

A court of inquiry Tuesday morning will investigate charges brought by the girl and her four youthful companions who said the assault was committed at the farm home of the negro after midnight Saturday when the five stopped by his house to ask for a song. Morris is widely known in Haskell county as a crooner of negro spirituals. The party included three young men and another girl. The five made no report of a struggle with the negro and the second girl was unhurt.

County Attorney French Robertson was informed that the girl's complaint against Morris was made upon information given by her companions after she regained consciousness.

Formal charges were filed against Morris Monday by Sheriff W. T. Sarrels, who will conduct the inquiry. Haskell is quiet and no move of violence against the suspect was expected Monday night.

SNOW AND RAIN AGAIN COME TO T.-O. REGION

Panhandle and Oklahoma Blanketed by Renewal Of Storm

MODERATE READING

New Gust of Winter Fails To Put Temperature Near Zero

Alternately raining, snowing and sleeting, while the temperature dropped steadily to a reading of 34 degrees at midnight, Wichita Falls' weather Monday night was erratic, not to say enigmatic. Winter was playing a return engagement but the rapid changes were characteristic of springtime.

Snow storms that swept through Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle Sunday night and Monday dwindled to chill rains and a biting northeast rain below Childress and in the immediate Wichita Falls area during the day. While the big flakes piled up huge drifts north of Altus and in the Panhandle as far south as Memphis, temperatures generally stayed will above the extreme low levels of last week and a day of warmer weather was forecast for Tuesday.

The heavy rain promised to protect surviving crops although another freeze should come, as indicated by the mercury's slow recession at midnight.

Almost an inch of rain, slow and soaking, fell in Wichita Falls Sunday night and Monday. Monday evening the mercury was heading toward the freezing point again, dropping from 41 to 38 degrees within two hours and still gradually declining.

Denver dispatchers reported that a light snow was mingled with the general rains between Childress and Vernon where temperatures were just below freezing. South and east of Vernon rains prevailed all the way to Fort Worth, where heavy downpours were reported.

Trains Delayed

Along the Katy road into Oklahoma, reports of snow stopped south of Altus. To the north the fall was from seven inches to a foot and drifts delayed railroad schedules but the new blizzard was comparatively mild and promised to be of short duration as strong winds swept clouds toward the east. Either snow or rains similar to that recorded in Wichita Falls drenched all of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma.

No fresh damage, except the danger of continued exposure to stock, was feared and farmers were glad to have the moisture for wheat, one of the few crops that came unscathed through the deep spring freeze last week.

Sterling Puts Thumbs Down on Extra Session

AUSTIN, March 30. (UP)—There will be no special session of the Texas legislature, Gov. Ross Sterling announced tonight. "If they do not get through their work in the 120-day session, it will be left undone" said the governor.

This will make the session end before May 12.

Governor Sterling announced acceptance of the resignation of District Judge L. J. Brucks of the 38th district and appointment of Lee Wallace of Kerrville as his successor.

County Files Suit To Destroy Slot Machines

Suit was brought in district court Monday by Louis V. Abernathy, county attorney, against eight alleged owners of slot machines which were seized by the sheriff last week, the state seeking condemnation of the devices and an order for their destruction.

Three men entered pleas of guilty before Judge Irvin J. Vogle in the county court at law last Monday morning on charges of possessing slot machines, each being fined $10 and costs, according to Mr. Abernathy.

One plea of guilty to being drunk drew a fine of $1 and costs.

Blazing Hair Is Wife's Reward for Sleuthing

LOS ANGELES, March 30. (US)—When she tried to check up on her husband, said to be now playing with a Chattanooga, Tenn., baseball team, and his alleged girl friend, Mrs. Wescott W. Kingdon let herself in for a most hectic experience.

Mrs. Kingdon testified in securing a divorce today that when she accused her husband of infidelity he threw her to the floor and that during the struggle her hair caught fire from a cigar he was smoking.

Stage Idol Of Another Day Is Back

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Lou Tellegen, matinee idol at whom the ladies were heaving sighs 'way back in the Roosevelt administration, has obtained a new face and will shortly reappear at the old perfect lover stand.

Lou, nearing 50 and—two weeks ago—looking it, has taken a face rejuvenation treatment and now looks like youth again. Free of wrinkles, dewlaps and under-eye sags, he has been able to sign up a movie producer who will present him in hand-on-heaving-breast postures for the benefit of the daughters and granddaughters of the girls he once set a-sighing.

It wasn't a face lift. Instead Elizabeth Lee, specialist in such matters, daubed his face with a colorless lotion. The treatment took about ten days. First Lou turned yellow, then brown, then red, then pink. During this changing process he eschewed public appearance. Now, wearing the complexion of a lad with his first pair of long pants, he is presentable again.

"Still a little pink," he admitted, "but that will go away."

Husband Tops Off Beating With Dose of Gas Fumes

RICHMOND, Texas, March 30. (UP)—Charged with having tied his wife to a chair, then beating her over the head with a bed slat and pistol, and finally sticking a gas hose in her mouth and turning on the gas, Bill Sherman, 27-year-old Richmond barber, was in jail tonight in default of a $2,000 bond.

His wife told County Attorney Clinton Dutton, who filed an assault to murder charge against Sherman, that the man tied her to a chair and beat her badly. He then stuffed the gas hose in her throat and turned in on.

A woman friend of Mrs. Sherman's came in then and Sherman left, saying he was going after bandages for his wife. The friend untied Mrs. Sherman and called officers.

SENATE LIMITS TAX SOURCES ON ROAD BONDS

License Fees and Fuel Levy to Finance Issue

Property Exempt Under New Amendments To Measure

AUSTIN, March 30. (UP)—Motor license fees and a motor fuel tax were made the sole source of funds to retire a proposed $200,000,000 state road bond issue by the Texas senate late today.

The provision was put in specifically, in the proposed constitutional amendment, that the bonds shall never become a charge against real estate or other property, and that no money shall be taken from the state general fund for bond retirement or interest.

The senate also agreed on the terms of reimbursement of counties for money already spent on state roads. Whether it will record the necessary two-thirds vote for submission of the amendment to the voters in the fall was still problematical tonight.

Sale Questioned

Just before recess Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth again offered the proposal that the highway program be financed by tax receipts and not bonds. He will have the floor in the morning.

Some supporters and some opponents of the bond issue opposed exclusion of other taxes to retire the bonds, and it seemed doubtful for a while that this would be done.

They asserted that restriction of bond retirement to the gasoline tax, changeable at the will of the legislature, would hamper the sale of bonds.

Opponents See Gains

Inclusion of motor license fees resulted in withdrawal of some of these objections but led to others. Senator Pink L. Parrish and W. K. Hopkins asserted that this, if approved, will take from counties money they now use on lateral roads.

The senate provided that one-fourth of proposed constitutional gasoline tax receipts shall be used for school purposes, as is done under the present statutory occupational tax on gasoline.

Today's amendments were regarded by bond opponents as partial victories for their side. They have contended all along that the bond issue should be submitted to the voters either as a gasoline tax measure, or with the understanding that

Suspected Wife-Slayer To Plead Insanity

AUSTIN, March 30. (UP)—Attorneys today indicated an insanity plea defense will be resorted to in behalf of Tom M. Carpenter, 47, apple vendor, charged with murdering his estranged wife, Mrs. Minnie Carpenter, 35, at her home Dec. 11.

La Guinan Robbed Of Dew-Dads

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Tex Guinan called for handcuffs instead of hands today.

She discovered that her home in West Eighth street had been entered and ransacked overnight. Various dew-dads were missing. The night club queen, whose slogan is "Give the little girls a hand," estimated the loot was worth from $3,500 to $4,000, and she tabulated it thus:

One horse, diamond-studded, with ruby eyes, the gift of the late Senator William A. Clark, Montana copper king.

One diamond-studded police badge, presented by Long Beach police after she gave a benefit show.

One gold mesh bag, supposedly donated by the late Miss Ella V. Von E. Wendel, $100,000,000 heiress.

One set diamond cuff links.

Texas said a racketeer visited her recently and demanded $500. She thinks the two events are connected.

VOTE FAVORS COURT CHANGE

Judicial Reapportionment Approved

AUSTIN, March 30. (AP)—The house constitutional amendments committee tonight voted a favorable report on a resolution by Representative Wagstaff of Abilene to reapportion the state's judicial districts.

Redistricting was advocated by Governor Sterling who stated he believed creation of additional district courts would be unnecessary if the state should be redistricted. Wagstaff's proposed constitutional amendment would eliminate 12 district courts and two courts of civil appeals.

Another resolution proposing a sweeping change in the state's judiciary system, offered by Representative McGregor of Austin, already had been favorably reported. McGregor and Wagstaff were expected to compromise their proposals.

The committee killed a resolution by Representative Richardson of Grand Saline to exempt land used in crop production from taxation and to levy a maximum tax of 20 cents a hundred pounds on lint cotton.

Representative Dowell's proposal for a constitutional convention was referred to a sub-committee.

O. U. Official Charged With Using School Materials for New Home

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 30. (AP)—Charges that Walter Kraft, superintendent of utilities at the University of Oklahoma, used university materials and labor in building a large home in 1926 for himself in Norman, were made in a report to Governor Murray by Alva McDonald, who conducted a private investigation for the governor.

The report, submitted tonight to the legislative committee investigating the governor's charges concerning the university, contained no mention of any investigation by McDonald into moral conditions among students at the state institution.

A legislative investigation was asked by the university board of regents after Governor Murray charged that McDonald found immorality, misuse of state funds and other alleged irregularities at the university.

McDonald, a former United States marshal, continued on the stand tonight as the legislative committee held a night session. With McDonald denying today that he made an investigation into morals of the university students, the committee tonight centered its attention on the alleged financial irregularities. McDonald, with Governor Murray's consent, took before the committee all documentary evidence obtained in his private investigation.

McDonald in his report also stated that Kraft accepted $750

Last Major Importer Joins Plan to Reduce Oil Importations

AID TO MARKET

Proration Program Depends On Control of East Texas Field

R. G. Stewart, president of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport company, announced in New York Monday afternoon that Pan American had arranged to curtail its imports from Venezuela into the United States 23 per cent, according to private advices to The Record News.

The Pan American is a subsidiary of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, the only large oil importer which had not agreed to cut down its imports. The announcement by Mr. Stewart said the Venezuelan production of the company would be cut down accordingly with the imports.

The curtailment will be for a period of 60 days effective April 1, according to announcement wired The Record News.

The Standard of Indiana thus enters into an informal agreement with three other companies to cut down imports in line with the program of domestic proration. The large importers are said to be hopeful that the domestic proration problem will have been solved in three months.

The four companies concerned in the agreement are:

The Mellon companies (Gulf) which have agreed to cut 25 per cent; Dutch Shell, which is cutting 50 per cent; Standard of New Jersey which will cut 25 per cent, and Standard of Indiana.

It is estimated that if the agreement should run for a full year it would reduce imports 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 per year.

"IMPORT SLASH HINGES ON DOMESTIC OUTPUT"—WILBUR

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—The agreement to reduce imports by the Standard Oil company of Indiana "offers something concrete to work upon" at the April 9 meeting of the Federal Oil Conservation board, Secretary Wilbur said today.

The Standard company of Indiana was the last of the four major oil importers to agree to the curtailment of imports, urged with domestic proration by the interior secretary.

At the session of the conservation board, all the significant factors entering into the present troubled status of the petroleum industry are to be discussed with leaders of the industry.

Continuance of reduced oil imports, the secretary indicated, apparently will depend upon domestic proration. In other words, if the way is found to put the domestic production upon a basis soundly proportioned to consumption, with curtailed exploitation of the newest oil fields, among them the important East Texas pool, Wilbur and the other government leaders working upon the problem feel confident the importers will continue their voluntary curtailment.

"Wild Horse," Says Wilbur

No total estimate of the import cuts is possessed by officials. The figures supplied them indicates Standard of New Jersey will cut from 60,000 to only 45,000 barrels a day, the Gulf company by 25 per cent and the Shell group will reduce imports of gasoline 50 per cent.

The interior secretary said he hoped the oil men at the conservation board meeting would really "look themselves in the face" and get to the root of their troubles.

"We have a wild horse to deal the bonds would be a lien on all property.

The provisions for reimbursement also contain features which opponents of bonds sought. Bonds issued by counties and districts as early as 1907 are recognized and varying degrees of reimbursement will be made.

Advocates of strict motor truck limitation showed overwhelming strength in the house late today when they voted down an attempt to have railroad service ignored in determining whether public convenience calls for licensing additional truck lines. The amendment received only 20 votes while 114 were against it.

Other amendments delayed final action on the bill today. It puts all classes of common carrier trucks under regulation of the state railroad commission both as to schedules and rates. It also provides for regulation of rates of trucks operating under contracts, except those hauling direct from the field or farm to a market, cotton gin, grain elevator or common carrier loading point within 75 miles.

Two other bills are on the calendar regulating sizes, weights and methods of operation. Under the pending bill rates will have to be comparable with rail rates.

structed dam across a small branch. About two acres of ground to the west and south of the well was thoroughly soaked with the spray.

The Magnolia Petroleum company has two wells ready to bring in Tuesday, one in the Bateman-Crim area near Kilgore, and another in the Lathrop area, and also has one new location each in these areas.

The new locations are the Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 C. C. Still, Meridith McCabe survey, two and one-half miles south by west of the Bateman discovery well, and the Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 1 J. C. McKinley, Dolores Sanches survey, one mile west by north of the Ernest Eslick No. 1 Spring Hill church lot producer.

Bringing in last week of the Eslick well has caused the surrounding area to take on about the most intensive activity to be found in the field in the way of new locations which are springing up on every side. The well due to be brought in Tuesday by Magnolia are its No. 5 Crim, which today was preparing to drill plug, with casing set at 3630 feet and a total depth of 3640 feet; and the Magnolia No. 2 Rodden, which today was making up tubing and preparing to drill in at midnight.

RAIN AND SNOW COVER SECTION

Winter Asserts Itself In North Texas Again

as reported Monday to The Record News included:

MANGUM, Okla.—Winter held on stubbornly here Monday, staging its second visit in three days by giving Mangum and its vicinity another coating of snow, accompanied by a strong northeast gale. The cold wave put an added burden upon agencies of relief.

ELECTRA.—A slow, drizzling rain fell here all day Monday, measuring .61 inch. The temperature was falling in the late afternoon.

MEMPHIS.—The mercury started a precipitate drop here after noon Monday, registering 28 degrees at dusk, a fall of seven degrees within a few hours. Rain and snow fell all over Hall county throughout the day.

ALTUS, Okla.—Snow that melted as it fell showered over Altus and Jackson county Monday. Although the temperature dropped, the weather was much milder than that which accompanied last week's blizzard.

DALHART.—Bus and automobile traffic was blocked here Monday after the heaviest snow of the season piled up huge drifts. Almost a foot of snow fell Sunday night and Monday. No cattle losses were reported and the moisture was believed beneficial to wheat.

CLARENDON. — Clarendon was cut off from traffic by snowdrifts that stacked up after a heavy fall Sunday night and Monday. The mercury at dusk Monday was slipping downward, but was not expected to reach the low levels of last week. Cattlemen are afraid the continued bad weather will take a heavy toll in stock losses.

LUBBOCK.—Temperatures were steadily declining with reading at 5:30 Monday of 33 degrees. Occasional snow flakes were falling. Stockmen feared losses during the night.

CHILDRESS — Snow, checked during the afternoon, began falling here again at dusk Monday night. The temperature fell to 32 degrees and the flakes stayed on the ground. Livestock was feared endangered by the cold and snow.

CLEARING SKIES FOLLOW STORM

AMARILLO, Texas, March 30. (AP)—The snowstorm which moved into the Panhandle from Kansas and Colorado Sunday night had shifted to the eastern Panhandle and Western Oklahoma late today and was followed by clearing skies in the northwestern Panhandle and Oklahoma strip, which had been hardest hit.

Although it grew lighter as it passed to the east, the storm left from six to 14 inches of snow over the north Panhandle, Northeastern New Mexico, Northwestern Oklahoma and Southern Kansas. The fall was lightest at Amarillo, where little more than an inch was reported by the weather bureau, and varied but little to the south. The snow blanket reached as far south as Plainview and Childress.

The Panhandle found it necessary to declare time out again today while its arteries of traffic were being cleared of snowdrifts. The drifts were not so deep as those resulting from the storm of last Thursday night and Friday, but were sufficient to delay trains on the Fort Worth and Denver and the Rock Island, and to stop buses on every highway except the one toward Lubbock. It was said to be in bad condition but still passable.

Dozens of cars were reported stalled on state highway No. 5 near Claude, and hotels were packed to ovreflowing. A warning was sent to Amarillo to halt all traffic in that direction because of lack of further accommodations.

Rock Island trains were said to have been held up at Stratford while the tracks were being opened up through the Oklahoma Panhandle and Southern Kansas. The heaviest snowfall was reported at Guymon and Goodwell, Okla., and Bucklin, Kan., ranging from 10 to 14 inches over this area.

Passenger trains into and out of Amarillo were being preceded by snow plows on the Rock Island and Denver lines, and over the Santa Fe from Canadian to Waynoka, Okla., and from Shattuck, Okla., to Spearman.

Minimum temperatures over the territory ranged from 22 to 30 degrees. The minimum in Amarillo was 24 above zero, and a like temperature was forecast for tonight, with a rise in the mercury tomorrow.

Livestock had suffered but little due to the moderate temperatures. The moisture was not needed but will be of benefit to the wheat. Much of the snow from last week's blizzard was still on the ground.

Extradition of Youths Awaits Murray's Name

M'ALESTER, Okla., March 30. (UP)—Only the signing of extradition papers by Gov. W. H. Murray remained tonight before authorities will start action to return William Schemnitzer and Stanley Chero, youthful bandits, to New York state where they stand charged with murdering a state trooper.

Two of the four New York authorities Capt. J. W. Kelly and C. C. Urdyke, went to Oklahoma City today for Governor Murray's signature. The governor had left his office and they must wait until tomorrow, it was announced here.

SINCLAIR FIGHTS STATE PRORATION

GUTHRIE, Okla., March 30. (AP)—Levelling legal artillery at the Oklahoma corporation commission, the Sinclair Oil and Gas company today took its war on oil proration in the Oklahoma City field to federal court.

A petition for an injunction asked that the commission be forced to fix the allowable flow from the Oklahoma City oil field at 150,000 barrels daily instead of the present maximum of 125,000 barrels, and argued that the allowable should be increased to 175,000 barrels.

The petition calls "arbitrary" and "capticious" the suspension at Gov. W. H. Murray's request of the commission's order of March 4 which allowed an increase from 125,000 barrels to 150,000 barrels of oil daily.

While no attack is made on the constitutionality of the oil conservation laws of 1915, previously upheld under which the commission operates, the action, Sinclair attorneys stated, "is rather to compel the commission to exercise its power to fix the allowable production in accordance with the market demand."

"The implication of the bill," said Daniel T. Pierce, Tulsa, Sinclair's Oklahoma executive, "is that the commission has failed to do this because of outside influence exerted upon it."

Sinclair sought immunity from punishment for failure to comply with present proration schedules pending outcome of the injunction suit.

District Judge Edgar S. Vaught certified disqualification in the case. Hearing date was not set.

Earlier in the day, Gov. W. H. Murray at Oklahoma City had charged published rumors directed at Cicero I. Murray, his cousin, and the Blue Valley Farmer, his weekly newspaper, constituted an attempt by Harry Sinclair "to break me down so he can control the oil situation."

He said expenses of Cicero Murray, the governor's personal oil representative, were being paid by Roy Johnson, Ardmore oil man "who will be reimbursed when the state makes some arrangement."

The governor said Sinclair desired to break proration and depress the price of oil to 25 cents a barrel.

ADVISORY GROUP MAPS PROGRAM

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 30. (AP)—Doctors for an ailing oil industry, the oil states advisory committee, will meet in Washington April 7 and 8 to make concrete plans for recovery of the patient. The program will be laid before the federal oil conservation board April 9 and its cooperation requested.

Cicero I. Murray, Oklahoma City, chairman of the committee, said tonight the program to be formulated would be in conformance with resolutions adopted at a meeting in Texarkana, Texas, March 9.

He said the committee would present to the federal board a concrete plan for an interstate compact to carry out objects of the Texarkana resolution which calls for uniform proration laws, unit allocation of oil, curbing of imports, equitable methods of withdrawal of storage oil and, if necessary, setting of price on both crude and refined products.

While the cooperation of the federal board is desired, it is not absolutely necessary, Murray said. The proposed interstate compact, to be binding, would have to bear congressional approval.

The program, the chairman said, would call for investigation of the oil situation and for recommendations of fair retail prices for refined products.

"Each state would be on the same proration and potential basis," he explained.

Representatives of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico, Wyoming, California and Ohio, have been asked to attend the Washington conference.

It is not planned to ask federal control of the industry.

The committee, under terms of the resolution, would make agreements with purchasers as to quantities of production and prices paid. It was empowered to confer with importers with regard to limiting crude imports and agree with holders of oil in storage as to schedules of withdrawals.

Committeemen were empowered to negotiate with the federal department and other agencies "to secure a recognition of the fact that it is necessary not only to conserve crude oil but to procure a fair price therefor in order to prevent abandonment of wells and physical and economic waste . . ."

Allocation of production by states would be made by the committee after conservation laws had been enacted along lines approved by the advisory board.

The resolution recommended steps be taken in all producing states to prevent over drilling.

from the city of Norman for engineering work while he was on the university payroll. The McDonald report further stated that Kraft was "said to have built a tennis court last fall for the faculty club, charging materials to the university."

After reading the full report by McDonald to Governor Murray, the committee voted to withhold from the record of its investigation the section of McDonald's report relating to the alleged immorality of a "certain professor." This will be considered in an executive session, the committee decided.

McDonald in his report recommended an investigation of the activities of many teachers at the university who, he charged, engage in private employment while on the school's pay roll.

Dean Holmberg of the school of fine arts, McDonald's report said, charged to the university many personal telegrams and telephone calls, some of them on business connected with the Oklahoma Symphony orchestra.

MAYOR'S RACE STIRE LAWTON

LAWTON, Okla., March 30.—In the bitterest mayoralty contest that has characterized a political campaign in this city since the days of the Ku Klux Klan, Lawton voters are lining up for the election April 7 an a non-partisan, administration and anti-administration basis.

Mayor Fred Larrance, who is a candidate for his second term, was nominated in the primary in a four-handed contest, receiving less than one-third of the Democratic votes cast at the polls. All other administration candidates were overwhelmingly defeated, including the mayor's strongest supporters on the council and the administration candidate for city clerk.

Opposing Mayor Larrance is the candidate on the Republican ticket, Dr. Jackson Broshears, a Lawton 1901'er and a physician and surgeon who was given the rank of major for services performed during the world war.

While there are two full tickets in the field, little mention is heard of other contests than the mayoralty fight. A heavy vote is expected to be polled. Registration period closed Friday night with hundreds of new registrations.

QUANAH CUTS MAYOR'S PAY

Economy Program Hits Fund for City Band

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, March 30.—Continuing economy measures in operation of Quanah's city government, the council has reduced the mayor's salary from $75 to $25 per month. A motion to reduce the councilmen's monthly pay $10 per month failed to get a second and lost.

A reduction of $300 annually in appropriation for Quanah's Municipal band was also made. Question as to validity of this reduction is made, however, as Quanah's band is supported by a tax voted by the people, and some believe so long as the appropriation does not exceed the four mills limit voted there can be no reduction made by the council. It is possible the matter would have to be settled by a vote of the people.

Kelly and Lamar Davis, as directors of the water district, A. M. Easterday, engineer of the district and G. E. Spinnler.

Floral Heights Methodist M.S. Studies Human Needs

"Human Needs and World Christianity" was the study topic for members of Floral Heights Methodist Woman's Missionary society Monday afternoon at the church when a song service led by Mrs. Val Land opened the session. Mrs. C. M. Simpson offered a prayer and a beautiful devotional on the parable of the good Samaritan was given by Mrs. P. B. Cox, who emphasized the duty of the Christian church to help establish forces for the advancement of the kingdom.

Mrs. S. E. Trevathan outlined the first of human needs, stating that the importance of better health, stressed through hospitals and clinics, had only recently been established and telling of the many instances of sacrificial service of nurses and doctors in various hospitals in foreign fields. The need for expansion was stressed and the contribution of the Methodist church itemized in work of well known ministers and physicians.

Mrs. Grady Payne told of world missions and industry, stating that in trying to change the health and spiritual conditions, economic conditions should be changed. Appalling facts were told about child labor. "World Brotherhood" was outlined by Mrs. T. E. Clements who mentioned the superiority complex and racial barriers as the two hindrances in advancement of Christian relations between Americans and foreign nations and races. The beauty of justice was emphasized and the destructive element of war was discussed as that factor which erases in a short time what Christians have built in decades.

Announcements were made of an executive board meeting to be held at the church Thursday at 9:30 o'clock and the luncheon to be given by circle six Wednesday from 12 to 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. T. F. Hunter. Mrs. Clyde Tittle's circle led in attendance. Mrs. P. B. Cox gave the closing prayer.

Those present were Mesdames M. T. Clements, S. E. Trevathan, A. B. Gough, T. F. Hunter, Val Land, E. V. Friberg, M. J. McGuigan, Cris Helmcamp, Austin Leach, H. W. Barton, C. M. Simpson, J. K. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

There's a little red wagon standing out in the rain near my house and I have seen the small cowboy who owns it shrug nonchalantly at its plight. Owners of miniature golf courses who, bouyed up by the spring air, had begun removing the winter's accumulation of debris from spots that spring makes enticing have quit in disgust.

Spring is a deceitful as well as a lovely lady, though it is her latter quality of which everyone most often talks. But she has a power above all other seasons of keeping the world guessing at what it wants.

The necessary bread is a thing we all must have and we want bread with butter. We want homes and music and movies and we crave rest when we are tired and cheer when we are sad. We want to think a little (most of us), dream a little, go through life comfortably and meet death bravely.

But take the crowd on the street or in the stores; that is when we have the question come to us, "what do people want?" If a man stops on the street and looks at the sky, directly another will stop by his side and before you know it a crowd has gathered, looking idly to see just what it is. They do not know. They follow the leader.

Sales were advertised for Monday. Women went in and fingered articles of wearing apparel; looked at bags and costume jewelry and after getting lots of attention from the patient clerks, walked out, not knowing exactly what they wanted.

Now there are movies. The public who goes regularly hardly ever knows what, individually, it wants. There's not to reason about a play; if there's a thrill, it may be a fairy-story and no chance of probability about any of the action, but the dear public holds its breath.

In newspapers, one must judge by contests what the public wants; for if the paper does not carry matter of interest, subscribers fall off. Stories of tragedy are always read; how many hearts were wrung by the tale of the children frozen in the Colorado storm? But people read of the police courts and of weddings, of suicides and births, of new establishments and of bankrupts with the same strange interest.

Weddings are affairs dear to the heart of womankind. Men may mock at the story of the bride's gown, but girls on the borderland of where the brook and river meet and women who linger with one foot in the grave still read with delight of the satin gown and the taper lighted altar.

The cooking school starts today. Ah there's the thing that women want. We remember them last year, twice as many on the second day as on the first, as many again on the third—all with their pencils and notebooks and all charmed with Mrs. Frances Northcross, who is without doubt the queen of leaders in a cooking school.

So Naturally No One Can Tell

When I see gray I see old age. Youth is every woman's right, so don't let hair get gray. Just use this improved formula made from that wonderful old recipe of common sage tea and sulphur. Dr. Horst Installs Officers In Presbyterian Societies

Recently elected officers in the First Presbyterian Woman's Missionary society and in the Lucy Hansell Missionary society were installed Monday afternoon at a joint meeting in the church parlors when an impressive ceremony was held by the pastor, Dr. George P. Horst. His charge to them stressed the beauty and diginity of the services they would render the church.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. E. T. Duff, retiring president of the Woman's Missionary society, and Mrs. Walter Priddy led in the hymn sung by the audience. Dr. Horst led in prayer before the short business session.

Annual reports were made by Mrs. Everett Jones, financial chairman of the W. M. S., and Mrs. Otis Nelson of the Lucy Hansell society. The work of both organizations was outstanding; much more had been accomplished than even the workers had expected and results reported at the close of a year when depression has been noted, were received with enthusiasm by the societies and the pastor.

Mrs. Walter Priddy, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Carey Hunter, sang a beautiful devotional solo, after which a rising vote of thanks was extended Mrs. Ed Howard, treasurer, and Mrs. Everett Jones, financial chairman, for their faithful and efficient work. Mrs. Duff voiced the feeling of the Woman's Missionary society when she presented Mrs. E. W. Nicholson, retiring Sunshine chairman, with a gift from the members and expressed their appreciation of her loyalty in the work she has done for many years.

Mrs. T. B. Smith, the new president of the W. M. S., pledged her best work and asked the aid of each member of the society. The personnel of the new circles was announced and Mrs. J. A. Kemp closed the meeting with prayer.

Great bowls of calendula and snap dragon in yellow and bronze made beautiful decorations in the parlors where the joint meeting was held.

Members present were Mesdames E. T. Duff, Walter Priddy, Carey Hunter, S. H. Burnside, Orville Bullington, Mark Walker, W. E. Brothers, T. B. Smith, C. E. McCutchen, Luke McCrory, J. M. Bell, B. L. Hurley Denies He Might Be Interested In Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON, March 30. (INS)—The first official act Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley performed today upon his return from President Hoover's vacation jaunt to the Caribbean, was to settle rumors that he would not frown upon his nomination for the vice presidency in 1932.

He said he "doesn't want it" and added:

"I was for Charley Curtis in 1928 and will be for him in 1932 if he wants it."

Hurley's home is in Oklahoma. His name has been mentioned with that of Theodore Roosevelt, governor-general of Porto Rico, as possible candidates for the office if Curtis chooses to step aside.

TRAIN-PLANE SERVICE SEEN

Autogiro May Bring About New System

LONDON, March 30. (US)—The near future may see a complete revolution in the linking up of railroad and airway communications, if the plans now said to be actually under way for the use of autogiros to be flown from the roofs of railroad stations materialize.

The autogiro, an heliocopter type of plane with horizontal rotating vanes, has demonstrated its ability to take off and make a landing in a space 200 feet square.

Col. J. Josselyn, managing director of the Cierva Autogiro company in London, has had several conferences with railway officials looking toward this scheme of linking railroad termini with those of airline traffic. He said:

"With the introduction of air-rail stations the tedious automobile journeys to airdromes on the outskirts of London and other big towns would no longer be necessary. On leaving a train you would step into an elevator, ascend to the roof, and in a matter of moments could be flying to any part.

"The building of the roof-top airdromes is a simple matter. All that is required is a clear space, roughly 100 feet square and the same wide. These could be easily constructed above the majority of our big railway stations.

"The type of autogiro being built in England is only a two-seater, but there is no difficulty in manufacturing larger autogiros to act as air liners."

Lindbergh to Install New Gear on Plane

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 30. (INS)—Col. Charles Lindbergh, now in New York, will shortly fly his monoplane to Los Angeles where he will have a newly perfected retractable landing gear installed, preparatory to an attempted record Los Angeles-New York flight, according to reports here today.

Aircraft engineers are completing a set of wings with folding wheels for the Lindbergh plane that will give it a cruising speed of 225 miles an hour.

"You Put the Words Right Into My Mouth—"

And That's What You Can Do to Win Prize in Contest

"Skippy speaking!"

"If you were the one to write the words for me and Sooky and Eloise and all to say, could you write something funny? If you can, here's a chanst to win a lotta prizes!"

You know Skippy and his gang. They're the famous, lovable characters created by Percy Crosby. Now Paramount has put Skippy and all his pals on the talking screen, in a full length, "special production" comedy drama. To celebrate the arrival of Skippy in Wichita Falls in "flesh and blood," so to speak, the Majestic theater and The Wichita Falls Record News are sponsoring a contest in which every one may compete.

Briefly, the contest is to write "funny sayings," a joke, or anything which occurs to you in the "balloons" of the photograph printed with this story. The pictures themselves have been printed, you notice, but the conversation has been eliminated. You're to write the conversation, using any joke, funny story, etc., you want to, only what you write must be appropriate to the picture.

The conversation you write must be printed (with a lead pencil, typewriter, pen and ink—anyway you want to do it) in the "balloons," the space provided for the dialog between the picture characters. For the funniest conversation The Wichita Falls Record News will award $5 in gold. For the next funniest, $2.50 will be awarded. Then the next 10 funniest will receive each a ticket to see "Skippy" on the talking screen of the Majestic theater.

The judges will inspect the answer first for appropriateness of the joke or story to the illustrations; second, for cleverness of the joke or idea; third, for neatness in execution. Answers must be submitted not later than Saturday morning, April 4. Mail them to the "Skippy" editor of The Record News or leave them at the box office of the Majestic theater. Announcements of winners will be made in The Wichita Falls Record News Monday morning, April 6.

Grownups as well as children may enter this contest, because Skippy is the friend of everybody. He is played in the talking picture, "Skippy," by Jackie Cooper, a shock-headed lovable little boy. Robert Coogan, Jackie Coogan's little brother, plays Sooky, while the popular Mitzi Green plays Eloise. Jackie Searl, who made a hit as Sid Sawyer in "Tom Sawyer," is in "Skippy" too, this time playing the neighborhood 'fraid cat.

"Skippy" will be the feature entertainment at the Majestic theater next Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

COURT TO END ROAD DISPUTE

Childress County Awaits Highway Decision

CHILDRESS, Texas, March 30. (AP)—Childress county's highway difficulties may be cleared soon by the supreme court of Texas. An injunction petition filed a year ago to prevent the county commissioners from spending road funds on state highway No. 4 has been set for hearing before the higher court April 2.

Farmers in the north section of the county asked for the injunction on the grounds that the highway routing did not comply with promises made by the commissioners before the bonds were voted. The lower court and the court of civil appeals in Amarillo ordered the injunction dissolved.

Train Robber Suspect Arrested in Oklahoma

TULSA, Okla., March 30. (AP)—Joe Newton, 35, alleged member of the band which held up a train near Roundout, Ill., in 1924, was arrested here today to face a federal automobile theft charge.

He was released on a $2,500 bond after arraignment before Wilson R. Roach, United States commissioner.

Officers said Newton was at liberty on a parole from the Leavenworth federal prison to which he was sentenced upon conviction in the train robbery case and that he was under a bank robbery charge at Eastland, Texas.

Mexico and Canada Lay Claims To American Broadcasting Channels

WASHINGTON, March 30. (UP)—A conflict over radio broadcasting channels on the North American continent may lead to international protests soon, in the opinion of informed radio men here today.

Canada was represented as not at all satisfied with the present domination of the air by United States stations, while the problem of Mexican stations, from an American standpoint, was said to be becoming increasingly difficult.

Of the 96 available channels for broadcasting, the United States now has 79 and Canada six, with the other 11 divided between the two. Mexico, with a liberal licensing policy, has been taking the channels it desired, with the prospect that sooner or later Mexican programs will interfere with some of the larger American stations.

Representatives of the radio industry in the United States have been meeting here to frame an agenda for the 1932 international radio conference in Madrid. Their program has been practically completed and is being studied by the state department before being forwarded to the Berne council.

Bandits Meet Barrage In Attempted Holdup

CLEVELAND, March 30. (UP)—Two youthful gangsters were riddled with shotgun slugs early today when they attempted, according to police, to hijack a truck of liquor in an east side warehouse.

Carl Amato, 23, was expected to die from 50 slugs that penetrated his head and body while his companion, Ed Daley, 22, was in a less serious condition from 15 shots in the legs.

NEW YORK, March 30. (US)—William B. Leeds, young millionaire sportsman, has been enrolled as mooring master of the submarine Nautilus for the undersea craft's projected cruise beneath Arctic ice floes to the North Pole this summer, it was learned today.

His post would put him in complete charge of the submarine during the intervals when she was moored to the ice floes.

A final definite decision as to whether the young yachtsman will accompany the expedition remains to be made, it was said.

However, he will be aboard the Nautilus during her trial trips about Long Island sound, scheduled to begin in about 10 days.

Cooking School Note

In the cooking school conducted under the auspices of The Times and Record News in the city auditorium, Mrs. Frances Northcross stresses modern methods of cooking. Naturally then, she uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern shortening.

Perhaps Ramses II ate cakes like these

"THE charming art of cake-baking probably originated with the Egyptians," says this old cook book called "The Panthropheon or The History of Food." Gorgeously sweet and filled with spices were these Egyptian cakes. Can't you imagine an old Egyptian cook puzzling out the hieroglyphics which meant Yum Yum Gems? And then hunting around for the spiciest spices, the sweetest honey and a delicate shortening?

No hunting around for a delicate shortening now—for your corner grocer has Crisco with its fresh, sweet flavor sealed in an air-tight can—a fresher, sweeter flavor than you ever imagined a shortening could have! A shortening, too, so fluffy you don't need to cream it. Think of how much time that saves in making cakes!

YUM YUM GEMS

½ cup Crisco
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup sour milk
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup raisins
½ cup walnut meats, chopped

Blend Crisco and sugar. (Notice how easily Crisco wraps itself around every tiny grain of sugar. That's what makes a fine textured cake.) Add sour milk. Stir in sifted dry ingredients and add raisins and nuts. Pour into Criscoed cup cake tins or paper baking cups and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 15 or 20 minutes, or until done. This recipe makes about 18 cakes. Ice with the following icing:

Boil 1½ cups of brown sugar and ⅓ teaspoon salt with ½ cup of water until it spins a thread (232° F.). Pour ½ cup of this syrup over the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs, beating while so doing. Put the remainder of the syrup back on the fire and cook until it forms a soft ball in cold water (238° F.). Add this syrup slowly to original mixture and beat until it's of the consistency to spread.

Try this one on your husband

A cake like this, flavored with coffee and put together with Crisco, whose own delicate, fresh flavor allows the taste of the coffee to predominate, is truly a "man's cake."

A MAN'S CAKE

½ cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¼ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cold strong coffee
¾ cup walnuts, cut up

Put sugar, egg yolks and Crisco into mixing bowl together and blend in one operation. (This procedure is new—and possible only because Crisco comes to you already creamed.) Then add alternately the sifted dry ingredients and the coffee. Stir in nuts and flavoring and lastly fold in the egg whites beaten stiff. Turn into Criscoed tube pan and bake in moderate (350° F.) oven for one hour. Cool and ice with:

1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup granulated sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt cooked with ½ cup strong coffee until it spins a thread (238° F.). Pour ½ of syrup slowly over 2 egg whites beaten stiff and beat as you pour. Cook remainder of syrup till it forms a soft ball in cold water (238° F.) and add to icing. Beat until it's of the consistency to spread.

And when you haven't time to bake cakes at home it's nice to know that you can go to a nearby baker or grocer and buy delicious cakes made with Crisco. Most good bakers do use Crisco, I've found. And when a baker is so particular about this shortening, he's apt to use the very best of other ingredients.

Taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor will tell you why things made with Crisco taste so much better.

Museum Disappointments
27 Fake Rembrandts
Losing a Starched Shirt
"Red" Lewis Gets Slapped

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Thousands of art-loving pilgrims who have come away from the Metropolitan Museum of Art satisfied that they had looked upon 27 original Rembrandts suffer from a mortal blow dealt to their aesthetic vanity. Dr. Maxmilian Toch, professor of chemistry of artistic painting at the National Academy of Design, says that only one of the 27, "The Gilder," is the genuine work of the great Dutch master.

Dr. Toch's statement carries the weight of authority. In his address before the New York Microscopic society, he declared further that he did not believe there were more than 37 genuine Rembrandts in the world, despite the fact that another equally eminent authority, Dr. W. R. Valentiner, lists 170. But let us not lose sight of the fact that at one time the list was as large as 700.

Rembrandt, could he come to life again, would disavow scores of canvases ascribed to him, just as Shakespeare would deny his authorship of certain plays, or Cellini of vases and cups, or Durer of engravings that carry the "A. D." signature.

A great name has always been a bait for a racket, especially in America, where people would rather own and boast of an unauthenticated Rembrandt than a genuine Rockwell Kent.

Art dealers cannot entirely be blamed. They are like theatrical managers—they give the public what it wants. The temptation to palm off a Fabritius or a Maes as a Rembrandt on people with more money than brains, who couldn't tell a Goya from a Gauguin, is too great to be resisted, especially when one may ask for $80,000 instead of $8,000, and get it!

So long as people stand ready to be fooled and willing to pay for the privilege, spurious Rembrandts, Titians and Raphaels will be manufactured.

Now that gambling has received legal sanction in Reno, the sport has been elevated to the dignity of a social function by the mandate that all participants wear full dress for the "premiere" anyway. The stuffed shirts and the get-rich-quick Wallingfords are coming into their own again.

Why men should be in formal attire when they win or lose money has never been properly explained. It's a problem for the psychologists. Perhaps there is more dignity in losing your shirt when it's starched. Perhaps the black-and-white veneer of full dress paints out stains of a less chaste hue. Perhaps a pauper in white cravat and silk vest has a better chance at credit. Anyhow, the custom has persisted in places like Monte Carlo and Deauville; and Reno, of course, is not to be outdone.

In the play your sympathies always are with the man who gets slapped. But when, at a literary dinner, Sinclair Lewis gets slapped, your sympathies are inclined to go over in bulk to Theodore Dreiser, who did the slapping.

A pugilistic show put on by two of the foremost writers in America is a spectacle that can only provoke derision. Lewis should know better than to accuse Dreiser publicly of plagiarism. And Dreiser should know better than to punish the insult with a blow. But Dreiser, who is getting old, might be forgiven. Lewis cannot.

The affair recalls other instances where "Red" Lewis made himself spitefully obnoxious. To stand above the criticisms of one's fellowman may be an evidence of strength—as Ibsen said, "He is strongest who stands most alone"—but to defy God, in the childish manner that Lewis did, a few years ago, was not only absurdly arrogant, but in the poorest taste.

The Small College

ANNOUNCEMENT that Harvard college is preparing to celebrate its centenary by drawing up a model program for small American colleges reminds one that the nation's debt to its small colleges is generally underestimated.

Ordinarily, when "the American college" is mentioned, one thinks of the large, famous and wealthy institutions. There are many of these, and they have done fine work. Such great eastern schools as Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Dartmouth; the huge state universities of the middle west like Michigan, Ohio, Minnesota and Wisconsin; the great metropolitan institutions like Columbia and Chicago; the west coast giants like Leland Stanford and California—there are the places that come to mind.

But the big ones aren't the only ones. Back of them lie scores of colleges such as Haverford, small in plant and enrollment, sometimes rather pinched for money, sharing none of the headlines and offering none of the glorified country-club attributes that some of the socially impeccable universities hold out to the sons of rich men—but doing an excellent job, year in and year out, in the training of future American leaders.

Indeed, the small college often seems the most hopeful feature of the whole field of higher education.

The small college seldom has any famous names on its faculty roster. Its degrees do not carry the prestige of degrees from Harvard and Princeton. Sometimes it is not even heard of outside of its own state.

But human institutions are judged chiefly by the fruits they produce; and the small college, judged in this way, deserves a high rating.

All over the country you will find its graduates. Some of them occupying high positions; some of them are struggling along in modest circumstances, never expecting either riches or fame, doing their best to get through with the job at hand in an acceptable manner. But no matter what their circumstances, these men and women are making a distinct and important contribution to American culture. They represent a steadily growing class that is interested in something besides the needs of the moment and the demands of the office and shop. They are the mainstays, in many localities, of the widening audience for good books, good music and intelligent discussion of current issues.

For these people went to college primarily to get education. They are not, usually, as urbane and polished as the graduates of the bigger schools. Often they are not as prosperous. But their colleges gave them something besides the ability to feel at ease in evening dress.

Crime in Great Britain

IT MUST have been a jolt to complacent Englishmen accustomed to discussing over the tea tables the frightful doings of American gangsters who put victims "on the spot" and take others "for a ride" to hear what Justice McCardie of the English high court had to say the other day.

Serious crime in Great Britain, according to Justice McCardie, is making an alarming increase. He points out that there is more housebreaking, shop-breaking, embezzlement and blackmail in England today than at any time during the last 60 years. "In my view," said the justice, "there are far more persistent criminals than in previous years. I am satisfied that the criminal today is a cleverer man than the criminal of a generation ago."

Statistics bear out these statements. In 1917 in England there were 97,171 indictable offenses known to police. By the end of 1928 the figure had risen to 130,469. But though in the former year 68,575 persons were prosecuted, in 1928 there were only 63,194 prosecutions.

Maj. Gen. Sir Wyndham Childs, long chief of the detective branch of Scotland Yard, concurs with Justice McCardie in his view of the situation and adds: "The whole trouble is that ordinary respectable citizens receive all the attention which the police ought to be giving to the professional criminal. Give the ordinary citizen more freedom from the clutter of petty offenses and let the police turn to the real menace to society."

Americans, with nothing to boast of when the subject of lawbreaking is mentioned, can only deplore England's crime increase. With thorough appreciation of the seriousness of the situation, however, men and women in the United States can probably be forgiven for hoping that, facing the same problem, our British neighbors will be less inclined to judge life in America by the racketeers' warfare, by gun-girls and by Chicago's pineapple bombs.

Recluse

I wonder if this state of being proud
Is worth the while—I know today that I
Still seek your face among the milling crowd,
And wonder if by chance you ever sigh
For vanished night. I tell you I am through
With tinselled lures that tempted me before;
But there is little left for me to do—
When faithfulness has closed a heavy door.

And Spring will come on light enchanted feet
To wonder at the solemn lad who looks
Half wistfully at couples in the street.
And seeks forgetfulness in listless books.
Which end with sheer content for each young pair—
(Some contrast, dear, to our short-lived affair).

Heheheh

Jack Osterman can slap a gag at himself when his sense of humor is at its best. The other day, frinstance, he encountered William Gordon, a vaudeville reviewer for the Morning Telegraph, in a restaurant.

"Mr. Gordon," said Osterman, "I want to thank you very much for your notice about me when I played at the Palace."

"You must have me mixed up," said the critic. "I panned you!"

"I know," swiftied Jack, "but did you see those other fellows?"

One of the newspapers contained a layout of photos of Mayor Walker. One showed hizzoner in a beret and bedsheet, another in a stage-coach driven by cowboys and one pictured him in New York.

The Big Conversationalist!

A young actress recently moved into an apartment in the 50s in which Lobby Holman of "Three's a Crowd" dwelled for a long spell. The new tenant sent for a telephone man to have the phone transferred from the living room to the bedroom.

"So you really want to have your phone switched, eh?" he asked.

"Yes, from the living room to the bedroom," she said.

"Lady," was the reply, "if Libby Holman got where she is with a phone in the living room you ought to leave it there."

A Form of Criticism?

Dana L. Cotje says that between the acts, the New York dramatic critics go out to the lobby where they can be overheard.

The Reason

Danny Ahearn, the author of "How to Commit Murder and Get Away With It," was in a jam some time ago, and a well known small-time actor was a witness for him. The hambo gave a terrible account of himself on the stand, almost convicting Ahearn with his feeble testimony. During a recess in court the defendant walked over to the actor and groaned: "You certainly were awful up there on the witness stand; the rottenest witness I ever had!"

"Aw, leave me alone," grumbled the fellow, "I didn't have any manuscript—and, anyway, I'm always lousy at auditions!"

Big Business Girl . . By One of Them

Beautiful Claire MacIntyre, known as Mac, and Johnny Goodman are secretly married in college. Their ways soon lead in different directions, though they are desperately in love. Mac seeks a business career, as she feels that Johnny is undependable. Johnny, coming back from Paris, where he has played a summer engagement at the head of a college orchestra, finds Mac working in the office of a big dry-cleaning establishment in Chicago, run by R. J. Clayton. And Johnny senses that the boss, R. J., is in love with Mac. This, in spite of the fact that Clayton is married. Johnny, at the head of his own orchestra, announces that he and Mac are married. Mac, supposedly tired of Johnny's importunities, tells him they had better get a divorce. Johnny agrees. Clayton tries to get Mac to consent to marry him if he can divorce his wife. Mac gets an offer from Thorne, of a rival cleaning establishment. She promises an answer in a week.

INSTALLMENT XX

The excitement at having achieved real recognition of her business abilities carried over until Wednesday. Fortunately Uncle Jerry was out of town. It kept her from having to explain about Johnsian club in the beacon. She hadn't told Jamieson what it was all about, and she had been casual about Johnny when Jamieson wanted to know about the villa Carlotta. Jamieson was suspicious—it looked to him as though Mac were riding on the crest of Johnny's return. But Mac had put her face up to him when they danced and had looked at him through her long eyelashes. And he had enjoyed that ride back in his new Packard, with Mac close to him, very vibrant and full of sophisticated and knowing chatter.

He wondered if he could ever sell Mac on the idea of long summers of this sort of life, riding along the North Shore through woody gulleys, with the scent of fern and moss and leaf pouring in upon them; the black glass lake and a tremendous moon which one associated with tropical places rather than northern Illinois. But Mac was an odd girl—easily bored with the amusements other co-eds found perpetually entertaining. He couldn't classify her—she didn't conform.

Jamieson had existed for Mac that evening only as an audience. The real thing in her life at the moment was Mr. Thorne's offer, and with it that uplifting realization of having conquered. She knew that conquest came in love, too, but she felt that such conquest could never be as satisfying, as filling as this. This achievement had really quickened her pride and added to her stature more than any single emotional episode she could remember. It had nothing to do with beauty or allure or being a girl. She could have felt the same if she had been a man.

She was dictating to Miss Kelly, efficiently getting the morning's mail out of the way, when her door burst open without any preliminary knock. Expecting to see R. J. or Luke, she looked up smiling.

"Johnny!"

"I've tried and tried to get you. What do you mean by not letting me talk to you?" He was just as bronzed as ever, but there were deep circles under his eyes and she noticed that his hand shook as he pulled at his hat.

"Johnny!" This time Mac's tone commanded him to be still. She looked meaningly at Miss Kelly, who didn't know whether to leave or stay. While she gathered up the letters and her pencils in final decision, Johnny went right on.

"You can't get away with this, Mac! You've got to listen to me! You've got to be fair! You can't just stop having anything to do with me! I've almost gone crazy thinking over everything you said Sunday. I won't be thrown away like an old shoe."

By now the blushing stenographer had passed Johnny and gone out the door. Mac had been sitting perfectly still, paralyzed. Suddenly she lost her temper.

"And what do you mean by interrupting the whole office like this in the morning? I wish you'd please go."

Johnny stood and looked at her, swallowing hard. He'd never seen Mac as angry as this.

"But I couldn't get you at home. And they wouldn't let me talk to you here. I had to see you. I had to."

"This isn't the place for it, Johnny. You know that. When I want to talk our affairs over with you, I'll let you know. I wish you'd grow up. I think this means I'm through. Anyway, I don't want to talk about it any more just now. Good-by."

Johnny went right on. "You can't get away with this, Mac! You've got to listen to me! I've almost gone crazy thinking over everything you said Sunday."

Mac went over and opened the door for Johnny, and just as she did so, R. J. came out of his office and started toward her. He saw Johnny leaving, then, nodded brusquely to him, came into Mac's office and closed the door.

"He thinks I'm just another college girl, mixing up my men with business," Mac thought, her face flushing. She had felt so confident and capable 10 minutes ago. She sat down at her desk, trying to look calm.

"Trouble?" R. J. questioned. He said it so kindly that tears came to Mac's eyes. He had glowered so at Johnny's intrusion during office hours that Mac had expected him to be rather crisp with her. She could have stood that. She shook her head in answer and looked very unhappy.

"I came to apologize, Claire," he said then, to Mac's surprise. "Luke kept me busy Monday morning and when I came out to go to lunch, you'd gone. I just got back from Detroit this morning. Lots of trouble over there."

BROTHERS TO OPEN DEFENSE

State Rests Case in Lingle Assassination

CHICAGO, March 30. (UP)—The state rested its case late today against Leo V. Brothers, confident that it had answered to the satisfaction of a jury the famous question: "Who killed Jake Lingle?"

After eight witnesses had testified they saw Brotners running precipitately from a Michigan boulevard subway last June on the day the Chicago Tribune reporter Alfred J. Lingle was assassinated, Assistant State's Attorney C. W. Brooks announced its attempt to prove the guilt of Brothers was completed.

Judge Joseph J. Sabath immediately adjourned court until tomorrow when the defense promises to match the state's witnesses, man for man, with testimony that instead of the tall, blond Brothers, the slayer was a short, swarthy gunman.

Defense Picks Flaws

Attorney Tyrell V. Krum said the defense also hoped to make much of the fact that none of the state's witnesses claimed to have seen the actual assassination of Lingle, who fell to his death in the subway with one bullet through his head. One of the prosecution witnesses said he saw Brothers toss away a "bull dog" pistol in the subway, six more said they saw him run out into teeming Michigan boulevard and the final witness told of selling Brothers a suit case immediately after the slaying.

Albert W. Kelfstrom, buyer for a trunk company, said that Brothers entered his loop store "looking very pale," paid $5 for a suit case, and disappeared, leaving the bag behind.

Motive Unknown

Brothers appeared nervous, Kelfstrom continued, stood behind a pillar most of the time he was in the store, and finally hastened away after washing his hands in the store's wash room.

The prosecution made no attempt to prove why Lingle was killed. After his death it was learned that despite his salary of $65 a week as a news gatherer for the Tribune, he had an income of $60,000 a year, was a close friend of "Scarface Al" Capone and at the same time was intimate with the heads of the police department.

Brothers was arrested suddenly last December, held incommunicado for 10 days and then was indicted on the murder charges.

Marion Proctor Wins Oratorical Test for Girls

Marion Proctor was winner of first place in the Junior college girls' oratorical contest held at the Junior college Monday night, when she competed against Pearle Smyth and Charlotte Joiner, who tied for second place.

Durward Park, Randle Hanks, and Bob Trevathan were chosen winners from the six boys in their contest, competing with Wilmont Hunt, Aaron Kruger, and Bryant Creighton. Park, Hanks and Trevathan will speak again in a general high school and college assembly Wednesday morning for the final contest.

Miss Juanita Kinsey directed the contests, and Judge A. H. Britain, Mrs. William Miller, Rev. Patrick Henry, Frank Creighton, Marion Proctor and Katherine Ashford acted as judges.

Palmitier Home Not Destroyed by Fire

Through error in the Monday issue of the Times, the fire which Sunday destroyed the house at 1117 Amber street, owned by George B. Ray, was said to have wrecked the home of Frank Palmitier at 1122 Amber. Mr. Palmitier's home was not damaged in the blaze.

The house which burned was occupied by Jack Grundy, linotype operator for The Times Publishing company. Mr. Grundy and members of his family were in Walters, Okla., at the time of the blaze. The house and all of its furnishings were lost in the fire, Fire Chief J. L. McClure reported.

Burglar Alarm From Bank Thrills Cops

Arriving on the scene prepared for what appeared to be one of the "most daring crimes" attempted here, officers discovered that the alarm had been caused by a short circuit in the wiring system.

The original deadline for payment was Feb. 1 but an extension was granted to March 1, and later to April 1. There is no possibility of a further extension, Mr. Hyer said.

EIGHT DIE IN CAR CRASHES

Fire and Water Aid To Texas Toll

DALLAS, March 30. (UP)—Eight persons were killed, two of them burned and one drowned, in motor accidents in Texas over the weekend.

Many persons were injured, several critically, in the mishaps.

J. B. Freeman, 25, Houston, and John Singleton, 25, Rosenberg, were burned to death when their car crashed headlong into an underpass support east of Cleburne and burst into flames last night. H. C. Clay, 30, of Houston, was dragged from the blazing machine by an unidentified negro, who passed by. Clay was near death from injuries tonight.

Victims Trapped

The negro was unable to rescue the other two men, who were pinned in the wreckage. Their bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Singleton and Clay had been attending the wedding of a friend in Dallas.

L. T. Alford, 28, and Mrs. Jessie May Radford, 23, of Houston, were killed in an automobile wreck on the Galveston road last night. Alford's car crashed into a concrete culvert. Miss Helen Beaman, 23, was injured, probably fatally, in the crash.

R. L. Montgomery, 55, Fort Worth salesman, was killed instantly in a three-car crash on the Dallas pike late today during a rainstorm.

Two Die in El Paso

Two persons were killed in wrecks at El Paso.

Corporal Rolland Crabb, 32, Fort Bliss soldier, drowned when his car plunged into an irrigation canal. J. J. Christopher, 33, also of El Paso, died in a wreck.

Leland Pruitt, 17, of Bartlett, was killed in a midnight wreck on the Belton-Temple pike last night. The car in which he was riding crashed with a machine parked on the road. Two companions were seriously hurt.

Scores of afflicted, deformed and maimed were on hand to be treated at the clinics to be held under the sueprvision of nationally known specialists throughout the week.

PALS DESERT FRED BURKE

Gunman Without Legal Aid in Court Hearing

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 30. (UP)—Fred Burke, alleged professional machine gun killer, appeared deserted tonight by the underworld friends police say he worked and served with for years.

Charged with the murder of Charles Skelly, a policeman, Burke was arraigned here today. Preliminary hearing was set for April 8. No counsel represented the man who allegedly was executioner for Al Capone. He was alone—hemmed in by guards—as Joseph R. Collier Jr., justice of the peace, sat across a plain pine table in Berrien county jail and read the charge.

Cameramen received a dark scowl when they requested a posed picture. As their shutters clicked he turned his face to the wall. Then the procedure over, he walked back to his narrow cell.

Whether his old friends intend to let Burke "take the rap" without trying to aid him, was a moot question. Barrett O'Hara, noted criminal lawyer from Chicago, who conferred with Burke today, returned to Chicago. Burke said he expected another attorney tomorrow.

In any event there was no indication that the expensive legal talent usual in "big shots" cases would be provided Burke. Reputedly something of a "Lone Wolf" in the underworld, selling his specialized talent to any bidder, Burke may have no gang alliances sufficiently strong to bring him aid, officials said.

But if the black-haired soft-spoken man who started life on a Kansas farm, is worried, he has failed to show it. He ate heartily tonight, and last night he slept soundly after his wearisome 600-mile dash here from St. Joseph, Mo. He refused to discuss the Skelly shooting aside from admitting that it was a "tight case" against him.

Colorado Town to Pay Homage To School Bus Heroes Today

HOLLY, Colo., March 30. (AP)—Side by side, the bodies of five school children and the heroic driver of the Towner, Colo., school bus, who perished in a blizzard last week will lie in state tomorrow as the community pays tribute.

School bells will be stilled and business houses closed and virtually every one in this section of Southeastern Colorado will attend joint funeral services. Four Holly ministers will officiate.

Near the casket of Carl Miller, the bus driver, will be that of his daughter Mary, one of the children who died when the bus stalled in the blinding storm. After remaining with the children for many hours, Miller realized he must get aid or all would perish. In the driving storm, after dawn Friday morning, he started out. Struggling on for more than three miles he at last fell exhausted in a corn field only a short distance from a farm house.

In the bus while Miller was making his effort to reach aid, 20 children faced death. Warned by the driver they must keep awake, the older children played games and engaged in boxing contests to keep their blood in circulation. Several gave part of their clothing to smaller companions.

Fifteen children who survived the tragedy are in the hospital at Lamar, Colo., making a gallant fight for life. Physicians say all probably will recover.

Reserve Officers Attend Lecture

Tactics of modern artillery warfare were explained in a lecture by Maj. William S. Fulton, of the coast artillery corps of the U. S. army, to about 25 reserve officers Monday night at the Memorial auditorium. Major Fulton used four reels of motion pictures as an adjunct to his talk.

Capt. Duncan T. Boisseau of Fort Worth accompanied Major Fulton here. Captain Boisseau is regular army instructor for the 343rd field artillery, and is also senior instructor for the local troop school.

Officers of the reserve corps here are those retaining their commissions after service in the regular army or who have since obtained commissions from the war department. Officers and non-commissioned officers of the local artillery companies of the national guard also attended the meeting Monday.

Airplane 'Galosh' Keeps Wings Free Of Ice in Storm

AKRON, Ohio, March 30. (AP)—Victory was reported here today over one of the aviator's most dangerous enemies—ice that forms on the wings of his airplane.

Through low hanging clouds, at freezing temperature and an altitude of 2,000 to 3,000 feet, Charles Meyers of Cleveland, piloted his airplane which was equipped with rubber "overshoes" developed by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, the National Air Transport, Inc., and Dr. William C. Geer, Cornell university research associate.

The overshoes—pounches of specially treated rubber fabric fitted over the leading edges of the plane wings and struts—were made to "breathe" as the ice formed on them. As they breathed the ice crumpled away.

The inflation and deflation, which worked like a man's lungs, were created by a motor driven air pump in the cockpit.

ALTMAN CASE GOES TO JURY

Throngs Hear Arguments In Death Trial

Special to The Record News.

ASPERMONT, Texas, March 30.—Twelve men, most of them former neighbors to both men, Monday night weighed the fate of Homer Altman, charged with killing Sam Tanner, pioneer Stonewall rancher as he stood in his hog pasture last Feb. 25.

Approximately 350 men and women from all over the section thronged into Aspermont Monday in spite of rain and bad roads to hear all-day arguments.

Altman said on the stand Saturday that he shot Tanner, his former landlord, in self-defense and because Tanner had made advances toward his young wife. He has asked for a suspended sentence should the jury find him guilty.

The 26-year-old tenant farmer said he fired the shot that blew away the top of Tanner's head when the elderly ranchman cursed him and made a movement "toward his hip." Altman's wife, the mother of a six-weeks old baby had previously taken the stand to tell of receiving $10 from the 56-year-old ranchman. She took the money, she said, because Tanner owed her husband money.

Testimony was completed Saturday night and arguments lasted until 5:30 Monday, when the case was given to the jury. No report had been made late Monday night and an early verdict was not expected.

RADIO TALK

City Council Approves Selection Of Supervisors for Election Here

Permission to post supervisors at election polls during the city election April 7, was granted the "Citizens' committee" by the city council in regular session Monday night at the Memorial auditorium, and approval was made of a list of names submitted by the committee. The Progressive committee will also be represented by supervisors, and announcement of those to serve will be made Tuesday, it was said.

Changes in the personnel of election officials was approved. Due to the inability of O. Abernathy, Henry Penix, J. E. Park, Maurice Cheek and M. E. Nutt to serve as election clerks, Pat Hardage, George H. Hodgins, W. G. Bralley, W. L. Dalton and M. L. Tittle were appointed to fill vacancies.

Advertisement for bids to audit the city's books and records for the fiscal year ending Tuesday was authorized by the city council. W. E. McBroom, city clerk, announced that the closing of the city's books would require until about April 21, at which time the audit by certified public accountants will begin. Bids are to be advertised now, it was said, in order that work of auditing may be commenced immediately upon the closing of books.

NEW YORK, March 30. (US)—Climaxing a two-year investigation, the United States government today petitioned the New York federal court to mandatorily dissolve the "sugar trust," known as the sugar institute.

The petition is filed under the Sherman anti-trust act and charges that 16 corporations and 27 individuals have for the past three years conspired to and maintained a scheme to fix sugar prices in the United States.

Beauty's Husband Denies Suicide Ended Her Life

MONTE CARLO, March 30. (US)—The shattered body of Mrs. David Townsend, the beautiful Alabama girl once glorified on New York's stage as Peggy Davis, will be laid to rest in the little cemetery at Eze, France, on Wednesday, her sorrowing husband convinced her death was accidental.

David Townsend, an Australian millionaire who made a fortune in Wall street before marrying the beautiful actress, will vigorously oppose any effort by police to register the death of his wife as suicide. Townsend told Universal Service:

"I have seen the note she is supposed to have left. The handwriting is unrecognizable. I could not say for sure that Peggy wrote it."

You are cordially invited to attend our special spring showing of the new, white, porcelain-on-steel Frigidaires during the electric cooking school which starts Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Memorial Auditorium. At this school, Mrs. Frances Northcross will point out the many outstanding features which make Frigidaires the truly advanced refrigerator.

In addition to being on display at the cooking school, the Frigidaire will be used exclusively to preserve food and to freeze salads, and desserts prepared by Mrs. Northcross. Make every effort to attend this cooking school, and bring your friends. You will find this school to be one of the most interesting events of its kind ever held in Wichita Falls.

Have you see the new Frigidaires? From smooth, flat tops to gracefully turned legs, the new Frigidaires are the finest ever to bear the name. You will be delighted with the pure white cabinet which harmonizes with any kitchen color scheme. You will appreciate the faster freezing made possible by "cold control" . . . the ice cubes which tumble so easily from the Quickube Ice Tray . . . the crisper vegetables which come from the famous hydrator—and you will appreciate the advantages of the seamless, acid-resisting porcelain interior, the elevated bar-type shelves and the super-powered, concealed unit that operates so quietly and at such low cost. These are just a few of the refinements which set Frigidaires apart from all other refrigerators.

WISE VOTED DROUTH AID

New Counties Made Eligible For Loans

FORT WORTH, March 30. (AP)—Wise and Parker counties have been added to the list of certified drouth counties in Texas and are now eligible for seed, fertilizer and agricultural rehabilitation loans, E. J. Murphy, director of the farmers' federal seed loan office here, announced today.

Notification of the addition to the two new counties was received from C. W. Warburton, director of extension in the United States department of agriculture.

With the inclusion of 18 new counties in the drouth section recently, it was announced that the area was closed. No explanation of the two exceptions was made by Warburton, Murphy said.

Drouth counties in Texas now eligible for aid total 84, according to Murphy.

COUNTY TOTAL REACHES 100

DALLAS, March 30. (AP)—The state advisory committee on federal drouth relief announced today the number of Texas counties in which the government would make loans to credit corporations for agricultural relief and rehabilitation had been increased from 56 to 100.

W. B. Farrar, executive secretary of the committee, said the following additional counties had been designated: Brewster, Brown, Concho, Crockett, Culberson, Deaf Smith, Edwards, Fannin, Glasscock, Hale, Hamilton, Henderson, Hockley, Hood, Howard, Hudspeth, Irion, Jack, Jeff Davis, Kerr, Kimble, Lamar, Lamb, Mason, Menard, Mills, Palo Pinto, Farmer, Pecos, Presidio, Rains, Reagan, Real, Reeves Somerville, San Saba, Schleicher, Sterling, Sutton, Terrell, Tom Green, Upshur, Upton, Val Verde and Wood.

More to Come

"We expect additional designations," said Farrar, "and the people of any county not designated but eligible should take immediate steps to have the county designated."

He said only one corporation had been set up since the state committee of three was appointed this month. This organization, with $25,000 capitalization, was created at DeKalb. The government advanced $10,000 of the total.

A delegation from San Antonio was in Dallas Saturday asking for a loan of $50,000 with which to increase capitalization of a corporation already operating there. Sweetwater had asked for $30,000; Colorado City for $12,500; Rock Springs, $20,000; and Cisco, $12,500.

Comanche Reduces Tax Assessments

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Marc 30.—"Good news" filtered from the office of E. D. Sullivan, county assessor, Saturday in the form of an announcement that Comanche county's tax assessment for 1931 will be approximately 15 per cent less than last year. The financial depression is credited as being chief cause for the reduction.

Stores in Lawton and other county towns have made substantial reduction in their stocks, Assessor Sullivan states, livestock on the farms dropped off practically 50 per cent and as a result of the crop failure in the county, due to drouth, there is practically no feed in the county to assess. With a general reduction in the price of all commodities, the assessment of taxable property has been correspondingly reduced. Only an average amount of building has been done during the past year to offset the general reduction in total assessment.

In view of the reduction in total assessment, Sullivan warns public officials and citizens to make conservative demands from public funds during the coming year. A raise of levies in many instances would appear necessary if demands for funds are as great this year as last.

Quanah in Line For Flag Stop On Air Express

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, March 30.—Gilliland field, Quanah's airport located a mile east of town on paved highway No. 5, may be designated as a flag stop in the new schedule of the Mid-Continent Air Express, on its line from Dallas to Amarillo, according to advice received by Eugene B. Smith, director of the chamber of commerce, from M. L. Boss, district passenger agent for the Mid-Continent Air Express, with headquarters in Dallas.

The air express will be carrying mail, express and passengers starting in April, Mr. Boss advised, and a new rate of tariff will probably be adopted at an early date.

Gilliland field has been commended by competent judges, and pilots landing here at one of the best local fields in this section. It is expected the field will have government designation at an early date. A government air official who was here recently stated "excellent" should be the designation for this landing field.

Montague Farmers Form Truck Unit

Special to The Record News

NOCONA, Texas, March 30.—A brand new industry for the northern part of Montague county is assured. Nearly 200 farmers have decided to get away from cotton raising to a certain extent at least. They are going to raise cucumbers for the market. An enthusiastic meeting was held here recently at which these farmers banded themselves together as the Nocona Truck association, with J. C. Weaver, president and J. C. Wood secretary. The meeting resulted in an agreement among themselves to plant 250 acres of cucumbers, from one to 10 acres each. It is thought a number of other farmers will come into the association soon.

Arrangements are being made by business men of Nocona for a cucumber market and it is said an acre of cucumbers will bring about eight or ten times more net cash than cotton.

Full instructions and seed for planting will be obtained by all farmers who sign up their acreage of cucumbers from McDonald Gin company of this place. The time set for planting is the last of this month, for better results. All are advised to plant about the same time in order to be able to sell together and at the same time.

The soil around Nocona is suitable for cucumbers, experts say.

WHEN YOU COOK YOUR
easter ham
REMEMBER THAT
sugar
WILL MAKE IT

taste better

Sprinkle sugar generously over the ham before you put it in the oven to bake.

A BAKED HAM studded with cloves and coated with sugar is certainly an appetizing sight. But the real treat comes when you taste that ham and revel in its tangy-sweet, juicy goodness.

Ham, however, is not the only meat that tastes better by adding sugar. You'll be surprised at the way a dash of sugar plus a pinch of salt heightens the flavor of cheap cuts of meats during the stewing or braising process.

Think of this value of sugar as you plan your meals. Remember, too, that sugar added to vegetables gives them new taste-appeal. For proof just try a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt when you cook spinach, peas, carrots, cabbage or beans. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

LONG DISTANCE WEDDING FLOPS

German Girl to Return To Fatherland

SOCORRO, N. M., March 30. (UP)—The mail order romance of pretty Hedge Krieschbaum, who came from Germany in 1922 to marry G. W. Brass, wealthy Texan, has ended.

Mrs. Brass was granted a divorce by Judge Harry P. Owen of the seventh district court here and today she is awaiting the decision upon the amount of alimony before she returns to Germany, disillusioned.

Blasted romance was hardly the expectation of Mrs. Brass, she testified. Her married life was filled with broken promises of her husband.

Cooked Delicacies

During the deflation years in Germany, she answered an advertisement in a German newspaper. Brass had studied two years in Germany universities. He replied to her letter, offered her a $2,500 automobile, had his aunt pass judgment upon the girl and her family, and as a result, Hedge sailed for New York.

She and Brass were married Aug. 1, 1922, and then moved to Socorro. For eight years, she said, she cooked German delicacies.

But she never was given the automobile. Her husband had placed $2,500 to her credit in a bank, but he shortly withdrew it.

Poison Charged

"I did not care for the car," Mrs. Brass testified, "but it was that he broke his promises."

Brass owns the famous Park house and Aztec camp here. He deeded the park hotel to his wife, but another deed, which she claimed she never signed, transferred it back to him.

In a cross complaint, Brass charged his wife attempted to poison him. The court ruled the evidence preposterous on that charge. He testified he allowed his wife $5 monthly and later this was increased to $15.

Canning Program Brings Profits To Hall Clubs

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, March 30.—Hall county farmers are apparently waging active warfare on hostile economic forces, results of canning done by home demonstration clubs through the county, from October through February have shown. The canning was done under the supervision of Miss Ruby Adams, county home demonstration agent.

Seventy-eight beeves have been put in cans during the period, figures compiled by the club women and others have shown. Seventy of these were canned by clubs and eight were canned by individuals with whom Miss Adams worked. Not only was beef canned but chicken and pork amounted to a large item, where living at home was concerned.

Clubs who took part in the demonstration were: Parnell, Turkey, Indian Creek, Buffalo, Lodge, Purple Hill, Salisbury, Brice, Hulver, Busy Bee, Leslie, Grammage.

Special stress was placed on the canning of beef. A total of 9,118 cans was reported from the 10 clubs. Canning of beef by clubs was as follows: Parnell, 238 quarts; Turkey, 500 quarts; Buffalo, 313 quarts; Lodge 885 quarts; Purple Hill, 889 quarts; Salisbury 449 quarts; Brice 600 quarts; Hulver 1,045 quarts; Busy Bee 922 quarts; Indian Creek, 228 quarts; Leslie, 894 quarts; Gammage, no report. The beeves were valued at $868 before they were canned but in the cans they were valued $3,520.55.

A total of 484 cans of chicken have been put up in the past few months. These were valued at $843.25.

This work, sponsored by Miss Adams, has been of untold benefit to the farm families of the county. Not one family which has been affiliated in this work have had to call on the Red Cross for aid, it has been learned.

'Aerial Automobile' To Be Exhibited

DETROIT, March 30. (AP)—William B. Stout, Detroit aircraft engineer, has developed what he calls "the automobile of the air" for exhibition at the aircraft show here April 11.

The new plane embodies many features of the automobile, will carry two passengers and is expected to sell at about the price of the more expensive cars.

The fuselage has the appearance of an automobile body and is equipped with a headlight. There is a single cantilever wing and motive power is provided by a four-cylinder 70-horsepower engine which can develop a speed of 100 miles per hour. The plane can cruise four hours without refueling and requires a surprisingly small area in which to land or take off. It is of all metal construction.

Although Stout is on the engineering staff of the Ford Motor company the "automobile of the air" is not a Ford enterprise.

Nirdlinger Children Without Funds

Their father slain and their mother awaiting trial at Nice, France, for his murder, the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger were reported to be in a desperate plight for lack of funds. Here you see them—3-year-old Nixon, standing, and his 1-year-old sister Charlotte, in a sledge—in a recent photo taken of them at St. Moritz with their governess, Miss Irina Stolt. Though their father had been a wealthy Philadelphia theater magnate, the children faced the possibility of being turned over to charity unless funds were received for their upkeep.

The Green Spring Tonic

With the beginning of spring many people feel the need of something to make them feel better, and they usually turn to purgatives or tonics. Grandmother will probably fix up a mixture of sulphur and molasses and pass it around in generous servings to the younger members of the family. This feeling that some drastic change is required seems to be almost universal, and it is undoubtedly due to the large quantities of concentrated food used during the winter months, many of which are acid forming and lacking in important mineral elements.

After spring arrives the body does not seem to be able to use these rich foods as well, and there is no doubt but that some of the spring remedies which are taken give the feeling of relief, especially the remedies that are laxative or purgative in type.

For those who wish to get the best results, I would advise the addition of the natural tonics, which consist especially of the leafy type of vegetables, such as celery, lettuce, parsley, spinach, Swiss chard, broccoli, watercress, dandelion, chicory, mustard greens, alfalfa, cabbage, etc. These vegetables may be considered as protective foods because of their high percentage of alkaline salts and their large amount of vitamins.

It is doubtful if a diet can be adequately arranged without including some of the leafy vegetables. The green leaves are more abundant in the spring as they are released from their prison of winter, and it seems that nature intends for us to use large quantities of them at this time.

Suppose we wish to compound an iron broth as a spring tonic. You can pick out some of the leafy vegetables which are richest in iron. For example, sorrel, lettuce, Swiss chard, spinach, radish tops and asparagus. Any or all of these vegetables should be cooked slowly in just enough water to cover them, then mashed and pureed, making a very fine iron broth which will be much more valuable to the body than any inorganic compound which you could buy.

We know that the iron is organized in these vegetables so that it can be utilized by the system most readily. On the other hand, you may wish to make a potassium salad, as we know that potassium is a very valuable element where there is a lowered vitality or muscular weakness. We can compose a salad of lettuce, chopped kale, tomatoes, celery, cucumbers and watercress, obtaining potassium in this way in its finest form.

We can make a calcium broth, which is especially valuable for children needing bone and teeth development, of watercress, spinach, cabbage, Swiss chard, turnip leaves and dandelions. These leafy foods will increase the amount of calcium which the body can use without overtaxing it with heavy, rich foods at the same time. Everyone who feels the need of a spring tonic should use more of the leafy vegetables which I have enumerated in this article and I am sure they will get much more permanent benefit than through the use of more unnatural remedies.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Boils

Question—R. B. C. asks: "What causes boils? I have been taking four quarts of milk with lime water and one meal each day for the past three months and have gained 15 pounds. Could the milk be the cause of this boil I now have?"

Answer—There is no question but what many people are more susceptible to boils while taking milk, especially in large quantities. This is doubtlessly due to an excess amount of butter fat. Stop worrying about your weight and live on such foods as I recommend in my weekly menus.

Salad Dressing

Question—Mrs. C. F. asks: "Is there a salad dressing that is not fattening? Is rye bread fattening?"

Answer—Many people enjoy using a salad dressing made of paraffin oil which has no food value and is therefore not fattening. Rye bread can be considered fattening inasmuch as it contains about 60 per cent of carbohydrates.

Fuzz on Face

Question—Mrs. T. writes: "My 10-month-old baby has a light fuzz on his face. Will you kindly tell me if this will disappear or if it is permanent, as I am very worried about it."

Answer—The light fuzz on a baby's face disappears as he grows older and is not the same hair which afterwards grows long and becomes a beard.

Hydrogen in Foods

Question—D. T. H. asks: "Will you please tell me the foods that have hydrogen in them? My mother was told not to eat foods containing hydrogen."

Answer—I do not know of any foods that do not contain hydrogen, as this is one of the elements always present in foods. I am sure your mother must have been mistaken about the advice given her.

Mexican Distillers Hit by Corn Ban

EL PASO, March 30. (AP)—Distillers in Juarez were hard put today to obtain corn to keep their plants running. The Mexican government, as a part of its anti-alcoholic campaign, recently prohibited the use of native grain for the manufacture of alcoholic beverages. Under a presidential decree, importation of corn now has been banned as protection against what Mexican authorities claim is a corn parasite. Distillery men expressed hope of obtaining special permission to import corn from the United States, of which they could use 3,000 carloads yearly.

BOTH GAMES WITH BAYLOR TEAM CANCELED BY BAD WEATHER

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

As brisk a double play combination as you will find in the training camps of the Texas league at present, we venture, is Scharein to Allday to Martin. This trio of youngsters put over two double plays in the St. Paul game Sunday and they were beautiful to behold. Of the three players, two are scheduled to be replaced by more experienced men, and let it be said right now that the more experienced ones will have some fight on their hands, for the two youngsters referred to are anything but flashes in the pan.

We refer, of course, to Scharein and Martin. Allday may be considered a set figure at second base, but Scharein is due to be replaced by Hassler and Martin by Buck Stanton.

Scharein has been playing the shortstop position of late while Hassler suffers with a sore arm. Stanton, yet with the Browns, is not due to report here for several days yet. Hassler's sore arm and Stanton's absence have given Scharein and Martin a world of opportunity to show their stuff and they have not failed to take advantage of that opportunity.

The Rambler is certainly glad he is not in Skipper Williams' shoes. He's the boy who has to decide which of all the infielders in camp are to get pay checks this summer. In case Prexy Huff would let me change boots with the skipper I know I'd be fired the first day, because I'd order the business office to keep every one of them—Scharein, Martin, Allday, Garms, Hassler, Geygan and Stanton. Then I'd fire a bunch of pitchers, keeping only those few I could depend on for about 60 victories a season. Oh, I'd be some manager, all right, for one day.

Debs Garms is one of the pluckiest of the lot. He has been ailing consistently with a bum arm and yet he has not let down a minute. He's played in every exhibition game the skipper sent him in and he's contributed whole-heartedly, both in fielding and in hitting.

Martin reminds one of Jack Burns more and more each day. When Jones of St. Paul exploded a sizzler down the first base line in the seventh inning of last Sunday's game Martin was right in front of it, like a fool driver in front of a passenger train, and he and Dick Florrid made a pretty putout, Florrid dashing over and receiving Martin's toss just in time to touch the bag ahead of the runner.

Facts and Figures

So far Chappie Geygan has played in but few exhibition games probably because the skipper wants to give his more unknown infielders a thorough tryout.

There is an interesting thing about this Geygan. Of course we will admit offhand that he is a handsome hombre, but he has another trait that will continue to make him popular, as it did last season. Not much was said about this trait last year, but here goes now. We refer to his stance at bat.

Now the ordinary baseball player standing at the plate is about as graceful as a West Texas steer humped over the feed box. The short and squatty species of males in baseball arouse no more admiration at bat than would a lump of tallow. The bean-pole variety always look as if they were in immediate danger of flying to pieces and the moderately tall and angular kind usually effect a most awkward pose.

They stand a good step away from the plate and arch their backs forward and upward, poking their coal-scuttle chins at the pitcher at right angles to their posteriors, the latter of which usually are bulged out in a most ungainly fashion.

But we see none of these faults in Geygan. On the contrary, there is so much grace in the way he handles himself that one is conscious of a distinct rhythm. This is accentuated by a little dance that he performs. He walks to the plate and puts his left hoof forward, mashing the spikes in the dirt. He swings his bat once or twice to see if he's the proper distance away from the plate, and then the dance begins. He lifts up the rear hoof and sways forward, then backward, a slow but rhythmic dance, until the pitcher gets ready to hurl the ball.

Speaking of ungainly sights at bat, old Robbie, Claud Robertson, now skipper at San Antonio, was our idea of the derndest looking fellow at the plate within the memory of man, with the possible exception of Dr. Orr. The latter was of the type referred to above, the kind who, when at the plate, shoves the majority of his anatomy backwards, and upwards. Prexy Gardner returned from San Antonio Sunday and brought the news that Orr has, according to his predictions, come through and is the leading hitter in the Indian camp. We were certainly glad to hear of that, but we were equally joyful that we did not have to witness Mr. Orr in the process of being a leading hitter.

Old Robbie was in a class by himself. The backporch department of his anatomy was not protruded, but neither was the doorbell department. His stance must have had a side entrance, for he just came up to the plate, shoved one hoof forward, and then seemed to recline on the hind haunch, his head directly over the plate where it would get hit, and it usually was.

One could go on indefinitely criticising the male figure, as exposed on a baseball field. As the situation now stands, there is very little hope. There are few men of Geygan's type, in a baseball uniform at least. You can find them behind soda fountains, but a graceful figure kept that way by a fat batting average is getting rare as the days go on. There is only one remedy for this epidemic of gawky figures on a baseball diamond, but whereas it would bring to baseball a glorious number of swell figures, we are afraid it would considerably lessen interest in winning pennants. We refer to the signing of a young girl pitcher by the Chattanooga club of the Southern association. That, in our estimation, is a noble experiment—that is, in case the young lady pitcher has an attractive figure; and doubtless the Chattanooga club owners thought of this all-important matter before they asked Miss Jack Mitchell to sign. Now if other clubs follow suit, we will indeed, have beautiful figures everywhere, but who will give a dern whether they win or lose ball games?

Club Hopes to Open Dallas Series Wednesday

By FRED THOMPSON

All that came of the Spudders' plans to entertain the Baylor university nine in two exhibition games here Monday and Tuesday was the pleasure of signing a fat check for the traveling expenses and meals of 18 Baylor athletes and their coach, Morley Jennings.

Standing on the inside looking at the outside, Prexy Huff saw that the weather man had won the decision early Monday afternoon and that the club would be lucky if it could play ball at Athletic park even by Wednesday. So he paid off the Baylor team and the latter took the 4 o'clock train back to Waco.

A two-game series with the Dallas Steers is scheduled to open here Wednesday afternoon. Reports were received early Monday afternoon that a snow storm was advancing on this city from the North, and this didn't exactly make the club owners joyous for any more severe weather would about cancel every exhibition game of the week. T. C. U. Horned Frogs are booked for Saturday.

Meanwhile Skipper Williams was considering the advisability of taking his squad indoors for workouts. The Rotary Boys' club offered the use of its gymnasium.

Williams not Worried

However, Manager Williams is not very concerned about the effects of inactivity on his men. During the first weeks of the training camp they worked systematically, with the result that practically every man is hard as nails and in perfect condition.

The only member of the squad with a serious flaw in his physical makeup, it became known Monday, is Joe Hassler. Hassler has been troubled with a sore arm the first few days in camp, but it was expected this would soon pass off. But it did not. A trip to the doctor was advised and Monday Hassler visited the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital. There the verdict was that the ailment in the whip probably is caused by infected tonsils. In an effort to delay an operation, treatment of the tonsils was started and this may enable Hassler to get in shape.

The lanky shortstop has been bothered with pains in his arm before, he said. It ailed him all last year and when physicians said removal of the appendix might help he underwent an operation. This year, however, the ache returned.

It is unfortunate that Hassler should develop this ailment, particularly in a training camp that is literally infested with infielders ready and willing to take his place. Hassler is a finished fielder and hitter and is counted on as the regular shortstop this season.

Steengrafe on Hand

Milt Steengrafe arrived just in time to join the army of idle ball players. However, he, like the rest of them, is in good condition and will not be put out by a few days' idleness. He arrived from California ready to pitch a nine-inning game as the result of six-weeks training on the coast.

A roll call down at the clubhouse now would find every man present, except those training with the Browns, and every man is ready to play ball when the weather lets up.

Funeral Rites For Barnard Today

CLEVELAND, March 30. (AP)—Hundreds of baseball fans, players, and former players, bankers, business men and laborers passed by tonight to pay final tribute to Ernest Sargent Barnard, whose career in the national pastime, ranging from player to club owner and American league president, was ended by death last Friday.

Baseball notables and other friends and associates gathered to attend final rites here tomorrow afternoon. Among them was Kenesaw M. Landis, national baseball commissioner.

Mrs. Mary Sargent Barnard of Parkersburg, W. Va., mother of the late league head, arrived today and joined the widow.

Rev. Miles A. Krumbine, pastor of Plymouth church in Shaker Heights and friend of Barnard, will participate in the funeral ceremony at Masonic temple, under auspices of Allenby commandery No. 73, Knights Templar.

After burial in the mausoleum at Knollwood cemetery, attending baseball leaders will leave for Spencer, Ind., to attend the funeral Wednesday of Ban Johnson, whom Barnard succeeded as league president four years ago and who followed the Clevelander in death by a few hours.

Wanderling Named Head Of East Texas League

HENDERSON, Texas, March 30. (AP)—Harry Wanderling of Fort Worth was elected temporary president of the proposed East Texas Baseball league at a meeting of sponsors here today. Wanderling organized the West Texas league in 1927.

T. F. Williams of Henderson was elected secretary. The proposed league would include Marshall, Tyler, Longview, Kilgore, Palestine and Henderson.

Wanderling and Williams said they planned to visit each proposed site of a club this week to assist with organization.

T. S. Hickman, business manager of the Shreveport, La., club, and Earl "Red" Snapp and R. S. Hill of Dallas attended the meeting.

Wanderling announced a meeting of representatives of all the clubs would be held in Henderson Sunday afternoon.

Cantwell in Hospital

Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of schools here, was at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital Monday afternoon following an attack of influenza. His condition is not deemed serious, attending psyicians said.

Maureen Orcutt Sets Course Record To Win North-South Medalist Honors

By DILLON GRAHAM

PINEHURST, N. C., March 30. (AP)—Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., one of the longest and straightest drivers among the nation's women players, today shot a 75 to win medal honors in the 18-hole qualifying round of the 29th annual North and South tournament, and set a competitive course record.

Her 75 was two strokes better than Glenna Collett's record of 77 in 1926, which was equalled today by Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, who finished second. Miss Orcutt's victory marked her second successive year as medalist here. Last year she shot an 80.

Playing over the difficult No. 3 layout, with its deep traps and sloping fairways, Miss Orcutt kept pace with men's par all the way out to reach the turn in 35. Coming back, she encountered trouble and soared to a 40.

Four strokes behind in third place came Miss Martha Parker, New York, metropolitan champion, with an 81.

Tied for fourth at 82 were Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., who was runner-up to Miss Corlett last year, and the veteran Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City.

Repentant and tearful, the 20-year-old Texan asked Street for another chance and was given permission to work out. Gabby told him the next "false step" would mean a ticket for one of the Cardinal farms.

For some time Street and Dean have been unable to agree on when Dean should sleep. Dean much prefers the daytime, generally when the team is working out.

Cincinnati Reds

TAMPA, Fla., March 30. (AP)—One gleam of cheer appeared on the horizon of the Cincinnati Reds as they broke training camp today and headed north by easy stages. Carnera-Sharkey Bout Is Brewing

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Despite official denials, the conviction grew today that Primo Carnera, the man mountain, and bombastic Jack Sharkey have agreed to a heavyweight battle at Ebbets field in Brooklyn some time in June under the auspices of Jimmy Johnston.

Because of Carnera's lack of standing with the New York state athletic commission and the board's strict rule forbidding promoters dealing with suspended fighters, none of the parties concerned would admit the negotiations, regardless of how far they may have gone. Carnera has been under commission ban here for a year.

His reinstatement is believed to depend upon his agreeing to box for Johnston, who recently switched from managing fighters to promoting at Ebbets field, with the added proviso the bout with Sharkey be staged in the interests of charity. Johnston said today he had Sharkey's verbal agreement for three matches this summer.

Max Schmeling, suspended here and stripped of world heavyweight title recognition for failure to give Sharkey a return match, is due to settle one half of the problem when he tackles young Stribling, the southern contender, somewhere in the mid-West in June. A battle between Sharkey and Carnera would provide the second finalist for a match later in the summer to produce an undisputed world champion.

MAX MAY FIGHT STRIB JUNE 19

CHICAGO, March 30. (AP)—The proposed world's heavyweight championship fight between Max Schmeling and W. L. (Young) Stribling took on added activity today with the arrival of William Carey, president of the Madison Square garden corporation.

Reports persisted the promoters hoped to stage the bout at Soldier field, Chicago, June 19. Carey had an engagement to meet Sheldon Clark, millionaire Chicago sportsman, and members of the Illinois state athletic commission tomorrow.

Rumors that Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion who is now campaigning among the heavyweights, would supplant Stribling as Schmeling's opponent were denied.

Texas Joins Protest On Cotton Seed Oil Tax

NEW ORLEANS MEET OPENS

Tennis Favorites Win Before Rain Stops Events

NEW ORLEANS, March 30. (AP)—Fewer than one-third of the scheduled first round matches were played today in the annual New Orleans Country club invitation tennis tournament, start of play being delayed by rain, but the three seeded men who played won their matches with ease.

Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, seeded No. 1 in the tournament, outstroked and out-generaled his first opponent, Jack Simpson of Atlanta, South Atlantic doubles champion, winning 6-2, 6-2.

George Lott of Chicago, seeded No. 2, and expected to meet Sutter in the finals, disposed of John Barr of Dallas, Texas, doubles titlist, 6-4, 6-1.

The other seeded player of the day, James Quick of Dallas, doubles champion with Barr in their home state, made short order of his meeting with Louis Lange, New Orleans municipal champion, 6-2, 6-3.

In the other matches Quin Connelly of Rice Institute, Houston, eliminated Fred Bagga, New York veteran, 9-7, 6-3, and in the day's only three set match Charles Hume of Tulane university won, 6-0, 3-6, 6-4, from Jack Potter, Houston player.

John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, who, with Lott, defends the tournament doubles title, was leading Jack Norton of Houston, 2-0, in games in their first set when play was halted by a steady rain which concluded the day's events. They will meet again tomorrow morning.

Macfarlane, Runyon Lead Southeastern

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30. (AP)—Willie MacFarlane of New York and Paul Runyon of White Plains, N. Y., shared medalist honors in the first half of the Southeastern open golf tournament today, ending the 36-holes with scores of 142 each.

Wild Bill Mehlhorn of Chicago and Clarence Hackney of Atlantic City, N. J., were tied for third place with 145's.

Runyon, whose score of 70 was low for the morning round, came through the afternoon with 72. MacFarlane reversed the order.

Plan today was over the Forest Hills-Ricker course. The final 36 holes tomorrow will be played over the country club course.

Joe Turnesa, Walter Hagen and Bobby Cruickshank were tied for fifth place with 146 each. Dave Ogilvie, Augusta, was next at 147. Wiffy Cox, Craig Wood and Johnny Farrell followed with 148's.

Colleges Object To Removal of Coaches

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Opposition to the recent decision of officials of the Eastern Intercollegiate baseball league barring coaches from the benches during league games developed today among Columbia players and threatened to spread to other teams in the circuit.

Edward Obey, Columbia captain, sent a circular letter to the captains of the Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Yale, Princeton and Cornell nines, comprising the league opposition, asking they sign a petition calling for repeal of the "coachless" agreement. He enclosed a petition already signed by 12 of Columbia's 13 letter men.

Obey said the agreement had been put through without consulting the players.

Divorcee-Seeking Spouse Describes Bridge Scrap

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 30. (INS)—Testifying that his wife attacked him and scratched his face in the presence of guests at a bridge party, Luther A. Reed, film writer and director, was the first witness today at the opening of his contested suit for divorce against Jocelyn Lee, dainty blonde film actress.

Reed testified his wife started a quarrel with him over a bridge game and used embarrassing language. She was angry because he aided another girl to play.

Carl Williams and Art Bradbury Open Series of Baseball Talks Over KGKO

Skipper Carl Williams and Catcher Arthur Bradbury blasted the lid off a radio program sponsored by the Wichita Falls Baseball club Monday night when they went on the air to talk about themselves and baseball. The program was broadcast over radio station KGKO beginning at 6:30 o'clock, and the program will be repeated each night this week, with two or more players on the 1931 squad making a brief talk each night.

Skipper Williams drawled out an interested story that included the highlights of his career, after starting off with "I don't claim to be a talker and would not be here now if the job had not been wished off on me." Borrowing from the darkhued pair, Amos and Andy, Williams added: "I was told that I was to get up here and tell the baseball fans the story of my life and I hope that people will not put me in the same class as 'Andrew H. Brown,' who is writing his life story, 'everything recluded.'"

He continued:

"I was born in Newport, Tenn., on Feb. 1, 1896, the second in a family of 10 children, all of whom are now living. I attended school at Newport until my family moved to Coleman county, Texas, where I have lived since that time. I resumed my schooling at Live Oak, Texas, where a semi-pro baseball team was organized. I played third base on this team and on subsequent teams and did not start pitching until I signed a contract with the Athletics in 1921 and was farmed out to Bristol.

Sold to Seattle

"I was with Bristol 1921 and part of 1922 when I was sold to Seattle. It was while with Bristol that I first met the Layne twin brothers, Harry and Herman, both of whom had regular berths in the outfield of the Bristol club. In appearance, Harry and Herman were so much alike that players on the same club with them for years were unable to distinguish them. Herman was the better hitter of the two, and we were often accused by the opposing clubs of substituting Herman at bat for Harry. Herman subsequently went to the Louisville club of the American association and Harry went to Rochester of the International league. Patsy O'Rourke was manager of Bristol at the time.

"I spent part of 1922, the season of 1923 and 1924 with Seattle, where I was associated with Brick Eldred, whom I do not hesitate to say was the greatest right-hand hitter that I have ever seen; he was in the Coast league with Seattle and Sacramento for 10 years with a batting average of .340, which is something the youngster now coming on can well aim at. Also during the season of 1924, he was at bat almost 900 times and struck out only four times. It is too bad that baseball fans of Wichita Falls, whom I consider the best in the world, did not get a look at Brick while he was in his prime.

Partners of Old

"Frank Tobin, now with Dallas, and Suds Sutherland, both of whom are well known to Wichita Falls, were on the Seattle club with me. I also met George Lafayette, who was the first sacker for this club in 1927 when we so decidedly took the Dixie series from the New Orleans Pelicans. George Payne was with Los Angeles, and I pitched quite a few games against him.

"In 1925 I was traded to the Wichita Falls club by Seattle for Fred Fussell who had spent the 1924 season here in Wichita Falls. In the fall of 1925 Wichita Falls traded Harry Schwab to Seattle for Fussell. Fussell spent the 1926 and 1927 seasons in Wichita Falls, winning 22 games in '27, and was sold in the fall to Pittsburgh for $25,000, and this money was used to make the addition to the local grandstand.

"I played here in 1925 and in midseason of 1926 I was appointed manager by Mr. Gardner upon the resignation of Manager Brainard. I returned as manager of the club in 1928, and started off the season, but was forced to resign due to ill health. In 1929 I was manager of the Abilene club of the West Texas league, which as you know was a farm of the Wichita Falls club. In 1930 I returned as manager of the Wichita Falls club, and am back in 1931. I am married and have five children and during the winter months am occupied with my farm in Coleman county.

"I would like very much to tell you something about the club for 1931, but it is a little too early yet. I will say that we have a very likely looking bunch of players and I hope to be able to present to the public on opening day a club that will be in there fighting every day and we can only hope that when the curtain goes down on the 1931 season, that we will have a lot of satisfied customers sprinkled all over the Wichita Falls area. I thank you."

Brad Tells His Yarn

Bradbury opened up with the statement he is sometimes called "Mike to my face, and I guess various other names behind my back." He then lamented that "most of you people have seen me only with a mask on, and probably would not recognize me if I walked down the street in my civilian clothes—at least I can say that if they do recognize me not many speak to me, ask me to go riding, or come out for a chicken dinner."

He continued:

"I was born in Coffeeville, Kan., on Sept. 6, 1906, where I attended school until 1915 when I moved with my family to Los Angeles, Calif. I attended school in Los Angeles for a couple of years, then moved to San Jose, then to Oakland where I graduated. After graduation I played semi-pro ball with the Standard Oil league. The Standard Oil company employs something like 4,000 men, and the different departments organized ball teams. There was the Refinery, the Barrel House, the All Standard and the Mechanics. I was catcher on the Refinery team. This was in 1928. In 1929 I signed a contract with the Wichita Falls Baseball club and was sent to Abilene, which was operated at that time by the Wichita Falls club as a farm. This farm has since been discontinued. In the fall of 1929 I was brought to Wichita Falls and returned in 1930 where I remained the entire season.

Natural to Him

"Baseball, as a profession, comes natural to me, as my father was a professional baseball player, and I was brought up in that environment. He left college in order to sign up with the San Francisco Seals as catcher, later went to Cincinnati, and after that manager several clubs. He always wanted me to take up baseball as a profession, as he still takes a vital interest in baseball and eagerly watches any and all box scores in which my name might appear. I have one brother who is also following in my father's footsteps. He plays the infield and hopes to take up baseball as a profession when he has completed his college course. He is also active in other sports, chiefly basket ball and football.

"I guess this is about all except that I am not married. I thank you."

POISON HITS NEW VICTIMS

Houston Cafe Customers Flock to Hospitals

HOUSTON, March 30. (UP)—A baffling poison tonight had sent an additional 22 customers of the Forum Cafeteria to hospitals. One customer and 15 girl employes were stricken last night, suffering great pain.

Slowness of the poison in affecting some of its victims mystified physicians and it was feared that the list of suffering might grow during the night.

Chemists tonight examined 24 varieties of the food served, in an effort to establish the nature of the poison and determine the proper method of combatting it. Tainted milk might have been the cause, they said.

Hospitals were besieged with calls from early morning as on after another of the diners was stricken, and tonight a total of 36 of those who had eaten at the new downtown establishment were under the constant watch of physicians.

The cafeteria was allowed to open late today after police had emptied all the food which had been prepared for Sunday diners. City and county health officers supervised the examination of the kitchen and serving tables.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—An early decline in cotton was recovered during the middle of the day but covering and a moderate trade demand was satisfied on a rally from 10.93 to 11.02 for July and prices later eased under renewed liquidation. Selling probably was promoted by the weakness in Liverpool and Alexandria, while there may also have been some Wall street selling on the easier ruling of the stock market. July closed at 10.96, with the general market barely steady at net declines of 5 to 9 points.

May closed at 10.71 with October closing at 11.26 or even with the early low level.

A moderate volume of business was reported at the start and toward the close with trading comparatively quiet during the middle of the day. Some of the cotton bought on the rally from the early low level may have been resold later, owing to disappointment over the failure of buying to broaden the advance. Houses with Liverpool connections were buyers in the near positions, but later May was offered more freely and closed 55 points under October compared with 53 points Saturday.

Liverpool reported continental and Bombay selling in that market on the weakness in Egyptian futures at Alexandria, and reported a bearish sentiment in Manchester with manufacturers losing ground. Exports today 8,550, making 5,588,036 so far this season. Port receipts 11,794. U. S. port stocks 3,794,174.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 30. (AP)—Cotton was again decidedly quiet today owing to between seasons influences and a lack of desire to trade until something should be known as to the acreage planted. Liverpool came in lower than due and that, coupled with weakness in Egyptian futures, caused prices to open 6-7 points down and all active months a little later showed a decline of 8 points from Saturday's close. Later the market rallied slightly on a little trade buying and shorts covering, gaining 5-6 points from the lows. During the early afternoon the market was quiet but steady with prices within the earlier range but near the highs. A private report issued near noon made the reduction in acreage 11.2 per cent.

The market was supported most of the afternoon by some improvement in stocks but quotations remained within the previous range and the general market closed steady showing net declines for the day of 5-6 points.

Declines Kept Moderate Despite Continued Liquidation Pressure

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 30. (US)—The stock market had to withstand continued liquidation and bear pressure today.

Net declines, while general, were nevertheless more moderate than either Friday or Saturday, indicating that greater support was being furnished, or that offerings were diminishing.

Total dealings ran above 3,000,000 shares but at various stages of the market trading turned dull, especially during the afternoon weakness. In the majority of issues the closing prices were higher than the lowest levels of the day.

The market was again faced with the usual news, including disappointing trade items and unfavorable dividend actions. There was general expectation in speculation circles that the morning would witness completion of the current downward phase, in view of the severity of the decline in the latter part of last week. This view was partially confirmed in that there was moderate improvement in various stocks during the last two hours.

The bear party seeking to extend the liquidation, continued to pound issues showing signs of more than technical weakness. Allied Chemical, whose brilliant earnings record of the last few years has been lost in the new bearshiness toward the stock, was a particular target. It dropped to a new low for several years. Although the stock is being heavily sold by professional bears, their success indicates that selling has also come from other and seemingly more important sources.

Other issues displayed greater resistance to the pressure. International Telephone was particularly well-bought, closing down fractionally for the day but up from the opening transaction. This stock has won the support of powerful interests, and it was reported that a large buying order is being executed for the account of an important foreign interest. The stock was persistently absorbed also by speculative factors who see in it a possible rally-leader.

Throughout the list pivotal stocks dropped below their supposed latest "resistance levels." Steel common broke under 140, Consolidated Gas under 100, and American Telephone under 190. The latter was under particular pressure. Investment buying was reported in Consolidated Gas. Such buying is usually on a scale down. Its yield below 100 just exceeded 4 per cent.

United Corporation closed off more than a point, but it was reported that interests identified with the bull side of the market had resumed buying of this stock in the hope of stimulating the remainder of the list.

A commentary on the marekt was the advance of three points, to the highest price in years, scored by Alasa Juneau, a gold-mining stock in which a very powerful speculative clique has been operating for months. It sold today at double its lowest price for 1931 and several times last year's low. Its strength stimulated the other gold-mining shares, including McIntyre Porcupine.

Copper and other metal shares closed fractionally changed, with Anaconda showing firmness despite reports that copper metail was being offered at 9¾ cents.

General Motors dropped to a new low on its present reaction, and most of the other automobile shares followed its leadership. Auburn, however, proved an exception, closing higher for the day. This stock, of course, for months has been the exception to the entire market, because of its amazing technical position and powerful sponsorship.

A few specialties resisted the general trend, Vanadium and United Aircraft showing fractional net gains. Both stocks have strong bull sponsorship.

The oil stocks again dipped to new lows, and various members of the group sold below the panic prices of last December. The new lows included Standard of New Jersey, and probably was influenced at least in part by the complications involved in the Oklahoma proration scheme.

September wheat sold down to a new low, but recovered with the rest of the market. Silver lost half a cent. Cotton was also lower. Bond prices were weak. The stock market currently is dominated in its day-to-day fluctuations by its technical condition, and following the sizeable recent decline, a rally is entirely in order, without having much significance in relation to the trend.

Slept With Dog

CHICAGO. — Claude Erickson could put up with sleeping with his wife's dog, when she brought the animal to bed with her, but kissing his mother-in-law was too much, he told the court in a suit for divorce. The latter caused him great mental anguish and brought upon him a nervous breakdown, he stated.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, March 30. (AP)—Good demand started the week on the Fort Worth cash grain market. Prices were in line with Saturday's close. Estimated receipts included: Wheat 44 cars; corn 14; oats 1; sorghums 8, and cane seed 1.

Wheat—No. 1 hard 79¾@81c.

Corn—No. 2 mixed 70@71c; No. 2 white or yellow 72½@73c.

Oats—No. 2 red 41½@42c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 41@41½c.

Barley No. 2 mile per 100 pounds $1.25@1.27; No. 2 kaffir $1.21@1.23.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 30. (AP)—All grains today established new bottom price records for 1931, with wheat outdoing lowest figures since 1895. The general break in values accompanied news that the world wheat conference at Rome had ended in hopeless division. Another decided bearish factor was a report from the United States department of agriculture suggesting likelihood that 1931 corn production in this country would exceed any total since 1923.

Late recoveries, largely due to profit taking by previous speculative sellers, offset the declines which at the extreme amounted to about a cent a bushel on wheat and corn. The close, however, was unsteady—Wheat ⅛@¼ cents above Saturday's finish, corn unchanged to ⅛c lower, oats ⅛@1⅛c off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to 7 cents advance.

Intensifying the unsettlement of grains was announcement that the United States wheat visible supply had increased 764,000 bushels in the last week, and that the total had risen to 202,497,000 bushels against 148,385,000 a year ago. Throughout most of the day, wheat holders gave evidence of discouragement over recent failure of any sustained upturn in grain prices. Dearth of aggressive buying, though, rather than unusual selling pressure was apparent, and wheat rapidly responded to reports of an ideal outlook for domestic winter wheat growth, particularly as affected by heavy snow in the Texas Panhandle.

In the provision market weakness of grains partly counterbalanced the effect of upturns in hog values.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, March 30. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Cattle receipts around the eleven market circuit were comparatively light with the estimate placed at 46,800 against 72,280 a week ago. Although trade on killing classes was slow and packers were rather bearish the market wound up on a firm to 25c higher basis. Chicago had a top of $10.75 on heavy steers and realized $10.30 on long yearlings. The bulk of medium to good fed steers at the river markets cashed from $7.00@8.75 while the majority of light yearlings turned at $7.00@8.10. Stocker and feeder trade was more active than late last week and at some centers prices were almost back to last Monday's levels. Several loads of light yearling stockers in Kansas City scored $9.00 and $8.50 was obtained for choice 2-year-olds.

Hogs found a fairly active outlet at firm to 15c higher rates. The chief stimulating influence was a light supply. St. Louis had a top of $8.35 on light weights. Total offerings were around $3,000, a decrease of 31,000 from last Monday.

Fat lambs were steady to easier with some markets reporting losses of 25c. Mature killing classes of sheep ruled steady to weak. Numerous loads of choice 78 to 90-pound wooled lambs in Chicago brought $9.00@9.25. At Kansas City Texas spring lambs sold at 10.25 while yearlings and 2-year olds mixed of the same origin cashed at $5.75. The supply approximated 92,000 as compared with 106,213 a week ago.

O. C. FIELD HAS 'SPOT' AGAIN

Big Inquiries Made For Oklahoma Oil

Special to The Record News.

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 30.—Oklahoma's most prolific field again is coming into the spotlight after being eclipsed by the new East Texas field. With the posting of prices equal to those in Kansas and Oklahoma in the new field, interest once more centers on the Oklahoma City field.

One inquiry at the field desired 1,000,000 barrels of oil to be delivered in quantities of from 5,000 to 25,000 barrels a day until contract was filled. Another inquiry was for 7,000 barrels a day to be delivered in the east somewhere, for an indefinite period of time.

The Western Service corporation has announced that construction should begin immediately on an eight-inch gas line from the Oklahoma City field to Guthrie where the company was recently granted a 25-year municipal franchise.

About $750,000 will be invested in facilities to serve the city, the company announced.

Rain and snow have held operations everywhere in the big field to a minimum, and several wells were connected and waiting for favorable weather before completing. The day saw no new producers.

In the field 93 wells were on production Friday and produced 117,631 barrels of oil. Pipe line runs from the field were 137,633 barrels of oil.

The Marshall Oil company, a new operator in the field, soon will have three drilling wells in the field. The company has taken over the Mid-Tex Drilling company No. 1 McCormick, in the northeast of the southwest of the northwest of 3-11-3 w, which has been shut down and will resume operations at once. Its No. 1 Ducher, in the northeast corner of 3-11-3w, which is on the Ducher plant grounds. The company also has taken over the No. 1 Marshall in the southeast of the northwest of the northwest of 10-11-3w, also which has been shut down for some time.

Hudson Oil company who owned part of blocks one and two, of the McCormick factory addition in the southeast corner of 3-11-3w, has been leased to the Wilcox Oil and Gas company who will announce the location of a new test shortly.

T. B. Slick Estate and Urschel have applied to the city commission for permission to drill their No. 2 Wepaco, in the southeast quarter of 34-12-3w. Definite location will be announced when permit to drill has been received.

Jamison and Grimes No. 1 Fee, in the southeast of 34-18-3w, block two, of the Riverside addition, spudded in Friday and set the surface pipe.

The Coline Oil company No. 1 Warren, in the southwest of the northwest of the southeast of 12-11-2w, an old producer, cut out between the six-inch and the eight-inch pipe and flowed wild. The well, however, was only making about 6,000,000 feet of gas with a few barrels of oil. It was thought it would be under control within a short time.

Two wells are connected up and shut down on top of the sand and are waiting for the wind and weather changes before drilling in.

Phillips Petroleum company No. 1 McBeth, in the northwest of the southwest of the northeast of 10-11-3w, is bottomed at 6411 feet with the top of the sand at 6312 feet.

F. C. Hall, Inc., No. 1 Wilson, in the northeast of the southwest of the northwest of 10-11-3w, is waiting for better weather. The well is bottomed at 6550 feet.

Former World City Editor Writes Bitter Account of Paper's Death

By BURTON RASCOE

NEW YORK, March 30. (US)—James W. Barrett former city editor of the Morning World, has written the inside story of the decline and fall of that newspaper, to which he has given the startling title, "The World the Flesh and Messrs. Pulitzer." The book has a feverish glow as though it were turned out under the inspiration of deep emotion.

It is not likely that anyone will ever see another story remotely like it. If Mr. Barrett is unfair to the Pulitzer brothers, Joseph, Ralph and Herbert, it is because he is profoundly convinced that they sacrificed the ideals of their father to their own comfort and income, and he seems to believe that they pursued a deliberate policy of showing financial loss in order that they might get rid of the three papers.

Although there is anger and bitterness in this astonishingly frank and hard-hitting account, there are some humorous episodes in it. One of them has to do with Herbert Bayard Swope's multifarious interests and acquaintances.

"Swope was getting tired of the show, not only tired, but depressed. He talked about 'forebodings of death.' There was an office rumor that he had been psychoanalyzed.

"Rumor also had it that while Swope was in the psycho-analyst's office he was called repeatedly to the telephone. The mind-doctor overheard the conversations. He heard Swope addressing Franklin Roosevelt, Owen D. Young and others by their first names and discussing very large affairs with complete nochalance.

"'Aha!' said the psychologist, 'I can see what this fellow's trouble is. He is crazy. He has delusions of grandeur. He is just pretending to talk to those men.'"

Col. Hatfield Spuds Test at Kerrville

KERRVILLE, Texas, March 30. (AP)—Col. B. M. Hatfield, independent oil field developer, spudded in his first test well Saturday on a block of land adjoining the western limits of Kerrville and by noon today the well had reached 100 feet. It was shut down to await the arrival of casing to carry off water.

Hatfield predicted he would strike oil sand at 600, 1,200 and 1,600 feet. He has blocked several large tracts of land near Kerrville and expects to spud in several other wells in the near future, he said.

The Big Business Girl

gize for," Mac answered quietly. She was glad to take a cigaret he offered her.

"Yes, there is," he went on. "I think you misunderstood me. I hoped you wouldn't, but I'm afraid you did."

Mac tried to smile.

"I could see that I had hurt you. I really tried to figure out a way of promoting you here after our talk Saturday night. I saw that you really are serious about your work and that you want to get ahead. And coming in as my private secretary in case I did anything about Winters seemed to me to be the answer. I think we could do a great deal together, Claire. You are a smart little thing and I have a lot of belief in you. I could teach you a great deal about the business."

Mac's confidence began to slip back like a cooling wave. R. J. sat on the corner of her desk and smiled down at her.

"I've never known anyone like you—any girl with your drive and ambition and slant on life, combined with charm. Do you believe now that you misunderstood me?"

Mac gave him her hand. There was warmth there—kindliness and friendship and the same current she had felt Saturday night in his garden.

"You're upset about this boy, aren't you?"

"I'm ashamed of him for making a scene in the office," Mac apologized.

"You're upset about him, too. You don't know what to do about him, do you?"

"Yes, I do," Mac looked ahead at the hard wall. "I'm going to leave him."

"I don't want to give you any advice, my child," R. J.'s eyes were so wise and keen and understanding, "but if I were you, I wouldn't let anything stop me from doing exactly as I pleased. I wouldn't be made emotionally unhappy over anything. You are young enough to make of life a perfect thing. I think young marriages are usually a mistake. Believe me, I know." Mac could see that he was implying that he, too, had made a mess of marriage.

"I think you're a pretty big person and that you have a big future, and I know you'll excuse me for saying it, now that you've confessed your intentions concerning Goodman—you ought to be traveling with more experienced men—men who can give you something socially and mentally—not unstable youngsters. I think there is a lot in you that can be brought out by a different type of man. You see, I have been thinking about you a lot since Saturday night. I like you, Claire."

His smile was intimate, eager. Mac saw him again as she had seen him at his party—a man of force and charm, physically attractive, obviously successful and very sure of himself with other men, but only nicely hopeful so far as women were concerned. A man of taste. She had meant to tell him about Mr. Thorne, but she couldn't now.

When he went out of her little office, she had promised to go to dinner with him.

She had to make up her mind before next Monday about leaving here. Why, she thought suddenly, she didn't want to leave here at all. She wanted to stay, to be near this charming person. Perhaps after all he would find a way to make the work interesting and worthwhile. She wanted to stay now. She searched her mind for reasons. And she found that they had nothing to do with reality.

Mac's brain was still working. This was a crisis in her career; she knew she had to make up her mind now whether she was going to be a woman or a business woman.

AROUND THE RADIO CLOCK

(Time is central standard throughout)

NEW YORK, March 30. (AP)—Almost any kind of a contraption makes a musical instrument for the Mound City Blue Blowers, now appearing as a weekly network feature.

For instance a suitcase is the drum, and the drumsticks are a couple of clothes brushes. Besides there is a fine tooth comb, not to mention two guitars.

The "orchestra" plays each Tuesday night on WJZ and stations at 10:45 and is directed by William McKenzie, who gets music out of the comb and contributes vocal solos. Eddie Conlon and Bill Bland are the guitarists and Frank Billings is the suitcase player. The group hail from St. Louis.

Two anniversary programs, one, Arthur Bagley's morning exercises on the WEAF chain starting its seventh year on the air, are planned for Tuesday. The other is the Howard Barlow Symphony orchestra which closes its first year as a Tuesday night feature on WABC and others at 8:30.

Bagley's program, presented from 5:45 to 7:00 is rated as the oldest daily feature on NBC, having established a record of more than 2,300 broadcasting hours. The Barlow orchestra is to give a review of the musical highlights of the year.

After a two weeks illness Morton Downey returns to his invisible public when he sings in the radio playhouse over WABC and network at 9:30 p. m. The next day he will resume his radio schedule of daily appearances.

Otherwise your dials may be set for:

2:00—Music in the air, conducted by Osbourne McConathy, second of the self helps in piano playing series, WJZ and associates.

4:00—Guest speaker, Mrs. Morgan Belmont, in the afternoon tea program, WEAF stations.

6:00—Voters service "big business and the market basket," WEAF and network.

6:15—Gus Van starting a weekly program which he calls miniature movies, WJZ, WBAL, WENR, KWK, WREN.

9:15—Ben Bernie as guest artist with Richie Craig Jr., comedian, WABC and hookup.

Murray Invites Probe of Paper Interests to Combat 'Mantraps'

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 30. (UP)—Gov. W. H. Murray today charged that his enemies are setting "many mantraps" for him.

The governor made the charge when he invited an investigation of how he obtained his one-half interest in the Blue Valley Farmer, his campaign publication last summer.

He again explained that he obtained his additional one-fourth interest recently through the contribution of friends.

"I am not afraid of an investigation," Murray said.

"I am not going to yield one inch to Harry Sinclair, or any other bunch of his kind.

"The worst they can do to me would be to kill me and I don't fear death."

"Proposition" Aired

The governor said that Sinclair is "trying to besmirch me and trying to break me down so he can control the oil situation."

Murray said some persons telephoned the Blue Valley Farmer office from Tulsa last week and desired to have an ad in the publication if the paper would run a story against proration. The newspaper declined to enter into such a contract, Murray said.

"Fundamentally, I do not believe in proration," Murray said. "But if we break down proration it would be just like Sinclair threatened. Oil would drop to 25 cents a barrel.

"Such a thing would demoralize taxes, royalty payments would stop and the entire oil industry would be demoralized for years. A few gigantic corporations would then emerge from the fight."

The governor defended the appointment of his second cousin, Cicero Murray, as a member of the special committee to investigate the oil industry.

Defends Appointment

Murray said he named Cicero Murray at the insistence of Roy Johnson, Ardmore, the other committee member.

Johnson agreed to furnish the money for Cicero Murray's expenses with the understanding the state would reimburse him, the governor said.

Murray planned to have the state raise this money by a tax of 1-20 of one per cent of all oil produced in Oklahoma. Such a bill was introduced in the legislature. Proceeds of this tax would be used to pay the state's expenses in regulating the oil industry.

REPORTS STOLEN FROM OFFICE

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 30. (UP)—Theft of two official reports from the governor's office was revealed today by Gov. W. H. Murray.

Murray said someone entered his office during the night time last week and took the reports that were in his desk.

The reports were an audit of the Central State Teachers college at Edmond and a report on an investigation of bribery charges made against certain county officials in East Oklahoma, Murray said.

Murray reported the theft, he said, to the state bureau of criminal identification. Officials of that department are now working on the case.

The governor said he has reasons to believe a night watchman had been negligent in his duties, giving the intruders an opportunity to enter his office.

"I am now keeping all my official reports at the mansion," Murray said.

PAINTED ROCKS MAY BE RUINED

Famed Indian Monument In Path of Quarry

PAINT ROCK, Texas, March 30. (AP)—If the Texas and Pacific railway is allowed to build through Paint Rock and the Sims quarry is opened up the historic painted rocks may be demolished.

P. W. Gifford, president of the Gifford, Hill & Co., of Dallas who has a contract for the Sims rock, said he would have to demolish the face of the bluff which contains the painted rocks which for generations have stood untarnished in the sun and rain.

D. E. Sims, Concho county rancher upon whose land the painted rocks stand, said that his original agreement with Gifford was to leave a strip 25 feet wide the full length of the bluff, preserving a sort of monument there to the Indians whose heiroglyphics on the limestone has been the wonder of scientists and historians for years.

These colored paintings have not faded and appear as bright as the first time they were discovered a half century ago. Why dyes were used—where the Indians got the paint—how they came there and what they meant have been a puzzle to the people of the state for years. Scientists from the University of Texas and other schools of the Southwest have spent months at Paint Rock studying the signs. They have been one of the principal signs of interest in this part of the country for a generation.

Rites Delayed For El Paso Financier

EL PASO, March 30. (AP)—Funeral arrangements for Thomas Brahan Cunningham, pioneer El Paso financier, were incomplete today pending word from distant relatives. Cunningham came here 20 years ago from San Antonio. He died last night, at the age of 49. He was president of the Nevada Consolidated Mining company and was active in improving highways and motor accommodations in Texas. Survivors are his widow and two sisters.

BRALLEY FILES FINAL REPORT

County Receives $1,655 On Year's Activities

Routine business occupied the attention of the commissioners court during its weekly session held Monday.

County Treasurer T. W. McHam was authorized to remit $123,860.60 to the Hanover Bank and Trust company of New York in payment of principal, interest and exchange in connection with general Wichita county bonds. An order also was passed approving the remittance of $9,581.41 to the Guaranty Trust company of New York to apply on road bonds of the county. Payment of these two groups of bonds will be due April 10, it was said.

The annual report of W. G. Bralley, former sheriff, for 1930, showed total receipts of $33,277.50 in that department, with a net return of $1,655.05 to the county after all expenses and salaries were paid.

An application from the Automobile Clinic, 608 Travis, for permission to operate a headlight testing station at that address was granted and the bond approved.

The city of Burkburnett was granted permission to lay a water line beginning at state highway No. 30, about one and a half miles east of Burkburnett, and running to the northeast corner of block 5, as shown by a sketch submitted by R. P. Reagan, city manager of Burkburnett.

A claim from S. C. Cole, of Iowa Park for $250 was referred to the county attorney for recommendations as to procedure. The claimant alleges that a truck belonging to him was damaged to the extent of the named amount when it ran into a washout on the lower river road about a mile and a half west of the Tenth street bridge. The claim charges that no barrier or warning was present on the road at the time.

Those who have decided not to see "The Easiest Way" on the screen because they saw some immortal actress in it on the stage and "don't want to ruin it," needn't worry. That line about putting on her prettiest dress, going to Rector's to make a hit, and then to hell, has been changed. It's an entirely different play these days.

Instead of going to Rector's in jewels, Constance Bennett brings in one of those tear-forcing endings. It really ought to be illegal to bring a child into a picture simply to play on emotions, and when they play "Silent Night," hang a lighted wreath in the window and let the heroine stand outside the window and sob at the sight of her sister and her family, it should be a penitentiary offense.

That's a dirty trick to play on an audience, to make everybody shed a tear or two with the aid of sentimental music, soft lights, and a baby, and then switch on the lights as they flock out to the lobby, red-eyed and sniffling.

"The Easiest Way" was a successful play, and for proof that the old melodrama still gets 'em, watch an audience drink in the screen version. When Robert Montgomery and Constance Bennett are just about to leave, and Adolphe Menjou drives up, there is a sigh that would melt the heart of any playwright. Everybody hopes for a happy ending, even if it would be inartistic. And so did I.

COURT DELAYS RILEY TRIAL

State Asks Continuance On Murder Charge

Trial of Barney Riley, charged with murder in connection with the death of Tom Hardin last fall, was continued by Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Monday morning on motion of the state, District Attorney Sam B. Spence, pleading the absence of a material witness in the case.

Riley has been at liberty on bail for several weeks. When the indictment was returned against him, in January, he was serving a federal liquor sentence in the Wichita county jail.

A skeleton found on the bank of Red river, in Cottle county, early in December was identified as that of Hardin, who disappeared about Oct. 1. It has been indicated that the state will charge that Hardin's death was the result of wounds inflicted with a .38 caliber gun.

Wichita Leading City of Area In Making Industrial Patterns, Moulds

Pattern-making as the first requisite to manufacturing in metals was discussed and demonstrated before members of the I. O. Boosters club Monday noon at the Y. W. C. A. by David Erickson, assisted by George Taylor.

Although Wichita Falls is better equipped than any other city in North Texas with facilities for production of patterns and moulds, Mr. Erickson said, the public generally has little familiarity with the methods used in making patterns, nor with the importance of such work to the iron industry.

"When a woman hears a pattern maker spoken of," the speaker said, "she usually thinks of a designer of women's wearing apparel. A man doesn't; he wonders what you are talking about. The making of patterns is the first step in the manufacture of metal parts, such as those for machinery. Three-fourths of our work in local pattern shops consists of designing parts in accordance with ideas given us orally by those who have need of moulds for new mechanical pieces."

Using the simplest type of cathead, Mr. Erickson and Mr. Taylor staged a demonstration showing the method of forming the mould from which the first metal copy is produced. The original model is made of wood, and its various parts are finished in various colors according to a code understood by the moulders. The color of the wood pattern is construed in terms of kinds of metal. The sand used in making the die is obtained in Wichita county, Mr. Taylor said.

"As an illustration of how pattern-making aids the manufacturer of machinery," Mr. Erickson said, "you may consider the experience of the Continental Motor company. When they inaugurated manufacture of the famous Red Seal motors, about 25 years ago, they spent an enormous sum of money in an effort to perfect equipment for the production of parts. Then they engaged pattern-makers from Chicago, among whom I was included, to take the 'short-cuts' which careful designing of productive machinery makes possible. They obtained the desired results for about one-tenth of what they had spent trying to get such results with practical mechanicians."

The perfection of a pattern for a new-shaped milk bottle, together with completion of a die for its manufacture, would cost about $100 it was said.

Before the luncheon, Mr. Taylor entertained the group with several songs, playing his own accompaniments on the guitar.

Loren L. Taylor was named as business manager of the baseball team which the club plans entering in the Merchants league here.

Playlet on Credit Given at Luncheon

Pointed suggestions relative to the use of credit in business featured a playlet given before members of the Kiwanis club Monday noon by Jacob Price and W. R. Creamer under the direction of Jack Jeffus.

Character, capacity and capital were urged as being vitally important in business in Mr. Jeffus' introduction of the skit.

A humorous monolog by Frederick Sehmann Jr., was included in the entertainment. Pat Hardage had charge of the program.

TRIO ESCAPE ALTUS JAIL

Prisoners Tear Way Through Stone Wall

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., March 30.—The three prisoners who Sunday night dropped through a hole near an upstairs window to escape from the Jackson county jail, had disappeared to leave no traces discoverable Monday by investigating officers.

Jones Akin, charged with assault upon a negro woman; Gerald Branch, held for burglary, and Leslie Thompson, charged with selling whisky, prized through the inner jail walls in the runaround, knocked aside the outer stones, and apparently jumped to the ground from the upper floor. Eleven of their fellow prisoners made no attempt to follow their example.

The 11, however, failed to call the attention of Jailer J. G. Cornell to their absence when he locked them in their cells Sunday night about 9 o'clock. At that time the trio were already on their way, but the break was not discovered until breakfast time Monday morning.

The 11 who stayed in jail in spite of the gaping hole in the wall are wanted on minor charges. The implements used in tearing through the wall were not discovered.

Ticket Sale Heavy For Pageant Here

Advance ticket sales for the colored pageant, "Heaven Bound," which will be presented at the Memorial auditorium Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the colored Methodist Episcopal church indicates that a large crowd will attend the performance, it was announced by R. Strickland, director of the chorus.

The music will largely consist of negro spirituals, chorus work, dramatic folk songs and plantation melodies, it was said. The chorus will consist of 100 voices which have been particularly well trained for their individual parts.

The pageant is said to be one of the most entertaining of its kind. The proceeds will be used in paying for the new church building. Tickets may be purchased at Renfro's No. 1 during the day and at the box office just before the performance.

AMOS AND ANDY'S CAMPAIGN

HAS IT OCCURRED to the voters of Wichita Falls that the opposition has framed its campaign by patterning after Amos and Andy?

FIRST—The names of Brudder Crawford, Brudder Cook, Brudder Cox, Brudder Corlett and Brudder Cone all begin with C—the five C's.

SECOND—They all belong to the Grand Lodge of the Mystic Knights of The Sea.

THIRD—They all call you Pal until they get your votes or mone.

FOURTH—When any man wants on the city pay roll, like Andy they say, "Oh! Shore; just vote for us," a promise as vain and fickle as Andy's protestations of love to Madam Queen.

FIFTH—They have a King Fish who lives in a mansion with sunken gardens and an estate of broad acres on the Seymour road, and whose sole aim in life is to assist the worthy brothers of the lodge.

SIXTH—They have a scheme to save the city a million dollars on gas, and Cook had a scheme to make Andy a million on the story of his life to be sold to a newspaper syndicate—one is as silly as the other. Cook's scheme failed and now they are trading stock for bazaar tickets, and the opposition are sending out cheap post cards promising the voters a Bee Course in Arkansas if they will sign on the dotted line.

VOTERS cannot be deceived.

THE PRESENT council members asking for re-election to the time honored second term upon a splendid record, deserve your continued confidence and esteem.

OUR HEADQUARTERS are open, suite 209 Hamilton building, phone 9974. Call us or come in person to see us. Enroll and enlist for the closing days of the campaign. We need your support and your influence.
