'Major Barbara' begins run at WTC

A four-performance run of "Major Barbara" opens Thursday night in the Fine Arts Theatre on the WTC campus. Performances are planned each night through Sunday.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. nightly except Sunday, when an 8:30 p.m. performance is set.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for students and may be reserved by calling the box office at 573-8511, ext. 234.

Local play-goers will have an opportunity to see an individual performance by WTC's Robert Loveless which was nominated for an Irene Ryan Award at the recent American College Theatre Festival.

It was conducted last weekend in Lubbock at Texas Tech University.

Loveless appears as Andrew Undershaft in the production. He is now eligible to advance to regional auditions in Fort Worth in January.

The Ryan Award winners advance from the regional competition to national competition, with winners awarded scholarships and other honors.

Regarding WTC's effort at the play competition, director Jim Rambo said, "This is by far the most difficult show we have attempted. I was pleased to receive some highly complimentary remarks along with the criticisms of our production."

Dr. Albert Hoods from the University of Florida and Dr. Sam Smiley from the University of Nebraska were the critics for this year's festival.

"Dr. Smiley commented that he had seen "Major Barbara" many times and he felt our production was better than many university productions.

"Both Dr. Smiley and Dr. Hooks said they felt our students understood the characters they were portraying and they were pleased to see that we had undertaken such a tremendous challenge."

At the Lubbock festival, Angelo State University's festival entry "Oh Day, Poor Day, Mother's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad," was the critic's choice while "Brecht on Brecht" by Amarillo College was the director's choice.

Air crash death toll at 104

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Two Spanish jetliners collided in heavy fog today as they accelerated to take off from Madrid, touching off a fiery blast and killing all 42 aboard one plane and 62 on the other, Transportation Minister Enrique Baron said.

Airline officials said the accident was similar to the 1977 Canary Islands disaster in which two jumbo jets collided on the ground in heavy fog, killing 582 people. The planes involved today were an Iberian Air Lines Boeing 727, said to be going about 100 mph, and a DC-9 of Aviaco, a domestic airliner hit near the fuel tank, killing all aboard.

First estimates from civil defense officials were that about half of the 93 people aboard the 727 were killed. One of the 727 survivors, Luigi Intiglia, said Iberia pilot Carlos Lopez Barranco, who also survived, told him he saw the DC-9 approaching but it was too late to do anything.

Body of pilot is turned over

Israel vowed to avenge the PLO bombing that killed four people aboard a crowded Jerusalem bus, and government leaders in Italy and Britain met today to reconsider their role in the multinational peacekeeping force in Lebanon.

In Syria, the state radio said the body of the American pilot killed when his plane was shot down during air raids on Syrian positions in Lebanon was turned over today by the Syrian army to the Lebanese army.

John Stewart, a U.S. Embassy spokesman in Beirut, said he expected the body of Lt. Mark A. Lange to be given to U.S. Marines for its eventual return to the United States. Lange, of Fraser, Mich., was killed Sunday after his A-6 Intruder was downed during a bombing raid by 28 American planes.

Sec. Shultz sees meeting

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz today predicted the allies will send foreign ministers to a disarmament conference in Stockholm next month, creating the opportunity for him to meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"Surely if we are both there, I will be more than ready to meet with Mr. Gromyko," Shultz said at a news conference. He said he will do what he can "to make such a meeting possible."

Two striking pilots indicted

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Two striking Continental pilots from the Houston area have been indicted by a federal grand jury on weapons and conspiracy charges.

Francis Calvin Early, 43, of Spring, and Charles Weldon Hall, 47, of Humble, were arrested last month less than a mile from the San Antonio home of a non-striking pilot, investigators said.

The investigators said the men were found with two pipe bombs and a picture of the pilot's home.

Drug manufacture charged

Felony charges of conspiracy to manufacture dangerous drugs were filed Wednesday morning against a 40-year-old Snyder man.

He was arrested by city police at his east Snyder apartment Tuesday around 11:43 p.m.

Charged is Daniel Richard Boone of the Smith Apartments in the 300 Block of 28th St.

A substance seized at the scene — believed to be methamphetamine — has been sent for laboratory identification.

Boone was freed from the Scurry County Jail Wednesday morning after posting a $5,000 bond.

Bombing survivors welcomed home

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Some 1,800 Marines who survived the Oct. 23 terrorist bombing in Beirut returned to the United States today to welcoming signs, American flags and thousands of yellow ribbons.

The first ship carrying the 24th Marine Amphibious Unit arrived at the State Ports Authority terminal at 9:40 a.m., said Helen McBride, a terminal employee. The Marines are based at Camp Lejeune, 60 miles east of Morehead City.

"They're docking one now in Berth Nine," Mrs. McBride said. "It's just great," she said, adding that a large crowd was on hand to greet the troops.

After welcoming ceremonies, the Marines were to take buses to Camp Geiger and Camp Lejeune to be reunited with their families.

The troops, serving with a multinational peacekeeping force, were among those attacked in a suicide bombing at the Beirut International Airport. The bombing killed 240 U.S. servicemen.

Aimee Williams of Jacksonville, whose husband, Donnie, is among the returning Marines, tied 100 yellow ribbons in her front yard and decked pillars with small flags in anticipation of his arrival.

"I've even hung up my father-in-law's flag from when he was a veteran," she said.

Williams was to meet his infant daughter for the first time.

"We've named her Tiffany Faith, the middle name symbolizing the faith it's taken to survive," Mrs. Williams said.

The wife of another Marine who asked not to be identified said she had been washing and waxing her husband's pickup truck, "which is his pride and joy, so it looks good when he gets home."

Lee Ann Kline, whose husband, Robert, is a Marine photographer, used felt-tipped markers to decorate a bed sheet saying "Welcome Home Daddy." She also covered an oak tree in yellow ribbons and horse shoes for good luck.

The Military Affairs Committee of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce distributed thousands of yellow ribbons to line the route into Jacksonville.

"We are distributing yellow ribbons to anyone who wants them," said John Peacock, executive director of the chamber. "We have already gotten 6,000 yards of yellow ribbon and there are 3,000 more yards coming in.

"We are asking anybody who wants to, to pick up ribbons to decorate trees, mailboxes and whatever," he said. "We are encouraging businesses on the route they will take from Morehead City to pick them up, too."

Mat Raymond, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, said the community wanted to give the Marines a hero's welcome home.

The chamber also installed a mobile billboard for residents to sign. The billboard will be moved to the Marine Corps Air Station at New River and displayed for the air element of the 24th MAU.

And after seven months of mess-hall chow and foreign rations, the Marines were to feast on hamburgers, soft drinks, cakes and doughnuts.

New building at $2.1 million in two months

For the second month in a row, new construction permits taken out in Snyder were near the $1 million mark.

The November total of almost $797,000 combines with October's $1.3 million to give the 1983-84 building year both a fast start and a total well ahead of last year's.

For the first two months of the newly begun fiscal year, Snyder's building permit's equal some $2.1 million.

For the like period last year, the new construction estimate was just more than $643,000.

Building permit totals are maintained by personnel with the building inspector's office and run concurrently with the city's fiscal year of Oct. 1 through Sept. 30.

The new construction estimates for November were paced by permits secured for building projects previously announced by Dairy Queen officials.

As planned, two new Dairy Queen buildings will be constructed adjacent to the current restaurant sites at 4301 College and 108 East Highway.

Both facilities are to be some 2,880 sq. ft. in size and are projected to cost some $165,000 each. Builders are Wadleigh Construction Inc. of See PERMITS, page 10

TAKING SHAPE — Foundation and plumbing work on two new 2,880 sq. ft. Dairy Queens has been progressing over the past two weeks as work begins on the new restaurants. Building permit applications for the facilities paced the November new construction estimate here, which already totals more than $2.1

million. Pictured is the site of the new College Ave. restaurant being erected adjacent to the original building, which was completed in 1961. It will be torn down following completion of the new facility. (SDN Staff Photo)

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A wise man knows whether silence is golden or just plain yellow."

Jay Huckabee last year was inducted into the Radio Club of America and each November the elite organization holds a black-tie banquet in New York.

We couldn't vision Jay in a tuxedo, so he brought by a photograph as proof. (Incidentally, Jay has promised to wear the tux to the coffee shop some afternoon.)

Honored at the banquet and in the picture with Jay were two fellows who made history at the U.S. invasion of Grenada. One was Mike Baratella, a medical student who used a ham radio set to broadcast information back to the United States.

On the other end, in New York City, was Dr. Steve Lomazow. The medical doctor was on the U.S. end of the transmissions for the first 36 hours.

All of the invasion information during the first few days came via the ham radio set that Mike Baratella had put into working condition. The set was not seized earlier because Baratella had the foresight to pass along the rumor that the radio had been confiscated by the military.

Huckabee said Baratella stayed on the floor during most of the transmission to avoid being hurt or detected. The Grenada medical student assured the Silver Anniversary banquet audience that the U.S. was 100 percent right in invading the country.

While in New York, Huckabee promised to visit County Attorney George Killam's old neighborhood on the west side of Central Park. As a boy, Killam lived in an area between 66th and 67th street. Jay promised to take a picture of George's former residence.

Upon arriving, instead of finding a residential section, the area had been turned into the ABC News studio.

Cotton season at 16,120 bales

The recent dry weather has helped push the fall cotton harvest here into high gear as spokesmen for county gins report they are moving into the busiest part of the season.

The bale count outlook for this year's cotton harvest remains poor, however. With more than 60,000 bales counted here during good cotton years, an estimate as low as 20,000 has been projected for the 1983 cotton harvest.

The count as of Wednesday morning equaled some 16,120 bales ginned to date.

Last fall, Scurry County cotton farmers produced some 36,900 bales. During the substantially better cotton year of 1981, some 63,600 bales were counted.

For the 1983 cotton season, it has been estimated some 45,000 acres of cotton will be harvested in this county.

The Snyder High School Choral Department will present its annual Christmas Concert at Worsam Auditorium Thursday beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The program is free with the general public invited to attend.

The full SHS Acappella Choir will sing as will the ninth grade girls group. They will combine for a festival arrangement of "O Holy Night."

Both traditional and new Christmas music will be offered. In addition, the choir will sing a medley of "Jingle Bells Through the Ages" sung in various styles.

Science, sightseeing set for last day

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Spacelab's astronauts enjoyed an extra, final day in orbit with science and sightseeing today as researchers on the ground said that without the crew's ingenuity the shuttle mission would have been a failure.

Researchers said the ability of the astronauts to repair and adjust experiments proved that man has a vital role in orbital science.

As the 10-day international mission neared an end, investigators were anticipating the return of a wealth of data from 73 experiments in five research and technology fields. Some were particularly excited by one medical test that may have disproved a 77-year-old Nobel-prize winning theory on the inner ear. Aboard the shuttle Columbia and the attached European-built Spacelab workshop, the six astronauts brimmed with enthusiasm at their accomplishments and relished the one-day extension.

"It's been a very productive day — an outstanding one, as a matter of fact," mission specialist Owen Garriott reported as he and Blue Team partner Byron Lichtenberg turned the Spacelab over to Red Team members Ulf Merbold, a West German, and Robert Parker.

Commander John Young and pilot Brewster Shaw, who will steer Columbia to a landing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., were told by Mission Control today: "The Edwards weather and runway are looking very good."

Touchdown is set for 7:58 a.m. Pacific time Thursday.

Mission controllers added a day to the mission when they determined both spacecraft were in excellent condition and that weather conditions would be good at Edwards on Thursday.

Most of the experiments must await analysis back on Earth. But one medical researcher already has reaped a bonanza.

Rudolf von Baumgarten of the Johannes Gutenberg Universität in Germany said his study of the effects of weightlessness on the inner ear contradicted 1906 research by Dr. Robert Barany of Austria.

For his study, Barany received a Nobel Prize in 1914 and his theory is also applied in an exam commonly given to see if a patient's balance mechanism is working properly. In the test, a doctor introduces a fluid warmer than body temperature into the ear. Then he watches to see if the patient develops a rapid eye movement called nystagmus — which is known to be related to changes in the inner ear.

Since there is no heat convection in the weightlessness of space, von Baumgarten designed an experiment to test Barany's finding using Spacelab scientists Garriott, Lichtenberg, Mer-bold and Parker.

But von Baumgarten said, "We got a very strong nystagmus in space" from each of the astronauts. The experiment will have to be repeated before its findings are held to be conclusive.

Teacher pay, etc. tops agenda list

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Strategies for boosting pay and performance of the nation's teachers topped the agenda today for 2,300 educators, politicians and parents who jammed the Reagan administration's National Forum on Excellence in Education.

Florida Gov. Bob Graham, who pushed a tax hike through his legislature last summer to pay for a master teacher plan, an extended high school day and other reforms, was the leadoff speaker for the summit's second day.

Education Secretary T.H. Bell, in the opening address Tuesday night at the Indiana Convention Center, appealed to state lawmakers and school board leaders to press for master teacher plans.

He also urged teachers and their unions to accept the concept of providing higher pay for outstanding performance, saying, "If you can't buy that, please come up with some other workable plan because the single salary schedule simply isn't sufficient."

President Reagan will journey here Thursday to speak at the final session of the forum, which Bell said is intended to give "the decision-makers of American education" a chance to exchange ideas as they head into a period of "massive reforms" next year in most states.

Bell urged every parent with school-age children to make them study at home an hour a day, and he exhorted state lawmakers "to reward excellence and discourage mediocrity on the part of students, teachers, administrators, governing boards and institutions at all levels."

The conference drew eight governors, 30 members of Congress, 10 chief state school superintendents, more than 150 state legislators, 395 school board members, 60 college presidents and 395 teachers, principals and other school personnel, according to Gary L. Jones, the undersecretary of Bell's department, which originally had expected only 1,200 people to attend.

Mary Hatwood Futrell, president of the 1.6 million-member National Education Association, told reporters after Bell's speech, "I don't disagree that there is a need for change in education."

But she criticized Bell's suggestion that states tie new money for education to adoption of particular reforms, saying, "you're holding the children hostage when you do that."

She also took issue with Bell's advocacy of "a career ladder" for teachers leading to the post of "master" teacher comparable to a college's full professor.

"What does he really mean by 'career ladder'?" They went from merit pay to master teacher plan to career ladder," she said.

Copper producers estimates given

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Copper producers now need to get at least $1.10 a pound to turn a profit, the director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines says.

Robert C. Horton told a mining conference Monday that the new estimate of $1.10 to $1.40 a pound is attributable to increasing expenses to mine copper and in part to inflation.

Industry officials last year estimated the price of copper would have to go to between 85 cents and $1 a pound. Current prices for copper range from 69 to 71 cents a pound.

Horton said producers "just have to get their costs down" — through such means as a chemical non-smelter method to produce refined copper, as an alternative to the energy-costly conventional furnace procedure of copper smelting that is in nearly universal use.

Horton cited labor as a "significant" cost in copper mining, and noted that while unions historically have not taken part in wage reductions, the choice for some mining companies is one of cutting pay or stopping production. "It's not a question of how much you're getting paid for your work, but whether you have work at all," he said.

He said there is some justification to the high pay miners receive for work he called hard, dirty and at times risky. He also said new amendments to the Clean Air Act that take effect in 1988 will add 15 cents to the cost of producing each pound of copper, which currently averages $1.05.

And he noted that major deposits of copper are found in Australia and Alaska, richer in content than that existing in most Arizona deposits, could make for tough competition.

Paul Harvey

This is Chicago.

For a dozen years Chicago was home-base for Jesse Jackson's operation PUSH (People United to Help Humanity).

From close up, we watched Jackson as he got corporations such as Coca Cola and Schlitz and Seven-Up and others to hire more blacks or else...

The St. Louis Sentinel, a black newspaper, called it a "kick-back approach."

Jackson sued the Sentinel for libel. The Sentinel then demanded to see the financial records of PUSH.

The libel suit was promptly settled out of court. Auditors are presently trying to discover what happened to the money PUSH got from the federal government.

Department of Education spokesman wants PUSH to return $880,000 to $2.1 million which PUSH spent on things the government grants were never meant to finance.

Recently the Wall Street Journal accused us of the news media of looking the other way.

The Journal says newshawks were super-diligent in scrutinizing the finances of William Casey and Bert Lance and Billy Carter and Richard Allen and John Connally and on and on and on — yet the media is tending to ignore the shadows over Jesse Jackson's finances.

Like, "who paid for his 1979 Middle East tour," etc.

Instead, the Washington Post applauds his "dramatic entry" into the presidential race.

Time and Newsweek put him on their covers.

And "60 Minutes" showcases him entirely favorably.

Jesse Jackson has become the media's darling, though he is less acceptable to other blacks.

Jesse Jackson claims a "rainbow constituency" of blacks, women, Indians, Hispanics and homosexuals.

Yet the Wall Street Journal notes that many black leaders are publicly coming out against him — Coretta King, Julian Bond, Tom Bradley, Coleman Young.

No Jackson endorsement has come from Mayor Harold Washington of Jackson's home town, Chicago.

Indeed, a recent newspaper poll shows Jackson would get fewer black votes in his hometown than either Mondale or Glenn.

A black candidate is escaping public scrutiny of his record because neither the white media nor his white political rivals dare risk being accused of prejudice.

But the blacks who know him best do dare.

The third French Republic was proclaimed Sept. 4, 1870, after the capture of Napoleon III during the Franco-Prussian War. With the fall of the empire in France, a government of national defense tried to continue the war with Germany, but France capitulated the following year. The Third Republic was made official with the decree of January 1875.

29th annual Canyon Reef Tournament

Monterey a favorite...

'Reef' tourney field to be tough

The 29th annual Canyon Reef Tournament tips off here Thursday and the opening game could well feature the eventual champion.

Lubbock Monterey takes the court at 11 a.m. against Odessa Permian. The Plainsmen have only one defeat on their record and that came from, yep, Odessa Permian.

"There are several teams playing real good basketball right now," said Snyder Coach Larry Scott, whose Tigers have played both Monterey and Permian this season. "Monterey lost to Permian once but I still think they would have to be the pre-tournament favorite. They are playing real good basketball right now."

Monterey and Permian are two of eight Class 5A teams in the 13-team tournament. Others are Snyder's first opponent, Wichita Falls Rider, Big Spring, El Paso Burgess, Amarillo Palo Duro, Midland and Lubbock High. The 4A schools are Snyder, Borger and Lubbock Estacado.

The three-day tournament also features two 3A schools, but look for them to make a strong impression, said Scott.

"Lindale and Abernathy are both 3A schools but they are picked No. 1 and No. 2 in the state. Some others that should be real strong are Midland, which won its tournament over the Thanksgiving holidays and Palo Duro."

Ironically, Snyder would have to be considered one of the weaker teams at this point, at least based on its 1-5 record.

"We may be the weakest team in the field but we'll be able to compete," noted Scott. "We've just got an extra strong field this year. We're looking forward to it."

Tickets are $2.50 per day for adults and $1 for students. After Permian and Monterey clash in the opener, Burgess and

Borger take the Scurry County Coliseum floor at 12:30. Palo Duro and Lindale square off at 2 while Snyder welcomes Rider at 2:30 in the day's only game at the high school. In Thursday's final tilt, Midland and Lubbock high compete at 3:30.

The tournament ends early Thursday to make way for a pair of junior college games, WTC versus Howard College, at 6 and 8 p.m.

Defense leads Felines past Brownfield, 55-51

Snyder's girls made their freethrows...well, when they had to anyway, and played good defense to get past Brownfield in a non-district ballgame here Tuesday, 55-51.

The win evens Snyder's record at 2-2 for the young season. The girls play next in Abilene's Key City Tournament, taking on Wichita Falls Rider at 5:30 Friday.

The Tigers hit only 17 freethrows in 36 attempts - missing the front end of six one-and-ones along the way - to make it hard on themselves. But ironically, it was points from the charity stripe that ultimately made the scoring difference.

Brownfield had trailed most of the game, but eventually caught and passed the Tigers in the third period when 5-9 senior Kristi Lindsey got a hot hand. The margin increased to 48-45 early in the fourth when Lindsey and Tracy Holladay pumped in four straight freethrows.

Snyder sophomore Karlene Thompson made it a one-point game when she scored underneath however, and senior Carmen Rios bagged a freethrow with 3:09 left that tied the score, 48-48. Thompson added one freebie at the 3:05 mark; Becky Gray hit two with 2:36 left; and Theresa Ashworth sacked up another with 1:41 showing as the Tigers pulled out in front 52-48.

The teams then traded a single freethrow before Rios intercepted a pass to give Snyder possession with less than a minute to play. Wendy Lunsford put the game away when she found the lane open underneath and drove inside to score, 55-49. Lindsey scored Brownfield's final bucket with only a handful of seconds left on the clock.

Lindsey led the Cubs with 19 points; 15 in the second half. D'Lynn had 9 for the game, but only 3 in the final two quarters. Tracy Holladay sacked 8.

Brownfield also had trouble from the stripe, hitting 9 of 20 shots. The Cubs missed the front side of four would-be bonus situations.

For Snyder, Thompson put up 17 points, Rios 12 and Lunsford 10. Ashworth had 7, Carrie Housden 5 and Becky Gray 4.

Earlier in the evening, Snyder junior varsity got 17 points from Stephanie McKnight and 15 from Pam Casias to defeat the Cubs JV, 47-36. Snyder, which also received 8 points from Cintia Gonzales, out-pointed the visitors 17-9 in the fourth quarter to break open a close game.

Dupree ineligible until '85 season

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) - The NCAA reportedly has informed University of Southern Mississippi officials that former Oklahoma football star Marcus Dupree will be unable to play for the Golden Eagles until the 1985 season.

The newspaper USA Today reported in today's editions that an NCAA official had sent a letter to Southern Mississippi, where Dupree is now enrolled, informing school officials that the athlete would not be eligible to play in 1984.

Southern Mississippi officials had requested an interpretation of the one-year residence requirement for transfer students as it applied to Dupree, who will be a junior in eligibility in 1985.

Dupree could not be reached for comment.

Athletic director Roland Dale said he had not received the letter but that any ruling would be accepted without further appeal.

"I thought there was a question he might be (eligible) or we wouldn't have asked for a ruling. I don't know the rule," Dale said. "I don't think there was ever any case of there being a clearcut advantage one way or the other."

Snyder trailed by three points with a minute to go before intermission but Permian knocked down seven quick points to take a 33-23 lead into the dressing room. Ditto for the third quarter as Snyder again trailed by three points and again gave up seven in the final minute.

"They were running a three-quarters court press and we handled it fine except for those two minutes. That gave them a big spurt going into halftime and into the fourth quarter. We shot 47 percent from the field and they shot 52 and we were even on rebounds, 29-29, so it really came down to those couple of minutes," said Scott, who continues to see improvement in the Tiger team.

"Oh yeah, we're improving. We were disappointed with the loss but pleased with a lot of things in the game. We made some adjustments at the half that went well and we had been having problems getting into foul trouble. This time they (Permian) never got in the one-and-one," he said. "We're still not where we want to be, but we are improving. We've got a long way to go but I think we'll be alright."

Noble begins search for new grid coach

Snyder High School Athletic Director David Noble, who was instructed to begin looking for a new head football coach after the school board asked for George Byerly's resignation Tuesday, said the search has been instituted.

"We are taking applications and we will be contacting other successful coaches who we feel might have the qualities we are looking for," said Noble. "We hope to secure a coach so that he will have time to work with the kids in the off-season program. We want to move quickly. We hope to secure someone by the second semester (Jan. 13) but we also don't want to rush into anything."

Noble said the prospective coach would probably negotiate with the school board as to what control he might have, but it was standard that he would be able to bring in four assistants - though not all of them during the 1983-84 school year.

"There are a number of advantages to bringing in a coach as soon as possible. He would be able to work with the kids...and it would give him an opportunity to evaluate the present coaching staff should he choose to retain one or all of them," said Noble.

In addition to Byerly, who has not given his resignation as yet and still

Olajuwon keeps LSU on heels

by The Associated Press

Akeem Olajuwon could still intimidate ninth-ranked Louisiana State, despite picking up his fourth foul early in the second half.

Olajuwon fouled out with 6:31 left in the game, but the damage had been done, and the sixth-ranked Cougars whipped LSU 100-91 Tuesday night.

"Every time we got the ball inside, we kept looking over our shoulders. We can't play scared," said LSU point guard Derrick Taylor.

In other games Monday night involving Southwest Conference teams, Texas held off Biscayne 51-50, Southern Methodist routed Pennsylvania 98-66 and North Texas State nipped Texas Christian 66-65.

Twelve of Olajuwon's points came in the first half of the Cougars's game in Baton Rouge.

"I think, at first, inside, we were intimidated,"

LSU's John Tudor said after the game. "I say intimidated, because we didn't take it to him and make him prove he could put it back down our throats."

Houston opened a 9-point margin in the final 6:17 of the first half with Olajuwon scoring five of his team's points in a 12-5 surge. LSU pulled to within two points seven minutes into the second half, 50-52, but Young got 13 of his game-high total of 25 after that.

Gettys finished with 14 points for Houston, now 5-1, and Alvin Franklin had 21.

Taylor scored 22 points, and Tudor had 21 for LSU, also 5-1.

One-minute bursts put Odessa in win column

ODESSA -- Odessa Permian put up 14 points in two one-minute spans and that was the difference as the Panthers defeated Snyder here Tuesday, 69-53.

The loss puts Snyder at 1-5 on the season as the Tigers prepare for the Canyon Reef Tournament and their sixth Class 5A opponent of the season. Snyder takes on Wichita Falls Rider at 2:30 Thursday in the high school gym.

Despite Tuesday's loss, Coach Larry Scott said the Tigers played well.

"It was really one of best games we've played. I know it doesn't look like it from the score, but if you take out two minutes of the game we were with them all the way."

Snyder trailed by three points with a minute to go before intermission but Permian knocked down seven quick points to take a 33-23 lead into the dressing room. Ditto for the third quarter as Snyder again trailed by three points and again gave up seven in the final minute.

"They were running a three-quarters court press and we handled it fine except for those two minutes. That gave them a big spurt going into halftime and into the fourth quarter. We shot 47 percent from the field and they shot 52 and we were even on rebounds, 29-29, so it really came down to those couple of minutes," said Scott, who continues to see improvement in the Tiger team.

"Oh yeah, we're improving. We were disappointed with the loss but pleased with a lot of things in the game. We made some adjustments at the half that went well and we had been having problems getting into foul trouble. This time they (Permian) never got in the one-and-one," he said. "We're still not where we want to be, but we are improving. We've got a long way to go but I think we'll be alright."

Particles may be linked to disease

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Clusters of the smallest known infectious agent may be linked to Alzheimer's disease, a common cause of senility, a researcher said today — suggesting the link could help in finding drugs to treat the brain-destroying illness.

The agent, called a prion, forms rods resembling amyloid plaques, which are found in the brains of Alzheimer's victims and until now were thought to be a "garbage" byproduct of the disease, said Dr. Stanley Prusiner, a neurologist at the University of California at San Francisco.

Prusiner and his colleagues, writing in today's issue of Cell magazine, emphasized that Alzheimer's disease cannot be transmitted from one person to another, but that it may be possible for an infectious agent to cause a non-contagious disease.

Alzheimer's disease is a degenerative, irreversible brain disorder that afflicts more than 2 million Americans. It primarily affects people older than 60, but can strike people as young as 20, doctors say. It is believed responsible for 120,000 deaths a year.

The new study suggests the plaques "are not the garbage, they are the cause," said Prusiner, adding that if plaques are found to be the same as clumps of prions, it could ultimately provide doctors the key to preventing or treating Alzheimer's disease.

An individual prion is about one-hundredth the size of the virus that causes polio, and is unlike other organisms in that it does not contain nucleic acid, the basic genetic material that allows other living things to multiply.

The study found that the prion clusters were similar to plaques extracted from the brains of hamsters infected with scrapie, a brain-destroying disease found in sheep and goats. Prion rods and amyloid plaques responded the same in tests using chemical stains.

Prusiner acknowledged that other members of the research team, including co-author Dr. George Glenner, were more guarded in interpreting the findings and unwilling to support his speculation linking the prions with Alzheimer's disease.

Glenner, a UC-San Diego pathologist and expert on plaques, called the possible link "very tenuous."

All previous studies have indicated that Alzheimer's disease cannot be transmitted from person to person, so there is no reason to fear contact with Alzheimer's victims, Prusiner said.

"We haven't proved that the plaque in Alzheimer's disease is made up of prions," he said. But if the possibility proves to be true, "it turns our thinking upside down about plaques."

Prosecutors say...

Engineer's case closed

DALLAS (AP) — A prosecutor has denied a claim by an NAACP attorney that the Dallas County district attorney's office has agreed to review its handling of the case of a black engineer serving a life sentence on a robbery conviction.

Prosecutor Ken Carden on Tuesday accused the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People of using Lenell Geter's case to "raise money without actually being concerned about Geter's welfare."

"There will be no reopening of the case, because there were no discrepancies" in the way it was handled, Carden said.

Geter received a life sentence in October 1982 for the $31 robbery of a fried chicken restaurant in the Dallas suburb of Balch Springs. Five witnesses identified Geter as the gunman, but nine of Geter's co-workers at E-

Systems Inc. in Greenville testified he was at work the day the robbery took place.

Despite the fact that Geter, who was recruited by E-Systems in 1982 from South Carolina, had no prior criminal record, the jury was told that he had a bad reputation and was suspected of committing more than 30 robberies in South Carolina.

Geter's case and that of his former roommate, Anthony Williams, who was acquitted on a similar charge last month, were the subject of a report on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" Sunday. On that program, two people were interviewed who said they could specifically vouch for Geter's whereabouts at the time of the robbery.

Carden said he talked to NAACP attorney George Hairston and Dallas attorney Ed Sigel, both of whom represent Geter, shortly before noon Tuesday.

"I told them if they brought us evidence that convinced our investigator" of Geter's possible innocence, "we would take another look at the case," Carden said. "They said they certainly wanted to get with my investigator, but they never came back. Instead they just immediately went out and had a press conference."

Hairston told reporters that Carden had "indicated he would now begin an internal review" of the official handling of Geter's case and that "if he were satisfied Geter had been wrongfully convicted, he would join us in a motion for new trial" or would not oppose an appeal of the conviction.

On Tuesday, Carden told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that he is convinced that "the NAACP is not really interested in Geter. The NAACP is only interested in sustaining the cause and ... using him as a means of raising money."

Transcontinental television was inaugurated in 1951, when President Harry Truman addressed the Japanese Peace Treaty conference at San Francisco.

Female panda at zoo seriously ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ling-Ling, the National Zoo's female giant panda whose rocky love life has captivated America, is "seriously ill" with kidney failure and her chances of recovery are poor.

Robert Hoag, special assistant to the zoo director, said Tuesday night Ling-Ling is suffering from kidney dysfunction and severe secondary anemia.

"Her kidneys are impaired and ultimately may fail," Hoag said. "We have a seriously ill panda. Her prognosis for recovery is poor."

Hoag said blood tests taken Tuesday afternoon showed the 12-year-old panda "to be extremely anemic and there is evidence of kidney failure."

He said that as of Tuesday night, veterinarians had ruled out a kidney transplant or dialysis.

Hoag said Ling-Ling was anesthetized Tuesday afternoon and given a transfusion of blood from Hsing-Hsing, the zoo's male panda, "to boost her critically low red blood cell count." He added that she was being treated with antibiotics as well.

"Ling-Ling's medical condition is much more serious than her general condition indicates," Hoag said. "We hope it can be treated. However, her prognosis for recovery is poor ... Her condition is not something that can last forever."

Hoag said Ling-Ling's problem was first discovered on Nov. 25. She was lethargic, didn't eat and passed blood in her urine.

"The day before she was active and appeared to be in good health," Hoag said. He added that on Nov. 26, she was given antibiotics for a suspected urinary infection and that the treatment continued for six days.

"After the treatment, her condition improved, but improvement was not

Special award is bestowed

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Jorge E. Illueca of Panama, president of the 38th session of the U.N. General Assembly, received the 1983 U Thant Award for his "long-term efforts for world peace."

The award, presented Monday, is named after the United Nations' third secretary-general, the late U Thant of Burma.

sustained," Hoag said.

He added that Hsing-Hsing's blood cell count is normal and that the male panda "is in good health."

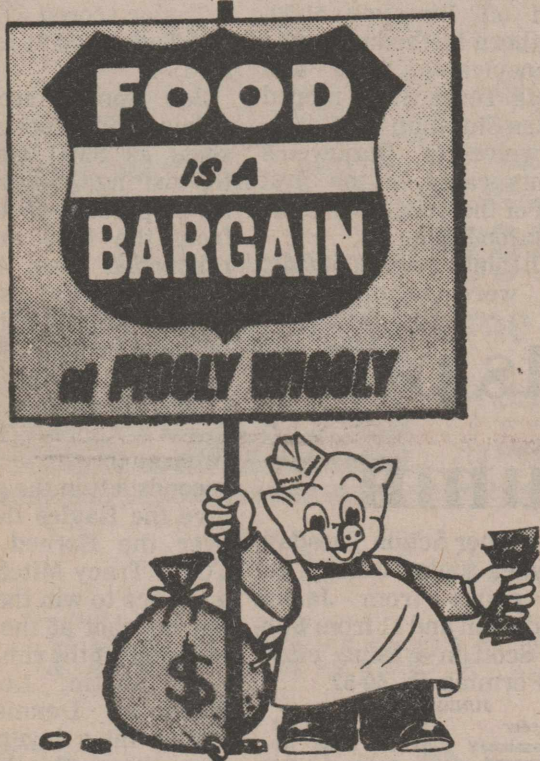

Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing have been America's first and only giant panda couple for more than a decade. Their off-again, on-again love life has been romanticized, scrutinized, analyzed, televised; their sex life has been ridiculed, their failures photographed.

After seven years of unsuccessful mating, imported panda lovers and several trials of artificial insemination, Ling-Ling became pregnant and gave birth to a panda cub last July. But the baby died in its mother's arms when it was only three hours old, suffering from a buildup of fluid in its chest cavity. Extensive tests made public a few weeks ago proved Hsing-Hsing to be the father.

Giant pandas, thought to be members of the raccoon family, are rare outside China. Three pandas have been born in Mexico City; two survived. Twin pandas were born last year in Madrid, and one survived. Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing were given to the United States by the People's Republic of China during President Nixon's historic visit to that country in 1972.

President Reagan has scheduled a trip to China this spring.

heating assistance program for the needy

HAP'N IS HELPIN'.

Cold weather is here and bringing difficulty to many who, through no fault of their own, face problems in paying their heating bills.

In an effort to assist, Lone Star made an initial donation to the formation of a program called Project HAP'N—Heating Assistance Program for the Needy. Public response was generous and widespread. Coordinated by the Community Council (a non-profit, tax-exempt voluntary agency) through local social service agencies, Project HAP'N has already assisted over 2,500 families with their heating bills.

Project HAP'N is continuing into the 1983/84 winter season. We have again donated to Project HAP'N, and we invite you to contribute to whatever extent you can. You can be assured that your contribution—whether for $1, $5, $10, $20 or more—will be used effectively on a case-by-case basis throughout Lone Star's service area. Make your check payable to Project HAP'N—Community Council, P.O. Box 243, Dallas, Texas 75221.

Remember, Project HAP'N is helping. And you can help, too.

There have been countless articles to illustrate how an astute declarer will make a doubtful contract by placing his opponents' cards as he wants them to be.

Every declarer who has progressed to even an intermediate stage does this in some measure. On the other hand, a defender who is able to do this is almost surely an expert or near-expert.

Dummy's king of clubs wins the first trick and the jack of hearts is led and allowed to ride to West's king. Most West players will simply lead the club 10, whereupon declarer will win, ruff his last club, draw trumps and make his contract with no trouble at all.

Now let's watch a West player with a thinking cap on his head. He will see if there is any way to beat that heart game. A little hand reconstruction will show him that there is a distinct possibility that East holds the king of diamonds. After all, if South held that card along with the club ace and that good trump suit, he might well have made some mild slam try.

Then West will see that if South also holds three spades, there is a chance to salvage a plus. How does he go about this?

He simply leads his queen of spades and poor South is going to lose his nice game. Dummy's king of spades will win that trick but when East gets in with the diamond king, he will give his partner two beautiful spade tricks. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

MOTHERHOOD: The Second Oldest Profession. By Erma Bombeck. McGraw-Hill. 177 Pages. $12.95.

Erma Bombeck' fans, and they are legion, know from her newspaper columns and her books that she can be depended upon to deliver the laughs. And deliver them she does in her latest collection, "Motherhood: The Second Oldest Profession."

There are 42 pieces included in this book and they all deal with mothers in one way or another. The approach to the subject differs from item to item, however.

Some deal with advice to mothers, "One of the biggest complaints about motherhood is the lack of training ... I was one of the luckier women who came to motherhood with some experience. I owned a Yorkshire Terrier for three years." Among these is a suggested course of study for mothers. One such course would deal with the legal rights of mothers and answer such questions as "Can you abandon a child along a public highway for kicking daddy's seat for 600 miles."

Another deals with mothers as depicted in television series of the '50s and '60s. Says Mrs. Bombeck of these women of the flickering screen, "They looked better cleaning their houses than most of us looked at our wedding."

In a very well done article, she wonders what would happen to a father of three young children who gave up his job, sent his wife off to work and became "the first suburban mother in Rochester with a mustache who wasn't on estrogen."

In a sort of reverse article, she deals with a mother who is newly divorced and returning to the job market after a long absence, a woman who puts wrinkle eradicator under her eyes "in an attempt to erase the damages caused by teenagers."

Napoleonic exhibit

NEW YORK (AP) — "Napoleonic Textiles From the French National Collection" is being shown at the Fashion Institute of Technology through next Feb. 11.

The exhibition features Napoleon's campaign tent, military uniforms and silks from his palace. The tent also houses original furniture used by Napoleon and his officers during their military campaigns.

Allergies can be very potent

SIoux CITY, Iowa (AP) — Christmas could be hazardous to your health, if you suffer from allergies to holiday trees, dusty or moldy decorations or holiday candies and treats. Even gift wrapping and plastic toys can cause allergic reactions.

Dr. Michael Jones, an allergy specialist based in Sioux City, said one in five people suffers from allergies, and even those who can normally tolerate a certain level of allergens (substances that cause allergy attacks) sometimes suffer around the holidays.

Christmas trees pose a double threat, Jones said, because they can raise the level of dust in a home and, may bother people who are allergic to turpin, a substance in a tree's sap.

Dust is the most common allergy, Jones said. People are not actually allergic to dust, but to microscopic mites that live among common household dust and mold. While a tree may not bring enough dust into a home to cause an allergic reaction itself, it can raise the dust level above the allergy threshold. "A Christmas tree can be the straw that breaks the camel's back," he said.

Jones recommends that his patients use artificial trees. He also recommends that the trees (most of which disassemble) be run through the dishwasher to rid them of any dust acquired during storage.

Christmas decorations are usually stored in dusty closets or basements. That dust, along with mold from old family decorations, can raise allergen levels above the threshold.

Food allergies can ruin the Christmas season, too. The most common food allergies are to milk, wheat, corn, eggs and citrus fruits. Most candy, including Christmas candy, is made with a corn-sugar base. Candies made with a cane-sugar base also may cause allergic reactions in some people. Peanuts, pecans and other nuts served during the holidays can cause allergic reactions. One patient, Jones reported, was so allergic to peanuts that he suffered an allergic reaction after kissing a woman who had just eaten a piece of peanut brittle.

Children may be particularly susceptible to holiday allergy attacks because of increased stress caused by the excitement of the season and because children have not developed good immune systems to protect them from allergic reactions, Jones said.

The good news is that children's immune systems improve as they get older, Jones said.

Faces 'lie detector' test daily

PITTSBURGH (AP) — As "CBS Morning News" co-anchor Diane Sawyer describes it, she faces a lie detector test every day.

The television camera is a "lie detector," says the 37-year-old Ms. Sawyer, and the public is "going to know whether you know what you're talking about."

"The camera reads what you know over the long run," Ms. Sawyer told about 400 representatives of the news media at the Pittsburgh Press club Tuesday.

Man victim of own fire

DALLAS (AP) — A Baylor Medical Center pathologist was the victim of a fire he apparently set in the house he and his estranged wife owned, police said.

Stephen Ritzmann, 55, was pronounced dead at his northeast-side home Tuesday by a field agent of the Dallas County medical examiner's office.

Ritzmann's wife, Sandra, 40, was listed in serious condition at Parkland Memorial Hospital's burn center with second- and third-degree burns on her head and upper torso. Police said Ritzmann had thrown boiling water on the woman before setting the fire.

The blaze caused $125,000 in damage to the $150,000 brick house and its contents, said Fire Capt. L.D. Eppes.

Fire began at the house Tuesday afternoon after Ritzmann had come there to meet Mrs. Ritzmann and a bookkeeper to discuss the couple's finances. Police Sgt. J.A. Wallace said that a final settlement in the couple's divorce was scheduled in January.

"He apparently asked her to put on a pot of water for some tea," said Wallace. "Later, they got into an argument and started hitting on each other. He grabbed the water off the stove and threw it at her."

Police said Mrs. Ritzmann told a friend at the hospital that her husband had "tried to push her into the burners on top of the stove."

Mrs. Ritzmann "said her husband was hitting her with just about anything he could get his hands on," said Police Cpl. K.D. Pesce.

Another officer, Cpl. W.S. Hamilton, spotted the fire as he was driving nearby to investigate an aggravated assault.

"I opened the door and tried to get in," Hamilton said. "But the house already was fully involved. I couldn't get in because of the smoke and the heat."

Mrs. Ritzmann, who had fled to a neighbor's house as fire broke out, told officers that her husband was still inside the dwelling.

Ritzmann was director of the clinical chemistry division of Baylor Medical Center's pathology department and had worked for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration investigating immunology problems in manned space flights before coming to Baylor, said a hospital spokesman.

He was formerly a professor of internal medicine and pathology at the University of Texas Medical School at Galveston.

Ritzmann had lived at the house with his wife until about three weeks ago.

New permits ahead of '82

The month of November included four applications for new residences in the city which equaled another $264,000 in permit totals.

These were applied for by Kenneth Goldsmith, 2612 48th St.; John Young, 1909 KSNY Drive; Jean Steakley, 2600 33rd St.; and Pedro Martinez, 802 15th St.

In addition, seven mobile home move-ins were reported by city personnel. These added another $184,000 to the building permit total.

Applying for these were SueLeen Chandler, 2400 O'Neal; W.E. Cox, 2100 Huffman; Rudy Ibarra, 1103 30th St.; Rick South, 213 25th St.; Albert Smith, 2101 Merrill; Dwain Camp, 209 25th St.; and Ed Broker, 1000 33rd St.

For the year to date, 54 building permit totals have been taken out, 24 of these during November.

Jane Russell joins TV show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Jane Russell, who caused a stir with her plunging necklines in the 1943 movie, "The Outlaw," is making her television debut on NBC's "The Yellow Rose" series — but says she won't be trying to be sexy.

"The Outlaw" was censored for six years because of its revealing photography of Miss Russell's cleavage, but Miss Russell, 62, told reporters Tuesday that what was considered "daring" in those days would hardly be noticed today.

As for displays of sex, Miss Russell feels there are "a lot of young girls around to do it now," said a publicist for the show.

Miss Russell, whose 23 films include "Paleface," "Double Dynamite," "The French Line," and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," hasn't appeared in a movie since "The Fuzzy Pink Nightgown" in 1957, although her famous bustline has been in evidence in recent years in Playtex brassiere commercials.

In the series, starring Sam Elliott, David Soul and Cybill Shepherd, Miss Russell will play the sister of Jeb Hollister (Chuck Connors).

Lax judicial system may free man someday

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Department of Public Safety Col. Jim Adams said today that a lax criminal justice system has left him fearful that alleged mass slayer Henry Lee Lucas will someday be a free man.

Before the opening of a day-long conference of officers who believe Lucas might have killed in their cities, Adams said, "I would like to believe he'll never be free on the street again. But I would no longer make that statement with certainty."

Adams, the head of the state police agency, told reporters that "history has taught us a life sentence doesn't mean a life sentence."

Lucas, who has told law officers he killed as many as 150 people across the nation, has been convicted in two Texas slayings and faces one life term and a 75-year sentence.

The 47-year-old drifter is being held in Williamson County where he is awaiting trial in the slaying of an unidentified female hitchhiker.

Williamson County Sheriff Jim Boutwell said today that Lucas has been cooperative and willing to talk about the scores of slayings that investigators believe he might know about. Boutwell said he believes Lucas should be executed.

"Anyone guilty of a murder should be put to death," Boutwell told reporters.

Adams said the killings for which Lucas claims responsibility would have been prevented if Lucas had been executed after a 1960 conviction in his mother's slaying.

"Once you put a man to death, you don't have to be worried about him killing again," said Adams.

Boutwell said in his conversations with Lucas he has learned that each slaying made it easier to kill again.

"I think if you kill once, it's easier the second time. Then it's easier again the third time. As to why, we can't answer that yet," said Boutwell.

The Central Texas sheriff said Lucas has told him he wants to be executed.

"Whether he really does when the time might come, I can't answer that," Boutwell said.

A DPS task force formed by is coordinating the exchange of information. DPS spokesman David Wells said the day-long, closed-door meeting would include an effort to map the travels of Lucas and his companion, Otis Toole, in recent years.

Larry Todd of DPS said officials from about 45 law enforcement agencies would be represented. Investigators from Florida, Arkansas and Louisiana have told DPS that they plan to attend the session.

Lucas also is charged in seven other Texas slayings.

Toole, 36, is being held in Jacksonville, Fla., on charges of murder and arson. He has told investigators he helped Lucas kill 35 to 50 people.

Both men are charged in the killing of an Odessa salesman found bludgeoned to death in Big Spring.

The DPS task force was created after a request from Boutwell, who said he was receiving many inquiries from agencies interested in talking to Lucas.

A similar session was held in Monroe, La., in October. That meeting attracted 80 officers from 19 states.

Footsteps of St. Paul..

Christian plan starts in Cyprus

By Tom Tiede

(Third of six parts)

PAPHOS, Cyprus (NEA) — For a man who was personally recruited by God to do great works for Christianity, Paul the Apostle got off to a slow start. He spent the first decade of his conversion in obscurity, wandering about with no recorded purpose, or quietly earning a living making tents in Asia Minor.

Even when he finally began appearing with others in the church it was in a secondary role. He preached a bit in Antioch, and he was tutored by Barnabas. Historians believe the time was not lost for Paul, that he was maturing in the ways of Christ, but it must have been dreary just the same.

Then one day everything changed with the voice of Jesus. According to the New Testament, the Lord ordered the church leaders to get Paul ready for the work for which he'd been selected. It was about A.D. 45 and Paul's time had arrived. He was packed off on the first of what would become epochal evangelistic journeys.

He wasn't sent alone, however. He was joined by Barnabas, or rather he was led by Barnabas. The latter was an old reliable in church affairs, he was also wise in the habits of the world, and so when the two men set sail in the Mediterranean, they were noted in the order of their importance as "Barnabas and Paul."

First stop: Cyprus. The Greek island was already ancient, and steeped in renowned lore when the apostles landed. The gods of mythology had convened for centuries on Mt. Olympus, and the Cypriot philosopher Zeno had conquered the Roman empire with stoicism; indifference is strength, Zeno said, he who doesn't care is invulnerable.

Paul must have thought of Zeno as a brute pagan. But then most things on Cyprus were profane. This was the birthplace of Aphrodite, after all, where she was said to be formed from the foam of the sea. There is still a

Former deputy sheriff, others plead guilty

HOUSTON (AP) — A former deputy sheriff and two former bail bondsmen accused of setting up roadside "marijuana traps" to steal from unsuspecting motorists have pleaded guilty to reduced charges.

Gary Parker, 24, a former reserve deputy in San Jacinto County and the son of former Sheriff James C. "Humpty" Parker, pleaded guilty Tuesday to one count of conspiracy to deprive the civil rights of a motorist.

James L. Browder pleaded guilty to one count of being an accessory after the fact to conspiracy. Herbert R. Atwood pleaded guilty to one count of misprision of a felony, or failure to report a felony.

The trio will be sentenced Feb. 17 by U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor.

Parker could be sentenced to a maximum of 10 years in prison and fined $10,000. Browder faces a five-year, $5,000 maximum punishment and Atwood could face three years in prison and a $500 fine.

Former deputy Robert Rice, also charged in the case, had his case severed from the other defendants Tuesday. No new date was set for his trial.

The four men were charged with conspiring to violate the civil rights of several motorists.

A federal indictment accused the four men of operating a lucrative "marijuana trap" to take drugs, weapons and money from drivers they stopped.

Parker's father, "Humpty" Parker, also is charged in the case but will be tried separately.

The elder Parker was earlier convicted of civil rights violations.

Criminal mischief incidents reported

Snyder police officers were called to investigate three criminal mischief complaints filed Tuesday.

A window was reported broken at 9:34 a.m. at the Kingswood Apartments in the 100 Block of 37th St. A suspect in the vandalism incident has been identified and investigators report the case has been turned over to county officials for prosecution.

It is thought the incident occurred around 1 a.m. Tuesday.

Employees of Brown and Gray Motors on 25th St. reported the vandalism of a sign at that business at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday. Investigators are seeking a number of juvenile suspects reportedly seen near the scene of the incident.

The day's third criminal mischief report was filed by Wade Lee at 11:56 p.m. He told investigators that a window had been broken out of his car while the vehicle was parked at the Snyder High School field house sometime between 3 p.m. and 11:56 p.m. Tuesday.

In other action, local officers jailed one subject for public intoxication, one for driving with a suspended license and a third for DWI Tuesday. The suspect in the DWI case was also charged with driving with a suspended license.

Jayton man hurt in Tuesday wreck

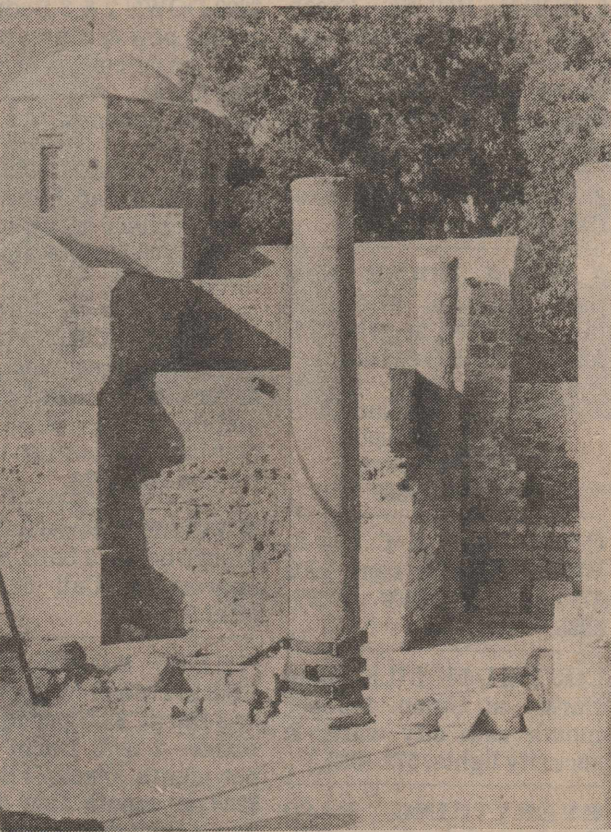

Joseph Reid Thompson of Jayton reportedly sustained minor injuries in a major two vehicle collision about five miles north of Snyder on Texas Highway 208 around 11:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Snyder-based Department of Public Safety patrolman investigating the mishap. They reported Thompson, driving a 1983 Ford pickup owned by Mobil Producing, collided into the rear of a 1982 Mack tractor trailer rig owned by York Transport of Snyder.

It was driven by Jose Acquirre Kendon of 2701 Ave. Y. Both were driving northbound on the two lane highway.

Thompson reportedly suffered a cut on the chin and other lacerations and bruises. Damage to his vehicle was said extensive.

ON THIS pillar in Paphos, Cyprus, St. Paul the Apostle is said to have been tied and whipped by unhappy Jews. It happened during the first of his evangelical Christian journeys.

rock in the water today that marks the cradle of the mother of Eros and the goddess of love.

The rock is only one of the old myths and preservations that still exist on the island. The remnants of dozens of civilizations survive. There is even a pleasant legend that some of the olive trees in the foothills were planted by Barnabas and Paul, when they threw aside their pits after eating.

The preservations apart, though, and the legends notwithstanding, there is little in Cyprus to specifically mark Paul's visit. He came through rather quickly. This was merely an embarkation point to other lands. He is not known to have occupied or preached in any of the Roman structures still here.

and stability. Currently, for example, the northern part of the island is occupied and partitioned by Turkish troops.

So the port of Salamis, where Paul landed, is behind a line of guns. And Famagusta, where Shakespeare set Othello, and where Paul made some of his first appeals for redemption, is a ghost town. For all of the problems of missionizing 2,000 years ago, Paul at least did not have to contend with modern politics.

He did have to worry about ancient politics, of course. And it's believed he was often received with bitterness in the synagogues when he spoke of what were theretofore blasphemous ideas. There is still a pillar in Paphos, as it happens, on which the apostle is said to have been tied and scourged by unhappy Jews.

Yet Paul persisted. The scriptures say he and Barnabas walked across the island, more than 100 miles, spreading the lessons of the cross from village to village. When they got to Paphos, the last stop, their reputation preceded them; they were invited to visit the governor of Cyprus, Sergius Paulus.

The New Testament says the proconsul wanted to hear the message of Christ. He was said to be a thoughtful man, and, like his predecessor Cicero, broad-minded. But he had a spiritual adviser, a "sorcerer," who was not so tolerant; the sorcerer interfered with and belittled the apostles' visit.

Angered, Paul is supposed to have fixed his eyes on the magician, and opened fire. St. Luke writes in the Acts of the Apostles that Paul issued a withering denunciation, and then struck the sorcerer blind. Sergius Paulus was so impressed that he quickly became the first man of rank to convert to Christianity.

The incident brought Paul into his own. He was never again referred to by his Jewish name of Saul, and he instantly became a major leader in the faith. Luke recognizes the change in Acts, where, after Paphos, he refuses to talk of "Barnabas and Paul," but only of "Paul and his company."

Paul was still to be suspected at times. He was still to be troubled, frustrated and occasionally bewildered by his responsibilities. But he had proven that the hand of God was with him, and when he sailed from Cyprus, to continue his travels for Christ, he was the strongest and most refreshing new force in the church.

Dear Abby

Uncle Touches Off Fear in His Niece

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl with a problem I can't talk to anybody about. I have an uncle who everybody thinks is the greatest. He's 39 and married.

Lately he has been pulling me on his lap, feeling me, and trying to give me grown-up kisses on the mouth. He used to be my favorite uncle, but now I feel funny when he gets near me.

I can't prove that he has done anything wrong because he really hasn't, but I think he would if he got the chance. If I told my mother she probably wouldn't believe me. I don't have a father, so I can't tell him. My uncle comes over a lot and wants to teach me how to drive. I'd like to learn, but I really am afraid to get into his car and go for a ride because of this funny feeling that comes over me when he touches me. I don't think it's just my imagination.

What should I do?

ASHAMED AND AFRAID

DEAR ASHAMED: It is not your imagination. That "funny feeling" you get is a warning signal.

The next time you see your uncle, tell him that you do not want to sit on his lap, that you do not want him to put his hands on you and that you do not want any "grown-up" kisses. Tell him that if he tries to do any of these things, you will tell your mother. And if she doesn't believe you, tell another adult—a relative, a teacher or your minister.

Don't be afraid, honey. And don't be ashamed. You have done nothing wrong. Just make sure your uncle knows that you are not to be touched! Please write again soon and let me know how you are. I care.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me what my correct name is presently, based on the following facts: (1) I was born Janet Sue Flanagan. (2) I married John Donlevy and became Janet Flanagan Donlevy. (3) John died and I recently married George Williams.

Am I now Janet Donlevy Williams, Janet Flanagan Williams or Janet Sue Williams?

JANET

DEAR JANET: When a widow remarries, she has the option of using her first husband's name as a middle name or of dropping his name and using her maiden name. If she was married for a long time and has children, she will undoubtedly prefer to keep the name of the man with whom she spent many years and which identifies her with her children.

So, take your choice: Janet Donlevy Williams or Janet Flanagan Williams.

DEAR ABBY: Your recent column in which you quoted the late, beloved Sam Levenson, contained an error.

In listing some outstanding contributions to medical science made by Jews, he credited a Dr. Z. Woronan with the discovery of streptomycin.

Abby, I hope the Nobel Committee in Sweden doesn't hear about this, because in 1952 they awarded the Nobel Prize for medicine to Dr. Selman Waksman of Rutgers University for discovering streptomycin!

However, Dr. Waksman belongs on that list because he, too, was Jewish.

Pretrial hearing reset Jan. 12

AUSTIN (AP) — A hearing to consider pretrial motions in Attorney General Jim Mattox's commercial bribery case has been postponed again, until Jan. 12, says the Travis County district clerk's office.

A spokesman for the district attorney said Tuesday the delay was requested by the defense to allow more time to prepare motions for the hearing before State District Judge Mace Thurman.

It was the second postponement for the preliminary hearing, which originally was scheduled for Nov. 14 and then Thursday.

No date has been set for trial of the felony charge in which Mattox is accused of trying to ruin a Houston law firm's public bond business unless the firm stopped trying to question Mattox's sister.

U.S. Congress edgy on Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, increasingly edgy over the rising death toll and intensified military activities in Lebanon, is beginning to question what exactly it approved in authorizing President Reagan to commit U.S. forces.

Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, asked congressional leaders Tuesday to call a rare special session "to reopen the question of military involvement in Lebanon."

Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., called for full hearings by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to determine if the recent U.S. air attack on Syrian positions "represents an escalation which goes beyond the intent of Congress."

Leaders of the Foreign Relations Committee said after a closed-door briefing by the administration Tuesday that they saw little likelihood of a special session. But one agreed the Lebanon question is increasingly occupying the minds of lawmakers.

"I think everyone is concerned," said Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md. Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., charged Reagan with a technical violation of the War Powers Act by failing to file a report on the status of the mission. He said the report was due Nov. 29.

Hart called on Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., to bring Congress back into session. Congress is now scheduled to reconvene Jan. 23.

Ordinarily, only the president can reconvene Congress. But in its adjournment resolution, the House and Senate voted to let their leaders call lawmakers back if needed. "Congress must require President Reagan to state clearly what our Middle East policy is and what mission our military presence is designed to achieve," Hart said.

Democratic congressman Leon Panetta of California said Sunday's U.S. air strike 18 miles from the Lebanese capital "marks a fundamental departure" from the role for U.S. troops specified in the war powers resolution, in which Congress allowed Reagan to keep U.S. Marines in Beirut for 18 months. Pressler, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, told a news conference the air strike probably was in technical compliance with the law but violated informal promises by the administration that the U.S. role in Lebanon would not be escalated.

Pressler asked Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, to convene full hearings on Lebanon.

Rio, Hong Kong...

Recess finds Congress on the road

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress are fanning out around the world on traditional fact-finding trips that are taking them from Jamaica to India and England to Antarctica.

Most of them will be traveling aboard Air Force planes. Some will bring their spouses who, under congressional rules, can travel free but must pay for their own food.

A survey by The Associated Press shows that the Caribbean and Europe are the most frequent destinations during the two-month holiday recess.

An 11-day trip early this month is taking eight members of the House Ways and Means Committee to the Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Jamaica, Barbados and Grenada in connection with President Reagan's Caribbean Basin Initiative.

Accompanying chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., are Reps. Fortney H. Stark, D-Calif., Wyche Fowler Jr., D-Ga., Thomas J. Downey, D-N.Y., Robert T. Matsui, D-Calif., Ronnie G. Flipflo, D-Ala., Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich., and Carroll A. Campbell, R-S.C., according to a spokesman for Rostenkowski.

On Nov. 26, members of the Ways and Means trade subcommittee headed east for nearly three weeks of discussions of East-West trade problems with officials in East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

Rufas Yezaxa, a committee staffer, said the group included Reps. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., James R. Jones, D-Okla., Barber Conable, R-N.Y., Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., Douglas K. Bereuter, R-Neb., and Sander M. Levin, D-Mich.

The House Rules Committee plans to travel in January to Costa Rica, Peru, Argentina, Brazil, tentatively Jamaica and possibly, for a day, to Grenada.

Two subcommittees of the House Appropriations Committee are planning trips next month, one to learn about economic development programs in Spain, Italy, Jordan and Nepal, the other to inspect U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missile sites in Western Europe.

While some lawmakers headed for warm climates, others went to frigid weather. Joel Widder of the National Science Foundation said that Reps. Harold S. Sawyer, R-Mich., and James M. Jeffords, R-Vt., signed on for a trip to Antarctica early this month to view scientific projects sponsored by the foundation.

A group from the Senate Banking Committee was also visiting Antarctica as part of a three-week trip ending Dec. 18 that includes stops in New Zealand, Australia, Hong Kong and Singapore for meetings with government officials and U.S. business interests.

The party includes the committee chairman, Sens. Jake Garn, R-Utah, Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., and Chic Hecht, R-Nev., the senators' wives, two aides and Senate secretary William Hildenbrand, according to Bill Hendrix, a Garn spokesman.

Traveling under the aegis of the Senate drug enforcement caucus, Sens. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., and James Abdnor, R-S.D., and three aides left Nov. 27 for a two-week trip to the heroin producing nations of Turkey, Pakistan, Thailand and Burma, according to Tina Evans, an aide to Mrs. Hawkins.

The tour includes a stop in Vienna to confer with United Nations drug enforcement officials and field meetings with two Washington officials — Customs Commissioner William von Raab in Thailand and Dr. Carlton Turner, the White House

Minute of silence, plaque observe Pearl Harbor Day

HONOLULU (AP) — Survivors of the attack on Pearl Harbor gathered for aerial displays, formal presentations and a private sunset service marking the 42nd anniversary today of the bombing that launched the United States into World War II.

A moment of silence was to be observed across the Pearl Harbor Naval Base, to be signalled by a shipyard work whistle at 7:55 a.m., the exact minute the attack began on Dec. 7, 1941.

After that, four F-4C Phantom jets from the Hawaii Air National Guard were to fly over Pearl Harbor in a "missing man" formation, in which one of the flight positions remains vacant.

The attack by 190 Japanese attack planes had been prepared months in advance. The two-hour, four minute bombardment killed 2,113 men, 1,177 of which were aboard the USS Arizona. An additional 987 men were wounded. Eighteen U.S. Navy warships were damaged or sunk.

A plaque was to be unveiled honoring the bravery of the men who were aboard the USS Nevada that day. The Nevada had been moored just behind the Arizona, and was the only battleship to get under way during the attack. Despite several fires, heavy casualties and a 30-by-45-foot hole in her bow from a torpedo hit, the Nevada managed to limp toward the entrance to the harbor in a bid to escape the attack.

Navy brass, fearful the ship might sink in mid-channel and block the harbor, ordered it intentionally beached near Waipio Point, now also known as Nevada Point. Fifty-seven men died aboard the ship.

The memorial marker will list the ship's two Medal of Honor winners, the 13 USS Nevada sailors and Marines who won the Navy cross, and the 57 crewmen killed in action.

Also scheduled was a morning ceremony aboard the Arizona Memorial, including prayers, a wreath presentation, a gun salute and echo taps.

The day's scheduled observances were to close with a sunset Mass at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific and a private service aboard the Arizona by the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association.

Cabbage Patch...

Dolls to be auctioned off soon

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Frustrated parents who have tried unsuccessfully to buy a Cabbage Patch doll may be in luck — if they are willing to pay dearly for the privilege of putting one of the homeless waifs under the Christmas tree.

Lonnie Peterson, the wife of an airman at Holloman Air Force Base, has purchased two of the dolls at their $20 to $25 retail price and says she will sell them to the highest bidder.

Bidding starts at $50 — double the retail price, she said.

The dolls, which come complete with adoption papers, are in short supply and have triggered near-riots among would-be buyers in some department stores.

Ms. Peterson wouldn't say Tuesday what the highest bid has been so far, but she told the El Paso Times that $50 probably won't be enough to buy a doll.

"I got them from a friend," Ms. Peterson said.

Ms. Peterson's friend had ordered the dolls from a catalog, but bought others before the catalog order arrived, she said.

Although Ms. Peterson has three children, including a 4-year-old daughter, but she said keeping the dolls didn't cross her mind.

"(My daughter) wants one that walks and talks and these don't do either," she said. "I'm interested in making sure the Cabbage Patch dolls have a good home."

So is the doll's manufacturer, Coleco Industries of Hartford, Conn., said company spokesman Mort Handel. But Handel added that Coleco prefers that the dolls be found through stores.

Handel said that people are reselling the dolls at higher prices in some areas of the country, although the practice has not yet been reported to be a nationwide trend.

"I think that's terrible," he said.

Ms. Peterson said she has had a lot of response to classified newspaper ads in El Paso and may put ads in other papers.

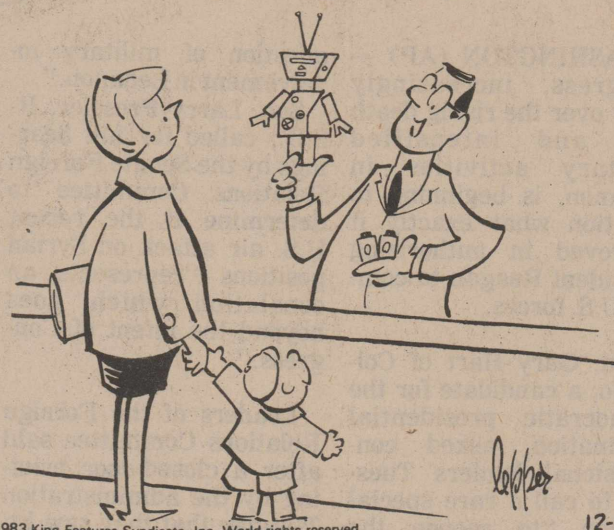

Despite her financial success, Ms. Peterson said she doesn't understand why the dolls are so popular.

"I'm baffled, really," she said. "I guess people are looking at them as more than dolls."

The childbearing patterns of today's young women (ages 18-34) are very different from those of their mothers' generation, says the American Council of Life Insurance. Unlike World War II postwar brides, women of the Baby Boom generation are often postponing having children. In addition to becoming mothers later in life, they expect to have fewer children, the council says, and more of them — nearly 12 percent — say they expect to have no children at all.

Trust officer given three year sentence

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A former trust officer at InterFirst Bank Wichita Falls was sentenced Tuesday to three years in prison for embezzling $10,000 from the bank.

Greg James, 29, pleaded guilty in September to a charge of misapplying fiduciary trust funds May 25. In return for the plea, prosecutors dismissed charges that he embezzled another $90,000.

James said he took the money to pay off some gambling debts.

His attorney, Hank Anderson Jr., several of James' called church and business associates to the stand during nearly two hours of character testimony.

But U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson later told James, "I am not going to grant you probation Mr. James. What you committed is a very serious offense. It involves what is by any standard a great deal of money."

Analysts not sure about hot Braniff sales

DALLAS (AP) — Airline analysts aren't sure why buyers are going after Braniff International stock, but warn that unwary investors are in for a rude awakening when the Hyatt Corp. takes over the carrier next week.

Since last week, when Braniff christened its first repainted airplane, trading of the stock has been unusually heavy, with about 90,000 shares changing hands each day. The stock has maintained a price of about $2 a share.

"I can't understand it. It defies my imagination," Eliot Fried Jr., airline analyst with Shearson-American Express in New York told The Dallas Morning News. "Crazy things have happened before. And this is certainly crazy."

When Braniff consummates its reorganization plan with Chicago-based Hyatt Corp., the stock's book value could drop below 14 cents a share, company officials have said.

Owners of Braniff's 21 million shares outstanding once controlled 100 percent of the company. But when the Hyatt plan goes into effect, those shares will be traded for about 170,000 of the new Braniff.

According to Braniff reorganization plan, which has been approved by federal bankruptcy judge and the grounded airline's creditors, shareholders will control less than 2 percent of new company.

Anyone owning less than 125 shares will get notified out of the deal, according to the plan.

"I think a lot of people are looking at Braniff through rose-colored glasses," said Rolfe Joedicke, analyst with Lehman Brothers K, a de Loeb Inc. "They have looked at the fine print. Rudy R. Ferguson, Braniff's chief financial officer, testified in bankruptcy court last July that the company's stock would be worth less than 14 cents a share after the consummation of the Hyatt deal.

"I haven't the foggiest idea why people are recommending the stock," said Can Brown, an analyst with Oppenheimer & Co. "I know of no one recommending the stock. It has to be uneducated buyers out there."

Braniff ceased operations in May when its stock was trading at about $2 a share.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Lack of sexual desire

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a problem that is affecting the happiness in our marriage. I am 55 years old and have no interest in sex except to wish I had the life of my earlier years when I was able to please my husband.

I also have a problem with dryness. I spoke to my doctor about it nine months ago after reading about it in one of your columns. I asked him about trying estrogen, but he said my symptoms didn't warrant estrogen and prescribed Vagitol cream instead.

When I first started my menopause and complained of hot flashes, he said that ordinarily he would prescribe estrogen. But that was when the estrogen cancer scare was becoming prevalent, so he didn't prescribe it.

Maybe estrogen is not the answer, but Vagitol definitely is not, either. I still suffer pain during sex. I am in need of help, since there are emotional problems arising from what my husband refers to as coldness.

DEAR READER — You do need help. Vagitol is not a hormone cream, nor is it a lubricant. It ordinarily is prescribed for trichomoniasis, a common infection that causes a discharge.

An examination, including looking at cells from your vaginal area, can assess your need for estrogen. Women who are low on estrogen often have dryness, and that can lead to the problems you describe. And in that case, estrogen replacement is a great help.

Most doctors have avoided prescribing estrogen because of the cancer scare regarding estrogen. But it is time to review that approach. New information has shown that this is not a great problem if a woman uses a combination of estrogen and progesterone medicine.

A recent study sponsored by the National Institutes of Health showed a significant decrease in the death rate in women who took estrogen after menopause. The study lasted five-and-a-half years, and the women using estrogen had 37 percent fewer deaths than the women who did not use estrogen.

To bring you up to date on the female hormone question I am sending you The Health Letter SR-12, Oral Contraceptives and Postmenopausal Estrogens. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

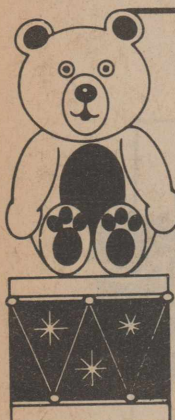

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 75 years old and in pretty good health, but noticed that my eyesight is failing. My eye doctor looked in the back of my eyes with a very powerful light. He said that one of my eyes was deteriorating. He prescribed Nicobid, which he didn't guarantee would work, but he said it was the only way he knew how to help me.

He called my eye problem involutional macular degeneration. I've taken Nicobid for three months, but can't tell any improvement. Is this right or should I stop taking the medicine? I like to crochet, knit and watch TV, as well as do my own work.

DEAR READER — Your problem is caused by the degeneration of a small spot in the back of the eye where many of the rays of light are focused to provide visual images. It controls your central vision. And I hope you don't smoke, because cigarettes significantly increase the risk of such a problem.

Your other eye may not become involved. I suspect your doctor is attempting to prevent any further changes in the circulation to the eye. Niacin (Nicobid) is sometimes used to improve the cholesterol problem and hopefully to prevent changes. Better stay with your doctor's guidance.

Dr. Martin Caperton of Conroe, who treated White for high blood pressure in 1981, testified that if White suffered from the disorder, called encephalopathy, he probably would not have been able to carry out the alleged crime or some of the simplest of daily activities.

Encephalopathy, commonly called organic brain syndrome, may be caused by very high blood pressure and consequent brain hemorrhaging that can't be detected by the most sophisticated medical brain scanning devices, Caperton said.

White's wife, Phyllis, 40, read a letter he wrote her just weeks before Baucom was kidnapped.

In the letter, White said he had the "power and the sorcery to slay the dragon. My powers are getting stronger."

White had no reaction as his wife read another letter he wrote from the Galveston County Jail Stolen...

Market eager for gold

LONDON (AP) — With 6,800 little gold bars in hand, the thieves who pulled off Britain's biggest robbery could have eager buyers all over the world.

and the insurers who are paying out $36.1 million to the still unidentified owners of the three tons of gold.

Black, 31, a security guard at the Brinks-Met warehouse, was charged with conspiracy in the Nov. 26 robbery. He was ordered held for three days of questioning.

A source with one of the insurers, who insisted on anonymity, said, "It will be difficult to get rid of gold in that quantity, but the most likely market is the backstreet jewelry market around the world."

That's the opinion of police, security companies

Police announced the first arrest in the case Tuesday. Anthony John

But there was no word on other members of the gang, believed to number six men, or the whereabouts of the gold, which, if stacked, takes up the space of a twin bed.

It would have to be melted down and would take some time to disperse, the source said, indicating that the insurers "believe the thieves still have it."

shortly after his arrest. "They will come for me soon," the letter said. "There is another dimension and I should have been there from the beginning and not with all of you."

Defense attorneys have maintained that the figures prove his increasing mental illness, and Dr. Roden told the jury that organic brain syndrome could account for White's claims that the shrouded figures threaten him.

Some officials fear the gold was quickly slipped into clandestine markets abroad.

The recipient of the stolen hoard could also have been someone in the secret world of international arms trading, said a second insurance company official who asked not to be identified.

White apparently was referring to "shrouded figures" that he said recur in his nightmares and that he has portrayed in his

If convicted, White could receive a prison sentence ranging from five years to life.

Since the Bronze Age, the lustrous, heavy metal has been molded into shapes that have survived in their original form for centuries, such as King Tut's coffin with its unique signature of ancient Egypt.

"They can handle large amounts of gold, often paid clandestinely. They would want payment in gold if they don't want the transaction to be traced," he speculated.

White, 38, a self-taught electrical engineer, also is accused of kidnapping two other men in Montgomery and Live Oak counties while trying to avoid arrest in Baucom's abduction.

Dr. Albert Schweitzer died in 1965 at the hospital he had founded in Lambaré, Gabon. He was 90.

But gold can also be anonymous and untraceable, and at almost $400 a troy ounce, very desirable.

Other possible markets are in the Middle East, South Asia and the Far East, where hoarding of precious metals is a traditional hedge against hard times or political upheaval.

Last Saturday, three-foot-high concrete barriers were installed at two White House entrances to replace dump trucks. White House officials said barriers to prevent would-be terrorists from crashing through wrought-iron gates would be installed at other entrances to replace the trucks.

A commercial airliner crashed in the mountains near Juneau, Alaska, in 1971, and 111 persons were killed.

Thieves can melt modern bullion bars to remove identifying serial numbers and assayers' stamps, and then slip them into any number of illicit markets to be transformed into jewelry, bought for hoarding or used to pay for other illicit goods such as arms or drugs.

Illicit gold could be slipped into the legal market and end up as bracelets in India--one of many places where a substantial part of a family's net worth goes on the matriarch's arm or ankle.
