State Claims Youth Killed Choir Singer In Fit Of Jealousy

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SINTON, Texas, Oct. 7. (AP)—The mother of Dorothy Dorcas Symons, whose body was found in a seaweed grave two days after she had disappeared from home, testified late today as a state witness in the murder trial of Newton Yarberry, accused slayer of the 18-year-old choir singer.

Mrs. Symons, slight and haggard, was dressed in black. She wept occasionally through her testimony.

"When did you last see Dorothy alive?" the prosecution asked.

"On Thursday evening, July 30, she came home and got ready to go to choir practice. She came in and kissed me and her daddy good bye. That was the last I ever saw of her," Mrs. Symons replied.

Mother Alarmed

The prosecution contends Miss Symons had an engagement to go swimming with Yarberry on the night of her disappearance, and was later seen with him.

The mother testified she began to fear "something had happened" when her daughter did not return home from choir practice. She said Yarberry described her daughter's disappearance as a "fine mess" and said if she was not found in "six or seven days" he would "go hunt her."

"I thought," Mrs. Symons added, "he's giving himself plenty of time."

Mrs. Symons was on the stand when court was adjourned.

Symons, stepfather of Dorothy, preceded his wife on the stand. He testified as to "dates" Dorothy had with Yarberry. On cross-examination counsel for the defense sought to bring out that he had expressed "strenuous opposition" to the autopsy on the body when it was found. Symons said he would not have objected had it been "done in the right way."

J. H. Kell, elderly Aransas Pass night watchman, had testified before him, telling of seeing Yarberry with Dorothy on the night of her disappearance, and of seeing the

Owen D. Young Commends Community Chest Victory Here

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (AP)—Oversubscription of $125,000, or 9.8 per cent, for community chests in six cities were reported today by Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of relief resources of President Hoover's organization on unemployment relief.

The reports were for campaigns held in advance of the nation-wide drive for Oct. 19-15.

"These are great examples to set the cities whose campaigns are to come," Young said.

The cities included Wichita Falls, Texas, $61,660, oversubscription $2,000.

PRICE REFUSES TO QUIT POST

Accused Jurist Declines Senate Compromise

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (UP)—Judge J. B. Price, 65-year-old occupant of the 21st district court bench, today rejected a proposal to drop impeachment proceedings against him provided he would resign.

"I refused to resign," said Judge Price when questioned about negotiations which halted progress of the impeachment trial for more than an hour in the state senate here this afternoon.

Little testimony was taken during the day in support of six house charges that he was grossly careless in approving fee accounts of sheriffs of three counties in his district. Six other charges were quashed by the senate last week.

T. M. Markham, assistant state auditor, had scarcely stated his name and position when an objection rose that ended only a short time before recess interrupted the trial until tomorrow.

Attorneys Object

Assistant Attorney General Grady Sturgeon battled through the day against objections of Former Governor Dan Moody and R. L. Batts, that Markham should not be permitted to testify about accounts for the October, 1925, and April, 1926, terms of court in Lee county.

They objected on the ground that the terms were not included in the charges being tried and occurred long before the judge's present term of office.

Sturgeon secured a ruling for admittance of the accounts on the ground of showing system.

Markham testified that the records show that sheriff fee accounts for two terms of court in the county were rendered, totaling $33,187.65 and that $22,758.70 was paid. He said the county has a population of 13,390 people as shown by the 1930 Texas almanac.

Time Question

Price's attorneys contend that the accounts were approved under an existing ruling of the court of civil appeals allowing a sheriff separate fees for each case, where a number of indictments charging a group of offenses are returned and only one actual service and arrest takes place.

Assistant Attorney General Sturgeon replied that the accounts, in part, were re-approved after the supreme court had overturned that decision. Price's lawyers said, answering that the new approval was according to terms of a settlement of the claims agreed to by state officials.

Twister Sweeps West Texas Town

ROTAN, Texas, Oct. 7. (AP)—A twister that struck two miles north of here at 5 o'clock this afternoon demolished a one-room house and injured one of nine occupants, Mrs. Ernest Upshaw, mother of a one-day-old baby. The woman is suffering from shock, a lacerated arm and bruises.

The baby, its father and three other children, and three neighbors were uninjured.

The twister did damage in only a small area. The house was splintered and scattered for half a mile, and trees in the path of the storm were uprooted. No other material damage was reported.

Light showers were falling in parts of this area tonight.

Commission to Set New Proration Figure Oct. 10

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (AP)—C. V. Terrell, chairman of the Texas railroad commission, said today the commission probably would meet Saturday to issue a new proration order for the East Texas oil field.

Gov. R. S. Sterling announced last night the field's allowable would be cut from 185 barrels per well to 150 barrels, reducing the production of approximately 2,200 wells from over 400,000 barrels daily to about 330,000 barrels.

KILGORE, Texas, Oct. 7. (AP)—Oil production Tuesday in the East Texas field totalled 413,290 barrels from 2,239 reporting wells.

Three Convicted in Liquor Ring Charge

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 7. (UP)—Three alleged members of a Panhandle liquor ring were convicted and one acquitted here today when a federal court jury returned its verdict after two days deliberation.

Beauchamp Pottinger was acquitted. Walter Wilmering, Quintus Thompson and J. B. Sneed were found guilty of conspiring to violate the prohibition law. Wilmering and Thompson were sentenced to two years each and Sneed to 14 months imprisonment in Leavenworth penitentiary.

City Council Asked to Seek Bids On New Wichita Falls Gas Franchise

Members of the city council were asked Wednesday noon by a citizens' advisory committee headed by Judge J. T. Montgomery to advertise immediately for bids on a gas franchise here with a view to replacing the franchise under which the Municipal Gas company now is operating.

The advisory committee consisting of Judge Montgomery, Ed Howard, Burton Staton, Homer Lee and Luke McCrory, met with members of the city council, City Manager V. R. Smitham and Mayor Walter Nelson Jr. at the Wichita club for Wednesday's conference.

The action taken by the committee specified that any company bidding on the local franchise set out the rate it would charge for domestic gas for a period of at least five years.

Most of those present Wednesday were inclined to believe that a new franchise could be granted immediately, and that it would not have to be withheld until the Municipal Gas company's existing franchise expires in 1933.

The state railroad commission also will be asked, it was decided, to postpone its hearing on the ordinance reducing the gas rate here until after the commission has received an auditor's report on the Lone Star Gas company, allegedly the parent organization of the Municipal Gas company.

The possibility of holding an election here for condemnation of the gas company's property, in case other efforts to obtain reduced rates should fail, also was discussed in Wednesday's meeting. It was proposed that such a project might be carried out by selling bonds which would be paid out of gas revenues under municipal operation.

STATE UNABLE TO PIN PROFITS ON AL CAPONE

Witnesses Can't Say With Certainty 'Big Shot' Owned Places

EMPLOYE IS VAGUE

Ministers Tell of Raids Which Resulted in Assaults

CHICAGO, Oct. 7. (AP)—The wide open gambling houses of Cicero during the days when Al Capone made the village his suburban stronghold, were discussed at length today in the scar-faced gang leader's trial in federal court on charges of income tax evasion.

But when the day's court session was finished, not one witness had said definitely, in reply to persistent questions from the prosecution, that Capone received profits from the gaming houses.

Star Witnesses Uncertain

Even the government's "star witnesses" for the day, Leslie H. Shumway, an employe of what were known as "Capone joints" in Cicero could not say definitely, he testified, that any of the profits from the whirring roulette wheels, the rattling dice games and the horse racing bets found their way into Capone's pockets.

Shumway worked as bookkeeper in "five or six" Cicero joints in which Frankie Pope, a well known Chicago gangster said by police to be in charge of gambling for Capone was "manager," he said.

Shumway even took the profits from the Subway, a notorious gambling house, to a safe in a nearby building, he testified, but he professed not to know who got the money from the safe.

Judge Takes Hand

In the final hour of the afternoon session, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson asked Shumway:

"Do you know who the owner of the place was?"

"Not definitely," the witness replied.

"Once Al Capone asked me what I would do if I were held up while taking the money from the Subway to the safe," Shumway related. "I told him I'd let them have the money, and he said 'that's right.'"

Whether or not Capone owned the Cicero gambling places, they were profitable for somebody, the government alleged—and Prosecutor David L. Grossman produced accounts to prove it. The evidence introduced in the form of a summary of several large books which Shumway used for his accounts, showed that:

The Hawthorne Smoke Shop, one of the gambling houses in question,

Thomas A. Edison Slipping Toward State of Coma

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 7. (UP)—Thomas A. Edison was weaker tonight and his condition was described as very grave, although he passed a quiet day.

President Hoover, through his secretary, Lawrence Ritchie, telephoned the famous inventor's home and asked to be advised each day of Edison's condition. Charles Edison, a son, assure Ritchie the president would be advised.

Edison's lethargic state of mind and steadily lengthening periods of sleep indicate that the end is only a matter of days, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, attending physician said. "Mr. Edison is much weaker. It is impossible for him to sit up without support. He finds it increasingly difficult to take liquids."

This morning Edison had indicated he wanted to get up from bed and was propped up in a chair, but it became necessary to carry him back to bed immediately. He appeared to be approaching a state of coma.

Strike-Breaker Attacked By Negro Dock Worker

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Oct. 7. (UP)—Five negro dock workers were held in jail here today while an investigation was made of an affray last night in which 18 negro longshoremen attacked a non-union strikebreaker. Several shots were fired but none took effect.

The trouble was the first major disorder since 2,000 union longshoremen went on strike here and at three other Texas ports a week ago tonight, rather than accept wage reductions.

MacDonald Appeals For Nation's Support

LONDON, Oct. 7. (UP)—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald appealed to the country, in a radio address tonight to give the national government a mandate to proceed with almost unlimited power to solve the economic crisis.

He warned his hearers, in a talk broadcast across the Atlantic, that the progress of events might even end in revolution unless energetic measures are taken.

Pepper Martin And Bill Hallahan Connive To Trounce Mackmen

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—The "wild horse of the Osage," Pepper Martin, collaborated again today with the "Wild Will of the Pitching Peaks," Bill Hallahan, to baffle the Athletics, perch victory atop the National league banner and put the Cardinals within one game of the world baseball championship.

The Cardinals romped easily to triumph in the fifth game of the series, 5 to 1, as Hallahan posted his second straight victory over the world champions and Martin continued on the wildest batting rampage in the history of baseball's annual big show.

It gave the Red Birds the lead, three games to two, an advantage enjoyed by the National league's forces for the first time in seven years. The Cardinals, now in command, with only the great George Earnshaw to do much worrying about, return to their home grounds with two chances to capture the fourth and deciding contest. The sixth game is scheduled Friday at St. Louis and the seventh, if necessary, on Saturday.

The smartest piece of strategy since the series opened, the elevation of the sensational Pepper Martin to the cleanup position in the Cardinal batting order in place of Sunny Jim Bottomley, was crowned with results of the gaudiest variety as the rookie outfielder routed the veteran Waite Hoyt and had the Athletics shell-shocked for the fifth straight game.

Martin, with a nation's eyes upon him and even the A's own home town fans cheering him, celebrated the responsibility put upon him by smashing out three hits, including a home run into the left field stands, and driving home four of the five Cardinal tallies.

This stockily-built, 27-year-old Oklahoman from the Osage country, virtually single-handed battered the Athletics into defeat with just as much power as a slugger as he manifested previously in dazzling speed. He drove in the first run with a sacrifice fly, pointed out the exit for Hoyt in the sixth with a home run clout, with Frisch on base, and concluded his day with

D. W. MORROW LAID TO REST

Rites in Family Church Honor Diplomat

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 7. (AP)—Senator Dwight W. Morrow was buried today after a funeral service as free from pomp as his rank in the nation would permit.

His family, notables of the government, and friends and neighbors filled the First Presbyterian church to honor the memory of the man who four years ago turned from a position high in the financial world to become a leader in American diplomatic circles.

A large crowd pressed at the church doors, filling the streets and lawns. Except for the confusion in the streets, with which more than 40 policemen labored, the rites were as the family had planned them, simple, dignified.

There was only a prayer at the cemetery. Mrs. Morrow dropped earth on the casket as it was lowered into the ground. The other members of the family stood by.

Dr. Carl H. Elmore, pastor of the church which the Morrows had attended 26 years, conducted the service.

Former President Coolidge, vice President Curtis, and a few other Washington officials were bidden goodbye by Mrs. Morrow in an ante-room of the church before the trip to the cemetery.

Organ music, two hymns, an extemporaneous prayer, scriptural reading, the Lord's prayer and Socrates' prayer from the Phaedrus of Plato were all that took place in the church.

The selection was:

"Socrates—give me beauty in the inward soul; and may the outward and inward man be as one. May I reckon the wise to be wealthy, and may I have such a quantity of gold as a temperate man and he only can bear and carry. Anything more? The prayer, I think, is enough for me.

"Phaedrus—Ask the same for me, for friends have all things in common."

LINDBERGHS RETURN

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 8. (Thursday), (UP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh sailed for home today, ending their tour of the far East.

They departed on the Shanghai Maru to transfer on Saturday to the S. S. President Jefferson, sailing from Yokohama for Seattle. Their decision to cut short their vacation tour was made because of the death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's father.

Condemned Pair Ask Habeas Corpus Writ

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today heard arguments on an application for writ of habeas corpus by Nicandro Munoz and Victor Rodriguez, who are seeking to set aside a death sentence given them for the slaying of Bert Ellison, United States customs inspector, near Edinburg.

The condemned men claimed they were defended in court by an attorney who had not been licensed to practice law. Gov. R. S. Sterling several months ago issued a reprieve to the men pending investigation.

The court likely will hand down its decision next week.

Farmers Demand Help For Holding Cotton

WACO, Texas, Oct. 7. (UP)—A state-wide farmers' conference here today demanded by resolution that Texas cotton market centers provide the financial setups necessary to enable producers to hold cotton off the market for better prices.

The resolution, adopted at a meeting presided over by J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, proposed that the market centers act through their chambers of commerce to provide the financial aid.

U. S. Opens Negotiations On St. Lawrence Seaway

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (UP)—Negotiations between the United States and Canada to formulate a treaty under which the international St. Lawrence seaway project will be carried out will be begun immediately, the state department announced tonight.

Word Battles Approach Real Violence At Hectic Session of Confederates

Three Hours of Minor Disagreements Come to Climax In Separate Brigade Elections

FORT WORTH, Oct. 7. (AP)—Texas Confederates held forth in hectic session this afternoon before they closed their annual state reunion with the re-election of Maj. M. J. Bonner, Fort Worth, to the commandership and selection of Corpus Christi as their next meeting place.

The thin, stooped, gray bearded old veterans who had stood with one accord earlier in the day in a pledge to "re-assemble every year as long as there are three of us alive," grew nervous, irritable and fatigued as the session wore on. They agreed on little else than the election of Major Bonner during the whole afternoon and that was preceded by a near battle over some parliamentary phase of the nominations.

Three hours of minor disagreements reached a climax when the four brigades retired to separate corners to elect. W. T. Miles of Dallas came out of a cyclonic brigade meeting as commander. Other commanders, named more peacefully, were Gen. J. H. Summers, Nacogdoches, first brigade; J. T. Clinkscales, San Antonio, second brigade, and F. M. Nox, Anson, fourth brigade.

After a motion passed to close nominations, John A. Miller of Fort Worth, his long, snowy beard bobbing up and down for emphasis, shouted he had a name to propose. In the clamor that followed it appeared that he was ruled out of order and that the man he had in mind was R. A. Miller of Abilene. But, being ruled out of order didn't stop him and the sergeant at arms, ordered to put him out, couldn't do it. The daughters solved the situation by gathering around the fiery objector and singing "In the Sweet Bye and Bye."

A Confederate flag, faded, riddled with bullet holes and frayed at the edge, fluttered from the speaker's platform to cause the first dispute of the afternoon. Lon A. Smith, member of the state railroad commission, presented the flag to the Texas Confederates, instructing Mrs. Oscar Barthold, Weatherford, regent of the Texas room in the Southern museum at Richmond to place it with other Texas relics, he explained, however, that it was the flag of the fifth Georgia regiment, shot out of the hands of two color-bearers at the Battle of Murphysville.

As Smith finished his speech, O. F. Ansley, Dallas, jumped to his feet to say, "Comrades, that is my flag. I fought in the fifth Georgia regiment and two of my brothers were at the battle of Murphysville. That flag belongs in Georgia."

He went to the platform and fingered the worn old banner as he spoke for its possession. Smith conceded the banner belonged to the Georgians and recommended that Mrs. Barthold place it in the Georgia room of the museum. Ansley was not satisfied: "Gentlemen," he said, "we have archieves of our own at Atlanta. That is where it belongs, not at Richmond."

An impatient veteran who stood on the sidelines stopped the discussion by moving that Mrs. Barthold, Ansley and Smith settle it in a private session. His motion passed.

FALL ASKS FOR PAROLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. (AP)—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, applied to the justice department today for a parole from his year and a day sentence for accepting a bribe.

ALSUP MAKES $7,500 BOND

Former Officer Free Pending Appeal of Case

John Alsup, sentenced by a jury last Sunday afternoon to a 10-year penitentiary term on a murder charge, was free Wednesday afternoon for the first time in 18 months when bond in amount of $7,500 was perfected pending action of the criminal court of appeals upon his case.

New Trial Refused

Bond was set at $7,500 by Judge P. A. Martin, as requested by the state, after a motion for a new trial had been overruled by the court. Argument upon the motion was held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. After ruling against the convicted man, Judge Martin deferred setting of the bond until bondsmen from Fort Worth arrived in the afternoon. He also extended the July term of the 89th district court 60 days in order to allow defense counsel time in which to prepare their appeal to the higher courts.

Attorney Otis E. Rogers, who has defended Alsup in all of his five trials, contended in his motion for a new trial that jurors had been allowed to read daily newspapers, and that County Judge John P. Marrs had entered the jury room during the trial.

Judge Marrs testified that he had entered the ante-room early one morning to wash his hands, but that no one else was in the room. W. J. Duncan, court bailiff, testified that all accounts of the Alsup trial except streamer headlines were clipped from papers before they were given to jurors.

Convicted of Slaying

Alsup was convicted for the killing of Isaac Tate, negro, after the attempted robbery of the First State bank of Polytechnic, Fort Worth, on April 10, 1930. He admittedly killed two negroes who had entered the bank. The state contended that Alsup framed the robbery in order to qualify for a large reward by killing the bandits. He has been in jail since April 16, 1930. He was acquitted on a murder charge brought in connection with the killing of the other negro.

Officers of Texas W. C. T. U. Re-Elected

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (UP)—Officers of the Texas W. C. T. U., in convention here, were re-elected today by large majorities. Mrs. Claude de van Watts, Austin, was nominated to her 10th term as president by 165 votes out of a possible 185. She was subsequently unanimously re-elected.

QUICK REVIVAL OF CONFIDENCE AIM OF SCHEME

Hoover's Proposals Held Out as Means to Free Frozen Credits

DEMOS GRUMBLING

Extension of Moratorium On Reparations Meets Quick Opposition

By FRASER EDWARDS
Universal Service Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Action on President Hoover's six-point program to promote public confidence and prosperity by freeing frozen bank credits went forward today with all possible speed.

By restoring confidence and providing funds for thousands of banks now clogged with "frozen" paper, the Hoover plan will be rushed into operation at the earliest.

More than $4,000,000,000, it is estimated, is tied up in frozen credits. Of this stupendous sum a billion and a half dollars is clotted in closed banks, but much of the remainder, it is believed can be released to aid business and employment.

Money Hoarded

Upwards of $800,000,000, treasury experts estimate, is now hoarded throughout the country. Restoration of confidence will put this money back into circulation.

The president, gratified at the generally favorable reaction to his plan in congressional and business circles, tackled the problem of home financing, while New York bankers labored on details of the $500,000,000 credits corporation in an effort to complete the organization by the end of the week.

Mellon Confident

Secretary Mellon expressed confidence that the bankers would be able to assemble the huge pool without federal aid.

Treasury officials, however, prepared for the possibility that a credit agency similar to the old war finance corporation will be needed, and worked on various phases of legislative recommendations to congress.

Congressional leaders began the preliminary consideration of the president's proposal for liberalization of the federal reserve act to permit member banks of the system to handle a greater variety of securities. There was some grumbling on Capitol Hill, however, among the Democrats and Progressives.

Bankers Willing

Meanwhile, the willingness of the bankers to mobilize the funds to liquidate frozen credits was indicated by the resolution of the American Bankers association convention at Atlantic City "heartily approving" the proposal.

The president, together with Sec-

Ball, venerable Houston barrister, civic leader and veteran of many stirring state political campaigns, on a charge of felony theft of three warrants for a total of $222,822.76 from the navigation district, was completed in district court here late today.

Immediately after the jury had been completed an indictment returned against the 72-year-old defendant who has long been called the "father of the port of Houston," was read. Ball formerly was congressman from this district and was narrowly defeated for the governorship in 1914.

Hitch-Hikers Reveal Driver of Death Car

DALLAS, Oct. 7. (UP)—Three high school boys whose hitch-hiking ride home from Shreveport with an apparently drunken motorist ended in a fatal hit-and-run accident gave officers information today which led to the motorist's arrest at Longview.

The boys came to detectives with the death car's state license number, when they learned that Bryan Carson, 22, had died after their host's car struck him by the roadside and crushed him against his own disabled car.

Record News Cotton Table

For Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma

Spot cotton quotations were unsettled in towns of this area Wednesday. There was no general increase or decrease in prices, although offerings were up at several towns, while they dropped at others.

Increases in price ranged from 5 to 25 points, decreases from 10 to 25 points.

There was no changes in the price of cottonseed at any point reported. However, at Grandfield one gin is offering to take the seed instead of charging for ginning.

An increase of cotton is flowing in as the season advances. Practically every town in this section had increased its daily number of ginnings Wednesday over the figures of Tuesday.

FINANCE PLAN SPEEDED ALONG

Action to Restore Confidence Is Started

retary Lamont, chairman of the conference on home construction and ownership, met with leading real estate operators from various sections, to work out a plan for satisfactory credits to promote increased building.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills predicted financial stability and business recovery as a consequence of restored public confidence, in outlining the details of how the bankers pool would operate.

Legislation Considered

At the same time, Comptroller of the Currency Pole announced he would prepare recommendations to congress for legislation to speed the liquidation of assets of national banks which have closed their doors during the depression.

Anticipating early action in congress, Senator Glass, Democrat, of Virginia, author of the federal reserve act, will call his banking and currency subcommittee into session early next month to hear leading bankers and treasury officials on the president's proposed change in the law.

If the Republicans organize the house, Representative McFadden, Republican, of Pennsylvania, announced he would call an immediate meeting of the house banking and currency committee, of which he is chairman, to consider any administration recommendations.

Democrats Critical

Many Democratic leaders, however, were disposed to be critical of the president for his failure to call congress into session at once to enact legislation to put his full program into effect. They resent the implication that they were "taken into camp" by the president at a "ballyhoo meeting" and the fact that Republicans like Senator Smoot of Utah, hail the program as "a master stroke."

Representative Garner of Texas, who will be the next speaker if the Democrats control the house, asserted that "25 bills to accomplish the same thing" would have been introduced if congress had been in session.

Democrats and many Republicans were aroused over the president's attempt to secure in advance the approval of the congressional leaders to anything he might discuss with Premier Laval of France, which is generally understood to be a two-year extension of the moratorium. Such an extension, they feel would lead to inevitable cancellation of the $10,000,000,000 war debts owing the United States.

Progressives Resentful

Garner told the president in no uncertain terms that he would never permit even the inference that he approved any extension. He was joined in vigorous opposition by Senator Borah, Republican Leader Watson and Democratic Leader Robinson.

Progressive senators resented being ignored by the president, although several were in the city. Borah received a last minute invitation. Senator Brookhart, Republican, of Iowa, characterized the conference as "a fine Wall street party" and declared the program "as a gesture to agriculture was wholly inadequate."

BANKERS HASTEN TO FORM CORPORATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (AP)—Heads of the country's most powerful banks hastened today to set up the framework of a $500,000,000 corporation—and possibly it will be larger—for the purpose of thawing out frozen bank credit.

In the meantime, financial markets gave strong testimony that one of the major objects of President Hoover's program of economic stabilization already was well along the road to accomplishment. That object is restoration of confidence.

The bond market, which bankers said should be among the first to reflect the salutory effects of the program, recorded one of the sharpest advances of the year, many domestic issues gaining $10 to more than $50 per bond of $1,000 par value.

The stock market quieted down, and sagged moderately under porfit taking sales by traders who bought during yesterday's spectacular uprush, but the reaction was less severe than those which frequently come on the heels of violent advances.

In high Wall street banking quarters it was said the next major financial problem to receive attention would probably be that of inter-governmental debts. The hope was expressed the coming visit of Premier Laval of France would result in a better understanding between France and the United States which now control the major portion of the world's cash, as to international measures to promote economic rehabilitation.

The foreign markets generally reflected encouragement as a result of the aggressive measures being adopted in this country. Securities in Paris and Tokyo rose bouyantly. The London market, however, turned somewhat irregular in sympathy with a fresh decline in sterling exchange.

Sterling Signs River Bed Oil Bill Allowing State Drilling

Law Sponsor to Ask for Immediate Survey of Sabine to Check Wells Draining State Owned Territory

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (AP)—The river bed bill authorizing the state to explore for oil and gas in proven territory, passed by the second extrordinary session of the Texas legislature, was filed with the secretary of state with Gov. R. S. Sterling's signature today.

The law will not become effective until the first of next January, since it was not given two-thirds majority vote in both houses, but it was Governor Sterling's purpose to open negotiations for development of the Sabine river bed in the rich oil field of East Texas immediately.

Senator George C. Purl of Dallas, who introduced the bill in the senate, announced that as soon as the governor returned from Houston where he was attending to private business, he would ask the chief executive to use his power through the national guard to have a survey made of the Sabine river with a view of ascertaining how many oil wells are now draining oil from the pool under the river.

Governor Sterling had stated he believed he had the executive power to close the wells draining from the river bed pool until Texas could establish her right to a portion of the oil, but added he disliked to do that if it could be avoided without too great a loss to the state. He said he believed such action would be "too drastic."

Under terms of the bill the governor, commissioner of the general land office and chairman of the railroad commission, can either contract to drill the river bed or lease it for that purpose on a basis of retaining not less than one-eighth royalty in the oil business.

Governor Sterling said a California company already had made an "indirect" offer to pay a cash bonus of $500,000 for a lease of the river bed.

Other bills signed by the governor were proposals validating creation of school districts of all kinds, levying an annual occupation tax of $150 on money lenders and increasing powers of county auditors in counties of 75,000 population or more.

The only remaining bill on his desk was the Brooks proposal that one cent of the four-cent gasoline tax be allocated to counties and districts for retirement of bonds issued for highway construction on the state system.

Public Health Work Has About Reached Limit, Speaker Says

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 7. (UP)—Repsonsibility for further progress in the prolongation of the natural span of human life is placed on the individual by Dr. D. A. Rinehart, president of the Arkansas State Medical association.

If a person wants to live long and be healthy, he must assume the initiative of working to that objective, Dr. Rinehart said today at the fall conference of the Kansas City Southwest Clinical society.

Sanitation, public health work and general discoveries have during the past century advanced the normal lifetime from 30 to 58 years. That's about the limit, Dr. Rinehart believes.

OLNEY SEEKS LIGHT RATE CUT

City Asks Rate Reduction From Company

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Oct. 7.—Lower light rates are in the offing for Olney citizens if present plans of the city council materialize, according to Edwin Hill, mayor.

Closing of the local power plant a few weeks ago is reported to be a violation of the charter granted the Texas Louisiana Power company. Electricity is now being supplied from high lines of the Texas Electric Service company. City officials feel that if the plant was closed to effect a saving, as officials of the company say it was, that the public is entitled to part of it.

It is rumored that another company is seeking a franchise to supply electricity to the Olney public.

made a net profit of $300,250 during the months from May to December, 1924, and the profits from January to April, 1926, were $170,011.

The other government witness introduced today, the second day of the trial, were the Rev. Henry C. Hoover, Irving, Ill., Chester Bragg, a life insurance salesman, Berwyn, Ill., David Morgan, Warm Springs, Ill.; members of the West Suburban Ministers and Citizens association which raided the Subway.

Raid at Noon

They entered the gaming house, said Bragg, about noon on a Saturday in May, 1925. Bragg was assigned to guard the door during the raid, he said, and Capone "came on the run from somewhere nearby and began pushing on the door to get in."

"I asked him 'what do you think this is, a party,' and he replied 'I'm the owner of this place," Bragg testified.

Capone followed the raiders to the gaming rooms, Bragg said, and from there on the story was taken up by Mr. Hoover.

Capone came into the gaming room, the minister said and demanded of him:

"What are you always picking on me for? Can't I run a place in Cicero? You pulled the last raid that you're going to pull on me!"

Bookkeeper Shumway related the gambling was resumed the same afternoon in a building a couple of doors down the street.

Incidentally, both Bragg and Morgan testified that soon after the raid, they were beaten severely. "A thousand men jumped on me," Morgan recounted, "pushed my nose to my left ear and beat me until I thought I'd die."

STOLEN MAIL SACKS FOUND

$3,500 in Bank Funds Is Taken From Depot

DUMAS, Texas, Oct. 7. (AP)—Seven mail sacks taken in a robbery of the Santa Fe railway station at Dumas last night, with a loss of $3,500 in currency and several parcels, were recovered eight miles southwest of the city late today.

Locks and cords had been removed from the sacks and they had been rifled. Mail was scattered about the ground. Many letters had been opened, and officers said that parcels containing merchandise were missing. Most of the letter mail was recovered.

The sacks were found by Bus Brown, a farmer, in a wheat field about 50 yards from the highway. Sheriff Jaspér Logue, who brought the mail into Dumas, reported that no clues were obtained, but he collected a number of opened envelopes on which were found fingerprints.

Robbers entered the station office between midnight and 6:30 a. m., knocked the dial from the office safe, pried open an empty cash drawer, then escaped with the mail sacks. The mail arrived on the Santa Fe train at 12:20 a. m., and was tossed into the station offfice by trainmen. The robbers first pried a lock off the warehouse door, then forced open an inner door to reach the office.

The currency was a consignment from the First National bank in Amarillo to the First State bank in Dumas. Bank officials said no one knew the money was in the mail bags. They sometimes drive to Amarillo for cash and the money sometimes is sent by express, but seldom by mail, they said.

The money sack contained 50 twenty dollar bills, 100 ten dollar bills, 200 five dollar bills and 500 one dollar bills.

Station Agent C. G. Burchett, who reported the robbery when he opened the office, said it was customary for the mail bags to be left in the station until the postoffice was opened the following day.

SLAIN GIRL'S MOTHER HEARD

Choir Singer's Parents Are State Witnesses

defendant again early next morning—after 2 a. m.—sitting with head on arms, apparently disconsolate and worried, in the Blue Willow cafe at Aransas Pass.

Jealousy Motive

It was the contention of the state that the girl was last seen alive with Yarberry and that his motive for taking her life might have been jealousy.

Symons spoke mainly in monosyllables. He told how she had left home on the night of July 30 for choir practice and how he next had seen her "on the bay."

Yarberry, Symons testified, had been going with his step-daughter for about two years. Symons said he asked Yarberry immediately after her disappearance if he knew anything about it, but Yarberry replied he was home in bed and had no engagement that night with her.

Neck Scratched

The witness said he observed on the day the girl's body was found, that Yarberry had "scratches on his neck." The state attorney interrupted to ask what kind of finger nails the girl had. Symons replied "long, keen finger nails."

Other state witnesses, including J. E. Perkins, a laborer, and Tom Conner, himself once charged with the murder, but later cleared, had undergone a stiff questioning at the hands of defense attorneys.

Conner admitted having been in jail years ago on a bad check charge when defense attorneys attempted to discredit him as a witness.

Conner, who said he was a carpenter, testified he went with Dorothy to town on the night she disappeared and that she had told him then that she was going to meet Yarberry.

Crowd Tittered

Perkins, who first said he saw the young chorister walking toward a man he believed to be Yarberry, later, on cross-examination, said he assumed the man was Yarberry because he had seen her talking to him previously.

The last time, he said, in response to Nelson's somewhat edged question, that he did not know definitely whether the man in question was negro or white.

The courtroom was uncomfortably jammed. There was tittering in the crowd at times and now and then the court was forced to order people to sit down.

John Flynn Advances In Audition Contest

CITIES SEEK GAS RATE CUT

Four Counties Join in Protest at Munday

MUNDAY, Texas, Oct. 7.—Official representatives of the towns served by the Stamford and Western Gas company gathered here on Monday evening for the purpose of discussing means by which lower gas rates might be procured. The meeting was called by the city officials of Munday following a conference of officials of the towns in the meeting recently held at Fort Worth.

Joe A. Wheat, city attorney of Seymour, outlined the legal phase of the question and advised the city officials as to the proper steps to be taken in enacting rate-making ordinances. This matter was also discussed by Judge J. L. Lindsey, city attorney of Anson.

Rates Protested

A general discussion of the gas situation brought out the fact that practically every city official in the area served by the Stamford and Western company feels that the gas rates are too high and should be materially reduced, and that steps will be taken to bring about reductions. In fact, a resolution was offered by Mayor Emery Menefee of Haskell, and unanimously adopted, that the representatives of the various towns represented in this gathering pass rate-making ordinances in accordance to the laws outlined by Mr. Wheat.

M. L. Bird, a representative of the Lone Star Gas company, was present at the meeting and was called upon to make a talk. Mr. Bird outlined briefly the gas company's position, and stated that his company was operating at a loss at the present rate, due to the encroachments of other fuels, and that due to the low cost of fuel oil and other fuels his company had lost much of its commercial load.

Benjamin Explorers Penetrate Mysterious King County Cavern

Special to The Record News.

BENJAMIN, Texas, Oct. 7.—New explorations into the great cavern that lies 21 miles west of Benjamin, just over the King county line, this week took a party of 10 young men two miles into the blackness of the mysterious cave. The cavern, unnamed, has been a part of the tradition of the territory since cowboys 50 years ago found cold gyp water in its entrance.

The latest exploring party, believed to have pentrated into the darkness further than any previous discovers, carried lanterns and a ball of cord to mark their progress. Two Vernon youths joined the Benjamin expedition.

Walking in the face of a cold current of air, the explorers moved slowly along a subterranean river, from two to five feet deep. Room-like expansion opened at intervals, and branches led up into the darkness. The temperature ranged from 40 to 60 degrees.

The party failed to find another outlet to the cavern. They reported no stalagmite or stalactite formations, finding bats, catfish, white craw fish and crickets the only inhabitants of the cave.

IRA M'KEE TO DIE IN CHAIR

High Court Overrules Rehearing Plea

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (INS)—Ira McKee must die in the electric chair for the murder of W. R. Billingsley in Dawson county last year, the court of criminal appeals today having overruled a motion for a rehearing in the alleged slayer's case. The death sentence given McKee had already been affirmed by the high court.

According to the records in the case, McKee shot Billingsley when the latter attempted to prevent him robbing a widow's filling station in Sparenburg, Dawson county, on the night of May 1, 1930. At the time, McKee was en route to Hobbs, N. M., from Breckenridge for the stated purpose of opening a "beer joint," according to testimony. He had forced Mrs. Emma Mayhall and her small daughter of Breckenridge to accompany him on the trip, the state contended.

McKee was engaged in robbing a filling station operated by Mrs. Mary Bryce, a widow, and her crippled son, when Billingsley, a citizen of Sparenburg, approached with a shotgun to frustrate the robbery. McKee shot Billingsley and escaped.

In seeking a reversal in the case, the defense counsel claimed that the indictment had been returned by a grand jury drawn by a jury commission of five, instead of three.

Tillman Schools Release Students To Pick Cotton

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 7.—Between 500 and 1,000 bales of cotton are now being ginned daily at the 35 establishments in the county. There is still a dearth of pickers, not a bole having been picked in some fields. The prevailing price is 30 cents a hundred for picking and 35 cents a hundred for pulling. So far most of the cotton marketed has been picked. Nearly all of the schools outside of Frederick have closed temporarily so that the pupils can assist in gathering the crop. Among the latest town schools to close are Tipton, Manitou and Hollister.

So far the weather has been favorable for picking, the bright and warm days enabling the workers to get into the fields early in the morning. Little or no rain has fallen since picking began. A rain now would be of no benefit to the cotton as it could not cause more squares to form, as has been true in most years heretofore. In fact a rain now would hurt the staple and reduce the yield as the water would color the lint and would probably cause some of the bolls to shed.

It is so difficult to travel about the sandy portions of the county, principally near Red river and North Fork, that tractors are being used to haul loads of cotton instead of trucks.

Lost Ugly Fat

Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily dose of Kruschen Salts—has unburdened her body of 18 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter:—

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she had lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last, when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 159 lbs.—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way. I have enquired of my dressmaker my measurements, which in August last were:—Bust 40., Hips 43½, Waist 35½ inches. Last week they were:—Bust 38, Hips 40, Waist 31 inches, which is normal for my height, which is 5 ft. 8 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet."

(Mrs.) S. R., London, England

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last four weeks costs but 85 cents—Try one bottle—if not joyfully satisfied—money back.—Adv.

Make Dimes Count

These are days when wise spending is being practiced in the purchase of practically everything. People are getting their money's worth as never before. That's why 10,000 people every day are changing to St.Joseph's Aspirin. "St. Joseph's" is genuine, pure aspirin that meets every government standard. It has the exclusive feature of being wrapped in moisture-proof cellophane which assures you of getting not only genuine pure aspirin but aspirin that is fresh and full strength. When you ask for St.Joseph's you get 12 tablets of genuine, pure, fresh aspirin for 10c and thousands realize it is neither sensible nor necessary to pay more. Be safe, be economical, always ask for "the largest selling pure aspirin in the world for 10c"—St. Joseph's.

The fury of a woman scorned! I pitied but dared not warn her to be more careful about "B. O."

The OTHER WOMAN'S STORY

ROMANCE cannot live when carelessness about "B.O."—body odor—creeps in. Men instinctively turn from the girl, women shun the man who is guilty.

To this day she hates me—blames me for stealing him away. But it was her own carelessness that cost her his love.

Don't risk your happiness through over-confidence. Don't feel that you can never offend. Pores are constantly giving off odor-causing waste—a quart daily. We become so used to this ever-present odor that we don't notice "B.O." in ourselves. But others do—instantly!

Play safe. End all "B.O." danger the sure way. Not by trying to cover it up with powders and lotions but by keeping pores clean and deodorized. Frequent bathing with Lifebuoy will do it! Lifebuoy is different from ordinary toilet soaps. Its very smell is different—a pleasant, extra-clean scent that vanishes as you rinse. It lathers more abundantly—leaves you feeling fresher, cleaner. Its creamy, searching lather purifies pores—removes every trace of "B.O."

A complexion secret

"Don't be afraid of soap-and-water cleansing for your face," complexion authorities urge. There's no risk if the soap is as pure and bland as Lifebuoy. Work its gentle, pore-purifying lather well into the pores at night; then rinse. See how quickly dull complexions freshen and glow with healthy radiance.

Study Clubs Open Autumn Season With Luncheons

An invitation printed in old English in each Wednesday Study club yearbook was noted by its recipient as an invitation to the opening of the club season for that group Wednesday; it read "Your program committee requests the pleasure of your presence on Wednesday afternoon, the seventh of October, 1931, 1 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace," and below that was quoted "My worthy friends will you draw near? I'll tell you more anon."

Mrs. Wallace, who has been director of the club study since its organization, Mrs. Julian Montgomery, incoming president, Mesdames W. W. Cook and Glen E. Laskey, composing the yearbook committee, were hostesses at one of the prettiest luncheons of the autumn season.

A handsome imported cloth covered the long table in the dining room and an exquisite crystal service was used with an enormous crystal container filled with pink and red radiance roses and masses of ageratum furnishing an artistic color motif. In the drawing room library, small tables were covered with pretty Madeira cloths and dainty green vases in the centers were filled with clusters of the same blossoms.

Following luncheon, Mrs. Wallace gave a splendid paper dealing with the presentation of character by effects and using MacBeth, the play to be first studied as an exemplification of the exposition.

Act. 1, of MacBeth scenes one and two and part of scene three were read and studied.

Members present included Mesdames C. N. Alexander, Bert Bean, E. B. Carver, B. L. Fain, Ernest Fain, W. B. Hamilton, Carey Hunter, Sam Kruger, Everett Jones, Glen E. Laskey, Julian Montgomery, J. J. Perkins, W. W. Silk, Charles William Wallace, Townsend Chamberlain, F. R. Collard, Harry S. Davis, Bernard Martin, N. H. Martin, Walter Robbins and Frank P. Timberlake.

New Century Junior

Commemorating the tenth anniversary of the New Century Junior the members of the organization were entertained at a luncheon at the Forum clubhouse Wednesday noon. Arrangements were under the direction of Mesdames Chester Wynne, Paul Oles, Ted Krohn, and Eugene Clark, members of the social committee. The tables were prettily decorated with pink roses.

A resume of the past activities of the club and a challenge for the future was given by Mrs. Overton Abernathy, the retiring president. Mrs. Ray Arnhold, the newly-elected president, gave a clever response.

Covers were laid for Mesdames Eugene Clark, Paul Oles, Ray Putty, Dwight Ross, Chester Wynne, Overton Abernathy, Ray Arnhold, Dillard Anderson, Gordon West, O. B. Kiel, Ted R. Krohn, John W. Hampton, Joe Carrigan, Phillip Oviatt and Misses Crystelle Waggoner, Elva Killingsworth, Marguerite Fisher and one guest Miss Doris Boger.

Pleria Club

Mrs. J. E. H. Railey was hostess Wednesday to members of the Pleria club when their opening meeting was celebrated in a lovely luncheon. Autumn flowers expressed the chosen motif in yellow and green and favors were lovely crystal flowers in miniature holders.

During the three-course luncheon, Mrs. Ralph DeShong, the incoming president, gave the message to the members and Mrs. Wm. Bratton responded graciously.

Mrs. James G. Oakley, chairman of the program committee, outlined the coming year's work and told of the features in the study of ancient Rome chosen for 1931-32.

Mrs. W. F. Newberry was welcomed as a new member and others present at the inaugural meeting were Mesdames Wm. D. Bratton, Ralph DeShong, P. R. Freeman, W. W. Haney, T. D. Moore, James G. Oakley, M. L. Stephens, Allen B. Duncan, Miss Clara Schulz, the hostess, Mrs. J. E. H. Railey, and one guest, Mrs. J. E. Hall.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Yes, autumn has come. One can notice in Wichita Falls that the sycamores have grown sere and yellow—at least sere—and they're always dropping leaves that are blown into some one else's yard.

People who have elms and maples and hackberry trees around their homes are quite as much disgusted in the autumn with sycamore trees as people planting spring gardens are with chickens at that time.

Tolerance is a great virtue; so great is seems that it can never be dragged into discussions of chickens and sycamore leaves.

I speak as if I were an expert on diagnosing tolerance, but I recognize my narrowness in many things.

Speaking of which, Dr. Logan Clendenning, in a new book to be published this autumn, says the trouble is people know too much. "Too many prophets and too many theories," he insists. He mentions Shaw, Bertrand Russell, Stopes, Ben Lindsey and Clarence Darrow as a group of theorists with all of them offering a contradictory plan.

Following the cults is almost always an indefinite proceeding. I know a woman who was at first just plain normal. Things becoming dull in her life, she turned vegetarian and led me a life because I ate "poor little lambs and calves and birds and fish," even though she had no hesitancy about hunting birds or angling for fish.

She dropped that fad in time and took up the latest in psycho-analysis. Without any training save one book, she took up the work and collected many a dollar from simple souls, full of faith—in other words, morons.

She was abroad when I last heard of her and since the heyday of psycho-analysis has passed, I would not be at all surprised to hear of her joining one of the nudist colonies in Germany.

In such manner she keeps up an interest in life; I cannot imagine her quiet in her grave. Eternally on the outlook for a new excitement, rest and quiet are things she has never known.

I have known couples who could get no common joy out of an evening together at home. To stay at home was the most boring thing possible unless some one was coming in for some game.

As soon as dinner was over, they would go out to find a game of bridge or, failing that, to see a picture show.

It is a pity that minds as well as souls and bodies may not be mated. For husbands and wives to also be friends is a "consummation devoutly to be wished."

Arno Art Study Club Meets at Hoffman Home

Aspirations of artists and art lovers of Wichita Falls culminated in the organization of the Arno Art Study club which has just held its first meeting at the home of Mrs. Luther Hoffman in Country Club Estates. The group's objective is the study of art history and appreciation and because the Arno Art course offers hundreds of facsimile prints of masterpieces of art in museums all over the world, the club adopted this course.

Mrs. Hoffman led the first program in a round table discussion in which all members participated. The "Sistine Madonna" was the picture studied most deeply during the hour as that example of Raphael's work is said to be the best example of good composition in art. Its balance, harmony and unity were pointed out. Other pictures by old masters were compared in these qualities to the "Sistine Madonna."

The Arno Art Study club has been invited, with the Delphian club which is also studying art, to meet with the art department of the Woman's Forum Thursday, Oct. 15, at 3:30 o'clock. At that time a joint study of masterpieces of Italian art will form the program. An invitation has been extended to all art lovers of the city and particularly the art teachers of the school.

Miss Isla Mae Chitwood will direct the play and during the evening several musical numbers and interesting readings will be given. Home made candy and lemonade will be sold.

The play will be given in the basement of the church, opening at 7:30 o'clock, Friday evening.

1930 Study Club

Mrs. Roy Grimes was hostess to members of the 1930 Study club Wednesday when the first of their United States programs was given. Mrs. E. D. Malone called 20 members to order and presided in a short business session. Mrs. Dudley Foy took charge of the program.

A map study of the United States was conducted by Mrs. Faye Hardeman who outlined the boundaries, told of the native resources, the climate and industries of the country then called the roll of the states and had the members give the names of capitals. She concluded her interesting lesson with a talk on Washington, D. C.

Five new members were added to the roll, including Mesdames Newman Hill, D. P. Moore, F. H. Harrison, L. E. Harris and E. J. Killeles. In the social hour, a dainty refreshment plate was served to them and to Mesdames George Mobley, P. F. Richardson, R. K. Pond, D. B. Foy, J. M. Bradshaw, Clyde Murph, Faye Hardeman, E. D. Malone, J. H. Campbell, J. J. Fite, Floyd Tate, Ray Thompson, Horace Mostelles, John Swaim and the hostess, Mrs. Grimes.

Texas Study Club

Mrs. Noel Brashear was hostess to members of the Texas Study club and after a short business session, a criticism of "The Well of Loneliness," by Radcliff Hall, formed an interesting program.

Mrs. H. J. Hughey read a paper on the character "Stephen" in the book and Mrs. J. F. Clary led the round table discussion.

In a social half hour, a dainty ice course was served to eight members.

Central American Coffees

A Folger Coffee Expert inspects new crops of rare mountain coffees

From tiny mountain plantations made capsule brings the crops to market

Why Not Try These Amazing Mountain Coffees, In Which Nature Herself Leaves Out Rank Noxious Oils

DRINK all the coffee you like, doctors now tell us. For within reason, coffee—real coffee—is not only good, but good for you.

There's only one thing to fear in coffee. The so-called "ills" of coffee, such as indigestion and nervousness, they now tell us actually come from rank, noxious oils that abound in cheap, doubtful coffee.

So let your taste be your guide. The finest, richest, and most invigorating coffee is probably safest from distressing after effect. That is why thousands are changing to Folger's.

From Central America

Folger's is not just another "brand" of coffee. It's a different kind. It is made from Central American coffee—high grown, in which nature herself leaves out the rank, offensive oils. Furthermore, it comes to you packed in key-opening vacuum tins as fresh as it was 30 minutes after it left the roaster.

Only recently we received reports from 2,571 doctors* who, after testing samples of Folger's coffee, confirm what we say about it.

Try Folger's for a week. Note its finer flavor. Note its wonderful invigoration. Note its after-effects. If you do this, we'll wager you'll never go back to ordinary, and doubtful coffees.

*Signed statements to this effect, from 2,571 physicians who have actually tested Folger's Coffee, are on file in our offices. 124

Folger protects you against stale coffee by packing this coffee in the latest improved, key-opening vacuum tins.

Every pound of Folger's is guaranteed to reach you as fresh as it was 30 minutes after it left the roaster.

Remember this: No matter when or where you buy it, this coffee is FRESH.

How to make Children EAT

DON'T force children to eat! The girl or boy who has no appetite has stasis—which means the child is sluggish. But catharties have caused more constipation than they ever cured! The "California treatment" is best—just pure fig syrup. Try this for just a few days and then see how eagerly your youngster will eat!

How to Conquer Sluggishness

Stimulate the colon and that child with a finicky appetite will devour everything set before him. Here's the simple treatment that does more for babies or older children than all the diets, fad foods, or tonics.

Nature has provided the only "medicine" you'll need to stir a child's colon muscles into proper action. California fig syrup. Pure, delicious, harmless. It acts on the lower colon—where the trouble is. It has no effect whatever on the twenty feet of intestines which should not be disturbed.

Begin tonight, with the wonderful "California treatment." Any druggist has California fig syrup, all bottled, with directions. Use enough the first time to cleanse the clogged colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. It may take a month if a child is all run down, but isn't it worth it, to have constipation conquered? And whenever a cold or other upset clogs the system again, use this natural vegetable laxative instead of drastic drugs.

WARNING

The fact that California fig syrup is bought to benefit little children does not discourage some storekeepers from offering an imitation. Be sure the bottle says CALIFORNIA Fig Syrup, and you'll get the pure, unadulterated article.

Keep on your Feet 4 MORE ACTIVE DAYS

Any Day... But "This"

DOESN'T it always happen? You can't go that day . . . because the calendar says "no"!

Are your trips spoiled . . . dates broken . . . because of this age-old curse?

Be modern! Don't suffer unnecessarily. Girls nowadays keep on their feet . . . free from the strain of those trying times.

One girl tells another . . . and the news quickly spreads. "Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," they say.

That's the way to keep happy and strong. It regulates the system. Relieves the pain.

Try it! Buy a box of the new tabloids. Just mention Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to the clerk in the drug store . . . and avoid all embarrassing conversation.

How Do Dancers Manage?

The professional engagements of a dancer make no allowance for the trying time of a woman's monthly sickness. Yet her menstruating must not interfere with her easy, effortless performance. Such women do not "fight" periodic pain, but avoid it. They use Midol, and do not suffer even a twinge of menstrual pain. Why don't you meet these monthly emergencies with this remarkable modern discovery? Midol takes pain off the calendar. Monthly martyrdom is foolish. For Midol is as harmless as the aspirin tablet you take for your headache! All drug stores; just ask for Midol.

The Missouri-Kansas-Texas assessment was reduced from $29,554,000 to $29,528,253, while the Rock Island valuation was cut from $41,073,070 to $41,017,056.

U. S. Allows Six Cents a Pound On Cotton to Meet Seed Loans

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 7.—Six cents a pound will be allowed as collateral on cotton when applied as repayment on money borrowed from the federal government to purchase seed, according to a message received late Tuesday afternoon from the Farmers Seed Loan office in the United States department of agriculture, St. Louis, Mo. This is in place of a moratorium which had been requested by many. Because of the low price of cotton, four cents a pound or less, growers were not able to save anything for repaying the government loan after paying for picking and ginning and some of the farmers planned on abandoning their crops.

Because of this condition a meeting was held Tuesday by the county commissioners, Tillman county loan committee and L. H. Beaty, county agent ,when after some discussion the following message was sent to the government seed loan office at St. Louis.

"We understand that farmers paying on seed loans will be allowed six cents a pound until the note is paid. Please wire details collect.

"Price of cotton here is four cents a pound. Seed loans and other debts cannot be paid with cotton. An immediate moratorium on government loan is necessary to save the farmers of this section from ruin. Morale of farmers broken. If an extension is not granted anything might happen."

This elicited the following reply: "Department will allow as collateral six cents a pound on cotton where stored in bonded warehouses. When sufficient cotton has been stored to fully repay loan plus reasonable amount for storage and insurance charges remaining portion of crops will be waived."

Graham Charity Work Reorganized

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Oct. 7.—The Graham Rotary club entertained members of the school faculty with an informal affair at the local country club.

Following the supper which was served in cafeteria style a program of entertainment was given under the direction of Horace Tidwell, chairman of the social committee of the Rotary club. Miss Louise Scott gave "That Old Sweetheart of Mine" as a reading. She was accompanied by Mrs. Will Gruby at the piano. Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith, one of the teachers, played "No Body Knows the Trouble I've Seen" on the violin. Boyd Street, president of the Rotary club, humorously introduced the teachers, drawing the most applause to Miss Nell Sammons, one of the teachers of the Graham schools for a number of years. Miss Kathryne Boone led the group in a number of stunts.

School Enrollment in Haskell Shows Increase

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, Oct. 7.—One hundred more students are enrolled in the Haskell public schools this year than were enrolled last year at the same time, according to a report issued by Superintendent C. B. Breedlove.

Two hundred and five pupils are enrolled in the high school according to the report. The total for the entire school being 718 in all grades.

FREE BRIDGE WORK PUSHED

Material on Hand for Altus-Vernon Span

Special to The Record News.

SAYRE, Okla., Oct. 7.—Advice has been received from the contractor on the free bridge across Red river between Altus, Okla., and Vernon, Texas, on the Canada-to-Gulf highway, U. S. highway 283, that material is on the ground sufficient to insure uninterrupted progress and that the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible. It is planned to complete the construction of the bridge by Jan. 1.

Work on the bridge was delayed about two months after the contract was let waiting for the work order, but it is hoped that a good portion of the lost time can be made up as a result of the dry weather which has made it unusually easy to make soundings and set pilings preparatory to the superstructure.

Jim Reed Sends Congratulations To T. H. McGregor

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (AP)—"As one fighting man to another—" wrote former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri to his long-time friend, former State Senator T. H. McGregor of Austin, congratulating the Texas legislator (he now is a member of the house) for his dissertation of recent day in which he took Gov. Huey P. Long of Louisiana to task.

McGregor had objected to the Louisiana state executive's reaching over into Texas to try to persuade farmers of the Lone Star state to condemn their legislators because the lawmakers refused to accept Governor Long's "no cotton in 1932" plan as a cure for overproduction and ruinous prices in the South.

Reed and McGregor were fast friends back in the Show Me state some years ago, where McGregor lived for 10 years before he migrated to Texas.

Incidentally, McGregor is advocating Reed for the Democratic party presidential nomination. McGregor has a wide following in the state and any candidate for the nomination should be glad to get his support.

He proposed in a resolution, which was defeated in the legislature, a presidential preferential primary in this state to ascertain the choice of the Democrats for president. Under his plan the delegates to the national convention would be prorated among the nominees on a basis of the voters they obtained in the primary.

The legislature voted against the plan, but the margin was only four votes in the house, with 84 voting. The idea is not dead, however, since the state executive committee could adopt it without sanction of the legislative body. McGregor will push it before the committee. Evidently he believes strongly his Missouri friend could fare splendidly in a popular vote in Texas.

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas is responsible for 7.5 per cent of the total mineral production of the United States with 1929 (census bureau figures) production of $438,706,000 of which petroleum contributed $323,540,667. Cement $11,805,000, asphalt $946,000, lignite $1,600,000, gypsum $3,440,000, lime $838,000, natural gas $67,474,000, natural gasoline $26,561,000 were major contributors with fullers earth, graphite, mercury, salt, manganese, basalt, greensand and silver and gold accounting for the remainder.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

News from Washington is that already Southwestern farmers who borrowed from the drouth relief last year are repaying their loans. Arkansas, hardest hit and largest borrower, leads in payments, Texas is second, Oklahoma third. Even at record low prices the Southwest in general and Texas in particular, are getting much money from crops that are record-breaking in size if not in value. Cash returns are available for debts and for reserves largely because of the economy with which the crops were made and of the living-at-home program being generally followed to a greater extent than in recent Texas history . . . Wise county canned 216,000 quarts of fruits and vegetables this year, has stored many dry crops for the winter. During the summer Wise county farmers transformed $298.20 worth of livestock into $1,272.60 worth of canned meats . . . Delta county farmers put up 45,000 cans of foodstuffs. Midland county, which last year put up 20,000 cans of foods, increased its canning 450 per cent this year with 90,000 cans and reports many families with 400 to 500 cans of foodstuffs that had none a year ago. . . . Texas pecan crop is estimated at $3,200,000 this year. Texas turkey crop, yielding $6,500,000 income last year, is about the same this year as last . . . Howard county farmers are storing their surplus feedstuffs in trench silos and building the silos themselves. Stephens county farmer is selling 1,500 gallons of syrup from a small irrigated field. Limestone county farmer has sold 2,000 pounds of fall tomatoes, expects to sell 4,000 pounds more, and to get more from his three-acre tomato patch than from 15 bales of cotton. Castro county farmer, refusing to sell his wheat at market prices, fed it to chickens with a skim-milk ration and figures he got 90c a bushel for his wheat. Hill county has received $125,000 in the first nine months of the year from butter and eggs and chickens. Kerens counts on excelling its five-car record of native pecan shipments of last year. . . Atlanta business men are financing purchase by farmers of dairy cattle. One carload brought in August was sold and applications received for 27 more cows. Atlanta Chamber of Commerce buys a carload from the Lassiter herd and places 18 cows and heifers and one bull in that trade territory.

Ice patrol vessels of the U. S. coast guard cover a radius of from 5,000 to 6,000 miles in their search for icebergs.

Then there's the hopeful rum runner who believes the government's plan to cut down navy expenses will reduce the coast guard fleet.

Still, there must be a silver lining to the gold situation.

President Hoover's Program

AFTER many months of inaction President Hoover has come forth with a program designed to expand credit, stop hoarding, restore confidence and to permit the natural flow of trade and money. In the main it has received the support of leaders of both political parties. One of the most encouraging sentences in the dispatches received from Washington reporting the conference at which the program was discussed was that which said that President Hoover's statement for the press following the conference was substantially the same as that which he read to the conferees upon their assemblage. This is an assurance that the president has a program and the courage to put it through. It is a change from his previous attitude that the depression would wear itself out and that there was nothing for the government to do about it. Under that attitude the depression grew steadily worse, unemployment increased, values were steadily being wiped out, hoarding increased, credit tightened, banks suspended and what was an industrial depression was rapidly approaching a financial crisis.

In the face of such a panic President Hoover has been stirred to action. That the action came after hundreds and even thousands of banks had been forced to suspend and millions of depositors had lost billions must continue a reflection upon the administration.

A summary of President Hoover's program is given as follows:

1.—Formation of a bankers corporation with at least $500,000,000 to rediscount banking assets not now eligible at federal reserve banks. Many bankers have assented to this. The New York Clearing House association already has pledged $150,000,000. Secretary of Treasury Mellon said the remainder would be raised without difficulty.

2.—Appointment of bankers committees by federal reserve banks to make advances on assets of closed banks to release locked deposits.

3.—Action by congress to broaden the federal reserve act to give great liquidity to the assets of federal reserve banks.

4.—If necessary, Mr. Hoover will recommend creation of a finance corporation with funds sufficient for any legitimate credit demands.

5.—Advance of additional government capital to federal land banks to provide greater credit for farmers.

This program has received the support of the leaders in congress whom President Hoover called into conference. It has apparently received instant approval of the whole country. Several of the items of the program and particularly that for action by congress to broaden the federal reserve act to give greater liquidity to the assets of the federal reserve banks had been proposed many times. Many have believed that action alone would have loosened credit and greatly ameliorated the financial situation.

There appears little occasion for the secrecy which the administration has maintained regarding the discussions which led up to the conference at the White House and the announcement of the program that followed the conference. Had the people been given the news the president would have found strength for his hand and perhaps the people of the country would have found encouragement that would have warded off some of the crashes that have happened in recent weeks.

But we come not to condemn the president for the program he has now laid before the people, but to approve it so far as it goes. May he be spurred by the great force of approval to immediate and forceful action.

New Women's Standard

IN THE past the wage of the working woman was generally based on the assumption that she was a single person, with no one but herself to support and with no intention of continuing in her job for more than a few years. Now Miss Mary Elizabeth Pidgeon of the women's bureau, U. S. department of labor, points out that a new standard is badly needed.

In many cases the woman in industry is the family breadwinner. In an increasing number of cases she expects to stick to the job most or all of her life. Furthermore, her wages are figured by the week, whereas the true test of their adequacy must be based on her entire year's income.

It is significant, too, that in the majority of 11,000 cases recently studied by the women's bureau the yearly incomes were too low for adequate living.

General Butler Quits

WHEN Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler reviewed his marines for the last time at Quantico, Va., the other day, prior to his retirement from the service, his voice broke and he told the leathernecks huskily, "You have given me something to remember the rest of my life."

His emotion is easily understood. He will take many memories with him when he goes to private life. It must be a wrench for an officer to lay aside his uniform after 33 years of service, much of which has been, in the fullest sense of the word, "active" service.

But it works both ways. If the marines have given General Butler a lot to remember, he himself has given the marines plenty to remember, too. His occasional indiscretions may have made some of us forget the fact that he has been an exceptionally useful and gallant officer. The marine corps, caring nothing for his indiscretions, will keep his gallantry in mind for a long, long time.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down A Few Notes

Dear W. W.: Mr. Atkinson, the Times critic, called...Wants you, among other oracles, at the Harvard club Friday at 1:30 p. m., for a luncheon in honor of Sidney Carroll, head of the London Critics' Circle...I tried to say you couldn't get up that early, but he had hung up...The Broadway banks which stay open till 10:30 at night are considering closing down at 4 p. m...Seems that it doesn't pay them anymore...Rudy Vallee called. Said your line about his clothes not fitting him in the show is all wet... That he only wears one ill-fitting suit in a scene because he is supposed to look like a hick...Eddie's wife told me a humorous story about Capt. Frank Hawks and his wife...Seems that the time-destroying flier had just flown in from some very far away place in about an hour...When he got to their apartment later she was weeping... "You make me sick," she said, "why don't you phone me every time you make a safe landing?"..."Oh," groaned the human bullet, "what do you expect me to do—tell you every time I turn around?"

Did you know that Sawyer, the music critic on the Post, is a direct descendant of Adams, our 2nd President?...And that Thornton Delehanty of the same staff is ditto to the brother of Geo. Washington?...You'd better square things with the Mrs....She is furious because Gloria said that you told her that there really isn't a Santa and that Gloria said she always wondered how one man could go around the world in two days...are no secrets sacred to you?...Told Miss Wahl about the RKO office letter and it made her very happy...Elmer Kenyon, formerly press agent for the Theater Guild, now is head of Carnigie Tech drama school!

Here's a little gossip about Max Reinhardt...All Berlin is chattering about him and why he imported that ballet from that nearby country instead of using a German ballet...Seems that Herr Reinhardt had been favored with a quiet divorce in that Slav country (it was the only place he could get a divorce without having papers served on his wife), and it was in gratitude to that country that he is using their ballet for his "Shoene Hellene"...What people over there are wondering about is whether his plans to make Helen Thimig a greater actress will turn out okay ...She's the new interest...One critic of yours says he just found out why you are working for that hair-waving product on the radio ...Because they needed someone to put a crimp in women's hair, and nobody can get into a person's hair like you can.

Tilden and Richards clash for the last time tomorrow and Sunday at the Hamilton Courts, Dyckman Street, and they will appreciate your so reminding tennis fans... Don't forget my check, please, plus $2.75 for incidentals, including carfare for the boy to place the proof under your door...Did you hear anything about a change in editors on a theatrical rag?...The freshies are now using a new approach on girls: "Gee, baby, you look like you escaped from the cover of a magazine!"..."Cat and Fiddle" show is trying to bag Evelyn Laye ...Ran into Inez Courtney and Stanley Pascal...They said to tell you that they won't wed until the depression ends, which means never, I suppose...That contrib who nailed you with the Britannia rules the waves (waves the rules) crack swiped it...Appeared on the editorial page in a cartoon weeks ago ...And in a British magazine many months ago!

Just heard why Ethel Merman had trouble with arrangements of songs in "Scandals"...Johnny Green, who wrote so many hits, wanted something like $5,000 to arrange two songs, so what could a rich star like Ethel do?...Norma Terris will sing your favorite song from "Show Boat" on your broadcast Tuesday night...Did you know some of your syndicated rags are using your broadcasts the same night (after the talk) or following morning...They are paying the tolls, too...Not a bad idea...Catholics are only forbidden to read Dumas, according to several calls today...Better say so...A lot of the milliners who find themselves stuck with those Eugenie lids, according to F. K., just found out that the Empress was nertz, so they are calling her The Mad Hatter.

...George White is going to Honolulu...Max Gordon may take Bing Crosby for a new show...Remind me to tell you how a certain suddenly rich producer lost his millions and why...He's broke, now... Sorry about Dudley...After columning 25 years, too...The melancholy Tommy Lyman is back at the 61 Club and wants you to call him...Does he sing those torch songs as grand as ever?...If you look at the huge sign on the Gaiety Theater you'll notice the announcement of the new show, "Cherries Are Ripe," is half finished, and won't be...The play won't come to town...Jack Buchanan continues in his London show, although he is very ill...Don't forget the Cotton Club new show, Oct. 11...Did you know it is against the law to repeat anything the President of the U. S. might tell you?

The way most Europeans talk to royalty these days.

You had that wrong about pirates of columnar material...The law says that the lifted of copyrighted stuff must pay $250 for each edition and $1 for every copy printed, plus attorney and court costs...I hear that sturgeon, which the Joosh people like to devour a lot, is not kosher food because it is a scaleless fish...A rabbi told me... There's talk about the Pulitzers reentering the newspaper field. Herbert Pulitzer is waiting for the depression to be all over—and I don't mean all over town...Here's a hot one...That bank on the side street in the latter 40s had to complain watching the undraped burlesque girls in the stage entrance next door—Seems that depositors thought there was a run on the bank...I killed that quip in the column because you ran it a year ago and it was your own!...I mean: "The trouble with her is that she's everybody's old girl!"...I feel awful...That dumb fool didn't bring me my opium today... EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE MAN WITHOUT A SKULL—Douglas Ellis had the harrowing experience of having been officially pronounced dead after a terrific electric shock, but he was revived and today he has completely recovered. He now lives at 8 Strachan avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

On May 28, 1926, while Ellis was working at the Eugenia power house of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Co., his head came in contact with a 22,000 volt line while he was standing on a grounded pipe structure. Artificial respiration revived him, but his injuries were so serious that he spent almost two years in a hospital. During these two years he had over 60 square inches of his skull removed.

Ellis now wears a Bakelite "skull-cap" to prevent any injury to his head.

THE GIRL WHO WON

By May Christie

Mrs. Judson asks Nollie to become her secretary and visit her ranch.

Young and vivacious Nollie Day, public stenographer at an exclusive New York hotel, is befriended by the wealthy Mrs. Judson, a widow. One evening, Nollie goes to the theater in place of Mrs. Judson, where she meets handsome Tony O'Brien. She reveals her own identity but Tony does not hear her. Later in the evening she restrains from repeating her explanation for fear that Tony would lose interest when he learned the truth. Next day, Tony telephones and learns Mrs. Judson has gone abroad. Disbelieving the report, he comes to the hotel. He looks at Nollie without recognition but she believes it is because he has discovered her masquerade. Before Nollie can reach him, he disappears. Nollie secures a new position as secretary to Jack Brilling of Galbraith & Co. Miss Galbraith, Brilling's fiancee is jealous when Brilling takes Nollie to dinner and warns Nollie against overstepping. Brilling tells Nollie he loves her.

Miss Galbraith enters the office just as Nollie frees herself from Brilling's embrace. Nollie is discharged.

Mrs. Judson gives Nollie a letter Tony had written her abroad. Intending to help Nollie and set the matter straight, she phones Tony to learn he has left on a vacation.

A good-looking young man offered her a sandwich.

CHAPTER XXIII

The limousine bearing Mrs. Judson and Nollie Day in its luxurious interior bowled swiftly towards Westchester.

It was a golden day, with a light breeze. Nollie's heart felt light as a feather.

Who knows what she might meet at the end of the road? Weren't her feet set on the path of adventure?

In her new $5-a-pair shoes that she had bought today her feet looked elegant. The flowered chiffon dress she wore was pretty as could be. Under the wide droop of her new blue hat, the blue of her eyes was vivid with excitement.

Magic worlds were opening now to this young girl. The turmoil of New York was left behind. Her thoughts soared, and the purr of the limousine made a running accompaniment.

Luxury! Beauty! Peace!

Nollie leaned back on the soft cushions and relaxed.

A sweet breeze, perfumed with the scent of green and growing things, caressed her face. Her heart was full of dreams, but with an underlying excitement.

"Well, my dear, you look as though you'd just stepped into a million dollars."

So spoke Jinny Judson as she lighted a cigaret from an electric gadget.

"I feel that way. You don't know what it means to me—this trip."

"Enthusiastic child! Wonderful to be your age—and full of pep."

"It was wonderful of you to think of taking me along," said Nollie gratefully, "you don't know what a Good Samaritan you've been to me. I'll never forget it."

"Nonsense. I'm as selfish as the next one. And I like having you along." But Jinny Judson was touched.

It was a new experience to her to be with anyone who could enjoy little things with such intensity. The "verve" that Nollie brought to everything was a great gift.

The countryside grew prettier, and soon there was the salty tang of the sea.

The car bowled swiftly over the perfectly smooth roads. It all seemed like a dream to Nollie . . . this turn in her affairs . . . this feeling of luxury.

Then she remembered that Mrs. Judson hadn't said a word about a salary.

But that would be all right, Nollie felt sure. Whatever Mrs. Judson might or might not be, and erratic as certainly she was, she was generous.

The car turned to the right and went down a long winding road.

"We're nearly there. There'll be a swift crowd. But it will be amusing."

Nollie saw herself reflected in the mirror of the limousine.

She was well dressed. There was refinement in her face as well as beauty. She needn't be afraid of any of them.

The car swerved into a carriage drive and presently drew up at the back of a big mansion.

There were wide lawns to the right, and an enchanting vista of water.

The door was opened at their ring by an English butler.

He led the way through a wide hall to a sort of sun parlor to the right of the house.

A dozen people were making merry there over an enormous silver bowl with a dipper in it, and filled with a heart-warming liquid. There was no sign of the host.

Other people strolled in the bright sunshine on the lawns that had a magnificent view over the water.

Through the open door and windows came the chug-chug of speedboats, and the brave flutter of sails. Not far away, a beautiful yacht rode at anchor.

Jinny Judson knew a number of these people who were congregated by the drinks. She presented Nollie to them carelessly as "my friend, Miss Day." Nollie felt rather embarrassed.

How wide apart her life had been from theirs, these gay, rich people!

Well, live in the passing moment. Enjoy the warmth and sunshine and good cheer. Be—what was the word?—a little salamander.

She was as good as they, down in her heart. She'd watch them, just the same—study them—learn of the social world from them.

Well, some of their behavior did not merit imitating!

A small woman, very flushed with drink, was making extraordinary goo-goo eyes at a boy half her age. She wasn't merely making eyes but making love to him—quite noisily. The boy looked bored.

A rotund man in golfing tweeds was being very hilarious with a couple of fast-looking women. He kept thrusting the silver dipper deep into the bowl, and pushing drinks at them.

Indeed, most of the dozen people in the charming sun parlor were already—at half past four in the afternoon—what they themselves would have described as "pleasantly jingled."

Seeing their flushed faces, their more or less ardent gestures towards each other, hearing their loud jokes and louder laughter, Nollie was slightly disconcerted.

But listen. Learn. Get the right perspective.

Above all, don't be narrow-minded. Don't set yourself up you ignoramus, as a judge over others.

Thus Nollie apostrophized herself.

A good-looking young man offered her a sandwich. A footman brought her a cup of tea. The fat fellow in the golfing togs stopped flirting with his women long enough to press a cocktail on her.

"No, thanks. No, really. I don't care for drinks at all."

"Good heavens! A liquorless lady in this house! I never heard of such a thing!"

Nollie smilingly, albeitly firmly, declined his overtures. "I'm all right with my cup of tea, thanks."

She tasted caviar, thereafter, for the first time in her life.

That must be a cultivated taste. She thought the wet, slushly particles were horrid.

Then the nice-looking boy took her out to the lawns for a game of clock golf.

More and more people kept arriving. Presently Mrs. Judson came up to Nollie with a tall, thin man who proved to be the host.

"My little friend, Miss Day. I'm taking her up to the ranch with me."

At that moment, from behind, Mrs. Judson was greeted by a loud feminine "Hello, Jinny."

They swung around. There stood a chic, tall blond.

"Why, Rhoda Vane, what are you doing here? I thought you were still in the south of France!" exclaimed the widow.

"No. I got hankering for the sight of 'someone' over here. Isn't love grand?" drawled the imperious beauty.

Prof. Irving Fisher Says Bond Holders to Lead Way to Recovery

By BOYD LEWIS
(Copyright, 1931, by United Press)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 7.—Professor Irving Fisher of Yale believes purchase of bonds by the Federal Reserve bank would greatly assist economic recovery in the United States.

"If we can put more money, more buying power, into circulation through the purchase of bonds by the Federal Reserve bank or otherwise," he told the United Press in an exclusive interview today, "we can partially restore price levels and reduce debt.

"Prosperity will return as soon as the price level rises," he declared, adding, however, that the rise must come naturally and not through arbitrary establishment of higher prices.

U. S. First to Recover

The United States can solve its problems independent of Europe and will be the first nation to recover from the world-wide depression, the economist asserted.

Solution of the problems of ailing business does not lie in "Polyanna statements" or "buy now" slogans, Professor Fisher cautioned. "Saying 'buy now' is like telling a child 'don't put a bean in your ear,'" he explained. "It only produces the opposite reaction. People become alarmed and hoard money."

He said full realization of the importance of the current situation was delayed by optimistic statements issued by "the president and others in high station."

Three factors, he said, underline the present depression:

1. Debts.
2. Fall of prices and resultant distress selling.
3. Psychological factor.

"Fundamentally the current depression dates back to the world war," said Professor Fisher. "The tremendous war debts are in a large measure responsible and ought to be canceled. It would pay all the creditor nations to cancel war debts."

Liquidation Started

Under the staggering burden of debts, liquidation began, the professor explained. This resulted in fall of prices and this in turn caused distress selling. Fall of prices increased the aggregate debt in proportion to the fall.

"Distress selling led to lower prices, which worked untold harm. Falling prices caused unemployment and wage cutting. This necessitated liquidation—but the liquidation failed to liquidate."

The great effect of the present economic situation will be a transfer of wealth from one class to another, Professor Fisher believes. There has been but little loss of wealth; wealth has merely been redistributed. Bondholders and others with fixed incomes are the only ones not suffering from the situation, he declared.

"Ultimately the bondholders will lead us out of the depression," said the economist.

(Professor Fisher's views on wage cutting will be presented in a later article.)

ALLEN, MOYLE TELL OF TRIP

Pacific Fliers Got Food With Slingshot

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 7. (AP)—Safe in Tacoma after a flight from Skagway, Alaska, Don Moyle and Cecil Allen told today of their experiences while flying over the Bering sea in an attempt to make a non-stop dash from Japan to America.

The California aviators arrived here last night, just a month after leaving Samushiro Beach, Japan. Moyle said they struck a storm and headwind the first night out which cut their flying speed to around 30 miles an hour.

"We flew on through that night and the next day, expecting any minute to be our last. Funny thoughts strike a man at a time like that. I wasn't afraid to die, but—there was a girl down South, my fiancee, and my folks, and I knew how they would worry."

Moyle said they sighted an island in the Aleutian chain when they had gasoline left for only about nine hours' flying and he landed the plane in a creek valley.

"We were there five days," he said. "There was no food, and we were getting weaker all the time. Finally we made a sling shot out of some rubber bands with a pair of pliers for the crotch, and shot two sea gulls. Cecil found some mussels when the tide was out, and we had a feast and got back enough strength to get our motor going."

They headed for Miano Pilgina, Siberia, and landed by a salmon cannery. The Russians gave them food and clothing.

"The only thing we could get for fuel," Moyle said, "was some sort of stuff they used for thinning paint on the salmon cans, so we loaded up on that and managed to get the motor started."

They flew later to Nome. Bad weather delayed their trip from Alaska to the United States.

Health and Diet Advice

Clams and Oysters

These two most prolific shellfish are similar in composition. They were probably among the first animal foods to be eaten by primitive man. Oysters and small clams are readily digestible when raw, even though the flesh is swallowed whole. When cooked they are a little more difficult to digest and should be well chewed.

Oysters contain 86.8 water, 6.5 protein, 1.2 fat, and 3.5 of mineral matter, being especially rich in chlorine, sulphur, phosphorus and sodium. Clams are almost of the same composition, but contain a little less protein, fat and carbohydrates, but more of the mineral matter.

Both of these are highly acid-forming and should therefore, be used with a large quantity of the non-starchy vegetables to provide an alkaline balance.

While the smaller clams may be served raw as oysters are, the larger ones are more tasteful broiled, fried, steamed, baked or stewed. The best flavor probably comes out in clam chowder or upon roasting over coals.

Neither of these two are very rich in nourishment, although they make a pleasant addition to the menu. It has been stated that over a dozen oysters are required to produce an equal food value to one egg.

Many people believe that oysters should be eaten only during the months in which "R" occurs in order to avoid the spawning season, but, while this is true of the northeast and New York oysters, it is not true of Chesapeake bay, the greatest oyster source. In southern waters the spawning season may occur at any time of the year.

Canned oysters are as wholesome as the fresh, and may be obtained at any season. Oysters may be shipped alive in good condition for several days. There is, of course, more danger of the oyster becoming decomposed during the warm weather, but careful packing in refrigerator cars would prevent this.

At one time it was the practice to raise oysters in beds where city sewage was dumped and this resulted in cases of contamination and typhoid. This danger hardly exists at the present time, as the government exercises a careful supervision over the beds and harvesting of the oyster.

The best portion of clams and oysters is the muscular tissue. Because these shellfish are scavengers all of the stomach and intestinal portions should be discarded. Their stomach may contain an accumulation of rotting proteing material which they have sucked up from the ocean bed. We occasionally may read of a case of acute poisoning because of this, and since there is no method of telling whether or not this is the case, it is better to discard this portion of the oyster or clam.

While I cannot consider clams and oysters as especially healthy foods, they may be used occasionally, for variety, by those in good health.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Possibly Rickets

Question—Mrs. I writes: "My baby boy is 17 months old, does not walk, and cries when we stand him on his feet. He moves his hands now as little as possible; they are very slender. He perspires very freely on his head and face. His abdomen is large. What could be the trouble?"

Answer—The symptoms you describe might indicate that the baby has rickets, but you should have a doctor's examination to find out if this is the trouble. Rickets can usually be corrected through the use of the proper diet. Short daily sunbaths are also very beneficial in improving the metabolism if you find that the baby has rickets.

Lupus Erythematosus

Question—Arthur writes: "Please send me the Cleansing Diet Course and any information pertaining to the skin disease lupus erythematosus. I have several such disks on my skin and they are spreading around the ankle. I have tried several remedies but to no avail. The rash has been present for over a year."

Answer—Lupus erythematosus is not especially contagious and seems to be preceded by some type of toxic poisoning. It is a chronic disease producing disk-like patches on the skin with reddish raised edges and covered with scales. After they fall off, a dull white surface remains for some time. The fast such as outlined in my Cleansing Diet Course is very beneficial except that the fruit juices might have to be continued for 10 days to two weeks instead of the five days outlined in the diet course. Certain local electrical treatments such as the ultra violet light are usually beneficial.

Murray Cotton Plan Mapped in Eldorado

Special to The Record News.

ELDORADO, Okla., Oct. 7.—At least 300 farmers assembled at the high school auditorium here to hear Representative James Nance discuss the economic situation confronting the cotton farmers, and the six measures which Gov. W. M. Murray expects to take to the people for enactment into law at a special election to be called soon.

Nance was chairman of the recent cotton relief conference held at Oklahoma City, and was with Governor Murray at the south-wide unemployment relief conference held in St. Louis two weeks ago in which he was chairman of an important committee.

In his talk he outlined some of the governor's proposed measures for aiding the cotton and wheat farmer through a reduction of cotton acreage during 1932, and by abolition of ad valorem taxes for state purposes, limitation of ad valorem taxes of all kinds to 15 mills, also the reduction of state income taxes to one per cent in the lower brackets and raising them to 10 per cent in the high brackets, and free text books for school children.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 7.—Fines of $14.50 have been assessed against each of seven negro men who were found guilty of shooting "craps" and playing poker. The negroes were taken before Judge W. H. Coffman of the justice of the peace court and fined.

CARDS RESUME WORLD SERIES LEAD WITH 5 TO 1 VICTORY

The RAMBLER'S CORNER

By FRED D. THOMPSON

The more we think of this Coyote-Bobcat game to be played in Childress next Saturday, the more we are convinced that it is going to be one of the hardest fought games of the season.

The Coyotes rule as favorites, because they have made a better showing than the Bobcats in practice games thus far; but a little mulling over the question leads one to the conclusion that both teams will forget the past entirely when the whistle warbles and the first district No. 2 game gets under way.

The terrible record of the Bobcats in practice games this season may or may not mean much. Coach Ballard is a pretty fine coach. This year his material is woefully inexperienced. But his boys might have learned a lot in those recent defeats. In addition to that, we gather from reports in the Childress press that the Bobcats haven't got a bit of use for anything even faintly resembling a Coyote. In fact, even the mention of the word makes the Childress boys want to practice two or three hours overtime each day.

In addition, they have a reputation to uphold. They whipped the Coyotes last year 12 to 0 on the Wichita Falls field. Or rather a Childress team did. Only two members of last year's squad are back on the Childress team this year. Out of 36 members on the squad, we are informed, only these two have ever played football before.

We get this information from the youth who writes the Column "Childress Chatter" in The Index of that city. At least we presume he is a youth. Now the author of "Childress Chatter" may have a 10-inch beard for all I know. But if he has, he's probably in his second childhood, for certainly some of his declamations against the Coyotes reveal a certain youthful daring, a lack of varied experience in this muddled life. For instance, he refers to the Wichita Falls team as the "cowardly Coyotes." Aye, brothers, that he does! Now no one with mature judgment would say anything like that.

". . . we do not think any pack of cowardly Coyotes," says the youth, "can come into a Bobcat lair and run over them. The coyote has always been known as a coward and will not fight unless its life depends upon it. By its nature it attacks only helpless beings, and we have not reached the point yet where we think our football team is helpless."

The Childress youth also takes a crack at the Rambler. "The Wichita Falls scribe," he says, "was one of the few in Texas who predicted a Childress victory last week against Hollis, Okla., and we thank him. We must admit that they made a better showing than we expected, but we are just wondering what his prediction will be for the game Saturday . . ."

We cannot at this moment make our prediction. Before forecasting the outcome of a football game, much has to be done. One must sprinkle cigaret ashes in one's left ear, change underwear, study the records of the individual players, compare the teams' records, eat a raw onion and solve four quadratic equations before doing a really good job of it. We have not yet completed these preliminaries.

A Veteran Returns

Gus Kuehne—I believe that's the way you spell it—was in town the other day. The spelling may be wrong, but it's pronounced "Keen." Any way, Gus was a keen tackle on the regional championship Olney eleven last year. He now attends school at Sanger, Texas, and plays "outlaw" football there. In other words, the Sanger team is not entered in an interscholastic league race, and plays just anybody it can tangle with. Gus says his team is a good one. We can vouch for Gus' part in it being good, at any rate, for the boy is a fine lineman.

When Gus graduates he hopes to attend S. M. U. If he does, the Mustangs will get a good football player.

Two other members of that great 1930 Olney team are already in college, and are making good in a football way. Gus tells me that out of a dozen or so quarterback candidates on the freshman squad at Texas A. & M., Rankin Goode of Olney and Fowler of Amarillo were the only two to make the grade. Goode was the very soul of the Olney team last year. It took a good field general to handle that bunch of stars, and Goode was the good field general, in every respect. Watch him closely. It won't be long before he'll be piloting the Aggies in the Southwest conference race.

Another product of Albert Acker's coaching at Olney who is playing college football is Braxton Gilmore, flashy right end of last year's Olney team. Gilmore is playing at Texas Tech, and according to reports is a first stringer and is making good in a big way.

A coach needs no finer recommendation than a bunch of fire-eaters who go to college and step right up among the grid luminaries. Acker is well represented through the state by boys whom he coached, and he deserves no end of praise for the splendid work he has done at Olney the last few years.

A Visitor From Archer City

Bill Cooper, that scrappy coach of the Archer City Wildcats, paid us a visit the other evening. We talked football, district 3 football, and discussed every team and its possibilities, but still I could tell Bill was holding something back. Finally I said: "Go ahead, Bill, tell me what's really on your mind." And he did.

"You can put this down for a fact," said Bill. "When my team goes against Crowell Friday, you can bet your last dollar that every man on my team is going to play the best football he ever played in his life. I haven't got a yellow man on the squad. We may get beat, but we'll never give up!"

Bill's team faces a tough bunch Friday. Crowell has a mighty strong team. It is heavier than Archer City's, and all the dope is in their favor. But Bill is right. The Archer City lads wouldn't get scared if the Notre Dame Ramblers came out to play them.

The War Is On

Here's what Miss Dorothy Milner of Henrietta thinks of "John Milton the Last," whose verbal perpetuation appeared in this corner the other day:

John Milton the Last has gone back to the past
And concocted a long, limping rhyme.
John Milton declares that he valiantly dares
One and all to excel him this time.
But John Milton is brash, and his statement is rash;
As for winning—I'm certain he won't.
His meter limps badly, his meaning is sadly
Confused, and his rhymes simply don't.

Miss Milner had other things to say, as well. She earnestly desires a poetry contest, chiefly, it appears, because she needs a new pair of socks. She continues:

"Aw, you sarcastic, misanthropic males! That last paragraph of the Rambler's Corner last Wednesday was evidently more truth than colyum. Men apparently hate like the dickens to be bested at anything.

"And after getting myself publicly reprimanded for presuming to compete with you baseball bards, I vowed to keep my typewriter strictly neutral—in fact, to shut up entirely when it came to this strife between you mighty masculine rhymesters. But Tuesday's poetic outburst was too much. John Milton the Last has not only been reading Pepys; I though I detected a flavoring of Caroline Lyrics, John Herrick's "Gather ye . . . etc." to be exact. I thought at first that the refrain about "earthly day" was borrowed from Morris, but it wasn't. However, I'll bet Milton the Last borrowed it from somewhere!

"I hope Nocona enters the lists. And I want the prize to be cash, too. That's where I agree with Miltonicus Secundus. Cash—or a pair of chiffon hose. Now guess who's MY choice for winner.

"Okay, Mr. Milton. If the Rambler wins anything on the world series he ought to put up a cash—or chiffon—prize just to stop this versifying. However, since I've wagered my entire wardrobe—both of it—on the A's, I hope he isn't going to let losing on the Cards stand in the way of this battle of verses.

"By the way, why do you insist, O Rambler, on your poetic contributors all falling in love—or in a well? The only verse I'd think of after falling in a well couldn't be printed. I can hear Johnny the Milton saying:

Ohhhhh, Hell!
I fell in a well!

"And at that it would be superior to anything he's written yet. And if the Nocona representative fell in love, it would be just like him to groan:

Heavens above,
I've fallen in love!

"And another thing. Helen of Troy, though she had loads of What it Takes, was, I'm afraid, a shade too few when it came to brains. She couldn't have rhymed limericks. She didn't need to—there was Homer to put her down in honest-to-gosh poetry. How many femmes capable of inspiring poetry write it? Huh? They didn't have to write it themselves. Ernest's hash-house houri probably couldn't have memorized a First Reader couplet. Well, she didn't have to chisel out her own rhymes—Ernest was only too ready to put her down for students of English 432—Poetry of the 19th Century. A "self-seeking woman? She had sense enough to keep silent, alright.

"And before I forget it, what are you going to do to the proof-reader or typesetter responsible for changing Dowson to Dawson?

"I hope that contest comes off. I might even fall in love if it will help any. I'm afraid you don't thing this other guff has been poetry—it hasn't, but then neither is everything that rhymes about love—or wells—poetry.

"Adios until you fall in a well,
"Dorothy."

Okay, girl poet, I'm willin'. The contest is on! Take heed, Mr. Milton of Electra, and start scratching the old nog. You'll have to go some to beat me, and Miss Milner. I'll use my winnings on the world series as the prize, for old Burleigh is gonna whip them A's tomorrow. And if Miss Milner wins the contest, we'll see that she gets some socks, or hose, as I believe the gals call 'em.

The Nocona bard says it will be "beneath his dignity" to enter, but we expect him to send a contribution anyway. He writes as follows:

"Dear sir: (And this applies to others of crude poetical fame)

"We (yes we) hesitated as to whether our dignity would justify us in re-entering this controversy between poets (???) in columns of The Record News. The decision was, that it is best, in order to purify the minds of the readers, the literary world and coming generation,

"The suspense was too great and parties of Nocona directly concerned are tottering on the brink of collapse and suffocating for the want of fresh air, after confining our attention to your etherial flight in classics and stuff like that, regarding the poetical laurels which were so gracefully won by a "Nocona football fan."—Har-r-r-rumph.

"Fred, you are all wrong, is the reason Miss Dorothy of Henrietta—C. I. A.'s gift and eminent commentator, has a death grip on your poetical aspirations. It was this way. Your spasmodic attempt to capture all the glory (Hallalujah, too) caused the trouble. At the heights of your hallucination, you became so intoxicated by your own evil and envious thoughts pertaining to your strength amongst poets, that you are likened unto Samson of old. He was exceedingly strong in many ways, but there was a 'woman in the case.' The young woman as you remember (if you ever read the Bible, which is doubtful) had Samson's locks shaved—and his mighty strength was gone. Lo and behold, he was helpless in the hands of his enemies. Now this Henrietta Miss must have used mule shears in separating the locks from your poetical noggin, judging from results.

"Another matter which needs its kinks combed out, is regarding the accusation on your part in reference to that 'wild and wooly football fan' of Nocona. If you dig down deep into the archives of your records and evidences (if available) you will find that mysterious Nocona poet's name was never given. This is something else you must swallow. You implicated your humble spy at this place and let the guilty party go.

"All the usable and non-usable language and unknown tongues you may bring to bear in your very feeble way in praising this fair one of poetical fame (of Henrietta) will never unwind the magic ball of sophisticated gall you have accumulated. So without any change of venue, on non-compus christi, we hereby take actions leading to your impeachment.

"As to this late Electra post (my gosh) our comments are withheld until you can use asbestos instead of paper, for printing paper. Common paper would burn. So, we leave him to loll in his imaginations. Now shoot.

Signed (on the dotted line.)
Your humble servant: A. "Wild and Wooly" Nocona football fan.
Attest: Your alleged Nocona football spy.

"P. S. Regarding the contest proposed, we refuse to enter, unless all scrub poets concerned can make some kind of rep. We can not turn backwards into the ranks of amateurs (see Webster's dictionary)"

MARTIN TIES HIT RECORD

'Wild Will' Wins Second in Row Over A's

a one-base drive that tallied Watkins in the eighth inning.

Ties Record

Martin tied the world series record when he ran his total base hits up to 12 for five games, equalling the achievement first registered by Buck Herzog of the Giants in 1912 and duplicated by Joe Jackson of the White Sox in 1919 and Sam Rice of the Senators in 1925.

The Cardinal buzz saw boosted his batting mark for the series to .667, with his 12 blows in 18 times at bat, and moved closer to a new all-time record to displace the figure of .625 that now stands to the credit of Babe Ruth. But for the new rule banning the sacrifice fly as no-time at bat, Martin would have had a perfect afternoon at the plate.

Martin was close to being the whole show but Hallahan was superb again in the pinches as he subdued the A's, and the rest of the Cardinals, responding to the inspiration of the Martin-Hallahan combination, outplayed, out-smarted and out-fought the champions of the world to gain the all-vital edge in this battle.

Simmons Slugs

Hallahan was not so invincible as he was in the second game, when he blanked the Mackmen with three hits, but he controlled all the sluggers except the mighty Al Simmons. The big gun of the A's, batting champion of his league, rattled off three straight hits but Al was an easy victim in the eighth when he came to bat with two men on, two out and a home run needed to tie the score.

The Athletics scored their only run in the seventh inning. Simmons, with one out, connected for his third safe base blow and ran to third on Foxx's line smash that caromed off Hallahan's side into short right field. Simmons ran home on Bing Miller's grounder to High, who threw to second for a force out of Foxx.

For the first time in the series, Mack crossed up the experts by selecting Hoyt, the former Yankee star, to start on the mound. The "boy wonder" of 1921 and a figure in six previous world series with the New York Americans, was not equal to the task of doing what no other Mack pitcher has done—stop Martin. Hoyt lasted six innings, yielding seven hits, before being replaced by Rube Walberg, giant southpaw who had been picked for the starting assignment. Walberg likewise, was unable to check Martin, who blasted a single and drove in the fourth Cardinal run after taking two lusty swings at the Rube's sharp curves. The old knuckle-baller, Eddie Rommel, pitched the ninth and was touched for the final Cardinal tally, on hits by Hafey, Wilson and Gelbert.

Cards Get It Hits

All told the Cards combed Hoyt, Walberg and Rommel, all appearing for the first time in this series, for 12 hits. Frisch and Bottomley, each contributed two hits to support Martin. Bottomley shone, too, in the field with a number of brilliant catches of foul balls that the A's kept popping all over the premises in vain efforts to break through Hallahan's control.

The replacement of Max Bishop at second base in the game by young Eric McNair, and the injection of Jim Moore into the outfield, as Haas was also benched, failed to help the A's. They have once again put their hopes solely upon the strong right arm of Earnshaw, who blanked the Cards with two hits yesterday and will probably get the call Friday in St. Louis in the sixth contest.

The play by play account of the game follows:

First Inning

Cardinals—Adams singled down the third base line. High ran for Adams. Watkins filed to Simmons. Frisch drove a hit to center and High raced to third. On the throw in Frisch went to second. Martin flied to Simmons and High scored easily after the catch. Hafey grounded out, Williams to Foxx. One run, two hits, no errors.

Athletics—High was at third base for the Cardinals. Bishop hoisted to Watkins. Haas fanned. Cochrane popped to Frisch. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning

Cardinals—Bottomley hit sharply to right for a single. Wilson flied to Miller. Gelbert bounced to Williams and Bottomley was forced at second, Williams to Bishop. Hallahan bounded to Williams, who juggled the ball long enough to miss a forceout but recovered to throw out Hallahan at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Athletics—Simmons hit against the scoreboard in right center for a double. Foxx hit to High and was thrown out at first, Simmons holding second. Miller bounced to Gelbert and was thrown out at first. Simmons was caught at the plate by Bottomley's relay to complete a double play. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Inning

Cardinals—High grounded out, Bishop to Foxx. Watkins flied to Bishop in short right field. Frisch flied to Haas. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Athletics—Dykes grounded out to Bottomley, unassisted. Williams fouled out to High. Hoyt bounced to High and was out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning

Cardinals—Martin bunted to Foxx and was safe for a single on a lightning burst of speed. It was his tenth hit. Hafey fanned, swinging. Bottomley singled to right and Martin raced to third. Wilson lined to Bishop who threw to Foxx to double Bottomley off first. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Athletics—Bishop fouled out to Bottomley. Haas flied to Hafey. Cochrane fouled out to Wilson. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning

Cardinals—Gelbert grounded out, Dykes to Foxx, and Hallahan, Williams to Foxx. High flied to Simmons. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Athletics—Simmons bounced a single off Hallahan's arm, the ball rolling into left field. Foxx walked. Miller bunted and popped out to Bottomley. Dykes fouled out to Bottomley. Williams fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Sixth Inning

Cardinals—Watkins hoisted to Miller. Frisch hit down the left field foul line for two bases. Martin hit a home run into the upper deck of the left field stands, scoring Frisch ahead of him. Hafey drove a long fly to Simmons. Bottomley flied out to Haas. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Athletics—Hoyt popped to Frisch. Bishop was replaced at bat by McNair. McNair fouled out to Wilson Moore batted for Haas and flied to Watkins. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning

Cardinals—McNair went to second base and Moore to left field, Simmons moving over to center. Walberg replaced Hoyt in the box for the Athletics. Wilson singled to left and was thrown out trying to steal, Cochrane to Williams. Gelbert grounded out, Williams to Foxx. Hallahan fanned on a called third strike. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Athletics—Cochrane popped to Frisch. Simmons singled to left center for his third straight hit. Foxx singled off Hallahan's glove and Simmons reached third. Simmons scored on Miller's grounder to High. Foxx was forced out at second, High to Frisch. Dykes singled down the third base line, Miller stopping at second. Williams flied to Frisch. One run, three hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning

Cardinals—High fanned on a called third strike. Watkins walked and stole second. Frisch flied to Moore. Watkins scored on Martin's line single to left. Martin was thrown out trying to steal second, Cochrane to McNair. It was the first time the youngster had been caught on the bases. His 12th hit in this inning equaled the world series record. One run, one hit, no errors.

Athletics—Heving batted for Walberg and hoisted to Watkins. McNair fanned, lunging at the third strike. Moore beat out a high bounder to Hallahan for a hit. Cochrane scratched a single off Bottomley's glove on a hard hit ball, Moore stopping at second. Simmons grounded to High forcing Moore at third. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning

Cardinals—Rommel replaced Walberg in the box for the Athletics. Hafey singled on a drive off Dykes' glove. Bottomley grounded to Foxx and Hafey was forced out, Foxx to Williams. Wilson singled to center and Bottomley galloped to third. Bottomley scored and Wilson went to second on Gelbert's line single to left. Hallahan flied to Simmons. High grounded out, McNair to Foxx. One run, three hits, no errors.

Athletics—Foxx bunted in front of the plate and reached first easily for a hit. Miller grounded to Gelbert, forcing Foxx at second. Dykes grounded to Frisch, forcing Miller at second. Dykes reached first as Gelbert threw low. Williams singled to center and Dykes ran to third. Boley batted for Rommell and struck out. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Martin Again Hero in Series

Retaining his place in the spotlight of world series fame, John (Pepper) Martin, fleet Cardinal baserunner, is shown here scoring from second on Grimes' single in the fourth inning of the third game of the 1931 baseball classic, at Philadelphia. Martin came in so fast that he almost overtook Hafey, who was on third, in the race for the plate. Catcher Cochrane of the Athletics is shown just as he received the ball, with Umpire Stark watching the play.

Duke Eleven Plays Tribe in Last Practice Game

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 7.—The Quanah Indians under Coach Stallworth are preparing for their last practice tilt before the opening of the conference race with Electra, Oct. 17.

This final practice game is to be played with the Duke, Okla., eleven, on the local field Friday. It is thought this game will be the hardest game played by the Indians thus far this season. The Duke squad has a good team, and has defeated the strong Mangum, Okla., bunch recently.

The injury jinx which invaded the Indian camp last week has been kept out so far this week. Norman, left end, who was out of last Friday's game with an injured leg, is ready for work again. There has been but one game played this season with both first string ends able to play. Now Norman, and Jones, right end, are on duty. Blue, guard, has also recovered from leg injury, and the team seems to be in fine shape for the coming game.

Stamford Plays Two Abilene Teams This Week

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Oct. 7.—Stamford Bulldogs will not meet the Abilene Eagles in a night game at Abilene Saturday, as previously planned, but will play Abilene's B team here on Friday afternoon at 3:45. Although the Bulldogs were defeated by a top-heavy score in the recent game with Breckenridge, they are going through some spirited workouts in preparation for the encounter with the Abilene team.

Reagan Plays Electrans Friday; Conference to Be Reorganized

The Reagan Junior High school Redbirds will top off a hard week's practice Friday with a practice game with the Elestra Junior High school eleven The game will be played on the Electra gridiron.

It will not be a conference game, although both teams are members of the Northwest Texas Junior High school conference.

Withdrawal of three schools from the conference caused a temporary shake-up, and a new schedule must be drawn up, according to A. D. Beck, Reagan coach. Denton and Breckenridge withdrew due to the distance between the towns in the conference, and Burkburnett withdrew recently on account of lack of football material.

Those left in the conference in addition to Reagan and Zundelowitz here are Vernon, Bowie and Electra. There is a possibility Frederick, Okla., may join, it was said. Representatives of the Vernon, Bowie and Electra schools, and possibly representatives of the Frederick school are to meet here Saturday with officials of the Reagan and Zundelowitz schools to draw up a new schedule, it was announced.

CAPTAIN BENNY WITHROW HURT

Shoulder Injury Slows Up Hefty Back

The third day of practice for the all-important league opener with Childress Saturday found the Holton highwaymen full of pep and hustle. In fact, yesterday the Coyotes beat Childress by a score of something like 50 to 0—that is, they beat a team using Childress plays by that score; and if the Childress Bobcats use those same plays next Saturday, it won't be a big surprise to see the Holton gang really steal the show.

Everybody, of course, including the Coyotes, knows that Childress has more plays than the ones used in scrimmage here yesterday. This business of scouting often proves deceptive. The Childress warhorses were thoroughly scouted, hence the use of their formations and plays in the Coyote camp, but coaches never open up in practice games, and Childress by now may be using an entirely different brand of football.

Childress sleuths have likewise scouted the Coyotes, and the Bobcats, we learn, have been acquainting themselves with Coach Holton's methods all this week, just as the Coyotes have been mastering Coach Ballard's tactics.

So it will be a 50-50 proposition when the two teams take the field. Each team probably will use some of the old plays. But each team, likewise, will use plenty of new ones. The Pack ran through a bunch of new ones in practice yesterday. Beautiful plays they were, but of course it would not be right to describe them at this time.

Withrow Injured

A development yesterday that may or may not mean much was that Capt. Benny Withrow, mainstay of the Coyote backfield, turned up with an injured shoulder. The shoulder was injured in practice Tuesday, but did not develop into a really serious matter until Wednesday. The Coyote ball lugger was considerably slowed up in Wednesday's practice session, but it was hoped that the injury would heal sufficiently by Saturday to enable the plunging back to play his usual sensational game Saturday.

What with drilling Childress plays, learning new ones, and engaging in a rough scrimmage, the boys whose passion it is to tote the hide over the Childress goal line about eight or 10 times had a fine workout, and showed plenty of spirit in the process. Both defensive and offensive problems were put before the boys for solution and the coaches were tireless in seeing that the correct answers were given. They quit at nightfall.

Today the team gets its last real hard workout. Friday they will be given another drill, but it will be relatively light.

Then on Saturday the boys will board the special train at 9 o'clock and ride the cushions to Childress for the game.

Record Turnout Seen

Indications Wednesday were that several hundred Wichitans will be in the rooting stands at the Childress athletic field. It was announced that the required 206 fares, needed to assure a rate of $2.15 for the special train round trip, had been sold, and that sales were steadily mounting. In addition to those riding the special, scores of students and adults were expected to make the trip to Childress by automobile.

The special will arrive at Childress at noon. The return trip will start at 7 p. m.

Nocona Wins Practice Game With Henrietta

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Oct. 7.—The Nocona Indians turned in another victory today, winning a practice game from Henrietta, 12 to 6.

Nocona's first touchdown came when Harrison blocked a Henrietta punt, ran back 30 yards and hurled a pass to Garrison who scored the six points. Later Wall, left half, intercepted a pass for a touchdown. Henrietta's scoring was accomplished when Simms, left half, successfully accepted a toss from a backfield mate and trotted across the sacred line.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (AP)—Opening advance in cotton today was followed by reactions under southern selling, combined with realizing or liquidation.

December contracts which had sold up to 6.04 on the early buying or 55 points above the low level of Monday, broke to 5.71 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 8 to 11 points.

The opening was very steady, 20 to 28 points higher on covering and trade buying which seemed to be coming partly from Liverpool and the continent. It was evident from the early comment that reports from Washington concerning plans for refinancing frozen credits had made a favorable impression on sentiment, but the immediate effects of the announcement appeared to be pretty well discounted by the early buying.

October sold off to 5.50 and March to 6.01 in the late trading or about 34 points from the high level of the morning and closing quotations were the lowest of the day on most positions.

There appeared to be very few southern selling orders in the market here at the opening, but offerings from that source increased somewhat later in the day, while liquidation or reselling by buyers of yesterday afternoon or during today's earlier trading was promoted by disappointment over the action of the stock market. Aside from this there was probably some uncertainty as to the showing of tomorrow's government crop report which may have led to evening-up after the early advance.

Liverpool cables reported foreign buying and covering in that market and said there was a good business in cotton cloths and yarns with China and that more machinery was running in Lancashire. Exports today 12,783 making 894,530 so far this season. Port receipts today 12,783 making 894,530 so far this season. Port receipts 54,506. U. S. port stocks 3,526,354.

Futures closed barely steady, 8 to 11 points lower. Spot, quiet; middling, 5.75.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 7. (AP)—The cotton market, after opening more than a dollar a bale higher on the Hoover credit proposals and good cables, lost all the advance and more on profit taking and hedge selling. The decline was helped by fears of a bearish government estimate tomorrow.

Liverpool is due tomorrow 6 to 7 penny points down.

The average guess of 87 members of the New York cotton exchange as to the government's crop estimate is 15,960,000 bales.

Liverpool came in 2 to 4 penny points better than due. Private cables stated that there was good buying of cloth and yarns by China and more machinery was running. First trades here showed gains of 16 to 19 points.

The close was at the lowest with December at 5.70, down 10 points net for the day, and January at 5.80, down 9 points net.

Calm Consideration of Hoover Plan Has Tendency to Quiet Stock Trade

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. (US)—The stock market quieted considerably today upon calmer consideration of the vast program which has been inaugurated toward creating greater liquidity and confidence in the nation's banking and credit structure. When it had closed, declines were far in the majority, though net losses for the day were generally extremely modest especially when contrasted with the sharp gains of Tuesday's initial celebration. There was sizeable profit-taking to absorb and some short-selling, of limited amount however, was invited by the rapid upturn which had assumed record-breaking proportions.

In the early transactions today prices had moved to new highs for the recovery, but subsequent recession from the peaks was rather substantial. Volume fell below 3,000,000 shares from the previous day's 4,300,000.

The bond market maintained a firm appearance and its performance did much to offset possible disappointment over the stock market's setback. It was more generally appreciated that bonds rather than stocks must first demonstrate revival of confidence and of true investment buying of securities.

Wild enthusiasm preceding formal and official announcement of the revival plan gave way to a saner realization that what now is taking place marks but the initial steps in a tremendous undertaking. The scheme inaugurated requires the solid backing of the banking community, and there were some signs today indicating that perhaps there were still some skeptics among bankers who questioned the ultimate propriety of far-reaching readjustments.

Especially was this the case with the suggested alterations in the federal reserve statutes which will widen their rediscounting powers. The great power of the federal reserve to date has been its extreme liquidity and anything which tends toward reducing this element of its structure will be vigorously, even if not publicly, opposed by a certain powerful element of the banking world.

However, there was universal agreement that the formation of a half-billion-dollar enterprise to help liquify frozen financial conditions was hearty indication of an earnest campaign to start the ball rolling toward ultimate revival, rather than permitting the slow processes of a "natural course" to intensify the depression.

Since the American depression is admittedly part and parcel of a worldwide condition, bumps and setbacks are to be expected before sunshine returns. This was the factor which induced the more conservative faction involved in the market to look decidedly unfavorably upon any continuation of wild demonstrations in the stock market. The start has been made; it will be necessary to observe carefully and closely the progress of events.

Today's stock market very plainly displayed that greater discrimination was being practiced. Whereas the preceding day every stock participated in the bullish demonstration, it was noticeable today that several issues were subjected to particular pressure. Thus, DuPont closed 3¾ points lower and General Motors a point. The doubt concerning the motors divided undoubtedly accounted for their weakness, although motors of late has been favored by enormous short-covering by previous shorts of long standing. Steel common was also in free supply, down 3¾ points.

New York Central was an especially weak feature throughout the day finally closing off more than four points. It is fair to assume that Central was favored the preceding day by an unusually large proportion of whatever "window-dressing" buying had come into the railroad department of the list and that heavy profit-taking was taking place. As a matter of fact various of the rails showed fairly free supply, and to some observers this was interpreted possibly as reflecting disappointment that no mention was made, in the grand scheme for national revival, of the railroads. However, the net loss for all rails on the average was little over half a point net.

Having inaugurated a definite program, the banks will now be expected to lend their support to the entire securities market, since any weakness here would tend to offset whatever psychological benefits already have accrued from the public knowledge that the bankers and Washington are cooperating toward alleviating the general situation.

The market itself fluctuated rather freely, partially at least a reflection of the absence of any considerable short-interest or any great increase in the short account. The stock exchange was still insisting on a prior identification of all offerings, whether short or liquidation. With this condition existent, offerings to a great proportion of the day's total, could be considered actual liquidation, but there was an orderly market throughout.

There is a growing disposition to treat current events as a great test period, during which investment and speculative campaign plans are being held in abeyance pending more definite disclosures from the market itself.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 7. (AP)—Grain traders who had enthusiastically bought in anticipation of last night's White House conference on the business situation moved quickly to realize profits today. Fresh advances in all cereals were thus turned into declines. Stock market recessions had much to do with bringing about this result.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅜@⅝ cents lower, corn a shade to 1@1⅛c down, oats a shade to ⅜c off, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to an equal gain.

At no time were wheat prices more than about a cent a bushel below yesterday's finish, so that the market retained fully half of the advance which had been directly based on President Hoover's action in calling the White House conference.

Persistent sluggishness of export demand for wheat from North American operated as a drag on the market. An additional handicap to wheat bulls was word of a slight increase of Argentine planting as compared with preliminary forecasts. There were also advices that wheat arrivals in Great Britain were too large to justify much advance.

Corn and oats sold off with wheat after a strong opening.

Late weakness of grains eased the provision market despite upturns of hog values.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 7. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit was slow with some strength developing on highly finished strong weight steers but the general run of fed steers and yearlings selling on a steady to 25c lower basis. Western killing steers and she stock ruled steady to easier, some points showing losses of 25c on grass steers and grass heifers. TEXAS JOBLESS PARLEY CALLED

Sterling Sponsors Meeting On Unemployment

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (INS)—Call for more than 200 civic, business and industrial leaders to meet here Oct. 16-17 to discuss unemployment problems was issued by Gov. Ross Sterling today through R. B. Gragg, state labor commissioner.

Gragg made public a letter written by the governor to more than 208 persons calling upon those "in all lines of activity—industrial, farming, manufacturing, religious, judicial, civic, labor, fraternal—for full discussion of the most important features of unemployment measures."

"At this meeting," the governor wrote, "I shall appoint a committee of 100 to comprise the committee for employment—unless some definite common plan is worked out chaotic conditions may ensue. Unemployment is still widespread and present serious problems as winter approaches. There has been meager season improvement and the trend is quite certain to be toward a more general state of forced idleness among our industrial workers.

"While Texas is not as hard hit as other sections conditions in our state are far from satisfactory."

COUNTY FAIR OPENS TODAY

Iowa Park to Welcome Throngs to Festival

and winners in all departments will remain through the day. The show will be completed in all respects Saturday. A large crowd is expected each day till the end.

Traffic Direction

Traffic will be directed to the fair grounds from the intersection of the Wichita highway and Broad street, and traffic cops will be stationed at convenient corners to relieve any tendency toward congestion. It has been the source of favorab'e comment that at former fairs traffic has been handled so carefully that only one or two minor accidents were reported and not one was hurt.

Among those preparing booths were several who had not shown on previous exhibits. Several new exhibitors from Wichita Falls and adjoining towns have entered this year. An automobile show, featuring high and medium to cheap cars, is a new feature.

The agricultural department, under the supervision of C. H. McDowell, assisted by G. C. McGowan, county agent, and L. E. Brooks, horticulturist of the experiment farm, offers many attractive exhibits. The Boys' 4-H club will exhibit for the first time and Mr. McGowan states that he expects at least 40 entries in this exhibit, which will show only feed grown by boys members of the Hegari growing club. Exhibits will consist of 10 heads each and are featured from both dry land and irrigated sections, as the members are widely scattered over the county.

Dry Land Exhibit

Barwise community will exhibit a strictly dry land entry. This booth was assuming beauty Wednesday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. S. S. Marshall and Mrs. D. G. Weatherman, who had assembled the entire exhibit from farmers in their neighborhood. Other communities exhibiting are Valley View, Pleasant Valley, City View, Bowie, Hardin and Friberg. Home demonstration club members have been instrumental in collecting exhibits in each section and the success of these exhibits is in no small way due to their efforts.

Near the home demonstration club building is the educational building where Iowa Park and rural schools have placed attractive exhibits of drawing, penmanship, pen sketches, projects and many products of school activities. Among schools having booths are Deep Creek, Valley View, Iowa Park High, the home economics booth, Clara and Cobb school. W. R. Bradford, superintendent of Iowa Park schools, is general superintendent of this department, and he is assisted by H. V. Williams, superintendent, Clara schools. As in former years, this building will be the center of attraction for parents interested in work on display and the judging in this department will be finished Thursday.

Gates Entry

In the livestock division will be found an interesting entry from the Gates Hereford farm, Wichita Falls. Mr. Gates is entering "The Domianna," a two-year-old heifer never shown before, two heifer calves and one November bull calf, a half-brother to the Domianna. Herefords from the Gates farm took all premiums for Herefords at the Wichita County fair in 1929 and several were winners at the Fort Worth fair in 1930. Mr. Gates is showing only young stock that has never been shown before and off the pasture, not conditioned for the show.

Tom L. Burnett is showing six registered Hereford heifers off pasture and not conditioned for the show but these animals are in good condition and show quality.

W. L. Hodges, Valley View, has entered three Jersey head, one senior yearling, Bolina Majesty Anna; one junior yearling, Bolinas Majesty Nell; and one aged cow, Bolinas Majesty Myrtle. The latter is from Odessa, Mich., of a strain of quality registered herd, brought to Wichita county by G. C. McGowan in a car load of Jerseys in 1929.

Jersey Show

J. H. Robb, Electra, is showing seven Jersey head. Mr. Robb, who lives four miles north of Electra, was the first to arrive at the shed with his cattle, which include animals from 10 days old to mature cows. Mr. Robb was the grand champion winner last year, and is entering the winning cow, Oxford Pansy, No. 844371, again this year. Mr. Robb also has two unnamed calves, a heifer and male, from Oxford Pansy, on exhibit.

Reaves and Overbey, Iowa Park, are showing a two-year-old bull, Roher Boy Bill, that received the first senior yearling prize at the Wichita county fair last year. They also have five other head of quality registered animals on exhibit.

A new shed, 14 by 200 feet houses the hog exhibits. Carl Williamson, superintendent of the swine department, states that 75 head of hogs, principally Hampshires, will be on exhibit. However, there will also be a nice showing of Durocs. Among Hhampshire exhibitors are C. A. Morgan, Burkburnett; A. C. Goldon, Iowa Park; Carl Williamson, Iowa Park. Mr. Williamson has just returned from showing his hogs at Amarillo and Lubbock where he received first prize for senior yearling boar on Texas Whirlwind, and second prize on aged boar on "Defender Clan." Mr. Williamson also received second prize on aged herd and second and third junior yearling boars. Mr. Williamson has charge of this department for the first time and the evidence of his success is shown in the increase in this exhibit and the necessity to build to accommodate the entries.

Duroc Numbers

Duroc exhibitors include H. O. Harvey, Wichita Falls and Mr. Black, of Call Field. Guy Powell, county agent of Wise county, will judge hogs and sheep Friday. J. W. Ridgeway, Fort Worth, will also judge the dairy and beef cattle Friday. Mr. Ridgeway is a judge of national fame, having been judge of the National Dairy show at St. Louis in 1920. Mr. Ridgeway leads the animal into the ring and points out each individual merit and defect, thus showing to those interested his reasons for decisions.

Pigeon entries were attracting much attention Wednesday afternoon. These included Racing Homers, runts, White Kings, White Swiss Mundanes, Hungarians, and many other birds. Will McAbee, Wichita Falls, had one entry numbering 110 birds.

The turkey division, under the charge of Charley Winfrey, expects 150 head, mostly bronze, however all breeds will be represented. This is the first year Mr. Winfrey has worked in this department, previously he has had charge of the rabbit department.

WICHITANS TO PRESENT MINSTREL TONIGHT

Confidence was expressed here Wednesday by Junior chamber of commerce officials that the goal of 10,000 attendance on Wichita Falls day Thursday at the Wichita County fair at Iowa Park would be reached.

Hundreds of Wichitans are expected to go from here to Iowa Park during the day to attend the fair, which opens with Wichita Falls day and extends through Saturday. Many displays from here will be on exhibit, and a large part of the entertainment Thursday will be provided by Wichitans.

The junior chamber has arranged an attractive program for the evening. Under the direction of George Hodgins, a black-face minstrel will be staged at the fair at 8 p. m. Many popular local entertainers will appear on the program. Mr. Hodgins, who is a veteran minstrel trouper, will officiate as interlocutor.

Wichitans planning to attend the fair Thursday may obtain hat bands and automobile stickers at the Durnal-Jones Rubber company, Eighth and Austin streets, it was announced.

Although no effort will be made for Wichitans to attend the fair in a single group, junior chamber officials urge that every person who can do so visit the exposition Thursday. It is particularly desired that a large number of Wichitans be present Thursday night. No charge is made for entrance to the fair grounds or exhibits, it was said, the only cost being for attractions on the midway.

Preceding the minstrel, Paul Seeds' band, the Caballeros, will present a two-hour concert.

Attractions of the entertainment program include Alice Philo, accompanied by Margaret Robertson, in songs and a comedy skit; the Payne Kids, juvenile dancers, in a rhythmic tap duet; George Taylor, singing old time favorites to his own guitar accompaniment; Catherine Sue Ralston, billed as the "Sweetheart of Iowa Park," who will sing a group of blues numbers; Charles Doran and Jack Davis, former vaudeville troupers, who will offer a dance routine of their circuit days, and L. R. Thurman in a number of vocal selections.

The cast of the minstrel proper is composed of L. D. Lyle and Joe Bailey Howard, end men, and Frank Haley, Larry Schwamb, Russell Kolp, Ernest Robertson, Temple Shell, A. L. Hecht, T. J. Waggoner Jr., and Ralph Pond.

The Jesse Smith orchestra will provide music throughout the program.

WINE BRICKS GO ON SALE

Retail Stores to Distribute Thirst Quenchers

California wine bricks, each of which will make a gallon of wine on the least provocation, were placed on sale in Wichita Falls Wednesday by the California Wine Brick company.

Five cases of the bricks were distributed to stores here during the day, and 10 additional cases will arrive here Thursday from Dallas, it was said. Other shipments are expected to follow as rapidly as they can be secured. The bricks will be sold through local retailers, and an extensive campaign to introduce them to the public is being planned, according to those in charge of the distribution.

Each brick is composed of pure grape concentrate, according to its manufacturer, and all flavors of pre-prohibition days are available. The purchaser is carefully told of the things he must not do, otherwise at the end of 15 days he will find that the gallon of water into which he dropped his brick has turned into a gallon of wine. "Sweet and dry" varieties may be secured by varying the amount of sugar added to the mixture.

Officers here have refused to comment on the sale of the bricks, and officials of the company assert the sale is entirely legal and is going on without interference over the nation. Recent magazine articles concerning the bricks assert that wine as delicately flavored as any made under the old time process can be secured with the new concentrate by persons without experience in such work.

Aged Nocona Woman Hurt in Stairs Fall

NOCONA, Texas, Oct. 7.—Mrs. R. D. Clay, about 60, who has charge of the rooming house over the Unique cafe here, this morning slipped and fell down 15 stairsteps, suffering painful injury in bruises and a right arm fracture.

Friberg News

FRIBERG, Texas, Oct. 7.—An address by Mrs. Harry ten Brink, president of the parent-teacher association at Junior college in Wichita Falls, featured the first-of-the-month meeting of the local P.-T. A. held in the school auditorium Friday evening. Mrs. ten Brink spoke at length on the "Purpose and Methods of the Association" and the mutual contacts created for parent, teacher and child. The speaker was very enthusiastic over the large audience present, which was the largest ever attending a meeting since its organization.

Another feature of the evening was the interesting program presented by the pupils in Miss Katherine Singletary's room, which was as follows: Readings: "Monday," Elizabeth Heusel; "Victory," Eupha Dikes; "The Cookie," Willie Dillard. A short play, entitled "The Inkstand," with the following characters closed the program: "Robbie," Billy Ed Davidson; "Minnie," Mary Jo Campbell; "Amy," Merle Birdsong; "Dollie," Billie Campbell; "Aunt Anna," Sara Francis Estes; "Aunt Martha," Bernice Hayman; "Bridget," Waynie Dillard.

Several business matters were discussed during a brief business session presided over by the president, Mrs. A. F. Heusel. Several new members were added to the organization. Clever wall calendars bearing the program outline for the year have been distributed to the membership in place of the usual year book. The calendars, executed in white and green with black lettering and dainty black silhouettes, are very effective. They were made by the teachers in the local school. Misses Josephine Russel, Katherine Singletary and Itha Hardeman.

Methodist Pastor Honored

The dining room table stacked high with a complete assortment of staple groceries and the rooms of the parsonage filled with members of his congregation and their friends greeted the eyes of the Methodist pastor, his wife and family when they returned home Friday evening following a meeting of the P.-T. A. at the schoolhouse. After an hour spent in pleasant conversation, members of the ladies aid society served refreshments of cakes and cocoa to the large crowd present.

Ladies Aid

An all-day quilting and the regular monthly business meeting was combined Thursday afternoon when the Methodist Ladies Aid society met at the William Jenne home, with Mrs. Nellie Bryant Stewart of Wichita Falls as hostess. The members spent the greater part of the day quilting a quilt fashioned in the new Dresden plate pattern of pastel printed voiles on a pale yellow background. The quilt top was made by Misses Millie and Ollie Roediger. It will be included in this community's exhibit at the county fair. Lunch was served at the noon hour. During a brief business session in the afternoon officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Joy Jenne; vice president, Mrs. Grace Lamb; secretary, Miss Millie Roediger; treasurer, Mrs. A. F. Heusel. At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Stewart served a delicious sandwich plate to those present.

County Fair Exhibit

Rev. A. F. Heusel, in charge of arrangements for this community's exhibit at the county fair at Iowa Park, has disclosed an idea which, if successfully carried out in the exhibit, will serve a double purpose, both from the artistic modern standpoint and in disclosing the necessary identifying of the spiritual with the material in true progress. Rev. Mr. Heusel is busy collecting his specimens for the exhibit.

Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Snarr of Elgin, Okla., arrived Friday for a visit with Mrs. Snarr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lovell. Rev. Mr. Snarr preached an interesting sermon at the Methodist church Sunday evening on the subject, "Sin."

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Simmons and daughters, Thelma and Barbara Joan, of Wichita Falls were guests of Mrs. Ethel Bryan and family Sunday and attended services at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Mrs. C. A. Andree arrived Sunday from Fort Worth, following a visit with her daughter, Mrs. I. M. Campbell, and family.

Sunset News

Special to The Record News.

SUNSET, Texas, Oct. 7.—Many of the turkey producers in the western and southern sections of Montague county are preparing to cooperate in the marketing of their turkeys when the market opens. Many of them have already learned that they can get better prices by following the cooperative plan than they could get by selling individually in the local markets.

Members of the producers marketing association have held several meetings during the past few weeks for the purpose of discussing marketing plans and for ascertaining the number of turkeys to be marketed through the association. The next meeting will be held in Bowie at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Oct. 10. The leading committee of the association is composed of J. B. Davis, Bellevue; J. H. Miller, Sunset; A. V. Corpening and Ben Foster, Stoneburg.

The membership of the producers association includes many producers in Montague county and some in Clay and Wise counties. This association was organized last year with headquarters at Bowie. The members marketed about $50,000 worth of turkeys there, making Bowie one of the leading local turkey markets of North Texas. This move caused better prices to be offered in nearby local markets than, perhaps, would have been done without it. Number of turkeys to market here this year will likely be about the same as that of last year.

JOBBERS TO MEET FRIDAY

Members to Hear Plans For New Trips

Results of contact trips to business concerns of 12 towns of this area by groups of the local manufacturers and jobbers division Tuesday will be shown the membership of the organization at a called meeting Friday afternoon at the chamber of commerce offices.

The meeting was called for 3 o'clock by C. H. Thompson, chairman of the division. Plans probably will be made at that time for the second of the proposed series of trips, it was said.

The trips Tuesday were made by about 20 members of the division. Forming into five groups, the trippers departed here early in the day returning late the same afternoon. Each group visited one or more of the 12 towns of the itinerary. Every business concern in each town was called on. It was found that business men of the trade territory generally look upon Wichita Falls with a friendly attitude, and place their orders with firms here when their needs can be supplied, it was said. Valuable criticisms were obtained at each place, it was declared.

Officials of the division were enthusiastic with the success of the trips on their return here. Such contact trips, with each merchant and business man of towns of this area, were declared far superior to the "noise-making" calls of a large good will parties which have heretofore hurriedly passed from one town to another on trips designed to creat a more favorable attitude to Wichita Falls in the trade territory.

Towns visited Tuesday were Frederick, Nocona, Belcherville, Henrietta, Bellevue, Archer City, Olney, Seymour, Mankins, Dundee, Mabelle and Hollis.

Epworth League To Repeat 'Eyes of Love'

Members of the Epworth league of the Wilson Memorial Methodist church have announced two more engagements for the three-act comedy, "Eyes of Love," which they have presented three times recently in their own church auditorium.

On Thursday night of this week the play will be presented at the African Methodist church, and a special section for white patrons will be reserved, it was said.

On Friday night "Eyes of Love" will be given in the auditorium of the Fannin school as a benefit performance for the P.-T. A. of that school.

The play is produced under the direction of Harold White, and includes besides him, the following players: Misses Bernice Moser, Helen Arnold, Lucile Gilbreath, Burma Jeffreys and Ollie Mae Jeffreys; Messrs. Ben Bell, Oscar Roberts, Drew McCulley and R. B. Dodd.

Max Rainey, accordionist, Burwin Harper, and H. A. Jones will furnish music between acts, it was announced.

Housework Sought by Needy Wichita Women

Local women are available for household work of any kind, and for any period of time, according to information given Wednesday by the Family Relief association, and may be obtained by local citizens by telephoning 2-2183.

There are many people in the city eager to accept such employment, it was said, whether the work requires one hour or a week, according to Mrs. R. P. Willis, who is in charge of the association's work.

MAJESTIC: Clive Brook, Kay Francis, Miriam Hopkins and Regis Toomey in "24 Hours." Laurel and Hardy comedy, cartoon and Paramount talking news.

STATE: Sally O'Neil in "The Brat." Chapter three of "The Vanishing Legion"; comedy, "Butter and Yegg Man," and talking news.

GEM: Richard Dix and Jackie Cooper in "Young Donovan's Kid." Mickey Maguire comedy.

Not only the principals in "24 Hours," now showing at the Majestic, but every minor character does excellent acting. From the stroke of 12 on the first snow scene until Jim and Fanny drink to his last drink on the outgoing steamer, the action is smooth, splendidly staged and full of interest.

Drinking, by the way, is a popular pastime in the picture. There are all sorts of crystal shown from the big brandy glasses to the highball glasses in the last act.

But did you know, that kissing is going out of style on the screen? We have watched several of the latest pictures and seen them go through without any osculation. Lovers touch cheeks and put their arms round one another, but the "so many feet" of kissing that censors used to pass as proper, are things of the past.

A married couple who had let their marriage go off the track win back to happiness in the play. Rosie, a cabaret singer, who shocks you first with the brassiness of her song and who touches you later when she sings with tears in eyes and voice, reaches peace in death.

Much of humanity is shown; the man's "Got a smile for me?" to a woman sick of the dregs of life and her smile after she had said "What have I got to smile about?" For men must be cheered and women must not weep.

The tall street clocks chime at 12 o'clock, at 12:30, at 2:30, at 3:30 and and on until the 24 hours is over. And every hour has the drama of life shown on the screen.

Freight Rate Hearing Called Here Oct. 14

A complaint that current freight rates on paper discriminate against local jobbers in favor of dealers of other Texas cities, will be heard here on Oct. 14, by Examiner Witter of the Interstate Commerce commission, according to advice received here Wednesday.

The complaint was filed by the chamber of commerce here. The complaint alleges that freight rates on paper and paper products shipped from Wisconsin and Michigan favor dealers in Fort Worth, Dallas and other cities of the state. A reduction of approximately 20 per cent is sought. The hearing will be held at 10 a. m. at the Kemp hotel, it was said.

Red Cross Directors To Meet Thursday

Directors of the Wichita county chapter of the American Red Cross will hold their regular monthly meeting Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the directors room of the City National bank, it was announced Wednesday.

W. O. Beeman, chairman of the board, will preside. Various service chairmen will submit their reports, and plans for the annual roll call will be made. Plans for the regional conference to be held on Oct. 20 also will be formulated Thursday.

It is said that there are 11,896,780 different hands possible in the game of bridge.

FIRE COSTS

Wichita's Credit Near Vanishing Point, Says McClure

Members of the Lions club Wednesday noon were told by Fire Chief J. L. McClure that Wichita Falls probably will have only a 3 per cent fire record credit next year as a result of recent fires here, and the loss of credit each year since 1928.

Chief McClure cited the fact that Wichita Falls enjoyed a 15 per cent good fire record in 1928 and urged the cooperation of his hearers in decreasing the number of serious fires here.

Jim King, chairman of a committee named recently to prepare an exhibit booth at the county fair at Iowa Park, reported that such a booth, representing all Lions clubs in this county has been prepared.

Cleo Grantham, violinist, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker; and L. N. Herzog, tap dancer, accompanied by Mrs. Marion Smith, provided entertainment features. E. T. O'Hara of Sand Springs, Okla., was a guest at the meeting.

VALLEY PLANS READY SOON

Meeting of Committee Set For Oct. 16

Plans for the development of the resources of the irrigated valley here will be completed Friday, Oct. 16, it was announced Wednesday afternoon following a meeting of the special irrigation committee recently named to undertake the project.

At that time, it was further announced, a date will be selected on which to call a mass meeting of the citizenship, to whom the completed arrangements will be submitted for approval. After that, it was said, the actual program of development will be put under way.

In the meantime several meetings of the committee will be held, according to A. E. Kelly, general chairman. One such meeting will be held Friday, Oct. 9, at 2:30 p. m., in the chamber offices. The meeting of Oct. 16, also will be held at the same hour and place.

Lines along which development of the valley is sought include colonization, the creation of an adequate marketing system, a system of drainage for irrigated lands, the creation of a "farm plan" for the systematic production of farm commodities, and a means of financing valley farm projects.

Fourth Man Held in Bank Robbery Accused of Using Torches on Safe

Wichitan Makes $1,000 Bond on Charge Here, But Faces Second Complaint at Archer City

Lex McClellan, charged with receiving and concealing stolen property in a complaint filed here Sunday by Sheriff Fred McDaniel of Archer county, perfected bond in amount of $1,000 Wednesday afternoon and was at once transferred to the Archer county jail at Archer City pending the approval of bond on a charge lodged against him there.

The Archer county complaint charges the defendant with being an accessory after the fact with relation to the Dundee bank robbery last January, according to District Attorney Sam B. Spence. Bond in that case has been set at $500, Mr. Spence said, and had not yet been perfected Wednesday night.

The charges against McClellan, according to Sheriff Perry Browning, resulted from his alleged assistance in opening and disposing of the safe stolen from the bank at Dundee. Experienced in welding as a result of long employment in that capacity in the oil fields of Wichita county, the defendant is accused by the state of having used the acetylene torches with which the safe and strong box supposedly were opened.

Living near this city recently with his wife and five children, it was said, he was working on a crew engaged in repairing gas lines in the business district here when apprehended by city officers Wednesday.

Hart Assumes Duties As Nazarene Pastor

Rev. H. J. Hart has established his residence in Wichita Falls, and has taken up his duties as pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene, succeeding Rev. W. B. Walker who recently resigned to become pastor of the Nazarene church at Ashland Kentucky.

The new minister formerly was superintendent of the North Dakota district of the Church of the Nazarene. He is a graduate of the Northwest Nazarene college at Nampa, Idaho, and has had extensive experience as a minister.

'Emotional Leader' Needed Says King

Dire need for "a leader who can get hold of the emotions of the people and convince them that they really are going somewhere" was declared by Bert King, local attorney, before members of the Optimist club Wednesday noon in deploring the prevalence of depressed financial activity.

Mr. King extolled the individual who has reached the point where he can poke fun at the depression, and said that whenever such an attitude becomes general, "the end will be near."

Much of the economic congestion, Mr. King said, is due to the fact that people have talked it into existence.

Temple Shell, president of the Speakers club, spoke briefly in observance of national fire prevention week.

"Should some public enemy invade our country annually, killing 10,000 people, injuring 20,000 others, and causing millions of dollars worth of property loss each year, it would arouse us to action," he said. "Yet each year fire takes that toll, and still we are careless about where we throw our cigaret butts and our matches."

Miss Mildred Anderson played a piano solo during the hour. Solon Featherston was in charge of the program.

THEY'RE MILDER. The best Turkish and Domestic tobacco that money can buy is put into Chesterfield. Chesterfield tobacco is the finest-textured, the smoothest and ripest that grows—ripened and sweetened in the sunshine, cured right by the farmer and aged right for two years in wooden hogsheads. Mellow—and wonderfully mild!

THEY TASTE BETTER. These mild, smooth tobaccos are put together exactly right. The aroma of Turkish, the mellow sweetness of Domestic—blended and cross-blended. How it's done is Chesterfield's secret—but millions know how much better it tastes!

THEY'RE PURE. Everything that goes into Chesterfield is tested by expert chemists. The purest, finest cigarette paper made; a clean, tight-sealed package. "Pure as the water you drink."

THEY SATISFY. The package...neat, clean. The cigarettes...well-filled. The paper ... pure white. And with your very first puff, you notice they taste better. Pleasing and satisfying—Chesterfields just seem to suit you, right down to the ground.

Four hits—four good things about every Chesterfield cigarette. Remember: They are Milder—Taste Better—Pure—Satisfy.

GOOD . . . they've got to be good!
