NEW ORCHESTRA MOVEMENT ON

ERNEST KATZ ORGANIGING SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA FOR SUNDAY CONCERTS

MOVE AN AMBITIOUS ONE

Believed Large Number of Music Lovers Here Will Make Project Successful

A symphony orchestra, to render classical concerts on Sunday afternoons and on other occasions during the winter, is now being organized in this city by Ernest Katz, director of the Katz orchestra. This is one of the most ambitious musical undertakings ever attempted in a city this size, but it is believed that the exceptionally large number of music-lovers here will make it successful.

The Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the movement and Mr. Katz is busy in the organization of his orchestra. There is a large amount of intsrumental talent in this city, most of which will be enlisted for the orchestra and it is probable that outside musicians will also take part.

Symphony concerts have proven a popular form of entertainment in larger Texas cities and it is believed that they would be appreciatively received here.

HAT IS PASSED AT COLONEL'S MEETING

Progressive Manager Adopts New Method to Replenish Treasury—It Proves Successful

Mackinaw City, Mich., Oct. 9.—Former President Roosevelt carried his campaign into the upper peninsula of Michigan today. The Progressive campaign manager introduced a new feature, designed to replenish the treasury in the present tour of Col. Roosevelt. In the party is a representative of the financial bureau whose mission is to seize the opportunity for the collection of funds in the gathering of crowds to hear the colonel.

The plan was first tried at Detroit and nearly $1000 was raised. Before the colonel arrives at a meeting place, subscription blanks are distributed among the crowd. The hat is passed and buttons and certificates of membership in the Progressive party are sold.

ROOSEVELT GETS IDEA OF MONOPOLY REGULATION FROM MEN WHO CONTROL STEEL TRUST

WILSON TOURING ILLINOIS

Nominee Declares We Cannot Afford President Who Has Viewpoint of Trusts

By Associated Press.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 9.—Governor Wilson today in referring to Colonel Roosevelt and his plan for government regulation of trustees, said:

"When gentlemen proposing to legalize monopoly, speak in the name of Lincoln, it is as if those who intend to perpetuate human slavery had dared to speak in the name of the great emanicipator. We are going to repudiate this slavery just as emphatically as we have repudiated the other. We are not going to look to the gentleman who established that slavery in order to accomplish our liberty.

"I am not trying to put Mr. Roosevelt in a hole," said Gov. Wilson, "in referring to his statement that the United States Steel corporation was behind the third party program in thought."

"I am simply trying to show that Mr. Roosevelt has the viewpoint of the trusts and that we cannot afford to have a man as president of the United States who has that viewpoint.

"It is a matter of perfect indifference where Mr. Roosevelt gets his money, but it is a matter of a great deal of difference to me where he gets his ideas and he gets his ideas in regard to the segulation of monopoly from the gentlemen who control the United States Steel corporation."

FEE SPLITTING NOW UNDER THE BAN

Texas Medical Association will Suspend Members Guilty of That Practice

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 9.—Decisive action against the practice of fee-splitting as practiced by some physicians in Texas was taken by the board of councilors of the Texas State Medical Association at a meeting at the Westbrook hotel Tuesday. Under the ruling of the board of councilors any physician who shall be found guilty of splitting fees shall either be reprimanded, suspended or expelled from the Medical association.

Dr. Frank D. Boyd of Fort Worth is chairman of the board of councilors and presided at the meeting yesterday. Dr. John S. Turner, president of the Texas State Medical Association, is an ex-officio member of the board was present. Other members of the board present were Dr. W. A. King of San Anotnio, secretary; Dr. W. W. Ralton of Houston, Dr. J. H. Ball of Crystal Falls and Dr. H. D. Barnes of Childress.

This stringent action relative to fee splitters had its inception at the annual convention of the American Medical Association at Atlantic City, N. J., last June, at which time the following resolution was passed:

"It is detrimental to the public good and degrading to the profession, and therefore unprofessional, to give or to receive a commission or to divide a fee for medical advice or surgical treatment, unless the patient or his next friend is fully informed as to the terms of the transaction. The patient should be made to realize that a proper fee should be paid the family physician for the service he renders in determining the surgical or medical treatment suited to the condition, and in advising concerning those best qualified to render any special service that may be required by the patient."

This matter was taken up at the annual convention of the Texas State Medical Association at Waco at which time the following was made a part of the constitution and by-laws of the association:

"Any member who shall be found guilty of fee-splitting in any of its forms as defined by the board of councilors shall be reprimanded, suspended or expelled from the association."

The action of the state association left the matter up to the board of councilors to define just what fee-splitting was and the meeting yesterday was called principally for that purpose. The board took cation by passing a resolution as follows:

"Any physician or surgeon shall be deemed guilty of fee-splitting who shall give or receive, or agree to give or receive a commission; or divide or agree to divide a fee for medi-

HONORS EVEN IN THRILLING GAME

BOTH SIDES SCORE IN TENTH—MATHEWSON PITCHES ENTIME GAME FOR GIANTS.

THREE BOSTON PITCHERS

Collins Taken Out When New York Rallies In Eighth—Heavy Hitting By Both Sides

By Associated Press.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—After New York, by a thrilling rally in the eighth, had cut down Boston's lead and forged to the front; after Boston had come back and tied the score again, sending the game into extra innings; after New York had scored in the tenth, only to see the Sox again tie it up—after these events had thrilled the immense throng for over two hours today, darkness fell and the game ended with honors even.

The Sox used three pitchers in their desperate attempt to stem the tide of Giant batters. Collins retired in the eighth and Bedient replaced Hall in the eleventh. Collins forced the Giant batters to send fly after fly to the outfield in the first seven innings, but an error in the eighth seemed to unsteady him and in a moment he was hopelessly up in the air.

Chirsty Mathewson went the full route for the Giants and after the first inning pitched steadily, ruthlessly, wonderfully. With the exception of Fletcher, who had an expensive off day, Christy's support was good and Beaneaters one by one were thrown out at first.

It was a game for blood, one of the most exciting exhibitions a world's series crowd ever witnessed. Tris Speaker saved the day for Boston in the eighth with a three-bagger which he was allowed to stretch to a tally. Murray starred with the bat for the Giants.

Boston took a commanding lead of three runs in the opening frame and increased it by another in the fifth. The Giants battled grimly and gamely on, sending fly after fly to be scooped in by the outfielders.

One run came in the third, another in the fifth. In the eighth with two runs needed to tie the score, New York's "break" came. An error by Lewis, who dropped Snodgrass' fly, seemed to unnerve Collins and Doyle singled. Doyle was forced at second, but a two-bagger by Murray completed Collins' demoralization and he was dericked, going to the bench with tears pouring down his face. It was Murray's fourth hit of the game and the sixth of the series; he failed to get a hit in the entire series last year.

Hall was sen in to replace Collins and yielded a two-bagger to Herzog, letting in two scores.

That gave the Giant sa one-run lead, and Boston tied the score in her half of the eighth after two were out. Lewis hit for two bases and scored when Fletcher's third error of the game let Gardner's drive get away.

Neither scored in the ninth and when New York got a run in the tenth on Merkle's triple and McCormick's sacrifice fly, the Gotham crowd thought the game was won. But Boston came back with a snap and vim. Speaker hitting for three bases and scoring when the throwin was handled badly. The Bostonians went frantic in their joy.

A three bagger on each side in the tenth allowed each side to score. Merkle did the work for New York and Speaker for Bsoton. The crowd already frantic from recent events, was thoroughly on edge when the eleventh came, but it closed scoreless and the game was called.

Shortly before 2 o'clock Mayor Fitzgerald of this city drove out onto the field in an automobile, which he presented to Manager Jake Stahl on behalf of the Boston fans, with appropriate oratory. A silver bat, which was presented to Captain Wagner, the Red Sox shortstop, was another gift from the fans.

The ground rules were announced; a bit into left field bleachers was to count as a two base hit, balls going into the other temporary stands counting for home runs. The game began.

FIRST INNING.

New York—Collins sent the first one over a pretty strike on Snodgrass and the Boston fans cheered at this fore-runner of victory, but Snodgrass drove the joy from their faces by hitting the second ball pitched into the left field bleachers for two sacks. Doyle could not solve Collins' delivery and Becker went out, Yerkes to Stahl, Snodgrass making it to third on the play. Time was called while the umpires cleared the field of photographers who were crowding over the lot. Murray rolled a short one to Collins, who threw him out at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Boston—Hooper hit a scratchy one to the infield and beat it, to first amid yelps of joy from the home fans which increased wildly when he stole second with a brust of speed; Meyers threw wild in the attempt to catch him. Fletcher, apparently unnerved by Hooper's steal dropped the liner which Yerkes sent in his direction, and the runner was safe. Tris Speaker advanced to the bat amid a tremendous ovation and attempted to sacrifice; he was too fast for the infielders and was safe on first, making it none out and the bases full. Gardner rolled one across the field and was out at first, but Hooper scored. Jake Stahl came up and sent a stinging liner to left field, bringing Lewis and Speaker across the rubber. Wagner flied out to Doyle. Three runs, three hits, one error.

SECOND INNING.

New York—Merkle struck out. Herzog cut loose with a corking drive to deep center. Meyers sent a blinding liner toward Gardner, who received it glancingly in the face in attempting to handle it, Herzog scored. Gardner seemed dazed, but continued playing. Fletcher was out on a high one to the outfield. Matthewson rolled a grounder to Yerkes, forcing Meyers at second. One run, two hits, no errors. The New York rooting contingent seemed to take heart again.

Boston—Carrigan was an easy out, Herzog to Mergle and Collins was also easy with an infield grounder. Hooper got his second hit of the game, a handsome two-hagger to right field. Yerkes went out, Fletcher to Merkle. No runs, one hit, no errors.

THIRD INNING.

New York—Collins was using a fast curve, which broke over the corner of the plate. Snodgrass drew a high fly to Hooper, and Doyle was out on a high foul to Gardner; Becker was thrown out at first by Wagner. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—Cheers greeted Speaker as he came to the bat and he sent a cannon-ball smash towards first that looked good for two bases. Merkle leaped high in the air and came down with the ball in his mitt, getting a hearty hound of applause. Lewis flied out to Murray. Gardner went out, Doyle to Merkle. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING.

New York—Murray slammed a sizzling three-bagger far into right field and the New York crowd welcomed it with much joy. Herzog sent a long fly to Speaker and Murray's spikes had scarred home plate before it could be thrown in. Meyers hit to left field; Wagner managed to knock the ball down, but it was a hit. Fletcher flied out to Hooper. One run, two hits, no errors.

Boston—Mathewson seemed in better form than at the start, but seemed unwilling to use his fade-away; he fanned Jake Stahl, and Wagner flied out to Murray; Merkle easily handled Carrigan's grounder. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING.

New York—Collins appeared in fine fettle and fanned Mathewson and Sondgrass, Carrigan throwing the former out at first after dropping the ball. Doyle flied out to Lewis. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—The home fans begged the Sox to increase the one-run lead and after Collins had fanned, Hooper got his third single of the game, a nifty drive to center. Snodgrass and Murray of New York swapped places, the former going to right and the latter to left. Hooper won added laurels by again stealing second, Meyers' throw being too low to handle safely.

CHILLY WAIT FOR FANS AT THE BOSTON PARK.

By Associated Press.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—There was a sharp note of autumn in the air this morning and many of the fans who came early to the ball park were equipped with furs and sweaters. From their positions under the shelter of the fence, where they had been waiting all night, more than four hundred baseball enthusiasts saw the sun rise.

The men who made up this line came from all parts of New England. There was a party of fur-coated men who came down from Manchester, New Hampshire, late last night. A half dozen were from Worcester and stood in line with a party of students from the University of Maine.

The night on the picket line was very interesting. It was too cold to sleep and those in line could not walk to keep warm for fear they would lose their positions. Bon fires were lighted and a few persons gathered about them and dozed. Wagner of the Red Sox, was a happy captain.

"We got the jump on them," he said, "and we can do it again. Tereau, Mathewson or Marquard, it will be the same. The boys can hit anybody McGraw sends along. Watch us today." Joe Wood said:

"I am glad we won," and he added he was ready to go in again as soon as he is wanted. Manager McGraw said merely:

"The series is far from decided."

Everything in connection with the mobilization has owrked the utmost smoothness and there has been a remarkable absence of confusion at the war offices.

The stock exchange in London was somewhat more affected today by the Balkan situation.

DEFENSE IN DYNAMITE CASE IS OUTLINED

Attorney Harding Declares Iron Workers' Union Appropriated No Money for Dynamiting

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—What the defense will be in the trial of the men accused by the government of complicity in the dynamite conspiracy was outlined before the jury yesterday by William N. Harding, attorney for the defendants.

Mr. Harding said at the outset it would be shown that the executive board of the International Iron Workers never appropriated a dollar to be used for dynamiting. If any one connected with the union diverted funds for any illegal purpose the guilty persons, he said, it would be shown were not among the present defendants.

"When you have heard all the testimony we think you will have concluded that about three men were engaged in the nefarious work of dynamiting and that those three men already have pleaded guilty."

Referring to letters written by Frank M. Ryan, president of the Iron Workers' Union, to various business agents, which the government quoted as showing that "jobs" was the term used to designate explosions against employers of non union labor, Mr. Harding said it would be shown that "jobs" meant only new work, which offered opportunity for union men to get employment. He added it would be upon the very letters which the government quoted in the indictments that the defense expected to rest its case.

Once Mr. Harding became so vehement in answering District Attorney Miller that Judge Anderson interposed, "The Court will make allowances for your enthusiasm for the defendants, but it is not necessary for you to split the ears of the jurors in an opening statement."

The district attorney had just completed an address to the jury of twenty-three hours. In concluding, he described the arrest of J. B. McNamara and Ortie E. McManigal at Detroit, saying that while in the hands of detectives McNamara had offered first $5,000 and then $30,000 if they would free him. "McNamara said it was no use to arrest him, for behind him he had the Iron Workers' Union and behind the union the American Federation of Labor," said Mr. Miller. "He said he would raise $50,000 and employ Clarence S. Darrow to defend him."

Mr. Miller said Herbert S. Hockin, acting secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers in betraying his fellow-defendants, had delivered to the government agents keys of the union headquarters offices and permitting a telephonic "spy" system to be installed under the desk of President Frank M. Ryan.

Attorneys for the defense continued to outline their case before the jury

THE EVIDENCE ACCUMULATES

SEN. SCOTT AND JUDGE LOVETT TELL WHAT THEY KNOW ABOUT "HARRIMAN FUND"

STANDARD OIL MONEY

Was Never Returned, so Far as Any of the Witnesses Have Testified

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, brother of the president, was the most impotrant witness to be heard today before the campaign contributions committee. Former Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia, was today's first witness.

"When we got low in funds in October 1904," said Scott, "I asked Mr. Bliss if he could not go to 26 Broadway and get some money. He said no, that he had already secured a contribution from those people. I asked him how much they had given, and he said $100,000."

Mr. Scott said he was in the Republican National headquarters in New York in October 1904, when a telephone call came "from the White House" for Treasurer Bliss or Chairman Cortelyou. Neither was present, so he talked on the wire.

Scott did not identify the speaker at the White House end of the wire, but referred to him as "the voice from the White House," and as "the resopnse from the White House."

"What is this trouble I hear about Higgins?" Senator Scott said he heard over the wire.

"I hear he may be defeated," was the answer by Scott.

"Can't the state committee supply the necessary funds?" asked the White House. Mr. Scott said he told of the difficulties in getting money for the campaign and said the White House replied, "I would rather lose the election in the country than be defeated in my own state."

Scott replied, "There is no danger of your being defeated," and the voice at the White House said, "Mr. Harriman is coming to see me and I will see if we can arrange to raise funds to help Higgins."

Scott said the committee would have to decide with whom he had talked and then said:

"O, I might as well answer your question. I thought I was talking with President Roosevelt.

"When all the trouble broke out about the life insurance companies and campaign contributions," said Scott, "I went to the White House and suggested to President Roosevelt when Mr. Perkins was indicted, that we who had benefitted by his contributions would supply funds to replace those he would have to return, and for the use of which he was in trouble.

"I said I was willing to return the amount that had been sent into West Virginia, but the president said no, that if the money was to be returned, it should be returned by the party as a whole."

Scott said he never had been informed of a return of $100,000 to the Standard Oil, or any portion of it.

Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the executive committee of the Harriman system said in testimony:

"I knew of Mr. Harriman's visit to Washington in October 1904. He told me the National committee was in a hole and owed the state committee $200,000. He said 'the president wants me to help them out, and I have got to do it.'"

Judge Lovett added: "Mr. Harriman thought of making a contribution in 1908, but as it would have to be made public, he said it would do more harm than good under conditions existing then."

BUGSCUFFLE BUDGET

Editor The Times:

As I never see any correspondence from this place, I thought that maybe your readers would like to hear from us. In this day of publicity and boost, the place, the institution or the business that is not advertised goes to the bats. A man from Wichita Falls, who lectured at our school house last night said that "a man who did not advertise, was like a fellow winking at his best girl in the dark; he knew what he was doing but nobody else did."

So I thought that I would let you readers know something of what and of where we are in this thriving little town of Bugscuffle. And I wish to stop right here and remark that a certain person from either Wichita Falls or from Amarillo in a letter to one of our Texas papers, declared that the chief attractions of the town of Bugscuffle were an ant hill and a blacksmith shop. This is a base slander upon the people of this place who are just as progressive and up to date as any small community in Texas. We have a blacksmith shop, and we are not ashamed of it. Our blacksmith, Mr. Jake Bellows, is a good citizen and is held in high esteem by all our people. We also have the ant hill. It is just in front of Judge Jim Jawsmith's office; and the judge has spent no little time and coal oil trying to do away with it. But we have much else besides these things. We have a large and flourishing general mercantile store where one can buy anything from a paper of pins to a steam engine, and whose proprietor, Squire Yukes, is one of the best business men and all around good citizens anywhere to be found. Our postoffice is in his building, and his daughter, Miss Mandy, attends to the mail. She has been very much interested lately in a postal card correspondence between an old maid up North and an old widower who lives in the country near our town. I heard her say last night at the lecture that she believed the thing was going to come off. Mandy is a cute, smart girl; and it is talked that she is also in a fair way to "get off"—with Jabe Jawsmith, the eldest son of Col. Jim. But then that is mostly young folks' talk; older people care but little about it.

But I started out to tell what all we had here that made Bugscuffle look like a town. Well, we have what have already mentioned, and a cotton gin, a school house, a church house and a meat market. This last concern is about to play out; for prices have gone so high, and now that the rabbit season is coming in, many of our people positively refuse to buy the packing house goods. Our local butcher, Mr. Bouncer, got a little miffed with old Bro. Bugle, our pastor, because the old man, in an exhortation, urged the people not to spend their money for that which was not bread, nor for their labor for that which did not profit." Of course the old man was quoting the scripture, and had no reference to local price conditions; but Bouncer thought he had, and was just a little sore at the old preacher, until Squire Yukes explained to him what the old brother was talking about. Some of our people thought that Bill Bouncer had too much sense to get mad at a thing like that; but Bill never was very bright and—well, the fools are not all dead yet. Nor do they all live at Bugscuffle either.

But one of the most important institutions of our town I have left for the last to mention—"The Weekly Bug" our city paper. Trav Sakes is the editor; and as he was born and bred in this place, we are all very proud of him. And justly so; for he had a very poor chance in life, and had to scratch gravel, as Col. Jawsmith said of himself, in order to make good. Trav is young yet—only twenty-five—and has not fully developed his literary powers; but he is full of promise, and, as Dr. Pellet, our local physician says, "We are watching his smoke." In order that the reader may get some idea of his style, I quote the following which is a part of a write-up of a young lady from Wichita Falls, who left here last week after a month's visit to relatives in the Wunks: "Last evening witnessed the departure from our pleasant and delightful city, of one of the most radient maidens whose soft, angelic tread ever tenderly pressed the fielding soil of Bugscuffle real estate. In the language of the poet,

Her eyes are like the emperian dome of heaven;

Her step as soft as moon beams on a bed of flowers;

Her voice as sweet as angel whispers breathed

When The Giraffe Has A Sore Throat

When it was discovered the other day that Fritz, one of the three giraffes with the Barnum and Bailey circus, and sire of Harry, the infant giraffe, which will be seen here on Tuesday, October 15th, had the sore throat, "Happy Jack" Snellen, the boss canvasman, was sent for. This was because Jack knew where a step-ladder could be quickly procured. Some times when the circus has a sick giraffe on its hands they send out and hire a steeple jack, give him an atomizer and hoist him up in a bos'n's chair, but the stepladder treatment is more in vogue at the present time, for the reason that the stepladder stands without hitching, while the bos'n's chair sways all around with the movements of the animal's head. Fritz hadn't been quite himself for some time. Several times Andrew Zingara, who divided his time between the giraffes and Chimmie Fadden, a chimpanzee, had seen Fritz scratching his head against the top of the tent, and once he had seen him snatching a mouthful from a rubber plant used for decorative purposes. Zingara says it is a bad sign when giraffes begin to eat rubber plants. It indicates that the beast begins to fear for the elasticity of its neck, and when it begins to feel that way it falls a victim to melancholia and pines away. A live giraffe is worth around $15,000. The hide isn't worth much.

The first that anybody around the show noticed about Fritz's sore throat was when he sneezed. When a giraffe sneezes it usually causes comment. It did upon this particular day. Enricho de Carraro, who has one of the lemonade and peanut stands close by the giraffe corral, was dozing comfortably behind his wares. When Fritz sneezed, Enricho awoke and got a tarapaulin. When he had spread this over his stand and hoisted an umberlla he felt more at ease. Then it was that Snellen was sent for, also the circus medico. They sat back and watched Fritz's throat while the attendants fed him some choice clover hay. Foot by foot the hay worked itself down, pausing no wand anon to rest, but the watching eyes noticed that Fritz made harder work of it than usual, and that the sky line of his neck was irregular. The treatment was obvious. Fritz is clever as giraffes go, but has never been taught to gargle his throat, so it was necessary to resort to the atomizer treatment. The requisites for this treatment are a barrel of peroxide of hydrogen, a force pump, a steady hand and a clear conscience. Since the first treatment Frizt hasn't sneezed once.

Of Interest to Wichita Falls Readers

For months Wichita Falls citizens have seen in these columns enthusiastic praise of Doan's Kidney Pills by residents. Would these prominent people recommend a remedy that had not proven reliable? Would they confirm their statements after years had elapsed if personal experience had not shown the remedy to be worthy of endorsement? No stronger proof of merit can be had than cures that have stood the test of time. The following statement should carry conviction to the mind of every Wichita Falls reader:

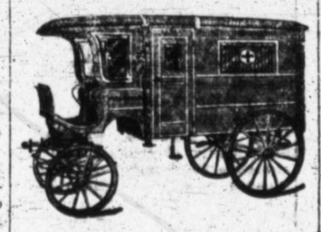

J. E. Sport, Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "We still use Doan's Kidney Pills in our family whenever occasion requires a kidney medicine and are always greatly benefited. We have previously endorsed this remedy and you may continue using the statement."

CHRISTIAN CHURCH PLANS NEW STRUCTURE

Congregational Meeting Will Be Held Saturday to Take Definite Step

The congregation of the First Christian Church is getting ready to begin the erection of a new church building and a meeting will be held at the church next Sunday to take further definite steps. A new church building has been the desire of the congregation for some time, but it was only recently that conditions were favorable to the movement.

The new building will be located at the corner of Tenth and Travis, just diagonally across from where the First Presbyterian Church will probably erect its new building. It will make the third church in that immediate vicinity, as the First M. E. Church, South is only a block away.

The details of the plans for the new Christian church are still indefinite and it is not known what its cost will be, but the congregation has decided almost unanimously that it is going to have a new church.

Giants and Red Sox In Eleven Inning Tie

Yerkes sent a long one to right center and it got away for three bases, Hooper scoring. Speaker came to the plate and sent a burning liner to Fletcher who caught it and threw quickly to Herzog, catching Yerkes far off the bag for a double play, which caused the Gotham fans to yell gamely. One run, two hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING.

New York—Becker went out on a grounder, Yerkes to Stahl. Murray singled to right field, his second hit of the game and fourth of the series; Merkle flied to Speaker. Murray tried to steal second and was cut down. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Boston—Lewis sent a warm grounder to Fletcher who made his second error of the game, the runner being safe; he advanced to second when Gardner sacrificed, Mathewson to Merkle; Stahl sent Merkle a high foul which the first baseman dropped; Stahl went out, Mathewson to Merkle, Lewis taking third. Wagner rolled one to Mathewson who touched him out. No runs, no hits, one error.

SEVENTH INNING.

New York—Herzog singled to right field and Meyers went out on a pop-up to Yerkes; Herzog stole second, Fletcher sent Stahl an easy pop-up and Mathewson struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Boston—Herzog took Carrigan's grounder and threw him out at first; Collins succumbed to the fade-away. Hooper was easy work, Doyle to Merkle. No runs, no hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING.

New York—Lewis bobbled on Snodgrass' fly and the runner was safe; Doyle singled to center, advancing Snodgrass. Becker sent a grounder to Yerkes forcing Doyle out at second, but Snodgrass went to third. He scored when Murray smashed a two-bagger into the left field bleachers, Becker going to third.

Stahl sent Collins to the bench and the pitcher walked in crying like a girl. Hall went in to pitch. Carrigan caught Merkle's high fly. Gardner dropped Herzog's foul after a hard run; it was not an error. Herzog then sent a hard drive into the left field bleachers for two sacks, scoring Becker and Murray. Wagner threw Meyers out at first on a grounder. Three runs, three hits, one error.

Boston—Yerkes flied out to Murray and Speaker was out on an easy grounder to Mathewson. Things looked dark for a score, but Lewis in a measure redeemed himself for his error by a double into the left field bleachers; Murray fell head over heels in the temporary grandstands trying to catch Lewis' drive and an enthusiastic spectator kept the fielder's hat for a souvenir. Gardner sent a vicious drive toward Fletcher, who let it get away; it was a terrific swat, but the official scorer gave Fletcher an error. Lewis scored on the play. Doyle could not handle Stahl's infield hit and the captain was safe, Gardner going to third; Meyers tried hard to catch Gardner at third but failed. Wagner struck out and the New Yorkers breathed again. One run, two hits, one error.

NINTH INNING.

New York—Fletcher went out on a grounder, Wagner to Stahl. It was a dazzling play Wagner scooped up the ball with one hand and without stopping, shot it like a rifle bullet to Stahl, who took the throw with one hand, nipping Fletcher by inches. Mathewson popped out to Stahl; Snodgrass waited and drew a walk. Hall purposely gave Doyle his base on balls and the New York stands begged Becker to hit, but he too, drew a base on balls. Murray rolled a grounder to Wagner who forced Becker at second and the Bostonians whooped gleefully as the score-keeper hung up another cipher. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—The home fans rose to their feet as the Red Sox went to bat in the last half of the ninth with the score tied, and kept up a continuous cheering while the inning lasted. There were three easy outs—Carrigan went out, Mathewson to Merkle, Hall fouled out to Herzog and Hooper sent an easy fly to Doyle. No runs, no hits, no errors. The crowds settled back in the seats nervously, to await the extra innings.

TENTH INNING.

New York—Merkle gave the Boston crowd a sinking sensation around the heart with a long three-bagger over Tris Speaker. Herzog was thrown out at first by Stahl and Meyers was purposely walked. Shafer ran for Meyers and McCormick was sent in to bat for Fletcher; he sent a long fly to Lewis, Shafer going to second on the throw. Mathewson flied out to Yerkes. One run, one hit, no errors.

Boston—Wilson went in to catch and Shafer went to short. Wilson threw Yerkes out on a grounder. Speaker hit for three bases. On the throw-in Shafer caught ball and threw wildly to Wilson who dropped the ball. Speaker slid across the plate amid a three-story ovation, from the stands. The score was tied. Speaker's drive was to deep center and was scored as a three-bagger, an error being charged to Catcher Wilson. Lewis hit for two bases; there was only one out. Gardner grounded to Doyle and was out, Lewis going to third. Stahl went out, Herzog to Merkle. One run, two hits, one error.

ELEVNTH INNING

New York—Bedient went in the box for Boston and started off by hitting Snodgrass on the arm. Doyle fanned and Snodgrass met his fate trying to pilfer second. Wagner taking the throw. Becker walked, but was given the same deal as Snodgrass when he tried to steal. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Boston—Shafer took Wagner's grounder and threw him out at first and Carrigan died by the Speaker-Merkle route on a long, handsome throw. Bedient was easy, Mathewson to Merkle.

The game was then called, as it was getting too dark for good playing.

DRILLING CONTRACTOR SERIOUSLY INJURED

Frank Pickle of the drilling contractors firm of Pickle and Barger, sustained serious injuries this morning at the Russell brothers well near Seymour, when he lost his balance and fell forty feet from the derrick. While the exact nature and extent of his injuries is not known, he is understood to be very badly hurt.

R. G. Galoway, also a contractor, drilling the Westover well in Baylor county for Russell Brothers, was brought here this morning with a number of steel particles in his eye. He was given immediate treatment by a local physician, the steel being removed with a magnet. The rig had been idle for several days and some rust had accumulated on the steel cable; when drilling started, some of the tiny particles of steel flew off, lodging in the contractor's eye.

There is more interest just now in baseball than in the presidential race, and for the next five or six days Wilson, Roosevelt and Taft will have to content themselves by taking second honors.

We must not forget the visitation of menigitis last winter. To prevent a recurrence we must have a clean town. We must go along the streams of this town and clean out the weeds. We must get into each neighborhood and call for a sprinkling of lime. We must call on the city authorities for better drainage in certain localities. Now is the time to act. tl pays to keep the premises clean. We must not have anything in this town anything that even approaches a slum district. Get busy cleaning up—that's all.—Waco Times. Herald.

All of which fit the situation here as perfectly as if tt was written with Wichita Falls in view.

The next legislature might do a service for the people of Texas by enacting a law forbidding transportation companies from carrying more passengers than they can provide seats for. Under the law a passenger is not to ride on the platform or steps of passenger coach, and if injured while violating this rule, the pasenger has no recourse. Yet transportation companies do not hesitate to collect full fares from those who have been admitted to the coaches, and do this with the full knowledge that passengers, from whom they accept fares can find no seats, and are therefore forced to violate the rules of both carrying company and the laws of the state by riding in positions that are dangerous to life and limb. If such a law was enacted, it might make travel a little more comfortable by forcing the carrying companies to place in service more equipment. Such a law should not be made to apply in cases where reduced excursion rates are being given by the transportation companies, but only in instances where first-class fares are collected and second-class or third-class accommodations are afforded. A transportation company that enjoys a thriving business should not wait for the law to force it to provide for the ordinary comforts of its passengers, but all of them do not do so, and when that is the case there should be a law to either force them to provide these comforts or forfeit the business.

Usually presidential years are looked upon and regarded as bad years for business, and as a result of such feeling, business is dull, men are thrown out of employment until after the election. But it is different this presidential election. What has caused the change? Is it the fact that about seven people out of ten that you meet and ask their opinion as to the final outcome of the election predict that it will be a victory—a veritable landslide for Wilson? Such a result necessarily calls for a change of National politics and policies, but the people,—the great majority of them, at least, seem more than willing to welcome such a change. Really, the people seemingly realize that a change is needed and must come, and are acting very much as if the verdict for such a change had already been rendered. This is evidence that the calamity howling indulged in by the Republicans to scare the people and make capital timid by predictions of what will take place should a Democrat be elected to succeed Taft is not having the usual effect. The people have heard that cry before, and this time have determined to turn a deaf ear to it. If the election could take place today there is but little doubt but that Wilson would carry at least two-thirds of the states, and the other one-third would be closely contested, with the chances about equal for Roosevelt or Taft carrying them. The New York Herald's straw vote, which is to be found in another place in this paper, shows Wilson the favorite in such states as Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, California, New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, all of which states are Republican, some of them overwhelmingly so, and even if Wilson should fail in being the favorite on election day, as the straw voting now shows him to be, it goes to show that a great number of Republicans in those states have become thoroughly satisfied that their party needs a cleaning, and they are going to render some assistance in the work. The New York Herald is regarded as an independent Republican paper, and in this presidential contest is supporting President Taft. Its reputation, however, for giving accurate news of elections, both during the progress of the campaign and after the elections have been held, is not surpassed by any other publication in the United States. For that reason a straw vote conducted by such a publication, carries with it a measure of confidence as to the accuracy and fairness of the manner in which the contest is conducted not enjoyed by other partisan newspapers.

CURRENT COMMENT

No Religious War.

The threat of some fervent Mohammendans to preach a Jehad or religious war in North Africa is likely to remain a threat.

The Mohammedan is always a potetial soldier. His creed makes him so. But it does not make him a fool, and he would be a fool if he tried to wage a holy war against England in Egypt and France in Algeria, as well as against Italy in Tripoli.

Neither is there much reason to believe that such a war could be carried much beyond the present district of hostilities. French rule is firmly fixed and popular in Algeria and Tunisia. English rule is both feared and respected in Egypt.

A Jehad, in fact, would be of profit only to German diplomacy, because it would embarrass France and England. It is not to be supposed that German diplomacy is instigating any such war; but it is highly probable that the statesmen of the Wilhelmstrasse are willing to keep the French and English worried a little about it. —Chicago Journal.

The Industrial Workers of the World.

The purposes and methods of the Industrial Workers of the World have never been concealed or disguised. The growth of this revolutionary society, ingeniously promoted by men of the Haywood type and fostered by the stupidness of some of its short-sighted opponents, has been entirely in the open.

Its present manifestations in spots so widely separated as Massachusetts and Switzerland, inspired by contempt for the law and hatred of its process and administrators, are the culmination of a series of moves for the intimidation of the law abiding population that have been made in boastful insolence through a long period of time. They are an earnest advocate of the serious program of violence which it is deliberately designed to put into operation throughout Christendom for the destruction of property, its protectors and its owners.

The Industrial Workers of the World constitute today a serious menace to all government and deserve the earnest scrutiny of those on which is laid the task of enforcing the laws. —New York Sun.

BAYING HOUNDS ON TRAIL OF ROBBERS

Posse of Twenty-five Heavily Armed Deputy Sheriffs With Dogs After Train Robbers

By Associated Press.

Fort Smith, Ark., Oct. 9.—Led by seven baying hounds, a posse of twenty-five heavily armed deputy sheriffs is today trailing the two desperadoes who last night held up and robbed westbound Rock Island train No. 41 between Howe and Wister, Oklahoma. The posse expects to overtake the men soon and a battle is expected.

The hounds picked up the trail at 4 o'clock this morning at a place where the bandits were seen to enter a cornfield. The robbers secured only a little loot. They boarded the train at Howe and after riding three miles on a baggage car, crawled over the tender to the engine and forced the engineer to stop.

The engine, baggage and mail cars were then uncoupled and run about three miles farther, leaving the remainder of the train standing out in the prairie. When the robbers stopped the train the second time, they compelled the engine crew and other trainmen to step to the ground where one man stood guard over them with a brace of revolvers.

The safe in the baggage car resisted seven charges of nitroglycerin, but its outer doors were blown off. The bandit operating the explosive was almost overcome by the fumes of five explosions and opened a bottle of whiskey which he found in the car.

He drank a goodly portion of the whiskey and then made two more attempts to blow the safe. He came so near being exhausted that he abandoned the job and went into the mail car, where he stole a quantity of mail. He was so groggy when he and his companion started to leave the desperadoes forced the fireman of the train to help the groggy one over the fence.

at the trial of the "dynamite plotters" today.

"These forty-five men," asserted Attorney Haring, "were not dynamiters, but were, as the evidence will disclose, lovers of peace and quiet. Witnesses will be brought from many cities to show the good reputation the defendants enjoy. Now jurors, look at the gray-haired man over there."

One by one, Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, John T. Butler of Buffalo, vice president, and other defendants, were required to stand up so the jury might become acquainted with their faces.

R. M. Moore having moved to California is offering his real estate located on Indiana avenue for sale. Anyone interested can see me in my office Kemp and Kell building, room 208. Mark H. Moore. 122-tfc.

Peoples' Campaign Fund Is Growing Very Steadily

W. J. Bullock, secretary of the Woodrow Wilson club, is in receipt of a letter from Judge Cato Sells, National Committeeman from Texas, saying that a crisis has been erached by the National committee in the matter of finances and unless there is an immediate response, the campaign will be most seriously handicapped.

It appears that the people everywhere are in hearty sympathy with the effort to remove the government from the control of the special interests, but too many seem to be waiting for the other fellow to furnish the money to free the government from such control. Of course this cannot be done so long as the special interests put up the money for the campaign.

Only one dollar was added to the fund being raised in Wichita county for the peoples' fight today. The contributor was H. G. Wilson. The fund now totals $159.50. Unless it grows faster the total will not reach $200 before election day.

EFFORT TO SECURE COTTON PICKERS VAIN

Man Sent By Chamber of Commerce to South Texas For Pickers Was Unsuccessful

No cotton pickers from South Texas can aid in the gathering of Wichita county's crop, according to L. Fahler, who was sent to South Texas by the Chamber of Commerce to secure pickers. The crop is not yet all gathered in South Texas, according to Mr. Fahler and relief from that quarter cannot be had for several weeks. Mr. Fahler hopes to be able to secure pickers later on in the season.

Offers of $1 and $1.25 per hundred, with board, are being made by Oklahoma farmers at present, according to reports received here, while Wichita county farmers are offering 85 cents per hundred with board or $1 per hundred without board. The result has been that transient pickers will not stop here, being attracted by the better wages offered a few miles across Red River.

Wichita county farmers say they cannot afford to pay more than they are now offering and are making out as best they can with what help they can secure.

Rohatch's Mineral Water.

Is highly recommended by physicians and patrons who have tested its merits, for indigestion, catarrh of the stomach, kidney and bladder trouble. This water stimulates the secretion of the stomach, increases digestion and favors a more complete absorption of the food and prevents the action of germs that cause typhoid and other infectious diseases.

This water can be purchased at the wells or delivered in jugs or cases.

This well is located one mile south of Alamo school building in Floral Heights, two deliveries daily, morning and afternoon. G. J. Rohatch, Owner. Phone 1601—1 long—4 shorts.

Breathe Hyomei and End Catarrh.

If you really want to get rid of vile catarrh why not give Booth's HYOMEI treatment a fair trial.

Fooshee & Lynch are authorized to refund your money if you think you have not been benefited, and on that basis every catarrh victim in Wichita Falls ought to start to banish catarrh this very day.

HYOMEI is a soothing, healing antiseptic air made from Australian Encalyptus and other antiseptics; it kills catarrh germs and contains no poisonous drugs. Simple instructions for use in each package. Complete outfit $1 and extra bottles 50 cents.

The stingless bee has been discovered in England, which inspires a hope, ultimately, for the checkless and letterless campaign.

Saves Leg Of Boy.

"It seemed that my 14 year old boy would have to lose his leg, on account of an ugly ulcer, caused by a bad bruise," wrote D. F. Howard, Aquone, N. C. "All remedies and doctors treatment failed till we tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and cured him with one box." Cures burns, boils and piles. 25 cents at all druggists.

The Texas Penitentiary System

This is the first of a series of articles on the Texas Penitentiaries and prison farms, the laws governing same, treatment of prisoners, business management of the system, suggested improvements, etc.

By Will H. Mayes

The laws of Texas now very carefully guard the rights of prisoners, granting many opportunities and privileges not formerly accorded them. These laws, under which the penitentiary system is now operated, were adopted in September, 1910, and became effective January 20, 1911, following the penitentiary investigation ordered by the thirty-first legislature. They largely embody the recommendations of the investigating committee and while probably needing some amendments, they, in the main, carefully safeguard the interests of the prisoners and of the state, the changes needed being only such as might naturally be expected to follow a first serious attempt at reforming the penal system of a state. Whatever changes may be suggested will be treated in another article, the purpose of this being merely to acquaint the public with the laws that now govern the system, as they affect the personal rights and privileges of prisoners.

After conviction, prisoners must be taken without undue delay, by the sheriffs of their respective counties or by penitentiary agents, direct to the Huntsville penitentiary. Each is required to make a statement giving a brief history of his life, where he has resided, names and postoffice addresses of his immediate relatives, and such other facts as will tend to show his past habits and character. This statement is verified or disproved by correspondence and is filed for future use. The prison physician makes a thorough medical examination of the prisoner, which is certified to the commission, photographs are taken, his description is attached to these and Bertillon measurements are taken. The prisoner is then, according to sex, color, age, health and knowledge, assigned to work within the walls, or outside, it being the policy of the commission to assign each one to the work to which he or she may be best adapted, and where the services may be most needed. A prisoner when received is carefully searched, and if any money is found on him, or is received by him afterwards it is taken in charge, placed to his credit and expended for his benefit on his written order under such restrictions as may be prescribed, and it is made a felony for any officer or employee, having in charge a prisoner's money, to misappropriate any part of it.

Prisoners are classified. In the first class are included young men, first offenders, those appearing to be corrigible, or less vicious than others, and likely to observe the laws and to maintain themselves by honest industry after their discharge. In the second class are included those appearing to be less corrigible, or more vicious, but content to work and reasonably obedient to prison discipline and who will not likely interfere with the labor or conduct of those with whom they may be employed. In the third class are the incorrigibles, those who are insubordinate to prison discipline, or vicious and who interfere with the labor and moral development of those with whom they come in contact. The prison commission makes rules for the promotion and reduction of prisoners from one class to another as each may deserve. The prisoners in each of these classes must be kept, as far as practicable in different or separate prisons, or upon separate farms.

Stripes and checks have been abolished, except for third class prisoners except as a mode of punishment for the violation of prison discipline.

The law has abolished whipping, except as to prisoners of the third class, who can not be made to observe the rules by milder methods of punishment. These can not be given more than twenty lashes on the bare rump and thighs with a leather strap not over two and a half inches wide and twenty-four inches long, attached to a wooden handle. No convict can be whipped until whipping has been authorized by at least two of the members of the prison commission upon their written order, such order to be executed in the presence of the prison physician, who must make a report to the commission which shall always be open for public inspection. This report must state the name of the convict whipped, the number of strokes administered, the size of the strap used, the time and place of the whipping and in whose presence it was done, and the cause for the whipping. The penitentiary commission must make a semi-annual report of the whipping of convicts to the district judge of the county where whippings are done, and the grand jury is authorized to make investigations and return indictments where whippings have been done in violation of the law. The utmost care must be exercised by those administering the whippings not to break the skin. Any one guilty of administering more lashes than twenty or whipping a prisoner except as provided by law, or of striking a prisoner except in self defense, may be fined and imprisoned and dismissed from the service. At the request of Governor Colquitt the commission has abolished the use of the strap entirely, and prisoners in Texas are not now whipped.

White and negro prisoners are not worked together when it can be avoided and they are kept separate when not at work.

The prison commission is required to provide as soon as practicable at each prison and farm, schools for instruction of the prisoners in the elementary branches of English and in industrial education, and such other instruction as they prescribe, providing also recreation, including music, at reasonable hours. Books are furnished the prisoners for reading and a circulating library is maintained.

Regular religious services by prison chaplains are provided for each prison and farm at least twice a month, the chaplains devoting their entire time to the religious training of the prisoners and to teaching.

The prison physician, and in his absence, the matron, has the authority to say whether the physical condition of female prisoners is such that they can perform any physical labor. The female prisoners are kept on a separate farm, the whites and blacks in separate buildings, with matrons in charge, who are required to look after the welfare of these prisoners and to live at the places where they are kept. Only married men, who must live with their families in houses provided by the state near the prisons, are employed as guards.

Every prisoner who becomes entitled to a diminuation of his sentence by good conduct receives ten cents a day for the time said prisoner is confined in prison, but when a prisoner forfeits any part of his good time by misconduct or violation of prison rules, he forfeits out of the compensation allowed him twenty-five cents a day for each day of such good time forfeited. When a prisoner has a family or relatives within the second degree of consanguinity, or affinity dependent on him, these savings are paid to such of them as may be designated by him, and if he has no such dependent relatives the amount is paid to him on his discharge from prison. The attorney general has ruled that a lifetime prisoner can not be paid this compensation.

Prisoners are required to work only ten hours a day, except in cases of extreme and unavoidable necessity, when they are paid ten cents an hour for overtime. The ten hours includes the time spent in going to and from the work, and prisoners are not required to travel faster than a walk. No greater amount of work shall be done by a prisoner than his physical health and strength will permit, nor can any prisoner be placed at any labor when the prison physician pronounces him unable to perform such labor.

Except in extreme cases, Sunday labor is not permitted, and when it is required, prisoners are allowed one dollar per day for each Sunday's work performed.

Prisoners who are found by the prison physician to be in such bad health as to require removal to another place, must be removed on the physician's recommendation.

Suitable clothing of substantial material, uniform make and reasonable fit, and substantial and comfortable footwear are furnished the prisoners. All must wear the clothing furnished by the commissioners, except in cases of extra meritorious conduct, when the commission may allow the wearing of citizen's underwear.

The prison food must be plentiful and wholesome and served in a way that tends to elevate the prisoners. The bill of fare for each week must be posted in the dining room, and a copy is sent to the commissioners. Prisoners are not allowed spiritous, malt or vinous liquors except upon prescription of the physician, and gambling is not permitted.

When a prisoner dies, if he is known to have any relatives within the third degree, they are informed of his death by wire, and if they claim, or will take charge of the body, it is embalmed and shipped to the relatives at the expense of the state, anywhere within the state. If the commission does not know the address of any such relatives, the prisoner is decently buried in citizen's clothing and the grave marked by a stone with the name of the prisoner, date of death and age, if known, inscribed on the stone, notice being sent to the county judge of the county from which the prisoner was sent to prison. The prison commission must keep a record of the deaths of prisoners. The nearest justice of the peace must be immediately notified of the death, and this officer must hold an inquest, forwarding the evidence and findings to the district judge of the district in which death occurred, and the judge must, if there is any suspicion of wrong doing, have the grand jury investigate the death.

Capable physicians of not less than two years' experience are employed to look after the health of the prisoners, these physicians being required to make full and complete monthly reports to the commission, stating the name, race, age and sex of prisoners treated by them, the malady or disease with which each is afflicted, wounds or injuries inflicted, if any, their nature and extent and how received, together with all information that they may possess relative to each case. This report must be sworn to, and the making of a false report subjects the physician to prosecution for perjury.

Dentists are also employed to visit all the prisons regularly and care for the teeth of the prisoners.

The governor, and all members of the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the state may visit the prisons at their pleasure and talk to prisoners apart from any other persons, as they may desire. Others may visit prisoners under regulations prescribed by the commission.

The prison commission, with the consent of the governor, may work prisoners on public works of the state, or a subdivision of the state, whenever some calamity prevents them from being worked inside the walls, or on the prison farms, but when so worked the humane provisions of the law must be strictly complied with.

To encourage prison discipline, distinctions may be made in the treatment of prisoners so as to extend all who are orderly, industrious and obedient, comforts according to their deserts, the rewards to consist of relaxation of prison rules, and social privileges not inconsistent with the prison discipline. Commutation for good behavior is made as follows: Two days per month off the first year of sentence, three days per month off the second month, four days per month off the third, five days off the fourth, six days off the fifth, seven days off the sixth, eight days off the seventh, nine off the eighth, ten off the ninth, fifteen off the tenth and all succeeding years of sentence. Sustained charges of misconduct, escapes, etc., subject the prisoner to a loss of all or part of his good time.

Certain classes of prisoners may upon certain conditions and restrictions be paroled, after two years' service in the penitentiary, upon recommendation of the prison officials, all paroles being subject to the approval of the governor.

A discharged prisoner is furnished a certificate of discharge, a decent outfit of citizen's clothing of good quality and fit, two suits of underwear, five dollars in money in addition to any to his credit, and railroad transportation to the nearest depot from which he was sentenced or to any point in the state designated by the prisoner.

The next article in this series will discuss the treatment of prisoners under the present laws.

Breakfast time should be the "curtain raiser" of a happy day.

But the day can't be a happy one with ill health.

Coffee is often a disturbing factor.

It contains a drug—caffeine—that gets on the nerves of many a naturally happy-tempered man or woman, resulting in "crossness" and irritability.

But now comes

This is the Heyday of BRAID

IF YOU are in doubt about trimming use braids and you will be highly approved by fashion, for fashion has taken us back to braids and has exploited them in so many new effects and novel uses that we hardly recognize them as the trimming of past seasons.

The revival of broadcloth, serges and velvets, smooth surfaces on which braids appear to the greatest advantage, has brought these trimmings in its wake. Moreover many garments this season depend on their smartness of cut rather than on much trimming and braid is the best sort of compromise between much trimming and no trimming. Then the peplum and Russian styles are in vogue again and there is no trimming for the severe Russian costume quite so appropriate as braid. Even the most dressy of the afternoon costumes—semi-dressy, to be sure—show the most dainty use of all sorts of fancy braids in trimming combinations.

Irregular and waved effects, wide and narrow, in the usual silk Hercules or in corded patterns, are really the leaders of the vogue, giving an unusual but striking appearance. Among the novelties are chenille and woolen braids, woven very often in combination of materials; fancy braidings and ornaments composed of silk cord or of soutache and applied to suits and to dresses as edging and as single trimming motifs. Metal is used in braids with the same rich effect that it is employed in so many trimming schemes this year—all gold or silver, in plain or fancy design, or gleaming metal threads enriching the weave of silk, chenille or wool.

In millinery, tailored trimming effects are wrought from braid with the smartest of results. Single braid bands, edges and prim little cockades and fancies and even pretentious bows are now used alone or in combination with feathers and velvets and the range of appropriate materials. Nothing, indeed, could be more chic with trotteur outfits than the new waved braid as it is at present utilized in the finish of the walking hat. For the trimming of the girl's school headwear can there be a thing that seems so exactly made for the purpose as braid, to complete her smart outfit of mannish wool coat and high topped button storm boots?

Neckwear is one of the style features of the fall and winter and naturally has not been neglected in the matter of braid. Decidedly unique designs are made of braided patterns applied to net for collar and cuffs set in Robespierres and Medici fashion, to be worn with coat and suit or with tailored waists. Black and white combinations prevail in such pieces. Again is the neck ruff the style, and one o tthese neck finishes showed the adaptability of silk Hercules braid, which was sewed to the edge of the pleated net frill and used in the long streamer ends, fringed and knotted, and falling below the waistline. A muff developed in the same sort of braid and worn with this ruff was surprisingly beautiful. It was combined with black velvet and finished with an immense bow of the soft silk braid, in true ribbon fashion fringed on the ends.

In the application of braid to various novelties it is being shown even in bags for street or for evening wear, well lined, of course, and in separate girdles that do not necessarily correspond with the rest of the trimming of the frock or the suit. A smart belt with the plain blue or brown serge frock can be made of plaided braid, in harmonizing tones, knotted in front and falling in sash ends, fringed and kotted or finished with tassel and cord. Others are composed of fancy soutache effects with the small braid in fringed ends.

Children like a touch of trimming even on the plainest of their dresses and braid comes to the rescue of the busy mother. It is easy to apply, effective as a trimming and durable when it comes to the matter of wear and tear.

This is indeed a season of braids and the Frenchman who once made his name famous by the unique application of braids to his creations, will have a chance to do it all over again this season and find greater opportunity than ever before.

The Girt-In Skirt.

WOMANKIND has "gotten around" the endeavors of the couturiers to introduce a fuller skirt, and is outdoing the hobble effect of last year by an overskirt girt in about the knees. Skirts have been widened officially by means of pleats and of tunics, the underskirt being as narrow as ever. It is an easy matter to draw in the lower edge of the drapery by means of a sash or some other device so that the figure is silhouetted quite as distinctly as was the case with the hobble gown. The drawn in effect is even more startling, since the draped gown is made of soft clinging fabric while the hobble was usually built of serge of worsted stuff.

NOTES AND NOVELTIES.

When the Fall Curtains Go Up.

WOMEN do not realize the danger to themselves in trying to hang curtains on poles beyond their reach," asserts a well known physician. "Every autumn I have several cases of more or less severe internal displacements, resulting from the overhead reaching." If women would take the trouble to mount stepladders when hanging curtains, putting up pictures or cleaning chandeliers no harm would befall, but women have a constitutional dislike for stepladders; they prefer to climb on tables, piano stools and bureaus to reach high places and there is always just the one final reach for the fixture that is just out of tiptoe reach. It is the one final reach that usually does the mischief and years of ill health or suffering have resulted from overhead reaching during the fall moving or setting to rights.

One of the most substantial and effective afghans is made of macrame of appearance similar to those of handkerchief linen. But instead of folding over the top of a yard and a half long strip of the macrame all-over, the apparent turn back veils coarse unbleached net, and to this is attached the under section, after which the macrame edging is sewed flatly upon the sides of the entire spread.

long proportions, then a half yard of the length is turned back from what is to be the upper end of the spread. This turn over is daintily embroidered in white, and trimmed at either end with huge bows of pink or blue satin ribbon. The lower end is rather more closely hand-emboridered and finally the entire afghan including the folded over edge, is bordered with wide cluny, put on flatly.

THE SECOND WEEK AT THE STATE UNIVERSITY

Wichita Falls Students Taking Part in the Varied Activities of University Life

Special to The Times.

Among other things the game Saturday afternoon served to give to the new students their first glimpse of the enthusiasm with which all athletic contests are supported at the University. The night before the contest a football rally was held in the auditorium of the main building and was attended by practically every student in the institution. Rousing speeches were made by Deans Benedict and Taylor and a number of others prominent in University life. All of the speakers placed the stamp of their approval on college athletics and urged every student to attend as many games as their means will permit. So strong is the sentiment here in favor of physical exercise that a rule has been passed that in order to obtain a degree, at least two years of graded physical work must have been completed.

The University football season which began several weeks ago when some thirty of the candidates for the team went into training at San Saba where a camp was established is now well under way, and there are present on Clark Field every afternoon more than seventy-five candidates for the team who come from every part of the state. Those from Wichita Falls who report for practice every afternoon to Coaches Rix, Disch and Alldice are Edison Jalonick, Joe Ward, Laverne Sommerville and Wayne Sommerville, also Lamar McNew of Mineral Wells, formerly of Wichita Falls. Of these Edison Jalonick, who last year played at Washington-Lee University, in Virginia, had an excellent chance to make the team, but a few days ago he unfortunately sustained an injury to one of his knees which will render him unfit for practice, according to the university physician for the remainder of the season. He now appears on the field every afternoon and hobbles around following the movements of the football squad on a crutch. Joe Ward, Laverne Sommerville, Lamar McNew and Wayne Sommerville, all possess an excellent chance to play on the university scrubs before the season shall have been ended.

Word was received Sunday afternoon that Wasce Yeager, who after making the trip to Austin to enter the University, returned a few days ago to Wichita Falls with the announced intention of going back to work, has changed his mind and will arrive here Monday or Tuesday to attend school. He will probably be met at the train by a delegation of the Wichita Falls students who will escort him to the campus and attempt to compel him to explain why he left the University without remaining here long enough to be able to say whether he would be pleased with it or not.

Probably the busiest spot on the entire forty acres of University campus during the past week has been on the second floor of the main building where the co-operative society has for sale school books needed by the students. Throngs of students crowded the spot every hour of the day, so that it was almost impossible to obtain books without a delay of several hours. Most of the students have now secured books and the rush is practically over, although the "Co-Op" will do a large business for many days to come.

Active university class work began Thursday and Friday, the first three days of school work having been devoted to the location of different class rooms and assigning of lessons and securing of books. Work in earnest will begin Monday and most of the students have already been assigned problems, themes and essays to be handed in during the next few days.

Especially is this true of the law department where most of the rush and confusion incidental to matriculation was ended sooner than in the University proper. Among those from Wichita Falls who are enrolled in the law department are Wiley Fuller and Wayne Sommerville. Those at present residing in Wichita Falls who are graduates from the law department of the University of Texas include T B. Greenwood, F. W. Householder, M. M. Smoot, Lorzeno Fulton, Fred Weeks, T. R. Boone, Orville Bullington and a number of others.

In the engineering department which during the last two or three years has furnished a number of the civil engineers who assisted in the construction of the Wichita Falls & Northwestern Railway.

Class meetings have already been held and a complete organization of the entire department has been practically finished. Gerald Pond and Harold Murph are at present students in the department o felectricity and Joe Ward is taking a course in civil engineering.

Among Texas University students who were employed on the W. F. & N. R. R. extension are Ed Slaughter, Fred Holt, T. R. Smith, R. McCabe, Buck Marshall, Clifford Fore, Max Elliott, Rodgers, Bullington and several others. R. A. Thompson, formerly chief engineer of the Wichita Falls Route, is a graduate of the engineering department of the University.

Those from Wichita Falls who are at present students in the college of arts of the University include Annie Carrigan, formerly of Arkansas State University; Muriel Hickman, Myrtle Henderson, Ralph Mathis, Percy Luecke, Edison Jalonick, Laverne Sommerville, and Miss Clara Parker who is an instructor in Latin and also a candidate for an A. D. degree.

So far the weather in Austin has been warm and pleasant and out door activities have proven popular pastimes among the students. However, announcement was received here this morning that a severe norther had made its appearance in the Panhandle and was progressing southward very rapidly, so that it is probable that in a short time the weather will have been changed.

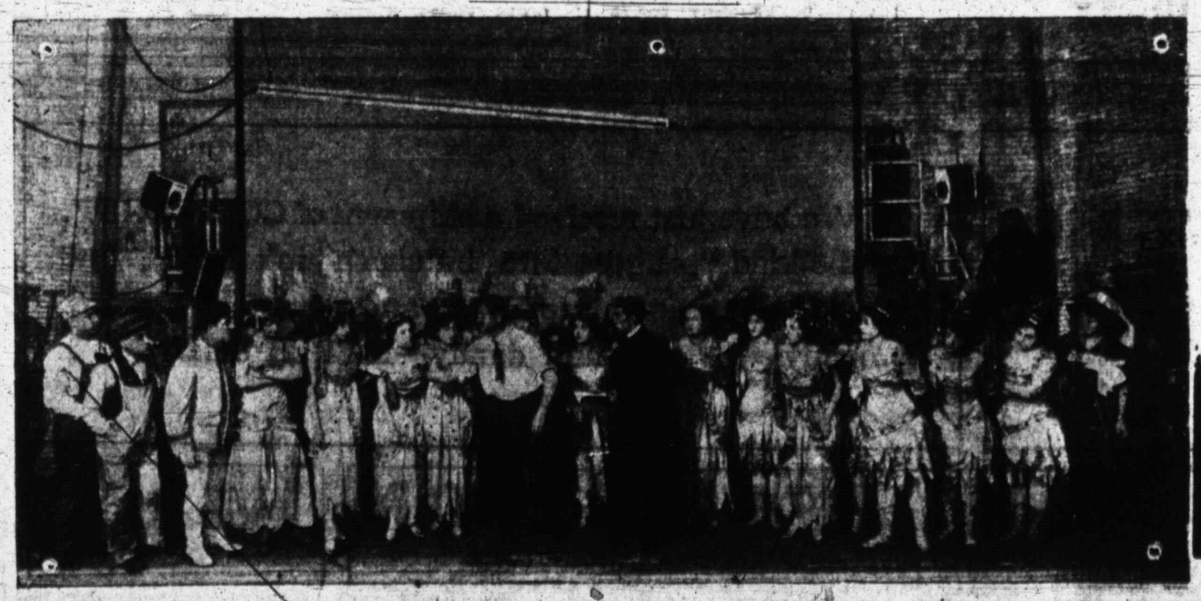

Practically every student in the University both old and new is looking forward to the afternoon of October 19th when the University of Texas will meet the University of Oklahoma on the grid-iron in Dallas at the State Fair, which game is expected to be one of the most strenuous in the entire history of university athletics. Oklahoma has come off the winner in every contest with Texas for the last several years, and each member of the football team of Texas this year has made a vow that this will not be repeated at Dallas. Excursion trains will be operated to Dallas with a cheap round trip rate and classes will be suspended on that day so that students will be able to attend the game. The University faculty and students will be the guests of the University Alumni Association at Dallas, and will be entertained in every manner possible. Many of the students are also looking forward to meeting friends and relatives in Dallas who happen to attend the State Fair on October 19.

CARDUI WORKED LIKE A CHARM

After Operation Failed to Help, Cardui Worked Like a Charm.

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, in a letter from this place, "and at times, I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cancer.

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now, I am well, and can do my own work. I don't feel any pains.

Cardui worked like a charm."

There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for women—Cardui—for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it, for your troubles.

cal or surgical treatment, unless the patient or his or next friend is fully informed as to the terms of the transaction."

"This matter is one in which every citizen is vitally interested," said Dr. Turner, president of the Texas State Medical Association, "and we members of the Medical association wish to take the people into our confidence.

"Physicians have, from time immemorial, tried to keep commercialism from getting into the profession, but you know there are said to be black sheep in every [illegible]. Getting rid of the black ones is what we are determined to do.

"A doctor who would [illegible] guilty of participating in a fee-splitting transaction would not give the best service possible and that the workman is worthy of his hire has been handed down from the scriptures.

"For instance, your wife or child is sick or needs a surgical operation you do not know the surgeons probably, and depend strictly upon the judgment of your family physician to get one, and naturally, too, you want the best. If this physician is one who would be guilty of fee-splitting, he cannot get the best surgical talent, because the first-class surgeon would not be party to such a transaction. Now what we want to do is to eliminate altogether, the kind of men who will split fees."

Dr. Frank D. Boyd, president of "This matter has been taken up the board of councilors, said: and handled in this way, not merely for the protection of the members of the association, for the people are more vitally interested than any member, or all members, can be. We want to have it so that when it is found that a surgical operation is necessary he will receive the service of an able surgeon.

"We want the confidence of the people," continued Dr. Boyd, "and unless the fee-splitter is eliminated we never will be able to achieve that aim."

The Druggist

Who would give more attention or greater effort to a prescription for his own wife or child than he gives the prescription for your loved one that is ill is a crook of the most dangerous sort.
The druggist who makes a difference in the prescription dispensing because the patient is great or small, rich or poor, good or bad, is not to be trusted. There is just one way to dispense a prescription and that is the right way. The tramp in the gutter demands the same care at the hands of the druggist as the nabob in his palace. And the Priest in his temple has no advantage over the Pelon in his cell in this particular. Our prescription department has one and only one rule, "Do it Right." We substitute with the consent of the physician, the nurse and the patient. Bring your prescriptions to the Signs in the Church of St. Jean Baptiste, in New York, warn worshipper against thieves.

A good cigar is a luxury that every man can enjoy and what a worker of miracles it is. Into what strange shapes do the curling clouds of smoke wreathe themselves. The poor man sees his ship come in. The rich man thinks comfortably of his early struggles. And the lover sees his fair lady in a thousand varying and graceful poses.

There is as much difference in cigars as there is men, but we have the kinds that all men like, the kinds that make all men brothers.

BUGSCUFFLE BUDGET

Into the ear of saints, beneath celestial bowers!"

"Oh! she was a daisy, a darling, a dandelion growing beside the garden walls of the sunny and the singing South! We will miss her—oh, how much! No more, perhaps, will her melodious numbers accompany the new accordeon of Miss Tilby Tut, as together they sat and sang beneath the trembling and enraptured walls of the Sanctum of the Weekly Bug. No more shall we see her sylph-like form, as hither and yon she wends her wonderful way from the modest abode of Col. Jawsmith to the palatial homicile of Squire Yukes! Alas! it is always so. As the poet says, 'I never loved a tree or flower, But it was first to fade away.' Farewell, sweet mistress of many hearts. May angel bands attend thee"———

The reader will note that Trav is somewhat sophomoric yet, and that he gets his rhetoric a little mixed; but every one has to make a start, and we all expect to see Trav "get there with both feet," as Sime Stiggins says. Poor Sime! I did think I would say nothing about him for his wife's sake. Mrs. Stiggins is a good woman and they have two sweet little girls and one smart little boy. But Sime is a booze fighter and his poor family has to suffer for it. When we had whiskey here in Bugscuffle, Sime lay around drunk nearly all the time. His poor wife picked cotton to pay his fines for being drunk in public places. She let it alone, as Col. Jim Jawsmith says, but it did not let her alone. No wonder she hates liquor; it has blasted her once happy home. Sime is a good workman—a carpenter—when sober, is a real clever man and a good neighbor. But when he gets drunk—and that is every time he can get to liquor—he gets down among the beasts. He was arrested here on one occasion, asleep in the big pen of old man Seets. He is generally sober these days, however, for the whole town, on behalf of his family, tries to keep him from going away from home.

But I am afraid this letter is already too long. If The Times sees proper to publish it, I may write again. I am acquainted with a great many people in Wichita Falls, and like all of them. They frequently come among us and they are always well behaved. It is whispered around that some of our young men are likely to take wives out of Wichita Falls, and that some of our girls have sweethearts there. But I will not play gossip. I will leave that for the women and young folks.

LOCAL GREEKS AWAIT CALL OF THEIR COUNTRY

Telegrams Received Daily from Greek Consulate at Washiington Advising of Developments

No summons to return to Greece to defend their country's flag has yet been received by the local Greeks, though they are ready to leave whenever word comes. Although Montenegro, Servia and Bulgaria are now involved with Turkey city in the fighting, Greece is still an onlooker and it is possible that she may not become actively involved.

Lieut. Peter Fell of the Greek army is being advised daily by wire as to the situation, received telegrams from Greek consulate at Washington. He was advised last night that Greece had not yet been drawn into the conflict.

Fell will probably leave without delay when the fighting starts and will more than likely be accompanied by several of his countrymen from this city.
