Howling Wind Sends Mercury To Zero Mark

Snowdrifts Are Piled High On Highways And Many Boats On Great Lakes In Distress As Winter Again Strikes

(By The Associated Press)

A howling onslaught of winter weather with 40-mile an hour winds in abundance put a half dozen boats in distress on the Great Lakes, piled up snowdrifts on highways, and sent temperatures tumbling toward zero Tuesday.

A frigid gale was swooping down on the midwest from the Canadian Arctic, chilling out hopes for immediate relief. Snow reached a depth of six inches in several midwest and eastern states, and it was 14 1-4 inches deep at Amherst, Nova Scotia.

Hot In California

California perspired freely through it all. Los Angeles had a summertime temperature of 96 degrees.

A blinding snow storm, high wind, and lashing waves drove the steamer D. E. Callender of Cleveland aground off northern Lake Erie near Long Point, Ont. A crew of 25 was aboard. Tugs and coast guard boats rushed to the rescue, although the ship was considered in no immediate danger.

A freighter also went aground in Lake Erie as its pilot attempted to find anchorage from the storm. It was grounded six miles west of Erie.

Freighter Aground

The freighter J. F. Schoellkopf went aground near Menominee, Mich., but was pulled off safely by a coast guard cutter. A tug sank in Lake Ontario off Kingston, Ont. Many vessels were driven to harbor, and several to refuge on Manitau Island, in Lake Michigan. The snowstorm had died down on the lakes tonight, but the wind still was strong.

Several inches of snow covered Pennsylvania, and the total at Kane, Pa., reached 27 inches for six days. The West Virginia Panhandle likewise was under snow. Snowfall in western New York approaches six inches with high winds causing a near blizzard. New York City had snow flurries with temperatures at freezing.

Man Tearfully Avows His Innocence Of Murder Count

SHAWNEE, Okla., Nov. 14 (AP) — Tearfully avowing his innocence, Virgil M. Brown, 45, was arrested today and charged with murder of Mrs. Marie Elmsley of Windsor, Ont., whom he married in Oklahoma City, Oct. 15, 1932, a year and two days before her battered body was found near El Reno.

Brown was arrested at the home of his stepmother here today and denied that he had killed the woman, who was found beaten to death at a point 12 miles west of El Reno last October 17.

Murder charges naming Brown were filed at El Reno and the suspect was taken to that place late today by the Canadian county sheriff.

Nation Urged To Carry Out Definite Plan

"Even Though Certain People Are Hurt" He Says Policy Must Be Followed "Firmly And Steadfastly"

Three Paths Open

Adjustments And Planned Program Will Be Essential For America; Speech Gets White House Approval

(By The Associated Press)

MUNCIE, Ind., Nov. 14. — Secretary Wallace tonight asked that America take a position either for reducing tariffs or curbing production or a compromise between the two and to be prepared to stick to its decision for from ten to fifteen years.

In an address which had White House approval, Wallace told farmers and businessmen at a banquet opening the corn-hog production control program in Indiana, that the nation should make an early but deliberate decision as to its foreign policy.

Adjustments Essential

Adjustments and a planned program will be essential whether the policy adopted is internationalism, nationalism or a combination of the two, he said, visualizing a standard of living "two or three times that which we had in 1929," as within the nation's reach should it pursue a definite plan.

"The important thing," the secretary of agriculture said in the third and last speech of his swing through the midwest in behalf of the administration's program, "one we have fully debated and understood the issues from a long time point of view, is that we follow out the policy steadfastly and firmly in all its implications even though certain people are hurt

Must Follow Choice

"If we follow the international program, we absolutely bust receive great quantities of goods from abroad and must not be disturbed by the clamor of people who are hurt thereby. If we follow the national program, we must resolutely plan to keep 50,000,000 acres of land out of use, no matter how loud may be the outcry of certain carrying, handling, processing and exporting interests.

"I f we decide to lower our tariff only part way and reduce our acreage only part way, we must have the courage to do sufficient of both so that the job is done. No matter which of the three paths we follow,

Veteran Officer Will Face Trial

POST, Nov. 14. (Special)—Tom A. Gardner, 62, a veteran peace officer, will go on trial today in 106th district court on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

The charge was filed and Gardner indicted after Mrs. Carroll Sanders, 23-year-old mother of three children, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile June 18.

The day following the accident Gardner, who said he was a special ranger, declared, "They've just got the wrong man, that's all."

The trial originally was set for Monday, Nov. 6, and was continued by Judge Gordon B. McGuire because Lon Curtis of Belton, attorney for Gardner, was ill. District Attorney G. H. Nelson said.

School Child Is Crushed To Death By Heavy Truck

Robert Adams Victim Of Tragic Accident Tuesday At Noon

RUMBLING, four-wheeled death has rent from his earth of marbles, bunnies, and blackboards another little man-who-was-to-be. Yesterday morning he was warm, alive, eyes sparkling, as only an 8-year-old's can. This morning he is cold, dead, eyes indistinguishable, in a terribly shapeless little head.

As Robert Eugene Adams raced across a street about 12:30 p. m. Tuesday on his way to Dupre school, where he was a pupil, his boyish legs could not carry him fast enough. A truck, swerving sharply, brakes crying, struck him down near the curb that divided life and death. His head and right arm were crushed by one of the loaded truck's rear dual-wheels. He died instantly.

Driver Is Released

Carl E. McCarty, 22, driver of the truck, whom witnesses agreed "did all he could" to avert the fatal accident, at Nineteenth street and Avenue U, was released to go to his home 2 1-2 miles north of Lubbock after making a signed statement to County Atorney Vaughn E. Wilson.

Funeral services for the Adams boy, who last July 22 had only eight candles on his birthday cake, will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Broadway Church of Christ by Liff Sanders, a minister of that denomination, Stahler Funeral home announced. Burial probably will be at Littlefield, where the Adamses lived until coming to Lubbock last year.

Survivors Are Listed

The boy, youngest member of the family, was survived by his parents; four brothers, George, John, and Sam T. Adams of Lubbock, and Richard Adams of New York City; three sisters, Erie Dell, Donna Lou, and Lella Adams of Lubbock, and the grandmothers, Mrs. R. D. Tankersley and Mrs. Ella Adams, both of Killeen, Tex.

Mrs. Tankersley was in Lubbock when her dark-haired grandson died. Only the paternal grandmother and the brother in New York will be unable to attend the services.

County Attorney Wilson late Tuesday afternoon issued a written statement in which he said the Nineteenth street-Avenue U intersections were "probably the most dangerous" in Lubbock because of

Lubbock County To Be Free From Quarantine December 1

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (AP)—Four more Texas counties have been released from tubercular quarantine, Dr. L. C. Crabb, state veterinarian announced today upon his return from a tour of West and Central Texas.

These counties are Fisher, Jones, Haskell, and Johnson. Three others —Lubbock, Lipscomb, and Hockley —are to be released December 1, he said.

Dr. Crabb Monday expects to start a check to determine if three additional counties, all of them dairying centers, shall be admitted to the accredited area as being free of tuberculosis. They are Harrison, Gregg, and Meridian counties.

Clifford Jones Returns To Texas After Funeral Trip

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (AP)—Clifford B. Jones, regional advisor for the public works administration, returned Monday from Los Angeles where he went by plane to attend the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. F. M. Thayer 76, who died Thursday night at her home in Los Angeles after a long illness.

Mrs. Thayer formerly lived in Kansas City and was the daughter of the late Major B. F. Jones of Kansas City. Funeral services were held Sunday, and burial was in a Los Angeles cemetery.

A Need Etched In Blood!

Additional Traffic Supervision, With More Protection For School Children, Is Crying Need In Lubbock!

A grievous accident yesterday snuffed out the life of 8-year old Robert Adams as he romped, in boyish fashion, across busy 19th street adjacent to the Lubbock Senior High school.

Straight in the path of a heavily loaded truck, he ran—and a moment later his life's blood etched its tragic story on the pavement. Another offering had been placed upon the altar of modern day traffic and whatever the lad might have done further, to make this world a better place in which to live, vanished into the dusk of eternity.

SAD? Yes, terribly sad. Not in many months has the city been quicker stricken, more deeply moved.

Sympathy was expressed upon every hand as the news traveled over telephone lines and in personal conversation. Not a soul who heard of the mishap failed to experience a heart-throb.

But the accident could have been prevented!

And others, which might otherwise occur, must be prevented if Lubbock is to operate as a civilized community in this present-day era!

SEVENTEEN hours before the death of Robert Adams an editorial comment was written for Tuesday afternoon's Evening Journal urging the employment of more city traffic officers and a renovation of the existing hodge-podge system of transportation in Lubbock.

That was not the first of such suggestions. Other similar ones have appeared for years. And as early as November 17, 1931, a method of safe traffic control in the vicinity of Senior High and Dupre ward schools appeared in the Evening Journal, modeled after El Paso's unusually efficient method of safe-guarding school children.

But yesterday afternoon's Journal comment was more important, simply because it pointed out the short-sighted policy of having one motorcycle traffic officer for each 12-hour police shift inside the corporate limits of Lubbock. To the Morning Avalanche, nothing could be more absurd than expecting a lone motorcycle officer to efficiently over-see traffic in a city of 24,000 people and in which hundreds of visiting cars, as well as those owned within the city, are daily operated.

THE present city administration has consistently pursued a policy of rigid economy in all its operations. That is laudable at any time and particularly in times of economic stress. Economy, needed economy to state the case fairly, has been applied to all municipal departments to the point where Lubbock enjoys one of the lowest tax rates to be found in the entire nation for cities comparable to this one.

Neither the administration, nor its policy of rigid economy, can be fairly charged responsible for yesterday's awful occurrence but the occurrence, itself, calls for a revamping of the policy as it affects the police department.

From time to time we are impressed with how much more money is collected by the Lubbock police department than is collected in Amarillo, Abilene and other, similar cities. That's fine from a standpoint of money-in-the-bank.

But a municipal police department—this one and every other one—is not supposed to be a money-making proposition.

It is supposed to be a department of public protection; that is precisely what a police department is for!

SO let's spend some of these heavy collections of the Lubbock police department in giving greater protection. Even though present heavy collections are not sufficient to make the police department self-supporting, let's spend them, anyhow, and give the city the protection to which it is entitled.

Let's have enough traffic officers to enforce regulations and let's have enough of them, with other officers if need be, to patrol school buildings when and where necessary.

That would cost some money, certainly. Probably it would cost as much as $10,000 per year.

But $10,000 per year, we think, is cheap insurance when applied to as many persons as there are in Lubbock and when it is remembered that lives, like the one exacted yesterday, cannot be bought at any price!

Senate Probe Becomes Near Riot Tuesday

Angry Exchanges And Shouted Villification That Citations For Contempt Fail To Curb, Heard At New Orleans

Crowd Of Men And Women Over Courtroom Applauds Wildly; U. S. Marshals Powerless To Curb Outbursts

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14.—Angry exchanges and shouted villification that citations for contempt failed to curb, today turned the second day's hearing of the special United States senate sub-committee investigation of Senator John H. Overton's election into a near riot.

Senator M. M. Logan (D-Ky.) and Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), composing the subcommittee, were powerless to control the outbursts of the crowd, which reached fighting pitch when Attorney Edward Rightor, counsel for Ex-Senator Edwin Broussard, instigator of the investigation, withdrew with his client with the statement they had lost confidence in the committee.

All Confidence Lost

"We have lost all confidence in this committee, including Chairman Connally (D-Tex.), and excluding Senator Thomas, and we withdraw from the investigation," said Mr. Rightor as he paced back and forth before the rostrum shaking his fist. "This investigation has degenerated into an effort to purify Huey Long and whitewash this investigation."

"Get out from in front of this committee and stay away from here," shouted Senator Logan, acting chairman, trembling with emotion. "You will not be recognized further by this committee. You have nothing to do with it."

Applause Long And Loud

The crowd of men and women applauded and yelled and Francis Williams, an anti-Long political leader, jumped up and demanded recognition.

He got in return a citation for contempt along with Mr. Rightor Senator Logan said they would be cited for contempt to the full committee which would decide if they would be brought before the bar of

Oil Allowable For Texas Set Late Tuesday

Figure Of 868,412 Barrels Is Set Daily; New Order Will Become Effective In State At 7 A. M. Today

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 14.—Texas' oil production allowable was set at 868,412 barrels daily by the state railroad commission, conservator of natural resources, today. The commission made allocations to each field under the federal government's order fixing production from wells in this state not to exceed 875,000 barrels daily.

The new proration order will become effective at 7 a. m., tomorrow. The subsequent order set the state's production at 885,917 barrels daily. The commission announced there were 47,131 producing wells in Texas. Of this number East Texas had 11,308 and North Texas 14,927.

The East Texas allowable was set at 394,000 "plus." It was explained that this total likely would be raised gradually as new wells were brought in. East Texas' allowable under the order that immediately preceded this one was 406,574 barrels.

The existing allowables in four producing districts were not changed, as follows.

Panhandle 42,000; North Texas 56,500; West Central Texas 25,000; East Central Texas 43,911. West Texas was reduced from 122,213 to 119,848; the Gulf Coast was cut from 143,994 to 142,056 and Southwest Texas was lowered from 45,723 to 45,097.

Federal Relief Administration Discloses That $500,000 Is To Be Made Available For Program In State

Buy Texas Cattle

All Beef Will Be Canned And Given Needy; Minimum Goal Of 8,000,000 Pounds Is Set For Immediate Future

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. — The federal relief administration disclosed today $500,000 would be made available to its organization in Texas for buying and processing beef for distribution to the needy.

Lawrence Westbrook, Texas relief director, was authorized by Harry L. Hopkins, the federal administrator, to pay the cost out of state funds with the understanding his organization will be reimbursed upon application of Governor Ferguson, along with an audit showing expenditures.

Buy Only Texas Cattle

It was specified Texas cattle alone must be bought and that at least 60 per cent must be cows. No beef may be of poorer grade than cubers.

Lowe Simons, in a memorandum addressed to Westbrook which the latter forwarded here, said it was planned to set up processing centers in San Antonio, Dallas, Waco, Houston, Beaumont, Austin, Tyler, El Paso, Wichita Falls, Brownsville, Texarkana, San Angelo, Amarillo, Lubbock, Paris and Abilene.

The beef, all of which will be canned, will be handled exclusively by plants operating under government inspection, and the bureau of animal industry will supervise the program.

Minimum Goal Set

Simons, whose specific position was not specified in the correspondence, estimated 2,000,000 pounds of the beef could be used feasibly by the Texas needy during December, and the minimum goal of the pro-

Probability Of Mistrials In Radio Cases Now Seen

One case is that of Rev. Sam Morris, Baptist minister of Stamford, the other that of Curry Jackson of Abilene. Both were charged with operating broadcasting stations without a license. The Morris case was concluded last night, that of Jackson early this afternoon.

Chief issue in each of the cases was whether or not programs from the defendants' stations were heard across the Texas line.

Temple Man Is Charged With Murder Of Veterinarian; Rushed To Austin

(By The Associated Press)

TEMPLE, Nov. 14.—Fragments of a nightshirt, found in the clump of weeds where the body of Dr. A. M. Clifford, 58, veterinarian, was discovered yesterday, led to the arrest of Will Querner, 56, railway repair department worker, who was rushed to Austin for safekeeping tonight after making a statement to officers.

Sheriff George Ziviey filed charges of murder against Querner before Justice of the Peace Oliver W. Word. The sheriff said that all efforts to obtain bond for Querner would be contested.

Investigators learned that Dr. Clifford was taken to the country three miles east of Temple last Wednesday night and killed by a blow on the head with an automobile axle as he stooped to crawl under a wire fence. The automobile axle allegedly used in the attack was found by investigators in a cow shed at Querner's home.

Another "Marrying Mdivani" Strikes Out In Matrimonial Game Of America

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—Another "marrying Mdivini," Prince Serge of the Soviet province of Georgia, "struck out" in the American matrimonial game today.

He was divorced by Mary McCormic, opera singer.

Serge did not show up in court. This is his second "strike-out." He married Pola Negri, film actress, in 1925, but she divorced him in Paris in 1931.

Only a few weeks ago, Mae Murray, another film actress, divorced Serge's brother, Prince David, here. The other member of the noble trio, Alexis, is married now to Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress. He was divorced a few years ago by Louise Astor Van Allen of New York.

Jauntily attired, Miss McCormic took the stand today and told the judge her marriage was "a noble experiment, but it didn't work out."

In other days, both she and Miss Negri described Prince Serge as the "world's greatest

TO GIVE AWAY

MRS. J. A. FORTENBERRY, 1909 Twenty-Fourth street, has some pink and red verbenas, some violets and shasta daisies which she wants to give away. She has a surplus of these things that were taken up in the fall re-vamping of the yard and will be glad to give them to anyone who wants them. She suggests that those who call for the plants call her first so that she will be at home.

By the way, Mrs. Fortenberry has a correction to run on a recipe for banana nut cake that appeared in this column in the latter part of the summer. That cake, which was a recipe used by Mrs. R. R. Hughes of Lone Oak, lacked eggs, as it appeared here, as was noticed by some of the women who tried the recipe. Mrs. Hughes was written and word has been received from her saying that two well beaten eggs should be added after all other ingredients are combined.

In case you are confused, here is the entire recipe: One and one-half cups of sugar; a scant one-half cup of butter, creamed with the sugar; four tablespoons of buttermilk; one teaspoon soda dissolved in the milk; two cups of flour sifted with one-fourth teaspoon of baking powder; three crushed bananas; one-half cup nuts; vanilla to taste and two well-beaten eggs.

This cake is to be put together with caramel filling.

A WRITER'S CLUB

MISS EULA JOHNSON came down the other day and was wondering why we haven't a writer's club here in Lubbock.

We have mentioned that several times in this column and a few attempts have been made to organize such a club, of which I am aware. Whether or not any of the attempts went further than discussion, I do not know.

Personally, I would like to see a writer's club here. It would be to our mutual advantage, I think, to have one, although I am not altogether certain about the program that might be followed.

We have some college people here who might help us along and there certainly are enough people who write and some who market articles. I know of a number of these people and know that I could soon hear of several more. Today I heard of someone else who writes poetry that is described as "pretty good stuff." That's Pearl Duncan, a stenographer.

Last week I read some poems written by Mrs. J. Sam Lewis and I have seen some other things she wrote. Mrs. Albert Taylor has some novels and has written some short stories. Mrs. E. L. Robertson and her sister, Miss Beuna Sowell, who spends enough time here to be considered in this, have poetry published occasionally.

Mrs. Edgar T. Neal, Ruth Horn, Mrs. J. H. Goodman, Cecil Horn, Dr. A. B. Cunningham—a number of the college people for that matter—are among the others who write. There are others who would be eligible to join, if some one would start the organization.

Miss Johnson feels that such a society would be welcomed here and wants someone else to start it. So do I. And, I suppose, so do several others, none of whom wants to take the responsibility of starting it. However, if any of you do, we can get together the necessary information and try to get the people together to start. The artists and musicians cling together and enjoy the fellowship. The writers, or would-be writers, might find an organization helpful.

Council Is To Meet Thursday

Dr. E. W. Prothro Of Sweetwater, Miss Davis, Representative Of National Society, Are To Speak At Meeting

Plans have been completed for a dinner meeting of the Lubbock County Children's council on Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Hilton hotel, it was announced Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. H. F. Godeke, who is president of the council.

Two guest speakers will appear on the program, which has been arranged by the council's public health committee of which Mrs. Joe H. Smith is chairman. Dr. E. W. Protho of Sweetwater, head of the Nolan county health unit, and a Miss Davis, field representative of the National Organization of Public Health nurses, are to talk on the benefits to be derived from a health unit and ways of financing such a project.

Aims of the council include either the establishment of a health unit in Lubbock county or the employment of a health nurse. With these aims in mind Mrs. Smith and her committee recently made a survey of health conditions in this county.

Report Is Made

"Disease prevention and health education are two potent factors in the present day", Mrs. Smith said Tuesday afternoon. "Realizing this, we made the survey and found some distressing conditions in rural districts. Tuberculosis is a particular field of interest because people need constantly to be reminded of its danger and spread. We found numbers of cases of tuberculosis and of contagious diseases that have not been reported. The people were interested in receiving authentic information concerning health measures."

This year the public health committee in the council is to sponsor the local sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals. Sixty percent of the proceeds will remain here to be used in combating the spread of the disease.

The dinner is open to the public. Reservations may be made by telephoning Mrs. N. L. Peters, who is chairman of the arrangements committee. The calls should be made by noon today, Mrs. Godeke stated. Mrs. Peters is being assisted by Mesdames Homer Pharr and Leroy T. Patton.

Is Open To Public

Every interested person is invited to attend the meeting, it has been announced. The council is made up of representatives from civic, welfare, educational and service clubs and organizations.

Mrs. A. T. Biggers is vice-president of the council; Miss Alma Girand is the secretary, and Rev. Mr. Walter P. Jennings is treasurer.

A fifty cent charge will be made for each plate.

Frank Yount Death Victim

Discoverer Of Spindletop Oil Field Dies In Beaumont At Age Of 53; One Of Wealthiest Men In South

BEAUMONT, Nov. 14. (AP)—Miles Frank Yount, 53, discovered of the Spindletop oil field and one of the wealthiest men in the south, died here last night.

A veteran operator, the president of the Yount-Lee Oil company and once a regent of the University of Texas, Yount was known by thousands who watched him rise from a laboring mechanic in rice and cotton fields to a position of prominence.

Born on a farm near Monticello, Ark., he had only a few years of schooling in rural communities and was only nine years old when his father died and he was forced to assume the position of one much older.

At 17, Yount came to Beaumont and found work with an irrigating crew on a rice farm. A little later he started drilling water wells and naturally followed with work as an oil well driller, in 1902.

Seven years later, after overcoming great obstacles, the Yount-Lee Oil company was organized at Sour Lake with a capital stock of $5,000. It was chiefly through land, however, for which he paid only a few thousand dollars in the Spindletop field, that he made his fortune. His holdings, however, covered vast territories throughout Texas and Louisiana.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Yount spent the major part of their time here, they went to Manitau, Colorado, during the summer. They had no great desire to travel, Yount devoting his abilities and attention to development and advancement of his home town.

He owned many buildings and tracts of land in the downtown business section and was one of the city's largest taxpayers.

For more than a year Yount had been intensely interested in horses and established the Spindletop stables. His entries won a number of prizes at the world's fair horseshow. He had made arrangements to attend the Kansas City royal show and had planned with Mrs. Yount, to leave for that city tomorrow night.

The Yount horses, trained by Cape Grant, will be shown at Kansas City, however, for members of his family believed he would have wished that his plans be carried out.

He had manifested special interest in activities of the city and had aided the city with loans several times.

Emmett Fletcher, mayor of Beaumont, described his death as a calamity to the city.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 3 p. m. from the family residence on Calder avenue. Yount was survived by his widow, and a daughter, Mildred.

Three Charged In Kidnaping Probe

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—True bills charging three men with kidnaping James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, for ransom were reported voted today by the Cook county grand jury.

The trio named were Frank Souder of Benton, Ill.; Gale Swolley of Peoria, and Julian "Babe" Jones of St. Charles.

Souder and Jones were charged with the abduction of Hackett from the Navajo country club in May, 1931, after which he paid $75,000 for his release. Swolley was named with the other two on the charge of kidnaping Hackett a second time last May. Hackett got off for $1,500 that time.

Many Proposals Approved By CWA; First Payday Is Set

AUSTIN, Nov. 14 (AP) — E. A. Baugh, project engineer in charge of the Texas civil works administration and the Texas relief commission, announced today that 816 proposals had been approved by his office. Approximately 100,000 men are to be put to work on these jobs within the next day or two, Baugh said.

Lawrence Westbrook, Texas civil works administrator, who is in Washington, telephoned his office that payment of wages on C. W. A. projects would be determined by the type of work done.

He said that for work on lateral highways the scale would be the same as that paid on regular highway jobs. He said in the cases of other projects the rules used by the public works administration would be followed, these providing for wages of from 30 cents per hour upward. He said a 30 hour working week would be observed.

Westbrook notified his office that the first payday for C. W. A. workers would be November 25.

C. Bascom Slemp States Roosevelt Has Done Much In Recovery Program

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14 (AP)—Still loyal to the Republican party which has honored him for years, C. Bascom Slemp, of Washington, for 15 months secretary to former President Calvin Coolidge, said today while a visitor in Fort Worth that President Roosevelt has accomplished much with his business recovery program.

"Undoubtedly the country is better off than when the administration started off last March," said Slemp.

Slemp was in this section in the interest of his oil business. After being the luncheon guest of Amon G. Carter, he continued his automobile trip to Amarillo.

Although he commended Roosevelt's attempt to improve business conditions of the country, he said he had violated the principles of the Democratic party.

"He went in as a Democrat," he said, "but also to get the job done, and he has shown progress. The administration's attitude toward the oil business has brought great results."

The Republican party which he still follows cannot go back to the old leadership and changes will be necessary before the party takes power away from the Democrats, he said.

Approximately 250 Men Get Approval For Highway Jobs

Approximately 250 men have been recommended to highway contractors in Lubbock county on state jobs, according to W. E. Inmon, county relief administrator.

"Nearly all of them I think, have been working," he explained. "I don't think there are more than 125 men at work now, but nearly all have done some work."

The contract on highway 24 from Idalou east to the county line, is expected to be completed in a few days. The men then working will be released for other jobs.

Stock Judging Team Honored

Annual Aggie Pig Roast Held At Tech Last Night; Team Leaves Today To Take Part In Show Contests

Members of the 1933 Texas Tech livestock judging team were given a "send-off" on their quest of judging honors at the American Royal Livestock show at Kansas City and the International Livestock show at Chicago by members of the Aggie club in an annual pig roast in the stock judging pavilion Tuesday night. Approximately 125 students and guests attended the affair.

The team with Coach Ray Mowery leaves early today for the two livestock judging contests. They will be away from Lubbock about three weeks.

After a sumptuous buffet supper of roast pig with "all the trimmins'" a short informal program was held interspersed with music by the college orchestra under the direction of Prof. Harry Le Maire. Herbert Davis presided.

Knapp Makes Talk

Dr. Bradford Knapp made a brief talk on the benefits to be derived from stock judging, outlining the history of stock judging and how it had developed the world's fine livestock.

Dean A. H. Leidigh also talked briefly on the same subject, followed by Dr. F. G. Harbaugh, who introduced the guests. Guests were: Rep. John N. Thomas of Tahoka, C. W. Ratliff, Garnet Reeves, Sam Lewis, Jot Smyth, sr., W. G. Murray, Earl Heard, A. C. Magee, Carl Brandt, Dr. T. E. Barr, Chas. Musgrove, W. T. Gaston, G. R. Brumley of Hereford, Dean J. M. Gordon, and J. R. Pritchard.

Members Introduced

Ray Mowery then introduced members of the team. They are: Odis Holly of Spur, T. L. Leach of Brownwood, Ernest Barton of Lubbock, E. R. Steen of Graham, Jesse Young of Cotulla and Wm. Gregory of Lubbock.

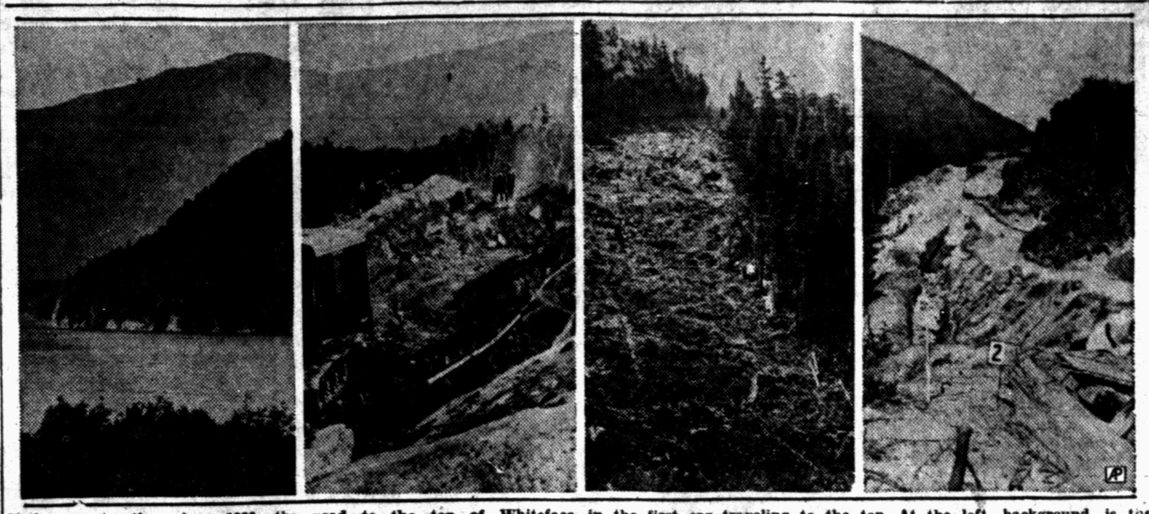

W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal husbandry, concluded the program with a short talk, reviewing accomplishments of past teams. The first year, 1928, Tech finished eighth; 12th in 1930, 16th in 1931 and 10th in 1932. "Any team that finishes in the upper ten is considered to have made a creditable showing," Mr. Stangel said, urging the team to do its best.

Former Prohibition Agent Is Reported Held By Officers

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 14 (AP)—The Texarkana News says a former prohibition agent was placed in custody of the United States marshal and the Miller county sheriff's department today as a result of an investigation of charges bootleggers had paid for protection.

Marshal Cooper Hudspeth denied that the man was arrested and W. N. Ivie, district attorney for the federal government, disclaimed knowledge of the investigation, Hudspeth said "this thing may have big developments" but declined to give further information on the case.

FDR's Wish Made In 1929 Likely To Come True Soon; His 'Pet Road' Nearly Complete

Under construction since 1929, the road to the top of Whiteface Mountain in northeastern New York, is nearing completion, and in about a year President Roosevelt may see his wish granted. He wants to ride in the first car traveling to the top. At the left, background, is the mountain, from the peak of which a person can see into Canada. The other photographs show the road in various processes of building.

SUMMIT, WHITEFACE MOUNTAIN, N. Y., Nov. 14. (AP)—The road to the top of Whiteface mountain, from which New Yorkers can look into Canada and see the spires of Montreal on clear days, will be finished in a year or less.

Then President Roosevelt will have an opportunity to gratify a wish. When he turned the first shovel of dirt in 1929, as governor of New York, he expressed a desire to ride in the first car that climbs the mountain. His home state has not forgotten, and he has been assured of the invitation.

One of the nation's most spectacular pieces of highway engineering is being performed to bring automobiles within 200 feet of the summit. As on the Pike's Peak and Mount Washington highways, motorists may have the experience on rainy days of driving up into the clouds and on up beyond them into sunshine.

Steps Lead To Peak

Steps hewn from rock climb the final 200 feet to the peak, nearly a mile above the silver thread of the St. Lawrence river and the international boundary.

An "eternal light" will glitter from the summit tower, a memorial to world war soldiers. At night this will shine like a star, high above Lake Placid, Saranac lake and all the resorts in the Adirondacks. Only Mount Marcy and MacIntyre mountain are higher, and the difference is measured in a few hundred feet.

Parking Spaces Provided

At two hairpin turns near the tiptop the forest opens to dizzy views of the lower ridges over which the road has wound higher and higher for eight miles. The road will be wider here, for parking. Parking will be permitted also at the state toll house, three miles from the beginning of the highway. Stone walls, steel cable fences and rows of boulders set deep in the earth will protect cars from the danger of "going over."

The gradient averages nine per cent, low enough for most automobiles to take in high gear. During the summer the road will offer little difficulty to competent drivers.

Work has continued through two winters in spite of gales with temperatures 20 and 30 degrees below zero.

Winter sports followers from Lake Placid, at the foot of the mountain, are trying to persuade the state to keep the summit tower open during the cold months. Their hope is to use the highway for a ski-run or even a bob-run eight miles long.

Dutch Mantell's Challenge Is Answered By Sailor Moran Here Tonight

Three Matches Scheduled For "Rough Night"

Tremaine And Heinz Grapple In Semi-Final; Swindell Meets Lobo Brown In Prelim; Show To Start At 8 O'Clock

It looks like a rough night, mates. Lower the tops'les! Shivver me timbers! To the ropes!

Because the champion of sailors meets the champion of sass and slanderers, whose self admitted "interior beauty" makes up for an obvious lack of exterior handsomeness and otherwise covers a multitude of sins. It's Sailor Moran versus Duth Mantell, in a two-out-of-three falls, finisn wrestling match to headline Sled Allen's regular Wednesday night show.

They don't come much rougher and tougher than Mantell and Moran, and few fighters hold as little personal regard and friendship for each other as do Mantell and Moran. They have their reasons.

Mantell Is Mad

Three times now, Mantell, "old master," has bowed to the former U. S. navy welterweight champion. It's no wonder that the veteran "man of a thousand faces" dislikes Moran, the only man who has successfully and decisively beaten him.

As a result of the punishment he has taken in bouts with Mantell, the Sailor is never in any mood to jest over a forthcoming fight between the two. He comes from the same wrestling school, the rough-and-ready, sock and rock, slam and bang, but when it works both ways in the same fight, somebody is going to work up a grudge.

Moran, never defeated on Texas soil, whipped Mantell here last week. Mantell claiming loudly that he was in the ropes when the referee patted Moran's broad back. So he immediately challenged the Sailor boy again, this time for a main event, in the Lubbock ring.

Two other bouts which promise plenty of action are booked for tonight.

Heinz Is Home

Tommy "Red" Heinz, the never-give-up Teuton youth who moved his family and belongings from San Diego, Calif., to Lubbock early this week, tangles with Andy Tremaine, the fascinating - formed youngster from Tucson. They are booked to go until one has pinned or beaten the other in one fall, no time limit. It is Heinz' first appearance here in three weeks. Tremaine has worked on the last three cards, and has been a crowd-pleaser in each. Last week he lost a thrilling two-fall decision to Jack Van Bebber, Olympic champ recently turned professional, and Texas Tech wrestling coach.

Another Veteran

Mantell is bringing from his Amarillo wrestling stable a couple of preliminary boys who have appeared several times in main events. Lobo Brown, who worked against the Chinaman, Sneeze Achiu, in the local ring once, will meet Claude Swindell, a veteran artist of the toe-hold.

Of Swidell, Mantell says: "He's the greatest lightweight in the country. He has never been defeated by a man anywhere near his weight. Is a great leg wrestler, and knows his toe-holds. He is 46 years old, but a great scrapper and a fine showman."

Swindell and Brown meet in a 15-minute time-limit bout, or until one has pinned the other.

Pampa Team Out To 'Stop Rufus Ryan Of Lubbock'

(From the Pampa News)

PAMPA, Nov. 14.—The Harvesters will spend this week in preparation for their game with the Lubbock Westerners in Lubbock Saturday. There will be no hard work on the program, but a scrimmage will be held Wednesday afternoon. Fans will be admitted to the park any afternoon this week.

There will be no more secret practices, "unless Lubbock defeats Amarillo Thanksgiving Day and Pampa wins over Lubbock Saturday." It will be a case of stop Rufus Ryan in Lubbock Saturday. Ryan is the speediest man in the district and when he gets loose, it is "just too bad." Lubbock, like the Harvesters, has a strong defensive club.

On Friday afternoon the Westerners defeated the Plainview Bulldogs 14 to 6, but not until they were badly outplayed. A pass over the goal line and a long run by Ryan accounted for the Westerners touchdowns. The Harvesters are not taking the game lightly. They defeated Plainview by only one touchdown and, after the hard game Saturday, will need to be at their best for the encounter.

In Good Shape

The Mitchellmen came through Saturday's terrific ordeal in good condition physically. The boys are a little sore and bruised, but there are no serious injuries. This afternoon was to be spent in limbering up joints and tomorrow in running over plays. The scrimmage Wednesday will be the only hard workout of the week.

"It was a heart-breaking game to lose but it was one of those games where everything happened but a ball carrier running the wrong way," Coach Mitchell said this morning in forgetting the hectic game of Saturday afternoon.

CO-CAPT. NORTON • GUARD — THORNTON-QUARTERBACK

The Baylor university Bears, who play Texas Tech's Matadors here Friday afternoon, are being helped along the football trail this year by Co-Captain Dub Norton, left, and Quarterback Thornton, a line-plunger and leather-toter deluxe.

Texas League Votes To Adopt Shaughnessy Play-Off System For 1934; Schedule Planned

National Organization Meets Today At Galveston; First Games In Texas League Are Definitely Scheduled

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

GALVESTON, Nov. 14.—As a preliminary to the opening tomorrow of the thirty-second annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, the Texas league adopted again today the Shaughnessy pennant plan playoff.

After a long session, J. Alvin Gardner, president, permitted the league meeting to adjourn for lunch and when the owners returned, they suddenly agreed on the plan and other matters up for discussion and settlement.

The Texas league's campaign will start April 17 and will close Sept. 9. The four clubs finishing in the first division then will engage in a round-robin playoff for the league pennant and the right to play in the annual Dixie series with the Southern association pennant winner.

Atz Is Put Out

Opening games will put Galveston at San Antonio, Houston at Beaumont, Dallas at Tulsa and Fort Worth at Oklahoma City.

The Fort Worth situation was cleared up when Billy Moore, representing Dr. Webb Walker of Fort Worth, who holds the receivership for the Cats, told the league representatives that Fort Worth would continue to play as a Texas league club. Moore said that Jake Atz would not be re-signed to manage the team.

The San Antonio franchise will continue at the Alamo city and will be under sponsorship of the St. Louis Browns, Henry Severeid, last year's manager, again will be offered the managerial post.

After the meeting, Gardner said: "Our meeting was a complete success. The Shaughnessy plan was adopted by a vote of 6 to 2. The league membership will remain the same as last season.

Immediately after finishing the Texas league meeting, Gardner went into session with members of the executive committee of the National association.

Several appeals from players who were fined and suspended last year and other matters of importance were on the schedule for discussion.

The Western league was scheduled for its annual meeting tonight and the minor league convention proper will start at 10 a. m. tomorrow with William G. Bramham, president, presiding.

Rear Coach Of New Train Jumps Track Near Sherman

SHERMAN, Nov. 14 (AP)—The rear coach of the Texas & Pacific railway's new pneumatic-tired train between Fort Worth and Texarkana jumped the track and rode the ties for 1,000 feet today a few miles east of Sherman.

Cause of the trouble was not ascertained. None of the passengers was shaken up nor were any of the tires punctured. The train will be returned to the shops for inspection. The passengers were transferred to a steam train for the rest of the trip to Texarkana.

The train was going 52 miles an hour when the accident occurred.

He Wants More

Not yet satisfied that he is a setup for the former wrestling champion of the U. S. navy, Dutch (Ape-Man) Mantell, of Amarillo, Australia, Axtell and points north, east, west and south, comes back tonight with hopes of redeeming himself in the eyes of local fight fandom. He lost an exciting battle to Moran last Wednesday night in a semi-final. Tonight they are on the main event. The show begins at 8 o'clock.

IN FAVORITE PLAYS OF FAMOUS COACHES

DICK HANLEY GIVES SCORING PLAY

BY ART KRENZ
NEA Service Sports Writer

Running 55 yards for a touchdown, "Pug" Rentner scored for Northwestern against Ohio State in 1931 when the score stood goose-egg all. The same season, on a 75-yard run he scored against Illinois, ran 40 yards to tally against U. C. L. A., Nebraska chased him 66 yards to the goal line, and Iowa 19 yards. Each time he scored with the famous spread run play explained and diagramed here. With this play Rentner averaged about 12 yards per try.

DICK HANLEY

This point scorer is run from what is known to the wildcats as the "C" formation, and takes an extremely fast back, a good flying interferer, and fast linemen to make the play successful, says Dick Hanley, coach.

As the play begins, the quarterback is the man in motion. The ball is snapped on "GO," which is given by the quarter when he is in the gap between fullback and the deep man; in this case, Rentner. The quarter then mops up on the defensive left end, who has been blocked in by the right half. The fullback is the personal interferer for the ball carrier. The right guard mops up on the defensive tackle, who has been blocked in by the right end, while the left guard cuts through just outside right tackle for the defensive fullback.

Of course, Northwestern has check plays on this, such as the pass and reverse, but the real threat is the sprint around a fast-charging defensive end.

Baylor Bruins Point To Game With Matadors

Grizzlies Invade Lubbock To Seek Revenge For Licking Administered Last Year; Are In Prime Physical Shape

(Special to The Avalanche)

WACO, Nov. 14.—After upsetting T. C. U. and Texas in two consecutive weeks, Coach Morley Jennings' Baylor Bears are still determined to go places in the 1933 flag chase, in spite of the fact that they dropped their first two conference battles to Arkansas and Texas A. and M.

This week the Golden Bears are slated to encounter their last non-conference opponent of the season. Friday afternoon the Grizzlies will take their stand against Texas Tech in Lubbock. In 1932 the Matadors sent Baylor home on the short end of a 14-2 score. After the Tech battle the Bruins meet S. M. U. in Dallas Nov. 25, and return home to face Rice on Carroll Field Dec. 2.

All the Baylor squad emerged from the Texas scrap without a serious injury and will be ready to send its full strength against Pete Cawthon's eleven in Lubbock, although it is probable that the Bruin mentor will use a number of sophomores, saving the regulars for the more important tussles with the Ponies and Owls. Co-Captain Dub Norton and Warren Weathers, linemen, had to be removed from the game, but their injuries are not considered serious.

The Line's the Thing

Aside from the educated toe of Aubrey Stringer, the Bears owe their victory over Texas to their line. Co-Captain Frank James and Jim Tom Petty, ends, and Weathers led the way by getting through time after time to throw the Steer backs for losses. These three men also went down on punts and kept the Longhorn backs from getting away for long returns.

By playing the full hour, calling a good "heads up" game, and by turning in a brilliant game on the defense, Joe Jack Pearce, Baylor quarterback, continued to make himself conspicuous as a possible all-conference back. Pearce is one of the finest passers in this circuit, is a good punter, a great ball carrier, and is a hard, sure tackler.

Stringer's Feat

Aubrey Stringer, sophomore halfback, performed a feat that will place him in football's all time hall of fame when he booted that ball between the posts from an exceedingly difficult angle in the final 30 seconds of the game. That goal gave Coach Jennings his first defeat over Texas since 1926, and was the first score the Golden Grizzlies have chalked up against the Longhorns since 1927.

This week Coach Jennings is pointing his charges for the Tech battle, though it will have no bearing on the conference status of the Bears. The Grizzlies are expected to uncork a game consisting mostly of running plays, punctuated with occasional forward passes against the Matadors.

A bill to increase licenses for boxing and wrestling shows from $10 to $100 and give the state 25 instead of 5 per cent of all receipts was introduced in the extra session of the Missouri legislature.

Here's Part Of Saturday's Menu, Westerners!

Sports Assume League's Lead

Publishers Cut Down Mitchell Cafe Team While J. & J. Is Beating Roofers Last Night In Double Bill

The J. & J. Sporting Goods company took undisputed lead in the indoor baseball league last night by blanking the Lydick Roofing company, 13 to 0. Pitcher Lee Jones was at his best, and the Sports' defense and offense clicked in regular fashion.

In another important game, the Avalanche-Journal Publishers solved the offerings of Pitcher Richard Godeke of Mitchell's Cafe and defeated the Hashers, 20 to 10, in a wild game. It was the Cafe team's second defeat within a week, and took the team down from a tie for first place to second place. By winning, the Publishers went into third place.

Jack Williamson outpitched Godeke in a moundsman's duel, and the Publisher batters had a big evening to outswat their opponents, who went through the first half of the season undefeated.

Britain Plans To Revise Program

LONDON, Nov. 14. (AP)—The British admiralty today announced revision of its 1933 naval program to include two new type 9,000-ton cruisers with increased armaments and one cruiser of the 5,200-ton Arethusa class.

Sir Bolton Meredith Eyres Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, made a statement of this decision of the admiralty in the house of commons.

He said the decision was made after reviewing the latest cruiser programs of other countries and "following the most anxious consideration and with much regret."

Eyres Monsell emphasized that the United States and Japan, under the terms of the London naval treaty, were entitled to build the ships which those two countries contemplated but that, nevertheless, it would be the policy of the British government, by agreement, to restrict the vessels of larger sizes as much as possible.

He also said it would be the British policy to reduce the maximum size cruisers to be constructed in the future by agreement.

He stated that revision of the 1933 program of naval construction would not increase its cost but, on the contrary, would result in a small reduction of the expense.

Westerners In Deep Study Of Pampa Methods

High School Team In Skirmish With Cowhands In Preparing For Final And Crucial Game Of Season On Home Field

Coach Odus Mitchell brings some 4,000 pounds of offensive and defensive punch to town this week-end in the form of a husky squad of Pampa Harvesters who make a raid on Lubbock high school Saturday in the Westerners first and only district game played on the home grounds.

Urging fans to rally around and get into the proper spirit for this, Lubbock's last chance to see the 1933 edition of the Westerners, Coach Chapman was driving his gridders through a drill, yesterday, designed to hold the potent air attack of the Harvesters in check.

Pampa Uses Air

The evening session began with much pass drill—Pampa last week filled the air with footballs to the great embarassment of Amarillo's Sandstorm. A gruelling srimmage with Swede McMurry's Cowhands, smartly tricked out in Pampa's flossy attack, which works from a variety of formations, short punt, double wing back, single wing back, any of 'em—Pampa's coaching brains believe in variety.

And the Cowhands proved a pain in the neck to the Westerner defense. A pass combination—Morris White to Glenn Jones—was working rather well, clicking off first downs regularly. Jones would work down the field a little way, and then rise in air, from the middle of a clustering flock of defensive backs, coming down with the mail in his lap after taking one of White's heaves.

Westerners On Offense

The two teams skirmished in mid-field for a half an hour or so, with the Cowhands on the offensive and the Westerners driving back everything but the aerials. Little Morris White running Pampa's ground plays, was usually stopped at the line of scrimmage by the piling up of his interference, and Westerner forwards were solving ground phase of Pampa's offensive in the approved fashion.

Then the Westerners took the ball

He Flew A Kite

Benjamin Franklin, ever connected with the development of electricity, was born on January 17th, 1706. How he almost lost his life while flying a kite during an electrical storm is a matter of history—

But we like to think of Franklin in another way. He realized that self-preservation was instinctive in all living things. While he has a reputation of being a thrifty man, he spent much of this time toying with ideas that lead to better living, better homes, better environment, education, culture, and self-improvement. His meager experiments in electricity represent a milestone in the long, hard path that brought electrical current under control, thus to make possible many of the things you enjoy today.

Frank And Al Have Personal Chat At White House; No Politics Mentioned

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. (AP) — President Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith sat down in the White House tonight and over teacups had their first personal chat since the 1932 election.

Before and after his visit, the 1928 presidential candidate insisted to newspapermen:

"No politics, just a personal call."

A Pleasant Visit

"We had a nice pleasant visit," said Smith as he walked through a crowd of newspapermen on the front portico of the White House after his visit.

"Well what did you talk about?" he was asked.

"We talked about the size of our respective families and the contest for grandchildren.

"We also talked about the president's forthcoming vacation at Warm Springs. It was entirely a social visit."

"Did you talk any politics?"

Asks For More Cake

"Nobody said a word about politics except one of the children. He asked for another piece of cake."

With that Smith, accompanied by John J. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Dr. Raymond Sullivan, another friend, entered a waiting car and drove to a hotel.

Earlier in the day the president had paved the way for reorganization of the New York Democratic organization with the appointment of James J. Hoey, a close friend of Smith, as collector of internal revenue in New York City.

Told Of Appointment

Smith was informed of the appointment as he stepped off the special car which brought him to Washington.

"I hadn't heard it," he said, then when asked for comment, he added, "I can say that Mr. Hoey is a very able, capable, understanding citizen of New York."

"Well, what do you think this might mean?" newspapermen asked.

"Now," said Smith, grinning, "you're getting into politics."

Ambrose O'Connell, an aide to Postmaster General Farley, met the Smith train and escorted Smith to the White House in Farley's automobile.

With O'Connell to greet the Smith party was Reverend M. S. Sheey, assistant director of Catholic university. Smith was to be installed as a member of the board of trustees of the university at ceremonies tonight. Later, he was to address a reception for the Bishop James H. Ryan.

To Attend Exercises

Smith said he came to the capital primarily to attend the Catholic university exercises.

On his way to the automobile to take him to the president, Smith stopped long enough for an exchange of pleasantries with the engineer of his train. As the former presidential candidate walked past the locomotive, the engineer leaned from the cab window and called:

"Hello, Mr. Smith."

Smith halted, went back under the cab window and looking up, shouted above the roar of escaping steam:

"How are you, Cap! Thanks for the ride."

Dollar Value Drops Tuesday

Rebounds Substantially Before End Of Day; Commodities In Rise But Run Into Selling Late In Day

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The dollar declined so rapidly in foreign exchange dealings today that it rebounded substantially before the end of the day.

Stocks and commodities, which had been advancing as the dollar declined, ran into late selling and lost much of their gains, some shares in the stock exchange actually finishing the day with losses of $1 to $5, with alcohol issues turning particularly weak.

Bonds On Decline

U. S. government bonds again declined, after their recovery of the past two sessions, several registering losses of around $5 per bond of $1,000 par value.

The pound sterling had one of its most violent advances since the dollar was removed from the gold standard last April. As it finally touched $5.34, however, up 18 cents, and a new high since 1914, exchange traders became wary and began to sell. It closed at $5.27 1-2.

The advance in sterling reached such extremes that apprehension was felt in speculative quarters lest the British equalization fund decide to step in. One rumor widely heard in foreign exchange circles was that the British had decided not to try to combat the rise in the pound unless it crossed $5.25.

Gold Price Boosted

The dollar decline in foreign exchange dealings substantially exceeded the depreciation indicated by the day's rise in the RFC gold price, as it did last Thursday. While the RFC gold price, boosted 11 cents to $33.56 an ounce, indicated a dollar at about 61 1-2 per cent of its old parity, the dollar dropped in terms of the French gold franc to just under 60 1-2 per cent and closed about 60 7-8 per cent, or 60 7-8 cents in terms of the old gold parity.

The French franc touched 6.48 cents, up .17 of a cent, and closed at 6.44 cents. Other gold currencies fluctuated similarly.

MOVES TO DENISON

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 14. (Special)—David Bates, secretary of the Plainview Securities corporation, has resigned and moved to Denison where he has a position with the Automobile Finance Corporation. He came here from Lockney in 1927 as cashier of the Third National bank, and has been active in civic and other circles. He was an officer of the American Legion post. M. R. Snyder, Lockney, succeeds him.

The mean or average altitude of the United States is about 2500 feet above sea level; the range in elevation is from 14,501 feet above sea level to 276 feet below.

Gangstress

Married in haste to a gangster, Burmah White, 19-year-old blond beauty, will have years to repent. She lived through a honeymoon of five terror-packed days of banditry, then was a widow, headed for prison. Convicted in Los Angeles on 11 counts of assault and robbery as aide of Thomas White, slain after an orgy of crime, she is pictured here, awaiting sentence of five years to life.

WILL IRRIGATE COTTON

MULESHOE, Nov. 14. (Special)—W. W. Shrimpsher and Robert Campbell have leased the Dr. L. H. Connell farm three and a half miles northeast of town and will irrigate 100 acres of cotton next year. They will also have 100 acres in sudan, 20 acres in Irish potatoes; ten acres in beans and ten in onions.

Stomach Distress

"I suffered from stomach trouble," writes Mr. Roy Holstein, of Marmet, W. Va. "I was run-down, could not sleep well at night, and could not eat like I should. I cramped and would have the heartburn a lot. I was nervous and often would take sick headache. Now I can eat just fine—sleep fine. I highly recommend Thedford's Black-Draught for it has done so much for me. I can truly say it stopped me from suffering."

Texas Federation Opens Gathering

AUSTIN, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Texas federation of women's clubs today admitted 44 clubs to membership in the organization at the opening session of its annual convention.

Mrs. Volney Taylor of Brownsville, first vice president and chairman of the membership committee, was given an ovation as she concluded her report.

The convention opened with a memorial service. Most of the morning was devoted to routine business. Convention sessions were in the new permanent headquarters building, recently completed.

Particular stress was laid by Mrs. Taylor on the value of the numerous junior clubs that had affiliated with the federation, she said the rapid growth in this field demonstrated the federation is penetrating deeply into the social structure of the state.

CASES ARE UP

WACO, Nov. 14 (AP)—Cases against S. H. Anderson, Joe Popp and Howard Ellis, officials of the West Tex. bank, charging embezzlement presumably were with the county grand jury today.

Anderson surrendered yesterday and was placed under $2,500 bond. He had been missing since ten days before the examiners discovered an alleged $20,000 shortage.

"Bitter Cold TODAY, SON," SO I'LL DRIVE YOU TO SCHOOL

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

Donald: "Mother, it is cold—nearly half of my class was not there yesterday." Mother: "Cold weather does interfere with school, Donald, but I'm glad you can get there—thanks to our car." Donald: "But, mother, nearly all the other boys who were absent could come in cars but their folks don't even try to use them in cold weather—'cause they can't get them started." Mother: "Maybe, dear, they don't use the right gas and oil—that's practically the only difference between our car and many others. Understand, Donald, people are careless—they fail to get penetrative oil—found only in Germ Processed Motor Oil made by Conoco. Cold oil, even winter grade, unless it is right, makes it hard for the starter to revolve the motor. Conoco Oil helps motors turn over easily and then the Conoco Bronze Gasoline acts at the first spark and the motor starts at once."

Donald: "Mother, I should think the school board would make all parents use Conoco." Mother: "They couldn't do that, Donald, but it would be a good idea if the parents themselves would find out why their cars wouldn't start and buy Conoco. And I imagine they would if they knew it would save them money also."

CONOCO

Full motor protection, especially in cold motor starting, can be found only in Conoco Germ Processed (Paraffin Base) Motor Oil because the penetrative oiliness, called "The Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. Conoco Germ Processed Oil is the highest grade motor oil obtainable . . . the paraffin base crude oil sources, the scientific skill and the most modern of refineries combine to make it so. Then it is Germ Processed with an exclusive Conoco formula.

Instant Starting and Lightning Pickup can best be obtained with Conoco Bronze Gasoline, and without sacrifice of Long Mileage, Greater Power and Anti-Knock advantages. For cold weather starting it cannot be excelled—all the possible fuel needs of modern cars have been fulfilled at no increase in price.

It can be easily identified by its bronze color but you must be sure it is Conoco Bronze Gasoline for only in this way can its advantages of unusual performance and greater economy be obtained.

The Long Investigation

TEXANS acquainted with junior Senator Tom Connally will not agree with the charge made by a United States investigator in New Orleans that the Marlin man is "yellow".

Whatever his faults may be, Senator Connally is not that.

But Texans and Americans in all parts of the country have been wondering for a long time what was holding up the Senatorial investigation of swashbuckling Huey Long and his gyrations in Louisiana politics.

Senator Connally, as chairman of the Senate committee, and his fellow members, Senator Logan, Kentucky, and Thomas, Utah, must realize, along with 99 per cent of the rest of the nation, that "something is rotten—not in Denmark but in Louisiana politics" and that something may very possibly turn out to be Huey Long. If they haven't suspected as much a few minutes conversation with various leading citizens of Louisiana will give them at least a bare tip.

WE hear a great deal of talk about the need for respect of our high officials and public respect of governmental authorities is admittedly one of the essentials of a successful administration of the nation's needs.

But it is hard for the man in the street to engender robust pride in great leaders in the face of such log-rolling tactics as have marked the dwadling, lugubrious, stalling "investigation" of the Crawfish from New Orleans.

IF uncouth, brawling, loud-mouthed Huey Long is everything a United States Senator should be, neither he nor his friends have any reason to fear an investigation of his activities in Louisiana politics.

And if he is not what a Senator should be there is no reason acceptable to the public for Senators Connally, Logan and Thomas to beat around the bush about the probe.

Certain "swaps" may be essential to politics as it is played in this country but "swapping out" in a case such as Long's certainly is likely to be detrimental to the cause of government and to respect in which high officials are supposed to be held by us underlings.

Although we emphatically do not subscribe to the charge that Senator Connally is "yellow", we do feel that he might well swing the Long investigation into high so he may as soon as possible, give the facts of the case to the public.

WAGE RATES FOR WOMEN

Little is known of the effect of the depression upon the work and wages of women in industry, and such knowledge as there is is highly impressionistic and colored by prejudice or partial and specialized.

This lack of comprehensive information has made it difficult to frame industrial codes carrying separate scales of minimum wages for men and women, without creating discriminatory inequalities and hindering the recovery program.

Discussions of this problem are apt to degenerate into wordy battles in which prejudice takes the place of an objective examination of facts. The temptation to generalize is encouraged because of the difficulties encountered in interpreting such facts as are known. It is impossible to determine the extent of the direct competition, actual or potential, which exists between men and women workers. Nor is it known whether the workers of either sex have suffered disproportionately from unemployment and wage cuts.

The question—and it is not a simple one—for the national recovery administration to answer is whether codes permitting lower wages for women than for men will discourage the employment of male workers and curtail the nation's buying power and production. It behooves Washington to observe closely the trends of employment and to remove any differential when and if it appears that women are being forced into the factories by the refusal of employers to hire their husbands and sons.

The world was created in seven days. You see, there were no small-fry there to mess up the plan with amendments.

No dictator yet has found a way to keep the people from thinking.

It is a good idea to be frank, if you don't care what happens to your face.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

IT IS FINISHED

"He said, 'It is finished.' Then bowing His head He gave up his spirit."

But it was not finished. It was only the beginning. A whole world awoke one morning and discovered that a Jewish carpenter had started something, the influence of which was to increase with the passing of the years.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

AN observer close to President Roosevelt compares the present stage of the recovery drive to tactics employed during the World war. It is his contention the President has attacked and gained his first objective.

For the moment we are going through a "mopping up" period while the line is consolidated and the back-line avenues of communication reorganized preparatory to another push forward.

Just now, he says, the President is "trouble-shooting" up and down the line.

That first objective claimed was the signing of a hundred codes. The White House feels it has fairly well organized industry. All the big ones have embraced the Blue Eagle.

Now the President is going back clear down the line to iron out inequities. He is spending much of his time polishing codes already signed. An unworkable clause is removed from this one; a strengthening clause is inserted in another.

The rest of his labors are devoted to spurring on his other generals to catch up with the NRA Division. General Johnson's troops outdistanced those charged with defending the farmers and with unloosing a big public works movement.

But the Commander-in-Chief is loyal to his army. The White House insists the farm relief agencies and PWA have moved as fast as conditions permitted.

TOKENS: One repercussion from our acceptance of that $7,500,000 token payment from Great Britain may surprise some of the lads about town.

Representatives of the harder hit sections of the country are going to use it for an argument in favor of concessions on domestic debts.

"You took that from England on a $100,000,000 debt because she said she couldn't pay any more," they will chorus. "How about us? We can't pay much either."

Senator Hatfield of W. Va., is one who is trying to work out something for submission to Congress in January. He hasn't the details yet but is talking about token payments on bonded indebtedness throughout the country.

Many states, counties and municipalities are bonded right up to the hilt with not a nickel in sight.

It is taken for granted that some plan involving government aid or underwriting will be proposed.

STABILIZATION: Farmers and others probably will ask for debt moratoriums when Congress reconvenes. The possibility of tax strikes is being stirred up in some sections. Everybody seems to be preparing to take as big a bite out of the federal treasury as possible.

Economists agree that eventually something will have to be done about debts. The figure jugglers think this revamping should await stabilization. Otherwise the creditors might get a worse gypping now than they would later on.

The administration is far from ready for stabilization yet. Very shortly that fact may bring on a merry battle over the general subject of debts, domestic and foreign.

1936: The latest rumor to get started in the political hot stove league concerns a gentleman named John G. Winant, governor of New Hampshire.

Gov. Winant, Princeton and Dartmouth graduate, is 44, has a fine A. E. F. record (aviation), founded the Stable Money association, served in upper and lower houses of the N. H. legislature. He is an investment banker, clubman and strong in Y. M. C. A. work.

There is a certain group of Old Guard Republicans which is grooming Winant—most tentatively—for the Presidential nomination in 1936.

The theory is supposed to be this: Franklin Roosevelt is being forced more and more to previously untried—and therefore radical—moves. Thus the issue in 1936 should be between super-progressivism and ultra-conservatism. Ergo the Republicans should go out early and find themselves a man of the Calvin Coolidge type. Winant is represented as being even more conservative than Cal.

One flaw detectable in the line of reasoning is that Winant's state is New Hampshire. It carries too few electoral votes to cut much ice in a national election, but look at his personal connections!

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK did what it could to help head off the farm state governors' plan to fix farm prices and was mightily pleased when the President refused to approve it.

That was one issue on which local inflationists and antis joined forces. Nobody from here approached the White House directly but there was all kinds of wire-pulling to bring pressure on every official who might possibly have any say in the matter. The impression prevails here that the President has averted certain economic disaster at the price of making the next Congress harder to handle. The inflationists will make every effort to prevent their many Congressional contacts from getting out of hand on this issue.

FUNDS: Local banks think well of the word that the government will counterattack by speeding payment of wheat bonuses and corn loans in the disaffected areas.

The big question is where the money is coming from. As reported in this column payment of cotton loans has been none too easy to arrange because a large proportion of available RFC funds has to be earmarked for bank preferred stock. A security issue for the purpose is hardly feasible at the moment. New York banks expect new overtures for their cooperation and some of them are inclined to give it if satisfactory arrangements can be made to secure their advances.

TAX: The processing tax on farm products is beginning to breed casualties among small concerns which put such products to industrial use. They can't stand the extra cost of raw materials. Those that have quit to date are not important but if the trend continues it may have a serious effect on farm outlets in the future.

STEEL: The steel boys are beginning to wish they hadn't put on such a strenuous buy-now campaign among their customers before their code went into effect. The customers took it seriously and stocked up so far in advance that new orders have thinned to a whisper. Many orders still to be filled must be executed at a loss. That doesn't stop the industry from beginning to feel that the code will do it some good when readjustments are completed.

The plan to take up the heavy industry slack with public works and stimulated rail buying shows no signs of becoming a howling success. Action has been so long deferred that it will be months before the industry and its workers can benefit. Meanwhile winter is just ahead.

Forgotten Sweetheart

by MARY RAYMOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOAN WARING, pretty Memphis girl, and BOB WESTON, son of a millionaire, meet in Memphis and fall in love. They become estranged through the scheming of BARBARA COURTNEY, who is trying to win Bob for herself.

PAT WARING, Joan's younger sister, is in an automobile accident in which JERRY FORRESTER, her escort, is killed. Heartsick, Pat runs away to New York. Joan follows and begins a search for her sister and a search for a job. Joan is engaged as a masked singer at a night club. Handsome BARNEY BLAKE, owner of the club, proves a steadfast friend.

Joan finds Pat very ill. During Pat's convalescence Joan and Barney are drawn closer together. Joan, believing Bob is lost to her, promises to marry Barney.

Pat becomes Barney's secretary and soon he realizes he loves her instead of Joan. Joan sings at a society entertainment for charity and discovers she is in Bob's home. Barbara, a visitor in New York, sees Joan and recognizes her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

The ballroom was completely filled, Barney told Joan. It was the biggest turn-out for such an affair that he had ever seen. Barney was giving short, emphatic directions to the property man, telling the electrician just how much time should intervene between the colored lights in order to give the illusion of a mermaid rising from the rainbow mist.

He stepped to Joan's side, drawing the curtain aside a little. "There's your audience, Joan," he said. Everything seemed to be whirling before her eyes, the faces beyond merging into a blur. She clung weakly to the heavy curtain, fighting for control. And then, her gaze steadying, she saw Bob. His face looked thinner, sterner. There was a restlessness in his gray eyes. Joan's heart was beating wildly. She wanted to cry out to him. They were all seated in the box on the left—Bob, his father, and Barbara Courtney.

The lights died in the ballroom. The curtain moved against Joan's hand and she heard Barney speaking. "Ready, Joan?" Then faint lights in opalescent shades bathed the stage in soft color. A central light threw a steady glow upon the slender figure in dazzling green.

The figure appeared to be a sea siren emerging from her blue bath in a mist of rose and gold and gray.

It was a scene of amazing beauty. Then from the lips of the young singer came crystal clear notes, the alluring song of a mermaid haunted by a glimpse of a sailor lad. The lovely bit of song went on to its close—to resounding applause.

The change that came over Bob Weston's face was electric. Barbara, setting beside him, noticed this nervously. The careless, indifferent attitude vanished. Bob was leaning forward in his seat, staring at the masked singer. Then, as though remembering something, he leaned back in his seat again.

"She has a lovely voice," Mr. Weston said. "When Olive asked if they could use the ballroom I suggested that the masked girl would bring out a good crowd. I had heard her sing once."

"Dad, you old rounder!" Bob said. "Didn't know you went in for night clubs."

"I don't ordinarily. But this girl is different."

Barbara spoke up then. "They say Barney Blake, who owns the 'Jigsaw,' is mad about her," she said.

"You have to discount that kind of gossip," Bob told her.

"Oh, don't be 1890! Everybody says it's true!"

The blue velvet curtains parted again. This time a slender girl in white stood in the center of the stage. The glow from the footlights revealed the graceful lines of a frock designed in a fashion of long ago. The girl's hair was done in a quaint, old-time manner and she carried an old-fashioned bonquet.

To Barney's amazement he heard Joan's voice raised in a current popular melody instead of the song they had selected. The song she was singing was on Joan's encore list but this was the first time she had used it.

She sang in a low, incredibly sweet voice, "Maybe if I loved you less maybe you would love me more—"

She was pouring out her heart in the song. It was moving, dramatic. The entire audience seemed to feel the spell. As the song ended, wave on wave of applause rolled back from the vast room. Joan shook her head when Barney nodded to her. She stood, one steady hand against the wall, and swayed a little.

"Joan!" Barney cried.

"I can't go back," she told him. "Oh, Barney, take me away!"

"Evidently the young lady refuses to be generous," Bob's father said when Joan failed to return for an encore. Bob did not answer. He was leaving the box. Barbara tried to stop him. "Oh, Bob!" she cried.

He was gone. Out in the hall a servant hastened toward him. "I beg your pardon, sir. I have a message from Mr. Blake. He said the young lady is not well and the other performers will go on with the program."

"Tell Miss Wetherington," Bob said curtly.

He dashed to the side entrance where his roadster was parked. Another car was passing through the gates. In another moment Bob was in close pursuit. He had not a doubt in the world—strange and fantastic as the thought was—that the masked girl was Joan!

Listening to her voice in that last song, he had been carried away to another crowded ballroom where a slender girl in white stood in the center of a stage, singing. Her dark hair was like wings against her cheeks. Below the black mask he noted the same soft, resolute chin. The voice was the same, too.

Bob remembered Jim Warfield's curt reply when he had asked about Joan one evening weeks before. "She's gone away," Jim had said. "Somewhere, I hope, where she'll be appreciated."

Bob was exultant. Now he had found her! More than that, now he knew—as he had always known—that Joan was the one girl in the world for him. All the tormenting doubts and bitterness had been the result of his deep love for her.

The avenue was heavy with traffic and Bob was forced to drive slowly. As he neared an intersection the signal light flashed. A second before the blue car ahead of him had shot forward.

Bob's lips set grimly and he cursed. The wait seemed interminable. Then the light changed and he was flashing in and out among the swiftly moving vehicles. He saw a blue roadster ahead, gained on it, but found it occupied by a middle-aged couple. The blue roadster he was seeking was nowhere in sight. Perhaps it was following another road.

He thought of the "Jigsaw" then. At the night club an employe told him the manager would probably drop in some time during the evening. Would he wait?

Bob said that he would.

Barney arrived shortly afterward and Bob introduced himself. So this well turned out young man was Bob Weston! To Barney the name stood for the Weston Mills rather than the Weston millions. It stood for yachts and automobiles, a string of horses and all the other appendages of great wealth. Yet this good-looking, clean-cut chap lacked the show-off manner. He seemed unspoiled.

"Sit down," said Barney cordially.

Bob, sizing up Barney, decided that the "Jigsaw" owner lacked the earmarks of the general run of fellows who catered to pleasure seekers. He believed he could like this fellow. He came directly to the point:

"Mr. Blake, will you give me the address of the masked girl who sang in my home tonight?"

"Your home?" Barney lit a cigaret. So this fellow was like the rest of the gilded group, imagining the plans of others could be upset to gratify their personal whims. He was disappointed. Bob Weston, in a masher role, was less appealing.

"I didn't know she was in your home," Barney said easily. "Stupid of me! Miss Wetherington gave me the address of the place and didn't mention whose home it was."

Bob brushed this aside impatiently.

"I'll give you my word that I won't disclose her identity," he promised. "Perhaps you think I'm asking a great deal but this is not a whim. It is really important!"

"That's what they all say," Barney answered easily. "Surely you must see how absurd such a request is! You're not the first man who has tried to learn who the masked singer is. Why in heaven's name should I tell you?"

Bob got to his feet. He was furious at the implication in the words "That's what they all say." At the same time he realized the night club owner might be justified in his stand.

"You mean you won't tell me?"

"I don't think I could put it in plainer words."

"Then I'll find out some other way."

"New York is a large place," Barney smiled and added politely "Is there anything else I can do for you?"

"Thanks. Not a damn thing," Bob told him.

He left the club, got into his car and drove aimlessly for 20 minutes, letting his anger cool. Of course the chap had his own interests to consider. Bob decided he had gone about the whole thing undiplomatically. Acting like a kid. He would go back, lay the cards on the table and tell Blake that he was in love with Joan and had allowed a foolish misunderstanding to separate them.

Suddenly he remembered what Barbara had said. She had intimated that there was some sort of affair between the masked singer and the "Jigsaw" owner. "Oh, Bob, don't be 1890!" Barbara's tone had implied a good deal more than her words.

The same employe told Bob when he entered the night club again that Barney had gone to his home.

But it was absolutely imperative to know Joans address that night! Bob felt that he could not possibly wait until the next day. He decided to go to Blake's home. He would catch him before he retired or, if necessary wake him.

School Child Crushed Here

Robert Adams Is Victim Of A Tragic Accident Tuesday As He Crosses Street; Funeral Set For Today

heavy school-zone pedestrian traffic. He advocated immediate remedial action.

Police On Duty

A policeman ordinarily is stationed at Nineteenth street and Avenue T during the noon-hour to safeguard children crossing the streets en route to and from three schools in the vicinity. E. B. Smith, one of Lubbock's two motorcycle police patrolmen, explained he had gone to East Broadway, as a result of an erroneous report of wreck there, and was going to the school-zone post when the truck-pedestrian fatality occurred.

In addition to McCarty, four persons who saw the accident made statements to County Attorney Wilson. They were C. G. Butler and his wife, Mrs. Lillian Butler, of Dallas, who had ridden with McCarty in the truck from Whiteface to Lubbock; J. W. Thompson, a father of several public school pupils, of 2433 Nineteenth street, and Paul Hays, 16, a sophomore in Lubbock High school, of 3337 Thirty-fourth street.

Truck Traveling Slowly

McCarty estimated the truck was traveling 10 to 15 miles an hour when it struck the boy. The driver said he had "thought about the kids going to and from school" and had "started to leave Nineteenth street" just before reaching Avenue U but did not because of "so many cars." The boy, McCarty said, "came out almost in front of me" from behind an automobile parked beside the north curb and facing west.

The truck was going eastward on Nineteenth street and the boy was dashing southward across the street, trying to outrun the machine he knew was bearing down on him, when he was hit. Consensus of witnesses was that McCarty was driving slightly to his right of the center of the street when he saw the boy. All agreed the driver swerved to the right and applied his brakes.

"When the kid came in front of me I straightened the truck and thought I would miss him if he fell down," McCarty explained.

Felled By Fender

The left front fender felled the boy, the right rear wheel ran over him, and the truck stopped parallel with the south curb, witnesses said. They boy's head was against the curb, his feet pointing northward.

Butler said he and his wife, en route to Dallas, rode to Lubbock in the truck cab after Butler had helped McCarty load it with cottonseed at Whiteface. They left there about 10 a. m., McCarty said.

Butler said he saw the truck hit the boy. Mrs. Butler said, "I hid my head so I wouldn't see it."

Puts Jacket Over Head

Hays said that when he "saw the bumper strike the kid, I shut my eyes, and when I looked up there was a man putting a jacket over the kid's head, and the truck was facing east eight or 10 feet from the boys body."

"While I had my eyes closed," the high school youth continued, "I heard a kind of a squawl and it was cut short like a person's wind was cut off or was strangled."

McCarty who, with Thompson, was the first to reach the body, put his jacket over the crushed head.

Thompson, who just had let his children out of his automobile to go to school, said he had his still motionless car in gear when he looked in the rearview mirror and saw the truck coming." Thompson saw the boy as he stepped from the curb near the northeast corner of the intersection. The passing truck obstructed Thompson's view thereafter, he said.

Parents Hurry To Scene

While frantic parents hurried to the scene of the tragedy, fearful that the child, not definitely identified, was one of their loved ones, an ambulance took the body to Stahler funeral home. There two sisters and a teacher of the boy identified his clothing and shoes. The father, a train operator, was not in Lubbock. He returned later in the day.

Three persons were struck Monday and Tuesday at Nineteenth street and Avenue U. Bobby Tosh, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tosh, 1118 Nineteenth street, escaped injury when felled by an automobile driven by an unidentified woman about 4:30 p.m. Monday. He fell between the wheels, the car stopping over him without the wheels passing over him. He was uninjured.

Fireman Is Hit

While Floyd Martin, 27-year-old city fireman, stood at the intersection discussing the accident that had claimed the Adams boy's life, a sedan driven by an unidentified woman struck Martin about 12:40 p. m. Tuesday. The automobile ran over Martin's left ankle and left hand, but he seemingly suffered only bruises.

County Attorney Wilson's statement was:

"The intersections at Nineteenth street and Avenue T and Nineteenth street and Avenue U are probably the most dangerous intersections in Lubbock, because school children concentrate at these points going to and from the high school as well as to and from Dupre and junior high schools. Whatever it takes to eliminate this hazard ought to be done irrespective of the cost.

"If it takes large signs stretched across the the street at both ends of these intersections, and in addition to that special officers on duty during the period that these school children are crossing at these intersections, I believe that is as little as can be done. The public is entitled to have this dangerous situation eliminated and to know that their children are properly protected."

Initial prices were 8 to 12 points higher on an active trade and commission house demand stimulated by relatively steady Liverpool cables the further advance in the domestic gold price and weakness of the dollar in foreign exchange markets.

There was moderate southern selling some further December liquidation and realizing, but offerings were readily absorbed by a broadening demand. Spot houses were buyers of December while commission houses were buyers of the late months.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14. (AP)—Cotton showed a further advance today in response to the continued climb in gold and higher sterling rates, and although best prices were not maintained the close was 8 to 11 points net higher. The December contract moved temporarily above the ten-cent line, marking the first time a spot month has reached that level since mid-September. Trading was active.

The opening was firm owing to the strength of sterling and gold, although Liverpool cables were easier than due. First trades here showed gains of 8 to 9 points and prices continued to improve steadily on steady stocks and higher grain helped by reports that the government was buying future contracts to meet requirements of options due farmers who cut acreage under the Wallace plan. By noon December had crossed the 10 cent line to 10.05 and March advanced to 10.30 or 17 to 18 points above the previous close.

The market continued to advance during the early afternoon and prices made new highs at 10.09 for December and 10.29 for March or 22 points above the previous close. Prices then reacted with stocks and sterling dropping to 9.84 for December and 10.15 for March or 15 to 16 points down from the highs. There was a slight recovery at the end and December closed at 9.96 up 9 points net and March at 10.23 points net.

Port receipts 80,048, for week 149,186, for season 4,074,321, last season 3,889,087. Exports 42,271, for week 79,135, for season 2,817,814 last season 2,824,862. Port stock 489,404, last year 4,557,726. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 166,636, last year 171,033. Spot sales in southern markets 41364, last year 40,599.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Dollar-a-bushel wheat came nearly within arm's reach today, but active profit-taking intervened and for at least the time being gains were cancelled.

Sensational jumps of sterling and francs, following a new hoist in the Washington price of gold, accompanied the rise of wheat and other cereals. Wheat reached the highest prices here since Sept. 26 and corn the highest since Oct. 2.

The maximum quotation on wheat in Chicago today, 96 7-8 cents a bushel for May contracts, aroused comment as being almost double that of just a year ago when May wheat here was 50 to 50 1-8 cents.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8 higher, with corn and oats both unchanged to 1-2 up, and provisions showing 5 to 13 cents advance.

Local Markets

These prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry—Lubbock Poultry and Egg company, delivered Lubbock; Grain—Lubbock Grain and Seed company, following prices being bid by Lubbock grain dealers: Cotton—Blocker Cotton company. All prices subject to change during day.

Wallace Speaks

it is absolutely essential that our farmers and our laboring men learn to keep step with one another."

Warns Business Men

He asserted that "it is exceedingly important that business men never again take as large a percentage of the national income for profit as they did in 1929," adding:

"When the total capital of the country receives more than rather modest return, it interferes with the circuit flow of prosperity.

"To get this principle firmly fixed in our minds is more important than to pillory such individuals as have testified before the senate finance committee as to the heartless way in which they betrayed the public and their own better selves in order to make a few million dollars.

"Many of them have posed as public oracles, giving interviews, making speeches, and writing for the public press. I trust the influence of that kind of man in public life is gone forever. We do not want their leadership in either national or international planning.

Need New Type

"We need a new type of business man who is willing to help in working out the national or international plans, whichever they may prove to be and who is then willing to devote all his talents to bringing about a fair, workable relationship between the income of labor, the income of agriculture and at the same time receive for his services only a small return on capital and a modest salary. If the deal means anything, it means subordination of capital rights and property rights to human rights."

He asserted that "if we finally go all the way toward nationalism, it may be necessary to have compulsory control of marketing, licensing of plowed fields and base and surplus quotas for every farmer for every product for each month in the year.

"In other words," he said, "it may be necessary to make a public utility out of agriculture and apply to it a combination of an Esch-Cummings act and an Adamson act. The five governors of the northwestern states claim they are ready for this kind of thing. Frankly, I don't think we should go this far until we have had a chance to debate all the issues with the utmost thoroughness.

"This whole problem should be debated in the coming congress in such a lively fashion and on such a high plane that every farmer in the United States will begin slowly and surely to make up his mind as to the path he wants this nation to follow. x x x A great many people are going to be hurt whichever policy is adopted."

Temple Man

When they went to Querner's home to question him, officers found portions of a torn nightshirt which they said matched pieces of a nightshirt found near Dr. Clifford's body.

Dr. Clifford told friends as he left home that he was going on a professional call, to look after some stock for a farmer. He went with a man who came for him in an automobile, after receiving a telephone call. His body was found yesterday. Querner was arrested and taken to Belton, where he made a statement late today to District Attorney Henry Taylor and Sheriff Zivley.

Investigators learned that Dr. Clifford lived for eight years at a boarding house operated by Mrs. Querner, the former Mrs. Emil Schmidt. She married Querner last summer, left him six weeks after their marriage and again began operating the boarding house in which Dr. Clifford lived.

lover," but today the singer said he struck her, threatened to maim her and called her "terrible names." Some of these she repeated to the judge.

She said she footed all the household bills and that Serge never supported her.

"He didn't want me to have any friends," she testified. "He said I must remember I was a princess and could not associate with common people."

Twenty-five thousand agricultural workers from Japan recently were admitted to Brazil; passage for these "colonists" was paid for by the Japanese government.

Senate Probe

the United States senate.

Later, however, Senator Logan ordered his remarks stricken from the record and announced that the contempt proceedings would be dropped.

Hoots Fill The Air

As Senator Logan was dictating the citation to the official stenographer, the spectators filled the air with hoots, cat calls and boos.

Senator Logan shouted to United States marshals to get the names of the disturbers and bring them before the committee so that they might also be cited for contempt. The marshals made no move to get the names and the remainder of the hearing was filled with cheers and applause until the session was adjourned until 10 a. m., tomorrow when the reins of the committee will be given over to Senator Connally, the chairman, who arrived from Texas at noon.

Mr. Broussard and Mr. Rightor retired from the investigation and walked out together. Sentor Long, whose political organization supported Senator Overton in his campaign, had testified for an hour on how he played politics in Louisiana and concluded by giving each of the senators a copy of his book, "Every Man A King." Senator Long said every effort had been made to intimidate him and his political followers in Louisiana and that a million dollars had been spent by his opposition.

Agents Sent In

He said during the Hoover administration 116 internal revenue agents had spent a year in Louisiana trying to get something on him and they worked with the investigators the special senate committee had sent into the state.

After today's session had adjourned, Senator Connally reached the city and said the committee was endeavoring "to conduct a fair and impartial investigation and that it would not be brow-beaten by any group, faction or individual in Louisiana or outside of it."

He said proper action would be taken against the committee's investigator, John G. Holland, who yesterday charged the committee with attempting "to close the investigation without going into evidence" and that Chairman Connally was "yellow" and was staying in Texas on "some slim excuse so he could sneak in here after the hearing had got down to routine."

Senator Connally said Holland's statement was "vile, scurrilous and untrue and that Holland knew he would be in New Orleans on Tuesday."

Before Mr. Rightor and Broussard walked out of the hearing, Senator Logan apologized to Mr. Rightor, saying his "nerves was frayed" and that he would gladly turn the investigation over to his colleague, Senator Thomas.

Lindbergh Is Considering Hop Over Middle Atlantic

CAL DELAS DE TUY, Spain, Nov. 14. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said today he was considering flying across the middle Atlantic by stages as a continuation of his aerial survey of the North Atlantic.

He will not fly non-stop, he said, and it was indicated that he may follow the route orginally mapped by the late Captain Alan Winslow and followed by reverse last summer by the Italian seaplane squadron under the command of Italo Balbo.

Kathryn Kelly Is Removed To Federal Pen In Michigan

MILAN, Mich., Nov. 14. (AP)—Warden John J. Ryan, of the federal prison here, tonight announced that Mrs. Kathryn Kelly, serving a life sentence in connection with the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping, arrived here from the women's prison at Cincinnati at 4:30 p. m.

Mrs. Kelly, the wife of George "Machine Gun" Kelly, also under sentence in the Urschel case, was brought here from Toledo by automobile, Ryan revealed. She was placed in a quarantine cell where she will remain for several days. Ryan said that Mrs. Ora Shannon, Mrs. Kelly's mother, also serving a life sentence growing out of the Urschel kidnaping, was not at the prison, and said he had no information indicating that she would be brought here.

Bids On Texas Bonds Will Be Taken Up To December 1

AUSTIN, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Texas bond commission announced today it would receive bids until December 1 for the sale of $2,750,000 of state unemployment relief bonds, authorized by a special session of the legislature last month.

This will represent one-half of the securities the legislature empowered the commission to issue and sell. The electorate voted that up to $20,000,000 in state securities could be utilized for relief purposes. However, when proceeds of the $5,500,000 issue are exhausted it will be necessary for the legislature to authorize another lot. The bonds will bear four per cent interest.

Bonfire Burns Prematurely But Pep Rally Still On Card

While Lubbock High school students were stacking bonfire material on a vacant lot southwest of the school building, a prankster set fire to the heap about 8:45 o'clock last night.

Members of the fire department station on Nineteenth street put out the blaze, but saved little of the material. Not discouraged by the premature fire, the students continued hauling boxes and cartons to the lot late last night. Coach Weldon Chapman, whose Westerners meet Pampa's Harvesters here Saturday, said a bonfire and pep rally was planned for Friday night.

Workers Hold Meeting

Campaign workers met at Hilton hotel at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday when sections of the city were assigned to canvassers. Rev. Walter P. Jennings, chairman of the Lubbock county chapter was present.

Judge Clark M. Mullican made a short inspirational talk on the drive, pointing out the work of the Red Cross and urging workers to make an earnest appeal to citizens for support.

Membership buttons were soon seen on the coat lapels of citizens on the streets and Red Cross stickers hung from windows to show results of early canvassing. Leaders of the drive hope to raise the quota early this week.

Majors in the roll call are: Wm. H. Evans, Hugh Harbert, Turner Adams, Paul Hardwick, and W. D. Girand, jr.

Workers are pointing out in the drive that Lubbock county has received approximately 40-to-1 in benefits from the Red Cross in proportion to funds paid in. Only 1.3 per cent of Lubbock's population has contributed to the membership drive in the past and efforts will be made to raise the percentage considerably in this week's drive.

In the past two years, the Red Cross has spent $7,000 in drouth relief in the county besides distributing five carloads of flour, two carloads of vegetables, 600 pounds of garden seed, several thousand yards of material for clothing and several hundred garments for needy families.

Princess Barbara Mdivani Has Party; Gets A Fortune

NEW YORK, Nov. 14 (AP) — The Princess Barbara Mdivani had a "small party" tonight, for she was 21 today and inherited between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000.

It's her share of the Woolworth fortune.

So her father—Franklin L. Hutton—gave the "small party." Fifty guests of Barbara's age were invited. Opera singers and a Hungarian orchestra entertained the guests. Prince Alexis Mdivani of the Russian Georgians who wooed Miss Hutton in Bangkok and wed her in Paris was presented formally to his princess' set.

Chicago Men Pointed Out

Roger Touhy Is Identified As Man In Drug Store; Change In Expression Of Defendant Is Lacking

ST. PAUL, Nov. 14 (AP)—Two Chicago men, including Roger Touhy, were partly identified today by eyewitnesses testifying for the government in the $100,000 William Hamm, jr., kidnaping case in federal court.

"Do you see any one here who resembles the man who entered the Thomas drug store last June?" Joseph B. Keenan, special government prosecutor, asked Dr. H. C. Labissoniere, dentist.

"Yes, I do."

Then Labissoniere pointed directly at Touhy. Touhy did not change his expression.

Arthur Kleifgen, clerk in the C. J. Thomas drug store, previously testified a stranger entered the store late on June 16 and five minutes afterwards a mysterious telephone call was received that led to discovery of a ransom letter in the store.

Labissoniere was in the store at the time, he testified, and took particular notice of the stranger, because, he said, the store had been held up several times.

Hamm had been seized the day before.

Previously Willie Sharkey, another of the four defendants, had been pointed out as the man "resembling" the driver of the automobile in which the millionaire brewer was spirited away and held somewhere in Wisconsin for ransom.

That testimony was given by Daniel Rush, 25-year-old time keeper, who saw Hamm a moment before he was seized.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN, No. 21

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

All went well until the canoe had passed beyond the reef. Here the breeze struck the sail. As the rude craft tossed upon the waves, the apes were half panic-stricken. With difficulty Akut kept them in hand. Then a particularly large wave hit the dugout. They leaped to their feet, all but overturning the boat before Akut and Tarzan could quiet them.

At last calm was restored and eventually the apes became accustomed to the strange antics of their craft. After ten hours steady sailing the dim coastline loomed before the watchful eyes of the ape-man. The dugout turned broadside the instant that its nose touched the sand. Immediately it rolled over with all its crew scrambling madly for the shore.

The next breaker rolled them over and over, but at length they all succeeded in crawling to safety. The balance of the night the apes sat huddled together beside a fire which Mugambi built for warmth. Tarzan and Sheeta, however, were of a different mind. Neither of them feared the black night. Besides, they were hungry. Together they went forth into the forest in search of prey.

It was Tarzan who first caught the scent of meat. Presently the two came stealthily upon a buffalo. At a sign from the ape-man, Sheeta sprang upon its great back, burying his strong teeth in the bull's neck. Tarzan rushed in with his knife, grabbing the maddened animal's mane. For several hundred yards the bellowing bull carried his two savage antagonists until at last Tarzan's blade found its heart.

The Price Of These Coats Is Only $9.95 But Don't Judge Them By Price

Here is a feature offering of men's high quality all wool tweed Overcoats that represent a special purchase we regard as decidedly unusual.

They are made in full English Balmacan model and are ideal for "double service" coats for each and every one of them is Cravenetted.

They have Celoneese Yoke and Sleeves Linings—the trimmings are attractive leather buttons and they are full 48 inch lengths.

Ragland sleeves, slashed pockets and double buttoned cuffs are added details.

Do not expect an ordinary moderately priced coat when you consider this offering for the low price does not tell the true story of these values.

Really we believe this offering is something unusual when priced—

$9.95

Included also in this offering are Rain-proof wool camel colored range that can be chosen at the same low price.

Relief Plans Are Changed

All Transient Relief Work In Lubbock Is Turned Over To Federal Agency By Salvation Army Corps

Effective yesterday, all transient relief work in Lubbock was turned over to the federal relief agency here, on authority of Col. David Main, divisional commandant of the Salvation Army in Texas, following a conference with W. E. Inmon, local relief man, Miss Addie Henderson, social service consultant and others.

Colonel Main made it plain that the Army was unable to do anything in the way of taking care of transients because of the financial situation. The Army's drive, up to Tuesday had netted but $921 out of a budget of $3,500.

Forget Proposal

The colonel told Mr. Inmon that under the circumstances the Army did not feel like going any further with its building program here until the money was actually in sight. The proposal to purchase the present location, 701-9 Thirteenth street, is "forgotten for the present," he explained. The Army does not have facilities for handling transients and cannot meet any present federal requirements including shower baths, linen supply, etc.

"We will endeavor to work out a plan," Mr. Inmon said. "As soon as we can, we will notify Captain Wilson so he can send all transients that apply to him, to us. I appreciate what Captain and Mrs. Wilson have done in Lubbock. I personally know that they have fed a good many men out of their own pockets. I know that Captain and Mrs. Wilson have done a good work in Lubbock and I have always had the fullest support from them in my work.

Meets Local Board

Colonel Main met the local Salvation Army board Monday night. Tuesday morning he discussed work with Miss Henderson and in the afternoon with Mr. Inmon. He left last night for Dallas. While here he inspected the Army's new location. In the event the drive does not provide enough funds to make a preliminary purchase payment, the Army will probably move to another headquarters.

"Our religious work is going on," Colonel Main said. "We will not handle the transient work we have been doing. But we will take care of Lubbock cases and continue our regular work."

"Must Have Money"

"Captain Wilson will not be allowed to do any more transient work at the Army hall unless he has the equipment," Colonel Main said. "I have also instructed him not to do any more work unless he has the money in sight.

"He has fed nearly 100 men at his own table, paying for the food out of his own pocket. There is no need for him to do that. He fed 81 men from his own slender store during September."

Colonel Main discussed the federal government's relief program in Texas. He said that in Fort Worth the government had turned all transient relief work over to the Army and that it was being paid by federal funds for taking care of transient men. In a number of other cities, the same thing is being worked out, while in still other towns, federal relief of transient men is being handled entirely by other organizations.

"Campaigns Hurt

"The federal government's program is hurting all community chest, Salvation Army and other like campaigns," he continued. "I noticed the headline in the Lubbock paper this morning 'Millions Promised for Winter Relief.'

"People read that and then they say to a chest or an Army worker, 'the government is doing the work' and they decline to contribute.

"But the government is not doing it. The government relief program is only for the able bodied man who needs a job. The government is not taking care of the old, the infirm, the sick, the families without work, the babies and others.

"Somebody must be looking after them. We are trying to do that. The Army in Lubbock, as in other places, will continue to do its regular work, holding meetings, taking care of the sick and the needy. But we are not going to handle the transient problem any more.

"No church in Lubbock would allow people to sleep in its pews. I do not think the Army should be called upon to run a transient hotel in its meeting hall."

The thick, silky, skins of the sea-otter often sell for as much as $2500 each.

New Bed Is A "Worry-Weigher"; Emotional Upsets Are Registered By Variations In Rate Of Loss Of Moisture

Even sleep won't hide your worries from this bed in a laboratory at the Yale university school of medicine. Here Dr. Walter T. Miles, professor of psychology, is conducting a test on a subject. He has found that there are considerable variations in the rate at which the body loses moisture through the breath or pores and that the loss is greatest when there are emotional disturbances. The sketch shows the way the scales work, measuring one part in a million.

BY HOWRD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 14 (AP)—A bed which can weigh a puff of air is revealing obscure sources of unrest to observers at the Yale University Institute of Human Relations.

The bed records the minute-by-minute loss in weight of persons asleep, or resting quietly while awake. This is called the "insensible loss," due mostly to loss of water through the breath and evaporation from the skin. Such loss is normal for all persons.

Rate Of Loss Varies

The weight of a 150-pound man drops an average of about an ounce to an ounce and a half an hour. But the bed reveals that this rate of loss is not steady. The fluctuations bring to light hidden emotional disturbances.

The weighing bed is set up in the laboratory of physiological psychology, which is under the direction of Dr. Walter R. Miles, professor of psychology at the Yale school of medicine. It is a cot, suspended by a chain like a scale pan. The bed will register weight changes of one part in a million.

Test Of Restless Sleeper

One of the sleepers was a man troubled with outbreaks of restlessness. He would grasp his head with both hands, rolling from side to side, muttering.

At the beginning of sleep his weight loss was two grams or about one-fourteenth of a pound, every four or five minutes. But during seizures this loss mounted to two grams a minute, temporarily at the rate of a quarter pound an hour.

The loss would show a sharp decline right after a seizure, as if his body had relieved itself of some strong tension. When he slept in the daytime, his drop in weight was even slower than in any night period, as if he was then free from some fear that usually pestered him at night.

A possible explanation of the restless nights was found in one of his business habits. For years he had the responsibility of opening a business office early and on time. But he used no alarm clock. Instead he relied wholly on his "unfailing ability" to awaken on time. This inner tension evidently caused many needless awakenings during the night.

The weighing method in the psychological laboratory furnished an objective analysis of this obscure human difficulty.

Tacud Is Dead! Veteran AP Operator Succumbs After Abdominal Operation

GALVESTON, Nov. 14. (AP)—"Tacud" is dead.

He was O. B. Ray, veteran Associated Press telegraph operator and one of the two telegraphers ever assigned a definite code word in the A. P.

Ray, who until a year ago could turn back flipflops despite his encroaching years, died in a hospital here today after an abdominal operation followed by heart complications.

His initials, "O. B." formed a natural diminutive by which 'Obye' Ray's legion of friends knew him.

He started out as a railroad switchman, as which the musical clatter of the old-time telegraph soulder must have smote an ear of finer sensibility. He soon learned the hystery of the dots and dashes, and then the added intricacies of the Morse press code.

At the time of the Galveston storm of 1900 he was employed as press telegrapher by the Galveston News. He was the newspaper instinct and he had the news training by that time. It was not his job to get the news of the disaster to the outside world but he did.

Just how he did it never has been told in all detail, because "Obie" was modest. It is known, however, he got across the three-mile stretch of Galveston bay when such a trip was well nigh an impossibility and wrote for the Associated Press, of which organization his newspaper was and is a member, the first authentic story giving anything like a correct estimate of the damage that had been done and the almost unbelieveable loss of life that had occurred.

And then, his initial duty, as he had seen and grasped it, performed, and with trained news writers rushing to the job, "Obie" went back to his transmitting machine, and for 18 and 20-hour days struck to the job of flashing the news out to the world through the following weeks of rehabilitation.

For that tremenduous service Ray received from his superiors rewards and letters of commendation that he cherished until the end. As he worked there was a letter file at his feet and it was full of communications from the "higher-ups" who had praised his unremitting efforts through more than a quarter of a century.

Ray was an excellent fisherman and in late years probably got his chief pleasure in jousting with the myriads of the finny tribe so thick in Galveston bay.

Ray worked steadily until last Friday, when he went to the hospital for the operation. He was survived by Mrs. Ray and six children, four of them grown, and three grand-children.

Serious Situation Likely To Arise In Soviet Plans

MOSCOW, Nov. 14. (AP)—The statement that "a serious situation" may arise in the discussions between President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinoff at Washington if the American government insists on guarantees from the Soviet government regarding the main points in dispute before recognition can be granted—made in a Tass news dispatch from New York, Nov. 11—was published prominently in morning newspapers today.

The dispatch, which represents the nearest Soviet official reaction published since the conversations between the Russian foreign commissar and the American president at Washington began—it never would have found its way into the Soviet press if it did not represent opinion here—called attention to editorial comment in leading American newspapers.

This comment, it said, was to the effect that the United States demand for agreement on the questions at issue before recognition was holding up completion of the negotiations.

"If these comments represent the serious opinions of responsible officials, as is supposed in well-informed circles, a serious situation may result," the dispatch said.

"Sympathizers of normal relations between the United States and the U. S. S. R. wonder whether the state department understands the firmness of the Soviet government's position that it is not inclined to discuss such questions as debts and counter-claims before the establishment of normal relations."

"Betty's Neck was Sore and Itched Constantly"

Resinol Healed It

"When my little Betty was two months old, she began to suffer from a skin trouble on her neck which lasted several months. It was very sore and itched constantly. I tried many recommended treatments, but nothing seemed to help. Finally I bought a jar of Resinol Ointment and a cake of Resinol Soap. In a short time her neck was very much improved, and it was amazing to see how quickly it healed." (Signed)—Mrs. F. A.* Reading, Pa.

Mercy Flight Is Bared In North

EDMONTON Alta. Nov. 14. (AP)—Another mercy flight has been added to the aerial log of Pilot John Bythell north country flier who rested today at Aklavik northwest territories post on the MacKenzie river.

Across the 500-mile stretch of barren lands from Cameron bay to Aklavik, Bythell sped yesterday taking Captain Vic Ingraham, skipper of the Arctic schooner Speed to the far north post for medical treatment. Word of the safe arrival of the plane was flashed from northland wireless stations later.

Injured when his vessel was destroyed by fire on Great Bear lake, with the loss of two lives, Captain Ingraham also suffered severe frost bites, the result of two days adrift on a rubber raft. At Cameron bay where the captain and survivors of the schooner were taken after rescue by plane from the bleak lake shore, Dr. T. O. Byrne feared amputation of Ingraham's leg would be necessary.

Other survivors remained at Cameron bay recovering from exposure, but all were making rapid progress after their experience in arctic weather.
