Push Hog Raising in County

Extension Service Program for 1962 Set Up by Committees

The 1962 program of work for the Extension Service as it operates in Collingsworth county has been laid out by the program building committees, named in a recent annual meeting to serve in an advisory capacity to the county agent and home demonstration agent, Bob Lynch and Miss Kathryn Potter.

Jack Phipps of Wellington was elected chairman of the program building committees for 1961-62. He succeeds John Coleman. Wood Coleman of Dozier is vice chairman and Mrs. Eugene Morrow of Wellington, secretary.

In explaining the operation of the program building committee, Lynch explained that the committee, through various sub-committees, determines those problems which they believe should be worked on in cooperation with the Extension Service. They also decide which of these problems is most urgent.

With the extension agents, a program of work is arrived at, along with the goals sought in each particular problem.

"The people themselves know what they want the Extension Service to work on, and this is how we find out their thinking and their desires," Lynch explained.

During 1962 the agricultural phase of the program will emphasize hog production in Collingsworth county and the continuation of the On-the-Farm Research Demonstration program.

The home demonstration agent's work will center on clothing, foods and nutrition and home improvement. Both groups will work on 4-H.

Hog Production ... Phipps heads the swine committee, which pointed out that one of the big problems of hog growers in this county is that they are not organized.

The committee put as the first order of business the organization of a county swine growers association. It will take up at the same time such things as marketing, disease control and better utilization of home grown feeds. Other problems will be tackled as they come up.

The first meeting working for a swine growers association will be held Thursday, Dec. 14 at 2 p.m. in the county court room, Lynch said.

Working with Phipps on the committee are Dennis Holliman, J. C. Saunders, Jerry Nix, and Alton Pyburn of Wellington, John Carson and Fred Bourland of Quail.

On-the-Farm Research ... The on-the-farm research demonstration committee, headed by John Coleman, made recommendations for the joint Extension Service - Experiment Station test program, officially the Northwest Texas Research Demonstration Program, but better known as on-the-farm research.

Two new studies will be entered into.

"We'll work on the benefits of cotton burs to the land. We know they are beneficial, but we don't know how much benefit we get, and we want to know the various rates of cotton burs in combination with fertilizer we should use," Lynch explained.

There will be a new study of skip-row planting, using various rates such as two rows in and one out and four rows in and four out.

The present demonstrations will be continued: cotton, wheat and grain sorghum variety tests; aphid resistant alfalfa studies, fertility work in wheat and cotton. There will be a study of the newer dwarf hybrid grain sorghums. Some of these are coming on the market, others are not that far along.

"The Experiment Stations have a dwarf variety that is as good a yielder as RS 610, which has been our top yielder in the hybrid grain sorghum variety tests," Lynch remarked.

Cotton Ginnings Total 27,767 Bales to Date

Cotton ginnings so far this season total 27,767 bales, a survey of the county's nine gins revealed, with the crop for the county as a whole estimated 75 to 80 per cent out.

Only an estimated 1100 to 1200 bales remain to be gathered in the Dodson area, while around Wellington, between 75 and 80 per cent is reported already ginned.

North of Salt Fork the amount of the crop harvested varies from two-thirds to three-fourths, while the deep sandy area around Quail has a larger per cent of its cotton still in the field.

While intermittent wet weather in recent weeks has slowed down harvesting, it has not damaged the grade as much as many had feared, several ginner reported.

Most of the cotton is machine harvested, ginner report, with transient Mexican workers rapidly moving out.

Santa Arrives Here with Fanfare Dec. 6

Santa Claus will come to Wellington Wednesday, Dec. 6 in his traditional sleigh, but behind live and prancing Shetland ponies. His arrival is timed for 3 p.m.

The ponies and sleigh will then stay around for a while, until all young children have had an opportunity to ride in Santa's sleigh.

Use of the ponies to help Santa travel over Collingsworth terrain was offered by their owner, Jake Leach, Wellington Shetland breeder, N. M. Higdon, Chamber of Commerce manager, announced.

This, however, is only one part of the big Christmas entry event that will welcome Santa to Wellington.

The Skyrocket Band, wearing Santa's colors of red and white, will provide music for the event, and Santa will listen to the wishes of all children of the Wellington trade area.

Plans for Santa's entry and the official opening of the Christmas season in Wellington were announced by Higdon following a meeting of the Christmas planning committee of the Chamber of Commerce Friday, Nov. 24. Henry Sullivan is committee chairman.

Wellington's traditional lights around the court house and the square will go up, with the lighted star atop the court house.

Morris Sullivan and Quenton Brewer are in charge of erecting the lights.

Leach will be in charge of the ponies and Mrs. Deskins Wells and Mrs. John Coleman will help him in decorating the sleigh.

Wellington residents this year are urged to decorate their homes according to their own desires, and there will be no decoration for competitive prizes. This, the committee felt is not in the true spirit of Christmas.

One Two-Time Loser

Burglars Hit Five Times Over County

Burglars hit Collingsworth county five times during last week, Sheriff John Rainey reported, and ranged from what appears to officers to be a professional job on one hand to someone with an appetite for hot dogs on the other.

At the same time, Sheriff Rainey reported the solving of a residential burglary.

Sheriff John Rainey has warned county business men to take precautions to make their buildings as "burglar proof" as possible.

They should see that the doors are securely locked when they close at night and examine their premises for any other possible place that burglars might enter, he said.

Burglars went through the front door of Parker Dry Goods in Dodson early Wednesday, Nov. 23, after breaking a glass panel, then reaching inside and unlocking it.

The amount of loss was difficult to determine, the sheriff added, but included "several ladies blouses, several khaki pants, several shirts, several pairs of shoes, bedspreads, costume jewelry and three zipper handbags."

Hungry burglars entered the concession stand of the Bronco Theatre Friday night, Nov. 24 and made themselves hot dogs, ate some candy and drank pop. They cut a hole in a door, reached through and released the lock. Officers believe three persons took part in this burglary, the sheriff said.

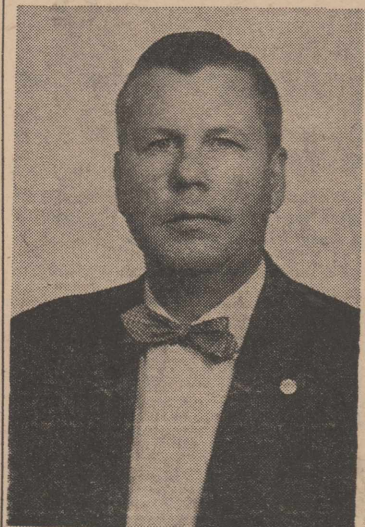

The theft of three tires and a wheel from a cotton trailer on Wednesday night, Nov. 22, was reported by Aubrey Stuckey. The trailer was in a cotton field of Goat Hopper, across the road north of the Bronco Drive-In.

Dairy Mart was hit by burglars the second time in a week when it was entered Sunday night, Nov. 26. An estimated $75 was taken from the cigarette machine and an undetermined amount from the juke box. The glass pane of a door was broken and burglars reached through to unlatch it, Sheriff Rainey said.

Jess Young Laundry was entered some time during the week end and between 70 and 100 pennies were taken from the cash register, along with an undetermined amount of candy, according to Rainey. Entry was through a window that was not locked, he added.

Christmas Tree Precautions Will Help Keep Season Merry

In the next few weeks, a Christmas tree will go up in a majority of the homes in the Wellington area. With us it is as much a part of Christmas as Santa Claus, and family gatherings, and turkey dinner.

They are to help make Christmas merry, but to keep it that way, certain precautions should be taken, suggests the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which passed on these hints:

When you choose your Christmas tree, select one that is freshly cut; feel the needles to be sure they are firmly attached, then keep it standing in a pail of water until ready to put up.

Place it in the coolest part of the room, as far as possible from heating units. This will reduce the chances of fire and keep the tree from drying.

Use a tree stand which has a water container in which the trunk can rest. Most trees "drink" water fairly fast, so fill the water container daily.

Christmas tree decorations should be flameproof. Use only decorations made of glass, metal or fire-resistant material.

Use only electric lights to decorate the tree—never candles. The lights should be turned off when everyone is away from home.

When you open presents on Christmas morning, put away gift wrappings you intend to keep. Gather up other wrappings and throw them away immediately after presents are opened.

Even if the tree is still fresh, plan now to dismantle it the day after New Year's.

One of the cameramen around this old shebang told us about a poor, little old lady he met on the way to work. Dressed in rags, she told him that she was just laid off from her job as scrubwoman.

"Sad story," we sympathized. "What did you give her?"

"Well, the sun was bright, but it was early in the morning," he explained, "so I gave her F11 at 1/500th.

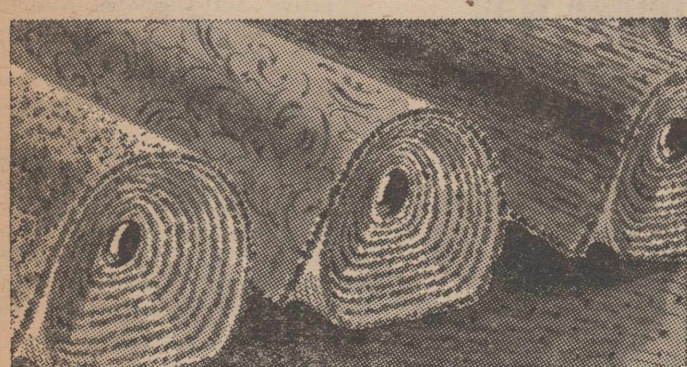

In some way life is like a thistle: Touch it timidly and you'll get hurt . . . Grasp it firmly and you'll crush its spines.

Nice thing about rock-and-roll records is that you can't tell the difference when they wear out.

There's nothing like cleaning out the garage . . . Yesterday we found the snow shovel we were looking for last winter.

Many women at heart are frustrated lawyers. They love to hold lengthy hearings whenever their husbands come home an hour late from work.

One fellow we have in mind was nagged so often he requested his wife to lister complaints by number. When he stepped out of line she then merely shouted: "34, 42—oh yes, and 112!" At the end of a month they increased their television watching time by about 40 hours.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I note that life in the U.S. is being made simpler all the time by the more comprehensive service we are getting from Washington.

Time was when we had to reup our own little old minds and grind out decisions on such matters as who to vote for in local elections.

But now, in this improved society, we have got the President, the Vice President, ex-Presidents, and sundry other VIP's to lead us away from the temptation to pick the wrong man for mayor or congressman.

I see where a magazine writer sort of sneers at backward folks who are not entertained by our New Culture of gutter-grooved movies and books.

He claims all of these artistic dealings with sociological misfits is realism, and is aimed at giving mature minds something to think about besides payday and bowling.

My fogey neighbor says he don't get around much lately, but if four-letter dirt and peep shows is now the prescribed food for mature minds, he is glad to be in his second childhood.

I see where a Federal Housing Administration deputy commissioner got fired when it got in the news that he once lost $7,000 in a blackjack game.

News reports don't say whether the man was sacked because he was a poor blackjack player, or because he welched on his IOU, but either way it looks like a mistake has been made.

On account of this incident proves he is just the type of operative needed by New Slant government, being loyal to his intellectual hunches even in the face of better judgment.

I see where a Virginia drug store operator got arrested the other day when he was caught red-handed in transgression, selling a toy piano on Sunday.

My anti-sin neighbor says this shows the deplorable state of U.S. morals, and all such wickedness had ought to be dealt with severely.

Unless there were extenuating circumstances in this case, such as maybe the druggist was browbeaten into turpitude by some mean-looking character whose little granddaughter was in the mood for a toy piano.

I note that there is a new virus sweeping the country, which is called "Extremism" and our very highest levels of people-savers are working to cure it.

Symptoms of this malady are salty talkings and writings on the pro side of such controversial subjects as patriotism, self-interest, and horse sense.

Antidote being prescribed for Extremism is extreme moderation, and my boiling blood neighbor says he hopes the cure doesn't over-run the disease so that we all wake up some morning moderately dead.

Brucellosis, Screw Worms

Meeting Called on Cattle Health Work

Brucellosis and screw worms, two big problems of Collingsworth cattlemen, will be taken up in an open meeting slated for Monday, Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the district court room, County Agent Bob Lynch has announced.

In one part of the meeting, a representative of the Texas Animal Health Council will go over the brucellosis program and local cattle men will start work on the control program for the county.

The other part of the program will be given over to the work to be done on a state wide basis on the screw worm fly, which each year causes considerable loss to county ranchers.

Sponsoring the meeting is a newly-formed committee which is the local unit working with the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, organized on a state-wide basis.

John Robert Henard heads the committee, and members are Fred Bourland and Carl Wischkaemper of Quail, Zook Thomas of Lillie, John Coffee of Wellington, Wood Coleman of Dozier, L. A. Davis of Rolla, Robert Dwight of Samnorwood and Truitt Holland of Dodson.

"Brucellosis control counties are fast surrounding us," said Lynch. "Childress and Hardeman counties are to the south and east. If we send cattle to Childress county we have to quarantine them 30 days and then retest them for brucellosis."

Most of the counties south to the Big Bend, those on the north plains and to the west already are under the brucellosis control program, the county agent added. The small group not yet under are Hall, Collingsworth, Gray, Donley, and Wheeler, in this immediate area.

The procedure for this county to go under brucellosis (Bang's disease) control program is:

A petition must be signed by 75 per cent of the cattle owners who own at least 51 per cent of the cattle on the tax rolls, and then submitted to the Texas Animal Health Council.

Following a three months waiting period, during which any protests may be filed, the Council will move its equipment and laboratories in and begin testing all cattle for brucellosis.

Cattle owners of a county under the control program may move their cattle freely to any county.

It has now been learned that a person owning ranches in a county under control and in a county without the program may have both ranches tested for brucellosis, then move his cattle from one to the other without quarantine, Lynch said.

Screw worm control is the first work taken up by the recently organized Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, a non-profit organization sponsored by a large number of farm and livestock organizations. It is to be financed by voluntary contributions on the following schedule: 50¢ per head for adult cattle, steers and horses, and 10¢ per head for adult swine, sheep and goats.

The screw worm fly eradication program will follow closely the successful work done in Florida, in which the male screw worm flies were caught and sterilized through radiation. They were then turned loose in large numbers. Since the female screw worm fly mates only once in her lifetime, while the males mate repeatedly, the drop in fly population is sufficient to give control, according to County Agent Lynch.

"A lot of survey work has been made in the county in the past. Several ranchers in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture have sent in samples of screw worm larvae to a central laboratory to check on screw worm fly movement in this direction," Lynch continued.

Most of the screw worm fly section of the Dec. 11 meeting here will be given over to an explanation of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation and its proposed work.

The Volunteer Services Council, which serves patients and students in all Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools, will again collect the deer hides given by hunters to provide buckskin for use in occupational therapy and arts and crafts work, T. D. Weaver, chairman, announced.

Transportation of the raw hides is provided without charge by most of the motor freight lines when directions are followed.

More than 2,500 hides were donated last year by Texas hunters. These instructions should be followed, Weaver said:

1. Salt hide and allow to drain.
2. Pack hide and mark it "Charity".

Norwood Takes Pair from Rocket Teams

Samnorwood Eagles and the Eaglettes took a pair of games from the Rockets and Rockettes on the Norwood court Tuesday, Nov. 21.

The Wellington girls lost their game 39 to 32, while Coach Doyle Chambers' Eagles ran ahead to take their game 56 to 45.

However, the Norwood teams have behind them eight games so far this season; Coach James Stavenhagen's Wellington boys and girls were going into their second week only.

High pointer in the girls' game was Darlene Rainey of the Eaglettes with 25 points, while Vicki Glenn was second with 14. Gayla Courtney, who was lost by the foul route to the Rockettes early in the last quarter, scored 10 points in three quarters. Elaine Yarbrough made 6 and Frances Warrick 2.

Janie Schaub was second high for Norwood with 6, Barbara Favors made 5 and Sue Latham 3.

Coach Stavenhagen praised the defensive work of the Rockette guards and added that the team showed some improvement, but there are still some weak points.

The Norwood girls, he said, are a little more advanced in their playing.

Starters for the Rockettes were Elaine Yarbrough, Gayla Courtney and Vickie Glenn, forwards; and Carol Blain, Janice Wood and Donna Curry, guards.

Eaglette starters were Darlene Rainey, Barbara Favors, and Sue Latham, forwards, and Margie Conner, Gail Bradley, and Joyce Alexander, guards.

Rockets - Eagles . . . High point man in the boys game was Randall Murry of Samnorwood with 15, while Jackie Daves of the Rockets scored 14 and John Barton 13. Three Eagles made 10 each—Neil Lowry, Bob King and Bobby Stevenson.

"Samnorwood has a real good team for this early in the season. But the Rockets played a hard game, showed a lot of hustle and a desire to win. We still make too many mistakes and foul too much to be a good ball club yet," Coach Stavenhagen pointed out.

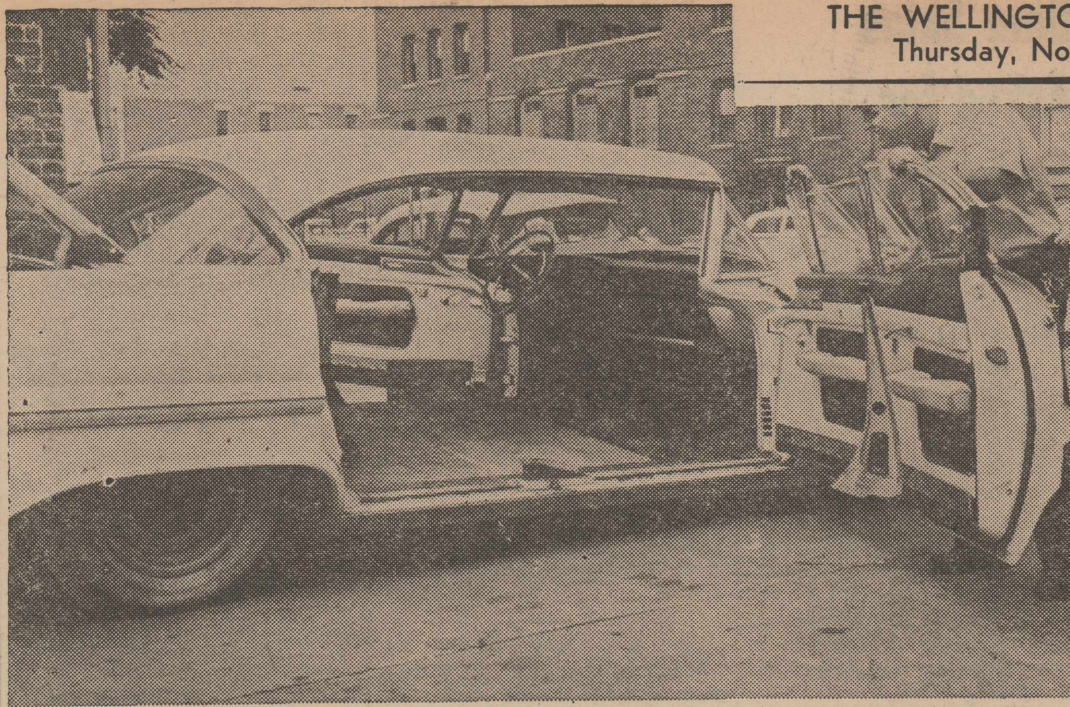

He praised Daves' game, and added that he was pleased with Barton's showing. Others he named for excellent work were Raymond Sanders, Lynn McLain and Craig Bergvall.

"Norwood is real fast and moves the ball well," he added. "We are hoping to beat them Friday, but we'll have to work to be able to."

Rocket starters were Jerry Rainey, Dan Henard, Oliver Bishop, Jackie Daves and John Barton.

Eagle starters were Randall Murry, Neil Lowry, Wayne Lindley, Bob King and Bobby Stevenson.

DOOR WITH MORE—It looks as if the owner of this car customized it with the phrase "traveling broadens one" in mind. Actually, this is not the case. The auto was converted by thieves to transport heavy stolen safes. It is shown in Chicago, Ill.

Harrell's Variety Remodeled; Has Reopening Sale

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie A. Harrell are announcing the reopening of Harrell's Variety Store following its complete remodeling. The reopening date is set at Thursday, Nov. 30 at 8 a.m.

The long-established firm is of glass and metal in a most modern business homes, completely modern and with a complete stock of all items found generally in a 5- and 10-cent store.

The front of the building is now of glass and metal in a contemporary style, while a new sidewalk was installed to complete the look.

Inside, there is approximately one-third more store space, with a complete new lighting system, new ultra-modern color scheme and complete new fixtures.

Six rows of fluorescent lights provide illumination. A "carnival of color" is used in the decorating scheme, combining such colors as turquoise, yellow, shrimp, orchid, green, red, and blue. A new tile floor in tan and white was laid.

The new fixtures are lower and more convenient than those formerly used, known as "low boy" style. Aisles are wider, to care for customers meeting and passing with their shopping carts.

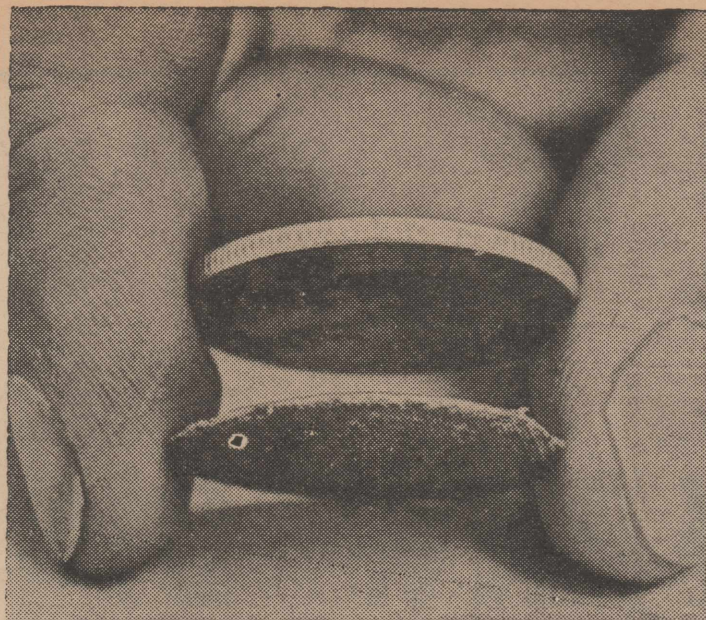

The added space was obtained from partial use of the stock room, with a newly acquired warehouse handling the surplus stock.

Resting areas for salespeople were remodeled.

Harrell's Variety Store will continue its customer service plan, with a new style central check-out counter. Shopping baskets and rolling shopping carts are of a type especially designed for variety store shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrell are partners in the store.

Charlie Harrell came here 30 years ago, as a 19-year-old youth who was named manager of the McLellan's Store. He had begun work for that firm as a stock boy at the age of 14 in Drumright, Okla. It was only a few years after coming here that he acquired his own store on the north side of the square. And only a few years after that he became franchised with Butler

Brothers and the Ben Franklin Program, then in its infancy. He helped to do much of the planning and work out the program now in organization, with 2,400 independent Ben Franklin merchants spread across America.

He has been in this business in Wellington for 31 years except for two years spent in the Army during World War II.

Mrs. Harrell has been a partner in the store 20 years, since their marriage. She is the former Peggy Loving, the daughter of the late Dr. J. H. Loving.

She was graduated from high school at Falfurrias and then returned to Wellington to make her home.

Employees in the newly remodeled store, which includes also those now employed at the store owned by the couple on the west side of the square, are Mrs. Ed Crawford, Mrs. Dick Isaacs, Mrs. G. M. Owens, Ace Harrell, who is the son of the owners, Mrs. Alonzo Cartwright, Mrs. C. C. Taylor, Miss Doris White, Mrs. Harvey Millsap, Mrs. Joe Terry, Mrs. Oran Starkey, Mrs. Doug Bergvall, Mrs. D. L. IT'S THE LAW ★ in Texas ★

A Public Service Feature
by the State Bar of Texas

BUSINESS ORGANIZATION

The law allows a business a wide choice of ways to set itself up, to finance and manage itself.

You may have sole ownership, partnerships, joint ventures, corporations; and with these classes you have many different forms.

To meet modern business conditions, to get full tax advantage, and to protect investors, for example, the law provides many ways for a company to finance itself. And these, in turn, influence the kind of management it can have, and the way it conducts its affairs.

We sometimes speak of "stocks and bonds," for example, as if they were one and the same.

But when you buy a share of stock in a company, you

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, November 30, 1961

"own" an "undivided" part of everything it owns, but no particular piece of its property.

But what do you have when you buy a corporation's bond or debenture? You own nothing of the company. Instead you are lending money which it promises to pay back with interest when your bond "matures."

Unlike a stockholder, a bondholder as a rule has little to say directly about who manages and how he manages the company. Remotely a bond buyer by withholding or lending money may influence a company's ability to expand. The bondholder gets only his interest payments, which come before the stockholders' "dividends," since he takes less of a risk than the stockholders. Thus if the corporation quits or goes bankrupt, it must pay the bondholders off before the stockholders get anything.

Where does the "preferred stock" come in. As a rule, preferred stockholders collect a fixed dividend—after the bondholders are paid but before the "common" stockholders get anything. There are many kinds of preferred stock arrangements. But in return for their first chance at the profits the preferred stockholders often give up any voting rights or ability to control the company directly.

YOU DRAW DIVIDENDS

from every business enterprise in the community where you live

If some good neighbor
with a popcorn stand was giving you part of his profits every day...

... you would probably give him ALL of your popcorn business ... you might even try to influence other neighbors to take up popcorn ... and to buy it at home.

Actually, you DO share in the profits of EVERY business in your home community, because a BIG PART of the gross margin on every local business transaction goes toward the support of things that benefit YOU and everyone else who lives here.

Such as schools, churches, roads and streets, fire and police protection, jobs for more people so that we can keep among us MORE good teachers and preachers and doctors and other skilled folks. And so we can have more stores that are better stocked for our convenience and for our EMERGENCY needs.

Because we don't get these benefits in cash, we sometimes forget that ALL home business is really OUR BUSINESS. And some of us even forget ... and trade somewhere else ... when OUR OWN PAYCHECK depends on keeping this community prosperous.

It Pays to Buy Where You Live

WRIGHT AWAY!

Recently this message appeared on the blackboard at the Air Line Pilots Association's safety forum: "Orville, Please Call Wilbur at the bicycle shop."

HOPALONG WHO?

Leicester, England, police report that their lost property office contains a wooden leg.

NOT DISCOURAGED

A trio of bandits entered a Pittsburgh, Pa., bakery and told the owner to give them all the cash on hand. The owner replied that he did not have any cash. The thugs settled for four dozen doughnuts.

DEEP FISHING

The deeper you fish the less important color becomes. Colors on your lures tend to lose individuality the deeper they sink. Red is the first to lose distinction.

So concentrate on plug action in deep water, and never mind the color of your bait. On the surface, however, color does count, with red and white the most popular. Contrast of the two colors seems to please (or displease) bass especially.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

If you are planning on going on that livestock feeding and grain development tour you will have to get your reservation in by Dec. 15. The cost of the tour is $246.00. People from here would board the Santa Fe train at Amarillo at 10:05 a.m., January 14. If you are interested, write to the Agricultural and Livestock Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 1561, Abilene, Texas.

It seems strange that so much of our grain as well as cattle should be shipped to feeders in Arizona and California. Of course, there is the problem of marketing, but after all we are just as close to the big centers of population as are the feeders of Arizona. They may have a milder winter climate, but whether they have a better all year climate is debatable. Anyway, I hope somebody from our county goes on the tour.

Our yard was full of migratory birds last Tuesday morning which was cloudy and misty with the threat of snow in the air. Cardinals were feasting on the red pyranthia berries, robins were hopping around on the ground; but we also had some visitors we had never had before. This was a flock of Cedar Waxwings and they were eating the dark polk berries that grow in the backyard. One group had gathered by a giant bush that grows near the kitchen window, so Louise and I were able to observe them from a distance of not more than three or four feet away. As long as we did not move they paid no attention to us in the unlighted kitchen.

Audobon's "Birds of America" says the cedar waxwing is so named because they are unique in that every feather is exactly in place and their distinctive markings. The overall color is a reddish brown with yellow on the flanks and a white undertail cover. They have a pointed top knot that slants back sharply and they wear a black mask of feathers around the eyes. They travel in flocks and their principal food is fresh and dried fruits. They spend the summer in the far north, as far as Montreal, Canada, and winter in South America. They are more slender than a sparrow, but the body is considerably longer and they have a much longer tail. Considering their size these little fellows took on a tremendous load of fuel for their long flight south.

The flights of the migratory birds has been a source of wonder to me through the years as much so as reading about the mysteries of the oceans. It is said that man first learned to navigate the seas by watching the flight of the land birds long before he learned to fix his position by the stars. Instinct told the birds where to go, but man had to reason it out.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Spear during the Thanksgiving holidays were their sons and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Spear and Leslie Gayle of Fritch, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spear and Kimi of Amarillo.

Funeral in Missouri for Frank Blanton

The body of Frank Blanton, who died Nov. 5, was shipped by Kelso Funeral Home to Protom, Missouri, Tuesday, Nov. 28. He died of a heart attack preceding the fire that destroyed his home northwest of Wellington. At that time people who knew him here had no knowledge of his family.

Mrs. Flossie Erwin of Joplin, Mo., who identified herself as his daughter, came here last week after receiving a daily newspaper clipping of the event, according to Jimmie Kelso.

The Welch Funeral Home will be in charge of arrangements there and burial will be in the Wolf Cemetery.

Mr. Blanton had lived here since 1932, coming to this area from Missouri.

Mrs. Erwin said her father was born at Nance, Taney county, Missouri, Feb. 23, 1881 and grew up in the Springfield, Mo., area. He had worked for farmers in the Lillie area until two or three years ago, however, he had never discussed his family or events of his life before coming here. He is survived by three sons and three daughters: Mrs. Erwin of Joplin; Mrs. Hetsie Chorn, Mrs. Myrtle Trimble, Coy Blanton and Floyd Blanton of Protom, Mo.; and Roy Blanton of Nevada, Mo. He is also survived by three brothers and a sister: Maywood Blanton of Tucson, Ariz.; Jim Blanton of Springfield, Mo.; Albert Blanton and Mrs. Clopha Simmons of Nevada, Mo.

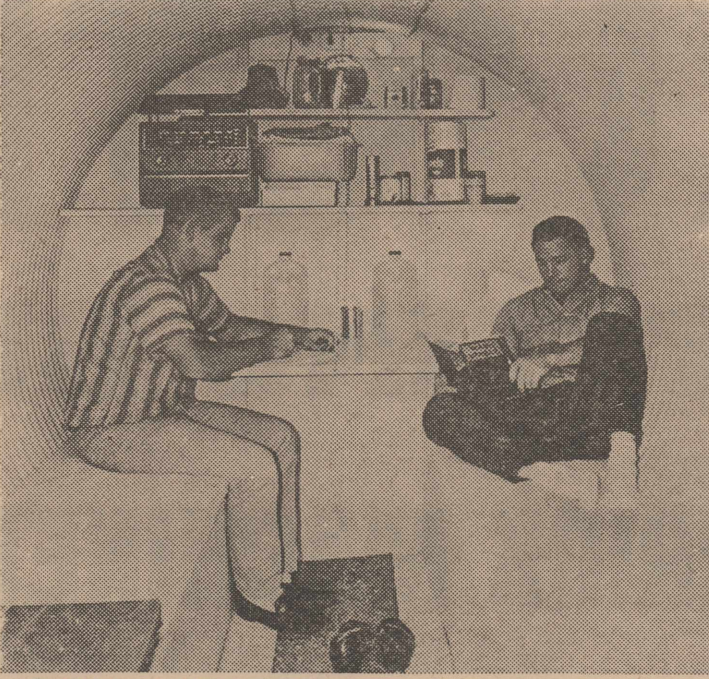

Linemen Praised at Texas Tech

LUBBOCK.—Wired together like a barnstorming plane of the Twenties, Texas Tech's line is the current toast of the campus.

Texas Tech's forwards absorbed terrific battering from the hefty Boston College linemen last week but enabled the Red Raiders to actually outgain the Eagles on the ground in the 14-6 victory. BC sent in lines averaging 220 and 223 pounds. Since the Red Raiders lines average 198 and 188 pounds, Texas Tech linemen were giving away from 22 to 35 pounds each.

Did someone say "Patched-Up," Coach J. T. King could have invented the word.

At center, for example, he has two former ends and an ex-fullback. Ex-ends are Dennis Grimes of Seagraves and Jerry Elbert of Wellington, and a former fullback Charles Harrison of Abilene. All are juniors, and the heaviest is the 195-pound Elbert.
