George Sherrill died Monday. Floydada lost a fine citizen when a "prime mover" in the Little League baseball team died 20 to 25 years ago.

Sherrill's family members remember that he also helped fence materials and helped fence for the baseball field, and with the boys.

1978 Yearbooks of Floydada have been delayed, according to Janet Milam, not once but several times as mistakes by the staff had to be corrected and reprinted.

Milam says that as soon as the yearbooks are received, she will give them out as to when distribution will be held.

Harvest should begin in September and continue until a freeze.

The commissioners set the 1978 budget hearing for Monday, Sept. 11 at 2 p.m.

Each of the four precinct funds received $8000 as the men approved transfers of $12,000 from special road fund number six, and $20,000 from road and bridge fund number two.

Survey To Be Made

Directors of Floydada Development Company met recently and voted to conduct a county-wide survey to determine the number of people who would be interested in working in a sewing plant in Floydada.

Floydada has no prospects at this time for such an industry, but directors of the development company want to have the information available if needed.

The survey will be in the next issue of the Hesperian. Anyone who would be interested should fill out the form and return it to the development company. Even persons who are employed in other jobs should return the form if they would find a sewing job preferable to other employment.

Knowledge of sewing and of needlecraft would be a job requirement in a sewing plant.

Other items of business covered by the board in the recent meeting were a policy for furnishing a building or building site for future industry, additional incentives for industry to move to Floydada, and training of prospective employees for new industry.

Floydada Development Company president Jim Willson Jr. conducted the meeting.

Miss Reagan Cagle, Cliff Campbell Wed

Arrangements of white summer flowers and lighted tapers framed the altar area of the First Baptist Church, Floydada, as wedding promises were exchanged Saturday, August 12, uniting in marriage Miss Reagan Cagle of Floydada and Mr. Cliff Campbell of Arlington. Dr. Floyd C. Bradley, pastor, officiated at the 8 o'clock ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cagle of Floydada; and the groom is the son of Mrs. Frank Gambelin, Abilene, and Mr. Jimmie Campbell of Haskell.

Grandparents attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. B.D. Vick of Brownwood and Mrs. Hollis Cagle of Tulsa.

The altar setting was centered by a grouping of arched candelabras holding white pillar candles. Matching white pedestals and urns holding mass arrangements of mixed white flowers were on each side. The bride's aisle was decorated with white satin and sala foliage.

Musical selections were presented by Mrs. Bill Hardin, organist, and Mrs. Mack Hickerson, pianist, both of Floydada, who also accompanied soloist Barry Watts of Lubbock. Mr. Watt's selections were "Welcome To My World" and "Let It Be Me."

Mr. Jimmie Campbell of Haskell was best man.

Other groomsmen were Messrs. Daylon Byerly of Denver, Colorado, Pat Felix of San Antonio, Steve Bostick of McAllen, Rick Stokes of Carriazo Springs and brothers of the bride, John Cagle and Rusty Cagle, both of Floydada, who also served as ushers.

Miss Debbie Russell of Arlington was maid of honor.

Other bridal attendants were Misses. Gay Troianni of San Antonio, Betty Johnson of Olney, Penny Kelly of Carrollton, and Jim Warren of Tahoka.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, Mr. Bill Cagle, the bride wore a dress of white eyelet batiste, designed by Mori Lee. The moulded bodice featured a scoop neckline with small flounce, which could be arranged in an off the shoulder look. The flounce drifted into the short layered sleeves. The empire waistline was defined with a self-fabric waistband and swept to back fullness forming a chapel length train.

To complete her ensemble, Miss Cagle wore a matching white eyelet picture hat, featuring a ruffle and white lace hat band tied to a bow in the center back, which was trailed by long streamers. She carried a cascading bouquet of white stephanotis, sweetheart roses, tube roses and gypsophelia.

To complement the bride's ensemble, her attendants carried bouquets of mixed summer flowers and ivy. Each wore identical gowns of white eyelet, which gave the wedding an ultra formal effect. Empire waistlines were emphasized with self-fabric waistbands, featuring a self fabric bow in back. The full circular skirts were floor length, featuring wide flounce hemlines.

Flower girl, Miss Kasey Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Allen of Clarendon, also wore a floor length white eyelet gown featuring the flounce neckline and hemline.

Following a musical interlude presented by Barry Watts, accompanied on the piano by Tolya Hickerson, a reception was held in Wall Street Parlor. The circular cake table was covered with a floor length white chiffon cloth with Victorian swags. Flanking the bride's table were serving tables which had matching cloths and were centered with silver candelabrum holding mixed foilage arrangements and cathedral length tapers. Silver appointments were used.

Reception attendants at the bride's table were Misses Mary Ann Brown, Connie Cogdell, Marilyn Weems, Terri Pearson and Dy 'Anna Waldrop. At the groom's table were Misses Brenda Morton and Mychelle Hammond. Registering guests was Miss Tanya Whitten.

Hale County Book To Debut Sunday

Hale County Historical Commission is holding an autograph party Sunday afternoon, to introduce the book "Hale County Facts and Folklore", edited by Vera Dean Wofford. The party will be held from 2 to 5 o'clock in Llano Estacado Museum, on the campus of Wayland Baptist College in Plainview, and Mrs. Wofford will be present to autograph the books that are sold.

The 787-page history of Hale County contains the stories of some 375 families and individuals, an archaeological account covering some 8,000 years in time, a history of county and city governmental organizations, churches, schools financial institutions, newspapers, agriculture, civic organizations and community activities. There is much statistical information, including a census of several county cemeteries.

A unique feature of the book is a 50-page section of never-before published interviews done in the 1930's by Hale County historian Mary L. Cox with 30 of the original settlers of the county, and there are hundreds of pictures spanning the 100-year history of the county.

Mrs. Wofford, who edited the volume, is a third-generation Plainviewian, a graduate of local public schools and Wayland Baptist College, and she has published in numerous newspapers and periodicals, including the Saturday Evening Post, the Farm Journal, the Denver Post, and College and Career. She is the widow of another third-generation Plainviewian, Dr. C.D. Wofford, and along with her writing activities, teaches private piano in her home.

Copies of "Hale County Facts and Folklore", published by Melvin Young of Pica Publishing Company in Lubbock, are available at a pre-publication price of $13.63, which includes tax and mailing. After August 20 the price will be $19.40.

Proceeds go to Hale County Historical Commission and orders may be sent to them at P.O. Box 1282, Plainview, Texas 79072.

Those who have already placed orders for books with the Hale County Historical Commission may pick them up at the autograph party.

The Floyd Philosopher Says Mid-East Problem Needs To Be Solved Before Boredom Sets In

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm throws caution to the wind and tries to solve the Mid-East problem this week.

Dear editor:

The Mid-East problem, it seems to me, needs to be solved pretty quick before the rest of the world gets bored with it. Mr. Sadat and Mr. Begin can show up on television denouncing each other just as many times before they become monotonous.

As I understand it, the West Bank is the disputed spot, Mr. Sadat saying Mr. Begin doesn't own it and Mr. Begin saying he won't give up one grain of sand of it, which is a hard thing to do if the wind is blowing toward Egypt.

Trying to solve the problem, the United States has sent Mr. Kissinger, then Mr. Vance, and then Vice President Mondale over there, without success.

The trouble is we've been sending the wrong people.

What we ought to do is send the Army Engineers. Not with arms but with shovels, grubbing hoes, bulldozers and draglines. Then, at a cost of say 50 million dollars plus a cost over-run of say 150 or 200 million dollars, re-channel that river so the land that's now the west bank becomes the east bank.

However, and here's where skilled diplomacy attained by diplomats flying around the world wringing their hands over problems they don't know what to do with, comes in. Have the Army Engineers, when they re-route the rivers, leave the old river bed in place. At the head of the stream put in swinging gates. Then in future wars, whichever side wins gets to swing the gates toward whichever river bed it wants the water to flow in.

You might call this to the attention of President Carter so that when he and Mr. Begin and Mr. Sadat meet at Camp David they'll have something besides the scenery to talk about.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Wheeling And Stealing

Thinking back a few years bicycles were, for the most part, considered toys. When one disappeared, it was usually because some youngster took it for a joy ride and failed to return it. Unfortunately, that's often not the case today. Many bicycles are hardly toys. They are quite valuable, especially those equipped with finely machined gears and accessories. As a result, bicycles are stolen in great numbers by professional thieves.

Bicycles are often stolen off of lawns or porches and out of unlocked garages at night. School yards and playgrounds are popular targets of bike thieves during the daytime.

* Register all bicycles with the appropriate local agency. Permanently etch your driver's license number predated by your state's initials on the frame of all your family's bicycles. This will make it identifiable to a police agency. Report the theft of any bicycle to the police.

* Don't leave bicycles on the lawn, on the porch or in an unlocked garage -- especially at night. If a bicycle must be left unattended anywhere, it should be secured to a solidly fixed rack or tree with a good quality chain and lock. The chain should not be looped just through a wheel but through the frame and both wheels.

* Regularly remind your children that just as bicycle safety rules will reduce the chances of their being hurt in an accident, crime safety practices will reduce the chance that their bike will be stolen.

* Encourage school and recreation authorities to provide secure bike racks located where they can be viewed by employees of the facility.

* Keep your wits -- and keep your wheels.

Facts from a pro on driving

Q. At sundown, should I drive with my lights on and then later turn them off?—P. L., El Paso

A. Never drive with just your parking lights on. Cause others may think the car is parked. implies, parking lights are meant to be used when you have to park on an unlighted road at night after sunset and leave them on until a light sunrise.

Q. I like to have music playing while driving. Is it dangerous to wear stereo headphones and listen to music while driving?—Dallas

A. It could be very dangerous, especially driving in city traffic or on the expressway. You must be particularly alert to the driving around you. Not only does loud music distract your concentration off the road, but it also prevents you from hearing horns and sirens. Even when you have a radio and air conditioner on and your car is up could impair your hearing enough to be dangerous. If you do use earphones or play the radio to compensate by keeping your eyes on the road, your rear view mirror and turn your car into possible hazards that may develop.

Q. While driving in a west Texas highway. I saw a tractor with no license plate. Is it right?—H. S., Odessa

A. Your friend is right. According to Texas law, tractors and other farm vehicles do not have to play a license plate if they are being driven temporarily on the highways. They also do not have to be inspected when driven temporarily.

If you have a question on driving, write to Texas Office of Traffic Safety, P.O. Box 1165, Austin, Texas 78767.

OVER 30 SENIOR CITIZENS from Floydada and six from Lockney went by chartered bus to Palo Duro Canyon Tuesday evening to see "Texas". Parnell Powell made arrangements for the trip, and Mary Pearl Coward helped with registration and collections and securing of tickets. (Staff Photo)

Group Goes To "Texas"

Thirty-three Senior Citizens and three guests from Floydada and six from Lockney traveled in a chartered bus to see "Texas" at the Palo Duro Canyon Tuesday night.

It is reported that the group had a "ball". They took a guided tour of the scenic drive through the canyon, then ate sack lunches before going to the amphitheatre for the show.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the trip, the tour, the show with its beautiful costumes and agile actors the beautiful moonlight sky, even the noisy "dry" electrical storm and the beautiful play of lights on the colorful canyon walls.

One person said, "We may want to go back another time but not next week, we are still sleepy because it was about 1:30 or 1:45 a.m."

when we arrived back in Floydada. And, that is late for even "young" Senior Citizens."

The Senior Citizens say a big "thank you" to Parnell Powell, who arranged for the chartered bus, and to the City Police who patrolled the park area of their cars during the trip.

Henrys Honored at Rural Electric Meet

Electric leaders from Texas last week honored George Henry of Floydada for 34 years of service to the rural electric industry.

Mr. Henry retired last November after a career with Greenbelt Electric Cooperative in Wellington, which included 23 years as manager of the 10-county system. He and his wife Juanita were guests of honor at a banquet in Dallas during the 38th Annual Meeting of the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives which drew nearly 600 rural electric leaders and ladies from throughout the state.

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

By Dorothy Neff
This was a real nice week. Our devotions were enjoyed by a large number of residents each morning. We have also had a good turnout for exercise classes each morning.

Tuesday afternoon the Llano Estacado Summer Youth group did several dances for our residents. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed their Mexican Hat dances and Duck dance. This is a talented bunch of kids and we appreciate the time they spent to perform for our residents.

Those taking the bus trip to Matador Wednesday were Green Bostick, Will Mooney, Robbie Bratton, Docie Manning, Anis Franks and Molly Jones. We visited in Matador with an ex-resident, Mrs. Bernice Knight, and Bill Jones, son of Molly Jones. We also carried Green by his home place to check on his '69 Chevy pickup.

Thursday was bingo day and Victoria Asher and Mamie Gray were top winners with three games each. Ray Reed, Willie Stambough and Clara Williamson won one game each and Mary Jordan won two games.

We would like to thank the family of Mary Plumlee for the delicious box of chocolate candy.

We have a new resident, Mrs. Jessie Freeman of Roaring Springs. Jessie lives in room number two in the west hall. We will do everything we can to make her stay here a happy one.

Thanks to our many visitors during the week which included:

Evelyn and Jack Crull, Lubbock; Mrs. Bill Smallwood, Matador; Mrs. Paul Brown, Gwen, Shell and Dustin Holladay, Amarillo; Mrs. Nelda Brown, Wendee Brown, Las Vegas, Nev.; Mr. and Mrs. James O. Grider, Reedley, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Grider, Glendora Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. E.B. Gardner, Siro, Oklahoma;

Also Thelma Jones, Eula Mae Cates, Doris Snodgrass, Wanda Hickerson, from Floydada; Tania Carthel, Plainview; Thanie Smallwood, Matador; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Vellie McNeill, Merlene Breeding, Charles Breeding, Janie Baird, Delia Baird, and Ruth Duncan, Floydada.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Barrera Jr., Johnny Barrera, Ernestina Martinez, Martin Morales, Wanda Minniti, Delia Gomez, Anna Rodriguez, Angel Falcon, Florida Z. Morales, Sandy Morales, Elida Briones, Kay Guzman, Paul Cisneros, Janie Barrera, Ruben Barrientoz, Esther Martinez, Josefina Guviera, Patricia Guzman and Mrs. George Smith, all from Floydada.

Appreciation Expressed By South Plains Blood Service

South Plains Blood Service of Lubbock wishes to express a sincere thank you to all the thoughtful people who volunteered to help others by giving of themselves at the recent blood drive held at the Lighthouse Electric Company by the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and the Hospital Auxiliary.

Thirty-one people volunteered to donate their blood to help patients in this community, and thirty units of blood were actually drawn during the drive.

A "special" thanks to Linda Matsler, Jan Thayer, Jo Bryant, Beth Tye, and Kathy Burk for all the effort and organization that these ladies put forth in making plans for this blood drive. This drive showed a tremendous increase over previous blood drives where the average number of donors was eight per drive.

Janice Hassell, Donor Resources Specialist at South Plains Blood Service, commented, "This is a clear example of concerned people in your community responding unselfishly to a great need—the need for blood. You can all feed pride that these volunteer donors are your friends and neighbors."

Over 100 units of blood are needed by patients in Caprock Hospital each year. This blood can only come from healthy human beings who give of themselves—there is no substitute for blood.

Archives Microfilm Papers

Thirty four years of Floyd County history are being preserved at Texas Tech University.

WEST TEXAS HISTORY comes alive for Melicia Sandlin, Texas Tech University student from Paducah. Christine Valdez, student assistant for the Southwest Collection, shows Sandlin the bound copies of newspapers from Paducah, Matador and Floydada, which are being microfilmed. The Southwest Collection, a regional research center located on the Tech campus in Lubbock, is microfilming issues from as early as 1907 in an effort to preserve perhaps the only records of the histories of the communities. Sandlin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Sandlin, Jr. of 1315 Easley Street in Paducah. Sandlin is an elementary education major taking classes this summer at Tech.

A regional archives, the Southwest Collection is a center for research devoted to perpetuating the heritage of the American Southwest. In addition to newspapers, the repository houses books, periodicals, tape recorded interviews, maps, photographs and personal and business papers from throughout the region.

Because of the rapid deterioration of newsprint, the Southwest Collection is filming papers from West Texas in an effort to preserve perhaps the only records of the histories of the communities they serve, according to David Murrah, head of the repository.

"These issues are especially valuable for historical research as each contains many stories pertaining to the history of the community or region," Murrah said. The repository now holds more than 400 Texas newspaper titles, including 66 microfilmed collections.

Loaned for copy by the Floyd County Hesperian, courtesy of Wendell Tooley, the Floyd County Plainsman and the Floyd County Hesperian range in date from 1931 to 1965. The papers were published weekly.

Along with thousands of facts and figures of historical worth, the papers record such things as a 1931 ad for an Amos (Freeman E. Gosden) and Andy (Charles J. Correll) movie that cost 10 cents for children and 25 cents for adults at the Palace Theatre.

Also in 1931, the Floyd County Judge said the county had no funds to help the unemployed, ladies shoes cost $5 and $6, and Charles "Buddy" Rogers starred in "The Road to Reno."

Prices were in the news in Floydada. At the Texas Utilities Company quitting business sale, curling irons cost 90 cents each; an egg cooker, $3.79; a ceiling fan, $26.50; a washing machine motor, $10.82; a radio complete with tubes, $73.50; and, a new range, $85.40.

On the local level in 1931, Floyd County held a fair, which proved to be a great success, according to the Plainsman.

But perhaps of greatest interest to researchers, who can now view the papers at the Southwest Collection, are the accounts of birth, death, major events and human interest stories.

Other papers being filmed from West Texas include papers from Idalou, Matador and Ralls.

The Southwest Collection also houses extensive material related to Floyd County history, including the papers of Judge Arthur B. Duncan and many oral history interviews provided by Floydada Junior Historians.

We act as though comfort and luxury were the chief requirements of life when all that we need to make us really happy is something to be enthusiastic about.

Aircraft Owners Should File Tax Return Soon

Most taxpayers who own aircraft must file a special Federal tax return, Form 4638, by August 31.

The return, Form 4638, must include the $25 annual fee for each aircraft plus the tax of 3 1/2 cents for each pound of maximum certified take-off weight for turbine powered aircraft and 2 cents for each pound of maximum certified take-off weight over 2,500 pounds for piston aircraft, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Revenue generated by the tax is used for construction and improvement of public airports and air control facilities.

The tax year for the use tax begins July 1 and runs through June 30 of the following year. If the first taxable use of an aircraft occurs after July 31, the tax based on weight is proportionately reduced.

Supplies of Form 4638 and the free IRS Publication 582, "Federal Use Tax on Civil Aircraft," providing additional information on the aircraft use tax, are available at many local IRS offices.

Cotton Costs Can Be Cut In Half

WESLACO, TX.--Texas cotton producers are leading the way in research that could cut cotton production costs in half.

Twenty-three and 1/2 cents per pound is the low cost Bruce Gilbert, a cotton producer from Lyford, Texas, managed to pull his production expenses down to. He achieved this reduction by using short season cotton varieties planted in narrow rows.

Gilbert's results and other similar reductions in production expenses were the outcome of a crop demonstration held on 150 acres in Willacy County, Texas. The demonstration plots were all planted with different varieties of short season cotton.

With cotton production costs presently hovering at around 60 cents per pound, the results gleaned from the short season cotton experiments in Willacy County may pave the roads towards a new era in cotton farming techniques.

According to Dr. Dale Pennington, an area extension agronomist in Weslaco, Texas, savings have been about $120 to $125 a bale using short season cotton.

L.N. Namken, a USDA soil scientist at the experiment station in Weslaco, described the difference between ordinary or "indeterminate" varieties of cotton and the new short season varieties. "The major difference between them is the short season varieties fruit so much faster," he said. "The fruiting rate is almost double that of the conventional cotton plant. In other words, we are blooming it twice as fast, so it greatly reduces the time to set a bale of cotton."

"We have produced a bale of cotton here in 120 days," Dr. Namken added. "With conventional varieties, cotton is 160 to 180 days. With short season cotton, we can get the cotton in and get it out before we get weather trouble."

as, has been well pleased with planting short season variety cotton because it has reduced the number of times he has had to spray insecticides. With short season cotton varieties, the length of the growing season is reduced. This means that insects are much less a crop hazard because there is less time for them to build up high populations and severely damage a crop.

"I've sprayed my cotton twice already (in early June)," said Mr. Dickerson. "I'll probably spray two or three times more. That'll be five or six sprayings total. With long season cotton, we have usually had to spray for insects 10 to 12 times. So, when you talk about money, short season cotton saves me $50 to $60 per acre."

"If it weren't for Cotton Incorporated sponsoring these programs," added Mr. Dickerson, "no one would be carrying out this type of research. I think Cotton Incorporated has done a lot for farmers, not only in the Valley, but in other areas, too."

Cotton Incorporated is the organization that conducts cotton research and promotion through programs financed by cotton producers. The Cotton Board is the administrative body that handles the finances for and approves cotton research programs.

"I'd be out of business if it weren't for short season cotton," That's the word from Ralph Hutchins of Raymondville, Texas, who has been very satisfied with his short season results. "Using short season cotton is the difference between profit and break even to me," he said. "That is about what it amounts to."

"One thing I like about the short season varieties," Mr. Hutchins added, "is that I save three to four insecticide sprayings. And my cotton gets to the gin earlier. It has definitely saved me money and increased my profits. It's fast, it's quick, and you operate rapidly with it."

And how successful have Mr. Hutchins' yields been? "Last year I got a bale and 8/10. Straight across," was Mr. Hutchins' reply.

Curtis Roberts, a cotton grower from Raymondville, Texas, was able to reduce his costs to 36.4 cents per pound on salt affected land. Nearly three acres of the Roberts operation were lost due to the high level of salt in the soil. But, by using short season cotton varieties, he was still able to dramatically reduce his expenses.

"On this type land and under these conditions in Texas, I think short season varieties are very good," said Mr. Roberts. "It looks good on this block, because this block is very salty. Hopefully, we will get enough load on it, set it, strip it, and be through with it early. This is the third year that I've gone with the early season varieties."

Saving money on insecticide is one of the major reasons many growers are becoming interested in short season varieties. James Dyer of Weslaco, Texas, is one such grower. "One of the biggest advantages in using short season cotton is that I don't have as much worry with insects. Also, the sooner I can make this crop and be done with it, the more money I'll be taking to the bank."

"The insecticide that we're using today runs approximately $10 an acre," Mr. Dyer added. "If I can save one spraying, I save $10, and right on down the line."

"This type of short season program never would have come about without the help of Cotton Incorporated," Mr. Dyer said. "I think a cotton producer is cutting off his nose to spite his face if he doesn't support Cotton Incorporated."

The cotton-growing demonstration with short season varieties were conducted under the direction of Willacy County Extension Agent, Kent Powell. The programs in Willacy County were developed to gather new information on yields, growth spacing for plant populations, and to look for new and better ways to produce cotton more efficiently.

All donated blood is thoroughly tested. It is typed and checked for diseases which could be transmitted. If any tests indicate the need for medical attention, the donor is notified. This way both the donor and recipient are protected.

Current technology makes it possible to divide blood into its components: red blood cells, platelets, plasma and antithrombotic factor. This means as many as four patients can benefit from one unit of blood.

The human body contains an average of 12 pints of blood, and new blood is constantly being made. When you donate, one pint of blood is drawn. Your body quickly replaces this-making it safe to donate every eight weeks.

Lloyd Bentsen Column

"NOW THIS IS not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. But it is, perhaps, the end of the beginning."

The words are those of Sir Winston Churchill, speaking on November 10, 1942, two days after successful American landings in North Africa marked a turning point in World War II.

We won a victory in the Senate recently. It was the first "sunbelt" victory against aggressive efforts by cities in the North and Midwest to re-write federal funding formulas to their advantage.

To paraphrase Sir Winston, I do not expect this victory to mark an end to the regional conflict that has been creating divisiveness in this country for the past two years. Nor, I'm afraid, is it the beginning of the end.

But I am hopeful that it at least signals the end of the beginning of the regional warfare that has increasingly pitted one area of this great nation against another.

The victory came with Senate passage of a hotly contested amendment to the 1978 Housing Authorization Act.

I was co-author of the amendment and acted as a floor manager while it was debated before the Senate.

Approved by a vote of 47-38, it will substantially increase the number of Texas cities eligible to compete for Urban Development Action Grants.

Cities qualify for aid through the UDAG program under a formula involving so-called Urban Distress Factors: age of housing, unemployment, per capita income and declining population.

THE AMENDMENT PERMITS an area within a city to receive UDAG assistance if the area itself qualifies. Previously the formula was applied only on a city-wide basis.

This concept of "pockets of poverty" within a growing and otherwise prosperous city is one I came up with several years ago in an amendment to the Emergency Public Works bill. It is a sound concept and I was pleased that the Senate agreed to incorporate it into the Urban Development Action Grant Program.

Texas cities not now eligible for UDAG aid that would qualify under the Senate-approved amendment include: Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Dallas, Garland, Grand Prairie, Houston, Longview, Lubbock, Midland, Texas City and Tyler. This victory against an aggressive regionalism that has threatened to balkanize our country is long overdue.

Since Congressmen from 16 "snowbelt" states formed a regional coalition a few years ago they have successfully changed funding formulas in program after federal program, giving their areas a bigger share of the government pie at the expense of the South and West.

Listen to these examples. Under the Public Works Employment Act of 1977, Texas receives only $279 per unemployed worker while such states as New Jersey get $647 and Massachusetts $538.

In 1976, under the Community Development Act -- which is intended to upgrade neighborhoods and improve public services in large and small cities alike -- Texas received an amount equivalent to $344 for each family in poverty. The figure in New York was $652, in Pennsylvania $831 and in Michigan $681.

Last year the Community Development Act formula for distributing funds was changed to favor even more the decaying, older cities of the Northeast and Midwest.

Beyond question the South and West today enjoy some significant economic advantages over the Northeast and Midwest.

But claims that these older area are being short-changed on federal funds are inaccurate. In addition, under our free enterprise system it is a mistake to blame the economic woes of our country's Northern regions on federal spending priorities. The problems won't be solved by shifting more federal money into these areas.

A far more burning concern, in my estimation, is the growing regional conflict that is resulting from the fight being waged by these "snowbelt" Congressmen. The tragic periods in our nation's history have occurred when unity was absent, when we worked at cross purposes or turned on one another.

Now, perhaps, we can say that we have at least seen "the end of the beginning" of this harsh regional conflict.

Veterans Administration chief Max Cleland today announced a VA drive to encourage Vietnam era veterans to use their GI Bill education benefits while they are still available.

The campaign, called "Operation Boost" will focus especially on 11 states where fewer than 50 percent of the eligible veterans have taken some GI Bill training.

"Although Vietnam era veterans have already participated in the program to a much greater extent than did Veterans of World War II and Korea," Cleland said.

NEWS 'N' NOTES

(by Sharon Hillis)

During the next four weeks, Jeanette Hodges, Home Energy Conservation Extension Agent, will be sharing some "Cost Cutters" with you. Next week this column will be entitled "Cost Cutters" by Jeanette Hodges!

Jeanette is offered in Lubbock and her territory includes working with County Extension Agents in counties surrounding Lubbock as well as Lubbock County. She will be joining us at the Floyd County Fair on September 15, and will present a demonstration at Consumer Information Day entitled "The Four C's of Decorating." You will want to plan to join us for this and other demonstrations that day -- September 15!

Today, Jeanette, is sharing some drapery tips! Welcome to Floyd County newspapers, Jeanette. We are delighted to have you join us for a few weeks!

Hello Floyd County! I'm delighted to have the opportunity to share this spot with your own County Extension Agent, Sharon Hillis. And I'm especially looking forward to meeting many of you at the Floyd County Fair.

Right now I'd like to share a few ideas to ponder about "draperies".

The insulative value of draperies can be increased simply with the use of a lining.

If your draperies are lined with a separate white lining their insulating value may be up by 30 percent over those with no lining at all. White lining reflects the

"there are still a great many veterans who could significantly improve their lives by using the GI Bill for VA job training or formal education."

"Time is important, for veterans must use this benefit within 10 years from the date they are discharged from military service."

The 11 states in which participation has been less than 50 percent of the eligibles are Vermont, New Jersey, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Ohio, Maryland, New Hampshire, Iowa, and Illinois.

"Of course, the decision to pursue education and training has to be made by each veteran," the Administrator explained. "I just want to be sure no veteran fails to take advantage of the GI Bill opportunity because he doesn't know about the program and the importance of the benefits it offers."

"We will be depending heavily on the assistance of educators, editors, broadcasters, veterans organizations and many other groups in local communities to get across the message that education is more important today than ever."

At the present time, VA pays a monthly allowance of $311 to a single veteran going to school full-time; $370 to a veteran with one dependent; $422 to a veteran with two dependents, and an extra $26 for each additional dependent.

In addition, veterans may be eligible for free counseling and tutorial assistance, extra pay for engaging in VA's work-study program, and low interest VA educational loans.

Veterans with less than a high school education are also paid VA allowances for completion of that training and still retain their basic eligibility for pursuing higher education.

Cleland noted that nearly 17 million veterans have trained under the World War II, the Korean and the current GI Bills.

radiant heat, and the air held between the drapery and the added lining affords more insulation than the single drapery.

Some linings are more effective insulators than others. Plain-weave, thermal-coated linings increase effectiveness. Acetate fibers increase insulative value over polyester lining. Acrylic foam-backed draperies afford better insulation than woven acetate backed; however, they weigh about one ounce per square yard more. Linings also give protection in preserving the original drapery color and preventing color fading from the sun.

In addition, deterioration of the drapery fabric is lessened with the addition of a separate lining.

To be most effective, a cornice with a top is needed to reduce air movement. Remember, however, blinds and draperies are not a substitute for adequate caulking and weatherstripping around windows.

You can reduce heat gain as much as 50 percent with draperies and blinds alone. Also, draperies installed with a tight closure at the center opening and around the periphery of the window can lessen heat loss through windows as much as 21 percent.

See you right here next week!

AGRICULTURAL BRIEFS PREPARE FOR WINTER PASTURES--Late August and early September are the best times for early planting of winter pastures, notes a forage specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The cereal grains, including oats, wheat, rye and barley, can be planted early while shallow overseedings of Gulf ryegrass and clovers should be postponed until late September. Nitrogen is the key element for winter pastures and should be applied at a rate of 50 to 100 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre at planting and again in late February.
