Menus for the Family

MENUS FOR THE FAMILY

(By SISTER MARY)

Breakfast—Orange juice, cereal, thin cream, shirred eggs, crisp toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Spring soup, croutins, chocolate bread pudding with whipped cream, milk, tea.
Dinner—Casserole of smoked halibut, buttered string beans, jellied tomato salad, rye bread, cottage pudding with maple sauce, milk, coffee.

This "spring soup" is recommended as a dish to serve once a week during spring fever days. It seems to take the place of the herbs that our great-grandmothers used to feed their families. Acting as a tonic and blood purifier it's said to be a sure cure for spring fever.

The soup also uses up the veal bones and scraps remaining from the roast.

Spring Soup
One cup minced dandelion leaves, 1 cup minced chervil, 1 cup minced purslane, 1/2 cup shredded cabbage, 1/4 cup minced sorrel, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 cups veal stock, 1 cup cream, 1 egg.
Wash greens carefully through many waters before mincing. Put into the kettle with the cabbage, distributing the butter through the greens. Season with sugar, salt and pepper and steam until tender. Sift flour over mixture and stir until thoroughly blended. Add stock and simmer 15 minutes, stirring to prevent lumping. Rub through a colander. Return to the fire and add cream and egg beaten together. Heat, stirring constantly but do not let boil. Serve at once.

The Streets Are Paved With Gold

The town of Nilands, in the Imperial Valley of California, has golden streets—and this isn't a California booster yarn, either. Heavy rains washed gold-bearing silt down on the streets, and this picture shows Alexander McLaughlin, old-time prospector, panning some of the dust in the main street.

Little Theatre Reaches Topmost Heights with 'The Charm School'; McWhorter and Cast Applauded

Showing a decided improvement over its past performances, the Lubbock Little Theatre association, in its presentation of the three-act comedy, "The Charm School," last night received the plaudits of a packed house—and the universal commendation was richly earned.

Fifteen persons made up a cast directed by Miss Ruth Pirie, dramatic department supervisor at Texas Tech, to whom goes the lion's share of the credit, and from the opening curtain to the play's close, both from a standpoint of preparation and technique, the production was as near perfect as any amateur effort can be made.

McWhorter's Work Outstanding
Rose A. McWhorter carried the leading role to perfection, without once stumbling or showing uneasiness throughout his pyramidal lines. His work stands as a testimonial to Little Theatre endeavor and was an example of the underlying reasons for the popularity of the movement in this city. His acting in "The Thirteenth Chair" a former Little Theatre offering as good as it was, at that time, was completely overshadowed in a much longer and more difficult role.

Little needs to be said of the playing of Miss Eula Howard, who since the first performance of the Little Theatre last fall, has shown most brilliantly. To say that Miss Howard's portrayal was the equal of any of her past endeavors is enough in itself to prove that "The Charm School" was a decided success.

B. C. Dickinson Shows Ability
Byron Dickinson, a man who has added greatly to the success of the organization, was perfectly cast and entirely at home at the footlights. Also an outstanding member of the cast of "The Thirteenth Chair," Mr. Dickinson seemed, almost without effort, to climb to greater heights in last night's performance.
Prominent in the supporting cast was the work of Mrs. H. W. Sims, J. B. Mosley, Miss Ella Norene O'Neall and C. W. Ratliff. Their characters, embodied as they were in the very center of the plot, were almost perfectly presented and this group, with its unflattering support, made the play the smooth and pleasingly received success that it was.

POLICE FORCE OF CITY REDUCED TWO MEN

The long heralded reduction in the police force of the city of Lubbock was announced here late Thursday following a meeting of the city commission when Chief of Police T. E. May was authorized to cut his force by two men and following closely on the heels of this, the Chief said Friday morning that one or two of the remaining officers will be shifted about to other positions.

The motorcycle patrol has been cut to one man, effective May 15, one man in the night police force has been let out, Wade Harbo, former sanitation inspector at the police department has been shifted to the night street patrol job, and John Lemond, day patrolman, takes the place as inspector that was held by Mr. Hardy. There is a probability that one man may be taken from the crew now concentrating their efforts on enforcement of ordinance 199 relating to driving and parking in the business district. Chief May said, but definite action along this line has not yet been taken.

The reduction in force was authorized by the Commission as one of the steps in the economy program that according to Mayor Pink L. Parrish, will be adhered to as far as possible without bringing false economy into the negotiations.

Clarendon Bulldogs Come Back To Take Last Game From Matadors In Freakish Affair Thursday Afternoon

The Clarendon College Bulldogs, standing under the sting of the terrible drubbing administered to them Wednesday afternoon by the Tech Matadors, found themselves Thursday afternoon and sent the Matadors down to a 10-0 defeat on Tech field in a hectic affair in which they were out-hit more than double.

Tech gathered a total of thirteen mistakes of the delivery of Powell, diminutive moundman who apparently had nothing but a glove and a prayer, while the best the Bulldogs could do was to scratch six hits off three Matadors pitchers who were sent in rapid succession toward the latter stages of the game in an effort to stem the tide of errors that lost the game for Tech.

Hamilton in the short field committed three of the misplays, and with but one exception these meant scores at the time, or the visitors later.

Waller, Tech hurler, appearing under fire for the first time this season, acquitted himself nobly, holding the visitors hitless until the sixth inning when a double, a hit batsman, a single and a sacrifice fly scored two runs to give the Bulldogs a one run lead. This count was knotted, however, by the Matadors in their half when Hayes tripled to score Waller who had walked.

The seventh proved a nightmare to the Matadors when Hardwick and Williams in the outfield dropped two successive flys allowing the first two hitters to reach first and third, and opening a rally that scored four runs to give the Bulldogs a lead that could not be met. The Matadors scored one in their third half of this frame, but did not score beyond this.

In the eighth the visitors scored a run when Craver, sent to the mound for Tech after two men were out, heaved wild to the batsman scoring Corbin, who had gotten on an error from third, and Emmons, who walked, scored when Weathered doubled.

Opening the ninth inning Vernon Abbott took charge of the mound for Tech, struck out two men in succession, then laid one in the slot for Stegans who drove it to deep center for a home run. Abbott then struck out Pipkin for the third out.

Spicing up the two ball clubs from a standpoint of all-round performance there could be little doubt but that Tech, under normal conditions, is far superior to the Bulldog crew. This, however, might be modified to except one position with the Matadors, where there is a hole almost as big as the position itself. The Matadors showed a better hitting eye, and better form in field performance, but, apparently, were fighting "lady luck" in the past contest.

Bradshaw Man Is Named Head Of Tri County Ball Loop

In last Saturday's games, Ovalo won over Tuscumbia by a score of 9 to 5; Eula beat Denton 12 to 11; Opika beat Buffalo 8 to 6, and Goldsboro took the game from Bradshaw by a score of 11 to 6. In the first game between Denton and Eula, played April 22, a tie of 3 to 3 was the outcome, which will be played off in the near future.

Wells and Joe Dick Slaughter will carry Lubbock's colors in the match, these two having been declared local champions as a result of the recent tournament when they won out in the finals against an original field of 16 or 18 men. They were pitted against such men as "Dude" Germany, J. O. Smith, and Lee Durgan, who are all recognized as among the best local players.

The match Sunday afternoon is scheduled to get under way about 1 o'clock, and the exhibition will be free and open to the public.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 29. (AP)—Joe Stecher, heavyweight wrestler, won a three-fall match from John Pesek, here last night when Pesek fell from the mat during the final fall and was injured. Pesek's head struck the floor and he was carried from the arena. Prior to mishap Pesek took the first fall in three hours and 15 seconds with a double wrist lock and head scissor and Stecher the second with a body scissors in 53 minutes, 56 seconds.

Both men showed fatigue in the final chapter after forty minutes of wrestling were struggling near the ropes when Stecher lifted Pesek and attempted to pin him. Pesek's struggles apparently caused him to fall through the ropes.

Stecher was arrested on a charge of affray but was released after thirty

AMARILLO TO MEET HUBBERS HERE SUNDAY

The Amarillo Metropolitans, crack baseball crew of the North Plains, will be here Sunday afternoon for an engagement with the Lubbock Hubbers. It was announced here Friday, the game to be played at 3:30 at the Merrill Park, remodelled home of the local club.

The Metropolitans, in charge of "Lefty" Middleton, are claimed as one of the best baseball combinations ever produced in the "Gasper" city, and one of the best games that will be seen here in amateur circles this season is anticipated.

Ike Curtis, catcher; Guy Hayden, first baseman; and "Windy" Nicholas, third baseman, all Amarillo boys who are now playing with the Tech College Matadors, probably will be in the Amarillo line-up, the announcement Friday said.

Skipper Allen, who is out of the city at the present officiating in a three game series between Hotan and Waxahachie at Hotan, will probably return here Saturday night, and will have his crew in readiness. In the meantime, Gib Jackson, Jr., has assumed charge of arrangements, and will complete details in connection with the contest.

Pirates SLUMP
The poor start of the Pittsburgh club is one of the early surprises of the major league races.

The Pirates are a great team. That was proved in 1925 National League race and the world series. Failure to win this spring is laid to lack condition.

"My club has not yet hit its stride due to lack of condition. Minor accidents as well as illness have also played havoc with the work of a number of players," says Manager Bill McKechnie.

"I am not discouraged over the poor start of my team. I know the real ability of the club and just watch our smoke when the players hit their stride."

Many of the early defeats suffered by the Pirates have been close-score games. Such games are the truest test of defense and offense. When a club is losing games by one run it is always possible to trace the defeat to some mental or physical slip.

Two Favorites
It seems Managers McKechnie and McGraw are pretty well agreed that the National League race is going to be a two-club affair, with the St. Louis Cardinals an outside choice.

"Pittsburgh is the club the Giants must beat to win the pennant," said John McGraw, "and while we are doing it we must keep our eyes on the St. Louis Cardinals."

"Barring complete reversals of form, the National League race looks like a two-club affair to me," says Bill McKechnie of the Pirates. "New York is the only club that I really fear. The Cardinals will be troublesome, but I doubt if they have the all-round strength to go the route."

Rogers Hornsby, on the other hand, is positive he is a strong pennant contender and he thinks the Giants are more to be feared than the Pirates.

Southpaws Deliver
Looks as if this would be a good year for Southpaws in the majors.

Left-handed pitchers are inclined to resort to the curve-ball as their best weapon.

Unquestionably the new ball in use is better to curve from the manner in which southpaw pitchers have been winning since the opening of the season.

Some of the pitchers insist the ball is properly balanced and for that reason takes the curve better.

Regardless of the reason, curve ball pitching is getting a strong play in both leagues, with the southpaws feating the hook.

The Chicago White Sox so far have been an easy victim to the wiles of left handers. This is rather surprising since the club has a dangerous array of right handers and several left handers. Manager Collins, who are quite successful against portenders.

Drown-Eyed Golfers
A news item says golfers with brown eyes have a better chance to become proficient at the sport than those with eyes of any other hue.

The fact that two of the greatest women golfers Joyce Wethered and Cecil Litch have brown eyes, stressed as proof of the condition.

Incidentally Walter Hagen, Abe Mitchell and Bobby Jones are brown-eyed. They are also pretty fair players. Strong eyes are very necessary in golf. However, the oculists insist brown eyes are no stronger than blue or gray and it just so happens that five of the games greatest players are brown-eyed.

"Have a Camel"

No other cigarette ever made...and kept...so many friends as Camels

CAMELS began to make warm friendships their very first day on the market. And they've been busy making friends ever since!

Only a cigarette of choicest quality could make a record like Camels. Quality made Camels the world's largest selling cigarette. And quality has kept them far in the lead. Their friends have increased by millions.

Finest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos — cured and mellowed by men long experienced in the art. But it's Camels' exclusive blend that brings out the real fragrant goodness of fine tobaccos. And no tiring of your appetite however liberally you smoke. And never any cigaretty after-taste!

Just every good feature of a good cigarette. "Have a Camel!" is the most welcome smoke invitation ever spoken.

The New and Better----

TEXACO GASOLINE

What it Does

- (1) IT GIVES YOU A QUICKER START
On account of the low initial boiling point, and high percentage of the volatile fractions which vaporize quickly in a cold engine.
 - (2) IT GIVES YOU A QUICKER PICKUP
Because of its higher volatility and low end point, it forms a dry gas in the manifold which feeds evenly to the cylinders and avoids flooding.
 - (3) IT GIVES YOU MORE MILES PER GALLON
Because it works best on a leaner mixture—more air, less gas. This insures fuel economy that shows itself in more miles per gallon.
 - (4) IT GIVES YOU RELIEF FROM CARBON OR SPARK KNOCK
Because it has anti-knock qualities and smooth combustion characteristics tempered to engine needs.
 - (5) IT GIVES YOU BETTER LUBRICATION
Gasolines with heavy ends do not vaporize and burn completely. They dilute the crankcase oil because the liquid gasoline cuts the oil film and seeps past the piston rings.
- The new Texaco Gasoline leaves no heavy ends. It forms a dry gas. It burns completely. It does not flood the cylinders. All this means less crankcase dilution, hence better lubrication.

12 BILLION TO TRAVEL
Five years ago America spent 12 billion dollars on travel. This year the cost of gadding by family motor car, community bus or limited train will run to 20 billions. Back in 1900 we thought travel had reached a pretty high peak when the country took a billion dollars worth of jaunts.

The motor car and bus have been the great agent in increasing travel. The investment in automobiles and buses exceeds that of the railroads now. The annual transportation bill on highways is twice that of the railroads now.

The railroads are realizing that they must not fight the bus but use it. Accordingly most roads are co-ordinating bus service and trucks.

PRETTY SOFT
Suppose you were in a tight financially—owed a lot of money; and you went right on spending your money for guns and ammunition and boats and such like.

And suppose you went crying into the market place that you would all right economically, and wouldn't somebody loan you 100 million dollars for a few months?
And suppose your creditors were good scouts, and the billion and a half dollars you owe them could be fixed so's you have to pay only about 27 cents on the dollar—and have sixty-two years to pay it in, at that.

You'd feel like jumping up and cracking your heels together, wouldn't you?
Then it is easy to understand why Mussolini and the Italian people were happy when the United States senate voted to grant Italy terms of settlement just as outlined about.

Texas' two senators voted against it, let us remember. Most of the progressive republicans and progressive democrats voted against it. The vote was 54 to 23 in favor of Italy.

Pretty nice to have an Easy Mark like Uncle Sam holding the purse-strings of the world, what?
The American people will have to dig down in their pockets and make up for every cent that Italy fails to return on the billion and a half war loan she got from this country.

RALPH MACKENZIE
Ralph Mackenzie, an old timer in the theatrical world, broke his neck at Chicago the other night while putting on his act. The audience laughed, thinking it all a part of the play. The audience didn't know of the accident, of course, at the time it happened. Had it known, its mirth would have turned to an outpouring of sympathy.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.
WASHINGTON — Let a member of the House of Representatives have something really important to say, in speech on the floor, and the time for him to say it is doled out to him by the management as graciously as if there weren't enough of it to around.
Indeed, that's just the case, the leaders say. If statesmen were allowed to run oratorically wild, no time would be left to pass laws in.

Fifteen minutes is a liberal allowance for a speech. Upon its expiration—bang! goes the gavel and, "The gentleman's time has expired," announces Speaker Longworth, biting him right off in the middle of a word.
"Can't I get a little more time?" he begs, and if it's good stuff he's getting off and he's a popular member, maybe he gets an additional five minutes or two or one, by unanimous consent.

Inasmuch as the Representatives' rules are so inelastic even when highly important questions are up for consideration, one might naturally infer that short work would be made of a congressman who undertook to talk pure piffle for the mere fun of hearing himself do it.
Strange to say, the reverse is the case. If a lawmaker has some gentleman has some genuine remarks to make, the House generally is very strict with him. If it's just hot air, his fellow legislators incline to let him prattle indefinitely.

For instance, Representative Tillman of Arkansas got the floor one day recently and talked four solid pages into the Congressional Record. Nobody once interrupted him. He ran on until he ran down. If it all had been apropos of something or other, he'd have been squelched in short order, but it wasn't, so nobody minded.

"Come to me differently," said his companion. "The dog overheard the conversation, curled up in the corner and died of shame."
"Died of shame?"
"That's it. He realized that anything a Scotsman would give away must be utterly worthless."

The latest story circulating in the lobby of the house of commons concerns a certain ex-minister, who, it is said, confessed to another M. P. that he was not feeling well, and had a "heavy headache."

THESE WOMEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
AUDREY MORTON loves her guardian, HARRY MORTON, and is determined to overcome his refusal to marry her, Morton himself, middle-aged, attractive, wealthy and unmarried, has always been a mystery in Peoria where he has lived for 15 years. His business and his past both are unknown. He maintains an expensive apartment in Chicago, where he spends much of his time.
Nona, a Chicago stage girl, also loves Morton. Satisfied that he cares for Audrey, only as a child, she becomes fond of the other girl, Audrey, desiring to learn how stage women manage to interest Morton. She hires a male dancing partner. One night she asks Morton for $1000, showing signs of distress, but refusing to tell what the money is for.
He provides the money, and follows her to a theatrical agency. Audrey is in an inner room of the agency. Morton, with the proprietor, an old friend, waits in the outer office. As a young man appears, Morton springs to block his exit.
At the end of the last chapter, Morton waited while the girls changed their clothes again, behind the curtain, and accompanied them as they passed through Abe's office. Mr. Sunshine held Morton a moment.
"Miss Morton won't stay on the stage," he said. "She's the marrying kind."
"Stage words from an expert," laughed Morton.
Audrey bowed her head in confusion and hurried on, but Nona paused.
"Are all the marrying kind," she said, "but we don't always get the right chance."
Morton's car was awaiting outside, the chauffeur tapping at the wheel. The authentic breath of spring was in the air now, and small boys, shooting dice on the pavement, were using the run-down board of the car as a convenient bench to sit upon.
Morton peked at the boys good-naturedly with his cane.
"If it wouldn't attract so much attention I'd like to shoot traps with them," he confided to the two girls.
They entered the car, and Morton told the driver to go to the office.
"Will get Parrish," he said, "and we'll all take dinner together."
Audrey objected. "Why do we have to have him tagging along?"
Nona watched the younger girl's face, her eyes half closed. "What's wrong with him?" she asked.
Morton answered the question. "Nothing really, except that he has undertaken to give orders to Audrey. That is always a mistake in dealing with young women."
There was a change in his voice that attracted the attention of both girls. His tone dropped, as if in dejection. He bowed his head, and stared moodily at the floor.
"What is it, daddy?" asked Audrey, squinting his arm anxiously.
He shook his head. "Oh, just a thought, Audrey—" he turned and looked at her intently—"in all your life, have I actually forbidden you to do anything?"
"Why no, I think not. Why?"
His eyes dropped again, and there was a long delay before he answered.
"Once," he said, "there was a young man who tried to give orders to the girl he loved. And he broke his heart."
Parrish eagerly accepted the invitation to dinner, and while Morton waited, he arranged his desk in a hurry, and prepared to depart.
"May new dress suit and knickerbocker are done sir," he said, taking his hat from the office closet.
"Shall I go and put them on?"
"Both of them?" Morton inquired, facetiously.
"Ye sir, I mean just the evening clothes," Parrish said, without smiling.
"Miss Morton has not seen me in them yet, at all."
"Has she been deprived of a great pleasure?" the older man responded, gravely. "We'll drive you to your home, and leave you there while you primp, and make yourself beautiful. Then I'll go on to my apartment, and do likewise. You can join us there."
Parrish stared as he saw Nona carefully climbing to the far corner of the tonneau. Morton saw a curious little flash in the girl's eyes, as Parrish settled himself.
He sat on one of the small folding seats, and with great care turned his back to Nona. Morton sat in the middle, between the two girls.

Nona, poised an instant on tiptoe, swept into an intricate movement with graceful ease.
here, I suppose she'll drop in."
"I think I know," said Morton. "You remember the young gentleman we had on the grill here this morning?"
Abe and Audrey nodded. Nona looked at them in inquiry. Briefly Morton told her what had occurred. "Well, you know the girl who dances with him is very much attached to him. The chances are that he has told her that he abused him, and she blames the whole thing on Audrey."
He laughed as he turned to the girl. "You WOULD go on the stage, would you?"
Nona breathed a long sigh. "Well the poor fish!" She was indignant. "Ran right to the girl, to tell his troubles! And now she's jealous because Audrey was his dancing partner, for three days."
Mr. Sunshine bobbed his head with vigor. "You get a girl like that started," he said, "about a fellow she's struck on, and you can't tell what she'll do."
Audrey sat down, quickly, as if her knees had weakened under her. "What will I do?" she asked.
Audrey sat down, quickly, as if her knees had weakened under her. "What will I do?" she asked.
Audrey sat down, quickly, as if her knees had weakened under her. "What will I do?" she asked.

Beginning Saturday, May 1st, we will have all our used cars on our Sales room floor for the inspection of the public.

Our used cars are priced to sell and you are protected on your purchase with the nationally known Studebaker pledge to the public on used car sales.

Here is a list of some of the certified used cars we are offering this week:

Studebaker Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sale

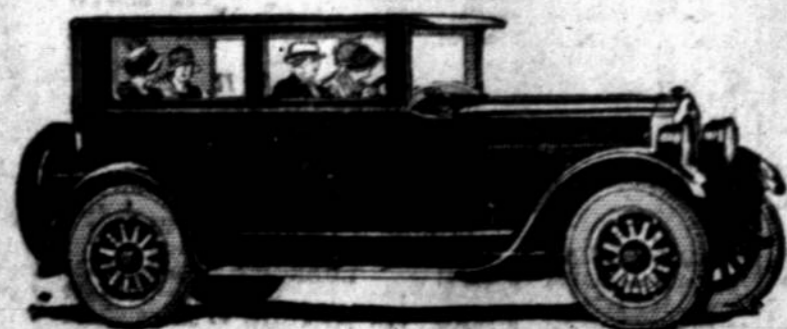

- 1—All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented. If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months' rough usage on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.
- 2—All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments. This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in years.
- 3—Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained. The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For to sell cars on this basis, every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.
- 4—Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used. It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision of other accident in the meantime. Don't be without a good car when you can buy values like these—your investment safeguarded by the Studebaker Pledge. Buy out of income at the lowest time-payment rates known to the industry.

FOUR BLIMPS IN NATIONAL EVENT SIGHTED FRIDAY

Like grey ghosts they wended their way slantingly across the stage, moving at a low altitude and rapidly, plainly visible to residents along their paths in the cloudless, moonlight night.

From the balloon race will emerge victors, the three who are to fly 40,000 cubic feet balloons filled with coal gas in the Antwerp meet and the 1926 holder of the famous Litchfield cup.

One Blimp At Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 30. (AP)—At 7:30 this morning a balloon in the national elimination contest passed over Blackwood flying field going in a southeasterly direction. It was at an altitude of 2,000 feet and identification marks were not distinguishable.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., April 30. (AP)

Two balloons passed over this city about 5 o'clock this morning. They were traveling northeast at an easy pace. It was impossible to determine the names of the gas bags.

Mexican Priest Put In Jail After Riot

MEXICO CITY, April 30. (AP)—Special dispatches from Zitacuaro say that the Catholic priest, Louis Cedra, has been arrested and his church closed. He is alleged to have refused to obey military orders to shut up the church and to have rung the bell during a recent riot. Two persons wounded in the rioting died later. Several others who were injured are in a serious condition. Dispatches from Colima say that 46 Catholics were arrested there yesterday when they attempted to hold a demonstration against the enforcement of the religious laws.

U. S. AND FRENCH STATESMEN SAID PLANNING FIGHT

and Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, a member of the American debt commission, plans to seek its ratification before adjournment. The largest remaining unfunded debt, except the $193,000,000 Russian obligation is that of Jugoslavia, amounting to $51,000,000 and an early funding settlement of this is expected to result from negotiations now in progress. Opposition in Congress to the French agreement, which Secretary Mellon described as representing substantially France's capacity to pay, probably will center on the fact that if the interest had been fixed on the same basis as that of the American loans from which the money turned over to France was derived, the total payment called for would be much greater. Computed on a 4 1/2 percent interest basis, the present value of the $6,674,000 compact is $2,088,325,024, slightly less than half the principal. On the same basis, however, the French agreement which the Senate recently ratified represents a current value of only 25 percent of the debt.

"Safeguard Clause" Is Excepted. Members of the French Parliament are expected to take exception to the absence of a "safeguard clause." This has been one of the points on which previous negotiations have broken, the French insisting upon a provision to relieve them of payments if Germany should default in reparations remittances and the Americans refusing to accept a plan making the effectiveness of an agreement dependent upon conditions in a third country.

Franc Drops Lower.

PARIS, April 30. (AP)—The franc, refusing to react favorably to the conclusion of the Franco-American debt settlement, continued its steady decline throughout the day, and closed at 39.45 to the dollar, a new low record.

Financial quarters said this was partly accounted for by the lack of precise information here regarding the terms of the debt settlement and also by the doubt in the minds of some as to where the country was going to obtain the money to pay the debt installments to England and America this year.

Benjamin Franc Also Low.

NEW YORK, April 30. (AP)—Despite the agreement reached at Washington to fund the French debt, French francs today continued to hover around their record low level. Early dealings in the currency were made at 2.25 cents, within a half point of yesterday's extreme low, while a sympathetic reaction carried the Belgian franc down to a new minimum price for the year at 2.36 cents.

They Watched, But Ran Away Too Soon

Like heroes of old they sat through-out the long black hours of the night watching their flag while it waved on high through the coming dawn, then they crawled into waiting cars and with other members of the senior class were off for a day of sport.

But not so with the juniors for throughout the watches of the day while the world was passing by cognizant of the fact that this is senior day, they wished for the junior flag of purple and gold to float over the school. But the frightened seniors had grasped well their pole during the night and no junior had sufficient tenacity to climb to the top. It was genuine inspiration which prompted them to tie a pocket knife to a fishing pole and tear the flag into strips of blue and white to be passed around as souvenirs, and if no one intervenes, the junior flag will triumph in the annual class war and will wave over the school house during this afternoon of Senior Day.

CHICAGO THUGS FAIL ON CROWE

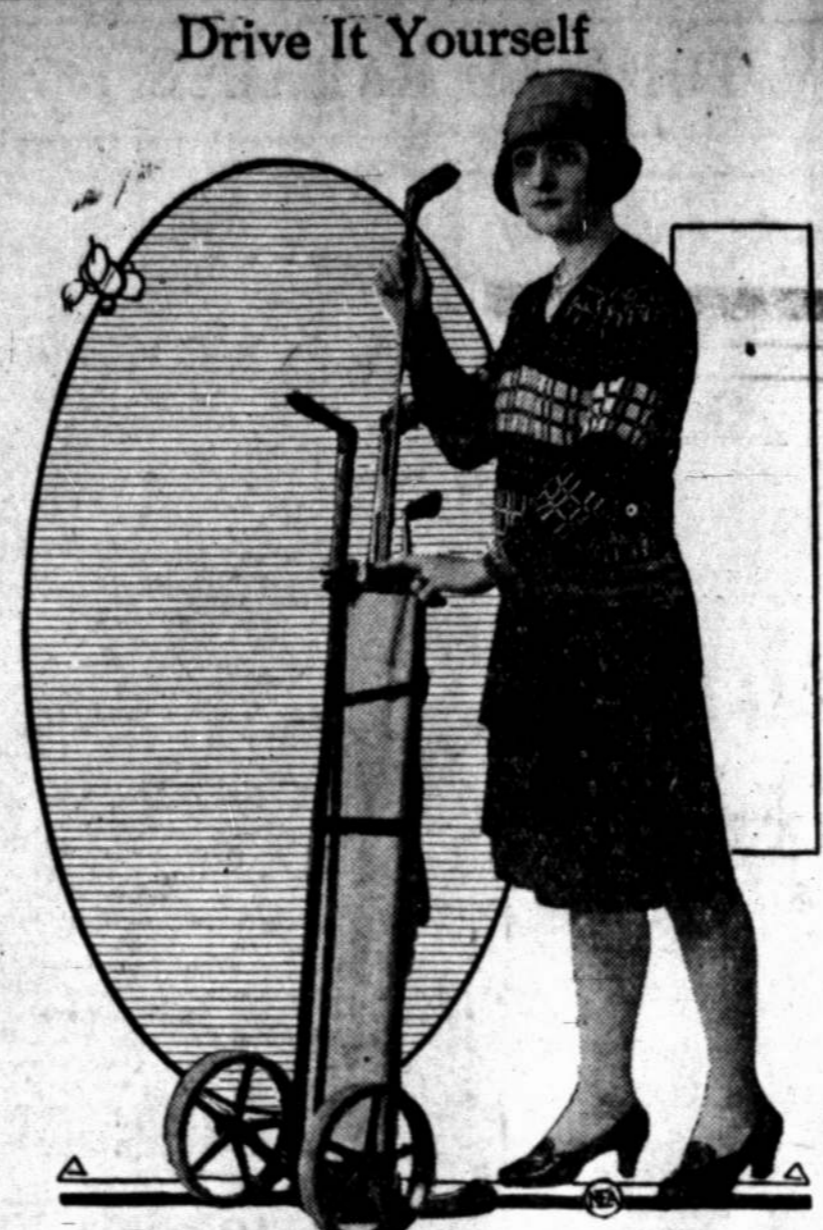

Fearless Prosecutor Out For Blood In Spite of Many Threats Against Him

(By The Associated Press) CHICAGO, April 30.—An order for the impaneling of a special grand jury to investigate the slaying of William H. McSwiggin, young assistant State's Attorney, and all other gang killings and crime conditions in Chicago and surrounding suburbs, was granted yesterday by Judge C. C. Crowe, today by William V. Brothers, acting chief justice of the Criminal Court. Crowe presented a petition revealing that threats had been made against his life to kidnap his children and to bomb his home. "Recent months have recorded in Chicago and Cook county an increasing number of gang murders," the prosecutor said in his petition.

Terror Is Reigning

"The combination of high speed automobiles, sawed-off shotguns and high powered rifles, operated so quickly murder and immediate escape has produced in this community a reign of terror. "More recently these vicious gangsters have brought conditions to such a point that they have repeatedly made threats upon the life of the State's Attorney and, much more terrible to contemplate, they have threatened to kidnap and kill the children of the State's Attorney and bomb his home. "Further, the more active Assistant State's Attorneys have been threatened in the same manner."

MEN'S BIBLE STUDY CLASS First Baptist Church

There were 140 men in the Men's Bible Study Class at the beginning of the lesson last Sunday and about 250 at the close. This means that the class is constantly growing and that people are still interested in Bible Christianity when it is plainly presented. For next Sunday, the lesson will be Revelation 3 and the teacher will discuss the church since the Reformation or Sardinia, Philadelphia, and Laodicea. The first is protestantism, the second the true church of to-day, and the last the apostate church of today. So utterly distasteful has organized christianity become to the Lord that He is ready to spue it out of His mouth. Here He takes His position outside of the organized church and makes the call to the individual to come out from the corruption and disbelief and take his place in separation with Him. His words are: Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in and sup with him and he with me. The lessons are becoming more interesting every Sunday. Next Sunday week the lesson will be the Church in Heaven with the Lord around the Throne of God. The lesson next Sunday is preparatory to this. If you are not attending Sunday-school elsewhere come and join us.—Class Reporter.

There has been more than 1,300 cases filed on the Police Court docket of the city of Lubbock since June 29, 1925, bringing the total number of cases shown on the docket since records have been kept to more than 1,900, Desk Sergeant Wiley L. Metcalf said Thursday morning.

The docket includes every case that has been brought to the attention of city authorities such as speeders, violation of ordinance 199 relating to parking in the business district, and all others such as drunkenness, fighting, gambling, etc.

Approximately 600 cases had been registered on the docket up to the time Sergeant Metcalf took charge of the books.

Churches To Observe National Boys' Week

In observance of National Boy's week, special services will be held at Lubbock churches Sunday morning for the boys of the city, according to members of the pastors association. Boys are being given special invitations to attend the services and sections of the churches will be reserved for them. Other activities are being planned for boys of the city later in the week and President J. A. Hill, of the Canyon Teachers College, is to speak at the First Methodist Church Wednesday evening in a mass meeting for boys and their parents.

LIGHTNING HITS OIL TANK IN CALIFORNIA

ANOTHER LAKE OF CRUDE OIL BLAZES AS MANY BATTLE FLAMES

(By The Associated Press) BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Apr. 30.—Hampered by a storm which washed out embankments and covered highways, hundreds of workmen early today were battling a fire in a 500,000 barrel reservoir of crude oil in the West Kern River Storage Farm of the Standard Oil Company of California, five miles northwest of here. The fire was started last night by lightning which ignited the lake of oil, although a deluge of rain of almost cloudburst proportions inundated the plains and highways surrounding the storage farm.

The burning lake of oil was in the center of a field of underground reservoir, each with a capacity of 500,000 barrels. As many of the containers were not full it was estimated that 500,000 barrels of low gravity oil were in storage on the farm. Other Lakes Are Near Two miles away, on the main storage field of the district, there are forty such lakes of oil, covered with wood and asphalt roofs. The burning was of low gravity and an explosion was not expected but workmen attempted to throw up embankments to prevent the spilling of the flaming liquid when it boils over. The boil-over was expected some time today, unless efforts to lower the oil level by draining it to other unlighted reservoirs nearby are successful.

Because of the continued down pour of rain and the drainage from neighboring hillsides, water stood six feet deep in places on the oil farm. A number of retaining walls, constructed to prevent spread of oil in fires, had been washed out. The flooded condition of the highways made it impossible to move trucks and other equipment to rebuild the dykes.

Humane Society Is Powerless To Help Roosters, Is Ruled

SAN ANTONIO, April 30. (AP)—Barnyard roosters of Southwest Texas will not escape the axe despite the protest of the San Antonio Humane Society.

The agriculture committee of the local Chamber of Commerce today announced its determination to proceed with its campaign to kill 10,000 roosters and replied to the Humane society's statement that the proposed slaughter in the interest of infertile egg production was "the interruption of a process of nature which is likely to lead to disaster."

Tom McCrary, chairman of the committee, said that only a few roosters were needed for reproduction of fowls and that the killing of the surplus would be kinder treatment than the roosters would have received from nature. If chickens had never been domesticated, he argued, the law of the survival of the fittest would have eliminated most of the male birds.

Houston Man Called In I. C. C. Testimony

HOUSTON, Apr. 30. (AP)—W. L. Clayton of Houston, testifying at the cotton rate hearing here today, said the middleman ought to be permitted to work out the most economical way to get cotton to market without railroad rates forcing that method into a particular channel. He was summing up his objections to the one-rate plan of shipping cotton to ports which will go into effect unless the Interstate Commerce Commission is persuaded to change its decision.

Mr. Clayton was being cross questioned by representatives of interior interests and the carriers as to cost of getting cotton to ships. Houston is protesting against allowing free concentration at the interior compresses and wants the interior to pay as well as the port concentrator.
