Iran, Iraq Continue Attacking From Air

BASRA, Iraq (AP) — Iraqi MiGs pounded Tehran's oil storage tanks today and Iranian warplanes bombed Baghdad and other Iraqi cities, the Iraqi command reported. Iran claimed it forced Iraqi troops to retreat in the Abadan area.

Iraq said it cut off Iran's refinery city of Abadan at the southern end of the war front. Iran said it pushed the Iraqis back six miles from the eastern and northern outskirts of the city, forcing the Iraqis to regroup 12 miles from the city. Iran said the people of Abadan had taken to trenches and were prepared for hand-to-hand combat.

The Iraqi command, in a communique broadcast by Baghdad Radio, said the oil reservoirs of the Iranian capital were set ablaze by raiding Iraqi jets that also struck at two army camps near Iran's western city of Kermanshah, 250 miles southwest of Tehran and 70 miles east of the Iraqi border.

Iranian jets also bombed the Kurdish populated town of Suleimanieh, in northern Iraq, and Basra, this southern port, the communique said.

The command claimed 203 Iranian soldiers killed and 20 taken prisoner in the last 12 hours of ground action that completed an Iraqi siege of the burning oil city of Abadan and the neighboring port of Khorramshahr. It said 15 Iraqi soldiers were killed and 21 wounded.

The highway, railway and pipeline links of the two cities on the eastern coast of the embattled Shatt el-Arab waterway with Tehran, the Iranian capital, and the rest of Iran have been severed and the radio station in Abadan has been captured, the Iraqis said.

Action also was reported in the center and in the northern sector of Iraq's 300-mile invasion front as its war to win full control of the Shatt al-Arab estuary, its waterway to the Persian Gulf, went into its 25th day.

Iraq claimed that its army killed 1,000 Iraqi troops in airborne assaults in the Ilam sector, 250 miles northwest of Abadan.

Iraq reported "fierce battles" on the outskirts of Dezful, a military headquarters city and oilfield center 140 miles north of Abadan. Tehran Radio reported Iranian President

Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai and other members of Iran's Supreme National Defense Council visited Dezful Wednesday and "spent three hours inspecting the battle fronts under the barrage of enemy artillery fire."

Rajai was expected in New York today to argue Iran's case before the U.N. Security Council. The council opened debate on the war Wednesday

Tempo Quickens For Homecoming

Two pep rallies and a parade are scheduled to set the tempo for Snyder High School's homecoming, with the parade leading off at 6 p. m. today. However, Friday will be the big day, with the traditional homecoming football game on tap, followed by various after-game activities.

The homecoming queen will be crowned Friday night during half-time ceremonies at the football game, which is a conference game between the Tigers and the Pecos Eagles.

Today's parade will begin on the Varsity Square parking lot at 30th St. and College Ave. The procession, which will include several decorated floats and which will be led by the Snyder High School Black and Gold Band, will proceed north on College Ave. to the downtown square. A pep rally will follow on the west side of the courthouse. Prizes are being offered for the top three floats in the parade. First prize is $50, while the second place float will receive $25 and the third place float will receive $15.

The Tiger Band Parents Club will sponsor a turkey supper in the SHS cafeteria preceding the football game Friday night.

A reception for all ex-students will be held in the SHS Library immediately following the game.

The closing feature on the homecoming program will be the homecoming dance after the game in the SHS Student Center. Tickets to the dance, priced at $1.50 each, will be on sale at the door.

The homecoming activities have been planned by the SHS Student Council headed by Dalinda Roberts, president. The Student Council's homecoming chairman is Paul Fagin.

Ask Us

Q—I overheard two people talking about the school homecoming and one of them said she went to high school where the jail is now. When was the high school located there?

A—Snyder High School was located there until 1952 when the present high school building was opened. The old building where the county jail now sits was then used as a junior high school until the school system put 9th graders back in high school a few years ago and combined all 7th and 8th grades at the present junior high school.

Water Quality Planning Report Is Under Study

The preliminary report on the Sewerage Planning Areas to be studied during the current 208 Water Quality Management Planning Study was recently made available to the Colorado River Municipal Water District, the planning agency for the 208 study in this area of the Colorado River Basin.

The report, which was compiled by Freese & Nichols, Inc., of Fort Worth, the consulting engineering firm doing the study under a contract from CRMWD, contains two types of areas requiring study. Those areas are cities having sewerage collection and treatment facilities and communities not presently served by treatment facilities.

Those cities with treatment facilities that are not currently meeting treatment standards, or are projected to be unable to meet treatment standards with their present facilities by 1990 are: Ballinger, Colorado City, Seminole, Plains, Coahoma and Lorraine. The next phase of 208 planning for these cities will be the development of some recommended methods of improving their sewerage treatment facilities to either correct present problems or head off potential problems.

The communities not presently served by sewerage treatment facilities that will be studied during the 208 planning will be: West Odessa, Hermleigh, Knott, Vincent, Ira, Rowena, Forsan, Notrees, Ackerly, Luther and Loop. These communities were selected because they have the potential for water pollution and contamination through the concentration of septic tank and disposal fields for sewerage treatment.

The 208 plan for these communities will be recommendations that may vary from centralized collection and treatment facilities to a recommendation that no action be taken at all.

In most of the communities utilizing septic tanks, centralized collection and treatment of sewerage is not economically feasible. For those communities, the 208 plan probably will recommend the proper installation of septic systems, and maintenance of existing ones.

The 208 planning is being conducted by CRMWD within Section 208 of the Federal Clean Water Act and the State Basin under contract with the Texas Department of Water Resources in accordance with Section 208 of the Federal Clean Water Act and the State of Texas Continuing Planning Process.

Snyder High School expects to welcome a lot of former students back for homecoming this weekend. Homecoming celebrations are a part of the fall season just as surely as football and the World Series are. There usually is a certain amount of anticipation on the part of present students as they wonder if those of yesteryear will be impressed by the current crop of students enrolled in the old Alma Mater.

But that is nothing compared to the anticipation among many of the graduates and exes. They undoubtedly are wondering how the present-day students will regard them and, possibly of even more importance, how they will look to former classmates who will be returning for homecoming.

Homecomings seem to mean more to recent graduates and to those of many years ago than they do to those who have been out of school for some 10 to 25 years.

During that first decade after graduation, more of the old classmates can be counted upon to show up for homecoming. Then there is the period when the number of returnees dwindles for various reasons. And, finally, the time comes when 40 or 50 years have elapsed since graduation and the opportunity to renew some school-day acquaintances becomes a major attraction again. The latter group usually has a dwindled in number by this time, of course, which makes it even more of a special event to get together for a reunion.

But those first few homecomings after graduation usually are something special. Everybody wants to be brought up to date on what has happened to classmates who have scattered to other communities, and in most cases all are anxious to make an impression on the present students and their returning classmates.

Our better half recalled the other day when the subject of homecoming came up, that many of the female members of her graduating class at Baylor University made certain that they got fur coats the first year out of college, even if they had to miss a few meals to finance them. And all showed up at their first homecoming wearing this evidence of affluence. Now, summertime does not necessarily depart from Waco in October, and so it was that the temperature soared into the 90s during Baylor's homecoming football game that year. But this class of young women sat and cheered in their new fur coats until the final whistle. They were not about to be deprived of this opportunity to show their former classmates and the current students how they had prospered since leaving the campus.

Security Tightened At Florida Prison

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — Prison officials today locked inmates in their cells at Florida's maximum-security prison indefinitely after a second consecutive day of violence at the facility where one guard died and two were injured this week.

One Death Row guard was stabbed and another scalded with hot water Wednesday, and a fracas involving 300 inmates was quelled with tear gas. No prisoners were reported injured.

Vernon Bradford, a Department of Corrections spokesman, said the Florida State Prison was calm today.

"They got the population inmates out and fed them without incident," he said.

Funds Stop For New Highways

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The state's refusal to comply with federal requirements for minority business enterprise in government contracts has stopped the flow of federal aid for new highway construction in Texas.

Projects under construction now will still be bankrolled, but $100 million in November projects will be "pulled down," and another $56 million in December construction work is in peril.

"What the Federal Highway Administration is saying is 'throw out the low bidder if he says he can't do the job with a percentage of minority business enterprises,'" said Ray Barnhart of Pasadena, a member of the state commission.

"Minority business enterprise is to be applauded, but when the feds says you must subcontract out a percentage of your work to minorities, ethnic and women, it is unconscionable and must be fought," he said.

"They're demanding that we consider minority bid quotas that are borderline unconstitutional and against our low bidding statutes," he said.

Karmal Arrives In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin's man in Kabul, Afghan President Babrak Karmal, arrives in Moscow today for his first visit since Soviet troops installed him 10 months ago.

There was speculation that Karmal may be in trouble with his Kremlin backers because of the continuing stubborn resistance by anti-communist Moslem guerrillas opposed to Karmal's Marxist government.

Some diplomats and Afghan exiles in New Delhi, India, predicted a partial government shakeup was in the offing.

Reward Posted For Sniper

DALLAS (AP) — While Dallas police try to solve a puzzling bus sniping incident that left an 8-year-old girl critically wounded, businessmen have posted a reward.

The Dallas Metro Crime Council, a group of about 500 businessmen, is offering $1,000 for any clues leading to the arrest and indictment of whoever pumped at least one bullet into a Dallas Transit System bus as it was loading passengers in southeast Oak Cliff.

Strike Panel Idea Nixed

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas City Council turned its back on a plea from Councilwoman Elsie Faye Heggins that a special council committee initiate talks between transit system management and workers fired because of a 17-day-old walkout.

Hannah Testifies For 2 Defendants

HOUSTON (AP) — U.S. Attorney John Hannah appeared as a character witness today in behalf of two defendants in the Texas Brilab trial.

Hannah, from the eastern district of Texas, told a federal court jury that Austin attorneys Randall Wood and Donald Ray both had excellent reputations for honesty and integrity.

Hannah said he had known Wood when they both worked at the state capital in Austin. He was not cross-examined by Assistant U.S. Attorney Ron Woods, chief prosecutor in the Brilab trial.

Hannah said he had notified the Justice Department that he had been subpoenaed as a character witness, but had heard nothing from the Washington headquarters. It is unusual for a U.S. attorney to testify in behalf of defendants in federal court.

Hannah is a former legislator, a state district attorney, and is now based in Tyler.

Ray and Wood, on trial with Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton, testified Wednesday that it would have been useless to try to bribe state officials to reopen bidding on an $82 million-a-year state insurance contract.

Carter Declares U.S. Can Keep Strait Open

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, while vowing anew that the United States "will take whatever steps are necessary" to keep the vital Persian Gulf oil lanes open, says the United States could accomplish that mission using naval and air power and without ground troops.

Carter also said Wednesday he sees no progress in the "forseeable future" on winning the release of the 52 American hostages in Iran, despite reports that a breakthrough could occur.

Oil Pricing Fraud Alleged In East Texas

DALLAS (AP) — A special grand jury is looking into allegations of a multi-billion dollar fraudulent oil pricing scheme in the mammoth East Texas oil field, a Dallas newspaper has reported.

The Dallas Morning News, in a copyright article in its Thursday editions, reported that a special grand jury was impaneled in Longview in mid-August to investigate alleged price fixing schemes in which "old oil" was sold at "new oil" prices.

Old oil generally is defined as crude from wells drilled before the 1973 oil embargo. Under federal price restrictions, old oil must be sold at prices far below the level for oil produced much later.

The Railroad Commission estimates the East Texas oil field, once the largest in the world and the field that supplied fuel for United States troops in World War II, produces about 200,000 barrels of crude a day.

The field is located in Gregg, Upshur, Rusk, Smith and Cherokee counties.

The president, during a campaign appearance in Secaucus, N.J., predicted that the Iran-Iraq war will not escalate "to any major degree in the near future."

But even if it should, he said in answer to questions, the United States has enough naval and air power in the Persian Gulf region to protect the oil lanes.

Iran threatened earlier in the week to block the Strait of Hormuz, the 29-mile-wide gateway to the gulf, through which an estimated 40 percent of Western oil is shipped.

The Iranians, however, do not have the equipment to carry out their threat to mine the strait, Pentagon officials said Wednesday.

Pentagon specialists who declined to be identified said the small Iranian navy has no capacity to lay mines in the strait. But even should any mines be set, helicopters from the two U.S. carriers in the Arabian Sea could clear the strait, they said.

Carter said that should the strait be blocked, the resulting interruption in the oil supply would not only cause major economic problems but also would "endanger our own national security."

But he warned, "we have a very large naval task force there with superb fighter planes to take care of our needs to keep that strait open."

Washington (AP) — The State Department denied Wednesday a report on a Chicago television station that military planes were ready to leave for Iran by Friday with spare fighter parts to trade for the American hostages.

Quoting "exclusive sources" here, WLS-TV, the ABC affiliate in Chicago, said a "deal is in the works" for the hostages' release, perhaps as soon as the end of the week.

State Department officials, asking not to be named, denied the report. A White House official, also requesting anonymity, said, "There is nothing to the report."

At the Pentagon, spokesman Thomas Ross also denied the story, saying "The report involving aircraft loaded with spare parts is false."

The present contract expired at midnight Wednesday but the new pact was signed Tuesday night after union membership ratification.

The company said the settlement is substantial and nears the wage agreement reached earlier this year by the major steel companies, but does not include a cost-of-living provision.

Steel Company Averts Strike

LONE STAR, Texas (AP) — Lone Star Steel announced Wednesday it has agreed with United Steelworkers of America on a new three-year labor contract.

The present contract expired at midnight Wednesday but the new pact was signed Tuesday night after union membership ratification.

The company said the settlement is substantial and nears the wage agreement reached earlier this year by the major steel companies, but does not include a cost-of-living provision.

EMMETSBURG, Iowa (NEA)—At the start of the fall campaign, we visited agricultural Palo Alto County in northwest Iowa to find out what its voters had to say about the 1980 presidential contest. We did so because the bellwether county has backed the winner in every presidential election since 1896.

Most of those we spoke with—including the county chairman of the two political parties—agreed that Ronald Reagan held a comfortable lead over Jimmy Carter. The Republican nominee would have carried the county easily had the election taken place on Labor Day.

What do those same voters and party officials say today? Most believe that Reagan's lead has decreased considerably; many think that the race here may be a toss-up by Election Day.

"I still think Gov. Reagan is ahead in the county," says banker Ed Norland, the Republican chairman. "We are still very encouraged and confident that we can carry the county."

But he admits that the race has tightened up. "I think we still have a reasonable lead and that if the election were today we would win by 8 to 10 percent," he says. "But we still have a month to go and obviously quite a lot could happen."

Attorney John Brown, the Democratic chairman, is feeling better about the election. In early September, Brown saw Reagan as clearly ahead; now he thinks that Carter has closed a lot of ground.

"Probably if the election were held today Reagan would win," he concedes. "But any number of voters who a month ago were saying they would vote for Reagan or stay home are now saying they guess they will vote for the president. I think now we can carry the county for Carter, but probably only barely."

What accounts for this change? "Farm prices are up and this is helping the president here," explains Brown. "And I just have a gut feeling that the more people hear Reagan, the more they come to the conclusion that he is just not the man to lead this country."

Conversations with local voters make it clear that the campaign has not yet aroused much excitement. As Jane Whitmore, editor of the local newspaper, puts it: "I haven't seen much evidence that people are starting yet to really focus on the campaign. What they are worried about now is whether the E-Hawks (the high-school football team) can win a seventh conference title."

Asked if she has seen any sort of political shift in the county, she answers, "Some of the people who were saying they were going to vote for (John) Anderson are now moving away from him and are saying they probably are going to vote for Carter."

Farm votes will decide the election in this almost exclusively agricultural country. And Larry Stoecker, who runs the Emmetsburg Grain Elevator, reports that many local farmers have not made up their minds on who to support.

"The farmers who come in here talking politics seem unsure," he explains, "countering his earlier prediction that Reagan would receive the bulk of the farm vote. "They are still upset with the grain embargo, and Reagan says he would end it. But Carter does have the experience in running the country, and they just may decide to go with experience."

"But I think that many of them haven't made up their minds yet. We are right in the middle of our harvest and they won't really think politics for a while."

We found last month that much of Reagan's support in this county came from his being perceived as the lesser of two evils. Local residents supported the Republican not because they thought he would do a good job but because they did not like the job Carter had done.

One of these reluctant Reagan supporters is pharmacist Irv Beiter. "I will still vote for him," says Beiter. "But it will be even more reluctantly. He puts his foot in his mouth every time he makes a statement, but I just can't vote for Carter."

So, this bellwether county is sticking with Reagan though his lead is narrowing. We'll check public opinion here once more just before the election.

Your Birthday

October 17, 1980

One of your greatest sources of strength this coming year will be the support of loyal friends. The confidence you gain will enable you to conquer difficult feats. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's against your innate nature to make waves or to behave too aggressively, yet today your boldness and assertiveness will be your most dominant attributes. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In financial involvements today, things should eventually work out to your advantage, but it will take some real wheeling and dealing to turn the corner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If your hopes are based upon realistic premises, their chances for coming into being are very strong today. Forgo designing castles in the air.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Unless you are prepared to stand up for your rights today, you may not get everything due you. Protect your interests where necessary.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) One of the reasons you have so many friends is that you're prepared to stand up for them through thick and thin. Today is no exception.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You are extremely energetic and productive today in areas where you're permitted to use your imagination and to proceed at your pace. Work alone if possible.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Advice may be offered today that is difficult at first to accept. After contemplation, you'll realize it has true merit.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Goals you have your eye on today may appear difficult to others, but not to you. In fact, you'll sweep them along with you in the process.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may have one or two sticky situations to contend with today, but you'll handle them admirably. It's your unflinching philosophical outlook that gives you the edge.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You have a marvelous ability today to change things around to where they are more beneficial for all involved. Difficult adjustments won't frighten you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) One of the reasons you're a good leader today is that you know how to wisely delegate duties to the right people. Your judgment may amaze even you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You take pride in your work today and you're prepared to finish it to perfection. The size of the reward won't be the motivation. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

the jobs are there

One looks into the classified section of almost any newspaper and is prone to wonder why there are any unemployed people. The truth is, industry is begging for people with certain skills, whether it be typing or an ability to tune an automobile engine.

Sad to say, employers often find it harder to fill a certain job demanding some finesse. The people are out there, it is true, but many are content to go through life without developing techniques that can earn them very comfortable livings. That kind never holds a job anywhere very long. The may work as a fry cook here for two weeks, then quit to take another job as a ribbon clerk.

The demand of the services engineers, computer programmers, nurses and secretaries is now greater than ever before. So says a survey made of employment agencies across the nation.

The supply shortage in these skilled fields has been with us for a number of years and the situation is not likely to improve in the near future.

Considering the salaries that are being paid for people entering those fields, it's little short of amazing that more people are not attracted to them. However, an employer doesn't just walk out on the street and pull in an individual. Each job calls for considerable preparation.

According to the Congressional Quarterly, petroleum engineers were offered an average of $23,844 a year upon leaving college, almost twice as much as social science graduates.

The College Placement Council, a non-profit group based in Bethlehem, Pa., conducted the survey on salaries and reported that computer science majors were next in line on the pay scale, with an average starting salary of $18,696. New graduates in accounting got $15,516 and business majors $14,616 (The survey was completed in July).

The Colleges across the land, it seems, simply cannot produce enough petroleum engineers, accounting or business majors to meet the nation's expanding needs for industry.

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, it is estimated that over the decade ending in 1985, some 49,800 engineering graduates in an average year will have the choice of 56,500 new jobs. About the same ratio applies to computer graduates. The University of Missouri at Rolla estimated the nation's 14,000 new college graduates in computer science this year can pick from among 55,000 jobs.

There is a big demand for bank tellers, bookkeepers, clerical workers, cashiers and typists, too. The BLS projects a 30 percent expansion in such occupations over the next decade. In the nursing field alone, it is estimated there is a nationwide shortage of 100,000. One of the problems in that field is said to be average salaries.

For those who are willing to study and work, opportunities for employment were never better.

my turn

by john long

Why do people applaud an obviously bad public speaker? One recent incident comes to mind.

The visiting speaker one local civic club recently featured became confused as to where he was. He kept thinking he was in Lamesa, and twice in the course of his speech referred to the great Club of Lamesa and how deservedly proud we people of Lamesa should be to have such a great Club.

It was genuinely embarrassing. The guy actually thought he was in Lamesa. Nor was I the only one to catch the mistake. The club members grinned and snickered among themselves, and still the speaker never caught on. The fact that others were grinning and snickering only served to reinforce the speaker's conviction that he was an effectively witty person, I guess.

When he quit, what did he get? He received a standing ovation.

I was dumbfounded. I felt the speaker deserved to be jeered. His twice-repeated mistake aside, his speech was not great. It was filled with platitudes.

To discreetly clap one's hands a few times is one thing, but to actually stand up and applaud a man who doesn't even know where he is at is something else.

As much as I am tempted to say the club members should be applauded for their mercy, I feel something larger is at stake. I am referring to the speaker himself.

With that standing ovation he received, he will go on his way thinking he is a decent speaker. The club members, in effect, turned him loose to repeat his mistake.

Actually, he never did catch on as to what was happening. He never did realize he was in Snyder until he sat down and his wife told him. I am inclined to think she should have given the speech.

Even at the point when he discovered he was in Snyder, what did he do? He confessed that while he had been speaking in Lamesa he had pronounced the town's name as Lamesa.

Nugent Touring Lignite Project

ROCKDALE, Texas (AP)—Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent toured projects here and at College Station on Wednesday which, he says, "represent a large piece in tomorrow's energy puzzle."

Nugent was briefed at Alcoa's Sandow lignite mine—the first to receive a commission permit to mine coal—and at the experimental coal gasification project at Texas A&M University.

By 1985, Nugent said, almost 25 percent of the state's electricity will be generated by lignite.

public school mess

Nothing has contributed more to the disintegration of American cities than the integration commanded by the Supreme Court 25 years ago.

Ever since the "high" and "mighty" court decreed that "separate but equal is not equal," that youngsters must be bused back and forth across town to insure a race-mix in public schools—the schools have been turning all black and cities have been left bankrupt by white flight and the quality of education has diminished deplorably.

St. Louis, Mo., schools' enrollment is now 49,000 blacks, 14,000 whites.

To achieve "racial balance" is impossible, yet that is the excuse that's used for busing 6,700 students back and forth across town.

There can be no conceivable justification for the danger, fuel waste, time loss and astronomical cost of busing—in St. Louis alone $22 million!

So in St. Louis more and more whites are moving out of town or moving their children to private schools—another seven percent each year.

Los Angeles—under court order—is busing this fall.

If blacks were meant to benefit from busing, they don't like it any more than do whites.

The Boston Globe poll which is the most recent survey on the subject, finds "a great majority, black and white, would prefer to spend busing money instead on better local schools."

Chicago's public schools are 75 percent black or Latino; they are opposed to mandatory busing. Some of the highest achieving schools in Chicago are all black and near all black. Yet the buses roll on.

Two Ford Foundation studies report that busing has not relieved racial polarization in public schools, has worsened it instead.

There is now a third factor in some geographical areas: the increasing population of Mexicans for whom the courts decree classes must be conducted in both languages.

In southern and southwestern states the admission of aliens to public schools—even the children of illegal immigrants—is the subject of a protracted court fight.

However it may be resolved, the lopsided influx of Mexican, Puerto Rican and Cuban students to public schools in these areas inevitably will create a problem similar to the white-flight problem in northern cities.

Further, a bilingual society in the United States poses the potential for greater problems as bilingual Canada is threatened with separatism.

In shirtsleeve English, a large enough Spanish-speaking population in southwestern states ultimately could tear our country apart.

If this is a premature concern, so be it.

Canada—English and French—would tell us that the time to worry is before the two societies polarize past the point of reunion.

NEW YORK (AP)—The life expectancy at birth of a U.S. female is just over 77 years. For a man it is just over 69 years. That's eight years by most calculations, but some see it as no difference at all.

They assert that to claim a difference is to discriminate unfairly. Male and female are equally human, they say, and human life expectancy at birth in the United States is 73 years. They are the unisexers.

As you might expect, the unisex concept is producing considerable confusion in the insurance industry, in which insurance costs and benefits, and annuities too, are based on precise actuarial tables.

You might even say actuarial tables, the mathematical odds, are the foundation of the business, and that the business of insurance is merely that of spreading the known risks, in the manner of a casino.

That neat, ostensibly objective arrangement is now threatened with disarray because, as some actuaries say, the unisexers refuse to believe in differences, including mathematic and genetic.

The unisexers won't buy that. Individuals are individuals, not actuarial contrivances, they say. William M. Mercer Inc., the nation's largest employee benefit consulting firm, puts it this way:

"A particular woman may not live longer than a particular man, and our discrimination laws have focused on individuals, not groups. Therefore, it is argued that sex differentiated mortality tables can no longer be used to establish different benefit amounts."

Mercer, which must advise companies on their benefits programs, is justifiably worried. It can search through legislative, judicial and regulatory decisions, but it will find more confusion than guidance.

"The differences in life expectancy have not changed," it states ruefully. "Social attitudes have changed."

In the name of unisexuality and equality will they be asked to raise their rates for women? Will they be asked to lower their rates for men?

So far, nobody has the answers.

What, for example, will be asked of life insurers who several years ago lowered their insurance rates for women because, they explained, the actuarial tables showed women to be the better risk?

Let's all trade our cars in for camels and end the oil problem once and for all, says our favorite malfunctioning economist.

the suit and putting South in with the queen.

Declarer carefully pitched two low clubs from the dummy. He only had eight top tricks: five diamonds, one heart and two spades. But he realized he could exert enormous pressure on West by running the diamond suit.

Accordingly, he ran the diamonds while discarding two little hearts and a small club.

West was stone-cold dead. He followed to the first diamond, pitched the 10 and four of hearts on the next two, and let go of a spade winner on the fifth diamond. However, the sixth diamond finished him. If he pitched a heart, declarer would cash the ace and drop his king, setting up South's queen for the ninth trick.

If he pitched another spade winner, he would be end played with the club ace. The one remaining spade winner would be his fourth trick; then he would have to lead from his guarded heart king.

Finally, if West pitched the club ace, East would be given the club king, and South's queen of clubs would be his game-going trick.

BETA'S WESTERN DANCE—Carolyn and John Green (left) and Donna and Joe Fowler, Snyder High School ex-students, make plans for the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority fall western dance set for Friday from 9 p.m.-1 a.m. at the National Guard Armory. Brush Fire of Lubbock will be featured. The sorority has extended a special invitation to all SHS exes. Tickets are $12.50 a couple and may be purchased from a sorority member, by calling 573-5970 or 573-9381, or at Anthonys.

The three-notrump game reached by North-South in today's hand is hardly an elegant contract, but declarer made the most of his slim chances in it.

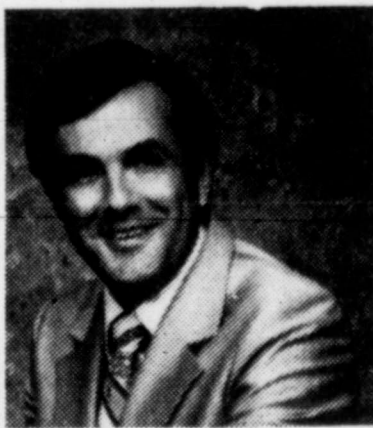

After North overcalled two diamonds, South scraped up a raise on his eight high-card points comprised of queens and jacks. When West tried three hearts, North cue bid three spades looking for three notrump, which South dutifully bid.

Declarer won the spade lead in dummy and immediately led a diamond to his jack. West won, played king and another spade, clearing

Moore Sees Screen Role Acted Out In Real Life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Mary Tyler Moore, whose movie "Ordinary People" deals with the accidental death of one son and the attempted suicide of another, has seen her screen role turn into real tragedy.

Her only child, Richard Carlton Meeker Jr., 24, was killed late Tuesday night when he triggered his own shotgun and shot himself in the head, police said.

A coroner's investigation was trying to determine whether his death was suicide or accidental, said Lt. Dan Cooke, a spokesman for the Los Angeles Police Department.

Meeker, a messenger at CBS Television City in Los Angeles, died shortly after a phone conversation with his girlfriend in Fresno. He was at home in the rented house he shared with two women students near the University of Southern California when the gun fired about 11 p.m., police detective Jerry Ferrin said.

Probations, Jail Term Assessed

Three probations and one jail term were handed out yesterday in 132nd District Court.

Receiving identical two-year probations were Richard Hernandez, 2105 College Ave., Lauro Barboza, 503 16th St., and Hector Barboza, 1209 13th St. All the men had been charged with driving while intoxicated and all had entered guilty pleas.

Receiving the jail term was Samuel G. Barrientez, 502 College Ave. Barrientez received six months in the county jail and a $500 fine on a guilty plea to a driving while intoxicated charge.

Another charge against Barrientez, that of burglarizing the car of Mary Powell on May 5, was dismissed because of his conviction on the DWI case.

Burglars Break In Agape Fellowship

Burglars visiting the Agape Christian Fellowship on east 37th St. made off with about $1,200 worth of items.

Taken, police reports show, were an amplifier and speaker worth $350, a $500 guitar, and $350 guitar and case. The break-in and burglary, reported last night, is alleged to have occurred between the 12th and 14th of this month.

Investigating the incident is Don Whittenburg.

His housemates, Judy Vasquez, 21, and Janet McLaughlin, 22, both said the shooting was an accident.

"He had been talking to his girlfriend on the telephone," said Ms. Vasquez, a student at California State University at Northridge. "I asked how his day went. He said, 'Fine,' and we spoke a few more words. I heard the gun click, and it went off."

Ms. McLaughlin, a USC student who said she and Meeker had "grown up together" in Fresno, added that the phone call to Fresno "had absolutely nothing to do with the shooting."

The identity of Meeker's girlfriend in Fresno was not immediately known.

"At no time did he seem despondent," Ms. McLaughlin said. "He came into my study where I was writing a story. We talked. He said he was bored but it was just a remark in passing. We even discussed fixing up the house we had rented."

"Judy came home," she said. "I walked into the other room, going back and forth, and we all spoke several more times."

Then, she said, she went back into her room and "there was a loud bang and Judy screamed. I ran in. Richard was dying."

Ferrin said, "He was loading and unloading the short-barreled gun when it went off, the blast striking him in the head."

The shotgun was a short-barreled .410-gauge. Ms. McLaughlin said Meeker usually kept in an accessible place because he worried about burglars.

Ms. Moore's office in New York said the actress, star of "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and the "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," flew to Los Angeles as soon as she learned of the shooting. She has been living in New York since her play, "Whose Life Is It Anyway?" closed there several months ago.

Meeker's death was the second tragedy to strike Mary Tyler Moore's family in 2½ years. Her 21-year-old sister Elizabeth died of an apparent drug overdose in 1978. The actress said her sister's death was due to over-sedation and was not a suicide.

Stress and heart disease

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there such a thing as a heart disease personality? I've read that if you have a type A personality that you are prone to heart attacks. Are heart attacks caused by overwork and stress or are they caused by diet and smoking? Is it better to relax and not try to achieve too much or is it better to try to avoid heart attacks by paying attention to your diet?

DEAR READER — You need to keep in mind that heart attacks were not described in a living person before 1908. The disease is primarily a disease of this century. Having said that it becomes clear that if you attribute the epidemic of heart attacks in the world today to a personality type you have to assume that those personality types did not exist in any great number before 1900.

Now, it is a little hard to believe that George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and the other great men that founded the United States were non-achievers who relaxed and went through life without stress. Type A personality achievers are supposed to be the ambitious types and they often are hostile. Well, I suspect that Aaron Burr was a little hostile when he shot Alexander Hamilton. In short, I think the idea of classifying people as type A and type B, then attributing heart attacks to a type A personality is pure hokum.

Stress can be important. It can also cause many people to have bad habits that some of our forefathers did not have, such as smoking cigarettes. I'm afraid that cigarettes, a change in diet enabled in part by refrigeration and lack of exercise enabled by our mechanized society have a lot more to do with the sudden epidemic of heart disease in the 20th century than personality type.

That has its advantages because it means you can adjust your life style and help prevent heart attacks. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-1, Behavior Pattern, Psychological Factors, Stress and Heart Disease. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It will give you more information on the difference in type A and type B personalities and how to keep stress from being a factor in developing heart disease.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I read an article that mentioned a type of medication that might be taken during childhood and could cause permanent discoloration of the teeth. I've mislaid the article. Do you happen to know what medicine this would be?

DEAR READER — Probably it was an article dealing with the effects of antibiotics on the teeth. If a woman uses antibiotics during her pregnancy, many of the tetracycline antibiotics will cause a yellowish discoloration of the baby's teeth.

Also if a child uses tetracycline during the period that the permanent teeth are being formed, up to about the first eight to nine years of life, this may cause a yellowish discoloration. This is a permanent discoloration. For that reason, pediatricians avoid using tetracycline antibiotics particularly in large amounts over a long period of time in children of this age group. Teen-agers and adults do not need to worry about this problem. That's fortunate because a number of teen-agers and adults need tetracyclines to help control acne problems.

Sterling Is Re-Elected To SWCD Board

Leon Sterling of Ira has been re-elected to the board of directors of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District.

Purpose of the district, with headquarters in Snyder, is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on farms and ranches within the district and to serve as voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation matters and other issues affecting private property rights of landowners.

The board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various state and federal agencies and other organizations and has the authority to enter into working agreements with governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes. The Upper Colorado SWCD was organized in 1941.

Mark White May Challenge Windfall Profits Tax

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements again has asked Attorney General Mark White to file a suit attacking the Windfall Profits Tax, and White says he just might.

For the first time, White said he is looking at the possibility of legal action to challenge the tax.

White said his staff met Wednesday with assistant attorneys general from Louisiana and Oklahoma to discuss various legal strategies to fight the tax.

Oklahoma already has challenged the tax's validity in federal court. White said Texas' action will depend in part on whether the courts grant standing to oil-producing states to contest the tax.

"If Oklahoma prevails (on the standing issue), we'll probably join in Oklahoma's litigation. We are going to exhaust every legal possibility in objecting to the Windfall Profits Tax," the attorney general said.

Clements released copies of a letter he sent White on Tuesday, urging White to join a suit filed in Wyoming federal court by the Independent Producers Association of America.

White said he was glad Clements had the letter handed over so "we didn't waste any money on stamps. ... He is swatting at gnats and I am fighting nighthawks."

White also said the issue was too important for "shooting from the hip."

Clements said his insistence that Texas sue to knock down the tax was "by no means associated with any type of partisan politics."

But White indicated he saw plenty of politics in it. He said the whole issue of oil price decontrol, including the Windfall Profits Tax, never would have arisen had it not been for the controls imposed by President Nixon and left in place by President Ford.

"The issue would not be here but for the Republicans who interfered with the market place and put the controls on. The Republicans have not contributed one solution when they have had the opportunity of leadership," White said.

He praised President Carter for getting behind a proposed $1,000 tax credit for small royalty owners who must pay the Windfall Profits Tax and said he had urged Carter to take that position.

White said state government is affected only indirectly by the tax because royalties from oil production on state-owned lands were specifically exempted.

White said private interests such as the independent producers, not the state, should be first in line at the courthouse.

"We are going to be supportive. We are going to file every brief. We think the policy is wrong. But bad policy is not necessarily unconstitutional policy," White said.

Drought Produced Bumper Crop Of Dread And Doubt

The autumn harvest is under way in most parts of the nation's breadbasket, but many Southwestern and Midwestern farmers are reaping little but dread and doubt.

The summer's drought — which caused 1,265 deaths and an overall damage figure of almost $20 billion, according to federal figures — will have a long-lasting effect on farmers, ranchers and foresters.

Specific figures on crop and livestock losses will not be available for several weeks, but individual state estimates total in the billions of dollars.

And in some states, the drought continues, threatening next year's crop and the farmers already being crushed by debt and high operating costs.

It's going to be an extremely difficult year for farmers," said Sam Johnson, director of the Oklahoma State University Extension Service. "How many of them go out of business is going to depend on how friendly the bankers are."

Oklahoma's summer brought the worst combination of heat and drought there since the Dust Bowl of 1936. Oklahoma City had only 3.54 inches of rain in June, July and August; temperatures averaged 98.2 degrees, breaking the previous record average of 97.5 — set in 1936.

Analysts say it will take farmers two to three productive years to offset 1980 losses. Jim Plaxico, Oklahoma director of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said 1980 losses were the worst in 10 years, with cotton and peanuts hit hardest and next year's grazing wheat "a total loss."

Cattle ranchers will suffer because the killing drought has "put the price of hay out of sight," said Wendell Bowers of the extension service.

In Texas, where 190 of 254 counties were declared drought disaster areas and crop and livestock losses are estimated at $1.5 billion, experts say any coming rains will be too late to help the 1980 crop.

"It's real easy to assume the drought's over, but it doesn't end the minute you get your first rain," said Pat Sultenfuss of the Farmers Home Administration. "We're going to need more rain — a lot more rain really — to save the state and break the drought."

Winter crops and forage are dying in the ground or, refusing to sprout, but he said Texas could "still make a 1981 crop if we get the right amount of rain."

Two Projects Considered By CRMWD

Two capital projects directed toward increasing the ground water and surface water deliveries to the west end of the district will be considered by directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District when they meet in Big Spring at 10 a. m. Oct. 23.

The main item on the agenda, however, will be consideration of the proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning Jan. 1, 1981.

Also to be decided is the funding of an archaeological survey of the site of the proposed Stacy reservoir. The Stacy permit is still in the appeals court, but the survey will be required before the project can be completed.

One of the production projects to be acted upon by the board is an expansion of the well field in Ward County in order to bolster the ground water supply to Odessa for summer peaking. The other is beefing up of equipment to boost capacity of surface water delivery through Big Spring westward next summer. Cost of the two may exceed $400,000.

THE FINAL COUNTDOWN

Schmidt Gets Key Eighth-Frame Shot To Aid Team As...

Phillies Win Again; Lead By Two

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mike Schmidt stood at home plate, his bat over his shoulder and his body twisting. A little English might have kept that ball in fair territory, he thought. It curved, maybe five or 10 feet foul.

"I thought it might have a chance, but it hooked just like my golf drives," Schmidt said of his fifth-inning drive. "I know it doesn't mean anything, but I think that foul ball might have helped me get going."

When Schmidt, the Philadelphia Phillies' slugging third baseman, got going, he sent the Kansas City Royals home with a handful of woes. Schmidt's eighth-inning double drove in the winning run, and the Phillies downed the Royals 6-4 Wednesday night for a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven 1980 World Series.

The Series moves to Kansas City for games on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, if necessary. The Royals face the unenviable task of rebounding against a team that has scored 13 runs in the first two games of the Series, having won 7-6 on Tuesday, and they may have to face it without All-Star third baseman George Brett.

Brett had to be removed from the game in the sixth inning when an inflammation of his hemorrhoids, a problem that began only about a week ago, started to bother him too severely.

The Phillies started left-hander Steve Carlton in Game 2. A 24-game winner during the regular season, "Lefty" had struggled in the playoffs against Houston. In the fourth game, his second start, he went only 5½ innings, his shortest stint of the season. He couldn't keep his pitches around the plate.

Wednesday night, the silent left-hander was in trouble again. In eight innings, he gave up 10 hits, six walks and three earned runs with 10 strikeouts.

The Phillies got off to a 2-0 lead in the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Manny Trillo and a run-scoring single by Larry Bowa.

Kansas City got one run back in the sixth when Amos Otis singled, advanced to second when John Wathan walked and scored on a throwing error by Trillo on a high chopper by Willie Aikens.

The Royals scored three times in the seventh. Carlton walked the bases full, and Otis slugged a two-run double, followed by a sacrifice fly by Wathan. The score was 4-2 and Philadelphia's "Comeback Gang" went to work again.

Philadelphia's big inning came in the eighth. Royals' lefty Larry Gura, 18-10 during the season, had retired the first 13 Phillies he faced, but Frey had to yank him after six innings when he complained that he had run out of gas.

Enter Dan Quisenberry, 33 saves during the season and considered the AL's top relief pitcher. If the game had gone according to script, that should have been the end of it. Quisenberry got the side in order in the seventh, but he walked Bob Boone to lead off the eighth.

Pinch hitter Del Unser drove Boone in from first with a double to the wall in left-center. Rose bounced to first baseman Pete LaCock, a defensive replacement, sending Unser to third. Bake McBride's chopping single over the head of second baseman Frank White drove in Unser, tying the score 4-4. That brought Schmidt to the plate.

Schmidt sent Quisenberry's first pitch to the wall in right-center on one short hop for double and a 5-4 Philadelphia lead. Rookie Keith Moreland, starting as designated hitter in place of the ailing Greg Luzinski, singled to score Schmidt before pinch hitter Greg Gross finally grounded into an inning-ending double play.

The Royals will pitch Rich Gale, 13-9 during the season, against Dick Ruthven, 17-10, in the third game Friday. It is a must game for the Royals; no team ever has recovered from a 3-0 deficit to win the Series.

Richard Given Good Chance To Pitch Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After a successful 18-hour operation to replace an artery in his right shoulder, doctors say there's a good chance that right-handed pitcher J.R. Richard will be able to return to the Houston Astros.

"The operation appears to have been successful, and the outlook for his return to baseball appears to be good,"

Jane Ginsburg, a spokeswoman for the University of California Medical Center, said Wednesday.

Richard, who underwent surgery in Houston in July to remove a clot from his neck, checked into the medical center Sunday for tests on the shoulder.

The 30-year-old pitcher had been on the Astros disabled list since July 16 because of complaints about a "dead arm." He collapsed during a workout at the Astrodome.

But his agent, Tom Reich, said the tests were not prompted by any complications following his life-threatening stroke on July 30 that resulted in the removal of the clot.

Richard was the major league strikeout king in 1978 and 1979, compiling a 10-4 record during the first half of this season with a 1.89 earned-run average. He started July 8 in the All-Star game for the National League.

Casper Looking To Fit Right In With Oiler Plan

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers have traded their first two, 1981 draft choices for an All-Pro tight end who says he hates football, worries the scorching Texas heat might kill him and doesn't "give a damn about the Super Bowl and the playoffs."

Dave Casper, acquired from the Oakland Raiders in a stunning, last-minute deal, joined former teammates Ken Stabler and Jack Tatum in Wednesday's workouts.

What did he think of his new teammates? "It looks like they run and jump and do everything football players do," Casper said. "I walked in...like a wet puppy. I spoke to the guys I knew—Kenny and Jack—but I didn't know a lot of the names. I'll take me a while. But, to be quite honest, I felt good right off the bat..."

When Stabler played for Oakland, Casper was his favorite passing target.

The 6-foot-4, 230-pound Casper was a second-round draft pick out of Notre Dame in 1974, but emerged as the NFL's premier tight end two years later. He has caught 227 passes in seven pro seasons, earning All-Pro honors four times.

Casper said he was excited about the move to Houston but afraid the summer heat "might do him in."

But he said he is not concerned about the long-range impact of the trade. "I don't give a damn about the Super Bowl or the playoffs," he said. "All I'm concerned about right now is finding a helmet that fits, learning some plays and learning how to play Oiler football. All that other stuff is meaningless until the time comes to do it."

Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips conceded the trade was made primarily to benefit the Oilers' rushing offense and said he planned to utilize a double tight end offense in Sunday's game against Tampa Bay.

That's fine with him, Casper said. But whatever the formation, he considers himself a blocker first and a receiver second.

"I've got a big guy (Earl Campbell) behind me. Hopefully, I'll be looking at his number going downfield while I'm in the dirt, counting blades of grass," he said.

At any rate, Casper guesses he has four or five good years left in football and intends to stick around.

Victory Should Aid Tigers Friday Night, Feels Coach

Last week's Snyder Tiger 28-14 win over Lamesa has apparently given the local squad a new outlook, and coupled with Homecoming and the possibility of a near-full house, the locals hope to carry the victory over another week.

Snyder, 1-4, entertains 4-2 Pecos at 8 p.m. Friday as a part of the bi-annual homecoming celebrations. Both teams have lost two games in District 2-AAAA play.

"You can't substitute a victory for anything else," beamed Tiger head coach Mike Jenkins. "We can see the difference in the kids. It's improved our workouts, but confidence is the major factor. We think the kids now have some confidence that they can score, that they can come from behind."

Snyder trailed Lamesa 7-0 before taking advantage of a turnover to make it a 7-6 ballgame, then went up 21-7 before the Tors rallied to make it 21-14.

"We had our share of problems (132 yards in penalties and four turnovers), but we saw some good things happen, like holding them at our goal line," relayed the coach. "All these are learning situations that came out as a plus for us for a change."

A factor which could also aid the Tigers this week is Homecoming, Jenkins noted.

"There's no doubt that Homecoming has an effect on your team. We're hoping it will have a positive effect on ours. People will be coming back home to see these kids play ball that haven't seen them in a while. As a result, we hope our kids play a little better."

Pecos, a team many believed would be a top contender for the District 2-AAAA title, has lost its past two games, to Andrews, and Sweetwater. In some cases, that might take the wind out of a ballclub, but not in this case, explained the coach.

"Pecos has too much tradition and the season is too long for that. If anything, there is a strong possibility they'll come up here mad," Jenkins relayed. "If this were the eighth or ninth game in the season, it might be a factor. It's just too early in the year. That's what we felt like, too. If we had lost our last four, it would be much worse than our first four, from the standpoint of moral."

This week's lineup for the Tigers remains basically the same as against Lamesa, though starting defensive end Matt Taggart, who suffered a dislocated shoulder in the game, will be out. He will be replaced with Garry Waller. Ken Goodman or Curtis Gafford. Tracy Loyola, who missed the game with illness, will return to his safety position this week.

Felines Trek To Denver City

DENVER CITY—Snyder's varsity, junior varsity and freshman volleyball teams are slated to take on Denver City High School in non-district competition here this evening.

The tri-header was to start at 5 o'clock with the freshman match, followed at 6 with the JV, and at 7 with the varsity units.

Snyder resumes District 2-AAAA action Oct. 21 at Andrews. The Tiger varsity unit is 23-0 on the season, 3-0 in round-two of district play.

The girls won the first-round of district competition with a 7-0 record, assuring them of a berth in any district playoffs, should they become necessary.

Sideline Glances

Snyder Wins Another One

by Bill McClellan

How can the pros call themselves "pros" and be so inconsistent? Tell me that one.

I'm too depressed right now, but next week I'm going to figure up just how bad the pros have burned me this season. I do know that last week, out of four pro games, I picked one right. In fact, over in our Sagacious Sideline Selections box, our guests picked the pros 6 right, 14 wrong.

Speaking of inconsistency, A&M is back in its usual groove again. Hope you took my advice to pick against me last week.

This week, in view of the horrid collegiate games on tap, we've been forced to pick six pro games. Don't expect much this time either, folks.

Anyway, as we head further towards the comics page, last week went 14 right, 6 wrong for 700, or 83 right, 37 wrong on the season. 692. Let's get on with this week's perfect predictions:

1. Ira at Hermleigh: The Dogs aren't out of the District 2-1A race yet, so they won't let up...IRA 15, HERMLEIGH 16.
2. Borden County at Grady: Coach Randy Roemisch's Coyotes keep on executing well...COYOTES 34, WILDCATS 8.
3. Pecos at Snyder: A lot of factors combine to make up this one, including last week's Tiger win, Homecoming, last week's Pecos loss, etc. Pecos remains the favorite, but then, the Eagles were also favored against Sweetwater last time out. Let's hope last week's victory turned things around for the home team. Pick it...TIGERS 21, EAGLES 17.
4. Ector at Sweetwater: I've picked against Sweetwater two out of the last three weeks. I'm wising up...MUSTANGS 24, ECTOR 7.
5. Monahans at Andrews: Could be a tough, tough ballgame, but you have to go with the Mustangs again...ANDREWS 21, MONAHANS 14.
6. Lamesa at Lake View: Lake View bounces back...CHIEFS 35, TORS 20.
7. Houston at SMU: The Cougars have yet another quarter-back to try out Saturday. We already know about SMU's Mike Ford...PONIES 27, COUGS 21.
8. Baylor at A&M: The Aggies, sigh, I never get them right. Nevertheless, I'll have to go with the "I Believe" guys on this one...BAYLOR 24, A&M 17.
9. Tulsa at TCU: Flip a coin. Mine came up tails for Tulsa three straight times...TULSA 27, TCU 14.
10. Texas Tech at Rice: The Red Raiders may have the better team, but that doesn't always produce the winner...RICE 17, TECH 14.
11. Alabama at Tennessee: For weeks I've been waiting for this game so I can pick Bama to be upset. Now that it's here, and considering last week's Alabama-Rutgers match - which proved to me Alabama was looking ahead to Tennessee - I'm going to pick it safe...TIDE 35, VOLS 27.
12. Syracuse at Penn State: It's hard to beat the Lions at home. Syracuse certainly will not...PENN ST. 21, SYRACUSE 7.
13. North Carolina State at North Carolina: Don't go against NC at home...NCU 23, NCSU 14.
14. Mississippi State at Miami, Fla.: Maybe it is a "who cares" game, but not for Miami...HOSTS 31, VISITORS 20.
- Now for the pros:
15. Dallas at Philadelphia: Dallas is playing well, but the Eagles will be sky-high for this one. With their outlook on the season, turned-on Eagle fans will make a difference at home...EAGLES 35, COWBOYS 27.
16. Tampa Bay at Houston: I wouldn't have thought the Oilers would lose two in a row. Surely not three! Bucs fall...OILERS 23, BUCS 14.
17. Detroit at Chicago: Detroit keeps the Bears caged...LIONS 34, BEARS 14.
18. Green Bay at Cleveland: No guessing about this one...BROWNS 27, PACKERS 10.
19. Atlanta at New Orleans: The Saints have got to win sometime (don't they?) and this week might be the week. Pick it that way if you want too, I'm going...FALCONS 21, SAINTS 15.
20. St. Louis at Washington: Washington probably should not have lost to Denver last Monday. With the season fast fading before them, the "Skins have got to get going fast...REDSKINS 23, CARDINALS 17.

ABC Limited On Selections

An AP Sports Analysis

By FRED ROTHENBERG

When ABC decided to move the Texas-Arkansas game from Oct. 18 to Sept. 1 in prime time, the college football schedule left the network with a weak week. The people at ABC circled Alabama-Tennessee and prayed for the Volunteers to make it to this Saturday with at least a 3-2 record.

After opening season losses to Georgia and Southern California, Tennessee has won three straight and its TV game against No. 1 Alabama now looks strong. That gamble worked well, but the network may not be as lucky Nov. 22 when several major college football games are shaping up and ABC may only be able to show one - probably Oklahoma-Nebraska.

Two weeks ago, the ABC switchboard lit up when the network televised Ohio State-UCLA. The complaining callers didn't object to that game; it was what that telecast meant down the road - Ohio State-Michigan probably would not be shown for the first time since 1973.

This great college football rivalry, which annually decides the Big Ten Conference team in the Rose Bowl, likely would be grounded from the airwaves.

Ohio State and Michigan fans aren't the only ones upset. Chances are that these other Nov. 22 games won't make ABC: No. 3 Texas and No. 13 Baylor (possibly for the automatic Cotton Bowl berth) and Florida and No. 7 Florida State.

ABC is limited by the NCAA's TV restrictions, which were written into the contract to prevent the network from showing Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Ohio State every week. The NCAA wants to spread the TV wealth around. For a national TV exposure, the teams split $600,000. For a regional TV appearance, they split $423,000.

Except for a couple of exceptions, no school can be on more than twice a year and four times over a two-year period. A third appearance in one year - and fifth overall - is only allowed if a game is moved to a special exception date when no games are normally scheduled or it is ABC's one wild card game each season.

75% of the nation's wheat is grown on farms served by electric cooperatives. But rural electrification performs a myriad other services.

Rural electricity provides irrigation water to produce more nutritious foods. You'll find rural electric systems providing power for processing plants, poultry pickers, freezer plants, cotton gins, packing houses, compresses, grain elevators and feed lots, to name a few. The rural electric cooperative in helping to produce our daily bread provides enormous benefits to its members and to all America.

Dry Keeps Humor Despite 0-5 Mark

FORT WORTH (AP) — Despite a miserable start and a dismal 0-5 record, Texas Christian University coach F.A. Dry and one football player have proved they still have a sense of humor.

After losing all five games, three of those in the last few minutes, Dry told of an incident that happened after last Saturday's 28-24 defeat at the hands of Rice University.

"As I was walking off the field, I heard a guy run by me and yell, 'go to hell, Dry,'" he said.

"I thought to myself, oh what a relief that would be."

During a recent appearance before a TCU booster club, sophomore wide receiver Stanley Washington told the crowd he considered victory similar to an apple pie.

"It smells good, and it tastes good. But if you don't hurry up and eat it, somebody is going to take it," he said. "The next time we smell it, we're going to swallow it whole."

Chinese Tourney

CANTON, China (AP) — American star Jimmy Connors is having no problem with his tennis game, but he's finding it hard to get used to the sedate crowds in China.

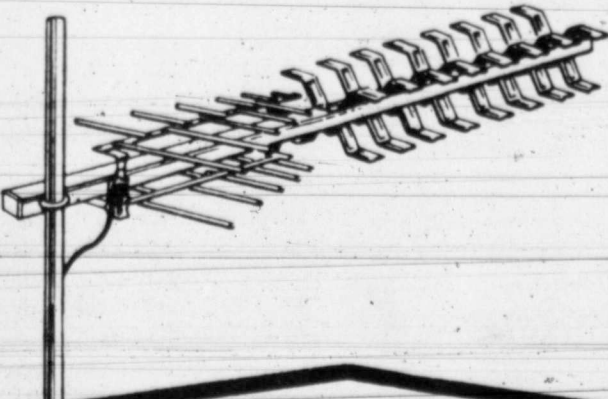

"They don't yell or clap like in New York," the powerful left-hander said after winning his second-round match Wednesday in the $50,000 Canton Tennis Classic. "I'm sure that as they come to understand the game better, they will get worked up."

Connors, the top seed, whipped fellow American Jim Delaney 6-4, 6-2 after falling behind 4-2 in the first set.

In other second-round matches, Harton Ismail of Zimbabwe, beat Jan Norback of Sweden, 7-6, 6-2, and Cliff Letcher of Australia, defeated Emilio Montano of Mexico, 6-4, 6-4.

Sashi Menori of India, beat Ross Case of Australia, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1 in a first-round match.

Dear Abby

'First-Class Brat' Needs First-Class Love

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old son recently married a girl who was previously married and has a 4-year-old girl. Abby, the little girl is a first-class brat!

We realize that part of the reason for the child's behavior stems from the fact that she has been dumped here, there and everywhere and has had no consistent discipline. Since she is only 4, we hope that with some effort this can be remedied.

Now comes the problem: Our son has asked us what we want this little girl to call us. To be honest with you, because of her actions we are embarrassed to have her call us "Grandma and Grandpa."

Meanwhile we are trying to think of something she can call us for the present. Our son suggested we consult Dear Abby.

LOOKING FOR A NAME

DEAR LOOKING: Please have her call you "Grandma and Grandpa." A child who has been dumped here, there and everywhere must be starved for love, acceptance, kindness and understanding.

You have a perfect opportunity to make her feel loved and wanted. Please don't blow it by labeling her a "brat" and conditioning your love on her behavior. Smother her with love and kindness, and you will never have to worry about being "embarrassed."

DEAR ABBY: Last May you printed the poem titled, "Heaven's Very Special Child," stating that it had been sent to you by a Tucson reader, and the author was unknown. Abby, my wife is the author of that poem. She had it copyrighted in 1956. I feel that a correction is in order as several people are now claiming ownership.

We are the parents of five daughters — one is retarded. We will be pleased to send a copy of the poem to anyone who requests it and sends return postage to us at Box 21, Hatboro, Pa. 19040.

Thank you.

THE REV. JOHN A. MASSIMILLA

DEAR REV. MASSIMILLA: It is with apologies and pleasure that I reprint the lovely poem together with your kind letter:

Heaven's Very Special Child

By Edna Massimilla

A meeting was held quite far from earth
"It's time again for another birth,"
Said the Angels to the Lord above,
"This special child will need much love."
His progress may seem very slow
Accomplishments he may not show
And he'll require extra care
From the folks he meets way down there.
He may not run or laugh or play
His thoughts may seem quite far away
In many ways he won't adapt
And he'll be known as handicapped.
So let's be careful where he's sent
We want his life to be content
Please, Lord, find the parents who Will do a special job for You.
They will not realize right away
The leading role they're asked to play
But with this child sent from above
Come stronger faith and richer love.
And soon they'll know the privilege given
In caring for this gift from heaven
Their precious charge, so meek and mild,
Is heaven's very special child.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Rape Charge Filed

A rape charge has been filed against Freddy Lee Harris, 1105 33rd St.

The charge alleges Harris raped a 24-year-old woman the morning of Oct. 12.

Toxic Wastes Deadline Missed

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A hazardous waste facility did not remove radioactive wastes from a facility near here to meet a state deadline and the state health department says an investigator has been sent to the coastal dump site.

Instead of having only 2,000 drums left on the Pelican Island site, Todd Shipyards Corp. will have closer to 10,000 drums, said Dave Lacker, director of the Texas Department of Health's division of occupational health and radiation control. He said the company recently discovered 5,000 barrels it had not previously reported to state officials.

After 10 employees were exposed to radiation at the site during a February accident, the company announced it would phase out nuclear storage and processing facilities by spring.

State officials have been critical of Todd, saying the company never physically counted the number of barrels stored near here and are not moving the radioactive wastes out quickly enough.

State Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz of Galveston has urged the health department to seek civil or criminal penalties against Todd for what he called a series of deceptions. And he pressed for a faster phasing-out of the nuclear waste.

"They're going to be out of business before the next hurricane season," said

Schwartz, who has claimed a hurricane could blow the barrels off the low-lying Pelican Island to Galveston.

radioactive plutonium — in leaking drums — without listing the substance in its inventory lists was the "straw that broke the camel's back,"

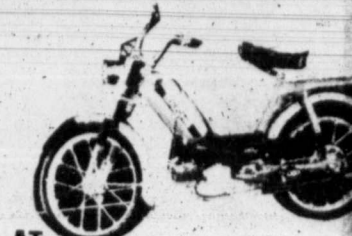

Schwartz said. Schwartz said the company claimed it didn't report the plutonium because it belonged to a California company.
