Plains Areas Get Moisture Friday Night

Lamesa Precipitation Is Estimated At One Inch; Brisk Electrical Storm Reported To The South

One-Third Here

Other Sections Are Aided By Falls; Further Assault Is Made On Drouth As An Inch Visits Amarillo

RAIN fell on several South Plains towns Friday night and threats of moisture hovered over several others.

Lamesa unofficially estimated precipitation at one inch, hard rains and showers intermittently falling from 8:30 to 10 o'clock. Heavy thunder followed brisk electrical displays.

Third Of Inch Here

A third-inch had been recorded at 9:22 at the state experimental substation at Lubbock, bringing August moisture to a .60 inch total.

A heavy shower fell for 30 minutes at Levelland, beginning at 9 o'clock and preceded by lightning. A slow rain was falling at Brownfield, beginning at 10:30. Lightning flashes there gave hint of possible continuation later in the night.

Showers At Littlefield.

Showers fell at Littlefield, and heavier showers were reported to have been received on the route between there and a point near Lubbock. Showers also fell to the westward of Littlefield.

Only a few drops fell at Plainview; Post received no rain, and Ralls reported only a threat of rain. Clouds there were lowering and lightning flashed.

Hale Center had a good shower, said the conductor of Santa Fe passenger train 95, which reached Lubbock at 10:10, en route to Sweetwater. Idalou had a brisk shower, a bus driver from Wichita Falls said.

Further Assault On Drouth

Rain, which fell in sheets for a few minutes at Amarillo Friday afternoon, made further assault on the drouth, bringing nearly to an inch of moisture and raising the month's total to three inches.

It was the heaviest precipitation for a single month there in two

Preliminary Naval Parley Is Called By Great Britain

LONDON, Aug. 16. (AP) — Great Britain called a preliminary naval conference today for October but diplomatic circles were dubious over the prospects of holding it.

These circles felt the trend of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute and the general naval situation make it uncertain that the five powers could get together. If they do they will seek a limitation treaty replacing those expiring at the end of 1936.

Fawver Is Chosen Head Of Pioneers

Will Smiled At Death Thoughts

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 16. (AP) — Will Rogers smiled at the thought of death during a visit here two weeks ago.

"When are you going to write a book?" interviewers asked him.

"Oh, I dunno," he grinned. "I ain't near enough dead yet."

He said one publisher had been "after me a long time to write my memoirs. (He pronounced it as if it were spelled "mee-mores.")

"But heck," he chuckled, "you got to be old and pretty near dead to have anything to look back on. I'm a long ways from being dead. Feel just as frisky as a colt."

Attendance Of 9,000 Is Registered For Concluding Day

(Special To The Avalanche)

CROSBYTON, Aug. 16. — Attendance of 9,000 was registered on the second and concluding day of the West Texas Old Settlers reunion here today.

George Fawver of Floydada was elected president, N. Y. Bicknell of Crosbyton vice president, Mrs. W. T. Dunn of Crosbyton secretary-treasurer. R. B. Smith of Crosbyton was reelected manager, and about 20 directors were named.

Queen Is Chosen

Miss Mary Earl Samson of Plainview was adjudged rodeo queen, Mrs. Newton Bingham of Spur being runner-up. Five other entries were in the judging: Miss Wilda Spikes of Ralls, Miss Joyce Glass of Crosbyton, Mrs. S. C. Simmons of Lubbock, Miss Addie Barker of Floydada, and Mrs. Morris Neff of Post.

The reunion, held at Hank Smith park, in Blanco canyon, was held for the tenth annual year. Program features included rodeo events, aerobatics, talks by pioneers, airplane rides, old-time fiddling, parachute jump, thrills given by a motorcycle rider, and a dress parade.

Concessions did much business, more money being spent than in several years.

Ten thousand were at the fete Thursday.

Ethiopia Offers Concessions Of Economic Nature But To Consider No Occupation By Military Forces

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Aug. 16—Ethiopia offered Italy economic concessions tonight but Premier Mussolini's unwillingness to tell France and England exactly what he wants balked efforts to avert a war.

In a message from Ethiopia to the tri-power conference Emperor Haile Selassie emphasized that he would not accept a military occupation.

Climaxes Deliberations

His offer climaxed long deliberations by Premier Pierre Laval of France, Anthony Eden of Great Britain, and Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy as the talks formally were opened.

A British spokesman said Aloisi was pressed for a "frank statement" of what Mussolini wants. He declined to give it but instead quit the meeting and telephoned Il Duce, into whose "lap the whole thing has now been dumped," the spokesman asserted.

Proposal Is Made

Through his minister to Paris Haile Selassie laid the following proposal before the three powers:

1. A guarantee of the security of the Italian colonies of Somaliland and Eritrea and of the security of Italians living in Ethiopia.

2. The granting to Italy of economic facilities for mining, road building and railway operations in Ethiopia.

3. The possibility of even more extensive agricultural concessions to Rome.

Veteran Government Agent Is Killed In A Gun Battle

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 16. (AP) — Nelson B. Klein, veteran department of justice agent of Cincinnati, was killed late today in a gun battle with an automobile theft suspect, who in turn was wounded and is in custody. The fight occurred at College Corner, a small community 35 miles southwest of here.

The wounded suspect, under federal guard in a Hamilton hospital, is registered as George W. Barrett, and, according to Federal Agent H. D. Harris, Cincinnati, will be brought to trial as quickly as possible under a federal statute providing death for slayers of a federal operative.

The men, former residents of Texas, lived at the Las Rusias ranch in Mexico near Matamoros.

MAN IDENTIFIED

Federal Judge Is To Take Swift Action After Threat

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 16. (AP)—A federal judge directed swift action today at farmers who threatened him with violence after forcibly preventing two foreclosure sales of farms.

Even as Judge Merrill E. Otis recalled a federal grand jury, a repetition of yesterday's disorders at Plattsburg, where a U. S. marshal and three aides were handled roughly, occurred today at Maysville. There J. Lyman Andrews, a mortgage trustee, and a companion were beaten and drvien out of town by farmers who shouted:

"That's what we'll do to Judge Otis if he comes up here."

Cash Advance On Cotton Is To Be Offered

American Cotton Cooperative Association Announces That 10-Cent A Pound Advance Is To Be Given

Action Taken To Aid Farmers In Holding Their Crop Until Government Makes Its Loan Policy Public

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 16. — A 10-cent a pound cash advance to cotton farmers on this year's crop was authorized today by the American Cotton Cooperative association.

The announcement followed a two-day meeting of directors of the association in New Orleans and climaxed a day of loan predictions and denials from Washington which had the market gyrating back and forth in nervous fashion.

To Make Advances.

"Pending final decision of Secretary Wallace in regard to the loan policy on this year's cotton crop, our member associations will, as usual, make advances on cotton to members who desire such a service," said a statement signed by E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the association.

"Advances as nearly as possible will be made based on quality, location and market value," it continued. "Based on the present market price and the demand for spot cotton an advance of 10 cents per pound on deliveries of this year's crop has been authorized.

Will Be Changed

"If and when the market has a material change from its present price level the amount of the advance will be changed correspondingly."

The action was taken by the cooperatives to aid farmers in holding their cotton until the government makes its future loan policy public.

The advance by cooperatives differs from a government price peg in that it is not granted "without recourse" as was the 12-cent loan to the growers. The government guaranteed the farmer 12 cents and if the market broke below this

Justice Asked For This Area

Dr. W. A. Jackson Declares He Will Stand Up And Fight For West Texas Allocation Of Centennial Funds

(By The Associated Press)

BIG SPRING, Aug. 16. (AP)—Dr. W. A. Jackson of Lubbock made a demand for "justice" to West Texas in the allocation of Texas Centennial funds in a speech here today before the West Texas Press association.

Dr. Jackson drew an imaginary line through Fort Worth to the southeast, and said the vast area west of it had been left out of the Centennial picture. In an appeal for a museum for West Texas, he charged lack of representation and solidarity were responsible largely for the "mal-distribution of funds set aside for the purpose of this celebration."

Statement Cheered

Cheers greeted his statement that he intended to "stand up and fight" for a West Texas allocation.

More than 50 editors were present at a luncheon at which G. A. Woodward of Big Spring presided. The convention had been opened earlier by President E. B. Harris, editor of the paper at Rule.

Harry Hines, chairman of the Texas highway commission, was scheduled to make the principal address at a dinner tonight.

Pierce spent the afternoon in a soft drink stand watching results of the St. Louis Cardinals - New York Giants game. At the end of the game he started to the door but collapsed and died from a heart attack.

Noted Aviator Got Start In Life On Farm

But Wiley Post Was Not To Be Kept On A Farm And He Diligently Kept His Eyes On Goal In Aviation

BY TOM YARBROUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 16.—The stocky little globe galloper who made the name of Wiley Post familiar throughout the world was a farm boy with a distaste for farming.

Wiley Post was born November 22, 1898, on an isolated farm near Grand Saline, Van Zandt county, Texas, and in the days when flying was only something to read about with raised eyebrows the boy who was to bring the aviation world to his feet whittled out models of airplanes.

Kept Eyes On Goal

Just as he kept the "Winnie Mae" on her record-breaking world-girdling course in 1933, the Texas farm boy kept his eyes on the goal he set for himself in the skies. An accident, one which cost him the sight of his left eye, was instrumental in his getting a start toward that goal, but he knew before that what he wanted to do.

The taciturn youth with brown eyes and brown hair had a heritage of several generations of southwestern pioneers who made their way in agriculture, but farming never interested him much.

His mother, Mrs. W. F. Post, recalls that even when he was a small, barefoot, freckle-faced youngster he had an inordinate desire to tinker with things. He read adventure stories, showed a preference for mechanical toys.

Wanted To Be Flier

One of his rural school teachers recalled that when he prevailed on Wiley to improve his work in grammar the boy remarked that he was not much interested in that study. He wanted to be an aviator—quite unusual at that time.

The W. F. Posts, meanwhile, had moved to another farm, in Oklahoma.

The dissatisfied farm boy's Kansas City auto course cost him $85, and young Wiley had to work out of school hours to pay living expenses.

Buys First Plane

Mechanics cannot be learned wholly from books, so Wiley took a "post graduate" course in garages, machine shops and the oil fields of Oklahoma. He got a job in a machine shop at Holdenville, and there came the accident that ruined his left eye. The $2,000 he received as damages was used to purchase his first airplane.

Already he had become "pals" with airplanes in the dangerous role of wing walker, parachute jumper and general barnstormer. He had told a prospective aviator-employe he could do "anything," and on the second flight he floated down in a parachute, the first of a series of 91 he did at $25 a jump.

Having acquired his own plane

Beloved Comedian And Master Aviator Crushed To Death As Ship Falters And Plunges Into River Bank; Natives Get First News To Civilization After Tiring 15-Mile Trip

Bruised Bodies Are Found In Wreck

Plane Arrives At Point Barrow Last Night To Bring Bodies Back To United States; Men And Women In All Walks Of Life Stricken With Sorrow As Tragic News Is Flashed

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 16.—Will Rogers, beloved No. 1 comedian of the age, and Wiley Post, master aviator, were crushed to death when a shiny, new airplane motor faltered and became an engine of tragedy near this outpost of civilization last night.

Both were killed instantly when their red Arctic sky cruiser slipped and fell 50 feet head-on into a river bank. The 550-horsepower motor was driven back into the plane's fuselage. It smashed out the lives of the two world famous men instantly.

Native Runners Bring First News

Native runners raced into Point Barrow with word of a plane crash. Sergeant Stanley R. Morgan of the army signal corps dashed to the scene to learn the full significance of the world-shocking tragedy. He recovered the bruised bodies.

First the body of Rogers was removed from the cabin.

Then Morgan was forced to tear the plane apart to recover the form of the chunky little flier who twice has flown around the globe—once alone.

The bodies were brought here and given to the care of Dr. Henry W. Greist. He is a Presbyterian medical missionary whose work of mercy and battles against disease have become an epic of the far north.

A trifling 10-minute flight thus became the nemesis of two famous figures long accustomed to flying around the world as an everyday matter. Although Rogers—gentle master of the "wise crack"—never became a pilot, he was perhaps the world's foremost airplane passenger.

Resuming a happy-go-lucky aerial tour of Alaska, a prelude to Post's reported plan to fly to Siberia and on to Moscow, the noted travelers left Fairbanks late yesterday for a 500-mile hop to Point Barrow, northernmost white settlement in America.

Fog Is Encountered 50 Miles Out

Fifty miles out they encountered fog. Post "sat down" on Harding lake for a while but resumed the journey shortly.

Apparently uncertain of his bearings, he again brought his pontooned plane to the surface of a shallow river 15 miles southwest of here to ask natives the way to Point Barrow.

Rogers chatted with the Eskimos. Post tinkered with the plane during the brief stop. Shortly after 5 p. m. (11 p. m. EST) they took off for the last little hop.

The natives told the story to Sergeant Morgan. They said the motor of Post's new specially-built plane misfired shortly after it rose.

Sleek Ship Plummets Out Of Control

Post quickly banked to the right. The sleek ship plummeted nose-first, out of control. It dived into the edge of the stream where the water was only two feet deep.

When Morgan arrived at the scene by launch, he said today, he found the trim scarlet low-winged monoplane a complete wreck, partly submerged.

The right wing was sheared off.

Morgan said Post's watch had stopped at 8:18 p. m. P. S. T., apparently the time of the accident. The runner arrived here at 10 p. m., with word of the tragedy.

Recovering the fliers' personal effects, Morgan turned them over to Doctor Greist, awaiting instructions from Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Post and from Morgan's superior, Col. George E. Kumpe, at Seattle.

But for a surprising, last-minute decision, Post's attractive wife might also have been in the death plane. She had planned to fly with Post and Rogers.

Wife Changes Mind

The day the flight started from Renton airport, south of Seattle, August 7, Mrs. Post told reporters she had changed her mind. She said the trip might be "too strenuous," adding:

"I wanted Wiley to be more comfortable. Besides, there are other reasons."

Rumors spread that the famous flier and his wife were quarreling. Mrs. Post stamped her foot in anger. "Baloney!" she said.

Today, at Ponca City, Okla., with relatives, she was prostrated with grief. She had flown here quietly two days ago for an operation.

Arctic Is Unrelenting

The unrelenting Arctic, grave of other such noted fliers as Carl Ben Eielson and Frank Dorbandt, played a leading part in this new tragedy.

Rogers and Post had left Fairbanks in the face of poor flying conditions.

The stop at Harding lake enabled them to await the lifting of fog there. Then they encountered it again as they streaked farther on toward the pole.

They sighted the Eskimo camp southwest of here, an area described by Andrew Bahr, famous reindeer driver, as one of the most desolate places in the world.

Obtaining directions, they set out on the little hop to Barrow. Here Rogers wanted to visit Charles Brower, known as "the king of the Arctic." Brower has lived in the Arctic 51 years. He is a trader and operates a whaling station nearby.

The tragedy occurred during the height of the short Arctic summer—Barrow is more than 300 miles inside the Arctic circle, at the end of Alaska's northernmost point. Even yet, Barrow's "harbor" in the Arctic ocean roadstead is open only at intervals to shipping and the coast guard cutter Northland is held in the icepack off Wainwright, 75 miles southwest of here, after her annual visit here.

The Northland radioed that her arrival time at Barrow is "very indefinite because conditions are unfavorable."

Plane Best Method

"Only feasible method of quick removal of bodies is by airplane," the Northland advised.

At Fairbanks, planes of the Pacific Alaska Airways were reported in readiness to come to Barrow to fly the bodies out if desired.

Behind the fliers when their dash to the top of Alaska ended in the shallow Arctic stream, lay miles upon miles of barren, treeless tundra traversed by the Colville river and its few and winding tributaries.

Barrow itself is a tiny spot on the end of Point Barrow. It is inhabited by about a dozen white persons and several hundred natives.

Cheered By Crowds

The visit to Alaska was the jovial philosopher-comedian's first. Post is well known here. Everywhere crowds flocked to cheer them and to shake their hands.

Rogers would flash the grin known 'round the world.

"Me and Wiley," he said once, "are just a couple of Oklahoma boys trying to get along."

In a transport plane, they flew over the government's Matanuska valley colonization project yesterday. Rogers had said he wanted to organize a polo team there.

Both were proud of Oklahoma and visited there often—Rogers his beloved Claremore and Post Maysville,

'Cowboy Will' Was Favorite Around World

Famous Humorist Began Life As Plain Cowboy Proud Of Indian Blood; Ended It As Intimate Friend Of All

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—A cowboy's drawl, a shy grin and a mirthful tongue that convulsed king and commoner alike made Will Rogers an international favorite.

At 56 he was known all over the world, where motion pictures are shown or where he had visited, for his homely humor. An aviation enthusiast, he went to his death last night while doing one of the things he liked best—flying.

Began Life As Cowboy

He began life as a plain cowboy, proud of his Cherokee Indian blood and of his ability to twirl a lariat. He ended it as the intimate friend of presidents, monarchs, dictators, millionaires—film extras and "blathering" cow hands.

In homely vein, he could size up in a paragraph a national crisis that had statesmen snarling at each other—and make even the statesmen laugh.

Born in Indian territory, he learned to throw a rope and ride a horse as a youth. He always called Oklahoma home although he lived in California.

Star In Follies

By way of a wild west show, he reached the vaudeville stage and from there it was only a step to the legitimate with the Rogers' inimitable brand of humor making him a star in Ziegfeld's Follies.

The first time Will Rogers' audience laughed at him—the important moment that launched him on his fortune-making career as a humorist—Will was miffed.

He thought they were chiding his Oklahoma drawl. That was in 1908 while he was in vaudeville doing a roping stunt. The show manager told him he might explain some of the fine points of trick roping. When Will started talking, the audience roared. Will didn't want to do it again but was urged and yielded.

Was Not Sensational

His first venture in pictures was not sensational, for it was not enough for theater goers to see Rogers. They must hear him too, to appreciate his art. When the pictures

Mrs. George Foltz Of Tyler And Miss Margaret Dupree Are Honored At Party

The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor

IT'S HARD for any man to tell what we did lose yesterday when we lost Will Rogers. We do know that everyone who had the privilege of knowing him is just a little better by having done so and those who read his column or listened to him over the radio have profited by an example of one who lived in friendship with all mankind.

Thousands of people from near and far must have discussed the tragedy as they clustered in little groups Friday morning, just as we did here after the flash: "Post and Rogers killed in plane crash in Alaska" came in over the printers. Street urchins, clerks, bankers, housewives, people of all professions and people of no profession read and repeated witticisms of this cowboy sage and philosopher, who at 56 was the best known and one of the most universally loved of Americans. What made Will Rogers a great man? He was not handsome, he was not educated (by his own boasting), he did not aspire to political offices. He claimed to be "just an ordinary human."

HE DARED TO LIVE

WE BELIEVE one of the secrets of the great popularity that came to this Oklahoma seer was that he dared to do many of the things that we admit only to ourselves we would like to accomplish. The world was his back yard. He felt as much at home in Buenos Aires as we do in Santa Fe. If on arising he decided to fly to New York City, that's all that was necessary. In ten minutes he was off.

He dared to talk back to governors, statesmen and presidents. His clever bards, never meant maliciously, were the shining light in more than one day's reading. He looked neither up nor down to any man. And, what was so good about it, Will let us in on all of the little things that made life so interesting for him.

WHAT WAS THE SECRET?

HOW DID he do it? By his own words: "A good appetite, plenty of sleep and not much worry. That's the secret of living." His religion? We don't know whether he belonged to a established church but his creed is expressed in a foreword he wrote to the book "Good Medicine," containing the letters of C. M. Russell, great cowboy artist. ". . . cowboy enough to know that the final round-up ain't on this range and you are not shelved and classified by any other humans. One steer don't cut out another one and decide what market he will be shipped to. That's done by Somebody of an entirely different race from cattle."

As to his spelling, we believed he just didn't want to take time to hunt tricky words in the dictionary. He confessed in one picture that "when I first started out to write and misspelled a few words, people said I was just ignorant. But when I got all the words wrong they accused me of being a comedian and said I was quaint." He was smart enough to know that the world never tires of laughing at you when you are making fun of yourself.

HE WAS KIND

WILL ROGERS was never mean in his quips at life. His great heart was filled with sympathy and understanding for men of all walks. Do you remember how his voice broke and he sobbed the night he told radio listeners of his friendship with a young pilot who had crashed the day before as he sat at the stick of a trans-continental plane? His expressions following the death of some loved character were always consoling and sincere.

Movie fans will be glad to learn that there are two Rogers pictures that have not been released but which are ready. One is "Steamboat Round the Bend," a tale of a quack medicine peddler on a Mississippi River steamboat. For the first time Mr. Rogers plays a dramatic role and the producers have been wondering whether the patrons will like it as well as his others. The other cinema is "In Old Kentucky," a story of horse races and feuds.

We repeat it's hard to say goodbye at present to one who was everybody's friend, to one who cheered lives from the remotest stations to the most crowded metropolis, to Will Rogers, world citizen.

Dizzy Dean Blanks Giants, 1-0; Cards Climb To Within Three Games Of Lead

Big Diz Gives Up Three Hits To Win No. 20

Cardinals Get Five Hits Off Hal Schumacher But Pepper Martin Comes Home With Winning Run

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Long, lean Dizzy Dean, sniffling from a head cold, snapped his long right arm at the Giants today as though it were a black snake whip driving them from the plate, shutting them out 1 to 0, to pull the Cardinals back within three games of the National League lead.

Big Diz allowed only three hits, one of them a scratchy bounder over his own head, as he became the first pitcher in the majors to win 20 games this season.

To win Dizzy had to best Hal Schumacher, Giants' right hand ace, in one of the tightest pitching duels of the year, the closest match so far in the five game series that now stands even at two victories each.

Score In 9th

Schumacher himself allowed but three hits up to the ninth inning when the Cards broke up the ball game. Pepper Martin, hitting and running again like the wild horse of several years ago, singled to right, stole second; his sixteenth theft of the season, reached third on Frankie Frisch's scratch single, and scored the lone run on Joe Medwick's long fly to center field.

It was the first victory of the season for Dizzy over the club he beat six times last year in seven tries. Diz fanned five and walked two, and for the last five innings he was getting faster and faster as he set the Giants down in order.

Dizzy came close to trouble only twice, in the first and fourth innings. He walked Dick Bartell with one gone in the first. After Bartell stole second Mel Ott advanced him to third with a scratch bounder over the pitcher's head, but Bill Terry had fanned and George Davis ended the inning flying out. In the fourth Ott walked and Al Cuccinello put him on second with a clean single to left but he got no farther. Joe Moore's double to right in the third was the only other hit off Dean.

Tech Coach School Ends 5th Successful Run And Coaches Pack For Home

Instructors And Students Praise School As Best In History; Plan To Return

". . . And I want to thank all of you for your generous attention during these classes. It has been a pleasure to be with you, and honor to stand before you. If the plays I have given you don't work this fall, come over to ese me and we'll thresh out the details.

"Good bye, now—and good luck."

With these words, sincerely expressed in perhaps more flowery language, Dana X. Bible, University of Nebraska coach, brought to a close yesterday the fifth annual Texas Tech coaching school.

Crisler, Moore Finish

With the same words, spoken earlier in the day, Fritz Crisler of Princeton, Bernie Moore of Louisiana State, Pete Perry of Hot Springs, Ark., and G. L. Hermance of Rice institute wound up their programs.

So this morning, local hotels, dormitories and boarding houses are practically devoid of instructors, coaches and players who have attended lectures and field demonstrations at Texas Tech for the past two weeks.

Bible was to leave this morning. Crisler and Perry drove to Amarillo in the afternoon, where Crisler caught a night plane for the east. Moore walked out of the lecture room with "my boys," giant Jack Torrance and slim Slats Hardin, and into an automobile the nose of which was pointed south. By automobile, bus and train the student coaches who remained for the final go-round departed for their respective homes in 29 states of the United States.

"The best school I ever attended . . . a real surprise . . . by far the most inclusive and comprehensive series of classes, and the best array of instructors ever gathered at one school."

This appeared to be the general feeling among student coaches as they took their departure.

Faculty Is Pleased

The instructors said: "Undoubtedly the largest school, and in my opinion the best. More quality coaches. More attention paid to the work. More serious attitudes. More note taking. It excels everything else in its line. There are other coaching schools, but not one to compare with this one. It is established, publicized—the coaching schools lead, and the one which all others try to copy."

Instructors and student coaches alike expressed gratitude and appreciation for the promotional work done by Texas Tech's coaches, Pete Cawthon and Dutchy Smith, whose school for the past five years has attracted approximately 1,200 mentors from practically every state in the union.

Death Of Rogers Removes One Of Sports World's Best Fans

Polo His Favorite, But Will Tells John McGraw Trouble With Baseball; Was Friend Of All Major Sports

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15. (AP)—The sports world mourned tonight the loss of one of its greatest friends.

For Will Rogers gave freely to it his much valued time, his sage, humorous words and his money. While polo was his own chief diversion he was an informal patron of almost every major branch of sports activity.

He was present at one of the last dinners John McGraw, famous New York Giants manager ever gave.

"Need More McGraws"

"John," he said to McGraw that night at a hotel here, "I'm always being asked what's the matter with baseball. All right, I'll tell you.

"There ain't enough fellows in the game like you and Bucky Harris here and Mike Donlin. Why I can remember when Mike here was playing if he couldn't hit what the pitcher throwed at him he'd go out and lick the pitcher. What baseball needs is fellows with more intestinal fortitude."

Austin Netter Advances To Finals In Wisconsin Joust

MRS. MOODY "OUT"

Britons Swing Into Lead For Wightman Cup

English Invaders Gain 2 To 1 Lead As Helen Jacobs Bows In First Match; Americans Win Doubles Match

(By The Associated Press)

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. Aug. 16.—Thanks to an uphill triumph for Katherine Stammers over the American champion, Helen Jacobs, Great Britain gained a 2-1 lead over the United States today in the competition for the Wightman Cup.

The 21-year-old English girl rallied courageously, after being on the verge of defeat several times in a bristling extra set, to achieve the downfall of Miss Jacobs, 5-7, 6-1, 9-7.

England's No. 1 player, Dorothy Round, defeated Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold of Los Angeles in the second singles encounter, 6-0, 6-3.

Helen And Sarah Win

The British had hopes of a sweep as they sent their Wimbledon championship combination, Miss Stammers and Freda James, into the final match but they were quickly swept off their feet by the American team of Miss Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Boston, national titleholders. In a duel dominated mainly by Mrs. Fabyan's sparkling volleys and effective service, the United States posted its first victory in defense of the cup by scores of 6-3, 6-2.

"Jones, Black, Hagen, and Mehlhorn all have a chance to tie you with 288," someone told Sarazen, as he sat on the cluhouse steps with a black cigar in one corner of his mouth.

A Tragic Loss

DEATH has removed from the headlines of America's newspapers and from public life two men whose activities have drawn more attention than many crowned heads have attained, Will Rogers and Wiley Post. As unexpected as could be, the plane in which Post was carrying his personal friend, Rogers, crashed near Point Barrow, Alaska.

Both men had endeared themselves in the hearts of millions of Americans, not only from their particular lines of activity, but because of the fact that publicity, fame, fortune and the things that go with these, had not spoiled them. They were the same old Wiley Post and Will Rogers that they were when they "barnstormed" in their youth.

Will Rogers was particularly endeared to this section. It was as a boy, running away from an Oklahoma military school around the turn of the century, that he came to this section. He got a job with the late L. A. Knight, who then owned a ranch up the Runningwater draw northwest of Hale county. Many an early day cowpuncher in this section will recall him. Ewing Halsell was with him. That friendship has been cemented through the years and Will always visited the Halsell ranches if near here.

On more than one occasion Will made a "hand" at the ranch. Several years ago the Mashed-O cowboys got the thrill of their lives when Will, mounted on a bucking horse, tried some of his famous cowboy stunts, only to be tossed off. But he could "take it" as they say now, so he mounted the animal time after time. Last year he, with his son, Jimmie, and a nephew, James Blake, roped on the last day of the roundup at the Mashed O.

He was one of the highest paid movie stars, but he worked like an ordinary "extra" and was friend even to the prop boys.

His pictures drew "the folks" into the theaters because he always played in "human" roles, ones which portrayed everyday life of the average American. And they were always clean and wholesome and contained a moral. He never allowed them to be otherwise.

Wiley Post did not forget his old friends. He came from the oil fields to aviation; he always could be reached by roughnecks, the tool pushers or the brass collars, it made little difference which. He was not a stunter with airplanes, in the accepted sense of the word, but sought to do things that would advance aviation.

Both men will be missed, not only for their contributions to the world in which they moved, but also for their worthwhile efforts to be men.

FACTS OR PROPAGANDA?

Addressing the 49th annual meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, John Stewart Bryan, of the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader, listed 53 governmental departments and bureaus at Washington that employ publicity agents.

"The department of agriculture," he said, "used to issue purely factual bulletins, but they are now propaganda bulletins, and they are aimed and intended to create a special state of mind. Wherein does it differ one bit whether it is done by Stalin or Mussolini or by Hitler or Von Goering as long as it is done?"

Mr. Bryan's question is one that everybody from the President down may well consider. If Mr. Bryan has made an assertion that is untrue, the department of agriculture could easily so prove. If he has made a statement that is true, and many believe it is true, the administration can not afford to permit the continuance of such a condition.

Publicity agents have never been known to give their employers the worst of it. In this case, however, since the employers are really the people themselves, the employers would be getting the worst of it if they are getting propaganda instead of the facts for which they pay.

Another funny thing is a bald old guy with a rooster-wattle neck complaining because his wife has got fat.

Industry was never one to be a dollar-a-day man in wartimes.

Somebody should propose a bonus for the taxpayer.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

"Behold, the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear Him, upon them that hope in His mercy;

To deliver their soul from death, and to keep them alive in famine.

Our soul waiteth for the Lord: He is our help and our shield.

For our heart shall rejoice in Him, because we have trusted in His holy name.

Let thy mercy, O Lord, be upon us, according as we hope in Thee. — Psalms XXXIII: 18-22

FOOLING THE SEAGULLS

Seagulls following ocean liners seldom must flap their wings, and can remain in the air for hours by merely spreading their wings and riding the air currents created by the speed of the liner. But with the new streamlined "Kalakala," plying across Puget Sound, it is different. The air currents close in around this vessel so rapidly and perfectly that if a gull wishes to pursue the ship, it must continually flap its wings or fall into the water.

FIRST JOURNALIST STUDENT

Homer Croy, well known author, was the first student in the first school of journalism in the world, but he never took up journalism. Mr. Croy says he slipped and became a novelist.

The first school of journalism was founded at the University of Missouri with Dean Walter Williams, who died recently, as the head of the department. Mr. Croy was its first student, 1908.

Relatives Are Left Behind To Mourn Post And Rogers

MRS. WILL ROGERS

MISS MARY ROGERS

MRS. WILEY POST

Remarkable Honor Roll Is Compiled By Red Cross—Good Deeds Of Rogers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—The national Red Cross today was compiling a remarkable honor roll—the good deeds of Will Rogers.

It ran like this:

September, 1926—Worked with Charles Evans Hughes, now chief justice, in a Florida hurricane benefit aboard the Leviathian, raising $40,000 in a single performance.

Raised Over $100,000

Mississippi flood, 1927—By benefit personal appearances, raised more than $100,000 for flood sufferers.

McAlester, Okla., mine explosion, 1919, 61 men killed—Made large personal donation and raised generous fund for families of victims.

January, 1921—Helped Red Cross organize nationwide drouth relief broadcast including President Hoover, President Coolidge and Al Smith.

Made Plane Tour

Drouth relief campaign of 1930-31—In airplane with Frank Hawks speed flier, toured midwest and far west making several cities daily, with speeches which greatly accelerated chapter giving.

Nicaraguan earthquake, 1931—Flew to Nicaragua, gave $5,000 and cheer there, came back and raised a large Nicaraguan fund.

1933-34—Donated $20,000 for continuing Red Cross public health nursing in places where it was to be cut off due to depression. Only two months ago the Red Cross sent Rogers a pictorial report of the good done with this money.

May 1933—Rogers wired the Red Cross his intention of 'litterin' up the mike with a little 'Oklahoma grammar' to "make contribution to a couple of good causes," unemployment relief work of the Red Cross and Salvation Army.

Sorrow Is Expressed

Today James L. Fieser, speaking for Admiral Cary T. Grayson, vacationing in Maine, and the entire Red Cross organization said: "Literally thousands of Red Cross chapter people will personally miss Will Rogers, not alone for his numerous financial gifts in the furtherance of better health and happier living and in disaster relief, but on account of his personal donations to him as he often unexpectedly arrived at the point where the need was greatest.

"They will never forget his generosity and personal effort in the days of the Mississippi flood and the great drouth. He was always an active supporter and friend of the Red Cross."

Deep Regard Of The Red Cross Attested In Note

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. (AP)—The deep regard of the Red Cross for Will Rogers was attested in a 1933 telegram to him, made public today.

It read:

"When I pass from the Red Cross and knock at St. Peter's gate, he will ask, 'who comes here?'

"I will answer, 'John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross.'

"He will ask, 'By what right do you expect to enter?'

"I will answer, 'I knew Will Rogers.'

"He will say, 'That is sufficient. Come right in'."

Mr. Payne died last January.

Rebel Actress Has New Post

Myrna Loy Is Signed Up For "Soak The Rich" By Charles McArthur And Ben Hecht In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (AP)—The writing-producing team of Ben Hecht and Charles McArthur and the rebel actress Myrna Loy were together today in a contract bound for a film to be called "Soak The Rich."

The writing boys, themselves Hollywood rebels, signed the pert redhead last night in her midtown apartment.

Abrogates Contract

Miss Loy announced day before yesterday that she had decided to abrogate her contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, accusing the company of not living up to a promise to raise her salary periodically.

"As far as I'm concerned, my connection with that organization is finished," she said while the ink dried on her new agreement. She said she was sorry the break had stirred up such a row.

Hecht and McArthur will produce "Soak The Rich" at the Paramount Long Island studios, in Astoria. They have not yet signed any other members of the cast, but they indicated they would like to have Burgess Meredith and Frank Morgan for roles.

Given Up As Hopeless

Miss Loy's new bosses went to Hollywood in 1933. After a year they gave the Hollywood producers up as hopeless and came back east to write and make their own pictures.

They made "Crime Without Passion." The critics liked it, but it didn't bring money into the box office. Then they got Noel Coward (the Hollywood producers had been trying to get him for years) and made a box office hit, "The Scoundrel."

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON'S political interest has suddenly shifted to the Middle West. Scouts for both the major parties have just canvassed it because recent developments seem to make it the 1936 battleground.

The Northeast has shown some hostility toward the New Deal, from the Canadian border to the Potomac River. New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania shy away from the extreme reform program. Many GOP politicians regard these states, including the President's own, as in their bag. But they will need the Middle West and a few Far Western states for an electoral margin.

Non-partisan reports on the Middle West run as follows: Ohio, Republican; Indiana, 50-50; Illinois, probably Democratic because of the corn-hog program; Michigan, Republican; Missouri, probably Democratic. California, as in 1916, may tell the story. It is now listed as GOP-ish.

SCARCE: The enthusiasm with which professors, lawyers and industrialists once accepted New Deal posts appears to have vanished. President Roosevelt is finding it almost impossible to obtain able members of the National Labor Relations board and the Social Security commission.

Some difficulty has resulted from Secretary Perkins' insistence upon having her say, although neither agency was placed under her department. The President then asked Senator Wagner, author of both measures, to suggest names and even he is stumped. He wanted Lloyd Garrison, former head of the NRA Labor Board, for the same position under the new setup, but Mr. Garrison prefers to stick to his job as Wisconsin law dean.

The New Dealers realize the need for a first-class personnel to start off both experiments. Otherwise they fear that these attempts to reorganize the social and industrial systems may bog down. Even the president's closest friends concede that his greatest need right now is able executives.

GRUMBLERS: Repeal was supposed to take liquor out of politics but you can't prove it by Secretary Morgenthau. Although his agents are enforcing tax laws gently and tolerantly they have brought a storm of political protests about his mild head.

The penalties for failure to purchase tax stamps, for instance, range from a $1,000 fine to two years in jail. The punishment for other evasions is even stiffer. But when Mr. Morgenthau's men feel that there has been no willful attempt to violate these laws they compromise for $10 or $20.

The victims, hwoever, regard these payments as "shakedowns." In some states Democratic politicians have promised that dealers would not have to pay federal taxes and the liquor retailers conclude that they are being "double-crossed." In California alone there are 34,000 such dealers and they can't understand why they have to "pony up." Democratic politicians say that these misunderstandings will cost them millions of votes.

REPROOF: "Steve" Early has written a formal protest to his beloved boss—FDR. It is perhaps the first time that a presidential secretary dared to put his protest against a President's misbehavior in writing.

A week or so ago the president slipped away from the White House picnic-bent. At the time Mr. Early was dining with White House correspondents, and the lunch dragged from 1 until 3 o'clock. There had been no intimation that Mr. Early—or the correspondents—would be bothered by presidential business that afternoon. But when they returned to their posts they discovered that the President had left his office for the day. And it is the duty of secretaries and correspondents to shadow the President wherever he goes.

Mr. Early carefully explained that the correspondents had leaned backward to give the President the utmost freedom from journalistic surveillance. But he pointed out that they would trail him everywhere if he didn't play fair. Mr. Roosevelt smiled and promised to be good.

NEW YORK

THE money future of Italy is no longer a secret. International bankers say that inflation in that country is certain. This is verified by the recent increase of the Bank of Italy's discount rate. The serious strain on its financial structure is due to huge expenditures for military purposes.

But Italy itself is not downhearted—not by a long shot. Informed quarters say the going is grand for Il Duce. He has sold the Italians a bill of goods and they are more than pleased. Even pacifists are with him.

WORK: Premier Mussolini remained as long as he did because he kept the people working. He converted swamps into industrial and home centers. He built roads and what not. It took more than ten years to get it done. Now that almost everything has been completed there seems nothing else to do. Unemployment rolls grew large. He had to get them active and working. Ethiopia was the solution—so informed sources say.

"There is a promised land"—is the belief of all the nation. "There one will find work and plenty." Italy's bankers and industrialists agree. Vast fields must be rebuilt and modernized. For this workmen—unemployed for a long time—are signing long term contracts to work in Eritrea and Somaliland. Laborers—skilled and unskilled—are flocking to get work in the new government projects already laid out for Ethiopia. This accounts for Italy's sharp decline in unemployment figures. Not work in Italy but work in Africa. "But what matter where as long as it is work?" said an Italian banker who recently arrived from across the seas.

COMPARE: Statisticians are working on semi-annual comparisons of business improvement. When completed these charts will show an excellent picture—so far they do—of what took place during the first six months of this year. The most interesting thus far is furnished by the industrial and rail figures.

Figures already compiled on some 250 manufacturing corporations show an improvement of 6.5 per cent over the same period of last year. Railroad figures show a decline in income net of almost 7 per cent for twenty of the largest systems as compared with 1934. This accounts for recent activity of industrial shares while carrier issues remain in the background.

SIDELIGHTS: Summer resorts and hotels report the best volume of business being done since 1929—Many are reducing accumlated tax obligations—Hog production in the United States is estimated at 50,000,000—which is less than ordinary consumption in this country—Farmers' income this year is estimated at $7,500,000,000—Housewife strike against higher food costs is spreading across the country—May prevent President Roosevelt from pulling another dollar devaluation stunt as it is too close to election—Coordinator Eastman is in favor of lower passenger train fare rates—He says it will stimulate train travel—4,678,470 individuals own the shares of 100 leading corporations of this country—United States Rubber Company paid $4,634,000 in taxes for the first six months of this year while net profit for itself was only $658,580—And some people say taxes aren't high enough.

TARZAN AND THE LION MAN, No. 108

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

From their hiding place Tarzan and Rhonda watched the commotion their disappearance from the dungeon was causing. "Where is the girl?" The Maker demanded. "She is gone, my lord; and the man too," the under priest replied. "Gone! Were the doors unlocked?"

"No, my lord, both were locked," the old gorilla answered fearfully. The man-monster went suddenly silent, as if in deep thought. Tarzan grew restless under his forced inaction. Alone he might have faced his enemies and depended on his strength and agility to win his freedom.

Uppermost in his mind, however, was Rhonda. He could not hope to save both himself and her in the face of their ignorance of a way out of the castle. Besides, he was sure The Maker could summon great numbers of his brutal creatures. Tarzan could not conquer them all.

Suddenly the monster turned to his companions and spoke in low tones as a sly smile spread over his repulsive face. The animal sensibility of the hunted beast warned the ape-man of impending danger; but he knew not whence it would come, nor in what horrible form!

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (AP)—Merchandising shares, rail and specialities started a rally in the stock market today which the utilities carried to a vigorous conclusion.

The general level of share prices, as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, equalled the best level of the year at 48.9, up .5 of a point. Volume increased to 1,722,000 shares.

The 15 utility stocks in the average, impelled by a final hour buying wave, made a new 1935 peak at 38.9, up 1.1 points. Rails were up the better part of a point on the average, but industrials merely edged ahead.

Bonds gave a mild imitation of equities. Advances were generally small. Utilities and rails were best, with most industrials about level. U. S. governments were nearly steady.

The dollar rallied sharply against leading European currencies in the foreign exchange market. Silver prices were unchanged in London and New York.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 16. (AP)—A nervous cotton market tried to cope with conflicting statements from official Washington on the government's loan policy today and wide price swings followed each prediction and its subsequent denial. Active months managed to hold half of the early gains and closed from 11 to 26 points higher.

The trade was frankly bewildered today by the vacillation, predictions and prognostications it was forced to absorb.

Business increased in volume and it was one of the most active sessions in some time. Oct. sold as high as 11.56 at one period and Dec. was up to 11.43, but in the drop which followed the latest loan prediction, Oct. sagged to finish at 11.38, while Dec. ended at 11.20, Jan. at 11.17 and March at 11.13. Spots gained 50 cents a bale, middling selling at 11.65, New Orleans.

Reports received here indicated that heavy pressure is being exerted against the administration for an immediate loan announcement, but according to well informed sources those in charge of the government's crop program do not favor an announcement at this time.

Port receipts 15,684; week 61,948; season 135,817; last season 116,986. Exports 10,386; week 46,293; season 103,401; last season 141,090. Port stocks 1,076,823. Stocks on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston were 20,495; last year 36,400. Spot sales at southern markets were 8,264; last year 11,133.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. (AP)—Reiterated predictions of an early loan announcement were followed by sharp advances from an early decline in cotton today. After selling up from 11.05@11.48 for December contracts, however, the market reacted and closed barely steady at net advances of 5 to 23 points.

The advance encountered considerable realizing and traders seemed inclined to even up accounts pending an official loan statement. Closing quotations showed reactions of 20 to 26 points from the best. Exports today 9,844, making 106,748 so far this season. Port receipts 15,193. U. S. port stocks 1,076,898.

Mr. Creekmore pointed out that the cooperative loan would be based on market values, and if after granting a 10-cent loan to the grower the market broke below this figure, the farmer would have to margin his holdings or be sold out.

SEAMAN HANGS SELF

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 16. (AP)—Gabriel A. Larsen, 45, a seaman, hanged himself from a tree in a park bordering the main street of Port Arthur today. He used a suitcase strap. A suicide verdict was returned.

Wheat closed firm, 5-8 to 1 cent higher than yesterday's finish, Dec. 90 3-8@90 1-2, corn 1-2 off to 1-4 up, Dec. 57 1-8@57 1-4, oats unchanged to 1-2 lower, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to 50 cents advance.

'Cowboy Will'

talked Rogers was remade — this time far greater than when he topped the shows on Broadway.

He moved steadily forward and at his death was regarded as the No. 1 attraction in films. His pictures were shown round the world in a dozen languages, although titles had to be superimposed in some countries where his quaint Americanisms could not be readily understood. He spoke a language all his own.

The comedian amassed a great fortune in the several fields of entertainment in which he had shown, gave a great deal of money away to charitable causes of every description and still was generally regarded as a millionaire. He was perhaps the largest land owner in the motion picture colony.

Active In Other Lines

Although a prolific producer of wit for the screen he was active too, between pictures, giving what he called "lectures" all over the country, writing for the newspapers and acting as toastmaster at functions devoted to a wide range of causes.

He lived in a rambling ranch near the Pacific ocean, between Beverly Hills and Santa Monica. He was not a party goer. When he appeared at a Hollywood celebration it was an event. No affair could coax him into formal evening dress. He made "the old blue serge" double as a dinner jacket.

Experts said the secret of Rogers' success was that he lived close to the pople, on and off the screen. He fitted in any gathering.

No One Too Big

No one was too big for Rogers to "kid," but there never was a lasting sting in his "wisecracks."

News of the actor's passing left every quarter of his adopted home dazed.

Soon after the news reached Los Angeles, flags on all buildings were lowered to half staff.

Will Rogers, jr., Stanford university student, only member of the immediate family at home, had to bear his grief alone. Mrs. Rogers, who was Betty Blake of Arkansas, before she married Rogers 27 years ago, was on a visit to their daughter, Mary, actress, in Maine. Jimmy Rogers, the other son, just finished preparatory school, was with his mother.

Rogers couldn't be bothered with grammar—on the stage, screen or in private life. He spoke by ear, rather than rule, but he never was misunderstood. He was constantly denying that his quaint speech was part of his "act," and that as a matter of fact he had attended two or more colleges.

Rogers was referred to as an ambassador at large from the United States to the world.

When mentioned as a possible candidate for president and for governor either of Oklahoma or California, he again said "shucks," adding: "Listen, when a comedian is taken 'serious' he's through. Forget it."

Wiley Post

Post set out to learn all he could about flying. He flew from sunup to sundown on many of his barnstorming days, carrying passengers off improvised landing fields in the southwestern pastures.

Eloped In 1927

In June, 1927, Wiley eloped—in an airplane—with May Laine, the pretty 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Laine of Sweetwater, Texas. They had grown up together near Grand Saline.

Post went to the Pacific coast and became chief test pilot at the Lockheed factory in Burbank, Calif.

By this time he had achieved something of a reputation as a flier. The fact that he had learned flying after losing an eye had contributed greatly. His friends said he was a "natural flier," who piloted with a sense of feel, frequently making cross country hops without looking at compass or map. For his larger exploits, however, he used both to full advantage.

Wins Derby In 1929

In 1929 he entered the Los Angeles-Chicago non-stop air derby and got lost—but won it, roaring ahead of a fast field in 9 hours, 9 minutes and 4 seconds.

While the big bee of a round-the-world flight was buzzing strongest for Post, in 1929 he met Harold Gatty, the Australia-born navigator.

After meticulous preparation Post and Gatty streaked out from Harbor Grace, on June 23, 1931, and circled a cheering world to land in New York just 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes after leaving it.

The urge to "keep on the move" led him to prepare for his now familiar solo flight around the world. In July, 1933, he stood by his Winnie Mae for two weeks at Floyd Bennett field, New York, waiting for a propitious time. At 3:10 a. m., July 15, he strode into the field, Mrs. Post at his side.

"I'm going pretty quick now," he said.

"Do be careful."

"Okeh," Post smiled, and soon he was off to Berlin, Novosibirsk, on through Fairbanks, Alaska, and back to New York in exactly 7 days, 18 hours, 49 1-2 minutes.

Next, the stratospheric flights this year. Four times he took off from fields in California, bent on reaching New York through extremely high altitudes in record time. Four times, he failed to reach his goal, but he was satisfied with what he learned of the stratosphere.

Four other times Post donned his strange rubber suit and helmet and zoomed up from Bartlesville, Dayton, Ohio, and Chicago for new altitude records, but again fate decreed against complete success.

He put the "Winnie Mae" away and said he was through with experimental flying, but he added that that didn't mean he was quitting the stratosphere.

He had done many things, but he had never hunted tigers, so he proposed to go to Siberia and see what shooting them was like. He said he would be in no hurry, just take things easy. And a crash from the mere height of 50 feet brought death to the flier who had conquered the top heights and greatest distances.

near where his parents live.

It was the first extended flight for Post's new red, low-winged monoplane, aside from a southwestern hunting trip on which Rogers accompanied him. Mrs. Post went along too.

Post shelved his famed world-girdling "Winnie Mae," in which he twice circled the globe, after failing in four attempts to span the continent in the substratosphere.

He confessed he used the "Winnie Mae" on the substratosphere flights "for pure sentiment."

The craft now sits in a hangar at Bartlesville, Okla.

Despite his failure, Post went to his death convinced that aviation's future lies in the substratosphere—at altitudes ranging about 32,500 feet.

First Seen In 1931

Alaska first saw Post in the summer of 1931 when he and Harold Gatty made their record-breaking (at that time) flight around the world, and crossed Alaska. They made the flight from New York to New York in eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes.

Two years later, however, Post, flying solo, bettered the time by nearly a day, and Alaska again saw him as he streaked across the territory, although he had a minor crash at Flat. His time around the world was seven days, 18 hours, 49 1-2 minutes.

Return Trip Planned By Pilot Last Night

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 16. (AP) — Pilot Joe Crosson arrived here tonight to transport the bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post by plane to Fairbanks en route to the United States. Crosson planned to leave on his return trip to Fairbanks some time tonight.

Noted Humorist First Paid Visit 30 Years Ago

It was more than 30 years ago when Will Rogers first visited the South Plains and he returned numerous times thereafter. His first knowledge of the area was gained from working as a cowboy on the old L. A. Knight ranch in Runningwater draw.

Wiley Post, too, had been in Lubbock. Late in the afternoon of Feb. 24, 1932, the famed flier neatly set down a trim flying ship at municipal airport. He and two friends passed the night here.

"I fly for fun," the flier told a reporter.

For many years Mr. Rogers and L. Ewing Halsell, Vinita, Okla., and Amherst rancher, have been friends and nearly every time the former has been in this section, he has visited the Mashed O ranch headquarters.

Mrs. B. C. Dickinson is a niece, her mother and Mrs. Rogers being sisters.

Will Visited Here

Will Rogers had visited Lubbock on several occasions since he became famous as a humorist and entertainer. He gave a concert here on one occasion. He has visited his niece, with Mrs. Rogers, in her home here and on another occasion stopped briefly.

Last year Jim Rogers, a son, and Jim Blake, son of Mrs. Rogers' only brother, spent two weeks at the Mashed O headquarters, working as cowboys. Will visited them by plane, spending a whole day there and roping calves on the last day of the branding, with his son and his nephew.

Here This Summer

This summer the two boys spent five weeks at the headquarters, working on the ranch. They visited several towns, Muleshoe, Littlefield, Amherst, Sudan, Olton and Lubbock, among others. Both were shy of publicity.

The past spring Mr. Rogers visited Mrs. L. A. Knight, widow of his former boss, at her home in Plainview. It was his last visit to this section, as far as is known.

Wife Begged Rogers Not To Make Trip

BURBANK, Calif., Aug. 16. (AP)—"Don't go, Will. Please don't go!"

This was the plea of Mrs. Will Rogers when she and their son, Will, jr., were at the union air terminal to see him off as he took an airliner to meet Wiley Post in Seattle, terminal attendants recalled today.

They said she pointed to the dangers of flying over icy wastes in Alaska and Siberia and begged him not to make the trip.

"I Wish To God I Had Been With Him," Cries Wife

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 16. (AP)—Attractive Mrs. Wiley Post, dazed with grief, stepped from an airplane which had hurried her here from Ponca City today and said, "I'm going to Wiley's folks—that's all I know."

Immediately she entered an automobile with Gordon Post, the flier's brother, and started to the Maysville farm home of Post's parents.

Arrangements Delayed

L. E. Gray, at whose Ponca City home Post's wife received the news of his death, said it was probable she would fly to Seattle to meet the body. Funeral arrangements were delayed until she could talk with the parents.

The world flier's wife had not heard details of the fatal Alaskan crash when she arrived here. She knew only that her husband was dead.

Mrs. Post, who arrived at Ponca City Monday after leaving Post and Will Rogers in Alaska, cried when informed of her husband's death:

"I wish to God I had been with him when he crashed."

Home Town Of Claremore Is Deep In Sorrow Over Loss Of First Citizen

CLAREMORE, Okla., Aug. 16. (AP)—Will Rogers' home town, the Claremore that he alternately teased and praised—but always loved—grieved tonight for its first citizen.

Soon after the word of the humorist's death was received flags were lowered to half mast.

No Business In City

"It can't be true. Nothing worse could have happened," said his old friends who gathered in hushed groups to talk of Claremore's most famous and most beloved citizen.

There was no business in Claremore today.

Despite his absence of years Will Rogers was still a Claremoreite at heart. He maintained a residence here and the town's leading hotel is named after him. The airport bears his name.

Gave Money For Library

He sold the government the land for a new postoffice and turned over the money, $4,000, to the town for a new library.

M. R. Harrison, manager, recalled naming the hotel for Rogers.

"He told us it would have better drawing power if we named it Bill Murray or Clark Gable," said Harrison.

"Seriously, though, he told us it pleased him more to see his name in electric lights on an institution of service in his home town than to see that name in lights on Broadway."

Whole State Mourns

Rogers had no financial interest in the hotel.

But not only Claremore knew and loved Will Rogers. The whole state mourned.

"The state will want to give them (Rogers and Post) a memorial," said Governor E. W. Marland at Oklahoma City, "but the state can't add anything to the honors already heaped upon them by the sovereigns and peoples of the world."

Just A Home Town Boy And A Friend To Everybody—That Was Wiley Post

MAYSVILLE, Okla., Aug. 16. (AP)—Wiley Post's home town, where he was "always a home town boy and a friend of everybody," was incoherent today with grief over the noted flier's death.

Friends were dispatched to bear the news to his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Post who live on a little farm two and a half miles out of this little town in the northern part of Garvin county. There is no telephone at the modest residence.

Too Early To Tell

"It is just too early to tell about things," said William E. Showen, publisher of the Maysville News and one of Wiley's first backers in his aerial career. "I don't know whether burial will be here but certainly there will be memorial services for the most famous of Maysville's sons."

Word of the death of Post and his friend Will Rogers spread rapidly through the town. People gathered in little groups to talk of it, their faces mournful, their voices hushed.

"It is just too early, we don't know what we'll do," Showen continued. "This is the thing that Maysville has always been hoping against.

Was Big Hero

"You know, I was very close to Wiley but for that matter, so was everyone else in town. He was our big hero. We liked him more because he was such a regular 'home town' boy. The more famous he got, the friendlier he was. There was nothing 'biggety' about our Wiley.

"He came here with his folks along about 1921 when they bought their farm. He was always tinkering with something and it wasn't long before he had the flying bug badly. I don't know just how he got his early training but I do know that I sort of 'passed that hat' and raised $60 to back Wiley in his first parachute jump here, along about 1922."

Tax Rate For County Lower

Schedule For 1935-36 Set At 50 Cents By Commissioners In Session; Valuation Set At $21,986,402

The lowest tax rate for Lubbock county since 1902 was established when county commissioners Friday morning defined the rate for 1935-36 as 50 cents, on an estimated valuation of $21,986,402.

The one cent reduction from last year's rate was made by cutting the court house and jail fund from .025 to .015 the $100 valuation. Following is the complete schedule:

General fund, .225; jury fund, .085; court house and jail fund, .015; park maintenance, .02; library, .025; new court house sinking fund, .0125; permanent improvements sinking fund, .05; park sinking fund, .02; road and building sinking fund, .0025; road bond sinking fund, .045.

Resources Are Lowered

Total resources for the year were estimated at $231,326.11 against expenditures estimated at $243,564.06.

Excess of expenditures over resources would be balanced by cash assets on hand as of Jan. 1, 1936, which were not included in the resources tabulation, the commissioners explained.

Resources and expenditures were divided in recapitulation of the budget as follows:

Jury fund, resources, $25,069.64, expenditures, $21,663; road and bridge fund, $93,097.96, $106,906; general sinking and library fund, $73,309.53, expenditures the same; permanent improvements fund, $4,047.65, $6,528; county interest and sinking fund, $32,066.63, $31,322.83; park funds, $3,734, $3,834.70.

General Rate Boosted

General county rate of 45 1-4 cents was boosted to 50 cents by a levy of 4 3-4 cents to take care of road bond and warrants indebtedness, Judge E. L. Pitts said. The state takes care of the other part of the indebtedness.

Total indebtedness of the county, as shown by the commissioners' report, is $791,200. There has been a yearly decline from a peak reached in 1930 when $600,000 road bonds were issued.

Public hearing on the budget, beginning at 9 o'clock, was not attended by a single citizen to protest or offer suggestions. The commissioners adjourned shortly before noon after setting the tax rate.

Suggestions For Basis Of Selection Of Members Made

Suggestions for basis of selection of members to a Lubbock county planning board were given by city officials of Lubbock, Slaton and Ransom who met with commissioners court and WPA members Friday afternoon. A planning board would coordinate work projects under federal and local agencies.

Selection of board members will be discussed at a meeting of the commissioners court Aug. 26, Judge E. L. Pitts said. Method of determining representation as presented at the meeting included those of precinct divisions, population centers, and school districts.

Talks were made by J. O. Jones, administrator, and Dr. I. E. Barr, assistant, of WPA district offices. Judge E. L. Pitts presided.

County Organization Passes And Relief Is In Districts

Midnight Thursday marked the passing of relief administered under county organization and the beginning of district control, said W. E. Inmon, district 17-B administrator.

Secondary case works staff and a commodity distributor for each county are to carry on relief administration in the counties, although all accounts, auditing and bills will be handled through the district set-up here, said Mr. Inmon.

County boards of five members in each of the seven counties including Lubbock have agreed to continue cooperating and advising in the administration of relief, however, according to Mr. Inmon.

Approval of staffs now working in district offices has not been received from the Texas Relief commission at Austin, although it is expected soon, Mr. Inmon stated.
