MURDER TRIAL INTERESTING TO

Comely Key-Hole Peeper

The S. R. O. sign was out at the little courtroom in South Paris, Me., where, under tensely dramatic circumstances, Francis M. Carroll is being tried for the killing of Dr. James G. Littlefield. The photo above shows one would-be spectator, who arrived late, reduced to peeping through the keyhole.

BANK WILL HELP BOYS BUY BEEF SHOW STOCK

Members of the Pampa chapter of the Future Farmers of America decided at a meeting held Saturday afternoon at the Pampa high school building to hold a baby beef show in Pampa next spring.

Arrangements have been made with the local bank to obtain money to purchase the calves, that are to be fattened by club members, Supt. L. L. Sone said. There are 30 boys who have made application to join in the project.

First lot of the calves will be secured this week from Harold Osborne of Miami. There will be 10 in the lot.

Attending the meeting held yesterday at the high school were 15 FFA members, the fathers of a dozen FFA boys, Supt. L. L. Sone, and J. L. Lester, head of the vocational agriculture department of Pampa high school. The department is sponsoring the show to be held here next spring.

Allred, Tingley to Stage Horse Race

AMARILLO, Aug. 13 (AP)—The Will Rogers highway celebration here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will bring together the two self-styled best horsemen in the west—Gov. Allred of Texas and Gov. Tingley of New Mexico.

The two governors will try to settle a dispute of long standing by staging a cowpony race Monday.

Gov. Tingley issued another challenge in this telegram to the committee arranging the celebration:

"Authorize you to challenge W. Lee O'Daniel to horse race Monday afternoon but must not use Hillbilly band in race."

The Texas governor-elect had not indicated whether he would demonstrate his ability as a horseman.

Senator Criticizes Newspapers Of U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP)—Sen. Sherman Minton, Indiana Democrat told a luncheon of newspapermen and women today that American newspapers "are big business and they give the people today what they want the people to think tomorrow."

The newspapers, he said, are controlled "by wealth and selfish forces," by the money of men who, in his opinion, "would not scruple to throw this country into Fascism rather than surrender their privileges."

I HEARD - - -

W. A. Bratton solemnly remarking that if King softball players could play ball like they eat chicken they would be state champions That was after he had seen them devour about 30 chickens Friday night out at Manager E. M. Dean's house. "Why everyone of them could be a pitcher the way they throw those chicken bones around," declared W. A.

Tobacco-Spitting Contest Planned For Legion Picnic

Who can spit tobacco farther than anyone else?

That will be only one of the contests held when the second annual community picnic is given Sept. 5 at Lake McClellan. Site of the annual picnic was announced yesterday by Charlie Maisel, general chairman of the affair, which is sponsored by the American Legion.

In addition to the tobacco spitting tourney there will be a husband calling contest, hog calling contest, horseshoe pitching and all sorts of foot races, including a race for fat and lean men and for slender and 'plump' women. An exhibition of fireworks will be given Labor day night.

Last year, 12,000 persons attended the initial community picnic, held Sept. 6 Labor day, on the Saunders ranch, three miles east of LeFors, Mr. Maisel said.

All civic organizations will be asked to assist in plans for the second annual community picnic the general chairman announced Saturday.

MORE SPEED IN COURTS WANTED BY O'DANIEL

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13 (AP)—More speed in the handling of cases in the civil courts of Texas will be sought during W. Lee O'Daniel's administration as governor, he said before leaving for Waco today.

"Something seems to be wrong with the state's judiciary system," he said as he announced plans to make a study of the situation before he takes office in January.

"It takes far too long, as a rule, to get a lawsuit tried after it is filed," he said. "Then there are endless delays in getting it through the appellate courts."

O'Daniel has received reports of cases which were pending for three years before they were adjudicated.

"It looks to me like the courts should be able to handle their affairs in a more efficient, business-like manner," he said. "Why shouldn't legal business be handled with the same dispatch that any other business is?"

Speeding up the process, he believes, will result in savings in the cost of court operations, as well as to all litigants.

Carroll Sentenced To Life In Prison

THOMASTON, Me., Aug. 13. (AP)—A prison cell's barred door clanged shut today on Maine's prisoner No. 6907—Francis M. Carroll, 43, sentenced to pass the rest of his "natural life" in the satte penitentiary here for the murder of Dr. James G. Littlefield, 67.

In the same cell-block was Paul B. Dwyer, 19, also under life sentence for murder—the same strangulation for which Carroll, a one-time law officer, was convicted at his native South Paris last night.

Germany's Maneuvers Cause Great Powers To Keep Close Watch

BATTLE WILL BEGIN TODAY

By OLEN W. CLEMENTS

CAMP BULLIS, Aug. 13 (AP)—Cavalry troops prepared to ride tonight as zero hour approached in the third army maneuvers.

Army horsemen, shunted to the background by motorized units since that day the Roosevelt Rough Riders galloped up San Juan Hill came into their own tonight in this rough and tumble county where "brown" and "blue" armies prepared to lock horns in the first skirmishes of a four day battle with the rich Southwest as a prize.

The brown invaders, numbering 14,000 regular army and national guard troops, concentrated around Elmendorf for their first move against the defending "blue" army bivouaced near Boerne 50 miles northward.

Apprehensive San Antonioans, who feared even though this is a play war, the attacking army might come marching through their streets after midnight, were assured their slumber would not be disturbed by thousands of marching feet and rumbling cannons. San Antonio, as far as both armies are concerned, is a lake and will be skirted, Major General Frank Rowell, commander of the "brown" attacking army, said.

Major Claude V. Birkhead, whose "blue" defense army is composed largely of Texas national guardsmen, spread his men in the stubcak and hill country and pointed his cavalry toward the "brown" forces ready to begin their movements when General Lesley J. McNair, chief umpire, blows his whistle and sends the two armies into combat.

Only Umps Know

For the 26,000 Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and Oklahoma militiamen and regular army soldiers engaged in the third army maneuvers, the battle will be largely a flag-waving nose thumbing affair. They will run in zig-zag lines and stop when an umpire tells them they have been killed, wounded or stymied by an opposing force. Sometimes the umpire will tell them they are outnumbered and must retreat and sometimes he will tell them they have won a skirmish even though they have not actually spilled blood. Both armies will become chess board figures with regular army and militia officers using them as pawns.

After the four days of fighting, a military critique between the 250 umpires scattered over the 273 square mile area will be held and then the militiamen and regular doughboys will learn who won the war.

By J. C. STARK.

LONDON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Germany's preparations for nationwode military maneuvers have put other European powers on an unusually vigilant lookout to prevent anything which might lead to a swift Nazi stroke against Czechoslovakia.

Reassuring reports, however, reached European capitals from envoys in and around Germany. Moreover, Germany, in a Berlin press release today, sought to allay suspicion over the military exercises which are expected to reach their peak between Sept. 9 and 14.

The press release, made available to all German newspapers by DNB, German official news agency, accused "interested foreign circles" of attemping "to stir up uneasiness in the European general public."

Nevertheless, the high government and military officials of other nations kept their staffs in a state of preparedness.

Their chief fear was that some incident might topple the delicately balanced peace structure of Europe. Closely linked with the fear was the fact that Germany's economic life as well as military was on a wartime basis.

All quarters recognized that Europe faced a crucial period in the next few weeks of summer with peace possibly hinging upon Viscount Runciman's efforts to work out a solution of the Czechoslovak-German minority quarrel.

The viscount is Britain's unofficial mediator in the long-standing friction between the Praha government and the 3,500,000 Sudeten German minority—a minority among Europe's Germanic people whom Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler has vowed to "protect from suffering."

The German maneuvers served as an ominous reminder of what form that "protectorate" might take if Viscount Runciman fails.

Although government quarters in both London and Paris sought to allay fear it was apparent that some of the optimism voiced by Chamberlain before parliament went into its summer recess had disappeared.

Germany has continued press and radio campaign against Czechoslovakia.

Marines Seize 3 Japs In Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Aug. 13 (AP)—The chief of the Japanese army political service in Shanghai insisted tonight that three Japanese seized as trouble makers in a clash with United States marines were without military status.

However, two of the men admitted they were army personnel.

Col. Hitoshi Hamada said the men were "merely army employes" but he added there would be an investigation and possible punishment.

Here, smiling and looking very healthy after his sea vacation, is the President at Warm Springs, where he dined with youthful infantile paralysis sufferers on his way back to Washington.

Will Rogers' Horse to Be in Monday Parade

AMARILLO, Aug. 13 (AP)—Tribute to the memory of Will Rogers will be paid Monday at Barrow, Alaska, where the cowboy-humorist was killed in a plane crash three years ago, and at Amarillo, where his widow will join in ceremonies dedicating the Will Rogers Highway.

A memorial monument to Rogers and Wiley Post, globe-circling flier who died with Rogers when their plane fell near Barrow, will be dedicated Monday.

At the same time, motorcades from Los Angeles to Chicago will converge in Amarillo for the dedication of U. S. Highway 66 as the Will Rogers Highway.

With Mrs. Rogers will come Irvin S. Cobb, author who was a close friend of Will Rogers, Leo Carrillo film actor; Donald Novis, singer and Monte Blue, film and radio entertainer.

Will Rogers' favorite horse "Soapsuds," will be in a big parade Monday morning. It will be the first time the horse had appeared in public since his master's death. Carrillo will be honorary marshal of the parade.

The Will Rogers Memorial Service, prelude to the celebration, will begin at 9:30 p. m. tomorrow night.

The feature of the three-day celebration will be the presentation of a stage spectacle, "Old Southwest Days," Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The spectacle will depict the history of the plains, including the period in which Will Rogers punched cattle in Amarillo about 40 years ago.

The Will Rogers Highway extends from Chicago across Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, the Texas Panhandle, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

GULF COAST RECEIVES HURRICANE WARNINGS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13 (AP)—The United States weather bureau here today advised ships in the path of a tropical disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico to use caution and warned small craft from Pensacola, Fla., to Brownsville, Texas, not to venture far into the gulf until further notice.

The 2 p. m. (CST) advisory described the storm as a tropical storm of small diameter with winds of probably hurricane force (75 miles an hour) over very small area, central at 12 noon about 175 miles north or north-northwest of Progresso, Yucatan.

The advisory said the disturbance was continuing its direction of west-northwestward at about 16 miles an hour and would probably continue this movement for the next 12 hours.

At noon, the weather bureau forecaster said, the center of the storm was 430 miles south of New Orleans. It was charted yesterday in the northwest section of the Carribean sea and moved through the Yucatan channel into the central Gulf of Mexico during the night, slightly trimming its rate of movement.

George Will Go On Air To Answer FDR

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 13 (AP)—Senator Walter F. George, Democrat, Ga., takes the stump Monday for the first time since his unqualified acceptance of the challenge in President Roosevelt's bid to defeat him.

The gray-haired Senator declined today to disclose what he would say in the address to be broadcast (over WSB) at 11:30 a. m. (EST) from Waycross in deep southeast Georgia but acknowledged there would be "references, to the President's history-making speech at Barnesville last Thursday.

George, who has opposed several important administration bills, suavely took up the gage of battle from his President and party chief on the Barnesville platform by shaking hands with Mr. Roosevelt and saying, "I accept the challenge." Democratic voters will decide the winner Sept. 14.

The same night in Atlanta he told supporters "we've just begun to fight" but beyond these two brief statements he has not disclosed what strategy he will pursue in fighting the prestige of the chief executive.

KEY CITY TO MINES FALLS TO INSURGENTS

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Aug. 13 (AP)—The southwest city of Cabeza del Buey, long considered the key to Almaden's rich mercury mines, fell to the Insurgents today, but a reinforced government army kept the door to Almaden closed with new defenses in the mountains.

Heavy fighting still raged around the nearby little town of "Ox Head."

There, Insurgent General Quiepo de Llano's forces met General Jose Miajas central armies for the first time of the war Cabeza del Buey and its ancient plastered houses, ruined by Insurgent artillery in the past two days, now were the target of government artillerymen.

Government reinforcements arrived too late to save the town, but they established new positions dominating the Castuera-Alemaden railway line just west of Cabeza.

Despite Insurgent progress in the south, Generalissimo Francisco Francos northern troops appeared unable to recover ground taken by the last two government offensives in the hook of the Ebro river and between the cities of Lerida and Balaguer.

O'Daniel Parades—Sells Much Flour

WACO, Aug. 13 (AP)—In shirtsleeves and carrying biscuits, former Governor Pat M. Neff and Governor-Nominee W. Lee O'Daniel rode horseback to lead a parade here today.

Approximately 30,000 persons jammed the sidewalks to view the Baylor Bear club rodeo parade.

With O'Daniel and Neff, the latter now president of Baylor University rode Mayor George O. Jones and Police Chief C. C. Mackey of Waco.

O'Daniel, in shirtsleeves, prevailed upon Neff to remove his coat—the first time in years the university president has appeared informally on the street.

A group of 20 friends of O'Daniel and Baylor University were entertained at dinner at the memorial dormitory at the university tonight. O'Daniel was present for the opening of the rodeo later.

(Incidentally, O'Daniel, flour broker whose campaign aside was "Please pass the biscuits, Pappy,' sold 1,000 barrels of flour to Mayor Jones, who operates a bakery concern here.

Gunmen Believed To Be Hiding In Woods

DE QUEEN, Ark., Aug. 13. (AP)—Two gunmen, one of whom was identified as Floyd Hamilton, southwestern desperado, were believed to be hiding in a densely wooded mountain area along the Arkansas-Oklahoma border 12 miles north of here.

Hamilton and his companion, believed to be Ted Walters, another outlaw, fled into the woods on foot this afternoon after exchanging shots with Assistant Superintendent Cliff Atkinson of the Arkansas State police and Deputy Sheriff Leslie Dillahunty of De Queen.

Atkinson and Dillahunty ambushed the fugitives at Ladd's bridge and forced them to abandon a stolen car under a hail of machine gun fire. The car was riddled with bullets but there was no evidence to indicate that either of its occupants had been wounded.

In the car were found two sawed-off shotguns, a rifle and an automatic pistol with about 30 rounds of ammunition. Officers expressed belief the men were not now heavily armed.

Bloodhounds brought here from Ashdown by Sheriff Jim Sanderson were unable to pick up the trail. Sheriff's officers from Daingerfield, Tex., brought a pack of hounds here for the hunt but officers decided not to release them on the hunt until daylight.

Bicyclists Injured When Hit By Auto

Hubert Ward, 14-year-old Pampa boy, was knocked unconscious and Eugene Kiser, also 14, suffered a scalp injury, when the bicycle the two boys were riding was hit by a car driven by L. F. Agee of Skellytown near Four Points on the Berger road, Saturday night.

At midnight Saturday Ward had not recovered consciousness at Worley hospital where he was taken in Duenkel-Carmicheal ambulance.

Both the car in which Mr. and Mrs. Agee were riding, and the bicycle, were headed east. Mr. Agee helped put Ward in the ambulance, reported to police, and made two trips to Worley hospital to see about Ward's condition, according to county officers.

The bicycle the boys were riding was not damaged. One door handle was knocked off the car, according to reports received by county officers.

PRESIDENT TO GIVE ADDRESS IN BROADCAST

Maryland, Carolina Senators May Be Discussed

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Uncertainty as to where the Roosevelt party primary lightning may strike next gives an atmosphere of expectancy to the two weeks of campaigning immediately ahead. Otherwise, this period in which four states pick party tickets seems politically featureless.

The President's radio address Monday night, observing the third anniversary of the Social Security act, affords him an opportunity to carry into Mayland the crusade he began against Senator George of Georgia. Representative David J. Lewis, who is running against Senator Tydings for the Democratic Senatorial nomination in that state, had a big hand in framing and passing the social security law. Mr. Roosevelt could in effect endorse Lewis against Tydings without naming either, since Tydings voted "present" when the act passed the Senate.

Elsewhere, the political situation seems devoid of national interest and possible thrills until the California and South Carolina primaries Aug. 30, in which Roosevelt pressure will be a factor in senatorial contests. He came out strongly for Senator McAdoo's renomination in California. By implication, in a South Carolina train-stop talk, he seemed to frown on Senator Smith's candidacy, calling on his South Carolina hearers to send New Dealers to Washington to help rehabilitate the South. White House disfavor for Smith has long been indicated.

Before Aug. 30, nothing is on the primary schedule to warrant national interest except a Texas runoff Aug. 27 in which administration hopes ride with Representitive McFarlane's last-chance effort to reverse an i-New Deal trends which have been read into his failure to win a first-heat nomination.

The echoes of President Roosevelt's breath-taking surge into Georgia politics, to urge the defeat of Senator George, are still reverberating. The one thing Washington politicians agree on is that no one can predict certainly where or when he will strike again. He exhibited in Georgia the flair for political surprise tactics which has marked his public career from the start.

Longview Citizens Criticize O'Daniel

LONGVIEW, Aug. 13 (AP)—Democratic voters of Texas were asked in resolutions adopted at a mass meeting tonight to disregard the endorsements W. Lee O'Daniel, governor-nominate, gave to some of the run-off election candidates.

After the meeting, a movement was begun to draft Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls to run independently against O'Daniel in the general election.

Several speakers reminded the crowd that no was was bound to vote for the O'Daniel slate.

The Day of Miracles

The Mormon Temple at Salt Lake City, Utah, is said to be an "architectural miracle." Not a single nail was used in it's construction and there are no center supports although the building is 300 ft. long and 250 ft. wide. Of course, the exceptional acoustics make it one of the most unique structures in the world and it is said it's accomplishment was purely accidental. The Mormon belief, however is that Brigham Young had a dream in which the plans were completely formulated and later carried out.

LEE O'DANIEL NOW ISSUE IN RUNOFF RACE

(By The Associated Press)

Texans continued to pay telegraph tolls and buy stamps Saturday to convey their personal opinions to W. Lee O'Daniel, governor-nominee, on his selection of a favored slate of six in the runoff primary.

The candidates he favored, and those he passed up, did not let any of the furore overshadow their appeals for votes at meetings over the state. At Fort Worth, O'Daniel read through a fresh batch of telegrams from citizens having their say about his endorsements, and left for Waco where he was to attend a rodeo and be a guest of President Pat M. Neff of Baylor university.

Pierce Brooks, candidate for lieutenant governor, called on his 10-year-old son, Bobbie, to pinch hit for him in a radio speech. Brooks, injured in an automobile accident Friday night, was in a hospital at Quanah. His injuries were not regarded as critical.

Coke Stevenson, the O'Daniel-favored candidate for the office, came back to Dallas where he spoke stressing the importance of the lieutenant governor "in carrying out the people's program in government." That officer, he said, is the "right arm of the governor in many respects."

Calvert for Mann

Gerald C. Mann, candidate for attorney general, carried his campaign into East Texas, accompanied by Bob Calvert, speaker of the house and a defeated candidate for attorney general in the first primary. Texans, said Mann, have a "clear choice between a professional politician of long standing or a man fresh from the people for their attorney general."

Walter Woodul, Mann's opponent, finished the second week of his run-off race at Lockhart, saying he had traveled "the stamping grounds of two eliminated opponents, and found a surprising response among their supporters." He stressed his legal experience, and O'Daniel leaders "in all sections" have pledged him their support.

Hunter for Terrell

Tom Hunter, several times candidate for governor, came out Saturday in support of C. V. Terrell in the race for railroad commissioner. Terrell finished his week's campaign in central and north Texas with a radio speech at Dallas, and planned to leave for Amarillo.

At San Marcos, Jerry Sadler, opposing Terrell for the office, told his audience "to forget your local differences and go to the polls as one man and vote against those professional politicians to restore the government to the people." Sadler again condemned use of state employes in political campaigns.

Bascom Giles, candidate for land commissioner, gave at Giddings a long list of "things I won't do when I am elected land commissioner." "I won't extend the lease of a valuable river-bed after it had expired and force the state to file a suit to recover $2,000,000 thus given away," was the first on his list of "won'ts."

At Austin, incumbent Commissioner William H. McDonald said he "welcomed the opposition of the big monopolies" and that he would "keep on fighting for the rights of the plain people" as long as they keep him in office. In the first primary, he said, 720,606 voters cast their ballots against his run-off opponent. "I'm using his own reasoning in arriving at this figure," he said. "He has attempted to show how many citizens voted against me. Now I'm showing how many were opposed to him."

THOMAS AND 4-H BOYS RETURN FROM CAMP

County Farm Agent Ralph R. Thomas and three Gray county 4-H club boys returned at noon Saturday from the first district 1 4-H boys club encampment, held on the banks of Blue creek on the J. T. Snead ranch, halfway between Stinnett and Dumas.

Boys from Gray county at the camp were Joe Looper Jr. of Grandview, and Leonard Glass and Billy Bob Sherrod, both of Alanreed. A fourth boy, Edward Davis of Laketon, was to have made the trip but failed to appear in Pampa when the group left here Thursday morning, Mr. Thomas said.

State extension officials present at the camp, the first ever held in district 1, which is composed of 22 Panhandle counties, were H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas Extension service, Parker D. Hanna, district agent, and James Potts, assistant state agent.

R. O. Mayes, a farmer near Anton, Hockley county, believes in crop diversification. This year he is growing two acres of sugar beets, five of tomatoes, 10 of sweet potatoes, 60 of wheat and 136 of cotton.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP)—The stock market kept its scoreboard free of hits this week and today, for the sixth consecutive session, ended on the losing side.

While pressure lessened appreciably against leading issues, and declines, on the whole, were confined to minor fractions, intermittent rallying attempts met with only feeble response.

With the exception of continued apprehension over possible warlike developments in Europe, the market encountered little news of a depressing nature.

The ticker tape idled throughout the greater part of the proceedings, with transfers totalling 396,200 shares against 829,060 a week ago.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks yielded .2 of a point at 47, a low since July 11. The week's drop of 3.5 points was the largest since the period of March 26.

Bringing in some support for recently lagging steels, motors and rails were forecasts of improved steel mill operations next week, a steady rise of motor car production after shut-downs in preparation for new 1939 models, and the belief rail earnings, with general economic betterment gaining momentum, would maintain the improved trend that got under way early in June.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13 (AP)—Additional liquidation and selling on continued favorable weather in most of the belt depressed cotton prices following an early advance but the market failed to break through the lows established yesterday. The close was steady, net one point higher to 2 lower.

October contracts closed at 8.24-bid, Dec. at 8.33, Jan. at 8.34, March at 8.35-bid, May at 8.39 and July at 8.42-bid. Spots were quiet and unchanged with middling at 8.30. Sales amounted to 243 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 (AP)—A recovery movement budded in the wheat market today but failed to bloom and after an upturn of ⅝ cent prices slipped back to ¼ to ½ cent net loss for the short session.

The market encountered support credited to mills, exporters and "shorts" during the first two hours but a late burst of selling apparently was inspired by hedging pressure from the northwest, where the spring crop movement is increasing, and a break of almost two cents in Duluth Durum.

The wheat market closed at the day's low point or just about a cent below the early high, ¾-⅞ down compared with yesterday's finish, Sept. 61⅝, Dec. 63⅞-64. Corn was ⅜-½ higher, Sept. 51⅝-¾, Dec. 48½-⅝, oats unchanged to ⅛ off, Rye ¼-⅜ down, and lard unchanged to 2 cents higher.

Regents Postpone Electing President

AUSTIN, Aug. 13 (AP)—The University of Texas will enter the new long term without a permanent president.

A member of the Board of Regents said the presidency was not discussed at a board meeting today and consideration of the matter probably would not be resumed until September.

The board accepted a $103,636 PWA loan and grant for construction of a new men's dormitory. The federal agency loaned the school $57,000, to be amortized by bonds and made a grant of $16,636.

The output of artificial silk is estimated to be three times that of the natural variety.

The Life Story of W. LEE O'DANIEL

A Saga of American Success

Wilbert Wins Over Typhoid Fever After Doctors Give Up Hope for His Recovery; Pals Earn Six Cents a Ton Shoveling Coal; A Real Tacky Pair Go to a Party

CHAPTER 4—THE BOY GROWS—

(Copyright, 1938, by the Scripps-Howard Newspapers of Texas. Reproduction in whole or part expressly prohibited.)

By C. L. DOUGLAS AND FRANCIS MILLER

THE boy was growing up—

He was by this time about 14, at an age where he could be trusted to handle a pair to the family carriage, and that brings up another of the more interesting and amusing W. Lee O'Daniel anecdotes.

His step-father, Charlie Baker, owned a skittish young horse that had a good amount of buck in him, and Wilbert Lee and Charlie Barrett thought it might be great fun to turn cowboy for a day and see what success they could have in gentling the colt.

They caught him and rode him, one after the other, all morning, and although the steed humped a little in the back, he failed to put on what might be called a very spectacular show. The boys finally began to tire of the game, and then along came Opportunity—in the form of another small boy, a newcomer to the village who on several occasions, already had aroused the wrath of Wilbert and Charlie.

The new boy wanted to ride and the two partners realized that Fate was standing by, ready to do service. They slipped around to the side of the barn for a hurried council of war.

They held an earnest, whispered conversation, then went back and told the visitor they had decided to allow him a ride, but that the horse must first be made ready; and while Wilbert led the animal inside the barn Charlie engaged the lad in friendly talk.

If the young man could have guessed what W. Lee was doing in the barn . . . but alas, he didn't . . . and then it was too late!

Wilbert was busy putting cockleburrs under the saddle blanket!

Picnics, Night Hikes and Rodeo Trips

THERE is little need to dwell at length on the sad scene which ensued.

We leave you to use your own imagination, and take Charlie's word for it that the young equestrian didn't beg a second ride when he arose to brush off the dirt.

The boys talked and dreamed then, just as they do today, about trips they sometime would make around the world, and about future adventures they would find in far and exotic places; but the lads of Arlington, Kans., just as the lads of today, seldom went a-vagabonding.

Their far journeys were confined principally to cattlemen's picnics in nearby towns and once, while making such a visit to Kingman, Charlie, Wilbert and Ben Wyman, after watching the rodeo, slept the night in the hayloft of a livery stable.

Ben, now dead, went with them on many of their picnics and night hikes through the surrounding country, and he always was a great admirer of W. Lee's ingenuity in rigging up a cap searchlight powered by two dry cell batteries which he carried in his coat pockets.

One of the three times that Texas' next governor won brushes with Death is described in this chapter of the Life Story of W. Lee O'Daniel. But in spite of the illness from which there seemed to be no hope for recovery, Wilbert got well and passed his grades, and prepared to leave home for business college. In the preceding chapter, C. L. Douglas and Francis Miller told of the boisterous boyhood of the Kansas lad.—The Editor.

Nude Scarecrows on Snowy Night

BEN figured in many of the community escapades, one of the choicest of which is related by Will Sims, the husband of Wilbert's half-sister Clara.

"Maybe it wouldn't do to print," said Mr. Sims, with a laugh, "but this happened one time when Wilbert and Ben Wyman went to a party about three miles out in the country from Arlington. There was snow on the ground and it was a light night, and as they drove home in the buggy, one of them . . . no, I don't know which one it was . . . thought up a good joke to scare those who were riding in the buggies coming along behind."

The justice of the peace chuckled again, then continued:

"Well . . . those two boys tied the horse, took off all their clothes . . . every stitch . . . and, waving their arms, went running along through the snow like a couple of wild ones, back toward the other buggies. And they created a scare, all right. You ask Wilbert about that sometime . . . he won't deny it."

"Oh, I could tell a lot of things on Wilbert," said he, his eyes twinkling, "but maybe they all wouldn't do to print."

Six Cents a Ton for Moving Coal

IT was Will Sims, when he was foreman at the Rock Island coal chute, who gave the boys a chance to earn some spending money one wintry night when there were hurry orders for the unloading of a string of box cars into the pockets of the chute.

"We worked all night," recalls Mr. Barrett, "and we earned our money when we got to the point of carrying the coal by the scoop-load from the ends of the box cars up to the chute. We must have made about six cents a ton shoveling that coal and the next day Wilbert and me were so tired we could scarcely move."

The two of them, one fall night, went to a tacky party out at Will Beck's home in the country. They were riding in a buggy and as they jogged along the road something—they didn't know what it was—frightened the horse and he ran away.

The animal was a good one and away he went, hitting the high places on the rutty road. Wilbert and Charlie sawing on the reins and holding onto the dash—but at last, when the vehicle began to careen, both boys were thrown out into a wire fence.

"I believe I explained we were going to a tacky party," said Barrett. "Well, when we succeeded in getting out of that barbed wire we sure enough did look tacky.

"We caught the horse, patched up the torn places in our clothes with wire and nails, and went on out to the Beck farm. And, believe it or not, Wilbert won first prize at the party and I won second. It was a great Saturday night."

One of the big events in the life of W. Lee O'Daniel was his graduation from the public school at Arlington, Kan. Above is a photograph of him at about the time he graduated.

After graduating from the public school at Arlington, Wilbert Lee O'Daniel left the farm to go away to business college. The picture at the top shows the business section of Arlington at the time. Below is Charlie Barrett, boyhood pal of Wilbert, as he appears today. Here at White Banks, a tributary of the Ninnescah River, Charlie is seated on the trunk of the tree from which the boys used to dive while enjoying the old swimming hole.

The winter of 1905-6 came on, bringing with it one of the most dread epidemics that can afflict mankind—a scourge of typhoid fever—and Wilbert, who was near 16, went down, in company with his step-father, for a protracted case.

At Death's Door Without Hope

AS the days slipped by he grew steadily and alarmingly worse; so bad, indeed, that he had to be strapped to the bed to prevent him from rising and straying away in his delirium. It was at this juncture that the attending physician, Dr. B. F. Mallory, saw that something must be done, and speedily, if W. Lee was to survive.

As it was the practitioner could give him only a fighting chance, and the hard-pressed man of medicine, who had a dozen or more other critical cases on his list, decided to call in Dr. Vanderpool, another Arlington physician.

They watched the young man carefully and also Mr. Baker, who likewise seemed to be sinking—and then Wilbert began having hemmorhages of the gums.

There was practically no chance now, but the doctors worked on, hopefully, tirelessly . . . and the boy continued to lose ground.

With death hovering close to the little house on Section One, so close that there seemed no way to bar him from the door, they sent to Hutchinson for Dr. Clipple.

The fight went on, hour after hour, day after day, with Wilbert suffering still more hemmorhages . . . and then, at last, and miraculously, he began to pass the crisis and to return to consciousness.

And one of the first persons, he called for, other than his mother, was his sister Clara.

The Boy Recovers, Determined to Live

MRS. SIMS, she already had married by then, went over to the farm. Mrs. Baker thought it best that she not go into the house, but Clara insisted and went in, though Mrs. Baker told her not to talk to Wilbert, because he was much too weak for conversation. Mrs. Sims saw her father, then Wilbert.

"Hello, Clara," he said, his voice thin. "I'm not going to die . . . am I?

"Of course not," she assured him. "You're getting well now . . . much better."

"Well, I won't die . . . I won't!" exclaimed the sick boy.

Clara quieted him as best she could. She saw that his teeth had turned black, as though they had been painted with ink . . .

It took Doctors Clipple, Mallory and Vanderpool a long while to get Wilbert Lee and his step-father out of the deep woods which grow in the Valley of the Shadow, but, providentially, they succeeded . . . thereby altering the political history of the Lone Star State.

Clara Sims, when she came to the farm that day, did not return to her own home until four weeks later. She stayed to nurse the convalescents, but it was a long while, she remembers, before the whiteness returned to Wilbert's teeth.

But with all his set-backs through illness W. Lee managed to finish grade school that year, and was mapping his course for the future. He wanted, more than anything else just now, a chance to attend the Salt City Business College at Hutchinson—but tuition costs money, and he had none at all.

And so, scarcely before he was out of his sick-bed, he was planning ways to raise the necessary enrollment fee . . .

17 LOCATIONS STAKED IN PANHANDLE FIELD LAST WEEK

AREA BELIEVED ON WAY BACK TO NORMALCY

The Panhandle field broke back into the activity list last week when 17 new locations were staked and eight oil and three gas wells were tested and given potentials. The field has been slowly but surely throwing off the effect of the recent shutdowns and unsettled conditions in the oil industry until it is believed well on the road back to normalcy.

New locations were the most staked in one week during the last five months. Hutchinson county was the hotspot with 14 of the first intentions, followed by Gray with two and Carson with one. The prolific Watkins, Whittenburg and Perkins pools were the scenes of major activity in Hutchinson county. All locations were in proven territory.

Six of the eight oil wells placed on Railroad commission test and given potentials were in Hutchinson county. They had a total production of 2,982 barrels. Gray county reported the other two oil tests.

Best well of the week was the Bob Murphy No. 3 Whittenburg in section 58, block 46, H&TC survey, Hutchinson county, gauged at 739 barrels.

Three gas wells, one each in Carson, Hutchinson and Moore counties, had a total open flow potential of 85,166,000 cubic feet with the best well the Shamrock Oil & Gas company's No. H-1 Coffee in section 355, block 44, H&TC survey, Moore county, which tested 43,430,000 cubic feet.

Although completions in the Panhandle field to date this year number 363 compared with 432 to the same date in 1937 the record is the second best in the state, only the North Central Texas field having a better record of completions. Several fields show decreases of from 100 to 500 completions for the period.

Completions by counties follow:

In Gray County

Gulf Production Co., No. B-7 Gatlin, esction 57, block 3, I&GN survey, gauged 215 barrels with pay from 3,150 to 3,187 feet in lime formation.

Manana Production Co., No. 2 Saunders, section 81, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 262 barrels. Lime pay was between 3,189 and 3,216 feet.

In Hutchinson County

Drilling and Exploration Co., No. 7 Pond, section 2, block M-21, TCRR survey, was given a potential of 422 barrels with lime formation between 2,985 and 3,005 feet.

Drilling and Exploration Co., No. 22 Watkins, section 13, block M-21 TCRR survey gauged 425 barrels. Lime pay was from 3,000 to 3,045 feet.

Hobbs Oil Co., No. 3 Hodge, section 14, block X02, L. A. Patillo survey, tested 581 barrels with the pay between 2,965 and 2,990 feet in lime.

Bob Murphy No. 3 Whittenburg, section 57, block 46, H&TC survey gauged 739 barrels. Pay was from 2,805 to 2,875 feet in lime.

Magnolia Petroleum Co., No. 6 Southwestern Oil and Development Co., East Day Land & Cattle company, tested 259 barrels with lime pay between 3,116 and 3,175 feet.

Phillips Petroleum Co., No. 7 Thompson, section 23, block M-23 TCRR survey, gauged 556 barrels. Pay was from 3,109 to 3,175 feet in lime.

Gas wells tested were:

In Carson County

Texoma Natural Gas Co., No. 2-T Jordan, section 95, block 4, I&GN survey, gauged 34,521,000 cubic feet.

In Hutchinson County

Huber Petroleum Co., No. 6 Herring, section 7, block J, H&GN survey, tested 7,215,000 cubic feet.

In Moore County

Shamrock Oil & Gas Co., No. H-1 Coffee, section 355, block 44, H&TC survey, was given a potential of 43,430,000 cubic feet.

GAS PIPE LINE TO MINNESOTA NOW PLANNED

Favorable action of the RFC on a loan request for $20,000,000, with private capital furnishing an additional $5,000,000, will mean the construction of a large gas pipe line from the gas fields of the Panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma and the Houston field of Kansas. Terminus of the line would be the iron mines in the Mesaba range of northern Minnesota.

The line would pass through one of the most deserving drouth areas of the middle west. Preliminary work and surveys on the project have been completed in 129 towns near which the line would pass in Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas and Minnesota which would receive for the first time the benefits of natural gas.

The suggested line is designated to carry 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily. A market for 20 billion cubic feet a year has been found, much of it to the Mesaba range where it is impossible to use oil or coal in processing the oar, natural gas being the only fuel cheap enough for the operation.

Hagy, Harrington & Marsh, large independent gas operators of Amarillo, have contracted to handle the development work in the field, and the gathering, processing and delivery of the gas requirements of the proposed line. This concern owns in excess of 250,000 acres of proven gas lands in the Hugoton area of Southwestern Kansas, Texas county, Oklahoma, Panhandle, and Sherman and Hansford counties in the Texas Panhandle.

The areas which the proposed line would serve have no important local fuel supplies and coal must be shipped in from a considerable distance which makes the cost of heating very expensive during the cold winters. The iron ore operations for which the natural gas is so badly needed can be conducted only in the summer months on account of the severe winters, and affords an ideal summer industrial market during the period gas will not be needed for house heating. Every factor indicates the project will be a sound financial venture and that it would be tremendously beneficial to a great many communities in several different ways.

COMMITTEE CRITICIZES POLITICKING OFFICIALS

DEWITT, Ark., Aug. 13 (AP)—The Arkansas County Democratic Central committee, meeting here to certify Aug. 9 primary returns, unanimously adopted a resolution condemning "federal officials" who "use their positions to influence voters in Democratic primaries in the various states."

The committee voted to refuse to support the National Democratic committee under such circumstances.

Rep. John L. McClellan, defeated by Senator Hattie W. Caraway in the primary, charged undue activity by U. S. office-holders in her behalf during the campaign.

CONTINENTAL BRINGS IN MISSISSIPPI WELL

PONCA CITY, Okla., Aug. 13.—Oil deposits directly underneath the bed of the Mississippi river were successfully opened when Continental Oil Company brought in a flow estimated at 204 barrels a day in St. James Paris near Vacherie, La., through the first well ever drilled inside the river levee.

The discovery well, known as Realty Operators No. 1, is located on the eastern side of the river about 55 miles northwest of New Orleans at a point where the bottom ground of "batture" between river and levee is about 1,600 feet wide. Protection from possible flooding of the well site required the building of a separate circular levee 10,000 feet in diameter and 14 feet high, inside the main levee.

Continental officials revealed that 40 foot pilings had to be sunk in the swampy soil to support the drilling rig and that equipment was brought over on a specially constructed plank road. Due to the nature of the project, the company took unusual precautions in maintaining secrecy during dilling and practically nothing was known about the type of formations that were encountered until today's announcement that the well had begun to produce.

NORTH AMERICAN STYLE INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY—

A big commercial transport plane was flying from Cleveland to Detroit the other day. Taking the shortest route, it swung northwest across Lake Erie, flew over a sizable corner of Ontario, and then crossed the Detroit river and glided down to a landing at the Detroit airport.

One of the passengers was a young man who recently spent upwards of a year in Germany with the branch office of an American firm. When he got out of the plane he remarked:

"That was the most thrilling thing that has happened since I got back to America."

"What—this flight?" asked an acquaintance.

"No," said the young man. "The way we flew over the international boundary without anybody noticing it. We crossed from the United States, flew over Canada, and then flew back—and nobody said a word. That's the sort of thing that couldn't happen in Europe. Planes don't cross international boundaries there, not without a lot of negotiation and formality. They go far out of their way to avoid flying over a little strip of foreign territory. If they didn't, the pursuit planes would go after them."

* * *

Which is just another way of saying that we who live in North America never realize how lucky we are—until we see what we would be up against if the European system prevailed over here.

But perhaps it isn't entirely luck, after all.

When you stop to think about it, there is nothing to prevent the United States and Canada from distrusting each other and glaring sullenly across the border in the European manner—nothing except the fact that each nation uses good sense and neighborly forbearance.

It is what it is because the people of the two countries have chosen to act sensibly.

WRITERS WITH OPEN MINDS

The Pampa News is running a series of articles written by college professors, such as William E. Spahr, chairman of the Department of Economics of New York University, Harry L. Lutz, professor of political finance at Princeton University, Errik McKinley Erriksson, assistant professor of history of the University of Southern California and other prominent educators on political and economic questions, under the heading of "You and Your Nation's Affairs," on the editorial page daily.

These professors are paid for their services by the Manufacturer's Association. The Manufacturer's Association, however, does not even see the articles before they are published.

While this might seem like propaganda, the fact that at the bottom of each article appears an invitation for any individual who takes exception to the statements to ask questions should be convincing evidence that the real purpose of the articles are to inform the public.

We do not see how the Manufacturer's Association can perform any greater service than by trying to get people to think clearly and the best way in the world to get people to think clearly is for those people who are leaders in thought to be willing to answer questions. Man who is not consistent cannot answer questions.

The economic troubles we are now in, are due to following leaders, professors, officeholders, newspaper writers, reformers who would not answer questions on how they proposed to bring about their Garden of Eden dreams. We invite any reader to challenge any of the statements made by these professors. We believe that if they make any statement that appears inconsistent, they will explain the inconsistencies or change their position.

That these articles are not the propaganda of the Manufacturer's Association is certainly evidenced by the article published recently, written by Ernest Minor Patterson, president, American Academy of Political and Social Science, in which he practically endorses Secretary Hull's lowering of tariffs. For the manufacturers to be paying for articles that advocate a reduction of tariff is strong evidence that this Association it attempting really to present sound principles to the public by great students on these subjects.

The News is glad to be an instrument in presenting these thoughtful and carefully prepared articles and to offer to its readers an opportunity, without cost except a postage stamp, to question the principles set forth by these men.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Edison had one great dream which he was unable to translate into reality. He worked for years in vain to produce a storage battery which would contain enough electricity to drive a motor car 500 miles. His aim was a battery which would weigh not more than 300 pounds. Such a battery would put every car propelled by gasoline out of business. That battery is still the dream of research workers. There are plenty of storage batteries, but so far their capacity is limited. To put five electricity in a bottle, as it were, and to release it as needed, may be one of the scientific achievements of the future. Sometimes men wonder if the twentieth century can ever duplicate the marvelous inventions of the nineteenth century. That saw the steamboat, the railroad, the telegraph, and telephone, the electric light, and a host of others. So far in this century we can boast, not so much of startlingly new things, as of the perfection and development of old things, the airplane, automobile and wireless, for example. No man can put a limit to man's inventive capacity. That we have come to a static time when progress shall stop is unthinkable. What will be the next invention which will change the pattern of our lives, no one can say. But surely with Tennyson, we can regard all that we have done as only earnest of the things we yet shall do.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life...

By R. C. Holles

TWO ORANGES A WEEK PER PERSON

A statement made by a prominent citizen, attempting to prove that there is plenty of everything, was that oranges were too plentiful. This caused the writer to check up on the production of oranges in the United States.

According to the estimated figures from the Agricultural Commission's office, there are practically 60 million boxes of oranges produced a year. This year it is estimated that there will be approximately 67 million boxes. It is estimated that these boxes contain on the average of 200 oranges. This would mean that if all these oranges were consumed in the United States, there would be two oranges a week for every citizen in the nation.

It thus is evident there are not too many oranges produced. The trouble is there is interference with other people being trained to produce and there is interference with the natural and free production and exchange of things and services. This prevents enough other things being produced to exchange for these oranges on a free market basis. If there were more manufactured goods and services produced and more crops of other kinds produced that the producers of oranges wanted and needed that could be exchanged on a free basis, these two oranges a week for each person would not be nearly enough oranges.

What we need is public opinion and a government that will prevent the restriction of production and distribution that interferes with the production of goods, so badly needed and wanted by orange growers in the United States.

And if the whole world was taken into consideration and we attempted to distribute oranges all over the world, it is doubtful whether there would be one orange a month produced for each person in the world.

Now there is no overproduction of oranges but underproduction and interference with other things.

DISHONESTY NATURAL

This column has repeatedly quoted that "Man is born in sin" and from Jeremy Bentham, "To enjoy immediately—to enjoy without labor, is the natural inclination of every man." Now comes Harry Scherman, in his new book, "The Promises Men Live By" with the following statement:

"The cold fact is that men acting together in a community, large or small, are just as dishonest, just as unscrupulous in breaking their promises, as they dare to be at any one time. Governments always, small or large, will get away with what they can, up to the point where the supremacy of the ruling power is endangered. No such thing as personal integrity, the satisfaction of being reliable, and the shame of betraying faith, appear other than microscopically in governmental economics. This may be a hard pill for the patriot who is a sentimentalist to swallow, but no clear-eyed person, looking at all past and all current history, may doubt it."

Scherman, through his book, seems to contend that men are more honest than the government. It seems, however, that Scherman overlooks the fact that most governments have been established by some Moses, or some far-seeing individuals who recognize the necessity of dependability and honesty and these individuals establish a code of ethics, Ten Commandments, a Bill of Rights, a Constitution that forces individuals in a degree to carry out their contracts.

It is doubtful whether the individuals as a whole are any more honest than the government but, inasmuch as most all progress has come, as stated above, by some far-sighted individuals establishing principles, individual citizens are penalized if they do not follow the code of ethics established by the government. This accounts possibly for the discrepancy between honesty of the individuals as a whole and the honesty of the government.

Eventually the governments are obliged to yield to the morals and lack of respect in rights of property of the great mass of people. This causes the government eventually to crumble until such time as a new constitution or a new bill of rights by some far-seeing leader is established.

The Nation's Press

TOLEDO NEWS-BEE
(Editor and Publisher)

Add another newspaper to the victims of depression, a war casualty which heard the fatal word nearly 20 years after the last shot was fired. No single cause can be cited for the death of the Toledo News-Bee, one of the older Scripps-Howard newspapers, for many elements combined to make its further conduct uneconomic.

For several years it has been a second newspaper in a city which evidently cannot support two evening newspapers with profit to both. Its competition is ably edited and managed, and though a Republican newspaper, the Blade's editorial policies are not far from those upon which Scripps-Howard newspaper successes have been built. The city itself in recent years has become increasingly dependent on the automobile industry, with highly seasonal operations, long layoffs, and in recent years suspension of several industries and generalized labor troubles.

The latter have been handled better in Toledo than in many other cities, thanks largely to the assistance of the newspapers, and peace is fairly well guaranteed today. Still, that doesn't make the pennies available in a factory worker's budget for two newspapers, and for one reason or another, the majority seemed to prefer the other.

News-Bee income has not balanced outgo for several years. Existing tax laws do not encourage the operation of a losing newspaper by a chain, since consolidated losses can no longer be offset against consolidated gains and the loss on a losing newspaper is entirely out of pocket.

With Uncle Sam making no allowances for a bad year or a succession of bad years in his tax collections, labor unions, the guild in particular, kept the pressure on for higher pay and other items that meant higher costs. The guild's chain negotiators appear to have the idea that a losing unit should not be budgeted so far as they are concerned; if a loser can't pay the guild check, why not borrow the difference from a profitable paper?

No doubt that used to be done. Many a weak sister has been supported from a central or allied source for years after it had failed to stand on its own feet. It won't be done much longer. Demands by labor for increased pay, often justified from the worker's point of view; taxes that are inescapable; higher material costs—all unite to compel the elimination of unnecessary drains upon profitable operations. Under present income conditions, a generally profitable paper is fortunate to break even after meeting all demands; it is not likely to have a surplus with which to feed allied units which show no prospects of solvency.

There is no law which can compel a publisher to throw good money after bad.

How's Your Health?

LOW BACK PAIN

With much poetic license but with justification, one may say that the price for man's upright position is a pain in his lower back.

Man has probably walked erect for millions of years and yet his constitution has not developed to a point where his skeletal and muscular structures operate with the highest degree of efficiency.

He is subject to round shoulders, to exaggerated curvatures in the spinal column, to painful complications at the keystone-like juncture between the lower portion of his spine and his pelvic bones and to a variety of bone and muscle disturbances affecting his feet.

The lower back is a particularly vulnerable region. The entire weight of the upper body structure is transmitted to the pelvis and legs through the joint formed between the lower portion of the spinal column (the sacrum) and the pelvic bones.

Many conditions may contribute to the development of weakness and pain in this region: bad posture, overweight, injury, occupational strains, and a variety of diseases, notably arthritis. Again, the anatomical structure of the lower back may be inherently weak.

Mention must also be made of the back pains which are not due to organic or functional defects in the bones or muscle structures of the back proper but which arises from derangement in other and sometimes remote organs and structures in the body. Displacement or inflammation of the pelvic organs in women, diseases of the kidney, falling of the longitudinal and transverse arches of the feet, are some of the conditions which may give rise to pains in the lower back.

Incidentally it is worth noting that pain in the lower back is less frequently due to disease of the kidneys than is commonly supposed.

The treatment if pain in the lower back includes a variety of procedures, such as reduction of weight, correction of postural faults, rest, corrective exercises, and at times surgery.

Pain in the lower back should not be neglected. The prospects of an effective and easy correction of the condition are best when the required treatment is administered early. Be particularly alert to check back pains complained of by young children and adolescents.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

From the diary of a Scoutmaster:

Well, it was the same place all right—the same trees, the same birds, the same stream. We camped in the old place under the cottonwood trees whose restless leaves continuously whispered memories of hours spent with the Old Bunch, and so everything was not the same as it was before. None of the Old Bunch was present. Only the New Bunch—and new friends are always necessary. . . . Every tree, every swimming hole, every turn in the creek cried out the names of the Old Bunch who are boys no longer. (Boys do grow up quickly!) The New Bunch—will they have that burning loyalty and deep devotion to one another? . . . There was a fine, full moon and a great expanse of sand but nobody wanted to play football. Nobody wanted to hike up the creek. Nobody body asked for a story. . . . The New Bunch had brought sandwiches. (The Old Bunch always cooked their food.) Soon after darkness fell the New Bunch got sleepy—and not a bedroll had been stolen or hidden. So this one grimly set about the business of hiding the bedrolls, but it was a spiritless business, and besides the boys saw no fun in it. . . . We went to bed at 10 oclock. The next morning we dammed up the creek, but only one had his heart in the work, and we got back to town by nine oclock. (The Old Bunch would never come back until we'd had some sort of a free-for-all.) The New Bunch are silent—they took funnies to read. They're different all right, but they're going to be okay. . . . Soon they'll become ambitious to pass tests. They'll quit nagging one another. They'll become close friends. Pretty soon they'll be THE bunch and this one will be saying as he has said in the past, "I'll never get another bunch as fine as this one—they just don't come that way."

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Bette Davis has found a Cause.

She shouldn't have (Bette says so herself) because when she gets into a thing she gets all excited and won't let go until it's done.

This, as you can see, is a sorry state of affairs for a busy movie actress. And Bette is busy. Trussed up in corset and stays of the Gibphysical difficulties through the son-girl era, she's emoting under dramatic morasses of "The Sisters." Her waist is but little larger than a quart milk-bottle, and she can't breathe much but she has to emote just the same. It's tough.

But what matter hardships when Bette has a Cause?

She is president of the Tailwagger Foundation of America. This, to put it roughly, is a society dedicated to the more abundant life for dogs.

But let Bette tell about. Today she's knitting in her dressing room on the set, temporarily out of her strait-jacket and comfortable in sweater and shorts. I storm in. Well, I mean I go in, full of righteous indignation. I am meaning to hurl phrases: "... children of the slums. . . one-third of a nation. . . starving Armenians."

But I don't get to the first reel. Miss D. always has that soothing effect on me. Or maybe I'm just ineffectual and never wil. win friends and influence people.

In the first place, Bette explains that life membership in Tailwaggers costs but $2 per dog member, nothing more asked. And I can see that a movie star can spend two bucks of her so-hard-earned cash on dogdom if she feels like it without being considered thoughtless of the famous "one-third."

"I was just a dog-lover—I have two—and I took good care of mine and knew they were happy and I didn't give a thought to other dogs," Bette explains earnestly. "But then I learned about Pounds! They're awful!"

Tailwaggers, it seems, saves dogs from pounds. If your dog is lost they find it.

And then the society fights legislation it considers unfair to dog-owners. Bette warms up on this point:

"It downed that state bill making rabies inoculation compulsory, charging dog-owners for the shots. You know how that would have worked out — how would anyone know what was really in the shots? Probably water!"

So I ask her about that proposed city ordinance during the local rabies scare—the one to confine dogs to their own backyards.

"Tailwaggers stopped that, too. Why, the ordinance would have made it illegal to take a dog out even on leash! Oh, yes—I agree dogs should stay on their own yards, but what if they jump the fence? And those silly laws to require owners to make their dogs stop barking between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m.! Why, barking's part of a dog's work. What good's a dog that won't bark?"

Tailwaggers does all sorts of things besides. One, really laudable, is to provide scholarships for training Seeing Eye dogs.

And it wants to build a shelter here for strays, a sort of clearing-house for mislaid pups. That's why Bette is sponsoring a benefit ball in August. All the town's dog-o-maniacs will be there.

ALLRED CANCELS TALK

AUSTIN, Aug. 13 (AP)—Because of illness Governor James V. Allred has cancelled a statewide broadcast scheduled for Sunday evening to launch social security week in Texas.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Every Washington correspondent expects everyone he meets to ask—or tell him—whether Presidest Roosevelt will seek a third term. He expects this because, for some weeks, no one has failed to do so.

Deponent (this writer) sayeth as follows:

1. Roosevelt may have said something about it to Mrs. Roosevelt. The only other person in whom he might have confided, Louis Howe, is dead. Frequently, he has indicated he prefers to quit after two terms. If he has discussed a third term with any living person—from the standpoint of running again "under certain curcumstances"—persons lips are sealed. And this is a surprisingly loose-lipped town.

2. Republicans, anti-Roosevelt Democrats and staunch New Dealers—including F. D. R.'s intimate entourage—believe the President probably will be a third term candidate. This fact is significant and important. It is and will be in the background of many major moves and public utterances.

3. Each of those three groups is sure the best strategy is to ballyhoo the likelihood of a Roosevelt candidacy. G. O. P. Chairman John Hamilton, anti-New Deal Senator Ed Burke of Nebraska and pro-New Deal senators and governors keep bringing it up.

4. Republicans talk up third term because they believe this will incite antagonism to Roosevelt.

5. Anti-administration Democrats talk third term in order to solidify intra-party opposition to Roosevelt —or a hand-picked successor— pending the 1940 Democratic national convention.

6. Top-flight New Dealers want everybody to discuss third term, hoping what they call "emotional baloney" will be dissipated by 1940. After a period of whooping and shouting, they hope, the issue will be considered from a "cold, practical" standpoint and those for Roosevelt now—and they see a majority—will want Roosevelt again.

Tracing The Conversion

The last viewpoint is especially interesting because it's that of Roosevelt's own close buddies. Conversion of this group is interesting. Its members are for a third term, not because they want Roosevelt or anyone else to serve a third term, but because "they see no other way out" if New Deal policies are to be carried on. As they see it, no other New Dealer now has a real shot at the presidency.

Contributing to their "conversion" was the gradually demonstrated weakness of Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, hand-picked by Roosevelt as his Senate majority leader and jammed down the throats of Senate Democrats who otherwise would have chosen conservative Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

Originally F. D. R. and his pals considered Senator Bob LaFollette as a worthy Roosevelt successor, but resurgent conservatism in the Democratic party, indicated "no soap." Barkley, briefly, a fair-haired boy with the White House inner circle in its search for a 1940 nominee, showed no strength as a Senate leader, preferred compromise to battle (he had few troops) and had to be bailed out by Roosevelt in his Kentucky campaign against the more popular "Happy" Chandler.

Roosevelt told his lieutenants to promote Robert H. Jackson, now solicitor general, for New York's Democratic gubernatorial nomination. But when nearly all New York Democratic machine politicians—including Jim Farley — balked, Roosevelt failed to demand their support for Jackson. Whether he could have forced New York Democracy to nominate Jackson is debatable. If Jackson had become governor of New York he would have become F. D. R.'s outstanding heir-presumptive.

Hopkins Has Friends

Most New Dealers would like to see Roosevelt back WPA Harry Hopkins, former New York state relief director, and himself 150 per cent New Deal, for governor. That would indicate he preferred Hopkins, his closest friend and adviser in administration ranks, to Franklin D. Roosevelt for president in 1940. If he doesn't, you can make your own guess. Perhaps he couldn't force Hopkins' nomination, although Hopkins would be a strong candidate for any elective office.

For the matter, it's impossible to predict now whether Roosevelt could force his own renomination in 1940. Readers interested in further angles of the third term issue are invited to submit questions.

Book A Day

By BRUCE CATTON

In "A New Birth of Freedom" (Scritner's; $2.50), Nicholas Roosevelt argues eloquently for a revival of American ideals and a rallying of American virutes in order to save American liberties. Our democracy and our freedom, he feels, are in danger of losing the fight with the urge for collectivism; unless we wake up and do something about it, he says, we shall presently find that the struggle has been lost.

Mr. Roosevelt presents no very definite blueprint of the course to be followed. In the main, he seems to argue for an extension of the field of the great middle class, for a decentralized government, for state rights, for lower taxes, for less government in business, and for renewed emphasis on the ancient virtues of self-reliance and individual initiative.

You may have heard something like that before; it all sounds very familiar, somehow. What Mr. Roosevelt brings to his task that keeps his plea from sounding too hackneyed is a moral earnestness and unquestionable sincerity.

Yet there is a curicus assumption in his book which might be worth extended examination. Must we go all the way, without restraint, in one direction or the other? If we ask the federal government, for instance, to assume a measure of responsibility in regard to economic problems, is there no stopping short of a completely collectivized, dictator-led nation?

Mr. Roosevelt seems to assume that there is not; and on that basis he makes an eloquent and persuasive argument. Indeed, once you agree with that fundamental assumption, his argument is practically unanswerable.

YOU AND YOUR Nation's Affairs

Government's Hungry Maw

By ELIOT JONES

Professor of Transportation and Public Utilities

It is one of the well-attested facts of history that the needs of rulers and governments constantly expand; and this means, of course, that they must find some way of obtaining the necessary funds.

A source of revenue upon which reliance was placed for hundreds of years was the debasing of the currency. As coins were received in payment of taxes, a little gold or silver would be clipped from the edges. Or the coins would be abraded, that is, rubbed so as to reduce the weight, and in this way the rulers would obtain gold or silver bullion. Advanced governments no longer clip or abrade the coins; they merely reduce, by government order, the amount of gold or silver bullion in the coin. A given quantity of bullion will thus make more coins.

The malpractices of rulers with respect to coined money explain in part the development of paper money which was regarded as a protection against debased coinage. During a long period governments have made widespread use of paper money as a means of securing necessary funds, but the protection against overissue is insufficient, and as everyone knows there have been numerous periods of great overissue, causing the money to become worthless. There are limitations, therefore, upon the use of paper money as a means of meeting fiscal needs.

Another common practice has been, and still is, the waging of war, followed by the seizure of lands, goods, and money from the vanquished rulers and countries. Experience has taught, however, that war is an uncertain and dangerous business. "The best laid schemes o' mice and men gang oft a-gley," and it frequently comes about that those who wage war to meet supposed individual or national needs lose valuable territory and are subjected to heavy indemnities. Moreover, even if they win a nominal victory the costs of warfare are so great that there may well be a net loss.

One of the most successful financing devices is, of course, taxation, that is, compulsory contributions exacted by public authority. Taxes are unpopular, however, and there is a limit to those that can be imposed upon the people. This limit is often reached, moreover, before rulers and governments have obtained all the funds that they deem necessary to meet their requirements and the requirements of their citizens clamoring for aid and services.

The unpopularity of taxes explains the great vogue of government borrowing. In the early days much of the borrowing was forced, just as it is today in some of the countries ruled by dictators. In the Middle Ages the monasteries, having enormous wealth, were practically compelled to lend it to those in power. The same was true of the Jews, who were plundered then, as they are in Germany today. In most countries, however, the loans to the Government are voluntary, and it is expected that eventually they will be repaid, with interest recurrent meanwhile.

It is obvious that if the government hopes to continue to raise funds in this way it must be careful not to overdo its borrowing, or the people will lose confidence in the ability of the government to make good on its promises. It is true that within limits the government can take the property of its citizens in order to meet its obligations, but if the taxes become too burdensome the people will rebel.

Riggs and Hunt In Tennis Semi-Finals

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 13 (AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago, top-seeded favorite, and Joe Hunt of Los Angeles, current king of the "upsetters," qualified today in the final of the eastern grass courts tennis championship at the Westchester Country club.

Tomorrow's meeting will be about their 40th since they broke into top-flight tennis. Riggs breezed through to a 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 semi-final victory over 17-year-old Jack Kramer of Montebello, Calif., while Hunt, playing impressively, downed the veteran Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 14, 1938 PAGE FIVE

Slick Sight, Seldom Seen

Lee Handley, leadoff man of the Pittsburgh Pirates, starts a sprint to first base that beats out a bunt . . . a rare sight in baseball these days. Note the ball. A versatile attack is one of the principal reasons why the Buccaneers are out in front in the National League, and the little third baseman provides much of the club's impetus both at bat and in the field.

Borgan Pitches No-Hit, No-Run Classic Friday

Lefty Dick Rogers, diminutive pitcher for Gulf of Borger, realized a long cherished ambition—to pitch a no-hit, no-run softball game—Friday night in the Panhandle Softball tournament here when he saw his teammates bang two Vega pitchers for 12 runs while he held the Magnolias hitless and runless.

Only two batters reached first base, both on errors. Neither of them got as far as second, a double play in the seventh killing a possible rally.

Cities Service of Pampa upset the dope bucket when they trounced Air Speeds of Amarillo 10 to 7. The old bucket was not only upset but badly battered when Gulf-Cooper of Skellytown staged an uprising to defeat the highly touted Taylor Markets of Amarillo 3 to 2. The Alamo Stillmen of Phillips had no trouble defeating Christians of Pampa 8 to 0 in the other game.

Three more teams will disappear from the tournament on Monday night, leaving 14 teams battling for first place.

The schedule for Monday night follows:

AT ROAD RUNNER PARK

8:15 p. m.—Danciger Road Runners, Pampa vs. Diamond Shop, Pampa.

9:30 p. m.—King Oil, Pampa vs. Coca Cola, Amarillo. (Elimination).

AT RECREATION PARK

8:15 p. m.—Jaycees, Borger vs. Shamrock Irishmen. (Elimination).

9:30 p. m.—City Drug, McLean vs. Mack & Paul Barbers, Pampa. (Elimination).

Errors Costly

Cities Service jumped into a comfortable lead over Air Speeds, the team that defeated Texaco Firechiefs of Amarillo one game, in the second inning when five runs crossed the plate on one hit, two walks and five juicy errors. Two hits and two errors added a pair of runs in the fourth and Albert Lard put the game on ice in the sixth with a home run with two mates on base, as a result of walks.

Bill Thompson, Amarillo high school football sensation, gave Air Speeds life in the sixth with a home run with one on base. It was his second hit of the game. Three bingles gave the visitors two runs in the seventh but little Grover Lee Heiskell killed the rally when he made a pretty play back of second for the last out. The little second baseman pulled another sensational play when he made a one-handed stab of a wild throw to get a force-out.

Campbell allowed Air Speeds nine hits while his teammates bagged only four hits off Catlin. B. Snodgrass led the Amarillo attack with three runs and two hits.

No Hits—No Runs

Gulf of Borger blasted offerings of two Vega pitchers in their 12 to 0 victory. Six walks and eight errors coupled with 11 hits told the story.

Aldridge led the Borger attack with three singles on four trips to the plate. Denny bagged a triple.

Gulf-Copper pulled their game with Taylor Markets out of the fire in the last half of the seventh when L. Stuebgen, pinch hitting for pitcher Stansell, cracked a double over first to score Buckingham, who had singled and Odle who had walked. The bases were clogged and two out when Stuebgen came through.

Stansell hurled great ball for Gulf-Cooper, allowing the slugging grocerymen five hits while his teammates got to Everetts for six including a home run by Odle in the second. M. Smith hit for the circuit for the Amarillcans.

Holding the Christians to eight hits while his mates were banging Witherspoon for 11, Chewning won his second game for the Alamo Stillmen, 8 to 0. Hawkins, Hughes and Clark led the attack with two hits each. The Christians threatened in the fifth but were unable to score.

Witherspoon fanned five to one for Chewning whose support was airtight in the clinches.

Comedian To Appear In Only Two Cities

Only two cities, Clinton, Okla., and Pampa are scheduled as cities in which Rufe Davis, Paramount motion picture comedian, will make personal appearances on a trip from New York to Hollywood. For the past month Davis has been on stage programs at the Paramount theater in New York.

The Paramount star will make three appearances on the stage of the LaNora theater on Thursday. Time of his appearances will be 3:30, 7:30, and 9:30 p. m. He comes to Pampa from Clinton, Okla., where he makes a personal appearance Wednesday.

Imitations, singing, and guitar playing, are on Mr. Davis' program here on the LaNora stage.

AMERICANS ESTABLISH LEAD OVER GERMANS IN CONTESTS

BERLIN, Aug. 13 (AP)—America's well-balanced array of track and field athletes established a clear lead today over Germany's best in the first of the two-day competition in Olympic stadium.

The United States team, taking six firsts and as many seconds in the ten events, scored 58 points to the German's 49.

Germany's Rudolf Harbig won over the American pair of Charlie Beetham and Howie Borek in the 00-meter run.

The American team of Wilbur Greer, Mozel Ellerbe, Clyde Jeffrey and Ben Johnson reeled off the 400 meters in 40 seconds flat, only three-tenths of a second short of the world's record.

The 10,000-meter race was won by Eino Pentti of New York in 32:11.2.

Wisconsin's Chuck Fenske won the 1,500 meters in 3:53.8. Getting off to a slow start with Blaine Rideout (of Texas) and the Germans, Harry Mehlhose and Helmut Koertner, Fenske ran third throughout the first 800 meters speeded up with the rest during the next 400 and then took the lead and won easily.

Rideout apparently had second place won when the Germans made a gallant bid in the last 200 meters. While Koertner fought it out with the Texan 50 meters from the finish, Mehlhose came from behind to beat both with third going to Koertner.

The 110-meter hurdles was a walkaway for Fred Wolcott of Rice Institute, who was clocked in 14.1 seconds. Allan Tolmich of Wayne University was five-tenths of a second slower.

America's pole-vaulting pair of Cornelius Warmerdam of San Francisco and George Varoff of Oregon finished one, two. The former cleared 13 feet 11¾ inches and the latter 13 feet 7 1/8 inch.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs unloaded a powerhouse attack today to crush the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates for the second straight time, 11 to 5, although the great Dizzy Dean and his $185,000 arm failed to last through the full nine innings.

It was the second time in a row Dizzy has been unable to go the route, but he received credit for his sixth win as the Cubs, hot on the Heels of the Pirates and Giants blasted out 17 hits and scored in all but three innings.

As a result the Pirates lost a half game to the second place New York Giants, who split a doubleheader at Philadelphia and are now five games off the pace. The Cubs closed their gap to half a game behind New York.

3 to 1 Odds on Ambers Offered

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP)—Aided by a week's postponement, Henry Armstrong meets Lou Ambers in Madison Square Garden Wednesday night with a good chance of belting Lou out from under his lightweight crown and adding the title to his featherweight and welterweight laurels.

When the negro and the champion appeared at the Polo Grounds last Wednesday night it was a more or less open secret that Hammerin' Henry was far below his normal form. At the same time Ambers had worked himself into what Manager Al Weill declared was the "absolutely finest" shape of his career.

The rain poured down and forced postponement. It also swung the odds back heavily to Armstrong's favor and on Broadway today you could get 3 to 1 on Ambers.

For the best minds of the cauliflower industry Lou will have a hard time keeping at the physical and mental peak he had reached last week. Armstrong on the other hand admitted he needed a little more work. He will get it and then some.

The public's tepid reaction to the brawl is odd. Armstrong may not be the combination of Joe Gans and Sam Langford he is hailed, but he is a busy, earnest little guy full of action.

Henry is sure he will catch Lou somewhere from the seventh to the tenth rounds and knock him stiff.

Ambers' reply to this is that he means to slow Armstrong up with uppercuts to the chin and as soon as the negro starts to back-pedal, move in and cut him up badly.

Class C Football Teams Will Play Bi-District Games

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—At a recent meeting of the state committee of the University of Texas Interscholastic League, a bi-district championship was authorized, according to R. J. Kidd, athletic director. Heretofore, Class C teams, that is teams representing schools having an enrollment of less than 150, have played only to a district championship. As a result, many of these teams have exercised the option of competing in Class B, while others have not found sufficient competition to make the effort worthwhile.

"From all indications," Mr. Kidd said, "the new arrangement will greatly stimulate the game among the smaller schools. At the same time it will make Class B competition less attractive for them, and permit a grouping of schools for football competition of more nearly the same numerical strength."

In order to be eligible for this competition, a school must accept the league's football plan not later than Sept. 15.

Four Baseball Games Scheduled

Baseball for fans of this area Sunday afternoon will be in varied sections with one doubleheader on the schedule when Kewanee meets Cities Service at 2 o'clock in a league fixture and then tackles Panhandle Oilers in an exhibition game, both to be played at Kewanee diamond northwest of Pampa.

The Rig Builders will go to Skellytown for a game at 3 o'clock and at the same hour Columbia Carbon will visit Magnolias on their new diamond, five miles west on the Borger road and one mile north, on the Harrah lease.

Kewanee took a well-played 4 to 1 game from Magnolia Thursday evening as Lefty Rye hurled three-hit ball. Martin limited Kewanee to six hits.

The Rig Builders downed Magnolias 8 to 6 the same evening.

Jimmy Davis, 4-H Club boy of the Becton community, Lubbock county, made a profit of $223.05 the first seven months of 1938 from 388 laying hens. He sold 2,431 dozen eggs for $322.65, but spent $99.60 to feed the fowl.

MINUS WINGS, CORRIGAN'S CRATE COMES HOME

Looking like a decrepit old bug from which a small boy had pulled the wings, the crate that carried Doug Corrigan across the Atlantic is pictured above being hoisted from the hold of the freighter Lehigh, on its arrival back at New York from Ireland. Corrigan ordered only $1000 insurance for the aged plane's truck trip to Roosevelt Field, L. I., where it was reassembled. The usual insurance runs from $30,000 to $150,000.

WTSC BOXING MEET PLANNED AUGUST 22-23

CANYON, Aug. 13.—A West Texas State College boxing tournament, to be conducted under A. A. U. rules, will be held here August 22 and 23.

In announcing the amateur fights, Assistant Coach Anthony Dougal said the meet would draw A. A. U. and Golden Gloves champions from throughout this area. Winners in the eight standard classes will be awarded medals and season football tickets to Buffalo games. Contestants will be quartered in the picturesque stone courts where the Buffaloes live.

Entries are desired at once, and should be mailed to Coach Dougal. Letters are being sent by him to prospective entrants, many of whom he has met recently while acting as referee in amateur meets. His last engagement was at the Dalhart tournament this week.

The local events will be held under the lights of Buffalo stadium. A large ring will be built near the stands. On this the stadium lights will be focused.

Among the well-known amateur champs expected to fight here are Rex Daniels, Delmer Koch, and E. Brown, title holders in welterweight, 175 pounds, and middleweight classes, respectively, in this area.

EXPERIMENTING IN OIL INDUSTRY DISCOURAGED

Without experience and integrity at the helm of the Railroad Commission, the "progress and prosperity" program of Governor-designate W. Lee O'Daniel will fail and Texas will be unable to pay the $30 monthly pensions to eligible old people, C. V. Terrell, chairman and candidate for reelection, told a large audience here today.

"A breakdown in the industrial life of the state would wreck the O'Daniel program and render the new Governor helpless to do what the people of Texas desire and expect him to do," said Terrell.

"The Legislature has delegated to the Railroad Commission the regulation of eight major Texas industries, with properties valued at more than twelve billion dollars and upon which half the population of the state depends, either entirely or in part, for their livings," Terrell continued.

"If the oil industry is not properly regulated, as it has been during the Terrell administration, and the price of oil drops to ten cents a barrell, Governor O'Daniel is not going to be able to get the money to pay the $30 monthly pensions which I heartily favor and for which I have worked, made speeches for and voted for. Times are too crucial in Texas for experiments." The people should retain men on the Railroad Commission whose integrity and ability are matters of definite record.

AFOL DEPICTS CIO AS SEETHING WITH 'REDS'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP) — John P. Frey of the American Federation of Labor charged today that John L. Lewis' rival labor organization was honey-combed with members of the Communist party, whose purpose he said was revolution.

Informing a House investigating committee that 280 Communist party members were or had been on CIO payrolls as organizers and officials, he added "in fairness" that Lewis himself and the majority of his followers were opposed to Communism.

Frey, chief of the metal trades department of the A. F. of L., peered gravely over his spectacles and waved an unlighted cigar in vigorous emphasis as he told the committee:

"It's time the public knew the truth about efforts of the Communist party in the United States to carry out the purpose of Moscow and the Third International, which purpose is revolution."

For 20 years, he said, the American Federation of Labor had held Communistic influences in check in the American labor movement. But the Communists had gained a foothold in recent years, Frey charged, through their influence in and in some cases domination of CIO unions.

How Far East Rivals Stack Up

Because Russian and Japanese military preparations, especially during the last year, have been so carefully guarded, the absolute accuracy of the above comparison of their armed forces cannot be vouched for. On the basis of latest information, however, it is believed that their forces today are about as outlined above. The Russian navy, while small, leads the world in submarines, many of which, transported overland in parts, have been assembled on the east coast of Asia as a defense against any attack on Vladivostok by the otherwise superior Japanese fleet.

Ultra flattering is the youthful dirndl that pretty Joyce Ward wears on exclusive Bailey's Beach at Newport. Of cotton print, in subdued pastel shades, it has a low, square neckline, short, puff sleeves and self buttons down the front.

Simple play suits, including shorts and tuck-in shirts, are popular with society girls who go to sun-drenched beaches these days. The one above, worn by Miss Lesley Bogert, is of blue cotton with white pin dots. The shorts are pleated.

Miss Elizabeth Saunders goes to the beach at Newport in a simply tailored outfit—a four-pocketed bush coat and mannishly smart, white wool jersey slacks. The coat is of sail red jersey. Her mother, Mrs. Truman Laurance Saunders, wore a similar outfit in all white.

Attractive socialite Martha Bacon went to the races at Saratoga in a seemingly simple, but truly beautiful dusty pink linen dress with a printed belt to match the printed bolero. Her tiny hat is entirely covered with flowers in the colors of the print.

Wright Club Has Demonstration on Yeast Bread Making

Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, county home demonstration agent, met with the Wright Home Demonstration club in the home of Mrs. Vernon Northcott and gave a yeast bread demonstration.

Browning bread to a golden brown was a point which Mrs. Kelley stressed. In doing this the bread has passed through one stage of digestion; also use milk in the bread which adds to the value of bread, she pointed out. Mrs. Kelley made three kinds of dough and from this she made six different varieties of bread.

The following receipt was used to make a loaf and muffins:

One cake of yeast, four tablespoons of molasses or brown sugar, two cups of milk, scaled and cooled, four tablespoons of melted fat, one egg beaten, one and one-half cups Graham flour, one and three-fourths cups of sifted white flour, two teaspoons of salt, and three-fourths cup of chopped nuts.

Dissolve yeast and sugar in luke warm milk and add fat, egg, graham and white flour gradually, using enough flour to make a thick batter. Add salt and nuts; beat until smooth and cover and let rise about one and one-half hour. Fill well greased muffin pans about two-thirds full; cover and let rise to fill pan and bake in moderate oven 400 degrees about 20 minutes.

Half Job Will Save College Graduate Son From Loafing

By RUTH MILLETT

Probably a great many fathers the country over are wondering how long after son finishes school Dad should support him. Both of them know that jobs are scarce, and that a young man can't expect to step right out of school into the kind of job he wants.

Well, it has been all very well for Dad to give Son his spending money this summer, buy the clothes he needed and let him take over the family car, with the tank full of gas.

But if he doesn't want the boy's first eagerness for work to wear off, he had better give him a shove into the world, if Fall finds him still unemployed.

Young men seem to be going through three phases these days They finish school wisecracking about being ready for relief. Then they start looking for work, and when a job doesn't turn up right away they start feeling sorry for themselves.

Before that self-pity stage sets in, Dad ought to make it clear to Son that if he can't get a job that will pay his living expenses, he had better work up enough odd jobs to buy his cigarettes and finance his dates. Otherwise, the dates and cigarettes are out.

Such advice may sound hard to a parent who feels keenly the situation his son is up against, trying to get work in a lean year.

But he can justify his hardness if he admits to himself that it is very human for a young man not used to working to prefer parental sympathy and a continued allowance to taking a hard, unpleasant, unimpressive job for small pay.

It will help Dad to be Spartan too, if he realizes that a boy is much better off driving a truck or working in a gas station—no matter what kind of a degree he has—than he is "waiting for things to pick up."

Put in the words of one of the 350 educational delegates to a recent conference on youth, held at Cornell University: "Youth must be occupied. Let us not forget that a boy without a job is more than a boy with leisure time. He is dominated by worry and disappointment, with no chance for purposeful effort—with nothing but time on his hands."

PWA DISPUTES BUCHANAN DAM FLOOD CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—The Works Progress Administration, releasing an engineers' preliminary report which denied operation of the Buchanan Dam had contributed to a recent flood on the lower Colorado river in Texas, charged those opposed to public power "distorted facts" in an attempt to discredit the federally financed project.

A report of Harry W. Bashore, reclamation bureau engineer, made public Thursday by Acting PWA Administrator Howard A. Gray, said operation of the dam had "actually reduced the recent flood by one foot, and did not contribute to the inundation."

Release of the report brought expressions of gratification at Austin from officials of the Lower Colorado river authority. Clarence McDonough, manager of the authority said the report "will give the public correct information as to operation of the dam."

Bashore's report said if the Buchanan Dam gates had been opened two days earlier the flood would have been reduced two feet and if the reservoir had been emptied the flood level at Austin would have been reduced three feet, still leaving an eight foot flood.

He maintained that while "better preparations should have been made for emergency operations on Buchanan Dam" it was doubtful if any careful aforethought would have had much effect in reducing damages "caused by a flood having a peak load and volume as great as that of July 1938."

Gray, expressing sympathy for residents of the Colorado river lowlands who suffered loss, said they had been "victimized by deliberate campaigns of distortion, engineered by persons with their own purposes to serve."

"Original water flood in July hardly reached the proportions of propaganda loosed by persons with axes to grind," he declared.

Hits At Utilities

Individuals and organizations opposed to public power distorted facts in an attempt to discredit federal participation in aiding public ownership of the utility, Gray maintained.

"I wonder if the propaganda would have been as loud if the dam had been completed and operated by the private utilities as they planned it and started it—for the production of power for private profit?"

Bashore's report concluded that the completed Inks Dam and partially completed Marshall Ford Dam on the Lower Colorado, had no effect on the flood depth at Austin.

If Marshall Ford Dam had been completed, he said, the depth at Austin would have been reduced about four feet, and had the Marshall Ford high dam been completed it would have prevented a flood at Austin, provided no encroachment had been made before the flood on the 800,000 acre feet storage capacity reserved for flood control below the spillway crest.

At Austin McDonough declared the Authority was awaiting additional opportunity to present its case at a resumption of the state Senate investigating committee inquiry, scheduled next Wednesday.

Stone Airs Opinions

Senator Albert Stone, member of the committee from Brenham, Texas, commenting on the engineer's report, said he favored a continuation of the independent committee investigation.

"The PWA engineer's report says if the dam gates had never been closed the height of the flood at Austin would have been reduced three feet. Three feet make a lot of difference, especially in flat country," Stone said.

Bashore's estimate in the report was based on the flood stage of 21 feet at Austin at which damage begins on the river there. The July flood reached 32 feet.

PAMPA TEACHER WILL JOIN AG FRATERNITY

J. L. Lester, vocational agricultural teacher here, has been nominated as a candidate for initiation in the National Agricultural fraternity, Alpha Tau Alpha Mu chapter, by the state committee on membership, according to word received here from W. M. Gourley, secretary-treasurer.

The organization is made up of vocational agricultural teachers, county agents, teacher trainers, supervisors and others in the field of agricultural education. Only men who have good scholastic records or who have done exceptional work in the field of agricultural education may receive bids from the fraternity, it was said.

Initiation ceremony for all candidates will be held at Texas A. & M. college during the state convention.

The state committee on membership is composed of R. J. Cook, Kingsville, chairman; P. G. Haines College Station; W. E. Williams Cotulla.

O'DANIEL WITHHOLDS MORE ENDORSEMENTS

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13 (AP)—With a storm of praise and denunciation breaking about him for his support of six runoff election candidates W. Lee O'Daniel said today he had no further endorsements under consideration now.

Observers interpreted that statement as leaving the gate open for support of other candidates if he later favored such a move.

He also said he does not now plan to take further action on behalf of the six on whom he has placed his stamp of approval.

Among the telephone calls O'Daniel received was one from Governor Allred. The nominee did not reveal what the governor said.

EQUAL WHEAT LOANS ASKED

Joining other Panhandle wheat farmers, Gray county wheat growers are signing a petition addressed to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Representative Marvin Jones asking that Panhandle wheat farmers be given loans on wheat in amounts equal to those given farmers in North Dakota, Kansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Ohio.

Similar petitions are being circulated in other Panhandle counties following a Panhandle-wide movement inaugurated August 6 at Hereford.

Panhandle wheat farmers can obtain loans on their wheat crops amounting to only 48 cents on the bushel, while the rate for Kansas wheat farmers is 58 cents, North Dakota, 65, Tennessee, 81, Kentucky, 76, Ohio, 70 cents.

Under a federal setup, wheat farmers under certain qualifying conditions are loaned money by the federal government on their wheat crop. These loans have been of great benefit to farmers as without recourse to such loans, farmers would often be forced to sell their crop in an unfavorable market, if they were pressed by some obligation coming due when their wheat crop was harvested.

Sale of Liquor In Precinct 3 Banned

Sale of alcoholic beverages in justice precinct 3, composed of the southwestern quarter of the county, was prohibited as a result of the election held at the precincts' two polling places, Hopkins 1 and Grandview schools, on Friday.

Of the total of 98 votes cast, 67 were in favor of prohibiting the sale of liquor, while 29 were against prohibiting sale. At voting precinct 3 Grandview school, 61 were in favor of prohibiting sale, 17 were opposed. At voting precinct 8, Hopkins 1 school, six were in favor of prohibiting sale of liquor, while twice that number were against prohibiting sale.

E. F. Vanderburg was the election judge at Hopkins 1 and Morris Knorrp, election judge at Grandview.

WAGE-HOUR LAW MAY AFFECT FOUR MILLION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Labor Department officials estimated today that as many as 4,000,000 workers—about 1,750,000 more than Congress counted on—might obtain shorter working hours ultimately under the new wage-hour law.

Estimates as to the maximum number who would receive wage increases by the time the law's provision for a general 40-cent-an-hour minimum takes effect—in 1945—remained unchanged at "upwards of 1,000,000."

Officials said the upward revision of the number to receive shorter hours resulted largely from two factors:

1. A narrowing of the interpretation of "season" industries which are exempt from the LAL's regulation of hours.

2. Indications that many employers, in a so-called "twilight zone" of uncertainty as to whether they were subject to the law, would comply with its provisions rather than risk the penalties of violation, which include fines of double the difference between the wages paid and the amount required by the act.

MEXICAN PASSENGER PLANE STILL MISSING

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13 (AP)—An all-day search by two planes failed today to bring a trace of a missing Compania Mexicana de Aviacion passenger plane last reported over jungles along the southeastern gulf coast of Mexico.

The plane, with eight passengers and three crew members aboard, had not been heard from since shortly after noon yesterday, when it ran into a heavy storm while flying from Villa Hermosa toward Mexico City.

Four brothers and a sister survive. Governor-elect W. Lee O'Daniel is a cousin.

Her parents, three brothers and a sister preceded her in death during the past year.

Warner, Ruth Donnelly, Neil Hamilton, Heather Angel, Billy Gilbert, Ralph Morgan, and a cast of a thousand. From the Redbook Magazine novel by Charles L. Clifford.

A fine cast, excellent story and skillful direction combine to make "Army Girl" a perfectly balanced film production. The plot of the picture centers around whether or not a cavalry post near the Mexican border should be mechanized or not.

Preston Foster plays a romantically-inclined captain who is in charge of the mechanized forces during the test. Jimmy Gleason is his comic side-kick, "Three Star Hennessey."

LA NORA

Today, tomorrow, and Tuesday: "Little Miss Broadway," (20th Century-Fox). Directed by Irving Cummings. Shirley Temple with George Murphy, Jimmy Durante, Phyllis Brooks, Edna Mae Oliver.

It's all about a little miss who lives in a vaudeville hotel with her foster family, Edward Ellis and Phyllis Brooks. When Jimmy Durante's jazz band gets too loud in its rehearsals, the wealthy neighbors, Edna Mae Oliver complains and threatens to close the hotel. George Murphy, her nephew intercedes—and while he wins nothing but enmity from his prim aunt, at least he wins the favor of fair Phyllis.

Led by the astonishing, amazing and brilliant Shirley, everything ends as it should—especially after Shirley convinces an austere judge that he should permit the actors to stage their show in the courtroom.

Wednesday and Thursday: "Woman Against Woman" (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer). From the magazine story by Margaret Culkin Benning. Directed by Robert B. Sinclair. Herbert Marshall, Virginia Bruce, Mary Astor.

The age-old triangle of a man and two women, in this case Marshall is a husband and Virginia Bruce and Mary Astor are second and first wives respectively, with the first determined that his marriage to the second shall not be a success.

REX

Today, tomorrow, and Tuesday: "In Old Chicago" (20th Century-Fox). Directed by Henry King. Based on a story by Niven Busch. Music and lyrics by Gordon and Revel, Pollack and Mitchell. Tyrone Power, Alice Faye, Don Ameche, Alice Brady, Andy Devine, Brian Donlvey, and a cast of thousands.

"It's gone—and my boy with it—but what he stood for will never die. It was a city of wood and now its ashes. But out of the fire'll be coming steel." In the midst of tragedy Mrs. O'Leary could look forward to a brighter and better tomorrow that conserves the best out of the past. She gave expression to the indomitable spirit that has made America great.

As one sees the picture he is conscious of a marked contrast between the material progress of our great cities and the development of civic righteousness. Wood has changed to stone and steel, but crooked politicians and ruthless exploitation continue. How can Jack's idealism triumph over Dion's machinations?

The Great Fire is impressive as a spectacle, but the terror, suffering and heartbreak that accompanied it leave a sense of unspeakable tragedy. Slums must be abolished, poverty must be alleviated, people must have decent homes and some sense of security—these are the ideas that arise as one thinks about the rebuilding of our social structure.—Howard M. Le Sourd, Ph. D., dean of Boston University Graduate school and chairman of the committee on social values in motion pictures.

Wednesday and Thursday: "The Lone Wolf in Paris" (Columbia). Based on a story by Louis Joseph Vance. Directed by Albert S. Rogell. Francis Lederer and Frances Drake.

Adventures of a Texas Ranger sent to settle a feud between cattlemen and sheepmen in a community where water rights are held by an extremely religious old rancher who will order neither group away.

STATE

Missing the bus at a stop-over they decide to hitch-hike the rest of the way. Their adventures from this point provide a wealth of comedy, romance, and drama.

Tuesday: "Hawaii Calls" (RKO Radio). Directed by Edward F. Cline. Bobby Breen, Ned Sparks, Irvin S. Cobb.

A pleasing medium for Bobby Breen. As a young stowaway he helps recover stolen government documents. Excelleht Hawaiian music and dancing.

Wednesday and Thursady: "Merrily We Live", (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer). Directed by Norma Z. McLeod. Constance Bennett, Brian Aherne, Billie Burke, Alan Bowbray.

Gay, madcap farce comedy about a foolish mother who upsets her household with her ridiculous penchant for harboring tramps.

Fearing his wicked son had bribed domestics to poison him, King Charles VII, of France, abstained from eating to such an extent that he actually starved himself to death amidst royal wealth and plentiful food. He lived from 1403 to 1461.

POSSES, HOUNDS HUNT HAMILTON, WALTERS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 13 (AP)—Officers from two states, aided by bloodhounds, pressed a search late today along the densely wooded southern Arkansas-Oklahoma border for two men believed to be Floyd Hamilton and Ted Walters, southwestern desperadoes.

A detachment of Arkansas state police routed the pair from an automobile near King, Ark., with a burst of machine gun fire this afternoon.

Assistant Supt. Cliff Atkinson reported that after firing on the car, the two men escaped in thick underbrush.

Headquarters reported that county officers and Oklahoma authorities had joined the search.

Authorities expressed doubt the 25 or 30 men engaged in the search would be able to block off completely the area where the men were last seen.

The fugitives are believed to be the same men who robbed a Nashville, Ark., bottling plant of $100 last night and a few hours later engaged in a gun battle with pursuing officers a few miles from De Queen, Ark.

SERIAL STORY

HAYWIRE HOUSE

BY EDWIN RUTT

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Spencer Ames tells Wilton that a hotel firm is interested in buying the Preston place. Wilton had better watch it closely.

CHAPTER VI

WILTON AMES stared at his father.

"Farnsworth Hotels?" he exclaimed. "They're a big outfit, aren't they?"

Spencer inclined his head. "Very big, very solvent and, I am told, very nice people to do business with."

"I'm beginning to understand," said Wilton. "You'll—you'll take the place over?"

"Precisely," said Spencer. "If the interest and amortization payment is not met, the Preston property will have to be put up at public auction. And I'll find a way to buy it in quietly."

Wilton's eyes lighted. "That's a great idea, Dad. We . . ." He stopped suddenly. "But what about Sally?"

"Sally? Oh, you mean the Pennington girl? Well, what about her? She'll get a price for it, won't she?"

"Yes," said Wilton shrewdly. "But not as much as if she paid the interest and sold to Farnsworth Hotels herself."

"Quite so," said Mr. Ames. "I'm glad you perceive that, Wilton. It shows you've grasped the situation. Now don't you be a fool, my boy. If we play our hand right, Miss Pennington need know nothing about it. We'll make a handsome profit on the deal and you can marry the girl, if she'll have you. I don't know as I'd object to that, either. She seems a nice enough young person and you've got to settle down sometime."

Wilton was silent, considering. The proposition certainly appealed to his native craftiness.

"Yes," he said, at last. "I see what you mean. There's one thing that worries me, though. If Sally ever found out that I . . ."

"She won't," interrupted his father. "Unless you're fool enough to tell her. The thing for you to do is keep your ears open and your mouth shut. I'll handle the transaction. Now you'd better go over there this evening and learn what you can. I don't like this Parker chap getting into it. He might be dangerous."

"Yes," said Wilton, and he meant it two ways.

AFTER finishing his sign and setting it up out of town, Kinks arrived to find a great peace brooding over the abode of his late Aunt Martha. Birds chirped in the trees. The sun was warm on the greening lawn. In the back the river lapped peacefully. And in a steamer-chair near the front steps reclined Mr. Harkness, wearing the air of a man whose work has been well done.

The Harknesses

"Hello," said Kinks pleasantly. "Taking it easy?"

Mr. Harkness nodded. "Just relaxing. But I have not been idle today, young man. Go up and try that front doorbell."

Kinks mounted the steps and pressed the bell gingerly. The next instant he jumped back and almost dropped his suitcase. An uproar reminiscent of a police siren in full cry had sounded through the house.

"Good night," Kinks called to Mr. Harkness. "What is it?"

The electrical genius waved negligently from the steamer-chair.

"Nothing to marvel at, young man," he replied. "Just an improvement upon ancient methods. The world must progress."

A small, but extremely alluring, portion of it was. Sally Pennington came flying through the hallway inside and jerked the door open. Her hands were covered with flour and there was a tiny dab of it on the end of her charmingly tip-tilted nose.

"Oh, it's you," she said. "Did you really have to ring that thing?"

"Hello," Kinks said. "What are you doing? Playing you're the Great White Chiefess?"

"I'm making a cake if you must know," said Sally. "I've been working while you were off gallivanting."

"Mr. Harkness tells me he has, too," Kinks said, stepping inside.

She shot him a pained look. "I'll say he has. Did you ever hear such a terrible racket as that bell makes now? And . . . oh, well, come into the kitchen and see for yourself."

ON the kitchen table a queer kind of thingumbob was rattling away inside a china bowl. Mrs. Clipstack stood with arms folded, regarding it sourly.

"What the devil is it?" asked Kinks, as one sneaks up on an unexploded shell.

Sally shrugged. "Another of his gadgets. He calls it an electric egg-beater. And he insists that we use it."

"All this leads me to suppose," said Kinks, "that Mr. Harkness has been puttering."

Sally nodded. "The entire morning and half the afternoon. And the worst of it is, he's not through yet. He swears he's going to put batteries in those stuffed animal heads so they'll light up at night."

"But that's a swell idea," said Kinks. "We ought to get some good out of the fauna around here."

"Oh, you think it's swell, do you? Well, Mr. Parker, it falls to your unhappy lot to prevent Mr. Harkness from executing just as many of his swell ideas as possible. If you don't, he'll have us all wired for sound inside of a week."

"Now, now," said Kinks soothingly. "You just calm down and bake your cake. And after dinner tonight, we'll climb in your car and dig up some place to dance."

For the fraction of a second a wistful look came into Sally's blue eyes. Then it vanished and she shook her head.

"We can't," she said.

"Can't? Why not? We're free, white and 21."

"Because," said Sally, "Wilton Ames rang me up this afternoon."

* * *

"WILTON AMES? You mean that stuffed shirt you thought you were going to marry before I came along? Well, what if he did? You gave him the air, I hope."

"I did no such thing."

"You didn't. Hey, listen, beautiful! I thought I told you that from now on this beetle Wilton was finished."

"No matter what you told me," said Sally patiently, "Wilton is coming. In fact, he's coming for dinner."

"Dinner? You've got the nerve, Sarah Pennington, to stand here and tell me that you're going to shower our good food all over a nitwit with no chin?"

"Oh, Kinks," said Sally, "do keep quiet. I thought it best to ask Wilton over here tonight. He said that he has something very important to tell me."

HITLER BALKS AT GIVING AID TO JAPANESE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE.
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 (AP)—The Russo-Japanese truce doesn't necessarily mean peace, for serious differences of opinion still remain to be reconciled, but nobody has yet put forward any valid reason why an agreement shouldn't be reached.

In any event, peace-minded folk can glean some satisfaction from the fact that at least temporarily we have what the Japanese news agency, Domei, describes as a "cheerful silence" in the fighting zone.

If the border warfare is resumed it likely will be because somebody wants a continuation of the conflict for reasons involving a much wider issue than the boundary dispute.

On the whole, the developments in the Far East the past two or three days have given peace a fair fillip. A reminder not to be too optimistic was voiced by Premier Mussolini at Carsoli, Italy, in addressing troops participating in maneuvers.

"While cannon boom in so many parts of the world today," he said, "it would be folly to have illusions and criminal not to prepare for war. This does not escape us, and we are preparing."

Still, he didn't go so far as to say he expected war; he just advocated preparedness. He must have got considerable satisfaction from the purported stand of his brother in the Aryan blood, Nazi Leader Hitler, towards the Russo-Japanese controversy.

The world at large had long been looking for a three-cornered conflict in which Germany and Japan would combine against the Soviet. This belief was greatly strengthened when Japan was brought into the anti-Communist pact which was fathered by Herr Hitler.

Accordingly there was much surprise when word, unofficial but apparently inspired, came from Berlin that Germany wouldn't give Japan anything more than moral support if a general conflict developed between Nippon and Russia. Intervention by Germany might have meant a European war, which neither Musolini nor Hitler nor anybody else wants, if all the signs read true.

This indirect pronouncement of German policy (if that's what it is) is perhaps the most important development of the Russo-Japanese border dispute.

As a user of the telephone, France comes 25th in the list of nations; she now is proportionately below Japan, Iceland, and the Hawaiian Islands.

REVIVALS NOW PROGRESSING IN TWO TOWNS

PANHANDLE, Aug. 13 — The revival season is on in and around Panhandle, Rev. A. E. White, minister of the Baptist church, closed a ten-day revival here last Sunday morning, and left following the service to begin a revival in the evening at Fieldton. White conducted a meeting at Mangum, Okla., which resulted in eight additions to the church there. Rev. White will be at Fieldton ten days. He has received calls for meetings in other places.

The meeting under the leadership of this young trio will continue for ten days or two weeks.

He is well versed in national and international conditions. He has received twenty-two calls this year to conduct revival services. He preaches both morning and evening and will be in the meeting here for two weeks. Attendance has already doubled.

The Christian church will conduct a two week's evangelistic meeting beginning Oct. 9. The minister, Rev. James Todd, will do the preaching during the meeting and will be assisted by a male quartet from out of the city. Definite announcement regarding the quartet will be made later.

WEATHERLY RANCH DAM TO BE RECONSTRUCTED

PANHANDLE, Aug. 13.—J. F. Weatherly stated Wednesday that the contract had been let for the repairing of the dam on his ranch near Des Moines, N. M., and that work would be started next Monday. A seven-inch rain in two hours three weeks ago washed out one-half of the back end of the dam. A short time before the dam gave way Mr. Weatherly's son, A. D. Weatherly, who handles the ranch, drove a truck across the dam and rescued tenants in the valley below and carried them to the high ground up near the ranch house.

The contract has been let to Arthur M. Allen of Pueblo, Colo., for $6,000. Between 30,000 and 35,000 yards of dirt will be required to repair the dam and restore it to a safe condition.

WELLINGTON GIRL IN PRIESTLY PLAY CAST

SHAMROCK, Aug. 13.—Miss Robbie Wells of Wellington, who is attending Columbia university in New York this summer, was one of six students chosen to present the three-act drama, "Dangerous Corner," by J. B. Priestly, at the International House recently. Miss Wells, who is a teacher of Spanish at Austin, was formerly an English teacher in the Shamrock junior high school.

Panhandle Boy Collects 3,000 Foreign Stamps

PANHANDLE, Aug. 13.—Not all who purchase stamps at the stamp window of the local post office use them as postage. Many stamp collectors passing through stop looking for obsolete stamps, or new ones. Recently a stamp collector passing thru purchased two sheets of 100 each of the four-cent George Washington Bi-Centennial stamp, which is now worth double its original value. The local post office has at present approximately $11 worth of these stamps which are no longer issued. A very interesting feature of the stamp collector's hobby is his search for the serial number on the margin of the sheets of stamps.

Panhandle's A-1 stamp collector is J. S. Silcott III, son of J. S. Silcott Jr., and grandson of J. S. Silcott Sr., long-time resident of Carson county.

Jimmie, as he is known here, is 15 years of age and a sophomore in high school. Jimmie's father is employed by the Sterns-Roger Construction Company and is in various places during the year. This last school year Jimmie attended school in Lovell, Wyo., Dumas, and Panhandle, Texas. He expects to enter school this fall in Corpus Christi where his father will go following his work in the Borger oil field.

Hobby Started In 1935.

Jimmie began his collection of stamps three years ago in Borger and purchased his first stamp book which is now well filled with United States stamps two years ago. He has 3,000 foreign stamps from all nations of the world. He has secured his stamps by either direct purchase or by trading stamps with other collectors. He has earned his money by keeping a paper route in the various places in which he has lived, working in grocery stores, and at other kinds of work which he is able to have before and after school.

The stamps Jimmie is the most anxious to have is the five-cent Norse-American Centennial stamp of 1925 issue and the $1,000 documentary stamp.

Jimmie is also interested in collecting Indian fossils and arrow heads. He now has 300 arrow heads and 20 pistols and rifles of various makes and ages. He very recently gave up 200 arrow heads and 12 guns to the museum at Canyon.

Town's Symbolic Marker Painted Aluminum Color

WHITE DEER, August 11.—Oh, Mother, they've ruined White Deer!" exclaimed a little girl from a neighboring town recently when she discovered that the marker at the intersection of the two main streets of White Deer had been painted with aluminum paint. Others agree with her quite heartily, for that little white deer was the one thing that distinguished White Deer from all other small towns and the residents have a somewhat unthinking, but nevertheless strong, attachment for it.

"The deer" as it is commonly known, not only signifies the name of the town, but it symbolizes the pioneer spirit of the great White Deer Land company that has played so important a part in the development of this country; the White Deer ranch around whose headquarters the town grew up, and even the legend of the herd of white deer which used to roam the creek some 30 miles north of the townsite and from which the town received its name.

The marker was erected in 1916 by an itinerant "cement artist" named Phillips. It is the starting point in giving directions; it is the rallying place for band concerts, football parades, and similar functions; it is an integral part of the town; and the citizens, as well as their young visitor, hope that the city authorities will soon realize that White Deer likes its deer and likes it white.

TRAP SET TWO YEARS AGO SNARES COYOTE

CLARENDON, Aug. 13 (AP)—Two years ago Rex Long, J. A. Ranch cowboy, set a coyote trap in the Tule canyon and left for headquarters 30 miles away. He asked Buffalo Heim, ranch camper, to look after the trap until he returned. Long died three days later and Heim forgot the request.

Recently Heim was riding pasture in that section and thinking of the trap rode by to pick it up. There was a live coyote caught in; believed trapped at least two days.
